Methodists to Build $300,000 Church

MODERN EDIFICE IS DECIDED UPON DURING BANQUET

Elders and Members Discuss Building Wednesday Night

BISHOP BOAZ HONORED

He Leads Members After Snyder Presents Tentative Plans

A $300,000 church building will be erected in Wichita Falls by the First Methodist Episcopal church, South, it was definitely decided at a banquet held by the elders and membership Wednesday night honoring Bishop H. A. Boaz of Seoul, Korea, who represents the church in the Orient, and home on a few weeks' furlough.

Plans for the erection of the magnificent edifice, which will be one of the finest in the South, were adopted by the membership with great faith and enthusiasm. It was stated by preliminary speakers that it had long been the wish of the congregation to build a fitting place of worship commensurate with the rapid growth of the church in membership and along all lines. It was also pointed out that such a task was a most ambitious one, and that once begun the matter must be pushed forward with no delay.

Details Discussed.

A report from J. J. Perkins of the building committee, though he was not present at the meeting, was read and outlines of the proposed structure as far as they had been determined were submitted. N. H. Martin, chairman of the finance committee, made a report showing approximate estimates as to costs and money details in general. C. W. Snyder presented tentative outlines of the floor and interior plans of the structure. W. D. Hamilton, Sunday school superintendent, made an address, summing up in a general way what was necessary to make the venture a complete success.

Dr. C. M. Simpson, pastor of the church, was filled with enthusiasm and great confidence concerning the venture.

"I am glad that this matter has been definitely decided and that the building campaign is now on. We are going in to put it over. I have had many experiences in such build-

Actress Back To Stage As Rhine Love Hits Skids

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Asta Peters Clark, beautiful Swiss actress, who left a successful stage career in Germany to wed Wellington Clark, bridge builder and former sergeant in the American army of occupation, today is seeking a job in an effort to retain possession of her 11 trunks of dowry and fine linens which she brought with her and to secure the wherewithal to live. Her husband is building bridges out in Kansas.

So burst another love bubble of the Rhine. Four weeks ago the war romance ended, she said today. "All I know," she said, "is that I loved him—but not now. He was so nice—in Germany. He was so nice at first in America, but he changed."

Asta was a star at the St. Moritz in Zurich when she met Clark in 1921. He was a good looking American soldier. He wooed and won her and they were married at Independence, Kan., last February, after she had come to America for that purpose. Now she is seeking anything before the footlights that will enable her to live and retain her property.

Oklahoma City Awaits Worst Flood as Waters Threaten Embankment

Fire Whistles Ready To Warn People If Dam Gives Way

Associated Press Dispatch

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 13.—With an unprecedented rush of water pounding at the city reservoir, 10 miles west of here, Oklahoma City was prepared Wednesday night for the worst flood in the history of the city.

The reservoir dam across the Canadian river valley, which every spring impounds the city water supply for the year, resembled a giant waterfall. Although the water was sweeping over the top of the concrete structure, the dam was said to be in no danger.

Fear for Embankment.

However, the embankment on the east side, which runs back nearly a mile, separating the by-pass from the huge reservoir lake, was under water. A torrent 24 inches deep spilled over the embankment from the by-pass into the lake.

Some fear was felt that the embankment might give way, which would pour millions of tons of water from the lake into the city. The lake was filled almost to capacity late Wednesday. Crews of city workers were striving valiantly to keep the embankment intact, although it was impossible to stop the flow of water over the top.

Oklahoma City will be warned by fire whistles should the reservoir break.

"GLAND JAG!"

Medical Science Is One, Says Dean Addressing College, Who Tells of 185-Year-Old Veteran.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Medical science is on a "gland jag," declared Dean Eycleshymer of the medical college of the University of Illinois in an address today at the commencement exercises of the General Medical college.

Speaking on "the search for an elixir of life," the dean expressed belief that the "search" had about ended, but the average span of human life has been prolonged for about 16 years.

"Transplanting experiments indicate temporary rejuvenation. But the wave of gland transplantation that is sweeping the country at present, commanding fabulous prices for both material and operation, will soon be placed in the same category as the 'corn-whisky jag.'"

The oldest man that ever lived, barring Methuselah, was Peter Torton of Temesware, Hungary, who died at the ripe old age of 185, according to the dean. He mentioned 50 others who had lived more than 150 years, five had passed 160, and two exceeded the 170 mark.

OIL CITY SWEPT BY $10,000 FIRE

Blaze Starting In Ryan's Drug Store Spreads Rapidly

Special Dispatch to Record News

GRAHAM, June 13.—Fanned by a brisk breeze and gaining headway before effective fire fighting equipment could be brought into use, flames of undetermined origin early Wednesday night wiped out half the business district of Oil City, 12 miles south of here, causing a property loss estimated at $10,000. A considerable portion of the stock of some of the buildings consumed was saved.

The fire started about sundown in Ryan's drug store in the heart of the business section. The interior of the building was a mass of flames in a few minutes and before an alarm could be sounded the blaze had spread to surrounding structures. Two safes, a barber shop, rooming house and an unoccupied frame building were burned before the fire could be checked.

With no fire fighting equipment in the city, volunteer workers were forced to battle with a bucket brigade and effective work was done by means of this. The fire was prevented from spreading to nearby residences, a fact which probably saved a much greater loss.

Oil City sprang up about three years ago when oil was discovered there and at one time had about 3,000 population. The boom died, quickly, however, following a slump in production, and at present only a few hundred persons live there. It was the third destructive fire in Oil City in the last six months.

HEROISM IS FATAL TO HOUSTONIAN IN GAS-LADEN SEWER

Associated Press Dispatch

HOUSTON, June 13.—Heroism on the part of George A. Branard proved fatal to him Wednesday morning when he attempted to rescue Henry W. Depenbrook, driver in his employ, from a gas-filled manhole. Oepenbrook also succumbed from effects of the poison gas.

Depenbrook, 18, had descended into the manhole to attach a connection to the main line of the sewer. Branard saw the youth fall over at the bottom, 20 feet deep.

Calling for a rope, Branard immediately went to his rescue. Before a rope could be lowered, he also was overcome.

A. E. Gibbs, former "gob," broke through the crowd and let himself down into the hole, but the rope was not quite long enough. A husky negro, name still unknown, proved the hero when he stretched him across the top of the hole and let the rope down to its full length, holding it in the grip of one hand.

After securely fastening the rope around the body of Depenbrook, Gibbs was pulled from the hole by the negro.

Associated Press Dispatch

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 13.—Weather officials Wednesday night made no change in Tuesday's forecast of a stage in the swollen Arkansas river that would reach 28 feet here and 30 feet at Pine Bluff Sunday, and towns along the valley from northwest to southeast corners of the state were reinforcing doubtful points in the levees as the flood continued to rise slowly.

Would Allow Search Of All Vessels Within Limit

Associated Press Dispatch

LONDON, June 13.—The British and other governments have been approached by the American state department with a compromise offer, permitting the ingress of liquor under seal into American ports, provided an agreement is reached to extend the limit of territorial waters from three miles, the present mark, to 12 miles.

Must Change Statutes.

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Modition of the effect of American prohibition enforcement regulations as they apply to sealed liquors in transit through American territory or in ships stores has been offered to various maritime powers by the state department as a solution for present inconveniences occurring to foreign shipping. The project, it was learned today on high authority, contemplates exercise of the treaty making power to amend existing statutes, which means that senate ratification would have to be obtained to make the modification effective.

The offer also is contingent upon a reciprocal agreement in treaty form by the powers involved which would give the United States the right of search up to 12 miles off shore in carrying on the war against rum smugglers operating under foreign flags.

MILLION DOLLAR LOSS AT TULSA

Arkansas River Reaches Record Stage But Falls Foot

Associated Press Dispatch

TULSA, Okla., June 3.—With a fall of nearly a foot in the Arkansas river here tonight, thoughts were turned to the probable amount of damage caused by the stream's destructive rampage. A conservative estimate is $1,000,000, which includes inundated dwellings, refineries, railroads, livestock, gardens, bridges and roads.

Waterworks Fail.

According to the measurements of Dr. H. M. Hutchinson, in charge of the local weather bureau, the river stage at 7 o'clock this morning was the highest reached, 19.8 feet. At 7 o'clock this evening it was exactly 19 feet, or eight-tenths of a foot less.

All of Tulsa spent the day without city water, the city waterworks pump station having been forced to close at 1:10 a. m. on account of flooded boilers. Hotels, restaurants and barber shops were hard pressed in meeting demands for water. Many of them obtained their supply in barrels from private wells and cisterns.

Gasoline Plant Wrecked.

More than 5,000 refugees from West Tulsa and the flooded area between Tulsa and Sand Springs spent an impatient day waiting for the river to recede.

The destruction of the compression gasoline plant of the Texas company's refinery below West Tulsa, following a terrific explosion early this morning was the most spectacular event of the flood. Officials said the loss would be at least $250,000.

CHILDRESS BANK ROBBED OF $2,000 IN SILVER COIN

Associated Press Dispatch

CHILDRESS, Texas, June 13.—Robbers entered the First State Bank of Childress this morning, gained access to the valut by use of a gas torch with which they cut a large hole through the steel door, securing about $2,000 in silver and other small coin. The amount was a small part of the vault's supply. A large amount of silver on hand to meet today's payroll of the railroad shops was not discovered.

The robbers obtained tanks of oxygen and gas from the shops and hauled them in a car to the rear of the bank and entered through a window. The tanks were returned to the shops. Officers believe the loot is in Childress.

Slash of Eight Per Cent In State School Funds Agreed By Committees

Education Bill Before Senate On Closing Day

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 13.—The senate closed its legislative work today by passing measures, killing two and defeating several others when they were not taken up. Under senate rules no bills can be passed tomorrow except by unanimous consent, which is improbable. Chief among the measures passed was the Ridgeway headlight bill but the bill will die on the calendar because it has not been passed by the house.

The Darwin illiteracy commission bill and the Wood bill to appropriate $600,000 for a state courts building were defeated, the first by failure of final passage and the latter when the bill was postponed without action.

The Beasley house bill to give the state title to the abandoned blind institute here for use as a lunatic asylum was passed as were the Jack bills regulating the rendition of merchandising and warehouse stocks for taxation.

Among the measures that went down to defeat on the senate calendar were; Clark, occupation tax on physicians, lawyers and other professions; Culp, gross receipts tax on telephone companies; Baldwin, levying occupation tax on carnivals and circuses.

The general educational bill conference report was called up for final passage but on agreement, it was laid over until tomorrow morning.

Chinese Ruler Held Prisoner In Rail Flight

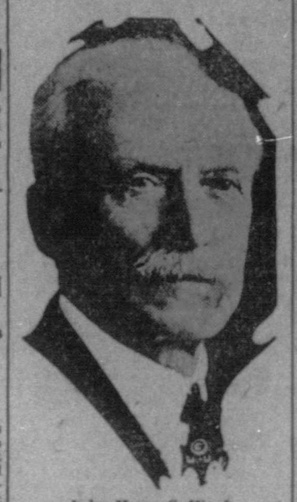

Associated Press Dispatch

PEKING, June 13.—President Li Yunan-Hung is virtually a prisoner on the railroad at Tien Tsin, where the civil governor has surrounded his train with troops.

