Election officials anticipate strong local voter turnout

Election officials are anticipating a strong voter turnout in Deaf Smith County Saturday, due to high interest in local Democratic races and the additional lure of a Kent Hance bid for the Republican nomination for governor.

A total of 587 absentee ballots were cast, and political observers point out that those votes usually represent about 10 percent of the total. If that proves true this time, the voter turnout could be around 67 percent of the total voter list—estimated at 8,800.

Besides intense interest in local races for county judge, county treasurer, justice of the peace and two commissioners, many voters have shown interest in the U.S. Representative race for the 19th Congressional District. Hereford's own Gerald McCathern is seeking the Demo nomination and is challenged by Mary Nell Mathis of Lubbock.

Hance is a former Democrat who served this district for six years as U.S. Representative and was a state senator for four years prior to that. In 1984, he fell short in a runoff election for the U.S. Senate against Lloyd Doggett, and Republican Phil Gramm won the seat.

Last year, saying the national Democratic party had left him, Hance changed to the Republican party. There are no local races on the GOP ticket, but it does include a number of statewide races with more than one candidate. Most interesting, of course, is the governor's race where Hance is battling former governor Bill Clements and U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler.

Deaf Smith voters will be selecting a new county judge in the Democratic primary, since the current office holder, Glen Nelson, is not seeking re-election. Seeking the post are Dempsey Alexander, Tom Simons and Joe Zepeda.

Incumbent Vesta Mae Nunley faces the challenge of Herb de la Rosa in the county treasurer's race, and three candidates are involved in the justice of the peace race. O.K. Neal, incumbent, is pitted against Ruben Gutierrez and Johnnie Turrentine in that race.

Both incumbents face challengers in county commissioner races. Austin Rose, Precinct 2 commissioner, is challenged by Fidel Reyna. In Precinct 4, incumbent James Voyles has three men seeking his post—Kenny Donathan, Pete Lafuente and Johnny Latham. In addition, Ronnie Hathaway is the lone local Republican candidate and will face the Demo winner in November.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday. Those voting in the Republican primary, regardless of their voting precinct number, will cast ballots at La Plata Junior High School.

Voter registration cards have the voting precinct number of each voter. Democratic polling places are: (1) Bull Barn, (2) Commissioner's courtroom, (3) Zinser residence, (4) Simms Community Center, (5) Hereford Community Center, (6) Ford School, (7) Dawn Community building, (8) Walcott School, (9) Bippus Community House, (10) Widorado Church, (11) Northwest Elementary, (12) La Plata Junior High.

Signs of Times

The time is to vote. Saturday's primary election will thin out some of the posters across the county when the party candidates are decided. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. for voters.

Residents to present petition

Residents in the 300 block of Hickory want signs and a street light in their neighborhood and will present a petition for those items to the Hereford City Commission in its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

According to the petition, 14 children live in that block and residents want to insure safety with "Children At Play" signs and a street light in the middle of the block. The city's policy is to install lighting when a development reaches 75 percent. That block is currently at 62 percent.

Also on the agenda is a zone change request from Bill Cole of the J.G. Financial Corporation, asking for an area of Northridge addition be changed from a multi-family zone to central business.

Commissioners are to open bids for the drilling of a new water well and for the annual seal coating of city streets.

A bid also will be awarded for a bank depository.

An amendment to include sheep in the city's animal control ordinance will also be discussed.

Commissioners also are to consider transferring monies from the water and sewer fund into the general fund.

Geology, hydrology seminar set

Scientists from the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas will discuss the geology and hydrology of Deaf Smith County at a seminar Tuesday sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Water Committee.

The seminar will be from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Drs. Jerry Wermund, Jay Raney, and Charlie Kreidler will cover topics of erosion, stability of the region, and others. All will be available for questions.

If you plan to attend the meeting, please call the chamber at 364-3333.

Boy freed from tree

Hereford firefighters innovated with a car jack Thursday to free a boy who was stuck in a tree. By prying the branches apart with the jack, the boy was rescued without injury.

Firefighters also reported to 620 Ave. K where a van belonging to Pete Cantu suffered a fire caused by an electrical short. Very little damage was sustained.

A false alarm was reported Thursday at TG&Y at 1115 West Park.

Derr accepts post at Trenton

Walcott School superintendent Eddie Derr Thursday night accepted a post as superintendent at Trenton, Texas, near Dallas, after that district's board voted unanimously to offer Derr the contract.

Derr said Trenton is a "growing Class A school with about 300 students." He said the district passed a bond issue last year and will be moving students into a new high school this fall.

Derr turned in a resignation to the Walcott board of trustees last month, effective June 30.

Nuclear blaze appears to lessen, Soviets shut down other reactors

MOSCOW (AP) — The blaze and release of radiation from the site of the Chernobyl nuclear power plant disaster appeared to be diminishing, and reports today said the Soviet Union had shut down similar reactors that supply 5 percent of its electricity.

The Soviet ambassador to Thailand, Valentine Kasatkin, reiterated at a news conference in Bangkok today that his country has the situation at the Chernobyl plant, 80 miles north of the Ukrainian capital Kiev, under control.

"I wish to assure you that on behalf of the government that no need for outside assistance exists now. The situation is under control," he said.

The Kremlin has rejected offers of help from the United States and other countries, but accepted an offer from a Los Angeles-based international bone-marrow transplant organization. Bone marrow destruction is a primary cause of death from radiation.

Dr. Robert Gale, a specialist in bone marrow transplants, arrives in Moscow today to help treat victims.

The Soviets have not revealed the cause of the accident, which Western analysts say started last Friday and involved a meltdown at one of four reactors at the Chernobyl and a subsequent reactor fire.

Kasatkin said part of the building housing one reactor had been demolished, and the other three were unaffected. He said they had been shut down, but could be reactivated easily.

A U.S. government task force studying the accident said Thursday in Washington that the bulk of radiation being spewed from the reactor fire at the Chernobyl plant had probably been released, and that it was "plausible," but unconfirmed the blaze had been extinguished.

The task force also said there definitely had not been a second meltdown at the plant as a public Landsat satellite photo suggested.

NBC Nightly News reported Thursday that intelligence photos showed Soviet helicopters dumping sand or water on the damaged plant, and said the photos indicated the fire might be out or almost out.

Swedish analysts said a picture made of the plant Thursday by a Swedish-French satellite showed that the blaze appeared at least to have lost intensity.

Christer Larsson, head of the Space Media Network, a Stockholm agency handling rights to the photo, said: "It's probably still very hot there, several thousand degrees. It's difficult to say something definite on this."

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that the Soviets may have closed the nuclear reactors of the same type as the one in Chernobyl, an action that would, in effect, shut down half of the country's nuclear power supply and about 5 percent of the total power supply.

The Post quoted Western diplomatic sources but said it was unclear how those sources obtained their information.

Another newspaper, the Financial Times of London, said the Soviets shut down all 20 nuclear reactors similar to the Chernobyl reactor, and that this had raised fears of power shortages.

A source at the U.S. Embassy, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said of the newspaper reports, "I suspect that's accurate." However, he said he could provide no further

Texas unemployment up from last month

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas unemployment rate inched up 0.4 percent to 8.5 percent in April as the state continued to suffer from the fallout of plummeting oil and gas prices, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said today.

The April mark, up from March's 8.1 percent jobless rate, was the third consecutive time the state's unemployment figure remained above 8 percent.

"Last year at this time the jobless rate was 6.7 percent," said Bryan Richey, regional commissioner for the Bureau of Labor Statistics. "The difference between that rate and the 8.5 rate is close to 150,000 workers unemployed."

Nationally, the jobless figure dropped slightly from 7.2 percent to 7.1 percent, with most of the nation benefitting from booming service and construction industries. Richey said Texas' oil-dependent economy was lagging behind the rest of the nation in employment.

"If we look at the state's economy, we are trailing the nation in virtually every sector of the economy," he said.

Many Texas jobs were lost in the oil and gas industry, which is suffering from falling oil prices, Richey said. But many jobs also were lost in industries indirectly related to oil and gas, he said.

"We've lost close to 50,000 jobs from March 1985 to March 1986 and about half that number has been since January," he said.

Richey also said the state's labor market is weakening. During April, 7.34 million people in the state held jobs, compared to 7.35 million in March, Richey said. In January, 7.46 million Texans held jobs, he said.

"We're having a situation where labor force growth is dropping," Richey said. "There are more entering the ranks of the jobless than finding work."

Richey said a combination of problems make prospects bleak for a turnaround in the employment picture in the coming months.

"I think we're in a transition period. There are no quick fixes," he

Chamber president assures goals are being met

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

This year the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's committee chairmen are reaching their goals, according to Bill Harris, 1986 chamber president.

"This year we are very fortunate to have good committee chairmen and we are reaching our goals that we needed to meet in the past years," Harris said.

Setting their most recent goals, chamber members attended a retreat in January to review all committees, appoint chairpersons, and outline programs for the coming year.

At the top of these goals, Harris said, Hereford has been selected to receive organizational training from the state.

"The Texas Economic Development Commission has established a program called TEXCEL, to assist communities in developing skills and create development opportunities to help us attract new industries," said Harris. "This will also help existing firms and businesses expand."

Harris explained that Hereford is one of 30 communities across the state chosen to receive help from TEXCEL.

"TEXCEL will be promoted by the state through seminars and hopefully this will help to train chamber leaders and leaders in the community to work with the development of businesses and industry," said Harris.

In conjunction with promoting industry in Hereford, the chamber will hold an industrial breakfast once a month for the public to discuss plans for any economic development here.

Another important goal will be accomplished in the first part of May when the chamber's Water Development Committee, headed

Aimed at making Hereford a better place to live by Johnny Wall, conducts a seminar sponsored by the Texas State Bureau of Economic Geology.

The chamber's Health and Safety Committee will also have a big part to contribute to Hereford. They are compiling information on local health facilities and staff to be presented to newcomers and, most importantly, to new industries wanting to locate in Hereford.

Other goals the chamber committees have reached include a shopper location map to be offered to area towns to encourage shopping in Hereford. Carol Gerk and Pat Lawson chair the Retail Trade Committee and are still in the process of designing the map.

