Federal Court Rules Out Montgomery Segregation

Water Plan Signed After Heated Debate

A bitterly heated argument climaxed, and led to, signing of a water system extension contract between the city council and Prentis Bass in last night's meeting of the council.

Signing of a contract had been sought by Bass for several months.

The contract will permit Bass to pay for all costs of installation of water mains and lines in a residential development he proposes to build south of Towle Memorial Park, but does not include city repayment to Bass for cost of the lines.

Bass had requested permission to tie onto a city water main which dead ends in Towle Memorial Park, and purchase water from the city for the development.

The contract gives the city all right and control to the lines which are to be laid by Bass, so that the city can have control over future developments extending from the Bass lines, and permit the city to require adherence to a water system development in that area which would be in keeping with the city's overall extension program.

The area is outside the city limits and can not be annexed because it is not adjacent to the city, although Bass has petitioned annexation.

While specifications of the contract were being considered by the council, Bass requested to know if a provision could be included in the contract which would permit repayment to him for costs of the lines if the property should be annexed by the city prior to any installation of any of the lines.

Councilman Dr. Robert H. Hargrove heatedly attacked that proposal, and some other members of the council and Mayor Harold Bennett concurred — maintaining that signing of the contract would be binding on Bass, and that such a stipulation could not possibly be written into the contract.

City policy persently is to maintain complete control over any extensions of water mains outside the city limits, just as it does inside the city limits.

The city also has a policy of repaying developers all cost of installation of water and sewer mains on developments which are made on developments inside the city limits.

The council would not agree to include a stipulation in the contract with Bass that repayment for the lines would be made if the territory is annexed prior to installation of any of the lines, but did agree verbally to such a proposal.

Councilmen Hallis Fields and Steve Birdwell proposed that the council verbally agree to the suggestion by Bass to permit future reconsideration of the contract agreed to last night, if the territory should be annexed prior to any expenditure for the lines in question.

Although no formal vote was taken on the verbal agreement proposal, all councilmen and the mayor indicated consent to the verbal agreement.

The contract was approved by unanimous vote of the council on motion by Councilman G. W. Parks, Jr., and second by Birdwell.

Representatives of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. met with the council and agreed to secure answers to several questions of council members concerning the company's proposed rate increase here.

The questions were directed at obtaining information about the company's statement of the fair value of its local exchange property.

Councilman J. W. Phillips submitted to Truman Black, manager of the Snyder telephone exchange, a list of questions which would show a break down of the telephone property, with division between the property actually inside the city limits, the property outside the city limits, and the portion of the property devoted to toll service.

The questionaire also requested a break down on the revenues derived from the various categories of telephone property here.

A count of poles, cross-arms, feet of lines and cables in use, not in use, and the actual number of telephone instruments in service was requested.

Black said that the information would require about two weeks to gather.

In other actions the council appointed Stanley Noah, Charlie Hooser, and F. Maddox to the city planning and zoning commission for three-year terms. They will succeed, effective June 1, Jim Mixon, Harold Bennett, and Bob Dupree.

The council authorized the city engineer, Horace Smith, to prepare plans and specifications for

New Hearing Set On Labor Measure

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Supreme Court today ordered a new hearing in a railroad case from Amarillo involving constitutionality of the Texas "right to work" law for Wednesday, June 27.

The Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Co. filed a supplemental brief Friday in its pending appeal to the Texas high court.

Oral arguments were heard by the state court last fall. It first said it would delay handing down a decision pending outcome of a similar Nebraska case in the U.S. Supreme Court but later decided to proceed with consideration of the Texas case.

However, the Nebraska case was decided before the Texas court completed work on the Santa Fe's appeal.

The U.S. Supreme Court's May 1 ruling was widely interpreted as striking down state right to work laws as they apply to railroad workers, but the Santa Fe and some of its workers interpreted the decision in the Nebraska case as giving support to the Texas law.

Some railway workers have joined the Santa Fe in its suit seeking a court order to forbid execution of a union shop contract between the Santa Fe and 15 nonoperating unions.

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd also has adopted the interpretation of the railway company. He has filed a motion in the Texas court adopting the Santa Fe's supplemental brief.

Santa Fe said in its supplemental brief that the U.S. Supreme Court had not attempted in the Nebraska case to decide constitutional questions presented in the record of the Texas case.

Many Left Homeless

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Cyclonic winds and floods have destroyed more than 30,000 homes and inundated thousands of acres in eastern India, reports reaching here today said. A half million people were affected with more than 20,000 homeless in the Midnapore district of West Bengal.

Ike To Meet For Talk On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has asked House Democratic and Republican leaders to meet with him tonight for talks about the $1,109,000,000 cut in foreign aid voted by the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He hopes to get the cut rescinded.

Announcing plans for the conference, House GOP leader Martin of Massachusetts told newsmen at the White House that the President and other administration officials feel the program would be "badly crippled" if the cut is allowed to stand.

The administration asked for $4,900,000,000 in foreign aid for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The cut voted by the House committee calls for a reduction of one billion dollars in military aid. The balance of the reduction would be in economic aid and in other fields.

Martin announced plans for tonight's White House conference (6 p.m.) after he and other Republican congressional leaders concluded their regular Tuesday morning conference with Eisenhower.

In reply to questions, Martin said the decision to have this evening's session was made before the morning meeting started.

Senate GOP Leader Knowland told newsmen that the similar bipartisan meeting of Senate leaders will be held with the President when the foreign aid bill is ready for Senate action.

The bill is scheduled to come up for House debate tomorrow.

Asked whether the purpose of tonight's conference is to chart strategy in an effort to restore the billion-plus dollars trimmed from the foreign aid program by the House committee, Martin replied:

"Yes, they (the administration) would like very much to restore it."

These Democratic leaders have been invited to tonight's meeting in Eisenhower's White House study:

Speaker Rayburn of Texas, floor leader McCormack of Massachusetts; Rep. Albert of Oklahoma, deputy leader; Rep. Richards of South Carolina, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and Rep. Gordon of Illinois.

House debate on the bill may bring a move to ban further U.S. aid to Yugoslavia.

Rep. Edna F. Kelly (D-NY) said she intends to push for such a ban.

Income Rises In April To Record Rate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income in April rose by nearly 2 billion dollars to a record annual rate of 317 billion, the Commerce Department said today.

It was the second straight month in which a rise of nearly two billion dollars on an annual rate had been recorded. The April rate compares with $315,200,000,000 for March, and $313,300,000,000 for February.

Significant in the April report was a rise of ½ billion dollars in total agricultural income from $14,000,000,000 in March to $14,000,000,000 in April.

This was the highest annual rate for farm income in any month since last November. For the first four months of the year farm income has been running at a rate of $14,300,000,000, or slightly below the $14,800,000,000 for the entire year of 1955.

Personal income includes wages and salaries, the net income of proprietorships and partnerships, farm income, dividends and interests, net rents, and other types of individual income.

The department said wage and salary payments rose by about a billion dollars in April over March. March also had shown a billion dollar gain over February.

Two-thirds of the April rise in wages and salaries took place in manufacturing industries, a higher proportion of increase than in the previous month. The department said higher hourly earnings was the main factor in this advance, but noted there was also increased employment in factories.

Wage and salary income in April was at an annual rate of $218,700,000,000 compared with $217,500,000,000 for March. For the full year 1955 the annual rate for wages and salaries was $208,500,000,00.

2 Billion Dollar Tax Cut Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Committee for Economic Development today recommended a tax cut of two billion dollars or more next Jan. 1 — provided such a cut would not toss the nation's cash budget in the red.

The CED further qualified its proposal by saying there should be no tax reduction if only a small budget surplus is sighted for the fiscal year beginning July 1, or if inflationary pressures should build up.

On the other hand, the CED said Eisenhower administration budget estimates of revenue for the new fiscal year "may not have made sufficient allowance for the growth of incomes, profits and consequently tax receipts that would come from normal, noninflationary growth of the economy."

Also, the CED added, a tax cut would be in line if "there is a marked reversal of economic conditions which requires strong action to combat recession."

These CED views were contained in a new study of the budget, the economy and taxes. The CED describes itself as a "nonprofit, nonpolitical econoomic research and education organization supported by voluntary contributions from business concerns."

The study by the group's Research and Policy Committee said decision on a tax cut should be deferred until late in the current session of Congress when, it said, a more "comprehensive, authoritative review" can be made.

Beards To Grow Here

Beard - growing season has opened again here, according to members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, who this year again will sponsor a beard - growing contest and Western Week activities in connection with the Scurry County Rodeo, which will be held July 18-21.

Some persons started growing beards today, and the Jaycees have announced that those who might want to enter the contest to be judged July 18 should get their beards started right away.

The contest is open to any person, excluding women, of course, and the Jaycees will sell shave permits to persons who do not want to grow beards or can't do so for domestic reasons, etc.

On and after July 2, a Jaycee committee of vigilantes will begin enforcement of the ban on shaving. Those without beards or shave permits will be subject to fine or being chained to a hitching post or both. They will, of course, be given opportunity to buy shave permits to avoid arrest.

The Jaycees, in their promotion of the rodeo, will make a stronger attempt this year to get residents, both men and women, to wear Western clothing during Western Week, according to Bob Littlefield, chairman of the Jaycee promotion.

The beard contest will be judged on texture, originality in design, length, and other features. A mustache might win out over beards, provided it is good enough.

Prizes in the contest will include a $50 Series E savings bond for first and $25 Series E bond for second.

Adenauer Is Planning To Visit Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — —West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will arrive in Washington next Monday for informal talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

The West German Embassy today announced the itinerary for the 80-year-old statesman's seven-day trip to the United States, during which he will receive an honorary degree from Marquette University, Milwaukee. Adenauer last visited this country a year ago.

Adenauer's plane is due in New York next Saturday. After a weekend in New York, the German leader will take part in Yale University commencement exercises Monday at New Haven, Conn. From Yale, he will fly to Washington.

On Tuesday, Adenauer will confer with Dulles at the State Department. The next day he will be honor guest at a White House luncheon given by Eisenhower.

After a one-day return visit to New York during which he is scheduled to address the Council on Foreign Relations, Adenauer will fly to Chicago to speak Friday at a luncheon of the Executives' Club.

Later that day, Adenauer will travel to Milwaukee to receive an honorary doctorate from Marquette. Immediately afterwards, he is booked to leave Milwaukee on his return flight home.

Police Radio Voice Goes East In Rain

LEOMINSTER, Mass. (AP) — Police Sgt. Francis Gillis called a cruising car over the station radio during a rainstorm but the answering voice didn't sound like a Leominster patrolman.

"Who are you?" Gillis asked.

"This is Car 2 in Stokes County, North Ca'lina," came the reply. "Where you all from?"

May Appeal Bus Ruling

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A three-judge federal court panel in a 2-1 vote today ruled racial segregation uncontitutional on Montgomery city buses.

