The SDN Column

We'll put Snyder up against any other community anywhere near its size in competition for number of community activities the past two weeks.

History Appreciation Week and the Festival of Arts scheduled in connection with Western Texas College's dedication accounted for daily events—much of the time several each day.

On top of this came the politicians. Several candidates for state offices and campaign representatives of others visited the city, and of course the local candidates were busy trying to put in appearance at all of the public events. The local political campaign probably reached its zenith Thursday evening when the Jaycees held their county rally at the pavilion in Towle Memorial Park.

There were still some special events going on at the college, however. The Festival of Arts associated with the dedication will conclude today with a musical program in the WTC fine arts theatre.

That doesn't mean that things will not continue to happen on the WTC campus, however. It is a busy campus and that is the kind it is going to be from now on.

The contract for the new road to serve the college campus was awarded the past week by the Texas Highway Department, and it could be that the project will run a race with the calendar. The contract calls for completion in 150 working days which may put it in a "touch and go" situation concerning asphalt topping next fall. This type of work usually is suspended during the cold months because the asphalt and gravel blend better in warm weather.

Educational toys reportedly made the biggest news at the Dallas Market Center's annual Toy Show which ended Wednesday. Some of the apparent favorites included crystal growing sets, glass staining kits, bottle cutters, candlemakers, a geology lab, and there was even a computer set for youngsters to assemble. Another popular item was a weather forecasting kit.

There were many things besides guns this year, but one exhibitor reported that military guns showed more strength than last year.

There were some real nostalgic items on hand for the older "children." One was a half-scale 1910 Model T Ford with a three horsepower gas engine, and for train bugs to assemble in their own backyards, there were railroad models built to scale which could be bought ready to assemble, or custom-assembled.

Also, there were a lot more toys made of wood than in recent years.

Precincts Show Wide-Open Race

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK
Associated Press Writer

Democratic precinct conventions held across Texas Saturday revealed only one thing for certain—it's going to be a wide-open race though the county and district and state conventions to the national convention as to which presidential hopeful gets the Lone Star state support.

Early and scattered returns from across the state indicated that the big struggle will be between the supporters of Alabama Gov. George Wallace and a coalition of conservative and liberal forces favoring and "uncommitted" delegates.

Wallace was strong in afternoon conventions, held mostly in the rural counties, overwhelming those favoring "uncommitted" delegations and supporters for Sen. George McGovern.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who was in Texas last week in behalf of his campaign for the presidential nomination, urged his supporters to vote for an "uncommitted" delegation. Party regular conservatives also favor the "uncommitted" position.

Humphrey, as the Democratic presidential nominee in 1968, carried Texas. Wallace, as the American Party presidential candidate four years ago, won approximately 19 per cent of the Texas vote but it was evident he was doing far better in Saturday's Democratic precinct conventions.

Reports from Palestine showed that Wallace should have 118 of the 160 delegates at the Anderson County convention next Saturday. In Wilbarger County (Vernon), Wallace appeared assured of 132 delegates to the county convention while 66 were uncommitted, Humphrey had three and McGovern one. In Henderson County (Athens) Wallace got 42 of the 60 delegates.

In Victoria County (Victoria), which has a larger urban population, 107 of the 163 delegates to the county convention will be uncommitted, 25 will be for Wallace, 20 for Humphrey, and 11 for McGovern.

Republicans held their precinct conventions, too, but on the whole they were uneventful and devoted mostly to resolutions of praise for President Richard Nixon and his administration.

Briscoe Grounded In Uvalde

AUSTIN (AP) — Dolph Briscoe sat through a rainstorm at the Uvalde airport Saturday night while his margin in the Democratic governor's race rose through the night, his office here said.

"Texas voters have shown they want a change," Briscoe said in a message relayed by radio from the airport. "Before I comment any more I want to wait for the remainder of the vote."

A Briscoe spokesman said the gubernatorial candidate took off shortly before 10 p.m. as scheduled to fly to Austin for a gala celebration with his campaign staff. But shortly after his plane was in the air they were warned that a tornado had been sighted in the area and they returned to the Uvalde airport. Then the rainstorm hit.

At midnight Briscoe was still grounded, and it was still raining.

Yarborough Well Ahead

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Dolph Briscoe and Frances Farenthold, two persons never touched by the Sharpstown bank loans-stock scandals, swept their way into a runoff for the Democratic nomination for governor in late returns from Saturday's voting.

At a late hour, Briscoe had just under 50 per cent of the ballots counted to that point, while Mrs. Farenthold had 22.03 per cent.

Going down to a bitter defeat was Gov. Preston Smith, who vetoed the banking bills that were the key to the scandals but who made $62,500 in the deals.

Trailing in third place was Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, who never was connected with the scandals but who apparently fell afoul of a mood of many angry Texans to change the state's top leadership.

A runoff will be needed for the most powerful office in state government—the lieutenant governorship—between Bill Hobby, Houston Post executive, and state Sen. Wayne Connally, brother of former Gov. John Connally.

Ralph Yarborough, trying for a political comeback, was forced into a runoff for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate with Barefoot Sanders, who ran a stronger race than some expected. Three minor candidates received enough votes to force the runoff.

Mrs. Farenthold, Vassar grad cum laude and a state representative, gained an unusual victory by reaching the runoff. She was handicapped by her liberal outlook in a conservative state, but she of all the candidates was most vocal for reform in the state Capitol.

For Briscoe, it was one of the greatest comeback in Texas political history.

It was Briscoe's second bid for the governorship. He ran fourth in a field of 10 for the Democratic nomination in 1968—the year Preston Smith placed second and went on to take the nomination in the runoff and eventually capture the governor's chair.

A runoff appeared certain for the Republican nomination for governor.

Returns in both Democratic and Republican primaries demonstrated that Texans are strongly against school busing.

Incumbent Crawford Martin held a slight edge in the race for attorney general.

Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, Treasurer Jesse James, Agriculture Commissioner John White and Railroad Commissioner Byron Tunnell led their opponents by healthy margins in the latest vote counts.

Texas Oppose Forced Busing

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

Texas voters, following a nationwide trend, expressed mounting opposition Saturday night to forced school busing to achieve racial balance.

With returns pouring in from across the state, the Election Bureau reported voters rejecting the volatile issue by a margin of about 4-1.

The non-binding referendum appeared on ballots in both Democratic and Republican primaries.

Republicans also dealt with the less controversial topic of Daylight Savings time.

Neither of the issues carried the force of law.

In a referendum spinoff, a Lufkin resident complained to state officials that the busing proposal did not appear on the Democratic primary ballot in Lufkin.

The Secretary of State's office said the matter would be investigated.

In advance of the election, there appeared little doubt that Texans in large numbers opposed forced school busing to achieve racial balance.

But to precisely what extent was unknown.

Democrats offered their voters this proposition:

"No public school students shall because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school. This referendum applies to the required busing of public school students and provides for equal education for all public school students."

The Republicans went a step further:

"Are you in favor of a constitutional amendment which would prohibit forced busing of school children or forced consolidation of school districts solely to achieve racial balance?"

In both instances, an affirmative response expressed opposition to busing.

A statewide poll conducted less than a year ago by Joe Belden indicated nearly eight out of 10 Texans were opposed to busying school children to achieve racial integration.

"In more than three decades of public opinion measurements, seldom has The Texas Poll found an issue more soundly rejected," Belden reported.

None of the gubernatorial candidates fully endorsed busing, although Gov. Preston Smith charged at one point that an opponent, Rep. Frances Farenthold, favored the issue.

Showers Cover County

Showers ranging up to an inch and a half swept across Scurry County late Friday and then returned Saturday.

The Friday night rains were accompanied by lightning and booming thunder, but there were no reports of hail.

Snyder logged .87 inch in the official gauge at the city water plant, but some areas of the county had more. Rains from an inch to nearly an inch and a half were reported southeast of Snyder, and 1.2 was gauged at Hermleigh.

Sprinkles occurred from time to time Saturday as Scurry County voters went to the polls in primary elections, but the rains were not enough to interfere with traffic around the polling places. A drizzle set in after 6 p.m.

Meanwhile, some areas of the state reported vicious weather Saturday. A tornado uprooted some trees and damaged homes near Jourdanton in South Texas.

Two scoutmasters were killed and another was injured when lightning ripped into a Lake Arrowhead Boy Scout campsite at Lake Belton on the Fort Hood Army base. The scout leaders were participating in a camporee. None of the scouts attending was injured.

Severe thunderstorms dumped pea-sized and marble-sized hail along a stretch of the high plains near Plainview and Littlefield, and ice nuggets the size of golfballs pounded Muleshoe.

Bluff Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a straight face and racing imagination, Sen. William Proxmire told two would-be holdup men, "Go ahead and shoot because I have terminal cancer and will be dead in two weeks anyway."

The bluff worked and the men ran.

The Wisconsin Democrat, who said he is in good health, related the incident to the Senate on Friday. He said he was walking home Thursday night when the men accosted him and one threatened, "Give me your money or I'll blow your head off."

It was the second time in six months Proxmire has been a victim of crime. His home in northwest Washington was burglarized earlier. He said the culprit has been sentenced after confessing to the crime.

Jim Leighton is in his 10th year as Wake Forest tennis coach.

Litter Is Attracting Mice

WELLINGTON (AP) — Trash-dropping climbers in New Zealand have been blamed for a thriving mouse colony on top of Mt. Egmont (8,260 feet).

The Fujiyama-shaped peak was mouse-free until early this year. But the lure of litter and warm weather enticed the mice to the snowddappled summit.

Egmont National Park member David Rawson blamed two kinds of litterbugs: Those who spill rubbish unthinkingly, and those who conceal it under rocks.

Good Orators

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — A local youth was destined to win the American Legion oratorical contest held here. It couldn't have been any other way—his name is Dan L. Webster.

Webster, whose namesake, Daniel Webster, was one of the great U.SM statesmen and orators of the 1800s, received a gold medal and a $25 Savings Bond for winning the contest. He spoke on "Our Living Constitution," which was one of the original Webster's favorite topics.

Wilson, Jordan Win Easily

By JOHN L. HOTARD

Mrs. John Dowdy lost her bid to capture her husband's 2nd Congressional District seat, with state Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin leading her in the Democratic primary by a four-to-one vote Saturday night.

Dowdy, convicted last year by a federal jury in Baltimore of bribery conspiracy, did not run, listing ill health as the reason.

State Sen. Barbara Jordan apparently became the first black to go to Congress from Texas since Reconstruction. She led a field of four black candidates in the Democratic primary in the newly created 28th Congressional district of Houston.

Mrs. Jordan at a late hour had 21,248 votes, with her closest opponent, State Rep. Curtis Graves, with 2,390.

Former television weatherman Dale Milford took the lead over state Sen. Suffolk County Disaster Area

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (AP) — Suffolk County, which stretches from Nassau County to Montauk Point on the eastern end of Long Island, has been declared an employment disaster area by the Federal Government, making it eligible for emergency relief funds and loans to private industry.

The designation will enable the county to receive money under the Public Works and Economic Development Act for everything from industrial sewers to roads, tourism facilities and research laboratories.

Pictures Helped Make Point

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — Milkman Ron Mason took his camera along after having been booked for driving on the wrong side of the road.

In court he produced pictures of garbage trucks and even a motorcycle cop all on the wrong side of the road in the early hours.

Case dismissed.

Liberals Margin In Danger

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, (AP) — Two Texas Senators went down in defeat Saturday and two others, battled for their political lives as Democratic conservatives and liberals battled to control the 1973 Senate.

The thin margin of dominance that liberals claimed in 1971 apparently was in danger.

Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg, who was found innocent several months ago on a charge of receiving stolen property, lost to Rep. Raul Longoria of Edinburg, by a wide margin. Longoria's voting record ranges from liberal to moderate. Bates voted liberal on some issues but received business support in his campaign.

Sen. Ronald Bridges of Corpus Christi, a liberal, lost to conservative Michael McKinnon, Corpus Christi television executive, by a completed vote of 29,161 to 22,379.

Sen. Don Kannard, Fort Worth liberal, trailed W. C. Meier of Euless, a conservative, by a 10,001 to 8,511 vote at midnight. Enough votes were still out to throw the race either way.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, Galveston, a liberal leader in the Senate, also found himself at trouble at midnight, leading Rep. Dean Neugent of Dickinson, a conservative, by less than 2,000 votes.

