Iraq gets stern warnings

Bush to meet with advisers

'I am confident we have the military capacity to carry out any orders we're given.'

— Dick Cheney

■ Scope of action, breadth of international support remain in question.

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The international standoff over Iraq's refusal to disclose records of its weapons programs edged closer to military confrontation Friday.

U.N. inspectors left Baghdad empty-handed, and the Bush administration nevertheless issued ominous-sounding warnings of military action against Baghdad throughout the day and strove to build a public case for an attack on Iraq should the standoff continue.

But both the scope of any action and the breadth of international support for it remained in question. Administration officials said they expected to press through the weekend at the United Nations for a consensus on a military response among the world's major powers.

AIDS meeting brings insights on epidemic

■ Conference ends with no breakthroughs on cure, treatments, vaccine.

By Daniel Q. Haney
Associated Press writer

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands — The largest gathering of AIDS experts ever ended Friday, having brought new insights into the magnitude of the worldwide epidemic but no breakthroughs on halting its deadly sweep.

Nothing approaching a cure — or even an effective treatment or vaccine — emerged during the weeklong meeting.

"There weren't many eurekas, but science is moving steadily," said Dr. June Osborn, head of the U.S. National Commission on AIDS.

The 12,000 participants had the opportunity to hear some 1,000 speeches and discussions on virtually every aspect of the disease, from novel combinations of drugs to the pace of viral mutations to the role of traditional healers in Africa.

But at this gathering, like at most medical meetings, the real work often occurred not in formal sessions but in the hallways, where experts who see each other only once a year shared ideas and concerns.

That was best illustrated by what

Bush to hecklers: 'Shut up, sit down'

By Cragg Hines
Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON — President Bush, in a brusque, impolitic outburst Friday before families of military personnel missing in Southeast Asia, told persistent hecklers to "please shut up and sit down."

Bush, appearing before the National League of Families of American MIAs-POWs in Southeast Asia, quit speaking for five minutes during the uproar and quarreled with a leader of the group, who the president apparently accused of setting him up for the raucous scene.

At the heart of the dispute is whether the government has withheld information about the some 2,200 prisoners of war or soldiers missing in action since the war in Vietnam.

"I did not blow my cool," Bush said later. "I just made an emphatic point."

But Bush was clearly perturbed by the heckling, which began about five minutes into his speech to the group in a hotel in suburban Virginia.

After one woman in the audience rose and began shouting, "Mr. President, Mr. President," about 100 other people in the audience stood and chanted, "No more lies" and similar slogans. Some people in

Consumers find few interest rate breaks

NEW YORK (AP) — There are few breaks for consumers at the nation's banks these days: While interest paid on savings and certificates of deposit is falling fast, rates on credit cards and loans are dropping slowly — if at all.

"You can see how the consumer's getting shafted," said Robert Heady, publisher of Bank Rate Monitor, a North Palm Beach, Fla., newsletter that tracks consumer rates.

FAA investigation of crash continues

■ It will be six months to a year before cause is known, officials say.

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

The cockpit — a mass of twisted aluminum and wire — was among the wreckage scattered from the Piper 1981 Warrior that crashed in a grove of trees in east Midland Thursday.

One wing of the Warrior, flown by a Midland pilot and businessman, Thursday, apparently touched the ground first before the single-engine aircraft cartwheeled and broke apart, according to Federal Aviation Administration officials.

David Grant King, 57, was pronounced dead at the scene, following the 12:45 p.m. crash in a weedy, tree-filled lot at 3100 N. Fairgrounds Road.

"One thing we all agree — from the evidence we see here — is that the right wing hit the ground first and then the plane cartwheeled," said J. Lamont Williford,

TU Electric fines

ARLINGTON — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Friday fined TU Electric $125,000 for 12 apparent violations during a cooling system malfunction at the Comanche Peak power plant. The violations occurred on May 12, when there was a 17-hour loss of cooling in a chamber used to store spent uranium rods at Comanche Peak's Unit 1, said NRC spokesman Joe Gilliland. TU has 30 days to pay the civil penalty or lodge a protest, Gilliland said. If a protest is denied, the company may ask for a hearing. While the cooling system was inoperative, temperatures in the spent fuel pool increased six degrees, but plant workers were never in danger, officials said. The fine is based on findings of a special NRC inspection of circumstances around the incident, Gilliland said.

Navy aviator's plea

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — A Navy aviator's plea to stay in the Navy after he challenged the military's policy banning homosexuals was rejected Friday by an administrative board, which recommended his discharge. After two hours of deliberations, the board of inquiry voted 3-0 to recommend an honorable discharge for Lt. j.g. Tracy Thorne, said the panel's presiding officer, Capt. John A. Seddon Jr. The board wasn't swayed by Thorne's emotional testimony./5C

Murphy and Joseph Kolter of Pennsylvania announced their intentions in a letter in which they accused U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens of conducting an "overall fishing expedition in an election year."/5C

Midland girl dies in accident

REAGAN COUNTY — A 5-year-old Midland girl was killed late Thursday when the pickup she was riding in rolled over on Texas Highway 137, 31 miles north of Big Lake.

Lisette Perez of 4808 Bedford was pronounced dead at the scene by Reagan County Justice of the Peace Fay Noble late Thursday following the 10:25 p.m. accident, according to Department of Public Safety reports.

She was not wearing a seatbelt and was thrown from the vehicle, DPS reported.

She was riding in a 1972 Chevrolet pickup driven by her mother, Maria Perez, 31, of Midland. Ms. Perez was towing a 1977 Lincoln sedan behind the pickup.

The Lincoln broke loose, causing Ms. Perez to lose control of the truck, which rolled a time and a half in the ditch, coming to rest on its roof, reports said.

Ms. Perez and her other daughter, 10-year-old Elida Perez, were both transported to Reagan County Memorial Hospital in Big Lake, in stable condition with cuts and fractures. Both were released on Friday, hospital officials said.

The older daughter was wearing her seatbelt, DPS said.

Fire destroys tank, truck in Andrews

Staff report

ANDREWS — An oil transport truck and a fiberglass storage tank were destroyed and power lines were burned at noon Friday in a fire at R&K Oil Co. in Andrews, according to Capt. Paul Williams of the Andrews Volunteer Fire Department.

"There was a real large ground fire from what came out of the tanks," Williams said.

Four fire-fighting units and a rescue trucks were dispatched to the fire in southwest Andrews, Williams said.

No one was injured in the fire.

Fire Chief Tim Boren and Williams said Friday night that cause of the fire has not been determined.

Firemen used water and foam to combat the fire that took about an hour to contain and put out, Williams said.

"We were real lucky" the fire didn't spread, Williams said.

Correction

BALTIMORE (AP) — In a story Thursday about jury awards in the nation's largest asbestos trial, The Associated Press reported erroneously that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency banned most remaining uses of asbestos in 1989.

The EPA issued a regulation that would have banned most remaining uses of asbestos by 1996, but a federal appeals court overturned the rule in 1991.

BUSH: President tells hecklers to 'shut up, sit down'

(From 1A)

the audience held up pictures of missing family members.

"I can't talk in here," Bush said as the din continued.

Bush appeared to be in no physical danger, but Secret Service personnel moved to stand obviously between Bush and the audience.

During the five-minute pause in his speech, Bush spoke agitatedly to Jeff Donahue, a board member of the families' group, who was on the dais. Bush pointed his finger at Donahue, who was overheard by a television technician telling Bush to tell the truth. Bush in return asked if Donahue, whose brother has been missing since 1968, was calling him a liar.

Near the end of his remarks, Bush said Donahue urged him to "go over there and bring them back."

"Do you think if I knew of one single person and where he is and how it was that I wouldn't do that?' Bush said. "Of course, I'd do that."

When he first turned back to the audience, Bush offered a strong, personal defense of his patriotism.

"I will put my record up against anybody here," said Bush, who was shot down as a Navy flyer in the Pacific during World War II.

When another heckler started up, Bush shot back: "Would you please be quiet and let me finish? Would you please shut up and sit down?" Some in the audience applauded the president and urged the demonstrators to allow Bush to continue with his remarks uninterrupted.

"To suggest that the commander-in-chief that led this country into its most successful recent effort would condone for one single day the personal knowledge of a person held against his will, whether it's here or anyplace else, is simply totally unfair," Bush said, referring to the Persian Gulf War.

"I do not like the suggestion that any American anywhere would know of a live American being held somewhere against his will ... anywhere," Bush said.

The president then made a direct reference to the theory that the Reagan-Bush campaign sought to have release of the U.S. hostages in Iran delayed until after the 1980 election.

"The suggestion was made that we left people being prisoner in Iran to win an election," said Bush, who has repeatedly denied any participation in or knowledge of such an operation. "Now, what kind of an allegation is that to make against a patriot?"

In concluding his remarks, Bush said:

"All I'm here to say is I am the president and I am the commander-in-chief. Some of you believe it, and some of you may not. But we are going to get this job done, and we're going to account for every single person who is missing. And I'm going to keep on it."

Bush's testy comments to the hecklers were broadcast repeatedly during the day and caught on quickly with opponents. At mid-afternoon in Columbia, Mo., one demonstrator at a Bush campaign stop lofted a sign reading: "Shut up and sit down!!!!"

During another stop in Ohio, Bush called the heckling "an organized demonstration.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Clouds cap afternoon heat

Staff report

Low clouds this morning and scattered clouds this afternoon will help keep today's peak temperatures corralled in the lower 90s.

Meanwhile, winds are to be southeasterly at 10 to 20 mph, according to forecasters with the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

The low temperature tonight is expected in the upper 60s.

Sunday is to be partly cloudy with a high in the mid-90s.

Friday's peak temperature was 91 degrees, and the overnight low was 69 degrees.

The record high temperature for July 24 is 103 degrees in 1958. The record low for July 25 is 62 degrees in 1976.

STATE

Scattered showers and thunderstorms moved inland Friday from the Gulf of Mexico while a high-pressure system kept rainfall away from North Texas.

Other storms developed over parts of the Southwest Texas mountains. Isolated showers fell across parts of the lower Rio Grande Valley. Otherwise, skies were mostly sunny over western and northern regions.

Afternoon temperatures ranged from the 80s to 90s statewide, with 83 degrees at Port Aransas, Marfa and Guadalupe Pass. The warmest reading was 99 degrees at Harlingen.

Winds were generally southerly to southeasterly from 10 to 20 mph across South and West Texas, with light and variable breezes were the rule across eastern and northern sections.

NATION

Showers and thunderstorms were scattered from the Plains to the East Coast on Friday, and unusually low temperatures prevailed across the northern tier of states.

Showers and thunderstorms developing along a slowly moving cold front were scattered from Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee eastward to the Atlantic coast during the afternoon.

Thunderstorms over east-central Ohio produced high wind gusts that downed trees and power lines near Millersburg, the National Weather Service said.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

WARN: Standoff increases chance of military action

(From 1A)

In New York, a senior U.N. official, Rolf Ekeus, appeared pessimistic as five members of the inspection team flew out of Baghdad on Friday. Their departure for Bahrain ended an 18-day effort by U.N. officials to enter an Agriculture Ministry building where Iraq is suspected of hiding records on its ballistic missile and chemical weapons programs.

"We cannot accept that this matter drags on indefinitely," Ekeus said. "The time component is now so slender for everyone."

Similar stern but imprecise warnings came from Gen. Colin L. Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Marlin Fitzwater, President Bush's press secretary.

In Atlanta, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney told a business group that Saddam Hussein "is once again seeking confrontation with the rest of the world. ... He does so at his own peril," the Associated Press reported.

"I am confident we have the military capacity to carry out any orders we're given," he said. "In the end, I do not believe Saddam Hussein has any choice but to comply with the United Nations' resolutions."

Under a U.N. resolution that ended the 1991 war in the Persian Gulf, Iraq is ordered to grant U.N. inspectors unconditional access to all records of its efforts to build missiles, nuclear bombs and other weapons of mass destruction.

Iraq has regularly balked at the resolution, and argued in its latest refusal that the international inspectors were spies who were seeking to enter a civilian building, not a military one. Negotiations between Ekeus and the Iraqis to gain access to the building have so far been fruitless.

Friday afternoon, Iraq's delegate to the United Nations, Abdul Amir Anbari, said in New York that Baghdad appeared ready to provide a "very positive" response in those negotiations this morning.

Bush, campaigning in Ohio and Missouri at midday, canceled a planned weekend at his Maine home and ordered his national security aides to Camp David for a review today of his military options.

Fitzwater said Bush would meet this morning with his national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft; Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence S. Eagleburger, Cheney and Powell. Secretary of State James A. Baker III is in Manila this weekend, attending a meeting of Asian nations.

Bush said he had acted at the behest of Scowcroft, "to be sure we have every opportunity that's available to the United States on the table and discussed."

Traveling with Bush, Fitzwater said Friday that the White House continued to see "a pattern of defiance" in Iraq by President Saddam Hussein and his government to the U.N. resolutions.

"The pattern of defiance and the widespread nature of the violation of the resolutions suggest this may be a more difficult situation, and we are prepared to act accordingly to enforce the resolutions," Fitzwater said.

And Powell warned Saddam that the United States would not restrain itself should a decision to use force be made.

"It will be our rules, not his," he said at the residence of the French ambassador to the United States, where he was being awarded the French Legion of Honor. His French counterpart at the reception, Adm. Jacques Lanxade, added that the French military was prepared to do what the politicians ask.

The United States, Britain and France favor giving Iraq an ultimatum to surrender its weapons files or face armed punishment. But a senior administration official said Friday evening that it was still unclear whether such an ultimatum could gain the assent of all five permanent members of the Security Council.

The Western allies would prefer to gain some formal Security Council backing, such as a written ultimatum, before beginning a new military campaign against Saddam.

But they also maintain that current U.N. resolutions already authorize military action, and talks in the Security Council this weekend are aimed more at gauging support for a range of military options than at securing a blank check for an armed response.

"That's a very fluid process," the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said of the U.N. talks. "You work in concentric circles, and you just see how far you can get. Everything is on the table, from a very narrow response to a very broad one."

The United States, frustrated for nearly 18 months by Saddam's ability to stay in power and even taunt his enemies, clearly favors a broad one. Powell called Iraq's defiance of U.N. inspectors "symptomatic of a broader pattern of behavior," and others implied that an allied strike at Iraq would hit a variety of targets as a result.

But even as Washington and its allies turned up the pressure on Saddam, there were signs of some cracks in the international will to use military pressure to force Iraq into compliance with the U.N. mandate.

It was unclear how long Washington and its allies were prepared to wait for Iraqi compliance before beginning military action.

