

Federal Bureau Offers Work For 29 Local Boys

Applications Will Not Be Accepted After May 15
By Local Group

Many Apply

Wellington Boys May Be Stationed In Palo Duro Canyon Area

All unmarried men between the ages of 18 and 25, who are interested in securing positions through the Government Reformation Bureau should make their applications in the office of the County Library before May 15, according to committee members this week.

The government bureau, created recently by President Roosevelt, will enroll 29 boys from Collingsworth County. Persons from this county seeking positions in this work must make their application through the local committee, which includes C. B. Anderson, Ben Hurst, J. D. Wilson and Miss Katherine Boverie.

After being accepted by the local committee, the boys are sent to the Amarillo army recruiting station, where they are given a physical examination and if they pass this examination they are sent to Fort Sill, where they receive two weeks training prior to the time which they will report for their work.

The work will not be limited to forestry alone, according to reports from Austin, but will deal with conservation in this state. Efforts are being made to secure men for this work in the Palo Duro Canyon, and it is thought that local boys may be stationed at this point.

Committee Seeks Books For Texas Shelf In Library

Members of the committee to secure books for the Texas Shelf in the County Library said this week that they were making a drive for books written by Texas authors to place on the shelf and that any person, who had books and cared to donate them to the shelf, should call Mrs. Chester Fires or carry them directly to the library.

At present the library has 29 books on this shelf and it is hoped that before the year closes a wide selection of Texas authors will be represented.

MISS HUNT EMPLOYED HERE

Miss Bessie Hunt this week was employed in the office of the Northern Texas Utilities Company in addition to the regular office force of the past winter. Miss Hunt is the daughter of L. A. Hunt of this city and has for several months been employed in the office of Jimmie Mahan at Childress.

Skull Of Small Child Found In Shinnery Community To Be Used For Research Work

The skull of a child, a little tot that would probably have been starting to the Shinnery School next year if it had been born 50 years later, was found this week by E. H. Yarbrough in his pasture, one and one-half miles east of the river bridge on the Mangum road.

The teeth and portions of the skull indicated the child to have been between five and six years of age at the time of its death. That the skull had been buried for some time was indicated by the fact that there was no trace of bones, which were thought to have already decayed. The skull was found protruding at the edge of a bluff and could not possibly have been a burial ground due to the location.

Two holes in the skull indicated bullet shots and the front of the skull also indicated that the child suffered a severe lick before its death. Mr. Yarbrough said that he did not believe the skull was that of an Indian due to the fact that he had found several Indian skulls before and the markings were entirely different.

Mr. Yarbrough said that there seemed to be an Indian camp a half mile north of the location where he discovered the skull and that arrow-heads and trinkets were frequently found in the section where the camp was located. He also stated that when his uncle, John Yarbrough, came to this county and settled in 1890 that the remains of the camp and posts upon which lean-tos had been erected were still standing.

Mr. Yarbrough gave the skull to Dr. C. E. High, who expects to X-ray and study the nasal formations in connection with a scientific research study he is carrying on at the present time.

Legion Members Urged To Attend Thursday Meet

Guy Clay To Report Activities Of District Convention At Dalhart

Guy E. Clay was the only delegate from Frank King Post of the American Legion in Wellington who attended the eighteenth district meeting in Dalhart last Saturday and Sunday. Commander Riley Dunson and Mrs. Dunson started, but met a wall of sand, just out of Claude, and returned home rather than face the storm.

Mr. Clay, who went from Dalhart on a business trip to other parts of the state, wrote the following note back home:

"Tell Riley to get all the boys out for the next regular meeting night. I didn't see anyone from Wellington here."

"So something must have happened at the convention which will be out of interest to all members of the local post", Rolly Fisher, secretary, said. "Officers of the Legion urges all members to be present at the meeting on Thursday night of this week, at which time the local delegates will make a report of the convention. The meeting will open at seven-thirty."

Football Coach Looks Over Team For Coming Year

Billy Jarvis, Coach-Elect, Led Spearman Team For 1932 Championship

Billy Jarvis, coach-elect for the Wellington High School next year, visited in Wellington Monday and met with the candidates for the team at the noon hour.

Mr. Jarvis expressed himself as well pleased with the candidates and stated that he hoped Wellington would have a winning team next year. He comes here from Spearman, where he has coached for the past five years, and last year won the district football championship of that section, competing with such towns as Dalhart, Panhandle and Dumas. In 1931, he coached the winning basketball team of his district and defeated Amarillo and Pampa.

