U.S. Marines said unsafe in Beirut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top commanders of U.S. forces in Lebanon say as long as Marines hold their peacekeeping position in Beirut, their safety from terrorist attack cannot be guaranteed.

Gen. Paul X. Kelley, commandant of the Marine Corps and Army Gen. Bernard Rogers, commander of U.S. forces in Europe, testified Monday before the Senate Armed Services Committee on security at the Marine headquarters in Beirut following the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing that claimed at least 230 lives.

No way, we cannot guarantee that there will be no other attacks against our troops," Rogers said. "We can't make that guarantee as long as our forces are in this situation. You can't prevent it, and I don't like it."

Kelley was returning to Capitol Hill today to explain to the House Armed Services Committee steps taken to protect the troops in the wake of the suicide attack that destroyed the Marine headquarters at Beirut airport.

On Wednesday, the House is scheduled to vote on an attempt by Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., to cut off funds for maintaining the Marines after Nov. 30 as part of the international peacekeeping force that has been based in the war-torn nation for 13 months.

Numerous members of Congress have expressed outrage about the adequacy of the protection provided the Marines, and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill predicted the vote would be "very close." He said members of a congressional delegation who visited the Marine contingent over the weekend would carry "a significant amount of clout" in the matter with their colleagues.

In his first public testimony about the attack following his visit to the airport headquarters last week, Kelley told the senators Monday that security is being beefed up. Besides access being limited to a one-lane road, additional guard posts are being added, patrols are being stepped up and machine gun emplacements are guarding the approaches to the U.S. positions, Kelley said.

Kelley pointed out that the Marines' mission was a "diplomatic and political mission, and not a military one," making it difficult for them to build a fortress-like defense.

"Our basic mission is presence," Kelley said. "The Marines had to be seen by the Lebanese people."

He attempted to convince the senators that prior to the attack, "every reasonable and prudent precaution" had been taken to ensure the troops' safety, but that an attack of such magnitude had not been foreseen.

TEC office space solution hits new snag

Snyder's Texas Employment Commission branch office again finds itself without a permanent location after word has been received that a plan to locate a state-owned mobile trailer here is not feasible.

In expectation of a state-provided mobile office, both Snyder Independent School District administrators and the Scurry County commissioners court had offered assistance to keep the TEC office open.

School officials had indicated such a mobile trailer could be located on district-owned land adjacent to the Senior, Citizen Center here.

In addition, the commissioners court had pledged yearly funds to pay for electric utility costs for the office, which would have been located just east of the old school gymnasium by the center.

These offers of assistance had been made assuming the state would provide such a trailer. According to local TEC representative Rae Adams, the indication now is that the state would "be reluctant to tie it (a mobile office) up on a long range basis."

The TEC office has been housed on a temporary basis in office space at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce building. While a time limit has not been set, chamber officials have indicated they will require the extra space in the future.

Adams said she and other TEC officials are now "looking for other available office space here."

In addition, initial in-

Parole task, sewer repairs to be decided

(Editor's note: Beginning with this issue, the SDN will briefly review the 11 proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. These will be decided by state-wide vote next Tuesday, Nov. 8).

Amendment 11

Number 11 of the 11 proposed amendments deals with the Texas governor's right to grant last minute clemency to individuals condemned to die for crimes.

Basically, if approved the amendment would take away this power and place it more directly in the hands of the State Board of Pardons.

In addition to the "pardon" aspect of the measure, it would take away the governor's direct say-so in the granting of paroles from prison.

It would also increase the membership of the paroles board to six members — all of which would be appointed by the governor. Currently, the governor appoints only one member of the three-member board. The other two are appointed by the chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court and the

See PARDON, page 10

★ Election Day ★

Amendment 10

Number 10 of the 11 proposed amendments would allow cities to pay up front for replacing deteriorated sewer lines on the private property of home owners.

The city could then recoup this expense from the homeowner over a period of up to five years.

Such action would have to be prompted by a request from the homeowner. The cost of the line — estimated at between $2,000 to $3,000 — would then be repaid with interest.

If the homeowner was unable to pay for the lines, the cost would count as a lien against the property. Such a lien would then have to be cleared before the property could be sold again.

In the case of some individuals, this would not logically occur until after their death.

Individuals "for" the measure see it as a way to improve sewer utility lines for persons otherwise unable to afford such work.

Opponents note it places cities — financed by public funds — in the position of competing with private businesses currently offering such a service.

The amendment appears on the Nov. 8 ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to permit a city or town to expend public funds and levy assessments for the relocation or replacement of sanitation sewer laterals on private property."

HALLOWEEN VISITORS — Residents of Snyder's two nursing homes had seasonal visits Monday afternoon in the form of these Halloween spirits. Some 20 spooks, all students in the Western Texas College Vocational Nurs-

Building skills for birds

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Bert Davis just may be the answer to a housing shortage in Snyder. Square ones, round ones, one-story and two-story models — he builds them all just for fun, pleasure and relaxation.

While people may find Davis' houses a bit cramped, birds love them.

Davis, who is in his seventies, describes himself as a jack-of-all-trades and union carpenter who has spent his life doing all types of construction work.

With that background, building birdhouses just came naturally. It all started about a year ago when his daughter, Patsy Colby, asked him to build her a birdhouse for Purple Martins.

Having no idea what such an undertaking would involve, Davis said he went to the library and found two books which described the specifications for the type of birdhouse his daughter wanted built.

Davis followed the instructions to the letter, except he used plywood instead of redwood. The resulting birdhouse is double-decked and features 16 rooms each 6x6x6 or 216 cubic inches for each compartment.

Davis said he also researched the Purple Martin and related the following facts:

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Most people don't plan to fail—they fail to plan."

At our house, mail-order catalogs arrive in multiples. We continue to be amazed at the number and variety of the slick, full-color sales pieces.

Avon Books in New York decided to do a spoof of the L. Bean catalog, a popular mail-order publication for outdoor lovers.

Included in the volume, "Items From Our Catalog," were items at bargains that couldn't be resisted. Included were such items as adorable doggie brassieres for $7.75. There were sheepskin-lined cases for canned tuna for only $5 and edible moccasins for $41.75.

The publishers were successful selling the spoof catalog at $4.95 each, and total sales were close to 10,000 copies.

What they didn't expect was for folks to take it seriously. Hundreds of readers got on the phone with plastic money in hand. Others mailed checks and included the size and color of their choice only to find the items did not exist—it was only a joke.

The publisher had to put on extra help to handle the calls. To add additional problems for the publisher, a woman in Massachusetts had the same telephone number as the one listed on the back of the catalog. She got so many orders for nose warmers that she had to change her number.

The only guarantee was printed on the front cover and was signed by publisher Alfred Gingold: "I guarantee that this is book two."

Like the feller said, "Theories are good things—if they work."

An English teacher over at junior high was teaching her class proper grammar. "You should never say, 'I seen him do it,' she told the class.

"Yeah," piped a voice near the rear of the room, "especially if you ain't sure he done it."

Q. — What is the day after Halloween called?

A. — Allhallows Day or All Saints Day, a religious holiday honoring all saints. The first week in November is called Allhallowtide.

In Brief

Bill heads for House okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill calling upon President Reagan to withdraw troops from Grenada within 60 days appears headed for passage in the Democratic House.

Mail rate hike proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service said today it will seek to increase the cost of mailing a letter from 20 cents to 23 cents.

Robert L. Hardesty, chairman of the Postal Service Board, said increases would be sought for all classes of mail, but they would not take effect before Oct. 1, 1984.

The proposed increase for postcards, for example, would be 2 cents, from 13 cents to 15 cents.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger said, "I still think that 23 cents will be a bargain" for a letter.

The officials said the independent Postal Rate Commission would be asked within a few days to approve the new rates. The panel is allowed up to 10 months to consider such a case.

The service has announced surplus for each of the last two fiscal years but said that it expects a loss of about $800 million for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1984.

Officials said that without a rate increase the operating losses during fiscal 1985 could be more than $2.3 billion.

Reward for oilfield theft

Officials with Consolidated Tool and Supply in Snyder have announced a $3,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of individuals linked to a recent company oil field theft.

It occurred the weekend of Oct. 22-23 at a pulling unit site in southwestern Scurry County.

Upon returning to work the following Monday at 7 a.m., the CRC Source Services rig crew found the items missing. They are described as a 5 1/2 inch Artco manual spider and slips and an eight link 5 1/2 inch Baash and Rosh type C safety clamp.

