Nine guilty of drug, racketeering charges

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Jurors convicted nine of 12 persons Saturday on federal drug and racketeering charges in connection with an alleged plot to smuggle 86 tons of marijuana into the United States.

Two defendants were acquitted and jurors were unable to reach a decision on the 12th defendant.

Jurors deliberated 14 hours before returning verdicts in the complicated case that originally had 16 defendants.

Prosecutors argued that the defendants had conspired to smuggle Colombian marijuana into the United States in 1976 and 1977, using four shrimp boats.

James Eddie Wimberly and Beth C. Holland were acquitted on all counts.

Orange shipbuilder Martin Marion Sneed, Sr., was found guilty seven of the eight counts against him, including one of continuing criminal enterprise which carries a mandatory prison term of 10 years to life, without parole.

Reclusive Tennessee millionaire John Ruppel also had been charged with continuing criminal enterprise, but jurors deadlocked on all counts against him.

Bryant O'Neal, Harold F. Hannon, James Louis Holland and Raymond Eugene Hawkins were convicted on all counts.

Two of Sneed's sons drew convictions. Jurors could not decide on one count against Martin Sneed, Jr., but convicted him on two others. Clyde Sneed was found guilty on one of three counts filed against him.

Clifford J. Swiere and Thomas T. Wimberly, James' brother, werc convicted on all counts except for a conspiracy charge.

Four of the original defendants were severed from the case after the trial began because of guilty pleas, plea-bargains and other arrangements.

U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher rejected several defense motions for mistrial during deliberations Saturday.

After the verdict, attorneys for all defendants indicated they would appeal the convictions. Fisher set no date for the formal sentencing.

Fisher closed the trial to the press and the public eight times during testimony, and before Friday's final arguments spent 10 minutes criticizing reporters for their coverage of the trial.

"The court is astounded and often amazed at their astounding lack of comprehension of legal proceedings," said Fisher.

"It is the court's opinion that the news media have no concern as to whether a trial is fair," he said. "Insofar as irresponsibility is concerned, they do not make a contribution to the betterment of society. I am amazed at the incompetency of the reporting."

During final arguments, eight different defense attorneys addressed the jury. They attacked the credibility of the state's key witness, Willis Judge Butler of Mesquite, who was a defendant in the case until he agreed to testify under a plea-bargain arrangement.

Assistant U.S. Attorney David Baugh said the marijuana the defendants allegedly tried to smuggle was worth $35 million wholesale.

During pulling contest at Fort Worth

Tractor explosion injures 16

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A supercharged tractor exploded and injured at least 16 persons, including three seriously, during a tractor-pulling contest at the Tarrant County Convention Center Saturday night, police said.

"A valve blew on one of the engines causing the upper manifold to do a shrapnel-type effect into the crowd" of 8,000 spectators, said ambulance dispatcher Ruben Rucker.

The driver that blew up was not injured.

A police dispatcher said "every ambulance we have" had been sent to the scene.

Rucker said 11 persons were taken by ambulance to three Fort Worth hospitals.

He said only the most seriously injured were taken by ambulance. He said several of the spectators had "deep cuts and broken bones."

Rucker said as many as 30 persons may have suffered some type of injury in the freak accident. He said many went in private cars to seek medical attention.

Two of the injured were listed in serious condition at St. Joseph Hospital.

"We have two in serious condition and two in good condition," said a hospital spokesman. "We are doing some Xrays now to determine if there are any broken bones."

One person was listed in serious condition at Harris Hospital, according to spokesman Pam Garner. She said two others were in good condition and the rest would be treated and released.

A spokesman at John Peter Smith Hospital said none of the four persons taken to that facility "appear to be really serious" condition.

"We have one who was sitting six rows back and was hit in the chest with something flying through the air. Another has a cut lip and possible facial fracutures. Another may have a skull injury," said the spokesman. "All are talking and alert."

The tractor pull is a semi-annual event in Fort Worth, in which tractor drivers compete in speed races and pulling weights for cash prizes.

Davis groupies reviewed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Being a trial groupie is no breeze. The pay's awful, the hours long, and, as a popular comic suggests, you get little respect.

"They make us sound like carnival queens," grumbled one, whom we'll call Dottie.

Dottie, Barbie and Penny and their pals have abandoned whatever it is they normally do to follow the murder-for-hire trial of millionaire industrialist Cullen Davis.

They are the "regulars," as opposed to the "irregulars" — those who surface only when a major witness is on the stand.

When the latter occurs, being a groupie can be hazardous. One lady got herself bloodied up in the scramble for choice seats in Judge Gordon Gray's courtroom.

"When they opened the door that day," a reporter recalled, "it sounded like a ticket sale at a rock concert."

Many come bearing gifts for Davis, who turned 46 Saturday, and his handsome defense team: Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, Phil Burleson, Mike Gibson and Steve Sumner.

The bounty ranges from pickles to pastry, and once included flowers and a chef's salad. Brownies, apple turnovers and zucchini bread are favorites.

Being a groupie, says Barbie, "is hard. It's just like having a job. I'm so afraid I'll miss something."

Barbie is the stereotype of the Davis groupie. At 48, she is a housewife "mesmerized" by the defendant and his lawyers and totally convinced of Davis' innocence.

"I'm proud to be seen with him because I don't believe he's guilty," said Barbie, whose photo album includes a picture of Davis posing with Sheriff Lon Evans.

Minister witnesses suicide at church

Man pulls trigger to end saga

NORTH RICHLAND HILLS, Texas (AP) — A Church of Christ minister who witnessed a suicide at his church says he would have done anything he could to save the gunman's life, but was helpless.

"I tried to wrestle with him for his life but it just didn't work," said senior Minister Jon Jones of the Church of Christ in this Fort Worth suburb.

Jones said he stood by and prayed while Jimmy Rodgers, 42, shot himself to death Friday in the foyer of Jones' church.

Earlier, police said Rodgers had critically wounded his exwife, telephoned a death threat against his divorce judge, and fired on officers who had been summoned to the church.

Jones said later he had never seen Rodgers before the man came into the church carrying a pistol in one hand, a shotgun in the other, and a pistol in a holster.

"I was in my study, and he came into the reception area. He told the receptionist that he wasn't going to hurt her but that he wanted to see a minister," Jones said.

"Peggy (Hunt, his secretary) was afraid he knew me and was mad, because he had guns. She told him twice to put the guns down, and he just said, 'Get the pastor,'" Jones said.

Jones said his secretary used her passkey to come into his office, where the man told Jones:

"I have just killed my wife and I want you to pray for me and my family."

Jones said he told the man: "'Let's pray together,' and he stood still for the first time in the 30 or 45 minutes he was there.

"I just prayed a little, simple prayer for him. I was scared to death. I could see he was right on edge.

"Just as I finished the prayer, a lady and child just strolled into the office. I said this gentlemen and I want to talk and pray together. I was finally left alone with Rodgers.

"They had been married for 19 years and he loved her and couldn't stand it. She had broken up the marriage and he said he did not want tt live.

"He began to hold the pistol to his throat and wheel the shotgun around. 'I don't want to hurt anybody,' he said. Sometimes he would point the gun at me, but I didn't think he was going to hurt me, I really didn't," Jones said.

"He said, 'I want to find a special place in the building, somewhere where there's lots of light.' I took him down the hall to the classrooms," said Jones, who has been a minister for 23 years.

"He said he had no minister, had no church and didn't have anybody.

"We walked and talked until we came to a foyer.

"I said, 'I won't leave your side. They aren't going to hurt us.' I just kept pleading with him," Jones said.

"The man was articulate. He was nervous and upset but never abusive and he never cursed.

"I knew in my heart that they (the police) were going to show up, and I hoped they wouldn't bust in.

Jones said another of the church's ministers, "burst in and nearly got himself shot. I said, 'There's nothing you can do here. He argued with me and I said, 'Bob, get out of here,' and he finally left.

"Then I heard a police radio. One of our secretaries had called the police, but they didn't get the word they were supposed to go around back, so they came in the front door. I could hear the radios, and I knew something was about to break loose," Jones said.

"He fired the shotgun right through the door. After he fired the shot, I backed up — I was about four feet from him," the minister said. "I was trying to get out of the line of fire.

"I said, 'Put the gun down. You're going to hurt somebody,' but he never spoke to me after he fired the shot.

"He just kind of mumbled to himself. He started moving across the floor, and I said, 'I'm just going to stand here and pray for you.'

"I just bowed my head because there wasn't any more I could do. I prayed Rodgers would not hurt himself or anyone else, but he moved across the floor and he just killed himself.

"I had my head bowed and I didn't see him, but I heard the shot. I unlocked the door and bolted out of there.

"I felt I'd failed with him. After he fired the (first) shot, I couldn't approach him, he had stopped talking to me," Jones said.

"He didn't come here to kill me — he came to see a minister. When he saw me he seemed to identify with me.

"It's a terrible thing. I would have done anything I could."

Mothers are not on welfare

Center--friend indeed to working parent

By EILEEN McGUIRE

The women whose children are cared for at the Westside Day Care Center, a federally funded day care center, could be anybody's daughters, according to Director Patricia Lawlis.

Mrs. Lawlis struck down one common misconception. "They're not a bunch of welfare mothers," she said. "Most of our mothers are young middle class women who are the heads of households."

All of the mothers are working mothers. They have to be, Mrs. Lawlis explained, in order to qualify for the low cost day care program. Most have good jobs and are working toward better ones.

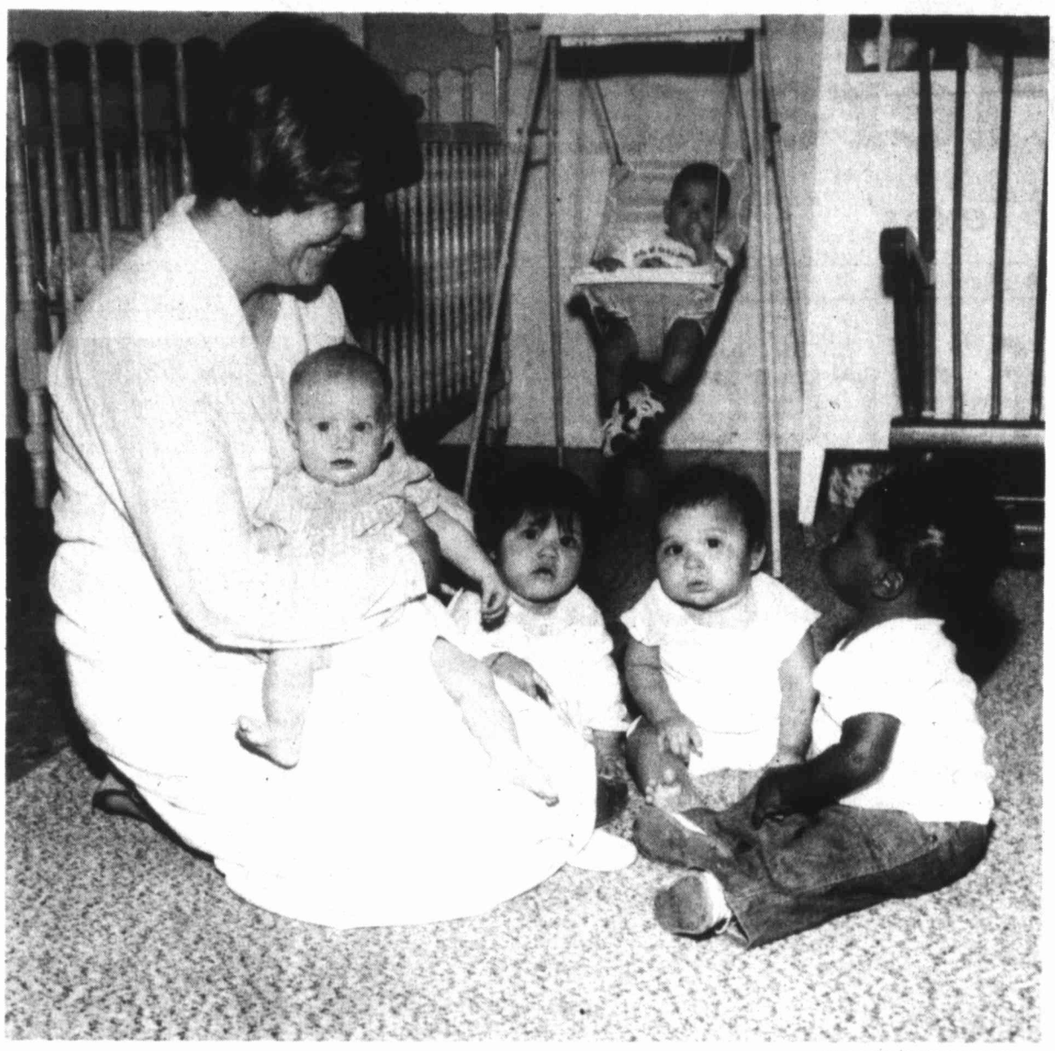

Among them are city and county employees, employees of T.G.&Y., the Big Spring Dress Shop, Highwood, Walls, two at the Big Spring Herald, several at the Big Spring State Hospital, Malone & Hogan, Security State Bank, McDonalds, Gibson's, K-Mart's, and two at Sears.

They qualify for the Westside Day Care program because with only one source of income in most cases, they cannot afford the high price of day care for their children while they work.

The day care center, located at Industrial Park, makes work for these mothers possible by charging only 15 percent of the family's monthly gross income per week for one child's care, 2 percent for two or more children. The program is not limited to women. Mrs. Lawlis stated that single fathers with custody of their children have also used the program.

Funding for the program comes from a variety of sources. The largest source is the federal government. Under Title 20, the federal government will provide a 70 percent match to 30 percent local funds. The federal funding comes to the Westside Community Day Care Center through the local Department of Human Resources.

The federal government has contracted $139,000 for the day care center's next fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, provided the day care center can come up with that 30 percent.

LITTLE LAMBS — Westside Day Care Center Director Pat Lawlis pays a visit to the "Little Lambs" room, a nursery for children from 6-weeks up to 18-months old. Isaac martinez swings in the background while Mrs. Lawlis amuses from left, Laicy McGuire, Frances Alcanter, Sergio Gamboa and Ronny Mentor. The nursery is equipped with a staff of substitute moms and homelike furnishings, including a much-used rocking chair, to give even the smallest lambs all the mothering they need while their parents work.

Parents' fees will provide a projected $12,000 and United Way will provide another $8,000 provided its goal is met. According to Mrs. Lawlis, state funding amounts to only about a tenth of needed local funds. An estimated $22,000 must come from private foundation and sources.

The day care center faces a new financial situation this year. In the past, the Westside Community Center has been a donor agency to the day care center. Effective Oct. 1, the day care center is on its own.

A public carnival planned for Sept. 28, 6 to 9 p.m. at the day care center, won't provide much, but it's a beginning. Mrs. Lawlis said that applications have been made to private foundations, in hopes that one will take on the day care center as the community center has in the past.

The day care center serves several needs in the community. There is a waiting list of 45 children that have not been accepted as of yet to lack of space. They will be accepted according to priority.

First priority are protective cases — children who need day care while parents work out problems in the home. The second priority is given to children of working mothers who are receiving AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children). The low day care rates give these mothers a chance to get off welfare and become self-supporting.

The majority of children are third priority — children of income-eligible parents. These parents,usually women, are generally single and, according to the center's regulations, earn 55 percent or less of the median income for the size of their family.

Usually, Title 20 adds another $50 each year to the annual income limit of qualifying families. Despite this year's inflation and protests of social services workers, there will be no increase this year. And despite inflation, the unit rate provided for the children under the Title 20 has been dropped from $10.74 per day last year to $10.48 per day this year.

The federal government is contracted to provide care for 55 children at the center. Yet the demand is so great in the Big Spring community that Westside has been 105 percent over-enrolled all year, according to Mrs. Lawlis.

"We only get paid for 55 of them. We absorb the excess loss."

And there's still the waiting list. Of the seven categories of priorities, only the top three have a real chance of getting in. Those children who have been placed on the list for cultural enrichment, said Mrs. Lawliss, will probably not make it in. There are too many children and their mothers who need the day care center in order to make a living.

The waiting list provides for an unhappy cycle that, according to Mrs. Lawlis, happens frequently.

"A mother came in last week. She'd just gotten a job at K-Bob's and needed a day care center for her child. We couldn't keep the child. She said she guessed she wouldn't go to work.

"It happens a lot. The mother must be working before we can accept the child, yet many of them can't go to work until we do accept the child."

There is some opposition to federally-funded day care centers, locally and nationwide. Mrs. Lawlis said that without them, the welfare roles would be higher.

"I feel like it's a changing world. I stayed at home when my kids were little, but these mothers would not be able to work without it. If they can't work, they'll probably have to go on welfare. This would do three things — reduce the work force, increase welfare and take away these mothers' self-confidence.

"I think it's about $6 a day at a regular day care center now. You'd have to make an awful lot of money and the pay here just isn't that great. I think a lot of people who are against federally-funded day care centers just don't realize how expensive day care is."

Nola Jones is a typical of most of the mothers whose children attend Westside Day Care Center.

She is a single mother, working full-time at Highwood to support her 2½-year-old son, Franklin. Four nights a week, she attends Howard College where she is studying toward a future as a registered nurse. Franklin has been attending Westside for nearly a year.

"If the Westside Day Care Center wasn't here, I don't know what I'd do. I'd have to work, but paying $4 a day and $80 a month child care, I don't know how I'd do it."

Nola said she was not aware of Westside Day Care Center's income-eligible program until she visited the center, looking for a program for her child. She was fed up with babysitters.

"If it wasn't for this day care center, I'd be in a real bad situation. I'm paying for college. This year, I paid $70 tuition and $50 for books for just two classes. If Franklin wasn't in Westside, I wouldn't be able to pay for school and if I don't go to school, I'm going to be like this forever.

"And it's been really good for Franklin, too. He makes things here and he is extremely proud of his handiwork. On Mother's Day, he made a card with his handprint on it. When you've got kids that you can't stay home with, those kinds of things mean a lot."

Because it is federally-funded, the Westside Day Care Center is highly regulated. About 80 percent of the federal funding pays the salaries of the staff. The staff is hired to make up a regulated ratio of staff per children.

Babies six weeks old through kindergarten age children are cared for. There is a day room for each age group and a breakfast and lunch program exactly like the public school's program.

Half-day kingergarten students are taken to and picked up at Marcy School where a public school bus transports the children to Kentwood Kindergarten. Arrangements are also made for pikcing up Head Start children so that mothers can work knowing that their children's needs are being met.

