Stories about a Swedish cargo plane carrying supplies to Biafra being shot down by the Nigerian Air Force included a name that caught the eyes of some local residents.

The copilot of the downed plane was identified as a 33-year-old Swede named Stig Carlsson.

Some six years ago, a young Swede came to Snyder High School as an American Field Service Foreign exchange student. His name was Evert Carlsson.

Evert, of course, is not yet 33 years old, but Mrs. Dan Martin said she believed the copilot of the plane shot down in Africa probably was Evert's uncle. Evert Carlsson lived in the Dan Martin home while attending Snyder High School. Mrs. Martin said he had an uncle who would be about 33 years now and she recalled that Evert and his uncle both had adopted what they called the old spelling of Carlsson, whereas Evert's father spelled it Karlsson.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin have kept in touch with Evert from time to time and the last they heard he was scheduled to finish work at the University in Stockholm this summer.

As for the lost copilot, Stig Carlsson, Mrs. Martin said she could not be certain, but she was reasonable sure that he was Evert's uncle.

Various "happenings" at both the state and national levels could well make junior colleges more popular than ever, some observers believe. The latest is the threat of what some call a "loan crunch," which may make the financing of a college education much more difficult for many youngsters. Those who have an opportunity to complete two years of college work at or near their home towns could very well take advantage of it in greater numbers with college tuition money harder to arrange.

Then there is the unrest and turmoil on campuses of some of the larger colleges and universities. There are those who believe that many parents will be more inclined than ever before to keep their youngsters in smaller schools, closer to home, until they reach a more mature age.

In Texas there is another trend, which developed during the recent legislative session. That is the establishing of upper level colleges. These institutions will not have freshman and sophomore classes. Instead they will begin with the junior, or third year and continue through graduate level. This means that all students who attend such colleges must obtain their first two years of instruction somewhere else. One of the upper level colleges is to be located in West Texas near Midland and Odessa. — WACIL McNAIR.

Nixon Wings To Crucial Midway Meeting Sunday

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon wings westward over the Pacific today for crucial conferences with South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu on U. S. participation in the war and on ways to achieve peace.

President Nixon and his delegation will leave from El Toro Marine Air Station, south of Los Angeles, at 1:30 p.m. EDT.

The summit sessions are set for Sunday on remote Midway Island, after an overnight stop for the President in Honolulu and a final strategy session there with his key advisers.

In three working meetings for which they have allotted five hours, Nixon and Thieu will cover such questions as troop levels, Vietnam's ability to take over an increasing military role, elections and the Vietnamese political outlook.

Troop level discussions raise the question of troop withdrawals. And Nixon promised in his May 14 speech outlining an eight-point peace plan that there will be no unilateral American withdrawal.

But the word came from Saigon is that Thieu expects Nixon to push for de - Americanization of the war. Furthermore, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the No. 2 man in the American delegation to the Midway talks, said Thursday he has no doubt the Vietnamese government is moving in the direction of letting its own forces replace U.S. forces.

He said the training of the South Vietnamese to assume more combat duty was moving along rapidly.

Reports have persisted that Thieu and Nixon would come up with an announcement Sunday of plans for withdrawal of 50,000 U.S. troops from the fighting zones. White House officials have not denied this outright although they have said they knew of no firm basis for the reports. They also have said that troop strength naturally would enter into the Midway discussions, as is always the case at such a meting.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have stepped up their attacks in South Vietnam in the past two days, apparently in an effort to influence the talks.

And some critics of U.S. Vietnam policy have voiced doubts about the usefulness of the meeting. Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committe, said, "The meetings President Johnson had didn't result in anything significant."

Nixon will arrive in Midway, a dot of land 1,200 miles west of Hawaii where the United States won a crucial naval victory in World War II, at 4 p.m. EDT. Thieu follows in 14 minutes. Each chief executive will receive full military honors.

They drive immediately to the residence of the base commander for an hour and 45 minutes of private discussions—just the two of them. At the same time, their senior advisers will be in session at an officers' club.

After a brief break, Nixon and Thieu will arrive at the club for a working luncheon with their delegations .This is billed for an hour and 15 minutes. A final two-hour session is slated for the presidents and their senior advisers at the club.

Nixon heads for Washington, breaking the trip to spend Monday night here at his home overlooking the Pacific.

The schedule will get him back to the capital at 8:15 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Another question hanging over the conference is participation of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, in the future government of South Vietnam.

In his May 14 address, Nixon made no mention of a coalition government but said the United States is "prepared to accept any government. . .that results from the free choice of the South Vietnamese people." He added that all political elements prepared to participate in political processes without the use of force should be permitted to do so.

During visits recently to South Korea and Formosa, Thieu said he would never accept a coalition government with the Communists.

Rogers offered a possible compromise at his news conference Thursday. He said that perhaps a coalition commission that included the NLF might be set up to supprvise the election.

The delegation with Nixon includes, besides Rogers, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird; Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. delegate to the Paris peace talks; Henry Kissinger, presidential adviser on national security; and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

TO SWAP FARM IDEAS WITH ENGLISH — Rusty Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson and a senior at Snyder High School, checks his itinerary for a trip to England where he will live with a farm family this summer. As one of forty youths making an overseas trip in the Future Farmers of America Agricultural Exchange Program, Rusty will exchange ideas on farming with his hosts. He will be gone three months, concluding his summer program with a two-week tour of other European countries. (Photo by Terry McNair).

Student Killed In Helicopter Accident

Snyder FFA Youth Going To England For Summer

By EMPRESS McFARLAND

Rusty Wilson, Snyder High School senior, will exchange farming techniques and ideas with farmers in England when he spends three months on a farm this summer in Berwick-on - Tweed, Northumberland, Eng.

Rusty learned of the agricultural exchange program through an advertisement in the Texas Future Farmers magazine. After submitting three letters of recommendation along with information concerning his educational and farming background, Rusty was notified by the National Future Farmers of America Center, Alexandria, Va., that he had been accepted to participate in the summer program.

It was only this week that Rusty received word of where he would live in England. He will live with the J. W. Frater family and will spend most of his three month's stay helping Mr. Frater and his son in their farm.

An added feature of Rusty's trip abroad will be a two-week tour of various European countries. The organized tour will be sponsored by the International Agricultural Exchange Association, Copenhagen, Denmark.

In order to exchange farming ideas with the farmers in England, Rusty will take pictures of U. S. farms with him.

Forty boys will represent the U. S. in the exchange program. Rusty will be the only representative from Texas to go. The entire group will meet in Washington, D. C. June 16 for a briefing session. They will fly over together and be left at their respective homes.

The participants will stay in eight European countries, Australia and New Jealand. Rusty requested to be sent to England because most of the farms there are stock farms, and he felt that he knew more about stock farms than dairy farms.

Rusty and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson and four brothers, live on a farm seven miles west of town.

Active in FFA work, Rusty was president of the Snyder FFA chapter this year. He has also been a member of various contest teams since he was in junior high school. Rusty has competed on the state level with the quiz team, the Poultry Judging Team and the Grass Judging Team.

Rusty has a special interest in grass judging, and in individual grass competition he has placed in the top 10 at the Dallas, Ft. Worth, Houston and San Angelo livestock shows. During the spring, Rusty was high individual at the Texas Tech F.F.A. Judging Contest. He submitted a perfect paper.

At SHS, Rusty was vice president of the Junior Class. He plans to attend Texas A & M University upon graduation from high school.