Rep. Grant Jones of Abilene, a conservative took an early lead in his contest with Rep. Tom Moore, Waco liberal and a Dirty 30 coalition leader, but Moore pulled ahead later in the night.

With most of Taylor and McLennan votes counted, along with Hamilton county, Moore held a lead of 17,162 to 16,512.

In another key conservative-liberal battle in Houston, Rep. Bob Gammage, who calls himself a "militant moderate," took a lead over Rep. Ray Lemmon, a "concerned conservative."

Rep. Jack Ogg, Houston conservative, had a good lead over Mrs. Gertrude Barnstone, former Houston school board member, in early returns.

Sen. Jim Wallace, Houston liberal, easily outdistanced Dr. Marion Ford, also a liberal, in early returns.

Two other liberals, Sen. Chet Brooks and Rep. Rex Braun also fought it out.

Price, Head Runoff Likely

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

House Speaker Rayford Price seemed headed for a run-off with a "Dirty 30" member in inconclusive early returns Saturday night from a three-county East Texas district in the Democratic primary.

Price, who must be re-elected to the House before he can run seriously for speaker of the 1973 Legislature, had 1,820 votes to 2,083 for Rep. Fred Head of Troup and 1,581 for Bill Green of Palestine. Head was a member of the "Dirty 30" from its birth.

Meanwhile, the man whom Price succeeded, convicted ex-Speaker Gus Mutscher, had a commanding lead in early returns from his district in the Brenham-Navasota area.

In the Senate contests, liberal Sen. Joe Bernal of San Antonio ran strong in incomplete returns against three challengers and had at least a chance of winning without a run-off.

With about 25 per cent of the votes counted in their district, Rep. Raul Longoria of Edinburg led Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg—who recently was acquitted of charges that he received a stolen diamond—almost 2-to-1.

Two of Price's chief "team" members—Reps. Don Cavness of Austin, the speaker pro tem, and Ed Howard of Texarkana, House Administration Committee chairman-held strong early leads in their races for re-election.

But Rep. Bill Finck of San Antonio, newly appointed chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, was slightly behind lawyer Matt Garcia in a San Antonio neighborhood district.

Barnes Named Tech Professor

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Robert H. Barnes of San Antonio has been named professor and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry for the Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

Building Aiding Minorities

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The construction industry could be the way out of poverty for many members of minority groups, a University of Texas study shows.

The study was made by Robert W. Glover, who interviewed black and Mexican-American contractors in Houston anf black contractors in Atlanta, Ga.

Glover wrote a Ph. D. dissertation for the UT-Austin Economics Department on his findings.

He said the construction industry "offers more potential for upgrading minorities than any other industry."

But minority contractors seem to have special problems, Glover found.

Most have three or fewer workers and concentrate on residential work such as plumbing and brick-laying instead of more lucrative commercial or industrial construction, he said. Less than 20 per cent of the contractors interviewed were general contractors.

Lack of adequate interim financing and recruiting and holding workers appear to be the two biggest problems of minority contractors, Glover said.

Refunding Is Cash Hobby

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: I would like you to write about refunding as a career. -- M.J., Memphis what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Refunding was news to me, so after checking into it I can see how homemakers get hooked -- its intricacies are fascinating. Refunding isn't really a career, but an extra-money hobby. Here's how one expert defines . . .

"REFUNDING: the process of sending boxtops and labels (or other proofs of purchase) to companies who offer to send cash, coupon or gift (refund) in return. Companies issue such refund offers as sales promotions to induce you to buy and try their products."

Consumers who are serious about their refunding hobby try for savings of about 10 percent or more on their monthly grocery bills, amounting to $15-20 on the average. Dedicated refunding buffs may get a return as high as $35 or more each month. There are even refunding clubs, whose members swap coupons and labels.

Although several thousand refund offers are made every year, not many are well publicized. This fact gave birth to the refunding bulletins – publications listing which companies are making what offers.

THE PUBLISHER of one such bulletin, "Gold'n Refunds," is 33-year-old homemaker and mother of 5, Mrs. Carole Kratz of Hannibal, Ohio. She operates her publication from home and works long hours at it. (Refunding IS a career for her and other refund bulletin publishers.) Sometimes her husband, Roger, and the children pitch in on the clerical load.

A former secretary and weekly newspaper columnist, Mrs. Kratz has achieved what so many homemakers yearn for – an independent home business. She started her refunding activities rather casually 8 years ago "by sending in a coupon for a 35 cents refund." Becoming knowledgeable about the refunding business, she later wrote what remains the definitive book on the topic, "Golden Book of Refunding." Some 4 years ago she purchased the refund bulletin she now publishes from a friend she met through "refunding activities."

The refund bulletins contain all sorts of "inside" scoops. Sponsors of many, if not most refund offers (food, drugs, soaps which are accountable to the Federal Drug Administration), now must not only send you your entitled refund – but repay your 8-cent stamp as well, according to Mr. Kratz's bulletin.

Speaking of stamps, send an envelope with one on it to me at this newspaper if you want the names and addresses of several refund bulletins. Ask for "Refunding Bulletins."

Countries Curb Steel Exports

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that Japan and seven Western European countries have agreed to halt further inroads into the U.S. market for steel through 1974.

Under a new three-year voluntary agreement to curb their exports, the foreign producers said they would limit their share of the American market to the present level of 15 per cent.

In a statement, President Nixon said:

"This undertaking represents a substantial improvement over the arrangements of the last three years and will enable domestic steel producers to make their plans with confidence that imports will not be disruptive in the domestic market. It will help preserve the jobs of American steel workers."

Besides agreeing to limits on over-all steel exports, the foreign producers agreed to even more stringent curbs on exports of higher-priced specialty steels such as stainless, tool and other alloys.

In these categories, the voluntary limits for 1972 and 1973 will represent rollbacks from last year's actual shipment levels.

The United Kingdom, for the first time, joined Japan and the European iron and steel community in initialing the export restrictions. The other countries involved are Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

Under agreements in effect from 1969 through 1971, foreign producers were permitted to boost their exports by an average of five per cent each year, allowing them to claim an ever greater share of the U.S. market.

The new agreements limit the growth rate to an average of 2½ per cent annually—or a level in line with the recent growth of the U.S. market for steel.

Nathaniel Samuels, deputy under secretary of state for economic affairs, supervised a year of talks culminating in the accords with Japan and with the European producers.

AWOL Soldier Arrested Here

City Police arrested a soldier absent without offical leave from Fort Pok, La. on Twenty-fifth Street about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon about half an hour after he ran away from them at Travis Junior High School.

Apprehended for Army authorities was Charles Henry Porter, 18, former Snyder resident. Officers said they received a tip the soldier had been meeting a girl friend at Travis Junior High School after school was dismissed for the day.

He was originally arrested at the school, but he fled from officers on foot as they were escorting him to the patrol car. A few minutes later, he was spotted near the Steak House and arrested again.

Screwworms In 3 Area Counties

Area producers are urged to check livestock closely for possible screwworms, Billy Roach, local County Agent, emphasized. Positive cases of screwworms have been identified on three sides of Scurry County, so the possibilities of infestations in the county are very real.

"Dr. James E. Novy from the Mission Screwworm Laboratory visited the County Extension Office and expressed concern for the buildup of screwworm cases in Texas this year," the agent said.

Roach said that before male sterile flies could be released in Scurry County positive identification of screwworms must be made. The only way this can be done is to send the screwworm larvae to the Mission laboratory. Just a notification that you have a case of worms will not be justification for a fly drop. Mailing vials and cartons are available in the County Extension Office and anyone is welcome to pick up one. If a producer has a case of worms, any bottle or container with alcohol in it will do until he could secure a mailing vial, the Agent said.

If the present screwworm buildup is suppressed, it will require the help and cooperation

Romero Rites Are Set Here

Funeral rites for Tom Romero, Colorado City policeman and former Snyder resident who died early Friday in a Big Spring hospital, will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church. The body was to lie in repose in the Guadalupe Chapel from Saturday morning until time for the funeral.

Fr. Francisco Lopez will officiate at the funeral rites and burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mr. Romero died after suffering wounds when he reportedly tried to break up a fight at a bar in Big Spring on Thursday night.

Man Killed In Mishap

Robert Lee Jordan, 22, 3-D Motel, Apartment 7, was killed in an accident at C.E. Knight Co. Casing Pullers in the 4300 block of College Avenue at 4:55 p.m. Friday.

He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service and died shortly after arrival. Justice of the Peace J.P. Billingsley ruled that death resulted from an accident.

Investigating officers said Jordan and another employe of the firm were working under a pulling unit, draining oil. The air brakes on the pulling unit apparently failed and it rolled over Jordan, crushing his head and arm.

Rites were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home. Included among survivors is his father, Earl Westly Jordan, of Houston.

Jump, Landing End Skyjackings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two domestic skyjackings ended Saturday with the parachuting of one money-laden air pirate into an isolated region of Central America and the landing in Cuba of a war protester who vowed he'd keep commandeering planes.

The extortionist bailed out of an Eastern Air Lines Boeing 727 jetliner with $303,000. One report said he jumped into the jungle country where the borders of Mexico, British Honduras and Guatemala meet. Another put the escape area in the mountains in Honduras.

It was the second successful extortion hijacking of a plane. Last November a man calling himself D.B. Cooper parachuted to freedom in the Pacific Northwest with $200,000 extorted from Northwest Airlines.

The Eastern hijacker, described only as a Vietnam veteran about 45, took control of the plane with 48 passengers and seven crew members aboard an hour after the flight left Allentown, Pa., Friday morning on its way to Miami.

The armed man forced the plane to land at Dulles Airport Outside Washington, then demanded the ransom in exchange for the passengers. He released them along with an ill crew member.

The jet took off and landed tagain at Dulles for a change in the bill denominations.

It finally flew to New Orleans. There he switched to another aircraft and headed for Central America.

Having obtained two bush knives, two jump suits, two crash helmets, food, drink, cigarettes, the money and six parachutes, the skyjacker bailed out sometime before dawn.

The crew landed in Mexico and went straight to bed after the 21-hour ordeal.

Several hours after the Eastern hijacking, a modishly dressed youth commandeered a Western Airlines jet shortly after it took off from Salt Lake City.

Prices Tops In Business News

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were at the crux of the nation's business news during the past week.

The Price Commission ordered a freeze on prices of all companies with annual sales of $50 million or more that fail to file their quarterly profit-margin reports by next Wednesday.

It also decided not to change regulations exempting food prices from control, because of a "sufficient easing" in food costs, but it will step up its monitoring activities.

Meanwhile President Nixon's chief economic adviser expressed doubt that wage and price controls would be lifted in 1972.

"I would think it unlikely that Phase 2 will end at the end of this year," Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, told a news conference.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., Price Commission chairman, estimated there were 2,954 large firms that were required to file quarterly profit reports by last Monday, but said only 1,375 had done so.

President Nixon, in his remarks at Treasury Secretary John Connally's ranch in Texas, said: "I strongly favor not only the present depreciation rate but even going further than that, so that we can get our plants and equipment more effective." Depreciation is a deduction from taxable income to compensate businesses for the gradual wearing out of capital goods.

The President also predicted a major energy crisis in the United States in the 1980s and said: "To avoid that energy crisis, we have to provide incentive rather than disincentive for people to go out and explore for oil. That is why you have depletion, and the people have got to understand it."

Depletion is an allowance for exhaustion of mineral resources.

In San Francisco Albert C. Wollenberg, U.S. District Court judge, ruled that the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the Pacific Maritime Association could negotiate a $20-million escrow arrangement and then test its legality in a court suit.

The union had sued the Pay Board over the Board's reduction from 20 per cent to 14 per cent of a pay boost negotiated after a 134-day strike. It demanded that the disputed 6 per cent be placed in escrow and be paid out at the expiration of its contract in 1973 or when the Pay Board changes its regulations.

The Pay Board was to have acted during the past week on a proposed longshore contract settlement covering dock workers on the East Coast, the Gulf Coast and the port of New Orleans, but delayed its decision until next Monday.

Two Hurt In 3-Car Crash

Janice Gilbreath, 20, 2808 Avenue L, and Tommy Chris Mebane, 18, 3503 Fortieth, sustained minor injuries in a three-car mishap in the 3700 block of College Avenue at 10:10 p.m. Friday.