"The kids here are comparable with kids who have been at home full-time with their parents. Most of them are above average for their age. It's not just a day care center; it's a teaching situation.

"I'd rather spend my tax dollars on something like this that helps the mother and child than spend them on straight welfare.

"These mothers out here — they could be anybody's daughters."

Without securing the funding that is needed for the Westside Day Care Center, closure is a possibility, but Mrs. Lawlis prefers to think optimistically.

"My goal is to get more outlaying centers — maybe some center day homes to take some of the overflow."

Mrs. Lawlis has been director of the center since April, 1978. The mother of four grown children, she went back to college and graduated in Aug. 1977 from Texas Tech with a degree in social work. She has worked in Title I schools and was a counselor for the CETA program for six months.

The day care center extends an invitation to the public to attend the carnival Friday. It will be much like public schools' carnivals with games such as Bingo, prize walk, fish pond and cake walk, and there will be homemade Mexican food, hot dogs and Cokes. There is no admission fee.

During the night, a brown and beige afghan, made by nursery attendant Omega Hernandez, will be raffled off. Raffle tickets are $1 and are being sold by Westside employees, friends, and mothers. Tickets will be available the night of the carnival.

Mexico's gas lines

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Texas gas utilities official says bringing gas into the United States from Mexico under a new agreement between the countries should present no logistics problems because transmission lines already exist.

Joseph Piotrowski, director of the Gas Utilities Division of the Texas Railroad Commission, said linking United States lines to Mexico's gas pipeline would be a simple affair.

"As far as I can tell, the lines are already there," he said. "Rio Grande Valley Gas Co. has lines throughout the Lower Valley and hooks up with some major transmission lines. ... I doubt there would be a need for any construction."

He said transmission lines dipping into the Lower Valley include those of Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.

Gas transmission companies ship one another's gas all the time, and Piotrowski said in this case the mechanism probably "would be exchange agreements where they could swap out anywhere in the state."

The companies participating in the Mexican gas deal "are all integrated in Texas, so it will be no trouble at all."

39 overcome by fumes

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — At least 39 persons, most of them children, were treated and released Saturday at Air Force medical facilities here after being overcome by unknown fumes at the Brooks Air Force Base bowling alley.

Air Force Capt. Gordon Nedom said almost all of the victims were at the bowling alley Saturday morning for competition in a children's bowling league. The bowling alley and other buildings in the immediate area were shut down for the day as a precautionary measure, he said.

Two of the victims were treated briefly in hyperbaric pressure chambers at Brooks and 11 others received oxygen treatment there. Nedom said 26 others were treated and released at Wilford Hall Medical Center at nearby Lackland Air Force Base. At least five other persons complained of similar symptoms.

Nedom said 24 children were in the bowling alley, but said the ages were unavailable.

"It's unknown at this time what those fumes were or where they came from," said Nedom. "They have detected some carbon monoxide, but they are not sure that is what caused it. The closing of the other buildings was just a precautionary measure."

Buttons blossom in Texas

Draft Kennedy groups sprouting

The 1980 presidential campaign organizations have already been formed and registered with federal authorities. Petitions have been drawn up. Political buttons are being distributed. Fund-raising plans are under way.

Only the candidate — Sen. Edward Kennedy — is missing.

That is exactly what a rapidly growing group of renegade Texas Democrats hopes to change with the grass roots Draft Kennedy organizations sprouting across Texas.

Fueled by President Carter's popularity problems and the mystique of the Kennedy name, registered Kennedy organizations have already appeared in Dallas, San Antonio and El Paso.

Similar organizations are forming in Austin and Houston — where powerful Democratic National Committeewoman Billie Carr, acknowledged leader of liberal Texas Democrats, last week threw her support to the draft movement.

Democratic National Committeewoman Pat Pangburn of South Lake, one of the earliest Carter supporters in Texas, has also joined the Kennedy forces, as have state leaders of the Mexican-American Democrats.

At least six of the 62 State Democratic Committee members and several former members are actively spearheading the draft movement in Texas.

Texas is one of at least 19 states with an organized Draft Kennedy organization. While he has given more indications recently that he might be a candidate, Kennedy officially remains out of the race.

But the swelling movement to draft the Massachusetts senator for the 1980 Democratic nomination has some state Democratic officials worried about a possible intraparty battle that could cause a damaging rift and hand the 1980 election to the Republicans.

"I'm a little concerned about it. Considering the difficulties we find ourselves in, we don't need anything to compound them," said Carin Patman of Ganado, a member of the Democratic National Committee and a staunch Carter supporter. "There's a danger. We saw it with Ford and Reagan in the Republican Party in 1976. I hope it won't happen."

The Kennedy forces are aware of that possibility and are also hoping to avoid such a fatal battle. "The competition could be a shot in the arm for the party, unless we get into a name-calling, bloody battle. I don't intend to do that," said Ms. Carr. "It doesn't have to be that way."

The draft movement in Texas arose from an informal meeting between several SDC members during a committee gathering July 28 in Corpus Christi.

SDC members Richard Solo and Don Mason returned to Dallas and launched Texas for Kennedy-North Texas and Louise Caddell and Pat Robards went home to San Antonio and established Texas for Kennedy-South Texas.

Leaders of the groups said the initial response has been overwhelming and surprising.

Coaches' degrees from Ohio kicked

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Five high school coaches who received masters degrees from an Ohio college did not attend class, did not take a written test, had no instructor, no textbooks and no required courses, the Laredo Times reported Friday.

The coaches, who are entitled to $1,000 raises because of their advanced degrees, insist theyo worked hard for them. But some educators say they are concerned about the way Antioch College of Ohio operates its correspondence courses in Texas.

"They seem to be in the certificate business, rather than the education business," said Dr. Kenneth Ashworth, chairman of the State Coordinating Board of Schools and College. "They still haven't explained how a school in Ohio can oversee a degree program in Texas, through its office in San Francisco."

Laredo School Superintendent Vidal Trevino said the degrees, which were paid for with lowinterest, federally insured loans, must be honored because Antioch College is accredited through the North Central Region, and the Texas Education Administration's policy is to honor such accreditations.

"It doesn't make sense, but unfortunately as long as the TEA honors the degrees, there's nothing the school district can do," Trevino told the T[illegible]es.

'Rerun of 1971' not likely in redistricting

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If Texas legislators found redistricting tough in 1971, just wait till 1981, says a Georgian who helped remap House and Senate districts in her state.

Georgia was under the federal Voting Rights Act in 1971 but Texas was not. Texas was brought under the act since then and must gain U.S. Justice Department approval of its 1981 redistricting bills.

"It's a completely different situation you are looking at than you ever had before," Linda Meggers of the University of Georgia's Institute of Government said.

She talked to the House Committee on Regions, Compacts and Districts, which took a running start Friday at the problems it will face when the Legislature convenes after the 1980 census.

The U.S. Constitution says congressional districts must be reapportioned after each census, and the Texas Constitution says the same thing about legislative districts.

Rural areas likely will lose several legislative seats to urban areas as a result of population shifts the census is expected to disclose.

Ms. Meggers said the Georgia Legislature wrote its redistricting plan in 1971 without any consultations with the Justice Department.

"They bounced it back like a rubber ball," she said, and shed some unexpected insights on the Justice Department's thinking.

For instance, she said, the Georgians thought a majority black legislative district meant one that was 51 percent black. But Justice said a majority black district — one that would send a black representative to Atlanta — had to be 65 percent black.

Ms. Meggers also told Texas legislators, who care about such things, that the Justice Department does recognize safeguarding of incumbent lawmakers' districts as a legitimate concern.

But equality of population and avoiding dilution of minority political strength come first, she said.

"They start with black and Hispanic areas and work out. The rest of the state is up to you," Ms. Meggers said.

Speaker Bill Clayton and committee Chairman Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, both said they believed the Legislature would need computer assistance to pass redistricting bills that would satisfy the Justice Department and the courts.

The Rose Institute at Claremont College, Calif., sent its director, Alan Henslop, to make a pitch to the committee and top state officials for the institute's "Redis" system.

Denison has highest percentage of elderly

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Laredo has the highest percentage of youngsters and Sherman-Denison the highest percentage of elderly in their populations, a University of Texas researcher reported Saturday.

Lynne Norton, writing in the Texas Business Review, also noted that the highest percentage of college-military-age youths are found in the Killeen-Temple area, and Odessa has a higher percentage of residents, age 30-59, than any other city.

In 1975 nine metropolitan areas had 56.6 percent of the state's population. These areas were Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Amarillo, Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange, Corpus Christi, Galveston-Texas City, Midland and Odessa.

In the early 1970s, Ms. Norton said, "a greater proportion of the Texas population was under 30 than was true for the rest of the nation."

However, she said, "there is some indication" that eight small metropolitan areas in the Northeast Texas and Central Texas and rural counties "represent growing retirement centers in Texas, an indication that seems counter to the overall trend toward a younger state population."

She identified the metropolitan areas as Abilene, Longview-Marshall, San Angelo, Sherman-Denison, Texarkana, Tyler, Waco and Wichita Falls.

YOUR PHYSICIAN KNOWS BEST

Because you know a physician has to spend so many years at a medical school and internship in a hospital that he has knowledge about diseases and their treatment that you could not know. Because, when everyone but a physician selects a medicine to take, they usually do not treat the cause of the trouble but only try to stop the pain or discomfort.

Similar symptoms are often present in differing medical problems. A physician, aided by new diagnostic techniques, x-rays, urinalysis, etc., can find out what is causing your trouble and prescribe the one particular medicine he decides is best for you. That is why, if self-treatments do not help immediately, it is wise to go to a physician before a possible serious disease can develop.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

1980... A Passion Play Year in Europe

There's nothing else in the world to compare with the Passion Play at Oberammergau. The vast open-air stage, capable of holding 500 actors — the breathtaking mountain backdrop in the grandeur of the Bavarian Alps — the inspired village actors: all add up to a production so unique, so impressive and so soul-stirring that you will come away from it completely awestruck and deeply moved for years to come.

The first performance of the Passion Play was in 1634. In 1700 the present schedule of presenting the production every ten years on the "0" years was begun. A series of 300th anniversary and performances were presented in 1934. Historically accurate and beautifully made costumes were added in 1700. The musical score, composed by the local schoolmaster, was added in 1820. The present script, written by the village priest, dates from 1860. Characterizations are handed down in the same family generation after generation.

There's a true legend which surrounds the Passion Play as it's presented in this charming Bavarian village. When the Black Plague was sweeping through the country in the 17th Century, the devout inhabitants of the small valley community prayed to be spared. Danger passed them by, and in fulfillment of a vow they had made the entire village joined in creating a story of the Lord's Passion.

Attractive Oberammergau, 55 miles from Munich, lies in the splendor of the Bavarian Alps in a valley almost 3,000 feet above sea level encircled by peaks rising to 4,500 feet. The village is steeped in old-world charm. Visitors find the superb woodcarvings irresistible and are delighted with the beautiful hand-painted facades of the homes of buildings. Music fills the mellow atmosphere, and fun-filled hours can be spent in typical indoor and outdoor Bavarian cafes visiting with interesting people from many lands.

Anti-media campaign can get out of hand

William Winpisinger, president of the International Association of Machinists, is unhappy with the television writers.

Winpisinger complains that TV is portraying the American worker as a slob, a man short on brains and manners. He wants to bring about a change.

THE PROBLEM, Winpisinger believes, is that the worker has been depicted as a "shiftless lout, Archie Bunker or worse." His boss, on the other hand, is invariably pictured as a pillar of the community.

The IAM is taking a tip from the National Parent-Teachers Association and will start monitoring network television programs, after which it will cite examples on just how the average working man is portrayed. Ultimately, thousands of IAM members will be involved in the effort. Not only all the sitcoms will be scrutinized but the news program as well.

Certainly the IAM has license to spend its money and its efforts as it pleases but this kind of anti-media campaign could get out of hand. Granted, Archie Bunker may not be representative of the great mass of working people in America — but its authors never claimed he was. More than a few of the viewers can see something of themselves in Archie Bunker — some covertly, some overtly.

Bunker (ably portrayed by Carroll O'Connor) was and remains a comic figure — alternately repelling and endearing — a caricature drawn much larger than life.

BUT WHAT has Winpisinger got against management? The captains of industry invariably take their lumps as scheming, lustful individuals who invariably would do anything to reap a buck or force their affections on unsoiled young doves. Their creators have them involved in all sorts of nefarious activities. And who is laughed at more than the bumbling executives in the situation comedies? month."

The IAM can sound off as loudly and as long as it wishes — that comes with living in a free society. But the television industry shouldn't be intimated by a campaign such as Winpisinger is trying to mount.

News and entertainment programs homogenized to the point where they would ruffle the sensibilities of no one would be unutterably boring. A television landscape of unrelieved blandness would not be in the interests of the IAM or anyone else.

What is the IAM up up? is it trying to drive everyone into Archie's Bar?

New status

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Your status in Washington is no longer based on your title in government, nor how much entertaining you do, nor even if you come from Georgia.

You are now judged strictly on real estate.

I attended a party recently and my hostess was all aglow. "I want you to meet the most divine couple," she said. "These are the Schmertzes."

THE NAME didn't ring a bell. "They bought a house in Georgetown in 1965 for $14,000 and it is now worth $350,000," she explained.

I got excited. "Forgive me," I apologized, "I didn't know you were those Schmertzes. I've been reading about you in the real estate pages. Didn't you get a mortgage for 4½ percent?"

"It was actually 4¾," Schmertz said modestly. "You know how real estate reporters end to exaggerate."

Everyone gathered around the couple, while Sen. Teddy Kennedy stood in a corner all by himself. I looked around the room and couldn't believe my eyes. Coming in the door was Ziggy Wintermelon.

I went over to my hostess. "Marion, how did you ever get Ziggy Wintermelon, the condominium king, to come to your party?"

She just grinned mysteriously. "I told him Sam Freed might be here tonight. Wintermelon has been dying to meet him ever since Sam sold his mobile home in Potomac for $750,000."

"Is Freed coming?" I asked.

"HE'S ALREADY here, darling. He's talking to that man with the glasses and frizzy hair over there — I forget his name."

"That's Henry Kissinger," I told her.

"It's funny I don't remember inviting Kissinger. He really doesn't fit in with these people," she said.

"You certainly turned out the stars," I told her. "Isn't that Vic Orsini who just bought a million-dollar townhouse in the Kalorama section of Washington?"

"Yes, he closed on Friday. I believe he told me he's paying 12 percent for a 25-year mortgage which the bank insists it wants to renegotiate every five years. Vic's not too bright, but he's fun to have around."

"Why isn't anyone talking to Vice President Mondale and his wife?"

"They get free housing at the Naval Observatory. What could you talk to them about?"

"Marion," I said, "is it true the Stauntons sold their house in Alexandria for what they paid for it five years ago?"

"I'm afraid so. They seemed like such a nice couple, I don't know what got into them. Most people have dropped them, but I still say hello to her when I see her at Bloomingdale's."

Marion surveyed the room. Suddenly I saw her eyes stop. "I told Chief Justice Burger not to bug Charley Smith about buying a house in Mount Vernon," she said. "Warren knows perfectly well Charley can't discuss his projects while they're still being developed."

"Maybe Burger forgot," I said.

Marion took out her guest list. "Perhaps you can help me with the seating protocol. I have three Supreme Court justices, the Vice President of the United States, six senators and Carey Winston, the mortgage banker. Should I put Carey on my left or my right?"

Muscle pain can herald joint problem

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My internist says that at 87 I am in good health, but he says frankly that he doesn't know anything about my complaint. My muscles are tender to the touch, especially my legs. Sometimes they ache enough at night to keep me awake, but get better if I rub them hard. I had kidney scans and a thyroid gland scan, also X-rays. I have been examined by a neurologist, all with negative results. Have you any suggestions? — M.R.

Congratulations on your otherwise good health at 87.

You have had excellent attention. The fact that your leg muscles feel better after rubbing them indicates a circulation disturbance. You can try to increase your walking moderately and use hot baths or packs. Also continue your massaging.

Suggestions are only that. One is that generalized muscle pain is sometimes the first symptom in rheumatoid arthritis, and it can appear before any joints are involved. Your doctors have investigated other possibilities. Both hypothyroidism and certain kidney ailments produce muscle pain, hence your thyroid and kidney tests.

Other less likely causes of muscle pain include infectious diseases like trichinosis, a parasitic illness often contracted from eating too rare pork, or brucellosis, transmitted by certain domestic animals and their products. These illnesses produce sufficiently clear symptoms for your doctors to have noted them. Has the possibility of polymyalgia rheumatica, a common illness in the older age group, been considered?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have consistent bad breath. I floss my teeth daily and have them cleaned and checked frequently. dCould this be caused by my confirmed hiatal hernia? — P.R.W.

There are dozens of causes of halitosis. Most relate to the mouth itself — poor oral hygiene, tooth decay, gum inflammation, tooth abscesses, poorly-fitted dentures and well-known foods like garlic. Hiatal hernia should not cause it unless there is constant regurgitation of only partially digested food.

Once you've gone down the checklist of common causes, then you might look to other, less common ones. Sinus infection, or infection in the windpipe or lungs may be factors. For this reason, chronic halitosis is best reported if an obvious cause cannot be found. The booklet, "Bad Breath Can Be Corrected," discusses the common causes. Readers may obtain a copy by sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you feel your gall bladder? — J.S.

The gall bladder is located under the liver and is not palpable, (capable of being felt).

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Skeleton in closet

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — John Connally's main obstacle in his fight for the Republican presidential nomination has been his image as a slick wheeler-dealer and a friend of the oil industry.

But there's a skeleton in Big John's closet that could cause him even more trouble than his snake-oil salesman image. It ties him to one of the sleazier dirty tricks of the Nixon gang.

THE STORY GOES back to the summer of 1972, when Sen. George McGovern, just chosen as the Democratic challenger to President Nixon, gave a foreign policy statement to Greek exile leader Elias Demetracopoulos. If elected, McGovern promised, he would cut off military aid to the military junta then ruling Greece. The statement made front-page news, and let 2 million Greek-American voters know where McGovern stood on the repressive regime of the army colonels.

Several days later, McGovern got an irate letter from John P. Rousakis, the Greek-American mayor of Savannah, Ga. "I was shocked and appalled," hizzoner wrote, "not only with your position on aid to Greece, but also in the irresponsibility you displayed in presenting a major position on a foreign policy matter to an obscure Greek communist journalist."

The problem was that Demetracopoulos was neither obscure nor communist. He was — and is — a respected Greek journalism who was driven into exile by the junta in 1967, and who fought the colonels effectively in Washington, much to the irritation of the Nixon administration.

