Other hospital attaches said Miss Wray was here for "observation" but Dr. Wilson said, although he was not her attending physician, he did not know of her receiving any treatment.

Trembling Girl Tells Story Of Mother's Death

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 — A little girl, trembling and weeping, testified against her father today at his trial on a charge of murdering her mother.

The principals in the case were James K. Matter, 43, an industrial engineer accused of slaying his wife, Marguerite, with an army rifle in their home in suburban Brookfield last Oct. 1; and his daughter, Martha Jean, a chubby, flaxen haired child of ten.

Tells Of Quarrel

The youngster, who promised to tell the truth because "if you tell a lie, you won't go to heaven," told the criminal court jury her parents had quarreled in a bedroom nearby while she was in her bed.

"What did you hear your mother say?" asked Prosecutor John P. Boyle.

Martha Jean, so agitated a recess was called so she could regain her composure, returned to the stand with red eyes. She replied:

"Please don't shoot me, Jim. But she might have said 'shout'."

Found Mother's Body

The girl related she went into her parents bedroom and found her mother's body sprawled on one of the twin beds. Her father, she added, was standing between the beds.

"Did your father say anything?" queried Boyle.

"Yes, he said mother shot herself."

The state contended it would have been physically impossible for Mrs. Matter to have shot herself with the long rifle.

Condemned Man Wants To Give His Body To Men Of Medicine

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 14. (AP) — "Mother, if they must have my life why can't they fill me full of some germs of a dread disease and let the smart men of medicine study me until I die?" read a note Mrs. Bertha Craig said was written by her son, James Dalhover, sentenced to die in the Michigan City state prison on electric chair early Friday.

Mrs. Craig was enroute to her Madison home today after a visit at Milan, Mich., federal prison farm with her son, last of the Al Brady gang. Dalhover was convicted for the slaying of Indiana State Policeman Paul V. Minneman near Logansport in May, 1937, after a bank robbery.

Teacher Defies Judge; Wears Her Slacks To His Court

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14. (AP) — Helen Hulick, 28-year-old kindergarten teacher, wore her orange and green slacks to court again today, defying a municipal judge's informal ruling.

Judge Arthur Guerin interrupted proceedings with a denunciation of slacks—he called them "pants"—and warned she would be held in contempt if she doesn't appear in a dress tomorrow.

"I'll come back in slacks tomorrow and if he puts me in jail, I hope it will help to free women forever of anti-slackism," she told reporters.

Part Of WPA's Resources May Be Devoted To Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP) — Part of WPA's vast resources may be devoted, officials hinted tonight, to the Roosevelt administration's new program of increasng the nation's armed might.

It was believed that WPA might devote itself to the enlargement of existing military airports and the construction of new ones.

Airports, it was said, formed one subject of discussion at a long conference today on national defense between President Roosevelt and other high officials.

Peace Group Of CIO Summoned By FDR Plea

Profound Consideration Being Promised By Lewis; Definite Course To Be Proposed

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—The Committee for Industrial Organization tonight summoned its peace committee into consultation in the wake of President Roosevelt's renewed plea for peace and unity within labor's ranks.

Seeking an end to the three-year warfare between the C.I.O. and American Federation of Labor, Mr. Roosevelt in a letter called upon the first C.I.O. constitutional convention to leave open "every possible door to access to peace and progress in the affairs of organized labor in the United States."

May Draft Report

C.I.O. Chairman John L. Lewis said the letter would be given "earnest and profound consideration." One high official of the C.I.O. said the peace committee would draft a report for the convention and recommend some definite future course.

The chief executive's message was his second in recent weeks and substantially the same as that sent to the A.F.L. convention in Houston where it was received without demonstration.

"If the great gains already made are to be consolidated, for the benefit of the workers as well as the management," Mr. Roosevelt wrote, "it is essential that there be cooperation among the wage earning groups, and because of this, I venture to express the hope, as I did to the American Federation of Labor, that every possible door to access to peace and progress in the affairs of organized labor in the United States be left open.

Will Lose Influence

"Continued dissension can only lead to loss of influence and prestige to all labor. On the other hand, collective bargaining will be furthered by a united labor movement making for cooperation, and labor peace which will be in the interest of all Americans."

After Lewis read the president's message, the delegates cheered for several minutes.

The C.I.O. peace committee, headed by Phillip Murray, a leader of the steel union drive and vice chairman of the C.I.O., participated in the unsuccessful unity negotiations carried on in Washington with an A. F. of L. committee in November and December last year.

Conferences Collapsed

The conferences collapsed at that time after Lewis and A.F.L. President William Green met face-to-

Shut Eyes Do Not Mean A Nap Declares This Aged Juror

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14. (AP)—Shut eyes don't make a nap, G. B. Curtis convinced a criminal court judge today.

Curtis was a member of a jury which returned a conviction in a larceny case last week. Defense counsel asked for a mistrial, asserting the 84-year-old juror slept through the court's charge.

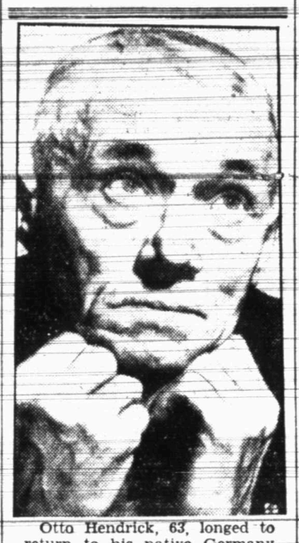

Curtis was brought to the stand today and convinced the judge he had heard everything that was said. The mistrial was denied.

Bachelor, Benedict And Father Record Set During Hearing

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14. (AP)—John E. Laughlin, counsel for the Weirton Steel company in a 15-months-long labor board hearing, smiled broadly as he appeared at today's session. He explained to fellow attorneys he had become the father of a son and added:

"I've been bachelor, benedict and father since this hearing began. I hope it's over before I'm a grandfather."

His Plan Failed

Otto Hendrick, 63, longed to return to his native Germany so that he might die in the fatherland. Out of a job and broke he figured he would be deported if he threw a rock through a jewelry store window and was convicted of a felony. Instead he was charged with malicious mischief and burglary and probably will have to stay in San Francisco after all.

Financial Drive Of Red Cross Opens Today

Lubbock county business men this morning will begin and complete an annual Red Cross membership drive in a brief two hours—they hope.

A coffee and doughnut breakfast will be served at 9 o'clock in the Chimayo room of Hilton hotel, said Marion Sanford, roll call chairman.

Minimum Is $1

Twenty-five captains, 22 of whom Monday night had enlisted three co-workers each, will scatter in the business districts and in other sections, informing Lubbock county persons memberships may be bought for a minimum of $1.

At the same time, Slaton will begin a similar drive under direction of Raymond Lee Jones, secretary-manager of Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

"It is hoped by the campaign to raise Lubbock county membership to the state average, five per cent of the population," said Sanford. That would mean 2,600 members in Lubbock county.

Most Remains Here

"Whatever amount is paid for a membership, all but 50 cents of each membership will remain in Lubbock to be disposed for local relief purposes, exclusively. The 50 cents will go to the national organization to be used for relief purposes, such as that expended after the Draw and Okay communities were hit in the spring by a terrific hurricane."

Captains who had been delegated to join in the drive up to Monday night were T. B. Duggan, Jimmie Wilson, Lonnie Langston, Wayne Henly, T. A. Atkinson, Ray Farmer, Amos Howard, Riley Hule, C. C. Jones, Jeff Watson, Fred Childers, Gardie Bownds, Dr. J. W. Rollo, R. F. Bayless, Bill Collins, B. Brammer, Garland Newsom, R. Bush Smith, Wyatt C. Hester, Leonard Ernest and Earl M. McClure.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Potts of 1622 Fifteenth street, on birth of a daughter weighing 6½ pounds at 10:16 o'clock Monday morning at the parents' residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Altman of route 2 Lubbock on birth of an 8½ pound son at 1:07 o'clock Monday afternoon at the residence. The infant was named David Eugene.