Mebane was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle, and Miss Gilbreath was taken to a clinic by private vehicle. Their injuries were not believed to be serious.

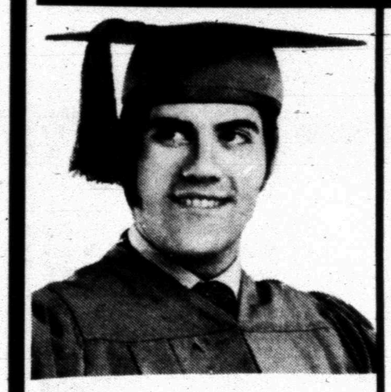

Investigating officers said Mebane was parked at the intersection of College Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street headed north. Miss Gilbreath was in a 1966 Model Dodge, operated by Sharon Gail Robeson, 734 Sunset, which was parked behind the car occupied by Mebane. A third vehicle—a 1972 Model Ford, driven by James Glen Price, P.O. Box 184, apparently slipped on the wet pavement, officers said, and crashed into the Dodge, which was knocked into the Chevrolet. There was minor damage to the Dodge and considerable damage to the other two vehicles.

Patterson Wins Both Hurdles Events At State Track Meet

AUSTIN—Rain hampered performances at the State Track Meet Friday night and Saturday in Austin, but Snyder High School's Gary Patterson won first place in both the high hurdles and the intermediate hurdles.

The Tiger senior was clocked at 14.4 in the highs and 39.4 in the intermediates. He has recorded better times this season, but it rained before the meet got underway Friday night and there was water standing on the track. As a result, all of the times were slower and no new records were set.

"Gary got off to a good start and led all the way in the highs," said Coach Bill Hartsfield. In the intermediate hurdle race, Patterson took a quick lead but was passed at the sixth hurdle. Threatened, he came back strong and re-gained the lead by the seventh hurdle and won the race.

The TCU-bound Tiger athlete had been favored in the high hurdles, but his victory in the intermediates was a mild upset.

Freddy Murphy placed seventh in the 880 yard run.

"He was caught in the pack early in the race and had to cut his stride a couple of times," said Coach Bill Hartsfield, adding that the Tiger senior "didn't get to run his type of race.

"He was bumped around badly, but still turned in a 1:58.6."

Patterson's best times this season in the hurdles are 13.7 in the highs and 38.8 in the intermediates. Murphy's best time in the half mile is 1:55.5.

Jimmy Don Dyess, a junior, was slated to compete in the high jump, but it was twice postponed by rain. He was originally scheduled to jump Friday night, but rain forced a postponement until Saturday morning. Then, it rained again the next day, forcing another postponement until Saturday afternoon. Dyess' best jump this season is 6-2½, and he was an upset qualifier at both district and regional meets.

Going into the final events Saturday, the Snyder team was in fifth place. Mount Pleasant, trailing Houston Elmore 42 points to 44, was in a position to win the Class AAA crown if their high jumper—Gary Miracle—could place at least fourth. He could win the event since he has cleared 6-7 this season. Odessa Ector, the defending champion in AAA, was in third place with 36 points.

Sealy succesfully defended its Class AA championship Friday night behind powerful Sammy Dierschke, who won the 220 yard dash for the third consecutive year with a 21.9 clocking.

Dierschke anchored Sealy to victory in the sprint and mile realys with 42.7 and 3:19.4 clockings respectively. Sealy compiled 50 points, compared with 44 for Mart and 36 for Refugio.

Elmore's Charles Dawson was a double winner in the sprints, taking the century in 9.6 seconds and the 220 in 21.9. Dawson also ran a leg on the winning Elmore sprint relay team.

There were two other double winners in addition to Snyder's Patterson. Frank West of Mart won the shot with a heave of 58-10, and he took the discus with an effort of 269-7. Shifton Baker of Elgin won the Class AA 330 yard hurdles in 38.9, and the 120 hurdles in 14.5. The Class AAA, A and B titles were up for grabs Saturday. Dallas Lincoln was not expected to be hard pressed to defend its AAAA title with Fort Worth's Northside, Houston's Smiley and Lubbock Monterey providing the competition.

Riva Ridge Wins Kentucky Derby

By BOB COOPER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Riva Ridge an aspirant to racing's Triple Crown, easily took the first leg Saturday when he won the 98th Kentucky Derby in a wire-to-wire victory.

With rider Ron Turcotte merely flicking his whip at the son of First Landing in the stretch drive, he pulled away from No Le Hace and won with daylight to spare.

No Le Hace had moved up quickly at the end, but not quickly enough as Riva Ridge, last year's 2-year-old champion, was outdistancing the field.

Hold Your Peace, who had challenged Riva Ridge for the first mile of the 1¼-mile Derby, finished third with Introductivo fourth.

The victory for the Chenery Family's Meadow Stable was worth $140,800, second richest pot in the history of America's most famous horce race. Riva Ridge's time was 2:01.4.

Turcotte sent Riva Ridge to the front in the first jump from the gate and had nearly a length lead going past the stands for the first time.

But Carlos Marquez moved Hold Your Peace, flying the colors of Mrs. Maribel Blum, into contention after the first three furlongs and the two were several lengths ahead of the rest of the 16-horse field in a head and head battle through the backstretch.

At the quarter pole, Turcotte turned his horse loose and Hold Your Peace began to fade as Phil Rubbicco moved quickly with No Le Hace to take the place money.

The 1¼ miles time of 2:01 4-5 was a second and one fifth slower than the record held by Northern Dancer.

The victory was Riva Ridge's third this season and, as the favorite of the largest crowd in Kentucky Derby history, he returned $5, $3.80 and $3 while No Le Hace's tickets were worth $4.40 and $3.40 and Hold Your Peace paid $3.60.

Rubbicco said he moved through horses "at the head of the stretch. I had so much horse left I thought we were going to win."

But Marquez, aboard Hold Your Peace, said Riva Ridge "was just too much."

"I was where I wanted to be on the backstretch," Marquez said, "but I just didn't have enough horse."

Riva Ridge, winner of five straight stakes at the end of his juvenile season, dominated his class, prompting trainer Lucien Laurin to race him lightly earlier this year.

He made it plain that he was seeking not only the great prize here, but the Preakness and Belmont as well and wanted to have a fresh colt to do it.

Riva Ridge made it quite clear that he was the best among those in the Derby—and most of his stiffest competition in the other classics will come from his own stable.

Gov. Wendell Ford, who presented the trophy to Mrs. John Tweedy, who manages Meadow Stable for the Chenery family, agreed with Laurin.

"We believe this is the first star in what will later add the other two stars in the Triple Crown of racing," he said.

Riva Ridge held a 3¼-length lead over No Le Hace at the wire while Hold Your Peace was another 3½ lengths back in third and introductive was 3½ lengths behind in fourth.

Turcotte said his lead in the early part of the race really wasn't intended.

"I really intended to lay back about third," he said smilingly as he jumped from the winner's back.

"But while I was in the lead I knew I was all right. They would have to cover my ground to catch me," he added.

"I really felt like he had it at the end," Turcotte said.

Rubbicco, with his late charging winner of the Louisiana and Arkansas Derbies, said there just wasn't enough speed in the early part of the race for his colt to come on at the last.

Wind Slows Fishing

High winds and unsettled weather kept fishermen off Lake E.V. Spence part of last week, hence fishing news was reduced.

Particularly hard hit by the winds was white bass fishing, for on several days trolling was not possible.

However, there were some catches, for the W.P. Beavers family of Snyder, reported catching 43 of the sand bass, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lampton, Midland, landed 25 white bass weighing up to a pound and a half.

Doyle Caulder, Robert Lee, came in with a string of 17 channel cat weighing up to four pounds, and James Jennings, Odessa, also reported catching 17 channel cat ranging up to two pounds.

F.L. Haley and Lloyd Haley, Robert Lee, reported boating 25 crappie ranging up to a pound and a half.

The big catch at Lake J.B. Thomas was a 47 pound yellow cat by Claude Hodnett.

Teen League Signups Set

Youngsters who want to play in the teenage league this year are asked to sign up at 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday or Thursday at the Texas Electric Company office on the downtown square.

Don Webb, president of the Teenage League, said youths of ages 13, 14, and 15 will be eligible to play. Tryouts will be held Friday, May 12, at the Towle Park diamond.

San Francisco To Trade Mays

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Willie Mays wasn't counting his birthday candles today. Rather he was counting the days he might have left with the San Francisco Giants.

The Giants are thinking about trading Mays, who was 41 years old today, to the New York Mets.

Who says so?

M. Donald Grant, board chairman of the Mets, and Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants.

"Maybe we'll talk when we get to New York," Stoneham said Friday. "We'll discuss the possibility. We need pitchers."

The talks have been so serious that Stoneham admitted telling the Mets they had to promise to find a place for Mays in their organization, as the Giants have, when the outfielder calls it a career.

Grant said he had expected a call Thursday or Friday about the chances of acquiring Mays.

Mays learned about the secret Giants-Mets negotiations Friday in his hotel room over the telephone from a reporter. He wasn't upset about the possibility of being traded, but was visibly annoyed about not being informed.

"I only regret I wasn't told," said the outfielder, who still is the No. 2 home run hitter of altime.

Would he go to New York if the Giants and Mets completed a deal?

"Nothing's been made," he replied.

Suppose it was?

"I'd have to wait and see. Meanwhile my business is trying to play baseball. I've been doing that for 20-years. I'm playing tonight (Friday)."

He was in the lineup Friday night against Philadelphia and the $165,000 a year superstar didn't help a .146 batting average as he went hitless in four at bats, leaving five runners on as the Giants lost 3-2 to the Phillies.

A source close to Mays indicated that the great outfielder, who broke in with the New York Giants May 25, 1951, wouldn't object to finishing his career in New York.

Mays appeared upset that the Giants felt he had reached the end of his great career.

"I was told that they were going with young players," Mays told a couple of dozen reporters in the Giants' dugout before Friday night's game.

"But I've contributed as much as the youth," he said. "Why punish me? When your time is up they tell you to go? That's not fair."

Stoneham was asked if he had talked with Mays.

"No, and I didn't think it would get in the newspapers," Stoneham replied.

Angels' Ryan Blanks Brewers On 3-Hitter

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ryan's Express seems to be picking up steam even though the engineer isn't going all out on the throttle.

"I've decided I can throw easier with better results," Nolan Ryan of the California Angels said before railroading the Milwaukee Brewers 4-0 Friday night on three hits and 14 strikeouts.

Ryan turned in some brilliant performances in several frustrating seasons with the New York Mets. Like the little girl with the curl, when he was good he was very, very good but when he was bad he was horrid.

The problem was that he didn't always know where his supercharged fast ball was headed. "Ryan still wants to strike out all on the first pitch," said pitching coach Tom Morgan after the lanky right-hander broke into the American League with a four-hit shutout of Minnesota but only lasted a total of 4 1-3 innings in his next two starts.

Elsewhere, Baltimore edged Kansas City 3-2, Texas nipped Detroit 2-1, Minnesota whipped Boston 5-2, Oakland downed the New York Yankees 3-1 and the Chicago White Sox shaded Cleveland 2-1.

Ryan hopes to emulate another hard thrower named Sandy Koufax who couldn't locate home plate in New York—Brooklyn, to be specific—but found control and the path to the Hall of Fame in southern California.

The Angels scored twice in the second on Andy Kosco's single, a triple by Leo Cardenas and Ken Brett's wild pitch and added two more in the third on singles by Ryan and Sandy Alomar and sacrifice flies by Ken Berry and Vada Pinson.

The Orioles rallied for three runs in the bottom of the eighth to beat Kansas City after Ed Kirkpatrick's two-run homer in the top of the inning snapped a scoreless struggle.

Singles by Mark Belanger and pinch hitter Terry Crowley started the counter-attack and chased starter Mike Hedlund. Don Buford greeted reliever Tom Burgmeier with a bunt single and Belanger scored when third baseman Paul Schaal's throw sailed past first base. Merv Rettenmund singled home the tying run and Boog Powell's sacrifice fly delivered the winner.

Bill Gogolewski, who entered the game with a Texas-sized 8.18 earned run average, checked Detroit until he needed help from Mike Paul and Horacio Pina in the eighth.