Three weeks before the election, the Rousakis letter appeared in Greek-American newspapers throughout the United States. Demetracopoulos' lawyer demanded a retraction from the mayor, and Rousakis responded lamely that his "reference to an 'obscure Greek communist journalist' was based on a report that was given to me."

A FEW MONTHS later, federal investigators discovered that the Rousakis letter, for the most part, had been drafted on stationery of Democrats-for-Nixon — headed by John Connally. The vice-chairman of the group was Sam Nakis, a Greek-American businessman in St. Louis.

Mayor Rousakis told our associate Joe Spear that he had indeed passed copies of his letter to "anybody who wanted it," including the Greek-American press. But he insisted that no one had encouraged him to write the letter, and said he had "never met Sam Nakis."

DANGEROUS CACHE: The Navy is storing potentially dangerous amounts of plutonium and other radioactive material in a densely populated suburb of Washington, D.C., knowledgeable sources have told us.

The repository is at the Naval Surface Weapons Center in White Oak, Md., a once-pastoral area of farms and scattered homes that is now a built-up suburb of shopping malls, apartment buildings and residential developments.

Two years ago, the Navy decided it had more radioactive material on the premises than it really needed, and got rid of 20 percent of it. A certain amount is needed for laboratory work at the center, where instruments for the Navy's nuclear equipment are calibrated.

While the Navy insists there is no danger of leaking or theft — much less of an explosion — our sources are not so sure. They're concerned that terrorists or other lunatic elements might break in and use it for radioactive blackmail. "Put a pry bar in there and out it comes," said one disgruntled insider.

PROFITEERS PUSH: When the Renegotiation Board passed out of existence earlier this year, defense contractors heaved a collective sigh of relief. No longer would the board be keeping a watchful eye on their contracts to see if excess profits should be returned to the Treasury.

By rights, the board's function should have been replaced automatically by an even stricter profit-limitation law, the Vinson-Trammell Act of 1934. But complexities in that law led the Internal Revenue Service, which should be administering it, to grant contractors at least four reprieves. IRA claims it has taken three years to write regulations to activate Vinson-Trammell.

IRS suspicions may be realistic: Bills to repeal Vinson-Trammell have already been introduced in Congress.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been concerned about the so-called "boat people" the last few months. What do you think we can do for them as individuals? — L.T.P.

DEAR L.T.P.: This is one of the great tragedies of recent years, and I believe we must do whatever we can to deal with this heart-breaking situation. The Bible says, "Suppose a brother or sister is without clothes and daily food. If one of you says to him, 'Go, I wish you well; keep warm and well fed,' but does nothing about his physical needs, what good is it? In the same way, faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action, is dead" James 2:15-17, (New International Version).

There are several Christian organizations which have developed programs to meet the needs of these people. Our own organization, for example, has a relief ministry which is giving assistance.

Dear Editor:

I think Andrea Cohen's column last Monday (9-17-79) was pretty shallow. She spent too much time "around the rim" and never did get to the bottom line.

You see, every abortion is everybody's business. Whenever any innocent human life is attacked and destroyed, every human life is involved whether we accept that or not. There is only one humanity and we all share in it. And abortion, as your publisher said, is "nothing more than murder of a human being, pure and simple."

She further states that abortion is "between the mother, the doctor and sometimes the father." Where does that put our Creator who sanctioned the life in the first place? Does she not think that God in his Divine providence and wisdom has any say in the matter?

Ms. Cohen pictures women as weak, indecisive, helpless jellyfish in the presence of male predators. She insinuates that we are incapable of ever saying "No." If "pro choice" is such a big deal, why not be responsible and accept the suggestion of "concerned citizens" (9-19-79) who suggest another choice: abstinence. Must we turn to soft putty whenever a man propositions us?

In citing her college chums, Ms. Cohen implies that their sexual escapadas were perfectly acceptable. I guess I belong to the old school which accepts sexual activity as something for mature adults within the context of marriage, as the Bible teaches. That means abstinence, which in our me-ism society is a no-no, when we don't even like the word "self denial."

I was tempted to send Andrea a copy of the Chicago Sun-Times expose of the abortion racket entitled "The Abortion Profiteers." Doesn't she think that many of the abortion hustlers are in it for the money? What would happen if all the abortion money were put into the United Way to help the needy?

The Chicago expose clearly illustrates the economics of abortion. We may drown the unborn baby in a saline solution. We may curette him into bits and pieces. We may vacuum him from his snug refuge provided by nature. We may destroy him at the merest whim of his bearer. The courts won't speak for his rights. His mother won't defend him. His father is gagged by law from standing up for him. The unborn has truly become the uncertified human of our day. The American dollar isn't worth much today. Neither is human life.

Abortion is supposed to be in favor of women. Does Ms. Cohen realize that at least half of the aborted babies are females?

Abortion is an irrevocable process. It kills human life. That is the true bottom line. Once your baby is dead, that's it. You can never have him again. Only the memory lingers on. And that would be the most difficult part. How could any woman live with herself knowing that she had destroyed a part of her — a life that had been created by God. It is true that abortion stills a human heart. It stills not only the heart of the unborn baby, but what about the mother? Would not the mother suffer untold agony knowing what she had done? Perhaps not at the moment, but what about in months and years to come?

Dear Editor:

Andrea Cohen's article in Around the Rim entitled "Damned Either Way" is a classic example of inanity and moral sickness.

We all have to admit that an unwanted pregnancy is a real inconvenience, but so are the mentally retarded, the elderly, and the physically handicapped.

We don't go around executing a person who happens to be a senior citizen, but we are allowing some six million fetuses to be slaughtered annually. Hitler bought and sold the idea that anyone who was bothersome could be eliminated, and how many Jews did he kill? No, we cannot accept abortion...legally or illegally!

What we need to teach our people is moral responsibility and courage. The other day I was talking with a man about his grandson. For some reason he began sharing a very personal story about that child.

It seems that his daughter had gotten pregnant out of wedlock. When the family learned of it, they were disappointed and hurt. Some were even talking about an abortion. After he went into his room and thought awhile, he came out and announced, "The baby will be born and I will do all I can to give the child every opportunity he needs, so stop talking about an abortion and let's be a family again."

Although this man was hurt and embarrassed, he showed tremendous courage and moral responsibility.

I have a daughter and a son and surely hope we never have such a problem, but if we do I hope I can have as much courage as my friend.

Coahoma High School

Magazine sales slated to begin on Sept. 26

BY RON BELEW

Magazine sales, the annual money-making project of the junior class, will begin Wednesday, Sept. 26 and last two weeks. Juniors also ordered class rings.

Prizes of $50, $30, and $10 will be given to the top three salespersons. There will also be a $10 prize from a drawing of names of all persons who sell six or more subscriptions. These cash prizes are in addition to top salespersons' prizes to be awarded by the company representing the magazines.

Cassettes and 8-track tapes will be on sale through this project, as well as magazine subscriptions. A goal of $4,000 worth of sales has been set; 40 percent of all sales are to go to the Junior Class. Help the juniors earn funds for the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

The students, upon selling a subscription, cassette or 8-track tape, will be required to present the buyer with a receipt. Buyers are requested to please ask for a receipt of purchases if the student fails to present it. Personal checks, rather than cash payments, are preferred as a safeguard for both parties. Checks should be made to Coahoma High School.

The senior class met Wednesday to elect officers. They are Greg Wright, president; Kerri Read, vice president; Lisa Furlong, secretary-treasurer; and David Ross, reporter

"Yea, Grady!"

That's what the football fans were saying at the game Friday, Sept. 14 Grady Wildcats played Ira Bulldogs. Grady won the game, 25-18. Grady however, did suffer some loss. Two of Grady's players were injured; Brad Tunnell and Alfonso Cortez. Both were rushed to the emergency room after their injuries.

The girls lost their volleyball game to Union Sept. 17. They won one game and lost the other two. Sept. 18 the girls played Water Valley and lost agin, but our girls are trying really hard. We are proud of them.

Sept. 21 Grady played Highland at Grady. This was our Homecoming week. To show our school spirit, we had a week of activities.

Monday was Kiddie Day. Our students came to school reliving parts of their childhood. The girls brought their dolls and stuffed animals, while our boys brought their baseball caps and mitts.

Tuesday was toga day. We had students reliving their lives as Romans and their wild toga parties. We had boys and girls wearing sheets and Roman sandals and wreaths around their heads.

Wednesday was Western Day. We had a bunch of cowboys and cowgirls running up and down the halls. Their spurs were jangling and their hats were slightly tilted. Thursday was Suspender, Hat, and Sock Day. Living in the 70s sure is fun! We had our bonfire Thursday night at 8:30. Friday, was school color day. Everyone wore black, red and white. Everyone surely has the school spirit!

Friday at 6:00, the sophomores had a barbeque before the game to raise money.

All of the clubs are getting organized and having meetings. They are setting dates for future activities.

VAMC will host Personal Care Residence Operators

The Veterans Administration Medical Center iwll host a day of special training for Personal Care Residence Operators and Employees Oct. 1. Personal Care Residences, providing homes to a few score veterans in the early 1950's, now help over 12,000 disabled veterans. Since the beginning of the program, over 100,000 veterans have been able to find help and a home in Personal Care Residences.

Personal Care Residence Operators will recieved a day of intensive training in health and safety procedures and standards. Garlond E. Evers, Medical Center Director, will be the keynote speaker. Participants in teh program will learn the Heimlich Maneuver, an emergency procedure for removing food caught in the windpipe.

The VA Safety Officer plans to explain necessary fire and safety standards required of Personal Care Residneces. Special sessions will examine the nutritional needs of disabled veterans an dprovide information about medications frequently used by veterans living in Personal Care Residences.

Personal Care Residences, a part of the VA Community Care Program, are supervised by Social Work Service. There are three Personal Care Residences in the area providing home to 29 veterans. Evers states that more homes are needed for veterans in the Permiar Basin.

The VA's experience shows that Personal Care Residences help disabled veterans make a new home for themselves in the community. While veterans in Personal Care Residences do not need nursing or physical care, they do need the human caring and the feeling of belonging which Personal Care Residences provide.

The VA Mdical Center plans to make more Personal Care Residences available to area veterans. Special training, such as the seminar planned for Oct. 1 will be provided as well as ongoing professional consultation to Personal Care Residneces. Personal Care RESIDENCES Sponsors have VA resources available to them and the veterans in their homes.

The VA Medical Center provides clinical services to the veterans. The Personal Care Residence Sponsor provides a warm, family-like home to the veterans.

Anyone interested in becoming a Personal Care Resident Sponsor and who would like to attend this day of training may contact Evers by calling AC 915 263-7361, Ext. 211.

This article could put you to sleep

This article could put you to sleep — hopefully not right away. But these facts on fighting insomnia may help when the time comes to go to bed.

If you never have trouble sleeping, read on anyway. An estimated 10 percent to 50 percent of the population will have sleep problems sometime in their lives.

Luckily most sleep problems do not last very long. Some doctors recommend seeking medical help only if insomnia lasts several weeks, the Texas Medical Association says. Often anxiety or minor health problems that can disturb sleep will go away by that time.

But there is no use lying in the dark grip of a sleepless night waiting for time to rescue you. There are several things to do that can encourage sleep. Techniques include exercising during the day and relaxing at night, avoiding heavy meals before bed, drinking malted milk at bedtime, going to bed at a regular time, changing sexual activity to a time whe it will not interfere with sleep, and sleeping in a quiet, comfortable place.

Avoiding long daytime naps and not drinking coffee, tea, soft drinks or excess alcohol also will help promote undisturbed sleep.

Sometimes even the best efforts fail. When that happens, experts say not to worry about not sleeping. Doing that can increase tension and actually hinder sleep. Instead do something useful or enjoyable such as read, listen to music, take a warm bath, even clean house.

At times physical or emotional problems defeat even the best efforts to go to sleep. So a visit to a physician may be necessary to determine the cause. Several diseases directly affect sleeping and can be treated several ways.

Some people try to second-guess a doctor and take drugs on their own to combat a sleep problem. Many such drugs range from ineffective to addictive, so it is best to get a doctor's recommendation before trying this route, especially since drugs are not the best way to treat some sleep problems.

Jesus is Coming Back to Earth!

JESUS IS COMING BACK TO EARTH IN THIS GENERATION!

Jesus told His disciple in John 14:1-3, "In like manner as you see me go, I will come again!" What will happen when He returns to Earth?

HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS WILL BE MISSING!

The Bible predicts in I Thessalonians 4:5-17, "The Lord Himself shall descend from Heaven with a shout, with the voice of an archangel, and with the trump of God. And the dead in Christ shall rise first," (all believers in Jesus who ever died along with those who served God before His birth will be resurrected and taken to Heaven with a brand new body), "And we which are alive and remain," (referring to believers in Jesus still living) ...will be caught up into the air to meet the Lord." Many believers refer to this as the RAPTURE. What will happen on earth when the Rapture takes place? According to Luke 17:22-36, one person shall be taken to be with the Lord and another left. The Bureau of Missing Persons will be overloaded because this phenomeria is going to happen internationally as hundreds of millions will vanish into thin air. There will be no natural explanation for it. The terror will be unparalleled. Jesus has come back and many have been left. Most will not know what has happened. It is the RAPTURE! Jesus promised this is going to happen! What next?

ARMAGEDDON!

Most people are fearful that WORLD WAR III, ARMAGEDDON, could explode at any time in the Middle East. The Bible predicts that after the 'RAPTURE", a powerful leader it describes as the Anti-Christ, will arise who will be known as the "Man of Peace" because he will negotiate a world peace. Daniel 8:25, 9:27 11:21-24. He will have a solution for the Middle East problem, set up a World Government, solve the economic situation with a socialistic program of financial equality controlled probably by a computer digital system based on the numbers 666. Rev. 13:18.

The Bible predicts, "When they say peace and safety, then shall sudden destruction come." I Thessalonians 5:3. Armageddon, World War III, is unfortunately going to happen in the Middle East. Rev. 16:14-16; Zechariah 14:1; 11 Peter 3:10, 12. The book of Revelation 9:16, speaks of an army of 200,000,000 that will come to fight. It is an amazing fact that Red China boasts of an army of 200,000,000.

The Bible predicts that the northern army, Russia, is going to invade Israel to try to destroy her from off the face of the earth. Joel 2:20, Daniel 11:36-45; Psalms 83:4; Ezekiel 38:1-16; 39:2. The Bible also predicts that all nations will be involved in this war and will meet in the valley of Megiddo, territory now controlled by Israel. Zechariah 12:2-3. This by far will be the worst war in history. Revelation 14:16-20 predicts that the blood will flow like a river. The Bible predicts in Zechariah 12:2-3, 9, "Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of trembling unto all the people round about, when they shall be in selge both against Judah and Jerusalem. And in that day will I make Jerusalem on burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the earth be gathered against it."

Why do you think President Sadat of Egypt withstood the criticism of Russia and his Arab neighbors to go to Jerusalem to meet with Israel's Prime Minister Begin and to its Knesset pleading for peace? Sadat is a smart man and he knows that eventually Russia, China, the United States and other nations are going to get involved one of these days in a big showdown over there if this issue isn't resolved soon. What is it that Sadat sees? HE SEES THE BATTLE OF ARMAGEDON BUILDING UP WHERE EVERYBODY IS GOING TO LOSE! Consider the massive buildup of arms in the Mid-East; Russia and Cuba's adventures in Africa; the U.S.'s struggle with Russia over supremacy of the Mediterranean and Indian Ocean; and finally the weakened position the U.S. has gotten in over Arab oil. THE SEEDS TO ARMAGEDDON ARE THERE! Those who are left when Jesus comes back will face this war! I'm sure you don't want to be left when the Rapture takes place to face this inevitable showdown that is building up in the Middle East.

WHEN IS HE COMING BACK?

Jesus told his disciples, "I am not going to tell you the day or the hour when I will return," but...

JESUS SAID, "I WILL GIVE THE WORLD A SIGN!"

In the generation that you see war, pestilences, famine, earthquakes (Matthew 24:30-36) on an international scale; and Israel becomes a nation again (Psalms 102:16), "This generation shall not pass till all these things be fulfilled and I return!"

HAVE THESE SIGNS APPEARED IN THIS GENERATION?

Matthew 24:3-7. Sign 1. WAR: This century has seen the first world war in history. Approximately 30,000,000 died directly or indirectly from World War I. Jesus' prediction in Matthew 24 that "nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom," was fulfilled for the first time in history in the great alliances of nations. 20,000,000 were slaughtered in World War II. Since then we have had the Korean War, the Viet Nam War, the '67 War, The Yom Kipper War, purges in Red China, wars in Africa and South America. War is an international problem.

Now the superpowers have silos holding missiles with nuclear warheads; nuclear submarines carrying more firepower than all World War II; and bombers ladened with hydrogen bombs. Every nation is an insane stampede toward Armageddon. This is the first generation that has had the technical capability to destroy mankind. Sign 1., PROVEN! Sign 2. PESTILENCES OR PLAGUES: Shortly after World War I the plague of Spanish Influenza swept the world taking the lives of over 20,000,000 people. When Gerald Ford was President, he initiated a crash program to develop a vaccine to counteract the Swine Flu which many scientists felt was going to sweep the earth. The Swine Flu is of a killer strain similar to Spanish Influenza which has the potential to kill millions.

The superpowers have biological bombs that can couse new diseases in the time of war. They can cripple, blind and kill. It is the first time these biological weapons were available in This Generation. Sign 2. PROVEN! Sign 3. FAMINE: We are familiar with the famine in Biafara which took over a million lives. These are thousands starving to death in India, Bangladesh, and the Hungerbelt right now. During the Oil Crisis, the international cupboard became nearly bare. People in the U.S. were eating horse meat and hoarding food realizing famine could be a reality in this country. The weather had been erratic and hard on the crops. The POPULATION BOMB is staggering to scientists. How many more people can this planet feed? The earth has never had the population of food problems it is facing in The Generation. Sign 3. PROVEN! Sign 4. EARTHQUAKES: There have always been earthquakes, but never on the frequency and international scale that is happening now. The almanac shows that twice as many major earthquakes have happened in the last seventh years as had happened in the previous 1450 years. Over a million and half have died in just the major earthquakes in this century. One tenth of all major earthquakes that have happened since 536 A.D. happened in one recent year, the year 1976. Scientists are alarmed! Peru, Nicaragua, Guatemala, and China have recently been devastated by them.

