Bacon Rind, Osage Chieftain, Is Wed In Indian Finery

PAWBUSSA, Okla., May 12. (AP)—Bacon Rind, 73, former principal chief of Osage and the orator for that tribe of Indians, was married today to Lizzie Mc-Ho-Jah, 40, a Kaw Indian woman.

Both of the contracting parties were in Indian regalia. Bacon Rind wore all of his Indian finery with a gaudy blanket, deep skin trousers and beaded moccasins. The bride was wrapped in a blanket.

Bacon Rind is considered one of the most picturesque figures in the Indian tribes of this country. Nationally known artists have painted him repeatedly.

The couple will make their home in Bacon Rind's residence at Indian Camp, East of this city.

Strike Still Blocks Industry In England

DIFFERENCES IN WAGE SCALE ARE BLOCKING PEACE

EMPLOYERS ARE TRYING TO SMASH UNIONS, IS CLAIM OF LABOR

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, May 13.—Opening the debate in the House of Commons on the strike situation, former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, the Parliamentary labor leader, said more men were out today than yesterday. This was because the employers had proposed terms that would make it impossible to continue industry under peaceful conditions.

The labor asserted that labor must be treated as self-respecting workmen, who were not going to crawl back.

Baldwin Asks For Cooperation. Premier Baldwin, arising amid loud conservative cheers, said the supreme interests of the country required that the largest body of men possible be brought back to work at the earliest moment. The occasion called neither for recrimination, malice nor triumph.

Say Unions "Made Mistake." LONDON, May 13. (AP)—The Trades Union Congress made a fatal mistake in calling off the general strike, so A. J. Cook of the Miners Federation, told the Associated Press today. "We knew nothing about their reasons. There was no weakening of the men. We have seen hundreds of telegrams from all parts of the country to the effect that the men refuse to resume work."

Rail Workers Held Out. LONDON, May 13. (AP)—An official of the Railwaymen's Union today asserted that in view of the difficulties surrounding the re-instatement of strikers, the executives of three of the railway unions have called upon all railwaymen to continue the strike until they receive these assurances from their employers.

Miners' Meet Postponed. LONDON, May 13. (AP)—The meeting of miners' delegates, scheduled to be held in London tomorrow has been postponed. Secretary A. J. Cook announced this afternoon.

Transporters Held Out. LONDON, May 13. (AP)—The Transport and General Workers' Union, following the example of the National Union of Railway men, has instructed its members to remain on strike until further orders.

(By the Associated Press.) LONDON, May 13.—Great Britain's nine-day general strike, called off yesterday, switched today to what labor regarded as a widespread lockout by the employers against union men seeking to return to work on the old status.

This development came as one of the most dramatic of all those in the disturbed days since the industrial upheaval began. What it amounted to, according to labor men, was a concerted effort to smash union influence as far as possible.

Mexicans Assault West Texas Woman Near Ranch House

DEL RIO, Texas, May 12. (AP)—Beaten almost to death and locked in a lonely ranch house, Mrs. C. H. Holcomb, 45, wife of a prominent Edwards county ranchman, was found early Wednesday in a serious condition. The attack was reported today.

A posse today was searching for two Mexicans believed to have attacked the woman, while she was being rushed to Del Rio, thought to be dying.

The Holcomb ranch is 79 miles from Del Rio. The attack occurred while Mr. Holcomb was in this city. Jewelry, money and silverware was taken by the assailants and they escaped in an automobile belonging to Holcomb. The men apparently headed for the Rio Grande and are believed to have crossed the border.

SPANISH AVIATORS LAND IN MANILA

MANILA, May 13.—Two of the six Spanish aviators, who started from Madrid thirty-eight days ago to fly to the Philippines, ended their 11,000 mile journey shortly before noon today when they landed at Camp Nichols, American army flying field, three miles from Manila.

Captains Loriga-Taboada and Gonzales Gallarza were the pair who attained the goal despite the mishaps which have dogged the 'adventure, claiming the machine flown by Captain Estevan to a Palestine desert and that of Captain Loriga off the inhospitable coast of South China. Captain Loriga, taking the place of the mechanic who had flown with Captain Gallarza as far as Macao, thus was in at the finish.

Manila was on feet to greet the Spaniards, whose departure from Aparri, at 7:55 o'clock this morning was heralded by the screaming of whistles. A large throng made to share in the welcome, some in automobiles, many in the picturesque carromates, or native carriages and many others atop the Spaniards' big Breguet Sesquiplace escorted by two squadrons of American planes and landed on the field kept clear by two companies of troops.

The aviators were carried in triumph back to Manila in a long procession of automobiles, which stopped briefly before the monument to Engast, who conquered the islands for Spain, and Rizal, the national hero of the Philippines. At the Catholic cathedral within the medieval walled city of Manila, an impressive to do was observed, with the Most Rev. William Plant, apostolic delegate to the Philippines, officiating.

Comrade Greets Fliers. The first man to greet Captain Gallarza upon his arrival was an old comrade of the Moroccan campaign, who rushed up and embraced the aviator. A general stampede occurred, men, women and children attempting to kiss the fliers.

Whether the aviators will attempt to fly back to Spain or return by steamer depends upon orders from Madrid. A proposal has been made to present the plane to the Philippine government.

PHILADELPHIA—Quakers showed abundant uniformity of dress in favor of uniformity in spiritual life, in the opinion of speakers at the annual meeting of the Society of Friends.

MILLIONAIRE TO 'REWE'D'

E. Haldeman-Julius and Wife are To Be Married Again By Judge Ben Lindsey After Ten Years

Mr. and Mrs. E. Haldeman-Julius and (inset) Judge Ben Lindsey, who will perform their second marriage ceremony. Sketch shows how their children will attend the wedding: the son as best man, the daughter to "give the bride away."

By NEA Service. GIRARD, Kas., May 11.—Most eloping couples, license tightly clutched in hand, stop in at a J. P.'s and have the knot tied in a hurry.

And when mother and father find out, they very often insist that the knot be re-tied in what they consider a more fitting manner by a gentleman of the clergy in frock coat and everything, with a choir singing "O, Promise Me," and calla lilies heaped upon the hymeneal church altar.

But Mr. and Mrs. Haldeman-Julius are to do it just the other way round. Haldeman-Julius is the noted "little book" publisher, who in a few years has attained great wealth by issuing vest pocket editions of standard works.

Combined Their Names. Ten years ago he and Mrs. Haldeman-Julius were married in the conventional manner by a Presbyterian minister. The only thing unconventional about the marriage was that the publisher decided his wife should not lose her name entirely.

Before the marriage his name was Julius and hers Haldeman. The publisher combined the two into Haldeman-Julius and has so been known ever since.

But now the publisher has decided that marriage by a clergyman does not constitute a real wedding. So he and Mrs. Haldeman-Julius will be married again—this time by a judge.

Judge Ben Lindsey, noted juvenile judge of Denver, will perform the "repeat" ceremony on the terrace of the Haldeman-Julius home at Girard, some time in May. He date has not been decided because the day must be sunny.

The "little book" millionaire, who has been thinking furiously about this institution of marriage, has decided not only that marriages by clergy are unseemingly and unfitting, but that a marriage performed in gloomy weather is not right.

So the exact date for the Haldeman-Julius "repeat ceremony" will not be set until one day "comes dawn" bright and golden.

"Marriage is a civil contract, and the proper person to tie the knot is a judge, who represents the state, and not a preacher, who represents the church," says Haldeman-Julius.

"Marriage is a man-made institution, regulated by law. I have always regarded the fact that we were married by a preacher as a blot on our lives, and for the satisfaction of our intellectual integrity I have agreed to go through the ceremony before a judge."

A unique feature of the "repeat" Haldeman-Julius marriage will be the attendance of the bride by her daughter, and of the groom by his son.

Eight-year-old Alice will "give her mother away," and hold the bride's bouquet while her father puts the ring upon her mother's left third finger.

Ft. Worth Police Hunt Convict Who Escapes Officers

FORT WORTH, May 13. (AP)—Officers had failed today in their search for James A. Leroy, 37, Louisiana convict, who overpowered Deputy Sheriff G. A. Kendrick of East Baton Rouge Parish in the wash room of a Fort Worth and Denver train as they were entering the yards here last night.

Yom Amarillo. Kendrick had released one of the convict's wrists for a moment, and when he went to snap the cuffs on again, the man grappled him, obtained his gun, robbed him of about $200, intimidated passengers in the smoker and then leaped from the train a few blocks from the station.