Benefit Plans Are Announced For Employes

Economic Security Of Weekly Incomes Will Be Given To: Men By General Motors

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Nov. 14—General Motors Corp. announced today two benefit plans, effective in 1939, intended to give approximately 150,000 hourly wage employes within the United States the economic security of assured weekly incomes.

Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of the corporation, said a similar plan applicable to 37,000 salaried employes would be announced soon.

Draw 60 Per Cent

Hourly wage workers with five years or more of service will be eligible for the "General Motors income security plan," under which the corporation will advance to each employe in periods of curtailed employment an amount sufficient to give him 60 per cent of his standard weekly earnings, including unemployment compensation and pay for any other regular employment. The "standard week" is to be figured at 40 hours.

Hourly wage workers with two or more years of service who are not within the first plan will be eligible for the "General Motors lay-off benefit plan" under which the corporation will advance a sum sufficient to give each worker 40 per cent of his standard weekly earnings, with some restrictions not included in the plan for five-year employes.

Repayment Is Provided

Employes who receive the benefits will repay the corporation by work performed when production increases. Repayment can be made in no other manner, Sloan explained.

The plans will be applicable only to employes of the corporation and wholly owned subsidiaries within the United States. To be eligible for the income security plan, an employe must be in the employ of the corporation during December, 1938. Employes who work any time after December 1, 1938, will be eligible for participation in the lay-off benefit plan.

Explaining the "income security plan," for five-year employes, Sloan said it would enable every eligible employe to "make his personal arrangements for a full year ahead," and added:

Provisions Are Listed

"The weekly guaranteed income will consist of (a) pay for the amount of work performed for the corporation; (b) pay for any other regular employment; (c) unemployment compensation; (d) an advance to be made by the corporation to insure a minimum weekly income of at least 60 per cent of

Man's Identity Thought Found

Authorities here Monday night said they believed they knew the identity of a man found murdered late last week near Little Rock, Ark.

Don Reeder, chief of police, said officers believed the man found beaten to death, apparently with beer bottles, was W. J. Van Hooser who was in Lubbock in the spring.

Talked With Brother

Chief Reeder further said he had communicated with F. U. Van Hooser of Munday in Knox county, a brother of W. J. Van Hooser, and he would come here to see a picture of the murdered man.

In a telephone conversation with Reeder, the Munday man said he would be here by noon today.

Descriptions of the victim corresponded "perfectly" with those of W. J. Van Hooser, the Munday man said.

Had Purchased Tie

On the man found in Arkansas was a tie marked with a Lubbock shop, Walton's Store for Men. The Munday man said he had purchased a tie of similar description for his brother here this spring. He said he purchased it at the store whose trademark was found on the tie on the murdered man.

The car registered by the county tax assessor-collector here fit the description given by an Arkansas filling station attendant of a car in which he had seen a man of a description similar to that of the one killed and a passenger riding soon before the killing. The attendant further said he had seen a

Modern Enoch Arden Claims Past Is Dead; Will Make No Attempt To Return To Wife

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14 — With the statement "the past is dead," Davis Rowland MacDonald, 45, modern "Enoch Arden" who disappeared in 1924 and was declared legally dead in 1935, indicated today he would make no attempt to return to his former wife, now Clara M. Brown, remarried, who collected on three of his insurance policies.

"I am not a fugitive, and I have done nothing for which I can be greatly blamed," MacDonald said. "Federal agents have assured me that I am not wanted in the East.

"My only wish is to get out of this mess so that I can take care of my family. My baby has asthma — perhaps pneumonia—I've got to do something to provide medical treatment."

Dr. H. H. Snook, county medical director at Palmdale, examined the child and said if its condition becomes serious he would order it hospitalized. He said MacDonald's wife, Esther,

Indignation In U. S. Reaches High Peak

Man's Childlike Faith Must Be Destroyed Before Death In Lethal Gas Chamber

(By The Associated Press)

DENVER, Nov. 14—Warden Roy Best of the state prison declared tonight he had a duty to "destroy" 23-year-old Joe Arridy's childlike faith in life before Arridy's execution Friday night for a sex slaying.

"Joe just won't believe anyone could kill him," Warden Best said of the feeble-minded prisoner condemned to die in prison's lethal gas chamber.

"We've got to try to make him realize that he must die. We have tried but up to now Joe just won't believe he must be killed," Best said.

Arridy, described by psychiatrists as having the mind of a child between four and six years old, was convicted with Frank Aguilar, 34, for the axe-slaying of 15-year-old Dorothy Drain in Pueblo.

Aguilar went to his death Aug. 13, 1937, protesting his innocence.

New Deal Attacked At Bank Sessions

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 14—Regaled by orators who blew hot and cold on the Roosevelt administration, old age pensions, taxes and dictators abroad, the nation's bankers tonight swept clean their calendar of preliminary meetings and got ready for tomorrow's opening of the American Bankers association convention.

At two important meetings—the gathering of national bank division executives and the assembly of state bank executive—the monied men heard the New Deal castigated by economists, one of whom, William A. Irwin of New York, pleaded for new national leaders to "untangle the world's greatest financial mess."

Would Ruin Utopia

Irwin, assistant educational director of the American Institute of Banking, roared the charge "the deficiency financing of ours and many other governments would ruin Utopia, itself."

Russell G. Smith of San Francisco, president of the national bank division of the ABA, pleaded for a stronger regulation "of the many and varied lending agencies which the government is now operating in competition with the activities of banks."

Smith specifically urged that government sponsored federal savings and loan associations be brought under the "same kind of iron clad rules and restrictions that now govern banking."

Waste Is Deplored

Dr. Paul F. Cadman, San Francisco economist, deplored "the waste and extravagance which is everywhere evident," and said the nation should not be blinded "to the menace of a false philosophy masquerading under a noble emotion, which proposes a distribution of real wealth by methods which would weaken, if not destroy, both personality and responsibility in the bulk of the beneficiaries."

"The conservers will one day be

Death Penalty May Be Sought For Prominent Physician

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 14. (AP)—Prosecutors said today they might ask the death penalty for Dr. Kent W. Berry, 50, socially prominent physician accused of the torture-kidnaping of Irving Baker, former coast guard officer.

Prosecutor Smith Troy said he was considering invoking Washington's "Lindbergh law" for the first time. It provides death for kidnapers where the victim has been harmed.

Baker, whom Berry accused of attacking the doctor's 27-year-old wife, said he was kidnaped at gun point last August 19, beaten, whipped, tortured with a pair of pliers and threatened with emasculation.

Man Gets Same Punishment That He Gave His Spouse

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 14. (AP)—The court baliff poured a pitcher of ice water down the neck of the defendant. Spectators gasped and their teeth chattered.

The baliff reached for another pitcher, and another quart of cold water cascaded down the shoulders of the man.

Thus was an unusual courtroom sentence carried out today on Gustav Berndt, 44, husky foundry worker.

Berndt stood before Police Judge Oliver Youngs, accused of pouring two pitchers of ice water down the neck of his wife, Charlotte Berndt.

The court decreed identical judgment would fit the case.

Two Cisco Men Blame Whisky For First Crime Venture

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP) — Two men arrested late today in connection with a robbery at Stamford and theft of an automobile at Cisco last night, were taken to Cisco tonight by Chief of Police M. L. Perdue and Constable W. W. Eddleman of that city.

