

Space Shot Sidetracked Rocket Ride Re-Slated

By HOWARD BENEDICT CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States' second man-in-space shot is now scheduled for 6 a.m., Eastern Standard Time Wednesday, having been delayed by the arrival of high buttermilk clouds.

Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom, the astronaut ticketed for the rocket ride, took the news of the 24-hour delay calmly. When Grissom, 35, was awakened shortly after 10:30 p.m. Monday night and told of the postponement, he shrugged, then went back to sleep.

The news came to Grissom just 2 1/2 hours before he was to begin his medical checkups and don his 20-pound space suit.

The postponement on the advice of a special team of U.S. Weather Bureau experts came as something of a surprise since all predictions up to 6:30 p.m. had been optimistic.

Even so, the nation's newest weather satellite, the Tiros III, fired a week ago, had detected signs of a developing high pressure system in the Caribbean almost as soon as it went into orbit.

Subsequent reports from the Tiros were watched closely since they substantiated ground reports of the high pressure front with multiple cloud layers.

In announcing the postponement the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the cloud cover was attributable to "an easterly wave which has been moving across the Caribbean for the past three or four days."

The weather hitch developed as technicians and scientists were preparing to resume the countdown which would have led to a scheduled 6 a.m. liftoff this morning.

The presence of the high clouds would have hampered full photographic coverage of the operation which scientists insist upon from blastoff to burnout of the booster.

The delay caused a slight mounting of tension here in what after a cafe was robbed in Oklahoma City Monday night of $38,000, a waitress and a customer later identified Benson as the robber.

Police here said Deputy Sheriff told them that details of the New London school disaster checked with details given by Benson.

Neither did his school year book list such a name, the police chief said.

Benson served two terms in the Oklahoma state prison at McAlester. The first was in 1947 for larceny and the second in 1951 for armed robbery. He was released in 1958.

The New London explosion is considered the most tragic disaster involving children in modern times.

The great East Texas oil field was reaching its peak at the time. Oil derricks dotted the area.

The blast occurred while all children were in their classes, but only a short while before classes would have been dismissed for the day.

The explosion shook the countryside for miles. Witnesses said the newly erected school building seemed to explode from within.

had been an otherwise calm acceptance of the fact that another man was scheduled to take a 300-mile ride like a bullet.

NASA officials said they had noted a sort of "ho hum" attitude toward the flight and observed that "Grissom could have less than a perfect flight."

The attitude was attributed to the perfect space flight by Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., on May 5 and the calm assumption that what had been done before could be done again.

Grissom is scheduled to take off in a 4,040 pound space capsule named Liberty Bell 7.

The suborbital flight is to be along a carbon copy of the arcing ride taken by Shepard. His capsule hurtled 116 miles high and landed 302 miles down range after a 15-minute ride that reached a peak speed of 5,160 miles an hour.

A preliminary countdown Monday, during which the 83-foot rocket was partially fueled, was perfect.

And Grissom, of Mitchell, Ind., was reported to be a "cool customer" as the time neared for him to don his silvery space suit and ride the elevator to the top of the rocket gantry.

Grissom spent Monday in a "ready room" at the Cape, going over last minute details. With him much of the time were Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., the back-up pilot, and Shepard.

Grissom, revealed Monday as the pilot for the flight, is a 5-foot-6 1/2 pound veteran of the Korean War. A crack test pilot, he has logged more than 3,000 hours of flying time.

All his experience as a test pilot is needed on the flight. He is called upon to perform a number of in-flight tasks, including actually controlling the roll, pitch and yaw of the spacecraft for brief periods.

But his job is to be easier than Shepard's was. The total assignments were reduced so Grissom would have more time just to sit back and look at things inside and outside the capsule.

Spending Bill Topic Of Discussion

AUSTIN (AP)—House members tentatively approved a $300 million state spending bill today but put off final consideration until Wednesday at least.

The action throws the final debate on the general appropriations bill on the same day that administration leaders had picked for the crucial consideration of a $300 million tax package.

Representatives quickly cut off consideration of a number of economy amendments by a 70-65 vote, then gave the spending bill a vote of 77-61 for enactment.

Any amendments offered must get a two-thirds vote of approval. The final action was delayed by a 68-63 vote when four-fifths vote was needed for the final vote today.

"When we get ready to pass a $2.5 billion tax bill it seems that we could well afford to spend a few hours discussing the things involved," said Rep. Wade Spillman of McAllen, leader of the economy bloc that had hoped to trim up to $30 million from the bill.

