Williams Wins In House Fight

TEXAN HERO OF GREAT BATTLE; BLOOM REMAINS

New York Delegation To Stay Democratic As Result of Victory

IS IMPORTANT CASE

Leader Showered With Congratulations At End Of Big Fight

Washington Bureau,
Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—By a margin of 12 votes, Representative Guilin Williams of Texas won his first big fight on the floor of the house Thursday. Williams, as ranking minority member of the house elections committee, took a leading part in the most important election case in congress for many years and even though he was conducting his maiden fight and making his maiden speech he won out.

New York Stays Demo.

As the result of the outcome of the contest the New York state delegation in the house remains democratic by a margin of one member, which is of great importance to the democratic party in the event that the election of the next president is thrown into the house.

After the vote had been taken Williams was showered with compliments from old members of the house on the masterful way in which he handled the contest. To win any election contest for a member of his own party is an accomplishment for any member to be proud of, but to win a contest for a democrat when the house and congress is republican, is almost unheard of in itineration.

Speaks Three Minutes.

Williams only spoke for three minutes today and most of that was taken up with loud and enthusiastic applause from the democratic side of the house, the main point he brought out was that if the republicans voted to unseat Sol Bloom in favor of Walter Chandler, a former congressman, they would be stealing the seat and would have to answer for it.

Old observers around the capitol are all commenting tonight upon the manner in which Williams handled his maiden fight and "put Bloom over," and members of the house are beginning to realize that the quiet member from the thirteenth Texas district usually gets what he goes after. His next fight will be for Philippine independence and indications are that he will win that, too.

TAKE FIRST STEPS IN WHEELER PROBE

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Preliminary steps in the inquiry into the indictment in Montana of Senator Wheeler, prosecutor of the Daugherty investigation, were taken today by the newly created senate committee while the Daugherty committee itself was touching briefly upon the subject.

PALESTINE WINS FIGHT FOR SHOPS

By The Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Tex., April 10.—Palestine won a victory over Houston in the fight for the International-Great Northern shops and general offices when the sixth court of civil appeals handed down a decision perpetually restraining the road from maintaining its general offices and shops at any place other than Palestine. The first fight in this legal battle was won by Palestine in 1914, when the Cherokee county district court rendered a decision retaining the shops there, that decision later being affirmed in an opinion written by Judge R. B. Levy, who also wrote the opinion in the case tendered here today.

Claim Coast Lines Favor New Orleans

I.-G. N. Hearing Closes For Week Thursday; Hamilton On Stand.

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., April 10.—The hearing of the Gulf Coast Lines' application for authority to purchase the stock of the International-Great Northern railroad recessed late today until 9 a. m. Monday, following a day of testimony in which attempts were made by the opposition to show that the Gulf Coast Lines had always favored New Orleans in preference to Texas ports.

Question Attitude.

A large amount of the testimony was taken up with questions of rates on sugar and the Gulf Lines' attitude toward New Orleans and Houston in this regard. Under questioning by opposing counsel, J. A. Brown, general freight agent on the Gulf Coast Lines, told that his road had made a large cut in sugar rates from New Orleans in order to get shipments of this commodity by rail. He was accused by counsel of having favored an outside corporation against the Sugarland Industries, but denied this. He explained he thought the previous rates too high and that was why his road reduced them.

President T. A. Hamilton of the International-Great Northern occupied the witness stand until the middle of the afternoon, telling of the physical and financial condition of his road.

HOLDING CONFERENCES

Will Conduct Campaign In Ohio and Other Points, He Says

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California, a candidate for the republican presidential nomination declared tonight in a formal statement he is not quitting what he is "attempting to do politically." That he defined as an effort to rid the republican party of "a corrupt and reactionary control."

No Reports

There was no specific mention of his candidacy in his statement, nor was there any reference to persistent reports that he would at least curtail his activities in the remaining states that are to select delegates to the republican national convention at Cleveland.

Since his return to Washington, tonight, Senator Johnson has conferred with a number of his advisers here. While no formal announcement has been made, it is known that some of them, at least, have advised him to abandon the contest for the nomination.

Smash Alliance

The only public answer the senator has given to questions as to whether he intends to adopt that course is his statement tonight. In that he declared that the "un-holy alliance between crooked big business and crooked politics which dominates the republican party must be smashed and the party revitalized and regenerated."

HI TO CONTINUE HIS CAMPAIGN IN OHIO.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 10.—Hiram Johnson will continue his fight for delegates to the republican national convention in states yet to hold primaries, his Ohio campaign manager, State Senator George H. Bender, announced today. Bender, after a telephone talk with the California senator in Washington, said Mr. Johnson had declared reports of his withdrawal were unfounded.

Johnson will stump Ohio in the pre-primary campaign, Bender said, coming to Ohio on April 19th, and remaining until the eve of the primary election, April 29.

CONSCIOUS TO END

Three Major Operations Fail to Save Life; Nation Mourns

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 10.—Hugo Stinnes, more closely identified with German industrial life than any other man, died this evening at 8:30. Indefatigable in his labors, he struggled against the impending end, and was conscious to the last.

Around him were gathered his wife and child. There had been no hope for his recovery for many hours and the foremost medical skill could do nothing against the ravages of disease.

Operations Futile.

Three major operations had been performed, the first about four weeks ago for gallstones, and it was owing to the impossibility of keeping the patient quiet, according to the surgeons, that complications arose, necessitating further operations, the last one on Sunday. It was also reported that pneumonia developed.

Since the grave nature of Herr Stinnes' illness became known to the people of Berlin it had been almost the sole topic of discussion. If far outranked in popular interest the project just published by the experts committees for the settlement of the reparation problems. The far-reaching business enterprises of the man, his great influence among the political leaders, his very eccentricities had since the war taken a strong hold on the German people.

Coolidge Addresses Women's Committee

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Coolidge, addressing members of the woman's national committee for law enforcement from the south portico of the White House today, told them successful law enforcement depended primarily upon the measures of public sentiment for observance of the law.

"I sometimes wish," the president said, "that people would put a little more emphasis upon the observance of the law than they do upon enforcement. It is a maxim of our institutions that the government does not make the people, but the people make the government. That is why a gathering of this kind is so encouraging to me."

TAKE STEPS TO ADVANCE MONEY

Paul Warburg, head of the International Acceptance bank, was named as the leader in the negotiations.

City Building Code Repealed By Council

An ordinance repealing the newly adopted building code was passed on its first reading by the city council Thursda afternoon when that body Thursday afternoon when that body document. Only the absence of one of the commissioners saved it from being repealed in full yesterday, but the action taken means that this will be done within the next two weeks.

This unexpected action came, it was explained by Mayor Collier, as the result of a vigorous complaint made by the committee which drafted the code, the members of which declare dthat the recent action of the council in eliminating their clause barring wooden shingles in the city had "taken the very heart out of the code." This clause, against which a protest was lodged by lumbermen of the city, prohibited the use of wooden shingles at any point in the city limits. It was later modified by the council to permit use of shingles anywhere except in the fire limits.

As matters now stand, it appears that the code will be altered again so as to still permit use of shingles of a higher quality than those heretofore used. A "five to two" shingle, meaning those of such thickness at the butte to require five shingles for a two-inch thickness, is to be demanded, it was intimated.

Creager and Heflin In Verbal Bouts At Texas Land Hearing

Texan Tells Committee What He Thinks of Senator's Charges and Is Advised to Shut Up and Leave the Room

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—More thunder reverberated through the senate committee room, where the investigation into alleged land frauds in the Lower Rio Grande valley of Texas continued today, when R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman from Texas, used his vantage point as a spectator to denounce in full tones as "maliciously false" an assertion by James R. Page, Kansas City attorney, who is assisting Senator Heflin, democrat of Alabama, committee prosecutor.

Page had charged that the land interest of Creager, who is charged by Senator Heflin with being implicated in the alleged frauds, "would not allow evidence to be presented to a grand jury."

He Tells 'Em.

"That's false—maliciously false," Creager broke in from his spectator's seat.

The Texas national committeeman was heard from a minute later when he flatly contradicted an assertion by Senator Heflin, during a discussion of the water supply in the Rio Grande valley, that it was "not there in 1921."

"I will call you when I want you," the senator shouted back at Creager, adding that he could leave the room if he "couldn't conduct himself properly."

Simmons Questioned.

George A. Hill, Jr., of Houston, Texas, counsel for Creager, questioned Rush D. Simmons, chief postal inspector about the investigations of postal inspectors in the alleged land frauds and read into the record testimonial letters as to Creager's standing from a number of prominent Texans. These included former Governor O. B. Colquitt and Judge Duvall West. A complimentary description of the Rio Grande recently painted in the senate by Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, also was read into the record.

LINES DRAWN ON TAX FIGHT

Demo Plan in Place Of Mellon Bill Ready For Submission

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Lines for the major contest on the revenue bill in the senate were definitely drawn today by a committee of democrats on the income tax plan they will propose as a substitute for the Mellon rates placed in the measure by finance committee republicans.

Introduced by Smoot.

The bill as framed by the finance committee was introduced in the senate by Chairman Smoot, who said he expected to call it up for consideration next week. Senator Robinson, Arkansas, democratic leader, joined Chairman Smoot in the suggestion that the bill be taken up by next Wednesday.

The democratic income tax schedule, introduced by Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee, is a radical departure from the plan of Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, which was supported by house democrats and approaches very closely to the Longworth compromise rates adopted by the house.

Waggoner Land Values Cut 50 Cents Per Acre

A reduction of approximately $87,000 in the taxable land value of the W. T. Waggoner estate in Baylor county was made Thursday afternoon by Federal Judge William H. Atwell at the conclusion of the Waggoner vs. Baylor county case. A 50 cent per acre cut, reducing the taxable value from $7 to $6.50 per acre was made on about 180,000 acres of Waggoner land in the county, meaning that the taxable value of the lands, in the neighborhood of $1,303,000 under the old assessment was reduced to approximately $1,200,000.

The decree of the court was issued immediately after arguments of counsel were concluded. The case has been on trial all week and has been one of the most lengthy ever disposed of in a Wichita Falls court.

In bringing suit against the county commissioners court of Baylor county, the plaintiff alleged that discrimination had been shown in the equalizing and assessing of taxes against his property. The Waggoner lands, evidence showed, were originally rendered at $5 an acre and that this was later raised by the commissioners, sitting as a board of equalization, to $10 an acre. Subsequently this was reduced to $7.

It was the contention of the plaintiff that other lands in Baylor county were not assessed at as high a figure as those of the Waggoner ranches.

Daugherty Committee Back Trails Evidence

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The senate Daugherty committee backtrailed today over the wide field of its investigation in search of evidence tying up loose ends of charges before it bearing upon the administration of the department of justice.

The land fraud cases in Oklahoma, the case of the Ohio Hickory Powder company in Tennessee, and the showing of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films were given attention in quick succession while by a sudden change of plan, decision was reached to send Chairman Brookhart and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, to Washington Court House, Ohio, immediately, in connection with its investigation.

Late in the day another question was presented to the committee for determination when H. F. Taff, Washington, superintendent of the Western Union, gave notice that the company would refuse to deliver messages sent and received here by former Attorney General Daugherty during the past three years.

These files had been requested and the committee at once took the refusal under consideration, but with out indicating what action it might decide upon.

"THREW OIL ON DERRICK," SAYS TRIAL WITNESS

Foreman Testifies That "Gusher" Made 25 Bbls. A Day On Pump

TANKS WERE WATERED

El Dorado Operators On Trial in Texarkana On Fraud Charges

By The Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 10.—J. L. Fallin, production foreman for Pat Marr, at the time Marr brought in his first oil well in the El Dorado field, testified today in Marr's trial on charges of misuse of the mails, that he (Fallin) threw oil on the derrick of the well "to make it look like it had come in as a gusher."

Fallin also testified that he and his helpers filled two 250 barrels storage tanks on the lease with water and then placed "three or four inches of oil on top of the water to make them look like they were full of oil."

Talked About It

Fallin said that Marr talked with him about throwing oil on the derrick one night and the next day he got orders from Marr's superintendent to go ahead and do it. He also said Marr talked with him another night about filling the two tanks with water and the next day he got orders from the superintendent to go ahead.

The derrick and tanks were located at Marr's first well, the Thirkhill No. 1, it was brought out by previous testimony.

Fallin's testimony followed several other government's witnesses testimony relating to this well and a special edition of the El Dorado Times, an oil paper. This paper, dated Sept. 8, 1922, was introduced in evidence and read to the jury. It declared in big headlines that Marr had brought in a gusher, the Thirkbill No. 1, and in the story about the well it was said that the well came in as a 2,400 barrel gusher, requiring the special attention of Marr himself in bringing it under control. The alleged gusher was declared to have come in on Sept. 7.