The tools are thought to have been taken from the worksite sometime between 3 p.m. Oct. 22, when the crew broke for the weekend, and when they returned the following Monday.

At the time of the theft, the CRC rig was located on a well site just east of the Monsanto Gas Plant on Monsanto lease E 11 A, just off of Farm Road 1606.

The missing spider and safety clamp are said painted green while the slips are silver.

Four split grid first prize

A four-way tie ended last week's SDN football contest with each winning entry to split the combined prize money of $17.50.

Each missed only two games and will receive a check for $4.38.

Winners were: Elmer L. Wilson, 4400 Ave. U; Robert L. Benson, 4601 El Paso Ave.; Cynthia Hall, 200 33rd St.; and Mike Boles, 202 33rd St.

Senior driving class slated

A two-day "55 Alive-Mature Driving Program" sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons and the Senior Center is scheduled Monday at the center.

The course is open to all persons age 55 or older. A fee of $7 is asked. Completion of it entitles participants to a 10 percent discount on certain types of automobile insurance.

The class will meet Monday from 12:30 until 4:30 p.m. and again Tuesday, Nov. 8, from 1 until 4:30 p.m.

In addition, persons who would like to become instructors for the course may attend a training session Wednesday, Nov. 9, from 8:30 until 11 a.m. and from 1 until 4:30 p.m.

Interested persons should contact Bonnie Schupp, center secretary, at 573-4035.

Youngster's death mars Halloween festivities

By Deborah Zabarenko
Associated Press Writer
Benign vampires capered through New York City streets amid Groucho-masked nuns and human-sized bread slices, but Halloween took a gruesome turn elsewhere, with deadly fires set by Detroit pranksters and shootings in two states that killed one girl and injured another.

Reports of tainted candy and goodies laden with pins and needles marred Monday night's holiday in Arizona, just over a year after the Tylenol poisonings in the Chicago area worried parents of trick-or-treaters.

But officials in other states reported a calm Halloween, made safer by curfews, organized events for children and X-ray stations where parents could bring treats to spot tampering.

"We just didn't see many trick-or-treaters out tonight," said police Lt. Jim Webb in Muskogee, Okla. "The city had little programs for the kids to go to — carnivals — and that kept a lot of them off the street."

However, in Macon, Ga., a 9-year-old girl died in a Georgia hospital today after she was wounded when an unknown gunman fired into a group of children as they were trick-or-treating Monday night, police said.

And in upstate New York, police said a man who answered his door expecting trick-or-treaters was shot with a rifle by one of two men in army fatigues and blackened faces. His 3-year-old daughter was also wounded.

The streets of New York City's Greenwich Village were thronged Monday night, but most of the 250,000 revelers were grown-ups playing at being children for one night for the 10th annual Halloween parade through the Bohemian heart of the city.

Costumes ranged from the sedate — a red, white and black painted face over a business suit — to the outrageous: a carton of milk, a seven-slice loaf of white bread, and an entire family of ancient Egyptians.

Seven witches on stilts swept through the crowd with long brooms and 10 nuns wearing Groucho Marx masks marched in single file.

In Detroit, one man died and two firefighters were slightly injured in as many as 600 fires set on Devil's Night, the 24-hour period that ended at noon Monday, fire officials said. Officials said the fires were set by teen-age pranksters, not professional arsonists.

Chris Craft vows to fight judge's ruling

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former television anchorwoman Christine Craft, vowing to appeal, says she's appalled that a judge threw out a $500,000 verdict in her sex discrimination case after citing "her apparent indifference to matters of appearance."

U.S. District Judge Joseph E. Stevens Jr. on Monday ordered a new trial, saying the jury verdict on Ms. Craft's allegations of fraud against Metromedia Inc. was excessive and resulted from "passion, prejudice, confusion or mistake."

He also ruled that her demotion by KMBC-TV was not the result of sex discrimination and criticized excessive publicity in the case.

"This totally throws out the jury's role and function," said Dennis Egan, an attorney for Ms. Craft. "Kenneth W. Green, foreman of the four-woman, two-man jury, said Monday he did not believe the jury was biased by the publicity."

At Wit's End

Remember the other day when I wrote about my impatience to become a grandmother?

I didn't see why my children were punishing me by refusing to give birth and provide me with a few billfold-sized photos to pass around and a couple of cute stories. After all, it seemed such a little thing to ask for a mother who gave up being Joan Collins because she wanted to stay home and be a professional martyr.

Well, a grandmother named Janet in Riverside, Calif., has come to "save me in the nick of time." Get hold of yourself," she warned. "Time has erased the ravages of war from your mind and you are vulnerable to attack."

The woman is obviously hysterical.

"Yesterday," she continued, "I accompanied my 13-year-old granddaughter and he mother on a shopping trip for clothes. Try to remember how you offered lovely blouses, skirts and sweaters off the rack to your children which they sniffed and rejected. And remember the shock when you saw your kids on their knees reverently worshipping a Goodwill reject priced at $130."

It was only a phase.

"Do you want to go through that again with a granddaughter? Are you ready for the New Wave, Punk, New Romantic, Things Remembered, Flashdance tacky?"

Everyone has to change, Janet.

She went on to write, "And what about those horrible moments when the clerk gently lifted my charge card from my wallet as I frantically tried to revive my daughter from a coma? Her card had been snipped in half three stores back when it was discovered she was $2,000 over the limit."

Come to think of it, Janet, I do remember a maxi leather coat that died from terminal dust in the closet and had to be put to sleep. And there was that business with the $30 jeans with the knee ripped out that I paid $5 more for because they were guaranteed to shrink and fade. But we're talking babies here...babies who...as I remember...

Kept hours like hamsters, played the piano with sticky fingers, flushed shoes down the toilet, put meal worms in the refrigerator next to the lettuce, crayoned on the fireplace, knew only one word: "No!" made their own formula for their own bottle, sat down when they no longer felt like walking, bit the dog's nose, locked themselves behind doors for which there were no keys, dialed direct to Hawaii, left a rainbow over the sofa with their damp drawers and...

Thanks, Janet, I needed that!

Schools, stores reopen, snipers still attacking

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (AP) — U.S. helicopters buzzed a sniper on one side of Grenada while searchers 45 miles away cleared the rubble of a mental hospital where as many as 20 patients were killed when U.S. jets bombed the facility.

The helicopters swooped in low over the treetops after sniper fire Monday sent U.S. soldiers scrambling for cover.

Despite the sniping, 1,200 Marines were leaving for Lebanon, their original assignment before being diverted to Grenada. U.S. Army soldiers were taking their place today, a week after the U.S.-led invasion of the 133-square-mile Caribbean island.

Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Dam said Monday night there was no timetable yet for U.S. troop withdrawal because it was not known when all the resistance would end.

Capt. Barry Willey, an Army public affairs officer in Grenada, said he knew of no bands of resisters still fighting on Monday, but added that soldiers combing the island were finding more caches of weapons and ammunition.

"I don't want to mislead you that the whole island is now secure," Willey said.

Vehicles with loudspeakers fanned out over the roads, blasting this message over and over: "Members of the People's Revolutionary Army, Cuban defenders. Lay down your arms and surrender. You will be allowed to go home. Gen. Austin has surrendered. The resistance is over."

Gen. Hudson Austin, who led the Marxist military junta which seized control and killed

Prime Minister Maurice Bishop, was taken by U.S. paratroopers after they were tipped that the general was hiding in a house on the southeast coast, Willey said.

Without firing a shot, the paratroopers seized Austin, along with two militia officers and two young men, Willey said. Whether the young men were hostages, "I cannot say," Willey said.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Austin was being held "for his personal protection" on the USS Guam, the flagship of the U.S. fleet off Grenada.

The Pentagon said 18 U.S. servicemen have been killed, 86 wounded and one is missing since the invasion.

In the capital, the stench of dead bodies pervaded the ruins of the mental hospital, but otherwise life began to have some normalcy.

Students went to school Monday for the first time since leaders of a military coup imposed a shoot-on-sight curfew. The pupils traded stories of life during the invasion. Stores reopened.

The Pentagon said that during the first hours of the invasion, U.S. troops encountered heavy fire from Fort Frederick, 500 yards from the hospital on a neighboring hill overlooking St. George's harbor.

Agatha Harry, a nurse at Richmond Hill Institutions, said she thought as many as 46 patients had been killed, but administrators said that some patients might have wandered away unhurt and had not yet been found. The administration said those who died were probably elderly or bedridden and could not escape when the shelling began.