"With some of the growth we've had here, we are actually competing with the Amarillo dollar," said Harris. "With the new shopping center and the modernization of the Sugarland Mall, this should encourage the growth of Hereford."

"This should encourage people to at least shop Hereford first," he said. "We need to support the businesses that we do have here and merchants should give the customer the best possible buy to give the people a reason to shop in Hereford," concluded Harris.

That committee also is sponsoring a Sesquicentennial sales promotion to purchase Sesquicentennial decorated t-shirts, caps, pins, and other memorabilia. With the sales promotion, the Trade Committee is also holding a Sesquicentennial "look-a-like" contest. Each store is encouraged to have a look alike from someone in the history of Texas and the winner will be announced at the next Fun Breakfast, May 8.

So far this year, the chamber has brought residents a candidate forum and two after-hours business mixers, Harris said. "And don't forget the Hustlers, they're always promoting the growth of Hereford," he added.

Placing Hance last may be blessing

DALLAS (AP)—Republican gubernatorial candidate Kent Hance says a poll showing him third before Saturday's primary could be a "blessing in disguise."

Hance, a former congressman who switched from the Democratic party last year, is vying for the GOP nomination for governor on Saturday along with former Gov. Bill Clements and U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt.

On Thursday, Hance—who predicted a runoff against Clements—said a poll by the Houston Chronicle and KTRK-TV was unfair and its timing two days before the primary showed "irresponsible journalism at its very best."

The poll showed that Clements would get 62 percent of the vote, compared to 16 percent for Loeffler and 15 percent for Hance.

Hance, who lost a 1984 Democratic primary race for U.S. Senate, said he doesn't pay much heed to the poll commissioned by the Chronicle, which has endorsed Gov. Mark White.

Hance—reiterating his stance against illegal immigration and saying Clements is getting weaker—traveled to seven cities on Thursday and scheduled a West Texas tour today before stopping in Lubbock tonight.

He said the poll—conducted by University of Houston political scientist Richard Murray—angered his campaign workers who were going to work harder to get out the vote on Saturday.

"I had a run-in with Murray the first time I ever met him. He doesn't like me and I don't like him," Hance told a news conference in San Antonio. "I'll eat the poll if he's right if he'll promise to eat the poll if he's wrong."

Three killed in explosive wreck

ROBSTOWN, Texas (AP)—An explosive highway collision killed at least three people and forced the evacuation of surrounding homes.

Officials said the chemical-carrying truck overturned on U.S. Highway 77 just northwest of Corpus Christi when a car apparently turned into the tractor-trailer rig's path, said Department of Public Safety spokesman George Elisondo.

The southbound rig hit the car, jackknifed, crossed the northbound lanes and then hit another car, Elisondo said.

Robstown Police Chief Eddie Mejia said the ensuing fire gutted the vehicles involved in the crash so badly that it was impossible to say exactly how many people had died. But witnesses said at least three people were killed.

Law enforcement personnel were unable to remove or identify bodies because of heat from the fire caused by the impact of the crash, leaving unknown the exact number of people killed in the accident.

Medical Examiner Joseph Rupp advised emergency personnel to wait until this morning to begin removing the bodies to give the wreckage a chance to cool down.

Homes around the collision site on U.S. Highway 77 just northwest of Corpus Christi were evacuated briefly before 1 p.m., but some of the residents were later allowed to return, Mejia said.

DALLAS (AP)—Montague County Sheriff Harry Walker was being held in the Lew Sterrett Justice Center on federal charges of sending a sexually explicit photograph of a minor through the mail.

Walker was brought to the jail at about 6:30 p.m. Thursday, said Officer M.D. Newman, of the center. He said Walker was to be taken before a federal magistrate today.

Walker, 37, was arrested by federal authorities at the post office in Bowie Thursday and accused of sending a sexually explicit photograph of a minor through the mail, officials said.

He was arrested by FBI agents and U.S. postal authorities, Assistant U.S. Attorney Denver McCarty said.

A criminal complaint was filed Wednesday with the U.S. Attorney's Office in Dallas by the U.S. Postal Inspector's Office in Fort Worth, McCarty said. The 18-page complaint refers to No. 18, U.S. Code, Section 2252, which deals with sexual exploitation of minors, he said.

McCarty said a 1984 change in the law made pictures of nude children illegal. The complaint against Walker states, "On or about April 8, 1986, Harry James Walker did knowingly mail a visual depiction, namely a Polaroid photograph, of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct."

Nuclear experts cast doubt on Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Reagan administration is moderating its most dramatic scenario of the Chernobyl disaster as the Soviets continue to minimize the incident and some U.S. nuclear experts say the truth lies somewhere in between.

"There are a number of factors that suggest that it could be very serious," Tom Cochran, senior staff scientist with the environmentalist Natural Resources Defense Council, said Thursday. "But they could be consistent with something much less serious, given what limited data we have."

"There are a lot of things that indicate it may not be the worst case," said Frank Graham, vice president of the Atomic Industrial Forum, an industry trade group. "If it were still a tremendous danger and they had another plant going down, I think the Soviets would be taking additional precautions... to protect their citizens in Kiev."

Kiev, which has 2.4 million inhabitants, is 80 miles south of Chernobyl.

Drinkers more fatal to have strokes

CHICAGO (AP)—Heavy drinkers can add another item to their list of reasons for cutting down on alcohol—nearly three times the risk of the kind of stroke that is most often fatal, according to a study published today.

"If you're a casual Joe, a social drinker, we're not recommending any changes in that behavior," said Richard P. Donahue, a researcher with the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute in Bethesda, Md.

"But if you're a heavy drinker, your risk not only of stroke but also of ... cancers and death from motor vehicles is higher," Donahue said in a telephone interview Thursday. "You should get yourself out of that category for a number of reasons and cut down on your intake."

Donahue's comments accompanied a 12-year study on stroke, the nation's third leading cause of death behind heart disease and cancer. The study of 7,878 Hawaiian men appears in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Heavy drinkers—those who consumed 40 ounces of alcohol a month, or the equivalent of slightly more than two beers per day—were found to have 2.9 times the chance of non-drinkers of having a hemorrhagic stroke, in which a blood vessel in the brain breaks and bleeds, the study found.

The Sports Committee, headed by James Self, has sponsored two track meets, a tennis tourney, a golf tournament, and the recent All-Sports Banquet.

According to Harris, the C of C is composed of workers, directors, and officers that serve without pay. "The only paid employees are the executive vice president and two office employees—everyone else is volunteer," said Harris.

How can the average person, that's not a big-wig contribute to the development of Hereford?

"Committee people are needed," said Harris, "and the average person can help support Hereford in this way."

Harris noted that the Wagon Train to be here May 15 has all volunteer workers. "We also have special committees on the Jubilee (set for August) which people can volunteer for," he said.

The chamber president said the long-term goals include, promoting the growth of Hereford, helping create jobs, and improving community facilities.

"We also want to work toward the encouragement and promotion of sound agricultural programs, including development of agriculture and ag-industries in our area," he added.

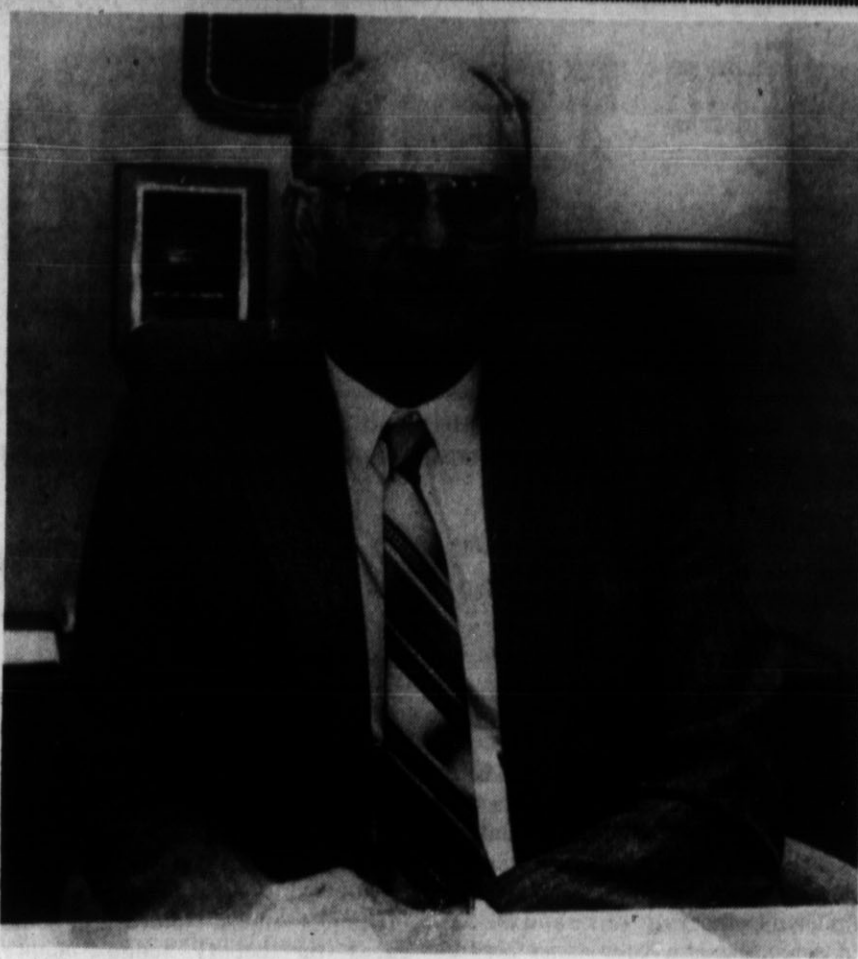

The chamber will be working on expansion and modernization of established firms.

"The chamber is planning beautification projects for the cleanliness of the city, adding new street lights, and any other projects aimed at making Hereford a better place to live," said Harris.

What does Harris think of his responsibility as president of the chamber?

"I think as a president, it carries a sense of accomplishment and satisfaction from the knowledge the you are doing your share of an important job geared towards the growth of Hereford," said Harris.

He commented that it gives one a sense of pride and a sense of belonging in the community when you help to build it.

