Trustees OK merit pay, then discontinue program

By Bill McClellan
Managing Editor

Western Texas College trustees approved merit awards for classified/clerical personnel Monday, but in the same motion voted to discontinue the program in the future.

Trustees were somewhat reluctant to take up extending merit bonuses to classified/clerical staff because they had addressed the subject when setting the budget last October. Faculty and administrators were extended merit pay, but classified/clerical staff were not.

The topic came up again in November when funds became available. The board did not meet in December.

"I have a little problem coming back over this once we've gone over the budget process," said trustee Lee Presswood. "Timing is what I'm talking about, not the money.

"I'm like Lee," said trustee Jay Kidd. "I don't think we ought to rehash everything just because we come up with some money. But this may be an exception."

Trustees did make it an exception, and voted to extend merit bonuses to 44 classified/clerical staff members at a cost of $14,600. Any pre-approved museum employees will also be included.

Before approving the measure, however, trustees also made it clear they want the merit program — as it currently exists — to end.

To receive a merit raise or bonus, employees must meet certain criteria, such as length of service, and be recommended by their immediate supervisor. That process usually takes place in May.

The program is flawed, trustees and administrators said, because in too many instances recommendations for merit pay are simply automatic. There is little or no incentive to "earn" merit pay.

"We've already informed staff that the merit system will be suspended," said Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president. "In theory, it is a wonderful concept. In reality..."

"But human nature comes in," said board president Carl Williams. "Good teachers never get paid what they are worth as long as you pay them all the same."

Bill Wilson Jr. made the motion to approve merit bonuses, "But also that we discontinue the program. That doesn't mean that someone can't come up with something that works. If someone comes up with a good program, we can look at it," he said.

The vote was unanimous.

In other action, the board accepted the retirement of Ray Robbins, longtime professor of criminal justice, effective in May, and the limita-

City receives DCOS report, tables two items for present

By Wade Warren
Staff Writer

Snyder City Council members on Monday tabled two items of new business until their February meeting but received the Development Corporation's annual report and heard a brief report on construction plans for the planned water treatment plant.

Among the items tabled was a request from Southern Electric to close a section of 9th Street to allow for expansion of the business.

Southern Electric plans to add lumber and building materials to its inventory. The expansion would be located just south of the main building. John Reed, president of Southern Electric, had requested that the council consider closing the 1800 block of 9th Street in the interest of safety.

Mayor David Holt requested that the matter be tabled until the appropriate utility companies are contacted.

Also tabled was consideration of a proposal from the engineering firm of Freese and Nichols for several utility improvements in the city.

Leonard Ripley, representing the engineering firm, told the council that the costs of the projects need to be broken down between the city and the DCOS and requested the item be tabled.

Among the projects the firm is proposing to provide design services for are improvements to the water system at the present Highway 84 booster pump station, the waste water system at the 37th Street lift station and a waterline from the newly planned water treatment plant to 37th Street.

Ripley told council members that plans for the relocation of waterlines on 30th Street were complete and bids are expected to be let on the project Jan. 18.

He also said that final plans for the water treatment plant have been submitted to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission and approval could be expected within a couple of weeks.

Doug Hutchinson, DCOS executive director, presented the council with copies of the DCOS annual report.

Hutchinson said the report was a narrative overview of the DCOS in 1995 and would be an "excellent recruiting tool" for new businesses.

"This report not only tells why we recruited businesses but also how we recruited them," said Hutchinson.

Councilman Ron Shaw asked Hutchinson when Lorber Indus-

District court to seat jury for upcoming murder trial

Jury selection will begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday in 132nd District Court for a man about to go on trial for murder.

Thirty-seven-year-old Grayling Thomas Gradney is charged with the Aug. 25 shooting death of Carolyn Carr at a mobile home the two shared at 1004 33rd St.

Carr, 43, died as a result of a shotgun wound to the head. A sheriff's office log indicates that Gradney made the 9-1-1 call alerting emergency medical personnel to the residence. Police said a shotgun was found at the scene.

Some 100 potential jurors have been notified to report Wednesday. The trial is not scheduled to begin until Monday.

Gradney is being defended by Randy Wilson of Abilene. District Attorney Ricky Smith of Dawson County will prosecute the case. Dana Cooley, DA for the 132nd District, has removed herself from the case because her law firm, Cooley and Hartman, was representing Gradney in another matter at the time of Carr's death.