The troops allowed American Consul Jay C. Huston to enter the station, but would not permit him to board President Li's train to confer with the Chinese executive. The British consul was forcibly prevented from approaching the train. The president is being held, it is said because he has possession of the government seals, which he carried with him in his flight from the capitol.

Officials declare they will not permit President Li to proceed to his residence in the British concession until the missing seals are recovered. It is said they fear the executive may attempt to seek refuge in Mukden, in territory ruled by Gen. Chang Tsao-Lin, Manchurian war lord.

RESOLUTION ON SMITH REPEAL IS REPUDIATED

Mind Own Business House Virtually Told By Upper House

FINAL VOTE 14 TO 11

Amendment Tacked On Says Prohibition Law Not Opposed

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 13.—The Texas senate practically repudiated the action of the house of representatives in its stand on the New York prohibition repealer late today, when it adopted a resolution declaring that legislatures of the various states have the right to pass such laws as they deem advisable without being subject to condemnation of the Texas lawmakers. Vote on the resolution was 14 to 11, and followed a heated debate on the prohibition question.

Not Against Prohibition.

An amendment was attached to the original resolution declaring that the adoption of it should not be construed as placing the senate on record as opposed to the prohibition amendment, but that the senate stands for strict enforcement of the act.

The adopted resolution, offered by Murphy, Wiritz, Holbrook, Ridgeway and Bowers, declared that criticism of one legislature or executives of a state by another legislature or legislative branch "will bring about strife, dissension and ill feeling between said states." It concluded by stating that the Texas senate has "enough business on its hands to look after the welfare of Texas."

Harding Action Criticized.

Candidacy of Governor Smith of New York for president of the United States was brought into the discussion on one occasion, one member declaring himself against the New York governor. Another member declared he "deplored the action of President Harding for attempting to criticize the New York legislature on its action."

Action of the senate followed adoption by the house Wednesday morning of a resolution deploring the action of the New York legislature in passing the repealer act and the governor in signing it.

Wet Move Smothered.

The resolution was subject to extended debate in the lower branch, but passed by a vote of 60 to 29, with 11 members present not voting. An amendment to make the house resolution commend the repeal action was overwhelmingly defeated.

Vote on adoption of the senate resolution follows: For—Bowers, Burkett, Clark, Darwin, Davis, Fairchild, Floyd, Holbrook, Murphy, Ridgeway, Strong, Thomas, Pollard, Wiritz; against—Baugh, Doyle, Lewis, McMillin, Parr, Stuart, Turner, Watts, Witt, Wood, Woods.

Four Millions Taken From Appropriations Vetoed By Neff.

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 13—Agreement was reached today by conference committees on the general educational appropriation bill and the departmental bill had been practically completed early tonight. The educational bill as reported shows a reduction of approximately $800,000 over the measure passed last session and now totals slightly over $11,000,000.

Rangers Hardest Hit

Reduction of the educational bills were made on a horizontal basis, it was stated. The reduction averaged 7.9 per cent on each institution. The state university was given a total of $1,456,000 for each of the two years; A. & M. college $1,305,926 the first year and $1,281,426 the second year; C. I. A. $312,000 each year; Grubbs Vocational college $127,000 each year; John Tarleton $202,000 the first year and $176,000 the second year.

Reductions on the departmental bill early tonight indicated the bill as finally reported would stand at between $400000 and $500,000 below the bill passed last session. The largest cut was over $100,000 in the state ranger allowance.

Four Millions Lower

It was stated an agreement has practically been completed on the emergency school appropriation by which the fund would be reduced from $6,000,000 to $4,000,000 for the next two years. A majority of the senate committee voted for such action in conference today and a majority of the house members are said to favor the cut.

Summary of the reductions contemplated showed that approximately $4,000,000 will be cut from the appropriation as vetoed by Governor Neff.

GULF WELL IS NEARING SAND

Henrietta Operators Turn To No. 2 As It Nears Production Depth

Special Dispatch to Record News

HENRIETTA, June 13.—Interest here in oil developments is again reviving as the Gulf Production company's No. 2 test on the Carl M. Worsham ranch 10 miles east of Henrietta is now rapidly reaching the depth at which a 200 barrel producer was brought in early in the year.

The No. 2 well is setting casing at 2100 feet and a paying sand is hoped for. The No. 1 well sand was found at 3394 but it was believed several good sands were passed up before the sand on which the well was brought in was reached. A thorough test of every sand is going to be made by the Gulf on this second well and if necessary it will drill the test 3500 feet.

On the Hapgood ranch adjoining the Worsham producer the Dunning company's No. 1 test is down 2200 feet. The same sands as in the Worsham producer are being sought for. The Montgomery Drilling company's well on the Turner ranch near the producer is setting casing at 2700 feet having only recently standarized. Eight miles east of town the Body No. 1 of the Gulf Production company is drilling at 800 feet. The Staley well at Ringgold has a fishing job at 3200 feet.

In the south part of the county the Nebraska-Texas company's test on the Myers ranch 12 miles from Henrietta is completing a difficult fishing job.

Completion of a 75-barrel pumper on its holdings in section 1 Southern Pacific railroad survey in Archer county, a half mile south of the Freeman-Hampton pool, was announced Wednesday by the Kentucky Oil corporation.

Center Well Shows

The Roy I. Carter well in Block 53 Wichita Valley lands shows nice indications of oil it developed Wednesday when the well was being swabbed. The operators have great hope in the showing already made at the test.

The test is wildcat and will mean quite an extension to the southern part of the county should it prove a good producer.

Art-Haynes Test

A second test is to be made by Art & Haynes which will offset their recent well brought in on White tract, the new well to be located on the Wilson tract in block 54.

Leases Jump From $10 to $200 As Well In Panhandle Comes In

Special Dispatch to Record News

PANHANDLE, June 13.—A jump in price of leases from $10 to $200 an acre followed the bringing in of the Whittington well in south Hutchinson field this week when the bull wheel collapsed while the well was being brought in, the well flowing 25 barrels an hour with only three feet of the sand penetrated.

This well has been visited by literally hundreds of oil operators and many visitors who see in the producer an extension of 10 miles northwest. The intermediate territory is being eagerly sought. Though no sensational prices have been paid, the lease rush has been steady and indicates a good test for the whole section will follow the bringing in of the well.

Parker Gets Well

What looks like a good producer was brought in by James E. Parker on the A. Wilson lease in the Petersen pool Wednesday at a 1,578-foot depth.

By HERSCHELL HUNT,
Record News Oil Editor.

That overproduction in the mid-continent field has reached a stage where only one of two things will result unless the output is decreased at once, was the keynote of a convention held in Kansas City last Tuesday by the Western Petroleum Refiners' association.

At this meeting of the refiners, it was pointed out that further increase of production meant either a decrease in the price of crude or will necessitate an era of pipe line pro-rating. Just what Wichita refiners and others in the North Texas field believe as to the truth of the situation as expressed at the Kansas City meeting is not known.

It is a matter of record, however, that the past two weeks in this immediate area has seen a very noticeable decrease in new locations. The Texas, Texhoma, Magnolia, Gulf and the larger companies as far as can be learned have not shut down any drilling operations on locations already made, but few reports of new wells to be drilled and of increasing production other than by completions of wells already started have been filed. Whether these larger companies see an overflow period in the immediate future and don't desire to have thousands of tanks of gasoline stored away in case of a slump in consumption or are just holding back because of climatic or local reasons is a matter of conjecture.

Rains Affect Consumption.

Rain in every part of the country has naturally slowed down gasoline consumption the past few weeks. The refiners depend for the summer period as the peak time for gasoline consumption. The reports seemed to indicate thousands of surplus barrels stored up by refineries all over the country, and with no immediate chances of getting these to the jobber and on to the consumer, because the latter is not using the amount of gasoline that was expected.

The only solution as offered by mid-continent authorities both at the Kansas City meeting and since is for the producer to slow down. That is, give the jobbers an opportunity to get rid of their surplus gasoline and drain their storage tanks. They state that if intensive drilling campaigns continue and large areas are opened up, with increasing great production, the reasonable conjecture is that the market will break and the price of crude will go.

Advise Slow Tread.

Operators are being advised to slow down and see if the gasoline already in storage is going to be demanded. If the demand increases after the recent continued rainy spell and unusual or at least summer demand for gasoline shows up, then drilling can be commenced again without any trouble. This is on the theory that it is easier and more profitable for the operators to cut down crude production and get a reasonable price for the product than it is to continue high-powered drilling campaigns and lower the market.

This argument for decreasing production and its subsequent warning to the operators comes in the face of an official report received by Wichita Falls refiners that for June delivery Oklahoma and Texas operators have received orders for more than 100 cars at the market price. This does not look like the slump predicted by the experts at the Kansas City meeting. It at least shows the alleged over-plus and increase above consumption is not imminent, or the June deliveries would reveal a price decrease. It does show, however, that there is a demand in Texas at least consistent with the supply, and that the output is moving nicely and in the very month when it was supposed the demand would be light.

Mexican Production Off.

The bringing in of great new fields in Oklahoma and California recently has been given as the reason for too much crude being produced. It was in these fields particularly where the Kansas City authorities warned the operators to slow down. It is a fact, however, that for the increase of crude coming from these new areas there are numerous decreases in production elsewhere to meet this. New Mexico is an example of this situation, the production there having fallen off since the California fields came into prominence.

Some authorities have stated in writing on the situation that if operators continue increasing production the price may go down and that if a prorating order should be necessary and become effective the operators then will have to shut down.

Whether there is cause for alarm after all is mooted. Authorities are divided. Some advise a steady production as before and others frantically cry out that production must be curtailed or the bottom will fall out. At least locally the situation does not appear bad. It is stated that enormous stocks are piling up at the refineries daily, and that the jobber is not calling for these. This seems not to be the case in Wichita Falls as far as can be learned, for advance orders continue to arrive. There is no rumor of any of the North Texas refineries shutting down and waiting until gasoline already refined can be disposed of. This may be so in some of the mid-continent states, but it seems not to exist here.

There is enough crude production in North Texas at the present time to keep the refideries of this section running to capacity, local experts state. There are also enough refineries to keep up with all increased production in new fields opening up. So the warning of experts before the Western refiners should not curtail production or lessen activities here.

VERNON GETS PLENTY OF RAIN

Crops Need More Sunshine; Chamber Drive To Continue

Special Dispatch to Record News

Chamber of Commerce Drive.

The chamber of commerce drive for Wilbarger county will continue over this week. Capt. C. S. Nusbaum, who is doing the speaking, is extending the campaign into the country this week.

Directors of the Vernon Chamber of commerce have decided to extend its activities to the county and for that reason a membership drive is being made in the smaller towns and among the farmers. An especially low rate has been made for farmers.

More than 500 memberships have been signed up in Vernon and it is expected that from 150 to 200 will be signed up in the county.

Captain Nusbaum and members of The King Tut club, accompanied by the Vernon Concert band, went to Oklahoma and Harrold last night, where they entertained residents of those communities and secured additional memberships in the chamber of commerce.