BILL HARRIS...Chamber of Commerce President

Verdict is victory for sanctuary

South Texas refugee workers hailed the verdict in the sanctuary movement activists' trial as a victory, saying the trial heightened public awareness of the movement and cast government prosecutors in a dim light.

Six sanctuary movement activists were convicted by a federal jury Thursday of conspiring to smuggle Salvadoran and Guatemalan aliens into the United States. Five other defendants were acquitted of the same charge and three defendants were found innocent, including one of the movement co-founders.

"I don't think (the convictions) are going to affect the movement greatly," said Jack Elder, who served a five-month sentence after being convicted in 1985 of transporting two illegal aliens from the Casa Oscar Romero shelter in San Benito to a bus station in McAllen.

Elder, in a telephone interview from his home in San Antonio Thursday night, said he would be joining other people in Tucson on May 17 to discuss the sanctuary movement.

"People were saying 'we need to get back together to reaffirm our original goal' and that is to protect Central Americans and not American church people," he said.

Soviets make rare visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan asked Vice President George Bush to convene a cabinet-level meeting today to review the Soviet nuclear accident, while on Capitol Hill, the Soviet Union chose the extraordinary forum of a House subcommittee hearing to dispute accusations it is hiding the truth.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, in announcing Reagan's action as Air Force One flew toward Tokyo, said the United States wants to assess the information that it has about the disaster and to consider health and other aspects.

The United States believes the accident was "of extensive proportions" and "much more disastrous than the Soviets have indicated," Speakes said.

The cabinet-level review, headed by Bush, will consider what the U.S. diplomatic response to the accident should be and determine what further steps should be taken for working with the international atomic agencies, Speakes said.

The Bush group does not replace the interagency task force convened by Reagan earlier this week, Speakes said. That group "is more of a working group with the Bush panel is more of a policy group," he said.

On Thursday, Vitaly L. Churkin, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy, went before a House panel to discuss allegations that the Soviets have not been forthcoming about the accident at Chernobyl.

"We have nothing to hide," he said.

UNEMPLOYMENT

said. "It will be difficult to turn it around because it involves problems with agriculture, the border with Mexico and the international problem of oil prices."

Any improvements in the jobless rate depend on where the price of oil stabilizes, Richey said.

"Right now, I don't think there is anything anyone can do," he said.

"We think the verdict is a tremendous victory given the defendants weren't allowed to put on a defense," said Lisa Brodyaga, an immigration attorney who works with the Refugio del Rio Grande.

Ms. Brodyaga said the defense has strong grounds for appeal because it was not allowed to present testimony indicating they were motivated by religious and moral convictions.

"I think the fact that three people were acquitted altogether and five were acquitted of conspiracy charges shows that the government's case is really very weak," she said.

The jury deliberated more than 47 hours over nine days, returning a split verdict on 29 lesser felony and misdemeanor charges against the defendants, who included a Presbyterian minister, two Roman Catholic priests, a nun, and seven church layworkers.

"People have said that with trials like this we are in a win-win situation. Even if people are convicted there is a great deal of public education," Ms. Brodyaga said.

Jeff Larsen, legal director of Proyecto Libertad in Brownsville, agreed that the innocent verdicts are a "victory of sorts."

"It looks like the government has gone to a whole lot of trouble for minimal results," he said.

A woman who identified herself as Sister Norma at the Casa Oscar Romero, a refugee shelter in San Benito, said the convictions are wrong because the workers are trying to achieve justice.

"We hope all goes well with them," she said.

Ms. Brodyaga said she has been following the case closely because of her work with refugees, but said the verdict will not influence her actions.

"All of these people who are working with these refugees are doing so because of moral and religious convictions," she said.

She said camp workers do not have law enforcement troubles because the camps are run openly. "They stop me all the time to see who I have in my car, (but) we don't have raids," she said.

information.

Radiation levels continued to drop in Scandinavia Thursday and a wind shift sent the invisible radioactive cloud over the Soviet Union's richest wheatlands.

The U.S. Agriculture Department said shifting winds were carrying a radioactive plume from the stricken plant over the farmland of the western Ukraine and into Romania, Hungary, eastern Czechoslovakia and Austria. Poland reported less fallout than in previous days, but said radioactivity levels in water and soil remained high.

Many Soviets seem unaware of Western concern that the accident may still pose radiation hazards, and traditional May Day parades were in Kiev and other cities. State television showed colorfully dressed folk dancers performing there.

The Soviet Union's first public mention of any effect on other countries came in a report Thursday by the official news agency Tass on a meeting in New York between U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar and Yuri Dubinin, chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations.

It said: "The Soviet government has informed a group of European states of the accident and steps undertaken to liquidate its consequences, so that the governments of nations that could be affected could take the necessary measures for securing the health of the population and to protect the environment."

Tech professor studying eating habits, preferences

You are what you eat, but you are also why you eat. Texas Tech University psychology Professor Bonnie Spring says what people eat and why they eat appear to be an obscure mixture of biology and psychology. The answers are even more hidden when eating habits are fueled by cravings for particular foods or nicotine withdrawal.

Dr. Spring is studying eating habits, food preferences and how different foods affect those in the process of quitting smoking and bulimics--individuals who have episodes of binge eating often followed by self-induced vomiting or purging.

"Interestingly these two groups of individuals have at least one thing in common--their cravings for certain foods," Spring said. "Bulimics often binge on high-caloric foods and one of the things that almost automatically happens when people quit smoking is that they gain weight, largely because they increase their food intake."

"We're trying to understand how these individuals respond to foods. Is it just one particular food they crave or is it other foods, also?"

Healthy and bulimic women between 18 and 35 and smokers willing to withdraw from nicotine for at least 48 hours are being studied for the answers. After being fed various kinds of foods or not allowed a meal, the participants are rated for mental concentration and mood.

Blood constituents, which measure what is happening in the brain, give clues to the biological effects of the food and participants report how various foods play on mood and feelings.

"We don't think the biology and psychology of eating are separate," Spring said. "It's possible that what we do is monitor our mood and behavior to tell something about our body chemistry and determine our food intake based on that."

The goal is to understand how the two interrelate, she said.

One theory holds that side effects, such as food cravings and irritability, experienced by smokers in the process of quitting result from nicotine withdrawal. Others, Spring said, believe smokers had a chemical deficiency and picked up smoking for that reason.

"When smokers are quitting, is the tendency to crave food a psychological need to put something in the mouth or is it a biological need?" she asked. "If it is psychological, does it matter what kind of food it is? The same question is important for bulimics. Do they feel worse or better after eating?"

Although the research is ongoing, Spring said preliminary results are not ready to be released.

"If we could find out why people have these eating habits, we might be able to find ways of meeting the need--whether it is biological or psychological--which wouldn't cause the weight gain for abstaining smokers or, with bulimics, which wouldn't be so disruptive to daily functioning."

The research, however, could help individuals other than bulimics and smokers.

Hance gets help from Hispanic GOP member

AUSTIN (AP) — A Hispanic Republican leader has come to the aid of GOP gubernatorial hopeful Kent Hance, whose advertisement opposing illegal immigration has sparked criticism from Hispanics who call it discriminatory.

Pulse Martinez, a San Antonio businessman and member of the state Republican Executive Committee, traveled with Hance on Wednesday during a tour of South Texas and was scheduled to tour with Hance today in Austin and San Antonio.

Martinez said Hance has been unfairly criticized by some Hispanics who have called one of his television advertisement discriminatory.

In Corpus Christi on Wednesday, Martinez was asked if the ads were discriminatory to Hispanics.

"I don't think so," he said. "I think you need to bring (illegal immigration) out to the attention of the people."

"To me, every commercial that is made is not realistic," he said when asked if the commercial was fair.

Hance, competing for the GOP nomination against U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt, and former Gov. Bill Clements, says he can attract Democratic Party conservatives to the GOP.

He said he hopes to receive between 30-40 percent of the vote to force a runoff with Clements. Opinion polls show the former governor running well ahead. A Houston Chronicle-KTRK-TV poll just released found that among likely GOP voters, Clements has 62 percent of the support of those surveyed, Loeffler 16 percent and Hance 15 percent, with 7 percent undecided.

Hance, who lobbied in 1984 for the defeat of the Simpson-Mazzoli immigration bill because of its amnesty provisions, has continued to blast illegal immigration during the final days before the GOP primary Saturday.

Hance has campaigned for economic development and for raising the morale of teachers and students, but it's his stance on illegal aliens that has stirred feelings.

The Dallas Times Herald on Wednesday criticized his television commercial on illegal immigration, calling it a scare tactic to garner votes.

A Dallas Morning News columnist also criticized Hance's handling of the issue, saying Hispanics would be hurt.

"That's just not true. People read those editorials and then they hear my statements and they agree with me. Mainstream people in Texas are concerned," Hance told reporters Wednesday at a stop in Denton.

The criticism from Hispanics comes over the use of a television advertisement which shows Hispanic school children in a crowded classroom as the it talks about the problems illegal aliens are causing.

Hispanic leaders have said the ad causes undue prejudice to the school children because they could be Mexican-Americans and not illegal aliens.

"To have a picture of a Hispanic, well if you have a picture of a woman are they going to complain or if you have a picture of a black are they going to complain? Are the whites going to complain? You need to look at it as an American. This is a problem," Martinez said.

TECAT case reaches Supreme Court

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawyer for the state has pleaded with the Texas Supreme Court for protection from a growing number of lawsuits by educators who are unhappy with the teacher competency test.

"The state needs some protection from the multiplicity of suits," Kevin O'Hanlon of the state attorney general's office told the court Wednesday.

O'Hanlon, representing the Texas Education Agency, and Donato Ramos, representing 37 Laredo teachers, argued before the court over whether the teachers could stop their competency tests from being graded.

All teachers and school administrators must pass the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers — TECAT — to keep their jobs under the state's 1984 school reform law.

Those who failed the March 10 exam will have one more opportunity, on June 28, to pass.

The specific issue before the Supreme Court is a case in which State District Judge Ruben Garcia directed the TEA to cease scoring and turn over to him 37 teachers' answer sheets from the exam.

Ramos contended that the teachers had been certified before the competency law went into effect and were entitled to retain that lifetime certification.