Earthquakes are happening in California, Alaska, Oklahoma, Iran, Turkey, and on every continent. Why are they suddenly increasing in frequency internationally in This Generation? Is it an omen? Sign 4. PROVEN! SIGN 5. ISRAEL BECOMES A NATION AGAIN: Psalms. 102:13-16. "When the Lord shall build up Zion, He shall appear in His glory." Matthew 24-30-33. After centuries of the Jews being scattered throughout the nations, it was just in 1948 that they gathered back, as if supernaturally drawn, to Palestine to become a nation again. This happened after 2,500 years of being scattered. Jeremiah 30:3; Isaiah 61:4; Ezekiel 36:24; 27:21-22. 6,000,000 Jews died during World War II, and this is why it is so difficult to negotiate with them regarding their security. Begin says, "Never again!" Uncannily, Menachem Begin claims Biblical rights to the new Jewish settlements under dispute, declaring God gave this land to Israel. This is the first generation in 2500 years that has seen Israel become a nation. Jesus said, "This Generation shall not pass, til I return". Fifth & Final Sign. PROVEN! Jesus said in Matthew 24-29-32, "Now learn a parable of the fig tree; when his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, you know summer is nigh: So likewise you, when you shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, This Generation shall not pass til all these things be fulfilled."

THIS IS THE GENERATION

...THAT HAS SEEN THE FIRST World Wars and has the very real potential for a third such as described in Revelation, called Armageddon.

...that has been devastated by plagues of diseases and the threat of future killer epidemics and biological warfare.

...that has seen the scourge of famine and faces grave dangers of food shortages caused by changing weather and the population bomb.

...that has witnessed an alarming escalation of the scale and frequency of earthquakes.

...that has seen Israel become a nation again.

Jesus said, "no man knows the day or the hour when He will appear", we were just given the sign of The Generation. He said, "I will come as a thief in the night". I Thessalonians 5:2. "To him that looks for me will I appear", He promised. Are you looking for Him to come? Jesus said when He returns it will be a sudden and quick as the lightning flashes. Matthew 24:27. He said, "In the last days there will be scoffers saying, where is His coming? II Peter 3:3-4. Jesus said, "In that day men's hearts will be failing them for fear and for looking after those things that are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken; Luke 21:26-28.

IS THERE HOPE FOR ANYONE?

Positively YES!!! Jesus said in I Thessalonians 4:15-18, Lk. 21:28, "When you see these things," (wars, pestilences, famines, earthquakes in many places, and Israel reborn), "Coming to pass, Look up; for your redemption draws nigh.: He is going to come back to get His people. How do you get ready? IT IS SIMPLE! Romans 10:9 is the plan. "That if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus, and shall believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you shall be saved." Romans 10:13 says, "Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved."

No one can take these prophesies lightly in the view of world current events. Jesus said, "Today is the day of salvation, now is the acceptable hour." YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO PROCRASTINATE! Why not personally prepare your heart for the Rapture RIGHT NOW!

If you will pray this prayer in sincerity, God will honor it and you will be prepared against that coming event. Now the prayer: (say it loud)

"Heavenly Father, I come to you in sincerity. I realize that I have sinned, I know I cannot save myself. I accept Jesus as my saviour and Lord. I am sorry for my sins and I ask you to forgive me. I receive your love and forgiveness by faith in Jesus' name. I love you dear God and I want you to help me to live right from this day forward. Help me to find a church that will teach me your will for my life. In Jesus name, Amen!"

NOW...Tell God you thank Him for hearing your prayer — go ahead in your own words. You will definitely feel better! BE SURE TO TELL A FRIEND!

Now that you have asked the Lord to prepare you for His coming and have decided to live for Him, you can live with peace of mind knowing God has your future in His hands. Would you write and share the good news with me? I will write you back and send further helpful articles.

East Coast place to build refinery?

HOUSTON (AP) — A top spokesman for the domestic oil refining industry says the logical place to build a refinery is the East Coast.

Donald C. O'Hara, president of the National Petroleum Refiners Association, says the pattern of supply for the East Coast has shifted from the Gulf Coast to foreign oil.

The East Coast, he added, accounts for approximately 40 percent of the total oil consumed in the United States although it has less than 15 percent of the nation's refining capacity.

Ironically, he said, there have been 15 unsuccessful attempts to build refineries on the East Coast since 1951.

In recent testimony before the Senate energy regulation subcommittee, O'Hara said the attempts failed because they could not get building permits, either because of opposition by local citizens or the opposition by federal agencies.

The chief obstacle to building new refineries and the modernization of existing plants, he said, is the interminable delay in getting such permits.

The Senate group is considering a bill aimed at establishing a comprehensive national refining policy. In addition to proposing incentives for refining expansion it says the failure to maintain adequate domestic refining capacity is presently having and will continue to have an adverse effect on the nation.

O'Hara suggested the bill's proposed priority status for refinery projects be broadened to include petrochemical plants.

He said obstacles that have barred new entrants into the refining business would be corrected by the bill and by President Carter's proposal to create a federal commission to achieve the same purpose.

"We favor all efforts to accomplish this objective," he said.

O'Hara said one of the tests to determine whether an industry is truly competitive and one for which antitrust lawyers look first is what is known as "ease of entry."

"Therefore, the first thing we should look at is whether it is possible for newcomers to enter the refining business," he said.

The Federal Trade Commission, he added, has a pending complaint which says that at least since 1951 oil companies "through common courses of action and agreements, have erected and maintained barriers to entry into refining." 8 "This is an amazing statement if you compare it with the facts," he said.

A study of the Department of Energy's annual refinery survey, O'Hara said, shows that in 1951 the 20 largest companies, then referred to as "the majors" each had 50,000 barrels a day or more of processing capacity and, as a group, accounted for 80.68 percent of the nation's total capacity.

Today, O'Hara said, there are 44 companies that would have been classified as "majors" in 1951 by having 50,000 barrels or more in daily refining capacity, and, as a group, they account for only 67.44 percent of total domestic capcity.

"Eighteen of the newcomers entered the refining business during this period and 16 of them each built 50,000 barrels a day or more of new capacity," he said.

O'Hara said one of the remedies suggested by the FTC is to break up large companies and establish 10 to 13 new refining companies. However, he added, a recent court ruling said the ultimate conclusion of the FTC proceedings may not be reached until well into the 1990s, or, perhaps, until the year 2000.

O'Hara said that of the 15 companies that have been unsuccessful in attempts build refineries on the East Coast, only one was a major company.

"The other 14 are all independent companies," he said.

"This means that at the same time the FTC wants to break up existing companies to create 10 to 13 new refining companies, with no increase in total refining capacity, other government agencies have blocked 14 independent companies from entering the refining business on the East Coast alone. It is our environmental policy which, in the words of the FTC, has 'erected and maintained barriers to entry into refining' by the independent companies."

The same thing, O'Hara added, is true of the efforts to add equipment such as desulfurization units and reformers necessary to manufacture unleaded gasoline.

VIEW FROM THE MOUNTAIN

Longevity and the Masons

BY CAROL HUNTER

The first fraternal organization in Big Spring was the Masonic order, the Staked Plains Lodge No. 598, AF and AM, chartered December 12, 1884. One of the few early downtown buildings, which has had uninterrupted occupancy by one group, was built in 1902 by the Masons.

This building, on the corner of 3rd and Main's east side, was planned so that the Lodge would occupy the second story and would rent the bottom floor. The downstairs, too, has had stability in its lessors over the past 77 years. Its first occupant was the Western Windmill Dealer followed by a long term with Pool Reed Grocery. Later, Victor Mellinger had an office there and presently Gibbs and Weeks and the Cottage are the tenants. Originally, there was a blacksmith's shop in back of the Masonic Lodge building, but in the parade of progress, that was replaced by a service station, which served Big Spring residents until 1 52. At that time, the Masons purchased the property and expanded by adding a second meeting hall. The bottom story of that addition is leased by the Army for a recruiting building.

Further expansion occurred 20 years later when, in the early 1970's, the Masons bought the building immediately north of the original corner building. There, they added a large banquet hall and installed an elevator. Daryle Hohertz offices in the downstairs. All of these older buildings have basements. In the corner edifice, there was a 50x90 dirt basement.

The Masons sponsor Texas Public School Week during March, and in conjunction, the local Masons have a breakfast for area school personnel, served in the banquet hall, at the earliest morning hours. At this time, many Howard County residents are able to see the Lodge, but general use is limited to the organizations which it serves, the Masons, Eastern Star Rainbow Girls and the Social Order of Beaucecant.

Upon entering the Lodge, one would observe the huge folding wooden doors with unusual glass panes. These several sets of doors, many feet wide, were used to provide either privacy and to make smaller rooms available, or when thrown open, to have space for large crowds to overflow. These doors are almost the height of the fourteen foot ceilings.

Of matching wood are the large wooden cabinets located in the foyers and utilized for storing uniforms used in the highly ritualistic ceremonies of the Masons.

Both the doors and the cabinets were built in the original edifice in 1902. The transoms and other windows were of the same unusual glass, but some have been replaced with clear glass. In addition to the French styled doors, thus described, there is a massive set of wooden sliding doors, used to partition off another room when the doors are closed.

In the waiting room are some old chairs and benches, but part of the original furniture, particularly the large items such as a double desk and some chairs, were donated to the Howard County Library. The Masons met in a school from 1884 until their building was completed, and some of the mentioned furniture dates back to that era.

Should one brave the stairs leading up from the street, as Masons used in earlier times, they would lead him into the ante room. Modern use, of course, is the elevator located on the other side of the building. Thus, the ante room is used very little any more, but it houses a gallery of Eastern Star Matrons' pictures. The lights throughout the older part are the ones installed when Big Spring converted to electricity. Some of the fixtures are collector's items.

When one enters the Temple, the largest room, he is struck by the elegantly carved furniture. There are some magnificent pieces specially carved for the Temple by a Ft. Worth firm. The domed ceiling, curving from 22 to 25 feet high is of a patterned tin, another collector's item. The benches around the gigantic room are built to fit between posts. At the front are three stained glass windows through which the light shone to reveal some Masonic symbols. Because of a new addition, these windows are no longer exposed to light, and are not as readily distinguishable.

The kitchen provides the organizations eligible to use the Lodge with the ability to serve a large crowd. The spacious Dining Hall features an old piano and a large cabinet which stores some beautiful English Bone China. There were at one time, 100 place settings of the blue rimmed, white china displaying a blue symbolic emblem, but many have been broken.

Built in 1952 was a second meeting hall or Temple. The seats in there came from one of J.Y. Robb's theatres. He donated them when remodeling the theatre. There are more carved pieces for special chairs and benches. The Gallery of Past Masters is hung in this hall. The array is impressive with faces familiar to Big Spring residents throughout the years.

The Masons are a fraternal group, stressing brotherly love and fellowship. They also go forward to do good works in our community and they are appreciated because of their stable, historical contributions to our community. The amazing building at the corner of 3rd and Main is an outward sign of this fraternity through the years.

Revocation papers filed

Darrell Wayne Martin, 17, 1904 Nolan, was arrested on a revocation of probation motion today. He is being held without bond on the authority of Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Martin was accused of being on Big Spring Independent School District property Sept. 18 after being told to leave and failing to attend GED courses on Feb. 18, 1979.

His probation began Monday on a charge of burglary Aug. 1. He entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court to burglary and received a ten-year probated sentence.

Work orders at Goodfellow

SAN ANGELO — Work orders have been issued for the painting of walls and new carpeting for Goodfellow AFB here, a base nominated for closure earlier this year by the Department of Defense.

A bid invitation was issued last month to furnish and install carpeting at five base buildings while a second bid invitation, closed to extend through Sept. 24, concerns the repainting of 19 base facilities.

The paint contract could range as high as $100,000. No cost estimate was made on the carpet bid invitation.

Millionaire found dead on his ranch

HARDESTY, Okla. (AP) — Texas millionaire Ben Stokes's body was found on his ranch land near this Oklahoma Panhandle town Friday, and two young ranch hands later were charged in connection with his death, authorities said.

The cause of death was not immediately determined, but an initial investigation indicated Stokes, 73, had been shot with a shotgun and possibly beaten, probably for the cash and valuables he carried.

The body was found in a rugged area near the Palo Duro River by Texas County Undersheriff Joe Castorena and a volunteer searcher.

A two-state search had been under way since Stokes, of Borger, Texas, was reported missing Tuesday. He reportedly was last seen in the Hardesty area, where he occasionally came to tend to his ranch and farm properties.

Arrested and charged with first-degree murder in connection with Stokes' death were Michael Wayne Taylor, 18, and Rex Bryan McCubbin, 20, District Attorney Don Wood said.

Officials said the two were originally from Borger and recently had been working on Stokes' property in the Hardesty area.

Wood said the two men had been questioned before Stokes' body was found and that "their version of how he (Stokes) disappeared just didn't check out from the word go."

The body was covered with several layers of bed clothing and brush, investigators said. It appeared the man had been dead since Tuesday, they said.

Stokes' car, a large, late-model auto, also was missing and authorities said a car believed to be the same auto was found Friday in Borger, Texas.

State Commission on Judicial Conduct to mull Tune's case

The agenda of the meeting of the State Commission on Judicial Conduct scheduled for Tuesday in Abilene includes a discussion regarding allegations of official misconduct by Howard County Judge Bill Tune.

The commission has a long agenda, however, and will probably not get around to Tune's case, according to Commission Head Maurice Pipkin.

Pipkin added that it was his opinion that Tune would not be dealt a very serious blow by the commission. He emphasized that the opinion was personal and not under commission sanction.

Sevecal complaints have been filed with the commission alleging violation of a Dec. 19, 1978 attorney general's opinion.

Interest rates rise worrying analysts

NEW YORK (AP) — The steep rise in interest rates over the past few weeks has left many Wall Street analysts holding their breath.

The financial community responded enthusiastically at mid-summer when Paul Volcker took over the top job at the Federal Reserve Board, vowing to take some strong measures against inflation.

But as the Fed has backed up that promise with a series of credit-tightening moves, pushing rates up by more than a full percentage point in a short time, some analysts have begun to voice concern about the possible negative economic effects of that strategy.

Those worries came to the forefront this past week when the Fed raised its discount rate — the rate it charges on loans to its member commercial banks — from 10½ to 11 percent.

Three of the board's seven members voted against the increase, marking the first split decision on credit policy since Volcker became chairman.

One of the dissenters, Charles Partee, publicly expressed his fear that a continued rise in interest rates might deepen the developing recession.

"Every additional notch in rates has an economic result," he said.

The stock market, after rallying sharply in late July and August, has turned erratic since Labor Day. In the past week the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 14.84 to 893.94.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index rose .80 to 62.88, and the American Stock Exchange market value index picked up 1.2 to 227.24.

Big Board volume averaged 41.84 million shares a day, against 38.42 million the week before.

The fact that the Fed's board was divided on the latest discount-rate increase was seen by some as a signal that it will take things easier from here on out, and thus that interest rates may at last be approaching a peak. Some analysts on Wall Street argue that, for other reasons as well, a peak may be near.

"This latest runup in interest rates reflects economic developments which will inevitably send rates on a downward spiral, and probably by sometime this fall or early winter," Albert H. Cox Jr. and Carol A. Stone of Merrill Lynch Economics contended in a recent report.

Lye, Hinkle lead in Napa

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Mark Lye delivered a 5-under-par 67 for a large, loud gallery of hometown fans Saturday and tied Lon Hinkle for the thirdround lead in Napa's $300,000 pro golf tournament.

Lye, a 26-year-old graduate of Napa High School, began the day four strokes off the lead and hooked his first tee shot badly. But he recovered for a par on the first hole and went without a bogey in posting the score which put him in contention for his first title in three years as a player on the PGA tour.

"I duck-hooked that first shot but then hit about an 80-yard wedge to within 10 feet of the pin. I got my par, birdied the next hole and was on my way," said Lye.

He was in the lead until Hinkle, one of his playing partners on the Silverado Country Club North course, birdied the final hole for a 70 and a threeround total matching Lye's 205.

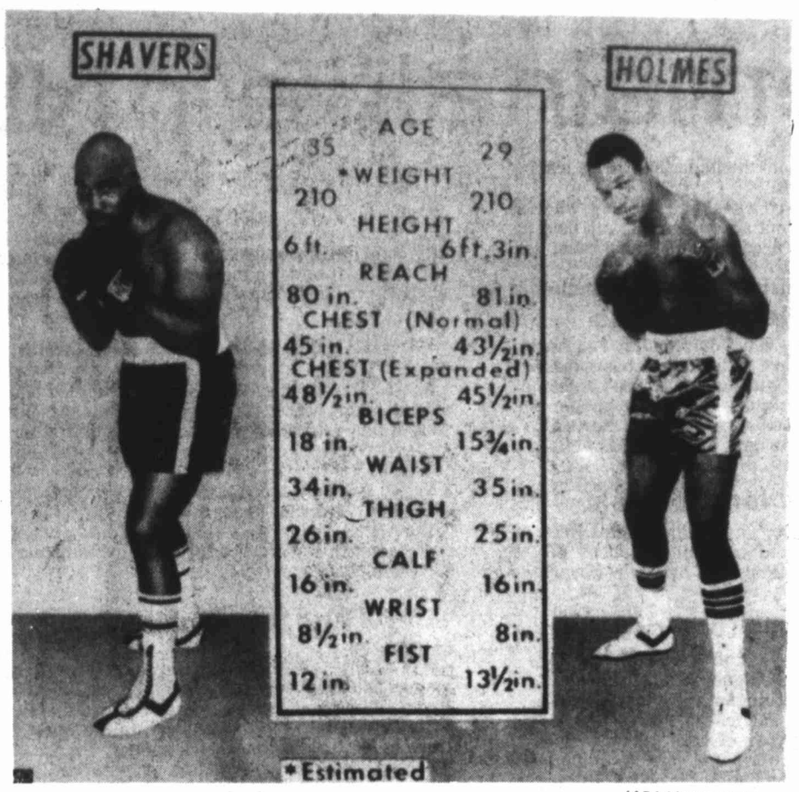

Lou Graham, the second-round leader, was one stroke behind Lye and Hinkle after taking a 72 Saturday.

There were nine other golfers within five strokes of the lead as the tournament, the Anheuser-Busch Classic, headed into it's final day.

Bob Gilder had a 70 Saturday for a 207 total. Tim Simpson matched Lye's 67, the best score of the round, and was at 208 with Buick Open champ John Fought and Buddy Gardner.

Bobby Wadkins, who shared the first-round lead with Lye, was at 209 with Napa resident Rod Funseth. Three men were tied at 210.

Funseth, whose home is next to the 12th fairway on Silverado's North course, moved into contention for the title with a 68. He was at 209, seven strokes under par, representing a great comeback for the tour veteran who began the tournament with five consecutive bogeys Thursday.

