France And Italy Disappointed Over Decisions Of Big Three

Soviets Hail Parley As New Step In Collaboration; Diplomats Move To Carry Out Agreement On Romania

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 28—France and Italy expressed disappointment today over some of the decisions of the Big Three conference of foreign ministers in Moscow, while the Soviet press hailed the parley as a new step toward collaboration of Russia, the United States and Great Britain.

The U. S. embassy in Moscow said Deputy Foreign Commissar A. V. Vishinsky, British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr and U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman planned to leave tonight for Bucharest to carry out the agreement of the Big Three as it pertains to Romania.

To Consult King

The three diplomats were authorized to consult with King Mihai on broadening the present government and holding free elections, thus paving the way for recognition by the United States and Great Britain.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin arrived in London tonight from Moscow, and newsmen who asked him what he thought might take place in the future received this quotation from St. Matthew, VI, 34, in reply:

"Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

Revival of Trust Seen

London diplomats saw in the conference a revival of coperation and trust among the big powers, but pointed out that many vital problems barring the way to world peace remain to be solved.

In Paris the French cabinet decided to ask Washington, London and Moscow for clarification of certain points in the Big Three communique before announcing any adherence to the procedure announced for Balkan peace treaties. A foreign office spokesman said France was frankly dissatisfied at being left out as a drafter of peace in the Balkans.

DeGaulle Undecided

It was learned that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault asked his colleagues to approve the peace treaty procedure, but that President de Gaulle spoke against it and it has decided to ask the Allies for additional information.

In Rome, a foreign ministry spokesman said the Moscow announcement "is undoubtedly a step backward from the Potsdam decision" with regard to the Italianu question. Italy was particularly chargined, he added, at not being granted precedence over Germany's Balkan satellites.

Italy's Contribution

This official said Italy still hoped "her contribution to Allied victory will be recognized in the peace treaty."

In Moscow, the newspaper Pravda asserted that the decisions "upset the enemies of collaboration of the Allied powers. The

Jap Legal Experts Propose Revisions

Would Save Throne

TOKYO, Dec. 28. (AP) — An eleventh-hour effort to bolster Hirohito's tottering throne was launched today by Japanese legal experts, after a statement by General MacArthur's press relations officers that Japan's emperor system "is being destroyed—wiped out of existence."

A private group of authorities on constitutional law submitted to the government a series of proposed constitutional revisions which would strip the emperor of all political power but at least leave the monarchy intact.

Throne Feared Tottering

Under the impact of the Moscow Big-Three creation of a four-power control council for Japan, however, many Japanese saw the throne tottering inevitably toward extinction. They recalled that both Russia and China previously had proposed elimination of the emperor system—and the new four-power council includes both Russia and China.

The decision creating a four-power occupation council for Jap-

Small Clique Of "Advisors" Claimed In Power In Japan

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Dec. 28 — Aged and secretive Count Nobuaki Makino, once ousted by militarists from the empire's highest post, is the leader and dominant voice of Japan's new behind-the-scenes ruling clique, informed Japanese sources say.

Makino blocked Emperor Hirohito's contemplated abdication immediately after the surrender, these sources assert, and has opposed consistently any suggestion for the ruler's retirement.

Advises Emperor Hirohito

The 74-year-old former lord keeper of the privy seal exercises his power from a small, secluded villa on the edge of Tokyo. Would-be interviewers are told he is too ill and "too out of touch with things" for a statement. But messengers of all ranks carry his advice to the throne.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye's death and the arrest of other key wartime figures around the emperor have enhanced the influence of Makino's clique.

In Touch With Things

Makino was lord keeper of the privy seal from 1925 to 1935. For four previous years, he was imperial household minister. Thus Makino was associated intimately with Hirohito from the time the latter became a regent, upon his father's illness, throughout the turbulent period which finally resulted in military usurpation of power.

In late 1935, Makino and Suzuki, then chief chamberlain, came under increasingly strong militarist opposition as "revolutionary liberals." Makino resigned Dec. 26, 1935. His successor, Makato Saito, was killed in an uprising the following February. Suzuki resigned after the Feb. 25 "incident."

Suzuki subsequently returned to the palace as the Emperor's chief aide, then served briefly as premier during the summer of 1945. His cabinet concluded the surrender.

Yoshida is Makino's son-in-law. The count's influence was perceptible when Yoshida was appointed foreign minister during the Higashi-Kuni cabinet reshuffle, re-

Truman Signs 64 Bills, Sets Radio Report

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—President Truman flew back from his Christmas in Missouri today, signed 64 bills and saw several callers in three busy hours at the White House, and departed again for a four-day cruise on the icy Potomac river.

Aboard his yacht, he will draft a half-hour radio report to the nation to be made at 9 p. m. (central standard time) Jan. 3 over all networks. He also will work on his message on the state of the union for Congress which reconvenes Jan. 14.

Boards Yacht At 6:05

Mr. Truman boarded his yacht, the Williamsburg, at the Navy yard here in a wintry rain and it sailed at 6:05 p. m. (eastern standard time). The yacht of Admiral Ernest J. King, moored alongside, had a Christmas tree on the forecastle and a figure of Santa Claus atop the funnel, but the Williamsburg had no decorations.

The chief executive pooh-poohed any concern over his Christmas day flight in bad weather when he returned here this afternoon.

The President told newsmen on the airport runways as he alighted in a heavy mist that he had had a very pleasant flight both to and from his home in Independence, Mo., where he went for Christmas.

Worry Unnecessary

In reply to a reporter who said that "a great many people were worried" over the outward trip in ice and fog Christmas day, the President said:

"They need not have been. We had a very pleasant trip—both ways."

"Did you have a very rough trip today?" he was asked.

"No, it was a pleasant trip—sunshine all the way, and only fog in taking off and landing."

He told a secretary en route to the White House that he flew at 7,200 feet most of the way and averaged 230 miles an hour. He took off from ice-covered runways at Kansas City at 9:37 a. m., (EST), and landed here at 2:30 p. m.

Receives Callers

Back in the White House the President went to work on several bills passed in the closing days of Congress. He also received Agriculture Secretary Anderson, Dean Acheson, acting secretary of state, and Senator Vandenberg, R-Mich), an American delegate to the United Nations general assembly meeting in London next month. The latter two saw the President together.

The White House said arrangements would be made for Secretary of State Byrnes to report to the President tomorrow after the

Eight Men Found Alive In Blast-Wrecked Mine

Body Of One Other Found

By KYLE VANCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PINEVILLE, Ky., Dec. 28—Eight men carried out alive tonight from the tunnel of a coal mine near here where they had been trapped by an underground explosion since early Wednesday, were removed to a Pineville hospital.

Rescue crews found one other man dead and the fate of the remaining estimated 22 was undetermined.

Report Said Unfounded

Harry Thomas, chief of the state department of mines and minerals, emerged from the shaft tonight and said earlier reports that three men had been found dead were unfounded.

Thomas said the dead man was Albert Bennett, 64, Pineville, oldest man in the mine at the time of an explosion Wednesday. He was among the nine found alive this afternoon but died before removal from the tunnel.

Two of the eight rescued men were brought to the surface early tonight and the other six were removed from the pit about two hours later.

Fate Of Others Unknown

There was nothing to indicate the fate of the other 20 men believed trapped in the shaft but rescue crews continued their frenzied efforts to reach them.

One of the men rescued tonight was identified as Bud Towns, 52, Pineville, who escaped death in a similar explosion at Kettle Island, near here, in 1929. Sixteen men were killed in that disaster.

The men, after receiving emergency treatment in the tunnel, were removed to the office of the Kentucky Straight Creek Coal company for further treatment before removal to a Pineville hospital.

All of the rescued men were unconscious and several physicians were on hand to help administer medical aid.

Fires Believed Out

Ambrose A. Fish, chief civil engineer for several Bell county mines, said tonight there was no more smoke inside the two and one-half mile long tunnel, indicating all fires had been extinguished.

Fish had been underground most of the time since the explosion Wednesday morning.

The men were found together in the "Three, Left" butt entry, an artery leading off the main corridor and about 800 feet closer to

GM Challenges Profit Angle In Wage Dispute And Quits Hearing

(By The Associated Press)

GENERAL MOTORS CORP., challenging inclusion of profits in a wage dispute, withdrew yesterday from a governmental fact-finding hearing into the CIO strike at its plants.

Walter Gordon Merritt, GM attorney, in a statement to the fact-finding board as it reconvened in Washington contended the company did not plead inability to pay, but asserted prices and profits involve forecasts and other assumptions "upon which this fact-finding board could not completely pass."

Hearing To Proceed

The board, however, announced it would proceed with hearings with the striking union, the CIO-United Automobile Workers. Walter Reuther, UAW vice president, asserted that Merritt's statement constituted an argument with President Truman, who appointed the board, rather than with the union.

The company, however, said it was ready at any time to continue direct negotiations with the union. "The negotiations never were broken off," a spokesman said.

Reuther replied that "the union always has been willing to engage in direct negotiations and we still are—except that we'd like to talk about wages as related to economic facts."

Others Also Are Out

GM's 175,000 strikers accounted for nearly half the approximately 386,000 persons off the jobs in labor disputes. The remainder were in transportation, glass, textiles and smaller industries.

There also was the threat of a walkout of some 200,000 CIO electrical workers, members of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, who have demanded a $2 a day increase from both General Electric and Westinghouse.

In the transportation industry, the U. S. Conciliation service summoned union and company officials to a meeting in Cleveland today to discuss the strike of 4,000 Greyhound employes, a union official said.

Asked To Reconsider

In the electrical dispute, Charles E. Wilson, General Electric president, asked the union to reconsider a decision rejecting a 10 per cent wage boost offer.

The stakes, Wilson said in a statement, "are too momentous for quick-trigger action and economic wishful thinking." He said the union action Dec. 21 in turning down the boost "in a matter of minutes" indicated sufficient consideration had not been given to the offer.

In reply James J. Matles, U-E organizational director, said the 10 per cent offer "represents a miserable package which you have thrown to the UE-CIO to take it or leave it by Jan. 1."

To Meet Wednesday

GE has agreed to meet Wednesday with federal conciliators, as has Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

Meantime in Columbus, O., Lewis McCracken, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Federation of Galss, Ceramic and Silica Sand Workers, said members were considering an offer designed to end a se en-state strike of 15,000 persons. The terms of the offer, made by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., and the Libbey-Owens-Ford company, were not disclosed. The walkout began Oct. 22.

Molly O'Daniel Wrather Seeks Divorce, Property Settlement; Charges Cruelty

DALLAS, Dec. 28. (AP) — Molly O'Daniel Wrather, daughter of U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, filed suit for divorce today against her wealthy oilman husband, J. D. Wrather, jr., on grounds of cruelty. The petition asked for a property accounting and settlement and custody of their two minor children.

District Judge W. M. Cramer granted a temporary order restraining Wrather from disposing of their personal effects, community property and his separate property, and from withdrawing from the bank community property funds.

Mother Also Involved

Wrather and his mother, Mrs. J. D. Wrather, were ordered to appear before Judge John A. Rawlins in 116th district court at 9:30 a. m. Jan. 4 to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued and why Wrather should not pay alimony for support of his wife and the two children during pendency of the suit.

Judge Cramer also ordered Wrather to file a complete accounting of the couple's community property and of his separate property.

Wrather also was restrained from "injuring, molesting or com-

Production Swings Upward; Strife Slows Many Items

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Industrial output has swung up for the first time since the European victory, the Civilian Production administration reported today, but production of many consumer items is "getting underway slowly" because of industrial strife and lingering shortages of materials.

"Full-speed ahead cannot be achieved until after settlement of widespread labor-management differences," said John D. Small, CPA administrator, in his first monthly report since his agency supplanted the War Production board.

"This is doubly important, as a manufacturer and his workers may be in complete agreement and still be shut down by a work stoppage in the plant of one of their suppliers."

To prevent materials from continuing to flow to strike-bound factories, Small announced that idle plants must suspend their orders after a strike has lasted 30 days. But they will be permitted to acquire up to 45 days' supply of materials so that adequate supplies will be on hand for immediate use when the stoppage ends. After accumulating 45 days' supply, the manufacturers must keep deferring his orders as long as the strike lasts.

Thus General Motors, on Jan. 15, will have to defer its orders for February delivery if the strike lasts until then, Small said, and by Feb. 15 the corporation will be required to defer its orders for March delivery.

Commodities Delayed

Despite favorable economic conditions, sizeable shipments of refrigerators, washers and automobiles "are not expected until the early part of the new year," the CPA chief said.

