Hijack Try Unsuccessful

Nancy Palmer Does Panhandle Proud At Spelling Bee

By DORIS E WILSON
News Staff Writer

Pampa's Nancy Palmer, the best speller in a wide expanse of Panhandle country, did her area proud at the National Spelling Bee Thursday in Washington, D.C.

She was one of the 20 finalists going into the final round of the 43rd annual event. With great dispatch, she spelled down 56 other excellent spellers from all over the United States before she tripped herself on a word with which she was familiar.

Nancy met her spelling nemesis with the word "pelorus," a navigation instrument, which she unhesitatingly spelled "pylorus" because it was "a word she had been drilled on from a speller of "seldom used words."

The similarity in the pronounciation of the two words "Pelorous" and pylorus" are belived to have been Nancy's waterloo.

It was, a surprised, and almost stunned, Nancy, who walked from the stage Thursday with tears in her eyes.

After leaving the spelling arena, she rushed to where her family waited for her in the balcony.

"There were tears in her eyes. She felt so bad," Nancy's mother, Mrs. Ralph Palmer, told The News in a long distance telephone call Thursday afternoon. "The pronounciation sort of threw her. She knew the word, but she went into it too fast."

One of Nancy's staunchest supporters during the the two-day event was her 12-year-old brother, Tim, who was first runnerup in the March 24 Gray County Spelling Bee held in Robert E. Lee Junior High School.

Though the sting of defeat hit Nancy hard, her mother said they went on to lunch later, "where Nancy ate heartily and was soon laughing at something amusing someone said."

All of the spelling contestants will collect their awards at a dinner tonight in the nation's capital. After a visit with relatives in Rhode Island, Nancy and her family will return to Pampa about June 19.

In addition to Nancy, Texas had three feminine representatives in the spelling battle, Carol Bunch of Nacogdoches, Marian Barber of Refugio. No other state had as many as three among the survivors.

The nation's top speller was a 14-year-old 8th grader, Libby Childress of Mount Airy, N.C., who battled nine rounds of head-to-head competition with 14-year-old Tom Moe Jr. of Denver, Colo.

Moe tripped on "corymb," a kind of plant. Libby spelled that one right, then clinched the championship by correctly spelling "croissant."

Two Cars Totaled In Night Collision

Two Pampans were treated for minor lacerations and released from Worley Hospital Thursday night following a two-car accident at East Francis and Houston streets shortly after 10 p.m.

Eugene Dale Young, 20, and Doris Young Tillman, 22, both of 118 W. Albert, were taken to the hospital by private vehicle after their car allegedly failed to stop at a stop sign and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Audrey May Jenkins, 42, 920 W. Buckler.

According to police reports, the car driven by Young, in which Mrs. Tillman was a passenger, was knocked 40 feet from the point of impact and came to rest in a culvert. The right front door of the vehicle was knocked off the car and was lying several feet from where the vehicle came to rest.

Mrs. Jenkins was not injured in the accident, but her car sustained an estimated $2,200 in damages. Damages to Young's car were estimated at $1,200.

In an early morning traffic accident police said a car driven by Richard Kenneth Flippo, 20, 1035 Duncan, was traveling east in the 1400 block of East Browning about 1 a.m. today when his car side swiped a parked car.

Damages were stimated at $600 to Flippo's car and $450 to the parked car.

Hijacker, Pilot Shot In Cockpit Gunfight

WASHINGTON (UPI) —With a pistol in one hand and a straight razor in the other, an Arizona man with a $471 grudge against the government hijacked a jetliner Thursday and held 58 persons hostage for $100 million ransom.

Eight hours later, the ordeal ended with a gunfight in the cockpit that left the pilot with a bullet in his stomach and the hijacker in FBI handcuffs.

The hijacker was Auther G. Barkley, a former bakery truck driver, who politely had told the crew that once he got the ransom he was going to "destroy the money and all the people on board."

But all the passengers escaped harm, and Barkley was hauled into court before midnight and was jailed without bond. Capt. Dale C. Hupe, the pilot of the three-engine Boeing 727 was recovering today after surgery showed the wound was not serious.

The wild adventure began when Barkley burst into the cockpit of the Phoenix-to-Washington flight as it passed over New Mexico. Waving his razor and a .22 caliber pistol and carrying a gallon can of gasoline, Barkley ordered the pilot to skip a scheduled stop at St. Louis and fly directly to Washington to pick up the ransom he demanded as balm for a feud with the government over a $471 tax bill.

While the pilot headed for Washington, Trans World Airlines officials collected $100,750 from two small Virginia banks, stuffed the money in bags, and brought it to Dulles Airport.

At the same time, TWA ordered Capt. Billy Williams to fly from New York City to meet the incoming jetliner. Williams is the pilot who boarded a TWA jetliner hijacked to Rome in October.

Thinking "here I go again," Williams landed at Dulles in a small chartered plane close to the hijacked jetliner which had touched down earlier and was refueling. Williams picked up a bag of money TWA officials had placed on the runway and trudged slowly to the jetliner.

Once inside, the hijacker "met me with an open razor in one hand and pistol in the other," Williams said in an interview.

Barkley grabbed the sack and began pulling money out. "The first thing he got was a packet of one dollar bills. This made him very mad and he ordered the pilot to put the plane in the air."

Inside the cabin, most of the passengers did not realize what was happening until the plane reached Dulles. But then it became chillingly clear. Jack Ongle, 14, Mesa, Ariz., said "I saw this man standing in the door with a gun. He was looking down the aisle as if he would shoot somebody."

At this point, Barkley decided "to give them one more chance," Williams said. Following the hijacker's instructions, officials lined the runway with bags stuffed with paper. Williams said Barkley refused to let the plane land until he spotted the bags.

Once the plane was on the ground, the climax came quickly. Williams and the flight engineer started for the rear door of the plane to load the ransom.

In the cockpit, the pilot and the first officer "using facial expressions" to communicate had decided to jump Barkley because the hijacker "had convinced all of us that he was going to get rid of us whether he got the money or whether he didn't", Williams said.

Then came a blast of gunfire as police shot out all four tires on the jetliner. Barkley apparently did not hear the noise, but remained standing in the door of the cockpit.

At this point, passengers began to open escape hatches over the wing, and jump to safety, but Barkley "just stood there pointing his gun", a passenger said.

Now, the FBI made its move. Agents began boosting each other into the plane via a door close to the cockpit.

Don Solomonson, 32, Overland Park, Kan., the copilot, described what happened next:

As the hijacker looked out the cockpit door into the cabin, he "suddenly reached up his right hand and fired." Barkley had spotted an FBI agent who had fired at him. "Then we jumped Barkley," Solomonson said. In the scuffle, the pilot was forced back into his seat, and Barkley was on top of him. It was at this point the pilot was shot. Solomonson said he made a grab for Barkley's gun and "I pulled it out of the captain's stomach."

By now the plane was filled with FBI agents who overpowered Barkley and handcuffed him. While the shooting was going on, the passengers were cowering in the grass alongside the runway. "Man, it was a mess! Old ladies were crying, passengers were yelling and rolling on the ground," Airport Policeman Hubert Lanocia said.

As for Barkley, he was hustled down the stairs from the plane, nodding and smiling. He kept saying "Hello, there, hi there," to each policeman he passed, Laconia said.

Gov't Nixes Aid For Rodeo Arena Repair

The federal government has turned down the City of Pampa's application for $27,706 in disaster relief assistance for repairs to the rodeo arena at Recreation Park.

Damage estimated at $50,000 was done to the arena grandstand and lighting equipment in the April tornado.

The city had sought federal aid for damage in excess of insurance coverage.

The application was rejected, City Manager Charles Hill was advised yesterday, because the Office of Emergency Preparedness at Lubbock ruled the rodeo arena was leased by the city to the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association which also carried insurance on the property.

The government agency stated that because of the lease agreement replacement of facilities damaged in the tornado was the responsibility of the rodeo association rather than the City of Pampa.

The city was granted relief in the amount of $1,246, the difference between actual damage and insurance coverage at municipal pumping station No. 3. A total of approximately $3,600 storm damage was done at the pumping station.

Fireworks Display Cancelled For 4th

Pampa's annual Fourth of July fireworks exhibition has been called off for this year.

The decision was reached this forenoon at a meeting of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the annual event.

Don Lane, chamber president, announced that the board found it necessary to dispense with the fireworks display this year because of damage caused at Recreation Park by the April tornado.

"We found that repairs to the grandstand and arena where the display is staged cannot be completed in time for the Fourth of July celebration," Lane said.

The chamber president said it was with regrets that the board was forced to call off the traditional event which has been held for many years and annually attracts upwards of 20,000 persons from Pampa and surrounding communities.

Lane said the board voted to resume the annual event for the Fourth of July in 1971.

Today's cancellation marked the second summertime event to be called off at Recretation Park.

Directors of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association voted recently to cancel the annual Top O' Texas Rodeo Scheduled in August.

Cosmonauts Switch To Navigation

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soyuz 9 command pilot, Col. Andrian Nikolayev, and flight engineer Vitaly Sevastianov switched their emphasis from medical tests to space navigation today in the fourth day of their orbital flight.

Cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the world's first spacewalker, said at the Baikonur ground control center, "Space navigation is one of the key problems of astronautics."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported Nikolayev and Sevastianov were feeling well and their spaceship was performing normally on their flight, expected to be of long duration. The men are expected to gather medical data necessary for the orbiting of a manned space platform.

The cosmonauts used manual controls to orient the Soyuz 9 on the brilliant star Vega and took measurements with a sextant to aid in navigation, Tass said.

Leonov, who hosted a television program explaining the flight Thursday, showed rare shots of the Baikonur control room and talked about the navigational aspects of the flight.

He said he and his pilot, the late Pavel Belyayev, had only "rather simple navigational aids" on their March, 1965, flight. He said the system aboard Soyuz 9 "helps the crew find its bearings with greater accuracy than in earlier spaceships."

House Faces Showdown On Post Reform Act

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House is heading for another showdown on "right to work" issue, which is forcing its way into the postal reform fight.

The reform measure, on which the House may take action next week, would turn the post office into an independent government agency run by an 11-member commission.

The bill also would allow the unions, for the first time in federal employe union history, to organize postal workers under provisions of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB). The Commission would be required to carry on collective bargaining with the union.

Critics of the bill say the NLRB provisions would open the door to union shop agreements under which postal employes covered by a contract would be required to join a union as a condition of employment. The union shop provision, however, is outlawed in the 19 states that have right to work laws.

The House bill would require only that postal labor agreements adhere to these rights to work laws.

The House, in July 1965, voted 221 to 203 to nullify state right to work laws. But the Senate allowed the bill to die in committee, which led House members to pledge never to consider the measure again until the Senate had spelled out its attitude in a recorded vote.

Rep. David N. Henderson, D-N.C., No. 2 Democrat on the House Post Office Committee, led an unsuccessful fight to insert right to work language in the bill during its drafting in committee and said he would renew his effort on the House floor.

The administration, which drafted a reform bill as part of a negotiated settlement with striking postal workers in March, is opposed to right to work language in any reform bill because of labor's opposition. The administration, desperate to reform the deficit-ridden post office, needs labor backing to get reorganization of some kind this year.

Many Live In Hills To Survive Peru's Devastating Earthquake

CHIMBOTE, Peru (UPI) — The fact a circus was playing outside Yungay saved many of the children of that city and nearby Ranrahirca from death in the Sunday earthquake that has taken as many as 30,000 lives.

