Rebels Breaking Up; Revolt Over

Last Body Of Revolutionary Troops Said To Be Dispersing In Sonora; Number Surrendering

(By Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, April 27. —The rebel arm in southern Sonora, the last considerable body of the forces which less than two months ago controlled nearly half of the country, was declared as separated and dispersed in messages to the government today.

A body of about 250 cavalrymen were said to have left the main insurgent army and headed for the mountains in the vicinity of Sahuaripa, directly east of Hermossilo. They were lead by Generals Roberto Cruz, Enrique Leon, Cristofor Vazquez, Lino Morales and Bardomiano Figueroa. This was taken to mean that they had decided to carry on guerrilla warfare in the almost inaccessible Sierra Madres mountains rather than seek safety in the United States.

Groups Surrendering

Several sizeable groups of rebels already have surrendered and Secretary of War Calles expressed the opinion that the remainder of the army was likely to break up a any moment. Aviators harrassed the rebels with bombs and machine guns while federal cavalry strove to overtake them. The federals captured two abandoned locomotives and 41 railroad cars loaded with ammunition and supplies north of Navojoa.

James L. Dow Resigns As Editor Of The Avalanche

Editor Retires

Veteran Editor Will Give Time to Own Business

JAMES L. DOW, pioneer West Texas and South Plains newspaperman and for nearly 24 years editor of the Lubbock Avalanche, yesterday announced his resignation from the local newspaper field. In announcing his resignation from the staff of the Avalanche-Journal publications Mr. Dow gave as his reasons the necessity of attending to personal business matters and his wish to give more attention to the management and editing of the Ralls Banner, which paper he recently purchased.

Starting at the age of 14 years as a "printers devil" on the Colorado City Spokesman in 1892 Mr. Dow has been engaged in the newspaper and printing business in this sction continuously since his entry into the profession.

Established Borden Paper

Working on the Spokesman and then the Colorado City Daily Clipper, he finished his high school education and in 1899, at the age of 21, he established his own paper, the Borden County Citizen, at Gail, county seat. In 1900 he returned to Colorado and purchased The Spokesman, a weekly paper and in 1904 moved to Sweetwater and purchased the Sweetwater Review.

A bitter crusade against liquor interests there resulted in a feud and the Review plant was mysteriously burned. After the burning of his plant in December of 1905, Mr. Dow moved to Lubbock to become editor—and everything else for that matter—of the Lubbock Avalanche, then the property of J. J. Dillard.

Has Held Post 24 Years

On April 1, 1908, Mr. Dow purchased the Avalanche, operating it until 1926, first as a weekly, later a semi-weekly and finally

Special Session Seems Laggard; May Get To Work

Past Week Goes By Without Anything Accomplished For Administration; Civil Service Bill To Be Up

By R. W. BARRY,
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Apr. 27.—(AP)—Whether the spring fever, political enmity toward the governor's legislative program of a feeling that the state can get along without any alterations of policy is to blame the fact remains the first week of the special session has been about as laggardly as any within the memor, of the "old timers."

Those behind the governor's measures insist that everything is rosy. They declare there is no hiatus. They point out that the macrinations of the legislature make imperative a certain period of apparent inactivity while the committees work on the bills so that the houses can have a calendar to act on.

"Futility" Is Spoken

In view of the outcome of the regular session, when Governor Moody's civil service and penitentiary concentration bills were defeated, those opposed to the governor's plans began speaking on the "futility" of the extraordinary ses-

Death Penalty Is Given Luis Arcos

HONDO, April 27. —(AP).—Luiz Arcos, who shot three men to death here last Christmas night after an argument over a bottle of milk, was assessed the death penalty by a jury today after 18 hours deliberation. He was convicted of shooting Joe Barrientes, whose two sons were also slain.

Acros, a dairyman, became angered when the three Barrientes, storekeepers, refused to pay him for a bottle of milk, which they declared was sour. He brought a rifle and shells and re-entered the store, where he shot the three. He pleaded guilty at the trial but asked for mitigation of the penalty.

Long's Trial Date Is Set For May 14

Louisiana To Get Extended Governor's Impeachment Trial Next; Long Begins Defense Preparations

(By Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., April 27—Governor Huey Long was served today with notice of impeachment charges voted against him in the house and was directed to appear before the senate at noon May 14 for trial.

The senate sergeant-at-arms and his assistant called at the executive offices and handed the papers to the governor. He took them, glanced hurriedly through the pages and laughed.

Prepares Defense

Governor Long immediately began preparations for his defense. He is expected to appear for trial with lawyers who will contest each step of the case, which probably will run over several weeks.

The governor is charged with converting to his use approximately $2,000 of the $6,000 appropriated for entertainment of visiting governors to the governor's conference in New Orleans last winter, of attempting to bribe legislators, of attempting to suppress the freedom of the press, with misuse of state funds, and with "general incompetency."

City Is Outranked Only By 4 Largest Centers Of State

San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas And Houston Lead Lubbock In 1929 Building Total; Sixth For Week

Apartment Houses And Duplexes Playing Prominent Part In Activities; Records Are Cited

DURING the past week, Lubbock continued to hold her own among the cities of Texas, in point of building record, standing in sixth place for the week and in fifth place for the year. Only the cities of San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and Beaumont are leading this city for the past seven day period, while Lubbock pushed ahead of Beaumont for fifth place in the year's total.

Saturday witnessed $15,800 in permits being issued here by City Building Inspector D. J. Schlag, bringing the month's total to $521,425, and that for the year to $1,647,043, while the week's record was $64,225.

Saturday Total Good

Permits of Saturday are listed below: Mrs. Oletta Watkins, 1913 Twenty-Third Street, five room brick veneer residence, $6,000. W. W. Nelson, contractor. McLarty-Crouch Lumber company, 2309 Avenue H, frame lumber yard, $1,000. J. E. Walker, 2209 Fifth Street, six room brick veneer residence, $3,800. W. E. Ballard, contractor. G. L. Phillips, 2424 Twentieth Street, five room brick and tile residence, $5,000.

Five Apartment Houses And 14 Duplexes Built

Not the least important of Lubbock's building program for this year, is that of apartment houses and duplexes, a check-up of building permits at the office of D. J. Schlag, city building inspector, reveals.

Since January 1, these permits show, five apartment houses have been started in the city which represent total expenditures of $93,500, while 14 duplexes recorded represent $74,550, making a grand total of $168,050 for this class of structures.

Schenck Builds One

The most pretentious apartment house started, so far, this year, is that W. F. Schenck is having constructed on his property at the northwest corner of the intersection of Avenue Q and Main Street, at a cost of $50,000 for the building alone. With furnishings the house

FOUR YOUTHS HELD

Theft Of Automobiles And Parts Charged To Them

Four Lubbock youths, ages varying between 16 and 17 years, are in the county jail facing trial for delinquency, following their arrest yesterday by city and county officers in connection with a number of thefts of automobiles and of automobile tires and parts.

The youths are said by officers to have confessed to a number of car thefts here lately, telling that they had taken the cars, some of them to the country and stripped them of tires. Two of the tires were recovered. In other instances, officers state, the boys admitted using the automobiles for joy riding purposes, leaving them parked on city streets when they completed their rides.

Trials on delinquency charges will probably be held before Judge Robert H. Bean, in county court, Monday.

Cannibalism Is Found Practiced

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, April 27. (AP)—The practice of cannibalism by 19 gypsies has been reported by authorities of Szepsi, Slovakia. The gypsies, including two women, were said to have confessed killing and eating a dozen persons.

So shocking were the revelations that the attorney general rejected them as beyond belief, but soon convinced himself by an investigation at the scenes of the crimes that the statements were true.

"We thought at first that the gypsies were following their traditional tendency to exaggerate and boast by accusing themselves of eating human beings," the attorney general said. "But when we found pieces of undevoured human flesh and bones on the spot where the gypsies said they had their cannibalistic feasts, with traces of teeth marks upon them, there was no room for doubt."

Lubbock Will Be Given Chance To See Wizard Work

Hayward Thompson, Man Who Performs Miracles, Will Be Brought To City By Avalanche-Journal

Hayward Thompson, wizard of the blindfold, who has thrilled countless thousands in every city of America, is coming to Lubbock next Saturdal to entertain the populace with a show and demonstration that will long be remembered.

Thompson is no stranger to Texas Hundreds of readers will recall his uncanny performance in the larger Texas cities.

Fort Worth Man And Bride Shot

FORT WORTH, April 27. (AP)—A. J. Payne and his wife of ten days, Mrs. Harriet Payne, are dead as the result of a double shooting in their apartment here tonight. Payne was dead when police, summoned by neighbors, broke into the apartment. Mrs. Payne died a few hours later.

Neighbors heard several shots. The couple was found lying together with a small automatic pistol near.

The wounded woman was taken to a hospital where she died. Efforts of officers to take a statement from her in an effort to clear up the tragedy were unsuccessful.

The district attorney's office is investigating.

Fifty-Three Thousand Acres Of Farm Land In Illinois Inudated By Waters From Levees; St. Louis Is Endangered

Dikes Along River Broken And Lands Flooded; Rising Stages Reported Along River To South

Crests Expected

Sidewalk And Paved Levee Running Parallel To Business District Of St. Louis Submerged Saturday

(By Associated Press)

QUINCY, Ill., Apr. 27. — Having foced its muddy flood waters over 26,000 acres of farm land in this region, the Mississippi River today turned a threatening face to the south and ripped open dikes protecting 27,000 acres in the neighborhood of Murphysboro.

Rising stages from Chester to the gulf were reported as the river came to a standstill at points to the north and began a gradual drop.

Grand Tower Goes Down

It was the south grand tower levee that gave way at Murphysboro permitting inundation of 7,000 acres of land. Shortly afterward, 20,000 acres were reported under water at McClure, which suffered great damage in the floods of 1927.

Although the river still was rising at its southern end, crests were in sight and no further trouble was anticipated unless there were additional heavy rains.

Basements Of Buildings In St. Louis Flooded

ST. LOUIS, Apr. 27.—(AP)—The sidewalks and paved levee running parallel to and a mile east of St. Louis' business district was submerged by the rising waters of the Mississippi tonight, and the river's crest was expected to be reached tomorrow night with a stage of 34.9 feet.

Basements of buildings facing the levee were flooded, but residents

Royal Wedding Of Romany Delayed 'Til Trek To Loop

(By Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 27. —A band of gypsies, led by Chief John and his son, Prince Kendrik John, went trekking out of Louisville in high dudgeon today, and this city will not witness a royal wedding of Romany.

The ceremonies, scheduled for today in which Prince John was to have married Rosetta Stanley of Louisville, fair gypsy maiden, are off—for the time being, at least. Chief John, as he departed across the Ohio river bridge, said they would take place in Chicago in three months—in Chicago, where the people are more hospitable and where more Gypsies can gather to engage in festivities worthy of the wedding of one of royal blood.

Why Romany's wandering band left Louisville without holding the wedding was a mystery. Some said that curiosity seekers had caused the Gypsies to depart. Others claimed that the bride's father had demanded another $300 of Chief John for his daughter. And then there were rumors that Louisville's "law" had not welcomed the chief and his followers.

Ruby, a sister of the proposed groom, said the wedding was postponed because the bride's father refused to take $2,700 for his daughter, but insisted on $3,000.

Debenture Plan Is Expected To Fail

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP) — After a check of the senate membership, administration leaders said today that the export debenture plan would fail to win a place in the new farm relief bill.

The leaders thus have determined to let the plan come to a vote as soon as possible but it was regarded unlikely that the farm bill would be passed before the end of next week.

President Hoover is taking a personal interest in the fight by conferring with senators regarding his view in opposition to the debenture plan.

ANNE'S CAR GUARDED

Reporters And Curious Ones Kept Out At Houston

HOUSTON, April 27. (AP)—Closely guarded against newspaper reporters and those attracted by curiosity, Miss Anne Morrow, fiancee of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was entertained here tonight.

Arriving with her party in a special car from San Antonio, the daughter of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow attempted to elude news gatherers by having her car switched from the Southern Pacific depot to Union station.

When the reporters dashed in taxis to the new destination, they found guards at both entrances of her car.

PLUNGES TO DEATH

"Daredevil" Smith Dies In Swollen Delaware River

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., (AP)—While hundreds looked on, 'Daredevil" Dan Smith, of Paterson, N. J., parachute jumper, plunged 2,000 feet from an airplane to his death in the flood-swollen Delaware river here this evening.

No rescue boats were available. Smith's wife was among the spectators.

Bridge Hearing Ends

SHERMAN, April 27. (AP)—Arguments and testimony on a motion of the Red River Bridge company, being sued by the state, to transfer the case to federal court were ended in state district court here today. The plea was taken under advisement the judge saying a decision would be announced early next week.

Dallas Good Will Men Here Monday

Entertainment Is Planned For Visitors; Dance To Be Given At Lubbock Hotel; Cars Requested

Lubbock's entertainment of the 125 Dallas Goodwill trippers who will be here with a big brass band and much "whoopee" Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and throughout the night, on their tour of all West Texas, will be featured by an informal dance at the Hotel Lubbock, it was announced at chamber of commerce headquarters late yesterday.

As the Dallas trippers' general chairman had requested that their party be permitted to furnish entertainment, Lubbock has met them more than half-way with preparations in line with what they had requested.

Ladies Complimented

From the Dallas chairman, the following expression was written in a letter received last week: "Lub-

Waco Editor Appeals For Editorial Onslaught On Texas Solons, Declaring State Is Now Facing Greatest Waste Of Public Funds

(By Associated Press)

ABILENE, Apr 27. (AP)—Frank Baldwin, legislator and Waco newspaper editor, addressing the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association here today, declared that the greatest waste of public funds Texas has ever known could be prevented by a quick editorial onslaught on forces which are about to centralize the State prison system on the Darrington and Ramsey farms in Brazoria county.

The speaker of "extravagance in the making," one by "ommission."

Mr. Baldwin, addressing representatives of 17 colleges and universities, called on Governor Moody to broadcast a message to "the citizens of Texas to stop an actual loot of our financial resources totalling $1,548,000, carrying with it reclamation improvement to something like 20,000 acres of privately owned land, to say nothing of damages against the State when full compensation is paid other private land owners as the project completely unfolds itself."

Appealing to Texas editors to "do something to drag their government from the quagmire of reactionarism and do-nothingness at Austin," the speaker said the present special session could be best described as "A rudderless ship tumbled about by venom and spite."

Mentions Appropriations

"If Governor Moody were to ask action Monday morning on appropriation bills," Mr. Baldwin continued, "the house would wake up to find that despite the fact its committee has rad over a month to prepare them, not a single appropriation measure is ready for consideration and the state senate took a four-day jaunt into East Texas last week because it did not have anything else to do.

"When a rascal gets into the governor's chair Texas editors cry 'throw him out!' Now that we have an honest Governor why don't they start in and pitch for him, or, if they do not agree with his program, offer something else? Dan Moody is the last person in this state who could be called bullheaded. All he wants is honesty and actual economic progress."

Lemond Advocates Courtesy Campaign

Chief Of Police Plans For Treatment Of Tourists In Lubbock During Summer; Officers Drilled

"Be courteous to tourists," is to be Lubbock's motto during the tourist season this summer, according to Chief of Police John Lemond, who already is laying plans for a courtesy campaign.

"To the traveler only two traffic ordinances will be effective—speeding and parking in the 'red' zones," he said. "Motorists violating any of the others will be warned, told the regulations, and kindly asked to obey them, but will not be arrested for their first violation."

Gives Town Black Eye

"Nothing can give a town a black eye as quickly as a hard boiled officer bawling out a tourist for the violation of some local ordinance of which the traveler has no knowledge," the chief continued. "On the other hand, the best way for a town to make a good impression on the tourist trade is to have courteous officers. If an officer explains a traffic regulation to a stranger in a nice way and doesn't try to get hard boiled and make an arrest, it invariably will make a good impression on the tourist."

All of the traffic officers and patrolmen on the city police force are to be drilled on being courteous to tourists. Chief Lemond feels that with the tourist season just around the corner, that this courteous campaign will demand the cooperation of the entire city.

DON'T BE PREJUDICED, BUT INVESTIGATE!

Prejudice Has Always Barred The Way of Progress

Born of ignorance, bred of a blind attachment to everything that creaks with age—it was prejudice that laughed at the airplane, it was prejudice that said the automobile was impossible.

All through the ages, human history has been marked by a continued series of battles between the forces of ignorance and prejudice on the one hand, and enlightenment and progress on the other.

Even in this late day, you will still occasionally hear Chiropractic attacked by people who know nothing about it, and therefore, can not possibly have any real reason for their attacks. These prejudiced people are blind and deaf to truth, simply because they refuse to see and hear.

If they would only stop to consider the vast number of scientific miracles wrought by Chiropractic—if they would only pause to read and remember of countless "incurable" cases that have been cured—if they would only let a highly trained CHIROPRACTOR explain to them why Chiropractic is the most definite curative science in the world—then there would be no prejudice.

The world is always moving ahead, gradually absorbing advanced ideas. What seemed boldly new yesterday is the accepted fact today. When radio was introduced it was greeted with a wide-spread wave of skepticism; today it is an established necessity in the average home.

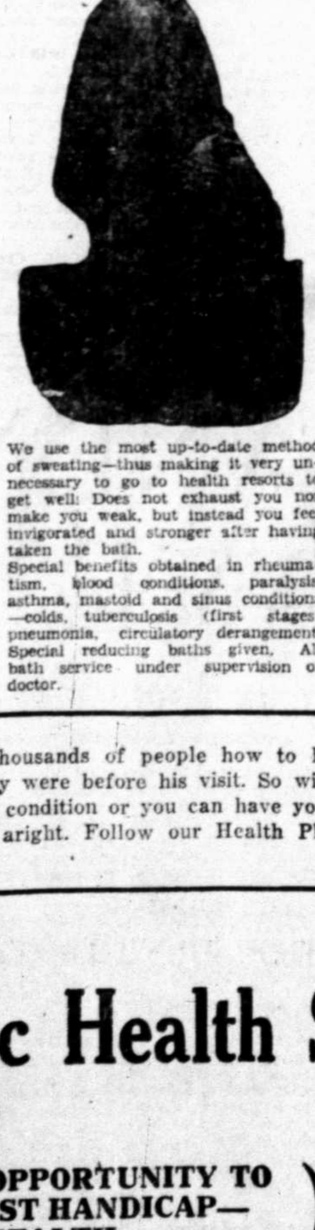

And so it was with Chiropractic—it is rapidly spreading through the land, overcoming prejudice and taking its place in the life of the people as the only science that remedies disease and pain by removing the CAUSE.

After you read this special announcement copy, we wish you would drop into our office for a free consultation examination. Let us tell you some of the things our Chiropractic Health Service can do for you and get our Special Low Rates before the expiration of our offer.

Accepting our free work does not place you under any obligation whatsoever.

Investigate and be Convinced

Electro-Magnetic Bath Service

We use the most up-to-date method of sweating—thus making it very unnecessary to go to health resorts to get well. Does not exhaust you nor make you weak, but instead you feel invigorated and stronger after having taken the bath.

Special benefits obtained in rheumatism, blood conditions, paralysis, asthma, mastoid and sinus conditions—colds, tuberculosis (first stages) pneumonia, circulatory derangement. Special reducing baths given. All bath service under supervision of doctor.

SUNLIGHT TREATMENT ULTRA VIOLENT RAYS

Using the latest type of Sun-Arc Lamp for those conditions which cannot be handled successfully by CHIROPRACTIC Adjustments and BATHS.

LADY ATTENDENT

The picture of the human spine at right will show you how pressure on nerves at different points in your spine will shut off nerve supply to parts of the body, thus causing many conditions of ill health.

DR. EMIL COUE' Came to this country not many months ago and showed thousands of people how to help themselves. Thousands of others spoofed at the idea, refusing his assistance and are today where they were before his visit. So with our Health Service we present to you now. You can accept or reject. You can remain in your present condition or you can have your health. The choice is yours, but God grant that you may find in this appeal the inspiration to choose aright. Follow our Health Plan and thereby obtain, as so many others have, their right to Perfect Health.

Daily Vacation Bible Schools In Summer Planned

First Presbyterian, Baptist, And Methodists To Hold Classes During May; Attendance Expected Large

First Presbyterian, First Baptist and First Methodist churches are to have annual Daily Vacation Bible schools this year simultaneously from May 20 to May 31 and plans are being made to accommodate from 800 to 1,000 children in the three schools, according to announcements made yesterday.

From 125 to 150 volunteer workers will be needed in the schools and any who will assist are asked to notify the schools directors. Miss Virginia McLean will be in charge of the Presbyterian school, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Richardson have the Methodist school and J. D. Carroll is director of the Baptist school.

Following a custom of past years here, Bible work, songs, recreation, craft work and patriotic drills will feature the schools this year and boys and girls 4 to 13 years of age may attend.

The class periods will be from 9 until 11:30 o'clock each day during the schools, except Saturday, and the craft hour will be the same at each church.

On May 17, there is to be a parade of all of the school pupils through the main part of town with a band leading the group. Church orchestras are to assist with the school.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Austin Fullingim very charmingly entertained the members of the Tuesday Bridge club this week at the home of Mrs. Fred Wiese.

In the games Mrs. Dewey Sullivan scored high and Mrs. P. D. Fullingim scored second high.

A tempting salad was passed by the hostess to Mesdames John Hughes, Joe Schuler, J. L. Suits, W. R. Blakemore, J. S. Garmon, Dewey Sullivan, Fred Robbs, P. D. Fullingim, E. Smith, R. G. O'Rear and Fred Wiese.

STAG PARTY

Wednesday night was the scene of a stag party at the Blakemore home. This party was given by Mrs. Blakemore in honor of her husband's birthday. At an early hour the guests began to arrive and for just a little while the house was in an uproar caused by the merry games of forty-two. Seven tables were arranged for this popular game and all filled with enthusiastic players.

R. L. Bowman, R. G. O'Rear and J. L. Suits tied for high score.

The guests presented Mr. Blakemore two boxes of cigars, R. L. Bowman making the presentation speech.

Mrs. Blakemore was assisted by Mesdames Floyd Pearson and John Gentry.

Those attending were R. L. Bowman, J. T. Howell, T. G. Hendrick, R. Sullivan, J. L. Suits, Irl Robertson, R. G. O'Rear, John Gentry, J. L. Durham, Fred Wiese, Roy Powell, R. P. Nicholson, E. RALLS NEWS

BY MRS. ROY MOSES

INSTITUTE WELL ATTENDED

According to Rev. B. J. Osborne pastor of the Methodist church here, the Llano Estacado League Union Efficiency Institute that was held at the Methodist church in Ralls this week was well attended.

J. E. Shewbert, jr., of Abilene, Epworth League Field Secretary for this district, was in charge. Monday evening was set aside for registration and a social meeting, at the close of which lovely refreshments was served, to about forty guests Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings were used for study of the following subjects: Social Service, Spiritual Dept., Bible, "How Jesus Met Life's Questions", and Recreation and Culture. The instructors were Rev. W. S. Watkins, pastor of the Lorenzo Methodist church; Rev T. M. Johnson, pastor of the Crosbyton church; Rev. B. J. Osborn, pastor of the local Methodist church and J. E. Shewbert of Abilene.

TO HAVE STUNT NIGHT

The local Parent Teachers association is planning to have a stunt program next Friday evening at the city auditorium. Each club has been asked to present a stunt and a prize has been offered to the club giving the best stunt. The winners will be selected by the audience, the one receiving the most applause. The following clubs are entering a stunt: The Laff--A-Lott club, The Mystic Weavers, The Dramatic club, The Spanish club, The 1922 Literary club and the Rotary club. A small admision will be charged and the proceeds will be used toward paying for playground equipment at the grammar school building.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mrs. B. J. Osborn entertained a few young people Monday evening with a surprise birthday dinner honoring her son, Clifton Osborn's birthday. Covers were laid for the following guests: Misses Gertrude Caldwell, Edna Earle Wooten, and Juanita Osborne and Messrs. Link Tidwell and Clifton Osborn and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Martin.

SCHOOL CLOSING ACTIVITIES BEGINNING

On next Tuesday evening the first of the school closing programs will be given. This is to be an Operetta, "In Little Folks Town", and it will be given by the pupils of the grammar school. About three hundred pupils will take part in the affair.

FORM BROTHERHOOD

Organization of the Men's Brotherhood in the First Baptist church was completed Friday evening in a meeting at the church and by-laws and a constitution were adopted.

The men met at the church for supper and a program on Mexico's political and religious condition. Talks were made by M. L. Shepherd, J. W. Reid and Irwin Coleman and J. D. Carroll sang a solo.

Baker-Hemphill Builds Five-Story Building At San Angelo

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SAN ANGELO, April 27. — This new building, the largest to be used exclusively for a department store in West Texas, will be the home of Baker-Hemphill Company some time this fall, possibly by October. Construction started only recently, but the basement has been dug, and forms are being laid for the basement proper. The building will have a floor space of 34,800 square feet, providing ample room for the growing business of this San Angelo concern.

The building will be of a light shade of brick, trimmed in ornamental stone, and all floors throughout will be in terraza, excepting the basement which will be of concrete. Show windows will extend entirely around the building, being broken only by the two main entrances that will face Beauregard and Irving.

The building will house the city's first department store basement, carrying representative lines of merchandise for men, women and children, and also articles for the home.

The first floor will be finished in light oak fixtures and will house the men's shop, shoe department, hosiery, toilet gods, notions and ladies' accessories. The mezzanine will carry a complete boys' department, gift shop and offices of the company. The third floor will be devoted exclusively to dry goods, draperies and beauty parlor. The fourth floor will carry the ladies' ready-to-wear, millinery, children's shop corsets and lingerie. Fixtures in this department will be of mahogany. The fifth floor will house the store's large wholesale department.

Two elevators will make each floor easy to reach. There will be ice water fountains on each floor that will be electrically refrigerated. Among other things there will be a ladies' lounge and rest room on the third floor, adequate dressing and fitting rooms on the men's apparel and ladies' ready-to-wear floors, and stock and marking rooms that will do away with much confusion on the selling floors sometimes causing the shoppers inconvenience. Particular care has also been taken in planning the arrangement of the departments and fixtures so that daylight will make matching colors inside the store an easy matter.

Korn and Morgan are the architects for the structure, and Robert E. McKee the contractor.

W. M. Hemphill, president of the Baker-Hemphill company, is also president of Hemphill-Wells company, of Lubbock.

Everything Ready For Presentation Of U.D.C. Comedy

A college student female impersonator, mistaken for an aged multi-millionairess and who becomes the object of the professed love of almost everyone with whom he comes in contact, is the theme of "Aunt Lucia," home talent collegiate play which is to be presented at the high school auditorium Monday and Tuesday nights. The production is sponsored by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The character of the impersonator is portrayed to perfection by Edgar Shelton. Dressed as Aunt Lucia he enjoys the innermost secrets of the girls, makes love to the college professors, and in general gets everyone into an amusing mess which is guaranteed to produce laughter.

Thirty local business men will don the attire of chorus girls in the flappers chorus for one of the most amusing features of the production. One hundred grown ups and about 100 children will appear in the play.

COLLECTIONS INCREASED

GALVESTON, April 27. (AP)—Customs collections here for March totaled $961,661.82, registering a gain of $81,427.71 over March of 1928. Increased sugar imports and withdrawals accounted for the increase.

Waco Cubs Come From Behind To Scalp Tribe, 9 To 4

Pittsburgh Knocks Malone Off Hill But Cubs Win Again, 8 To 7

IN THE REALM OF SPORT
WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Avalanche Sports Editor

STILL GOING STRONG

Baseball experts and fans who have been waiting for the Waco Cubs to crack are finding the waiting long and tedious. The pupils of Derrill Pratt have played phenomenal baseball thus far this season. Winning 11 out of their first 12 starts. Exceptional pitching has put the Wacoans where they are at the top of the Texas League rung. Six successive wins over the San Antonio Indians has helped along the cause of the Bruins. The Tribe outfit has been an easy mark for every team in the league they have met this year. A thorough shakeup of the entire lineup is to be expected within a very short time.

The Houston Buffaloes appear to have a jam-up baseball aggregation this season despite the fact that the backbone of their 1928 championship team was lost t o the majors. Manager Snyder is classed as one of the smartest managers in the minors and will likely be up there among the leaders when the leaves begin to fall next September.

Auto-Barbets of the City baseball league meet their first out of town competition today when the Plainview nine comes here for a single contest at Merrill Park. Joe Chisholm, manager of the local team, has lined up a first class aggregation to meet the Hale County outfit and from all indications, the game will be a hard-fought affair. Plainview has won eight out of ten games thus far this season and is coming to Lubbock determined to grab off another victory. Henry Evans is the pilot of the neighboring team. Boggs will do the twirling for the locals in today's encounter. The game starts at 3:30.

THEIR LAST STAND

Coach Victor Payne's Matador speedsters hit the trail for their final jaunt of the season this week as they prepare for the dual meet Saturday with Abilene Christian College. The Tech tracksters have slight hope of downing the Wildcats but the old never-say-die spirit has given the locals an impetus that will carry them through to the end. The champions of the T. I. A. A. in 1928 have one of the strongest track and field aggregations in the history of the school, boasting a corps of brilliant dash and a relay team that will be hard to beat out.

It won't be long now until the four teams in the Lubbock City League swing into action for their season's grind. Although the schedule has not yet been worked out, the president and managers will get together within the next few days and formulate the program for a thirty game season. The majority of managers in the loop favor a schedule with four games per week, allowing each team to play two games per week.

HE WHO LAUGHS LAST

An examination of the National League League baseball standing will give the baseball fan quite a shock. The performance of the Boston Braves is a complete managerial vindication of the president-manager Elli Fuchs. Taking over the reins of his club with no baseball experience whatever, the former judge started what the critics said was foolish. Probably the Boston team is one of those who is "bound to crack under the strain." We expect New York players are wondering when this is going to happen.

Great Plains Meet Goes To Sooners; Tech Places Third

Seven Records Go, Tech In On Two Of Them; Lubbock High Wins First In High School Division

(By Associated Press)

CANYON, April 27.—The Southwestern Teachers of Weatherford, Oklahoma, nosed out the Central Teachers of Edmond, Okla., 42 to 41, to win first place in the ninth annual Great Plains track meet here today. Texas Tech of Lubbock was third with 30 points, and New Mexico Military Institute of Roswell fourth with 23. Nine colleges were entered. Seven meet records were broken.

Lubbock won first place in the high school division, with Pampa second and Ralls third.

Distance Men Strong

Featuring the meet was the work of Southwestern's great crew of distance runners. Anderson smashed his own mark in the mile with a time of four minutes, 36 1-5 seconds; Holt set a new 440-yard dash mark with a time of 51 1-5 seconds. Roberts loped to victory in the two-mile event, breaking his own record with a time of 10:30.

The Central Teachers won the mile relay by stepping the distance in 3:29.2, another Great Plains record. Lowes of West Texas Teachers set a new pole vault mark at 12 feet, 4 inches. Byers of Central twirled the discus 124 feet, 5 inches, for a meet record. Lee of Tech established a new broad jump mark with a leap of 23 feet, 1 inch, and Taylor of Tech hurled the javelin 172 feet, 5 inches for a meet record.

Anderson of Southwestern was high point man for the meet.

New Mexico Track Team Claims Title

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Apr. 27. (AP)—The University of New Mexico Lobos today claimed the track and field championship of the far southwest as the result of a 78 to 53 victory over the University of Arizona. Webo of New Mexico did the high hurdles in 15.5 seconds, a mark lower than the Southwestern record, but the time was not recognized because of wind. Other marks did not approach record calibre.

RECORD IS BROKEN

FRESNO, Calif., Apr. 27.—(AP)—Herman Brix, former University of Washington weight star competing for the Los Angeles Athletic club, broke the national Intercollegiate shotput record today in the West oCast relays with a mark of 51 feet, 11 5-8 inches.

Yank Golfers No Match For Ryder Team Of England

Singles Go To Britian As Only Two Americans Win Matches; Victory First Since World War

By FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOORTOWN, Eng., Apr. 27.—(AP)—Great Britain's best professional golfers today decisively defeated the American Ryder Cup team, sweeping through the singles with a rush that never was halted. Five victories in the singles ran up a British total for two days play of six matches won against four triumphs for the visitors, with two matches halved—one in the foursomes and one in the singles.