The Supreme Court blocked Garcia's order pending Wednesday's hearing and a decision by the high court.

O'Hanlon said Garcia had no jurisdiction to act because the issue had to be raised in Travis County, home of the TEA. The TEA seeks to rescind Garcia's order granting a temporary injunction.

Since test papers have been graded and teachers are scheduled to learn next week whether they passed, Chief Justice John Hill asked O'Hanlon if the high court stay remained in effect one more week, "wouldn't Judge Garcia's injunction be moot?"

"Yes," O'Hanlon replied, but the said the TEA needed guidance on court challenges "because we anticipate a new flurry (of cases) after teachers find out how they've done."

O'Hanlon and Ramos agreed that the case did not address the constitutionality of the competency test.

They said that larger issue, as well as others, however, is included in a suit by the Texas State Teachers Association challenging the TECAT. The association lost in an Austin district court, and appealed to the 3rd Court of Appeals here.

At least three other suits challenging the TECAT are pending in Texas courts.

O'Hanlon said the 3rd Court of Appeals probably would hear the TSTA case within three weeks. He said if even 5 percent of the teachers fail basically what is a literacy test, that would mean that 300,000 Texas students are being taught by "teachers who can't read or write."

Hill asked Ramos if he would be satisfied if the Supreme Court simply left in place things as they now are until the case before the 3rd Court of Appeals "gets to us."

"Yes sir," Ramos replied. He added that he would like exam scores to be withheld until "the issue is resolved."

Ramos also said superintendents and principals are best equipped to evaluate teachers, not a statewide test.

O'Hanlon said, "This (case) is a crucial element for sorting out some sort of clear roadmap and procedure" for handling future cases.

Guess Who was 39 yesterday??

Ann Landers

Essay reprinted

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am enclosing a column that appeared in your space a long time ago. It's time to run it again.

Just yesterday a friend of mine was complaining about getting a ticket for speeding. He said he was going only eight miles faster than the speed limit when a squad car nailed him. I told him those guys in the squad car may have saved his life.

This essay was written by W.O. Newman, commissioner, Kentucky Department of Public Safety. Please find room for it, Ann. It's important.—L.D.R. VAN NUYS, CALIF.

DEAR VAN: Here it is. I'm glad you asked. It's an excellent piece. SO YOU GOT A TICKET, MISTER. YOU BREAK MY HEART.

Are you one of those people who call me on the telephone or write and complain that my trooper stopped you and handed you a ticket for no reason at all? You break my heart. You tell me you're a good citizen and a safe driver and a dumb cop gave you a ticket for going a little faster than the law allows. Well, I hope the next time you get caught breaking the speed limit he gives you another ticket and the traffic judge takes your license away. I pray that he nails you before you crash into a concrete abutment and he has to pull your lifeless body out of a demolished speed machine.

I wish you could spend a few days with me and watch a teenager writhe in agony on the gravel near a highway while he waits for an ambulance that will come too late to take him to a hospital, or instead, he goes straight to the morgue. I wish I could make you help scrape the bits of bone and flesh of a while family off the asphalt into baskets. You'd vomit-just as we have done. But you'd think a little differently the next time you climbed into that car of yours and opened it up on a stretch of highway to see what it could do. So you got a ticket? Mister, you break my heart.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I attended a party recently with other married couples. (We are all in our 30s and 40s). After supper we played games.

The first game was "The Safety Pin Hunt." A pin is hidden somewhere on a person. His or her partner (someone of the opposite sex other than the person's spouse) is blindfolded and then must find the pin by feeling for it. You can use your imagination as to where people hid the safety pins. The biggest laugh came when one of the women took only five seconds to find the safety pin fasted to her partner's trouser zipper.

There were also big laughs as the partners guided each other's hints of being "hotter" or "colder."

I refused to participate in the game. I felt it was crude and offensive. All the others thought I was a "spoilsport" and a prude. That evening made me feel like I was very much out of step with the rest of the world. Please comment.—BADLY OUTNUMBERED IN SAUK CITY, WIS.

DEAR OUT: Did you say those people were married? There must have been an epidemic of boredom in Sauk City several years back.

No need to be defensive. I cannot imagine anything more juvenile or tasteless than the game you described.

Jobs are the number one concern in our area. Let's vote in strong leadership to rebuild our economy.

The quality of leadership we've been getting from Austin in recent years has been out of step with the times. Today, every county and city in Texas is feeling the impact of economic crisis. We're feeling it where it hurts personally — in layoffs and cutbacks and declining employment. Looking ahead, what will the job situation be 10 to 20 years from now?

The May 3 Republican Primary is your chance to insure the fresh thinking and decisive leadership we need.

Kent Hance has the experience — both in the Texas Legislature and the U.S. Congress.

Kent Hance has the initiative — along with Phil Gramm he was President Reagan's choice for moving the nation's largest tax-cut bill through Congress.

Anyone can vote Republican

If you have always voted in Democratic Primaries, it does not mean you are registered as a Democrat. Your voter identification card is stamped "Democrat" or "Republican" in May simply to prevent voting in the other party's runoff elections in June. It does not mean you are registered as a member of either party.

VOTE REPUBLICAN MAY 3

If West Texans ever had a chance to take a single action that would immediately improve our economy, attract new jobs, and bring new business and industry to our area, that chance will come on Saturday, May 3, when we can vote for Kent Hance in the Republican Primary. Kent is the only candidate who can carry the cities and the rural areas of Texas to beat Mark White in November.

Kent was born and raised here, operated businesses here and practiced law here. He represented us well in the State Senate and in the Congress where he passed the largest tax cut bill in history. He is the answer for us and for all of Texas in these tough times. Kent Hance is the only candidate for Governor who has the leadership experience to meet our problems. . . . and he will listen.

West Texans know first hand how progress comes from having a governor who knows and understands this area. Another great West Texan helped us become a major medical center, an educational center, and provided a climate that attracted new business and industry to West Texas with thousands of new jobs for our people. We can do it again.

DR. GOTT Be prudent in era of AIDS

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm so scared about getting AIDS that I'm considering making any man I get serious about get a blood test. How effective is the test for detecting AIDS and how long must a person be infected with it before the test can detect it?

DEAR READER — The blood test for AIDS is said to be more than 90 percent accurate. Like any blood test, however, there are bound to be false positives — and false negatives. Actually, the blood test detects if individuals have been infected with the HTLV-III virus; only a small percentage of these people will develop AIDS.

Rather than relying on a blood test to screen your social contacts, you would do better to have open and frank discussions with them before engaging in any intimacy. The prudent female should be extremely wary of promiscuous or bisexual males.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have pain in my hands when I hold something heavy like a water pitcher. Wringing out a rag causes terrible pain. One doctor told me it was all in my head, and an orthopedic specialist told me to lose weight. Where do I turn next?

DEAR READER — To a rheumatologist. Your problem appears to be in your hands, not in your head. An arthritis specialist may be able to discover the reason for your discomfort and suggest treatment. If you are obese, by all means lose weight. Remember that doctors who claim physical ailments are due to head problems often make this claim because they can't diagnose the ailment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — There used to be leper colonies to contain that disease. When I had tuberculosis in 1941, I had no choice but to go to a sanatorium. Why not the same for AIDS, to help the afflicted and protect the healthy?

DEAR READER — Your position is shared by others. Unfortunately, there is an increasing tendency to view AIDS as a disability rather than as a communicable disease. In my opinion, this view is both dangerous and unrealistic. While no one has yet publicly suggested quarantining AIDS patients, such a desperate approach was successful in eradicating the final outbreak of smallpox on the Indian subcontinent. The political consequences of quarantine probably keeps it from being used for AIDS patients. However, with the disease exploding in the world, some drastic public-health answers may have to be considered in the future.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is there one address a person could write to in order to find out the addresses of organizations specializing in certain disorders?

DEAR READER — Yes, there is. Write to the National Health Information Clearinghouse, P.O. Box 1133, Washington, DC 20013-1133.

DEAR DR. GOTT — The overglaze porcelain colors I paint with carry a warning that they shouldn't be used on food-bearing surfaces. Why? What are the symptoms of lead and cadmium poisoning?

DEAR READER — Coloring solutions often contain dangerous compounds that can cause illness if eaten, breathed or consumed in trace amounts over a period of years. For example, cadmium can produce abdominal cramps, vomiting, difficulty breathing, headache, exhaustion and cancer. Lead can cause abdominal cramps, diarrhea or constipation, mental disturbances, paralysis, convulsions and shock. Chronic lead poisoning can produce anemia, loss of appetite and irritability.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I know a 29-year-old man who smokes marijuana. What effect does this have on his system? Does it show up in urine and blood samples? How long does it take before no trace of it is found?

DEAR READER — Marijuana is a mind-altering drug that affects the way a person views himself and the world around him. Although it can cause tension and panic reactions when smoked, it ordinarily produces relaxation, disruption of time perception and deterioration of motor skills. In the 1960s, reports indicated that marijuana caused chromosomal breakage and affected unborn children; these studies were probably in error.

Tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) is marijuana's active ingredient. It is stored in fat cells, especially in the brain and reproductive tract. Therefore, it can last a long time — on the order of several weeks — in the body. Urine tests for THC can identify the active user.

Most authorities consider marijuana to be a dangerous drug. However, doctors are finding it useful in treating terminally ill patients. THC can help cancer patients feel better and it is an effective antidote to the nausea and vomiting caused by chemotherapy. In many hospitals, it is available by prescription.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I pass gas constantly — and I mean all the time. What can I do about it? I'm too embarrassed to discuss it with my doctor.

DEAR READER — First of all, intestinal gas is a common problem and may be due to a variety of causes. In your case, the cause needs to be pinned down. Your doctor is the logical person to help you discover the basis of your excessive gas.

Second, I am repeatedly surprised by the number of letters I receive from people who are reluctant, afraid or embarrassed to ask their doctors about certain health issues. I can understand this tendency, but it doesn't make much sense. Keeping secrets from your doctor is like playing ball in the dark: It's hard on everybody. If you don't trust your doctor, find one you can trust. But please don't tell your doctor half-truths or downright fibs; you wouldn't expect him or her to treat you that way. Also, sharing a problem with your doctor is often the first step toward finding a satisfactory solution.