Augustin Rojo, 55, and his two daughters, airlifted from Ranrahirca to the port city of Chimbole Thursday said close to 1,000 persons from Yungay and Ranrahirca fled to safety in the hills when the earthquake struck Sunday afternoon.

He said most of those who made it to safety were children attending the circus outside town.

"When the earthquake came the children were able to run to the hills," he said.

The government has estimated 30,000 people were killed by the quake that shook Northern Peru from the coast to the Amazon jungle and sent floods and landslides roaring down the Andes Mountains into cities in the valley.

Rojo, visiting relatives in the valley, said he felt the quake while preparing to return to Lima. It was followed 10 or 15 minutes later by the landslide.

"A lot of other neighbors made it to the hills with us. That day we came upon only 10 bodies and we buried them. We survived until yesterday (Wednesday) when the first helicopter dropped us some food."

Rojo praised the work of the American rescue pilots. "Thanks to them we were able to come to Chimbote to ask for help for the rest of the people," he said. "There must be up to 1,000 persons in the hills."

In Huaraz, 33 miles from Yungay, a peasant operating a radio said there was talk of bulldozing the rubble of the wrecked homes into a pile and burning it because of fear of disease.

The city of 80,000 was reported 90 per cent destroyed.

Mrs. Douglas Deming of Tulsa, Okla., wife of an American missionary pilot, said she listened in on a radio talk between her husband and the peasant who said there was so much rubble and debris "we can't get to the injured or dead."

The entire region is stinking with death," the peasant said.

At Yungay, where only about 2,500 of a popualtion of 20,000 were known to have survived, only the tops of palm trees were visible above the mud.

Increased Hiring Of Blacks Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A black task force has demanded 80 to 90 per cent of the payroll jobs of federal construction contractors in the District of Columbia be given blacks, even if the firms have to hire persons without job skills.

"We're talking about black people right off the streets, skilled or unskilled," a task force spokesman said. "If they're unskilled, they can be given on-the-job training after being hired."

"We see no reason why the quality of work would suffer," said R. H. Booker, chairman of the Washington area construction industry task force. He said claims to the contrary were a "smoke screen used by unions and the Labor Department ot keep blacks out."

Saturday's Runoffs Eyed By Candidates

Gray County's Democratic voters are expected to turn out in a less-than-moderate force Saturday to select two state and two county candidates for the November general election ballot.

County Clerk Charlie Thut said 209 absentee ballots have been cast in the runoff election. Thut said only persons who voted in the Democratic primary are eligible to vote in Saturday's runoff.

"If they didn't vote at all," Thut said, "they are eligible to vote Saturday. But persons who voted in the Republican primary May 2 may not vote Saturday."

Only six polling places will be set up for the county's 14 precincts.

Precinct 1 will vote in the Lefors Community Center. Precincts 2, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 13, and 14 will vote in the courthouse in Pampa.

Precinct 4 will vote at the Allanreed School. Precinct 5 will vote at City Hall in McLean. Precinct 6 will vote in Laketon and Precinct 11 will vote at the Phillips Camp.

County offices being sought in the runoff are the seats of County Commissioner from Precincts 2 and 4.

Precinct 2 candidates are W.C. Epperson and Don Hinton, both of Pampa. In the primary election, Hinton polled 736 votes to Epperson's 659. The winner will face Republican incumbent Vernon Watkins in November.

Candidates for the Precinct 4 post are incumbent Truitt Johnson and John Dwyer, both of McLean. In the primary, Dwyer edged Johnson by one vote, 143 to 142. The winner will run unopposed in the general election.

State offices being sought are the 79th Legislative District seat being vacated by Rep. Malouf Abraham, R-Canadian, and the 31st Senatorial District seat being vacated by Sen. Grady Hazelwood, D-Canyon.

Hazelwood is retiring and the seat is being sought by Abraham.

Democrats seeking a place on the ballot for the senator's post are Max Sherman and Jack Hazelwood, both of Amarillo. Hazelwood topped Sherman in the primary 1579 votes to 840.

Seeking the legislative seat are Phil Cates of Lefors and Ray Trosper of Higgins. Cates polled 1498 votes to Trosper's 327 in the primary. The runoff winner will face Bill Nix, R-Canadian, in the general election.

Polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Heavy Battle Erupts NW Of Viet Capital

SAIGON (UPI) —Four U.S. infantrymen were killed and 18 others wounded in heavy fighting that raged for two hours around a bunker complex northwest of Saigon, the U.S. Command said today.

The battle erupted about 4 p.m. Thursday in jungles 43 miles northwest of Saigon near Go Dau Ha when armored units of the 25th Infantry Division found more than 100 Communists in entrenched positions.

Officials said the Americans called in artillery and helicopter gunships in the action 14 miles southwest of the Cambodian border but were unable to determine how many of the guerrillas were slain.

The U.S. Command reported six "significant" shelling attacks late Thursday and early today. In the 24-hour period ending at noon Thursday, the Communists made the largest number of shelling attacks in a month in South Vietnam.

Census Enumerators Criss-Cross Valley For Missed Persons

MCALLEN, Tex (UPI) —The 1970 census has come and gone for most of the nation but census enumerators, both private and public, are vigorously rechecking the lower Rio Grande Valley for uncounted persons.

Enumerators criss-crossed 15 counties in the Valley Thursday checking their own counts against those of the federal census figures.

"It's really too early to tell what I'm going to have," said Larry Miller, director of the McAllen district office of the census. "The enumerators are making sure they are 100 per cent correct."

Miller said it would probably be next Wednesday before the spot check is complete.

Meanwhile postmen were aiding the census bureau in a check and chambers of commerce in San Benito and Edinburg were conducting their own recounts to prove their populations were not declining.

The census said Edinburg dropped from 18,706 in 1960 to 17,748 in 1970 but residents believe the population is several thousand higher.

Edinburg Chamber manager Walter Shirah said 104 volunteers had counted 2,500 persons as of Thursday and "we think from appearances now, the population could go as high as 20,000 persons."

National census field director Jefferson D. McPike has promised a complete recount of the Valley if Edinburg can find 1,000 uncounted persons.

Miller said postmen are checking white census cards if the houses on their routes were counted in the original census and blue cards if they were not.

He said, however, when the card bundles were shipped to the post offices, they were supposed to have been sorted by streets. They were not and "I know all post offices did not get as many of these white cards as they should have," he said.

Stolen Fares Won't Get Thief Far

Officials of the Continental Trailways Bus Depot, 115 S. Russell, said today whoever took the blank bus tickets in a breakin Thursday night isn't going to get very far. The tickets are no good unless validated by a ticket agent, upon payment of fare.

According to police reports, someone entered the depot between 6:30 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. today. Entrance was gained by breaking a window on the southeast side of the building.

The intruder attempted to pry open a foot locker in a storage area, but his attempts were unsuccessful. The burglar then went to the office and took several blank bus tickets.

Officers said footprints at the scene indicated the burglar may be in his early teens.

According to reports, the bus tickets were the only things taken in the burglary.

Southwestern sponsored a group of 44 students and teachers at the symposium.

Nixon Considers Making Lodge Special Emissary To Vatican

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon is considering appointment of Henry Cabot Lodge as a special emissary to the Vatican, it was learned today.

Such action would establish the first official U.S. link since 1950 with the seat of the Roman Catholic Church.

The move would not constitute formal diplomatic recognition of the Vatican, however.

Informed sources told UPI that Lodge, Nixon's running mate in the 1960 presidential race and later ambassador to Saigon for President Lyndon B. Johnson, would be Nixon's special emissary and would visit the Vatican regularly. But he would not reside there. He would continue to be based in the United States.

The State Department had no immediate comment. Indications were that the President had not yet made a final decision on the matter.

The United States has found it difficult to maintain official relations with the Vatican because of domestic political opposition.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt named Myron C. Taylor as his personal representative to the Holy See in 1939, with the rank of ambassador. The appointment was renewed by President Harry S. Truman in 1947 and Taylor served until 1950.

In 1951, Truman proposed Gen. Mark Clark to become U.S. ambassador at the Vatican, but the proposal died in the Senate.

Presumably, Nixon's reported plan would face less domestic poliitcal opposition today since the question of Catholics in high office has become less controversial since the election of John F. Kennedy, the first Roman Catholic chief executive.

When reports also circulated last year that Nixon was considering naming an envoy to the Vatican, sharp protests ensued some Protestant groups.

They contended that the Vatican is essentially a religious haedquarters, not a political state, and that the United States should not establish a special tie with one religious body.

In the face of those protests, the White House quietly shelved the idea. It now apparently has been revived in a slightly different form.

The Vatican maintains diplomatic relations with some 50 to 60 nations.

The Holy See has an apostolic delegate in Washington but he is not accredited to the U.S. government. His function is to maintain contacts with the Roman Catholic Church in the United States.

Lodge served twice as U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam.

He was ambassador to West Germany from 1968 until he was appointed by Nixon to be chief U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris last year.

Lodge resigned the Paris job a few months ago.

Southern Baptist End Annual Meeting

DENVER (UPI) —The Southern Baptist Convention, marked by sharp disagreement at some points over Biblical interpretation and the methods of its social action agency, ended its annual meeting Thursday with a mixed victory for both its liberal and conservative elements.

During its four days, the convention ordered recall and rewriting of a bible commentary considered too liberal, but stayed off efforts to either abolish or punish the Christian Life Commission, its social action agency, for some of its methods.

The convention elected the Rev. Carl E. Bates, pastor of First Baptist Church of Charlotte, N. C., president to replace Dr. W. A. Criswell of Dallas.

Bates, elected without a runoff over four other candidates, apparently was widespread support. He told a news conference immediately after his election he hoped the denomination would tone down attention given its "extreme" elements in the next year.

Evangelist Billy Graham told the final session of the 11.4 million member Southern Baptist Convention that the real confrontation which could trigger World War III is in the Middle East, not Indochina.

"In my judgment," he said, "we should never have gotten into a land war in Asia. President Nixon has promised to get American combat troops out of Cambodia by July 1 and I believe him. He has promised to end this war and I believe him."

Discussing racial problems, Graham said it seemed that integration was just around the corner 10 years ago, but recent polarization between racial extremists has made some feel the issue now is "not can we have racial integration, but can we avert racial war?"

There were indications some points disagreement would arise at the 1971 SBC convention in St. Louis.

The Rev. Ralph Taylor of Bowling Green, Fla., told the 13,500 delegates Thursday he had talked to some delegates "and most of them agree that our president (Criswell) and other presiding officers were rude and unkind to some of those who spoke. . ."

Taylor said unless problems in the denomination were solved in the Denver meeting, "we will face them in St. Louis. . ."

Atlanta Mayor Declares District 'Intensive Care'

ATLANTA (UPI) —Mayor Sam Massell declared Atlanta's hippie district along famed Peachtree Street an "intensive care section" Thursday night and assigned 64 patrolmen the mission of making the troubled area safe for all citizens.

Massell, in a 30-minute radio and television speech, said lawbreakers—particularly illegal drug users—would be arrested. But he emphasized there would no "oppression" of the hippies.

"The fact that hippies appear to meet with general disapproval by the community at large gives us no license—legally or morally—to abridge their constitutional rights," he said.

Massell indicated he was motivated by the increased drug traffic, "toughs who are strongarming others in the community," and the "universal reports which anticipate the migration of thousands of additional young people to our city."

The mayor said he was running advertisements in underground newspapers around the nation "urging youth not to come here without means of support and house accomodations."

The Georgia capital, because of minimal police harrassment, has become known as a "beautiful city" and a massive influx of hippies has been predicted.