Mr. Jarvis is a graduate of Texas A. & M., where he played football, basketball and track. In addition to his regular coaching he has attended five coaching schools, including the famous Knute Rockne school at Dallas, schools at A. & M. and at Texas Tech. He stated that he expected to attend the Tech school this year before coming to Wellington. He will arrive here one month prior to the opening of school and will start football training two weeks school opens.

D. Wilson, County Superintendent, said. The census compiled at this time in 1932 showed a much greater loss with 164 less students than in the 1931 census. Still greater decrease of 201 under the 1930 census. The county census in the past three years has shown a total

This case was transferred here from Hall County, where Hinton was charged with the murder of his father, "Sim" G. Hinton. The case has caused much comment in Hall County and a large number of persons from that county are expected to attend the trial.

The trial of Fred Alfred, Quail, indicted by the grand jury and released on $5,000 bond last week, is scheduled to be held May 17. Alfred was indicted for shooting John Daves at Quail, on February 23.

Several divorce cases are also listed on the court docket, but no definite date has been set for the trial of these cases. W. H. Goforth, district clerk, said. Tuesday it was reported that 23 cases had already been cleared from the court docket during the first two weeks of the court term.

Deskins Wells made a short talk in which he dedicated the park during the coming season as a place of recreation, a token of neighborliness, and a reminder of the duty of citizenship.

The main activity was supplied by the children, who tried out the new playground apparatus and gave the old a strenuous workout. Their shouts of glee could be heard from one side of the park to the other as they romped and played to their hearts content.

Mrs. C. E. High, park chairman, says that the park will receive active attention from members of the City Federation every week in an effort to keep every part of the park beautiful.

Light Rain Over County Improves Crop Conditions

Quail And Dodsonville Report Light Rains And Very Little Hail

Outlook Better

Added Moisture Replaces That Dried From Land By High Winds

A light rain which fell over this county Wednesday morning was welcomed by farmers, due to the fact that the two rains which fell over this section last Saturday and Tuesday were rapidly dried up by the high winds which swept this section Sunday and Monday.

The rain started in Wellington shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and five-eighths of an inch was recorded here by the Strong Floral Company rain gauge. The rain over the entire county was accompanied by light hail, consisting mostly of small stones.

Dodsonville reported a very light rain and little hail and Quail also reported a light rain with little hail. Both communities, in extreme portions of the county indicated that the rain, although light, was general.

Prior to the rain Wednesday, the farm lands of this community was generally thought to be in good shape, but the rain today will benefit the farm lands in view of the fact that it will provide additional moisture and increase the crop possibilities of the country.

The rain was not reported to have been accompanied by storms or tornados Wednesday, but sections of other states were damaged. In the section from Louisiana to Illinois, spasmodic tornados Monday and Tuesday left a trail of disaster and death with 63 persons reported to have been killed by the storm and $2,000,000 lost through property damages.

Pastors Consider Increasing Scope Of Association

Johnston, president, said today. The matter of the election of officers for the ensuing year was deferred until other members of the association could be present.

Mrs. Deaver Dies In Memphis Home

Mrs. H. E. Deaver, 63, mother of John Deaver, District attorney, died at her home in Memphis, Thursday night, April 27. Mr. Deaver, at the time of his mother's death, was meeting with the grand jury in Wellington.

Mrs. Deaver's death was not preceded by illness and came as a shock to the people of Hall County. Thursday she spent the day at a quilting party at one of her neighbors and was found dead in her bed Friday morning.

As a pioneer of this section of the Panhandle, Mrs. Deaver came to Memphis in 1890, two years after the first railroad was built into Memphis, at the time Mrs. Deaver came to Memphis, Salsbury was the railroad point—and she often recalled to her son how the men of the community used to "soap" the tracks in order to stop the train in Memphis, before the railway company placed a depot there.

She is recalled by those who know her in this county as one of the most cheerful and courageous pioneers that settled in the Panhandle in the early days.

She is survived by two sons, John Deaver and T. H. Deaver, both of Memphis.

BACK TO SIMPLICITY

"Back to the soil," is the slogan that has drawn many families back to the old home neighborhood. But a far greater number are heeding the call, "Back to simplicity."

The American people recently danced their way through a period of high extravagance. They smiled at the quaint old days when people were happy sitting on their front doorsteps, or when the girl friend was delighted with a 25 cent entertainment. They turned their backs on all that, and the dollars slipped away like the nickels of former days.

Such a period produces no lasting prosperity. When the debt payments come due, there isn't much cash left for monthly bills.

