CLARENDON FIGHTS PLAN TO MOVE SCHOOL

So This Is Texas

Mexican Immigrants—John Box of Texas—Cold Shoulder Coming—Better Off at Home.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

THERE are thousands of Mexicans who cross the Rio Grande every year to do the rough work for the farmers and planters and cow men and sheep men of the commonwealth. There are thousands of Mexicans who are naturalized citizens. There are thousands of so-called Mexicans whose ancesters were here before Columbus discovered America. There are thousands of Mexicans who work as laborers fo rthe public utility companies, the railroad companies, the constructors and builders in all departments of human endeavor in Texas. In the sheep districts of Texas the shearers are Mexicans. In the cotton growing districts of Texas, they hoe and pick the cotton.

* * *

MEXICANS have displaced negroes or rather the negroes have deserted agriculture and flocked to the cities and towns in war times. The negroes deserted the cotton fields for the industrial centers of the north, and more than a million remained in the indutsrial conters of the north. In the Magic Valley, in the Nueces river country and across the state from Point Isabelle on the Gulf to El Paso on the new Mexican border, Mexican workers are found everywhere. There is work to do. These Mexicans fell the forest trees. They grub out the stumps. They clear the land.

* * *

JOHN C. Box is a Texas Congressman. He represents a district in the piney wood section, in one of the old sections of the state. He is a member of the house committee on immigration. Now the immigration quota act does not apply to Mexico or the Pan-American republic. It does not apply to the provinces of the British or Canadian dominion. Box of Texas at the coming session of congress, declares he is going to renew his efforts to place Mexico and all other countries of North and Scuth America, under the two per cent immigration quota law, now applicable to the rest of the world.

* * *

HIS proposal was placed before the last session of congress, but was given a chilly reception. There is an organization or association in Washington known as the Immigration Restriction League. It is said to be a branch of the Invisible Empire. This league favors the present quota or its application to "Mexico and other countries of North and South America, whose population is not predominately the white race." This combination would let the Canadians in. It would bar the Mexicans and South Americans or rather hold all Spanish speaking people on this hemisphere to the two per cent immigration quota law.

* * *

BOX and his plan will be given the cold shoulder in the Magic Valley and all along the Gulf coast where Mexicans do the rough work and the hoeing and the picking of cotton. Cotton growers in these sections plant early and they pick early. Their cotton is marketed months in advance of the cotton grown in far west Texas. It is marketed long before the cotton produced in north Texas is marketed. Furthermore the Box plan will shut out the Mexican from across the river to shear the sheep and relieve the goats of their valuable mohair protector.

* * *

THERE is a vast army of Mexican toilers in Texas. They are needed every year in planting and crop gathering. They are really the rough workers to be found in many sections from the Gulf to the mountains. Now why should the Mexicans be shut out and the Canadians let in. Back of the Box plan will be found the labor leaders of the country, especially those of New England and other manufacturing centers of the north and the east. They favor shutting out the Mexicans. They would apply to Mexico and all South American countries the two per cent quota plan.

* * *

SOUTH Americans do not come to Texas or the United States They are better off at home. They have just as much freedom and equal opportunities. Mexicans do come to Texas and the United States and they work long hours and they attend to their own business. Planters and farmers and cattle and sheep men say they are needed in Texas. New England factory towns are flooded with French-Canadian workers. It goes without saying that the two per cent quota law does not apply to these French-Canadians.

* * *

THEY are thrifty, they are industrious, they attend to their own business, they vote the republican ticket because they have been told that the republicans are responsible for the full dinner pail and the democrats believe in free trade and free importation of all the products, raw and finished, of the world at large. And Box of Texas is willing to shut the Mexicans out because they are brown and let the Canadians in because their skins are white.

QUEEN MARIE'S DUBBED 'ROYAL HOBO' BY CLAN

SHE'S VOTED SISTER 'BO'

Delegation Goes to Greet Her But Gets Lost in Big Jam

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 13.—While the cities of America have been falling all over themselves for a chance to see Queen Marie of Rumania, there is one class that laughs up its sleeve at the spectacle of this grand old republic "making a goose of itself." While the queen, in her special crested car, was racing over the country, the National Hoboes association or, to put it more elegantly, the International Brotherhood of Casual and Migratory Workers, was holding its convention in Omaha and in a smoke-filled hall passed an ironic resolution to send a committee to greet Marie as one of themselves.

"Isn't she bumming her way across country, not paying a cent of fare?" queried James Eads Howe, millionaire hobo president, of Chicago, who gave up a fortune in order to prove himself a comrade to his fellowmen.

Hoboes Grin Broadly

Unshaven faces wore broad grins. Bushy heads nodded solemnly. Calloused hands aplauded vigorously. The convention broke into a loud guffaw—for the hobo is not without his sense of humor.

The resolution naming Marie a sister hobo was passed just on the eve of the queen's fifteen minute visit to Omaha, for which army officials and the chamber of commerce had scrambled madly. The 'boes' having been allowed to hold their convention in the labor temple, were sitting pretty what with a special club room in the down town district donated by President Howe, and they did not give a cuss what they said about anybody.

Marie 'Gold Digger'

So when Nicholas Klein, Cincinnati attorney who has the cause of 'the boes' at heart and has traveled all over the world getting statistics about the underdog, called the Rumania queen a "gold digger," the "migratory workers" thought it was hot stuff. Two in the back row who had had a little bootleg and came in grumbling because they did not like the word "labor" in connection with the meeting place, settled down contentedly,

Burk Child Dies In Auto Smash

Tiny Girl of A. L. Bilyeu's Family Killed On Saturday

A four-year-old girl is dead and two members of the family of A. L. Bilyeu of Burkburnett are in the Wichita General hospital as the result of an accident on the Wichita Falls-Burkburnett highway about 9:30 Saturday night. Mrs. Ida Bilyeu has a fractured ankle and her 10-year-old son, A. L. Jr., is in a dangerous condition with a skull fracture, broken jaw and face disfigurement.

The accident occurred just north of the Fairview school when their sedan struck an eight-wheeled wagon, halted off the pavement loaded with rig timbers. Mr. Bilyeu and a six-year-old son were only slightly injured; Mrs. Bilyeu and A. L. Jr. were hurt as stated, and the four-year-old daughter was apparently dead when taken from the wrecked car, with her skull crushed and brains exposed. Her body is being held at the Collier undertaking parlors in Burkburnett.

Mr. Bilyeu is employed by the Q. P. and G. Air company near Newtown. The cause of the accident has not been established.

British Ship Raided In Texas Port

UNCLE JOE SWEARS WHEN SHOWN PLACE WHERE HE WAS BORN

GREENSBORO, N. C., Nov. 13. (AP)—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, who died yesterday at his home in Danville, Ill., was born 90 years ago in Guilford county, near here, but apparently did not regard his birthplace with high favor.

About 12 years ago he paid the only visit of his life to the scene which he had left at the age of four. After he had been feted by the residents of Greensboro he was driven in an automobile to visit the spot where he was born.

"Uncle Joe," said a member of the party when the house was reached, "there is where you were born."

ROW IN DANCE HALL ENDS IN GIRL'S SLAYING

Big Lake Police Search For Man Accused of Double Killing

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 13.(AP)—Wm. L. Coates, air hammerer for the Murray Tool company at Best, sought in connection with a triple shooting early Saturday morning at a dance in Best, still was at large early tonight, though sought during the day by officers of several counties. Two men, suspected of having abetted Coates' escape were being held at Big Lake for questioning.

The two victims will be buried here Sunday afternoon. Service for George Hayes, Best constable, will be conducted at 3 o'clock from the residence of C. R. Hallmark, banker. An hour and a half later, at an undertaker's chapel, the last rites will be performed for Miss Alva Beam of Rankin, who was the telephone operator at Best. From all accounts, she was killed accidentally by the second bullet fired at C. A. Jones, Best rig building contractor, who sustained a fractured right wrist and is under treatment in a local hotel.

A .45 calibre revolver was thrust toward Jones' stomach after Hayes had been shot three times in the head. Jones knocked the gun upwards as it was fired. As Coates fled in the darkness, he snapped his empty revolver at A. G. Parker, field superintendent for Jones, who mistook Coates for an officer, Parker reported. Some people on the streets said Coates escaped in an automobile in which were other men and women. Officers today worked on the theory that Coates was in hiding in the oil fields and that he had headed for the Rio Grande.

Coates, according to Jones and others at the dance, was under the effects of liquor, no motive yet being known. An hour before the shooting Coates had been ejected from the dance floor of the Santa Rita hotel by Jones, who went to Constable Hayes' aid while he was scuffling with Coates.

300 QUARTS OF ASSORTED RUM TAKEN IN HAUL

Seizure Is Made Under Terms Of Treaty With London In 1924

SEQUEL TO SEARCH

Galveston Scene of Act By Agents of United States Treasury

GALVESTON, Nov. 13.(AP)—Seizure of more than 300 bottles of assorted liquors from the British steamer Asuncion de Larrinaga by United States customs inspectors here today, is the first of its kind ever made for the alleged violation of Section 1750 of the national prohibition act, according to A. F. Scharff, special agent of the United States treasury department.

The section is as follows: "Sea stores, it is unlawful for any United States or foreign merchant vessel within the territorial waters o fthe United States to carry or possess as sea stores any liquor whatever for beverage use."

Treaty Is Cited.

Article three of the treaty with England made in 1924, provides that liquor can be carried on British vessels which are destined to foreign ports other than those in the United States, but where a vessel is destined to call at only United States ports the liquor can be seized.

The treaty was made at Washington, January 23, 1924, and was ratified by the senate on March 13, 1924 and by the president on March 31, 1924, and by Great Britain on April 30, 1924. Ratifications were exchanged on May 22, 1924 and the president issued a proclamation on May 22, 1924 declaring it in effect.

TROOPS READY TO BLOCK MOB

Mexican Held as Slayer Of Rail Crew Head At Childress

CHILDRESS, Nov. 13. (AP)—Fear of possible mob violence as result of bringing Frank Morrelos, a Mexican, charged with the killing of J. L. Newberry and a Mexican was allayed here tonight by the arrival of five truck loads of soldiers from Fort Bliss, Colo. Morrelos was rushed to jail here for safe keeping after his arrest at Claude.

Dirl Hundley of Claude, a special deputy, on the manhunt for the Mexican, was shot through the jaw early this morning by Morrelos at the time of the arrest. Hundley is in a serious condition.

The soldiers a part of an engineering unit arrived shortly after Morrrelos was brought in and camped on lots opposite the jail. The troops have full complement of rifles and side arms and can be used to protect.

More soldiers of the same organization were expected tonight from Fort Bliss.

Morrelos, arrested in Claude, today after the killing of Newberry, a section foreman at Goodnight, Texas, was said by officers to have confessed to not only killing Newberry but also a Mexican.

Newberry has a brother living here. He has been leading the posse that searched for the Mexican. Sheriff John Compton is absent at present, not having as yet returned from the man hunt.

LINEMAN KILLED

Pole Snaps and Falls on Lineman Strapped To It

HOUSTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—N. E. Hulms, 27, of Houston, fell 30 feet with an electric light pole here Friday and was killed. He back was broken. Fellow workmen said the pole snapped at the base under Hulme's weight. He was strapped to the pole and was unable to free himself.

Bank Statistics Here Show Gain Over 3 Millions

Wichita Falls Debits For Week of November 10 $8,637,000

Wichita Falls bank debits totalled $8,637,000 for the week ending November 10, as compared to $5,281,000 for the same period in 1925, according to figures announced from U. S. federal reserve headquarters at Dallas Saturday. This is an increase for the new year of approximately $3,350,000 over last year.

For the week ending with November 10, debits to individual accounts of banks in 16 chief centers of the eleventh reserve district showed a gain of more than $30,000,000 over the same week a year ago. However, a part of this gain was accounted for by a holiday during the preceding week, which showed a loss from 1925 figures.

Comparative Totals.

HUNG JURY FOR MARSHALL

12 Men Deadlocked After Hours of Deliberation On Case

The jury in the Henry Marshall murder trial in the 89th district court created little surprise late Saturday evening when it reported.

The case went to the jury Saturday morning shortly before noon. At 2 o'clock the jury reported a deadlock with the count six and six. Judge Martin ordered further deliberation and late last night, no further report had come.

Marshall faced charges of shooting his cousin, Charlie Marshall in the rear of his home on Polk street last July 18. State witnesses testified they had "framed" with J. F. Lindley to bring Charlie Marshall out to the place that night. The prosecution built its case around this testimony while the defense stuck to Henry's first statement after the shooting in which he claimed he shot because he believed the man trying to hold him up.

The case has excited considerable interest.

ORPHANS BENEFIT

$250,000 Asked of Woman Whose Testimony Jailed Him

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13. (AP)—James E. Preston, former bluejacket, who spent almost two years in prison as the result of arrest and conviction on a charge of assault and robbery, and who was pardoned after an investigation showed him to be innocent, yesterday sued Mrs. Estrelle Parsons of Hollywood, complainant in the robbery case, for $250,000.

A check-up of finger prints recently proved Preston not guilty and Governor Friend W. Richardson pardoned him. Another man then was arrested and charged with the crime.

In the trial Mrs. Parsons positively identified Preston as the man who assaulted and robbed her. Preston spent four months in jail and 17 months in San Quentin prison. At the time of his arrest he was absent without leave from his ship.

Fifty Billions In American Banks

Tills Heavily Laden With Christmas Season In Offing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—A merry Christmas for the United States is assured by the heavily laden tills of all America's banks which are now estimated by the treasury to be holding about $50,000,000,000.

Savings deposits in all banks totalled $24,200,000,000 on June 30, the latest date on which figures are available, and this is believed to have been increased by a billion dollars through additional Christmas accounts. The June 30 figure was higher by $3,200,000,000 than a year ago.

The American public during the year has drawn down about $800,000,000 in interest on savings deposits, another new record.

CHARGED SUICIDE

Mexican Law Makes Attempted Suicide a Felony

DEL RIO, Texas, Nov. 13. (AP)—A charge of attempted suicide has been lodged against Mrs. Johnnie Summers of San Angelo, Tex., by authorities at Villa Acuna, Mex., across the international boundary from Del Rio.

The police say Mrs. Summers shot herself last night. Later the shooting was announced as an accident, but under Mexican law, as under American law, attempted suicide is a felony.

Mrs. Summers was arrested and released on $500 bond. She is said to be in a serious condition, but expected to live.

AMARILLO IN PLAN TO HAVE COLLEGE MOVED

Clarendon Citizens On Deck To Contest Removal Of School

BOARD TO BE NAMED

Committee of 15 to Quiz Proposed Transfer Of College

CHILDRESS, Nov. 13(AP)—The North Texas Methodist conference in session here devoted the entire afternoon to discussion of a resolution to investigate Clarendon college to determine whether the college be left at Clarendon or not.

Amarillo would like to have the school, it was brought out, but will make no offer until the commission acts upon a change of location. The conference voted to appoint a commission of 15.

At the morning session the resolution which would have teachers in Methodist schools declare their faith was further discussed. Press reports which members of the conference pointed tended to show Bishop John M. Moore as a liberal were also discussed in an effort to clear up any misunderstanding which may have resulted from yesterday's session.

It was brought out that Bishop Moore is unbiased and fair in the matter.

CLARENDON CITIZENS TO OPPOSE REMOVAL
Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Nov. 13.—The biggest battle that the Northwest Texas annual conference has yet experienced was forecast this afternoon when it was stated that a resolution was to be introduced asking that a commission be appointed to meet after the conference adjourns to probe the advisability of relocating the Clarendon college at some other point. Amarillo is being mentioned in some circles as a possible site; Clarendon people came to Childress in large numbers today to oppose any such action, Clarendon wants to keep the college but just how far she will go and what action she will take to hold it is not yet known.

Considerable furore was caused on the floor of the Northwest Texas conference business session here this morning by the Associated Press report that went out of Childress regarding the action taken on the Stuckey resolution providing for the signature of articles of faith of the Methodist denomination by heads of denominational institutions. Dr. S. C. Selecman is said not to have signed which might mean that the conference may take action to withdraw support from that institution.

Text of Resolution

The following is the text of the Stuckey resolution which is intended to replace rule 9 now in force, and which Rev. Stuckey was the author of at the last conference meeting a year ago:

"Before the conference will consider making an appropriation to any institution of learning there must be placed in the hands of the following, the conference secretary and the chairman of the board of education, the following statement signed by the president of the institution of learning, the dean of each department and all the teachers of science, sociology and teachers of Bible statement. There is no teacher in our school within my knowledge who believes or teacher that man had his origin in lower form of animal life. All the teachers of our institution, within my knowledge believe without reservation, equivocation or without interruption other than that of the accepted standards of our Methodist church in the inspiration of both the Old and New Testaments and in every statement of the Apostles Creed."

HOUSE BURNS

Henrietta Residence Destroyed by Fire Saturday.

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Nov. 13.—The handsome residence of H. L. Bear became a total loss by fire of unknown origin tonight while the family was attending a picture show.

A heavy rain that fell shortly after the fire had broken out aided materially in saving the garage and car which is close to the house.

Old Resolution.

The following is rule 9 which Rev. Stuckey got passed by the conference last year and which is displaced by the Stuckey substitute given above:—"Before this conference will consider making an appropriation to any institution of learning there must be placed in the hands of the conference secretary and the chairman of the board of education the following statement signed by the president of the institution of learning, the dean of each department and all the teachers of science, sociology and teachers of Bible statement. There is no teacher in our school within my knowledge who believes or teacher that man had his origin in lower form of animal life. All the teachers of our institution, within my knowledge believe without reservation, equivocation or without interruption other than that of the accepted standards of our Methodist church in the inspiration of both the Old and New Testaments and in every statement of the Apostles Creed."

M'SPADDEN FUNERAL

Burial Services Is Held for Wichita Falls Woman.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. A. McSpadden, pioneer resident of Wichita Falls, were held Saturday afternoon from the Rexford home with Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial was in Riverside. Mrs. McSpadden died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hallie Rexford, 500 Travis, Friday afternoon following a servere illness.

She had lived in Wichita Falls for 20 years but had moved two years recently with her husband who survives her.

Besides Mr. McSpadden she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Rexford, Mrs. Marjorie Adkins and Mrs. Blanche Lamb of Spearman, two brothers, Burton Tarver of Burnett, Bonnie Tarver of Aransas Pass, and two sisters, Mrs. Howard Pace and Mrs. Burley Cash of St. Petersburg, Fla.

TALBERT HONORED

Announcement was received here yesterday that J. Wilkie Talbert, vice-president of the Wichita Falls Building and Loan association, has been elected a vice-president of the Texas League of Building and Loan associations. W. C. Hamilton, vice-president of the Guaranty State Building and Loan association of Wichita Falls was elected a member of the directorate of the organization.

HALE CANDIDATE

Oil Operator of City Seeks Shrine Dhmond.

Buddy Hale, prominent oil man of this city, is the third candidate to announce for the Maskat Temple Shrine ring for the fall ceremonial, it was said last night. Two other men, one from Wichita Falls and one from Abilene have also announced for the contest.

CITY HAS ONE SPRING DAY

Warm Weather With Sultry Rain at End Is Saturday's Lot

Wichita Falls experienced a spring time day Saturday when the thermometer mounted to 80 degrees, a wind averaging 15 miles per hour kept up throughout the 24-hour period, and a clouded sky was evident, concluding with a light shower at nightfall. Lightning kept up a brisk play in the early evening but the rainfall was light. The barometer was slightly below normal at 5 o'clock.

Dispatchers on the railroads leading into Wichita Falls reported weather similar to that in this city along the lines. On the Katy north the dispatcher said clouded skies and high wind prevailed with slight rainfall; there was no report of rain on the Denver north at 9 o'clock Saturday night, but showers were reported south as far as Henrietta.

News Briefs

John Tancred Jr., who underwent an operation recently for appendicitis at a local hospital, has been removed to his home, 1717 Collins and is reported doing nicely.

U. S. COURT TO OPEN MONDAY

Atwell on Bench as Federal Tribunal Starts Work Here

With Judge William H. Atwell on the bench, the fall term of federal court for the Wichita Falls division of the northern district of Texas will open here Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Judge Atwell will convene the grand jury as the first step and then will probably turn his attention to arranging the dockets and starting on civil cases.

A fairly heavy docket on both the criminal and civil sides are awaiting this term of court. Numerous liquor law violations will be brought up for hearing.

Court sessions will be held in the rooms of the 89th district court in the court house.

BAKER FUNERAL.

The funeral for L. C. Baker, 36, who died Thursday night was held Saturday morning at the Hines Mortuary with Rev. S. A. Barnes, pastor of Floral Heights Methodist church, officiating. Burial was in Rosemont. Baker died from a gunshot wound in the temple. He is survived by his wife and four brothers.

MRS. SHERMAN LEAVES.

Mrs. M. C. Sherman, president of the Carrigan P.-T. A. will leave early Monday morning for Fort Worth to attend the 18th annual convention of the Texas Cbngress of Mothers.

ELLIS TO DALLAS.

Al Ellis, recorder of Maskat Temple, leaves this morning for Dallas to attend the Scottish Rite reunion. He will spend the week there and attend the all-State Shrine cermonial November 20.

JOINS FIRM

ARCHER A. JOHNSON.

Archer Johnson is another addition to the Woods Rubber company, a newly formed corporation distributing and retailing Michelin tires and tubes for this territory. Mr. Johnson comes to Wichita Falls from Abilene, Texas. He is well impressed with the business conditions of this city and feels that success is assured here for Michelin products. Mr. Johnson will be the Michelin warehouse manager.

The Woods Rubber company opened for business last Friday at 904 Travis and is already receiving favorable comments on their location and complete stock carried. Two car loads of tires are enroute, which will be unloaded within a few days.

BOYS CAUGHT

Two boys were caught in the act of taking a casing from an automobile at Junior college Friday night and were arrested by Policemen Wright and Flenniken who were on duty during the chamber of commerce banquet at the college. No cases of theft have been reported, police said yesterday.

FARMERS MAY BE ORGANIZED

Producing Units to Assist Canners Expected to Be Formed Here

Organization of farmers and producers of the Wichita valley into some association to co-operate with a canning factory by producing proper commodities here is one of the tasks set by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce this week.

A date will be set, at which time all farmers of this section will be urged to attend. It is probable a permanent organization will be effected at this time.

This move has been urged by various organizations and men of the city for the purpose of effecting a general marketing plan, but it is thought that for the present only the canning phase will be undertaken.

The actual date of the meeting has not been set but it will probably be Friday or Saturday of this week.

CHICKENS STOLEN

Blooded Stock Taken From Large Chicken Farm

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 13. (AP—Robbers put chicken stealing in the grand larceny class early Saturday when they escaped with 126 registered fowls on a chicken ranch near Boerne. The thieves tore down a section of fence and loaded the birds into a truck so quietly that the robbery was not discovered until daylight. The chickens were all blooded stock and the loss is placed at more than $500.

FIND AMMUNITION

Nuevo Laredo Authorities Capture Large Store of Shells

LAREDO, Nov. 13. (AP)—Twenty-three thousand rounds of ammunition was seized Friday night by authorities in Nuevo Laredo. The cartridges were in a touring car that had been left at a public garage. The driver has not returned to claim the machine. Nuevo Laredo authorities believe the ammunition was recently smuggled into that country from the United States.

CAPTAINS AND WORKERS PLAN SPEEDY DRIVE

Territory Assigned and All Put in Readiness For Work Monday

The annual membership campaign of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will open Monday at noon when the workers who have volunteered their services in this canvas will assemble at the Kemp hotel in a joint meeting with the Kiwanis club. Captains of the various teams will also attend the meeting and the final detailed plans for work will be announced.

$75.000 Budget.

The budget for 1927 has been placed at $75,000 and it is the plan of the directors and the workers to conclude the campaign within three days.

True to the history of the past, many men of the city have volunteered their services and many of these will quit work Monday to render this service in the hope that the chamber of commerce organization may make for Wichita Falls in 1927 the greatest year in the city's history. Meetings will be held each day at noon when reports of the workers will be made. Details for these meetings, however, will be announced on Monday.

Final Plans Made

Final plans for this campaign were made Saturday noon when the captains met at the Kemp hotel, drew for their territories as well as the means of their workers. It was an enthusiastic meeting, made more so as the result of the great banquet at Junior college Friday evening.

The territories, the captains and the workers are as follows:

1. Ohio avenue, River to Thirteenth street. George Williams, captain; G. R. Fate, W. P. Killingsworth and G. L. Shapbard.
2. Indiana avenue, River to Thirteenth street; L. C. Robertson, captain; Tom Blain, J. T. Camp and M. W. Blair.

Remodeling Plans For Union Depot To Be Discussed at Monday Meeting

Plans for a general remodeling of the union station here, the relocation of the ticket offices and the addition of numerous other improvements will be gone into Monday when W. G. Crush, executive of the Katy railroad comes here for a conference with local railroad and chamber of commerce officials.

No plans have as yet been formulated for the remodeling, railway officials here have declared, although it is admitted some changes have been considered. The chamber of commerce is working on the matter. The building location is considered entirely satisfactory insofar as accessibility and convenience are concerned. It includes sufficient room which, although altered somewhat, will be adequate to provide for the needs of the city for some time to come.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Henry Nelkins and Miss Bernice G. Hand.

J. H. Byrd and Miss Nancy Mae Greene.

MOVE BUILDING

City Council to Be Asked For Permission to Move Structure

One of the proposals to be put before the city council Monday night will be a request for wrecking and moving of a small frame building at the southeast side of the Kemp library.

The building in question was constructed many years ago to be used as a lady's rest room, but since the present structure has been up has been of no use. Park Superintendent C. C. Bunnenberg will ask the council for permission to move the structure.

BARWISE' 97TH YEAR PASSES

Venerable Wichitan Receives Many Felicitations On His Birthday

Tributes were sent from scores of friends who sent flowers, candy, cigars, jellies and many remembrances to the venerable pioneer. Covers were laid for 36 at the annual birthday feast served in his honor at the home of his daughter, Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, at 1100 Austin.

His five sons and daughter were present: Thomas H. Barwise and family, Electra; Frank H. Barwise and family, Iowa Park; Myron H. Barwise and wife of Wichita Falls; J. H. Barwise Jr., of Fort Worth, whose wife was unable to attend because of illness in the family of relatives at Glen Rose; Mrs. Carrigan and M. A. Barwise of Electra.

Grand children present included Seth Barwise of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Carter McGregor and family of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Carrigan; Mrs. Nina DeMere and son, Howard. Other relatives present were Mrs. Nannie Rowe, Judge Barwise's only Texas niece, and her two sons, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowe and family, and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowe and family.

Two little friends of "The Father of Wichita Falls," Betty Bay Lindsey and Leon Deaton Jr., neighbor children, who often come to talk to the aged man were present as were Grandma Young, 85, who is always one of the guests at the birthday dinner; Mrs. E. M. Maxwell and Mrs. Rob Spangle.

The day was a pleasant one, Judge Barwise said, and he expressed appreciation to his friends for their thoughtfulness.

WHITNEY WILL APPEAR HERE

Dramatic Recitalist to Speak Under Auspices Of Teachers

Edwin M. Whitney, America's foremost dramatic recitalist, will appear here at the Junior college auditorium, Thursday night, November 26, for a program under the auspices of the Wichita Falls Teachers association, it was announced yesterday by A. K. Presson, registrar of the college and president of the organization. This will be the first in a series of numbers to be put on by the local teachers association under the same plan which brought several first-class events here last year at rates far below the usual prices charged.

Known the country over for his work in dramatic presentation of noted plays and characterizations, Whitney hardly needs an introduction to the people of the city with its many literary and dramatic interests. The genius of Edwin M. Whitney consists in an unequalled ability to make great characters of literature live before his audience —to bring his hearers into a personal acquaintance, as it were, with the towering figures of modern drama. More than a mere reader or impersonator, he has dignified his art with an understanding realism which makes the character come home to the mind and feelings of even the popular audience.

Among his repertoire may be found such numbers as "The Tailor-Made Man," "Turn to the Right," "The Fortune Hunter," "In Walked Jimmie," "Adam and Eva," and other noted dramatic successes of the last few years.

THANKSGIVING 1927

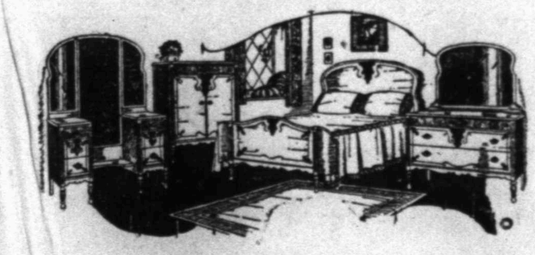

THANKSGIVING time ushers in the Holiday season—and with it comes a greater appreciation of the home and the strengthening of the family circle. Furniture makes the average home—creates an air of hospitality—makes the home a more enjoyable place to live in. Come in Monday and let us show you how you can improve your home with attractive furniture.

LIVING ROOM SUITES

We are showing a most attractive series of the newest designs in Living Room Furniture. Gorgeous over-stuffed suites—all well made and durable, that could grace any home. The prices, too, range from the most popular to the exclusive price. Compare our values.

FOR THE BEDROOM

No room needs good furniture more than the bed room. That is the reason that we go to so much care and attention in selecting our bed room suites. All the newest styles and color combinations—at prices that will surprise you by their reasonableness.

WHAT WILL YOUR FURNITURE INVESTMENT LOOK LIKE NEXT YEAR?

Furniture is an investment. The worth of the furniture investment depends entirely upon the service that is rendered by the furniture itself. Stop for a moment and think of this phase of furnishing your home or apartment.

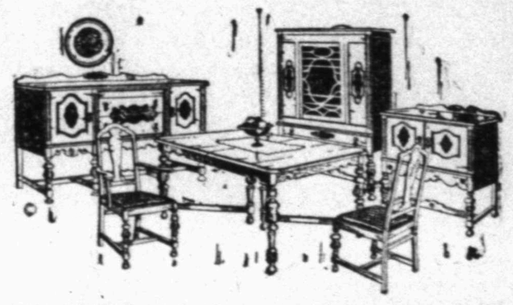

Everyone likes pretty furniture—likes an attractive home. Furniture, like an automobile, depreciates as it is used. Cheap furniture—that is cheap in price, cheap in construction, and short-lived, as well is the poorest investment that a man or woman can make. You cannot effect any material saving on furniture without paying for it later on.

There are all kinds of popular priced furniture. For years McConnell Brothers have specialized in the better class of home furnishings. Our buyers have always been more interested in knowing how a piece of furniture was made, who made it and how long it would last, than they have in finding cheaply made furniture to sell at a cheap price.

A comparison of prices of furniture will reveal a startling fact, however: That McConnell Brothers Furniture is no higher, and in some cases, is actually priced below, unknown and inferior made furniture.

We invariably preach the fact that a buyer of furniture should go out to find how good a piece or a suite he can buy for the price, rather than how cheap a piece or suite he can find, to simply occupy space in his home for a very short life. Every piece of furniture we sell has to measure up to McConnell standards of excellence. That's why McConnell Furniture looks as well a year after it's bought as it does on the show floor.

FOR THE DINING ROOM

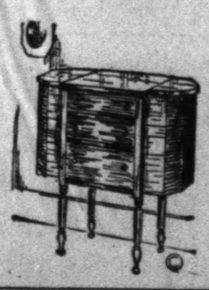

This being the holiday season, we are naturally featuring our Dining Room Suites. Small suites for the small home or apartment and massive suites for the big home. But small or large, the suites are priced at a figure that make them a good furniture investment for years to come. You'll save money on these suites here.

FOR THE WHOLE HOUSE

ENGLISH GIRLS' LEGS ARE UGLY

So Sayeth British Physician And Starts Himself Man-Sized "Row"

LONDON, Nov. 13.(AP)—English girls with a good pair of legs are quite unusual, according to Sir William Arbuthnot Lane, noted British physician, but the answer of several persons well qualified to speak is a decided "English girls' legs are not ugly."

"So many English girls nowadays are bow-legged or knock-kneed," Sir William says, attributing these physical defects to bad feeding in youth.

Girls Legs Improve.

"But," says Miss Heather Thatcher, musical comedy actress, whose own legs are the rage of London, "English girls' legs have improved vastly in the last 10 years.

"Awful skirts, ugly stockings and ill-fitted shoes were hardly conducive to shapely legs 10 years ago, but all these have change now," she says. "Besides short skirts have made nice legs imperative."

"Perhaps the New York girl has the nicest legs of all, but Miss England makes a good second," says another critic.

Legs Not Ugly.

BRILLIANCE IN SHAWLS

Shawls worn by the fashionable in New York parade, make a color array that is something for a chorus to vie with in brilliance. They not only are those imported from Spain with their heavy embroidery or other striking importations from China and Japan, but are made from gorgeous weaves in metal cloths or woven with designs in brilliants. Some of these shawls dazzle the eye with the play of light on their encrustments of crystal or metal designs.

HOUSE OF EARRINGS

At the London premiere of "The White Witch" almost every woman in the audience wore earrings. The craze for ear jewels apparently is increasing. A note of novelty was struck by one woman whose earrings consisted of small jade parrots in golden cages.

FAVORS SILVER GOWNS

Lady Louis Mountbatten has been dining at the Ritz, attired in beautiful silver gowns. She is planning to spend the winter at Malta where preparations are under way for the gayest, most brilliant social season in years.

TRIANGLE EVENING WRAP

An evening wrap so constructed that it created the silhouette of a huge triangle between the arms and knees has attracted fashion followers. It is made in rich chestnut-hued velvet, lined with golden lame tissue and bordered with beige fox fur. It is finished with a high "storm" collar and has long ends of golden lame ribbon hanging down the back.

NEW VANITY BRACELET

A new vanity bracelet for evening wear in place of the ordinary slave bangle has appeared in the drawing rooms of Mayfair. It is composed of four little flat, gold boxes, each about the size of a penny and attached to a Milanese gold chain. The boxes contain a supply of powder, rouge, and lipstick, the fourth containing a powder puff and mirror. The new mode does away with necessity for a Dorothy bag and can be easily slipped on and off.

PETAL SKIRT FROCK

England's nobility accepts its fashions from America as well as Paris. Lady Rosemary Bootle-Wilbraham, the young sister of the Earl of Lathom, appeared at the Embassy club dressed in an American petal-skirted frock of pink, open-work embroidery. The background was a black velvet cloak. Around her neck was a ring of square diamonds with a big pearl drop.

SLEEVELESS COATS

While a large number of the new English evening wraps are being made on the coat principle, with inset sleeves, some women prefer the sleeveless, cloak style of garment. English designers are trying hard to do away with the old sterotyped circular cape. A cape which is finished in a triangle is one of the results. It is made in velvet or fur.

MELTING POT IN SHOES

Styles in slippers seen about New York were never more varied. They are made from almost any material or leather—velvet in light shades, brocade, metal cloth, and reptile skins. The heels of evening slippers are works of art. Brilliants stud them or brilliant colored leather inserts add variety. Some of these gorgeous heels—they look as though they belonged in the window of a jewelry shop—cost as much as a gown.

Two Reasons Why Buyers 'Are Keepers

Very, very seldom is it necessary for us to repossess a home, out of the hundreds we have built and sold.

It's because we build the sort of homes that folks take pride in owning. It's because we arrange terms that fit the earning power of the purchasers.

2 CANDIDATES FOR BIG RING OF SHRINERS

George Holt and Abilene Man to Compete For Costly Gem

Two ring candidates for the fall Shrine ceremonial of Maskat Temple have already announced. They are Geo. Holt of the Holt hotel and Poe Greer of Abilene, according to information received at the recorder's office yesterday. Mr. Greer will be remembered by many Wichitans as a former resident of this city.

Holt

November 23 is the date set for the ceremonial which will be held at the Majestic theatre. Although several tentative dates have been announced, this was given officially.

The parade will start at 4 o'clock and go through the business section of the city; the first and third sections of the ceremonial will be held at 5 o'clock and the second section will be held at 7 o'clock. It will be followed by an informal dance for the nobility and their wives at the Country club at 9 o'clock. Director Sid Gaines is planning the best ceremonial yet held by Maskat Temple.

New Instruments To Make First Appearance In Shrine Concert

Introduction of the vibraphone, a new musical instrument, will be made in Wichita Falls November 16, at the Junior college when Virgil Whitworth, the "Wooden Piano Wizard," will play at the college as a special number in the band concert of the Maskat Temple band. As it happens, this vibraphone is the only one in Texas and only a few cities in the state have had the privilege of hearing it. It is Mr. Whitworth's first public appearance with the vibraphone.

From Wichita Falls Mr. Whitworth will go east to give a number of programs and will then go to New York to sail for Europe. He has already booked several engagements to play before royalty in Europe, it was announced this week.

He is well known to Wichitans as the xylophone artist who appeared in several Shrine concerts and programs. He also broadcasted from station KRC, Adolphus hotel, Dallas, where he was a favorite xylophone player.

Another feature of the evening will be the official presentation of the big drum to Maskat Temple band by D. O. Johnson, president of the organization, who is making the gift to the boys. The drum measures six feet in diameter and eight feet on its stand. It is one of the biggest drums in America, Boston and Chicago each having one the size of this.

REPENTANCE THEME

Hocker Preaches Friday Night At Nazarene Church

"Repentance," was the subject of Rev. R. M. Hocker's sermon Friday night at the Nazarene revival meeting on Fifth and Barnett. His topic for the Saturday night sermon will be "Almost, But Lost," it was announced last night.

There will be three services Sunday, time and subject as follows: 10:45 a. m., "Six Things God Has Promised to Do For Us;" 3:00, "Tithing;" 7:30 p. m., "And the Door Was Shut." Sunday school will be at 9:45.

Crowds are increasing nightly and much interest is being shown in the meetings that will be continued through the week ending Nov. 21, according to Rev. J. P. Ingle, pastor. Music is in charge of Professor Evans.

IRVINE'S LEAVE

Go to Dallas, San Antonio And Then for Hunt

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Irvine have gone to Dallas and San Antonio to spend the week at the Ice Manufacturer's annual convention. From there they will go to San Angelo to spend several days in deer hunting and fishing.

A SONG TELLS STORY

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Why Peaches Browning needs the $1,000 a week alimony she is seeking might be shown by the song, "You Made Me What I Am Today." Her lawyers say her husband taught her to appreciate limousines and Pate de Foie Gras instead of the subway and automats and the law says alimony must be sufficient to enable a wife to live in the style which she enjoyed with her husband.

LEAGUES TO HOLD BANQUET

Annual Session Will be Held Next Saturday At Church Here

The annual banquet of the second quarterly institute of the Wichita Falls District of Epworth leagues was held Saturday night at the First Methodist church, south, Miss Milton Price, toastmaster. Representatives from Epworth leagues throughout the district were present for the occasion and were welcomed to the city by C. C. Donaldson, president of the Ansil Lynn Epworth league. Responses were given by H. A. Dodson of Burkburnett and Bascom Crutchfield. Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was the principal speaker of the meeting.