"I'm not saying it was deliberate," Anthony Roberts, one of the hospital administrators, said of the bombing. "It was during the attack on Fort Frederick," the 17th-century fortress which was Austin's headquarters.

To counter the attack from Fort Frederick, the Pentagon said, U.S. jets began a bombing strike "not knowing that there was a hospital in the complex." The hospital officials said all the fatalities occurred in the two wings closest to Fort Frederick.

In downtown St. George's, shoppers crowded the markets. An old man selling beer and cigarettes said, "It's the normal crowd."

Organization has found eight missing children

NEW PALTZ, N. Y. (AP) — Since it kicked off a national campaign to locate missing children three weeks ago, Child Find, Inc., an organization based here, has aided in the "recovery" of eight missing children, according to a spokeswoman for the group.

And, according to Ann DeSandis, tips about other children are still coming in.

The campaign began Oct. 10 when snapshots of 55 missing children and Child Find's toll-free number were shown viewers following the airing of a television movie about Adam Walsh, a Florida boy who was abducted and slain.

Child Find was immediately flooded with telephone calls after the movie, many of them from people who thought they had information about children whose pictures were aired.

DeSandis said the FBI has since located Lisa M. Stock, a 5½-year-old girl missing for three years whose picture was among those aired.

Lisa, who was missing from her home in San Antonio, Texas, was found Oct. 28 near Dallas, Ms. DeSandis told the Midtown, N.Y. Times-Herald Record.

An FBI agent involved in the case told the paper agents arrested the girl's father, Robert Dale Stock, Oct. 27 at his sister's home in Coppell, Texas, on a warrant for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Stock had lost custody of the child to his wife, Dorothy Stock Lombardo, who has since remarried and moved to Omaha, Neb., Ms. DeSandis said.

When the FBI arrested Stock, the girl was not at home, according to agent Greg Vandelo.

Ms. DeSandis said Stock's sister had dyed her hair and taken Lisa to a nearby town, where the girl stayed with another sister.

But Stock's brother-in-law convinced his wife to surrender the girl the next day, Ms. DeSandis said.

Though Lisa was found through an FBI investigation of known friends and relatives of Stock, virtually all the children located since the television show have resulted from viewer's tips, Ms. DeSandis said.

She said people with information about other missing children are still calling Child Find.

Woman who filmed assassination dead

DALLAS (AP) — Elsie T. Dorman, who filmed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy from the Texas School Book Depository, has died. She was 76.

Mrs. Dorman filmed the fatal shots from two floors beneath the spot where Lee Harvey Oswald is believed to have fired them on Nov. 22, 1963.

Her film was later used by the FBI to study the assassination.

Mrs. Dorman, a native of Pembroke, Maine, died Sunday at Midway Park General Hospital after a short illness.

She was an employee of Scott Foresman & Co., a publishing firm, for 25 years. She and her husband, John T. Dorman, moved to Dallas in 1951. Dorman died in 1977.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures
Wallpaper isn't always paper. But when it is, it encompasses both the cheapest and most expensive of wallcoverings.

Machine-printed wallpaper is in the $5 to $15 per roll range, is available in widths ranging from 18 inches to 27 inches and is usually pre-pasted and pretrimmed. What is called handscreened paper can cost up to $100 per roll. Between these price ranges are many varieties of wallpaper.

Other wallcoverings which are given the "wallpaper" tag are not paper at all. Among these are all-vinyls, foils and fabrics. Since the world of wallcoverings is complex, we asked Robert C. Yeager to do some clarifying for our readers. Having recently completed the restoration of a 70-year-old house in Northern California and a book called "Painting and Wallpapering" (Ortho), Yeager seemed like the right person to ask.

"All-vinyl wall coverings," he said, "stand up to the most wear-and-tear. They are scrubbable, stain-resistant and best suited for areas of the house which tend to take on the most dirt. Kitchens, bathrooms, hallways and children's rooms are great candidates. Available with cloth and paper backing, vinyl coverings are moderately priced. One important precaution must be taken while hanging vinyl coverings — fungus-resistant adhesives are recommended to combat the mildew which can develop under this non-porous material."

What about the foils?
"These are made of aluminum or polyester films that resemble metals and may be cloth- or paper-backed. They are available in pre-pasted, standard rolls but are considered expensive and the hardest to apply. Once again, the threat of mildew requires that a fungus-resistant vinyl adhesive be used, not wheat paste. Also, it is important not to apply foil paper over previous layers of paper. And don't forget that foil can conduct electricity, so be careful around outlets, fixtures and switches."

Can anybody apply these wallcoverings?
"Yes, with certain rare exceptions. For instance, in the fabrics, which are available in widths twice the size of the typical 27-inch rolls, anyone can handle the unbacked type, but paper-backed fabrics are recommended because the paper improves the stability of openweave designs. However, backed fabric wallcovering is difficult to apply and, if you prefer this kind of wallcovering, you would be better off to hire a professional."

Is it true that flocks and embossed paper should not be hung over previous layers of covering?
"Yes. Flocks are available on standard paper, vinyl or foil and are excellent for creating warmth and elegance in a living room or bedroom. Both flocks and embossed papers should be hung with the appropriate adhesive — and great care should be taken to keep paste off the surface. A seam roller should not be used. Instead, pat down the edges with a smoothing brush. As with all wallcovering installation, take your time, measure everything twice and be careful."

Isn't wallpapering more difficult than just painting?
"Of course it is, but I wish you wouldn't use the word 'difficult.' All that is required is a little guidance. That gives the installer enough confidence so that the job does not seem difficult."

(Handyperson tips on a number of subjects are given in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, NJ 07666.)

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Howard Parker of Baton Rouge has started a career as a bridge professional. He has only 2,000 master points right now, but is moving up rapidly. He has the enthusiasm of youth and likes to get into the bidding with both feet.

We don't approve of his two-heart jump overcall with a mere five-card suit. We use pre-emptive jump overcalls, but want some distribution values. However, when 28-year-old Oswald Jacoby invented the bid back in 1931, we must admit that he bid them with the same reckless abandon that 28-year-old Howard Parker does in 1983.

Anyway, his bid put considerable pressure on West, who finally bid three clubs. North raised to three hearts and after East and South had passed, West decided to try a light, bounding double and led his three of trumps. Howard let it ride to his seven and promptly led a spade. If West had ducked, Howard would have risen with his king, struggled along and probably made his contract, but West rose with the ace. East dropped the jack. West led a low spade and after a mental review of the bidding, Howard decided that West didn't hold four spades to the A-Q. He rose with dummy's king, dropped the queen and made an over-trick and a top score. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

LET THEM HAVE A DRY BED

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting — What It's All About and How To End It," a report by two medical doctors. No obligation.

DINNER DRESS makes a dramatic return for holiday festivities, here in black rayon matte jersey with a draped petal skirt. Softly gathered shoulder and slightly fitted sleeve heighten the drama. Black bead and sequin motif on the bodice and black matte earrings studded with rhinestones, simple black satin evening pumps and sheer hosiery add to the all-out glamour look.

Furniture-maker builds it by hand

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

In an age of mass production, Sam Maloof makes furniture by hand. In an age when experts flaunt doctoral degrees to indicate their skill, he is self-taught. In an age which seems to denigrate physical labor and to take materials for granted, he regards both with reverence.

Maloof, who is one of America's most honored furniture craftsmen, is an original whose unusual attitudes and uncommon skills have brought him fame and a small measure of riches.

His solid wood furniture hewn from walnut, mahogany and oak has been exhibited in the Smithsonian and other museums, and at the Vatican. His work has been the subject of films, television programs and articles.

Recently, one of the rocking chairs which remain his most popular design was acquired for the White House. President Reagan informed the maker it is the first piece of contemporary furniture brought into the White House in memory.

Though he rarely strays far from the workshop and home he has built over the past 30 years in the middle of a lemon grove in Southern California, Maloof was in New York recently to celebrate publication of his book on his life and work.

During his visit, he pointed out that despite the fact mass production methods are required to satisfy the demand for home furnishings, the handmade object still has relevance to people's lives today.

Maloof believes people hunger for the handmade object as an antidote to industrialized society and because the creativity and pleasure experienced in its making is communicated to the user.

Maloof, who became a commercial artist after serving in the Army during World War II, first made furniture for himself. The furniture he designed and built for his own small tract house was photographed by a national magazine, and the resulting publicity brought him his first commission.

