Wednesday update

Set-Aside Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Drought-stricken Texas cattlemen - searching for ways to feed their cattle - have received permission to plant and harvest hay on set-aside acreage.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, announced the change in ASCS policy and then attacked the agency's regulations concerning ranchers forced to feed cactus to their cattle.

Dole Takes Turn

WASHINGTON (AP) - If this is Wednesday, it must be Bob Dole's turn to lead the filibuster.

Opponents of proposed labor law revisions are running what amount to senatorial relay teams on and off the Senate floor to make sure they keep the bill bottled up.

Refugee Problems

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) - Refugees returning to Kolwezi face starvation and epidemics, the commander of French forces in Shaba Province says, while rebels were reported retreating through Zambia carrying off "many European hostages" and loot.

"We are in a dead city," Col. Yves Gras said Tuesday. He told reporters in Kolwezi the city has no water, electricity or food for the flood of returning black refugees, and with the city's vital copper mines closed, no income.

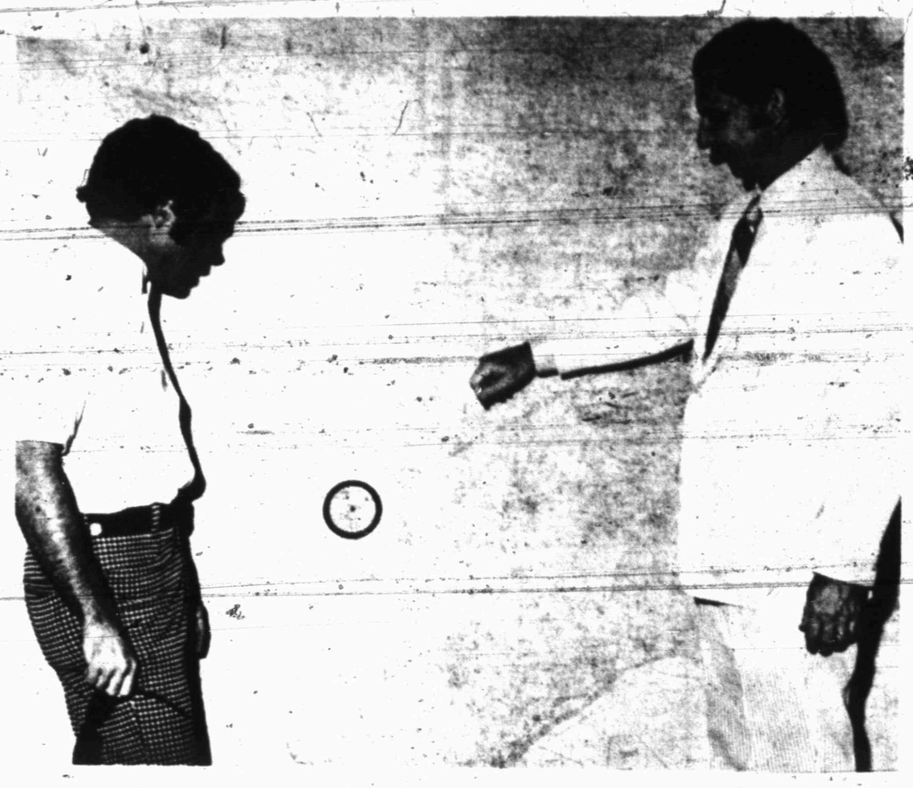

Cheaper 'Looking'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal regulators are abolishing state bans on price advertising by ophthalmologists, optometrists and opticians in a step that U.S. officials say should lower the cost of eyeglasses and contact lenses.

TRC Must Decide

AUSTIN (AP) - The final decision on approval of the proposed Lo-Vaca settlement is in the hands of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Attorney General John Hill recommended Tuesday that the commission approve the settlement, with certain changes.

Tax Reappriasals Upheld By Court

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court upheld today the practice of reappraising property for taxation on a rotating basis in different sections of a city at different times.

The court affirmed rulings of a Lubbock trial court and the Eastland Court of Civil Appeals. The Eastland court said the issue had not previously been passed on in Texas.

The case arose when Brunken Toyota, Inc.; Carlsbad Auto Co., Inc., doing business as Pollard Friendly Ford, Inc.; and Don Crow, trustee, sued Lubbock, Lubbock Independent School District, the board of equalization and tax assessor-collector John Brooks.

The suit challenged a 1968 plan by which the city was divided into zones, with a single zone to be reappraised each year over a five-year cycle.

Other cities also follow the practice.

Four zones were created in 1974, and an ad valorem system was adopted for 1975 and 1976. The plaintiffs, however, sued before the closing of the tax rolls in 1975, alleging that the system was arbitrary and capricious and violated the Texas Constitution.

The suit attacked the selective re-evaluation of certain segments of the community without an adjustment in the values of other comparable properties.

It said this would cause the plaintiffs to pay higher taxes for a time than persons in other parts of the city that had not yet been revalued.

Lubbock and the other defendants argued that the continuing program of re-evaluation of property was in good faith. They said a certain number of units were re-evaluated each year in rotation without discrimination.

The Eastland appeals court noted that a 1918 U.S. Supreme Court case had ruled that to support a claim of discrimination it must be shown that the taxing authority had intentionally violated the principle of uniformity.

"It is well settled in Texas and other jurisdictions that exact uniformity and equality of taxation is virtually impossible to achieve and an unattainable ideal," the appeals court said.

The Supreme Court affirmed the Eastland ruling without writing its own opinion.

Poerner Believes His Victory Chances Good

John Poerner believes he has a good chance of defeating Jerry Sadler as the two men vie in a runoff June 3 for a spot on the Texas Railroad Commission, an agency that oversees the state's oil and gas industry.

"My chances are excellent if informed voters go to the polls," Poerner said. He said his only problem is if the voters do not check the candidates and the issues.

Poerner finished second behind Sadler in the May 6 general election. He called Sadler a "phantom candidate" for not making full disclosures to the public.

One role of a railroad commissioner is "to be vocal and be sure our (Texas) interests are protected." Texas, he said, produces 40 percent of the energy resources of the country.

It is important, he added, that Texas have strong leadership, not only in Washington, but on the Texas Railroad Commission.

"The best poll," he said, "is the one June 3."

Market Falls 8.32 Today

NEW YORK (AP)-The stock market sold off sharply again today in the aftermath of Tuesday's slump.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 10.13 on Tuesday, fell another 8.32 to 836.97 by noontime today.

Losers swamped gainers by more than a 6-1 margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said the setback suffered by the market Tuesday had jolted investors' confidence, prompting a further rush of selling by traders looking to salvage gains from the spring rally.

CRMWD Moves To Protect Supplies

The Colorado River Municipal Water District has put Texas Electric Service Company on notice that the district may need all of its Ward County production for the district's municipal customers next year.

The notice, adopted at the Tuesday meeting of the board in Big Spring, was a precautionary move in view of abnormally low amounts of inflow into the district's reservoirs. In event there is appreciable run-off on the watersheds of Lake J.B. Thomas and Lake E.V. Spence, the notice will be removed.

Directors ratified resolutions which transfer the Contingency - Improvement Fund under the new Trust Resolution from the First National Bank in Fort Worth to First National Bank in Big Spring, which was named manager of the fund. The balance of some four million dollars has been invested with five area banks.

Also approved were technical amendments to the Employee Pension Trust and Retirement Plan to satisfy certain requirements. Directors approved $150,000 appropriation from the Contingency-Improvement Fund to finance the preparation and presentation of the application for a permit to impound a reservoir at the Stacy site on the Colorado River. The Texas Water Commission has set June 7 as the date for a hearing on the application, and O.H. Ivie, general manager, told the board the District will be ready with its case. Participating for the first time as a member of the board was Charles Perry, Odessa.

Special Events For Seniors...

Snyder Public Schools Move Into Final Week

Snyder Public Schools headed into their last week of the 1977-78 term today.

High School seniors began taking their final exams for the third quarter today. The senior finals will continue through Thursday. Other classes in the senior high school will take their final exams Monday and Tuesday, said Principal Horrace Bostick.

Next Tuesday will be the last day of classes in all local public schools. Wednesday, May 31, will be a teacher work day and reports cards will be distributed that afternoon.

Meanwhile, seniors have several special events planned in connection with their graduation.

The graduation program will be held Friday night in the Scurry County Coliseum. It will feature several awards and the commencement speaker will be Rev. Glenn Border, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church.