Ted Ford homered for the Rangers in the second and loser Joe Coleman walked Gogolewski with the bases loaded in the fourth to force home the winner. Detroit scored in the fourth on singles by Aurelio Rodriguez, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan.

The Twins maintained their 1½-game lead in the AL West with Steve Braun slamming a two-run homer, Rich Reese delivering a two-run single and Rod Carew doubling home the other run against the Red Sox. Rico Petrocelli's sixth-inning homer was Boston's first of the season in 12 games.

Ken Holtzman hurled a four-hitter and Dave Duncan drove in the tie-breaking run with a fourth inning single and homered in the seventh to lead the A's over the Yankees.

Fritz Peterson, 0-4, held the A's hitless until Joe Rudi doubled with one out in the fourth and scored on Sal Bando's single under the glove of shortstop Gene Michael. Bando came around on singles by Angel Mangual and Duncan.

Spring Grid Training Set Monday At SHS

"We have great enthusiasm in our young kids and we're looking forward to going into District 4-AAAA next year," declared Maurice (Mo) Hodges, head football coach and athletic director at Snyder High School as he and his coaching staff prepared to open spring training Monday.

"A lot of our incoming juniors will get plenty of playing experience next season since we're short on seniors," Hodges pointed out, adding, "They'll have to play and mature quickly."

Hodges said he was pleased with the good crop of sophomores."

Only nine lettermen are returning. They are quarterbacks Tim Holder and David Chambers, tailbacks Ivory Greer, V.T. Roberson, and Jackie Hartsfield, halfback Jimmy Don Dyess, fullback Tommy Welsh, tackle Chris Covey and center Eddy Bane. Hartsfield will be shifted from tailback to split end next season. The Tigers also have Ricky Barry, who saw action at center as a sophomore, but did not compete last year. He will play next season as a senior.

Welsh and Roberson will be juniors while the others will be seniors.

Uniforms will be issued to the grid candidates Monday with the varsity workout set from 3 p.m. to 4:10 p.m. The incoming sophomores will drill for an hour and 15 minutes after that.

"We're expecting about 120 freshmen, sophomores and juniors," said Coach Hodges.

The Tigers' opponents in District 4-AAAA are Lubbock Coronado, Lubbock Monterey, Lubbock High, Plainview and [illegible].

Workouts will be held once a day during spring training. During the second week, the drills will be held later in the evening.

"We'll try to get in some work under the lights," Hodges said; adding that two spring games will be held May 20 and May 27 to which the public will be invited. The younger boys will play first at 5:30 p.m., followed by a varsity intra-squad contest.

Hodges said the main purpose in spring training is to expose the younger candidates to a high school system.

The Tigers again will employ the Winged T offense and the Oklahoma 5 defense.

Lakers' Long Period Of Frustration Over?

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "If New York had won, everybody would have been talking about what a great game Bill Bradley played," said Gail Goodrich of the Los Angeles Lakers.

"But they didn't," he said, pausing to savor the moment, then adding: "We did."

And by beating the Knicks 116-111 in overtime Friday night in Madison Square Garden, the Lakers, long frustrated trying for supremacy in the National Basketball Association, moved within a step of finally wearing the crown that has slipped from their grasp since 1954.

That was the year they last won the championship—only back then they were known as the Minneapolis Lakers. In 1960 they moved to Los Angeles. Seven times since then they have made it to the finals. And seven times they have been thwarted, the last time in 1970 by the Knicks.

This time, however, they appear destined to win it all. They lead the best-of-seven series 3-1 and only an outright miracle can keep them from the title.

They'll have their first shot at it Sunday night in Los Angeles.

"I'm not ready to celebrate yet," said Jim McMillian, who scored 23 points Friday night, including six on a trio of jump shots that had New York playing catch-up virtually throughout the overtime. "If I try to celebrate now, then I'll relax too much for the next game in Los Angeles."

And Jerry West, who hit 28 to lead all scorers, added: "I'm anxious to play that next game."

Bradley scored 26 to top the Knicks. Two of his baskets, a pair of jumpers in a 22-second span, pulled New York into a 111-111 tie with 1:35 remaining in overtime.

But 20 seconds later, West's two free throws put the Lakers on top for good, then they wrapped it up as Goodrich sank a field goal and free throw.

New York's other pro basketball entry, the Nets of the American Basketball Association, isn't in such a precarious position.

The Nets, winners of the East Division championship, went after the Western titleholders, the Indiana Pacers, Saturday in Bloomington, Ind., in the opener of their best-of-seven series.

Jerry Lucas added 25 points—most of them on his patented bombs from beyond the top of the key—and Walt Frazier scored 24 for the Knicks, including a tip-in of Dave DeBusschere's shot with three seconds to go that sent the game into overtime.

Prater Identified

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Annette Gilly has identified William Jackson Prater, a man she claims was once reluctant to trust her, as a conspirator in the Yablonski murder plot.

Her testimony came Friday in Washington County Court at a preliminary hearing for Prater, a United Mine Workers District 19 organizer from LaFollette, Tenn.

Afterward, Judge Thomas Gladden ordered Prater, 52, held on murder and conspiracy charges in the Dec. 31, 1969, slayings of UMW rebel Joseph "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

Mrs. Gilly, 32, a blonde former Cleveland housewife, told of a meeting in the fall of 1969 with Prater and her father, Silous Huddleston, 63.

She said Prater was surprised when she told him her father had let her in on the alleged plot.

"I never thought Silous would let a woman know about a thing like this," was Prater's alleged reply, "but if he trusts you I will also."

Prater, a heavy set father of seven sat a few feet away as Mrs. Gilly made her statement in the heavily guarded courtroom.

"That's him, the man at the counsel table," Mrs. Gilly had said earlier, pointing a slim arm at the expressionless Prater.

It was the first court testimony for Mrs. Gilly, who like her father has pleaded guilty to the murders and turned state's evidence in return for a promise the prosecution won't seek the death penalty.

DEAR MR. SCARSELLA: Approximately a year ago I published a similar item, but it's worth repeating:

DON'T DO IT, SON

"So you were stopped for a traffic violation and were discovered in possession of pot. And you were convicted of possession—a felony—and received a suspended sentence. Do you think that is the end of it, son?

"NOT QUITE! You also lost your right to vote, to own a gun or to run for public office. You lost the opportunity of EVER becoming a doctor, dentist, certified public accountant, engineer, lawyer, architect, realtor, osteopath, pharmacist, schoolteacher, barber, or a stockbroker. You can't EVER hold a job where you must be licensed or bonded and you can NEVER work for the city, the county, or the Federal government. You can't be admitted to West Point, Annapolis, or the Air Force Academy; but you CAN enlist in the military service . . . and be assigned to a labor battalion.

"Son, take it from some guys with a lot of mileage behind them: To you—with a lot of mileage still ahead of you—it just isn't worth it! DON'T DO IT!"

DEAR ABBY: I recently divorced my husband of many years after he was arrested for molesting our young adopted daughter on several occasions. He has done other things over the years, but this was the last straw.

He is now planning to marry a young woman who has three young daughters. Should I tell her why I divorced him so she will be forwarned? Or should I mind my own business? I hate to have him ruin another little girl's life.

Please answer in your column. Perhaps others would also know what to do in a situation like this.

FIRST WIFE

DEAR FIRST: Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. [If you were she, wouldn't you appreciate the warning?]

DEAR ABBY: I have been keeping steady company with a very fine woman about my age for the past year. I have taken her out for dinners, to the concert, theater, etc. I really enjoy her company.

I recently turned 65, and was retired from my job, thereby reducing my income considerably. Since my lady friend has no money worries, she has been picking up the tab for both of us so that we may continue our social outings. She's very discreet about it. She turns over sufficient money to me beforehand, so that I can "pay" for everything in public.

She never makes me feel beholden to her, but I still can't get used to accepting money from a lady.

Do you approve of this setup, Abby? If so, how can I get over feeling slightly embarrassed?

OLD FASHIONED

DEAR OLD: I see nothing wrong with it, as long as the lady doesn't attempt to obligate you in any way. Your embarrassment will fade once you're convinced that she enjoys your companionship as much as you enjoy hers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FEELING LOUSY IN MILWAUKEE:" Yes, confession might help. But after all these years, tell it to a priest. What your husband doesn't know can't hurt him.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Cars Expensive To Buy, Operate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Highway Administration said today that although Americans spent more than $20 billion last year for new automobiles most of them don't know how much it costs to own and operate a car.

In its publication, "Cost of Operating an Automobile," the agency said the typical owner of a standard-size 1972 automobile will spend $13,553 to buy and operate the car for 10 years—an average of 13.55 cents a mile.

The owner of a 1972 compact car will pay $10,808, or 10.81 cents a mile over the 10-year, 100,000-mile period. The owner of a 1972 subcompact model will pay out $9,444, or 9.4 cents a mile over the decade from assembly line to junkyard.

"During this period, the standard-size-car owner will pay $2,787 for some 7,350 gallons of gasoline," the publication said. "He will pay $2,147 to keep the vehicle maintained and in repair, $1,350 to insure it, and over $1,800 for garaging, parking and tolls.

"His state and federal automotive-tax bill, most of which goes to support the roads he drives on, will amount to $1,319—about 9.7 per cent of total costs."

The publication also reported that:

—Nationwide sales records of 1972 standard-size cars and compacts showed that 70 per cent or more had power steering, more than 90 per cent had automatic transmissions, and 90 per cent had radios. More than 80 per cent of the standard-size cars also had air conditioning. For the subcompacts, power steering was virtually nonexistent, but 45 to 50 per cent had automatic transmissions, and more than 80 per cent had radios.

—Depreciation is by far the greatest single cost of owning and operating an automobile. First-year depreciation is relatively high—16 cents a mile for the standard-size car in suburban use, 11.2 cents for the compact, and 7.8 cents a mile for the subcompacts, in total costs of ownership and operation.

Tacky Situation

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rush-hour traffic on the Baltimore-Washington Parkway backed up for several miles after four barrels of nails fell from a southbound truck and scattered on the highway.

"It's a rather tacky situation," quipped a state policeman as motorists, authorities and the truckers spent half an hour Friday cleaning up the mess.

Maritime Facility Dedicated

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The United States has lost its maritime heritage because of the failure of schools to teach subjects related to the ocean, the head of the Federal Maritime Commission said here Friday.

Mrs. Helen Delich Bentley, the first woman to head a federal regulatory agency, spoke at dedication ceremonies for the first two facilities of a proposed 20-building complex at the Texas A&M University's Marine Sciences and Maritime Resources facility here.

"A major reason, in my opinion, that we as a nation have lost our maritime heritage is the failure of our educational systems to teach subjects related to the ocean with the same enthusiasm that those dealing with the land environment and space are taught," she said.

"For this same reason, the maritime assets of the United States are fragmented, and the best minds of the nation are too often narrowly focused on the land," she said.

Mrs. Bentley said the American people must realize what the oceans mean to the country and the world, and what maritime power means in terms of safety and solvency.

"The security and prosperity of the United States and its allies depend more and more on the political, economic and military ability of this nation to dynamically make, use and take advantage of the world's oceans," she said.

Disney World To Expand

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Walt Disney World officials have announced a multimillion dollar expansion program for the $400 million amusement complex.

Dick Nunis, executive vice president of the tourist attraction, made the announcement Friday at a luncheon of the Florida Press Association.

Nunis said a space exploration display and a new Western frontier pavilion were part of the project.

Officials said the complex is expected to spend about $50 million in development costs during a period from October 1972 to October 1973.

Nunis said he expected Walt Disney World's attendance to exceed 10 million in its first year, and added "with that kind of volume our expansions will have to be much faster than anticipated."

Military radar that translates its target findings into audible signals can distinguish between men and women.

SnyderCollegian Receives Award

DALLAS—A Snyder collegian—Powers Boothe—was honored as he received American Oil Company's "Award of Excellence" for his outstanding participation in the recent American College Theatre Festival held at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Boothe was part of the cast of "Oedipus the King" which was presented as one of the nation's 10 best college plays by Southern Methodist University.

Jerdy Gary of Sooner Oil Company of Texas, Amoco's distributor in this area, presented the bronze medallion to Boothe and praised him for "showing the American public what today's collegians are doing in a responsible, creative, and constructive undertaking."