Leroy had been arrested in Amarillo for return to the prison farm, where he was serving a thirteen-year robbery sentence.

NEW CIVIC CLUB ORGANIZED HERE

National Exchange Puts 12th Texas Chapter in Lubbock; Garrard Heads Body

The National Exchange Club of Lubbock, unit of a national organization similar to service clubs such as the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, etc., was organized here today at a luncheon meeting at the Tech Cafe that was presided over by Tom Garrard, prominent local attorney. Twenty-three members are now on the rolls of the new club that will meet in regular weekly luncheon sessions.

Mr. Garrard was elected President of the club; Floyd Miller, cotton man, secretary; Vaughn E. Wilson, list vice president; and Dr. F. H. Malone, 2nd vice president. Membership, program and attendance committees were named by President Garrard, and Tuesday noon was selected as the regular meeting day, and sessions will be held at the Tech cafe until further announcements.

Henry S. Winafs, Extension Representative of the organization, who has been in Lubbock for the past several days lining up the local club, told the gathering Thursday that Lubbock's club is the twelfth to be organized in Texas, with clubs now active at Dallas, Oak Cliff, Fort Worth, Paris, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, El Paso, Abilene, and Houston. The organization maintains national headquarters in Detroit, where, in 1924 it had its inception. No definite organization, however, was entered until 1911, when extension work was started.

Membership is Listed. The 23 men, mostly young men of this city, whose names are affixed to the application for a charter that will be sent to the national headquarters are as follows:

Two Are Held For Cattle Law Violation

Two arrests were made in O'Donnell Wednesday by officers from Lynn and Borden counties on charges of violation of the butcher laws of Texas and cattle theft. It was said here Thursday by Lem Cheaper, Inspector for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, who has been assisting officers there in running down alleged law violators.

F. B. Aldridge, of O'Donnell was taken into custody by Sheriff J. W. Simpson, of Lynn county on two charges, one for violation of the butcher law, and the other for buying dressed beef without the hide of the animal accompanying in the transaction. Aldridge was released late Wednesday under bond of $1,000 on each of the charges.

Calvin Williams was arrested in O'Donnell by Sheriff J. R. Jenkins, of Borden county on a charge of cattle theft. Bond in this case had not been set, and Williams is being held in the Borden county jail at Gall.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 13. (AP)—The body of A. H. Ramage, wealthy oil man, who disappeared from the Washington-Norfolk steam boat several weeks ago, was found today in a fish net near Duckrock Bay. It was identified by Dr. George K. Vander-slice.

MOTION TO HAVE ORDER OF COURT RESCINDED LOST

AUDIT MUST START JUNE 21, IS RULING MADE BY JUDGE STEWART

The order issued out of district court here May 6 calling for a new audit of the books and records of the city of Lubbock in connection with the civil suit now pending in the court styled City of Lubbock vs. J. R. Garrard, must stand, according to a decision handed down by Special Judge Hill Stewart in district court here Thursday.

The city, however, won a partial victory in connection with the case when the court modified the original order for an immediate audit, the new decision setting out that the new audit, though it must be made, must be held in abeyance until June 21, by which time the audit now under way under city officials will have been completed.

Many Lawyers Present. The city was represented in the proceedings by Attorney Tom Garrard, of the law firm of Lookhart and Garrard, while the defendant was represented by the law firm of Victoria, Campbell and Schenck, and State Senator W. H. Bladsoe.

The motions of Martin S. Ruby, former City Manager, seeking to quash indictments returned against him by the Lubbock county grand jury recently, were taken up this afternoon with District Attorney Walter G. Wheeler handling the state's case, and Pierce and Triplett representing the defendant. The indictments charge forgery and embezzlement.

Quash Motion Explained. The quash motion was filed on the grounds that a third party was in the grand jury room during deliberations on the evidence, and that the charge of embezzlement is improper due to the fact that the defendant Ruby was not the custodian of the city's funds, and that such is necessary before embezzlement can be charged. A decision had not been reached in this case at 3:30 this afternoon.

Judge Garrard, speaking for the plaintiff, explained that the case grew out of an ex-parte hearing before the district court in connection with a writ of attachment filed by the city against property of the defendant. The court issued an order May 6 setting out that a new audit of the city's books must be made, and auditing auditors for the work.

City's Counsel Protests. The following day, counsel for the city filed a motion of protest to action taken by the court, asking that the order be set aside, and the court announced that a hearing would be held in connection with the case today.

Judge Garrard explained that the city now has an audit under way by competent auditors, that the records and books all arranged in connection with the work, and that to put another set of auditors on the same

Committees At Work On Baseball Funds

Committees of local baseball enthusiasts, aided by other committees from the Lubbock chamber of commerce took the field here Thursday in an effort to raise finances for the amateur baseball club that will be maintained here this year, and although no definite information was available early this afternoon in connection with the drive, workers said they believe that the citizenship of Lubbock would rally to the standard of amateur baseball here, even though some are not heeding the appeal as it had been hoped.

Approximately $1,000 per month for a period of about three and a half months will be necessary to properly finance the club, according to Sled Allen, veteran baseball leader of the city. Pledges will be taken from various fans of the city to be paid in monthly installments. The drive will continue until all fans and business men of the city are given a chance to co-operate in the movement, leaders of the drive said this afternoon.

Magnolia

Paris sends us the magnolia with the first spring days in pastel tints.

Menu for the Family

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, crisp rye toast, peanut butter, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked lima beans, brown bread, cottage cheese and carrot salad, oatmeal drop cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Smothered veal steak, baked potatoes, jellied asparagus salad, whole wheat bread, rhubarb meringue pudding, milk, coffee.

In some homes veal is seldom served on the theory that it's an indigestible food. Now an authority tells us that veal is no more indigestible than fish or chicken or beef. In fact, in France it is a delicacy given to invalids as we give chicken in this country. So when veal is in market and cheaper than chicken we may serve it without misgivings.

Jellied Asparagus Salad Two bunches asparagus, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 2 cups veal or chicken broth, 1 tablespoon minced carrot, 1 tablespoon minced celery, 1 slice onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 sprigs parsley, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Wash and scrape asparagus and cook until tender. Cool. Add carrot, celery, onion, salt, sugar and parsley to meat broth and simmer fifteen minutes. Strain through cheese cloth, reheat, and add gelatin softened in cold water and lemon juice. Let stand until cool and pour into a shallow pan or mold. When beginning to set add asparagus in neat rows arranged in such a way that the vegetable will not be broken in serving. When chilled and firm cut in squares and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

If any water is left when cooking asparagus it should be added to the broth and the amount of broth decreased in proportion.

Miss Mary Alice Stanton received a brass bon bon dish as low score award and Miss Atkins received some brass ornaments as honor favor. There were 19 guests at this party, which is one of a series of events honoring Miss Atkins.

Report Is Heard On Childress Meeting

Mrs. Hub Jones, president, reported on the Childress convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs at a meeting of the Child Study Club Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist Church. A business session was held and Mrs. Tom Stone, president-elect, was elected to the executive board of the City Federation. Mrs. F. A. Norman was chosen recording secretary to take the place of Mrs. Garland Woodward, who resigned. Mrs. A. C. Jackson and Mrs. G. P. Kuykendall were elected new members.

The Camp Fire school, which is to be held Sunday, was announced and the women were urged to attend.

Mrs. Claud Burrus, a member of the Delphian Club, urged the cooperation of the Child Study Club in bringing an Amarillo entrante, Mrs. C. F. Smith, to Lubbock to sing next Thursday evening.

The next meeting of the club will be the last of the year. It is to be in the home of Mrs. Hub Jones.

Too Much Government In Business Rapped

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The relation of the states, the Federal government and business gained the attention today of the delegates attending the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce, with Governor Ritchie of Maryland as the principal speaker.

A twofold solution of the complaint of too much government in business was offered by Governor Ritchie in his prepared address, with the suggestion to "put more business into government, and more self-government into business."

K. CARTER SCHOOL IS ADJUDGED CLEANEST OF CITY EDUCATIONAL PLANTS; HUNT BUILDING PRAISED

The K. Carter school was adjudged the cleanest building among the city schools and the George M. Hunt building the most creditably kept one in the city school system by judges who inspected the schools Monday afternoon. The condition of the other schools was indicated in the following order: Junior high, central ward, senior high and the negro school.

Mrs. John C. Granbery, Mrs. A. W. Evans and Mrs. R. M. Chitwood were the judges who had been selected to view the schools and report on their condition. All principals except the one at the negro school knew that the inspection was to be made Monday afternoon.