The near rout of the men from overseas came as a pleasant surprise to the home folk for few of the fans thought the Gloden Trophy cup, symbol of International Professional golfing supremacy, could be regained.

England Comes From Behind

The winners came from behind to register their great triumph. After the foursomes yesterday the count stood two matches for the visitors, one for the home team and one halved. To win the cup, held by the Americans as a result of a clean up in the United States in June, 1927, Captain Duncan's men had to win five of the singles today. They did that while the Americans were winning two and getting an even break in the other.

The course was fairly wiped up with the golf invaders as they were repulsed on all but two fronts with one drawn battle. Leo Diegel, very good when he is good, and Horton Smith, baby of the team, rang up the match points for the Americans while Al Espinosa halved his match. As each match scored one point with a half point to each in halved matches in final count was 7 to 5.

Regain High Place

Tonight British golf has regained the high place it has not held since the days before the great war.

Captain Duncan led the way to victory, beating the American skipper, Walter Hagen, ten up and eight to go. Johnny Farrell, American open champion, smiling and dapper as ever but rarely so soundly rebuffed, fell eight up and six to play before the steady going Charles Whitcombe.

The giant Archie Compston gave no quarter to the courageous but uncertain Gene Sarazen and the former United States open champion fell by the wayside, six and four. Aubrey Boomer downed Joe Turnesa four and three and the youthful Henry Cotton made victory certain for his side by a 4 and 3 success against Al Watrous.

Two Yanks Win

Against this list of losses the Americans only compensation was Leo Diegel's victory over the veteran Abe Mitchell, nine and eight, and Horton Smith's defeat of another veteran, Fred Robson, four and two.

Even after the contest was decided and it was certain the trophy would remain in Britain for the next two years, Al Espinosa and Ernest Whitcombe refused to quit a ding-dong battle which finally ended all square at the 36th hole, giving little satisfaction to either side but allowing the British to win six matches to four instead of seven to four as seemed likely when the Englishman was dormie one at the 35th.

San Antonio Wins San Jacinto Meet

SAN ANTONIO, Apr. 27.—Main Avenue High school tracksters of San Antonio turked in a final cleanup here today when they scored 30 1-2 points to capture the second annual Fiesta De San Jacinto Track and Field carnival from more than 30 high schools entered, including 22 from other cities.

Corpus Christi was second and others followed in order: Donna, Brackenridge (San Antonio), Brownsville, Schulenburg, Austin, Karnes City, Schreiner, Wharton, Hondo, Kingsville, Uvalde, San Marcos, Lubbock, Somerset, Lockhart, Floresville and Texas Military Institute of San Antonio.

Par Is Broken On Meadowbrook Link

Par on the Meadowbrook club golf course, opened here a few weeks ago, has already been broken, according to officials at the course.

Clinton Bussey shot a 33 on the course a few days ago. Par is 34.

So far no one has registered a hole in one. Dr. O. W. English's tee shot at No. 2 hole missed the cup about an inch the other day this being the nearest approach to putting the new club in affiliation with the mythical dodo organization.

Slugging Four Horsemen Of Hustling Chicago Cubs

Notre Dame had a backfield a few years ago that was titled the "Four Horsemen" and lived up to its name against rival football teams. The Chicago Cubs have a quartet they term in the same manner this season and it should live up to its name in the baseball world as well as Knute Rockne's famous backfield did in football. It is shown here, reading left to right—Kiki Cuyler, Rogers Hornsby, Hack Wilson and Riggs Stephenson. And a little watching of their batting this season will explain why they are called "Four Horsemen."

O'Doul, Jamieson And Cox Pace Swat Parade In National, American, Texas

Hubbell, Malone And Grimes Lead Slab Crew So Far

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 27.—Frand O'Doul, Philadelphia swatsmith obtained last winter from the Giants set the pace for National League batters of greater fame in the first 1929 averages issued today and including the first eight days of the campaign through the games of Wednesday. O'Doul hit safely 13 times in six games for a mark of .542.

Pitching laurels, of course, remained in dispute, since many of the boxmen failed to find time to enter a defeat into the record against themselves. Carl Hubbell of the Giants, Burleigh Grimes of the Pirates and Perce Malone of each with two victories and no defeats. Eleven other pitchers won one game each without defeat.

Wilson Leads Scorers

Hack Wilson, Cub slugger, led in runs scored with eight, while Babe Harmon collected the greatest number of hits, 14. Herman and Wilson tied with Stephenson of the Cubs for the lead in doubles, each having four, but Nick Cullop of Brooklyn stood alone in triples despite his having only two.

O'Doul inserted three homers among his 13 hits to match Chick Hafey of St. Louis in long-distance clouts. Hafey led in runs batted in with a total of 10. Reese and Lindstrom of the Giants and Rabbit Maranville of the Braves shared base-stealing honors, three each.

The team batting table found the Giants on top with a margin of .329 to .310 over the Cubs. Cincinnati was third, .298, and Brooklyn fourth, with .279. The Cubs, however, led the league in batting in runs, 42 being their total.

The Giants also led in team fielding with a mark of .988 against .980 which left the Cubs and Braves in a tie for second place.

Following O'Doul in the individual batting table were these regulars: Harper, Boston, .500; Herman, Brooklyn, .467; Frisch, St. Louis .444 Cuyler Chicago, .419; Allen, Cincinnati, Douthit, St. Louis and Jackson and O'Farrell, New York, .400 and Stephenson, Chicago .393.

Alexander, A Tiger Rookie, Bats In Most Tallies

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 27 — Charley Jamieson, veteran fly ball hawk, of the Cleveland Indians, hung up an average of .524 to lead the American League's batting parade during the first eight days of the 1929 campaign.

Finding spring pitching to his fancy, Jamieson made 11 hits for 14 bases, scored four runs and batted in five in his first 21 official trips to the plate. His mark was 24 and Phillips of Detroit, who tied for and Phillips of Detroit, whotier for second place with .500 averages.

Veterans Lead

Contrary to general opinion, the veterans and not the flashy rookies did most of the heavy stick work in the first stage of the batting marathon, unofficial hitting averages which included games of last Wednesday revealed. Of the 10 leaders, only two were newcomers —Edward Phillips and Henry Schuble, both of Detroit. Most of the rookies were far down the list among the .200 hitters. The ten leading hitters:

Jamieson, Cleveland, .524; Blue St. Louis, and Phillips, Detroit .500 Gehrig, New York, .427; Foxx, Philadelphia, .421; Fonseca, Cleveland, .419, Clancy, Chicago, .417; Goslin Washington .400; Schuble, Detroit, .400; Tate, Washington, .400.

Dale Alexander, another Detroit rookie, was eleventh in batting with .380, but first in runs batted in with 14. Uhle of Detroit and Farrell of Cleveland, Hoyt of New York and Gray of St. Louis, made good starts in the race for pitching honors, with two victories each.

Detroit took the lead in team batting with a .327 average while in fielding Washington gained an early edge with .988. Cleveland executed 13 double plays in its first seven games to lead in that department.

Caldwell, Cub Mound Star, Hangs Up Three Wins

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, April 27—The Wichita Falls team, for the past few seasons noted for its stick work, has again started its assault for hit and run honors. During the first ten days of the Texas League season, the Spudders had a batting average of .330 Dallas and Shreveport were tied for second place.

In individual hitting, the ten leading batters were Benton, Wichita Falls, .488; Cox, Fort Worth, .477; Flaskamper, Dallas, .467; Stapleton, Wichita Falls, .455; Starr, Shreveport, .444; Sullivan, Wichita Falls, .432; Cotelle, Houston, .417; Urban, Fort Worth .395; Wetzel San Antonio, .395; Hanson, Beaumont .385.

Benton Leads In Runs

Benton also was out in front for runs scored his total for the 10-day period being 12. He was closely followed by three other players. Martin of Houston and Stapleton and Urban having scored 11 tallies.

Martin, with a total of eight pilfers, was the leading base stealer.

Five players had made two home runs.

Caldwell of Waco, is the first pitcher to win three games. Eight others had two victories and no defeats as their records.

Lindsey of Houston, was the leading strike out heurler. He had fanned thirteen batters.

GIRLS TO GIVE DANCE

The Arena-Ritas, pep squad, is sponsoring a dance for all college girls Tuesday evening at the gymnasium. The admission fee is twenty-five cents and refreshments are to be served. Girls wishing to dress in overalls may do so and others may wear aprons.

MID-TERM GRADES OUT

According to a report from the Registrars office mid-term grades are to be given out Monday and Tuesday of this week. The reports may be obtained at the west entrance to the office on the first floor of the main corridor.

AFFAIR TO HONOR SENIORS

At a senior class meeting held yesterday morning it was announced that the class has been invited to be the guest of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce during some week-end in May. Colonel E. O Thompson has stated that he will entertain the class at a hotel.

Other matters came up relative to class day on May 10th. A luncheon is to be served at Hotel Lubbock and a tree to be planted early in the morning with a ceremony fitting to the occasion. That night a reception and dance will be given at the Hotel. Mothers and Fathers of the honor guests are to be invited to attend the reception. Another event of the day will be the convocation held for the entire college with the seniors in charge of the program.

FAIR AND REVIEW SCHEDULED

Two big affairs scheduled for the week include the Aggie fair which will be held next Friday and the collegiate review which will be given at the college gymnasium Saturday night. The latter includes in the program a jazz wedding, skits, songs, and dances. Various faculty members are cooperating with the students in making the frolic a success.

MUSEUM SOCIETY TO MEET

Professor R. A. Studhalter, recently elected temporary president of the Plains Museum society, has called a general meeting for Thursday May 2, at 5 p. m. in the auditorium of the Chemistry building to perfect the organization. A constitution and by-laws will be presented for ratification and permanent officers will be elected.

According to Mr. Studhalter it is hoped to reach people who are interested within a radius of several hundred miles, including eastern New Mexico.

The object of the organization is to foster, increase and diffuse knowledge and appreciation of the sciences and to encourage collections and the study of scientific historic, and artistic value in a museum.

There is already on hand a nucleus including branding irons, cooking utensils, firearms, old saddles, fossils, plants, and animals. Contributions are solicited.

Laughs From The Diamond---Here's One On Mickey

By BILLY EVANS

Mickey Cochran, voted the most valuable American League player in 1928, is the type player sought by every league manager. He is perhaps the most aggressive backstop in baseball. The word "quit" isn't in his vocabulary. He is highly regarded by every American League umpire. They know that any time Mickey questions a decision, he feels he has a kick coming.

When Cochran starts an argument it is difficult for the umpire to get the better of the verbal tilt. Umpires believe it is always well to shun a battle of wits with Cochran if it can be done without losing control of the situation.

Like a great many players, Cochran indulges in a chew of tobacco during the progress of a game but off the field never uses it.

If you would ask Cochran what incident of his career stands out as out so much as a word when Cochmaking a strenuous protest over a rane once rushed at him, intent on the most humorous, I am sure he would tell you that Umpire Dick Nallin silenced his batteries with base decision that he felt should have favored the Athletics instead of going against them.

It was in the eighth inning of a nip and tuck game between New York and Philadelphia that Umpire Nallin resorted to his deaf-and-dumb methods of silencing Cochrane. With two on and two out, Cochrane hit a ball to deep short on which Koenig made a great stop and an equally great throw. According to Nallin, the throw beat Cochrane by a hair-line margin. He ruled him out, retiring the side and erasing the two runs that would have been recorded had Cochrane received the verdict.

As Cochrane turned first and heard the shout of "Out" he advanced in the direction of Nallin, standing back of the pitcher, at the top speed, ready to give vent to his feelings of great disbust.

Dick Nallin is one umpire who is seldom caught napping. He realized if Cochrane ever reached him he would have trouble on his hands. Reaching into his back pocket he pulled out a package of well-known brand of tobacco much used by ball players. With Cochrane still 15 or 20 feet away, he held out the package in such a manner as to convey to the fans that Cochrane was racing madly in his direction to bum a chew.

The ruse worked perfectly. The quick-thinking Cochrane appreciated the gesture and, instead of stopping, he continued on his way to the bench without even offering a word of protest. Through pantomime, Nallin had nipped a protest that might have made a lot of trouble, since Cochrane is mighty popular in Philly. When he kicks, everybody agrees with him.

Punchers Batter Two Flingers To Defeat Matadors

Peterson, Tech Third Sack Guardian, Finds Hurling Of Leaguers Easy; Swats 1.000 Per Cent

Bombarding two Tech hurlers with a barrage of seventeen base hits, the Big Spring Cowpunchers from down south yesterday made a clean sweep of their series with the Matadors by taking the second and final game, 16 to 4 Four Tech miscues aided in the carnage.

Tech's perennially-successful inning, the fifth, found the Crimson unleashing its only attack. Four hits were rained out by the Matador sluggers in this round and it served at least to depose Rose from the hillock for the visitors The onslaught netted four runs, something like twelve less than enough to tie the score.

The game was rather uninteresting and was attended by only a meager crowd.

Punches Start Early

Three hits, including a home run, an error and a base on balls gave Big Spring a 5-run lead in the first inning and from then on the question was mostly how large the score would be. Glossup singled. Sain got a base on balls. White sacrificed and Adams singled, scoring Glossup and Sain. Rose reached first on an error and then Sietz cleaned the bases with a home run high over the left field palisades.

In the fifth two Tech errors and two more hits netted another run in the fourth Sain hit for the circuit scoring Shaw and Glossup ahead.

The Matadors came back in their part of the fifth—after having been held to two hits for four frames—and bombarded Rose so severely that he was relieved in the next inning. Taylor got a double, a clean hit. Brothers was walked and Peterson's single, followed by a wild throw allowed all three men to score Howell doubled and scored when Waller followed with a two-ply wallop.

That was Tech's swan song. Only two hits were obtained by the Tech cause thereafter.

The Cowpunchers took occasion to rub it in in the seventh and eighth innings. In the seventh three hits and a passed ball gave three scores. In the ninth young Hobson sent in to pitch for Tech, was given a baptism of fire to the tune of four runs and four hits.

The one bright light for the Tech cause was the fact that Peterson, third baseman, batted 1000 percent for the day, three out of three. Taylor got a pair of hits Blackie Adams, a Lubbock Hubber in palmier days, got four singles out of five tries. Rose pressed him for honors with three out of five, including a double and a triple.

Tech plainly showed the effects of her long lay-off, necessitated through unfavorable weather for training.

That Fifth Inning

The fifth inning has been Tech's lucky period in all of her baseball games this year. In the Hill Billie series it was the fiftful fifth that was poison to the Goats. Yesterday all four of Tech's runs came in the fifth.

Simpson Star In Penn Relays; He Ties Dash Mark

Six Penn Relay Records Go Glimmering, Making Two Day Total Eleven; Paavo Nurmi Fails To Star

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, April 27. (AP)—The Philadelphia Relay carnival was brought to a climax today before a crowd of 40,000 with a succession of sensational sprint performances by George Simpson of Ohio State.

As his closing salute, Simpson equalled the listed world's record of 9 3-5 seconds in winning the special 100-yard wash. This was his fourth successive triumph race of the day and his fifth in two days.

Six Penn Relay carnival records were shattered, making a total of eleven record performances of various order in two days, in addition to a number of outstanding accomplishments.

Paavo Nurmi, after barely beating the American two-mile record yesterday, had the old college yell to urge him on in an effort to break the three-mile mark, but Paavo, lacking any competition, fell 18 seconds short of touching his own world's record for the distance. He was clocked in 14 minutes, 29 1-5 seconds as he lapped all but two of his opponents.

Littlefield Will Teach Grid Class

AUSTIN, April 27. (AP)—Clyde Littlefield, head football and track coach at the University of Texas, will teach in a coaching school at Furman University, Greenville, S. C., from July 22 until August 3 it was announced.

Other mentors who will take part in the school are Francis A. Schmidt, former coach of the University of Arkansas and now at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth; Wallace Wade, University of Alabama, and W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech.

Lubbock Gunners Hold Shoot Today

The Lubbock Gun club will hold its regular shoot on the grounds east of the city this afternoon. Beginning at 2:30, the contest will include all forms of trap-shooting.

Members of the local club are planning a Merchants Shoot for May 5. Visiting gunners from Amarillo, Floydada and Tahoka are expected here to shoot for the prizes offered by Lubbock merchants. The prize shoot will be open to all outsiders. Each contestant will be held to one prize in order that the prizes can go as far as possible.

Records Fall As Rain Soaks Lads In Drake Relays

New World Mark In Hurdles Is Set By Illinois; Trio Of Meet Records Are Set At Des Moines

DRAKE STADIUM, DES MOINES IOWA, April 27.—In a terrific rain a world's record was established and three records for the meet were smashed in finals of the Drake Relay Carnival here today.

Illinois set a new world's mark in the 480 yard shuttle hurdlers race by winning the event in 1:02 3-10; beating the former record of 1:05 6-10, made by Ohio State in the Penn games last year.

Claude Bracey, Rice Institute sprinter, turned in a remarkable victory in capturing the 100-yard dash in :09 8-10, considering the soggy condition of the track.

The rain started falling lightly an hour before the meet opened and turning into a downpour, continued until the final event was finished.

Lubbock County To Plant 200,000 Acres In Cotton

Winds And Cold Serve To Retard Work This Week

Slight Increase Is Forecast Over Last Season With Diversification Decrease To Be Made Up

Approximately 200,000 acres of Lubbock county's fertile, level land will be in cotton cultivation this year if present indications hold true.

A slight increase in the total acreage planted in cotton is forecast for this year in the county. Last year, it is approximated, there were between 180,000 and 200,000 acres planted to the staple crop.

Diversification efforts made during the past year have reduced to some extent the amount of land planted in cotton but colonization and new land brought under the plow for the first time this year have more than made up for the decrease due to diversification and rotation.

Drying winds that have scourged the Plains area during the past week coupled with the cold weather of the latter part of the week served to retard planting, although there are few farms on which some planting work has not been done.

If clear weather prevails next week, a measurable increase in planting activities is forecast.

Revolution In Agriculture Seen

Iowa State Professor Sees Complete Change In Next Fifty Years In Methods Of Farming

AMES, Iowa, April 27. (AP)—A revolution in agricultural methods is predicted by J. B. Davidson, head of the agricultural engineering department of Iowa state college.

He expects it to take place in the next 50 years.

Some of the developments he believes the American farmer will see include plows that pulverize the soil, cultivators that tear weeds to shreds, turbines that burn any kind of liquid or gaseous fuel, wind motors that transform atmospheric nitrogen into fertilizer, plows, cultivators and harvesters that run automatically, unwatched by human eyes, but guided by long arms from fixed markers which regulate all land operations.

The revolution, he says, likely will begin with the application of power to seed bed preparations. Machines will pulverize and mix soil, organic material and plant food.

They will break stalks, stubble and fertilizing material into particles so fine that decomposition will begin immediately and the plant food made instantly available.

Professor Davidson sees future fields free of weeds. Machines will collect all weed seeds found naturally on the surface and dispose of them or cultivators will handle them so roughly their root structure will be broken up sufficiently to prevent re-growth.

Another development he predicts is the artificial curing of grain after it is harvested, eliminating the deterioration often caused now by weathering.

"Whereas about 26 per cent of the population now is engaged in the production of food and shelter," he says, "I expect this figure to be reduced to 10 percent.

"The advance in individual capacity will come through better land husbandry. New synthetic motor fuels will be produced on the farms, tractors will do twice the amount of work on the same power that they do now, fibers will be grown that may be pressed into building materials, and doors, window frames and similar things will be die-cast."

An effort is being made by members of the Down-Town Bible Class to have 250 present at the services this morning in celebration of the first anniversary of their teacher's service in Lubbock. Dr. W. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist Church, is teacher of the class.

Veteran Of Glamorous Old West Is Chief Of Cattlemen's Association

PAMPA, April 27.—The presidency of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association, largest organization of its kind in the world, rests upon the erect shoulders of a 73-year-old veteran of the ranching business.

He is T. D. Hobart of Pampa, whose physical strength and character poured years ago from the glamorous mould of the old west. Tall and well built, he is as active as many men a score of years younger. He is known at once for energetic, quick decisions and patience in dealing with men. In the language of the cow country, he is a "square shooter."

The new executive was chosen at the fifty-third annual convention of the organization in Houston. For the last two years he had served as first vice president and for 10 years had been a member of the executive committee. His affiliation has covered a total of 20 years.

Organized in 1877 the association's early activities were directed toward extermination of cattle rustling. Thieves still harass ranchmen in parts of the southwest, and nearly 3,500 members find need of vigilance.

The association now is engaged chiefly in advocating tariff protection on beef and hides, and an embargo where there is danger of spreading the foot and mouth disease.

T. D HOBART

A ranchman in his own right, Hobart, is co-executor of the mammoth estate of the late Mrs. Cornelius Adair of New York and London, known as the JA ranch.

Located near Clarendon, it contains about 400,000 acres upon which graze about 23,000 head of cattle. The largest pasture contains 68,000 acres. More than 400 miles of barbed wire fences enclose the various divisions of the ranch. The periodical roundups are as typical of the "wild west" as the veteran who directs them.

Hobart came to the Texas panhandle as an employe of the New York and Texas land company, which owned more than 5,000,000 acres. Born in Berlin, Vt., he had been a school teacher before joining the company as a surveyor and agent.

Later he became connected with a vast acreage known as the White Deer lands. He has been mayor of Pampa, president of the Panhandle-Plains historical society, and the head of various other organizations. As a presiding officer he has at his command a wealth of anecdotes of the days when the west was wild.

Wide Variety Of Trees And Shrubs May Be Acclimated To This Section

ALTHOUGH non-indigenous plants are not grown extensively at the Agricultural Experiment station here, experimenting has shown that a wide variety of shrubs and trees may be acclimated to this section.

The holly, the live oak, black walnut, juniper, pine and many other such plants that are not generally recognized here may be grown and are growing at the station, although it is not a policy to pamper plants.

Particular attention is paid to hardy plants and those which are grown are given only cultivation and a minimum amount of water.

Some are Imported

Some plants and seeds are imported and started at the station in order to determine whether or not they will grow here. Many of these are not able to survive and little is said about them unless the superintendent is questioned. Then he is able to give reliable information to those who come to the farm.

Don L. Jones, superintendent of the station, is now seeking for shrubs that are adaptable to foreground planting, since plenty of plants are available which reach considerable height; he is seeking plants which have red berries in the fall and for those with bright colored foliage in the fall.

Occasionally a plant will do well for a season or so and will then freeze out with an unusually cold spell, or die through some other such cause. "We like to try them out over a period of years to be sure they will become acclimated," he said.

Jones Likes Hardy Plants

The hardy plants are receiving more attention than those which must be pampered, according to Mr. Jones, because he is interested primarily in helping the farmer and in growing things which may be used in beautification of the country.

Unless one is interested merely in experimentation, it is best to specialize on hardy plants principally, he explained, and shrubs are usually more successful than flowers because they withstand the wind and other climatic conditions better.

There are some beautiful specimens of pine trees at the experiment station in spite of a common belief that pines will not grow here. One tree which has been growing there for about ten years, is now twice the height of a man. The western yellow and Scotch pines are grown most successfully here, Mr. Jones pointed out.

Pinon Grow Well

A tree which is familiar throughout New Mexico and which grows well here, although slowly, is the pinon. Various junipers are being grown at the farm now and the red cedar and Chinese elm are particularly successful.

A tall evergreen which does well here is the cedrus deodora.

The live oak is a promising tree, a flowering peach tree which is grown at the farm has a very pretty double flower that makes it desirable as an ornament, the red bud is a beautiful tree and it blossoms early. This tree is a native of Texas, and there have been many calls for it this spring, particularly since the trees were so pretty recently, Mr. Jones said.

Two Holly Types Set

Although some holly trees will not grow here, the American holly and the Oregon grape holly will grow here and several trees are growing in the city, according to Mr. Jones.

There are infinite possibilities with shrubbery here and the farm has some beautiful specimens and groupings.

The Mexican sage is a very hardy brush, may be used effectively in the foreground and it retains its gray color throughout the year. Another foreground plant is the juniper and there are several of these shrubs growing at the farm.

Mr. Jones has a bed of cacti and he has a pink yucca which offers an interesting contrast to the common bare grass which is a native of this section.

The mugho pine, a dwarfi variety, is a pretty foreground plant.

Flowers Adaptable

Among the tall shrubs which are being grown with success at the experiment station are a number with various flowers which make them adaptable to different groupings.

The contoneaster does well here and it is one of the plants having a red berry in the fall, while the salvia greggi, a desert sage and a native of Texas, has small red blossoms throughout the summer. The smoke bush tree, a plant with unusual round leaves, has blossoms which form into a cotton-like fluff resembling smoke, and the staghorn which is a form of sumac, has beautiful coloring in the fall.

An early-blooming shrub which is growing successfully at the farm is the sythia. It has a yellow flower and blossoms early in the spring.

The mock orange, a tall upright plant, is pretty as a back ground, as is the weigelia, another red-flowering shrub.

A favorite shrub in many sections and one which is not frequently grown here is the crepe myrtle. This plant grows well here, according to Mr. Jones.

Snowball Is Pretty

The vitex, a shrub having a lavender or purple spiked blossom similar to the lilac, is a tall growing plant which is successfully grown here and the snow ball, a more common plant, is very pretty at this time of the year. The spirea is well known and makes beautiful shrubbery.

A good show plant to be grown here is palpas grass, a blade that has spiked plume, although little of it is grown in this section, Mr. Jones said.

The Japanese barberry is a successfully-grown shrub that does not reach a very great height, the American bitter sweet redberry is another shrub that does well and the Abelia is a shrub which has a white flower from early summer until late in the fall.

Many of these shrubs and trees are being grown by people in Lubbock, although there is a common belief that the scarcity of natural plants brands this section as one in which few shrubs and trees may be grown, according to Mr. Jones.

Advances Resumed On Stock Market; Shares Sell High

Week-End Profit Taking Is Easily Absorbed As Score Of Issues Are Briskly Bought On Board

NEW YORK, April 27. (AP)—Operations for the advance were vigorously resumed on the stock market today, in enthusiasm over the impressive resistance which the market displayed yesterday to 16 percent call money. Week-end profit taking was readily absorbed, and about a score of selected industrials were briskly bought.

Tight money is expected next week, but credit was expected to ease gradually thereafter. The determined stand taken by the large New York banks in preventing any acute situation in the money market yesterday was distinctly reassuring. Nevertheless, leading bankers are anxious to see trading kept within moderate bounds.

The day's news was meagre but generally favorable, including additional excellent first quarter earnings report.

The day's trading was in the largest volume of any Saturday session this month, with a turnover of 1,740,510 shares, about 500,000 larger than last Saturday's. The Associated Press price indices indicated that yesterday's losses were more than regained.

United Aircraft was again a conspicuous strong point, climbing about 9 points to a record price. Westinghouse Electric jumped nearly six points. Coppers threw off their recent slump and made definite headway, with Kennecott and Greene Cananea making extreme gains of 3 and 5 points.

Shares Sell to New Highs

Commercial solvents, corn products, Union Carbide and American Railway Express sold up 2 to 4 points to new highs. In the oils, Mexican Seaboard made a further gain on reports that the Cutten-Fisher interests were accumulating the stock. Pan-American rose two points.

Motor stocks were generally quiet. Pierce Arrow A jumped three points and Chrysler was firm, while General Motors sagged a point. Rails were firm but quiet, with New Haven standing out with a rise of about 3 points to 104 3-8, the highest price since 1913.

Foreign exchanges were firm, with the German mark rallying to 23.69 cents, and the Dutch guilder touching a new high for the year at 40.15 1-2 cents.

Few Prairie Dog 'Towns' Are Left

Isolated "towns" of prairie dogs, scattered over the county principally in the southern portions are all that remain of these destructive rodents as a result of the campaign for their extermination which has been waged under direction of the county agent's offices here.

Egg Production Cost For County Will Be Figured

Tables And Charts To Show Expenses, Income, Are To Be Placed On Ten Farms Of County

Production cost of eggs in Lubbock county is the goal of a system of records being installed on a series of farms in various parts of this county, County Agent D. F. Eaton is supervising gathering of the records.

Tables and charts upon which a monthly account of receipts and expenses on poultry is kept form a part of the system.

Gathering of this data is preliminary to launching of a campaign to encourage production of more poultry in this region. Mr. Eaton feels that when armed with definite and concrete facts on the costs of poultry production he will have a much stronger talking point for advocating greater production of eggs and poultry in the county.

The system of records will in a measure be similar to that used in checking on milk production, as exemplified in the larger dairies.

Tech Agricultural Students to Stage First Annual Fair

Stock Judging Pavilion To Be Scene Of Activities On May 3; Polo Game, Bronc Riding Feature

Not to be outdone by their engineer neighbors on the north portion of the campus who recently staged a successful engineering show, students of the school of agriculture of Texas Technological college are to be hosts to fellow-students and townspeople in the first annual Aggie Fair on May 3.

Preparations have been going on for the affair for the past six weeks and officials in charge announce that everything will be in readiness for the crowds on next Friday.

Featuring the activities of the fair will be exhibits of various departments of the school along with those of various departments of the college whose work is in connection with phases of agriculture.

A carnival mid-way with all the attractions offered in the usual shows will grace the stock judging pavilion where most of the fair is to be held.

In the afternoon, a polo game between the agriculture team captained by Prof. Charles H. Mahoney and the Liberal Arts team led by Capt. Rhodes Ingerton will be played while a rodeo consisting of bronc busting and other contests will be held.

In the evening, a vaudeville program with leading dramatic students of the college will be presented.

STATE AID ANNOUNCED

Dawson County Rural Schools Get $14,065

LAMESA, April 27.—W. T. Webb, County Superintendent of Dawson County, states that the rural school of Dawson County will receive a total of $14,065 State Aid. In addition to that $400 was given to McCarty and $350 to Lakeview for Industrial Aid. S. E. Clark highly complemented the schools of Dawson County and especially Five Mile, which has recently completed a new modern and well equipped brick building. He said for the amount of money invested a finer school in Texas could not be found.

START CONSTRUCTION

Gulf Building Refinery At Sweetwater; Going Up

(Special To The Avalanche)

SWEETWATER, April 27.— Construction work is being speeded at the Gulf Refining Company plant on the southwest edge of Sweetwater where over 300 workmen are now being employed in erection of what is reported will be one of the outstanding refineries in the state. Progress of the work has been steady, and construction is going ahead as rapidly as supplies and materials can be received, George H. Westbrook, manager, said.

Women 'Pied Pipers' Arrive In City

Misses Anna Mae Wright and Madge Case Will Chase The Rats From Lubbock Town, They Aver

"They fought the dogs, and killed the cats;
And bit the babies in the cradles.
And ate the cheese out of the vats
And licked the soups from the cook's own ladies.
Split open kegs and salted sprats
Made nests inside men's Sunday hats.
And even spoiled the women's chats
By drowning out their speaking.
With shrieking and squeaking."

Once upon a time in Hamlin town the rats were just this bad. And a Pied Piper offered the mayor to lead the rodents away with his magic flute. And he did . . .

Today two young women are doing the same. Miss Anna May Wright of Portsmouth Va., and Miss Madge Case of Seattle, Wash., using not a magic flute but a simple drug, barium carbonate, which can be purchased at any drug store, arrived in Lubbock Friday and promised to not only exterminate the rats from the city but teach a few simple instructions to building owners which will keep the rats away forever.

"Government statistics show that there are two rats for every inhabitant of every city in the United States. Each of these rats does $4.82 of damage each year," Miss Wright explained. "In Lubbock with its population of $20,000, property damage is almost $100,000."

"I started in the work eight years ago to see the country. I've seen it—in 42 states, the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska, and the Philippine Islands. I remained because I received not only cooperation, but many times frenzied appeals from cities to help them overcome a rat plague."

A woman who not only feared rats so little that she hunted them down—but stayed in the work for eight years! Shades of a chair climbing generation!

She and her co-worker, Miss Case, will spend about a month on the South Plains. They will visit every town and city in the section.

"This is our first extermination campaign in this part of Texas.

Every store, restaurant and business house will be visited by Miss Wright and Miss Case in the campaign.

Moderate Advance Made Saturday On New York Cotton

NEW YORK, April 27. (AP)—Weekend covering was held chiefly responsible for moderate advances in cotton today and was probably promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables. The bulges met some further liquidation on a favorable view of the day's weather reports, but after selling off from 18.85 to 18.77, July rallied to 18.90 and closed at 18.81. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 10 points in response to the relatively steady showing of Liverpool. The market eased off after the call under liquidation through wire and commission houses.