These are called hard times. There is plenty of anxiety and suffering. And yet as people live more prudently, there is less dissipation, home life is encouraged, people become acquainted with their families. Newspapers and magazines previously scanned but hastily, are really read. Increased intelligence and wider interests result.

The neighbors join the cheerful home scene. Exciting games of bridge are played. The jigsaw puzzle table is in incessant activity. The radio works overtime. The young people practice the new dance steps. Wholesome merriment at home takes the place of jazzy life.

As spring comes on, the garden workers make a pretty picture. Nourishing vegetables are planted, and bright flowers will sing their note of high color. It is a great movement of life back to normal.

The deprivations of which people complain will be compensated for by simple home experiences that promote comfort, health and intelligence. The deprivations will be only temporary, as the unbound energy and intelligence of the American people produce their sure fruitage in business revival.

OVERALLS AND APRONS

"I would like to go out on a road job this spring and swing a pick, only my doctor says I mustn't stoop down since I had an operation. But I know I could learn something interesting by chumming with the boys on the road."

That remark was made by a man who though temporarily out of work, has always held responsible business and sales jobs. A reply in equally good temper was made to him by a young Doctor of Philosophy, recently given honors in a leading university, but who has not yet landed the fine teaching position she is fitted for.

"I would be glad of a chance to do housework. You don't really know life till you work awhile with your hands," she said.

Some society bred folks would be ashamed to be seen working in overalls or aprons. They belong to a too polite and artificial world. But that gentleman and lady, who shrank not from either the pick or the dishpan, were real children of the superb pioneers who toiled over the plains with their creaking wagons, and turned deserts into flower blooming cities.

We need more such folks in Texas for they are the ones who are pulling our glorious America up the hill.

KIDS ARE JUST KIDS

In this age of researches, surveys and investigations, it is sometimes encouraging to note that in most cases things are just about as sensible folks suspected before we had so much research.

For example, after an elaborate study of many school pupils by experts of Whittenberg College, it was discovered that students from large families were as bright as those from small families. Also that there was a fair degree of uniformity among students who happened to be the oldest, middle or youngest in their respective families.

Again, it didn't seem to make much difference in the intelligence of the offspring whether either or both of the parents were college graduates or not.

All of which indicates that the average pupil is just about average, no matter what happened to his folks beforehand.

Which, again and also, is what most of us knew all the time.

WHO IS EDUCATED?

Amidst the confusion among various schools of thought regarding present-day education, it is really difficult to find a satisfactory yardstick with which to measure that elusive individual, the educated man.

Many hold the view that no one is truly educated unless he is familiar with the classics, proficient in several languages, living and dead, versed in higher mathematics, and so on. Another school, while recognizing the desirability of a classical education when circumstances permit, denies that the classicists have license to lord it over their more practical brethren, or to lay exclusive claims to real education.

In this connection a thought expressed by the Boston philanthropist, Edward A. Fiene, is pertinent. He declares that "the educated mind today is the wind which best learns how to use the knowledge in existence, particularly those truths which apply to the thing which he is doing."

And that seems to be a very good definition.

Arrested for swearing, Mrs. Catherine Moder of Chicago declared that if her husband could swear, she had the same right.

It doesn't take a Literary Digest poll to enable one to forecast German election results this spring.

A Minnesota editor praised a club girl who won a prize for her "extra-ordinarily fine pair of calves." Bovine or human.

By Mrs. E. H. Yarbrough

The people of this community were glad to see the good rains here for the past week, but the sandstorms have been so bad since that are needing another rain.

Exa Yarbrough has been ill for the past week.

All who attended reported a nice time at the pie supper Thursday night. Sheriff George Corry sold the pies, which made about $25 for the Shinneries baseball team.

Several persons from the community attended the play at Made Friday night.

WELLINGTON People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

Maybe It Was A Sham Battle

Persons who are supposed to know, contend that history repeats as the years roll by. Their theory, like most theories, may be correct sometimes—and sometimes it may be wrong—but one thing for certain is that history contradicts itself. That is certainly a fact. One place in American history there is a passage which states that the North American Indians were a shrewd and clever race. Other places in history show that the Indians fought for this country where we now live. I just simply cannot see how both statements could have been correct. If the Indians had really been shrewd and clever they would have migrated to Childress county and waited for a sand storm, which would have given them this country they fought for and they would never have had to dent an arrow-head.

A certain man, and I have no reason to doubt his integrity, told me that he started up the street during the sand storm Sunday morning and the wind was so strong that he had to run his car in low gear until he reached the Lewis Grocery—then he started to shift and was blown clear back to the Baptist Church.