Rep. B. H. Dewey of Bryan argued that the bill was the same as approved by the House on April 26 in the regular session and members were already familiar with its provisions.

The bill calls for $300,777,539 out of the general revenue fund in 1962-1963 compared with the Senate version for $364 million in expenditures from this fund. The House version calls for $2.5 billion from all sources of revenue, including federal grants.

After the appropriations bill votes, the House quit until 10 a.m. Wednesday.

I was mad at the school. I was reprimanded for smoking on the school grounds," the ex-convict was quoted as saying.

His statement further read: "I stole two 18-inch wrenches to take loose the unions (which connected the gas line) under the school. I broke both loose and waited for two weeks to see what would happen."

Eichmann Didn't Even Ask If Legal

By THOMAS A. REEDY JERUSALEM (AP)—Adolf Eichmann testified today he never inquired whether any of his actions connected with the mass slaughter of Jews under Hitler were legal.

"That was up to my superiors," the former Gestapo colonel testified.

Israeli Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner asked Eichmann on cross-examination: "Was there a German law authorizing a commander of a concentration camp to murder Jews?"

"Such a law, of course, did not exist," Eichmann replied. "The rest is not known to me. Those who did have anything to do with this always referred to the theme that the words of the Fuehrer (Hitler) had the force of law."

Rain Deals One From Off The Bottom

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle could blame the elements for making the road toward Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 all-time steeper.

As it spurred by an edict from baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Monday that Ruth's mark can be tied or bettered only in 154 games, the New York Yankee home run twins hit a total of three in Baltimore Monday night, only to have two of them—one for each of the sluggers—washed out as rain forced postponement of the second game of a double-header.

As matters stand Maris has hit 35 home runs in 88 games; Ruth did not hit his 33rd in 1927, his record year, until the 106th game Aug. 5. He hit his 33rd in the 96th game July 26. So Maris is 18 games ahead of the Babe's pace, and Mantle is seven games in front.

There's Nothing To Building An Island

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A huge dragline, stranded in the muddy Arkansas River, had to build itself an island of sand to escape rising waters.

The $100,000 excavating machine was being used Monday on a sandbar to reclaim a portion of the river downstream from here. Rapidly rising waters, fed by weekend rains, covered the sandbar and began lapping toward the expensive diesel motors.

Engineers couldn't get the machine to shore, so they put it to work building an island. Oak timbers were placed in front of the machinery and engineers hope this will slow the rushing waters enough to keep them from undermining the sand island and washing the machine downstream.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (identifiable breath). Get FASTEETH at any "ice counter."

Engineers couldn't get the machine to shore, so they put it to work building an island. Oak timbers were placed in front of the machinery and engineers hope this will slow the rushing waters enough to keep them from undermining the sand island and washing the machine downstream.

Spahn Serves Up Win Number 297

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer The magic number now is three for Warren Spahn, the southpaw ace who has discovered the last five are the toughest in his bid for that charmed 300th victory.

West Germany probably has the strongest team in Western Europe, but still is rated in the class of even a sub par U.S. team, so Coach Jim Elliott has no worries.

The meet is scheduled to get underway at 1:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time in the Neckarstadion. The U.S. women competed against the West German girls Monday night and lost 66-38.

The men's meet will follow the pattern of the one against Russia except that there will be no decathlon or walk.

Take Choice: Sell Short, Sell Big

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—America faces the choice today, a master salesman said, of "selling itself short—or selling itself into a bigger boom than it has ever known."

"We could use at least a million new salesmen right now," said Frank C. Russell, "and if we had them we could keep every factory humming."

"A good salesman keeps at least five other people at work," he said.
Russell himself has been a top salesman for more than 40 years and has sold everything from shoes to windows.

His interest in windows began as a child when he knocked a home run right through a neighbor's window while playing sandlot baseball.

The lady of the house bawled him out so vigorously that the boy who didn't have a dime in his pocket—let alone a credit card—made a silent tearful vow.
"I decided that if I ever made enough money I'd pay for every window any kid in the land broke," Russell recalled.

In 1951 while head of the world's largest storm window firm he did a retail business of $55 million that year. Russell mentioned his childhood vow to a business friend.