May declined from 19.58 to 19.51, December from 19.04 to 18.99 which carried the price level back within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations during the middle of the morning.

Closing quotations were about 8 to 9 points off from the best on the more active positions.

The amount of cotton on shipboard at the end was estimated at 98,000 against 90,000 bales last year.

Daily Markets

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, April 27. (AP)—No steers in the day's receipts. A few odd head of bulls, sold at unchanged prices. Light common bulls sold around 7.00.

A few packages of heifers sold at a price level of 8.00 to 12.50.

Few better fat cows sold at 9.75, very common light cows around 5.00 and bulk of cutters at 6.00 and 6.50. Few better calves sold at 12.00 and 12.50; culls around 8.00 level.

Not enough sheep offered to test the strength of the market.

Hogs steady to strong, quality considered. Top on rail hogs 10.90, on medium to good butchers. Truck top 10.30; bulk 175-250 pound butchers 10.00 and 10.90; packing sows ,75 and 9.25.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, April 27. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Livestock around the 11-market circuit this week was marked by sharp price declines on fat lambs. Fed lambs received a set-back of 50c and $1 while packers at some points shaded prices on spring lambs $1.25 to $1.75. Aged stock suffered losses of 50c to $1. The supply approximated 279,3000.

Hogs are closing the week unevenly higher with average price upturns of 10 to 35c. St. Louis had a closing top of 11.80, slightly under the week's best mark of 11.90. Total offerings were around 479,700.

Price Of Cotton Rallies Slightly On Southern Mart

NEW ORLEANS, April 27. (AP)—The cotton market rallied moderately in the short session today owing to much better Liverpool cables than due and covering for over the week-end. July traded as high as 18.84, up 15 points and closed at 18.78, or 9 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of 7 to 9 points.

The opening transactions proved the highs of the day with July at 18.85, October at 18.83 and December at 18.93.

Contracts To Use In Dairy Testing Received In City

System Soon To Be In Operation Throughout South Plains Country; To Use Tech Laboratory

The dairy by-mail testing station to be employed in assisting live stock producers of this region to increase the butter fat content in their milk, will be started in the near future, it was stated yesterday by County Agent Dave F. Eaton.

Contracts for the service have arrived and solicitation of dairy men throughout this section will be started Monday. Cost of the testing service will be an initial fee of $2.75 plus an added $1 for each cow entered for testing. A large part of the $2.75 will go toward defraying expenses of mailing the samples tested.

Samples of milk will be sent to the laboratories at the Tech where a test for butterfat will be made and a record of weight kept.

The testing service will enable a check on cream and butter fat production to be made as well as a watch on the cost of feeding and caring for cows.

Oil Notes

BIG SPRING, April 27. (Special)—A showing of oil that rivaled the Coke county discovery for importance was encountered Saturday morning in the World Oil company No. 1 McDowell, northern Glasscock county wildcat, 22 miles southwest of Big Spring and eight miles at line from Chalk. Settles and Robertson pool production while the well can in no sense be called a full-fledged producer at the present stage of development, oil rose 300 feet in the hole when lime pay topped at 2,2 feet was drilled 2,253 feet. Oil was first noticed shortly after midnight Friday. In drilling the three feet of pay oil rose one hundred feet in thirty minutes it was said at the well. A spirited royalty and lease play has surrounded the wildcat since drilling operations were started. While the gravity of crude has not been tested, it had a dark black appearance. No. 1 McDowell is located 1,650 feet south and 2,310 feet west of northeast corner of section 21, block 23, TSP2 south, Texas and Pacific survey, Glasscock county.

Rabies Feared In Slaton Families

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Beal and Son And Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Keys and Daughter Go To Austin For Treatment

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SLATON, April 27.—Following a mad dog scare here, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Beal and son, Charles, and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Keys and daughter, Olive, left Thursday for Austin to be treated at the Pasteur Institute.

The two families, after their dogs engaged in a fight, feared the animals had rabies. One dog's head was sent to Austin for examination. Upon receiving advice that the dog was positively affected by rabies, the two families started for Austin.

Although none of the families had been bitten, precaution was thought necessary on account of blood from the animals having come in contact with scratches on the hands and arms of certain members of the families.

Many dogs have been killed and others are being closely watched since the scare occurred. Chief of Police Tom J. Abel killed nine dogs in one day this week. Several owners are keeping their dogs tied or penned until danger is past.

But Never Again

Local Man Goes On Destructive Tear

"Never again," said a Lubbock resident yesterday morning as he pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness in G. R. Scott's justice court.

The man was placed in jail Friday morning by the combined aid of four officers and one physician. He was arrested by Constable J. C. Roberts after neighbors had reported his kicking out window glass, breaking up furniture, and running members of his family from the house.

He alarmed the courthouse with his fighting and yelling. Yesterday he didn't remember the things he was supposed to have done while on the drunken rampage. To refreshen his memory, Judge Scott fined him $25 and costs, amounting to a total of $31.15.

Public Speaking Program Is Made

Speeches of Various Varieties to Be Presented by Department at High School Here.

The fifth period class of the public speaking department of Lubbock high school, is to have a tea in Room 204, of the senior high school building, on Tuesday, April 30, at 1:45 o'clock.

The object of the tea is to instruct students on "Etiquette at a Formal Tea." The hostess, Johnnie Joe Whitley and the host, Morris Holsey, assisted by the teacher, Mrs. Wanda Banker, will have charge. A receiving line, and an honor guest will be chosen and in the latter part of the period a program will be given and punch served.

In arranging such programs as these, Mrs. Banker, cleverly "drives home" a lesson while the students are being entertained.

All who wish to attend the tea are cordially invited.

BANQUET GIVEN

Public Speaking Classes Learn How

The public speaking classes of Lubbock high school, under direction of Mrs. Wanda Banker, held a banquet at the "Our Cafeteria" recently. This banquet was held for the purpose of putting into practice what the pupils hal learned in classwork of the various types of speeches. After dinner speeches were given by the students.

'The Magic Mirror,' Play, Scheduled

A one act play, "The Magic Mirror," will be given by Group B, in the fifth period public speaking class on Monday, April 29. Those in the play are Morris Holsey, Mildred Clinton, Leslie Van Burgess, Gracie Fern Frague, Bessie Mae Tate, Johnnie Jo Whitley, Katherine Sowell, Sam Henry, Cecile Horne, and Jean Shelley Jennings.

The play will be given at 1:45 in Room 204 of the senior high school. Visitors are invited.

Four hairs of good strength will hold suspended a one pound weight.

The fastest shower of rain ever measured fell at Opid's Camp, California, April 5, 1926, when 1.02 inches of rain fell in one minute.

The planet Neptune is never visible to the naked eye, but can be seen with a small telescope.

Hi Y

The Hi Y Club elected their officers Monday, April 22nd. The officers are as follows:

President, Homer Hall; Vice president, Morris Holsey; Secretary, T. L. Patterson.

Play Due Monday

The sponsors are not to be elected until next year when the club will be divided into two groups.

A short one-act play is to be given in the dramatic club Monday the 29. It is being directed by Dorothy Griffin.

Junior Play May 4

The annual junior play will be presented at the high school auditorium on May 14. Watch this column for further information.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

The third period class of Public Speaking students cordially invites the public to attend any of the following programs. The purpose of these programs is to acquaint the student with the different occasions for speeches.

A tentative plan for the next week follows:

Friday, April 26—Speeches in the auditorium.

Monday, April 29.—Speeches in the auditorium.

Tuesday, April 30—Program by Group B.

Wednesday, May 1—A tea will be given by the students, and speeches on manners, conduct ,etc., will be given.

Thursday, May2 —Group study. Outlines will be made of the speeches and salesmanship talks will be given.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever, its loveliness increases, it can never pass into nothingness."—Jno. Keats.

The human voice is the instrument God gave us for communicating with our fellow man. It is the human organ and its notes will be harmonious or discordant according to the way we play it. Every American youth, if he desire for any purpose to exert influence over his fellow men in an honorable way, should seek to become a good public speaker.

Of what value is a knowledge of the laws of English if one is buttoned up and does not use his knowledge as a vehicle for intelligent opinion in the disturbing questions of the day, if one can not influence his neighbors by a convincing expression of his opinion? All scholastic work is measured by the pupils' oral and written expression. Fundamental training in public speaking gives even the most timid of personalities basic control and correlation of mind, body, and voice; hence, power to show all personal qualities to the best advantage.

For these reasons we have instituted public speaking in the Lubbock high school, and that department is doing excellent work in preparing the student to meet the demands which will confront him.

Too often we see a student in declamation with diction above the average, the comprehension of their declamations good—but alas! They stand like moulded statues—passive, inert, sometimes rigid. A speech without gestdres lacks something—so with the realization in mind, that physical expression is a requisite to excellent speaking, the high school department is attempting to teach the students to let their bodies respond to the emotions aroused by speech in hand.

Up to the past week the students have studied the fundamentals essential to good public speaking, stressing particularly the organization of the speech. This is a phase in which the students are especially weak, according to Mrs. Banker. Under the organization of the speech they are studying the introduction, the body, and the conclusion of the speech. In their basic study they have included the oration, the eulogy, the after-dinner speech, the speech of dedication, and the expository speech.

In their study of the introduction they have learned to create a favorable state of mind on the part of the audience, arouse interest, catch attention and to prepare the mind of the audience for what is to follow.

In the body of the speech they are learning to express a central idea, eleborate and develop the main points that support this central idea, and to keep the sympathy of the audience.

And in the conclusion, the students learn to summarise the main points and emphasize them, to give the effect of completeness and to urge action.

For these last six weeks of school the students are giving speeches, having chosen their subjects, and have written and developed these speeches according to what they have been learning.

If we can co-ordinate clear thinking with the expression of these thoughts by a controlled voice proceeding from a well-poised body, the world will say that we have good personalities.

On Tuesday, May 7, public speaking classes will give impromptu speeches. Subjects approved by the instructor will be put in a box and shuffled. The chairman will take his seat and call on a student. The student will draw a subject and give his speech without preparation of either thought or words until he gets before his audience.

The library of the Vatican at Rome contains more than 250,000 books and 34,000 manuscripts. The building of the Vatican was started about 480 years ago. Almost every pope since then has made additions to it.

By reducing the English language to 500 basic words(a group of scientists and scholars hope to make it possible for people of all countries to pick up this abbreviated vocabulary in a few weeks or months. In this system there are no verbs.

STUDENTS VISIT PLANT

Lakeview Youngsters See How Paper Is Made

A party of about 35 composed of students, teachers and parents of the pupils from the Lakeview school, eight miles east of Meadow in Lynn county, spent Saturday in Lubbock, on an inspection tour of the Avalanche-Journal office, the Texas Technological college and the Lubbock sanitarium.

Everyone of the school pupils were eagerly receptive of every bit of information that could be told them, in the short time they were in the Avalanche and Journal offices, and spent part of thetime learning how "The South Plains Own Newspapers" are made ready for publication

It Is Nothing Less Than Wonderful."

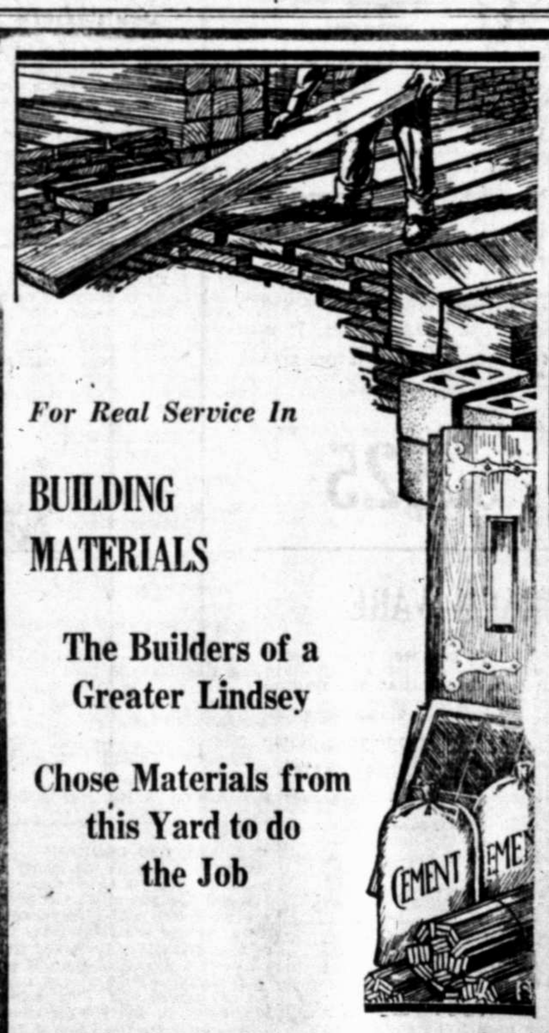

"Orgatone Ended My Awful suffering and I am gaining daily." Says Lubbock Farmer.

"I have gained so much in health and strength since taking Orgatone that I feel like a man with a new lease on life," said Kenneth Stanford, a well known farmer residing on rural route 4, Lubbock, Texas, while in Bowens Drug Store, a few days ago, for more of the medicine.

"I have been bothered with stomach disorders and a general run down condition for three years" continued Mr. Stanford, "and I would have sick dizzy spells and miserable headaches, My liver was out of order and after eating gas would form and upset my stomach so, there were many things I couldn't eat. I did all I could trying to get relief but nothing helped me.

"I tell you, only one, who has been bothered with troubles similar to mine can appreciate just how much suffering a person can go through. A few weeks ago I began taking Orgatone and am still taking it gaining in health and strength all the time, and I am working regularly every day. All those headaches and dizzy spells are gone and I don't know what suffering is any more. I can eat anything I want, as much as I please, and never have the least bit of trouble afterward. I have no constipation now, or any other trouble. In fact, I'm a perfectly well man and feel that it's nothing less than wonderful what Orgatone has done for me. I can recommend Orgatone believing I am telling the people about a medicine that will help them and I wouldn't be without it again for any amount of money."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowens Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Out of town customers are being supplied by mail upon receipt of price $1.25 for one bottle or $6.25 for six bottles.

MR. INVESTOR OR HOME BUILDER

Drive out Ave S from 19th Street south to 34th Street. You will pass thru—Wesley Square, Parkland Place, Highland Heights, O'Neall Terrace. and O'Neall Terrace Annex.

Notice the number of new, modern homes. Observe the amount of sidewalks and shade trees.

Compare the distance from the center of the city with other sections. Note the prices—lots 50x140 from $200 to $600. Nearly all have utilities!

Compare these prices and quality of houses with other sections. A foot will mean a "lot".

If you want a good investment in a fast growing section buy in one of these additions.

If you want a home or build to suit buy among the nice homes you will find there.

It is only a question of time until paved streets and parks and new modern schools will be in this fastest growing section of Lubbock. Better now than to wish you had.

We will be glad to show you some good investments or home-sites. $200 and up.

Twenty-Six Years For One Divorce!

Paris Courts, Generally Supposed to Be Most Prompt. In Dissolving Marriage, Set New Long-time Mark

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

PARIS, April 27.—For Americans who look to Paris as the happy home for quick divorces, there is a warning in the unconcerned attitude of the Third Chamber, which has just postponed for some weeks a divorce action which has been awaiting decision for 26 years.

Hence, always resenting the reputation for quick divorces, Paris courts now claim the longest divorce case on record.

This suit was first instiuted by the husband in 1903, when he was a young clerk in a lawyer's office. He is now a dignified magistrate and the wife he wants to be free of is a portly matron, but still the tie of marriage binds them. Unless the courts show some speed soon, the phrase "until death do us part" will at least have been lived up to.

According to French practice, the names of the couple are withheld pending the court's decision. Shortly after the marriage, years ago, according to the husband's complaint, which still stands, the bride was in the habit of creating scenes in his office, through jealously, thus causing him great embarrasment and ridicule by his associates. He filed suit for divorce, but a year later, nothing definite having been done in the courts, he happened to meet his wife on the street and there was a reconciliation.

Again the courts moved slowly. Hardly had the divorce papers finally been withdrawn when another breach came, seriously complicating future developments.

New proceedings were instituted by the husband, but the wife contested the action. She was able to prolong the case until the outbreak of war and then, like many other such cases, it was shelved until hostilities ceased. But hostilities in the family have not yet come to an armistice.

The clerk, having become a lawyer, fought his own case and applied to it all his legal knowledge. He won many difficult cases, but this one has so far been too much for him. In 1925 a lower court denied the divorce on the ground that no new evidence had been introduced after the reconciliation, but the husband promptly appealed. When it came up for hearing recently, it was postponed once more.

* * *

There is a French lesson for bootleggers—and possibly milkmen—the heavy punishment, in the way of a fine, imposed on a wine grower in a village in the Midi who used a hydrant to dilute his choice vintages. The hydrant was near the door of his house and during the dark hours of the night he attached one end of a hose which led to his vat and turned on the faucet.

But that night the weather was so cold that the mayor of the village had ordered the city's water turned off to prevent the pipes from freezing. The dealer did not know of this, so he permitted the hose to remain connected for what he considered a reasonable length of time.

The next morning the villagers were amazed when they turned on their faucets to see good, red, unwatered wine gush forth. The hose had acted as a siphon for the village pipes.

Corn Meal Motor Designed; Will be Help for Farmer

Maize, Rice Husks, Wood Dust, Charcoal and Coke Also Employed Successfully as Fuel

GOERLITZ, Germany, April 27 (AP)—The time is not far off when American farmers will use meal as fuel for their motors, says Rudolph Pawlikowski, head of the Kosmos Machine works.

The forecast of the German motor engineer is based on 12 years' successful experiments with powdered fuels. He explains that his forecast is based on the ease with which meal may be employed. Vast crops of maize or sweet corn will furnish all the fuel needed by the simple expedient of grinding the residue in a mill and feeding the product into motors as fuel.

Not only meal, but rice husks, pulverized coal, wood dust, charcoal and ufrnace coke have been used by Dr. Pawlikowski in his motor. The success and efficiency of these fuels is due to the fact that in the motor they explode by the heat generated by compression, without aid of a spark. Pawlikowski has adapted their use to a Diesel engine by a contrivance whereby the piston action compresses and explodes the powder in the firing chamber.

Rice husks and peat did not at first appear readily combustible because of a comparatively large percentage of moisture, but after the watery ingredients had been extracted rice husks proved as valuable a substitute for benzine as any of the other pulverized substances. The rice husks have the advantage of cheapness, Herr Pawlikowski estimating them at one-fiftieth of the price of benzine in Germany.

To the existing assortment of vegetable fuels, others are constantly being added, like sugar cane fiber. Even pulverized aluminum has been used. None of these fuels noticeably wears piston rings, Herr Pawlikowski says.

A Diesel motor operated on any of these fuels, says Herr Pawlikowski, can continue to run smoothly for years. In confirmation he pointed to his 30 horsepower Diesel motor, with which experiments on pulverized coal and vegetable fuels have been carried on for the past 12 years.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Sterling Brown Named As Vice-President At TCU

FORT WORTH, April 27.—(AP)—Steward Hellman has been elected president of the senior class of next year at Texas Christian University here. His home is in Fort Worth.

Other officers of the class are: Vice-president, Sterling Brown, Lubbock; business manager, Culver Gidden, Venus; Social secretary, Miss Vera Turbeville, Fort Worth.

MOODY TO MAKE TALK

Governor To Address East Texas C. Of C. Meeting

BRYAN, April 27.—(AP)—Governor Dan Moody will address the annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce on May 7, the final day of the gathering, according to J. Webb Howell, chairman of the program committee.

The state legislature also will be guests of the convention.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Ater and son, R. V., Jr., were visitors in this city Saturday from Ropesville.

William Thomas Magee has returned to his home in Levelland following his discharge Saturday from the Lubbock Sanitarium.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCoy and little daughter, Charlie Nell, were Saturday shoppers here from Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. T. Polk of the Canyon community were visitors in this city.

Miss Ethel Alston of Tatum, N. M., is ill here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mallett of Monroe were Saturday afternoon shoppers in this city.

Miss Grace Haney has returned to her home in Carlisle after a shopping visit in Lubbock Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burleson and children, Marelle and James Melvin, of Meadow, were Saturday visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Mears have returned to their home at Wilson following a Saturday visit in this city.

L. H. Shelton, jr., was released Saturday from a hospital here.

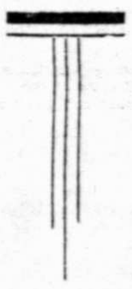

Miss Ethel Crawford, accompanied by Mrs. J. F. Miles, Mrs. Odis Burson, Misses Edwina Barnes, Mattie Belle Choat and Naomi Walschak, all of Ropesville, have returned home following a shopping visit in this city Saturday.

Virginia Hearne, little laughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hearne, returned to her home in Levelland Saturday following her discharge from the West Texas Hospital.

Miss Lillian Rollins and sister, Geraldine, and Mr. and Mrs Ted Rollins, all of Abernathy, were guests Saturday of R. L. Rollins of that place, who is ill in the Lubbock Sanitarium.

Aggie Meet Is Won By San Jacintoans

COLLEGE STATION, April 27. (AP)—San Jacinto high school of Houston won the Seventeenth Annual Texas A. and M. College Invitational Interscholastic Track and Field meet here today with a total of 59 points, taking permanent possession of the meet trophy by winning for the third consecutive year.

Central high school of Fort Worth placed second with 31 points. Lufkin was third with 20 1-2 points.

Mr. Dow has seen the city grow from a wide spot in the road to its present size. Until the past few years he was active in civic matters and for the past 21 years has been superintendent of the Sunday school at the First Methodist church, a position he still retains.

While Mr. Dow expects to give much of his time to the Ralls Baner, he will retain his residence here and transact his other business matters in Lubbock, he said.

Charles A. Guy, managing editor of the Avalanche-Journal publications, succeeds to the Avalanche editorship upon the retirement of Mr. Dow.

Fashion Is Building For Future In Designs

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, April 27.—A study in the importance of the individual in the field of costume designing is reflected in a current exposition here.

Preparing for the Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition this month, a contest was held by several schools of costume designing. In the modern manner, skyscrapers were chosen as the inspiration for certain modernistic dress designs. The results proved a number of things.

In the first place, ten times as many designers chose the famous Woolworth Building for the inspiration as chose any other newer skyscraper. In the second place, of those selecting the Woolworth Building, no two worked out their design in anything like the same way.

Laymen are in the habit of thinking designers, especially Paris designers, get together and more or less decide what to "put over" on the great public. This exhibition shows in conclusive fashion that diversity of fashions is really nothing more or less than an indication of the individuality with which designers work.

Interpretations Varied

One girl interpreted the vertical lines of the Woolworth building and tower by a series of fine pleats. Another confined hers to the use of heavy, vertical lines without showing the tower. One designer took a slanting-upwards from-the-street view of the skyscraper and had the long lines of braid converge toward the neck-line.

One clever design shows a suit design with the body of the building made of printed material against a background of plain fabric. Some used contrasting lace and fabric, others buttons, stripes, cutouts, appliqued designs, embroidery and two kinds of lace.

This vogue for skyscraper designs extends beyond dresses. Hats appear with decoration like the Queensboro bridge, the Ritz tower, the Chanin building, the Paramount. Shoes, bags, scarfs all reflects this vogue. A set of bridal lingerie has its beige Alencon lace staggered in real skyscraper setback manner up the front panels.

The skyscraper costumes are quite fascinating and offer all manner of interesting experiment in the way of contemporary design. Also they may prove quite diverting. Instead of saying, "I'll take the lavender crepe frock," one may say in the future, "Give me the Woolworth tower dress, in mauve, please." Or those fortunate enough to have maids phone home and say, "Celeste, lay out my 'New Yorker Hotel,' please."

Three of the most interesting Woolworth Building designs in the exposition use, respectively, chiffon and lace, satin and flat crepe for their media.

The chiffon and lace evening gown is extremely charming. Off-white chiffon makes the body of the gown, with lace fashioning a regular Woolworth tower up the front of it and trailing behind in a modish flounce.

How Height Is Achieved

The pastel colored flat crepe frock applies vertical pleats to give the effect of extreme height. the pleated skirt having marked semblance to the body of the building, with pleats reaching clear up one side of the waist, expressing the tower idea. Contrasting banding outlines the jagged skyline of the tower.

The satin design for a dinner gown is perhaps even more original than the others for it takes the Woolworth Building at night, with its windows lighted and makes panels against the black satin of that outline. Done in crystals or even white touches of fabric this window-panel effect is startlingly original and charming.

New, unusual and very interesting, these skyscraper designs are more than contemporary. They really mark a departure in design and a tendency to look to the machine age for art inspiration.

Earth To Mars In Five Minutes—That's Plan Of Indianan; He Hopes To Visit Many Other Planets

EVANSVILLE, Ind. April 27.—Everett Hunt,34-year-old professor of science and mathematics in the high school at Oakland City, Ind., is about to begin building a machine that he believes will take him straight to the planet Mars.

While he may not be the first man to feel this ambition, he at least has a new idea about locomation. The rocket-like contrivances which others have proposed for such interstellar journeys have been discarded by him; in their place he is developing a car which, he says, will take him to Mars in something like five minutes and will bring him back again when he is ready to leave—something that the rockets would not do.

His proposed super-flying machine is to be a big pear-shaped affair of duralumin, with a complicated motor on the top where the stem ought to be.

186,000 Miles a Second

This motor, according to his ideas would look something like a radio loop aerial. It would depend on neither gasoline nor oil, but would grasp, out of infinite space, energy from the all-pervading ether waves to carry the machine along. Out of it, he believes, he will be able to get a speed approximating the speed of light—186,000 miles a second.

Just how these waves will be used to make the thing go will have to remain a mystery to the general public, for the present. Hunt says he has his scheme all worked out, but can not describe it until he has it perfected and patented.

"It is hard for me to believe," he says, "that God could create this vast universe and place us on this insignificant earth without some means of interplanetary travel to other worlds. Some day we will know how to get back and forth from one planet to another."

Will Rise Vertically

His flying machine will have no landing gear, as it will arise and descend vertically, thus requiring no special landing field. It will be able to travel in the air either straight up or horizontally, or at any other angle, the motor at the top being mounted so as to be upright no matter what the angle of the car below.

When the machine gets half way to Mars, he believes, it will pass out of the region of the earth's gravitational attraction and would become pulled toward Mars. Then it will gradually swing 'round, and eventually will land on Mars right side up.

Everett Hunt is shown here with the queer pear-shaped machine in which he hopes to fly to Mars and other planets. It hasn't been built yet—but that's a mere detail.

Oxygen tanks will have to be installed, of course, as there is no air at all in the vast region between the earth and Mars. Oxygen may probably will have to be carried, too so that the passengers can explore Mars after they get there, as scientists report that the atmosphere on Mars is much thinner than on this plannet.

Might Broadcast Power

There are objections to his plan, Hunt admits; but he does not think they are very serious.

"Certain scientists claim," he says, "that there prevails, about 200 miles from the earth, a zone in which there is a total absence of ether waves. I haven't considered this as a problem, for I don't agree with them. The mere fact that waves of energy come from the sun in the form of light and heat would disprove this theory, to my mind."

However, if this condition should really exist, Hunt believes it could be surmounted by having a radio station on the earth broadcast power to him.

When his machine is completed, Hunt plans to take several persons along with him. He believes it would be just as well to have a competent astronomer in the crew, to act as a pilot while flying around among the planets.

Later, he says, he could build machines to carry 100 passengers—machines that would not only be fit to travel to other stars, but that would be very useful for ordinary air travel on earth, since they would have a speed so much greater than that of any existing airplane.

Building

will represent an expenditure of approximately $75,000.

Mr. Schenck's apartment house will provide 16 different apartments, the building to be of two stories and of a dimension, 59 by 103 feet. There will be eight four-room apartments and eight five-room apartments, with garages provided for every one of them.

A feature of this structure will be the installation of ice refrigeration machines in every apartment, as well as complete furnishings and a direct telephone to each. The house will be completed within the next few weeks, Mr. Schenck announced yesterday.

Have Brick Buildings

In addition to the apartment house, Schenck's corner will have two brick store buildings and a modern filling station on it, all to be finished about the same time the house will be completed.

The other four apartment houses are those of Dr. Sam H. Stewart, costing $17,500; J. C. Cromer, $7,000; J. H. Moore, $14,000, and Thomas Bush, $5,000.

Duplexes recorded and their costs, are M. L. Shepherd, $8,000; J. G. Hall, $7,000; J. W. Phillips, $4,000; Glenn Hunt, $4,000; Glenn A. Benson, $6,800; W. C. and T. C. Scott, $5,000; W. A. Hardeman, $7,500; A. M. Scott, $3,500; Mr. Delaney, $4,000; Howe Arnett, $5,000; J. G. Biffle, $3,500; A. L. King, $5,000; L. L. Adams, $6,750, and H. W. Thompson, $4,500.

Legislature

sion, especially after he resubmitted those things turned down by the regular set-to.

But, in spite of the opposition and its efforts to slow down the procedure, there is an element which does not subscribe exactly to the ideas of the chief executive and is viewing the whole situation in a broad way. The faction realizes that there is merit in the governor's proposals and is willing to give them serious consideration and probably offer alterations. It is this faction, coordinating with the loyalists, is apt to bring about considerable action, out of the session.

Likely Solve Problem

"Everything is all right; this legislature will do much good and very likely solve the penitentiary problem," said Harry N. Graves of Georgetown.

Representative minor of Denton, one of the outstanding leaders who holds aloof from factions, predicted that there would be a minimum of controversy and expressed belief that there would be some satisfactory solution of the penitentiary problem.

"I do believe, however that some of the appropriation bills should have been submitted so we could have been working on them," he said. "For instance, there is the judiciary measure, the amounts of which are almost entirely fixed by statute. There cannot be any controversy over it."

Fight Expected

Representative Johnson of Carrizo Springs, supporter of the governor, but at the same time an independent, is confident that the session will pass off with a minimum of scrapping. He favors all factions in the penitentiary "fight" getting together in a "give and take" conference.

On the other hand, Representatives Pope of Corpus Christi and Hopkins of Gonzales, house leaders in the faction that believes there isn't any "public emergency" for a special session except the appropriation bills, are in favor of passing the money measures and going home. Furthermore they would close shop and take off until the governor decided to submit appropriations, or else take the bull by the horns and work on them any way, without the chief executive's consent. They claim this can be done under the constitution.

Senate Is Idle

The senate barely has turned a wheel this session. Senator Wirtz, of seguin, whose ideas coincide with those of Pope and Hopkins made a test of the governor's strength and found him in the majority. He wanted to alter the rules to permit consideration of the appropriation bills out of their turn, but the score was 14 to 10 against him, with seven senators absent.

Since then the senate has been in vacation with about half of its membership on a jaunt to East Texas State colleges and other institutions.

May Make Peace

In the meantime, there is a movement on in the house to adjust differences between advocates of penitentiary relocation and concentration, with a view to sending a compromise bill to the senate, where the Governor's idea of leaving the matter of retaining, selling and buying prison system sites to a commission has its greatest strength.

Civil service will come before the house Monday with the results in doubt. While it was defeated in the regular session, the governor has strong hopes of passing it this time. He has been assured that some of those who voted in the negative have relented.

Flies In Yukon At 42 Below

A sister ship to the "Spirit of St. Louis," equipped with skiis, is providing prospectors in Yukon territory a regular air line between Whitehorse and Dawson.

WHITEHORSE, Yukon, Apr. 27—Temperatures as low as 42 degrees below zero fail to keep prospectors from flying between Dawson and White horse in Yukon territory. A sister ship of the "Spirit of St. Louis," equipped with skiis instead of wheels, is providing wings for prospectors who "mushed" for days to cover a distance which the plane makes in an hour.

A special cowling protects the engine against intensely cold weather. The cabin, which often accommodates both men and dogs, is warmed by a heater connected with the engine exhaust.

With the opening of the spring season, prospectors will be able to penetrate hundreds of square miles of unexplored territory, landing on isolated river bars with heavier cargoes of provisions than they could "mush" in weeks and months of foot and dog team travel.

John M. Patterson, formerly a mail pilot between Cheyenne, Wyo. and Pueblo, Colo., flies the 300-mile Whitehorse-Dawson route on a regular schedule. When the plane is not busy with its run, it is used for special flights to isolated regions.