This year's Festival involved some 300 colleges and over 10,000 students on the local and regional levels. Ten national winners were determined after a series of regional events with Amoco's coveted award being presented to only 190 students nationwide.

The program is under the overall auspices of the American Theatre Association in cooperation with the Kennedy Center and the Smithsonian Institution. Two corporations—American Oil and American Airlines—contributed $150,000 to cover the costs of the events which have been called the "bowl games of the theatre."

SMU was represented at the special ceremonies held in the Bob Hope Theatre by Chancellor Willis Tate.

Stevenson T. Walker of Chicago, Amoco's director of educational programs, told the audience "that an empty building seldom excites anyone, and there are a lot of empty theatres across the country. The goal of the American College Theatre Festival is to fill those stages with good productions so that live and meaningful drama is available to the grassroots of America."

Boothe, a graduate of Snyder High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vestal Boothe, of Route 3. He is married to the former Pamela Cole of Snyder.

Anti-Busers Are Elected

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A slate of candidates which opposed busing of school children for racial purposes has won all seven seats on the Indianapolis School Board.

Three hundred pupils are being bused in Indianapolis to achieve racial balance out of total enrollment of 105,000.

However, a U.S. District Court judge has ruled the public school system has practiced segregation through its administrative policies. The ruling is now being appealed in the 7th U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The unofficial results of the election Tuesday were announced Friday. The voting was nonpartisan.

TV Production Moves West

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This city, as far as television production is concerned, is beginning to be an urban match of those deserted Western ghost towns.

With Johnny Carson and his NBC "Tonight Show" pulling up deep roots to set down in Burbank, New York will have left only the production of an assortment of soap operas, some game shows—many of them syndicated—ABC's "Dick Cavett Show," and David Frost's operations.

It is still the place where network news programs and documentaries are pulled together. And it remains national headquarters of the networks, where policy-making and sales operations are wrapped up—mostly because New York is the advertising and financial capital of the nation. But, that's about it.

There was a time, in the 1950s and 1960s, when the production of entertainment programs was gobbling up the theater's and had studio facilities bursting the walls. Business was so good there even were complaints.

Producers of Broadway shows agonized because so many theaters had been taken over—"usurped" was more often the word used—that it was often impossible to find an available house.

Phil Silvers, busy with "Sergeant Bilko," used to explain that they were working in such cramped quarters that he couldn't throw out his arms.

E. G. Marshall and Robert Reed, turning out "The Defenders" were commuting miles daily to a barn-like building deep in Harlem.

Moonlighting great and not-so-great stars of the living theater were rolling by limousine—to big sound studios in Brooklyn for classy, live adaptations of Broadway hits and to rehearse original plays that brightened the nights of the bygone "golden era" of television.

Gone, all gone now, to Hollywood and, to a lesser extent, to studios near London and, in one instance, to Carefree, Ariz.

New York's loss has been Hollywood's gain. It is a victory for a community which always has been sensitive about New York's reputation as a theatrical heartland.

The villain—or hero, depending on one's point of view—of the change has been television's shift to film as a means of carrying entertainment programs. Hollywood has the studios, the skilled technicians, the laboratories and an enormous pool of skilled personnel-actors, writers, directors and behind-the-scenes craftsmen.

The networks' Hollywood facilities, too, began improving, their tape production operations. And with jet planes able to import stars quickly from all points of the globe, it soon became obvious that it was economically wiser to fly in performers than to move productions to them.

Television's move west has not helped Broadway's landlords, but the enormous production on the West Coast has been the one factor that has kept some Hollywood studios in business. Independent packagers have moved into many studios—on a rental basis and, sometimes, in partnership, to make series.

The irony is that it was television's popularity which, to a marked degree, was responsible for the declining audiences of its sister media—theater and movies.

Ed Sullivan disappeared from CBS' weekly scene, but "The Ed Sullivan Theatre" still keeps its relatively new name. The network now rents it out for the taping of syndicated programs. CBS planned to use it for its upcoming Bill Cosby series, but now will make it out West.

NBC tapes most of its game shows in its Rockefeller Center headquarters. Since most knock out two or three programs at one clip, some share the same taping studios. Brooklyn facilities are used for three of the soap operas.

CBS soaps are, for the most part, taped at their uptown broadcast center, which also houses the network news operation.

Dick Cavett's base is the Elysee Theatre, which ABC calls "TV-15," and has under lease.

Secrets Reclassed

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 650,000 atomic documents have been declassified, and the number of persons empowered to classify papers will be cut down, says an Atomic Energy Commission official.

Charles L. Marshall, director of the commission's classification division, told a House government information subcommittee that secrecy practices are being improved in light of President Nixon's new executive order.

Marshall testified Friday that the number of AEC officials authorized to stamp Top Secret on information will be cut from 50 to about 25.

He added that the number of persons authorized to classify information secret or confidential—now just under 6,300-will be "substantially reduced."

"Let me emphasize that in no case is classification a matter of momentary whim," Marshall said. He said all AEC personnel authorized to classify documents must follow strict rules.

The Atomic Energy Act requires that as much information as possible should be declassified, without jeopardizing national security, to improve help public understanding and scientific and industrial progress.

Nursing Home Fire Claims 9

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Nine persons were killed and 32 injured today when an early morning fire struck a nursing home.

Dr. Franklin Yoder, director of the state Public Health Department, said the Carver Convalescent Center was operating on a provisional license and that state inspectors had checked the wood frame building two days earlier for fire regulation violations.

He said, however, that he had not yet received a report on the inspection.

There was no immediate word on the cause of the fire.

Yoder said 41 persons were living in the building.

It was not immediately known which of the victims were residents of the home and which were staff members.

Spokesmen at Memorial Hospital said nine persons were pronounced dead on arrival. Eight others were treated for smoke inhalation and two were admitted to the hospital burn unit.

Twenty-two persons were admitted to St. John's hospital, spokesmen there said.

Springfield Mayor William Telford identified the owner of the convalescent home as Dr. Byron Weisbaum, a Springfield ophthalmologist.

Telford termed the fire the "worst disaster" in terms of deaths in Springfield history.

Firemen said when they arrived at the scene the second floor of the building was engulfed in flame. The fire fighters said they were able to lead occupants from the first floor to safety.

SMU Gets HUD Survey Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has a contract with Texas Southern University of Houston to find new ways to utilize the resources of black colleges in fostering community development activities.

Texas Southern, a predominanately black college with more than 6,000 students, is the first institution to receive a national contract as the result of recommendations to President Nixon by presidents of black colleges formulated at a HUD-sponsored 1971 conference.

The $135,000 contract covers a 13-month period to next May.

Aims of the program are to halt the urban decay surrounding the university, to train and mobilize neighborhood youth to assist in community development projects and to make available university personnel as technical assistants to community groups active in the Model Cities program.

Rain Checks Given For 'Fantasticks'

It hasn't rained much around Snyder since last fall, but over three inches has fallen during the Festival of Arts at Western Texas College, the latest coming Friday night in the middle of the premiere performance of "The Fantasticks" on the Sentell Memorial Stage.

So, the first performance of the musical was called off at conclusion of the first act. The crowd of over 300 persons that had assembled in the WTC central courtyard, was given an option of coming back either Saturday night or Monday night to see a complete performance—then it was changed to Sunday and Monday.

The play had got off to a good start, despite a brisk wind at the outset and the audience was warming up and generous with its applause.

Meanwhile, WTC was prepared for a Sunday afternoon musical concert in the fine arts theatre.

Vena Beth Genuchi and Ronald Clinton will be featured on the piano, along with the "Invitationals" a new musical group directed by Dr. Marvin Genuchi, chairman of the WTC music department. The program will begin at 2:30 p.m.

The Sunday afternoon musical program was to be closing event in the series scheduled in connection with WTC's dedication. Now, the play, of course, will carry the Festival of Arts over into the coming week.

Cavett Helps Clear Lot

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Cavett swept streets in the South Bronx ghettos Friday with members of two youth gangs who appeared last Tuesday on his television talk show and invited him to witness the good things gangs do.

Dressed in corduroy pants, a workshirt and a denim jacket, Cavett helped some 50 members of the "Javelins" organization clear a littered lot. Then he hopped a ride in a city sanitation truck to the "Reapers" territory where he pushed a broom down a block being cleaned by 100 members of that gang.

Cavett said he hoped by his visit to "attract attention to something that wouldn't get it otherwise. Maybe that's what celebrities are for."

Liz, Onassis Involved In Brawl

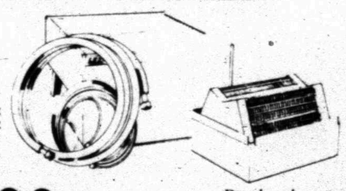

ROME (AP) — There was a brawl in the fashionable restaurant Hostaria Dell'Orso when Elizabeth Taylor and Aristotle Onassis, dining together there, were confronted with a pack of paparazzi, Rome's aggressive free-lance photographers.

Onassis was reported to have sprayed the photographers with champagne and hurled a glass while Miss Taylor crouched under a table to avoid being photographed.

Police rushed to the restaurant to restore order.

Newspapers reported that Onassis and Miss Taylor left the restaurant at dawn Friday, accompanied by their secretaries. He returned to his hotel and she to a private residence.

Sorority Elects New Officers

Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Tuesday evening at the Martha Ann Woman's Club for a regular meeting. The programs were presented by Jane Killian, Joyce Ann Pace and Mary Forehand.

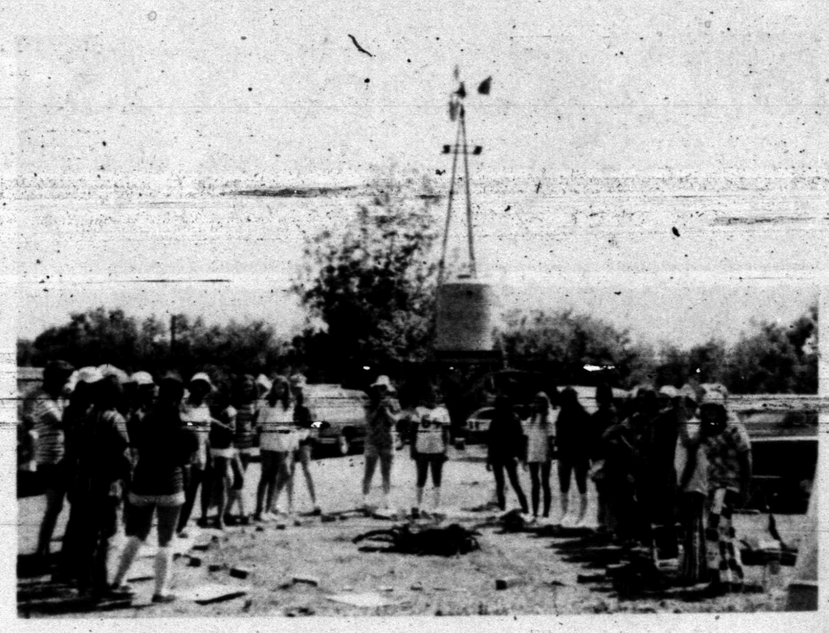

Mrs. Pace presented a program on "The Truth." She explored the many aspects of the truth which included ethics, epistemology, with special emphasis on marriage. She said, "Marriage! It has been said that nothing demands so much from a person." She concluded the program by reading a letter on marriage.

"Action" was the title of Mrs. Killian's presentation. Her talk centered around motivation. She said, "Goals, naturally, depend on the drive that is active. If a person is motivated by hunger, his goal is food; if he need affection or companionship, his goal may be marriage or joining a club. These goals are positive." Mrs. Killian summarized "Action" by stating that there are five basic needs; safety, belongingness, love, esteem, and self-actualization.

"The Beautiful" was presented by Mrs. Forehand. She said that the beautiful takes in many forms and phases of our lives; poetry, prose, songs, paintings, sculpture, drama, thought and feeling. She said, "Beauty is a name applied to all such qualities in things that induce a sense of affection and tenderness."

During the business meeting Wanda Early, out-going president installed the new officers. They were Mary Forehand, president; Carolyn Limmer, first vice-president; Lana Heffernam, second vice-president; Carla Barnes, recording secretary; Trina Taylor, corresponding secretary; Sandra Campbell, treasurer; and Micky Baird, extension officer. Following the installation, President Mary Forehand presided over the business meeting. Mary Lou Scott and Trina Taylor served refreshments.