HIGH WATERS DELAY DREDGE

Over 46 Feet In Main Storage Dam; Flood Gates Open

A total of 46½ feet of water is in the main storage lake at Mabelle, irrigation officials stated Wednesday. This is a slight drop over the high water marks of last week, at which time the gauge recorded a 47-foot stand. Rains of Tuesday night brought a one-inch rise.

With this depth, it is still found impossible for the dredge to operate efficiently, and the two flood gates of the dam have been opened since Monday to draw off the surplus water. The level must be lowered before the dredge can resume operations.

No apprehension was expressed by irrigation officials at the rise, it being indicated that the high water menace now was negligible.

BAKER AND ACUFF CASES AFFIRMED

In decisions handed down by the court of criminal appeals at Austin Wednesday, three cases sent up from local courts for review were either affirmed or motions for new trials overruled. George Husted, L. C. Baker and B. W. Acuff were the defendants involved.

Pleas for a rehearing in the Husted case was overruled by the court. The defendant had been sentenced to two years imprisonment on charges of theft of oil. The Baker case, in which a conviction had been secured and a $250 fine imposed in the county court at law, was affirmed by the court as was that of Acuff who was convicted of receiving and concealing stolen property. This brought a penalty of three years in the penitentiary.

Acuff's plea for a new trial he alleged that the jury which convicted him was composed of ku klux klan members.

Vags Picked Up

Several vags were picked up on Wednesday night in raids by the sheriff's and constable's departments in various sections of the city. Most of those arrested were negroes, although a few white men were also held.

BOB HAIRED GIRL BANDIT CHAUFFEUR

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 13.—Police today sought a bobbed haired girl, attired in male garb, who acted as chauffeur for two bandits in a Brooklyn drug store robbery last night.

Sitting calmly at the wheel of a big automobile with a cigarette between her lips the girl waited while her companions entered Harry Soloder's drug store, lined Soloder and a dozen customers up against the wall at the point of a gun and gathered in $571.

As the bandits rushed from the store she started the car, and by the time they had tumbled in, was driving away.

WHAT'LL HAPPEN IN 1922? THIS SHOWS—

The setting for Agnes Ayres' newest picture "The Heart Raider," is fantastic to say the least—it is intended to give modern people an idea of what will happen to their children in 1992!

One of the scenes is a colorful lawn fete, one of those events which the idle rich think up in odd moments and stage for the amusement of their friends who spend the winter in Palm Beach. The little wife of 1992 is being vaccinated against the divorce germ, while the husband, wearing anti-vamp armor is cavorting around with three deadly vamps in queer costmues.

The picture is being directed by Wesley Ruggles at the Paramount Long Island studio, and is soon to be released.

THIS BIRD NEVER LIVED IN WEST TEXAS—

It was hot. The huge enclosed Metro stage whereon Viola Dana and the members of her company were working on "Rouged Lips" was like an enormous dry kiln with the furnaces going full blast. Director Harold Shaw called a halt.

The electricians hauled a wind machine into position and started the propellor which was a slight relief. It was like a hot blast from Death Valley.

Miss Dana sat as still as possible.

"My idea of the best thing to do right now is to have Mr. Shaw give orders for everybody to go down to the beach for a plunge," she said.

"I guess you might call this warm," conceded Tom Moore, who appears opposite Miss Dana in this Rita Weiman story, "but it doesn't compare with the way it gets down in Missouri. One summer it got so hot that the river dried up and the town fire department worked day and night throwing water into it with buckets to keep the ferry running."

WOOLWORTH OFFICE REPRODUCED IN FILM—

The famous office of F. W. Woolworth in the Woolworth building, New York, is to be reproduced in a motion picture. Many people have heard of the gorgeous suite which the owner of the well known five and ten-cent stores has constructed for himself in New York's most beautiful office building, but few have seen it.

In choosing sets for the new Paramount picture, "The Woman With Four Faces," Herbert Brenon, the producer, wanted an office as palatial as any in existence, and secured photos of the Woolworth offices. These met his approval so completely that the rooms were reproduced at the Paramount West Coast studio. The trimmings are ornate with gold; the furnishings are likewise elaborate. In the center of the rear wall panels is a massive circular door of maganese bronze for a safe which figures in the story.

SCHOOL HEADS NOT TO BUY

Brown Says Trip to Dallas Merely For Inspection Purposes

Members of the equipment committee of the school board left last night for Dallas, where they will inspect the school equipment in that city in preparation of purchasing the best equipment possible for the new junior college.

Contrary to reports, Secretary W. W. Brown, said it was not the intention of the board to purchase the equipment for the new building and in fact this would not probably be done for 60 days. The main purpose of the trip is to inspect the laboratories in the schools in Dallas in order to give the contractors instructions in arranging the laboratory space in the new building.

The members of the committee will be joined by Supt. Cantwell in Dallas today. Supt. Cantwell has been in Gatesville for the past several days but will join the committee in Dallas. Those making the trip are Mrs. M. N. Adicks, Will Daniels, C. H. Clark, and W. W. Brown.

A census in 1920 showed that only 60 per cent of the farms in America were being operated by their owners.

NEWSPAPER CAMERA MAN PASSES THRU ON LONG TRIP

W. E. Barr, staff photographer of the Nashville Banner, Nashville, Tennessee, and D. R. Atkinson, of the Bringhurst, Reid company, of the same city, arrived in Wichita Falls Wednesday after traveling 1,050 miles in a Studebaker car in less than four days. More than 700 of these miles was through mud and water and yet the young men report that they had no car trouble at all. The route taken was through Memphis, Tenn.; Helena, Ark.; Clarendon, Ark.; Little Rock, Ark., and from there to Dallas, from Dallas to Fort Worth and from Fort Worth to Wichita Falls.

Both men report that the people of Texas excell all the others encountered as to hospitality and courtesy. Mr. Barr will continue from this city to Denver, Colorado, taking pictures for his paper but Mr. Atkinson will probably remain in Wichita Falls for several days as he has friends in this city, one of whom he met while they were attending Ward Bellmont the past year.

SUSPECT IN GEM ROBBERY RELEASED

Despite a le gthy grilling by members of the detective department, a negro employee at the Bob Waggoner home failed to give any information of value Wednesday in the $15,000 diamond robbery of lost Friday night and was released by the police last night. The negro had been arrested soon after the robbery but was later released. He was rearrested Wednesday and held in jail most of the day, later being released when questioning failed to bring out any information.

Police asserted that while little headway was being made, they still had hopes of clearing up the theft.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse, and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., D.S. 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores everywhere.

ROBBINS LEADS SHRINE PATROL

Election of Officers Held Wednesday Night At Kemp

Horace Robbins, captain of the patrol for the past year, was elected president of the Maskat temple Shrine patrol at the annual election of officers held Wednesday night. Carter McGregor was named vice president; Leslie Martlew, secretary-treasurer; Charlie Nolen, captain of patrol; Dr. Jack Fletcher, first lieutenant, and Leslie Stringer, second lieutenant.

Held at Kemp.

The election was held at a banquet given for the patrol in the Kemp hotel ball room and which was attended by Masonic officials of the city.

Offices are elective for one year, the annual election being held each season at the first regular meeting after the Imperial Shrine council. All elections last night were unanimous.

Diving At Lake

Special diving features and swimming attractions are to be given at Lake Wichita next Sunday night after the band concert, acording to announcement by the lake management Wednesday. YOAKUM A CO-OPERATIVE

Co-operative marketing is an issue uppermost everywhere. B. F. Yoakum is a native Texan. His father was a noted educator and author and gave the people Yoakum's History of Texas. B. F. Yoakum became a noted railway operator and builder of railways. For years he was known in connection with the Frisco lines of Texas.

He became a national figure and moved to the city of New York. He knew Texas as well as any native son and was as loyal to Texas as a native son. He retired from the railroad world and railway activities in war time and purchased a large farm on Long Island. He did not purchase it to make a show place but to produce crops and the former president and builder of railways became a dirt farmer of the most approved type.

He goes in strong for potatoes; his neighbor farmers on Long Island go in strong for potatoes. There must have been something wrong with th transportation system as the colonel has blossomed into a full-fledged advocate of the co-operative marketing system, and he is telling the potato growers of Long Island and elsewhere the country over that there is only one salvation for the industry and that is co-operative marketing as it is practiced in California by the farmers, in Kentucky and Tennessee by the potato growers, in Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio by the dairymen and in many southern states by the cotton farmers.

This farmer rail president writes a facial pen and in a recent number of the New York Times he devoted a page to co-operative marketing and announced it to be his firm conviction that if agriculture is to be placed on a proper plane in the United States then the system must be adopted. He is leading the way on Long Island. He would have the potato growers of Long Island sign on the dotted lin, establish a selling agency, practice orderly marketing, sell potatoes according to the demand for them and place some of the profits in the pockets of the growers.

B. F. Yoakum was born on a Texas farm and there are thousands of farmers who knew him intimately in the days when he was a railroad king away down here in Texas. This reminds the writer that Colonel Yoakum as a railway president, was different from many others. He had his own peculiar methods. When bills were introduced in the legislature inimicable to the railways or unjust to the common carriers, the colonel would visit Austin.

He never lobbied for or against a bill. He would appear before committees, he would submit his figures and facts, he would make his argument, he would ask for fair play, he would bow to the committee and then bow himself out of the room. It worked like a charm.

Now the man who built the Frisco lines is a potato grower on a large scale, a contributor on scientific farm topics to the leading newspapers of New York city and a very jealous champion of co-operative marketing.

FRUGAL TO THE CORE

Now a New Englander corrects the story which is so aged that it has long whiskers covering it that witches were burned in Salem in the good old days. His version is that several persons accused of witchcraft were hung and one was smothered, but not one was ever burned. Of course they were not burned. Those early fathers were a frugal or saving people. They appreciated the high price of cord wood.

NORTHCLIFFE SENDS A MESSAGE

Sir A. Conan Doyle is in America. He journeyed from New York to San Francisco to get in touch with the talking shade of the late Lord Northcliffe, famous English publisher who died some months ago. Dr. Doyle was successful. He received a message from Northcliffe's spirit saying that only a wave of spiritual reform can save the world from plunging headlong into a catastrophe which will make the world war seem insignificant.

Lord Northcliffe made no mention of his reception by the powers of the other world. He did not say anything about the climatic, financial, food or political conditions. He did say that the American people are too busy.

"That was the mistake I made in my life," wigwagged the spirit of Northcliffe on the other side to Dr. A. Conan Doyle on this side. "I was too busy then but I understand now that wisdom is lost in the scramble for material progress. When men lose wisdom they invite disaster."

Sounds like old stuff. They were saying it in the days of Tut-Tut. And really, the Northcliffe message, as it was received by Dr. Doyle is without ginger or pep and is neither grippy or holding. Northcliffe had an opportunity through the medium of Doyle, to have turned in the biggest scoop since time began.

As it is he never mentioned Soviet Russia, the league of nations, the Japanese menace, the yellow peril, the dark shadow over East India, the massacre and flight of the Armenians, the decline of the German mark, the occupation of the Ruhr valley by the French, the tobogganing of Lloyd George, the British labor snub of Lord Curzon, the abrupt entrance of Stanley Baldwin, the effect of Governor Al Smith's decision on the ice market, or a thousand and one other topics or subjects which Northcliffe would have interested himself in had he been on this side and not on the other side of the invisible pale.

