Mafia Refused $100,000 From CIA For Castro Hit?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA was prepared to pay the Mafia as much as $100,000 to kill Cuban premier Fidel Castro at the time of the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, according to informed investigators.

However, the money was turned down by underworld figures Sam Giancana and John Roselli, who agreed to undertake the mission for free, investigative sources said Thursday.

As a result of the proposal, the CIA paid out "less than $10,000, perhaps less than $5,000" in expense money in the scheme to poison Castro, sources said.

Two sources said Roselli testified earlier this year before the Senate Intelligence Committee that he turned down the money because he felt he was performing a patriotic duty.

However, one of those sources said he was skeptical of Roselli's expressed patriotism, saying Castro's death was "probably worth more than $100,000 to him" as a necessary first step toward regaining the Mafia's extensive gambling interests in pre-Castro Cuba.

Published reports last summer also suggested the Mafia had been told it could recover $750,000 supposedly buried in Cuba at the time of the Castro takeover. In addition, the reports said the Mafia would have been allowed to resume gambling operations under a new regime.

Giancana, a Chicago rackets chief, was murdered earlier this year and never testified before the Senate committee.

Many details of the 1971 plot were made public last July by Robert A. Maheu, a former aide to billionaire Howard Hughes. He said he served as a liaison between the CIA and the Mafia. However, the first hint of how much the CIA was willing to pay to have Castro killed came on Wednesday when Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, a member of the Senate intelligence panel made a passing reference to "a $100,000 hit job on Castro."

Reached by phone Thursday in Las Vegas, Committee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, confirmed that "a substantial amount of money was offered" and that the $100,000 figure mentioned by Schweiker was "in the ballpark." However, Church said his panel had heard differing testimony on the exact sum offered. He said, "I wouldn't like to verify the amount" without first checking committee records.

A source reading from notes he took during testimony by those involved in the plot said "at least one" witness cited the $100,000 figure. Another source said the $100,000 figure "would not be inaccurate."

NYC On Brink Of Collapse

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham Beame kept an "open line" to the White House today as President Ford met with high-level government officials to discuss the economic crisis that was forcing New York City to the brink of financial collapse.

State and city officials worked frantically here and in Albany, the state capital, to shore up a multimillion-dollar package of pension funds to meet $453 million in debt obligations the city faced today.

The amount to avoid default was reduced to $394 million in late morning, when the city's 11 major commercial banks said they had agreed not to press for $59 million in city notes due for redemption today.

At the city controller's office, a spokesman said holders of $250 million in notes had already filed for redemption and that several firms, mostly brokers, showed up today with about $30 million more in notes. He said they were given receipts saying they would be exchanged for cash at 2 p.m. — if the cash or its equivalent is available.

PUNCHY, NEW MEMBER OF STAFF — Punchy, a dog of questionable ancestry, wandered into The Herald's back shop today and appeared ready to go right to work at one of the newspaper's "7200" headline setting machines. Punchy was asked to cool her heels while her credentials were checked, so she immediately curled up in the middle of the floor and drifted off to sleep — dreaming of a T-bone, no doubt.

Four Die, Hunt Continues For Six

By The Associated Press

Five persons were killed in two plane crashes and search teams sought six persons missing in two other planes today after a night in which death rode the mostly clear Texas skies.

Four persons were killed when their private plane hit utility wires, plunged into a plowed field, and exploded and burned a few miles west of Robstown in South Texas.

"The bodies were burned beyond recognition," said a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety at nearby Corpus Christi. The plane crashed at 10 p.m.

However, County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Rupp was able later to identify the four dead as Mr. and Mrs. George J. Parker and Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Kassner. Parker was 32 and Kassner was 40. All were from Corpus Christi.

About two hours earlier a small Cessna dived into Lake Hawkins, about 30 miles north of Tyler in East Texas. Officers said none was killed, however, as they at first understood.

Officers said a 15-year-old patient who walked away from the Rusk State Hospital three days ago was in the controls of the Lake Hawkins craft, which had been reported stolen at Jacksonville, 27 miles south of Tyler. He crawled through a window after suffering minor injuries. Four game wardens in a boat rescued him off a wing tip.

Leaders of a Civil Air Patrol search in West Texas for a missing P51 fighter plane reported, meanwhile, that a private plane with four persons aboard had disappeared between Fort Stockton and San Angelo.

CAP officials said the plane with four persons aboard was a single engine Cherokee that took off from Fort Stockton, southwest of San Angelo, and was en route to Lufkin in East Texas with stops at San Angelo, Lometa and Waco. Control tower spokesmen at San Angelo said they made contact with the pilot shortly before 1 p.m. but never heard from him again.

In the course of a nightlong hunt for that aircraft, officers sent out word they had found pieces of light plane wreckage in the Neches River bottom west of Diboll in Angelina County but there was no sign of bodies in the deep mud and dense forest there.

Authorities said a tail section was the largest piece of the red and white debris, and they were checking to see whether it could have been a Beech Bonanza believed to have been flying from Arlington toward Nacogdoches. There was no word on the occupants or their identity.

Meanwhile CAP and other personnel joining in the search effort said there was no trace of the San Angelo-to-Lufkin craft, a yellow and white Cherokee.

Another search was resumed today for the P51, a World War II vintage craft which disappeared Wednesday with two persons on board. That P51 was reported missing after a similar plane crashed near San Angelo and killed its pilot, Capt. Donald J. Plumb of Windsor, Ont., Canada. The missing P51 was flown by Johnny Bolton of Maitland, Fla. With him was Norm Danielson, also of Maitland.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $62-million deal to buy computers for the Agriculture Department was killed after criticism that it might lead to federal snooping into the private lives of farmers and other citizens. The plan was scuttled after Congress a week ago approved a $10.8 billion department appropriations bill, but reduced the fund intended to help pay for the computers.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Peronist movement mustered supporters — and heavy security precautions — for a big rally in the Plaza de Mayo today to demonstrate support for President Isabel Peron. Mrs. Peron, who resumed her office Thursday night after a 32-day rest in northern Argentina, was to address the crowd from the balcony of the presidential building, the podium traditionally used by her late husband, dictator Juan D. Peron. Political observers expected her to give some indication of new policies and her future course.

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Recruiting began today for a march of 350,000 unarmed Moroccan civilians into the Spanish Sahara to reinforce their government's claim to the northern part of the disputed territory and its rich phosphate deposits. Announcing the "peaceful" invasion, King Hassan II said in a broadcast Thursday night that he would lead the columns into Morocco's southern neighbor.

Exes Face Busy Time During Homecoming

Homecoming takes the spotlight today and tomorrow with a big parade at 4:30 p.m. today, north on Main, around the courthouse and south on Scurry.

Theme of the parade and the entire homecoming is "America's Great Moments". The two bicentennial chairmen, Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery and Mrs. Janelle Davis, will serve as parade marshals.

Over 25 floats, decorated cars and riding groups will participate in the parade. At 6 p.m. at the Howard College cafeteria, the band boosters will host a homecoming supper with tickets available at the door.

At 7:30 p.m., one of five senior girls will be crowned queen. The candidates are Laura Bickford, Chris Davis, Angela Hodnett, Janet Ivery and Paige Little.

The game between the Big Spring Steers and the Permian Panthers is at 8 p.m. with a special halftime patriotic show including patriotic songs by the Big Spring Steer Band.

They will also feature flags, fireworks, and fire twirling.

After the game, there are several exes receptions. The classes of 1930-39 are invited to the First Federal Community Room where the group will also hold open house this afternoon.

The classes of 40-49 will meet after the game in the high school cafeteria.

The classes of 1950-60 will hold an after-game dance and reunion in the Settles Ballroom. On Saturday at 10 a.m., a coffee will be held for classes prior to 1921 at the home of Mrs. Fannie Eaker at 1500 Main.

There will be a 10 a.m. brunch at the Country Club for the pep squad of 1935, 36 and 37. At 2 p.m. at the high school, an open house will be held for all exes at the high school.

A Hall of Fame indoctrination will honor George O'Brien Jr. of Midland, formerly of Big Spring, who was a Medal of Honor winner during the Korean Conflict.

A plaque will be dedicated to all servicemen killed in action who attended Big Spring High School. Their families are invited as honor guests.

The ex-student museum sponsored by the Big Spring High School Student Council will also be open to the public.

A reception will also be held at the band hall from 3-5 p.m. for J. W. King, former band director here, now at Texas Tech.

At 8 p.m., there will be a dance in the high school cafeteria for the student body. Ex-students will hold a dance at the County Fair Barns starting at 8:30 p.m.

Orgy Part Of Life With SLA Members?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Multipartner sexual relations were an integral part of the day-to-day lives of the fugitive Symbionese Liberation Army members — including Patricia Hearst, the Los Angeles Times said today.

The Times, quoting documents found in the apartment of SLA members Bill and Emily Harris, said the sexual practices were used to preserve "feminist self-determination" by successfully smashing "the dependencies created by monogamy (sic) personal sexual relationships ... in the cell."

The Times said the documents it obtained appear to include a series of answers to questions submitted to the SLA by an unnamed person, similar to queries a writer might use in preparing a book.

Other writings obtained by the Times include a handwritten discourse on the kinds of problems female SLA members faced as "feminist freedom fighters" and a typewritten message apparently written to Miss Hearst by an SLA member.

The Times said some investigators believe the Hearst message is written in the style of Bill Harris, and the question answer series appears to have been handled by his wife, Emily.

The FBI had no immediate comment on the authenticity of the documents or their possible authorship.

The writings stressed that the multipartner relationships were not limited to heterosexual activities, the Times said.

"Our position was one of conditional practicality," one document read.

END OF THE TORCHLIGHT PARADE — Students at Big Spring High School, led by the cheerleaders, march through downtown Big Spring Thursday night at the end of a "torchlight parade" which had started near Malone and Hogan hospital in West Big Spring. The parade ushered in Homecoming ceremonies at the local high school, one of the highlights of which will be a football game tonight between the resident Steers and Odessa Permian.

Ford Has Eye On Election

It would be nice to go through life believing in the tooth fairy, and Santa Claus, and leprechauns with pots of gold. Nice, but sadly wrong.

And it would be nice to believe in President Ford's tax cut package — that Americans can get a $28 billion rebate from their government without pain. But that would be wrong, too.

