Crude Output From Texas Is Cut Back

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Production in the Yates field, Pecos county, today was ordered reduced from a maximum of 47,133 barrels daily to 42,572 barrels in the railroad commission's first allowable cutback since the war ended.

In an order the commission said the reduction, accomplished by placing the field on a 28-day producing schedule instead of a 31-day schedule, was necessitated by the end of the war and the lack of pipeline and car facilities for movement of Yates crude.

Askings By PAW

Chairman Olin Culberson also announced receipt of a September production recommendation from the Petroleum Administration for War. The recommendation is for total daily production of 2,144,000 barrels of all petroleum liquids, including 1,978,000 barrels of crude oil. It displaced an earlier (made before the war's end) certification for $2,356,000 barrels daily of all liquids including 2,320,000 barrels of crude.

The federal agency, which has announced it will discontinue its recommendations to the states after October, said that the war emergency pipeline will operate at a decreased level in September.

In added the line would require 100,000 barrels daily of West Texas type crude and 125,000 barrels daily of East Texas type crude, a total of 225,000 barrels daily. The line has been operating at 325,000 barrels daily.

Compensation Payments

PAW said further it was making every effort to cease by Sept. 1 compensation payments granted on crude oil movements from Texas points where inadequate normal transportation facilities have necessitated compensation on the basis of war necessity.

Fields, areas and volumes of crudes to be affected by termination of compensation were listed as follows:

Hawkins field — 3,000 barrels daily by tank car to various independents.

District 2 — 6,500 barrels via Baton Rouge to Standard of Ohio; 3,000 barrels via Baton Rouge to Ashland Refining; 5,000 barrels via tank car to district one.

Talco field — 5,500 barrels daily by tank car to district one.

Fullerton field — 3,250 barrels by tank car to various independents.

Hastings field—1,000 barrels to Stanolind Refining in district two.

Mirando field — 500 barrels by tank car to district one.

Hoffman field — 600 barrels by tank car to district one.

Coastal And West Texas

Heavy coastal B type crudes, 4,500 barrels by tank car to district one; coastal A type crudes, 700 barrels by tank car to district one.

Miscellaneous fields, 2,700 barrels by tank car to Wisconsin; 19,500 barrels by Standard of

Truman To Protect Vets' Jobs; French Press Is Called Unfair

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—President Truman plans to see that no veteran loses his job rights before Congress has a chance to plug a loophole in the law.

In his flatly expressed opinion none of us likes General Franco.

The chief executive had a very pleasant visit last night with General Charles de Gaulle of France, but he says the press of France has not been giving this country a square deal.

Secretary Ickes can stay in the cabinet as long as he likes, and the President believes the interior secretary is satisfied.

Lend-lease had to come to an end because hostilities were concluded, and termination of the program was not intended by the chief executive as a slap at the new Labor government of Britain.

Those were among a dozen more points brought out today in a rapid-fire news conference at the White House. Mr. Truman, incisive in manner but at ease, fired back the answers as reporters put their questions.

He said that if necessary he will recommend mandatory legislation to give discharged veterans the right to their old jobs.

Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey said last night that the job rights will end with the official cessation of hostilities, but Mr. Truman said it will be a long time before the war is declared officially over. Congress, he said, will do the formal ending of the war.

Mr. Truman made his comments on Generalissimo Franco in declaring that the case had been stated very plainly by British Prime Minister Attlee. Attlee had said that so long as Franco remained in power Spain can't get into the United Nations.

A dozen French journalists and photographers here covering the general's trip attended the news conference. They stayed afterward and were obviously rocked back on their heels when Mr. Truman gave his frank appraisal of the treatment this country had received in French newspapers. None of them had any questions to ask. There was no detail on what the President had in mind.

The chief executive said termination of lend-lease when the fighting ended was in conformity with a pledge he made to the Senate while he was vice president.

Other points at the news conference:

The President will recommend legislation for a return to standard time as soon as Congress comes back.

Owen J. Roberts, who recently retired from the Supreme court, has turned down an important international assignment but Mr. Truman hopes he will reconsider.

The executive has ordered all federal departments and agencies back on a 40-hour week by Sept. 9, 1945, except in cases where it would seriously hamper essential operations.

Mr. Truman expects recommendations soon from the secretaries of War and Navy on what to do about publicity and trials on the Pearl Harbor disaster.

The armed services are doing everything possible to expedite demobilization, but Mr. Truman says he believes somebody would criticize any plan that might be worked out.

President Favors Pre-War Time Again As He Speeds Return To Normal Living

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The government gave Americans a strong double shove toward normal living today.

President Truman wants us back on pre-war time fast. He said he will recommend action on this when Congress returns in September.

OPA Boss Chester Bowles said consumer durable goods — like washing machines and aluminum pots and pans which have been out of production during the war—must sell at or near 1942 price levels.

And—the President ordered all government workers back on a 40-hour week, starting Sept. 9. They are now working 44 and 48.

Mr. Truman also told them to take all their regular holidays, just as before the war.

In its drive toward the good things—as well as the perils—of peace, the government also:

1. Set out to clinch the job rights of veterans—right which Congress forgot to protect fully.
2. Turned loose 252 war plants. They'll make civilian goods and employment—if industry will buy them.
3. Warned that the 20 per cent wartime cut in coal for homes must stay—for a while, at least.
4. Ruled out any increase in sugar rations this year. They'll stay at five pounds for four months.
5. Talked of plans to help the small wage-earner get a new home, the man who can pay only $20 to $40 a month.
6. Said you could buy electric ranges and fans by December, washing machines by January.

Consumer Prices

The OPA chief laid down the government's policy on the prices at which consumer durable goods can come back on the market.

He listed only a few of the items—and the price level they must sell at—but more will follow.

OPA will name the other individual items in time.

Bowles put a ceiling—at 1942 levels — on washing machines, ironers, and aluminum pots and pans.

This first pricing of consumer durable goods by the government also set another precedent:

Every ironer, washer and pot must be tagged with its detail ceiling, right at the factory.

Volume Sales Urged

To disgruntled manufacturers of durable goods Bowles said: "Make a lot of goods at low prices. By selling a lot, you'll make good money.

He said:

"We have our teeth set in the cost of living. And we are going to hang on like a Boston Bull pup until our services as inflationary watchdog are no longer necessary.

"Let me say flatly that during this critical reconversion period, the cost of rent and food will remain at present levels, that clothing prices will be firmly held."

New small businesses—whether they make television sets or mouse-traps — will "get their prices fast."

Bowles said they would be allowed to peg their price sat the

252 Army Plants Are Declared As Surplus

By SANDOR S. KLEIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Army today declared surplus 252 government-owned plants costing an estimated $1,484,352,337 and the Navy was getting ready to do the same with 134 other plants.

There facilities will become available for purchase or lease by private industry and will help considerably in providing the additional facilities needed to achieve the tremendous postwar industrial program envisioned by the administration.

Construction Controls

The War Production board already has modified its construction control order to permit industrial building which may reach an estimated total of $4,500,000,000. WPB, however, has not yet relaxed its restrictions over private home construction, commercial and governmental building but it is under great pressure by industry to do so.

In many cases it will be necessary to retool and re-equip the surplus war plants for production of civilian goods. In others, only some slight changes are needed for a changeover to peacetime output.

Tentative Navy plans call for retention of 60 plants for postwar use or for emergency needs. In addition, there are 27 other facilities—not complete plants—which the Navy would like to keep in a standby status. There are also 142 plants built by the Defense Plant Corp. in which the Navy had partial interest. The Navy has advised DPC it no longer needs them.

Might Sell Others

High officials said the Navy was willing to sell some of the 60 postwar plants provided the purchaser would be willing to produce the things the Navy needs.

Representatives of seven top industry organizations, at a meeting with WPB Chairman J. A. Krug, urged cancellation of controls over private housing and other restricted building. There was a possibility that WPB might revoke these controls by Sept. 30.

The 252 plants declared surplus by the Army today cover nearly 50,000,000 square feet of ground and were used to produce aircraft, tanks, explosives, artillery and small arms, chemicals, steel, radar and radio. They will be available for disposal shortly through the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Machine tools and production equipment of the plants, with a few exceptions, also will become surplus.

The War department said that most of the other government-owned plants now operating for the Army have been selected tentatively to be held in standby for national defense purposes or retained for storage facilities.

Some of those retained, however, will remain in limited production for manufacture of research or test items. Others will be leased to private industry for civilian production.

Of the 252 plants, 220 were serving the Army Service forces and 32 were producing for the Army Air forces.

Railroad Diner Racket Is Bared

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP) — Servicemen and inexperienced wartime travelers were pawns, the FBI said today, in a dining car racket which cost two railroads more than $100,000 in a year and netted stewards, waiters and cooks as much as $50 each on every trip.

The FBI made the announcement with the arrest of 118 New York Central and Erie railroad employes in New York, Newark, Buffalo and Chicago on charges of violating the general conspiracy statute by conspiring to violate the provision pertaining to theft from interstate shipment. Fifty-nine persons were taken into custody in New York.

Checks "Manipulated"

E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the New York FBI office, said FBI men assigned as stewards to the Ohio State Limited, the Knickerbocker and other trains, found food and liquor checks were "manipulated" and bread crumbs substituted for ground meat. He said they uncovered these schemes:

Waiters would take orders orally, never submit a check and then keep the money paid for the food.

Waiters would leave order blanks in inconspicuous places on tables without pencils, hoping to discourage travelers from writing out their desires and, after the meal, would only pretend to fill out the check and then collect the money.

Waiters would take orders orally and then present checks used before by someone who had eaten an identical meal.

Service Orders Padded

Waiters would fill out soldiers' government orders with the most expensive meal offered, regardless of what the serviceman ordered, to cover meals served other passengers.

Cooks would sell patrons ground meat intended for the crew, mix bread crumbs with ground steak, reduce portions and provide basket salesmen—the men who sold sandwiches and soft drinks through the coaches—with cooking juices from the kitchen for fruit drinks.

Conroy said stewards were in charge of the so-called racket and divided the profits with waiters, cooks and basket salesmen.

Essair Is Ready For Passengers

Carrying of passengers on Lubbock's second airline will start Saturday, Aug. 25, it was announced Thursday by Sam Gardiner, Lubbock station manager for Essair.

First flight with passengers into Lubbock will arrive at Municipal airport at 6:49 p. m. Saturday and ten minutes later departure for Amarillo is scheduled. The flight is No. 4 on the Essair schedule.

Flight No. 1, from Amarillo to Houston will start carrying passengers Sunday morning, arriving here at 8:24 a. m. and departing for Abilene at 8:34 a. m. Flight No. 4 is from Houston to Amarillo via Austin, San Angelo, Abilene and Lubbock and Flight No. 1 is the return trip.

Started August 1

Essair, which is headed by W. F. (Bill) Long of Dallas, has been in operation since Aug. 1, carrying mail and express. The lines used Lockheed-Electra nine - passenger twin-motored planes.

Capt. J. Benson will be pilot of the first flight into Lubbock with First Pilot W. W. Martin.

Operation of the airline, one of the first feeder, local service routes in the nation, is to be watched with great interest by other lines over the nation.

Miss Velma Keller is reservations clerk and the company's number at the airport is 4646.

One Fugitive From Plainview Captured

Virgil Johnson, about 40, one of five prisoners who sawed their way out of the Hale county jail at Plainview early Wednesday, was recaptured late Thursday afternoon near Seymour by Texas Highway patrolmen, Lubbock officers were informed last night.

None of the other escapees had been reported found.

Johnson was arrested at a local hotel July 12 for investigation in connection with burglaries at Abernathy and Plainview. He since has been indicted in Hale county on two counts alleging burglary, officers said.

HST Orders Seizure Of Rail System

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—Government seizure of the Illinois Central railroad was authorized tonight by President Truman.

The Office of Defense Transportation will take over the road, which had been threatened with a strike at midnight.

The dispute involved promotions, stemming from jurisdictional conflict with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

An all-day meeting called by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder at the President's request had failed to gain any settlement of the dispute.

Stoppage Unthinkable

A stoppage in the railroad industry at this time is unthinkable, President Truman said when he signed the seizure order, the White House reported.

D. B. Robertson, head of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, told a reporter his union would not strike against the government, and that by telegrams and long distance telephone calls to union officials along the road, word was being sent out to the 3,000 members of the union to remain on the job, and that the strike was "postponed indefinitely."

Robertson said that the government would be asked to continue the promotion system which he said had been in effect for 40 years and was followed on every other standard railroad in the country.

Authority Not Defined

The White House order did not define the legal authority for the seizure.

But a spokesman for the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion said it was done under the War Powers act, the Selective Service act, and the constitutional powers of the President as commander in chief.

Meanwhile, President Truman was preparing an order today by which the government would step out of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad, Montgomery Ward & company, Goodyear tire & Rubber company and a score of other enterprises where the companies of unions defied War Labor board orders.

Kirk Named Manager

W. F. Kirk of Chicago, ODT's western railroad director, was named as federal manager of the Illinois Central by ODT Director Col. J. Monroe Johnson. Kirk and Johnson immediately called upon all employes of the railroad to continue in their jobs and report for work at the usual time.

Army protection for persons employed or seeking employment was guaranteed under Col. Johnson's order which followed the President's directive.

The ODT said the seizure was ordered to maintain "an effective system of rail transportation for military and civilian freight and passenger movement."

Preston F. Keeton Is Killed In Crash

Navy Pilot Preston F. Keeton, lieutenant (j.g.), about 23, veteran of naval air campaigns in the Pacific, was killed in the crash of his plane at sea Wednesday afternoon off the California coast, his mother, Mrs. Alma Keeton of 1312 Seventh, was officially notified Thursday night.

KEETON

The notice stated that no remains were recovered.

Keeton was killed while on a training flight from the Camp Kearney, Calif., naval auxiliary air station, it was said.

Before going into the Navy, Keeton worked for Sunbeam laundry.

Other survivors are his father, Lester Keeton of Amarillo; three brothers, Alfred, Lubbock, Corp. Haskell Keeton, Ogden, Utah, Irvin Keeton, Amarillo; and a sister, Mrs. Faye Nelson, Detroit, Mich.

Employment Picture In Texas Is Brighter

DALLAS, Aug. 23 (AP) — James H. Bond, regional War Manpower commission director here, said today there were more jobs than jobless war workers in the southwest.

He said the number of claims filed for unemployment compensation was lower than expected in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

He said the number of applicants at the United States Employment service office here continued to decline. He said the number had dropped to 500 today, and that 233 had been referred to jobs before noon.

He said if new and large layoffs should come, the picture might change but said "there is nothing to worry about now."

Three Area Men Who Gave Lives In War To Be Honored Saturday

THREE South Plains war heroes —all of whom gave their lives in courageous action against the enemy—will be honored at an all-post review and parade at Lubbock Army Air Field at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Next of kin of the three men, two of whom were combat infantrymen, will be on hand to receive the five awards and decorations, two Silver Stars, the Bronze Star Medal and the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster.

Col. Howell M. Estes, jr., commanding officer at LAAF, will present the medals to the parents of the three men.

The entire military personnel of the field will stand in formal tribute to the men who gave their lives in combat. The impressive ceremonies will be conducted on the flight line.

The parents who will receive the awards, the person to whom the award was made and the citation accompanying the award includes:

Paul Sherrod of 2702 Twenty-third street, Lubbock, who will be presented the Silver Star, awarded posthumously to his son, Pfc. Paul Sherrod, jr., who was killed while leading an attack single handed against a Japanese pillbox on Leyte on Nov. 6, 1944.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Hill of Denver City, will be presented the Silver Star and the Bronze Star Medal, both awarded posthumously to their son, Pfc. Billie B. Hill, who was killed while leading an attack of the Ninth Infantry in France.

And Leo D. Splawn of Slaton, who will be presented the Air Medal and one Oak Leaf Cluster, posthumously awarded to his son, S/Sgt. Fred E. Splawn, an AAF veteran in the SW Pacific.

Japs Start Disarming Ships In First Full Surrender Act

At Least 7,500 Men Armed To Teeth To Spearhead First Island Landing

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, Friday, Aug. 24—At least 7,500 soldiers armed to the teeth will spearhead the occupation Army landing in Japan with General MacArthur Tuesday, it was announced on Okinawa today as the vanquished empire prepared to disarm all her ships at sea in the first act of surrender.

In the first aerial wave will be 350 sky giants—150-four-engined Army transports and 150 Liberators from Okinawa air bases and about 50 other big transports from Iwo Jima.

Around the sky train will hover swarms of fighters, ready to open at the first sign of treachery, and the 20 to 30 fighting men in each plane will be armed and alerted as though for an actual invasion.

To Land At Atsugi

The terminal for this armada will be Atsugi airdrome, 20 miles southwest of Tokyo, where MacArthur will land, meet the enemy's imperial general staff face to face for the first time and give it further orders.

From then on Japan will take its orders from MacArthur, who

MANILA, Friday, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Japanese government radioed General MacArthur today that execution of his directives in preparing for arrival of occupation troops in Japan has been retarded because of a typhoon.

"We feel it necessary to inform you that, in spite of our best efforts, the preparations required by you for the entry of the advanced party are meeting some difficulties due to the heavy 700-meter typhoon which lasted from the evening of the 22nd until the morning of the 23rd," the message stated, "and brought about considerable damage to the communications and transportation in the Kanto district."

will preside when the final articles of surrender are signed in Tokyo bay Aug. 31.

Under his orders already issued the Japanese were disarming all ships at sea today, and the air force—once the terror of the Orient—was grounded save for liaison planes, unarmed and carrying surrender instructions to remote commands.

Submarines were ordered to surface and fly the black flag of surrender. Ships in home waters rode at anchor. Ships at sea were ordered to dump explosives overboard and set sail for MacArthur-designated ports.

Fleet To Move In

In the second step toward the surrender, Allied naval fleets will move in and occupy enemy coastal waters tomorrow, (Japanese time) while the Japanese will immobilize all vessels in Tokyo bay and disarm the surrounding shores, bristling with coastal guns and antiaircraft batteries.

MacArthur announced yesterday that the queen of the fleet, the mighty Battleship Missouri, had been chosen as the site for signing the articles of surrender in the bay Aug. 31.