However, Massell cautioned that his compassion for the hippies not be misinterpreted "as being an open invitation to homeless and jobless children to make this their summer camping grounds."

THORNEY, England (UPI)—Officials at a local wildlife park have traded Neptune the sea lion to a Bedford zoo because he is more of a landlubber than a king of the deep. Five times Neptune scaled a five-foot-high fence around his pool and made for dry land, they said. The park received two smaller sea lions in the trade.

Equipment Found But Owner Isn't

Automobile tape players, stereo tapes, and earphones were found by police today, but officers cannot find anything in their files to lead them to the owner of the equipment.

According to police reports, the equipment was found in the city dump ground, wrapped in a plastic bag. The bag contained three tape players, five tapes, and one pair of headphones.

Police Chief Jim Conner said all the equipment appeared to be in good condition.

Officers have investigated the theft of much stereo equipment in the past three months, and Conner said it may take some time to check all the files and locate the owner.

During the visit, the two families flew to Phoenix, Ariz., to visit the Pampans' daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Wood, and stopped en route to visit another son, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pendergrass, of El Paso. Before returning to Tripoli, the Pendergrass family toured Germany and Switzerland.

Jim Pendergrass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Pendergrass, 315 Sunset Drive, a junior engineering major at the University of Texas at El Paso, was listed on the Dean's Honor Roll this semester. He and his wife visited his parents here after the semester, and have returned home.

Elizabeth Falkenstein, daughter of Dr. R.D. Falkenstein, 1206 Mary Ellen, was awarded a bachelor's degree from the School of Education at University of Portland (Oregon).

Pampa Southwest Indian Organization will meet at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Gray County Courtroom to complete plans for the 6th annual Pow-Wow and Barbecue set for June 28 in Hobart Street Park.

Sun Oil To Move New Families Here

Sun Oil Co. District Manager R.L. Harris has announced the transfer of five administrative and supervisory personnel to the Pampa office.

Harris said the five and their families would move to Pampa in the near future.

The transfers to augment the local district offices of Sun Oil Co. was brought about by the merger of the Sun Oil Co. with the Sunray D-X Oil Co.

Harris, who was transfered here from Yale, Okla., in April, succeeds R.G. Denyer as district manager.

He was previously district superintendent, supervising the company's drilling and production operations in the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles.

He has been associated with Sun Oil for 18 years.

Mrs. Weldon Carter getting change at a Pampa shop .... Mrs. Don Cole delivering Vacation Bible school textbooks .... Mrs. Bobbie Light, 809 E. Locust, with a big strawberry .... Mrs. Light grew the strawberry in her own yard from a plant she ordered from Iowa .... The plant was set in February .... The big strawberry is the only one that has ripened on the vine so far .... It measured two inches in diameter .... Terry Braddock handing a sandwich to a customer .... Dianne Brice excited about a fishing vacation she and her gang are taking .... Peggy Palmitier looking in a hand mirror .... Gladys Jaynes, getting prettier by the minute, as she had her hair coiffed .... Wonder if hair stylists really feel that two heads are better than one what with the popularity of wigs and wiglets that must be "done" every week.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What is left of the 1969-70 school year currently is being terminated by graduation or collapse, and already college administrations are preparing curricula for next fall.

Since the demand for educational "relevance" is so great these days, here are some of the new courses that probably will be included in the 1970-71 catalogues:

Demonstrations 110 — Introductory instruction in techniques of organizing and-or inciting protest demonstrations and-or riots. Field work includes one bottle-throwing practice period per week.

Invectives 211 — Advance training in the coinage of epithets to scream at police, guardsmen, construction workers and other members of the establishment. Workshop sessions in Gesticulating.

Use of Four-Letter Words

Obscenities 221—A continuation of invectives 211. Special emphasis given to use of four-letter words in graffiti, in defacing public buildings and in incongrouous environments, such as church.

Disruptions 120—A continuation of Demonstrations 110. Classes will be held in auditorium. Illustrated lectures on disrupting meetings, including methods of seizing microphones, rushing podiums and drowning out other speakers.

Disruptions 121—Recommended as supplementary course for students who have completed Disruptions 120. Instruction will emphasize heckling and catcalling, both in open air and indoor audiences.

Negotiations 111—Elementary instruction in drawing up and negotiating nonAnegotiable demands. Latter phase includes latest means of seizing control of administrative offices, overturning file cabinets and binding deans to swivel chairs.

Modern Techniques Taught

Judge-baiting 413 — Modern techniques for getting a judge's goat without being held in contempt of court. Includes instruction from standpoint sof both defendants and courtroom spectators.

Public Relations 420—Prerequisites are Demonstrations 110, Invectives 211, Disruptions 120-121. Instruction in performance of these activities in such a manner as to obtain maximum television exposure.

Pamphleteering 312—Instruction in distributing pamphlets and leaflets to passing motorists in such a way as to cause a five-block traffic jam.

Exits 112—Illustrated lectures on various ways to make dramatic exits from auditoriums as a means of protesting something being said or done on platform or stage.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The limitations on America's involvement in Cambodia are still murky.

This much is known:

—At the end of June, all U.S. troops will be out of Cambodia and U.S. warplanes will cease bombing inside the formerly neutral country.

—U.S. troops will not be sent back into Cambodia, but the bombing will be resumed if the security of U.S. forces in South Vietnam is threatened.

Broad Umbrella

This security element is the broad umbrella President Nixon used originally to justify the controversial Cambodia operations. Translated into practical language it means, according to informed sources, that continuing military operations by South Vietnamese forces inside Cambodia will not be supported by American warplanes or advisers.

But American planes will bomb supply trails and storage areas if the North Vietnamese attempt to re-establish their border sanctuaries.

What is less clear is how far President Nixon is willing to go to prevent a Communist takeover in Cambodia.

In the view of some, such a takeover would create a situation similar to what the United States has been fighting for six years to prevent in neighboring South Vietnam.

The emphasis in all the statements emanating from the White House has been on "U.S. security"—that the Cambodian operations were prompted by the threat to American forces in South Vietnam.

Official Position

As far as Cambodia itself is concerned, the official position simply is that the United States supports its neutrality.

The President apparently is counting on the ability of the South Vietnamese army—with some help perhaps from Thailand—to sufficiently bolster the forces of the Cambodian government to deal with the Communists there.

According to administration officials, the President believes that the North Vietnamese now more want to become involved in Cambodia than we do, and their interest there is in having a safe sanctuary from which to conduct operations in South Vietnam.

Nixon's critics will charge that he is waging war in Cambodia through surrogates. The administration position is that this is a legitimate implementation of the Nixon doctrine, outlined in Guam last June, which calls for regional alliances for mutual self protection.

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Gov. Albert P. Brewer, commenting about his loss to George C. Wallace in the gubernatorial runoff election, said the campaign was:

"The dirtiest I've ever seen in my political life."

Her Children Drowned As Her Pleas Were Met With Laughter

WALSENBURG, Colo. (UPI) —Three of her children were drowning and Mrs. Fred Pino rushed to her telephone to call for help. But her pleas on a party line that was in use—were met with laughter.

She cried into the telephone: "Oh God, please!"

Two persons already on the line laughed and ridiculed Mrs. Pino. When the woman finally managed to get help, her sons were dead.

Freddie, who would have been 14 Wednesday; Ruben, 12, and Richard, 10, drowned as their mother futilely attempted to summon help.

They died Tuesday afternoon in a small pond north of Walsenburg, trying to capture duck they thought was their pet.

Ruben jumped on a plank floating in the pond, paddled away from shore, but lost his balance and fell into the pond. Both Freddie and Richard went into the pond to save Ruben, but none of the boys could swim.

A fourth brother, Anthony, 9, ran to the family home about one mile away and told his mother who then tried to call for help.

A state law in Colorado imposes a sentence of 90 days or a fine of $1,000 for conviction of failure to yield a party line in an emergency. Officials in Walsenburg refused to say whether action would be instigated.

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, praising the Cambodian offensive:

"I can now state that this has been the most succesful operation of this long and very difficult war."

PAY RESPECTS

BELGRADE (UPI)—Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon paid their respects Tuesday to Yugoslav President Tito and his wife on the second day of their visit to Yugoslavia.

The princess told Yugoslav newsmen that Tito, 78, is "an extraordinary man . . . I feel deep admiration for his n[illegible] having changed at all since I first saw him 17 years ago."

Highlights And Sidelights From The State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Search for treasure off Padre Island will continue in a big way this summer.

Texas Antiquities Committee granted a reconnaissance permit to the Institute for Underwater Research Inc. to pinpoint locations of additional 16th century Spanish galleons believed to have sunk in Padre area waters.

A giant survey, using geophysical detection devices and scuba divers, may serve as the basis for a state master plan for protection, study and possible future excavation of submerged historic sites.

State agencies, including the Land Office and major universities, will cooperate. Antiquities Committee granted $7[illegible]2 to assist Underwater Research, a non-profit corporation financed with private foundation funds.

"It sounds good to me," commented Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, storm center of the controversy over disposition of treasure recovered from an ancient Spanish galleon off Padre in 1967.

Antiquities Committee Chairman J. Fred Wendorf said there is good historical evidence that a fleet of Spanish ships was wrecked along the Texas coast in 1553. Committee, Dr. Wendorf emphasized, wants to prevent future looting by profit seekers and to preserve remaining ships so that historic data and artifacts may be retained by the state.

Committee also put up $6,000 to hire graduate students to compile inventory of major archeological land sites in Texas. Inventory would enable sites to be nominated to National Register of Historic Places and gain some protection from future destruction.

Wendorf, meanwhile, issued a new statement telling amateur treasure hunters, coffectors and beachcombers not to think the Committee is spoiling their fun.

Committee permits are required to dig on state or public land. But activities on private lands are covered only where property is declared a State archeological landmark, and so far none has been so identified.

SCHOOLS TROUBLED — Spokesmen for large ,small and medium-sized school districts told a special study committee they face dire financial problems.

Big city districts urged a more-equitable formula for dispensing state aid.

"Small disrticts have twice as much taxable wealth per student and receive 13 per cent more state aid per student," said Dr. Marvin H. Berkeley, Dallas Independent School District President.

Eighteen-member committee headed by veteran Sen. A.M. Aikin Jr. of Paris was authorized by the last Legislature to study the financial relationship between state and local districts and examine structure of current economic index for schools. In its first session the Committee heard financial woes of Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, New Braunfels and Lumberton school districts.

WELFARE COST SOARING — Predictions about cost to Texas taxpayers of new federal welfare legislation get steadily more alarming.

APPOINTMENTS — Gov. Preston Smith announced these appointmenst:

Committee to Study Employer-Employe Relations — William Norwood Hollis and Don Horn of Houston, Tommy V. Smith of Austin, Angus S. McSwain Jr. of Waco and W.T. Satterwhite of Dallas.

Nueces River Conservation and Reclamation District Board — Joe E. Briscoe of Devine.

Advisory Committee on Physical Fitness — Rep. Robert L. Armstrong of Austin and Rollin Sininger of Nacogdoches.

Coastal Industrial Water Authority Board — Buster Eugene French of Dayton (reappointment) and James D. Dannenbaum of Houston.

INSURANCE HEARING SLATED — State Board of Insurance announced investment income of insurance companies writing auto coverage in Texas and its effect on rates will be the major subject of a speical hearing on July 14-15.

Main hearing on statewide automobile rates is tentatively set for August 17. Board promised study and review of the entire rating formula.

AG RULES — Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin slapped down Texas Water Development Board's plan to commit itself to the purchase of political subdivision bonds in the future, subject to availability of the funds at marketable interest rates.