Two hours of flying from either Dawson or Whitehorse, in the heart of the Klondyke gold country, will carry the prospectors into previously unexplored country. The landing place is marked when such a flight is made, a date set for return of the party, and the pilot heads toward his base.

Makes 'Whoopee'

"When I'm in a wet state, I'm wet," announced J. Thomas Heflin Jr., above, son of the dry-voting but wet-sympathizing Senator from Alabama, as he arrived in New York from Panama aboard ship. Some liquor he brought up from Panama hadn't lasted the trip, he said, but "lots of people on board had liquor and they were good to me." He followed his arrival with a "whoopee" tour of Broadway which had its grand finale in a police station.

"Impossible," you would say. Then, to cap the climax, drive his automobile through the congested areas of every large city in America, obeying all traffic laws while alone in his car and completely blindfolded.

He has accomplished the feat of driving his car over a strange road at night, the windshield painted black; the lights removed from his car with the blindfold over his eyes.

"Going a wee bit too far," you say.

However, Hayward Thompson drove a British Sunbeam over the great oval at Brooklands, England, at a speed of 91 miles per hour! He burned the sand of Daytona Beach, Florida, in a Duesenberg-speed—128 miles per hour. This alone and while completely blindfolded.

Labor day, 1926, a crowd of 236,600 paid admissions saw him finish a remarkable exhibition in the grounds of the Sesqui-Centenial exposition, Philadelphia. Countless thousands witnessed his exhibition in Portland last July. San Francisco, Los Angeles, and thrill proof New York turned out en masse to witness this man and his feats.

Hayward Thompson is coming here under the auspices of The Avalanche-Journal, Saturday, May 4.

But the informal dance will be in honor of the Dallas visitors, and Lubbock's ladies and gentlemen will turn out enmasse to extend the right hand of fellowship Monday evening.

Automobiles Requested

Although the Dallas aggregation requested that their arrival be not greeted with several undred automobiles at the Santa Fe station, when their special train rolls in at 5 p. m. tomorrow, a request for a number of automobiles to meet uptown later has been issued. These cars will be given windshield stickers reading, "Visitors Hop In," and will be at the disposal of any and all of them who might wish to tour points of interest, including Texas Technological college, while in town.

Merchants have been requested to keep their stores open until 7:30 Monday evening, in order to give the Dallas trademen time to visit them in their places of business.

Lubbock Becomes Meca For Thousands Of Tourists

New Camps Swell Accomodations For Travelers; Cities Have Learned To Respect Trade of Motorist Nomads

Thousands of Dollars Are Invested Here to Please Tourists; Carlsbad Cave Boosts Total Here.

LUBBOCK is already more of a tourist center than one would realize, without a careful survey of the scores of tourists who spend a day or so here while enroute to points of interest north, east, south and west.

When the two newest tourist camps, now being constructed, are completed, this city will have a total of 10 camps, offering facilities for approximately 100 families a day in more than 100 different cabins. The two camps being completed are both located on Avenue H, one in the north part of town and the other in the south part. Cost of building the camp to be located on South Avenue H is to be about $15,000, while that to the north will be about $20,000.

Big Investment Made.

All 10 of Lubbock's tourist camps represent around $100,000 in buildings and equipment.

Figuring an average tourist family of five, this city has facilities for taking care of 182,500 people a year, should each cabin be filled every day by a different family.

At this time there are several scores of tourists in town, and the season has not yet opened. During the winter the camps were utilized by scores of families, some motoring here in quest of work remaining in the cabins until employment was found or other and more permanent living quarters located.

On Main Highways.

As is to be expected, Lubbock's tourist camps are located on the important highways leading into and out of the city. More traffic passing north and south through "The Hub of the Plains," more camps are to be found on Avenue H. Two camps are located on Avenue H, at the north entrance into the city and another is being constructed in that area. Two camps are on South Avenue H, close in the business section, with one being built at Nineteenth and H and another camp is located at the south edge of town where the Slaton and Tahoka highways branch off Avenue H, extended.

Other Localities Utilized

On East Broadway, across the canyon is a camp, giving tourists access to the $10,000 community building in the county park. At the junction of the Levelland and Brownfield highways, southwest of the city, just beyond the southern edge of the Texas Technological college campus, is the largest camp to be opened, that of the Rolls Rock camp. North of the Tech will be found two camps. The larger camps include the East Canyon, with 12 cabins; the Tech, with 20 cabins; the Hub, 20, and the Plains, with 18 cabins.

New Camp Opened.

The formal opening of the Rolls Rock camp, on the Brownfield and Levelland highway southwest of the Tech was held yesterday. This camp is unique in that its four cabins and filling station are all built of rock, red standstone brought here from Cisco, only just recently completed and not yet quite completely furnished, at a cost of approximately $5,000.

With the marking of the Carlsbad Caverns Highway, running through this city from Oklahoma City, Okla., to El Paso, Lubbock's center as a stopping place for tourists will more than likely witness an increase in importance. As the highway becomes advertised throughout the nation, and as Lubbock is situated at a strategic point between Oklahoma City and Carlsbad, N. M., an overnight stop of all tourists will be scheduled here.

Traffic Is Plentiful.

Traffic over this one highway alone offers promise of being sufficient to keep every tourist camp now here fairly well filled to capacity. Oklahoma City has discovered its tourist visitors to number in the neighborhood of 75,000 people a year, and that city's Chamber of Commerce announces that at least a third of these are routed from that place southward by way of Fort Worth, on their way to El Paso and the Pacific coast.

Many cities in the United States are today considering their tourist trade as one of the most important sources of income, both in amount of dollars and cents and in advertising value because of talk about the cities benig spread by the visitors.

As the South Plains is now becoming advertised throughout the nation and the Carlsbad Caverns are becoming almost as great a drawing power for tourist trade as the Grand Canyon and Yellowstone Park, Lubbock faces an early expansion in every phase of tourist trade, traffic and local facilities for handling same.

Points Of Law In Injunction Granted M.C. Overton Are Given By Mullican

AN INJUNCTION, granted to Dr. M. C. Overton and restraining A. W. Jackson and J. B. Maxey from constructing a business building on the northwest corner of Broadway and Avenue Q, has been granted by Hon Clark M. Mullican, judge of the 72nd judicial district court.

JUDGE CLARK M. MULLICAN

Judge Mullican's decision is based upon the following points and upholds restrictions on Broadway property as outlined by Dr. Overton, who purchased the land from G. A. Rush:

Restricted Districts—Texas Cases Controlling

Grantor restricted lots to one house on two lots. This created "general scheme or plan" which entered into and became part of consideration and enforceable. Curlee V. Walker, 225 S. W. 497, (S. C.) (Wichita Falls case.)

Where owner of a tract, intended for residence purposes, imposed restrictive covenants calculated to preserve residential character of property, in the deeds to several granttes, the restriction is for benefit of all of the lots, and individual lot owners may enforce compliance.

Where original owner restricted his tract, the grantee of an original purchaser from such owner is found by such restrictions when he bought with actual or constructive notice or knowledge of the purpose of the restriction to benefit all the lots.

"Uniformity a Proof"

Uniformity is one of the strongest proofs of existence of building scheme. Where purchasers are prohibited from building stables within certain distances of the streets and such prohibition varied with the various lots, this variance does not render restricting covenants unenforceable.

Where such covenant was left out of two deeds to two lots, the covenant can be enforced as to them, because part of general scheme.

Injunction lies in such cases. (Houston case, Hooper versus Lottman, 171 S. W. 270.)

The fact that purchasers of restricted lots in residential district made no objection to a temporary building on one lot used as a real estate office, and for elections, schools and social gatherings, for 10 or 12 years, does not establish asquiescence in use of lot for business purposes.

Owner of restricted sub-division may restrict by parole, where it is found the purchaser had knowlede of such.

Injunction will lie.

Statute of frauds does not apply. Only a restrictive covenant is imposed and this may be by parole.

If circumstances are such as to put an ordinarily prudent person on notice of restrictions, it is sufficient. The fact of years of acquiescence in the restriction, and its constant observance as a residence section, the advertising of same and representations of some to many buyers, is admissible and binding.

(Houston case, Wilson company versus Gordon, 224 S. W. 703.)

Where owner of tract initiated a general scheme or plan of plotting, laying out and selling lots for restricted purposes, and does some deeds, there is a covenant with them that all other lots in that block are so restricted and the covenant binds other purchasers of adjoining lots who have knowledge of the restriction not to establish wagon and feed yard.

Purchase Date Defined

Date party received his deed and not prior date when he made partial payment, is date of his purchase.

Deeds containing restrictions of neighboring lots in another block were admissible as tending to show dedication of block for residence purposes exclusively.

(Rotan case, Lowrance versus Woods, 118 S. W. 551).

(Fort Worth case, Smith versus Van Zandt Co., 246 S. W. 683).

In the Overton-Jackson case:

Rush conveyed acreage tract to Overton by deed dated August 1, 1908, acknowledged August 7, 1908, and filed for record August 8, 1908, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Clause Is Quoted

On August 2, 1908, Overton prepared a dedication deed and plat of this tract showing lots, blocks, streets and alleys. This deed was acknowledged August 2, 1908, and filed for record August 8, 1908, at 1 o'clock p. m. The dedication contained the following clause: "Have mapped and platted the land described herein into lots, blocks, streets and alleys as shown by map of record on page 56, Vol. 19, Lubbock county deed records, (referring to prior dedication deed and plat of another part of Broadway and Overton addition filed September 19, 1907, bearing words, "Broadway is restricted to certain priced dwellings") and as further shows by map and plat hereto attached both of which are made a part hereof." This plat also bore the words, "Broadway restricted to certain price dwellings."

Overton conveyed the lot in question to Rush by deed dated August 7, 1908, acknowledged August 7, 1908, and filed for record on August 8, 1908, at 2 o'clock p. m., one hour after dedication deed and plat were filed. This deed to Rush recites after the description of the lot, the following, "as shown by the plat of said Overton addition as recorded on page 568, Vol. 19, Lubbock county deed records."

Majority Restricted

Thereafter, a majority of lots were sold by Overton to various purchasers with restrictions written into the deeds, while many others were sold without restrictions especially appearing in the deeds.

Jackson purchased lot 5, originally conveyed to Rush and prepared to erect business house thereon.

Overton seeks injunction to enforce restriction.

Testimony shows general scheme or plan of Overton to restrict Broadway; also that same was advertised; also that Overton, by parol, expressed his intentions to restrict; also that purchasers so understood and bought with that understanding; also that for years this restriction has been respected; also that Jackson, by the use of ordinary diligence could have advised himself; also that the dedication deed and plat is a matter of record; also that the deed from Overton to Rush referred to such plat.

Based on these facts and this testimony it is concluded that Broadway is restricted to residential purposes and that Jackson had constructive notice and could have had actual notice by the use of ordinary diligence and is bound by such restrictions. It is not the province of a trial court to write his decisions or the reasoning upon which he bases same. Many written decisions of appellate courts in this state are in line with the above ruling.

Judgment for Plaintiff Overton.

Members of Graduating Class Set Forth Their Ideas On Life And Love; Colleges And Universities To Be Packed With Local Youths If Desires Are Fulfilled

Most Lubbock Lads Will Go To Seek Higher Learning Before Seeking Helpmeet For Life, They Say

NOT A journalist, editor, undertaker, minister, college "prof," theater man or bootlegger registered among the 50 boys, members of the graduating class of the Lubbock high school, who filled out a "future calling questionnaire" in the boys' study hall this week with W. D. Powers and C. O. Cox, instructors, in charge. Fathers and grandfathers in the "good old days" could not have answered questions clearer and more to the point than did these high school boys regarding their plans for college, professions, matrimony and what-have-you.

Answering the question, "After you have graduated from high school what do you plan to do?" 32 declared they will attend college, while 15 others say they will have to work first, then go to school. Thirty-five of the boys state it is their ambition to attend college and to receive a degree. Among the schools where they will drink deep from the fountain of knowledge are Texas Technological college, Southwestern, A. and M. and others.

Many Professions Noted

Replying to "What business or profession will you choose in life?" Two declared they planned to be bankers, two football coaches and professional baseball players, six doctors, three lawyers, one a geologist, one a business man, one an architect, one a dentist, two will be ranchmen and one of these will "batch in a camp close to New Mexico."

Another boy wishes to be a traveling salesman, another a statesman, one a pharmacist, two civil engineers, two electrical engineers, three aviators and two air-mail pilots, two surgeons, one architectural draftsmen, two scientific farmers, three mechanical or aeronautical engineers, and so on, while five others are undecided as to business or a profession.

Two boys state they will marry soon, two declare they will never marry, and another confides he will be "very old and have lots of money" when he embarks on the sea of matrimony. Thirty-three others answer the question, "Will you marry young or will you defer matrimony until you are better equipped for providing for a family," stating they will "Defer until better equipped," both by age and education.

Traits Are Expressed.

In giving their best traits many were of striking similarity, while some of the most varied were: To mind my own business and keep my mouth shut, ambition and determination, work and honesty, do not use tobacco or drink, a friend in time of need, determination to succeed, good natured and generous, ability to reason things out. Still another was the ability to make friends, while one declared, "I run my own business and do not let it run me." Given as some of the worst traits were: Inability to make friends, to think too much of "self," egotistical, others lack loyalty, putting off things, copying some one else too much, going home after Sunday school instead of staying for church, starting things they do not finish, sarcastic, lack of will power, laziness and indecision, lack of ability to manage wisely, spendthrift, lack of self-control, lack of self-confidence, too easily angered, wanting something for nothing, dishonest, waste of leisure time, lack of application and on down the line. While another stated he was idling and impolite and one said his worst trait was that of "gambling."

Some Fail to Reply.

Out of the graduating class of 256 boys and girls, the 50 boys who filled out the questionaire are though to adequately represent the other 50, who for some reason best known to themselves failed to reply. One of the 50 who answered expects to "run around the country some" and later to go to college. Another will 'peddle prunes" in a local chain grocery, after which he will enroll this fall in the electrical engineering department at "Tech" and other two declare their life dream is that of "bachelorhood." One declares that "barring mishaps he has already mapped out his plans for the future even to the town in which he will settle down to follow his profession in the practice of medicine," and still another wishes to be of service to his country. Thirty-six other boys declare they have thought seriously of their plans for the future.

Those Ideal Wives!

With college life professions and matrimonity forming the perfect trinity for a well-rounded life, the questionnaire sought also to get the boys' viewpoint on "What is your ideal for a wife?" Many of the answers were considered both unique and idealistic, as it will be readily sen that no bargain-counter or "cheap" wives are included in the lot. Their answers were as follows:

A girl with a sweet disposition, economical and sociable, a good-looker who knows how to cook and sew, a home maker, a brunnett, a hme-loving girl, not a "flapper", a neat, clean girl, one who will cooperate and work for the best interst of the home; industrious, agreeable, Christian character, good natured girl with black eyes and curly hair, of good parentage and having an absolutely clean record; a woman of noble Christian character, a lover of the home and physically strong; a wife clean and honest who would stay by you in time of trouble, etc.; good sport and lover of home, cook like everything and not buy things too expensive, sweet, pretty, well built.

Fete Bride-To-Be At Bridge Affair Here Saturday

Miss Pearl Hensley Given Pre-Nuptial Shower When Miss Honey And Mrs. W. D. Benson Entertain

The first of several affairs which are to compliment Miss Pearl Hensley, bride-to-be of Gaylord Hankins, was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Glenys Honey and Mrs. W. D. Benson, jr., in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Honey at 1911 15th Street.

Miss Hensley's approaching marriage was announced last week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hensley, and it is to be on May 5 at the First Baptist church.

Bridge was played yesterday afternoon and after the games the honoree received a lovely miscellany of gifts. On each refreshment plate there was a scroll fortune and the fortune on Miss Hensley's plate directed her to the gifts.

Roses and snapdragons were arranged in bouquets throughout the house and all appointments were in pink and green. Cake, brick ice cream and mints were served.

Guests for bridge were Misses Camille Stobaugh, Alma Spikes, Faye George, Maurine Hughes, Inez Hensley, Lynn Dougherty, Mary Meador, Edna Christman, Thelma Caraway, Cymbol Patterson, Mary Louise Middleton, Willette Waters, Clarice and Pauline Scott, Sylva Wilson, Floy Pryor, Ruth Starnes, Lucille Lucas of Spur and Almeda Murray.

Tea guests were Mrs. Ralph Bedford, Mrs. J. H. Hankins, Mrs. A. M. Hensley, Mrs. Charles E. Renfro, Mrs. W. D. Benson and Miss Denver Davis.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Vondelle Prideaux, 12, Is Hostess Saturday

Vondelle Prideaux entertained several of her friends yesterday in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Prideaux, 2408 13th St. This was her twelfth birthday.

Various diversions were enjoyed by the guests and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to Louise Jarrot, Marguerite Spencer, Charlene Drake, Christine Lane, Geraldine Fox, Elouise Smith, Addie Lee Terrell, Sarah Symes, Jane Wilson, Robert Allan Hill, Edward Williams, Jack Williams, Charles Smith, Clarence Symes, jr., Jack Peters, L. G. Wilson and Richard Snyder.

Theatre Party Is Society Function

Miss Juanita Wiles Hostess Yesterday Afternoon At Party For Members Of Sans Souci Club

Miss Juanita Wiles was hostess yesterday afternoon to Sans Souci club members with a theatre party. After the guests had witnessed a picture show, they were taken to the Glorieta Tea shop where an ice course was served. Pink and green colors were used in the cakes and candies served.

Guests were Misses Helen Womack, Donna Vaughn, Virginia Conley, Alma Spikes, Fay George, Kate Boyd, Lucille Moxley, Geraldine Smith, Zona Stiles, Mary Lou Bayless, D'Aunn Sammons, Lena Bert Madlin, Mary Frizzell, Jean Mitchell, Ann and Mary Snyder, Jane Mast, Mrs. Lorenz Ellis and Mrs. R. Heavy Natural Silk Good For Formal Evening Dress

Patou finds added charm and beauty in the new gowns for formal wear. (Left to right) Heavy black satin combined with a train lend one Patou gown the necessary formal effect for a full dress function. In another formal dress, white taffeta is combined with embroidered satin in an original way. Intricate point effects are used for an evening gown of black charmeuse in real silk.

PARIS, April 27.—When you wish to call to mind a collection of a few seasons past in the sense of a dominant note running throughout, you invariably conjure up an evening dress.

This is easily explained by the fact that an evening dress is more eloquently expressive of a style than any other dress. It is also for this very reason that when any comparison of styles of different periods is made, evening gowns are always selected to show the evolution of fashion.

Evening styles, anyway, are indicative of the way and epoch in which women live. The ultra simple evening dress of seven or eight years ago was eminently suitable to the troublesome post-war days and also indicated the trend in the evolution of modern woman herself. These conditions no longer exist and fashions have reflected for the past few seasons a tendency to greater formality as well as a more sumptuous note in women's evening attire. This tendency has steadily grown into a determined fashion and no one will dispute the undeniable beauty, charm and serenity of the latest evening styles.

Light Gowns in Demand

A summer collection invariably calls for a number of light and gossamer evening gowns. These, as a matter of fact, represent three-fourths of evening creations and are eminently seasonable as well as dressy, but my predilection for handsome fabrics compels me always to include in ea chof my summer collections a small number of gowns made of natural silk in a brilliant color which contributes, I think, to the richness demanded of a gown destined to be worn on formal occasions.

In this order of idea, a mousseline de soie evening dress will often be completed by a satin cloak, thus lending the ensemble the sumptuous note now required. Since now we have reverted to the pre-war brilliance of evening attire, it is perhaps worth while mentioning that fur alone is no longer a sufficiently decorative feature of this style of dress—it must absolutely be used in conjunction with rich looking fabric to achieve the desired effect.

Embroidery Important

Taffetas can be used to great advantage in a formal summer evening gown, evidently not alone but combined with another tissue. Embroidery, given it is used very discreetly both in the matter of design and coloring, can also enhance the beauty of a dress or wrap.

I consider, therefore, that a woman who possesses nothing but mousseline or chiffon evening dresses in her summer outfit is incompletely equipped, according to the latest dictates of fashion. Her wardrobe must absolutely include two or more brilliantly colorful gowns, care being exercised, however, not to achieve mere gaudiness.

If I specially mention these few dresses that are to be seen in my collection it is because I foresee already the use of these heavy, brilliant fabrics in next winter's evening modes.

Mmes. Earl Moore And T. Carter Are Bridge Hostesses

Affair Is Given Yesterday Afternoon At Glorieta Shop By Mrs. Tom Carter And Mrs. Earl Moore

Colors of pink and green were favored yesterday afternoon for a bridge party given by Mrs. Tom H. Carter and Mrs. Earl Moore in the Glorieta Tea shop. Tallies, refreshments and flowers featured the two colors.

Sandwiches, mint ice, pink and green candies were served after the games.

REVIVAL OPENS

Dr. Jack Lewis Is Preaching At Tahoka Meeting

A revival is to open today in the Presbyterian church at Tahoka with Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, preaching and Clyde B. Barton, of Clovis, N. M., singing.

The services are to continue for a week of mornings and evenings.

New Belt

Belts are the latest additions to the stylish ensemble family. Sometimes hatbands add their presence, making quite a wide diversity to the group. Jean Patou uses necktie silk for an ensemble group suitable for afternoon wear, consisting of bag scarf, belt and hatband to match. The colors in the silk are navy blue and white and the stripes join in groups of four to make a decorative broad stripe. Note the latest way of wearing one's scarf—like a collar that ties itself in a bow-knot at the front of the V neck.

FEDERATION MEETS

Slaton Club Women Are To Entertain Saturday

A semi-annual meeting of the Lubbock County Federation of Women's clubs is scheduled for next Saturday in Slaton with the women of Slaton entertaining.

Mrs. Hub Jones of this city is president of the Federation and will preside during the sessions, which are to be in the First Methodist church there. The Slaton women are to serve a lunch at noon in the Slaton club house.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dalrymple returned yesterday from El Paso where they attended a Masonic convention.

Convention Which Ended Yesterday In Snyder Is Outstanding Meeting This Year In Districts Of This State

State President Of Clubs Visits Here Yesterday; Mrs. Whitmore President Of Seventh District

Seventh district, the largest in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, had one of the most outstanding district meetings in the state last week in Snyder, according to the opinion of the state president, Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, who visited here yesterday.

More clubs are included in the seventh district than in any other in Texas and the club women are doing some of the most constructive work in the state, Mrs. Potter believes. In education, legislation, the sponsoring of scholarships and loans, provision of social and cultural gatherings for women, development of citizenship, promotion of child welfare and in other fields, the reports given at the Snyder conference were outstanding, according to Mrs. Potter.

Spends Day Here

The state federation president came here yesterday with Mrs. J. V. Conner of this city, who is advertising manager for the Texas Federation News, and visited with the Lubbock club women and at the Technological college during most of the day.

In the afternoon they went to Plainview to visit with Mrs. Meade F. Griffin, editor of the Texas Federation News, and club women there and Mrs. Conner went to her home in Bowie last night. She is to attend the sixth district federated club meeting in Brownwood this week.

Later this month she is to go to Harlingen to a club meeting. The month of April has been devoted to district club meetings in the State Federation and Mrs. Potter has been at every meeting conducted.

Powerful Organization

"The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs is the most powerful organization in the state today.

"It offers a field of service of work for every woman in the state providing social life, culture, a place for the home maker, the teacher, business woman—for every woman no matter what her station or profession," Mrs. Potter said yesterday.

Mrs. Potter was enthusiastic in her praise of Snyder as a convention city and complimented the hospitality of the entire city, as well as the club women. In her opinion the eighth annual convention, which closed there yesterday, was one of the greatest in the state this year.

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, April 27.—Pampa was selected as the 1930 convention city for the seventh district, Texas Federated clubs, at the closing session here today.

Mrs. J. T. Whitmore, Snyder, was elected president; Mrs. Tillma Jones, Post, first vice-president; Mrs. J. I. Whitsell, Canadian, second vice-president, Mrs. Howard C. Towle of Snyder, was appointed secretary-treasurer.

The annual president's dinner last night was the greatest in the history of the district and it was in honor of the district president, Mrs. F. T. Collins, of Amarillo, and state president, Mrs. W. R. Potter, Bowie.

Plant 18,000 Trees

Outstanding accomplishments of the administration include the planting of 18,000 trees in the district with unsurpassed groups of shrubbery and beautification of district towns and propagation of world wide peace efforts. The theme of the meeting, thinking, planning, building, was stressed by Mrs. Collins in recalling achievements of women from the dim ages to the present day in giving the value of federated club work.

The exhibition arts subjects were the greatest in the history of the district and the Childress County Federation was complimented for its great work. Resolutions made included one for a scenic highway through Palo Duro canyon, a desk of girls serving on every high school faculty, a memorial established for the preservation of historic materials, arterial highways marked in every city and town.

"The Messiah" To Be Given At Tech Gym Next Sunday

Final Rehearsals For "The Messiah" Will Be During This Week; Program Is Fostered By Musicians

Final rehearsals will be conducted this week for the annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the Lubbock Music Club next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Tech gymnasium.

Harry LeMaire's orchestra is to play and church choirs in the city will sing when the oratorio is presented.

These groups will rehearse this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the gymnasium and on Monday and Friday evenings at 7:45 o'clock at the same place, according to announcements that have been made by the director, Mrs. Carl Scoggin.

This oratorio, which is the most successful and best known of Handel's works, was composed in 1741 in a period of 24 days. It was first performed for charitable purposes in Dublin, Ireland and beg inning in March 1743, Handel's presented "The Messiah" annually in London.

Minor alterations were made from time to time, but the oratorio as a whole has remained unchanged since it was first produced.

The program will be free to the public next Sunday afternoon, following an annual custom of the Music Club in making the presentation.

A Frock That Hints Of Summer

Infinitely feminine, charming and new in at least three ways is this Paris creation, from Norman Hartnell. First, it is made of sheer, pure white organdie and tulle, than which nothing could be more summery or dainty for a moonlight party. Second, its silhouette is one of the future, the true princess line with a long skirt that trails gracefully behind. Third, it takes the vogue for ruching trim seriously and uses, two, three and four rows of tulle ruching to reruffle its flaring, feminine skirt. A double ruching outlines the neck and falls like a lei. This frock would make a stunning brides-maid style, done in pastel shades and topped by a floppy hat.

Weather Alone Is Blamed Here For Absence Of May Fetes, Features Of School Programs In Other Sections

Principals Of Schools Here Say That Wind Is Too Strong For Dance Of May Pole Celebration

May Day fetes, features of spring exercises in ward schools of the eastern part of this country and throughout Europe, are lacking in the southwest but, if the opinions of Lubbock school authorities are correct, the weather alone is to blame for the situation.

Miss Nell Parmley, principal of the George M. Hunt school, H. C. Boslin, who holds a similar post at Central ward, and Miss Stella Sherman, who heads the K. Carter faculty, are in accord in the opinion and all blame the blustering winds of spring for cheating the youthful children and their fond parents from the thrills of the maypole dance.

Originates In Europe.

The Maypole was first originated in Europe where it has long been the custom of the young folks to gather spring flowers with which to decorate the doors and windows of their homes and also the Maypole around which they play youthful games. For, the month of May which is the fifth month, consisting of 31 days, had been designated on the Gregorian calendar as the "Month-of-flowers." The Romans celebrated it as the festival of "Floralia" while the custom of celebrating May Day with a Maypole pageant prevails in many parts of the United States.

Prettiest Girl Chosen.

There as is the custom in England, the prettiest girl in the school is chosen queen of May and she is supported by a boy king, chosen by popular vote, while her court is made up of several hundred boys and girls in colorful costumes of flowers, who add both color and pomp to the ceremonial known as the May Queen's coronation.

During this gay pageant of springtime, dainty fairylike girls dance around the Maypole, winding the gaily colored streamers and lilting songs preparatory to the coming of the "May Queen." Her throne or throne that of an outdoor court, banked with flowers, is in waiting for her coming, while cherublike flower girls carry her long broad steps to her seat of honor to receive the crown, symbol of authority, placed there at the hands of her subjects over whom she is to reign. Thus, the pretty custom of a May Day celebration in many parts of the country has grown to be one filled with color and romance.

Many Women In District Visitors At Club Meeting In Snyder; Others Take Part In Socialities

While many women of this section were attending sessions of the seventh district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, in Snyder last week, others were participating in the socialities of the section.

The Plainview Blue Bonnet club was entertained Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kiker of that city and Miss Marguerite Wayland entertained the Whoopee club on the same evening in her home. Among the other Plainview affairs was a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Clem Leslie for members of the Laff-a-Lott club.

A Post affair for last week was a party given by Mrs. Leon Moses and Mrs. Gene Taylor for members of the Needle Craft and the Priscilla Sewing clubs of that city.

Epworth League Convention Will Be at Floydada

Representatives From 28 Organizations Over District Are Expected To Attend Gathering

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, April 27.—Floydada Epworth League members of the M. E. Church South, will entertain between 100 and 125 guests next Saturday and Sunday when the regular meeting of the Plainview District will be held in this city. Approximatel twenty-eight Epworth Leagues comprise the Plainview District. All programs will be held in the Methodist church.

Enrollment of delegates will begin early Saturday morning and the program will be entered into before noon. Ladies of the Methodist church will serve lunch for the visitors on both days.

Miss Ida Mae Hastings, of Vigo Park, is president of the district organization and will be present at the meeting here Heron Wright, of Floydada, is the vice-president of the leagues.

Featuring the two-day league meeting will be a sermon at the morning hour by Rev. G. T. Palmer, pastor of the local Methodist church. Each chapter will be represented in the one-act play to be given during the program.

Including the Epworth League meeting Floydada has entertained approximately 6,200 visitors at various conventions and meetings held here since January 1.

The recent trial of Texas Guinan on a charge of "maintaining a public nuisance" drew about as much attention as the late World War. Tex—her pearls, her diamonds, her crossed legs, her pearly teeth, her wise-cracks to judge, attorneys and jury, were smeared through the papers as few things are ever smeared.

And what does it mean? And what's it all about? It means that a blonde little hard-boiled egg from Texas, with a flair for "handing a line," showing cute legs, getting more publicity than Peggy Hopkins Joyce, gets the world's plaudits when she gets away with her cuteness over the law.

VIRTUE ITS OWN REWARD

It means that the garlands of these our times go to the ones who amuse us—the wisecrackers, the joy-makers. Meanwhile we continue to tell our girls that the laurels go to those who carve out "careers" for themselves. We raise them to be teachers, librarians, painters, writers, social workers. And who ever heard of any of this lik having the good time and getting the fame and general attention that a Tex Guinan with ropes of pearls does?

MARION'S FARM

Marion Talley is at last ready to buy her farm. She has been saying for some time that to have and run a farm was her life's goal and now, having earned about a third of a million dollars through her concert and operatic career, she is ready for the farm.

Here's one of those bewildering things of life. There are literally hundreds of thousands of girls in this country straining every nerve and fibre, staking their all, to attain even a fraction of the goal which Marion Talley, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company attained.

To them, the spectacle of a girl tossing away this pot of gold at the rainbow's end in exchange for what seems to her a bigger pot of gold, a farm with pugs and chickens and blossoming apple trees, is astounding and utterly incomprehensible!

* * *

And yet—what would life be for any of us if the pot of gold was ever really attained? It is this hankering for the something more which may lie around the corner that gives life its zest.

Most of us envy the man or woman who writes a great book. That man or woman may make that success a stepping stone to some greater heart's desire, and fortunate is he to have one!

* * *

SHE MAY COME BACK

Marion Talley's farm won't content her any longer than her spectacular operatic career if this human safety valve for aspiring to the next thing is within her. In fact it's very possible that a return to her old life of glory as a great singer may be her next mirage after which to trail.

Funny and bewildering, true—and yet, the best thing in human living is the incessant chase after "the next thing."

* * *

HER "RIGHT"?

Many moralists may argue that a girl with a golden voice has no right to take it from the world and only bask under blossoming fruit trees. A newer school of moralists declares that personal happiness, however attained, means the greatest good to the greatest number. In other words, this is an age of individualism — an attempt to at least "kid ourselves" into believing that as long as we have and do what we want, everybody else'll be better off, as perhaps they will.

GLASS WINDOWS

Here's a funny state of affairs. If Canadians are married in their own country, divorced in the United States, are remarried in the same country, and then return to Canada, they are regarded as bigamists by Canadian law. This came out in such a case and such a decision just rendered in a Montreal court.