Real Scouts, These Boys

The Boy Scout movement is getting underway here and it surely is a good thing. If parents and neighbors of these boys will show some enthusiasm, they are going to be surprised at the results. Right now the boys are trying to raise their annual enrollment dues, 50 cents each. The boys are trying to earn this money themselves—and I don't want your own money, weeds chopped or any other similar work done, give one of these boys a chance. They are on their honor to do good work—and you can rest assured that they will. Practically everyone of them could get the money without working, but it is part of the scouting that they earn it themselves.

Page Wilson, one of the older scouts in Wellington, has constructed some chairs in bottles. These chairs are pieced together without a single nail and the bottoms are woven from twine. The work is indeed an accomplishment and shows what the boys will do if they are encouraged in their work.

More About A Welfare Garden

I have been so discouraged in my efforts to get the local relief employment committee to plant a community garden that I just didn't have the heart to write my column last week. However, several persons have endorsed the idea to me this week and if people will just show enough interest in the project to write in some letters for publication on this subject, I believe it can be worked out. Just this past week Childress county took up the idea and planted 12 acres under the leadership of their American Legion Post. When the government gives us more money to hire unemployed persons, such a garden should be planted here in Wellington. The money could be paid out alright, and considerable improvement would be seen around town, but we would not be producing anything.

When a farmer borrows money, he plants a crop and produces commodities in the hope of making a profit. Our city problem is not so complicated.

Let's Give It A Trial

In the first place, we will not have to borrow the money, it will be given to us. Second, we do not want a profit, we want only to care for the unemployed. Still, if we can take $300 and produce $600 worth of commodities, wouldn't that help just twice as many unemployed? Why should we pay jobbers and wholesalers a profit on articles the unemployed can produce themselves? Articles which will have to be paid for in donations by business men and citizens here next fall and winter. If we pay these unemployed cash for working to produce a garden now, we can pay them this summer in fresh peas, beans, okra, greens, spinach, lettuce, turnips, cucumbers, carrots, peppers and tomatoes. Then next fall we could continue to pay the unemployed—not with money, but with articles canned from our community garden.

Parishioners of Rev. J. L. Kenney, of Leeds, Eng., who is a non-smoker, presented him with a $500 smoking cabinet on his retirement.

For hugging a girl with one arm while he was driving an automobile, Chester Lendon of Evans-ton, Ill., was fined $10.

Five women, who got to pulling hair after their dogs fought at Broadway and 72nd street in New York City, had to be separated by two policemen.

When Wyatt Edwards returned to his home from which he had been driven by recent floods at Spottsville, Ky., he found a 27-pound catfish stranded on the living room floor.

BOY SCOUT EVENTS

J. L. Anderson, Scout Executive.

TROOP I

Dewey Ellis, Scoutmaster; S. G. Henry, Assistant; Marvin Somerville, Assistant.

TROOP II

Bennett Bond, Scoutmaster; Charley Lowry, Assistant; Ben Hurst, Assistant.

Plans are being perfected to secure a summer campsite for the Wellington Boy Scout Troops. If this site is secured, it will be the headquarters for the troops and a place for each of the troops to take hikes during the summer months, offering them a place of shelter in case of rain and high winds. The camp will feature a cabin and swimming pool—and will generally promote such scout activities as swimming, cooking, hiking, signaling, woodcraft, fishing, life saving, and athletic contests.

Dr. E. W. Jones acting on a committee to secure the grounds for this camp and the scouts expect to erect a fence around the camp when the place is secured. Two full troops were present at the last scout meeting and the following boys were added to the present scout rolls: S. E. Good, Travis Somerville, Alvin Roy, Farfield Harrison, J. W. McAnear, Oscar Glasgow. All boys who have not paid their cents registration fees are urged to do so as soon as possible in order that they may become full fledged scouts. The Mohican patrol with Henry Sullivan as leader, won the 100 per cent inspection award last week. This contest will continue for two more weeks and the winning patrol will be given a trip by Scoutmaster Bennett Bond. The Cub Scouts hold their meeting each Wednesday at 7:30 and an interesting program is being planned for these boys between the ages of nine and twelve years. Troop I will hike to the Country Club Friday for the first hike of the year and will leave here at 8 o'clock, returning Saturday afternoon. The hike will replace the regular Friday night meeting for this troop. The hike will feature inspection and attendance and an award will be made to winning patrol.

Scientific Marvel To Be On Display At Chicago Fair

A mechanical man ten feet high and made from a transparent substance called "cellon" will be one of the official entertainers at Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition, according to Carveth Wells, Continental Oil Company radio star, who will devote his regular broadcasting period Wednesday night, May 10, to his second Exposition program.

