Merchants Launch Give-Away "Auction Dollar Day" Program

"The biggest give-away in the history of Tahoka"—we furnish the many auction items and we furnish the money to buy 'em!"

That's the way a unique sales promotion program of Tahoka merchants ending on Saturday, June 3, is described by E. L. Short, president of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring unit of the affair.

The promotion is called "Auction Dollar Day" and has been received with much enthusiasm at other towns in the midwest.

Each Friday and Saturday from now until June 3, all local businesses desiring to participate will be giving away free with no added cost to the customer "Auction Dollars." An "Auction Dollar" is given the customer by the business man for every one dollar actual cash purchase made in the store. Each participating store gives an item for auction, and on "Auction Dollar Day" these items may be bought in by the people of Lynn county with these "Auction Dollars" being used as real money.

The participating merchants will be recognized by a sticker on the door and a large poster in the window of the store. Merchants not yet contacted may get in the program by contacting Dean Taylor, C. of C. secretary. Only cost to the merchant is the giving of an item to be auctioned off.

You may get your "Auction Dollars" free with purchases on Friday and Saturday, May 19 and 20; Friday and Saturday May 26 and 27; and Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3.

In conjunction with "Auction Dollar Day" on Saturday, June 3, there will be two big free shows on the streets of Tahoka at 10:00 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. The 3:30 p. m.

show is followed by the auction sale of merchandise.

Headlining the show is an outstanding act, "Cindy and Her Mule, Jitterbug." This act has toured the world and appeared on many of the top television shows. Ed Sullivan has acclaimed it as one of the funniest acts in this country.

Bozo, the Clown, will be on hand to delight the youngsters with his many antics and do his bit in assisting Miss Beverly Harnett in a comedy bull whip exhibition. Miss Beverly is one of the outstanding bull whip artists of the world, and does some fine fancy rope spinning also.

A tuneful trio from the popular "Jubilee USA" show will entertain with some outstanding country and western style music.

The event promises to be an exciting one and costs the patrons of Tahoka stores absolutely nothing.

More Paving In Tahoka Possible

Some more Tahoka streets may be paved this summer if there is sufficient demand, states Mayor Meldon Leslie.

Four blocks of new paving has just about been signed on South Fifth street, and the City is particularly interested in seeing more paving done in the south part of town. However, any paving may be done, where property owners desire, that will tie in to existing paving.

Mr. Leslie says it may be a long time before the City can get an economical paving deal as it now has with J. R. Fanning Construction Co. Paving, including curb and gutters, under the contract with Fanning, cost the property owner $3.28 per running foot for a 33-foot wide street and $3.68 for a 37-foot wide street.

About 35 blocks of new paving was laid last year by Fanning. Due to summer rains, followed by heavy rains and snow in the fall and winter, defects have turned up in some of this new paving. The contractor is obligated to return some time this summer and correct these defects before he receives his final payment for the paving done last year.

Rain Is Needed Soon For Crops

Farmers this week were beginning to get nervous over the continued dry weather, as a rain is needed by most for successful spring planting.

Although a fine deep season is in the ground from winter rain and snow, high winds this month have taken out the top moisture and even some irrigation farmers are having to water before planting.

Some cotton and maize is up to a good stand, but much of it has been damaged by late spring sandstorms and dry winds.

Only Six Jurors Selected In Attack Trial of Negro

Six jurors had been selected up to noon Thursday in 106th District Court here in the case of Benjie Lee McEntyre, 18, Negro, charged with rape of a white woman a mile and a half northeast of Redwine on April 25.

The 83-person special venire was exhausted at midnight Wednesday, and Judge Truett Smith ordered the Sheriff's department to bring in 30 more talismen as prospective jurors. Court resumed at 10:00 a. m. Thursday.

Jurors selected up until noon Thursday were: A. F. Allen, route 3, O'Donnell, farmer; Dave McMillan, route 2, O'Donnell, farmer; Mrs. Bill Gardenhire, route 2, O'Donnell, housewife; Mrs. A. G. Crutcher, route 3, O'Donnell, housewife; John F. Thomas, route 2, Tahoka, farmer; and R. A. Lamb, route 1, Wilson, farmer.