Refused to Sign

Fallin testified that it was about ... t. 22 of that year that he threw the oil on the derrick and put the water in the tanks.

Fallin also testified that Marr later asked him to sign an affidavit that the well came in as a 2,400 barrel gusher and that he had refused to do it.

"The well never did make over 25 barrels a day," Fallin said, "and that was on the pump. That was all it ever did pump until the casing was pulled."

"Did Marr come down to the well after you threw the oil on the derrick?" Prosecuting Attorney Rush asked.

"Yes," Fallin replied, "he came down and said it was a good job. He also came down after we had filled the storage tanks with water, and said that was also a good job."

Fallin said that when Marr talked to him about throwing oil on the der-

BAPTISTS CLOSE CONVENTION IN DEVOUT SERVICE

Delegates Leave for Home After Final Meeting Of Convention

Last night saw the First Baptist church again crowded to its capacity by convention delegates and friends of the organized Bible class movement who gathered to participate in the last session of the Organized Bible Class convention. With enthusiasm not in the least dimmed by three days of arduous labor these Baptists of Texas came together for this final service to hear the closing addresses of their leaders, and to make their last pledges of whole-hearted service to their cause before returning home.

In last night's two addresses and the preceding musical service the convention undoubtedly reached its climax. Music, supremely beautiful and inspiring, and the messages of a man and a woman whose lives have been well spent in service to mankind and humanity combined to make this closing session the most impressive of the convention and to impress its lesson upon every one in attendance.

H. Virgil Reynolds, playing "The Rosary" on the piano and Mrs. O. L. Collard, playing "Nearer My God To Thee" on the pipe organ, laid the foundation for this most spiritual of all the sessions.

An address by Miss Jessie L. Burral of Columbia, Missouri, followed these two solos. In an effective manner Miss Burral told of the power of prayer and its need in the church.

"Come clean," was the tenor of her talk. "Play square with yourself and your God. Commune with Him, pray at least ten minutes each day.

"Do you know," she said, "that our young people are restless and step on the gas because they have not God? That is the reason for their wild escapades and their midnight auto parties. You have God. They haven't. Are you letting your light shine out to them so that they may share this wonderful contentment and feeling of absolute security that you have?"

Miss Burral's plea for ten minutes of prayer daily was answered when the congregation, almost as one, entered into the covenant with her to spend at least that much time in communion with God.

Homer J. Councillor of Washington, D. C., gave the closing address of the convention. With an eloquence that is seldom matched he spoke to his audience as few orators can, and when he was done left them with an indefinable sense of having heard a really marvelous man.

A condensation of his address follows:

"Tonight I am inspired with a vision a vision of service. I see before me vast vistas of accomplishment which we can win if we but will. It is up to us.

"Us, you say. What can we do? I'll tell you, there is never a man elected to any political office in this republic of ours, from dog catcher to president, that does not assume the duties of his office with your endorsement. Think about your power for good there.

"The organized Bible class is the greatest power for good in the world. There is nothing that it can not do. Its aim should be every living man and woman in this world working for Jesus.

"Did I hear some one call that aim elaborate? It is not one iota more elaborate than that of one, Jesus of Nazareth, who had not one tenth of the education and the tools for labor that we have. Before you discard my statement into the realm of the imagination let me ask you what you have done to make tis realty. What have you done to spread the gospel of Jesus Christ and Him crucified into all the world.

"Hear me, you are playing at Christianity. You sit here complacently in your seats seemingly unaware that there are thousands who will never be inside a church. You brag of your big classes and wonderful teachers, you who should be teaching classes yourselves and carrying on the work of the Nazarene to the multitudes just outside the gates waiting for a helping hand to show them the way to salvation and light.

"You have heard me tell of my vision. Have you a vision? Your piety—it is an inherent cloak for your damnable laziness. A vision of service, discard your piety and conjure a vision, a vision of service.

"The individual is the unit of service. There is no one that has the right to say, 'My sphere is too small to count.' You may be only the horseshoe nail of the ancient fable but likewise you have your place in the battle and a big thing may depend on you.

"We are born to be giants, yet so many of us are carried around on sofa pillows prattling like babies. Little pygmies when we might have moved mountains!

"Hear me, we are fighting under the only field marshall that never led an army to defeat. God can not let us lose. It is only up to us to keep fighting, and like the Columbus of old, sail on! Oh, sail on! Sail on!"

Following a few closing words by Rev. Powers of the First church here, and one stanza of "God Be With You" by the congregation the audience was dismissed and the Tenth Annual Convention of the Organized Bible Classes of Texas was over.

"I Believe In God," Declares Dr. Selecman

"I believe in a personal God. I believe in a personal humanity. I believe in a personal devil. I believe in a personal Jesus Christ."

Such was the clearcut declarations of Dr. C. C. Selecman at the noonday meeting at the Palace theatre yesterday. With a manner of assurance and the confidence of secure position he told his hearers of the personality of God, which, despite the maledictions of pseudo-science and so-called philosophy, will forever be true, unchangeable and persistent for all time as in the past.

"Standing out over the mystery of creation is the sublime explanation of the old Book that says the great first cause may be traced back to one supreme Being. I challenge all literature and philosophy to show me one explanation as good as that for existence for creation!"

Yesterday's service was the best attended of any held thus far, the orchestra of the Palace theatre being nearly filled. Dr. Selecman in a few words requested that superlative efforts be put forward to fill the theatre for today's service. Bishop Boaz will preach today.

TWO BOYS RUN DOWN ON ELECTRA ROAD

Officers were conducting an investigation Thursday night into an accident that nearly terminated fatally late in the afternoon. Two boys whose names could not be learned were said to be nursing painful bruises as a result of the affair.

According to reports, the boys were walking into town on the Electra road and were run down by an automobile occupied by two men. The car, it is said, was from Oklahoma. It was followed by two men who saw the accident and who said that they reported the affair to the police.

The names of the victims nor their residences could not be learned last night. The boys were not taken to the hospital, it was declared, and it is not believed that they were badly hurt.

"BRING HIM TO ME," BOAZ TEXT

Revival Spirit Taking Hold At First M. E. Big Crowd Hears Sermon

Bishop Boaz preached again to an enthusiastic audience at the First Methodist church last night. The revival spirit is beginning to take hold on the church membership, it is said, and great things are expected in the remaining services of the campaign.

Bishop Boaz's sermon in part follows:

My text for the evening is found in the 19th verse of the 9th chapter of the Gospel according to St. Mark. It is in the last sentence of that verse, and the words are as follows: "Bring him unto me." This is a command given by the Christ unto the father of a boy who was possessed of an evil spirit. Dr. McNeil, who used to be called the Scotch Spurgeon, has said that a miracle of mercy like the one concerning the healing of the demoniac boy is a parable of grace. It has in it a great many valuable lessons for occasions of this sort.

Jesus was just returning from the Mount of Transfiguration, where he had enjoyed a most remarkable experience. His raiment had been made as white as the snow, and His face was as the brightness of the noonday sun. Coming down from the highest harmonies of heaven, he met at the base of the mountain the harshest discords of earth. He found nine of his disciples in the midst of confusion and shame because of their inability to drive an evil spirit out of this boy. I do not know in what particular way this evil spirit manifested itself, except that it oftentimes threw this boy into the water or the fire, to destroy him. There are many people today in this country who are possessed of evil spirits of different kinds. Some have the evil spirit of unbelief, or profanity or worldliness or bad temper. These evil spirits manifest themselves in numerous ways, but it is all the same great evil spirit, trying to drag down and destroy. The life of this boy was in danger. Satan had full possession of him. The Bible declares that Satan is a person and that he is like a "roaring lion, going about seeking whom he may destroy." His chief business is to destroy men. He is in the world to produce discord and to bring to naught all the purposes of God. God has designed man for a life of usefulness and happiness here, and blissful immortality in the world to come. It is Satan's business to destroy this as far as possible. Every unsaved man is in danger. Life is uncertain and death is sure. There is only one way to be saved and that is to be right with God.

The most harrowing experience imaginable is to be called upon to bury one of your own loved ones when you feel sure that the loved one went out into the spiritual world unprepared to meet God.

(The bishop here recited a tragic experience of being called upon to officiate at the funeral of a young man who had lived a Christless life, died a Christless death, was clothed in a Christless shroud and buried in a Christless grave).

The father of this young man was seeking aid. He recognized that his boy was in danger and he had heard of the ability of Jesus to bring deliverance. He seeks an opportunity to bring his son to the Christ. This is a blessed example for us to follow. If any of you in this congregation have an unsaved loved one, or an unsaved friend, every possible effort should be put forth at this particular time in order to bring that individual into the Kingdom of God.

(The bishop here related the story of how a cow was seen following behind a farm wagon, and being anxious to know why the cow followed the wagon, he climbed upon the wheel of the wagon, after it had stopped, and found a little calf lying on some hay in the wagon bed. The cow he had seen was looking after her calf. But many parents fail to look after their sons and daughters).

The story relates that the disciples could not cast this evil spirit out of this boy. There were three reasons to account for their inability to drive the evil spirit out. Three of the leading disciples were absent, and so was the Christ. They were on the mountain top, enjoying the marvelous experience of the transfiguration glory. The nine disciples left at the base of the mountain had been asked to cast out the evil spirit, but they had failed. Peter, James and John, along with their Lord, were not in the group, and the group, by their absence, was greatly weakened. We need, in these evening services, as well as in the noonday meetings, the presence of every good man and woman in the church. The presence of these good people encourages, inspires and increases the faith of us all. Those who are members of the church and have but little faith or zeal, need the meetings. So we need the presence of all classes in each of these services. And above all, we must have the presence of the great Christ. He said to His disciples, "Without me ye could do nothing." And without Him in these meetings we will be able to accomplish no good. On one occasion his disciples toiled all night long and got nothing with their nets, but in the morning when Jesus appeared on the seashore, He told them to cast their nets on the other side of the boat, and keeping His command, they caught as many fish as the net would hold. The spiritual presence of Christ is absolutely necessary for the success of these meetings.

In the second place, they could not cast out the evil spirit because of their unbelief. When they asked of the Master, privately, why they had been unable to cast the evil spirit out, He answered "Because of your unbelief." We are told in the Bible that in a certain place Jesus did not many mighty works because of their unbelief. Again, it is said, "this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." If we have no faith in the successful outcome of these services they will be sure to fail.

In the third place the Master said "This kind can come forth only by prayer and fasting." Prayer will be necessary in order to help bring about a great revival in this city at this time. The old time revival way was the way of prayer and fasting. We are told in the Book that when we humble ourselves and pray, we may expect the blessing of God upon us. If this church desires a great revival this revival will come in answer to our prayers.

(Another interesting story was told by the bishop, in which he related how a certain devoted Christian wife, in the town of Gatesville fasted and prayed for the salvation of her husband, and was rewarded by his happy conversion).

When this boy, possessed with the evil spirit, was brought into the presence of Christ, the evil spirit threw him upon the ground, and left him wallowing and foaming at the mouth. In the presence of the Christ, Satan did his best to destroy the boy, but failed. With kingly authority, the Christ said to the evil spirit, "Come out of him and enter no more into him," and the evil spirit left him. Jesus Christ is able to save unto the uttermost all who come unto him. We have a Christ who is able to save the hardest sinner. It matters not how great a sinner one may be, Christ is a Savior sufficient. He has never turned a deaf ear to any one who has called upon him for help. He would be willing to hush every harp in heaven to hear the faintest cry of the poorest sinner in all the land.

The father of this boy was commanded to bring the boy unto the Christ. May we not regard this as a command to every one of us who has unsaved loved ones?

Let me emphasize the fact that he was commanded to bring the boy to the Christ. There are some who would be satisfied if their sons, or friends, would enter the Sunday school or the church. It is well to be a member of the Sunday school, and even better to be a member of the church, but it is possible to be a member of both and still not be in right relation with God. The church is the greatest organization upon the face of the earth. There is no other organization that is in any way comparable with the church. It is of divine origin and it has divine glory. It is the one hope of the world today. But a man may be a member of the church and still be a lost man. It is Christ we must know in a personal way. We must believe in Him as a personal Savior.

There are some who seek an experience. They want to enjoy a certain emotional sensation and some think this is the very heart of religion. It is a fact that emotional experiences usually accompany religious experiences, but no one must rely upon his emotions. The only hope of salvation is through faith in Jesus Christ.