STARTS: Chamber's annual Mex-Tex festival kicks off

MHCC president Elvia Hernandez.

Nearly 70 food, arts and crafts, and game booths are expected to be open during the festival.

Preliminary competition in Senorita Hispana del Permian Basin scholarship pageant begins at 11 a.m., with the traditional costume judging. Swimsuit and other competitions are set for today, with contestant interviews and the finals on Sunday.

Antique and vintage cars will be on display Sunday from noon until 7 p.m.

A full slate of entertainment is scheduled both days, including Tejano, country and western and tropical music. Mariachis from Eastwood High School in El Paso and from Odessa also are scheduled to perform.

Batman, Juice the Moose and Pepe the Chaparral are expected to entertain young festival-goers.

The Silver Bullet Games, sponsored by Permian Distributing, will include egg toss, washer toss, weightlifting, mud wrestling and tug-of-war competition. A four-on-four men's sand volleyball tournament benefitting the M-CLASS at Midland College runs both days.

Cookoff admission is $2, with children under 12 free.

The Twin Cities Speedway grounds are located on Coors Road between U.S. 80 and Interstate 20, just west of Midland International Airport.

BANKS: Gap of savings, credit rates remains wide

(From 1A)

Banks have been dropping their rates on savings accounts in response to steady interest rate cuts by the Federal Reserve.

Money market bank accounts yielded an average of 3.13 percent this week, while checking accounts paid only 2.48 percent, Bank Rate Monitor reported. Six-month certificates of deposit yielded 3.38 percent.

"These are some of the lowest rates since the Great Depression," Heady said.

Since interest rates peaked in April 1989, money market rates have declined 3.49 percent. Interest-bearing accounts have fallen 2.65 percent, and six-month CDs receded 5.96 percent during the same period, Heady said.

Some consumer loan rates have also come down. According to Bank Rate Monitor, 30-year mortgages fell to 7.98 percent this week and new car loans are down 2.73 percent to 9.81 percent.

But other consumer loan rates are still high. Unsecured personal loans have fallen just .72 percent since 1989 to 16.28 percent.

The average rate on conventional credit-card loans has increased .36 percent since 1989, to 18.09 percent.

This trend has been a boon for banks, many of which reported improved earnings in the second quarter.

But the banks should be able to make up for several lean years, argues James Chessen, chief economist at the American Bankers Association.

And Virginia Stafford, an ABA spokeswoman, said credit-card rates are high because the costs associated with the cards, including heavy advertising, remain high.

The number of people who default on credit card bills, although declining, is also high, Stafford said.

But Robert McKinley, president of Ram Research in Frederick, Md., which publishes credit card newsletters, said the cards represent 40 to 45 percent of the industry's profits.

Industry analysts said it is just a matter of time before the difference between savings rates and loan rates begins to contract, but nothing short of a full economic recovery is required.

"The recession's not over yet," Stafford said.

AIDS: Conference sheds no light on disease cure

(From 1A)

turned out to be the major topic of conversation: the possible emergence of a form of AIDS not caused by HIV, the AIDS virus.

At the start of the week, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control declared those mysterious cases to be of little importance because they were so rare. But doctor after doctor came forward to describe similar cases, and word spread of a possible new virus that might be causing the illnesses.

By week's end, AIDS officials had recognized the phenomenon as a potential threat that deserved quick, aggressive investigation.

Dr. Michael Merson, chief of AIDS control at the World Health Organization, said such "crystallization of international awareness" is what makes international conferences invaluable.

Some participants, however, seemed to resent the intense publicity given to the new outbreak, which drew attention away from other topics at the meeting. In comments at the closing session, Dr. Max Essex of Harvard said the affair had been blown out of proportion.

"The data presented so far have been so vastly overinterpreted that there is no clear evidence of such a virus, and even if there is a virus it is not a primary cause of AIDS," Essex said.

Much of the meeting focused on the fast spread of acquired immune deficiency syndrome around the world. Ten million or more people are estimated to be infected, and 80 percent of those now contracting the virus live in the world's poorest regions, largely in Africa and Asia.

"The most pressing task is to protect the hundreds of millions of youngsters around the world now approaching the age of vulnerability to HIV," said Merson.

Experts at the meeting agreed two key elements to stopping the spread of AIDS are promoting condom use, and preventing and treating sexually transmitted diseases.

Herpes, gonorrhea and other genital diseases cause sores that allow the AIDS virus to get into the bloodstream. One study found that such diseases were associated with 90 percent of AIDS infections in parts of Africa.

Some delegates questioned, however, whether simple condom and treatment programs could stop the epidemic without addressing such issues as poverty, discrimination and male sexual domination of women.

"We don't discuss the most threatening issues to people in Africa, which are malnutrition, lack of shelter, lack of basic antibiotics necessary to combat opportunistic infections," said Maxwell Mudariki, an HIV-infected participant from Zimbabwe.

Many at the conference believe prevention, not treatment, will be the only way to control the epidemic.

AIDS drugs developed so far slow the disease but do not cure it. And at prices that can total several thousand dollars a week, they are too expensive for the world's poor.

Experts hope to begin testing an AIDS vaccine in the next two to three years, although some doubt the dozen vaccines now being studied will provide total protection against infection.

CRASH: FAA continues investigation

(From 1A)

FAA prevention program manager for the Lubbock district office.

"What caused the plane to go down, we have no idea," he said.

Another FAA inspector at the site said several witnesses in the vicinity — including witnesses from Ranchland Hills Golf Course located across the street from the crash — said King "waved at them and rocked the plane and waved with his wings. Not an unusual practice for a pilot."

Carl Rodgers, airport division fire chief, said the official expected to arrive in Midland from the Fort Worth regional office of the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) canceled the trip because of a helicopter crash in another county.

'It may be six months to a year before we have any answers.'

— Carl Rodgers

"It may be six months to a year before we have any answers," Rodgers said. "We have videotaped and documented all of the evidence. It will be picked up and sent to a NTSB lab in Fort Worth."

FAA safety inspector Mike Jordan said the scene will be recreated in a hangar.

"They will lay it back out like it was here and try to figure out how it happened and the chain of events," Rodgers said.

Williford said some witnesses said they heard King's engine "rev up," possibly in response to people waving from the ground, when he flew overhead.

Although some witnesses thought they heard the Piper's engine stall, others said the engine sounded fine right up to the point of impact.

"It's all just speculation at this point," Rodgers said.

Williford said King's body had been sent to Fort Worth for autopsy.

Husband hires two people to kill wife

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A restaurant owner and his brother have been charged with hiring two people to kill the man's wife, who was shot to death in what first was reported as a random attack.

Michael Rodriguez, 29, and his brother, Mark Rodriguez, 18, were arrested Thursday, nine days after Michael Rodriguez's wife, 29-year-old Theresa Rodriguez, was killed.

The men were charged with capital murder and were being held in the Bexar County Jail in lieu of $250,000 bond each.

Michael Rodriguez owns the Taco House restaurant in San Antonio.

Two other men — Rolando Ruiz, 20, and Joe Ramon, 19 — also were arrested on capital murder charges and were being held in lieu of $100,000 bond each, authorities said.

The Rodriguez brothers told police Mrs. Rodriguez was shot after they were accosted by two men who demanded her purse.

Police homicide Lt. Larry Birney said the husband was not very cooperative with officers investigating the killing.

"Generally speaking when people have this kind of incident in their lives, they are very cooperative with police," Birney said. "They want the crime to be solved. That did not appear to be the case."

Police allege Mrs. Rodriguez was slain by two men who took their girlfriends with them. They said the men were to be paid $2,000, including $1,000 up front and the rest after the slaying.

The two women reportedly came forward and told authorities they had been with the men who did the shooting. The women could collect a $50,000 reward, officials said.

Investigators said the slaying may have been arranged to collect some money. But as the brothers were led into the police station Thursday, they denied collecting any insurance money.

"I've gotten nothing," Michael Rodriguez told reporters.

He also said, "I have no idea, sir," when asked if he knew anyone who might have killed his wife.

An affidavit accompanying the arrest warrant said Ruiz and Ramon and the two women gave statements to police. The affidavit says the two men and two women followed Michael Rodriguez, his wife and brother as they drove home from a theater.

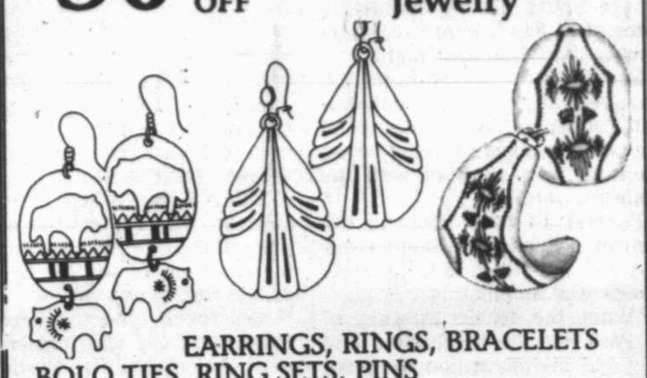

It alleges Ramon and Ruiz got out of their car and talked with the Rodriguez brothers in the driveway while Mrs. Rodriguez remained in the car.

Ramon told police he heard Mark Rodriguez ask Ruiz if he was "going to take care of it."

The affidavit quotes Ruiz as telling police that Mark Rodriguez said: "Do it."

With his wife sitting next to him, Michael Rodriguez drove the car into the garage, the affidavit states. When Mrs. Rodriguez stepped from the car, Ruiz shot her in the head, the affidavit says.

Police: Man kills grandmother in order to collect inheritance

DALLAS (AP) — A man charged with clubbing to death and dismembering his 83-year-old grandmother believed he would benefit from the woman's will, police investigators say.

Authorities are still looking for the remains of Emily Hardin Simmons, whose body was cut up with knives and hacksaws and placed in garbage bags last week, Detective Maria Espinoza testified at a pretrial hearing Thursday.

Ms. Simmons' grandson, Keith Nickerson, was arrested on July 15 while driving the woman's cherished blue 1988 Cadillac about 10 blocks from her south Dallas house.

Nickerson and a friend, John Elton Crawford, have been charged with capital murder in the slaying. Prosecutors say they will seek the death penalty for both 18-year-old suspects.

Espinoza said both men have admitted to killing and "admitted to striking the victim." She said Nickerson gave two confessions, the second a more detailed description of what happened at the house.

Crawford indicated that Nickerson believed he would profit from the proceeds of his grandmother's will, Espinoza testified. After the hearing, the detective declined to elaborate about how Nickerson thought he would benefit.

County Criminal Court Judge Phil Barker ordered that both men be tried and increased their bail to $1 million each.

Ms. Simmons was last seen alive on July 13. Police were called to her house the next evening after relatives found her doors locked and her car gone.

When Nickerson's daughter, Debra Simmons, saw the bloodied bedroom where her mother apparently died, she immediately feared her son was responsible, Espinoza said.

The detective quoted Debra Simmons as saying, "He was always after that Cadillac."

Espinoza said Crawford's confession explained that the youths used hacksaws and knives to dismember Ms. Simmons. Police found the weapons in the woman's house and in Crawford's garage, where he told them to look.

The club believed to have been used has not been found, officials said.

The bags containing Ms. Simmons' body parts were placed in a trash bin in north Dallas, police said. No remains were found in the trash bin or in a landfill where waste in the bin is dumped.

Trial humiliates high-profile El Pasoans

MIDLAND (AP) — Some former defendants in an insurance theft conspiracy case said being acquitted doesn't erase the humiliation of being put on trial.

Federal jurors deliberated nearly six hours before acquitting some of El Paso's most prominent citizens late Thursday night.

Some of the defendants exchanged hugs and handshakes with attorneys, while others let out audible sighs of relief when their names were read with the innocent verdict.

Former El Paso Electric Co. chairman Evern Wall said he was relieved, but added that the experience was humiliating.

"When the district attorney of El Paso had me handcuffed and they put my picture on the front page of the El Paso Times, I don't think I'll ever recover from that," Wall said.

Wall was one of seven El Paso business executive and attorneys and four corporations indicted in June 1991. They were accused of conspiring to steal millions from buyers of insurance annuities in a six-year fraud scheme.

'It's hard to represent an innocent person and be so scared the system won't work for you.'

—Stephen Edwards, Bostic's attorney

Maury Kemp, whose crumbled financial empire was the centerpiece of the case, said the acquittal means, "Tomorrow is the first day of the rest of my life."

Also found innocent were Tad Smith, attorney and former state GOP chairman; Billye Bostic, former El Paso Electric executive; attorney Leighton Green; businessman David Suter and attorney Richard Burgess Perrenot.

The corporations acquitted were El Paso Electric; Kemp, Smith, Duncan & Hammond, El Paso's largest law firm; Franklin Land and Resources, a former El Paso Electric subsidiary, First Financial, A Savings Association and Triangle Electric Supply Co.

Kemp still faces civil lawsuits filed by investors in annuities a former Kemp-owned life insurance company sold. He also is appealing a federal check-kiting conviction, which carries a 40-month sentence.

"I have many obstacles, but this was the greatest one and it's over and now I can start my life again," Kemp said.

Prosecutors presented nearly eight days of testimony trying to prove that the defendants used Kemp's insurance company, First Service Life, as a cash register, taking money when they needed it.

But defense attorneys spent six hours telling jurors that the charges were never proven and should never have been brought. They were so confident of an acquittal, they never called a single witness, relying solely on closing arguments.

"It's hard to represent an innocent person and be so scared the system won't work for you," said Stephen Edwards, Bostic's attorney.

Prosecutor Andrew Thomas had urged the jurors to convict the defendants, saying if they didn't the defendants would become more brazen.

Father admits guilt in glass baby food case

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 22-year-old man has been sentenced to eight years in prison after admitting he fed glass-laced food to his 4-month-old son.

Michael Mahaffey pleaded guilty to causing bodily injury to a child and an unrelated charge of burglary of a habitation.

His son, Michael Don, began coughing up glass after a Jan. 2 feeding in his parent's apartment in the Fort Worth suburb of North Richland Hills, police said.

After his arrest in April, Mahaffey later appeared with the boy's mother, Cheryl Lloyd of Bedford, and said the baby food products were contaminated with glass.

Technology may revive telescope

■ Astronomer thinks Pentagon laser research can be applied to bring Mount Wilson's Hooker telescope out of retirement.

By Keith Stone
N.Y. Times News Service

MOUNT WILSON, Calif. — Using a 75-year-old telescope made of French wine bottle glass, former National Aeronautics and Space Administration astronomer Robert Jastrow hopes to search for secrets at the edges of the galaxy, 600,000 trillion miles away.