Now an American publisher called across the Dvide as Northcliffe has been called, if placed in communication with Mr. Doyle, would have said something of real interest to the plain people and would have exhausted his descriptive powers telling just what they are doing and saying and how they are acting or how they look in the country of his new habitat.

A pacifist must have won the confidence of Northcliffe and controlled him while he was wirelessing his coming war disaster prophecy to the man who used to turn out the best detective stories in the world.

When it comes to real up-to-date news from foreign countries, a thoroughly trained American publisher or correspondent knows what to say and how to send it.

Official Washington says President Harding is not engaged in consulting anybody about his world court proposal. The same could have been said about Woodrow Wilson when he was president of the United States. And think of what happened to Wilson. Warren G. Harding was an American senator. He voted against the ratification of the Wilson world court.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

SAVE TIME BY SPENDING IT WISELY

The time we save in youth we shall have to spend in maturity.

How we shall spend it then is a matter of choice.

There are men and women who look forward to retirement and leisure — which is laudable, provided that retirement and leisure do not mean mere idleness—which is foolish wasting of time laboriously saved.

There are other men and women who hope to keep on at the same useful occupation, but who want the extra time they can save to do important things which cannot be done as long as the wolf is sitting at the front porch.

But whatever is the motive of time saving, there is only one way to save it which is precisely the way to save money. That is to spend it wisely.

A working day that is fully occupied is well spent.

A year that brings gain in ability, gain in knowledge and gain in appreciation of the blessings of life is well spent.

A working day that is devoted to effort, partly to figuring on how little effort the worker can "get by" will have to be made up by and by. And it will not be pleasant to make it up by and by, when the monotony of doing the same thing over again begins to pall.

Most of us have a far larger allotment of time than we ever use.

We rise in the morning, and hurry through our breakfast, thereby imperiling our digestion; we rush for cars or trains, which puts an undue strain on our hearts, and when we get to our office or shop, or wherever we are going, we waste twice as much time as we have saved in idle conversation, or in planning how we are going to waste more time when our work is accomplished.

Usually the most important men in business appear to have the most time. But when they work, they work. They have a regular schedule of time spending to which they adhere.

And each duty is discharged before there is any sitting back and taking it easy.

The rushers never get very far in the world because they are so exhausted by rushing that they need rest, and people who need rest usually take more than they are entitled to.

If an actual working day could be standardized—which it has never been—if an employer knows how to get from men all the work they could easily do in a day—we should be far more advanced in the business of nation-building than we are.

In war time there is some excuse for rush but it is always expensive and wasteful.

In time of peace, there is no excuse for it. Time, the one element that never varies, must be wisely used if it is to be saved.

Those who save it can devote the autumns of their lives to whatever pursuits please them best. Those who waste it will never escape the vision of the wolf at the doorstep.

TODAY AND YOU

By MARY BLAKE

GEMINI

Very good conditions prevail today and present a favorable time for dealings with big concerns, contractors and real estate transactions. Journeys started will bring as much pleasure as planned.

A child born today will be of an inventive turn of mind and should be given every opportunity to develop its originality.

If born today, you are the master of your own Fate. Your destiny will be in your own hands and your future will be nothing more or less than you will it to be.

Naturally, you are endowed richly with a clear mind, a forceful personality, and the rare ability of prophetic judgement. At times this quality is almost a vice with you, and leads you far afield, dreaming, when you should be seizing the fleeting moments.

Then, too, once you have seen how a thing should eventually go, you are easily disappointed if it does not immediately start out the way your mind has planned for it. You must realize that the obstacles in life are what make it interesting.

Do not question your fate! Your failures will be often more valuable than your successes, for, in the exercise and development of your will lies your eventual achievement.

Good association is the saving of your nature. There is ample ability to make a success in life, if your thoughts are turned into proper channels. If they are allowed to fall into improper ways the end is liable to be a blighted life caused by sheer circumstances which you might have easily overcome.

If a woman your virtues or vices will develop according to your environment in which you live. With the proper surroundings you will make a wonderful wife and mother while bad influences act as nourishment to your vices making you the direct opposite, with no love of the domestic or maternal desires.

You are affectionate with your friends, particularly the opposite sex and when the occasion presents itself an indefatigable philanderer.

Well known persons born on this date are: John McCormick, tenor; Roswell M. Shurtleff, artist; William Orton, promoter.

POEMS THAT LIVE

WHEN I WAS ONE-AND-TWENTY

When I was one-and-twenty
I heard a wise man say
"Give crowns and pounds and guineas
But not your heart away;
Give pearls away and rubies,
But keep your fancy free."
But keep your fancy free."
No use to talk to me.

When I was one-and-twenty
I heard him say again,
"The heart out of the bosom
Was never given in vain;
'Tis paid with sighs a plenty
And sold for endless rue."
And I am two-and-twenty,
And, oh, 'tis true, 'tis true.

The VANISHING MEN

By Richard Washburn Child

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Peter DeWolfe, a wealthy young American, who after the war goes to visit the Benhams in England, being attracted by a description of Brena Selcoss, an American girl, living near the Benhams' place. The description had been given by Eversby Benham, a British officer, who says Brena is very beautiful but speaks of a strange look of fear in her eyes.

Muriel Benham, sister of Eversby, grows very fond of Peter. Neither she or her mother mention Brena to him although she lives next door. But as they sit at dinner one evening Peter looks out in the yard and sees a woman, who apparently had been looking right into his face.

Muriel explains that the woman is Brena and that she has come to see Mrs. Benham. She leads Peter into another room, without giving him a chance to meet Brena. There to his surprise Muriel kisses him and, when it is obvious that he does not return her affections, she warns him that "If Brena takes him in—he will vanish like the others." In London Brena calls up Peter who explains there was nothing between Muriel and himself. He tells Brena he loves her, and she tells him that she had married seven years ago and that her husband had vanished.

Brena Selcoss was born on American soil. Her mother, whose hair was red-gold, was the daughter of the exile Irish patriot, Thomas Vaughn; her father was Demetrius, a gigantic Greek professor. Brena's mother died in Dallas and her father lost his life, not a great while after in a railroad accident. The one who brought the news of her father's death told her that he had left this message for her—"That she must not be afraid; something would protect her from danger."

Then Brena left with $500 which she obtained from her father's insurance policy, and went to live with Mrs. Sam Wilkie.

Mrs. Wilkie was an intensely practical woman who often repeated the phrase, "If one looks after pennies, the dollars will take care of themselves."

She would not have been of any particular importance in the life of Brena Selcoss had it not been for two facts. One of them was that, lacking other distinction, she could have that of giving refuge at so much and so much for room and board per week to the most alluring young creature that, for the moment, was known to the male eyes of Dallas as an unsolved riddle.

The other fact was that she was the half-sister to the mother of Jim Hennepin of Virginia.

Jim Hennepin liked to attach to his name the words "of Virginia." Those who knew his escapades in Dunville, felt relief when his father, who had himself dissipated a small fortune in speculations, said to Jim, "You can go down to your mother's sister in Texas. She will put you up and I have a job all ready for you with a cotton buying and commission house in Dallas. The only genius you have is for getting into trouble; your only talent is for figures. As time goes on the accountant is playing an ever growing part in American business, just as the drunkard is playing a lesser part. Do you get my meaning, son?"

This accounted for the presence of Jim Hennepin in Texas. He had been there two years. Compton Parmalee & Co. had found nothing to criticize in his bookkeeping. In fact, it had qualities of genius which sometimes make bookkeeping not only a cold record, but a vitalized inspiration of business. Hennepin drank with moderation and was a popular young man in Dallas. He was tall and graceful, like an oarsman in an English college eight. He was more like the bad son of an earl than a bookkeeper. He was earning $45 a week and spending $59 where he was over-looked.

The first time he saw Brena Selcoss was when he had come back from a vacation of several weeks at a ranch. His vacations had become a mystery to other young men who were employed; all that appeared necessary was for Jim to go to Compton Parmalee and tell him where he would be back. It was ascribed to his magic quality of persuasion.

Brena was sitting at an early breakfast when Jim came in. He suggested Apollo; he suggested vaguely the sudden appearance of the fairy prince.

"Well," said he at last, "It's springtime."

He spoke as if he had been a messenger from Destiny, as if Spring were Brena's time and that alone had come.

It was like a summons of a court. He looked down into the dish of cereal on the table beneath her eyes.

"Nothing but milk," said he. "No, by Heaven, you shan't have milk on your rice! It's an outrage. You are the young queen and I am the Captain of the Palace Guards. And I'm off in a borrowed motor car to get you the richest, thickest pint of cream in the city, and the speed laws can't stop me."

He came back with cream. His aunt said, "Jim, you are crazy." But he was not crazy. He had an instinct for creating romance.

He became Brena's knight. He took her everywhere and his aunt scowled.

"She is only 17," Mrs. Wilkie said.

"She looks 25," Jim answered.

"But it leads nowhere," said the aunt. "Nowhere except to scandal."

"Scandal?" replied Hennepin yawning. "Nonsense! Also piffle! A man takes a beautiful girl around for the same reason that you'd wear a diamond tiara if you had one, especially if it had been given you by some broker. It's just a symbol of one's ability to have the right things. It's ego."

"Is that all, Jim?"

"Yes," he said, lying glibly.

"Because you haven't the money to be married, Jim," she said.

She liked to live near immorality; it gave her vicarious pleasure.

Hennepin was whimsical enough to repeat to Brena, word for word, this conversation.

"It never occurred to her that I might love you," he said.

Brena said nothing.

"Don't you love me a little?" he asked.

"I don't know, Jim—really, I don't know. I don't know what love is."

"Well, you're fond of me?"

"Yes, I am Jim. I'm fond of you."

He looked around at the yellow horizon in the West and shivered.

"We aren't be ourselves," he exclaimed with irritation. "Not here in Dallas. We ought to take a trip."

"A trip!" said Brena. "How could we take a trip?"

"You mean because of money? Well, I'm going to fix that." He smiled craftily. "I've a strangle hold on some money, Brena. I suppose that when I turn up with some real money people will say that I dipped into the till or had a rich uncle die. It will be such a novelty to have a roll. But they'll be wrong. I'll get it my own way. And it's coming."

"Oh, Jim!"

"Money or no money, I want you," he said. "Some day I'll make you say you love me."

As the weeks went on Brena found herself asking where the end would be of day after day of showing wives of Dallas business men embroidered linens at the store where she worked; of walking home, sometimes with men staring at her.

It was not clear that Jim was not the one man of all, the prince who stepped out of nothing and held out his hands to her in some kind of miraculous tableau. No one reminded her that she was only 17.

One day Jim came home at the noon hour and beckoned to Brena mysteriously.

"Look here!" said Jim, with a kind of ferocity in his voice and eyes. "I'm going away. Compton Parmalee won't be in Dallas, and I've an errand to do."

"You're so excited, Jim."

"Yes, I know. But the time has come. I want to know if you love me."

"I think I do, Jim."