Aggies stun Penn State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Curtis Dickey gained 184 yards on 31 carries and ran for touchdowns of 69, 11 and 21 yards as previously winless Texas A&M upset sixth-ranked Penn State 27-14 Saturday in college football.

Penn State, which opened its season last week with a 45-10 triumph over Rutgers, took a 7-0 lead two minutes and 36 seconds into the first period on a three-yard run by Booker Moore.

But after that, the Aggies, who had lost by one point to Brigham Young and 17-7 to Baylor, took command.

Just 1:20 later, A&M moved 80 yards on two plays, tying the score. Dickey ran for 10, then took a pitchout and raced 69 yards into the end zone. Freshman barefoot kicker David Hardy converted.

After Penn State had moved from its 44 to a first down at the A&M 17 and Herb Menhardt missed a 37-yard field goal, the Aggies went ahead on Dickey's 11-yard touchdown run.

The underrated A&M defense shut down the Penn State offense and the Aggies had a 14-7 lead at halftime.

In the third period, Texas A&M boosted its margin to 21-7 on a six-play, 50-yard drive, capped by Dickey's 21-yard romp into the end zone.

And in the final quarter, Dickey raced 33 yards to a first down at the two, from where David Brothers carried three times, finally diving into the end zone from the one for a touchdown.

Penn State came back 66 yards on eight plays including five pass completions by quarterback Dayle Tate, the final eight yards to Matt Suhey for a touchdown.

Penn State's opening touchdown came after Aggies' quarterback Mike Mosley fumbled and Penn State's Matt Millen recovered at the A&M 24.

It took five plays to cover the 24 yards with Moore ripping the final three into the end zone and Menhardt converting for a 7-0 lead.

The Aggies, however, came right back to deadlock the game. They brought the ensuing kickoff to their 21 from where Dickey gained 10 yards on first down, then took a pitchout from Mosley, swept left and outran the Penn State defense for a 69-yard touchdown.

Hardy, who is carrying on the barefoot kicking tradition established in recent years for A&M by Tony Franklin now of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles, kicked the first of his three conversions.

In the second quarter, A&M got a break when Tate fumbled and linebacker Doug Carr recovered for the Southwest Conference team at the Penn State 46.

Five plays later, Dickey romped 11 yards on an off tackle play and Hardy converted to make it 14-7 with 3:38 left in the first half.

White paces USC attack

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Cal tailback Charles White ran for 153 yards and two touchdowns early in the game Saturday as the Trojans lived up to their No.1 national college football ranking with a 48-14 rout of Minnesota.

White, like most of the USC starters, played the first quarter and only a few minutes of the second as the Trojans ran up a 21-0 lead in the opening period, then extended it to 35-0 early in the second.

Playing for the first time since he went out with a shoulder injury against Texas Tech two weeks ago, White carried just 10 times during his brief stint against the Gophers and scored on one spectacular 68-yard jaunt and a 10-yard dash as USC, 3-0, tallied five of the first six times it had possession.

The Trojans, who amassed 335 yards in the first half, got their first score when fullback Marcus Allen capped an 82-yard march with the opening kickoff with a 4-yard run.

Quarterback Paul McDonald hit tight end Hoby Brenner with a 17-yard scoring strike later in the quarter, then White unleashed his long run, cutting back across the grain before outracing a host of Minnesota defenders.

White's other scoring run came in the second quarter, then Raymond Butler made it 35-0 when he returned a punt 67 yards for a touchdown.

Freshman tailback Mike Harper made it 41-0 on a one-yard run in the final period, then Minnesota, 1-2, got its first touchdown, with Marion Barber bursting over from two yards out.

Bama crushes Baylor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Second-ranked Alabama let Baylor cross midfield just once in the first three periods while Steadman Shealy and Major Ogilvie keyed a 431-yard ground assault as the Crimson Tide cruised to a 45-0 victory Saturday night.

Alabama's super-quick defense, led by end E.J. Junior, limited the Bears to 74 yards in total offense until the fourth quarter while intercepting five passes, recovering two fumbles and blocking a punt to set up the first of Alan McElroy's three field goals.

Shealy bolted 54 yards to set up Ogilvie's 1-yard touchdown run early in the second period for a 14-0 halftime lead and second-string quarterback Don Jacobs took the Tide on drives of 56 and 61 yards in the second half, with sophomore Mark Nix scoring on runs of 2 and 4 yards just three minutes apart.

Alabama broke the game open with four touchdowns in the final period. The last two came on a 1-yard run by Joe Jones after the fifth interception and a 10-yard smash by John Hill with just 22 second to play. Alan Gray, the Tide's No.3 quarterback, was at the controls for the last two touchdowns.

Alabama is 2-0 this season while Baylor dropped to 2-1 after winning its first two games for the first time in 14 years. The Bears have not been 3-0 since 1960.

SMU batters tough NTSU

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tailback Charles Wagoner, starting his first game, dashed 30 yards for a touchdown and established a school freshman rushing record Saturday night, carrying 18th-ranked Southern Methodist to a 20-9 non-conference victory over North Texas State.

The unbeaten Mustangs, now 3-0, needed every yard as the Mean Green (2-2) pressed the Mustangs all the way before 57,923 fans in Texas Stadium.

Wagoner, who was starting ahead of the highly touted frosh Eric Dickerson, rushed 26 times for 184 yards to ignite the ground-oriented Mustang offense playing its first game without injured quarterback Mike Ford.

SMU stormed 80 yards with the opening kickoff behind Wagoner, who dashed 30 yards for a touchdown after some brilliant open field running.

SMU sophomore quarterback Jim Bob Taylor, starting his first game because Ford will be out for the season, flipped a nine-yard touchdown pass to tight end Robert Fisher as the Mustangs established a 14-3 halftime lead.

North Texas' only offense in the first 30 minutes was a 20-yard touchdown by freshman Whit Smith.

Eight-point underdog North Texas dominated the third quarter with Bernard Jackson narrowing the count to 14-9 on a six-yard scoring run.

However, field goals of 45 and 26 yards by Eddie Garcia, with the last kick capping a time-consuming drive in the final minutes of the game, put down any potential NTSU uprising.

North Texas was hampered by the third quarter loss of quarterback Jordan Case, who completed 10 of 14 passes for 124 yards before he suffered a bruised shoulder.

Wagoner broke a freshman rushing record established by Wayne Morris who gained 154 yards on 18 carries in 1972.

Freshman fullback Craig James gained 100 yards on 18 carries for the Ponies.

UT rallies by Iowa State

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A.J. "Jam" Jones' two 1-yard touchdowns and a 37-yard penalty for pass interference enabled No. 4 Texas to squeeze by Iowa State 17-9 in an intersectional football game Saturday night.

A crowd of 73,652 — a record for a Texas opener — watched as Iowa State took a 9-3 halftime lead on three field goals by freshman Alex Giffords.

The highly touted Texas defense held Iowa State to less than 20 yards total offense in the second half, however, and Derrick Hatchett stole quarterback Walter Grant's pass at the Iowa State 25 before Jones scored the go-ahead touchdown on a 1-yard plunge with 4:26 left in the third quarter.

On Texas' next possession, defender Joe Brown was flagged for pass interference on a toss to Olympic speedster Johnny "Lam" Jones at the Iowa State 5. Jones again scored from the 1.

Iowa State led Texas in total offense at the half, 132 yards to 120, even though Rocky Gillis, the nation's second-quarter leading rusher, suffered a strained knee early in the second quarter. Gillis had 50 yards on 11 carries and was the key in a 16-play, 61-yard drive that resulted in Iowa State's first field goal.

Arkansas pounds OSU

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Quaterback Kevin Scanlon scored two touchdowns as 15thranked Arkansas chewed up Oklahoma State with machinelike precision and posted a 27-7 victory Saturday night.

The Razorbacks scored on four straight possessions in the first half while building a 24-0 lead and, at one point, converted on 6 straight third-down situations.

Arkansas had consecutive touchdown drives of 71 yards, 61 yards, and 78 yards.

The Razorbacks were so proficient that they netted 18 first downs and 336 yards in the first half and held a 14-0 lead before the Cowboys made a first down.

Arkansas is 2-0 for the year and Oklahoma State is 2-1.

LSU routs Rice

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Senior quarterback David Woodley passed for 125 yards and ran for two touchdowns Saturday night as Louisiana State University rolled over all but helpless Rice 47-3 in a college football game.

Rice was able to drive out of its own territory only twice in the entire game. Its lone three points came on a 36-yard field goal by Wes Hansen after an LSU fumble on the opening kickoff.

Defensive end Lyman White led the aggressive LSU defense, twice stopping Rice rushes cold on key downs and batting down a Randy Hertel pass on another attempt at a third-down conversion.

Leading rusher for the night was LSU tailback Hokie Gajan who picked up 118 yards on 19 carries.

Woodley hit on seven of 11 passes, sharing time at quarterback with Steve Ensminger who hit four of seven passes for 65 yards.

The night's longest run was a 56-yard touchdown sprint by third string fullback Lester Dunn.

Freshman kicker Don Barthel booted field goals of 28 yards and 31 yards for LSU. Gajan ran one in from 26 yards out for a score; Woodley scored on runs of 20 yards and two yards; fullback Jude Hernandez ran one in from eight yards out; and third string tailback Jesse Myles scored on a 21-yard run late in the third quarter.

Rice is now 1-2 for the season, and LSU is 2-0.

Dante hopeful for Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Houston Oilers expect quarterback Dan Pastorini to be ready for Sunday's National Football League game at Cincinnati, but the Bengals are prepared to go with rookie Jack Thompson in place of the injured Ken Anderson.

Pastorini missed last Sunday's Oiler victory over the Kansas City Chiefs because of a bruised shoulder. Coach Bum Phillips said although second-year player Gifford Nielsen filled in admirably, Pastorini would return if he's able.

"Dan's our starter," Phillips said. "There's no doubt in Dan's mind, my mind, Gifford's mind or the team's mind."

Bengal Coach Homer Rice couldn't be so sure about Anderson, who left last Sunday's loss to the New England Patriots in the first quarter with a back bruise. Wide receiver Isaac Curtis and linebacker Jim LeClair were other casualties.

"Unfortunately, we came out of that game with injuries to key people," Rice said. "We won't know about their availability until very late."

Purdue passes by Irish

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Quarterback Mark Herrmann passed for two touchdowns and tailback Wally Jones ran for two others Saturday as 17th-ranked Purdue rallied from 13 points back and beat No.5 Notre Dame 28-22.

Arizona, Tech play to 14-14 deadlock

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Texas Tech cornerback Willie Stephens intercepted an Arizona pass with three seconds on the clock to stop a final drive as the Wildcats tied the Aggies 14-14 in college football Saturday.

Both teams were hampered offensively in the second half by penalies and turnovers after the game was tied early in the third quarter when Tech quarterback Ron Reeves passed to split end Howie Lewis for a 23-yard scoring play.

Arizona defender Mark Streeter almost intercepted the ball but it bounced into Lewis' hands and he ran in for the touchdown.

That play came less than one minute after Arizona went ahead on an 8-yard touchdown pass from Jim Krohn to tight end Bill Nettling.

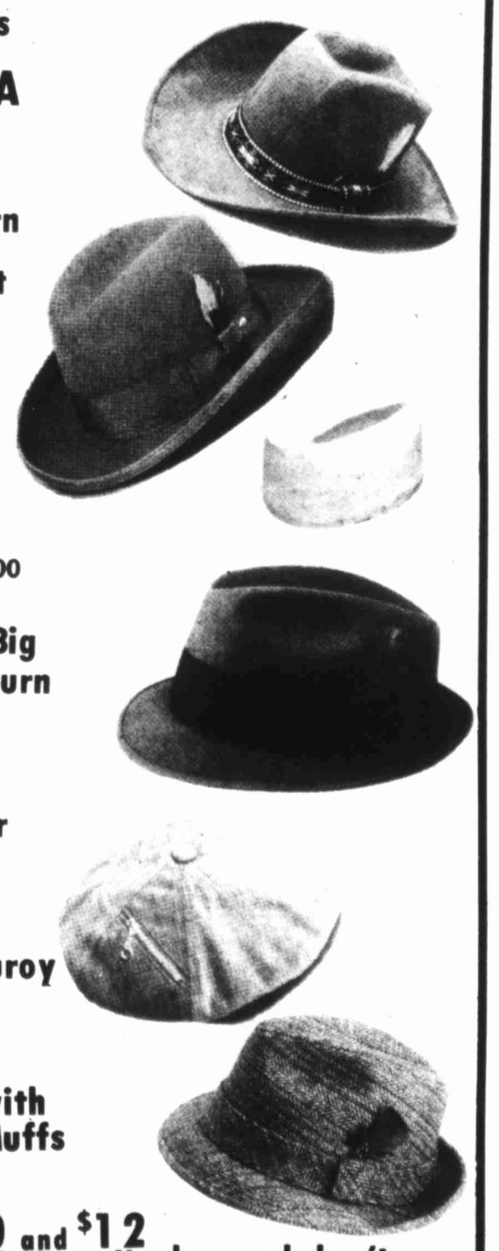

Nearly every Arizona drive was slowed or stopped by penalties. The Wildcats were penalized 12 times for 148 yards, including a 15-yarder that helped set up the Reeves to Lewis touchdown pass that tied the game.

Arizona, basically a running team, came out throwing as Krohn completed his first seven passes and led his team to a quick 7-0 lead midway through the first quarter. Krohn finished with 17 completions in 34 attempts for 241 yards and three interceptions.

Texas Tech's offense relied chiefly on the running of 240-pound fullback James Hadnot, who carried 29 times for 141 yards.

Tech's first touchdown came in the second quarter on a lightning strike, 59-yard pass play from Reeves to flanker Edwin Newsome. He outran Arizona defender Van Brandon and caught a perfect pass from Reeves for the touchdown.

The play came with 23 seconds left in the first half, right after Tech safety Ted Watts intercepted a Krohn pass.

Cincinnati, which lost to Houston for the second straight night, came into the important series leading the Astros by 2½ games.

Niekro, 20-10, survived a shaky first inning, when he loaded the bases without allowing a hit, and held the Reds to five hits until needing ninth-inning relief help from Joe Sambito.

Sambito came into the ninth in a no-out, bases-loaded situation and got three straight outs. two on strikeouts, to gain his 20th save.

Cedeno, who had failed to get a hit with runners in scoring position in two earlier innings, produced in the fifth inning with a single that scored Craig Reynolds, who had doubled down the first-base line. Enos Cabell singled to shallow center field to bring home Cedeno.

Cooper routs Haltom City

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper lived up to its billing as the state's No. 1 Class AAAA team by routing Haltom City here Friday night, 52-0.

Fullback Terry Orr, an all-state candidate, scored touchdowns for the Cougars on runs of 12, one and two yards.

Kyle Stuard booted a 33-yard field goal and added seven points after touchdowns.

David Williams took a pass from Lanny Dycus and raced for a Cooper score, the play covering 60 yards.

Pentalion roared 60 yards for Cooper's final score of the night.

Cooper had 234 yards rushing and 225 passing. Haltom City gained only 82 yards on the ground and 80 passing.

Temple beats Abilene, 28-6

TEMPLE — Temple had things pretty much its own way in a game with Abilene High here Friday night, winning, 28-6.

Abilene, now 1-2 on the year, managed only 53 yards total offense. Derrick Fields scored the Eagles' only TD in the third quarter on a one-yard run.

Temple managed a first period touchdown when Basillo Martinez counted on a six-yard run. The try for point was blocked.

Temple added two more touchdowns in the second on a three-yard run by Robby Harris and a three-yard scamper by Martinez.

After Abilene scored, the Temple team dialed Harris' number on a running play at the Eagle seven and Harris responded with another touchdown.

Temple gained 226 yards rushing and 86 through the air.

San Angelo wins first

AUSTIN — San Angelo Central won its first game in three starts here Friday night, edging Austin Anderson, 9-7, on a 17-yard field goal in the fourth quarter by Ray Fields.

Bobbo Micho scored first for Anderson on a one-yard run, after which Neil Numhoffer converted.

Scott Cauther intercepted a pass for San Angelo in the fourth and returned it 42 yards for San Angelo's touchdown. The Bobcats, however, still trailed when the try for point by Fields was blocked.

Bulldogs edge by Monterey

LUBBOCK — The Midland Bulldogs carried horseshoes in their pockets when they took the field against Lubbock Monterey here Friday night.

Junior tailback Jerry Zachery plunged over the goal from the one yard line with three seconds left to give the Bulldogs a 22-21 victory over the Plainsmen. The run for two extra points failed but it didn't matter.

Midland had not beaten Monterey since 1965.

The Plainview appeared to have won the game with 3:32 left in the game when they scored on a weird play. Tailback Willie Johnson fumbled the ball after a five-yard run to the Midland 20. It went straight up in the air. When it came down, QB Kent Potts grabbed it and snaked on across for the score. Potts then added the PAT on a kick.

A 62-yard punt by Midland's Russell Hays got Monterey into a deep hole a short time later. Monterey wound up in possession on its own four. A low snap from center enabled the Bulldogs to pick up a safety when punter Dwayne Smith was downed in the end zone. That made it 21-16 Monterey.

Midland then started the winning drive from its own 49 after a free kick.

Lee stifles Plainview

MIDLAND — Midland Lee's rugged defense limited Plainview to 91 yards rushing and 64 passing in rolling to a 10-0 victory here Friday night.

Larry Linne put the undefeated Rebels out in front with a 22-yard field goal in the opening quarter.

Gary Butler scored Lee's touchdown in the second on a two-yard run, climaxing a 40-yard drive. Butler moved into the end zone with jsst 54 seconds left in the half. Linne, a soccer-style kicker, kicked the PAT.

In Lee's first march toward the Plainview goal line, Linne missed a 35-yard kicking attempt at three points.

Fullback Scott Collins gained 78 yards in 23 tries for the Rebels.

Plainview came back with an authorative passing game in the second half but couldn't dent Lee's defenses when it counted. The Bulldogs lost the ball three times of fumbles, all in the first half.

OHS blanks Hobbs, 35-0

ODESSA — Hobbs, N.M., lost its second straight game to a District 5-AAAA team here Friday night, this time to Odessa High, 35-0. Last week, Big Spring edged the Eagles.

Trey Hawkins and Jim Harris combined for 35 yards rushing and QB Billy Rumbaugh completed five of seven passes for 130 yards in leading Odessa.

Hawkins gained 70 yards in 13 carries and scored on a three-yard run.