One juror accepted Tuesday, O. R. Phifer Jr., route 4, Tahoka, farmer, was released by the Judge Wednesday after his sister and her daughter had been injured in a car wreck.

Hopes were held Thursday by the court that a jury could be secured.

Examining of prospective jurors started Tuesday morning. In a hearing Monday, Judge Smith denied a request of defense attorneys for a change of venue.

Most of the prospective jurors were disqualifying themselves for various reasons, including fixed opinions, not believing in capital punishment, and not believing in the suspended sentence law as applied to similar cases.

The Negro farm worker has been living at Grassland, but at the time of the alleged crime was working for a terracing contractor on a farm near Redwine. He is alleged to have gone to the 27-year old farm housewife's home, while her husband was in town, threatened her with death and attacked her. One of her two children was at school, the other at home. A short time later he was picked up by officers three miles east of Tahoka, having driven there in a borrowed pickup, and taken to a Lubbock jail for safe keeping.

Conducting the prosecution are District Attorney George Hansard of Lamesa and County Attorney Harold Green. As required by law when a defendant does not have legal counsel, Judge Smith appointed Mitchell Williams, local attorney, and John Saleh, O'Donnell and Lamesa attorney, to represent the defendant to the best of their might be made.

Attorneys for the defense have indicated in questioning prospective jurors that a plea of guilty ability.

Steve Riddle In On Astronaut Recovery By Aircraft Carrier

Cape Canaveral—Participating in recovery operations for Navy Commander Alan Shepard, first U. S. astronaut, was Navy aircraft Patrol Squadron 45.

Serving with the squadron was Steve R. Riddle, aviation electronics technician third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Riddle of Tahoka, Texas.

Members of the squadron flying in planes over the general area monitored the spacecraft and kept ships and other air units informed of the location of the "Freedom 7" capsule during its historic flight. Coordination of this information permitted the speedy recovery of the spacecraft when it landed approximately 262 nautical miles southeast of the launching site.

Actual recovery was made by a Marine helicopter which lifted Cdr. Shepard out of the water in less than five minutes after the flight and transported him to the deck of the aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain, flagship of the down range recovery force.

INFLUENCE GROWTH

After the little pecans formed in April and May 1958, their growth during the next 6 months is influenced by soil moisture, soil fertility, aeration, amount of foliage on the tree, humidity, leaf-nut ratio, second growth of the tree, the size of the nuts and number in the cluster, the exposure of the tree to light, and possible damage to the tree, particularly leaves and nuts, by insects or diseases.

Pecans frequently shed after they have attained considerable size. Damage during the summer by casebearers, weevils and nut curculio will cause pecans to shed. Those several infected with pecan scab often will be killed prematurely. Unfavorable growing conditions created by a shortage or an excess of soil moisture, a deficiency of essential elements in the soil or toxic materials in the soil likewise will cause shedding. Nuts on trees that have a low leaf-nut ratio are especially subject to shedding.

PITFALLS AND COMPENSATIONS

There are many pitfalls in growing pecans. It takes a long time to develop a grove. When there is a crop failure, there is a long period without incoming revenue. Two crop failures in succession occur occasionally. Storms, lightning, floods and drought cause damage which cannot be corrected in a lifetime.

Fortunately, there also are compensations. A good pecan grove is a profitable investment. Pecan trees yield little for the first 10 years; but the 17 trees, planted 50 feet apart, on an acre can reasonably be expected to produce 4,250 pounds of pecans, during the 5-year period from the tenth to the fifteenth year. That many pecans would sell for $1,275 at present price, or $225 gross income per acre annually. The calculations are based on yield records in planted groves, and due allowance is made for the various uncertainties that beset pecan growing. For the 10-year period from the fifteenth to the twenty-fifth year, the trees on an acre can reasonably be expected to produce 17,000 pounds worth $5,100 an average annual gross income of $510 per acre. The yield from individual trees will continue to increase, under favorable conditions, but as the trees grow larger, the number on an acre would be reduced by thinning to provide proper spacing, and yield per acre would remain about the same.

