"MACHINE GUN" KELLY SENDS LETTERS TO KEENAN, URSCHEL

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 19—The life of Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general leading the nation's drive against crime, has been threatened by George (Machine Gun) Kelly, it was learned on good authority today.

Keenan received the threat in an airmail letter from Chicago at the end of yesterday's federal court session in which Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates and ten other persons are on trial for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire.

Kellys Still Sought

Kelly, accused by the government of having aided Bates in carrying out the actual abduction of Urschel, and his wife are both at large. They are the only two persons indicted in the kidnaping who have not been apprehended.

Like another letter likewise purporting to have been written by Kelly and received by the Daily Oklahoman yesterday, the Keenan threat bore the outlaw's fingerprints. Federal authorities were noncommittal about identification of the fingerprints, but it was learned on good authority both letters were adjudged authentic.

At the same time, there was an apparently well-founded rumor from the closely guarded federal camp that Urschel himself received a threatening letter from Kelly just before he went on the witness stand to tell the story of his nine days captivity in the hands of a kidnap ring.

"Ceremonies" Mentioned

It was said the letters spoke of certain "ceremonies" that "are going to take place." The "ceremonies" were taken to mean acts of violence against trial principals. The letters were said to boast that "Bailey and Bates will be there to watch."

It was understood further that the letters brazenly boasted that the $185,000 in Urschel ransom money which has not been recovered is being held intact to organize and pay off underworld forces for carrying out the death threats.

The stern-faced prosecutor, who has traveled the middlewest a score of times in recent months in his fight on gangdom without ever once calling for a guard, said it was not his intention to answer "cheap threats from human rats."

"That Man Is Marked"

"That man is marked," said Keenan. "It may be a month, or it may be a year, but he can not escape the government forces."

A short, thick-set powerful figure of a man, Keenan termed Kelly, Bates and Bailey "depraved criminals that I would rather call by a prison number than recognize by christian names."

He said any effort, through threats or otherwise, to affect the United States government in the prosecution of certain individuals would be met "only by intensified prosecution."

21-Gun Salute Is Fired For Hoover

CHICAGO, Sept. 20. (AP)—A presidential salute of 21 guns was the order of the day at A Century of Progress today in honor of former President Herbert Hoover, who is finding it difficult in Chicago to be just a common American citizen.

When first asked if he would accept the presidential salute he responded with an emphatic "no" but later he was prevailed upon to reverse his decision.

"I am just a common garden variety of American citizen come to see the Chicago fair" he said following his arrival yesterday from California. "I expect to spend four or five days here."

TWO ADDED TO REPEAL LIST

WET MAJORITIES CAST BY NEW MEXICO AND IDAHO TUESDAY

(By The Associated Press)

The score card in the fight over repeal read today:

Repeal 31, prohibition 0.

Idaho and New Mexico, voting yesterday, approved the proposed 21st amendment, which would strike the 18th from the constitution.

This placed the repeal forces in a position where they can spot the prohibitionists three states between now and Nov. 7 and still have national prohibition out of the constitution in December.

The next state to vote is Virginia, on Oct. 3. Florida votes on Oct. 10 and six more—North Carolina, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Utah—on Nov. 7. The anti-prohibitionists need only five of them to obtain the 36 states needed to amend the constitution.

If they get the five, they expect the formalities of ratification to be concluded in December.

WET LEAD IS 13,835

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 20 (AP)—With approximately nine tenths of the expected vote in yesterday's election tabulated today Idaho gave 52,007 for repeal to 38,172 against repeal, a majority of 13,835.

The vote came from 591 of the state's 819 precincts and those still out were all small.

MRS. KELLEY IS NAMED BUYER OF WEAPON

URSCHEL IS EXCUSED FROM STAND AFTER FEW QUESTIONS

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 20.—The government today traced through three witnesses a machine gun captured beside Harvey Bailey, notorious gunman, from a Birmingham, Ala., hardware dealer to Kathryn Cleo Kelly, wife of a fugitive sought as one of the two actual kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel.

Identification of the gun was made by a serial number.

Joe B. Biddle, Birmingham hardware dealer, testified that he sold the weapon to Harry Libstone, a firearms salesman of the Alabama city, who in turn testified he delivered the weapon to A. Klar, a Fort Worth, Texas., firearms dealer.

Bought By Mrs. Kelly

Klar said Mrs. Kelly bought the gun from him for $250.

Biddle was called at the beginning of the government's attempt to show that the death machine with which Bailey was armed actually belonged to Kathryn Kelly.

Urschel himself had begun the day on the stand, but was excused after a few relatively minor questions by the defense as to his being able to make positive identification of his surroundings while held prisoner on the Wise county, Texas, farm, despite the blindfold he said Kelly and the other kidnapers put over his eyes.

Breaking the chain of the government's case momentarily, Herbert K. Hyde, district attorney, ask-

TESTIMONY OPENS IN BRADLEY CASE

LEVELLAND, Sept. 20. (Special)—The state introduced seven witnesses as testimony in the trial of V. L. Bradley, 55, charged with murder, began before Judge Homer L. Pharr in 72nd district court this morning.

Six were eye-witnesses. They were J. L. Stephenson, formerly a practicing lawyer who now is a farmer northwest of here; Evan Wilder, about 21; Homer Johnson, Matt Farr, Terry Smith, and Jim Sisk. The other witness was Constable A. F. Odell.

The eye-witnesses said Thomas W. Latimer, 53, shot and killed late August 26, election day, had tossed washers in a game earlier in the day in front of a produce station Bradley operated here. They testified Latimer, a few moments before he was slain, tossed a torpedo which exploded behind Bradley.

Latimer was in the middle of the street when a charge from a shotgun struck him. He died on the spot.

French And Italian Agreement Is Seen

Paris, Sept. 20 (AP)—The French and Italian positions on disarmament problems were said in diplomatic circles today to have been brought closer together as a result of exchanges between Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour, and the Italian ambassador.

It was understood that a plan, attributed to Italy, for granting Germany the right to keep sample models of arms was no longer involved.

Rather, Germany under a militia scheme would be entitled to rifles, machine guns, and field artillery in proportion to her increase in effectives. Tanks, heavy guns, and the like would, however, remain barred.

COLLEGE YEAR OPENS WITH EXERCISES

RECORD REGISTRATION EXPECTED; CLASSES TO START MONDAY

Presaging a record enrollment, between 850 and 900 freshmen students filed into the Texas Technological college gymnasium this morning for freshmen orientation exercises, the first activity of the new college year.

Indications are that Tech will enroll its largest freshman class this fall, officials reporting a large number of students did not arrive for today's program. Registration of first year students is scheduled for Thursday.

Classes Start Monday

Registration of upper classmen will be held Friday and Saturday and classes will begin on Monday.

After invocation by Rev. Walter P. Jennings, pastor of the First Christian church, President Bradford Knapp extended a welcome to the new students and spoke to them on "Your Opportunity Here," pointing out that their "acceptance of the scheme of doing things here is tremenduously important."

"Start right now to prepare yourself for some useful occupation," Dr. Knapp advised. "Map the course of your lives so that you can be of service to yourselves, your family, your community, state and nation. . . . Eliminate low standards. . . . Build Your Character . . . . increase your respect for moral responsibility . . . . And above all acquire a tolerant attitude for others."

Registration Explained

Prof. Cecil Horne, director of housing, employment and information, spoke briefly to the new students on housing and employment. He was followed by W. P. Clement, registrar, who told of registration plans.

The students will assemble in the gymnasium again this afternoon at 1:30 for an additional program.

As a diversion of this morning's program, English tests were given to the new students before adjournment.

This afternoon, Dr. Knapp will address them on "Spending Your Time and Your Money Properly; How to Get the Most Out of College

Allotment Provides For Railway Bridge

CREW OF CUBAN SOLDIERS, WORKMEN AND STUDENTS TRACK REBEL FORCES

HAVANA, Sept. 20 (AP)—A motley crew of soldiers, students, and workmen tracked the rebellious Juan Blas Hernandez in the rugged Camaguey hills today while at home the scenes were set for another political skirmish.

Blas Hernandez, a doughty campaigner against Gerardo Machado, was reported some place near Las Cuevas, in Camaguey province, with a force of 500 men, all as firm as he in the conviction that President Ramon Grau San Martin should resign.

On their trail were 600 soldiers, commanded by Sergeant Mazorra and armed with 12 machine guns, and a group of students and laborers.

There were many rumors about the movement. One was that the troopers surrounded the rebels near the small town of Zayas. Another said soldiers and rebels exchanged shots near Tamarindo. But friends of "the Cuban Sandino" agreed that he will not surrender.

Blas Hernandez, a romantic character of the hills, harassed and evaded former President Machado for two years and army men here believed it would take an excellent army to surround his band.

On the Havana front a less dramatic but no less important episode was being enacted in what the executive described before 5,000 hearers as "a duel to the death," in which he and his followers were "sworn to maintain the free country of which our fathers dreamed."

Grau San Martin had not answered demands of his leading opponents that he step down, but there were indications that he would continue to defy them.

STATE WITNESS TELLS OF WEIRD RITUAL IN "DEVIL" CASE

(By The Associated Press)

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Sept. 20—State testimony to show that Coy Oakley was present at the "devil" slaying of Bernice Clayton, 3-year-old cripple, was on record today at the itinerant preacher's murder trial.

George Wilson, on whose northeast Texas farm the Clayton family lived, said today that on the afternoon of December 19, 1932, his attention was attracted by wild singing and shouting at the Clayton cabin.

Called a Devil

Going to investigate, Wilson said he knocked at the Clayton cabin and the door was opened by Coy Oakley, who told him, "we don't want any devils in here."

Wilson testified he looked inside the door and saw Paul Oakley, brother to Coy, choking the child. He said Sherman Clayton, father of the child, was in the room praying with uplifted hands.

Paul Oakley was convicted of murder and sentenced to 50 years imprisonment last May at a trial in Linden. At that time it was brought out that the weird rites were performed over the child to "drive out the devil" which Paul Oakley believed to be responsible for her ailment. The child had been crippled by infantile paralysis.

To Blame Paul

Attorneys for Coy Oakley indicated they would deny he claimed to have divine power to heal but that he believed his brother, Paul, had such power and could cure the child.

The defense contends that Paul Oakley was solely responsible for the death of the child and that Coy Oakley had nothing to do with it. Coy Oakley was only praying, according to the defense.

ALLRED ASKED TO APPEAR

ATTORNEY GENERAL IS URGED TO GIVE HIS ANTI-TRUST VIEWS

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 20—James V. Allred, attorney general, has been invited to appear before the Texas senate committee of the whole and the house judiciary committee to give his views on pending legislation to modify the state anti-trust laws. He was asked to appear today.

Allred now is prosecuting suits against a group of major oil companies alleging conspiracy to violate the anti-trust statutes and members of the legislature therefore were anxious to learn to what extent he was willing for these laws to be modified and how the proposed legislation would affect his suits.

Three Plans Explained

The legislature already has heard explanations of the three proposals to change the anti-trust laws to remove any conflict with the National Recovery program. These were given by the authors of the bills as the house and senate committees began their hearing yesterday.

One of the bills was introduced by Representative Rolland Bradley of Houston and Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman, another was by Representative Ben F. Vaughan of Greenville and a third was submitted by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

The administration bill called for a blanket suspension of all state anti-trust statutes during the life of the National Recovery act. Authors of the other proposals expressed fear that this bill would permit business agreements other than those approved by the president and that it would prevent or delay further prosecution of the oil suits.

The Vaughan proposal would provide merely that operations under NRA codes would be accepted as a complete defense in suits alleging violation of the anti-trust laws. He said that he believed both of the other bills called for too great a change in the present statutes.

The Bradley-Woodward bill would provide civil penalties for violation of the National Recovery act. It was designed to permit a continuation of the prosecution of the oil suits.

ROOSEVELT IS TO RECEIVE DELEGATES

PRESIDENT MAINTAINS STRICT SILENCE AS TO HIS VIEWS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—President Roosevelt sent word today he would be glad to receive the southern delegation urging currency inflation but meanwhile he maintained his strict silence as to his views on the subject.

He went to his study in the executive mansion for the first time since his recent cold.