To Have Sing-Song

Other numbers on the program included a sing-song led by George Taylor; solo, Mrs. Cordell, with Mrs. J. A. Akin, Jr., accompanist; "Yidish Yodels," H. W. Gray; "Ain't it Goin' Rain," Miss Rubytina Davis; impromptu numbers and announcements by Alton P. Jones of Burkburnett, district secretary.

The institute will continue through Sunday with Hon. John Erhard of Dallas bringing the chief address Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Mr. Erhard is in the district attorney's office at Dallas, and has been connected with college and university Y. M. C. A. work for a number of years.

The Program

The program is announced as follows: 9:30 a. m., general meeting of all leaguers in main auditorium; 11 a. m., sermon; 2:30 p. m., business meeting.

Officers of the institute are: J. W. Thorne, president, NTCEL; C. E. Donaldson, president of Ansil Lynn league; Roy Carter, banquet-manager; Miss Lucille Campbell, chairman registration; Mrs. M. P. Allbritton, chairman decoration; Mrs. Murrel Hooper, chairman home committee; Alton P. Jones, district secretary; Ira B. Lynn, assistant district secretary; H. A. Dodson, president Wichita district; Miss Mildred Ellis, vice-president; Miss Fannie Knauth, secretary.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Kiel and Nail Go to Atlanta Meeting

Dr. O. B. Keil and Dr. J. B. Nail of the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital have gone to Atlanta, Ga., to attend the Southern Medical association. From there they will go to Philadelphia, New York and Boston to do special clinic work and return here in about three weeks. Mrs. Kiel is visiting her parents in Sherman while Dr. Kiel is away, and Mrs. Nail and J. B. Jr. are in Austin visiting relatives.

MRS. KELM BACK

Mrs. T. F. Kelm has returned from Dallas where she attended the convention of the State Federation of Women's clubs; she was a delegate from the Standard club. She was met in Dallas by her daughter, Miss Sybil Hancock, who was a delegate from the Agiain Literary club of the College of Industrial Arts, Denton.

SHAW AWARD SCORED

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—There is some dissent among the literati over the award of the Nobel prize for literature to George Bernard Shaw. "I don't approve of it," says Brander Matthews, dean of critics. Rebecca West regards it as absurd that the prize has never been given to Thomas Hardy.

FEATHERSTONE LEAVE

R. F. Finance Executive Goes To Chicago Meeting.

Solon R Featherston, vice-president and treasurer of the R-F Finance corporation, left Saturday for Chicago to attend the third national automotive financing conference at the Palmer house, Chicago, to be held November 15-16. Mr. Featherston will be joined at Whitesboro by Cleaves Rhea, president of the Rhea Mortgage company, who will go with him to Chicago.

The program will include a talk on the actual facts of installment buying and its influence upon the financial stability of the American people. Speakers will include Milan V. Ayres, Harry A. Wheeler and others.

Mr. Featherston said he expected to enjoy the trip and especially so since Queen Marie of Rumania will be entertained at a social function at the Palmer house while the conference is in session.

DRIVE TO CISCO

Mendenhall to Show T-O Fair Picture Here

Mrs. T. W. Mendehall and son, Geron, accompanied by Francis Nicholson drove to Cisco to spend the week end with friends and relatives. While in Cisco Mr. Nicholson will make arrangements to show his picture that was made during the T-O fair, "So's Your Old Man."

TO PRESENT PLAY

A little one-act play, "The Dream Girl Awakens," written and directed by Mrs. Fay M. Yauger, will be presented during the opening exercises of the Alathean and Bethany Sunday school classes of the First Baptist church Sunday morning. The cast is composed of girls in Mrs. Baber's class in the intermediate department.

MAKE FRANCE PAY, SHE SAYS

Irene Davidson Asserts That French Should Be Held To Accountability

"It would be a crime to take away the post-war debt from France and the United States should collect on the easy terms this country has arranged for," Miss Irene Davidson, newspaper woman who has recently returned from a year's study in France, told members of the University club Saturday at the Kemp when she gave a talk on her mipressions of Europe. "A year's study of the war debt and France has made me feel that nations are very much like people and you cannot help them much by giving them money and taking away their responsibility.

"The French feel that America has the money and why should they pay us since they are poor. They cannot get the idea but that every one is rich," she said and told of seeing more beggars in New York City than in any place in France.

Are Doing Well.

"The French people are doing well and if they have any sense of responsibility which the Americans have largely taken away, they should pay the debt. It would be a crime for America to cancel it. France should get down to work.

"France is not a tax paying country and has not been since the time of Louis XV. Americans pay their taxes to the government. The French are an easy going, freedom loving people who live much among themselves and don't wish to give up anything they make. The French did not think much about the debt until England started her propaganda.

"The French women are not the dainty, well dressed persons we hear about. They are noticeable for their bad complexions, sallow and with a nervous, strained look about the face." As a reason for this, Miss Davidson expressed an opinion that sallow complexions are a result of drinking so much wine which is used in place of water. Wine drinking is begun when a child is scarcely more than a year old."

Talks on Customs.

Speaking of customs in France, including table manners, the French have a habit of eating close to their plates, and eating is a business with them, Miss Davidson said.

L. E. Dickerson had charge of the current events for the meeting; music was furnished by Clyde Brewer who played two violin numbers with piano accompaniment by Miss Jessie Mae Lawler. Mrs. J. S. Pitman, in charge of the program, sang "The Old Refrain," as a welcome to Miss Davidson. She was accompanied at the piano by Mr. Pitman.

—I AND GEORGE—

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

As Senor Castile, the great Spanish soft-soap manufacturer used to say, "The woman pays and pays, but not when it comes to football tickets!"

And how terrible true that is comes over me a couple of weeks ago when George—that's my husband—commenced threatening to take me to the great annual football game between Upenattem, which is his college where he got very fond of a girl named Alma Mater, or at least he is always talking about dear old Alma Mater; well anyways, the game was to be between Upenattem and Chattenwalker, its great rival.

It seems there two universities get together every year and I don't mean maybe. After they have been out on the gridiron for three minutes, them two colleges get together so thick it is practically impossible to separate them. Just why they call the place they play on a gridiron is more then I can understand. They ought to call it a frying-pan, for the boys get scrambled, not broiled. Believe you me, there is no broiling at them games on the part of anybody, it is too darned cold.

Crazy Over Football

Well, for a good many annums now I have gone with Geo. to see his team take the count, and at first, in those past days when all I had was the engagement ring, why naturally I used to kid him along that I was just crazy over football. You see, I was figuring on that plain ring which is so much more prized by we ladies than the engagement one, in spite of the fact that in most cases there are no diamonds in it. Ot any rate I used to let Geo. think I was just crazy over football. But now that I not only have my plain ring, but it has worn kind of thin, why I simply let him know I am crazy over football—crazy at the thought of having to go.

But with George, as with lots of standardized husbands—and what husband isn't—well he wants to go himself, see, and so he works himself up into a state where he actually believes I want to, also, terribly, and that justifies him in his own mind for spending all that money on tickets. So for yrs. and yrs. I have grinned and gone and made out that I liked it with a good deal more grace then he ever showed when accompanying me to a Ibsen play.

But this year when he began his for the big game, I decided I was threats of getting a pair of seats tired of big game hunting, and so I changed the subjects to the burglars and hold-up men that the neighborhood and evening papers was full of.

TheeOne-Track Mind

I must put in my application for sets, he says, they are going to be terrible hard to get this year, he says, point you for the world.

And I says uh huh! I see the Joe Bushes' house was robbed last night, the crooks took all her pickled tripe, her fur coat, the piano, and left them hideous vases she got for a wedding present my, my, ain't that hard luck?

And Geo. says uhu! I hope I can get good seats this year, by Jingoes, they are not supposed to be sold to any except college members, but somehow or another they always are, I don't know who let's 'em leak out, but they are as scarce this year as fishes' shoes. I understand the prices will be pretty high, but I don't want to disappoint you, sweetheart, I know how much you want to go, I will try my darndest to get decent seats.

I says oh don't bother on my account, dear, let's just forget it this year, listen, don't you think we ought to take out some burglar insurance, the crime wave around here seems like a permanent wave as far as I can see. But Geo. merely says yes dear, I will get those tickets tomorrow without fail.

Geo. Speaks for Hiniself

This was evidently one of them rare times when George actually did regard me as his second helf, because he was certainly speaking for himself all right, all right! It looked like I would have to put up a box lunch on the fatal day after all. Then I would also have to do some 5 p. m. subway calisthenics on the Football Special train to Upenattem, take a firm stand in a trolley to the field, and then warm a spot on the cold but not in the one sense unfeeling concrete of the Stadium for a coupla three hours. As far as I was concerned, it might better of been called the Tedium.

Then home to gargle, and so to bed at the ned of a day which might be called perfect by some, but which to me was perfect only in the sense that a real emerald is perfect, in other words distinctly green and with flaws in it.

Well, the first day Geo. went on this football ticket hunt of his he come home very despondent. Dogone, he says, I don't believe I'll be able to get seats after all, he says, they are all gone. I couldn't find a soul who would spare one, he says, and the only comfort I have is that my boss is in the same fix, he was at the club this afternoon, and he couldn't get a seat, not even one, he said he'd give anything for one and I hear they are getting fearful prices, as high as two hundred dollars. Gee, this is gonner be a good game, I sure don't want to miss it!

Geo. Has Bad Hunting

At this I give three silent cheers, but aloud I says well, that's too bad, dear, I feel dreadfully about it, honest, but maybe you will have better luck tomorrow. I felt sorry for the poor feller, even if he was my husband, if you know what I mean. He had that hunted, haggard, weary look of despair which is peculiar to men who want football-tickets badly and can't get 'em what with the dear old university about to go to the bat, or the pigskin as the season may be. I don't know of anything will wear a man down worse, except maybe World Series baseball seats of the verge of bankruptcy.

But I was right about Geo. having maybe better luck next day, for sure enough, he comeh ome on the five-fifteen with a smile that shone like a dental cream ad. He had two tickets for the game. Two right in the cheering section. And all it had cost him was a hard struggle, a month's salary, his watch and his cuff-links. His pockets were turned inside out, but his soul was satisfied.

By the humor he was in anybody would of thought somebody had just given him Wall Street tied up with a baby-blue ribbon. We'll, he says, I got 'em all right, here they are, Jennie, now let's put 'em away careful, so's to be sure and not lose 'em, my dear! And I says sorrowfully, well, now, isn't that just dandy?

Consoling the Bush Family

Now, don't go carrying them them around in your wallet, I says, sue as you do that will be the time you will lose it, now let me hide them away for you—lemme see . . . . I know! Put them in the little bureau drawer under my diamond ring and grandma's earrings and then put the handkerchief case back on top of the lot! So Geo. done like I said and we got dressed and after dinner I and he and Junior went over to the Joe Bushes' a little while, you know, Joe Bush of the Hawthorne Club, where they had been robbed a few days before.

Naturally we wanted to run over and hear all the details of the robbing and tell them what boobs they was not to of prevented it and how if it had been us, why nothing of the sort would of happened. We said it in polite conversation and the most friendly way in the world, beside doing so for their own good in the future and not for any mean personal satisfaction. But they got it just the same.

After we got through talking about that, why Geo. bragged to Joe about the dandy seats he had for the big game, and it seemed Joe hadn't been able to get any, try as he might. So we had a real pleasant evening, but had to cut it short on account of having Junior with us and it was away past his bed-time.

Burglars Find Them Out

Well, when he got home, the minute we opened the door it was easy to see that short a time as we had been out we was out more than the time, for a burglar had certainly been in. The place was a regular mess. The sideboard was open, the closets picked to pieces, the desk unlocked with the papers lying all scattered around. Even my hat boxes and Junior's toy dittos had been opened and contents noted. While as for the way the bureau drawers had been treated, it was nobody's business!

Of course I give the conventional yell, and made a running broad-jump for the small bureau drawer, my diamond ring, and grandma's earrings. And when I looked under the handkerchief case I pretty near fainted on account they still there. I was so stunned that it was a couple or three minute before I realized that the football tickets were gone!

That was the horrid truth. Them precious, valuable, rare speciments of pasteboard were missing. And what is even still less peculiar and strange, they were the only things which had been stolen from the entire house. When we came to check up, there wasn't another thing had actually been taken.

The Blow Falls

Before this, when Geo. had thought he wasn't gonner be able to get seats for the big game he was wild enough for now he went absolutely nuts. Hot Bozo For once I was glad he was bald, because if he hadn't been, to start with, he would of been before he got through. He danced and hollered, and the swear-words he used, why honest, I don't believe our dear little Junior could of brought home anything worse from school! Then he decided he would call up the police dept. at once and try to get the thief arrested, but I objected to that. No, dear, I says, if the P. D. wants to send up a couple cops to help tidy up the house, I am perfectly agreeable to that, but don't ask them to try and catch the thief or make any arrests.

Geo. says for the luvva tripe, why not? And I says because, dear a theft like that, why it is so peculiar it is almost certain to of been done by a personal friend, and think how embarrassing that would be! And Geo. says personal friend my eye, think how embarrassing it will be for me not to go to that game, especially after having told Joe Bush I was going, not to mention the fellers in the office. But although he put up a big holler he give in to me at last, and he didn't call the cops at all except pet names.

The next day he went to work like a tornado on its way to Florida, and I though to myself, oh my land here I don't half to go to that old football game, but what I will haf to endure for the next few weeks because of the loss of them tickets will be even worse.

The Sun Shines Again

So when that evening Geo. come home all smiling and as near whistling a tune as he was physically able, I certainly was surprised. He gave me a big kiss and says, say, Jennie, guess what? And being a pretty good mind-reader after all these years of married life, I says well what, don't tell me you have got tickets for the big game all over again? And he says yep! The very same tickets too!

Whatter you know, he says, I was on my way from the bank this afternoon with the company's pay-roll, when who would stop me on a quiet street only a strange young man. And he says to me, say, do you want to buy two tickets for the Chatterwalker-Upenattem football game? And I says I sure do! And with that he pulled out my pair of seats and I paid for 'em and we went along, tickled to death.

But George Jules! I says, how much money did it take? Well, he says, bashful, it took the entire pay-roll, but seats are awful hard to get this year! And I scrempt a scream. But George, I says, what will your boss says when he finds out about the pay-roll? And Geo. says, oh, he knows already and it's all right, with him, he thinks it was a piece of luck to get seats at any price, I am not worrying about him, I'm worrying about you, you see I had to invite the boss to use your ticket in order to keep square with him—will you be terrible disappointed not to go? And I says, well dear, I feel awful, but I will forgive you this time, I want you to stand in well with the boss and I wouldn't deprive him of that seat for the world.

And I did feel awful—awful relieved!

Look at Child's Tongue if Sick, Cross, Feverish

Give "California Fig Syrup" at once if bilious or constipated

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomachache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless, "fruity laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

Citation by Publication
THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon D. C. Carpenter by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day thereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the 1st Monday in December A. D. 1926, the same being the 6th day of December A. D. 1926. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 16th day of September A. D. 1926, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 18896-B wherein Jno. F. Weyand is plaintiff and D. C. Carpenter is defendant and said petition alleging that heretofore on the 24th day of April 1917, Edgar E. Harding and Lena Harding executed and delivered to A. J. Ilseng, W. L. Mann and N. A. Dodge an oil and gas lease on the following described lands towit: The south 28 acres of the north 56 acres of two 100-acre tracts out of the Oscar Farrish survey in Wichita county, Texas, which said 200-acre tract or tracts are described by metes and bounds as follows: Beginning at a point in the E. B. line of said Oscar Farrish survey 332.8 vrs north from the southeast corner of said survey, thence north with the said E. B. line 1176.5 vrs to southeast corner of O. L. Clark 60-acre tract thence west with the S. B. line of the said O. L. Clark 60-acre tract 959.6 vrs to a stake for corner thence south on a line parallel with the E. B. line of said Farrish survey 1176.5 vrs to a stake for corner thence east 959.6 vrs to the place of beginning. That plaintiff is the owner of said leasehold estate and the defendant claims some kind of an interest in and to same as is shown by his assignment recorded in the deed records of Wichita county, Texas, in Vol. 185, page 354. That the defendant failed and refused to perform his part of said assignment contract; that same is a cloud on plaintiffs title. Plaintiff prays the court for cancellation of said assignment and for the removal of the cloud from his title.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 16 day of September A. D. 1926.

(Seal)

Oklahoma Aggies Lead Valley Field

Farmers Beat Grinnell, 10 To 0 While Kansas Aggs Lose

LEWIS FIELD, STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 13.(AP)— Through their own brilliant effort in repulsing the Grinnell Pioneers, 10 to 0, here today, and aided by the Nebraska Cornhuskers' victory at Lincoln over the previously undefeated Kansas Aggies, Oklahoma A. and M. tonight was on the top rung of the Missouri valley football ladder, the only eleven with an unblemished record.

Trimuph for the Aggies was a tasty morsel for the Orange and Black rooters, who this week had clamored for the Maulbetsch men to avenge a loss to Grinnell college last fall when on homecoming day here, the Iowans won 28 to 0.

Only one more hurdle remains for the Aggies in their course toward the Missouri valley gridiron championship. Oklahoma university is billed to play them in Stillwater Thanksgiving day, which will be a lumini homecoming time. Defeat by the Sooners, however, would not more than knock the Aggies into the group of contenders nursing one defeat each.

After a scoreless first half in which each team tried to get the lead by a field goal the home eleven broke the tie when Strack, giant tackle of the Aggies kicked a placement from the 35-yard line in the third quarter. A touchdown in the fourth period on a 12-yard pass, Peery to McLean put the Aggies in a commanding lead. Banford, substitute halfback kicked goal.

The touchdown resulted after Henderson, an A. and M. tackle had blocked a punt by Meeter, Grinnell half, and Shelby who had entered the game late had fallen on the ball on the 13-yard line.

Iron Men Plug Harvard, 21-0

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 13. (AP)—Clearly outplayed and outfought in every department of the game, Harvard went down in a stinging 21-0 defeat in the stadium this afternoon at the hands of Brown's "iron man" football team and a flood of subs injected by Coach Tuss McLaughrey in the closing minutes of play.

Brown scored her three touchdowns in the first, second and final periods after sustained marches of 65, 60 and 70 yards. Two of the scores came on forward passes while a cleverly executed aerial game played a leading part in all three goalward parades.

The Crimson admittedly entered the game with a lineup weakened by Princeton game injuries but the brand of running, passing and defensive football displayed by the Providence outfit would have downed a far better Harvard team.

Lubbock Beats Plainview, 23-0

Lubbock High school earned the right to meet Amarillo's Sandies for the west half title by beating Plainview with the decisive score of 23-0 yesterday. Lubbock and Amarillo will play at Plainview next Saturday, according to the arrangement agreed to by representatives of the three schools involved in the west half play-off in their meeting of last Monday. The winner of this game is then to play Wichita Falls for the title some time during Thanksgiving week.

Navy Passes Way To 10-7 Victory

Georgetown Threatens Six Times But Is Turned Back

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13. (AP) Forward passing the Navy's strongest offensive method, again proved successful today when the Middies outwitted a heavy Georgetown team to win, 10 to 7, in the last quarter.

The final period punch, which aided the Midshipmen in defeating Purdue, Princeton and Colgate, was apparent again as Navy marched almost the length of the field to turn the tide to victory.

Six Georgetown offensives pressed deep into Navy territory only to be turned back. The Hilltoppers only once were able to pass the Navy 20-yard mark.

Navy started a team largely made up of regulars, but, taking no chances with the Army-Navy service classic impending, it threw in substitutes often.

The first half was a succession of punts. As the second quarter waned Waite, Georgetown end, blocked Hamilton's punt on the Navy 20-yard line. Nork carried the ball around Navy's right end for the first score. O'Neil drop-kicked the principal.

Navy tied the score in the third period when Shapley, who replaced Hennegan, intercepted a forward pass and on the next play fought his way through a frenzied Georgetown line to the goal. Hamilton's toe added the point.

In the last quarter, after runs by Ransford and two forward passes, Hamilton to Hardwick and Lloyd, Hamilton shot a placement across the bar for the winning three points.

Queen Marie

"We don't mind this woman coming here to sell off her daughter to one of our dollar princes if she wants to, or even peddling Rumanian oil wells to Wall street," said Klein, "but by the shades of Jefferson and Franklin, let's not make blithering asses of ourselves and forget this is a republic. There is no more left of the old America and the way everybody bows to this queen proves it."

But Lost In Mob

In a mild, pleasant voice, President Howe then moved to send a delegation to greet their "sister" Marie and the 'boes' carried it with unanimous approval. The committee went to the queen's train but were lost in the mob.

"Speed" Murphy, for 27 years a tramp, was about to put on a vaudeville stunt when the 'boes' suddeny decided to pass the resolution.

"I trust Comrade Murphy will pardon the interruption," said the polite Mr. Howe.

"Oh, he's so migratory he's got broad minded," declared the chairman. 'Speed' don't mind."

And "Speed" didn't. He leaned nonchalantly against the piano, his frayed derby tipped over one eye, and when the business was out of the way he launched into "Mother Machree" in a clear tenor.

Aroma of Hot Coffee

With aroma of hot coffee coming up stairs and promise of refreshments later on the 'boes' were enjoying themselves immensely. About 50 delegates assembled from all parts of the country, some arriving late because of bad freight connections. The 'boes' are late risers. Sessions seldom opened before 10.

The first day of the convention, they tried discussing international peace but the delegates began drifting out after an hour of it to rustle mulligan. They came back, however, and the succeeding days of the convention disclosed some keen philosophy and droll satire.

MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 13 (AP) Wild Bill Kelly led the University of Montana eleven to a 56 to 7 victory over Whitman college here today. The fleet quarterback made four touchdowns during the game.

END OF YEAR LULL HOLDS GRIP ON DISTRICT

WILDCATS ARE ATTRACTION OF A QUIET WEEK

BY TOM TRULY.

The end of the year lull which has held sway over the Wichita Falls oil district for the past several weeks was in evidence again during the past seven-day period. New drilling was on a par with the previous two weeks but did not approach the brisk activity of the early fall. This let-up is attributed to the condition of the crude market and the usual November and December clean-up.

Attention was divided among several wildcat tests which would have opened up considerable new productive territory had they panned out as it was hoped. One of these, Jesse Lincoln's No. 1 Hudson, first disappointed and then caused a small flurry of excitement. The disappointment came when it missed the usual pay of the Hudson pool in section 30 of the Harris subdivision but it came into prominence when it drilled into a sand at 1,370 feet. At last account the well was making 20 barrels of oil and 150 barrels of salt water which is being plugged. The 1,370 foot sand is believed to be the same structure from which the Flowers pool, two miles southwest, produces and many dry holes in the vicinity will likely be deepened to the new level.

Shallow Extension.

The Panhandle Refining company, completing its fifth semi-wildcat producer in the shallow pool of the northeast Young and southeast Archer county, is extending the proven area in the Prideaux pool approximately one and one-half miles to the northeast. The well is No. 1 Farmer in the tiny Taylor Rose survey. It covered the slush pit with oil from a sand at 786 feet which has just been touched.

Turbeville As Usual.

The Turbeville pool in Archer county was the scene of the usual number of good completions. The Marland Oil company completed its No. 12 which is swabbing 400 barrels daily from sand at 1,506-18 feet. Texas company's No. 14 was another 400 barreler from a depth of 1,498-1,523 feet.

Notwithstanding that the pipeline runs of Montague county reached a new peak, there were no unusual developments reported from there. All of the new production is coming from proven territory.

Rumors of a large sale were all that Cooke county contributed to oil gossip. The sale has been denied in every quarter, however, and only time will tell whether the rumors were just rumors or were reports based on fact.

Pipeline runs showed a decline for the week, losses in Wichita and Archer counties more than overcoming gains in Montague county and other sections.

News of The Fields

MOORE AND M'VELIA ABANDON DRY HOLE.

Moore and McVelia are moving off their No. 1 Abercrombie in block 15, Harris club ranch subdivision of Archer county, the well being nonproductive at a total depth of 1,436 feet.

CLARK AND BALDRIDGE ENTER JONES COUNTY.

Clark, Baldridge and Harbin of Wichita Falls have entered the Jones county wildcat play and are putting down a test in southwest Jones county on the John Wheeler farm. It was last reported drilling at 375 feet.

GATES et al, PACE.

Gates and O'Donohoe have an estimated 10 barrel well in their No. 1 Pace in section 113, Harris club ranch subdivision of Archer county. The well is producing from sand at 1,212-26 feet.

RAINER-BAILEY, PARKEY.

Rainer and Bailey have spudded in their No. 2 Parkey, 150 feet south and west of the northeast corner of the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 1, S. P. R. R survey, abstract 423, in north Archer county. No. 1 on the same lease which was recently completed is making 20 barrels a day from sand at 1,590-91 1-2 feet.

SMITH MONTAGUE.

E. L. Smith has staked out a location for an oil test 10 miles south of Saint Jo in Montague county and in the center of the southwest quarter of the R. H. Halls survey.

JONES- EUBANKS, COOKE.

Jones and Eubanks have a location for a test 150 feet each way from the northeast corner of the west 140 acres of the W. C. Winters survey, abstract 1,101, in northern Cooke county.

GULF, HOWARD.

Gulf Production company has made location for its No. 7 Howard in the Nocona field of Montague county, being 450 feet north and 150 feet east of the southwest corner of the Howard 68 acres in the Votaw survey.

GWYNN, WILSON.

P. F. Gwynn and others have made location to drill a test on the L. F. Wilson lands, 450 feet south and 150 feet west of the northeast corner of the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of the Wm. Horrits survey, Archer county, abstract 646.

REITER-FOSTER, ELLIOT.

Reiter-Foster Oil company is testing a saturated lime at 1,419 feet in its No. 2 Elliott, located in section 974 of the Premium survey of southeast Throckmorton county. The hole is standing with 400 feet of oil and looks like a producer.

CAMP WILSON.

Camp Oil and Gas company is drilling at 1,100 feet in No. 1 L. F. Wilson, located in the southwest part of section 111 of the A. T. N. C. L. survey in Archer county.

Montague Oil Production Goes To 10,000 Barrel Mark For First Time

Montague county topped the 10,000 barrel mark in daily pipeline runs during the past week for the first time in its history as an oil producing county. Montague scored a gain of 750 barrels to attain the new peak which is 10,680 barrels. The numerous wells brought in by the Continental, Gulf, Texas, Pure and other companies in the proven area of the Nocona field are responsible for the big output. Wilbarger county came back with another substantial gain last week, while Jack county almost doubled its output of the previous week with a new figure of 410 barrels daily. Throckmorton and Cooke counties also showed increases. The district as a whole produced less oil than in the previous week due to losses made by Archer county, Electra, Burkburnett and other sections.

Daily runs by fields follow:

Field	Last Week	Prev. Week
Electra	17,265	17,500
Burkburnett	11,235	11,650
Iowa Park	4,580	4,700
Archer Co.	83,235	84,775
Clay Co.	745	745
Wilbarger Co.	13,960	13,875

America Produces and Consumes More Oil Than Any

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 13.—The United States is now supplying over 70 per cent of the world's crude oil production. Since 1857 this country has supplied 64 per cent of the world's total output, as revealed by the following recent figures:

World production, 13,467,493,000 barrels; United States production 8,669,928,000 barrels. This country, however, accounts for the bulk of the world's consumption. With an oil-fueled navy, a 64 per cent oil burning merchant marine and 20,000,000 motor cars the United States is more dependent upon oil than any other country.

KAN. AND OKLA. IN BUSY WEEK

Over-Production Hae Little Effect On Drilling Activity

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 13.—An apparent over-production of oil in the Seminole field of central Oklahoma, does not seem to slow up new field work and first reports for the week just ended discloses 136 new wells starting in Oklahoma.

Seminole county continues to hog the attention and claims 27 of the new tests. Okmulgee, where an area of deeper drilling is under way, was second with 16; Creek county, third with 14, and Osage county, fourth with 11.

Stephens county in Southern Oklahoma was next with nine, and Grady and Carter, both in that district, tied with seven for sixth place.

Muskogee and Tulsa, both in the old Eastern Oklahoma area tied with four each; Garfield, Hughes, Pawnee and Waggoner each reported three new tests; Okfuskee, and Payne, each had two, while the Oklahoma Panhandle had two, one in Cimmaron and another in Texas. Other counties with but one new test were Kay, Marshal, Pontotoc, and Pottawatomie.

Kansas Reports

There were 34 "first reports" the past week from nine counties of Kansas.

Greenwood county just did lead with seven new tests, and Butler and Cowley crowded it fast with six each. Elk and Sumner were next with five each; McPherson had two, and Marion and Rice and Woodson, one each.

New production in Oklahoma and Kansas the past week approximated 40,000 barrels from 83 producing wells. Fifty-nine of these weer in the Sooner state and had an initial output of 33,410 barrels, and seven gassers made 115,500,000 cubic feet of gas initial.

Kansas fields had 24 producers, which did 6,457 barrels a day initial.

Failures in the two states totalled 63, with 44 in Oklahoma and 19 in Kansas.

CRUDE HIKE

Humble Raises Spindletop Prices 15 Cents.

The demand for Spindletop crude as produced in that old field on the Texas gulf coast has caused the Humble Oil and Refining company to advance prices there 15 cents a barrel. Its new schedule follows: Grade "A," $1.40. Grade "B," $1.40 to $1.95 with a 5 cent differential.

The Gulf Oil company met the Humble's advance there.

Third Month of Field Starts With Ten Wells Drilling

ABILENE, Nov. 13.—Monday marked the end of the second month since the Joe Winters No. 1 was brought in by the Phillips Petroleum company for an initial production of 1,000 barrels daily.

Although no other producers have been brought in since that time, it is confidently believed by those wro are in close touch with the activities that a large oil pool exists in the territory surrounding the discovery which brought Jones county out of the "condemned" class.

One well is practically down to the level of the Winters production and will be completed as soon as preparations for drilling in are finished. It is Midwest exploration company's No. 1 Ira Thornton which has run pipe to 2,460 feet.

Another test was added to those closely surrounding the discovery when the Marland Oil company's No. 2 J. C. Mason, southwest offset, was spudded in Tuesday.

Atlantic Oil Producing company No. 1 J. R. Howell, drilling at 1,055 feet.

Phillips No. 2 Joe Winters, 150 feet deep.

Marland Oil company No. 2 J. C. Mason, spudding.

Marland Oil company No. 3 J. C. Mason, rigging up rotary.

NEW MEXICO BUSY

Eastern Part of State Has 38 Drilling Wells.

Eastern New Mexico is becoming a very busy area, a scout survey for 13 counties disclosing 67 drilling operations. The report covers Chaves, Colfax, Curry, DeBaca, Eddy, Guadalupe, Lea, Quay, Roosevelt, San Miguel, Socorro, Torrance and Union counties. For the first week of November there were four new locations staked; 38 wells actually drilling, and 25 tests shut down.

Chaves has 8; Curry 2; DeBaca 3; Eddy 26; Guadalupe 1; Lea 16; Quay 1; Roosevelt 1; San Miguel 1 Socorro 3; Torrance 1, and Union 1.

WELL IGNITED BY CHARCOAL

Houston Oil Field Threatened by Two-Hour Gas Blaze

HOUSTON, Nov. 13.(AP)—An early morning fire due to a gas blow-out in a well being drilled at Pierce Junction, Houston's back yard oil field, four miles south of the city limits, was extinguished with comparatively little loss, Saturday.

The drilling crew on Bashara number two, Higgins was grinding away when the bit struck a gas pocket. A charcoal brazier was on the derrick floor to take the frost out of the air. The drill bit dropped into a gas pocket.

The gas "kick" hoisted the mud and fluid and permitted the gas to flow out of the top of the casing. It quickly ignited from the brazier and burned for two hours.

The crew fled but later returned and extinguished the fire. The derrick was charred, but no great damage done.

BY R. O. JONAS
Record News Staff

John Tarleton Agricultural college of Stephenville will be the objective of a week of hard training beginning Monday in the camp of the Junior College Indians. The Plowboys are expected to give the light Maroon and Gold squad its severest test Friday at Stephenville as the Plowboys have unquestionably been the class of the junior colleges in the western half of the state for a number of years.

At first reported to have a weaker team than last year, the Plowboys have made such report sound unfounded in their recent scores. The Plowboys have another heavy team, heavy and rangy enough to do credit to many a senior college eleven in the state conferences, and a team that in experience and football skill can match the best in its class. While comparative scores do not always speak in decisive tones, they do tell a strong story. Earlier in the season the Plowboys won over Hillsboro Junior college by but two touchdowns, 12-0. Since North Texas Agriculture college had beaten the same team 43-0, many observers thought that the Junior college of Wichita Falls stood a good chance to win. But recent performances do not favor such a belief in any manner.

Comparative Scores

A good comparative test for dopesters is furnished in McMurray's games. McMurry this year has a team of high caliber for a small institution. Randolph, now being called the "Centre College of Texas" for its ambihtious grid feats this year, defeated McMurry 27-6 two weeks ago. Tarleton won over the Indians of McMurry Armistice Day by almost the identical score, 25-7. That score would put the Plowboys on a par with Randolph. Randolph's powerful Badgers held Phillips university to a 13-3 score, holding a 3-0 count in Randolph's favor the first half, and defeated N. T. A. C. 29-0, while the Junior Aggies won 19-0 two weeks ago. Randolph in an early season game won over the Wichita Falls eleven 54-0 for an overwhelming verdict. So on the basis of both the Randolph-Junior Aggie and the Randolph-McMurry-Tarleton scores, the Wichita Falls team would have no chance whatsoever, in fact would be destined to be about a 50-0 victim of the Tarleton juggernaut this week.

Tribe Seeks Revenge

That's not a happy thought to contemplate, especially for the Indian team. But the Indians do not lose much sleep over that array of dope. They are determined to fight their hardest in that battle to get vengence for last year's merciless trouncing of 55-0 when in the first half it seemed that the Indians might even win. The plucky little Indian eleven last year was not feared much in the conference when it journeyed to Stephenville, but it put up the type of battle that threw a scare into the confident Plowboy ranks when the light and young Wichita Falls team held the Farmers scoreless most of the first half, made more first downs against the Farmers than any other team had done during the whole season, and even came within a mere margin of scoring first. It was only in the second half when the Indians, who had no reserves to call on, were completely played out combating the heavy Aggies, fed by a constant stream of fresh and capable reserves, that Tarleton was able to get through. Four touchdowns came from intercepted passes where Indian defensives had no chance to stop the ball, and the score shot sky high at the last.

Fighting Spirit

This year the Indians have a team that is even lighter and possibly less experienced than last year's, but this year's eleven has the reputation of having even a greater fighting spirit than the conference pioneers of '25. It is on that fighting capacity where the hopes of the Indians in both the Tarleton and Decatur bouts rest. the Indians going into both contests heavy favorites to come out with the small end of the scores. This year's Indian line has shown a remarkable power for its weight and inexperience, the Randolph team being thus far the only one to have any luck through the Tribe forward wall. Rarely has any team been able to make more than the merest few first downs on line plays against the Indians. The Indian backfield, however, does not nearly measure up to the capable and more experienced group of ball-toters who cavorted in the Indian secondary group of '25. Stephenson is the only man in the Indian backfield with any experience to tell about and he can not be counted on to match an entire backfield of balanced material as the Plowboys boast. Rugeley's experience should help much in the new arrangement but will still leave the Tribe far short of their opponents' power. Only the most remarkable fighting game will make the result happy for the Indians, but they are determined that just that fight will be forthcoming next Friday at Stephenville.

DUTCH IN BAD WAY

Amarillo's Monkey-Man too Crippled to Do Any Grappling

The irrepressible Dutch Mantell, gloriously liked and disliked by conflicting detachments of Wichita Falls wrestling fans, is said to be in a pretty bad way physically up in Amarillo at present. Dutch, because of injuries received in the match here with Yaqui Joe and a later encounter with Joe Kopecky, is said to be in such poor condition that he has taken a six-week lay-off from the ring. Meanwhile, regardless of his injuries, Dutch gets the razz in Amarillo for not meeting all-comers as per usual.

OKLAHOA AGGIES WIN

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 13. (AP)—The Oklahoma Aggies today added one more victory to their unmarred Missouri Valley conference record at the expense of Grinnell Pioneers who had not been defeated in the valley this season. The score was 10 to 0.

"I'll Win Pennant," Declares George Moriarty

"A Successful Ball Club Cannot Be Defined—Connie Mack With One Policy and McGraw With Another, Both Won Pennants," Says New Manager of Detroit Tigers

BY GEORGE MORIARTY.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn:. Nov. 13.—I have been requested by the sporting editor of the Editors' Feature Service to say something regarding my appointment as manager of the Detroit ball club.

Needless to state that I like the managerial idea very much. Nevertheless, it may surprise you to know that I have enjoyed the umpire's job immensely, notwithstanding the prose and poetry that have depicted it as a thankless and thorny undertaking. The first three years of umpiring were very difficult, but after that it was easy enough. I feel that I have seen the game from an entirely different angle.

One of my regrets about the profession is the fact that very little of the true phase of umpiring is understood by the general baseball public. There is, however, one man who thoroughly understands the umpire's task. The integrity and upbuilding of the sport has been his life's work. I pay tribute to Ban Johnson, president of the American league.

To have worked for him will always be one of my finest experiences. Yet, in severing connections with him, to work for Mr. Navin, I feel that I am leaving one excellent sportsman to be associated with another.

Mr. Navin has made every possible sacrifice to give the best in baseball to the Detroit public. Without making any prophecies, it will be a pleasure for me to put forth every effort to deliver with the rest of the Tigers.

Detroit has grown steadily from an ordinary baseball city till it now ranks with New York and Chicago in this respect. Aggressiveness is a tradition in Detroit baseball annals.

In regard to the team, I want to say that it looks mighty good. It has some fine outstanding talent in offensive and defensive play, and every member is a peppery ball player. The spirit to strive for every advantage long ago established the Tigers as one of the most colorful teams in the major leagues.

The question, "What makes a successful ball club?" cannot be defined by any one formula. Connie Mack follows one policy, and McGraw, in a contrasting role, has put across many pennants.

Hornsby and Harris are much alike in their operations, although they vary in style from the first two mentioned.

These different types have all been successful. No manager can err in making a careful study of his ball players. Some ball clubs are known to be lucky, but punch and ability to make the breaks, and a rabbit's foot does not keep a team in the first division. From a manager's viewpoint, the game furnishes a constant study on account of its ever changing situations. The pilot, besides directing his own club, must constantly watch the other team with a view to building up his own defense.

Cagers Talk Up New Combination

Seven Or More Teams Ask Entry to 1926-1927 League

The city's cagers already are chattering about organization of the 1926-27 commercial basket loop and Prez Doc Landon will be forced to call a get-together session before many more days rock along.