"Well, you have the money now—why don't you do something about it?" replied his friend.
Russell did. In the last 10 years he has replaced at a cost of more than $2,000 some 3,500 windows broken in sandlot football or baseball games. For obvious reasons, he didn't extend his offer to kids who break windows while playing in the street.

Even as it is, one surpuss accused me of encouraging juvenile delinquency," said Russell. But not the Boys' Clubs of America. They voted him a Man-of-the-Year award.

Doing the unusual has been a way of life for Russell who believes "the greatest present cure in America is the search for security—instead of opportunity."
At 61 the sturdy, gray-haired industrialist retired for the second time. But he still operates four businesses at his home near Chestertown, Md., ranging from a sales training institute to the development of an 110-acre resort and yacht club.

Russell, born in Toledo, Ohio, went to work at nine when his father died. He tended furnaces, mowed lawns, delivered newspapers: carried bags as a bellhop.

"I quit school after my sophomore year in high school," he said. "The business world simply held more interest for me."
At 17 he was managing a 104-room hotel. In the depression year of 1934 he earned $50,000 as a salesman in the home supplies field. Three years later he founded his own firm.

By the time he was 47 Russell had achieved a major goal of his youth. He had become a multimillionaire.
Over the years he trained 20,000 salesmen, flew 1 1/2 million miles in his fleet of five personal planes sailed and fished in his 10-foot yacht, golfed and hobnobbed with the world's wealthy and famous folk.

"It's been a wonderful, wonderful life—and it still is," said Russell, who still has the bounce of a tennis ball. "I don't believe in retiring from something to nothing."

Aching Back? Try Trip To Vacationland Puerto Rico

BY INEZ ROBB
After all, I went to Puerto Rico more or less for a vacation, mainly because the President wasn't the only person who returned from the Kennedy invasion of Europe with an aching back.

I have no one to blame but myself if the transformation of the island from "the porhouse of the Caribbean" to an expanding industrial economy proved a whiff of smoke to an old fire horse and sent me in search of a typewriter. Nine days in Puerto Rico and one in the Virgin Isles (St. Thomas) to be exact, banished the aches and made me wonder why I had not a year since joined the tourist throngs that produced 410,000 visitors to Puerto Rico in 1960 and rang up $58,000,000 in her cash registers.

Part of the social and economic rebirth of this island is a program called "Serenidad." Its aim, as the Puerto Rican per capita income climbs steadily, is to demonstrate that man does not live by bread—or the consumption of more merchandise—alone. It aims at the good life and a better civilization. By the time I left Puerto Rico I was as full of "serenity" as well as an old shoe, to coin a cliché. The ganglia started unknocking at Dorado Beach, about 25 miles West of San Juan, where even a hot-house type like myself can dog-paddle in the Atlantic, so warm at this point that no self-respecting polar bear would go near it. I loved it!

The Dorado Beach Hotel development is an interesting part of the "Operation Bootstrap" that has remade the island. The hotel on the ocean was built only four years ago by Laurence S. Rockefeller as part of Puerto Rico's effort to exploit its fine tourist attractions. From time to time I have dreamed of living the life of Riley, but never that of Rockefeller. But at Dorado beach it's possible. While my athletic betters played golf, I explored the little village of Dorado, three miles away. This picturesque town is supposedly the first permanent settlement founded by Juan Ponce de Leon, who accompanied Christopher Columbus on his second voyage to the New World. It was on this second voyage, in 1493, that Columbus discovered Puerto Rico.

We spent four days exploring the beauties and restaurants of San Juan and found them both delightful. The "new" city is full of skyscrapers and modernity. The Old

Congress Acts Against Recognition of China

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee deferred action Monday on a resolution to put Congress on record again in opposition to diplomatic recognition of Red China and its seating in the United Nations. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., Senate minority leader, principal sponsor of the proposal, requested the delay until he can consider revised language under study by the committee. Dirksen is in the hospital for treatment of a stomach ailment.

No Affection Given

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Florence Gilbert divorced song-writer Ray Gilbert Monday saying he showed her no affection and continually stayed out late without explaining why. She won $300 monthly alimony. They married in 1952.

City, an island unto itself, is a treasure trove of 16th and 17th Century fortifications and architecture. (And also of streets so immaculate that white wings come along every hour or so just to dust the gutters.) The city and the commonwealth are united to preserve the Old City and its Spanish heritage.

I found it infinitely satisfactory to look out across the harbor of San Juan to a small island that seemed blessed with two crumbling Greek temples and told that the abandoned ruins are those of an old leper colony no longer needed.