What President Ford has proposed is a piece of adroit politics. By jumping the gun on Congress with a tax-cut plan of his own, the President has made the correct election year move. He hopes to shift the onus to Congress, if his promises don't come true, by insisting that they match his tax cut proposal with a like slash in federal expenditures.

But there's the rub. What does the President propose to cut?

He doesn't propose anything specific — at least not yet. He says his budget message in January will contain proposals to consolidate, revise and reduce many current spending programs, but he doesn't say what programs and by how much. He simply tells Congress to pare the federal budget to $395 billion, or he will veto any tax cut plans.

Rep. Brock Adams, Washington Democrat and chairman of the House Budget Committee, summed the situation up well. He said the President's proposals are more political than economic, simplistic and not realistic. He said there is no way to get the cuts Ford wants without slicing into such programs as Social Security, veteran's pensions, food stamps, education program — and the defense budget.

The administration, of course, opposes cuts in defense spending. So that leaves the social programs — and that means pinching tighter those persons already buffeted by inflation and recession.

The President's basic idea is sound. We need to live within our means as a nation. But we should determine our needs first, and then adjust revenues to fit them. Ford has given us half a loaf only.

A tax reduction, at least one which keeps in being for another year those cuts put into effect this year, is desirable as a stimulus for the still-sluggish economy. There is evidence to suggest such a cut will not necessarily result in a loss of revenue; by improving the economy, it can generate more business activity and thus more taxes — and not put the burden for solving our economic dilemma on those Americans least able to bear it.

Equal Treatment

Dallas police have learned what a "cooler" is for. It's to cool off hot-headed citizens.

This appreciation of the situation has moved Dallas police to solve a problem of some antiquity: What to do with brawling partisans of Oklahoma and Texas, renewing their annual football rivalry? The solution was simple: Provide separate bullpens in the city jail for Oklahoma and Texas fans!

Elementary, my dear Watson!

Probations Preferred

Around The Rim

John Edwards

Fining felony offenders is making money for Ector County, but 118th District Court officials said they prefer long terms of probation without fines.

DISTRICT JUDGE Ralph W. Caton has not fined anyone since the new Texas Penal Code made it a possible punishment for some felonies.

In the two district courts in Odessa, between $30,000 and $40,000 has been collected in fines since the new penal code became law about 21 months ago. District Attorney John Green of Ector County called this "probably one of the best fine records in the state."

"Traditionally over in Odessa, they've been giving lighter sentences," Judge Caton commented. Judge Caton and District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III both mentioned the financial hardship a fine could cause a defendant.

"So often, all a person can do is support his family," Judge Caton said. "Assessing a fine might cause a convicted man to steal for the money," Judge Caton added.

Moore said 80 per cent of those convicted in district court were under 25 years of age and mentioned the problem of "equal administration of justice."

"HOW DO YOU handle a case where a dude can pay a $1,000 fine and one that can't?" Moore asked. "It gets into a problem area of trying to be fair."

"The fine doesn't go to the victim anyway," Moore noted. "We don't ever put anybody on probation without getting restitution." With probation also comes a bill of $49 for court costs, the defendant's attorney's fee, and a $5 per month probation charge.

While the court will appoint an attorney for a defendant claiming poverty, this fee must be repaid to the county if the defendant pleads guilty and is placed on probation.

What happens when the defendant fails to pay restitution or court costs within the time allowed by Judge Caton?

This fall, Moore signed a series of motions to revoke probation and assess a prison sentence for probationers who failed to pay on schedule.

BECAUSE OF THESE motions to revoke, $3,674 has been collected, Debbie Christopher, deputy district clerk, said. Yet to be received was $8,187.

All those served with court summons to date have paid the amount delinquent, Mrs. Christopher said. Altogether, 31 have paid delinquent sums. Some appeared and paid without being served.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said his office served 14 defendants because of failure to pay. He was not including three his office arrested earlier in the year because of other revocation motions.

Of the outstanding summons for payments, 11 were mailed to law enforcement authorities in other Texas Counties. Five were sent to out-of-state officials seeking arrests, Standard said.

One defendant facing revocation of probation was already in prison.

Carmichael's State

Rowland Evans

JACKSON, Miss. — Fueled by an unprecedented issue campaign with aggressive television exposure in this poorest of all states, Republican Gil Carmichael has tossed conventional orthodoxy overboard in his underdog race to become Mississippi's first Republican governor since carpetbagger Reconstruction days.

CARMICHAEL'S self-professed "new politics" is a breathtaking departure for a state long torn apart by the bloody race issue. That corrosive, overwhelming factor in the past century of Deep South politics here seems all but dead and buried. "That's not even a Mickey Mouse issue anymore," conservative Republican state chairman Clarke Reed told us.

Thus, with both Carmichael and Democrat Cliff Finch, his bland, shadowy opponent, courting black voters on newspaper front pages and television screens, Carmichael has zeroed in with courageous abandon on explosively controversial issues no Mississippi politician has dared confront — including Carmichael himself when he captured 40 per cent of the vote against Sen. James O. Eastland in the 1972 senatorial election.

Gun control, for example. Carmichael began airing a television spot three weeks ago calling for registration and licensing of all handguns. While Reed and other political pros in the Carmichael camp blanched, Carmichael insisted voters here are ready for state action in the face of an alarming Mississippi night special. In one small Delta town in the first half of 1975, 1,200 handguns were sold by a single pawnshop.

STATEWIDE POLLS updated each week for Carmichael by Mississippi Opinion Research, founded and headed by Walter DeVries (a skilled political technician who once worked for former Michigan Gov. George Romney), indicate Carmichael's judgment about Mississippi voters may be right. The latest DeVries sample shows an astonishing 71 per cent statewide support for the registration and licensing demand.

Or consider Carmichael's call for a new state constitution. To Eastland's Democratic party establishment, this has galvanized Democratic courthouse politicians, whose sinecures and perquisites would be threatened by a new constitution streamlining a state government that has 60 separate agencies dealing with health. Yet, DeVries' polls show 75 per cent voter approval today for Carmichael's new constitution, up from 10 per cent in March.

Fading away of racial politics has created the political change that underpins Carmichael's hard-sell issue campaign. For example, his plan for compulsory education through the eighth grade (in the only state still without compulsory education) would have been suicidal ten years ago.

WHILE RACIAL politics dominated Mississippi, compulsory education raised this spectre: educating blacks for heightened political action. But Carmichael and some other politicians now see a different Mississippi: a state rich in agriculture and raw materials — oil, gas, cotton, rice — and abysmally poor in skilled labor. Thus, educating black youth becomes essential for Mississippi to develop a skilled labor pool and build its own domestic industries to process its raw materials.

While Carmichael preaches the new Mississippi in tones not heard before, the Finch campaign is still in neutral, almost invisible to the voter. A huge and surprise winner of last summer's Democratic primary, Finch is protecting the 58 per cent of the vote he won then by avoiding all controversy, kissing babies and plugging the worker's lunch pail which symbolized his successful primary election theme, as "the friend of the workingman."

Finch announces no campaign schedule, holds no press conferences and ignores Carmichael.

What Others Say

One reason it's hard to take the UN seriously is that so few of its members adhere to anything that could be remotely described as a general principle.

Take the principle of "universality," for example. A few years ago there was a movement in favor of "universality" of membership, opening the UN's doors to any nation or quasi-nation, even if it didn't strictly qualify as a "peace-loving" under the UN charter. The universality principle had widespread left-wing support, since it was an argument for the admission of Red China.

But now, it is obvious that "universality," like most UN principles, was only a passing fancy, based on short-term political considerations. The U.S. was willing to admit two Vietnamese in return for admission of one South Korea, but it couldn't get a deal out of its Security Council friends. So it vetoed the Vietnam applications.

Not that universality has been worth much anyway. Taiwan has been ejected from the UN, South Africa has been all but stripped of membership and Israel has been threatened with isolation if not outright expulsion.

In other words, all that can be said of the UN is that it reflects, now as always, the political power struggles of the world at large. And those nations that try to insist on more elevated principles — as several nominal U.S. allies did in the Vietnam membership vote — often end up looking like lambs among the wolves.

If the UN does nothing else, it gives readings, although sometimes inaccurate ones, on power realities in the world. Maybe that is a useful function but it is a far cry from the noble principles of its charter.

EDITORIALS OPINIONS

Oh Dad, Poor Dad

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Poor President Ford. With all he's got to worry about he also has to contend with everyone in his family speaking his or her own mind.

Any father can sympathize with what Mr. Ford has to go through every night.

I CAN JUST imagine the conversation at dinner time in the White House when only the immediate family is there.

President Ford says "Whew, what a day. I vetoed 10 congressional bills, made three Republican fundraising speeches, and had to show the Emperor of Japan every bush in the Rose Garden."

Jack Ford says, "Dad, I have to tell you something."

"What is it, son?"

"Last summer I went skinny-dipping with a bunch of kids at Aspen."

"Was this before or after you smoked pot?" the President asks.

"I don't remember. I think it was after."

"This is too much. How does it look for the President of the United States to have a son that goes skinny-dipping?"

"But Dad, you always told us to be frank with you and tell you exactly what we had on our minds. That's what holds this family together."

"I KNOW that and I respect you for leveling with me. But I have a tough election coming up and there are a lot of people out there who don't approve of mixed skinny-dipping."

Jack says, "Mom said it was okay with her."

"I'm aware of it," the President replies.

Mrs. Ford says defensively, "Well, I would rather know Jack goes skinny-dipping than have him sneak around and do it behind our backs. At least he's not a hypocrite."

"I agree," the President says, "but if this gets out in McCall's magazine it's going to raise quite a ruckus."

"It won't get out in McCall's," Mrs. Ford says.

"How can you be so sure?"

"Because the only one who knows about it is the Reader's Digest."

"You told Reader's Digest that your children go skinny-dipping?"

"I didn't tell them until they asked me. I'm certainly not going to lie to Reader's Digest," Mrs. Ford says.

"Why does the public have to know everything we do in this family?" the President asks.

"Because that's the way you brought us up," Susan Ford says. "Do you want to know what I did last night?"

The President says, "Can't I read about it in the paper tomorrow morning?"

"I photographed a topless waitress. Mom said it was okay."

MRS. FORD SAYS, "It was an assignment for the Associated Press and David Kennedy was with her."

"Good grief," the President cries. "Don't you people have any secrets you can keep from me? Do I have to know everything you do?"