Cleanest Rooms Listed

The cleanest room in each building was listed as follows by the judges: K. Carter, low third, Mrs. Trow; George M. Hunt, high first, Mrs. Wester and Mrs. Hearrell; Junior high, high sixth, Miss Robinson and Mrs. Lindley; central ward, low sixth, Miss Bryant; high, Mr. Crowley, manual training; primary grades in junior high first grade, Mrs. Dupre; negro school, grammar grade.

The negro school was terribly crowded, according to the judges, with 106 pupils enrolled in one room and 76 in the other. The school is equipped with drinking fountains but one has been out of commission all the year while the other is in use but in bad repair.

K. Carter has the best equipped playground and is attempting something in the way of beautification. Central Ward has a very clean playground. George M. Hunt is beautifying its playground. This school is the most visited with the exception of the poorly equipped schools which negro school but it has made the most of what it has. It was so clean throughout that it was hard to choose the best room. The plumbing is old and hard to care for, but it was scrupulously clean.

School Grounds Rapped

"The High and Junior High School grounds are very barren. A pile of ashes made them rather unsightly." All of the music rooms are small and the one in Central Ward should not be allowed there, the judges said. Dirt and papers were cluttered under the radiators in the high school buildings and dirty rags made the rooms unsightly. The engine room at the high school was in good order, they said.

"Of the three rest rooms seen, one is used as a junk room with desks piled on the lavatory, one has no furniture whatever, and one has no chairs or seating place of any kind. Many rooms need waste baskets and cabinets. We wish to pay tribute to the beautifully kept book room at the K. Carter school. We realize that this is a new building but it is splendidly cared for. It was hard to keep decoration from having a part in judging the rooms. A pretty growing plant added much to the appearance of the room and somehow made it seem better cared for."

COACH BELIEVES IN ALL-ROUND ATHLETE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 13. (AP)—While "this is the day of the specialist" in track and field athletics, the all-around performer still carries one of the strongest competitive appeals, in the opinion of Ellery H. Clark of Harvard.

Himself an all-around champion in 1897 and 1893, as well as an Olympic title-holder in 1896, Clark notes the prominence of all-around stars, past and present, in the history of the track and field championships of the Intercollegiate A. A. A., which holds its Golden Jubilee meet at Cambridge May 25 and 26.

All-round All-round Man

"While I greatly admire the specialist, who has every reason to be proud of winning an intercollegiate championship in a single event, I have still a higher regard for the men who can 'take a crack at anything'—the Hoffas, Osborns, Flansky's and Nortens", Clark said.

"The customary definition of an all-around athlete is a man who can run, jump and throw the weights. And thus, though the name of Evert Wendell, will never be forgotten in the history of athletics, and although in 1883, he accomplished the feat of winning the 100, 220 and 440 yards runs at the Intercollegiate, we should scarcely rank him as an all-around performer.

"The first genuine all-around man in intercollegiate competition was F. Larkin of Princeton, who at the Intercollegiate of 1875 won four first places—the hammer, shot, standing high and standing broad jumps.

"If we except a most unusual double winner of 1890, when W. C. Dohm of Princeton won the half mile in 1:57.1-5 and also the broad jump with a leap of 22.934, the next outstanding name is that of G. R. Fearing, Jr., of Harvard. From 1890 to 1893, inclusive, Fearing won the running high jump at the Intercollegiate, and in this space of time also picked up a first, second and a third in the low hurdles and two thirds in the high hurdles. Fearing was also an oarsman and a football player, and all-around champion in the broadest sense of the word.

Brings New Chapter

"The next all-around star—and the brightest of all time to shine at the Intercollegiate, was Alvin C. Kraenzlein of Pennsylvania. Up to the time of this marvelous performer, we had always hurdled with the knee of the front leg bent parallel to the top of the hurdle, but Kraenzlein conceived the plan of faking the hurdles in his stride, with front leg extended straight in front of him. The result was a new chapter in athletic history, in 1898 Kraenzlein won both hurdles at the Intercollegiate establishing a world's record of 23.2-5 for the low hurdles, and was third in the broad jump, in 1899 he won both hurdles and the broad jump, and in 1900 turned in his most wonderful performance, winning the 100 yards, both hurdles races, and finishing second in the broad jump. At the Olympic Games of 1900, held in Paris, Kraenzlein won the 60 metres dash, the 110 and 200 metres hurdles, and the broad jump.

"In 1907 the mighty John C. Garrels of Michigan invaded the Harvard Stadium, and won both hurdles races in fast time, at the same time winning second place in the shot put. I have seen most of the great athletes of the last forty years, but I cannot recall anyone who 'looked the part' of the sturdy champion to greater advantage than Garrels. Tall, rangy, powerful—it was a pleasure to watch him in action.

More Recent Winners

"In recent times we have had Ned Geardina of Harvard, National Pentathlon champion in 1921 and 1922, and the first man to achieve twenty-five feet in the running broad jump. Geardina could do about everything well, and so could J. W. Merchant of California, who put in a pleasant afternoon at the Intercollegiate of 1922, winning the hammer with a throw of 170 feet, and placing second in the shot, fourth in the broad jump and fourth in the javelin.

"Georgetown, too, has produced some wonderful all-around men. One of these was LeGendre, who started the world by breaking the world's record at the Paris Olympics of 1924 in the running broad jump, only to see his record eclipsed by the phenomenal leap of Dellart Hubbard the following year. LeGendre was another man 'good at everything' and he has two worthy successors at the present time in Emerson Norton and Tom Flansky, who five Georgetown quite a team to start with, with their combined abilities at sprinting, hurdling, jumping and throwing the weights."

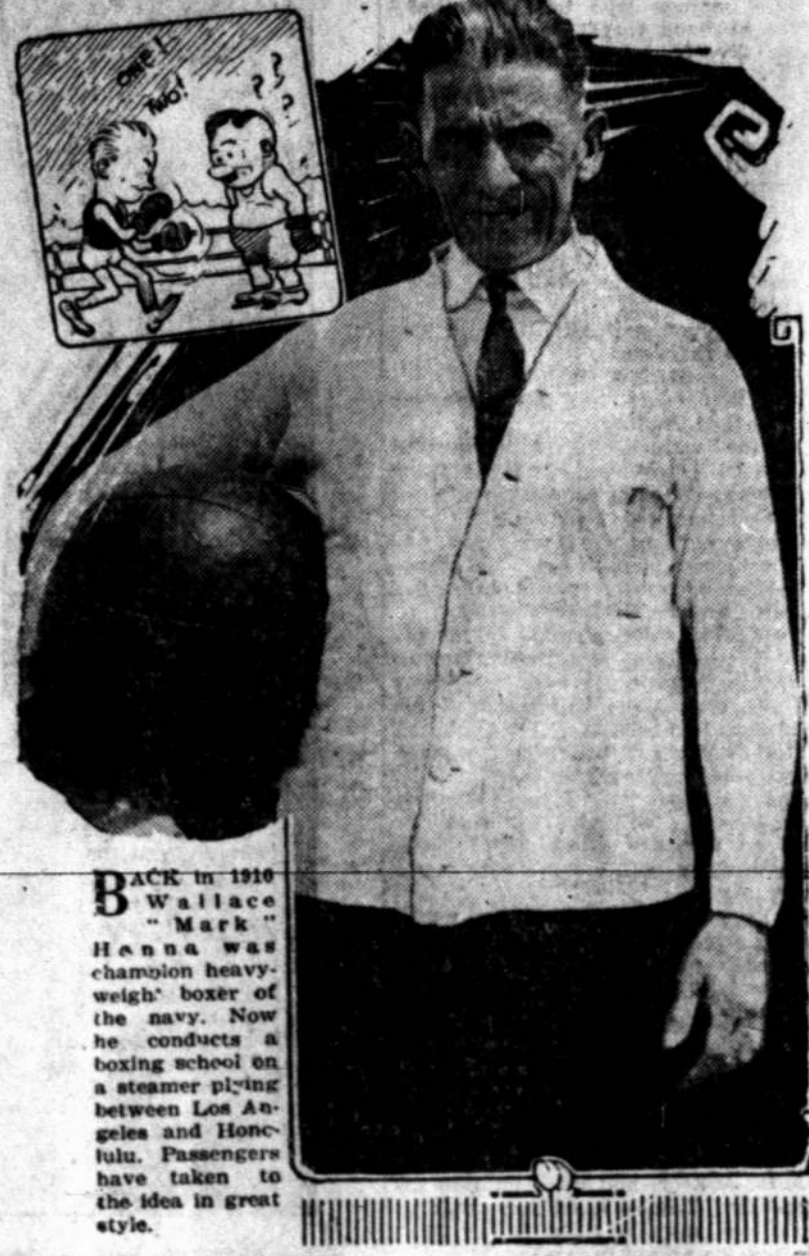

Conflict In Court Over Gurley Trial Given Explanation

AUSTIN, May 12. (AP)—Apparent conflict in the Court of Criminal Appeals' decisions releasing A. J. Gurley, former Arkansas sheriff, and holding W. H. Hall, former Arkansas Board of Control member, was explained today on the basis of a legal distinction. The Gurley decision was rendered yesterday.