Parents of seniors will honor the class tomorrow night with a steak supper in Towle Memorial Park.

The big event, however, will be Friday night when activities following the commencement will keep the graduates busy throughout the night. There will be a dance in the coliseum following the commencement program, while a special midnight motion picture for the seniors will be shown at the Cinema.

The night's activities will end before dawn with breakfast for the graduates at the First Baptist Church.

Aline Parks says she clipped a recipe out of a magazine the other day and later noticed on the back of the page a story about "Where the Jobs Are." It listed a number of jobs that almost always offer openings for people who have appropriate training and are interested. As she read the list, she suddenly realized that Western Texas College offers vocational-technical courses in several of the fields mentioned in the article.

The magazine piece noted that even in times of high unemployment, there are many jobs unfilled because there aren't enough trained people to fill them. It also noted that most of the openings are for skilled or technical workers—graduates of vocational high schools or two-year colleges.

Among the jobs mentioned were secretaries, bookkeepers, vocational nurses, automobile mechanics, welders, etc., all of which are represented in courses offered at WTC. And, this coming fall, another one, carpentry, will be available at WTC.

One of the more interesting books we have seen lately is "Through Time and the Valley," by John Erickson. The setting is the Texas Panhandle, and Erickson did his research in a rather novel manner. He grew up in Perryton and had heard many stories about early-day episodes in the Panhandle. He set out to document them by making a tour on horseback. He and a photographer, Bill Ellzey, rode their horses as a pack mule carried their supplies. They camped out, visited ranches and towns, discussing stories and major events of historical significance with old-timers and-or their descendants.

Erickson took notes then chronicled their journey and in addition told the various stories as he imagined that they occurred, based on his conversations with people along the way. These make interesting reading, but some of the pair's own experiences as they traveled via horseback across the still rough country of the Panhandle do also. Shoal Creek Publishers, Inc., of Austin, brought Erickson's book out recently, and it has a price tag $12.50 for the hard cover volumn. There are several photographs by Ellzey.

Gun Rules Opposed In Letters

WASHINGTON (AP) - When the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms recently asked for public comment on proposed new gun regulations, project officer James A. Hunt thought perhaps 7,000 firearms owners would write letters to the bureau.

But the bureau has been hit with a blizzard of mail. More than 150,000 letters have been received to date, and each day letter carriers bring thousands more.

The overwhelming majority of writers are angry gun owners adamantly opposed to the proposed regulations, which they view as a step toward national gun registration.

Man Holed Up In Motel Surrenders

IRVING, (AP) - A New Mexico jail escapee holed up in a motel room with his wife and 2-year-old son held off police and FBI agents for eight hours early today, threatening to shoot anyone who approached.

The man surrendered about 8:30 a.m. after police had his lawyer flown in from Amarillo.

Police patiently played a waiting game during the standoff. No shots were fired.

Norbert Lynn Young, about 27, of Hereford, Texas, is wanted for parole violation in Hereford and for jail escape from Taos, N.M., about three months ago.

The stakeout at the La Quinta Inn - between Texas Stadium and Dallas-Fort Worth Airport on U.S. 183 - began at 12:30 a.m. after Irving police got a teletype message from the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office in Hereford. A deputy at Hereford said he received a report Tuesday the man was in Irving, a Dallas suburb.

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson said Young also is wanted for numerous post office break-ins, and theft and passing of money orders "all over the United States."

Irving police Lt. Bill Brantley said officers talked with Young in his room by phone and then allowed him to call his attorney, Charles Fairweather, in Amarillo. Young had indicated he would give himself up once his attorney arrived, Brantley said.

Guests in nearby rooms were evacuated from the area where the man was, in the middle of the ground floor, overlooking the swimming pool.

Ask Us

--Is there a law requiring "public records" to be published in the newspaper? If not, why not let the public go to the courthouse to find out what they want to know about public records?

A--So far as we know, there is no law requiring a newspaper to publish anything. Publishing of public records is one of the services the newspaper provides its readers, and, based on readership surveys and comments over the years, it is a service that is highly appreciated by a huge majority of the readers.

Leg Or Bridge Collapse...

Amputation Order Hard

By JIM McKAY
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)-For three hours workers tried to free Ralph Winner's shattered leg from collapsed bridge girders. Then as a light rain fell, a surgeon perched on a 2-foot-wide beam high above the Monongahela River and cut off the screaming ironworker's right leg.

"I have never had to make a decision to do what we did today," said Dr. Ronald Stewart, head of the Presbyterian-University Hospital emergency crew who ordered the amputation Tuesday. "I hope I never have to make it again."

It was either take Winner's leg or risk collapse of the shaky bridge, officials said.

Winner, although sedated with morphine and shock-stemming fluids, remained awake during the ordeal on the 126-foot-high bridge that he had been helping prepare for demolition.

Paramedics said it took less than five minutes for Dr. Joseph Young to cut off Winner's leg at the knee.

"We thought we were losing him. We were just running out of time," said Glenn Cannon, director of the city's medical emergency team.

Winner, 48, of suburban North Hills and employed by Martin's Explosive Corp. of Anchorage, Alaska, was listed in good condition late Tuesday at Presbyterian Hospital after more than two hours in the operating room there.

River traffic below the bridge stopped during the three-hour rescue effort. About 200 people watched silently from a bridge 10 feet away and heard Winner shout while physicians worked.

"Up until nearly the end, he was all right," said an unidentified ironworker. "He knew what he was saying. He just kept saying how he wanted the steel off of his leg."

Winner was using a power saw to cut a hole in a beam to make room for an explosive charge designed to drop part of the bridge into the water below. The 67-year-old bridge, which was closed two years ago, shifted, and Winner slipped into the hole he was cutting.

His right leg was cut three-quarters of the way through and his left leg was trapped when heavy steel girders slammed together.

decision in november

Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee, minority Senate leader and a likely aspirant for his party's Presidential nomination in 1980, was quoted by a Washington newsman the other day as saying Republicans would take over control of the House of Representatives and narrow the Democratic margin in the Senate by several seats if the election should be held at this time.

But the election will not be held now. It will take place, according to Constitutional directive, on Tuesday following the first Monday in November. The Baker prediction is a safe one for that reason. It will never be known what a national election would produce in the way of change in the political alignment in Congress on a day near the middle of May.

Even so, reason cited by the Tennessee Senator as justification for his conclusion are not without some significance. Not mentioned in the Baker statement but quite evident from recent utterances by Administration spokesmen, is recognition that low ratings in public opinion polls cannot be ignored.

Further support for that view is provided by the dramatic rise in the Consumer Price Index at the same time productivity growth is declining. Reaction to these developments cannot be ignored by political leaders looking for ways to survive the next election. This is true for good reasons. The nation's housewives are unhappy with the rise in the cost of living and the nation's business leaders are beginning to worry about the decline in the value of goods produced and services rendered by the private sector of the national economy.

If current trends continue through the next five months it is not beyond the realm of possibility that Republicans might gain control of the popular branch of Congress. It has happened. Rarely, of course, but often enough to be rated as a possibility. All depends on how angry the average voter is the first week in November and whether there is any prospect of marked change for the better in the immediate future.

For several political campaigns now so-called bread-and-butter issues have been emphasized. It was true in 1976, when the nation's voters decided to take a chance on an untried leader. The late Sam Rayburn, a wise student of the political moods of the American people, had a habit at the beginning of a new campaign of warning party colleagues against promising too much. Just enough, he said, to win the election. Carter did a lot of promising in 1976.

updating weather

On the subject of weather in general, Washington is thinking of doing something about it - for the benefit of the farmer.

A plan is in the works which would bring specialized weather reports and other important agricultural information directly to TV sets equipped with a special receiving device called a "green thumb box." The box, at a probable cost of $100, would enable a farmer to dial his county farm agent's office, where a computer would relay the full weather story directly to the home tube.

Originating at a Weather Service computer center in Silver Springs, Md., the service would distribute via a telephone line network reports much more precise than those now being broadcast.

The weather people believe the present state of forecasting is much more accurate than the public realizes. The weather facts, however, are subject to mangling by the time limitations and production requirements of TV newscasts of which they are a fixture.

But that, as they say, is show business.

Christopher Andersen has just written a book advancing a theory I've always believed - your name can make you a winner or a loser.

It's true. I never knew a "Ginger" who wasn't born with pompom hands, a "Ruth" who didn't iron tennis shoe tongues, or an "Elvira" who didn't smile without a piece of spinach wrapped around her front tooth.