"You're willing to take a trip? Brave enough to go to St. Louis alone? To meet me?"

"You mean you want to marry me, Jim?"

"Why, yes, if it turns out all right."

"I'll go."

"Well, then—listen. Here's a hotel. The name is written on that card. Be there on Friday, the 12th of the month. I'll be there at 4 o'clock. You better come the day before. Get a room and don't be frightened. Here take this money. It's plenty, eh? Don't let any one see it."

She put her hand in his.

"Why are you going way, Jim?"

If Brena had known the world better, she would have seen something of the brutality of Jim Hennepin at that moment.

"Tell me, Jim."

"I've had a call," he said craftily. "If I can tell you when I come for you in St. Louis you'll say that it is all the strangest—Well, I've had a call."

Brena went to St. Louis. She had not marked the date on her little calendar on the bureau; it was not necessary because she was not ready to forget, and besides some one might ask her a question. Some one might have asked why she went. And, she could not have told.

Brena Selcoss returned from St. Louis on the 16th of the month.

"Well!" said Mrs. Wilkie expressing astonishment, inquiry and disapproval all at once.

"Yes, I came back," Brena replied.

"I thought I was going to lose all my nice young people," Mrs. Wilkie said, turning on the disc record of her false good nature. "Jim went with hardly a thank you. There's been no end of mail for him. I didn't know where he'd gone; he made such a mystery about it, so I sent the letters to his office. They probably know about him—more than I do. He didn't tell you where he went?"

"No," said Brena, "he didn't tell me."

"And you went off yourself without much explanation," Mrs. Wilkie complained, "and without knowing whether or not you was coming back."

She looked over the girl from head to foot.

"Well, I'm here."

Brena went up to her room where upon the bedspread were the dust marks made by her suit case when she had thrown it up to pack six days before.

She put it back on those marks as if a round of life had been completed; wearily she opened it and the first object she took out was a piece of soap, done up neatly in a wrapper with violets in a wreath around the legend, "Made expressly for this hotel." Then she got up crossed the room to the picture of the Acropolis—the last possession of Demetrius Selcoss.

"He said not to be afraid," she told herself. "He said something would come if I were in danger."

Downstairs at about that same moment Mrs. Wilkie was writing in her diary. At one time in her life she had acquired the fancy that the memoirs of women often were important—the original sources of historical facts and the mirror of society of a period.

"Went shopping. Saw Bertha. Said her husband's teeth kept her awake getting hot water bottle."

She poised her fountain pen and wrote:

"Brena Selcoss returned today from St. Louis. Said she had errand there. There is a frightened look in her eyes."

A drop of ink fell and spattered out. She blotted it and left the outline of a little black fiend which danced upon the page.

More Truth Than Poetry

WORMS

When we are hunting for a term
For some one lacking spine,
We use the appelation "worm,"
And think it fits him fine.
The worm, we fancy, has no brain.
He cannot bite nor sting,
He is a futile and inane
And wholly harmless thing.

I used to hold this foolish view,
Before I'd had a fight
The worms that crawl my garden through
By day as well as night.
"How feeble are these worms," said I,
"That my young plants assail,
How swiftly will the creatures die,
When I go on their trail!"

So sprays and powders I applied,
On root and leaf and bough,
But not a single insect died,
Nor are they dying now.
By day, it's true, they take their flight,
Somewhere beyond my ken,
But just as soon as falls the night,
They're on the job again.

No poison daunts their greedy souls;
They devastate my plants,
They gnaw like rats, they dig like moles,
They eat like elephants!
And strenuously I affirm
That, though with ill intent
One calls one's enemy a worm,
It is a compliment.

National Flag Day Observed By Local D.A.R.

Today is National Flag Day. The date being officially designated as such by Dr. B. J. Cigrand, a Wisconsin school teacher. Every year the nation sets aside this date on which to celebrate the creation of the flag which was made by Betty Ross nearly a century and a half ago.

Mrs. V. W. Cein of the state committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and a member of the local Major Francis Grice chapter, announces that this chapter is making plans to place a card bearing "Flag Etiquette" in all the school rooms the coming year, that the children may be trained in this respect, and probably in the rooms of local hotels.

The card is given as follows:

The flag should be raised at sunrise and lowered at sunset. It may be raised at other times, but should never be left out at night, except when it is under the fire of an enemy.

On Memorial Day the flag should be displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon, and at the peak from noon until sunset.

In raising the flag to half-staff or half-mast, it should always be run to the peak and then lowered one breadth of the flag. In retiring it, it should be run back to the peak and then retired. It should never be allowed to touch the ground.

When the "Star Spangled Banner" is played or sung, stand and remain standing, in silence, until it is finished.

When the flag is passing on parade, or in review, if you are walking, halt; if sitting rise, stand at attention and uncover.

The flag should never be worn as the whole or part of a costume. As a badge, it should be worn over the left breast.

In decorating, the flag should never be festooned or draped. Always hung flat.

If hung so stripes are horizontal, Union should be in left upper corner.

If hung perpendicularly, Union should be in right upper corner.

When the national flag and another flag fly from same pole there should be double halyards, one for each flag.

The flag should never be placed below a person sitting.

When carried in parade, or when crossed with other flags, the Stars and Stripes should always be at right.

When the flag is used in unveiling a statue or monument it should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be carried aloft to wave out forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

When the flag is placed over a bier or casket, the blue field should be at the head.

As an altar covering, the Union should be at the right as you face the altar, and nothing should be placed upon the flag except the Holy Bible.

The flag should never be reversed except in case of distress at sea.

INSURED FOR TWO MILLION

Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field.

What is believed to be the largest insurance policy ever taken out by a woman has been issued to Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field, wife of Marshall Field III. of Chicago. It is for $2,000,000. The policy is divided among 20 or more companies because of the law which prohibits one company granting a policy of over $200,000 on the life of one person.

SHADOW—By Claire Dillon Holt

There is a shadow slanting back
Which falls like black across my track.
It moves when I step to or fro
And follows me where'er I go.
If I cognize as real, this hunting gray,
It still eludes
Me and deludes
With faith in an obliterated way.
Yet shadow is but proof that through the mass
Of plastic flesh, life rules no light shall pass.

Between the cradle and the grave
Flesh moves with me but I'm not slave
To it or its mortality
For life is a reality
And spirit is the life sustaining light.
Life is not flesh
We rise afresh
From death to life as day at flight of night.
The clinging shadow to the dust descends
But it's poor limitation, life transcends.

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: Will you please tell me if there is a law concerning cruelty toward children?

F. D. H.

Yes, there is a law preventing cruelty to children. If you know of a case, report it to the police.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl in my teens and I admire a certain young man. He seems to like me quite well. There is going to be a weiner bake in this town and each girl is supposed to invite a boy. What would you say when you invited him? Would it be correct to send him a note informing him about the weiner bake? BETTY.

It would be correct to write a note inviting the boy to the weiner bake, or to ask him personally. Simply tell him when and where it will be and ask him to go with you.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl 19 years old and I am working at my first position as a stenographer. There is a young man in the office who seems to be interested in me and he has invited me to go to the theatre with him some night. I have asked my employer about him and he says he is a very fine man. I did not tell my employer about the invitation. Would it be correct for me to go to the theatre with him?

THELMA F.

There is no reason why you should not accept the invitation to go to the theatre with the young man in the office. It might be well, however, to invite him to call at your home before you accept his invitation.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: A young man has asked me to go off with him some Sunday for a picnic. Nothing was said about the lunch. Am I supposed to take it? I don't know whether that would be correct or not.

IN DOUBT.

Usually the girl takes the lunch to a picnic, but somethimes it is not necessary for her to do so. I would advise you to ask the young man if he would like to have you bring a lunch.

Spudders Take Last Game Of Series 10 to 5

COTTER GETS NINTH HOMER HEADS TEXAS LOOP HITTERS AS SALMS POUND EBERGARD

Bischoff Out Of Game With Split Finger For Several Days; First Inning Scores Gives Wichitans Lead That Takes Game.

BEAUMONT, June 13.—By Pounding Eberhard's offerings to the four corner's of the lot, the Spudders took the last game of the Exporter series here this afternoon by a count of 10 to 5. Hook Cotter his his third homer in three days, making a total of nine, and taking the lead in Texas league home run pounding. Before today's game, he was tied with his team mate, Buddy Tanner, with eight circuit clouts.

The first three stanzas yielded a seven run lead for the Spudders and was enough to keep the Exporters in possession of the little end of the score. With the Spudder big sticks working regularly for clean base hits, the Wichitans took the game easily. They ran up a total of 15 safe bingles in the game, while the Exporters were finding Carlson for nine.

Bischoff Injured

In the seventh inning George Bischoff, catcher for the Spuds, was forced from the game when a fast pitched ball by Carlson split his finger. The digit was badly injured and as a result Smiller will be on the bench for several days. Bischoff has been working regularly and his hitting has made him a valuable asset. Jonnard worked behind the plate after the injury.

The Spudder scoring started in the initial inning with two outs registered. Tanner was the first across the plate. He beat out a hit to short and went to second when Cotter walked, scoring on Grigsby's single to right field. White walked, filling the bases and it looked like another for the Spuds, but Berger sent a line drive to Kirkham that ended the inning.

Three In Second

In the second, Bischoff got to first on a single, and when Carlson bunted down the third base line both players were safe. Bischoff taking second on Browns slow throw to second. The performance was duplicated in the next play when Bescher dropped one in front of the plate, Lothes throw to third being too slow to force Bischoff. Then with no outs the Spudders started on the counting streak that gave them the only win of the series. Coombs, forcing Bischoff across the plate. Tanner forced Coombs out at second, scoring Carlson and sending Bescher to third. Bescher scored after Allen's catch of Cotters fly and the inning ended with Grigsby swinging.

After White had hoisted to Allen in the third, Berger sent a high double over the short right field fence. He scored on Bischoff's single to left, and Bischoff took second on the throw to the plate. He was scored with a single by Carlson. Bescher walked and Carlson scored on Coombs single to left. Bescher took second, Tanner sent a high one to left, both Coombs and Bescher advancing, and Cotter made the third out on a high fly.

Kirkhams double to center in the Exporters part of the inning, with Lothes and Eberhard on, scored this pair for the Exporters first markers. Neither the Spudders nor the Exporters got across in the fourth.

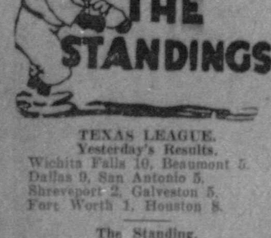

In the fifth with two out, Bescher doubled over the right field fence and then stole third. He scored on Coombs' single to left field. Tanner ended things with a high one to Lothes.

The Exporters retaliated with a counter, when Demaggio, who had singled, went to second on Turgeon's sacrifice hit to the outfield. He crossed the plate on Black's single past short.

Cotter got his third home run of the series in the sixth, when he sent one of his longest over the left field barrier. The circuit clout put him at the head of the Texas loop smashers. He passed his team mate, Buddy Tanner, who has eight to his credit. Yesterday's homer was Cotter's ninth.