'Tis said there are prospects of seven teams seeking entry the impending season with the possibility of still one or more clamoring for admittance.

Chubby Neal has started palavering about the outlook of the Landon-Hill quint, champs last season. It is likely Bertie Foster and the Stephens brothers will put out a new Stephens lumber company team. Goldstuckers has said something or other about a club representing Hub clothiers. Metzger and Draughon business college are expected back in the running. Gerard Boone probably will manage another Texhoma squad, it is said. And speaking of the oilers, there's a chance of Cabiness getting behind a Panhandle entry this winter. Talk, also, of the National guard springing up with a crew of cagers. On the whole, it looks like something is going to be done soon.

EXHIBITION GAMES

Sox, Tigers and Probably Cubs To Be Seen at Spud Park.

Seven major league clubs will cavort in Spudder park during exhibition series of 1927, according to announcement at baseball headquarters. The Gardner organization is working on its spring schedule at present.

The Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers both have agreed to exhibition games with the Wichita Falls team and it is practically assured the Chicago Cubs will be seen at the home of Carl Williams' nine.

No clubs from the big show have performed in Wichita Falls the past four years.

St. Paul, Oklahoma City and Des Moines have lined up for games, also, it was announced.

HEAVY DEMAND.

So great is the demand for the University of Michigan new stadium bonds, authorized recently by the board of control of athletics, that there is every prospect that the entire issue of ..000 at $500 each will be sold before the close of the 1926 football season. One of the most valuable rights attached to each bond is the privilege of buying two tickets for each of the football games at Ann Arbor for the next 10 years, beginning with 1927.

LIGHTWEIGHT LEATHER CHAMP DISPLAYS REAL TEMPERAMENT

BY SPARROW M'GANN,
Special Correspondent
Copyright 1926 by The Consolidated Press Association.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, has developed a lot of temperament since the crown was placed upon his head. First of all he refuses to be billed as hailing from the city in Illinois which he calls his home, because he says he is like any other prophet—not appreciated by the home folks.

Next he says he will bust anybody, or words to this effect who applies to him his old nickname, the Rockford sheik. No doubt this is because he is now married and when anyone calls a perfectly good husband a sheik, said husband has lots of explaining to do to his better half.

Grouch Against New York.

New Yorkers are beginning to think that the champion has developed a grouch against the metropolis too. He was offered $10,000 to appear in a 12-round bout against Billy Petrolle in this district but nothing was heard from him in reply. Now the offer has been increased to $15,000 smackers. Maybe that was what Sammy and his manager were waiting for; such things have happened.

Mandell ought to feel pretty good about New York, considering the juicy purses he has drawn down here.

No one has ever said, though, that he did not earn the money he got. His rousing scraps with Sid Terris, the weird acting east sider, are still talked about. The fights were close, very close, but just the same, Sammy dragged down a draw in one 10-rounder and a decision over 15 frames.

Fans Peeved at Foul.

The only thing Mandell ever did that displeased the fans hereabouts was to foul Jimmy Goodrich when he had things going all his way for five rounds. This was in the lightweight tourney staged by the New York boxing commission to fin da successor to Benny Leonard. Not a few questioned his intent in fouling Jimmy. Any way he did not wait to explain, but rushed out to the west coast for an engagement with Phil Salvadore which netted him 10 grand.

Mandell last appeared in the east in August, 1925, when he defeated Solly Seeman in a 10-rounder. He is a good workman and could pick up a lot of coin in the metropolitan district.

MISSOURI WINS

Tigers Overwhelm Washington Rivals 45 to 6

MEMORIAL STADIUM, COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 13. (AP)—Missouri overwhelmed Washington university 45 to 6 here today in one of the most exciting gridiron contests of the season on the home field. A fist fight resulted at the close of the game when several Bear players ganged the Tiger men because the referee awarded Missouri one point because of Washington's alleged unsportsmanship playing. Washington scored its touchdown in the first two minutes of play and the Tigers came back immediately and rolled up their 45 points with ease.

ARTHUR SEES BIG GAME

Coyotes to Be Guests at Banquet In Mexican Inn

Arthur Salmon, Wichita Falls sportsman and restaurant owner, was one of hte many Wichita Falls sports lovers who attended the Baylor-S. M. U. game in Dallas yesterday.

Salmon told Wichita Falls high school players if they defeated Vernon Saturday a week ago he would give them a banquet in Arthur's Mexican inn. The Coyotes probably will gather around the board early this week.

SPUDDERS SEEK MOUNDSMAN

Gardner After Pitcher Owned By Mack's Outfit

Wichita Falls baseball interests are working on a transaction with the Philadelphia Americans for a pitcher, it was said yesterday.

President J. A. Gardner advanced no information other than admitting such a deal is under way and that Connie Mack is running into a few complications getting the player waived out of the league.

From all indications Harvard will have a million-dollar football gate. Taking all available records this will be the first time receipts have reached that figure.

Steengrafe Said To Be the Cats

Mack, Collins, Tanner Give High Recommendations For Him

Milton Steengrafe, the White Sox pitcher and former Texas leaguer who returns to this sector next spring as a Spudder, comes highly recommended, to say the least.

None other than the well-known Cornelius McGillicudy, otherwise nomered Connie Mack, for one boosted the elongated righthander to Spud Prez Gardner. Eddie Collins, deposed Sox manager, had kind words for Steengrafe, also. And last of all, Buddy Tanner, former Spud leader now in the building and loan business locally, declares Steengrafe should make Wichita Falls a valuable heaver. Under pressure of recommendations from such reliable sources Gardner could think of little else but making a deal for Steengrafe. Incidentally, Steengrafe is a glutton for work, which last summer was a scarce article more or less on the Spud chunking corps.

YAQUI APT PUPIL

Indian Wrestler Studies English And Shows Near-Brilliance

Yaqui Joe, the youthful Indian wrestler who on his advent in Wichita Falls little more than a year ago could not speak a word of English, is said to be an apt pupil.

Yaqui is going to school these days. He's taking private lessons in English speaking and writing at Cline's business college. According to Mrs. Cline, his instructress, the Indian lad is the smartest foreign pupil she ever has seen. He is said to be surprisingly quick at grasping situations that crop up in his studies and recitations. The Indian, also, displays the polish and politeness of an old-school gentleman who has had the advantage of years training in so-called southern chivalry.

Matty Matsuda Finds Gold Mine In Gym at San Angelo

Matty Matsuda, the Jap wrestler, has struck a bonanza at San Angelo, so it is said. The likeable Nipponese with co-operation of San Angelo business men started a gymnasum a month or so ago. The patronage has been heavy. Once a week boxing and wrestling programs are staged in the gym and each week-end there is a dance.

Matty has signed up the veteran Jamaica Kid and his wife as trainers and rubbers. Many of the fairer sex have joined Matty's physical culture classes.

THERE WILL BE OTHERS, BUT NOT ANOTHER COBB, SPEAKER, COLLINS, SISLER SAME YEAR

Mighty Have Fallen; Cobb Drew More To Box Office On Loser Than World Series In Detroit Did

BY GEORGE CHADWICK
Special Correspondent
(Copyright 1926 By The Consolidated Press Association)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—"How are the mighty fallen," has been spogen often in the realm of sports in this eventful year. It can now be applied to baseball, particularly in the American league.

The western half of the American league is about cleaned out of its idols. Eddie Collins deposed as manager of the Chicago White Sox, now follows Ty Cobb and George Sisler from the paths of glory into the mellow pages of baseball history.

When the idols fall, the baseball fan grows sentimental and reminiscent. Thus there was reason for the lamentations of a former part owner of a major league club who leaned on the writer's shoulder and poured forth his sad remarks.

"The king is dead," he said. "Who will now be the king?"

1926 Player Blight

"Yes, and referring also to others. The year of 1926 was the year of the great player blight to the American league more than any other in its history. Look at the toll. Cobb has resigned and retired from baseball. Collins, crippled with a leg injury, has been let out at Chicago. Sisler has been released as manager at St. Louis, and in the past year he was at no time up to his old playing standards. Tris Speaker also has fallen notably from his long continued high estate as a ball player."

"But there will be others."

"There will be others, but not another Eddie Collins, a Tris Speaker, a George Sisler or a Ty Cobb developed conjointly in 1927 or 1928 or in 1929—only the gods of baseball know when. It isn't in the wood. These four players were established as the greatest quartet opposed to each other in a baseball league in modern times."

"Of the four, who was the greatest in his career, in your opinion?"

"There is only one answer—Cobb. Judging by the business done by the club of which I was once part owner I should say that Cobb enhanced the value of the Detroit franchise from $50,000 to more than $100,000."

"I call your attention to the paltry attendance at the world series played by Detroit years ago, to compare it with the attendance in recent years at the Tigers' games, even though the club has not been able to play in a world series. In recent years, Cobb has held the club in the race with enough of interest to maintain enthusiasm. I know positively of instances where Cobb's presence on a ball field boosted the attendance 100, 200 and even 300 per cent, because I was interested in the size of baseball crowds in those days."

The Cobb Appeal

"What was the Cobb appeal?"

"Magnificent and daring ball playing which brought the mockery of the crowd when he failed and brought the crowd to its feet when he succeeded. Cobb could be commonplace in nothing. He was one of the few players who could make a fan so mad because of his cleverness that the fan jeered Ty and the home team alternately, simply from pure rage at being bedeviled both ways.

"Sisler may wish to remain with the Browns as a player but it would be a hazardous experiment. The pitiless fan will give him no end of free criticism whether he be good or bad. It is taking a long chance in baseball to depose a manager one year and to play him regularly on the team the next.

"Babe" Ruth remains in the eastern half of the league, he came back but the east has him. Maybe he is coming back again. If I were to express my sincerest wish of good will for the western clubs I would wish that Collins, Sisler and Speaker might come back. But it is mostly in fairy tales that such things happen and time never enters into fairy tales except as the contrast to gold, glitter and youth."

Thrift Terrors To Play Indians

Lawton Eleven Mixes With Texas Gridders This Afternoon

The Thrift Terrors are carded with the Lawton Indians this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Thrift gridiron three and a half miles west of Burkburnett.

The Terrors expect to send a complete change of line-up onto the field from that of the club that lost last week to Healdton, 20 to 0. The eleven is to be composed of veterans with a 200-pound forward wall. The line will see in action, Cox, 200-pound tackle; Crissey, 190-pounder at tackle; Lyons, 228 pounds at guard; Coney, 190-pounder at guard; Carey, 185 pounds at guard; Hayes, 195 pounds tackle; Farquhar and Stone, 165-pounders at the wings.

Ban Put On Missle-Flinging At Turkey Day Grid Game.

AUSTIN, Nov. 13. (AP)—Throwing of cushions, apple cores and other objects at the annual Thanksgiving day game between the Texas Aggies and the Texas Longhorns will be banned if efforts now being made by University of Texas authorities and the city police department are successful.

In order that traffic may be properly regulated and no undue disorders may occur at the game, the city police department will detail a squad of 52 policemen to handle the large crowds that will attend the contest, it was said Saturday by Police Chief J. H. Littlepage.

At all important street intersections leading to the stadium a traffic officer will be stationed to direct the heavy flood of automobiles and other conveyances which will stream into the city from all directions on the morning of the game.

Gus Knows All Figures and Initials of Pastime

Moriarty Meets Mr. Wagner—a Baseball Fan

* * *

Has Seen Greater Player Than Babe Ruth

* * *

MANAGER DETROIT TIGERS

Meet Gus Wagner, the non-attending fan who knows all there is to know about the intricate national game. Mr. Wagner no (relation to the famous Honus), conducts a de luxe hardware establishment that demands his constant supervision, which accounts for his absence from the games. However, he keep in contact with the sport through the medium of newspapers, and local and itinerant baseball experts.

No phase of the game puzzles him, nor does any detail escape him. He tells the listener that Ty Cobb was sold to Detroit for $750. He relates how, when and where Eddie Collins injured his leg that has given him so much trouble; what inning and what time of the day it was when Snodgrass dropped that fatal fly, and why the spitball can't be thrown with dry fingers.

* * *

Ask him what Anson's batting average was in 1881, and he will nonchalantly reply: "He led the league with .339," adding that "the pitching distance was lengthened from 45 to 50 feet in the same year." Weighing out a flock of 10-penny nails, Gus will inform you that Rogers Hornsby was once a carpenter, and Amos Rusie toiled in a lumber yad. While selling an ax-handle to me a year ago, Mr. Wagner assumed a batting stance and demonstrated how Bill Lange busted them for the old Chicago team in his palmy days. During the exhibition, Gus nearly fell over the counter trying to hit a curve on the outside.

Mr. Wagner has an astounding knowledge of modern baseball at his finger tips, but better than that, he can delve into the records of old-timers with the most minute precision. He is even familiar with the initials of players, in order to discriminate between namesaks, such as John M. Ward and Aaron L. Ward, players of different generations. He vividly describes deeds performed by Anson, Kell' Gore, Clarkson, Flint, McAleer and Sunday, as though they had happened yesterday.

* * *

I bumped into Gus a few weeks ago, and as he replayed all of the tight situations that come up in the world's series between the Cardinals and Yankees, his logic left nothing but rank defeat for a possible second guess. "What do you think of Ruth getting three homers in one game?" I started. "Great!" responded the gifted Gus, "But I say Ed Delehanty smash out four homers and a single off Bill Terry in one game back in 1886." Thinking that my eminent friend was partial to the old timers I asked the following question: "How do the stars of yesterday compare with the modern players?" "They play a snappier fielding game now, and there is more trick pitching, but Anson, Delehanty and Brouthers were the equal of the greatest batters today," replied the baseball Solomon.

* * *

"Is the winner of the world's series the superior team?" was the next query. "Not all the time," shot back our sage, unperturbed. "If Koenig and Meusel hadn't slipped up on those two chance in the fourth inning of the last game, the Yankees would now be the champions by a 1 to 0 score."

"Who was your favorite catcher of the old days?" I continued. "Mike Kelly," interposed Gus, without hesitancy "and Klinc, Sullivan Schalk nor Archer had a thing on him. He was the cleverest of all in stopping a double steal. With runners on first and third, Mike rifled the ball to second baseman who took the short throw and returned it home where Mike easily tagged out his victim who was forced to come in standing up, because he found Kelly's mask on the base line, barring his way."

* * *

As a tinsmith, our peerless baseball authority still snaps the meanest pair of shears in northern Illinois. His custom-made tin roofs and rain pipes defy rust, time, fire and hurricane. Gus also advanced the theory that Henry Ford is the world's greatest tinsmith, because he sells a motor with each product. Above all other accomplishments Mr. Wagner cherishes the honor of being an embattled veteran of the Spanish-American war. But that is digressing. If any baseball phase or problem mystifies you, write to A. W. Gus Wagner, 124 Benton street, Woodstock, Ill., and rest assured that the facts will be furnished. Notwithstanding his truant record of seeing one game per season, Gus easily ranks as a surpassing student, and one of the mast acute historians of the national pastime.

Archer City Club Going Great Guns

Wilson Has Strongest Team He's Turned Out In Years

Archer City's sturdy Wildcat eleven is making kuite a name for itself the current season. Coach W. S. Wilson has developed the strongest team he has had in years and is making it tough on other class B title contenders. The Wildcats have romped through undefeated to date, taking all comers and tagging it on 'em handily.

The play of Hodges and Morrison in the backfield has gone a goodly distance toward putting Archer City where it is today in the gridiron world. However, Hutchison and Black were the luminaries of the Olney game Thursday when the Wildcats nosed out on the hard-fighting Cubs, 14 to 7. Lewis at half played a great game, also.

Stann and Solomon, linemen, have been playing phenomenal ball this year that rank with the best in the section. Gholson, Cross, Hull, Love and Robertson have been shining brightly, too.

PIRATES RAID

Chinese Sea Bandits Loot French Steamer Near Hongkong.

HONGKONG, Nov. 12. (AP)—Twenty-six pirates boarded the French steamer Hanoi at Kwangehouwan, south of here, shot and killed a guard, ransacked the steamer, robbed the passengers and then abandoned the ship, taking $50,000 worth of bullion; $20,000 in loot from the passengers, and a large quantity of guns and ammunition, it was learned here today.

TRANSFER HARNESS RACES

Grand circuit harness raving, the caliber of trotting and pacing that holds away in the summer months in northern cities, will be transferred to Florida for the first time in its history, according to plans of the Seminola Racing club. The Seminola track is near Longwood, on the Dixie highway. More than $200,000 has been expended on improvements.

MICKS DEFEAT ARMY BY WORK OF TEXAS BOY

Chris Flanagan, Who Hails From Port Arthur, Star Of Game

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.(AP)—Rockne's riders met the charge of the Cadets today an dfound but one break in the ranks but it was enough to score a touchdown and give Notre Dame a 7-0 triumph over the Army in a stubbornly fought battle before a crowd of 70,00 in the Yankee stadium.

Chris Flanagan, fast moving halfback fro mthe wide open spaces of Texas, found a clear path around the Army's left end in the first few minutes of the third quarter and galloped 62 yards to the only touchdown of the game. Harry O'Boyle added th eextra point with a drop kick and Notre Dame had a margin that it kept safely in spite of the most desperate counter charge of the Army through the latter part of the conflict.

Brilliant Victory.

It was a brilliant victory for Notre Dame nevertheless one that keeps the Hoosiers unbeaten record intact and lifted them a notch toward national championship heights while at the same time administering a stunning setback to West Point's aspirations. It was the first defeat the Cadets have sustained this year and shataters their hopes of carrying an unsullied record into the battle with the Navy at Chicago.

Notre Dame's victory was well earned and desisive even though not one-sided. Facing virtually the same eleven that had trampled them the year before to the tune of 27 to 0, Rackne's wel drilled young combination had the speed as well as the power to outplay the most seasoned stalwarts of West Point.

Rockne's riders unexpectedly beat the Cadets at their own game. Instead of uncovering the open style of atack so typical of Notre Dame outfits the Hoosiers stuck to close order play and beat West Point in a surging, gripping struggle. The young ad rangy Notre Dame forwards proved themselves more than a match for Army's vaunted line. The Hoosier backs with Flanagan and O'Boyle as the outstanding carriers outrushed their more experienced opponents registering ten first downs and advancing 234 yards through the line and around the ends as compared with seven first downs and 152 yards gained by the Soldiers.

Aces for Cadets.

Harry Wilson "Swede" Murrel and Cagle aces of Cadet attack, found themselves blanketed by the aggressive defense o fthe Hoosiers. Only "Baby" Dahl, a plebe, rushed into the West Point backfield in the closing few moments was able to puncture the westerner's line with any consistency and his briefly sensational drive although it carried the Cadets forward 34 yards came too late to turn the tide.

Notre Dame tried only two passes of its own, failing to complete either but its defense against the Army's serial game was alert and adequate. The Cadets completed only one out of ten passes that for a 15-yard gain in the final quarter as Dahl caught a throw from Cagle. The game ended shortly after Notre Dame had intercepted an Army serial on West Point's 41-yard line.

Flanagan's dazzling run was really the culmination of a 90-yard advance in the third quarter. This shifty halfback took Murrell's kickoff on his 10-yard line and ran it 22 yards before he was downed. "Red" Hearnden added six more putting the ball on the 38-yard line from where Flanagan got loose for his speciacular dash unchecked as his team mates blocked off the Army's secondary defense.

Otherwise Notre Dame's attack while superior in three of the four periods, was never able to get inside Army's 20-yard line.

Vernon Shows Sandstorm How

Key Brothers, Johnson Et Al Play Great Game In Amarillo

Baggett's Vernon Lions kind of showed the boys a few tricks the other day in Amarillo. If that 27-7 victory rolled up by the fighting Lions over the Sandstorm is anything like a criterion of the Panhandle football strength, then any one of this section's "big three" which includes Wichita Falls and Electra with Vernon, can lick the Panhandle champs, whenever a champ is decided. Right now there's a question as to who will represent the western half of the district against Wichita Falls, eastern champs.

Both Vernon and Electra have played in hard luck this year. The Lions especially stumbled into a tough row of breaks against Wichita Falls when time and again their heavy goal line menaces were halted by a courageous Coyote forward wall.

Castleberry, Cleis Key, Luttrell and Trammell, it is said, ran wild against the Amarillo crew. Key copped the limelight with a near-miraculous interception of a forward pass and ensuing sensational 40-yard run to the goal.

Ted Key and Newth, at ends, waged noble games. Johnson at a tackle and Parker on center put up wonderful games, also, according to reports.

Bulldogs Would Scrap Wildcats

Burkburnett Has No Fear Of Powerful Archer City Club

Burkburnett, following its victory last week over Bowie, expressed itself ready to do battle with the powerful Archer City squad. On paper Coach Eaton's eleven doesn't look quite as the Wildcats but Captain Johnny McDonald, Mitchell Wolfe, fullback; and the rest of the Bulldogs believe that can give the Wildcats a stiff fight for the laurels.

In Tiffin, R. Woods, Hunt and Gibhart, Burkburnett has a quartet of strong linesmen.

SPORT a la CARTE

by ROY GROVE

If Charlie Rogers, of Pennsylvania, can stay in the game long enough, or without any mishap he has a good chance of shattering Red Grange's ground gaining record.

For the time Rogers was in the first five games he ran down the field for a grand total of 675 yards and in the first three of those five games he was only working a small portio nof the time.

This feat is worthy of comparison when we find that in nearly twice as many games Red Grange, while with Illinois, three years ago, tore up the sod for a total of 1,043 yards. If you double Rogers' work the figures give one a record of his gaining with a fair degree of accuracy.

Rogers only played part of three periods in Pennsylvania's opening game with Franklin and Marshall, and ran off a total of 154 yards. The Saturday following against Swarthmore he gained 151 yards in 40 minutes of play.

In the Johns Hopkins game he circled the ends for 146 yards, and in the Chicago game he tore of 132 yards.

In the contest against Williams he gained 101 yards in a single period.

During the recent Illinois game he looked for all the world as if he was on his way to victory. Rogers first handled the ball against Illinois when he took a punt on the 35-yard line and raced it back to midfield.

He cut loose with a received punt on another run and cantered back 14 yards. Again he carried seven yards. It was Rogers who did most of the gaining in bringing the ball to Illinois' two-yard line and there, with a fourth down, Wascolonis was elected to plunge and failed to make the distance. Many critics say Rogers could have carried far over the line, for a 6 to 3 victory.

Not only does Pennsylvania possess one of the greatest ball runners for the current season but it also boasts of the only pinch-hitter in football in Clarence Fields. He is listed as a sub, but in reality is as good or better than any of the varsity regulars, and rates as one of the most valuable players ot Penn with the Red and Blue.

Destined to sit on the bench when the opening whistle blows, Fields bides his time until the call from Coach Young comes, and out he dashes on the gridiron.

Since the start of the season Fields has filled the role of utility back. He relieves Murphy when a signal caller is needed and he fills in at any one of the other three positions when a "magician," as the members of the backfield have been dubbed, is injured or is to be replaced.

Fields has been the star in every game he has played in. He is being heralded as a strong candidate for All-American honors.

This is Fields' senior year and he has never been a starter in the big games. During three years, however, he has been in virtually every game of importance on the schedule and he has played a stellar role in every contest.

The pinch-hitter, who can deliver in baseball, and the substitute, who can shoot a basket when needed in basketball, are no more valuable than Fields.

He will round out a great athletic career this spring as captain of the varsity baseball team. Big league scouts watched his performances on the diamond last year and it is said that several offers have been made to Fields.

GOLF MATCH TODAY

Golding and Schaeffer, Held Back By Wind, Hope to Play

Golf semi-finals in the all-city tournament under way for some time on the Municipal course will be completed this afternoon, weather conditions permitting, when the last matches of the preliminaries are to be played, according to J. T. Yeargin, manager of the Muny club. No matches were played Saturday as originally planned, the club manager stated Saturday night. High winds have impeded progress in the eliminations for the last few days.

Dudley Golding and H. A. Schaeffer, semi-finalists in the first flight, had planned to settle their match Saturday afternoon but were again forced to postpone. The winner is to battle J. H. S. Bonner for the city title some time next week, Bonner having eliminated his semi-final opponent, H. F. Weldon, Armistice Day.

Michigan Wins By Lone Point

Ohio State Eliminated As Western Contender By 17-16 Tilt

OHIO STADIUM, COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 13. (AP)—By a margin of a single point Michigan Saturday eliminated Ohio State as a western conference championship contender 17 to 16, before a crowd of 90,000 persons gathered in the Ohio stadium.

A fumble by Elmer Marek, Ohio State halfback, into the hands of Dewey, Wolverine guard, on a Michigan punt in the third period, led up to the winning Michigan touchdown. Near the end of the game, after a brilliant forward pass attack, Ohio scored a touchdown, but Clarke failed to kick the extra point which would have tied the score.

GERMAN WOMEN ATHLETES

Sports for women in German universities were frowned upon as unladylike until a few years ago. Now more than 50 per cent of all university women participate regularly in one or more sports. The most popular being track and field events, gym work, swimming and tennis.

Ice hockey has been added to the varsity sports at Providence college.

THE OLD DOPE PAIL CANTERED A BIT TO LEEWARD SATURDAY IN MAJOR GRIDIRON STRIFE OVER THE NATION BUT ON THE WHOLE MANAGED TO STAND UP FAIRLY WELL, IN FACT BETTER THAN EXPECTED. THERE WAS A SCARCITY OF DOPE KICKOVERS.

The two important games of the southwest, namely the Baylor-S. M. U. and Arkansas-T. C. U. contests, ran true to form. S. M. U. surprised with a topheavy win when dope dope had it the Ponies were better but not overwhelmingly so. S. M. U. walloped Baylor, 31 to 3. T. C. U., picked to nose out the Porkers by one touchdown, squeezed through for a 10-7 victory.

The Frogs and Ponies, both undefeated in the Southwest conference, clash Thanksgiving day at Dallas. S. M. U. has a clear claim to the crown at the moment because the Christmas' record has been marred by two tie games.

There was a partial surprise in the Michigan-Ohio State game, the outstanding contest staged in the middle west. Forecasters had the teams doped as fairly even in strength with a slight margin going to Ohio State. A 13-0 victory for the Buckeyes was predicted but the Wolverines won by the hair-line margin of 17 to 16.

Northwestern, a pre-game favorite, did even better than expected against Chicago, storming for a 38 to 7 victory.

Wisconsin was picked to beat Iowaa, 1 4to 0. Wisconsin came through with a 20 to 10 win.

* * *

Indiana missed by one point of fulfilling the prediction. Instead of winning by a 20 to 6 score, she beat Mississippi A. and M., 19 to 6.

* * *

Illinoios was picked to score four touchdowns to Wabash's none. The Illini got their quartet, all right, but Wabash counted a couple, also. Instead of a 26 to 0 victory for the Illini as forecast, Red Grange's alma mater won, 27 to 13.

* * *

Minnesota, chosen to wallop Butler 34 to 0, ran away with an 81-0 victory.

* * *

There were few slip-ups in the east. The powerful Army eleven failed to stop the revamped Notre Dame crew 13 to 0 as predicted, but lost, 7 to 0, when a Texas boy, Chris Flanagan of Port Arthur, charged 62 yards for a touchdown that avenged last year's defeat registered over the Micks by the Cadets.

* * *

Navy was picked to beat Georgetown, 10 to 0. The Midshipman ran into more trouble than expected, winning by a 10 to 7 score.

* * * *

Brown, selected to defeat Harvard 14 to 0, went the prediction one touchdown better, winning by a 21 to 0 score.

* * *

Princeton, doped to beat Yale by a touchdown, didn't do quite that good. The Tiger scratched the Bulldog for a 10-7 victory.

* * *

Pennsylvania met stubborn resistance in Columbia, winning 3 to 0, instead of by the two touchdowns predicted. Cornell, picked to beat Dartmouth by a touchdown, slid through o nthe upper end of a 24 to 23 score.

Axe Drops On Three Coyotes

Sisk, Downing and Downing Go On Ineligible List

A team scholastic record of two weeks without an ineligibility was badly shattered in the Coyote camp last week when three of the top-notchers fell by the wayside for the week, according to advance information received from grade tabulations Saturday. Sisk, end, Downing, guard and tackle, and Dobson, guard and tackle and captain of the team, all are ineligible to compete this coming week on account of failing in too many subjects, or passing in fewer than three.

Sisk was out anyway, owing to a severe fracture of the jaw suffered in the Vernon conflict. But downing and Dobson both were counted on heavily to continue the Pack's championship race and will be hard to replace on the squad. Dobson, especially set the captain's example for his squad in the wrong way by failing in courses due to irregular attendance during the week. With plenty of hard struggling during the week to come all three have a chance to rebuild their busted fences by the coming of Thanksgiving week when the Coyotes are to try their mettle again for the title, this time for the district championship against the western half title holders to be decided this coming week.

MARQUETTE BEATS AUBURN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 13. (AP)—A fourth period rally by Marquette enabled them to score a 19 to 3 victory over Auburn in their intersectional football game here this afternoon.

O'Keefe's 73-yard dash for a touchdown featured the last period drive of the western who trailed for three periods.

Princeton Trims Yale By Margin Of Three Points

Big Three Title Goes To Tigers by Score Of 10 to 7

PALMER STADIUM, PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 13. (AP)—Princeton defeated Yale in the Tigers' final struggle for Big Three honors on the gridiron Saturday, repeating its title triumph of 1925 with a brilliant aerial offensive to win by 10 to 7.

The overhead drives in the second quarter with Baruch throwing a series of spectacular passes, led to Princeton's winning scores, Gaulkins going over for a touchdown after receiving a short toss and Baruch booting a goal from the field.

Yale made its only touchdown near the close of the same quarter, Goodwin crossing Yale's goal line after a Tiger pass had been intercepted by Hoben, deep in Princeton territory.

Princeton, failing to call upon the brilliant Jake Slagle in its march through the Yale ranks, contented itself with a purely defensive game in the last half, punting the ball deep into Bulldog territory at almost every opportunity.

Yale had at least three good opportunities to score in addition to that of the second period, but its offensive lacked punch at the crucial moments.

KOPECKY WRESTLES GRIP IN MAJESTIC FEATURE TUESDAY

The Reynolds-Yaqui Joe match is off, said Matchmaker A. Ross yesterday, and instead Joe Kopecky will tackle Charley Grip Tuesday night at the Majestic in finish battle.

Reynolds agreed earlier in the week to mest Yaqui, according to Ross, but wired Saturday that he cannot come to Wichita Falls for two weeks yet. Ross said Reynolds explained that business matters which had cropped up in the meantime forestalled his voyage to Wichita Falls.

Kopecky and Grip both have built up quite a following in the city. The former works somewhat along the style of Yaaqui Joe, doing most of his wrestling on his feet with flying mares and headlocks and indulging at random in fistic forays.

Grip with three consecutive victories in the city has become more or less a sensation although he came very near losing out to Yaqui Joe last Wednesday here.

Kansas Aggies Go Down to Narrow Defeat

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 13. (AP) Nebraska university defeated the Kansas Aggies on a rain-sodden field here, 3 to 0, today. Practically the entire game was played from the toes of Stephens, Nebraska, and Cochrane, Aggie quarterbacks, punting being virtually the only way the teams could work the ball any distance over the slippery grass and mud. Nebraska's score came in the third period. Howell pushed the ball up to where Stephens was able to kick from placement neatly between the posts.

FROGS UPSET TRADITION BY SINKING RAZORBACK MACHINE IN HOME-COMING EMBROGLIO

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 13. (AP)—Texas Christian University upset Arkansas tradition of never being defeated on home-coming day by defeating the Razorbacks 10 to 7 in one of the most exciting games ever witnessed on the local field this afternoon. The winning score was in the closing moments of the game when Wolfe dropped back and booted a field goal from the 43-yard line.

Both teams resorted to every style of play in an effort to put over a victory, and each scored a touchdown via the forward pass route. Clark, the brilliant all-southwestern quarterback shot a long forward pass to Mathews, who in turn raced through the entire Razorback team for a touchdown. The pass and run were good for 51 yards, one of the longest ever completed on Razorback field.

During the first half the Horned Frogs kept the ball in Arkansas territory moft of the time, mixing a varied aerial game with some excellent line plunging. Both teams missed chances to score, when Washmon for the Frogs and Cole for Arkansas, missed field goal attempts. Punts featured both teams' attack. Chipman and Beavers, the latter substitute full back featured the Arkansas line attack, with Carson and Thompson carrying the brunt of the battle for T. C. U.

Hogs Rally.

The Porkers came back on the field to open the second half with a new spirit and in three minutes tied the score. After Beavers had ripped the Frog line for a 25-yard gain, another first down was registered, and the stage was set for Arkansas famous passing combination, Cole to Scott. Cole's pass to veteran Arkansas guard was completed and the latter raced across the Frog goal for Arkansas only touchdown. Cole added the extra point from placement.

From there on both teams resorted to punts, seeking a break to gain an advantage. The Frogs finally worked the ball up to the Arkansas 30-yard line, and with but three minutes to play left, Wolfe droppe dback to the 43-yard line and booted the winning score. Arkansas failed in it's final attempt to gai nthrough forward passing, and lost possession of the ball well in their own territory just at the close of the game.

First Downs Even.

Honors were even in first downs, each registering ten. The Frogs gained 89 yards and completed four passes out of 12 attempts, and intercepted two of the Porkers. Arkansas completed three in 12 aerial tries for a 60-yard gain. Penalties were few, both being assessed 15 yards. Cole and Beavers averaged 34 yards on 15 punts, while Clark averaged 37 yards on 13 boots. Arkansas intercepted one pass.

Both teams played excellent football throughout the tilt, only 32 yards in penalties being assessed. The penalties were evenly divided, 16 going to each team. The Frogs lived up to the advanced reports of being an excellent passing aggregation, while Arkansas also made substantial gains through the air route.

The game marked the final appearance on Razorback field of Captain Boozman, Scott, Japp, McGill, DeHoneau, Chipman and Harrison. Each acquitted himself nobly and drew much applause from the crowd of more than 4,000 homecoming fans.

Cyclone-Bobcat Tilt Draws Spot

Sport Matches Versatility Against Dennis' Fleet Dashes

One grid clash in north Texas that will draw much attention this week-end is the Childress-Memphis set-to carded for Friday at Childress. Intense rivalry exists between these teams and the battle is expected to be bitterly waged.

Memphis appears the stronger team of the two with Dennis, Phantom backfield man, drawing the spotlight. This lad has run wild in every game he's played this season and Childress will have to stop him to beat the Cyclone eleven. Many teams had marked Dennis and tried to halt his drives but failed.

The Cyclone will be weakened by the absence of Hammond, brilliant halfback, who broke a leg in the Miami run-away last week. This unkind twist of fate, of course, enhances the chances of the Bobcats to win.

The Childress team had a letdown not long ago and was toppled over by Wellington in a surprise defeat. The Wellington club proved stronger than expected. But the giant Captain Sport and his eleven came back last week and beat Shamrock, 20 to 7.

Sports, passing, running and plunging has made him a player much feared by opponents. And it may be with the aid of the hard-fighting Bybee, Dowis, Y. Nichols and the rest of his scrappy team mates, he will upset the dope and turn back the brilliant Dennis and company in defeat.

WINTRY COLDS ALWAYS MEAN SOME DANGER

Red Cross Nurse Advises Against Neglect of Common Malady

By MISS FREDERICKA E. BEAL
School Nurse

Common colds take more money out of the worker's pockets and keeps more children out of school than any other one disease.

A common cold is an inflamation of the mucuous membranes of the nose, throat or larynx. Statistics show that common colds begin to increase in number and in dangerous symptoms with the first frosts of coming winter.

We know that colds are transmitted from one person to another and the general belief is that it is a germ disease which is air borne but as yet is unidentified. We also know that five of our most dangerous diseases begin with a common cold, namely, influenza, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough and diphtheria. For this one reason colds should be considered dangerous and every means taken to avoid catching them.

Dangerous at First

Colds are most contagious during the first two or three days or until the acute symptoms subside, such as coughing, sneezing, watery discharge from the eyes, fever and general malaise.

A cold in the first stage can often be checked by immediate care as a hot bath, hot drink, rest in bed, taking of a good cathartic, a diet low in proteins or meats and high in vegetables and fruits and the drinking of plenty of water.

A person who has frequent or repeated colds should consult a nose and throat specialist as this so often means some abnoramlity of the nose and throat.

Ask anyone the question, "How did you take cold?" They will immediately tell you they changed the weight of clothes, sat in a draft, got their feet wet or anyone of many ideas. There has been a good deal of research work done along this line among university students but the findings did not show that one factor influences the taking of colds more than any other. We do know, however, that changes take place in the circulation and blood vessels which produce this congestion in the air passages.

Precautions to Take

A few precautions one can use to avoid colds are as follows: If one feels himself taking cold, begin immediately to treat it—do not allow a cold to hang on and if it does not respond to home care consult your doctor as it may be the beginning of a more serious disease.

Avoid overeating of sweets and meats.

Have sufficient sleep every night with windows open wide.

Keep the skin circulation active by frequent bathing.

Dress to be comfortable, taking care not to over-dress or under-dress.

Always breathe through the nose.

Live and work in well ventilated rooms. Dr. Woods Hutchinson says: "Two-thirds of all colds are infectious and are due not to cold, pure air, but to foul stuffy air with the crop of germs which such air is almost certain to contain."

Avoid others who have colds. A germ picked up in the open air is never so virulent as the one which goes directly from one person to another.

Road Contractor Defends Lanham

Former State Official Not In Profit "Rake-Off" Quizzers Told

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.(AP)—Vigorous denial there was ever any thought of Frank Lanham participating in the profits of the American Road company's $3,000,000 asphalt surfacing contract, which he was instrumental in awarding the company, was made Friday before the house investigating committee by E. S. Heyser of Dallas, the company's vice-president.

After a long executive conference, the committee recessed until November 22 to give attorneys the opportunity to line up more testimony.

Lanaam resigned as chairman of the highway commission and Joe Burkett as a committee member shortly after the American Road company last fall in 13th district court confessed judgment for $600,000 excess profits on its surfacing contract, and agreed to be barred perpetually from Texas. The company is now defunct because of the unfavorable publicity received in the trial of the suit brought by Attorney General Dan Moody.

"HONEY LOU" By Beatrice Burton

AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old GRUMPY WALLACK, head of the Wallack Fabric Mills. Honey Lou likes everyone at the mills except JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk, who makes love to her against her will.

JACK WALLACK, who comes to his father's mills to learn the business, falls in love with Honey Lou the minute he sees her. Brought up by an old-fashioned mother, Honey Lou is a mixture of flapper and clinging vine.

Honey Lou goes to work with Margret in the office of Holy Cross hospital. One day she goes to tea with the wily Angela and meets Jack's mother, whom Jack calls THE HEAD, because she manages everything at home. She tells Honey Lou that Grumpy is not satisfied with his new secretary, ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp. Jack asks Honey Lou to work for his father, who is at home sick with lumbago, and Honey Lou promises that she will.