Red Conference Attacks China

By JOHN WEYLAND
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev declared today the damage to world communism caused by Red China is "impossible to underestimate."

Addressing delegates of 75 Communist parties meeting in the Kremlin, Brezhnev said China had, in fact, broken with the Communist movement.

"The practical activities of Peking in the international arena more and more convince us of the fact that the international policy actually broke with proletarian internationalism and lost class Socialist content," he asserted.

Brezhnev's speech, broadcast by Moscow radio shortly after it was delivered was the most bitter attack on China to come from the three-day-old conference so far.

Contrary to the claims of Romanian party chief Nicolae Ceausescu, however, conference spokesman said there had been no advance agreement not to assail other parties.

There was no immediate word on the reaction of Romania and other parties to Brezhnev's reported attack on Red China. They objected Friday to other parties' criticism of the Mao Tse-Tung regime.

The conference has also heard criticism of the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia from Australian delegate Lew Aarons. Australian sources reported that Aarons told the conference Friday: "We have said and say again that the intervention harmed our cause and the struggle for a Socialist world."

Regarding China, Aarons was earlier reported to have said the issue would be best not discussed, but if it is brought up, the Czechoslovak question also should be aired.

C-C Drive Workers Urged To Report

Persons who have worked in the Chamber of Commerce drive are urged to make their reports prior to the Chamber board meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Members of the organization accepted assignments for the membership drive at a one-day event May 28. Since then, some three dozen new members have been added to the Chamber rolls. However, a number of workers in the drive have not yet made their reports.

Changes Seen In Draft System

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) —President Nixon says youth advisory boards will be established by Selective Service directors in all 50 states in the hopes of "a better informed and more responsive since draft mechanism."

Nixon announced the action Friday after 10 members of his youth advisory committee on the draft told him they consided the system inequitable and outdated.

A spokesman for the youth committee, John Loyd, 19, Ottumwa, Iowa, said they support Nixon's proposals for a draft lottery and a professional army. The group talked with the President in a 30-minute meeting.

The youths, nine men and a woman, said their suggestions included changes also in draft board personnel. Larry McKibben, 22, Ames, Iowa, said he suggested older draft board members be replaced with persons not over 30 years of age.

The President said his announcement that he hoped the establishment of the nationwide youth committees "will answer question about the conscription process which are now held by many of our younger citizens."

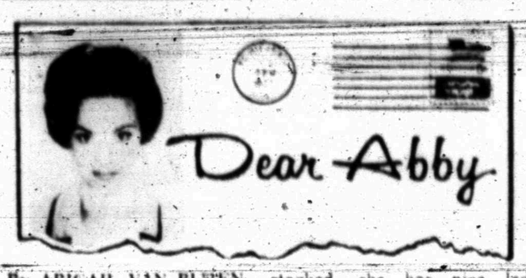

The woman in the delegation, Debra Anderson, 18, Lansing, Mich., said she thought women should help decide about the draft "because it's our boyfriends and our husbands that are being drafted."

Asked by a newsman if she favored drafting of women, Miss Anderson said she wouldn't mind going into the Peace Corps, "but most young ladies I've spoken to think universal service would be women shooting guns and they don't favor this."

Lloyd told newsmen, "I don't think anyone here is asking at the present time that we junk the whole draft system."

But Harold Studley, 25, New York City, a veteran, said "the whole system seems inequitable."

Jessee Green, 26, New York City, said he asked the President if all minorities on local draft boards. Green is a Negro.

DEAR ABBY: I have been giving this matter a lot of thought and have concluded that the custom of the man paying for everything when he takes a lady out is now outmoded.

First of all, today most women have as much, or more money than the man who invites them out. Also, isn't the woman getting as much entertainment as he is?

I can see a man supporting a woman in marriage, as she does many things for him such as keeping house and caring for his children, etc. But in dating, just what is she giving HIM that he isn't giving HER?

LEO

DEAR LEO: What you say makes sense, but since it is the man's priviledge to do the asking, and the woman must wait to be asked, I think initally he should foot the bill. After several dates, if the woman has "as much or more money" than the man, she will invite him to her place for home-cooked meals and buy him a few gifts. It all evens out.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 3-year-old child, and I have one big complaint to make.

We are trying to teach our little boy NEVER to accept candy or other goodies from strangers, but every time we go to a restaurant or store, the clerks or hostesses are constantly shoving candy into his hot little hand.

I realize they think they are being nice to him, but how are we poor parents ever to teach our children not to accept thinks from strangers when this happens all the time?

I hope you will put this in your column. It might help.

TUSCALOOSA MAMMA

DEAR MAMMA: Tell your child he may NOT accept anything from a stranger WITHOUT YOUR PERMISSION. And when a well-meaning but thoughtless stranger, hostess, or clerk gives the child a "treat" insist that the child return it saying, "I have to ask Mother first." Then, of course, give your permission (if you want the child to have whatever is offered) but go thru this ceremony until the child is trained.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 years old, have been married for only 6 months and I already have a problem. My husband is always looking at strange women and making personal comments about them. "She's well stacked, she has nice legs, she's too fat, she's too skinny, her hair is pretty," etc. Now, Abby, he wouldn't notice these things if he weren't constantly looking, would he?

I have told him I didn't like it and I wish he'd stop, but he says I'm jealous and should get over it. I've even tried making the same kind of remarks about strange men I see, but it doesn't seem to bother him.

I'm no slob myself, so I don't think I'm jealous. Why does he do this, and how should I handle this irritating problem?

DEAR BOTHERED: No matter what he says, if it continues to bother you when he makes personal remarks about other women, he's trying to get your goat. Try to find out why he feels the need to needle you.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that it is not proper etiquette to use a typewriter for personal correspondence? I recently bought a typewriter and have been using it for that purpose, and now I am told that it is "improper," that all personal letters should be hand-written. What is your opinion?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I would be more concerned with the legibility of a letter than anything else. And I think anyone who would be critical of a typewritten personal letter is a stuffed shirt.

* * *

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Activities will start with barbecue luncheon at the dam site served by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang. Anyone may obtain tickets ($1.55) at the Chambers of Commerce in Odessa, Big Spring, Snyder, San Angelo and Robert Lee. The dedication program will be at 1:30 p.m. at the northeast end of the dam. Signs on roads approaching Robert Lee will direct traffic to the site.

Contract for the dam and the land, pump station, and the relocation highway, pipelines, and power lines, as well as construction of more than a score of oil well mounds, ran the total cost to $14 million. Pipelines fanning out as far as Odessa, together with pump stations and other facilities, will run the total project cost to $34,500,000.

Charles Perry, Odessa, president of CRMWD, expressed the hope that there will be a large crowd at the barbecue and program. The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Ambassador's Club is running at least one bus to the dedication site.

The Department of Public Safety said the explosion was apparently touched off when Stanberry flipped a faulty electrical switch in the boot pit of the elevator. Combustible grain dust in the air ignited from a spark in the switch.

White Cross To Mark Gravesite

WASHINGTON (AP) — A white wooden cross will mark the permanent grave of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, with quotations from his speeches inscribed on a granite wall at the opposite end of a 35-foot long reflecting pool.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

It seems so wrong that our nation is getting so socialistic that the working man has to feed the idle.

There are so many able-bodied men and women on welfare who won't take a job offered to them.

And it is so wrong that our government has to pay on so many illigitimate children. We should have another John Smith to tell the people, "People who won't work shall not eat."

It is very encouraging, however, that so many teen-agers want work and we should hire then when they try and not turn them back just because they have not had experience for that is the only way they get experience.