Gambling is legal in Puerto Rico, and San Juan is full of young men selling lottery tickets by day, and of big, flashy casinos jammed at night with tourists. The "big" lotteries, with the top prize in excess of $300,000, are on the island's two great holidays, the Fourth of July and Christmas.

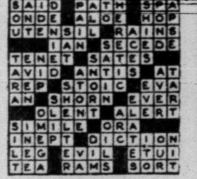

To fly from San Juan to St. Thomas and back in a day is fun and easy. The flight takes thirty minutes each way in a sturdy DC3. St. Thomas Harbor, with islands rising abruptly from the water, is like Rio de Janeiro in miniature. Its principal city, Charlotte Amalie, is a free port with enough loot in its stores to drive a shopper daffy.

There are two "mists" in Charlotte Amalie. First, the sight of Bluebeard's Castle, where the temperamental pirate disposed of so many wives, and, second, the drive straight up the mountains to Mountain Top Hotel. The view from that height is spectacular, but it is not the view that is the "mist." The "mist" is the hotel's speciality, a banana daiquiri. Hoestly!

Chicago Violence Increases

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Police were out in force again today in Chicago's racially tense Southwest Side where 20 white persons have been injured by rioting gangs and 71 Negroes arrested in the past 10 days.

Groups of Negro youths continued to roam the drab, run-down area near the Harrison High School despite the presence of a task force of about 150 policemen Monday.

A 17-year-old white youth was grabbed by three Negroes about his own age while on the way to work, dragged into an alley near the school, slashed, knocked down and kicked. However, he was not injured seriously. Police said two Negro youths, seized a half block from the scene, carried a length of tire chain and a bottle of wine.

Another Negro was arrested for flinging rocks at passing cars, police said, and eight others were picked up for refusing to leave a street corner.

Detective Charles Glass told a coroner's jury the fatal shooting of a 17-year-old Harrison High School pupil last Wednesday appeared to have sparked the forays by young Negro gangs.

At Biloxi, Miss., Walter A. Bailey, supreme vice president of the Ku Klux Klan, said he wired the mayor of Chicago, that the KKK offered its help "in every way possible." Bailey did not elaborate. He also charged Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy "has turned his back on the white people of the nation. Therefore, it is the duty of the white people of the nation who are opposed to integration to form a solid wall of resistance."

At Jackson, Miss., City Judge James Spencer convicted 20 "Freedom Riders" on breach of the peace charges. This brought to 24 the total arrested since the riders began challenging Mississippi's century-old segregation laws May 24.

Five riders who left New York last Thursday were refused counter service at a Chattanooga, Tenn., restaurant for half an hour. Then they were escorted out by four uniformed policemen and departed in a private car.

At Montgomery, Ala., U.S. Dist. Court Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. withheld action on a new request for an injunction to prohibit organized Freedom Rides in Alabama. He directed opposing attorneys to present written beliefs before he makes a ruling.

Six Columbus, Ga., Negroes were arrested on charges of violating the state's bus seating law in an unsuccessful attempt to desegregate Columbus city buses. Police said they sat in the front area of two buses and refused to move to the rear when ordered to do so.

Chances Slim For Rescue

By ROBERT D. LEWIS
ORLEANS, Ind. (AP)—Bad air, increasing cold and the passage of hours dimmed chances for the rescue of two student cave explorers missing in an unnamed southern Indiana cavern since Sunday.

But a chilled team of 19 rescuers worked in one-hour shifts through the night in hopes of finding the pair behind the debris-jammed opening to a large cavern which some believed offered refuge above rushing waters.

The missing Indiana University graduate students, Tom Arnold, Peru, Ind., and Ralph S. Moreland, Knox, Ind., both 25, had not been heard from since three heavy cloudbursts flooded the cave entrance Sunday evening and sent icy waters racing down its twisting limestone passages.

Hopes of finding the two alive faded as the rescue operation stretched into its third day. Searchers worked in groups of four to six hacking with grappling hooks at the debris which blocked the cavern.

"Air was getting so stale," one said, "we have to have an air compressor brought in."

As one worker hauled himself from the mouth of the cave, he said there was still some hope since air bubbles were trickling through the blockade, indicating an airpocket—within might be keeping the prisoners alive.

Another rescuer reported the water level had dropped five feet but was still 10 to 12 feet high.