(The bishop here related another story that happened in his experience, of a man who for many years had been seeking an experience, but when told to forget the experience, to commit himself to Christ, stepped out by faith, and afterwards enjoyed the deepest emotional experience, because of his commitment of himself unreservedly unto Christ as his only hope of salvation).

CARE OF ROSES TOLD BY EXPERTS

AUSTIN, Texas, April 10.—Care of roses, to protect the plants and flowers from mildew and plant lice, was explained by J. M. Del Curto, plant pathologist of the state department of agriculture.

A spray to be used to free roses of both the fungus and the bug may be prepared, Mr. Del Curto said, by any person who grows roses. He also gave the formula for a poison bran mash to eradicate cutworms and grubs from gardens.

The "black leaf 40" formula for spray to be used on rose bushes or for plums attacked by the aphids, or plant lice, was given as follows: One ounce soap; one teaspoonful of "black leaf 40" which may be purchased at any drug store; and 1 gallon of water. The tobacco is added to the soap solution after it has cooled.

The poison bran mash for use just before or at the time of planting gardens, is made up as follows:

By mixing a small amount of arsenate of lead and paris green with bran. This is made into a soft dough by adding water and molasses. Made into small pellets, this is placed in the soft ground when garden crops are planted, before planting. The poison should be placed under boards and in damp places and should be "planted" late in the evnings. Chickens must be kept away from it.

Minnows to Destroy Mosquitoes.

OROVILLE, Cal., April 9.—Butte county, in central California, has employed Gambusia minnows to destroy mosquitoes. These tiny fish placed in irrigation ditches, ponds and lakes, eliminate the mosquitoes at their breeding places. Mosquitoes had become a nuisance in this region, but since the minnows were planted the pest has diminished rapidly.

Mothers AND THEIR CHILDREN

A Musical Club

One Mother Says:

To keep our high school age children content to find entertainment at home, another mother and I organized a little Friday evening musical club among boys and girls in our neighborhood, the group meeting at one of our homes and bringing what instruments were available. Enough talent was discovered to form a small orchestra. At the close of the evening light refreshments were served and impromptu dancing followed. Those who could not play were glad to drop in to gather around the piano and sing and to enjoy the dancing. This club flourished for several years and was a wholesome factor in the neighborhood.

"START THE DAY RIGHT;" WEAR A RUFFLY NEGLIGEE

By MME. LISBETH.

Nothing helps a woman through a trying day like the consciousness that she looks well every minute. This remark is more than a trifle trite, I admit, but nevertheless true. And if she arrayed herself in a charming breakfast coat such as the one pictured above to appear at the breakfast table you must admit that she couldn't very well be grouchy.

Seafoam green chiffon is used over woodcut brown for this breakfast coat. A bunch of bright red chiffon grapes is placed on the left shoulder and another at the closing at the right side.

Popular Electra Girl Marries

By The Associated Press.

ELECTRA, April 9.—A wedding of much interest took place here Tuesday evening, when Miss Hilda Ligon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ligon, of this city, and Gordon Gildart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gildart of Benton, Mississippi, were married at the home of the bride on East Ida avenue. Rev. Byron Hester of the First Christian church performed the ring ceremony.

The home was beautifully decorated with pink and white rosebuds and ferns. Besides the many other friends of the bride, the employees of the Perkins-Timberlake store, where she has been employed as assistant bookkeeper, attended the wedding in a body. A wedding supper was served at 10:30, and the happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents from their large circle of friends.

Mrs. Gildart is one of Electra's most popular young ladies. She is a graduate of the local schools, and also of the State university at Austin, and a leader in social and church work, among the younger set of the city.

The couple will make their home in Wortham, Texas, where the groom is employed.

Today's Poem

THE SPRING OF LOVE.

A little sun, a little rain,
O soft wind blowing from the west,
And woods and fields are sweet again,
And warmth within the mountain breast.

A little love, a little trust,
A soft impulse, a sudden dream,
And life as dry as desert dust,
Is fresher than a mountain stream.

—Stopford A. Brooks.

Color Cut-Outs

A Joke on Billy.

"Every day in every way Billy Cut-out gets stylisher, and stylisher, and stylisher," teased Tom Cut-up, his cousin. It was at the second performance of the Fashion Show. "Well, if you think this suit is a winner, just you come tomorrow when I make my final appearance," invited Billy with a knowing air. "You'll be so jealous you'll be green to your shoes. And what's more, I'm going to get some sort of a reward."

Just then Billy was announced, so he stepped out of the wing and onto the stage. One of Billy's friends in the front row giggled and then another pointed his finger at the book Billy carried. Suddenly Billy realized that all the people in the front rows were laughing and the reason was that he was holding his book upside down.

This dark blue street suit has a gray hat to go with it. Billy wears black shoes with gray hose. Watch for a big surprise tomorrow.

LEGISLATIVE DEMANDS OF LABOR.

Organized labor has spoken. Congress is in session. There is a presidential election coming. Organized labor, speaking through Samuel Gompers, declares the outstanding measures for which labor is contending are:

1. Immigration for the protection of the American people.
2. Settlement of disputes between railroads and employes.
3. Child labor amendment to the constitution.
4. Workmen's compensation for the District of Columbia.
5. Adjusted compensation for former service men.
6. Adequate wages for school teachers in the District of Columbia.
7. Extension of the vocational rehabilitation law.
8. Reclassification of federal employes.
9. Adequate wages for postal employes.

A measure singled out for special condemnation is the joint bill for conscription of labor in the event of national emergency and Gompers attacks it as being a more inimical piece of legislation than was ever before considered by congress.

According to President Gompers, recent reports of the United States employment service show a surplus of labor, especially of what is resignated as unskilled labor, in nearly every industrial city and town in the United States. There is no mistaking the attitude of the American Federation of Labor or it spresident.

President Gompers and his followers are for the Johnson immigration bill providing for a two per cent quota and the admission of families of foreign born citizens, based on the census of 1890. Warning is given that there are ten million people in Europe who are anxious to come to America and that unless a new immigration law is enacted before June 30, 1924, the law of 1917 will become operative and under that law immigration to this country is almost unlimited.

Organized labor has spoken. Gompers and his legions are for the soldier bonus and closed ports—closed ports for the natives of Latin and Slavic nations of Europe. All this makes it interesting for senators and congressmen from the manufacturing states, states where the large employers are clamoring for a modified immigration law or from states where little children are worked sixty hours a week at very low wages, their parents compelled to buy exclusively from company stores, rent company houses and obey the orders of their masters.

CARTOONIST TAKES A REST.

J. N. Darling, whose abbreviated name is on most of the editorial page cartoons which appear on the editorial page of The Record News, is taking an enforced rest. Regrettably, while Mr. Darling is recognized as the leading cartoonist of the country, he is human, and therefore subject to writer's cramps.

Just now he is in Europe, and The Record News, during his absence, will reproduce many of his previous cartoons, though a number were drawn before his departure. They are just as good as they were the day they were drawn, and while the reader might never know the difference, neither Mr. Darling, nor The Record News has any desire to "put one over" on his many admirers. Many of these cartoons have never appeared except in Iowa. Mr. Darling expects to be back at his work in time to cover the republican and democratic national conventions.

WHY QUIT AT 40?

While some men talking about quitting work at 40, J. E. Bernier, arctic explorer, at the age of 72 years is still going.

In his carrer as a navigator, Captain Bernier has sailed in 107 ships and has covered 488,061 miles, which is equivalent to twenty-seven trips around the world.

To him belongs the distinction of annexing the Arctic Archipelago to the north of Canada in the interests of the Canadian government. Captain Bernier has voyaged for a long series of years in what were previously, to a large extent, uncharted seas. The vessel now in Leith dock is being used in continuance of the pioneer work which he inaugurated.

Bernier is the oldest arctic navigator on record, and isn't ready to quit yet.

CHAPTER XIX.
The Dairymaid.

As Dick's father and sister talked with Waring there was the sound of running feet on the gravel outside. Then the door opened and shut quickly, and they could hear some one wiping his boots on the mat. Waring called out:

"Oh, Dick! Come in here a moment."

"Soon as I get this mud off."

In another minute or two Dick opened the door.

"Anything I can—well, I'm blessed!"

It was an affecting reunion. After dinner, which at Waring's urgent invitation they had with him, Joyce called Dick from the room.

"Where is Audrey?" she demanded.

"Audrey?" said Dick. "Get your coat and hat!"

In a few seconds he had bundled her out of the front door into the drive.

"What do you think happened last Sunday?" There was a grin on his face.

"What?" asked Joyce.

"They read the banns in church—our banns! Come on."

He led her almost at a run to the door of a little cottage.

"Three shillings a week rent for this," he told her and knocked.

The door was opened by Audrey.

"Awfully sorry I'm late," said Dick; "but look at what I've brought you!"

"Jo!" cried Audrey.

She flung her arms around Joyce and dragged her into the cottage. A fire crackled in a large open grate, and there was a rug on the tiles in front of it. The ceiling was low, and great black beams held it up.

While they threw off coats and sat down in front of the fire, Dick and Joyce, interrupting each other all the time, told Audrey how it had all happened. Then, in an excited rush of questions and answers, Joyce learned how the duke had cut off all Audrey's money and how she had bolted.

"And now," said Audrey, "I'm earning 18 shillings a week on the farm."

"On the farm?" repeated Joyce wonderingly.

"Yes," said Audrey; "I'm a dairymaid. I'm learning to milk cows and make butter and scour milk-pans. We've got this adorable cottage which in summer will be the most scrumptious thing you ever saw. Mr. Waring's a dear, and everything is too perfect for any words."

* * * *

The great joy that swelled the old vicar's heart and brought color to his cheeks was the fact that his son had gone back to the land; but he felt that he did not know Dick well enough to be able to feel sure that he would stay there. He earnestly desired that his son should stay there. He began to seek for some means by which he might as it were, root Dick in the soil—root him in it so deeply that he would never be tempted to leave it.

And thus the great idea came to him. A wife! If his son should marry a healthy country lass who would bear him children! The idea was magnificent, Napoleonic.

But how to find the girl? Richard had shown him over the dairy, and there had been maidens working there. So, without saying a word to anybody, the old vicar, humming a little tune, with his hands clasped behind his back, strolled out one morning when word was in full swing and made his way to the dairy.

It wa a large, white, tiled place of an almost awesome cleanliness. Two men were handing the heavy cans and working the separators. Farther on were four girls in print frocks and white aprons, all with the glow of health upon their cheeks.

If only they had known the guile that lay beneath the clerical coat! If only they could have guessed that the white-haired ascetic looking old man was considering which of them looked likely to be the best mother!

Under pretence of watching them at work, he studied each one intently. There was not much to choose. They would all make good mothers he thought.

After many minutes he discovered that one of them already wore a wedding ring, so he dismissed her from the competition. Audrey was one of the other three, but she said never a word. There was a mischievous twinkle in her eye.

The vicar did not recognize her as the girl who had eaten at his table on Christmas time.

"Ah!" he said to himself. "There is a superb type of country girl—broad of shoulder, shapely of figure, lissom and graceful in action. Merely to look at her, the most inexperienced eye can see that she is descended from a long line of robust peasants. Note her ruddy complexion, er clear skin, her fine chestnut hair! She has the tints of flowery valleys among which she has grown up."

It never occurred to him to ask himself whether she was the sort of girl whom Dick would like, or whether Dick was the kind of a man she would care to marry. He was obsessed with his idea. Without any beating about the brush he went up to her.

"May I have a word with you?" he asked.

Audrey took him over to one of the windows.

"I was wondering how long it would take you to make up your mind to speak to me," she said.

The vicar was a little startled. Was this girl making fun of him? For a moment he felt inclined to take umbrage; but he thought of Dick, and dismissed her apparent flippancy with a gesture.

"What are your views about the rearing of children?" he asked abruptly.

CHAPTER XX.
News Travels.

It was Audrey's turn to be startled. She had expected smiling congratulations upon her churning She blushed and gave an uncomfortable little laugh.

"Really, I—"

The vicar was pleased. A blush was proof of maiden modesty.

"What I mean is," he explained, "have you ever thought of the pattering feet of babes, in conjunction with yourself? Of little ones playing around your knee?"

There was a ring of such sincerity in his voice that Audrey's desire to laugh was checked. She did not guess the purpose of the vicar's questions. She thought that he knew who she was, and supposed that what he had said was the purpose of an old man's heart, of his desire to hear the laughter of grandchildren. It touched the deepest chord in her nature and gae her a feeling of genuine and intense sympathy for him.

"My baby will be the most wonderful in all the yorld," she said.