EDUCATOR VISITS SCHOOLS — Dale Bulla, a children's book author and professional storyteller from Carrollton, was pictured Monday with Stanfield second graders as he worked with them on storytelling and creative writing. He will continue sessions in Snyder schools through Wednesday. The public is invited to hear him speak at 7 this evening in the East Elementary auditorium. Refreshments will be provided. THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Boasting is one of the forerunners of failure."

Cleaning up our desk after the holidays, we came across some notes about two contrasting conversations we overheard just before Christmas.

We were sitting on a bench, having just listened to a choir and orchestra perform. About that time a woman, about 35, sat down on the same bench and started to enjoy the music and hot apple cider. A few minutes later, what appeared to be her Yuppie husband joined her.

The husband was obviously already stressed out by the holiday crowd. He told his wife he read where the average family spends $500 on gifts at Christmas.

"Shoot," she said, "I spent that much on your grumpy mother."

"Yeah, but you gotta remember," he said, "the average family only makes $30,000. You probably spent $200,000 on the kids."

Then the conversation turned to his job. "You know, I'm just frustrated," as he started talking about his boss. "You know, Charlie just isn't interested in trying anything new. I spent $2,000 of my own money going to China to try and make something happen."

"Charlie's just burned out," his wife said. "You have to be more understanding."

The hubby continued, "Charlie claims business is bad. How does he expect me to be highly-motivated on just $600,000 a year."

Just as we were getting to really enjoy the verbal entertainment, the two finished their cider and disappeared into the mass of people.

We tried to imagine what their household would be like on Christmas morning.

Almost immediately, a large gentleman, about 70, soon filled the seat occupied by the Yuppie couple. About that time a woman asked, "Pardon me, sir, but what size shirt do you wear?"

He continued, "And I get mine at Wal-Mart and Kmart...they have the best prices and real good quality."

We couldn't have overheard two more constrasting conversations. But we are pretty confident of one thing — the guy with the big neck was the most happy on Christmas morning.

United Way needs less than $10,000

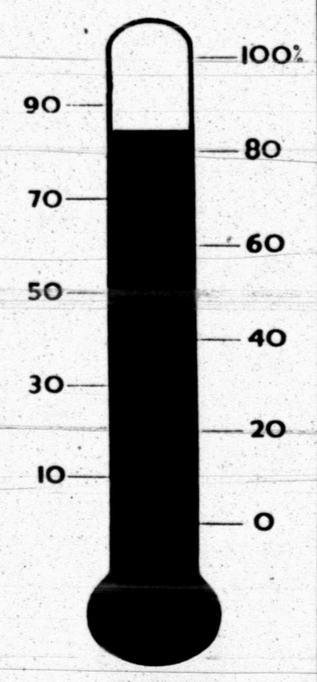

Scurry County United Way needs less than $10,000 to meet the 1995-96 goal, campaign organizers announced this morning.

"We're excited that we are that far along," said Peggy Vernon. "We're going to continue picking up packets through Jan. 31 to finish out the campaign."

Zola Schlegel, executive secretary, said donations have reached $63,144.92, or 85.5 percent of the goal of $73,000.

Scurry County United Way funds help provide operating expenses for the Boys and Girls Club, Snyder Child Day Care, Noah Project, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Oil Patch Foster Parents, the Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse and the American Red Cross.

Donations to Scurry County United Way may be made in person at Anderson & West, 4208 College Ave., or by mail to P.O. Box 1411 in Snyder.

Snyder Neighbors Sharing has volunteers, needs funds

Snyder Neighbors Sharing is making preparations to repair several more homes on its workday, scheduled for April 27.

The homes belong to elderly or handicapped members of the community who lack the financial means or physical ability to perform the basic repairs necessary to keep themselves warm and dry.

"Thanks to the generous suport from our community, more than 120 homes have been repaired since starting in 1988," said Thomas Fogleman, SHS board president.

Materials are all purchased locally and the labor is provided by Scurry County citizens who volunteer their time and talents.

"The success of this project is a wonderful example of what the citizens of Snyder can accomplish when we all pull together," said Fogleman.

"We hope we can count on the citizens for their continued support to keep our work going and growing. The amount of work that we are able to do has sometimes been limited by the amount of funds we have available. But our service clubs, churches and citizens have turned out in record numbers to work."

The number of people who can be helped depends on the amount of funds available. All contributions are tax deductible. Contributions can be mailed to Snyder Neighbors Sharing, P.O. Box 541 in Snyder.

Hearing set this evening on 30th Street

A formal hearing on the proposed widening of 30th Street will be conducted by the Texas Department of Transportation at 7 this evening in the junior high auditorium.