He had a group of callers who had been waiting since Monday.

He will be unable to see the delegation of inflationists before tomorrow.

Decide "Not To Insist"

Leaders in the cotton gathering had decided not to insist upon a conference with the president.

Before hearing from him and in view of his indisposition, the leaders had tentatively agreed to let a letter stand as their appeal.

The letter, signed by several score delegates last night, said the situation in the cotton growing states "is desperate" and asked for "immediate effective action to raise the level of the price of cotton and other farm products" through inflation.

Senator Thomas, (D-Okla), acting chairman of the convention in the absence of Senator Smith, (D-SC), who left last night for his home on a private mission, said there was no necessity for the committee selected to wait here until the president recovered sufficiently to see it to pursue this course.

"We have accomplished all that can be accomplished at this time," Thomas said.

Views Are Withheld

Efforts to draw out any further exposition of the president's ideas for the steady rise in prices and wages were unavailing today. He laid down months ago the policy of using inflation "if, as and when it may be necessary."

He is said not to be talking about

NRA OPERATIONS OF STEEL PROBED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. (AP)—Steel's operations under its industrial code were scrutinized by NRA experts today while other recovery officials studied organized labor's newest complaints of employer evasions.

Donald Richberg, general counsel, Kenneth Simpson, deputy administrator, and Dr. Alexander Sachs, economist, traveled to New York for the first-hand inspection of the steel industry's activities, especially with regard to uniform sales and price procedure.

Simultaneously at NRA headquarters, documents filed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, were receiving close attention. Green said the data contained "evidence of astonishing evasions by great employers, some of those so bold and so hostile to the letter and spirit of the law that I am certain the administration must take immediate and very drastic action."

Beverage Dealers Form Association

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Thousands of retail merchants preparing to protect themselves in the sale of spirituous, malt and vinous liquors upon the apparently certain repeal of the Eighteenth amendment have organized the National Association of Retail Beverage Dealers with headquarters in Washington.

Already state organizations have been set up in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and a number of other states, and association officials said indications were that 200,000 of the 750,000 licensed beer retailers will join.

Old Spinning Wheel's Back—Two Men Brought Ancient Device Back Into Favor—It Is An Interesting Story

BY MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, — It took two men in New York — of all places — to start a revival of the old time spinning wheel—of all things!

It's an interesting story behind John Cole and W. R. McHargue, two up-and-coming young men, who are making America spinning-conscious.

Not long ago they were quite wealthy gentlemen with plenty of power and position in advertising agencies. You've already guessed the rest. Accounts fell off and pretty soon the boys found themselves without not only jobs but funds.

Last March, Mr. Cole heard about a firm up in Boston that wanted to sell their merchandise. The company's warehouse stored, among other things, about two million pounds of wool.

"I could figure out how to get rid of lots of their stuff but the wool stopped me," Cole said.

So he wrote a postcard to McHargue with about four lines of simple directions and queries. Find out what people do with wool. Are there any spinning wheels in the country? Does spinning mess up the rug? Have you any wooly ideas?

Learning in a Library

McHargue hadn't any ideas right then but he got busy and worked out a few.

Their next step was to locate a spinning wheel. Even after they found it, no one could teach them to use it. So they went to the New York Public Library to learn. "We learned," said Cole, "very, very badly."

Another problem was to find someone to manufacture spinning wheels. They finally discovered just such a person in the form of a young Italian radio cabinet maker whose business wasn't faring any too well. He was only too glad to help them design some sort of a spinning wheel for general use.

They realized that American women wouldn't stand up to spin. So they designed spinning wheels low enough so you can sit down and spin. And very nice they are. Unlike a sewing machine, you do not keep your spinning wheel in an unused room. It should have a place of honor in the living room. There is no piece of furniture with which romance and tradition is more closely associated than with the spinning wheel.

Women who come to their offices with the idea that spinning is a pretty dead pastime soon change their minds. There is something fascinating about spinning.

Department stores in the leading cities have placed orders for the little spinning wheels.

The Handicraft Department of the New York State Board for Adult Education is making tests and plans to develop patterns and designs so that women in cities, as well as in rural districts, can spin their yarns and actually sell their products. Right now, there is an enormous demand for homemade sweaters made from home spun wool.

The next problems which confront these young manufacturers of spinning wheels is to see that women are actually taught to spin in their own homes.

That's why they had Mrs. Mary Maillet come down from Boston.

When they advertised in a Boston paper for an old lady who could spin, they received 50 replies. Then wrote for photographs of the applicants.

"Mrs. Maillet was the only one who had enterprise enough to have herself photographed with a spinning wheel, so we chose her."

Showing The New Yorkers

She is a charming lady of 68. Looks about 50 and is not at all like what you might expect in a woman who has spent the greater part of her life spinning and knitting. She was thrilled to death at the idea of coming to New York to give, under the sponsorship of the Homecraft League, the first spinning demonstration held in the city since Colonial times.

Messrs. Cole and McHague are not without a sense of humor.

"We couldn't decide which one of our names to use first in the title of the firm," Cole offered. "But it wasn't so hard after all. McHargue had a phone—mine had been disconnected a month before—so I knew he boasted a prestige which I didn't have. We used his name first."

Before we know it, they say, no home will be complete without a spinning wheel and we'll all be knitting not only our own garments, but making homespun yarn with which to knit them as well."

It may turn out to be the salvation of unemployed women. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, herself, approves of knitting. As a matter of fac, Mr. Cole was thinking about that when he wrote the postcard which has begun the movement to revive a lost art.

Club Reorganization In State Rumored

DALLAS, Sept. 20. (AP)—The Dallas Times Herald says it has learned that a meeting may be called in the near future for the purpose of reorganizing the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

The paper says a woman prominent in the affairs of the state federation expressed the opinion that the necessity of complete reorganization grew out of the present financial entanglement in which the federation found itself over its clubhouse at Austin. The reorganization movement was started among West Texas club women.

Should the plan materialize, all of the seven districts in the organization would be asked to send representatives.

Stars Who Sparkle In Black Mode

By NEA Service

HOLLYWOOD.—You see a lot of black around where Hollywood stars dance, dine and play these summer days. And black is always a flattering choice. No other color, save white is so glamorous.

In a new diaphanous black organdy dinner dress, Joan Crawford presented a handsome silhouette-like appearance. The frock had the popular puff sleeves and circular bottom. The material was striped with stitched cire braid.

White organdy cuffs on the matching jacket reached just below Joan's elbow. A white satin scarf, a jeweled clip and gardenias (Joan always wears gardenias) completed the formal dining ensemble.

Joan wore her hair off-the-forehead—and that's a good tip to follow if you have a nice forehead. Her hair was held back by a plain tortoise shell band.

You can get bands to hold back your hair in various widths and designs. Gold or silver ones are lovely with dinner clothes if you feel that tortoise shell is too tailored. Jeweled ones are exquisite with evening frocks.

Lunching with William Gargan in the RKO studio cafe, Frances Dee wore a printed chiffon dress. Gayly colored black-stemmed flower design on a white background gave a charming black-and-white effect. The colors of the flowers added a nice note of contrast.

At a luncheon given at the Roosevelt in her honor, Dorothea Wieck wore a black silk crepe dress. It was very plain and form fitting, lapping over in front and tying with a wide sash in back. Her sleeves were full at the top and tight around the wrist. Dorothea's costume was topped by a small black turban.

Three Clubs Meet Tuesday Afternoon

There were program meetings of the 1933 Study club, the Athenaeum club and the Shakespeare club on Tuesday afternoon. This was the first fall meeting of the Athenaeum club. A meeting was not held last week because so many members were then out of town.

The Athenaeum club meeting was at Hotel Lubbock. A program on Biblical women was presented and Mrs. W. O. Stevens talked on supporting the NRA.

Mrs. T. C. Delaney discussed "Miriam and Deborah"; Mrs. W. L. Baugh discussed "Ruth and Naomi" and Mrs. J. O. Haymes talked on "Mary, Martha and Mary, the Mother of Jesus."

There were 14 women present.

This club is to meet next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Hotel Lubbock. Meetings will continue throughout the club season on second and fourth Tuesday afternoons.

Mrs. Burrus Leader

Mrs. Claude Burrus was leader of a program on social, political and economic problems of the United States at a meeting of the 1933 Study club with Mrs. C. M. Chandler, 2433 Twenty-Second street. She was assisted by Mrs. Chandler.

Miss Irene Fletcher played piano selections of familiar American airs and played MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose."

Mrs. George W. Barr of San Antonio was a visitor. There were 16 members present.

The Shakespeare club meeting was with Mrs. Wallie Schmid, 2808 Twentieth street, with the hostess as program chairman.

Mrs. James L. Quicksall was guest speaker. She talked on the life and works of Shakespeare.

Mrs. Joe Coursey was received as a new member.

Those present were Mesdames J. E. Ward, Edgar Switzer, A. Sansom, W. L. Stangel, H. H. Hunter, O. W. English, Gordon Flenniken, C. A. Henderson, John Spikes, H. L. Commission Adopts A 1933-34 Budget

City commission Tuesday afternoon adopted a 1933-34 budget. Only officials attended the hearing.

The budget anticipates general fund expenditures of $291,204, of which $75,000 will be transferred to the interest and sinking fund.

Because of this transfer to the interest and sinking fund to pay bonded indebtedness and interest, only about $106,700 in taxes has been levied for 1933-34. To raise this $75,000 through taxation, the rate would have to be increased 35 cents, to 95 cents, on the $100 valuation.

Clervaux Castle, near Darlington, England, is to be rented at $500 a year.

THE TAYLORS TAKE A TRIP
AND DISCOVER THE SECRET OF COFFEE MEN CAN'T RESIST

RARE, MOUNTAIN-GROWN COFFEE
That Appeals Especially To Men

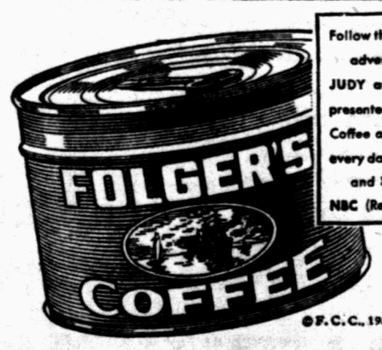

Folger's is not merely another "brand" or "blend"—not simply a different "roast." But brings you the flavor of rare coffees from a totally different producing region that's famed as the world's "coffee paradise."

Grown chiefly in tiny, isolated districts along the steep west coast of Central America—these super-coffees are totally different because they are mountain-grown. Because they are produced in an odd type of volcanic soil where altitude and steaming tropical rainfall impart a richness and winy tang that nature has never bestowed on any other coffee that's known.

These are the coffees that give such distinctive flavor to Folger's—the coffee that appeals especially to men. Now brought to you with all its original mountain-freshness faithfully preserved in key-opening vacuum tins.

Please note also that Folger's is particularly economical to serve. For, because of greater richness and body, a single pound of it goes as far as a pound and one-third of cheap, paper-packaged coffees. In other words, you use ¼ less and still have richer coffee . . . Ask for Folger's today! 177R

WORK OFFICES ESTABLISHED

NINE DIVISIONAL AND 66 COUNTY GROUPS ALREADY FORMED

AUSTIN, Sept. 20 (AP)—Nine divisional reemployment offices and 66 county offices already have been established in Texas by the national reemployment service.

Byron Mitchell, state director in charge of organization, said that this had been accomplished through the cooperation of the state highway department and the Texas Rehabilitation and Relief commission.

Provides Road Labor

At the request of the state highway department, the federal reemployment office is acting as the employment agency for labor on all state road projects, including maintenance, Mitchell said. Unemployed persons who can qualify for such work, whether they are on the state relief rolls or not, are being placed on highway and public works projects, he stated. He added that most of the men now being placed are persons not on the relief rolls as only a small per cent of the latter is able to qualify.

Establishment, of the reemployment offices, eventually intended to cover the entire state, has been in progress for about two months. Of the offices already established nine have been set up on a basis which Mitchell hopes will be made permanent. These are in Bexar, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Harris, Jefferson, McLennan, Tarrant and Travis counties. Each of the nine offices is under a manager paid out of federal relief funds allocated by Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, who has declared it be the best interest of his organization to get as many people working as possible.