The panel ruled that both the city and state segregation laws requiring separate seating facilities for white and Negro passengers violate the federal constitution.

Judge Richard T. Rives of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of Alabama's U.S. Middle District Court signed the majority opinion.

Judge Seybourn Lynne of Alabama's Northern U.S. District Court, Birmingham, wrote a dissenting opinion saying that in his opinion separate but equal facilities are constitutional.

The ruling doesn't become effective, the court said, until a formal judgment is entered. Opposing attorneys were asked to submit in writing within two weeks their views on the form of a judgment and whether a stay should be granted pending an appeal.

The decision came on the six-month anniversary of Montgomery's Negro bus boycott which started last Dec. 5 in protest against segregated seating facilities on city buses. The suit in Federal Court which led to today's decision was filed by four Negro women who testified at a hearing on May 11 that they have refused to ride city buses since the mass protest began.

Today's ruling can be appealed direct to the U.S. Supreme Court and may provide the first clearcut test of city bus segregation in the South.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of previously ruled bus segregation unconstitutional in Columbia, S.C., but sent the case back to the trial court for a determination of damages.

The Supreme Court on April 23 dismissed an appeal from the Court of Appeals ruling, but two of the judges sitting on the panel here, commented at the hearing last month that in their opinion the Supreme Court hadn't passed on the segregation issue itself, but rather dismissed the appeal because the case was still pending in the lower courts.

Since no question of damages was involved in the suit here, an appeal would go directly to the Supreme Court to uphold or reverse the panel's findings.

Leaders Okay Tranfer Of Saar Region

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer agreed early today on the procedure for transfer of the rich Saar valley back to Germany.

Officials said the accord would permit speedy preparation of a treaty making the disputed border area a political part of West Germany by Jan. 1.

The agreement includes provisions for (1) a three-year tarnsition period for termination of the customs and economic union between France and the Saar, (2) continued French rights to some coal production in the region and (3) building an international canal linking the Moselle and Rhine rivers.

France and West Germany have long sought to eliminate the Saar as a major point of friction in their relations. The German-speaking industrial sector supplies much of the coal to process the iron from France's great Lorraine mines nearby.

Announcement of the agreement came after talks between officials of the two governments stretched into the early morning hours in order to overcome a last-minute hitch on procedure. West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano left the French Embassy saying the negotiations had come to a "happy end."

Maurice Faure, French secretary of state for foreign affairs, said in a statement to reporters:

Students Demonstrate

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — About 200 student demonstrators today demanded the closing of the U. A student delegation saw Interior Minister Ali Buzo, others shouted in the streets but there was no violence.

Payments On Soil Bank Worked Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers will get payments under the government's new $1,200,000,00 yearly soil bank program only for what they themselves do to reduce production of crops now in surplus.

They will get no payments on reductions caused by nature through drought, floods, hailstorms, insects and the like.

Agriculture Department officials said today this will be the rule in fixing payments under the soil bank plan for 1956 crops.

The soil bank is designed to reduce production of wheat, cotton, corn, peanuts, rice and tobacco by the offer of government subsidies to farmers for planting fewer acres than are allotted them.

The farmer may plow under a poor immature crop and get a soil bank payment but only on the amount of the estimated production thus eliminated.

These rulings greatly narrow the 1956 program from that announced by Secretary of Agriculture Benson at a news conference May 31. At that time, his comments and a press release distributed by his department were interpreted as indicating that any immature crop—whether it had good or poor prospects—would be eligible for full payment if plowed up.

Benson put a different light on the program in a speech last night at Beaver Dam, Wis.

"To the end that I am able I intend to see that the nation gets a dollar's worth of surplus reduction or a dollar's worth of conservation for every dollar paid out," he said. "We should not also load upon the program responsibility for drought relief, flood relief and credit needs."

Borden Grand Jury Indicts One Man

GAIL—The Borden County grand jury for this term indicted one man and no-billed one before recessing here yesterday.

The one indictment was on a misdemeanor charge of driving while intoxicated against Preston Alvis Capers of Yoakum. Capers was out of jail on bond.

The jury no-billed R. O. Baker in connection with the traffic death of a U. S. Navy man whose car collided with a house being moved on U. S. Highway 180 this year.

Congress May Go Home By July 15

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leaders informed President Eisenhower today Congress may be able to adjourn by July 10.

The target date had been July 15.

House GOP Leader Martin of Massachusetts told White House newsmen that Speaker Rayburn of Texas, the Democratic leader, now feels the House will be ready to close up shop about five days earlier.

BEDROOM VIGIL—Crip, a part-cocker puppy, waits despondently on the bed of his young master, who was in critical condition after being struck by a car in Indianapolis, Ind. Tom Alan Robertson, 8, was dragged for half-a-block by the car after the youngster stepped into the street while carrying ice cream cones home for the family. The dog whimpered and howled from under the car after the accident, and police had to drag him away.

WAS STALIN MURDERED?

Russian's Death Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fresh wave of debate boiled up today over whether Joseph Stalin died a natural death or was murdered.

The purported details of a secret speech made by Russian Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev suggested to some officials here that the men who were closest to Stalin in his last days had strong reason for doing away with him to protect themselves. They pointed to the long record of "despotic" rule, ruthless arrests and murder which Khrushchev attributed to Stalin.

The 25,000-word speech was delivered at a secret session of the Soviet Communist party at Moscow Feb. 24-25. The State Department published yesterday what it called "a version" of the speech as distributed to Communist leaders outside Russia. There was no word as to how this country got it.

The general theme of the speech had been learned by the West previously.

Stalin's death was announced March 5, 1953. It was attributed to a brain hemorrhage.

There was speculation at the time that he might have been assassinated. But there was little evidence to go on, and this point of view never prevailed in official quarters here.

Now the whole subject is up for restudy, although government specialists in Russian affairs say there are arguments in favor of the natural death explanation.

One of these is that Stalin at 73 might well have suffered a stroke. Several doctors joined in signing bulletins on the progress of his illness and its outcome.

Another cosideration is that no one can be absolutely certain that Khrushchev was telling the complete truth about events preceding Stalin's death. Some experts say he may have exaggerated past suspicions and fears in order to gain the sympathy of his audience.

Students Here To Take Part In Workshops

Plans have been made by several Snyder High School band students to attend band workshops at various schoold during the summer, according to Melvin Montgomery, director of bands.

The workshops will include thoses at Sam Houston State College, Huntsville; the University of Texas, Austin; McMurry College, Abilene; Western Colorado State College, Gunnison, and one to be held here.

Sharon Morgan, flute player in the high school band is expected to attend the All-Texas Band summer workshop at the University of Texas this month. She attended the same workshop last year.

The McMurry school will be held July 15-28 for band students and twirlers. Three or four students are making plans to go from here.

In August, high school twirlers are to go to Huntsville for a twirling school sponsored by Sam Houston State College. Montgomery said twirlers for the band are to be chosen here just before that time.

The Colorado Western band School will begin Aug. 8 and last two weeks. It is a special school and will have a faculty of top band instructors from all over the counqtry.

Those now planning to go to the Music Camu from here include Janne Paterson, Bill Smallwood Jo Ann Miller, Toni Best, Dobert Lloyd, Bob Fields, and Adalene Soles. There may be others.

The local band school will begin at Snyder High School July 16 for high schoo and junior high band students. Montgomery, Tim Dennis, junior high band director, and Phil Cherry, elementary band director, will all work in that shcool, which will include both class and indivdual nstructon.

Band work for the fall will start during the last week in August.

Ted Denies He's Retiring

BOSTON (AP) — Bostton Red Sox slugger Ted Williams says "they'll never stop my hitting" in emphasizing that he is not even considering retirement from the sport which pays him $100,000 a year.

Williams, although irritated and disappointed by his performances this season, yesterday ridiculed his statement "I'm all washed up." He said he has no thought of retiring.

"The only way I would (retire) is if I couldn't hit," the 37-year-old slugger said. "But that will never be because they'll never get me out. The only thing that will stop me will be my legs. They'll never stop my hitting."

Ted, hobbled by an instep injury suffered in a slip off a wooden shower clog, told a Boston sports writer after Sunday's 7-6 loss to the Kansas City Athletics: "I'm all washed up. I'm through. I can't hit. They are throwing the fast ball right by me. I can't hit any more."

Williams displayed temperament on two occasions in the game. In the third inning he threw his bat into the dugout after striking out with two runners on base and in the fourth he lobbed the ball high in the air back to the infield after making a catch.

But yesterday, the big slugger said he was just clowning and his remarks about being "all washed up" were sarcastic.

"Me washed up? It will never be," he said. "But I'll not deny it because the idea is ridiculous."

Beautifiaction Slated

VATICA NCITY (AP)—The beatification of Pope Innocent XI probably will be held on Oct. 7, Vatican sources now say. Previously it had been expected late this month. Prelates attached to the Vatican's Congregation of Rites indicated the earlier date would not have permitted enough time to prepare for a solemn and elaborate ceremony.

Andrews Make Up

a new Sub Fire Station to be located in southwest Snyder. Location for the station has not been secured by the city, yet.

An ordinance was passed on first reading to provide legal transfer of title to Scurry County of lots 1 and 3, block 1, of the Blankenship addition, in exchange for instruments turning over the county's interest in the National Guard armory building to the city. The city and county presently share equally ownership of the building. The county has indicated it proposes to use the lots as location for a county library.

The council unanimously approved recommendation of the city planning and zoning commission that zoning classification on two pieces of property located adjacent to business areas be changed from their present residential classifications to business classifications.

The council approved a rental-purchase at the rate of $280 per month of a loading machine. The machine will become property of the city at the end of the two-year rental period.

Roy Dunlap, city manager, informed the council of the purchase of a used welding machine and truck for $800, and of a used three-wheel motor cycle for police use in patrolling traffic around the square for a price of $275. The motor was purchased from Com Ezell.

Seaton Confirmed As Secreary Of Interior

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Interior Committee today unanimously recommended confirmation of Fred A. Seaton as secretary of the interior.

The action came after Seaton, an assistant to President Eisenhower and former Nebraska senator, answered questions about public power, natural resources and other matters for an hour and a half.

Seaton said he supports the Eisenhower "partnership policy" on development of water power and favors immediate admission of Alaska to statehood. He passed over some questions from Democrats as subjects he must study.

VFW Meets In Snyder

The Veterans of Foreign Wars met last night, with two guest speakers. Speakers were Babe Meeks, national representive from the national headquarters in Kansas City and A. R. Oglesby, district A commander of Abilene.

Both spent the day here yesterday reinstating members who had not paid their 1956 dues.

According to Mr. Oglesby, by paying their dues, veterans are protecting benefits that are given them by dues paid, such as national homes for widows and children, veteran hospitals, G. I. Bill of Rights, mustering out pay, community services and outside cares. Mr. Oglesby said, "we fought to save our country and we are going to fight to save our veterans, and this can be done by paying dues."