Harris sent Odessa out in front with a three-yard scoring jaunt in the opening round.

The Bronchos didn't tally in the second but came back to score one in the third and two in the fourth.

ELUSIVE TIGER — Snyder quarterback Mike Roemisch (8) skirts inside of Big Spring's Mark Knight (88) on his way to a 40-yard gain during third quarter action between Big Spring and Snyder. Roemisch was a thorn in the Steers side throughout the night, rushing for 77 yards and passing for 120.

OU races by Tulsa

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Julius Caesar Watts, the starting quarterback for No. 3-ranked Oklahoma, led the Sooner rushing attack Saturday as the Sooners romped to a 49-13 win over Tulsa University.

Watts, not usually considered a powerful runner, found success with his quarterback keeper and led all Sooner rushers with 111 yards on 12 carries in a successful Sooner first half.

Oklahoma's 1978 Heisman Trophy winner, halfback Billy Sims, was held out over half the game but did score twice.

The Sooners dominated the first half of the game after Watts tallied a first-quarter score on a 26-yard run. Sims followed shortly afterward with his first score on a 25-yard run.

Oklahoma got on the scoreboard in the second quarter with a 12-yard run by freshmam Stanley Wilson and a three-yard run by junior Jay McKim.

Tulsa managed points on 32-and 31-yard field goals by Stu Crum and a one-yard dive by No. 2 quarterback Bill Blankenship.

Bradley leads Missouri past Ole Miss Rebels

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Quarterback Phil Bradley passed for one touchdown and scored another as ninth-ranked Missouri came alive in the second half and demolished Mississippi 33-7 in a regionally televised college football game Saturday.

Missouri, trailing 7-3 after the first two quarters, caught fire after recovering a Rebels' fumble on the Ole Miss 26-yard line as the third period opened. Missouri went on to register three touchdowns before Mississippi could recover.

That fumble recovery by defensive back Eric Wright may have been the turning point because the Tigers never let up after that.

Running back Gerry Ellis smashed the final 11 yards for the first Missouri touchdown. Four minutes later, James Wilder swept right end on a 14-yard scoring burst.

The Rebels, behind quarterback John Fourcade, dominated the first half, keeping Missouri off balance.

However, those two quick scores early in the third quarter ended the Rebels' offensive spark and Mississippi struggled the rest of the way.

Snyder overpowers Big Spring, 28-0

BY NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

The Snyder Tigers scored 21 points within a span of 4:21 late in the second quarter and early in the third stanza to break open a scoreless game en route to a 28-0 victory over the Big Spring Steers on a comfortable Friday night in Memorial Stadium.

The huge Snyder defensive line, led by Tony Degrate, Morris Anderson and Sam Willis, dominated the line of scrimmage throughout the evening, limiting the Steers to only 69 yards rushing and causing a couple of very costly fumbles. In fact, the 235-pound Degrate, who is undoubtedly a major college prospect, seemed at many times to be a member of the Big Spring offensive backfield.

Big Spring had an early chance to take the lead and some much needed momentum in the game, but simply blew it.

Speedy Joe Willie Jones caught a towering opening kick off the toe of the powerful Willis two yards deep in the end zone, and raced 88 yards to the Tiger 14-yard line.

Sophomore Richard Evans cracked the Snyder defense three times for a first down on the four, then big Greg Jones hammered twice into the Snyder line to just inside the one-yard line.

But the Steers ventured to the outside on a questionable third and goal call, with quarterback Jimmy Marquez's option pitchout falling to ground back at the 10, with the alert Snyder defense recovering.

Snyder moved to the 35, then quarterback Mike Roemisch connected with flanker Dale Jenkins down the right sideline for a 49-yard pass play aided by a mental error by the Steer secondary.

But Snyder tailback Keith McClain fumbled on the next play, with Big Spring's Rocky Torres recovering on the 20.

One offensive possession later, the Steers again penetrated the Snyder 20-yard line, with the two big plays in the drive coming on Marquez to Mark Knight pass completions, good for a combined 40 yards. The Steers had fourth and one on the Tiger 12 at this point, but Degrate and Company threw Evans for a two-yard loss to thwart the Big Spring march.

After an exchange of punts, Snyder moved from their own 41 to the Steer 28, when a most confusing play occurred. Quarterback Roemisch threw into a crowd, with the ball deflected into the hands of Snyder split end Barry Tubb at the eight. Tubb then sprinted toward the goal line, but fumbled just before crossing the double stripe, with Torres pouncing on the loose pigskin in the end zone for a touchback.

Big Spring could not move, and was forced to punt. But Steve Painter froze under a heated rush, taking an 11 yard loss to his own 11.

Three plays later, Roemisch kept for a four-yard score with 3:22 remaining in the half. Willis, who displayed a very strong leg throughout the night, added the PAT.

The scoring bonanza was on for the Tigers at this point, as Tony Degrate shot a gap and caused a fumble on the ensuing Steer possession with the Tigers recovering on the Big Spring 23.

On third down following the fumble recovery, fullback Bobby Degrate ran off tackle for a 15-yard touchdown. Willis again booted the PAT.

Snyder's McClain ran the second half kickoff back to the 39, with a 15-yard penalty against Big Spring moving the Tigers into Bovine territory at the 46.

On third and 12 at the 48, the Snyder offense executed a perfect inside trap play, with the elusive McClain breaking into the Steer secondary untouched, shifting to the right sidelines and racing to paydirt. Only 59 seconds had elapsed in the second half. Willis booted the PAT.

On the next Snyder possession, the Tigers moved to the Steer 11, but Willis missed a field goal, with the Steers taking over on the 20.

But disaster struck quickly, as Snyder defensive back Jay Vincent intercepted a Marquez pass in the flat on the second play and scampered 36 yards for a touchdown. Willis' extra point concluded the scoring for the evening with 5:03 remaining in the third quarter.

Early in the fourth quarter, Jack Odom recovered a Snyder fumble on the Bovine 45. David Coffey, who entered the game in the fourth quarter to direct the Steers, completed a 16-yard pass to David Bordofske on the first play, but was intercepted by Snyder safety Ricky Gambol on the next play to squelch the threat.

Big Spring fielded their most impressive drive of the night on their next possession. Taking over on their own five, the Steers used the promising arm of Coffey, coupled with a run by the junior signal caller to advance to the Snyder seven yard line. The big play of the drive was a pass from Coffey to Joe Willie Jones, good for 40 yards.

But the Steers fumbled at this point to frustrate yet another drive.

Big Spring moved to the Snyder 10 in the final seconds, with a Coffey to Torres pass the key play, but then went to the ground and lost another fumble.

Big Spring now sports a 1-2 record as they close out their non-district competition. Snyder, meanwhile, is 2-1 and will not begin District 3-AAA action for another four weeks.

The Steers next game will be their 5-AAAA opener on Oct. 5, at which time they travel to Shotweel Stadium in Abilene to meet the Abilene Eagles.

GOLDEN CRANE — Crane's Brian Cunningham (32) struggles for extra yardage during first quarter action Friday night as Coahoma's Spot Paige (25) hangs on for help. Surrounding the action is Coahoma's Chubby Abrego (44) Jay Hall (80), Crane's Wayne Chisum (53) and Jimmy Fox (50), and Coahoma's Clint Elliot (20). Crane scored in the final 14 seconds to win, 19-13.

Last second pass defeats Bulldogs

Crane rallies by Coahoma

COAHOMA — Crane quarterback Greg Cunningham connected with Mark Pahl in the flat of the end zone with 14 seconds remaining on a one-yard pass to rally the Golden Cranes to an exciting 19-13 win over the Coahoma Bulldogs in a non-district game here Friday night.

when fullback Brian Cunningham dove over from the one with 10:51 remaining in the first half. The PAT failed.

But Coahoma came right back to knot the score at 6-6 when Bulldog fullback Spot Paige barrelled over from the five.

Later in the second period, Coahoma embarked on a 70-yard drive, only to be thwarted when they lost a fumble on the one-yard line as time ran out in the half.

Crane took a 12-6 lead midway in the third stanza when Brian Cunningham scored on a four yard run. The PAT failed.

The game was then a stalemate until late in the fourth quarter. Bulldog halfback Ambrosio Uranga scored on a 10-yard run with 2:26 remaining to knot the score at 12:12, and Paige's successful extra point kick gave the Bulldogs a one-point lead.

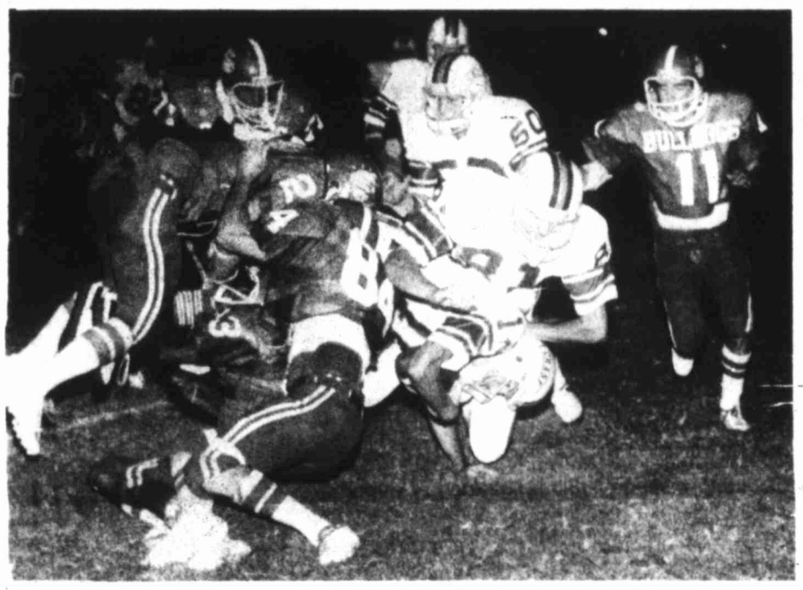

But the Golden Cranes, limited to only 100 yards total offense up to this point, quickly drove downfield for the winning touchdown. The big play of the drive was on a 44-yard pass play by Cunningham.

Despite the loss, which drops Coahoma's record to 1-2 for the year, the Bulldog coaching staff was pleased with much improved play of their team, especially the defensive effort.

The Bulldog secondary play was much improved, with Gary Gee having a good night from his safety position. The Coahoma defense was led by Reynoldo Abrego and Paige, who collected 10 tackels each. Clint Elliot had eight tackles, with Jerry Roever collecting seven tackles and one fumble recovery. Linebacker Kyle Bennett also helped the Bulldog defense with a pass interception.

The offensive line play of tackles Bennett, and guards Gary Bayes and Roever also pleased the coaching staff. They helped open the holes for Urange led all rushers in the contest with 96 yards on 16 carries, with Paige adding 64 and Elliot 30.

The Bulldogs feel very optimistic about the way their team is progressing as district nears. Coahoma will open district play on October 5 at Merkel.

Wildcats take 38-32 win over Highland

Grady keeps record perfect

GRADY — The Grady Wildcats remained undefeated by defeating Highland, 38-32, in a great six-man offensive struggle here Friday night.

Richard Gibson's club will seek its fourth straight win next Friday night against undefeated Paint Rock in Paint Rock.

Friday night's game was Homecoming for Grady exes and they saw the Wildcats go all out.

Oddly enough, neither team scored in the first quarter but by half time the Cats had built up a 26-14 edge. After that, Grady never looked back.

Grady scored first when QB Larry Key passed 15 yards to Leandro Gonzales. The try for PAT failed.

Halfback Ronald Chee climaxed a 42-yard drive with a three-yard touchdown run to build Grady's advantage to 12-0.

A 60-yard drive by Grady paid off later in the round when Larry Key passed nine yards to Gonzales for a score.

Highland then got into the act on a nine-yard scoring jaunt by Monty Richbourg. Richbourg booted the ball for two conversion points to make it 18-8.

Grady scored again on a one-yard run by Ronald Chee, after which Larry Key added two conversion points.

Highland stayed reasonably close by scoring again before the half on a 32-yard pass play from Johnny Jones to Larry Owens.

Each team scored in the third. Ronald Chee boomed over from one-yard away for the home team to make it 32-14, Grady.

Highland came back to tally on a 19-yard run by Larry Martin.

In the fourth, Key raced 18 yards for another Grady score to make it 38-20.

Highland scored the last two touchdowns of the game. Richbourg broke loose on a 51-yard jaunt but the PAT failed. Richbourg raced 40 yards for the final tally just before the final whistle.

In individual running, Chee gained 222 yards in 33 carries for Grady. Teammate Larry Key picked up 125 yards in 16 lunges. Leandro Gonzales advanced the ball 58 yards in seven attempts. Lynn Key added 33 yards in four carries.

For Highland, Richbourg gained 149 yards in 14 efforts while Jones added 117 yards in ten efforts.

Middle linebacker Chee and strong side linebacker Larry Key each had eight tackles for the Wildcats. Ron Deatheridge, nose guard, had seven and Leandro Gonzales six.

The Grady team was playing without QB Brad Tunnell, out for the season with knee surgery, and Alfonso Cortez, who had a slight head injury.

Greenwood rips Sands

GREENWOOD — Greenwood's Rex Evans scored three touchdowns in the first quarter, to help propel the Rangers to an early 20-0 lead and set the stage for a 48-0 romp over the Sands Mustangs.

The Rangers added two touchdowns in the second stanza on a 65-yard pass from quarterback Tommy Somers to halfback Tim Woolfolk and a 40-yard run by Joe Mobley. Mobley led all rushers in the contest, accumulating 100 yards.

The Greenwood team limited the Mustangs to only three first downs in the contest, while amassing nearly 300 yards total offense.

Greenwood's final points of the night occurred when Mustang quarterback Frank Garfias was tackled in the end zone by Brooks.

MSU Spartans club Miami

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State quarterback Bert Vaughn sidestepped a blitzing linebacker and passed six yards to tight end Mark Brammer for a touchdown with 1:25 remaining, lifting the eighth-ranked Spartans to a 24-21 college football victory over Miami of Ohio Saturday.

Michigan State tailback Steve Smith ran 14 yards for one score while fullback Lonnie Middleton added a one-yard TD as Michigan State took a 17-0 halftime lead. Rich Schario kicked three extra points and a 27-yard field goal.

Redskins quarterback Chuck Hauck ran one yard for a touchdown, hit on a 34-yard pass play to wide receiver Keith Dummitt and halfback Mark Hunter went three yards for the third Miami score.

Late Nebrask field goal stops Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Dean Sukup's 30-yard field goal with 5:52 left in the game, after second-string quarterback Tim Hager had rallied Nebraska to a tie, gave the seventh-rated Cornhuskers a 24-21 victory over Iowa in college football Saturday.

Nebraska trailed 21-7 midway through the third quarter, but Hager scored on a four-yard run late in the period, then directed a 51-yard scoring drive capped by Craig Johnson's five-yard run that tied the score.

After Nebraska recovered an Iowa fumble on the Hawkeyes' next series, Sukup kicked his game-winner. Nebraska is 2-0 and Iowa fell to 0-3.

Nebraska had to overcome a rash of fumbles to beat the stubborn Hawkeyes. The Cornhuskers lost five fumbles, but Iowa could convert only two into scores.

Fullback Dean McKillip scored twice for Iowa on two-yard runs and Pete Gales threw a 29-yard TD pass to Keith Chappelle for the Hawkeyes' other score. Nebraska got a one-yard touchdown run from starting quarterback Jeff Quinn in the first half, which ended 7-7.

Klondike routs Garden City Kats

GARDEN CITY — State-rated Klondike lived up to its reputation in humbling Garden City, 61-0, here Friday night.

The Garden City team goes to Miles next Friday, which like Garden City in winless in three starts.

The visiting Cougars were unable to score through the first half of the opening quarter but Ferguson finally went in for a TD and Martin added the PAT to make it 7-0.

In the second, Trevino, Arismendez, Airhart and Martin scored six-pointers for the Cougars and Kuene added two extra points, giving Klondike a 32-0 bulge at half time.

in the third, Holcomb and Arismendez scored touchdowns for Klondike and Martin added four points through conversions.

In Round Four, Arismendez and Holcomb tallied touchdowns for the visitors and Juene and Rismendez tacked on extra points.

Levelland eases by Lamesa Golden Tors

LAMESA — Lamesa scored for the first time this season here Friday night, but Levelland hung on to topple the Golden Tornadoes, 18-10.

Two roughing-the-kicker penalties cost the Tornadoes dearly. Lamesa led, 10-6, after three periods but the Loboes counted two touchdowns in the final 12 minutes to swing the tide away from Lamesa.

Levelland went ahead with 6:15 to play in the game when Tony Salas broke loose on a 23-yard run. That made it 12-10.

Lamesa tried a 23-yard field goal with seconds left in the game. The kick by Will Wright was low and Ron Anderson grabbed it and raced 77 yards for the clinching tally.

Tony Maxwell of Lamesa, who led all rushers with 69 yards, went over from the two for the first touchdown of the game halfway through the opening quarter. Wright added the PAT.

QB Steve Caddell got Levelland on the board with an eight-yard run before the quarter ended but the Loboes failed on their PAT try.

Maxwell recovered a Levelland fumble in the second on Levelland's 14. Wright later kicked a 33-yard field goal to give Lamesa a 10-6 advantage.

Then came the final dramatics. Levelland now has a 2-1 won-lost record. Lamesa in winless in three starts.

Lamesa had an edge in the statistical war. The Tornadoes gained a total of 224 yards rushing and passing while limiting Levelland to 159. First downs favored Lamesa, 15-13. But for the unfortunate penalties, Lamesa appeared to have the superior team.

Goliad wins twice

The Goliad Mavericks swept two games in seventh grade football action Thursday night.

The Goliad White team took a 22-0 victory over the Runnels B team. Goliad's scoring came on a safety, a 65-yard run by Chris Lamb, a 40-yard interception return by Willie Wrightsil, and a 40-yard run by Jay Pirkle.

The White team was praised for their entire defensive effort.

The Goliad Black team then defeated Colorado City by a score of 12-0. The Black team scored on a 25-yard run by Arthur Jackson and on a six-yard scamper by Tommy Gartman.

The Black defensive effort was helped by fumble recoveries by Dennis Heffington and Chip Mattfield, as well pass interceptions by Chris Harwood and Blair Richardson. Other defensive stars for the Black team included Derek Logback, and Randy Rawls.

Munson at fault in fatal accident

NEW YORK (AP) — Thurman Munson was directly at fault for the jet crash in which he died last August, according to a report by a federal investigator.