In the seventh Kitchens' crew made another attempt to even the count and sweep the series, they failed to make the grade, scoring only two runs. Turgeon walked and stole second when Carlson's pitch split Bischoff's finger. He scored on Allens single to left field after Jonnard had relieved Bischoff. Black went to third on Kirkhams single to center and scored when Kirkham was forced at second, ending the counting for the home club.

The Spudders, already well in the lead with a margin of four counters, added another in the last stanza, after White and Berger were out. Jonnard got on first with a single to left, and was sent across the plate by Carlson with a terrific double clout to deep center field.

T. C. U. Boy Beats Champs Again

By RASCOM NELSON

Pete Donohue, elongated pitcher from the Texas Christian College at Fort Worth pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 4 to 3 victory over the New York Giants yesterday.

Donohue has been a jonoah to the Giants since his entrance into the National league in 1921 and he let his heavy hitting opponents down with nine hits and their final run came in the fifth inning. Cincinnati only secured seven hits but they made their bingles count. They also made four errors compared to one made by the Giants. Donohue settled in the pinches.

McGraw tried to buy Donohue from Moran in 1922 but the reports go that Moran said no trade would be considered which would cause the long Texas lad to leave the Reds. This judgment has been justified this year as Donohue has proven, although still young in years, to be one of, if not the best pitcher on the Red's staff.

Donohue began his pitching career while playing with T. C. U. and it is probable that another player from that college, Boob Fowler, now playing with Oklahoma City will go to the Reds next year. Cincinnati has strings on Fowler who plays shortstop.

Tough Blow For Pirate Flinger

Charles "Whitey" Glazner

To be dumped from a pennant-contending team to a hopeless tailend outfit is a tough blow for any hurler. That's the fate suffered by Whitey Glazner. He has been swapped with "Cotton" Tierney by the Pirates to the Phillies for Lee Meadows and Johnny Rawlings. Glazner had been with the Pirates three years. He won 11 and lost 12 games last year.

Dempsey Says He Wants To Hit Gibbons On Chin Like He Did Carp

By ED W. SMITH

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 13. —"It may be a general surprise to the world, but the thing I would most like to do would be to hit him on the chin on July 4 and knock him into the same sort of a fit that I knocked Carpentier. Whether I can do it or not is a sort of question that I can't answer."

That was the very frank statement made to me by Jack Dempsey. He amplified the statement a little as his copper colored face lighted up with the excitement of the situation and what he had to say.

"I am not so extremely confident that I will be able to whip Mr. Gibbons in a round or two and I would not have any of the betting men who are so sure of me to place their money that way. Now I have heard a lot of them say that I am not fit and ready, that he is, and that this is the time I am going to get mine. "Of course, I do not think so, but at the same time this is going to be a whale of a battle. I really believe Gibbons probably will be a leader up to the time I put over the winning punch. But he is not going to be an easy man to hit by any means."

Dempsey is not of good color at the present time. They say you become colored a sort of yellow in the highlands of this section. Dempsey surely is coppered to the limit. His nose is red as a beet, and while his color is healthy enough it is of the copper of this section.

Gibbons Starts Work

SHELBY, Mont., June 13.— Tom Gibbons, St. Paul challenger for the world's heavyweight championship was to get back into active training here today following today's layoff while he hunted gophers. Five sparring partners are now ready for the Gibbons prepping Kid Herman, middle weight, is carrying a lot of the burden, due to his speed. Spectators, however, declare, Gibbons with his 183 pounds is faster than Herman at 152.

The roof over the Gibbons ring will be removed a week or so before July 4. Gibbons says he wants to absorb the heat and be ready for a scorching day when he meets Dempsey. The sun here blazes with no small enthusiasm during the day time.

The second payment of $100,000 by Promoters to Jack Kearns will be made Friday.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

Is keeping the eye on the ball really of great importance?
Answered by
LAURIE AYTON

Always a consistent place winner in the big tournaments—National Open, Metropolitan Open, Western Open, and sectional tournaments. Famed for his accuracy and steadiness under fire.

Keeping the eye on the ball is of very little consequences in itself. What really matters is to keep the MIND on the ball and to have the head absolutely still at the instant of impact. We say "Keep the eye on the ball," because we have learned that mind follows eye. The man in the illustration above, even though blindfolded, would hit the ball if he could keep his mind focused on the exact spot where it lies. A great many good golfers do not see the ball at the instant of impact, but you may be sure that, if they are good golfers, their minds are wholly and completely concentrated on hitting the ball correctly. Keeping Pace In The Chess Match

Or a Wee Bit Ahead

Houston In Cold Storage
Quanah at Bat

Quanah—Queen to Queen 5 check.
Wichita—Rook to Bishop 2.
Quanah—Knight to Knight 5.
Wichita—Queen to Bishop square.

These moves of Quanah look like they mean business which the local team is certainly glad to see. This community got all pepped up when the Houston game started looking five "deep stuff" but there wasn't anything to it and the pep all pepped out when it was discovered that the deep stuff was all at the Wichita end of the line and it took Houston four to five days to figure out an answer to Wichita's rapid fire shots.

It was rumored about town yesterday that Houston had sent one of their weekly (Editorial note: Col. Post says this word cogld be spelled the other way, too) moves but the board of strategy handling the Houston game hasn't reported at time this article was written. If the move shows up before we go to press it will be printed in this column with Quanah's moves and answers. The Quanah game is moving along nicely with no delay at either end and chess players will find it is a pretty game if they will record the moves as made for future reference.

The two boards are displayed in the window of the Kemp Hotel drug store and considerable quiet merriment and josh has been going the rounds as to whether Jimmie Castle the Kemp hotel chess fan (who daily makes the changes in the Quanah board) had anything to do with the stage setting of the Houston board.

It is a fitting setting whether intentional or accidental and almost every chess player posted on the snail like speed of Houston's game smiles when he looks at Jimmie's handiwork.

In the window the Houston board calmly nestles like a gem in the center of a diadem of thermos bottles and near by scattered carelessly here and there are some cool auto seats. There are enough thermos bottles in the window to carry the game through the summer and the cushions look inviting. All that is shy is a camp stool, a safety razor and a dinner pail stocked with a week's provisions and the fan could then heave a sigh and exclaim "On with the dance."

Wheezes From The Press Coop

By Don Weldon

Well the Spuds got right yesterday and played the ball they ought to have all the time. They took a ten day rest and will get after that pennant, now that they have the bad stuff out of their systems.

Carlson pitched a good game and held his lead in good shape. He allowed only nine hits, all of which were scattered. While that can't be called the best record in the world it is all right as long as it wins ball games!

It can't be said, however, that Eberhard did so well. The Salmites pounded him for 15 safe bingles that put them in the lead at the first, and after they got started the Exporters were out of luck. They may have poor days, and they may have some losses to their credit, but when those Spudders get started on a rampage they are hard to stop. They made up for the losses the first two days, by giving the Exporters a few lessons in playing.

Hook Cotter got back in the game with a vengeance after being out with injuries for a week. In the three days at Beaumont he got three homers, one in each game. He tops the home run clouters of the loop now, with nine round trips to his credit. Buddy Tanner is second with eight.

The Spudders left Beaumont last night following the last game with the Exporters, and journeyed to San Antonio for a round with the Bruins. They are billed there for three days, before going to Houston to stay for a trio of battles.

They got the bad end of the series at Beaumont. Pop Kitchens crew got right for a few days and handed the Salmites some lessons in making hits count, as well as in hitting in the pinches and other times. We don't mind seeing Pop get a few victories with his new club, but it isn't the most pleasant thing in the world to let a player go and have his come back by trimming the old gang in the first series.

While Walter Salm is mixing it with the Bruins, Jakey Atz will have his Cats playing at Galveston for three days. All of which, considering the standing of the Crabs would seem to indicate that the Spudders will have as easy a time of it as the aforesaid Cats. However, with such teams as the Exporters taking things in their own hands and trimming the Spuds, all without permission, and with Fort Worth dropping a few to Dallas after the Salms had trimmed them in five out of six games, it looks like the dope sheet is not to be taken too seriously, in mapping out a series of wins or losses for either the Spudders or the Cats.

The Spudders seem to be experiencing that old malady, road trip jinx, that has kept in behind them for so long. They get along in fine shape as long as they are on the home diamond, with friendly fans giving boast now and then, but almost invariably they get in bad on their road trips. However, again the dope sheet might easily be wrong, and the Spuds may at any time get the jinx by the heels and throw it out of camp. They trimmed Dallas in the series that started the trip, and they are just as liable to handle the Bruins in the same way as not. Probably a little more so.

A little thing like a dropped game or two is not enough to get a team down and out. They have won a lot more than they have lost, and are on the war path to get nearer the top of the ladder. They have done as well as the Cats in the last few days, and it looks like they are going to do better. They have done enough rotten playing for one trip already, and ought to have it out of their systems by now.

A Universal Favorite.

The most popular and best loved young lady in the United States is Miss Annie Williams, of Philadelphia. Her picture is possessed by more men, and is more eagerly sought after than that of Lillian Russell, Mrs. Langtry, or any other famous beauty.

There is more demand for her pictures than for the counterfeit presentments of all the famous men and women in the world combined. And yet she is a modest, charming and rather retiring young lady, with a face les beautiful than it is remarkable for a clear and classic outline.

Miss Williams is soon to be married, but it is expected that the struggle for her pictures will go on as usual.

She is the lady the profile of whose face served as the model for the head of Liberty on our silver dollar.

METHODISTS WILL BUILD CHURCH

ing programs, and I know what we have to face. In fact, I feel that I am entering this present drive with blood on my hands from fights in the past in which I have participated to build churches."

"Let's All Help."

"Let's all let this matter of building our new church be the chief thing in our minds until it is completed," the pastor said, his face beaming with genuine delight at the fact that his church was entering such a campaign for a new house of worship.

Bishop Boaz, in whose honor last night's banquet was given, gave a great impetus to the new movement in a strong and eloquent address. Giving an account of what greater good could be done by the denomination here by having a church large enough to take care of the growing work, the bishop inspired his listeners.

"When you erect a church, you are putting your money in something that will live after you. You are investing in character, in human souls and in whatever good a church may accomplish. You are investing for all time, for when you have gone the church will remain, fulfilling its mission and being able to function for the glory of God because you and others contributed your means to make it possible."

Make Money Immortal.

Continuing his plea that the members be not slack in bringing to a culmination the task they have laid out for themselves, Bishop Boaz said:

"In the erection of this church you are putting the gold of this earth into the good of heaven. You are making an investment in the only manner in which you can take your earthly goods to heaven. This is so because after all there is only one earthly thing that ever gets to heaven. That is a human soul, saved by Jesus Christ. So investing in a house of God you are laying up treasures on earth and in heaven. By this church each of you may be able to hurl a gospel harpoon into the heart of some sinner.

"If you do not bring him in the first time, you will be able to hurl another, and in this manner finally win him to Christ. What you give to the erection of this building will render your money so invested immortal, and will be salvage to your account in heaven."

In urging that the church join the new building campaign as a unit and that those of large and small means get equally in on the contribution, Bishop Boaz said:

"You don't want a few rich men to build the church. You want it to be the finished product of every member of the whole congregation. Were just a few to erect and pay for the church just these few would feel that close connection that they feel they have made a sacrifice. The greater financial sacrifice you make the greater will you feel that you have a part in the church."