"Well," says Jack, "if you want us to have private lives we will, but I don't see how you can trust your family if we can't take you into our confidence."

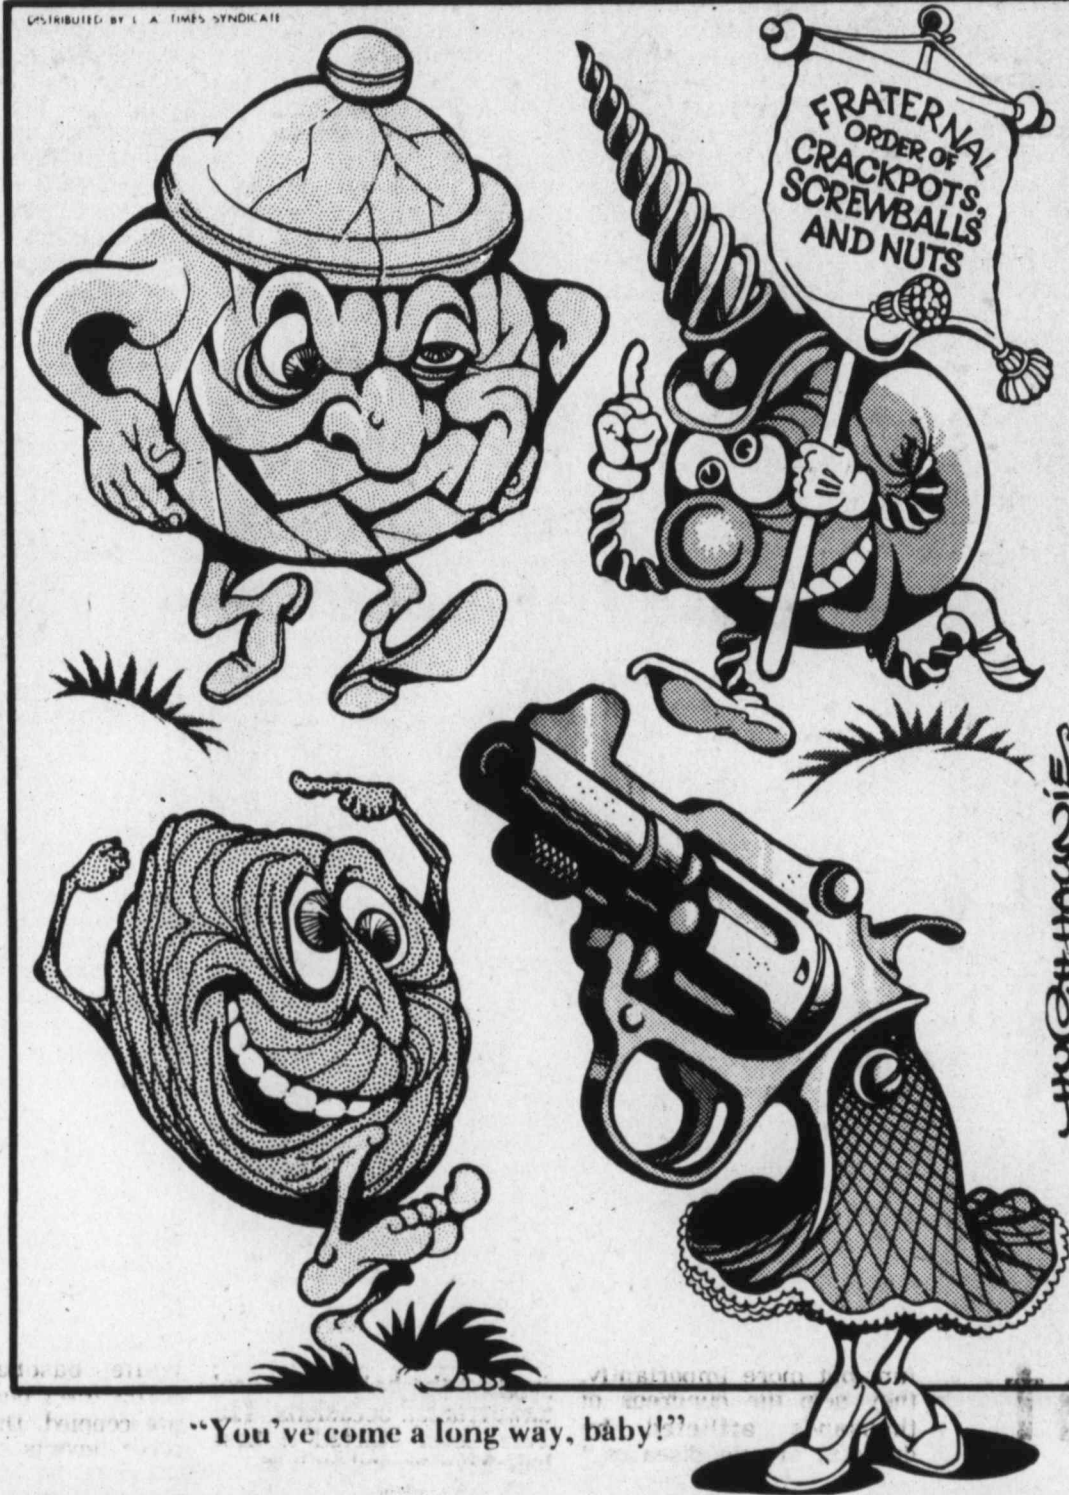

"Jack's right," Mrs. Ford says. "Some fathers don't even know when their daughters are taking the Pill."

"Who's taking the Pill?" the President shouts.

"Nobody," Mrs. Ford says, "but if Susan were, it would be nice if we knew about it."

"I suppose you said that to the Reader's Digest too?"

"I did not," Mrs. Ford says. "I told it to Good Housekeeping."

Unmistakable Pattern

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — If you go back through 10 years of stock market literature you will find repeated predictions that the Dow Jones Industrial Average was headed for 1,000 points and beyond.

Most of the predictions were made during bull markets, when caution is subdued and confidence feeds on itself. These are conditions that brokers love to retain, and one way in which they do it is to issue bullish bulletins.

Despite their efforts, the average during the past 10 years has penetrated and remained above 1,000 points only briefly, in late 1972 and early 1973. The peak was 1,051.70.

Five other ascents flattened themselves out against the so-called barrier, reaching peaks between 943 and 995 points before suffering sharp reversals. Throughout 1975 the average has remained below 900.

While this tends to suggest that the 1,000-point level is indeed a psychological barrier, a glance at some market charts provides what appear to be a more substantial reason: As interest rates rise, stock prices fall. The pattern isn't as sharply defined as opposing pieces in a jigsaw puzzle, perhaps, but it is there, unmistakably. In fact, the market plunge of 1974, which dropped the average to 577.60 points, coincided with the record-high 12 per cent prime rate.

Stock prices and interest rates are of course reflections of many economic factors, but they also have a direct bearing on each other. When bond yields exceed the returns on stocks, money is drained from the stock market. When interest rates fall, some of the money returns.

In the decade of the 1950s, when the prime rate was 4 per cent or so, stocks returned an average of 18.9 per cent. In the 1960s, when the prime was still relatively low but rising, stocks returned 5.3 per cent and bonds 2.8 per cent.

So far in the 1970s, with some interest rates rising to their highest of the century, stocks have returned only 4 per cent while the return on bonds has soared to 7.1 per cent. The current status is 4.6 per cent stocks, 8.6 per cent bonds. With that historical record as the setting, you can readily understand why many professional investors are analyzing the Federal Reserve Board's activities as closely as stocks themselves.

In their view, the Fed, which holds enormous power over interest rates, could be the single most important influence on the stock market. Even hints of lower interest rates could send stocks the other way.

Little is certain about market prices, as everyone from the food shopper to stock market investor has learned over the years, but some events do repeat themselves.

One of them, for example, is that if interest rates do indeed drop sharply you most likely will hear that old echo from the 1960s about the industrial average heading once again toward that great, 1,000-point barrier in the sky.

And another is that if interest rates rise, you won't hear a bullish sound at all from the same people. It will sound more like the groaning of a pained bear.

Can Be 'Fooler'

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had prolonged spells of diarrhea and also of constipation. I awake two or three times a night with severe pain on my right side. The doctors have prescribed sleeping pills and tranquilizers, but the pains still wake me up. Can you suggest anything?

My X-rays show no adhesion, and my appendix was removed long ago. — I.M.C.

Constipation usually follows a spell of diarrhea. The constipation is often more apparent than real. It will last until the colon accumulates sufficient stool to initiate the defecation reflex.

However, any chronic alternation of diarrhea and constipation warrants close attention. Your doctors apparently suspected a strong nervous factor in your problem to have given you the sedatives you mention.

It is unlikely that x-rays would have showed adhesions even if present, but what about the bowel lining? You require a proctoscopic examination, which allows the doctor to look at the bowel membrane directly. An infection such as amebiasis or some other parasitic invasion can cause colitis (inflammation of the bowel). Your stool should be examined for the presence of blood, pus or parasites.

A food sensitivity can be involved. Why don't you keep a food diary to determine if any particular item can be associated with your bowel disturbance?

In most cases, the pain is caused by spasm or gas accumulation. It is important to learn what is causing these symptoms.

All those served with court summons to date have paid the amount delinquent, Mrs. Christopher said. Altogether, 31 have paid delinquent sums. Some appeared and paid without being served.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said his office served 14 defendants because of failure to pay. He was not including three his office arrested earlier in the year because of other revocation motions.

Of the outstanding summons for payments, 11 were mailed to law enforcement authorities in other Texas Counties. Five were sent to out-of-state officials seeking arrests, Standard said.

One defendant facing revocation of probation was already in prison.

Carmichael's State

Rowland Evans

JACKSON, Miss. — Fueled by an unprecedented issue campaign with aggressive television exposure in this poorest of all states, Republican Gil Carmichael has tossed conventional orthodoxy overboard in his underdog race to become Mississippi's first Republican governor since carpetbagger Reconstruction days.

CARMICHAEL'S self-professed "new politics" is a breathtaking departure for a state long torn apart by the bloody race issue. That corrosive, overwhelming factor in the past century of Deep South politics here seems all but dead and buried. "That's not even a Mickey Mouse issue anymore," conservative Republican state chairman Clarke Reed told us.