The purpose of the meeting is to make the public aware of an environmental impact study.

The project has already received environmental clearance. Bids are expected to be let on the project in April.

WTC begins gearing up for next term

All faculty and staff return Wednesday as Western Texas College begins the spring semester with in-service scheduled to start at 9 a.m.

Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president, will open the session followed by a presentation by the Institutional Focus Committee. On Wednesday afternoon, chairmen will conduct divisional meetings.

On Thursday, the staff will work on preliminary preparations for the accreditation visit by the Southern Association. On Friday, faculty will be in their offices and admission hearings will be held.

Registration for the spring semester begins Monday afternoon and will continue on Tuesday. Night registration will be held Monday evening only. A spring class schedule is printed inside today's edition. All classes begin Jan. 17.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jurors who convicted a homeless man of stalking and terrorizing Madonna didn't buy defense arguments that the pop star overdramatized her fears on the witness stand.

"I would be afraid if he were wandering around my home, breaking into it," said Penny Parker, one of the four women on the panel. "He's a sick man."

It took jurors 4½ hours Monday to find Robert Dewey Hoskins, 38, guilty on all five counts of stalking, assault and making terroristic threats.

"As far as the women jurors were concerned, there was no doubt," Parker said. "The men took a little convincing on what would scare a person."

Prosecutors had contended that Hoskins twice scaled the walls of Madonna's 25,000-square-foot estate Hollywood Hills last April and May and told her assistants he would either marry her or slash her throat from ear to ear. A bodyguard shot and wounded Hoskins the second time he scaled the wall.

In a statement read to reporters by her attorney, Nicholas DeWitt, the singer said she was "relieved" by the conviction.

"I hope the outcome of this helps stalking victims know that the system can and does work," Madonna said.

Hoskins, who shuffled into court in slacks and a white shirt, showed no reaction as the verdicts were read.

Prosecutor Rhonda Saunders said she would press for Hoskins to receive the maximum penalty — 11 years in prison — when he is sentenced Feb. 8.

Deputy Public Defender John Myers, who had accused Madonna of exaggerating her fear of Hoskins, even calling her a "prima donna" in his closing arguments, said he and Hoskins were prepared for the guilty verdict.

"My client got his day in court," Myers said. "Obviously, the jury felt there was enough evidence."

Madonna at first refused to testify. She was threatened with a $5 million arrest warrant if she didn't come to court and, eventually, she came forward last week to tell of her fears.

She told the jury last week that she felt "sick to my stomach" about being in court with Hoskins and that her presence was only feeding his obsession with her.

Is coffee worth the pain?

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you please give me some advice on whether or not I can have one cup of coffee a day? My gynecologist doesn't want me to have any. I'm 51 and on Progesterone and Premarin. I do have fibrocystic breasts, but no history of breast cancer in the family. I maintain a healthy life, but I really want that cup of coffee.

DEAR READER: Some people are extremely sensitive to the effects of caffeine, a stimulant found in coffee and many teas and colas. The drug can cause irritability, nervousness, insomnia, rapid pulse and other symptoms. It can also worsen breast cysts.

One of the most common female complaints is soreness and tenderness due to fibrocystic breast disease, a poorly understood disorder marked by discomfort and breast swelling. The condition, which appears to run in cycles, may be aggravated by caffeine. Therefore, most gynecologists advise such women to shun caffeine-containing beverages, substituting instead decaf coffee or other suitable beverages.

Since fibrocystic breast disease is not a hazard to health, you have options.

On the one hand, you can follow your doctor's advice and see if you feel better.

On the other, you can enjoy your morning coffee and put up with the breast discomfort. The choice is yours.

Remember, too, that supplemental female hormones can cause sore breasts, because the drugs stimulate mammary tissue. Thus, if you choose option No. 1 and don't improve, you may have to consider a reduction in dose — or, perhaps, you might even choose to stop taking the hormones altogether.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Breast Cancer and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please discuss what a chalazion is, the causes, treatment, and what preventive measures can be undertaken?

DEAR READER: This common inflammation of a gland in the eyelid resembles the well-known sty. Initially, it is a painful, red bump that causes lid swelling. The lesion slowly changes, leaving a painless, gradually enlarging, round mass in the lid.

After a few months, the chalazion usually disappears, especially if the patient applies hot compresses four times a day. However, large chalazia may require surgical excision.

The cause of this annoying affliction is unknown, and I am not aware of any preventive measures. Perhaps your ophthalmologist can offer more definitive advice.