He plans to peer through the same six-story telescope on Mount Wilson that astronomer Edwin Hubble used in 1929 to show that the universe was born with a cataclysmic explosion now known as the "Big Bang."

Now, more than 60 years later, Jastrow hopes to use technology derived from Pentagon laser research to take the historic telescope out of retirement, chart space with new clarity — and return Mount Wilson to the forefront of astronomy.

"In 1609, Galileo put two lenses together to make the first telescope. This is the biggest thing that has happened in astronomy since," said Jastrow, who founded NASA's Goddard Institute for Space Studies.

By harnessing new technology called "adaptive optics," the Mount Wilson telescope could overcome distortion caused by the earth's atmosphere and produce images as if it were orbiting in space, Jastrow said.

It would be able to focus on objects as far as 600,000 trillion miles away — the distance traveled during 100 trillion round trips between Los Angeles and New York City, he said.

'If we could get the 100-inch open with adaptive optics in the next year or two, it will do things that no other telescope will do.'

— Astronomer Robert Jastrow

Broken down in more earthly terms, the Mount Wilson telescope pointed toward New York City could distinguish as separate two tractor-trailer trucks parked just 20 feet apart, the astronomer said.

Officially named the Hooker Reflector after philanthropist John Hooker, the telescope was the cradle of astronomy for many years, drawing visits from Albert Einstein and other prominent scientists. But in 1948, a telescope with a 200-inch-wide mirror was built on Mount Palomar, pushing the the 100-inch Hooker to a subordinate role.

In 1985, astronomers retired the Hooker so they could refocus their money and attention on more advanced telescopes being built 7,300 feet up in the Chilean Andes. They chose the Andes, in part, because the peaks were free from the city lights that had made faint stars increasingly difficult to view from Mount Wilson.

Now, Jastrow believes that by spending $450,000 or less, the Hooker could enlist adaptive optics to once again surpass other land-based telescopes and produce world-class images.

"If we could get the 100-inch open with adaptive optics in the next year or two, it will do things that no other telescope will do," he said.

In fact, Jastrow says he believes the telescope will generate images as sharp as those produced by the space telescope that carries Hubble's name — and cost $1.5 billion to build.

Rejuvenating the Hooker will be relatively easy, requiring a $250,000 overhaul of its electrical system and work on its bearings, Jastrow said. An adaptive optics setup would cost $200,000 or one might be transferred from a smaller telescope on Mount Wilson, he said.

Jastrow, head of the Mount Wilson Institute, which manages the observatory and other research on the mountain, hopes to raise money through contributions from businesses, researchers and other donors.

"Mount Wilson is a jewel in the crown of Southern California because not only does it have a distinguished past — but it has a great future," the astronomer said.

While astronomers say they support revitalizing Mount Wilson, some are reluctant to accept predictions of what the Hooker and adaptive optics could accomplish.

"I'm skeptical because I've heard these claims over and over," said Ray Villard, spokesman for the Space Telescope Science Institute, which directs the Hubble project.

Pierre Bely, telescope engineer at the Space Telescope Science Institute, said that the Hooker telescope could rival — but not surpass — Hubble's abilities. Even so, he said the Hooker should be recommissioned with the new technology.

"For sure, it is the salvaging thing for Mount Wilson," Bely said. "It is just sitting there doing nothing, but this is a nice way of using it."

Angels put clip job on Drillers

■ Midland continues its cut-above brand of baseball at Angels Stadium with a 7-2 win over the Tulsa Drillers.

By Bill Price
Staff writer

To avoid the obvious cliche, and to keep a stampede of hairstylists from storming the gates at Angels Stadium, we will not say that the Midland Angels are "gelling."

If they really were, the infield would be a mess.

Nor will we say they are beginning to "play as a team," or that they are "taking them one game at a time."

But you know what? Midland is playing solid baseball in the second half of the Texas League schedule and is 18-13 since mid-season.

Angel starting pitcher Paul Swingle threw eight strong innings and struck out 10 as the Angels won a battle of division leaders, 7-2 over the Tulsa Drillers.

The Angels, the present kings of the TL West hill, were led offensively by Jeff Kipila's three-run home run — a "super cut" if you will — that put them ahead for good in the fifth inning. The homer was Kipila's 20th of the year, adding to his league-leading total.

Throw in a solo shot by J.R. Phillips, his 12th home run of the season, and a three-hit game by designated hitter Terry Taylor and you have plenty of offense to back Swingle and reliever Don Vidmar, who struck out all three batters he faced in the ninth inning.

But the main attraction Friday was the right-handed Swingle, who improved his record to 7-8 after missing his last two starts because of a sore ring finger on his throwing hand.

"I haven't thrown off the hill in 13 days because of the finger. I guess the rest did help, but warming up I didn't feel I had command of my pitches," said the 25-year-old Swingle, rated as one of the brighter spots in the Angels' farm system.

"Fausto (catcher Fausto Tejero) kept throwing the fingers down and I kept throwing what he called — in and out, a breaking ball here, a fast ball there. It worked well."

Though he got off to a slow start by giving up one run each in the first and third innings, including a solo homer by Rusty Greer, Swingle (7-8) shut the Drillers out in his last five frames and didn't walk a batter until he had two outs in the eighth.

The Midland batters, meanwhile, went down in order the first two innings before beginning to get a read on Tulsa starter Chris Gies.

Fridge on the block

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — The Chicago Bears put defensive tackle William "Refrigerator" Perry on the trading block at his request on Friday.

Perry requested through his agent, Jim Steiner, that the team try to deal him to another NFL club because contract talks are at an impasse, player personnel director Bill Tobin said.

Tobin said the Bears would be looking for a 1993 second-round draft pick as compensation for Perry, one of the stars of Super Bowl XX, when he was used as a running back and ran for a one-yard touchdown.

Magic, execs feud

BOSTON (AP) — Converse Inc., stung by Magic Johnson's complaints that its shoe marketing strategies were behind the times, said Friday its star endorsement figure was out for one thing, money.

"Let's be honest with ourselves, what this issue is all about is personal financial gain by Magic Johnson, from a source other than Converse," said Gib Ford, president of the company.

On Wednesday, Johnson said he was ending his 12-year association with Converse after the Olympics, saying he had long been unhappy with its advertising.

"Converse is still living in the 1960s and '70s," Johnson had said after a Team USA practice in Monte Carlo.

■ Faye Vincent grants George Steinbrenner a full reprieve, and will allow the Yankees' owner to return to complete control of his Bronx-based team by next March.

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Boss is coming back, and in this case it isn't Bruce Springsteen.

Steinbrenner

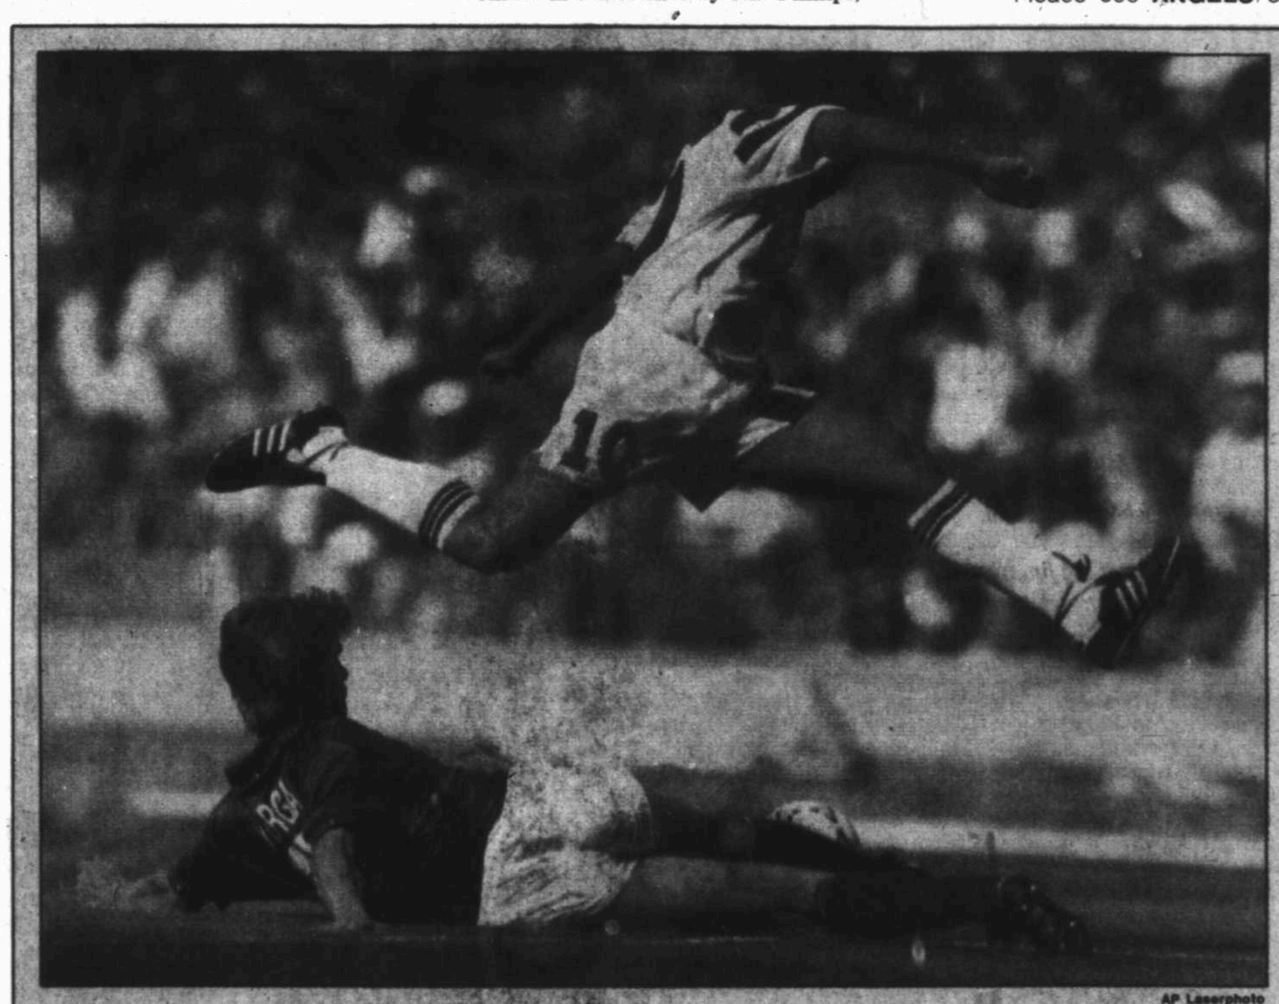

Just a few hours after Springsteen opened his United States tour with a New York-area concert, commissioner Fay Vincent announced Friday that George Steinbrenner can return to active control of the New York Yankees on March 1.

Until then, Steinbrenner still can't have anything to do with the team's day-to-day business. But after that, all the restrictions he agreed to on July 30, 1990, will be recinded.

"After March 1, our intention is for Mr. Steinbrenner to be able to operate the Yankees ... consistent with the way every other owner operates his franchise," deputy commissioner Stephen Greenberg said.

Vincent was prepared to suspend Steinbrenner for two years following an investigation of Steinbrenner's dealings

U.S. soccer opens with loss

BARCELONA, Spain — Not yet. Yet, not so far away.

Ever since it qualified for the Olympics, the U.S. under-23 soccer team has believed and bragged it could handle any similar team. That's pretty much what the Americans did Friday against Italy in the opening event of the Barcelona Games. At least for the final 60 minutes.

But Italy's two early goals while the Americans were struggling to get going were enough for the tournament favorites, who held on to win 2-1.

In other first-round games played even before the opening ceremonies, Spain routed Colombia 4-0; Poland beat Kuwait 2-0; and Qatar edged Egypt 1-0.

"I'm happy, but I'm sad," midfielder Mike Huwiler said after a U.S.-Italy game ended as usual — with the Americans not winning. No U.S. team ever has beaten Italy. "Italy

At least your bad golf can look good

CLOUDCROFT, N.M. — One of the only good things about being a bad golfer is that when you get a chance to play a really beautiful golf course, you have all that much more time to take in the scenery.

Patterson

You can, in fact, take so much time digging through bushes and trees looking for lost balls, it's entirely possible to feel a sort of kindred spirit as you get up close and personal with Mother Nature.

A little time off recently allowed my wife and I to load up the old jalopy and head to the cool mountain air in New Mexico last weekend. You may be familiar with Cloudcroft, a little burg which comes complete with one of the most elegant nine-hole courses this side of heaven.

And with the temperature hovering at a cool 52 degrees last Saturday at 5:30 p.m., the weather was highly cooperative, as well. Fifty-two degrees might sound a bit cool, but compared to the heat here, it was a nice break.

Before looking at the courses in Cloudcroft, a couple worth mentioning in Ruidoso are The Inn of the Mountain Gods and The Links at Sierra Blanca. Although it is ofttimes necessary to request financing to merely walk onto the sacrosanct greens at The Inn, it is by and large the area's most beautiful course. Anyone who's played there needs no convincing.

One of the newer courses in Ruidoso is The Links. By its name, the course obviously differs from The Inn. Imagining a British links course in the middle of the New Mexico mountains is a bit difficult, but there it is. The course is under the direction of former Green Tree Country Club assistant Michael Spradlin, and offers a bit of variety from the standard fare.

In Cloudcroft, the course at The Lodge is built into the side of the Sacramento Mountains. It can be mentally tough to play here, since it can be tempting to just forget golf (easy for some of us) while merely taking in the scenery.

The two most scenic holes at The Lodge would most definitely have to be No. 1 and No. 5. Both are off the sides of mountains and play quite a bit shorter than their listed lengths.

The first hole is The Lodge's trademark hole, the one in all the travel brochures.

Although listed at 251 yards, the green can be driven with relative ease by iron. Only problem is that stinkin' tree that blocks the view of the green.

The fifth hole is a blind shot that comes complete with a video camera adjacent to the tee box, allowing you to view whether the group in front is on the green. The hole is listed at 318 yards, but if your tee shot clears the first 100 yards and you hit it straight, your ball can literally roll all the way to the green. This makes certain duffers feel pretty darn good.

Nine miles south of Cloudcroft is Ponderosa Pines, a course largely undiscovered thanks to its secluded nature. On Highway 130, The Pines is under new ownership, and is built around a collection of resort cabins. After the first two holes, there's nothing too spectacular about the course, unless, of course, you count that mountain that hovers over your shoulder for eight of the nine holes.