The men, both from Cisco, were quoted by A. C. Howerton, city homicide officer, as blaming whisky for their first venture into crime.

"Mad Sculptor" Is Given Life Prison Term

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Robert Irwin, the "mad sculptor" who killed a mother and beautiful daughter and their apartment boarder on Easter morn, 1937, today accepted—but protesting gibberishly—a life in prison rather than the possibility of death in the electric chair.

The 31-year-old one-time divinity student and erstwhile asylum inmate abruptly was pleaded guilty to second degree murder before completion of a jury to try him on first degree charges.

He Finally Yielded

Irwin himself protested almost incoherently but finally yielded when the judge asked for a forthright plea.

A thin, wasted figure ravaged by disease and weighing about 120 pounds, he shouted at first that he did not consider himself guilty of murder.

"I looked it up in the dictionary," he screamed, "and it said murder was the malicious killing of one person by another. There was nothing malicious in what I did.

Only To Save Money

"I am pleading against my better judgment and only to save money," he said.

Irwin's victims were Veronica Gedeon, pretty young photographers' model; her mother, and Frank Byrnes, all slain in the early morning in a rage of twisted jealousy over Irwin's thwarted suit to win the affections of Veronica's sister, who married another.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey said he would recommend a sentence of 90 years to life for each of the three murders and that they should be served consecutively.

Reward For The Abductor Of Canyon Co-Ed Is Offered

CANYON, Nov. 14. (AP)—A reward of $150 was posted here tonight for the arrest and conviction of the man who abducted a West Texas State Teachers college co-ed Saturday night.

Sheriff Bob Barnett, Randall county and the city of Canyon offered the reward as Thelma Claunch, student from Santa Rosa, N. M., recovered in a Canyon hospital from shock and bruises incurred in her escape.

Miss Claunch told officers she was forced into a car at her boarding house, taken several miles from town, and that she evaded her abductor and hid in a field, later fleeing to a farm home.

Laten Stanberry Resigns Post; Position May Be Abandoned

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP) — Laten Stanberry, head of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission, resigned today effective December 1.

Man Pleads Guilty To Charge In Arkansas Bank Robbery

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 14. (AP) —Federal Judge Heartsill Ragon indicated today he would pass sentence Saturday on Jack Winn.

Isolation Said Facing Nazis

Senator King Proposes That All Diplomatic Relations With Germany Be Broken

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—A cabinet officer, a former president and a senator warned Germany tonight that she was inviting isolation from the rest of the world by abusing Jewish citizens.

Speaking "as a Christian and as a human being," Secretary of the Interior Ickes declared on a nation-wide radio symposium that "no nation can live unto itself alone. The time comes when neither man nor nation can live without the decent respect of their fellow men."

Would Sever Relations

Another on the program of six speakers, Senator William H. King (D-Utah) proposed that the United States and other nations sever diplomatic relations with Germany if its anti-Semitic policy is pursued.

Former President Herbert Hoover declared nazi leaders were "bringing to Germany moral isolation from the entire world."

Alfred M. Landon, former governor of Kansas and 1936 Republican nominee for president, added, a warning that "there is a real danger of the growth of intolerance here in America."

Makes No Distinction

"I say to you," he continued, "that unchecked mass brutality is contagious and a blood-and-thunder age makes no distinction in its victims and in the end disrupts all society."

Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal church and Robert I. Gannon, president of Fordham university, added their voices to the rising chorus of indignation against outbursts in Germany.

Protests also were heard from numerous other sources. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt pleaded for racial tolerance in a lecture at Cincinnati. Speakers at a communist rally which overflowed Madison Square Garden here condemned Germany's anti-Semitic campaign.

Telegram Of Indignation

Approximately 700 actors and producers and 2,000 theatre-goers in New York signed a telegram of indignation to President Roosevelt. The International Labor Defense instructed its membership, which it claimed totaled 300,000, to create a united front to demand an official government protest against "gruesome outbursts of barbarism."

The North American Hungarian Democratic federation, claiming 150,000 Hungarian-American members, immediately endorsed Senator King's suggestion in a telegram to President Roosevelt saying, "we believe it is timely to break off diplomatic and trade relations with the reich immediately, in the name of humanity and decency." The Rev. Imre Kovacs, president, signed the message.

Senator King said, "the treatment of the nazi government of Jews in Austria and in Germany can scarcely be paralleled for brutality and fiendishness in the darkest periods of world's history."

Calling on the nations of the world to protest, he said, "they are warranted in advising the nazi government that the continuance of its persecution of the Jews would

Man Charged After Marriage To Child

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark., Nov. 14. (AP)—Frank Harris, 33, WPA laborer, was jailed here today on charges of contributory delinquency and violating the state marriage laws by his marriage seven months ago to Pauline Beavers, who officers said was then 12 years old.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Park said Harris admitted misrepresenting the girl's age but added "her folks were willing."

Harris was arrested Sunday at his home where Park said the child-bride was found playing on a see-saw with her smaller half-sister.

The husband will be arraigned Wednesday before Justice of the Peace C. W. Morgan. He told officers he had been married previously, obtained a divorce and married Pauline last April 21 at the home of her mother, Mrs. Tom Beavers.

One College Girl Buys Pipe Just For Fun And Now The Craze Has Become Serious

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14. (AP)—One Newcomb college girl bought a pipe in a drug store "just for fun" and now it's serious.

Jane Irwin of Mount Pleasant, Tenn., bought the pipe and some tobacco, took them back to her room, and had a tryout. Soon the pipe passed from hand to hand.

In no time the drugstore sold out to the college girls its entire supply of tobacco and pipes, round, square, straight and droopy.

It was estimated today that every girl on the second floor of the Josephine Louise House had her own pipe. Some of the sorority rooms were borrowing pipes for tryouts.

After some nearly disastrous results the girls decided not to inhale.

Chamberlain Declares That Britons Have Great Sympathy For German Jews

Strong Protest Being Lodged

LONDON, Nov. 14. (AP) — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Britons had "deep sympathy" for the Jews in Germany, and disclosed the government had lodged a strong protest against nazi press attacks on certain British political leaders.

Under a barrage of questions from a house made angry by Germany's treatment of the Jews, Chamberlain failed to indicate what effect, if any, Germany's new campaign against the Jews would have on his efforts to get a lasting friendship pact with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

Gives Cautious Replies

The prime minister gave either cautious replies or no answer to questions about his ideas for a colonial settlement with Germany.

One unanswered query was whether he did not think "recent happenings in Germany have proved abundantly that Germany is not fit to undertake the welfare of native populations."

The protest disclosed by Chamberlain was directed against an article in Der Angriff, official nazi party newspaper, last Friday stating "it is no coincidence" that the young Polish Jew who killed Ernst Vom Rath, German legation official in Paris, "took the same line" as Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden, and Alfred Duff Cooper.

All Outspoken Critics

All three have been outspoken critics of Chamberlain's policy of "dealing with dictators."

Chamberlain said no one in Britain would attempt to defend the killing of Vom Rath, "but there will be deep and widespread sympathy here for those who are being made to suffer so severely for it."

Asked whether the German government would be advised of the "deep feeling of horror" aroused in Britain by the anti-Semitic campaign, Chamberlain said "I think there are many means by which that is being made known. I do not think there is any doubt about it."

Take No Action

On the question of return of mandated colonies taken from Germany after the war, which Hitler has demanded, Chamberlain declared the government would not commit itself "in connection with this particular problem without giving full opportunity for discussion in the house."