Thus, with both Carmichael and Democrat Cliff Finch, his bland, shadowy opponent, courting black voters on newspaper front pages and television screens, Carmichael has zeroed in with courageous abandon on explosively controversial issues no Mississippi politician has dared confront — including Carmichael himself when he captured 40 per cent of the vote against Sen. James O. Eastland in the 1972 senatorial election.

Gun control, for example. Carmichael began airing a television spot three weeks ago calling for registration and licensing of all handguns. While Reed and other political pros in the Carmichael camp blanched, Carmichael insisted voters here are ready for state action in the face of an alarming Mississippi night special. In one small Delta town in the first half of 1975, 1,200 handguns were sold by a single pawnshop.

STATEWIDE POLLS updated each week for Carmichael by Mississippi Opinion Research, founded and headed by Walter DeVries (a skilled political technician who once worked for former Michigan Gov. George Romney), indicate Carmichael's judgment about Mississippi voters may be right. The latest DeVries sample shows an astonishing 71 per cent statewide support for the registration and licensing demand.

Or consider Carmichael's call for a new state constitution. To Eastland's Democratic party establishment, this has galvanized Democratic courthouse politicians, whose sinecures and perquisites would be threatened by a new constitution streamlining a state government that has 60 separate agencies dealing with health. Yet, DeVries' polls show 75 per cent voter approval today for Carmichael's new constitution, up from 10 per cent in March.

Fading away of racial politics has created the political change that underpins Carmichael's hard-sell issue campaign. For example, his plan for compulsory education through the eighth grade (in the only state still without compulsory education) would have been suicidal ten years ago.

WHILE RACIAL politics dominated Mississippi, compulsory education raised this spectre: educating blacks for heightened political action. But Carmichael and some other politicians now see a different Mississippi: a state rich in agriculture and raw materials — oil, gas, cotton, rice — and abysmally poor in skilled labor. Thus, educating black youth becomes essential for Mississippi to develop a skilled labor pool and build its own domestic industries to process its raw materials.

While Carmichael preaches the new Mississippi in tones not heard before, the Finch campaign is still in neutral, almost invisible to the voter. A huge and surprise winner of last summer's Democratic primary, Finch is protecting the 58 per cent of the vote he won then by avoiding all controversy, kissing babies and plugging the worker's lunch pail which symbolized his successful primary election theme, as "the friend of the workingman."

Finch announces no campaign schedule, holds no press conferences and ignores Carmichael.

What Others Say

One reason it's hard to take the UN seriously is that so few of its members adhere to anything that could be remotely described as a general principle.

Take the principle of "universality," for example. A few years ago there was a movement in favor of "universality" of membership, opening the UN's doors to any nation or quasi-nation, even if it didn't strictly qualify as a "peace-loving" under the UN charter. The universality principle had widespread left-wing support, since it was an argument for the admission of Red China.

But now, it is obvious that "universality," like most UN principles, was only a passing fancy, based on short-term political considerations. The U.S. was willing to admit two Vietnamese in return for admission of one South Korea, but it couldn't get a deal out of its Security Council friends. So it vetoed the Vietnam applications.

Not that universality has been worth much anyway. Taiwan has been ejected from the UN, South Africa has been all but stripped of membership and Israel has been threatened with isolation if not outright expulsion.

In other words, all that can be said of the UN is that it reflects, now as always, the political power struggles of the world at large. And those nations that try to insist on more elevated principles — as several nominal U.S. allies did in the Vietnam membership vote — often end up looking like lambs among the wolves.

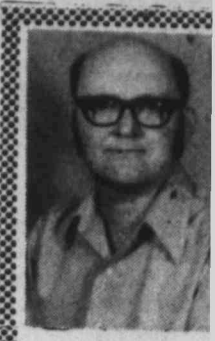

If the UN does nothing else, it gives readings, although sometimes inaccurate ones, on power realities in the world. Maybe that is a useful function but it is a far cry from the noble principles of its charter.

"Craig Fife was a good football player," recalled Bob Burris, Big Spring High athletic director and head football coach.

"I was coaching in Midland and Craig was playing in Odessa. He got married while in high school and so the coach had to put him off the team."

"The coach called me because I had formerly coached in Hobbs and they allowed married students to play in New Mexico. I went to Odessa and got Craig and took him to Hobbs and introduced him to the coach."

"Fife was a star at Hobbs and later played at TCU. His sudden death is a tragedy," he added. Fife, 25, was one of three men killed Monday in explosions at a natural gas processing plant in Goldsmith.

Big Spring's Ricky McCormick, 4A state mile champ, now a Texas Tech freshman, will be one of eight Red Raiders runners participating in a four-mile race Saturday at the West Texas State Invitational. Tech will host its own cross country meet in Lubbock next Saturday.

Southern Methodist Head Coach Dave Smith had this to say after last Friday's game, "TCU has made the greatest comeback on one year's time than any program I've known about. Coach Shofner, in one year, has as competitive a team as any around. Their spirit and competitiveness are just outstanding. They gave us all we wanted—we're very fortunate to have won."

Saturday's lineup for the SMU vs Rice game shows Big Spring's Nate Poss listed as a backup right cornerback on the Owl side of the fence.

For the sixth consecutive week, Texas Tech will meet an unbeaten opponent when the Red Raiders travel to Tucson to tackle University of Arizona Saturday.

It will also mark the fourth straight week that the Red Raiders have met a nationally-ranked team. The Wildcats are ranked in the Top 20 by both major polls.

Tech leads the Arizona rivalry with one 21-0 Raider victory in 1932 at Lubbock. Last year, Tech defeated Arizona, 17-8, at Lubbock.

Arizona still remains as the only major college team that has not allowed a TD to be scored against them this season.

Tech's loss to A&M last Saturday marked the first time the Red Raiders have lost three in a row since 1971, when they lost to SMU, Rice and TCU in succession.

The Texas A&M vs TCU game will be broadcast by KBYG at 1:45 p.m., Saturday followed at 7:15 p.m., SMU vs Rice by KBST.

WHAT'S IT WORTH DEPARTMENT — Through five games, Big Spring's Jerry Knoepfel, UTEP safety, ranks first in defensive totals with 138. Linebacker Hal Barnett is first with 193.

The Miners meet the University of Wyoming at 1:30 p.m., Saturday at Laramie.

SIX HOME GAMES

Area Teams Pass Half-Way Point

Three area teams have the week off with six games on home ground and one requiring transportation to reach its destination today.

Big Spring, utilizing the two-platoon system since mid-season, last year and hopefully it will pay off soon, will host for its homecoming contest, superbly balanced and defensive-prone Permian. Game time is 8 p.m., at Memorial Stadium.

Mojo is spotted No. 6 in state 4A circles and undefeated in five games. In district standings, Permian is 2-0 and Big Spring, 0-2.

The Steers are winless in three games and over-all show 2-3.

Coahoma with a good state of mind, desires to add Winters to its "new season" 6-AA win list. Kickoff is 8 p.m. at Bulldog Stadium.

The Bulldogs, 2-0, stand ahead of the district pack and are 3-3 for the year. Winters is 0-2 in 6-AA and 2-4 over-all.

Forsan leans in solving its winning problems at home at 7:30 p.m., with Lorraine. Both are 0-2 in 3-B. Lorraine and Forsan are 2-3 and 0-4, respectively for the campaign.

Sands will strive to sand-bag Jayton at home at 7:30 p.m. Jayton shares the 3-B lead with Bronte and Roby, all 2-0 with Sands, 1-1.

For all games concerned, Sands is 2-2-1 and Jayton, 4-1.

Two undefeated 1-B teams, Klondike and Wellman collide on the latter's home ground at 8 p.m. Both won their opening district starts.

Klondike is 5-1 for the year. Borden County, dropped for the full count for the first time last week, greets Loop at 8 p.m. Both are 0-1 in 1-B and the Coyotes are 4-1 over-all.

Garden City, unable to come across with a victory in six games, will be out to contain undefeated Dawson, 5-0, on the Bearkat field at 8 p.m.

Dawson is 1-0 in 1-B and the Bearkats, 0-1.

Open dates this week go to Stanton, Colorado City and Grady.

Toros Drub Sweetwater

In two road games played Thursday night, the Big Spring ninth graders pounded Sweetwater, 30-8 and the Steer JV's lost to Permian, 30-10.

The JV's next encounter Lee at home next Thursday with the Toros greeting Midland Edison next Saturday.

Gilbert Rubio, Runnels starting quarterback, has been absent from the scene because of a recent ankle injury against Snyder. Travis, ironically, Runnels 4-2, plays the same junior high eleven again in two weeks after taking next week off.

Juniors Whack Colorado City

COLORADO CITY — A 12-2 decision was earned by Coahoma over Colorado City in a seventh grade contest here Thursday evening.

Coahoma leaped into the end zone in the first and fourth on runs of 46 and three-yards by Johnny Flores and Clint Elliott. A 34-yard pass from Philip Ritchey to Randy Clinton aided in setting up Elliott's drive.

Colorado City was awarded a safety in the second.

Defense standouts for Coahoma included Mike Rupard, Mike Roberts and Flores. Coahoma's Reagan Brooks and Cliff Snell played well on offense.

Yearlings Unable To Hold Visitors

Runnels was unable to unwind here Thursday evening at Blankenship Field as Sweetwater scored a 22-6 win.

The Yearlings drove for their only score in the third period with Joe Willie Jones racing over from the five. Time left: 6:25. It required Runnels only five plays to complete the TD play which was set up by Carl Trevino's interception. The PAT failed.

After a scoreless first period, Sweetwater broke loose for 14 points in the second on runs of 51 and one yards. The one-yard plunge took three plays to complete as a result of a pass interception on the five. Sweetwater after missing the first PAT attempt, completed the second on a pass.

Sweetwater added eight more points in the fourth, completing a 53-yard TD pass, driving 60 yards in three plays. The visitors ran over the PAT.

Reds Romp Over Red Sox

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Boston Red Sox find themselves on the critical list after being hit and run over by the Big Red Machine.

After looking sick in the first four games of the World Series, Tony Perez suddenly regained his health with two home runs as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Red Sox 6-2 Thursday night and took a 3-2 stranglehold in the best-of-seven game classic.

The National League champions can polish off the Red Sox Saturday in the sixth game at Fenway Park, where Jack Billingham will face Boston left-hander Bill Lee.