Sure enough, in Andersen's book, "The Name Game," Ginger means "cute," Ruth means "earth mother" and Elvira translates to "drab and slow."

Most people hate their names. They're always pronouncing them, spelling them, explaining them, defending them, or changing them. When you think of it, it makes good sense. Can you imagine a man tall in the saddle with a patch over one eye holding reins in his teeth and guns blazing from both hands by the name of Marion Morrison? Which is probably why Marion Morrison became John (trustworthy, very manly) Wayne.

And there has to be something catchier than Salvatore Bono and Cherilyn La Piere who opted for Sonny (athletic) and Cher (a legendary one-word name).

I always felt Erma was a fat name and rated in popularity right under Popeye and Iodine. It probably shaped my destiny because with a name like Erma, you have to laugh first and loudest. Given a choice, I would have preferred to be named Astrid (Luscious). But I didn't have the thighs for it - not even at birth.

How different things might have been if I had been named Astrid. I would never have Ellis (lackluster), Melvin (wilted), Rollo (mama's boy) or Lou (yawn).

I would have hung out with Bart (very macho!), Kent (a big winner) and Hank (virile and active).

I would never have been intimidated by everyone else in my neighborhood with a nickname. Names like Wheezie, Bunny, Ducky, Happy and all those other cute dwarf's names. They could have called me ... surely they would have thought of some things better than what I got - "The Mound."

It was with some reluctance that I turned to find what connotation my name really had in Andersen's book. On page 151, there it was: Erma: sexy, but listless.

I'm not sure, but I think one cancels out the other.

chiefs anticipate

NEW YORK (AP) - The concept seems to be right out of the Boy Scout manual, but corporate chief executives are articulating it differently. "Be prepared," says the scouts. "Anticipate," say the chiefs.

In the corporate corridors it's becoming more than a catchword. Thinking in the anticipatory mode, say executives, is the only way for modern corporations to avoid stumbling from one problem to another.

"While it varies with each corporation, it is aimed at cranking out of the uncertain future as much lead time as possible," says Eugene Jennings, confidential adviser to top corporate executives.

The goal, he explains, is to allow a corporation time to develop contingency plans in case of changes in the business environment, and to avoid being stymied by obstacles of its own creation.

"Many chief executives believe that big business victimized itself in the past seven years," he said. "They simply were caught off guard by the quantom increases in restraints and problems."

Instead of dealing with the issues as legitimate, he and some chief executives believe, many business executives fell into a reaction mode, compounding the very problems they should have been resolving.

Jennings, management professor at Michigan State and author of many business volumes, finds chief executives now believe they could have avoided much stress by anticipating environmental and other changes.

Usually there is more intelligence in an organization than is utilized, Jennings believes. "There is usually somebody or some group that can foresee things but whose voice isn't heard."

Quite often, however, the intelligence available to a company is not coordinated. Those who have demonstrated they have the ability to anticipate often are not given the responsibility they deserve.

Recognizing this, chief executives now are seeking to systematize the broad flow of information. But intelligence-gathering is more than a system; it's a state of mind, it's learning to think in another mode.

The automobile, for example, is a political vehicle, said Jennings, and carmakers must ask - and attempt to answer, "What are we doing politically and socially when we engineer a new auto?"

Failure to do so may have helped precipitate some of the automotive industry's ordeals in recent years. The failure of paint makers to anticipate problems with lead might be similarly categorized.

Chief executives now know that many of the problems and constraints of recent years could have been anticipated and dealt with if they had responded more intelligently to the challenges.

The almost lost art of quilting seems to have been rekindled th last few years, or maybe the appreciation of the heritage displayed in quilt making is more evident now than ever before.

Grandmother's, or Aunt Mary's pride and joy has reached an uppermost point. Bed coverings, wall hangings, throws and tablecloths are a few of many ways professional and amateur decorators are using quilts which add the personal, handmade original touch for home interior decorations.

The earliest patchwork quilts made in this country probably were not beautiful like the ones we see today, since they had to use drab but sturdy cloth left over from homemade garments and necessary household items brought from England. But from these was the beginning of beautiful piecework patterns of which many are popular today.

Interesting and beautiful quilt designs were developed and passed on from generation to generation. Some patterns portray historial events, others have sentimental significance. And others have a religious theme like "Star of Bethlehem," "Jacob's Ladder," and "Joseph's Coat." There are limitless colorful geometric and floral patterns to decorate quilt tops.

For so many years, I took for granted the work my grandmother put into each quilt she made. Now I look at these quilts which nearly all contain scraps from dresses we've worn, some my children wore, and Dad's shirts, pieced into the different designs and I consider those masterpieces which hold many memories. Each one is special.

Friendship quilts are a popular gift of today. These contain individual patchwork blocks made by a number of women and pieced together as a gift.

Quilting "bees" served a duel purpose in the early days. The women and girls would gather to quilt and then end the session with a social or some form of get-together.

I am only familiar with two quilting clubs in Scurry County - one at Hermleigh and the other at Fluvanna. Members of these clubs along with many other individuals will display their handywork at the Scurry County Fair in the late summer.

Making quilts is a popular hobby, also a profitable one since the average price of a new hand-quilted item is quite expensive which makes me appreciate mine even more.

WASHINGTON-(NEA)- The hospital serving one Army base in Georgia is so understaffed that doctors must see as many as 100 patients daily. The physicians work in wooden huts, built as temporary structures by German prisoners of war in 1942.

In Louisiana, a new Navy hospital built at a cost of more than $21 million boasts a 250-bed capacity and the most modern medical equipment. Yet patient admissions have averaged less than five per day since the facility opened.

The striking contrast between those hospitals vividly illustrates the scandalously inept planning, coordination and management of the 190 hospitals and 120 clinics operated around the world by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Known as the Military Health Services System, that network of facilities bears the responsibility of providing health care for 9 million people-members and retirees of the armed forces, their dependents and their survivors.

Operation of the system this year will cost the taxpayers an estimated $2.5 billion, a figure that covers only domestic facilities. But there is increasing evidence that neither the patients nor the public is getting their money's worth.

After Rep. Robin L. Beard, R-Tenn., last year visited the base hospital at the Army's Fort Stewart, just west of Savannah, Ga., he reported that "the physical facilities were not only substandard, they were hazardous."

The hospital had authority to hire 36 doctors. But its staff numbered only 23 physicians, and they were responsible for serving 60,000 potential patients. One lone internist was available to serve 15,000 active-duty troops.

A new hospital has been authorized, but it won't be completed until 1983 and will have a capacity of only 135 beds. "It probably will be inadequate to meet patient requirements at the time of its completion," predicts Beard.

The Navy has no such problems with the F. Edward Hebert Hospital in New Orleans. Completed early last year, it is named after the Louisiana Democrat who retired in 1976 after serving 36 years in the House of Representatives.

More than a year after the hospital was opened, less than half of its 250 beds are in place - and most of those are vacant. The monthly occupancy rate has averaged less than 15 percent.

Rep. Robert Carr, D-Mich., and two aides to Rep. Thomas J. Downey, D-N.Y., toured the hospital earlier this year, then wrote Navy Secretary W. Graham Clayton Jr. about their experience.

"It is a blatant waste of money and resources; a beautiful, expensive and shamefully underutilized medical facility...A visitor to the hospital is astounded by...the unused floors and untouched rooms, the acres of unfilled parking spaces, and the pristine emptiness of the entire facility."

In another case, 23 of the 28 physicians practicing at the hospital serving Offutt Air Force Base in Bellevue, Neb. have publicly cited "questionable practices at our hospital that are unprofessional, unethical, improper, unjust (and) seriously threaten patient care..."

In a letter to Rep. John J. Cavanaugh, D-Neb., the doctors late last year complained about the "adversary, punitive and degrading manner" of the hospital commander and an acute personnel shortage that forced physicians to work 60 to 80 hours per week, with some duty tours lasting 24 hours.

The military services unfortunately are seeking only temporary solutions to enduring problems. The Navy is looking for a civilian purchaser for its Hebert Hospital, and the Air Force dispatched a team of investigators to produce a "whitewash" report on the problems in Nebraska.

But little is being done to properly allocate scarce medical resources or to stem the exodus of physicians who leave the armed services because of broken promises, ill-qualified supervisors and inadequate supplies and facilities.

Without a major overhaul of the entire system, the prognosis for recovery will remain very bleak.