Single Mom Who Counts Her Blessings Comes Out on Top

by Abigail Van Buren

1995 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: In response to the single mother who is tired of "just getting by":

I can certainly empathize with her. I am 46 and have an 8-year-old child, and I live from paycheck to paycheck because I don't receive child support either. When I get depressed, I play the "count your blessings" game, and it changes my perspective.

That single mother who is just getting by is able to provide a comfortable roof over her daughter's head, good food and nice clothes. She wants to provide "better things" in life, and she's angry because she can't afford dance lessons for her daughter. She should realize that there are at least a million mothers on our planet who would gladly trade places with her.

I would encourage her to be creative — teach the daughter herself. She can turn on the radio and have some of that fun she thinks only money can buy. Where there's a will, there's a way.

FRANCINE YACOUB IN DALLAS

DEAR FRANCINE: You and many others pointed out that with a little creativity and help from others, this single mother can provide quality entertainment for her daughter. Many readers suggested she consider church activities, scholarships from the YWCA, picnics in the park, and visits to the public library to check out books and videos.

Among the other excellent suggestions: Share housing with another single mother or senior citizen, barter for some of the things she needs (perhaps she could clean house for the dance teacher), trade baby sitting with another mother, or baby-sit to earn extra money.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: A few days before Christmas, my family received a Christmas card from an aunt. Enclosed in the same envelope were two birthday cards: one for my brother and one for me. We both have December birthdays. Mine is Dec. 23 and his is on the 28th.

My mother thought this was incredibly rude and refuses to send this aunt a card next year. She thinks it was cheap, and people should have the decency to send each card in a separate envelope.

I, on the other hand, say it would have been wasteful to send two cards in separate envelopes. That's just two more postage stamps and envelopes arriving on the same day. I wouldn't mind if I didn't get my own envelope. (My brother said he wouldn't either.)

Abby, if you say it isn't proper etiquette, my aunt will no longer receive Christmas cards from us.

A 12-YEAR-OLD DAILY READER

DEAR DAILY READER: Your aunt was not "cheap" — she was wisely conservative. In addition, she was helping the environment by conserving paper — a tree product. Please show this letter to your mom.

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Hurt Mother-in-Law": I was married in 1967, and I clearly remember my new mother-in-law taking me aside and saying, "You already have a mother, so let's figure out a name for you to call me that you are comfortable with. I'm comfortable with Doris."

She set the stage for a wonderful relationship. My father-in-law did his part, too. He introduced me to his friends as "my daughter." That always got a laugh from them, and it made me feel warm and accepted.

In loving memory of Doris and Armand Roth.

'Willie' now at new home

NEWPORT, Ore. (AP) — Hundreds of fans flocked to see Keiko, the orca whale star of the "Free Willy" movies, in his first day on public display Monday at the Oregon Coast Aquarium.

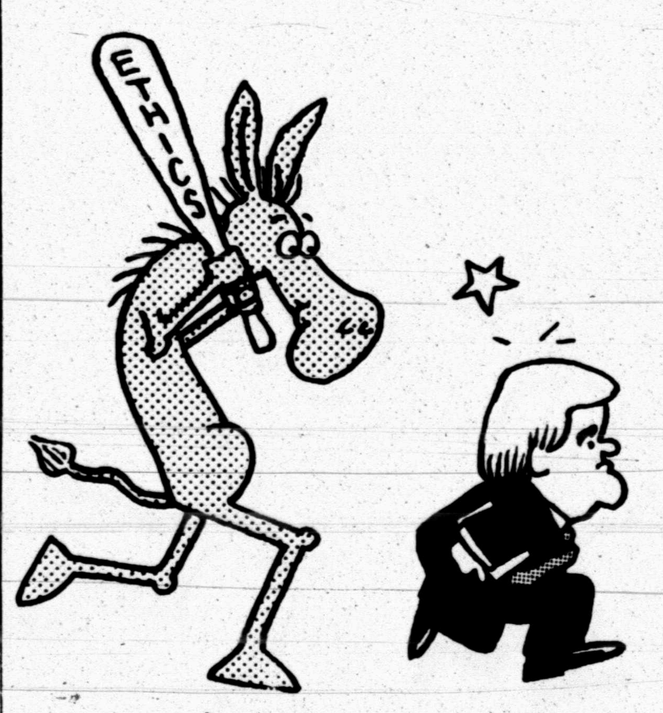

There are no plans to create stadium-like seating around Keiko's 2-million-gallon rehabilitation tank, and backers of the 19½-hour trip from a Mexican amusement park are adamant that Keiko will no longer perform. But that didn't seem to bother the whale's fans.