Pecan growing is a way of life for those who love trees. They herald the spring with bursting buds, with beautiful rosettes of developing pecan clusters—25,000 on one tree;—comparable in beauty to a giant Christmas tree with as many brightly lighted spires. In mid-summer, the branches begin to arch gracefully under the load of developing fruit and there is the pleasant contemplation of golden harvest in the fall. Pecan nuts are a

Farm Facts

A Texas farmer, Lyndel C. Barker of Dell City, not only has produced eight bales of cotton per acre but has averaged 6.92 bales per acre over a five-year period on 10.4 acres.

Time was when a cotton farmer thought he was going great if he could grow a bale to the acre. Standard weight of a bale of lint cotton, not counting its wrappings, is 478 pounds. The average yield from 254 pounds in 1945 to 448 pounds in 1960.

Dell City is 90 miles east of El Paso in the center of an irrigated cotton-growing area where the average yield is more than two bales per acre. Barker says there's no secret to making high yields. He just gives the cotton maximum water, fertilizer, and care.

Of Barker's 250 acres, about 130 are in cultivation. He grows cotton, cantaloupes, tomatoes, carrots, and other crops, and believes in diversification and soil care.

His land is flat, mostly sandy loam, and he rotates so that cotton is grown on the same plot only one year out of four. Barker's achievement points up the efficiency of the U. S. farmer. The record of U. S. farms is unmatched anywhere and is a key to our high living standards.

Four Rural Auto Wrecks In April

The Highway Patrol investigated four rural accidents in Lynn County during the month of April, according to Sergeant E. L. Stroud Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for three persons injured and a property damage of $2,550.

This brings the total for 1961 in this county to none killed, 12 injured, and a property damage of $11,745.

"A driver who learns and complies with traffic laws can never prevent as many accidents as a driver who learns and complies with both traffic laws and defensive driving procedures," the sergeant stated. A traffic law describes what a driver must do or not do. Procedure describes ways in which a driver can comply with the law or do something extra that will increase his safety and prevent congestion.

good food, and pecan growing represents a permanent agriculture. The trees grow larger, taller and more productive each passing year from a hundred years! Where they are, beauty dwells.

"For example, the law says that no person shall park a vehicle upon the paved or main-traveled part of the highway. A driver complies with this law on a rural highway when his car barely clears the pavement. Procedure, in this instance, when possible or reasonable would require the driver to park a greater distance from the pavement," the sergeant explained.

Weed beds and rock piles are some very likely places you'll catch those lunkers but many a time you'll have trouble with weeds and snags if you're not using a weedless rig.

It sometimes happens that your favorite deep-running lure doesn't come equipped with a weedless rig. If this is the case take your eyes away from the television set for a minute and do a bit of rigging yourself.

Actually, there isn't much to do to make a weedless lure from your favorite artificial bait. Just connect a rubber band to the eye of the hook and slip the other end over the barb. If you have a double hook just slip the rubber band through the eye and slip the end of the rubber band to the barb of their respective hooks. It won't keep the fish from being hooked because when they strike the rubber band slips from the barb.

One thing you have to remember about hooks, says the Evinrude Boating Foundation. There is no single hook that suits all situations. Hooks come in different sizes and shapes. Hooks with long shanks are usually used for tying streamers and other artificial bait or for live bait when fishing walleye or northern. Short-shanked hooks are used for panfish and certain short-bodied fish.

What type of hook a fisherman uses is a matter of preference. Some anglers feel that an offset hook—one with the point bent out of a flat plane, hooks fish best. Others contend that the flat bend—one with the whole hook in one plane, is the best.

The shape of the hook, the size of the wire, and the type of barb to use is a matter for debate among all fishermen. Whatever hook you prefer be sure that it will hold up under the stress and strain of the fish for which it is intended and that it is secured to your line properly.

Happy boating... and fishing, too.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have for some time opposed the imposition of new taxes on gasoline, tires and recapping rubber to finance the national super highway system.

This month project was started on estimates prepared five years ahead of the time actual work began, and at the present time, nobody, C. W. Harder but nobody, knows how many extra billions of dollars will be needed to complete the entire ambitious project.

Naturally, independent business, so largely dependent upon automotive transportation, is concerned with extra taxes.

It now develops there are other complications.