"Better than 16 and 17 thousand mental patients are in institutions and jails because there is not room for them in Veteran Hospitals. They are now wanting to close 19 more Veteran Hospitals and you can prevent this by paying your 1956 dues."

Geologists Working On Unified Asia Map

TOKYO (AP)—Geologists of 13 nations met here today to start work on a unified Asian map under auspices of the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the far east.

The session will last six days.

Russia's delegate told the opening session that Russia considered that Red China and Outer Mongolia should be present but did not demand they be represented. Nor did he demand that Nationalist Chinese delegates be ousted.

More Brink's Loot Is Found

BOSTON (AP)—Working as carefully as if they were examining ancient manuscripts, FBI men today painstakingly separated, counted and inspected hundreds of mildewed bills. They estimated the total at about $90,000.

They searched, hopefully, for fingerprints on the money they say is part of the $1,219,000 taken in the Brink's robbery, largest armed robbery ever perpetrated.

The money, in plastic—vegetable type bags, and newspapers dated 1955, was seized last night in an FBI-police raid on a business-dwelling block in Boston's South End.

The wrapped packages of money were in a picnic cooler, hidden behind the wall of a construction firm office.

Two men were arrested as accessories after the fact of robbery and questioned until after midnight. The grilling resumed this morning.

Authorities hoped to bring the men before the Suffolk County Grand Jury later today.

Officials said serial numbers of the bills matched numbers of bills seized in the crime of the century Jan. 17, 1950.

Betty Jo Likes Becomes Bride Of Dr. Clarke, Jr.

Before an alter decorated with white gladoli and candelabra holding white candles, Betty Jo Likes became the bride of Dr. Louie P. Clarke, Jr. of Lovington, N. M. The single ring ceremony was performed June 2 at 4 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church with the Rev. J. B. Haverland, pastor of the Episcoapl Church in Hobbs, N. M. officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Likes, 3111 groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Clarke, Sr. of Pampa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an imported white lace waltz length dress with a double overskirt and a short overbodice of matching lace. She carried a hankderchief, which belonged to her grandmother, for something old, and wore a blue garter for something blue. She also wore a penny in her shoe. Her flowers were pink sweetheart roses atop her prayer book.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Roger Smith of Lovington, N. M., cousin of the bride. She wore a pink lace dress and pink accessories and carried a nosegay of pink carantions. Sally Smith daughter of the matron honor, was the flower girl. She wore a dress identical to that of her mother's and carried a basket of pink rose petals.

Candlelighter was Charles Lee of Lovington, N. M. and the best man was John W. Clarke, brother of the groom. from Pampa. Ushers were Jack D. Robert of Breckenridge and John R. Walker of Dallas.

Ralph J. Wesson was the organist and furnished the music at the wedding and the reception.

The reception was held at Humble Hall on Thirty-seventh Street. Decorations were white glads and pink roses and the cake was a three tier cake. Those presiding at th reeption were Mrs. Forrest Warmack and Mrs. J. D. Warmack of Magonila, Ark, aunts of the bride, Mrs. C. F. Lingle Cmaey Kan, Mrs. of W. T. of Camey, Kan., Mrs. Meade Corley of Odessa, W. T. Dabbs and Mrs. Jack Young all of Snyder. All the guests registered in the bride's prayerbook which was bade by the groom's mother.

For traveling, the bride chose a blue linen suit with white accessories and wore a white gardenia corsage. After a ten day trip to Georgia, the couple will be at home in Lovington, N. M. where the groom is a doctor of medicine.

Out-of-town guests were from Arkansas, Kansas, Dallas, Breckenridge, Odessa and Lovington N. M.

The mothers direct play, supervise games, tell stories, and draw on blackboards. The teachers get a chance to rest from the morning classroom grind and to get ready for whatever hte afternoon may bring.

Now The Small Fry Can Greet Summer In Style

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

THERE' ONE THING that doesn't change about small boys and girls—when they play they get dirty.

Time was when mothers dreaded washday, with all the small grimy garments to be washed and ironed. But today's new fabrics and finishes have taken the blues out of blue Monday. Play clothes for today's small fry are made to stand the gaff, go through the washing machine and come out bright and fresh often with no need of ironing.

There's no need to make children's summer play clothes drab nowadays merely for the sake of practicality. Gay new outfits for children are available in every shop in bright amusing prints and up-to-the-minute styles yet just as easy to keep clean as the old blue jeans—often easier.

A mother who wants to keep her offspring looking smart and well-groomed needs only to read the labels carefully when she goes shopping for summer sun - and-fun clothes. She should be sure that cottons are marked with the label which tells her they won't shrink. She should look for garments bearing a label which says they have been treated for spot and wrinkle resistance, and that they need little or no ironing. Fabric labels will tell her all these things lighten her work load and brighten the outlook of the children.

Summer fashions for little girls have all the high - style notes of Mom's favorite dresses and sports clothes, yet go through washday like a breeze.

Little boys can have bold printed sports shirts like Dad's, kahaki shorts, and bright, sturdy outfits of the new treated cottons that will go through a mud pie session with flying colors.

Undermining Of NATO

Beware of Russians bearing smiles, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the retiring supreme commander of NATO, advised the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week, warning that "smiles" would not justify any cut in President Eisenhower's request for $4.9 billion foreign aid.

Even if Russia carries out her announced intention of reducing her military manpower by 1,200,000 men this year it will not reduce her capability of launching an attack, Gen. Gruenther declared.

As for NATO's ability to defend against a Russian attack, the general's words were rather chilling. Yes, he said in effect, he would give "a reasonable guarantee" that NATO forces can "defeat an act of aggression." But he qualified this by adding—"after all the West German troops have been added" to his army. He qualified it still more by saying that these West German troops may not be ready for three or four years.

West Germany's molasses-slow progress toward rearmament, so slow as to be the next thing to invisible, is only one part of the failure of NATO to fulfill expectations. The French have sent nearly all their strength into North Africa, and Britain is seriously considering not only reducing the size of her forces, but the abolition of conscription as well.

Twice in the past few days Washington has warned our European allies against being taken in by Russian smiles, with reluctant reduction of military strength and vigilance.

But the simple fact is that no nation has reduced its military strength to a greater extent than the United States, since the end of the Korean war. So if we come right down to it, we are not in a position to lecture our allies too severely about their cutbacks, already made or planned.

The Europeans are not the only ones to be taken in by Russian smiles. A certain amount of that poison has infiltrated this country too, as witnessed by the rising willingness to cooperate with Russia in the exchange of visitors, civilian and military. This insidous technique of breaking down our resolution by easy stages is gradually being accelerated. It isn't a pleasant thing to witness.

Senator Wiley's Case

Senator Alexander Wiley, who boasts just about the best record in the Senate in support of President Eisenhower and all his programs, is much in the news these days as a result of the action of the Republicans of Wisconsin in by-passing him for renomination to the Senate in favor of Rep. Glenn M. Davis.

Senator Wiley is marked as an internationalist, an ex-isolationist who like the late Senator Vandenberg did a complete about face. Like Vandenberg before him Wiley became chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee under the Eisenhower administration and continued as such until the Democrats came back into power in 1954.

The Wisconsin forces that gave Davis the nod in preference to Wiley were led by Senator Joe McCarthy and are anything but internationalists. The question now is, what will President Eisenhower do, if anything, about the Wisconsin "revolt?" Will he go to the support of his staunch ally Wiley in his hour of need?

Presidents seldom take a direct hand in intrastate squabbles of the kind — but then few Presidents have been so directly and forthrightly challenged as Ike has been in this case. It is doubtful if Ike can afford to ignore the plight of his faithful friend, without running the risk of being accused of ingratitude. Besides, the victory of the McCarthy forces was undoubtedly a direct slam at the President.

A President may go to the assistance of his friends in such cases without arousing undue resentment on the ground of interference in the political affairs of the state.

The Wisconsin case is different from that which led President Roosevelt in the late 1930s to go into Georgia in an effort to change senators. In that case Roosevelt was trying to purge Senator George because the latter refused to go along with FDR's court-packing scheme. This hostile act failed of its purpose.

But in Wisconsin it's a case of a faithful and true friend being pushed around and it is difficult to see how the President can remain indifferent to it.

Administration Erred In Not Speaking Frankly To Congress About Foreign Aid

By WALTER LIPPMANN

It is not in the least surprising that Congress os showing so much opposition to this year's request for foreign aid. Every since the middle of March, when the President asked for a new authorization of nearly five billions, it has been plain enough that he and his advisors were not taking into account how much world public opinion, including American, was being affected by the changing world situation.

The Administrration has put forward its request for another and a bigger authorization, using the same old slogans that have been doing duty year after year. It has taken no serious notice of the fact that foreign aid, both military and civilian, is undergoing a revolutionary reappraisal throughout the world. It has treated this great development as not strictly relevant to the business before Congress.

* * *

Congress has reacted to this lack of plainness and candor. It knows that the whole subject of foreign aid has to be reconsidered. It knows that the Administration is in fact beginning to reconsider it. It knows that the Administration has not yet reached many definite conclusions as to how, in the light of the new world situation, to form a sound foreign aid policy.

Then Congress finds that the new money it is being asked to vote is to be used to finance the flow of military assistance, not this year and not next year, but in 1958 and 1959. Knowing that the strategical planning of NATO and of our other alliances may be seriously revised in the next two years, Congress is in no mood to authorise large funds to be used two or three years hence. "The Congress," said the chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, Mr. Richards, "may well regard the pending mutual security bill as only an interim measure."

All there are nearly two years' funds already in the pipe line, the committee felt that after cutting the authorization by over a billion dollars, "the sums recommended in this bill are ample until we know more about the direction in which the program will move.

The Administration would have done well to listen to those who advised it to go to Congress saying that it was going to be revised, that while the revision was going on the existing programs should not be disturbed, and that as and when new programs were worked out, Congress would be told all about them. On that kind of a submission, the President would in fact have been asking Congress not to approve a program that is out of date but to trust him while a new program is being worked out. He might well have gotten such a vote of convidence.

In reacting as it has reacted, the House Foreign Affairs Committee is moving with not counter to, the tides of opinion in Western Europe. When it voted to reduce military aid by a billion dollars, it did not in the least believe that it was voting to reduce the military security of the United States and of its allies. It was in the same mood as are the Germans who do not want to conscript the promised German divisions, as the French who have now moved virtually all their infantry to North Africa, as the British who are beginning to think about abolishing conscription.

It is the mood of people who do not want to waste their time and money preparing not for the next war but for the last war.

* * *

The attitude of Congress is the American expression of the same mood which we are thinking about abroad when we talk of the decline of interest in NATO. I do not believe that the deep cause of this loss of interest is due to the new look of Soviet policy. The deep cause is that the higher leadership of NATO, as it reflects itself in the requests to the governments, has not kept abreast of the revolution in the military art. The loss of interest is due to a loss of belief in the realism of NATO's stratigical conceptions.