"The cow is of the bovine ilk: One end moo, the other milk," wrote poet Ogden Nash. But now an English inventor has built a non-bovine specimen, a new mechanical cow of plastic tubing and angle irons with huge jaws fed by a conveyor belt. The jaws munch grass, clover and waste cabbage leaves which then enter a centrifuge stomach which spins and separates the fiber from the liquid. The liquid is then treated with chemicals and electric currents to eliminate mineral discolorations. Even if it succeeds, somehow the end result won't be the same without bossy.

GIRL SCOUTS AT CEREMONIAL FIRE

Girl Scout News

On Friday, April 28th, Snyder Cadette Troops 42 and 266 had an overnight at Camp Illa Ru, with Cadette Troop 334 of Lamesa as their guests.

The Ceremonial Fire the girls grouped around is laid in a square instead of the usual circle and ashes from a former ceremonial fire are scattered over it before it is lit. Ashes from this fire will be used the next time some troops have a campout.

Mrs. Billy Campbell and Mrs. W.E. Biddle are leaders of Troop 42. Mrs. George Stewart and Mrs. Hoyle Holladay lead Troop 266.

Cadette Troop 266 met Tuesday night at the Scout House.

Our Exchange student, Emilio Vargas, gave a program with slides and told about his country and people. The girls presented him with a Girl Scout Friendship pin and a Texas Flower folder.

Thank you, Emilio, for a very interesting program!

Junior Troop 327 (Mrs. B.J. Hunter and Mrs. Dale Stuard) met Tuesday for a hike and "eat-out" at Towle Park.

Five of our girls reported on a cook-out with Brownie Troop 248 last week. Shelly Nutt and Marca Parham instructed the Brownies in gathering firewood, making a fire circle, and building a fire. Lela Grant showed the girls how to use a dunk bag, Jeanne McCormick led them in some songs and Alma Yuregas directed a game. The girls reported a very good time—if only the weather had co-operated better!

Our troop participated last week in the Clean-up Campaign, along with other Boy and Girl Scouts in the USA.

We made more plans for our trip to Six Flags. We are grateful to Mrs. Sewell, Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Black, Mrs. Holder, Mrs. J. McCormick, Mrs. West, Mrs. Stuard, and Mrs. Hunter—who are going to take cars for the trip.

Teenage helpers who are going also are Susan Neves, Cidney McDonald, Terri McCormick, Jana Stuard, Paula Pierce, and Dianna Campbell.

We plan to leave from Mrs. Hunter's house at 4 p.m. on Friday, May 12th, and return the following Sunday afternoon. We will be spending the nights at the Girl Scout House in Arlington. We are all very excited about the trip!

Donna West and Andra Crenshaw reported on plans for the Junior Festival next Tuesday evening from 7 until 9:15 at Towle Park. Because of the Festival we will not meet next Tuesday afternoon in our regular troop meeting.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q.—I have to reglue some mahogany joints, but have been putting it off because a few years ago I did a similar job and stained the wood badly. Is there some kind of glue which won't stain mahogany when it leaks out of the joints after they have been clamped together?

A.—Yes. Use a plastic resin glue. It comes in powdery form and must be mixed with water according to directions on the container. It takes about six hours for the glue to set after it has been applied, but it is better to leave the clamps on for at least 12 hours.

Q.—We have acoustical ceiling tile of the insulation board type in our basement. Over a period of two years, some dust has settled on it and in a few places there are smudges. I have been afraid to tackle the cleaning of it for fear that I would make it worse. Any advice?

A.—First, go over it with a vacuum cleaning attachment, making certain that the gadget doesn't damage the tile. That will take care of any loose dirt. Gently rub spots and smudges with an art-gum eraser soaked in denatured alcohol. Some insulation board ceiling tile may be cleaned with soap and water, but you'll have to check with the directions that came with it if you still have them.

Q.—We are having a house built and—I guess like everyone anxious to move in—visit the site during the construction a couple of times a week. On the last visit, we saw the painter strike a match against the living room plaster wall, which had been done only a few days before but had not yet been painted. He didn't light a cigarette or cigar, but merely blew out the flame. We didn't ask him at the time why he did it, but now we are curious. What was it all about?

A.—Two things can be deduced from the match-striking incident. The painter was an old-timer and he probably was going to use an oil paint on the walls. Years ago, a painter struck a match of the kitchen type against a newly plastered wall to see if it were dry enough to begin painting. If it failed to light, it meant the wall hadn't dried sufficiently. I didn't think the practice was still in use, but apparently it is. Most latex paints can be used on insufficiently dried walls—provided only one coat is applied. What is sometimes done, when time is important, is to put on the first coat of latex, wait a few days, then apply the second. Getting back to the match-striking, it became unnecessary because of improved plaster, paint and the use of moisture meters.

Q.—On some stucco finishes, I note a rather attractive effect, as though attempts were made to leave in the trowel marks. How is this obtained?

A.—With a trowel. The mortar mixture is applied generously in gobs. It is allowed to set partially. The rough areas are then smoothed out with the trowel, which is given a slight swirling motion. Care must be taken not to erase the trowel marks by going over the same section again.

Martin Feels Retirement Is One's Choice

DALLAS (AP) — Retirement ought to be the individual's choice and should not be imposed at 65, says John B. Martin, U.S. Commissioner on Aging.

The government thinks employers should "take another look at their retirement policies", Martin said in an interview here. If employers don't take the hint and follow the federal example of letting employes stay on until 70, the age discrimination law could be extended, he warned.

"Since the 65 retirement age was put into Social Security rules in the 30's, things have changed and people are in much better health at that age," Martin pointed out.

Martin, a former Rhodes scholar and Michigan senator, is himself almost 64.

Admitting that it might not be a good time to extend the age discrimination limit while unemployment is a problem, the commissioner said he believes stronger government support for later retirement will come.

Morning Coffee

AP Food Editor

Rugelach Coffee

RUGELACH

These little pastries come from Jewish cuisine.

1 cup butter, soft
1 package (8 ounces cream cheese, soft
2 cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup finely chopped walnuts
½ cup raisins

In a medium mixing bowl, with a wooden spoon, blend butter and cheese; gradually blend in flour. Divide into 4 equal portions and shape each into a ball; flatten each ball. Tightly cover each portion with transparent plastic wrap and refrigerate until firm enough to roll out—overnight if you like. Work with 1 portion of the dough at a time, keeping remainder refrigerated. On a floured pastry cloth with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out 1 portion of dough to an 8-inch round. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar with ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and 2 tablespoons nuts; sprinkle over round of dough, then strew with 2 tablespoons raisins. Cut into 12 wedges; roll up each wedge from wide end and curve to form a crescent. Treat remaining portions of dough the same way. Place slightly apart, pointed side down, on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until lightly browned—20 to 25 minutes. With a wide spatula remove to wire racks to cool. Store in a tightly covered tin box. Makes 4 dozen.

Award-Winning Designs Make Wearing Glasses Fun

AWARD WINNING GLASSES—The Fashion Eyewear Group of America presented awards recently for eyeglasses, and shown here are some of the winners. 1. A new concept in little boy's frames caught the judges' eye with glasses of almost weightless aluminum. 2. The little girl who wears these glasses is going to be smiling all around. 3. Could these frames be four leaf clovers? They were a lucky concept for the designer who made them of bronze irridescent plastic. 4. For the chairman of the board or all who would be are these gold filled, rimless glasses. 5. This women's after-five frame is made of a series of gold filled leaves encircling oval tinted lenses. 6. For the one woman in a million are these clear plastic frames under wispy feathers and rhinestones. Layout by Joe Damone.

Furniture Designer Introduces New Line

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

In designing a new line of furniture, Vladimir Kagan of New York is taking a new direction because, he says, "We are going through a revolution in the function of the home." He adds:

"If the furniture industry isn't careful, it will be invaded by outside sources with completely liberated ideas."

It is already happening in house construction where built-ins such as closets are making chests of drawers redundant, he says, adding, "how long will it be before furniture is molded completely into houses?"

Known as an innovator—Kagan was an early designer of see-through furniture and free-form sofas, tables, desks, chests. He is pioneering platform seating, bench-like fabric-covered multi-level units that may be used together or separately.

"Seating is an important part of my design philosophy, especially in these days of television viewing and home entertaining. I think of inner space as an interior landscape with varying heights as one experiences outdoors. Sitting on one level can become tedious, one reason people squirm so much or curl up in their chairs. People like to sit on the arms of chairs, on tables, on the floor, but furniture is usually designed so we must stare into the faces of people."

In addition to platform seating, he has just expanded his omnibus furniture, a modular-like idea that was introduced several years ago. The series now has 36 basic multi-level units that utilize right and left componants, variable seating and curved or cantilevered extensions that include tables. Arms also may be added to the units. The additional pieces now make it possible to accommodate 12 people in one assemblage at two heights or more "with another level on the floor."

The high cost of labor, shortage of craftsmen, scarcity and expense of lumber, and the trend to conservation of natural resources makes it obvious that new ideas in styling and new materials must be realized by the furniture industry especially, he says.

Art Guild Sees Slides Of College

Art Guild Study Club members met at Western Texas College Tuesday evening to view the slide presentation, "The Building of a College," and to tour the recently completed Learning Resource center.

Dr. Ben Brock told of future plans for the college and of the recruiting program of the college preceding the showing of slides. Art Guild members met in the Little Theater for this part of the program.

Following the slide presentation, Dr. James Tully conducted members on a tour of the ultra-modern Learning Resource Center and explained the many uses to be made of the area. He emphasized the center was constructed with the idea that the aesthetic quality of beautiful surroundings enhances a student's desire to learn and thus has a favorable influence on his ability to learn.

Following the program and tour at the college, Art Guild members continued to the Martha Ann Woman's club for refreshments and a short business session. Mrs. Mary Starnes was program leader and made arrangements for the evening's program. Mrs. Margaret Dell Pilcher was hostess for this meeting and was in charge of the refreshment course and social period.

Tuesday's meeting culminates regular club programs for the current club year. The group will meet Tuesday evening, May 16th, at the Union Community center for a social event. Members are encouraged to bring special guests for this affair. Any member who plans to attend, or who does not plan to attend should contact Mrs. Louise Melton, if they have not already done so.

OKs Tree Planting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a 15-year plan to speed up tree planting on denuded national forest lands.

Mrs. Keith Hunter Is Granted Citizenship

A surprise coffee was given at the West Texas Community Room on May 4 at 7:30 p.m. honoring Mrs. Keith Hunter. She was sworn in as an American citizen Monday, May 1 in Amarillo.

A patriotic theme was carried out in the decor. The table was covered with a white cloth and red, white and blue napkins and cups were used. The cake was decorated with Uncle Sam.

Hosting the affair were Mmes. Hoyle Holladay, Bobby Cumbie, Charlie Pace, Larry Bills and Harold Ellis.

Tosy, as her friends call her, was born in Kirchheimbolanden, Germany. Her given name is Rosemarie Trude Dresissigacker.

Rosy met Keith while he was stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army. They spent their wedding day with Civil Ceremony in the morning and a German Church wedding in the afternoon. The Hunters celebrated their 12th anniversary April 29. They came to Snyder from Germany August 25, 1962.

The Hunters have four lovely children. Kathy, 9; and Linda 8, both attend East Elementary. Tommy is a 5 year old kindergarten student and Ricky, 4, is keeping momma busy at home. Keith is an equipment operator for the Western Company.

They attend Calvary Baptist Church.

Rosy enjoys bowling. She and her team mates just won first place in the Ups and Downs Bowling League. Her team also placed fourth in the City Tournament two weeks ago. She carries a 135 average.

As to her likes and dislikes, Rosy likes the friendly people of Snyder, keeping house for her family, cooking, and fishing. Her dislikes are bologna sandwiches, West Texas sand storms and tornados.

She always looks forward to packages from her mother and brothers in Germany. They send her German "goodies" such as chocolates from home. She says she misses foods, mountains and forests in Germany and of course her family. She flew home two years ago with her youngest son for a brief visit.