Hundreds of transport planes were gathering on Okinawa, 325 miles south of Japan, for Tuesday's great aerial migration which will carry MacArthur to Japan at the head of the occupation forces

Japs In China Quit As Civil War Looms

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Aug. 23. (AP)—More than 1,000,000 Japanese troops are to be surrendered to the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, it was disclosed today, coincident with a report that the Communists in north and central China had "gathered their strength in an all-out offensive."

Word of the new Communist action, bearing the threat of civil war, was only one of several problems confronting Chinese leadership. Others included the question of whether British or Chinese troops would occupy Hong Kong, the relative position of Russion and Chinese forces in Manchuria, and the future role of the Chinese in French Indo-China.

Half of Mainland Strength

The 1,000,000 figure was disclosed in a battle order delivered by Nipponese envoys at Chihkiang to Gen. Ho Yinchin, commander of the Chinese forces. It was estimated that they represented one-half of the total Japanese military strength on the Asiatic mainland.

The Communist New China Daily News, published in Chungking, reported the gathering of strength by the Communists, and said that communist troops were approaching Wanpung and Nanyuan, close to the ancient Chinese capital of Peiping.

The newspaper said also that other Communist forces had battled their way into the west railroad station at Tientsin, and that "street fighting is in progress."

Seaport Surrounded

Still other Communist troops were reported to have surrounded Tsingtao, famous Shantung seaport on the Yellow sea, while those in Ahnwei province were said to have entered Wuhu, on the Yangtze 55 miles upstream from Nanking.

The Communist news agency said that two prominent Communists, Lin Tso-Han and Gen. Chou En-Lai intended to come to Chungking for discussions with the government.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of U. S. forces in China, stepped into the Hong Kong picture to announce that British and Chinese governments were negotiating on whose forces should occupy the British crown colony.

(Prime Minister Attlee told Commons in London that plans for re-establishing British administration in Hong Kong "are fully prepared.")

Meanwhile the surrender problem in Manchuria took a new turn with a government announcement that two of Chiang's most trusted generals, Chang Chi-Chung and Hsiung Shih-Hui, had been appointed to accept surrender of the Japanese troops in that area of Russian-Japanese fighting.

There was no explanation of how such a surrender would be effected, since Japanese armies in Manchuria were yielding to the victorious Russians.

The assumption was that the two generals would take over any territory held by the Russians now or in the future but subsequently evacuated by them. However, Manchuria is in the China theater, in which Chiang is the supreme commander.

Rodeo Thrills Thousands Here

Trick and fancy riding, Brahma bulls, bulldogging and calf roping contests were witnessed by thousands of fans last night at the second performance of the Boys' club benefit rodeo sponsored by the American Business club in the South Plains fair ground arena.

Highlight of the evening was a trick rider, Cecil Cornish, who rode two palominos Roman style. The crowd thrilled at the sight of Cornish's ride over a high hurdle.

Scouts Offer Rain Dance

Boy Scout troop 8 in full Indian regalia presented the Hopi rain dance. Hoyt Heffner and John Lindsey and their mules clowned between the main events and kept the crowd entertained.

Smoky, a trained horse, marched, danced and knelt in an Arabian prayer at the command of his trainer, Cecil Cornish.

The most breath-taking feat was the jumping of a parked car by a trained Brahma named Danger.

The rodeo, which is presented by Beutler Brothers, will open tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Final contest will be held Saturday night.

Results:

Calf roping — Buff Douthitt, King, Tex., 15.1; Jim Crosby, Kenna. N. M., 15.7; Royce Sewalt, King, Tex., 16.1; Erby Slemmons, Plainview, 23.4.

Stalin Booms Out War's End

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 23 — Premier Stalin triumphantly proclaimed tonight complete victory over Japan, with his mighty Red Army war machine occupying all of Manchuria, the powerful Japanese naval base of Paramushiro in the Kuriles, and the remainder of southern Sakhalin island.

Snapped up as the last foundations of Japan's stolen empire in Manchuria crumbled into dust was the feeble puppet emperor, Henry Pu Yi. The former "boy king" of China was captured as he and his entourage huddled on the airstrip of Mukden airdrome, the Soviet communique said.

All Manchuria Seized

Generalissimo Stalin, in his first order of the day since the start of his 15-day lightning war with Japan on Aug. 9, announced that his armies had seized all of the rich industrial provinces of Manchuria, which the Japanese called Manchukuo after they wrested it from China in 1931.

Proudly Stalin asserted that the once-vaunted Japanese Kwantung Army had laid down its arms and surrendered.

The order, announced from Moscow with a salute of 24 salvoes from 324 guns that shook the Soviet capital, disclosed that Red Army forces had captured Shumushu and Paramushiro, the northernmost of the Kurile islands that lie west of the American Aleutians.

Yesterday Moscow disclosed that airborne units had landed on Shumushu, Paramushiro and other objectives in the Kuriles were targets for many U. S. air attacks, and there had been talk of a possible American landing there.

On the heels of the victorious order, which recounted the devastating rush of the Red armies in the past 10 days, a communique that [illegible] forces had entered [illegible] joining airborne units who seized the port yesterday.

Occupation of both Port Arthur and Dairen by Red Army air units was announced yesterday, a feat that wiped out the Japanese accomplishments of 40 years ago when both were wrested from Russia.

The communique reported that 35,000 Japanese officers, including 15 generals, surrendered yesterday, for a five day total of more than 281,000.

Battleship Hit By Jap Torpedo

GUAM, Friday, Aug. 24 (AP) — The Battleship Pennsylvania was struck by a Japanese aerial torpedo the night of Aug. 12—a time when surrender negotiations were in progress—and heavily damaged, with 20 men killed or missing. The Navy disclosed the action today.

A Japanese plane swept in low in a sneak run, catching the 33,100-ton ship, once called the "luckiest battlewagon in the fleet," unawares. The missle opened a gaping hole in the side of the warship.

Hits Starboard Side

The torpedo struck the starboard side. The magazines were damaged but did not explode. The Japanese plane escaped. Most of the casualties occured below in the navigation compartment.

The Pennsylvania, launched March 16, 1915, at Newport News, Va., was among the warships hit in the sneak attack Dec. 7, 1941, at Pearl Harbor but was in drydock and escaped the sinking fate which befell her sister ship, the Arizona.

The Pennsylvania was blacked out at the time of the Aug. 12 attack and there was no time for the sounding of an alarm.

Indefinite GI Benefits May Face Sharp Revision; Some Now Certain

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Out of the hundreds of veterans' laws passed by Congress and the scores now in the mill there emerged today a few things that the average soldier can depend on.

They boil down to this :

1. Mustering-out pay, from $100 to $300.

2. Disability compensation, if he needs it, ranging normally up to $115 per month for total disability; and hospitalization.

3. Education, at least a year, and more if his schooling was interrupted.

Jobless Compensation

4. Compensation, if unemployed, of up to $20 a week for as many as 52 weeks. (Up to $100 a month for the self-employed.)

5. Limited help on a loan for a home, a farm or a business. The government puts up no money, but guarantees half the loan up to $2,000.

The thing most soldiers want most—a job—is one thing nobody has guaranteed. Under the Selective Service act the veteran gets a look-in on his old job; he gets it back if he still wants it, if it's still there, and if business changes haven't made his re-employment impossible.

Scores of other specific benefits are on the books. Much broader aids have been promised and many have been written into bills. Except for mustering-out pay there are "ifs" to almost everything the veteran may get.

Changes May Be Asked

When Congress gets back it will be asked to make many changes. Already passed by the House and awaiting Senate approval are amendments that will make the GI Bill of Rights more readily usable.

Loan requirements would be loosened. So far relatively few veterans have taken advantage of the loans; many have charged that restrictions made them almost impossible.

Schooling provisions would be liberalized. The government would be allowed to pay tuition fees for short, high cost correspondence or vocational courses, as well as present college and academic courses.

Living allowances for veterans at school would be increased $10 a month. The unmarried veteran now gets $50 a month to live on; with a wife he gets $75.

Disability Payments

Another revision — already approved by both houses but in different forms—would raise disability payments in response to claims that $115 a month is not enough to live on.

Among other veterens' proposals, not so certain to pass, are these:

By Rep. Harold Knutson, R., Minn., to require employers to grant seniority to veterans, on old or new jobs, for time spent in service. Veterans would be required to demonstrate their ability.

By Chairman John Rankin, D., Miss., of the House Veterans committee, to convert the present unemployment payments to a straight grant of $20 a week for 52 weeks, regardless of employment.

By Rep. John Lesinski, D., Mich., to "adjust" service pay according to length and type of service, with a maximum payment of $5,000.

Whitharral School To Open Session Sept. 3

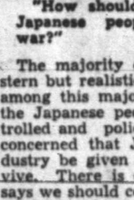

Whitharral school has announced Sept. 3 as its opening day with registration and issuing books to be Monday and regular class to begin on Tuesday. The cafeteria will not open until Tuesday, since that will be the first full day of the new school year, Supt. W. O. Tipton said.

Teachers who have been employed for the year are W. E. Lowrance, high school principal, A. H. Hall, Mrs. Lorene Hamilton and Mrs. W. O. Wossum, high school teachers; L. B. Patterson, grade school principal, Mrs. L. Ponder, Mrs. L. B. Patterson, Miss eva Mae Sadler, Miss Katherine Pierce, Mrs. W. E. Lowrance and Mrs. Elva T. Crank. Four teachers are yet to be employed to fill one high school vacancy and three in the grades.

The Gallup Poll: Majority Favors Strict Treatment Of Defeated Japs

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Now that Japan is beaten and Pearl Harbor avenged, the great majority of American people will want the United States to make sure the conquered Nips won't be in a position to wage war again in a hurry.

GALLUP

This attitude is reflected in questioning Americans on this issue in a survey made just before peace was arranged with Japan:

"How should we treat the Japanese people after the war?"

The majority of people take a stern but realistic attitude. Some among this majority want to see the Japanese people strictly controlled and policed. Others are concerned that Japanese war industry be given no chance to revive. There is one group which says we should convert the Japanese home islands into agricultural territories. Others would allow industry to flourish once again, but keep a close watch over it.

The second largest main group among replies wants to see the Japs treated fairly and a program of re-education, presumably in the interests of a democratic Japan, begun. This group adds up to a third of all suggestions.

Extreme Views Few

Extreme and violent views are held by a minority. These people would take care of the problem simply: "Kill them all!" or what probably amounts to the same thing among those making the suggestions. "Treat them the way they treated some of our boys."

Replies are shown as they fall into three principal groups:

Control Strictly, Punish
War Criminals	53%
Treat Fairly, Start Re-Educating Them	33
Treat with Extreme Harshness	14
Miscellaneous	3
No Opinion	7

CAPT. R. G. MORERE

MISS PAULA BANE

USO Singer And War Hero To Speak Today At Conference Of War Chest Heads At LAAF

War chest leaders from this area who attend the United War Chest of Texas regional conference at Lubbock Army Air field, today will hear from one of America's prettiest and most talented USO-Camp Shows entertainers a report on services being provided for our fighting men through agencies of the National War Fund.

At the same time, while laying the groundwork for the October war chest campaign in Texas, they will hear from one of the nation's most outstanding battle heroes a personal account of the fighting abroad.

To Tell Of USO Work

The USO entertainer, Miss Paula Bane, has just returned from a tour of both the Atlantic and Pacific fronts, during which she sang for thousands of American troops. She will appear at the war chest conference in uniform, to tell of USO work abroad in an informal talk entitled "This is the Foxhole Circuit."

Capt. R. G. Morere, twice-wounded battle veteran and holder of the nation's second highest award for bravery, will give a first-hand account of modern warfare. Capt. Morere is now a patient at McCloskey General hospital, where he is recuperating from serious wounds, but volunteered to make a tour of Texas because of his intense interest in the success of the National War Fund Drive in Texas.

Gillham To Preside

J. O. Gillham, of Brownfield chairman of war chest Region 17, will preside at the conference, at which Wayland D. Towner, general manager of the United War Chest of Texas, will discuss plans for another over-the-top campaign in Texas. The meeting will be attended by war chest leaders and workers from every county and community in the region.

The conference will open at 10 a. m. Following the business discussion, all delegates will be guests at luncheon.

To Take Tour Of Field

During the afternoon, the entire group will be conducted on a tour of the Lubbock Army Air field.

Col. Howell M. Estes, jr., commanding officer, will welcome the visitors to the field.

County chairmen and the counties they represent who will be present include: Tye Young of Muleshoe, Bailey county; Sid Reeder of Gail, Borden county; Judge R. C. Strickland of Morton, Cochran county; Will Marr of Ralls, Crosby county; Judge J. R. Levenberger of Lamesa, Dawson county; Johnny Koonsman of Dickens, Dickens county; D. O. McAdoo of Seminole, Gaines county; Homer McCrury of Post, Garza county; Judge Z. O. Lincoln of Levelland, Hockley county; Judge E. V. Peek of Clairmont, Kent county; Otis P. Kitchens of Guthrie, King county; Wade Potter of Littlefield, Lamb county; C. H. Bates of Aspermont, Stonewall county; and M. M Rogers of Denver City, Yoakum county.

The biggest catalpa tree in Texas stands 96 feet high and blooms every May.

Japs' 'Grave Concern' In China Is Viewed As Effort At 'Salvage'

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23. — The Japanese are putting on a becoming act of being gravely concerned about the danger of civil war in China.

WHITE

Twice they have warned General MacArthur about it, noting that Chinese Communist forces and "lawless elements" are trying to occupy key Chinese cities and areas before the Chungking central government's troops get there. They ask his special consideration of this problem.

Political Salvage

What the Japanese are after, in a roundabout way, is to salvage a political victory out of their military defeat. They are going after all the goodwill in Asia they can get.

This is borne out by their promotion of belated independence movements in French Indo-China and the Netherlands East Indies. Such movements could only have appeared with Japanese approval.

The Japanese know there would be little use in trying to perpetuate their brand of independence right now in the rest of southeast Asia, or in the Phlippines or Manchuria. Indeed, the puppet government in Manchuria and the puppet Philippine "republic" under Jose Laurel both have been dissolved. So has the puppet show at Nanking.

Different In China

In China, the Japanese tactic is different. Japan's long-concealed admiration for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is coming to the surface, and is perfectly genuine because privately the Japanese all along have admitted their respect for his integrity in continuing to lead Chinese resistance against themselves, regardless of what their propaganda machine said about him and his Chungking government.

The Japanese now are returning to professed dread of the Chinese Communists, and here a recapitulation of their tactics shows how much their professions are worth.

Nip Colonel Crossed Up On Atomic Bomb

WITH 38TH DIVISION, NORTHERN LUZON, P. I., Aug. 23 (AP)—"Have you heard about the atomic bombs being used in the war?" American officers asked Japanese Lt. Col. Shizume Sushimi at a mountain surrender conference.

"Where did we use it against you?" the enemy officer asked eagerly.

"You must have your signals crossed," one American told him. "We were the ones who used it."

The Japanese colonel seemed dumbfounded, Maj. Richard Jeffers, Terre Haute, Ind., related, and told the Americans he understood Japan had such a weapon nearly perfected when he left the homeland.

levels charged by makers or similar products.

These prices will be set by OPA.

Factories which run at a loss when working at normal volume will get price increases big enough to let them break even financially.

And price ceilings will be dropped entirely next week on aluminum, magnesium and mercury.

OPA said that for the rest of 1945 there was no more sugar in sight for civilians than they have been getting.

Shoes and window screening—about as scarce as anything in recent months — had fairer chances.

Army Cancels Orders

The Army cancelled orders for 10,000,000 pairs of footgear. WPB said screening might come back soon, and revoked the limitations on its use.

But the Army made a big contribution to the future well-being of America by declaring surplus 1½ billion dollars worth of war plants.

If converted from shells and radar to civilian things, 252 government-owned factories could provide hundreds of thousands of jobs.

The government promptly set out to interest businessmen in sales or leases.

Official Boosts Hope For More Prime Beef

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Prime beef, discontinued for the war period, is coming back, L. P. Stream, of Kansas City, U. S. Department of Agriculture supervisor of meat grading for six southwestern states, told more than 50 vocational agriculture teachers from 40 counties here yesterday.

Present top grade is "choice," he said, and the classification of "prime" was discontinued because of the extra time and feed needed to attain its standard.

Navy To Establish Separation Centers

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Five separation centers will be established in the Eighth naval district to discharge naval personnel, district headquarters announced here today.

The centers will be located at New Orleans, Camp Wallace, Texas; Memphis, Tenn.; Norman, Okla.; and Nashville, Tenn. In addition there will be a WAVE separation center at Memphis and officers will be discharged at Camp Wallace, Memphis and New Orleans.

Commanding and executive officers of the centers include, Camp Wallace—Capt. John R. Hume, USN and Comdr. Frank J. McManamon.

Men will be returned to the Eighth naval district through two intake stations. These will be located at the U. S. naval repair base, New Orleans (Algiers) and U. S. Naval receiving station, Galveston.

It is estimated that the five separation centers in the district will be able to discharge a maximum of 100,000 men a month. The maximum daily number at Camp Wallace is 500.

New Mexico Fair Is Set For October 7

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 23 (AP)—The long-debated New Mexico state fair today was set for Oct. 7-14, and fair manager Leon Harms said this year's event will be "bigger and better than ever."

Included in the tentative program are all regular livestock and agricultural exhibitions, eight horse races a day, a rodeo each night, and junior livestock shows.

BIG THREE TO STEP IN

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—The New York Times in a Washington dispatch said today that the United States, Great Britain and Russia would undertake joint political action to halt an incipient civil war in China.

Murder Charges Filed Against Three Youths

ATOKA, Okla., Aug. 23 (AP) — County Attorney W. H. Parker said he had filed murder charges today against three Austin, Tex., boys in connection with the slaying Monday night of McGraw E. Streckenfinger, 20, Pittsburgh, Kas.

Parker named the trio as Billy Slussler, 17; Oma Dixon Claunch, 14; and Ernest Entland, 15. Slussler is held in the county jail here.

The county attorney also announced he is preparing extradition papers for the Claunch and Entland boys, who have been held at Austin, since Texas officers picked them up at Round Rock, Tex., Tuesday night.

Parker said he would mail the extradition reguest to the state capitol at Oklahoma City for action.

Streckenfinger was slain after he picked up four hitchhikers, three boys and a girl. The girl, Ann Doser, 18, Oklahoma City, who was shot in the mouth, was moved from McAlester, Okla., hospital to Oklahoma City.