The unusual cellon robot in the Hall of Science, says Wells, can eat cucumber salad and half baked pork and digest both while you watch the entire process. You can also watch his blood circulate, and if you push the right button, he will sing soprano, alto, tenor, or bass—to order. Other marvels include the "fever machine," which increases your temperature, the Thyratron Organ, and a miniature, transparent oil refinery in operation.

New Corporations Seek Charters To Operate In State

Forty - Four Merchandising Firms, 39 Oil Companies Seek Charters

AUSTIN, April 25.—New corporations which received charters to operate in Texas during March totaled 142, or two more than the total for February, according to the report on charters granted by the Secretary of State for the month of March, prepared by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. The increase in authorized capital stock was 12 per cent, or from $2,727,000 in February to $3,044,000 in March. Since the number of new corporations with authorized capital stock of $100,000 or more decreased from seven in February to only four in March, and since the number of new companies incorporated at less than $5,000 also declined, the increase of 12 per cent in total authorized capital stock shows that the average new corporation was larger than was the case in February. As compared with March a year ago, there was a decrease of 16 per cent in the number of new corporations, whereas the total authorized capital stock declined only 8.9 per cent.

New merchandise firms accounted for 44 of the incorporations, while 39 oil companies received charters. Only fifteen out-of-state corporations received permits to operate in Texas, whereas in February 22 foreign corporations were granted permits to do business in Texas and in March a year ago, 27 foreign permits were granted.

SIDELIGHTS

by Marvin Jones
Congressman from Texas

Everyone seems to feel that the new administration has gotten off to a good start. This is preeminently a time for action, and the president is certainly a man of action.

The Congress has voted him broad power along many lines. No doubt other powers will be granted to him in his effort to work out of the emergency with which the country is faced.

He is not only endeavoring to secure essential legislation and to carry out the program which he has in mind, but he is trying in every way possible to reduce the expenses of government in accordance with his pre-election pledges. Many bureaus have been abolished and others have been merged in such a way as to do away with overlapping activities.

I have been called into conference with other members a number of times at the White House, and we have all been amazed at the fine knowledge the President has of the entire situation, as well as his ability to stand the strain of long hours of continuous work. He works day and night, and seems to remain in good health and in good spirits at all times.

It was my privilege to be assigned the task of introducing the President's farm mortgage refinancing bill and of handling the same in its passage through the House. It was passed on April 13 by the record vote of 387 to 12.

I regard the farm mortgage situation as one of the most pressing problems of the hour, and I hope the Senate may see fit to pass the bill at an early date, either separately or as a part of the general farm bill to which it has been attached.

The establishment of credit facilities, the adjustment of freight rates which are discriminatory against agriculture, and the adjustment of trade barriers in the interest of markets are also important steps in the farm program. I hope that all of these may be worked out.

For some time a number of us have been urging that the currency be liberalized in such a way as to make the dollar more truly a measure of values. Several methods have been suggested. The result of the adoption of any of these methods would mean an increase in commodity prices. It seems to me an increase in the price level in farm and other commodities is essential to national recovery.

The day this is being written the President has issued a statement in which he announces his determination to change the basis of our money in such a way as to increase the general price level. I believe that the carrying out of such a program will be in the interest of the entire country.

We are in a great national emergency which calls for discarding of selfish interest in an effort to save our institutions. For this reason I expect to continue to support the President in the program which he has planned. I am glad we have a man in the White House who is unafraid, who is willing to assume responsibility and who has a program. The American people are thrilling with a new hope under his leadership. I have every faith that he will lead us forward into the full promise of better times and happier conditions.

Despite Troubles Indiana Editor Gets Paper Out

Fighting almost impossible handicaps, C. W. H. Bangs, editor Huntington News, has been publishing his paper as usual.

He puts out the paper in spite of a $400 damage suit and action to remove the lighting plant he installed after a local electric company cut off his lights and power. Bangs retained his electric plant temporarily by filing a heavy bond to prevent attachment of the equipment. The battling editor maintains there has been a conspiracy to force him to suspend publication of his paper.

He has continued to issue the daily despite a walkout of his printers. The cutting off of light and power service. The removal of his telephone. The removal of his printing press.

The resignation of his circulation manager who filed suit for $300 back pay.