If we are wise, we shall not regard the action of the Committee as merely a relqse into isolation and know-nothingism. In sofar as there has been such a relapse, it is due to a failure in leadership — a failure to argue the case for foreign aid in terms which are relevant and convincing.

Realism May Be Handicap To Our Civilian Defense

By INEZ ROBB

Every time a bigger and better hydrogen bomb is exploded (we don't bother with them itty, bitty atom jobs any more), the Press — Lord love it! — and a smattering of public officials begin clamoring for an instant and "adequate" civilian defense program.

Since that last appalling hydrogen explosion in the Pacific, there has been renewed realization that civilian defense is nonexistent and always has been in this country.

That realization has induced indignation, even a touch of hysteria in everyone except the person most intimately involved, the person variously known as John Q. Public, homo sapiens, pro bono publico and constant reader.

This is the crux of the problem—the seeming mass apathy or indifference of John Q. Public to his own survival. To me this so-called apathy is a far more formidible symptom of the times than the woefully inept, dream - like approach to civilian defense on the part of the authorities.

It is one woman's opinion, however, that John Q. Public is not paralyzed by apathy. We Americans are often castigated in other quarters of the globe as hard realists, and it is my contention that our American realism and not apathy is the basis of public indifference to the blundering efforts of civil defense.

When an American reads of a hydrogen explosion with the heat and brilliance of 500 suns and a fireball at least four miles in diameter, his common-sense realism tells him that survival for any in a direct hit area must be predicated on a miracle.

And when he is asked by civilian defense to take part in the silly, futile air raid tests such as are held every year or two in New York, he knows that only a miracle will save him.

The success of these mock air-raid tests, at least in New York, is based solely on the empty ritual of getting people off the streets, even if they must stand behind plate-glass windows, as hundreds of thousands in the shopping areas do.

People are not made to go to deep shelters because there are none, unless certain subway areas are included. So far, people have not even been forced to take shelter in places which might have offered a modicum of protection from a World War II blitz or blockbuster, but which are wholly inadequate for hydrogen war.

Who is followed by these games except civiian defense authorities?

Authorities will have to convince Americans of two things before it can arouse enthusiasm for civilian defense against hydrogen war.

First, they must convince us that there will be survivors against a weapon as powerful as 500 suns and, second, that in the face of such a holocaust, there will be something — anything — worth surviving for.

Americans have proved that they are not afraid to die. But we do not like games based on life and death, and it is infantile gam: of this kind with which civilian defense appears to have been preoccupied so far. Let it get tough, realistic and believable, or toss in the towel.

Lyndon Johnson's Career May Exceed Prediction Made By His Grandfather

(Editor's Note: In a landslide victory over the man who led a Texas Democrats-for - Eisenhower sweep in 1952, Lyndon B. Johnson won control of the State Democratic Party — and a prominent spot among front-running contenders for his party's presidential nomination. Here's a closeup of the favorite son who will lead the Lone Star Delegation at Chicago Aug. 20.)

By ROGER D. GREENE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The story goes that when Lyndon Johnson was born, his Indian fighting grandpa Sam Johnson, founder of Johnson City, Tex., studied the boy carefully and predicted:

"He'll be a U.S. Senator some day."

Johnson fulfilled the prediction in 1948 at the age of 40. Five years later he became the youngest floor leader in Senate history.

Now there is talk that the tall, dark-haired Texan may be destined for an even greater role than his Grandpa Sam envisioned—President of the United States.

With the quiet but powerful support of House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), his longtime friend and mentor who will be wielding the gavel as chairman at the Chicago convention, Johnson figures in speculation as one of the top dark horse candidates for his party's presidential nomination this summer.

If Johnson wins the nod — and President Eisenhower again heads the Republican ticket as expected —it would mean that health could hardly be an issue on either side.

Exhausted by his hard - driving duties as Senate majority leader, Johnson suffered a "moderately severe" heart seizure last July 2. Eisenhower experienced a similar attack on Sept. 24. Both have apparently made strong comebacks from their coronary ailments.

Johnson will be just a week away from his 48th birthday—18 years younger than Eisenhower—when the Democratic National Convention opens in Chicago on Aug. 20. He was born on a farm near Johnson City Aug. 7, 1908.

Johnson's stock as a potential dark horse took a dramatic upsurge last month when Texas voters gave him a landslide victory over Gov. Allan Shivers in a battle for control of the Texas Democratic Party. Shivers had bolted and led his state in a Democrats-for-Eisenhower sweep in the 1952 election.

Sparked by his triumph over Shivers, Johnson will go to the Chicago Convention not only as his state's favorite son candidate but also as leader of the 56-vote Texas delegation—the latter a potent weapon in the heralded nip-and-tuck scramble for votes.

In addition, deep and powerful undercurrents are at work that might develop in Johnson's favor.

Political experts say that if Northern "liberals" press the explosive segregation issue by insisting on a strong civil rights plank the party's platform—thus triggering another North - South fight like that in 1948 — it could benefit Johnson spectacularly.

In that event, they say, the Texan is likely to pick up a rash of votes from Southern delegates. At best, Dixie politicians have shown something less than enthusiasm for the segregation views of the three so-called leading contenders—former Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and New York's Gov. Averell Harriman.

Sen. Walter George (D-Ga) has said his state may swing behind Johnson early in the convention. Similar expressions of support have come from Democratic senators Byrd and Robertson of Virginia, Russell of Georgia, McClellan of Arkansas and Smathers of Florida.

A middle - of - the road moderate, Johnson is on record as opposing force in carrying out the Supreme Court's mandate against segregation in the nation's schools. The problem, he says, should be left to the states to solve.

Johnson has served notice, however, that he would resist any attempt to raly the South around him in a battle against integration.

"I will have no part of any move that can create tensions and turmoil in our party," he says, "there is no public office I want enough to preach race hatred to get it."

Some of Johnson's closest associates seriously doubt whether the Texan would be happy about getting the nomination this year.

"They'd just about have to jam it down his throat," one associate said.

The Texas senator has told friends privately he believes Democratic prospects are bright on the farm issue, but doesn't feel this is a year in which a Southerner could win the presidency.

His pretty, dark-eyed wife, Lady Bird, is dead set against Johnson embarking on an ardous stumping campaign after his heart attack last summer.

The couple has two daughters, Lynda, 12, and Lucy, 9, of whom Johnson is inordinately proud.

Besides consideration for the opposition within his family to a rigorous campaign, Johnson is thoroughly devoted to his present job as Senate Democratic leader.

"I like the Senate; I want to stay there," he said once, quashing talk of a Johnson-for-president boom. "I have no White House ambitions."

Only a few weeks ago he told newsmen "I'm not a candidate for anything except to return to good health, and I think I'm doing that."

But that was before his Texas sweep, May 8, touched off a new wave of enthusiasm among his admirers and set some political bigwigs wondering whether Johnson might wind up in the No. 1 spot in case of a convention deadlock among Stevenson, Kefauver and Harriman.

Publicly, Johnson's utterances have fallen short of former President Truman's assertion that the way to lick the champ is to come out slugging and try to land a haymaker. Johnson has scrupulously avoided any direct attack on President Eisenhower.

Political sachems declare, however, that Johnson seems to have the required spirit of optimism in the face of apparently heavy odds.

"The small of victory is in the air," he told a recent Democratic rally in Texas. "I think we'll take everything from the courthouse to the White House, all over the country.

"Not even President Eisenhower can carry the dead weight of the present Republican party to win in 1956. We can lose only if we permit the Republicans to divide us or we divide ourselves."

Johnson hailed his Texas triumph as a victory of "moderation over rash extremists, forces of reaction and hotheads." In his closest appproach to sounding like a candidate, he said he would like to represent "the great majority who are tired and weary of the loud voices on the fringes of our political life."

Incidentally, as evidence of recovery from his heart attack, Johnson put in a full week in the rough-and-tumble Texas campaign rising at 6:30 a.m. and stumping as late as 2 a.m. daily. "He enjoyed it hugely," an aide said.

Since his illness, Johnson has trimmed down from 220 pounds to a lean 178 on his 6-foot-3 frame. Once a chain smoker, he has given up cigarettes and now chomps on rocky candy. Like Eisenhower, he takes a short nap after lunch when his Senate duties permit.

Associates describe Johnson as a smooth and highly persuasive behind-the-scenes technician who knows that more votes are won in the cloakrooms than by fervid oratory on the Senate floor.

When he does make a speech, he's down to earth, pithy and impatient at delay. "Let's get the show on the road," he says.

Here are some of his views on current issues:

On President Eisenhower's farm bill veto: I sometimes suspect the Republicans felt there wouldn't be any farm problem if the farmer would just go away . . . the Republican party is now pushing us into a farm depression."

On foreign aid: "We will have to find a stopping point on foreign spending before we bleed ourselves white."

On defense cuts: "There is no true economy in cutting the bone and muscle from the nation's defense solely to balance a set of books."

As for himself, Johnson says, "I'm not a status quo man, but I don't want to get both feet off the ground at the same time."

Aides put it more succinctly. Johnson never goes out on a limb, they say, without testing it first for cracks.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

WILDERNESS FOR SALE. The Story of the First Western Land Rush. By Walter Havighurst, Hastings House.

In 1795 the Ohio country was opened up when 20 million acres of land were bought by the smart white man from the undone Indian for $20,000 plus a few odds and ends. Within five more years, largely under the direction of William Henry Harrison, vast areas of Illinois, and southern Wisconsin and Indiana had been added to our posessions and, as Havighurst remarks astutely, "the wilderness became real estate."

Four principal routes, from the Genesee on the north to Wildernes Roar on the south, led into the promised land stretching generally north from the Ohio river. Along them went distinguished foreigners to see for themselves: Mrs. Trollope, Marryat, Dickens. Settlers streamed in from Connecticut, the Welsh from Wales unless they hailed from in and near Edensburg, Pa. There were German, Irish, English on the way to Illinois, the French to found Galipolis.

The area attracted Latter Day Saints, Separatists, Shakers, Rappites. There grew up cities named Marietta, Cincinnati, Vincennes, Detroit.

The story began with Harrison and ends with him so briefly president. It was the time of tin trunk and saddlebag, log cabin for homesteader and "broadhorns" for traveler, buckskin, witness tree, chain-man, ginseng. In this rewarding addition to the American Procession series, Havighurst evokes the motley, pell-mell chaos out of which the great heartland developed.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—At one time or another nearly every television viewer says he's going to write a letter about this or that program. Relatively few do.

But the relatively few add up to a quantitatively large number. Quantitatively pan mail tends to outnumber fan mail, humans being inclined to seize a pen in anger before they do in praise. It's well known that networks, sponsors and agencies read viewers' letters alertly. But it's less widely known that the world of television generally judges its fan and pan mail on a qualitative rather than a quantitative basis.