Honey Lou meets Angela, who tells her that Jack Wallack is taking her out to dance that evening. Honey Lou calls up TIM DONEGAL, determined to have him take her to the same place.

Honey Lou goes with Tim to the restaurant and he has been drinking. The place is raided by dry agents and Honey Lou escapes with Jack Wallack. Jack tells Honey Lou that he thought she was tricking him and ends by telling her that he loves her and wants her to marry him.

Honey Lou tells her mother that she is to marry Jack Wallack the next day, but her mother asks her to wait and have a wedding. Honey Lou's engagement is announced and plans are made for the wedding.

She meets Angela downtown and she persuades her to open a charge account under the name of Mrs. Jack Wallack Jr., and to put the shoes she is buying, along with some lingerie, on the account. But at home with Margret, who sees through Angela she decides to take back the lingerie and Margret pays for the shoes for a wedding gift.

Jack and Honey Lou have a quiet home wedding and spend their honeymoon camping at Lake Tamay. In the meantime Steve visits the flat and breaks under the realization that Honey Lou is lost to him now.

Jack and Honey Lou return from their honeymoon and stay with the Wallacks while looking for a flat for themselves. Honey Lou tells Angela that they are anxious to start housekeeping.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII.

It was on the next Sunday morning that Honey Lou and Jack found the flat they had been loogink for.

There were seven rooms in it, and every one of them was large and light.

"It's almost too good to be true!" Honey Lou declared, as she went from one room to the other, chattering like a sparrow.

There were built-in bookcases with leaded glass doors, and a built-in sideboard and a brand new stove and ice box, and a tiny back porch that overlooked the Wallack's wide green backyard. And the rent for it was only $35 a month, because it was on the top floor.

"We don't deserve such luck—house-hunting on Sunday when we ought to be sitting in church with your father and mother," said Honey Lou when they started away from it.

"Maybe you won't think you're so lucky when you have to climb three flights of stairs every day," Jack answered her. He caught her around the waist and held her close to him as they started down the first flight.

"We've found a place at last!" Honey Lou broke the news to "Grumpy" and The Head at Sunday dinner, an hour later. "The spuzziest little flat you ever poked your nose into!"

She waived her fork in the air as she spoke. She was much too excited to eat more than a bite or two of the rump roast, the mashed potatoes, the creamed spinach and the Hubbard squash that were heaped on her plate.

It always seemed to her that there was too much to eat at the Wallacks' house, anyway. And the food was too rich and heavy.

"Where is this wonderful place?" The Head asked, with a frown. "This place you call 'spuzzy.' What does 'spuzzy' mean if anything?"

Honey Lou stared at her in open-mouthed surprise. She knew that The Head disliked the slang that rose so readily to her lips. But she had never been cold and sarcastic to her before.

"Why — spuzzy means cute I reckon," she stammered when she found her voice, "and the flat is right back of this house, on the next street. Jack and I thought it would be nice to be so close to you people."

Up went The Head's thicks black eyebrows. "I'm surprised to hear that!" she exclaimed, looking Honey Lou straight in the eye. "I thought you couldn't wait to get away from us. At least that's the story that came to my ears."

Honey Lou shook her head. She felt a hot blush sweep over her neck and face, and she did not know why she was blushing—because she never had said anything of the sort to anybody!

"Who told you that, Mrs. Wallack?" she asked. She had never been able to call Jack's mother anything but "Mrs. Wallack," somehow or other. To get close to her was like trying to batter down a stone wall with your head.

"Well, Angela said you had told her something of the sort," The Head answered, wiping her unsmiling mouth with a corner of her napkin.

Again Honey Lou shook her cropped and shining head. "I didn't," she declared, passionately. "And that's the truth!"

But The Head only smiled in an unbelieving kind of way.

* * *

When the meal came to its end, Honey Lou went straight out of the gap in the hedge.

Angela, herself, opened the door of the big stone house next door.

"Hello, dear," she said, and her voice fairly dripped with sweetness. "Come in, do!"

But Honey Lou did not move from the spot where she was.

"No. I' going for a drive with Jack," she answered gravely. "I just wanted to ask you something, that's all. Angela, did you tell Jack's mother that I couldn't wait to get away from their house? She says you did."

Without a second's hesitation, Angela shook her head with its pale halo of golden hair. Her gray-blue eyes were wide and filled with a look of saintly innocence.

"I certainly did not, Honey Lou," she said in her lovely voice. "I certainly did not!"

"Are you sure?"

Angela nodded. "Positively," she declared. "All I said was that you were awfully anxious to start housekeeping, just as any bride would be! I said that this morning, on the way home from church."

She looked like the very soul of truth in human form, as she stood there. Her eyes shone with frankness, and her face had that clear spiritual look that blonds very often have.

Honey Lou believed her.

"But I wish you hadn't said even that much, Angela," she said unhappily, "Jack's mother is awfully cross with me."

"I'm sorry—just as sorry as I can be." Angelas face was full of distress. "She's just got what I said twisted up in her mind. I always knew she would make life miserable for any girl Jack married. She's a wonderful woman and I love her, but I don't think I'd want her for a mother-in-law."

"Are you going to let me go shopping for your new furniture tomorrow morning?" Angela called to her, just as she was squeezing through the gap in the hedge.

Honey Lou nodded. "I'll see you at Sabine's at 12 o'clock!" she called back. "I've got a couple of errands to do in the morning.

The next morning Honey Lou slept late. It was becoming a habit with her now that she no longer owned a job and an alarm clock.

She yawned and stretched and closed her eyes again. Then all of a sudden she remembered something—and she jumped out of bed.

There was a window at the end of the hallway that overlooked the backyard of the house. And from it, through the yellowing trees, Honey Lou could see the kitchen window of the little flat on Delcimer street.

She waived her hand at it as if it were her friend, before she turned away and went back to her bedroom.

"There's my 'home, sweet home!" she said to herself. She could hardly wait until she reached the downtown stores and began to pick out the things to put into it — the rugs and the chairs and the beds and the thousand and one things that make a home.

At nine o'clock, she was going up the narrow iron staircase that led to the offices of the Wallack Mills. At the bottom of the beaded bag that swung from her wrist was Ann Ludlow's crumpled letter.

But Ann was not at her desk in the big room. She had been there, though—there was a fresh wad of gum in the glass pen tray on her desk, and the air of the room was still heavy with the strong scent of the heliotrope perfume she used.

Honey Lou opened the door of her father-in-law's private office. Margret sat there at his desk.

"Hello, stranger, come in and sit down" she said. She jumped up and pulled out a chair from the wall.

But Honey Lou perched on the corner of "Grumpy's" big mahogany desk, like a red bird in her scarlet hat and scarlet-lined suit. She lit a cigaret and puffed it daintily. She disliked the flavor of tobacco in her mouth really, but — like thousands of girls who smoke—she thought cigaret smoking a fascinating and dashing thing to do.

"Where's 'Grumpy?' " she asked.

"Gone to the doctor's about his lumbago. He'll be back soon," Margret answered. "He says you have rented a flat."

"We have. A perfectly ducky one on the street behind 'Grumpy's' house," Honey Lou answered, trying to make a ring of smoke and failing.

"He says that Angela talked you out of buying a house," Margret went on. "What in the world has Angela to do with your buying a house?"

And just then the door opened, and Ann stuck her frizzled red head into the room. "Were you looking for me?" she asked and Honey Lou forgot all about Angela and the flat.

She got up and followed Ann downstairs to the dressing room on the second floor.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"He Told Me Angela Talked You Out of Buying a House," Margaret said.

PARIS FIREMEN RIDE ON PLUSH

Luxurious Upholstering For Fire Wagons Last Word In France

PARIS, Nov. 13. (AP)—Paris firemen will henceforth speed to conflagrations in luxurious upholstered covered-machines. Comfort is the keynote of the heavy weight automobile show, as it was of the luxury car exposition which preceded it. But the new machines for firemen are the last word in luxury.

The ease and convenience of driver and passenger seems to be the guiding principle of designers of the imposing trucks, Majestic omnibusses and ingenious fire fighting machines displayed. Some of the autocars are as elaborately fitted as Pullmans, one conveyance built to cross the Sahara being provided with a fine kitchen, and eight comfortable beds.

GIN MORE COTTON

Wilbarger County Moving Crop To Market Fast.

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 13. — Good weather and concerted efforts have resulted in much cotton being picked, and the ginning reports as a consequence have caught up with and passed those of last year. Ginning reports this year show 30,264 bales for Wilbarger county this year compared with 29,194 for the same date last year, an increase of nearly 1,000 bales. City reports are 9,895 bales for this year and 9,704 for last. County gin reports are 17,618 bales this year and 16,836 for last.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.(AP)—The cotton market was fairly active today but the trend of prices was downward owing to the October consumption report being rather disappointing, showing a smaller total than September although larger than October last year. Prices opened on eto six points up but soon eased off and finally showed losses of 16 to 20 points. Prices rallied five to eight points in the second hour on favorable reports from London on the strike but eased off again near the end, the close showing net losses of eight to 15 points.

Liverpool was hardly up to the expectations at the start and first trades showed gains of one to six points. December soon traded at 12.75 and January at 12.78, or two to seven points up. These were the day's highs. Later prices ease doff on the disappointing consumption totals and December finally dropped to 12.55, January to 12.62 and March to 12.75, or 16 to 20 points down from the highs.

There was a moderate rally from the low of five to eight point son strike news but the close was only a few points up from the lows. Exports for the day totaled 86,705 bales.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.(AP)—Alternating periods of strength and weakness characterized today's stock market, with prices unable to make headway against the usual week-end realizing operations. With the exception of a spirited rally in Baldwin Locomotive to a new 1926 high price, and the trapping of short interests in several motor stocks, dealings were rather listless.

Despite soundness of fundamental business conditions the emphasis placed upon growing irregularities in current industrial operations was reflected in renewed selling pressure against leading industrials such as U. S. Steel, General Motors, Allied Chemical, Woolworth and American Can, which fluctuated nervously and finally closed a point or so lower.

Profit taking invited by yesterday's sharp rally in Baldwin carried this prominent local issue about two points lower before another vigorous buying movement set in. This quickly elevated the stock to a new high price for the year above 138, but it again fell back at the close to 136⅝, representing a fractional gain for the day.

Large short interests which have been built up in Hudson Motors, Pierce Arrow issues and Chrysler were sent svrambling to cover by maneuvers credited to W. C. Durant. Hudson jumped three points to 47, but ended the day at 43⅝, up 1⅜, while Pierce Arrow preferred at one time rallied five points and closed nearly four points net higher. Meanwhile General Motors sagged 1½ points to 146¾, although DuPont was steadied by the prospect of a substantial extra dividend.

The announcement of tire price reductions had little effect on the rubber shares while some of the copper stocks, such as Utah, displayed a strong tone. New high records for the year were established by Reynolds Tobacco "B," Corn Products, Coca Cola, Kraft Cheese and National Supply before the final selling movement. An early gain of three points in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, however, was converted into a decline of more than a point.

Railroad shares were sluggish, fluctuating in haphazard fashion during most of the two hour session. Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville and Nashville, New York Central and New Haven drifted lower, but Chesapeake and Ohio and Chicago and East Illinois preferred maintained a firm tone.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet today and there were no important changes in the principal rates. Demand sterling ruled unchanged around $4.84 11-16, while the French franc and Belgian belga were slightly lower around 2.30½ and 13.91 respectively.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.(AP)—On coming crops from the southern hemisphere and a big surplus in Canada did a good deal today to bring about lower prices for wheat. Chicago quotations on wheat closed heavy at 1⅜c to 1¾c net decline with corn unchanged to ⅜c up, oats ⅛c to ⅝c down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 2@5c.

Corn rallied after touching another new low price record for the season today. Weather conditions were less favorable. A fresh increase of he corn visible supply however is expected to be shown on Monday. Oats lack support.

MANY FARMERS OF WICHITA COUNTY WILL MOVE ELSEWHERE

UNREST FROM LOWER PRICES GRAVE ANGLE

Cotton Failures Prompting Many to Seek New Fields To Till Next Year

Not one of the least factors contributing to economic loss when cotton and agricultural conditions are unsettled in this section is the migration of farmers who, dissatisfied with their lot, seek new fields in which to till the soil the following year.

This is a condition that just at present is of more than usual importance in Wichita county and the irrigated valley. Numbers of farmers, it appears, are leaving or planning to leave the farms where this year they raised good crops, only to face financial ruin because of rock-bottom prices. This is mainly true, of course, so far as the tenant farmer is concerned. And since farms in this section are

Two Wichita Falls men in close touch with real estate and farm conditions of the section last week commented at some length on the question, explained some of its causes and incidentally, offered suggestions as to its remedy.

Many Will Move.

Guy R. Jones, county agricultural agent, believes that a large number of Wichita county farmers will seek new fields in which to labor next year. In one small district of the county, he has found 90 per cent of the farming element is only of two years standing. Many farmers here will change next year, he says.

"It is not entirely a feeling of discouragement or lack of confidence in this particular section," Jones stated, "but it is something of a bolshevick feeling toward farming in general, for many farm owners themselves are contemplating leaving their land for wages in the city. They have seen a whole year of hard work go for practically nothing, they rebel at the thought of possibly another year of the same thing, city positions with relatively high wages seem appealing. They move."

J. M. Baber, veteran real estate man who handles a large amount of rural farm lands, declares that within the past two months he has had more sales and trades of farms offered him than in all the rest of the year. In October, he said, he consumated more deals than at any other 30-day period of 1926.

Didn't Need Water.

"Farmers didn't need irrigation this year," Baber said, "because there was rain enough to produce a crop. Consequently they considered it a useless expense. Now they want to trade their irrigated farms for highland farms or stock farms, and next season may be so dry irrigated farms will be the only ones that will produce.

"Last spring," Baber continued, "I had a number of requests for small irrigated farms and approached several owners with propositions to buy or trade. They would not listen to me then, but this fall I have had several of those same smlal irrigated farm owners ask me to trade their farms for stock farms."

Many Move On.

A chamber of commerce headquarters in a certain Oklahoma city collected data during the past three-year period, keeping tab on approximately 40,000 tenant farmers of that state, and estimated that of the 40,000 farmers, 32,000 moved to a different farm each year. This rule is practically the same for most of the farming districts of Texas and especially so in the cotton belt.

The whole problem seems to be one of misunderstanding on the part of the farmer. He has tried cotton here and there year after year, and at no time has he found it profitable. Years of constant effort have produced no more progress in cotton production than to bankrupt 80 per cent of the producers of the crop.

This constant farming at a loss is the real reason for unrest and continuous shifting of the farmers, observers believe. They seem to have a tendency to blame the farm rather than the system or the crop. Thousands of them alternate from farm to city, trying the farm one year and the city at day wages the next, and vica versa.

GOES TO EUROPE

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 13. — C. P. Engelking will represent the Electra Rotary club as delegate to the International Rotary convention to be held in Ostend, Belgium, June 5-10, 1927, it has been announced. The selection of Engelking took place at the regular Rotary club luncheon.

The board of directors voted that the club give $500 toward financing the trip. Judge Engelking will leave here the middle of June and stay away until the first of August, and will be accompanied by his wife. They will also tour Europe. This is the first time that the convention has been held in Europe since the club was organized in 1912.

Mr. Engleking who is a legionnaire, will probably combine the Rotary International convention and that of the national convention of the American Legion to be held in Paris, in September 1927, and attend both conventions while abroad. He is a legionnaire, having served the government in the insurance department in Washington and later entered the officers training camp in Waco.

Rotary Ready For Annual Party To Be Held Here Next Friday Night

Preparation for the annual inter-city Rotary party to be held Friday evening at 7 o'clock at Junior college is going forward, and plans are being arranged by the various committees, it was announced yesterday. Dinner will be served to Rotarians and Rotary-Anns with the Wichita Falls club host to Rotarians and their guests from the towns and cities in the nearby communities of Texas and Oklahoma. An entertaining program has been arranged in connection with the big feast of fun and fellowship, it was said.

R. C. Forman, famous as an entertainer and humorist is to be one of the entertainers, and those who have heard him say his jokes go over with a bang and his mannerisms are a treat to the women. Mr. Forman has been head of the public speaking department of both university and college, and possesses a rare ability as a lecturer.

District Governor Will Edwards of Denton, Past District Governor Walter Cline and Allen Street, vice-president of Rotary-International will make short talks.

The following committees are in charge of plans for the inter-city meet: Inter-city relations committee, A. G. Deatherage, H. Russell Heath, Dr. Geo. Hampshire, W. Troy Wade, J. H. Allison; Invitation committee, W. Troy Wade, J. C. Mytinger, John W. Thomas; program committee, Dr. M. H. Glover, J. S. Pittman, J. E. H. Railey; fellowship committee, H. Russell Heath, J. R. Farabee, Paul Pond, Dr. T. R. Krohn, Walter Campbell, Jack C. Barnard, Ed G. Brown, Dr. Curtis Atkinson, Joe Emold, Lester L. Boardman, H. Rhea Hanks, Sam Kruger; arrangements, decoration, menu, A. J. Deatherage, Joe Huckins III, Larry W. Hanlin, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, Leonard Grayson; transportation, Leslie R. Stringer, chairman.

The Rotary-Anns reception committee to greet the lady guests from the other cities will be announced later.

WORK TRACED BY MYTINGER

Chamber of Commerce Prexy Recounts Progress of Past Year

A list of the activities of the chamber of commerce in 1926 and a brief talk on looking forward to 1927 were included in the address of J. C. Mytinger, president of the chamber of commerce. In choosing the high spots of accomplishments for 1926, he enumerated the bringing of the Upham gas line to Wichita Falls which means a saving of at least one million dollars to users of industrial gas; the beginning of construction of the free bridge on Red river at Burkburnett, and Mr. Mytinger commended Judge B. D. Sartin for his untiring and efficient work in the matter; the industrial survey made of the city and the trade territory of which 3,000 copies have been distributed in that section; the publicity bureau which has conducted a campaign and has located numerous manufacturing and jobbers in the city; has brought conventions to this city; and one of the other big things the chamber has done was to recommend that a municipal auditorium be erected in Wichita Falls and for which building the city has held an election and voted a bond issue.

Wants Colonization.

In speaking of agricultural development which will be one of the problems to meet next year, Mr. Mytinger spoke of the subdivision and colonization of the large tracts of irrigable lands. "We hope to have the land subdivided into tracts of ten acres and not exceed 80 acres and have diversified farming.

"In the program for 1927, it is recommended that hard surface roads in Wichita and adjoining counties be built in all directions leading to Wichita Falls.

"Our agricultural work has not come up to expectations, for lands were not available for subdivision and the chamber of commerce was carrying on an extensive advertising campaign. We recommend that a full time staff member be maintained for agricultural work; a full time representative in the field to promote a better feeling in the towns in the trade territory and Wichita Falls.

"We have in the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce the most efficient and industrious staff and personnel of any staff in the southwest," he said in his address. "That same opinion prevails in other towns of the state that know something of the work."

Explains Budget.

Mr. Mytinger explained the budget of the chamber which this year calls for $75,000 to carry on the work. A budget of $80,000 was subscribed last year, and business men underwrote an additional $20,000 to be used only if necessary. It was found that the work was carried on for $70,000, of which $9,000 had been brought over from previous years. The actual expenditure of the 1926 budget, November and December estimated on the expenditures of the past 10 months was $61,000.

An idea of colonization of the irrigated valley was brought out by J. A. Kemp who was called on to speak. "It is my plan to put on all the land in which I have an interest a farmer who is looking for a home and who wishes to build a permanent soil," he said. "The chamber of commerce can help to get the right kind of citizens for the irrigated valley."

TURKEYS TO MARKET

Many Good Birds Being Brought Into Electra

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 13.—Turkeys are bringing good prices, and, in fact, better prices than cotton although the optimists say that the cotton will bring better prices later. This was made evident this week when Mrs. Will Gardner, who resides in the Community Line community, sold 81 turkeys for a sum of $414.95, with the goblers averaging 19 pounds each and the hens 13 pounds each. Forty turkeys remain, 30 of which will be sold for the Christmas market. Mrs. J. W. Taylor, who resides on the R. E. Gibson farm in the Enterprise community, has 75 turkeys which will be sold in the next few days and which will average as much as the Gardner flock. Mart Honaker of Sunshine Hill, has a flock of 75 birds which will be sold for Thanksgiving, and there are several other flocks in each community for the market, with those pointed out being perhaps the largest in numbers.

WHEAT ACREAGE INCREASED.

Special to the Record News.

GRANDFIELD, Nov. 13.—A considerable acreage of wheat has been sown in this section up to date. Additional acreage will be sown as soon as the cotton has been picked. The normal acreage of wheat perhaps will be increased about one-third this season because of the low price of cotton.

Camp Fire Girls Dine November 20

Big Affair Will Be Held At Grace M. E. On Saturday Night

The Camp Fire Girls' banquet will be held on Saturday, November 20, in the basement of the Grace Methodist church at 6:30 p. m. All the old and new members are invited to attend. Plates will be served at 50 cents each. Reservations must be paid for by Wednesday November 17, and turned in at the local headquarters at the First Methodist church, as the headquarters will not be moved before the first of the following week.

Miss Jean Fisk will act as toastmistress calling on different members for toasts to old and new members, parents, girls, and council members. Raymond Meyers will represent the community chest.

Announcement was made that the Camp Fire headquarters will be moved to two rooms in the annex of the city hall at 820 1-2 Ohio street, the first week after the banquet and council fire.

M'PHERSON-M'NEILL.

Special to The Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Nov. 13.—Reed McPherson and Miss Jetta Cleo McNeill of Quanah were married Saturday by Elder A. F. Thurman, to the surprise of their many friends. The couple will make their home in Quanah.

STEAL PREACHER'S CAR.

RESERVES PLAN BIG MEETING

Hundreds of Girls To Take Part in Sunday Night Session

Hundreds of Girl Reserves belonging to the 11 clubs in the city are expected to take part in the annual recognition service to be held at the First Christian church Sunday evening, according to estimates made by Girl Reserve officials Friday night. Over 1,000 girls of the city now belong to one of the many school organizations, and a large majority of this number are expected to participate in the program. The entire service for Sunday night has been given over to the girls and talks, Girl Reserve songs, and anthems by a Girl Reserve choir.

Alamo, Austin, Barwise, Carrigan, Fannin, Junior High annex, Junior High, Junior college and High school, Sam Houston, San Jacinto and Travis schools will all be well represented in the service, and all of those taking part will wear the Girl Reserve uniform.

The following program will be given:

Processional "Follow the Gleam"

Flag salutes: Christian flag, Helen Willgus; United States flag, Lucia Allred; Girl Reserve flag, Triangle, formed by three girls, making short talks on the three sides of the Blue Triangle, Health, Knowledge and Spirit.

Prayer, Evelyn Hardeman.

TRY THIS FOR A COLD - IT'S FINE

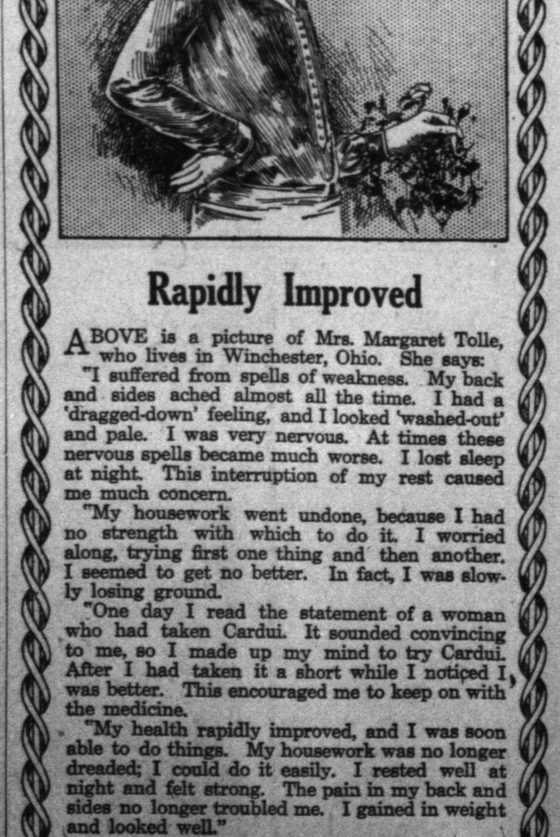

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends severe colds or grippe in few hours

You can end grippe and break up a cold either in head, chest, body or limbs, by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head — nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.—Adv.

Rapidly Improved

ABOVE is a picture of Mrs. Margaret Tolle, who lives in Winchester, Ohio. She says:

"I suffered from spells of weakness. My back and sides ached almost all the time. I had a 'dragged-down' feeling, and I looked 'washed-out' and pale. I was very nervous. At times these nervous spells became much worse. I lost sleep at night. This interruption of my rest caused me much concern.

"My housework went undone, because I had no strength with which to do it. I worried along, trying first one thing and then another. I seemed to get no better. In fact, I was slowly losing ground.

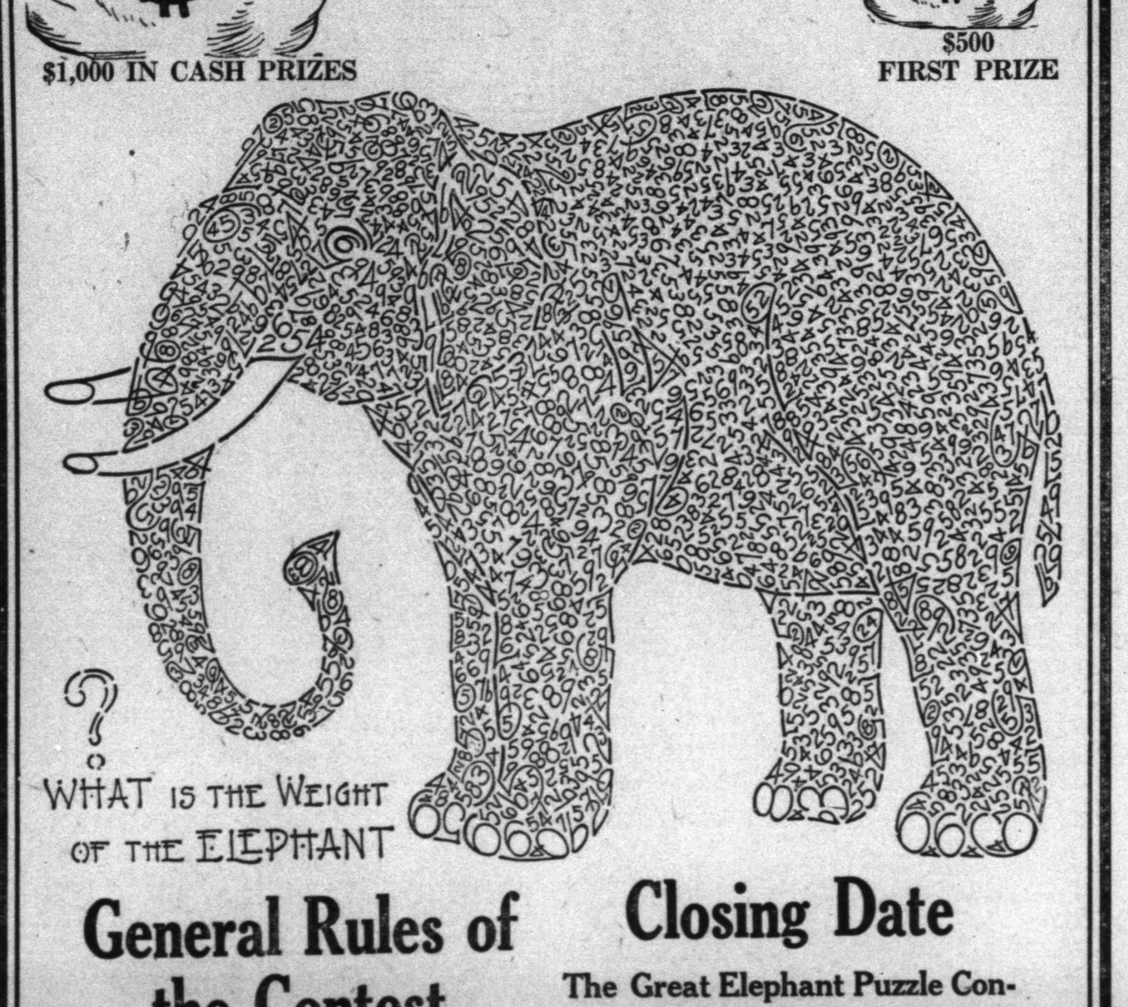

"One day I read the statement of a woman who had taken Cardui. It sounded convincing to me, so I made up my mind to try Cardui. After I had taken it a short while I noticed I was better. This encouraged me to keep on with the medicine.

"My health rapidly improved, and I was soon able to do things. My housework was no longer dreaded; I could do it easily. I rested well at night and felt strong. The pain in my back and sides no longer troubled me. I gained in weight and looked well."

General Rules of the Contest

This competition is open to all residents of the states of Texas and Oklahoma, except employes of The Record News and members of their families.

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UN-ACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When in the judgment of the contest manager more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together send in a solution of the puzzle, he reserves the right to refund subscriptions and return the solutions he believes have been submitted contrary to the foregoing rule. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solutions it believes have not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them, and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize; the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

Closing Date

The Great Elephant Puzzle Contest Will Close at Nine P. M. Wednesday, December 1, 1926.

The earlier you send in your solution the longer time you will have to go over your figures, AND SEND IN ANOTHER SOLUTION, if you find you can do better. Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at the address below or sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing them. NO SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS BEEN ONCE REGISTERED.

Important Facts to Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts. .... Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one person

BAYLOR ROADS GET ATTENTION

First Unit of Ninety-Mile Permanent System Completed

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Nov. 13.—The first stretch of Baylor county's 90 miles of permanent road system was finished Friday afternoon, making seven and a half miles of concrete road from Red Springs, northwest of Seymour on the F. F. F. highway west to Benjamin and connecting with the pavement on North Washington street.

The work of hard surfacing is being done by Wormack Construction company, contractors of Sherman, Texas.

Work will be started on the Ozark Trail, highway between Seymour and Haskell, as soon as machinery and materials can be moved from the present road. Concrete will be laid from South Washington street to the junction of the Throckmorton and Haskell roads. From the concrete on all roads a road of deep gravel bed with asphalt topping will be laid to the county line. This work is now being done on two of the roads, Haskell and Benjamin.

It is thought that all concrete roads will be opened up to traffic by Christmas.

The Throckmorton road bed is being built at present by H .H. Stone e& company and when finished work will start on highway to Wichita Falls. When all work is completed Baylor county will have a system of roads equaled by few counties in the state.

ELECTRA SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 13.—The Lampas club was entertained last week by Mrs. E. C. Wilson, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Ashley, with Mrs. J. M. Knight presiding at the meeting. The occasion of the meeting was program day, with Mrs. Ashley in charge of the program section. The program consisted of a series of readings, musical selections and talks. After the program miscellaneous showers were given for Mesdames Dewey Doval and Clarence Johns, with the conclusion of the evening being devoted to a social hour with refreshments served to the following: Mesdames Clarence Jones, Claude Conyers, Dewey Doval, Earl Hemby, C. W. Scheurer, Gordon Allen, Sid Gamblin, Kirk Moore, Claud Suggs, R. E. Scheurer, Fred Cummings, Homer Grizzle, Robert Richardson, C. M. Bryson, Bennett Nance, C. E. Pye, T. C. Stockton, Dannie Dale, T. M. Benbow. Visitors, were Mrs. eJohns of Pampa, Mrs. Tom Vandeventer, and L. D. Smith. Mrs. Claud Conyers will be hostesses to the club next week.

Boy Scouts Hold Meet.

Songs and flag-raising were the opening numbers of the Boy Scouts last meeting, when troops one and two of the Flaming Arrow gathered. Then came the events forming the first lap of the semi-annual contest which lasts three weeks. The Alligators won in the hand-wrestling; the Bob Whites in the leg-wrestling, and Signalling was won by the Crows; horse and rider by the Alligators; fire by friction by the Panthers, and an Archery exhibit by the Alligators. HASKELL SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Nov. 13.—Last Wednesday evening at the First Methodist church of Haskell, when Miss Mary Long, the beautiful and extremely popular daughter of C. D. Long became the bride of John Horatio Cunningham, Jr., attorney of San Antonio and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cunningham of that city. The decorations were a solid five-foot wall of smilax to the rear of the improvised altar that bore candelaibra of cathedral candles that were beautifully impressive when lighted. The entire pulpit and choir chancel rail was also covered in green with here and there floor baskets of large pink and yellow chrysanthemums.

The large auditorium was filled with life time friends of the bride and her family and quite a number of the groom's family and other out-of-town guests. These were escorted to their seats by Messrs. Brevard Long of Wichita Falls, Marion Shook and Clayborn Payne of Haskell.

The silent lighting of the candles announced that the appointed hour had arrived and Miss Cora Carver of Farmersville played two violin solos, "O, Promise Me," and "At Dawning," accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Long of Farmersville.

Then Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus" was sung by Mesdames Wayne Koonce, Hill Oates, Clayborn Payne, Tom French, and Misses Ermine Daugherty, Nettie McCollum, Helen Harbison and Eunice Huckabee, as they entered in couples carrying gilded chorus books tied with pastel ribbons, and taking their places in the choir they continued to sing until the bridal party assembled before the waiting pastor, Rev. W. B. Vaughn. During the ceremony, Miss Carver played McDowell's "To A Wild Rose."

The bride's maids were Miss Mary Glen Vick of Fort Worth and Miss Minifred Smith of Austin, schoolmaters of the bride at Texas university, the maid of honor was Miss Lois Ernest of Haskell, and the matron was the bride's sister, Mrs. Joe A. Broadus of Tyler. These ladies wore lovely modish evening gowns and carried shower bouquets of rose buds.

The little flower girls were neices of the bride, Margaret Long of Farmersville and Frances Shook of Haskell. The ring bearer was a nephew of the bride, Master Thomas Long of of Wichita Falls.

The bride's maids attended were Clay Cunningham of San Antonio, brother of the groom and Oscar Oates of Haskell.

The bride was gowned in an imported creation of white pan velvet with rhinestone and pearl ornaments, with flowing vell, and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. She was escorted to the altar by her brother, Buford Long of Wichita Falls, who gave the bride in marriage. The groom awaited their coming, attended by Henry Moursand of San Antonio.

Affairs Honor Miss Mary Long

One of the lovelist of the many pre-nuptial affairs honoring Miss Mary Long bride-elect, was the party of last Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Magazine library, when three hostesses, Mesdames John W. Pace, John Oates and Miss Lois Earnest entertained in her honor. Baskets, bowls and table and wall vases of lovely yellow chrysanthemums were the major decorations in carrying out the color theme. Mrs. F. T. Sanders met the guests at the door and packages were taken in charge by little Misses Mary Louise Earnest of Rule and Frances Shook, and the guests were introduced to the members of the receiving line who were: the hostesses and Mrs. W. H. Murchison, Miss Lucile Taylor, Mrs. C. D. Long, Mrs. Marion Shook, and the members of the bridal party, Miss Mary Long, Misses Helen Harbison, Nettie McCollum, Eunice Huckabee, Ermine Daugherty, and Mesdames Wayne Koonce, Tom French, Calyborn Payne, and Joe A. Broadus of Tyler, Hill Oates. A clever diversion was the "musical domance," when intimate questions about the bride were asked and answered by piano solos. Mrs. Wayne Koonce sang, "Until" and then Mrs. Tom French, jauntily dressed as a private brought in a chest of present, and sang a priate song. She presented the treasures to the bride-to-be and sang "Queen of the Pirate's Heart." A magnficent display of gifts was then viewed by the guests who were later served a plate luncheon by the hostesses.

Theatre and Dinner Party

On Monday evening Mrs. Joe A. Broadus of Tyler and Miss Lois Ernest were joint hostesses to the wedding party and special guests in the Long-Cunningham wedding, they attended the Haskell theatre and then went to the Tonkawa Hotel and had dinner.

On Tuesday evening the wedding party had dinner with the bride's mother, Mrs. C. D. Long and then drove to Pinkerton lodge, the lovely country home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Pinkerton, where the ladies of the chorus of the wedding entertained with bridge. These hostesses were Mesdames Wayne Koonce, Hill Oates, Clayborn Payne, Tom French, and Misses Ermine Daugherty, Nettie McCollum, Helen Harbison, and Eunice Huckabee. A most delightful evening was spent in this hospitable home and the bride-to-be was given a gorgeous floor pillow and the groom-to-be a box of handkerchiefs. Those present were the hostesses and horonee and Miss Cora Carver of Farmersville, Miss Minifred Smith of Austin, Miss Mary Glen Vick of Fort Worth and Mesdames John Oates, C. D. Long, Joe A. Broadus of Tyler, Brevard Long, Buford Long, Wichita Falls, W. B. Long, Farmersville, Marion Shook, John W. Pace, and Messrs. Hill Oates, Tom French, Clayborn Payne, Wayne Koonce, Reynolds Wilson, Kenneth Thornton, Bert Welch, Hollis Atchison, John W. Pace, W. H. Murchison, Lesley Townsand, Oscar Oates, Emory Menefee, Joe A. Broadus, Marion Shook, Brevard Long, Buford Long, Wertha Long and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Pinkerton.

On Last Monday the members of the Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist church were invited to the parsonage where the hostess, Mrs. W. B. Vaughn directed a lesson on "The Untouched Area of the American Homes" and Mrs. Chas. Parsons told the story sent out by the council. Mrs. Vaughn also told a missionary story and later served a delicious plate luncheon to those present.

Official Board to Dinner

OLNEY SOCIETY

Special Correspondent of The Record News.

OLNEY, Nov. 13.—The Junior Altruistic club, sponsored a very enjoyable game tournament last Thursday afternoon and evening at the Country club, and from the proceeds $20 was netted for the treasury. Seven tables of bridge and "42" played in the afternoon and 13 tables in the evening were arranged for.

Attractive score cards matched partners for the games. In the aftenoon Mrs. S. O. Callahan Jr. and Mrs. Sam Casey won the high score in the evening. No prizes were given. Home made candy was sold during the games, and doughnuts and coffee served.

Robertsons Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harris entertained for Dr. and Mrs. Fen Robertson with a surprise dinner party on Monday evening in honor of their wedding anniversary.

A delicious menu of baked chicken, dressing, cranberry sauce, potatoes, peas in cream, pineapple salad and cake was served. The cake was beautifully iced and held three candles. Dr. and Mrs. Robertson also received a number of lovely gifts from those present.

Dainty place cards marked places at the table for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Harris and the honor guests.

Altruistic Club Tea.