Advises Big Subscriptions.

In outlining the best way to carry on the financial campaign for the new edifice Bishop Boaz stressed the importance of getting a good start.

"In starting a movement of this size there must be several large contributors. There must be say a half dozen men who must shoulder at least half the responsibility and on down the line each one must contribute largely and carry the proposition over from the start. There should be $50,000, $25,000, $10,000, $1,000 and $500 contributions and so on down in great numbers," he advised.

Dr. Simpson announced that next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock a meeting of all the building committees would be held at the church and the church would hear all plans as completed this far. It is understood that blue prints of the proposed structure and possibly an outline of the building will be shown at the meeting. The plans are being drawn, tentative, by a Dallas architect and these are to be presented by the building committee to the church in regular executive session Sunday. At this meeting it is expected every detail of the plans will be gone over, committees appointed, a financial campaign discussed and the work for the building begun.

Urged to Continue.

When Bishop Boaz had finished his address in regard to the church building he concluded by saying, "I would like to talk to you about missionary work and of what experiences I have had since I saw you last but the lateness of the hour prevents my doing so." The audience refused to allow the bishop to stop at this juncture and calls from the audience to "go on, go on, tell us about it. It isn't late," and he complied with a 15-minute talk on life in Korea which was entertaining, humorous and instructive.

Particularly did the bishop score with the men present when he told of the modesty of the Koreans. "The Koreans depreciate everything they have and will never brag or boast in any manner of what they own. A Korean man is even that way when he introduces his wife, for he has the honesty and the nerve to tell you that his wife is very ugly, extremely ignorant and that he has only one and isn't very proud of her," he said. He also said he did not know how the Korean men were able to carry their extreme modesty to that extent.

Bishop Boaz told of how he had paid $500 to save a little Japanese girl from being sold by her father into a life of prostitution because the father had to pay a gambling debt of 800 yen. The bishop said he had gotten the little girl into the home of a missionary, was going to educate her in Korea and was then going to bring her to America to finish her education and finally send her back to be a missionary to her own people.

The bishop gave very interesting sidelights on the everday life and customs of the Korean describing their homes, occupations and giving matters of general interest which his audience received with great interest.

A Message for June Brides and Their Husbands

PERSONALLY, we don't believe that joke about the tearful young bride who lost so much time preparing the split pea soup for dinner "because she had to split the peas."

Today's brides are cheerful—not tearful. They are home managers in fact—and their husbands are to be congratulated.

It is a real pleasure to us to serve the Newlyweds, just as we may have served their parents for years. We depend upon the way we serve new customers to make them steady customers for all time.

RAIL DIVIDEND RATE GOES UP

New York Central Raise Most Constructive Development

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 13.— Stock prices generally displayed a heavy tone during the greater part of today's market despite another series of favorable dividend developments including the raising of the New York Central rate from $5 to $7 annual basis. Professional bear traders continued their attacks on the market and succeeded in forcing some material recessions in the stels, oils, equipments, rubbers and metors, but many of these rallied a point or so before the close. Sales exceeded the million mark for the first time since May 29.

On the theory that it reflected the financial judgment on present and future business conditions of the Morgan, Baker, Vanderbilt and other powerful financial interests, the increased New York Central dividend was regarded in many quarters as one of the most constructive market developments in many months. The stock, which closed at par yesterday, advanced to 102 in the early trading, but dropped back to 99 1-4 on circulation of reports while the directors were in session that the new rate would not be over $6 and that the rate might not be changed at all. The announcement of the $7 came as a surprise, the stock soaring to 104 1-8, a new high, often jumping half a point between sales. Approximately 125,000 shares changed hands during the day, the closing price of 103 3-4 representing a net gain of 3 3-4.

During the market's reactionary periods another flock of new low records were made, including such stocks as United States Steel common, Bethlehem Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Sinclair, Producers and Refiners and Consolidated textile.

Call money opened at 4 3-4, eased off to 4 1-2, and thence to 4, where it closed. The time money market was dull with few loans arranged at 4 3-4.

Renewed weakness of German marks, which fell below .0010 cent for the first time was the feature of the quiet and irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling sold just above $4.61 and French francs eased slightly to 6.36 cents.

RAW SUGAR DEMORALIZED

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 13.—The raw sugar market was almost demoralized today by the sharp break in futures. Prices were 3-8 cents lower under offerings by operators with Cubas selling at 5 1-2 cents, cost and freight, equal to 7.28 for centrifugal. The only sales reported was 7,000 bags of Cubas from store to a local refiner.

There was a violent break in raw sugar futures due to renewed general selling. Prices rallied about 30 points and were finally 32 to 43 points net lower. Closing: July 5.33; September 5.37; December 4.91; March 3.75.

Business in refined was almost wholly at a standstill. Prices were reduced 50 points by one of the local refiners to the basis of 9.25 for fine granulated, but other refiners were unchanged at 9.75 to 9.90. Refined futures nominal.

WHEAT BULLISH ON BAD YIELD

Unfavorable Reports From Kansas and France Push Price Up

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 13.—Unfavorable reports about probable serious curtailment of the wheat yield in Kansas this season and also in France had a bullish effect today on the wheat market here. Closing prices were firm 1-8 to 1 cent net higher, with July 1.11 1-4 to 1.11 3-8 and September 1.09 1-4 to 1.09 3-4; corn, too, finished 1-8 to 1 cent up, oats at unchanged figures to 1-4@3-8 cent lower, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 10 cents advance.

An upward tendency which the wheat market showed at the opening was soon followed by a material decline, and it was only in the last hour of trading that gains were reestablished.

Corn swayed with wheat. During the late dealing liberal orders to buy July corn at 80 cents and September at 76 cents brought about a tight situation.

Oats were weakness by slackness of cash inquiry. In the provision market selling on the part of smaller packers counterbalanced firmness of hog values.

COTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, June 13.— Cottonseed oil was partly higher early on demand from July shorts, but prices reacted subsequently in sympathy with the lower ruling in lard and cotton. Closing bids were 2 points higher for November and unchanged to 3 net lower for the balance. Sales 3,300 barrels. Prime crude 10.00, nominal. Prime summer yellow spot 11.70@12.50; July 11.80; September 11.34; December 8.93, all bid.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, June 13.—Mid-week cattle receipts today were below the average both in numbers and as to quality. The count called for only 2,500 head. The calf supply was held down to 500 head. Market conditions remained generally unchanged, but the movement scaleward was not to be compared with the activity shown Monday and Tuesday. Grass steers were mostly 15 cents lower than at last week's close and common to medium calves are still 25 cents under last week's selling level, but otherwise prices are just about the same. A car of choice light calves sold at $8.25, and yearlings notched $9.25, these sales supplying the trade with its only features.

An advance of 10 to 15 cents was marked up in the hog yards, but quality was not very desirable, and nothing could beat $7. Bulk sales ranged from $6.75 to $7, with 1,000 head offered. Pigs went at steady rates, the spread in values being from $5 to $6.

With wethers selling up to $6.25, the sheep market was called 35 cents higher than on Monday. Receipts were close to 1,000 head.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 13.—The feature in the cotton market today was the liquidation of July contracts. A good deal of this took the form of transferring long accounts from July to later deliveries, as a result of which there was a sharp decrease in the July premium over new crop months. Stop orders were uncovered on the decline, which carried July contracts off to 27.60, or 64 points net lower and a cent a pound under the recent high level.

That delivery closed at 27.94, or 50 points net lower. Later months closed net 12 points lower to 7 points higher with the general tone of the market irregular.

The market opened steady to a decline of 17 points on September, but generally 7 to 20 points higher. Liverpool was a considerable seller of October. This with the liquidation of July had an unsettling effect on the general list which promoted reactionary sentiment, particularly in view of more favorable weather reports from the south and talk of increasing mill curtailment. July broke from 28.57 to 27.80, while October sold off rom 25.20 to 24.70, or 35 points net lower, and later months showed net losses of 22 to 27. There were rallies on covering and a renewal of scattering demand with last prices showing rallies of some 14 to 22 points from the lowest.

Exports today 5,810, making 4,509,318 so far this season. Port receipts 6,866. United States port stocks 355,441.

Instructed Verdict

An instructed verdict for the defendant was returned Wednesday morning in the case of J. S. Morrison versus C. G. Wille et al, on trial in the Seventy-eighth District court. After hearing some of the testimony, Judge E. W. Napier instructed that findings be had for the defendant.
The case involved cancellation of a contract because of failure to drill a well on an oil lease in the county.

WALSH AGAIN IS NAMED AUDITOR AFTER GOOD WORK

E. P. Walsh, county auditor of Wichita county for the past year, was appointed auditor for the next two years at a meeting of the three district judges here Wednesday morning. Judge H. R. Wilson of the Thirtieth District court; Judge Ed Napier of the Seventy-eighth, and Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth made the appointment.
Mr. Walsh during his tenure of office has made a number of important changes in the auditing system of the county, and was commended by the three judges for his efficient service in the past.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana
Consulting Engineer

Is it going to be possible to irrigate any more land than is now included in the two irrigation districts?

NINTH INSTALLMENT.

In connection with the discussion of the duty of water on this project, we wish to say that as far as we know the Board of Directors of the district have never attempted to decide what the duty of water here shall be. Naturally they wish water used as economically as possible. One of the best informed men in this section has stated that in his judgment one acre foot per acre delivered at the land will be sufficient and he is about right for the staple crops.
On the other hand certain farmers have held that it would require at least double the average rainfall to raise a crop. They are mistaken as time will tell.
Yesterday we discussed the duty of water on the project; viz, the amount of water that will be required to raise crops. We pointed out that probably two acre feet stored in the reservoir for each acre of land to be irrigated would be sufficient, but we also said that the demand for water would likely be double this amount, or four acre feet of stored water.
District No. 2 is supposed to cover 50,000 acres of land and no doubt it will eventually cover the full 50,000 acres. District No. 1, which includes the city of Wichita Falls, covers about 15,000 acres, but of this 15,000 acres about 8,000 acres is outside of the city limits.
According to the contract between the two districts, 50,000 acre feet of stored water is reserved for the exclusive use of the city of Wichita Falls. Therefore, if 50,000 acre feet of water is deducted from the rated capacity of Lake Kemp, we have left 475,000 acre feet for irrigation purposes.
The contract between the two districts contemplates the irrigation of 100,000 acres of land with the same class of water right. If district No. 2 has 50,000 acres and there are 8,000 acres to be irrigated in district No. 1, then 42,000 acres additional would make up the full 100,000.
It will be interesting to find out how many dry years we could stand if we allowed for each of these 100,000 acres of land four acre feet of stored water. If we take the figures given by Vernon L. Sullivan as to the minimum flow of the river into Lake Kemp we find that if we started with a full reservoir one year and then had a dry year, there would be a water shortage before the season was over.
It is obvious that if 100,000 acres of land is ever placed under cultivation that less than four acre feet of water will have to be used for each acre cultivated.
Tomorrow we will discuss the economical use of water so as to allow a maximum acreage to be cultivated.