Edward J. McAvoy of the National Transportation Safety Board, heads the team investigating the Aug. 2 crash at Akron-Canton Airport that killed the Yankee catcher and injured passengers David Hall and Jerry Anderson.

He told the New York Times of his findings, and in its Monday editions, the Times reported that McAvoy said he would issue his report to the board "in about two weeks." The report, the paper said, would show "improper use of throttles and flight controls" by Munson and that those failings by the All-Star ballplayer were the probable cause of the crash of the $1.4 million Cessna Citation.

The jet crashed and burned 870 feet short of the airport runway.

McAvoy noted that:

—Munson made a low approach to the 6,400-foot runway and failed to make proper adjustments despite the presence of runway slope indicator lights for guidance.

—Munson let the jet's airspeed drop to 11.5 miles below a safe speed.

—He didn't lower the jet's landing gear, even though reminded to do so by Hall, and didn't compensate with enough power to overcome the drag.

—Munson apparently wasn't familiar with or had temporarily forgotten how to recover from a low approach.

—The jet was approaching the airport without using its flaps, which add lift to a plane.

"It would have been a much more controllable aircraft," with the flaps down, said McAvoy.

The investigator added that Munson had shown "very erratic" flying of the traffic pattern on three practice landings prior to the crash; that the craft crashed 50 feet below the level of the runway, which is on a knoll, and that a thorough check found nothing mechanically wrong with the jet.

McAvoy also noted that Munson had flown just 41 hours in the cockpit of his jet when it crashed, and only six of those were as pilot in command. Munson received his jet pilot license in just 14 months, which McAvoy termed as rather short for a part-time pilot.

McAvoy questioned the Federal Aviation Administration's system of licensing. The FAA is empowered to delegate to outside examiners the authority to give flight tests for licenses.

McAvoy said neither Hall nor Anderson was FAA-rated to fly a jet.

Lake Thomas Report

In-shore fishing improved sharply at Lake J.B. Thomas last week, even with large catfish being caught in six feet or less depth water.

D. Pylant and J. Stansell, Fluvanna, caught a 23-lb. yellow catfish, the same weight as one landed by Richard Halfmann, Ira. The biggest of the week was a 35-pounder caught by Buck Rambin, Snyder.

Crappie fishing is improving steadily, and channel catfish landed included some up to three pounds. All classes of fish are moving into the shallows apparently in pursuit of a heavy population of shad. Old timers cannot remember when the shad were more numerous at the lake. Game fish particularly are coming after them.

FROM COURT TO COURT — The Marvin Webster compensation case is back in court and the Bill Walton case appears headed there. A federal judge ruled Wednesday that the award in the case of Webster, left, was excessive and the Walton, right, case may involve Portland Trailblazers in litigation.

Robert Lee explodes past Forsan, 36-0

ROBERT LEE — Robert Lee's Brett Clark exploded for three touchdowns in a wild second quarter to lead the Steers to a 36-0 victory over the Forsan Buffaloes.

Clark's touchdowns in the second period came on runs of 14,4 and 58 yards. He converted all of the PATs, too.

Bob Williams added another Robert Lee touchdown just before the halftime on a 18-yard run to increase the Steers halftime lead to 29-0.

The second half was a defensive struggle until Louis Tijerina raced for a nine-yard touchdown to increase the final margin to 36-0.

Robert Lee totally dominated the game, amassing 450 yards total offense, while limiting the Buffaloes to only five first downs and 81 total yards.

Robert Lee is now 2-1 on the year, while Forsan dropped to 1-2.

Forsan has an open week next, and then will begin District 5-A competition on October 5 at Plains.

McLaughlin earns spot with AFA Falcons

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO. — Former Big Spring Steers baseball shortstop Kevin McLaughlin, a fourth classman at the United States Air Force Academy, has earned a spot on the Falcons varsity baseball team.

McLaughlin survived the final cutdown, beating out some more highly recruited players in the process.

Stanton takes 7-7 tie with McCamey

McCAMEY — The Stanton Buffaloes completely dominated the statistics, but fell victim to their own fumbles and penalties and managed to escape with a 7-7 tie with the McCamey Badgers Friday night.

Stanton had numerous scoring opportunities throughout the contest, but penalties in many instances forced the Buffaloes out of scoring position, and four lost fumbles didn't help, either.

The game was scoreless for three stanzas, but Stanton finally put together a successful 66-yard, 12-play scoring drive midway in the final stanza. Buff quarterback Derrick Looney capped the drive by plunging over from the one. Craig Eiland booted the PAT.

But McCamey wasted no time in striking back. On the first play from scrimmage after the Stanton kickoff, Badger quarterback Terry Arana escaped a heavy Buffalo rush and launched a bomb. Lanky McCamey receiver Billy Ray Taylor outfought a smaller Stanton receiver for the ball then, dashed into the end zone to complete a 75-yard scoring play. Arana then kicked the tying extra point.

The Stanton defense was in command of the game, except for the one long pass, limiting the McCamey offense to 111 yards total offense. It was spearheaded by the play of Keith Hull, Todd Davis, Kenneth Cook, Greg Davis and Looney. Both Hull and Looney had interceptions of errant McCamey passes.

Stanton's Richard Perez and Lewis Henry led all rushers in the game, as each collected 59 yards on the ground.

Stanton finished their non-district slate with a 2-0-1 record, while McCamey is now 1-1-1.

The Buffaloes begin their search for the District 5-A championship on October 5, at which time they visit Ropesville.

Andrews nips Seminole

ANDREWS — Andrews, which opened its season with a 40-6 victory over Big Srping, won its third straight decision by edging Seminole, 26-21, here Friday night.

A field goal by Van Eisenbach in the third period enabled Andrews to go ahead in the third period and the Mustangs added a TD in the fourth when sophomore Keith Brooks ran in from the one.

Midland Community Theatre will present 'The Passion of Dracula'

Midland Community Theatre presents the 1500 year-old love story, "The Passion of Dracula." opening Oct. 4th and running for ten blood-chilling performances, through Oct. 20th.

"The Passion of Dracula," written by Bob Hall and David Richmond, is the newest and most theatrical version of the original Dracula story created by Bram Stoker. It closed in New York this past July after an extreamly popular run of more than 700 performances — almost two years!

"The Passion Of Dracula" contains all the basic elements that comprise the standard Dracula story: mysterious murders discovered in an English village; female victims found bloodless; a beautiful young virgin, trancelike, on the verge of fatal anemia, with tiny marks on her neck; the imported medical expert who finds out the truth; the young journalist who falls in love with — and risks his life for — the helpless ingenue; and the cultured, aristocratic Count, with his gallant air, intense burning eyes, and hypnotic charm. But between the blood-letting sequences, the authors have worked in a bit of cold terror guaranteeing thrills and chills, and titilating comic relief guaranteeing loads of fun!

The infamous role of Count Dracula, the Prince of Darkness who sucks the blood of alabaster throats, will be portrayed by Steve Nolan, Debra Eden is Wilhelmina Murray, the beautiful virgin so totally under his Transylvanian spell. Professor Van Helsing, who knows about the "undead" and what weapons he must use against them, will be played by Charles Dixon. The Sanitorium inmate who dines on flies and dreams of the blood of everlasting life, R.M. Rnefield, is Darrell White. Ralph Noyes will appear as Johnathan Harker, the confused newspaperman who gives everything to save his beloved from a fate worse than death. Dr. Helga Van Zandt (Lori Skelton) and her secret lover Lord Gordon Godalming (Darrell Ward) are tragically involved beyond their means. Herb Wales is Dr. Cedric Seward, Wilhelmina's uncle, and the loyal butler, Jameson, is played by Bill Schneider. Art Cole will direct; Jack Scannell will stage manage.

You may have seen the movie "Dracula," but you haven't seen anything until the Prince of Darkness comes to you in the flesh.

Opera singer won't claim first

People should make own judgments

NEW YORK (AP) — Placido Domingo won't say he is the greatest tenor in the world.

But he certainly doesn't like it when Luciano Pavarotti's record company puts an advertisement in the Metropolitan Opera program claiming that distinction for Pavarotti.

Domingo, who sings the title role of Verdi's "Otello" on the Met's opening night, Sept. 24, says, "I like the people to be able to make their own judgment. You can not go and fight each other to see who is winning to be called that name. On their own personal taste, everybody has to judge."

Domingo and Pavarotti each have their loyal supporters. One thing worrying those fans is that both men have recently changed the kinds of roles they sing, moving into a heavier-voice repertoire.

Pavarotti has been a lyric tenor. In 1976, on the Met's opening night, he sang the troubadour role in "Il Trovatore," moving into the heavier spinto area.

Domingo, singing the spinto repertoire, started taking on the heavier, dark-voiced, dramatic role of "Otello." He has sung it in Hamburg, Paris, Milan and San Francisco.

If both tenors can sing the lighter roles of their youth and the heavier roles they're taking on now, they'll be able to be hired for more operas than they could sing before. But if they're straining voices innately too light for what they're doing, they could lose some tonal beauty.

Both insist they aren't harming their voices at all.

Domingo says, "I always wanted to do 'Otello,' since I started singing, really. I knew it was growing inside of me as something very dear and cherished and I was really taking courage. I didn't have any doubts that I was going to be able to do it."

He may never have had doubts about 'Otello,' but Domingo says he does have doubts about his next big dramatic role. He is scheduled to sing Tristan in Munich and with the Chicago Symphony in 1981 and '82.

"Besides the fact I want to do it very much, I have a great belief in the number 21. January 21 is my birthday and most good things that happen to me are related with 21... Tristan's part starts on page 21. If that may be any indication, I think I'll be doing it."

Domingo likes to have three days between performances, a day to recover, a "normal" day and a day to prepare.

"I have sung two or three days in a row, complete performances. That is unthinkable today. Every day you live you have more responsibility towards the public. Every performance all around the world is sold out because you are singing. You can not fail that public. That public doesn't know if you have sung two days before somewhere else because there was an emergency and you did somebody a favor and filled in. The public is not going to be grateful to you if you don't sing well the night they are there."

He is now studying conducting, with the idea of becoming artistic director of an opera house after he retires from singing.

Ian Hunter is back and cheerful with best-selling album of career

Ian Hunter currently has the best-selling album of his career, "You're Never Alone with a Schizophrenic." It's his first for Chrysalis Records, had been on the best-selling chart for 20 weeks as September started. A single from it, "Just Another Night," was No. 78 on the chart of Sept. 1.

Hunter has been pursuing a solo career since the days when he was writer and lead singer for the powerhouse rock of England's Mott the Hoople. Mott the Hoople, recording for Island and Columbia, had a debut album in 1969 and a bitter split in 1972, with Hunter and guitarist Mick Ronson leaving. The band went on for a time as Mott.

For the present album, Hunter says, "I had three songs written. The songs are a bit down; you'd expect it if you'd been through what I'd been through in the past 18 months. I said to Chrysalis, 'All the rest will be happy' and they said okay. That's a highly simplified version of what happened."

The three songs, "Bastard," "Standing in my Light" and "The Outsider," are on the album. "I think they're important," Hunter says. "They represent a year of my life trying to untangle myself from old deals and contracts. I had to write at the same time.

"When you're free, then you've got to get new contracts. They don't sign you on your past performances; they take you on what you're doing and writing now."

At present, Hunter says, "I'm very optimistic. You never know how long it is going to go on. You always have to make another album. But at the moment I'm happy. I don't see why I shouldn't be happy at the moment just because there have been times in the past when I haven't been.

"This album is me getting my own way. I like my management and the record company and the musicians on the album. It all came out how you would like it to come out but very seldom does."

Hunter says, "I was a hot property when I left Mott. Everybody wanted to sign me. They put me out as a kind of leftover, which had a bad effect on me morale-wise. I sort of sunk. I've been skidding, you know, not getting anywhere at all, just trying to get onto another track.

"The first solo album, 'Ian Hunter,' on Columbia, was the way I wanted it to come out. But I wanted them to market it intelligently and they dropped it after four weeks, I think it would have done extremely well if they'd stuck with it.

"The second was specialized, 'All American Alien Boy.' It was lyrical, in other words boring. I could understand that not happening. On the third, 'Overnight Angels,' we really hit the pits. It was produced by a great friend of mine and didn't work out at all.

"So how do I part company with the people I'm signed to without getting sued? And there's the problem of finding new people, which is an even bigger one. It took two and a half years. Things couldn't have been done any quicker, when I look back on it. You've got to be not selling records before people will let you go."

Hunter has with him in an office some sturdy flight bags he is using for touring this year.

"I'm glad I kept them," he says. "For a couple of years I thought I was never going to tour again. But I thought they'd come in handy for something. They're good ones; they keep your gear from getting smashed around."

During the years of getting free from contarcts and signing new ones, Hunwer says, his main feeling was a loss of ambition.

"I had that nobody-on-your-side feeling. I lost ambition. I didn't want to go on the road. If you lose ambition, you can't feign it.

"I knew I was okay when I came back, when I started to want to know everything that was going on, again.

"There was a lot of hanging around during that time, just not knowing what to do during the course of a day. I'd been so busy before, it was hard to do nothing. It's so boring, it's frightening.

"If you were broke, you'd do something.

"You learn more out of a down period than you do out of an up period. Then you're too busy fulfilling your obligations. A bit of failure does funny things to your head. You find out how strong you are. Your ego and pride get bitten. It is really a test of character, I suppose. I didn't come through with flying colors but I came through."

The group Mott the Hoople was named for a character, Norman Mott, in a book by Willard Mannes.

"I was just a great name for a band," Hunter says.

"Every chapter had a title, 'Mott the Invincible,' 'Mott the Intrepid.' All the religions and politicians ganged up on him, saying he couldn't be what he wanted to be. In the end he got in this balloon and threw all the sandbags away. The book said, 'Mott the Hoople was last seen three miles from Heaven.' They used that for our first ads."

Domino tournament

Fryar, Cooper shuffle to 13 straight wins

Martin Fryar and A.A. Cooper proved to be a formidable combination in the domino tournament held in conjunction with the Howard County Fair.

Fryar and Cooper ripped off 13 straight victories in competition that extended through Saturday morning to win the first place trophy offered by the Coahoma State Bank.

Twelve teams competed for the championship. Finishing as runners-up to the title twosomes were Hack Wright and Dan Brasher, who won trophies put up by Gandy's Creamery.

The third team, earning awards made by the tournament committee, was composed of Dee Wrothan and Pete Hull. Finishing just back of them were Grover Wiley and Roy Bennett.

Defending champions in the meet were Grover Wiley and Roy Bennett. Two years ago, Odell Roman teamed with A.A. Cooper for a first place finish.

After the first round of competition Thursday, three teams were tied for first place with 8-3 records.

Tax assessors map convention

Three chapters of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers heard Association President Al Alsdorf, C.T.A., at a meeting at La Posada Thursday night.

Around 75 persons were in attendance from the Permian Basin Chapter in Midland, the Wes-Cen-Tex Chapter in Abilene and the South Plains Chapter in Lubbock.

Alsdorf, from Abilene, spoke on the association, convention plans for the Fort Worth convention in October, the homestead amendment, senate bill 621 and schools operated by the association. Three day schools operate in the state for the purpose of training tax assessors. Sessions are held 75 to 80 times a year.

Big Spring Independent School district, Forsan, Coahoma and Coahoma School District all have tax assessors in the association.

SEARCHING FOR DOPE — Sgt. Richard Doane with Ace, the drug sniffing dog, "frisks" a pick-up for marijuana. Ace is capable of sniffing out hashish and heroin, too, in metal lockers, buried underground, sealed in plastic and hidden in parts of a car engine. He doesn't quit until he finds whatever he's after.

Police department is hampered by low funds and citizen apathy

Big Spring Police Department in action

By MICKIE DICKSON

Big Spring doesn't have nearly the amount of police protection that it needs for its size due to lack of funds, plus a lack of citizen cooperation in some cases.

Chief Stanley Bogart said Monday, "I am struggling with six recent resignations because of low pay right now. The starting pay in Big Spring is approximately $200 below that offered by Odessa and Midland."

The national average for adequate police protection is 1.9 sworn officers per 1,000 people. The 30,000 residents of Big Spring, to parallel that average, should have at least 60 sworn police officers.

This year the city council allowed the police department 53 sworn personnel from the chief on down to the part time jailer. However, due to budget cuts and resignations, the Big Spring force consists of 20 patrolmen and six detectives. The detectives handle an average of 60 cases a month, and has just been reduced to six men from seven by the budget cut.

Four officers, James Van Ness, Danny Wilsonn Gilbert Limon, and Scott McKnight, resigned to go to work for the Big Spring Prison Camp for better pay and retirement plus pleasant working conditions.

"For years there has been a trend to blame the court system for the rising crime rate. Since the courts are over-burdened some fault does lie there. However, there has also been a trend of juries turning people loose who are charged with crimes. So many people who complain about the rise of the crime rate try every way they can to get out of serving on a jury, then when they do, they hand out light sentences," said Capt. Jim McCain, head of the detective division.

One bright spot revealed by Capt. McCain, is that the Major Crime Task Force which consists of two detectives and a secretary, received recently a grant of $38,000 from the Permian Basin Planning Council. The task force was established to free two detectives to work on major crimes without interruption. The narcotics problem in Big Spring was a major reason for forming the Task Force.

The narcotis situation is serious in every city, including Big Spring. The crossroads of I.S. 20 and highway 87 on which Big Spring sets contributes to the problem.

The acquisition of Ace, the drug sniffing dog, is a plus factor in the apprehension of narcotics violations for which Chief Bogart and the detective division is grateful.

"There is strong evidence that there is a certain amount of drug use in Junior High in Big Spring," says Capt. McCain.

Ace, the 14-month-old German Shepherd, purchased through donations from many concerned Big Spring residents and organizations, is an aid to the police force in locating illegal drugs.

Sgt. Richard Doane, his master and trainer, spent a week in San Angelo and four days in Los Lamos, N.M. at the Diamond M Ranch to receive training along with Ace. The dog underwent five months intensive training for two hours a day. The training for both Ace and Sgt. Doane is an on going process which is pursued each and every day for one hour in the morning and another in the afternoonm

Sgt. Doane said, Ace was purchased for $3,000.00 and our training ran the total up to about $15,000.00, all of which was donated by interested people."