One of the largest and prettiest social affairs of the season was the seated tea given last Friday afternoon by Mesdames Ralph Shuffler, Sam Casey and W. N. Lunn at the Olney Country club, entertaining the Altruistic club and its friends. The occasion was the visit of Mrs. J. C. Berney of Wichita Falls, who lectured on the "Scarlet Letter." Mrs. Berney's talk was divided into two parts. In the first she related the outstanding incidents in Hawthorne's life. In review of the author's life included the marked characteristics of the political events at that time, which had such a great bearing on his life and writings. The interpretation of the novel, given in the latter part of the lecture, was beautifully and appealingly told, making the theme of the story the influence of sin upon the human heart, and the possibility of regeneration, if that sin be confessed.

Two musical numbers were given preceding the lecture. Mesdames Eruce Schulkey and J. C. Lovelace played a violin duet, "In a Cathedral," from the Adantio in D minor, by Lemere and Mrs. Frances Scott Thrash sang an adaptation by Weatherly of an old Irish air, "Danny Boy." Both numbers were accompanied by Mrs. Z. W. Hunt.

The club rooms were decorated with fall roses and chrysanthemums and the huge blazing wood fire lent a cheerful glow. A number of out-of-town guests were present and enjoyed the social hour after the program.

A two course menu of chicken pressed, stuffed olives, wafers, coffee, individual angel food cake and marshmallow pudding, with plate favors of chrysanthemums was served the following club members and guests:

Mesdames Rhea Anderson, Henry Byrom, W. C. Harrell, J. F. Hollis, L. L. Logan, J. C. Loveiace, H. C. McKinney, Will O'Connell, D. B. Rogers, B. C. Schulkey, J. R. Suite, M. D. Wolverton, Charles Wolverton, T. P. Guimarin, and Mesdames Harry Hollister and Prideaux of Archer City; Griffin of Graham; J. H. Powell, W. L. Scott, Bert Bloodworth, Lavello Arwood, Nance, Harry Ware, Clark Davis, J. P. Alexander, DeWitt McClatchey, Will Thomas, McDavid, Henry Harris, Fern Robertson, A. A. Cooper, Tanner, Lawrence, Haney, Frances Scott Thrash, E. W. Hunt and Misses Glen Elliott and Leah Flint.

Sunday School Class Entertained.

Mrs. T. L. Blewett entertained the members of Mrs. G. Robertson's Sunday school class and their husbands Friday evening at her new home on west First street. The guests enjoyed the radio and games and contests. One novel feature was the measuring of each couple present, proving that this is the "largest" class in Methodist Sunday school.

At the close of the pleasant evening, refreshments were served.

Keep Thin

To Keep Young

Some fight fat by strenuous exercise, some by starvation diet. But the fight is hard and never-ending.

Millions have learned to fight it with Marmola Prescription Tablets. They correct the cause. This is the easy, pleasant way. It is the enduring way.

Marmola has been used for 19 years. The use has grown, through proved results, until people are using some 100,000 boxes monthly. You see the results wherever you look. You can learn them by inquiring of your friends. Excess fat is not one-tenth so common as it was.

Some wonder if such results can be accomplished without harm. The evidence is everywhere. Countless people know that Marmola brings benefits other than reduction. It could not live and prosper for nearly two decades without that.

Learn what Marmola does. Watch the gradual but constant reduction. Watch the new vitality that comes. Then tell your friends. Tell them how easy it is to reduce in the right way. Go start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Send this coupon for our latest book, a 25-ct. sample free, and our guarantee. Clip it now.

"The Boys Who Lie in Flanders Field" was the subject of an interesting and impressive talk given by the Rev. Walker, pastor of the Walnut Baptist church when he took part on the Armistice day program presented at the meeting of the Barwise P.-T. A. Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Alva Willgus gave an instructive talk on "The Needs and Desires of Children," and Mrs. Wilson talked on the co-operation of mothers with teachers, urging them to attend the P.-T. A. meetings and find out what the organization stands for.

A song, "Thanksgiving Day," was sung by children of the third grade, and Miss Katheryn Sullivan sang "Just a Cottage Small," accompanied at the piano by Miss Elizabeth Cole.

Following the program, the members repaired to the school cafeteria where Miss Sutherland, Red Cross nutrition expert, demonstrated how to cook and serve some excellent recipes which she also gave the mothers.

Musicians Club Has Ambitious Program

With many ambitious plans already bidding fair to become a reality, members of the Musician's club are looking forward this year as being the most successful since their organization the past week, the club expects to bring the finest and most perfect stringed quartet in the world here November 26 and many more artists will be brought during the season.

The Musician's club is second oldest club in the city and has enrolled 172 active, professional and associate members. It has since its organization sponsored the bringing of real artists in music to the city, and bought three pianos at a total value of $4,500. Two of the instruments were bought for the use of the club, while a Steinway baby grand was presented the Junior college upon its completion. The club has three open meetings a season and alternates regular evening with those of the meetings afternoon.

Mrs. Harwood Stacy is the president and it is largely due to her talent, efficiency and unselfish labor that the club has undertaken the program planned for this year.

Travel Club Observes Armistice Day Friday

Armistice day was observed by members of the Travel club which met at the home of Mrs. E. T. Duff Friday afternoon when Mrs. John W. Thomas led the program. Mrs. Thomas gave a group of war poems by Robert Service, including "In Flanders Fields" and also read a poem by Grace Noel Crowell's husband.

Miss Eva Wallace, who during the war was a Red Cross nurse, with the American expeditionary forces in France, told interestingly of Armistice day in Paris, and Mrs. Lyle Sproles told of war memorials especially mentioning the one dedicated in Kansas City by President Coolidge and Queen Marie of Rumania.

Those present were Mesdames J. W. Akin, Leslie Humphrey, Q. B. Lee, Guy Rogers, H. L. Shapard, Lyle Sproles, John Thomas, W. W. Cook and Arch Dawson.

New Century Juniors Have Armistice Program

"America in the World War" was the subject of the afternoon with Mrs. O. Abernathy, leader, and Mrs. Paul Harding, hostess.

Roll call was responded to with the names of men and women prominent in the peace movement, and Mrs. Ray Puckett read a paper on "What Every American Should Know About the World War." Mrs. Robert Kolm read a paper on "Historical Facts in the Signing of the Armistice," and Mrs. Abernathy read a group of war poems.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Abernathy, Dillard, Anderson, S. M. Gose Jr., Paul Harding, Joe Huckins, Robert Kolm, Ray Puckett, Thomas Sorey, Chester Wynne and Misses Crystelle Waggoner, Elva Killingsworth, Ethel Moran, Vera Hale, Marguerite Fisher and Suda Willis.

Barwise P. T. A. Have Armistice Program

"The Boys Who Lie in Flanders Field" was the subject of an interesting and impressive talk given by the Rev. Walker, pastor of the Walnut Baptist church when he took part on the Armistice day program presented at the meeting of the Barwise P.-T. A. Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Alva Willgus gave an instructive talk on "The Needs and Desires of Children," and Mrs. Wilson talked on the co-operation of mothers with teachers, urging them to attend the P.-T. A. meetings and find out what the organization stands for.

A song, "Thanksgiving Day," was sung by children of the third grade, and Miss Katheryn Sullivan sang "Just a Cottage Small," accompanied at the piano by Miss Elizabeth Cole.

Following the program, the members repaired to the school cafeteria where Miss Sutherland, Red Cross nutrition expert, demonstrated how to cook and serve some excellent recipes which she also gave the mothers.

Musicians Club Has Ambitious Program

With many ambitious plans already bidding fair to become a reality, members of the Musician's club are looking forward this year as being the most successful since their organization the past week, the club expects to bring the finest and most perfect stringed quartet in the world here November 26 and many more artists will be brought during the season.

The Musician's club is second oldest club in the city and has enrolled 172 active, professional and associate members. It has since its organization sponsored the bringing of real artists in music to the city, and bought three pianos at a total value of $4,500. Two of the instruments were bought for the use of the club, while a Steinway baby grand was presented the Junior college upon its completion. The club has three open meetings a season and alternates regular evening with those of the meetings afternoon.

Mrs. Harwood Stacy is the president and it is largely due to her talent, efficiency and unselfish labor that the club has undertaken the program planned for this year.

Busy Week Slips By With a Rush When Society Weddings, Banquets and All Kinds of Meetings Are Staged

DEAR KITTY: We have had a busy week, doing everything, beginning on Monday evening with the wedding of Sibyl Kell and Wilbur Cahoon with the large reception following, straight through to Friday night, which was one of the busiest days of the autumn. On Tuesday afternoon one of the largest crowds of club women gathered in Wichita Falls for some time, heard the well-known welfare worker, Charles Brandon Booth, son of the famous General Ballington Booth and Maud Ballington Booth, when he spoke interestingly and forcibly on "The Child No One Understands." Mothers of small children will have cause to remember this speaker for some time as his talk was straight to the point and filled with valuable information concerning facts about children of peculiar disposition that have been perplexing to mothers of every generation. "Oh, if I could have heard what I did today when I was rearing my children; the young mothers of today are so fortunate," were among the many remarks heard after the talk.

And then the banquets, scarcely were the decorations cleared from one table at the various clubs where social affairs are given before they were again prepared for another.

AMONG the most elaborate of the week was given at the Kemp hotel on Thursday night when the Pat Carrigan Post of the American Legion celebrated Armistice day with a banquet and ball, which was not only attended by local legionnaires and their wives, but guests from several surrounding cities were there. The medical men of the county and their wives had an elaborate banquet at the Wichita club Wednesday evening, while Wednesday afternoon about 1 o'clock, members of the B. O. P. Sunday school class of the First Methodist church had their annual banquet and election of officers, while Friday the T.E.L. class of the First Baptist church held their annual banquet at the Country club.

And while we are talking about happenings at the Country club, I am reminded of the informal dance given there Wednesday night when probably the largest crowd of the season attended.

BUT no matter how much is going on, nothing puts it over the autum brides, for Cupid's crop is a veritable harvest of weddings, and certainly he is no respector of the age limit, as not even the 'teen age escapes his espionage, and he has pried into so many secrets and been head of the matrimonial bureau so long that he's well up on his business by now. Last week the whole atmosphere was filled with the fragrance of lilies, chrysanthemums and bride's roses, and this week there will be just as many bouquets going forth under the skilled hands of the florists, as with the announcement of the approaching weddings of two of our most popular girls, Janie McCallister and Gay Gwynne, the next week or so is sure to be filled with many delightful pre-nuptial affairs.

If there's one thing more than another I'm never talked-out about, it's the drama, and I am so happy that the dramatic department of the Woman's Forum of which Mrs. J. T. Harrell is the able director, is sponsoring an especially artistic program on Tuesday afternoon. Members of the Reader's club, composed of some of the most finished exponents of dramatic art in the city, are giving the program, which will include a humorist reading by Mrs. Charles H. Read; a dramatic reading by Mrs. E. L. Fulton, and a one-act play by Essex Dane, "Whirlwind." The play is well cast it is said, and is a delightful revolutionary story of middle Europe. The last program and the first of the fall season to be presented by this department proved a huge success with the ball room of the Kemp hotel filled to its capacity, and it is expected that this one will draw equally as large crowd.

AND speaking of clubs, what with our dramatic and musical organizations, all planning special programs, everything points to a very busy social season this winter.

That's nothing new in Wichita Falls, you answer back, because every season is a busy one socially. But when I tell you that dates are being made two months in advance for affairs, maybe you will believe me when I say that I have already gotten wind of three concerts to be given in the next two months by the Musician's and Choral clubs. Besides a big party the Musician's club are giving soon when the officers of all the music clubs in the district will be entertained.

And all these social functions, been and to be, brings up the ever interesting subject of style for women. There is a subtle change in the make-up of the more extreme of the society women, noticed lately. The make-up is becoming less obvious and also less "vampish." The change is something of a revolution from the piled-on rouge and crimson lipstick and there is missing the exotic perfume so noticeable during the recent season.

IN Bond street, London, beauty parlors, it is confidentially whispered that women are trying once again to have real complexions and that to be a really smart society dame, one must cultivate the cream and white complexion of the average soap advertisements.

Penciled eyebrows and eyelashes are expected by the experts to soon disappear and with them it is asserted will be a hastening of the Eton crop.

I wonder if you have noticed anything different in the girl's walk of today than of those of the older generations? According to the very expert opinion of Mrs. Diana Watts, whose fad is traveling from one country to another to observe how women walk, girls of today have the worst gait in history. The modern girls she contends have cultivated a so-called "Slouch," which is not only bad for health, but a sign that women of this generation are "sloppy minded."

ꕥ ꕥ ꕥ ꕥ

THE secret of a correct carriage in walking goes back to a fundamental undying principle which the Greeks knew and which was lost for about 2,000 years, Mrs. Watts declared, "which is really what George Bernard Shaw calls the 'technique of the diaphram,' the independence of which cannot be exaggerated."

"Older people complain of girls' dress," Mrs. Watts says, "but in my opinion, the styles are charming. What is wrong with the modern girl is the way she sits and walks with her chin poked down, her shoulders hunched up, the upper part of her body completely curved and her diaphram crumpled up dangerously.

"She does not hold herself nearly so well as girls did 20 or 30 years ago when dresses were difficult to manage."

And now I know you are tired reading all this chatter and if you will patiently wait until next week you will be hearing more from—

Teeth Like Pearls

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My teeth, as countless women know, glisten like a row of pearls.

This tells you why. I use a new-type tooth paste which combines all helps in one. The ablest authorities I consult told me to employ it.

The name is Quindent, meaning five in one. It is made by Quindent Laboratories. It contains an olive oil cleanser of the highest order. Two harmless polishers which beautify the teeth. Four antiseptics and iodine, to combat germ attacks on the gums. Magnesia and other antacids, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay. And breath deodorants.

I have used all these helps—always. But I had to use several tooth pastes, then a mouth wash, then magnesia, then deodorants. I spent a half-hour daily on my teeth.

Now Quindent tooth paste combines all in one. Four great organizations collaborated on it. It typifies the utmost in a modern dentifrice. The 16 ingredients do everything required. Now I use it exclusively, and use nothing else, by the ablest advice I can get.

The makers supply me samples—enough for 20 uses. They are for women who wish to use what I use—who follow my advice. Let me send you one. It will bring you new conceptions of a tooth paste. It will show you what modern authorities advise. This is the dentifrice of today.

DOUBLE ACTING

MAKES BAKING EASIER

Baking Powder means a baking powder containing two leavening units—one begins to work when the dough is mixed, the other waits for the heat of the oven, then both units work together.

Nice fresh biscuits every night and morning—and it is so convenient. Just mix up a batch of dough in the evening—use part of it—put the rest of it away in the ice box and then, in the morning, all you have to do is slip it into the oven for another batch of those delicious Calumet biscuits that everyone likes so well. Not a bit of bother. No uncertainty about results, because Calumet never fails—always dependable.

Art Exhibit Will Be Held at Alamo School Nov. 13 to 26

Paintings, drawings and etchings by southern artists will be seen November 13-26 in the Alamo school under the auspices of the art department of the Woman's Forum. They are from the Southern States Art league, which has its headquarters in New Orleans, La., and comprise its four circuit exhibition. They were selected from the sixth annual exhibition of the league, held in the Museum of Fine Arts of Houston, Texas, last March.

Most of the artists are natives of the south, and all have lived in the south for five years or longer. The majority of the subjects are southern, whether figures, landscapes or flowers. Variety is seen in the individual styles of the artists, which are very different.

Among the exhibits will me "Laguna" by Virginia Wooley; "The Ranger," by Mabel H. Ebersole; "Alice," by Marguerite C. Miller; "Nancy's Bouquet," J. Kelley Fitzpatrick; "Glacier Point, Yosemite," William Woodward; "Deserted," Mary de B. Graves; "Treme Market, New Orleans," C. Millet; "Myrtis," Evelyn Byers; "Mrs. Robertson," S. Richardson Cherry; "The Old Oak," L. M. Tonkin; "Moonlight," F. W. Cuprien; St. Phillip's, Charleston," Elizabeth White; "The Maroda," Frank Klepper, and "A Sunny Courtyard," by Anne Wells Munger.

DOROTHY DIX HAS A NEW MESSAGE EACH DAY

Here's One of The Real Tragedies Of Married Existence

Poor, Sick, Worn-Out Little Mother Is Deserving Of Sympathy

Dear Miss Dix:

I have been married two years and have two babies. My husband has a terrible temper. I do everything I can to please him, but he finds fault with everything I do. It seems to me that he only comes home to see what else he can quarrel about.

I don't want my home broken up. I love my babies and my husband. I have no money and no place to go, but I can't stand this any longer. What shall I do?

ALWAYS CRYING.

Answer:

Poor, sick, wornout, overworked mother with too many babies and a fault-finding husband, I could cry with you to think how sad and how hopeless is your lot, for what can you do but endure it?

If you had any money you could take your children and go away from your fault-finding and abusive husband. If you had parents to whose home you could flee as to a city of refuge, you might be free from him, but you have neither. Bitter as your fate is now, it would be bitterer still if you were wandering the streets with your babies in your arms, with no roof to shelter you, listening to them crying for food that you could not give them.

A poor woman with little children is as absolutely in her husband's power as any slave ever was in the power of its owner. He can treat her as he will and she has to endure it for her children's sake.

And I know of nothing that reflects so harshly on human nature as the fact that so many men use the knowledge that their wives cannot defend themselves to treat them worse than they would a dog. They curse them, they insult and revile them, they beat them and the poor creatures cannot leave because they cannot desert their children.

There is no way to make a fault-finding husband quit fault-finding, nor is there any way to make him treat you kinder, because if he were not cruel by nature and did not enjoy tormenting a helpless thing he would understand that you were worn out with taking care of two babies that have come too close together and that you are sickly and nerve-wracked and he would be tender and patient and kind to you.

But stop crying. It does no good. Wipe your eyes and brace up and make the best of things. Quit worrying over your husband's fault-finding. Don't listen to it. If you try you can become as indifferent to it as to the buzzing of gnats about you.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix.:

I am young. I am good-looking. I dress well. I have an entertaining line of conversation. I am not a prude. Why is it that girls less attractive that I am can walk right in and take any man who is paying me attention away from me?

—P. P.

Answer:

Neither Solomon nor the seven sages can answer that question. The way of a snake on a rock and a man and a maid are two of the insoluble riddles of the ages. We can only say that it is a matter of personal magnetism and when we say that we substitute one mystery for another.

One woman has that intangible something about her that draws men to her as a magnet draws steel. Men swarm about her as bees about a honey pot, and she may take her choice of a husband of a score of men.

Another woman better looking more intelligent, her superior in every way, has never a beau to bless herself with and lives and dies an old maid. Why this is thus, neither men nor women know.

DOROTHY DIX.

Wichita Girls In Dance at Austin

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 13.—The girls of the Scottish Rite dormitory entertained with their annual autumn dance Wednesday night preceding the Armistice holiday. The affair was in keeping with the enjoyable entertainments for which the dormitory is noted and among the guests of the evening were Lee Haney of Wichita Falls, and George Coltzer of Vernon. Misses Maxine King, Virginia Woodall and Dorothy Ragely of Wichita Falls and Miss Leslie King of Vernon are S. R. D. girls.

The Beta Theta Pi fraternity entertained with its annual dinner dance Wednesday evening at the chapter house on University avenue, the affair being one of the most unusual and distinctive of the season. The lower floor was transformed into a replica of a Mohammedan town on the edge of a desert, with a mosque, richly decorated sheik's tent, and a gayly colored bazaar where a bewhiskered Arab presided over Oriental wares.

A six-course dinner was served to about 100 guests, among whom were Misses Elizabeth Couper, Wilton Wade and Margaret Smith. Hubert Stringer, Gerald Coffey, Preston Wood of Wichita Falls and Jim Wilson of Quanah who are members of the Beta fraternity.

LIONS ENTERTAIN

Childress Body Invite Church Men To Lunch

CHILDRESS, Nov. 13.—Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas, Presiding Elder O. P. Clark of Vernon and Dr. A. L. Moore of Stamford, here with the Northwest Texas conference, were the guests of the Lions club Tuesday.

The club made a written request to the Bishop Moore of the conference, asking that Rev. W. M. Murrel be retained in Childress.

She Christens New "West Texas" Steamer

Miss Francis Long of Abilene, student of the University of Texas while attending school in Austin was chosen by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to christen the Southern Steamship company's newest vessel "West Texas." The christening took place in Houston recently before a notable gathering of Texas leaders in all walks of life.

Wichita Falls Homes Brightened By Appearance of 38 New Kiddies

A number of Wichita Falls homes have been brightened the last few days by the appearance of 18 future belles and 20 beaux. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Flournoy Jr., of 1815 McGregor, little Miss Flournoy came November 10 to make a permanent home with the family. Little Miss Walsh has come to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Walsh, arriving here October 26. Mollie Frances Smith is the charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith of 1408 North Tenth street, who came November 3 to make her stay.

Try Mine

My powders, used by movie stars

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I am a stage star and a movie star. All my friends are stars. I know these public beauties as few do.

We are extravagant. Supreme beauty means so much to us that nothing else can matter. I long paid for powders $5 per box, to secure the very best.

Now, by grace of the makers, I supply those powders at very modest price. The very super-powders for which I paid their price. All toilet counters now supply them at 50c and $1, under the name of Edna Wallace Hopper.

There are two types, but of this superlative grade. One a cold cream powder which clings and stays. I always use that. But many prefer a light fluffy powder. So I supply both styles. Both come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

Let me bring you a new conception of fine powder. Send the coupon for a sample with my Beauty Book. You will be delighted. Learn what we fastidious people use. Clip coupon now.

Fall Frolic Ready For Optimists On Thursday Evening

Optimists and their wives and sweethearts will be entertained Thursday night, November 18, at the Literary society program at the "Little Red School House" at the Country club in their annual fall frolic, according to announcement from the committees. The auditorium of the little brick school is to be fittingly decorated by Vendope L. Pistocco who is arranging the decorations.

Professor Roy J. Daniel, teacher in charge, will call on a number of his brightest boys including Claude Miller and B. D. Cartin who are expected to show off some of their teachings. Other young hopefuls will be called on also, it was said, when the village minister and the board of education comes to call on the school.

A light lunch will be brought by the women and the boxes will be auctioned to the highest bidder about 9:30 o'clock. Maximum prices of $1.50 are set for the boxes, and those attending are advised by the committee to eat a bowl of soup before waiting for the box supper. No man will be allowed to buy his own wife's box, and if he should, authorities in charge will persuade him to make an exchange.

Other specials are to be included in the program, the committee said, but the members are especially invited to come and see.

CONCRETE FOR WALTERS

WALTERS, Okla., Nov. 13.—Two miles of State Highway No. 5 east of Walters are to be paved with concrete at a cost of approximately $70,000 by the state highway commission, $15,000 of which will be borne by Cotton county. DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

But a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin" Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

ICE CREAM is the dessert which never fails to please. It is universal in its appeal to the palate.

Some of the cleverest molds for the all-important Thanksgiving dinner are plump turkey gobblers in chocolate ice cream, triangular slices that imitate pumpkin pie, and round yellow pumpkins.

The first thought for a perfect dinner may well be Colvert's delicious ice cream which you may serve with the assurance that it is a real, rich, pure food which everyone will enjoy.

I WONDER if the buckles of colonial dames were half as intriguing as the colonial designs at Harry's, 616 Eighth street. Here Miss 1926 may purchase large, finely wrought bronze buckles for Sherri patent slippers, or steel filled in with any color to match costume or two-toned shoe, at the astonishingly low prices of $1.50 or $2.00.

Harry's is noted for $6.00 shoes which are smart and different. The bright blue opera pumps Paris wears with the dark blue or black dress, as well as comfortable Cuban heels, which are returning to marked favor, are among his latest arrivals.

Black patent and modeled reptile with green background in the oval steel buckles, gives a striking example of Harry's up-to-the-minute patterns at appreciable prices.

I VENTURE Santa Claus has already picked Bailey-Moline's China Shop out as one of the chief places he is to patronize!

So many people were there the other day browsing among the wide assortment of gifts—they may have been purchasing for the home, for Aunt Sally, little sister, sweetheart, or Cousin Joe—one can never tell at the China Shop because there are gifts appropriate for all.

A new shipment of luster-ware (made in Japan) has just arrived. Cigarette and candy boxes, spoon trays, vases and marmalade jars in beautiful lustrous blue or orange tint would make the daintiest of Christmas presents. The luster-ware honey jar is a cunning blue china log house—if that's quite clear, you'll agree that such a honey jar would brighten any breakfast table.

Another Christmas item at the China Shop is the metal candle holder which looks as if it were a waxen poinsetta. How nice it is to discover a new decoration which will lend the old Yuletide spirit and be itself quite new!

"PALE hands, pink tipped" are much more attractive these wintry days encased in dainty gloves lest they become too pink!

McClurkan's novelty gloves in all the new shades with vivid embroideries, and flare or turnback cuffs, are sure to gratify Milady's taste for chic.

THE old-fashioned Christmas stocking beside the fireplace has been vastly improved upon as a savings bank. The North Texas Building and Loan Association, 706 Tenth Street, offers the most convenient of plans for your Christmas saving! Here you receive 10 per cent interest on your principal with the privilege of withdrawing it after thirty days notice, nicely increased.

The beginning of a saving's account for any member of your family is one of the most substantial and lasting of gifts, too. Just how lovely a present this is can be seen from a glance at statistics which show that $25.00 monthly savings at 10 per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually, will amount to $1,941.75 in five years! !

The investments of this firm are of entirely well selected loans, so you may feel absolutely secure about your savings with the North Texas Building and Loan.

RED feather carnations and soft rubber roses are among the novel blossoms at Josa Dickson's, which are destined to snuggle on chic feminine shoulders. Velvet, silk and metal fabrics are also used for bewitching corsages and boutonnieres.

CLIP THIS ITEM!

will be sold at a discount of 10 per cent to those who present this clipping!

Everyone knows how attractive and serviceable bright corduroy robes are during the winter months, but everyone does not know that they are now to be had in lovely printed designs. Solid black trimmed in geranium, a printed fuchsin, a blue and peach printed combination, and so on into every color of the rainbow run these beautiful robes at Kimberlin's.

Don't forget the 10 per cent reduction! It is so nice of Mr. Kimberlin to make such an offer. Surely you will seize the opportunity.

MARABOU has such a light-hearted sound—it suggests frolicsome Vienna, and the marabou collars Saul is showing lend this very necessary animation to fair women. In all flower shades, solid and two-toned also in black and white, Chanel red and a wide range from blues to burnt orange, these fluffy feather boas add the touch of fashionable finish to a costume. The surprisingly low prices are from $2.48 to $5.95.

Infants' coats in sizes from 2 to 6 years are shown at Saul's. Soft beaver collars, heavy brushed worsted, chinchilla, trimmed in caracul—these are some of the high lights of the darling little coats which mothers will be pleased to find thickly padded and priced from $2.49 to $11.95. White and all colors, from Blue-bird blue to Red Ridinghood red, are featured.

THERE is such a cozy, neighborly atmosphere at the Haley Drug Store, 1401 Tenth Street, that it is quite a rendezvous and now that the weather has determined to be winter in earnest, Haley's offers an added attraction in Whitman's hot chocolate.

The reductions in reliable cosmetics are most attractive here, too. Coty's face and talcum powder, which are such a delight to use, are marked down to eighty-five cents, while Coty's perfume in the favorite scents is priced at 89c and $1.78, instead of the usual $1.00 and $2.00, respectively. Jergen's Lotion (saver of delicate hands from roughening and reddening) is sold at Haley's in 43c and 89c sizes.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN would certainly have the second great shock of his life to step inside the Wichita Electric Company! What a pleasant surprise he would find in all the wonderful electrical devices which make the modern home so comfortable, convenient and beautiful.

The Wichita Electric Company shows all of these at remarkably reasonable prices, and now that Christmas is appearing on the horizon, there is another angle from which to regard the lovely lamps, toasters, percolators (among these are the rare two-cup ones) and $12.50 waffle irons reduced to $10.00—they make wonderful Christmas gifts.

If this list does not include exactly what you would like, look in at the Wichita Electric Company and you will find it among their full line of beautiful appliances.

DID you know that the French Shoppe, 706 Tenth Street, is featuring a beautiful line of handmade things for Christmas? Lovely lamp shades, fluffy pillows and any of the hand-made things which make such acceptable gifts, are being shown in this shop by the Misses Schultz, in addition to their attractive millinery.

CHRISTMAS gift! Christmas gift! That is what everyone is thinking so, of course, the inevitable joy a lovely picture brings as a present recurred to me the moment I stepped into Huffines and Company, 811 Eighth street, Harvey-Snider Building.

A fine collection of prints, ranging from the usual favorites to rare French prints, are here for you to choose from with also a few original oil paintings by such noted artists as Helen King Kendall, member of the Art Reigh Club. A blue-bonnet field by Miss Kendall would be dear to any Texan's heart!

Framed mottos are other lasting gifts at Huffines in which it is possible to express the individualism of the giver.

IN McClurkan's novelty department you will find the Christmas gift which is different and dear to the feminine heart.

Garters with powder puff, or "kerchief to match, some of them in merry Christmas red, are as gay as one could wish! Slipper spoons in gray, white, jade and amber with jeweled heels for handles, are also cunning novelties.

Children's vanity sets with comb, brush and mirror, are sure to please those at the "in-between age," which is so hard to gratify. McClurkan's handkerchief sets and mesh and leather bags for children make attractive, as well as useful gifts, too.

WHAT pride the Thanksgiving hostess who pours tea or coffee from a handsome sterling pot will feel! Dave Paul (Our Jeweler) is showing in his shining new cases the most elegant tea and coffee sets in five pieces—they send the joy of assurance in her appointments through a woman's veins and after all, on Thanksgiving at least, that sensation is the due of every hostess. Do drop by Dave Paul's to have a look at the "beauty that is sterling."

WHAT could be more interesting with Thanksgiving and Christmas coming so soon than serviceable china which embodies the three requisites of art—beauty of form, color and texture!

Royal Doulton has set the tables of the blue blood for decades and Noble-Little Hardware Company is now showing a complete service of this superior bone china in two beautiful new patterns.

Royal seems truly the only suitable name for it! The radiant white bodies exquisitely decorated in a predominantly blue fruit design, and the even newer finish in ivory with harmonious yellow and lavender flowers, are equally charming. Each piece of Royal Doulton makes another appeal to the artistic sense through its lovely and distinctive form, and to the practical by its wonderful wearing qualities—for Royal Doulton is in the china world what the Rolls Royce is among automobiles—it lasts a lifetime. You will agree to its perfection when you see it at Noble-Little's.

IN SO many different places I have heard the most complimentary remarks about the Fashion Studio. One discerning lady declared she had never had a dress that was paid so many compliments as one she bought from Mrs. Sanderford. Another that she knew of no other place which equalled the Fashion Studio in offering beautiful gowns at moderate prices. Dresses of unusual types, materials and styles are shown here, where one of the pleasing features is the reasonable price—so you see you don't know what you are missing if you do not shop at the Fashion Studio, 714 Ninth Street.

THE Novelty Gift Shoppe on Kimberlin's balcony, displays a varied collection of attractive gifts. Every conceivable gift may be found here, from odd chairs to dainty plaques! Novel party prizes are among the specialties of Mrs. Robertson, presiding mistress.

FASHION favors the same originality the same exquisite detail in this season's slippers that she insists upon in her garments. Sanderford's Booterie has just received a moire satin pump which reflects her every whim and fancy. With plain satin inlay at the throat, Spanish spike heel of the plain and a two-eyelet tie on the outer side, you can well imagine how distinctive a model this is, though to appreciate its full smartness and perfect lines, this shoe must be seen upon the feet.

Sheerest and most durable of chiffon hose, valued at $2.50, now reduced to $1.45, in all the new shades: Tortoise, Rosita, Illusion, Iris, Mauve and others that are as pretty as their names, are on special sale at the Booterie.

VELENCIA seems a synonym for popularity. The music, the dance, even menu specialties, have become popular under this swinging Spanish title, and now we have Valencia blue!

Miller-Ferguson is featuring this newest shade in his remarkable Thanksgiving sale. Dresses at $17.50, $27.00 and $37.00, which were originally priced as high as $58.75, are being shown in satin, moire, velvet, georgette—all of the approved fabrics for the holiday season.

An unusual Ming Tong model was of black with high Mandarin neckline fastened close by brightly enameled buttons, and with two color splashes of Chinese metallic embroidery for pockets.

Old rose and silver made a lovely dinner gown, so you see that there is a frock for every type in Miller-Ferguson's big Thanksgiving sale.

Plum Pudding

IT IS no wonder that the White House Market is one of Wichita Falls' most popular marketing places. Refreshing cleanliness, combined with choice foods, make it so.

Ideas for a wonderful Thanksgiving dinner come crowding the moment one steps into its doors. Cranberries, plum pudding, rich Martha Ann and other fruit cakes, olives, nuts—all of the good things are at the White House Market in both quantity and quality!

Fine turkeys, alive and dressed, await your orders, which should be placed as early as possible.

WICHITA Cleaning and Dye Works, Tenth and Austin, is the very place to send your furs and frocks to be cleaned and at the same time given once more that gloss of newness which makes a garment pleasant to wear.

You need have no fear of trusting the gorgeous party gown which "simply wouldn't clean" to these expert workers, for they can clean beautifully the most delicate of fabrics. Plush, velvet, fur—all of the favorite things you have left from last season, are handled with skill and finished on a form-fit pressing machine by the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works.

The wonderful dyeing of this establishment equals its cleaning achievements, and both are done at most moderate prices.

STERLING silver in all its holiday splendor is shown in the Thanksgiving window of the Burgess Jewelry Shop. Most attractive to me was the stately Colonial pattern with its shield for initials or crest—every piece desired, from fruit knives and coffee set to candle-sticks and roll tray, may be had in this beautiful design. The treed turkey platter and economical covered dish (which may be used as two vegetable dishes) are among the remarkably decorative sterling appointments at Burgess' artistic shop.

P.B.M.Co. DEPARTMENT STORE

A STORE THAT'S PLEASANT

One of the very finest things that can be said of a store—and one of the things we like best to hear—is when people call this a pleasant homelike, welcoming place to stop.

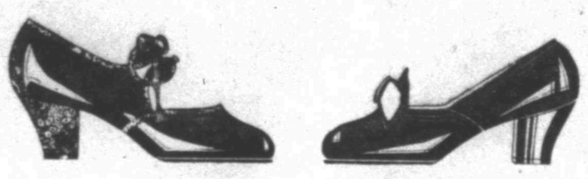

The efforts of this organization are vigorously bent toward keeping P. B. M. Company that COMPANIONABLE store and that PLEASANT store and that HOMELIKE store as you people of Wichita Falls have come to know it.

While keeping alert with the newest right ideas of storekeeping, we have always been anxious to remain a companionable place for home folks to shop.

And the aim of everyone in P. B. M. Company is to reflect that idea.

POPULAR "8" TO BE BACK FOR CONCERT

Henry Burr and His Supporting Cast Scheduled For Big Entertainment

A musical event that Wichita Falls always welcomes with open arms is announced for Tuesday night, November 30, when the popular Victor artists appear at the Junior college auditorium under the auspices of McConnell Brothers.

Somewhat altered as to personnel but of even better capabilities than before, the popular double-quartet of vocalists and instrumentalists will be back with the same delightful round of entertainment that has always featured their appearance here. They are known the world over through their own personal appearance and also through the Victor records that they make exclusively.

Burr Returning.

Henry Burr, the genial, rotund tenor who has sung his way to popularity in millions of hearts, heads the list. His rich voice is known wherever music is loved. He has been here before.

Billy Murray, known to everyone as a singer of humorous songs, will be back with his great array of entertainment. He has never failed to draw a laugh locally and this year he is said to have the best assortment in history.

Monroe Silver, the man who made the "Cohen" stories so popular has been heard around the world. His new arrangement of yarns is sure to amuse.

Frank Banta, popular pianist who has been with the organization from the first, will come again to delight music lovers with his keyboard artistry. He is well remembered by those who have heard the Victor artists before.

New Faces Coming.

New faces to be seen this year will include Sam Herman, xylophonist of nation-wide repute. He is a thorough musician and has developed an amazing technique on the instrument that, when properly played, never fails to excite admiration.

Carl Mathieu, lyric-tenor who takes the place of Albert Campbell, has been singing in the foremost musical circles of the country for several years. He is a finished musician in every sense of the word.

James Stanley is the new baritone. He is a native of St. Louis and has been doing concert work and oratorio work for several years. Stanley Baughman is the new basso who supplants Frank Foxton in the lower registers. He is also one of the foremost singers of the day.

The Peerless quartet, composed of Mathieu, Burr, Stanley and Baughman will be back with its splendid melody and harmony.

A HORSE HELPS

Tarzan Contributes Much to Two Stars

"Tarzan," the horse which contributes so much to the dramatic support of Ken Maynard and Dorothy Devore in "Senor Daredevil," the Chas. R. Rogers production now showing at the Garden theatre, has been entirely trained by Maynard and reflects his master's characteristics of fairness, humor and "pep." His arch tricks, as well as his strength and speed, contribute a number of the laughs, and several of the thrills.

Tom Tyler has never given his public anything but the best and cleanest of western drama, yet he has never been nearly satisfied. Perhaps this is the reason for the lasting quality of all the Tyler pictures, certainly it is the motive of his latest and best of them. Tom is often heard to say "a good western is not enough, the public wants something new, they expect and get the usual western stuff, but it seems to me that if we can put something novel into our series and still keep the western flavor intact we will have a product that will place the rest in the shade."

"Tom and His Pal," now showing at the Mission, is the result of this search for something different, and believe it if you like, but it sure is what it sets out to be. There is all the hard riding that has made Tom famous, there are all the stunts that you can possibly want, there is the richest romance that you ever thrilled to, and there is Frankie Darro and his dog to provide the elite of comedy.

Keep your eyes open for this different western star.

GLORIA'S LATEST

Rene Hubert, Miss Swanson's designer, used a still camera and trough time exposures completed a series of 100 photographs. The art director will utilize them in making his sets.

Motion pictures of the opera are not permitted.

The fairy, Tinker Bell, in "Peter Pan" was a tiny bit then, but she comes to the screen again, in a grown-up role. She is impersonating Anita Baker, millionaire sportswoman, in a picture featuring Thunder, the police dog star.

STAR'S LIFE HARD

Movie Work Not So 'Soft' As Painted.

The life of movie performers has its disagreeable features. One of them is the long waits they sometimes must endure before they are called into action. Some read magazines, but most of the cast either talk in groups or sit idly by while awaiting their turn in the scenes that are being shot. One noted star had three days of it, waiting to be momentarily called.

The Eight Victor Artists Who Appear Here In Concert Soon

Politics Back In Picture At Gem

Bowery Saloon of 1909 Is Included In "Silence," Here This Week

A typical Bowery saloon of 1904, a black and white political poster over the bar carrying the legend, "Vote for Alton B. Parker for president. Roosevelt means hard times," the big free lunch counter with its fat and jovial attendant, long rows of mirrors, a half dozen bartenders busily mixing drinks, an "old soak" here, an "old soak" there.