It appears that the Bureau of Public Roads officials are now conceding that instead of the $5 billion estimated to secure rights-of-way, it will now cost at least $7 billion with one of the bureau top brass expressing the belief that even the $7 billion figure is conservative.

Congressman Ed Edmondson points to some facts dug out of just one state by a special committee investigating federal highway program headed by Rep. John Blatnik.

In one project of the federal highway development in Miami, Florida, it was learned that the Florida Road Department paid $2,000 to have buildings removed from a right-of-way, and a sub-contractor netted more than $100,000 from the sale of part of them.

The Federal government pays 90% of these costs.

Actually, the committee estimates that more than $300,000 could have been realized from the sales of these buildings.

In Orlando, Florida, the state only paid $100 for removal of buildings. The contractor sold them for $24,500.

And so it goes, ad infinitum.

Russia has a system on matters of this nature. The official, or officials, responsible often find a pistol slung in the back of their head. And by a curious twist of mind, there seems to be little distinction in Russian viewpoint whether error was caused by graft or stupidity. The end result is the same.

Of course, in America there exists a slight aversion toward shooting bureaucrats. And there seems little likelihood that this viewpoint will ever be changed so radically that a cry will go through the land "bullets for bureaucrats." It is so messy.

Yet the fact remains that the taxpayer deserves protection. Thus, it would be very well if at any time a legislative body be asked for more tax money to carry on a project, that before more money is shelled out hurriedly, that a court of inquiry be convened to examine minutely what has caused this need for fresh money. If it is found need has been caused by bureaucrats in charge "goofing off," then those bureaucrats should be summarily fired and blacklisted for all time from ever holding any kind of a government job again. After all, taxpaying public should have some protection against idiots.

The Army Secretary

WILBER M. BRUCKER stated recently: "It is the communists who hold in their hands the issue of war, and our supreme effort must be to discourage them completely and beyond any doubt from deciding to start armed aggression. The best way I know to discourage them is for America and her allies to have such powerful military forces, and such indomitable purpose, that the communists will know in advance that they will be faced with certain disaster if they start armed aggression anywhere."

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ward attended a music recital Thursday in First Baptist Church in Levelland where their granddaughter, Regina Cook, had a part on the program.

Senator Preston Smith

Governor Daniel's answer to House Bill 727, the retail sales tax measure, is a new tax proposal to raise $166,500,000 a year.

The Governor's measure offered the Legislature an opportunity to close the books and go home and provide a cushion of $20 million more than what the governor said is needed to erase the general fund deficit. The plan would pay for a two-year appropriation bill and give the school teachers a maximum $800 a year pay raise.

His conclusion about the sales tax bill was: "If I let this bill pass without my signature you would be begging me by Christmas to call a special session to straighten it out."

He said flatly that he would veto HB 727 even if it were presented to him without substantial changes.

The Governor's bill proposes to raise the money through eight articles:

1. A natural gas pipeline tax, 2 per cent gross receipts on intrastate and percentage allocation of interstate receipts; an increase from the present one-fourth of 1 per cent; $12,200,000 a year.
2. A 2 percent excise tax on motor or power driven objects and parts; includes all types of vehicles, boats, appliances, etc.; $32,100,000 a year.
3. A 3 percent excise tax on jewelry and watches, revising the present law to coincide with federal definitions; $3,400,000.
4. A 2 percent excise tax on construction materials with exemptions on component ingredients used in manufacturing; $31,500,000.
5. A 2 percent consumer tax on utility bills; $31,500,000.
6. A stock transfer tax of 1 per cent of value, with division of definition; $8,000,000.
7. A tax of 1 cent per bottle of soft drinks, 1 cent per bottle on beer, graduated tax rates on liquor and wine; a total source of new revenue of $38,800,000.
8. A 3 per cent tax on restaurant meals above $1 for a new tax income of $9,000,000 a year.

Church of Christ Services On Radio

The worship period of the Church of Christ will be broadcast at 11:00 a. m. on the frequency of 1100 KC on your dial. This broadcast should cover Tahoka proper and perhaps a short distance beyond, states a member of the church.