Consumers' hard goods generally lagged well behind pre-war levels" in November, he told a news conference. The rise in total production that month was attributable mainly to the capital goods industries—chiefly machinery and farm, construction and transport equipment which were produced throughout the war and now are coming out in pre-war volume or better.

The financial markets provide "the most favorable possible monetary conditions for business expansion," the report said.

Four In Family Killed In Wreck

NASHVILLE, Ill., Dec. 28. (AP)—Four members of a family of six on their way home to Selma, Bexar county, Texas, were killed here today when their automobile collided with a truck on icy pavement during a fog, according to State Patrolman Ted May.

Two Children Survive

Leander N. Revermann, 32, a garage mechanic, his wife Eleanor Revermann, 28, and two of their children, Hubert, 6, and Judith Ann, 2, were killed in the accident. Two other children, Kenneth, 8, and Dennis, 3, were in Centralia hospital with injuries. May said the truck driver, J. C. Guiguid, Herrin, Ill., had also been treated at the hospital.

The Revermann family was returning to Texas after attending the funeral of Revermann's mother, Mrs. Mary Revermann of Huey, Ill., where they also spent Christmas.

An inquest was to be held here.

Navy Personnel In Pacific Is Halved

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 28. (AP)—Navy sources said today that naval personnel based ashore in the Pacific has been reduced nearly 50 per cent since the end of the war.

Heaviest concentrations are in the Hawaiian islands, the Marianas, Philippines and Ryukyus.

On Sept. 1 a total of 604,858 officers and men were assigned to Pacific bases. The present total is 308,613.

Inspector Cites Mines' Hazards

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—A finding of hazardous working conditions at the Pineville, Ky., mine where over 30 coal miners were trapped after an underground explosion was contained in the recent bureau of mines report concerning it.

After an inspection last August Federal Inspector Wilbur Stiles reported a sharp rise during the first half of 1945 in accident-frequency rates at the No. one mine of the Kentucky Straigat Creek Coal Co. The rate if disabling accidents, he said, was about five times greater per ton of coal mined than the rate for the nation's bituminous mines as a whole:

Ventilation Inadequate

Stiles stated that the mine should be rated and operated as a gassy mine, that underground ventilation was inadequate with insufficient amounts of air reaching the working sections, that none of the escapeways were in traversable condition, and that no fire-fighting equipment was available.

Stiles also reported that underground electrical equipment was non-permissable, that underground telephones were not provided, that no first-aid or mine rescue training was given employes, and that the officials did not examine the mine for gas at any time.

RESTRICTIONS RELAXED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—President Truman signed into law today legislation to expedite admission into the United States of foreign born wives, husbands and children of members of the American armed forces. The legislation would relax immigration laws for this purpose.

Hearing Set On Clothing Mixup

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—The Office of Price information decided today to get more information on men's clothing—or the lack of it.

A conference of the OPA wool industry advisory committee was called for Jan. 10 in Washington to examine the effect of maximum average price regulations on the production of woolen textiles. Members were asked to be prepared to discuss pertinent facts regarding past, present and future production of men's wear.

Following the announcement, Senator O'Mahomey (D-Wyo), chairman of the special Senate Wool committee, said he is "satisfied the inquiry into possible effects of the price regulations on production would be "carried out in the best of faith."

Materials Diverted

"Evidence which has been submitted indicates that the production of fabrics has been diverted from men's wear, so greatly needed by returning soldiers, to women's wear," O'Mahoney said in a statement.

"The shortage of clothing is apparently due not to low production rate, but to a high demand and I am confident that the OPA and the wool manufacturing industry can come to an agreement which will result in greatly increasing the production of mens fabric without injuring the production of womens fabric and without stimulating the manufacture of shoddy goods."

Theodore Dreiser, Noted Author, Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28 (AP) — Theodore Dreiser, 74, noted American author, died at his home tonight of a heart attack.

Friends of the family said Dreiser had been in "excellent health" until early today when the heart attack occurred.

He died at 8:45 p. m. (CST) tonight. His wife, Mrs. Helen Dreiser, was at his bedside.

Death of the famous writer came shortly after he had completed two novels, his first in more than 20 years.

One was "The Bulwark," due off the press in March. The other he named "The Stoic."

In recent years, however, he had done little writing. He and his wife established their home here about 10 years ago and since then had lived in semi-retirement.

Child Overcome By Gas, And Drowns

STRATFORD, Tex., Dec. 28. (AP)—Frances Fae Walker, 7, drowned in a bath tub at her home here last night, apparently after being overcome by gas.

A friend, Emma Gean Luther, 12, who was spending the night at the Walker home, was found unconscious beside the tub by Frances' parents. The fire was out in a gas stove in the room, but the gas was on.

Mass Arrests Follow Riots

JERUSALEM, Dec. 28. (AP)—Nearly 2,000 persons were rounded up for questioning today in the biggest mass arrest in Palestine's history after 10 persons were killed and 13 wounded last night by explosions in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

Trucks rumbled through Jerusalem's streets throughout the day bringing civilians to detention barracks. An official announcement said nearly 2,000 had been detained.

Arms, Explosives Seized

Police said a sizeable amount of arms, ammunition and explosives—including two land mines and 22 anti-personnel bombs—had been found and confiscated.

Last night's blasts wrecked the criminal investigation department building here, and incidents were reported in Jaffa as well.

British troops in full battle dress patrolled Jerusalem and Tel Aviv streets, emptied of civilians by strict curfews, while police authorities searched for persons responsible for the disturbances.

Arrest Males Under 60

Police combed the entire "Bezalel" section of Jerusalem—where assistant Superintendent of Police D. J. Flanagan was machingunned to death — arresting every male under 60 years of age. This included the entire guest list of the Eden hotel, second only in size to the King David.

The first hours of search jammed all jails and prisons, and many persons were sent to military camps for questioning.

The all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv was completely quiet tonight, with the curfew enforced and with British patrols armed with tommy-guns plodded the streets.

Wainwright Arrives For Visit In Texas

WHARTON, Tex., Dec. 28. (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright landed at the municipal airport this afternoon to visit for several days with R. R. Wells of Eagle Lake and go on a hunting trip.

OPA Raises Fuel Prices, And Rules On New-Car Spare Tire

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—A retail price increase of 10 cents a ton on coal, coke and other solid fuels was granted tonight by the OPA, in one of a series of actions on prices.

The fuel price hike, which covers such products as lignite and briquettes but does not apply to firewood, becomes effective Jan. 2 and lasts until April 30.

OPA said the boost, the first granted directly to retailers, was intended to compensate them for higher costs and to help assure adequate supplies of fuel during the winter season.

In other actions, OPA:

Ruled that although new cars will lack a spare tire, there's nothing to prevent a motorist from buying a fifth tire from a dealer. However, the agency urged the motorist who does not need an extra tire immediately to "let the fellow who must have one get his."

Rejected, for the second time, a request by wholesalers and commission men for a price markup on direct-mill lumber shipments. OPA said retailers had protested they would not be able to absorb the increase and if it were passed on to the consumer, construction costs would rise.

Granted price increases, effective Jan. 2, on brick and tile produced in 10 western states as a step toward expediting the flow of materials into home building.

Still other actions dealt with varied items ranging from pianos to domestc Swiss cheese.

Affections Of Former Model Said Cause Of Fight

War Hero Shot In "Love Triangle"

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—In a melee over the love of an attractive, 24-year-old former Powers model, Capt. Eugene Dale, 27, war hero and survivor of the Bataan Death March, was shot and wounded critically today by bullets from a souvenir German luger pistol.

Police held the model's estranged husband, Capt. Archie B. Miller, 25, veteran of the European war, without bail on a charge of felonious assault.

Miller's pretty blonde wife, Mrs. Fay Hancock Miller, told police she fell in love with Dale and planned a divorce while her husband was overseas.

Police said Miller admitted shooting his rival.

The shooting, described by assistant District Attorney Edward Murphy as "one of the usual triangle affairs," occurred in Mrs. Miller's West 58th street apartment and police gave the following account of it:

Mrs. Miller, Dale, Mrs. Miller's sister and her fiance were talking in the apartment when Miller broke in on them early this morning.

He fired six shots, three striking Dale in the head, chest and abdomen.

Mrs. Miller struggled with her husband and was struck with the butt of the gun.

Then, the fiance of Mrs. Miller's sister, Arthur Gromley of College Point, N. Y., a member of the Merchant Marine, subdued Miller, wresting the gun from him and inflicting slight head injuries.

Dale was taken to Roosevelt hospital in critical condition. He identified Miller as his assailant.

The Millers were married 25 months ago in Florida. After they lived together seven months, he was sent overseas.

Mrs. Miller told police she realized shortly after her marriage that it was a mistake, and said she had consulted a lawyer who was beginning divorce proceedings.

"My letters to Captain Miller while he was in the service told him of how I felt about our marriage," police quoted her as saying.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

By GEM BOB CALLEY
(Pinch-Hitting for Margaret Turner who is on Christmas Vacation)

(A Letter from men in Service)
Dec. 29, 1945

Dear—

YOU already know this, of course, but you WERE missed for Christmas in Lubbock. We so wished you could have been on hand for celebrations.

Even with your being absent again this year we enjoyed greater happiness and good cheer than we had since 1941, when you went away, because we knew you weren't in the thick of fighting—that sooner or later you would be home.

Suppose you are consumed with curiosity about what your friends did, who visited whom, and in general just what DID take place in Lubbock during the holidays. To answer your first question in mind—the majority of Christmas celebrations here were quiet, with most families observing the old-fashioned kind of yuletide.

Unofficially, Christmas began in Lubbock Saturday night when most of the downtown stores locked up for the holidays. If you had been on Broadway and Avenue J. Saturday afternoon, had seen the feverish excitement written on faces of last-minute shoppers, you would have been imbued with the oldtime Christmas spirit. You also would have found second use for your self defense equipment.

SUNDAY nearly every Lubbockite (who hadn't left town for vacation) and their holiday guests went to church. We hope you did too. All the churches offered special music, prayers and sermons and we thought of you knowing you would have enjoyed the beautiful solemnity.

With gas rationing lifted, several Lubbock families resumed customs of "going home" for Christmas and those who stayed here entertained men on leave, former resident (many of them separatees), and persons who had a yen to spend some time in Lubbock.

ONE of the many reunions held was at the Sim O'Neal home on the Levelland highway. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Womack and son, Jack, Jr., and Mrs. Winnie Holiness, all of Waco, were guests. O'Neal was recently discharged from the Army and plans making his home here. Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Canon entertained a number of out-of-town guests, including their son, Travis, a student at the University of California. Other reunions were held in the homes of the J. C. Hardgraves, J. B. Bechtols and Ethel Triplett.

Bayburn Jones, talented pianist and organist, has returned from Bethany, Okla., where he was a freshman at Bethany Peneil college, and plans enrolling at Tech for the spring semester. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbut Jones. Lt. and Mrs. A. V. Weaver, jr., and daughter, Ann, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr and Mrs. A. V. Weaver. Lt. Weaver is on terminal leave from the Navy. Mrs. Weaver and daughter have been living in Homer, La.

Lt. Happy Hendryx of San Antonio spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hendryx, and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Williams. His wife remained for an extended visit Mr. and Mrs. Cecil T. Overby have returned to live in Lubbock. He, a first lieutenant who served four years in the Air corps, plans to enroll at Tech where he will complete requirements for a DEGREE in civil engineering. Mrs. Overby is the former Miss Mary Peek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Peek.

CPL. BERTELL JOHNSON of Randolph field was in Lubbock over the holidays visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jackson of 2005 Broadway. His wife and daughter, Judy Lee of Dumas, joined him here. Charles W. Danford is home after two years service with a construction battalion in the U. S. Navy. He recently returned from Okinawa and received his discharge. Danford, son of Mrs. L. E. Johnson, and his wife will reside at 901 Thirty-third.

Lt. Chralew R. Harless, Jr., of March field, Calif., and Billy Wayne Harless, HA 2/c, of Camp Le June, N. C., spent the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harless. Sgt. Walton V. Hindman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H Hindman, arrived at Seattle from Okinawa this week, after serving in the Pacific theater since February Sgt. Hindman, who expects to be discharged at the El Paso Separation center, served in the Army Signal corps.

Plan To Bring Peace To Java Said Held

LONDON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Acting Governor-General Hubertus J. Van Mook of the Netherlands East Indies announced today that he had a plan to bring peace to Java, and declared "I feel sure the Indonesians will accept the offer."