But why quibble about international marital mix-ups when about the same thing can happen if a couple right here in our own United States are wed in one state, divorced in another, and remarried in another?

Pigeons Prepare For Coming Race

Aviatrix Will Race Plane Against Bird From City; 500 Carrier Pigeons To Be Entered In Derby

Five hundred carrier pigeons will be entered in the West Texas Pigeon derby, in which a bird will represent Lubbock, Harvey L. Martin, sponsor of the plan here, announced yesterday. Miss Bonnie Dale, aviatrix of Joplin, Mo., will race her plance against Lubbock's entry in the dash to Wichita Falls.

The derby will get under way simultanepusly in 26 West Texas cities at 10 o'clock on the morning of May 1, Mr. Martin said. All the birds will fly to Wichita Falls and the pigeon making the best time will win for his owner a prize of $100.

In each city the birds wil be released by the mayor, Lubbock's chief executive, Harley D. Woods, already having promised to do his part. The pigeons representing Lubbock are to be placed on display at Bowens Drug store, from which point the race will being here.

Waifs Once Wild On Streets Gone

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, April 27.—Homeless children, who used to infest Russian cities, working in gangs and thieving or robbing pedestrians, are rapidly disappearing. As a consequence one may traverse some of the side streets now at night with reasonable expectation of arriving home without losing one's watch or purse.

In 1928 there were about 30,000 of these waifs in various cities. About 20,000 were picked up by various organizations last year and placed in institutions to be trained in useful work, fed and cared for until they have lost their gang instincts. More than 3,200 were rescued from the streets of Moscow alone.

"For years the waifs were an unsolved problem. Most of them lost their homes and parents in the civil wars and revolutionary fighting, but some took to the streets by choice and these proved the most recalcitrant. Attempts by the commission of education to reclaim them by ordinary institutional methods failed because when the youngsters grew tired of routine lives, they merely ran away.

Rev. W. R. White, Thd, D. D. Pas.

The First Baptist Church is observing the First White Anniversary today throughout the Sunday School and Church followed by a week of Revival Services with the pastor, Dr. W. R. White doing the preaching and J. D. Carroll directing the music. Song and praise service will begin at 7:30 each evening.

The Church has made progress along many lines the past year. Some six hundred have come into its membership. The Sunday school has practically doubled in attendance; the Training Service has likewise enjoyed a great increase in its membership.

Let all the membership and friends show their love and appreciation to their beloved pastor for his faithful, wise and untiring leadership throughout the year, by being present in both the Sunday School and Church services today.

Dr. White's subject at 11:00 will ing be "Love Reflected." The theme for the evening message will be "God's X-Ray." At the Morning service the Choir will sing "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain" by Woodward. Sunday School meets at 9:30 a. m., B. Y. P. U. at 6:30 p. m.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I think that there must be more fat than thin women throughout our prosperous American land by the number of requests I have had for various sorts of reducing treatments. Or else the thin women are more satisfied with their lot. Certainly the trend of the times is away from unhealthy superfluous flesh toward slimness. But I hear from the fashion designers that curves are "coming in." And most people have long agreed that the pleasantest contours of all are the slimly rounded ones, whose lines are supple and strong; neither too heavy nor too delicate, and not in the least angular nor "bunchy."

MME. RUBINSTEIN

In the interest of the overweight women who are anxious to reduce to this ideal perfection, I have arranged effective reduction measures. The arm exercises which follow are simple and, when faithfully followed, will bring excellent results. They are designed to reduce the upper arms and shoulders, especially, for this part is generally the heaviest. But they also act on the forearm, since all the arm muscles are brought into play.

Raise the arms to shoulder level, turning your palms outward. Now bend the arms at the elbow, so that they form a right angle. Keep the elbows at shoulder level and rotate the bent arm forward, so that the fingertips describe a semi-circle. Return the forearm to its right-angle position. Repeat the exercise briskly and rapidly a dozen times. You will feel an almost painful pull of the muscles at the end of this time, and if you do not you will know that you have not yet mastered the exercise. But keep at it.

The next is a form of the windmill exercise. With the arms moving in opposite directions, raise the left arm upward and forward and the right arm downward and backward. Now reverse the position of the two arms, with a forcible swing, moving the left arm downward and backward and the right arm forward and upward. Repeat this briskly a dozen times.

Here is another version of the effective windmill. Raise both arms sideward to shoulder level, turning the palms down. Keep the elbows stiff and make a complete circle with each arm alternately, swinging it down, across the body in front, up and back to its original position. Repeat the circling forcibly a dozen times for each arm.

Another simple arm exercise is like a game children play in school. To be effective as a general reducing measure, it may be combined with a jumping movement. But if you prefer just to exercise the arms, you may omit the jumping. Raise the arms sideward and upward, clapping your hands over your head and jump to a stride position. Now swing the arms sideward and downward, jumping with feet together and clap hands behind your back. Repeat this a dozen times in quick rhythm.

To hasten the reduction, you may add, if you like, another kind of reducing treatment to the exercise. This consists of washing the arms with reducing soap. Purcase a reputable reducing soap, one whose manufacturer you can be sure of. Take the cake into your bath and rub it vigorously on your moistened arms and shoulders until a foamy lather coves them. Let this stay on for 15 or 20 minutes, carefully but firmly, massaging during this time. Then wash off and dry in the usual manner. A reducing balsam jelly may be patted in after the bath to increase the fat-dissolving process.

VISIT LAUNDRIES

Lubbock Women Guests Of Local Concerns

Three thousand, three hundred Lubbock women have visited three Lubbock laundries during the last month as a feature of an educational campaign extended by the Lubbock Laundry, the Family service and the Model laundries.

The women visited the plants in clubs, particularly missionary societies and parent-teacher associations, and were shown through the entire plants. Each group received a momentary donation from the laundries, of which O. W. McLeod is manager.

The last visits to the laundries were made yesterday when approximately 100 women were shown through.

What's Doing In Cinema Land Now

News Notes About Films and Stars In Them

HOLLYWOOD—There is no confirmation yet of the rumor that two of our townspeople, Sue Carroll and Nick Stuart, are about to announce it.

We were surprised to hear one of our leading citizens, Will Boyd, gets only $1,500 a week. Most of the stars are getting a lot more. Will's due for a raise, though, as he has very steady work.

Ann Harding of Broadway, where she was Mary in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," is in our midst to play her first comedy role in "Paris Bound." George Bennister, her husband, works here, too, he having quite long hours in the O'Neill drama.

Blasphemer In Our Midst

Richard Dix, well-known actor, uttered some mild cuss words the other night when the "prop" boys burned too much sulphur making a fog scene. Rich might have said more but he had to save his voice for the opening scene in "The Wheel of Life," and besides ladies were present.

Friends of Miss Lita Lee will be pleased to learn she is getting plenty of work these days, someone having discovered she has a good voice for the talkies. Lita had been laying off, not having been able to get the kind of work she wanted.

Davey Lee's mother tells us that when she took Davey to see "The Singing Fool," he yawned when "Uncle" Al Jolson sang "Sonny Boy," and that the picture bored him. Davey is different from most people, movies that he has acted in being the only ones that bore him.

Bon Voyage, Clive

The Clive Brooks have left for their native London to visit friends and relatives, having taken enough travelers' cheques to stay six or seven weeks. The Thomas Meighans also are London bound.

For the year starting in August, 1,580 pictures will be made by all the producing companies in the world. The movie year runs from August to August, but New Year celebrations hereabouts still start at noon, December 31.

Misses Eva or Lizzie Vineyard were Saturday shopping visitors in this city from Abernathy.

W. A. McGlaun of Snyder returned to his home Saturday following his release from a local sanitarium.

Trio Of Feature Cinemas Set For Week At Palace

Outstanding List Of Sound Films Is Scheduled

THERE has hardly been a week since inauguration of sound and talking pictures at the Palace when a program comparable to the one for this week at that theater has been arranged.

As if to keep step with its companionate entertainment house, the Lindsey, the Palace has apparently lined up its best possible program for this week.

Starting today and running for three days the reigning cinema attraction is "Tide of Empire", a story of the California gold rush of '49. Peter B. Kyne is the author and into the tale he has poured all the human interest that he so aptly can portray.

William Collier Jr. and Renee Adoree are co-starred in the production and the acting is said to be of the finest. In addition to the intrinsic interest of the story, the film is set in a resplendant background and atmosphere supplements interest of the story in making the presentation outstanding. There are sound effects and a synchronized score, as well as talking sequences.

Wednesday and Thursday, Jack Holt, whose last appearance in this city was in "Submarine" will come in the picture, "Court Martial." Adanve information on this picture is meager, but it is said to be one of the most interesting of the year. There are sound effects and talking sequences.

Friday and Saturday, the incomparable Eric von Stroheim returns to the stage after an absence of four years.

Mr. Von Stroheim, during the past four years has devoted most of his time to the directing phase of the movie business. In "The Wedding March," however, he appears in a new and more successful role. The personality for which Stroheim has been noted since making his debut in pictures long ago is pronounced in this production.

Special vitaphone acts and novelties round out the program.

Mrs. J. C. Hornsby, formerly of this city but now of Corpus Christi, is the guest of Mrs. Guy Hornsby, 1118 Seventh Street.

Mrs. S Johnson has returned to Brownfield after having been ill here.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Darden of Idalou were shoppers in Lubbock, Saturday.

Mrs. C. H. Jordan of Carlisle was the guest Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rogers, 1815 Fifteenth street.

G. S. Newby of Midland is reported seriously ill at the Lubbock Sanitarium.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Reese and Mrs. Floyd Bradley of Meadow were visitors here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Fuch and little daughter, Lillie Marie, of Abernathy were transacting business and shopping here Saturday afternoon.

William Haines Coming In Latter Part Of The Week

'Wedding March,' 'Tide of Empire' Also Slated

OPENING of the new Lindsey, all decorated in its new trappings, is the feature of the entertainment week. The Lindsey, closed down since last fall for remodeling that entailed a total expenditure of $55,000 fill open Sunday with a new and more beautiful interior, with a complete iced-air cooling system, with acoustical arrangements similar to those utilized in the larger theaters of the nation, and with everything that the big city movie houses can offer.

A "smash" program has been arranged to celebrate the opening. An all-talkie, "The Terror," mystery story starring May McAvoy and a host of others is the main screen diversion. Then there is a sound news reel, a talkie feature presenting various famous movie stars and vaudeville dance specialties by two young ladies. The Lindsey is due to be filled to the capacity point on Sunday.

Hear Haines Talk

Another headliner has been scheduled for the Lindsey, to start on Wednesday. It presents the perennially popular William Haines in one of his most interesting rolls. "The Duke Steps Out. Haines plays a dual part—one as the scion of a wealthy family attending college and the other as a prize fighter, sub rosa. The film has sequences of dialogue.

The Palace inaugurates a thrice-weekly change of program. Starting today there is the film version of Peter B. Kyne's recent, successful novel, "Tide of Empire." Wednesday and Thursday Jack Holt appears in "Court Martial." Friday and Saturday the reigning attraction is "The Wedding March," featuring Eric von Stroheim in a "comeback role."

Presentation of a vaudeville company, Milo's Broadway Steppers, is the feature at the Lyric. This company consists of ten players and there is an excellent seven piece orchestra. On the screen for Monday and Tuesday is "Hit of the Show," featuring Gertrude Olmstead and Ralph Ince.

The Rex continues to offer a wide variety of western novelties.

NEW PROJECTIONIST

John R. Oxford Gets Job With Theatre Here

John R. Oxford, sound projectionist, who will be in charge of the "talkies" at the Palace theatre following the opening of the new Lindsey Theater today, comes here from the Dent Theaters, inc., at Amarillo. For a number of years he has been with that organization and with the D. F. and R. Theater Enterprises in various sections of the state.

Misses Lucille Hale and Alene Schuman will spend Sunday in Amarillo where they will be the guests of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Powers were visitors here Saturday from Carlisle.

J. H. Bartlett of O'Donnell was released Saturday from a local hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Williams and daughters, Misses Helen and Dorothy Mae, of the Canyon community, were in Lubbock Saturday.

New Airport To Be Available In 90 Days, Outlook

Consideration of Landing Field Site May Be Next Step In Securing of A Field for City

Lubbock's new airport, provided through the $75,000 bond issue last week, may be in operation within three months, according to word today from the city hall.

The city commission will possibly take up consideration of a site at its next meeting. It has been suggested that a section of land about five miles north of town on the Plainview highway, on which the Chamber of Commerce holds an option, be purchased for the air field but the commission is not bound in any way to this proposition.

After selection of a site, the airport bonds will be drawn up, submitted to the attorney general for approval, printed and then sold. It is estimated that from thirty to sixty days will elapse before funds from the bonds may be secured.

Various architects already are understood to be preparing plans for the airport. These will be submitted soon to the city commission.

Tentative plans for the airport call for a hangar, large enough to accomodate the largest commercial planes; complete filling station facilities; housing quarters; a repair shop and a room where parts and accessories for airplanes may be kept.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stephenson and daughters, Misses Mary and Delia Stephenson, were Saturday visitors from Monroe.

Miss Marie Turnef of this city was released Saturday from a sanitarium here.

Aubrey Howard of Levelland has been ill here.

YOKAHOMA, Japan.—Daughters of the American Revolution, who happened to be passengers on a world cruise aboard the Belgianland, formed a special "cruise chapter" of the organization. They claim it is unique.

Literary Storm Clouds Gather

By GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, April 27.—Although the Pulitzer prize award for literature is presumed to remain secret until early in May, a storm already rumbles over the predicted selections.

The award, according to my information, will be an absolute surprise, in that the writer is practically unknown to the reading public and to letters. His book, when it appeared, caused little more than a faint ripple. It is "Victim and Victor" (Macmillan), by Dr. John Rathbone Oliver, a Baltimore physician and scientist attached at the moment, I believe, to Johns Hopkins University. I do not recall its having been recommended—or even mentioned—by any of the so-called book clubs.

On the very opening page of his work, Dr. Oliver confessed but a slight faith in the popular success of his book, commenting: "I know that what is commonly known as the reading public will never set eyes on these pages, yet I feel that for my own satisfaction I must set down my reasons for wasting a number of weeks in an effort to reconstruct, historically, a certain period of my life."

Dr. Oliver is likely to be surprised at the number of readers who soon will be flocking to read his book.

At any rate, word reached Manhattan publishing circles of a lecture given by Dr. Richard Burton, one of the Pulitzer judges, to a Minnesota university class. In this lecture, Burton is said to have made the admission that the judges considered Upton Sinclair's two-volume novel, "Boston," the best of the year. Yet, in spite of its bigness and importance, it was turned down because of radical and socialistic ideas and tendencies appearing in its pages—at least, that's the way New York got the story, and the Publisher's Weekly broadcast the report.

Then the trouble began. The publishers of "Boston" rose wrathfully and announced a forthcoming challenge to the Pulitzer judges. A. Boni, head of the firm, said he would demand from the judges a complete and detailed explanation of their method of prize selection. If, he went on, an admittedly big work was passed up because of disagreement with the author's social views, then it would be well to get everybody on record.

"Boston," you will recall, took the Sacco-Vanzetti case as its general theme, painting in a background of Boston's "Back Bay" society and of New England manners.

Incidentally, I am told that Julia Peterkin's "Scarlet Sister Mary" has been one of the strongest contenders for the prize. Certainly it would get my vote.

As for the rumored winner, Dr. Oliver was born in Albany and educated at Harvard. Upon leaving the university he returned to his prep school, which was St. Paul's in Concord, Mass., where he taught for three years. Going abroad with a school chum, he decided to be a musician and studied for nearly 10 years. It was when he was just over his thirties, and sojourning in Innsbruck, in the Tyrol, that he turned to science.

Lucile Walker To Dance At Lindsey

Little Miss Lucile Walker, talented eleven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Aubrey Walker, of this city, will appear in a series of specialty song and dance numbers in connection with the formal opening of the New Lindsey Theater today.

As the "vest-pocket edition of Mae Murray," Miss Walker has appeared on a number of the leading vaudeville circuits of the state, including the Palace theaters in Fort Worth and Dallas. Recently she has sung and danced at a number of dances and affairs here.

The young dancer has been accorded a big ovation both in her appearances here and in other parts of the state. Her acts on the Lindsey program today will be the only home talent feature.

Misses Larue and Christova Sawyer of Brownfield were Saturday shoppers in this city.

Turns Of A Bookworm

Book News Notes For This Week

R. A. BALDWIN, Slaton lawyer, who has sprung into the literary limelight during the past few weeks through publication of his first book, "Santi" was in our office during the past week. Mr. Baldwin was rather modest about his literary offspring; he refused to comment on it other than to say that we "needn't expect anything." Just the same we are eagerly awaiting a perusal of the novel.

Al Hill, a member of the Avalanche-Journal staff has written a book which he has called "Rag Opera." Al so far has not obtained publication of the volume but then —everyone has to start. Al's book is interesting and it is informative in that it gives an intimate insight into the daily life of that institution known as the "tent show." It is worth of better things than reclining amidst the dust and cobwebs of a newspaper desk.

Much comment has been aroused throughout the Panhandle — and in all of Texas for that matter —over the volume, "The XIT Ranch," just published by the Lakeside Press of Chicago. A wealth of data about the Plains country is contained in the volume which not only recites the history of the XIT but also gives a paralleling picture of growth and development of this entire section.

History of the XIT is, in a sense the story of the Plains country. The transition of this vast empire first from barren, treeless tundra habited only by the red man and scourged by vagrant bands of savages into the land of the cattle baron, and then from the open range to the present productive agricultural kingdom, is interestingly told. Scores of authentic photographs lend interest to the printed word.

Miss Mae Cox of Morton is the week-end guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. C. Cox, 312 Avenue Q.

FIRE AS A COMPETITOR

Harry C. Shearer, Secretary of the Fire Prevention Committee, Detroit Board of Commerce, makes a strong argument against fire waste. Detroit, Michigan, has just been announced as the winner of the grand award of the Fire Waste contest held each year under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Shearer regards his work against fire as a sound economic service to the City of Detroit and the nation.

"Fire is competition to merchants and manufacturers. For instance, every time a dry goods or grocery store burns there is not only a loss to the community but some manufacturers and wholesalers in large cities suffer because this store has been their customer. Suppose that a man owns his own home and is contemplating the purchase of an experience radio, new furniture, rugs, or redecorating that house, and it burns. Immediately the merchants in the town lose their business. When you stop to think that thousands of homes and stores are burning throughout the country each year, you can see the competition that the stores have with fire. I believe that these last statements I have made could be elaborated upon with further study and statistics could be gathered together which would provide a new attack upon the fire losses in this country. When these facts are brought home to the merchants and manufacturers they will be able to see the enormous amount of business they are losing and should join us in our fire problem."

Eventually stock fire insurance and every civic organization will work to prevent fire. A fire will be considered as a community catastrophe. When losses have been reduced, it will be possible for companies to expend their entire efforts in preventing fire under some such plan as elevator liability insurance is now operated. When such a day comes, the economic structure of America will be strengthened and the individual prices on combustible products or commodities reduced.

WHAT COMPULSORY INSURANCE DOES

Compulsory automobile liability insurance, in the words of a former Massachusetts official, causes thousands to make claims for personal injuries when they are not injured at all. It provides a rich harvest for "shyster" lawyers who connive with dishonest "victims" and often get judgments to which they are not entitled. This is at the expense of the entire insurance-purchasing public. It makes it impossible for insurance companies to select risks. Reputable companies will not now take bootleggers, proven reckless drivers or other undesirables. Compulsory insurance, by forcing these risks on them, tends to raise rates. It leads to endless litigation and crowds the courts. Unthinking juries often hand in absurdly large verdicts for insurance companies to pay, not realizing that in the last analysis the public must bear the cost. It fails to indemnify in accidents where the driver alone is injured or in accidents at grade crossings where the railroad is at fault, or in accidents not due solely to the negligence of drivers and in many other instances. It has not, in practice, lowered the accident rate but has apparently had just the opposite effect. Reckless drivers have become more reckless when protected by compulsory insurance. On top of it all it makes the great body of people pay for the negligence or incompetence or recklessness of the few. It is no wonder that a public which now understands these facts consistently rejects compulsory insurance when proposed.

TWO STATES CLEAN HOUSE

Both Oklahoma and Louisiana seem to have their hands full — gubernatorially speaking. Twice in succession the governors of Oklahoma have been impeached. The judiciary and other public offices of that state are likewise being thoroughly and expeditiously purged. The impeachment of Governor Walton, two years ago, was a successful populer uprising against a notoriously corrupt regime. In the present case—now completed—against Gov. Henry S. Johnston, all charges of dishonesty were withdrawn. Governor Johnston was modest, but weak. He allowed the control of his office slip into other less scrupulous hands.

In Louisiana the charges against Gov. Huey P. Long seem to be more serious. Long is thirty years old. His rise to power has been phenomenal. And power, apparently, has gone to his head. The Legislature, called by him in special session to put through his program, turned against him. It indicted him on nineteen counts. These included a charge that he had asked a prize-fighter friend to murder a legislator who had obstructed the Governor's program.

The significant fact in these developments in Louisiana and Oklahoma is not that the democracy of these two states made electoral mistakes but that, as democracies, they moved so speedily to rectify them.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is one of the most important and necessary organizations in the city. It has in charge all of the matters of importance to the betterment of the City of Lubbock as well as fostering the many movements that bring about greater development in the rural communities. It is the head of all great commercial and agricultural plans, and therefore holds a most responsible position.

THE WORLD MAY BE GETTING BETTER, BUT CONGRESS STILL LOOKS ABOUT THE SAME

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, April 27—They say the world is getting better and better, but no one has ever been kind enough to suggest as much about congress. The Seventy-first Congress may get some credit before it dies, but as it writhes in special session nobody expects that much good will come out of it.

All one can do now is take a good look at it and report that it looks very much like its predecessor. In the senate there isn't any more Dawes and Charles Curtis, ex-jockey, sits in the driver's seat. In the House the Republicans have a new Democratic floor leader to cooperate with them. There are a few new faces in the back seats, none of which will ever cause the hearts of sightseeing high schol girls to flutter.

Republican senators are paying the penalty of November victory by being wedged in tightly left of the aisle like so many caviar eggs in a can while Democrats on the other side are sparse enough to put their feet wherever they plas.

Each election mercifuly reaches out the hook for some of the mostuseless and annoying members, but it produces others to match them, one soon finds, and there are always plenty left behind in any event.

We can pass rapidly with only a brief moan over the absence of Jim Reed of Missouri, as it has been thoroughly moaned over before. A dozen others who were in the Senate when it met last December are also missing.

In a body dressed so sombrely in black, blue serge and oxford grey, one could not help noticing on the opening day the flaming cerise neckties of Senator Wesley Jones of Washington, loving of the Jones "Five and Ten" law, and the noisy brown suit of the large Mr. Bronson Cutting, the comparative new senator from New Mexico.

As far as your correspondent could observe, there are no new beards or cauliflower ears worth mentioning in either house. The best and biggest new bald head is that of Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas, about whom Charlie Curtis is continually fluttering as if to show that all is forgiven. The crop of whitewhiskers carefully cultivated on the chin of Ransdell of Louisiana continues to be only such growth in the Senate.

Burton of Ohio and Connally of Texas are the most impressive additions among the new or newer senators; both have alreadyhad their tryouts on the Hill. Burton was elected to the House in 1888, rose to the Senate in 1909 for six years, went back to the Houseand finally returned to the Senate at the age of 77. It probably hasn't ever been done before. Connally, whonosed Earl B.Mayfield out of the Senate, has a big black hat, a big black bow tie and a big loud voice. He has enough ability to amount to something in the Senate if hewants to, but his democratic fellow-nonentities may persuade him not to do anything as unconventional as that.

Your correspondent nearly fell out of the press gallery when Walsh of Montana appeared to smile in a conversation with Wagner of New York on the opening day, but he prabably was only sneezing. A smile from Walsh might have caused the dome to fall in. Overman of North Carolina, owner of the Senate's most imposing stomach, appeared to have trained down slightly.

There were a lot of fellows who looked like new members but really were not.

The first day is the only time one ever sees them on the floor.

Three new ladies in the House rather improve the general appearance, but congresswomen are still so few that you have to search around carefully to find them. Much is made of the fact that the three new girls, Congresswomen McCormick, Owen, and Pratt, are all named Ruth. But careful inquiry reveals that it's only a coincidence. So is the fact that their initials spell MOP, which other brilliant correspondents probably will get onto sooner or later. A fellow can have a lot of fun writing about a coincidence like that last one.

Time passes and the widows of Congress are wearing brighter colors, though none of the styles displayed thus far is especially snappy. One still has to go back to the Senate and look at Tom Heflin for that.

Diet and Health

* * *

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Medical Adviser for Central Press and The Avalanche-Journal.

TO RECOVER HIS HEALTH DIABETIC PATIENT MUST OBSERVE STRICT DIET

Mis'eading Advertisers

"A relative of mine has a mild case of diabetes, and I am largely responsible for his care. So far he has taken no insulin, but under a specialist's care he has been able to keep sugar free and in fairly good health. What do you think of the advertising matter I am enclosing? I have never believed in patent medicines, but I am wondering if some of its claims are true. If they are, then why haven't doctors taken it up especially the ones devoting their entire time to the study and treatment of diabetes?"

"MISS G."

The advertising matter which Miss G. enclosed was that of a nostrum sold by a layman, whose advertising slogan is "No more dieting; no more starvation; eat and get well."

However, when the nostrum arrives, "No more dieting; no more starvation; eat what you like" is modified by the directions in the package. This is what is said: (The italics are mine.) "Of course, there are certain things like candy, ice cream, cake and pies, etc., etc., which can be classed as luxuries and which you do not need—Naturally you are not going to be foolish enough to eat sugar in large quantities while taking——. You want to get well as quickly as possible, therefore it is to your own interest to avoid eating things high in percentage of carbohydrates. But remember, while using——, you can eat all the food that does not produce sugar."

Now can you see what a fake this is? You can't eat all you want! You have to be on a diabetic diet. Of course, if you go on a diabetic diet, you are going to be improved anyway, and our faker cant' see why you shouldn't send him $6 regularly for a bottle of simple tablets that costs him three or four cents, while you're doing it! These tablets have been analyzed by the laboratory of the American Medical association and exposed in the Journal of the A. M. A. The tablets consist essentially of magnesia, a medication that is not used, that I know of, in diabetes.

Evidently the federal government hasn't gotten out a fraud order yet against this man. He and other men of his ilk are really criminals of the worst sort, preying upon sick people, enrichinig themselves at the expense of the health and the lives of sufferers.

Don't pin your faith on any advertised patent medicines. Miss G. If you are interested, we have a list of books on diabetes, written by authorities for the layman.

Mrs. W.—Your condition is not normal, and if you neglect it it may go on to something more serious. Go to a gynecologist (a physician who specializes in diseases peculiar to women.) Don't neglect yourself, for if it should be cancer, the earlier you have treatment, the better are your prospects for recovery. Don't be unnecessarily frightened, for many other things much less grave than cancer can cause bleeding.

The thing you have near your ear also needs investigation. It is not a wen, for a wen does not come and go.

We have an article on the Hygiene of Women which you may have by following column rules.

Going to the Bottom of Things!

SO THINK WE

We think the majority of the people of Lubbock who are causing a hazard of fire, because of the larger electric fuses, do so through ignorance, and it is very timely for the city fire marshal to call attention to the error. The people of Lubbock should appreciate this tip, and give it due consideration.

—o—

We think that anything that Lubbock people can do to keep the fire hazards down to the minimum should certainly interest them. Fire losses count up, in may ways during a year's time, and everyone should try to keep the losses down.

—o—

We think no one would leave a gun where children can get hold of them intentionally, and most certainly parents would not, but a precious baby of a Lubbock family is lying close to death's door, because some one left a pistol where the child could get hold of it, and accidentally was shot when the gun fired.

—o—

We think people become careless sometime, just because their attention is not called to certain things possibly often enough. Many times we do not think of these things until some tragedy occurs. Children out on parties—and there are many of them at this season of the year, should be cautioned about rattle snakes. Their bite is probably more dangerous at this time of the year than any other season, and since a number have been bitten throughout the state, and have died, it behooves us all to look well after the children, and watch the corners ourselves. Snakes do not bite children only, and sometimes the father or the mother, or other adult members might also receive a deathly bite by one of these reptiles.

We think the peace officers are to be commended for their campaign against the vags of Lubbock, and especially that type that prowl around at night. There are said to be many of this type here, and they are of no good use to the community. If it is definitely known that they are not wanted in Lubbock, and their presence is really not essential or even desired, and will not be tolerated, there may be a general thinning out of this class.

—o—

We think the voting of the airport bonds has given Lubbock a great deal of favorable publicity. It seems that most everybody thinks the airport is the proper thing to have, and the way the voters checked in last Tuesday, it seems that about two to one thought that at the ballot box. Lubbock will not doubt be one of the largest and most ports in the southwest before very long.

—o—

We think it will be a mighty fine thing if Lubbock ever gets those street markers. The committee we suppose have been having a rather large job, and possibly this accounts for the delays that we have been experiencing for the past year or more.

—o—

A friend is he who sets his heart upon us, is happy in us, and delights in us; does for us what we want, is willing and fully engaged to do all he can for us, on whom we can rely in all cases.

—o—

No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, gentle, pure and good without the world being better for it, with somebody being helped and comforted by the very existence of that goodness.

The Way of the World

GOOD WRITING

Nothing is more entertaining than a biography, if it is written by a man who has two things: (1) the ability to write; (2) the reporter's gift of knowing what are the most interesting things about a man and the events in which he figures. One of the best biographies of the last few months—one of the best ever read by the writer of this column—is "Meet General Grant," by W. E. Woodward. Woodward gives an intimate, personal picture of Grant from boyhood to death. Along with it he throws a clear light without prejudice, on the major events of the Civil War. When Grant got a little drunk, Woodward tells about it; when he lost his job in the regular army we hear the inside "low-down" on that; we learn that Jesse Grant, 19-year-old son of the general, threatened to walk out on Queen Victoria because he didn't like the way he was treated in the palace. And we find out about the pigeon feet and one-thing-another General Grant had at the Chinese dinner. If you want great entertainment along with apparently sound information read "Meet General Grant."

ANOTHER BOOK

Speaking of books, and one should speak frequently of books, if you think you should revise your idea of God and you want a suggestion, read Harry Elmer Barnes' new book called "Living in the Twentieth Century." Part of it is a little heavy, and there are a dizzy lot of facts and figures, but it is packed with ideas. It is a reveiew of the processes of civilization, showing "how we got this way."

* * *

THE EDUCATED PERSON

Nothing more interesting than the subject of education. Dr. Frank Slutz, famous Ohio educator, says the marks of an educated person are four: a continued hunger and thirst for knowledge, a passionate obedience to law, hospitality to change or an attitude of open mindedness, and a search for God through serving others.

It will be noted that these characteristics are within reach of those who do not go to college and who have never been there.

* * *

SAYING YES

It has been the custom of rule book writers since the beginning to condemn men for not being able to say "No." A man is supposed to be on the way to success when he has the courage to say no. It is a great virtue held up to young executives. But it will still be a wilderness of a world if men had learned early to say no and kept it up. Human progress demands men who can say "Yes," who can take a chance, who can over-reach themselves, more than it needs the dry, cold, crisp fellows who pride themselves on saying "No."

In New York

By Swan

NEW YORK, April 27—The first warm April showers sent a young lady of my acquaintance, who lives in the suburbs, on a round of New York's largest stores. She was looking for a sunbonnet, of all things.

And though these great emporiums carry the wares of the world; although the rarest Oriental perfumes are on their shelves and the most costly of raiment upon their racks—nary a sunbonnet did they have.

What was more, so she reported to me, three clerks giggled out loud at her request. Amused at their attitude, the young lady questioned the clerks and found that they never have seen anyone wearing a sunbonnet except in the movies.

Pardon me while I wipe my tear-dimmed eyes.

* * *

Speaking of spring-like things, I am reminded that our one and only gingko tree is bursting into bloom. Standing, as it does, in City Hall Park, our one and oly gingko tree draws theattention of visitors from all parts of the world.

When Manhattan puts up the largest building in the world—that's a commonplace. But when a tree is added to the limited space provided for growing things—that's something to write to the newspaper front pages about.

Our one and only gingko has achieved almost as much newspaper space as Texas Guinan's trial or the funeral of Tex Rickard.