The church is experimenting with a new type of broadcasting equipment and have a frequency all their own. If this works out satisfactorily, they will be broadcasting at regular intervals.

The worship services were broadcast last Sunday morning and evening. Since the equipment was installed just last Friday, there was no time to advertise extensively, so the listening audience was small. Good reports were obtained from those who turned in. Sunday the broadcast times will be 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. You are invited to listen.

CARD OF THANKS

My sincere thanks for the cards, lovely flowers and other gifts sent to me during my illness. Your prayers and words of encouragement also meant much to me and helped to see my recovery. Mrs. H. W. Edwards Sr. —1tp

Mrs. Milton Evans And Baby Hurt In Car Accident

Mrs. Milton (Barbara) Evans and daughter, Susan, age four, who were injured in a car wreck Wednesday morning a mile and a half north of Petty, were reported Wednesday night to be resting well and not seriously injured. They are in Methodist Hospital.

Mrs. Evans had severe bruises over the body and had to have a scalp wound closed by stitches. The baby, thrown clear of the wreckage, also had bruises and a cut on the leg but stitches were not required on the latter.

The car Mrs. Evans was driving northward crashed into a road sweeper, also traveling north while working on the paving north of Petty, overturned and was an almost complete wreck. Highway patrolmen who investigated the accident said the baby would have been crushed had the car rolled over once more.

Driver of the road machine, Billy L. Lancaster, 25, of Denver City, was thrown from the machine; he was operating and is under treatment in the same hospital for a back injury.

Mrs. Evans, driving a late model car, had just gone over the top of a slight hill and came up on the road machine suddenly, while a cloud of dust stirred up by the sweeper obstructed her view of the machine. She didn't know any road work was being done there.

INCREASED FIREPOWER FOR INFANTRY BATTLE GROUPS...

DAVY CROCKETT is an atomic weapon system designed for tactical use by the Army infantry battle group. Both the light (200 pounds) and heavy (400 pounds) versions fire a low-yield atomic warhead, and can be mounted on their own tripods (left) or on various tactical vehicles, such as the 1/4-ton truck (right). The projectiles fired by DAVY CROCKETT are larger in diameter than the gun tubes, and are therefore fastened to the end of the tubes. When in the hands of the troops, DAVY CROCKETT will increase tremendously the firepower of infantry battle groups. DAVY CROCKETT is under development by the U. S. Army Ordnance Corps.

Engineers Honor Wade Howell As "Man of the Year"

Wade Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Belton Howell of Tahoka was featured recently in the Odeasa American in a story of his career after he was honored by the Permian Basin Society of Engineers as 1960's "Engineer of the Year."

Not to be classified as an oil man, Howell says an "engineer is an engineer." He received his college education in textile engineering, about the only field of engineering he has not been associated with. Howell has worked on city engineering projects in Odessa, where he located immediately following his discharge as a captain from the Armed Services in 1945, helping with paving programs and as consulting engineer on an airport project.

From there he went into the oil fields as head of a field surveying party which "spotted nearly 1000 well locations" in this area. He also designed pumps and worked up locations for oil camp sites.

Howard returned to the drawing board in 1952 when he joined Muldrow Aerial Survey of Midland and drew detailed maps. He became vice president and general manager of Muldrow Reproduction Co. until the company moved its office to Canada.

Then he entered another phase of engineering work, that of designing and locating crude oil pipelines and waterflooded well systems for TXL Oil Corp., Texaco, and Phillips Petroleum Co.

He has now been associated with Ken Esmon and Associates since 1958, where he is chief engineer. He says his wife, Kathryn, probably knows more about oil than he since she actually went into the field as a crew computer-draftsman on a "doodlebug" crew during the war.

A past president of the Permian Basin Chapter of engineers and the current state director of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers, Howell says he knows that his honor as "Engineer of the Year" was not given for just one phase of engineering work and points up what he said before: an engineer is an all-around engineer.

While the nine-banded armadillo usually lives where water is scarce, it can swim like a dog and even walk under water across a shallow pond.

Farm Facts

Farming is the nation's biggest industry. Four out of ten jobs in private employment are related to agriculture.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture points out that farming employs 7.4 million workers—more than the steel industry, automobile industry, or transportation and public utilities combined.