Hall and Gurley were pardoned by Acting Governor S. B. McCall of Arkansas and they then came to Texas. The pardons later were revoked by Governor Tom Terrill, and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson honored requisitions for their return.

In Gurley's appeal the record failed to show that the Arkansas Supreme Court had held the pardons invalid and the record showing the pardon's apparently valid, the court said it must release Gurley.

Despite Vigorous Onslaught Two New York Teams Cling To Highest Rung Of Major League Mast Heads

(By the Associated Press)

New York teams cling to the major league baseball mast heads today, challenged by other teams, East and West.

The Yankees traveled ten innings yesterday to beat Cleveland, 6 to 5, only to find Washington close on their heels in second today. The Brooklyn Robins found their position at the National peak precarious after subduing the Chicago Cubs uprising for Cincinnati, in second place, loomed threateningly.

Walter Johnson Wins

Good pitching figured in the push of the new challengers. Walter Johnson scored his fifth triumph for Washington at the expense of St. Louis, 7 to 4. Three hits constituted the limit of Boston's battling liberties with the curves of Donohue of Cincinnati.

The Reds, on the other hand, hammered three Brave hurlers for 15 innings to win 9 to 1. Hargraves gathering a single, double and triple.

Brilliant pitching by McWeeny kept the Robins at the peak of the senior loop. He kept eight Cub hits scattered for a 2-0 victory. Urban Shocker went the route for the Yankees, but owed his 4-1 triumph to heavy hitting by team mates and a fumble in the tenth inning, which sent across the winning tally.

Mackmen Take Ninth Straight

Near the foot of the first division rumbler, of trouble for the leaders came from the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Athletics. Although the White Sox pushed Mack's men to ten innings, Simmons' timely double gave Philadelphia its ninth straight victory, 4 to 3, marking the longest winning streak of the year.

The Corners beat the Phillies, 14 to 3, bombarding four pitchers, but the Giants, breaking a long losing streak with a 2-1 victory over the Cardinals, refused to yield their seat on the fourth rung. Circuit drives by Meusel and Southworth in the second inning decided the contest.

Wiltse, Boston Red Sox pitching find turned back the Detroit Tigers by four to two with the help of 14 Hub safeties.

Reserve Strength

"A team is no stronger than its substitutes," has long been an accepted sport truth.

No major league manager can hope to win anywhere, unless he has the proper reserve strength to meet the situations that are constantly arising on the ball field.

During the first week of the American League race the Chicago White Sox were minus the services of Outfielders Johnny Mostil and Bill Barrett because of injuries and illness.

Mostil and Barrett are right-handed hitters who just dot on southpaw pitching. Their absence from the game made it necessary for Manager Collins to employ an outfielder made up entirely of left-handed hitters.

In one series, Cleveland shot three southpaws at the White Sox and came away with as many games. The lineup of the Chicago team was too heavy with left-handers, but Manager Collins had no alternative.

A week later, with Mostil and Barrett back in the game, the White Sox routed the Cleveland southpaws who had made them look foolish earlier in the season.

In these days of intensive baseball, reserve strength is a most important asset.

Baseball Booming

Had a chat recently with my old friend George Little, famous football coach, also director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin.

Met Little at Comiskey park in Chicago. He was chaperoning a dozen or more youngsters to the ball game. The boys were winners in a baseball contest, that carried with it a trip to Chicago to see Detroit and the White Sox in action as part of the program.

"While Little, who had such a big first year in football at Wisconsin, is rather reticent about his program for stirring up athletics at the Madison institution, he lets you know in a modest way those in charge of sport are looking for big things."

Praises Schalk

This spring, in an effort to "pep" up baseball in Wisconsin, Little and Ray Schalk, famous catcher of the Chicago White Sox, coach the varsity candidates for about five weeks.

"In words I cannot tell you how much the presence of Schalk at Wisconsin benefited the varsity players, but in addition it created enthusiasm among the boys all over the state. Schalk is a fine character and just the type of man needed to direct the destinies of the college athletes," says Little.

Managerial Woo

A major league manager is in many ways a victim of circumstances. If he has a good ball club and it falls to win, he is usually held to blame. If it lives up to the hope and wins consistently, it is regarded as simply doing what it should and no particular credit is handed the manager.

In other words a manager has more chance to back in the spotlight leading an ordinary club that gets somewhere than directing a strong aggregation that proves a permanent winner.

The case of Miller Huggins is a shining example of the above expressed truth. When Miller Huggins won three pennants with his powerful Yankee machine of 1921-22-23, he was in the background, with the stars getting all the glory.

In the spring training this year the Yankees were regarded in the flesh of jokes by many of the experts, it was called a "saw" ball club.

Yet the close of the first month of play finds the Yanks out in front by a fairly comfortable margin. Seems as if in proportioning the credit, the manager of a winning club should come in for his share.

French Airman Starts MAY CROSS THE OCEAN

Trip In New 'Sea Flea'

(By The Associated Press)

MARSEILLES, France, May 13.—

M. Degassano, French aviator accompanied by Mechanician Sien, left Marseilles at 9 o'clock this morning in his water glider, the "Sea Flea," for Barcelona, Spain, and Oran, Algeria. The weather was unfavorable, but the apparatus worked satisfactorily.

If the voyage is successful, Degassano will continue to Dakar, South Africa, and from there across the South Atlantic to Buenos Aires.

The sea flea darts over the water like a flying fish, making a speed of about 80 miles an hour. Its hull has a draft of only three inches. At top speed the wing apparatus is sufficient to keep it clear of the water for about sixty-five feet and thus it skims along alternately in the air and touching the water. It is equipped with two rudders, one for guiding it through the water and the other (through the air).

SAN ANTONIO—Arthur Savelkin was in luck in two places as the result of throwing a curve ball while pitching for a bank's nine. Lots of people heard their clubs because their ball curve instead of going straight.

One of the principle attitudes of wisdom is to be able to forget a lot of things it knows. Did you ever notice the wife when speaking of the family auto? She says "my car." We have yet to hear one mention "my garage bill," or even "our garage bill." This is what might be termed a "short age"—short skirts, short hair, short stockings and coats that won't cover a flank. In Lubbock and in every other city in America. Those who do not believe it need only to investigate to be convinced. And, when a labor organization, in addition to its natural duties, steps to one side to aid humanity as was pointed out in the opening paragraph, it deserves additional commendation.

THESE WOMEN

She tried to arise, but her knees crumpled weakly beneath her. He caught her, and lifting the light young body, almost ran with her to the stairway, and up to her room.