The vicar beamed upon her. This girl had indeed the qualities of a mother: for have not all good mothers since the beginning of time made the same proud declaration of superiority? Like a bomb, he flung another question at her.

"And have you considered the questions of religion and education?"

"I will teach him to be all that his father is," she answered.

"Then leave the matter to me," he said. "I will do my best for you," and with a paternal pat on the shoulder he left her.

"Richard, I have found you a wife," he told the youth later.

"A wife?" Dick jumped. "Found me a wife? But—"

The old man interrupted quickly.

"Listen," he said. "Man was not meant to live alone. He is by nature a social and gregarious animal. He should have a wife and children round his hearth. You, Ricard are nearly 27—a ripe age for matrimony. It is high time to choose a fitting mate and fill your life with the responsibilities of a husband and father."

"But—" Again Dick was cut off.

"This morning," said the vicar, "I discovered an ideal partner for you—a country girl beautiful to look upon, who could bear you fine, strapping sons. I spoke to her about it and she—"

"You spoke to her?" Dick could stand it no longer. "What did you say to her?"

With a perfectly solemn face, his father replied:

"I found that she desires above all else to be a mother and I am convinced that she will be a good mother."

"But who is she?"

"I do not know her name. She works on the farm here—in the dairy—a handsome creature, tall, with quite remarkable features and auburn hair."

"Audrey!" cried Dick.

The old man seized upon it.

"Audrey?" he said. "A beautiful name! Do you know her, then?"

Dick kept a straight face.

"Yes," he said. "I've—met her."

The vicar beamed.

"Ah! and do you agree with me as to her possibilities as a wife?"

There was a moment's silence before Dick answered. The joke was too good to be missed. He swallowed his laughter and played up quietly to the old man's lead.

"Yes, father," he said, "I agree with you. You have found a jewel. She is a girl whom men would fight and die for!"

* * * *

The vicar's last week in Devonshire was one prolonged joke. Everybody was in it except the old clergyman.

He passed the days in a curious atmosphere of romance, which he found strangely exhilarating. He laughed when he was by himself. Metaphorically speaking, he patted himself on the back all day. Each morning his first thought was how the "courting" as he called it, was progressing. On meeting Dick, his first question was:

An Associated Press dispatch says King Albert has a severe attack of the "La Grippe." It isn't possible.

The Prince of Wales is going to quit falling off horses. Yes—because he is going to quit riding them. His father, the king, decided this after he got his last fall and lost a few teeth when his Spark Plug kicked him in the mouth.

We regret this. We have always like the prince, but it is too bad that his most potent source of publicity has been eliminated.

Possibly King George decided his son's face wouldn't look much like that of a king when that time comes if he continued to ride the jumpers.

Considerable stir has been created in Washington by a mysterious "B. Y. O. B." inscribed on invitations to a dinner in New York City under the auspices of former army officers. The anti-saloon league thinks it meant Bring Your Own Booze and others that it meant Bring Your Old Buddies. You get three guesses.

The amount of bogus stock on the market is pointed out by an Oklahoma newspaper as indicating that things are getting back to normalcy.

Another thing we are suffering from is too much uplifting by professional uplifters.

"Should Oiled Acquaintances Be Forgot" is suggested as a fitting campaign song.

Conversation too often is mistaken for sincerity.

Of course there will be a father and mother somewhere who will name their child "Mah Jongg." We know this because all the other names have been exhausted.

TIMELY REVIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

EUROPEAN ERA OF PEACE IN NEAR FUTURE IS FORECAST OF MICHIGAN PROFESSOR.

If Prof. Jesse S. Reeves, of Michigan faculty of political science, is correct in his diagnosis of the European situation, peace, prosperity and a return to normalcy are about to become realities. Prof. Reeves, who is an authority on international law, has been at work in Paris for several months preparing a series of lectures, to be delivered at The Hague in July.

According to Prof. Reeves, Europe and the world in general was hoping for the virtually impossible in expecting a settlement of the post-war muddle before a certain period of orientation had elapsed. Prof. Reeves believes this period at an end and a decided tendency toward improvement will set in with the issuance of the forthcoming report of Gen. Dawes and the commission of experts.

"It is true that the commissions of experts are hampered because of their lack of power to execute whatever they may decide necessary for the economic reconstruction of Europe," Prof. Reeves said. "Nevertheless, one must not underestimate the value of their report.

Public Opinion Formed.

"In the five years which elapsed since the termination of the war public opinion has had time in which to crystalize. Public opinion in America as well as in England will take a decided stand on this report and on the French-German controversy. It is, of course, impossible that any proposed settlement of the reparations problem should meet with both French and German approval—unless such proposal issues from either France or Germany. Indeed, we may expect that the experts' opinion will, in whole or part, be rejected by both countries. But at least it should form the basis for a discussion along new lines:

Public Opinion Aroused.

"First, as I intimated, because public opinion is roused. It remains to be seen in how far either France or Germany dare to go in their rejections. Second, because sufficient time has elapsed to permit us to regard the whole tangle in an economic rather than a political light. The position of the American experts on the commissions would seem to insure this. Third, because the last five years have been most fruitful in changing the French and German viewpoints. They have been hard years, bitter years, but it may be said that Germany at least seems cognizant of what she may and may not safely do in the matter of meeting or avoiding her obligations. And perhaps France also has attended the harsh school of experience and may now realize that intense nationalism may be carried to the point where it will mean national disaster. In other words, it is not unlikely that France, after five years of hopes and fears, endless strivings, threats and punishments—all without result—may now be led to make the best of a very bad situation."

Cancer Takes Young Victim.

That cancer does seriously attack the human organism before the age of 40, in spite of the belief to the contrary, was shown recently by the death of Lois May Stewart, 16 years old, of Sandpoint, Idaho, from a malignant form of cancer. Medical and surgical eyes were, as a result, focused on the case. It was pointed out that her sarcoma resulted from an injury.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

JUST IN TIME

When Shelley heard the skylark sing,
He murmured, did the poet;
"That song's a rather pretty thing
But half the world don't know it.
I'll make it touch the luckless hearts
Of those who never hear it."
And so he wrote the verse that starts
With "Hail to thee, blithe spirit!"

Keats scribbled notes upon his cuff,
The while he sadly brooded,
That nightingales should do their stuff,
In regions so secluded.
And when next morning he came home,
He took the scribbled phrases,
And made of them a glowing pome,
That praised the bird like blazes.

But now, from station XYZ,
The skylark's variations
Are every day delivered free,
To all the listening nations.
And radio switchboards everywhere,
Are nightly set to capture,
From out the soft and spring-like air
The nightingale's wild rapture.

If in those somewhat early times,
The radio bug had smitten
This world of ours, those well known rhymes
Might never have been written.
We don't defend poetic lore,
Yet we are well contented
That Keats and Shelley wrote before
The wireless was invented.

The Sucker List

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A sucker list is a list of those persons who are supposed to be easily swindled. The swindling business is about as well established as those forms of business which are legitimate.

The picturesque and accurate slang term for the man who can be swindled without much trouble is Easy Mark. The sucker list is by no means confined to farmers with long whiskers and carpetbags; it includes college professors, prominent business men, teachers, bankers, society leaders and, more especially, ministers of the gospel.

These lists are carefully prepared by experts and sold at a price to any one who is desirous of entering the grand occupation of selling something for nothing.

Selling to suckers is very largely a mail order business. The swift, sure extensive service of Uncle Sam's mail trains, letter carriers and post offices is not neglected by the bunco artist.

What makes a sucker?

A sucker is a person who tries to get something for nothing. That's all.

If anyone, throughout his life, sticks to the principle that he will not take any money, for which he has not given a fair equivalent, the chance is very remote that he will ever be a sucker.

As a rule the people who bit at stock swindling schemes share something of the crime of those who dangle the bait. The swindler knows that in many people there lurks the idea that big money comes by luck or some sort of gambling deal. It is to those who entertain this idea that he appeals.

The highway to competence, if not to great wealth, is that of thrift and diligence.

This main travelled road is often long and hot and dusty. Thousands of weak mortals are lured into the by-paths where the swindlers see to it that the birds sing, the brooks babble and the mountains of gold beckon on the horizon.

Down these alluring paths they stray until the ring-tailed varmint known as the fool-killer gets them. And before long their bones may be gathered up in neat little piles along the way.

There is but one safe way to get money, and that is by using your brain and brawn. It is by making hard work a habit.

And there is but one way to keep money and that is by investing it.

And investing it requires even more shrewdness than earning.

It is necessary sometimes to take risks, for without risk there would be no conspicuous success.

But the legitimate risk is an enterprise that depends upon your own self, upon something that you can understand and attend to. The super dangerous risk is where you are playing another man's game.

If you are receiving a lot of letters and circulars from all sorts of promoters it is well to ask yourself whether the experts have not got you on the sucker list.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

AIRES.

A very good aspect culminates today, and favors general activity and business aggressiveness. It also tends to compassionate, satisfied or tolerant feelings, and an optimism which inclines to excess.

A child born today will possess both strength of mind and strength of body. It will be rather ascetic in later years, and will never be given to overindulgence of any description.

If today is your birthday, you have rather querulous nature, and your disposition is inclined to be quarrelsome. You are strong in argument—so strong in fact that you generally become heated—and you can never comprehend why your friends cannot see and think as you do. It is useless to suggest that you avoid verbal discussions, as your combative instinct is too strongly developed. Your courage is more often than not wasted on something not worth while. If you kept it in reserve for those occasions when it would really accomplish something, you would be more valuable to your friends and more powerful against your enemies.

You are not very much in love with business if it involves anything of a clerical nature; you feel more at home in the open, or when the hand is more relied upon for success than the head.

In your home life if the partner you have chosen, is willing to be browbeaten and willing to take it "sitting down," you are quite happy and content; your partner, however, is quite the reverse.

You have few friends, as most people, at first drawn towards you, are repelled by your natural pugnacity.

It is well to remember that the strength of an argument often lies in the manner in which it is presented, and not always is force the forerunner of conviction.

Successful people born on this date, are:

Edward Everett, statesman and author; Henry G. Marquand, philanthropist; William O. Partridge, sculptor; Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state; George Canning, English statesman; John N. Wheeler, famous syndicate man.

"45 Is Dangerous Age For Men," Andrews Tells Baptist Classes

"Life is measured in periods of seven years, so scientists say," Dr. M. T. Andrews of Texarkana said Thursday morning when he talked on "The Organized Bible class and Men at Forty-Five," at the general meeting of the Baptist convention.

"We usually think of this age as the age of safety, free from peril, but in reality, it is an age of danger. At the age of 45 or 50, a man enters what is called his second childhood, in my judgment one of the most critical periods of human life. Youth has its dangers and difficulties, but this age is one of danger.

"Old age has its temptations and its dangers, the danger of stagnation, all to make unpromising the sunset of human life. Men fight the hardest battles in the middle passage of life.

"There is the danger of the loss of idealis min middle age," Dr. Andrews declared. "Ideals keep young men. They have worthy and noble ambitions. They live in the future. They are saved by hope. There is something in middle life that makes men have feeling of 'I don't care.'

"There is the danger of loss of faith. Youth is the trustful period of life. A young man is saved largely by his lack of experience. The man has gone out to meet life and has met thousands of disappointments. He sees crookedness among men whom he had trusted. Theories he has been believing all his days are not working out. He becomes cynical, scornful, he gets a grudge. The faith and trustfulness of the child is gone out of his life.

"There comes to him a loss of the sense of faith in the unseen. If I have any remedy to offer, to men of this age, it is the sustaining hand of Jesus Christ. The comradeship of the organized Bible class is a practical way of demonstrating this religion, to bring back the man in middle life who has felt this change come over him."

A short talk was made by Dr. I. E. Gates of San Antonio, who declared that to make a success of life, one must consecrate on the one thing they can best do. "Find your place, bring all your powers to bear on that one thing. If you will work hard, you will succeed.

"There is just a hair's breadth between genius and insainty. The man for me is the man wh odoes his one thing to the very best of his ability, whether or not be even approaches genius."

During the morning session of the convention, pledges were made to cover the cost of the convention, the amount being subscribed in 11 minutes. The cost of the convention was $1,267. Wichita Falls gave a bonus of $300, and the Baptist State Sunday school board subscribed $100, leaving $867 for the delegates.

Wichita Takes Early Lead and Second, 8-6

HIPPO HODGES GOES LIMIT WHILE SPUDS ARE HITTING TWO MILLERS; LAST TODAY

The Spudders rode their high-horse long and strong Thursday afternoon, for the second straight against Minneapolis, 8 to 6. Hippo Hodges, the husky southpaw, went the whole route for Wichita Falls, and though touched for eleven safe ones, kept them short and scattered sufficiently to cop the honors.