Waiting and watching as one team after another of searchers came out, were the parents of both men and Moreland's brown-haired wife, Karen. Despite reports that not a sound had been heard from within the cave, the PERINETS said they had faith the two would be found alive.

"I have faith in my husband," Karen Moreland said.

Twos A Snaky Hunt

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Roger Tucker, a bus terminal employee making a routine check of storage lockers made an unexpected—and chilling—discovery Monday. More than 15 snakes had been left in the locker in two paper sacks and a cardboard box. Officers responding to Tucker's call said the snakes were of several different varieties and included one rattler. Police had to kill a few of the snakes. The others were turned over to the biology department of Mercer University.

Dates for the training are from 23 July 1961 to 6 August 1961. This year, the Guardsmen face nine days of training in bivouac areas, with only five scheduled to be spent in garrison quarters. All units in the sprawling Second Battle Group of the 36th Infantry Division—located in Brownwood, Santa Anna, Brady, Lampasas, Stephenville, Coleman, Abilene, Stamford, Snyder and Ballinger—will travel to North Fort Hood, near Gatesville, in military vehicles. Snyder unit officers of the Second Battle Group—all serving in Company A—include Capt. John T. Lynch Jr. (Company Commander), 1st Lt. Billy J. Brown (Executive Officer), 1st Lt. George T. Richardson (Weapons Platoon Leader), and 2nd Lt. James H. Stewart (1st Rifle Platoon Leader). A total of 69 Snyder enlisted men are also taking part in the two-week exercises. Also. ## Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTION: Do St. Bernard dogs really rescue people?

ANSWER: Saint Bernards are enormous dogs from 25 to 28 inches high and weighing as much as 250 pounds. The breed is supposed to have originated in Asia and to have been brought into Switzerland by Roman soldiers. With the coming of Christianity, monasteries were established where monks devoted their lives to prayer and to helpful work for their fellow men. One such monastery was St. Bernard Hospice, far up in a high mountain pass. In the heavy snows of winter many travelers would wander off the roads until they were lost and frozen with the cold. The Bernards brought in the big dogs to help in their rescue work. The dogs were sent out in groups of three or four. After finding a victim, two of the dogs were trained to lie down beside him to keep him warm while the other went back to the monastery for help. This fine service became so famous that the breed became known as Saint Bernards. They are still on the job.

FOR YOU TO DO: The picture would look very well if you cut it out and pasted it on a card, coloring it with water color or crayon. The dark patches on the dog's body and side of head are rich orange brown and the rest of his body is a snowy white. A blue sky will make the white stand out.

(Jeanne St. Germaine of Norwich, Conn., won $10. for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors, in care of this paper.)

Who Gets The Desert?

By Andrew Borowiec
PARIS (AP) — Independent Tunisia and Morocco are beginning to split with the Algerian rebels over their claims to the Sahara Desert.

As a result of the conflicting claims, France is likely to argue that she must hold on to the desert and its potential oil and mineral wealth lest it become a source of major discord.

The latest rift developed Monday between Tunisia and the Algerian rebel government, which from its exile home in Tunis considers itself the future ruler of Algeria and the Sahara.

Shortly after Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba announced Monday he would send a commando unit to plant the red-and-white Tunisian flag in the Sahara south of the present Tunisian border, the Algerian rebels issued a warning.

Apparently fearing a compromise between France and Tunisia rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas said these problems can only be settled "with a sovereign and independent Algeria." He added: "No valid change of the frontier can be made with a colonialist power which has no right to conclude any accord in the name of Algeria."

With peace negotiations between France and the rebels resuming Thursday, the Algerian Nationalists also appealed for African nations to back their claim to the vast desert. President Charles de Gaulle's government maintains that the Sahara forms a geographic and political entity separate from Algeria. During the first round of the negotiations with the rebels, the French envoys refused to discuss the Sahara's future.

To the west, on the other side of the Sahara, the Moroccan government is claiming a vast area of the desert near Colomb-Bechar and Tindouf that has coal and iron deposits.

Abbas and Moroccan King Hassan II conferred two weeks ago but there was no indication that they had reached any agreement on the Moroccan claim.

France thus far has ignored the Moroccan claim.

Gatesville Inmates Are Restless

GATESVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Texas rangers are investigating recent wholesale escapes of inmates from the State School for Boys in this Central Texas town.