NOW A US CITIZEN—Mrs. Keith Hunter, 404 Thirty-fifth St., Snyder, is pictured with the patriotic cake of Uncle Sam which was served at a coffee given in her honor celebrating her becoming a citizen of the United States. She was sworn in on May 4 in Amarillo.

'Galloping Gallery' To Be Conducted

Creating with wood and plaster dramatically turning a shoe into a telephone and interpreting music through movement will all be a part of the new art exploration program of the West Texas Girl Scout Council.

Mrs. Holman King, Event Chairman from Abilene, explains the "Galloping Gallery" as "...a summer project designed to expose the girls to the entire scope of the arts. College students, as well as local experts in their fields, will help the girls explore the areas of drama, music, art and dance through a variety of fun activities."

Mrs. King is assisted by Mrs. Joe Owen, Mrs. Morgan R. Hubbard and Mrs. Bob Beckham. Miss Arlene Estes, Field Director with the Scout Council serves in an advisory capacity.

Scrubbing Time

NEW YORK AP —Family Court Judge Shirley Kram has ordered two pre-teen-age boys to spend time scrubbing from subway station walls graffiti they placed therewith a paint-spray can.

Rather than place them in an institution for youthful offenders, Judge Kram said:

"I wanted to give them the chance to adopt a responsible attitude, rather than to punish them."

Judge Kram is the mother of a teen-age son.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"It is sort of pretentious to say that I am really being helpful. Maybe I am. It would really be nice."—Kathleen Kennedy, eldest daughter of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, campaigning for Sen. George McGovern.

"I wanted to be a religious witness for peace—we all did."—Sister May L. Steele, one of a group of antiwar nuns who lay down in the aisle of St. Patrick's Cathedral during services.

"There is no place in the world where the door of negotiations is ever closed completely. I would love to perform in Bloemfontein. It seems so unfair that everybody should be punished because of the attitude of a few people."—Singer Eartha Kitt, barred from performing in that South African city because she isn't white.

"Far too often, the only avenues by which a woman can express herself are through publications controlled by men. Consequently, much of what women have had to offer has been labeled trivial or ignored as typically feminine, a term that carries all those delightful connotations of sugary, flowery, naive or simply poorly written."—Becky Backus, one of a group of college women who have begun publication of a literary magazine created and edited by women.

"When I was a girl I was very fond of horses, and I told everyone I was named after the horse and not after Abraham Lincoln's mother."—Nancy Hanks, chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, receiving a Currier and Ives print of the world's champion trotting horse of 1892, "Nancy Hanks."

God's Soil

...and it's time to conserve it... time to save it! It is evident, when we witness the increased destruction of timber lands, national cover crops and wide-spread erosion, America needs a national Save-The-Soil-Week. It is urgent that we treat Mother Earth with greater respect and appreciation. We must give back to her as much as we take away. There's no better time than during National Save-The-Soil-Week, to come to a full realization that "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We are stewards, appointed by God, to look after the earth He gave us. It is time to renew your faith in God and the Good Earth.

CONGRESS LEFT HOLDING BAG

White House Pulling Purse Strings More

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON AP) — The Constitution gives Congress sole authority to appropriate money from the federal Treasury, but more and more the White House is pulling the purse strings and Congress is left holding the bag.

Currently, the White House is refusing to release to other federal departments and agencies $12.3 billion which Congress appropriated for use in fiscal 1972.

The stated reasons include White House belief that the agencies involved don't need the money, and the White House contention that expenditure of the impounded funds wouldn't coincide with President Nixon's policies.

Some members of Congress decry the White House action as an illegal encroachment on Congress' constitutional authority over appropriations. The real issue, however, is who has the authority to spend.

At the moment, based on a practice dating back 20 presidential administrations, the authority rests with the White House through its Office of Management and Budget, an agency little known outside Washington but feared here like the pharohs feared the locusts.

In testimony before Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearings on the practice of impounding funds appropriated by Congress, former Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said the White House didn't steal the power of the purse. Congress, he said, gave it away.

"Its subcommittee system fragments responsibility to the point that there is rarely a congressional consensus on national needs," said Udall.

Udall suggested that when a president impounds appropriated funds, Congress could get action by placing the president in a whipsaw.

"The president always has his own things that are very urgent," Udall said. "He is sending up requests for supplementary appropriations and Congress can simply say, 'We are not even going to consider these until you start spending this money that we consider very vital ....'"

"Congress could do it, but it has for some reason considered that it was not proper to do it," Udall added.

Caspar W. Weinberger, deputy director of OMB, says Congress could force the White House to spend every appropriated nickel by simply ordering it to do so.

"If the Congress ordered money spent, the president would then have to spend that and from time to time that was the course Congress had taken and it has not been challenged," he said.

One of the most publicized cases of this type was the 1970 Hill-Burton hospital construction act which required that all appropriated funds be spent.

Nixon vetoed the bill, saying that the requirement was, unacceptable. Congress overrode the veto.

In March, OMB released its annual list of impounded funds, congressionally appropriated money which OMB has decided will not be spent this fiscal year. It totalled nearly $1.8 billion, including $280 million held back solely to implement Nixon's directive to cut the federal work force by 5 per cent.

Among the other cuts were:

—$58 million in sewer and water grants from the Farmers Home Administration and another $500 million in similar grants from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

—$107 million earmarked for Rural Electrification Administration loans.

—$18 million in Atomic Energy Commission funds.

—$24 million for NASA's Nerva nuclear rocket.

In addition, OMB placed another $10.5 billion in budgetary reserve. Those funds still could be spent this fiscal year, but OMB thus far has declined to do so on the ground that the money isn't needed. At what point, if ever, it will be needed will be determined by OMB, not the agencies involved.

This reserve included:

—$198 million for the food-stamp program.

—$1 million for consumer protective, marketing and regulatory programs.

$115,000 in forest fire prevention funds.

—$105 million for the Model Cities program.

—$30 million in land and water conservation funds.

—$40 million in Federal Aviation Administration funds for safety regulation.

—$300 million for the Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

Much of this rankles members of Congress who contend an appropriation is an order to the President to spend the money as specified by Congress.

OMB counters that an appropriation is merely a notice from Congress that certain money is available for expenditure. Citing a turn-of-the-century law called the Anti-Deficiency Act, the OMB claims it has the power to ignore that availability.

OMB cites also the constitutional provision that the president must "take care that the laws be faithfully executed." Although the Constitution does not specify whether the president is supposed to be faithful to the nation, the will of Congress or to his own politics, the general inclination has been for the White House to interpret the clause as meaning "faithful to the best interests of the nation."

Occasionally the "best interests of the nation" look to Congress more like the best interests of the President, and the grumbling on Capitol Hill becomes cacophony.

Among those who claim that the practice of impounding is illegal is Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., the Senate's leading authority on constitutional law.

"He (the President) has no authority under the Constitution to decide which laws will be executed or to what extent they will be enforced," Ervin said. "Yet by using the impounding technique, the president is able to do just that."

Spokesmen for OMB reply that someone must hold the spending line and that Congress isn't doing it. They say Congress sets spending ceilings and ceilings on the national debt and then ignores them when appropriating funds.

"Congress does not have to nor do they estimate outlays," said Weinberger of OMB. "We have to estimate the outlays. And if our estimates are wrong, the outlay ceiling does not expand automatically at all. It remains firm. It is a lid on expenditures; it is not a lid on congressional appropriations."

If impounding stopped there, it might never have become an issue, but OMB concedes that presidents use impoundment to implement their own policies.

"It is simply a naked question of whether or not the president can withhold funds from a program which he personally opposes," Weinberger said. "The presidents in the past have taken actions that indicate they do feel they have this basic power."

So has the President in the present.

Harvey C. Mansfield, professor of government at Columbia University, told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee last year:

"Partly by vetoes and partly be cutbacks of grants for health research, urban renewal and model cities, defended as anti-inflationary moves, the President (Nixon) tried to make room for funds for the SST, for NASA, for a larger merchant marine, for Safeguard ABM installations, and so on.

"Plainly the object was not an over-all reduction, or not wholly an over-all reduction, but despite continuing inflationary pressures, a redistribution of emphases in order to favor different constituencies from those the Johnson administration had cultivated."

The most oft-expressed concern of Congress is that impoundment gives a president the power of a line-item veto, that is, a veto over selected sections of a larger bill. Legally, a president must sign or veto any entire bill.

Junior Editors' Quiz on HORSESHOES

QUESTION: Why are horseshoes put on horses?

* * *

ANSWER: The horse has a horny casing on each foot which is sufficient to protect the limbs under natural conditions but wears away and breaks in moist climates when the animal is subjected to hard work. This can be corrected by attaching to the hoof a rim of iron curved to the shape of the foot. Without the use of horseshoes, we would not have the fleet racers or the heavy cart horses of the present day.

Horseshoes protect the feet of horses that run or work on roads or hard surfaces such as racetracks. Light shoes, weighing about 8 ounces make the best protection for most horses. Race horses wear light shoes that may wear out after only one race. Regular shoes should be fixed with as few nails as possible and the nails should take a short thick hold of the wall so that the old nail-holes may be removed with the natural growth and paring of the horny matter. Shoes for wear in winter or for high mountain trails have cleats that help keep the horse from slipping on ice and snow.

Age Has Built Wall Around Harry Truman

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — He is an old man now without the privileges of other old men.

The park bench in the sun, the small talk with others of his time and memories are denied Harry S. Truman. Nearly 20 years out of the White House he is revered as Mr. President, but restricted as Mr. Citizen.

He knew it would come. "I still don't feel like a completely private citizen and I don't suppose I ever will," he said once. "It's still almost impossible to do as other people do, even though I've tried. You can't always be as you want to be after you've been under those bright lights."

Now, on May 8, another birthday: Eighty-eight. His friends will gather, as they always do, at the Hotel Muehlebach to lunch, to praise, and to light candles on heart-shaped petits-fours.

For the seventh straight year they'll raise glasses of sherry in toast to an empty, high-backed leather chair. Truman, the man who always loved cronies, camaraderie and good conversation is too feeble to be there.

Age has built a wall around Truman, isolating him from his friends, making him a prisoner of his house.

His appearance is a shock to those who remember his ebullient good health as president. He looks drawn and thin, pitifully frail. His false teeth give him trouble and slur his speech. His eyes, always weak, look enormous and stary behind thick lenses. He hears badly.

"But his mind is clear as crystal," said H. Roe Bartle, a former Kansas City mayor and one of the few friends who see him regularly. "He keeps abreast of the times, rarely reminisces. He wants to talk about what happened yesterday and what may happen tomorrow."

Others confide that he has moments, lapses, that he "overreacts like a crotchety old goat"—not unusual for a man Truman's age. But they hasten to stress the amount of reading he does and his awareness and interest in the world today.

"On every current event he's got an opinion of what we ought to do and why we ought to do it," Bartle said. "He talks about legislation before the Congress. He'll get down to little minute things. He never calls a man by name like you and I do. For instance, Hubert Humphrey. He'll say, 'Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.' He always gives the title. It is always an indication of respect for the title that he holds."

Thomas Hart Benton, the distinguished artist, painted Truman's portrait last year. "The old man looks better as an old man than he did as a young man," said Benton, himself 83. "You get that fat off of him and you see that chicken-hawk face and also his sensitivity. You would never think of Harry Truman as being sensitive, but he is—when he's not fat and bothered with all the defenses a politician has to put up with. You didn't ever see the real man, you saw only the mask."

But Truman's sister, Mary Jane, said a little sadly: "I don't know. He doesn't look a thing like he used to. He always had a full face and always looked so well. He takes a miserable picture now, he's so thin. And he's always taken such a nice picture."

The Benton portrait, standing in the lobby of the Harry S. Truman presidential library, dismayed employes at first. It shows a white-haired old man engrossed in a book held in gnarled, arthritic fingers. The shirt collar and suit are loose. About all that's familiar is the hawk nose, made more prominent by the lines in Truman's face. Like all Benton paintings, it's scrupulously detailed.

"He's a skull now," said Benton. "You can see the man without the jowls and the fat. He has no need now to put on an act, any kind of public act. So he relaxes now. He's a very interesting old man."