The paper now is printed on a small cylinder press powered by a jacked-up truck. If his lighting plant is removed, Bangs says he will install a Diesel engine. Bangs, former president of a Huntington college, issues the paper almost single handed. He covers all news runs on foot because he has no telephone and with the resignation of his circulation manager attends to distribution of the papers also. Bangs faces charges of slander and libel brought against him by the First State Bank several weeks ago. The editor had bitterly attacked local banking institutions. Two banks closed.

For three consecutive years James Crosby, Jr., of Grand Rapids, Mich., has paid more fines than any other motorist for violation of the parking ordinance.

Joseph Davey of Round Lake, N. Y., has had the unusual experience of growing his second "crop" of hair after his eighty-fourth birthday anniversary.

Five-year-old Elmer Forrest of Winnetka, Ill., swallowed seven coins without any ill effects.

When he found two tires missing from his automobile at Fort Worth, Patrolman John Nash called other policemen to solve the robbery.

from 11:30 to 1 o'clock, this week and next week.

Mrs. Hugh Byrd and little Odessa Jones spent Monday with Mrs. Ed C. Smith.

Dora Mae Crawford spent Sunday night with Mollie D. Stonecipher.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lacy entertained the young folks with a singing Sunday night.

"Vaseline Well" Still Producing

Unusual Well Near Holdenville Turns Out Almost Pure Vaseline

One of the most unusual wells in the world—the "Vaseline well" near Holdenville—drilled in ten years ago still is producing almost pure vaseline.

It was exactly noon on January 26, 1923 when the well came in at a total depth of 3,710 feet. It was drilled in by W. C. Newman, who had spent nearly $100,000 seeking to develop the territory.

He had drilled two "dusters" before he located the "Vaseline well," two miles east and two miles north of Lamar. Its initial production was estimated at 350 barrels a day.

The quiet countryside was transformed into a seething, shouting, exuberant mass of humanity. Property around the well sold at a premium. Farmers envisioned quick riches. Oil men rushed into the territory to profit by what they thought would be a new field.

Now the well is still the only one in that area. But it continues to pump pure vaseline and return a profit on the investment.

Heavy dark green oil, that turned golden yellow as it reached the air spouted over the derrick when the well came in. It was so heavy that it hung like gum on fences and vegetation near the well.

Originally the oil was used as it was taken from the well for lubrication purposes on wagons and automobiles. It was too thick to run through a pipeline located a fourth of a mile away.

Owners of the well developed an unusual method of piping it to a loading rack at Carson, four miles away. Two four-inch pipelines were laid. On top of these a line was placed and then above the latter, two more four-inch pipes were laid. Heat was forced through the center line, enabling the "Vaseline oil" to flow through the four inch lines.

Mrs. L. S. Wood of Willemsen, Eng., rebuked Magistrate Luke as a "meddling fool" for permitting her daughter to marry without Mrs. Wood's consent.

James Gould of Duluth, Minn., complained to the police that his wife burned his best trousers to keep him from going out at night.

Arnold Smith of Indianapolis, Ind., was saved from a jail sentence for petty theft by his promise to go to bed for three years at 9 a. m.

Hindu Warns Girls Of West To Beware

Whatever you do, girls of the West, don't accept Hinduism and take a Hindu for a husband. Hinduism is no substitute for Christianity, and marriage to a Hindu has many disadvantages.

This well-meant advice comes from Pundt Bhaget Ram, "a friend of animals," and appears in the New York Christian Advocate.

"We who have been brought up in Hinduism and like and have our being in Hinduism," he says, "have often pondered over the question why American and English ladies are now and then turning Hindus and renouncing Christianity. We cannot understand why Christian women can accept Hinduism—the Hinduism which practises child marriage, enforced widowhood, untouchability, and a double standard of morality for men and women—such a system can hardly contain more spirituality than Christianity.

"If any western sister is bent upon a Hindu marriage," the pundit continues, "let it be a civil marriage, not according to Hindu rites, so that in the future there may be some way of escape."

She was a member of the pep squad for four years.

She was a member of the Glee Club for two years, the Dramatics Club one year, and the Home Economics Club two years. She was a member of the cast in the Junior and the Senior Class Plays. Grace has displayed some very remarkable talent in the various plays she has been in during the past year.

Grace's English teacher has predicted for her a great future as a critic of books to determine their literary value.

Roosevelt Will Take Up Home Relief Program

New National Emergency Plan To Be Pushed On Way During Week

President Roosevelt and Congress will seek a combination this week to put the new national emergency program far along its way with prime consideration to more jobs coupled with railroad and home-owner relief.

The President will send to Capitol Hill tomorrow his plan for broad development of the Tennessee valley and the restoration of the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, power and nitrate plant.