BEGIN HERE TODAY. HARRY MORTON, in a quandary because his adopted daughter, AUDREY, and NONA, a classmate, are both in love with him, visited in his PEORIA office a woman who tells him that her husband threatens to sue her for divorce on account of Morton. Morton, rich, unmarried, middle-aged, is extremely attractive to women. He maintains his home in PEORIA and an apartment in CHICAGO. At the end of the last chapter, his secretary, JOHN PARRISH, has just announced that the woman's husband is waiting for him outside. (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XL. "Do you mean he's given up his job?" asked Audrey. "Morton added, "Said he was a failure at everything. Not the thing that seemed to be hurting him most was that you didn't like him. "Stop worrying about him now, and get something to eat." He glanced at her shrewdly from beneath his lashes. Audrey did not answer. Over the luncheon table in an exclusive tea room, she leaned toward him, her face very grave. "Will you tell me one single thing that I am good for, Daddy?" Morton glanced up from his plate. "Now what, Audrey?" She flushed. "Oh, I know I'm always fussing around and worrying you, but honestly, Daddy, it seems to me nowadays that my life isn't worth living. "I haven't any work in the world. I don't even manage your house. I'm not much good on the stage, and I hate social life. And I make everybody miserable who comes in touch with me. "I'm just a fungus growth, clinging around your money and position, and not contributing a thing to the world I live in." Morton spoke gravely. "You do contribute, Audrey. You contribute to my happiness. I have lived for you ever since you were a little child. Can't you just be happy in my love?" "I love you too, daddy, but you get more happiness from Nona and these other women than you do from me. If it were otherwise, you'd marry me, and let me really take care of you and be somebody in the world, instead of a useless parasite." "Listen, Audrey. You mustn't talk any more about marriage to me. If you want to manage the house, I'll fire the housekeeper, and let you do it." "No," she said shortly, "that's useless." Nona's show had opened. In the wings the manager, the director and the producer were exchanging congratulations. Their eyes were heavily smudged with fatigue, but also glowing with satisfaction. In Nona's dressing room, Morton sat on a chair lounge, her eyes closed and her face drawn. "You are a very great dancer, Nona," he said, "and will be a very famous one." Nona opened her eyes and an anxious look came over her face. "Are you glad, dear?" "Of course, I am," he said. "Do you know that Sunshine means to back me for an opening in London next fall, if this play holds up?" "Yes," said Morton. "He told me." Nona looked at him between narrowed lids. "And you still hope it will be a success, and that I'll cross the ocean and never see you any more for months and months, or years and years, maybe?" Morton crossed the dressing room and stood beside her. "Nona, dear, it's work that counts in this world. I know, because I've been searching for happiness elsewhere, and it simply isn't to be found." "We don't get anywhere, with this love business, do we?" said Nona, wearily. "I love you, you don't love me. Ditto Audrey. John Parrish loves her, and she doesn't love him—nor does she love me." "He loves her all right," Morton replied. "You should have seen his face when he said he was quitting his job." Nona stood up and laid her hands on his shoulders. "Harry, I'm sorry for that boy, because I know what it means to be in love with someone who doesn't love you. It's hateful, Harry?" "Nona," he began, "I've been fond of you—very good, Nona. Regardless of conventional rules for goodness, you've helped me a lot, and you've helped others. I found you at a time when I sorely needed just the sweet, human sympathy that you gave me." "But marriage—well, it just isn't in the cards for me. Can't you be happy without that? Can't you throw yourself in to your success and make work your life? I did it once, Nona, when fate had hit me pretty hard, and I know it can be done." The girl collapsed in the chaise longue, and covered her face with her hands. Great silent sobs shook her body and she buried her face in the cushions. "Nona," he began. But the door opened, and Sunshine walked in. He took in the situation at a glance, and gave Morton a hostile look. Then he crossed to Nona, and began to pat her shoulder. "What's this, my little Nona in tears on the proudest night of her life! Listen, girl, this won't do. Why, Nona, you were a wow, tonight! Don't go spoiling your looks for tomorrow's show; by crying. What's the matter, anyhow?" He gave Morton another angry glance. Nona did not answer him, but only went on. "But if there's anything else on your mind, tell old Abe, and he'll make it right. Remember, kid, you

With Our Contemporaries

FIGURING: Nearly all of us whose family history runs back through three or four generations sometimes evidence our pride in our ancestors. But cold figuring shows the geometrical progression of the number of our ancestors in even a few generations, until the blood stream from some famous forebear is so tenuous as to be hardly strong enough to maintain us of later generations on that alone. Some statisticians have figured it out that counting three generations to the century, a child born in 1900 had two ancestors in 1867, four in 1833, eight in 1809, 16 in 1767, 32 in 1733, 64 in 1709, 128 in 1667, 256 in 1633 and 512 at the beginning of the 17th century. Doubling the number over 33 years and by the time of the Norman invasion of England, when most of us in this part of the country originally came, we find that the boy born at the beginning of the 20th century had no less than 21,599,999 ancestors. — Denton Record-Chronicle.

YELLOW TAIL-LIGHTS: Many automobile associations are conducting a campaign to have automobile tail-lights changed from red to yellow. Red, as color used for indicating danger and interpreted as "stop," is misused today. Red is used by the railroads and on traffic control semaphores to indicate "stop." Red lanterns on a street undergoing repair mean danger. Some cities used red "No Parking" signs, because motorists overlook green ones. Red with the word "stop" is repeated on every highway hot dog stand. A red automobile tail-light is confusing. The automobile associations backing the change say, "Look at a motor route at night and see a line of red tail-lights. After you drive into a ditch marked with red lanterns you realize it was not a procession of autos you saw." A yellow tail-light for cars would indicate "caution" and not "danger." However, the change would affect so many millions of vehicles and would be tied up by state laws that it is almost impractical at the present time. — San Angelo Standard.

PASS THE DOLLAR SLOGAN SAVED CHOCTAW CO.

(By Associated Press.)
HUGO, Okla., May 12.—One year ago this month financial failure faced every man and woman in Choctaw county, following four years of consecutive crop failures, which closed the doors of every bank in the county except two small ones. Depressed and with all the banking institutions in the town closed, the citizens adopted a slogan, which probably prevented a sadder situation.

"Pass the Dollar On," was the slogan instead of "pass the buck." Although there was little money in circulation during the three months no bank was here, the few remaining merchants who stood the financial strain, sold their collections were 70 per cent of normal. Every time a person would get a dollar he would either buy something or pay an obligation and as nearly everybody owed somebody something, the dollars made many rounds.

Men who had come to this section when it was in the Indian territory and who had helped to build up this part of the country were financially destroyed. Bankers who had spent 25 years improving the wild section and helping the homesteaders to settle the country were threatened by disgruntled depositors. They were accused of being robbers and were forced to take out of town for several months.

Many persons left their homes to seek new fields and the outlook was dim. Hundreds went into bankruptcy. J. L. Dickson, referee in bankruptcy, said, "Their losses had to be absorbed by others. But following this a good crop was made last fall and prospects are favorable for a good crop this year."

Mr. Dickson, who came to this section in the nineties when the Indians were blankets and the butchers sold deer meat, described the crisis as a financial one. He mentioned the flood of 1908 which inundated half of the county and the slump in the price of cotton in 1914 when it did not pay to pick it.

In 1919 and 1920, twelve banks were operating in Choctaw county with an aggregate capital stock of $690,000, Mr. Dickson said. "The year 1919 was very prosperous. About one half of cotton was produced to the west and it sold as high as 40 cents a pound. Bank officials and everybody else went wild, and all the banks made over-issues most of them being secured by mortgages on crops, livestock and real estate."

In 1920 the crops failed. Price of cotton went down and could hardly be sold when gathered because of the heavy rains. For the next three years we had crop failures, resulting from hot winds and lack of rain. Security held by the banks declined in value. There was no market for livestock. Real estate values slumped.

The banks began to consolidate and fail in 1921 and in the spring of 1925 were left with a total of 12 banks, one of which was the City National bank, which tried for twenty days to stem the tide but was compelled to close its doors May 17, leaving only two small banks in Choctaw county, one at Hugo and the other at Fort Towson. Thus 1,000 persons in Hugo for three months had no place to do their banking or to make exchange.

A war-time community spirit developed as has been usual in the history of the Anglo-Saxon race and business and professional men opened accounts in Hugo, Honey Grove, Denton, Dallas and other North Texas cities. Remittances were generally made by express and by post office money orders or by buying a check free of cost from some business or professional man who had an account elsewhere. By common consent the slogan of "Pass the dollar on" was adopted.

"Business went on about as usual and merchants said their collections on June 1 were about 75 per cent of the usual first of the month collections. In August two new banks were opened. Confidence in the banks was lacking at first and many persons put their money in fruit jars and buried the jars. The post office received heavy deposits. The fall cotton crop of 1925 bolstered the financial conditions."

"Heavy indebtedness is being drastically wiped off in bankruptcy proceedings and by compromise settlements through the receivers of the defunct banks. Now the business houses are being occupied by new merchants and modern residences are being resupplied. And the spirit of the people is hopeful."

Everything Ready For Baseball Game

Everything is all set for a real diamond battle. J. A. Raley, manager of the American Legion "Giants," told the Journal Wednesday. The American Legion club will clash with the Texas Tech Mailers at Merrill Park at 3:30. In spite of the fact that Roy Largent, Chicago White Sox scout was here yesterday and signed Captain "Doc" Hamilton, Matador shortstopper, for the Collins nine and made overtures to Volney Hill, star right hand hurler, the Giants are not dismayed and will give the collegians a real battle, Raley said.