"I never get down on myself," said Perez, who had fought a torturous batting slump before breaking it Thursday night before the appreciative, roaring hometown fans in Riverfront Stadium.

Cincinnati's all-time RBI leader had gone hitless in 15 World Series appearances before smashing a hanging slider from Reggie Cleveland over the left-center field wall to give the Reds a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning.

In the sixth, Perez got another good pitch from the beefy Boston right-hander and parked that one a little higher over the left-center field fence. Two men were on base at the time and it gave hard-throwing Don Gullett a handsome 5-1 lead.

Perez had tried everything to crack the distressing drought. He told reporters that his superstitious wife, Pituka, urged him to try driving a different way to the ballpark for Game 5. Also, she took Tony shopping before the game to "spend money" and try to get his mind off the Series.

"She tried everything to get me back in the groove again," Perez said.

Perez has been in slumps before but never worried about them. "I've hit a lot worse," he said, "but in a World Series everyone knows about it."

While the Cuban-born star was making life miserable for the American League champions with his bat, Gullett was making them look sick with his arm. The Reds' best pitcher gave up just two hits to Boston through eight innings and then three more in the ninth before being forced from the game with just one out to go.

"I lost a little bit in the ninth," said Gullett, explaining he got cold while waiting during a long Cincinnati eighth inning.

When the chunky southpaw gave up two-out singles to Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk, Manager Sparky Anderson was Johnny on the spot.

"Sparky came out and said, 'You're not going anywhere,'" Gullett said.

"There's two outs," Anderson told me. He wanted me to work from the windup because I have better stuff that way, but I didn't."

When the obviously tired Gullett gave up a run-scoring double to Fred Lynn, Anderson revisited the mound and got the left-hander out of the game. In came Rawly Eastwick, who blew three pitches by the dangerous Rico Petrocelli for the clincher.

The Cincinnati kid gave up a run in the first inning on a triple by Denny Doyle and Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly before Boston's ninth-inning flurry. Along with Perez' four RBI, the Reds got a run in the fifth on Gullett's single and a double by Pete Rose and one in the eighth on Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly.

U.S. Holds Medal Edge

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The VII Pan American Games almost made it through one day without controversy.

Emphasize "almost."

As the fifth day of the problem-plagued Games began today, the United States tied the Cubans in gold medals, 26-26, and jumped out to a healthy 66-50 edge in total medals. The gold-silver-bronze count for the Americans was 26-24-16 with the Cubans at 26-16-8. Next was Canada at 5-6-12 with host Mexico following with 3-5-11.

Thursday's schedule started out innocently enough, but just as it had each of the three previous days, officialdom came down with a case of foot-in-mouth disease.

This time it was in the women's 200-meter finals where young Americans Chandra Cheeseborough and Pamela Jiles finished 1-2 in a photo finish that took hours to sort out.

But just before the medals were to be handed out, a misinformed official told Miss Jiles she had won. So she joyfully accepted what she thought was her second, gold of the Games. Later, when the mix-up was discovered, the medals were tearfully exchanged.

Two disputes left over from Wednesday's comedy of errors were mediated Thursday. A jury of appeal let stand the results in the men's discus, even though it was conceded the Cuban who won the silver medal used an illegal disc. Americans John Powell and Jay Silverster took the gold and bronze medals.

The Yanks fared better in the three-day, equestrian finals where a protest had been lodged over the accidental disqualification of world champion Bruce Davidson of Unionville, Pa., in the middle of an impressive run. An official thought Davidson was Canadian Jim Day, who was ousted for a minor rules violation.

Davidson was allowed to resume his ride from the point of disqualification. He finished with a silver medal behind Tad Coffin of Stratford, Vt., the gold medal winner.

The U.S. equestrian team also earned a gold medal — one of eight Thursday for the Americans.

After three days of Cuban domination in weightlifting, the United States finally made a successful challenge.

Rangerettes Take Mid-East Tour

DALLAS (AP) — The highstepping Kilgore College Rangerettes and the famed Ranger band left the Dallas Fort Worth Airport Thursday night for a 16-day tour of the Far East.

The precision drill troupe will perform in Hong Kong, Macao and Seoul, Korea. The tour is sponsored by the U.S. State Department and the American Chamber of Commerce.

In 1973, the Rangerettes and Ranger band performed in Venezuela and received such a warm welcome, the state department decided to send the group to the Far East as ambassadors of goodwill.

Shortly before leaving Texas, Gov. Dolph Briscoe sent a telegram to the group stating, "This is an honor you should be proud of, and all Texans share pride in your selection. We know you will be fine representatives of our state and nation."

The Rangerettes and Ranger band will perform at the American Fortnight, a fair and trade exhibition displaying U.S. manufactured goods; at the Hong Kong Football Club stadium; on a television special and at a dinner show.

In Macao, the Texans will stage two shows at the jai alai stadium and then march in a parade.

In Seoul, they will perform for some 10,000 U.S. servicemen.

Kuwait Pilots To Get Wings

Seven men from Kuwait will receive pilot wings and commissions as second lieutenants during graduation ceremonies at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Webb AFB Chapel. The Security Assistance Training Program (SATP) Class 76-03 began training last February.

Col. Robert A. Owens, wing commander at Webb, will speak to the graduates. Also on hand will be Capt. Ali Al-Foudari, Kuwait country liaison officer who recently arrived and will be permanently assigned here.

At one time, Kuwait Ambassador Khalid Jafar was scheduled to attend the graduation along with Lt. Col. Ahmad Ismail, the senior liaison officer, but other commitments forced them to decline.

A number of local dignitaries have been invited from the Big Spring area to meet the visitors and watch the seven Kuwaiti receive their wings and commissions.

At the reception following graduation in the Officers' Open Mess members of two new SATP classes will be welcomed. Class 76-09 will be made up of 10 Iraqis and the SATP-UPT Phase III Class 76-08 will have 6 Iraqis and one from Kuwait.

Those to graduate are: 2nd Lt. Rafe A. S. M. Al-Anzi, Faisal H. M. H. Al-Ayyar, Obaid F. S. A. Al-Jwairy, Yousef J. M. A. Bou-Rasheed, Said M. J. Mubarak Majid A. J. H. Musstafa and Ahmed Yousef A. A. Al-Rwayeh.

The marble-in-concrete mark, located in the fire station, marks the death of three men in a February, 1974, explosion as they fought a grass fire, as well as the accidental death of Charles Wayne Rose, 42, in August of last year.

Phemister was minister of a Clyde church in Clyde and a member of the fire department before moving to Ackerly. He served as department chaplain there for many years.

Funds for the memorial were raised through contributions.

ENTHUSIASM — That's the word for the high school this week as students plug for an upset Homecoming victory. Here Cindy Fowler is one of many Gold Diggers putting up special signs in the yards of football players late Thursday. This particular sign is at the home of Ken McMurry.

Rash Of Thefts Worry Officers

Theft of Citizens Band radios in the Big Spring area has kept police busy for the last few days. Between the times of 4 a.m. Wednesday and 10 p.m. Thursday, eight Big Springers were victimized by CB theft and over $1,500 worth of CB equipment stolen, along with $508 worth of other electrical equipment such as eight track tapes and tape-decks.

"We are really working on this and handling it the best we can," said Capt. Jack Jones, Big Spring Police Department. "We have officers on the alert, and a special swing shift looking into it."

According to Jones, the thefts are common everywhere. "Midland is losing six to eight radios every day," he said.

Captain Jones recommended that CB owners record the serial numbers of their equipment so that they may be identified in case of theft. The Police Department provides a special electric pencil to etch I.D. numbers on equipment upon request.

City Clamping Down On Crime

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (AP) — The murder rate in this seaside city of 55,000 equaled New York City's two years ago. Two of every 12 citizens were robbed, burglarized, assaulted, raped or had their cars stolen.

Now, the crime rate appears to be falling in a big way in this gateway to the nation's biggest Marine base.

Holdups are down. Prostitutes no longer roam the streets in large numbers. Residents are venturing downtown at night. Merchants, once in a rush to leave, are happy to be doing business here.

Getting some of the credit for the turn-around is a 41-year-old German immigrant named Rolf Henze. He has been the acting police chief since August, when Ward Ratcliff retired under fire.

Henze's crime control unit, with plainclothes officers riding in unmarked cars, has kept a constant watch downtown and made 400 arrests. Another 100 suspects were picked up; most were Marines turned over to military police at nearby Camp Pendleton.

Narcotics sales and street violence are down, said Henze. There were six or eight strong-arm robberies a night in downtown Oceanside last summer. Now, there are an average of two. "The crooks are staying out because it isn't safe for them," Henze said.

Also leading the cleanup effort was Maj. Gen. Carl Hoffman. He added military police, put controversial taverns off limits and staggered paydays to reduce the sudden impact of a $5 million payroll given twice a month to Camp Pendleton's 24,000 men and women.

"The Marines never exercised such leadership over the past decade than they have in the last five weeks," says David R. Laurent, executive director of the Oceanside Chamber of Commerce.

"Washington has given Gen. Hoffman the green light and tough measures are being taken, not only to protect Marines from getting hurt or robbed but in dealing with those in the wrong."

Laurent said that 15 to 20 small businesses pulled up and left town during a year of "bad crime publicity and bad crime statistics." Now, he said the trend appears to be reversing itself.

Despite the crackdown, Henze said "at least 35 percent of those arrested are still Marines."

Camp Pendleton has been under civilian pressure to keep the young leathernecks out of Oceanside.

Mr. Turner served as department (state) commander of the American Legion in 1960-61 and was the department judge advocate in 1959 and 1960.

Hill Says Some Areas Are 'Wet'

AUSTIN (AP) — A county or other political subdivision that has never held a local option liquor election is automatically "wet," Atty. Gen. John Hill has ruled.

Hill's opinion was addressed to Kenedy County Atty. Royce C. Johnston of Kingsville.

Hill said the automatic "wet" status of areas that haven't voted on the subject comes from both a provision in the Texas Constitution and an act of the legislature.

The attorney general cited decisions of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in 1941 and 1973 as declaring an area "wet" by law unless voted "dry."

"Thus neither the constitution nor a statutory law would prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquor unless an area is 'dry' pursuant to a local option election. It is well established that 'no act or omission is a crime unless made so by the written law of the state,'" Hill said.

The 1975-76 Homecoming Queen of Big Spring High School will be crowned during special pre-game ceremonies at tonight's Big Spring — Odessa Permian football game.