At the same time, Martin held constitutional a 1969 statute aimed at authorizing political subdivisions to purchase water development board bonds and sell them at a discount. Opinion put the Board out of water project aid business for the time being.

Martin also upheld the constitutionality of the new destination franchise tax on out-of-state firms selling products in Texas, but said it can't be collected on strictly-mail order businesses.

On other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

—County judge cannot grant misdemeanor probation to anyone who has received probationary sentence during the preceding five-year period.

—Cottonseed in physical possession of Valley Co-Op Mill in Cameron County on Jan. 1 is exempt from property taxes.

—In a county having only a single jail facility, it must be at the county seat.

—County commissioners, by unanimous consent, may allow temporary flooding of a county road if a suitable alternate route is provided.

—State Board of Health may not by rules expand the amount of equipment to be carried by ambulance, but may define minimum contents of first-aid kits.

—Purchases under $2,000 may be subsequently ratified at the county commissioners meeting.

—Board of Examiners in Fitting and Dispensing of Hearing Aids can require recording of aid serial numbers on the bill of sale. Any person who can pass the exam or qaulifies under the "grandfather clause" or reciprocity provisions is entitled to a license to fit and dispense hearing aids.

—Lump sum payment in addition to monthly pension can be paid to a retired fireman or survivor if additional payment was adopted at the time he was an active fulltime fireman or prior to that time.

COURTS SPEAK

State Supreme Court, in a Beaumont case, upheld the state law requiring that barber colleges have at least 2,800 square feet and a minimum of 20 chairs in a permanent structure.

In other cases the High Court held that:

—As an historic site, the home of Texas patriot Jose Antonio Navarro in San Antonio is exempt from property taxes.

—A Dallas insurance company owes $213,355 in 1967 personal property taxes, instead of $33,367 it offered to pay.

High Court agreed to review the Amarillo case in which a couple demand damages from a doctor, alleging negligence in pregnancy care of wife.

Third Court of Civil Appeals overturned State Savings and Loan Commissioner Sale Lewis' "Start" programs.

order granting authority Brenham savings association to open an "agency" in La Grange.

CARGO ROUTES APPROVED — Texas Aeronautics Commission has approved its first intrastate cargo routes. They were assigned to four Texas airlines.

Certificates went to Lubbock - Amarillo Armored Service Inc. (West Texas, Plains, Permian Bastin); American Courier Corp. (extending from Central Texas to the Mexican border and as far east as Texarkana); Aztec Airways Inc. (west and north Texas); and Tricon International Airlines (Austin, Gainesville, Longview, Temple, Tyler and Waco).

SHORT SNORTS

Texas will be among the first seven states to participate in a new data system to trace school and health progress of migrant children.

Hueco Tanks (near El Paso), Dinosaur—Valley (near Glen Rose) and Pedernales Falls state parks opened June 1.

Edna, Fredericksburg, Flatonia and Uvalde received new child development grants of $21,821, $45,454, $18,951, and $11,810 respectively for "Head Start" programs.

TOKENS OF fond farewell were extended Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fatheree pictured here with Pampa Chamber of Commerce president Don Lane, right, during special ceremonies Wednesday in the Coronado Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Fatheree are moving to Amarillo after many year's residence in Pampa. Mrs. Fatheree, former Pampa High School counselor, will assume a similar position with a Canyon junior high school. Due to company merger, Mr. Fatheree will be working in a Amarillo tobacco and confectioner's office. (Staff Photo)

Texas Journalist Suggests State Start Own Oil Company

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) —A Texas journalist suggested Wednesday that the State of Texas start its own oil company as a means of fighting pollution.

Ronnie Dugger, publisher of the Texas Observer, testified at a joint legislative committee that the State Railroad Commission has been so penetrated and "overwhelmed" by the oil industry that it has failed in attempts to regulate the industry.

In addition to the proposal for a state oil company, Dugger also suggested criminal sanctions against individual employes of firms responsible for pollution, and a legal consolidation of efforts to defend the environment.

He suggested profits from the sale of oil and gas produced by the state could go into an environmental defense fund.

"The oil industry would get this message from us more than they would get the message of antipollution taxes they know they can pass on," Dugger said. "They would know that the longer they keep on polluting our rivers, our beaches, and our bays, the more we're going to favor trading at the public oil company pumps."

He said the oil industry now has "three distrinct kinds of special privileges — proration, import controls and tax advantages."

Dugger said state officials deny that they control oil prices, but he said the monthly allowable set by the railroad commission determines the supply, and thus the price.

VIENNA (UPI)—Tens of thousands of rescue workers, soldiers, students and amnestied prisoners strengthened dams today against the flood waters of the Danube, three times its normal size.

The height of the flood is expected to come within 10 days when the crest reaches the Danube Delta.

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (UPI)—The Bluff Vue drive-in theater recently showed "Midnight Cowboy," which won an Oscar as the best picture of the year.

Authorities confiscated the film, arrested theater Manager Floyd Allred and charged him with showing obscene material.

Defendant Stabs Girl With Pencil

DETROIT (UPI)—A defendant in a murder trial stabbed a former girl friend in the neck with a pencil as she was approaching the witness stand to testify Wednesday, police said.

Recorder's Court Judge Joseph E. Maher immediately declared a mistrial and the witness, Lily Marie Nash, 20, was rushed to Detroit General Hospital, where the pencil was removed from her neck.

Her condition was described as "temporarily serious."

WASHINGTON Commissioner Charles C. Edwards of the Food and Drug Administration, announcing the approval for the marketing of a prescription drug called L-dopa for treatment of Parkinson's Disease:

"This new drug shows promise of being one of the major drug discoveries of recent years."

JOIN HAZLEWOOD'S FIGHT AGAINST
RIOTS IN OUR STATE UNIVERSITIES

The right of dissent is guaranteed by the Constitution, but dissent must be voiced peaceably. Mob violence is not the American way. On May 5th an arrogant mob of students who should have been in school tried to take over your State Capitol. They carried flags of rebellion into the rotunda itself. It was necessary for police to use tear gas to empty the halls of the capitol building.
Dissent had become violent and invited tragedy. It is unthinkable that tax supported universities should become the battleground for the transmission of alien philosophies by outside agitators and a small ring of far-left professors, but this is what is happening. I propose that it be stopped with legislation requiring swift expulsion and prosecution of those responsible for it.
JACK HAZLEWOOD WILL FIGHT TO STOP THESE RIOTS!

HIGHER UTILITY BILLS

When are we going to see an end to this seemingly endless stream of increases made by the Utility Companies?
Jack Hazlewood has promised you that he will fight for you in the Texas Senate to stop these unwarranted increases.
His opponent is a utility company lawyer. Sherman represents these companies in court. It would therefore be a conflict of interest for him to fight these same companies in the Texas Senate. Therefore, Sherman could not be counted on to fight this battle against inflation.

HIGHER HOME & AUTO INSURANCE
Automobile Insurance proposed increase-15-20%. Homeowners Insurance to be increased 25%. When are we going to see an end to this seemingly endless stream of increases made by the insurance companies?
Jack Hazlewood has promised you that he will fight for you in the Texas Senate to stop these unwarranted increases.
His opponent is an insurance company lawyer. Sherman represents these companies in court. Also Sherman is a director of one of the largest insurance companies in the State. It would therefore be a conflict of interest for him to fight these same companies in the Texas Senate. Therefore, Sherman could not be counted on to fight this battle against inflation.

JACK HAZLEWOOD WILL WORK HARD FOR IMPROVEMENT IN THESE OTHER AREAS TOO!

AGRI-BUSINESS—full development of the fantastic future of the Panhandle as the nation's leading agri-business complex.
INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT—attracting enterprise and industry to the Panhandle.
WATER—Continued efforts in the development of a master water plan to assure the future of irrigated farming and ranching in the Panhandle.
ANTI-POLLUTION—Find ways to keep our water and air clean.
LAW ENFORCEMENT—reform of the criminal laws to make punishment for crime more certain.
EDUCATION—progress in the pursuit of excellence in the public schools.

Inside Information Relating To Acquiring Industry Told At Meet

Pampa Chamber of Commerce directors and Industrial Foundation officials yesterday heard an explanation of an economic research study which reveals those industries best adapted to the communities in the local service area of Southwestern Public Service Co., prepared by Arthur D. Little, Inc., nationally-known management consulting and research organization.

The confidential information in the study is being made available to Pampa and other communities in the electric company's service area which have a going program for industrial and area development.

The three Amarillo men were introduced by Gordon Lyons, local SWPS manager at the meeting in Coronado Inn.

Larry Milner, manager of Industrial Development for SWPS, told the local group that the study allows the electric company to sight in on target industries for this area, those which best utilize the natural, human and geographic resources of the region.

"We have developed a national advertising program, including direct mail and trade paper insertions, which will be aimed at those industries which the surveys show are most compatible to this region. We'll start with those with the most plus factors and work through the list," Milner said.

Emphasizing the highly competitive nature of industrial and area development, Eloin Schofield, industrial development consultant, urged the local industrial development team to make use of the information but to not broadcast it because much of the information in the study will apply to adjacent areas as well as the territory served by Southwestern Public Service Co.

The economic research study points out what industries should be sought by communities in the area and why. Several types of industry are available to nearly all towns in the region while there are a number for which only one or two communities have the desired elements.

Roger Owen, SWPS are development manager, stated the survey revealed that among the strengths of the region are a high quality labor supply, an excelent business cimate andl the strengths of the region are a high quality labor supply, an excellent business climate and exceptional transportation facilities for shipment in any direction.

The study indicates that continued vertical integration of tegration means adding value the area's agricultural production is vital to continued industrial growth. Vertical into the raw product and shipping out of the area a finished consumer product rather than a raw material.

"We are telling the communities we serve which are interested in industrial development what we are going to do as a result of the study and offering them the opportunity to integrate their efforts with ours. We are going to offer industries on the survey list anything and everything they want to know, including plant location studies. We want to get the communities and industries which match together, because that's what industrial development is all about," Milner concluded.

A copy of the study is available in the local office of the Southwestern Public Service Company for use by the local industrial development team.

Soyuz 9 Crew Practices Navigating By The Stars

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS

MOSCOW (UPI)—The two-man crew of Soyuz practiced navigating by the stars today on the third day of a flight that could challenge the U.S. record for the longest manned orbit.

Astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell circled the earth 14 days, 18 hours in 1965 in the longest space flight to date.

Soyuz 9, orbiting at altitudes ranging from 152 to 164 miles, completed its 38th orbit this morning and the Soviet news agency Tass reported all was going well aboard the craft.

Tass said the command pilot, Col. Andrian Nikolayev, and flight engineer Vitaly Sevastianov "carried out observation of celestial bodies and experiments in astronavigation by means of on-board optical equipment."

"They are in an excellent mood," Tass said.

Medical sources said the major aim of the flight was to solve problems of human endurance in space to clear the way for orbiting a space platform.

The Soviets, according to sparse published reports, are uneasy about the effects of prolonged weightlessness, artificial atmosphere and radiation exposure in the months-long periods which cosmonauts would serve aboard space platforms.

Space sources considered one of the objectives of Soyuz 9, with a veteran space flier like Nikolayev aboard, was to assess the possible misjudgments of man in space.

Tass said "The end goal of this vast program, calculated for a long period, is to create lasting orbital stations for constant observation of the earth's atmosphere, of life in its continents and oceans, and for conducting astronomical research."

Ground control at the Baikonur Space Center ordered the two cosmonauts to step up their exercises Wednesday when they found they were neglecting them because they were busy with experiments, the newspaper Izvestia reported.