NH Week Success Here

Participation by Leisure Lodge of Snyder in Texas Nursing Home Week has been declared as a major contribution to public understanding of the quality of long-term care being delivered by licensed Nursing Homes in Texas.

In a letter to Juanita Land, administrator of the 100 bed facility here, Dan Pomykal of Ennis, Board Chairman of Texas Nursing Home Association, pronounced the Texas program for Nursing Home Week "the most productive" of any during the 27-year history of the association.

"The Public responded last week in greater numbers than ever before to the hundreds of our member homes who held Open House and invited their 'neighbors' in. They were shown just what nursing homes really do for their residents in terms of total care. Rehabilitation, recreation, and physical, speech and occupational therapies, as well as social and spiritual services for fuller life are all included in round-the-clock care. By visiting, the public not only gained a new and better understanding of our profession, but they brightened the lives of thousands of Texans who live in nursing home," said Pomykal. "We are grateful to Governer Briscoe and to our celebrity hosts, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans for their splended assistance in our week," he said. "The Open House conducted by Leisure Lodge was a major contribution to the statewide observance."

Juanita Land, administrator of Leisure Lodge reported that over one hundred visitors attended their open house on May 14, and well over one-hundred fifty attended the entertainment on Saturday, May 20.

Those also having major rolls in the observance of Texas Nursing Home Week who were not pictured in the paper were: Evelyn Boone, Western Ranch Hands, Day Care Center, Audine McCann, Rev. Virgil Mott, Mrs. Bob O'Day and Stanfield Choir, Ollie Chapman and Band Square Dancers from the Senior Center, Rev. Howard Brennaman, and Mrs. Billy Tune and her piano students.

ENTERTAINMENT — Part of the entertainment for Texas Nursing Home Week at Leisure Lodge featured Cindy Hataway and her band. The band will perform at the Lodge the first Saturday of each month at 4 p.m. The public is invited to attend. Left to right are Max Preston, Cindy Hataway, D'Ann and Ross Preston.

West's double of four spades was based on his expectation of two trump tricks plus at least two more to come from his partner who had bid at the three level.

East did produce his two when his ace and queen of diamonds went through.

Then East led back the three of clubs just in case West held a possible trick in that suit.

South rose with his king and nonchalantly placed the four of spades on the table. He could tell from the bidding and the smirk on West's face that West held two trump tricks and that low-spade play was designed as a swindle.

It did work. West thought and finally played low on the theory that East held the singleton ace.

When the eight of spades won, South claimed the doubled game contract.

"When you have the setting trick in your hand," said East reasonably, "you should take it." Then he added, also reasonably, "You're a moron."

"I thought," said West, "that you might have the ace. You did bid three diamonds."

But there was really no explaining away this disaster. East had said it all, "When you have the setting trick, take it."

Twins Stop Texas Another Time

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - The unlikely combination of a rookie pitcher and a reserve catcher added up to another victory for the Minnesota Twins Tuesday night.

Roger Erickson stopped Texas on six hits and Glenn Borgmann drove in two runs with a home run and a single to help Minnesota to a 5-2 triumph over the Rangers, giving the Twins their seventh victory in their past eight games.

"I've been getting a lot of advice from everywhere," said the 21-year old Erickson, who raised his record to 4-3. "But Camilo Aascual, (the Twins pitching coach) told me just to go out there and throw my own game.

"That's what I did."

Solo home runs off Texas starter Jim Umbarger 2-3 by Dan Ford, his fifth, and No. 1 by Borgmann staked Erickson to a 2-0 lead.

Texas, which hadn't scored in 15 innings, nicked Erickson for two runs on two-out single by Al Oliver in the seventh to tie the game.

But Minnesota went back ahead in its half of the inning on a run-scoring single by Borgmann.

"That home run was the first hit I've had since April 16," said Borgmann, who gave Butch Wynegar a rest. "I was wondering if I was wondering if I was ever going to get another one."

A pinch-hit triple by Mike Cubbage added Minnesota's final two runs and gave Erickson some breathing room. He set down the Rangers in order in the ninth to earn his first victory before the hometown fans.

"I relaxed a little out there after I got two outs in the seventh," explained Erickson, who spent just one season in minor league ball. "I got lazy for a while, but this was the best my arm has felt all year."

Yankees 10, Indians 1

Ron Guidry's 11-strikeout, five-hit pitching, home runs by Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss and a seven-run seventh inning carried the Yanks to their 18th victory in the last 24 games. Chambliss singled for two runs and Nettles doubled for two in the seventh.

Orioles 2, Tigers 0

Mike Flanagan pitched a two-hitter and Rick Dempsey broke up a scoreless tie with a fifth inning home run in the Orioles' victory.

But the big play was center fielder Larry Harlow's leaping catch that robbed John Wockenfuss of a second-inning home run.

Hitting for the Red Devils were Lee Ann Webster, a double, and Karen Parmer, a double, and Jamie Giddens, a single.

Tigers To Try For Dog Double Header

BURKBURNETT - Snyder High School baseball team, champion of District 3-AAA , puts last year's bi-district title on the line here tomorrow as the best-of-three playoff series between the Tigers and the Bulldogs continues at Hayes Field.

Starting time for the possible double-header is 1 p.m., with a second game, if necessary, beginning approximately 20 minutes after the conclusion of the first.

Snyder goes into the action behind 1-0 in the series, following its 4-3 loss to the Bulldogs on Monday. That contest went 12 innings. Despite going into Thursday's game at a disadvantage, Coach Albert Lewis thinks his Tigers can take the double header.

"We really feel like we can. We're not taking anything away from Burkburnett. They've got a real good team, but we feel like we can come back. We're not overconfident but we're confident."

Snyder will mount the mound with junior Mitch Mackey, a left-hander with a 10-2 record on the season.

"Mackey is a control pitcher," noted Lewis. "He keeps it down ... and there will probably be a lot of grounders, so the infield will be busy. He's gotten a lot stronger of late and he's getting more strike outs than before, though. Right now he's got an ERA of 1.84. That's great."

Meanwhile, Burkburnett will start David Nix, a one-time heralded pitcher who hurled three no-hitters last year, but has had trouble in 1978.

"He's a good football player, was their leading point-man in basketball and placed third in state in 880," said Lewis. "He's just a great all-around athlete."

But, according to Lewis, Burkburnett loses something when Nix goes in to pitch.

"They'll have to use a sophomore catcher and he's not really as good as David.". Also, "He (Nix) had a couple of bad innings this year and it has got him down mentally. When he beat Weatherford last weekend, they told me it was the first game he had won in two months. He just hadn't been able to put it together, but the potential is there." Nix is 5-5 for the season.

Should Snyder tie the series with the victory Thursday, Burkburnett will start the second game with Kevin Burks, 12-3 for the year. The Tigers supposedly stand in better shape on the exchange, since they can go with freshman Tony Degrate and save last Monday's starter, Sid Everton, for relief duty. Both Burks and Everton went the full 12 innings Monday and the overlap could take its toll, even with two days rest.

"I don't see how he can go that long," Lewsi remarked earlier in the week.

For Snyder, the plan is to start Mackey in the first and Degrate in the second. Everton, Mike Hicks and Walter Banks can all be called on to help out if necessary, reminded Lewis.

"We don't have a choice because it's pack 'em up for next year if we lose, so we'll throw everything we've got at them if necessary."

Winner of the series will advance to regional play next week.

U.S. Players Rally For Win In Italian Tourney

ROME—Led by unheralded victor Amaya, U.S. players avenged the inglorious exit of top American Vitas Gerulaitis as Arthur Ashe, Brian Gottfried and Harold Solomon rallied to victories in the $230,000 Italian Open tennis championships.

Amaya, a massive 6-foot-7, 220-pounder from Holland, Mich., ousted seventh seed Corrado Barazzutti of Italy in straight sets 6-3, 7-6, for his first triumph over a top player in his three years on the international circuit.

Ashe, still relegated to side courts after a long layoff with ankle and eye disorders, continued on his comeback trail by downing Italian Vincenzo Franchitti 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Gottfried, ranked third, survived scary moments against Chile's Belus Prajoux, but overcame his second set wildness to win 6-2, 5-7, 6-2.

What will you need to keep the wheels of progress turning in your community?