Young ladies competing for the honor include: Laura Bickford, representing the Future Homemakers of America; Chris Davis, representing the Automechanics Club; Angela Hodnett, representing the Student Council; Janet Ivory, representing the Steer Band; and Paige Little, representing the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (Huddle group).

Other pre-game activities will include presentation of the winning floats and the band's release of 2,000 red, white, and blue balloons symbolizing the release of America from British tyranny 199 years ago.

A patriotic fireworks display will highlight the half-time performance of the band at the Big Spring-Odessa Permian football game.

The band will enter the field to the strains of the "America '76 Fanfare."

Members will then form an outline of the United States and of the state of Texas to a medley of "Look Up America" and "Mother Country."

A medley of "Let There Be Peace on Earth" and "America the Beautiful" will provide the background music for the spelling of "SAM" and "USA" as well as for the bicentennial fireworks display.

Twenty-four American flags and a fire baton routine done by the Pride Drive twirlers will also be featured during the performance.

CAR IN DITCH — Student Clifford Allen Graham, 20 November Circle, was leaving the parking lot at Big Spring High School at 11:20 p.m. Thursday when he lost control of his car and skidded into a water drainage gully beside the road. Graham said that unknown persons threw white-wash at the car, causing him to hit the accelerator instead of the brake, causing the accident. Police are investigating the incident.

FILED LIBEL SUIT AGAINST COMPANY

Bell Accuser, Former Executive, Now Rural Texan

BLANCO, Tex. (AP) — Smilin' Jim Ashley, an ambitious Bell Telephone Co. executive who became its principal accuser, now calls this sunbaked Texas Hill Country community home. He operates his own business, selling parcels of land to weekend ranchers.

A year ago today, his friend, T.O. Gravitt, gassed himself to death in Dallas. Ashley and the family of Gravitt, Southwestern Bell's top man in Texas, filed suit and the allegations shook the nation's largest phone company.

NO REGULATIONS Today, Texas law provides for a state utility commission. A year ago, Bell was gliding along without regulation at the state level.

A year ago, Ashley, 46, had never worked for anyone but Bell.

Today, he seems miscast as David against the corporate Goliath.

Once proud he had survived the board-room jungle, the motto—"Have bag, will travel"—didn't faze him. At Bell's request, he had moved 14 times in 19 years on a business odyssey for the bigger paycheck.

BOSS SALARY At San Antonio, his final stop, Ashley was Bell's chief rate negotiator for two thirds of Texas. He was responsible for collecting $30 million a month. Fourteen hundred employees called him "boss," and he made a boss' salary—$55,000 a year. His name, he says, was on the list for promotion to vice-president.

In the fall of 1974, however, a company investigation surfaced, and Ashley was suspended for allegedly taking kickbacks from suppliers and other sins. Eight days later, on Oct. 17, his former boss Gravitt an $80,000-a-year Bell vice president, was found dead.

"Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell system," said Gravitt, 51, in a suicide note.

Ashley and the Gravitts' suit was filed Nov. 25, alleging libel and that the Bell investigation had driven Gravitt to his death. Ashley was fired. The suit was transferred from state to federal court, where it sets today without a trial date.

The case, however, was widely publicized.

"I thought the revelations would be devastating to Bell," Ashley recalled in an interview this week at his new business, Jim Ashley Real Estate, "but I was shocked at the degree of impact. I never intended to embark on a great crusade."

WATERBELL Bell's problems became known to some as "Waterbell."

Federal investigators have looked into allegations of corporate money having been funneled into political campaigns in the Southwest, but Bell does not face any charges, and denies it operates a slush fund. A state commission in Missouri, another state in which Southwestern Bell operates, heard testimony. Similar allegations surfaced in North Carolina about Southern Bell, another Bell system company.

WINE AND DINE The staff of the Texas Senate subcommittee on consumer affairs disclosed that:

—Bell executives spent "outrageously high" sums of money to "wine and dine" friends and influence city council votes on proposals for higher phone rates.

—Bell had "manipulated" figures to get all it could out of Texas ratepayers.

—Bell executives regularly donated money to political candidates, a pattern Ashley contends was a "condition of employment."

Houston police chief Carol Lynn testified that more than 200 Bell employees had helped his department in 1,000 illegal wiretapping cases since 1968, but Bell vice-president Charles Marshall denied it.

PHONE TAP Later, Lynn said a tap had been found on his private office line, and even Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said he had "always kind of assumed" his phone was tapped although none had been found.

No indictments have been returned from federal and state grand jury probes.

The shadow on Bell's image was probably responsible for swaying enough votes in the legislature to create Texas' first state utilities commission, which will regulate rates and service on all intrastate calls beginning next September.

OPPOSED HIKES Public opinion against Bell gets part of the credit, too, for Atty. Gen. John Hill's unprecedented opposition to Bell's proposed $45 million a year increase in intrastate long-distance rates. Hill won a judgment that cost Bell $50 million over two years.

But what became of Ashley, who perhaps started it all?

He cashed in his Bell savings and, six months later, moved to Blanco, population 1,022, a town that Ashley refers to as "destiny's godchild" because of its prime location, near both Austin and San Antonio.

"I'm languishing in a world of ignorance. I don't know if these are good times or bad times in real estate," said Ashley. "I've only been here since March."

He and his wife, Bonnie, who is his secretary, live in a rock house on 28 acres, four miles east of Blanco. Their children Eric, 14, and Elise, 12, live with them, and two sons are at the University of Texas.

GOING BACK "It's quite an adjustment," said Ashley, whose dusty boots reflect part of that adjustment. "My kids had always lived in suburbia. They never knew anything else existed, but they like it."

"Coming to Blanco is like going back in time," says Bonnie.

Ashley thought about why he had filed the suit, and said, "To clear my name—I was branded guilty—and to make someone accountable for Gravitt's death."

Unable to shake a habit of nearly a quarter of a century, Ashley still uses "we" when talking about Bell.

"I have a lot of dear friends with Bell," said Ashley, still smiling.

Dear Abby

Woman Wants Advice About Ex-Con Boyfriend

DEAR ABBY: I am a respected, 28-year-old woman with a fairly prestigious position. Carl is 25. He says he loves me, and I believe him. He wants a serious relationship with me. He is very well-mannered and handsome — the Paul Newman type.

Carl is back in college and will graduate in a year. He's an excellent student. My problem: He's an ex-convict. In his sophomore year, he was caught smuggling drugs from Mexico to Texas and spent two years in prison. He is now paroled.

Carl has a driving ambition to succeed, and he wants me to be part of his life. I feel he desperately needs emotional support and has turned to me. I've always sympathized with troubled people and could easily be swept off my feet by his charm and good looks.

Will his being an ex-con handicap him? Do you think we could make it together? WONDERING IN DALLAS

DEAR WONDERING: Keep on wondering until you are sure. What does Carl mean by a "serious relationship" with you? Marriage? Living together? He says he loves you, but you mention only the "emotional support" you could provide for him. You even suggest the possibility of being taken in by his charm and good looks.

Being an ex-convict is surely no asset, but thank God society is much more willing to give an ex-convict a second chance, so don't hold that against him.

Go slowly, dear, without committing yourself as a part of his life until you know which direction his life is taking. Good luck, and may God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Add this one to your list of how a husband can't tell if his wife is fooling around: if he starts shaving twice a day and suddenly makes constant use of those breath-sweeteners. Also, if he "loses" more than two handkerchiefs a week, follow him!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

SUNSET ON THE PRAIRIE — A setting sun sinks behind a small country church near Leonardville, Kansas, recently.

St. Paul's Lutheran History Dates Way Back

District reports in "The Lutheran" and "Lutheran Witness" and Rev. W. H. Bewie in his book "Missouri in Texas" state that missionaries and young pastors visited Big Spring from 1887.

Rev. H. Ruhland, a candidate just out of the seminary, made a trip to Big Spring in the spring of 1887. He reported his findings and later that year Rev. J. Barthel was sent to visit West Texas. He later went as far as El Paso and reported, "The great drought crippled the work of the missions."

People began to move away. The fields were scorched earth. Cattle died in numbers. Drinking water often had to be hauled long distances. It required years before the area recovered from the drought.

Rev. Seils succeeded Rev. Barthel and made Hamilton the base of his field. When Rev. Seils first came he had a long beard even though he was only 27 years old. He served Pottsboro, Jonesboro, Cisco, Abilene, Big Spring, Baird and Clifton.

DAYS OF DROUGHT
Gradually West Texas recovered from the drought; people again moved in. It was decided to divide the field. The final division for West Texas was called the "T&P" field, with Cisco as the seat. At that time there were merely preaching stations at Cisco, Abilene, Baird and Big Spring.

During the early history of the church, services were conducted in the homes of the members; particularly in the homes of Mrs. G. Ruechert, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fahrerkamp, Mr. and Mrs. John Helfritsch and Louise Bauer.

On March 14, 1909 there was organized a "Zion Evangelical Lutheran" congregation, under the leadership of the Rev. C. H. Byer. The first signatures of the organizers of Zion Congregation were: Adolf Kaase, Gustav J. Pachall, August H. Pachall, Will Roitsch and Ed Roitsch. This original congregation met in private homes in the vicinity of what is now known as Luther, northeast of Big Spring.

The Rev. C. H. Byer and Rev. Geo. C. Falsken conducted services at Luther in the German language. At about the time Rev. Ralsken was called away, the Lutheran services were transferred into the city of Big Spring proper and there again met in private homes.

WEGGESONEN
"Weggesonen" which means "Moved Away" was written by many of the names of the original members. What happened, as told by some of the families who remember this, was that when the Lutheran services were transferred into or near Big Spring, those in the country felt constrained to find a different location. Poor farming conditions may have, with other circumstances, contributed its share of influencing these pioneer Lutherans of "Luther" to move away.

Nevertheless, Lutheranism sailed on under the banner of Zion Lutheran Church with the use of the German language until the year 1929 when the existing group was reorganized and on Aug. 21, 1929 became "St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Big Spring. Both languages were used until the death of the pioneers and original organizers of the Zion congregation. After that the English language was used exclusively.