Izvestia said Baikonur told the men "do your exercises, even at the expense of the experiments."

BIRTH CONTROL

JACKSON, Tenn. (UPI)—The City Council Tuesday passed an ordinance limiting to three the number of cats that may be owned by a resident.

Mayor Bob Conger said the statute was prompted by citizen complaints about cats running free in the city. He said a public hearing would be held June 12.

Asked how the ordinance would affect the owners of newborn kittens, Conger said, "The litter would be in violation if it numbered more than three."

Work Begins On Memorial Library

PANHANDLE (Spl) — Conction began this week on the $125,000 Callaghan Memorial Library. It is expected the library will be ready for use in early 1971.

Construction of the library was made possible by a gift of $75,000 from the H.J. "Friday" Hughes Foundation as a memorial to the late Judge and Mrs. Asbery Callaghan, pioneer civic leaders of Panhandle.

Another $50,000 to help pay for the building and furnishings will come from the Texas State Library, according to Howard Lane, library building chairman.

E.F. Rittenberry, Amarillo architect, and E.P. Taylor, contractor, have issued contract calls for the project, which should be completed in 140 working days. A penalty of $100 a day may be levied for all days in excess of 140.

Dancers To Offer Specialty Acts For Annual Revue

Madeline Graves' dance students will perform a variety of tap, jazz, and acrobatic numbers in their annual revue at 8 p.m. Saturday in Pampa High School Auditorium.

The show will be divided into two sections of tap; jazz and acrobatic performances in "Footlight Follies," and a special ballet performance of "Coppelia."

Among the 22 specialty acts in "Footlight Follies" are "Toot Toot Tootsie," "The Go Go Go," "San Jose," "Charade," "New Orleans," "Rose of Washington Square," "Don't Tell Mama," "Pony Gallop," and "George M. Cohen."

Disease and insects kill more U.S. timber than does fire. Foresters have found the best remedy is to remove the affected trees. Most of them are overmature, but highly usable for wood products.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Wash Painted Shutters With Mild Soap, Brush

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. C.E.H. might wash her painted shutters the same way that I do my varnished louvered doors. I use a soft bristle brush that is well-broken-in and a very mild soap. I stuff a length of flannel cloth in a slot between louvers so that only about six slats are showing at a time. The rest are covered, front and back, with the flannel, which absorbs any drips and prevents discoloration or excess soaking of the wood which might cause cracking or splintering. I scrub the backs, then the fronts, aiming the brush between the slots. Rinse well and dry. Then the flannel is moved to six more slats and so on. If too much soap is used and rinsing is difficult, a hospital type squirt bottle is excellent for aiming water into those corners.

I go over my varnished louvers about once every three months with a solution of water and vinegar and just wipe them off. Vinegar cuts the grease and leaves the varnish sparkling. I only do the big washing job about once a year, which is enough when the vinegar and water is used between the big cleanings.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would be grateful if some kind person would tell me whether or not it is possible to whiten pearls. I have some beautiful, expensive pearl earrings that have yellowed and do wish I could be able to wear them again.

—MRS. J.H.S.

DEAR POLLY— I suggest that those who wash and clean a lot of silverware wear white cotton gloves. The gloves clean better than a rag and there is no stabbing at fingers with forks. Wash the gloves and hang them away to dry and be ready to use again.

—LORETTA

DEAR POLLY I use my French-fry basket for boiling potatoes. When they are ready to be mashed, all I have to do is lift the basket out of the boiling water and they are quickly drained without any burned fingers.

Specialist Warns Parents On Lisp

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's no need to worry about a toddler's lisp. But do worry if it continues into the seventh or eighth year.

The lisp or other speech problems in childhood can signal real trouble ahead. Catch such trouble quickly.

"It would be unrealistic if we expected a child to be able to say the "S" sound before he was three or four," says John E. Bryant, an authority on speech defects. "This does not mean, however that he cannot be helped to master all—or most—of the sounds of speech before he reaches seven and a half."

Speech develops in various stages from the "early cries of discomfort caused by hunger, pain and wet diapers" until at about age two the child begins using speech to communicate. But there are problems which can interfere with normal speech development, says Bryant.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few years back you could have been elected The Sweetheart of the Barbers Association when you told mothers to take Junior to the barber shop after school rather than wait for Saturday — the only time when most working men can get their hair cut.

We need your help again, Abby. Now that men are wearing their hair longer, customers who used to come in every week, or twice a month, are going without haircuts for six weeks and even two months!

That's bad enough, but when they do come in, it takes us twice as long to give them a decent haircut.

Would we be justified in charging double for the long-haired guys who come in half as often and take up twice as much time?

JAKE THE BARBER
(THE EMIS)

DEAR JAKE: It's jake with me. Otherwise it will be you barbers who'll get the trimming.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15, and my mother died four years ago. My father is now going with a lady who is very nice, and it looks like he might marry her.

Abby, when my mother died, her mother (my grandmother) took it very hard. She is still not over it yet, as I sometimes see her crying, and I just know if my Daddy got married again it would cause my grandmother terrible grief.

I am really not very much in favor of my father's getting married again either, because nobody could ever take my mother's place. Do you think I am being selfish to feel this way?

SELFISH GIRL

DEAR SELFISH: If you would want your father to live the rest of his life alone, grieving for your mother, you are indeed selfish. And if your grandmother would be caused "terrible grief" should your father find happiness again, then she is selfish, too.

I hope there is a special reward in heaven for women who have the courage to marry widowers with teen-aged children. There is precious little reward for most of them here on earth.

SOME POINTS FOR CONSIDERATION . . .

- I think it is absurb that many murderers and other law breakers are constantly getting off on bond, receiving short prison terms, or getting suspended sentences and then are allowed to roam our streets again. I am againnst this, and I favor strengthening our court system and changing our laws which presently allow this to occur.
- I believe that the greatest threat to America is Communism. I recommend legislation to prevent Communists from speaking on our college campus. I also believe our public education system should keep a loyalty oath to prevent Communists and Socialists from teaching anti-American propaganda in our schools and universities.
- I believe that children should be allowed to pray in public schools.
- I am against going head-first into costly government programs which are initated and then are either forgotton about or are abandoned, wasting huge sums of our tax money. Thus, I would support legislation which would allow for maximum economy in state government and I would see that every citizen received a dollar's worth of benefit for every tax dollar which is spent.
- I oppose bussing school students to foriegn school districts. If a family lives in a location which is conveniently located near a school of their choice, I don't see why their children sold be forced to attend a school on the other side of town or on the other side of the country.
- I am against gun control by the federal government.
- I believe that responsible people can handle their own local affairs without interference from people in the federal government, who do not really understand the problems in our rural towns and communities.

These Ideals can and must be accomplished. With your help, I will do everything I can to see that these challenges are met and handled to the best of your wishes.

God To Punish Rich America?

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

God's judgment on a rich nation that permits some of its people to go hungry was voiced more than 2,600 years ago through the great Hebrew prophet Jeremiah.

Jeremiah told the then-prosperous kingdom of Judah it would be punished by God because it had grown "rich and grand" and yet refused to "grant justice to the poor."

This week, in thousands of churches and synagogues across the land, Christians and Jews will remember Jeremiah's warning, and consider its application to a bill now pending before the U.S. Congress.

"Justice to the poor" will be the theme of sermons and discussion groups dealing with the need for reform of America's welfare system.

The nationwide observance of Welfare Reform Week is being sponsored jointly by the National Council of Churches, the U.S. Catholic Conference, and the Synagogue Council of America.

Its purpose is to stimulate public support for welfare reform legislation along lines proposed by President Nixon.

The Nixon proposal was approved by the House of Representaitves April 16 by a vote of 243 to 155. It now awaits Senate action.

Without taking a stand on specific provisions of the bill which may be in controversy, the three national religious organizations said it should be clear to all men of good will that "reform of the welfare system is long overdue."

The richest nation on earth, they said, can and must "assist in a humane way those unable to provide adequately for themselves and their families."

Churches Feel Need

Why do churches fell a need to stimulate grass roots public support for a bill that has so much going for it?

The answer is that the bill is jeopardized not so much by organized opposition as by widespread public apathy. As Rep. James C. Corman, D-Calif., has observed, "It appears that 95 per cent of white suburbia is interested in welfare reform only if it means spending less money."

It is hard to believe that well-fed Americans have really become that cold-hearted, self-centered and indifferent to the needs of the poor.

If they have, those who claim to believe in God would do well to spend this weekend reading Jeremiah...or Amos...or Hosea...or the Gospel according to St. Luke...or the First Epistle of John...or almost any other book of the Old or New Testament.

Has the Lord Forsaken the Earth?.....

Ezekiel 8:12.

Then said he unto me, Son of Man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery? For they say, the Lord seeth us not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

In this scripture it seems that Israel was thinking that the Lord had washed his hands of this earth, but this was not true. God has never done such a thing, and neither will He ever forget His people. .....

There is much darkness that is covering the whole Universe, and men have forgotten that God still exists as they go about living in sin and committing abominations as Israel did in their day. But God is trying to help all humanity through His great love — the greatest jewel in heaven was given to this world that man could escape the fierceness and the wrath of our God.

The four greater sins of Israel were:

1. Offering incense before images and pictures painted on the walls.
2. Honoring and worshipping unclean animals as Gods.
3. Saying the Lord does not see because we are worshipping in darkness.
4. Saying that God Jehovah had forsaken the earth.

Today we are living in a different age than Israel lived in but we are serving the same God that they served. God has given America all the good things to enjoy here in this life and has promised us life eternal in the life to come.

God wants the people of this world:

1. To offer our praises unto Him and not to images as Israel did.
2. To worship the God of heaven and not the things that are in this world.
3. To realize that God sees all that man does and darkness cannot stop Him. He looks at every heart.
4. To remember that God has not forsaken this earth.....

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—There must be something amiss with Liza Minnelli, the brilliant daughter of Judy Garland who was nominated for an Oscar last year in her first major movie role.

Liza simply isn't behaving normally for a young feminine movie star.

She has missed out on mass rock festivals, has borne no babies out of wedlock, refused to picket or invade military installations and so far as is known does not live on Indian reservations to demonstrate her empathy.

Mia Farrow, Jane Fonda and other passionate young actresses have harvested tons of publicity by some of these means.

Why, then, has Liza—whose mother and father surpass most show biz parents in fame—been such a stick-in-the-mud, refusing to make her sociological, political and personal feelings a national issue?

Her huge, liquid brown eyes filled with humor: "I dunno."

She was rehearsing her first television special at NBC (to be aired June 29) and wore slacks, a sweater and her hair a'tangle.

"I contribute to the Indian cause," she said. "But you don't have to live and suffer with them to help. Maybe if I felt a need to do that I would.

"But I've suffered enough in my life.

"Maybe some of the other actresses my age are looking for something. I don't demonstrate like Jane Fonda or create excitement like Mia. If that's what they want, okay.

"I was raised with so much drama I don't crave it. I'm an observer and like to draw a line between what is fantasy and what is not. My mother was never allowed to make that distinction.

Crazy World Of Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's major cities "have become too big to be manageable."

The only way to render them fit for human habitation is to carve them up into smaller communities, each having control of its own destiny.

So says Dr. Hubert G. Locke, a former urban planner for the Detroit city government who now is professor of human relations at Wayne State University.

In a recent lecture at his university, on which he elaborated in an interview with UPI, Locke said Detroit, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and other major cities have grown to the point that it is almost impossible for them to be governed, policed, and kept clean.