Communities that have built a strong, healthy economy know what they must have to keep the wheels of progress turning in the years ahead. Although each community is different, the basic requirements will be the same:

A labor force known for its productivity. Municipal water supplies that can outlast a drought. A good transportation network. Diversification of industry, just to be on safer ground. Educational opportunities. Cultural and recreational attractions. Favorable tax structures. Strong leadership.

And energy to power assembly lines. Energy to heat, cool, process foods, lift, spin, dry, pump, drill, press, shape, compute or to use however industry needs it to create products that create jobs.

Meet the Changing Times.

The cheap and abundant energy available here in years past is one reason this area emerged from the recent recessions with one of the strongest economies you'll find in the nation. Few others have a business outlook as optimistic or an employment level as high.

The days of cheap energy are gone, of course. The cost of producing and distributing energy of almost every type has increased dramatically. This, with the demand that exists for energy, has forced a sharp increase in the prices that you and people everywhere are having to pay for it.

But the availability of an abundance of energy to keep the wheels of progress turning in this area still holds true.

You Can Have What You Need.

Natural gas, for example. Lone Star's pipeline system now extends into basins that contain 50% of the remaining onshore gas reserves in the United States. And this puts us in an excellent position to buy enough new gas reserves to last our customers for many years.

Securing these reserves will be essential to the future of the communities served by Lone Star. Because gas not only meets your energy requirements directly, but indirectly as the primary fuel for generating most of the electric power you use.

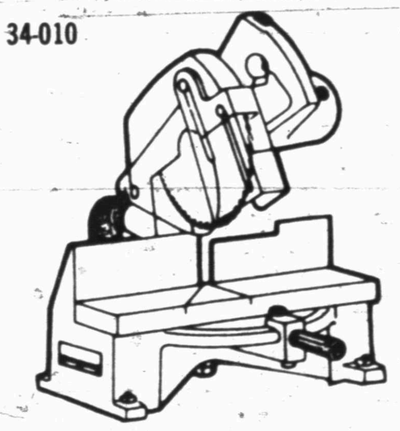

The new gas will cost more, and Lone Star will have to recover the actual cost of it on a timely basis. A bargain, even so? Yes. Because these long-term supplies will help your community build job security through business growth.

And that's a bargain in anybody's economy.

Lone Star Gas Company
We're working energetically for your area's future.

Suit Is Filed On Datebreaker

By NADINE JOSEPH
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A 30-year-old accountant, angered by his date cancelling at the last minute, has sued her for $38, saying he won't take being stood up lying down.

Tom Horsley said he filed the suit in small claims court against Alyn Chesselet as a matter of principle, because she broke an "oral contract" to have dinner with him and see the musical "The Wiz" earlier this year.

Ms. Chesselet, 30, a waitress at the Vesuvio Cafe in San Francisco, said Tuesday that Horsley was "nuts" to think she would pay.

"He's blown everything out of proportion and he's just doing this to bug me," said Ms. Chesselet, who met Horsley eight years ago at Lone Mountain College.

"Most guys would be just as angry," said Horsley, who claims he spent time, money and energy to plan the date. "If I win in court, I'll feel I was right in principle."

Horsley, who lives and works in Campbell near San Jose, wants to be paid for two hours of driving to and from San Francisco at his minimum rate of $8.50 an hour as a certified public accountant and 17 cents a miles in car expenses for the 100-mile round trip. His claim is for $34 plus a $2 filing fee and $2 to serve court papers.

"She had 10 days to call me and cancel our date," Horsley said Tuesday. "And she promised to pay" his costs after she broke the date, he said.

Miss Chesselet said she had to cancel her date because of a sudden change in her work schedule and that she tried to reach him to let him know.

Neither seems to have learned from the past. Eight years ago, Horsley stopped dating Miss Chesselet after she broke a date to a University of California football game.

"She did it in such a nasty way, by sending me a Halloween card announcing that she wouldn't go out with me again," he recalled.

As for Miss Chesselet, she said she had almost forgotten how jealous, stubborn and persistent Horsley was when they last dated. She vows she will never make another date with him.

The two are scheduled to meet in court July 24.

John Morrissey, an American heavyweight champion in the 19th century, served two terms in Congress.

The most devastating tornado in history took place in March 1925, according to National Geographic. It roared 220 miles across Missouri, Indiana and Illinois and killed nearly 700 persons.

Busy Mondale Keeps 'Em Laughing

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - In only six hours, Vice President Walter Mondale gave a graduation pep talk, enriched the campaign war chest of an old Senate friend and still managed to leave 'em laughing.

Mondale's visit to Rhode Island Tuesday wound up at a $100-a-plate fund-raiser in Warwick that added some $35,000 to Sen. Claiborne Pell's campaign account.

Mondale laced his brief speech to some 500 Democrats with political humor and lavish praise for Pell, the state's senior senator. He stayed away from national issues.

Earlier, Mondale spoke at Providence College's commencement exercises, urging 1,071 graduates to retain their idealism as they enter the world of business.

"Too often, in the scramble for jobs and the fight to make ends meet...values get pushed aside. For you the values of compassion and idealism are not confined to youth or ivory towers."

Mondale's wife, Joan, traveled to New Hampshire Tuesday, visiting elementary schools participating in the artists-in-residence program.

Asked if her husband shared her interest in art, Mrs. Mondale, honorary chairman of the Federal Council of the Arts and the Humanities, told one younster: "When I first met him in Minnesota, he'd never been inside an art museum before. He's learned a lot."

Mayor's Cook In Hot Water

NEW YORK (AP)-Mayor Edward Koch's cook is in hot water, and it has nothing to do with the garlic she puts in his pea soup.

Rozanne Gold, 24, has been threatened with dismissal because Koch saw her chatting with a reporter about the meringue cookies he likes.

"She's paid to cook, not to give interviews," said Koch's press aide, Maureen Connelly, who delivered the threat. "A person is entitled to privacy in his own home."

In the interview she gave, back in February, Miss Gold said she enjoyed her job and disclosed that Koch "loves Chinese food, chopped liver and anything with garlic, especially pea soup."

However, she was just a bit critical of his eating habits, saying, "I think he may be one of those people who will eat everything."

Since then, all requests for interviews with the $200-a-week cook have been turned down, and she could not be reached for comment on the threatened sacking.

Panel Sets Hearing On Health Care Of Elderly

A state legislative panel will hear public testimony on health care for the elderly and disabled Friday at Big Spring.

The public hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building on the Howard College campus.

The panel, jointly sponsored by the Texas Legislature and the Texas Department of Human Resources, is chaired by Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena. Created by Senate Bill 548 to study the needs of Texas' elderly and disabled citizens the panel will report its findings and recommendations to the 66th Legislature.

Members of the panel are Sen. Brooks, Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris of Dallas and Sen. Bill Meier of Euless; Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder and Rep. Buck Florence of Hughes Springs. Emmett Greif, M.D., Merles Springer and Lloyd Sterling are DHR members of the panel.

Persons throughout the area are being encouraged to attend the hearing, one of seven being conducted across the state.

The panel's staff, provided by DHR, will evaluate programs that provide care to the elderly and the disabled in their homes and communities. Home and community care will be compared with nursing home care. Last year DHR spent $50 million on home and community care while paying $450 million to nursing homes.

The study will answer a number of questions about the programs. Do home and community care reduce nursing home admissions? Are they a suitable substitute for some kinds of nursing home care? Is there still a need for nursing homes in the minimum-care category? Results will influence future legislation and program priorities.

The public hearings are aimed at making sure all parties interested in home and community care get a chance to be heard. Testimony is expected from service providers, service recipients and their families and various authorities on the subject.

Savings Passed On To Customers

OYSTER CREEK, N.J. (AP)-The nation's first large-scale commercial nuclear plant for generating electricity has saved the utility's customers more money than the original cost of the plant.

The 650-megawatt nuclear generating station, placed in operation here in 1969, cost $110 million to build. The savings in fuel costs since that time, as compared with the cost of oil, comes to about $300 million, reports William G. Kuhns, chairman of General Public Utilities Corporation, owner of the plant here. He points out that these fuel savings are automatically passed on to customers through the energy adjustment clause.

NEW LOOK FROM OLD IDEA — Mrs. Tom B. Simmons Jr., Mrs. J.E. Blakey Jr. and Mrs. Don Harris, left to right, examine handiwork they and seven other women volunteered to do for the Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University. The women made bargello seat covers, in the ancient flame-stitch pattern, for each of the 12 dining chairs in the Edith Whatley McKanna Parlor. (Tech Photo)

At Ranching Heritage Center...