BANNER OF ZION
The church records of Zion Lutheran Church list the following ministerial acts performed from 1908 through Sept. 1929: 32 baptisms and 19 confirmations; only one marriage — that of Karl Leudke and Emma Pachall on May 25, 1914. The first recorded communion service was held March 26, 1908 with 10 communicants partaking of the Lord's supper. From 1908 to 1929, the Lord's Supper was celebrated at least four times a year.

St. Paul's Lutheran of Big Spring celebrated its tenth anniversary in Oct. 1939, at which time Rev. Theo. H. Graalman wrote the histories of all three congregations which he was serving at that time — Christ Lutheran in Loraine and Grace Lutheran in Midland were observing their 30th anniversaries the same year.

St. Paul's was celebrating its 10th. He stated that the first service held in Big Spring, in 1887, was in the home of Mrs. John Helfritsch. Following is the list of pastors who served Lutheran families before St. Paul Lutheran was officially organized. Pastor's from Dallas, Abilene and Loraine, who served Lutheran families in their homes in and around Big Spring before St. Paul Lutheran Church was officially organized are Rev. Barthel, 1886-1889; Rev. R. Seils, 1890-1891; Rev. E. F. Moerbe, 1892-1895; Rev. M. Waechter, 1896-1899; Rev. Charles E. Hoek, 1899-1902; Rev. G. J. Mueller, 1903-1906; Rev. C. M. Beyer, 1906-1911; Rev. G. S. Falsken, 1911-1913; Rev. E. A. Heckman, 1913-1920; Rev. A. J. F. Meier, 1920-1923; Rev. E. Ruff, 1923-1926; and Rev. C. F. Juergensen, 1926-1928.

PASTOR CALLED
Rev. W. G. Buchschacher accepted a call to Big Spring and the various preaching stations served by former pastors in 1928. At first he made his home in Loraine since more substantial Lutheran people seemed to be located there. Services were conducted twice a month in Big Spring in the various homes and in North Ward School and the necessity of erecting a house of worship was soon recognized.

The former Presbyterian Church was purchased and moved to a location on the north side of 501 North Gregg. The church was dedicated by the Rev. W. H. Bewie who at the time was Field Secretary of Lutheran Missions in Texas, on Sept. 22, 1929. This motivated the people, the pastor, and the Mission Board to encourage Rev. Buchschacher to establish his residence in Big Spring. Services were held every Sunday for the first time in the history of the congregation.

Rev. Buchschacher also continued serving Loraine, Midland, Hyman and Wink. The first Sunday School and Ladies Aid were organized while Rev. Buchschacher was here. He left in 1931.

GREAT SURPRISE
Rev. Thos. H. Graalman was the next pastor. He said in a letter, "It was a great surprise when I received a call to West Texas in the year 1935." During those years there were 400 idle candidates waiting for calls. A second reason for his surprise was that his field of activity comprised about 13 counties. This seemed extra large because they had five Lutheran Churches in one county of his home, Ft. Dodge, Iowa.

The first people he contacted here were Adolph Jahren, chairman of the congregation and Mr. and Mrs. Juergensen, with whom he made his first home. When he came here St. Paul had 29 communicants and 48 souls, Loraine had about the same, Midland had 12 communicants, Hyman 16, and Wink 8.

The Rev. Graalman had a 1929 Essex car which he used for 7 months; he then purchased a new Chevrolet which he drove for the next 4½ years.

When he left Big Spring for Brenham, he had traveled a total of 170,000 miles in serving Christ in this area. The first child he baptized was C. B. Brummet, Jr. and the second was a child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Caldwell in Loraine.

He commented about Big Spring, "The progress has been very slow...I shall never forget (nor will the Lord) the faithfulness of some of its members. I recall Mrs. Herman Weise who lived about 6 miles from Big Spring, but she was always there, even if it meant walking that distance. Rev. Graalman was married to Miss Gertrude Snyder in Big Spring on June 20, 1940. He preached his farewell sermon here Feb. 3, 1941 and moved to Grace Lutheran Church, Brenham, Texas.

The Rev. Raymond L. Kasper served from March 1941 until he was called into the chaplaincy during World War II in 1943.

The history of the church after 1942 will be published in a later issue of the Herald.

Film Slated At Evangel
A new dramatic film, "Like A Mighty Army," the down-to-earth true story of a man in tune with his times, will be shown at Evangel Temple Assembly of God on Wed., October 22 at 7 p.m.

The social revolution among young people today is frightening in many of its aspects. Even the church is being seriously questioned as to its existence and activity. Instead of responding with bewilderment and fear, a handful of people in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida led by their dynamic young minister, Rev. James Kennedy, committed themselves to the principle of providing life-changing answers for the people of their community.

In nine short years the Coral Ridge Church has become one of the fastest growing congregations in the world, growing from 17 to more than 2,000 members and needing three Sunday morning services to handle the crowds.

Stewardship Leader To Speak Here Sunday

Dr. H. Paul Holdridge, vice president of Stewardship and Development, Southwestern Assemblies of God College, will speak at Evangel Temple Assembly of God, Oct. 19 at 11 a.m. according to Pastor Teddy Wilson.

Dr. Holdridge became associated with the college in early 1970, following his pastorate in Bartlesville, Oklahoma for fourteen years.

A native of Comanche County Texas, the Rev. Mr. Holdridge graduated from DeLeon High School, attended Tarleton College, and Southern Methodist University. He taught in the public schools of Comanche County for five years, before entering the ministry. He holds the Bachelor of Arts degree, an honorary Doctor of Divinity and a Doctor of Philosophy in Guidance and Counseling.

Prior to his becoming a member of the Administration of Southwestern Assemblies of God College, Dr. Holdridge pastored churches in Dallas, McCombs, Plainview and El Paso, Texas; Hope, Arkansas, Albuquerque, New Mexico; and Bartlesville, Oklahoma. He also served as District Secretary and later as District Superintendent of the West Texas District, and also Superintendent of the New Mexico District.

As vice president of stewardship and development, Rev. Holdridge serves the Southwest Region comprising Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Colorado and Utah. Touring these states, he serves also as Director of the Laymen's Council and of the Ex-Student Association.

The pastor, Rev. Wilson, cordially invites the public to hear this special speaker.

DR. HOLDRIDGE

Budget Discussion Scheduled

DALLAS — A record $23-million budget will top items to be discussed when the Baptist General Convention of Texas meets here later this month.

The state's largest protestant denomination — with 2.2-million members and 4,400 churches and missions — is scheduled to hold its annual meeting in the Dallas Convention Oct. 28-30.

Messengers will debate the $23-million budget, the largest ever adopted by a state Baptist Convention. The budget will fund activities ranging from foreign missions to child care centers, homes for the aged, hospitals, higher education and the many other ministries performed in Texas by Baptists.

The convention also will see debate on a proposal to re-order the internal structure, giving better administration of hospitals, child care facilities and colleges.

Currently, the convention sponsors four child care homes, five homes for the aging, eight hospitals, eight colleges and universities and one academy.

Messengers also will elect a new president to replace Dr. Ralph Smith, pastor of Hyde Park Baptist Church in Austin, who has served two years.

MAKING PLANS

Do you like to build things . . . a bird house or a skyscraper? If you are such a person, you know that plans are involved, often difficult ones. Usually we use the drawing board before we start building. Making plans may be called foresight or looking ahead — and we all know that this is necessary whether building an object or building your life.

As you make plans for the future, don't overlook one of the most effective and time-honored aids in building a strong character — your church! Like millions before you, you may find just what you need to make your plans succeed.

Achieve success? This is what we all want and what we plan for. Start your planning now by going to church next Sunday.

ON TRIAL IN IDAHO

Former Sexton Claims To Have Killed 42

WALLACE, Idaho (AP) — A former sexton at an Episcopal church on trial for two murders sat calmly on the witness stand, smiling occasionally, as he described the deaths of 42 persons he claims to have killed in satanic worship and drug dealing.

Thomas Eugene Creech, 25, of Portland, Ore., spent a full day Thursday on the witness stand, denying that he was guilty of the two murders for which he is on trial.

If his bizarre account of the other murders is true, it would become the largest mass murder case in U.S. history.

Law enforcement officials in several states discounted many of his claims, saying they had investigated earlier statements from Creech and found nothing. But other officers said they had found bodies on information given them by Creech and more charges might be filed.

Creech took the stand as the first witness in his own defense against the accusation that he shot two itinerant painters after they picked him up on a remote

Central Idaho mountain highway Nov. 4.

Creech testified he met John Wayne Bradford, 40, and Edward Thomas Arnold, 34, at Grand Junction, Colo., a month before their deaths and was involved in drug-running with them. But he said other members of the ring killed them.

Defense attorney Bruce O. Robinson told the jury he planned a full disclosure of Creech's life and said it would be "complex and shocking." But he said the jury was not to conclude Creech was "a cold-blooded thrill-killer."

Creech already is charged with a pair of murders in Oregon. And authorities in Nevada, California and Wyoming said they wanted to see whether Creech is convicted and gets the mandatory death penalty for first-degree murder in Idaho before filing any charges in their states.

Creech also claimed to have committed murders in Ohio, Washington, Utah, New Mexico, Montana, Oklahoma and Kansas. He said some of the murders were committed during human sacrifices by satanic cults.

Creech called himself a professional killer for a motorcycle gang involved in national drug traffic. He said a casino operator in Las Vegas, Nev., gave him contracts for the killings.

Creech has given officials and newsmen a lengthy account of his life, including his claimed killings.

Creech testified he was captured while on his way to Colorado to fulfill a murder contract on Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo. He said he attended a meeting in Salt Lake City in July 1973 in which Hart and Govs. John Love of Colorado and John J. Gilligan of Ohio were involved with deals with a drug syndicate.

Law enforcement officers have discounted the story. Hart, Gilligan and Love called the story preposterous, outrageous and ravings.

VOLT GUN VICTIM — William Lawson, left, wears a patch over the injury after a young blonde walked into the gas station and zapped him with a 50,000-volt electric gun. Police said he was the first known victim of the electronic-age dart gun, which immobilizes its victims. The chart of a man with a dart shot from the flashlight-looking gun is shown at right.

Houston Con Identified As UFO Cult Leader

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — The man identified as a leader of a Jesus Christ Outer Space cult served a four-month sentence for auto theft in a St. Louis County jail late last year and early this year, St. Louis County authorities say.

The Portland Oregonian Thursday identified Marshall Herff Applewhite, Jr., 44, of Brownsville, Tex., as one of "The Two," who told their followers to forget everything and prepare to leave earth on a spaceship to meet their savior.