"I think the public is ready to experience orca whales in a different way. They don't have to jump through hoops or have trainers ride on their backs. This is a more natural setting," said Dave Phillips, president of the Free Willy-Keiko Foundation.

More than 400 people lined up before the aquarium opened and then jammed into the underwater observation area. Excited children pressed against the glass and shouted as the 7,700-pound whale glided by. One middle-aged woman appeared in awe: "Oh, he's beautiful."

The goal is to return Keiko, believed to be 16 or 17 years old, to the pod of whales he was captured from off Iceland, but adapting to the wild may be difficult since he's been in captivity nearly his entire life.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) — A new drug has been approved that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain. This material has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis™" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis™ relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis™ is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work. Use only as directed.

The deceptive but safe card

By Phillip Alder

There are certain situations in which a defender can "falsecard," knowing that partner cannot be misled. Zia Mahmood spotted one opportunity in today's deal and he was awarded the prize for the best defense of the year by the International Bridge Press Association. Zia is a Pakistani who divides his time primarily between the rubber bridge tables of London and New York.

Two diamonds was New Minor Forcing, an artificial inquiry. So, as it was the only suit not bid naturally, West led the diamond three.

At the other table, on the same lead, East won with the king and returned the diamond jack to dummy's ace. Needing three spade tricks, South played a spade to his king and a spade to dummy's jack. With this layout, South took 10 tricks.

If West had led from the queen, so that the jack would win the trick, West would know, because of dummy's holding, that East had the king as well.

Here, though, South won with the queen. Placing West with the king, South thought he had three diamond tricks. So, assuming he needed only four heart tricks to go with the two top spades, South cashed the three top hearts, but the jack didn't drop. Now South played a diamond to dummy's jack. Imagine his surprise when Zia produced the king!

Zia completed his good work by switching to the club queen. This wasn't necessary here, but would have been if West's club suit had been the A J 9.

Names in the news

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman may be adding another bundle of joy to their family of four.

The couple, disguised in baseball caps and sunglasses, entered a side door of the Palm Beach County courthouse on Friday. She cradled a baby boy in her arms.

Cruise, who was unshaven, and Kidman, who wore a trench coat, attended a closed-door hearing. A court officer declined comment Monday, except to say that adoption records are confidential.

It is the same courthouse where the couple adopted their daughter Isabella in 1993. Last year, they adopted a son, Connor.

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — The pink security wall media baron Walter Annenberg has erected around his desert estate has some of his neighbors seeing red.

Annenberg, the 87-year-old founder of TV Guide, is putting up the 7-foot security wall to further shield the 205-acre Sunnylands estate, which has been a secluded getaway to presidents Nixon, Reagan and Bush.

"I think it's ugly, and it just doesn't belong in the desert," said neighbor Charles Lagerstrom. "I think it's just gone one step too far."

The nearly mile-long wall will replace a diseased hedge. The estate also is protected by armed guards, dogs, cameras and a chain-link fence.

Klugman makes one mistake: now warns others

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Klugman, who lost a vocal chord to cancer, will make a TV pitch aimed at getting people to stop smoking.

Klugman survived his bout with cancer, but the surgery seven years ago nearly cost him his career.

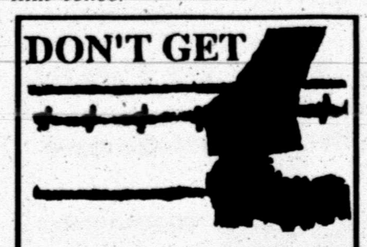

"The only really stupid thing I ever did in my life was to start smoking," Klugman, 73, said in a hoarse voice.

He gets angry when he sees people smoking in television and films.

"It disgusts me, it makes me so angry — kids are watching," said Klugman, best known as the sloppy half of the 1970s ABC comedy "The Odd Couple."

Despite the setback to his career, Klugman said he still enjoys life and his new mission to encourage others not to smoke.

Spurrier rejects Bucs

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Florida coach Steve Spurrier rejected a lucrative offer to leave the school to coach the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, a university official said this morning.

Spurrier planned to announce his decision to stay at Florida during a 2 p.m. news conference today.

"He is announcing that nothing is changing," said John Huminek, the university's assistant athletic director. "It is good news. He has done a great job for us."

Spurrier, 50, had been wooed by the beleaguered Buccaneers after leading the Gators to within a victory of the national championship this season.

Two Florida newspapers — the Gainesville Sun and the St. Petersburg Times — also said Spurrier had told them he had decided to stay with Florida, where he has coached the Gators for six years.