Van Mook, speaking after a conference with British leaders, would not give details, but said full independence for Indonesia now would not solve the islands' problems.

The unrecognized Indonesian government of Premier Sutan Sjahrir had been insisting upon complete independence.

A British foreign office statement, issued after conferences by Van Mook and Dutch Premier William Schermerhorn with Prime Minister Clement Attlee, said the British and Dutch governments had agreed on "a policy of promoting an understanding between leaders of the national movement and the Netherlands authorities."

Earlier today in Batavia, Indonesian Premier Sutan Sjahrir announced his cabinet had agreed to cooperate with the British in restoring order, provided no more Dutch troops were brought in.

Legislative Action To Curb Petrillo's Powers Are Talked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Early congressional action on legislation designed to curb the powers of James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, was urged today by Chairman Lea (D-Cal) of the House Interstate committee.

The Californian said he will call his committee into closed door session immediately after Congress reconvenes Jan. 14, to vote on a bill titled "to prevent control of broadcasting by coercive practices."

This development followed closely a new demand by Petrillo that broadcasting of foreign musical programs in this country—except those originating in Canada—stop after Dec. 31. Petrillo also is demanding that local radio station employ more musicians.

'Full Security' On Atom Said Assured

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) received an official interpretation of the Moscow agreement today which makes clear, he said, that "full security" will surround each stage of dealing with the atomic energy problem.

He also reported assurance that all phases will be "finally subject to congressional approval."

Calls On President

The influential senator, member of the American delegation to the United Nations assembly meeting next month, issued his statement after calling upon President Truman with acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

"I am advised by the State department," he said, "that while the communique listed four separate objectives, with inspections and controls listed last, that it is not intended that these objectives should be taken in the order indicated, but that it is intended that the four shall be read together and that each should be accompanied by full security requirements—all being finally subject to congressional approval.

"This hopefully clarifies the situation. I shall present my own view to the American delegation in London."

Four Main Subjects

The communique of Secretary of State Byrnes, Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia and Foreign Minister Bevin of Britain had announced agreement for a United Nations commission to make specific proposals on four subjects. It listed them in this order:

1. International exchange of "basic scientific information for peaceful ends."

2. Atomic energy control "to ensure its use only for peaceful purposes."

3. International disarmament in regard to atomic and other "mass destruction" weapons.

4. "Effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means."

Work In Separate Stages

The communique specified that the United Nations commission "should proceed by separate stages" in its work.

"I heartily endorse the immediate creation of a United Nations commission to explore all phases of the problem of atomic energy," Vandenberg said. "The problem is inevitably international in scope. Under recent legislation the American member of the commission will be confirmed by the Senate.

"I would not be able to agree that the problem can be handled by separate and unrelated stages. I particularly share what I believe to be the general congressional opinion that any disclosures regarding the atomic bomb should be part of a complete plan for adequate world wide inspection and control."

Praises And Criticism

Other congressmen and some diplomats mixed praise and criticism of the Big Three agreements with demands for more information.

Three senators told reporters they were concerned lest the Big Three plan for control of Japan impair the authority of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Allied supreme commander in Tokyo.

Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala said in an interview he was "very, very disappointed" at the absence of any reference to Iran in the communique which announced a wide range of accords on other subjects by the three foreign ministers in Moscow.

A leading Democrat who would not be quoted by name said he and other members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee would appreciate some detailed information from Secretary of State Byrnes.

But President Truman, starting work on two major addresses in which he might have occasion to appraise the Moscow agreements, will have first call on the secretary.

Byrnes is due back tomorrow morning. Soon after his arrival, he is expected to head for the presidential yacht Williamsburg on which Mr. Truman will be cruising the Potomac river for five days.

Ben C. Limb, chairman of the Korean commission to the United States, assailed the plan for a four-power trusteeship for Korea, saying it did not mean liberty but "supervision, restriction and overlordship."

"This strange Moscow report, supposedly the agreement of Russian Communism, London labor and Washington democracy, is an evil brew," he said in a statement.

The commission represents the provisional government of Korea in the United States. The provisional government was formed in 1919 after the Korean revolution against the Japanese and has maintained its principal headquarters in China since that time.

Wilson Man Injured In Tahoka Collision

Elton James, 27, of Wilson was in Lubbock Memorial hospital last night in a critical condition from injuries suffered in a two-car collision about two miles east of Tahoka on the Post highway about 6 p. m.

He has seven crushed ribs and numerous lacerations, the hospital reported. His wife, who was in the car with him, suffered lacerations of the face.

Details of the accident had not been learned. Texas Highway patrol officers were investigating.

In another accident about 6:30 p. m. Friday four miles southwest of Wolfforth on the Lubbock-Brownfield highway, a Baldridge bakery panel truck, driven by Chester Anderson of Lubbock, and a pickup were in a collision which did considerable property damage, Sgt. E. L. Stroud of the highway patrol reported. Anderson said his lights went out and he hit the soft, recently-worked, highway shoulder, and in the ensuing weaving the collision occurred.

Both vehicles were coming toword Lubbock. Driver of the pickup, whose name was not learned, was thought to be injured slightly, according to Stroud, who said his investigation was incomplete.

the mine entrance than they had been expected.

Fish said conditions around that area were better than had been anticipated and that the surviving members of the group had been able to seal themselves off from poisonous fumes.

Rescue workers indicated tonight they might encounter the remaining miners within a matter of hours, or even less.

Two physicians, Dr. C. B. Stacy and Dr. Adam Stacy, both of Pineville, were admitted to the tunnel this afternoon to render medical attention to the rescued men.

Other physicians and several ambulances stood by to await the removal of others trapped inside the two and one-half mile long tunnel.

The nine men were found alive about 2 p. m., central standard time, more than 53 hours after an explosion wrecked the mine Wednesday morning and sealed in the 30 or more men.

The discovery was made a few minutes after volunteer firefighters had extinguished a seven-hour fire barring their path.

Doctors Are Called

Doctors, summoned to the scene from Pineville, Middleboro and other nearby towns, were taken into the mine entrance to provide first aid to the rescued men on their way out.

Arrangements were completed to send the rescued men to hospitals in Pineville and other towns, if necessary. Every available ambulance in Bell and adjoining Harlan county was called in for the emergency. Officials said "a whole string of ambulances" and doctors were on their way to the mine.

Discovery of the men still alive sent a wave of excitement through this Cumberland mountain area which exceeded anything that veteran miners ever saw before. Hope had been given up by most of observers yesterday that any of the trapped men would be found alive.

Scores of men, women and children, many of them relatives who had kept a vigil near the mine entrance since Wednesday, were outside the roped off area when a request from the tunnel was sent up at 2 p. m. for two doctors and an ambulance.

There was no indication then whether the medical aid was needed for the trapped miners or for members of rescue crews, many of whom had been working 24 hours or longer.

A few minutes later came word that the men had been found alive. Their names were not available immediately.

Birthday Fete For Woman Marred; She Must Quit Knitting

FLOYDADA, Dec. 28 (Special)—Saturday would be a nice birthday for Mrs. G. T. Assiter of this city except for one thing—she will give up her knitting, on doctor's orders.

Mrs. Assiter, like most women, would not like for it to get around, but she will be 71 years old today. She has been knitting most of her life but in the past few years she has enjoyed it more than ever. For she had the feeling of satisfaction that she was doing something for a very worthy cause.

A "soldier on the home front," she spent more than 3,000 hours in knitting for the Red Cross. Her nimble fingers produced 88 sweaters, 12 pairs of socks, six "helmets" and two scarfs. And, in addition, she knitted for her family and friends, making nine bedspreads and countless other items.

In recognition of her service, the Red Cross recently presented a service pin with six silver bars to Mrs. Assiter.

Knitting is not the only task that has kept her busy. She tends her chickens, does the cooking and canning and discharges many other household tasks.

She and Mr. Assiter, a retired farmer, have six children. L. V. Assiter is in New Orleans awaiting his discharge from the Navy as a lieutenant, j. g., and another son, S. H. Assiter, lives in Lubbock, at 3117 Twenty-first. The others live in Floydada.

Mrs. Assiter and her husband have been residents of Floyd county since 1907. They live at 528 West Missouri street.

sulting in the ouster of Mamoru Shigemitsu who was backed strongly by Konoye.

Matsudaira is the father-in-law of Prince Chichibu, eldest brother of the Emperor, and served as imperial household minister between 1936 and early 1945. Before that he was one of Japan's best known diplomats.

Chose Present Setup

Another important figure, these same sources say, is retired Adm. Keisuke Okada, 78, who as premier was the principal target of the 1936 uprising. He escaped by a ruse and lives in retirement. His influence increased toward the end of the war through the Emperor's confidence.

With Yoshida as "messenger boy," the clique decided upon Shidehara as the current premier after a series of exchanges of opinion with Makino.

Shidehara already has said his cabinet will decide on the next leader if it considers the results of the forthcoming election are not representative of the people's opinions.

The Shidehara cabinet evidently will remain as a stopgap government. It reflects the clique's "conservative liberalism" which is based upon portection of the Emperor system.

secretary arrives by plane from the Moscow foreign ministers meeting. Byrnes probably will go to nearby Quanico, Va., to see Mr. Truman aboard his yacht, the Williamsburg.

Those Going Along

Invited to accompany the President were Secretaries William D. Hassett, Matthew J. Connelly and Charles G. Ross; Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, special counsel; George E. Allen, unofficial adviser; and Dr. John R. Steelman, administrative assistant who deals especially with labor matters.

Reconversion Chief John W. Snyder was to go along, but bad weather delaped his departure from St. Louis and he is expected to join the party over the weekend. Military and Navy aides also were in the party.

Ross said the yacht would anchor at night and cruise leisurely in the daytime, going down the Potomac river as far as Chesapeake bay.

Houston Man Breaks $80,000 In Liquor As Favor To Buyers

HOUSTON, Dec. 28. (U.P.)—Impulsive Louis Boldreghini, liquor dealer who steps outside his store each Saturday to throw dimes away today calmly supervised the destruction of the last of $80,000 worth of rum, wines, and brandies.

"That's junk," he said, "I'm tired of shoving that stuff down the customer's throat."

No Trick To Plan

There was no catch to the destruction, he said, and state liquor control officers agreed. He will get no refund on liquor taxes nor will he be able to write it off as a loss on his income tax.

Boldreghini and the control representatives, who supervised the destruction, also agreed the value of the 2,500 cases would be around $80,000. "I paid $54 a case for some of that stuff," said Louis.

No Samples Given

Twelve hundred cases were destroyed yesterday. The junk yard was flooded by news reporters who wanted "just a sample to see if it is as bad as you say." Louis pointed at the state liquor control men and said he was sorry.

The negro crews, the liquor control men and Boldreghini were back on the job today seeking to break every bottle before dark.

"Whether the market loosens up or not, my customers get only good merchandise from now on in my five stores," said Louis as he eyed a negro banging away at a case of rum.

Gives Away Dimes

Boldreghini was famous in Houston before he started his liquor purge.

Each Saturday afternoon he gives away hundreds of dimes to neighborhood kids who flock around his store.

"Last Saturday it was a quarter apiece," he said, "on account of Christmas."

When he read last week that some one had stolen an accordian from a blind street musician he bought a $325 one as a Christmas gift for the blind man.

anxiety. The typical Japanese reaction seemed to be:

"Aren't things going all right now? What is the need for an occupation council?"

MacArthur Silent

General MacArthur made no immediate comment on the Moscow agreement, but observers here noted with interest that it left him "the sole executive authority" for the four-power council and specified that he would continue to issue orders.

Nevertheless some concern was expressed in American circles that the new council might mean radical changes in occupation policy, changes which might interrupt the smoothness which has characterized the occupation thus far. This smoothness, it was pointed out, has been dependent on Japanese cooperation with the occupation authorities.

Lewis Kerr Is Named President Of ABC

Lewis Kerr, owner of a tire agency and automobile storage company bearing his name, was elected president of the American Business club for 1946 in balloting for officers and board of governors in the club luncheon, Friday noon at the Hilton hotel.

Kerr succeeds Jimmie Wilson, retiring president, who automatically becomes chairman of the board of governors.

Other officers elected were Porter Garrett, first vice president; Bill Pittman, second vice president; W. D. McCarty, secretary-treasurer; and W. C. Bigham, sergeant-at-arms.

New Board Members

New members of the board of governors elected were Henry Buell, J. D. Jenkins, Harry Van Horn, A. B. Watkins, Hobart Nelson, and Wilson, chairman.