The woman who accompanies him has been identified as Bonnie Lou Truesdale Nettles, 48, of Houston, Tex.

Applewhite was arrested on a St. Louis County auto theft warrant, after he failed to return a rental car. At the time, he identified himself as a free-lance writer.

County police records show he served a four-month term for auto theft from Oct. 15, 1974 to Feb. 18, 1975 in the county jail at Gumbo.

Plans To Appeal Houston Rate Hike

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Fred Hofheinz says he plans to appeal a decision by a district judge to grant a $76.2 million electric utility rate increase for Houston lighting and Power Co.

District Court Judge John C. Patterson granted the rate increase Thursday pending a full trial on the issue in several months.

HL&P had requested that the rate hike, which City Council earlier rejected, be put into effect pending the trial. HL&P presented witnesses supporting its position and Patterson made his ruling without allowing the City of Houston to present testimony.

"I'm outraged," City Atty. Jonathan Day said. "The court's ruling has denied the ratepayer any opportunity to present its case.

In making the ruling, Patterson said "There is a reasonable probability that the plaintiff (HL&P) will succeed on final trial."

J.G. Reese, HL&P board chairman and chief executive said a 15 per cent electricity rate increase will go into effect immediately.

Reese said the increase is needed because the cost of future needs such as a nuclear-powered plant are escalating rapidly and the company's current revenue places it in a bad position on a competitive financial market.

Day said HL&P deserved less than half of what it asked for.

Convicted Doctor In Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The Vancouver Sun says an American convicted in 1968 of a sexual assault on a female patient is practicing here as a psychologist and hypnotist.

The evening newspaper said Thursday that documents obtained from authorities in Dallas, Tex., show that Jack M. Mirowitz was convicted in a jury trial of "aggravated assault, male or female," a misdemeanor, and sentenced to two years in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The Sun said Mirowitz left the United States in 1970 while free on bond and never served the sentence. The paper said Dallas authorities hold arrest warrants for Mirowitz.

Canadian immigration officials learned of the conviction for the first time Wednesday and have launched an investigation, the Sun reported.

Supple Is Honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Oliver "Bill" Supple, the ex-Marine credited with deflecting a gun pointed at President Ford, has been honored by a group of construction unions and says he has received letters of praise and some containing threats.

He also said he would "do it again," adding: it's "a human life, isn't it? A human life is probably the highest priced thing in the world. I think I would, sure."

Supple, 32, was cited for "outstanding courage" at a luncheon Wednesday sponsored by the San Francisco Building and Construction Trades Council. He said Ford had "thanked me for an act of heroism and appreciated me. Just a very nice letter."

He said the thanks included an invitation to join Ford when the chief executive returns to San Francisco Oct. 30 for a Republican fundraising luncheon.

Claims Fathers Have Unequal Protection

DALLAS (AP) — An organization called Texas Fathers for Equal Rights claims that fathers are denied equal protection and due process in Texas and has filed a lawsuit in federal court challenging the state's child custody procedures.

William Lee Shelton Jr., of Dallas, one of the plaintiffs, said Thursday, "In all of the cases we are familiar with, none grant the father equal relationship with the mother."

The legal action seeks an expanded, decision-making role for fathers in such areas as education, medical treatment, religious training and personal contact.

Named as defendants in the case were four Dallas County domestic relations court judges.

Teacher Assaulted

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A 44-year-old woman must, within 10 days, answer city charges that she assaulted a Wyatt High School teacher in his classroom this week.

The woman's 16-year-old son also was arrested after the incident at the school.

The woman was charged in municipal court with assault by contact on the teacher. The school district also filed charges against the woman saying that she disrupted school, a violation of the Texas Education Code.

The incident began when the teacher refused to allow the 16-year-old youth to enter his classroom because of a disturbance the day before.

No serious injuries were reported.

Newspapers Must Heed Interests

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Newspapers will have to pay more attention to the changing interests of their readers if they are going to survive, Robert G. Marbut, president of the Harte-Hanks newspaper group of Texas, said today.

And the crunch is only a few years off, he said. By 1980 the biggest segment of the U.S. population will be between 20 and 35 years old, the age group most distrustful of newspapers in their present form.

Marbut was the keynote speaker at the 28th annual convention of the Japan Newspaper Publishers and Editors Association.

"This is the most challenging time since the '30s for daily newspapers in the United States," he said.

Newspaper circulation is dropping, particularly among papers that have ignored the dramatic change in American values and reader interests the last 10 years, he added. Circulation is currently weakest among readers under 25 years old.

The generation growing up today is far better educated than any previous generation, he said. It is quite capable of reading, but it is not reading the kind of newspapers that are being put out today. It prefers the underground press, books, even economics, Marbut said.

Marbut said American values have changed more dramatically today than ever before, and many of the radical views that originated on American college campuses in the 1960s are generally accepted today.

The most significant of these is distrust of government, business and the press, he said.

Rising costs and falling productivity add to the problems of the press, he said, and the answer lies in operating more efficiently and paying more attention to the public.

Marbut said a few newspapers are bucking the downward trend, holding their readership, and even expanding it. He cited suburban dailies and weeklies, community and shopper newspapers which, he said, give their readers more of the information they want than the metropolitan dailies.

Cosmonaut

Kids About Liquor Rules

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, touring the United States with fellow Soviet and American Soyuz-Apollo spacemen, kidded Salt Lake City about local drinking habits.

"I know you have your rules and regulations here about liquor," Leonov, the Soyuz-Apollo joker, said Tuesday referring to Mormon prohibitions against alcoholic beverages. "But I must admit that I have several bottles of liquor in my suitcases."

Leonov is touring with fellow cosmonaut Valeri Kubasov and American astronauts Thomas Stafford, Vance Brand and Donald Slayton. They arrived here from Omaha, Neb.

Charged In

Girl's Shooting

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The district attorney's office said charges of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon likely will be filed Thursday against two 19-year-old youths involved in the shooting of a 16-year-old girl on Fort Worth's east side this week.

Narcotics officers said they filed a misdemeanor marijuana charge against a third suspect, 18, arrested with the other two after the shooting.

Taffie Price was listed in fair condition at Peter Smith Hospital Wednesday after she was shot in the abdomen Tuesday evening.

Police said the girl and her brother were standing in their front yard when two car loads of teenagers pulled up. Several shots were fired which, police said, were meant for Miss Price's brother.

The suspects were arrested later.

PUTTING THE 'SURPRISE' IN CRACKER JACK — Ms. Susan Reedquist, assistant product manager for the Cracker Jack division of a large food manufacturer, checks thousands of prizes as they roll onto conveyor belt en route to a box of candied peanut and popcorn treat. Since 1912, the Chicago-based firm has packed about 25 billion child-pleasers into their product — some of which are becoming collector's items.

Dallas Desegregation Plan Is Delayed

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor has delayed implementation of a new Dallas school desegregation plan pending approval of his move by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals which had ordered a plan implemented by January.

Taylor said Thursday he was delaying implementation until August because to carry out a desegregation plan in the middle of a school term would be "disruptive" to the educational process.

Taylor pointed out also that Congress passed a law which prohibits mid-year implementation of desegregation plans by busing of school children.

The congressional act, he said, "violates no constitutional provisions and it is not an improper encroachment into the business of courts."

The judge also said that implementation of the plan would be disastrous to the school district which would run the risk of losing $9 million in federal funds if it implemented a desegregation plan at mid-year.

He said the district could not maintain standards at schools now qualifying for assistance for economically and educationally deprived pupils if it were under a mid-year desegregation plan.

He quoted school officials as saying that the standards which include such things as equal student-staff ratios are "difficult to maintain under the best circumstances."

Successful implementation of a plan "requires preparation by school authorities, teaching staff, and the community of parents and students," Taylor said.

The judge recently rejected as unconstitutional a plan submitted by the Dallas school board that would mean the busing of nearly 18,000 children.

Some school officials praised Taylor for his decision to delay implementation, but others considered it a maneuver to delay desegregation.

"The judge can do what he wants," said trustee Dr. Emmett J. Conrad. "The urgency was 20 years ago. Each day is just a little more painful, but that's the judge's prerogative."

The districts are Highland Park, Wilmer-Hutchins, Carrollton-Farmers Branch, DeSoto, Duncanville, Irving and Lancaster.

Airlift Is Scheduled

The March of Dimes committee focuses attention on the fight against birth defects when it stages its third annual Airlift at the Howard County Airport Sunday afternoon.

Planes will begin taking off with passengers at 1 p.m. from the Howard County Airport for 15-minute sightseeing loops of the city.

The last MOD Airlift saw about 400 persons in the sky over Big Spring and raised about $650 for March of Dimes birth defects work.

"We had eight planes flying last year, and we're hoping for 10 or more this time," project Airlift chairman Vaughn Martin.

Private aircraft are donated for the afternoon and piloted by their owners for the March of Dimes Airlift. Aviation fuel has been donated by Bill Wilson Oil Co.

Tickets may be purchased Sunday afternoon at Howard County Airport. Adults will be charged $2, persons 16 and under, $1.

Jaworski Disagrees With Watergate Report

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski says he disagrees with a final report by Watergate prosecutors that recommends a constitutional amendment that would clarify the question of whether a President can be indicted.

"There is no particular objective to be gained" from such an amendment, Jaworski said, and added that there are other issues bearing on the indictment of a President "apart from the question of whether you can."

Jaworski said the prosecutors' report did not address itself sufficiently to the problems related to a possible indictment of President Nixon.

These problems, he said, included the possible impact of a Nixon indictment on the coverup trial of presidential aides John Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Robert C. Mardian.

Jaworski said there were other questions of fairness toward Nixon.

"Every person would approach it differently," Jaworski said. "I was closer to the situation than the authors of the report."

Shipp Will Be Speaker

Herb Shipp, assistant pastor and Minister of Education at the First Baptist Church, will be the principal speaker at the annual Post Office Employees Banquet at the Downtown Tea Room, starting at 7 p.m., Saturday.

Postmaster and Section Center Manager David Holster of Midland will also speak at the banquet meeting.

Postmaster Frank Hardesty will present awards for Special Achievement to postal employees during the meeting.

Special guests of the postal employees will be all retired persons of the Big Spring Post Office.

Fall Camporee Starts Today

J. W. King Is Honored Guest