Belief that Chamberlain was actively pursuing a colonial settlement was increased by the London visit of Oswald Pirow, representing the government of the Union of South Africa, who is to go to Germany Wednesday to discuss the issue.

Chamberlain took a further step toward restoring friendship with Premier Benito Mussolini, by announcing the Anglo-Italian friendship pact, dormant since its signing last April 16, would be made effective Wednesday.

Take Calotabs to Help Nature Throw off Colds

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of any virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which may be needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical: only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

Airline Meet Held Monday

Suggestions designed mutually to benefit Braniff airlines and cities lying between Denver and San Antonio termini of a proposed new air route were made Monday afternoon when R. J. Smith of Dallas, vice president of the airline, met an inter-city aviation committee in Lubbock.

Smith told representatives from Lubbock, Big Spring, Amarillo and San Antonio their cities would receive immeasurable benefit from such a line leading through them and that their representatives through various agencies should perfect briefs already turned in, make a general brief, exert pressure on the civil aeronautics authority citing the need of transportation via air to and from their cities and linking with greater cities, and should seek to have the line, if established, granted the right to carry government mail.

Strategic Importance

He said the proposed line would interlink Denver, where the government is constructing a government technical school, and San Antonio, where the air service maintains flying schools, and thus would have strategic importance, not to mention an inestimable value to a "virgin territory" not served on many legs by regularly-scheduled airplanes.

The meeting was at Hilton hotel and was presided over by J. H. Greene, chairman, of Big Spring. Others attending were Dick Martin, Tom W. Cotten and Vernon Gunn, all of Amarillo; Nat Shick of Big Spring; Howell Jones and Fred Harmon, both of San Antonio; Cong. George Mahon, A. F. Holt, R. F. Hinchey, Amos Howard, W. T. Strange and members of the chamber of commerce, all of Lubbock.

Changes Are Made

Smith said his company had filed an intention to apply for the Denver to San Antonio line, further that one application had been presented but that it would have to be amended since there had come about changes due to inception of the civil aeronautics authority.

Once granted, said Smith, who flew here for the meeting, Braniff would be ready to begin serving the great route at once. Sufficient personnel and equipment, he said, is available.

Since the postoffice department has $3,500,000 in its budget for operation of new airline extensions, the proposed Denver to San Antonio line might be able to carry mail, if requests were sufficient, Smith suggested.

Another meeting of the inter-city aviation group will be Dec. 5 at San Angelo, where a general brief will be drawn and representatives named to appear before the civil aeronautics authority in Washington.

Case Of Lady Who Sat On The Water Meter Is Solved For All Parties On Monday

The strange case of the lady who sat on the water meter was settled to the satisfaction of everyone concerned Monday afternoon.

When an employe of the city water department called at her home Saturday to shut off the meter because the bill was not paid, she seated herself on the meter box with the announced determination to remain as long as was necessary. Her husband, she explained, was out of town with the family pocketbook, but would return Monday and pay the bill.

He appeared as promised Monday afternoon, the bill was paid and everyone was happy.

Eleven of the 13 permits were for residences, ranging in price from $800 to $7,000.

Burglary Count Is Filed Here

Robert McEachern and Tommie Wynn Monday were charged by complaint filed with Walter Davies, justice of peace, with burglary of a residence occupied and controlled by W. E. Allen.

The two suspects, along with two others who remained in the county jail, were arrested over the week-end by Lubbock and Lamb county authorities.

Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney, prepared the complaint naming the two men and it was sworn to by Sheriff Tom Abel.

Property Transferred

The complaint against the two men was filed after South Plains and eastern New Mexico peace officers spent the weekend working on a recent series of burglaries in seven West Texas and two New Mexico counties.

Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, and a Hockley county deputy sheriff, Monday transferred a load of property believed stolen, from New Mexico.

Members of the sheriff department, Lubbock police, and Sheriff Bill Parker of Lynn county nabbed two of the suspects here Saturday. They said they found in rooms at a tourist camp, and in a filling station-store, much property since identified as having been stolen.

Getting further information, Parker and Harrist drove to Hobbs and began patroling the streets in company with a Hobbs official. They arrested two suspects there.

The four suspects were questioned Monday night by the district attorney's office and investigations will be continued today.

The public was invited to inspect a large quantity of property at the sheriff's office and to identify what belongs to whom.

Persons from as far away as Childress may come here to look at the recovered goods, the sheriff said.

"We've got everything from radios and guns to handkerchiefs and sheer underwear."

Beware The Cough
From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements found in many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and most important of all, Beechwood Creosote nicely blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside.

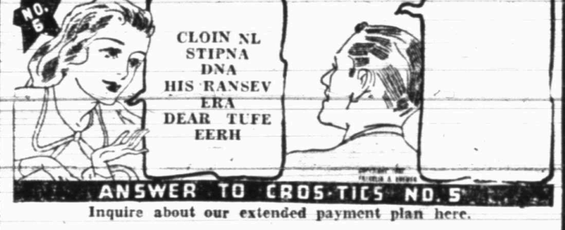

Thousands of people who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membranes, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion "tops" for coughs because in it you get a good dose of Creosote emulsified so that it is palatable, and may be taken frequently by both adults and children with remarkable results.

Creomulsion is generally found satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritation, especially those stubborn ones due to common colds that hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Don't worry through another sleepless night—use Creomulsion. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained.

Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product, and the relief you want. (Adv.)

YOUR BUSY LIFE LETS DOWN THE BARS TO NERVE STRAIN

BOSTON TERRIER—A cross between the English bulldog and white English terrier, but this gentle, lovable house pet is strictly an American product. First bred in Boston some 60 years ago. Once called the "Roundhead," today he is the "American Gentleman" of dogdom. The phrase "Boston terrier expression" has become almost a synonym for intelligence in dogs.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST... AND SO IS HE

A LINOTYPE OPERATOR sets type on a complicated machine. In this trying work, more and more men are learning to ease nerve strain by letting up—lighting up a Camel.

ARE these busy, trying days for you? Do you find yourself, at day's end, irritable, nerve-weary? Take a moment—study the dog above. He's resting his nerves. Even in the midst of strenuous action he will stop, relax. The dog does that instinctively, though his nerves are complex, high-keyed like our own.

We, trained for the intense stress of modern life, are likely to ignore the distress signals of our nerves—the instinctive urge to rest. So often, we let our will-power drive us on at a task, heedless of nerve tension.

You don't want your nervous system to be a drag. See what a difference it makes when you rest your nerves frequently—when you LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL. Enjoy the mellow goodness, the matchless mildness of Camel's rich, ripe tobaccos. Smokers say Camel's costlier tobaccos are so soothing to the nerves.

They break Nerve Tension—Millions do—They "Let up—Light up a Camel"

Smoke 6 packs of Camels and find out why they are the LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

A QUARTER-MILLION miles of flying are behind Miss Lolly Sisson (left), air hostess on TWA's "Sky Chief." She says: "Caring for passengers on long flights is a real strain on the nerves, but I keep away nerve tension by pausing when I can. I let up and light up a Camel."

DID YOU KNOW:
—that if a roll of cigarette paper were not cut as it runs through the machine, it would make a cigarette a mile long? That modern cigarette machines turn out 800 to 1000 finished cigarettes per minute? That the output of every machine is continuously under inspection and test to make sure each and every Camel is perfect? Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

ONE MAN'S PHILOSOPHY

ELSA MAXWELL, who is breaking audience records wherever she appears, gave her philosophy of life to Houston women who heard her last Friday. She said it was contained in three rules her father gave her when she was 10, namely, don't ask favors, don't collect inanimate things (or they'll collect you), and always take light things seriously and serious things lightly.