Officials said 125 boys have walked away from the unbarred institution in the past three days. Eighty-two fled in one group Saturday night. Officers said all but 19 have been retaken.

Ranger Captain Clint Peoples of Waco made the announcement that rangers were looking into the matter.

"Some of the inmates brought back talked about a possible riot, and that's when we were called in by the Texas Youth Council," the ranger captain said.

"We are fearful of future breaks or future violence," Peoples said. He promised reformatory officials and guards "all the support they need in this matter."

The Texas Youth Council has jurisdiction over the Gatesville school.

The council asked the assistance of rangers as escapes continued at the institution. Eighteen boys were reported to have fled Sunday, 14 Monday morning and 11 more Monday afternoon.

School officials said the escapes started after the indefinite suspension of a guard because he refused to help investigate the beating of an inmate three weeks ago.

Mark Sills, director of the boys' program at the school, said the guard denied the reported beating but would not help investigate the matter.

In Austin the director of the Texas Youth Council, Dr. James A. Turman, in commenting on the situation said: "A lot of the boys at the school feel like because it is a juvenile school we are without support. However, although we do not have guards with guns, we have the complete support of the Texas rangers and the Department of Public Safety."

Washington Has Atomic Shelter

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — To the surprise of almost everyone, there is a place to hide in case of an atomic attack on Washington.

It's a man-made cave, directly under the Abraham Lincoln Memorial, a cavern so big it's busy creating its own stalactites and stalagmites.

But if Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, has his way, it will be more than a vast hideaway. It will be turned into an underground museum in which the 2.5 million memorial visitors each year can learn more of their, and Schwengel's favorite hero.

Schwengel and Randle Truett, chief historian for the National Capital Parks, took a couple of reporters on a conducted tour of the cave.

"This," Schwengel said, as we climbed the steps to where Lincoln sits pondering, "is the most visited memorial in the world."

To Schwengel, this is as it should be.

"Lincoln is the most American of our American presidents," he said. "He has the spirit of our forefathers."

Schwengel climbed down the ladder into the dingy cave below with the enthusiasm of a collector on the trail of an original copy of Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

It's a huge hole, all right. About 165 x 60 x 60 feet.

Apparently the builders had to clear away a lot of dirt in order to drive pilings heavy enough to support the weight of the Memorial. On the pilings they erected huge concrete pillars.

When they finished, they didn't bother to fill the huge cavity.

Schwengel has written Conrad Wirth, National Park Service director, for a preliminary estimate of what it would cost to turn the cave into a museum. And he has even figured out how, at a dime or a quarter a throw, it could start paying for itself.

Well, things don't happen fast in Washington. In 1967 Congress decided a memorial should be built to Lincoln. In 1911 it created a commission to do the job. On May 30, 1922, with 50,000 looking on, the magnificent monument was finally dedicated.

Still, one has to start somewhere. And Schwengel, a onetime teacher, is eager to begin.

"We could all be better citizens," he said, "if we could understand American history and American traditions."

Dead 'Coyote' Was Really A Playing Child

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—Six boys and girls were playing soldier as it grew dark in the Encino hills. A dog barked at them.

Its owner, Raynor P. Winward, thought it was coyotes again. Coyotes had frequently invaded the swank foothill district in recent months.

"I got my old 22 rifle and a flashlight and went to investigate," Winward, 49, said later Monday night. "I could see something crouching that had a reddish appearance."

Winward fired. James Johnson, 14, son of an advertising executive, screamed and ran. "I've been shot!" he yelled to his playmates.

They thought the boy was still playing war—until he fell, and they saw bloodstains on his maroon T-shirt.

He was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Johnson, were stunned. They sat on the steps of their nearby home, in the darkness, and wept.

Winward was booked on suspicion of murder.

He told police over and over that he was sure his target was a coyote until he fired.

"Then I saw the boy," he said. "My God! I shot a boy. Oh, my God!"

He wept as he was led to a cell.

One Exception To The Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Figures indicated today that a farmer who receives more than $1,000 for participating in this year's emergency feed program will be the exception rather than the rule.

These Agriculture Department figures show that about 1,177,000 farms have been signed to receive corn and sorghum grain land under the program in return for payments expected to run about $750 million. This would average out to about $640 a farm.

Tax Bill Compromise Is Top Talk Of House Members

By GARTH JONES
AUSTIN (AP)—House members debated state spending today but behind the scenes everyone talked about the latest tax bill compromise effort.