MRS. ALLEN DWANE CEARLEY

Savage-Cearley Vows Are Pledged May 20

Miss Barbara Grace Savage became the bride of Lt. Allen Dwane Cearley on May 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents on the Johnson Ranch in the Ennis Creek community. Rev. Allan Cartrite, pastor of the Early First Baptist Church, performed the double-ring ceremony before the living room fireplace. Floral arrangements consisted of baskets of white roses and stephanotis on either side of the fireplace, with a candelabra holding seven white tapers on the mantlepiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Faries Savage are the parents of the bride. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cearley, 1912 Cedar, Amarillo.

As guests arrived, they were registered by Mrs. Clara Mae Johnson, aunt of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle, Homer Savage of Garland. The bride and her attendants entered the room by a stairway. The wedding gown, designed and made by the bride, was of peau de soie with Alencon lace sleeves and featured a round neckline. Her train, made of the same fabric, was attached at the shoulders by covered buttons. A jeweled headdress held her veil.

For something old, the bride carried the Bible used by her sister, Mrs. Billy Ray Harless of Koza, Okinawa. She borrowed two six pence, minted in the years of the couples births, from her mother. She wore a blue garter and her dress was new. Her bouquet was of white rose buds with white streamers attached to the white Bible.

Miss Barbara Comstock of Amarillo, roommate of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was of blue dotted Swiss with an Empire waist. Her head piece consisted of a blue grograin bow with a blue net circlet. Mrs. Charles Casey of San Antonio was bridesmaid. Her dress was identical to that of the maid of honor. They carried colonial bouquets.

Douglas Cearley of Amarillo served his brother as best man. Paul Savage, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

During the ceremony the couple lighted their memory candle with tapers given them by the minister.

Before the marriage ceremony, the candles were lighted by Miss Leslie Loyd.

Wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Robert Hagins at the piano. Mrs. James Jones, soloist, sang, "Walk Hand in Hand," "The Twelfth of Never," and "Wedding Prayer."

The memory candle, surrounded by the bouquets of the wedding party was the centerpiece on the table at the reception. 10-In-One Volume

A PART OF SPACE: Ten Texas Writers. Edited by Betsy Fdagan Colquitt, Texas Christian University Press, Fort Worth.

Texas Christian University Press has published a collection of writings by 10 Texas Authors as a part of its spring creative writing celebration.

All the 10 items stand alone and make excellent reading in addition to sampling the work of the better writers of the state.

The volume proves that Texans can be fine writers and poets although somehow few of them gain the national notice they should.

The book contains a portion of "In a Narrow Grave," one of the most gripping publications ever to be produced in Texas. The author Larry McMurtry, a product of Archer County and other points, proves again that he will become great if not softened by the ivory tower atmosphere at Rice University.—The AP.

Poor Man's Chichester

THE LIVELY LADY. By Eric Rose. David McKay. $4.95.

Sort of a poor man's Francis Chichester, Eric Rose trailed his more famous circumnavigator around the world ayearlater and 92 days more slowly.

Appropriately his book is a more modest effort than Chichester's, but it has its own charm.

When Chichester undertook his highly publicized, single-handed voyage round the world, he was already a famous adventurer. He was sailing Gipsy Moth, a specially built, expensive racing craft and he had in hand a clutch of contracts for books and such.

On the other hand, Eric Rose was a modest shopkeeper hardly known to fame. He was sailing The Lively Lady, a smaller, heavier, older, slower boat thht he had outfitted on a shoestring. Battling nearly everlasting headwinds, he came within an ace of losing his mast on a couple of occasions. Like Chichester, he fought off physical ailments as well as big waves. And like Chichester he voyaged back home to Plymouth, England, to the acclaim of other Englishmen who felt somehow that these long voyagers had revitalized the seafaring traditions of Britain's Elizabethan age.

For Eric Rose this was the culmination of a lifelong dream. Like most such seafarers, he tries to answer the obvious question of why he did it and, like most, he falls short somehow in his explanations.

For a quick dessert, fold together thick sweetened applesauce and beaten white of egg; serve with a sauce made from packaged instant vanilla pudding.

TIKE And Five Stories. By Jonathan Strong. Atlantic-Little, Brown. $5.75.

"Tike" is a 114-page novella in which a lonely young male experiences a very brief crush on a girl and is overwhelmed by it.

The narrator, Tike himself, is 21 and for the first time is living away from home. He works evenings, shelving books in a college library, has a puppy named McDog, and collects recordings f serious music.

Living in the same building is a beautiful 23-year-old named Val, a flirt with a self-destructive streak in her makeup. Purely as a matter of whim, she seduces Tike and then abruptly drops him.

The story deserves the overworked term perceptive. But its style is a bit tricky, as most of its sentences contain about four to eight words.

Of the five short stories in the volumn, four are so slight they are of little significance. The other one, "Supperburger," is once again a self-revealing narrative told by a youth, this time an 18-year-old drifter who sometimes is mistaken for 15-year-old. His principal interest in life is in cadging favor and attention from adults.

Strong, at the age of 24, has made a remarkable start as a writer, and he is able to convey the psychological convolutions of the young mind. If he can mature and develop as a writer without turning arty or pseudo-literary, he should have quite a future.

Author Has Great Memory

LOVES AND TRAGEDIES. By James McKinley Bryant, Rocket, Dallas. $9.95.

A blithe person named James McKinley Bryant, his face flushed from a probable double martini and certainly from his zest for living, nashed in the other day and announced that his "Loves and Tragedies" was going into a second printing.

That certainly is a reasonable reason to take a lok at the book which just didn't fall this direction the first time around.

James McKinley—that name has a much better ring than simply "Jimmy"—is a resident of Dallas in a way: He keeps a post office box here permanently and occasionally dips in to grace the city.

The last time this reviewer saw James McKinley, he was in town to sell the true Mona Lisa. The one in the Louvre in France, he hinted pretty broadly, probably is a second-rate copy and not at all as good as the one he had stashed away in a humidified bank vault on the flats of New Jersey.

So you know what kind of book it is going to be before you open it.

Along with the review copy of the book, James McKinley displayed a pair of advertisements for the volume. Guess Where? In the Racing Form.

Anyone who knows the author is in danger of forgetting about the book and remembering the man. However the book is all about the man, largely his loves, proving that beds are made for everything except sleeping.

Bryant began as a steelworker, shipping around the world, became an unsuccessful boxer—his hands always broke—and turned to gambling, writing and anything else that might show a profit. This is his fourth book.

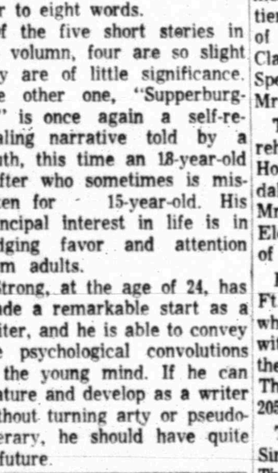

His book races along at a dizzy pace as he tells of his relations with Al Capone, names well known less than a generation ago in the film and stage world, ad financiers and persos generally termed "characters."

When you see Bryant, it is difficult to realize he is 63 years old, but his memories go far back and his ability to reconstruct events and conversations is great.

In addition to its intrinsic interest, it will take a great many persons back along the threat of memory.

And if the story weren't enough, Bryant has included scores of pictures, largely of national and international figures.—The AP.

Seeing With Sound Is Coming In Near Future

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you were a doctor, what would you give to see your patients completely transparent, in three dimensions and living color?

