Reno Puts Brakes On Divorce In Single Day

SUN MUST SET ONCE BEFORE JUDGE ACTS

(By The Associated Press)

RENO, Nev., May 30. — Reno's judges have put the brakes on divorce seekers who attempt to slip through court in one day.

The "slow-down" order was issued in a joint statement by Judges B. F. Curler and Thomas F. Moran which announced the sun must set at least once between filing of suit and granting of decree. The judges declared the rule would not be waived under any consideration.

It was explained the rule was decided upon to eliminate "confusion" resulting from one-day procedure which the statement said frequently was a "nuisance." It will be effective tomorrow.

Court attaches welcomed the rule. They pointed out the granting of decrees immediately after suits were filed often ran things ahead of clerical ability to keep up with the proceedure. And to add to the "confusion," the clerk's office also was the place where marriage license were not infrequently issued to parties who had filed suit, obtained a divorce and announced intention of trying again with a new mate all in the course of half an hour.

MAP DRIVE FOR COMMUNISTS

REVOLUTIONARY PLAN TO FORM A SOVIET NATION IS URGED

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 30—William Z. Foster, communist candidate for president, today called for "the workers to take the revolutionary way out and establish a soviet United States."

As plans were made for a campaign in 40 states, with a million votes as the goal, Foster said:

"The communist party directs its main fire against the hunger and war program of the Hoover government.

Negro Nominated

James W. Ford, Alabama negro, was nominated for the vice-presidency at the two-day convention which closed here last night. The 1928 communist ticket, also headed by Foster, polled 50,000 votes.

A demand will be made for unemployment insurance at the expense of the government and employers to relieve the wholesale starvation among workers," Foster said.

"The party fights against the capitalistic way out of the crisis through hunger and war and calls upon the workers to take the revolutionary way out and establish a soviet United States," he continued.

The communist platform is based on condemnation of a "forthcoming imperialistic war." It made no mention of prohibition.

GARNER LASHES PRESIDENT AGAIN

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Unrelenting in his campaign to put across a huge public works program for unemployment relief, Speaker Garner had on record today a new lashing blast against President Hoover.

"He must realize that his stay at the White House is drawing to a close," said the Garner statement of the chief executive who condemned his project as a record-breaking "pork-barrel" for its thousands of post office and other construction items in cities, towns and cross-roads villages.

"It is rather difficult," said the speaker, "for me to see how is these are 'pork barrel' projects now, they were anything else when he (Mr. Hoover) sent them to congress with a request for appropriations to complete them."

Kendall Trial To Be Started Today

CONROE, May 30 (AP)—Authorities planned to begin today the trial of Durrell Kendall, 22-year-old Mississippian, charged with the New Caney tent murders late last year. Kendall's parents and other relatives came here to be with him during the trial.

The youth was alleged to have killed Lou H. Brownlee, owner of a wandering one-tent minstrel show, and Mrs. Martha Smith, employe. The couple was slain with an axe.

Triplett Leads Indianapolis Race

BILLY ARNOLD ELIMINATED IN CRASH

MOORE IS FORCED TO QUIT; CAREY HALTS BUT RESUMES RACE

(By The Associated Press)

SPEEDWAY, Indianapolis, May 30. — With 250 miles completed, Ernie Triplett, Los Angeles, had snatched the lead in the international 500-mile automobile race today with Howdy Wilcox of Indianapolis, second, and Louis Schneider, also of Indianapolis third.

Triplett went into the lead at the halfway mark after Bob Carey of Anderson, Ind., crashed into a retaining wall on the south turn. His car spun around three times but he was able to drive it into the pits and resume the race after a delay of probably ten minutes.

Triplett reeled off the 250 miles in 2:20:31-60, averaging 106.741 miles an hour.

Thirteen Eliminated

Arnold

With the race half finished, 13 of the original 40 starters had surrendered because of accidents or motor trouble. The favorite, Billy Arnold, 27-year-old Chicagoan, was knocked out of the race after leading for 150 miles when his car crashed into the wall when making a turn.

Gaudino was experiencing all kinds of trouble. After relinquishing his seat to a relief driver, the South American's car developed motor trouble and mechanics worked frantically over it to get it in shape. Gaudino's car had traveled only 175 miles when the leaders had covered 250 miles.

His car was officially declared out at 12:40 p. m., after he had covered only 175 miles.

Arnold had broken all speedway

TEST ON SALES TAX SLATED

HOOVER READY TO GO BEFORE SENATE WITH SPECIAL MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, May 30. (AP)—The senate upheld its finance committee today in eliminating the controversial house provision for a minium tax rate of one-fourth of one per cent on stock transfers, as it cleared the way for the sales tax test.

Senator Dill (D., Washn.) sought to restore to the bill a minimum rate of one-eight of one per cent on the sales value of stocks but lost, 45 to 37.

The minmum levy was then completely eliminated, leaving a flat tax of four cents a share on stocks.

The voting came after another spirited row over the impending sales tax. With President Hoover ready to go personally before the senate with a message, opponents of the sales levy sought unsuccessfully to fix a time for a vote late today. They claimed enough votes to defeat the sales tax.

BRUENING AND HIS CABINET QUIT POSTS

CONSERVATIVES LOOM AS NEW LEADERS OF GERMAN RANKS

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, May 30 — Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and the members of his cabinet resigned today and the resignations were accepted by President Paul Von Hindenburg.

The stern, hard-fisted, chancellor, combination of soldier and student, who in the little more than two years he has guided the German republic through unprecedented storms and a financial near collapse, finally lost an uphill fight against growing nationalism and dissatisfaction with government by emergency decrees.

Nationalists Strong

He was forced at last to make way for a cabinet in which conservatives are likely to predominate and which, in turn, probably soon will have to give way to one dominated by the rising national socialists of the young fascist leader, Adolf Hitler, who romped away with the recent state diet elections.

As far as the mind of President Von Hindenburg was known today, he leans toward appointment of a new chancellor from the nationalists, but not the national socialist ranks, a cabinet whose first duty it will be to weather the coming Lausanne conference on war debts and reparations.

After the return of the delegation from Lausanne, the new cabinet will have to face the reichstag, which probably will be dissolved, after which new elections would have to be held which might well sweep Hitler into power.

To Summon Speaker

President Von Hindenburg announced he intended to follow regular parliamentary procedure in forming a new cabinet. This means that he will first summon Paul Loebe, speaker of the reichstag, and then in turn the leaders of the various parties in the order of their present reichstag strength.

It was semi-officially announced that no personal differences existed between the president and Dr. Bruening and that the old field marshal would write the retiring chancellor a letter expressing his appreciation and affection.

The cabinet's resignation came shortly after the supreme court at Leipsic had held that material seized in raids on national socialist headquarters March 17 was not incriminating.

Two Negroes Taken In Beer Raid Here

Two negroes, Ada Robison and Henry Van, were charged with prohibition law violations in Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter's court here today on complaints filed by the sheriff's department, which reported beer had been confiscated in connection with the arrests.

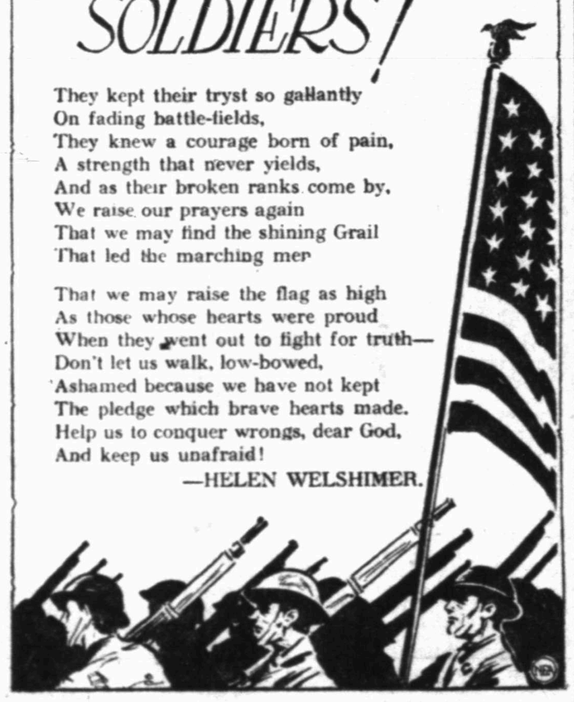

Both negroes waived examining trial to await action of a June grand jury, and Peace Justice Porter set bonds at $500 each.

SOLDIERS!

They kept their tryst so gallantly
On fading battle-fields,
They knew a courage born of pain,
A strength that never yields,
And as their broken ranks come by,
We raise our prayers again
That we may find the shining Grail
That led the marching men

That we may raise the flag as high
As those whose hearts were proud
When they went out to fight for truth—
Don't let us walk, low-bowed,
Ashamed because we have not kept
The pledge which brave hearts made.
Help us to conquer wrongs, dear God,
And keep us unafraid!

—HELEN WELSHIMER.

Lubbock To Join Nation In Memorial Observance; Legion To Hold Program

TAPS TO BE SOUNDED TO END CEREMONIES IN CITY TODAY

As the sun sets today, the plaintive notes of taps will be blown in Lubbock cemetery, climaxing Memorial day ceremonies scheduled to begin at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the American Legion home, 910 on Texas avenue.

Other communities of the South Plains will pay tribute to America's war dead. Plainview, Floydada, Post, Lamesa, Littlefield, and probably other towns will decorate the graves of their men who died in American wars, and individuals will visit again the tombs of persons they loved.

The program at the legion home here will last 45 minutes. Ben Kucera, commander of Allen Brothers post, No. 148, late Saturday asked that Lubbock women having flower gardens bring flowers to the legionnaries' quarters.

Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will speak there. The services then will be moved to the cemetery. Legion officials have a list of 10 World war veterans buried here, and have asked aid in identifying burial plots of other war dead.

Rev. J. D. Welch, post chaplain, will deliver invocation and benediction at the ceremonies. A quartet, composed of Mrs. Ethridge Eagan, Mrs. Raymond George, Harry Blocker, and Edgar Inmon, will sing two selections. The audience will sing The Star Spangled Banner.

Three volleys of shots will precede sounding of taps at the cemetery.

MEMORY OF SOLDIERS WHO SHED BLOOD IN WAR IS HONORED

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 30 — The memory of soldiers who shed their blood on the field of battle to found and maintain the United States was invoked this Memorial day for the case of national defense.

In the marble amphitheater that looks on the unknown soldier's grave at Arlington, former Senator Reed of Missouri mingled with a tribute to soldier heroes a plea for reliance on "the stout hearts and the unyielding swords of our gallant sons." He was the chief speaker at a national memorial service.

Legion Head Talks

Over a country-wide radio network, Henry L. Stevens, jr., national commander of the American Legion, recalled the high cost of unpreparedness in the World war, and bespoke a "hot determination" that the sacrifices of the war dead be not in vain.

"Pale and anaemic pacifists," said Reed, "denounce the soldier who stands guard upon our shores and gives protection to our homes. But it was men with iron in their souls who gave us all the liberty we have. Their gallant swords struck off the shackles tyranny had forged, and loosed the limbs of men; dreamers may dream their dreams and universes may write their thousand pledges of eternal amity. These are but paper pacts quickly consumed in hatred's smouldering fires.

"So long as flames of human passion burn and barbarous races arm for carnage, slaughter and for spoils, wise men will put no faith in paper barricades."

ROSCOE FARMER TAKES OWN LIFE AFTER HE MURDERS SPOUSE

(By The Associated Press)

ROSCOE, May 30—After shooting his wife as she sat listening to the radio in her daughter's home here, M. L. Wright, farmer of the Champion community near here, turned a shotgun on himself and fell dead on the ground outside. Mrs. Wright's death also was instantaneous.

The shooting occurred at 8:15 Sunday night. The couple, each about 60 years old, had been estranged for three weeks, and Mrs. Wright was living with a daughter, Mrs. Joe Snyder. The two were sitting in the living room when Wright, approaching the house in darkness, fired through a window.

Mrs. Snyder's husband and Turner Wright, son of the dead couple, were in the kitchen of the Snyder home when they heard two shots. Rushing outdoors, they found Wright lying dead. A forked stick, apparently used to pull the triger for the second shot, was lying near his body. A single-barrel 12-guage shotgun was tied around his shoulders with a heavy cord.

Seven children, including two boys under 12 years of age, survive the couple.

DEFINITE LEAD UNCOVERED IN EXPLOSIONS DAMAGING LOCAL MOVIE HOUSES HERE TODAY

LUBBOCK INTRODUCED TO RACKETEER METHODS WHEN BUILDINGS PARTIALLY WRECKED; LAW ENFORCEMENT BODIES UNITE IN PROBE

Police this morning believed they were working on a definite and possibly fertile lead in an attempt to solve the almost simultaneous bombings early today of the Palace and Lindsey theater buildings here.

The two explosions, the first wrecking the rear of the two floors of the Palace building at 3 o'clock and the second less extensive damage back of and under the Lindsey stage from 3 to 5 minutes later, marked the advent openly of racketeer methods in Lubbock.

No arrests were reported in connection with the blasts by noon. Members of the police force, sheriff's department and district attorney's office were investigating the case.

Chief of Police Wiley L. Metcalfe reminded that what seemed to be important information possibly would fade into insignificance, and instructed his department to inquire into every possible angle of the case, however remote from the immediate crime.

Bomb Pieces Found

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty continued to aid in the investigation and reported additional pieces evidently from a bomb had been found at the Lindsey building and corresponding fragments were being uncovered at the other wrecked structure.

Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, conferred with Police Chief Metcalfe, and the two heard reports of investigators and private citizens having information which possibly would contribute to a solution. The sheriff's department also was attempting to ferret out clues.

Although total damage still was unestimated at noon, it was expected to total at least $5,000, including loss on plate-glass windows over a two-block radius in one direction and half a block in another.

"Despite racketeering gangsters, this theater will be open as usual", read signs in front of both theaters this afternoon and pictures were being shown on regular schedule in both houses.

Hurried repairs in both houses, after equipment had been tested and found undamaged, permitted opening of the theaters at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Tells Of Threats

SKIES BECKON TWO TEXANS ON FLIGHTS

BROWNE WILL TRY TO START FOR TOKYO; BROMLEY HOPS

(By The Associated Press)

The solitary skies smiled a dare today to two Texas rangers of the air.

Nat Browne, Texas cowboy turned flier, with an eye on the prize money that will go to the man who makes a successful flight from America to Japan before June 1. He started yesterday from Seattle but was forced to turn back when his oil line went bad. He was in the air about seven and one half hours.

Harold Bromley, another Texan with long distance flying ambitions had a long day's trans-continental flight ahead of him; from New York City to Burbank, California. He took off in his oil-burning, orange winged plane at 3.01 a. m., Central Standard time, from Floyd Bennett field, Brooklyn.

Also at Floyd Bennett field was the plane of Stanislaus Hausner, amateur flier who was forced to turn back last week after starting a trans-Atlantic flight to London and Poland. Hausner plans to try it again tomorrow.

TODAY LAST CHANCE FOR $30,000 PRIZE

SEATTLE, May 30 (AP)—Hazards of refueling high over Seattle to get a three-ton load of gasoline into his tanks today offered Nat C. Browne, baffled in a 7 1-2-hour flight yesterday, his last chance to start his huge monoplane on a flight to Tokyo in quest of a $30,000 prize.

In a daring takeoff at dawn yesterday, he twice sacrificed gasoline to clear wires, brush and trees. The big plane skimmed over the brush and wires but grazed a tree. Undaunted, the New York aviator kept on until an oil line broke over Vancouver island and sprayed hot oil in his face and eyes, temporarily blinding him.

Has Narrow Escape

On his way back, he again narrowly escaped death as he valved most of his load of gasoline and fought to gain altitude.

"I had a pretty narrow escape," he said on his return. "I was flying at a low altitude. I just did manage to wipe the oil out of my eyes and take off my goggles in time."

FEDERAL COURT OPENS TODAY IN NEW STRUCTURE

With only two weeks set aside for an attempt to dispose of a burdened docket, the Lubbock division of United States northern district court convened before William H. Atwell of Dallas this morning in the courtroom on the third floor of the new federal building.

The newly occupied offices of Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy United States district court clerk whose quarters formerly were in the courthouse, bustled with activity as court attaches, attorneys, and others hurried in and out.

A jury was seated and was to be sworn in this morning. Hearing of the case of the Harvest Queen mill of Plainview in involuntary bankruptcy is set for Tuesday.

The court proceedings were in the new federal building, which cost with furnishings an estimated $325,000. Only a few of the offices have been occupied, and postoffice officials do not expect quarters to the new building before June 13.

OMAHA, Neb., May 30 (AP)—Six veteran pilots today completed preparations for the start of the national balloon race, scheduled for 5 p. m. Central Standard time), as the climax of the second annual Omaha air races.

The winner is to get the remaining place on the United States team in the international race at Basel, Switzerland, in September.

PRESBYTERIANS OPPOSE REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION; CRITICISE MOVIES

(By The Associated Press)

DENVER, May 30—Qualified opposition to a referendum on repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and criticism of motion pictures was voiced in a committee report today to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.

The committee on Christian education, which made the report, asserted the "vast majority" of motion picture films were unsatisfactory and suggested that congress "create a federal commission that shall deal with the evil at its source."

Concerning a proposed prohibition referendum, the committee declared: "We are opposed to a vote on repeal which provides no constructive substitute, in the conviction that mere repeal will bring back the saloon.

"We are opposed to state control, holding with the Wickersham report in this respect. We are opposed to the government's going into the liquor business, refusing to endure the sight of the American flag floating over the legalized liquor traffic."

It recommended public officials confine their radio broadcasting messages in the interest of public welfare to the six secular days of the week, except in great emergencies.

WEAPONLESS ARMY CAMPS AT CAPITAL DETERMINED TO PUSH BONUS DEMANDS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 30—A weaponless army camped in Washington today, determined to stay here until congress surrenders to its uncompromising demands.

The army was made up of men who fought in the World war, 1,300 or more of them, beseeching at this difficult pass in the nation's life that their service bonus be paid in full immediately.

Sixteen truckloads of them, gathered from across the broad sweep of the country, entered the capital from Maryland yesterday, weary and stained with the grime of haphazard travel. Others already had filtered in and more were expected.

They were fed and housed in a vacant building under arrangements made personally by a former brigadier general of war days, Police Superintendent Glassford. He told them they would have to leave in 48 hours to save the local relief funds from such depletion that Washington's own destitute would be forced to go hungry. But the leader of the most organized contingent—330 men from the Pacific coast—replied they would stay until the bonus is paid.

Glassford said he would enforce his time limit unless congress "wants to foot their bills."

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

CHILDHOOD OF AUTHOR

THOSE of intellectual interest are familiar with the world's vast contributions to thought and knowledge by John Stuart Mill (1806-1870). Parents of precocious children will be greatly interested in his boyhood and home education. They ought to read his autobiography and observe the astonishing intellectual achievement of this lad before the age when most children enter school, and the extraordinary time and attention devoted by the father to his education.