The Woman's Angle

DID you hear about the sailor who discussing girls, observed, "I like the demure type. You know—the kind you have to whistle at twice."

Here's a couplet suggested as dear to the doughboys' heart:

"I wish I could join the millions Of civilians."

SOME SOUND ADVICE

MANY home fronters have been so concerned with the changes they will note in the returning service man they have overlooked an important factor; what should constitute their own principles of thought and action.

When persons who have been living in different worlds meet they do have difficulties in finding a common ground for dealings, communication, fellowship or what have you. Many of these fears are groundless we grant you and especially is there little to be feared if you have known the soldier in former years and have past events to recall.

That the veterans and civilians will have problems in getting together is generally conceded. In fact one New York newspaper has carried a series of "Dear Joe" letters designed to help the young war wife to understand that she will not have to consult a book of psychology before going to the train or bus to meet her returning husband.

• • •

GOOD advice and strong points are contained in these twelve paragraphs we are presenting this morning, courtesy of a young officer friend who is in personal affairs. He suggests several paragraphs certainly hit home. They are written for the consideration of the civilian and those who have been worrying about how the soldier is going to think and act might give a reading to hints for those who have stayed at home.

1. Be natural at all times. Don't strain to appear nice or to say the right thing. Don't be effusive. Though changed, the veteran is still an ordinary human and wants to be treated as such. In fact, his service friendships have been such genuine ones and have been based on such conditions of reality that he can spot insincerity readily.

2. Treat him as a responsible citizen, as well as a veteran. He has a tremendous job to do and will be one of the most important citizens in the community. Don't be patronizing. Recognize him for what he is, a citizen who is better equipped for success, as a result of his service experience, than most civilians.

3. Don't pamper him and don't feel or show pity. He's entitled to all the real consideration at your command, but he's a man who has been taught to stand on his own feet.

4. Don't kill him with sympathy. He wants real help, not maudlin tears. Genuine kindness and a recognition of the job he has done form the basis of the ideal attitude for you to develop.

• • •

5. He'll talk about what he's been through if he wants to, but don't urge him. Like all of us, some veterans will want to talk, while others won't. Remember, if only one civilian were curious about what it was like it would be one thing, but he is likely to be queried by scores. So let him take the initiative in such conversations.

6. Keep your poise and don't be startled if he has changed markedly, is disfigured, disabled, or highly nervous. He knows you'll notice so don't stare or call attention to it. If you feel you must mention, or he brings it up, discuss it in as natural a way as possible.

7. Be realistic. If he wants to talk about his problems and the future, don't tell him that he doesn't need to worry. Tell him the facts about employment and other situations in the community, and advise him, if you can, on how to cope with them. The G. I. Bill gives him a lot of help, but he'll have to compete with civilians and other veterans for long-term success.

8. Develop serenity of spirit. This applies especially to those who are close to the veteran. He may have thought you are wonderful, so try to show your best colors.

• • •

9. Don't brag about how much money you've made or how well you've done while he was away. And if he's curious, tell him, but remember he may think, and rightly so in some cases, that the war has given the people who stayed at home an advantage.

10. Don't bring up the subject of how difficult things have been at home. It hasn't been difficult and he knows it. Certainly it would sound ironical to mention the petty home-front hardships in the face of what he's been through. Just let him know most of us have done everything that we've been asked to do and have wanted to do more.

11. Help him in every way you can. Be sure he is aware of his rights, his opportunities to get an education, his priority on his old job, under certain circumstances, and other benefits. Help get your community organized to bring this information to him, and try to get the veterans interested in participating.

12. Remember, too, that you face problems of adjustment. Your nonwar job may not pay as well and it won't be as easy to get a job as it was. Furthermore, the veteran should have a prior right to any available job because he has given up time and opportunity to fight for us.

"Your attitude and vigilance in this endeavor are of the utmost importance. It is vital that veterans and civilians understand each other and work together to build a better America. The underlying caution is to avoid effusiveness, emotionalism, excessive display of all kinds."

JUNIOR MESS OR JUNIOR MISS

THE Junior Miss, who presents an attractive picture, is taking the place of the Junior Mess this season.

To illustrate the above remark, we saw a picture that was taken on the campus of Evanston, Ill., High school recently. Ribbing the "Sloppy Joe" get-ups of girl schoolmates, two boys paraded in their garb. One wore a tightly fitting sweater, skimpy skirt, large beads, sloppy socks and oxfords somewhat the worse for need of a shine. The other wore a blouse he had twisted to form a midriff, blue jeans that were rolled, one above the knee, the other just under, and each had on sloppy kerchiefs.

Laughing at the atrocious picture they created was a young girl wearing the type of an outfit to be seen on high school campuses this fall: jacket dress, neat skirt of reasonable length; clean, neat bobby socks, polished loafers and her shoulder length bob was brushed until it shone.

Plans For Ice Cream Supper Made By Club

Plans for an ice cream supper honoring husbands were made yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the 1941 Needle club in the home of Mrs. Meritt Clark, 2511 Twenty-sixth The supper will be at Mackenzie State park at 7:30 p. m. Friday Aug. 31.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames A. E. Dietering, C. F. Henry, A. J. Holtkort, Olen Perryman, W. A. Pettey, J. O. Pope and the hostess.

Personals

S/Sgt. and Mrs. Joe B. Kitching and son Joe Bob of Portales, N. M., are visiting here in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kitching of 710 Ave. M following his discharge from the Army at Ft. Bliss on the basis of 111 points Sgt. Kitching had five years of service, and 26 months foreign duty in the Pacific, first with the First Cavalry division and later with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's General headquarters. He was in action at New Guinea and in the Philippines and won five battle stars. He is a nephew of Mrs. J. V. New also of 710 Ave. M.

Misses Dorothy Sue Standefer, Elizabeth Hurlbut and Janet York and Mrs. Jean Rist have returned from a visit in Dallas. Miss Carol Krueger remained for a longer visit with Miss Nancy Newton.

Miss Mabeth Mabry of Plains has returned from Mexico City where she studied at the National University of Mexico. She will enroll as a junior this fall at Texas Tech. Her aunt, Mrs. P. H. Williams of San Angelo accompanied her to Mexico.

Work has been received here that Mrs. Paul Morgan of Hollywood, Calif., formerly of Lubbock, is seriously ill in a Los Angeles hospital. A sister, Mrs. C. C. Lindsey also now residing in Hollywood, is with her and two other sisters, Mrs. Cline Carter and Mrs. J. C. Thompson and a brother, Glenn Bates, live in Lubbock.

Mrs. J. B. Walker, 2421 Twenty-first, is visiting Capt. and Mrs. L. A. Smith at Randolph field, San Antonio, and Mrs. L. S. O'Neal in Austin. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. O'Neal are her daughters.

Fifty-Three Girls Take Part In Encampment

Fifty-three girls participated in the encampment held Monday and Tuesday at the fenced-in section of Mackenzie State Park, Mrs. Gladys Sims, director of story-telling, camping and hiking for the City Department of Recreation, reported yesterday.

Carlisle Park had the largest representation, 15 girls attending from that playground. Pioneer and the Wading Pool section of Mackenzie tied for second place with 13 girls representing each park.

In addition to the regular councilors, Martha La Roe, Marjorie Ann Sims and Jo Ann Kuykendall, the women assisting Mrs. Sims were: Mrs. Arthur Yaggy, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. John T. Cotman, Mrs. A. L. Bently, and Mrs. W. A. Stephens.

Treasure hunts have been held at Pioneer and Carlisle parks this week. Johnny Meyers won the hunt at Pioneer Wednesday. Richard Hitt was winner of the Carlisle treasure hunt.

Today children attending the Booker T. Washington park playground will be taken for a visit to the downtown fire station by Mrs. Sims. The visit is scheduled for 1:30 p. m.

City-County Hospital Costs In Dallas Listed

DALLAS, Aug. 23 (U.P.)—The cost of maintaining the proposed city-county hospital here was estimated today at $1,200,000 to $1,400,000 for taxpayers and hospitalized patients.

A. R. Davis, Garland banker and chairman of the Dallas city-county hospital board, said additional institutional revenue would offset much of the increased expense.

The hospital board has asked for $1,000,000 to operate the hospital system for next year.

Mexican Workers To Leave For U. S. Today

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23. (AP)—A trainload of 850 Mexican workers, the last scheduled to leave for the United States, will leave Queretaro Friday.

The suspension of recruiting here, however, may be only temporary. U. S. authorities in Mexico City said officials in Washington now are discussing policy for the future. In the meantime many of the 70,000 Mexican railroad workers and the 72,000 agricultural laborers now in the United States on six months contracts will be offered three months extensions.

Lt. Henry J. Koke Missing In Action

Lt. Henry J. Koke of Littlefield, recent recipient of the Silver star, is missing in action, the War department Thursday notified his wife, Dora Koke of 1313 Ave. N.

Lt. Koke, pilot of a Mustang fighter, failed to return from a mission July 28 over Japan, the message said.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs Will Koke of Littlefield route 2.

In ceremonies a few weeks ago on Iwo Jima, Lt. Koke was awarded the Silver star personally by General of the Army Henry H. Arnold. He qualified for the honor by repulsing a banzai attack on the Seventh Fighter command area on Iwo Jima.

Mrs. Koke, the former Dora Waters of Littlefield, said she had received a letter from a captain in Lt. Koke's squadron which shed some light on her husband's disappearance. The captain wrote that on the way back from Japan Lt. Koke's plane was seen slowing down, that one of the fliers dropped out of the formation, flew back and searched for the damaged ship. There was no trace either of the plane or a tell-tale parachute, he wrote.

Lt. Koke, 25, had shot down several Japanese planes while on escort missions with Superfortress raiders.

Two sisters, Misses Marie and Irene Koke, are in nurses' training at West Texas hospital.

The Texas capital at Austin is second only to the capitol at Washington, D. C., in size.

Texas Cities Are Speeding Plans To Participate In Road Program

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Texas cities are speeding plans to participate in the Texas Highway department's proposed $174,000,000 post-war road building program.

Galveston and Houston will have special hearings here Friday on traffic tunnel projects, which are a new step in Texas highway planning.

V. R. Smitham, acting city manager of Dallas, conferred with the commission yesterday on interstate roads through that city. Dallas votes Saturday on bonds for roadways.

Would Replace Ferry

Galveston's proposed traffic tube would replace the ferry now operating between Port Bolivar and the eastern end of Galveston island. It would be a link in the hug-the-coast route from Orange to Brownsville.

Houston's plan may develop into three separate tunnels. The general idea is to facilitate traffic across Houston ship channel. Bridges would have to be so high, that tunnels are favored. The plans are to furnish better connections with Pelly, Goose Creek, Baytown, Pasadena and Morgan's point.

Plan Express Traffic Ways

San Antonio and Fort Worth have plans in co-operation with the state highway department for express traffic ways to aid both through and local traffic.

In these places a system of starting at the heart of the city and working outward is favored. While designed to fit into the ultimate system of interstate routes, earliest work would be on routes to get from the busy districts to the city limits. Fort Worth designs fit into the master plan for a Fort Worth-Dallas superhighway.

San Antonio's program, one of the first to get final approval, calls for main traffic ways both for general east-west traffic and north-south travel.

Beaumont Plans Outlets

Beaumont is centering just now on outlets for U. S. highway 90 which is one of the two east-west main arteries across the entire state.

Part of El Paso's contemplated road program includes the east-west highway into which both north and south routes converge before reaching the border city. Another important project there is building an adequate traffic way from the city's main and little plazas to the highly developed residential district and Fort Bliss. Plans there take into consideration highway 54 and a route north following in general the route of the early explorers and missionaries into Albuquerque and Santa Fe. El Paso votes on a bond issue Saturday to facilitate the program.

Austin Plans Boulevards

Austin is planning completion of boulevards from the Dallas-Fort Worth highway just north of town to connect with the road to Fredericksburg and the road to Bastrop. A more direct route from the north into the city center also is planned.

A short line route between Austin and Houston is another projected road improvement.

Abilene is at work on speeding traffic through the city on plans made some time ago.

Tin Can Salvage Is Discontinued Here

Lubbock county housewives can stop saving their tin cans for the salvage drive, members of the tin can salvage committee announced Thursday.

Decision to discontinue the tin can salvage here contrary to plans for continuing on a nation-wide basis was made by the committee after it was revealed that much difficulty had been experienced in the past in securing enough tin cans for a carload.

Only one car of cans has been collected in the drive here thus far.

New City Manager Former A&M Prof.

LAMESA, Aug. 23. (Special) — G. T. Hill, newly elected city manager of Lamesa, comes from College Station, where for the past two years he has been an instructor at A. & M. college.

A graduate in civil engineering from A. & M., Hill is a former employe of R. B. Butler Construction company, the state office of WPA, and office of post engineers, Camp Swift.

The city commission form of government was replaced by the home rule and city management charter on May 1, when the electorate cast a deciding vote in favor of the change.

Mrs. Cleveland Is Buried In Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Aug. 23. (Special)—Last rites for Mrs. Marguerite Cleveland, 73, of Brownfield who died Wednesday night in Levelland, were conducted at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Brownfield Four-Square church with Rev. Lee, pastor of the Assembly of God church, officiating. She had been a Brownfield resident for 21 years.

Burial was in Brownfield cemetery under direction of Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home of Lubbock.

Mrs. Cleveland died at the home of her son, Earnest C. Cleveland. Other survivors are a son, Lester, who is in the Navy; a daughter, Mrs. Teressa Everson of Riverside, Calif.; six grandchildren.

Hilburn Says Freight Rates Reduction To Aid Southwest Area

Herbert Hilburn, editor of the Plainview Evening Herald, addressed the Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon Thursday in Lubbock hotel on far-reaching possibilities of Southwestern industrial development as results of fact-finding and resultant intentions of the Interstate Commerce commission toward abolition of freight rate inequalities and inequities.

Hilburn is recognized as more than a lay authority on the subject of common carrier rate differentials. It was in 1939, when he was president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, that the WTCC organized to remove freight rate differentials for all of Texas, an act that resulted in an order of the Texas Railroad commission that, going into effect in 1941, had the immediate effect of the saving of $18,000,000 to Texas shippers.

The publisher was selected after Club President W. C. Wood recently asked a program committee to "decide upon an authority who can interpret the effect of the ICC's plans as they regard West Texas and the South Plains."

Hilburn warned that transportation, not manpower or tenuous supplies, will be the bottleneck, if any obtrudes itself in the reconversion period, and that "there must be a careful approach to the problem, on its merits, so that we may protect ourselves as shippers and yet not prejudice the right of carriers to make a fair return on their investment. Only by such adjustment of interests can the Southwest grow into the industrial region that has been predicted for it."

A person is injured in a home accident every six and one-half seconds.

Mrs. J. H. Weatherford To Be Buried Today

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Broadway Church of Christ for Mrs. J. H. Weatherford of 760 Ave. K, who died at her home Wednesday afternoon. M. Novel Young, Church of Christ minister, will officiate.

Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery under the direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Pallbearers will be Sam McMillan, Jerry Hoover, Gerald C. Sandlin, Edward Elliott, E. E. Rodgers, Clarence Goodnight, J. P. Boyd and Woodson Boyd.

Bids To Be Taken On School Bonds Sept. 11

Receipt and opening of bids for the purchase of the $1,500,000 bonds, voted Tuesday for the expansion of the Lubbock city schools, has been set for Sept. 11, according to A. C. Jackson, manager of the Lubbock Independent School district.

The firm of Haynes and Strange, architects, is working on plans for the various school improvements, which will be financed by the sale of the bonds.

Missouri has an area of 69,674 square miles, ranking the state the 18th largest in area in the United States.

Postex Ten Stops O'Donnell Victory String In Tourney

Blue Bonnet laundry and Economy Mills bowed out of the JCC softball tourney in favor of SPAAF and Seagraves Thursday night, and the O'Donnell Merchants were blasted into the losers bracket by a 14-3 defeat in the hands of the Postex Millers.

SPAAF got away to a three-run lead in the first inning of the opening games with Blue Bonnet and went on to win, 5-2. Hook was the winning pitcher; Taylor the loser.

An 11-6 victory over Economy Mills by Seagraves gave the latter the right to remain in the running. Little allowed no hits by the Millers until the fifth. Seagraves hitters took 10 hits from the offerings of three Economy pitchers from their 11 tallies.

The Postex Millers blasted O'Donnell from the trio of undefeated teams 14-3 in the final game. Gathering 13 hits from the hurlings of Merchant pitcher Pierce. Walter B. Holland whiffed eight for the Millers, allowing 4 hits.

LAAF and Lamesa decide who stays in the tourney in the 7:30 p. m. opener at Hubber park tonight. Seagraves and the Jaycees contest the same rights in the middle game, as do SPAAF and O'Donnell in the finale.

Pirates Launch Grid Workouts

GEORGETOWN, Aug. 23 (AP)—Forty candidates for the Southwestern university football team are in the midst of a hurry-up training schedule with the opening of the campaign less than a month away.

Pads were brought out this week for scrimmage sessions.

Coach R. M. Medley has been converting some freshman talent into what he hopes will prove an interesting line-up from the standpoint of the fans, augmented by eight or ten lettermen from last year with the probability of reinforcements arriving with mid-semester registration on Aug. 27.

Strong At Wings

While any guess as to the starting line-up at this point would be premature, performance on the practice field indicates that among those who are likely to receive consideration for end are Bill Betts, a sophomore from Wharton, San Cleavenger, 1944 letterman from El Paso; R. L. Holloway from Crowley, and Dick Westkaemper, a former San Antonio High school star who lettered with the Pirates last year.

Dick Dailey, letterman from Temple, and Embrey Walton, a freshman from Fort Worth have looked like possible starters at tackle with the possibility that Tom Kirkscey from Lott might be assigned to either tackle or guard position.

Power In Line

Ernest Dewald, senior Georgetown ministerail student, and Ed Blodzinsky of Buffalo, New York, both 1944 lettermen, will see service as guards in the Pirate line-up, with Bryan Taylor of Corpus Christi in the center spot. Taylor lettered with the Pirates last year.