Ten million people have jobs storing, transporting, processing, and merchandising agriculture. Six million have jobs providing the supplies farmers use.

Here are a few examples from the 1958 Census of Manufactures:

Meat and poultry—308,500 employees and a payroll of nearly $1.5 billion.

Dairy—292,600 employees and a $1.3-billion payroll.

Baking—299,000 employees and a payroll of more than $1.3 billion.

Fruits and vegetables—172,400 employees and a payroll of $591 million.

Cotton broadwoven fabrics—242,500 employees and a $722-million payroll.

THE NEWS

Scouting News

(By John Ed Redwine)

Somewhere down the line we failed to mention another loyal supporter of Cubs, E. A. (Lefty) Hargraves. During the Tahoka Rodeo the Cubs came up with an embarrassing problem.

It was nearly time for the parade and there was no sign to identify our unit. Two of the Den Mothers went to see about getting a sign for the Cub float. The price of the sign was just a little steep for our limited funds, so it was then that Mr. Hargraves stepped in and obliged the Cubs by paying for the sign.

It is the likes of Mr. Hargraves that makes Cubs and Scouting a success in our city.

The original plan after the plane ride on May 6, was to put a picture in the paper showing the boys, the plane and the pilot, but it seems that the Kodak just didn't turn out a newsworthy photo. Maybe next time.

Pack 782 is gaining another leader. Bob Pennington will assume Assistant Cubmaster duties in the near future. Bob is a native of Buena Vista, where he was a First Class Scout in Troop 3. His family moved to Fritch where they resided for about five years. Bob went to work for the Pioneer Natural Gas Company at Fritch and was then transferred to Tahoka. Bob is 21, married and a member of the Church of Christ. Bob and his wife, Linda, have a daughter Pamela Sue. Bob has shown a lot of interest in Cubs and is eager to get to work.

Three boys represented Troop 721 in the annual Quannah Parker District Camporee, at Lamesa last weekend. Jack Jaquess, Joe Jaquess and Chris Dyer participated as the Diamond-back Patrol. A Camporee is actually a high contest where many patrols from many troops compete against each other for high honors. Each patrol participated in such events as signaling, stretcher carrying, fire building and water boiling, first aid, compass reading, height and distance estimating, knot tying and tent pitching.

The diamondback patrol brought back a red ribbon. To earn a red ribbon, the patrol must score between 650 and 800 points out of a possible 1000. The boys had a real good time, and are just "itching" to get another camporee.

Jack Jaquess attended the Annual Brotherhood meeting of the Order of the Arrow, at Camp Post on May 5 and 6. The Order of the Arrow is a secret fraternity for Honorary Campers. There are five members in Post and Troop 21. Jaquess stated that the meeting was a huge success and he was sorry that more O. A. members were not able to attend.

The Wee-J's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room
© THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

At midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God: and prisoners heard them. (Acts 16:25.)

Daniel was not only an able administrator, but also a man who so calmed his close relationship with God that he continued to pray daily, even though it meant a daily sentence. We read in the New Testament of two missionaries who found comfort in prayer after being beaten and imprisoned for their faith.

Our principal reason for praying is to keep in touch with God—to share with Him our problems, our joys. This was what Daniel was doing in his daily prayers. This was what gave him the strength to stand firm in the face of death.

The same kind of strength upheld Paul and Silas in their prison cell.

In our daily work each of us faces many problems and difficulties. These are not like the den of lions or the prison cell, but to us they are very real and serious. If we pray day by day, God will give us strength we need to meet our problems and difficulties.

PRAYER: Almighty God, we are grateful to Thee because Thou art always ready to comfort and strengthen us if we will turn to Thee in times of need. Increase our faith as we came to Thee this day in prayer. In Jesus' name we call upon Thee for Thy divine help. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY—"They never sought in vain that sought the Lord aright."—Cameron F. McRae, physician (New York).

PROPER SPOT OILING WILL KILL JOHNSON GRASS

College Station—Johnson grass can be eliminated from Texas cotton fields in one season through the use of proper cultural methods supplemented by spot-spraying, says Glenn Black, extension cotton specialist.