If you ever visited the magnetic house at Six Flags, where angles are very deceiving and objects roll uphill, then you'll have an advantage when playing the Pines' first two holes. No. 1 is a 210 yarder with a fairway at a 40-degree angle from left to right. A hook on a right-handed tee-shot is necessary, else your ball may very well roll out of play into a ravine.

Turn around for No. 2, and a fairway that is angled again at about 40 degrees, except this time from right to left. A slice for a right-hander helps immensely from the tee box. This hole is regarded as the toughest on the course.

But who cares. Just take in the scenery, absentmindedly subtract a stroke or two on each hole because the picturesque mountain beauty makes you temporarily lose control of your senses, and you and your score card will come away looking just fine.

XXV Olympiad begins today

Associated Press

BARCELONA, Spain — More athletes from more countries than ever before open the Summer Olympics on Saturday, ushering in a new era of professional competition and political coexistence.

When some 10,000 athletes representing 168 nations march into Olympic Stadium, framed by mountains on one side and the Mediterranean on the other, the Games of the XXV Olympiad will officially begin.

It's a special place for a special Olympics — the first in two decades not buffeted by boycotts and the first ever in Spain, awarded after four previously unsuccessful bids.

To celebrate, the host city underwent an $8 billion-plus overhaul that created a dramatic blend of old and new, not unlike the athletes themselves.

America's contingent will be led by flagbearer Francie Larrieu Smith, a five-time Olympian who, at age 39, is running in the marathon. "It's probably the greatest honor ever bestowed on me, not only in my athletic career, but maybe in my life," she said. "To have been selected by my peers means a lot to me.

Saturday's ceremonies are the opening act of a 16-day drama that will be played out by a diverse cast of characters.

In all, 176 countries were invited to participate; but seven — Afghanistan, Brunei, Granada, Liberia, Niger, Serbia and Somalia — are not here, and the 170 athletes from Yugoslavia were left to compete as independent athletes, officially the team without a country.

The 614-member U.S. team ranges from the largest to the littlest — weightlifter Mark Henry, a 367-pound mountain of a man, and gymnast Shannon Miller, a 4-foot-6, 69-pound acrobat.

Somewhere in between those extremes is a roster of a dozen National Basketball Association superstars led by Michael Jordan and Magic Johnson, charged with regaining world supremacy for the United States, which has not won an international competition in the sport it invented since the 1986 world championships.

There is a sprinkling of NBA players on other teams — Drazen Petrovic with Croatia, Detlef Schrempf with Germany, Sarunas Marciulionis with Lithuania, Alexander Volkov with the Unified Team — but the concentration of talent on Team USA makes the Americans top-heavy gold medal favorites.

The opening ceremonies, a 3½-hour tribute to the glory of the Games, will be shown on tape by NBC — the first payoff on the network's $401 million Olympic investment and the beginning of its 161 hours of coverage. If that's not enough, Olympic addicts can still sign up for the pay-per-view TripleCast version, 24 hours a day of coverage for $125.

The first of 257 medal events are set for Sunday, with attention focused on the Olympic swimming pool where preliminary heats and final races will be staged in the women's 100-meter freestyle and 400-meter individual medley, and the men's 100-meter breaststroke and 200-meter freestyle.

The races provide the first tests for a deep, talented U.S. team that includes 1988 medalists Matt Biondi and Janet Evans as well as exciting newcomers such as Summer Sanders and Jenny Thompson.

Five other medal events Sunday are in weightlifting, shooting and cycling.

Still to come will be competition in track and field, where American Mike Powell and Ukrainian Sergei Bubka will strive to jump farther — one horizontally, the other vertically — than they ever have before.

Both already own awesome personal records, Powell with a long jump leap of 29 feet, 4½ inches last summer, shattering the record set by Bob Beamon in the 1968 Olympics, and Bubka at 20 feet, ½ inch in the pole vault.

Challenging Powell in the long jump will be multimedalist Carl Lewis, who had the greatest series in the history of the event when he went over 29 feet three times in one meet. Unfortunately for Lewis, it was the same meet in which Powell set the record.

The long jump is the lone event at Barcelona for Lewis, who has won six gold medals in four events in two Olympics but who failed to qualify this year in the 100- and 200-meter dashes and withdrew from the 400-meter relay team. Canadian Ben Johnson, suspended for two years when he failed a drug test after winning the 100 at Seoul in 1988, returns in that race.

Pamela Wright finished at 3-under before the rain.

Rain again forces early halt at U.S. Women's Open

Associated Press

OAKMONT, Pa. — Scottish longshot Pamela Wright held the lead Friday when the approach of a storm forced an overnight postponement of the pursuit of her closest challengers in the U.S. Women's Open.

Juli Inkster and Patty Sheehan, each 1-under par and two behind Wright, were among the 42 players who ran for cover at the approach of the storm at rain-soaked Oakmont.

It marked the second time in as many days that weather had forced an overnight suspension of play.

Sheehan, three times a runnerup but not yet a winner in the women's American national championship, was through 14 holes and Inkster through 16 when the siren sounded warning of severe weather.

They were scheduled to return at 7:30 a.m. EDT Saturday to complete second-round play. Weather permitting, the third round will be played Saturday afternoon.

Rain in advance of the approaching storm began moments after Wright finished off a 2-under-par 69 with a one-putt par on the difficult 18th hole of the longest, hardest course the women have encountered.

"I'm leading and it's raining and that's good," Wright said after reaching the tournament halfway point at 139, 3 under par.

Inkster and Sheehan, at 1-under but with work yet to be done, were the only others in the field of 156 who had red numbers — the color signifying scores below par — beside their names.

Dawn Coe and Donna Andrews were at level par 142. Coe shot 71 and Andrews slipped to a 73.

"Yesterday, I was in that zone where you just know all shots are going in the fairway and on the green and you just know all the putts are going to fall," Andrews said.

"Today I was in a zone where I didn't know where the shots were going and I knew the putts were not going to fall," she said.

The group at 143, 1 over par, included Jane Gaddes, Alice Ritzman and Gail Graham. Ritzman had a second-round 69, Gaddes 70 and Graham 71.

Wright, 28, was the 1989 rookie of year on the LPGA Tour, but has yet to score her first professional victory.

And, she said, she's trying very hard not to even think about that sort of thing yet.

"It's far too early to get caught up in leading the Open; too early to think, 'Oh, my God, I'm leading.' That sort of thing can kill you.

"I'm just playing and having fun," said Wright, who went to school at Arizona State but still lists her home as Aboyne, Scotland, where her father, Innes, is a golf pro and her mother, Janette, played in four Curtis Cup matches for Great Britain between 1954 and 1960.

Wright, who said Oakmont's fearsome bunkers remind her of the pot bunkers in Scotland, got up and down from sand three times during her four-birdie, two-bogey effort.

"I like Oakmont," she said. "It's difficult, one of the most difficult we've played. I think that's why I like it."

Wright matched a first-hole birdie against a third-hole bogey, then birdied the two front-side par-5s, the fourth and ninth, with putts of 8-10 feet.

While she was moving up the leader board, however, some of the tour's leading lights were moving out of town, victims of the 36-hole cut.

Among them were Laura Davies of England, the long-hitting 1987 champion, and Beth Daniel.

(From 1B)

played well and we were coming at them. After 60-70 minutes, they started to wear down."

Wear down, break down, sometimes fall down. But the Americans couldn't come up with the tying goal.

"I thought we were knocking on the door, but we just couldn't finish," U.S. coach Lothar Osiander said. "Innocent teams have a problem with finishing off. We do get there, but then we struggle."

The Americans struggled partly because their leading scorer, Steve Snow, did not play. He was left out of the starting lineup for what Osiander claimed were technical reasons.

"We wanted speed up front and Snow is not the fastest," he said. "He's not good on defense."

And he's not good at sitting.

"You don't have the best player on your team sit," Snow said.

Actually, Osiander planned to use Snow in the second half. But defender Troy Dayak hurt his ankle in the opening half and was replaced by Jo-Max Moore. Osiander then had to use his second substitution at halfback when defensive midfielder Huwiler also got hurt.

"You can't put another forward in when two defenders are limping," Osiander said.

The Americans, who won the Pan American Games last year, limped through the early going and it cost them dearly.

The Italians' quickness and precise passing quickly paid off. At 14:21, Alessandro Melli took a perfect pass from Eugenio Corini and forced goalkeeper Brad Friedel to make a spectacular left-handed save. But he put the rebound right at Melli's feet and the Italian sent a left-footed shot into the open right side of the net.

Another pinpoint pass set up Italy's second goal, in the 22nd minute. Renato Buso's feed toward right wing caught two Americans out of position and gave Demetrio Albertini an easy shot.

"We've tried to start our games playing good soccer, fast soccer," coach Cesare Maldini said. "I think we have players with the technical ability to do that."

Italy traditionally has the players with the ability to protect a lead. Usually, the Italians go into a defensive shell and control the tempo.

Not this time. The crowd of 18,000 in the 120,000-seat stadium began to come alive as the Americans began to challenge.

"Spotting Italy two goals is never easy," Friedel said. "In the second half, our intensity level really picked up."

And they picked up a goal on a silly error. Italy goalie Francesco Antonioli took too many steps on a punt. Moore's twisting 17-yard shot off the resulting indirect free kick hit the right corner of the net.

It nearly was a carbon copy of his gold-medal clinching score in the Pan Am Games.

"It did remind me of Cuba a little bit," Moore said. "It was to the same corner.

"Mike (Burns) and Cameron (Rast) make the decisions on the free kicks. I told them I wanted to take it. I saw an opening and I bent it around the wall."

By the midway point of the second half, the Italians seemed to have hit the wall. They had little pace, while the Americans were coming on. Cobi Jones, who barely missed scoring late in the first half, almost tied it.

"The U.S. played with a lot of will and power," Maldini said.

Erickson throws one-hitter as Twins, Sox split

Associated Press

AL Roundup

BOSTON — Tom Brunansky singled home Phil Plantier with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning Friday night, giving the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins and a split of their doubleheader.

In the opener, Scott Erickson held the Red Sox to one hit and Randy Bush drove in two runs with a double and a home run off Roger Clemens in Minnesota's 5-0 victory. It was the second time in three games the Red Sox had been limited to one hit.

Plantier singled with one out off Carl Willis (4-3) and moved to third on Wade Boggs' single. Paul Abbott relieved and Brunansky hit his first pitch into right-center field to snap the Red Sox' three-game losing streak.

Darel Irvine (2-0), who pitched 1 2-3 innings, got the win.

The teams matched two-run innings in the first and seventh.

The Twins went ahead 2-0 in the first on Kirby Puckett's RBI single and a run-scoring double by Chili Davis, who had three hits in the game.

The Red Sox answered with two runs in the bottom of the inning. Herm Winningham began the rally with a one-out double and scored on Brunansky's two-out double. Brunansky scored on Jack Clark's single.

Greg Gagne's one-out single in the seventh broke a 2-2 tie, driving in Pedro Munoz, who led off with a double. Minnesota added an insurance run with two outs when Boggs threw wildly past second trying to force Gagne on Shane Mack's infield single. Gagne scored when Brunansky bobbled the ball down the right-field line.

The Red Sox came back with two outs in the bottom of the inning when Boggs slid safely into first with the bases loaded to score Mo Vaughn. Willis, Minnesota's fourth pitcher of the inning, then walked Brunansky, scoring John Flaherty with the tying run.

Orioles 9, Rangers 2

BALTIMORE — Bill Ripken and Brady Anderson hit run-scoring doubles in Baltimore's five-run sixth inning, lifting the Orioles past the Texas Rangers in a rain-shortened game.

Arthur Rhodes (2-0) pitched a six-hitter for his first major-league complete game. He walked two and struck out seven to help Baltimore end its three-game losing streak. The game was called in the bottom of the eighth after a 43-minute delay.

The Orioles got 14 hits, at least one from every starter off five Texas pitchers. Jeff Frye hit his first major-league homer for the Rangers, who have lost six of eight.

Down 2-1, the Orioles rallied against Todd Burns (2-3), who remained winless since June 21. Randy Milligan walked and Joe Orsulak singled before Bill Ripken tied the game with a ground-rule double. Jeff Tackett followed with a sacrifice fly and Anderson bounced a double into the center-field seats to score Ripken.

Angels 6, Tigers 3

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Slump-ridden Von Hayes hit a two-run double and Luis Polonia stole three bases and scored three times as the California Angels beat Detroit 6-3 and ended the Tigers' four-game winning streak.

The victory ended a drought for Bert Blyleven (4-4), who had dropped four straight decisions over his previous five starts. The right-hander, who had a 11.57 ERA during his winless streak.

Royals 8, Indians 3

CLEVELAND — Brian McRae ended an 0-for-19 slide with three hits, including a two-run triple, as the Kansas City Royals ended a power slump and beat the Cleveland Indians.

George Brett singled four times, putting him 24th on the all-time list with 2,928 hits, one ahead of Al Simmons.

McRae had a hand in the Royals' first four runs, driving in two and scoring twice. Kevin McReynolds and Chris Gwynn each hit a two-run homer during a four-run ninth inning that clinched Kansas City's seventh win in 10 games. The home runs were the Royals' first in 12 games.

Brewers 3, White Sox 2

MILWAUKEE — Scott Fletcher hit a pitchout for a run-scoring double in the eighth inning to give the Milwaukee Brewers a victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Fletcher's third hit of the game followed a single by pinch-hitter B.J. Surhoff off reliever Terry Leach (2-4). Surhoff broke for second, Leach pitched out, but Fletcher reached out and hit a fly ball that bounced past right fielder Warren Newson, allowing Surhoff to score.

Braves roll to 12th straight win

NL Roundup

ATLANTA — Tom Glavine became the major leagues' first 15-game winner, and the Atlanta Braves extended their winning streak to 12 with a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Glavine (15-3) has won nine consecutive decisions since May 22, the longest winning streak of his career. He allowed three runs and four hits in seven innings, struck out four and walked three as he increased his home record against Pittsburgh to 8-0.

Kent Mercker pitched the eighth, and Alejandro Pena finished the four-hitter for his 11th save.

The winning streak is the second-longest in Braves history, trailing only the 13 straight victories at the start of the 1982 season.

Bob Walk (3-4) allowed four runs and seven hits in six innings in the matchup of division leaders.

Pittsburgh went ahead in the second. Lloyd McClendon reached on an error by shortstop Rafael Belliard, took second on Barry Bonds' walk and scored on groundouts by Jeff King and Don Slaught.

Ron Gant singled in the bottom of the inning, stole second and third and scored on Damon Berryhill's two-out double. Gant has 26 steals this year.

Cubs 1, Astros 0

HOUSTON — Rick Wilkins homered off Doug Jones in the ninth inning as the Chicago Cubs beat the Houston Astros for their third consecutive shutout.