Medley and Mayhew have been looking over a generous line-up of prospective backs including H. K. Allen, former Austin High school star, and Rudy Flores of El Paso, both of whom lettered in 1944, while among the newcomer possibilities are included Joe Evans of Blanket, O. B. Horton of Corpus Christi, Walter Ruthstrom and Bob Walker of Houston.

The Pirate schedule for the season:

Sept. 14—Bergstrom Army Air Field at Georgetown (nite).

Sept. 22—Texas Tech at Lubbock (nite).

Sept. 29—Texas University at Austin.

Oct. 6—Rice Institute at Houston (nite).

Oct. 13—Nacional University of Mexico at San Antonio (nite).

Oct. 20—Louisiana Tech at Ruston, La. (Nite).

Nov. 3—Baylor university at Waco.

Nov. 10 — Ellington Field at Georgetown (nite).

No Rush Of Coaches Due From Services

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—College football is looking for comparatively little coaching help this season from the big-name tutors now in the armed forces although at least a dozen have been discharged in the past year or so and a number of others apparently are eligible for discharges.

There's no certainty, either, that all of the well known coaches will return to their old jobs when they discard their uniforms. One, Duke's Wallace Wade, already has decided to serve only as athletic director and to leave active football coaching to Eddie Cameron. A few other possible changes were indicated today by an Associated Press survey.

Two Southwest Conference teams look for the return of their old coaches before the start of the 1945 season. Madison (Matty) Bell expects to be out of the Navy by Sept. 1 and will return as head coach and athletic director at Southern Methodist. Baylor's Frank Kimbrough also has applied for a Navy discharge and expects to return before the season opens.

Lt. Comdr. Sam Barry, head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Southern California, expects a Navy discharge between Oct. 1 and the end of this year.

Besides Wade, coaches who have returned to their old duties include Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, Dick Harlow of Harvard, Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth, Lloyd Jordan of Amherst, Clyde (Cac) Hubbard of Denver university, Tex Oliver of Oregon and Glen Rose, starting his second season at Arkansas since leaving the Army.

Lt. Col. Fred Thomsen, who left Arkansas without taking a leave of absence after a 13-year term of introducing razzle-dazzle football to the Southwest, now is training physical fitness instructors for the Air Force at Lexington, Va., and will not return even if he is discharged.

Finals Reached For Boys Tennis Tourney

Finalists in the boys play in the city-wide tennis tournament have been named in both singles and doubles, with play in the doubles brought up to finals Thursday with Doug Galey and Walter Bumpass winning over Bob Galey and John Paul Jones in the semi-finals.

Galey and Bumpass will play Hester and Westbrook in the finals for the boys doubles crown. Bob Galey and David Hester will play in the finals for boys singles.

D. Galey and Bumpass played brilliant tennis to win the first set of the semi-final match, 6-0, but B. Galey and Jones came back strong, winning five straight games, but lost the set, 8-6.

The first baseball series and first admission fee to witness a ball game came about simultaneously when Brooklyn played New York in 1859.

Junior All-Stars To Tangle Here Today

Eyes of Lubbock's baseball fans will be turned toward the Boy's club tonight as the American league All-Stars tangle with the American Business club champions in an annual contest at 6 p. m.

All-Star manager C. I. "Stoney" Wall, coaching the team of outstanding league players chosen by managers last Tuesday morning, has put the stars through a couple of tough practice sessions, and declares them to be ready.

ABC Undefeated

John W. Wilson, manager of the ABC nine, has piloted the team through an undefeated second half, and intends to remain undefeated through tonight's game.

Young Billy Travis, lanky right-handed Optimist hurler, is likely to get the starting assignment on the mound for the All-Stars. Buddy Weber and Jack McCabe will stand by for relief duties. Charles Galey will wear the mask for the All-Stars to begin the seven-inning affair. Jack Keeling will be ready as second catcher.

Billy Tatum, chunky right-handed toast of the ABC's, will probably get the nod from Wilson to start on the rubber for the ABC. Billy Wylie, recently returned from a three-week leave from the team, will be back in the starting line-up tonight.

ABC Lusty Hitters

Boasting a heavy hitting team, the ABC nine will be slightly favored in tonight's game. While the defense of the All-Stars will be above that of normal teams, lack of experience together may prove a drawback. ABC's outfield, one of the league's better combinations, will be weakened with the absence of David Clark, regular center fielder. Duane Scott or Jimmy Sexton will fill the position.

Dorrance Guy and Gerald Hise will be opposing first sackers, while Duane Peters will work second base for ABC against Billy Presley for the All-Stars. Lester York will be on third opposing James Craig of the All-Stars. Danny Strickland will be in at short with either Jackie Cook—currently out of town—or Morris Turner holding down the position for the stars.

Ronnie Kent and Royce Jones will be left fielders, with Scott or Sexton and Medlock in center spots. M. D. Stevens will play right field for the ABC-ers against Jack Whitehead for the All-Stars.

Dick Trego, well known local umpire, will work behind the bat, with Jay Kerr on the bases. ABC won the rights as home team Tuesday morning.

H. J. McCabe, baseball director, announced that seating facilities for 200 persons have been erected, and there is additional room down the foul lines. It is hoped, McCabe said, that local ball lovers will turn out in numbers to encourage the boys in a project of which Lubbock can be justly proud.

Wyoming was the 44th state to enter the Union.

Babe Wins Another Overtime Golf Duel

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 23. (AP)—Babe Didriksori Zaharias of Los Angeles had to wage her second successful 20-hole battle today to survive the quarterfinal round of the Women's Western Amateur golf tournament.

Mrs. Zaharias, whose scorching finish after she trailed two holes at the 16th gave her a 1-up triumph over Marjorie Row of Anniston, Ala., moved into the semi-final round with three other favorites, including Defending Champion Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia.

Miss Germain, winning easily from Mrs. Frank D. Mayer, Chicago district champion, 6 and 5, collides with Mrs. Zaharias in the lower bracket semi-final.

Upper bracket semi-finalists were Medalist Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., who fashioned a brilliant 7 and 6 victorly over Sally Sessions, Muskegon, Mich., and Phyllis Otto, Atlantic, Ia., who outlasted Eileen Stulb, Augusta, Ga., 1 up in 18 holes.

Miss Suggs' masterful performance stamped her the likely opponent in Saturday's 36-hole championship battle against the winner of the high-voltaged Zaharias-Germain scrap.

FELLER SIGNS CONTRACT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 23. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians signed their Navy-discharged pitching star, Bob Feller, to a new contract today, calling for somewhere in the neighborhood of $40,000 per year.

Longhorn Backfield Loses Another Star

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Longhorn backfield prospects took another beating today as Frank Struska, widely heralded flash from Taylor, dropped out of Coach Dana X. Bible's squad and announced he will not enter the university Sept. 1.

Struska received a head ijnury in play last season which was aggravated by a recent automobile accident. University physicians advised against his playing football at this time.

Haas Trails Nelson At Knoxville Meet

KNOXVILLE, Aug. 23 (AP) — Byron Nelson returned to familiar championship heights today to take a one-stroke lead in the first round of the Knoxville Open golf tournament.

The rhythmic swinger from Toledo rushed in ahead of a lashing thundershower to post a five-under par 67. He called it "one of the finest rounds I ever played."

Just a stroke back with 68 came amateur Freddie Haas, jr., of New Orleans, and two mite-sized professionals, Lt. Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and debonair Tony Penna, of Dayton, Ohio.

Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me., and bulky Ky Laffoon of Chicago registered 70's.

Detroit Tigers Regain One Game Lead By Beating A's

DETROIT, Aug. 23 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers increased their American League lead to a full game today by beating the last place Philadelphia Athletics 4 to 3 on Jim Tobin's eight-hit pitching. It was Detroit's sixth victory of the eight-game series.

The Macks peppered Jim Tobin's "nothing ball" for eight hits, but two Tiger errors failed to overbalance Detroit's 10-hit attack off Don Black.

Doc Cramer's double, Roy Cullenbine's triple and Rudy York's single gave the Tigers a 2-1 lead in the fourth and they never trailed after that, though Philadelphia tied the score in the sixth.

Pirates Defeat Cincinnati, 6-2

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates slammed out 10 hits off three Cincinnati pitchers at Forbes Field today to set down the Reds, 6-2, in the opening round of a five-game series.

Walter "Boom Boom" Beck went all the way for the Bucs, allowing the Reds nine safeties. Harris started on the mound for the losers, with Howard Fox taking over in the fifth and Modak in the seventh. It was the sixth straight defeat for the Reds.

Leading 3-2 going into the last half of the fifth, catcher Bill Salkeld put the game on ice for the Pirates when he left his eleventh home run of the season, scoring Frank Colman and Frank Gustine ahead of him.

SMU Needs "X" For All-Alphabet Roster

DALLAS, Aug. 23 (AP)—SMU's Mustangs are looking for an athlete named "Xerxes" or any other name beginning with "X."

The Ponies dearly would like for him to be a star, but it's an almost certainty they would sign him up if he were only good at mumble-the-peg.

The reason is they want an all-alphabet roster—and "X" is the only missing link.

Japs Believed Subject To Changed Status Sooner Than Former Hopes

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

The United States' demands on the Japanese state not only are logical to one who lived 20 continuous years in Japan but, if executed by the enemy, may translate the Japanese into a deserved status in the family of nations sooner than many authorities have had cause to hope.

So ventured Joe J. Mickle of Shreveport, president of Centenary college, in a visit here Thursday with a brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKee of 2620 Twenty-seventh. He was talking with a friend from boyhood, Charles H. Read of 2619 Twenty-first.

Numerous Redemptive Qualities

There are numerous redemptive qualities inherent in the Japanese that may crowd to the fore once the disproportionate power of the military is sliced away by the political and armed might of the victor nations, President Mickle said.

Among those qualities, he said, are the Japanese concept of love for the family institution, an evident faculty for cohesion, desire for learning and a conceded adaptability.

One School Dissented

Contrary to a more or less general suggestion that the Japanese masses are thoroughly impregnated by belief in the folklore that has sought in recent decades to establish the emperor both as a reincarnated member of the diety and as a peg on which the state perforce hangs else ceases to exist, Mr. Mickle said there was a definite school of thought "all along" that dissented.

He pointed to the teachings and writings of Dr. Minobe, Japan's greatest constitutional lawyer who was on the faculty of Tokyo Imperial university until the reaction that brought his trial in 1934 by the military and a consequent repudiation that caused his writings to be burned.

Subjected To Western Culture

Dr. Minobe arrived at negative conclusions in his legal study of whether the emperor is the Japanese state and whether the state can exist without the emperor.

A considerable cross-section of the Japanese populace traveled, became subjected to western culture. Among them were the present emperor. Hirohito himself has been suspected of strong democratic urges which nevertheless were impracticable in the face of the strangulating hold of the military. Mr. Mickle suggested that the next reaction may countenance a fuller expression of Japanese conviction, lessen fear of military reprisal that has inevitably followed disclosures of "heresy" in subscribing to community of thought and customs of western ways.

People Knew What Was Coming

Mr. Mickle found the Japanese courteous and kind in his relations with them two decades at Kwansei Kakuin university at Kobe. That expression "increased in the last few months before Mrs. Mickle and the children left Japan in 1940, before I left in the spring of 1941. It seemed that the people knew what was coming—and that they perhaps sought in their limited way to express by such friendliness their disapproval of what the military was foisting on the nation."

The educator made no attempt to excuse Japan's forays into ruthlessness. Rather, he sees the necessity not only for punishment of those who precipitated inexcusable Japanese warring, but for ironclad precautions to insure against possible other unfortunate disruptions.

He tries to take a realistic position based on perspective of problems affecting both the white and yellow races. Quite naturally, he has the same humanitarian hopes expressed by the leaders of the Allied nations that the Japanese may rise to their problems and surmount as quickly as possible the obstacles that have kept them from meriting the confidence of the remainder of the world. He did not break down his doubts that the task may be accomplished soon, but did say that the redemptive qualities possessed by the Japanese can contribute, if properly exercised, to hasten that day.

Redeployment Of Troops In Europe

PARIS, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Today's redeployment schedule for American divisions in the European theater:

30th Infantry: On the high seas.

35th Infantry: Main body shuttling from France to the United Kingdom for reshipment home; the 137th regiment sailed for the United States from Le Havre today.

13th Airborne: On the high seas.

45th Infantry: Main body now in Le Havre staging area; 179th and 180th regiments will shuttle to England between Aug. 26 and 28 for shipment home; 157th regiment to sail directly from Le Havre for the United States.

69th Infantry: The division is coming into the Le Havre staging area today and will shuttle to England for early September shipment home.

No changes were reported in the status of the other divisions alerted for shipment.

The 14th Armored and 17th Airborne divisions will bypass the assembly area command and move directly to Marseille by Sept. 1 for shipment to the United States.

All 11 alerted divisions will leave Europe before the end of September, according to an official announcement.

The 103rd Infantry division will move directly to Le Havre by Aug. 31 and the 63rd Infantry and Sixth Armored by Sept. 1.

The Ninth Armored is due to arrive at Camp San Antonio, the 70th Infantry at Camp St. Louis, the 99th Infantry at Camp Norfolk and the 106th Infantry at Camp Oklahoma City, all by Sept. 1.

Charter Ratified By Great Britain

LONDON, Aug. 23 (A.P.)—Great Britain ratified the United Nations charter tonight despite blunt statements in Parliament that it was not strong enough to maintain peace while the atom bomb remained an Anglo-American secret.

Some speakers urged that the secret be shared immediately with Russia.

With even its critics saying it must be adopted, the House of Lords first approved the 50-nation pact, followed by Commons. Despite the criticism, in neither house was it necessary to take a vote.

Britain thus became the fifth major power to give formal approval. The United States, Russia, France and China as well as several nations previously had completed ratification.

Insect Killer Fatal For Fish And Birds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—The fish and wildlife service said today that DDT, the insect pest killer, is fatal to birds, fish, and beneficial insects, and possibly to soil organisms essential to growing crops if used in heavy concentrations.

"Until more is known of the powder's effects," the service said, "caution in its use is essential."

Experimental spraying on tracts near Scranton, Pa., and at the Patuxent research refuge disclosed that when five pounds to the acre were used, birds in the area were killed.

Even lighter treatments killed fish. In the course of fly and mosquito control work in New Jersey, the service said, considerable quantities of insecticide sprayed from an airplane fell into a bay. Subsequently 75,000 dead fish were found on the beach.

BOMBERS EFFECTIVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (A.P.)—The Tokyo radio said today that one terrible year of American bombings had cut Japanese airplane production two-thirds after it had reached a peak of 3,000 planes a month.

Iron was taken from New York and Pennsylvania mines as early as 1710.

PRICES RALLY SHARPLY

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (A.P.) — The stock market today enjoyed one of its best rallies of the past several years as hopes for nearby post-war business prosperity inspired buying of durable goods issues and a wide assortment of rails.

Transfers totaled 1,190,000 shares compared with 760,000 in the preceding session.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 1.2 points at 65.1, widest swing since Aug. 9 when a 1.3 advance was recorded. That was the broadest since December, 1941.

Conspicuous on the jump were Chrysler, and Sears Roebuck, at 1945 peaks; General Motors, Studebaker, Graham-Paige, Hudson Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, International Telephne, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Allied Chemical.

Forward curb leaners included Panasteel, Graham-Paige preferred, Electric Bond and Share, American Cyanamid and United Light. Turnover here was 280,000 shares versus 230,000 Wednesday.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (A.P.)—Cotton futures turned easy after displaying early steadiness today as increased hedge selling and commission house liquidation met indifferent buying support. Early gains of 70 cents a bale had been registered on mill buying and short covering. The market was dominated by uncertainty over the effects of reconversion in the cotton industry.

Hedge selling along with some pressure from New Orleans increased toward the close and prices touched new lows for the day.

Futures closed 30 to 60 cents a bale lower.

Surrender Plans

which Tokyo said would be 50,000 to 60,000 strong in the initial waves.

The Japanese were told to have members of the imperial general staff ready to meet him at 6 a. m. (4 p. m. Monday, CWT).

Landing At Yokosuka

Simultaneously, Marines and sailors fully armed will swarm ashore at Yokosuka, Japan's highly-secret and second greatest naval base 20 miles south of Tokyo which the rulers of the island empire never permitted foreign military attaches to see.

Japanese militarists at Atsugi will get their orders from MacArthur, who presumably will determine whether they have complied with all his occupation directives.

Under his detailed time-table, Allied fleets will nose into the bays of Tokyo and Sagami—the latter just southwest of Tokyo bay — Sunday (Japanese time) guided by Japanese pilots.

The following day the Japanese must begin the evacuation of all combat units from the occupation zone, leaving only the local police to maintain order.

Japs Forestall

While the conquering forces will arrive prepared to meet any emergency, the Japanese themselves were reported taking steps to prevent outbreaks of violence.

Sometime Friday, Japanese militarists will be taken aboard the Battleship Missouri — whose 16-inch guns only a month ago were bombarding Japan — where they will sign the articles of surrender that will restore peace to the Pacific.

As supreme commander, MacArthur will sign for the Allied powers. Admiral Nimitz and Sir Bruce Fraser, whose U. S. and British Pacific fleets paralyzed Japan's naval power, will sign for their countries.

Other Signers

Gen. Hsu Yung-Chang, member of the board of military operations, will sign for China; Lt. Gen. Kuzma Nikolaevech Derevyanko will sign for Russia; Gen. Jacques Le Clerc, who had been designated chief of French forces to fight Japan, will sign for France; Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey will sign for Australia and Lt. Gen. L. H. Van Oyen, commander of the Netherlands East Indies Army, for the Dutch.

It has yet to be announced who will sign for Japan, and Canada and New Zealand still have not designated their representatives.

While the formal act of surrender will not take effect for another week, surrenders in the field were ahead of schedule.

Generalissimo Stalin announced in Moscow that the Red Army had occupied all Manchuria.

Surrender On Aka

A by-passed special suicide attack force of 225 men and 14 officers surrendered on Aka island, 20 miles west of Okinawa. They were the first to yield of any of the garrison in the Ryukyus, the island stepping stones to southern Japan.

First of an estimated 120,000 Japanese troops in the by-passed islands of the Marshalls and Carolines of the central Pacific already had capitulated.

Representatives of probably 3,500 troops and naval personnel on the eastern Marshall atoll of Mili signed surrender papers on the destroyer escort levy Wednesday.

Most important of the by-passed islands is the naval fortress of Truk in the Carolines.