Herbicide oil such as naphtha should be used early in the season while cool weather prevails. Diesel or kerosene give best results during warmer weather. Water solutions of sodium dalapon or other chemicals are also effective, Black says. Oils are commonly applied to the crown of Johnson grass, near the ground while water solutions are applied as foliar sprays.

The specialist states that a half and half mixture of naphtha and diesel oil or naphtha and kerosene are oil sprays commonly used in warmer weather. Oil mixtures may be used for economy with C-56 added for increased toxicity, or for a combination of contact toxicity and residual effectiveness. Oil sprays kill on contact when applied to the crown of Johnson grass sprouts 6 inches or less in height.

Sodium dalapon is usually used at the concentration of 20 pounds in 100 gallons of water. It is applied to the foliage and is a translocated herbicide but also has a residual effect.

A man on foot using a hand sprayer does the best and safest job of spot-spraying Johnson grass is crops, according to Black. He suggests a visit with the local county agent for complete details on this cost-cutting practice in cotton production. Ask the agent for a copy of B-902, "Spot Spraying Johnsongrass."

EGGS FAIL TO HATCH

Eggs which fail to hatch are costing egg producers and hatcheries in Texas and the nation millions of dollars annually, says W. F. Krueger of Texas A&M College Department of Poultry Science. A considerable part of this loss is caused from improper care of the eggs prior to incubation.

Mrs. Hegi Gives Talk At Rotary

Mrs. Fred (Madeline) Hegi reviewed the humorous book, "The Snake Has All the Lines" by Jean Kerr, the harassed mother of four little boys who also authored the best seller, "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," Thursday noon at the Rotary Club.

Mrs. Hegi gave an entertaining talk on incidents from the book as told by a mother trying to keep her household going while looking after her "four little Indians."

The Club also honored officials and workers on Tahoka Rodeo Association, with Dale Thuren making a talk in appreciation for the fine job the group did in staging the recent very successful rodeo "on a shoestring" and coming out with a profit of about $1,500.

Those honored were: Jack Miller, president; Harold Rowe, vice president; Ruben McElroy, secretary; Oran Short, B. A. Young, Son Guinn, and Lee Roy Knight, and others who worked on the event.

Miller thanked the group and the entire town and county for the wonderful cooperation.

The program was arranged by E. L. Short.

Student guests for the month, Meryl Cloe and "Moose" Hopkins, were introduced by Otis Spears and Granvel Ayer, respectively.

President H. B. McCord Jr. announced the recent Rotary District Assembly held here paid its own way, with some to spare, and that the club is now in excellent financial condition.

Lynn Men Named To Cotton Board

Lubbock—The High Plains Founders Committee for the Cotton Producers Institute was announced today by Roy Forkner of Lubbock, chairman of its organizational committee.

Mr. Forkner said committee members in their respective areas will sponsor and help organize efforts to acquaint cotton growers with the program and aims of the Institute.

The Institute is a new, voluntary business organization of cotton growers. Its aim is to expand the total market for U. S. cotton in ways that will expand acreage, production, and profits for the grower, Mr. Forkner explained.

"Program of the Institute centers around research and promotion," he said. "Through research we can lower production costs and improve fiber quality and thus overcome the one-billion-dollar inefficiencies now existing. Research can also give cotton improvements in consumer qualities which will enable it to compete in additional markets totaling five million bales. In promotion, cotton desperately needs a national advertising campaign directed to consumers."

For the Institute, Mr. Forkner envisions up to a 10-million-dollar research and promotion fund to expand the market for cotton.

"World fiber consumption is tending to rise at a spectacular rate," he explained. "If U. S. cotton can maintain its present share, projected expansions in world fiber demand will give us a 20-million-bale market in seven or eight years."

Mr. Forkner pointed out that bigger markets do not necessarily mean bigger profits to cotton growers.

"If we are to earn larger profits, we must lower our unit cost of production, improve quality, and sell cotton products more aggressively," he stated.

The High Plains Founders Committee for the Institute includes: Lynn County: J. T. Middleton, Sr., Carl Sanders, Clarence Church, Melvin Wuensche, E. R. Blakney, Jr., Buel Draper, and John Thomas.