To quote:

"I have no remembrance of the time when I began to learn Greek. I have been told that it was when I was three years old. . . . I learnt no Latin until my eighth year. At that time I had read, under my father's tuition, a number of Greek prose authors, among whom I remember the whole of Herodotus, and of Xenophon's Cyropaedia and Memorials of Socrates; some of the lives of the philosophers of Diogenes Laertius; part of Lucian, and Isocrotes ad Demonicum ad Nicocolem.

"I also read, in 1813, the first six dialogues of Plato, from the Euthyphron to the Theictetus inclusive. . . ." No small achievement for a seven-year-old.

"My father's health required considerable and constant exercise, and he walked habitually before breakfast, generally in the green lanes toward Hornsey. In these walks I always accompanied him, and with my earliest recollections of green fields and wild flowers, is mingled that of the account I gave him daily of what I had read the day before.

"To the best of my remembrance, this was a voluntary rather than a prescribed exercise. I made notes on slips of paper while reading and from these in the morning walks, I told the story to him; for the books were chiefly histories, of which I read in this manner a great number."

• • •

The list of heavy books that lad read in these tender years transcends one's imagination. He also read "Robinson Crusoe" "Arabian Nights and "Don Quixote."

"In my eighth year I commenced learning Latin, in conjunction with a younger sister, to whom I taught it as I went on, and who afterwards repeated the lesson to my father: and from this time, other sisters and brothers being successively added as pupils, a considerable part of my day's work consisted of this preparatory teaching. It was a part which I greatly disliked; the more so as I was held responsible for the lessons of my pupils, in almost as full a sense as for my own: I, however, derived from this discipline the great advantage of learning more lastingly the things which I was set to teach: perhaps, too, the practice it afforded in explaining difficulties to others, may even at that age have been useful."

• • •

When did John Stuart Mill play during his childhood? He didn't. His father purposely kept this lad away from other children, to prevent his learning wrong conduct and wrong ways of thinking. There was no evidence that John Stuart Mill lived a very happy life. During late adolescence he almost went insane, but saved himself, as he declares, by reading Wordsworth. Yet, as measured in terms of his contribution to the world, maybe his education was of the very best sort.

Parents of the precocious child who could be sure this child is going to be a second John Stuart Mill could afford, perhaps, to cultivate only the child's mind. I do not know, but if I had such a child, I should not like to take the risk. Neither does any parent know exactly what his child is going to turn out to be. What do you think about it?"

STRANGE POWERS FEATURE FOOD AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Strange powers were ascribed to White House food by Senator Connally (D., Tex.) in a senate speech.

"I have observed," Connally said, "that White House food has a flavor and is much more tempting and seductive than other food.

"When a newspaper man, a public official, or a private citizen partakes of it his backbone is very much limbered up and his views very much modified."

Senator Glass, of Virginia, himself a newspaper publisher responded that: "Scrambled eggs and bacon don't taste any different to a newspaper man than to a United States senator."

Connally said he would accept the judgment of Glass, but added that whether it was a newspaper man, a public official, or a private citizen, "the White House bulges out their breasts as well as their bosoms."

CONDEMNED MEN ABANDON HOPES

NEW ORLEANS, May 30 (AP)—Spending their time largely in seclusion and prayer, four men scheduled to die on the gallows next Wednesday in the parish here for murder in a bank holdup had abandoned all hope today of escaping the noose.

They are George O'Day, 23, Donald Rylich, 24, Herman Taelor, 28, and Ito Jacques, a negro, 28, sentenced to death for the slaying of Raymond S. Rizzo, a 39-year old grocer, in the November 22, 1930 holdup of the Rochebiave market branch of the Canal Bank and Trust company.

The four men refused to talk to reporters but requested George Reyer, superintendent of police, to send a telegram to Rev. George J. MacNarama, of St. Edwards university, Austin, Texas, asking him to come to New Orleans and administer to them at the hangings. He had done missionary work among them on a recent visit to the prison.

The case has been through the United States supreme court which affirmed the capital sentences.

INDIANAPOLIS SPEEDWAY PROMISES TO BE FAST, DANGEROUS

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY COLLIER PARRIS

Over at Indianapolis today they're having quite a bunch of fun and excitement, possibly some tragedy and misfortune, as thousands of wildly cheering spectators watch forty racing automobiles, each of which must be capable of doing at least 100 miles per hour, circle the two-and-a-half-mile brick track in America's racing classic.

• • •

For approximately five hours this afternoon spellbound spectators will keep a diligent vigil. There will be thrills, spills, excitement galore as the automobiles fly around the turns until they have navigated five hundred miles. To many—we're inclined to feel that way ourself—this automobile racing is the zenith in sport excitement.

• • •

One of the most dangerous of sports as well as one of the most thrilling, automobile racing, one is inclined to think, claims a low place in the scale so far as actual number of participants is concerned. The death rate, however, is higher. Death rides with every begoggled pilot and his machanic, ready to swoop at every hairpin turn. Take the former winners of the Indianapolis classic, for instance. There have been nineteen of them—seven of them have died while following their professions. Four of them are back today in second and third attempts to win again. The others have hung up their helmets for good.

• • •

The stories of those men who have died on the roaring road—sacrifices on the altar of speed—are ever worth repeating. There was Lockhart, winner in 1926, who thrilled the multitudes with his driving that was equal only to that of Jimmy Murphy in 1922. Lockhart navigated the turns of the speed track expertly, setting a record, but later on, in 1928, he attempted to set a straightaway record at Daytona Beach and was killed.

Murphy introduced a new era of speed in this country after winning the French classic in 1921, and from then to 1924 he piled up a fortune in first money prizes, finally crashing into a fence and it was his.

The racing story which the old timers like most to hear and which the youngsters like most to hear is that of Norman K. Batten, who did a story book fete in 1928 on the Indianapolis track.

Batten's car caught fire just before it turned into the home stretch. Applying the brakes, he slowed down until he could have leaped to safety, with a chance the car either would plunge into the crowd or collide with other racers.

He clung to the car, even when he was forced to climb from the seat, and guided his mount into his own pits, where it crashed. He spent weeks in a hospital recovering from burns, and died not long afterward when the steamship Vestris sank. He was a passenger and was drowned.

• • •

And speaking of pits: If you are ever in Indianapolis on the day of the big race, which is usually on Memorial day, you should be prepared to get most out of what you see. There are thing to watch besides the speeding automobiles. They are the pits, and the pit crews.

The pits are located near the edges of the runways and in them are assistants who give and take signals from drivers and mechanics in the speeding automobiles. Signals are given in various manners, sometimes by blackboard but usually by prearranged or established signs by hands, position of car, etc. The pit man looks to the tires and if one is going low he signals the driver. A halt is made and the tire is changed in less time than it takes to tell, and the car is off again. Other repairs needed are signaled and pit crews get ready to attend the ailing machine.

• • •

Lamesa is celebrating its Memorial Day program with a golf match which features a couple, at least, of the best golfers in this part of the state. Charles Quails of Post, West Texas champion, and a partner are meeting Frank Rose of Lamesa and a partner in a special foursome. Considerable publicity has been given the match and a big gallery is expected.

It is to be remembered that Quails needed the nineteenth hole to beat Rose, one up, in an important match here last year in the West Texas tournament. Rose gave Quails his toughest battle of the tournament. It should be quite a match, and good practice for the boys, who more than likely will journey to San Angelo on June 9 for the W. T. G. A. tournament.

RANGER, May 30 (AP)—D. A. Harkrider of Ranger won the 21st hole to defeat James Phillips of Ranger one up yesterday in the scheduled 18-hole final of the second annual Ranger invitation golf tournament. Harkrider had taken the eighteenth hole to square the match.

FORTY DARING DRIVERS TO VIE TODAY

130,000 WILL BE AT ANNUAL RACE FOR $100,000 PRIZES

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30 (AP)—Forty daring young drivers, with nerves of steel, awaited the start of the twentieth 500-mile international automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway today, with the prospect more than 130,000 spectators would witness the death-defying battle for prizes of $100,000.

The race promised to be the fast est and the most dangerous in the history of the classic. Two men were killed as the result of accidents in the qualifying tests and their survivors feared for their lives in bouncing their cars over the perilous 2 1-2-mile brick course. With a moderate degree of luck and favorable weather conditions, the winner of today's race figured to break the track record of 101.13 miles per hour, established by Peter Depaolo in 1925.

Moore Number One

Lou Moore, Hollywood, Calif., who finished second in 1928, starts from the coveted number one position as the result of sending his 8-cylinder car through the qualifying test at 117.363 miles an hour.

Louie Schneider, former Indianapolis policeman, winner of the 1931 race, qualified his car at 110.661 miles an hour. Schneider with Billy Arnold, the 27-year-old Chicagoan who won the 1930 race, remained the favorites.

Crossing the finishing line first, the fastest and all in one piece is the object of the daring drivers to win first prize of $25,000.

Hazards Increased

Greater speed with increasing hazards was in prospect for today's race. All of the cars are American built. They range from front drive and four-wheel drive to conventional rear wheel drive and from eight to the conventional four-cylinder make.

As the sun broke over the speedway today, several hundred persons, led by a couple of Texas youths, were in front of the speedway gates ready to make a sudden dash for favorite parking spaces in the infield when the gates were opened at six o'clock.

BATON ROUGE IS STILL IN FIRST

(By The Associated Press)

Baton Rouge continued to hold its half-game lead in the Cotton States league yesterday over Pine Bluff as both teams were victorious.

Baton Rouge, in a free-hitting game with Monroe, won 9 to 5 with leftfielder Long the day's hero. Long got three hits in three times at bat, one of them a home run and batted in three tallies. Nitcholas was touched for 11 hits by Monroe while Crouch gave up 13.