So, reader, it's off to your doctor to discuss why your intestinal tract has become a dangerous weapon — or at least a social liability.

I'm also sending you a free copy of my Health Report on DIGESTIVE GAS. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

For Soviet religion

Signs seen of possible improvements

NEW YORK (AP) — A widely respected British center that monitors religious conditions in the Soviet Union sees signs of potential improvements for religious life there.

Researchers for the center outside London, called Keston College, say that for the first time, there has been published word of changed Soviet legislation concerning the churches.

If the described "positive developments" actually are implemented, "it will be a clear indication of a more realistic policy by the Soviet authorities toward the church," the analysis says.

It says the changes would mean "a recognition of the church as a permanent force in society and a step in the direction of compliance with the constitutionally guaranteed (but to date abused) separation of church and state."

Alyona Kojevnikov, Keston's information director, and Michael Rowe, its research head, make that assessment of a report carried in the Journal of the Moscow Patriarchate, headquarters of the Russian Orthodox Church.

Their analysis was distributed through Keston's U.S. branch in Framingham, Mass.

They say the report "clearly indicates that some revision has either already taken place or is in process" and that the steps cited would give the church "a greater degree of control over its own affairs."

This could "only serve to enhance the church's authority as a responsible body rather than a temporary concession to religious believers, and promote a better image for the Soviet government both at home and abroad," the analysis says.

At the same time, the center noted that the new Soviet leader, Mikhail Gorbachov, in his speech to the recent Communist Party Congress, gave no indication of "any major shift in policy toward religion."

However, the center noted that at the end of the amended party program, a new first sentence was added to a section on atheist education, saying:

"The party will use all forms of ideological influence for the wider propagation of scientific understanding of the world, for the overcoming of religious prejudices without permitting any violation of believers' feelings."

The center says the purpose of the addition "is probably to demonstrate the 'moderation' of the party's policy" since the sentence balances an ensuing warning that "religion cannot be used to the detriment" of individuals or society.

Stretch food dollars that are spent on protein food

About 38 cents of each food dollar goes for meat or protein substitute foods, making them the most expensive part of a family's diet.

The protein food group consists of meat, fish, poultry and beans, says Marilyn Haggard, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

These foods are the major suppliers of protein, iron, vitamins B-6 and B-12, zinc and many other vitamins and minerals.

Haggard suggests the following as ways to trim the amount of your food dollar spent on protein foods.

-Follow recommendations for serving sizes and numbers of servings to meet protein requirements, you don't need large servings from this group. A serving of meat, poultry or fish is 2-3 ounces cooked, one cup of dried peas or beans, two eggs, or four tablespoons of peanut butter.

-Learn to determine the amount of lean meat you're getting per pound. A seemingly inexpensive piece of meat may actually be very expensive if there is a great deal of waste due to bones, fat, gristle or skin.

-Learn how to cook less expensive cuts of meat. They are usually tougher cuts and need moist rather than dry heat.

Nuggets to take no drastic measures

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — No drastic measures are called for. No panic moves, no wholesale lineup changes.

For the Denver Nuggets, down 2-0 in their NBA playoff series with the Houston Rockets and coming off a 119-101 blowout, Game 3 here tonight is a chance to get back to doing the things they do best.

"The biggest thing is we can't overreact," said Denver Coach Doug Moe. "We have to do the things we're comfortable in doing, that's all. We must keep attacking and keep up the pace, move the ball offensively and try to put pressure on defensively."

"I didn't think we played badly on defense Tuesday night. But offensively, it was a disaster. We were pathetic. We were like the Little Sisters of the Poor. We didn't cut, we didn't move, we just stood around. And we're not a good enough shooting team to just stand around. We'll get killed every time we do that."

Moe should have sixth-man Bill Hanzlik available for more extensive duty tonight. Hanzlik, sidelined for most of the playoffs with a back injury, played 13 solid minutes in Game 2.

But forward Calvin Natt aggravated a groin injury, hitting on only one-of-seven shots Tuesday cure Natt's ailment.

Of a more mysterious nature is the night. Moe was hoping rest would shooting slump of star forward Alex English, the NBA's third-leading scorer during the regular season with a 29.8 average.

English has struggled throughout the playoffs, hitting only 43.2 percent from the floor. On Tuesday night he hit rock bottom, connecting on only four-of-13 shots and finishing with 11 points.

"Alex doesn't go through bad streaks like this," said Moe. "I really don't know what's wrong. Maybe it's his finger (which he cut while loading baggage during the Portland series) or his ankle (a nagging injury since the regular season). His shooting has been way off. He's missing shots that are automatic for him."

"Sometimes it's a combination of good defense by the other team and the fact that he's off, but mostly it's him. He's really struggling with his shooting right now. We need him back in the groove."

Moe, asked if he could take comfort in the fact that the home team in the Houston-Denver series has won the last 11 meetings, said, "When you're down 2-0, you don't take a lot of comfort in anything. The pressure is on us. We have to win these two games."

In the history of best-of-seven NBA playoff series, only four teams have come back from a 2-0 deficit to win the series. And no team has ever dropped behind 3-0 and come back to win.

The Nuggets must also find a way to neutralize Houston's Twin Towers, Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon.

Olajuwon had 38 points and 16 rebounds in the series opener, while Sampson added 20 points. In Game 2, Sampson led the way with 27 points and 12 rebounds, while Olajuwon had 18 points and 14 rebounds.

Game 4 will be played here Sunday afternoon.

Mavericks aim for victory at home

DALLAS (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is delighted the underdog Dallas Mavericks scared the defending world champion Los Angeles Lakers in game two of their best-of-seven NBA Western Conference semifinal.

"I'm glad it was close because that is going to be the nature of things the rest of the way," Abdul-Jabbar said. "You learn things when you win close games."

"If I was them I'd be saying 'I definitely know we have a good chance to beat the Lakers,'" said Los Angeles forward Kurt Rambis.

The Mavericks, who fell 117-113 in the Forum as Abdul-Jabbar scored 12 of his 26 points in the fourth period, host Los Angeles tonight in Game Three at rowdy Reunion Arena.

"The Reunion should be rockin'" said Dallas Coach Dick Motta, who led the Mavs to an upset of the Lakers in Game Three here last year.

The Lakers, who had swept two lopsided games in the Forum from the Mavericks in 1985, were shocked 125-115 in Dallas when Rolando Blackman scored 31 points. The Lakers rebounded with an overtime victory in the next game and eventually won the series in five games.

"These are the greatest fans in the NBA," said Maverick guard Brad Davis. "They always give us a lift." Abdul-Jabbar dominated Dallas when it counted in game two. He blocked a shot and hit three sky hooks in the last three minutes.

Dallas guard Derek Harper, who led the Mavs with 19 points, 16 assists and seven steals, said his team deserved a better fate.

"We didn't choke," said Harper. "They got the ball to their legend (Abdul-Jabbar) and he did the job."

"I think I should have the ball in those late fourth quarter situations," said Abdul-Jabbar. "I'm always ready to play in the fourth period."

Dallas center James Donaldson said the Mavs will never have a better chance to beat the Lakers in the Forum.

Donaldson said "They were struggling. They made a lot of turnovers and weren't into their game but Kareem saved them."

Game four is set for Reunion Arena on Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Lakers' Coach Pat Riley is hoping for a split.

"Dallas has to be very confident going into its two home games," Riley said. "Now I'd like for us to split in Dallas."

UIL committee to view overtime football proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — Athletic Director Bill Farney of the University Interscholastic League has invited an assistant coach at San Antonio Burbank High School to present his proposal for overtime football games to a UIL committee.

Richard Tatro, in his first year at Burbank after coaching 14 years in Kansas and Oklahoma, explained the Kansas overtime system in the April issue of Texas Football and urged his colleagues to consider its adoption.

Farney read the article and invited Tatro to make a presentation to the UIL athletic committee when its five members meet June 2.