If you were an oil executive, what would you give to find the 85 per cent of the world's black gold that is now undetectable?

All this and more may be possible in a few years with acoustical holography, a way of seeing with sound.

Just now emerging from laboratories are "cameras" using sound instead of light. Since sound travels through many materials opaque to the human eye, such devices when perfected will "see' submarines as clearly as if they were on the surface, peer through windowless buildings, detect missile silos dug deep in the earth.

And, as a spinoff, three dimensional movies you can view without trick glasses, possibly even 3-D television at home, may be just around the next technological corner.

A technique called holography is the "magic window" that opens a heretofore invisible world to human eyes. It uses laser beams to create a three-dimension image from a two-dimension film. Acoustical holography brings sound waves, pitched too low or too high to be heard, into this process.

With it, scientists predict, they can build diagnostic equipment far superior to X-ray machines. This "all-seeing eye" will not only see behind bones; it will show soft tissue such as muscles and arteries, hearts and livers in three dimensions and in color. Malignant tumors will be detectable much earlier than they can be today. And there will be no danger from radiation, scientists insist, because the sound waves used are less energetic than xrays and thus not damaging to tissue.

"Still" images will come first, but eventually a surgeon will be able to guide his scalpel by watching a 3-D screen highly magnified, focused at any depth into the incision area.

At a recent symposium, a team of researchers from McGill University in Montreal and the University of California Medical School in San Francisco reported: "Now that it has been conclusively shown that ultrasound used at the required intensity levels is safe for routine use on humans, the traditional reluctance of the medical profession toward anything new and mechanical is finally being turned to a growing interest and demand for more sophisticated ultrasonic applications . . . A sophisticated holographic technique might easily provide the answer to diagnostic difficulties found in a wide varety of tumors, in numerous abdominal disorders, lung disorders and cardiovascular disease. The conditions are legion, the possibilities awesome, with ready application to be found in practically every field of medicine including surgery, ophthalmology, pediatrics, neurology and perhaps most obviously in obstetrics."

What is a hologram? It's a piece of photographic film, much like that carried in conventional cameras. The difference is that it has been exposed by a laser beam instead of ordinary light.

Light from the sun, or from a lamp bulb, has many different wave lengths, which means it is of different colors, and scatters outward from the source in all directions.

Light from a laser is all one wave length, or color. The waves also are coherent, or "in phase" with each other.

Such a beam can be made extremely powerful, amplified to a point where it can burn through steel or diamonds. It also can be made quite "soft," so that it wouldn't hurt a butterfly's wing. The latter type of beam is used in holography.

In making a hologram, a lasered beam is directed at a three- dimensional object, such as a wood screw. The reflected light bounces back and hits the photographic film, turning the grains of its emulsion light or dark in proportion to the highlights or dark spots on the screw.

Before the reflected light reaches the film, however, it must run interference through another beam of lasered light, which has been split off from the original beam and mirrored across the path of the reflected rays.

These reflected rays have been broken up by the irregular surface of the wood screw. They are out of phase with the unbroken mirrored rays.

This blending of light beams is what gives a hologram three dimensions. The mixed rays now carry information not only about the light and dark areas of the wood screw—which is what you see in a conventional photograph they also carry information about the precise distances of those light and dark areas from the film.

It is this characteristic which gives holography its name. "Holo" means whole, or entire; graph means something drawn or written, in this case a picture written with light. A hologram is an "entire" picture because if contains additional information — about distances—which is missing from a photograph.

When lasered light is projected through the hologram, the original scene appears, in three dimensions.

Acoustical holography substitutes sound waves for light waves in the first step of the process—the exposure of the film. This is done by converting sound waves electronically into light waves, which can act on the emulsion. A three-dimensional effect is then created by projecting lasered light through the sound-exposed hologram.

Since sound travels easily through water and other materials that block light, it provides an excellent way of seeing inside the human body, more than nine-tenths of which is water. Combined with holography, it gives a 3-D image of the skin, the muscles and bone underneath, and the veins and arteries coursing through them.

Fire Hits Houston Theater

HOUSTON (AP) — Fire ruined the Heights Theater, one of Houston's oldest, early Friday.

District Fire Chief F. A. Hooker said the flames spread with unusual speed but the cause had not been determined.

The theater, northwest of the downtown district, was showing the controversial film "I Am Curious (Yellow)." It has been picketed by objectors.

Junior Editors Quiz on CHOCOLATE

QUESTION: How can chocolate and cocoa come from a tree?

* * *

ANSWER: In certain warm countries such as Brazil, Ghana and Nigeria, which lie not far from the equator, the cacao tree is raised in large numbers. About 25 feet tall, this tree bears small flowers which turn into fruits or pods, each of which contains from 20 to 40 seeds. From these seeds, which are fermented, dried, roasted and ground, all chocolate products are made. The first product of the grinding is called chocolate liquor. This has a very rich flavor but it is unsweetened and bitter. When cooled into solid form, the liquor becomes unsweetened baking chocolate, which is widely used in flavoring cakes, puddings and desserts. Manufacturers press some of the coco butter from the liquor and turn what remains into a fine powder; this is the cocoa which gives us such a fine drink. When extra coco butter and sugar is added to the liquor, we get the sweet and semi-sweet chocolate which is used as a coating for chocolate candies. When milk solids are added to the last, we have that favorite American food: milk chocolate.

June 8-14 Is Little League Week In Snyder

IT TAKES PRACTICE — Success on the Little League diamond in most cases is a result of practice and a continuing effor t to improve. This is a typical scene at one of the "warmups" preceding a Little League doubleheader in Towle Park.

THE HAPPY FANS — Adults who attend the Little League baseball games in Towle Park will tell you they get almost as much enjoyment out of the program as the boys who participate in it. Wherever Little Leaguers gather, you can be sure their supporters aren't far away.

THE DUGOUT — A popular gathering place for young Little Leaguers who lend encouragement to their teammates while waiting their turns at bat is the dugout. For most Little Leaguers, it's a home away from home.

THE SCOREKEEPERS — The official scorekeepers make a valuable contribution to the Little League program. Here, Les Francis, father of one of the Little Leaguers, and Dr. Robert Hargrove, coordinator for the Leagues, are busy keeping up with the progress of the game.

THE CONCESSION STAND — An indispensable aid to the Little League program is the concession stand where mothers of the boys donate their time and efforts to making the games more enjoyable for the fans. Ready to dispense popcorn, soda pop and snow cones are, from left to right, Norma Franks, Mary Brandon, Renee Waller and Sheila Prescott.

UNBIASED OBSERVER — Umpire Bud McClanahan dusts off the plate, signaling the beginning of Little League action in Towle Park. Little League games, just like any other endeavor in life, have rules that must be followed. The umpire is an important part of the summer baseball program.

HELPING HANDS — Ushers at Chicago's Wrigley Field are too late in trying to nab a young spectator who ran on the field during Chicago Cubs-Houston Astros game. He eluded the ushers when fellow fans dropped a knotted rope from the bleachers and he scampered up the wall. (AP Wirephoto)

Arnie's Army Gives Advice

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Home remedies for various miseries are as common as apple pie, but few people have received as many in recent months as Arnold Palmer, the millionaire golfing idol stricken with a sore hip, the putting yips and a bad tournament slump.

"Everybody seems to have the answer to my troubles," said the game's all-time leading money winner as he hammered away in his work shop. "They send me all sorts of wild putters. They give me instructions on what I'm doing wrong. They have liniments, exercises and pads that are supposed to cure my hip problem.