On the strength of the order, he quit his job and opened a woodworking studio. The first order was a small one and the first studio was in his garage. But over the years, orders became more plentiful and Maloof built a well-equipped workshop and a home for his wife and children.

At present Maloof has a backlog of about 100 orders, some for as many as 30 pieces of furniture. When a new order comes in, he must regrettably explain that delivery will take from six months to three years, depending on the amount and intricacy of the work.

His most popular design — the rocking chair which sells for $4,000 at present — he makes up five at a time. Orders for 30 such rockers form part of his backlog.

Maloof has his own priorities. For example, he says, "babies don't wait," so when an order for a cradle comes in, he drops everything and gets right to work on it.

Maloof does not practice many of the common time-saving methods. He orders no stock parts and he does not stockpile furniture

Mock shrimp made from water chestnuts

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

Camouflage cookery has been around in the United States for a long time. You may have encountered such amusing dishes and beverages as Mock Duck (made from a shoulder of lamb) and Mock Champagne (made from ginger ale and muscatel).

But one of the most endearing camouflage recipes comes from China — an authentic Shanghai dish. For it, water chestnuts are carved into "mock shrimp" and used in a delicious but simple stir-fry. Chef T. T. Wang and Michael Tong of New York City's Shun Lee restaurants — lauded by food writers — gave me this recipe. My recipe tester and I found it fun to make and to eat. Best of all, you don't need the skill of an accomplished "food decorator" to concoct it. Even cooks new to the kitchen have every chance of successfully preparing "Mock Shrimp with Green Peas."

MOCK SHRIMP WITH GREEN PEAS

8-ounce can water chestnuts (about 20)

1 large egg white

2 teaspoons cornstarch

½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon sugar

¼ teaspoon sesame oil

1 teaspoon water

2 tablespoons medium

sherry

2 cups peanut oil for frying

1-3rd cup frozen tiny

green peas, thawed

Cooked rice

Drain water chestnuts.

Cut each in half lengthwise. Scoop out the center of each water

chestnut half from the cut side, in crescent fashion,

so that each half resembles a shrimp.

With a fork, blend the egg white with 1 teaspoon of the cornstarch and ¼ teaspoon of the salt. Dip

each "shrimp" in the mixture and reserve.

In a small bowl stir together until blended the remaining 1 teaspoon cornstarch, the remaining ¼ teaspoon salt, the sugar, sesame oil, water and

sherry.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Orchestral Association says it has received $100,000 from Merrill Lynch to sponsor a series of eight concerts presented by Allied Arts Association in the 1983-84 season.

Heat the peanut oil in an electric wok to 450 degrees. Add the "shrimp" and stir-fry for a minute. Remove the "shrimp" and pour the oil from the wok. Return the "shrimp" to the wok and add the peas and the corn-

Surviving nuke war not likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major nuclear war could easily destroy the world's Northern Hemisphere and so badly damage the Southern Hemisphere that the surviving humans would starve, a scientist warns.

"If we have a full-scale nuclear war everyone is going to suffer, perhaps to the point of death," Paul E. Ehrlich of Stanford University told reporters Monday.

Ehrlich made his comments during a conference on the long-term effects of nuclear war. He and Carl Sagan of Cornell University represented about 100 scientists involved in the two-year study.

"The bottom line is the population of survivors ... are going to be starving to death in a cold, dark, smoggy world," Ehrlich said. "We have a very good reason to be scared."

"The extinction of the human species would be a real possibility," added Sagan.

Major and disastrous changes in climate could be triggered by even a relatively small nuclear war, and those changes would destroy crops and endanger millions of people.

Sagan estimated that a major nuclear exchange would kill 1.1 billion people and critically injure a similar number. There are about 4.7 billion people in the world.

The blast would also inject a huge dust cloud into the atmosphere cutting off sunlight.

Recall is possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Dept. wants General Motors Corp. to warn owners of 1.1 million X-cars that federal safety authorities believe the rear brakes may be defective.

Department lawyers asked U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson on Monday to issue a preliminary injunction against GM while the department's suit aimed at forcing a formal recall of the cars is heard.

The government's proposal calls for GM to tell the owners that they could get their brakes fixed, and that if GM loses the suit, the manufacturer will pay for the repairs.

Further, the government asked that GM set up a $50 million escrow account now to cover the work, the money to be spent if GM loses.

GM sued in August to force a recall. The judge has scheduled oral argument for Jan. 11.

An injunction is "particularly important now as winter approaches" and more highways become slick — and as road salt corrodes more brake parts, the Justice Department said.

Federal safety authorities said in August they had received 1,700 complaints of brake problems and 15 deaths.

In Detroit, GM spokesman David Huddgens said the company would have no comment until it had a chance to study the government's court papers.

GM already has recalled almost 300,000 cars in the series, but the government contends that was inadequate.

The X-body series is made up of the Chevrolet Citation, the Pontiac Phoenix, the Buick Skylark and the Oldsmobile Omega.

Murphy

SEMINOLE--Services for Homer Lee Murphy, 69, of Seminole will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Paul Killingsworth of San Angelo officiating and the Rev. Charley Shaw of Seminole assisting.

Burial will be in Seminole Cemetery under direction of Singleton Funeral Home.

He died at 8 a.m. Monday in Seminole Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness.

The Fluvanna native was a retired ranch hand and had been a Seminole resident for five weeks, moving from San Angelo. He was a member of the Oak Street Bible Church in San Angelo and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Survivors include a sister-in-law, Christine Murphy of Seminole; a niece, Patricia Lee of Seminole; and a nephew, Tooter Murphy of Elk City, Okla.

Abbott

LUBBOCK--Services for longtime Lubbock resident and businessman Alton Leon Abbott, 75, of Lubbock will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in Sanders Memorial Chapel with Dr. Dudley Strain, co-pastor of Westmont Christian Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park under direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

Abbott died at 7 p.m. Sunday at his residence after an illness.

The Snyder native moved to Lubbock in 1918 and started the city's first bus line to Wichita Falls.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia; two sons, Alton L. Jr. of Lubbock and Bill Ed of Las Vegas, Nev.; a daughter, Mrs. Dick (Lou Ann) Brown of Lubbock; a brother, L. J. of Lubbock and six grandchildren.

Acosta

More money must be spent on the Caribbean

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Informed American diplomats, historians and analysts agree: the invasion of Grenada proves the United States must do more homework and spend more money on the Caribbean region.

The aftershocks of the invasion and occupation may pave the way toward closer relations between the United States and its southern neighbors in the hemisphere — and for governments that are more to American liking than Cuba's Soviet-supported Marxism, these experts say.

A historian who specializes in Central America, just back from a research trip through Nicaragua, says the lesson of Grenada may be that the U.S. will no longer allow even the appearance of communism in its own backyard.

Michael Doyle, a Princeton University international affairs specialist, said Americans must remember that the implications of Grenada are different in the rest of the world.

"Domestically, it looks like this is a political coup for Reagan that makes many Reagan supporters delighted and many Reagan opponents quite angry," Doyle said. "For Grenada and the Caribbean, it means the U.S. rescued Grenada from a brutal thuggish dictatorship."

"Grenada means that we are trying to demonstrate that the U.S. is prepared to use military force to protect American lives; that the U.S. does recognize a security problem and that...we recognize that Soviet effort to promote their own interests in the area next to us and use weapons has got to be dealt with more effectively," he said.

The action on Grenada is widely seen as a message to Cuba and the Soviet Union that there are risks in trying to extend their influence in this part of the world.

But there is also a price to this type of military action, some diplomats concede.

However, some U.S. diplomats in Latin America, who spoke on condition they not be identified, believe the invasion begins a new era.

One, a former ambassador, noted that unlike Central American and South America, political violence and war have not been a part of the English-speaking Caribbean's recent history. Cuban military involvement in Grenada was a "total distortion" of this non-military tradition, he said.

"Grenada means that we are trying to demonstrate that the U.S. is prepared to use military force to protect American lives; that the U.S. does recognize a security problem and that...we recognize that Soviet effort to promote their own interests in the area next to us and use weapons has got to be dealt with more effectively," he said.

Cotton

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were lower at midday dealings today.

The average prices for strict low middling 1 & 1-16 inch spot cotton declined 13 points to 73.59 cents a pound Monday for the eight markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were unchanged to $1.35 a bale lower than the previous close. Dec 79.75, Mar 80.50, May 81.60, Jul 81.65, Oct 79.55, Dec 74.70, and Mar 75.75.