FRUIT CAKE RECIPES

This morning we are presenting two fruit cake recipes for those who haven't baked their Christmas delicacies. They are tested and are coming to us through the courtesy of Miss Clara Pratt, Lubbock county home demonstration agent. We have checked and double checked them in order to make sure nothing has been omitted.

Famous old fruit cake: One lb. grapefruit peel, 1 lb. pecans, 1 lb. candied pineapple, 1 lb. candied cherries, 3 lbs. raisins, 1½ lbs. figs or currants, ½ lb. butter, ½ lb. brown sugar, ½ cup fruit juice, 6 eggs, 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 tablespoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon allspice, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cut fruit peel and pineapple in ⅜ inch cubes, leave cherries and nuts whole. Cream butter, add sugar and egg yolks. Mix flour and spices. Add flour and fruit juice alternately. Add fruit and nuts and mix thoroughly. Add beaten egg whites, pour in baking pans which have been lined with oiled butter paper.

If you're planning to use a pressure cooker here's how: Cover top of pans with heavy brown paper which has been oiled, tie paper securely around edge of pans to prevent water getting into the cake. Put pans in pressure cooker and pour boiling water halfway up on the pans. Put top on cooker but do not fasten the clamps. Keep at boiling point for 55 minutes, then clamp lid on and raise pressure to 15 lbs. for 15 minutes. Remove, take covers off and place pans in slow oven for 15 minutes. This will make 11 pounds of cake.

To make a white fruit cake cream together one cup butter and one cup sugar until like whipped cream. Sift together 2 cups of sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder. Cut in suitable pieces and mix together 2 cups almonds, ¾ cups each of citron, candied lemon and orange peel, ¾ cup candied cherries cut in rings. One-half cup each dates, dried apricots and figs. Cut up with scissors 1½ cups white raisins, ½ lb. shredded cocoanut and 1 cup finely cut sliced pineapple.

Mix about 1-3 flour with fruit and nuts to creamed mixture. Add five eggs, one at a time, beating well between additions. Add ½ cup pineapple syrup with remainder of flour. Add floured fruits and nuts. Stir well until blended. Pour into tubed pan lined with greased heavy paper. Bake for 1 and ½ hours at 275 degrees and then at 300 degrees for one hour more.

OPTOMETRY

As A Profession

By DR. MILLARD F. SWART, Local Optometrist

The Selection Of A Vocation Is One Of The Most Important Problems Confronting Any Young Man Or Woman —

No profession offers the wonderful field for public service that optometry possesses. Optometrists are skilled conservators of life-force; promoters of efficient workmanship; builders of health and happiness. The hope of Optometry lies in a broader and deeper education. It lies in the hands of the optometrist now to determine the visual fate of countless millions of people and so it is that we find optometrists everywhere urging the people to become more Optometric conscious.

Service is the key-note of optometric practice. And what marvelous opportunities there are to serve our fellow man in this task of giving to the people clear, comfortable vision. Next to having the ability and privilege of implanting in the lives of children those ideals and aspirations that will make them desire the best in life and thereby become a blessing to any community in which they live, is the ability and privilege to make it possible for these young people to have entire freedom from visual discomforts and thereby help them in all other phases of their lives. I feel there is a close kinship between those who give to mankind spiritual vision and those who give them physical vision. The vast number of children who, because of faulty visual functioning, have lost a desire to amount to something—have become wayward—have been unable to gain good health—have been unable to read or study and thereby have become dependent upon others, are a challenge to all optometrists to give all that is in their power to help.

Optometry is looking forward hopefully and calmly. The years have recorded a firm and steady advance towards highest standards of service through education. Less than a quarter of a century has passed since Optometry set out definitely to advance its educational requirements to the plane of the highest specialized profession. There is no better record in the history of education. Our organizations have obtained for us a favorable legislation against great opposition and have repeatedly strengthened our position as a separate and distinct profession.

Our schools and university courses have voluntarily agreed to educational surveys, and have advanced far beyond the law requirement in the arduous task of promoting public welfare by supplying well trained practitioners to administer to the visual needs of the people. Every state in the Union, the provinces of Canada, Cuba, Philippines and Alaska now have optometry laws. The educational laws require graduation from high school and four years at college before taking the state board examination for license to practice. The freshman and sophomore years at college are spent in taking what may be called a pre-optometric course. The degree of bachelor of science is granted upon the completion of the four-year course. Together with the degree of bachelor of science a certificate in optometry is given. Optometry courses are now being offered by Columbia University, Ohio State University, Pennsylvania State and University of California.

The day will surely come when optometrists will be caring for the eyes of all generations. Universities have opened their doors to our scintific work. Literature about our science will be found in all libraries. All industries will take counsel from optometrists, looking upon them to safeguard the eyes of employees. Hospitals and clinics all over the world will pay homage to optometrists when it is a question of the eyes.

For one trained in a school of optometry there is ample opportunity for advancement. One's advancement in this science, however, depends largely upon one's readiness to recognize that the field of optometry is a large one and not limited to the correction of the defects of human eyes. The foremost optometrists of today have won their positions because they are interested first of all in the conservation of vision. There is a growing demand for men and women who not only can correct visual defects, but who also can intelligently conserve the human eyesight by means other than lenses. This makes the field an exceedingly wide and interesting one, and one in which there are great opportunities.

It is to be hoped that no one will deliberately plan to enter the profession of optometry for the purpose of "making" money. It is to be hoped also that all who do select this profession as a life work will enter it for the purpose of affording relief to those whose vision is impaired. The young man or woman who enters this profession with the idea of becoming one of the best if not the best practitioner; who is imbued with the spirit of original research and investigation; who will be ambitious to improve his skill and judgment day by day; who will constantly desire to increase his worth and service to mankind—such a person will surely establish a practice that will furnish him with an income far beyond his expectations.

The optometrist is distinctly a professional man and, if he has the necessary qualifications, will quickly establish a respected place for himself among other professional men and women in any community. His work naturally makes him an ally of the physician. The optometrist knows where to draw the line in his practice and will send to the physician all patients who have pathological eye conditions. The work of the optometrist is always pleasant and never monotonous, because each patient and each case presents itself more or less as a new problem to be solved.

Today there is a big work to be done in the conservation of vision, and in the relief of ocular discomfort. In the general advancement of hygiene, eye hygiene occupies no small place. In fact, wherever there is human eyesight needed, there the optomtrist is needed.

s Turn Serious For Lobo Game; AP Poll Rates Tech No. 19 In Nation

Cockiness Gone As Tech Preps For Next Tilt

It was a serious, docile bunch of Red Raiders out at Texas Tech field yesterday, sharply contrasting with the war-whooping, hell-for-leather, cocky squad of B. G. (Before Gonzaga), and the boys listened intently and without tongues in their cheeks as Head Coach Pete Cawthon laid down the law and his scouting reports concerning University of New Mexico.

Even the most casual railbird could tell the difference; the Red Raiders apparently learned a good lesson last week, taught by the hard-smashing Bulldogs from Gonzaga, and they are by no means over confident as time for the contest with New Mexico's Loboes, who have won all their games save one, that one by a single point, this season. A 20 to 7 victory over Arizona university, and last week's triumph over the favored New Mexico Aggies, set the Loboes up as a crowd to watch.

Cawthon Scouts Loboes

Cawthon personally scouted the Loboes last Saturday, and he was telling the Raiders about it yesterday. He was telling them they would have to be on the alert for a fast, flashy team at Albuquerque on Saturday next, a team that will spot the Raiders some weight, but nothing else. Running their offense from various "spread" formations, the pupils of Coach Ted Shipkey will prove very troublesome indeed, believes Cawthon. "They won't be like Gonzaga last week; we won't have that smashing power to contend with, but the Loboes shake their ball carriers loose and it means a lot of open field tackling."