"I appreciate them all. I don't shrug any of them off. But I'm afraid if I get it going again I'll have to do it myself.

"I will admit I've beenn a bit preoccupied with my business interests. I need to settle down and start concentrating more. I intend to do it. I see no reason why I shouldn't start winning again."

Palmer's next major test is the U.S. Open Championship, starting next Thursday at the Champions Club in Houston, Tex.

This will mark his 17th Open without a miss since he made his debut as an amateur in 1953 and there's probably been none he was more determined to win.

He hasn't had a major victory since his fourth Masters in 1964. His last tournament triumph of any type was the Kemper Open last fall in Sutton, Mass., an event most of the top names skipped. He has had a frustrating campaign, with finishes as low as 37th in the Crosby and Colonial, 27th in the Masters and 25th in his last outing at Atlanta.

Although his Open record is the best of anyone for the past decade—a championship in 1960, three ties for the title only to lose in playoffs and runner-up to Jack Nicklaus at Baltusrol two years ago—he was forced last week to qualify for the 1969 Championship.

"It's the rules—I felt I owed it to golf to try to qualify," he said. Yet it was hard for him to hide his chagrin and disappointment.

He met the challenge by firing rounds of 70 and 68 over the par 72 Youghiogheny Country Club in nearby McKeesport to lead the sectional tests. It was the best golf he has played in months.

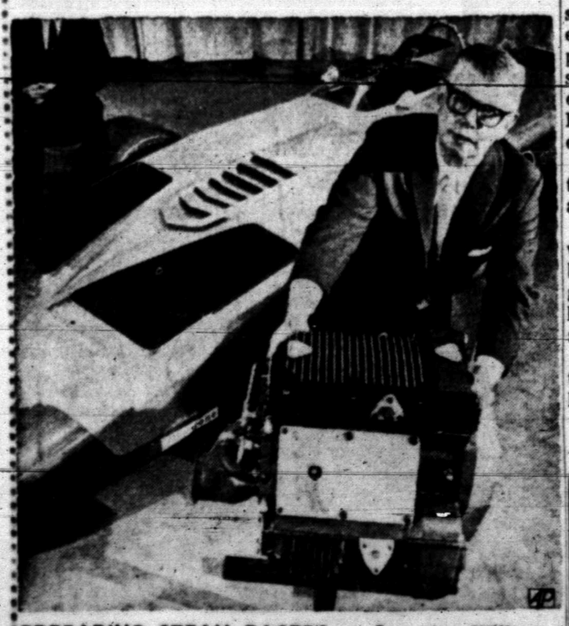

"It made me feel good," Palmer said. "I knew I had to qualify, so I just went out and played golf. It was like the old days. I hit the ball and followed it, not worrying if I hit a bad shot. I felt I could recover, and I did.

"I can't explain it. You might say I was hungry again. I was determined. I concentrated. My putting wasn't so bad. It was a gratifying day."

Palmer said he liked the Champions course, which he labeled a good test, and predicted he might make a good run at the title if his putting stroke holds up.

"I've tried everything," he said. "Now I've got this old putter. Doc (Doc Giffin, his man Friday) welded it. I beat it into shape and painted it black. I'm getting some of my confidence back."

Palmer's just back of the ranch house on a hill overlooking the Latrobe Country Club where his father is greenskeeper and pro is cluttered with weird-looking putters mailed him by concerned members of Arnie's Army.

Gaylen Pitts Celebrates His Birthday

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nothing like a 23rd birthday to get a guy fired up.

Gaylen Pitts celebrated his birthday Friday night with a long homerun to spark Arkansas to a 3-1 Texs League victory over Eastern Division leading Shreveport.

In other TL games, El Paso bombed Dallas-Fort Worth 9-2, San Antonio edge dMemphis 5-4, and Amarillo tripped Albuquerque 4-1.

The victory was an important one for Arkansas, pulling teh Travelers within two and one-half games of the Braves. Righthander Reggie Cleveland won his eighth game of the year, scattering six hits.

El Paso batted around in the seventh and eighth innings to Dallas-Fort Worth. A bases-loaded triple by Jim Vopicka was the major blow.

A two-run double by Bernie Williams snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning as Amarillo won its fifth straight game. Bill Frost claimed his fourth win against three losses with a five hitter.

In games tonight, the same teams play at Amarillo, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio and Shreveport.

Bullets Blank Dodgers 4-0

The Bullets took a 4-0 decision over the Dodgers in an exciting Junior Teenage League clash in Towle Park Friday night. They fashioned their victory behind the 1-hit pitching of Marvin McClanahan.

The only Dodger able to get a base hit was Don Phariss, who stroked a single in the 5th. He never got past second base. The Dodgers also put men on base in the 2nd, 3rd and 6th frames on walks or errors, but none of them got beyond third base. Their best chance for scoring occurred in the 2nd when Tim Holder walked and got to third with one away. However McClanahan bore down and retired the next two batters in order to quash the threat.

The Bullets scored one run in the 1st, one in the 5th, and two in the 6th. Ralph Johnston and McClanahan led the attack with two hits apiece. Other Bullets who earned through with singles are V. T. Roberson, Eddie Bane, W. Loper and Mell Blalock. Bullet defensivemen made only one error, and the Dodgers committed only three miscues.

Monday's schedule calls for the Sports to tangle with the Buffs and the Bullets to meet the Braves.

Hardwick Is Keg Champion

By The Associated Press

—Billy Hardwick of Louisville, Ky., defeated Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., 289-192 to win the Professional Bowler's Associations $70,000 Smallcomb Classic.

It was the 27-year-old Hardwick's fourth championship this year and raised his leading money winning figure to $41,725.

Hardwick, who qualifies in the fourth spot among the five finalists, won four games to take the title. He started by eliminating Harry Booth of Mountain View, 267-245. He then defeated Wayne Zahn of Tempe, Ariz., 279-246, and won his way into the title match with a 247-237 victory over Larry Laub of San Francisco.

Stefanich received $3,200 for second place; Laub got $2,500 for third; Zahn $2,000 for fourth, and Booth banked $1,500 for fifth place.

Soup Firm Buys Track

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CAMDEN, N.J. — The Campbell Soup Co., swinging a multi-faceted $56 million deal, acquired the Garden State Race Track, a minority interest in Hialeah Park and a pair of plush motels Friday.

After making the deal with Eugene Mori, Campbell said it would sell Garden State to the Man o' War Racing Association, organized by a group of Philadelphia area businessmen who will operate the track for the benefit of non-profit hospitals.

Mori, Hialeah's 70-year-old president and board chariman, reportedly had an agreement to but back the transferred Hialeah stock and will continue to operate the swanky Florida race track.

According to a source close to Mori, who was unavailable for comment, the Hialeah phase of the deal amounted to a formality designated to avoid more complicated stock transfers.

Also in the package bough by Campbell were the Cherry Hill Inn and new Cherry Hill Lodge, both near Garden State Park in Cherry Hill, N. J. Campbell said it was "diversifying—going into the quality inn field by acquiring the motels."

Record Draft For Majors

NEW YORK — Baseball's major league teams scanned the nation and came up with a record 1,042 players in the regular phase of the free agent draft.

An additional 150 players were selected in the secondary phase of the two-day grab bag which ended Friday.

Among those selected was Mike Weaver, son of Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. Weaver was picked on the 43rd round by Seattle for its Clinton, Iowa, farm club. The youngster, a second baseman, has been playing at Maplewood High School in Richmond Heights, Mo.