Each of these managers supervises the reemployment work in the highway division in which his county is located in cooperation with the division highway engineer and other public works officials, Mitchell said.

Vets Get Preference

Mitchell stated that first preference in employment was given to veterans with dependents and second to bona fide unemployed residents of the county in which the work is done.

"We find that in reemployment offices that have been set up 30 days or more, we are getting considerably more placements from local employers of labor such as stores, machine shops, oil companies, utilities, newspapers, factories and farmers than is coming from the highway program," Mitchell said.

Iowa Belle, a wilt-resistant watermelon developed at Iowa State college, is reported "doing well" in disease-infested fields of eastern Iowa.

"I USE HYDRAULIC BRAKES 600 TIMES A DAY!"

AN INTERVIEW WITH JOSEPH PREHER, DIV. CIRCULATION MGR., LOUISVILLE (KY.) HERALD-POST

"RAIN OR SHINE," says Joe Preher. "I've got to be on time! And I make at least 600 stops a day!"

"I HAD A LOT of brake trouble on my old car. But not any more. Hydraulic brakes are great!"

"I GO PLACES in a hurry, but I've never had an accident. If I do, I'm protected plenty by this safety-steel body!"

"No more of the old kind for me . . . after owning a Plymouth"

NINETY-FIVE news-stands wait eagerly for Joe Preher to come rushing around every time a new edition hits the street. He's got to make time . . . keep a split-second schedule . . . slam on brakes 600 times a day.

Working his brakes so hard on his former car cost him plenty for adjustments and relining. But with Plymouth's hydraulic brakes, it's a far different story. They're always equalized. And brake linings last longer!

Brakes are not the only thing that must stand up on Joe Preher's cars. For he puts 50,000 miles a year on the speedometer.

His car is still "tight as a drum" at 12,000 miles. Floating Power engine mountings helped do that. It stands to reason, too, you'll avoid rattles with a welded safety-steel body that has no joints to loosen.

Look at the things that make a car stand up when you look at "all three" low-priced cars—and we think you'll pick a Plymouth.

It's still against the rules to say anything about the freshman football squad out at Tech, because the freshman football squad isn't supposed to practice until tomorrow. So we're not going to say anything about them—except this: They meet the varsity tomorrow night in a regulation ball game — and this: They (still meaning the Matadors earn every touchdown they (now meaning the varsity squadsmen) make, if any.

The J. & J. Sporting Goods store has a few tickets left for the Lubbock High-Big Spring High football game Friday night. They're six bits apiece, grandstand. No seats reserved. It's something more than just a warm up game. There aren't any warm up games on the Westerner schedule this year. The squad warms up on the practice field. If the Westerners survive the pre-conference games, they should be well prepared to do much damage to District 1 teams. Big Spring, Ranger, Sweetwater and Abilene. Is there a breather in that list?

The NEA sports editor, Bill Braucher, takes a peep into the big league future and sees Babe Ruth and his pal George. (All of Ruth's pals are named George). Here it is:

Leaping into 1934, we find Babe Ruth has been signed to manage the White Sox. Or perhaps it's the Red Sox. The action below takes place in the dugout. The game is about to begin.

BABE RUTH—Let's see, now, George, you're in left, Charley's in center and what's-his-name in right. Hey, George, you pitch. Hey, boy, call George over there and tell him he's going to catch. Write the names down, will you, George and hand 'em to the umpire.

Who's umpin' today? Oh, yeah, old Slim, he missed a couple on me in the world series with the Pirates. Hey, George, hand old Slim the batting order.

Where's Meathead? Hey, boy, go and find Meathead and tell him he bats third today instead of fifth. We'll have to find some way to hustle that bird out of the box.

Okay, George, you pitch. Lissen, now, George, you remember that high hard one you pitched to Heinie yesterday? Nuff sed. Keep 'em close under that Heinie's tummy. And don't throw your head off. Get that slow one goin' in there. This ball club can't use it.

Okay, George, you catch. Lissen, George, work that guy out there slow. We're in town for a couple days and don't have to make any train. And remember about Heinie. Don't throw no more of them high hard ones. Right down under his old chest, and slow.

GEORGE AT SHORT, TOO

Hey, George. Did you give Slim that batting order? Okay. Let go. Who's playin' short? Oh, yeah, I forgot—George, you play short.

(The game is played. In the eighth Washington scores four runs, tying the score. Ruth comes out of the clubhouse eating a hot dog. He is limping slightly, having missed his step getting out of a cab the day before. He looks at the scoreboard and growls.)

BABE RUTH—Hey, George, you better come on out of there, now. Who's warmin' up? Let George go in there; no, not you, hey there, not you, the other guy. Okay, George, better walk this guy, and get the next one at the plate. Attaboy, George.

(It come to the last half of the ninth. The score still is 4-all. The first two men go out. The umpire announces Ruth is hitting for the pitcher.)

BABE RUTH — Nice strike. Let's see if you can throw another like that, George . . . UGH!

(Ruth circles the bases. His teammates meet him at the plate.)

BABE RUTH—Guess I combed old George for that one, huh!

While we're not agin' the Washington Senators winning the American league flag and believe they will, we get a mild kick out of the way the St. Louis Browns pasted 'em the last coupla games. Maybe old Clark Griffith kinda wishes he hadn't been so hasty in trading off three or four good men to the Browns.

NEW YORK GIANTS ARE "IN" AS NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPS

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

William Harold Terry, the sturdy young man from Memphis who took over the management of the New York Giants a year ago when John McGraw retired, led his club back home from the west today with the National league pennant added to its luggage.

Meanwhile the Washington Senators, who were believed to have sewed up the American league championship while the surprising Giants were still regarded as an uncertainty, were marking time along the pennant trail, needing two more decisions for them or against the New York Yankees to clinch the other place in the world's series.

Can Afford To Lose

The Giants settled the National league race yesterday—or rather had it settled for them when the Phillies knocked their last rivals, the Pittsburgh Pirates, out of the running. Knowing they were "in" from the second inning on, the Giants went down to a 12 to 3 defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals. But they could afford to lose that game and all the nine others left on their schedule after the Pirates dropped a 3-2 decision in the second game of a double-header.

After beating the Phils 2 to 1 behind Larry French's steady pitching in the opener for their 82nd victory of the season, the Buccos took their 65th defeat when the Phils put on an eighth inning rally for two runs. They have seven more to play but if they win them all the best percentage they can reach is .578. The Giants, with 88 won and 55 lost so far, can drop nine more and still have a .579 mark.

Browns Beat Senators

The American league race tightened up meanwhile as the Senators, with a chance to clinch the pennant right in front of them, lost their second straight game to the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 0, when Dick Coffman allowed the league leaders only six hits. The New York Yankees did their part toward staying in the race by overwhelming the Chicago White Sox, 10-1 and 10-3. They combined 17-hit attacks in each game with air-tight pitching by George Uhle and Charley Devens.

This reduced the Senators' lead from nine to 7 1-2 games but didn't make any serious difference in the pennant race as two victories in their remaining eight games still will win the flag for Washington even if the Yanks take all of the nine they have left.

The Giants, who couldn't even draw a big crowd on their own home grounds early in the season, had a big welcome in store at the end of their homeward journey as champions with a parade through town to city hall for an official greeting as the climax tomorrow morning. It was all the warmer, perhaps, because the team which won the 13th pennant for a New York National league club, thus equaling the major league record made by the Chicago Cubs lastyear, was one which fooled the experts and the fans alike in taking the title.

Foxx Hits 46th

Outside of the games which had a direct bearing on the pennant race, there was little of importance in yesterday's major league program. Jimmie Foxx took a place in the spotlight as he walloped his 46th home run of the season to help the Philadelphia Athletics beat Detroit 5 to 2. Bill Weber of Boston also did some serious clouting, contributing two doubles and a triple to the Red Sox's 4-3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Another Bostonian, Ed Brandt of the Braves, turned in a four-hit flinging performance to give his club a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The Brooklyn Dodgers had a field day at bat with three Chicago aces, Lon Warneke, Bud Tinning and Charley Root as their victims, and shellacked the Cubs 12 to 3.

PLAYOFF SERIES TO START TODAY

Beginning a three-game series to determine the championship of the Lubbock Softball association, Huie-Ribble, American league championship team, and the J. & J. Sporting Goods company club, winners of the National league title, clash this afternoon.

College Avenue park, home of the Lubbock Hubbers, is the scene of battle, today's game beginning promptly at 6 o'clock. Sled Allen, former Hubber manager, and Marty Fielder, former baseball manager at Albuquerque, N. M., will umpire the contest.

The second game of the series is booked for Friday afternoon at the same park. If a third game is necessary, it will be decided Friday, and will be played one day next week.

There is no admission charge at the championship series, and fans are cordially invited.

The Sports defeated Meinecke Brothers Hardware company last week to win the National league title. J. and J. won the first half pennant and Meinecke Brothers the last half. Huie-Ribble won both halves of the American league season.

LUBBOCK TEAM GETS READY FOR CLASH

WESTERNERS TO MEET BIG SPRING STEERS FRIDAY NIGHT

Flashing almost brilliantly at times, looking not so good at intervals, the Lubbock High school Westerners engaged in a vigorous scrimmage yesterday as part of the practice campaign designed to get them ready for Friday night's season opener with the Big Spring High school Steers here.

The inter-squad warfare revealed a slowly developing line that may blossom out into a fair fortress by the time the conference season swings around. Gradually, positions are being assigned, perhaps definitely, as the cream of the crop shows itself above the general run.

The boys' performances were of a mixed quality at yesterday's practice session. On pass plays they would click smoothly for a stretch, then something would happen and all the pass-receivers would apparently become inoculated against catching anything.

Hale A Punter

Friday night if Quarterback Rayburn Hale gets off a few long rolling punts don't say it was just a lucky kick. Hale is quite an expert at the so-called end-over-end punt, he's been practicing at it all summer.

Probably starting at a tackle position against Big Spring will be "Red" Doherty. Doherty who earned a reserve letter on the Westerner squad last year is 19 years old and weighs 170 pounds. The other tackle position will be held down by G. B. Wimberly, a member of the '32 squad and the heaviest man on the squad aside from a new recruit, Duval 283 pounder. Wimberly weighs 190 pounds and is 18 years of age.

At guard position will be "Country" Phillips, hard-scrapping linesman who came up from the Cowhands. He is seventeen and weighs 170 pounds. At an end position will be Ossie Griggs, a 16 year old 160 pound youngster who also gained his experience on the Cowhands.

Work Under Lights

Coach Chapman has announced that the team will work out under the lights at Tech field tonight.

MATADORS PUT IN READINESS

VARSITY WILL CLASH WITH PICADORS ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Emerging from the first real scrimmage of the season with only two "casualties," the Texas Tech Matadors taper off today in the preparation for the season's opening battle with the Picadors tomorrow night.

Although secret practice is the rule at the football grounds now and probably throughout the season, members of the Matador club, an organization of ardent fans and boosters composed of local business men, were special guests of the athletic department. Nothing was spared or kept secret to them, and they went away from there full of good cheer and bright hopes in spite of the fact that Tech's coaches assume a solemn and altogether pessimistic attitude toward the team, the prospects and the season.

Everybody In Action

Every able man on the squad engaged in the tough scrimmage, which had many earmarks of a regulation game, referee, umpire, head linesman and everything but a brass band. The various plays which the Matadors have been taught during the seven days of fall training were executed yesterday.

While they looked very ragged at times, due probably to the newness of the season and the lack of practice on certain plays, the Matadors showed up generally in fair form, kicking, passing and running and executing plays like the veterans most of them are.

With Cawthon directing the backfield and Smith in charge of linemen, each mentor made constant shifts, apparently seeking a combination that could click. There was no definite lineup, and no definite sets of players or combinations. A fullback would be jerked and substituted, or a halfback, or a tackle.

Guard Is Injured

Big Gaines Davis, sophomore guard, showed up this morning with a bruised shoulder, apparently the result of hard blocking in yesterday's scrimmage. Ed McKeever, varsity halfback, now contesting for a quarterback job, came down with a "charley horse."