In the event that news of this rare addition to the flora and fauna of the city has not trickled beyond the Harlem River, let me hasten to explain that the gingko is the sacred tree of Japan. In the Orient they build shrines about it. In New York such political edifices as city halls rise about it.

Pilgrims come from every section of the city to gaze upon it. And, until such time as the city becomes accustomed to its presence, a guard watches it at night, lest it be chopped, maimed or despoiled by souvenir hunters.

* * *

Also, for the edification of my rural readers, I may add that our one and only pig and cow are now browsing right outdoors, along with a few ducks, chickens and such behind the bars of the Central Park zoo gage.

These are maintained in the park year in and year out so that the city-born youngsters will know what a cow, a pig and a rooster look like. They are far better acquainted with the appearance of a polar bear or a zebra—thanks to circuses and zoos. But a litter of pigs and a cow being milked are sights to draw an open-mouthed crowd.

* * *

Somehow, in detailing recently, the various portents of approaching summer, I overlooked one of the most important—the small boys hanging around the Polo grounds and the stadium. Whenever from your point of vantage on the elevated train, you see the rollers going over the baseball grounds; whenever you observe groups of youngsters looking over the weak places in the fences and snooping around the locker rooms—you can bet your winter's raccoon coat that the cry of "Play ball!" will soon be heard in the land.

* * *

I have also noticed that the displays of bathing suits are more lavish in mid-January, than in mid-summer. In mid-January, the smart shops make their play for the wealthy sojourners in Florida, the Bahamas and way resorts. In midsummer they are showing next winter's fur coats.

RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE, stenographer at the Judson hotel, has her fox fur snatched from her in a crowd but STEPHEN ARMITAGE catches the thief and returns the scarf. He asks to take her home, and not wishing to seem ungrateful, she invites him to dinner. He praises her mother's home cooking and gains her favor with the flapper sister, CONNIE, who secretly hopes that old fashioned Mildred will mix enough pep with her usual quiet manner to hold his interest.

The evening is spoiled when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, phones her to return to duty. Stephen escorts her to the hotel where Pamela recognizes him as the salesman who had sold her a car. She snubs Mildred as a menial and asks Stephen to dance with her. Pamela continues to lure Stephen, pretending she intends to buy another car. But she becomes jealous at a dance and drives home without him. A near wreck brings about a meeting with HUCK CONNER, who tells her he is a broker from Chicago.

Connor moves to the Judson hotel and Pamela introduces him to her brother, HAROLD, who is in love with Mildred. She warns him against Connor after Huck sets bait to trap him in a "deal." Gradually, Mildred realizes that the wealthy girl has begun to play for his attentions.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHPTER VII

Stephen Armitage had walked right past Mildred's desk without seeing her.

For all the boyish flippancy which he showed at times, Stephen possessed a remarkable power of concentration. He was thinking at the moment of Huck Connor. Where had he seen him before? When he gave up trying to place the man he was long out of Mildred's sight, without knowing that he had been so near to her.

To Mildred it seemed that he hadn't bothered to speak. Her face flamed red as she watched him go without even a nod to her. Then she turned to her work and typed furiously, blinking back tears of mortification that blinded her.

Pamela had done a good job, she told herself, in making a conquest of Stephen. He couldn't see anyone else now. For a moment Mildred hated him. Not because he was no longer interested in her but because it disappointed her that he should have fallen for Pamela. After all, she realized, she'd held a faint hope that Stephen would be different, that he would see through Pamela's shallowness.

But, try to despise Stephen as she might, Mildred carried home a heavy heart that day.

Connie opened her mouth to tease her about her loveiorn expression but closed it again, telling herself that she might be too near the truth for fun.

So it was with mixed feelings that Mildred picked up the nosegay of tiny rosebuds that she found on her desk the next morning. It was impossible not to be glad that Stephen had remembered her. There was no card with them but she knew they were from him.

She did not pin them on her dress this time, but when Stephen droppen in later they were in a wee vase on her desk.

* * *

Mildred received him as though he had come on business, hoping he would not notice any change in her manner and suspect its cause.

"How are you?" he asked pleasantly, and his eyes lingered on hers. He found it pleasant to search her face. There was a fascinating play of emotions in the changing curve of her lips and in her telltale eyes.

"Busy," Mildred answered discouragingly. Then, because she was truly polite, "Thank you," she said, and indicated the flowers.

Stephen waved them out of the conversation.

"Tell me," he said with unexpected seriousness. "Who is this fellow Connor—Huck Connor? Do you know anything about him, Miss Lawrence?"

She looked at him frankly, though she believed she could guess the reason for his interest in Huck. She remembered that Harold had spoken of Mr. Connor as a new victim of Pamela's. Perhaps Stephen had learned of that, too, and did not like it.

"I don't know a thing about him," she said truthfully.

"I wish I did," Stephen told her. "Miss Judson introduced us yesterday and I can't get the fellow out of my mind. I know I've met him somewhere."

Mildred suddenly felt a little happier. At least Stephen was not attempting to deceive her. And his presence here now proved that his failure to see her the day before had not been deliberate.

"Well, if you learn anything about him I wish you'd let me know," she said.

Stephen looked at her sharply. "Are you interested in him?" he asked and his voice carried an edge.

"Simply because I want to protect someone I know if there's anything wrong about Mr. Connor," Mildred explained, and the scowl left Stephen's face.

"Id hate to see you getting interested in anyone else just now," he said and grinned.

"Anyone else?" Mildred repeated. "Now don't say you aren't interested in me until I tell you what I came in here for," Stephen hastened to plead. "For whoever this bozo may be in his own pew he was kind enough to come over this morning and hand out a couple of tickets to a show for tonight. You're the chosen one to share the windfall with yours truly."

* * *

It was on Mildred's tongue to ask if Pamela had refused to go, but she put that aside as cheap.

"What's the show?" she temporized.

"Show Business."

"Oh, that's a hit!"

"Fine. I'll come up for you at eight. I live about half way up to your place."

This time Mildred went home with a singing heart and a new dress. She was late and had time for only a bite of dinner, but that mattered nothing at all. What did matter was to get the hem put in her new dress and find a pair of stockings to match it.

"Why didn't you buy a pair?" Connie asked, hesitating over the impulse to offer the pair she'd received from an aunt at Christmas.

"Because I had to spend every cent I had on this dress," Mildred answered, guessing what was going on in Connie's mind. "Come on, honey," she coaxed, "let me have them. I'll be careful and wash them out tonight before I go to bed."

While Mildred was thus hastily making preparation to look her best for Stephen, Pamela was pushing away a peche Melba and telling the waiter who served her to bring a parfait instead.

Before it arrived Huck Connor came to her table and Pamela asked him to sit down. Harold had swallowed his demi tasse and had gone, leaving her for the moment with no one either to quarrel with her or to amuse her.

She welcomed Huck and, having nothing else to do, half-heartedly vamped him.

"How about a show tonight?" he asked her.

Pamela shook her head. "I've got some friends coming in later," she said.

Her date wasn't until 11, when she was going to a dance, but she didn't want to go out with Huck. Harold had told her he'd cable their father if she did."

"Perhaps your brother could use these tickets," Huck suggested, taking a small white envelope from an inside pocket. "A friend asked me to get them and then wired he couldn't be here."

* * *

Pamela reached out a hand, a sudden idea for their use coming to her mind.

"I'll give them to him," she said and rose from the table just as the vexed waiter served the parfait.

She knew Harold had gone up to the club but she had no intention of giving him the tickets.

In a few minutes she had Stephen on the wire, his hotel number being one of the first things she had asked him for.

"Get all dressed up and come down," she told him. "We've got some place to go."

"Alone, I suppose," Pamela pumped.

Stephen laughed. "Hardly. By the way, that friend of yours, Huck Connor, gave me the tickets."

"Oh!" Pamela exclaimed. She hadn't looked at the tickets she obtained from Huck or asked him the name of the show.

But when she had hung up in a huff after Stephen had refused to divulge the name of his companion for the evening, she discovered that they were also for "Show Business."

"Well, I'll find out who you're taking," she stormed, meaning Stephen. "And if it's Mildred Lawrence . . . we'll see. I won't have a fresh stenographer interfering in my affairs!"

Then she telephoned down stairs and asked to have Mr. Connor paged.

"I think I'd like to see that show," she said without preamble. "Wait for me at the west side elevator."

Huck waited some time, for she stopped to change her simple dinner dress to a formal creation of pink satin that made her look like a big doll. Over that she wrapped an ermine sheath that hugged her young body close.

She intended to make Mildred curl up and expire.

Huck's eyes gleamed when she stepped out of the bronze elevator and came up to him. Around her throat were several strands of pearls that he knew were genuine and there was the flash of many jewels on her ungloved arms.

They drove to the theater in a cabriolet, a car that brought a cry of admiration from Pamela when she saw it. So her mystery man was affluent! She looked at him with new interest. Money always interested Pamela.

But it wasn't uppermost in her thoughts tonight. She was bent on making a discovery. She wanted to see if Mildred Lawrence had dared to accept an invitation from a man she knew her employer's daughter had tagged as her own.

MATIN SONG

Rise, Lay Mistress, rise!
The night hath tedious been.
No sleep have fallen into mine eye
Nor slumbers made me sin.
Is not she a saint then, say,
Thoughts of whom keep sin away?

Rise, Madam! rise and give me light,
Whom darkness still will cover,
And ignorance, darker than night,
Till thou smile on thy lover.
All want day till thy beauty rise;
For the gray morn breaks from thine eyes.

Oh My! Another Axiom Is Exploded!

"No Matter How Thin You Slice It It's Still Baloney"; Men's Furnishers Here Praise Women's Tastes

BY LUCILE BARR SMITH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

"OH, what a tie!" I wonder if she though I would wear that awful rag."

This is the usual weeping and wailing we hear from most men about Christmas and birthday time. This is what we hear if the tie is from some absent member of the family, a fond aunt or cousin. But if it happens to be from the wife he will handle it gingerly and say, "Yes, yes, quite pretty," and lay it aside, perhaps to be gathered up with papers and burned, or hung back and forgotten.

This all goes to substantiate the "old gag" about what atrocious tastes women show in the selection of men's ties or socks. But what about the fact that nearly eighty-five per cent of the women buy all their husband's ties and socks. According to several local men's furnishers this "old gag" is just a "lotta hooey."

Women's Tastes Praised

According to Bud Roberds, of McWhorter-Roberds, and Jack Diamond, of Hemphill-Wells, the average woman has better taste in men's furnishings than most men do. "Women follow the color scheme and a man will buy any tie that suits his fancy", they report. "Of course this isn't true with all men, but there are mighty few who will not wear a red and green tie with a purple shirt.

And ties and socks aren't all that the women help their husbands to buy. About ten per cent of the women come along when friend husband starts to buy a suit. "If you sell the lady first then it is easy to sell the man the suit," they say. "A woman will always feel of the material of a suit and ask a million questions, and if you can satisfy her you have practically sold the suit."

Men Best on Suits

In the selection of suits and hats men usually have better taste than women. A man knows when and where he will wear the suit and what kind of usage it will get, but a woman goes by the feel and the color and the cut.

"Many times a man really wants a suit but won't buy it because his wife sets her foot down and says 'no'", the salesmen say. Jack Diamond tell of one case where a man wanted a suit and could find but one that would fit him. His wife came in with him and said she "wouldn't wear it to a dog fight." The man just slammed on his hat and said, "I'd like to buy that suit but I would rather wear overalls than to hear her rave every time I put it on."

Men are better dressed than they were five years ago. Then most men just had one suit that they wore to church and social functions, and for the work day just wore old clothes. Now men have a suit for almost every occasion. A man doesn't go to work in a suit four or five years old but has several, all of which are of the right cut and material.

Colors Must Match

Specially during the last year men have been buying suits, hats, ties, socks and shirts that will "match" and follow the color scheme. A man will look to the kind of material in a tie where a woman will just buy one, especially if it will "go with John's pink shirt."

Mr. Diamond says where "the atrocious taste" comes in is at Christmas time when women rush in to buy something for someone they have forgotten, or have just received a gift from and feel that they 'just must send him something." "Then the first thing they think of is a tie and they buy the first one that is shown them."

After all, if women show good taste except when they are buying for some one in a rush at Christmas time, we can't consider the situation so hopeless. At least that's what the experts say.

Marry At 12 Years

LONDON.—The House of Lards, after debating a bill to raise the permissible marriage age to 16 for both sexes, appointed a commission to investigate the subject. The present law permits girls to marry at 12 and boys at 14.

Throw Land Open

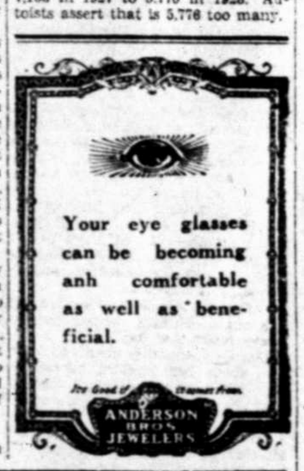

OTTAWA.—About 6,000 homesteads, embracing 1,000,000 acres, in the Peace River districts of Alberta and British Columbia wil be thrown open to entry by the Canadian government. The land has been held as forestry reserves.

'Chest' In Havana

HAVANA.—The first community chest drive in Havana attained the $72,000 sought in five days. The money will be used chiefly to relieve the wants of stranded Americans.

Carromata Passes

MANILA.—The carromata, horse drawn vehicle of the Philippines, is giving way to the automobile. Registration of the carts decreased from 7,168 in 1927 to 5,776 in 1928. Autoists assert that is 5,776 too many.

Expert Fans Will Give Opinions On Radio Conditions

Questionnaires to Be Sent to 10,000 Amateurs and Others Qualified for Opinion on Subject

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 27. — The opinion of "expert listeners" on radio reception conditions throughout the country and the popularity of various types of programs is to be sought by the federal radio commission in a nation-wide survey.

Questionnaires will be sent to 10,000 amateur operators and other listeners who have shown in communications to the commission that they are capable of forming expert and impartial opinion on the broadcasting situation in their localities.

The amateurs were selected as being the most representative group of listeners.

The survey will supplement the poll of broadcasters made by the commission to obtain the views of station operators on conditions as a result of the reallocation of last November.

Among the questions asked will be the following: "What is your opinion of general receiving conditions in your locality? To give the best possible radio service to the entire country, do you consider the number of stations should be increased or decreased?

"List in order preference, based on enjoyment of programs, call letters of stations received satisfactorily and listened to regularly. List stations that you receive with satisfactory volume but do not enjoy listening to, indicating your objection to their programs. If you could receive but one station, would prefer that to be a local or a chain program station? Would you prefer to have more or fewer chain stations?

List a few of the most distant stations in the United States received since November 11, either by loudspeaker or earphone. Do you consider number of cleared channels should be increased or decreased? What do you consider should be the power of stations on cleared channels?

"Do you consider there is too much advertising by broadcast stations?"

Still other answers which include the "thumbnail sketch" for the ideal wife, are: One who will not want to do all the bossing, a blonde who will do her part in making a happy and successful home; a quiet fun loving girl who is not jealous; a girl of the same religious denomination as I, college education, a good looker who can play the piano, an attractive resourceful girl, endowed with good sense, one cleaner at heart and physically cleaner than I am; a woman who has a motherly instinct, who is able to cook a little and is not flirtatious with other men; clean thinking mater of fact girl who is not frivilous, not necessarily beautiful but would be acceptable if found; a wife who doesn't run around too much who doesn't talk too much; an attractive Christian girl, well read and capable who can play the piano but not sing! And last but by no means least, a girl capable in every way who does not smoke or use profanity, must be attractice, Christian, educated and American!

In view of the data given by the 80 senior boys, it is obvious that their slogan for 1935 will be "Wives wanted who can qualify!"

Automatic Set For S. O. S.

Lieut. Pedro C. Andux y Perez of Cuba and his automatic radio telegraph key for sending S O S and the position of a ship in distress.

HAVANA, April 28. (AP)—An automatic radio telegraph key that sends "SOS" and gives the direction of a ship in distress has been perfected by Lieut. Pedro C. Andux y Perez of the Cuban naval signal corps.

Attached to a radio transmitter aboard ship or airplane, it will click out a call for help, give the position in longitude and latitude, and also send a "go ahead" signal.

The device weighs only seven and half pounds, having been reduced half in weight over an earlier model. Its lightness makes it adaptable for airplane use, its inventor said. He also explained that it would be a valuable aid to small pleasure craft which carried radio but not an operator.

Its operation consists merely of setting a number of keys to send the proper dots and dashes. The machine continues to repeat them until stopped.

A small motor, powered either by dry cells or storage battery, turns a series of discs on which the various characters are notched. Each disc has an arm riding over it. The arm makes or breaks an electrical contact, the length of the break depending upon the number of notches in the disc.

On top of the sender are a series of keys or sliding contacts which can be set for the various figures and words that the machine will transmit.

Engineers who have examined the device report that they have found it practical and that it operated satisfactorily when used in place of a radio telegraph key.

American To Give Study For Radio of British Isles

Mechanical Development and Experimentation Being Done In Europe Will Form Basis for Research.

BOSTON, April 27. (AP) — Radio conditions and systems in the British isles and on the European continent are to be studied by an American engineer long identified with the radio broadcast field.

Charles W. Horn, former superintendent of radio poreations for the Westinghouse company, has joined the NBC engineering staff with the title of general engineer.

His new duties will include mechanical development and experimentation in the radio field. In pursuance of these duties he has sailed for Europe to study broadcasting there.

Mr. Horn's association with wireless and radio transmission work dates back many years. As chief of radio opcrations he supervised the transmission of the Westinghouse radio system, including WBZ, Springfield, and WBZA, Boston.

Is Nonchalant

Operator Works As Home Burns

RENO, Nev., April 27. (AP)—The radio operator who can calmly receive weather reports as his home burns has been found. He is Charles Jennings.

Recently, Mrs. Jennings telephoned her husband at the local airport that their house was ablaze. At the time, Jennings was taking weather reports, so he passed the word along to the "gang" around the room and continued his work. The others rushed out as a volunteer fire department but the flames had been put out before they arrived.

KDKA in Pittsburgh, KYW and KFKX in Chicago.

He served the United States navy and the United Fruit company, making extensive investigations and installations in many countries in Central America. He also traveled codsiderably in South America and in the West Indies.

Radio always had been Mr. Horn's hobby and in 1909, foreseeing in it a new science of communication, he determined to pursue it intensively as a vocation.

Radio Movies, In Swaddling Attire, Being Developed

Radiovision, Audience, Already Estimated to Total 20,000 Will Be Served by 5000-Watt Station.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Radio movies, still in swaddling clothes, are being slowly but gradually developed by C. Francis Jenkins, the foremost pioneer in the field of television.

Within a few days, Jenkins hopes to be using his new frequencies to broadcast movies from a new 5000-watt station, with a radiovision audience which he already estimates at about 20,000.

Since last July he has been broadcasting only silhouette pictures from his laboratory here, but he now hopes to be able to send out half-tones which will have the same effect as movies in your favorite theater.

By use of a magnifying glass, the radiovision audience which tunes in on the Jenkins programs at 8 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings is now able to see the subjects moving on what appears to be a six-inch screen, but the inventor has also developed two-foot screen outfits for home use and larger apparatus for theaters.

"When we get going on half-tones," Jenkins says, "we will be able to broadcast many regular movie films, but not all of them. Right now we can't carry a great deal of detail and have to have pictures with only three or four subjects."

His new station, which will continue to be called W3XK, has been set up in a two-story house at Wheaton, Md., some five miles from Washington, and the apparatus resembles a regular sound broadcasting station almost identically. Announcements in the regular fashion, of course, accompany the picture broadcasting.

"We are now engaged in keeping up our regular broadcast schedule and at the same time improving transmission," Jenkins says. "Of course the big thing we're engaged on is trying to change from silhouettes to half-tones. That's why we asked for wider bands.

"Previously we have made brief, simple varied subjects and one or two story pictures and have bought a few cartoon pictures. We have produced 'Goldilocks and the Three Bears,' and 'Old King Cole' in one-reel features. We have had to content ourselves with subjects without many fine lines.

"But we're going to do better than that. We are only passing through the novelty stage, just as the motion picture itself had to pass through it. We don't expect perfection at first but, fortunately, neither does the public.

MOSCOW.—The first group of five workers employed on big grain farms are en route to the United States to learn American methods of wholesale agriculture. The second group will leave this month.

Radio Links Farm And City

Broadcasting Is Spanning Gulf That Has Long Existed Between Town and Rural Citizen

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP) — Bringing the same information and entertainment to farm and city dweller alike, radio has won recognition as a powerful factor in spanning the gulf which divided the farmer and the townsman.

Broadcasting has been very effective in promoting better understanding and cooperation between the city and the country on questions of political and economic interests, says O. M. Kile, agricultural economist.

"It has been a lamentable fact that the city has had a poor understanding of the country and the country a poor understanding of the city," Mr. Kile said. "This has led to many complications in a legislative way and otherwise which I think the radio has been quite instrumental in straightening out.

"One of the reasons for this is that agricultural speakers have tried to present their views in a broad way with the result that the city listeners cannot help hearing interesting facts about farm life and its problems. On the other hand, the viewpoints of the city are presented in an intimate way by the radio to the people of the country."

Edgar L. Bill, director of WLS, Chicago, says that radio is so important to the farmer that "agriculture should have not only one clear channel but possibly a dozen clear channels to carry on the necessary work in that field."

Old folk songs and barn dance music broadcast by WLS primarily for its rural audience have been very popular with city listeners, Mr. Bill says. "I have thought that perhaps we ought to soft pedal these barn dances because we might be getting in wrong with the commission or the public, but the people want them and we can't abandon them," he said.

"City people enjoy them as well as farm listeners. On the first four Saturday nights of the year that we played the barn dances we received, 300 telegrams each night. They came from the cities."

Three Measures On Radio Are Drafted

Congress Is Unlikely to Go Into Broadcast Legislation at Present Special Session of Congress.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 27.—While it is considered unlikely that congress will tackle any radio legislation at the special session, three bills on broadcasting drafted by senators await consideration.

A bill by Senator Couzens of Michigan provides for the establishment of a communication commission to regulate all forms of radio transmission.

Senator Watson of Indiana has a similar bill for the creation of a commission with authority over communications like that vested in the interstate commerce commission for regulation of transportation.

Senator Nye of North Dakota is the author of a bill which provides for the establishment of a government radio station in Washington to be used in transmitting executive department news and to broadcast debates in congress on important issues.

The bill also stipulates that political parties could use the station after setting forth a declaration of principles. It empowers the secretary of commerce to select a site and provide equipment.

Senator Couzens says the time has come when steps should be taken to regulate rates charged for the transmission of telegrams, cablegrams, radiograms and for the use of telephone lines. The public is peculiarly unprotected in this respect, he said.

Senator Watson probably will not seek action on his bill until the regular session of congress next December as he believes the special session should be limited to consideration of farm relief and tariff measures.

'Live' Studios Give Best Programs To United States Fans, Italian Says

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP) — European radio stations offer more classical music but virtually every branch of the American system of broadcasting is superior to that in the old world, says Allesandro Banfi, chief engineer of the Italian Broadcasting company after a tour of inspection in this country.

Mr. Banfi came to the United States to purchase equipment for a 50,000-watt station at Rome which is to be the first link in a chain of high power stations throughout Italy. Twelve announcers, all women, are employed in the six low powered stations now operated by the Italian company.

Although the announcers never sing, it is required that they have contralto voices, he said. There are 650 artists and musicians in the employ of the company. A majority of the programs originate, however, in the theaters, it being one of the country's laws that each theater permit at least one broadcast a week from its stage.

"Pay for the radio entertainers is slightly higher than the compensation for similar performances in theaters, although it is much lower than the American rate for radio artists," he said.

"The most amazing thing in American radio studios is the acoustical arrangements, which are vastly superior to our own methods. The system in this country of broadcasting from a 'live' studio gives the audience music that is intensely alive and with a fire and lightness that is impossible in our 'dead' or echoless studios."

Mr. Banfi expressed the belief that the only solution of present European broadcast problems is a decrease in the number of stations and an increase in the power of those remaining.

Big Crowds Attend Plymouth Display

Last night at the Joe Hilton Company show rooms at 919 Texas Ave., a large and enthusiastic throng attended the opening of the spring display of Chrysler-build Plymouth motor cars where the latest Plymouth models with many important mechanical improvements are being shown.

"Many of the mechanical improvements are to be found in the engine," according to Mr. Ted Tipps, sales manager, "where a longer stroke and greater piston displacement, longer connecting rods, heavier crankshaft, larger main bearings and improved lubrication have been used to produce greatly improved acceleration and a remarkable degree of smoothness."

Among the other new features are an improved steering mechanism and a new type exhaust manifold which has been designed to carry the hot exhaust gases from the engine at the front rather than at the rear. This is a feature that is particularly desirable during the summer driving season as it promotes driving comfort by minimizing the possibility of engine heat entering the front compartment.

Speed And Safety Feature De Soto

Many a wheel has passed over the road since the days when "butcher, baker and candlestick maker" made business calls with horse and buggy.

Twenty miles a day then was considered a fair average at the reins, but the traveler often ended a long drive over bad roads with few calls made, little business transacted, and weary as he stabled his horse for the night. Time and distance, however, have taken on new meaning with the coming of the automobile. The telephone now brings the doctor to the door almost as soon as the receiver is put back on the hook. The traveling salesman counts his daily mileage in the hundreds; his appointments and business have increased; his overhead costs are materially reduced.

Keenly aware of the important part the car plays in the prosperity of the nation, Chrysler engineers produced the De Soto Six business coupe only after they had carried on exhaustive tests and studied the requirements of business men who spend a majority of their time behind the wheels of their cars.

Advances

As a successor to its late president, Roscoe B. Jackson, the Hudson Motor Car company has announced William J. McAnneny. McAnneny has been with the company since its organization in 1909 and has served as its first vice president and treasurer since 1923. He is a Spanish-American War veteran, a former purchasing agent and an ardent golfer.

Whippet Reflects Artistic Genius

Evident in every line and contour of the Superior Whippet Fours and Sixes displayed at the automobile show is the genius of Amos E. Northup, who over a period of years has virtually founded a new school of applied art in the design of automobile bodies. Heretofore Mr. Northup has devoted himself exclusively to styling high priced automobiles, and his characteristic touch is reflected today throughout the fine car field.

Willys-Overland permitted generous proportions in the design of its newest light cars, adding several inches to the wheelbase lengths. The increased wheelbase of 112 1-2 inches for the four have been cleverly utilized to give these models pleasing proportions of massiveness and comfort.

Buick Dealers In National Showing

Realizing that the springtime reinvigorates the automobile consciousness of the motoring public, officials of the Buick Motor company have dedicated the week beginning April 21 to a "National Spring Showing" of the complete Buick line.

For some weeks past Buick dealers in every city in the country have been preparing for the Spring Show. Color effects that blend with the vernal days of April and May have been placed on the display room floors and special emphasis has been put on these models which appeal to the spring and summer tourist.

The Spring Show is in line with the Buick policy of enabling the prospective buyer to judge for himself in the matter of motor car values the showing in this city will be open to the general public and demonstrations of the Buick's performance will be given to those interested.

DeSoto

There is no better investment in the motor car market today than that small amount of money that represents the difference between the price of De Soto Six and that of lower priced cars.

On the basis of cold cash alone, you will find that, over the whole period of your ownership, it will cost you less to buy and operate a De Soto Six than any car whose appeal is solely in its low purchase price.

For when you buy a De Soto Six, you not only spend fewer actual dollars in the long run, but you get vastly superior value for every dollar of your investment.

Already you know that any Chrysler-built car includes a whole list of unique engineering features that make for finer, fuller enjoyment of motoring.

Already you know that any Chrysler-built car is ultra-smart in appearance, staunch, speedy, economical, easy in control, responsive—that it embodies the most attractive equipment and fittings that you can find in any motor cars.

Now we want to show you that you can afford to own a De Soto Six even though you had set your price limit somewhat lower than De Soto's initial price, and had resigned yourself to infinitely less than De Soto offers.

Check all of De Soto's remarkable features—find out how much less are De Soto's upkeep costs. Consider these items in relation to the purchase price—and you will be convinced that an investment in De Soto Six is not surpassed by anything offered in the low-priced field today.

SMOOTH and QUIET AT EVERY SPEED

TAKE OLDSMOBILE out and try it—in the swift press of traffic and on the open road. You'll find dazzling acceleration, as smooth and stageless as the pick-up of an electric motor. You'll find exhilarating speed, with freedom from noise or vibration throughout the entire range. You'll find a tireless, effortless flow of power, with a tremendous reserve for any emergency.

Oldsmobile's big 62-horsepower engine is smooth and quiet at every speed. It rests on sound-deadening, vibration-absorbing rubber mountings of special design. The chassis, too, is rubber-cushioned wherever cushioning should be used. Fabric beading, where metal would otherwise meet metal, eliminates annoying body squeaks.

In keeping with its smoothness, quietness, and brilliant all-round performance, this finer Oldsmobile is easy to drive and comfortable to ride in.

Controls are conveniently arranged. Both the front seat and the steering wheel are adjustable to suit the driver's individual preference. Oldsmobile's quick-acting four-wheel safety brakes respond to the slightest pressure.

Interiors are luxuriously comfortable, with wide deep-cushioned seats, and plenty of head room and leg room. And four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers assure restful riding ease on any road.

Come, take a drive in this finer Oldsmobile. Learn not only what it does, but how it does it. Experience thrilling, powerful performance that is smooth and quiet at every speed. Match it against other cars in its field. Then . . . compare its value!

From one banker to another—

"The car to buy is CHRYSLER"

A certain prominent banker heard that another banker, a good friend of his, was considering the purchase of a new motor car.*

Impelled by a friendly desire to be helpful, the first banker took the time and trouble to write the letter from which we quote:

"I now have my second Chrysler," the letter reads. "And with all due respect to the many excellent cars I have owned, I must say that both the Chrysler '72' and '75' have shown more ability than any of the other cars I have ever owned. And, no, ability of more than one kind.

"The Chrysler has road*ability*. In traffic congestion or on the open road, it is both spry and safe.

"It has dura*bility*. Out of 4 cents per mile I set aside in a special fund, to take care of tires, repairs, replacements, insurance, taxes, license, and depreciation, I found, after paying the difference between my car and the new one, I had $116 left.

"It has depend*ability*. There was never a time when I was delayed a single minute and you know I travel on a rigid schedule; in keeping my appointments or making my destination as per program.

"And last, but by no means least, especially when we are buying for our good wives, it has respect*ability*. I think my daughter expressed the feminine mind when she said: 'Dad, your Chrysler is such a respectable car. One feels toward it very much the same as one does about cultured or refined people; just naturally liking to be seen in company with them.

"One would almost think that I was writing an advertisement or a testimonial, but this message is neither; it is simply a word of appreciation passed on from one friend to another, of a splendid piece of high-class merchandise."

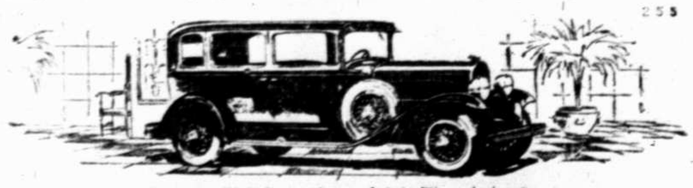

Acting on this strong recommendation—plus his own knowledge of Chrysler prestige—the other banker bought a Chrysler.

There could be no better evidence of the merit and value that enable Chrysler to make and hold friends.

he second route to be considered is that from Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn, to Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island. This route would call for underwater construction of about a mile, but would have to be worked at a greater depth than that of the Hylan tunnel—100 feet.

This bird's-eye sketch of New York harbor shows how the proposed tunnel under the Narrows in New York Bay would further link traffic between that city and New Jersey. A comparison in length of the tubes may be noted between the existing Holland tunnel under the Hudson and either of the proposed routes across the bay.

While money has already been expended on the Hylan tunnel and two shafts sunk, this is thought of as no advantage because the new tunnel is to be 30 feet in diameter and the present shafts are only 24 feet wide. Practically the same work would have to be done to enlarge these borings to the required diameter.

Another disadvantage of the Hylan route would be the two-mile stretch of underground work—more than a mile longer than the Fort Hamilton-Fort Wadsworth course.