WELL-KNOWN CHEMIST INDORSES SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY

Dr. W. H. Morse, well-known consulting chemist of Hartford, Connecticut, has the following to say about Gordon's Antiseptic, the stomach medicine that is bringing relief to thousands of sufferers from stomach and bowel disorders. "It is true to its name. It is an antiseptic and helps the abused stomach to get rid of its burden after it has rid the patient mass of its septic character, and puts the organ into shape to do its physiological duty. "It has made for itself a definite place in the treatment of stomach disturbances. "Although prompt results follow, Gordon's Antiseptic is not a one-dose medicine. In all cases its use should be continued for several days, and in chronic cases the treatment should be extended over a longer period of time. The underlying object is to prevent the absorption of toxins (poisons from the food mass)."

 Gordon's Antiseptic goes right to the seat of stomach troubles. It stops and prevents fermentation, soothes and heals the irritated and inflamed condition of the stomach and bowels. Relieves indigestion, constipation, gas on the stomach, dyspepsia, heartburn, bloating after meals, excess acid, bad breath, sick headaches, nervousness, lones up the digestive organs and stimulates the stomach and bowels to their normal functions.
 Gordon's Antiseptic is sold by good druggists $1.50 for sixty-four doses, less than 3c a dose.—Adv.

HAUGEN BILL CHANGED

WASHINGTON, May 12. (AP)—Important changes in the Haugen farm relief bill, including reduction of the price stabilization appropriation from $375,000,000 to $175,000,000, were agreed upon today by supporters of the measure.

LADY MOUNTBATTEN ON STRIKE DUTY

ALTHOUGH CALLED OFF, ENGLISH STRIKE IS STILL HALTING BIG BUSINESS OVER BRITISH ISLES

EMPLOYERS AND MEN STILL AT OUTS IN ENGLAND AS BUSINESS STANDS STILL; STRIKE EASIER TO START THAN TO STOP, SAID

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, May 12.—Great Britain's general strike theoretically is over, but practically is still continuing to function this morning more or less as it had for the last nine days.

Throughout the country there is a disposition thus far on the part of many unions to stand out. There are various reasons for this. Among them are the men's desire in some instances to take advantage of the strike to exact better terms of employment; sympathy with the miners, who are still on strike; refusal of some employers to discuss volunteer workers to make room for the old employees and the edict issued by other employers that they will not take back the workers until they have torn up their union cards. This situation is possible because the Trades Union Congress, in calling off the general strike, issued orders that the men were not to return to work pending instructions from their individual unions.

Newsprinters Appear Again One of the first visible indications to the public that the general strike had been settled, was the re-appearance of the newspapers. Only two London morning papers were able to issue in their usual form today. These, however, printed only four pages. Other newspapers are hopeful of bringing out their normal editions tomorrow if there is sufficient paper available.

In view of the happenings of recent days, there is a movement in some quarters to start a general strike in the future. How far this movement will succeed, cannot be predicted, but the owners of a group of four prominent Gascon papers already have announced that in the future they will hire only non-union labor.

Strikes Hard To Stop Comments were heard today that it was far easier to start a general strike than to halt one. There was some improvement in conditions this morning, traffic accommodation being a little better, but the citizen who retired last night with the thought that his troubles were ended, was amazed upon awakening to find that he still had to walk to work and endure other inconveniences.

The authorities predicted that these conditions would begin to right themselves forthwith, although it would take considerable time before conditions approached anything like normal. As far as the miners are concerned their strike against lower wages and longer hours continues and nothing is expected to develop before their national meeting of delegates here tomorrow.

Union Terms Given LONDON, May 12.—The Trades Union have no alternative but to resist to the utmost "any attempt to impose two major committees, the Episcopacy and other relations are not expected to come this week. They will cover the election of new bishops and the question of continuing the unification commission.

most humiliating terms on the workers' part. A statement to this effect was issued by the Trades Union Congress today after a special meeting called to consider the failure of employers to re-engage workers throughout the country. "Our resistance is unimpaired," the statement continued. "We cannot tolerate the imposition of conditions designed to destroy trades unionism. Peace without vindictiveness is impossible unless the attacks are ended immediately. The workers will not surrender their hard-earned gains."

TECH BOOSTERS HAVE BIG TIME

College Evangelists Make Great Advertising Jaunt Over Panhandle Territory

Tech Boosters, who made a tour of the Panhandle early this week in the interest of the college, returned to Lubbock late Wednesday evening, reporting a successful trip with the exception of rains which caught them Tuesday and almost demoralized the remainder of the trip.

There were about 13 cars in the group of Tech students, faculty members and Lubbock citizens who made the tour. Plainview, Canyon, Amarillo, Claude, Memphis, Clarendon, Matador, Paducah, Floydada and Halls were visited. High schools and colleges in the towns were the principal places visited with the Tech Terrors and the college quartet playing and singing and John Young, student president, making talks. The Teachers college at Canyon and Clarendon college, Clarendon, were spent in Clarendon. The caravan each visited the first day. The Boosters were cordially received in each town and it was surprising the interest shown in the Tech, according to Paul Barrier. The first night was struck rain and mud early the next afternoon and was divided so that part of the group stayed in Matador, part in Paducah and part in Floydada the next night.

Lee Will Speak At Nine Cities On West Texas Tour

FORT WORTH, May 12.—Nine West Texas cities and towns are on the itinerary of R. Q. Lee, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for his Orient-Wichita valley tour as part of the diversification campaign being pushed by the commercial organization. Homer D. Wade, assistant secretary of the chamber, announced here today.

E. J. Negy is to meet the Lee party when it arrives at Throckmorton noon Monday, while W. A. Wilson, secretary of the chamber of commerce at Sunday will welcome it at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the same day, and Evelyn Clark will extend greetings when the party reaches Transcott at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The party will then drive to Rowell for the district convention of the W. T. C. C. Tuesday morning, on to Benjamin at 5 p. m. where C. H. Burnett will represent the local cooperators. The final stop of the day will be at Knox City at 8 p. m. O. P. Johnson attending the welcome.

Lee will meet the party on its arrival at Rochester at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday and James White will greet it at Rule at noon. G. R. Couch will deliver the last welcome of the trip when party reaches Welford at 8 p. m. The campaigners will return thence to Cisco.

NEW YORK—Alfred Smith, is to spend the rest of his life in prison work. He is retiring from the police force and has been known as the evangelist detective.

"Treaty of Peace" Now With President

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The "Treaty of Peace" agreed upon by executives of a number of large railroads and union leaders awaits only the approval of President Coolidge to become law.

Embodied in the Watson-Parker bill, the plan was approved by the Senate last Wednesday, 69 to 13, exactly as it came from the House despite vigorous efforts to change some of its provisions.

Abolition of the railroad labor board and substitution of new machinery for handling disputes between employers and workers in the industry is provided for in the measure. It will be signed by President Coolidge if he is convinced the public interest is adequately safeguarded in its provisions.

Routine Business Holds Methodists

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 12.—Bishop Horace M. Dubose, Winston-Salem, called the twentieth general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South to order for its eighth day session here today.

Reports from committees on widely varying subjects were coming in and leaders expected to spend the entire day in routine business. Reports from

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, May 13. (AP)—The cotton market opened irregular although Liverpool was better than due. First trader showed a gain of one point on July, but losses of six to 11 points on new crop months. The market continued to ease off during the first hour of trading based on the better weather in the belt and on the unfavorable character of foreign political news.

July traded to 17.70c; October to 17.02c, and December to 17.08c. 11 to 15 points below yesterday's close. At the end of the first hour the market was barely steady and at the lows with the undertone bearish.

The market ruled quiet most of the morning and prices eased off although there was no selling pressure. July traded down to 17.00c; October to 17.01c and December to 17.09c, or 14 to 19 points below yesterday's close. At the low level buying developed, particularly in October and December, session prices were a point or two above the lows.

The market ruled quiet but steady after mid-session and prices improved on trade buying and short covering, although no new weather developments came to hand. July traded up to 17.75c; October to 17.07c and December to 17.10c, or 6 to 8 points above the lows of the morning.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT
NEW ORLEANS, May 13. (AP)—Cotton opened steady. May 18.10c; July 17.55c; October 17.11c; December 17.12c. January 17.15c.

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, May 13. (AP)—A more favorable view of weather conditions appeared responsible for declines in the cotton market early today.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points. Active months soon showed net losses of nine to twelve points. July selling off to 18.40c and December to 17.52c under liquidation under recent buyers and local or Southern selling which was supposed to include hedging against spot purchases.