He will follow this with a proposal for cutting the debt burden on small home owners and a recommendation to reorganize the eleven-billion-dollar railroad industry on a paying basis.

Congressional leaders expect to send to the White House before the week-end the measure for farm relief and agricultural refinancing and also the $500,000,000 direct unemployment aid bill.

Carefully watching the national budget, Mr. Roosevelt will conclude shortly his domestic program for public works construction totalling two or three billion dollars.

He then will size up the income and outgo of the government and seek to reorganize the federal machinery sufficiently to provide a balanced budget. Every effort will be made to bring this about through rigid economy. No decision has been reached on the necessity for new taxes. At all costs, however, a balanced budget is insisted upon.

Meanwhile, the President is speeding the administration of banking and reforestation measure already enacted.

Probably tomorrow, another Roosevelt-favored bill—banking reform with provision for insurance of deposits—will be introduced by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, and Chairman Staegall of the House banking committee.

An early slow-down is due in the Senate on the farm commodity measure, with the Republicans apparently doomed to defeat on a substitute eliminating the proposed granting of wide authority to the secretary of agriculture.

The President received from his aides alternative proposals for restoring the rail carriers. The plans all focus on the appointment of a federal coordinator. Secretaries Woodin and Roper and Joseph B. Eastman of the Interstate Commerce Commission will go over the railroad situation; and with their cooperation Mr. Roosevelt will draft his legislative recommendation.

In all probability the President will leave the submission of the small home refinancing measure to leaders on Capitol Hill.

This measure would allow refinancing of mortgages on homes valued at not more than $20,000, with an interest rate of 4 or 4 1/2 per cent and a three-year moratorium on amortization.

Congressional leaders still are pointing to June 1 as the latest date for conclusion of the emergency session, but there is no certainty of its accomplishment.

Confident that Congress will give him the remainder of his program, the President patiently is watching progress. There is no hint yet of any cracking of the White House whip in an effort to speed action. Nor is there any certainty it won't be cracked if delay is encountered.

Blind Man Sees Unusual Changes In Next 100 Years

Amid the quiet atmosphere of his home at Williams Bay, Wis., a blind man, who has taught many to learn the secret of the universe, visualizes an amazing degree of scientific progress during the next 100 years.

He is Dr. Edwin Brant Frost, former director of the Yerkes Observatory, who won world renown as an instructor of astrophysics.

Whether man, within that period or beyond it, will find an answer to the possibility of intelligent life beyond the earth, he is not prepared to say.

"It is reasonable to assume, however, that thousands of yellow stars closely resembling the sun in physical and chemical characteristics are quite as likely to have habitable planets circulating about them as has our sun," he said. "I suspect that life would develop on a planet ready for it as naturally as familiar processes occur on the earth." And methods of detecting and transmitting radiation," he added, "may develop in ways undreamed of."

"But believing, as I do, that the progress of science in the next 100 years will be even more rapid than in the last, I think it unwise to set limits on discovery for the future."

The occasion for Dr. Frost's remarks was the recently announced discovery of Dean Charles B. Lipman of the University of California that bacteria had been found in the interior of stone meteorites—a fact which has led some scientists to speculate further on the theory that original forms of terrestrial life may have been brought to the earth by the aerolites hundreds of millions of years ago.

Pointing out that he was expressing a personal opinion and that in no way was he speaking for Yerkes Observatory, Dr. Frost said that positive proof of the existence of living organisms in meteorites would only shift the point of origin to some other unknown body. In this connection he also called attention to the slowness of any inter-communication in sidereal spaces.

"Suppose," he said, "that our comparatively near neighbor, Areturus, had an inhabited planet circulating about it, and that communication might somehow be established, at least 80 years would be required for a question and an answer if the present view is correct—that no velocity in nature can exceed that of light, 186,000 miles per second."

Dr. Frost does not believe that either of the earth's near neighbors in the solar system—the planets Mars and Venus—is inhabited by intelligent beings.

"Conditions of temperature and atmosphere seem to exclude them from this possibility," he said.

Because he "thumbed his nose" at Judge Charles S. Sullivan in Charlestown, Mass., James Bayer was adjudged in contempt of court and given a ten-day sentence in jail.

Her husband forced her to hoe in the garden barefooted, Mrs. Nelda Beard of Oklahoma City, Okla., testified at her divorce hearing.