One network official said the other day that "we have found that two articulate letters are more representative of a large number of viewers than a dozen inarticulate letters with some personal ax to grind."

Some organizations provide their members with printed form cards. One of the largest of these is the "Committee of One" of the Legion of Decency which issues cards on which members may cite offending programs with a space to explain why under the printed line "I think this program is harmful because . . ."

It's a rare radio or TV program —or columnist, author, play or movie—that has not been the recipient of one of these missives at some time.

One television network official says that these cards "don't even deserve an answer because they represent a group with an organized position. They do not encourage free thinking."

"Committee of One" members also may send form cards praising a program — but cards of praise are seldom received. Recently one was received praising one of the most innocent and refreshing regular programs on the home screen. But the next day the network received another form card coademning the same program.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Mamie Attends Ribbon Opening Of Flower Mart

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — When Mamie Eisenhower turned up to cut the ribbon opening the annual flower mart of the Washington Cathedral, young members of the St. Alban's School football squad assigned themselves as her bodyguard, ready to run interference for her in the crowds that followed her around the grounds. The school, operated by the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, is on the cathedral

Mamie and another distinguished First Lady, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, seemed to enjoy themselves at the gala fair, arranged by 20 local garden clubs on a Japanese theme. Mamie carried a Japanese-decorated shopping bag, just like the other visitors, and stocked it with a bunch of fresh asparagus, a basket of fresh strawberries and a long loaf of French bread which she said the President likes toasted for breakfast.

Along with pretty ladies from the Japanese Embassy, junior leaguers wore picturesque kimonos to preside over sales in the booths and to serve tea and typical oriental refreshments. Some of the delicacies were sold from Japanese pagodas and noodle carts. Flower arrangements were demonstrated by some of the embassy ladies, and there was a demonstration of Japanese wood-block painting by Mrs. Keiko Moore, daughter of the well-known Japanese wood-block artist, Unichi Hieratsuka.

Judges selecting the prize-winning booths included Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. George M. Humphrey, wife of the secretary of defense; Mrs. Donald A. Quarles, wife of the Air Force secretary; Mrs. Sherman Adams, wife of the presidential assistant, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former minister to Norway.

Mrs. Shigenobu Shima, wife of the Japanese minister plenipotentiary, sat on a floor cushion before a low table in an exquisite Japanese tea house setting and showed ladies how to use chopsticks in ewing the attractive dishes created by the embassy chef.

Proceeds from the affair go toword maintenannce of the cathedral clo esand its famed Bishop's Garden as well as to a special fund to supply plantings around a new equestrian statue of George Washington to be placed near the Pilgrim Steps leading to the cathedral's beautiful garden area.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

A VERY GENEROUS FELLOW is this W. J. Green, president of the Southwestern League.

Green last week rescued the Pampa ball club of his league after the Pampa club had already announced it was throwing in the towel due to financial difficulties. Green submitted a personal check of $2,000 to the Pampa club for the purpose of meeting present obligations. And added to this was a guarantee that the league would stand good all player salaries for the balance of the season.

What more could a faltering ball club ask?

This good will gesture by Green to the Pampa club is fine, I guess, but it could lead to quite a headache for the Southwestern prexy.

Several Other Clubs Are Shaky, Too

From all reports several other clubs in the Southwestern are on the verge of "going under" and this question arises immediately:

"Will Green be able to save these clubs as he did Pampa"

If he can't, then he's playing favorites which isn't good for a league president.

Pampa, apparently, doesn't want baseball, anyway. It was announced by its board of directors recently that unless 1,000 paid fans show each night of the homestand then in progress, the club would fold.

Pampa, apparently, doesn't want baseball, anyway. It was announced by its board of directors recently that unnless 1,000 paid fans show up each night of the homestand then in progress, the club would fold.

The first night after the announcement was made, only 359 showed up. Judging by that the fans there didn't care one way or the other whether baseball stayed in Pampa or not.

Professional baseball is a losing proposition in any city as small as Pampa. For a city of 30,000 a team must win over half of its games and the weather must be perfectly fit throughout the season.

In 1953, Pampa won the West Texas-New Mexico League Championship but was next to last in attendance. Bad weather was partially the cause of this.

On the other hand, perfect weather won't bring the fans out if the team is losing.

You've simply got to have both good weather and a winning team to make ends meet.

Pick Abilene-Amarillo For Finals

Pampa isn't alone in having its financial troubles. Two teams in the Big State, Port Arthur and Beaumont, are on the verge of folding. A third — Lubbock — will be closing shop soon if the hubbers continue losing. The Hubs had lost nine straight games going into last night's game and the crowds have been dwindling right along.

We've often wondered why Beaumont ever fielded a team in the Big State in the first place. Beaumont, you'll recall, gave up it Texas League franchise because of poor attendance.

"Why did that city then expect the fans to watch Class B ball when they wouldn't even come out to watch Class AA?"

Beaumont is finding it now, of course, the hard way, that she made a mistake in trying lower class ball.

Both the Big State and Southwestern Leagues are too far fetched. Towns are entirely too far apart to build up any sort of rivalry.

Until the leagues can be formed more compact, no minor league club is going to wind up in the black.

The state baseball tournament starts tomorrow at Austin. The Abilene Eagles, co-champions of District 4-AA with the Tigers, are among the favorites.

On the eve of the tournament we'll say the Eagles will meet Amarillo's fifth trip to the state meet and the fourth for Abilene and both are stilll looking for their first title.

Indians Edge A's In 6th, 8 To 7

The Holder Construction Indians blew a 6-0 lead last night but came back to nip the West Texas State Bank Athletics in the American Little League, 8-7.

In the National League contest, undefeated Lions Club Cubs rolled merrily along by trouncing the Hapless Quarterback Club Giants, 26-5.

The Athletics pulled into a 7-7 with the Indians in the fifth inning with a two-run rally but then alowed the Tribe to score an unearned run in the sixth to notch the victory.

Mike Muphy led the Indians with three hits in four trips. Joe King had two safeties for the winners and drove in three runs.

Gilbert Merritt with two hits led the Athletics.

The Giants, despite their lopsided defeat at the hands of the Cubs, did enjoy a few moments of last night's tilt. The Giants broke the scoring ice in the top of the first with two runs for a 2-0 lead.

But the Cubs came roaring back to pour 20 runs across in their portion of the first to ice the decision.

Pitcher Weldon Ware of the Cubs led the 15-hit attack of the winners with four-for-four, including a homerun and a double.

Abe Gonzales had three hits for the Cubs and drove in five runs.

Moore In Big Test Tonight

LONDON (AP)—Archie Moore puts up his world light heavyweight title for the last time tonight in a fight which either opens the gates for another heavyweight title chance or closes the books on a long and fine ring career.

The aging and running-to-fat light heavy champion takes on Yolande Pompey, a hard-jawed Trinidad Negro with a weak record but plenty of hitting power.

Moore admits to at least 39 years of age although some records have him two and three years older. He took a heavy beating last September in losing to Rocky Marciano in his first heavyweight title shot.

Nat Fleischer, boxing's historian and record keeper, as well as other ring officials and authorities, have said that if Moore loses he hardly will have time to regain the lost ground before very advanced fighting age puts him down for the final time. He has no rematch clause in his contract with Pompey.

But, they also say, if he whips Pompey the momentum and good conditioning gained here should carry him into a world heavyweight fight in fine fettle.

Moore has been fighting since 1936. On the record he has been into the ring 148 times and his record of 15 losses and only five defeats by knockouts stands as one of the all-time best.

Pompey, at 27, is a little boy compared to Moore. His 21 knockout victories, nine by decision, one on a foul, two draws and two defeats.

Foreigners Serve Notice In Open Golf

By WILL GRIMSLEY
The Associated Press

It's been 36 years since a foreigner was able to win the U.S. Open Golf Championship but two incidents a continent apart yesterday magnified a threat for the approaching tournament.

In Dallas, the young Australian, Peter Thomson, outclassed America's brightest stars to win first money in the $70,000 Texas International Tournament.

In Rye, N.Y., Henry Cotton, the old English master, 49 and semi-retired, shot two sparkling rounds of 68 to 69 to lead sectional qualifying for the championshipat Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, N.Y., June 14-16.

A third outside menace, long-hitting Roberto de Vincenzo of Argentina and Mexico, is favored to seize one of the 36 berths contested in the delayed trials today at Dallas. Leading tournament pros are in the scramble.

The last foreigner to win our Open was Britain's Ted Ray, a giant of a man with a smelly pipe and a ton of power, who prevailed at Inverness in 1920. At 43, he also was the oldest ever to take the prize.

Cotton's age had been figured an insurmountable handicap for him although golfers still rate him one of the great shotmakers of all time. The way he whipped two Westchester Country Club courses yesterday, however, no one is sure.

The Englishman — a cross between the Flamboyant Walter Hagen and the grim, mechanical Hogan—has won the British Open three times, the last as late as 1948. He will sharpen his game further this week in the Wykagyl Round Robin and possibly will be doubly formidable in the Open a week later.

Thomson, present holder of the British Open crown, is exempt from qualifying along with 15 others, including defending champion Jack Feck, former champions Ed Furgol, Ben Hogan, Julius Boros and Cary Middlecoff; amiateur champion Harvie Ward, Jr., and leaders of last year's Open, including Sam Snead.

Twenty-four qualifying tests — all but Honolulu and Dallas — were staged yesterday, with 1,781 golfers shooting for 108 places in the 162-man field. Honolulu decided its single candidate earlier. Dallas trials were postponed until today.

Walter Burkemo, 37-year-old former PGA champion from Franklin, Mich., was the nation's low qualifier with rounds of 66-68--134, ten under par, at Detroit.

Dodgers Nip Phils In Pony Thriller

In one of the finest southpaw pitching duels ever unreeled in a Snyder Pony League game, the Scurry Butane Dodgers edged the Lions Club Phillies, 3-2 in eight innings last night at Towle Memorial Park.

The Phils led 2-0 going into the seventh and final frame when the Dodgers tied it up with a two-run rally and then won it by scoring a run in the eighth.

Ronnie Jones of the Dodgers and Tim Roberts of the Phils were last night's hurlers. The winning Dodgers collected only two hits off Roberts while the Phillies garnered three off Jones.

Jones whiffed 13 and Roberts 14.

Keith Moffett scored the winning run for the Dodgers in the eighth frame.

Tommy Minton got two of hte four Phillie hits for the top batsman of the game.

In the second game last night, the Von Roeder Red Sox romped to a 12-0 win over t nee hLadn to a 12-0 win over the Line and Line Yankees of Ira. The Sox got only five hits but took advantage of 12 walks for the victory.

Billy Dubose and Tommy Minton of the Red Sox each collected two hits while Watson got both of the Yankee hits.