McKanna Parlor Given Old Touch Of Beauty

LUBBOCK - A touch of beauty so old that no one knows its true origins has been added to the Edith Whatley McKanna Parlor at the Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The elegant parlor is in the David M. DeVitt and Mallet Ranch Building which serves as a visitors' center at the outdoor exhibit depicting ranching history in America.

Added have been bargello upholstery for the dozen dining chairs, each piece worked on No. 14 cotton bargello canvas by one of 10 volunteers.

The design is the flame stitch, one of the oldest of the bargello stitches, believed to have originated in the Mideast several centuries ago.

The wool used to work the pattern has tones of red, green, gold and a touch of blue, picking up other colors used in the room, decorated with antiques selected and arranged by artist John Meigs. The needlework materials were given by Mrs. Don Harris, who also helped direct the project.

Advisers were Mrs. R.G. Denton, Mrs. Betty Mills, curator of costumes and textiles at The Museum, and Mrs. W.B. Blankenship, representing the Ranching Heritage Association.

Women who did the needlework were Mmes. Grady Wallace, Harvey Dunn, Jack Woods, Bob Long, Ben Hutchinson, Dan Howard, Halbert O. Woodward, Tom B. Simmons Jr., J.E. Blakey Jr. and Mrs. Harris. The entire collection took six weeks to complete.

While none of the names is visible, each was embroidered into the border of the canvas by the individual doing the needlepoint. When the work must be removed in decades to come, this will make the identity of each artisan known.

Gore Named Manager Of Sun Branch

DALLAS - G.E. Gore, formerly of Snyder, has been named manager of Sun Gas Gathering Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sun Company, Inc.

Created in 1976, SGGC contracts with natural gas producers to purchase, gather, process and deliver natural gas for resale. The company is now constructing a gathering system and processing plant in Dimmit County to gather and treat "sour" gas which is produced in the area. The plant is due to be in operation by fall.

Gore joined the former Sunray DX Company in 1966 as a production engineer in the Corpus Christi district. Subsequently, he held engineering positions in Snyder and in Tulsa, Okla. After Sunray merged with Sun Oil Co. in 1970, he became a gas engineer, then plant superintendent in the Colorado City district. Gore was named project development engineer for Sun Gas Co. in Dallas in 1976, a position he held until his current appointment.

A native of Albany, Gore received his bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering from Texas Tech in 1966. He is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

No Debate Plans, Stenholm Asserts

Charles Stenholm answered his opponent's challenges and accusations in a news conference today at his Abilene campaign headquarters.

Stenholm, leader in the May 6 Democratic primary for the 17th Congressional District, explained his decision on a public debate and defended his position concerning other attacks made by his opponent.

On Sunday, May 21, Stenholm said, he mailed a letter to both Abilene television stations stating his reasons for declining a proposed debate between the two candidates.

"I had not planned to make this personal letter public when I mailed it last Sunday," said Stenholm today. "But developments this week have caused me to change my mind."

"In recent days my opponent has made repeated calls for a public debate. I have no intention of engaging in such a spectacle. The people of the 17th District are entitled to know my reasons," stated Stenholm.

"The things you have been hearing from the opposition camp since the primary are simply not the way I think a campaign should be conducted," stressed Stenholm.

"I repeat my position that we do not want more federal aid to education," said Stenholm. "Recent figures released by the Texas Education Agency indicate that eight percent of the money required to operate the local school districts in Texas for the 1976-77 school year came from the federal government."

Stenholm said, "A call for one third or 331-3 percent funding from Washington is, to me, inviting absolute dictation from bureaucrats if what we are getting now is any indication.

"I do believe in federal grants and aids directly to students, primarily when they are to be repaid at low interest rates," continued Stenholm. "I do believe in impacted aid when the government is responsible for imposing burdens on a local school system. I do insist that we must retain local control, and it seems obvious to me that this is hardly possible if we accept more and more aid."

Concerning campaign finances, Stenholm states, "In accordance with our usual procedure, we are releasing today our report filed with the Federal Election Commission for the period ending May 19.

"I am very proud of the fact that it has not been necessary for me to borrow additional money myself and put it into the campaign since April 5. People across the District have responded in a wonderful way. By actual count, we have 4,893 individual contributors. This is more than many statewide candidates often have participating," noted Stenholm.

Stenholm ended his press conference by stating, "I have two challenges to issue to my opponent: (1) release your financial report today, and (2) stay with the issues and leave personalities out of the campaign."

Auto Halted By Gunfire

COLORADO CITY-Gunshots broke the silence Monday morning on Inter-State 20 east of town when the Highway Patrol shot the tire of an allegedly stolen car that refused to heed its command to pull over.

Sergeant Richard Campbell of the Sweetwater DPS office said that patrolmen Marvin Keenan and James Burson shot the left rear tire of a car driven by Alexandre Youmans that he had allegedly stolen in Tye.

The patrolmen found a weapon in the car that had been fired one time but did not say whether Youmans had returned fire.

The Odessa man is currently in Taylor County Jail charged with car theft as the investigation continues.

Auto Theft Reported Here

Police this morning were investigating a stolen car report made by Charley Robertson.

Robertson, a Fort Worth resident who is temporarily staying at the Purple Sage Motel, told officers his 1971 Buick was apparently taken sometime during the night. The loss was discovered this morning.

The car is described as a black over gold two-door.

Air Facility Under Study At C-City

COLORADO CITY-A speed limit change, plans for hangar and parking areas for the auxiliary air field and a possible access road crossing the Colorado River were discussed at a called meeting of the city council last night.

It was decided that an ordinance that will increase the speed limit on East 10th and East 17th Streets will be drawn up and presented for approval at the next regular meeting in June.

At the last meeting, Loyd Ledbetter and J.O. Dockrey were assigned to study plans for hangars and parking areas on the auxiliary air field. It was suggested at last night's meeting that Winston Field in Snyder be used as a pattern for designing the facilities at the Colorado City air strip.

An access road crossing on the Colorado River east of town was also discussed but no decision was made. Such a road would lessen the number of slow moving and heavy farm vehicles on Interstate 20 in that area.

Truck Fire Is Put Out

A truck fire was doused Tuesday evening by city firefighters.

The fire, they reported, occurred in a 1968 Ford two-ton truck owned by F&F Contractors of Snyder. No reports of damages were immediately available.

The fire occurred at the intersection of Texas and Ave. N about 6:10 p.m.

County Court Jury Selected

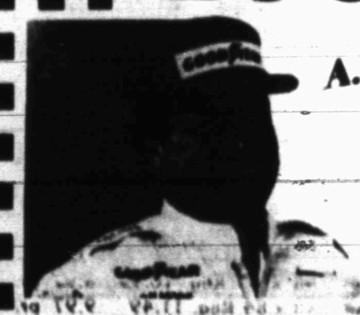

A four-woman, two-man jury was selected Tuesday to hear the county court trial of Lyndon Baize.

Baize is charged with a misdemeanor count of driving while intoxicated. He was arrested March 10.

The trial resumed this morning.

Texan Is High Gold Bidder

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-Except for some jewelry and a tooth filling or two, Morris Cannan has never owned any gold. But when he decided to buy some, he didn't fool around. He has apparently bought 50 pounds.

Cannan, a San Antonio geologist who usually confines his prospecting to oil and natural gas, was the high bidder Tuesday in the first government gold sale in three years. He was surprised and not especially overjoyed at the news.

"I hate to hear it," Cannan said at his office here. "I didn't know enough about it I guess, because the West Germans and the Swiss bid lower than I did. It looks like my evaluation was poor."

"I never had owned any gold before," said Cannan. "I didn't know that individuals could bid in this sale. I had been curious and inquired around."

He bid $182.35 per ounce for 800 ounces and was the high bidder in the Washington auction. He was the lone individual to submit a bid, with the remainder of the 300,000 ounces auctioned Tuesday apparently going to various West German and Swiss banks for more than $180 per ounce.

The awards will not be officially announced until Thursday.

What will Cannan do with two 25-pound bars of .9995 gold for which he will pay $145,800?

"I guess I'll put it in a bank box or something. I don't really know," said Cannan, who first learned about his apparent purchase from reporters. "I'll use it as an investment. I'll probably dream up something."

The geologist said experts had told him the gold was more pure than most available to buyers. Cannan said he hoped that would justify the higher price.

Only 59 bidders applied to buy the gold in Tuesday's auction, compared to 700 at the last auction.