Plans were discussed, but no action taken, on holding annual presidential ball and to elect a pianist for weekly meetings.

Wilson expressed his appreciation for the club's cooperation during 1945 and his gratitude for having been able to serve as their president.

Luncheon guests were Leon Williams and Dick Hardin. Elwin Matthews and Bill Holmes were introduced as new members.

Texas Truck Growers Turn To Fancy Crops

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 (U.P.) — Texas truck growers are turning to the fancy crops, the 1945 annual truck crop summary of the U. S. Department of agriculture showed here today.

The department statistics noted that the most significant changes in the year were material increases in such crops as cantaloups, cucumbers and watermelons. Tomato plantings continued at the high war-time level but staple food crops such as beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, onions, peas, potatoes and spinach showed either a decline or merely held to last year's level.

Aggregate value of all commercial truck crops of the state was placed at $55,657,000 for the year, slightly greater than the 1944 valuation of $54,475,000 and 156 per cent higher than the 10-year average.

The 1945 growing conditions, with a few notable exceptions, were scored as fairly satisfactory. Plant diseases were more prevalent than usual. Frequent heavy rains delayed East Texas tomato plantings, reduced North Texas onion planting and caused some loss in spring potatoes.

Texas Young Demos Ask Special Session

AUSTIN, Dec. 28. (AP) — The Young Democratic clubs today asked Gov. Coke R. Stevenson to call a special session of the legislature to consider increased appropriations for public welfare, outright repeal of the poll tax statute, and a law to provide for registration of all veterans who will vote without paying the poll tax.

Bill B. Wills of Fort Worth, chairman of the Young Democrat legislative committee, said that the governor was non-committal on the subject. Stevenson has consistently opposed all suggestions for special sessions of the legislature.

The petition also asked the governor to call a special session and submit the question of financing full payments of $40 to old age pensioners, and "the appropriation of funds to care for cold and starving dependent children who have been cut off the pension lists because of a lack of money."

Plans Incomplete For Flowers Rites

Funeral arrangements had not been announced last night for Mrs. Della Flowers, 84, of route 4, Lubbock, who died at 11:25 a. m. Friday in Lubbock Memorial hospital, Bryan McDonald and Son funeral home reported. She had lived in the county about six months.

Survivors are four sons, H. W. Flowers of the Slide community, J. D. Flowers of Raymondville, C. D. Flowers of Quanah, Jesse Flowers of Crystal City; a daughter, Mrs. Naomi Yancey of Wichita Falls.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you can afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Record Crowd Expected For Waco-Highland Park Battle

DALLAS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Waco's Tigers, kings of Texas schoolboy football in the twenties, will attempt to mount the throne again here tomorrow against Highland Park's top-favored Scotties.

It's been a long pull from the glory days of four state championships. Only once since 1927—the Tigers' last title-year—has Waco managed to reach the finals. Then the surge met failure as Lubbock's Westerners upset them 20-14 in 1939.

Waco Out To Win

Tomorrow, when little Harry Stiteler brings his Bengals to battle Eck Curtis' unbeaten Highlanders, Waco will be accorded only the barest of chances of taking the twenty-sixth annual championship but you can't sell Stiteler on that. "We're coming up there to win," he snapped.

Anyway, it's a brilliant climax to a grand season and it is certain that the greatest paid crowd ever to see a high school football game in Texas will be at the Cotton Bowl at 2:30 p. m. It now looks like the bowl will be sold out, meaning around 42,000 for the tussle. The stadium takes care of 45,500 but due to new seating arrangements necessary upon transfer of the game from Ownby stadium at Southern Methodist to the Cotton Bowl, it will not be possible to handle capacity.

Coaches Met Before

The two coaches have been matching touchdowns for some time. Curtis was at Breckenridge until this season. His Buckaroos in three tests came through once, Stiteler's Wacoans twice. So tomorrow is the sugar game so far as the mentors are concerned.

Curtis predicted a hard old battle against Stiteler's smart, rhythmic eleven which boasts one of the best defensive records in the state. The teams met in early season at Dallas and Highland Park won 7-0 but not until the Scots had been outplayed for three quarters. That is the only defeat on Waco's record for the year.

Both teams are in good condition for the game and there are no alibis on either side. Perfect weather is in prospect.

Probable starting line-ups (kickoff 2:30 p. m.):

Waco	Pos.	Highland Park
Williams	LE	Wallace
Kazanas	LT	Maddox
White	LG	L. Smith
Gardner	C	Flowers
Simpson	RG	Wales
Murphy	RT	Tenison
Murray	RE	Pikes
R. Smith	QB	Westberford
Lindoff	LH	Bristol
Scarbrough	RH	Moxley
Brenner	FB	Elliott

Seven Year Lubbock Record Due To Fall

A new record for a schoolboy football classic in Texas appears to be assured this afternoon when the Highland Park Scotties and the Waco Tigers go at each other in Dallas' Cotton Bowl with the state schoolboy crown at stake.

The memory of Lubbock fans will go back seven years—the grid final of 1938—when they helped from the biggest crowd to see a championship high school game in Texas, when 22,600 paid to see Corpus Christi beat Lubbock 20 to 6 in the same Cotton Bowl.

It looks like one record that the Lubbock Westerners helped to write on the books of the Interscholastic League will be erased at last, with around 42,000 predicted for today's games.

There will likely be Lubbock fans helping to swell this crowd, but for those who can't get to Dallas, and the game, the play by play will be broadcast over Radio Station KFYO, starting at 2:15 o'clock, and kickoff at 2:30 o'clock.

Lower Valley Wins Citrus Bowl Victory

HARLINGEN, Tex., Dec. 28. (AP)—The Lower Valley edged the Upper Valley, 7-6 here tonight in the third annual Citrus Bowl game.

Manuel Corsi converted following ga touchdown late in the fourth quarter to give the Lower Valley eleven its first win in the series.

A penalty nullified the Upper Valley's conversion after their touchdown earlier in the game, and the second attempt for the extra point failed.

All-Americans Talk Before Big Battle

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., Dec. 28. (UP)—All-American Bob Fenimore of Oklahoma A. and M. and All-American Herman Wedemeyer from St. Mary's got together socially today and agreed that they're susceptible to pro football offers.

There was a million dollars worth of football talent in the spacious hotel room here as Fenimore and Wedemeyer knocked off from Sugar Bowl practice long enough to get together for the benefit of a photographer.

Girls First Subject

Then, after the cameraman finished his focus pocus, the two boys who'll clash in New Orleans New Year's day before 73,000 talked—they talked just like any other teen-aged kids.

"Say, I used to know a girl from Honolulu. Her name was Jane something or other," Fenimore said.

And the Honolulu-born Wedemeyer wracked his brain to see if he could recall a girl named Jane who went to Oklahoma A. and M.

Talk of Pro Play

The talk did get around to football, though. And the boys began talking about professional competition. Both said, however, that they had received no offers yet and wouldn't consider any while they're still in school.

"Heck," said Fenimore. "I think a back is a fool not to accept a pro offer for two years or so—if the pros pay all this money you hear about."

Wedemeyer nodded agreement.

"Say, Bob," Wedemeyer said. "We sure read a lot about you in the papers."

"Gee, I read about you, too," Fenimore answered.

They talked about school for a few moments, and Fenimore said that he was a junior.

"My God!" exclaimed Wedemeyer. "You mean you make All-American for two years, and you've still got another year to go."

Wedemeyer had to leave the room for a moment to answer the phone and while he was gone Fenimore turned and said, "Say, he's a swell guy. I like him."

Later, when the visit was over, both boys began stuttering goodbyes.

Finally, Fenimore said: "Say, 'Wedey,' could I have your autograph?"

"Sure," answered Wedemeyer. "I was about to ask you the same thing."

Dixie Howell Enters Bid At Mississippi

OXFORD, Miss., Dec. 28 (UP)—Millard (Dixie) Howell has joined Pete Cawthon and Leo (Dutch) Meyer in applying for the job of head football coach at the University of Mississippi, it was reported today. A selection will be made by Feb. 1.

Howell, Arizona State college coach before entering service, recently was honorably discharged. Cawthon, former Texas Tech and Brooklyn Dodger coach, now is a Detroit Lion scout, and Meyer coaches Texas Christian.

ANOTHER IS CONSIDERED

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 28 (UP)—The University of Mississippi today was tentatively considering Coach R. L. (Shorty) Doyal, football coach at Boys' High in Atlanta, for the head coaching position recently left vacant by the resignation of Harry Mehre.

Doyal, one of the nation's leading prep school football coaches, has confirmed the fact that he had been approached about the Mississippi post.

Scouts Discover All Notes On Wrong Club

EL PASO, Dec. 28 (AP)—The scouts for the Denver and New Mexico Sun Bowl teams are mutually embarrassed.

It's this way: Each club scouted the other in regular season games—but, little dreaming of bowl bids, both concentrated on the other's opponent.

"Sure, we saw Denver play Utah," admit New Mexico Coaches Willis Barnes and George Petrol. "But the only plays we charted were Utah's."

Ruefully, Denver Coach Clyde Hubbard tells the same story.

Harvard has approximately 67,000 living alumni.

Davis Beats Own Offensive Mark

DALLAS, Dec. 28. (AP)—Army Glenn Davis set an all-time ball-carrying record in the 1945 college football campaign but it was a gnat's eyelash.

Mighty Glenn, whose 11.50 yards per carry on 58 runs in 1944 was the greatest in grid history, took the ball on 82 trips this year and averaged 11.51 as he netted 944 yards.

Was Far Ahead

Davis was far ahead of the field in this department, figures released today by Director Homer F. Cooke, Jr., of the National Collegiate Athletic bureau showed. Only three other rushers averaged better than seven yards per try while gaining at least 700 yards. They were Lowell Tew, Alabama, 8.13; Bob Fenimore, Oklahoma A. and M., 7.38, and Felix Blanchard, Army, 7.11.

"Workhorse" of the 1945 campaign was Allen Dekderrun of Cornell. Dekdebrun figured in 282 rushing and passing plays and he gained 1254 yards doing it. Most of his yardage, however, was in passing—a department he led the nation with plenty to spare.

Dekdebrun in nine games tried 194 throws and completed 90 for 1227 yards. But the most effective tosser was Alabama's Harry Gilmer, who average .648 per cent on completions—an all-time high which erased the .637 by Jimmy Richardson of Marquette in 1941. Gilmer completed 57 out of 88 passes.

Fenimore Tops Offense

Fenimore led the nation in total offense with 1641 yards rushing and passing and Fenimore also was the top rusher with 1048 yards, while Reid Moseley of Georgia paced the pass-receivers for the second year in a row with 662 yards on 31 catches. In punting, it was Howard Maley of Southern Methodist who averaged 41.71 on 59 boots. Only punters kicking 20 times or more are considered in figuring the leaders. Maley was 69 points ahead of Harry Ghaul of Miami who averaged 41.02 on 63 punts.

The best one-game mark of the year in passing was by Charley Trippi of Georgia — 321 yards against Georgia Tech. Also Trippi's 382 rushing-passing yardage was No. 1 for the season.

Southwest Leaders

Southwest Conference players among the ten leaders in each department for 1945:

Total offense (combined rushing passing) — Joslin, Texas Christian 1016, was eighth.

Rushing — Schlinkman, Texas Tech, 871, (non-conference) was fourth.

Forward passing (ranked on number of completions)—Joslin, Texas Christian, 59 of 142 was second; price, Baylor, 59 of 125 was fourth.

Pass - receiving (ranked on number caught) — Wilson, Southern Methodist 31 was second; Bechtol, Texas, 25 was fourth; Joiner, Baylor 21 was seventh; Mason, Texas Christian, 19, was tenth.

Punting (20 or more punts)—Maley, Southern Methodist, 41.71 on 59 punts was first; Plyler, Texas, 38.71 on 45 was ninth.

Simpson Sings Blues Over Missouri Club

DALLAS, Dec. 28. (AP)—Chauncey Simpson, coach of Missouri's Cotton Bowl Tigers, buried himself in a bunch of Turkish towels after his team's practice tonight and moaned fear of the Texas Longhorns.

"Just when everything starts looking pretty good we have to come up with a practice that one can smell all the way to Columbia, Mo.," Simpson complained.

"If we don't do any better on New Year's day than we did in defensive scrimmage today, Texas will score every time its gets the ball," he declared.

Adding to his woes, Simpson said, is a "new outbreak of injuries."

James (Jim) Kekeris, 299-pound second string All-America tackle and point-after-touchdown expert, "slightly sprained angle."