Rep. James Cotten, head of the House Appropriations Committee, talked with Speaker James Turman late Monday, and announced the House's $380 million spending bill will be debated today. An effort will be made to trip up to $30 million from the measure in an economy move that would even rule out new carpeting for the House.

Rep. Charles Ballman, Borger, head of the House Tax Committee, said the substitute tax bill approved by his committee Monday will be laid out for debate Wednesday. "If there is too much objection, I may have to wait until Thursday," Ballman said.

The substitute tax bill would raise $339 million, mostly from 2 per cent sales tax levies on motor and power driven objects, construction materials, utility sales, and other retail sales of over $5. It does not contain the Pennsylvania type of selective sales tax recommended by the governor. However, it does include natural gas pipeline and franchise tax features similar to his suggestions.

Although the House Tax Committee recommended passage of the substitute proposal, it also ordered the original administration bill printed. If the substitute is defeated, then the original would be eligible for immediate debate.

Both House Bill 20 (the original) and the substitute are compromise measures more equitable and far less regressive than a general sales tax. Gov. Price Daniel commented: "The action of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee in presenting both of these alternative plans should speed a final compromise agreeable to the majority."

The substitute appropriations bill was proposed by four representatives headed by Rep. Wade Spilman, McAllen. The others are Reps. Collier Adams, Lubbock; Ben Barnes, De Leon; and Dan Garrison, Houston. The largest single item they propose to erase from the House bill would be $250,000 for new carpeting in the House. Other economy items include a new sprinkler system for the capital grounds, $20,000 elimination of pay for legislators from last November to Jan. 1, $100,000, and reduced salary raises for administrative officials.

Monday night the House State Affairs Committee held a public hearing on a bill (HR21) that would put strict controls on lobbyists. Daniel has complained that "arrogant lobbyists" kept his tax program from being passed in the regular session.

Other committee action included:

Four bills sent to subcommittee by the tax group including one (HR25) to tax coin operated vending machines, one (HR32) to net $350 million from a combination 2 per cent sales tax levy and a 4 per cent corporate income tax, and another (HR38) to raise $776 million with a 1 per cent sales tax plus an occupation tax on natural gas pipelines.

Snyderites Attend Band School

ABILENE — Two students from Snyder have been accepted for the 1961 summer band and twirling school at McMurry College, July, 18-23.

The final count should run between 300 and 400 students, Dr. Raymond T. Bynum, director, has announced.

Students from Snyder who are attending the school include Eve Starnes and Ronnie Stevens.

The McMurry Band School faculty includes some of the top band directors in the West Texas area in all phases of music, including twirling.

Students participate in two public concerts during the two-week school. Their course of instruction includes both band work and section training on individual instruments.

The school includes a well-planned recreational program in addition to the band work.

Dr. Bynum, who directs the McMurry College Band, will begin his 15th year at the college next fall. For many years he directed the Abilene High School Band.

Sugar, Water Can Cause Trouble

HOUSTON (AP)—Testimony was scheduled today in the perjury trial of three officials of the Cal-Tex Citrus Juice Co.

A jury of 11 men and one woman was selected.

Gordon Van Laew of Houston, president of the company, is charged with three counts of perjury. Dell Van Laew of Hidalgo, Tex., vice president, and Arthur B. Becker of Houston, secretary-treasurer, are charged with one count each.

The prosecution claims the men testified no sugar or water was added to their orange juice product, Vita-Pak, when the officials knew this was untrue.

The testimony was made during a 1959 civil trial in which the three were found innocent of conspiring to defraud the public but guilty of selling adulterated and misbranded orange juice.

THE ALL ELECTRIC HEAT PUMP

DOES BOTH JOBS AUTOMATICALLY...
WITH ONE SETTING OF THE THERMOSTATIC CONTROLS

Year-round indoor climate control is completely automatic with the All-Electric Heat Pump. The same central system unit that cools your home in summer also heats it in winter, using only air and electricity. In hot weather, the Heat Pump extracts heat from indoor air and pumps it outside. In cold weather, the Heat Pump automatically reverses itself. It extracts heat from outdoor air (even when it's below freezing) and pumps it into your home. And during changeable weather, the Heat Pump switches automatically from cooling to heating or back again, as needed, to maintain the temperature you like best. You just set the thermostatic controls once and enjoy perfect comfort the year round. See your air conditioning contractor soon . . . or call Texas Electric Service Company for complete information.