Tips on Taxes

AUSTIN—The Forty-third Legislature, now nearing the close of its regular session, will likely reduce the costs of State government from 25 to 30 per cent. Up to the present time it has created no new commissions or bureaus and levied no important new taxes. Every branch of the State government has had its budget reduced. Equally important is the passage of legislation designed to stop tax exactions, and to provide penalties that will insure more effective enforcement of special taxes, such as the cigarette and gross production taxes. The Comptroller estimates that at least $5,000,000 in these special taxes, which has been lost through inadequate enforcement facilities, will be saved and added to State revenues.

May Abolish Fee System

There are two constitutional amendments pending, which if adopted, will be of far-reaching importance. One would arbitrarily limit total expenditures of the State and the other would abolish the fee system of compensating county officials and make for lowering the tremendous costs of county government, which average much higher than State government. The first of these amendments passed the Senate and the second has passed the House. Prospects of their submission seems good, but citizens can do a real service by urging the submission of these two amendments.

In spite of failure to adequately meet conditions in many respects, the present session of the legislature may be counted a success, if it adheres to its present apparent purpose to levy no new taxes and cut expenses and also submits these two amendments. These amendments will open the way for permanent tax reform and provide effective safeguards against recurrence of the recent orgy of spending by all branches of government.

SALARIES ARE LOWERED

Appropriations for expenses of the Legislature were approximately $500,000. This represents a reduction of about 30 per cent below the cost of the regular sessions since the pay of legislators was created by constitutional amendment. The Senate voted to make the pay of members $8 per day, instead of the constitutional limit of $10. The House refused to concur and fixed salaries of House members at $10 and Senators at $8. It is impossible to give the total cost of the session. It may be prolonged beyond the four months and thus necessitate an additional appropriation for salaries of members and other expenses.

The effort to again bring up a sales tax bill has failed for the time being. The House committee on revenue and taxation gave an adverse report on the Kayton bill, which differed somewhat from the administration sales tax bill, killed earlier in the session. It is regarded as doubtful whether the bill has a chance of being brought out on a minority report.

The income tax bill which has passed the House seems to have little chance of passing the Senate.

The House took up the higher education appropriation bill last week and made drastic cuts in salaries and other items, going below the reductions already approved by the appropriations committee. This is the last of the major appropriation bills. Senate figures in the appropriation bills average higher than House figures and differences are being compromised in conference.

Despite the fact that State support of public schools has increased more than other costs of government and has far out-run the increases in taxable wealth and population, a demand for continued liberal support of approximately the same level as during the years of prosperity for public schools is being made. Since 1920 scholastic population has increased 26 per cent, taxable wealth 20 per cent and State school support 150 per cent.

Analysis of the State budget in the light of reductions already made, and provided the Legislature does not attempt to hold the school apportionment to prosperity level, shows that legitimate needs of the government can be met without additional tax levies.

Hudspeth Accepts School Team--

ness training. L. A. Manzer, president of the school board, said Wednesday that the vacancy by the resignation of Mr. Hudspeth has not yet been filled, but that action would probably be taken toward filling the place Friday.

"I do not like to leave Wellington and dislike very much not being able to finish my term here," Mr. Hudspeth said, "but to secure the agency I find that I have to leave now. My family and I have enjoyed living here and associating with the people of this town very much."

met regularly during the second term of school this year and discussion of school work concerning patrons, teachers and pupils have held a major part of the interest. Officers of the P. T. A. for the past year were: Raymond Wilson, president; Mrs. J. V. Clark, vice president; Mrs. Hardeman, secretary-treasurer.

The school reports a successful year with patrons, pupils and teachers cooperating for the welfare of the school, despite the fact that the term was cut short by one month, but a majority of the pupils will pass their work.

The intermediate room issued a yearbook, which depicts the school life for the last year. New song books and lights were purchased for the school. A new basket ball court was added to the playground equipment.

Cross Roads also sponsored a series of successful athletic teams this year and 27 games of baseball and basketball were played with the twelve neighboring schools. For the most part fair play and good sportsmanship were the features of each of the 27 games, 22 of which resulted in victories for the Cross Roads team and one tie.

The junior boys played five games of playground ball and won each game, establishing themselves as county champions.

Teachers for the Cross Roads school this year were Raymond Wilson, principal; Mrs. J. V. Clark, intermediate; Miss Mayme Lou Fuller, primary. Teacher for next year will be: Mr. Wilson, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Mary Henderson, primary.

Trustees for this year were E. W. Carter, J. H. Barton and J. A. Keller. Next year the trustees will be E. W. Carter, J. H. Barton and Bob Keller.

Pupils of the ninth grade at Cross Roads this year were Morris Barton, Eleene Keller, Alin Ferrell, Ruth Keller, and Aubert Keller.