Doyle McDaniel, 210-pound reserve tackle, "pulled ankle tendon."

Ronnie Mills, reserve halfback, "bum ankle."

Texas Aggies Lose Another Close One

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 28. (AP)—The Texas Aggies met their second one-point defeat of as many nights here at the hands of the Kelly Field Flyers tonight, 33-32, despite Jamie Awson's last-minute field goal that pulled the Aggies to within a single point of the Flyers.

Oklahoma Aggies Are All-College Winners

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 28. (AP)—The Oklahoma Aggies rolled easily over Baylor university 65 to 46 tonight to win the championship of the All-College basketball tournament for the second straight year.

Bob Kurland, seven-foot center who led the Aggies to their fifth championship in the 10-year history of the meet, was crowned most valuable player of the tournament at a ceremony following the game. The honor was given Kurland for the second consecutive year.

The towering redhead scored 22 points against Baylor to bring his total to 67 for the three games. The Aggies had beaten Texas and Kansas in the tournament.

Kurland hit a field goal in the opening second of the Baylor contest and the Cowboys were never headed. Kurland and Tiny Weldon Kern pushed the Cowboys to a 33-21 lead at halftime. Kern hit 20 points in the game.

Baylor broke through the touted Cowboy defense repeatedly but the Bears were unable to match A. & M.'s scoring punch. Jack Robinson hit 12 points to lead Baylor scoring. Bill Hailey hit four field goals and three free throws for 11 points.

A taller and sharper University of Kansas basketball team led by Charlie Black defeated the University of Oklahoma 53 to 46 to take third place in the tournament.

After the first minute of play Kansas was never behind and only was threatened once. Early in the second half O. U. pulled up within three points 25-22 but was soon outdistanced.

Score at halftime was 23-17.

Pepperdine college won the consolation title defeating Rice Institute 48-35.

Pepperdine held the upper hand during the entire game and was ahead 31-19 at halftime.

Aldon Hendrix paced the scoring with 17 points for Pepperdine while Bill Tom topped Rice with 15.

Texas University edged Texas Christian 43-41 for seventh place in the eight-team field in the opening game of this afternoon's doubleheader.

Fans Buy Automobile For Wildcat Coach

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 28. (Special)—Littlefield High school football fans showed their appreciation of J. S. Fikes, Wildcat football coach, by presenting him with a purchase certificate for a new car. Fikes' Littlefield team recently won the regional championship, the first time in the school's history.

The presentation was made at a banquet given by the pep squad, high school band and teachers.

Fikes will go to Dallas Wednesday where he will receive a new car right off the assembly line.

Supt. Fred Miller and Leo Duffy, assistant coach, were each presented with $75 certificates for purchase of new suits.

Zeke Bonura Named Minneapolis Pilot

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Zeke Bonura, veteran major leaguer, today was named manager of the Minneapolis American Association baseball club for the 1946 season.

Bonura will succeed Wilfrid (Rosy) Ryan who was named business manager, replacing Parke Carroll. Carroll resigned recently to join the New York Yankee organization.

Ex-Longhorn Player Dies In Wisconsin

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—William Dumke, 26, former University of Texas baseball player and Army air transport pilot, died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home in New Holstein, Wisc., relatives were notified today.

He was a son-in-law of William J. (Uncle Billy) Disch, who for many years coached Longhorn baseball teams.

BIG LEAGUERS WIN

KWAJALEIN, Marshall Islands, Dec. 28 (AP)—The National League All-Stars, touring the Pacific, defeated a Kwajalein service men's team 4 to 2 yesterday before a crowd of 4,000.

South Favored Over North Eleven Today

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 28 (AP)—A powerful, tricky team of Southern All-Stars ruled a seven-point favortie tonight to outscore their Yankee rivals in tomorrow's eighth annual Blue-Gray gridiron classic.

Four times in the six previous intersectional contests in Montgomery's Cramton Bowl the Southerners have come out on top, and the boys with the money think they'll do it again.

Although opposing teams from above and below the Mason-Dixon line have met only six times before, a wartime high school game in 1943 was billed as a Blue-Gray affair, making this the eighth in the series.

Depite their underdog role, Blue Coaches Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern and Ray Morrison of Temple are determined to score their first victory since the 1940 encounter, when the North won 14-12.

Hampered by a paucity of experienced players, the Blues are depending greatly on passing, and boast a dangerous aerial combination in Bob Kennedy and Nick Scollard. Kennedy, the former Washington State back who played later with the Third Air Force, has shown consistent accuracy in flipping long tosses to Scollard, an end from St. Joseph's.

Coaches Bernie Moore of Louisiana State, Matty Bell of Southern Methodist and Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech can depend on a quartet of passers to match a Northern overhead assault in Virginia's Charlie Ellis, Y. A. Tittle of LSU, John (Red) Burns of Vanderbilt and Perry Moss of Tulsa.

Both teams will use the "T" formation.

The weather man predicted an end to the rain of the past two days, and a capacity crowd of 22,500 was in prospect.

Dallas Plans Better Cotton Bowl Stadium

DALLAS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Mayor J. Woodall Rodgers said today he would call a conference within 30 days of members of the Park Board, State Fair Association and Chamber of Commerce to discuss plans for construction of a new Cotton Bowl stadium large enough to meet increasing demands for tickets for football games played there.

The mayor declared he believed the city would be in a position within the next three to five years to construct a stadium taking care of 75,000 persons and so built that seating capacity could be increased to 100,000 when the demand made it necessary.

The Cotton Bowl stadium has been sold out for some time for the New Year's day clash between Texas and Missouri and may be sold out for tomorrow's Waco-Highland Park state championship schoolboy football game.

EAST EASES UP

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Fearing staleness on the part of Eastern players after two long workouts yesterday, Coach Andy Kerr, Bernie Bierman and Beattie Feathers eased up today in preparation for the East-West charity football game at Kezap Stadium, New Year's day.

Texas Welcome Greets Georgia

HOUSTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Met by a rooting, tooting, two-gun "Texan" from deep in the heart of Georgia, the Georgia Bulldogs arrived here today to be greeted by a big surprise.

He was Jimmy Jones, publicity director of the Bulldogs, who has been here beating the drums for Georgia.

Jones, all dressed up in Texas "ranger" regalia, big hat, boots, two guns on hips, was sighted by the Georgia team as they pulled into the union station here and a mighty cheer from the Georgians went up.

Mayor Otis Massey was at the train to greet Coach Butts and his men. The Georgians were loaded on a big fire truck and preceded by a motorcycle escort were taken through downtown Houston to their hotel.

The cautious Wally Butts pointed out the light weight of his Bulldogs so thoroughly that it was feared the gridsters would have to be anchored on the truck.

But none of them blew away and they were stout enough to stage a spirited workout this afternoon at Bowl stadium, Rice Field.

Charley Trippi, the wonder man of the Bulldogs, was the center of attraction. He was accompanied by Mrs. Trippi.

The Tulsa Hurricanes went through a long workout at the high school stadium under the guidance of Coach Henry Frnka.

Both offense and defense were stressed.

With Reid, the fullback, garnered by the draft, Georgia is undecided as to its starting fullback. It will probably be Joe Chesna, 195 pound freshman from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., or Jimmy Gordon, 165 pound sophomore from Atlanta.

With tickets selling briskly, Oil Bowl officials anticipated a crowd of some 25,000 will witness the contest.

The teams were guests of alumni parties of their respective schools tonight. Tomorrow night the squads, coaches and visiting newspapermen will be guests at the Oil Bowl gridiron party where awards will be presented.

Atom Bowl Carded In Nagasaki New Year's

NAGASAKI, Dec. 28 (AP)—And now it's the "Atom Bowl."

On a gridiron cleared of the scorched rubble from the atomic bomb, the world's first "Atom Bowl" football game New Year's day will match two American service teams.

Marine Lt. Angelo Bertelli of Notre Dame fame and Navy Lt. Bill Osmanski, former Holy Cross and Chicago Bears star, will captain the two elevens from the Second Rine division which is on occupation duty n the Kyushu Island city.

Texas Has A Birthday

Greatest State Is 100 Today!

UNCLE SAM'S giant son has reached the century mark.

On Dec. 29, 1845—100 years ago today—Texas entered the family of commonwealths that make up the United States of America. It was the 28th state to join the union, and the fourth wholly or partially west of the Mississippi river. Texas became the ranking state in area and at that time represented almost one-fifth of the territory covered by the entire sisterhood of States. It has kept its rating as the largest of the states throughout the century, and even today covers more than one-eleventh of the area of the 48 states.

When Texas joined the union it smashed more records than one for size. It is the only one-time full-fledged nation that has thrown in its lot with Uncle Sam. For nearly ten years, it existed as an independent republic, a world state with all the usual trappings of sovereignty: a Constitution, a Flag, a President and a Congress, an Army and Navy, its own money and an exchange of diplomatic representatives with other sovereign states.

When Texas began its statehood its population was only 125,000, less than all but four of its little-sister commonwealths. Today it has more than 6,500,000 inhabitants and ranks fifth in population among the states. The wealth of the state 100 years ago was probably less than $100,000,000— now the figure is near the $12,000,000,000-mark.

Rich, tilled soil, orchards, vast herds of cattle, sheep and goats and other livestock; developed forests, dams and power plants, mines, oil and sulphur wells, even the extraction of valuable minerals from sea water, a growing population with a pioneering, venturesome spirit which made for progress—have produced the difference.

The British Are Smart!

THE Lubbockites who last Wednesday struggled mightily back to their bonds with commerce—their bilious bodies protesting every step and their limping heads still ringing with radio's eternal dream of a white Christmas and sharp, childish cries over the miraculous avalanche of bright, shiny playthings—probably are ripe for adopting in the United States the post-Christmas holiday which is observed in England and all the British dominions except Canada.

The English call it Boxing day, not for pugilists, but because it has to do with boxes. It is a day devoted to giving away or destroying gift boxes and cleaning up the tinsel, the colored paper and other Christmas trash—and, unofficially, to afford those who lingered long around the wassail bowl a day in which to get their bearings back.

A very practical idea. The first day on the job after Christmas is a useless one, anyway. The transition from Yule gayety to the somber workaday world is too joltingly sudden. The human frame is tested to stand the impact. It is a day of shadow boxing, of wasted motions, of distaste for the task at hand. It is a day.

Yes, old topper, our British cousins are brewing their tea right on the front burner when it comes to observing Boxing day!

Mr. Thomas' Boner

THIS is to place in nomination the words of R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile workers, for the most unbelievable and asinine statement of 1946.

Mr. Thomas got into the running a few days ago when he formally requested the British government to intervene in UAW's prolonged strike against General Motors company.

In the first place, intelligent nations don't go around nosing into purely internal affairs of other nations, especially if they are big and powerful as the U. S. It comes under the heading of diplomatic bad manners and utter folly. In the second—and most important—place, the British government is now engaged in an ardent courtship with the U. S. for a nice, fat loan. Imagine the threadbare British gambling their chance at this kale to act in behalf of the United Automobile workers, whom they probably don't give a darn about, anyway.

Mr. Thomas apparently acted in all sincerity, yet it is hard to believe that he was not trying to kid somebody. At any rate, he was talking crazy.

"Nothing looks better on a girl than a modern swim suit," says a manufacturer of swim suits. Say, mister, you may be sowing the seeds of an idea that will put you out of business.

There's a fascinating bit of left-handed logic in this statement some one recently overheard: "The reason I favor myself so much is that my parents are first cousins."

One-Minute Sermon

In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness. Bow down thine ear to me; deliver me speedily: be thou my strong rock, for an house of defense to save me. Psalm 31: 1, 2.

Marshall's Report On The War

By Gen. George C. Marshall
Wartime Chief Of Staff

(This is the 35th of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II).

PHILIPPINE CONQUEST

GENERAL MacARTHUR had developed a strong portion of his assault force on his left or eastern flank to provide protection for the beachhead against the strong Japanese forces to the north and east.

MARSHALL

In appreciation of the enemy's predicament the Sixth Army immediately launched it advance toward Manila across the bend of the Agno which presumably should have been a strongly held Japanese defense line.

The troops met little resistance until they approached Clark Field. The I Corps, commanded by Maj. Gen. Innis P. Swift, had heavy fighting on the east flank where the Japanese were strongly entrenched in hill positions. For the time being they were to be held there to keep the supply line for the advance on Manila secure.

On 29 January troops of General Hall's XI Corps under strategic direction of the Eighth Army landed on the west coast of Luzon near Subic Bay, meeting light opposition. They drove eastward to cut off the Bataan peninsula where General MacArthur had made his stand three years before, denying the Japanese the use of Manila harbor for months.