Pine Bluff defeated Port Arthur, 2 to 1, getting their runs in the first inning, but thereafter were held by the steady hurling of Hinson. The Texans bunched hits in the second inning for their lone tally. From that time on Berry and Hinson kept the batters guessing.

El Dorado continued its winning streak taking its second game from Vicksburg 3 to 2.

POST DOWNS LUBBOCK COUNTRY CLUB

Double-Headers Are Split By National Loop Teams

LUBBOCK HUBBERS SWAMP POST TEAM UNDER DELUGE OF RUNS TO WIN SIXTH GAME OF YEAR OUT OF SEVEN STARTS

Hubber batsmen jumped on two Post pitchers for sixteen hits and seventeen runs yesterday and Watson, Texas Tech student, pitched a masterful game as Lubbock took its sixth victory of the season of seven starts, 17 to 0.

Watson, who pitched his first game for the Lubbock Hubbers yesterday, allowed but two safe bingles, and struck out thirteen men. He retired the opposition in two innings in order with strikeouts.

Lubbock scored twice in the first after Post batsmen had gone down with one single. Watson fanned the first three men up in the second and Davis, pitching for Post, began to pitch what looked like a good game. For three innings he held the Hubbers scoreless, shutting them out in order. Watson was doing the same for Lubbock.

In the fifth, Centerfielder Taggert led off with a sizzling single, Catcher Bachtell was safe on Channey's error, and Fox got hit. Johnson and Allen singled in succession, scoring those ahead and themselves crossing the plate while the three outs were being made.

The Hubbers scored five times in the sixth and five times in the eighth to complete the riot. Channey went from short to the box to relieve Davis but was hammered consistently. Allen and Johnson for Lubbock hit triples.

Watson had the situation well in hand from the start, letting down in the ninth for the visitors to grab their second and final bingle. Even in that inning, the Lubbock hurler fanned three men.

Taggert led the local attack with three hits in five times up.

THREE WOMEN UPHOLD U. S.

AMERICAN FORCES IN BRITISH TOURNEY ARE REDUCED

SAUNTON, Eng., May 30 (AP) — The American forces in the British women's golf championship, seven strong when they started out this morning in quest of the prize no American woman ever has won, had been reduced to only three when the first round of match play was completed.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, five times American champion, Virginia Van Wie and Mrs. Leona Cheney remained to carry on, but Helen Hicks, the American champion, Maureen Orcutt, tournament medalist, Mrs. Harley Higbie and Mrs. Opal Hill were eliminated.

Mrs. Vare and Mis Van Wie won easily over little-known opponents but Mrs. Cheney had to wage an uphill struggle to defeat Doris Chambers, British champion in 1923, on the 18th hole.

The Americans were not the only favored players to fail, Daiana Fishwick, champion in 1930, bowing to Susie Tolhurst of Australia, one up in 19 holes.

NEWCOMERS, VETS IN GOLF TOURNEY

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 30 (AP) —A crop of newcomers started in qualifying play today to dispute the Women's Southern Golf association title with several of Dixie's outstanding veterans.

A field of nearly 100 sought the southern title won last year by Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, whose removal from New Orleans to New York left it undefended. The list of tournament favorites was headed by Miss Margaret Maddox of Atlanta and Mrs. Dave Gaut of Memphis.

Mrs. Tom Wallace of Sapulpa, Okla., runner up in the trans-Mississippi tournament here last week, and Mrs. Walter Beyer of Tulsa, winner of the event, were entries in the southern.

Other outstanding entrants included: Miss Aniela Gorczyca of Fort Worth; Miss Hilda Urbanke of Austin, and Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, the Texas champion.

MOVE TO LUBBOCK

CANYON—(Special)—Mrs. Cecil Newberry and children, who have lived here for a number of years, have moved to Lubbock to join Mr. Newberry who has been there several months. Mr. Newberry was employed in a local store.

GUS MORELAND IS PRAISED

MAGUIRE SAYS TEXAS CHAMP SHOULD BE ON CUP TEAM

DALLAS, May 30 (AP)—That Gus Moreland of Dallas is one of the greatest amateur golfers in the world and that it will be a mistake to leave him off the Walker cup team was the verdict of Willie Maguire Saturday at Texarkana after Moreland had won the state championship.

Maguire, over 20 years professional at the Houston country club and for 20 years official starter in the Texas Golf association state championship, stood at the 27th green Saturday and watched Moreland win the state championship for the second consecutive time by beating W. R. Long of Austin, 10 and 9. He saw Moreland stop the scheduled 36-hole championship match at the twenty-seventh hole with two straight birdies. He was at the eighteenth green in the morning round when Moreland went for and got an eagle three to give him a 69 to tie the course record.

"Moreland," said Maguire, "has all that is necessary to be a member of the Walker cup team or any other team representing the United States' best golfers. Beside his shots off the tee and through the fairways, he is a marvelous putter and that is where he has it on most of the amateurs today. His golf and courage in match competition simply can't be overlooked when you name the best amateurs."

Maguire will serve as official starter in the trans-Mississippi at Oklahoma City, starting June 20, and he hopes to see Moreland tee up against the field there.

VANCE FINALLY WINS OVER BRAVES AFTER TWO DEFEATS

BY HENRY W. BARKER,
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dazzy Vance finally has won a ball game from the Boston Braves, perhaps because Bill McKechnie so far forgot himself as to start someone besides Young Bob Brown against the veteran speedball artist of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dazzler, beaten twice by the Braves with Brown pitching against him, finally broke the spell yesterday, winning a 3-2 decision in the second game of a double-header. The Braves had won the first game, 10-6 with an eight-run drive in the second inning. Brown received credit for this victory.

Split Twin Bill

The league leading Chicago Cubs broke Pittsburgh's five-game winning streak behind Pat Malone in the first game, 7-3, but the Pirates won the second, 2-0, behind Glenn Spencer's effective hurling.

After Bill Hallahan had pitched St. Louis to a 5-0 shutout victory in the opener, the Cincinnati Reds came back to win the nightcap, 3-2. The winning run was scored in the 11th on two singles and a sacrifice. The New York Giants spotted the Phillies seven runs and then beat them, 18-8, in their slugging opener but failed to fathom Jim Elliott's slants in the second game and succumbed, 4-2.

In the American league New York stretched its lead to three games by beating Washington, 11-8, as Babe Ruth hit his 14th home run.

Detroit strengthened its hold on third place with a 4-3 triumph over Chicago, Luke Appling's fumble in the seventh paving the way for the Tigers' winning run.

St. Louis, scoring seven runs in the eighth, trounced Cleveland, 12-3, in the first game but could do little with Mel Harder in the second and the Indians won, 12-1.

Bob Weiland outpitched three rivals as Boston whipped Philadelphia, 6-4, in the first game but Rube Walberg shut them out with four hits in the second, 3-0.

SHIELDS TO GET TEST IN MATCH

PHILADELPHIA, May 30 (AP)—A test of Frank X. Shields was furnished today in the concluding matches of the Davis cup tie between the United States and Australia—and that's all.

The singles duels between Shields and Jack Crawford and between Ellsworth Vines and Harry Hopman haxe no bearing on the outcome of the tie. The Americans sewed it up by winning the two singles and the doubles matches Friday and Saturday.

Shields, who rose to stellar rank in 1930, fell down in overseas competition and in the national championships last year and his straight-set victory over Hopman in the opening events of this Davis cup play Friday was his first major triumph of this season.

If he can dispose of Crawford today, however, the Americans will feel considerably more confident of success against the European competitors to be taken on later in the summer.

SLATON STARS TIE TEAM AT LITTLEFIELD

QUAILS LEADS POST'S TEAM TO VICTORY ON HOME LINKS

The champion of West Texas amateur golfers, Charles Quails, led his team of Post Country club golfers to a 14 to 9 victory over the Lubbock Country club team in a South Plains Golf league game at Post ysterday.

The Littlefield team, which has lost consistently since the league season opened, bore down yesterday on its home field to gain a 11 to 11 deadlock with the Slaton Santa Fe team.

Lubbock Meadowbrook club, fifth member of the circuit, drew an off day yesterday, but the course was crowded all day long with members challenging and playing in the ladder tournament for places on the team.

Lubbock Country club golfers showed rather ragged games at Post to lose. Charles Quails and Dr. Ray tied for medal honors with 79's. John Edmisson of Lubbock fired an 80 and Jo Dick Slaughter of Lubbock shot an 81. Collier and George Samson of Post fired 81's.

Quails beat Slaughter, 2-1; Edmisson and Dr. Ray tied with one point each. Ross McWhorter of Lubbock dropped three points to Collier. Two of the Samson brothers, George and Jim, swept three-point matches with J. O. Smith and V. O. Jennings respectively.

E. T. Daniels and Bays Briant of Lubbock Country club were the only locals to sweep their matches, Daniels beating E. S. Stewart and and Briant beating Jack Samson. Cliff Dean lost to C. Hundley, 2 to 1.

Slaton golfers had a divided day. The top four members of the team lost to Littlefield's top four, while the scoring was reversed in the lower flight, Slaton winning the last four matches.

PASTOR RESIGNS

LITTLEFIELD, (Special) — Rev. Roy Kemp, organizer and pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church here two and a half years ago and before that pastor of the First Baptist church, has resigned. He has gone to Fort Worth to make his home. Reverend Lee, of Blum, has been called to the pastorate.

EXPORTERS WIN OVER INDIANS IN FIVE INNING CLASH

(By The Associated Press)

The marathon winning streak of Beaumont bumped into an abbreviated game yesterday, but five innings was enough for the Exporters to beat San Antonio, 2 to 0. It was the thirteenth straight win for Beaumont.