Luzon Capitulation

Several thousands troops in northern Luzon arranged to surrender yesterday over the strong protest of their commanders, and negotiations were in progress with trapped enemy forces on the other main Philippine islands of Mindanao and Cebu.

The Japanese again complained to MacArthur that they were in serious difficulties in China due to "the activities of irregular forces, bandits and disturbances of mobs" and asked him to reconsider his order disarming their armies in China.

One of the first concerns of MacArthur will be the release of an estimated 32,000 prisoners of war held in Japan. They will be taken to hospitals in the Philippines as soon as released.

Victory Loan Drive To Start October 29

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (A.P.)—Starting date of the eighth and last war loan drive is October 29.

This will be a "Victory loan" of $11,000,000,000, of which the government wants four billions to come from individuals, half in "E" bonds.

Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, in announcing the loan last night, said:

"The cost of contract settlements, bringing our forces home, their mustering-out pay, hospitalization, care and rehabilitation will be great and will require large sums for which we must plan now."

Kaiser Firm Seeks Willow Run Plant

DETROIT, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Joseph W. Frazer, president of the new Kaiser-Frazer Corp, announced today that his firm is negotiating with the government for lease of the $100,000,000 Willow Run bomber plant.

In a formal statement to reporters, Frazer confirmed an exclusive report of the negotiations carried in a United Press dispatch last night. He said the vast, 96-aere plant would be used for manufacture of the proposed Frazer car and farm equipment.

Graham-Paige Motors Corp., of which Frazer also is president, would build farm tractors and equipment, he said.

Boston Man Offers To Purchase Texas Plant

BOSTON, Aug. 23. (A.P.)—Jazob Ziskind of Fall River, Mass., announced he had offered to purchase all capital stock of Sherman Manufacturing company, Sherman, Texas, which specializes in duck cloth.

The plant is equipped with 10,000 spindles and 200 looms.

Texans Vote Tomorrow

About Those Four Propositions

FOUR amendments to the Texas State Constitution are to be voted upon by the electors of the state tomorrow.

One amendment would permit persons who have been in the armed services of the United States 18 months prior to any election to vote without payment of poll tax. Another would liberalize social security assistance to the aged, destitute children, and needy blind, at the same time setting an over-all maximum of state aid to match federal funds appropriated for the same purpose.

A third would raise the pay of state legislators to $3,650 a year, and would mean an additional cost to the state's taxpayers of $1,104,100.

A fourth amendment would increase the number of state Supreme court justices from three to nine.

After carefully studying each of the proposed changes in the constitution, we recommend all except the amendment providing for increased pay to members of the legislature.

When the time comes that we can get better service from men in the legislature, we might consider raising their pay. But with what we now have, any increase in pay would be too much.

This amendment will, if adopted, increase the pay of the legislators from the present $10 a day, now paid them while they are in regular session of 120 days every two years, and in a called session of 30 days, to $10 a day for every day during their entire tenure of office. Pay of the 181 members at $10 a day for two years, as provided by the amendment, would mean a cost of $1,321,300 or an increase of $1,104,100 to the taxpayers of the state.

While everyone knows that the cost of living has risen since Texas legislators first began drawing $10 per day (and $5 upon occasion) the fact remains that no legislator has ever sought the office in order to support himself or his family. Every legislator has a permanent job, connection or profession from which he earns his living. If the legislators are given the $3,650 annual salary they still will continue the same, or similar, outside jobs or connections they now have. Net gain, then, will not be to the people of Texas, but only to the individual legislators.

People of this area have no reason to wish to ladle out a whacking big salary raise to members of the Texas legislature. Along with the Panhandle, the Rio Grande Valley and the Corpus Christi section, we in this part of the state have been discriminated against by legislators since 1930 and especially so since 1940. Against the plain direction of the Constitution of Texas, legislators have, for selfish reasons, refused to redistrict the state so legislative representation may be fair and just and have chosen to violate their oaths of office, as well as to handicap us here, rather than to do the right and decent thing in this important matter.

West Texans may best serve notice on the current group of representatives and senators, as well as those who hope some day to become representatives and senators, that legislative redistricting must be accomplished before we are interested in paying more tax money for services not rendered.

Death Lowers The Odds

"YOUR chances of being injured or killed in an automobile accident have increased 25 per cent since the lifting of gasoline rationing."

This is the warning issued to Texas motorists by Col. Homer Garrison, jr., state director of the Department of Public Safety. Colonel Garrison points out that there are many reasons for the increased hazard. Many persons are driving cars with mechanical defects and old, unsafe tires. Other drivers are out of practice because of the limitations of rationing.

Still others are going to add to the danger by disregarding wartime speed regulations and letting go.

There has been a noticeable increase in fast traffic on South Plains highways in the last few days, and with more drivers reverting to their old-time speeds, the danger will mount locally.

Adding to the hazard inside the city is the dangerous practice of driving too close to preceding cars and of turning corners swiftly without signal, and due regard to the right-of-way of pedestrians. Streets with bumpy, unpaved holes, such as those in busy Avenue "N" also add to the danger.

The dangers arising from old tires, mechanical defects, and careless driving are the kinds the driver must guard against.

"Drive safely and save a life" is a good slogan to keep in mind now that the postwar boom in traffic is here.

It's A Stringent "Truce!"

THE Japanese people may not yet realize that the war ended in something quite different from a "truce," as has been widely advertised in Nippon. But in a few hours now, when U. S. Army, Navy and Marine personnel takes over in "the Land of the Eclipsed Sun"—backed by the greatest military and naval might in the world—even the dumbest of Japs will "get the point."

If they continue to mask their defeat by calling it a "truce," they'll discover that it's the most stringent "truce" in world history!

The only conveyance with plenty of available seats now is the water wagon.

Believe It Or Not --- By Robert Ripley

Hearts Bleed Longest

THE STORY: Brock Kittridge, hero flyer, is coming home to Daverton. Thayer, the girl he had known for 10 days on his last leave and then married, nervously awaits his return. She recalls their hasty courtship, the short honeymoon, then Brock's insistence she live in his mother's home until he comes back. She is aware of Mrs. Kittridge's coolness towards her; grateful for the friendship of Brock's Aunt Hilbreth.

* * *

III

Mrs. Kittridge retied the soft bow at her neck for the third time her hands unsteady.

Brock was coming home. If only she might be going alone to meet him; if only . . . There would be so many people, kindly friendly people; and there would be Thayer, so cool, so poised. She must not break down. She felt she could not bear it, somehow, if Thayer should see her cry.

She turned from the mirror to look at the many pictures of her son which adorned her room. She loved them all; they had been her solace these long months. But her gaze dwell longest on that of a small boy lying on his stomach kicking his heels in the air.

"Oh, Brock," she whispered, tears gathering in spite of her. "I'll make it up to you. I'll make it all right."

This picture here, the one in uniform — she had been looking at the just-delivered print the very day Brock had come into the room and told her he was going to marry Thayer Wayne. She remembered how the unbelievable shock of it had gone through her, how she had said at last, "But Moya knows, Mom." Such finality in his voice.

She had fought for time. "But to rush so, son; if it's—it's real this girl will wait for you."

He shook his head. "You don't understand, Mom."

She stared at him, seeing him suddenly a stranger. Made so by a girl he'd known 10 days, the wrong girl.

Corinne Kittridge had known then there was nothing she could do, at least not now. But someday . . . yes, someday . . . .

And though Thayer lived in the house with her she never thought of her as Brock's wife, but as Thayer. Which implied nothing. For, though months had passed, the conviction never left her mind that this marriage was without permanency. Corinne felt it. Surely at time Thayer felt it too; times when Moya was in the house. Moya's belonging was so obvious; she was at ease here as Thayer could never be. Someday. . . . In the deepest place of her mind Corinne knew .

Which was why she had invited Moya to go to the airport. She had no kinship with Thayer or with Hildreth. Only with Moya. . .

A car was stopping; that must be Moya now. Corinne, looking from the window, sighed with relief.

* * *

Thayer heard the car. Dear Lord! Could the clock be wrong? Was Brock . . . She jerked aside the curtain, heart pounding. A girl got from the car, the sun bright on blonde hair curling below a brief hat.

Moya Sherron. She wouldn't have come unasked, Thayer thought quickly. So Mrs. Kittridge . . . A fist closed tightly in the pit of Thayer's stomach.

She straightened her shoulders, opened the door and went out. As she came down the stairs she saw Mrs. Kittridge and Moya embracing in the hall below. They drew apart on hearing her and the older woman looked up. "Oh—Thayer . . . It's time, isn't it? I've asked Moya to come with us, she and Brock being such old friends." She patted the girl's arm.

"Hello, Thayer; I hope I'm not intruding." Moya had a low voice, a pale beautiful face.

"Of course not." To her own ears Thayer's voice sounded brusque. Her shoulders hurt from the stiffness with which she held them under the beige suit. It was a color Brock liked and she'd chosen painstakingly, giving much thought to the rich brown accessories and topcoat. In her room she had thought I look nice. Now she wondered. Moya in powder blue and white lambskin looked like spring itself.

"Are you driving, Thayer?" asked Mrs. Kittridge as they went to the car. "Thayer's so wonderful," she remarked to Moya. "She'd have even gone to work today."

Thayer made no answer but concentrated on her driving. When they reached the airport her heart sank. There were so many people. Oh, why . . . .

She parked the car and they got out to wait. Her throat felt dry, her stomach queer. Every time she turned her head she caught watching glances. Mrs. Kittridge was nodding and bowing, and holding tightly to Moya's arm.

A voice said in Thayer's ear, "I like the way you look, child," and she felt Hildreth's quick hard grip.

Then there came a faint humming growing ineredibly in the space of seconds to a great roar as the plane appeared against the April sky. Near, swooping down, rushing toward them, stopping—and Thayer's heartbeat stopping with it.

People getting off. Then Uncle Judson and the stewardess, pausing, reaching up to help someone. A man awkwardly handling a pair of crutches, a man in a captain's uniform with his right leg off above the knee. A cheer, gathering force, and Mrs. Kittridge crying, "Brock, Brock, my boy."

They were swept toward him, his mother had her arms about him, all but unbalancing him. She was saying his name over and over and Thayer saw his face bearing no resemblance to the laughing boy she'd kissed goodby. Then the desperate searching of his glance encountered hers. She felt tears acid behind her lids and torture in her throat. She was beside him, her arms reaching up to him, her face raised to his kiss. She felt his lips tremble. He said, "Thayer . . . " just a whisper.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

WHAT a miserable day out today!

Here I am sitting at the typewriter, trying to look at life for you through rose-colored glasses and it's raining and the sky is dirty gray and the flowers are hanging their heads, and there just isn't a bit of cheer anywhere in sight.

My wife's gone to the veterinary to get Deuce who got himself bitten in the ear, and I am all alone in the house, with the blues, and hungry besides, because it's past my lunch time and I just don't feel like eating by myself.

BRANDEIS

All this is, of course, very, very unimportant to the world in general and to you, except that you have probably had the same mood yourself, or, maybe you are having it right now.

December in August, that's what it is, and probably it's better that I am alone right now—because when you have those ugly, rainy-day blues you aren't very apt to be good company for anybody.

* * *

And when you do have those ornery spells you do a lot of thinking and all your thinking is negative, and life seems to be empty and useless, and you wonder what it's all about,

Human beings certainly are funny cusses, aren't they?

Yesterday the sun was shining and it was nice and warm and we had company for dinner and everything was all right with the world.

But today, just because there is some rain and fog and it's chilly and damp, I've forgotten all about yesterday and don't realize that tomorrow—or the day after, at the latest—the sun will be shining again and it will be another warm day and everything is going to be just fine and dandy.

But maybe it is good that we humans are that way.

Too much sun would become monotonous, and we wouldn't appreciate the good things of life half as much if there weren't some bad ones in between.

* * *

OR take my wife and Deuce.

When they are around—well, they're just around.

But when they are away I miss them like the dickens and I appreciate them twice as much when they come home.

A woman said to me the other day:

"The two nicest things about my husband are his going away in the morning and his coming home at night."

I know there isn't much sense to all this, but there isn't much sense to a day like this either.

I hear the car coming up the driveway. And I hear Deuce barking.

For some reason I don't mind the rain so much any more.

Dry cargo carried to war zones on decks of tankers equaled, in one month of 1944, the capacity of 55 freighters.

Tax Cuts Are Expected

"Fruits Of Victory" On Horizon

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A 10 to 14 per cent tax reduction in most individual income tax payments for the calendar year of 1946 will be one of the first fruits of victory over the Germans and Japanese, and there is prospect that Congress may make the cut retroactive on 1945 wages to be reported next March 15. Speedy elimination of the excess profits levy will mean a saving of almost 10 billions to corporations.

A bare recital of the rise and fall in government expenditures and receipts forecasts a diminution in payments to the Treasury. Moreover, President Truman and national legislators facing re-election in 1946 will seek to make themselves solid with the peacetime citizenry by lightening the burden on their pocketbooks. Washington knows no better way of making friends with the people.

The 1946 budget, which was framed on the assumption that Tokyo would not surrender during that fiscal period, which ends June 30, 1946, totaled $85,000,000,000. Now the outlay should fall to at least $33,000,000,000, a saving of $50,000,000,000.

TUCKER

Eventually, the postwar budget should decline to a figure between $20,000,000,000 and $25,000,000,000. The expenditures for ordinary governmental activities during the 1946 fiscal year are only $18,000,000,000.

Some financiers think the regular, postwar budget can be held to that amount as soon as the armed forces are demobilized, but such optimism seems unfounded. Army-Navy upkeep, veterans' pensions and hospitalization costs, interest on the public debt and loans to foreign nations may shove it nearer the higher estimates.

As against these present and prospective charges, federal receipts for the 1946 fiscal period were estimated at $41,000,000,000, five-billion short of 1945 collections. A recent checkup based on a drop in industrial activity and pay rolls indicates that Uncle Sam's take may not top more than $35-37,000,000,000. Even so, receipts of that size should permit a neat bonus to the taxpayer, provided the budget is kept to the $20,000,000,000 figure.

* * *

RELIEF: Treasury Secretary Fred Vinson, who was Democratic wheelhorse on the House Ways and Means committee for many years, has already begun to tinker with the rate schedules in an effort to be kind to the "little fellows." He and President Truman think that they have taken sufficient punishment. Both are on record as favoring relief as soon as conditions warrant it.

There are various methods of softening the federal tap, and it is possible that a combination of them will be employed. One plan contemplates the abolition of the present three per cent normal tax on individual incomes. In view of the feeling that everybody should pay at least something to keep the voters economy-minded, this levy may be reduced to one per cent instead of eliminated entirely.

Another scheme looks toward raising allowances for family exemptions to their prewar figure. Still a third provides for cutting the surtax rates or making them effective in a less burdensome manner. They now start at 20 per cent on the first $2,000 of net income, and increase sharply thereafter. It is also expected that numerous nuisance and excise taxes will be sliced.

* * *

CONDITIONS: The total and the kind of reductions will depend on Treasury and Congressional surveys of industrial and business conditions for the next few months. A heavy sag in employment and commercial activity, which provide the basis for taxation, could upset all calculations.

So could a decision that the U. S. should finance world restoration on a grander scale than is contemplated through our contributions to UNRRA, the Bretton Woods bank and monetary fund and advances to Britain, Russia, France, China, etc.

Returning members of Congress, however, have placed tax relief as one of the first items on the 1945-1946 calendar. In discussing costly programs for helping other countries, they ask somewhat cynically but understandably: "How about taking care of our own people?" And, of course, they include themselves in that category!

* * *

PAY-OFF: The President Grant, bearing a junketing Congressional delegation, hove into the port of Yokohama in the summer of 1935 during a somewhat turbulent and prophetic period of world history. Indeed, the group of distinguished Americans were visiting Japan as a good will party.

Tokyo's war lords had precipitated the "Manchurian incident" four years earlier, and had been in conflict with China since September of 1931. Hitler was rearming, and Mussolini was preparing to rebuild Rome's empire by conquering Ethiopia. Henry Stimson, then Secretary of State, was trying without success to persuade Britain to join the United States in curbing Japan's aggressions.

As the President Grant backed and filled to enter its berth, a Japanese battleship of the newest type careened alongside with bands playing and her crew lined by the rail. In the opinion of the Americans, the warship's haughty handling did not constitute a friendly gesture. For a moment it seemed that it might ram the incoming vessel. The Japs, according to those aboard the Grant, were indulging in a defiant gesture as well as flaunting their sea power.

Three legislators angered and puzzled by this incident now hold key posts in the formation and execution of American foreign policy. They were James F. Byrnes, now Secretary of State; Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee and a godfather of the United Nations charter; and Sen. Warren Austin, of Vermont, an influential figure in fixing Republican policy on international questions.

TEXAS
By Gorden Shearer

PEOPLE from other states who write for information about Texas want to know everything from whether the climate is suitable for raising mung beans to if there is land near the coast available for grazing crabs and oysters.

There is no central agency in the state's setup for answering the questions. But most inquirers address their letters to a department which has a title that bears some resemblance to the type of data they are seeking .

Bulk of the questions end in the Texas Highway department, Game, Fish Oyster commission, State Parks board, the industrial division of the Governor's office, Agriculture commissioner's office and the General Land commissioner's office.

The war caused a terrific boon to the mail of the State Veteran's Service officer.

Majority of persons want to know something about agriculture — farming and stock raising. Closely following this are requests regarding vacation spots — parks and the like, including good hunting and fishing places. There are numerous inquiries for industrial development opportunities.

Each department strives to fulfill the desire of writers, but sometimes that is impossible.

For instance, there was the keeper of a royal zoo in South Africa. Besides asking how animals from that part of the world are faring in Texas zoos, he wanted the Game commission to ship him an armadillo.

Then to the land office have come pleas for facts on land for a jack rabbit ranch, space for a wild buffalo ranch, and an Indian wondered where he could start a "private reservation."

* * *

BEANS: Though you've likely not heard of them, mung beans are raised in Texas — in the Rio Grande Valley. They are seasoning for Chinese foods. The Agriculture department referred the letter from New Jersey about raising mung beans to the Harlingen Chamber of Commerce.

State departments get out annual reports, but they generally are masses of figures which the ordinary person would not appreciate.

"A Harvard savant declares that man is reverting to the ape." The professor is probably sticking around the college too closely.