YARBROUGH CASE TO JURY TODAY

Testimony was closed Wednesday afternoon in the case of Mrs. A. L. Yarbrough versus the Phoenix Fire Insurance company, now on trial before a jury and Judge Ed Napier in the Seventy-eighth District court. The suit will go to the jury this morning.
The plaintiff seeks about $1,000 from the defendant company, alleging that this amount is due her on an insurance policy carried as protection on household goods destroyed recently in a fire.

Y. W. CAMPAIGN GOES ALONG

Fund Will Be Pushed Toward Goal Of— $35,000

Solicitations will continue today in behalf of the Y. W. C. A. building fund in an effort to bring the total collections up to the $35,000 mark originally set. It was reported Wednesday night that something over $8,000 had been taken in, with a number of canvassers still to be heard from.
Confidence was expressed at the conclusion of Wednesday's efforts that the drive would go over without difficulty but that it might take a little longer to consumate than was first expected. Hope was expressed that Thursday would see the full quota reached.
At a luncheon held Wednesday noon at the Wichita club rooms, reports were received from the campaigners by Walter D. Cline, chairman of the campaign committee, and the ground gone over thoroughly. The solicitors resumed their efforts immediately after the meeting but no report was available last night as to how they had fared in the afternoon.
Aside from making reports, the committee at its Wednesday noon luncheon decided to make a complete audit of the pledges secured in a drive several years ago to ascertain just how much might be realized from this source.

STARK IS STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION AFTER ACCIDENT

Reports from the hospital last night said that B. J. Stark, the driller who was injured in the nearby oil fields Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock was still in a critical condition and with slight chance of recovery. Stark who is employed by the Kyle Drilling company is suffering from a badly lacerated scalp and concussion of the brain as a result of an iron bar being caught in a chain and striking him on the head.
He was rushed to the General Hospital where an X-ray examination was made of his injuries.

Fireworks Display At Lake July 4

Following a custom of several years' standing, the management of Lake Wichita will stage a huge fireworks demonstration the night of July 4, it was announced Wednesday. E. C. Cogburn, manager of the amusement concessions, is now in Dallas arranging for the purchase of the pyrotechnics.
A busy day for the entire park is being planned but the climax is to come at 9:30 in the evening when the big display starts. These attractions have, in years past, proved to be the most popular of any in the city and the park has invariably been crowded to capacity with pleasure seekers.
Several other special stunts will be staged during the day, it was intimated, but these will not be announced until later.

CURD TELLS OF ZOO PROSPECTS

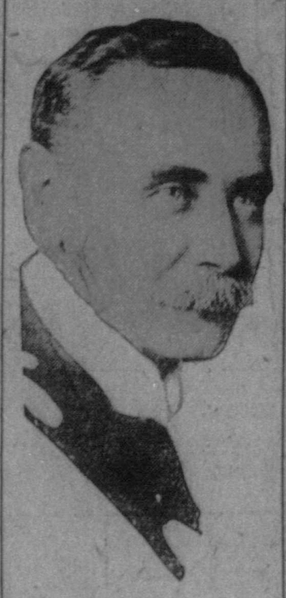

Lions Given Co-operation By Dallas Park Commission

A report from P. B. Curd, chairman of the zoo committee, was the chief feature of the weekly Lions club session at the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria Wednesday noon. Mr. Curd announced that the full cooperation of the Dallas park department had pledged this city in its efforts to make collections for a zoo and that desirable specimens, surplus of the Forest Park zoo in that city, might be purchased cheaply by this city at various times.

The club is sponsoring a move for a zoo to be established at Scotland park and is sending inquiries and compiling data from all the larger zoos of the country relative to the situation.

An address from T. C. McKinney, district organizer of the Lions club who formed the local association who was a visitor at the meeting also served as a feature.

He'd Ruin Best Publicity Stunt For Actresses

Sir Evelyn Cecil.

Sir Evelyn Cecil, conservative member of the British house of commons, has introduced in the house a bill which would bring a fine and imprisonment on the heads of editors who publish accounts of scandalous divorce proceedings, prohibiting the publication of medical or physiological details which might injure the public morals. Such a law would be a mean thrust at the poor actresses in need of publicity.

Antique Shop To Be Opened Here By W. L. Davidson

A shop, containing Persian rugs, rare paintings, antique furniture, beautiful chinaware and other interesting things will be opened at 706 Tenth street within the next 30 days, according to W. L. Davidson, owner of the building and who will be manager of the curio shop. The building, which is modern in every way, was recently completed, and as soon as all the supplies arrive the business will be opened.

A painting class will be conducted in the rear of the building on the mezzanine.

According to Mr. Davidson, who is well known in Wichita Falls through his interest in art work, the business will be the first of its kind in Wichita Falls and will handle high-class articles exclusively. In the past, people of this city have been compelled to go to Dallas and other large cities to obtain the material that will be sold in this shop at a normal cost, according to Mr. Davidson.

NO VERDICT IN CASE AGAINST GRISWOLD OIL

Although some deliberation was had on the case, no verdict was returned Wednesday afternoon in the case of D. H. Smith versus the Griswold Oil corporation, in which the plaintiff asks for $2,500 damages as the result of an accident last December. Testimony and argument was finished late in the afternoon and the jury retired to consider, but later was dismissed for the day without agreeing. It will resume deliberations this morning.

The plaintiff in his petition alleges that on December 2 last, while driving a car in the oil fields, he was struck by a tractor owned by the defendant company and in the ensuing wreckage he sustained permanent injuries. According to his testimony, he has been rendered incapable of physical labor as a result of the trouble.

The oil company admitted that the plaintiff was entitled to some damages, but could not agree to the amount sought. This matter has been left to the jury.

The case was tried in the Eighty-ninth District court.

M'CRACKEN WINS OIL COMMISSION

Answering in the affirmative on each of the "special issues involved," a jury in the Eighty-ninth District court Wednesday afternoon returned a verdict favoring the plaintiff in the case of L. M. McCracken versus W. E. Conner. A total of $5,500 was sought as commission on the sale of an oil and gas lease several years ago.

In the court's charge on the case, 11 special issues were raised and decisions required on these by the jury.

The case has been before the court since Monday afternoon.

Band Concert Sunday

The weekly band concert of the Wichita Falls Community band will be held next Sunday at Lake Wichita, it was announced Wednesday by officers of the organization. The initial concert of the summer season will be held at the lake, and it is probable that subsequent programs will be alternated between the lake and Bellvue park.

An attractive program of ensembles and solos is being arranged for the occasion, it was stated. It will be announced later in the week.

A special platform for the musicians is being built at the lake pavilion, so that the large crowds can see and hear easily.

CAR LINE TO FAIR LIKELY

Insistent Demand Expected To Pave Way For Extension

Prospects for the construction of a car line to Call field before the Texas-Oklahoma fair opens in October are bright, according to L. L. Albritton, general manager of the traction system here.

Such a program has been advocated heretofore and traction company officials have intimated that the new line would be built.

No purchases have as yet been made and no definite plans arranged for the work, it was pointed out, but in view of the insistent demand for such a line, it is considered highly probable that the tracks will be put down.

COUNCIL MEETING SET FOR FRIDAY

The special called meeting of the city council, scheduled to have been held this afternoon, has been put off until Friday. Several important matters are scheduled to come up at this time, it was announced.

At last Monday nights meeting the commissioners were invited to attend the chamber of commerce banquet given next Monday evening for delegates to the Southwest Waterworks Association convention here and in view of this it was deemed advisable to call off the regular session and hold a special meeting later this week.

Pipe Owner Sought

No definite trace has yet been found of the owner of a large amount of oil field casing, recovered early this week by the sheriff's department. The pipe was found at a local junk yard where two young men were attempting to dispose of a considerable quantity for $25.

It is believed that the owner will eventually be found but officials are anxious that it be claimed immediately and taken away.

All Farmers Will Be Invited Into Colonization Scheme Say Leaders

That every landowner and farmer within the irrigation district should have the opportunity to join a co-operative organization designed for the best interest of all, regardless of how much or how little land he owns, was the keynote of the discussion at the weekly meeting Wednesday noon of the chamber of commerce colonization committee.

The combined opinion of the committee was that in working out plans for the irrigation project and of colonization in particular, this district should very carefully note the mistakes made by other organizations that have sponsored irrigation projects. Keeping in mind the vastness of the project and the financial loss due to any grave error that might entail as a result of shortsightedness, the committee agreed to work out each particular phase of the project with thoroughness.

With this end in view on the suggestion of J. C. Hunt, a subcommittee was appointed to present a written draft of plans to be presented at the next weekly meeting for discussion. Members of this committee appointed by Chairman A. H. Britain are Reece S. Allen, J. A. Kemp, J. M. McFall and Herbert Griffin.

Reece Allen stated he was planning to bring some experienced irrigation farmers to his farms in the district and in this manner make experiments as to what the land would best produce. Herbert Griffin favored a plan of setting aside 40-acre tracts for purely experimental purposes. J. M. McFall stated he was going to visit irrigation districts in Arizona and California and pick up all the new ideas he could for the help of the committee. Members of the committee at the meeting were Chairman A. H. Britain, Reece S. Allen, C. E. McCutcheon, J. M. McFall, Herbert Griffin and J. C. Hunt.

William-Mary's Marble-Finished Lobby Will Add To Its Appearance

Work on the new lobby at the William-Mary hotel is rapidly being finished and when completed it will be one of the most beautiful in the southwest. One entire suite of rooms has been taken out of the hotel and the new lobby will spread across the length of the building. Where the present lobby is situated a choice suite of rooms will be constructed according to the management of the hotel.

The new lobby will be partly marble and will have a large drinking fountain in the rear. A sound proof telephone booth will also be another attraction of the new room. The electric fans will be finished off in the same color that the room is decorated with and a brass rail will extend partly around the room.

The office will be situated in the center of the room which will necessitate all guests passing directly in front of it on going to their rooms.

The front of the lobby will be finished off in French effect with several large French windows being situated in this part of the newly constructed space.

Insulin, Diabetes Cure Has Been Received Here

A supply of insulin, a pancreatic gland extract that is said to be the most effective cure yet devised for diabetes, has been received by the North Texas Medical and Surgical clinic and is being used with great success. The new medicine is exceedingly rare, physicians assert, and thus far has been supplied to only a few of the well established clinics of the country.

Treatments thus far carried out here, it is asserted, have met with unusual success.

No Message From Relatives of Man Killed on Tracks

At a late hour last night no message had been received from the relatives of William Cole, who was fatally injured when he was struck by a switch engine on the Wichita Valley trucks near the Peoples Ice company plant Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The injured man was rushed to the local hospital immediately following the accident but died within four hours. The body is being held at Merkle-Lunn Undertakers pending word from relatives in Tennessee.

No eye witnesses, according to reports, saw the accident but, according to the man's statement he was walking along the track and heard the train approaching but misjudging the track the train was on he stepped directly in front of it. He suffered a badly mangled left leg and an internal injuries. There were no hopes of his recovery from the start.

The man was unknown in this city but a letter was found in his pocket containing the address of brother, W. H. Cole, of Martin, Tennessee. A message was immediately sent to the brother but as yet no reply has been received.