Elmer Fortner, center, and Matt Hitchcock, end, did not take part in the workout due to injuries sustained last week. They probably will take part in tomorrow night's contest. Carlton Luper, reserve end last year and counted on to do a lot of playing at the right wing position this season, is expected to report this week for the first time. A job in Houston kept him at home until this week.

Proceeds of tomorrow night's game will go toward purchasing new uniforms for the Texas Tech band. Members of the musical organization are selling tickets today and tomorrow. The price of admission is 40 cents, grandstand, no seats reserved.

Players Manage League Leaders

TERRY AND CRONIN TO DIRECT THEIR TEAMS IN WORLD SERIES

(NOTE: This is the first of a series analyzing and comparing the forthcoming world series rivals, Giants and Senators).

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (AP)—For the first time since 1906, the American and National league rivals for the "world baseball championship" both will be directed on the field by player managers.

There have been a number of player pilots since then, of course, on one side of the battleground or the other but William Harold Terry of the Giants and Joseph Cronin of the Senators will be the first pair to combine master-minding and personal exploits in the world series since Fielder Jones led the Chicagon White Sox to triumph over Frank Chance's Cubs.

Senators Confident

The Senators expect history to repeat itself. Cronin carries the Washington banner into the championship fray where "Bucky" Harris, then the "boy wonder," left off as the pilot of the pennant-winning Senators of 1924-25. They whipped the world champion Yankees. They expect to "take" the Giants.

Giant rooters have faith in Terry, as John McGraw's successor, for the reason that he has already achieved the supposingly "impossible" by bringing the club home in front this year after being picked to finish no better than sixth. "Memphis Bill" himself thought at the outset he would be lucky to land in the first division and third place was the best he hoped for.

"Forced The Breaks"

"But once we got the idea we could win, why we simply couldn't lose," laughed Terry when I talked with him during the Giants' triumphant final tour of the west. "You can say we have won because we built up the greatest four-man pitching staff in either league and you would be correct. You can say we got a lot of breaks and that's right too. But the big thing to me is that every man on this club got out there, day after day, and played his head off. We forced a lot of those breaks because we refused to be licked."

Terry and Cronin both are great hitters. Defensively they are the class of their positions, in either big league. They have the knack of setting the pace or producing the hits that count the most. Otherwise they are radically different personalities.

As ball players go Terry is a veteran, while Cronin is in his prime. Bill will be 35 in October and Joe 27 the same month. Cronin was born in San Francisco, Terry in Atlanta.

Terry Is Boss

Terry is in absolute charge of the Giants on the field. He takes orders from no one when it comes to tactics, choice of pitchers or shifts in the lineup. When he replaced McGraw, he determined to be the "boss," so that he could sink or swim on his own responsibility. His success has given him clearer right to command than ever.

Cronin, soft-spoken and less dynamic than his rival, has acquired a thorough knowledge of baseball and shown he can apply it. However, the Senators' field boss has behind him the advice and counsel of one of the game's shrewdest strategists, Clark Griffith. The president of the Washington club was a famous manager and pitcher in his day. He is still the "Old Fox" and the man behind the Senatorial guns. If there is any heavy thinking or weighty decisions to be made "Griff" makes them.

EQUIPOISE GIVEN ONE MORE CHANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Equipoise will run one last race for sentiment's sake and then retire to the blue grass of Kentucky.

Beaten for the first time this season in the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont park last Saturday, the gallant little chestnut son of Pennant-Swinging, handicap champion of America for the past two years and fourth in the world list of money-winners, will go to the post in the Havre de Grace handicap Sept. 30 in an effort to end his racing career with a victory.

Equipoise ran with a slight crack in the wall of his off front hoof in the Gold Cup in which he was badly beaten by the Wheatley stable's Dark Secret and Morton L. Schwartz' Gusto and it was this recurrence of hoof trouble that led to the decision to retire him.

"Due to the public interest which Equipoise has aroused," Whitney explained, "I feel that he should be given a chance to end his career with a victory. It is my intention to run him in the Havre de Grace handicap. This will be his last start."

MUSTANGS PRACTICE

DALLAS, Sept. 20. (AP)—After cancelling the scheduled morning workout, Coach Ray Morrison sent his Southern Methodist university Mustangs through a long session yesterday afternoon in which blocking assignments and pasing were worked on.

Cancellation of the morning stanza was due to fear of his men going stale before their opening game here Saturday with Jack Sisco's North Texas Teachers, Morrison said.

LIMIT SET ON TITLE BOUTS

CHAMPIONSHIP EVENTS MUST BE 15-ROUNDS IN THE FUTURE

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 20. (AP)—Challengers will have to bid for world's championships over the 15-round route to get recognition of the National Boxing association, strong arm of the American ring game, under a new chapter in that organization's rule book.

Meeting while on an overnight trip to a northern Minnesota lake resort, the delegates who have been in session since Sunday, decided that 10 or 12-round bouts do not provide a sufficient test in titular matches and picked 15 rounds as the minimum.

To Elect Officers

The annual gathering was due to break up today following the election of new officers. Edward C. Foster, Providence, chairman of the Rhode Island state athletic commission, appeared certain of election to succeed James Brown, Detroit, retiring president.

The meeting also had stern words to say about over-weight matches for champions in meeting boxers coming in under the division limit. It was decided to withhold sanctions of such non-title affairs, in other than four or six round exhibitions.

Emphasis was placed on the case of Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids, Mich., lightweight, who gave Tony Canzoneri a licking in a non-title bout while the latter held the lightweight championship, only to be denied a crack at Tony's crown. The convention thought so well of Ramey that he was listed second to Barney Ross, the champion, in the lightweight listing, one notch ahead of Canzoneri, who was rated third among the 135-pounders.

Rounding out its slate of world's champions, the boxing moguls filled two vacant divisions, recognizing Maxie Rosenbloom as the king of the light heavies, and approving Lou Brouillard as the ace of the middleweights.

DIXIE SERIES OPENER WILL BE TONIGHT

PELS ARE TO BATTLE MISSIONS AT SAN ANTONIO FIELD

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 20 (AP)—The San Antonio Missions, Texas league baseball champions for the first time since 1908 will enter the Dixie series here tonight against New Orleans Southern association champions.

The Pels just won a playoff with Memphis and the Missions survived a Texas league playoff with four clubs involved.

The Missions played to 7900 paid admissions in the final game here that brought the title. More than 2,000 seats have been placed in right field for this series, increasing the capacity to 10,000. The seats were erected by tearing down the right field fence and appropriating part of the street behind right field.

Both "Money" Clubs

The series apparently will simmer down to pitching. Both clubs are known as "money" clubs, and both are the "big inning" type on offensive plays. Either will make runs, and the question of winning will stand squarely on the shoulders of pitchers.

San Antonio was expected to start Fabian Kowalik, ace right hander who won 24 games this year. Kowalik won 15 of his last 17 starts, and won three straights in the Texas league playoffs. But five runs were scored off him in three games. The Missions will follow with Wiltse and Miller here, and probably come back with Kowalik again on Sunday in New Orleans. Walkup, White and Conlan were ready for relief duty.

Messenger To Start

New Orleans was expected to start Andy Messenger old time San Antonio player, tonight in an effort to open the series with a victory.

The Missions were centered on stopping the hitting of Eddie Morgan, right hand swatter who delights in hitting outside balls to right field. The short right field here was made to order for Morgan, who gained fame hitting home runs over Cleveland's short fence in the old park.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

DALLAS, Sept. 20. (AP)—The Southern Methodist university freshmen will open their 1933 football season against the North Texas Aggies of Arlington at Dallas October 10. On October 20 they will play Texas Military college, at Terrell. The game will be played at night. The frosh are scheduled to play a night game against Paris Junior college, at Paris, October 27.

Ohio State Has Three Big "Ifs"

TEAM SHOULD BE GOOD ONE IF THE "IFS" TURN OUT RIGHT

BY JAMES L. RENICK
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20 (AP)—As Coach Sam Willaman has it analyzed, Ohio State university's football team this fall "should be a good team if our three big ifs turn out right."

"If Mickey Vuchinich, whom we're moving from fullback to center, can fill the position as well as I believe he can—

"If Carl Cramer can get started on the right foot and show the sort of brilliance he displayed in 1931 at quarterback—

"And if this sophomore Dick Beltz is as good as they say he is, then we'll be in there fighting and we won't be last," the Buckeye head coach explained.

Dick Smith Missed

"No one realizes what a good center we lost in Dick Smith," he went on. "With Vuchinich on the line we'll have to use Damon Wetzel, Mickey's understudy last year, as the regular fullback, but that's all right. He's better on the offense but inferior defensively. We'll make up for this by playing a six-man line with Vuchinich, backing up the forward wall."

Except for Vuchinich, Ohio's Big Ten team will have a veteran line, with Gillman and Padlow at the ends, Rosequist and Conrad at tackle, and Monahan and Joe Gailus at guard.

The Ohio State schedule:
Oct. 7—Virginia.
Oct. 14—Vanderbilt.
Oct. 21—At Michigan.
Oct. 28—Northwestern.
Nov. 4—Indiana.
Nov. 11—At Pennsylvania.
Nov. 18—At Wisconsin.
Nov. 25—Illinois.

CARDINAL FARMS SET WIN RECORD

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 20 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals are just among the also rans in the National league pennant scrap, but they can proudly proclaim the winning ways of some of the junior Red Birds down on the farm.

Columbus, potent American association member of the Cardinals' farm system, was homeward bound today after winning the league playoff series from Minneapolis, four games to two.

Rochester, another strong unit in the Cardinals' chain, meanwhile held a two-games to one margin over Buffalo in the International league championship engagement. Two more Rochester victories would mean an all-junior Cardinal little world series, something really new in the realm for Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon, the men behind the far flung Red Bird organization.

The first legalized horse and dog racing in Oregon returned $81,250 to the state treasury. The horse meet lasted 20 days, the dog contests 40 nights.

FAIR BOOSTER TRIP MADE

WESTERNER BAND AND LOCAL DELEGATES ADVERTISE FAIR

Eager school children and interested adults—several thousand of them—heard about the 1933 Panhandle-South Plains fair, billed for October 2-7 inclusive, as a goodwill band traveled part of this region Tuesday under the direction of H. D. Woods and William Levine.

Citizens of Shallowater, Anton, Littlefield, Amherst, Sudan, Muleshoe, Morton and Levelland and surrounding territories were given first hand information by Jess C. Levens, attorney, and County Attorney Vaughn Wilson, official speakers on the tour, and by other members of the delegation.

Band On Hand

The Lubbock High School Westerner band under the direction of Student U. V. Blake played its way into the good graces of the people who gathered around in each town visited.

The party, consisting of 19 automobiles loaded to capacity, left the city hall yesterday at 7:30 a. m., had lunch at Muleshoe and arrived back in Lubbock about 5. p. m.

A service truck, furnished jointly by Kuykendall Chevrolet company and Firestone, Inc., served troubled motorists on the trip. However, a few flat tires proved to be the only trouble.

Besides the 40 piece band, about 50 local people made the trip. Business firms who made this first good will trip possible and their representatives follow:

CORD HAS CARRIER FIELD "UP IN AIR;" AUTO-AVIATION MAGNATE ENTERS SHIPBUILDING, TAXI-BUILDING FIELDS

* * * *

By NEA Service

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—What is Errett Lobban Cord up to now?

That's what everyone is asking in the transportation world, which has felt the Cord impact several times before. Acquisition by Cord of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation and the Checker Cab Manufacturing Corporation in one-two style within a few weeks, has set the industrial world buzzing.

Cord, who is only 38, began with auto-building. He bought a rundown loser (Auburn) and swiftly converted it into one of the big auto companies of the country, made money, and left his mark on the design of every car built since that time.

Worried Competitors

He went into aviation, bought a small factory (Stinson), established a plane line (Century) to use his planes, gave the whole plane industry fits with bids for airmail contracts, sold out to a worried competitor, and wound up in control of that competitor. He is one of the big factors in air transportation.

A few weeks ago he gained control of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, whose yards at Camden, N. J., are one of the greatest in the country. In this 200-acre plant, connecting with the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia & Reading railroads, were built the Manhattan and Washington, largest American-built liners, and the Indianapolis, navy's finest new cruiser. Shipping interests are wondering what revolutionary plan may be revolving in the head of E. L. Cord for ocean shipping.