In Big Bill Dwyer, an Illinois boy who has made good in a big way at New Mexico, the Loboes possess one of the outstanding backs of the nation. Fourth in individual scoring, Dwyer, who weighs in the neighborhood of 195 pounds, is considered one of the toughest backs on Tech's schedule. It is for Dwyer that the Raiders are setting a trap in this week's practice.

Practice On Defense

The drill yesterday was confined largely to defensive maneuvers against New Mexico's unorthodox "spread" formations, and one set of "shock troops" turned in a very nice job of running Lobo plays at two teams of Raider regulars.

But the regulars were in a poor frame of mind and physical fettle to do much about it yesterday. They bore bruises from heel to head, sustained in the scrap with Gonzaga, and they were none too pert in their workout.

In a previous skull practice, the varsity players who worked in both games voted unanimously that Gonzaga presented the toughest attack and defense they had met all season, and that the Bulldogs from Washington "hit harder and hurt more than the Duquesne players ever thought of doing." And the Duquesne game had its share of rugged individualism.

Only serious casualty of the Gonzaga game, however, was Wee Bobby Holmes, regular left halfback who ran into unusual trouble last Friday. Hitherto never damaged to any real extent in football, Holmes hurt himself when he made a looping tackle at a Gonzaga player, and rolled on over the concrete curb surrounding the field. He suffered a battered ankle, and will not play in the New Mexico game. Coach Cawthon was fretful lest Holmes would not return to the lineup this season, but he knew for certain that Holmes would not play at Albuquerque.

The Red Raiders leave Thursday afternoon for Albuquerque, changing an earlier plan to leave today or Wednesday, and thus will have three days of practice at home. They will arrive in Albuquerque in time for a drill Friday on the New Mexico field.

Special Train Runs To N. Mexico Friday

Definite assurance of a special train to carry Texas Tech students, the Tech band and Lubbock fans to Albuquerque this week for the Texas Tech-University of New Mexico football game, was given yesterday by the Santa Fe railroad company and the Lubbock American Business club, sponsors of the train.

The special train is tentatively scheduled to leave at 11 o'clock Friday night, Nov. 18, and to arrive in Albuquerque at 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning. The return trip is scheduled to start, from Albuquerque, at 12 midnight, Saturday, and to arrive in Lubbock about 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

The return schedule, however, is subject to change, depending upon the number of "protests" and other ideas. It is believed that numerous persons will take advantage of the schedule and visit Santa Fe, N. M., which is something like an hour's drive from Albuquerque, and school and railroad officials encourage this "side trip." Persons may visit Santa Fe Saturday morning and return in time for the game.

No Pullman Chartered

Round trip rate for the special train is $7.40 per person, for chair car only. At present, no Pullman cars have been chartered for the trip, but Santa Fe officials said that if a sufficient number of fans desired it, a Pullman would be added to the equipment.

Railroad tickets, and tickets for the game, are on sale today at Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers; they may be purchased there, or at the Santa Fe ticket office, through Friday afternoon.

Railroad officials, recalling the 1937 special train to Austin, announced that if students and fans would purchase their tickets early, they would know about how much equipment, how many cars, to order for the special. In the case of the Austin trip, something like 250 tickets had been purchased up to the day of departure. More than 700 fans then sought special train tickets, and the equipment, ordered for a smaller crowd, was badly overcrowded. Persons planning to ride the train, therefore, are urged to make reservations early so that sufficient equipment may be ordered to assure room for all.

Pecarovich Says Tech Is One Of Nation's Best

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—"If this keeps up," predicted the Old Professor at his Monday morning session for football coaches today, "we will have to substitute for our annual graduation exercises a spelling bee or a lecture on how to survive the winter banquet tour.

However, graduation day was set for November 28 at which time the Old Professor will try to separate the sheep from the goats and reward the sheep with sheepskins.

Professor: Elmer, how come you do us like you do?

Elmer Layden, Notre Dame: We beat Minnesota, but it was a tough, clean game, Professor.

Bernie Bierman, Minnesota: If we had a standout left half, we might have done more on offense, Professor, but I'm not alibing. Notre Dame was the better team.

Professor: I know Dutch admires the Irish, too.

Dutch Meyer, T. C. U.: I love 'em, Professor. Especially the O'Briens. O'Brien and Aldrich make a team—but even they need the others. My boys are getting better, Professor.

Dana X. Bible, Texas: Professor, Dutch's team is great because it has that fine combination—O'Brien on offense, Ki Aldrich on defense. The Christian passing attack far surpasses anything I've seen in this section."

Professor: Dana, if you only had that contract of yours and the T. C. U. team . . . Ray, I thought you were going to lick Tennessee.

Ray Morrison, Vanderbilt: Nope, they were too tough for us to handle, Professor. If they get the Rose Bowl invitation, they'll put on a great show.

Bob Neyland, Tennessee: That shifting Vandy defense stopped us cold that first half but we finally got going. That was a close call, Professor, don't let anyone mention Rose Bowl to me. We've got two more to play.

Professor: Wallace, my lad, speak up.

Wallace Wade, Duke: Professor, with the return of our injured backs our defense is becoming better balanced and showed it against Syracuse. But we still look bad against passes.

Ossie Solem, Syracuse: I'd like to look that bad, Professor, I'm glad the score wasn't more than 21-0. That's really a great ball club.

Professor: Returning to Texas. Mike, is Texas Tech any good?

Mike Pecarovich, Gonzaga: Texas Tech is really one of the fine teams of the country, Professor. They could hold their own against any major outfit, and I mean any of them.

Pete Cawthon, Texas Tech: We won, Professor, but I needed a box of aspirins to keep from passing out.

Tom Stidham, Oklahoma: I'm happy. We looked ragged against Missouri but won.

Don Faurot, Missouri: My derby's off to the Sooners. They have the finest ball club I've seen this season.

Biff Jones, Nebraska: So does Pitt. Professor, it's the same, old story.

Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh: Remember I predicted it would be a tough game, Professor. It was. We got the breaks and won.

Professor: We'll now hear two very sad stories from the land of sunshine.

Howard Jones, Southern California: It was a case of too much Art Means, Professor. Washington was better but if we can beat U. C. L. A. Turkey Day I believe we still will go to the Rose Bowl.

Jimmie Phelan, Washington: Professor, I knew we had 'em when the Trojans kicked on fourth down with only a yard to go for first down on our 30 near the end of the game.

Madigan Is Quite Happy

Slip Madigan, St. Mary's: Professor, please excuse my sophomoric enthusiasm, but our victory over Santa Clara provided me one of the happiest moments of my illustrious career. Whoopee!

Buck Shaw, Santa Clara: The Gaels gave us a lesson in the aerial and rope department, Professor.

Professor: Tad's on a ladder . . .

Tad Wieman, Princeton: I sure am, Professor. My greatest thrill was to see the happiness of our boys after their great victory over Yale. They've suffered all kinds of grief this fall and if anyone deserved to win, they did.

Professor: And I deserve some cider. Dawson, get that pail.

Duck Season Is Opened Today; Deer Are Next

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 14 — Sportsmen who bemoan the close of the dove season at sundown tomorrow may move to coastal and inland waters for duck and geese.

Open season on the migratory waterfowls begins at 7 a. m. and, as further compensation, deer and wild turkey become legal game at daybreak Wednesday.

Still a further glimpse into the future reveals the quail and chachalaca season opening Dec. 1.

Last days for legal shooting of these quarry are: duck and geese Dec. 29; deer Dec. 31, except mule deer on which the season closes Nov. 30 east of the Pecos river; turkey Dec. 21, and quail and chachalaca Jan. 16.