It may be that the short game, halted by rain, was all that saved the Exporters. San Antonio had just tied the score at 2-all in the sixth when the downpour stopped the game and sent it back to the full fifth inning.

Big Attendance

A paid attendance of 5,053, the largest crowd of the season at Beaumont, had gathered for a doubleheader, but all they saw was Beaumont win when the Exporters tallied on Tauby's single, Jones' sacrifice and singles by Easterling and Fox.

Scoring four runs in the eleventh inning, Galveston stopped Houston, 8 to 4. It was a mound duel between Art Seydler for Galveston and Heusser for Houston. The Houston star cracked in the eleventh when he walked his first man and that was the signal for a four-run rally by Galveston.

Tyler stopped the winning streak of Longview at Longview, 2 to 1. Mickey O'Neil scored the winning run in the seventh on an infield hit. Milt Steengrafe, Tyler hurler, had the edge on Hal Wiltse of Longview in a close mound duel.

The Dallas-Fort Worth game was rained out.

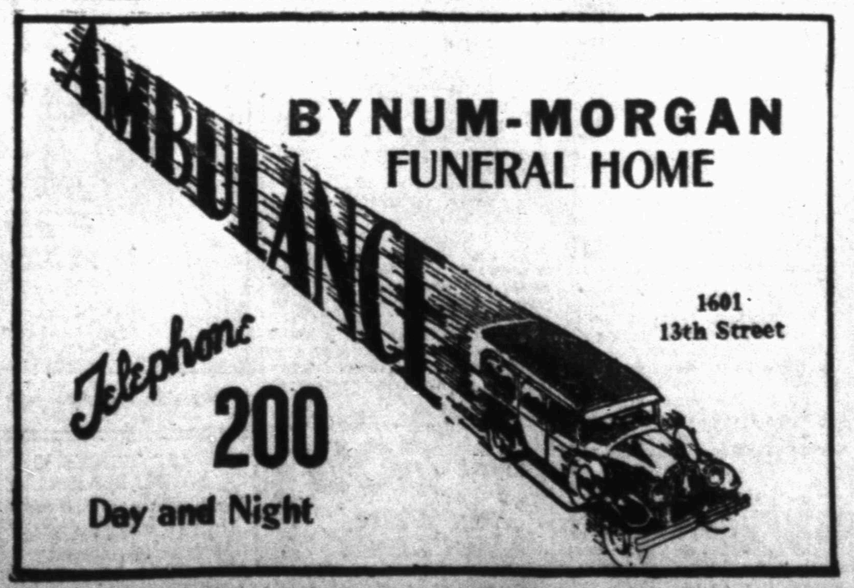

THREE BATTLES SET THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, May 30 (AP)—Kid Chocolate, George Nichols and Tuffy Griffiths are the principal box office attractions of a dull national boxing schedule this week.

Chocolate will battle Lew Feldman of New York in a 15-round match here Wednesday night but the Havana negro's junior lightweight championship will not be at stake.

Griffiths, an outstanding heavyweight contender a couple of years ago, will open a come-back campaign in Chicago tonight against the California veteran, Jack Roper.

Nichols, National Boxing association light heavyweight champion, encounters his Buffalo rival, Lou Scozza, tomorrow night at Buffalo.

A Lesson From '29

ALMOST every day something happens to give us a clearer vision of the sort of civilization that we had in this country before the 1929 crash.

Most recent were the tales about easy money in Wall Street, told to the Senate committee in Washington by a series of witnesses.

These stories make a strange, rather surprising picture.

The Raskob pool, it seems, cleaned up $5,000,000 in a week. A group of other traders organized by a free-lance put through an operation that netted the free-lance a million in five weeks, although he had not put up any of his own money. Another company whose stock was being manipulated by a big pool managed to pay out dividends of $1,500,000 on net profits of $1,000,000.

And so it went. High finance seems to have been just a little bit higher, in those gay days, than most of us ever realized. Now that it is too late, we are learning things.

We are learning, for instance, that our famous prosperity had a hectic, unhealthy tinge to it. It was too turbulent, too febrile; it made us lose sight of the fact that what goes up is apt to come down, sooner or later—with a bang.

It will be a good thing if we can keep all of that in mind. For we are very apt, these days, to long wistfully for a return of the bright days of 1928 and 1929, to look back on the prosperity of those years as something to which we must return just as soon as we have found out how to clamber out of this depression and the days of easy money are not, really, worth returning to.

For those days paved the way for these days in which we are suffering now. The time when a group of clever market manipulators could knock off $5,000,000 in a week, the time when a trader could clear a million without investing a cent of his own, were directly responsible for the time of 8,000,000 unemployed.

When we look ahead to prosperity, let's look ahead to a saner kind; a kind that won't strew as much easy money about Wall Street, but that will be a little bit more enduring.

Needed Expenditure

GRASSHOPPERS proved exceedingly costly to farmers in many western states last summer. Now, however, Dr. W. H. Larrimer, federal entomologist, predicts that there will be many more grasshoppers this summer than last, and that the infested area will be far larger.

That lends especial point to the fact that there is now pending before Congress a bill under which the government would put up $1,450,000 to make available to farmers poisons by which the grasshoppers can be destroyed. The pressure for economy may cause this bill to fail; but considering the fact that the farmer has plenty of troubles already, it does seem as if this expenditure ought to be allowed to pass. It would be money well spent.

Amelia's Flight

AMELIA Earhart seems to have made good in a big way on her claim to the honor of being the first woman to fly the Atlantic.

It is quite a while since she first gained fame by crossing the sea in a ship flown by the late Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon. But that achievement was probably never quite as satisfying as it might have been. After all, she had been a passenger. The stunt took courage, but it did not stamp her as a great flyer.

Now, however, the triumph is complete. Utterly alone, she has conquered the Atlantic, hanging up a record that no other woman flyer and hardly any men have yet equaled. The flight testifies abundantly to her capacity as an aviatrix.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says when she wants to polish a floor she puts her kid brother on it and tells him to sit still.

LUBBOCK, you have perceived if you read the extra issued this morning by The Avalanche—or if you have read this afternoon's headlines—is becoming a city. As some humorously inclined reporter remarked as we were throwing the extra together, the chamber of commerce might well adopt the slogan: "Lubbock—where pineapples are thrown, not grown!"

* * *

Seriously speaking, however, there is nothing funny about the bombing of the Palace and Lindsey theaters.

There is nothing humorous about the fact that property has been destroyed and—as is always the case when explosives are used—life and limb has been placed in jeopardy.

Neither is there anything to summon a chuckle when one thinks of what the result would have been had the timing devices on those bombs gone awry, and the blasts come when the showhouses were filled with people.

* * *

EVERY citizen in Lubbock, whether friendly or unfriendly toward the movie people, should hope that the perpetrators of this morning's dynamitings be apprehended and speedily punished to the letter of the law. If for no other reason, occurrences like these injure the investment of everyone who owns a nickle's worth of property in the town where they occur.

People don't care much about moving into and investing in a town with an unsavory reputation and while this morning's fiasco will not give Lubbock a hard name by itself, it won't hurt anything if the proposition is run down and an example set.

The poor guy's wife had hauled him up before the judge on a charge of non-support.

"Is it true", himzoner asked, "that you have been married for four years and have never given your wife any money for housekeeping?"

"Yes, that's true," the defendant admitted, "but it's because I'm still paying for the engagement ring!"

* * *

WELL, folks, The Plainsman has just returned from his first fishing trip. He didn't catch any fish but he caught a nice sunburn, got wet as the very dickens and generally disported himself as fishermen are wont to do.

And, on top of that, he's ready to bear witness that when it rains in Stonewall county, it really rains.

No little old drizzle.

No puny breeze.

She blows and she blows and she blows—and the water comes down like it does in an old fashioned Arkansas cloudburst.

* * *

That country down there is in mighty good shape, though. The grass is green and they've had a lot of rain.

Cattle are getting in good shape and the purple haze that is old Double mountain is just as serene as it must have been that day when J. Wright Mooar pushed up through that country on his way to what is now Scurry county.

* * *

WILEY METCALFE used to say (this was years before he arose to the position as chief of police) "when the grass is green and the lakes are full of water anybody can make a living in West Texas."

If that's the case almost anybody can make a living in almost any part of West Texas this year.

Grass is green everywhere—and there's plenty of water.

* * *

Although no authority on the markets, The Plainsman would buy some wheat if he had a little extra money.

The wheat market looks like it's going to pull up.

Russia is buying wheat this year while during the past several years she has been dumping it.

Argentine's crop is short and there are those who say the Panhandle and Canada's crops are likewise going to be short.

Don't take this as personal advice for The Plainsman won't be responsible for what happens.

But wheat just looks like a good buy—if you know what a hunch is.

Handful Of Politicians In United States Territories May Determine The Democratic Presidential Nomination

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 30—A few thousand Americans who can't vote because they do not live in any of the 48 states will nevertheless have a distinct voice in the forthcoming national Democratic convention.

Dutcher

They live in Alaska, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, the Philippines Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone which will send six delegates each, and in the Virgin Islands which will send two.

This makes 38 delegate votes at the Democratic convention, which is as many as the big state of Michigan and more than any other single state except New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas and California. Those delegates might, in a tight contest, easily decide a presidential nomination.

The Republicans stingier with such territories and possessions, allow only two votes each to five of the territories, completely ignoring the Canal Zone and the Virgin Islands.

* * *

All Are Americans

All such delegates are American citizens. You never find a real Filipino delegate from those islands or an actual Puerto Rican from Puerto Rico. Those possessions have their own insular politics and legislatures, but delegates from the Philippines are chosen by Democrats among the 5000 Americans there, not by 13,000,000 Filipinos.