"Simply Too Big"

"Our cities are simply too big for any of us to entertain any reasonable hope of establishing a sense of community—either community identity, community involvement or community responsibility. And without a sense of community, our best efforts to make cities livable will lead only to further frustration, decay and chaos."

A problem so immense calls for a radical solution, Locke said.

"I propose therefore that we set ourselves to the urgent task of breaking up our cities into more meaningful and manageable community units—that we decentralize cities in such a way that citizens can begin to regain a sense of confidence in the processes of the city, to feel that their voices will be heard, their decisions counted and their judgments taken seriously."

Anticipates Objection

Locke, a Negro, anticipated the objection that his proposed suburban communities would tend to be all-black or all-white.

"We know enough to know that where black people and white people are freely drawn together by common interests that transcend race, racial integration can and does take place. And this concept of community organization would encourage that kind of mutually accepted integration."

From the black viewpoint, he said, the plan is attractive because it would permit black community control. It also would facilitate "experimentation with the use of primarily black teachers, police officers, social workers and other professionals in a primarily black community to see if that would make a difference in dealing with such problems as education, law enforcement and social welfare."

Why pay up to $259* more for a compact when Maverick gives you all this?

Why pay more when Maverick saves you money right from the start? And however you figure it . . . size, power, economy . . . Maverick gives you more in the bargain!

Maverick is no lightweight. Its wide tread and stability makes for a sure grip on the road. Yet there's no excess weight to cause acceleration lag or reduce fuel economy.

Maverick is perky. Some competitive makes have four cylinders. Maverick's got a 170 CID six-cylinder that delivers 105 hp. It gets you up to expressway speeds in less than 15 seconds . . . without getting you in hock at the gas pumps.

Maverick is economical to drive. Test drivers averaged 22.5 mpg in simulated actual driving conditions. This means you could go up to 350 miles or more between gas stops.

Maverick is simple to park. It's less than 15 feet long and has a turning diameter of only 35.6 feet. So you can nip in and out of tight parking spots and tough traffic, easier than the big guys.

Maverick is simple to maintain. You can do it yourself. The Maverick Owner's Manual is packed with simple diagrams and instructions.

Maverick is easy to own. So easy, in fact, with its low, low price, that you can even move up to a jazzy Maverick Grabber and still beat that compact price.

Maverick is America's biggest selling small car. And that means you can expect top dollar resale value when it comes time to trade. Maverick just doesn't know how to stop saving for you.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Human And Property Rights

A recurring theme heard today as a result of the injuries and deaths of students in the campus riots across the country is the slogan, "human rights are more important than property rights." Many who use this slogan do so to try to justify their acts against the persons, rights and property of others. They hide behind it that they may attack others and be, themselves, immune from harm.

Others, who may not be participants in the riots, are nevertheless alarmed and concerned at what they see as callous, brutal treatment of life, which they rightly judge as sacred, as measured against a building. And they have a point, as far as they go. The trouble is, they do not carry their realization of life far enough.

Many ancient tribes had a deeper understanding and sense of responsibility toward life than this. Among these primitive peoples, the penalty for theft or destruction of the seed corn was death. These people clearly saw that their future survival, the lives of themselves and their children depended upon the availability of seed for the coming season no matter how much they suffered during the harsh winter. Yet seed is property. Where is the line between property rights and human rights?

Man has, through the centuries, instinctively held on to and implemented as best he knew how, his still primitive and faulty comprehension of the interrelation of life and property. In recent years ecologists, zoologists, and some anthropologists have become aware of the depth of this interrelationship, arising as it seems to do, out of nature's own provision for it on an instinctive level in the lower animal orders.

Through the years, also, many of mankind's greatest thinkers have given this relationship attention and have written on it from many points of view — as religious teachers, as economists, as philosophers.

But in our time has developed a comprehensive and profound statement of the irrevocable bonding of human and property rights. It was developed by Andrew J. Galambos as part of his Theory of Volition, taught by him and others of his staff throughout Southern California. For those who wish to clarify and enlarge their understanding on this matter, we recommend these courses, and we reprint here, with his permission, Mr. Galambos' publication, "Thrust for Freedom — No. 2," one of a series of brief statements on some of the basic, but major, definitions of the development of his Theory of Volition.

"What is PROPERTY?"
(Copyright: Andrew J. Galambos)

"Most people think of Property in terms of material possessions. Because of this, many have successfully denounced the morality of the pursuit of material well-being and claimed it produces conflicts with human rights.

"The above is a restricted and erroneous point of view on Property. A more satisfying and total concept arises from the following definition:

"PROPERTY IS INDIVIDUAL MAN'S LIFE AND ALL NON-PROCREATIVE DERIVATIVES OF HIS LIFE.

"Property is the basic of ownership because to own means to have and hold Property. From the definiiton of Property, it follows that man must first own his life before he can own anything else. Life itself is defined as "primordial property." No one may own any man but himself. Thus, Property excludes slavery at the outset.

"The first derivatives of man's life are his thoughts and ideas. Thoughts and ideas are defined as "primary property." From the definition, man owns primary Property and through this ownership, intellectual freedom arises and inspires knowledge and production. From primary Property (ideas) stem actions. Ownership of one's own actions (clearly a Property right) is commonly called "liberty." Liberty, then, as well as life itself, is a Property right. Since all so-called human rights depend upon man's liberty, it follows that ALL HUMAN RIGHTS ARE PROPERTY RIGHTS. There can be no conflict!

"Ideas and actions produce further, or secondary, derivatives. These include the access to and use of land and the production, uitlization, enjoyment, and disposal of material, tangible goods of all kinds.

"These are called "secondary property." They are secondary both logically and chronologically. In all instances, their existence is antedated by primary Property which led to their generation and employment.

"Further derivatives of man's life lead to VOLUNTARY transfers (sales, trades, gifts, etc.) INVOLUNTARY Property transfers are derivative NOT transactions involving Property from the property owner's life, but from the life of the coercer. Therefore, Property ceases to remain Property and is converted to plunder when subjected to involuntary (coercive) transfer.

"Children — being young human beings — have Property rights of their own and cannot themselves be owned; children are not property.

"Your ownership of Property is the basis of all you are, all you have, and all you can hope to achieve.

"Therefore, protect your property as though your life depended upon it. It does!"

On Not Raising Hogs

One of our readers dropped a ditty into the mail the other day. It concerns hog raising. If you raise hogs, or if you don't, you might be interested. Titled "Not-raising Hogs," it starts here:

This letter from a South Carolina low-country county recently made its way to the desk of the secretary of Agriculture:

"Dear Secretary:

"My friend over in Dorchester County received a $1,000 check from the government this year for not raising hogs. This is to inform you that I am going into the not-raising-hogs business. What I want to know is, in your opinion, what is the best kind of farm not to raise hogs on and what are the best kinds of hogs not to raise? I would prefer not to raise Poland Chinas, but, if that is not a good breed not to raise, I will gladly not raise Berkshires or Durocs.

"The hardest work in this business, as far as I can see, is keeping an inventory on how many hogs I haven't raised. My friend in Dorchester County is very happy about the future of his business. He has been raising hogs for 20 years and the best he has ever made was $400 until this year when he got $1,000 for not raising 50 hogs. If I can get $1,000 for not raising 50 hogs, then I will get $2,000 for not raising 100 hogs.

"I plan to operate on a small scale at first, holding myself down to not-raising 4,000 hogs which means I will get $30,000. Now another thing, these hogs I will not raise will not eat 100,000 bushels of corn. I understand that you also pay farmers for not raising corn, so will you pay me also for not raising 100,000 bushels of corn which I will not feed the hogs I'm not raising?"

H. L. Hunt Writes

FEDERAL MONEY FOR REVOLUTIONARIES

The primary purpose of our government is to protect the lives and property of its citizens from force and violence. Yet in the past two years $600,000 in federal funds have gone to revolutionary groups in Southern California alone.

Testifying before the Senate Internal Security subcomittee, Sgt. Robert Thomas of the Los Angeles Police Department explained how the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development have given financial aid to militant groups and individuals.

One HEW grant of $50,000 went to a "student leadership program" at the University of California at Los Angeles. The "student leaders" received training in terrorism and violence. Books used in the course included Mao Tse-tung's "Red Book" and "Essays on Liberation" by Herbert Marcuse. Marcuse himself lectured in the program, as did Sal Castro, who has led violent disruptions of Los Angeles high schools. The course also included viewing a film, "The Battle of Algiers," describing terrorist tactics used against the French in Algeria.

Sgt. Thomas also cited federal scholarship grants of $2,000 each given to 43 students at California State College at Los Angeles who were members of farleft groups. Many of these recipients later organized riots and were indicted by a county grand jury.

The OEO gave $183,000 to the so-called Venice Community Improvement Union in Los Angeles, whose chairman, according to Sgt. Thomas, "is one of the most militant anti-police figures in Venice." Loyal and law-abiding citizens of our country should demand an immediate end to federal financing of revolutionaries.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

At last — the politicians will now be able to wind up and blast hot air over the telley-vee one hour every night. Proper finagling with some pedigreed crooks has resulted in the FCC cutting the National Network programs during TV Prime Time by one hour.

This means that local stations can broadcast only three hours of network fare between 7 and 11 or 6 and 10, depending on the zones. The other hour has to be local — but doesn't exclude political speeches. . .

The Head Squeeze of the commission, Dean Burch, dissented, along with commissioner Robert Wells, but they lost on a vote of 5-2.

So now, the way is open for one full hour of the Pappy Guys and Lard Heads making with the Mahaha on most every subject imaginable, 90 percent of which they know nothing about. . .

As the rule is written, it applies to 377 television stations in the top 50 markets. Other small local stations may run national programs, but if ABC, CBS and NBC don't supply them, then where are they? And the companies say they won't do it.

The commission says that television programming is in over-supply of entertainment, but news isn't. I thought that was what television was primarily for, though there is some doubt they have succeeded.

There just might be more amusement in the politicians talks at that, considering some of the jokes they try to pass off as gospel. . . .

WIT AND WHIMSY

Jim — I hear that your wife is a finished singer!

Sam — Well, not yet, but the neighbors dern near got her last night.

A Western sheriff confiscated a group of slot machines on the basis of a law banning the use of steel traps for catching dumb animals.

Friends are folks who excuse you when you make a fool of yourself.

Mr. Smith, in his wife's opinion, was very stubborn.

Mrs. Smith — You never take any good advice.

Mr. Smith — And you're darned lucky I don't, or you'd still be an old maid.

VIEWPOINT

Those Birds Who Like To Prey On Private Schools

By JESSE HELMS

Bird-watching is an increasingly popular diversion, and an interesting and instructive one, as well. It is often recommended as an antidote to counteract stress and tension. It's not much of a soothing antidote, however, to watch the birds on network television and in the liberal press who have mounted a nationwide campaign to discredit private schools.

Just watch them for awhile. They are a predatory bunch — noisy, destructive, deceptive. They come in all shapes and sizes — and colors, mostly pink and yellow, and occasionally, one suspicions, red.

One of the network newcasts the other evening devoted 20 minutes to one of those "indepth studies" of private schools in, as we recall, the state of Louisiana. From start to finish it was one great put-down. The trouble was, the film that went along with the network newcaster's commentary didn't fit the image that the network newscaster was trying to build. The private school facilities were neat, the children were well-behaved and happy, and the teachers very busy and businesslike.

The newscaster clearly was totally opposed to the private school movement, of course. He began his little discourse with a bit of film taken as classes opened one morning. "Of course," the newscaster sneered sarcastically, "in this private school" — (and how he emphasized that word "private!" — "in this private school, they always begin the school-day with a prayer!"