The Second Of A Series Of Three Articles

"The Manhunt And The Atom"

By JACK STINNETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — Mushroom towns are nothing new to the United States, but the little "Secret Industrial Empires" that the atomic bombmakers created on the desert near Pasco, Wash., and in the hills near Clinton, Tenn., have a history all their own.

It is true that for months after the first ground was broken, residential areas centered in Oak Ridge, near Clinton, and Richland Village, near Pasco, still were the subjects of worker complaints. Typical was the worker at Pasco who could get no rest because of 24-hour-a-day gambling, drinking, arguing and brawling. He also complained of the sandstorms and the food and finally quit to work in the peace and quiet of a railroad yard.

* * *

YET THREE months after this John K. Jennings, Indiana WMC director, making a thorough survey of working conditions at the Hanford (Pasco) project, said:

"Everything humanly possible is done for the comfort of employes. Proper housing, schools, libraries, churches, recreation and public safety are provided as well as full banking and railroad and other transportation facilities.

"At the hotel (in Richland Village), I was given an air conditioned room at $1 a day which could not be obtained for less than $4 in any hotel in America. The hotel was neat, clean, well-managed. The bed was excellent. There was a shower bath.

He remarked on the housekeeping and maid service provided in the dormitories and cottages; the $1 meals for 65 cents (10 per cent less for 21-meal cards); the 50,000 sandwiches turned out daily for lunches and kept in refrigerators until eating time; the hospitals, which would do justice to cities of 100,000; the 24-hour-a-day movies; the dances with name bands on week ends; the recreation halls; and the fact that the bars were open only from 7 p. m. to midnight.

The Hanford project also had what Jennings described as "the largest trailer camp in America," a city in itself of 10,000 trailers, with streets, yards, and its own utilities and garbage collection.

What may be said for Pasco-Richland-Hanford area could be said for the 75,000-population Oak Ridge-Clinton community between Norris Dam and Knoxville in Tennessee.

* * *

WHEN it came to getting the highly skilled craftsmen for the Manhattan (atomic bomb) project, the War Manpower Commission had to stoop to virtual coercion, kidnaping and labor piracy —the very things it was fighting so hard to keep out of war industry.

It was legalized, of course—by an overall executive order from President Roosevelt that gave atomic bomb production the highest labor priorities in the land. That didn't always make it easy.

"Give me an order for 10,000 unskilled laborers any day rather than an order for one man of the highest skills," said one WMC official.

* * *

IN THE first place, the top skilled men were those who might get a peep into Uncle Sam's top-most-drawer war secret. Not only did they have to be citizens, but their parents and grandparents had to be citizens. If they had been abroad any time in recent years before the war they were automatically barred. Being men in their professions, they were normally high-salaried, steady, conservative and generally disinclined to fall for offers to go to work in the blind alley which the production of some fantastic weapon of tomorrow might be.

Once convinced and cleared by the FBI, they had to be yanked from under the watchful eyes of their employes without ever telling the latter what the Army was making that was more important than their vital parts for planes, ships, guns and bombs.

This situation came to a climax once when an irate Navy captain in charge of ship repairs at the Mare Island Navy Yard in San Francisco Bay came storming into Washington. He wanted to know just what the hell was going on. WMC, he roared, had pirated 15 of his best electricians.

Later in the day, hoarse but chastened, he called the WMC official on whom he had visited most of his wrath. He was talking from the office of one of the brassiest Navy hats in Washington. He apologized. If he had something that took priority over putting ships back into the battle of the Pacific, it must be the biggest thing in military history, he said.

* * *

ON THE whole, private war industry employers were more tractable and cooperative, one WMC official said, and gave up—even if tearfully—their best tool makers, designers, millwrights, pipefitters, etc., without a struggle, once informed there was something bigger in the making than anything they were producing.

Nevertheless, WMC officials breathed a big sigh of relief when they, along with the rest of the world, were informed that the "Manhattan project" produced the atomic bomb and that these volcanos on a parachute were the most devastating success in the whole history of wars.

If they had fudged a little on the rule against taking more than 10 per cent of the skilled workers in factories that had more than 10 of such; if they practically Shanghaied a few of the nation's finest shoproom artists, at last they were justified.

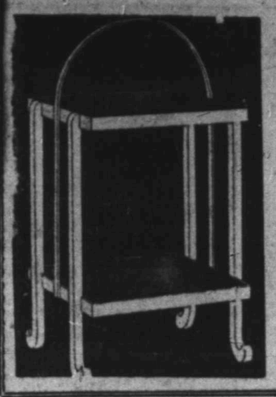

(Tomorrow: Santa Fe "Y")

More than 600 solid carloads of tomato plants, totaling more than 20,000,000, recently have been shipped from South Georgia to be widely distributed among American planting areas, according to the Railway Express.

39—Legal Notice

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
To F. E. Davis, Mrs. F. E. Davis and husband R. J. Davis, the heirs and legal representatives of each of said parties, and the unknown heirs and unknown legal representatives of F. E. Davis, Mrs. F. E. Davis and husband R. J. Davis, Defendants, Greetings:

You are hereby commanded to appear before the Honorable 99th District Court of Lubbock county, at the courthouse thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock a. m. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 8th day of October, A. D., 1945, then and there to answer Plaintiff's Petition filed in said court, on the 22nd day of August, A. D., 1945, in this cause, numbered 12739 on the docket of said court and styled H. H. Whitney, Plaintiff, vs F. E. Davis, et al, Defendants.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit: That this is a suit in trespass to try title for all of Lots Eleven (11) and Twelve (12), Block Two Hundred Sixteen (216), original town of Lubbock, Lubbock county, Texas, and to establish title in the alternative under the 10-year statutes of limitation. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendants be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that plaintiff have judgment for the title and possession of the said above described land, as is more fully shown by Plaintiff's petition on file in this suit.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this the 23rd day of August, A. D., 1945.

Attest:
(Seal) ALYENE FERGUSON, Clerk
99th District Court, Lubbock County, Texas

NO. 2072
In the matter of the guardianship of Jo Ann Hunt and Jane Hunt, minors. In the county court of Lubbock county, Texas.
To all Persons Interested in the Above Minors or their Estates:
You are notified that I have on this 23rd day of August, 1945, filed in the county court of Lubbock county, Texas, an application for authority to make to E. Hayes Sieber, as Lessee, an oil, and gas and other mineral lease, of all that certain land belonging to said minors, and being Labor 18, State Capitol League No. 694, Hockley county, Texas, and that such application will be heard in the county court room in the courthouse of Lubbock county, Texas, on the 3rd day of September, 1945.
Witness my hand this 23rd day of August, 1945.
E. L. HUNT,
Guardian of the Estate of Jo Ann and Jane Hunt, Minors.

Yount Says Use Of Atomic Necessary

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Barton K. Yount, commanding general of the Army Air forces training command who recently returned from a 20,000-mile tour of Pacific air bases, said today the atomic bomb was "a weapon we had to use."

The bomb saved "untold thousands of lives," the officer said in an interview, and termed the weapon as a blessing for the Japs as well as Allied fighters in speeding termination of hostilities.

Yount said, however, that high standards of training in the command must be continued and that the aviation branch must be prepared to maintain peace.

"In fact, training will be a harder job now because morale must be kept up. The men before were eager to get into combat," he declared.

WPB Hints Of More Tires For Motorists

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — The driver who wants more tires to match his unlimited gasoline may look for a break within 90 days.

This is the word today from WPB officials. They predict that tire production might jump to 4,000,000 a month in the October-December quarter compared with this month's 2,000,000.

Although wary of saying that this gain would put an end to tire rationing, OPA and WPB officials alike admit a hunch that it might — perhaps within two or three months.

Substantial improvement in truck tires will come much sooner, in perhaps 30 days.

The WPB had this to offer on the rubber outlook:

Household rubber goods—sink stoppers, bathroom mats and the like — probably will be released from control gradually, several items at a time.

Once turned loose, production will jump rapidly, but the price may be high.

They say controls on natural rubber may last 12 months longer.

More Restrictions Lifted; Daily Milk Deliveries Set For Nov. 1

By HELENE MONBERG
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. — Housewives were assured today that "fair" supplies of washing machines and electric ranges will be on the market by the year's end and that the milkman can soon resume daily deliveries.

The Office of Defense Transportation announced that restrictions on retail delivery service would end Nov. 1, thus permitting department stores, dairies, laundries and others to deliver their products as often as they please. Limits on the size of packages that can be delivered also will end.

May Force Voluntary Restrictions

ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson warned, however, that the relaxations do not necessarily mean an immediate return to full prewar service. Shortages of equipment, tires and manpower will force some voluntary restrictions on deliveries.

In a survey of its reconversion orders, the war production board said that many important household commodities would be available in good quantity by late December and that pre-war production should be restored by the spring of 1946.

Situation Sized Up

WPB sized up the production of various items as follows:

Electric ranges: will be in retail stores in fair supply by December, and no statement of necessity for purchase. By Jan. 1 the pre-war rate of production may be reached or surpassed. Production during the last six months of 1945 will be about 145,000.

Washing machines: should be on the market in some quantity by January. They will not be rationed. About 500,000 probably will be manufactured in the fourth quarter of 1945. The present pent-up demand is estimated to be 3,000,000 units.

To Make Electric Fans

Electric fans: should be on sale by December in fairly adequate supplies. About 100,000 will be produced in fourth quarter. Production is expected to rise sharply in the spring.

Film: by the end of the year supply should approximate demand. The Army and Navy have made extensive cutbacks in film requirements, but will continue to use large amounts of X-ray film in examining personnel to be discharged from the armed forces. This country furnishes 75 per cent of the world's supply, so foreign demand also will be high.

Dry cell batteries: in the next few months supply should equal demand. The total supply for civilians is now more than during the pre-war years, but demand has increased. Some 125,000,000 cells, including those for hearing aids, will be manufactured in the next few months.

Refrigerators Still Controlled

Refrigerators: may now be produced at unlimited rate but WPB retains controls on distribution and will probably continue them until mid-October. Fourth quarter production to be about 700,000 units. Demand estimated at 6,000,000 units.

Dental burrs: enough will be available by the end of the year to meet the needs of civilian dentists.

Office equipment: about $20,000,000 worth of such items as shelves, lockers, safes and files will be available in the first quarter of 1946.

Caskets: unlimited production of metal caskets cannot be resumed for some time because of shortage of tin and natural rubber. Caskets now made primarily of lumber and plastics.

Laboratory equipment: should be in good supply during the last three months of the year.

Cab Driver's Race With Stork Became Just Another Run

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23 (U.P.)—J. H. Head, city cab driver, was mopping his brow after a close race with the stork—he thought.

Head, a student at the Baptist Theological seminary, answered an emergency call at the home of Mrs. D. W. Dixon, expectant mother. He careened through the city streets, traveling at limit speed, arriving at the hospital with relief that he had made it just in time.

But the stork staged a sulking spell after losing the race. Tuesday morning came and no stork. By Tuesday noon, hospital attendants were beginnig to wonder.

Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Dixon was released from the hospital to await further developments. The taxi driver is expecting another race with the stork just any time.

14,849 Mexicans Are In U. S. Army

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23 (AP)—Mexico was notified yesterday by the U. S. embassy here that records show 14,849 Mexicans were enrolled in the U. S. Army.

In making this report to the department of national defense, Col. Loren B. Hillsinger, U. S. attache for air, transmitted a letter of praise for the Mexican 201st squadron from Gen. Clayton Bissell of the U. S. Air force staff.

Library Book Back After 33 Years

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 23 (AP) Just 33 years after it had been checked out, one of Sir Walter Scott's novels was back in the Chattanooga public library today.

"It looks as if it has been away a long time," commented Mrs. W. C. Wilkerson of El Paso, Tex., who wrote she had found the book, borrowed from the library Dec. 9, 1912, in her basement.

NEW PRIVATE PLANE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—A streamlined new private plane, the "Rocket," arrived here today on its maiden flight from Fort Worth, Tex., it was announced by Johnson Aircraft, Inc., the manufacturers. The new plane, designed for amateur fliers, takes off on a 900-foot runway, cruises at 185 miles per hour, travels 25 miles on a gallon of gas and is equipped with two-way radio and built-in parachutes, the company said.

BELFAST, Aug. 23. (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower arrived here today to attend ceremonies Friday in which he will be given freedom of the city of Belfast.

Pre-Salted Celery Claimed By Farmer

WISCONSID RAPIDS, Wis., Aug. 23 (AP) — A Wood county farmer claimed today he had succeeded in growing pre-salted celery but the University of Wisconsin's horticultural expert said that chemical analysis would be necessary before a definite conclusion could be drawn.

Nick Engel, who has 25,000 celery plants ready for harvesting on a one-acre plot, said the celery very definitely had a saline flavor.

He said that after experimenting for seven years he hit on the method he is now using. It consists of mixing 1,000 pounds of salt with the soil while praparing it for planting.

According to Engel when the plant draws water from beneath the bog, it dissolves the salt on the way to the stem. The water level is about two feet below the surface of the plot and must be drained continuously, Engel added.

Engel said he planted the seeds in a hot-house last March and started outside planting in June.

At Madison, James G. Moore, professor of horticulture at the University of Wisconsin, said he had never heard of the procedure and suggested that Engel send some of his celery to the University for chemical analysis.

Nearly Two Million Separated From Army

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Army separations for all reasons from the beginning of the war through May 31, 1945, totaled 1,998,000, the War department announced today.

The separations included 243,000 battle and non-battle deaths, 1,441,000 honorable discharges, 107,000 captured by the enemy or missing, and 207,000 others including dishonorable discharges and officers retired for age.

The War department noted that many in the prisoner and missing category have been liberated or found.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Save Time With Crumb Crusts

CRUMB pie crusts that need no baking whatever, go hand in hand with plans for making a "Vacation at Home" a real vacation from long hours of cooking.

These crumb crusts are made from graham cracker or cookie crumbs combined with a small amount of melted butter or margarine. The mixture need only be pressed into a pie tin and chilled before filling with fruit, cooked custard or gelatine types of filling.

There's no doughy board to clean and there's no chance of failure, so crumb crusts promote the kind of peace of mind needed on a vacation — especially a vacation at home.

Black Bottom Peach Pie

1½ cups chocolate wafer crumbs
¼ cup melted margarine
2½ cups sliced peaches
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Mix chocolate wafer crumbs and melted margarine, and reserve ¼ cup of the mixture for the top of the pie. Press the remaining mixture firmly into 9" pie tin and chill until ready for use. Just before serving, arrange peach slices in crust and top with scoops of ice cream. Sprinkle remaining chocolate wafer crumbs over top.

Brazilian Cream Pie

¾ cup vanilla wafer crumbs
8 to 10 whole vanilla wafers
¼ cup melted margarine
¾ cup strong coffee
1 cup milk
1 package vanilla pudding
¾ cup sliced bananas (if desired)
1 cup wartime whipped cream

Mix vanilla wafer crumbs and melted margarine and press mixture into botton of 9" pie tin. Arrange whole vanilla wafers around the sides of the tin, filling in space with crumbs. Chill crust.

Use coffee and milk to prepare vanilla pudding according to package directions and cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour into crumb crust and chill thoroughly. Just before serving, arrange banana slices on pie and top with wihpped cream.

MOLASSES PEARS
(Serves 6)

Six firm under-ripe pears, 1 cup water, 3-4 cup molasses, 1 lemon.

Halve and core the pears; do not peel. Place in a 2-quart saucepan, cover with the water and cook slowly until the pears are almost tender. Add the molasses and lemon. Continue cooking very slowly until the pears are tender and the syrup is thickened. Cool. Serve with cream if desired.

Desserts That Use Light Corn Syrup

If you are still having a time in perparing desserts for the family and keeping one eye on the sugar bin, you'll be interested in these recipes for desserts that call for light corn syrup and evaporated milk.

Frozen Vanilla Custard

1 egg, separated
1/2 cup light corn syrup
Few grains salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
2/3 cup evaporated milk, chilled icy cold

Beat egg yolk with syrup and salt, then add vanilla. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry and fold into yolk mixture. Whip milk very stiff. Fold in egg mixture lightly but thoroughly. Pour at once into cold freezing trays and freeze . Yield: 1½ pints.

Chocolate Mousse

1 cup evaporated milk, chilled icy cold
1 cup Fudge Sauce

Whip milk very stiff. Fold in Fudge Sauce lightly but thoroughly. Pour at once into cold freezing trays and freeze. Yield: 1 quart.

Fudge Sauce

2 squares (2 oz) unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup water
1-1/2 cups light corn syrup
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cook chocolate and water over direct heat about 2 minutes, or until chocolate is melted and mixture is thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add the corn syrup slowly, then salt. Simmer gently 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add vanilla. Yield: 1-2/3 cups.

MOCHA PECAN ICE CREAM

1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold milk
½ cup strong hot coffee
1 square chocolate
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups milk
1 pint medium cream
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup unsalted pecans, broken

Soften gelatine in 1-4 cup cold milk and dissolve in hot coffee. Melt chocolate over hot water and add hot coffee gradually, stirring constantly until smooth and blended. Add sugar, salt, milk, cream and vanilla. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze, stirring several times, until mushy. Fold in pecans and freeze until firm.

Use the sponge method to wash handbags made of plastics or washable coated fabrics.

A pinch of savory adds flavor to scrambled eggs.

A brief soaking period for clothes is more desirable than the over-night soaking period.

Chili Sauce, Tomato Ketchup From Food Firm's Files

SHORTLY before points were lifted from tomato ketchup a famous food firm released its own cherished recipes for chili sauce and ketchup. Of course, many women will not want to take the time and trouble to use the recipes now, but others will be interested in the formulae. The ingredients are the same; the proportions are still in balance on a small scale.

If you want to duplicate the flavor of this famous chili sauce and ketchup, only the choicest ingredients can be used. See that the tomatoes are vine ripe and meaty. Use onions that are firm and shiny. Be sure that spices and condiments conform.