The Times reported in today's editions that Spurrier had decided to remain in his current job. And in a telephone call to the Gainesville Sun this morning, Spurrier said he is "absolutely" not taking the Tampa Bay job.

Spurrier said that he ran "hot and cold" on whether or not to accept the Bucs offer — reportedly worth at least $2 million a year — and finally decided this morning to remain at the Gators' helm.

Spurrier has a record of 61-13-1 at Florida and led the Gators this year to a national championship showdown in the Fiesta Bowl against Nebraska. The Gators lost to Nebraska 62-24.

Three newspapers reported today that Spurrier, who repeatedly has said he isn't interested in an NFL job, was considering the opportunity to replace Sam Wyche, who was fired by Tampa Bay two weeks ago.

The Times said the coach had decided to remain in Gainesville where a renegotiated contract has been on the table for a month and would make him one of the nation's highest paid college coaches at about $1 million per year.

The Palm Beach Post and Gainesville Sun reported that Spurrier confided to some Florida players in private that the Bucs had extended an offer he would find difficult to refuse.

"For the first time I have to admit I'm interested," the Post quoted the coach as saying outside his Gainesville office Monday night.

The Post and Sun reported the coach rejected an initial offer from Tampa Bay on Sunday.

The Sun, quoting an unidentified NFL source, said the Bucs sweetened the proposal on Monday, offering $2 million per season, financial interest in the team and assurances that the franchise will remain in Tampa.

But the Times reported today — and a source within Florida's athletic association confirmed this morning — that Spurrier had decided to stay at Florida.

The coach told the newspaper that his discussions with pro teams over the past week "helped me realize just how good I've got it where I'm at."

Brackens to go pro

FORT WORTH (AP) — University of Texas defensive end Tony Brackens, the Southwest Conference defensive player of the year, has decided to forgo his senior season to enter the NFL draft, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

"We've sent the paperwork in. He's going to go into the draft," Tony Brackens Sr., the all-American's father, told the newspaper. "As high as Tony's stock is now, we decided it would be a good opportunity for him to go."

Tony Brackens Jr. was away from his house in Fairfield in East Texas and unavailable for comment, according to his brother, Keith.

Brackens becomes the second junior from the SWC to make himself available for the NFL draft, joining Texas A&M tailback Leeland McElroy. Wednesday is the deadline for underclassmen to petition for entry into the 1996 draft.

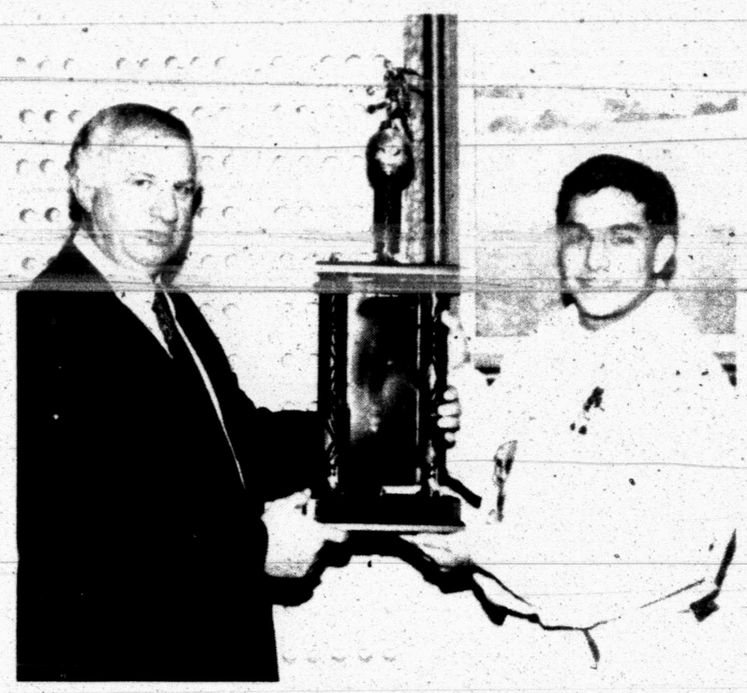

The elder Brackens said the NFL underclassmen advisory committee gave the family a written assessment on Monday projecting that his son would be drafted in the first or second round.

During the 1995 season, the defensive end, led the Longhorns in sacks (7), tackles for losses (16), quarterback pressures (29), fumbles caused (5) and fumbles recovered (4), despite missing four of 12 games during the regular season.

"Tony came off an injury this year and became an impact player, so he's shown he's durable. His history shows he can step in and take charge of a game. It's the right move," the father said.