Mike Morgan (8-4) allowed five hits in eight innings, struck out three and walked two. Bob Scanlan got the final three outs of the six-hitter for his sixth save. Chicago pitchers have thrown 27 consecutive shutout innings.

The game drew 28,112 to the Astrodome, Houston's largest home crowd this season. The team leaves Sunday night on a 26-game, 28-day road trip caused by the Republican National Convention.

Mets 3, Padres 0

NEW YORK — Sid Fernandez pitched a three-hitter for his first shutout in two years as the New York Mets beat Brooklyn native Frank Seminara and the San Diego Padres.

Fernandez (9-8) gave up an infield single to Fred McGriff leading off the second, then retired 14 in a row — striking out seven — before Tony Fernandez doubled in the sixth. Fernandez fanned nine and walked none in his first shutout since April 22, 1990, against Montreal.

Expos 4, Dodgers 3

MONTREAL — Dennis Martinez stopped his three-game losing streak, becoming a 10-game winner for the sixth straight season as the Montreal Expos beat the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Martinez (10-9) allowed two runs and four hits in eight innings, struck out four and walked none.

Phillies 8, Giants 4

PHILADELPHIA — Darren Daulton drove in four runs, and pinch-hitter Ricky Jordan singled home the go-ahead run in the seventh inning as the Philadelphia Phillies beat San Francisco Giants.

Will Clark, who also drove in four runs, put the Giants ahead 4-3 in the top of the inning with a three-run double, but Philadelphia came right back and sent the Giants to their sixth loss in seven games.

Cardinals 8, Reds 2

ST. LOUIS — Andres Galarraga homered at Busch Stadium for the first time this season as the St. Louis Cardinals beat Cincinnati and sent the Reds to their fourth consecutive loss.

Cincinnati, which dropped two games behind NL West-leading Atlanta, has scored just four runs during the losing streak, which matches its season high.

Rodgers' 66 good for Seniors lead

Associated Press

NEWPORT, R.I. — Phil Rodgers shot a 6-under-par 66 Friday for a one-shot lead after the first round of the $400,000 Newport Cup, a Senior PGA Tour event at Newport Country Club.

Rodgers, 54, fashioned 33s on each nine of the par-72, 6,722-yard links layout, site of the first U.S. Amateur and Open in 1895.

"I was raised on a seaside course in San Diego," Rodgers said. "This is a home away from home for me. I like golf like this, this British-type course. It's a fun golf course to play. It's not a dart-type course where you punch it at the flag."

Jim O'Hern, 1989 champion Jim Dent, Tommy Aycock and Bert Yancey were a stroke back at 67 as the 54-player field opened play in the 54-hole event that has a winner's purse of $60,000.

Terry Dill, Jimmy Powell and Gary Cowan of Canada were at 68.

Rodgers, who won five times on the PGA Tour, is seeking his first Senior PGA Tour title since becoming eligible in 1988.

"I'm pretty pleased with my play," he said. "I was relatively consistent. I'm driving better and I've been playing better the last three or four weeks.

"I've been here every year since I joined the seniors. I've probably been in the middle of the field a couple of times."

Dent, 53, has been a factor here since becoming eligible for the senior tour in 1989 when he was the tour's rookie of the year. His second tour win came here that year and he tied for second last year.

"I like the course," said Dent, the longest driver among the seniors. "It has four par-5s I can reach in two, so I should have at least four birdies a round.

"When I find a course that suits my game, something I like, it makes it kind of easy to play," Dent said.

Maltbie in shape to win in Mass.

Associated Press

PGA

SUTTON, Mass. — PGA Tour veteran Roger Maltbie reached the midway point of the $1 million New England Classic with a two-stroke lead as he put himself into position to win the event he captured 17 years ago.

Maltbie, 41, a part-time roving golf announcer for NBC, followed Thursday's 6-under 65 with a 66 Friday by recovering from a bout of "pathetic" putting.

First-round leader and tour rookie Robert Friend failed to do the expected — that is, blowing up after a fine first round — and spun five consecutive birdies into a roller-coaster round of 2-under 69. Friend, a two-year veteran of the Hogan tour, had nine straight pars on his first nine and then had five birdies and three bogeys coming in.

"The guys out here will tell you it's very hard to follow up a good round with another real good round," said Friend, who insisted he slept soundly after taking the lead in the event. "I just thought, 'Go out and shoot under 70.' I thought that would be a pretty good number."

The round put Friend into a three-way tie for second place at 9-under 133, along with Brad Faxon and Kelly Gibson, another Hogan Tour player.

Rain-softened greens and fair conditions kept scores down and forced players to break par to make the cut. Of the 156 players in the tournament, 78 made the cut.

Defending champion Bruce Fleisher was among those out of the money at 1-over for two rounds. Fleisher learned on the 11th hole that the clubs he's used for 13 years had been found after being lost in transit. The news seemed to rejuvenate his game as he stuck several approach shots near the flags on subsequent holes, but couldn't make the putts.

"It would have been nice to stay through the weekend," Fleisher said. "I didn't hit it good enough to get any real momentum going."

Also missing the cut were Steve Pate, fourth-place finisher in the British Open; Gil Morgan, who led this year's U.S. Open after 54 holes, and Mark Carnevale, winner of last week's Chattanooga Classic.

ANGELS: Drillers undergo roster moves with Texas

(From 1B)

Marcus Lawton started the Midland third with a single to center field and took second when Kevin Belcher let the ball bounce past him. Rod Correia then hit a slow grounder that trickled between first and second, scoring Lawton and cutting the Tulsa lead to 2-1.

Correia, who took second when the Drillers tried to throw Lawton out at the plate, was moved to third by a Tejero groundout. That brought up Pete Coachman, who grounded to third base, where Jose Oliva opted to try to gun down Correia at home.

Correia tried to run over Driller catcher Darryl Kennedy, who was turned by Oliva's high throw and unable to tag Correia, but was called out by home plate umpire David Wilk when Kennedy held onto the ball. Though a slide by Correia would have tied the game, the Angels had more chances to come.

Like in the fourth, when Lawton did tie the game at 2-2 after he singled home Phillips.

Then came the Midland fifth, when Taylor and Edgar Alfonzo both got base hits to set the plate for Kipila. With two outs, he drilled Gies' 1-0 offering over the left field fence, a blast that got out of the yard in the bat of an eye and gave the Angels a 5-2 lead.

"It was a fast ball pretty much right down the middle of the plate. I thought he was going to try to throw me a breaking pitch or a changeup, but he came right at me," Kipila said.

"I just try to concentrate the best I can in every at-bat, no matter what the situation is with the score. But I try to concentrate even harder in RBI situations. My concentration level is more intense with men on base."

After Gies (5-4) walked the next batter he faced in Garret Anderson, he was yanked in favor of Bryan Gore. But Gore gave up Phillips' home run in the seventh and Rob Brown allowed a run when Taylor's base hit in the eighth sent Coachman home.

The Drillers retained their lead in the TL East despite the loss, and are 19-12 in the second half.

NOTES — Tulsa, affiliated with the Texas Rangers, has had plenty of roster movement in the past couple of days. While David Hulse, who went to high school in San Angelo, was called up to the Rangers, Donald Harris was sent back to the Drillers. Also, pitcher Scott Chiamparino has been assigned to Tulsa after coming off the 60-day disabled list. Chiamparino underwent reconstructive surgery on his right elbow last July. He is scheduled to pitch in Midland Sunday against the Angels' Don Vidmar.

It's official: McMullen sells 'Stros

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Drayton McLane Jr., who described himself as a wholesale grocer trying to learn baseball, eagerly announced Friday that he is buying the Houston Astros, ending the unpopular 14-year reign of John McMullen.

"We just agreed to buy the team at 2:15 (Thursday afternoon)," McLane said, standing behind home plate at the Astrodome. "We haven't developed any strategies yet. Now that we've gotten the deal done, we'll move to get the other things taken care of."

The sale must be approved by 75 percent of the National League owners and a majority of the American League club owners. McMullen said he saw no reason the deal would not go through.

"We have zero strategy right now but total enthusiasm," McLane said.

There will be changes, McLane said, but he said he wasn't ready to discuss them.

"You don't make an investment like we have made and stand still," McLane said. "You want to move forward."

McLane purchased the Astros and the lease to the Harris County-owned Astrodome complex.

McLane is the second largest shareholder in Wal-Mart Stores Inc., and the president of McLane Company, Inc. of Temple, Texas, a nationwide wholesale grocery distributing company.

He said the target date for taking control of the Astros is Nov. 1. McLane said he'd name a president to operate the day-to-day activities of the team.

"In our business, we seek out the most talented people available and we search until we get them," McLane said. "It makes sense that we'd do the same thing in baseball, but it's too early to speculate."

McLane said he had not examined the Astros' organizational chart and gave no hint of the future for general manager Bill Wood and assistant general manager Bob Watson.

McMullen purchased the Astros in 1979 for $18 million and engineered a $30 million refurbishing of the Astrodome. But he made unpopular moves.

He fired popular general manager Tal Smith in 1980 and wanted Nolan Ryan to take a pay cut before the all-time strikeout king bolted to the Texas Rangers.

McMullen was also labeled an absentee owner, operating the club from his offices in Montclair, N.J.

McMullen, chairman of John J. McMullen Associates, Inc., a naval architecture firm, introduced McLane as the right owner for the city and the Astros.

"He's got all of the qualifications, he's a Texan and he has the right accent," McMullen said. "He's an absentee owner from Temple, Texas, not Montclair, N.J.

A sticking point throughout the negotiations was the three hotels adjacent to the Astrodome owned by McMullen, who insisted they be a part of the deal. McLane declined to buy the hotels.

Council votes to build Missions new stadium

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — The San Antonio city council has voted to build a $7.7 million baseball stadium in an effort to keep the Class AA Missions of the Texas League from leaving town.

"This is being built for the citizens of San Antonio," said Mayor Nelson Wolff, a leading advocate of the 6,500-seat stadium.

Council members voted Thursday to go ahead with the stadium after discussing the matter for three hours before a standing-room-only crowd.

It will be located on a 40-acre lot owned by Levi Strauss & Co. on the city's west side, near where the company operates clothing manufacturing plant. The company had offered to sell the tract for $650,000.

Jan. 3, 1973 — Headed group that purchased New York Yankees from CBS Inc. for $10 million, $3.2 million less than CBS paid for the team in 1964 and 1965.

April 15, 1974 — Fifteen-count indictment handed up in Cleveland federal court for violations of election laws. Maximum penalties if convicted total 55 years in prison and $110,000 in fines.

April 19, 1974 — Entered not guilty pleas to all 15 counts.

Aug. 23, 1974 — Entered guilty plea to one count of conspiracy to make illegal campaign contributions.

Aug. 30, 1974 — Fined $15,000 by Cleveland federal court.

Nov. 27, 1974 — Suspended by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn for two years because of guilty plea.

Dec. 31, 1974 — Yankees signed free agent Jim "Catfish" Hunter to a five-year, $3.75 million contract.

March 1, 1976 — Suspension lifted after 15 months because of good behavior.

Oct. 14, 1976 — Yankees won their first pennant since 1964.

Nov. 18, 1976 — Yankees signed free agent Don Gullett to six-year, $2.1 million contract.

Nov. 29, 1976 — Yankees signed free agent Reggie Jackson to five-year, $3 million contract.

Oct. 18, 1977 — Yankees won their first World Series since 1962.

Nov. 11, 1979 — Fined $5,000 by Kuhn for tampering with Brian Downing of the California Angels.

June 26, 1980 — Reprimanded by Kuhn for tampering with free-agent amateur player Billy Cannon Jr.

Dec. 15, 1980 — Yankees signed free agent Dave Winfield to a 10-year contract with Yankees at salary starting at $1.5 million per season.

April 21, 1981 — Ordered 50,000 copies of the New York Yankees yearbook taken off Yankee Stadium concession stands when he dislikes his picture in it.

Oct. 25, 1981 — Broke hand in Los Angeles after the Yankees lost fifth game of the World Series to the Dodgers; says he was attacked by two fans in a hotel elevator.

Oct. 28, 1981 — Issued apology to Yankees fans after the Dodgers beat New York to win the World Series in six games.

July 3, 1983 — Fined $5,000 by Kuhn for remarks about Chicago White Sox co-owner Jerry Reinsdorf.

April 19, 1983 — Fined $50,000 by Kuhn for remarks during March 25 exhibition game questioning the integrity of National League umpires in general and Lee Weyer specifically.

May 31, 1983 — Suspended for one week (June 3 to 9) by American League president Lee MacPhail for statements made May 27 questioning the integrity of umpires Darryl Cousins and John Shulock.

Dec. 23, 1983 — New York Yankees fined $250,000 by Kuhn and ordered to pay $50,000 in legal fees because of Steinbrenner's actions and statements regarding the "Pine Tar" game.

July 8, 1990 — New York Yankees fined $25,000 by Commissioner Fay Vincent and order to pay $200,000 to the California Angels for tampering with the May 11 trade of outfielder Dave Winfield to California.

July 30, 1990 — Commissioner Fay Vincent announced that Steinbrenner must resign as general partner by Aug. 20 for dealings with self-described gambler Howard Spira. Steinbrenner agreed not to contest the decision in court.

Aug. 20, 1990 — Steinbrenner signed his resignation letter ending his 17½-year term as general partner of the Yankees.

July 24, 1992 — Following Steinbrenner's request for reinstatement, Commissioner Fay Vincent will allow him to return to active control of the New York Yankees, effective March 1, 1993.

with and $40,000 payment to gambler Howard Spira, who gave the owner information on then-Yankees outfielder Dave Winfield.

But Steinbrenner, fearful a suspension would harm his position with the U.S. Olympic Committee, instead opted to sign an agreement that amounted to a lifetime ban. Since he resigned as managing general partner on Aug. 20, 1990, the Yankees have been run by Robert Nederlander, Daniel McCarthy and Joseph Molloy, the owner's son-in-law.

"Our intention is to restore Mr. Steinbrenner to the ranks of ownership and not to strap him in terms of running the ballclub with restrictions," Greenberg said.

Steinbrenner has been unhappy with the agreement since he signed it. He was behind three federal lawsuits, all of which failed and cost the Yankees more than $2 million. Vincent said he would not consider modifying the deal until the suits were dropped. Once that happened, Steinbrenner asked to be restored to power.

"I think it might have been August but for the litigation," Greenberg said. "I think the simple answer is the year-and-a-half of litigation had an effect."