Sometimes delegates to Democratic conventions come right off foreign soil. That's because the local Canal Zone convention accepts American citizens living in the Republic of Panama. If they qualify as Democrats and citizens they become accredited delegates to the Canal Zone Democratic convention and may run for posts as national convention delegates.

Territories on this continent used to have national convention delegates before they became states and the quaint custom of apportioning both delegates and national committee posts to our "foreign colonies" seems to have arisen from the fact that our own politicians who were sent into them to take jobs naturally wished to keep their fingers in the political business at home.

I don't know why Guam and Samoa aren't allowed any delegates, but probably because they haven't enough ex-politicians from the mainland.

* * *

Have Hot Conventions

Those seven non-voting spots under the American flag every four years have their primaries and conventions, many of which are as hotly fought as anything seen in domestic party politics.

Many of our boys and girls who live in them burn with an insatiable desire to come to the big conventions and participate, even though their influence is hardly ever greater than that of their own votes.

Four years ago two contesting Democratic delegations came all the way from the Canal Zone to Houston, each demanding the right to be seated at the convention. The matter had to be fought out on the floor and the delegation which favored Al Smith for the nomination was seated. Such contests naturally stir up general interest, because contesting forces are always anxious to pick up even a mere six votes rather than let them go to the opposition.

* * *

The Committee Angle

The islands and territories are even more important, proportionately, on the national committees. For they have national committeemen and committeewomen and in a contest, such as one to decide on the convention cities, 14 votes, as good as the committee votes of any seven states, are not to be sneezed at.

More often than not the outlying committeemen and committeewomen are represented at national committee meetings by proxies, however, and the proxies are likely to be given to the party's national chairman who then has an influential bloc of votes right in his hand.

* * *

Roosevelt Started Early

Most of the non-state Democratic delegates this year are instructed for Governor Roosevelt or uninstructed and supposed to favor him. If he should get the whole 38 that fact, from a numerical standpoint—an important standpoint in view of the uncertainty—would more than offset his defeat in Massachusetts. The Roosevelt managers went after those 38 votes in the initial stages of their pre-convention campaign.

The District of Columbia has just had a Democratic primary, electing a slate of Roosevelt delegates and alternates—the only one in the field.

There was a fight, however, before the slate was named, so there's a minority of Smith friends and an alleged agreement that they needn't stick to Roosevelt if he isn't nominated on an early ballot.

CARE OF MOTHER

A woman describes in a letter the following circumstances: Although a resident of New York she writes from a small town saying that she is accompanying her husband, whose business takes him to a number of different cities. She asks me for advice by correspondence, saying that she does not want to consult a physician because on account of going from one place to another so rapidly any physician she would consult now would only be able to see her for a day or two. She expects a baby in about four months. She has lost confidence in the medical profession because she consulted a physician about four months ago, and he told her there was nothing the matter with her, and later that her morning nausea was due to eating around in different restaurants and cafeterias.

Dr. Clendening

Now, this woman needs advice all right, but she doesn't need it by correspondence. The object of a health column such as this is not to practice medicine on its readers but to tell them when and why they should seek expert advice. And there is no time in a woman's life when she needs such advice from her own physician more than during the period she is expecting a baby. Furthermore, this care and advice should not begin just before the baby is born, but should be sought as early in the period as possible and continue right through.

Of course, be it said to the credit of my correspondent that she did seek advice early and that she had a somewhat unfortunate experience.

But it is not easy to tell definitely very early whether a pregnancy exists or not, and if a doctor has not made the mistake my correspondent's physician made, he hasn't had much experience. It does not necessarily mean he is not a competent physician. However, no matter whether she returns to him or consults a physician in whom she has more confidence, this woman and all other expectant mothers should be under a physician's care from the earliest possible time of her period of expectancy.

This so-called "Prenatal Care Campaign" is one of the most valuable and beneficial efforts that has been made to reduce the disease and death rate among mothers and newborn children. More than any other single thing—more than going to a hospital for the delivery, or the employment of a nurse, or any other extra safeguard—adequate prenatal care has proved to be the best safeguard for expectant mother and babe.

What is prenatal care? While its importance has been emphasized lately, it is no new thing. Twenty-five years ago its importance was urged in medical colleges. It means a complete health examination of the mother to see that she is in good physical condition. A blood pressure examination and urinalysis at least once a month. A dental examination and treatment of teeth, if necessary. A blood examination to determine whether the baby will be perfectly healthy. Instructions as to diet, dress and exercise are given.

Next: General Care of Expectant Mother.

STILL INCREASING

NEW YORK—Despite business conditions, air passenger traffic continues to increase, The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce reports that passengers carried on air transport lines during the first quarter of 1932 totaled 86,763, which is an increase of 31 per cent over the 66,399 passengers carried during the corresponding period of 1931.

Hail to a Horse!

NEW YORK, May 30.—As Broadway's most experienced and oldest animal trouper, Hannah is oddly ingenuous and untemperamental. She will still accept mere cubes or greens from a gutter adjoining a stage entrance. Yet, as horses go, Hannah has every right to put on the dog.

Hannah's particular distinction lies in the fact that she has never been a performing or trick horse—she has been an acting horse! And for 18 years she has been going around the circuits. Whenever a show company has wanted a nag in that period of time, the phone request would usually be "What's Hannah doing?" Hannah has been dependable, never has missed a cue, never demanded special billing and didn't care much whether or not her name was on the program.

* * *

And she has appeared with most of the great stars of the theater. Insofar as her biography has been assembled, she seems to have first bowed in as Paul Revere's horse in an old stage spectacle. Others say her premiere was in "Ben Hur." At any rate, admirers insist that she was the first stage horse of any consequence.

* * *

It was Vincent Lopez who had Hannah on tour most recently. Lopez was appearing in Chicago. And there it was that Hannah had her most embarrassing moment. Harry Keller, booking for Lopez, had tied Hannah to a fireplug in front of the theater while waiting her entrance time. When the stage hand went outside to get her, Hannah was wearing a tag. There was a summons for parking a horse.

Keller, realizing what arrest might do to Hannah's career, immediately checked the Chicago regulations and came upon a venerable hitching post ordinance. A horse was entitled to be hitched to a hitching post. And where, demanded Keller, could a hitching post be found?

There was no answer. And seemingly, in all Chicago there was no hitching post. Then, argued Keller, since Hannah was entitled by law to a post and there was no post, she had done the best she could.

So Hannah returns to New York with reputation unblemished.

Street Scene

Instead of being one of the usual little German band groups that now wander the New York side streets by night or by day, this musician played alone. And so excellent he was that heads bobbed out of windows and people stopped in the streets.

I, too, stopped and watched the flourish of his muted trumpet, the maestroesque posturing of his head.

"Why do you play alone?" I began. But I didn't need finish the question. In the buttonhole of his shabby coat was the emblem of the Conservatoire.

William Paley, young chieftain of WABC, figures now in romance of the heart, having written his page in business romance. Just the other day, you will recall, he married the former Mrs. John Hearst following her Reno divorce.

Recently they were spinning tales around the broadcast office and someone recalled that Paley was "showing the big boys his stuff" at the age of 18. Son of a bur cigar manufacturer, Paley had been away at school. When he came home for a vacation it was to find that the cigar girls, who sat on the high stools turning out stogies, had gone on strike. The situation at the factory was acute.

A few days later, they might have been noticed marching back, two of the leaders arm-in-arming it with the 18-year-old college lad.

"How ever did you do it?" he was asked.

"Easy—I just took 'em out to lunch!"

No wonder his father made him a business partner a few years later!

PRISON INMATES ARE FREED BY STERLING PROCLAMATION

AUSTIN, May 28 (AP)—Governor R. S. Sterling issued 28 paroles to inmates of the Texas State penitentiary through proclamations filed with the secretary of state.

Among those to be released was M. C. Rooke, 62 years old, convicted in Aransas county for murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. He had served nine years. Dr. W. B. "It would be a humane and merciful thing to grant him his freedom at this time," Dr. Veazey said.

LEADERS PUSH MEET PLANS

WET AND DRY GROUPS OUTLINE CAMPAIGNS FOR CONVENTIONS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 30—Under pressure of shortening time, political leaders, prohibition and anti-prohibition militants, have put on a new spurt of activity in preparation for the national conventions.

The Republicans, with just two weeks remaining before their meet opens, are canvassing forces in the light of a possibility that a score or more regular leaders will be still tied up in congress.

Drys To Meet

During this week, the 39 groups composing the national conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth amendment will hold a board meeting in Washington to complete their strategy for the campaigns and make final plans for resisting wet planks in the platforms of either party.

Meanwhile, the woman's national committee for law enforcement has announced a national convention of women in Chicago June 13, the day before the Republican convention, to prepare a demand that both parties refrain from proposing any change in the prohibition laws.

Simultaneously, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, in an open letter to all Republican convention delegates, demanded a clearcut wet plank, threatening defeat at the elections as the alternative and announcing a "surmise that the Democratic platform will condemn national prohibition in no uncertain terms."

ATWELL TO TALK AT BAR DINNER

The annual dinner of the Lubbock County Bar association will be at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Hilton hotel. William H. Atwell, judge of the northern Texas United States district court, of Dallas will be the principal speaker. The program will serve to dedicate the new federal building, in which Judge Atwell opened court this morning. Wives also will attend the dinner.

E. L. Klett, president of the bar association, will be toastmaster. C. C. Crenshaw is chairman of the committee planning the program.

Twenty-five or 30 out-of-town attorneys here for opening of federal court are expected to attend, Mr. Crenshaw said. Slaton lawyers and those of other South Plains towns are also expected, in addition to Dallas, Fort Worth, and downstate attorneys.