Brackens' Texas career included 24 sacks, 32 tackles for losses and 82 quarterback pressures in 31 regular-season games.

"We looked at teams' needs and saw there were several teams in the top half (of the first round) that need some defensive ends," Brackens' father said.

No one elected to hall for first time

NEW YORK (AP) — For more than two decades, Phil Niekro, Don Sutton and Tony Perez consistently were among the best players in baseball.

The Hall of Fame, however, is all about the greatest, most dominant players ever.

Niekro, Sutton, Perez were again shut out Monday when, for the first time in 25 years, the members of the Baseball Writers failed to elect a single player to the shrine.

"I think it's getting harder and harder every year to get into the Hall of Fame," Perez said from Puerto Rico. "The baseball Hall of Fame is hard to get into right now. You have to have really super numbers; you've got to be Babe Ruth or Hank Aaron."

It takes 75 percent support for election. Niekro was listed on 68.3 percent of the ballots, followed by Perez with 65.7 percent and Sutton at 63.8 percent.

Niekro and Sutton each won more than 300 games, a total that used to considered automatic for election. But those numbers were not enough, nor were the ones posted by Perez, 16th on baseball's career RBIs list. The 15 above him are in the Hall of Fame.

Instead, voters seem to feel that Niekro, Sutton and Perez were testaments to longevity, rather than excellence. The voting marked just the seventh time overall — and first since 1971 — that the BBWAA did not pick at least one player since the original selections in 1936.

Niekro, on the ballot for the fourth time, got 321 votes, 32 short of the 353 needed for election. The knuckleballer had a career record of 318-274.

"I really have nothing to say," Niekro said in Atlanta.

Perez, on the ballot for the fifth time, was listed on 309 of the record total of 470 ballots. He had 1,652 RBIs lifetime.

"It's disappointing," Perez said. "I don't know what will happen next year. I can go down. You never know."

Sutton, on the ballot for the third time, got 300 votes. He was 324-256 lifetime.

Police note felony arrest

One felony arrest was made early this morning as 24-year-old Nelson Ruiz, 2805½ 23rd St., was taken into custody at 12:13 for felony driving while intoxicated and driving while license suspended.

At 1:37 a.m. today, an alarm at the Scurry County Health Unit sounded. An offense report for Class B burglary was submitted. Employees had not discovered anything missing and an investigation was continuing.

An officer responded to a report of a fire at Avenue B and 26th St at 7:27 a.m. Monday. A mattress had caught fire and the resident extinguished it before calling the fire department.

David Hines notified officers at 8:10 a.m. Monday that an abandoned vehicle had been left on the lot of L and L service station.

The sheriff's department and the city were notified at 8:20 a.m. Monday that the railroad intersection at Avenue E will be closed Wednesday through Friday while repairs are being made at the crossing.

At 2:40 p.m., the fire department responded to a call at 300 25th St. at a residence owned by Josephine Graham Stewart. Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said some flammable material had come into contact with a portion of a floor furnace under the house and had caught fire. The floor around the furnace received minor damage.

Lynda Robinson notified officers at 4:18 p.m. of a theft at her residence at 2513 27th St. An offense report for Class B theft was submitted in reference to electronic equipment being taken.

Skipper Joyce notifed the fire department at 5:25 p.m. that there was a fire in a dumpster behind the residence at 2807 36th St. Damage was limited to trash in the dumpster. There was also minor damage to the dumpster. Ashes from a fire place apparently started the fire.

Minnie Buchannan notified the fire department at 10:35 p.m. of a small grass fire in the yard of a residence at 2213 41st St. Mel Kiddy, who lives at the address, extinguished the fire by using a water hose.

Florida court strikes down state law on spouses' debts

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Ken Connor couldn't pay an $85,000 debt from his surgery for kidney cancer, so the hospital went after his wife for the money, using a century-old common law.

The doctrine requires husbands to pay for their wives' housing, food, clothing and medical care. The Southwest Florida Regional Medical Center argued that it should apply to wives, too.

But after more than two years of legal wrangling, Florida's Supreme Court ruled in the Connors' favor.

The court struck down the law, declaring that a husband could not be held liable for his wife's debts because the constitution demands equality between the sexes. In striking down the law, the high court thwarted efforts to make wives responsible for debts incurred by their husbands.

Chief Justice Stephen Grimes said it is up to legislators to decide whether to enact a law that would require spouses to pay debts incurred by one another for food, housing, clothing and health care.