Then he proceeded to ridicule the facilities. The camera switched to the outside of the school. It was a one-story cinderblock structure. It was painted; it was neat; the grounds were well-kept. Inside, it appeared ample in space, nicely-furnished with desks, blackboards and other furnishings one normally expects to see in a classroom.

Then the network commentator began to present some interviews with the children. Without exception, they stated that they liked their school, that they were learning better than they had in the public schools — that, in every way, they were happier than they had been.

At the end, the commentator summarized all of the faults he could find with the private schools. They didn't have gymnasiums. Most of them didn't yet have cafeterias (thus the children either brought their lunches or walked to their nearby homes for lunch). And, horrors upon horrors, they had not yet been accredited by some faraway accreditation agency. All they had were such things as children there to learn, and competent teachers there to teach, in an atmosphere of calm.

Dr. Norman Wiggins, the capable president of Campbell College, made brief remarks at recent mid-year graduation exercises at his institution, and what he said was significant. To be sure, Dr. Wiggins was speaking of higher education, but he summarized the case for private ecucation all across the spectrum.

"The (government," Dr. Wiggins said, "must never be allowed through a monolithic educational system to capture the whole mind of the American people." He recalled Thomas Mann's observation, shortly after the Second World War, that if Germany had had effective private education, Adolf Hitler could never have successfully indoctrinated the minds of the young, and could not not have risen to such power that his Nazi movement came perilously close to heaping totalitarian ruin upon the entire world.

So, it may be interesting to watch the birds on network television, and in the leftwing press, as they push their campaign to discredit private schools. It would be at least equally instructive to know why such a campaign has been launched. And by whom?

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: — Is communism a form of continuous war? If so, why and how?

ANSWER: — Yes. War makers invariably want control of other people and communists want to control the lives and decisions of other people.

Communists do not want all people to have equal rights and they want those with power to control those who have the least power or least influence.

As Ortega y Gasset says, "Life is nothing but making decisions" and the communists want to make the decisions for other people, therefore, they want to deprive other people of part of their lives. Since war deprives people of part of their lives, communism is a form of continuous war.

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest?" That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their mind. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

OPEN LETTER

To Senator Tower:

I am a recent college graduate (Texas Tech, '67) and am now office manager and accountant for a $4 million food manufacturing firm in Dallas.

My wife and I have a two-month-old baby and, because of our family increase, feel the need to get out of our $160 per month one-bedroom apartment and buy a house of our own. We found a house that appealed to us that costs $22,000. However, the down-payment was $1000 and monthly payments were $209. This pretty well put the house out of our reach, under current high-interest rates.

The real estate agent asked if we could qualify for the FHA "235" plan. When I told him my salary, he laughed and said we couldn't qualify because I make too much money. He explained that if I earned $5670 or less per year, I could qualify! The down-payment would then be $100 and monthly payments would be only $84.

Now, don't you agree, Senator, that this promotes adverse initiative? Personally, I don't think it is justifiable for one who makes $100 per week to be able to buy a $22,000 house when someone else making more money cannot afford the same house!!

Doing some quick calculations, I find that my 1969 income tax would more than pay the difference between the $84 and the $209 house payments for one year. This program does not produce the ambition and initiative that our country was founded upon!

Programs like these will destroy the glamour and respect of such ambition, and eventually, the country itself.

Senator, I hope you will look into this injustice and do what you can to correct it.

JOHN GOLDSMITH — ROBERT ALLEN

Foreign Aid Spending Slashed by Committee

WASHINGTON — A huge $575,578 million cut in foreign aid spending in the fiscal year starting July 1 has been agreed on by the House Appropriations Committee.

The overall total of the new foreign aid budget is $2.3 billion.

That figure is $203 million less than the budget for the current fiscal year.

President Nixon recommended a budget of $2,876 billion. That was a steep $803 million below what was proposed last year. Notwithstanding that huge reduction, the Appropriations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., in charge of foreign aid, pared the President's request by another $575,578 million.

The subcommittee reached its conclusions after many weeks of hearings. Passman, long in the forefront of the opposition to large-scale foreign aid spending, exerted every effort to slash the new budget to the bone.

In the 14 years the vigorous Louisianan has headed this subcommittee (1956-70), more than $12 billion has been lopped from foreign aid budgets submitted by Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon. They have been reduced from a high of $4.859 billion to low of $2.3 billion.

Regarding the latest deep axing the committee's report points out:

"One of the factors considered was the present financial situation confronting the U.S. Our public debt exceeds $370 billion and the balance-of-payments deficit for 1969 exceeded $7 billion. The President also recently announced that revised budget estimates indicate there will be a budget deficit for the fiscal years 1970 and 1971, instead of a surplus as originally estimated in the February budget document.

"The committee feels that federal expenditures must be curtailed in order to combat the destructive effect of inflation on the economy of the U.S. In order to reduce federal obligational authority, which eventually leads to expenditures, and to combat the insidious effect of inflation, the committee has reduced the total for foreign aid below last year's fiscal level by $203 million."

Chairman Passman also pointedly noted that the overall grand total of U.S. foreign assistance from 1946 through 1970 is $199,388,667,000.

"Of the 3½ billion people of the world," he added, "all but 36 million have received aid from the U.S. In the coming fiscal year alone, it is anticipated that 103 countries and territories will receive U.S. foreign aid disbursements."

Under this contemplated program —77 countries will receive economic assistance; 50 military assistance; 81 will receive P.L. 480 (surplus food) assistance; 64 will get Peace Corps assistance.

UNLISTED HEAVY COST — In Chairman Passman's report on the stupendous extent and cost of foreign aid since 1946, he cites one huge expenditure that is not included in these immense outlays.

This is the interest cost to taxpayers of these give-away billions.

Passman puts this unlisted burden at more than $67 billion. He says:

"Since we have had a surplus in the administrative budget only six times since the end of World War II, the committee has estimated that an additional cost of $67,858,067,000 in interest has been incurred to borrow the money we have given to other countries. They include 123 nations and 7 territories around the world."

In a direct slap at the State Department and foreign aid administration, the committee sharply criticizes the practice of continuing to aid countries which expropriate or nationalize U.S.-owned property.

"While the committee realizes," the report says, "that nations around the world are sovereign entities and the U.S. should not try to impose its will over these nations, it is highly critical of the practice of providing increased aid programs or continuing existing programs to countries which are often the most flagrant violators of our foreign aid objectives."

Also criticized by the committee is another questionable administrative practice, as follows:

"During the testimony presented to the committee, it was noticed that many projects didn't reflect a date of possible completion, nor an estimate of the total cost to complete the project. Also, some of the projects presented in prior years which have listed a date of completion and estimated cost had been adjusted.

PRO AND CON

Partisans Having Heyday With Mail On Cambodia

By DON GRAFF
NEA Staff Writer

The Cambodian campaign has already proved one thing — Americans, when aroused, can be the writingest people.

A notable sidelight of the furor over the President's decision to move against the Communist sanctuaries has been the flood of pro and con mail into Washington. The overworked Capitol post office says it may go down as the heaviest outpouring of mail from the public ever received by Congress on a single issue.

And the White House, of course, is also hearing from the people, letters and wires by the bushel.

What the people are saying is another matter, however. That appears to be determined largely by the known positions of the public officials to whom they are saying it.

The White House says its mail is overwhelmingly in support of the President, and congressional allies, such as Sen. Barry Goldwater, say ditto.

Not surprisingly, the President's more outspoken opponents on Capitol Hill come up with very different readings of public sentiment. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, the once mild-mannered Montanan whose vehemence on Cambodia may cost him a reputation for almost saintly political patience, reports record mail running 200 to one against the action.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, whose Foreign Relations Committee has been leading the congressional assault on administration policy, likewise reports "thousands and thousands" of letters and wires overwhelmingly in support of his position.

There is no contradition here. It is not surprising that the President, who has appealed for support, should receive mostly positive expressions. Or that communications from the public — ladies named Mitchell prominently excepted — to noted doves such as Fulbright and Mansfield should run strongly in their favor.

When citizens get fired up enough to say their piece on a major issue, they are strongly inclined to communicate with public officials broadcasting on wavelengths to which they are already attuned.

A comparison of pro and con mail to the White House or to Capitol Hill, or even the grand totals, is not, therefore, to be taken as a necessarily trustworthy measurement of public opinion in toto. The primary significance of the mail in this case is not in the breakdown but in the sheer volume, an eloquent statement as to the depth and breadth of the impression the war issue has made on the public.

We can take some comfort — very welcome at a time in public affairs when comfort is in short supply — in viewing this is evidence of an alert and involved citizenry. Unfortunately, the polarized character of the mail also reflects an ominous development throughout our public discourse — in government, in the press and among individuals.

On this and other crucial issues, Americans are speaking not so much to as at each other. The debate is becoming all talk and no listen.

Somehow, this trend must be reversed.

Single In 9th Starts Yanks

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Jim Rooker of the Kansas City Royals went into the ninth inning shooting for a no-hitter while Lindy McDaniel was warming up in the New York Yankee bullpen. But Rooker not only lost the no hitter, he lost the game, 2-1, in 12 innings. The winner, with a one-hit relief job in three innings, was McDaniel.

Horace Clarke hit Rooker's first pitch in the ninth for a single for the first Yankee hit. Bobby Murcer, after failing to bunt twice, doubled him home to tie the game, 1-1, and Manager Ralph Houk brought McDaniel into the game in the 10th. McDaniel blanked the Royals and the Yanks finally knocked out Rooker when they loaded the bases with one out in the 12th and Moe Drabowsky came on and gave up a sacrifice fly to Clarke.

Rooker, now 3-3, has won only seven major league games and it was a bitter disappointment to get so close and miss it. "I was outguessed," he said. "Clarke usually takes the first pitch so I thought I'd try to get ahead on the count and he hit it."

In other games, Boston beat Minnesota, 6-1, Cleveland downed Milwaukee, 8-4, Chicago beat Washington, 7-3, Oakland beat Baltimore, 4-2, and Detroit nipped California, 4-2.

In the only National League games scheduled, Los Angeles blanked Pittsburgh, 5-0, Houston beat Montreal, 8-0, and Atlanta edged New York, 3-1.

A two-run homer by Frank Fernandez in a three-run sixth inning and a solo homer by Sal Bando in the seventh gave Oakland its victory over Baltimore. The victory moved Oakland to within 6½ games of Minnesota and cut Baltimore's lead over New York to 5½ games.

Al Kaline's 2,499th major league hit—a two-run double in the eighth—snapped a 2-2 tie and paced Detroit to its win over California. Kaline also singled in a run in the third inning.

Mike Andrews and Billy Conigliaro hit sixth inning homers to pace Boston past Minnesota. Sonny Siebert pitched a five-hitter for the Red loss.

Catcher Ray Fosse drove in four runs with a three-run homer in the sixth inning and a single as Cleveland beat Milwaukee. Brewer rookie Ray Peters made his major league debut and was knocked out in the third after giving up six hits and four runs.

65 Teams Registered For Club Partnership

Sixty five teams have registered for Pampa Country Club's fifth annual partnership Golf Tournament Saturday and Sunday.

The tournament committee requests that all teams without starting times contact the golf shop as soon as possible, due to the large field.

Teams will be paired for Saturday's round and again Sunday so that no two teams will play together on consecutive days.

Eighteen holes will be played each day over the 6,110-yard par 71 course. Net aggregate scores will determine the leaders Saturday. The net aggregate is found by adding both gross scores and subtracting both handicaps. Sunday's play will be net best ball.