The 11th Airborne Division on 31 January made an unopposed amphibious landing at Nasugbu in Batangas Province south of Manila. Three days later the division's parachute regiment jumped to Takaytaq ridge dominating the Cavite area. That night troops of the 1st Cavalry Division raced through Novaliches and reached Grace Park in the northeastern portion of the city of Manila. On 6 February the airborne troops reached Nichols Field. As the troops of the Sixth Army closed on Manila from the north, northwest, and south, the situation of Japanese forces in the city was rendered hopeless but they fought bitterly from house to house. Organized resistance ceased on 23 February when the American infantry penetrated the old walled city.

Preceded by heavy air and naval bombardment, elements of the 38th Division landed on 15 February at Mariveles on the tip of Bataan. Resistance was light and our soldiers repidly advanced along the perimeter road west of Manila Bay. While the battle for the city still raged, MacArthur moved to open Manila Bay and begin preparation of the Philippings as a major base for the next United States advances in the far Pacific.

Corregidor Retaken

Corregidor had gone under Allied bombardment on 23 January, and in less than a month Kenney's airmen dropped 3,128 tons of bombs on the two and three-fourths square-mile island that controls Manila Bay.

On the morning of 16 February, two long trains of Army C-47 transports approached the "Rock," close to the 500-foot sheer cliffs. A sudden 18-mile-an-hour wind swept the air clear of the smoke and dust of the naval and air bombardment that had ceased a few minutes earlier. Then the troop carriers began to sow the sky. 'Chutes spilled out white and troops of the veteran 503d Parachute Regiments drifted downward toward the lighthouse and golf course on the little island, against scattered small arms fire from the Japs on the ground. Simultaneously, troops of the 34th Infantry Regiment hit the shore in assault boats at San Jose South Dock. They ran into a heavy mine field covering the entire length of the beach, but little fire from Japs on the island.

Fighting in the tunnels built by Americans in an attempt to make Corregidor impregnable prior to World War II, the Japs continued their suicidal resistance for nearly two weeks. Toward the end there was a series of terrific explosions on the islands as the Japs destroyed the tunnel system and themselves with it. Americans sealed up remaining caves and an estimated 300 Japs. A total of 4,215 Japs were killed on the island, an unknown number blown up. Of the 3,038 Americans who took back Corregidor, 136 were killed, 8 were missing, and 531 wounded.

Manila Bay was open in early March. In less than two months General MacArthur accomplished what the Japanese had needed six to do after Pearl Harbor.

In late February, elements of the Eighth Army's 41st Division effected an unopposed landing at Puerto Prinesa, Palawan Island. The force captured the town with its two airstrips and completely occupied Puerto Princesa Peninsula. The airfields gave control of a wide area of the China Sea greatly facilitating the severance of Japanese communication with Malaysia and Burma.

Fighting Continues In Hills

On 10 March other 41st Division troops landed on the western tip of Mindanao, second largest island in the Philippine group. Initial resistance was light and the city of Zamboanga fell the following day, but heavy fighting followed in the foothills and continued for weeks.

Landings were made during March on Panay, Cebu, and Negros. Reconnaissance parties went ashore on Jolo, Tawitawi, and other islands in the Sulu Archipalego, extending our holdings to within 40 miles of Borneo. In each case the landings were effected most skillfully with a minimum of resistance but stubborn and prolonged fighting usually followed in the hills.

Driving north from the central point of Luzon, the Sixth Army Division met a fanatical enemy in the mountain ranges between Baguio and Balete Pass. East of Manila, infantry fought for long weeks across successive, bitterly-contested mountain ridges. Other elements cleared the area south of Laguna de Bay and advanced along the highway toward the Bicol Peninsula. On 1 April, a reinforced combat team landed at Legaspi in southeast Luzon. With the help of guerrillas, this force cleared the southeastern tip of the island then moved northward toward our other troops advancing from Luzon.

In mid-April, with the campaign in the Visayas drawing to a close, General Eichelberger sent the X Corps of his Eighth Army ashore on Central Mindanao north of Cotabato. By this time our troops were well established in the Zamboanga area and guerrilla forces were in possession of large areas in Northern Mindanao Driving eastward to Davao Gulf, infantry of the 24th Division, X Corps, took Davao City on 4 May after house-to-house fighting. A column of the 31st Division drove north up the valley of the Pulangi River to Kibawe. Meanwhile, on Luzon, the important city of Baguio had fallen to the 33d and 37th Divisions.

Turkey To Maintain Independent Policy

ANKARA, Dec. 27. (AP)—(Delayed) — Premier Sukru Saracoglu told the National assembly tonight Turkey would pursue her policy of international independence unswervingly.

His declaration followed by several days the unofficial Russian proposal that Turkey cede 12,500 square mile of Black sea territory to the Russians.

FIRE DAMAGE HEAVY

GALVESTON, Dec. 28 (AP) — Fire destroyed a 900-foot grain conveyor and 600 feet of wharf pier at the Sunset elevator here early this morning. Cause of the fire is undetermined. The blaze threatened the elevator with 1,000,000 bushels of grain, and the American Steamship Spreckles, loaded with wheat.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

PLEASE don't consider me immodest, your parties of the first part and you parties of the second part, in all these labor disputes that are now putrefying the American air, but I do wish you would answer this question:

"Who do you think you are?"

To hear you talk one would think that you—both of you consider yourselves masters of this world, that you have a perputual claim on life, that you really own something.

BRANDEIS

Why don't you get on to yourselves, both of you?

Why don't you realize that every moment you are on this earth is a gift from a higher power than you; that every breath you breathe is merely a loan which you can never repay; that every day you live is just a day of grace?

What right have you, either of you, to arrogate to yourselves such power when God can dispose of you, and everything that is yours, within the fraction of a second?

One little earthquake, and all your proud boasts of rights and priviledges are dust.

One little heart attack and all that is left of you is dust.

Here it is the Christmas season and you prate of love and good-will, you tie gay little packages with gay little ribbons; you hang the star of Christ on top of your Christmas tree and you sing of "Peace on Earth to Men of Good-Will."

Yet in your hearts there is hatred for each other and each of you sees in his fellow man an enemy to be conquered and brought to your will.

Think of the mighty of yesterday, the men who lived in palaces and who owned yachts and diamonds and furs.

Where are they? Go to your cemeteries and you will see.

WHY can't you forget your pretentions and sit down together as human beings, as fellow travelers on that short journey you are all making together?

Why can't you consider your grievances in the spirit of justice and fair play and in the realization that you are all workers together in a temporary abode from which you can make nothing with you and to which you can leave nothing more valuable than the memory of the good deeds you have done?

I do not know who is right and who is wrong. I think you are both right in some things and wrong in others.

But, for the sake of all of us, forget that you are employers or employees, capitalists or paupers, and remember that you are fellow humans—each one of you entitled to the best that ability, character and God's blessings have in store for you.

Remember that God holds from each of you a demand note which He may call in for payment at any moment.

Remember also that the only interest He asks from you is that you do unto others as you want them to do unto you.

New Plan For Congress

Two Solons Seek Streamlining

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

TWO OF OUR younger and better statesmen—Sen. "Bob" La Follette of Wisconsin and "Mike" Monroney ofa Oklahoma — will soon present their House-Senate committee's plan for gearing the United States Congress into a legislative machin for the atomic rather than the horse-and-buggy age.

Their more conservative and horse-bound colleagues may no approve all their recommendations but acceptance of only half of the proposed changes will constitute a great improvement.

TUCKER

The need for a more business-like procedure and organization has never been more compelling, if public affairs are to be handled properly and expeditiously, and if the persistent aggrandizement of the Executive as against the Legislative power of the government is to be halted.

With the war's end, it appears that the time has come to decide whether the U. S. is to remain a Bureaucracy, the two legislative engineers believe.

The La Follette-Monroney arguments for immediate reform impress their more thoughtful colleagues as irresistible, to wit:

COST: When Mr. La Follette entered the Upper Chamber exactly twenty years ago as its "baby members," the annual cost of operating the government was approximately four billion dollars. In Woodrow Wilson's day it ran only little more than a billion.

In the distinguished Princetonian's era, Uncle Sam merely carried the mail, conducted wars, few and far between, enforced tariff laws, dabbled in the building of scattered arsenals and Navy yards, collected a few dollars in taxes from a few people. The Congress rarely sat for more than six months in a year.

In future and fairly normal years the annual budget will top twenty-five or thirty billion.

Uncle Sam now feeds the hungry, finances and electrifies the farmers, houses the homeless, builds culverts as well as highways and power empires, operates industrial plants and airports, supports the aged, the infirm and the unemployed, maintains the largest Army, Navy and Air Forces in the world.

Tomorrow he will need more funds for controlling the atom and shouldering its financial burden as a major member of the United Nations Organization.

MADHOUSE: This evolution and expansion of the federal establishment has resulted from four definite and demanding developments, namely: World War I, the 1929 depression, the New Deal and World War II. The apparent decision of the Congress and the American people to play a more active and aggressive role on the international stage may mark the fifth cycle of growth.

New trends and tempers have changed the capital, both the living city and the government, so that older inhabitants and politicos no longer recognize it.

Washington had a population of 419,000 twenty years ago. Now the figure for the so-called metropolitan area is more than 1,000,000 and growing. It is a madhouse run by its inmates.

All the Executive offices and buildings occupied a physical area not much larger than the Yankee Stadium in 1925. Today they sprawl for many miles throughout the capital and the surrounding countryside (Maryland and Virginia), and require annexes and branches in almost every hamlet and metropolis throughout the U. S. A.

POKER: Meanwhile — and this is the important point of the La Follette-Monroney thesis — there has been only one physical addition to the Congressional plant symptomatic of the neglect into which this supposedly coequal arm of authority has fallen. A new House Office building occupying only about a quarter of an ordinary city block was erected about ten years ago.

This physical and geographical unbalance, in the belief of Messrs. La Folette and Monroney, extends into every federal field. The bureaucrats of latter days have been playing stud poker with deuces, fours and eights wild, while the Congress has been contenting itself with an old-fashioned, comfortable game of draw. And the American people, in their opinion, are the victims!

COMMITTEES: The La Follette-Monroney recommendations for bringing Congress up-to-date and matching its machinery and power with the Executive's are short and snappy:

They believe that there are too many committees in House and Senate. They think the forty-eight standing units in the Lower Chamber could be reduced to fifteen or twenty, and the Senate's total of thirty-three to ten. They would cut down the number of committees but increase the membership on each so they could consider such far-ranging subjects as National Defense, Interstate and Foreign Commerce, Agriculture, Taxes and Appropriations, Veterans, Laws and Courts, Foreign Policy etc.

No man, according to their findings, can discharge his duties well if he is a member of four major committees, as is Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

ANNEX: They would provide Congress with an expanded and more efficient annex of legislative and economic experts. These advisers would prepare material so that Congressmen could meet private lobbyists and Executive agents on equal terms in enacting legislation and following up its execution by the bureaucrats. The organization would function as sort of legislative FBI.

Congress now acts as a Board of Aldermen for the District of Columbia, with its myriad bread-and-butter problems. The reorganizers advocate complete home rule for Washington. They also think that private bills, which now consume many days of a session, should be turned over to an administrative agency for final disposition.

A Legislative-Executive council is also favored. This agency would consist of key Congressional leaders and Cabinet members. It is believed that periodical meetings would help to relieve friction between the White House and Capitol Hill. The President's top aides would also be forced to appear before Congress at stated times for interrogation on their policies and practices.

"NATIONALISTS": The Ship of State's rough voyage through international waters since V-J Day have tempted several erstwhile mutinous members of the crew to try to climb aboard again in the 1946 congressional contests. This time, however, they will campaign as "nationalists" rather than "internationalists."

The comeback trio, according to reports in political circles at the capital, will consist of former Sen. Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, former Rep. Hamilton Fish of the Twenty-sixth New York district, and Stephen Day, former congressman-at-Large from Illinois. All three were defeated in primaries or elections in 1944 because their views on foreign affairs ran counter to the war sentiment.

The three have informed friends that they think they may have a good chance. They think that many Americans have been disillusioned by the Pearl Harob revelations, by evidences of an early Roosevelt-Church agreement that the U. S. would eventually enter the conflict, by Russia's behavior, by London's rowdy recation to our $4,400,000,000 loan and by unfortunate events in China.

FISH: Fish has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor of New York against Tom Dewey. He could not get the nomination from the state convention because the politicos in New York and throughout the country would fear the interpretation that might be put on their acceptance of such an ultra-internationalist. Both he and they would be vulnerable.