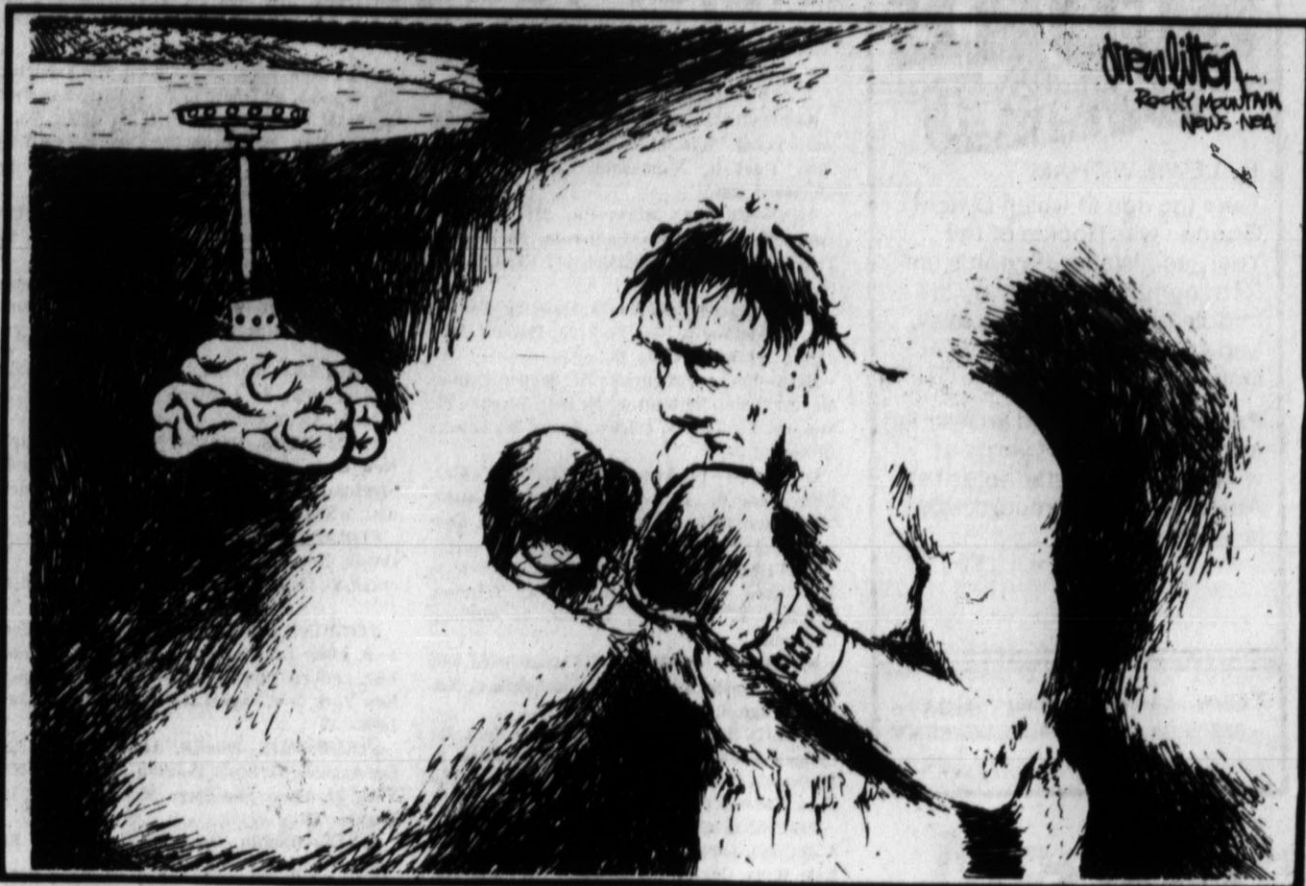

Tatro said, "I've been involved in nine overtime games — and I may be a little prejudiced in favor because my teams won eight of them. Most of the Texas high school coaches to whom I talk don't really understand how the overtime works. It makes for an exciting game and for a winner determined on the field."

In Texas, district and playoff winners in tie games are determined by which team has the most penetrations inside the opponent's 20-yard-line, or if that is the same, by first downs and then total yardage.

The plan Tatro wrote about gives each team the ball for four downs from the opponent's 10, with the winner of a coin flip having the option to open the overtime on offense or on defense.

with an injured left heel to give the Bucks an inspirational boost that carried them to a 119-107 victory Thursday night over the Philadelphia 76ers in an Eastern Conference semifinal game of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

"A gutsy performance by one of the best," Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson said.

"Sid played because he wanted to, and that meant a lot to our team," Milwaukee forward Terry Cummings said.

Moncrief, a seven-year veteran, said it was something that had to be done if the Bucks were to even the series at a game apiece. Games 3 and 4 are in Philadelphia on Saturday and Monday.

"We were down. Our backs were against the wall," Moncrief said.

"Leadership is important. We can beat Philly without Sidney Moncrief. But when the game is on the line, you need all seven key players. I just happen to be one of them."

"When the game is on the line, I feel leadership is something I can bring to this ballclub," he added.

Moncrief missed Game 1 because of the injury suffered in first-round play against the New Jersey Nets, and the 76ers defeated the Bucks in Milwaukee.

Thursday, he scored 16 points in 37 minutes, handing out five assists and getting six rebounds.

"He does the little things that don't show up in the boxscore probably better than anyone else on the team," Cummings said. "He put everybody at ease. When he was in there, we slowed things down, became patient and just got the job done."

Cummings' performance definitely showed up in the boxscore: 30 points and 15 rebounds.

"I haven't been shooting enough in the playoffs," he said. "I felt that in order for us to be successful, I had to shoot more."

The Bucks also did better in the rebounding department. In Game 1, Philadelphia power forward Charles Barkley dominated inside, but in Game 2 Milwaukee outrebounded Philadelphia 50-29.

Nelson said it was a commitment to do better on the boards that made the difference.

Philadelphia Coach Matt Guokas agreed the Bucks had found a way to stop Barkley — by holding and grabbing.

"They got away with quite a bit of it," he said. "They did a good job of keeping Charles off the boards."

Cummings said: "We made a concentrated effort to put a body on Barkley. We made an effort to find Barkley and keep a body on him."

The 6-foot-6, 250-pound Barkley, who has been the 76ers' rebounding force during the absence of injured center Moses Malone, said: "They were kind of rough on me, but that's part of the game."

Barkley still finished with 26 points and 15 rebounds to lead Philadelphia. Julius Erving had 24 points and Maurice Cheeks added 23.

Ricky Pierce added 16 points for the Bucks, including six during a key third-quarter stretch.

Milwaukee outscored Philadelphia 30-21 in the third period to take a 91-76 edge into the fourth quarter.

National League roundup

Dodgers shut out Cubs 4-0

By The Associated Press
The Los Angeles Dodgers, coming off their worst April under Manager Tommy Lasorda, are off to a merry start in May.

The Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-0 Thursday night for their fifth consecutive victory and second straight shutout.

Rick Honeycutt allowed the Cubs only six hits over 8 1-3 innings, striking out two, walking two and picking off a runner.

"It's good to put a good eight innings behind me," said Honeycutt, who yielded in the ninth to Tom Niedenfuer. "After the third inning, I finally started settling in. I had confidence in my pitching and established the outside part of the plate."

Los Angeles' 10-13 start was its poorest in Lasorda's 10 years as manager — and only the sixth time in 25 years the team had a losing April at Dodger Stadium.

The triumph gave the streaking Dodgers an 11-13 record after a 4-10 start.

The Cubs have not scored in their last 20 innings.

Elsewhere in the NL it was, San Diego 4, St. Louis 3; Pittsburgh 6, San Francisco 2; and Atlanta 7, New York Mets 2.

Braves 7, Mets 2

At Atlanta, Bob Horner, Ozzie Virgil and Glenn Hubbard each hit home runs in the fourth inning and the Braves ended New York's club record-tying 11-game winning streak.

Atlanta left-hander Zane Smith, 2-2, struck out a career-high 12 batters, allowing five hits.

New York's Rick Aguilera has allowed eight home runs this year in 15 1-3 innings.

Pirates 6, Giants 2

At San Francisco, red-hot Johnny Ray drove in three runs with a double, single and sacrifice fly to lead Pittsburgh over San Francisco.

"Our top two guys in the batting order are getting on base and they have speed. That's the key. If they do that and I hit the ball, the RBIs will come naturally," said Ray, the No. 3 hitter in the lineup.

Ray, who went 2-for-3 and raised his average to .392, hit a run-scoring single in the eighth inning that snapped a 2-2 tie. The Pirates added two more runs later in the eighth, and Ray delivered an RBI double in the ninth. Ray has 21 RBIs in his first 17 games this season.

Padres 4, Cardinals 3

At San Diego, Carmelo Martinez homered and Eric Show combined with two relievers on a five-hitter as San Diego sent St. Louis to its 10th loss in 11 games.

Vince Coleman hit three sacrifice flies for the Cardinals to tie a major-league record last accomplished by Boston's Russ Nixon in 1965.

Show, 1-2, pitched six innings, yielding two runs on four hits, and Craig Lefferts worked a hitless inning. Rich Gossage finished up for his fourth save. "He did an excellent job," Padres Manager Steve Boros said of Show. "It was remarkable he was throwing as hard as he was after his last outing." Show fanned 13

Giants in 10 innings last week.

St. Louis got just one hit Wednesday night and ended Thursday's game with a .205 team batting average, lowest in the NL.

Hall of Fame pitcher Eddie Plank won 306 major-league games but in four World Series he was 2-5 in seven games.

Twins rally to beat Yankees

By BEN WALKER
AP Sports Writer

Sooner or later, Alex Sanchez was bound to walk. He finally did, and it came at the right time for the Minnesota Twins.

Sanchez, who has played parts of the past five seasons in the majors, drew his first big-league walk Thursday night, helping keep alive a two-run rally in the sixth inning that carried Minnesota past the New York Yankees 7-4.

"I wanted to swing," said Sanchez, who fouled off two 3-2 deliveries from Dennis Rasmussen before walking on a pitch that bounced in front of the plate. "I didn't walk. He walked me."

In any case, Sanchez marked his first base on balls by keeping the game ball. The walk came after Sanchez had 207 official at-bats.

"I knew he swings at everything, and with a full count, I guess I overthrew the ball," Rasmussen said.

Kirby Puckett continued his early-season power surge with his ninth home run of the year, and Kent Hrbek and Gary Gaetti also homered for the Twins.

In other AL games, Oakland beat Milwaukee 7-2, California topped Toronto 7-4 and Boston ripped Seattle 12-2.

COMPUTER RESULTS

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — There will be no margin for errors in reporting either the 1988 Olympics here or the Asian Games in September.

The 1,300 journalists expected here from around the world for the Asian Games and the 7,000 booked for the Olympics will all have access to a "space age" computerized information system.

In the computer scheme of things, which is called the Integrated Network System (INS), the news media will be kept informed of results by event, cumulative results to date, profiles of athletes, schedules of competition by sport, plus a host of general information items.

Steve Cauthen was the youngest jockey ever to ride a Triple Crown winner. Cauthen was only 18 when he won with Affirmed in 1978.

Hall of Fame pitcher Bob Feller had three no-hit games during his baseball career and also had 12 one-hitters.

George Smith, a black colt owned by John Sanford, won only one race in 1916 but it was the Kentucky Derby.

A's 7, Brewers 2

Oakland's Moose Haas, facing his former Milwaukee teammates for the first time, pitched eight strong innings and became the first five-game winner in the major leagues.

Haas, 5-0, gave up two runs on six hits. The A's acquired Haas from the Brewers shortly before the season started for four minor leaguers.

Angels 7, Blue Jays 4
Brian Downing hit a triple and a pair of doubles, driving in three runs that led California past Toronto.

The game in Toronto was played with winds that gusted up to 43 mph, and Downing benefitted in the third inning with a fly ball that was blown into a ground-rule double. Bobby Grich singled home Downing, making it 3-3 against Jimmy Key, 0-2.

Downing hit a two-run double in the fourth that put the Angels ahead, and added an RBI triple in the seventh.

Red Sox 12, Mariners 2
Wade Boggs hit a two-run homer and Bill Buckner's two-run double capped a five-run outburst in the fourth inning that powered Boston past struggling Seattle.