$38,454,000 for Navy

For one thing, just at the time Cord too stock control of New York Shipbuilding, it got contracts to build six of the ships which are to "bring the navy up to date," two light cruisers at $11,077,000 apiece, and four destroyers at $3,775,000 each.

That $38,454,000 order is a nice piece of business for Cord's first venture into shipbuilding, an enterprise that gives him transport interests on land, air, and sea.

But there is one aspect to this shipbuilding deal that has been commonly overlooked. New York Shipbuilding, which is successor to the well-known American Brown Boveri Electrical Company has a license agreement with Maschinenfabrik Augsburg Nurnberg A. C. of Germany for Diesel engine development for railroad traction purposes. Railroads look to a revolution in design and power plant. Cord has great motor-building facilities, and it is just possible that he looks to Diesel railroad power plants, as much as to shipbuilding in this more recent venture. With a stake in autos, airplanes, railroads, and steamships, Cord would straddle the transportation field like a Colossus.

"Success Story" Won't Die

E. L. Cord is living proof that neither four years of depression nor the advent of the New Deal can quite kill off the traditional American "success story." Less than 10 years ago, Cord was buying old Fords from second-hand lots, reconditioning and building trick bodies on them, and reselling them.

Today he adds to already huge auto holdings not only a $15,000,000 shipbuilding plant, but a $4,500,000 taxi-building plant that is one of the largest in the country. The main taxi plant is at Kalamazoo, Mich., where it builds most of the Yellow and Checker cabs that are seen in fleets in the streets of every large city.

Cord got into all this just like any other young fellow who drifts into the automobile business because he has a yen to be around cars. He liked to build them, tinker with them, drive them. He hung around automobile establishments. He got a job selling. He built racing cars and raced them. He ran a wash rack, sold old cars, new cars, ran a trucking line. In 1919 he arrived in Chicago practically broke. Getting a sales job, this time he "caught on." He rose to district manager and general manager, and acquired an interest

Finally "Caught On"

In 1924 Cord was ready to start manufacturing on his own. He went in at Auburn as general manager, and in two years was president and owner. Auburn introduced new idea of weight, power, lines and speed, and it made money. Lycoming Motors, Duesenberg and Columbia Axle fell into his hands.

But such varied interests required fast shuttling back and forth between factories, and Cord flew. He got interested in aviation. Suddenly the industry awoke to the fact that Cord controlled the Stinson Aircraft Co. He was making and selling planes several thousand dollars cheaper than competitors, and producing more than half of the planes built in the country.

To absorb his plane output, Cord started Century Airlines, announcing that he was prepared to parallel every airline in the United States. But he couldn't get any mail contracts, and an airline without mail contracts is just beer without the 3.2.

Storms in Aviation

So Cord offered to carry airmail for 30 cents a mile instead of the prevailing rate of 85 cents. But he got no mail. Cord then readjusted pilots' pay in a way they claimed was an unjust and violent cut. Twenty-one of them suddenly found themselves without jobs—a strike, said the Cord people—a lockout, said the pilots. All this was aired in a Congressional hearing over the airmail rates. But Cord got no airmail contracts. So he gave up—apparently. Century was absorbed by American Airways.

But as his price, of course, Cord was given an interest in American Airways, which held more airmail contracts than any other line. He got his airmail contracts through the back door. Differing on policies with La Motte Turck Cohu, president of American Airways, Cord tangled in a struggle for control. With his ally, W. Averill Harriman, son of the late railroad builder, E. H. Harriman, Cord forced a "compromise" which is believed to give him control of the American Airways board. With another strong ally in banker Frank Vanderlip and his partner Lucius Bass Manning, Cord is expected to add other air interests at any time, aiming at no less than a dominant position in air transport.

What Next?

Now what does E. L. Cord want with a shipbuilding company? Is it ships or Diesel engines for railroads that interests him? What new competitive struggle in transport comes next.

The industrial world would give a good deal to know. But Cord, secure in his home at Balboa Beach, near Los Angeles, Cal., from which he conducted the shipyard and taxicab deals through associates in the east, is not saying. The collegiate-looking, slender, earnest young crown prince of transportation remains with his wife and two sons, his dogs and his speedboat at Balboa Beach.

ERRETT LOBBAN CORD

He caused a splash in automobiles and airplanes . . . now he goes in for shipbuilding, Diesel engines, taxicabs. . . . What next.

OLD ARMY MULE HAS PLACE IN TRANSPORTATION

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 20 (AP)—Modern transportation agencies are fast and efficient in most respects, but when the going gets rough the old army mule still takes the lead in getting there and back.

This fact, recently demonstrated by the mule-drawn ambulances on the second medical regiment in the storm area around Harlingen, again is being emphasized by action of the eighth corps area in sending a pack train from Fort Bliss at El Paso to carry supplies to two civilian conservation corps companies in Arizona.

The two companies are being moved from the rim of the Grand Canyon down to its floor for protection against cold weather, and the pack train is the only means of transportation that can reach the camp sites.

The pack train, one of the few units of its kind now in existence, is composed of a staff sergeant and 13 other enlisted men with 50 pack mules, 14 riding mules and a bell mare.

Each pack mule carries a load of 250 pounds, an aggregate of 11,500 pounds for the train each trip.

Supplies for one of the companies, which has been located on the rim of the west side of the canyon, have been shipped from Fort Sam Houston to a point in California by rail and back to a town in Utah. From there they have been carried 185 miles by truck. Use of the pack train will do away with this long haul.

More students are graduated yearly from Kansas high schools than were enrolled in all the schools of the state 30 years ago.

Will He Be Another Phil?

James Scott, 275 pounds and seven feet three inches of him, has decided on a professional ring career. Scott, now in the Citizens Conservation Corps at Asheville, N. C., is much larger than Carnera and, in the above picture, makes Firpo Hipps, his trainer, look like a midget. After Phil Scott, however, a lot of fight customers will have to be shown.

Old Dobbin Makes Comeback In Erath

STEPHENVILLE, Sept. 20 (AP)—Old Dobbin is coming back to the hitching racks in Erath county, as is Old Beck. That at least was the sign of the times last Saturday afternoon when more than 20 teams of mules and horses dozed on the trade lot while the farmers did their shopping and trading. In addition to the 20 teams that stood with heads drooped over wagon sideboards there were two comparatively new buggies and at least 8 horses with saddles.

The count did not include the 35 or 40 teams hooked to cotton wagons.

RULING MADE ON ELECTRIC IRONS

Fire Marshal D. A. Forbess yesterday warned that "all electric irons within the City fire limits must have pilot lights or be equipped with automatic cutoff mechanism."

The fire marshal reminded that twice this year "a serious fire could have resulted in Lubbock as a result of leaving connected an electric iron."

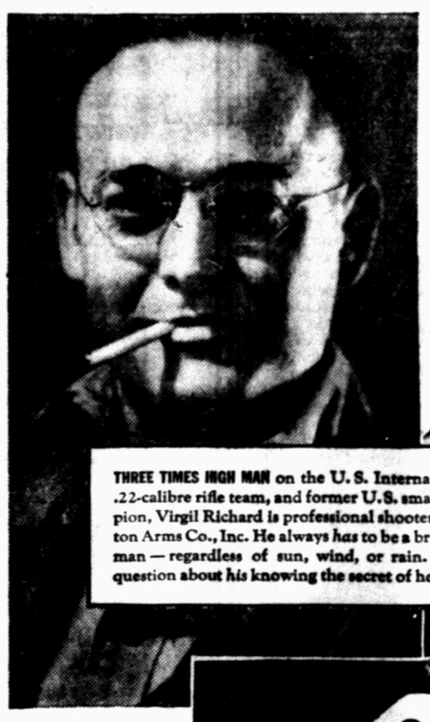

"But for these fires being quickly discovered and promptly put out by the fire department, many thousands of dollars damage to buildings and merchandise would have been sustained," the fire marshal continued.

"All fire losses in Lubbock affect our insurance rates," the fire marshal said. "The state fire insurance commission makes all rates in direct proportion to actual losses by fires."

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A SHARPSHOOTER

THREE TIMES HIGH MAN on the U. S. International Dewar .22-calibre rifle team, and former U. S. small bore champion, Virgil Richard is professional shooter for Remington Arms Co., Inc. He always has to be a brilliant marksman — regardless of sun, wind, or rain. There is no question about his knowing the secret of healthy nerves!

DURING THE DAY'S SHOOTING, and later around the evening fire, Camels add to the pleasure of your outing. As Virgil Richard says, "Camels are a much milder cigarette and they never interfere with my nervous control, no matter how much I smoke."

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

VIRGIL RICHARD, in discussing smoking and shooting, says: "People often ask me if a professional sharpshooter can smoke as much as he wants. I've been enjoying cigarettes for years, without difficulty in keeping my nerves in shape for making record scores in tournament shooting events. That's because I have long been a Camel smoker. I have experimented with all the popular brands, and I find Camels are better for steady smoking. They're a much milder cigarette, and they never interfere with my nervous control, no matter how much I smoke."

Switch to Camels. You'll like the remarkable mildness . . . the fine, rich flavor of Camel's costlier tobaccos. You'll have satisfying proof that Camels do not interfere with healthy nerves.

Liquor Preparation

It is encouraging to notice that a number of states are beginning to study the kind of liquor control laws that will be open for adoption if and when the federal prohibition law is finally repealed.

A number of commissions have been appointed to collect evidence. Some of them have sent delegations to the Canadian provinces to see how the different varieties of liquor control work out north of the border. At the same time, dispatches from Washington indicate that the federal government is about to collect information on the matter.

It is not a bit too early to start this work. Unless all signs fail the prohibition law has only a short time to live. The whole problem will then be turned back to the states, and it is essential that the states have the information which will enable them to make an intelligent choice of their course thereafter.

On the way back your humble servant stopped off at Tulia and made a pop call on Ed 'Perchmouth' Stanton who just got a death sentence in the Swisher county seat for alleged complicity in the fatal shooting of ex-Sheriff Moseley there.

But 'Perchmouth' wouldn't talk.

He broke right down and confessed that as far as he was concerned newspapermen were personas non grata and walked off and left The Plainsman gazing through the bars.

THEY sure aren't taking any chances with Stanton's escaping up there at Tulia; they don't want to copy Dallas' experience with Harvey Bailey.

The Plainsman said a shake-down would be o. k., and Mr. McDonald did the job up brown. When he didn't find any pistols, saws, pickaxes or shotguns he led the way to the cell.

But the visit was a total flop.

Mr. Stanton didn't have anything to say for publication—or anything else.

Problem For Politicians

"Buy Now" Campaign To Be Conducted With Care To Avoid Unduly High Prices Which Might Cause A Buyers' Strike

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
The Evening Journal's Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The "Buy Now" campaign will be handled with care.

The secret fear of the NRA high command is that ballyhoo would encourage the profiteers, boost prices and develop a buyers' strike.

Butcher

One of NRA's chief aims is to keep prices from rising too rapidly, ahead of purchasing power.

So a reasoned, relatively unemotional educational campaign is planned. Its objective, in the words of Administrator Johnson, is to get us all to "spend to the limit of our prudent needs."

The threat of higher prices will be used, however. Speeches and advertisements will explain why and how prices are going up on specific items. Higher labor costs under NRA codes, agricultural processing taxes, shortages of stocks and other factors will be detailed.

Patriotic Appeal Planned

A patriotic appeal—"put and keep people at work"—will also be used. Consumers will be told, for example, that every purchase of an automobile helps support 5,000,000 persons. The interdependence of business will be heavily stressed.

Campaign officials are optimistic, especially as a result of newspaper display advertising figures which showed for August the first increase during the depression over the same month the year before.

Army's C. C. C. Assignment

The army is grumbling over its assignment to handle the Civilian Conservation Corps—more than ever since the life of the camps was extended another six months.

Officers and their wives object to long separations which force them to maintain two establishments, with inevitable extra expense. Officers miss the company of other officers and in most cases do not relish their association with the young foresters.

About 4000 regular army men and 1000 reserve officers are detailed to the camp. About half the regulars will soon be replaced by reservists. (It is estimated that the army is normally overstaffed to the extent of 2000 officers.)