With the early scenes of the picture laid in the toughest section of New York's East Side, the crime and intrigue of the underworld furnishes opportunity for a series of thrilling situations that carry the narrative from one suspense to another with surprising rapidity.

H. B. Warner is seen in the featured role, that of "Jim Warren" a gentleman crook" of 1904. His life story furnishes the plot material around which Beulah Marie Dix has moulded a strange tale which has for its keynote a wonderful father love which prompts sacrifice even to a seemingly inevitable death to save a daughter's good name. Miss Dix's adaptation is from Max Marcin's stage play of the same name, which enjoyed a highly successful run of almost a year in New York. Warner also played the lead in the stage version of the picture.

REVERE EMPRESS

Children Lay Wreaths on Ex-Kaiserin's Grave

BERLIN, Nov. 13.v—The pilgrimage of Hohenzollerns to the tomb of Empress Auguste Victoria, first wife of William II, in the park of Sans Souci in Potsdam in commemoration of her birthday was solemnized this year with even greater reverence than in the past. Four of the former kaiser's six living sons and daughters deposited wreaths in the historic temple where lie buried a number of Hohenzollern kings and queens. Prince Eitel Friedrich came with a wreath from his father in Doorn an hour after the Potsdam county court granted the Princess Eitel a divorce on grounds of cruelty and neglect. Princess Hermine's floral tribute was placed in the temple by General Von Dommes. The empress died in 1921.

WIFE GETS EVEN

She Answers Spouse's Notice Denying Her Credit

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—A domestic drama in which the wife gave her husband a merry laugh enacted itself in the want-ad section of the Kalberge Village Daily near Berlin. The paper printed the following not unusual notice:

"I warn my friends not to lend my wife any money. I will not be responsible for her debts.—Fritz Woratscheck."

The next day the wife replied in the same columns:

"Dear Fritz: Don't worry. I have borrowed enough. All you have to do is pay the bills.—Helene Woratscheck."

HE GOT THE ROLE

Youth Can't Register Jealousy Except to Rival.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—"Now look jealous!" commanded a director of a young actor he was testing in a close-up. The young actor tried his best; he looked pained, disgusted, angry, but the facial expression of jealousy eluded him. "I guess you can't do it," grumbled the director. He called another actor.

The discomforted youth sank into a chair and watched his rival step in front of the camera. After a moment the director turned sharply to the youth in the chair. "That's it!" he cried. "Hold that expression!" And he grobbed the youth and forced him in front of the lens.

A CONVERTIBLE HAIRCUT

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6. (AP)—Helene Costello has a convertible haircut; boy if she wants it so, and girl otherwise. To go with this coiffeur, she has originated a hat band combcase. The band has a slip in it which pockets a small comb. Whenever she desires to comb her locks, or change her coiffeur she slips the comb from her hat band, and the hair-dressings act begins. The hat is a floppy felt.

OLYMPIC HAS A FILM EPIC

"Broken Hearts of Hollywood" Coming Here For Showing

In telling the story of "Broken Hearts of Hollywood," the Warner Brothers epic of Filmtown coming to the Olymphic theatre today, even the real estate men of Hollywood play a part.

For while Hollywood is primarily the film capitol of the world, for a time it looked as though the real estate business would rival the motion picture business in sudden successes or failures. Here over-night, new sub-divisions grew up, fortunes were made or lost. With the rapid growth of Hollywood, building and streets, homes and improvements knew no bounds.

"Broken Hearts of Hollywood" is a dramatic, realistic story of all that is "Hollywood." The stellar cast portraying the leading roles include Patsy Ruth Miller, Louise Dresser, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Stuart Holmes, Jerry Miley and Emile Chautard.

Directed by Lloyd Bacon, adapted from an original story by Raymond Schrock and Edward Clark, it is ranked as one of the outstanding successes of the current screen year.

'Low Brow' Taste In Movies Seen

German Critics Deplore What They Call Lapse In Good Taste

The public taste in movies is much the same the world over. German dramatic critics have said with reflections on the "low brow majority." They resent the fact that Lotte Reiniger's silhouette movie "The Adventures of Prince Achmed," recognized as the finest cinema ever produced in Germany, lasted just two weeks in one of Berlin's leading theaters. Every picture in "Achmed," an Arabian Nights tale, was cut out of paper, pasted on slides and photographer at the rate of 52 separate slides for each second of film. Miss Reiniger worked on it for two years. Critics also lament the fact that Emil Jennings "Variety," rated as the second best German film achievement in the last year, is being appreciated more in the U. S. than it was at home.

STRAND HAS GRIFFITH FILM

Pretty Corrine Returns In "Syncopating Sue" For Short Run

Corinne Griffith, after several romantic productions, has gotten hold of another light comedy picture of the sort "Classified" made famous. The dainty Duse is due at the Strand Monday in "Syncopating Sue," which New York audiences are greeting as her most finished performance on the screen.

There were not many who disagreed when "Liberty" pronounced Connie the most beautiful woman in the world. There will be few to challenge the advance reports that "Syncopating Sue" is one of the best pictures First National has released in this season of sensational screen hits.

Cast as a piano player in a music store where she "plugs" songs to attract the attention of well known vaudeville artists, Corinne gives a wistful yet comic portrayal of a stage struck young flapper whose greatest desire is to see her name spelled out in the electric lights of Broadway.

Tom Moore plays the happy-go-lucky trap drummer in a Broadway cabaret, who is in love with the winsome "would-be." Marjorie Rambeau, well known stage star; Rockcliffe Fellows, Lee Moran, Joyce Compton and Sunshine Hart complete the cast. Richard Wallace, Hal Roach veteran, directed.

IRENE FINISHES

Miss Rich Completes Her Second Russian Picture.

Irene Rich has just completed her second Russian picture, but under vastly different circumstances than her first. In Warners production of "My Official Wife," Miss Rich appears as the daughter of a Russian nobleman. Her first Russian picture was the "Battalion of Death," made nine years ago, when the only experience she could boast was three days' work in a mob scene. She appeared as one of the women soldiers for ten days.

Close-Ups of Six Taken on One Film.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—In the secret rooms of a Limehouse dive set planned ingeniously for many successive lighting and camera angles, long "shots," semi-close-ups and close-ups were made of six different characters without stopping the camera, which is believed to be a record. By means of special equipment and camera the finished "shot" of 230 feet is unbroken. If made by the ordinary methods, it would have been cut in from 21 to 30 parts.

OVERWHELMS PESSIMISM

LAND COMMISSIONER J. T. ROBINSON turned in his biennial report showing the largest receipts in the history of the state. The report shows a total of $10,177,479 total receipts, and the largest report heretofore was that of $7,699,418, turned in for 1918-20.

Cash payments amounting to $10,092,794, which is 31 per cent greater than before, were entered for land belonging to state endowed institutions, and included the interest and oil royalty of that land.

During the two-year period 10,172 sales were recorded on 259,229 acres of school land, totaling $1,375,594. On the oil royalty division, except the University of Texas lands, royalty amounting to $489,710 was paid in on 69,844 acres.

University lands derived a royalty of $4,311,923. It goes without saying that the fathers of Texas were wise when they provided for a university that would rank with the first in America and for a perpetual endowment fund for the public schools wherein should be educated all the children of all the people.

Speaking of oil territory, the land commissioner declared in his report that the Panhandle section has been deevloped into a good oil and gas field with excellent prospects for the future.

He did not remind his constituents then when all the oil has been pumped from the earth, agriculture and manufacture will be the wealth-making industries of Texas. Of course, it will be many years before the hidden wealth of Texas will be pumped into the pipe lines and then turned into gasoline and other products to supply the needs of a new civilization.

PARRISH AND THE BIBLE

REPRESENTATIVE M. C. PARRISH has proposed a bill to control the cotton acreage by law. Dr. J. B. Cranfill criticized the bill, saying it was uneconomic and unheard of. One G. F. Mills of Ellis county, a banner cotton producing county, is a Bible reader. He read the Cranfill epistle to the lawmakers and cotton growers. He read where the worthy doctor had said that controlling man by statute was something new, And then the Ellis county Bible reader let lose this information:

"Why, Dr. Cranfill, that process began in the garden of Eden when there was but one man to control and it held all through the patriarchal and Jewish dispensation. Certain animals were to be used in sacrifice; certain fire was to be used on the altar; land, even land, was controlled by law; land was to lie fallow every seventh year. Our railroads are controlled by law; birds, animals and fish are protected by law; our privilege to kill them, when and how many, is all on the statute books."

Dr. Cranfill is a famous lay preacher, a former newspaper publisher and eidtor. A lifelong prohibitionist, and ever a champion of law control until the Parrish proposal hit him between the eye.

"Land was to lie fallow every seventh year."

If the master of the universe thus decreed, why wouldn't it be possible for the lawmakers of the age to decree that cotton shall not be grown on the land two years in succession.

The man from Ellis county handed a wallop to the man from Dallas county and in handling the wallop, he appears to have pushed the Parrish cause along.

SPEAKING OF LOAN COMPANIES

THERE are prosperous building and loan companies in every Texas city. Regardless of this, an expert from afar is of the opinion that Texas presents the greatest field in the country for development of these building and loan associations.

This expert is Dr. H. F. Clarke, educational director of the American Savings and Building Institute. He is of the opinion that the only way to get the homeowner out of debt is to get him into a building and loan association, where his loan comes due when he is able to pay it.

There are 12,000 building and loan associations in the United States with assets of $5,500,000,000. Every day they loan enough money to house a city of 7,000 people. Moreover, he says, the field for building and loan associations in Texas have barely been scratched, and Texas presents a wonderful opportunity for development.

Philadelphia is a city of homeowners, and Philadelphia is the third largest city to be found in the United States. There are hundreds of building and loan associations in Pennsylvania. They are all powerful in a building sense in the state of New York. There has been tremendous growth in Texas since the Armistice was signed, and the building activities in 1926 have been a surprise to the financiers of the commonwealth.

A Swirling, Fighting Horde of Sengalese

The old Boché helment made an excellent thing to cook with. You jabbed a few holes in it with a bayonet so's to have a draft, and a mess-kit fitted over it beautifully. When you could get it, strips of high explosive, picked up around a 155-mm. gun position, made the best fuel, giving a fine, hot, smokeless fire. Smoke was not desirable on the front.

The chap on the opposite page is frying hard bread in bacon grease; he will sprinkle a little beet-sugar on it and have a real delicacy. Filling too. As he goes about this domestic labor, he is humming, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny." But the flies in the back-ground are attracted by the smell—not the song.

A Fighting Swirl of Sengalese

With Reason the Boche Feared Them Worse than Anything Living

Machine Guns Raving, Shrapnel And Shell Bursting While Bochs, Dazed By Attack's Fury, Fall Back, Beaten

THE STORY SO FAR:

This tale centers about the wartime activity of the 1st Battalion of the 5th Marines but really stands as a cross section of all the fighting done by Americans. After acquitting themselves marvelously at the Bois de Belleau and Hill 142 early in June, 1918 the 1st received replacements to cover horrible losses, fought some more and then were relieved. Respite behind the lines was soon crushed by new orders to proceed far to the north in the Soissons sector where the Germans were beginning a vast, new offensive. After an all-night's gruelling forced march the battalion finally arrived at the new front.

CHAPTER V.

The Actual Charge at Soisons.

It was 4:35, the morning of July 18.

Miles of close-laid batteries opened with one stupendous thunder. The air above the tree-tops spoke with unearthly noises, the shriek and rumble of light and heavily shells. Forward through the woods, very near, rose up a continued crashing roar of explosions, and a murk of smoke, and a hell of bright fires continually renewed. It lasted only five minutes, that barage, with every French and American gun that could be brought to bear firing at top speed. But they were terrible minutes for the unsuspecting Boche. Dazed, beaten down and swept away, he tumbled out of his holes when it lifted, only to find the long bayonets of the Americans licking like flame across his forward positions, and those black devils, the Senegalese, raging with knives in his rifle-pits. His counter-barrage was slow and weak, and when it came the shells burst well behind the assaulting waves, which were already deep in his defenses.

The 49th company, running heavily, sodden with weariness, was plunging through a line of wire entanglements when the guns opened. A French rifleman squatted in a hole under the wire and a sergeant bent over him and shouted: "Combien — how far — damn it, how you say?—combien—kilometre — a la Boche?" The Frenchman's eyes bulged. He did violent things with his arms. "Kilomet'? kilometres? Mon Dieu, cent metres. Cent metres!" Half the company, still in column, was struggling in the wire when, from the tangles right in front, a machine-gun dinned fiercely and rifle-fire ran to left and right through the woods

It was well that the woods were a little open in that spot, so that the lieutenant's frantic signals could be seen, for no voice could have been heard. And it was more than well that every man there had been shot over enough not to be gun-shy. They divined his order, they developed to the left, and they went forward yelling.

Suddenly Corbett, the platoon commander, leading to the left, turned and waved his arms. And through the trees he saw the Senegalese—lean, rangy men in mustard-colored uniforms, running with their bayonets all aslant. He turned back toward his company with the sweetest feeling of relief that he had ever known; he had his contact established; his clever and war-wise company would attend to bringing it, no matter what happened to him.

The battle roared into the wood. Three lines of machine guns, echeloned, held it. Here the Forest de Retz was like Dante's wood, so shattered and tortured and horrible it was, and the very trees seemed to writhe in agony. Here the fury of the barrage was spent and the great trunks, thick as a man's body, were sheared off like weed-stalks, others were uprooted and lay gigantic along the torn earth; big limbs still crashed down or swayed half-severed; splinters and debris chocked the ways beneath. A few German shells fell among the men—mustard-gas and there in the wet woods one could see the devilish stuff spreading slowly, like a snaky mist, around the shell-hole after the smoke had lifted.

Machine-guns raved everywhere—there was a crackling din of rifles and the coughing roar of hand-grenedaes. Some Bloche guns were silenced by blind, furious rushes that left a trail of writhing khaki figures, but always carried two or three frenzied Marines with bayonets into the emplacement; from whence would come shooting and screaming and other clotted unpleasant sounds, and then silence.

To left and right the lieutenant caught glimpses of his men, running, crawling, firing as they went. In a clearing, Lieutenant Applegate, of the 17th Company, on the right, came into view. He waved his pistol and shouted something. He was grinnig. All the men were grinning—it was a bon fight, after all.

Then little Tritt, his orderly, running at his side, went down, clawing at a bright jet of scarlet over his collar. The war became personal again—a keening sibilance of flesh-hunting bullets, ringing under his helmet. He found himself prone behind a great fallen tree, with a handful of his men; bark and splinters were leaping from the round trunk that sheltered them.

"You"—to a panting half-dozen down the log—"crawl back to the stump and shoot into that clump of green bushes over there, where you see the new dirt—it's in there. Everything you've got, and watch for me up ahead. Slover" — to Sergeant Robert Slover, a small fiery man from Tennessee—"come on."

They crawled along the tree. Back toward the stump the Springfields crackled furiously. Somewhere beyond the machine gun raved like a mad thing, and the Boches around it threw hand-grenades that made much noise and smoke. The two of them left the protection of the trunk and felt remarkably naked behind a screen of leaves. They crawled slowly? stopping to peer across at the bushes. The lieutenant caught the dull gleam of a round gray helmet, moved a little, and saw the head and hands of the Boche who worked the gun. He pushed the sergeant with his foot and, moving very carefully, got his rifle up and laid his cheek against the stock. Over his sights, the German's face, 20 metres away, was intent and serious. The lieutenant fired, and saw his man half-rise and topple forward on the gun.

Then things happened fast. Another German came into view straining to tear the fallen gunner off the firing mechanism. Slover shot him. There was another and another. Then the bush boiled like an ant-heap, and a feldwebel sprang out with a grenade, which he did not get to throw. It went off, just the same and the Marines from the other end of the tree came with bayonets. Presently they went on.

Later, working to the left of his company, the lieutenant was caught up in a fighting swirl of Senegalese and went with them into an evil place of barbed wire and machine-guns. These wild black Mohammedans from West Africa were enjoying themselves. Killing, which is at best an acquired taste with the civilized races, was only too palpably their mission in life. Their eyes rolled and their splendid white teeth flashed in their heads, but her all resemblance to a happy southern darky stopped. They were deadly. Each platoon swept its front like a hunting-pack, moving swiftly and surely together. The lieutenant felt a thrill of professional admiration as he went with them.

The hidden guns that fired on them were located with uncanny skill; they worked their automatic rifles forward on each flank until the doomed emplacement was under a scissors fire; then they took up the matter with the bayonet and slew with lion-like leaps and lunges and a shrill barbaric yapping. They took no prisoners.

Back with his own men again the company whittled thin! Was there no limit to the gloomy woods? . . . Light through the trees yonder!

The wood ended, and the attack burst out into the rolling wheat land, where the sun shone in a cloudless sky and poppies grew in the wheat. To the right, a great paved road marched, between tall poplars, much battered. On the road two motor trucks burned fiercly and dead men lay around them. Across the road a group of stone farm buildings had been shelled into a smoking dust heap, but from the ruins a nest of never-died machine guns opened flanking fire. The khaki line checked and swirled around them and there was a mounting crackle of rifle fire . . . and the bayonets got in. The lines were forward to the low crest beyond, where, astride the road, was the first objective; and the assault companies halted here to reform. A few Boche shells howled over them, but the Boche was still pounding the wood, where the support batallions followed. The tanks debouched from the forest and went forward through the infantry.

In a hollow just ahead of two reformed line something was being dealth with by artillary, directed by the planes that dipped and swerved above the fight. The shells creshed down and made a great roaring murk of smoke and dust and flickering flames of red and green. The lieutenant, his report to the major undispatched, and his company straightened out along with men from other units and a handful of Senegalese who had attached themselves to him, ran an expert eye along his waiting squads, and allowed his mind to settle profoundly on breakfast.

The officers' whistles sounded, and the attack went on. The woods fell away behind, and for miles to left and right across the rolling country the waves of assault could be seen. It was a great stirring pageant wherein moved all the forces of modern war. The tanks, large and small, lumbered in advance. Over them the battle planes flew low, searching the ground, rowelling the Boche with bursts of machine gun fire.

The infantry followed close, assault waves deployed, supporting platoons in column, American Marines and regulars, Sengegalose and the foregn legion of France, their refles slanting forward, and the sun on all their bayonets. And behind the infantry, straining horses galloped with lean muzzled 75s, battery on battery—artillary over the top at last with the rifles. On the skirts of the attack hovered squadrons of calvary the Marines had seen the day before, dragoons and lancers, marked from afar by the sparkle and glitter of lance heads and sabers.

And forward through the wheat the Boche lines broke and his strong points crumbled; standing stubbornly in one place . . running in panic at another; and here and there attemptfng sharp counter attacks; but everywhere engulfed and the battle roared over him.

Then, without being very clear as to how they got there, the lieutenant and his company and a great many others were in the Vierzy ravine, in the cross-fire of the machine guns that held it.

The ravine was very deep and very precipitous and wooded. A sunken road led into it and, while the riflemen stalked the place cannily, a tank came up and disappeared down the sunken road. A terrific row of rifles and grenades arose, and a wild yelling. Running forward, the Marines observed that the tank was stalled, its guns not working; and a gray, frantic mass of German infantry was swarming over it, prying at its plates with bayonets and firing into such openings as could be found. One beautiy of the tank is that, when it is in such a difficulty, you can fire without fearing for your friends inside. The automatic rifle men especially enjoyed

Pioneer Resented Lardnerian Levity and Left Latter In Lurch—Ring Then Collected Autographs

BY RING LARDNER

CHAPTER 20 OF RING LARDNER'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY

One of the traits or characteristics for which the writer has been noted in recent years is dignity, self-possession. Only the other day I was complimented on this by no less a personage than Mr. Charles M. Schwab.

"Lardy," he said in his enchanting southern drawl, "you certainly have a lot of poise."

"Yes," I replied, lightly. "Three are at home and one is away at school."

But at the time of which I am now writing, I as so playful and "flightly" that it had never occurred to me to enter a vocation where solemnity and composure were deemed essential and it was a shock to me when my good friend Daniel Boone suggested that I go into politics.

HOODWINKING THE HON SMOOT

"Lardy," he said, "why don't you run for an office?"

"Why? Do you think it is going to rain?" was my laughing retort.

Boone resented my levity and never spoke to me again, and every night for several months thereafter, he attempted to "get even" by ringing my front doorbell, then hiding behind some bushes in the yard and shouting "Pretty fellow!" when I came to the door. It is my firm belief that if I had taken his suggestion seriously that day, he would, by the tremendous force of his personality, have pushed me into a judgeship or at least got me on the jury. At is was, through reading "The Americanization of Edward Bok," I became interested in the collection of autographs and found it for a time, the most engrossing sport in which I had ever participated.

In emplation of Mr. Bok, I started right after the "big fellows," my first "objective" being

There was Nothing For Him to Do But Comply

Senator Smoot. A servant informed me that the Senator was taking a bath. Luckily (for me) he had neglected to lock the bath room door, so when I walked in on him, took all the towels and told him firmly that he could not have one until he had signed my autograph album, there was nothing for him to do but somply. He was greatly amused at what he termed my bonhomie.

My next quarry was Madame Modjeska whose signature I obtained by tickling her feet with a sprig of holly until she was glad to do anything to get rid of me. By similar pranks and pleasantries I landed all the presidents and most of the witnesses of the Halle-Mills murder. I became known as a kind of a pest, but just the same I am the owner today of the greatest collection of famous autographs in the world and the only question is what to do with it.

It was for the purpose of adding to this collection that I visited Philadelphia in September of 1926; notables from all over the country were there at the time to witness the great heavyweight championship prize fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, but it developed that very few of them could write their names. The fight went ten rounds and the judges gave the decision to Mr. Tunney, and a lot of us boys thought it would have been a horse on Mr. Dempsey if they hadn't. It was reported after the fight that the winner was considering an offer from C. C. Pyle to join the ranks of the professionals.

This was my first trip to the City of Brotherly Love, since Gen. Smedley Butler was sent there to clean it up. The result of his work was a revelation. Unless you had brought your own liquor, you could no longer get a drink in Philadelphia without asking for it.

("Editor's note: Philadelphia.)

Philadelphia at that time had a boxing commission something like New York's (no offense meant). The commission, which was appointed by the governor, named the judges that decided the outcome of fights. On this occasion Gov.. Pinchot said he would like to see Mr. Tunney win and it may have been to save the commission and its judges from embarrassment that Mr. Dempsey acted as if the whole party was a big surprise to him. He seemed to have at last mastered the boxing style of Farmer Lodge who helped him prepare for his fight with Firpo some years before.

A man sitting right back of me kept insisting that Mr. Dempsey ought to be disqualified for violating Pennsylvania's boxing code, which barred the rabbit punch. I was not familiar with the rules, but Jack certainly punched like a rabbit.

—RING LARDNER.

Human Nature on the Half Shell

By Joseph Van Raalte

IT HAPPENS IN COURTROOMS

A man works hard, minds his own business, pays his debts, gives his neighbors the benefit of the doubt and refrains from mentioning what he has promised not to repeat. He is good to his wife, kind to his kids, and his dog loves him. He operates a Ford car in his own name, plants marigolds in the front yard in the springtime and shovels the snow off his sidewalk in the winter. The president of his bank eyes him with regard and his pastor beams on him with pride.

Then one day he is called as a witness in a murder trial. His sole testimony is that on September 15, 1922, he saw Willie Weakchin board a trolley car at 7 p. m. at the corner of Main and Washington streets.

"Did you observe whether the motorman had flat feet?"

"I didn't notice the motorman. I was just trying to cross the street and the trolley came along and I waited till it passed and the car stopped and while I was standing there Willie Weakchin got on the car."

"Was the car full or empty?"

"And you say you didn't see any motorman or conductor. Would you say there was no motorman or conductor on the car?"

"Why do you persist in evading the question? Will you swear that there was no motorman or conductor on that car? Please answer the question, yes or no."

"The witness will answer the question, yes or no," interrupts the court. "The stenographer will read the question."

"Oh, then there was a conductor or motorman on the car?"

"Yes, sir."

"A moment ago you told us you didn't see a motorman or conductor. Do you wish to correct your former statement?"

"You didn't see the conductor. So that when you swore there was a conductor on the car, after stating specifically that you hadn't seen the conductor, you were swearing to something that was not true?"

"No, sir, what I meant was—"

"Yes, sir."

"In other words," says the counsel, turning to nod triumphantly at the defendants, and beaming on the jury, "in other words, you come here under oath, and advance as a fact, something that is pure surmise on your part."

By this time the witness's brain has turned to hot mud and is leaking in a scalding stream down his backbone. His tongue is glued to the roof of his mouth. He notices for the first time that the courtroom is oppressively warm. His thoughts leave him like a flock of swallows deserting a barn on a summer morning. If you ask him his baby's name, he wouldn't be able to tell you. He sits silent.

"Will you please answer my question?" persists counsel. "It is a fact, isn't it?"

Obviously he is expected to reply in the affirmative, so he says: "Yes, sir."

The witness leaves the stand a broken man. He has been stripped of honor and berft of decency. He has been bullyragged, bulldozed, ridiculed and belittled. He has made the mistake that so many well-meaning men and women make in believing the courts will protect any honest citizen who, disregarding conservative prejudice, takes his place on the witness stand in an endeavor to further the cause of justice.

"Who would have thought," whisper the neighbors, "that Mr. McVacuum would take money for going into court and commiting perjury?" And they add philosophically: "Well, it only goes to show, you never can tell in this world!"

PITY POOR TASTER

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.(AP) Another prohibition dilemma: Robert Halberson, detective employed by Contra Costa county as special investigator in liquor cases must pay his own doctor bills when illicit beverages he tastes in line of duty make him sick. The state rejected his claim for compensation under the employer's liability law.

ARDENT AUTOIST

DULUTH, Nov. 13.(AP)—Alaska claims the world's most ardent autoist, says George E. Lewis, Alaskan author and lecturer visiting Duluth today. The motorist has a $7,000 automobile which he drives back and forth over his own private road, 200 feet long, Alaska's 1,700 miles of highways are not available to him in his outlying home.

PADLOCK TENEMENTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13. (AP) Abatement proceedings instituted against an apartment house here for violation of the Volstead act have raised the burning question: "Has the government the right to padlock a whole apartment house because one tenant is a bootlegger," counsel for defense says "no," but dwellers in some apartment houses remain uneasy.

NEW DODGE SPECIAL COUPE GROWING IN POPULAR FAVOR

NEW CHANGES ADD TO VALUE

Improved Refinements On Already Fine Product Draw Attention

"Every day sees more and more people coming into our showroom to look at the special coupe" said Julian McCall of McFall Bros., local Dodge Brothers dealers, commenting on the many improvements which Dodge Brothers have made recently.

"People in all walks of life are driving it," Mr. McFall continued. "Women, students and everybody who wants an attractive car with an intimate atmosphere about it—and yet dependable, uninterrupted service.

Improvements have been made in the motor which gives it a new smoothness and snap of performance. The car has a quick getaway in traffic, and is easy to park. That feature has great appeal to women especially. The two-unit starter makes starting easy even in the coldest weather.

Graceful Lines.

"The body has a grace of line accentuated by the dark green lacquer finish. Unobstructed vision is made possible by the one-piece windshield and slender pillars of the improved all steel body. Long underslung springs and large balloon tires give exceptional riding comfort. The entire interior of the car, too, reflects discriminating taste.

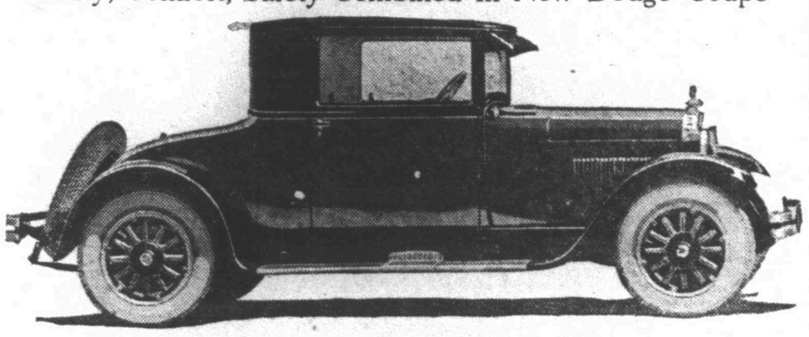

"It really is not surprising, when you consider the low price, that these refinements and improvements have made the special coupe so popular."

Five-Bearing Crankshaft.

"The new five-bearing crankshaft, replacing the three-bearing type, by reducing vibration to a minimum gives impressive new silence, smoothness and elasticity. The firmer support afforded by the extra bearings and the stiffer crank-case insures longer life with less need for any mechanical attention. The crankshaft bearing area, in fact, is now over one third lorger than the weight of the crankshaft has been materially increased.

"The new shaft is forged from a three-inch bar of chrome-vanadium steel, machined all over and then carefully balanced. Although this new crankshaft is much more costly than the previous type, its adoption is amply justified by the improved engine performance.

Beauty, Comfort, Safety Combined In New Dodge Coupe

The low, graceful lines of this special coupe are accentuated by the tartan green lacquer of the body and hood, the black above the belt-line and the glossy oven-baked enamel of the fenders and shields. A distinct air of smartness is added by the yellow striping, the natural wood wheels and the highly-polished nickel of the radiator shell, bumpers and lamp rims. The special equipment is complete in every detail. The grayish-green Spanish genuine leather used in the deep, comfortable upholstery is easy to clean and will retain its lasting newness of appearance throughout the long life of the car. All steel safety, known dependability, luxurious comfort, ease of handling, and the added smoothness of performance resulting from the new five-bearing crankshaft and the other important improvements are among the outstanding features which delight the lady who drives as much as they appeal to the business or professional man.

Quickened Business In California Reflected In Oakland Sales Work

Quickened business in California due to enormous crops—the mining industry prospering in Arizona, Nevada, and Montana—lumbering showing a remarkable activity in Washington Oregon—this together with a tremendous increase in the miles of good roads and a preponderant demand for closed cars were the outstanding observations of C. W. Matheson, vice-president and director of sales of the Oakland Motor Car company, who has just concluded a seven weeks trip visiting dealers in those states.

Returning from the west last week, Mr. Matheson reported that conditions were excellent—and so far as he has been able to discern, there are no clouds on the business horizon which would tend to reduce sales during the coming months.

Visits Bankers

"I got this impression not only from dealers and executives of our own selling organization, but likewise from bankers, financing organizations and boards of commerce in the communities I visited" said Mr. Matheson.

"The growth of good roads has been tremendous since I last visited the Pacific coast, and this, together with the preponderant choice for closed cars has materially flattened out the peaks in the selling seasons that were previously so noticeable in the motor car industry.

"There is every evidence of quickened business in all of California," said Mr. Matheson. "The weather has been good and consequently the crops are not only good but enormous. In Arizona, Nevada, Utah and Montana, the mining industry is prospering and in the Northwest states of Washington and Oregon, the lumber industry seems to be back again. In Iowa not only are the crops good but the increase in the number of roads has been enormous. In the majority of places I stopped, I had to wire in for more cars for our dealers."

Addresses Dealers

Although Mr. Matheson had not intended to address dealer's meetings, such impromptu meetings were arranged at the request of the dealers in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Spokane and Denver besides a number of smaller communities.

An amusing incident occurred when Mr. Matheson was being driven from Portland to Tacoma. The driver stopped the car at the juncture of two roads at an oil station that seemed to be set in the middle of the prairie. Then Mr. Matheson discovered that adjacent to the oil station stood a small building in which Oakland and Pontiac Six cars were displayed.

With a great deal of trepidation, he inquired how the cars were selling, wondering all the time how anyone could sell cars in such a place.

"Well, we've only been selling them two weeks," answered the owner. "We sold four new cars and five used cars so far. We have a contract for 50 next year."

REFINEMENTS IN MARMON, '75'

New 1927 Line of Cars Close Many Years of Improvement

In selecting the name for its 1927 line of motor cars, Marmon decided upon a title which bears more than ordinary significance and yet is closely associated with the preceding series 75 which enjoyed such wide popularity.

This year the company is observing its seventy-fifth anniversary—three-quarters of a century of continuous manufacturing activity, and nearly 25 years of motor car production. In view of this event, the solution of the problem was apparent, and company officials were unanimous in selecting "75" as the title of the new series.

The Marmon series 75 is the outgrowth of eleven years of concentration on one basic design, constantly improved and refined, according to word from the factory. Fourteen body types are offered, from the seven-passenger custom-built limousine to the five-passenger town coupe at $3,195, the lowest price in the entire line and the highest price at which a closed car ever has been offered by Marmon.

Sales Marks For Nash Still Jump

New High Record For Month Reached By Improved Car

October Nash sales and production set a new high record for that month according to advices from the factory. "With a volume of 13,476 cars," says E. H. McCarty, Nash sales manager, "October sales and production ran 43.9 per cent above the biggest previous October in the company's history. For the 10 months of this year Nash has already marketed 125,441 cars as compared to a total of 84,708 cars for the same 10 months period of 1925, and 1925 which was the biggest previous year since the founding of the company. This makes a business increase so far this year of 46.3 per cent. October became the twenty-sixth consecutive month—with three exceptions that Nash sales and production have overtopped the mark by the corresponding month of the year previous. The three exceptions were months when production was held down purposely to make it possible to introduce new models into manufacturing. This is an unprecedented record for continuous monthly growth and reflects the great demand from all sections of the country for the Nash product.

"Unquestionably the Nash achievement in introducing the seven-bearing crankshaft motor in all models in all three series is having a widespread influence on sales. Already this year, in 10 months, total sales have risen to a figure eclipsing by 29,320 cars the grand total achieved by the entire banner year of 1925. In other words, sales and production for the 10 months this year are 30 per cent ahead of total sales and production for the full 12 months last year, and November and December sales are yet to be added to this surplus."

Chrysler Changes Excite Interest

Shorter Wheel Base Is Announced On Finer Series 70

Introduction by Chrysler of the new 18 inch base wheels on the new, finer Chrysler "70," recently announced, has caused unusual comment in automobile circles because of the many advantages of this wheel over the ordinary type.

There are eight important features of this new small wheel which was developed by Chrysler engineers. With its use are noted increased lowness of the car, accentuation of long lines, 10 per cent increased braking efficiency, larger balloon tires, one piece rim and perfect wheel balance, greater road stability, a lower center of gravity with road clearance above the average, greater ability to withstand road shocks and side thrusts, and easier tire changing.

Braking efficiency is increased because the same oversize brake drum as formerly used is employed with the new smaller wheels thereby increasing tensity of the braking effect.

The new finer Chrysler "70" includes 6 inch balloon tires as standard equipment. These larger balloon tires clearly improve the appearance of the new car and at the same time improve its fine riding qualities by providing a larger cushion of air. In addition, the bulk of the car weight is placed much lower, permitting the car to hug the ground closer than one with larger wheels. This latter feature is important in handling the car at high speeds or over rough and high-crowned roads.

Chrysler owners will welcome the new small wheel with its one piece rim because of its easier tire change, and stronger and more rigid construction. The new wheel affords a larger tire seat, reducing tire weaving.

Probably no other feature of the new, finer Chrysler "70" with the exception of appearance, has been the subject of more comment than the new low wheels. They have met with immediate popular favor whenever the car has been shown.

State Librarian Distributes Books

Sends Volumes to Texas And Foreign Local Libraries

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 13.—(AP) During the past biennium the Texas state library distributed, through its regular monthly shipments, 355 titles and 4,615 copies of Texas documents to 49 libraries in Texas and 104 libraries out of Texas, together with a mimeographed sheet listing the documents distributed in each shipment.

This count excludes the University of Texas publications, which, by special agreement, are sent direct to the libraries from the university. It is also exclusive of the weekly shipments of bills, resolutions, and daily journals during the legislative session and the old documents sent to libraries upon their request for specific documents. Several hundred of these were sent out during the past two years.

THEATRE REBUILT

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 13. — The old Court theater is now named the "New Court Theater" and has been completely torn down and rebuilt. Arthur Keys owner of this theater and the Texan have remodeled both, adding new fixtures and installing new pipe organs, thereby making them modern in every way. The new Court was opened for visitors Friday night, a splendid audience being present at this first show.

J. G. Wheeler is putting in a confectionary store, and the patrons can be served right at the theater.

TEXAS FATALITIES

AUSTIN, Nov. 13.—(AP)—For the week ending October 23, in Texas 30 persons were killed and 112 were injured in accidents reported to the Texas Council of Safety. Fourteen persons were killed and 64 injured in automobile accidents, with four killed and 12 injured in railroad accidents. Five were killed and 14 seriously injured in unknown causes, two were killed in falls and six injured while one person burned to death and ten suffered injuries from burns. Explosives killed two persons, firearms took one life and injured one person and one person drowned.