Dennis Boyd, 2-2, scattered nine hits for the victory. Boyd recorded five strikeouts against the Mariners, who had struck out a total of 36 times in the previous two games against the Red Sox.

Boggs, Steve Lyons and Marty Barrett had three hits apiece for Boston.

The loss was the sixth straight for the visiting Mariners.

Wiggins of Rockets gets chance to display talents

HOUSTON (AP) — The NBA playoffs have provided a platform for Houston Rocket reserve Mitchell Wiggins to display his talents as the team's sixth man.

It started with a broken bone in starting point guard Allen Leavell's wrist. That moved Robert Reid into the starting lineup and Wiggins has emerged as Reid's replacement.

In five playoff games, Wiggins has is shooting a team-high .595 from the field and scoring 10.8 points in an average of 19 minutes per-game playing time.

The Rockets and Denver Nuggets continue their NBA Western Conference semifinal playoff tonight in the Nuggets' McNichols Sports Arena.

Houston leads the series 2-0 and could end the best-of-seven playoff with victories Friday and Sunday.

Wiggins' emergence also was pushed along by the loss of John Lucas, who was dismissed from the team after his drug test returned positive.

"It took a lot of strange circumstances for me to finally settle into this role," Wiggins said. "We lost John Lucas and then Allen Leavell got hurt. I felt badly about those things happening. But a ballplayer has to be ready to take on more responsibility when tough situations like that come up."

Wiggins helped the Rockets overcome a late-game scare in Saturday's second-round opener against Denver, soaring for an offensive rebound and then hitting two free throws with 1:15 left in the game.

Houston went on to preserve a 126-119 victory.

"He may go five minutes without a point," Reid said. "But yet he'll sneak in for two or three rebounds, tip passes away, scramble around defensively and do the little things that don't necessarily show up in the box score."

The Rockets were winless in three tries at McNichols this season, but Wiggins says the team has been

Reports

AUSTIN — Several weeks ago, we discussed briefly the growing conflict between the State Board of Education and parents who wish to educate their children in non-accredited Christian schools or at home.

At that time, it was unclear what direction the conflict would take. The state board was proposing for the first time to regulate the alternative education offered by Christian and home schools. Parents with children enrolled in such schools were deeply opposed to regulation, pointing out they had moved their children to these schools specifically to avoid state-controlled education.

After passionate debate on both sides, the state board finally decided to throw the political hot potato in the Legislature's direction. Board members proposed a softer set of rules that still are unacceptable to many parents but postponed implementation of the rules until September 1987.

That postponement means Texas lawmakers, scheduled to go into regular session next January, have the choice of letting the state board rules stand, making their own regulations or absolutely prohibiting any state regulation of these schools.

Most supporters of the Christian and home schools probably would favor the last option. They believe the U.S. Constitution's separation of church and state guarantees Christian and home schools the freedom to operate without state interference.

We tend to agree with these supporters, but we don't think it would be wise to pin any hopes on the vague wording in the Constitution. There has been no definitive court ruling as to how the separation applies to education, and we cannot afford to ignore the possibility of an adverse court ruling. On a more practical note, any absolute prohibition against state regulation of Christian and home schools probably wouldn't have enough support to pass both houses of the Legislature.

Obviously, none of us want the first option — letting the state board rules stand. We believe the state board rules represent an unnecessary intrusion into the private school system.

We are left, then, with a situation that calls for some sort of reasonable compromise, and we are looking at legislation that would accomplish just that.

Our plan is still very much in the formative stages. More research and more discussion with everyone involved will be needed before we can put our bill in final form, but we already are optimistic about our chances.

This proposed legislation essentially would guarantee in specific language the right of Christian and home schools to operate free from state regulation. The only requirement of these schools would be that their students submit to standardized achievement tests periodically (once every two years).

We already have visited with several parents who educate their children at home, and they seem to support the idea. They tell us that the tests will confirm their belief that the education they give their children is equal or superior to that offered in the public schools.

These parents also agree with our position that periodic testing is necessary to protect the right of every child to a quality education. There must be some method for identifying children who are not being educated properly. In the public schools, standardized tests are used, and those tests easily could be administered in alternative schools.

We realize, of course, that this plan won't please everybody. But, we think it's a common-sense solution that will guarantee that the rights of the Christian and home schools are never abridged.

If you have any questions about the Christian education controversy or other issues, please write us at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711.

Auditor's office releases letters

AUSTIN (AP) — The state auditor's office says a spot check of 30 prison construction projects showed costs at six ran higher than amounts approved by the state prison board.

It also said no one seems to be responsible for an accurate tally of prison rodeo ticket sales.

In a separate "management letter" to the Department of Public Safety, the auditor's office suggested that the DPS consider the use of more used and compact cars to save money in the operation of the DPS fleet of approximately 2,400 vehicles.

Both letters were dated this week and included financial activities for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1985.

The report on prisons said the Department of Corrections' failure to compare total construction costs approved by the Board of Corrections and actual costs "on a regular basis results in project costs that exceed approved amounts."

"Our tests of 30 construction projects revealed six ... where applied costs exceeded approvals during the 1985 fiscal year. The applied costs in these instances ranged from 13 percent to 52 percent over approved amounts and totaled $928,191 over the approved amounts," the report said.

Prison management responded that its Construction Division is implementing a system of estimated costs by major material categories for each project. "This will be used to produce more accurate estimates for the approved process and to update approvals. They will also receive reports from construction sites as to the cost and amount of materials used monthly on each job."

The report said rodeo ticket sales totaled $283,552 in fiscal 1985 but no procedures are in place "to account for the revenue from ticket sales on a daily basis."

Management responded that procedures proposed by E&R Accounting would be used for the 1986 rodeo to assign responsibility for any shortage to a particular employee.

The report on the DPS suggested that aging "pursuit vehicles" could be used in "some of its less demanding duties," but DPS management said selling such vehicles at a "relatively young age" increases their value and converting cars from pursuit to non-pursuit could be expensive.

"Probably the best way to proceed, if this recommendation is to be tested, is to choose a few — five — to recycle and compare their net cost to a similar group cycled in the usual way," DPS management said.

In response to another suggestion about operation and maintenance of the vehicle fleet, the DPS said it intended to buy 20 intermediate-sized general purpose cars in 1987.

The auditor report suggested providing administrators and managers, who primarily use their cars to commute to and from work, with used or compact cars, and also suggested the increased use of car pools.

The DPS said it already had substantially reduced the number of cars permanently assigned to "administrative drivers" and had created car pools statewide. It also said it would purchase non-pursuit vehicles for license and weight sergeants next year, a move the auditor's report estimated would save $67,500 each year.

The report recommended that the DPS work with the state treasurer's office to establish a rapid-deposit system for driver's license fees, which totaled nearly $27.6 million for fiscal 1985.

"While it is apparent that there will be additional revenue to the state" on interest from earlier deposits, "we believe that there will also be a large increase in bank service charges to offset part of the interest revenue," the DPS said.

The report also suggested that the DPS should consider asking for legislative authority to collect fees for local government use of its data bank of outstanding traffic warrants.

"The processing of traffic warrants by the department is an integral part" of the "criminal justice cycle rather than an instrument for fee collection," the DPS said.

More than one million march

MEXICO CITY (AP) — More than one million members of government-affiliated unions paraded peacefully before President Miguel de la Madrid, while police used tear gas, horses and dogs to control a small May Day counter-demonstration a few blocks away.

A third observance drew what police estimated were 30,000 members of independent unions to the Monument to the Revolution, where banners urging a moratorium on payment of Mexico's crushing foreign debt were held aloft.

De la Madrid opened the five-hour official observance Thursday by leading 34 unions into the downtown Constitution Plaza, where soldiers and police stood shoulder to shoulder along curbs to keep order. De la Madrid then climbed to a balcony of the National Palace to watch the parade.

The Labor Congress, which organized the observance, had asked member unions to abstain this year from carrying banners stating worker protests and demands.

The congress, an affiliate of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, said such signs would insult both the president and the memory of labor martyrs to whom the parade was dedicated.

A few blocks away near the Fine Arts Palace, where police and dissident labor unions clashed a year ago, youthful protesters threw rocks and bottles at officers who pushed the crowd into an adjacent park.

Police tossed tear gas canisters and brought in Doberman pinschers and more than 100 horses to separate the crowd from the Fine Arts Palace but did not turn the animals loose on the protesters.

Deputy Police Chief Jose Ramirez Garrido said three officers, three demonstrators and two news photographers were hurt in the clash. He said he did not know how many arrests were made but reporters saw at least 10 people detained.

Earlier reports had said the counter-demonstration was called by factions of two government unions, university workers and people who have been homeless since a devastating earthquake last Sept. 19.

But few of those taking party Thursday would identify themselves even by affiliation, although many said they were students.

The demonstrators shouted anti-government chants and protested Mexico's expenses as host of the World Cup international soccer championship beginning later this month.

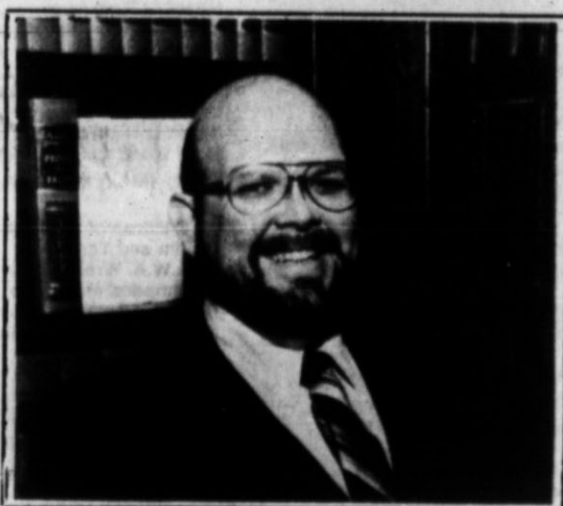

Some of the protesters, including a youth later detained, also shouted personal insults at the police who lined a sidewalk to keep the demonstrators in the park.

The demonstration broke up with the arrival of marchers from the Mexican Electricians Union.

POLLY'S POINTERS

How to remove lipstick stains

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Help! My little girl got lipstick stains all over her new white dress while playing dress-up with Mommy's makeup (unknown to me!) The dress is polyester and cotton. What's the best way to remove the lipstick without setting the stains? — MRS. F.N.