Dialysis probe is continuing

DALLAS (AP) — The manufacturer of kidney dialysis equipment cited in the deaths of three patients at a Dallas clinic says it is inspecting 75 identical machines in 50 treatment centers nationwide.

Technicians at Extracorporeal Inc., checking for a wiring defect that is believed to have caused a machine at the Dallas Kidney Dialysis Center to malfunction and overheat the blood of three patients who suffered fatal cardiac arrest, have found no defects in two other machines used at the center, a company spokesman said.

"The centers are being alerted by the company to this situation and Extracorporeal technicians are visiting each one to inspect equipment and assure it is working properly," said Ed Watson, the spokesman.

Three patients at the center died within minutes of each other Friday after suffering almost simultaneous cardiac arrest. Doctors said the central delivery system for the dialysis machines malfunctioned, causing the temperature of the patients' blood to rise.

Two other patients were hospitalized, but have since been discharged.

The Food and Drug Administration may have a decision later this week on whether the FDA should take any action against the King of Prussia, Pa.-based company, said Ted Rotto, chief regional investigator for the federal agency.

That action, he said, could include court action, a recall of equipment or just ensuring that Extracorporeal takes action to correct any problems in other machines.

"I guess if it went so far that we could demonstrate negligence, the FDA could take legal action," Rotto said. "But it would be extremely unlikely. The idea of a recall is kind of stupid because these people need these machines to live."

"The firm has done everything possible," said Rotto. "When that happens, we more or less oversee the operation to see that the problem is corrected."

Rotto said investigators agree that "two wires were crossed," causing the malfunction, but disagree on why an alarm system never was activated.

Complaints are seasonal

Snyder police report four complaints Halloween night involving water balloon and egg throwing incidents in the city.

It was an otherwise quiet Halloween as police arrested late Monday evening two local men on public intoxication charges.

Minor wrecks occur Monday

Two minor traffic mishaps were reported in Snyder Monday evening.

The first was reported at 5:18 p.m. on the parking lot of the C&W Food Basket at the intersection of 13th St. and College Ave. Involved in it were a 1976 AMC driven by Ellen Reed of Rt. 3, Snyder and a 1979 Toyota driven by Shari Cotton of 2112 40th St.

The second accident was reported in the 2100 Block of 26th St. at 8:20 p.m. It involved a 1977 Mercury driven by Alexandra Graza which struck a parked 1983 Datsun owned by Maudie Gober of Sweetwater.

No injuries were reported and damage in both mishaps was said minor.

Annual reports required of vets

A large number of Veterans Administration beneficiaries will be required to complete the annual income report this year, E. H. (Dan) Dever, Jr., Scurry County Veterans Service Officer, said. The report is required so a determination can be made as to whether a person continues to be eligible for the disability or death benefit payments.

Required to provide the annual income accounting will be all veterans receiving disability pension, all widows and children in receipt of dependency and indemnity compensation following the service-connected deaths of their veteran sons or daughters.

The income report will be mailed to all of the VA recipients on Nov. 1 and the completed report must be returned to the Veterans Administration prior to Jan. 1, 1984.

Some of these income report forms will be difficult to complete and persons who need assistance may contact Dever's office in the Western Texas College Administration Building. Incorrect income information can cause delays in processing of the reports and possible terminations and overpayments.

Children write letters to Marines in Lebanon

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — In pencil and on blue-lined notebook paper, the words are simple, but from the heart.

Over and over again they say "we're sorry" and "we appreciate what you're doing." Some promise to join the fighting "when I grow up."

The words are from 10-and 11-year-olds and they are in a batch of 28 letters Judy Gibson's remedial reading class in Hamlet, N.C., sent to Camp Lejeune. The base forwarded them to the Marines in Beirut.

"Dear Marines, "I heard some of you had to go to Lebanon. If some of your friends got killed or hurt, I am sorry. I am so thankful because you are trying to save our countries. My friend, Lisa, said hello.

"Your friend, Tracy Walters."

Capt. Mary Ann Krusa-Dossin, director of the Family Services unit at Camp Lejeune, opened the youngsters' letters on Friday and immediately sent them to Beirut, where 229 Marines died a week ago in a terrorist attack.

"It's so touching to get letters like that," said Mrs. Krusa-Dossin, who said she thought the correspondence will help lift the spirits of the troops in Beirut.

"Dear Marines, "When we saw the news, my (8-year-old) brother said, 'I'm going to be a Marine one day. They are brave like me.' My grandmother started crying. That is a brave thing you did."

"Your friend always, Robin Dawkins."

Mrs. Gibson, 41, said her pupils at Monroe Avenue Elementary School began talking about the terrorist bombing in Beirut last week and she was surprised at how spirited the discussion became.

"Some were very adamant in their feelings," she said. "Some were pretty angry and they were ready to go out and defend their country. This is a bit of patriotism that I have not seen in children in the last couple of years."

Among the others:

"Dear U.S. Marines, "We are proud of you. When I saw the news, I was proud of all of the Marines. My mother was proud of the Marines, too. I wish you luck for helping our country."

"Your friend, Michelle Smith."

"Dear U.S. Marines, "I've heard what has happened. Russians make me sick. I'm going to fight for you some day. I'm glad all of you helped keep peace over there."

"Your friend, Al Wilkes."

Six listed under unclaimed funds

Six individuals listed as Snyder residents have some $1,070 coming to them from abandoned accounts held in the State Treasury's Unclaimed Money Fund.

Texas Treasurer Ann Richards said they are part of 150 residents of surrounding counties who have nearly $44,000 due them from such accounts.

These have been reported to her office by banks, insurance companies and other businesses. The owners have at least $50 each in accounts which have been unclaimed for the past seven years.

Under Texas law, the state treasurer must hold such accounts for seven years. There is no time limit for filing a claim, however, "If we have the money, we'll give it back once we verify ownership," Richards said.

Reports are submitted to the treasurer each year by banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, corporations, utility companies, department stores and other businesses.

Types of property included on these include checking and saving accounts, utility deposits, money orders and cashiers checks, corporate dividends, mineral royalties, credit balances on charge accounts, proceeds from insurance policies and gift certificates. All of these have been unclaimed or abandoned for at least seven years.

Anyone whose name appears on the list — or who thinks they may have abandoned accounts from previous years — should write to the state treasurer in care of P.O. Box 12608, Capitol Station, Austin, Tx. 78711, or call a toll-free "hotline" at (800) 321-CASH.

Those listed from Snyder include Eula Bowen, Lee Bell Guynes, Mary L. Scott, Emory and Geneva Voyels and Mary Bilby Wallace.

Missing drilling ship found at bottom of sea

HOUSTON (AP) — A U.S. oil drilling ship missing off the coast of China since Oct. 25 has been located by sonar 300 feet beneath the sea, a spokesman for the Houston-based company that owns the vessel said today.

U.S. and Chinese air and sea craft have been searching for the vessel or survivors since the Glomar Java Sea disappeared during a typhoon.

"Using sonar equipment, we have determined that the drilling ship is sunk at the drilling site," said Dick Vermeer, vice president for control and administration of Global Marine Inc. in Houston.

He said the search for survivors would continue. The ship had two escape capsules on board. He said one was sited capsized, but the other has not been spotted.

Each of the capsules can hold 54 people, said Vermeer. There were 81 crewmen — 42 Americans, 32 Chinese, two Singaporeans, an Australian and a Filipino — on board the drilling ship.

Vermeer said he did not know how many survivors might be aboard the remaining escape capsule.

"They either loaded one to the gills, or it has about half the people," he said.

Vermeer said sonar located the Glomar Java Sea lying on its side beneath the drilling site in about 300 feet of water.

Two U.S. Navy P-3 planes have been searching for the lost ship while China sent 14 ships and three helicopters out in poor weather south of Hainan Island, where the ship was drilling for oil.

Over the weekend, U.S. pilots thought they might have seen flashing lights, a buoy and life rafts. But after debriefing pilots from U.S. Air Force Hercules HC-130 and Navy P-3 planes, Gregory said the lights apparently were strobe lights floating "unattached" in the water.

Two fenders and 10 life jackets from the Glomar Java Sea have been recovered so far, the agency reported.

The ship had been leased by Arco China Inc., the first U.S. company to sign a contract to explore for oil off China's coast.

In Hong Kong, the South China Morning Post quoted Global Marine Vice President Richard Vermeer as saying the ship was insured for about $13 million and the crew for $250 million.