CHILI SAUCE

1½ cups distilled white vinegar
2 tablespoons whole cloves
1 teaspoon coarsely broken stick cinnamon
1 teaspoon celery seed
2¾ pounds (11 medium) tomatoes, peeled
1 tablespoon chopped onion
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon powdered red pepper
2¾ pounds (11 medium) tomatoes, peeled
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt

Combine vinegar and spices. Bring to a boil, then remove from heat. Let vinegar stand to absorb spices. Combine 2¾ pounds tomatoes, onion, ½ cup sugar and red pepper in a large cooking vessel. Boil vigorously, stirring constantly, for 30 minutes. Stir in additional 2¾ pounds tomatoes and ½ cup sugar. Boil vigorously, stirring constantly, for 30 minutes longer. Strain vinegar and discard spices. Combine salt with spiced vinegar and add to boiling tomato mixture. Continue boiling mixture for 30 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour while boiling into hot sterilized jars filling to ¼" from top. Seal each jar immediately after it is filled. To help retain color, wrap jars individually in brown paper before storing. Yields 2½ pints.

NOTE: If this recipe is doubled a longer cooking time will probably be required and a slightly darker product may result.

IN BROWN PAPER

Wrapping up the jars this way is a color-protective measure worth the little bit of extra trouble. Light sometimes has a darkening effect on home-packed tomato products, but brown paper overcomes it. Added color precautions: Don't use spices; they also tend to darken. Rely on the clear colorless distilled white vinegar for both these recipes. Darken vinegars have a tendency to dim tomatoes' brilliance, while distilled white vinegar safeguards their lustre and tone.

TOMATO KETCHUP

1 cup distilled white vinegar
1½ teaspoons whole cloves
1½ teaspoons coarsely broken stick cinnamon
1 teaspoon celery seed
8 pounds (32 medium) tomatoes
2 cups water
1 tablespoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon powdered red pepper
1 cup sugar
4 teaspoons salt

Combine vinegar and spices. Bring to a boil, then remove from heat. Let vinegar stand to absorb spices. Scald, then crush tomatoes. Combine tomatoes with water, onion and red pepper and boil for 15 minutes. Put through a sieve. Combine sugar and hot tomato juice in a large cooking vessel and boil, stirring constantly, until volume is halved (about 45 minutes). Stain vinegar and discard spices. Combine salt with spiced vinegar and add to boiling tomato mixture. Continue boiling mixture for 30 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour while boiling into hot sterilized jars filling to ¼" from top. Seal each jar immediately after it is filled. To help retain color, wrap jars individually in brown paper before storing. Yields 2 pints.

NOTE: If this recipe is doubled a longer cooking time will probably be required and a slightly darker product may result.

New Sugar Stamp Is To Be Valid Sept. 1.

WASHINGTON Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Sugar stamp 38 in ration book four will become valid Sept. 1, Office of Price Administration announced today.

It will be good for five pounds of sugar until Dec. 31, 1945.

Sugar stamp 37, originally scheduled to be usable on Sept. 1, was invalidated because many housewives had used this stamp last summer, mistakenly, when they applied for extra canning sugar.

The current sugar stamp, No. 36, becomes invalid Aug. 31.

OPA is continuing the current ration rate of five pounds of sugar every four months because of a shortage of supplies. No improvement for civilians is expected this year. Stocks are lower now than they have been for ten years.

Relishes Will Perk Up Winter Meals

Turn part of your Victory Garden harvest into old-fashioned relishes. They add zest to winter meals.

Green Tomato-Cabbage Relish
(Using Brown Sugar)
(Makes About 4 Quarts)

Four quarts (about 24 to 28 medium-sized) chopped green tomatoes, 4 quarts sliced cabbage, 4 cups chopped onion, 1 cup chopped sweet red pepper, ¼ cup salt, 1 teaspoon ground allspice, 2 teaspoons celery seed, 2 teaspoons mustard seed, 1 pound (2 cups firmly packed) brown sugar, 1 quart vinegar.

Sprinkle layers of tomatoes, cabbage, onion, and sweet pepper with salt. Let stand overnight; drain. Add allspice, celery seed, mustard seed, sugar and vinegar. Boil 25 minutes, or until there is just enough liquid left to moisten ingredients well. Pack into clean, hot, sterile jars. Fill jars to top; seal tightly.

Corn Relish (1 Cup Sugar)
(Makes About 5 Pints)

Two quarts corn (12 to 15 ears), 1 pint diced sweet red pepper, 1 pint diced green pepper, 1 quart chopped celery, 1 cup sliced onion, 1 cup sugar, 1 quart vinegar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 teaspoons celery seed, a tablespoons dry mustard ¼ cup flour, ½ cup water.

To prepare corn, remove husks and silks; place in boiling water. Simmer for 10 minutes. Remove and plunge into cold water. Drain; cut corn from the cob. Do not scrape the cobs. Measure out 2 quarts. Combine sweet red peppers, green pepper, celery, onion, sugar, vinegar, salt and celery seed. Boil for 15 minutes. Mix mustard and flour; blend with the water. Add with the corn to pepper mixture. Stir and boil 5 minutes. Pack into clean, hot, pint jars, filling to one-half inch of top. Adjust lids and boil jars 10 minutes in boiling water bath (be sure water covers jars). Remove jars; complete the seals. For added yellow color mix 1 teaspoon of turmeric with the mustard and flour.

Pointers On Making Hot Weather Salads

Tested your salad etiquette lately? Here's a quiz that might give you a few tips.

Q. Should the salad greens under the salad be eaten?

A. Yes, and especially in these times when to waste food is poor patriotism.

Q. Is it correct to cut them with a knife?

A. Certainly. Thoughtful hostesses, however, often shred greens as a salad base to save their guests trouble.

Q. Is it correct to use one salad oil for all home made dressings no matter what their other flavor ingredients?

A. Yes, if the salad oil is top quality mazola, made from the hearts of corn kernels. The pure flavor, golden color, of mazola make it a perfect blender with every quirk of condiment the housewife can think up for her home-made salad dressings.

Q. Must salad always have a plate to itself?

A. No. At parties, dinners, teas or luncheons, a "club plate" is often passed that holds all the food on a large plate, including the salad, which is held in a lettuce cup.

Q. Where does the salad fork go in a table setting?

A. To the left of the dinner plate, then comes the meat fork, and to the left of that, the fork for fish or entree if such is served.

Most Of Texas Crops And Ranges Hurt By Continuing Dry Weather

AUSTIN, Aug. 23 (AP)—With the exception of areas in the northern part of the Panhandle, crops and ranges generally over Texas need rain.

Continued hot and dry weather is hurting range feed, retarding growing crops, but is promoting harvest and field work and working a hardship on insects infesting cotton, the United States department of agriculture reported today in a review of conditions through Aug. 20.

Some Exceptions

Exceptions were the northern high plains and northern counties in the low rolling plains which were favored by fairly widespread rains. West central and southern areas were very dry to the continued detriment of growing crops. Remaining areas had enough moisture to prevent serious deterioration to growing crops, but general rains would be helpful.

The sorghum crop on the northern high plains was improved by recent rains, but conditions were spotted on the southern high plains and in many areas here moisture was insufficient, high temperatures were injurious and growth was slow.

Harvesting of early rice varieties gained momentum under favorable conditions with prospects for a very good crop. Harvesting of peanuts was nearing completion in some southern areas and was starting in south central and south eastern areas.

Cotton Harvest Moves On

Moisture and temperatures were generally favorable for cotton. Harvest was almost complete in South Texas and in the coastal bend counties, and picking was general over most of the south central and southeastern districts. The present supply of pickers is mostly adequate but transient labor will be needed within a few weeks to harvest the rapidly maturing crop.

Watermelon harvest was limited mainly to the late areas. Part of the Panhandle potato areas was too wet for harvest to continue and some damage to quality was expected.

Fall Crop Vegetables

Fall-crop vegetables in the southern commercial counties continued to make good progress.

Range conditions in the north high plains and in northern counties in the low rolling plains were improved by rains but local areas were still very dry. In north central, central, south central, east and southeast Texas, ranges were still furnishing good grazing but high temperatures and lack of grass rains was causing deterioration in range feeds. It was still very dry in south and west central Texas, but livestock was holding up remarkably well. Marketings continued slow, although some contracting for future delivery was started.

Poison ivy, poison oak, poison elder, and poison dogwood all are forms of poison sumach.

Hershey Says Vets' Job Rights Near End

BOSTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, said tonight that the right of veterans for the return of their peace-time jobs, expires with the war emergency.

Hershey, addressing 300 Massachusetts draft board officials, made the statement in answer to a question from his audience.

The job guarantee was contained in the Selective Service law adopted by Congress, which he said, "was passed, not for all time, but for what was thought might be a year's training period."

"Unless there is more legislation," Hershey said, "sections 8-A and 8-B (concerning guaranteed job return) will be abolished automatically when Congress terminates hostilities."

Lubbock County Bar Favors 9-Man Court Offered On Saturday Ballot

Unanimous favor of adopting a constitutional amendment Saturday so as to increase the number of State Supreme court justices from three to nine has been expressed by Lubbock County Bar association, Leo S. Hay, president, said Thursday.

"I have canvassed the bar members and have found them to be unanimously for this bill," Hay said. "In the first place we've had nine men doing the work of the court all along but only three of them were elected and authorized to act as justices. The other six, who were actually only law clerks since their decisions were subject to review by the three justices, however, have received the same salaries as justices, so the proposed change does not involve any additional expense to the taxpayers. It should mean quicker and better justice. At the present time two of the justices can overrule seven other members of the court.

"Most of us, I believe, will concede that five men in agreement are more likely to be right than are two men, whose judgment is opposed by other members of the court."

Other Opinions Expressed

Other attorneys interviewed on the amendment, expressed the following opinions:

City Attorney Vaughn Wilson: "Adoption of the amendment, increasing the membership of the court from three to nine justices, will not only speed up the administration of justice but will tend to end confusion now arising from judgments rendered by the commissions, acting as arms of the court. While the opinions of these six commissioners, assisting the three justices, are generally accepted as high authority, they are still not the opinions of the State Supreme Court in the final analysis. Consequently confusion results."

Attorney Owen W. McWhorter: "I favor the proposed change. We need a larger Supreme court to handle the business expeditiously. This amendment, if passed, would mean that the people of Texas would elect nine justices, instead of electing only three and depending upon six appointees, as is now the case. There would also be the advantage of a decision by nine men. As the court is now constituted, the judgment of six of the commissioners who serve as justices by appointment is outweighed by the judgment of two of the elected justices. The new arrangement proposed by the amendment should make for improved justice."

Need More Justices

Attorney Durwood H. Bradley: "I'm heartily in favor of it. I think we should have a sufficient number of justices in the state Supreme court to take care of the business of the court and handle it efficiently. We could eliminate commissions of civil appeal and save the taxpayers considerable tax money as a consequence. I think this is something that should have been done a long time ago."

Attorney Jack M. Randal: "I'm for it. Passage of the constitutional amendment would mean that we'd have nine men elected to the state Supreme court by the people, instead of three elected and six appointed. In other words it would make the court answerable to the people."

The court has three members under the Constitution of 1876. The Legislature created a statutory court, known as the Commission of Appeals to aid the Supreme court in 1918, when the court got behind with its work. Only three states in the union, one of which is Texas, vests the power of its Supreme court in the hands of three justices. Oklahoma has nine justices; Louisiana and Arkansas, seven; and New Mexico, five.

Adoption of the amendment, Hay and other local lawyers explained, will not mean that the six commissioners, now serving in the court, will become justices. The six additional justices would be chosen by the people through a regular election.

Gene Krupa's Drums Were Just Too Hot For Houston People

HOUSTON, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—The music might have been sweet to the customers of a Houston cafe, but it was just loud and sour to residents in the area.

Police Judge Cleo Miller also was of the latter opinion and assessed Charles Richardon, negro owner of the cafe, $25 for violation of the anti-noise ordinance.

Richardson was tried before Judge Miller and a parade of neighbors testified the cafe juke box was never quiet. It played until four or five in the morning, in sickness or in health of the neighbors, according to the testimony.

Neighbors said that Harry James played Reveille on his trumpet and Gene Krupa's drums knocked out all possibility of sleep at night.

The judge listened sympathetically, then assessed the fine.

Eight A&M Profs Go On Modified Service

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 23. (A.P.)—Eight professors with a total of 227 years of teaching service at Texas A&M college will go on modified service Sept. 1, Dr. F. C. Bolton, A&M executive vice president, said today.

These include four department heads, three staff members of the school of arts and sciences, and one staff member from the school of agriculture.

They are Dr. C. H. Winkler, Dr. C. B. Campbell, Dr. O. W. Silvey, Prof. W. L. Hughes, Dr. George Summey, jr., Prof. Hillel Halperin, Prof. B. C. Jones, and Prof. J. B. Bagley.

Dr. Winkler came to A&M in 1923. He was made head of the department of psychology in 1935.

Dr. Campbell came to A&M in 1903 and was made head of the department of modern languages in 1914.

Dr. Silvey came to A&M in 1916 as head of the department of physics.

Prof. Hughes has headed the department of education since 1924.

Dr. Summey came to A&M in 1922 as head of the English department. About a year ago he asked to be relieved of administrative duties but continued as professor of English.

Prof. Halperin, native of Belgium, came to A&M in 1920 and was made professor of mathematics in 1925.

Prof. Jones came to A&M in 1921 and was made assistant professor of chemistry in 1926.

Prof. Bagley was made professor of cotton marketing when the textile engineering department which he headed was discontinued.

Impeachment Of Bilbo Asked By Negro Group

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (U.P.) — More than 300 persons, a majority of them negroes, held a mass meeting in a Brooklyn church and framed a resolution urging immediate impeachment of Sen. Theo G. Bilbo, (D., Miss).

Copies of the resolution were sent to New York Senators Robert M. Wagner and James M. Mead with a request that they initiate the requested proceedings against Bilbo.

Three Southern Girl Amateurs Doing Fine Job Of Entertaining

By BONNIE WILEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM—Three girls from the South who never saw the back of footlights before they came to war are doing professionally competent jobs of entertaining here on the jungle island of Guam.

They are Red Cross workers, strictly amateur, taking their show to off-the-beaten-track soldiers and sailors. They dreamed up the idea themselves and since they went into show business have presented programs for more than 30,000 men—on ships, in isolated units, at anti-aircraft batteries, and elsewhere.

Not Professionals

'Don't confuse us with professionals," said Catherine Allen of Columbus, Ga., former physical education teacher at the University of Tennessee. "Our idea was that the men could entertain themselves once you got them started, so we just get community singing going and the boys love it."

This night they visited an isolated anti-aircraft battery, first show ever to wander that far back into the jungle.

Miss Allen, an accordion player, broke the ice by calling all the men into the recreation tent and asking them to sing "Roll Out the Barrell." Serving as master of ceremonies was the second of the trio, Madge Caperton of San Antonio, Tex., whose husband is an Army flier. The vocalist is Lorene Wharton of Birmingham, Ala., who announced that "you men have to help me out because I can't sing."

Men Join In

"That's the idea back of our shows," Miss Allen said. "We get the ball rolling and the men, lots of whom have talent, take the mike and carry on. After a few minutes, we don't have to do much but make sure everybody gets a chance to perform."

The "ideal" group for the informal amateur shows is 125 men, but the audiences run as high as 1,500, or as low as five.

"For the large groups we give carnivals, with other Red Cross girls volunteering to help," Miss Allen said. "Sometimes we give outdoor suppers, cooking over a fire, giving skits and so on."

WAC Detachment Up In Arms Over Inquiry About Fraternization With Germans

By ROBERT S. MUSELO
United Press Staff Writer

BAD TOLZ, Germany, Aug. 23.—The only WAC detachment in this area was up in arms today against an unidentified WAC sergeant who asked the army newspaper Stars and Stripes if it was permissible for WACs to fraternize with German men.

Her query provoked a storm of bitter letters from GI's, who charged that WACs in general had been "snooty" toward American soldiers and particularly that they habitually ignored American enlisted men whenever the companionship of officers was available.

GIs Answer With Letters

Acrimonious GI letters still were appearing in Stars and Stripes today.

"If any WAC can find a German man who's rather fraternize with her in preference to some of these 'prima' (sensational) Frauleins, tell her to go ahead," one letter said. "We've asked too many WACs to parties with no for an answer. We prefer frauleins."

One letter said that during the day WACs "give the enlisted man a smile and doughnut. But they spend the evening riding with officers in jeeps and staff cars."

WACs Are Smouldering

The WACs in this area are smouldering at both the letter writers and the anonymous sergeant.

"The trouble with those guys who are writing the letters," said Pvt. Olivia Desabaugh of Norfolk, Va., "is that they are pudging all of us on the basis of a few bad ones. The bad ones stand out like a sore thumb, but the vast majority of us pick a man because we like him as a man. Anyhow, it's really against regulations to go out with officers."

Pvt. Demaris Clark of Portland, Ore., said:

"If I like a man, I'd go out with him if he was a hottentot—but not a German. We'd like to get our hands on that WAC sergeant for even thinking about fraternizing with Germans who have killed so many of our boys. I discount those letters because the GI's know as well as we do that bars, and even stars, have frequently been taking second places to a stripe or stripes."

Pvt. Helen Allen of Nashville, Tenn., said she admitted she had seen some WACs show a "strong preference for the brass."

"But only some," she added. "I feel strongly about that silly sergeant about fraternizing—it's her type who drew the letters, and not the great majority of our girls, who are fine kids."

Compulsory Training Is Halted By Japs

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23. (U.P.) Radio Tokyo said today that Japan has abolished compulsory military training in schools and will lift restrictions soon on employment in peace time industries.

"Pupils and students previously drafted for labor service in war industry and for agricultural production have been demobilized and military training forced on them has been abolished," Tokyo said.

Another Japanese broadcast said agriculture probably will become Japan's most important "industry" as result of the Allied surrender terms. It appealed to the Japanese people to step up food production.

Building Of Regular Army To Start Soon

PYOTE ARMY AIR FIELD, Tex., Aug. 23. (A.P.)—An announcement received from the War department indicates the building of a volunteer army will start immediately, the Pyote Army Air field public relations office says.

The announcement said enlistments in the regular Army for a period of three years will be accepted, and that qualified individuals now in the Army who want to enlist in the regular Army will be discharged from the Army of the United States and reenlisted.

Houston Contractor Commits Suicide

HOUSTON, Aug. 23. (U.P.) — A verdict of suicide had been returned today by justice of the peace Tom Maes in the death of Jim B. Handley, 39, Houston contractor and acting Harris county Republican party chairman.