WILHELM OFFENDED

Ex-Kaiser Huffy When Told He'll Never Rule

BERLIN, Nov. 13. (AP)—The death of Major General Von Heeringen, former imperial German war minister, recalls one of the most painful scenes enacted at the Doorn since the exile of the former kaiser. Several months before his death General Von Heeringen, whom the army nicknamed Santa Clause because of his flowing beard came to Doorn to pay his respects to his former commander in chief. At dinner Wilhelm II said to his guest:

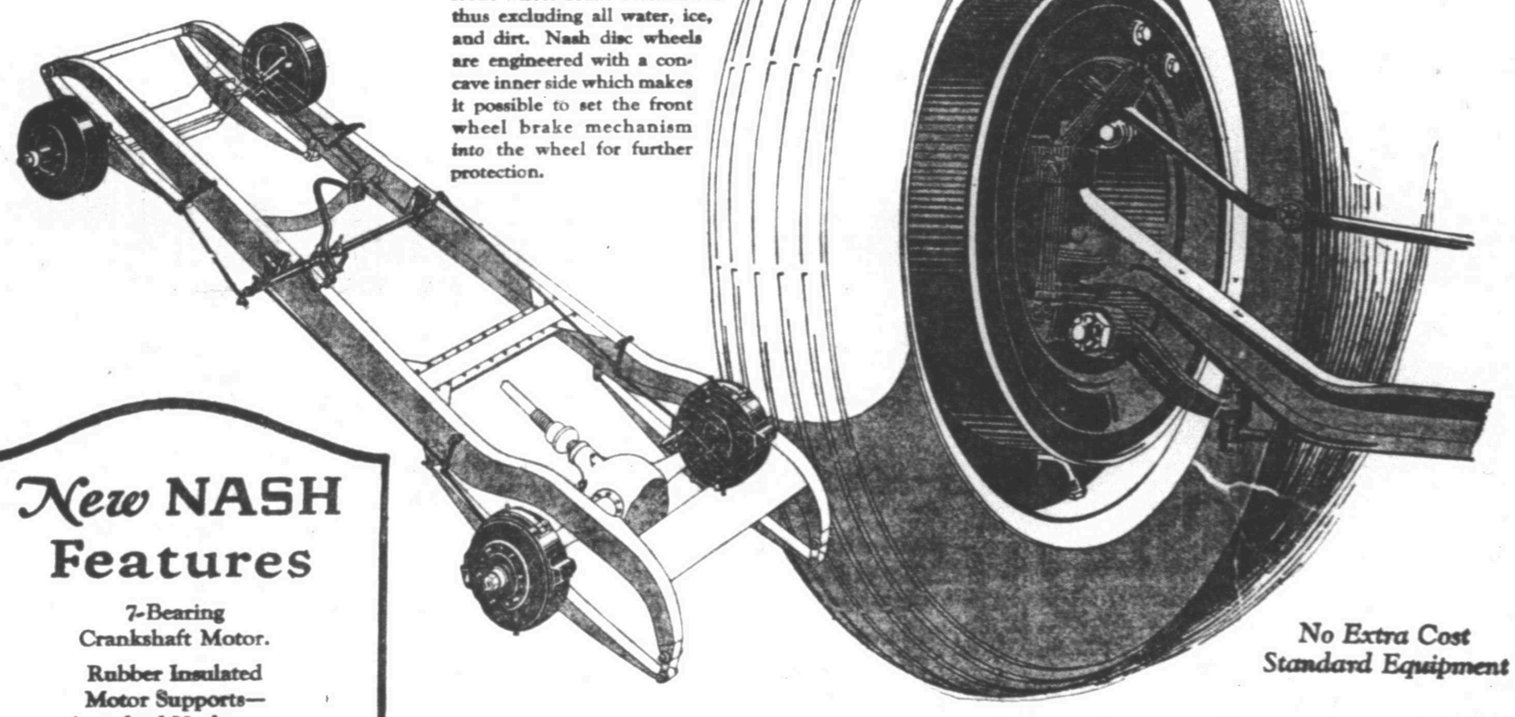

"Well, my dear general, when do you suppose we two shall meet in Berlin?"

"Your majesty will pardon me if I speak freely," Von Heeringen replied, "but neither of us, I believe, will live to see the day."

The head of the house of Hohenzollern was so offended at this all too frank reply that the dinner was broken up and the aged general left Doorn early the following morning.

NASH

4 Wheel Brakes

This brake system is exclusive to Nash and was engineered to embody the finest features developed by foreign and American 4-wheel brake authorities as well as the superiorities worked out by Nash over an extended period of 4-wheel brake experience.

Among its chief advantages is its simplicity. Of all mechanical 4-wheel brake types the Nash has fewest parts and least points requiring lubrication.

Another advantage is the fact that the smoothly powerful performance of these brakes is never impaired by climatic changes. And being of the mechanical type they operate with invariable regularity at all temperatures.

Thus Nash eliminates the possibility of the side-sway or skidding on wet or icy roads under rapid brake application which occurs with rear wheel brakes or partially-equalized 4-wheel brakes.

Come see the new Nash models—all powered with 7-bearing crankshaft motors—and examine, in particular, this Nash 4-wheel brake system.

WILLYS-KNIGHT EXCITES ENTHUSIASM OF ROUMANIAN PRINCE

Nicholas Impressed With Power Of New Sport Model Roadster He Buys

"Please deliver Willys-Knight roadster I recently ordered to me Hotel Ambassador New York."

In response to this radiogram the New York branch of Willys-Overland, Inc., at the time appointed, delivered to his royal highness, Prince Nicholas of Rumania, youngest son of Queen Marie, one of the new standard model Willys-Knight great six sport roadsters and no new or experienced motorist in the world was ever more pleased to receive his new car. When his eyes lighted on it he exclaimed delightedly, "My, that's a beauty!"

Looks at Motor.

His first interest was in the Knight engine. Obvious of the hordes of reporters, police, newspaper photographers, moving picture men and the dennsely packed spectators which lined both sides of Park avenue near the royal headquarters, Prince Nicholas, the "Balkan Prince of Wales," who is the cleverest and most experienced motorist among all Europe's royalty, and one of the most dare-devil drivers in the world, when such driving is safe, brushed aside the uniformed driver placed at his disposal by the Willys-Overland company, lifted up the hood of his new car and rapidly inspected the various features of the Willys-Knight's ultra modern engineering.

"Splendid!" he announced. "Now let's try her."

Takes a Tour.

Springing in behind the wheel, he juggled the gears like a veteran and, hardly waiting for the driver to hop in beside him, he was off through the tangle of New York traffic. Ten minutes later he was back at the Ambassador. Jumping out of the car, and running into the hotel, he returned in a few seconds with a tall slim young girl, and waved his hand proudly toward his new vehicle. The girl was his sister, the Princess Ileana. Taking her by the arm, he hurried her into the car, again almost forgetting the driver who scrambled into the rumble seat and ignoring the battery of movie cameras. With a gear shifting dexerity which proclaimed him an expert, the prince started the car and the royal couple were off on a long personal sightseeing trip free from crowds, reporters, police, lackeys and secret service men.

On their return, both the prince and princess expressed their unbound delight in the performance of the car which had been thoroughly "run in" before delivery to insure its smooth, quiet operation at any speed the prince wants to drive it. The prince, who is not only an engineer and expert mechanic, but an officer in the British navy, the only member of non-British royalty to hold such a commission, was particularly enthusiastic.

Artist Calls Britain's Ruler a Good Subject.

LONDON, Nov. 13.(AP)—Richard Jack, R. A., who is painting the latest portrait of King George, says he never had a better subject than the King of England.

"He posed for me twice, once seated and once standing and carried on a running conversation on general subjects as though unaware that his portrait was being painted," Mr. Jack said.

"He discussed the personalities of various artists and showed surprising knowledge of their human side for a soverign whom one might think too wrapped up state affairs to notice the little personal doings of his subjects."

WORMS SPOIL CROP

Poor Man's Asparagus Crop Fails In France.

PARIS, Nov. 13.(AP)—Leeks—the poor man's asparagus—will be rare in France this year. The plants are afflicted by a plague of worms, which eat away indifferently the roots or the hearts. The epidemic is not confined to one region. It devastates alike the great truck gardens around Paris and the principal vegetable raising centers in Normandy and Poitou. So far the experts of the Ministry of Agriculture have been unable to find an effective method for destroying this worm.

Night vocational training courses at North Texas Agricultural college here have just received the approval of N. S. Hunsdon, state director of vocational education, and the classes are off to a good start.

BOY LOST

HOUSTON, Nov 13.—(AP)—As the Traveler's Aid at the Grand Central depot in Houston tells it, his name was Bobby, he was very small, and he was lost. When she took the boy under her wing, he said he came from Kentucky to his mother who had sent for him. "Of course," he said, he knew her address. Hadn't he written to her many times? "It was," he recited, "Gendel Houston."

But there was no street nor suburb of that name. Finally she hit upon the happy idea of having Bobby write it. "Gendel" turned out to be the general delivery, and a letter to the boy's mother brought her to the station two days later.

DARING FLIER CRASHES SHIP

Side Wind Nearly Turns Thriller Into Tragedy At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 13.(AP)—Missing death by but a scant 11 inches, Dick Grace, internationally known stunt flyer, recently dove from an altitude of approximately 1,000 feet in a deliberately planned forced landing and crashed at a speed of 90 miles an hour in the midst of cedar posts and barbed-fire entanglements in the recreated No Man's Land at Leon Springs, where Famous Players Lasky are filming the war picture, "Wings" and emerged from the wreckage without a scratch.

Grace, who has had 22 forced landings from the air, 14 of which were deliberately planned, volunteered to crack-up his ship and mount feature producer, and William Wellman, director, that he could do it without injury to himself.

His Confidence.

Confident as he was in his own ability to crash any ship and come out of it without serious injury, Grace found himself flirting with Fate when a side wind drove him out of his prearranged course and caused him to crack-up in the middle of a dense cluster of cedar posts and barbed-wire. One of the cedar posts drove through the fusillage only 11 inches from the back of Grace's head.

Grace said, following the crash, that this was the first time in the history of aeronautics, that a Spad, one of the speediest ships of wartime aviation, has been crashed deliberately and at such a terrific speed. "It is no trick at all to crack a 'Jenny' if you know how," he said, "but to crash a Spad at 90 miles an hour is something different. But I felt that I could do it without serious injuries resulting.

BUICK BREAKS SALES RECORD

Retail Delivery Report Now Shows Increase Over 1925 Figures

Although retail deliveries for the last three months of 1926 are yet to be compiled, the Buick Motor company has already sold more cars this year than were delivered to owners during all of 1925.

This new record for any calender year was made known through an announcement by E. T. Strong, Buick general sales manager. Mr. Strong stated that the total retail deliveries from January to September, inclusive amounted to 202,368 cars. The record for the entire year, 1925, was 200,041 cars.

Another Record

Still more remarkable, however, is Mr. Strong's announcement that this nine months record exceeds by 57,416 cars the record of January 1, to September 30, 1925. It shows a gain for 1926 far in excess of the gain registered by the industry as a whole. Buick has beaten its sales record for the corresponding month of the previous year for the last fourteen months in succession. The company has averaged 22,435 retail deliveries each month for the past nine months.

Mr. Strong predicts a new all time twelve month record by the end of December as a result of the heavy demand for the present Buick model. The best previous twelve month was the period ending, July 31, 1926, on which date the 1927 Buick was introduced. In this time over 240,000 cars were delivered to owners.

PERAMBULATORS GARAGE.

"Garages for perambulators have been erected by the London county council in connection with their three-story flat dwellings on an estate in the southeast district of London. A charge of sixpence per week is charged to pram owners who live in the flats.

A scheme to tax American plays produced in England is being discussed by British producers.

"Fully $5,000,000 a year is sent to America in royalties on plays in London," according to Col. Harry Day, M. P.

Chevrolet Spends Fortune for Parts

$1,500,000 System Being Planned to Increase Service Parts

The Chevrolet Motor company is spending $1,500,000 on the installation of a radically new system of replacement parts distribution which executives declare will assure uniformly prompt service for every Chevrolet owner in the United States.

The plan, involving the establishment of six new major supply depots throughout the country, has been worked out by President W. S. Knudsen and J. P. Little, manager of the parts and service division. In a service way it supplements the greater production capacity which will be available after completion of the $10,000,000 Chevrolet factory expansion program.

The new supply depots, in which will be stored reserve parts stocks, are to be located at the following points: Oakland, Calif., Janesville, Wis., Cincinnati, Ohio, Buffalo, N. ..., St. Louis, Mo., and Tarrytown, ... All of the depots except ... at Tarrytown and Oakland ... new, specially-designed ... of brick and reinforced steel concrete. The existing parts stations at Oakland and Tarrytown will be enlarged and refitted to meet the heavy demands that will be made upon them under the new system. The entire facilities of the central parts warehause at Flint, which heretofore has been the central shipping point, will be retained. The ground already has been broken for the four new buildings, and all of the major supply depots will be ready for operation by January 31.

Are "Safety Valves."

The new depots will serve as safety valves, smoothing out the peaks and valleys of demands made by the parts department on production plants and service stations. They will perform a two-fold function: First, expedite the delivery of parts; second, create a reservoir that will permit of uniform production of parts, regardless of seasonal variations in demand.

Another Whippet Achievement

Canada-to-Mexico, averaging

29.3 miles per gallon of gasoline
29.7 miles per hour
1845 total miles traveled
62 hours, 8 min. total driving time

Driven by a representative of the Automobile Club of Washington, an absolutely stock Whippet Sedan left the Canadian border at 8 a.m. Friday, October 1st, for Mexico.

The car was required to strictly observe all traffic regulations of the states, counties and cities through which it passed. All conditions of traffic were encountered — storms in Oregon —fog in the Siskiyous—snow in the high mountains—city traffic —desert heat—traveling over the poorest of dirt roads and the very finest of pavements—never exceeding the speed limits — driving as you would drive.

Without mechanical adjustment of any kind, the Whippet arrived in Tia Juana, Mexico, at 2:17 p. m. Tuesday, October 5th, indicating the definite superiority of Whippet construction over other cars in the light four cylinder field—indeed a practical demonstration of what the Whippet means to American motoring.

BIG IRRIGATION PROJECT PLAN

Pease River Valley Suggested For Big Reservoir Project

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Nov. 13.—A new irrigation project may be built in north Texas in the Pease river valley if plans now under consideration carry. It is proposed to dam the Pease river northwest of Crowell, likely in Cottle county, where one of hte largest storage lakes in America may be formed. The water is said to be plentiful, from checks which have been made during the last two years, and of a superior quality to that of many streams, since the river rises above the caprock and the gypsum deposits. The water would be used for irrigating the fertile Pease river valley, and would supply the needs of Vernon, Harold, Oklaunion, Electra and Burkburnett.

City tax values of the three larger towns are considered amply sufficient for floating the necessary bonds. The building of this project would mean added prosperity to a large section of Texas and insure against drouth the crops of some of her best land.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 12.—The invitation and flag tournament on the Country club course Thursday was a decided success with perfect golfing weather to contribute to the pleasure of the day. Thirty-two club members and eight visitors took part, the visitors being J. T. Hughes, C. S. Wyman and L. S. Walker of Quanah; C. R. Holt, H. B. Creed, J. E. Stanton, Dale Hogsett and L. A. Pelley of Altus.

The play was in three flights with a prize for each flight, and a grand prize for the winner of all flights; also a prize for the visitor player making the best score.

J. E. LeBus won the grand prize, with Roy LeBus carrying off the prize given in the first flight, Joe McCracken the prize given in the second flight, while Paul Brush was awarded the prize in the third flight. R. C. Holt proved to be the visitor player winning the prize.

At five o'clock in the afternoon the guests took part in a barbecue with accessories, the membership staying for the program given in the evening.

The Electra band, under the direction of Paul Smith, furnished the music for the evening, while Bart Magee, president of the club, made the welcoming address, followed by the presentation of the prizes by H. A. Decker. The first prize, a handsome loving cup, the gift of the club, was given to J. E. LeBus, while R. C. Holt was given a golf club, donated by a local hardware company. Knickers, golf hose and a fountain pen were the prizes for the winners of the first, second and third flights.

During the remainder of the evening "42" was played. Miss Letrice Wofford furnished a group of piano numbers; Miss Eva Williamson readings; Miss Sallee Huffaker gave a vocal number; Mrs. James Totten sang, and Mrs. Walter Walton and her brother, Squirrel Chapman, engaged in a Charleston contest.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 12.—A Ford coupe driven by Miss Martha Scott, teacher in the Memphis schools, collided with a Dodge driven by a Mr. Rogers of Slaton here today when Rogers was backing into the street from a parking space in the rear of the First National bank. Miss Scott was driving east on Main street and drove into the Rogers car. The Ford was damaged considerably, breaking an axle and radius rod. The Dodge was only slightly damaged.

Fix Bayonets

the brief crowded secons that followed. Then all at once the farther slope of the ravine swarmed with running Boches and the Americans knelt or lay down at ease, and fired steadly and without haste. As they passed the tank a greasy smilink Frenchman emerged head and shoulders and inquired after a cigarette. There were very many dead Germans in the ravine and on its slope when they went forward.

Wearily now, the exaltation dying down, they left the stone towers of Vierzy to the right, in the path of the regulars of the 9th and 23rd. On line northeast of it they halted and prepared to hold. It was a lonesome place. Very thin indeed were the assault companies; very far away the support columns "According to the may, we're here. Thank God, we must have grabbed off all their artillery 'cept the heavies."

"Lootenant, come up here, for God's sake! Lord, what a slew o' Boches!" Beyond rifle shot a strong column was advancing. There were machine guns with it. It was not deployed, but its intention was very evident. Here were thirty-odd Marines and a few strays from one of the infantry regiments—nobody in sight, flanks or read—

But to the rear a clanging and a clattering, and the thudding of horse's hoofs—"Graves, beat it back an' flag those guns." Graves ran frantically, waving his helmet The guns halted in a cloud of dust and a gunner lieutenant trotted up, jaunty, immaculate. He dismounted, in his beautiful pale-blue uniform and his gleaming boots and tiny jingling spurs, and saluted the sweating unshaven Marine officer. He looked with his glasses, and he consulted his map, and then he smiled like a man who has gained his heart's desire. He dashed back toward his guns, waving a signal.

The guns wheeled around; the horses galloped back; there was a whirl and bustle behind each cassions, and two gunners with a field telephone came running. It all happened in seconds.

The first 75 barked, clear and incisive, and the shell whined away . . . . the next gun, and the next. The little puff-balls, ranging shots, burst very near the Boche column. Then the battery fired as one gun —a long rafale of fire, wherein no single gun could be heard, but a drumming thunder.

Smoke and fire flowered hideously over the Boche column. A cloud hit it for a space. When the cloud lifted the column had been disflailed by shrapnel as they ran. And the glass showed squirming heaps of gray flattening on the ground.

The runner officer looked and saw that his work was good. "Bon, eh? Soixante-quinze—!" With an all-embracing gesture and a white-toothed smile, he went. Already his battery was limbered up and galloping, and when the first retaliatory shell came from an indignant Boche 75s, the 75s were a quarter of a mile away.

That afternoon the Boche had the air. He dropped bombs and otherwise did the best he could to make up, with planes, for the artillery that he had lost that morning. On the whole, he was infinitely annoying. There's something about being machine gunned from the air that gets a man's goat, as the rifles remarked with profane emphasis. Much futile rifle fire greeted his machines as they came and went, and away over on the right toward Vierzy the lieutenant saw one low-flying crumple and come down like a stricken duck. This plane, alleged to have been brought down by a chaut-chaut automatic rifle, was afterward officialy claimed by four infantry regiments and a machine gun batillion. Late in the afternoon the French brought up anti-aircraft gun on motor trucks and the terror of the air abated somewhat.

As dusk fell, the French cavalry rode forward through the lines. The lieutenant thoughtfully watched a blue squadron pass—"If spirits walk, Murat and Marshall Ney an' all the Emperor's cavalry are ridin' with those fellows."

In the early dawn of the next day the cavalry rode back. One squadron went through the company's position. It was a very small squadron, indeed, this morning. Half the troopers led horses with empty saddles. A tall young captain was in command. They were drawn and haggard from the night's work, but the men carried their heads high, and even the horses looked triumphant. They had, it developed, been having a perfectly wonderful time, riding around behind the German lines. They had shot up a transport, and set fire to ammunition-dumps, and added greatly to the discomfort of the Boche. They thought they might go back again tonight—They did.

The night of the 19th the galleys got up, and the men had hot food. Early in the morning of the 20th the division was relieved and began to withdraw to reserve position, while fresh troops carried the battle on. The first batallion of the Fifth Marines marched back, in a misty dawn, across the ground they had fought over two days before. In the trampled fields, where the dead lay unburied, old French territorials were mowing the ripe wheat and shocking it up. The battle was far away.

Standardized Quality

What your own eyes see will make you choose the Chrysler "50"

If you are attracted by the Chrysler "50" it is well to bear in mind that your choice in the four-cylinder field, in any event, must be made among five cars. Only four four-cylinder cars other than the Chrysler "50" are now being built in quantity.

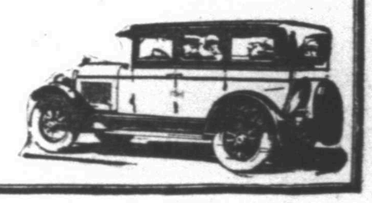

You will be rushed to a decision by the startling character of the contrast. The mere appearance and dimensions of the Chrysler "50" alone will startle you by comparison —its family seating proportions, its size, and its marked beauty of design, finish and fittings.

But the vital thing is the contrast in performance — the power and speed of 50 miles and more per hour; the acceleration of the Chrysler "50" —5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds; and above all, the ease and economy with which it travels.

Never, it seems to us, was it so easy for the buyer to make sure that his money is buying the utmost as in contrast between the "50" and all ordinary fours and sixes.

DESIRE FOR SERVICE GUIDES EVANGELICAL CHURCH WORK

YALE AVENUE CONGREGATION MAKES GAINS

Steady Growth and More Commanding Influence Is Recorded

A spirit of community welfare and a desire for service prompted the organization of the Yale Avenue Evangelical church, located at Yale and Twenty-second street. The little church, comparatively small in membership, was organized in 1921, but it has found a worthwhile place in the city and has earned its right to exist because of the service it renders.

A committee was selected in the fourth quarterly conference of the First Evangelical church in September, 1920, to choose a site for a new building in the Evangelical Association of Texas. The church was to be located in the south part of the city. In the early part of 1921 the place was chosen, and in June a temporary church was established. In July a Sunday school was organized with 150 members on the roll. A revival meeting was held, and 68 persons were converted. The church made rapid strides in its growth and immediately overflowed the temporary church.

In December of that year the new church was under construction with building committee composed of Rev. C. Ermil, E. I. Zimmerman and W. D. Cook looking after its interests. The church was finished in January 1922, and was dedicated on January 8 with appropriate ceremonies, and 14 charter members took up the work they wished to carry forward.

Those members are: Mrs. M. L. Connor, Miss Marie Connor, Winnie Fay Conner, Mrs. W. D. Cook, Mattie Cook, Mrs. Ellen Craig, J. L. Adams, Mrs. W. S. Martin, Mrs. C. R. Hibbs, Mrs. M. E. Raines, C. R. Smith, Mrs. C. R. Smith, Mozell Smith, T. W. Wilson.

Rev. A. C. Laukhauf was the first pastor of the organization, and when the congregation was established, he resigned in May, 1922. He was succeeded by Rev. W. D. Cook who took charge in the same month. A revival was held and other additions were made to the church, and since that time the roll has grown to 103.

This Year's Goal.

The goal for this year toward which the church is working is every unsaved person in the community won for Christ; every Christian a member of some church; every church member a real live worker for the Master; a Bible class of 50 men in the Sunday school; Sunday school attendance doubled; the church membership increased 100 per cent; every member of the church a tither.

The Ladies' Aid society was organized in June, 1922, with the following officers being elected. Mrs. B. C. Gaither, president; Mrs. W. D. Cook, vice-president; Mrs. W. S. Martin, secretary-treasurer. This society has been quite a factor in helping to take care of the financial end of the church up to this time. The present officers of the society are Mrs. R. L. Mansell, president; Mrs. L. H. Gilbreath, vice-president; Mrs. R. W. Dower, secretary; Mrs. Eva McClung, treasurer.

The Woman's Missionary society was organized in August, 1925, with Mrs. C. Hosford, president; Mrs. Eva Entrekin, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Edna Null, vice-president. The society is doing constructive work, having 20 active members and 10 associate members.

The Sunday school had varied experiences through its career. The first superintendent was M. E. Taylor. Present officers and teachers of the Sunday school are:

J. R. Moore, superintendent; Bill Entrekin, assistant superintendent; Miss Mary Keene, secretary; Miss Florine Angel, assistant secretary; Mrs. W. D. Cook, treasurer. Teachers: Mrs. R. L. Mansell, Mrs. L. H. Gilbreath, Mrs. M. C. Sherman, Mrs. Edna Null, Mrs. W. D. Cook, Mrs. J. E. Gilbreath, William Heginbotham is librarian. Roy Reginbotham, class leader; C. R. Heginbotham, Mrs. L. H. Gilbreath, superintendent junior department.

League Organized.

The League of Christian Endeavorers was first organized October 26, 1922, after having been reassigned the work by the conference of 1922-23. The officers elected at that time were R. L. Stanberry, president; Miss Virgie Wilson, vice-president; J. Curtis Cook, recording secretary; Miss Hazel Johnson, corresponding secretary; Miss Irene Beckner, treasurer. The charter members are R. L. Stanberry, Mrs. R. L. Stanberry, Dorothy Stanberry, Virgie Wilson, Eva Wilson, Hazel Johnson, Irene Beckner, Blanche Beckner, Frank Allday, Reese Allday, Mrs. Ellen Craig, Mr. Craig, O. K. Heginbotham, Mrs. O. K. Heginbotham, Miss Jeffries, Bill Entrekin, Velma Entrekin, Johnnie Dunfield, Zuma Dunfield, C. R. Smith, Bill Smith, Fern Beer, W. D. Cook, Mrs. W. D. Cook, Lowell Cook, R. E. Cook, J. Curtis Cook, Mrs. Jeanette Smith, Ola Johnson, Rae Seals, Clara Smith, Aula Mefford, Mrs. C. R. Hibbs.

The present officers are R. L. Mansell, president; Mrs. R. L. Mansell, secretary; Miss Mary Keen, treasurer; Mrs. Edna Null, superintendent intermediate department; Mrs. F. K. Brown, superintendent junior department.

Two of the most successful months in the history of this church have just closed, Rev. Cook said. Having experienced an excellent increase in the interest in attendance upon the services of the church, with more individual visits by the members of the congregation than at any six months previous, and the interest in all departments is much better. More money has been raised for the support of the ministry and defraying of the current expenses of the church than has been raised for an entire year in some of the past years, he stated.

"Taking the work all together it is more encouraging than it has ever been before and we are looking forward to a great year for the cause of Christ and the church during this conference year, which closes about the middle of August, 1927. And we are asking for the prayers and co-operation of every child of God, that sinners may be saved and the Christian revived," Rev. Cook declared.

Sprightly City In Front Rank

BY HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD.

Vernon is one of the sprightliest and most beautiful cities under the skies of Texas. Wilbarger county boasts of being the second of the 252 Texas counties, agriculturally speaking. Cotton is the topic upper-most at this time throughout the south and southwest and will continue to be a topic until the vast crop of 1926 has been sold and forgotten. Descriptive writers make use of the term "fields white with cotton." Well, the fields of Wilbarger county are white with cotton in early November, and if the weather continues favorable, the fleecy staple in those fields will not be picked until the holliday season comes in December.

There are bankers and business men and farmers who predict a maximum of 80,000 bales as the yield of 1926 for this county alone should fair weather prevail far into the closing months of the year. There are others equally as well informed who are confident that 75,000 bales of cotton will be picked and ginned in Wilbarger county before the close of the year. This is one of the reasons why the cotton crop of Texas has gone beyond 5,500,000 bales.

In the Pease river valley section of the county, they are picking a bale and a half or a bale and a quarter to the acre and on many of the farms of the county not in the valley the yield is a bale to the acre. This is a foreword to the story of Vernon and Wilbarger county. It backs up the boast of the leaders of thought in Wilbarger county, including scientific tillers of the soil, that their county ranks second, agriculturally speaking, in this imperial state. In east Texas Wilbarger county is away out in the west. In south Texas, Wilbarger county is away up north. They cannot understand why it is that northwest Texas and west Texas are becoming the banner cotton producing sections of the commonwealth.

Farmers Plant Small Acreage In Wheat

Farmers of Wilbarger county planted a very small acreage to wheat in 1926. Fortunately they planted a very large acreage to food stuffs and feed stuffs and those who were wise and did plant or arranged for food stuffs and feed stuffs on their own holdings are the ones who are smiling today regardless of the low price of cotton and are able to weather the storm. Vernon is not an ancient city. Vernon is one of the ideal towns of the modern west, which is the new west. As a matter of fact, Bertha A. Ross, the first white child born in Wilbarger county, is a resident of Vernon. When she first saw the light, Doan's Crossing was the postoffice as well as the name of the town which was named for C. F. Doan, her father and one of the original pioneers of that Texas that was a wilderness.

Wilbarger county is watered by two rivers—the Red river and the Pease river. It has been possible to produce three bales of cotton to the acre in this so-called Nile river valley of Texas. Texas, it appears, has its Nile river valley, just as the Sudanese empire of the English in Africa has its Blue Nile as well as its White Nile and it is on the fringe of the Blue Nile that the British have invested $50,000,000 in a great dam for the purpose of storing water necessary for irrigation purposes. It is in this section of Sudan that the millers of Manchester and Birmingham hope to get long staple cotton grown on two million acres of irrigated land sometime in the near future. But back to the Texas valley of the Nile and cotton.

These men of Wilbarger county say they raised a double crop this year. That is, instead of 60,000 bales, the growers produced approximately 80,000 bales and this is the reason why the fields of Wilbarger have been white with cotton since picking time began. Wilbarger farmers are not all one-crop farmers. This is what the Vernon bankers told the writer. A year ago a campaign was inaugurated for the purpose of inducing all the farmers possible to produce the food stuffs for their table and the feed stuffs for their livestock and domestic animals.

It was a successful campaign. According to those who are familiar with conditions, the farmers of Wilbarger county sent out of the state $250,000 annually for food stuffs and feed stuffs and it was customary for a large number to borrow money to pay for the importations. Now it is different. The idea caught on. Wide-awake farmers saw the point; the crop of food stuffs in 1926 is unusually large and the crop of feed stuffs more than sufficient for home consumption. This is keeping Texas money at home.

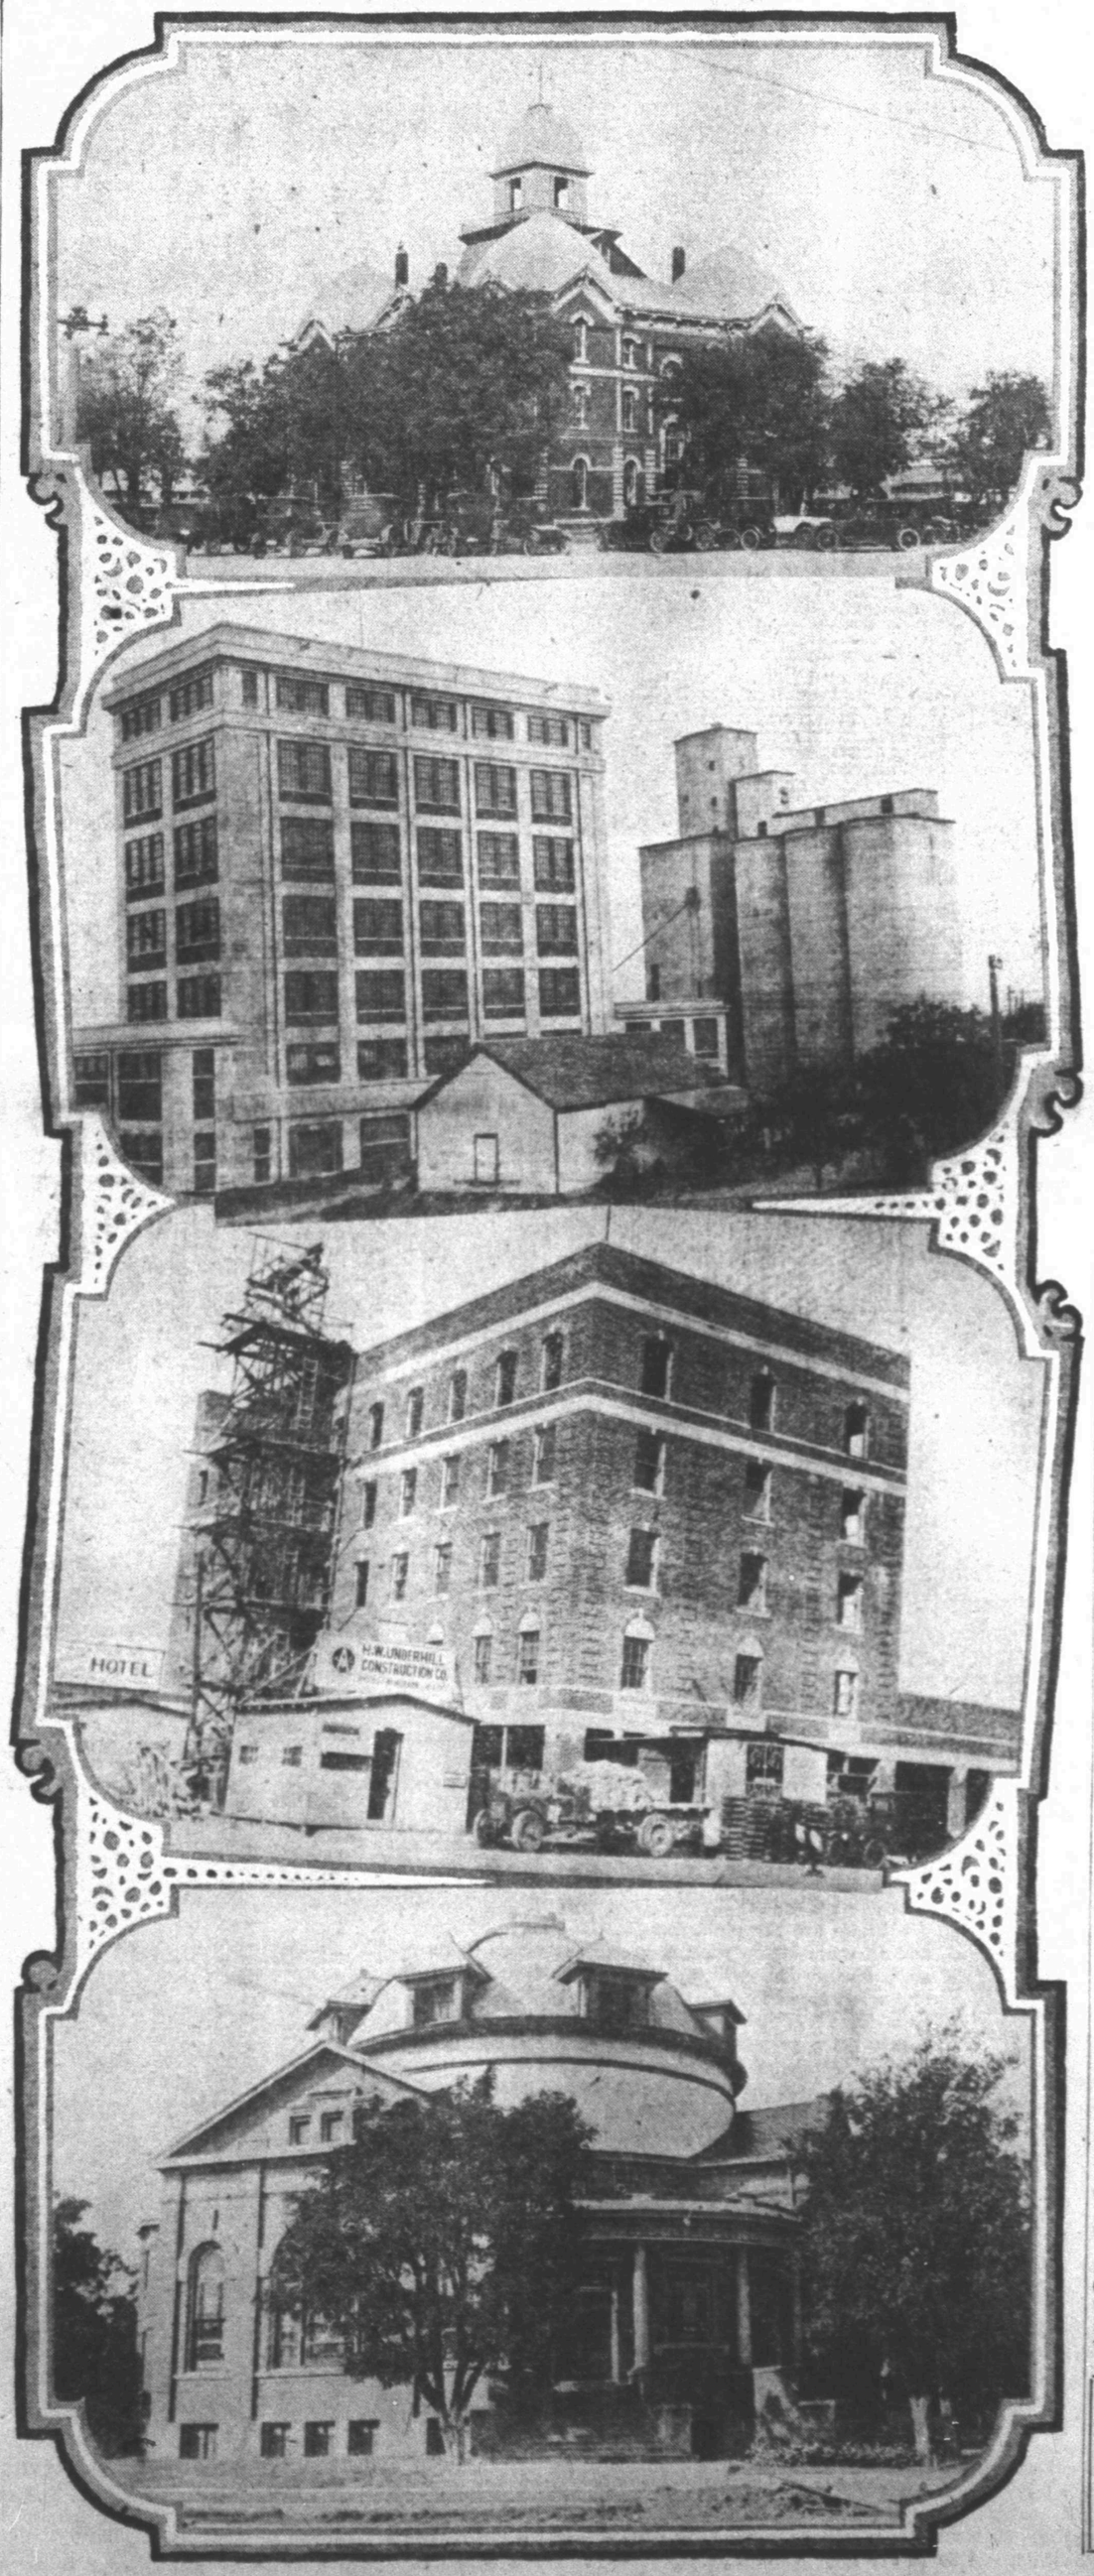

Poultry Now Becoming Important Factor

There are farmers who are giving attention to poultry; they are giving attention to sheep; they are giving attention to the swine industry; they are giving attention to the importance of supplying their own tables with home-picked eggs, home-made butter and cheese, home-made preserves of all kinds. All of these make the farm pay dividends. There is one man in Wilbarger county who has an incubator of 15,000-egg capacity. He is a business man. He advertises for the farmers or their wives to bring their eggs to his incubator for hatching purposes and his incubator is never idle.

Poultry is becoming a most important industry in Wilbarger. There are tenants in Wilbarger of the same backward type that is found wherever the cotton plant grows. They do not plant gardens. They do not raise their own hogs or chickens. They do not raise their own feed stuffs. They give no heed to the orchards or the berry patch. They plant cotton because their forebears planted it and they plant cotton alone. These men never keep their heads above the tide. They are ever in debt. Their story is the age-old story of the tenant of the south with a one-crop idea in his head who plants cotton alone and pays the penalty.

Bankers of Vernon are an enterprising lot. They are keen to the cotton situation. They admit that a lot of cotton has been sold and they agree, it is said, that it was impossible for many of the growers of the tenant class to hold their cotton. These men were in debt to their landlords, or the merchants and bankers who carried them. They had to sell to get money to pay their pickers. They had to sell to pay their merchants or part pay them. They had to sell to meet their loans made by the bankers.