A Chinese ship was expected to arrive Thursday from Singapore to support possible diving operations, oil industry sources said.

Man given two concurrent terms

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Alfredo C. Marquez has sentenced a 40-year-old man to concurrent prison terms of 25 and 20 years for robbing banks in Arizona and Texas.

Marquez sentenced William Garcia-Lopez Monday after Garcia-Lopez pleaded guilty in the August 1981 robbery of a Lubbock bank and the October 1982 robbery of a Valley National Bank branch in Tucson.

Garcia-Lopez told federal authorities he buried about $20,000 of the loot from the Texas robbery on the campus of Texas Tech University in Lubbock but could not find the money when he returned to claim it.

Easy ways to save.

When the temperature starts to drop, here's what you can do to help hold down your heating bills and save money. Set your thermostat at 68° or lower.

Remember, the lower you set your thermostat during the winter, the lower your electric bill will be. At night and when you're going to be away, set it at 55° or lower. Open drapes during the day to let sunlight in, and close them at night to help hold in warm air.

These easy ways to save can help you use less energy this winter. And you can learn more ways to help hold down your electric bill — winter and summer — with a TIPS booklet from Texas Electric. For your copy call us or ask for it on the comments section of your electric bill.

Charlene's really knows how to make custom fit draperies

Your windows say a lot about your home, from the inside and from the outside. Inside your house, your draperies and window coverings can tie the decor of the room together and give the room the proper decorator touch. Windows should make a statement from outside your home as well, and make your home attractive and appealing from the exterior.

Charlene's Drapery Shop, located on Clairemont Hwy, just north of Baker Packers, is a custom drapery shop, specializing in custom window coverings for your home. Charlene Hendrix is the owner of Charlene's, and she has hundreds of samples of fabrics in all types from linen casement to "Old English" chintz to choose your draperies from. Charlene has been making custom draperies for several years, and she can make them to fit any window type or size, including draperies for patio doors, bay windows and atrium doors. She also can custom make top treatments for doors and windows such as swags, cascades, cornices, and valances, either pleated or soft style.

Like insulated draperies, window shades and blinds serve a dual purpose for windows. They are great insulators winter or summer and they make attractive window coverings. Charlene offers a wide variety of alternate window treatments from the very popular woven wood shades to roman shades or drapes and mini blinds. A wide choice of vertical blinds, custom roller shades, wood blinds, 1" or 2" pleated or plain fabric roman shades are also available along with austrian shades, balloon shades, and the new soft light shades.

Gathered curtains are regaining popularity as new rods have been introduced such as the 4 1/2" Continental rod. While on the subject of curtain rods, for the country-look decor, wood pole rods are very appropriate and Charlene's has them both.

Something extra Charlene offers may surprise for a drapery shop. She carries a variety of wall coverings. Custom fabric walls are becoming increasingly popular and Charlene can create the special look you may want on your walls. Wall paper by Waverly and Schumacher are available also. A new arrival in the wall covering area at Charlene's is the Old Sturbridge Village Coordinates with paper, fabric to match and even special order paints in colonial colors.

Custom made bedspreads in any of the beautiful fabrics can be made to fit any bed, even waterbeds and odd shaped beds, short beds, and tall beds.

If you're in the market for new draperies, window or wall coverings, bedspreads, or just looking around for ideas to make your home more attractive, go see Charlene Hendrix at Charlene's Drapery Shop, or give her a call at 573-6601. Remember, if you have a problem decorating need, Charlene specializes in custom work, she can "make-it-to-fit".

Greensboro, N.C., has the largest percentage of single women, according to "The Book of American City Rankings."

CUSTOM WINDOW COVERINGS, as well as wall coverings and custom bedspreads can all be found at Charlene's Drapery Shop. Charlene Hendrix, owner, displays her newest coordinates book from Old Sturbridge Village Coordinates, which includes wall paper, fabric to match for walls, bedspreads or draperies, and special order paints in colonial colors. Government credit cut off, Senate won't act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government's line of credit has been cut off because the Senate ignored a deadline for final action and refused to pass legislation raising the national debt limit, which already has hit $1,389,000,000,000.

Led by conservatives who said they were fed up with the government's deficit spending, the Senate voted 56-39 Monday to reject a measure that would have increased the government's borrowing

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Alcohol is unmasculine

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to direct this letter to the younger readers who are drinking alcohol. I started drinking in high school to "follow the crowd." My grades fell and the only thing I cared about was where the parties were and having a good time. Of course, I became an alcoholic. My life became unmanageable. I never held a job very long and my social life was below par.

I insisted my problems were not related to alcohol at all — my parents and the crazy world were at fault. Besides it was "cool" to drink.

I wrecked a number of cars, landed in jail, lost true friends and, most of all, I lost my self-respect. I cut my right wrist punching out a window, almost bled to death and lost the use of my hand. I'm 25 now and I don't have any more in my life than I had when I was 15.

But with the help of my future wife I got help at Alcoholics Anonymous. I have never felt better and have started to live again. It is not an easy road to take to admit you have a problem, but it is well worth it. Getting drunk and getting high is unreal. Living sober and being yourself is real. You don't need booze and drugs to enjoy life.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your experience with others. And you do have more than you had when you were 15. You have regained your self-respect and recognized that you are the person who will decide your course in life, not your parents or the world. You are the one who will determine if you are to be an alcoholic, a problem to yourself and society, or a positive personality with positive effects on the world.

I would like to add that for males using alcohol is not a sign of masculinity. Alcohol destroys male hormones in the body and decreases the ability to form male hormones. Alcohol is a feminizing drink.

And alcohol does much more harm to the body. I'm sending you The Health Letter 14-6, Alcohol Can Be Dangerous To Your Health, which will brief you on other harms. I'm sure you will make good use of it. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About seven years ago I was diagnosed as having Sjogren's disease as well as rheumatoid, fatigue stage. The rheumatoid diagnosis isn't clear so a close watch is kept for any changes.

I have severe dry eyes. Twice I lost my vision when they were real bad. I have used Lacriserts. At night I use an ointment and eye patches. In between I use artificial tear drops.

My mouth is also very dry. I cannot eat without liquid to help in swallowing. At times I get so dry that talking is difficult. This has created excessive dental and gum problems.

I'm noticing dryness of my nose and ears. About every six to eight months I have an "attack" that starts with temperature and chills. The only medication that seems to knock it is Cortisone. Can you cast any light on this disease?

DEAR READER — I wish there was a solution. It is an autoimmune disease. That means your immune system starts fighting your own body and in this case affects the glands that provide normal fluids, such as your tear and salivary glands. It sometimes occurs in conjunction with rheumatoid arthritis. The treatment is as you have described it, using various solutions to replace body fluids.

authority by $61 billion to $1.45 trillion.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., chided his colleagues for action that he said amounted to "lighting a match near a gas tank." The Senate has never before rejected such legislation outright and congressional leaders were uncertain how they would proceed today.

"We don't fall off the edge of the bluff, but it puts the country on a cash receipts basis," Baker said. "We are dealing with uncertainties of the most extraordinary kind."

So far, the failure to raise the debt limit from its current $1.389 trillion ceiling has meant:

—A suspension, as of today, of sales of U.S. Savings Bonds.

—A required Treasury Department deposit of $13 billion to the Social Security trust funds is being limited to only $4 billion. However, Social Security checks will not be affected.

—Cancellation of scheduled securities auctions by the Treasury Department and reduction in some other offerings.

Although the debt limit does not "expire," Treasury Department officials estimated that the borrowing ceiling would be reached today; thus they had hoped for final congressional action on the measure by midnight Monday.

"Failure of the Congress to act responsibly today (Monday) to raise the debt ceiling could cause higher interest rates and, as a result, higher costs to the government and the taxpayer," Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said.

Administration officials estimate that the delay could cost $250 million initially in increased borrowing costs, and perhaps more if the stalemate continues.

In addition, the government's financial transactions could be thrown into chaos if an increase in the debt limit is not approved by the middle of the month.

The Reagan administration asked, and the House approved in June, a $225.6 billion increase in borrowing authority, to $1.615 trillion. The Senate voted last week to grant no more than $1.45 trillion.

But Monday night, about 20 minutes before midnight, the Senate voted to reject even that.

The late actor Robert Shaw, best-known as the shark-hunter Quint in the movie "Jaws," appeared as a youthful, red-haired King Henry VIII in the 1966 film "A Man for All Seasons."