Planned for 20 Years

This tunnel is by no means a sudden inspiration. It has been under discussion for twenty years. A harbor strike brought the question of the tunnel to the front during Hylan's term. His idea was to construct a freight tunnel and with this idea in mind work was started. This in no way woul would relieve vehicular traffic and this fact was brought to the attention of Governor Al Smith. Work was stopped and has never been resumed since Hylan left office.

Recent revival of interest in the project brought action in the city legislature and Mayor Walker pledged his support to the movement. The outcome is the present plan.

Estimated cost of constructing this tunnel runs from $50,000,000 for the shorter course to $75,000,000 for the longer. A preser plan for paying for the construction as suggested by Aldermanic President McKee, and looked upon with favor by the city, is a toll method of financing.

By Trench or Shield

Engineers will consider two methods in constructing the tunnel. One is known as the trench method. The other is known as the shield method.

In the former, which was used in the construction of the Holland vehicular tunnel, the iron shell of the tunnel is assembled and laid on the sea bed. It is then sunk in a trench dug alongside it and secured with concrete. This method is used in case of a rocky sea bed.

The shield method is employed when the sea bed is composed of mud and soft substances. Cast iron circular bands at each end of the tunnel are forced through the soft earth by means of compressed air. Workers in the tunnel are protected by a shield and water is kept out by compressed air pumps. These two shields meet in the center of the tunnel, completing the bore.

Shafts sunk in the bed of the bay and at the extremities of the tunnel will determine the composition of the sea bed and the method to be used.

Ventilation Is "Sticker"

Ventilation of the tunnel will be the most difficult of the engineering tasks, it is said. As was the case in the construction of the Holland tunnel, the actual labor and boring of the tunnel is a process of mathematics and mechanical labor. But science enters the ventilation angle and difficulty is expected here. This factor also may have some influence in the location of the tunnel route.

According to J. B. Snow, chief of the tunnel division of the board of transportation, the actual construction is "child's play," compared with the ventilation problem.

If the longer of the two tunnel routes is decided upon, it will exceed the length of the Holland tunnel by more than a mile in underwater construction. Then, too, it will be about 15 feet deeper under water. If the shorter course is decided upon it will exceed the Holland tunnel by almost a third of a mile in underwater construction. This route would make it almost 40 feet lower than the Holland tunnel.

You'll be allowed three guesses on the author of this phrase, but you'll only need one: "You never can tell. I may come back and I may not!"

MILWAUKEE, April 27.—The newest thing in the way of making driving easier for the motorist is an automatic gear shift, perfected by Oscar H. Banker, and being placed on the market by the Claybourn Process Corporation.

The device is easily manipulated and requires only one operation by the driver, that of disengaging the clutch and shifting a small lever under the steering wheel.

When the car has gained a speed of eight miles an hour the car is automatically shifted into second. At 15 miles an hour it goes into high.

Several experiments conducted with the invention have proven satisfactory. In addition to the elimination of jerking caused by shifting and making more room in the front seat, it is claimed that a saving of from 10 to 15 per cent in gas consumption is gained through the elimination of the present standard gear.

Hills offer no problem for the automatic shifter. Just as the machine works on a level stretch, it automatically changes gears as the speed diminishes up grade.

ESSEX THE CHALLENGER

these important things
CHALLENGE TOO!

Hear the radio program of the "Hudson-Essex Challengers" every Friday evening

ESSEX challenges the performance, the style, the luxurious roomy comfort of any car at any price, on the basis that no other gives you back so much for every dollar you put in.

That is why the big buying swing is to Essex. That is why motorists by thousands are switching from past favorites, and trading in their old cars for the big values Essex the Challenger gives. Essex challenges:

IN SPEED—challenging anything the road offers up to 70 miles an hour. IN FAST GETAWAY—any car regardless of size or price. IN RELIABILITY—60 miles an hour for hour after hour. IN FINE APPEARANCE, upholstery and detail—compare with cars in which high price is paid for just those things. IN ECONOMY—compare with cars best known for low operation cost.

And with its superb chassis quality and fine, large bodies—Essex establishes also an outstanding leadership in proved VALUE. It offers a completeness of fine car equipment formerly identified only with costly cars, and available, when at all, only as "extras," at extra cost on cars of Essex price. Check these items when you buy—they represent easily above $100 additional value. But they do not cost one cent extra.

The performance ability of Essex the Challenger is due in no small part to its Super-Six motor. Thus, while it is a "Six," no one who knows can regard any other "Six" as being comparable in the power it delivers.

Essex is built by Hudson under famous Super-Six patents. No one can copy or match it. The fundamental and exclusive Super-Six principle—developed in one million motors and over 12 years of continuous service, stamps Essex as the unapproached "Six" in every particular of performance, smoothness and reliability.

EASE OF BUYING

FOR INSTANCE, in this city your first payment, with your present car included, may be as low as $287.00, and your monthly payments $54.00.

Your present car will probably cover the entire first payment. The H. M. C. Purchase Plan offers the lowest terms available on the balance.

. . . EASE OF OWNING

On our own streets Essex the Challenger, under competent observation, averaged 20 miles per gallon. The average owner in this city can expect 18 to 20 miles and upward. Commercial users operating large fleets of Essex cars say that service and maintenance costs, covering millions of miles of operation, are lowest of any car ever tested.

Car Owners Spend Billions For Gas

Constructive Program To Conserve Nation's Supply of Oil Resources Favored by Motorists

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27. Car owners of the country, who annually spend over two billion dollars for gasoline and oil, favor a constructive program to conserve the nation's oil resources, but will be quick to resent any move on the part of the industry to create an artificial shortage with the purpose of raising prices to the consumer, according to a bulletin issued today by National Headquarters of the American Automobile association.

The A. A. A. statement was issued under the signature of its president, Thos. P. Henry, of Detroit. Mr. Henry said that the national motoring body is in whole-hearted accord with the policy of President Hoover as far as the oil resources of the public-owned domain is concerned.

Must Look to Future.

"When it is considered," said the A. A. A. president, "that America has only about 18 per cent of the world's oil resources, and in 1928 produced 68.2 per cent of the world production, it is time to adopt some means of assuring a supply for the future.

"If all elements of the oil industry are sincere in the move to join President Hoover in honest conservation of these resources, there is little danger of unfavorable reaction on the part of the consumer. If, on the other hand, there develops any indication that the oil interests intend to use conservation as a cloak for the creation of an artificial shortage, the organized car owners through their national and local associations, will be found ready to do battle."

Big Reception Is Given New Viking

Weighed on the scales of actual sales, the new Viking, the 90-degree, V-type eight cylinder companion car to the Oldsmobile Six is being accorded an unusually favorable reception by the motoring public, according to reports from Oldsmobile-Viking officials. Orders so far received are greatly in excess of the most optimistic forecasts.

Within a week of the initial showing of the new Viking, telegrams were being received from dealers in every section of the country increasing their original orders and requesting early deliveries to fill retail orders on hand. Many of these retail orders had been placed without even a demonstration ride in the Viking, dealers report.

This exceptional reception of a new car by the public is believed due to the fact that the Viking is sponsored by General Motors and is being manufactured and merchandised by the Oldsmobile division.

Through maintaining an open minded policy in every respect and closely following the public desires, General Motors has built up a large following throughout the world. Its products have become recognized as presenting outstanding values in their respective price classes.

Maybe it would have been more appropriate if the fund people had signed a couple of cheeses. They're not hard to find.

Pertinent Facts About Automobiles By Israel Klein, Science Editor For NEA Service

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

OF ALL PARTS of the automobile the ignition system seems to be the least understood and the least attended to. Even the spark plugs get less attention, garage men will tell you, than other appliances on the car.

Yet theer is an instrument on the dash, almost in front of the driver, kthat if properly understood can keep him informed at all times on the condition of the ignition system. That's the ammeter. Knowledge of this instrument and how it works will save the motorist a great deal of expense and trouble.

* * *

The ammeter measures the amount of current going through the ignition system from generator to battery and from battery to spark plugs and lights. While this system is operating, it shows the extent to which it uses the electricity from battery or generator on the dial of the ammeter. Let something go wrong, let there be a break in the system, and that, too, will show on the ammeter. The object is to interpret these dial movements properly.

* * *

During winter the generator usually is adjusted to charge the battery at a higher rate than during summer in order to make up for extra use of the headlights. But the generator shouldn't overcharge summer or winter.

The point at which the generator charging rate may be set is easily determined. With the headlights and tail light on and the automobile going along at 25 miles an hour—or the engine running at speed equal to 25 miles an hour—the needle of the ammeter should point to the zero marke on the dial.

If the needle under this condition points toward the charge side, the generator is overcharging the battery. If it points toward the discharge side, the generator isn't charging enough and the lighting system is draining the battery.

If the generator is set properly, however, and after a little driving the needle begins to move over toward the discharge side, be assured the battery is drained dry. Another sign of this state of the battery is dimming of the headlights.

All that's needed to correct this is to refill the battery, unless this condition has existed for some time.

A dryer who knows his ammeter needn't leave his seat to see if his stop light is working, or if his battery terminals are corroded, or if the headlights are in danger of burning out.

Take the matter of the stop light. With all other lights out and the motor still, the act of depressing the brake pedal which should light the stop signal causes the needle of the ammeter to jump slightly toward the discharge side. If the needle doesn't make this jump at depression of the pedal, it's a sure sign that the stop light is out.

* * *

If the battery terminals are corroded the needle of the ammeter will ten dto shift over to the discharge side. Cleaning of the corroded terminals will bring the needle back to its proper setting.

A check on the ignition switch is a jump of the needle toward discharge when the switch is turned on. If the needle goes too far over and stays there, there's a short somewhere in the ignition system.

The charging rate of the generator need be no higher than 10 amperes when the car is moving 25 miles an hour, except when the automobile is used more often at night than by day or there is much stopping and starting. The ammeter is your guide here.

If the generator keeps charging at a higher rate there is the liability of burning out the headlamps or tail light. This, in fact, is one of the causes to suspect when the head lamps burn out too often. The generator charging rate need be reduced only slightly to correct this fault.

That should best be done by a service station ignition man.

Three Texas villages, Goose Creek Pelly and Baytown, have been combined in anticipation of a boom. A contest will determine a more genteel name for the combination.

Newspapers Aid Auto Industry

Outstanding Position of American Newspaper Is Reflected In Statement Of Studebaker Official.

The outstanding position of the American newspaper in modern merchandising is reflected in a recent statement by J. M. Cleary, general sales manager of the Studebaker Corporation of America, which has begun the greatest advertising campaign in its history. According to Mr. Cleary, more than one-half of the Corporation's record-breaking appropriation for advertising in 1929 has been scheduled for expenditure in newspapers.

"Newspapers have played a large part in the amazing growth of the automobile industry," said Mr. Cleary. "This is particularly true in the case of the Studebaker Corporation, which has consistently been one of the largest users of newspaper space.

Modern Campaign Made.

"Studebaker's new cars this year called for a merchandising campaign as up-to-date and modern as the cars themselves. Accordingly Studebaker became the first manufacturer to make extensive use of the possibilities of the movietone and created a sound picture which is entertaining scores of thousands of motorists.

"The climax of the movietone, which is entitled 'Champions' is the finish of the President's run of 250,000 miles in 26,326 minutes at the Atlantic City Speedway.

We don't know what job Major Fleake has lined up for Harry Sinclair at the Washington jail, but if the major retains his sense of humor he will give Mr. Sinclair a job at the information desk.

Attaching The "Gadgets!"

These men know what those "gadgets" are all about, for they attach some 450 of them to every body that goes through the La Salle body wiring plant in Detroit. This assembly crew combines the modern machine efficiency with thorough handcraft to fit the vacuum tanks, wiper valves, switches, heat rods, spark control rods, choke rods, oil lines and delicate instrument gauges in a short time.

New Sales Record Is Set By Oakland

With March sales of new Oakland and Pontiac Sixes 7,000 cars above any previous month in Oakland history, the Oakland Motor Car company during the first quarter of the year sold 21,838 cars, W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales announces.

This betters the first quarter of 1928 by 8,000 units and nearly trebles the 33,000 Oakland and Pontiac sixes sold in the first three months of 1927, Mr. Tracy stated.

March sales this year, according to figures reported to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce were 36,460 cars, setting a new high monthly record in the history of the Oakland company, the best previous month having been June, 1928, when sales touched 29,477 cars.

Graham-Paige Has $523,641 Earnings

DETROIT, April 27. — Graham-Paige Motors corporation reports earnings for the first quarter of 1929 totaling $523,641.42, more than double the earnings for the same period of last year, which amounted to $257,783.50.

The directors of the company voted today to offer to the holders of the company's common and second preferred stock the right to subscribe pro rata to 283,758 shares of no-par-value common stock at $25 per share. This will provide a right of subscription on the basis of one and one-half shares for each share of second preferred stock, and one and one-half shares for each 10 shares of the company's no-par-value common stock.

April 29, 1929, has been fixed by the board for the taking of record of the stockholders in connection with such subscription rights.

The Graham brothers, in behalf of Graham Brothers Corporation of New York, have agreed to purchase, at the same pice offeed to stockholders all of such additional shares as may not be subscribed by stockholders.

Willys-Knight Is Real Achievement

With many achievements in the background extending over a period of more than 20 years, Willys-Overland's introduction of the new style Willys-Knight "70-B", is considered by leading motor car experts to be the outstanding one in Willys-Knight history.

Although but recently presented to the public, the demand that immediately followed its first showing indicates that it will prove the most popular Willys-Knight of any type ever brought out by the Toledo manufacturer, the largest builder of Knight engined cars in the world.

This new line is larger than any previous Willys-Knight built in the $1,045 classification. On a chassis of 112 1-4 inch wheelbase, a completely newly designed body is mounted, bringing a new standard of beauty of lines and design to this price class. From the new design of radiator with graceful lines sweeping back to the rounded curves of the rear quarters, the new Willys-Knight bears no resemblance to former models. It is refreshingly new throughout with exterior color schemes blending perfectly with the smart and spacious interiors.

SUPER DE LUXE Balanced Tire

by LEE of Conshohocken

This tire, long in the making, expresses our opinion of what an ideal tire should be.

Its design, superficially, may or may not resemble other "Super" tires, but underneath its beautiful exterior lies originality heretofore unexpressed in any other tire.

No stress will ever disclose an individual weakness, no wear or punishment will find either the bead, side wall, or tread deficient.

The bead, original in design and a vast improvement over older forms, anchors this masterpiece to its rim with a most tenacious grip. Combed cord fabric manufactured exclusively for LEE and frictioned by them with their own special process gives a new meaning to long life, low pressure construction and a resiliency not obtained elsewhere.

The tread stock is of such toughness (another new contribution) that in its resistance to road wear it is unequalled by the product of any other tire company. The design of the all-season tread, seemingly unimportant, but in reality of great significance, is a new pattern, which will hold its non-skid design probably as long as you will drive your car.

The Super De Luxe is a balloon (low pressure) tire. This assures smooth, easy-riding qualities.

Super De Luxe obviously is high—higher perhaps than any "Super" tire made. It will be bought in sets by those car owners who want to forget tire troubles, and have an assurance that the tire, like their car, will carry them along for several years without replacement.

It is unlikely that this tire will ever puncture, and long before it wears out your dollar investment will return to you dividends in safety and lack of worry, which you never before have received.

Mexico Will Offer Beauty And Romance To The Adventure-Seeking Motorist For This Summer

By NEA Service

MEXICO CITY, April 27.—If you crave romance and adventure, Mexico, with its changing scenery and lure of ancient civilization, coupled with its partial completion of the Pan-American highway, offers satisfaction.

With its modern road program for which $10,000,000 has been expended annually for the last four years, this country is constructing some modern highways that compare favorably with any in the United States. In places roads are being blasted out of solid rock along mountain sides, and road beds and construction are of the best.

San Antonio is the gateway into Mexico. Roads from Houston, Galveston and other Texas cities lead into that city. From San Antonio over U. S. Highway 81, Laredo, Texas, on the border, is reached. Crossing the Rio Grande into Mexico the motorist hits Neuvo Laredo and the Pan-American highway, which is completed as far south as Monterrey.

The road to Monterrey is well worth the Mexican tour. The city is even more scenic. Much of old Mexico is seen here and little of the new civilization which bustles and disturbs dreamers and vacationers.

Much Yet to Be Built.

Outside of Monterrey the highway is still under construction and continues that way, branching off to Tampico on the Atlantic coast, until a few miles outside of Mexico City.

But at the capital of Mexico the highway is improved, and is finished into Puebla and Acapulco. Roads under construction extend from the capital city east to Vera Cruz, south to Salina Cruz and west to Guadalajara.

Entry red tape has been somewhat eliminated by the efforts of W. H. Furlong, assistant manager of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce. The Mexican-American Association for the Development of Touring has been organized and through it present conditions require only a bond on each car entering Mexico.

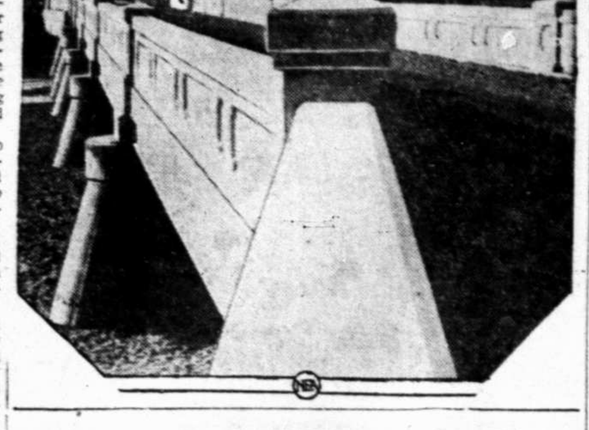

Many Quaint Spots.

Not only will the scenery, the people, customs and handiwork the tourist sees be of an ancient civilization, but the highway in places will be ancient. A stretch near Cuernavaca, built by the Spaniards several centuries ago, is reconditioned is is part of the highway.

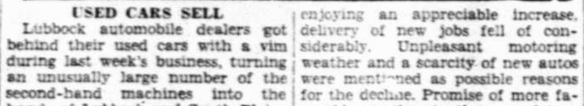

A representative tour of Mexico would include the following points of interest in the tourist's program:

The Bishop's palace, bearing the date of 1846, in Monterrey at the foot of the Sierra Madre Mountains; the ancient church of San Francisco in Monterrey founded in 1560; the Shrine of Guadeloupe in Mexico City and the National Museum there dating back to 1529; the Pyramids of San Juan Teotihuacan, the Aztec Pyramid of the Sun; Puebla, the "Home of the Angels," and the numerous lakes, majestic mountains and winding rivers that run throughout the country.

"Mexico awaits the American traveler," says President Gil. "We love America and the more America sees of Mexico the more Americans will love Mexico and its people."

ON AUTO ROW

USED CARS SELL

Lubbock automobile dealers got behind their used cars with a vim during last week's business, turning an unusually large number of the second-hand machines into the hands of Lubbock and South Plains buyers.

WEATHER HURTS

While the used car business was enjoying an appreciable increase, delivery of new jobs fell of considerably. Unpleasant motoring weather and a scarcity of new autos were mentioned as possible reasons for the decline. Promise of more favorable weather in the near future has caused local dealers to lay in a supply of new models for the buying season.

SHIPMENT IS RECEIVED

Used cars figured in five deals completed by the Hub Motor company last week. Three of the second hand jobs were outright sales while two were used in trades. The Hudson-Essex agency here has recently received a new shipment of its two major lines.

TWENTY SALES REPORTED

An unofficial count of used car sales during the week past exceeds the 2 mark. These sales were distributed among the majority of the Lubbock dealers. The South Plains Motor company, Whippet and Willis Knight agent, closed deals on two used cars, in addition to a new car sale. A. H. Ballew, of Lamesa, was the buyer of a Whippet coupe. Ten used cars were sold by the Cap-Rock Motor company, from its used car lot on Avenue H. No new deliveries were reported by the De Sota distributors.

SALES REPORTED GOOD

Lubbock dealers handling General Motors products were hosts to large crowds of prospective automobile buyers during the General Motors spring showing, April 20 to 26. While the majority of these had a house full of cars on hand for the six-day event, some were handicapped because of a scarcity of new models. One of these was the Kuykendall Chevrolet. Sales on the new six have exceeded all expectations, according to G. P. Kuykendall, manager.

F. E. Dickson, Seagraves trucking contractor, has purchased a 2-ton Dodge Brothers truck from Royalty Motor company of this city.

Davis Oldsmobile company report the sale of two new cars during the past week. A sport coupe was delivered to W. H. Fowler, of Lubbock and a coach to G. M. Flenniken, of Lubbock.

SETS SALES RECORD

General Motors Delivers 205,118 Cars

During fthe month of March General Motors dealers delivered to consumers 205.118 cars according to an announcement by Alfred P Sloan, jr., president. This compares with 183,706 for the corresponding month last year, an increase of 21,-412 cars, or 11.7 per cent for March this year. The number of cars delivered in March to users establishes a new high record for that month. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers totalled 220.391 cars, as compared with 197.821 for March of the year previous, an increase this year of 22.570 cars, orr 11.4 per cent. This figure constitutes a new high record for all time covering sales to dealers, the previous record having been made in May, 1928, when 207,-325 cars were sold to dealers.

TO DEDICATE AIRPORT

DALLAS, Texas, April 27 (AP)—A fleet of twelve Dallas ships, including giant, tri-motored planes, will fly t[illegible] for the dedication of its new airport tomorrow, it was announced at Love Field today.

The average track of a tornado is about one-fifth of a mile across and 20 miles long, and is so sharply defined that houses on one side of a street may be completely demolished while those on the the other side are unharmed.

Propose Law For Safety Teaching

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The introduction of a bill into the state legislature, providing for public school courses in safety instruction, has been brought about by the California committee on public safety.

The bill provides for safety courses in all elementary and secondary schools in the state and carries an initial appropriation of $15,000.

Safety instruction for adults is also planned. A safe driving manual is in the making and extensive radio lectures, newspapers, public addresses, motion pictures, the pulpit and posters will be employed in an effort to make the adult more wary in crossing streets and driving his automobile.

Chicago U. Gets Young Chief

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP) — Dr Robert Maynard Hutchins, 30 yea old dean of the Yale University law school, will be the youngest president of a major university when he assumes the presidency of the University of Chicago July 1.

Selection of Dr. Hutchins by unanimous choice of the faculty-trustee committee was in line with the announced intention of the trustee to name as president a man with wide administrative experience who at the same time was young.

Dr. Hutchins will succeed Dr Max Mason who resigned last June to become connected with the Rockefeller foundation.

BUT you're not so likely to get cuts, because the tread rubber of a Kelly-Springfield is about the toughest thing in the world.

Don't get the idea from this that Kelly quality is plastered on the outside after the tire is completed. It's built in, from the inside out. That's how Kelly-Springfield got its reputation. It's this extra Kelly quality that keeps a Kelly going after other tires have quit. It's the difference between a champion and a near-champion.

When it costs no more to buy the best, why not ride on Kellys? We can make you an attractive trade-in proposition on your old tires.

LINDSEY THEATRE SECTION

VOL. 3, NO. 33 — LUBBOCK, TEXAS SUNDAY, APRIL 28, 1929 — (AP) MEANS "BY ASSOCIATED PRESS"

New Lindsey Theatre To Be Opened To Public Today

Hidden Symphony Orchestras Supply Music For 'Talkies' At Lindsey Here

Lubbock's New Home of Synchronized Films Is Steeped In Beauty; Spanish Motif Is Used by Architects And Artists In Turning Out Model of Present Day Layouts

Every Detail Worked Into Blend of Picture Palace Perfection; Whole Screen Is Always Visible

IT IS true that there are theaters larger than the new Lindsey and there are several more garishly decorated, but nowhere in the whole of the southwest section of the United States is there one to be found, of any size, that is more pleasing to the eye. The new Lindsey will be opened to the public today.

There's a tone of enriched beauty pervading it. Many odd combinations of colors, done in unique manner after the antique Spanish motif followed throughout are to be seen. Yet, the accumulative effect is never that of glaring loudness of colors, as obtains in so many theaters. Rather, is it similar in effect to a restful setting of western skies immediately following sunset, when reflected rays of the sun are softened and harmonized with lily-white and lolling clouds.

Lobby Is Attractive.

Entering the lobby, it is to walk upon tiled floors and to look upon tiled wainscoting, the outer lobby done in the San Jose style of panelling, while the inner lobby is panelled in red gum, finished in Circassian walnut, giving an antique wood effect.

The soft carpets are every one designed to harmonize with the interior and are made of quarter-inch thickness, laid upon half-in-thick onite padding. The effect is velvety.

Interior of the theater has been shaped scientifically for the audition of "Sound" and Talky" moving pictures. Suggestion is prevailing that persons are pigmies walking into the sound box of some giant musical reproducing machine.

Balcony Is Missing.

There is no balcony, remodeling accomplishing this feat of making a stadium out of the Lindsey. Yet there are between 900 and 950 air-cushioned opera chairs, every one of which gives an unobstructed view of the screen, even the ones next to the operator's booth at the extreme top. No columns or posts in the way. The party sitting directly in the seat ahead, unless he or she be a giant, can not hide the screen from anyone else.

Antique woodwork, that looks like worm-eaten wood, is seen, walls are stucco and stone, giving an effect of having been mellowed with age. These have been hand-troweled.

Pompeiian red dominates colorings of draperies, matching the reds of parts of panellings and bannister effects. Decorations everywhere harmonize with everything, and everything with the decorations.

Light Fixtures Beautiful.

Light fixtures, designed for this particular job, as everything else has been, represent wrought iron antique lights of centuries gone by. These were also done by the King Scenic Theater Supply, of Dallas, who are credited with doing the famous Bagdad Night club, at Dallas, a marvel of decorative art.

As restful as myriad colors of the theater blend, a change of lights smoothly direct attention to the screen. Curtains fold aside, music starts as the screen catches the reflected play being presented and one settles from mental awe of the beauty unfolded, to an interest in the picture program.

Large Sum Of Money Is Invested In New Lindsey Theater Opening Today

CONSIDERING the value of its building and land, with the cost of remodelling, redecorating, new seats and equipment, the new Lindsey theatre represents a total valuation of somewhere between $150,000 and $200,000.

Cost of the remodelling job is in excess of $50,000.

Projection machines and reproducing equipment cost $12,500 or more. The seats cost $8,000, cooling system $4,000, pipe organ $4,000.

Temperature Same "Year In And Out"

Despite Weather On Street Lindsey Will Remain At 72 Degrees; Expense Not Held Down by Builder.

The Lindsey's cooling system, costing approximately $4,000 is like other features of this new theater, the latest and best obtainable.

This cooling plant proper is located on top of the building, over the stage. Numerous sprays of water is refrigerated. Giant suction specially constructed tower. This wtaer is refrigerated. Giant suction fans, located several feet from the cooling tower, draws the washed air from near the tower and directs it into the theater.

Temperature Is Even.

The result is that a temperature of 72 degrees is maintained at all times in the theater. This temperature is the coldest at which it is healthful to maintain.

Automatic controls regulate the temperature at all times and by the time the "washed" air reaches the interior of the theater, it is perfectly dry. The system is the identical type used in the Palace theater at Dallas.

FARM MARKETING

This Will be Topic of Washington Talk

WASHINGTON, April 27. — The extent to which the development and growth of cooperative marketing in this country depends upon federal and state aid will be one of the important questions discussed at the round-table conference on agricultural marketing to be held in connection with the Seventeenth Annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at Washington, April 29 to May 3.

Representatives of cooperative and other forms of marketing in agriculture will take part in the discussion which is expected to develop much information on the relative merits of the different forms of marketing.

Every four years enough newsprint is made for a strip as wide as a newspaper and long enough to reach to the sun and back.

Everything Save Walls Brand New

Sampson Construction Firm Remodels Lindsey; Every Detail Is Given Careful Consideration.

"Everything about the Lindsey is new except the walls," said J. W. Sampson of the Sampson Construction company, contractors for the job, in speaking of the new Lindsey theatre which is to be formally opened today.

With Frank Bennett as general superintendent, the Sampson Construction company completely remodeled the interior of the theatre. The front, the ceiling, elevations, and fixtures are all new.

The Sampson contract was approximately $30,000. The work on the new theatre began about sixty days ago and from ten to twenty workmen were engaged in the remodeling since that time.

A man writes to a newspaper advising President Hoover that the strain of handshaking can be mitigated by seizing the other man's hand first and shaking it cordially, rather than letting him grab yours. The only trouble with that kind of reception is that the visitor is likely to ask for a job.

Don't Be Fooled!

Lindsey Screen Is Not Solid White

If you think you are looking at a solid board of white background, when you gaze upon the Lindsey' theatre's moving picture screen, you are terribly mistaken!

Moving picture screens designed these days for presentation of talking pictures give you an optical illusion, exactly as the illusion of moving pictures is fooling the world. In reality there is no such thing as a moving picture. You are simply watching numerous thousands of "still" photographs, printed on celluloid, flit by in rapid succession at the rate of about 12 pictures to the foot of film and some 1,000 feet of film every 10 or 12 minutes.

You would be surprised to see the screen in daylight and close up. Looks like a mammoth punchboard—there's a million or more holes in it and you can see through every one of them. The screen at the Lindsey is a Daytone porous and lives up to its name.

Because of a solid body making it difficult for "sound" to penetrate, this type of screen has been evolved.

PLANE IN INDIA

British Fliers Seek New Distance Mark

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—The royal air force airplane, seeking to break long distance flight records in a flight from England to Calcutta, landed at Karachi, India, at 1:15 p. m., British summer time, it was announced here this afternoon by the air ministry.

The distance flown from England was about 4,131 miles and the time elapsed 59 hours and 48 minutes.

BOOTLEGGER FREED

Ransom of $12,000 Paid To Aductors

DETROIT, April 27 (AP)—Fred Begeman, suburban Wyandotte bootlegger, was at liberty today after his family paid $12,000 for his release from kidnapers who had been holding him nearly a week.

Detroit police meanwhile were facing two other posible kidnaping mysteries in the disappearance of four other persons the last two days.

Musicians Aid In Lending Moods To Film Productions

Average Feature Calls For 150 to 400 Musical Cues And Orchestras Keep In Constant Readiness

ONE OF the parodoxical features of moving pictures that possess both the faculties of seeing and hearing, talkies and sound is that of the invisibility of the big symphony orchestra employed in producing musical synchronization to Vitaphone, Movietone and other screen productions to be offered at the new Lindsey theater, opening today.

For Vitaphone productions, the Vitaphone Symphony, under direction of Louis Silver, is responsible for the wonderful musical scores to be heard. For the Metro specials, the big 100-piece symphony of the Capitol theater, New York City, provides setting of sound, and for the Fox Movietone productions, the largest theater in the world, the Roxy, at New York City, with 110 musicians, will be heard.

Orchestras Greatest Ever.

This fact of te indivisibility of the big orchestras, greatest theater orchestras in the world, and the greatest the world has ever seen, provides about the sole excuse for complaint against the modern talkies. Yet, if they were visible, as the flickerplay flits before the audience, unless the hearers were experienced, as musicians, in synchronizing music to picture plays, they would be at a disadvantage in solving the mysteries of how the music is made to fit the pictures.

Music has been declared to be the expression of emotion by harmonic sounds. Knowing this, modern orchestra conductors, since the advent of the moving pictures, have been taxed to procure appropriate music for all the various phases of emotions that are portrayed upon the silver sheet.

Scenes Interpreted.

In any one large movie production where "Sound" is offered, one might be listening to music that is characteristic of a dozen different nations, yet that music will enhance the emotional appeal of the play, as it progresses, scene by scene. It is the ever-changing episodic scenes that the expert conductor interprets for us with his selection of music to fit. Perhaps the scene lasts for only half a minute, or, say 10 seconds. It might be the sudden opening of a door, behind which is to be found tragedy, stark and startling. In such a scene one may hear a thunderous rumbling roll on the tympani, or the shrill shriek of trumpets.

During the course of an average feature picture, the orchestra sometimes is compelled to play anywhere from 150 to 400 different "cues," or varying phases of emotionally-set music. Still, the even flow of the music must continue, and it must be timed to a split-second, often times in order to thoroughly fit what is happening before you.

Love Scenes Are Frequent

Love Scenes, or love themes, are easily discerned. Like Griffith used in the musical setting to "The Two Orphans," the tragic love of the two sisters was expressed with strains from an old and ever popular opera, the feeling of unrequited, sorrowing sister-love, being told with tear-bringing strains of the song.