"Ham" might like to oppose Dewey because the latter disowned him and his foreign affairs attitude in 1944, and the governor was partially responsible for the ex-congressman's defeat at the po[ll]s.

Mercy For Objectors Again In Spotlight

New Attitude Needed On Wars

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — History does keep repeating itself.

Two young men walked up and down in front of the White House fence in the rain, sleet and slush. They wore placards reading "Free U. S. Political Prisoners" and "Amnesty for War Objectors." The pickets, Nathan Horwitz of Vermont and Charles Wellman of New York, passed out pamphlets urging President Truman to pardon those still in jail for opposing the war.

STOKES

It was 23 years ago now that the angular and militant Kate Richards O'Hare led her "children's crusade" through the White House gates. They were children of political prisoners of World War I. Mrs. O'Hare was campaigning for a pardon for their fathers. She and her charges were stopped outside the executive offices by the police. She asked an interview with President Harding. He sent word out that he could not receive her, but advised her to see Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

So the tall woman shepherded her flock out of the White House grounds and across Lafayette park to the Justice department. Some of us newspaper reporters followed along and were admitted to the Attorney General's office while she stated her case. Mr. Daugherty listened amiably, but promised nothing.

When you called the Justice department then on the telephone, and when you call it now, the operator answers:

"Justice."

Harding Lambasted

There was on that occasion, too, the front page of the Washington Daily News, a Scripps - Howard newspaper. Over a picture of President Harding, benign of expression, standing behind a reading stand as if in a pulpit, was the caption:

"Suffer little children to come unto me."

Lowell Mellett, then editor of the newspaper, had an appropriately biting editorial under the picture.

President Harding had slipped. And it was in a way not characteristic. For he did pardon Eugene C. Debs on his first Christmas in the White House. There's an interesting story about that. It goes back to a young reporter who had written the account of a speech by Mr. Debs which had been used as evidence in the trial when the labor leader was convicted for violation of the espionage act.

The reporter worried about this. He felt a sort of personal responsibility, though he was but doing his job. He went to see Secretary of War Newton D. Baker to plead for Mr. Debs. He got nowhere. During the 1920 presidential campaign Mr. Harding came to the Ohio town where the reporter then lived. The reporter went to see the candidate at his hotel. He found Mr. Harding alone and told his story. The Republican candidate, who listened symphetically, promised that, if elected, he would pardon Mr. Debs at his first opportunity.

He did. A human, big-hearted man, he saw the injustice where some of the idealists of the Wilson administration persisted in righteous rectitude.

Stand Up For Beliefs

And now—back to the two young men in front of the White House. Horwitz, who is 27, was in jail for a time himself as a conscientious objector. He refused to appear for his induction. He has told a reporter he was following the teaching of Jesus in refusing to fight.

"There are thousands in prison now because they believe the teachings of Jesus," he said.

Jesus—yes there was a man by that name.

IT is hard, especially in a war atmosphere, to have sympathy with those who disagree with the common opinion, those who refuse to fight when so many other young men are fighting and dying. It is hard to be tolerant, even though we know, when they are honest, it takes real courage to be different.

But, under the awful shadow of the atomic bomb, it seems that it is going to take some resistance in all of us to the use of war to settle our differences, the courage to cast aside old conceptions of national honor and national pride and the fear of being afraid not to fight.

And a little mercy for those who disagree.

Foreign Markets For U. S. Cotton Sought

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Congressional help in finding foreign markets for American short staple cotton will be asked by Rep. Wickersham (D-Okla) when the House reconvenes in January.

"Ninety-eight per cent of all Oklahoma and Texas cotton was exported before the war and we have lost that foreign market," Wickersham told a reporter.

If a satisfactory market is not found, Oklahoma and Texas cotton growers may receive lower prices for many years and some may have to go out of the cotton growing industry, he said.

SAILOR FLOWN FROM SHIP

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—Lawrence W. Flamming of Fremont, Jim Wells County, Tex., an oiler aboard the merchant vessel, SS Perryville, was taken off the ship 200 miles south of Cuba yesterday by a coast guard air-sea rescue plans and brought to a hospital here suffering from appendicitis.

Truman Signs Bill To Give Vets More Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—President Truman late today signed a bill liberalizing the GI Bill of Rights, especially as they related to loans and education for veterans.

He signed the measure along with about 50 others passed in the closing days of Congress.

Highlights of the new veterans act include:

Increase in subsistence allowance for GI students from $50 to $65 monthly to those unmarried and $75 to $90 for those married.

The new law also does these things:

(1) Repeals a requirement of the original law deducting from any future bonus payment benefits received by a serviceman through the G. I. bill.

(2) Eases the heretofore stringent control of the Veterans' administration over GI loans and raises the maximum government loan guarantee from $2,000 to $4,000 on real estate.

(3) Makes loans easier to obtain by making the "reasonable value" of property the basis of the loan rather than the "normal reasonable value."

(4) Broadens the purposes for which loans may be made and increases the period of repayment on real estate loans.

From the President of the United States' special train telephone conversations can be held with any point in the world where telephone or radio telephone facilities are available.

POLISH ENVOY—A former U. S. citizen is Poland's new ambassador to the United States. He is Dr. Oscar Lange, left, who first came to America as an exchange student. After study at the University of Chicago, he became a U. S. citizen in 1943. Recently he renounced his American citizenship and was appointed to the Washington post.

News Briefs

T/Sgt. Keith Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Knight of 1908 Ave. N, arrived in New Jersey Friday, after serving about 32 months with the Army Air forces in China. He expects to get his discharge at Fort Sam Houston within two weeks. Prior to enlistment he was employed as a printer by the Avalanche-Journal.

A minor car fire in 1700-block Nineteenth engaged Lubbock firemen at 2:25 p. m. Friday.

Dee Boone, 50, of Lubbock pleaded innocent of a drunk driving charge and posted $600 bond set in county court Friday, and paid a fine of $150 and court costs on plea of guilty to a liquor law violation charge. Frank B. Morris, 45, pleaded guilty of drunk driving and was fined $50 and court costs, and his driver's license was revoked for six months.

Mrs. C. D. Ellison, two miles east of Lubbock, reported to county officers theft of a three-horsepower electric motor some time after Dec. 23, and said six radiators were stolen from a neighbor, J. A. Gordon.

Lucas Says FDR Made No Pre-War Pledges

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Senator Lucas (D-Ill) contended today that evidence before the Pearl Harobr committee has established that President Roosevelt made no prewar commitments to fight Japan.

Lucas told a reporter:

"The evidence up to this time has definitely disclosed that not a single secret commitment was made by President Roosevelt with Great Britain or any other country to go into the war before Pearl Harbor was attacked."

Republican members of the investigating committee said they want to hear more testimony before they pass judgment.

The committee received memoranda Sumner Welles, former undersecretary of state, prepared about the August, 1941 meeting. His data disclosed a proposal for the United States to occupy the Azores but none committing this country to enter the war against Japan.

The committee—in recess this week—may hear more about this subject Monday when Admiral Harold R. Stark, former chief of Naval operations, takes the stand.

Ship Said Threatened With Bombs Loose

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—A cargo of 5,000 tons of bombs breaking loose in the hold, today threatened the safety of the Liberty ship Henry D. Thoreau, with a crew of 40 aboard. The ships master radioed a distress message saying "if they give way entirely, nothing can save us."

The Navy, however, intercepting two messages from the Thoreau, said it was "very unlikely" that the bombs would explode unless there were a great shock. Bombs loaded for transport have their fuses removed, the Navy said.

The Thoreau, a 7,176-ton vessel is not carrying troops, the Navy said. The ship was out of Naples, Italy, bound for Cape May, N. J. and about 420 miles southeast of the Azores.

The bombs probably were some of those unused by American Air Forces in Italy and were being returned to an ammunition depot in the United States, a Navy spokesman said.

A second message said a ship was standing by, but could do nothing immediately.

H. H. Singleton, operating manager of the Luckenbach Steamship Co., Inc., the Thoreau's agent, said he had radioed the vessel's captain, S. C. Briggs, for further information.

UNO Capital Site Is Further Restricted

LONDON, Dec. 28. (AP) — The committee which will go to the United States to select possible sites for permanent United Nations headquarters was instructed today to consider only three locations, one near Boston, one east of the Hudson river in New York state, and the third in Connecticut.

It was stipulated that the site in Connecticut be from 25 to 80 miles from New York City.

OATH TAKING SET

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 (AP) — Hall Logan of Bryan, new member of the board of control, who takes office Jan. 1, will take the official oath at home. Administering it will be A. S. Ware, Brazos county judge.

LIQUORS IN SPOTLIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP) — Buying of liquors at wide advances, inspired by bright earnings statements and split-up talk, again high-lighted today's stock market although light selling still restrained many leaders.

While dealings were relatively slow throughout, Schenley came out in one block of 5,000 shares and finished up 10¾ points at a new high of 111¾ on top of yesterday's gain of 6. At peak for the year or longer were Distillers Corp., up 4; Bulova Watch, up 3; Canadian Pacific, up 1⅞, and International Paper, up 1¼.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 75.3. Transfers totaled 1,090,000 shares compared with 1,320,000 Thursday.

On the offside fractions to a point or so were Chrysler, General Motors, Republic Steel, Great Northern, Anaconda, Boeing, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Kennecott and Westinghouse.

Bonds were narrow.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP) — The cotton futures market moved in a narrow range in quiet pre-holiday trading today. Scattered liquidation and hedge selling met indifferent mill buying although prices recovered partially from early lows of the day in later dealings. Spot cotton markets were quiet with most mills holding to the sidelines until after the turn of the year.

Futures closed 20 to 60 cents a bale lower.

Some Markets Plan Three-Day Holiday

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—Most of the nation's commodity markets plan a three-day closing over the New Year's holiday, but nearly all securities exchanges, grain and some livestock markets will be open as usual on Monday, Dec. 31.

New York and virtually all United States securities markets have announced Monday operations.

The Chicago board of trade will be open Monday but will close at noon.

Other markets which plan to operate as usual on Monday include Chicago livestock markets, New York produce and dairy markets, New York foreign exchange, and other U. S. grain markets.

Among markets closed from Sunday through Tuesday are New York, New Orleans and Chicago cotton exchanges, and the New York wool market.

Railroad Passenger Traffic Shows Boost

FORT WORTH, Dec. 28. (UP)—Southern Pacific Lines' passenger traffic during 1945 has been about six times the pre-war passenger miles, E. A. Craft, executive vice president of the road, said today.

He said the S. P. has been carrying more Army and Navy personnel since the end of the war with Japan than at any other time during the war years.

From 1931 to 1941 the annual total production of all types of plastics in the U. S. rose from 35,000,000 pounds to 500,000,000 pounds, an increase of 1,400 per cent.

Four Die, Three Hurt In Wreck In Illinois

NASHVILLE, Ill., Dec. 28. (AP)—Four persons, whose papers police said indicated they were from San Antonio, were killed, and three others injured today when an automobile and truck collided here in a fog.

State Patrolman Ted May identified the victims as Leader N. Revermann, 31, his wife, 28, and two children believed to be their sons.

Two other children, also believed sons of the dead couple, and J. C. Guiguid, Herrin, Ill., driver of the truck, were in the Centralia hospital.

Rayburn Spends Busy Holiday Just Meeting Visitors At Home

BONHAM, Dec. 28. (AP)—General Sam Rayburn is finding his holiday at home a busy though pleasant one.

From morning until night the front door on his big white house swings back and forth in a friendly fashion.

A steady stream of visitors pass through it to seek counsel from one of the nation's top men. Some come just to shake hands. Others come on business.

Callers are met at the door by "Miss Lou," Mr. Rayburn's sister, who has been his confidential aide through the years.

Have Large Yule Tree

A large Christmas tree stands in a corner of the room. It was decorated by the speaker, his sister and friends.

The speaker sits in his study directly in back of the living room and as one group of visitors leave another is ushered in.

A man from Michigan passing through Bonham stopped to say hello. Two men from Sherman dropped in to ask the speaker to attend a stag party. Another man dropped by to seek advice on a tax problem. A veteran, just released from the Army, came by with his wife and young son to shake hands.

Important Session Seen

The speaker is giving much thought to Congress, which convenes Jan. 14. "This will be one of our most important sessions," he declares.

"This time we must do what we are going to do for a lasting peace. This is the matter of the first order and we must not fail."