The waterfowl hunters have the best prospects in years because of more supplies produced by a far-flung rehabilitation program, the game department reports. For that reason they may enjoy 15 more days of hunting than last year.

Deer and turkey populations also promise good hunting, especially in the Hill country, mecca of a majority of hunters.

Black bear and mule deer grounds are confined to the trans-Pecos region of West Texas.

Local Nimrods Prepare For Start Of Duck, Deer Seasons

Exodus of deer hunters to the Hill country, New Mexico, and Old Mexico was expected to begin today, as other nimrods prepared to concentrate on lesser game.

Annually many hunters journey to nearest deer hunting grounds. Others seek those in high mountainous regions in Colorado and northern New Mexico.

More than 40 duck hunting stamps were reported sold by post-office officials Monday. Duck hunting in this section, however, is expected to be light this year due to a dearth of water.

Game wardens warned duck hunters to include a hunting license and stamps in their equipment. Federal stamps are good in any county, but must be used in the home county.

Ten fowls are allowed in a day's bag limit, of which not more than three of one species or an aggregate of three can be canvasback, redhead or bufflehead. Twenty birds are allowed for one's possession at one time.

'The Old Fox' Outsmarts Son-In-Law

Outsmarted by 'The Old Fox' of baseball, Clark Griffith (right), 69-year-old owner of the Washington Senators, Joe Cronin eyes the golf score that records a trimming on a Silver Spring, Md., course. Since the match was in the family—Griffith is Cronin's father-in-law—there weren't any arguments. Cronin's in baseball, too; he manages the Boston Red Sox.

Tickets For Turkey Day Go Move Fast; Sellout Seen

Intense interest in the Thanksgiving Lubbock-Amarillo game, on which hinges the title of District 1, caused a rush to ticket agencies Saturday and Monday that left only 200 reserve seat ducats available here.

More than 6,000 have been sold here alone. Amarillo officials will put their blocks of pasteboards on sale Wednesday, according to their advice by telephone Monday to E. J. (Pinkey) Lowrey, business manager of high school athletics.

North end zone seats, reserved primarily for Texas Tech and high school students will not be sold downtown, Lowrey said.

A sellout easily is in prospect, high school officials agree. Temporary stands probably will be erected in the south end zone.

Westerners Take It Easy

Westerner gridiron forces were given an easy workout Monday afternoon, with all hands on deck, although a couple limped from injuries received at Pampa.

Capt. Jumbo Webster is nursing old injuries aggravated Friday afternoon. Harold Parsons twisted a knee and ankle in one play, and will favor them for a few days.

Others were in good shape.

No practice session will be held this afternoon, Coach Weldon Chapman said, due to the fact that players will be laboring today in examinations.

Coaches And Players Of Lubbock High Speak On TSN Program Today

A broadcast through 23 stations of the Texas State network, including KFYO, at 5:45 o'clock this afternoon will originate in the Senior High school auditorium.

Featured on the 15-minute program will be talks by Westerner coaches, Weldon Chapman, J. G. (Goober) Keyes, and Walker Nichols, and two players, Capt. Walter Webster and Wayne Johnston. Zack Hurt, sports commentator of the network, will interview the speakers.

Senior High school band, under direction of H. A. Anderson, will play.

A Monday night broadcast through network stations was staged at Amarillo.

Frenship Is Beaten By Ropes, 13 To 7

ROPESVILLE, Nov. 14. (Special)—The Ropes Eagles defeated Frenship 12 to 7 in a hard-fought game here this afternoon to annex championship of the west half of District 2C.

The Eagles struck twice in the second quarter for touchdowns and coasted in.

Right Half Alexander sneaked through the Tiger line on a reverse play for 70 yards and a touchdown early in the period. He then passed to End Payton, who galloped to the five-yard stripe, from where Crow skirted end for the second score.

Frenship came back strong in the second half. Failing to gain on the ground, the Tigers went into the air, virtually filling the air with footballs. They scored in the third quarter as the result of a pass.

Ropes gained 159 yards from scrimmage to 57 for Frenship, and 56 yards on two passes to 132 on six. The Tigers threw 25 aerials.

Tentative arrangements are for the Eagles to meet Hale Center, eastern half winners, this week for the title.

Irish And TCU Head List Of Favored Teams

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. — The mightiest Notre Dame football team since the halcyon days of Knute Rockne took over national leadership in the fifth Associated Press poll of sports writers, today.

The Flying Irish, who bagged their seventh major victory Saturday, rolled up a total of 887 points to lead Texas Christian, the first team a week ago, by 101 points. Sixty of the 92 sports writers who participated in the poll named Notre Dame as their No. 1 eleven.

The rise of the Irish from second to first place was accompanied by other upheavals of lesser note. Tennessee, paladin of the Southeastern conference, moved from fourth to third, and Duke triumphant over Syracuse in its northern invasion, rose from seventh to fourth. Unbeaten Oklahoma jumped from tenth to seventh and Cornell, which finally harnessed its acknowledged manpower against Dartmouth, made the poll's biggest gain, a spurt from 20th to eighth.

The first ten (first place votes in brackets, points scored on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:)

	POINTS
Notre Dame (60)	887
Texas Christian (19)	786
Tennessee (5)	639
Duke (5)	586
Pittsburgh (2)	532
Carnegie Tech	532
Oklahoma (1)	315
Cornell	194
California	138
Holy Cross	130

Second ten: Santa Clara 79, Wisconsin 52, Southern California 40, Dartmouth 38, Villanova 26, Northwestern 23, Michigan 19, Fordham 18, Texas Tech 17, Alabama 16.

Others mentioned: Boston college 12, Georgetown 10, Minnesota 9, Iowa State and Ohio State 4 each, Georgia Tech and St. Mary's 3 each, Auburn 2, North Carolina, Vanderbilt and Clemson 1 each.

Notre Dame's exceptional showing against Minnesota apparently was all the pundits needed. When Minnesota, always large, courageous and well-drilled fell, the press—and the public gave heed.

An outstanding victory such as Notre Dame's rout of the Gophers was necessary to take the leadership away from TCU, which retained its all-winning form by bombing hapless Texas.

Since Pitt's defeat by Carnegie Tech there has been a general flattening out. T.C.U., Tennessee, Duke and Pitt all have extremely good opportunities to take the leadership.

TECH NETMEN BOW

ABILENE, Nov. 14. (Special)—Although Sidney Moore, Texas Tech ace, handed Kendall Jones his first intercollegiate pasting, Abilene Christian college netters defeated the Raiders here today, 4 to 2.

Wilson Chapman, Tech No. 2 man, beat Joe Taylor, but weaknesses in lower matches helped the Christians. Matches were close throughout.

Dieting has caused a slump in the number of potatoes eaten throughout the world.

Majority Of Lubbock Man's Estate Given To Corsicana Orphanage; Will Is Filed

Most of the estate of W. A. Strickland, deceased, valued at approximately $15,000, was bequeathed to the Oddfellows 'Orphans home at Corsicana, according to probate records filed Monday at the office of the county clerk.

With Strickland's will, made Oct. 18 of this year, was filed an application by A. T. Hampton, chairman of the board of trustees of the orphans' home, to be appointed administrator of the will and executor of the estate. Strickland, without mentioning any names in the will, had named chairman of the board of trustees as executor.

Lived Here 17 Years

Strickland, 75, who had been a Lubbock resident 17 years, died here Oct. 26, eight days after signing his will.

He bequeathed one dollar each to each of two sons, W. M. Strickland and Orville Lee Strickland of Rogers, N. M.