The State Department has joined the list of NRA violators among the government agencies, since the second Cuban revolution.

It began at six o'clock one morning when Secretary Hull and a dozen others were telephoned and told the news. Hull, Assistant Secretary Caffrey and others have since frequently worked until midnight.

About midnight Chief Michael J. McDermott of the Current Information Division was called from his bed to issue that statement which said we were taking no position for or against any Cuban group. He telephoned the morning newspaper correspondents.

Quieted Rumors

The new Cuban government had been inspiring rumors that Washington was about to recognize it. Its sympathizers were also charging Ambassador Welles with a plot to restore Cespedes.

The opposition was claiming American support. The department felt almost anything might happen before morning—and that it might be caused by false reports.

THE PLAINSMAN GETS SOME MAIL

NRA AND BIBLICAL PROPHECIES DISCUSSED

Dear Plainsman: It is noted that in Lubbock, 283 people refused to sign the NRA agreement on account of religious scruples. To many this number will have a deep significance, as denoting the number who refused to take the "sign of the beast." Its significance can be readily interpreted by those familiar with the weird interlopations of prophecy. For instance: the number 283 may be analyzed to indicate the number 666 which is the king pin number of mysticism referred to in Revelation. Let us see how we may arrive at this by the well known process of scientific Biblical analysis. The number 283 indicates the number 666 thus: Subtract the first digit from the second; multiply the last digit by the first, multiply the first digit by the last, then you have 666. Very simple.

To those who are trained in the mysteries of ancient and accepted prophecy, the past, present and future history of the world is easy. All that is necessary is to understand fully what is meant by such phrases as: "The abomination that maketh desolate"; "The beast with seven heads and ten horns"; "The beast whose deadly wound was healed"; "The voice of a dragon"; "Thunders, lightnings and earthquakes"; "The stars falling to earth"; "The heavens rolling up as a scroll"; "The voice of a trumpet"; and "Wars and famines and pestilences."

It occurs to the writer that the falling of the stars will be the worst calamity. For instance, when Bethelguse hits this mundane sphere that will be something. This star is many thousands times larger than the earth. But this will have to happen before the battle of Armageddon, or before Gog and Magog get to fighting. If not, no one will be able to see the moon turn to blood, or the sun look like sackcloth.

After all, why does it matter, seeing that only 144,000 are among the number who are sealed as the elect; and they happen to be Jews. So why worry about the time? By the way the time has been set in three different places in the Scriptures It is very plain. It says it shall be for "Time, Times and a half Times".

AUSTIN, Sept. 20 (AP)—The veil of secrecy that has pervaded some department of the state capitol like an impenetrable fog has grown irksome to newspaper reporters.

The latest bureau commission or department to close its doors and transact public business in executive session and then hand to the press what it cares to give out is the newly-created state racing commission.

Old Argument Renewed

There is the argument that executive sessions are justified where desired and that some things that happen are not public property there is the public's side, as well. Taxpayers will argue they are entitled to know what goes on, just as stockholders of a private corporation feel they should be kept advised.

The Texas highway commission always opens its bids and listens to delegations of those seeking to discuss local problems in the open but it transacts some very important business in executive sessions. The minutes, or portions of the minutes, are ultimately made available to the newspapers but discussions that enter into their making never are revealed.

The board of regents of the University of Texas likewise holds closed meetings and later gives to the press the results, or, maybe in some cases, partial results.

Now Has A Rival

State Senator John Hornsby of Austin long has been the "official greeter" for visitors to the capital. "Welcome to your capital city," is his salutation.

He has a rival now in the person of Tom Miller, the new mayor. Miller is deeply concerned with affairs civic, state and national. He took a leading part in the recent $20,000,000 state bond issue unemployment relief campaign.

Knows How He Feels

Walter A. Koons, one of Attorney General James V. Allred's assistants, lately had an attractive offer from the federal government to do legal work for it during the relief emergency. Koons' knowledge of a certain branch of the law and the ease with which he applied it attracted the admiration of federal officials while the attistant attorney general was in Washington on business connected with the attorney general's department.

Koons pondered the offer, trying to decide what to do. It got to be a subject around his home.

One day Koons' nine-year-old daughter said:

"Daddy I know exactly how you feel. I remember when I first entered the grammar school they wanted me to play in the orchestra—either the drums or the xylophone. I could not make up my mind which one to take and it worried me."

Reconciliation Of Royal Family Seen

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, Sept. 20 (AP)—A reconciliation between former King Alfonso of Spain and his eldest son who, for love, renounced his claim to the throne, is believed imminent.

"The royal family asks nothing but silence in this matter," the Marquis de Torres, spokesman for Alfonso, said today. "Comments could only hinder the negotiations."

The Count of Covadonga, who renounced his title of Prince of the Asturias to marry the former Edelmira Sampedro, a Cuban commoner, is remaining in Paris with his bride. He is hopefully awaiting his father's invitation to come to Fontainebleau with his wife and be officially welcomed back to court.

Alfonso and his son had a secret meeting Saturday in a Paris hotel. What happened at the interview was not divulged but at its conclusion father and son seemed deeply affected.

BRIEN WINS NOMINATION

THER TAMMANY HALL CANDIDATES BEATEN IN TUESDAY VOTE

BY DALE HARRISON
(By The Associated Press)

YORK, Sept. 20—Mayor P. O'Brien the number one didate of Tammany Hall, won a way nomination for mayor in sday's Democratic primary ction, defeating Congressman ring M. Black and Assemblyman mbe G. Ambro by approximately ree-to-one.

The vote (3,727 out of 3,794 elec- n districts):
O'Brien 211,109.
Black 95,173.
Ambro 27,209.

One Tammanyite Beaten

In the scalping of Black and Am- o, however, the Tammany braves t some head feathers. Their incipal disappointment was ac- plished by Frank J. Prial who n nomination as controller. Prial feated the Tammany choice, John Herman.

The vote, (3,729 out of 3,794 elec- n district):
rial 236,127.
rman 150,880.

rman was the personal choice John H. McCooey, Brooklyn ally John Curry, Tammany chief, Prial, viously had virtually the solid rt of the city's civil service em- —policemen, firemen, school hers and others—from whose he has risen politically and in cause he was constantly t. Ordinarily the civil service oyes are the backbone of Tam- 's voting strength.

Other Tigers Tefeated

er Tammany defeats included shelving by Democrats of the assembly district of Thomas M. ley as district leader, the place ng to Michael T. McCarron. Far- , former sheriff of New York nty, was removed from office by anklin D. Roosevelt, then gov- nor, following disclosures made at Seabury investigation into city fairs. As a consequence of the abury testimony Farley, long an ive Tammany figure, acquired nickname among his political of "Tin Box" Farley.

Curry, Tammany leader, was not ined to be talkative as he de- ted from Tammany headquar- shortly before 2 o'clock this rning.

"I have nothing to say except good ," he said.

Mayor O'Brien confined his com- nt to the statement that so far as mayoral vote was concerned it "very gratifying."

Congressman Black, runner-up for e nomination, noted that in one anhattan election district the vote O'Brien was unanimous., and he arked:

"It looks as if somebody's going ail for this."

Disorders Reported

Several disorders marked the vot- g, especially in the 14th (York- lle) assembly district of Manhat- n where Farley has ruled a score years. A beer garden was wreck- by strong-arm men who ripped the bar, smashed furniture and oke mirrors. The proprietar said e hoodlums shouted to him:

"So you will vote for McCarron, ?"

McCarron, who had campaigned gorously for Farley's job, called additional police, charging that ugs had been sent into the dis- ict to attack his supporters.

The Republican voting was with- t contest except for the fight of muel S. Koenig to retain his hairmanship of the New York unty Republican committee ainst Chase Mellen, jr. Incom- ete returns indicated that Koe- g's 22-year leadership of the party d been broken. Among district mmitteemen on the Koenig slate ho were defeated was Dr. Nicholas urray Butler, president of Colum- a university.

As a result of yesterday's vote rdict Tammany will go into the ovember 7 election backing Mayor Brien against a fusion ticket eaded by Fiorello H. LaGuardia, epublican, whose nomination yes- rday, along with that of a slate aving fusion committee approval, s a quiet formality.

TAXICAB WAR BROUGHT TO LIGHT IN LUBBOCK; CLAIM FRAME-UP ATTEMPTED

What investigators describe as a taxicab war has been brought to light through the sheriff's department's disclosure of an allegation of an attempt to "frame" an 18-year-old driver.

A 26-year-old woman signed a statement saying she left a package containing liquor in a taxi Saturday night at the request of a rival driver.

Eldon (Boe) Bryant, a driver, was arrested by police about 8:50 o'clock Saturday night and held uniti about 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Police found a half gallon of whisky in the cab Bryant was driving and it was this whisky that the woman said she had left in the car.

Bryant last night said that tops of three cars owned by City Cab company, 1218 Broadway, had been slashed with a knife and that upholstery of one car had been slashed. The machines were damaged after City Cab had failed to follow an increase in the price of fares, Bryant said.

The woman was arrested by police for drunkenness last month. She was fined $25 and had paid all of it except about $4, she said. Upon her release, she went to a hotel in the 1000-block of Avenue G.

About 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, a Lubbock man went to her room and "wanted to know if I would leave a package in a car for him," she said. At 8:30 the same cab driver came for her, carried her to a drug store north of the courthouse square, and as she got out he handed her the package, she said.

She had a boy call a cab for her. Her statement said:

"Pretty soon a City Cab came, the driver was a boy with glasses on. x x x I told the City Cab driver to take me to the Santa Fe station.

"He drove me down there, and when we got to the station, I told the driver I had forgotten an over-night case at the hotel, and asked him to drive back and get it. x x x The boy drove away with that package in the cab. After he left there was a cab waiting for me. It either just drove up or was already parked there."

The woman was arrested by the sheriff's department at the hotel in the 1000-block of Avenue G about an hour later. She still was held last night.

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20 (AP) — Cotton opened weak today, 5 to 15 points down on hedge selling and lower Liverpool cables. There was some short covering at these levels but it was supplied at recoveries of a point or two and the market broke sharply on a wave of selling induced by a belief that a wide divergence of opinion existed between the administration and the southern farming interests over inflation.

Before the offerings were absorbed October dropped to 9.83 and December to 10.05, or 42 points down from yesterday's close. There was a rally of 11 points later in the first hour but the undertone continued unsettled.

Offerings became active after the call, and the market broke rapidly, numerous stop orders being uncovered on the decline. December contracts sold off to 10.05 with active months generally showing net losses of 43 to 50 points under the selling which came from practically all directions, including the far east, Europe and India, according to local brokers.

The quick break of over $2.00 per bale evidently attracted trade demand and covering. After the stop orders had been absorbed, volume tapered off somewhat and there were partial recoveries. At the end of the first half hour December was selling around 10.31 with active months showing net losses of 20 to 28 points.

The market ruled nervous and unsettled all morning, although trading was fairly active. After dip of 42 points the market rallied, December advancing to 10.30, or 25 points up from the lows. Near midsession prices eased off again until October traded at 9.95 and December 10.17, or 12 points up from the lows of the morning, but still 30 points below yesterday's close.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged to 8 points lower with inflationary buying offset by southern and foreign selling. Oct. 10.27; Dec. 10.48; Jan. 10.58; March 10.77; May 10.92; July 11.05.

After the early selling, the market rallied on trade and commission house buying. There also was some rebuying by early sellers on the rally which carried December up from 10.05 to 10.36 or about 30 points from the early low. This bulge met further liquidation and southern selling, however, and later fluctuations were nervous and irregular. At midday December was selling around 10.19 with the general list showing net losses of 29 to 34 points. A report by a weekly trade paper estimating the crop at 12,191,000 bales apparently had little effect on the immediate market.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Topsy-turvy financial markets today presented an enigma to bullish and bearish forces alike as contrary trends appeared in most speculative and investment categories.

Stocks seemingly were inclined to the hysterical and a series of slumps and rallies blurred the trading picture in such a manner that its outlines generally were indiscernible. Prices broke shortly after the opening under a barrage of profit taking. The ticker tape ran behind and large blocks of the recent favorites were sold for losses of 1 to 3 or more points. Then there was a moderate recovery and another sag in the second hour. The activity tended to die down on the mild rallies. Grains, cotton and other commodities were rather heavy. The dollar dropped to a new low in terms of gold currencies, but steadied later. Highest grade bonds continued weak.