DEAR MRS. F.N. — Lipstick can be softened with glycerine, then the garment should be laundered as usual. The lipstick should wash out without any problem after the glycerine treatment. Or, try rubbing a little white toothpaste into the stains, then wash out with warm water and a mild detergent.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Guide to Spots and Stains" which give first-aid treatment for the most common spots and stains on fabrics and household furnishings. Others who would like a copy of this issue send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's how to make butter at home:

Warm heavy cream to 62 to 67 degrees. If the cream is too cold, the butter will be pale, waxy and brittle; if too warm, the butter will be pale, oily and less flavorful. If churning the butter in a blender, warm the cream to only 62 degrees, because the violent action will warm the cream further. If shaking the cream by hand, warm it to closer to 67.

To hand-shake cream, place it in a tight-lidded jar filled about half-full. Shake, taking as many rests as you like. When the butter clumps up (either in a hand-shaker or in the blender), drain a few minutes in a colander, place in a bowl and wash by barely covering with cool water.

Work the butter with a wooden spoon in a creaming motion, washing the buttermilk out of the butter. Drain over a colander. Repeat washing until the water is clear after working the butter. Use cool, but not cold water or the butter will stiffen. Finally, cream the last drops of butter out of the water. Salt if desired to taste.

This butter does not keep as well as commercial butter, so freeze in small quantities to keep it for later enjoyment. Use the buttermilk to drink, in baking or for pets or chickens, if you happen to have some. — MARY

DEAR POLLY — We keep a humidifier running in our bedroom because the air in our home tends to be quite dry. However, moisture condenses on the windows and runs down onto the sills. This is damaging the woodwork. Can this be prevented? — W.J.

DEAR W.J. — According to information from the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, you're probably running the humidifier at too high a level. Overhumidifying will cause moisture condensation on windows. The problem might also be caused by the lack of a proper vapor barrier in the home (consult a building contractor to determine if this is the problem). Try running the humidifier at a lower level. This should correct the problem if overhumidification is the cause. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I'd like to share my method for boiling eggs:

Put eight to 10 eggs directly from the "fridge" (or from the hen's nest) into a thin saucepan, cover completely with cold tap water and add two heaping tablespoons of salt. Place on high heat and bring quickly to a rapid boil. Immediately turn the heat to simmer, and simmer 15 minutes, uncovered. Pour off the hot salty water, rinse with cold tap water and peel immediately. They will peel easily and the yolks will have no green edge. The eggs will be hot, tender and delicious. — LILA

DEAR POLLY — When I grease my cake or bread pans, I use a pastry brush. No messy fingers! — ANNE

POLLY'S POINTERS

How to remove lipstick stains

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Help! My little girl got lipstick stains all over her new white dress while playing dress-up with Mommy's makeup (unknown to me). The dress is polyester and cotton. What's the best way to remove the lipstick without setting the stains? — MRS. F.N.

DEAR MRS. F.N. — Lipstick can be softened with glycerine, then the garment should be laundered as usual. The lipstick should wash out without any problem after the glycerine treatment. Or, try rubbing a little white toothpaste into the stains, then wash out with warm water and a mild detergent.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Guide to Spots and Stains" which give first-aid treatment for the most common spots and stains on fabrics and household furnishings. Others who would like a copy of this issue send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's how to make butter at home:

Warm heavy cream to 62 to 67 degrees. If the cream is too cold, the butter will be pale, waxy and brittle; if too warm, the butter will be pale, oily and less flavorful. If churning the butter in a blender, warm the cream to only 62 degrees, because the violent action will warm the cream further. If shaking the cream by hand, warm it to closer to 67.

To hand-shake cream, place it in a tight-lidded jar filled about half-full. Shake, taking as many rests as you like. When the butter clumps up (either in a hand-shaker or in the blender), drain a few minutes in a colander, place in a bowl and wash by barely covering with cool water.

Work the butter with a wooden spoon in a creaming motion, washing the buttermilk out of the butter. Drain over a colander. Repeat washing until the water is clear after working the butter. Use cool, but not cold water or the butter will stiffen. Finally, cream the last drops of butter out of the water. Salt if desired to taste.

This butter does not keep as well as commercial butter, so freeze in small quantities to keep it for later enjoyment. Use the buttermilk to drink, in baking or for pets or chickens, if you happen to have some. — MARY

DEAR POLLY — We keep a humidifier running in our bedroom because the air in our home tends to be quite dry. However, moisture condenses on the windows and runs down onto the sills. This is damaging the woodwork. Can this be prevented? — W.J.

DEAR W.J. — According to information from the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, you're probably running the humidifier at too high a level. Overhumidifying will cause moisture condensation on windows. The problem might also be caused by the lack of a proper vapor barrier in the home (consult a building contractor to determine if this is the problem). Try running the humidifier at a lower level. This should correct the problem if overhumidification is the cause. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I'd like to share my method for boiling eggs:

Put eight to 10 eggs directly from the "fridge" (or from the hen's nest) into a thin saucepan, cover completely with cold tap water and add two heaping tablespoons of salt. Place on high heat and bring quickly to a rapid boil. Immediately turn the heat to simmer, and simmer 15 minutes, uncovered. Pour off the hot salty water, rinse with cold tap water and peel immediately. They will peel easily and the yolks will have no green edge. The eggs will be hot, tender and delicious. — LILA

POLLY'S POINTERS

How to remove lipstick stains

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Help! My little girl got lipstick stains all over her new white dress while playing dress-up with Mommy's makeup (unknown to me!) The dress is polyester and cotton. What's the best way to remove the lipstick without setting the stains? — MRS. F.N.

DEAR MRS. F.N. — Lipstick can be softened with glycerine, then the garment should be laundered as usual. The lipstick should wash out without any problem after the glycerine treatment. Or, try rubbing a little white toothpaste into the stains, then wash out with warm water and a mild detergent.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Guide to Spots and Stains" which give first-aid treatment for the most common spots and stains on fabrics and household furnishings. Others who would like a copy of this issue send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's how to make butter at home:

Warm heavy cream to 62 to 67 degrees. If the cream is too cold, the butter will be pale, waxy and brittle; if too warm, the butter will be pale, oily and less flavorful. If churning the butter in a blender, warm the cream to only 62 degrees, because the violent action will warm the cream further. If shaking the cream by hand, warm it to closer to 67.

To hand-shake cream, place it in a tight-lidded jar filled about half-full. Shake, taking as many rests as you like. When the butter clumps up (either in a hand-shaker or in the blender), drain a few minutes in a colander, place in a bowl and wash by barely covering with cool water.

Work the butter with a wooden spoon in a creaming motion, washing the buttermilk out of the butter. Drain over a colander. Repeat washing until the water is clear after working the butter. Use cool, but not cold water or the butter will stiffen. Finally, cream the last drops of butter out of the water. Salt if desired to taste.

This butter does not keep as well as commercial butter, so freeze in small quantities to keep it for later enjoyment. Use the buttermilk to drink, in baking or for pets or chickens, if you happen to have some. — MARY

DEAR POLLY — We keep a humidifier running in our bedroom because the air in our home tends to be quite dry. However, moisture condenses on the windows and runs down onto the sills. This is damaging the woodwork. Can this be prevented? — W.J.

DEAR W.J. — According to information from the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, you're probably running the humidifier at too high a level. Overhumidifying will cause moisture condensation on windows. The problem might also be caused by the lack of a proper vapor barrier in the home (consult a building contractor to determine if this is the problem). Try running the humidifier at a lower level. This should correct the problem if overhumidification is the cause. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I'd like to share my method for boiling eggs:

Put eight to 10 eggs directly from the "fridge" (or from the hen's nest) into a thin saucepan, cover completely with cold tap water and add two heaping tablespoons of salt. Place on high heat and bring quickly to a rapid boil. Immediately turn the heat to simmer, and simmer 15 minutes, uncovered. Pour off the hot salty water, rinse with cold tap water and peel immediately. They peel easily and the yolks will have no green edge. The eggs will be hot, tender and delicious. — LILA

★ POSTAL JOBS ★ CLERK & CARRIER POSITIONS ($9.48/hr to start)

Special announcement for all candidates planning to sign up for the Clerk-Carrier Examination at the Hereford, Dimmitt, Friona, Bovina and Vega Post Offices. APPLICATIONS ARE BEING ACCEPTED APRIL 28TH THROUGH MAY 9TH ONLY! (And since it won't be offered again for at least 3 years, don't miss out!)

4-HOUR WORKSHOP
Score 95-100% or Your Tuition is Refunded!
Now is the time to prepare. The pressure is on to score as high as possible to get the job. Career Postal Workers will now earn a starting salary of $18,532 plus benefits - with an accelerated step increase plan; men and women, regardless of age, are eligible. The first step toward a postal service career is getting your name into the "Register of Eligibles," which is accomplished by passing this Exam. To be one of the first hired, you need to get one of the higher scores! And to be hired at all during the next three years, you will need to score at least 95%.

Come to the workshop. If you don't feel, at the end of the course, that it will help you achieve a score of 95% or better, don't pay for the workshop! Furthermore, if your score is less than 95% on the official exam after using our techniques, we will immediately refund your tuition in full!

WANT TO RELOCATE? We are the publishers of The Postal Alert, the bi-weekly newsletter giving you postal exam dates nationwide. Only The Achievement Center provides this service. Learn how you can relocate to any area of the country you like.

* You are invited to bring your tape recorder to record the workshop for personal exam review.
* You may attend as many extra sessions of the workshop as you like (on a space available basis) without additional tuition charge.
WORKSHOP TUITION - $40 (includes guaranteed 4-hour Workshop, The Core Guide to Postal Exams [with 6 complete practice tests], a Sample Exam with Answers, Workshop Workbook, "12 Important Steps for Getting Hired into the U.S. Postal Service" Booklet, Follow-Up Consultation Privileges, Achievement Award to High Scorers and Practice Kit containing Six Additional Practice Exams with Answers, Memory Test Flash Cards, and "Simulated Exam" on cassette tape). Please bring two sharpened No. 2 pencils with you to the Workshop.