The minimum bid was for 400 ounces.

Government officials said the gold will be transferred from a Treasury vault to any location the buyer pleases. After the last auction, one buyer carried a gold bar with him in his briefcase, government officials said.

The highest commercial bid was by a Swiss bank, which bid $181.26 per ounce for 800 ounces.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, which has 10,500,000 residents and an annual growth rate of 5 percent, is the largest city in North and South America, according to National Geographic.

Your Birthday

May 25, 1978

You'll be busier than usual this coming year with things involving your work or career. Your prospects look promising, provided you don't go off on tangents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Picking up on other people's ideas today won't work out too well. In trying to twist their concepts for your purposes, you'll devalue the whole thing. Having trouble selecting a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Taking a high risk on someone you just met will be greeted by your mate with fury. Better take the time to discuss things thoroughly with your spouse.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless you're extremely careful, people could take offense by your offers of advice today. You're liable to appear as a know-it-all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your reasoning could be faulty today. Avoid any decision that could cost you money and, by all means, don't gamble.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 28) Even though you know better, you could find yourself believing in a person who has misled you before. Heed past experience.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In your conversations today you could be so busy talking you won't take the time to heed advice. Don't blame anybody else but yourself when things go wrong.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In your eagerness to get things done quickly today you might allow the wrong type of person to help. This could bungle the project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be selective of your pals today. There's a troublemaker in your crowd who could damage your image.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In competitive situations today you are more likely to be tripped up by carelessness and lack of faith in yourself than you will be by the opposition.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Plans made in haste and sloppy thinking may have you spinning your wheels and accomplishing nothing today. Program your steps wisely.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be on guard today so that money doesn't become an issue between you and a friend. A misunderstanding could arise over something silly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're not careful to evaluate things logically today you could jump to an erroneous, hurtful conclusion about someone.

Aspirin can affect stomach

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please send your Health Letter on Aspirin and Related Medicines. My doctor has suggested that I take 12 Ascriptin each day. After one week my stomach began to give me trouble.

When I was younger I learned it was better to suffer out monthly cramps than to take aspirin because they affected my stomach. Until recently I have had no stomach problem for 10 years or more. I'm 63, unusually healthy except for some arthritis and take no other medications.

DEAR READER — Aspirin will irritate the stomach and it affects some people more than others. It seems to be particularly bad for people who are prone to acid stomach. You can avoid the problem to some extent by taking aspirin with food or crushing the pill and dissolving it in a half cup of milk.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-8, on aspirin as you requested. It includes a list of commonly available medicines that also contain aspirin so you can identify them. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You might ask your doctor to put you on some other mild pain-relieving medicine that contains no aspirin. I presume he is giving you medicine to relieve some of the aches and pain from your arthritis.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How does one treat tennis elbow? I've recently taken up tennis which I enjoy at 60 years of age but don't want to aggravate the condition. I have been given advice that ranges from cutting out tennis for prolonged periods, using an elbow stretch bandage to getting cortisone shots and lifting weights. What do you suggest?

DEAR READER — There seem to be about as many treatments for tennis elbow as there are for the common cold and a lot of them are about as useless.

Tennis elbow is caused by an injury where a tendon inserts on a bony knob at your elbow. The force of the blow and how you hit the ball are all important. And a good treatment that does work is to relieve the strain on the elbow.

How do you do that? First go see a pro tennis teacher who knows what he is doing and have him review your game with you. He may be able to help you improve your technique to minimize the blow.

Along these lines you should know that in amatuers — even 60 year olds — the injury is usually caused by the backhand stroke. (Real pros sometimes have a different problem.) And you can minimize that problem by using the two-handed back stroke technique that has become popular in recent years. By using both hands you don't jar the injured area. This is a good example where the technique becomes important.

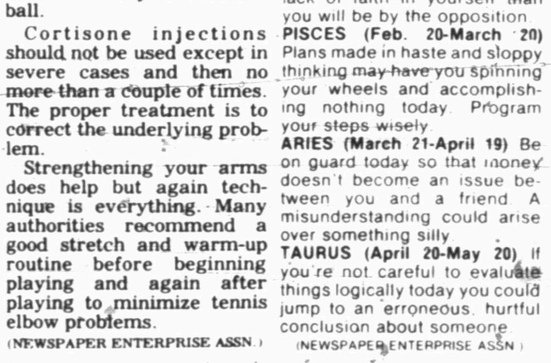

If you are going to see a physician about it — and that is a good idea — see a specialist in orthopedics. But if you have no major complications and improve your technique, the problem will go away in time while you continue to play.

The stretch bandage is a brace designed to help limit the blow when you return the ball.

Cortisone injections should not be used except in severe cases and then no more than a couple of times. The proper treatment is to correct the underlying problem.

Strengthening your arms does help but again technique is everything. Many authorities recommend a good stretch and warm-up routine before beginning playing and again after playing to minimize tennis elbow problems.

Gay Rights Law Falls In Eugene

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) - The vote margin was smaller but the impact for homosexuals was no softer as this university city followed the lead of three other U.S. communities and repealed an ordinance banning discrimination against gay people.

In what many had expected would be a close election, final unofficial returns late Tuesday showed 22,898 votes in favor of repeal and 13,427 opposed. The count represented 50 percent of the registered voters in the city, Oregon's second largest.

The margin, however, was not as sweeping as the recent vote in Wichita, Kan., where a 4-to-1 tally threw out a gay rights ordinance there. Voters were also overwhelmingly against similar laws in Dade County, Fla., where the margin last June was 7-to-3, and in St. Paul, Minn., with a 2-to-1 margin last month.

"If they couldn't win in Eugene, they can't win any place else, except maybe San Francisco," said Larry Dean, director of the successful repeal drive by Volunteer Organization Involved in Community Enactments.

"There will be more referendums and I suspect we'll see these gay rights laws falling one by one across the country," Dean said.

But gay rights supporters, who had spent more than twice as much as their opponents on the campaign, vowed to keep fighting discrimination.

Gay rights activists estimate that about 40 U.S. communities still have laws banning discrimination against homosexuals in jobs and housing.

About 250 disappointed supporters of gay rights held a candlelight march Tuesday night. The group formed a large circle in front of the courthouse and holding hands sang "We Shall Overcome."

SWORN IN--Wayland Holt, left, judge of the 132nd District Court, is shown as he swore in David Wayne Cotton, a new attorney who will be practicing in Snyder. Cotton, 23, is the son of Dan Cotton, another local attorney. The two said they plan to form a partnership. The younger Cotton is a 1972 graduate of Snyder High School, and a 1977 graduate of the law school at the University of Texas at Austin. The swearing in was done Tuesday (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Daughters Lose Battle At Alamo

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Another Battle of the Alamo, this one over parking meters, ended Tuesday when city workmen removed 13 parking meter poles they had installed in front of the old mission last week in violation of city conservation laws.

The removal, ordered by embarrassed city officials, was opposed by the Daughters of the Republic of Texas, the custodians of the state-owned shrine. The Daughters had asked for the parking meters to provide inexpensive parking for Alamo visitors.

Mayor Lila Cockrell called the affair "a friendly mistake."

The city began installing the meters last Thursday. The work was stopped, however, when a local conservation society objected.

City officials then discovered a 1975 ordinance agreed to by the Daughters prohibiting the installation of meters before Jan. 1, 1979.

Parking meters were once located in front of the Alamo, but were removed in 1975 during the renovation of the Alamo Plaza. Alamo visitors must now pay to park in nearby lots.

"We want the children of Texas to be able to visit the Alamo without their parents paying exorbitant parking fees," said Peggy Dibrell, chairman of the Daughters' Alamo Committee. "When the city took away our parking places three years ago, the city fathers promised us nearby parking at reasonable prices so everyone can afford it.

She said the controversy is "no laughing matter."

China Seeks To Increase Contacts

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) - China is eager to increase contacts with the United States, but there can be no normalization of relations until the United States severs diplomatic ties to Taiwan, the deputy chief of China's liaison office says.

CHOICES
Karen Blaker Ph.D.

From night to day

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — My husband has really changed. It's like night and day.

I think his new job is to blame. After 15 years of working as a day foreman, he was promoted to night supervisor.

At first we were excited about the change. It meant more responsibility and a better salary. After five months on the job, everyone is miserable.

He has already used up all his sick time for the year because he is so run down. He is hypersensitive to criticism and doesn't seem to have any time for the family.