Metal shares failed to respond to another advance in the price of gold to $32.28 an ounce. U. S. Smelting was off about 4. Other losers of 1 to 3 or more included American Telephone, U. S. Steel, New York Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, National Distillers, Chrysler, Ollied Chemical, Case, American Can, Western Union, Westinghouse and Goodyear. Even the oils were easier.

The United States government purchased 12,500 trucks for the reforestation army. An average of less than $500 was paid for each truck.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 20. (AP)—Uncertainty regarding Washington financial policies, together with some acute weakness shown by the cotton market made grain prices shaky most of the time today.

One strong rally in wheat was witnessed afternoon, but a late selling flurry tumbled the market backward afresh to almost the day's low point. The maximum decline for wheat today was 2 1-2 cents a bushel.

Wheat closed unstable, 1 5-8 to 2 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 7-8 to 1 3-8 down, oats 1-4 to 1 cent off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents lower.

NRA Chiselers Are Flayed By Howard

L. A. Howard, a Lubbock attorney, before the Lions club in the Hilton hotel Tuesday, described chiselers against the national recovery administration as worse than slackers in the world war.

"And the man who doesn't lend his moral support to the president's recovery program and constantly criticizes those who are trying to do their part is just as big a chiseler as any of them," he said. He also declared consumers who signed the consumer pledge cards and then bought from non-members of the NRA were "the meanest of chiselers".

He placed chiselers in three classes, namely—the fellow who does a lot of sniping against NRA members who are trying to do their part; the fellow who won't lend his moral support to the cause and lastly the consumer-chiseler.

Howard said the NRA came along "just in time" as the government was facing one of the most crucial periods in its history when President Roosevelt took office.

Talks on Chalice of Antioch—Dr. W. A. Jackson, head of the department of government of Texas Technological college, declared an exhibit of "The Great Chalice of Antioch" as the outstanding display of A Century of Progress in a talk before members of the Lubbock Rotary club at Hotel Lubbock today noon.

"It is the most wonderful work of first century art people know anything about," Dr. Jackson declared after giving a detailed explanation of how the cup was discovered and scientifically identified. "And there's no doubt in my mind that the inner silver cup, just an ordinary silver cup, isn't the cup of the Last Supper, for why would such a work of art be used to cover such an ordinary cup unless it hadn't been dear to a certain group of people."

Dr. Jackson said there was no price on the chalice, the owner won't sell it and the price charged for admission won't even begin to pay for the insurance carried on it. He estimated that only about one out of every 100,000 people visiting the fair stopped to see the exhibit.

Out-of-town visitors at the luncheon were: Fred Haile of Spur, F. Hudspeth of El Paso and Harley Sadler of Sweetwater.

Says Texas Relief Work Satisfactory

AUSTIN, Sept. 20 (AP)—Aubrey Williams, regional representative of the federal emergency relief administration, told the legislature today that the work of the Texas Rehabilitation and Relief commission had been "eminently satisfactory" to the federal organization.

Speaking to a joint session of the house and senate, Williams said that Lawrence Westbrook, director of the state commission, was "impeccably honest" and that he had surrounded himself with capable assistants.

CHECKS RECEIVED

SEAGRAVES, Sept. 20 (Special) —Thirty nine cotton checks, amounting to $8,956, havve been received by Gaines county farmers, Lee R. Pool, county agent, announces. A total of $39,807 will be received by 182 farmers in the county, who signed contracts, Mr. Pool added.

KIDNAP TRIAL

ed R. W. Fender, Fort Worth National bank vice president, about a safety deposit box in the name of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon, other defendants, which contained, the banker said, $350 in currency, a diamond studded watch and three diamond rings.

Letter Introuced

Another break in the chain of testimony came a few minutes later when John G. Catlett, Tulsa oil man friend of Urschel, brought to the witness stand the letter in Urschel's handwriting he received from the kidnapers that proved to be the first authentic information the family received after the abduction.

The letter, which Urschel testified yesterday was written by him as dictated by the kidnapers, was submitted in evidence. It asked Catlett to deliver an enclosed note of instructions to Mrs. Urschel or to E. E. Kirkpatrick, business associate who was helping the family.

Catlett received the letter by telegraph messenger. The large envelope contained business and club cards with Urschel's signature, which Catlett said he recognized immediately.

Note Read To Jury

Hyde read the note slowly to the jury. In it, Urschel impressed on Catlett the need for secret negotiations. The kidnapers instructed that a farm for sale advertisement be placed in the Oklahoma City Oklahoman and indicated further instructions would be received later.

Urschel urged Catlett to proceed cautiously for his life was in danger.

"For my sake follow the instructions and do not discuss it with anyone not named . . . this is my final letter to my friends and family."

Urschel was called back to the stand for two words of testimony. Hyde handed him the letter.

"Did you write that?" he asked.

"I did," Urschel replied, and left the witness chair.

Denverites Questioned

A number of residents of Denver were questioned by D. E. Hodges, assistant district attorney, to establish the movements of Bates, alias Albert Davis, last April, May, June and July.

W. C. Pollock and his wife, the former manager of an apartment building, said Bates rented from them. His car was stored at a garage nearby, M. C. Montgomery, garageman, testified. Tom Flaherty, service station operator, told that he serviced the machine during this period.

Each witness pointed out Bates, accused as one of the actual abductors of Urschel.

Efforts of the defense to shake Urschel's kidnap story previously had been thrown overboard with unexpected suddenness. Instead of the star witness being pounded with cross-examination queries from defense counsel, he was asked only a dozen unimportant questions, and walked from the witness stand leaving the jury an unchallenged story of kidnaping and violence.

LITTLEFIELD IS HAVING BOOM

BUSINESS MEN REPORT EMPLOYMENT GAIN ON BREW SALES

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 20 (Special) —Littlefield is on a boom!

The sale of 3.2 beer here has brought smiles to the faces of business men and citizens.

Littlefields business district has been filled with cars since sale of the brew started Monday and each night finds a caravan of visitors from over the South Plains making its way toward this little Lamb county town.

"I've been to Littlefield" stickers have been pasted on all out-of-town cars.

Employment Gains

Employment has increased, a large number of workers having been employed solely for handling the sale of the new brew. J. C. Whicker, owner of the Littlefield hotel, and one of the leaders in the beer movement, reports the best feeling among business men in the past several years. Sale of the brew is affecting all lines of business.

R. B. Jones, manager of the Big Sign cafe, has employed six new men for beer dispensing and waiting; H. F. Moody of the Sweet Adeline Sandwich shop has put on eight new employes; L. G. Thedford of the Palace confectionery, has increased his staff while A. H. Thornton, owner of the Hamburger King cafe, reports several new employes in his business.

Jim Etter, wholesole distributor for one brand of beer, is keeping a large staff busy distributing the brew to the retail places here as is Carter McDonald of the McDonald Beer company of Amarillo.

W. J. "Bill" Chesher, owner of the Palace heater, reports better business in his line than in the past two years.

BEER RACKETS ARE OPPOSED

INTENSIVE DRIVE TO STAMP OUT PRACTICE MADE BY BREWERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—In an intense drive to stamp out racketeering in the beer trade, brewers of the metropolitan area joined forces today with liquor control authorities in New York and New Jersey.

As law enforcers rushed investigation of racketeering reports, the brewers board of trade, in large advertisements, appealed to "law-abiding citizens" to lend aid.

Edward P. Mulrooney, former police commissioner and chairman of New York state's alcoholic beverage control board, said unscrupulous distributors offered the greatest threat to legitimate breweries.

"Our investigations so far," Mulrooney declared, "show clearly that such distributors are behind a few racketeering attempts."

This knowledge, Mulrooney said, caused the board yesterday to ask brewers and wholesalers to supply it with photographs and fingerprints of all male employes.

The control "czar" said he should have by tomorrow a full report of a recent incident in Brooklyn, in which proprietors of a beer garden were reported severely beaten after refusing to handle exclusively the product of a brewery.

If such reports are true, the brewers' advertisements read, racketeering "must be stamped out."

Slaton NRA Board Appointments Made

ANNIE BESANT DIES TODAY

THEOSOPHICAL LEADER WORN OUT MENTALLY AND PHYSICALLY

MADRAS, India, Sept. 20 (AP) — Dr. Annie Besant, who was known throughout the world for her leadership in theosophical activities, died here today. On Oct. 1 she would have been 86 years old.

The peacefulness of her last few days was in vivid contrast to the storm of her life. She was in a state of half-consciousness for some time, never speaking at length even to her most intimate friends.

Dr. Besant had no malady except old age. She was mentally and physically worn out.

Many theosophists expressed the opinion that her last days were marred by a disappointment in Jeddu Krishnamurti, a Hindu in whom, Dr. Besant said at one time, the "reincarnation of Christ" would be made manifest. Subsequently, Krishnamurti announced that he no longer held with the tenets of Dr. Besant's religion.

the subject now.

Meanwhile, the committee headed by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) to see what additional powers the agriculture department might use to give relief to cotton growers this year, resumed its discussions with George N. Peek, farm adjustment administrator, and other department officials. The convention itself was slated to meet again today.

Senator Thomas served notice he would not participate in the move started by Charles N. Sapp of Columbia, S. C., for a cotton selling holiday.

No Agreement Reached

The convention last night fought over the issue for more than two hours and finally recessed without agreement. Representative Jeffers (D-Ala) took the role as peacemaker and persuaded the divided groups to postpone action.