Handley died at 9:30 p.m., last night after having shot himself in the left side near the heart with a .410-gauge shotgun.

He was found lying on a bed at his home by his two sons, Mike, 15, and Pat, 16.

According to officers, Handley called his sons at work and told them to come home because "I am shot."

When the sons arrived, they called an ambulance for their father, who remained conscious until just before arriving at St. Joseph's infirmary.

Handley told deputies he shot himself because of "family worries." The officers said Handley and his wife separated three days ago.

Handley was head of the Jim B. Handley construction company in Houston.

OPA Director Has Tire Troubles Too

DALLAS, Aug. 23 (U.P.) — It takes more than ration-free gasoline to make a long trip, W. A. Orth, regional Office of Price Administration director, admitted today.

On a round trip to San Antonio last week end, Orth said he had seven flats, ruined two rims and had to buy two decrepit grade 3 tires to limp on back to Dallas.

Six Lubbock Men In 29th Infantry Band Play For Denmark Royalty

Giving a command band concert before King Christian X, King of Denmark, would have seemed unlikely to six Lubbock boys in 1940 when they were members of the Texas State Guard, 131st Field Artillery, but as members of the 29th Infantry occupying Germany —anything can happen.

Playing with the Blue and Gray band, they gave a 35 minute concert before the King at his summer palace outside the capital at Copenhagen, Aug. 2. The Lubbock men, all members of the 69th Division before it was joined to the 29th Infantry for occupation and together through their entire military careers are Sgt. Edwin C. Hall, son of Edwin C. Hall of 2020 Main; Sgt. Dale Walker, son of F. S. Walker of 2348 Nineteenth; T/5 Elmo Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison of 2021 Tenth; Sgt. Hank McCarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. McCarty of 1214-A Seventh; Sgt. Horton Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Morris of 2307 Seventh; and Sgt. Paul Lovett of Amarillo, former Lubbock resident.

Family Strolls About

Throughout the concert members of the royal family wandered about the terrace listening to the music and taking pictures of the American band. The Crown Prince, Prince Knud, next king of Denmark, spent most of the time conducting his young son, Prince Ingall, and the Princess Elizabeth about the gardens. His wife, Princess Caroline, who speaks excellent English, spent a great deal of time talking to the American cameramen and other soldiers.

Following the playing of the two national anthems, the king invited each member of the band to pass by his chair so he might see and greet each one personally. As the troops boarded their trucks to leave the palace, the Queen came out of the palace with her camera and after taking pictures of the trucks and jeeps waved a farewell to them as they passed by the palace guards standing at the Royal salute.

Laughs Her Delight

From the rear of one of the trucks someone called to her: "So long, Queen, we had a fine time." The Queen laughed in delight and called back "And so did we."

Members of the 29th, and those of the 69th division now a part of the 29th, have had many other rich experiences since serving overseas. It was the 69th division that met the Russian Army at Torgau on the Elbe river 75 miles south of Berlin Aug. 27, first official link-up of the two Armies.

Since that time the 29th has been busy with occupation tasks, re-education plans for the Germans and assisting with rehabilitation wherever they could. The Blue and Gray bandsmen, which includes all the Lubbock boys, have presented music on many occasions for entertainment and diversion of the 29th. They have done their part in keeping up the morale of the Army of occupation.

Recently the 29th Division bandsmen established a night club at Grohn, in one of the buildings inhabited by the band. The 57 members of the Blue and Gray, eager to follow rehabilitation plans, set about transforming a colorless duo of hopeless- appearing rooms into a swanky layout adorned with intricate paneling, an attractive bar, a Spanish-styled archway, the cleverest lighting effects, and tables bedecked with flower vases.

Opening night of this club was a novel party, a toast to the Blue and Gray band maestro, WO Larry Smigel. The newly-established club, exclusive property of the 29th Division bandsmen, rocked the evening long to the laughter and music supplied by its own clientele, and the floor show was practically continuous.

Sgt. Morris, one of the Lubbock boys named above, wrote his parents that the club was a beautiful place and the division was very proud of it. "We pass a lot of time here and thus it keeps us from fraternizing," Sgt Morris said.

Discharged Brothers Fought War Together

KYLE, Tex., Aug. 23. (AP) — Corporal Joe Gunn, 26, and Sergeant Eli Gunn, 26, went out to war together, fought together, and came home together.

The sons of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Gunn of Kyle enlisted in the Texas National Guard at Camp Maxbry in 1940. Together they went to Camp Bowie when the 36th division was federalized, and took basic training.

They were assigned to the same outfit, the 360th Ordnance company of the 36th, and fought side by side in Italy, southern France and central Europe.

When the war was over, the Gunn brothers were sent home and reached the United States the same day, July 26.

They were sent to Fort Sam Houston and were discharged simultaneously after having served together in the same unit for four years and nine months. Two years and four months of this scrvice was overseas.

Each wore the same campaign ribbons, the same five Bronze Stars, and the same prized good conduct medal, when he was discharged.

WOULD REMOVE CEILINGS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)— Senator Wherry (R-Neb) today urged removal of price ceilings on new and used automobiles at once, contending this would speed employment in the industry.

Planes Available For War Memorials

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP) — Bombers and fighters now are available to state and local governments for war memorials.

The Surplus Property board today released commercially unsalable surplus aeronautical property including planes, for memorial purposes. The cost is "nominal," plus transportation.

U-Boats Took Heavy Toll In Gulf, Sinking 33 Ships; 434 Lives Lost

(By The Associated Press)

German submarines roamed the Gulf of Mexico at will in 1942 and 1943, sinking 33 Allied ships and taking 434 lives. The hot spot along the Texas coast was near Port Isabel.

So many Allied ships were sunk by enemy U-boats near New Orleans that the area became known as "torpedo junction," the Eighth Naval district headquarters at New Orleans said today in revealing the full extent of the submarine campaign in southern waters.

A total of 299 lives were lost near New Orleans. Twenty-five ships were attacked within 150 miles of the city during the period from May 6, to August 13, 1942. Seventeen of the ships were sunk, while six escaped and made port.

Five Near Port Isabel

Near Port Isabel, five ships were sunk. Four were Norwegian, one Mexican. Total tonnage lost there was 16,263 tons.

In the entire gulf area covered by the Eighth Naval district report, 33 ships with a gross tonnage of 196,970 tons were sunk. Forty-four ships were attacked, many limping into port badly damaged.

The gulf area is described as that portion of the Gulf of Mexico west of a straight line drawn from the mouth of the Apalachiocola river in Florida to the west tip of the Yucatan channel between Cuba and Mexico.

The number of enemy submarines sunk or damaged is not known.

No positive sinkings were accredited to the district by the evaluation board in Washington, but it is believed at least one was definitely sent to the bottom.

First Sunk May 6, 1942

The first ship sunk in the gulf was the Alcoa Puritan, an American cargo ship, May 6, 1942. The last was the Touchet, an American tanker, Dec. 3, 1943.

Wolf pack attacks were never used in the gulf. However, as many as three enemy submarines are known to have operated in the gulf at the same time.

The U-boats are thought to have been of the 517 and 740-ton class. They remained in the area for as long as three or four weeks before they were relieved by others from home bases.

In the early phases of the campaign Allied defenses were negligible. In 1942, only the active cooperation of fishing vessels saved many survivors. Shrimpers alone saved 311 victims.

These boats kept submarines submerged, and aided in reporting positions of submarines when they surfaced.

Made Too Hot In 1943

The gulf was finally made too hot for enemy submarines in 1943 by the concentration of Navy and coast guard surface forces and an increase of Navy, Coast Guard and Army planes.

A total of nine ships were sunk off the Texas and Mexico coasts. The ships, flag under which they flew, their tonnage, the date and location of sinkings are:

Oaxaca, Mexican tanker of 4,350 tons, sunk July 26, 1942, 75 miles southeast of Corpus Christi. It was attacked at 4:45 a. m.

Moira, Norwegian tanker, 1,560 tons, sunk June 17, 1942, 56 miles southeast of Port Isabel at 7 a. m.

San Blas, Panamanian cargo ship of 3,600 tons, sunk June 16, 1942, 97 miles southeast of Port Isabel at 9:50 p. m.

Toledo, American tanker of 8,192 tons, sunk June 12, 1942.

Amatlan, Mexican tanker, 6,511 tons, sunk Sept. 4, 1942, 60 miles northeast of Tampico, Mexico, at 10:55 p. m.

Gundersen, Norwegian cargo ship, 2,240 tons, sunk July 1, 1942, 29 miles southeast of Port Isabel at 11:15, p. m.

Cadmus, Norwegian cargo ship, sunk July 1, 1942, 325 miles southeast of Port Isabel at 1:55 p. m.

Las Choapas, Mexican tanker, 2,005 tons, sunk June 27, 1942, 24 miles east of Tuxpan, Mexico.

Tuxpan, Mexican tanker, 7,008 tons, sunk June 26, 1942, about 110 miles southeast of Tuxpan and 390 miles south of Port Isabel at 11:30 p. m.

Off Port Isabel Coast

Of these nine, the Moira, San Blas, Gundersen, Cadmus and Tuxpan were sunk off the Port Isabel coast..

However, the campaign in the gulf coastal shipping lanes between ships shoal, off the Louisiana coast, and the passes of the Mississippi river may go down in history as "the second battle of New Orleans," the Navy said.

Several ships were boldly sunk at the mouth of the Mississippi.

How daring the raiders were is shown by the report that on May 12, 1942, the 17,600 ton American tanker Virginia was torpedoed while taking on a pilot at the Southwest Pass. Twenty-eight seamen lost their lives and only 14 survived.

Earlier the same day a terrific explosion had occurred on the east jetty of the pass. Black smoke rose into the air and rocks were blown over a wide area. The explosion was thought to have occurred when the German submarine fired a torpedo at a destroyer or merchant ship which was in the area at the time. The torpedo missed the target and hit the jetty.

Sinking Of Alcoa Puritan

The first sinking occured on May 6, 1942, when the American cargo ship Alcoa Puritan, was attacked by a submarine that fired a torpedo which missed the stern of the vessel by 15 feet. The submarine immediately surfaced and the captain of the ship, Y. A. Krantz, ordered the course changed to put the attacking sub "dead astern" to present the smallest target. The U-boat opened up with her deck gun and fired 78 rounds at her during the chase that lasted 40 minutes. The Alcoa Puritan was ordered to be abandoned only after her steering apparatus had become disabled.

The submarine then closed in on the vessel and fired a torpedo into her which caused the vessel to sink by the stern. The entire crew of 41 miraculously survived the attack and were picked up by the Coast Guard Cutter Boutwell and landed at Burrwood, La.

The German command had found a happy hunting ground for their U-boats and they were going to take advantage of it.

May was the first and most disastrous month of the vicious submarine campaign in the gulf.

The June attacks started on the 11th when the Sheherazade was capsized when three torpedoes hit her. She was left in a sinking condition after eight rounds of gun fire had been pumped into her. The oil laden Cities Service Toledo burst into flames the next day when she was hit by four torpedoes. Fourteen of her crew were lost.

The San Blas lost 30 crewmen on June 16 when the enemy sunk two torpedoes into her. The vessel went down immediately. Fourteen survivors were picked up 13 days later by Navy patrol plane from Corpus Christi naval air station.

Tanks Torpedoed

The following day the Norwegian tanker, Moira, was torpedoed off the Texas coast. The torpedo struck amidships on the port side and apparently passed through the vessel and blew a fifty foot hole on the starboard side. The submarine then surfaced and circled the ship pouring 36 rounds of 4-inch shells into her.

The activity closed for the month of June with the sinking of the British tanker, Empire Mica, on the 26th. The ship burst into flames when hit by two torpedoes and 33 crew members were lost.

July brought more death and destruction. The Gunderson and Cadmus, Norwegian cargo ships, were sunk on July 1. The Bayard, another Norwegian vessel, lost 11 men when she was sent to the bottom on July 6. The Paul H. Harwood was attacked on July 7, with an escorting man-of-war in the vicinity. The ship made port but her attacker met a disastrous end a year later. The Benjamin Brewster was attacked and sunk on July 9 while at anchor. Twenty-seven men were burned to death in a flaming hell when the aviation gasoline she was laden with caught fire. The R. W. Gallagher was sunk the same day. On July 26 the Mexican cargo ship, Oaxaca was sunk.

The Robert E. Lee, a combination passenger-cargo ship, carrying 406 persons was torpedoed off the Mississippi river passes on July 30. Twenty-four were lost in the disaster and over a hundred were injured.

Combined naval air and surface forces were making it pretty hot for the undersea raiders by this time, and the enemy was able to make only two attacks during August and September. Both of these, however, were successful. The R. M. Parker, jr., was lost on Aug. 13 and the Mexican tanker, Amatlan, on September 4.

The last sinking occurred in the Eighth Naval district and the Gulf of Mexico on December 3 ,1943.

The enemy was never again able to penetrate the defenses that had been set up.

Acidity--Heartburn --Pain After Eating

Try Drinking Hot Water Plus-Right After Meals

Never have you found faster relief. It's new — it's different. Neutracid is the formula of a well known west coast physician for use whenever excess stomach acid causes gas, sour stomach or heartburn — Neutracid contains no bicarbonate of soda — and is very agreeable to take.

Here's all you do: Stir one teaspoonful in half a glass of hot water and drink when distressed after eating, take right after meals. Relief usually comes promptly in a very few minutes. Mark Halsey Drug Co.; O'Donnell Agts.; Corner Drug Store and all good druggists have NEUTRACID — the new and remarkable formula for excess stomach acid. Adv.

CCC Agrees To Buy Domestic Wool Clip

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 23. (AP)—J. M. Jones, secretary of the National Wool Growers' association, said today federal authorities had assured him the Commodity Credit corporation would purchase the 1946 domestic wool clip.

He told an executive committee meeting of the association that all wool delivered to CCC handlers by June 30, 1946, would be purchased.

Specific conditions of the purchase have yet to be worked out, he said.

The executive committee picked Jan. 27, 28 and 29 for dates of the 1946 wool growers' convention and chose Salt Lake City as the meeting site.

Scott Arrested On Parole Revocation

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23. (AP)—U. S. Deputy Marshal Guy Cross arrested Winfield Scott, former Fort Worth rancher, here today on a warrant revoking his parole from the U. S. Hospital at Lexington, Ky.

The warrant, issued by the federal parole bureau at Washington, instructed the marshal's office here to hold Scott in custody until final disposition of his case. The warrant said the bureau had acted after learning that Scott had become intoxicated at Santa Fe, N. M., July 4.

Southerners To Fight For Cotton

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—Southern agriculture department leaders went to bat today for cotton.

They announced a full-fledged fight against any large-scale government effort to convert cotton states to other crops.

J. Roy Jones of South Carolina, chairman of the Southern Agriculture Commission association, told a reporter that he and seven other Southern state officials had adopted a resolution pledging themselves to oppose the conversion program suggested last spring by former Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard.

Resolution Is Passed

The resolution declares:

"Conditions existing in different cotton states are widely divergent from those existing in other cotton states. The so-called Wickard plan of 'conversion of cotton states' is a sample of ful-fledged totalitarian regimentation. We unhesitantingly and without reservation commit ourselves to oppose this plan to the limit of our ability."

The resolution also elaborated on a proposal by the group for government guaranteed minimum prices for farm products. This plan was submitted to Agriculture Secretary Anderson yesterday.

"Floor" At Parity Urged

The resolution asserted the "floor" on farm prices should be at parity "because this is only simple justice . . . and the same type of protection extended for many years to producers of industrial products." (Parity is an arbitrary figure based on average prices prevailing over a specified period of years).

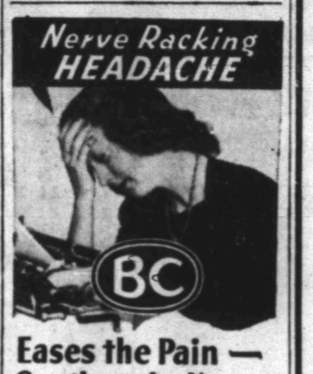

They also urged protecting American farmers against foreign imports. Unless this is done they said ,"any government plan to benefit the American farmer is destined to be short lived as an ultimate failure."

The eight officials, either state commissioners or their spokesmen, included: Jones, Linder, H. K. Thatcher of Arkansas, L. W. Walker of Virginia, E. O. Van Cleve of Tennessee; George Ross of North Carolina; W. D. Outman of Florida and J. E. McDonald of Texas.

Aviation Industry Has Backlog Orders

NEW YORK ,Aug. 23. (AP) — Despite the sharpest contraction in dollar volume ever suffered by an American industry, the nation's airplane manufacturers held hopes today of a more than $1,500,000,000 output in the next 12 months.

A survey of the country's No. 1 war-time business, coupled with reports by individual plane makers to the securities and exchange commission, showed that seven companies alone now have orders for approximately $1,000,000,000 on their books.

Point System Set On Occupation Role

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—As protests over dispatch of combat veterans to the Pacific reached the White House, it was learned today that the War department has ordered that no enlisted man with 75 or more discharge points be sent overseas, unless he volunteers.

In addition, the ground forces has ruled that no enlisted man—except a volunteer—shall be sent aboard if he is 37 or older. The ground forces include all troops except those in the service and air forces.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, said the White House had referred to the War department a telegraphic protest from 580 members of the 95th division, which saw combat in Europe, against being sent to the Pacific for occupational duty. Beyond that, Ross would not comment. The 95th now is at Camp Shelby.

82nd Airborne Takes Over Berlin Zone

BERLIN, Aug. 23. (AP) — The famed 82nd Airborne division, which once planned a war-time drop on Berlin, has taken over the task of guarding the American occupation zone of the German capital after a peaceful, truck-borne invasion.

Veterans of North Africa ground fighting and parachute invasions of Sicily, Italy, Normandy and Holland, the personnel took over here from the Second Armored division, which has pulled out of Berlin.

Under 38-year-old Maj. Gen. James A. Gavin, the division will have the peacetime job of policing the American zone.

FIFTH COMING HOME

ROME, Aug. 23. (AP)—Headquarters said today that the redeployment of the U. S. Fifth Army to the United States would be virtually completed in December except for two divisions assigned to occupation.

WICHITA FALLS MAN DIES

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Albert E. Kelly, 62, district manager of the Texas Electric Service company here since 1927, died at his home early today. He suffered a heart attack last night.