Tanner's men hopped on Griffin the first three innings for five runs, almost enough to ice the contest. Malone, relieving Griffin in the fourth, had a remarkably clean time of it in all but one frame, when three hits in a row and two errors gave Wichita three more runs in the locker.

Errorless ball is a thing of the past, evidenced from the various and sundried miscues piled up Wednesday and Thursday. The outfield is unusually rough, accounting for many of the hits running past fielders.

Hitting at opportune times was the big asset of Wichita Falls. Out of [illegible] innings when tallies were an[illegible] hits in a row were the [illegible]. The other session, [illegible] was made by the Spudders, a hit, an error and fast base running brought in the bacon.

Early Start.

The Tannermen started off with promise. The first inning, Coombs first up, singled. Tanner singled, advancing Coombs to third. Weiss poled at the third safe swat in a row, scoring Coombs and sending Tanner to second. Smith's bad play of the hit gave Tanner third and Weiss second. Callaghan walked, and Turgeon, hitting into a double play, sacrificed Tanner home. Williams flied out.

One more run was added in the second, on Smith's hit, McCue's error and Coombs' sacrifice hit.

Inning number three was another big one. Callaghan, first up, doubled and scored on Turgeon's two-base clout. Turgeon scored on Williams' single and Walker's error. Williams was thrown out at the plate by Kirke, on White's grounder, White going third to first. Hodges whiffed.

The big sixth was next and last frame for Spudder scoring. Coombs, first up, walked. Tanner singled, going to second on Walker's error and Coombs taking third. Weiss doubled, scoring Coombs and Tanner, and went to third on Malone's error. He scored on Callaghan's single. Turgeon walked, but Williams hit into a double play, clearing the bases. White struck out, retiring the side.

Millers Jump Behind.

With their tally making, Kelly's men were only one jump behind the flying Spudders. Their first came in the second, when Critz walked, stole second and scored on McCue's hit. Another came in the third. Rondeau, first up, singled. Smith singled, advancing Rondeau to second. Rondeau went to third and on home for the second score on Walker's sacrifice.

Through the next three frames Hodges let down for only one safe blow, and the seventh saw Minneapolis start again. This time two runs were garnered, by way of two hits and two errors. Malone, first up, struck out. Mitchell singled and went to second on Callaghan's boot. Rondeau popped out to Turgeon. With two down, Tanner took Smith's grounder and whipped a round one to Coombs, who was unable to get it. Mitchell scored and Smith took second. Walker scored Smith with a one-base hit, and Kirke grounded out, White to Coombs.

In the ninth a rally that looked like proportions was finally got under halter by Hodges et al. East, batting for Malone, walked, Mitchell flied out, but Rondeau singled, advancing Brogan, running for East, to second. Smith popped out to Turgeon. Walker, after slugging another over left field fence, a foul, doubled, scoring Brogan and Rondeau. Kirke grounded out to Coombs, ending the game.

Freeman-Morgan.

Buck Freeman and Dick Morgan are the slingers selected by Manager Tanner to work today. Freeman will probably start if in shape, and in such case Morgan will be held as relief in case needed. The skipper was hardly decided yesterday as to which one it will be, but was confident either one would show the Millers a hard time.

Today's contest will end it, so far as the Millers are concerned. They, themselves, are still somewhat torn up, having several players out.

Ban Sees Yanks As A. L. Champs

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Bann Johnson, president of the American league, tonight joined the ranks of "the first guessers," making the prediction that the Champion Yankees, if the proper discipline can be maintained, would again capture the 1924 championship of the American league.

President Johnson believes that Detroit and Cleveland will be dangerous contenders, while the Boston Red Sox, he thinks, are virtually certain to finish in the first division.

"The Yankees naturally are first choice," he said. "This club's pitcher cannot be excelled."

The American league executive believes the showing of the St. Louis club will be dependent upon Manager George Sisler, who was lost to the game last season, due to impaired vision. He says it is difficult to measure the strength of the White Sox, who have a large number of young players.

GIRL'S CONDITION STILL CRITICAL

Little change was reported early Friday morning in the condition of Abigail Cravan, the young woman who was taken to the General hospital late Wednesday night suffering from bichloride of mercury poisoning. Her condition, however, was still critical, it was said, and grave fears were felt for her life.

Her parents live at Colorado, Texas.

Maywood-Trammel Fight Starts Riot; Decision Is Draw

A near riot threatened to break up the Trammel-Maywood main bout at the American Legion card last night, fought at the Wichita theater. Because Trammel was not ready to come out at the gong in the sixth, Maywood claimed the fight. Referee Rowland ruled that time be suspended until the Fort Worth boy was ready to go, and the dispute was finally settled. At the end of the scheduled ten rounds, the fight was called a draw, judges' unanimous decision.

At the end of the fifth, Trammel's seconds were adjusting his clothing, torn loose in the fourth and fifth. As Trammel was without doubt not ready to continue at that time, Maywood, after rushing across the ring to his corner, backed off and called for the decision.

Called Even

As explained by Referee Rowland, had he been officiating under a commission, he would have stopped the fight in the third when Maywood hit low. According to Rowland, the Detroit fighter repeatedly delivered foul blows which were responsible for Trammel's condition. However Trammel declined to take the bout on a foul, and continued, though evidently hurt. The latter ruling by Rowland was made to even the terms, he said, since Marquis of Queensbury rules had been overlooked in the former instance. No more fights ending in a shade decision were wanted by either fans or promotors, explained the referee.

It is true, all of Maywood's blows were not low, and Trammel was nearer out at the end of the fifth than at probably any other time in his career here. But the alleged low blows were not to be discounted, in this.

Trammel fought the best fight of his life, as far as Wichita Falls fans are concerned.

The Panther City boy took much punishment, fair and foul, and stayed in the fight with all he had. Time after time he came back with lefts to the head and body, mixed with a few rights, that shook Maywood, even after he had taken hard jolts to the wind.

Maywood Clever

Maywood's chief lead was a right upper-cut to the body, many of which landed in the early rounds. He proved himself to be clever and fast, as well as possessing a punch. Trammel took lots of punishment and stood it, but Maywood did not get off light. The Trammel hook to the jaw landed many times, and shook the tough man from Detroit.

Duke Comes Back

They started in the first with each getting in short right and left jabs and hooks to the head, Trammel getting across one good right hook to the head. Trammel used his right in the second, landing several short ones, while Maywood put up a good guard. Maywood was making Trammel swing wild in the third, and using a left to the wind. Maywood continued his attack to the hitting, hitting several that looked low. A right upper-cut was brought into play by Maywood in the fourth, and Duke was apparently shaken. At the bell he was near winded, after he had driven Maywood to his own corner with rights and lefts to the head. The Fort Worth boy was using a guard for the body blows, and getting in several solid ones, himself. His right was evidently given a rest, as he continued in the seventh, with lefts to the head. Maywood again used his right upper-cut to the wind in the eighth. Duke led the ninth, which was slow. In the last round Trammel came in with his oldtime style, and drove Maywood around the ring with rights and lefts to the head. Maywood looked tired, and accepted the decision with apparent pleasure. Trammel weighed 138, M. ood 136.

Bowers Clever

Dick Bowers, Vernon battler, looked good in his eighth round semi-final affair with Jack Dalton of Dallas. The veteran lightweight was not so good against the younger Bowers, who piled up punches on fast covering and well timed blows. Dalton was evidently waiting to put over a final punch, and attempted it several times, but Bowers was not there. Bowers did not exhibit a punch, but most of his leads connected. The judges called it a draw, one for Bowers, one for Dalton, and one for a Draw. Dalton weighed 126, Bowers 132.

Pat Railey of Wichita Falls knocked out Jack Stansbury of Grandfield in the first round of their scheduled four round preliminary. A right to the jaw put Stansbury to sleep, after Railey had effectively punched him around the ring. Standsbury showed promise of better things, but lack of ring experience and fate decided the cards last night. He probably had as good a punch as Railey, but did not get it off. Railey weighed 138, Stansbury 135.

Kid Williams and Wichita Slim fought a four round draw, as a curtain raiser. The two worked themselves down after much battling. Williams was the more clever of the two, and made Wichita miss his big haymakers. Williams also should have received many points of his blows connected. Williams weighed 160, Slim 180.

Bat Nelson won the battle royal for three blacks, when he kayoed his man after the third had retired.

Hamp Brown sent in a challenge to meet the winner of the Trammel-Maywood bout.

"Churches and schools are not substitutes for, but supplements of our homes. There is no substitute for a good home."

Teacher of Big S. S. Class Credits Consistent Work

"Organzation is a factor of success in any endeavor," Miss Jessie L. Burrall, teacher of the largest Sunday school class in the world, said yesterday afternoon in an interview, shortly after she reached Wichita Falls where she came to address the Baptist Organized Bible class convention. "There are three requirements, prayer, work and love that are necessary to build a class," Miss Burrall said, and she smiled as her thoughts went back to her class of student boys and girls at Columbia, Mo., that large class which has an enrollment of 1,950 members, and an average attendance of 1,000.

Miss Burrall at the present time is professor of Bible in Stephens college, a Baptist college for women, at Columbia. Prior to her work in that city which has been going on for two years, she was in Washington, D. C., on the editorial staff of the National Geographic magazine.

"It was during the war while I was in Washington that I began teaching a class of girls. To begin with there were six, but at the end of two years there was an enrollment of 1,600. We met in a theater as a part of the Sunday school of the Calvary Baptist church."

When asked how the class was made to grow so rapidly, Miss Burrall answered. "The class grew by good hard work, by putting all the members to work, and by genuine interest in the girls. These young women in this big class were war workers, ranging in age from 17 to 22.

"It was after the phenomenal success of the class that President Wood of Stephens college, Columbia came to Washington and persuaded me to go to the college town, the 'Athens of Missouri,' to take charge of Bible teaching and conduct a Sunday school class.

"The work started there with 250 members, and it grew to a thousand in two years. It was intended that the class should be for girls alone, but the boys of the University of Missouri which is also at Columbia, asked me to include them in the class. The first Sunday the class was open to them, 400 boys enrolled. There are now about 900 men and 1,000 girls enrolled."

Miss Burrall stated that the class was extremely fortunate in being able to use the auditorium of the college for the class room.

"It is a joy to see the students, boys and girls, flocking to the auditorium from all sections of the campus on Sunday mornings," and her bright brown eyes sparkled as she thought of the interest the students showed in the work.

"Except for the conducting of the lesson all the class work is done by the students. The aim of the class is to develop Christian leadership so that when the students graduate, they can go back to their home towns enthusiastic Sunday school workers. The students lead in the Sunday school, they have charge of the music, the singing, the Bible reading, the prayers the announcements. Special attention is paid to the leadership groups, each group made up of 50 or 60, which once each week for the development of leaders. These groups are divided into three sections, one for the university men, one for university women, and one for the college students.

"This class is organized to the last notch. If it were not, it could not function. Representatives are in each sorority, fraternity and boarding house The class has three presidents, one for men, one for women, and one for girls. Two vice-presidents are elected for each one of these places. With the secretary and treasurer, these eleven officials of the class form the council. With the representatives from the different homes of the students the council meets one a month to discuss the class and its progress.

"The average age of the class is 20 years and under. Some of the big leaders in college are active workers in the Sunday school.

"As for advertising, I believe in it. This big class is advertised through newspapers, through posters and publicity. The lesson plans are teachings taken from the New Testament. It is news to most people, for few of them really read it. I prepare the lesson plans myself, studying the life and lessons of Jesus."

Miss Burrall explained that the class was financed by its own contributions, one half of the collections going into the Sunday school treasury of the First Baptist church of Columbia with which it is connected. The college furnished the heat, lights and janitor service.

In speaking of the social need of the class, Miss Burrall said that there was little need for effort on the part of the Sunday school to prepare entertainments, because of the large number of functions going on around the college circles.

"We have a class breakfast once each month on Sunday mornings before going to Sunday school, but only 40 or 50 attend them. Frequently the class will hike into the country on Saturday afternoons, and there are always 200 or more. There are two big parties given during the year, one in the fall and one in the spring.

"The class is made up of the finest youngsters on earth," the teacher of the world's biggest student class said, speaking appreciatively of the ones whose lives she is influencing. "It is said that college students do not want to be religious, that they are jazz mad that they do not care for anything but frivolity. That is a wrong idea. Because of this attitude they are left too much alone. They want religion. They seek for it, and that is the reason they come to my Sunday school class. We have heard of the bad things about them, but I want to advertise the good about these college students.