Amateur Qualifying Set On 3 Courses

DALLAS (AP)—More than 200 will qualify over three courses here today for the championship flight of the Texas Amateur Golf Tournament with a fast field seeking the title David (Spec) Goldman won last year and which he is defending.

Goldman, the Dallas star, faces such standouts as Rex Baxter of Amarillo, a Walker Cup team alternate last year; Frank Wharton of Dallas who was low amateur in the Texas International Open that closed yesterday; John Garrett of Houston, Frank Wear of Paris, Frank Redmond of El Paso, Dick Jennings of Lubbock, and former state champions Louis Jacoby, Jimmy Connolly, Dick McCreary and Bobby Riegel.

IN TEXAS INTERNATIONAL

Thomson Wins In 3-Way Playoff

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP) — Peter Thomson, the sturdy Australian who dominates British golf, showed Americans a thing or two about stretch running yesterday when he won his first tournament in the United States.

The cheerful young man from Down Under came from a tie for eighth place with a seven-under-par 63 to deadlock with Cary Middlecoff and Gene Littler for first place then won a playoff and first money in the $70,000 Texas International Open.

As Thomson departed today for New York where he will play in the Round-Robin tournament, he carried a check for $13,478, the top prize in one of the finest fields ever to play in an American tournament.

Thomson, 26-year-old two-times British Open champion from Melbourne, Australia; Middlecoff, the ex-dentist from Memphis, and Littler, the big money winner from Singing Hills, Calif., tied over the regulation 7 holes at 267. Then on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff, the sturdy Australian sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie while Littler missed by inches a 1-footer that would have given him one, and Middlecoff, whose second shot hit a tree in front of the green, also managed a par.

Thomson's winnings here brought his total for the year to $15,963 and made him fourth in the nation. He actually won $14,000 in the Texas International but contributed $522 of it to give Buster Reed, coordinator of Dallas' two tournaments the past two weeks, a bonus of $3,500. All the money-winners had a percentage deducted for this purpose.

Littler started the final round with 197 for 54 holes, a two-stroke bulge over Middlecoff. But he took a par-70 on his last round while Middlecoff had a 68. Thomson had finished earlier with his 63 that tied the record for the 6,216-yard Preston Hollow Country Club course.

Littler's tie for second moved him into the lead in money winning. He brought his total for the year to $17,573.42. Middlecoff went into second place with $17,029.66. Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, who was the leading money winner before this tournament, had 78 and earned $610 to make his total $16,816.85, good for third place.

Don January, of Abilene, the Centennial Open winner, finished with 279 and won $448.30. Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., the pre-tournament favorite, had 275 and won $916.

Top Stars Qualifying For Open At Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Sectional qualifying for the National Open here today reserves a who's who of golf. Many of the game's top stars will be in the field of 126 that posts 36-hole scores on two Dallas courses.

Touring professionals who played in the Texas International Open that ended here yesterday will be posting scores for the Open. These include Dave Douglas, Al Balding, Roberto de Vincenzo, Al Besselink, Don Fairfield, Arnold Palmer, Bob Inman, Mario Gonzalez, Jay Hebert, Gerald Kesselring, Mike Fetchick, Ted Kroll, Fred Hawkins, George Bayer, Wally Ulrich, E. J. Harrison, Freddie Haas, Billy Maxwell, Ernie Vossler, Gene Littler, Gardner Dickinson, Jerry Barber, Don January, Jimmy [illegible], Paul Harney, Lloyd Mangrum and Bo Wininger.

Chisox On The Move Again; Pirates Back Into NL Lead

By ED WILKS

The Chicago White Sox have gained a little weight and appear recovered from their most recent attack of Yankee-itis, but the question is—how long can it last?

Manager Marty Marion's crew looked just as healthy a couple of weeks back. They had won six straight and edged to within 1½ games of the American league-leading New Yorkers. Then the Yankees laid 'em low, winning three in a row and touching off a five-game losing streak for the Pale Hose. Before it ended they were 6½ games behind and in fourth place.

Since then the White Sox have won 9 of their last 12 and 6 of their last 7 while the Yankees were losing 6 of 13.

Chicago continued to fatten up at Baltimore last night, trimming the Orioles 13-4 and cutting the Yanks' lead to four games. Cleveland, in third, is only 4½ back, having defeated Washington 7-0 in the only other game scheduled.

In the National, Pittsburgh slipped into first place while enjoying a day off as Sal Maglie and Brooklyn's Dodgers combined to dump the Milwaukee Braves out of the lead 3-0. The Braves now trail by a full game— as do St.Louis, an 11-5 winner of New York, and Cincinnati, an 8-2 winner over Philadelphia.

Billy Pierce had only a slight bit of trouble gaining his seventh victory for the Sox. He allowed only two hits for seven innings, then gave up all four Baltimore runs in the eighth on four hits and two walks. Sandy Consuegra relieved for the final 1 1-3 innings.

Mike Garcia got the job done for the Indians with the help of home runs by rookie Earl Averill and Jim Busby and three runs batted in by Vic Wertz. The big bear struck out 12 for a 4-5 record and his first shutout since last Aug. 24.

Maglie had to go back farther than that to find his last shutout. The ex-Giant right-hander hadn't blanked anybody since April 25, 1954, and hadn't won since last July 2.

He got right with a neat three hitter — allowing none after the fourth inning — while the Brooks battered Lew Burdette for seven of their nine hits. Brooklyn had a walk, sacrifice, infield out and Randy Jackson's single for a first-inning run, then got two in the eighth on homers by PeeWee Reese and Gil Hodges.

Maglie was the man, however. He walked only one, with two out in the ninth, and struck out five.

Ken Boyer led the free-swinging Cards, hitting a home run, two doubles and a single in five trips for five RBIs as Vinegar Bend Mizell won his sixth. Only catcher Bill Sarni, center fielder Bobby Del Greco and Mizell failed to contribute to St.Louis' 15-hit barrage on loser Don Liddle and three reliefers — and everyone else had at least two hits. Wally Moon also homered.

Art Fowler had the Phils ninth, when Del Ennis lined a two-blanked on two hits until the run single. Ed Bailey homered with two on and Roy McMillan provided a two-run triple for the Redlegs. Saul Rogovin lost it.

Southpaw Tourney Slated June 12-16

SEGUIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texa Assn. of Left-Handed Golfers will hold their 16th annual tournament here June 12-16 with Allen Mitchell, San Antonio, a three-time state winner, expected to defend his title.

Jack Wilkerson, Tyler, also a three-time state winner; J. C. Thorpe of Corpus Christi, 1955 runner-up; Julio la Guerta, A. T. Cook and J. D. Penry, all of Houston; and 1951 state champion Fred Blackmar, Luling, are expected to give strong competition to Mitchell.

Texas Tech baseballers compiled a 8-7 record this spring, the Red Raiders' third season of competition following a lapse that dated back to 1929. Football Hall of Fame member Beattie Feathers, a former minor league baseball manager, coached the Raider nine.

Stevenson Appears To Have Edge In California Voting

By The Associated Press

California Democrats chose between Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Eestes Kefauver in primary election voting today. It was the final ballot box clash for the two rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson was given an edge by most political observers in the fight for the state's big 68 votes in the national convention. Both candidates wound up a hard week of campaigning with predictions of victory.

It was apparent the decision would be crucially important. Kefauver noted that the loser would suffer "a very severe setback."

The nation had four other less significant primaries to watch this week. Elections took place in New York, Montana and South Dakota today and in Iowa yesterday.

In the Iowa primary Sen. Hickenlooper easily won renomination over his Republican opponent in a contest billed as a test of the popularity of administration farm price support policies, supported by Hickenlooper.

Dayton Countryman conceded victory to Hickenlooper shortly after midnight with the words: "The farmers have shown that they are happy."

R. M. (Spike) Wilcox, a former member of the Federal Reserve Board, won the Democratic nomination to oppose Hickenlooper in the fall. Iowa has no presidential preference voting.

In New York, supporters of Gov. Averell Harriman could count on virtually all the state's big Democratic delegation to the convention. Backers of Stevenson were contending for only 10 of 86 delegate seats being filled.

The Democratic State Committee will choose 24 half-vote at-large delegates later for a total of 98 convention votes, virtually all expected to be in Harriman's corner. The governor describes himself as "not an active" candidate.

President Eisenhower assured of no-contest victories in California, New York and South Dakota. He faced token opposition only in Montana—where perennial candidate Lar Daly of Chicago challenged him. Eisenhower long ago cornered more than enough delegates for renomination.

Kefauver stood to pick up 16 Democratic convention votes in Montana and eight in South Dakota. He was unopposed in either contest, although write-ins were permitted in Montana.

In California, Kefauver wound up with a swipe at both Eisenhower and Stevenson. He said the nation suffers from "a lack of leadership" and "absence of a responsible person at the top." He accused Stevenson supporters of spreading false rumors that Kefauver would accept the No. 2 spot on the party ticket.

Stevenson closed his campaign with a television talk in which he said his record as governor of Illinois had been "deliberately distorted during the campaign" for primary fight. He said his "records speak louder than the words" of Kefauver.

In Springfield, Ill., yesterday, the Democratic State Convention chose 28 half-vote national convention delegates, but took no action to pledge them to a specific candidate. Fifty full-vote delegates were chosen in an April primary.

Rhode Island Democrats last night picked a 16-vote delegation to the convention. Though officially unpledged, most were expected to go to Stevenson.

The two Wisconsin Republican senators, Wiley and McCarthy, tangled in an argument on the Senate floor yesterday over Wiley's charges that "king makers" and "Eisenhower haters" in Wisconsin engineered his rebuff by a GOP state convention last month.

The convention endorsed Rep. Glen Davis of Wisconsin for Wiley's seat in a Sept. 11 primary test. Wiley said Davis was persuaded to run after being promised a $150,000 "Jackpot" for the campaign.

McCarthy called this an insult to Davis and told Wiley "rank and file Republicans" had repudiated him after deciding Wiley was "not a good senator."

Daniel, Q'Daniel Talk In El Paso

By The Associated Press

Two candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination carried their campaigns to El Paso Monday—Sen. Price Daniel by airplane and former Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel by his red fire truck.

In a press conference after his arrival Daniel said if elected governor he "would let the local school districts decide what is best for their schools" in regard to racial integration.

He said his aim would be "to lead Texas to the best public school system in the United States."

Following the press conference, Daniel attended a meeting of the East El Paso Lions club where he spoke and answered questions.

O'Daniel spoke from his red fire truck in a park in the heart of this city. He told the crowd of about 200 that Daniel wanted to become governor "so he can keep the lid" on any investigation of the veterans land scandal.

Daniel, when told of this remark, said "all who have looked into my record have praised it."

O'Daniel repeated his stand against segregation and called the "Supreme Court the "nine old men." He said Daniel has "big money behind him and that will eliminate him as a contender."

O'Daniel left El Paso to speak at Van Horn and Fort Stockton.