Entry fee is $30 per team.

A cocktail hour and special events preceeding the tourney will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the club.

The team of Dale Ladd and J.C. Ward won the event last year.

Belmont Race Set Saturday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nine horses were expected to be named today for Saturday's running of the $125,000 added Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park but only three of them were in each of the two earlier Triple Crown classics.

Personality, stablemate High Echelon and My Dad George competed in the Kentucky Derby as well as the Preakness Stakes.

Personality, after finishing eighth at Churchill Downs, won the Preakness. My Dad George was second in both races while High Echelon was third in the Derby and fourth at Pimlico.

Also expected to be named for the Belmont, longest in the series at 1½ miles, were Stop Time and Hark The Lark, who finished up the track in the Preakness, and Delaware Chief, Aggressively, Needles N Pens and Climber, each making a first start in any of the 3-year-old classics.

Personality and High Echelon, both owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, were even-money favorites with Eddie Belmonte on Personality and Johnny Rotz on High Echelon. Ray Broussard rides My Dad George, the second choice at 2 to 1.

Hopes ran high among the hosemen who handle the other starters despite the long odds quoted against their colts.

Reeves Will Seek Open Berth

By DAN PACKARD
Sports Editor

Martin Reeves, assistant pro at Pampa Country Club, will be among 40 golfers in Dallas Monday attempting to qualify for the USGA Open to be held in Chaska, Minn., June 18 through 21.

The 40, who reached Monday's sectionals after qualifying in local competition, will travel 36 holes over the Dallas Athletic Club course in hopes of finishing among the top five and thereby winning a pass to Minnesota.

Those who make the grade in Dallas will be among a field of 150 in the 70th year of the prestigious tourney.

Reeves qualified for the sectionals after a three man playoff in local competition May 2? at Amarillo Country Club when he and Roland Adams of Lubbock defeated Amarillo's Marvin Dick. Reeves and Adams carded scores of 146.

Also qualifying at the Amarillo event were Buddy Hamilton (142) Steve LaCrone (144) and John Farquhar (145).

Some tough competition awaits the Pampa entry in the forms of four regulars John Schlee and Rives McBee, high school standout Ben Crenshaw, Texas University's Tom Kite and five members of the University of Houston golf team.

Schlee led all local qualifiers in Texas with a seven-under-par 135 over the same course which will host the sectional round Monday.

Crenshaw, currently competing in the Texas Amateur, graduated from Austin High School and will attend the University of Texas in the Fall Crenshaw and Kite followed Schlee with 139s.

MARTIN REEVES

The five Houston golfers, who qualified at Houston's Braeburn Country Club are brothers John and Bobby Walzel, John Mahaffey, Bruce Ashworth and Tom Jenkins.

Reeves will renew old high school rivalries Monday against Hamilton and LaCrone. The Pampa assistant competed against both of the former Tascosa golfers during his two years on the Palo Duro team.

As a sophomore, Reeves placed second behind LaCrone for District 3-AAAA medalist honors in 1962 and won the crown as a junior. He finished second in the regional meet both years he played for the Amarillo school.

In all, the 24-year-old golf pro played five years of varsity high school golf. He was a feshman member of the 1961 Hobbs N.M. state champion team before transferring to Amarillo.

Reeves returned to Hobbs in 1963 to win the New Mexico State Junior Golf Championship and district medalist honors in 1964 as a senior.

Recent accomplishments include a victory in Monday's Phillips Pro-Am and back-to-back titles in the West Texas PGA tourney. He won the 1968 edition at Plainview with a 36-hole score of 135 and took the top spot at Odessa last year with a 158 total.

How does Reeves feel about the challenge at Dallas? As he puts it, "I think I'll have a good chanec to qualify if my putter doesn't balk. Lately I've been hitting the ball real well but my putting has been poor."

Reeves observed that the long distance around the Dallas course will be to his advantage. "That course measures 6,800- 6,900 yards long and I like those long courses because you don't have to pull that wedge out so often," he said.

Reeves plans to take his test for PGA membership in September and if he passes he will have his Class A standing by January. An attempt on the pro tour may follow soon after that. "Who knows?" he commented.

Reeves came to Pampa in January of 1967.

Gilbert, Hebert Pacing Kemper Golf Tourney

SC CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) An old pro feeling like a comeback and a young golfer playing his first full year on the professional tour headed into the second round of the $150,000 Kemper Open golf tourney today tied with 6-under-par 66s.

Gibby Gilbert, a 29-year-old Hollywood, Fla., resident who played parttime only two years before going fulltime this season, overcame thundershowers and soggy greens and fairways Thursday to gain a tie for the first-round lead.

Gilbert's 66 on the 7,237 yard Quail Hollow Country Club course gave him a tie for the first-round lead with Lionel Hebert, a 42-year-old Lafayette, LA. golfer who started his tour career in 1957 with four victories and the PGA championship.

Hebert's and Gilbert's 66s gave them a one-stroke lead over Lou Graham, who came in with a 67 over the strength of an eagle on his last hole.

Two strokes back at 68 were Mike Hill, Bob Lunn, Tom Weiskopf and Art Wall.

Eight players jammed up at three-under-par 69s for third place. They were Sam Snead, Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Dewitt Weaver, John Schroeder, Steve Reid, Grier Jones and Bob Stone.

Mathis City Council Accuses Two Patrolmen Of Brutality

MATHIS, Tex. (UPI) — The Mathis City Council passed a resolution Wednesday night accusing two highway patrolmen of brutality and asking Gov. Preston Smith to remove the troopers.

"Investigations of cases filed by said officers have established that they have not followed just law enforcement policies," the resolution said, and added that "it has been established to the satisfaction of the Mathis City Council that these officers have beaten prisoners in their custody in at least one case after the prisoner was handcuffed."

The resolution called upon the governor to remove the two highway patrolmen from the area immediately.

Mayor Winston Bott said the part of the resolution referring to prisoners being beaten involved an incident in the downtown area last week. He said five members of a family and local policemen became involved in a near melee and the highway patrolmen came in to help.

There was no further elaboration on the nature of the accusations.

The Corpus Christi regional office of the Department of Public Safety said that office had not received a copy of the resolution yet.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Will the future development of television cassettes—entertainment and information cartridges played on home video sets—ruin or help the movie business?

A remarkably hopeful essay being privately passed around Hollywood's top echelon, and written for Cinema magazine by Peter Guber, production vice president of Columbia Pictures Corp., takes the unqualified view that cassettes can save movietown.

"Because of a cost crush and shrinking profits," he writes, "Hollywood's majors (big studios) are rushing to rid themselves of stages, equipment, craft services and back lots, together with personnel and executive management necessary to run the complex facilities capable of churning out vast quantities of product."

But, he maintains, "The fomenting revolution will solve all the problems that today appear so consequential. As a result of this new technological innovation and its impact, studios will run on three shifts, 24 hours a day, with the need for product being so enormous that executive studios personnel will once more be steeped in supervision and development of product on a wholesale basis . . ."

That's a mouthful, especially since mass production of cassettes is probably several years off, or more. But Guber reports that institutional buyers, the initial market, "are devouring product as fast as it can be produced." He says CBS "is gearing up" its plant at Rockleigh, N.J., to process cartridges for these buyers, and "its entire first year's output of three million cartridges is sold out."

Guber sees great cassette potential for data sent to vast sales staffs and personnel—and particularly in personalized education resulting from increased school costs and the need for more in-home training.

But what about movie houses themselves? Will they survive? The jury is still out, says Guber.

Backstairs At The Whitehouse

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Odds and ends from the nation's capital—mostly odd:

A federal bureaucrat who had been socializing with some ordinary mortals over lunch drew back his chair and said, "Well, back to the Horse Latitudes."

Dispelling the puzzlement of his companions, the gentleman cited his dictionary's definition of that term:

"Remember those good old Western movies?" inquired the news release. "As a kid, you sat in the front row for 10-cents and cheered the good guy, on palomino horse and wearing white Stetson, as he bagged 20 cattle rustlers with six shots?

"Well, forget it . . . cattle rustlers have gone to trucks, and the good guys have turned to microfilm."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Each day's advance adds greater "significance to last Tuesday's (May 26) low," according to E. F. Hutton & Co. With history as "a test of that low or at least a a guide, the company cautions substantial pullback towards it is still to come" but adds that the current rally "strongly suggests" a large percentage of the new lows reached last Tuesday "also made their lows for the year."

It is the opinion of Moody's Investors Service that last week's rally was sparked by the "investment community's hope of government intervention" to ease inflationary pressures. The rally "could run considerably further," but the company does not foresee "a longer uptrend but rather looks to a hoped-for period of consolidation."

May just could prove to be "the merry month," Hayden, Stone Inc., says, because the technical evidence at last week's "semi-climactic turn . . . was significant and most impressive." The company points to "the continued follow-through by most major growth and especially the low pee stocks" as proof "that buying power had temporarily overcome the persistent selling pressure." It sees as "very noteworthy" a shift in Wall Street atmosphere "toward the bull contingent."

If you are wondering what happened last week the answer —according to the Argus Research Corp.—is "that the individual investors, the silent majority across the country, came charging in last Wednesday to take advantage of the bargain prices." The company believes the market, up to last week, was "paralyzed" by the Cambodian "hysteria," the "exaggerated talk" that the federal budget "was out of control" and by the "irresponsible predictions of a liquidity panic." The company sees confidence being restored and urges investors to "take advantage of the historic buying opportunities offered in top quality stocks."

Bob Hope Would Close Gap With Humor

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Hope would close the generation gap with dialogue and humor.

"Look, I have four kids around this house myself" he said, making a sweeping gesture to encompass his San Fernando Valley mansion. "We've got our own debate going.

"The kids all have a point of view. I think it's good to talk it up and listen to them. Mature adults should do whatever they can to help.

"The thing I don't understand is the violence."

In a recent poll by a national magazine (the Reader's Digest), Hope placed second to the Beatles as the younger generations' favorite entertainer during the 1960s.

Hope, usually considered a firm member of the establishment, was not surprised.

Same Type of Kids

"I visit almost as many colleges and universities as I do military bases. They are the same type of kids. The majority of college students are great, they're just caught up in a web of excitement about serious problems. I'm encouraged that they're involved.

"I'm emotionally involved with today's kids myself. I'd like to see them enjoy their lives as much as I have."

Hope followed Abbie Hoffman, the bearded revolutionary, on the Bradley University campus to speak to the students. His first question: "Was Hoffman wearing Crosby's old clothes?"

The comedian speaks out far more openly in his campus appearances than he does on his television shows, attempting to present a pro-administration foreign policy.

"You'd be surprised how much the kids listen and how many of them turn out," he said.

Talks To Students

"I talk to the students afterwards and most of them take part in demonstrations for kicks. They want to be where the action is. I can understand that.

"The terrible thing is pitting the National Guard against students. That's American kids versus American kids of about the same age.

"They also understand totalitarian countries don't put up with violence. They had one dissenter in Red Square long ago and in 15 minutes he was a peopleburger. The students in Moscow spend recess getting whipped.

"I don't feel a generation gap because I never let anything on the national scene pass without my picking on it.

"Like the kids, I try to keep in touch."

WRONG SOLUTION

HODDESDON, England (UPI)—Local garbagemen have written to their union suggesting that they be supplied with eye-stinging spray guns to combat menacing dogs during their rounds.

The request drew immediate disapproval from the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals which said, "It is not the right solution to the problem since it will cause suffering to the dogs concerned."