The hospital industry already plans to ask Florida lawmakers in March to expand the "doctrine of necessities" to both spouses. Most states already have laws that make married women liable for their spouses' debts, including those owed to hospitals.

"Hospitals should have the right to collect payments that way," said Randy Smith, spokesman for Southwest Florida Regional Medical Center. "Debts unpaid are part of the reason health care costs keep spiraling."

In the meantime, one expert questioned whether the ruling might delay medical care by adding more paperwork.

"What it could do is delay medical treatment until hospitals have all the t's crossed and i's dotted," said Martin Haines, chairman-elect of the Florida Bar's Family Law Section.

Smith denied there would be any change in treatment.

Connor, of Naples, had been making $100-a-month payments on his nearly $100,000 bill after his operation in 1992. The 68-year-old independent real estate agent is a diabetic and couldn't find anyone to insure him.

The hospital sued for Mrs. Connor's money a year later to get paid in full. She was stunned when the bill came to her.

"It's just been horrible," said Mrs. Connor, 68. "The strain has been terrible on him."

The hospital is no longer pursuing payment, Smith said.

The high court's decision followed a series of conflicting lower court rulings involving hospitals that sued to collect unpaid bills from patients' spouses.

Florida now joins Maryland, Alabama, Mississippi, Alaska, Georgia and Vermont in dumping the common law, which dates back to when a married woman couldn't own property, enter contracts or obtain credit.

Family law attorneys said they don't expect the Florida court's decision to have a major effect on other types of debts outside of hospital bills. For instance, married couples who have a joint loan or credit cards still would be liable for payments.

Earnings up despite record eastern snow

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite a blizzard that paralyzed the East, box office earnings for the first regular weekend of the year were up nearly 20 percent, and "12 Monkeys" led the way with $13.8 million.

Total ticket sales topped $80.2 million Friday through Sunday, up from about $67 million during the first non-holiday weekend of 1995, analyst John Krier of Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc. said Monday.

"It's amazing business was that good. Some cities were practically closed down (by the weather), but it just didn't hurt as much as some thought it would," Krier said. "I can't explain it."

Universal's "12 Monkeys," a gritty time-travel thriller starring Bruce Willis, Brad Pitt and Madeleine Stowe and directed by Terry Gilliam, was a powerhouse in its first weekend of wide release, outdistancing the rest of the field by more than $6 million.

The Jack Lemmon-Walter Matthau comedy "Grumpier Old Men" was second with $7.9 million, followed by "Jumanji" with $7.5 million, "Toy Story" with $7.1 million and "Waiting to Exhale" with $6.2 million.

Sexual harassment case can proceed

Clinton not immune from civil suit, appeals panel rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court panel ruled today that a sexual harassment case filed against President Clinton by a former Arkansas state employee can go to trial.

President Clinton's attorney has argued that Clinton should not be questioned under oath on such matters while serving as president.

A three-judge appeals panel in St. Louis decided by a 2-1 margin that the case can proceed.

"The president, like all other government officials, is subject to the same laws that apply to all other members of our society," the court ruled. "A sitting president is not immune from civil suits for his unofficial acts."

"Obviously, we're a little disappointed, but there was a very strong dissenting opinion...which we believe the Supreme Court will follow, assuming it takes the case," said Robert Bennett, Clinton's attorney.

Paula Jones, a former Arkansas employee, alleges that Clinton sexually harassed her during an encounter in a Little Rock hotel suite in 1991. She has said she denied Clinton's suggestion that they engage in sex.

Clinton has denied such an encounter took place, and his lawyers have sought to dismiss the case on grounds of presidential immunity.

Bennett has argued in September that allowing the Jones' case to proceed would set the precedent of exposing sitting presidents to lawsuits by anyone who disagrees with their policies.

Gilbert Davis, Jones' attorney, has asserted that his client is due the same rights to a fair and speedy trial as anyone else.

Bennett now has two weeks to appeal the three-judge panel's decision by asking the full 8th Circuit court to consider the matter.

If the full appeals court agrees, both Bennett and Davis would get to reargue their cases.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — A rocket-propelled grenade slammed into a Sarajevo streetcar today, punching a gaping hole in its roof and killing a man.

The attack occured shortly before 6 p.m. as the streetcar was traveling on Sniper Alley, where snipers killed dozens of people during 3½ years of war.

It was the most serious incident in Sarajevo since the Oct. 12 cease-fire that led to the Bosnian peace agreement signed Dec. 14 in Paris.

The grenade tore a foot-long hole in the roof of the streetcar. Reporters saw a blanket covering the man, lying in a pool of blood.