Daniel speaks Tuesday at the annual meeting of the El Paso Valley Cotton Assn.

Wednesday he begins a tour that will take him to Lubbock, Plainview, Amarillo and Wichita Falls.

Daniel began his active campaign Monday at Houston by asking "true moderates and conservatives" to work together in a fight against "left wing radicals."

"Let's forget differences of opinion and join together in this fight to keep out the radicals who want to take over the governor's office," Daniel told a meeting of Harris County campaign workers.

"The big issue of this campaign is whether the government of Texas shall be controlled by the people or by the left wing radicals," Daniel said.

He said Harris County residents already have been waging a fight against such elements and that this was one of his reasons for starting his campaign in the state's most populous county.

"You have in this county the best illustration of what the extreme left wingers will do if they get congrol," he said. "The radicals have taken over your county to come degree."

"They exposed their ruthlessness at the state Democratic convention in Dallas when they brutally disregarded the plea of Sen. Lyndon Johnson for moderation," he said. "In the closing hours of that convention, that radical element led by the leftists from Harris County turned their backs on Sen. Johnson. With the eyes of Texas upon them, they themselves gave evidence that the extremists in politics are also extremists in government and that the end result of irresponsibility is ugly politics and even worse government."

Daniel's remarks brought protest from Jack Matthews, floor leader of the Harris County delegation to the convention.

"It is deplorable that Sen. Price Daniel in opening his campaign in Harris County has stooped to the same type of demagogury that Gov. Shivers used," Matthews said. "After telling newsmen on television Sunday night that his defection to the Republicans in 1952 was a matter of personal conscience he now throws in with the Allan Shivers executive committee and calls opposition to them left wing radicalism."

"We of the Harris County delegation were big enough to accept the state conventions vote against us in good spirit and stayed to help choose Sen. Johnson as a favorite son and Mrs. R. D. Randolph as national committee woman," Matthews said.

Rocket Test Fizzles Out

WHITE SANDS PROVING Ground, N.M. (AP)—The Navy got another fizzle yesterday when it attempted to shoot a research rocket up 138 miles.

Its Aerobee-hi reached only 37 miles into the sky. It attained not quite half the 6,100-foot-a-second velocity hoped for.

John Townsend and other scientists working on the project indicated it might be abandoned or at least delayed for a long time until they can find out what the trouble is.

Several weeks ago another Aerobe-hi reached only a few thousand feet in a highly publicized attempt at a new altitude record.

The Aerobee-hi is strictly a research vehicle, not a weapon.

Some seedsmen coat small seeds with clay to aid in proper planting.

Claim To Islands Starts Heated Row

MANILA (AP)—President Ramon Magsaysay warned his Foreign Office today to step warily in the international dispute boiling over a Filipino citizen's claim to an island domain in the South China Sea.

Nationalist and Red China and South Viet Nam all are shouting their claims to the group of 100 or more islands, reefs and sandbars lying about half way between the Philippines and Indochina.

Tomas Cloma, a former newsman who heads a nautical school, touched off the fireworks when he explored some of the islands in March and claimed them May 21 "by right of discovery and occupancy as a result of abandonment."

Cloma says he has landed 29 men on the islands, which he calls "Freedomland," and will send out another expedition later this week to supply them. The otherwise uninhabited islands, many of them located in uncharted and dangerous waters, are a potentially rich fishing area.

Cloma distributed a "declaration of status" to the foreign diplomatic missions. In it, he claimed rights over the island group until it is "formally annex by any government."

Magsaysay advised his foreign minister, Carlos P. Garcia, to "study carefully" the claim "in view of the international complications." A high official said it is "unlikely the Philippine government will claim the islands."

"They are not worth the trouble and the risk involved in clashing with other governments," he explained.

"Since we can not afford to fortify the islands or turn them into a communications center, they will be of little use to us."

During World War II, Japan used Spratly island, one of the group, as a submarine base. Nationalist China stationed a garrison in the islands for a time after the war. France claimed Spratly before the war but apparently has lost interest.

Oil Royalty Deal Aired During Trial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A defense attorney says T. Lamar Caudle, on trial for conspiracy, "took the very hide off" a tax dodger's attorney when informed he had bought an oil royalty in Caudle's name.

C. Arthur Anderson, attorney for Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's Tax Division, said Caudle asked Harry I. Schwimmer:

"Why did you buy that oil royalty? I didn't authorize you to do that. I don't want it at any price."

Anderson said yesterday at Caudle's federal court trial that Schwimmer then said, "I'll get it out of your name. I'll prepare a transfer order."

The transfer was taken care of after months of insistence by Caudle, Anderson said.

Caudle and Matthew J. Connelly, White House appointments secretary under Truman are charged with conspiring to defraud the government by trying to sidetrack criminal prosecution of Schwimmer's client Irving Sachs.

Sachs, a St. Louis shoe manufacturer, was fined $40,000 when he pleaded guilty to income tax evasion in 1951 but escaped a prison term on health grounds.

The government contends Schwimmer bought oil royalties for Connelly and Caudle for their influence in the case.

Stevenson Is Winner In Florida Primary

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson won the May 9 Florida Democratic victory over Estes Kefauver by a tight 13,736-vote margin.

Complete returns tabulated by the secretary of state's office yesterday gave Stevenson 230,285 and Kefauver 216,549.

Stevenson wound up with 22 of the state's delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Kefauver won six.

The U.S. population is growing at the rate of one every 12 seconds.

Idaho Gets Snow, Some Have Rain

By The Associated Press

Pleasant weather prevailed in most of the eastern third of the nation today but it was wet, windy and cool in some Western areas.

Strong westerly winds, with gusts up to 40 m.p.h. sent cool air into western Montana, Idaho and Nevada. It was below freezing at Mullan, Pass, Idaho, with 1 inch of new snow on the ground.

Temperatures dropped far below normal levels as the cold air spread across the three states. It was 42 at Boise, Idaho, compared with 66 yesterday morning.

Rainfall in the cold belt was generally light. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported in the central Rockies and Southern Plains. Severe thunderstorms rumbled across north central Oklahoma and headed northeastward into Kansas. Light showers fell in sections of the lower Great Lakes.

Hot weather continued acoss the South from Texas to the southwest desert region with temperatures in the 90s and above 100 yesterday. Top mark was 109 at Presidio, Tex.

Drowns At Cleburne

CLEBURNE, Tex. (AP)—Robecca Briggs, 15, drowned in a swimming pool at Cleburne state park yesterday while on an outing with a group of Future Homemakers of America. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Briggs of Cedar Hill, Dallas County.

Parents Have Too Many Dogs To Keep

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—As it turned out, nine-year-old Andy Bailey didn't have to evict either Wimpy or Laddie. When Wimpy, who had been missing since last June, limped in recently to find Andy's replacement Laddie, the thrifty parental decision was "one dog must go." But when the deadline on Andy's choice came yesterday parent Ralph Bailey relented and said, "we'll try our best to keep them" both.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleaningest" home rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is now available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid resoiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as ½ gallon of consentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

SCIENTIST THINKS

Virus May Cause All Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

DETROIT (AP)—A Nobel Prize scientist today said he thinks viruses cause most or all cancers, including human.

The evidence is all logical, and it is increasing, said Dr. Wendell M. Stanley, University of California virologist.

He urged a wholly new attack against cancer from this theory. It could lead to vaccines to prevent cancer, like a Salk vaccine against polio virus, and new ways to cure it.

It is possible that all of us are walking around with "sleeping" cancer virusesk, Dr. Stanley said. We might even "catch" noninfectious doses of viruses from other healthy people. But he stressed that you cannot "catch" cancer itself from another person. Cancer itself is not contagious.

The cancer viruses wouldn't do us any harm, until and unless something made them become active. The something could be aging, changes in hormones, dietary faults, chemicals, radiation, or other things, or a combination of them.

Far from being a scary idea, the virus theory opens the way to new experiments to find methods of controlling cancer, Dr. Stanley told the third National Cancer Conference. The conference, attended by 1,200 physicians and scientists from the United States and 23 foreign countries, is sponsored by the National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Yociety.

Dr. Stanley won a Nobel Prize for the first purification and crystallization of a virus. He heads the Laboratory of Virus Research at California.

Dispute Over Bear Winds Up In Suit

ATLANTA (AP)—A former transit operator who claimed he was fired because he grew a beard filed a $25,000 damage suit against the Atlanta transit system and Amalgamated Street Car Local Union No. 732.

Gerald F. Barnes charged in a court suit that his civil rights were violated when he was discharged April 23 because, he said, he exercised his constitutional right to "have and enjoy chin whiskers."

The transit firm's reason for Barnes' discharge, according to the suit, was "conduct disturbing to discipline and harmony in our operating force and as a result he was given a direct order which he willfully disobeyed."

Tribute To Jesse Jones Paid Monday

HOUSTON (AP)—Public officials, former governors, financiers, truck drivers and laborers yesterday paid their final tribute to Jesse H. Jones, Houston No. 1 citizen.

The 1,000-seat St. Paul's Methodist Church could not accommodate the large crowd present to attend funeral services for the 82-year-old builder, banker, publisher, financial genius, and Cabinet member.

Before the services thousands had viewed the body of the former secretary of commerce who headed the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for 13 years and who was known to many as "Mr. Houston."

The simple services conducted by Dr. Deal D. Cannon, pastor, and Bishop A. Frank Smith lasted less than 15 minutes.

Private graveside services followed at Forest Park Cemetery, where Jones was buried in an 1,100 pound copper casket.

Among those attending the services were Gov. Allan Shivers, forboard and the editor and publisher W. P. Hobby, the chairman of the mer Gov. Dan Moody, Sen. Price Daniel and former Gov. and Mrs. of the Houston Post.

Jones, who came to Houston in 1893 at the age of 24 to build the city's skyline and compile one of the nation's largest fortunes, died Friday. The longtime publisher of the Houston Chronicle entered St. Luke's Hospital May 9 after having undergone a kidney blockage operation in March.

Owner of 35 downtown Houston buildings ranging up to 37 stories in height, Jones returned to Texas in 1945 after resigning as secretary of commerce and as head of the RFC.

After returning to Houston, Jones devoted much of his time to philanthropic projects of his Houston Endowment Corp., which has given millions to educational, medical and ch0ngo0-e institutions.

It's The Cost Of Learning

DETROIT (AP)—A woman learning to drive wrecked her car and killed her teacher last night.

Mrs. Alice Dixon, 44, told police she was practicing in a supermarket parking lot and became excited when another auto started to enter as she was leaving. Her foot hit the accelerator instead of the brake.

The car slammed into the other auto head on, then shot across a street intersection into a parked truck.

Mrs. Eddie Mae Clark, 48, who was teaching Mrs. Dixon how to drive, was killed. Mrs. Dixon and her husband Wilbur, 56, who was in the back seat, were injured seriously.

John Houston, 37, driver of the other car escaped injury.