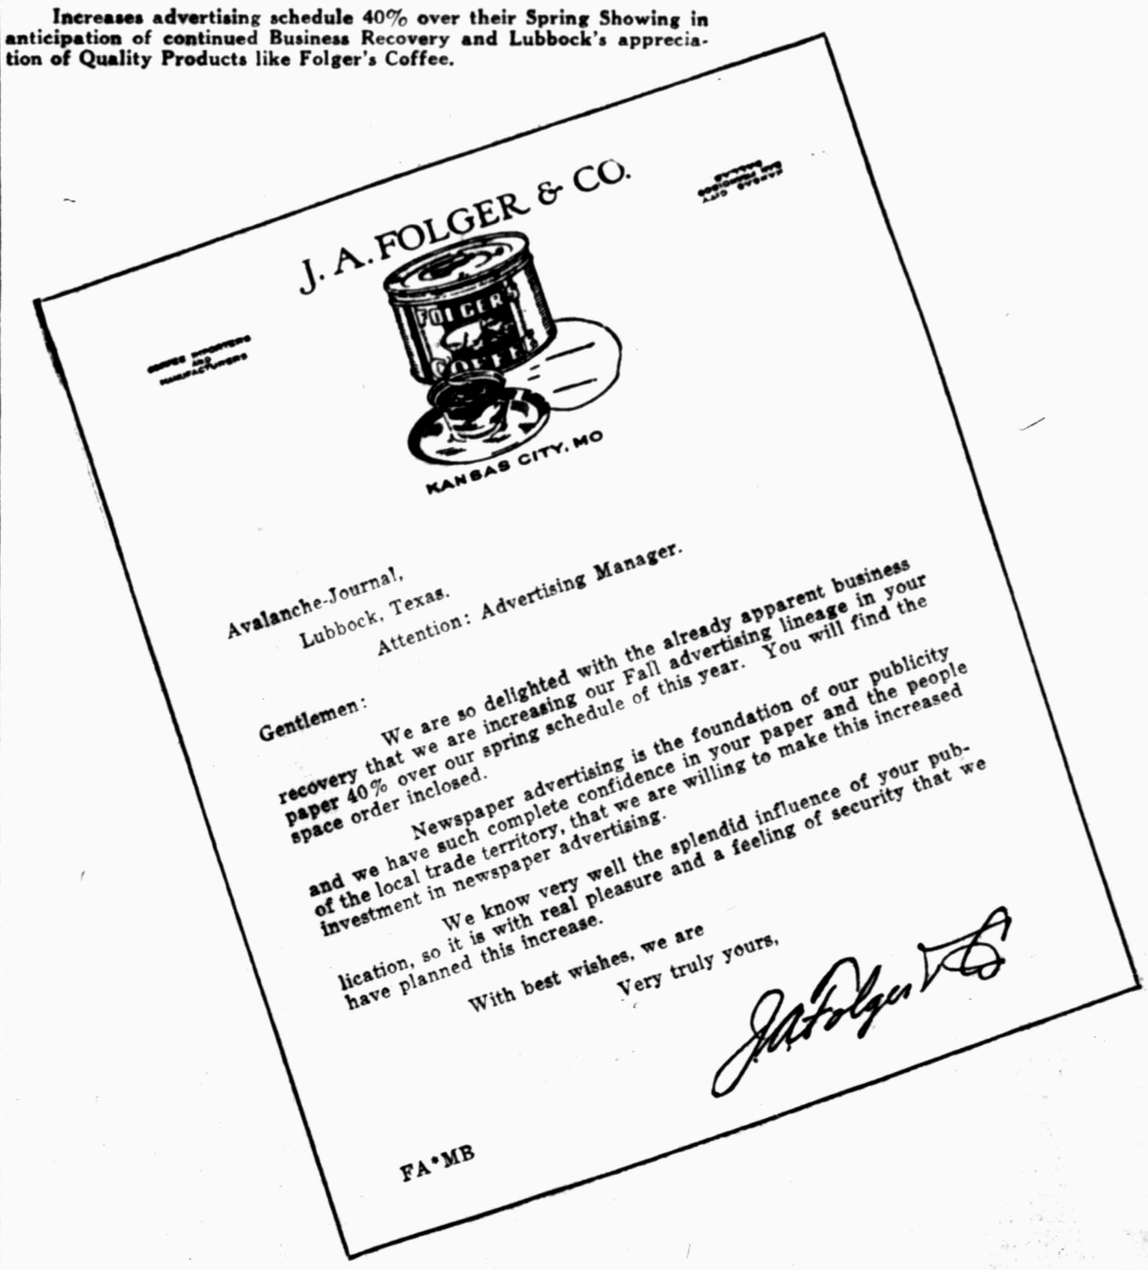

This was considered tantamount to killing the Sapp proposal, which was described by Representative Rankin of Mississippi and Wilson of Louisiana as slaps at the Roosevelt administration. Senator Bankhead and Rankin and Wilson led the fight against the Sapp proposition.

Informed of the president's willingness to receive the delegates, Senator Thomas said he would attempt to find out their attitude later in the day.

Scotland Yard has identifed more than 17,000 suspected persons by fingerprints in a single year; nearly 30,000 fingerprints are on file there.

MASONIC MEET SET FRIDAY

OPEN AIR RITUAL IS TO BE IN SAND HILLS OF LAMB COUNTY

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 20 (Special)—Postponed for a week because of weather conditions and bad roads, an open air Masonic ritual is to be held by the Littlefield lodge in a natural sand hill bowl 25 miles northeast of here, Friday night, September 22.

Two degrees are to be given candidates, one by the local lodge and the other by Yellowhouse lodge of Lubbock.

Lodges Invited

Seventeen lodges from over the South Plains area have been invited to attend. At the same time, according to F. G. Boles, district deputy grand master, Masons who hold their membership elsewhere and who are either living in the area or visiting, are invited.

Following the work, a watermelon feast with Lamb-county-grown melons, will be staged. Melons grown in the sand hills are to be served.

Location of the bowl is given as five miles south of Olton, county seat, or 25 miles northeast of Littlefield.

Giving of the work of Masonry in an out door ceremony is something out of the ordinary in Masonic work. A special dispensation from the grand master must be secured before the work can be given.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

J. H. Moore, secretary of Yellowhouse lodge, has asked that all Masons who plan to attend the open air meeting Friday night, notify him so that arrangements can be made.

Mr. Moore said that he expected large delegations from Tahoka, Levelland, Brownfield, Hale Center and other towns would be in attendance. Two candidates will receive their masters degrees Friday night.

OLD STALGMITE THEORY BLASTED BY CARLSBAD MAN

CARLSBAD, N. M., Sept. 20 (AP)—The theory of scientists that a stalagmite is formed at the rate of a cubic inch in a century has been exploded, at least in some cases, by Ray V. Davis, local photographer, who is given much credit for the development of Carlsbad Cavern as a scenic wonder.

Davis, who first photographed the cave in 1922, estimated that some of the stalagmites have grown from two to three inches during the past decade. He measured the growth by placing sticks or rocks of a definite thickness on top of the cave formations. He said that in some instances objects an inch thick had been buried by the mineral accumulation in two or three years.

The photographer explained that some stalagmites grow faster than others ,and that his measurements were neither entirely accurate nor official. The growth depends upon the amount of seepage, and the mineral content of the drippings.

Davis, who employs stone cutters and workers to polish fragments of stalagmites for commercial purposes, said the limestone formations are about half the hardness of diamonds.

Movement To Move Exchange Favored

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—A large section of the membership of the New York stock exchange, including Richard Whitney, president, and Allen L. Lindley, vice-president, today pledged its support to the movement for the establishment of a new exchange in New Jersey.

Plans for transferring a considerable part of the exchange's business to a market on the west side of the Hudson river and beyond the reach of the transfer and profits taxes which the city proposes to levy on the brokers assumed definite form with the organization of a committee composed of representatives of twelve leading exchange firms.

OBSERVANCE OF JEWISH NEW YEAR IS SCHEDULED TO START HERE TONIGHT

Lubbock Jews at 7:30 o'clock tonight will begin observance of Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish new year, in the Lubbock hotel. C. H. Grollman has announced plans for services.

J. Goldstein of Fort Worth will conduct services tonight, and again at 9 a. m., Thursday and Friday, and 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. Mr. Goldstein will return Friday, Sept. 29, to aid in services during Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which is the most holy day on the Jewish calendar.

Today begins the year 5694, according to the Jewish calendar.

The Jewish custom of observing the first month of the year during the first month of spring began with the release of the tribes from Egyptian captivity. On the first day of the seventh month, a civil new year—that now observed as Rosh Hashonah—began. Crops had been gathered, bondsmen were released after six years' service to return to their families.

Yom Kippur, which will begin at sunset September 29, is a day of fasting. A Jewish saying is that at Yom Kippur God can forgive a man only the sins between himself and God — not those between himself and other men. Consequently one of the responsibilities of individuals traditional at this time is the setting aright of all wrongs and grievances that others may have against him.

ELECTION TIED AS ONE VOTE KILLED

HIGGINS, Sept. 20 (AP)—The throwing out of one illegal ballot, cast by an unnaturalized resident of Higgins, resulted in the vote on local option in Lipscomb county being declared a tie, and will necessitate another election.

Official returns in the election gave 329 votes against and 328 for local option. District Judge W. R. Ewing heard a native Russian who had not been naturalized, testify that he cast a dry ballot, making the vote a tie. He instructed the commissioners to call another election within 30 days.

Because the balloting was so close, both the prohibition forces and the liberal legion agreed not to contest the old election but to call a new one.

MOVES TO LUBBOCK

SEAGRAVES, (Special)—Frank L. Britton, former mayor of Seagraves and pioneer Gaines county sheriff and rancher, has moved to Lubbock where he will begin his duties as inspector for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association. Britton was sheriff four years, residing at Seminole. He was wholesale agent for an oil concern here for several years.

The largest iceberg on record was sighted in 1884 and towered 1700 feet above the sea.

BONE DRY LAW ABOLISHED

NEW MEXICO BALLOTS 3 TO 1 MAJORITY FOR PRO REPEAL

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 20 (AP)—New Mexico had joined the national prohibition repeal parade today by virtue of a three to one majority cast for elimination of the dry law in yesterday's special election. The state also voted to abolish the 15-year-old state bone dry statute.

Only two of New Mexico's 27 counties voted against repeal — Curry and Roosevelt. Returns had been compiled from 257 of the state's 785 precincts. The unreported precincts however, represented only 20 per cent of the estimated vote. The count stood: for repeal 31,166; against repeal 9,842.

The vote for 251 precincts on the state prohibition law was: for repeal 29,570; against repeal, 10,621.

Raps National Leaders

Dr. George W. Hammond, superintendent of the New Mexico Anti-Saloon league, in admitting defeat for his cause, said the results of the New Mexico election and repeal elections in other states "were largely due to the high-handed methods of our national administration to coerce people to vote for repeal."

Voters also approved constitutionality provisions to limit property taxes to 20 mills for all purposes, restricting voting on school indebtedness to property owners. Another constitutional proposal to increase to 12 the present nine judicial districts was buried under a ballot landslide.

MORE CHECKS ARRIVE

Eighty additional checks, amounting to $24,076, were received this morning by County Agent O. G. Tumlinson, it was announced. This is the third time this week that checks have been received and Mr. Tumlinson is expecting a small allotment every day.

BACK TO RALLS

RALLS, (Special)—L. R. Rutledge, former business man here, has returned and bought an interest in the Ralls Tailoring company. He left here several years ago. Mr. Rutledge was formerly in the tailoring business here.

THIN WISP OF SMOKE FROM PEAK IN CHISOS RANGE THOUGHT FROM CRATER

ALPINE, Sept. 20 (AP)—Recently the inhabitants of San Vicente and Hot Springs, southern Brewster county, were amazed at the sight of a thin wisp of smoke curling from the top of one of the peaks in the Chisos mountains. Following reports of the phenomenon a party from Alpine went down to investigate. Ray Miller, well known rancher of that section, told members of the party that the smoke undoubtedly came from an old volcana crater located on the slope of Mt. Emery, tallest peak of the Chisos range. The crater, he said, was located on a "shelf" just below the rimrock near the top of the peak.

Mt. Emery was found by the federal geodetic survey two years ago to be the highest peak in the state, the elevation being 9,996 feet. The "monument" placed on the peak by the geodetic survey is near the location of the old crater, Mr. Miller said. It is now believed that the smoke seen hanging over Mt. Emery came from this crater which was probably a "breather" or a kick-back from some active volcano on this continent.

No announcement has yet been made of any likely scientific investigation of the alleged "breather," but it is hoped by many residents here that such an investigation will be made.

Members of the party making the trip stated upon their return to Alpine that the crater is almost inaccessible and that so far as they could learn no one has ever explored or been within its walls. It cannot be reached from the top of the peak as it is located at the foot of the high perpendicular rimrock, a sheer drop of some two thousand feet.

CANDIDATE NAMED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Robert Bennett Thompson of 1425 Fourth street, Corpus Christi, has been designated by Representative Joseph Weldon Bailey as a candidate for the March 6, 1934, entrance examinations to West Point. Frank Elgin Bomar of 2419 East Yandell boulevard, El Paso, was named alternate.

Persons receiving old-age pensions in St. Louis county, Mn., were given a two months "vacation" when the county decided to save $15,000 by not giving pensions during July and August.

Experiences During Storm Are Related

Mrs. M. C. Cook, a cousin of R. Ira Wilson of Lubbock, has written him of the experiences of her family during the storm in the Rio Grande early this month.

The family remained in their house, near Harlingen, until the windows blew out of their frames. Mr. Cook was away from home at the time. Mrs. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Cook, elderly parents of M. C. Cook, and four children spent hours without shelter during the hurricane. One of the children was only five weeks old.

Mrs. Cook wrote the mosquitoes were "eating us up." They are taking typhoid serum she wrote.

Myron T. Herrick, former governor of Ohio and ambassador to France, once earned money between school terms by selling vinegar.

Tech Band To Play On Thursday Night

Arrangements for half the proceeds to go to the band having been made, the 1933-34 Texas Technological college Matador band will make its first appearance Thursday night at a varsity-freshman football game in Tech field. The band is sponsoring sale of tickets to the contest.

The proceeds will be used to buy new uniforms for the organization, Prof. Harry LeMaire, director, announced. Coach Pete Cawthon said the athletic department felt obligated to the band for its services during the season and was showing appreciation by giving the band one-half of the gate receipts. Ticket for the game will sell for 40 cents.

Mr. LeMaire said he would have approximately 40 members of the band at the game. He has plans for a 100-piece marching band this season and a 60-piece concert organization.

Mrs. Mark Carter of Goose Creek, Tex., won a dress-making contest with a model she created from discarded fertilizer sacks.