New Type of Rifle Perfected To Rearm French Infantrymen

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, April 9.—The ministry of war has recently approved a new type of machine rifle for the French army. It was designed by a French artillery officer and is said to be very simple in its working, a recruit endowed with average intelligence being supposed to master it within a few weeks. This proved to be the deciding factor in the choice of the ministry from among the numerous types submitted, owing to the shorter term of military service and ever increasing amount of matter placed before the soldiers for instruction.

The type still in use is the one adopted in 1915, which appeared on the battlefields of the Somme for the first time in 1916, when it caused much surprise among the enemy. It had been hurriedly made under the pressure of war, and since the armistice it has been felt that a more carefully perfected arm should be supplied to the infantry.

MARKET FEATURES.

Twenty railroads averaged 81.25; net loss 3.40. .High 1924, 86.32; low 81.25. .(Decline due to Lehigh Valley selling ex-rights in railroad averages).

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Renewal of selling pressure, based on unfavorable trade news, brought another sharp reaction in today in stock market net losses in the active issues ranging from one to five points. More than two score stocks, including U. S. Steel commons, Baldwin, American Can, Studebaker and other industrial leaders established new low prices for the year.

Unfavorable trade developments, which furnished the ammunition for bear attacks, included a decrease of slightly more than 130,000 tons in the March unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation, a shrinkage of 28,726 in the car loadings for the week ended March 29, as compared with the same week last year, and reports of further curtailment in the automobile industry.

Speculators for the decline, who have been hammering the market successfully for the last five days, had little difficulty in uncovering weak spots in all sections of the list, but opinion varied as to the amount of real liquidation that they had brought out. While the daily turn over was the largest of any day this week, it was well under 1,000,000 shares. Commission houses reported that the number of margin calls was relatively small, considering the extent of the decline. This was construed as indicating that stocks generally were in fairly strong hands.

Publication of the unfilled tonnage statement was the signal for another attack on U. S. Steel, which was depressed to 95 1-2 and then rallied to 96, off 1 1-2 on the day.

Speculative selling of the motors undoubtedly was influenced by the announcement that the Paige Motor Car company had curtailed operations and that industrial employment in Detroit had shown a decrease last week. Studebaker (old stock) dropped more than two points to 98 1-8, Willys-Overland preferred broke more than five points to 68 5-8 and most of the other motor and accessory issues slumped 1 to 3 1-2 points.

Woolworth broke 9 1-4 points to 292 and Fisher Body 8 to 202. American Sugar refining sold at 45 1-4, the lowest price on record.

Rail shares yielded with the rest of the list, although independent strength was shown by Texas and Pacific, which moved up nearly two points to 30, a new 1924 top, on rumors of a forthcoming consolidation with Missouri Pacific and two other southwestern roads.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent and then advanced to 4 1-2 where it closed. The time money market was dull and the commercial paper market fairly active, the ruling rate in each being 4 1-4 per cent.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with the principal rates holding fairly steady. Demand sterling ruled slightly above $4.33 and francs were quoted just below six cents.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 10.—Steers were slow today but other classes of cattle sold with freedom. On steers prices were only steady, but cows were taken on a strong basis and the calf deal was well in line with Wednesday's session. Close to 2,500 head of cattle and 1,000 calves were on sale. Most steers brought 6.00 to 7.00, fat cows 4.25 to 5.00; and bulls 3.50 to 4.00. Best calves went at 8.00.

Very slow trading featured the hog market where receipts were estimated at 1,600 head. The market was steady to 10 cents lower. Shippers paid 7.45 for three cars of good hogs and packers bought carlots at 7.35. Most ceals made a spread of 7.15 to 7.35. Pigs found a good demand at steady rates, the best clearing at 6.00@6.25.

Sheep were active at prices that were strong to 25 cents higher. Lambs remained unchanged. Wethers sold at the highest levels in recent years, fall shorn sheep making 10.75 and fresh shorn wethers going at 9.85. Lambs brought 16.00.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

As a general rule it is a good thing to invest in the securities of corporations close enough home to keep your eye on the business to a certain extent. There are exceptions, of course, to all rules.

The man who has just put his money into a pecan grove in a distant state and begs of you to taste one of the nuts to prove their lusciousness may have a good investment, but the man who owns a block of stock in the light and power company that operates in his own locality and supplies the light by which he reads his daily paper is likely to receive dividends while the other receives his sample bag of nuts yearly.

Money invested in local industries that are well managed can be more easily watched. You have a chance to know the value of the companies' properties, the extent and nature of their competition, if any, and most of all, the character of the management of the business.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—A sensational opening advance in the cotton market today was checked by realizing at 31.95 for May, or 93 points above yesterday's closing quotation and 130 points above yesterday's low level. Reactions followed with May selling off to 31.25 and closing at 31.27. The general market closed steady net unchanged to 28 points higher.

The market opened firm at an advance of 33 to 84 points on relatively firm Liverpool cables, reports of rain in the south, bullish overnight advices from the spot markets and a renewal of urgent covering by near month shorts. Active months sold 55 to 93 points net higher before this initial demand had been supplied but the buying then tapered off and a disposition to take profits on recent purchases was promoted by talk of an easier technical position combined with reports of weakness in the stock market.

July sold off from 30.65, or within a point of yesterday's closing quotation, and October reacted from 26.000 to 25.61. Closing prices were within a few points of the lowest.

Exports today were 11,859, making 4,769,529 so far this season. Port receipts 5,579. U. S. port stock, 599,-960.

COTTONSEED OIL.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Cottonseed oil today sold 7 to 10 points higher on strong cotton advances, despite selling of crude. There was a reaction, however, before the close. Leading months closed 8 to 10 points higher. Sales 13,300 barrels. Prime crude 887 1-2@9.00; prime summer yellow spot 10.15; May closed 10.31; July 10.65; September 10.85; October 10.36, all bid.

COTTON MARKET STILL UNSTEADY

Erratic Fluctuations Come After $5 Bale Gain Is Made

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 10.—The cotton market was extremely erratic today, opening five dollars a bale higher on old crop positions and subsequently losing nearly all of the gain. The opening trades developed the high points of the day with May at 32.31, or 103 points above yesterday's close, and July at 30.40, or 93 above the previous close. October showed less feverishness and opened only 68 up at 25.40. The initial gain was gradually lost under persistent profit taking until May trade was low as 31.40, July at 29.50 and October at 24.92, or 91, 90 and 48 points, respectively down from the early high. The close was near the low, showing net gains for the day of 6 to 12 points on old crops positions and 20 points on new crop deliveries.

The sensational advance at the start was due to Liverpool coming in fully 40 points better than due. This and a rainy weather map frightened shorts into frenzied covering and prices shot up readily. As there was very general covering of ring shorts, the market became technically weaker and sagged off gradually with spasmodic rallies which led to further fluctuations. The feeling became rather general as the session advanced that a reaction was due and prices sagged off until the low points of the day were reached around the close.

GRAINS SCORE NICE ADVANCE

Late Buying With Lead House in Advance Is Main Cause

CHICAGO, April 10.—Wheat and corn scored something of an advance in price today, chiefly as a result of late buying in which one of the larger houses took the lead. The buying movement was apparently due more or less to indications that selling had been overdone. Wheat closed firm a shade to 5-8 cent net higher. May 1.01 7-8 to 1.02 and July 1.03 1-2 to 1.03 5-8, with corn 1-4 to 1-2 cent up, oats showing 1-8 to 7-8 cent gain and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 5 and 7 cent declines.

Reports of a better cash demand for corn at Omaha helped turn the corn market upward. There were predictions, too, that demand here would improve with the opening of lake traffic. The oats market was stimulated by large inquiry in the northwest.

Provisions were higher despite lack of any aggressive support.

Two of her sisters are in the work here, and one sister is in Oklahoma City also working in the Salvation Army.

Court Dismisses Libel Suit Against Preacher

AUSTIN, Tex., April 10.—Criminal court Wednesday reversed and ordered dismissed the $1,000 fine against Rev. W. J. Bugg, Live Oak county, for libel, because of his reading before a congregation an extract from the congressional record, containing an alleged "Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus oath." A complaint by the county attorney alleged that he had injured the reputation o. M. P. Dunn and several others by asserting they had subscribed to the oath.

The court held that the conviction failed to show any of the men were residents of the county; and also that the complaint was defective in failing to show the manner in which the "publication" of the so-called Knights of Columbus oath would affect the reputations of persons named. The opinion was written by Presiding Justice W. C. Morrow. There was submitted on briefs appeal of J. D. Morris, Jefferson county, under a life sentence for murder.

COUNCILLOR IN WICHITA AGAIN

Noted Lecturer In East In City for Closing Baptist Convention

"I am delighted to be back in Wichita Falls again," said Homer J. Councillor, director of religious education at Calvary Baptist church, Washington, D. C., who gave the closing address on "A Vision of Service" for the Baptist Convention of Organized Classes at their final session Thursday evening, before a crowded house.

Mr. Councillor who is one of the greatest platform speakers in the United States visited Wichita Falls last winter, speaking at the First Baptist church where he entirely won his audience by his strikingly unique talk and his fresh and interesting manner of presenting his ideas. He has been for the past two years a favorite with Sunday school conventions all over the southwest, who secure him whenever possible as a speaker.

Mr. Councillor, who is dean of the School of Religious Education in the city of Washington, was until January first, the librarian of the Medical Library at Washington, D. C., and has done extensive lecture work all over the United States, being especially popular with luncheon clubs and fraternal bodies.

His talk Thursday evening proved especially enjoyable to his former friends and won for him a new following in the visiting delegates, many of whom remained in the city purposely to hear his address.

SELECMAN RAPS MODERN WOMAN

A vigorous arraignment of the modern, cigarette smoking, wine drinking woman and an equally vigorous defense of the old fashioned praying mother was made Thursday afternoon by Dr. C. C. Selecman in an address to women at the Floral Heights Methodist church. He spoke again at the regular revival meeting Thursday night, at which a capacity crowd attended and which resulted in four conversions.

"This age," he said, "is lacking in moral indignation and religious devotion. This condition is largely due to the laxity in standards prevalent among certain classes of women. You can not build a virile Christian civilization on frivolous, prayerless, womanhood.

"In the last analysis the kind of woman that wins the tribute of sincere respect and affection from the heart of a man is not a vain woman of show, and selfish pride, but a woman of purity, love, unselfishness and prayer.

"I am not a pessimist, I do not think good women are rare. But there are certain tendencies that are perilous and need to be condemned and checked. Instead of American women taking up the habits and fashions of the French, and the cigarette smoking and wine drinking of English women, they should fashion their own dress and mold their own customs according to Christian ideals.

"A great sociologist declares that the home is more stable today than at any time in the Christian era. A college president of a girl's school of another section confided in me that six girls were sent home in disgrace last year.

"During a recent trial, the court house was crowded by women waiting to hear the obscene details of a murder case involving the illicit love of a man for an evil woman. Our divorce courts are choked with domestic debee and moral putrification.

"Who shall rebuke these evil tendencies if women do not? I would not give one old fashioned praying mother for a house full of idle, vain, proud, prayless women of the world.

"The first vision we got of Jesus He is cradled in a Hebrew mother's arms and at last when he hung dying His tender concern was shown for His mother.

"He has lifted womanhood from ignorance and degradation and made her free and happy—the object of love and tender solcitude. O woman! worship and serve the Son of Mary for He is your emancipator, your Savior. Pour on Him the full measure of your devotion for He has made you happy and free. Lavish on Him the ened to you the golden gates of a new wealth of your love and service, and break on His head the alabaster box of priceless devotion, for he has opday!"

ELECTRA GULF RATED 150-200 BARRELS DAILY

The Electra Gulf Oil company's John Watkins No. 1, three locations northwest of the Hill and Roberts discovery well on the Overby tract southwest of Iowa Park, was put on the swab Thursday afternoon and is flowing and swabbing at the rate of 150-200 barrels daily. The sand was encountered at depth of 1,781 feet.

Several other tests in that area were awaiting the outcome of the Electra Gulf before drilling to the deeper sand.

Rigging Up

By SUMMERS

Weather conditions in the east and north have been bad since Jan. 1. Demands for oil products have not been as good as anticipated.

In several instances the larger refineries have had millions of gallons of surplus gasoline on hand. Heavy orders during the past week will aid in reducing the surplus supply of the product.

Estimates place the number of automobiles in use in the United States at 15,500,000. During the year upward of 9,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline will be consumed by the motor driven vehicles.