Officers said Mrs. Dixon did not have a learner's permit and would be held for investigation of involuntary manslaughter.

Bankers Stress Training Needs

DALLAS (AP)—Training subordinates to take over management positions is the most important responsibility of any executive, the American Institute of Banking was told at its annual convention here yesterday.

Harold W. Walgren, vice president of the Philadelphia, Pa., National Bank, took a shot at executives who refuse to delegate authority.

"They corral all learning and experience and keep it to themselves by refusing to train any one under their supervision to carry on in their absence. When a person is ill or away on vacation, the boss is certain to recognize his indispensable qualities," he said.

An Oklahoma City banker urged that FHA and GI insurance mortgages be de-emphasized in favor of conventional loans.

Daniel W. Hogan Jr., president Trust Co., Oklahoma City, said conventional mortgages of past years were unsatisfactory.

"The FHA has told us how," he told the national convention.

"The conventional mortgage by a gradual process has emulated the example set by the FHA, which is definitely to FHA's credit," he continued. "As it stands today the conventional mortgage is a desirable loan as to amortization, terms, appraisals and loan value."

Dr. Leroy Lewis, of New York, national educational director of the AIB, declared that brain power is the only raw material that may be in short supply in the future.

"Banking is going to have to supply imagination if it is to meet its future needs for brain power," he said.

A resolution commending the late Jesse H. Jones, Houston financier, banker and former secretary of commerce, was passed at first session of the institute's 54th annual convention yesterday.

Approximately 1,500 bankers are attending the institute, the educational branch of the American Bankers Assn.

Sailor, Civilian Go On Tugboat Joy Ride

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Two men — a sailor and a civilian — were detained by naval authorities here after they assertedly took a Navy tugboat for a "joy ride" while its crew was asleep below decks.

Held were John DeShazo, a sailor attached to the nearby Terminal Island Naval Station, and William F. Burns, a civilian from Long Beach.

Witnesses said the craft was alloted away from its moorings at Terminal Island in the early morning hours yesterday. The tug was off Huntington Beach, 10 miles south of here, when crew members awakened, went on deck and "recapteured" their vessel.

Skater Files Cross Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—British-born ice skater Belita Jepson-Turner has filed a cross complaint for divorce against her husband Joel Riordan, Hollywood actor.

She alleges cruelty, charging that he threatened violence in getting her to sign a managerial contract last year.

Miss Jepson-Turner, 31, known professionally as Belita, filed her action in Superior Court yesterday. Riordan, 32, brought the original divorce suit last December, charging the actress-skater deserted him Sept. 4, 1954.

Belita asked the court to cancel the managerial agreement, which gave Riordan 40 per cent of her earnings.

SUCCEEDS MOLOTOV —Dmitry Shepilov is hte new Soviet foreign minister, succeeding V. M. Motolov who has resigned, Moscow Radio announced.

Tito Starts Negotiations

MOSCOW (AP)—Yugoslav President Tito opened formal negotiations with the leaders of the Coviet Union today to complete the reconciliation of his version of communism and the Kremlin's post-Stalin brand.

Yugoslav circles said their chief of state would insist on retaining complete independence of action and freedom to continue the equable relations he established with the West after Stalin booted him out of the Soviet bloc in 1948.

Diplomatic circles believed any rift still existing between the Yugoslav marshal and the present Soviet leadership would be completely erased during the talks.

Tito in a speech at the Kremlin yesterday proclaimed his willingness to be friends with the Soviet Union—as an equal. He cited the declaration he signed with Premier Bulganin during the latter's visit with Nikita Khrushchev to Belgrade last year. Tito declared:

"We must underline that the principles of mutual respect, independence, equal rights and non-interference in the internal affairs of other states that this declaration enunciated have given a new impetus to strengthening friendly relations between our countries."

Showers Hit State Tuesday

By The Associated Press

Showers continued to dot Texas Tuesday as the mild humid weather settled over the state.

Light rains fell during the early morning at Childress, Wink and Salt Flat. There was thunderstorm activity in the Panhandle.

Partly cloudy skies prevailed over the state with the exception of the Rio Grande Valley where skies were clear. The forcast called for continued partly cloudy and warm weather with widely scattered showers.

Lightning killed Lee Poteet, 66, Monday while he was driving a tractor on his farm northwest of Olton in Lamb County.

Temperatures Monday afternoon ranged from 81 degrees at Dallas to 109 at Presidio. Tuesday morning they ranged from 65 at Lufkin to 80 at Childress.

Deputy Is Shot Down

HALLETTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Chief deputy sheriff Guy Henry was shot in the back last night while scuffling with a man he was trying to arrest on a disturbance charge.

Henry was in critical condition but doctors said he had a "restful" night and probably would recover.

A charge of assault with intent to murder was filed against Edwin John Chudej, of near Hallettsville.

Police chief W. E. Lass, who arrested Ghudej following the shooting, said the chief deputy was attempting to jail the man for allegedly causing a disturbance. The deputy was shot in the back with his own pistol, a .39 caliber special.

Lamb County Farmer Killed By Lightning

LUBBOCK (AP)—Lightning killed Lee Poteet, 66, while he was driving a tractor on his Lamb County farm eight miles north of Olton yesterday.

The bolt burned five others who were driving tractors in the vicinity. Protect was the third person killed by lightning in the South Plains this year.

Marbles Champion

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A marbles champion of 75 years ago wasn't awed by the way "these modern boys play marbles." G. H. Ogden, 87, of Ahsland, Ky., came across the state line to see a mibs tournament. Comment: "There was a time when I could give them a battle, and I could beat them, too."

Poisoner Given Electric Chair

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A hefty, auburn-haired waitress who killed her fourth husband with arsenic was sentenced last night to die in the electric chair.

Mrs. Rhonda Belle Martin, 49 and 170 pounds, admitted killing Claude C. Martin and five other members of her family, but she was tried only for the death of her fourth husband.

Her other victims were three daughters, her mother and another husband.

A jury of 12 men deliberated 3 hours and 10 minutes last night before convicting her of poisoning Martin after about a year of married life.

When the verdict was read, Mrs. Martin buried her head in her arms and sobbed.

The woman's attorney based his defense on a plea of insanity.

The prosecution countered that Mrs. Martin served arsenic in coffee to her husband in order to "collect some paltry amount of insurance and to get him out of the way so she could marry his son."

Eight months after Martin's death on April 27, 1951, Mrs. Martin married her stepson, Ronald C. Martin, 21 years her junior. He now lies in a veterans' hospital paralyzed by arsenic poisoning.

Ronald Martin's illness, for which Mrs. Martin is under indictment for attempted murder, touched off the investigation that brought to light the series of poisonings.

Under Alabama's automatic appeal law, last night's conviction will go to the Supreme Court. The sentence is postponed until the appeal is decided.

Solicitor William F. Thetford introduced evidence that Mrs. Martin collected $2,750 on three insurance policies soon after her husband's death.

Legislator's Body Is Found

ERSKINE, Alta. (AP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police have decided an Alberta legislator shot his wife, their four children and two men in his farm home and then turned the murder weapon on himself.

Police found the body of John E. Clark lying face down in a mudhole only 600 yards from the farmhouse where the other bodies were discovered Sunday. A bullet wound gaped in his head and a .22 rifle lay at his feet. The body was clad only in nightclothes.

Asst. Commissioner G. M. Curleigh said the mounted police were satisfied the case was one of multiple murder and suicide.

Clark, 41, had represented the Stettler district in the Alberta Legislature since 1952. He had suffered several nervous breakdowns.

Fires In Alberta

EDMONT, Alta. (AP)—More than 1,300 men, working around the clock, were gradually gaining the upper hand today against fires in northwestern Alberta's forests. Of 80 fires reported, only seven were still out of contro.

Dike Breaks At Colorado Dam Monday

GEORGETOWN, Colo. (AP)—A 60-foot section of dike at Georgetown Dam Burst yesterday loosing a boiling torrent down Clear Creek Canyon.

The deluge, touched off by rapidly melting snow, smashed out at least nine bridges, washed away a 100-foot section of U. S. 6-40, injured one man and caused damage estimated at more than $200,000.

A 140-mile stretch between Georgetown and Idado Springs, a resort town below the dam, took the brunt of the swirling waters, laden with timbers and other debris. Idaho Springs is 34 miles west of Denver.

Early warnings by state, county and federal officials were credited with averting possible loss of life.

A sedan-truck driven by Arthur Williams, 50, of Wheat Ridge, Colo., hit a rock and plunged into swollen Clear Creek. The water dragged the vehicle half a mile before Williams could free himself and chamber ashore. He suffered cuts and bruises.

The waters engulfed motor courts between Georgetown and Idaho Springs and damaged some dwellings and business houses at Idaho Springs.

Temperatures to 90 degrees the past few days hastened the melting of snow at higher elevations. Strong winds kicking up waves on the dam reservoir were believed to have helped weaken the dike.

Choas Is Created On Cambridge Street

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — There's chaos on White Street. Only a block long, the street is intersected by the Cambridge-Somerville city line, and when Cambridge made it a one way street, going toward Somerville, it neglected to tell Somerville.

The new regulation went into effect yesterday and Somerville motorists bound for Cambridge soon found themselves going the wrong way on a one way street. Some turned around, jamming traffic. Others bulled their way through, collecting warnings from Cambridge police. And that's the way it stands today.

MODEL TRAIN ENTHUSIAST TALKS

Phantom Train Crew Solved

DETROIT (AP)—The engineer of a phantom train crew that spirited a diesel engine and string of box cars from under the noses of railroad yard hands has turned out to be a 16-year-old model train enthusiast. He gave himself up last night.

The boy, whom police identified only as a Detroit high school student, and his two "firemen" spent more than two hours highballing through a maze of complicated switch tracks early Sunday. They added nine extra box cars from three sidings before they brought the stolen diesel back to the West Side yard.

Railroad detectives knew of the theft but couldn't spot the culprits in the 20-mile run.

"I m a model train enthusiast," police quoted the youth as saying "I used to hang around the Grand Trunk roundhouse in Pontiac, (Mich.) and got to know the engineers and a little about the engines."

He told police he suggested to his pals it might be fun to swipe an engine.

"I knew how to operate it," he said. "and my friends who came along for the ride made good switchmen after I told them how to do it."

"We slipped out of the yard on the heels of another train," the youth said.

Police said the boy will be turned over to his parents to appear before juvenile authorities today. His "crew" htey said will be picked up for questioning.

Like you would bake it...

...if your good name depended on its quality

Imagine yourself in the business of baking bread, with your own family name on every loaf. You'd certainly want the bread you baked to do credit to your name – to be the best you could possibly produce. So it is with the baking of Mrs. Baird's Bread, for the name on each loaf is the Baird family name. A member of the Baird family supervises its baking – makes every effort every day to produce the best possible loaf. Insist on Mrs. Baird's Bread.