There was continued liquidation by recent buyers later in the morning when bearish sentiment was encouraged by the favorable Western belt weather forecast. July worked off to 18.22c and December to 17.44c or about 17 to 20 points net lower and the market was quiet within a point or two of the lows at mid-day.

The early afternoon market remained quiet by a shade steadier on covering. At 2 o'clock July was selling at 18.39c and December 17.59c, active months generally showing net declines of 10 to 15 points.

CHICAGO REPORT
CHICAGO, May 13. (AP)—Wheat prices took an early downward course today, influenced by reports of greatly improved crop conditions Northwest and by dearth of demand as well as by weakness at Liverpool. The wheat opening here, 5-8c off to 1/2c up, was followed by a decline of about 2 cents, in some cases.

Corn and oats showed firmness, starting about unchanged and later securing slight gains. Provisions were variable.

NASH MOTORS FIRM
NEW YORK, May 13. (AP)—One of the greatest stock exchange battles in recent history was staged on the floor today when bear traders made an unsuccessful attempt to break the company stock of the Nash Motors Corporation below 52 1/2 a share. Nearly 75,000 shares, ranging from small offerings to a single block of 20,000 shares, were thrown on the market. The offerings were readily absorbed and subsequently the stock rallied to 55 1/2 on the urgent retreat of the disappointed short sellers.

WALL STREET REPORT
NEW YORK, May 13. (AP)—Slightly higher price levels were established at the opening of today's stock market, although dealings were confined largely to professional trading activities.

Motors showed a tendency to recover under the leadership of General Motors which was bought on expectations that a substantial extra dividend would be voted by the directors today. A steady demand for Atchafon, Atlantic Coast Line and other high grade rails also imparted a firmer tone to trading.

The early improvement was short lived, another successful drive against shares quickly unsettling the market. General Motors lost its initial gains and declines of about a point were registered by Hudson and Jordan before the end of the first half hour.

The selling movement also spread to Baldwin, International Cement, International Machine preferred, Foundation Company, United States Cast Iron Pipe, and Radio, each of which fell back a point or more. In contrast, however, was the demand for rail and industrials, with the Independent strength by the American Smelting and South Porto Rico Sugar. A sharp decline pitched in the Italian lire, which was offered around 2.80 cents, a low rate, featured the irregular foreign exchange market.

Sterling eased slightly to 4.85 1/2.

HOG PRICES AND RECEIPTS FOR 1925

HOG PRICES IN 1925, according to a market analysis by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, have been the highest since 1920 and the number of hogs slaughtered nearly 20 per cent less than in 1924 and 1923, when production was at a record level. With prices approximately 50 per cent higher this year than last year, hog producers have had an especially profitable season. The range of prices has run from $10 to almost $14.50 per hundred pounds, the peaks being reached in March, July and September.

The ratio between prices of hogs and corn prices turned favorably for the feeder last spring and is now the best that it has been since 1922. Last spring's pig crop in the corn belt, which is now coming on the market, was estimated to be 10.6 per cent less than the pig crop of the spring of 1924. This indicates that rather high prices are likely to be maintained during most of the 1926 season, unless a very large crop of hogs is produced and pushed rapidly into the market. Excepting the months of January and February, receipts at the eleven leading markets of the country have gone below the 675,000 level and from June to October have been below the 550,000 mark.

REFILMING FILMS HARDER THAN SCREENING

Refilming a picture that has been a success several years ago is much more dangerous than transferring a stage play to the screen, according to Hobart Henley, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director.

Henley directed "The Auction Block" the Rex Beach story, which is being shown at the Peace theatre today. The two leading roles are played by Charles Ray and Eleanor Boardman.

"The Auction Block" was made several years ago by the old Goldwyn company with Rubye de Remer, Walter Lang and George Cooper in the cast. That version was directed by Lawrence Trimble, and attracted no little attention at the time.

"A good picture, like a good play, deserves to be revived from time to time," declares Henley. "With the passing of time, the story has to be modernized to keep up with the modern idea, and it is this very point that receives so much unwitting criticism from the old fans."

"They do not realize that if they were to see the old picture over again or even for the first time in this day and age, it would be hopelessly out-fashioned, and that they would laugh at situations that were tensely dramatic at the time. Because they liked it then, they still remember it as being perfect, while in reality, most old pictures cannot even be compared to those being produced now."

Sally O'Neill, Ernest Gillen, Charles Clary, David Torrence, James Corrigan, Forrest Sanbury and Ned Sparks complete the cast of "The Auction Block." Frederic and Fanny Hatton adapted the modern version to the screen.

WEST AGAIN MAKES STRONG BID FOR TRACK HONORS
NEW YORK, May 13. (AP)—The Eastern college track and field world, which has seen its major laurels go to the other side of the continent in four of the last five outdoor seasons, faces a rather dubious prospect of regaining its prestige this year.

The University of Southern California, which took the I. C. A. A. A. A. Co the Far West last spring, will be a strong favorite to keep the trophy when the outstanding college track and field tests of the spring take place at Harvard Stadium, May 28 and 29.

of his quest for all-around honors with Emerson Norton of Georgetown and Harold Osborn of the Illinois A. C. All three are slated to compete in the decathlon at the national A. A. U. championships in Philadelphia, July 2 and 6. Other national titles will be decided on the same program with the New York Athletic club putting a strong team in the field to defend its national team championship.

800 Workers Called By Cotton Planters

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 12. (AP)—Emergency cotton crop demands in Texas call for 800 workers on farms between now and June first. J. W. Woodman, director of the Farm Labor Bureau of the United States here said today. After June 1, about 3,000 wheat harvesters will be needed, he said. Because of unusual rains, labor required for cotton chopping and wheat harvesting will be double.

NOME AWAITS ARRIVAL OF NORGE AND AMUNDSEN; RADIO MESSAGES FROM GIANT DIRIGIBLE RECEIVED

FEARLESS EXPLORER ON WAY TO ALASKA AFTER HE CIRCLES NORTH POLE IN HUGE PLANE; SHIP EXPECTED BY NINE O'CLOCK TONIGHT

(By The Associated Press)
NOME, Alaska, May 12 (11:30 p. m.)—At this time, which is 5:30 Thursday morning by Eastern Standard Time, in the States, the dirigible had not reached Nome.

Due At Nine-Thirty
OSLO, Norway, May 12 (AP)—Latest reports received here say the Polar dirigible Norge will arrive at Nome, Alaska, at nine o'clock tonight. The airship was sighted off Point Barrow early this morning. All on board are well.

Hear Norge Broadcasting
CORDOVA, Alaska, May 12 (AP)—At 1:50 this morning, American Eastern Standard time, the airship Norge was heard broadcasting the following: "Airship Norge bound Nome, Alaska, please stop any interference here by cannery station."

The above message was caught by a radio station of the United States navy on St. Paul Island, in Bering Sea. St. Paul Island is 550 miles South of Nome, where the Norge was expected at 11 o'clock, American Eastern Standard time, after a trip from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen Islands, Norway, over the North Pole, and past Point Barrow, Alaska. The Norge used 1,000 meter wave length and a tube transmitter. St. Paul Island, which is 900 miles West of here, tried vainly to establish communication with the Norge at that time.

S. at Paul Hears Plane
At 2:08 this morning, American Eastern Standard time, St. Paul heard the Norge ask: "Does anyone hear us?"

Two minutes later the Norge was calling Nome; after having tried to raise a station in Siberia. Then the Norge called a station whose name was not deciphered and said: "Go ahead."

Norge Awaits Norge
NOME, Alaska, May 12 (AP)—Nome stretched an anxious this morning after sleepless hours of preparation for the arrival here today of Captain Roald Amundsen in the dirigible Norge. The big airship was reported to be en route to Nome, the terminus of the first voyage across the Arctic from Europe to America.

Early this morning Alaskan radio stations reported that they heard signals from the Norge, the first they picked up since shortly before they crossed over the North Pole. The strength of the signals indicated that Amundsen had touched the bleak Alaskan coast and was proceeding Southwest towards Nome.

Amundsen, an intrepid Norwegian explorer, who first headed the call of unknown domains when still a youth, left Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, at 10 a. m. Monday, last time. The flight was to take between 50 and 60 hours.

conducted the general strike and announced its termination yesterday, accepted the wage and in a fighting fighting statement, declared the Trades Unions would resist to the utmost "any attempts to impose humiliating terms on the workers."

"Our resisting power is unimpaired," it asserted.

Throughout the country the unions and employers were deadlocked—the unions demanding unqualified reinstatement of the strikers and the employers declining to deal with them except on their own terms.