Who does not recognize the jabberish tingle of the few strains used in Griffith's "Way Down East," as the theme for every appearance of the gossiping old spinster of that classic? It will be heard many times. There is no other tune or melody or phrase as expressive.

HALT RUM CARAVAN

Large Quantity of Booze Is Confiscated

DALLAS, April 27 (AP).—A caravan of rum entering Dallas was captured by officers here today.

Acting on a tip, the sheriff's department sent men to a filling station on the edge of Dallas where five men, four automobiles and 325 gallons of plain moonshine and fancy liquors were taken.

The five men implicated eight others who were arrested. Charges were to be filed against the 13 men.

Sir Robert Hatfield of England estimated that the world loses more than $2,500,000,000 yearly through the corrosion of steel.

Porto Rico Prohibits Imports From U. S.

GALVESTON, April 26 (AP)—Porto Rico has prohibited effective April 20, the importation of fresh fruit, vegetables, plants and seeds from a number of American states, according to radio advices received here today by Richard C. Long, manager of the Galveston office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

States coming under the ban include Texas, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, California, Arizona and Georgia.

Big Business Invades Ranch Business As Old Type Cowman Fades From View

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

SHADES of the old days when a cow puncher was a he-man of boots and spurs and a wide sombrero. Ranching "ain't what it used to be," for the day of the open range is gone; te day of the fild coyote; of the long, long trail to market; of the stampede and round-up; of a yearly trip to town, and the months of dining on salt pork and beans from the old chuck wagon—not to mention "son-of-a-gun."

Ranching is now in a class with chain stores and traveling men. It isn't what it used to be.

There's no more of the peace of the remote camp fire and the nights alone under the stars; for the jitney has replaced the saddle horse, radio and a portable have brought Broadway jazz to replace the old-time fiddler. One may no longer howle at the moon from a distant hill for fear of the neighbor's objections.

Ranching isn't what it used to be.

Trappings Discarded.

One may no longer wear those trappings so dear to the heart of the old-time compuncher — the highly decorated boots, the clanking spurs, the peaked hat and chaps—because they smack too much of the western five-reeler.

These are among the laments of ranchers here—men whose time is absorbed in traveling from one ranch to another in high-powered automobiles as they oversee the work of their various foremen.

Men in plus fours now spend Sundays whacking at rubber balls along the old Yellowhouse canyon, but in days gone-by the chief Sunday sport was to go to the Canyon to watch cowboys pull hundreds of cows out of the bogs.

"The Wide-Open Spaces."

For in those days there was open country far into the Panhandle, except for a boundary fence which marked a line along what is now the southern boundary of the city of Lubbock. During the winter thousands of cattle would drift into the Yellowhouse from points as far as Amarillo and the incessant movement there would churn the canyon floor into a muddy slough in which hundreds of the cattle became mired.

Spring days brought cowboys and their ropes and Sunday sport for those who were seeking amusement.

Ranches are now fenced and a cowboy's duties consist principally in chugging from one windmill to the next to insure water for the cattle or in riding up and down the fences bounding the ranch to keep them in repair.

"The Wandering Boys.

In days gone by there were no fences and cattle drifted for months, guided by water and grass. Cowmen followed with chuck wagon and horses and were often gone for a year at a time, returning to headquarters only once in 12 months.

There was a general get-together every spring when all ranchers combined in separating their herds and branding and in the fall hte cattle were driven to market—to Kansas or Montana or to points along the railroads of Texas.

Today, each man's herd is confined in his separate pasture and the proximity of railroads make it possible for every rancher to have his own loading pens. Cattle are transported from state to state in this fashion.

The long, long trail is a thing of the past for this portion of Texas.

Men Are Different, Too.

Ranchers of this section were interviewed this week concerning the differences between ranches today and yesterday. And the men were different, too.

Traveling men, they are, who put up at the most expensive hotels and dress in the most approved styles, going from ranch to ranch in their expensive machines or traveling from point to point on the train. They seldom or never mount a horse, they seldom wear high-heeled boots and their hats smack of collegiate styles.

Big Business Men.

A few have ranched for years and shed the characteristics of the old timer reluctantly.

"I can tell them, too," one of their number commented. "Their walk tells me of the days they have spent in the saddle; their eyes have a peculiar twinkle; their head the set of one seeing afar. They are different even though their dress may be the same."

The cowboy is of a different type, these men agree. The fellow who is willing to follow a chuck wagon for months at a time and never care for civilization is a man of the past. Today the ranch hand must come to town more often, too puts up at the best hotel and is as sophisticated as his city brothers.

Ranching now is not what it used to be.

HINDU MILL STRIKE

BOMBAY, India, April 27 (AP).—A large scale cotton mill strike was started here today. Employees of 38 out of 84 mills responded to the labor leaders' general strike call and threw down their tools after the general lunch period. A total of $100,000 men was involved.

Petite Dancer To Feature Opening

Little Miss Lucile Walker, 11-year-old daughter of Mrs. Aubrey Walker, will do several specialty dances and songs as a feature of Lindsey theater Sunday.

Known as the "vest pocket edition of Mae Murray," Miss Walker has gained wide-spread fame for her dancing both in Lubbock and various parts of the state. She has appeared on the stage in many of the leading theaters of the state including the Palace at Fort Worth and Dallas.

In her appearance on entertainment circuits and at dances and and other affairs here, this young artist has been given a splendid ovation.

"The Terror," and all talking Vitaphone production, will be the initial screen offering of the new Linsey.

NEGRO IS HANGED

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., April 27 (AP).—Silas Richardson, negro, was hanged at the Hancock county jail here today at 10:20 a. m., for the murder of John Bambino last August.

Projection Room Of Lindsey Seen As Model Layout

Latest Machinery For Both Light and Sound Is Used To Make Programs Better In Local Theatre

The greatest mysteries of the modern moving picture theatre are centered in the operator's booth, from where the beginning and ending of entertainment projection, including both sight and sound, is controlled.

At the new Lindsey will be found the very latest projection and sound reproducing machinery made in America. These machines and producers, occupying a space any modern automobile would fill four times, and cost approximately $12,500.

Two Types of Sound

Two different types of reproduction of sound are controlled by these machines, with attachments. One, the itaphone method, operates by connection with the film as it runs through to the screen, of a large revolving disc. This must be absolutely synchronized with the film itself. Tiny holes let through a pin-like thread of light as the film veels off and this light creates the music and sound from the amplifiers again. The Movietone attachment, inclosed in two boxes no bigger than an alarm clock, represent an outlay of $2,000. And, there are two attachments to each of the two projection machines.

An interesting bit of information regarding the amplifier's loud speaker, as gained from Cliff Lindsey, manager of the Lindsey Enterprises, is the simple invention of one man who received $1,000,000 from the Vitaphone company for his idea of placing a small strip of felt at the bottom of the speaker to cut out metallic sounds and to give naturalness to voices.

A Pioneer In The Cinema Field Here

Cliff Lindsey, General Manager of Lindsey Enterprises, Started in Show Business As A Boy

Almost a score of years ago when the movie industry was in its infancy, little more than an interesting experiment—before "talkies" had ever been conceived even in the minds of the most forward thinking, an usher in the old Lubbock opera house launched an enterprise which was destined to become his life's work.

That usher, Cliff Lindsey, while still in his early teens, worked hard, receiving in remuneration free passes for himself and his girl. Crude though they were, the early type motion pictures were shown in the opera house, an old Lubbock landmark which formerly graced the site where Hemphill-Wells is now located.

Success From Start

Developing an undue interest in motion pictures, young Lindsey opened an airdome on the corner of 13th street and Avenue J, on the site where the Kuykendall Chevrolet company now stands. The open air picture house met with such phenomenal success that it was an easy matter for Cliff Lindsey to persuade his father, the late J. D. Lindsey, pioneer Lubbock county ranchman, that a real picture show business in Lubbock would prove profitable.

It was in 1914 that the original Lindsey theater was opeped to the public. The 2,500 population of Lubbock at that time thought the construction of such a fine and large theater was foolish. "Lubbock will never grow large enough to justify such a moving picture house," Mr. Lindsey was told time and time again. Yet capacity crowds were furnished entertainment in the theater until 1924 when it was found necessary to establish another picture theater.

Palace Opened in 1924

The Palace theater was opened December 14, 1924—the most magnificent theater at that time on the South Plains. But with the abnormal growth of Lubbock year after year, Lubbock's demand for entertainment spurred Cliff Lindsey into launching an even greater development and improvement program.

Then came Vitaphone, an institution which in the past two years has revolutionized the entire motion picture industry. This new form of talking and synchronized pictures was introduced first in the Palace theater. But Mr. Lindsey realized that to most effectively present talking pictures—to bring out the minor tones, sounds and connotations—that it would be necessary to present them in a specially constructed theater, one which was built so that the acoustics would be the most condusive for "talkies."

Has Latest Equipment

The Lindsey theater was completely remodeled at a cost of approximately $55,000. The latest in Vitaphone equipment was installed and it was refurnished throughout.

The formal opening of the Greater Lindsey today marks the supreme achievement in the career of Cliff C. Lindsey, who as manager of the Lindsey Theater Enterprises, will have charge of the new motion picture home. He is associated in this company with his mother, Mrs. J. D. Lindsey.

Actively engaged in the theater busines since 1914, Mr. Lindsey has learned the coveted art of what will please the public. He has been in the theater business here for the past fifteen years with the exception of three years, when the theaters here were leased to Bob Rowley theater enterprises. During that time he acted as manager of two Bonham theaters of which he was part owner.

Lindsey Proud of Theatre Employes

Personnel of Film Houses Here Is Object of Pride On Part of Manager; Has Many Cogs In Wheel.

In speaking of the reasons for the continued growth of the Lindsey theaters in Lubbock, Cliff C. Lindsey, manager of the Lindsey Theater Enterprises, points with pride to the personnel of the institutions—16 employes whose loyal services always has aided in the steady march toward success.

With the opening today of the Greater Lindsey, heralded as the South Plains' finest theater, nine employes will be connected with the new movie house; the personnel of the Lindsey force follows: J. T. Bencit and Bog Cregar, chief projectionists; George B. Mullins, house manager; Mrs. Jewel Casey, cashier; Miss Cuota Hogue, cashier; Miss Pearl Ritchie, secretary; Mrs. Jewel Smith, head usher, and Miss Martha Webber and Mrs. Sue Hood, ushers.

Palace employes include: John Oxford, Leonard Holder, J. W. Lancaster and Eugene Smith, projectionists; Beatrice Berry, cashier; Mrs. Howard Medlock, head usher, and Miss Florence Leslie.

Tech Girls In Physical-Ed Classes Smile At Swirling Sand As They Go For Three Mile Gallops Every Week

Running a mile relay would be a man size job for most people and running the mile three times a week would be bad enough. But running the race on days when the wind is blowing sand at a high gale is unthinkable and yet on last Friday, when many were glad for the seclusion of cars or houses, several Tech coeds were galloping against the strong wind and seemed to be enjoying it.

After finishing the race and resting for a minute the girls took time about trying the high jump and the running broad jump. With them both in encouragement and practice was the physical training instructor Miss Zella Riegel.

They Forget Powder Puffs

According to Miss Riegel, there is little trouble involved in securing the whole hearted interest of the freshman and sophomore students who are required to take the gymnastic exercises. When "attention" is called the girls line up and after roll call forget looks and powder puffs in the zest of muscle play. There are 288 girls enrolled in the gymnasium classes at present and this does not include those who are signed up for the outside work in achery, tennis, and horseback riding.

"I find that there are types of girls in every class who are truly athletic just as we think the boys are," said Miss Riegel, "and who would perhaps overdo themselves if I did not make them rest. The main idea is the development of character, which embraces both the physical and the moral. The girls are put on their own behavior and the instructor said she had found that they pride themselves on their ability to be a sport and play the game.

Baseball Favorite Sport

During the spring term the main exercise has been playing of indoor baseball which has been found to interest the girls more than basketball. In addition there is tennis, archery, and during the summer school term it is planned to teach swimming.

Tech is a member of the Woman's Athletic association, a national organization, and this club sponsors a hike each week-end for which points are given. When a member makes 300 points she is entitled to a pin for an award, and in the past two terms ten girls have earned this award. Several girls will receive letters for points made in athletic prowess. Skating parties are organized and eight or ten girls skate in groups.

Beginning with next week gym classes will begin practicing the dances for the pageant which is to be presented May 19. Included in the dances will be the hobby horse dance, gypsy, fairy, milk-maid, country folks, forester's, sword, and old English dances.

Wide Field For Wellesley Grads

WELLESLEY, Mass., April 27 (AP).—Of the class of 1928 which left Wellesley College last June, 30 per cent have found niches in the world, the personnel bureau reports.

A decided wane in the popularity of teaching, in this group at least, was shown by the fact that only 30 per cent of those employed are teaching.

Duties now being performed by the class of 1928 include social work, library work, secretarial and clerical work, advertising, editorial employment, service as technician and department store work.

FIGHT FRUIT FLY

$4,250,000 Is Allotted to Wage Battle

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The house today passed the Wood resolution to make immediately available $4,250,000 to combat the Mediterranean fruit fly in Florida and sent the measure to the senate.

The amount would be reappropriated from $5,000,000 set aside in 1928 for the establishment of non-cotton zones in Texas.

The resolution was passed by unanimous consent after Representative Wood, of Indiana, acting chairman of the house appropriations committee had presented it.

Hair will stretch one fourth of its length and retract nearly to its original length.

The Tinies thanked the Thunder man, and Scouty said, "Well, if we can, we'll leave right quick. I guess that is the safest thing to do. The clouds are black and look real bad. If we get caught it will be sad. You've surely been real kind to us. We offer thanks to you."

"Oh, that all right, 'cause I'm your friend," the man replied. "You can depend on me to always help you. Anyway, I'll gladly try. I knew a storm was drawing near and for you tots began to fear. There's heaps of rain about to fall and flood this spacious sky."

Just then some lightning flashed in air and gave the Tinymites a scare. Wee Clowny jumped and shouted. "We must find our long lost bird." And then he cried: "Here, Goofygoo! We Tinymites are seeking you." They listened, and not far away a funny noise was heard.

The Thunder Man then said, "Well, I must bid you happy lads good-bye. I know that you will be all right when you once get away. I'll have to get to work once more and make the thunder loudly roar. Believe me, it is work, my lads, and not a lot of play."

He then rowed off upon his cloud amid the waving of the crowd. "Oh, gee," said Coppy, "I would like to have a cloud like that. Just think of rowing through the air. That is a treat that must be rare. 'Tis better, far, than walking on the earth which is so flat."

And then the Goofygoo came near and shouted, "Hello, boys! I'm here!" The Tinymites were tickled and they shouted, "Hip, hurray!" They crawled into their cabin then, and started through the air again. The Goofygoo said, "let it rain, 'cause we are on our way."

HINT AXE MURDER

Believe Detroit Woman Was Slaying Victim

DRESDEN, Ont., April 27 (AP)—Police today investigated the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCorkle of Detroit in belief the woman was the victim of an ax slaying.

The McCorkles arrived last Saturday on a visit to the home of her father, Joseph Snell, who with his family was away for the week-end. Upon the return Monday of Doroth Snell, another daughter, the house was found in disorder with blood-stained women's clothing scattered about. Miss Snell identified the clothing as belonging to Mrs. McCorkle.

Four Pen Terms Are Handed Out; Fifth Man Is Given A Suspended Sentence; Week Given to Civil Suits

LAMESA, April 27 (Special).—Five sentences of two years each, one of which was suspended, were passed out here during the past week in 106th Judicial District court, presided over by Hon. Gordon B. McGuire.

Sentences were passed to George Johnson, colored, on charge of forgery; Murray Sadler, colored, on charge of theft; R. B. Baker, charged with violation of dry laws; and O. G. Kelly, on charge of theft.

Bill Togle was the recipient of the suspended term. He was tried and convicted on a charge of violation of the prohibition laws.

District Clerk Owen C. Taylor announces that the present week will be given over to the trial of civil cases.

Tahoka News

BY MRS. FRANK HILL

FACULTY FOR YEAR ELECTED

At a meeting of the school board Friday afternoon, two additional grade teachers were elected for next year, Mrs. C. C. Williams, wief of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Faye George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton George, were given positions in the Central Ward school.

Mrs. Williams holds a B. A. degree and has had six years' experience as a teacher. Miss George will receive her degree from Texas Technological college at the end of the present term.

Mr. Wilson, grade teacher and coach of boys at Central Ward, was re-elected a few weeks ago but he has declined to accept the position for the ensuing year. With this exception the faculty for next year is now complete.

The entire faculty for next year will consist of twenty-seven teachers, not including music and expression teachers. There will be eleven teachers, including the superintendent and two seventh grade teachers, at the high school building; thirteen teachers at Central Ward; two at South Ward and one for the colored children.

The personnel of the faculty is given as follows:

High School Building—Superintendent, M. L. H. Base; principal, Nat Williams; vocational agriculture, Taylor White; science teacher and coach of athletics, W. W. Nicklaus; commercial and science, John C. Allen; Spanish, Miss Margaret Worthy; history, Mrs. Lenore Tunnell; home economics, Miss Lois Bleifress; English, Miss Irene Armes; 7th grade, Miss Elva Massengale and Miss Imogene Galloway.

Central Ward—Principal, Mrs. Callie Base; intermediate department, Misses Zuella Fox, Jessie Sargent, Faye George and Mrs. C. C. Williams. Successos to Mr. Wilson to be selected. Primary department: Mrs. L. A. Henderson, Mrs. J. W. Nicklaus, Mrs. Buford Swan, Mrs. L. F. Craft, Mrs. John C. Allen, Misses Mattie Will Seroyer and Faye Pitts.

South Ward—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Parsey.

Negro School—Nettie Ransom.

JUDGING TEAM

Six judging teams of the vocational agricultural class of the Tahoka High school together with their teacher, Prof. Taylor White, are at College Station this week participating in the state vocational agriculture judging contests. They left Friday morning in a truck driven by Mr. Brooks. They are expected back Thursday.

The respective teams and the membership of each is given below: Livestock: Boswell Edwards, Arvel Willingham, Frank Willingham. Dairy: Bonnie King, Earl George, Curtis Stevens. Poultry: Brick Barnes, Ovid Richardson, Lester Prater. Shop: Jack Minor, Coughran Ketner, Andrew Cooper. Grain: Kenneth Reid, Void Smith, Ruth Brewer. Entomology: Smith Lawson, Carl Bowlin, Dewey Curry.

MASONIC OFFICIALS

Ben F. Brown, grand high priest, Sterling City, and Thomas M. Bartley, grand secretary, Waco, of the Royal Arch Masons of Texas will be in Tahoka for a meeting of the local lodge on May 10, according to C. C. Connolly and J. K. Applewhite. Mr. Bartley is well known to many Tahoka people, being a former resident of this city.

CENTRAL WARD EXHIBITS

Exhibits of the work being done by the pupils of the Central Ward school will be on display at that building May 2 and 3, according to Mrs. Callie Baze, the principal. Parents and others interested are invited to come and inspect this work. The exhibits shown last year were pronounced very fine by all who saw them. Those who have never seen these exhibits will be surprised at the proficiency and progress they will reveal on the part of many of the students.

NEW SEWER SYSTEM

The new $50,000 sewer system work on which has been under way for past several weeks, is now practically complete; and practically the only work left to be done is tieing the lines onto a number of residences. Workmen have been busy for several days replacing paving work in the business sections that were removed in laying the lines. Approximately nine miles of mains have been laid in the city limits, placing the use of the system to practically every house.

MACHINERY ARRIVES

Machinery and equipment for the Tahoka steam laundry to be operated by Messrs. Craft and Burdette has been arriving the past few days and it is being placed.

Mr. Craft says that completed, this laundry will be capable of doing as good work as can be done anywhere, and they expect to make it a point to do work that will please the most exacting.

DALLAS GOOD WILL TOUR

The Dallas Good Will Tourist party consisting of 125 business and profesional men will be in Tahoka next Monday. The party will arrive over the Santa Fe at 12:05 and will spend 30 minutes here. Tahoka people will be expected to meet them at the train and furnish conveyances for them to come from the station to town. A band will accompany the Good Will party and it will parade the streets and give a brief band concert. There will be an address of welcome by some Tahoka citizen and a response by some member of the Dallas party, and possibly some other short snappy talks. It is hoped that a large number of cars will be at the station to convey the visitors to town and that there will be a great outpouring of Tahoka people in the courthouse lawn to welcome them.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS

A four-days Chautauqua program is to open in Tahoka at 8 o'clock Saturday evening with a play entitled "The Clean-Up." This is a comedy, snappy and full of laughs. Programs on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be given at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock at night.

These programs are to be given by the Associated Chautauquas, and we are assured that every program will be a delightful one. There will be plenty of entertainment all the way through.

MORE NAMES FILED FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Names have been filed with J. S. Weatherford, secretary of the school board, to be printed on the ballot as candidate for trustee for the Tahoka independent school district. The present list includes enight names. The election is to be held Saturday, May 4th. The names now on file are as follows: Judge B. P. Maddox, R. C. Wood, J. B. Applewhite, W. T. Clinton, J. A. Brashear, D. W. Gaignat, and M. L. Handley and Claude Wells.

PERSONALS

W. S. Taylor, R. E. Fleming, D. H. Goodnough and T. S. Williams attended a meeting of the Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion at Lubbock last Thursday night.

E. L. Harvard and Lee King, are opening a new theater at Hobbs, the new oil town over in New Mexico. A new building has just been completed for the show.

Mrs. D. T. Rogers underwent an operation for appendicitis in a Lubbock sanitarium Friday morning. The operation was a very serious one and the patient was suffering considerably the first of this week but it is hoped that her condition would improve.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Craft visited relatives at Blockwell Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Allen of Crosbyton, both of whom were recently elected to positions in the Tahoka schools, were here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Coleman visited relatives in Kent county Saturday. Upon their return home Sunday night, Mrs. Coleman left almost immediately in company with Mr. Coleman's brother from Portales, N. M., to visit here parents in Runnells county.

Messrs. J. T. and Morgan Gist, students in Texas Tech of Lubbock visited in the Barker home this week-end. Mr. Gist who will receive his B. S. degree from the Texas Tech in May, asssisted in the first annual Engineering Show of the college which was held last Saturday.

Sam Jones, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mitchell Jones, of Canyon, came down Saturday to visit in the A. M. Tredway home. Mrs. Jones returned to Canyon Sunday but Mr. Jones will remain here several days. He is a nephew of Mrs. Treadway, who is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Piott, parents of Mrs. A. E. Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. N. Piott, here brother and his wife, and George Wendell, all of Gainesville, were guests in the Park home here last week.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico.—The authorities have issued regulations against fake kidnapings. It became a common thing for residents to represent themselves as carried off by bandits and held for ransom.

Try Second Night Club Queen

Making same plea used by Texas Guinan—that she was only an employe of a night club raided by prohibition forces—Miss Helen Morgan, another Broadway night club queen, was acquitted in a New York federal court on a charge of maintaining a nuisance. Miss Morgan is shown conferring with her attorney, J. Arthur Adler.

ABERNATHY NEWS

C. OF C. BANQUET OFF

The date for the annual C. of C. banquet which was set for May the 3rd has been postponed until a later date. There are a large number of events to be given between now and th end of school and would be impossible to set aside an evening for this.

TRADES DAY FOR ABERNATHY

At a meeting of the Abernathy Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday evening it was voted to inaugurate another series of Abernathy Trades Days. The first one will be held Saturday, March 4th. The Trades day proved very popular last summer and every effort will be made to make them better for this year.

ATTEND COUNTY FEDERATION

Those from Abernathy who will attend a meeting of the Hale County Federation at Hale Center Saturday from Abernathy will be Mrs. K. C. Sterrett who is president, Mrs. J. C. Hurst who is secretary, Mrs. A. M. Medlin who will give response to welcome address and Mrs. L. P Shaw who will give a report of the year's work done by the Abernathy club.

DAIRY ASSOCIATION PUTS ON TRUCK

The Hale County Dairy association have discontinued their local receiving station here. They have adopted a plan of having a truck gather up the cream from the various farms and hauling it direct to Plainview where it is tested. Mr. Patterson of Plainview, who is driving the truck for the Association expects to go to each farm two or three times each week.

CHEESE FACTORY NEARS COMPLETION

The major part of the construction work of the new cheese factory which is being built by F. W. and B. F. Struve has been completed and in about thirty days everything will be ready for work. Work on the insulation of the refrigeration room is expected to start soon and within the next week the arrival of the cheese maker is expected. Abernathy is looking forward with great interest toward this and feel that it will be a great asset to the town and community.

Business Increases On Denver Line As Lubbock People Look On Road As Another Improvement Added to City

New Railway, Longest Yet Constructed Since World War, Adds to Properties As Time Rolls On.

As the first six months of operation draws to a close, the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railroad service is coming to be looked upon by citizens of Lubbock and the South Plains as that of every other new improvement—an accepted, everyday adjunct.

Since the twilight scene of the first passenger train rolling into the Denver depot here last November, appearances in the neighborhood of the station have daily become improved. Two carloads of 14-year-old ash trees have been brought here and placed about the station grounds and on Avenue G south of the depot for a distance of 2,000 feet. Other shrubs have been planted at the depot, consisting of Italian cypress and others.

Large Sum Is Spent

"It will be remembered that the Denver spent $3,500,000 in building and equipping the more than 204 miles of its South Plains lines, from Estelline to Dimmitt and from Lubbock to Silverton. This trackage constitutes the longest construction of rails by any railroad in the United States since before the war," declared R. E. Stroup, local freight and passenger agent, yesterday.

"Construction program of the Denver road, at Lubbock, has not yet been completed, as preparations are now being made to build 12 blocks of industrial trackage from the depot north toward the business center of this city. A franchise was granted the company for this project several weeks ago by the city commission. There will be two tracks laid, one to run from Twentieth street up the alley between Avenues G and H to Thirteenth street, and the other to be from Eighteenth street up the alley between Avenues F and G, and across Thirteenth. These will be single tracks, with privileges of constructing spur tracks at any given point."

Business Is Increasing

Mr. Stroup states that traffic from Lubbock has evidenced a nice increase since the road's service began last November and that business firms of Lubbock are responding to service offered by the line in a very gratifying manner.

The passenger trains run over the line are of solid steel construction throughout, leaving here at 7 p. m. daily arriving at Wichita Falls at 1:30 next morning, Fort Worth at 5:35 the same morning and at Dallas at 8:10 a. m. The passenger arrives in this city at 8:20 a. m., an overnight trip being offered going to Central North Texas points and returning from them.

Stroup, who has been with the Denver road for the past 15 years, only recently came to Lubbock from Memphis. His service with the company has been entirely in station work and that of solicitation. He called attention to the service offered by his road, of merchants from Lubbock, who go to markets on buying expeditions being ofered the privilege of 10-day stopovers at Fort Worth and Dallas and other trade centers, going and coming.

Time Element Is Stressed

With the Denver offering outlet to the east from this section, a freight service daily arrives here between 3 and 5 o'clock each morning, giving both carload and less than carload package merchandise shipments from Fort Worth a second-morning delivery here. On similar shipments from such points as St. Louis, direct connections with this new line offer a delivery of from 3, 4 and 5 morning service.

"Stock movements out of this area to Fort Worth," Stroup continues "are offered a saving o ftime not heretofore enjoyed, because of our direct connections at North Fort Worth with the belt line service to the packing houses. No delay is experienced and within from 30 minutes to an hour after arrival at North Fort Worth, the stock is in the feeding pens."

Officials of the Denver are making extensive preparations for providing storage facilities and other equipment, in order to be ready for handling the big grain shipments out of the Plains area this year, Stroup declares, "so there will be no delay on movements and all shippers will be amply served. Our purpose here is to give service with a smile, in every meaning that expresion can convey."

Former Waco Realty Man Moves To City

J. B. McCauley, former real estate man of Waco, has moved to this city where he will establish a realty office. Mr. McCauley recently purchased a 1,920 acre tract of land two and one miles due north of Tech college, the consideration being $115,000.

Mr. McCauley is now located at 2103 Ninth street. His family is here with him.

HOLD STUNT FLIER

Brooks Planes Chase Down Aviator

SAN ANTONIO, April 27 (AP).—Chased back to Brooks field by half a dozen army airplanes ordered out to bring him down after numerous complaints of low stunting over a residential district, had reached the flying field, Private F. Fletz, 62nd service squadron, Brooks field, was ordered arrested by Major S. W. Fitzgerald, commander of the flying field.

Major Fitzgerald said Fletz had taken the plane without authority and that courmartial charges would be filed against him. He does not hold a pilot's rating in the air corps and authorities were unaware of his propensities until reports of his acrobatic stunts had resulted in his being run back to earth at the flying field. Fletz landed the ship undamaged.

Masquerader Is Sentenced To Pen

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—Mrs. Irma Valerie Arkell-Smith, London's woman masquerader who for many months passed as a "man about town" under the name of "Colonel Barker" was sentenced to nine months imprisonment at Old Bailey today on a charge of perjury in causing a false statement to be entered on the register of her marriage with another woman.

The woman had pleaded guilty to this charge, but not guilty to a second charge of perjury in falsely representing herself as a retired colonel in the British army.

NEW SALUTATION

BUDAPEST.—Patriotic Hungarians are trying to establish "Let us hope for a better future." in place of "Good morning," as a greeting. A person thus saluted would reply, "May God hear your voice."

Veteran Cemetery Sexton Likes Work

J. H. Levey, For Twelve Years Keeper of Graves, Hopes to Hold His Post for Next Twelve Years

FOR TWELVE years, J. H. Levy, 1708 Avenue D, has been the sexton at the Lubbock cemetery.

For twelve years he has been a spectator to the city's mourning and grief, has witnessed the passing of many of the old pioneers and builders of the town and section.

Should he have his way, Mr. Levy intends to continue for the next twelve years in his position and on and on until he himself is called to lay aside his earthly tasks for the pleasant slumbers of death.

He Likes His Work.

"I like my work," he says with a curious little gleam in his eyes. "If I didn't I wouldn't be doing it. I like to care for the trees, shrubs and flowers around the grounds and see that the graves are kept in order."

In September, 1916, Mr. Levy took over the task as caretaker for the cemetery. Then Lubbock was only a little clump of houses on these wind-swept prairies and the cemetery consisted only of a small ten-acre plot. Today it comprises forty-four acres while the clump of houses to the northwest has grown so that it is now called a city.

During this time, he has witnessed many funerals and burials, numbers of which took away leading citizens of Lubbock and surrounding territory. Interest in funerals is waning, he believes, as only with the passing of a prominent old-timer or some outstanding civic, religious or business figure is a funeral attended by crowds such as in the earlier days when the entire town turned out to pay respect to those gone on.

Cemetery Has 1,500 Graves

The Lubbock cemetery holds approximatly 1,500 graves, Mr. Levy estimates, many of them which are unidentified. In these unidentified graves, there perhaps may be found material for strange tales of the past, many of them which will forever remain untold. Numerous visitors search through the old graves of the cemetery, seeking possible evidence of lost relatives and friends, he says, only a few of them having been identified.

The graves range in beauty and expenditure, the most expensive being a $12,000 mausoleum.

Oldest Grave In Doubt.

As far as he can learn, the first grave was dug in the cemetery some 35 or 40 years ago. It may be found in the old cemetery only by location, the marking having been long since gone. The grave is that of a cowboy who rode into Lubbock during a blizzard in his shirtsleeves, contracting pneumonia in the old Nicolette Hotel and dying a few days later.

The old cowboy's lament, "Don't bury me out on the lone prairie" held true in the early days of the cemetery and the wolves and coyotes did howl around. Badgers and other animals were a worry to Mr. Levy, he says, but they have long since given way to the onward march of civilization.

Has One Assistant.

During the last three years, Mr. Levy has been aided in his work by an assistant. He tells the story of having employed a negro to work with him, however impossible it may seem, this negro worked without apparent fear and void of the usual superstitions of his race. Aiding in the removel of a corpse from one of the graves one day, Mr. Levy inquired of the black, after the box had been reached by digging and they were ready to lift it out of the grave:

"Lewis, now suppose he grunts or speaks?"

"Just be my time to leave, that's all, suh," Lewis spoke up unhesitatingly.

Through the efforts of the Lubbock Cemetery association, much work and improvement has been made in the grounds this spring with planned for the future. More than a hundred trees besides numerous shrubs have been planted at various sections of the cemetery.