Dear Abby

Man Can Get Hitched Without Getting Stuck

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This letter is regarding "No Mrs. in Manhattan," who complained that her live-in lover, "Bobby," wouldn't marry her because he was terrified of needles, and he couldn't get married in New York without a blood test. To add to her problems, she was pregnant.

You suggested that Bobby see a "shrink" or consider hypnosis. You missed a painless solution, Abby. They could come to Nevada, obtain a marriage license without a blood test and get married the same day.

And by the way, divorce in Nevada is almost as quick and painless as marriage.

JACK IN NEVADA

DEAR JACK: Thanks for the good news from the most popular hitching and unhitching post in the United States. Read on for some sunny news from California:

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "No Mrs. in Manhattan" to take Bobby to California, because the law there states that when an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, not minors, have been living together as husband and wife, they may, without a license and without obtaining health certificates, be married by any person authorized to solemnize a marriage.

MRS. IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR MRS.: California may not be the only state in which this law prevails. And because state laws change from day to day, I repeat my advice: If you have a legal problem, hire a lawyer and pay him (or her) for what he knows. The person who tries to be his own lawyer has a fool for a client. Even lawyers hire lawyers to represent them.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "No Mrs. in Manhattan," whose boyfriend was afraid to get married because of the blood test, to come to Arkansas. As of July of this year, the state of Arkansas no longer requires blood tests for marriage license applications. All we require is that the couple apply together, provide proof of age and $20 in cash.

I realize Arkansas is a long way from Manhattan, but the trip probably wouldn't be as painful to Bobby as the needle.

PHYLLIS MALLARD
DEPUTY COUNTY CLERK
CRAWFORD COUNTY, ARK.

DEAR ABBY: I am the holder of a mortgage on property sold to a relative. Payments are due the first day of each month. This relative dutifully writes the checks and dates them on the first day of the month, but the checks are not mailed until later, and some have arrived as late as the 11th! This infuriates me.

Apart from the interest that might be earned on the payments, and the concern that the check may be lost in the mail, the late arrival necessitates multiple trips to the bank and other inconveniences.

The law provides a 30-day grace period before a late payment penalty can be invoked. Can you suggest a solution?

STEAMED

DEAR STEAMED: If the relative lives in your city, pick up the check on the first day of every month—or have someone pick it up for you. It may get your relative's back up, but it will keep your blood pressure down.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Texan hurt in Grenada is 'proud of invastion'

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Texas military officer wounded in Grenada says he is "really proud" President Reagan ordered an invasion of the tiny Caribbean island.

Air Force Capt. Jimmy H. Alexander, 32, of Ranger, a liaison officer with the 82nd Airborne Division, was wounded in the hand by shrapnel on Thursday, the third day of fighting on the island.

The Pentagon added him to its official wounded list Monday when he was released from a Fort Bragg, N.C., hospital where he was evacuated Friday.

"I wish I was back there with my buddies, helping finish up the job," he told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in a telephone interview. "We were trained to do a mission and we went over and did it. I got hurt, but that's the way it goes. It (his wound) is not bad."

"The most rewarding time was seeing those (American medical) students faces" when they were rescued by U.S. troops, he said. One of the stated purposes of the invasion was to evacuate Americans and other foreign students at St. George's University medicines school.

One of Alexander's younger brothers, Michael, is also an Air Force pilot but did not see action on Grenada.

Alexander is a fighter pilot but volunteered for liaison duty with the Army earlier this year. He said his job on Grenada was to go in with the airborne troops and call in air support to hit enemy targets.

"We saw immediate action" on Tuesday, he said from his Fort Bragg home. "The fighting was real intense the first day. There were a lot of firefights."

Alexander said he had not known the reason for the attack when he went to Grenada, but what he saw on the island convinced him that the attack had been a wise decision.

His mother, Polly said she knew her son was on Grenada when he heard on the television news that the 82nd Airborne was taking part in the invasion. Her daughter-in-law, Carolyn, called her from Fort Bragg Friday to tell her that Alexander was wounded but safe.

"We're awfully proud of him," Polly Alexander said.

Her husband, Joe Alexander, who retired from the Air Force in 1970 as a senior master sergeant, described his son as a "self-made man."

"Being a father makes it different," he said. "When it was me (in combat) that was all right, but as a father it's a little different."

Alexander graduated from Ranger Junior College and Texas Tech University, and was commissioned with the Air Force in 1974. He lives at Fort Bragg with his wife and 16-month old daughter, Kristin.

Prince turns tables on photographer

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrew often is a target for the wiles of celebrity-seeking picture-takers. But the 23-year-old prince had a chance to turn the tables and join a conspiracy to trap a favored photographer.

Royal photographer Norman Parkinson showed up Monday at a Mayfair art gallery expecting to take pictures of the prince.

Instead, with Andrew in on the surprise, the television host of the British version of "This is Your Life," Eamonn Andrews, crept up behind Parkinson and announced: "This is your life!"

The prince later joined an audience of 600 at the Royalty Theater for the show.

A railway accident at Nashville, Tenn., in 1918 killed 101 persons.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with rules and orders of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of its intent to re-file evidence and appropriate tariff(s) in support of a request to establish rates for the use of certain complex inside telephone wiring in the amount of $54.5 million annually. This request was previously a part of the considerations in Docket 5141 and now has been re-docketed as Docket 5420.

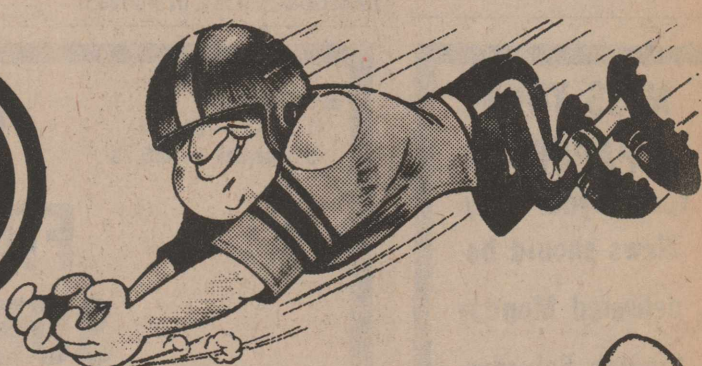

Customers who do not own the Complex Inside Wire associated with their Customer Premises Systems (such as PBX and Key Systems), and who utilize Southwestern Bell's wiring after January 1, 1984, could be affected by this request. On January 1, 1984, all of the Customer Premises Systems presently provided by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company will be transferred to a subsidiary of AT&T and that subsidiary of AT&T will be almost exclusively responsible for the charges pursuant to the proposed tariff on January 1, 1984. After January 1, 1984, customers who purchase their Complex Customer Premises Equipment and do not purchase, but continue to use, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's inside wire will be subject to the charges proposed in the tariff.

The proposed effective date for these new rates is January 1, 1984.

Persons interested in intervening in this matter should file a written motion expeditiously with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757, as the Hearing on the Merits in Docket 5420 is set for November 21, 1983.

For 2-4A runnerup...

Tigers challenge Pecos in playoff tonight, 7:30

ODESSA -- Coach Leslie O'Pry's Tigers go for three in a row here tonight and she says smart play is going to be the key.

The Tigers, who finished up the District 2-4A season in a tie with Pecos for second place, will take on the Eagles at Odessa Ector Gymnasium at 7:30.

The match will determine the 2-4A runnerup and puts its winner in the Class 4A playoffs against Pampa later this week.

"Play smart. That's going to be the key," said O'Pry, whose team has beaten the Eagles twice already this season. Both matches were pushed to three games, however.

"Pecos is a good team and it's hard to keep a good team down three times. I thought we would beat Monahans after they beat us twice and we almost did," she noted. "Pecos can play smart. They are good defensively. We're not intimidated by them, but we do respect them."

Snyder probably won't play a power game tonight, said the coach.

"We don't have to have a lot of power. We'll use it when it's necessary, but we can win without it. We've just got to hit the holes (open areas). And Pecos doesn't give you many holes so it's going to take a lot of effort on our part."

"They like to keep the ball low, to hit Patty Acosta with a low set so we can't block them. We'll have to try to read that. I'm hoping to be able to double block every time. Our double blocks are our key," added the coach.

There is always pressure in a playoff match, but O'Pry is hoping her girls won't feel it as much as they did in a similar situation last year when Snyder was knocked out of a playoff berth.

"In almost all of our games we have taken a different approach from last year in that we're trying to keep a cool, calm attitude. We got too excited last year and it backfired on us."