Namath May Reconsider

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Did Joe Namath really mean it?

Yes, Joe Namath really meant it when he said he was quitting.

But because he meant it when he said it doesn't mean that Namath won't be back taking the snap from cener, the familiar No. 12 on his green and white Jet jersey stretched over his slouched shoulders, when the 1969 pro football season begins.

That Namath meant what he said was apparent Friday when the shaggy-haired quarterback of the New Jets, tears running down the cheeks that have so often been bussed by adoring mini-skirted girls, announced he was quittig pro football rather than sell his interest in an East Side cafe frequented by gamblers.

But Donn Clendenon announceu his retirement, and changed his mind. Ken Harrelson announced his retirement, and changed his mind. Maury Wills annouced his retiremet, and changed his mind. Joe Namath announced his retirement, and can change his mind.

Namath, himself, left the door open when he, as a lark, avowing his announcement at the Bachelors III night spot, center of the dispute, whether he thought his differences with Pro Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle could be resolved.

"I hope so," said Namath. "The last thing I want to do is quit football."

And what could make Namath change his mind? His loyalty to his teammates.

Namath's hand may already have been pushed in that direction by the quick support he received from three other members of the Jets - splitend George Sauer Jr., tight end Pete Lammons and defensive back Jim Hudson.

All three, first - stringers on the team that stunned the pro football world by upsetting the Balimore Colts 16-7 in the Super Bowl less than five months ago, said they would join Namath in retirement.

Brewer Finds Form Again

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIDLOTHIAN, Ill. (AP) — Gay Brewer, who hasn't scored a regular tour victory since the 1967 Masters' says a refound putting strike is responsible for his lead going into today's third round in the $130,000 Western Golf Tournament.

"I've been in a kind of a slump for a year and a half," the pug-nosed pro said after shooting a second round 67 Friday for 136 and a one-stroke lead over Frank Beard and a couple of non-winners, Dick Rhyan and Rocky Thompson.

"I really hadn't been playing that badly," he said. "But it was my pla yaround the greens, my putting. Then I was watching some home movies of myself and I discovered what I was doing wrong on my putting.

"I was moving my head with the stroke. I corrected it just this week. Now I'm putting much better. I'm concentrating well, hitting my irons good. My whole game is in good shape."

And the home movie he watched?

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus had a 72 for a 143. Billy Casper improved to a 69 and is in contention at 141. PGA champ Julius Boros had a 72 for 144 and George Archer, the Masters champion just made the cut for the final two days play, taking a 146.

Expos Lose 18th Straight

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Montreal Expos, like the New York Mets, might have to wait eight years before winning eight games in a row, but right now the Expos must be asking what it takes to win one straight.

The Expos failed to come up with the correct answer again Friday night when they dropped a 4-2 decision to the Los Angeles Dodgers, their 19th straight defeat.

Muddling through their first year of existence as one of the four latest expansion teams, Montreal already has replaced the Mets' expansion record of 17 consecutive losses and now is closing in on the modern all-time record for 23 set by Philadelphia in 1961.

The Mets, in contrast, are setting an example for perservence for all expansion clubs. After suffering through years of ineptitude as one of the first expansion teams, the Mets have suddenly become a team to be envid, rolling by the New San Diego team 5-3 for a club record eighth consecutive victory.

The Expos and Mets weren't the only big losers and winners around.

The Chicago Cubs ran their winning steak to seven by clubbing Cincinnati 14-8 in a day game while San Francisco handed Philadelphia its sixth straight loss, 4-0.

In other games, Atlanta trimmed Pittsburgh 3-1 and St. Louis beat Houston 6-3.

In the American League, Baltimore stopped Seattle 5-1, Boston overcame Kansas City 4-2 in 11 innings, Washington slipped by Minnesota 1-0; Oakland defeated Detroit 5-3; the New York Yankees nudged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, and Cleveland blasted California 8-3.

New Fracture Sidelines Willie Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hard luck Willie Davis, who missed the first three weeks of the season with a broken arm, will miss at least two more with a broken cheekbone, doctors said today.

Davis was hit on the right chekbone Friday night by a Dan McGinn pitch. Davis was rushed to Daniel Freeman hospital while the Dodgers were beating the Montreal Expos 4-2 for the Expos' 19th consecutive defeat.

Dodger officials said X rays disclosed that the right zygoma bone was broken. It was immediately wired.

Davis was batting .236 with five home runs, 13 runs batted in and five stolen bases. However, he was only 1-for-10 in his last two games and Wednesday made an error in the 15th inning at New York that enabled the Mets to win, 1-0.

The cheekbone fracture, doctors said, would keep Davis out of the lineup for at last 10 days.

During a spring training game in Florida, Davis was at the plate against Atlanta pitcher Clude Raymond. He was hit on the right arm and sustained a hairline fracture that kept him on the disabled list until April 28.

Oddly Raymond hit Davis on an 0-2 pitch and that was the count Friday when McGinn hit the left-hand hitting Dodger outfielder.

Cards Clip Braves, White Sox Rip A's

In the first of two Little League games in Towle Park Friday night the Braves fell to the Cardinals 9-11.

Weak hitting by the Braves and strong hitting by the Cardinals seemed to be the determining factors of the game.

The Braves could only manage two hits off Cardinal pitcher Bernie Weems. Both of them came in the sixth innin, when Jerry Day and Brad Francis slapped singles.

Cardinal batters hit Brave pitcher Dennis Young eight times. Clifford Kay singled in the first followed by Keary Rodgers and Bernie Weems with singles in the second. Phill Robinson, Clifford Kay, Jeff Brown and Mike Clifton singled in the fourth and Ronnie Halford rapped a single in the fifth.

In the American League the White Sox trampled the Athletics 13-6. The Athletics didn't get a hit until the fourth inning when Hernandez singled. The fifth inning saw two more Athletic hits when Cobb and Walton rapped singles followed in the sixth with another single by Hernandez.

For the White Sox Gutierrez singled in the first. Rameriz hit a single in the second followed in the third with singles by Johns, J. Riggens and Villanueva.

In the fourth Tippens slapped a single and Buchanan blasted a double. In the fifth B. Riggins and Guiterrez singled and J. Riggens and Villanueva rapped doubles.

Winning pitcher for the White Sox was Larry Johns' and losing pitcher was S. Walton.

Turnstiles' Clicks Call The Golf Tune

By DENNE H. FREMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The defeat was only $1,134. But it may signal some changes in the historic Texas Open.

There's little doubt that money problems are besetting the tournament which—before it moved to a spring date—was the oldest on the Professional Golfers Association winter tour.

The big names of the tour—Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus, Gene Littler, etc—deserted the tournament en masse this spring.

Even the magic of Lee Trevino and his army of "fleas" couldn't put the tourney in the black.

The lack of "names' 'makes it hard to sell sponsorships—the backbone of most tournaments on the PGA tour. Sponsors don't want any piece of the action if the action desn't involve the top names in golf.

The Texas Open has been shunned the last few years like the plague by some of the super stars on the tour. Last year the PGA championship was held at Pecan Valley.

But before that Palmer didn't even defend his championship.

Members of the San Antonio Golf Association, the moving force behind the tourney, are understandably nervous.

There have been numerous suggestions on future action. A committee is studying these now.

Some of the suggestions include changing the format to make the tournament more of a "prestige" type—say an invitational.

Others would have it moved back to February from whence it came originally. Although the weather is sometines bitter, the big names like playing in San Antonio in the winter.