Greenberg was questioned about whether it was in the best interest of baseball to have Steinbrenner back. The Yankees owner, who still controls 55 percent of the team's stock, has been blamed by some for the escalation in player salaries. During his tenure, the Yankees made 18 changes in managers, 14 in general managers, 31 in pitching coaches and nine in chief spokesmen.

"I think Fay's been very clear on that," Greenberg said. "It's a sense of fairness."

Steinbrenner, in Barcelona, Spain, with the U.S. Olympic team, did not wish to react Friday. He is a vice president with the USOC.

"I haven't had a chance, believe it or not, to talk to the people in charge of my situation from my side, so I can't have a comment," Steinbrenner said outside his hotel. "I don't want to distract from these athletes at the Games."

Steinbrenner, who bought control of the Yankees on Jan. 3, 1973, was suspended by then-commissioner Bowie Kuhn from Nov. 27, 1974, to March 1, 1976, after pleading guilty to making illegal campaign contributions to President Nixon.

He had asked Vincent for immediate reinstatement, but Greenberg said that request was denied.

Indurain comes close to clinch at Tour

Associated Press

BLOIS, France — Defending champion Miguél Indurain set aside concern for his nearest pursuer Friday and virtuallly clinched the Tour de France by dominating the final time trial of the competition.

The 28-year-old Spaniard nearly tripled his lead over Claudio Chiappucci of Italy, stretching the margin from 1 minute, 42 seconds to 4:35. He did so by racing at 34 mph and nearly catching Chiappucci — who started almost three minutes earlier — in the in the final 100 yards.

"I was worried about Chiappucci, because you never know what to expect from him," Indurain said. "From now on, final victory shouldn't escape me. I'm happy to win this stage and wear the yellow jersey."

World champion Gianni Bugno of Italy, second in the 31-mile time trial from Tours to Blois, was in complete agreement.

"Indurain's superiority is overwhelming on this Tour, and he has no reason to have any regrets," said Bugno, who finished 40 seconds back.

Indurain will wear the leader's yellow jersey Saturday for the seventh straight day on the flat, 138-mile stage from Blois to Nanterre. The final of the 21 stages will end Sunday at Champs-Elysees in Paris.

The time trial victory was Indurain's fifth straight in that discipline on the Tour. Coupled with his powerful climbing ability in the mountains, he is in a class by himself among the competitors.

Bugno moved up to third place overall, pushing American Andy Hampsten to fourth. Bugno trails Indurain by 10:40 overall. Hampsten is 13:40 off the lead, 57 seconds ahead of Frenchman Pascal Lino.

Marlin wins another NASCAR pole spot

Associated Press

DieHard 500

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Sterling Marlin continued his qualifying mastery of NASCAR's restrictor-plate tracks Friday, winning the pole position for Sunday's DieHard 500 at Talladega Superspeedway.

The second-generation NASCAR stock car driver, who has yet to win his first Winston Cup event, came up with his sixth career pole and series-leading fourth of the season.

It also was the fifth time in six races — dating to last July — at NASCAR's two fastest tracks, Talladega and Daytona, that Marlin has taken the top qualifying spot. Those two tracks are the only ones at which the sanctioning body requires the use of a carburetor restrictor plate to slow the cars in the interest of driver and spectator safety.

This time, besides the plates that limit the intake of air into the carburetors, NASCAR also has forced the teams to bump up the rear spoilers on their cars to a wind-catching minimum of 45 degrees in both qualifying and the race. That's 10 degrees higher than the rules required in qualifying for the Winston 500 in May at Talladega.

Marlin's fast lap of 190.586 mph Friday easily led the 39 drivers who made qualifying attempts for Sunday's 500-mile race on the 2.66-mile, high-banked oval. But it was light years off the track and stock car record of 212.809 set in 1987 by Bill Elliott.

It was also considerably slower than the 192.085 by Marlin at Talladega last July and even slower than the 192.831 by Ernie Irvan in May.

"When I was driving for Hoss Ellington back in 1986, I think the spoiler was knocked down to about 2 degrees," Marlin said with a grin. "Basically, all we did was aim it and hope it would go where you aimed it."

MELCHIZEDEK -- MAN OF MYSTERY!

IF EVER THERE WAS A MYSTERY, A PUZZLE IN THE BIBLE, IT WOULD HAVE TO BE THE PRIEST-KING, MELCHIZEDEK, THE KING OF SALEM. IN THE ONE MEETING ABRAHAM HAD WITH MELCHIZEDEK, HE IMMEDIATELY RECOGNIZED HIM AS SUPERIOR TO HIMSELF IN THE EYES OF GOD! MELCHIZEDEK BROUGHT TO ABRAHAM BREAD AND WINE, AND BLESSED HIM. THROUGHOUT THE SCRIPTURES HE IS REFERRED TO AS THE HIGH PRIEST OF GOD, COMING NOT FROM A FATHER OR A MOTHER, HAVING NO END TO HIS LIFE AND NO BEGINNING. STUDENTS AND AUTHORITIES ON THE BIBLE HAVE SPECULATED ENDLESSLY ON THIS PRIEST-KING; SOME HAVE ARGUED THAT HE WAS A SURVIVOR OF THE FLOOD, THE PATRIARCH SHEM, OTHERS THAT HE WAS AN ANGEL OF GOD—ONE JEWISH TRADITION IS THAT HE WAS THE MESSIAH; SOME SAY THAT SALEM, WHERE HE RULED, LATER BECAME JERUSALEM—BUT ONE THING IS CERTAIN, WHOMEVER MELCHIZEDEK WAS, HE CERTAINLY AROUSED THE CURIOSITY OF SCHOLARS DOWN THROUGH THE AGES!

■ Events called 'excessive'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Reform Judaism says bar-mitzvahs and bat-mitzvahs initiating the young into religious responsibilites have become "excessive and inappropriate" by reflecting "materialistic idolatries of our society."

A meeting of the trustees of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations said the observances should emphasize "family cohesion, authentic friendships, acts of tzedakah (charity) and parties sutiable for children."

The celebrations have become occasions "for idolatry and the relentless commercial colonization of our sacred events," the statement said.

LIFE SCOPE

Lack Understanding? Your Lifescope Says, "Listen To The Right Advice!"

All scripture is inspired by God and is useful for teaching the faith and correcting error, for re-setting the direction of a man's life and training him in good living. The scriptures are the comprehensive equipment of the man of God, and fit him fully for all branches of his work.

So, my son, be strong in the grace that Christ Jesus gives. Everything that you have heard me teach in public you should in turn entrust to reliable men, who will be able to pass it on to others.

Put up with your share of hardship as a loyal soldier in Christ's army. Remember: 1. That no soldier on active service gets himself entangled in business, or he will not please his commanding officer. 2. A man who enters an athletic contest wins no prize unless he keeps the rules laid down. 3. Only the man who works on the land has the right to the first share of its produce. Consider these three illustrations of nine and the Lord will help you to understand all that I mean.

Remember always, as the center of everything, Jesus Christ, a descendant of David, yet raised by God from the dead according to my gospel. For preaching this I am having to endure being chained in prison as if I were some sort of a criminal. But they cannot chain the Word of God, and I can endure all these things for the sake of those whom God is calling, so that they too may receive the salvation of Christ Jesus, and its complement of glory after the world of time. I rely on this saying: If we died with Him we shall also live with Him: if we endure we shall also reign with Him. If we deny Him He will also deny us: yet if we are faithless He always remains faithful. He cannot deny His own nature.

Remind your people of things like this, and tell them as before God not to fight wordy battles, which help no one and may undermine the faith of those who hear them.

The entirety of Your word is truth, and every one of Your righteous judgments endures forever. Establish my steps and direct them by (means of) Your word; let not any iniquity have dominion over me. The entrance and unfolding of Your words gives light; it gives un-derstanding - discernment and comprehension - to the simple.

Jesus in Bible is based on King Tut, author says

By Graham Heathcote
Associated Press writer

LONDON — An Egyptian writer who has been researching the origins of Christianity has concluded that the Jesus Christ of the New Testament did not exist, but was based on King Tutankhamen.

Ahmed Osman, author of "The House of the Messiah," also argues that the military leader Joshua was modeled on the Pharaoh, who lived about 1,350 years before Jesus.

"There is not a shred of historical evidence that Jesus lived at the time he is supposed to have done and I believe the writers of the Gospels adapted a historical figure into their own time," Osman said in an interview.

His theory was skeptically received by some scholars.

"It is absolute nonsense and there is nothing more to add," said Kenneth Kitchen, professor of Egyptology at Liverpool University.

ROBERT EISENMAN, professor of religious studies at California State University, Long Beach, said he was reluctant to comment without having read Osman's book, but said there are problems with the Gospel narratives.

"His theory is a very imaginative way of proceeding to deal with what are very serious questions about the historicity of Jesus," Eisenman said.

"There was a lot of novelization about what happened in the first century A.D. but I wouldn't have thought to push it back to the 14th century B.C. Within the framework of his own ethnic background, Osman sees similarities and he may be dimly perceiving a distant relationship. But I think the Dead Sea Scrolls — which predate the first century A.D. by about 100 years — hold the real history of the period and we will know more when they are published in full."

"His theory certainly sounds a little original and I am waiting for the book before I say anything more," said Ivor Eisenstein, a retired professor of Jewish studies in New York.

James Crampsey, lecturer in New Testament and biblical studies at London University, commented: "It sounds a trifle farfetched to me. Could Jesus have been Confucius, for example?"

The book is Osman's third in five years arguing that Christianity originated in ancient Egypt, where there were Hebrew settlements.

HIS FIRST book suggested that Joseph the Patriarch, who brought the tribe of Israel to Egypt from Canaan, was an Egyptian nobleman whose mummy is in the Cairo Museum. Osman's second book claimed Moses was the Pharaoh Akhenaten, father of Tutankhamen.

"Akhenaten imposed on the Egyptians the idea of one god in place of their many deities. Tutankhamen allowed the old deities back but he held them to be saints and angels in the kingdom of the Lord," Osman said.

"That was rejected by the Israelite priests in Sinai. When Tutankhamen went there to try to bring them back to the fold, I believe they killed him at the place where St. Catherine's monastery stands today at the foot of Mount Sinai. His mummy shows he met a violent death, probably by hanging."

Osman said Tutankhamen introduced belief in resurrection and life after death, and that a painting on the wall of his burial chamber shows him rising from the dead.

"That is the beginning of Christianity, and the idea of life after death is a cornerstone of the Christian faith," Osman said.

Osman claims the king's followers within the Israelite community kept the faith in secret until John the Baptist spoke of the return of a redeemer.

"The execution of the Baptist brought the messianic movement into the open," Osman said.

"WHEN THE disciples claimed they had witnessed a living Jesus who died and was raised from the dead, it was taken literally by the Gospel writers about half a century later. They told the truth as they thought it was, but the time is wrong."

Osman, 58, studied law in Cairo and has lived in Britain since 1965, teaching Arabic and studying ancient Egyptian history and language and Hebrew.

George A. Wells, emeritus professor of German at London University and author of four books questioning the existence of Jesus, was skeptical of an Egyptian origin "because the earliest Christians took so much from Judaism, like the idea of a messiah and the world coming to an end."

"Osman is quite right on there being no evidence that Jesus lived between the time of Herod and Pontius Pilate," Wells added.

"The Gospels are quite unreliable about that and earlier Christian literature, like the Pauline epistles, doesn't say when Jesus lived."

Osman's book was published in Britain by HarperCollins. No U.S. publication has been arranged, he said.

Couple wants to turn area into 'Holy Ghost Town'

By Don Lattin
N.Y. Times News Service

MARBLE FLATS, Wash. — Standing in the ruins of the old Marble Flats Hotel, it's hard to imagine this isolated Columbia River ghost town as the epicenter of the new Christian culture.

But that's the plan of a controversial, Santa Rosa, Calif.-based Christian movement that wants to turn this deserted hamlet into a "Holy Ghost Town."

Calling their town "a declaration of war on an ungodly civil government," gospel singers Barry and Anne Byrd say they want to create a self-sufficient "biblical economy" and "alternative court system for resolving dispute biblically."

Included in their vision is a retreat center featuring Christian music and Wild West themes, along with a farm and ranch for troubled teen-agers.

Working with Santa Rosa developer Rick Johnson and unnamed California investors, the Byrds have bought 500 acres of land in this spectacular pine-carpeted valley in the northeast corner of Washington.

Church leaders have already renovated the old Marble schoolhouse into a church which draws 100 worshipers for Sunday services. They plan to rebuild the town's turn-of-the-century hotel, shops and agricultural facilities — selling small parcels of surrounding land to like-minded evangelicals.

"Biblical Christians are at war for their very survival," says Anne Byrd, writing in a recent edition of "Crosswinds," a journal of the Christian Right. "Those who are not actively involved in preparing an ark to carry their families through the coming storm of judgment on ungodliness will not survive what is coming!"

One of those who heeded the call is Greg Sloan, who moved from Santa Rosa with his wife and four children, buying a 37-acre apple orchard just north of Marble.

"We were burned-out yuppies wanting to get out of the rat race," said Sloan, who met the Byrds when they came to sing at Santa Rosa Christian Church. "Belonging to a Christian community was part of the draw. We want a wholesome place to raise our family."

Longtime residents of these tight-knit communities along the upper Columbia River do not know what to think.

On one side are those who see the new immigrants as hard-working, God-fearing families. On the other side is the fear that the Byrds are starting an extremist Christian cult.

Already upset by rising white supremacist activity in the region, these folks are well aware of the Northwest's reputation as a magnet for religious sects and survivalist cults.

During the mid-1980s, followers of Indian guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh assumed political control of the central Oregan town of Antelope. Later, sect leader Elizabeth Clare Prophet attracted hundreds of New Age survivalists to Paradise Valley, Montana.

In tiny Northport, eight miles north of Marble Flats, some townspeople say they are worried about the political agenda of the Byrds, and concerned about the sudden arrival of newcomers from Oregon and the San Francisco Bay Area.

■ Candidate calls for results to be recounted

ATLANTA — Results of Georgia's Republican Senate primary race will be counted over again at the request of one candidate because unofficial returns left him and another candidate separated by fewer than 1,200 votes.

Secretary of State Max Cleland on Thursday instructed election officials in the state's 159 counties to begin the recount Tuesday.

Bob Barr and John Knox, who requested the recount, are vying for the second slot on the Aug. 11 runoff ballot. Front-runner Paul Coverdell was assured a runoff berth.

The winner of the runoff will face incumbent Sen. Wyche Fowler, D-Ga., in November.

With all but one of 2,690 precincts counted, Barr and Knox were separated by only 1,135 votes.