S. R. McCorkle, chairman of the board of directors of the McCorkle Pipe Line company, and Senator R. A. Stuart, chief counsel of the company, have gone from Tulsa to New York to meet foreign representatives who are scheduled to arrive from Europe.

The Oklahoma assets of the Uncle Sam Oil company were sold at auction in Tulsa Wednesday. The company's best refinery sold for $15,000. The auction was held to satisfy bond holders who had foreclosed.

The Oklahoma Texas Refining company at Grandfield is adding two new stills and an agitator to its equipment. The company is said to be planning to ship trainloads of gasoline to gulf ports for export. Present daily capacity is 2,000 barrels. The Sagamore Oil corporation, Tulsa, is handling the output.

The state will carry its appeal to the supreme court in the case against the Humble Oil and Refining company. The state lost its appeal Wednesday in the anti-trust suit when the third court of civil appeals affirmed the Travis county district court judgment.

ATLANTIC PLANS COMPLETION OF TEST IN ARCHER

The Atlantic Producing company's L. F. Wilson No. 1, 167 W. section 28, American Tribune New Colony lands, Archer county, has set casing on top of oil sand found at 1,667 feet. The test will probably be bailed before the end of the week.

TEXHOMA COMPANY DRILLING IN WELL ELECTRA DISTRICT

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's W. T. Waggoner 30-A, section 34, south Electra district, encountered sand at 1,500 feet and the well was being drilled in last night, according to company reports.

GREAT ACTIVITY LOUISIANA AREA

Operators Taking Advantage Of Improved Conditions In Districts

Special to The Record News.

SHREVEPORT, April 10.—While the search for a new pool in Louisiana continues with increasing vigor, operators have lost no time in taking advantage of the improving conditions in the industry to get the most out of their proven acreage and Smackover is returning to a resemblance of activity of the 1923 drilling boom.

This is true particularly to the Louann district, where development is centered in the light oil district. Completion of a 4,000-barrel well south of production and midway between the two horns of the Smackover crescent, is expected to prove the starting point of a renewed drilling boom.

Completion of 155 wells of which 115 were producers, adding 22,424 barrels of new production, ten gassers with 220,500,000 feet of gas and 30 failures, sums up the results of March drilling and a daily average of 161,767 barrels or 5,014,777 barrels states the production situation report. Five hundred and seventeen operations under way in north Louisiana parishes and south Arkansas counties of which 35 are waiting on standard rig, 34 are abandoned temporarily, 295 drilling, 32 rigging up, 108 derrick, and 15 locations, states the drilling situation as of April 1.

MAER-STANIFORTH GET ARCHER SAND

Maer and Staniforth's Humphrey's No. 1, Abner Nails survey, abstract 325, Archer county, has set casing and will test sand encountered at 1,602 feet. The test is north of the Gohlke producer.

Bashara Well Extends Field

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, April 10.—M. J. Bashara's Marshall Morgan No. 2, section 3409, west of Graham, has been completed from sand found at 2,850 and is flowing by heads. Estimates place the production at 600 barrels daily.

The crew is rushing four-inch pipe line to connect with the main carrier of the Prairie Oil and Gas company.

The Bashara No. 1 in the same section found the sand approximately 50 feet deeper and has been producing for several months. The two completions have greatly stimulated activities here.

BASHARA WELL MAKING HEADS

Contractor Estimates Completion at 600 Barrels Daily

Special to The Record News.

NEWCASTLE, April 10.—M. J. Bashara's Marshall Morgan No. 2, eight and a half miles southwest of Newcastle, is flowing by heads at intervals of five to ten minutes. The well came in unexpectedly Wednesday night from sand at 2,848 feet. Contractor Tom Casey estimates the well at 600 barrels daily. Reports state the sand was penetrated ten feet.

Bonds and Hydrick are down 1,200 feet on their M. K. Graham two miles west of the Bashara in the immediate vicinity of the new well. Vance is drilling the J. W. Daws four miles northwest and is down 780 feet. Locations and contracts are closed for three wells in this locality by two independent operators and one of the major companies. Leasing is very active. A number of locations have been made to the south and west of the Daws near the Ray gasser which came in recently and is making better than eight million feet of gas at a depth of 874 feet.

The interest in the field as a producing territory was greatly enhanced when the Prairie Pipe Line company laid a three-inch line early in the year and development has gradually increased with each additional test getting under way. The recent return of the Humble to the territory and their contracting three wells has added new interest to the field in southeast direction.

M'CARTY COMPANY STARTS TEST IN PETERSON FIELD

The McCarty Oil company's L. F. Wilson No. 16, peterson pool, Archer county, has derrick erected and will start string tools today, according to reports from the company.

DEGREES CONFERRED BY ODD FELLOWS

Wichita encampment No. 6 of the I. O. O. F. met Thursday night and conferred the patriarchial degree on a class of novitiates. Arrangements were made at the meeting to confer three degrees on a special class May 31.

WAGGONER-WICHITA LAW SUIT STARTED

The trial of the W. T. Waggoner estate vs. Wichita county, in which the plaintiff contends that oil royalties, if it is taxable at all, should be assessed against the lessor of a lease instead of the lessee, was started before Federal Judge William H. Atwell Thursday afternoon. The case was called and evidence opened immediately after the conclusion of the Waggoner vs. Baylor county case.

There's the pleasure of being useful as well as the pecuniary gain in the operation of our business.

On the one hand affording lucrative employment for fifty loyal employees, thus contributing our part towards greater Wichita Falls,

And on the other serving a useful purpose in building and furnishing to the oil trade really good tanks at consistent prices, when and where needed.

SELECMAN IS NOON SPEAKER

"Personality; Human And Divine" Is Subject At Joint Meet

At the Palace theatre Thursday Dr. Selecman chose for his subject, "Personality, Human and Divine," basing his remarks upon the experience of St. Paul, who declared in an autobiographical sketch that he was "laid hold on by Christ, Jesus," he spoke as follows:

"The Bible clearly teaches that there is a personal God who is not merely the sum of all natural forces, but the all sufficient first cause of creation. It also teaches that the personality of man is the essence of his nature; that there is an unseen imponderable something that outlives the changes of man's physical nature, and that is audacious enough to hope that it will outlive the last great change which we call death, and preserve its identity to all the future.

The Bible also teaches that there is a personal devil whose mission has been to invade the realm of man's personal will and affections, estranging him from the love and authority of his maker.

But the supreme lesson of the New Testament lies in the doctrine of Jesus Christ as a personal Redeemer, whose mission of sacrifice, suffering and death was to destroy the works of the devil, recapture the citadel of man's personality and restore in him the image of his maker.

Some such transaction as this occurred when Saul of Tarsus met Jesus of Nazareth, and the testimony of the great apostle is that he was mastered by the truth, authority and love of Jesus. Thereafter his whole passion was to know Jesus Christ, to do His will and manifest his devotion to the Risen Savior.

The essence of the Christian religion is not a creed or a ceremony, or a set of rules by which to govern our conduct, it is personal devotion to to personal Savior. Without this element a creed is but a scrap of paper, and the organization of the church is little more than a hollow mockery.

Buck Stuart Will Be Featured At Tom Burnett Rodeo

Buck Stuart of Fort Worth, one of the fastest, cleverest and wildest trick riders in the rodeo game will be an entrant in the trick riding contests of the Triangle ranch rodeo which will be staged on Burnett ranch April 24-27 it was announced Thursday.

Stuart, it is said, sent in his entry from Fort Worth and announced that he would be in the best form of his entire career hen he comes here in an effort to take Tommy Kirnans measure for the world's trick riding title.

The ascension of Stuart to stardom in rodeo circles reads like a fairy tale. Four year sago he was a common hand around the stock yards of Fort Worth, driving cattle, mules and horses and doing other work that falls to the lot of a stock yards roustabout, when the rodeo was staged at the Fat Stock Show there four years ago Buck watched and admired the trick riders and decided to try his hand at stunt riding. It was not long before he was looked upon as the riding maniac and many thought he would not live the season out and although bruised and crippled half the time from the hard falls he received his determination never wavered and he began to gain recognition.

At the Frontier Days of Cheyenne, Wyo., last July, Stuart galloped home ahead of a large field of trick riders among them Leonard Stroud, former champion, and now it is said that he is after the crown worn by Tommy Kirnan, present title holder, and that he will make the going rough for the champ when they meet in the coming rodeo.

Albino Deer Not So Rare.

By The Associated Press

WEAVERVILLE, Cal., April 9.—The recent report of a white or albino deer, seen near here, has brought statements from sportsmen that albino deer were not so rare as people generally believe.

Indians on the Hoopa reservation have a considerable accumulation of white deer skins. They pay large sums to acquire these skins for use as ceremonial robes. This is said to have provided an unfortunate incentive for the destruction of the unusual deer in this region of northern California.

START SOON ON TOURIST PARK

Council to Equip Site At Scotland for Motor Cars In Summer

Work is to start in the next few weeks on equipping the new tourists' park in Scotland addition, it was stated Thursday by Mayor Collier. An appropriation has been made by the city council to cover the cost of the needed improvements and it is planned to have the camp site in readiness before the summer touring season really opens.

It was learned also Thursday that plans are under consideration for the installation of some playground equipment in Scotland, this to be exclusive of the tourists park features. A demand has long been felt by residents of Scotland addition and north Wichita for a recreational spot of some kind and the city council feels that such improvements there would be a good investment.

The tourists camp itself, it has been decided, will include a small office building where registrations of visitors may be made, a bath house with showers and such other structures as may be needed to properly care for the motoring public. Running water will, of course, be provided on the grounds.

A large section of Scotland park will be fenced off and devoted exclusively to tourist camp purposes, while the balance will be held open as a public park as heretofore been the case.

Jury Disagrees In Park-Bashara Suit

The jury which heard evidence Wednesday in the case of J. D. Park vs. M. J. Bashara, a suit in which collection of a $3,000 commission alleged to be due was sought, was adjourned at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon without having arrived at a verdict. The case was tried before Judge E. H. Napier of the 78th district court.

The commission was said to have been due through sale of some oil lands by the plaintiff for the defendant.

Want City Fire Limits Changed

A petition asking that the city fire limits be altered so as to exclude the square block in which they live has been presented to city officials by residents in the territory bounded by Austin, Travis, Twelfth and Thirteenth streets. This block is now on the edge of the fire limits and an alteration of one block would bring about the desired elimination.

Lays Blame For Stolen Affections on Lack of Effort

How Fascinating Parents Could Make Virtue and Industry—and Incidentally Themselves—if They Used That Great Force—Propaganda—Instead of Training Children by the Old "Do-This" and "Don't-Do-That" Method.

Did you ever contemplate trying to "sell" your children, as the advertising experts say, the things you wish them to be and do?

Did you ever try selling them yourself?

Of course, the old idea is that the proper way to rear children is by enforcing on them a system of do's and don'ts. We tell our children that they must do this, and they mustn't do that. We try to coerce them along the straight and narrow road because that is the proper path for them to travel, but we never take the trouble to artfully entice them into it and make them think that they have chosen it of their own free will.

We want our children to love us, to admire us, to consider us their best friends; but we expect them to do this because we believe it the duty of children to honor their parents. Not ten fathers and mothers in a thousand ever deliberately try to make themselves attractive to their children or win their confidence.

Perhaps this is why there are so many boys and girls hurtling down the broad highway to destruction; why parental influence amounts to so little, and why the average child feels that it has less in common with its own father and mother than it has with any other man and woman it knows.

We have just begun to realize that propaganda is one of the greatest and most insidious forces on earth. We have seen it lift men up to the skies and make gods of them, then turn and pull them down, and trample them into the dust. We have seen it exalt a nation into sainthood and turn it into a howling mob, crying for blood. And if it can thus sway and mold grown-up people, what a weapon it is to use upon the plastic mind of a child!

This being the case, why should we not "sell" our children the ideals we wish them to have? Why should we not feed them on the right propaganda from their cradle up? Why should we not advertise the good things of life until we make them so alluring that the child will want them?

Why should we not sell righteousness to our children? It is one thing to preach and nag at them about drink, and gambling, and associating with bad men and women until you bore them to tears and make them wonder what is the fascination of the evil that they are warned so against. And it is another thing to make clean living the symbol of health, and strength, and length of days; the respect of one's fellow men and, above all, the thing that sets one right with one's own soul.

Why not sell your children education? We scourage them to school, which most of them regard as a place of penance, and where dull and bored, they sit up in stolid indifference, while the dull and bored teachers go through the perfunctory routine of hearing them recite lessons in which they do not pretend to take the slightest interest.