The association between the artist and Truman began in 1960 when Benton painted "Independence and the Opening of the West," a 495-square foot mural, in the lobby of the library. "We got to be pretty good friends," Benton said. "This is an amazing thing for an artist and a politician. Harry Truman and I are two men who can sit in a room alone and drink a glass of whisky and feel at ease. You know what I mean? Now there is no other politician I can do that with—none of them."

Benton had tried to paint Truman in 1963, when the former president still went to the library daily, something he hasn't done since 1965. Truman posed willingly, Benton said, but "I was constantly interfered with by office workers. The women wanted him to look like Clark Gable and the politicians ... " Benton's hands went up in exasperation. "I finally told him, 'I can't do this,' and he let me off the hook. Then last year we got to talking about that effort. We were laughing about that and I said, 'Hell, why not try again?' and he said why not. So I did this painting and I'm glad I waited because it's more interesting."

The artist made four trips to the Truman home for sketches, then painted in his garage-studio in Kansas City. "Mrs. Truman saw it and said, 'That's him,'" says Benton. "What the hell more do you want?" Does Truman like it? "Bess does," Benton replies. "That's enough."

The things that please Bess have always been enough for Truman. She was his childhood sweetheart, the aristocratic athlete that the bookish farm boy Truman wooed and won; she was the only girl he ever dated and loved; she was his secretary in the Senate; she was his unobtrusive confidant and supporter when he was president. Now 87 herself, still doing most of the shopping, cooking and housework, she is with him constantly, zealously guarding his privacy.

"I don't think she likes to leave Harry too much," said Mary Jane Truman. "There's always somebody on hand, but at his age, you know, he might get up and fall. There has to be somebody in the house."

Privately, some of their friends say she protects him too much, keeping away people who might brighten his days. But they respect her wishes and the calling list is small.

Dollar Formally Devalued Monday

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will formally devalue the dollar at Noon EDT Monday, carrying out a bargain struck in late December with the richest non-Communist nations.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said Friday he will notify the International Monetary Fund Monday that the new par value of the dollar is one thirty-eighth of an ounce of gold instead of the previous one thirty-fifth, a devaluation of 8.57 per cent.

The declaration is strictly formal, but it is the last official step by the United States to fulfill its agreement to devalue the dollar.

Since last December, when the international monetary agreement was reached, major nations have been trading their money as if the dollar was already devalued, adopting a new system of currency exchange rates which also included revaluation of several other currencies.

It is the first time since 1934 that the dollar has been devalued, and the action has been little noticed by Americans, unless they buy a lot of imported goods.

Devaluation has made imported goods such as Japanese cars and German cameras more expensive. And, because the dollar is worth less against other currencies, U.S. exports to foreign nations are cheaper than they were before.

Connally's decision is more of historic interest than anything else because of the de facto devaluation that took place in December. Still, some nations have expressed concern that the United States has delayed as long as it has before devaluing.

Congress made the move possible by raising the official price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce. That bill was passed and signed into law by President Nixon on March 31.

The treasury waited another month for passage of an appropriations bill enabling the nation to fulfill so-called "maintenance of value" obligations in international organizations.

The Senate cleared the legislation Friday. It called for an appropriationof $1.6 billion.

The monetary agreement reached in December is only an interim settlement. The major nations are expected to get together this year to begin discussing reform of the world monetary system, a job that is expected to take a year or perhaps two.

Texas Business Chugs On

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' business activity likely will move slowly upward during the rest of 1972, but there is no boom in sight a Bureau of Business Research specialist predicted Saturday.

"The prospect for the Texas economy, in summary, is that things will keep chugging along the upward track during 1972," said a special report written by Dr. N. Carroll Mohn, research associate at the University of Texas agency. "Business recovery promises to be a big bouncier, probably gathering somewhat in momentum as the year goes on, although a boom is definitely not in sight. The disturning items that persist, however, are the possible re-emergence of unemployment and inflationary pressures envisaged by some analysts for either late this year or early in 1973."

Mohn said some of the good sights during March were a resurgence in retail sales, another record level in average weekly earning in Texas manufacturing and "the cost of living remained virtually at a standstill." He said the business activity indexes for 20 Texas metropolitan areas showed only three cities that had lower quarterly business levels than a year ago.

The business activity indexes showed Abilene up 4 per cent for the month of March and up 12 per cent for the year to date; Amarillo up 5 and up 9; Austin down 6 and up 22; Beaumont up 4 and up 4; Corpus Christi up 3 and up 18; Corsicana up 5 and down 2; Dallas up 6 and up 7; El Paso up 9 and up 15; Fort Worth no change and up 8; Galveston down 15 and down 3; Houston up 4 and up 19; Laredo up 4 and up 8; Lubbock, up 8 and up 16; Port Arthur up 5 and down 14; San Angelo up 6 and up 9; San Antonio up 3 and up 8; Texarkana up 5 and up 13; Tyler up 4 and up 7; Waco down one and up 15; Wichita Falls down 2 and up 13.

Pest Program Started

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A cotton pest management program has been started in Texas, following the signing of an agreement in Washington.

Texas will receive $300,000 in three years from $2,250,000 allocated 14 major cotton producing states to help farmers carry out the pest management program.

The effort is an expanded educational program by the Extension Service-USDA and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service aimed at helping farmers control pests more economically and effectively.

The program will be administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University in cooperation with producer associations and other groups, Dr. John E. Hutchison, extension director, announced.

"Major thrust of the program will be on cotton to maximize net producer profits from insect control efforts. This will involve the utilization of cultural and natural biological pest control measures in combination with chemicals as needed to protect the cotton crop from economic pest damage," Hutchison said.

MORE FACTS about modern drugs
① In the past ten years, wholesale prices for all commodities went up 20%, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In the same period, prices of specialty drugs did not go up at all.
② Most modern drugs go down in price after sales and production increase. Salk vaccine, penicillin, and streptomycin are typical examples.

Survivors Found In 'Copter

SAIGON (AP) — Five of 10 Americans presumed killed when a helicopter was shot down in flames in South Vietnam's central highlands 13 days ago were rescued alive today, field reports said.

The reports said two of the men were in fairly good condition but the other three were seriously injured, one with a broken back, one with two broken arms and the third with a broken leg.

There was no immediate identification of the five. The U.S. Command said it could confirm only that five Americans were picked up but had no further details.

The 10 were aboard a helicopter that was shot down April 24 while lifting out of Dak To airfield near the Laotian border.

They included four crewmen and six U.S. Army advisers who had escaped earlier the same day when the South Vietnamese command base at Tan Canh near Oak Ta was overrun.

First reports said the five survivors included at least one of the helicopter crew. The field reports said the men apparently were without food and water for most of their 13-day ordeal.

Sources said the men had a radio and the two least seriously injured were able to move a few miles to the south of the crash site where they made contact with friendly forces at 3:15 p.m. today.

The helicopter crewman, one of the two, was able to persuade suspicious radio monitors that he and the others were genuinely survivors from the crashed helicopter, and not an English-speaking enemy soldier trying to lure rescue aircraft into a trap.

The two were picked up by a helicopter two hours later, and the other three shortly thereafter, on the basis of directions given by the two.

Storage Rate Hike Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has turned down a request by the grain trade for a raise in the storage rates paid farmers and warehouse operators for handling government-owned grain.

The rates are established by the department to pay for storing commodities covered by the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement. A new contract for the year beginning July 1 will continue the present rates.

Glenn A. Weir, deputy administrator for commodity operations in the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said Friday the decision to hold the line on rates was final.

Currently, the basic rate for storing such grain as wheat and corn is 14.6 cents per bushel a year. A boost of 1.46 cents was granted a year ago for the present 1971-72 marketing year.

However, the grain trade says elevator storage and handling costs have increased sharply—a point borne out by USDA's own reports—and that another, larger, boost was necessary.

Although details of negotiations were not disclosed sources said the trade wanted a boost of 12 to 15 per cent or roughly to an annual rate in the range of 16 to 18 cents per bushel annually.

However, according to the sources, the Commodity Credit Corp., which made the decision, claimed such a boost would be out of line with Nixon administration economic policies and the Price Commission guidelines.

The current 14.6 cents rate is for grain stored the first year in a warehouse, during the second year the same grain gets a rate of about 12 cents per bushel.

As a counter offer, according to the sources, the grain trade asked the CCC to hold the line on the 14.6 cents rate but boost the second-year rate to the same amount, thus making the two equal.

Dr. Sam Mendoza, who delivered Mrs. Zarnick's baby on Thursday, said the delivery was normal and "her heart never gave us any trouble."

Both mother and child, who weighed 6 pounds and 10 ounces, were reported doing fine.

More Penalties Seen For NY Stock Exchange

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange says it expects more charges "in the near future" in the case of a Philadelphia college student who was able to order $200,000 worth of stock without putting up any cash.

The Big Board on Friday announced censures, fines and suspensions against four member firm officers, one brokerage operations manager and five salesmen and said its investigation was continuing.

It declined to specify what or who the additional charges might involve.

"I don't think this is going to answer the problem," said Abraham Treff, 19, the Philadelphia student who contended his orders from last Nov. 30 through early January were intended to show brokers would ignore exchange regulations in order to get commissions.

"Personally," the only way any safeguards can be effected is to revise the whole system," Treff said in Philadelphia after the disciplinary actions were announced. "As long as salesmen are paid by commissions they generate, there is always going to be trouble on Wall Street."

Treff said he placed his first order last Nov. 30 and stayed in the market until disclosing his activities to The New York Times in January. He said he was able to run up orders worth $200,000 without ever putting up any cash, signing any papers or appearing in a brokerage office.

The exchange announced fines of up to $2,000 and suspensions ranging from five days to five months against brokerage employes, but refused to say for whom the disciplined employes worked. It was learned, however, that they were employed by four of six firms with which Treff claimed to have placed orders. All were Philadelphia area residents.

Chester C. Garre, a vice president and branch manager for Weis, Voison & Co., was censured and fined $1,000. Samuel L. Fleishman, a salesman for the same firm, was censured and fined $500.

Three others were employes of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis: H. Richard Walker, a vice president and branch manager, was censured and fined $1,000. Operations manager Howard E. Duryea Jr. was censured and fined $750 and salesman Arthur P. Ellis Jr. was censured and fined $500.

Henry H. Fahrig, a second vice president of Reynolds Securities, Inc., was suspended for 10 business days and fined $2,000. Frank J. Campbell III, a Reynolds vice president, was suspended for five days and fined $2,000 and Frank X. Gillespie, a conditionally approved salesman, was suspended for five months.

Two salesmen for Merril Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith were censured and fined, Charles J. Cooper $250 and Larry D. Gehrke $750.

The Big Board had said in January that Treff was able to place orders with two other firms, White, Weld & Co. and Yarnall, Biddle & Co., but did not say Friday whether the anticipated additional charges would involve employes of those companies. Nineteen companies turned Treff Down.

Quints Born In England

NORTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Quintuplets—three boys and two girls—were delivered here early today by emergency Ceasarean section to a 24-year-old woman who had been taking fertility drugs. The smallest baby, a girl, died within 10 hours and the other four were reported suffering breathing difficulties.

A spokesman for Northampton General Hospital said the babies were born after 33 weeks of pregnancy.

"Unfortunately they are all very small and immature and are having some degree of difficulty with their breathing," he said.

The quints were transferred to Northampton General immediately after birth in the nearby Barrett Maternity Home, for care in the hospital's premature baby unit.

"They are receiving intensive treatment from a team of doctors and nurses," the spokesman said.

He added the mother, Susan Furlow, was in satisfactory condition.

The quints were her first babies, the spokesman said.

Cars Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says more than nine million cars, most of them Chevrolets built by General Motors Corp., were recalled last year for correction of defects.

Pay Board Ponders Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board is leaning toward cutting back a big raise for East and Gulf Coast longshoremen.

"If I had to bet, I'd bet 60-40 for a cut," a board source said Thursday. "But I wouldn't bet my own money."

The board appeared so close to a decision Thursday that spokesmen called a news conference to announce it. But the conference was delayed, then canceled after President Nixon and a top aide met with the board's sole remaining union member, Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons.

Spokesmen offered no reason for the failure to reach a decision. They said the board would try again at a special session next Monday.

At issue are first-year raises of 12.1 per cent and more for 50,000 deck workers of the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO. Standard pay regulations would allow only 6.2 per cent, and the board staff has questioned the union's main arguments for approving anything more than that.