MACDONALD URGES TRADE CONCLAVE

LONDON, May 30 (AP)—Conversion of the coming Lausanne conference on war debts and reparations into a conference on world trade was sponsored today by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in an interview in the London Daily Mail.

The prime minister is at Lossiemouth, Scotland, recuperating from a recent second operation on his eyes.

"The problem to be faced," he was quoted as saying, "is not merely the recovery of one nation, but the restarting of world commerce. I should like to see the Lausanne conference boldly tackle this much bitter problem in all its important aspects, as well as dealing with the war debts and reparations. It is an international problem and no nation can settle it for itself."

Arnold hit the wall in almost exactly the same spot that wrecked him a year ago after he had led the race for 405 miles and seemed certain of victory. That crash placed him in a hospital for six months. Before today's crackup, Arnold had won $2,800 in lap prizes.

Lou Moore of Indianapolis was forced out of the race after completing 200 miles because of a broken timing gear. He was in second place at the time.

The Tinies gazed upon the door to Tin Can Town and then, once more, the bushel basket shouted, "Walk right through the barrel, boys!

"You'll see some sights to please you all and you'll be glad you made this call. Don't be surprised if you are greeted with a lot of noise.

You see, tin cans live in this place. They're glad to see a smiling face, for often they get lonesome. You'll be welcome as can be.

"The tin cans I have brought along know this is where they all belong. From now on they'll do no work, but just live happily."

* * *

"Oh, tell us more about this place, so we will know what we're to face," said Duncy. "Why are tin cans here? What do they do all day?

"And, also, where do they come from? Perhaps you think that I am dumb, but I must know the full details, or I'll be on my way."

The basket thought and said, "Well, as long as you insist I tell, I'll just explain that every can comes to this place, at last.

"When its contents are taken out, it's thrown away and then, no doubt, it's mighty glad to reach here, where its final days are passed.

* * *

"Each can does what it's s'posed to do and then its working days are through. In this town no one bothers it, or puts it on a shelf.

"No more will it be shipped around, and thus a peaceful life is found. The more I think of it, the more I'd like this life myself."

And then the Tinies walked inside and very shortly Duncy cried, "Oh, look! Here comes a strange tin can. Upon its head's a crown."

The tin can shouted, with good cheer, "Well, Well! You lads are welcome here! I once was just a sardine can. I'm king, now, of this town."

POLICE WORKING ON DEFINITE LEAD IN BOMBING OF TWO LOCAL THEATERS

tions had threatened a bomb attack. Lindsey said he thought the man was bluffing. Guards placed at the theaters in the last month to fend off danger of resorts to violence, subsequently were dismissed. Employes continued to make inspections at closing time.

Police and persons having union affiliations in the last several weeks had shadowed several men here as suspects in connection with the threats, it was learned this morning.

A deputy sheriff reported seeing a woman carrying a suitcase so heavy she could barely get along with it. Other scattered reports led officers to believe a connection possibly existed between the explosions and an automobile a man wanted for short changing had been seen driving. A woman companion was arrested for a short-change attempt Saturday.

Amarillo, as well as San Antonio, entered the investigation as possibly the headquarters of the persons responsible for the blasts. Police earlier had expressed an opinion that they were the work of criminal specialists from outside Lubbock. Several ragged spirals of fire or powder-darkened metal and a latch-catch, evidently off either a suitcase or a mechanic's handbox, were found early in the investigatory tour by flashlight.

Firemen pointed out that some of the metal fragments found in the ruins might be from nitroglycerin cylinders. Several pieces appeared to be from a dry storage battery.

Robbery Not Motive

Early in the first tour of the wrecked structures this morning, Police Chief Metcalfe confirmed what had been the theory in the beginning that robbery had not been the motive.

The first explosion, which awoke sleeping residents within a radius of three to seven blocks, centered at the rear of the second floor of the Palace theater building, the bomb evidently having been planted in a washroom. A lavatory was wrenched from the wall, a perpendicular water pipe was broken, walls were torn and turned awry, a hole was ripped in the wooden floor, and offices extending from the washroom southward, on the west side, were wrecked. Another small room, in the northwest corner and next to the washroom, also was damaged badly.

Twisted Wreckage Visible

In a sub-basement, back of the Lindsey stage and barely extending under it, was the vortex of the other infernal machine's work. Joists of stage supports, supported at intervals by mortar walls, were twisted, and mortar and plaster was strewn about. An iron grill, over a subterranean window opening in the alley back of the theater, was lifted off. It weighs several hundred pounds. In the pit in front of the stage, wiring was exposed. A half-formed theory that exterior wires somehow had been utilized in setting off the bomb, however, soon was discarded.

Several shops on the west side of the ground floor of the Palace theater building were wrecked, and windows were blown out or cracked across the alleyway, across Avenue J from both bombed structures, and with unaccountable irregularity between a dozen or more second floor windows in the vicinity were broken.

Strange Men Seen

O. E. Griffin, night manager at Wylie-Jarret Drug store, said that about 20 minutes before the first blast four strange men were in the drug store. He described two of the men as being of large stature and two of them as clad in leather jackets. One was said to have been wearing a straw hat. Police this morning were searching for the quartet. Griffin also said that immediately after the blast he noticed an automobile drive by the drug store with men and women inside. The last car, however, was discounted as having any possible connection with the case.

Alarm at the fire department was sounded by Douglas Johnson, employe at Dee's cafe. At direction of W. F. Tarpley, night patrolman, Johnson called the department shortly before the second blast.

No Fire Appears

Three pieces of fire-fighting equipment answered an alarm soon after 3 o'clock, a chemical, a hose, and a hose-and-pump truck answering. No fire appeared, however, and firemen aided in the investigation.

Groundfloor shops and offices wrecked in the Palace theater building were those of South Plains Office Supply company, 1011 Avenue J; New Way School of Flying and Leach Radio shop, 1013, and Shelton Shoe hospital, 1015. The Palace Barber shop appeared not to be damaged.

Plate Windows Broken

Plate and other glass was broken in windows of Ragland Motor company, 1007 Avenue J; Wood Printing company, 1012 Avenue J; DeLuxe Barber shop, 1101 Avenue J; Pandora Art Shop, 1110-A Avenue J; Lubbock Shoe shop, 1110 Avenue J; J. C. Penney company, Avenue J and Broadway, and in the back of the William G. Russell building, vacant, 1011 Main street.

Both the Palace and Lindsey theater buildings are owned by the Lindsey estate. Both buildings are protected by insurance, Mr. Akers said.

Bill Mabray and Don Reeder, police patrolmen, were rounding the corner at the Penney store, a block and a half from the back of the Palace building, when the first explosion occurred. They felt the force of the terrific blast from that distance, Mabray said.

Others Are Connected

Both Lindsey and Akers connected the bombing with other similiar attacks on the theaters laid to labor disputes.

In 1930, the theater management made a change in operators, substituting non-union men for union.

Soon afterwards, a series of stench and sulphur bombs were exploded in the theater and on one occasion on the porches of three homes here, those of Ralph Lindsey, 1611 Avenue Q, brother of C. C. Lindsey, manager; Mrs. J. D. Lindsey, mother of Mr. Lindsey and Mr. Lindsey, 2017 Main.

The first flare was set off in the Lindsey theater on the night of September 29, 1930, during the showing of a picture. A similar flare was also set off in the Palace the same day. Other stench vials and sulphur bombs were reported on several occasions later.

Police and members of the sheriff's department investigated the cases thoroughly but reported no clues.

A reward of $1,000 was offered by the theater management following settin off of the flares and stench vials and the offer was kept open all during 1931.

Reward Still Open

A reward for the arrest and conviction of persons who set off the blasts was still open today, Mr. Lindsey said, although he did not indicate the amount.

Three sticks of high explosives, identified as those a boy said he had found on the roof of the Lindsey theater, November 11, Armistice day, subsequently were taken to Yellowhouse canyon, bedded in mud, and set off. Fire Chief Twitty said soon after the sticks were discovered.

The fire chief, who exploded the sticks with the assistance of an unidentified man, estimated they contained 75 per cent nitroglycerin. After being questioned nearly three days by reporters, John Lemond, then chief of police, flatly told the newsmen that he would give no information on the case, which admittedly had been investigated by police.

A hotel resident reported that at about 11 o'clock Armistice night he had seen two men with flashlights on the roof of the Palace theater building, across the street from the Lindsey. They appeared to be shielding the lights with their palms, he said. No connection between those two men and attempts at violence was established.

J. Lucas, then assistant manager of Lindsey theaters, denied that explosives were found on the theater roof. He said the articles found were railway flares burned on top of the building Hallowe'en night. Akers succeeded Lucas with additional executive authority.

"Only Natural"

"It's only natural that we should expect such things as other sections of the country have been experiencing the same thing," Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, said in commenting upon the case. "If we are doomed for such, now is the time to stop it," he continued. "In trial of all criminal cases, which smacked of racketeering Mr. Bradley and myself have tried at all times to impress upon jurors the importance of convictions and heavy penalties. This case is proof enough that we have racketeers to deal with.

"We can assure all concerned that as long as this office can do anything in investigation of the ase, it shall be done," Mr. Burks added.

Goebel Recovering After Plane Crash

McKINNEY, May 30 (AP)—Col. Art Goebel, who won the Dole flight to Hawaii, was recovering today from injuries suffered Saturday when his plane crashed into a tree after he took off from the municipal airport here. His mechanic, R. L. Riss of Dallas, was killed.

Because of his conditon, Goebel was not informed of Riss' death until yesterday. "I wish it had been me instead of him," the noted aviator said. 'Riss was the best mechanic who ever worked on an airplane."