The PGA has a Feb. 26-March 1 date open on its calendar for the 1970 tour.

Ray Creek, association president, says golf czar Joe Dey has already questioned the SAGA about its 1970 plans.

Creek says, "This means that some other city would like to have our place and dates on the tour."

There's little doubt that there will be a Texas Open in 1970. But the best guess is it will be on the winter tour with some changes in the format.

The click of the turnstiles calls the tune. Always has and always will.

A's, Braves Fall In Farm League

The White Sox blasted the Athletics 14-5 and the Cardinals slipped by the Braves 10-9 in two Farm League games held last night in Towle Park.

In the first clash the Athletics were able to hit White Sox pitcher Jeff Reed only four times. Larry Landreth slapped a single in the first inning bringing in two runs. Mario Herreao singled in the second and later scored followed in the third with a single by Randy Tate and a triple in the fourth by Larry Lee.

The White Sox came on strong as they rapped out eight hits. Larkin West singled in the first followed in the second with singles by George Willis, Robert Early, David Thompson and Ruben Gonzales and a double by Randy Wilson.

In the third inning Richard Willis and West both singled for the final White Sox hits.

In the National League game the Braves scored nine runs with two hits both singles by Jimmy Crow in the first and second innings.

For the Cardinals Mike Dickenson singled in the first and Randy LaFlower in the second. Doug Nall slapped two doubles, one in the third and one in the fourth, followed by another single by LaFlower in the fourth.

Winning pitcher for the Cardinals was Gary Eckert giving up only two Brave hits while Allen Gleghorn, giving up five hits, was the losing pitcher.

War Cloud, foaled in England, and Northern Dancer, a product of Canada, are the only Preakness winners to be foaled outside the United States. War Cloud won a division of the race in 1918 and Northern Dancer scored in 1964.

Terry Hanratty had 34 passes intercepted during his career at Notre Dame. It was a school record.

Lake Jackson, John Mahaffey, San Antonio, Ross Collins Jr, Dallas, and William Cromwell, Bastrop.

Cougar Is Am Leader

CONROE, Tex. (AP) —Bruce Ashworth, University of Houston shotmaker, held a seven stroke lead today going into the final 18 holes of the 60th Texas State Amateur Golf Championship Tournament.

Ashworth fired a par 71 during the second round Thursday over the River Plantation Golf Course. He had a course record 65 Thursday and a 69 the first day to give him a 54-hole total 205.

Jim Colbert, University of Houston golfer, was in second place with 212. He had the third day's low round of 69 to place beside earlier rounds of 73 and 70.

Tom Porter of Amarillo held third place with a 70-69-75—214. Chuck Brownfield of Stamford, the first day leader with a 67, had a thre eday total of 215 and was alone in fourth place.

Four plyers were tied with 217s. They were Arthur Russell,

Potent Clippers Rap Parker, Reds 11-3

Snyder's Clippers spotted Colorado City three runs, then pounded Randy Parker for 10 hits and 11 tallies to take an overwhelming 11-3 decision in a Senior Teenage League clash here Friday night.

The host Reds scored one run in the 1st when Self walked, stole second, and came in on an error. Parker knocked a home run to lead off the bottom of the second. Hill, the next man up, singled and scored Colordao City's third run when Lynch knocked him in with another single.

Bruce Almond and Jim Patrick, who relieved for the Clippers in the third, allowed Colorado City only six hits. Parker singled again in the 5th and the other two hits, both singles, went to Garcia and Ramsey.

The Clippers also came up with some sharp defensive plays. Colorado City put men on base in every inning, but they couldn't score after the first two frames.

The Clippers scored their first run in the 3rd when Joe Wilson tripled and came in on a single by Steve Holder George Kay singled in Milton Cates and Patrick, both of whom walked in the 4th. Kay crossed the plate himself on a single by Mike Levens.

Cates knocked a 3-run home run in the 5th, scoring Bill Branson and Almond ahead of him. Bill had reached first on a fielder's choice and advanced to third on a single by Almond, another walk and a sacrifice by Patrick accounted for the final four Clipper runs in the 6th.

Also stroking singles for the victorious Clippers were Randy Levens and K. Patrick.

Almond fanned five and Patrick struck out 10 Reds. Parker also whiffed 10.

Composer Talks About Musical Generation Gap

By JAMES E. WALTER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP — Jumping to his feet, composer Rudolf Friml sang out "ya! ya! ya!" in a rock 'n' roll beat and did a few swivel-hip steps that could have done credit to a 15-year-old.

Friml, however, is nearly 90. "Isn't that type of music just awful?" asked the man who composed such quiet standards as "Rose Marie" "Indian Love Call," "Giannina Mia," and "Donkey Serenade."

"I feel so sorry for today's young people. Life should be beautiful, a melody of happiness. Yet the way they live, the frantic pace, the inability to relax—people are just destroying themselves today. And it shows in the way they aren't able to appreciate good music—just this cannibal-beat stuff."

The years have been kind to Friml, son of a poor baker in Prague, Czechoslovakia. His voice is firm his mind agile, inquisitive.

He rides a bicycle and demonstrates his daily routine of knee bends and other physical exercises.

From his studio living room atop Lookout Mountain, with its expansive view of Los Angeles and the Pacific Ocean, Friml keeps to a rigorous schedule. He tries to practice at least four hours daily on the two concert grand pianos dominating the room, and he is composing a piano concerto he hopes to have ready in July for a concert at Chauttaugua, N.. He plans to conduct the orchestra himself for much of the program, and also play the piano.

Besides work on his new concerto, Friml is making piano recordings of everything he has ever written—and he does them himself, through use of tape recorders.

Friml, born Dec. 7, 1879, came to the United States in 1906 as a concert pianist.

His operetta, "The Firefly," in 1912 was his first Broadway musical success. He came to Hollywood in 1932. And the music he wrote for operettas such as "Rose Marie" and "The Vagabond King" still drew millions to the theater and motion pictures through the 1940s.

He has huge manila envelopes filled to overflowing with pictures of himself and musical greats of other years—ranging from Oscar Hammerstein to Jeanette McDonald—and also many of the Ziegfeld girls from shows for which he wrote the music.

But he is dismayed that "this generation has not been educated to hear good music." One solution, he believes, is for musical instruments to be made available to children in their homes. He says he was inspired that way.

"When I was a boy of about 4," Friml recalls, "my father went out one bitter cold night to buy some firewood. He stopped in a neighborhood tavern, had a couple whiskeys and wound up buying a piano with the firewood money.

"We were poor people and couldn't afford a piano. And we did need the firewood—badly. But my mother made the best of things. She noticed I liked to bang on the keys and decided to see if should have lessons."

Without that tavern piano, he feels, Rudolph Friml would have spent all his life like his father—as a baker.

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

Miss Lain awards a Mercury portable, courtesy of the Royal Typewriter Co., to Reba Farley, Sarahsville, Ohio:

"I am very much interested in becoming a teacher for retarded children. What are the requirements?"

A.— Preparation is similar to that required in general education — with additional courses related to mentally retarded children. The goal of special education teachers (the job title for all teachers of exceptional children, handicapped or gifted) is the same as for any teacher: to help students learn how to live better, to use all of their capabilities, and to become useful members of society.

OUT OF THE SHADOWS. It's estimated that more than six million Americans are mentally retarded — nearly 3 per cent of our population. Both the mildly and severly retarded child can be helped to achieve through a good special education program. Such programs include smaller class size, individualized instruction, and special curriculum and instructional materials.