My husband and I agree he is not himself — but we disagree on the reason. I think it is the increased responsibility. He thinks he will be all right as soon as he gets used to the night schedule.

What do you think?

DEAR READER — There has recently been a dramatic increase in the number of people working during off-peak hours, due largely to the energy crisis and resulting rise in utility costs. Stanford University's Center for Research on Stress and Health investigated the human cost of this employment trend.

Your husband probably qualifies as one of the 10 million Americans whose nonstandard shifts have caused them to suffer increased accidents, illnesses, physical complaints, eating disturbances and sleeping problems. And that's not to mention the psychological ill effects of such schedules on domestic and social life.

The body needs time to adjust to any change. For example, it takes three to four weeks for a new sleep-wake pattern to be fully integrated into the bodily processes.

Although rotating workers have the greatest adjustment difficulties, permanent night workers like your husband also suffer because they usually return to a day schedule on nights off. The body is punished by constantly being thrown off-balance without having a chance to stabilize.

Although your husband has more responsibility and is making more money, is it really worth the disruption in your family life?

When my husband worked nights while writing his doctoral dissertation, he seemed always to be in the process of trying to get up or go to sleep.

When he was asleep, I tried to keep everyone and everything quiet. When he was awake, it wasn't much better. We talked continually about his sleep. Could he try to catch a few minutes' nap? Was four hours really enough after a 24-hour stretch without sleep? Were we having this fight because he was overly tired? And so on. It was a trying time.

If possible, encourage your husband to shift back to days. After five months of working nights, it is unlikely he will ever adjust any better than he has already.

If he cannot make the change, however, work out an eating-sleeping schedule for him that could remain constant during his days off as well as his nights on the job. Adhere to this schedule — without any exceptions — for a month. You may then begin to see positive changes in your husband's mood.

This plan might be a strain for you and the rest of the family. But it also might provide some relief from your present difficulties.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Salaries Less...

Texas DPS Says Workload Higher

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Department of Public Safety said Tuesday its average population per highway patrol trooper is much higher than in neighboring states.

The department also said its salaries fall short of those in major states, its share of the state budget has declined and its criminal law enforcement manpower has not risen as fast as the crime rate.

In a "Workload vs. Resources" booklet, the DPS said Texas' average population per trooper is 9,504, compared with 6,749 in Louisiana, 5,869 in Oklahoma, 5,785 in Arkansas and 4,453 in New Mexico.

Salaries for uniformed personnel were compared with those of California, Florida, Illinois, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Average minimum salary for a rank-and-file trooper is $11,816 in Texas and $12,879 in the eight states with which it was compared. Average maximum is $14,148 in Texas and $17,010 in the other states.

At the top of the scale, captains in Texas make $19,668, while those in the eight comparison states averaged from a minimum of $21,155 to a maximum of $26,433, the DPS said.

The DPS said its current two-year appropriation is $169.3 million, or 1.089 percent of the total state budget. In 1976-77, its budget was 1.258 percent of the total biennial appropriation.

The drop in the DPS percentage share of the budget meant a loss of $26 million for the biennium in appropriations, it said.

"While we realize that many state agencies have valid needs for funds to serve the public, it is interesting to note that the face of the rising problems shown in the preceeding charts, the DPS share of the state dollars actually declined," it said.

The charts included more crime, more motor vehicle thefts and more narcotics activities.

The DPS said while the crime rate in 1977 was 32 percent higher than in 1973, the number of criminal law enforcement personnel authorized for the state police agency rose only 10 percent, from 264 to 290.

Margaret Granted Divorce

LONDON (AP) - Princess Margaret's 18-year marriage to Lord Snowdon, the former Anthony Armstrong-Jones, ended in a divorce that took just a few seconds today.

Her special procedure "quickie" divorce, one of a batch of 27, went through without hitch and it took Judge John Willis one minute, 53 seconds to dispose of the cases.

None of the divorced couples was required to be present in the court in the Gothic-style Law Courts at the end of London's Strand.

The divorce was granted by consent on the grounds the couple had been separated for two years.

Among the other 27 couples simultaneously getting decrees were Westminster office cleaner Laura Knowles and former Dragoon guardsman Michael Farr.

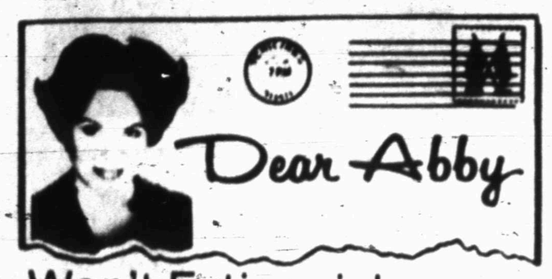

Most of the spectators in court were journalists.

The princess announced May 10 that she would divorce Lord Snowdon.

Although brewery heir Roddy Llewellyn, 30, has been the 47-year-old Margaret's constant companion since she and Snowdon, 48, separated in March 1976, a household spokesman said at the time of the announcement that Margaret does not plan to remarry.

Won't Extinguish His Office Flame

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I discovered that my husband of 16 years was having a torrid affair with a young divorced woman in his office. We agreed to make a serious effort to restore our marriage for the sake of our children.

The young woman agreed to quit her job, but so far she is still working for my husband. He isn't even looking for a replacement, and I will not feel secure as long as they are in daily contact. Human nature being what it is, it would be so easy for them to re-establish the old relationship.

What do you think, Abby? I'm trying to be mature and trusting, but I still feel

THREATENED IN CHICAGO

DEAR THREATENED: No matter how pure your husband's intentions, as long as his current heartthrob remains in his office, the embers are still smoldering.

Tell him that you do not expect superhuman restraint from mere morials, and if he is sincere in his efforts to restore your marriage, he will send her on her way immediately, with helpful references.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady for a year with a girl I'll call "Joan," but there is another girl I like better. I don't want to hurt Joan's feelings, but I would like to drop her so I can openly date this other girl that I'm seeing secretly on the side.

Joan is a very nervous girl, and whenever I've even hinted about cooling our relationship, she gets sick. I would appreciate any help you can give me. I am 23 and Joan is 21.

STUCK IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR STUCK: I feel sorry for Joan, but I feel sorrier for you if you continue the relationship only because you lack the courage to cool it.

Level with her, gently, but honestly. She may get sick, but she'll survive. And don't stall, or you may find yourself permanently stuck with a woman who "gets sick" whenever she doesn't get her own way. (P.S. Joan needs counseling, and I hope she realizes it.)

DEAR ABBY: Isn't it true that if two people dance well together it means they are "in tune" and "meant for each other"?

I heard somewhere that if a boy and girl dance well together, they will probably have other things in common and will most likely have a successful marriage. Please confirm this.

LILA IN GAINESVILLE

DEAR LILA: When two people dance well together, it means only one thing. They dance well together. Believe me, it means nothing else. If you are using dancing as a basis for compatibility in marriage, forget it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BOB B.: No one said it better than Benjamin Franklin: "If a man empties his purse into his head, no man can take it away from him. An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest." Please, hang in there and get your degree.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Sr. Citizens Dance Friday

Senior Citizens are invited to a dance from 7:30-10:30 p.m. Friday in the Student Center at Western Texas College.

The dance is being planned by the Senior Citizens Center, and all Senior Citizens are welcome. The dance had originally been planned for Thursday but has been changed to Friday because of a conflict, Mrs. Gloria Shaw, Senior Center director, said.

Music will be furnished by the Western Ranch Hands, and dress will be casual. There will be an admission charge of 50 cents per person to help offset the expenses of refreshments and decorations.

Senior Citizens who would like to come and visit friends during the evening are also welcome to attend, Mrs. Shaw said. Tables and chairs will be set up for their convenience.

Texans Urged To Drive With Headlights On

AUSTIN (AP) Texas motorists are being asked to turn on their low beam headlights during daylight hours of the Memorial Day weekend, Col. Wilson E. Speir said Tuesday.

The director of the Department of Public Safety said this coming weekend marks the opening of the summer vacation season and is accompanied in increased traffic in many parts of the state and nation.

"We believe this holiday travel can be relatively safe if motorists will slow down, adjust their driving to traffic conditions, and avoid drinking," Speir said. "The use of low beam headlights this Saturday, Sunday and Monday by a large number of drivers will serve to call attention to these vital holiday precations."

Speir said DPS was not making a traffic fatality estimate for the weekend.