"Our people did a magnificent job during the war and they will do the same thing in peacetime," he says. "I'm not afraid of the future. I would be if I didn't know that our people are good, but this isn't the case. Ninety nine per cent of the people in this country are good people and as long as we have a ratio like that we have nothing to worry about."

B-29 Sets New Mark On Honolulu Flight

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28. (U.P.)—The B-29 "Challenger," former personal plane of Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, was credited today with setting a new Los Angeles to Honolulu flight record.

An ATC announcement from Honolulu said the "Challenger" made the flight in nine hours, 26 minutes and seven seconds, according to official Army and Navy timers.

Col. C. S. "Bill" Irvine, a friend of Doolittle, piloted the Wright-cyclone powered B-29 2,235 miles (nautical) for an average of 235 miles per hour.

Army authorities confirmed the record flight but said that a B-26 had made better time on the shorter Pacific crossing from San Francisco.

Woman Finds Former Hubby In Newspaper

FORT WORTH, Dec. 28. (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Heaslet saw a familiar face when a neighbor showed her a newspaper society section picture Dec. 16.

Below the photograph, she read of the marriage of Charles J. Heaslet and Miss Jewel Wood, former NTSTC student.

And today, Mrs. Dorothy Heaslet, who was married to Charles J. Heaslet Nov. 20, 1940, was listed as complaining witness in a bigamy charge and Heaslet was in the county jail.

News Briefs

Lubbock County Fifth Sunday Singing association will hold sessions Saturday night and most of Sunday at Central Baptist church, 1309-11 Eighteenth according to Henry W. Shipp, president. The singing program tonight will commence at 7:30 o'clock, and will be followed by a business session at which new officers will be elected. Singing will be held Sunday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Singers are expected to be present, in additions to those from this county, from surrounding counties and as far away as Waco, San Angelo and Greenville, Shipp said.

The body of N. H. Pyron, 65, of Oakland, Calif., who died Thursday, was sent last night to Wills Point for burial, Sanders Funeral home reported. He was visiting a niece, Kathleen Pyron, of 2405 Ave. L, when he suffered a heart attack.

Capt. E. A. Burgess, chaplain, stationed in Lubbock with the West Texas District recruiting station, will preach at the Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteenth, Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. Jeff D. Welch, co-pastor of the church, announced Friday. Capt. Burgess was pastor of a Baptist church at Shreveport, La., before going into military service.

Funeral services for A. E. Brasher, 38, of route 6, Lubbock, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage Thursday in a Lubbock hospital, will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. today at the Tabernacle Baptist church with Rev. Ben D. Johnson officiating. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Search For Slayers Hits New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28. (AP)—City, state and military police searched New Orleans today for a hitch-hiker who shot three men, two fatally, without any motive that yet has been discovered.

The search swung to New Orleans after police were told last night a man answering the description of the killer was seen boarding a New Orleans-bound bus not far from the scene of the shooting, seven miles from Lutcher, La.

Sole survivor among the victims, Seabee Gordon Ray, 21, of Electra, Tex., remained in serious condition at the Navy hospital here. Physicians have not yet permitted extensive questioning of Ray.

Ray earlier told Deputy Sheriff J. P. Pollet that the hitch-hiker whom he knew only as "Blackie" began shooting without warning and without any previous quarrel after the automobile in which four men were riding stopped by the roadside.

Cpl. Irvin A. Pincus, 32, of New Orleans, originally of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and a man identified tentatively as Walter Smith, 22, of Long Beach, Calif., were killed. Ray said he feigned death while the hitch-hiker ransacked his and Smith's pockets, and that "Blackie" then drove to Gramercy, La., where he abandoned the car.

Ray said he lost about $18, but Pincus' wallet, containing more money, was untouched.

One Body Recovered Near Sunken Tanker

GALVESTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—The body of Oskar Elin Fransson, 32, was recovered near the sunken tanker Sveaborg today and the death toll of yesterday's explosion climbed to nine.

Eight bodies are still trapped in the crews' quarters of the ship, which exploded and sank early yesterday morning at Texas City when it was taking on a cargo of gasoline.

Moscow Parley Makes Big Step On World Peace Organization

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

The Big Three have shown their willingness and ability to work together.

That is the important news from the Byrnes-Molotov-Bevin conference in Moscow. The stalemate which developed during the London conference of the Big Five ministers last October has been ended. It was recognized before the Moscow meeting started that unless agreement resulted, the infant United Nations Organization might be dealt a blow from which it could not recover.

Must Have Leadership

Some criticism may arise of the dominant part the Big Five, and especially the Big Three, intend to play in shaping the post-war world. But it is considered by many students of international affairs that this is inevitable during the transition period, and that if the big powers were at odds, no progress at all could be made toward world government.

The purpose of the meeting was to achieve a working agreement among the big three, not to reach final decisions on matters affecting all the nations. In that, it appears to have been highly successful. As the final communique said, the discussions were on "an informal and exploratory basis."

C... r Lot of Subjects

The ministers covered an extraordinary amount of ground in less than two weeks of concentrated talks, and were able to agree on basic procedure for handling some of the most vital problems affecting the world.

Most important was the manner of tackling the atomic energy problem. The general assembly of the UNO will be invited to vest atomic authority in the security council of 11 nations, plus Canada when that country is not a member of the security council.

The security council is the body which is charged with preventing aggression, by military force, if necessary. Its permanent members are the Big Five, plus six other nations to be elected for staggered terms of two years each.

Plan is Explained

Under the proposal, a commission for the control of atomic energy will be established, to be composed of one representative of each of the 11 nations on the security council, plus Canada at all times. The commission's reports and recommendations will be made to the security council, which in turn will pass them on to the general assembly and other UNO bodies unless "peace and security" dictates otherwise. The general publication of dangerous secrets thus is not mandatory.

The duties proposed for the commission are sweeping. It is to work for the exchange of scientific information among nations "for peaceful ends" and the control of at...ic energy for the same ends.

It is significantly required to seek the elimination from national armaments not only of atomic weapons, but "all other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction." Provision also is made for inspection to guard against violations of the rules, which implies international access to any nation's manufacturing activities.

The agreement finally touches on the extremely important matter of world confidence. It provides that the commission's work shall proceed by separate stages, "the successful conclusion of which will develop the necessary confidence of the world before the next stage is undertaken."

The building up of such world confidence is plainly one of the foremost duties of the Big Three. The outcome of the present meeting appears to be a good step in that direction.

More Ham And Pork Chops In Prospect

AUSTIN, Dec .28 (AP)—There is some hope for more ham and pork chops in Texas during 1946.

The United States Department of Agriculture today estimated the number of sows to farrow from Dec. 1, 1945 to June 1, 1946, was 194,000, compared with 187,000 for the same period last year.

Hog production in Texas in 1945 was about eight per cent under 1944 levels, and six per cent under the ten-year average. The pig crop totaled 2,274,000 for the year.

Oil Industry Enjoys One Of Biggest Years

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 28 (U.P.) — As 1945 neared its end the, oil industry today looked back upon the greatest year in petroleum history.

The nation's total crude oil production from Jan. 1 to Dec. 22 amounted to 1,664,054,925 barrels —an all-time record. This was an increase of some 30,000,000 barrels over 1944, the previous peak production year.

Industry In Good Shape

Refining operations also kept pace with crude output, largely supplying the unprecedented demands for fuels for the windups to the military campaigns in Europe and the Pacific.

Despite all-time record withdrawals, exploration kept during the year and some industry leaders expected reserves at the end of 1945 to be equal to or greater than those at the close of 1944.

Drilling activities are finishing the year bullishly—at the rate of more than 500 completions a week. Indications were that the 27,000-well goal set by the petroleum administration for war would be reached by next Tuesday.

Well completions to Dec. 22 totaled 26,457, compared with 24,491 to the same date last year.

Wildcat completions to the same date amounted to 4,927, including 402 oil producers, 23 distillate, 133 gassers and 3,369 dry. To Dec. 22, 1944, wildcats totaled 3,801. Of there 456 were oilers, 26 distillates, 124 gassers and 3,195 dry.

The year however, was not ending on an entirely happy note for the industry.

Many of the nation's refineries were still operating under government supervision, following the September-October strikes.

There were still shortages of some petroleum products. Although there was sufficient gasoline for both military and civilian demand, kerosenes and other burning oils were scarce.

The crude oil ceiling price question was still up in the air. Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes only yesterday appealed for an increase in crude oil prices. He said this would permit refineries to produce more heating oils to meet the heavy winter needs of northern and eastern states.

Record Planting Of '46 Wheat Is Made

AUSTIN, Dec. 28. (AP)—Texas farmers made record plantings of wheat for harvest in 1946, the United States Department of Agriculture announced today.

The acreage of 5,994,000 is more than 600,000 acres greater than the previous record in 1938.

Based on factors measurable as of Dec. 1, 1946 crop is indicated at 53,946,000 bushels.

Russia Holding Out On Bretton Woods World Banking Setup

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—A Russian question mark cast its shadow today over the newly-created international stabilization fund and world bank.

The Soviet union was the only major power among 16 nations whose signature lines remained blank after yesterday's ceremonies that brought the two big financial agencies into being.

Deadline Is Monday

Under terms of the 45-nation Bretton Woods agreement, the 16 have until next Monday midnight to sign as original members.

No one here professed to know what Russia would do.

Some government officials expressed belief she would come in under the deadline. There was speculation among others, however, that she might delay action pending some word whether this country would be receptive to a Soviet loan application.

May Join Later

In any event, the Monday deadline is not all-important. The agreements provide that any nation desiring to participate in the fund and bank after Dec. 31 may do so if its application is approved by the governing boards of the two agencies.

Twenty-eight of the 45 governments that drafted the pacts at Bretton Woods, N. H., in July, formally signed them at the State department late yesterday. A 29th, Czechslovakia, became a member last night.

Has Huge Capital

If all 45 nations sign eventually the fund will have a capital of $8,800,000,000 to be used in stabilizing international currencies. The bank will have assets of $9,100,000,000 for loans to help war-damaged nations.

The United States will furnish about one-third of the aggregate capital of the two institutions—$2,750,000,000 for the fund and $3,175,000,000 for the bank. Russia's contribution would be $1,200,000,000 to each agency.

Bonham Girl Killed In Auto Accident

SHERMAN, Dec. 28. (U.P.)—Funeral services will be held in Bonham today for Miss Jewell Thomas, 20, who died Wednesday night from a broken neck received in an automobile accident.

She was injured when the car in which she was a passenger struck another automobile and a tree. It was the first fatal automobile accident in Sherman since Dec. 21, 1942.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Thomas; two brothers, William Neal and David Thomas, all of Bonham.

CONSTIPATION Hazardous In BAD COLDS

Beware of sluggish elimination when you have a cold. If you are constipated you may be sure your intestines are retaining virus-laden mucus and other putrefactive waste matter. This condition may interfere with the treatment of the cold and lead to more serious complications.

Relieve this hazardous constipated condition promptly tonight with Calotabs. Calotabs are one of the most dependable of all intestinal eliminants. They pleasantly yet thoroughly act on every foot of the intestinal tract, thus helping to sweep out virus-laden mucus and other putrefactive material, enabling Nature to more effectively combat the cold. Get Calotabs from your druggist. Use only as directed on the labeling.

Department Stores' Sales Show Increase

DALLAS, Dec. 28. (U.P.)—Pre-Christmas week department store sales in Texas' four major cities were up an average of 18 per cent over the same week last year, the weekly report of the Federal Reserve bank noted today.

San Antonio stores paced the rest with a gain of 27 per cent, followed by Dallas with a 19 per cent increase, Houston with 13 per cent and Fort Worth with 10 per cent.

For the three weeks prior to Christmas, state sales were up 14 per cent, for four weeks up 11 per cent.

"Buy A Victory Bond TODAY."

Final Appeal Made For "E" Bond Buyers

Nathan Adams of Dallas, state chairman of the Texas War Finance committee, has appealed to the Lubbock War Finance committee for increased action to put the Victory loan over the top in the county.

In a telegram to the local committee, he said:

"We still have a fighting chance to reach our Victory loan E quota. Urge you use remaining few days to contact large potential E bond buyers to insure success in your county. Thanks for your hard work."

"We've only got three more days in which to make our quota and I would like to see this quota made more than any we've had," Neil H. Wright, chairman of the Lubbock county committee said today. "It's more of a matter of civic pride with us and we shouldn't let Lubbock county lag behind in this final bond campaign."

Wright said increased purchases of E bonds had been reported to him in the past few days and there was still a good chance for the county's E bond quota of $955,000 to go over the top.