REQUIREMENTS TO TEACH. Many colleges and universities offer professional preparation programs. In addition to general education courses, subjects necessary for a bachelor's degree may include: the psychology of the exceptional child, methods of teaching the mentally retarded, speech and language development, the interpretation of tests and measurments, and practice teaching. All states require a valid teachers certificate. More education is necessary for those who wish to work in research, administration and supervision, college teaching and program development.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE. Special education students have a good chance for federal aid, disbursed through educational institutions and state educational agencies. Examples of current allotments under Publi Law 85-926: A junior year college traineeship, $300; a senior traineeship, $800. A recipient of a master's level fellowship receives $2,200 plus $600 for each dependent, excluding the recipient. A post-master's level fellowship award is $3,200 plus $600 for each dependent.

WHERE EMPLOYED. Special education teachers work in public school systems, state residential schools, regional centers, private schools, state departments of education, colleges and universities, research organizations, the U. S. Office of Education and in Armed Forces educational systems overseas.

KIND OF PERSON. The retarded child requires an above-average teacher with a missionary attitude. She (most are women) must be patient, creative and dynamic, as well as blessed with a good sense of humor. She must be compassionately sensitive to each child.

OTHER JOBS IN MENTAL RETARDATION. The teacher may work with various professionals, psychologists, social workers, physicians and nurses. Also needed — and a college education is not necessary for these jobs — are teachers aides, nurses aides, and attendants in residential facilities and schools. These kinds of jobs offer a good way to try out the work before becoming a teacher.

EARNINGS. In one typical midwest school district, current special education teacher salaries range from $6,600—12,850. Your local school board can tell you salaries in your community. Top administrative jobs pay $15-20,000.

FINDING OUT MORE. Send for (1) "Scholarship Program, Education of Handicapped Children" — a free directory of financial aid for special education teachers, published by the U. S. government's Bureau of Education for the Handicapped. For your copy, send me a postcard in care of this newspaper.

(2) "Careers in Special Education," a well-done 32-page booklet. Send 25 cents to the Council for Exceptional Children, NEA, 1201 16th St. NW, Washington, D. C. 20036.

MILES TO GO. In ancient Greece, Spartans didn't require teachers for the retarded. They disposed of the mentally deficient by simply abandoning them. Though conditions have vastly improved, there still aren't enough teachers to meet the need. And above all, the mentally retarded are people who need people.

Two Texans Killed In Vietnam Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Servicemen killed in action in the Vietnam war were named Friday in a Defense Department casualty list.

They included:

Army

Texas — Spec. 4 Roddie L. Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Perry, 106 S. Edgefield Ave., Dallas; Pfc. Paul C. Janto, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Janto Jr., 3825 Clover Lane, Dallas.

Size Requirements On Tomatoes Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minimum size requirements for imported tomatoes have been removed, effective June 9, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The action had been recommended by the Florida Tomato Committee, which administers locally a federal marketing order regulating size and grade of tomatoes shipped domestically.

Under law, the same restrictions must apply to imported commodities whenever a federal order is in effect.

The minimum grading system will remain in effect, set at U.S. Grade No. 3.

The removal of the size restriction comes as the tomato harvest is ending both in Florida and in Mexico, the source of most imported tomatoes.

Farm Price Support Payments Being Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) There is little indication that the Senate will go along with a House-passed limit on government price support payments to individual farmers.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., is against the $20,000 limit tacked onto a House appropriations bill to finance the Agriculture Department during fiscal 1969-70. He is chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee currently reviewing the department's money request for the coming year.

Although he says he did not support the Food and Agriculture Act now in effect, Holland said last week nevertheless he does not want "to see it emasculated" by the House payment lid.

Thus, Agriculture Department officials are cautiously saying, the present farm program probably will remain undiluted another year-until the end of 1970 when it is supposed to die naturally.

But all sorts of horse-trading is possible. And if Senate proponents can generate enough steam the payment limitation could become a popular issue despite Holland's objections.

Direct farm payments last year totaled nearly $3.5 billion, most of it going to producers of cotton, feed grains and wheat in return for cooperating in government programs aimed at tailoring production to demand.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has dodged the question on whether the Nixon administration would want a limitation at all. He says—as he told Holland's subcommittee last week-that "it is possible to design a sound program that limits the number of dollars that can be paid to any one farmer for programs following the 1970 crop year." In other words the Nixon administration prefers a hands-off policy until new farm legislation can be proposed, possibly by next fall.

Hardin uses the complicated cotton program as the main gun supporting the status quo.

Because of far-sighted authorship when the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 was written, cotton farmers would be sheltered from most of the shrapnel caused by the payment limitation bomb.

Consequently, Hardin has told both the House and Senate, costs of the cotton program actually would increase $160 million for the 1970 crop.

This year, without a limitation on payments, a grower has the option of planting all or part of his farm allotment. In return, the government guarantees him a price support loan of about 20 cents a pound.

If the farmer grows only 65 per cent of his alloted acres-roughly his share of the U. S. domestic market-he can collect additionally a price support payment of almost 5 cents.

The remainder of the acreage would be idled at his own cost since the 1969 program permits no "diversion payment" for unused acres as in 1968. The idea this year was to encourage full planting and boost cotton production.

Therefore, a cotton grower now can get about 35 cents a pound for 65 per cent of his allocated production. If he planted his entire allotment acreage the remaining 35 per cent would be eligible only for the 20 cents a pound price support loan.

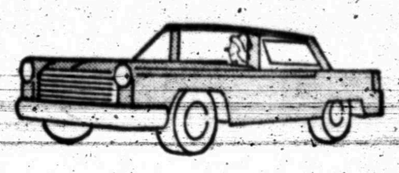

But under the farm act's "snapback" provision, if limitations are invoked farmers would be able to receive price support loans in one form or another equal to at least 65 per cent of the cotton parity price or roughly 32 cents a pound.

This would mean an incentive for planting the total alloted acreage since whatever a farmer grew would be eligile for the one price support rate.

Hardin says direct payments would be eliminated under the snap-back rule but that more cotton would be turned out, raising the cost of price support loan operations in 1970 to about $1,283,000,000 instead of $1,116,000,000 estimated for all benefits under the present system.

Southwest Corner Not Safest Spot

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — There is a popular notion in the tornado-prone Midwest that the safest place in the home to seek shelter from a tornado is in the southwest corner. A University of Kansas professor says it's a dangerous notion.

Dr. J. R. Eagleman, head of the meteorology department, said the southwest corner may be a death trap.

Richard Garrett, chief meteorologist of the Weather Bureau in Topeka, said Friday that the bureau stopped advising people to seek shelter in the southwest corner in 1966.

Dr. Eagleman has been studying tornado damage throughout the Midwest since 1966, under a grant from the U.S. Public Health Service.

"Most tornadoes really do come from the southwest," Eagleman said in a statement issued by the university. "In the past, weathermen have advised people to take shelter there, thinking that the worst of the damage would pass over quickly, leaving them safe.

"In actuality, when people take shelter in the southwest corner of a house on the first floor, not the basement, the brunt of the impact strikes the southwest, carrying with it heavy debris that may endanger those in that corner.

Eagleman says that even in homes with basements, the north or northeast corner is safer.

Garrett said the old advice was predicated on the assumption that as a tornado broke a house apart, the debris was more likely to be deposited on the northeast side of the house.

"If there is no basement," the instructions say, "take cover under heavy furniture in the center of the house."