■ Security guard saves federal judge's life

CHICAGO — A federal judge who missed by seconds a deadly shoot-out at the federal court building says he's certain a dying security guard saved his life.

Judge James H. Alesia said he was driving out of the Dirksen Federal Building garage Monday when he heard gunshots behind him.

"I almost put my foot through the floor," said Alesia. "I went up that ramp about 80 miles an hour."

Two guards were fatally wounded by fleeing federal prisoner Jeffrey Erickson, who had unlocked his own handcuffs. Erickson killed himself after being shot by one of the wounded guards.

Alesia, who was the presiding judge at Erickson's bank robbery trial, said his life was saved when one of the wounded guards, Harry Belluomini, shot Erickson as he ran toward the garage exit ramp. Belluomini later died.

"There's no doubt in my mind Harry saved my life," said Alesia. If Erickson had reached his car, "he would have killed me or commandeered the car," he said.

Officials announced tighter courthouse security plans Thursday.

■ Anti-terrorist device detonates at dealership

MORRISTOWN, N.J. — An anti-terrorist device on a corporate vehicle detonated and filled a car dealership with tear gas Friday, and 13 employees were treated at a hospital for ear and throat irritation.

The device apparently went off by itself while mechanics at Powers Motors were tracing the cause of an electrical fire in the Mercedes sedan, said police Lt. Carl Laskiewicz.

Laskiewicz said he did not immediately know which corporation owned the vehicle, which was equipped to release a cloud of tear gas to ward off attackers.

Firefighters took fans into the dealership to help dissipate the tear gas, he said.

■ Group at odds with school for inviting rapper

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — Predominantly black Alabama A&M University is at odds with a group that invited rapper Sister Souljah to a youth motivation program on campus.

The rapper became a figure in the presidential campaign when Democratic nominee Bill Clinton criticized her for comments he said were racially divisive.

Gloria Laster, an organizer for the 21st Century Youth Leadership Training Project, said the university is preventing Souljah from coming to the final event Saturday for political reasons.

But Oscar Montgomery, director of external affairs at A&M, said Souljah is welcome. He said 21st Century failed to follow procedures in trying to get a larger hall.

Montgomery said the group informed the school about four days in advance that Sister Souljah was appearing and that they would need a larger hall. He said the school requires 10 days notice in order to make sure a program is properly bonded and has adequate security.

Mrs. Laster said the university previously has never mentioned bonds.

U.S. boosts duty on some Canadian suds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just as summer temperatures were parching throats, the U.S. and Canadian governments clashed Friday in a trade dispute that will raise the price of some imported beers.

The Office of the U.S. Trade Representative threw the first punch by sharply boosting the duty on beer imported from Ontario, saying the Canadian province discriminates against American brews.

Canadian Trade Minister Michael Wilson retaliated immediately, imposing similar duty on the products of the two U.S. companies that filed the complaint against Ontario — the G. Heileman Brewing Co. and the Stroh Brewery Co.

"In light of this action, we have been left no choice but to take similar action," Wilson said.

Deputy U.S. Trade Representative Julius L. Katz said the 50 percent "ad valorem" duty on beer brewed or bottled in Ontario was effective immediately. That would add about $3 to the existing 77-cent duty on a case of beer brought into the United States.

The Canadian breweries affected are Molson Breweries of Canada Ltd., the Labatt Brewing Co., Sleeman Brewing and Upper Canada Breweries.

John Barnett, president of Molson Breweries USA, Inc., a subsidiary of the Canadian firm, said American consumers would not feel the effect of the new duty for several weeks because of inventory stockpiles.

'For consumers in the states supplied by Ontario breweries, basically in Michigan and New York, we estimate that the $3 a case duty . . . would convert to about $4.50 to $5.00 at the retail level.'

— John Barrett, C.E.O. Molson Breweries

"After that," he continued, "for consumers in the states supplied by Ontario breweries, basically in Michigan and New York, we estimate that the $3 a case duty ... would convert to about $4.50 to $5.00 at the retail level."

U.S. consumers in states served by Molson breweries in other Canadian provinces would not be affected, Barnett said.

But Katz said the government will monitor beer imports from elsewhere in Canada to make sure Ontario brewers do not circumvent the duty by exporting their product through neighboring provinces.

"If imports surge significantly beyond historical trade levels ... the USTR may expand the imposition of the 50 percent 'ad valorem' duty to imported beer brewed or bottled in the province in question," Katz said.

The trade representative took action, Katz said, because of what he described as "discriminatory practices" which include a $2.53 a case warehouse charge on U.S. beers, a charge that Canadian brewers don't have to pay.

The Ontario government also imposes a $2.40-a-case environmental tax on aluminum cans in which most American beers are exported. Most Canadian beers are sold in glass bottles.

As a result, the trade representative's office said, the retail price of a case of U.S. beer sold in Ontario is $24.35, compared with $20.65 for a case of Canadian beer. The office contends Ontario's practices have cost American brewers $59 million.

"The new Ontario pricing structure virtually eliminates the ability of U.S. brewers to compete on the basis of price," the office contended.

The Ontario government defends the warehouse charge and environmental fee, saying it costs the government to sell and stock the American beer in provincial liquor stores and to recycle the cans.

The dispute was the latest involving U.S.-Canada trade despite a free trade agreement between the two nations. Other clashes have involved steel, softwood lumber, cars and pork.

The flare-up comes as both governments are trying to negotiate a similar treaty with Mexico. Ontario Premier Bob Ray said Friday the Canadian government should withdraw from the talks.

"To say that the timing is bad is an understatement," said Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

Wilson said the United States had rejected Canada's offer to settle the dispute through the international General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

It's "difficult to find common ground on which to discuss a compromise" when the U.S. "doesn't follow the rules," Wilson said. "It's not, on either side, a normal approach."

Black voters in Georgia lean toward Clinton

LITHONIA, Ga. (NYT) — It is 23 miles in distance and a few light years in ambience from the ragged cottages of Atlanta's inner-city Fourth Ward to the $275,000 homes in the all-black Hunters Pace subdivision in this densely wooded suburb at the edge of metropolitan Atlanta.

But when it comes to presidential politics these days, there is no difference at all. From McGruder Street in Atlanta, where the only sign of prosperity is the new Cadillacs driven by young crack dealers, to the swimming and tennis club here, black voters seem to be solidly in the Democratic fold.

In a topsy-turvy year, there is no guarantee their feelings will not change when Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton comes down from his current jolt of favorable publicity after the Democratic convention in New York. And there is certainly no guarantee that the views from the Fourth Ward and Hunters Pace mirror those of black America.

But interviews with blacks in these two entirely different neighborhoods indicated an enthusiasm for the Democratic ticket that seemed potentially in peril in recent months as Clinton feuded with the Rev. Jesse Jackson and risked offending the Democrats' most loyal constituency.

"A few months ago, I would have said my vote was more a vote against Bush," said Karen Walker, who is building a home in Lithonia and wrote in Jesse Jackson's name in 1988 rather than vote for George Bush or Michael S. Dukakis. "Now I'd say it's more a vote for Clinton. I've seen a lot of him in the last month, and I like what he has to say."

Back in Atlanta, where Marvin Reed was inspecting his parents sagging home in an area full of abandoned buildings only a few blocks from where the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. grew up, the sentiment was about the same.

"I like Bill Clinton," Reed said, sipping on a Budweiser in the midday heat. "He wasn't born with a silver spoon in his mouth. He was raised without a father and stayed with his grandparents while his mother learned to be a nurse, and he came all the way up. I think that gives him an understanding Bush will never have."

In a New York Times/CBS News poll conducted July 8-11, 75 percent of blacks supported Clinton, 13 percent President Bush when the two were matched one-on-one.

No polls with a broad enough sample to isolate black voters have been taken since the Democratic convention, but poll-takers say it is certain the surge of support in the overall electorate was reflected among blacks.

Motivating black voters has been a concern because of a relatively low black turnout in Democratic primaries. In 1988, when Jackson was a candidate, blacks made up 21 percent of Democratic primary voters. This year, without him in the race, blacks made up 14 percent of the Democratic primary vote. In the general election that year, 86 percent of black votes went to Dukakis.

As in the electorate as a whole, many black voters interviewed voiced skepticism about politics and politicians, Clinton included.

"Not a one of them's worth three cents more than any other," said Mary Mattox, a housekeeper who was sitting on her porch.

Administrative board recommends discharge for homosexual aviator

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — A Navy aviator's plea to stay in the Navy after he challenged the military's policy banning homosexuals was rejected Friday by an administrative board, which recommended his discharge.

After two hours of deliberations, the board of inquiry voted 3-0 to recommend an honorable discharge for Lt. j.g. Tracy Thorne, said the panel's presiding officer, Capt. John A. Seddon Jr.

The board wasn't swayed by Thorne's emotional testimony. He said he was just like them, someone "who wants to serve his country. But all you want to know is whether I'm a homosexual."

Seddon provided no reasons for the decision. But the government's attorney, Lt. Julie L. Tinker, said the board's job was to "follow the prescribed regulation" and call for Thorne's discharge if he was found to be homosexual.

The Defense Department's ban on homosexuality argues that it is incompatible with military service because it undermines morale and discipline.

The board's decision will be reviewed by Rear Adm. Paul W. Parcells, who heads the Navy's Atlantic Fleet air forces, before it is sent to the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

Thorne, 25, said he was disappointed but would fight on. He has said he will ask the secretary of the Navy to use a regulation that allows him to retain a homosexual officer.

Acting Navy Secretary Sean O'Keefe has declined to comment on Thorne's case while it is pending.

If necessary, Thorne said, he will go to federal court.

Thorne's 15-minute statement to the board was the highlight of two days of proceedings, most of which was devoted to legal wrangling over whether the panel had authority to recommend that O'Keefe keep Thorne in the service.

"I am not a sexual predator with some sort of hormonal imbalance," Thorne told the three officers, who also are aviators. "I am just like you."

Thorne said he did what an officer and a gentleman is supposed to do — tell the truth — when he went on ABC's "Nightline" on May 19 and proclaimed his homosexuality.

He said the military's longstanding ban on gays is based on ancient hatreds and misplaced fears. "These are stereotypes," he said. "They're groundless."

The young airman, an A-6 bombardier-navigator at the Oceana Naval Air Station, fought back tears when he repeated the oath he took upon joining the Navy in September 1988. He said fears about gays are like an internal enemy "tearing the country up from the inside."

Patrick Lee, one of Thorne's attorneys, compared the case to the 1920s Scopes trial pitting creation against evolution. Creation won the trial, but evolution prevailed, he said.

Whatever the outcome in Thorne's case, he said, the challenge "marks the end of military discrimination against homosexuals. That discrimination died here today."

Ms. Tinker said Thorne realized the consequences of his action when he went public. She said the honorable discharge is a policy, not a penalty.

Lt. Cmdr. Henry F. Sonday Jr., the board's legal advisor, refused to allow three expert witnesses to testify on behalf of Thorne. Their testimony was intended to challenge the reasons for the homosexual ban.

Sonday said the board's duty was to determine if Thorne was homosexual, not to debate the Navy's policy.

Three lawmakers to take fifth amendment in post office probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three House Democrats, subpoenaed in a federal probe of the House Post Office, said Friday they would invoke their Fifth Amendment rights and refuse to answer questions in a "political witch hunt."

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Reps. Austin J. Murphy and Joseph Kolter of Pennsylvania announced their intentions in a letter in which they accused U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens of conducting an "overall fishing expedition in an election year."

"We decline to lend any credence to an inquiry that lacks credibility and should be promptly closed," the three wrote in a letter they released.

Stephens spokesman Mark Liedl replied: "Our responsibilities are to enforce the laws of the United States. The purpose of the ongoing grand jury investigation is to determine whether any laws have been broken."

In an earlier letter to House Speaker Thomas Foley, the three Democrats disclosed their receipt of the subpoenas, for testimony before a grand jury next Tuesday. The subpoenas were first reported in the Friday editions of the Washington Times.

The letter to Foley called the criminal probe a "political witch hunt."

The three said a House report on mismanagement of the post office exonerated them of any wrongdoing, particularly of involvement in an alleged scheme to exchanges stamps for cash. The report quoted former post office supervisor Jim Smith as saying he had no information on the practice of exchanging stamps for cash, a subject reported to be under grand jury review.

Stephens has not said publicly what his interest is in the activities of the three members of Congress.

In May, the grand jury subpoenaed office vouchers of Rostenkowski, Kolter and Murphy from Jan. 1, 1986 through April 15 of this year.

Meanwhile, a special Justice Department counsel, conducting a criminal probe of the closed House bank, wrote House leaders Friday that he expects to review most member accounts by the end of August — and then inform lawmakers of the results.

The timetable set by Malcolm R. Wilkey presumably would let many House members know, just before their fall reelection campaigns, that they were not facing indictment in the bank overdraft scandal.

Democrats use family values as mere slogan, Bush charges

BROOKVILLE, Ohio (AP) — President Bush charged Friday that the emphasis on family values by the new Democratic Party ticket of Bill Clinton and Al Gore was "merely a slogan."

Bush's campaign trip to this western Ohio city was designed to help shore up his sagging standing in public opinion polls, and the president seemed charged up for a cheering crowd of hundreds at a community picnic.

"We have changed the world and now we want to use that leadership to make things better in the United States," Bush said.

The theme of change at home to follow changes abroad is one that both Bush and Clinton have been laying claim to in recent days.

The president said that while the time had come to focus on America's problems at home it also was no time to take national security for granted.

"We still don't know what's going to crop up," Bush said in remarks that apparently were not in the original draft of his Ohio speech.

In his Brookville speech, Bush bemoaned a 36-year Democratic hold on Congress.

"My terms as president are limited. What's wrong with limiting the terms of these old geezers" in Congress, he said, evoking a loud ovation and raucous laughter from the crowd.

Without ever mentioning Clinton or Gore by name, Bush laced his speech with references to the Democratic ticket and at one point said, "I'll lay my record up against them any time for constructively helping America."