Ace is truly a community dog for many people are helping Doane care for him including the Big Spring Kennel Club with advice and McMahon Concrete Company who donated all the concrete, mortar, blocks and tile for the 14-20 foot concrete and tile bullet proof kennel which Ace occupies. Drinkard Electric Company donated the electrical supplies for the kennel. Grady Nelson and Walter Alexander of the Big Spring Independent School District Maintenance Dept. donated the used chain link fencing to build Ace's runway to the kennel. Berkley Homes, Inc. donated the wood for the roof and Saunders Company, Inc. donated plumbing supplies. Squeaky Thompson Furniture Company donated the carpet for the raised platform on which Ace sleeps and the carpet on the platform of the x97w Buick in which he rides. The New Car Dealers Association of Big Spring donated the Buick, removing the back seat to accommodate Ace's long legs and lanky body. The police built a platform for him to ride on.

Ace's kennel was built by Sgt. Doane, Sgt. Juan Placios of the I.D. section, Lt. Melvin Daratt, warrant officer, and Troy Drinkard of Drinkard Electric Company.

Many others have donated time and material in addition to money to the upkeep of Ace for which the police department and Sgt. Doane are appreciative.

A common misconception which Doane wishes to dispel is that drug sniffing dogs are addicted to or are subjected to sniffing the dope they are trained to find. This is entirely untrue. The dog is trained to hold the package containing the drug for only a moment, gingerly, to keep it from harming or addicting him.

The training of Ace began simply by throwing a bag of marijuana within sight for him to "Go fetch the dope."

"After he mastered this, the cache was thrown in weeds and he was told to "go fetch the dope," while Doane scounted around the area with him on his leash. When Ace finds and fetches the dope he is rewarded with pieces of hard liver which has been boiled until done, then baked, and-or praise.

To train Ace on another drug, Doane adds a small amount of the new one to the original drug, gradually increasing the new one until it's 100 percent, reducing the amount of the original each time.

Ace is now capable of sniffing out marijuana, hashish and heroin in many unlikely places. So far, he finds dope in metal lockers, buried underground, sealed in plastic, hidden in parts of car engines and car bodies and in Doane's back pocket.

Ace is fed a special chicken based canned dog food containing all the vitamins and minerals he needs mixed with a dry food once a day along with heart worm medicine to prevent him from getting the worms.

One thing Doane doesn't allow Ace to do is stick his nose out the open window of the car or ride in the back of a pick-up. Sniffing too much air could overwork his olfactory glands so that his sense of smell wouldn't be as keen. He closes the windows of his kennel at night and intends to be very careful in cold weather to keeping Ace from sniffing very cold air. According to experts, olfactory glands on a dog could freeze.

Doane allows Ace off his leash at home, but the dog doesn't let his master out of his sight outdoors.

If the dog doesn't find what he's looking for when working, Doane sits down and analyzes why. Was the package sealed too tightly? Was it downwind of the dog? Does Ace not feel well? One day Ace didn't work well because he had a sore throat. The two make regular visits to the veterinarian.

"Big Spring Policemen are just ordinary people like everybody else," declared Lt. Claude Morris, second in command of the detective division of the Big Spring Police Department. "We're called many names because of our position of authority, but we're just like every other man with good and bad points." We have a tough job to do and would like the people's help in doing it. Suspicious behavior needs to be reported, charges have to be filed and statements made from the citizenry before action can be taken against law breakers.

A pamphlet is available to all entitled "This is Your Police Officer," which tells in a graphic way who the policeman is, what he does, how he became an officer, how he can help you and his code of ethics.

The policeman's code of ethics is: "As a law enforcement officer, my fundamental duty is to serve mankind, to safeguard lives and property: to protect the innocent against oppression or intimidation, and the peaceful against violence or disorder and to respect the constitutional rights of all men to liberty, equality and justice.

"I will keep my private life unsullied as an example to all: maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn or ridicule; develop self-restraint and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others. Honest in though and deed in both my personal and official life, I will be exemplary in obeying the laws of the land and the regulations of my department. Whatever I see or hear of a confidential nature or that which is confided in me in my official capacity will be kept forever secret unless revelation is necessary in the performance of my duty.

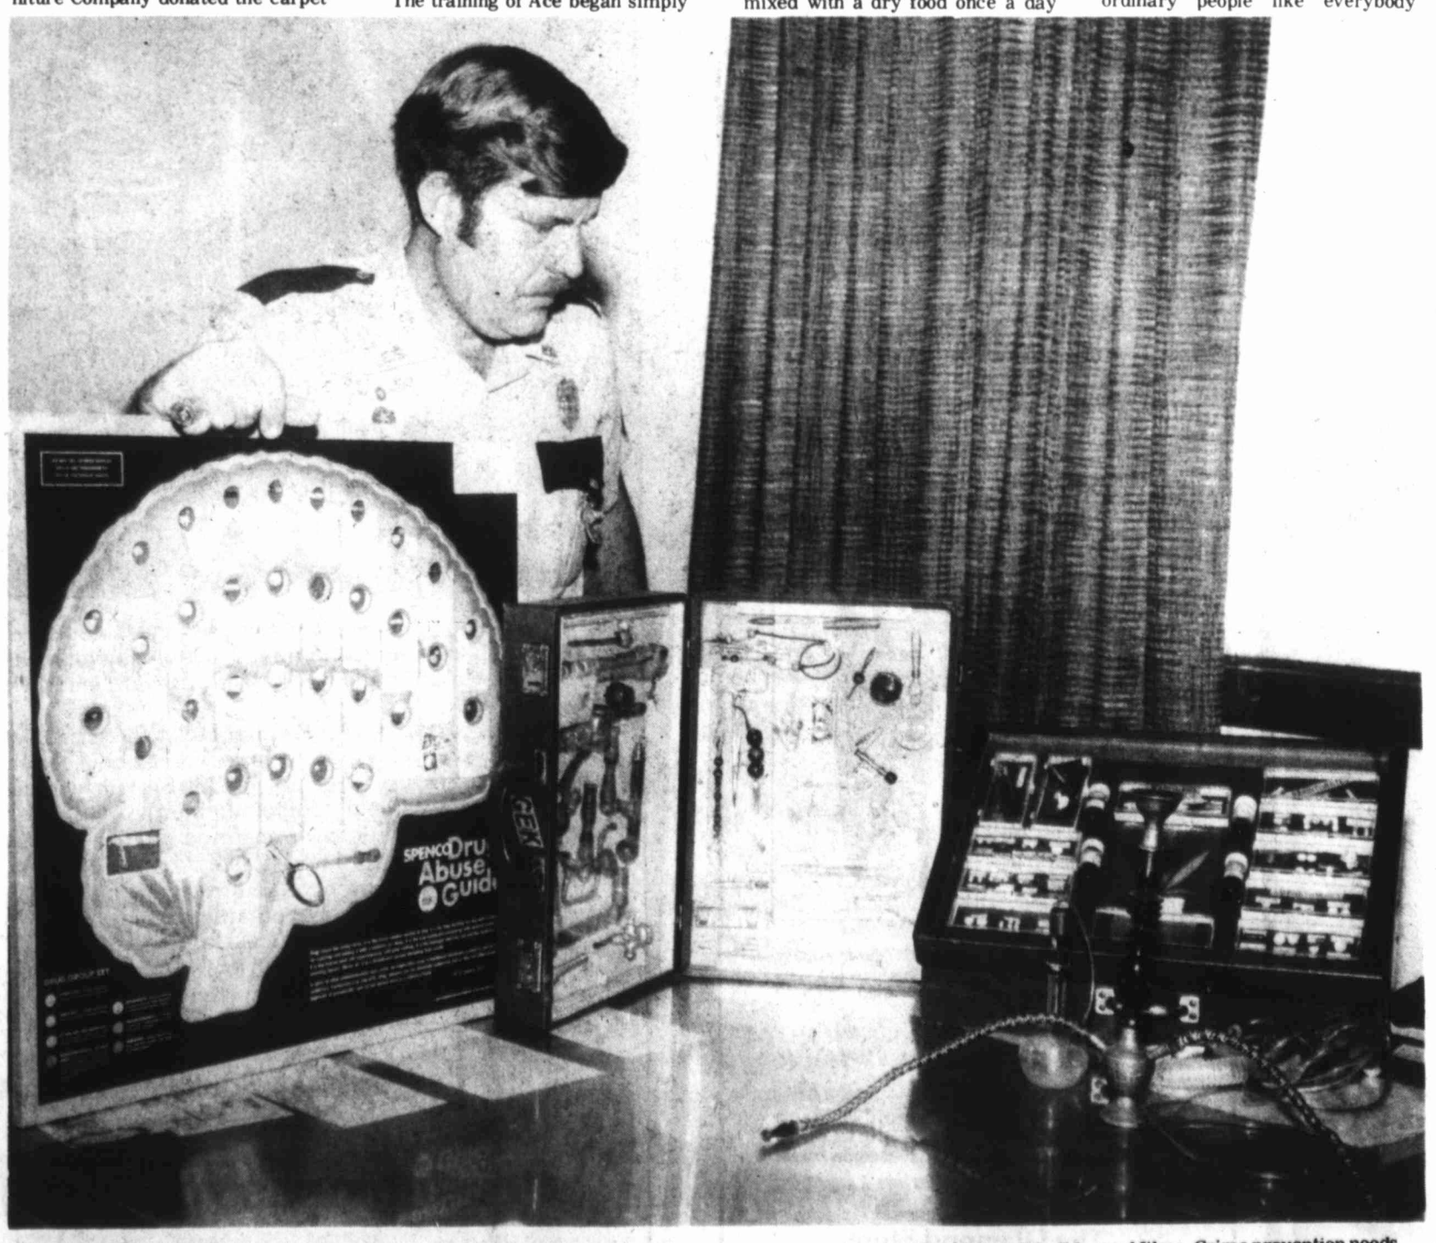

"I WILL never act officiously or permit personal feelings, prejudices, animosities or friendship to influence my decisions. With no compromise for crime and wit relentless prosecution of criminals, without fear or favor, malice or ill will, never employing unncessary force or violence and never accepting gratuities.

"I RECOGNIZE the badge of my office as a symbol of the the public faith and I accept it as a public trust to be held so long as I am true to the ethics of the police service. I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself before God to my chosen profession — LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Morris, one of five lieutenants on the police force, makes up the work schedule for the other five detectives in his division, assigns cases and reviews them before they go to court and handles citizens complaints.

Lt. Morris' Criminal Investigation Division report for August revealed 52 cases of burglary with 25 solved and $6,723.85 recoved out of $8,451.62 taken. "18 bicycles were stolen in August, 21 in July and 19 in June. Bicycle thefts are hard to solve because the bikes are not usually marked with an I.D. number. The thief repaints them and sometimes changes the tires, etc. If the Operation IMD. engraver were used and the I.D. number deeply engraved, it would be difficult for the thief to eliminate, and would help the police a great deal. Only five of the 18 bicycles theft cases were cleared in August.

Crime prevention loses funds

Criminal mischief accounted for 63 August cases with $7,100.95 value of property lost due to it. Anyone seeing window or windshield breaking, property destruction of any kind without cause or even anyone throwing rocks, should report it to the police.

The police department is being deprived of the funds as of Oct. 1 to continue the Crime Prevention Program since Sgt. Ed Kissinger retired recently. Captain Jim McCainn detective said, "It's a shame to lose crime prevention funds, the Neighborhood Watch Program is the most effective crime prevention there is. Under the best circumstances we have only five or six officers on the street at a time. The only way the department can cover the town adequately is with the aid of citizens reporting anything suspicious that they see."

Operation 'I.D. or Identification, is an ongoing and successful program which may save the loss of valued items. The electric engravers are available at the police department at no cost to the borrower to engrave a Texas Driver's License number or owner's name or other means of identification on items in and around the home. An inventory form is given so the citizen can maintain a record of information about his property. When the engraver and a copy of the inventory form is returned to the police department, the borrower is given decals to place on the doors and windows of his home or place of business. The "Operation Identification" decals are a definite deterrent to burglaries.

The police force is backed up by an able crew of secretaries and clerks. "Jan Hyden, Task Force secretary and Linda Morris, detective division secretary, are two of the hardest working ones," says Capt. McCain.

Jan, (Mrs. Charles Hyden), began work as the Juvenile Division secretary at 21 years of age. When the Juvenile Division was done away with in 1974, she was certified as an officer and became a detective. Jan attended the Law Enforcement Academy in Midland and attained the high score in a class of approximately 23.

Mrs. Hyden quit to have a family then returned in October as secretary to the Task Force. The Hydens have two boys, Duncan Paul, 21 months old and Nicholas, 4½ months old.

Asked about her most exciting experience as a detective, Linda said, "The time I faced down a shotgun at a juvenile officer." The Welfare department asked her to go to a residence at night to pick up a juvenile. The woman came to the door aiming a shot gun at her. The woman wouldn't believe she was an officer after Jan showed her identification, so she called the police dispatcher and said she was about to blow her away. The place was soon crawling with policemen. Jan said she always felt secure because communication is so good between patrol cars and the dispatcher.

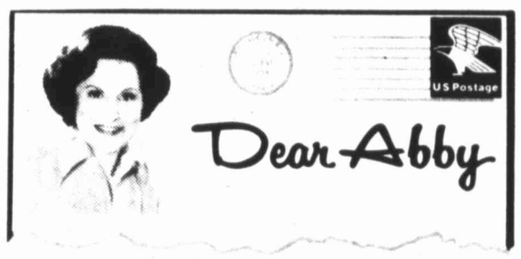

The most interesting case Jan worked on was a forgery ring operating out of South Dakota involving cities all over the United States the latter part of 1976. This ring made Big Spring three separate times. The ring leader was a syndicated crime operator. One of the ring would distract the manager of a business while another would steal checks out of the middle of a check book. The checks would be made out on an automatic check writer and cashed. In a local bar one of the checks was used to buy a youth's driver's license for identification. Jan had a file about an inch thick on the ring.

Since the department is one secretary short, Jan helps the detective division's secretary, Linda Moore.

Linda has been in Big Spring 14 years. Her family settled in Big Spring after her dad, a serviceman retired. Her grandmother, Alice Herren, lived here. Linda has been with the police department four years, having attended Howard College and Angelo State University two years each. "The job is different and varied," says Linda,

When you think you've met every situation possible, a new one turns up."

The Big Spring Police Department is working under a manpower and money shortage and the cooperation of all the citizens of Big Spring is required to make our city safe and secure.

She Fumigates Beach Leeches

DEAR ABBY: I've read many letters in your column from people who don't know what to do about uninvited guests. We have a nice little house at the beach which inspired the following:

June is past, so is July,
August is ended—likewise I.
The pattering feet of summer and sun
Are over, complete, exhausted, done!
I've fed the young as well as the old,
I've cooled the warm, I've warmed the cold,
The wounded and weeping I have consoled,
The tender and touchy I have cajoled.
I have steeled the scared, I have scared the bold,
I have bit my tongue till it was controlled.
I've broiled the steak, I have casseroled
And the grocer thinks I am made of gold.
(The other bills I have pigeon-holed.)
And frankly, friends, I am ready to fold!
Next time I live I'll make the most
Of being the guest not the host.

TIRED

DEAR ABBY: I believe that nursing a baby is a private affair. If a nursing mother wants to return to her job, she should pump her breasts and put the milk into sterile bottles and place them in the refrigerator for the proper dispensation by the sitter. What do you think?

ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW

DEAR POINT: If the mother can have her child brought TO her for nursing (at her own expense) and forego her coffee break for her baby's milk break, I'd go along with it. But demanding that employers provide a special set-up for nursing mothers would be a costly accommodation for which the consumer (or taxpayer) would have to pay, and I'm opposed to it.

Girls have less freedom

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old girl and I have a 15-year-old brother. I have a boyfriend and my brother has a girlfriend.

Whenever my boyfriend comes over to talk to me, my mom watches us like a hawk.

But my brother can go down to the woods with his girlfriend and talk to her in private.

Please tell me whether this is fair or not. — Helena, York, Pa.

Helena: All through history parents have been keeping a closer eye on their daughter than their sons. It stems from the fact that girls have reputations and boys basically do not.

To answer your question, no, I don't think it's fair.

Dr. Wallace: Both my boyfriend and I are 16 and we have been together for about four years. For the last four months I have had a steady job. Lately he has been borrowing money from me and gets upset if I don't buy him things.

I don't like this arrangement but he says, "I'd do it for you" and he makes me feel guilty.

He has had a few jobs but he can't seem to keep them. I'm confused. — Kris, Merced, Calif.

Kris: Stop the free handouts. Make him prove he would "do it for you."

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 AND 20, care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28 cents stamped large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, care of this newspaper.

WGC reviews ways to increase awareness

The Women of the Church of God met in the home of Mrs. Vera Blackburn. 405 Pennsylvania, Sept. 10 for their regular monthly meeting.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Hettie Minix, and Barbara Montgomery voiced the opening prayer.

A solo, "Open My Eyes that I May See," was sung by Mrs. Richard Reagan.

Mrs. Blackburn, Missionary Education, director, introduced the fall study, "A Christian Concern for Human Rights." She also read the United Nations' Declaration of Human Rights.

The objectives of the study are to review ways to increase awareness of the world around us and to focus attention on world needs that should be of major concern to Christians.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, was introduced by Anna Smith. Mrs. Avery directed her talk to four areas in which a Christian should recognize the human rights of others.

First explore areas of situations that need help and be concerned enough to do something about them.

Second, whenever and wherever the poor are suffering hunger or deprivation, it is the Christian duty to ease and relieve such conditions if possible.

Third, Christian duty is to become informed about the world and its needs whether community, state or national.

Fourth, Christians should be able to recognize the difference between human rights and personal obligations or duties.

Refreshments were served to the 14 women in attendance by the hostess. The October meeting will be in the home of Mrs. F.P. Hickson, 107 East 17th Street.

Sunday school class gives fund offering

Mrs. Louise Dunlap and Mrs. Ross Hill were co-hostesses Sept. 13 when the Gleaner's Sunday School Class met in Mrs. Hill's home.

Mrs. Ethel Simmons, class president, presided.

An offering was made to the Big Spring Bible Fund. Plans were made to visit the ill.

Mrs. Hill gave the devotional on Christians, especially senior citizens, and what they can do for the community after retirement.

A called meeting will be held to nominate new officers after promotion the last Sunday in October.

The next regular meeting will be Dec. 13. Place will be announced later.

I can hardly believe the ease with which I have lost weight and inches during my Pat Walker Program

Over the years I have been through the whole bit — calorie counting, carbohydrate counting, crash diets, starvation diets, losing 5-10 pounds and immediately gaining it back. Having lost 35 pounds and 44¼ inches my outlook has completely changed.

I have gone from a size 14-16 to size 10 and feel so much better physically and mentally and have more energy than I have ever had.

Thanks to Pat Walker I have finally learned to eat properly and maintain my weight. The management and staff at Pat Walkers are great — without their help and encouragement I would never have made it.