But suppose we could really sell these children the idea of education! Suppose we could get them as interested in history as they are in stories of adventure! Suppose we could make them see that spelling and arithmetic are not tasks; that they are the tools with which they will work when they get their first jobs as stenographers and bookkeepers, and that the better they spell and the quicker they are at figures the bigger their pay envelopes will be!

Suppose we could make them see that knowledge is power, and that whether they stay at the foot of the ladder or climb to the top is going to depend on how well their brains are trained! Why, if we could make children see the advantages of an education we would not have to force them to go to school. They would be eager and anxious to go.

Suppose we sold our children good manners. We are always correcting Johnny at the table about the way he eats, and he is so used to our don'ts about walking in front of people and keeping his hat on that he has long since ceased to listen when we speak. But suppose, from his earliest infancy, Johnny had heard boors ridiculed, and knife swallowers and cup cuddlers, and audible soup eaters held up to scorn as figures of fun. Do you not know that Johnny would as soon think of committing murder as one of these offenses?

And suppose Johnny has had it impressed on him by precept and example that good manners are a letter of credit that is honored the world over; that they will take you farther than anything else on earth. Don't you know that Johnny would be incapable of loutishness, because good manners had simply been bred into him?

Why should we not sell our children industry and thrift? Propaganda again. You can make work the most thrilling of all games. You can make a child feel that his job is of great importance. You can form in childhood an unbreakable habit of industry. You can teach the child how to deny itself little things in order to save the money for big things. You can make it feel the independence of having its own bank account. You can set a goal before it and light the fires of ambition in its soul.

Finally, why not sell yourself to your children? Why not make as much effort to ingratiate yourself with your children as you would with a stranger? Why not try to impress your children with your ability, your wisdom, your up-to-dateness, as you would any man or woman with whom you are trying to do business.

If parents could only convince their children that they are not back numbers and incarnate killjoys it would do more than any other one thing to improve the family relationship.

Believe me, it pays to advertise—especially with your children.

City May Buy New Fire Truck Soon

Considerations that may eventually lead to the purchase of a new fire truck for the city fire department are being made by Mayor Collier and Chief McClure, it was announced Thursday, although at the same time it was made plain that the machine would not be purchased for some time, if at all.

The city officials have known for some time that additional equipment was needed for the fire department but the heavy expense entailed by one of the big machines has caused them to proceed slowly. Estimates are being made now, however, concerning costs and there is a probability that the truck may be contracted before the summer is over.

DR. JOHN L. HILL CHURCH SPEAKER

Defining the Spiritual Life Is the Subject At Convention

The last session of the tenth annual meeting of the Baptist organized Bible class convention began promptly at 9 o'clock Thursday morning with a song service led by Professor I. E. Reynolds with H. Virgil Reynolds at the piano. Several special numbers were given, one with H. Virgil Reynolds, singing, playing his own accompaniament; solos by Marion Sparkman of Rusk college and Rev. C. B. Stephenson of Groom, Texas. A prayer was led by Dr. John L. Hill of Nashville, layman and editor of publications of Sunday school literature.

Following the praise service, Dr. Hill gave an address on "Deepening the Spiritual Life."

Taking this scripture from which he made practical suggestions, the speaker quoted, "Thou shall love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy mind and with all thy strength."

"The most important question that was ever asked was one the lawyer asked Jesus, 'What is eternal life?' In answering this Jesus told of faith by works. 'If you keep my commandments you shall live.'

"The reason we do not do more religious work is that we do not find time when it suits us to do it. The only time in the life of Jesus that He told one to imitate human example was when he said 'When he journeyed.' If we do anything for the Master, do it now as we journey through life. The Christian man or woman who travels life's highway need to be equipped to meet with the needs which they are called to meet.

"It is our business to broaden the lives of those who are circumscribed, those shut-in from various reasons. We should minister to those who are social shut-ins. And there is the lonely class who need us. Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, has stated that next to strong drink, loneliness is the cause of the downfall of many men."

Following the talk of Dr. Hill, Miss Mary Virginia Lee of Nashville addressed the convention.

Resolutions were read and adopted by the conference. A collection was taken for the cost of the program which has been given at the three days' convention, completed with an expenditure of $1,267. The amount was raised in eleven minutes, and the collection stopped while pledges were still being made.

"The Bible Class as An Outreaching Agency" was the subject of the address given by M. M. Wolf of Houston. "The world is lost without God. Jesus Christ is the only remedy for a lost world. It is said that 'No man cometh to my Father except by me.' There is no way to be saved except by repentance and faith in the Lord. There is a great tendency in the Christian service to minimize this outstanding fact. Culture, wealth, architecture and art, none of those things can save a man. There is no reason to journey in life except for God. The first, highest and the best of all is to work in Christian service.

"The Organied Bible class has taken up the commission and command of God and will do the best work possible. The simple and commonplace things are those that bring success. We cannot do anything without effort, and no classes succeed unless every member puts forth his best effort."

The case was reported to the police at 2 o'clock Thursday morning and was later reported to the county attorney's office.

Bones of a Blockade Runner.

HAVANNA, Cuba.—Few of the swimmers at Playa de Marianao, Havana's popular beach, know that the gaunt ribs and bits of rusted iron they see through ten feet of clear water are all that remain of the famous Confederate blockade runner Blanche. Laden with cotton from a southern port in 1863 the Blanche tried to make Havana, but when the cordon of Union warships closed in her crew beached her rather than surrender and escaped into the interior.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONVENTION THANK WICHITA

Committee Makes Report At Afternoon Session; Papers Commended

COMMUNITY THANKED

Entire City Does. Part In Making Meetings Big Success

The following resolutions drawn by the committee on resolutions of the Baptist organized Bible class convention were read by the chairman, John A. Held of Bryan, and adopted at the convention Thursday morning. Others on the committee included R. C. Simpson, Tyler; Miss Stella Milburn, Greenville; A. Reilly Copeland, Waco.

"1st: That this convention has 'arrived' and that Wichita Falls is conscious of that fact.

"2nd: That this convention has been in the hands of friends from the time we stepped off the train, until this good hour. Wichita Baptists and citizens, have extended every possible courtesy and have made our stay here most happy. They have more than fulfilled all their promises—they have added some free will offerings—and we shall go away with grateful appreciation and sweet memories of their gracious hospitality.

Thank Newspapers

"3rd: We would also express our high appreciation for the unstinted kindness and space the newspapers of Wichita Falls have accorded the convention. It is beautiful and refreshing to find cosmopolitan papers as these, so freely give prominent place to our work. To these papers we would say 'We'll never forget you.'

"4th: To the pastors of Wichita Falls and their loyal people, and especially the First Baptist church, we express our heartfelt thanks. To the various committees in their arduous tasks, especially the entertainment committee, we fail to find words to express our hearts' deepest appreciation for their royal generosity. May flowers of spring with all their sweetness be theirs through all their days.

"5th: In this connection, we would mention the fact that we appreciate the kindness of the railroads in granting us a reduction of rates, their aiding more of us to come.

"6th: To the hotels which generously took care of our people, and the restaurants which so universally treated us with courtesy, we extend our thanks and especially the people that so graciously opened their homes and 'took us in.'

"7th: We would not forget to remember in this connection, those loyal, royal and generous souls, who came under difficulty and many sacrifices to render their part of the program—what blessings they brought to all of our hearts—like the birds of spring they have gladened our hearts—. In this we would include the speakers, the musicians and singers, one and all. This convention would not have had this happy and joyous result if any of them had failed to fill their engagements.

"8th: Finally, we would express our most hearty appreciation for the untiring endeavor, the most successful consummation and happy execution, planned and brought into being, of a program and convention, unparalleled in the history of our conventions, by the unequalled Sunday school secretary, W. P. Phillips."

Smith was convicted in 1915 on charges of killing another negro in a fight in the flats district, it is said. He made his escape March 31.

"Guess Who," Is Challenge of Safe Robbers At Creamery; One Arrested

"Guess who? Guess."

These words, scrawled across the door of the looted office safe have given police a clue that may lead to a solution of the Producers Creamery company robbery in which $570 in cash and approximately $300 in checks was stolen on the night of March 24. A woman was being held in the city jail Thursday night following her arrest early in the morning while an investigation is being made concerning her supposed complicity in the case.

It was revealed for the first time Thursday that the message, written in lead pencil across the face of the safe door, had been left as a challenge to the police. A tracing of the writing was made, taken to the city hall and a comparison is to be made of this and samples of the handwriting of the woman now under investigation.

Officers are of the opinion, they said, that the woman and her husband were the actual thieves.

NASHVILLE WOMAN LAUDS CONVENTION

"This is one of the greatest conventions I ever attended," Miss Mary Virginia Lee of Nashville, Tenn., who made one of the outstanding talks at the Baptist convention Thursday morning on the 'Challenge of Youth.' "It comes pretty nearly up to the south-wide convention. The hospitality of the people is in true southern style. They have been wonderful to the visitors, and we appreciate their kindness to us."

Miss Lee is in charge of the Sunday school work of the Southern Baptist convention with headquarters with the Southern Baptist board at Nashville.

"This is my third year in this work" she said, "and I am finding it very interesting. Two years previous to this, I was state secretary of intermediate B. Y. P. U. work in Oklahoma.

"My work now includes editorial work, doing writing for several publications, among which is the Organized Class magazine, the Intermediate Counselor, for superintendents and teachers, and articles for tracts to be used in the intermediate departments."

COMMISSION SUIT CALLED TO TRIAL

A suit in which it is alleged that approximately $11,000 is due as payment on a commission went on trial in the 89th district court Thursday morning, styled Edward Mulligan vs. D. O. Johnson.

It is alleged that some time ago the plaintiff sold some oil property owned by the defendant and located near Electra to E. F. Griswold and J. E. Dale. The plaintiff further claims that the defendant had agreed to pay him a commission for consummating the sale but that this has not been done.

A jury was selected and all evidence introduced Thursday; arguments of counsel will start this morning.

TITLE SUIT ON IN 78TH COURT

$300,000 Estate Is Involved In Case On Trial Thursday

A trespass to try title suit in which an estate said to be worth approximately $300,000 is involved went on trial Thursday before a jury and Judge E. H. Napier in 78th district court; it is styled Mrs. C. A. Stark et al. vs. Mrs. Alice Dorris, et al.

The plaintiff and a number of brothers and sisters, all children of T. P. Morris, deceased, allege that their mother, at the time of her death, owned a small amount of property in Coleman county and that after their mother's death in 1903 their father sold the estate, moved to Wichita county and invested the funds. He later married the present, defendant, it is held, who with her children now hold his estate.

It is contended by the plaintiffs that they are entitled to the estate of their father and are seeking to regain it through the courts.

"We Want to Be Somebody," Is Cry Of Modern Youth, Speaker Asserts

"'We want to be somebody,' is the challenge of the youth of our land coming from the plains to the hillsides," Miss Mary Virginia Lee of Nashville, Tenn., said to the assembly of the Baptist convention Thursday morning when she spoke on the "Challenge of Youth."

"Youth is not only the most fascinating but the most dangerous age. Behind the frivolity and giggles there is a wholesomeness and genuineness of the boys and girls who are to become the future men and women of our nation.

Diamonds in Rough.

"I see the youth in the morning of life wondering what the evening will hold. To him nothing is impossible. The youth of this age are diamonds in the rough, and when ground will send out sparkling rays among the people.

"This pleasure loving age of youth is most dangerous because of the lax morals of the age. Never before in the history of the world have girls gone away from home in as great numbers to earn their own way working under alien roofs. Boys are away from home making their own money, spending their money as they choose," Miss Lee asserted.

"Many of the boys and girls of today are not from Christian homes, and I fear that some of the fathers and mothers are as bad as their sons and daughters. Recently in an Oklahoma school, 16 girls were dismissed from school because of immorality. A report last year from the Salvation Army officer in Birmingham showed that 50 per cent of girls making applications to the rescue homes were 16 years and under.

Is Dangerous Age.

"And yet, this most dangerous age is accompanied by the most spiritual period of life, a spiritual awakening. Eighty-five per cent of those who leave the teen age unconverted are never brought to Christ. If we are to win them now, it means that they will live a life of service.

"The most frivolous are longing for something nothing will satisby but the Bread of Life. The years of youth are the soul winner's white harvest. There is a challenge to you for a loving leadership. Youth wants to find the treasure on the lands of ideals. If you will give them a consecrated Christian leader, they will give back to you Christian leadership. Character depends upon the ideals, and ideals depend upon leaders, and you have it in your power to mar or make the next generation. Two millions and a half millions of boys and girls are looking for leadership, as sheep without a shepherd."