Sympathy is one thing; business is quite another thing. The man without money must meet the conditions as they are and do his best to meet his obligations. If he doesn't meet his obligations he is relegated with the class without credit. "Will the farmers increase acreage in Wilbarger county this year?" was the question propounded to Joseph Kell, in charge of the great Kell mills in the city of Vernon. He answered off-hand, "Not unless all the cotton in the fields is picked in time for the plowing and the planting. They tell me they are going to pick all the cotton regardless of what happens next year. It all depends on the weather; and the number of pickers. There are many farmers and their families in the fields doing their own picking."

Wilbarger County Now Big Oil Producer

Wilbarger in recent years became an oil producing county as well as a producer of meat stuffs and agricultural products. There are two big oil pools in the county and the oil production for the last six months had an average daily run of 14,126 barrels. There are 326 producing wells in the Wilbarger oil fields and there are 175 wells now being drilled. That is what the big companies and the wild-catters are doing in these two oil pools.

Vernon is a busy place as well as a beautiful place. It has the commission form of government. It has a trade area of 18,342 square miles, and the population of the trade territory is estimated at 73,000. It has two railroad lines, the Fort Worth & Denver and the Frisco, which afford splendid transportation facilities as well as giving wide distribution for all manufactured products.

It has eight miles of paved streets, 43 miles of concrete sidewalk, 16 blocks of white way, a modern, sanitary sewer system, 1,750,000 gallons daily pure water supply, four ward schools and a high school, nine churches of all denominations, four private hospitals, two federal and three state highways, 310 rated business houses, 23 grocery stores, 11 general dry goods stores, one exclusive shoe store, one exclusive men's and three exclusive ladies' stores which give the reader a general idea of the business importance of the city.

This is the automotive age. Vernon his 29 filling stations, nine car dealers, one flour mill with a capacity of 1,200 barrels a day, five cotton gins, one oil mill, two light plants, two ice plants, five lumber yards, two laundries, two creameries, five hardware and three implement stores, 10 wholesale houses, seven oil-field supply houses, one daily newspaper, one weekly newspaper, one exclusive commercial printing plant, seven restaurants as well as 14 doctors and 16 dentists to meet the demands of an ever growing population.

There are many other business houses "that go to make an ideal city and retail trade center," according to a bulletin issued by a chamber of commerce that never closes its doors with directors and a secretary who are never asleep when opportunity knocks. Vernon has its residence sections of well-paved streets, wide sidewalks, stately shade trees, green lawns and flower gardens most alluring to the eye. It is a boast of the people that trees and shrubbery and flowers flourish in the rich soil of the Pease river valley as no where else. According to official reports the actual city property value is $12,589,324 and the assessed valuation last year $6,350,000.

Valuations Of City Run To High Figures

There is a city tax of one dollar and a school tax rate of seventy-five cents. Vernon has three building and loan associations all doing a flourishing business. More than 400 new homes and 23 brick business houses have been constructed during the past eight months. There is now under construction a five-story modern hotel, The Wilbarger, which will represent a cost of $250,000. A million dollar building program represents this hotel and other structures, including $150,000 church for the First Baptist congregation, a $250,000 investment in the Herring bank building and other sightly structures now under way. When completed, the Herring bank building will be one of the show places, in a financial, business and ornate sense of this section of the state. It will be completed by June 1, 1927, and G. C. Marsh and other officials of the bank are very proud of their investment.

By the way, Vernon has four banks; two national and two state, with a total capital and surplus of $700,000 and average deposits for the past 12 months of $4,692,324.08. This speaks highly of a city having a population of 10,500. These bankers of Vernon are in touch

SPURNED LEGACY.

SELDOM has a great fortune been held intact after the death of its founder. As a rule there is a division of the estate among many heirs, there are lawsuits and bickerings over this bequest and that, and a frittering away of the principal wealth amassed until the family millions have been reduced to scattered thousands.

A Vanderbilt who died recently —Reginald C.—had not enough left of his personal estate to pay his debts, the executor of the will said. The Gould "golden egg" has been the subject of long litigation among many heirs. And now there comes to light the story of another great, divided fortune—the tobacco millions of Pierre Lorillard.

Two sons of the original Pierre Lorillard, a French-American patriot who died in the Revolution for the land of his adoption started in the tobacco business over a hundred years ago in New Jersey. The enterprise prospered as the years passed, and Pierre Lorillard, famous as the founder of Tuxedo Park, became a multi-millionaire of the past generation. He was conspicuous in international sporting events, and was the first American to win the English Derby. He was a friend of the late Lord Beresford and was acquainted with King Edward. He died in 1901 at the old Fifth Avenue Hotel, and left an enormous fortune, generous portions going to his son, Pierre Lorillard, Jr., of Tuxedo Park, and to the two daughters, the late Mrs. Edwin Kemp, of Tuxedo, and the late Mrs. Cecil Baring, of London.

The dispute that initiated the breaking-up process of the Lorillard millions arose from the fact that Pierre the elder had bequeathed his famous Rancocas Stables, established at Jobstown, N. Y., to a friend, Mrs. Lily Barnes Allien. For years prior to his death Lorillard and his wife, the former Emily Taylor, had not lived together. Her share in the estate was an annuity of $50,000. There was talk of contesting the will, but a compromise was effected and the case was settled out of court. Mrs. Lorillard died in Paris in 1925, and it was then revealed that the widow had never touched a penny of the income that had been left her. It had been accumulating 25 years, and it was decreed that the fund of $340,000 should be divided into four equal parts, the beneficiaries being Pierre Lorillard, Jr.; his sons, Pierre 3d and Griswold, who received half, and the children of the two deceased daughters.

Another branch of the great tobacco estate was that represented by Mary Lorillard, sister of the elder Pierre. She married Henry I. Barbey. They established a residence in Tuxedo Park, and their sons and daughters became closely identified with this most exclusive social colony in America. Mr. Barbey died in Paris in 1906, and the widow then settled in Paris.

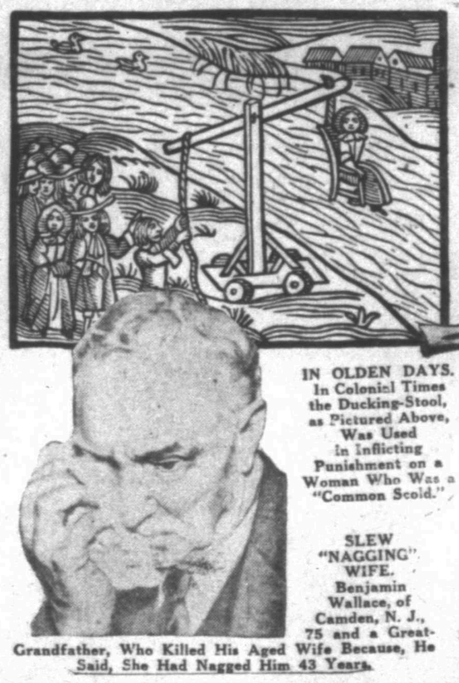

Mrs. Barbey died last April. Her will, only recently published, has given fashionable Tuxedo Park something else to gossip about in connection with the Lorillard millions. Mrs. Barbey set forth that certain advances had been made to her children, and these sums were deducted from the various shares allotted to Mrs. Gilbert C. Elliott, of Sholden, Kent, England; Pierre Lorillard Barbey, of Palm Beach; Henry G. Barbey, of Katonah, N. Y.; Countess Hermann de Pourtales, of London, and Baroness Andre de Neuflize, of Paris. The bequests ranged from $16,000 to $79,000.

The provision for another daughter, covered in a codicil to the will, is that which gave society particular cause for amused speculation. Mrs. Barbey directed that the bequest to the daughter who had married Count de Jumilhac, of Paris, be held in trust for her and that she be paid only the income, the principal to be divided, upon her death, among her three children. Now Tuxedo is wondering whether this precaution was taken to prevent the Count de Jumilhac from spending the principal.

with the bankers of Texas who have launched the five million dollar corporation to provide money for withholding 1,250,000 bales of cotton off the market until the price goes above the cost of production.

L. G. Hawkins, president of the Waggoner National bank; L. E. Piper, its vice-president, and H. O. Colley, its assistant cashier are all agreed that there should be a reduction in cotton acreage the coming year. That more attention should be given to the cow and the sow and the hen in order that the farmers may supply themselves with foodstuffs and feed stuffs and not go in debt every year for the necessities of life. Vice-President F. L. Mathis of the Farmers State bank is a most enthusiastic champion of more crops and less acreage, more food stuffs and feed stuffs, more orchards and gardens and less going in debt for useless luxuries or the showy conveniences and comforts of life.

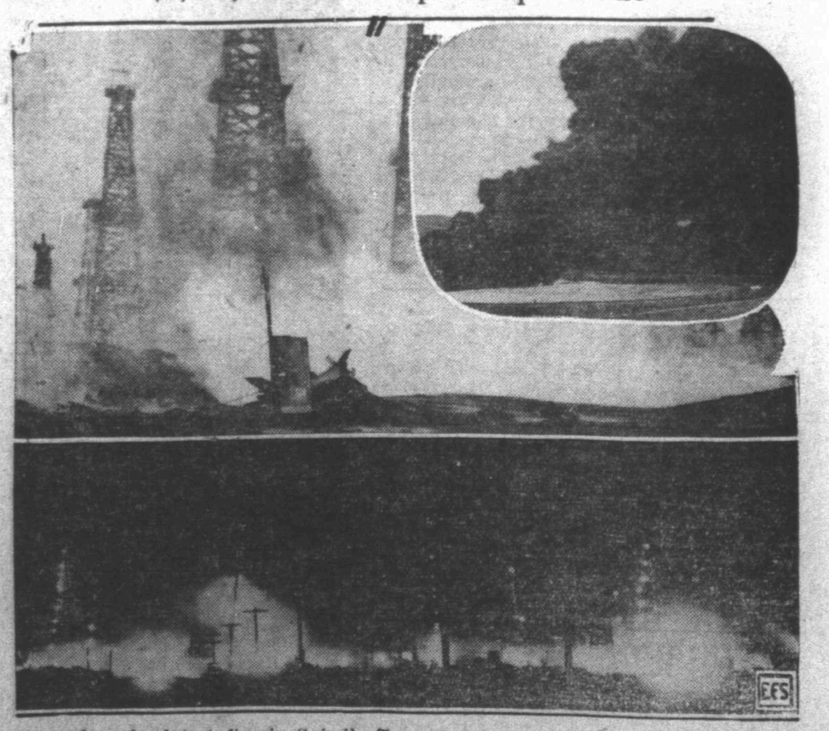

Farmers of Wilbarger are selling cotton. There is a reason for it. Many borrowed the money to increase their acreage. Many were carried through the year. He who dances must pay the piper; the land owner who rents land wants money; the merchant who sells his groceries on credit wants money; the banker who advances loans for crop purposes wants money. Business is business and the man who owes must pay. This is the logic of the system of one-crop farming and in the last analysis the land tenant or cropper has no other alternative. He must make payments to the men who have carried him and he cannot hold his cotton without financial aid without wrecking his credit.

These are the plain facts in the case in Wilbarger and all other cotton producing counties where there are many tenants who never produce foodstuffs or feed stuffs and who are wedded to the one-crop plant idea or custom. Thus it is that Wilbarger is not only an agricultural county but a petroleum producing county where a high-grade oil is taken from the sand. Millions of barrels have been taken from the Wilbarger fields and it is stated that the prairie teritory is not more than one-third drilled up.

A natural gas line is now under construction which is to bring gas in large quantities from the Amarillo gas field for domestic and industrial use. This, the leading men of Vernon say, will have a tendancy to revolutionize the fuel problem and will greatly improve the living conditions and stimulate industrial growth. They believe that the four factors entering into the industrial life of a community can be had in super abundance in their city and in the days to come textile factories and woolen mills and other branches of manufacturing will add to the growth and the importance of this city which nestles in the beautiful Pease river valley.

There are road builders galore in this city and county. Right now they are planning for many additional blocks of street paving and fifty miles of county road paving. They stand for modern schools and modern churches and residences and they are proud of the record that Vernon has made and are in accord with the prediction that the population of their city will grow to 15,000 in the very near future.

Full Value from Vegetables

This Compact White Enameled Container for Storing Vegetables and Fruits Allows the Free Circulation of Air That Is So Essential to the Proper Preservation of Perishables.

Are You Losing the Valuable Minerals in the Vegetables You Buy, Through Careless Cooking? If So, Study Some of the Suggestions Given by Good Housekeeping Institute on How to Get the Most Out of Your Vegetables.

"One of my biggest problems is to get the whole dinner ready at one time. Invariably when I am serving two or three vegetables, one is cooked tender long before the other. Or, if it isn't that, one of the vegetables is sure to need extra cooking, while I am frantically trying to keep the rest of the dinner from getting cold and unpalatable."

Others of us can tell the same story, and we are still wondering why. We aim to cook our vegetables "until tender," yet with no definite cooking time period for them in mind, we find it difficult to keep the hour which we set for dinner. Haven't we still more to confess? Faithfully we urge our families to eat vegetables and more vegetables. Yet, are we aware how little encouragement we really give when we serve more frequently than not vegetables which have not only been deprived of all original flavor and color through poor cooking but are overseasoned in an attempt to disguise this fact. Hotels and home cooks are often transgressors alike.

So the Institute went to work! Vegetables fresh from market poured into our kitchen each morning. We boiled, we steamed, and we timed! Each vegetable was boiled and steamed and the test was repeated until we were able to give you what we consider a safe margin of time to allow for cooking. We found, just as you will, that, as the vegetables vary in age, so will the time period for cooking have to be changed somewhat. For this reason we have in many instances indicated a minimum and maximum time for cooking.

Perhaps you ask: "Shall I boil or steam?" Frankly, we hope the time will soon pass when fresh vegetables are carelessly prepared and then boiled and boiled in great quantities of water. Too often this water finds its way down the sink, and we are utterly unaware that it is valuable food that we are throwing away.

One reason for serving generous portions of vegetables to our family is to give them the necessary supply of mineral salts. Yet careless preparation—for we do pare our vegetables too thick—and over-long cooking in quantities of water rob the vegetables of their minerals and in turn deprive the family of daily food essentials which they assume they are getting.

So the Institute answers, "Steam if you can, and thus conserve a maximum of the mineral salts present in the vegetables." Steamers which are simple, compact, and inexpensive can be supplied by manufacturers of both enamelware and aluminumware. In purchasing one of these you can always plan to steam your puddings, fish, etc., in it, too. Then there are the waterless cookers and steam pressure cookers, both serving as mineral-salt-servers as well. We will gladly send you a list of these if you will address us at Good Housekeeping Institute, 105 West 39th Street, New York City, enclosing a two-cent stamp. Still another method of conserving the food wealth in vegetables is suggested in baking them. Many times when your meat or dessert is in the oven this same heat can be utilized for baking the vegetables in a small amount of water.

If your budget will not allow for the purchase of any new cooking utensils just now, you can still rescue the mineral salts. Arrange the prepared vegetables in the bottom of the kettle. Cover the kettle lightly and cook the vegetables until tender, following the time table.

And one last word: If you must boil your vegetables in water, keep an eye on the mineral salts. Save every drop of the liquor drained from the vegetables, whether fresh or canned, and use it for your cream soups, creamed vegetables, gravies, and the like. Don't throw it down the kitchen sink—it is a real and important food!

November Fruit Market

A Few Words of Advice from the Experts at the Institute on How to Select Apples and Cranberries from the Month's Supply.

ALMOST from the earliest Colonial days apples and cranberries have been favorite fruits in this country. Even now, when all the world supplies us with a never-ending succession of orchard and vineyard products throughout the year. November stands out vividly as a fruit month because of them.

Next to variety, the maturity, color and size are the important things to consider in purchasing apples. Blemishes are important, of course, but most of them are detected easily and hence do not present a serious problem. Fully mature but not over-ripe apples are firm-fleshed, they have a bright skin which crackles faintly after the manner of a toy balloon when rubbed, and the ground color has changed from green to yellow or creamy white. Softness, dull color, extreme greasiness, or shriveling are symptoms of over-maturity, while a green ground color denotes immaturity. In this connection it is well to remember that an apple may have a big red blush and still be grass green on the other side, indicating that it is not yet fit to eat. Some varieties, like Greenings and Yellow Newtowns, may not show a trace of red and yet be at the ideal stage for use provided they have changed from a greenish to a yellowish cast. A deep, bright red color is generally associated with quality in red varieties, and dull, pale, or partly-colored fruit is not considered as desirable.

Few perishable commodities are so well graded as cranberries, and the purchaser seldom has difficulty in selecting this fruit. The principal factors affecting the quality of cranberries are size, color, and soundness. Large fruit costs more and probably averages higher flavor.

The color depends on variety and maturity, but your choice is often decided by local preferences. Eastern markets prefer a dark-colored berry, while Middle-Western cities lean to the lighter shades. Soundness is more important than anything else and it is the one thing which should be watched. Retailers frequently hold packages of cranberries for some time and small decay spots appear on the fruit. As a rule these can be easily detected by casual examination. It is interesting to note, though, that good, sound cranberries possess considerable elasticity, and bound like little rubber balls when dropped on a hard surface, while unsound fruit falls flat.

New Recipes for Savory Side Dishes

The Institute Cooks Suggest a Few Ways of Preparing the Regular Vegetable Dishes That Ordinarily Seem Plain Unless Given Variety by New Ways of Serving.

THE Fall season brings to the housewife the problem of finding new ways to prepare the old-time standbys. With a little thought and very little trouble the same vegetables may be served over and over again in different combinations. Celery, one of the most popular of Fall vegetables, is usually best liked in the uncooked state, but for a change it is nice served in a cream sauce, or with a drawn butter sauce on toast.

If you have tasted gay little carrots prepared in the following manner as an accompaniment to any roast meat, you will have a proper appreciation of their true worth. Cut the carrots into inch strips after scraping them, and cook until tender in boiling, salted water. Put into a saucepan two teaspoonfuls of butter, one-fourth cupful of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a grating of nutmeg. Add the carrots and cook until they are transparent.

Onions au Gratin.

Peel six onions and cook in boiling salted water until tender enough to remove the centres. Make a stuffing as follows: Chop fine, enough onion centres to make one-fourth cupful. Mix this with three-fourth cupful of bread crumbs and three tablespoonfuls of onion liquid. Fill the cavities of the onions, place in a greased casserole, and sprinkle all with one-third cupful of grated American cheese. Make a white sauce, using two tablespoonfuls each of flour and fat, three-fourth teaspoonful of salt, and three-fourths cupful of milk. Pour the sauce around the onions and sprinkle generously with paprika. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 15 minutes.

Beets with Cream Sauce.

Wash five or six medium-sized beets thoroughly, being careful not to break the skin. Cook them in boiling, salted water until tender, and drain, saving the water. Rub off the skins and cut the beets in slices. Pour over them two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Make a sauce in the following manner: Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, fat or oil; add three tablespoonfuls of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth tablespoonful of pepper. Stir until well blended, then add one cupful of beet water. Cook until it thickens. Then stir in one-half cupful of cream and cook until smooth and thickened.

These Two Dishes, Easily Prepared from the Certified Recipes, Are Ideal for the Informal Supper or After-Theatre Party.

Swiss Eggs.

TO one tablespoonful of butter melted in a small skillet, add one-half cupful of cream or top milk; when simmering, slip four eggs in carefully, one at a time. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne and when nearly set with two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. When cooked as you like them, take up on rounds of hot, buttered toast, shake paprika on liberally, sprinkle with minced parsley and sweet pepper, and pour the cream around.

Ham Toast.

Mince one and one-half cupfuls of left-over ham and moisten to spread with about three-fourths cupful of highly-seasoned stewed tomato or tomato sauce. Make neat sandwiches with white bread; dip in a mixture of one egg, one cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper. Saute them quickly in a hot frying pan with a little butter, fat, or oil. Minced sausage may be substituted for the ham.

At Breakfast

Bacon and Potato Omelet.

DICED bacon, measuring one-half cupful, place in a frying pan together with one cupful of cold potatoes, chopped fine, and fry together until the potatoes are delicately browned and the bacon crisp. Separate four eggs, beat the yolks till creamy, and add the whites which have been beaten until stiff. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, fold into potato mixture, and cook gently like an omelet until set. Serve hot.

Gymnastics That Will Build You Up

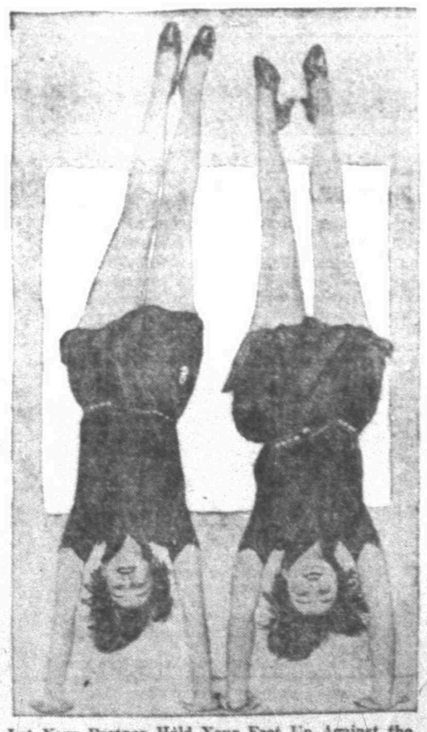

EXERCISE is apt to grow boring unless we have some special incentive to keep us at it. And of all incentives, none is so pleasant as companionship.

If you can get your sister or your friend to join you in your daily exercises, you will probably keep at them a good deal longer than you otherwise might. And you can do more strenuous and more difficult exercises than you could do alone.

The exercises illustrated above are those used by the Deuel sisters in keeping fit for their dancing. The dancer realizes that keeping her muscles supple is an every-day job. She can't exercise one day and then forget about it for a week, resting on her accomplishments. Each day of neglect takes its toll of her gracefulness and ease. That is a lesson that you must learn too, if you are to have the easy limberness that gives you poise and physical charm.

These exercises are not very hard. But if you help each other, you will find that, in time, you will be able to do them as easily as these sisters do them. And when you reach the point where you can do them easily, you will realize how beneficial they have been to your physique.

Fate's Grim Anniversary Gift to the $40,000,000 Bride

LAND CREATOR. "Digaway" Davis Dredged Up a Cool Forty Million Dollars by Means of Swamp Land Reclamation at Tampa and St. Augustine.

HOW DAVIS PERISHED. "He lost his balance and hurtled out into the ocean. He yelled for help, women screamed, the call of 'Man Overboard!' was sounded."

ISLAND HOME. Court of the Spanish Apartments Where the Davises Lived on "Davis Island," the New-Made Land in Tampa Bay.

THE strange and tragic death at sea of D. P. Davis, multimillionaire realtor, closed a career that was brief but breathless with thrills. For all life was romance to "Digaway" Davis, the penniless newsboy who made $40,000,000 in the Florida boom, who "created" islands and shorelands out of the sands of the sea, who wooed and won a patrician beauty of Tampa, and seemed to have every possession that happiness could wish.

But two days after the first anniversary of his marriage to the beautiful Elizabeth Nelson of Tampa, Davis, crossing the Atlantic to join her in Paris, was strangely drowned. The only two witnesses to his death said it was accidental. They were Mrs. Alice Smith and her daughter, Mrs. Lucille Zehring, who testified at the coroner's inquest that they were in the drawing-room of Davis's sumptuous suite on the steamship Majestic, when he plunged overboard. Davis, a daredevil in all other matters as he was in finance, was playfully exhibiting his prowess as an acrobat, said his friends—on the ledge of a window of his drawing-room. He lost his balance and hurtled out into the ocean. He yelled for help, women screamed, the call of "Man Overboard!" was sounded. The engines of the great ship were reversed and for more than an hour the Majestic circled about the spot where Davis had fallen, but no trace of him was found. His ten-year-old son, George, was sleeping soundly in an adjoining cabin.

Friends of Mr. Davis derided the theory of suicide, declaring he had had no business reverses and there had been no differences between the millionaire and his girl-wife, from whom he had just received a radio message: "Love, awaiting you Friday."

Their romance had been a hectic one, including a divorce three weeks after their marriage in October, 1925—and their remarriage one month after the divorce was consummated. There was no explanation of their swift estrangement and reconciliation, beyond the statement of Mrs. Davis that she divorced him "on principle." She never enlarged on that remark.

The beautiful Miss Nelson was queen of the Mardi Gras carnival in Tampa during February of 1925, which is a most enviable social distinction. "Digaway" Davis had achieved eminence in the business world. At terrific cost the former newsboy had reclaimed a half-submerged mangrove swamp in Tampa Bay, and the total sales of Davis Islands lots, at the height of the Florida land boom, exceeded $18,000,000. He did the same thing at St. Augustine, Florida.

Such was the business romance of the poor newsboy who became a multimillionaire. And his girl-wife, who waited for him in vain on the other side of the Atlantic—what must she think as she looks back on the past year, with its marriage, divorce, remarriage and then—death?

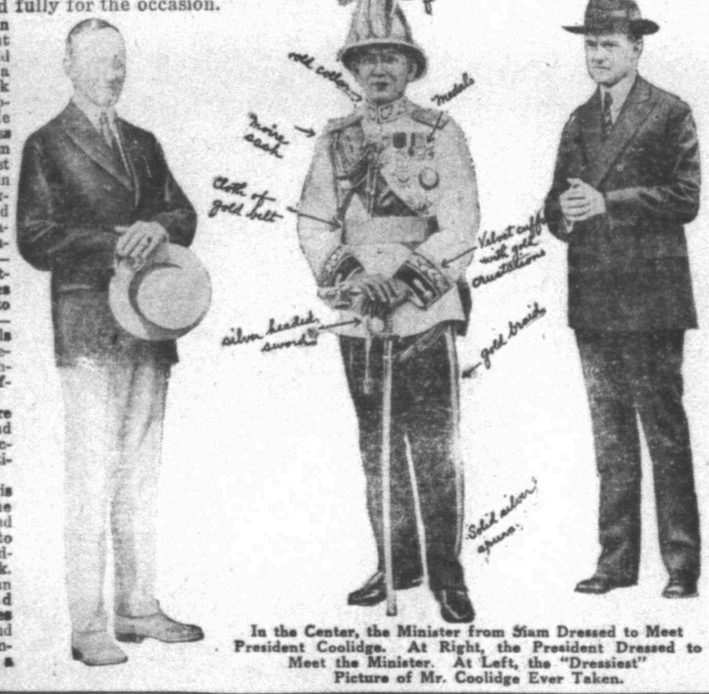

When Siam Shakes Hands with America

WHEN Thya Vigitvange Vudhikrai, Siam's new Minister at Washington, called to pay his respects to President Coolidge, he dressed fitly and fully for the occasion.

He was attired in all the resplendent trappings that would be indicated for a State occasion back in Bangkok, the capital of Siam. He wore a full-dress military uniform that the nattiest field-marshal in Siam could not excel — sword, gold braid, sashes, feathered helmet, epaulets, fourragere—which means the little rope that trickles from the epaulet to the breast-bone—medals, more medals and a smile that reflected his full consciousness of the effect produced.

Mr. Coolidge wore a plain coat and pants and a characteristic air of reticence.

Mr. Coolidge is only President of the United States, and he can never hope to dress like Mr. Vudhikrai of Bangkok. However, European dignitaries spend most of their salaries on uniforms, and Mr. Coolidge's simplicity saves him a lot of money.

Making Eagles Out of Ducks

WHEN Mrs. Elizabeth Miller migrated to the North Carolina mountains in search of health, she brought along in her "covered flivver" the eggs of some wild mallard ducks she had found while hunting along the Mississippi River.

An obliging hen hatched them out at her lonely mountain cabin, and the ducks found themselves 5,000 feet from sea level with not a drop of water in sight. But they adapted themselves to their environment and got an idea they were eagles. They outgrew the theory that a mallard duck can't live without water, and they have shown no desire, like their wild ancestors, to migrate. Meanwhile, Mrs. Miller has won back her health, and mountain duck raising has proved not only possible but profitable.

Recently a lucky circumstance supplied water for the mallards. A hydro-electric dam in the valley below Chimney Rock has created a lake 1,500 acres in extent, and now all the mountain ducks have to do is drop a few thousand feet for the week-end and they're in their element.

Romance Problems of Real People

"TAILS I LOSE"—BUT SHE'S GAME. Mrs. Arthur L. Thompson, of Evansville, Ind., Who Tossed a Coin with Her Estranged Husband to Decide the First Year's Custody of Their Baby—and Lost.

Pitched a Penny for Their Baby, but---

Analyzed by Anne Jordan.

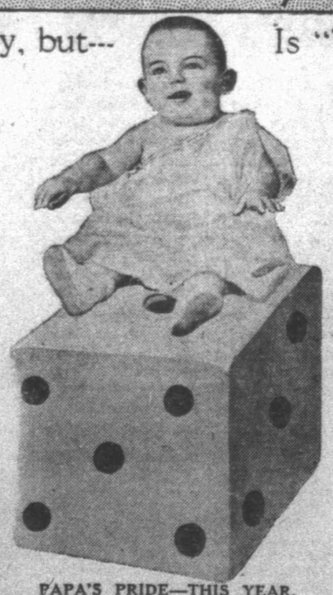

BOY, page Mister Solomon, I want to tell him how antiquated he is. He may have thought he was the mosquito's whistle when it came to deciding about babies, but there's a young couple out in Evansville, Indiana, who have him skinned a city block on neatness and dispatch.

When Solomon was decreeing who was going to get custody of a child in those long-ago days when men had nine hundred wives and no alimony to pay, he called for a carving knife.

When Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Thompson of Evansville were trying to decide which of them was to have the custody of their lovely youngster, the local newspapers said, they just flipped a coin. Father won the baby for the first year, and Mother said it was a fair and square sporting proposition and she would stand by it.

This is the first time we've heard of a couple flipping a coin for the baby. Which proves that nowadays we gamble over anything and everything. Everybody's doing it—the flapper is gambling with love when she goes in for petting parties. She's staking all her sweetness and freshness against being a mauled-over old maid. She's liable to lose her chance at a crisp two-dollar certificate and be like the marked-down bargain counter lingerie—"Left-over, but clean."

And a man—why he knows he's gambling with the undertaker every time he sniffs a swig of bootleg dew. But that doesn't stop him. He'll say, "Gimme two bits worth of that exterminator—well, this may be my last, but here's mud in your eye!"

Is "Taking a Chance" the Best Way?

Marriage—gosh, they think that's a sure shot, because if it's not all padded with velvet they can snag off a divorce. A girl doesn't even stop long enough to learn how to spell the new name she's planning to wear before she's chortling, "WILL I? I'll say I will!"

Why even the insurance companies will gamble with you on anything. They'll bet that it will be a close day on Coolidge's birthday, 1949, or that the cook will quit next Tuesday, or you'll cut a third set of teeth—if you pay a high enough premium.

A HIGH ENOUGH PREMIUM. Write that on your cuff. That's where the joke comes in in all gambling. There's always a premium. You hear about the winners, but the losers don't advertise.

Solomon lived a long time ago, when groceries were cheap as well as wives. But he still has a fine reputation for having used his thinking apparatus. He never gambled. He took time out and thought over the best way out. I suspect he sat up all night, combing his two-yard beard while he mulled over how he was going to find out which was the real mother of that baby he was going to raffle off.

Solomon was a great big man. He was a king in the days when men were men and kings didn't have dictators or press-agents. And he had more subjects than a frog has hops. Any other king would have arched one brow, dusted his nose with a hanky of Tyrian purple, and yawned, "Oh, let 'em fight it out. I've got a date with the Queen o' Sheba." But not Solomon. He knew that this baby, though one of the least of his subjects, was the big event in the life of one of those two women. His motto was what was worth doing was worth doing well.

Even in this snappy age that we enjoy, wouldn't it be smoother sailing if we stopped long enough to give the big things a little solid concentration—say about as much as you put on a cross-word puzzle or the selection of a hat? In other words, steal a little of Mister Solomon's thunder and use the old bean instead of checking the bet to chance.

"HEADS I WIN." Arthur L. Thompson, the Father Who Embraced the Modern Method of "Taking a Chance" Instead of Asking the Courts to Say Whether He Or the Mother Should Have the Baby.

The Son of Uriah Cleek - By FANNIE HURST

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Uriah Cleek's son Walter had reaped the reward of his father's hard years of toil. He had enjoyed the benefits which had been denied to his father..

He had made the most of his opportunities—in his own way. And when he was graduated from college his father gave him his head.

He gave Walter his head.

And Walter took his choice unhesitatingly.

THE son of Uriah Cleek was about to graduate from the University. There were many other young men besides Walter Cleek in the class, but it is doubtful if to the father of any one of them the graduation of a son meant quite what it did to Uriah.

Uriah's was the common enough situation of a parent determined to grant to his children the advantages he had been denied in his youth. There was nothing very special about that. Probably nine-tenths of the parents of the remaining graduates had been actuated by just those motives.

Life in the Northwestern state where the Cleeks had had their beginnings had been rugged enough only two generations back. All through that part of the country fathers with college sons could remember their own fathers, who had trekked across country in covered wagons.

But in the case of old man Cleek, who had been born with a natural aptitude toward learning that had always distinguished him from the coarser-grained farmers of the community, the education of his only child had become a sort of obsession. The year that Walter's mother had died, herself a gentle, horny-handed soul, ambitious for her son, there were already ninety odd dollars in a tin can behind the clock on the kitchen shelf toward Walter's college education.

When Walter was twelve, the best books, recommended by the public library of the nearest town that claimed one, were on the living room table of the Cleek farm.

At thirteen, Walter was given a young mare for his birthday, on which he rode ten miles to military school. Every Saturday, Uriah, on a great pasteboard-looking nag that towered above his son's, rode alongside him to the Academy, for the pleasure of beholding Walter perform weekly manoeuvers on the parade ground. Later, the old gentleman liked to wander in and out of the Institute corridors, in hope of running into this or that teacher for the sake of what tid-bits might be dropped about his son. That is, until a tirade of bitter humiliation from Walter at these methods put an end to Uriah's meanderings in search of commentaries upon his boy.

Usually these commentaries were gratifying enough. Walter was a fair to middling student. Not distinguished by scholarship, but his teachers liked him for the good, average sort of chap that he was.

That was all really that mattered to Uriah. A clean, decent son with a brain of good enough quality to take training.

Walter had that. When he was seventeen the proudest man in all the great northwest was Uriah Cleek the morning he saw his boy off for the opening session of his freshman term at Yale.

They were lonely years that followed. The solitary, ageing man alone on his two-hundred-acre farm. Vacations, of course, his son came home, except twice at Christmas and once during the summer term when he visited college friends on Long Island, instead.

Those vacations, however brief and scattered, atoned, however, for the long, lonely winters and the seemingly endless period of the terms. Vacations, it was a well-set-up, sleek, polished Walter that stepped off the train to greet his waiting father. A clear-eyed, slick-haired, square-shouldered, well-tailored chap who shipped his racing car home on the same train with him, and drove it away from the station, seated on his spine, his admiring father on the front seat behind him.

Not once, however, during all those four years, chiefly because he sensed that the idea would be repellent to Walter, did Uriah so much as suggest a trip East to see his son.

Even when the month of his graduation approached he did not suggest it, although, as the days passed, a heaviness, as of a lodestone at his heart, settled upon the old man.

Then one day, just three weeks beforehand, came this from Walter:

"Dear Dad: Well, the old sheep skin is about to descend upon me. It's an ancient rite, sometimes attended by the parents of the 'sheepskinees'. Personally, my advice is to spare yourself the wear and tear of the trip, a baccalaureate sermon that is sure to give you neck ache and some of the worst warm lemonade ever brewed on a campus. However, if you decide to come, you'll find me leaning against the railroad track that bears your train to town.

Your Affec. son. W."

It was of course as Uriah had secretly feared. Bitterly fearful of the impression his old father would make upon his easterly colleagues, Walter was torn between the agony of his desire to spare his father any consciousness of his lack of equipment, and his desire to soften the shock this crude old farmer father must create among his friends.

The strain told on the boy. His face wore a pained look. He answered his father's questions with his ears tense meanwhile, to hear what comments they might be eliciting from his class-mates.

He agonized through introductions, cocked an anxious ear to everything his father might be saying to a third person as they sat in grand stands and at class ceremonies, and developed a nervous habit of yapping sharply at Uriah when he pried lovingly around his son's rooms.

The week told on Walter in nerves, in wear and tear, in pride. And Uriah knew it.

There was a round of proms., cocktail parties, petting teas, dances, motor trips and crushes that wound up commencement week, and all through it that discordant note of his father, prowling around the campus with his absurd greenish umbrella clutched by the middle. Stopping to chat with any passing janitor. Swapping anecdotes of his boy with any menial employee of the college who would listen. Buttonholing professors in corridors.

It was just enough for Uriah to find some one who would listen to talk of his boy, or who knew him by sight or by name and had a passing word of praise for him.

It was the night before the conferring of the degrees that all that had been smouldering in the old man came to the surface.

"Walter," he said, after he had been fumbling about the college rooms at a rate that had sent Walter's nerves to shrieking, "we ain't had much to say about your future plans, my boy."

"No, father."

"Guess you got your own, son. Eh?"

"Well, after a fashion, father."

"What are they?"

"Won't they keep, father, until after tomorrow?"

"No, son. Rather have the thing out of my system. Never mind what your plans are. I've got some for you that I think you'll like."

"Yes, father?"

"I'm not going to hold you to your promise to try out them six months on the farm before you decide on a career, Walter. I'm going to give you your head right now. I'm not going to take you back home, boy. You've outgrown us back there. You ain't fit for no ranch life any more. You've got culture. You've got something too precious to waste back there on a ranch. Know what I want you to do those six months, son?"

"What, father?"

"I want you to mingle yourself with the kinda fellows you've met up with here in the East, who can set you an example of fine and high ideals for good living. I just want you to mingle yourself with the biggest and the finest and the cleanest there is. Good citizens. Fine idealists. Real Americans. That's the kind of fellows around here, ain't they, son?"

A wave of red dyed his boy's face. Deep, ashamed, degraded red.

"Why, father, I—"

"You know what I mean, son. The best is none too good for you to associate with these months while you're finding your feet, as the saying goes. I want you to have the noblest examples before you. Where'll you find them, son?"

With the red still dyeing his face, Walter regarded his father, across a flood of remorseful, ashamed emotion that for the moment made him terribly afraid he was going to sob.

"If I want to find all those things, father," he said finally, throught tight tonsils, "I—I'll have to go home with you. You're the noblest example I know anything about."

Poor Uriah, he too was afraid of sobbing, and so he laughed and took up his hat and his gray-green umbrella which he clutched by the middle, and went out for the happiest walk of his life.