The president maintained that he has been trying to "emphasize the importance of strong families," restating his previous call for Congress to approve a $5,000 tax credit for first-time home-buyers.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Career progress is swift for those who stay on their toes and investigate new and unusual opportunities. Be careful not to leave anything to chance. Excessive optimism is all that stands between you and a wonderful professional victory in December. Early in 1993, romance moves into the background as you pursue your career objectives. If possible, go back to school next summer.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: artist Thomas Eakins, journalist Midge Decter, actress Estelle Getty, running back Walter Payton.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Other people's actions will have a direct effect on your weekend plans. Temper your comments with kindness when dealing with an older person. Exotic surroundings are conducive to romance this evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Water sports, music and dance are favored today. Be wary of secret romantic entanglements or unusual financial deals. Be especially careful with someone who asks too many personal questions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your financial situation will dictate your weekend plans. A personal relationship takes on new luster just when someone seemed to be turning away. Accept constructive suggestions with good grace.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be scrupulous when looking out for your loved ones' best interests. Impulse, rather than reason, may determine what you do now. Avoid getting involved in too many projects at one time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your thoughtful ways will help you find someone who appreciates you. Make the time you spend with your loved ones today very special. You gain new acceptance from your neighbors and relatives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friendship and romance are in the spotlight. Correct a wrong impression by being more discreet. Show greater interest in your future financial security.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A dynamic, down-to-earth partnership will bring the good will and cash you need. Make do with less now and there will be an abundance later on. A relationship mystery is solved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stop seeking status when it is cash you really need. An innovative approach will help both you and your family. Declare your independence and strike out on your own — success will follow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You will have to bring up a sensitive subject yourself if you want to get involved. Be prepared to answer some tough questions. A new course of study will challenge you intellectually.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Find a quiet hideaway where you can carefully plan a winning strategy. A generous member of the opposite sex is more interested than you think.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A new project could mean higher income and juicier job benefits. Give your house a complete cleanup. You find romance and fun when you reach out to the right people.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You benefit from adopting a more reflective mode. Cash is on the way. Step lightly when it comes to love and marriage. This is no time for secrets. Cut through the fog.

Art Linkletter says he likes talking with children, seniors

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Art Linkletter said he enjoys talking to seniors as much as he likes chatting with children.

"The 4-year-old doesn't know what he's saying, and the 75-year-old doesn't care," he said Thursday.

Linkletter, who turned 80 last week, told an audience of retirees that seniors should stay active by volunteering, traveling and making new friends.

"We never had to plan for the last 20 percent of our lives," he said. "When I was born in 1912, the life expectancy was 47 years. We didn't have to think about getting old."

Linkletter interviewed youngsters on his television show "Art Linkletter's House Party" in the 1950s and '60s.

The government's Directorate of Publications said the lyrics of 15 songs on the album were considered undesirable. The government-run South African Broadcasting Corp. said the Jackson video was "of a very sensual nature which could offend viewers."

The Guns N' Roses songs cited include "Right Next Door to Hell," "Bad Obsession," "Shotgun Blues" and "Pretty Tied Up."

The Jackson video features Jackson and model Naomi Campbell dancing in the desert to a song from Jackson's "Dangerous" album.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Twelve years ago, Maya Angelou tried to no avail to get her musical "And Still I Rise" off the ground. Now she has rewritten it and plans a premiere in her hometown to raise money for black theater.

"It will be a dream come true for me to have the national community come see the talent we have here in my community," Ms. Angelou said Thursday.

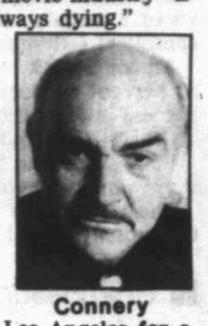

The show will open Sept. 3 in Winston-Salem as a fund-raiser for the 1993 National Black Theatre Festival.

Ms. Angelou, a poet, actress, playwright and professor at Wake Forest University, said the musical tells the story of a couple "who seem to have made some transition. They meet a gatekeeper who tells them in order to continue the process of living and/or dying that they must re-create highlights of their lives."

Clifton Davis, who won a Tony for his performance in "Guys and Dolls," and Ja'net Dubois, who appeared on television's "Good Times," are among the stars.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Sean Connery says the American movie industry "is like Broadway — it's always dying."

Connery

"But it's still got an entrepreneurial sense," he said Thursday. "I think what's hurting it now is that they're locked into sequels, and the energy that should be channeled into product is now channeled into making money back as soon as possible."

Connery has been in Los Angeles for a few weeks shooting "The Rising Sun," based on the Michael Crichton novel and directed by Phillip Kaufman.

• • •

NEW YORK — Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller, creators of the hit songs "Is That All There Is?" and "Hound Dog," are giving music students a boost with an annual scholarship fund.

The two established the four-year, $10,000 scholarships through the ASCAP Foundation.

Morton Gould, president of the American Society of Composers Authors and Publishers, introduced the first winners Thursday. In New York, they are soprano Nkenge Simpson and harpist-pianist Emily Lin, both 17. In Los Angeles, they are trombonist Carlos Perez III and drummer Trevor Lawrence, both 18.

Leiber, Stoller and composers Carmen Moore and William Bolcom chose the winners.

LOS ANGELES — Actress Annette Funicello, who recently disclosed she has multiple sclerosis, said Thursday she was eager to help bring attention to the degenerative disease.

"They want to make me national ambassador for multiple sclerosis and, oh yes, I'll do it," the former Mouseketeer and beach movie veteran said in a telephone interview from her San Fernando Valley home.

"I want to do this. I want to help people. I'm already getting people to donate to MS," said Miss Funicello, 49. "I've read they are so close to finding a cure. Do you realize there are 200 new cases a week of MS? Isn't that astonishing?"

Miss Funicello's participation in promoting MS awareness was welcomed.

World in brief

■ Premier says disintegration unavoidable

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Czech Premier Vaclav Klaus said Friday the disintegration of Czechoslovakia was unavoidable, despite opinion polls indicating people do not want the split.

Klaus and Slovak Premier Vladimir Meciar agreed Wednesday to propose federal legislation regulating an orderly separation of the state into two independent republics.

In an official opinion poll published Friday, only 16 percent of Czech respondents wished outright independence; 38 percent favored a unitary state and 19 percent supported the idea of a continued federation.

Among Slovak respondents, 16 percent favored independence, 30 percent supported the idea of a loose confederation and 27 percent a federation.

Others were undecided.

Both Czech and Slovak respondents said overwhelmingly that they wanted a referendum on the issue.

The 1,165 people were polled between July 2-9, with no margin of error given, said CSTK, the official news agency.

■ Chancellor hopes to convert synagogues

BERLIN — In a eulogy for German Jewish leader Heinz Galinski, Chancellor Helmut Kohl said Friday he hopes the synagogues that once served a thriving Jewish community can be converted back from memorials into places of worship.

Galinski, a survivor of Auschwitz and other Nazi death camps, died Sunday at age 79 after 43 years as head of Berlin's Jewish Community.

His memorial service and funeral brought prominent German politicians to Berlin along with diplomats, including Israeli Ambassador Benjamin Navon.

■ Police, fundamentalist clash in Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria — Police and Islamic fundamentalist demonstrators clashed Friday outside a mosque in Djelfa, 125 miles south of Algiers, leaving at least one person dead and several injured, state-run Algerian radio said.

It said the fray occurred after weekly prayers. Similar confrontations were reported in Batna, eastern Algeria, but no casualty reports were available.

In Djelfa, police fired tear-gas grenades and warning shots to disperse crowds chanting slogans in favor of the banned Islamic Salvation Front.

■ Yeltsin calls for action against hard-liners

MOSCOW — President Boris Yeltsin said on Friday that government authorities plan to initiate criminal proceedings against two of Russia's leading hard-liners for calling for overthrow of the Russian government.

Yeltsin identified the two as Victor Anpilov, a leader of the Russian Communist Workers Party, and former KGB Gen. Alexander Sterligov who heads the Russian National Assembly, a conservative and nationalist body uniting numerous movements and groups.

"Calls to overthrow popularly elected and, therefore, legitimate power cannot be left unheeded," Yeltsin told workers in the Siberian city of Omsk. His comments were carried by the Interfax news agency.

■ Greece orders ambassador to protest

ATHENS, Greece — Greece on Friday ordered its ambassador in Israel to express a "strong protest" over demolition of a Greek Orthodox church being built on Jerusalem's Mount of Olives.

The Jerusalem municipality on Thursday razed the church and another building under construction at the east Jerusalem site, saying they did not have the necessary permits.

Christians believe that Jesus visited the Mount of Olives site to weep over Jerusalem's lack of faith. Other churches are located there.

U.N. sends rescue team to help convoy

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — The United Nations sent mine experts and armored vehicles on Friday to help a U.N. convoy that was disabled by a mine as it tried to reach the besieged eastern town of Gorazde.

Also on Friday night:

■ Germany sent the first of six trains to pick up 9,000-10,000 Bosnian refugees who crossed part of Serb-held northern Bosnia in a convoy to Croatia.

■ Heavy fighting broke out at Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia-Herzegovina, according to Belgrade radio.

The mine explosion late Thursday aborted the first U.N. attempt to reach Gorazde. The city has been under siege by Serb forces for 81 days, according to the Belgrade-based Tanjug news agency.

A translator was injured when the armored personnel carrier escorting the three-truck convoy drove over the mine, U.N. officials said. Three armored personnel carriers and two land mine experts were dispatched Friday to escort the disabled convoy back to Sarajevo.

Tens of thousands of refugees are holed up with about 30,000 residents in Gorazde, virtually the last holdout against a Serb offensive in eastern Bosnia. At least 150 people were reported killed there this week.

"They want to destroy it," Bosnian defense official Maj. Dervo Harbinja said. "They want to destroy everything that moves. It is hell."

Except for brief interruptions caused by fighting, Sarajevo has been getting regular shipments of aid in an international airlift since U.N. officials took control of the airport on June 29.

But little aid has reached other parts of Bosnia. International efforts have failed to negotiate the opening of a land corridor.

At least 7,500 people have died since Bosnia's Muslims and Croats voted on Feb. 29 for independence. Some estimates put the deaths at more than 40,000. About 1.3 million of Bosnia's prewar population of 4.3 million fled their homes.

Nationalist Serbs in Bosnia have captured about two-thirds of Bosnia, primarily northern and eastern lands adjoining Serbia, Montenegro and Serb-held territory in eastern Croatia.

Downtown Sarajevo was relatively peaceful most of Friday, and Bosnian athletes left the capital by plane en route to the Barcelona Olympics. But fighting intensifed in the evening. Battles were also reported on the outskirts.

Belgrade radio said Muslim forces in Sarajevo began a fierce artillery and infantry attack on Serbian positions Friday evening and said the Serbs responded. Tanjug said Muslim forces had opened fire on several suburbs and around the airport, and it quoted Serb forces in western Bosnia as saying Croats had renewed artillery and mortar fire on Mostar after a four-day lull.

Tanjug, citing Bosnian medical sources, earlier reported nine people killed and 65 wounded in Sarajevo over the previous 24 hours.

Sarajevo radio reported fierce fighting Friday around Tuzla in northeastern Bosnia. It said Serbs attacked Gradacac and Gracanica and the area around Brcko, all to the north or northwest of Tuzla.

Harbinja accused Serbs besieging Sarajevo of unprovoked attacks with no strategic goal.

"The main aim is to kill as many non-Serbs as possible," he said.

In Belgrade, capital of Serbia, Patriarch Pavle, head of the Serbian Orthodox Church, messaged U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali saying little international aid was reaching Serbs trapped in Sarajevo and asking for his help, Tanjug reported.

Germany, which already has taken in more than 200,000 refugees of fighting in the Balkans, agreed this week to accept the Bosnian refugee convoy as well.

The six Red Cross-chartered trains it was sending each carry 40 doctors, nurses and midwives, along with medical supplies and food.

The British air force on Friday said it would fly 379 Egyptian troops from Cairo to Croatia to replace Canadian peacekeepers who have been in Sarajevo all this month.

U.N. official proposes to expand forces in Somalia

UNITED NATIONS (NYT) — Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali proposed a broad expansion Friday of U.N. forces in Somalia, an impoverished nation that he says has been deprived its share of world attention as it sinks into lawlessness and famine.

Coming only two days after he opposed a decision by the Security Council for new aid to Yugoslavia, and at the end of a week of diplomatic jousting and recriminations over the priorities of the United Nations, Boutros-Ghali's plan appears to be another sign of his determination to shift the way this multinational organization operates.

In a report, Boutros-Ghali called for the deployment of security personnel, aid workers and political negotiators in four separate zones in Somalia, where the government has virtually ceased to function. He did not specify how many people were needed, but diplomats said the plan would require several thousand.

"Somalia is today a country without central, regional or local administration," Boutros-Ghali wrote. "The United Nations must adapt its involvement in Somalia. Its efforts need to be enlarged so that it can help bring about an effective cease-fire throughout the country."

Diplomats here say that Boutros-Ghali's plan is intended in part to redress what he feels is a European tilt at the United Nations characterized by an international rush to aid Bosnia and Herzegovina and a reluctance to help African countries.

In the report, the secretary general drew attention to the desperate conditions in Somalia, a sandy country on the Horn of Africa where relief workers estimate that imminent starvation threatens a third of the 4.5 million to 6 million people.

One Western diplomat said the Security Council's reaction to Boutros-Ghali's proposal might depend largely on the position of the United States, which he said had been the least enthusiastic about aid to Somalia in recent months, because of the cost.

A senior U.S. official declined to comment on the report, but he denied that the United States had been slow in responding to Somalia. He noted that the Americans voted in April in favor of an resolution to approve in principle a commitment to send 500 U.N. officers there.

"We were the ones who were pushing for the report to come out sooner," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "There is an obvious need for action over there."

A special envoy that Boutros-Ghali sent to East Africa three months ago, Mohammed Sahnoun, said that bureaucratic haggling and obstruction within United Nations relief agencies had badly hampered efforts to get food to the hungry.

"Why can't we have the United Nations airlift operations the way they do in Sarajevo to avoid kids dying?" asked Sahnoun.

Sahnoun singled out the U.N. Children's Fund and the World Food Program as organizations whose officials have exaggerated the dangers in Somalia as an excuse for limiting their efforts in the capital, Mogadishu.

It's a Buyers' Market

...and Classified is the Buyers' Marketplace

Times like these make many of us think twice about buying anything, let alone a home. But it you look closely, you'll see there's rarely been a better time to buy. Interest rates are at their lowest levels in years; affordability is strong, and prices in many areas are declining. And despite what you may have heard, real estate should continue to appreciate at a rate above the current level of inflation. So, take advantage of this buyers' market—and look to [Journal Classified], the buyers' marketplace, for all the information needed to make a sound decision. Because, sometimes, good things come to those who don't wait.

BUY IT. SELL IT. FIND IT. CLASSIFIED.

KEEP ON TRUCKIN'

Pint-size construction workers will surely enjoy these three wooden toy trucks . . . a steamshovel, tractor, and flatbed truck with trailer. All three vehicles roll easily on their wooden wheels and the steamshovel bucket can be raised or lowered by turning the crank. Our plan has detailed, exploded drawings, as well as full-size traceable patterns for many parts of the vehicles.