Winner of the match will play 1-4A champion Pampa at a to-be-determined site either Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

Monahans won the District 2-4A championship last week and is scheduled in a bi-district match with 1-4A runnerup Levelland later this week.

Halas, football pioneer has died at age 88

CHICAGO (AP) - "Papa Bear" George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears and last survivor of the pioneering group that founded modern professional football in a Canton, Ohio, auto showroom, has died at the age of 88.

Halas, whose teams won eight national championships and produced 20 members of pro football's Hall of Fame over a career that spanned seven decades, died Monday in his apartment on Chicago's North Side, family members said.

His daughter, Virginia

Halas McCaskey, was at his bedside when he died, his grandson, Rich McCaskey, said.

Halas' death prompted an outpouring of tributes from former players, coaches and others who remembered his contributions to the game and his feisty, driving personality.

"George Halas leaves modern professional football as his memorial," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "He was the National Football League - its founder, the driving force that sustained it during struggling pioneer years, the owner-coach-innovator whose dynamic Bear teams triggered public acceptance of the NFL and the revered elder statesman whose vision and vitality were pivotal in the league's growth."

"I think the biggest quality Coach Halas had was he was a very inspirational guy," added current Bears Coach Mike Ditka, whose often-stormy career as a player under Halas spanned six seasons and included the team's last championship, in 1963.

"His talks at halftime - I wish that I had taped a few of them so that I could use them," Ditka said. "They were unbelievable. No matter what had happened in the first half, he could make you feel like you could do anything when you went back out the door. You may not be able to do it, but you thought you could."

Soccer slates fall tourney

The scene is set for the Snyder Soccer Association Fall League Championships, scheduled to be played Saturday at Travis Field.

Games are set at 9-12 with the Flames taking on the Buffaloes in the opener, followed by the Kicks versus the Hawks at 10, the Yellow Jackets versus the Warriors at 11 and the Sounders versus the E.T.'s at noon.

No admission fee will be charged.

In playoff games held recently, the Flames defeated the Cubs 5-0 and the Buffaloes defeated the Little Tigers 3-1, setting up Saturday's age 4-5 division matchup.

In the age 6-7 division the Kicks defeated the Stars 2-0 while the Hawks defeated the Tigers 1-0 in overtime.

Both playoff teams ended in a tie in the 8-9 age division. The Yellow Jackets defeated the Tornados 2-1 in overtime and the Warriors defeated the Bullets 5-3 in a shootout after the teams remained tied in their overtime period.

Finally, the Sounders popped the Golden Eagles 6-1 and the E.T.'s rapped the Oilers 5-1 to set up the 10-15 division championship game.

The original name of the Chicago Bears was the Decatur Staleys. They were founded in 1920.

Offer interests

Randy White

DALLAS (AP) - The

New Jersey Generals of

the United States Football

League have made a preliminary offer to Dallas

Cowboys tackle Randy

White of $700,000 a year and a $400,000 signing

bonus, the Dallas Times

Herald reported today.

The offer would begin with the 1985 season, the newspaper said.

"The only thing I've said is that it would take a whole lot of money to get me away from Dallas, because I love playing for the Cowboys," White said.

"I wouldn't want to leave

Dallas, but that's a lot of money they're talking about."

The $400,000 bonus would be the highest signing

bonus ever paid to a professional football player.

White currently makes $300,000 a year. He will enter the option year on his contract next season.

White said he would not negotiate with the

Generals or the Cowboys

until the end of the season.

"Right now I'm not going to think about it,"

White told the Times

Herald. "My mind is on the football season and getting to the Super Bowl.

Next year, when the time comes, we'll talk. I've got a contract and I plan to fulfill it."

Reacting to the

Generals' offer, Cowboys

President Tex Schramm

said the club would begin negotiating with White

when the season is over.

Western opens with confidence

Western Texas College's Westerners open their 1983-84 basketball season here tonight in, well, an optimistic mood.

"We're real optimistic right now. We feel kinda like we could go out and capture Moby Dick and take our tartar sauce with us," grinned Coach Barry Davis, whose squad hosts McMurry College junior varsity at 7:30 in the coliseum.

Asked if that was perhaps being overconfident, Davis said, "There isn't any such thing as medium confidence, small confidence or large confidence. If you're confident, you are confident. It's not cockiness, just confidence that we are going to get out there and do our best. And that's all I expect. And a little bit more."

Nonetheless, Davis is expecting McMurry to be a good opponent.

"I expect a real tough ballgame. Their starting lineup will be much bigger than ours and they'll have some sophomores and juniors, so they'll be more experienced. I feel like we're prepared, though, mentally and physically. We're looking forward to it," said Davis.

Davis will start three sophomores and two freshmen. Sophomores will be 6-5 Larry Banks, from Navasota, 6-7 Fred Johnson from Buffalo, NY; and 6-3 Richie Fells from Brooklyn, NY. Freshmen will be 6-2 Victor Spencer from Lamesa and 6-7 Dwayne Lister from Dallas.

It was not known whether 6-8 sophomore Robert Mitchell would suit up tonight. His mother, Mrs. Doris May Mitchell of Ira, died Saturday. Coach Davis said he told his player to "return when he is ready."

SOCCER ACTION - Snyder Soccer Association will hold its Fall League Championships this Saturday at Travis Field. Games are scheduled at 9, 10, 11 and 12 noon. Above, Arthur Casias of the Sounders leaps over Tim

Duster fast break may come slowly

A Joe Cushing coached team without the flashy fast break? Maybe. Maybe not.

The return of only two sophomores, neither of which were starters, means inexperience. And inexperience means fans may not see exactly the same type of basketball they're use to seeing when Cushing's Western Texas College Dusters take the floor against Weatherford College here Thursday night.

But don't let that dampen your spirits.

"We're not going to have the out-and-out speed of a Ramona Irlbeck to run the real quick fast break," said Coach Cushing. "I think last year when we scored 100 points against Weatherford 60 were off of our fast break. We're going to be a more controlled fast break team now, with Rhonda Hoelting at the point."

Noticed that "controlled" fast break. "Well, last year we had a good primary fast break. We got a lot of one-on-one or three-on-two breaks. This year I don't think we'll be able to do that, early in the season. I think we'll get a lot of secondary breaks where you're maybe three-on-three or even five-on-five but you get the bucket before the other team has a chance to set up its defense," the coach explained.

In a strange sort of way, that may be to the Dusters' advantage.

"I think we'll be better coordinated in terms of setting up and working to get the better shot. I think we'll be more of a fundamental, disciplined ball club than in the past. With our freshman, and even our sophomores really, the first concern is to do it like the coach has drawn it up.

That's okay, but there are situations where you have to improvise, you have a situation and you have to react to it. That will come with experience and I have no doubt that before the season is over we'll have a good offensive team, in fact maybe one of the best fast break teams we've ever had. Right now I'd a lot rather be executing offensively and defensively than worrying about the fast break."

Cushing's task will be tough, defending a Western Junior College Athletic Conference championship with a very inexperienced team. But he believes it is possible.

"We're going to defend the championship to the best of our ability. I honestly think we have just as good a shot as anybody in winning it. I don't think any team will go undefeated in this conference. It's really very balanced. It's strange really, because you could almost class every team as being in a rebuilding year. Nobody has a whole lot of experience this year. At the same time, there aren't any real weak teams like Frank Phillips was last year. Everybody is going to have a shot at it."

Cushing has a lot of young talent, but it's already obvious that certain players can make a difference in the team's success this season. They include sophomores Karen Kuykendall, 6-0 from Lubbock, and Mary Nell Clayton, 5-9 from Roby, who provide experience and leadership. Others are Hoelting, 5-6 from Nazareth, and Clara Campbell, 6-2 from Dallas.

Of Hoelting, Cushing said, "I think she'll be an outstanding point guard for us. She's got good floor knowledge and is a very good shooter. She just needs more confidence in herself."

He's also high on Campbell.

"She may be the best inside player we've had since Shari Teal and Shari has probably been the best post we've ever had here. She has Vickie Teal's ability and the drive of Shari and a combination like that is hard to beat."

But it will be a team effort that leads the Dusters to victory in 1983-84.

"It's a very conscientious group. They work very hard and I have no doubts we will be solid offensively and defensively. We have some very good athletes. I think we'll have depth. I think we'll be able to play from one position to the next with very little dropoff. We're excited about starting the season. We're looking forward to it."