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, May 30 (AP) — The cotton market had a quiet opening today. Wth New York closed and all leading markets in the country suspended for the Memorial holiday, the disposition to trade here was negligible. As Liverpool came in lower than due, first trades here showed losses of 4 points. After the opening, the market rallied slightly on covering, July trading at 5.53, October at 5.74 and December at 5.87, or 3 to 4 points from the opening prices and unchanged to one point down compared with Saturday's close. Near the end of the first hour the market was steady and near the highs.

Although the market ruled quiet all morning, owing to the absence of the weather map and advices from other markets, there was nevertheless some trade buying and some buying back of hedges. July traded up to 5.58 and October to 5.79, or 6 to 9 points above the opening lows and 4 to 5 points above Saturday's close.

Near mid-session the market was quiet but steady and at or near the highs.

ASPHALT LAID ON AVENUE H

NEW MEXICO ROCK IS BEING USED AS A DEMONSTRATION

The first Santa Rosa, N. M., rock asphalt on the South Plains has been laid on Avenue H from the end of the state paving on highway 9 south for a distance of 558 feet by the New Mexico Construction company of Amarillo.

"It is a demonstration section, an inch and a half thick," W. J. Kelley, who supervised the laying, said. "We want to show the people of the South Plains what a real New Mexico rock asphalt is like.

"This is the second demonstration section in West Texas, the other being at Canyon, also near an underpass. In Santa Rosa there is about 20,000 square yards of rock asphalt, with six or seven other towns where the work has been done to some extent."

The rock asphalt is located on the famous Jones ranch, owned by Amarillo residents. It is said to be one of the few natural rock asphalt deposits in the southwest.

Two other sections of demonstration paving are to be laid also on the street. One is by the Uvalde Rock Asphalt company of Uvalde, Texas, about as long as the New Mexico type and the third is the Oklahoma Rock Asphalt company of Ardmore, Okla. This latter is about half the length of the other two.

Width of the paving is 20 feet. The city is doing the work to connect the state highway with the present city paving at the Avenue H underpass.

SIX MEET DEATH IN STRIKE RIOTS

MADRID, May 30 (AP)—Six persons, including two women, were dead and about a score injured today as a result of gun battles between syndicalist strikers and government troops yesterday in Spain.

The two women were shot and killed at Valencia while they were watching as police battled with a crowd which attempted to enter the silk exchange to hold a meeting.

A bystander was killed here when police charged a crowd attempting to raise a red flag in a plaza. Two fatalities occurred in other fights here and a demonstrator was killed at Bunol in a gun battle.

LOS ANGELES, May 30 (AP)—Two elderly, spinster sisters were in a critical condition in a Los Angeles hospital today, victims of an axe wielded by their brother, who, impoverished and facing blindness, did not want to leave them "to the care of charity."

The brother, George Ross Mohr, 59, once a well-to-do bond broker, ended his life with a pistol after the attack on his sisters, Essie, 72, and Phoebe, 76. The skulls of both women were fractured.

Recently a physician told Mohr he would lose his sight within six months.

There May Be a Lesson For You in This Cartoon

—Reproduced by special permission from Good Hardware

Dear Sir:

Some business men pride themselves on their ability to economize. They make a cut here and a slash there. In some cases the business is actually starved.

When the human body lacks a supply of water or food, the nerves register a complaint. But when a going business does not have such a nervous system and when a business is starved, sometimes the warning comes too late.

An eminent business authority says that genuine executive ability is shown more clearly by wise spending rather than by false economies. Anyone, he says, can make a decision not to spend. But it requires courage and outstanding judgment to spend—that is, to invest.

How did John H. Patterson beat the panic in 1893? He did not sit back and clamp down on expenses—not Patterson. He improved his selling methods and beat all previous records when business was supposed to be at a standstill.

Too many merchants still look upon newspaper advertising as a luxury to be indulged in when times are good.

Why not use advertising to CREATE business instead of using it as a barometer to REFLECT business? Use LESS advertising in flush time and MOST advertising in hard times.

"Attention" can be bought today for less than at any time in the past five years. Take advantage of this condition. Advertise now.

Increase your sales. Increase your profits. The arguments in favor of strong, enthusiastic, adequate advertising NOW seem unanswerable.

Very sincerely yours,

CROP DELAYED BY WEATHER

PLANTING ACTIVITIES ON SOUTH PLAINS IS GREATLY HINDERED

Cool weather, especially at nights, is delaying the planting of cotton on the South Plains, according to reports. Threat of rain the last several days has not given farmers any hopes of rapid growth for several weeks.

It is estimated approximately 80 per cent of the crop in the area has been planted. There has been some replanting, notably where extreme wet weather and high wind damage has injured the first planting.

Insects Appear

Insects have appeared in several counties, notably Dickens, Hockley and Yoakum where grasshoppers have been reported; Crosby where black bugs were reported; Lynn where cutworms and fleas were reported, and Scurry where there were fleas.

Damage by sand storms or high wind was reported from Briscoe, Gaines and Motley, and hail in Cochran, Hale and Lamb. In Lamb a heavy rain damage also was reported.

Replanting is heviest in Terry where 25 per cent was reported and Lubbock where a 20 per cent replant was had.

Growth is good in Swisher, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock and Scurry counties; average in Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Crosby, Lynn, Garza, Gaines and Dawson; slow in Briscoe, Bailey, Yoakum, Dickens, Terry and Borden.

Percentage of crop planted in the counties is estimated as follows: Bailey, 80; Borden, 85; Briscoe, 85; Cochran, 75; Crosby, 80; Dickens, 90; Dawson, 75; Floyd, 85; Garza, 65; Hale, 85; Hockley, 80; Lamb, 80; Lubbock, 85; Lynn, 75; Motley, 85; Scurry, 80; Swisher, 85; Terry, 75; and Yoakum 50.

TRUETT WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO HORN

When Dr. George W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist church of Dallas, delivers the annual baccalaureate sermon for the 1932 graduating class of Texas Technological college, it will be as much a tribute to the memory of a friend of 35 years standing as it will be a sermon.

For that length of time Dr. Truett and the late Dr. Paul Whitfield Horn, first president of Texas Technological college, were friends, each admiring the sterling qualities of the other and going out of his way to accommodate the other on the basis of a simple friendship.

Invited Here Before

"Dr. Horn on a number of occasions in years past has invited me to deliver the baccalaureate sermon at Lubbock, but I was unable, because of pressing engagements, to arrange my schedule to permit it," Dr. Truett told Dean James M. Gordon the other day. The two men met on a train and in the talk about the commencement plans, the minister spoke of the invitation this year.

"The spirit of West Texas appeals to me. The spirit of the school is the spirit of West Texas. I believe that Texas Technological college is destined to be one of the greatest schools of its kind in the country. It has the spirit to do big things."

Dr. Truett has been for 35 years pastor of the Dallas church. He is one of the outstanding leaders in his denomination and has been honored by both state and national Baptist associations for his great work.

According to close friends of the minister, he averages an address a day and has done so for 35 years or more. He turns down four times as many invitations to speak as he accepts, it is said.

More than 622,000 seedling trees were planted by 225 forest landowners between Pensacola and Miami, Fla., this spring.

"Riding Rods"

Arrested as a vagrant in Cleveland, 19-year-old Florence Stone told police she had "ridden the rods" from Buffalo, N. Y., where she had lost her job, and was headed for Chicago to visit her brother. The girl was attired in man's clothing. Her traveling companion was Stanley Pomaka, 19, who had escorted her under freight trains and helped her find comfortable spots on the rods, she said.

MYSTERY PLANE

PARIS—Another "mystery" plane has been completed in France by Frank Bolger, American aviator. It is called the "mono-dirigible," and its construction is said to combine features of the monoplane and dirigible. Propellers are mounted fore and aft the all-metal body. It is to be shipped to the United States for a tour.

NEW CANADA LINE

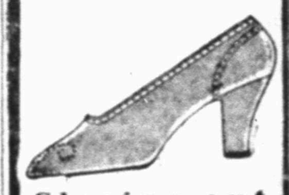

TORONTO—A new passenger and freight air line has opened between this city and New York. The line is controlled by a Canadian company and makes use of both amphibian and land planes. Planes leave each city twice daily, and the trip requires from three and a half to four hours. One stop will be made at Rochester, N. Y.

WOMAN ASSERTS THAT SHE LOVES THE DEPRESSION

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30 (AP)—"I love the depression," wrote a woman guest at a hotel here last week, and she penciled a string of crisp paragraphs to tell why.

Apparently inspired by the widely reproduced article from the pen of Henry Ansley, of the Amarillo, Texas, Globe-News entitled "I Like The Depression" the hotel visitor wrote in part:

"I love the depression. I'm getting a lot of consolation out of it. My husband is working harder than ever before and, he does not have so much time to get into mischief or brood over his losses. We are so darned busy trying to save nickles that we are both very happy.

"I love the depression. We have learned to eat corn pone, sow belly, spinach and drink buttermilk, which is honest-to-goodness food, and the kind we were raised on.

"I love the depression. We are really enjoying our old clothes. I am learning to darn socks.

"I love the depression. I am learning to be a dandy washerwoman. My neighbors are getting the habit too.

"We love the depression. My husband is making more friends every day with the big business men (that used to be). He is tickled to death to have his job; his boss can cut his salary, but my husband takes it all with a smile."

TO WRITE EDITORIALS

LAMESA, (Special)—Rev. William H. "Bill" Wallace, pastor of the First Methodist church here, has been asked by the National Newspaper Enterprise, Inc., with southwestern headquarters at Dallas, to write a series of six editorials on the general theme "Relation of the Church to the Nation's Crisis." He has written editorials for the same syndicate before.