The Trade Union Congress, which placed the situation in the hands of the individual unions when it called off the general strike, was in a state of utmost anxiety as reports arrived from the provinces. It had in effect relinquished direct control of the situation. At reports piled in, however, the Trade Union Congress council intimated it might have to resume charge and asked the government to define its attitude toward the employers' condition.

Another Meeting Held
Then came another general meeting of the council, after which the Trade Union Congress headquarters issued its statement of warning.

Meanwhile, Premier Baldwin announced that the House of Commons would debate the strike situation at 6:00 o'clock this evening. The opinion was expressed in the lobby of the House that this was the outcome of a formal demand from the Laborites after a meeting of the Parliamentary Labor party.

Thus the battle which the country last night thought had been settled, continues.

Instead of the resumption of normal conditions, an announcement came from the government that the emergency food service would be maintained.

B. Malone, Dr. W. S. Ferguson, W. E. Lavender, A. B. Conley, 3rd, C. E. Calloway, J. R. Pendleton, C. A. Paulger, C. L. B. Martin, and L. C. Houston. Other members will be recruited as the club gains momentum.

The first Exchange club was formed in Detroit on April 11, 1921 by Chas. A. Berkey and a number of his friends and business associates. Before this official organization was completed many of these men had been meeting informally for the purpose of enjoying a hospitable luncheon hour and exchanging experiences, the meetings having started as far back as 1893. The club became known as the Boosters Club and gradually took on many of the attributes of the present day Service club. Four members of the original Boosters club are still members of the Exchange Club of Detroit.

First Convention in 1917
The first national convention was held in 1917 when plans were made for launching an extension program and from the nucleus of four clubs, Exchange has developed into a great national organization represented in every state in the Union.

It is the purpose of all Exchange clubs to work in unity for the betterment of business conditions and for the general good of communities in which they function. In a national way, the organization has been especially interested in the following problems:

Excessive law making, the back to school movement, Boy's work, juvenile court work, the teaching of Americanism, the control of cancer, the care of illegitimate mothers, and recreation and playground work.

The club functions in the interest of Exchange under direction of a national board of control composed of seventeen men who are from all parts of the country. The national club does not attempt to exert corrective power over activities of the local club.

Slogan "Unity For Service"
The slogan of the Exchange is "Unity For Service," and this means an unselfish service to humanity. The names of many prominent men may be found on the rolls, including the late President Harding, and President Calvin Coolidge who is a member at Pittsfield, Vt. In speaking of Exchange, President Coolidge said recently, "Organizations of this kind have, undoubtedly, been doing a useful service, but none along more patriotic lines than the Exchange club. As a member of the organization, and somewhat familiar with the excellent work it is doing, I feel that you have an opportunity for great usefulness."

Every Exchange club subscribes to and attempts to live up to the following motto: "Accepting the divine privilege of single and collective responsibility as life's noblest gift, I covenant with my fellow Exchangers: To consecrate by best energies to the uplifting of social, political and business ideals; To discharge the debt I owe to those of high and low estate who have served and sacrificed that the heritage of American citizenship might be mine; To honor and respect law, to serve my fellowman, and to uphold the ideals and institutions of my country; To implant the life-giving, society-building spirit of service and comradeship in my social and business relationships; To work in unity with those seeking better conditions, better understandings, and greater opportunities for service."

Thomas L. Bailey, of Meridian, Miss., speaker of the House of Representatives of his state, is National Exchange President, and Harold M. Hartner, of Toledo, Ohio, has been national secretary since the organization.

auditors at public expense is unnecessary. At this point the court called one of the auditors engaged in the work, who said that the audit would be completed within thirty days, and that then all records would be available to the public and all interested counsel on either side of the case. The audit has not been under way a little more than two months.

books would be trouble for all parties concerned, and would serve no good purpose either to the plaintiff or defendant.

He said that the audit now under way already had been the cause of the return of $2,500 into the city treasury as a result of over-payment to a certain company, and that due to irregularities in the records, it was necessary to check back two years. The present trouble, he said, grew largely out of an audit made last year by R. H. DeWitt that was incorrect and inaccurate, and it is known that Thos. Y. Pickett, who has been named to make the new audit by the court was a partner of DeWitt in 1922; that therefore the city considered Mr. Pickett as not a fair and unbiased auditor for the contemplated work.

Garrard Counters Plea
In countering to a plea from W. H. Bledsoe that the new audit is necessary at once for proper preparation of the case for hearing, Mr. Garrard said that he could see no reason for an audit at once; that the city is not trying to do the unreasonable thing, and is not trying to withhold the records from the public.

In a legal skirmish over the property of Mr. and Mrs. Germany that has been attached by the city as to the amount, counsel for the defendants charged that their client is helpless to defend himself as everything he has is tied up in the proceedings, even to his radio and piano, including his homestead. Countering to this, Mr. Garrard said that the city alleges in its petition that this property was bought by money that was taken from the city's funds.

Schenck Attacks Audit
W. F. Schenck, one of the counsel for the defendant attacked the audit now under way by the city, saying that it is not being done by certified public accountants as is required by state law and the city charter, and that the long time being consumed by the

Lynch Davidson 'Kids' Moody In Dallas Speech; Says Platform Of Opponent Is Modeled After His

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, May 13.—"Dan Moody has used enough Davidson's planks in his platform to entitle him to the whole-sale lumber discount," was Lynch Davidson's comment today on Moody's opening speech at Taylor. The Houston lumber man, who is a candidate for Governor, phrased his comment in the lighter vein.

"I am always glad to get a new customer and it looks like Dan is one of my best," he continued.

Davidson's metaphorical remark referred to certain planks in Moody's platform which the Houston man said he himself was first to advocate.

Raps Civil Service Stand
"Mr. Moody is for civil service," he said. "In my platform published months ago, I announced that by application of a civil service system to the State's affairs, the political pie counter would be largely eliminated."

"Dan Moody spends several thousand words on the need of longer rural school terms, which I covered by saying: 'The adoption of the county unit system in Texas will increase efficiency to the extent that the rural term may be lengthened from 20 to 25 percent.'"

"Other planks which Mr. Moody requests are re-drafting of the textbook law, no vituperation and mud-slinging in this campaign; State's right abuse of the pardon power, and less law making. But while complaining of too many laws, Mr. Moody devoted 10,000 words of his 12,000 word announcement to discussion of new laws."

"Honesty Signs" Assailed
Mr. Davidson said that it is "hardly necessary for Mr. Moody to rail so many honest signs on his platform. Honesty has been accepted as a principle of American government since 1776."

"Both my private and public life have stood the calcium light of a gubernatorial campaign," said Davidson, and Mr. Moody had the distinction of being first to question my honesty and integrity after nine opposed me in the previous race.

"The people are fixed in their determination to rid Texas of Fergusonism and I join in that common cause. I announced at the close of the last campaign that I would be a candidate against the Fergusonism. I later reiterated my opposition to them, and it was conceded that my candidacy would easily defeat them and that other auditors at public expense is unnecessary. At this point the court called one of the auditors engaged in the work, who said that the audit would be completed within thirty days, and that then all records would be available to the public and all interested counsel on either side of the case. The audit has not been under way a little more than two months.

Judge Makes Rule
After a cross-examination by counsel over the necessity of a new audit at this time, Judge Stewart ruled that there must be a necessity shown for such an audit, and that as far as he could see, this necessity does not now exist. After the audit is completed, and a report made, then counsel for either side will have an opportunity to attack same, and file necessary proceedings, the judge said. Counsel for the defendant countered to this with the remark that the necessity is now evident, as the city has filed on all the property under custody of the defendant, and that even though the filing is considered by them as premature, the city has elected to begin the proceedings, and that the defendant is entitled to recourse in his own defense.

entries would split the vote and muddy the waters. In the face of these facts, Mr. Moody entered the race to save Texas from Fergusonism, and the excuse given in his platform is that the announced candidates did not appreciate the 'gravity of honesty and integrity' in Government.

"Excuse" Is Scored
"His next excuse is the statement that I have branded as a mistake his efforts to compel road contractors to return unconscionable profits, having reference to my interview of last November. Here is an excerpt from that interview:

"The highest possible commendation is due the youthful Attorney General for his splendid zeal in behalf of the public interest."

"And this is why Mr. Moody, in order to 'save Texas from Fergusonism' enters the race and splits the anti-Ferguson vote.

"In his lengthy platform, Mr. Moody barely mentions our greatest problems, agriculture, fluctuations of cotton prices and greatest of all the monopoly ownership of our oil and mineral resources."