He willed $3,000 to the Corsicana institution, to be held in trust by trustees of the orphans' home for benefit of a daughter, Mrs. Addie Simms. He ordered that the sum be given her if her husband dies before she does. If not, the $3,000 will go, on her death, to the institution.

Trustees must pay $15 monthly to a sister, Mrs. R. A. Purser of Raymondville, "the balance of her natural life."

A sum of $500 will go to Mrs. W. T. Milam of Lubbock "for use and benefit" of the orphan's home operated by her.

Remainder To Orphanage

The remainder of his estate was bequeathed to the Corsicana orphans' home.

"Should any beneficiary under my will, or any other person, seek to set aside the will, or any part thereof," he said, "I here will and demand that such person or institution shall receive nothing under the terms of the will, nor such person or institution receive any part of the estate."

He further said, "I demand that no Oddfellow residing in Lubbock have anything to do with my property in anyway, and I do not want any of them at my burial, and do not want any flowers used at my funeral, and wish to be buried in a cheap coffin."

call for a severance of all diplomatic relations with it.

The state department announced today that it had summoned Ambassador Hugh Wilson from Berlin for consultation but no suggestion of a permanent recall was made.

Denouncing "brutal intolerance," former President Hoover said, "Americans have more than a usual right amongst nations of this world to make this protest."

U. S. Aided Germany

He recalled that the United States had intervened to modify armistice demands made on Germany, to feed its war-starved population and to grant the reich debt relief.

Secretary Ickes, saying he spoke only as a citizen and a Christian, referred to German confiscation of Jewish property by saying "it is an old stratagem of tyrants first to make hated those they intend to rob."

Anti-Semitic movements in Europe, he said, "have been attacks not only against the people from which Jesus sprang; there have been attacks against the very ideas for which he died.

"It is strictly in the American tradition," he said, "in the Christian tradition, in the tradition of civilization for us, particularly in times of peace, to protest outrages against a helpless minority on account of race or religion."

Popular Demand Expected

Bishop Hughes said, "we have every right to expect that a speedy popular demand will arise in the German reich not only for the cessation of these brutalities but for the punishment of those who have wildly made themselves legislatures, laws, courts and judges, and have thus given out terrible sentences of unmerited punishment."

Describing Germany's behavior as "another fall from grace," Father Gannon said, "pagan barbarism has again raised its head, but this time it is a barbarism which has apostatized from Christianity and thus has learned to burn and loot and slay with a malice unknown to simple savages."

Landon warned that America can no more isolate itself from the horrors of Germany than from an international radio broadcast and appealed for prayer that intolerance and cruelty may be stopped now.

Ickes and King spoke from Washington; Hughes and Father Gannon from New York; Hoover from San Francisco and Landon from Topeka.

At the communist rally, called to celebrate the 21st anniversary of the Soviet union, General Secretary Earl Browder of the communist party, appealed for unity of all peace-loving peoples to "smash once and for all the threat of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis."

The joint boycott council of the American Jewish conference and Jewish labor committee designated the week of Nov. 27 to Dec. 4 as "anti-nazi week." Plans for mass meetings, radio programs and dissemination of anti-nazi literature were announced.

recognized as the real champions of social justice," Dr. Cadman said as he attacked various pension plans advocated in the nation.

After stating "we are now proceeding from folly to folly on the perfectly patent fallacy that the distribution of money will generate wealth," Dr. Cadman said the route to safety lay in the slow and difficult process of educating people as to the sources, the nature and the extent of wealth.

Many Are Deluded

"In this duty," he said, "we will be derided by the Utopians, belittled by the reformers, and reviled by the racketeers. A very large number of Americans have been deluded by the siren promises of the pension mongers."

J. H. Quinn of Hugo, Colo., urged abolishment of the advalorem base for taxing money, or bank capital. He charged the government was competing with the banks through permanent lending institutions that pay no taxes.

President Orval W. Adams of Salt Lake City, Utah, will open the ABA convention tomorrow with his annual address. Jesse H. Jones of Houston, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and W. J. Cameron of Detroit, will address the convention during the day.

Benefit Plans

standard.

"The advance by the corporation is made on the request of the employe and is payable only in terms of opportunity to work. That condition cannot be too greatly emphasized.

Sloan described the plan for two-year employes as follows:

"Employes eligible (under the lay-off benefit plan) will be entitled to receive weekly 40 per cent of their standard earnings under the same general conditions as apply to the income security plan, except that the total advance made by the corporation is here limited to an amount equivalent to seventy-two hours' earnings at the employe's latest average hourly earned rate. Amounts so advanced will be repaid by the employe, but only in work performed, under the same conditions as apply to the income security plan."

He explained that there were "the usual provisions allowing for suspension of the plans in case of fire, floods, wars, riots strikes or other circumstances beyond the control of the corporation."

"Particular attention is called to the fact that the corporation is not guaranteeing work for which there is no need," Sloan said.

Man's Identity

case of beer in the rear of the car.

Reeder learned that the dead man might be Van Hooser after a Lubbock man, on seeing the picture appearing in the Monday issue of the Evening Journal, told officers he believed he knew who the missing man was. He said he knew Van Hooser and told authorities they might reach his brother at Munday.

Information from a prosecuting attorney of Malvern, Ark., said the man killed was 5 feet 8 inches tall, was slightly bald in front and on top of his head, having a lower dental bridge and one gold-crowned tooth on the upper right side, and wore winter underwear.

The description, even to the gold teeth and fillings matched, according to the Lubbock man who knew Van Hooser and the Munday brother, Reeder said.

"At the scene of the killing there were seven beer bottles, some of the caps still on the necks," leading authorities to believe the bottles had been used as clubs. Officers thought the killing might have been done by hitch-hikers.

The Munday man said his brother was a salesman and said the brother made indications of traveling toward Arkansas and Tennessee this fall.

Officers, however, continued to welcome persons who thought they might be able to assist in identification.

County Commission Required To Get Road Right-Of-Way

County commissioner's court must sign a resolution guaranteeing to secure the right-of-way for a proposed new state highway through the eastern part of the county before the state will take any action George M. Garrett, division highway engineer, announced Monday night.

However, there are no state funds for early construction, Garrett continued.

Some Are Thoughtless

ALTHOUGH the natural human curiosity which results in traffic congestions about the scenes of motor accidents is wholly understandable, it nevertheless constitutes an aggravated form of thoughtlessness impossible of serving any worthwhile purpose.

On two occasions Saturday night, highways approaching Lubbock were scenes of death-dealing collisions. Within minutes in each instance, the highways were lined with scores of parked automobiles for distances of several hundred yards. People streamed on and across the pavement by hundreds, enmindful in their excitement of danger to themselves. Some drivers were so lacking in ordinary courtesy and common sense that they negotiated U-turns in the narrow lanes between parked cars.

The problem was one beyond the capacity of the limited number of officers available for the emergency to handle, considering that those officers also were charged with the duty of investigating the accidents.

The situations, however, were no different from that following any traffic accidents, except they were aggravated by the fact the crashes occurred on heavily traveled highways at the peak of early Saturday night automobile movement.

The dangers resulting from such congestions are readily apparent. To be considered also by thoughtful persons is that such conditions may delay medical treatment which might easily mean the difference between life and death for the injured.

The best act for a motorist when passing the scene of an accident where congestion threatens is to keep right on going. But if one must stop, officials familiar with such things suggest that he drive carefully until you have found a place of safe parking, and that in walking to the scene of the crash, stay as much as possible off the pavement.

Just German Sarcasm

THE nazi Hitler hirelings who tell German newspapers what they may and may not print intended, without question, to be nastily sarcastic when they approved publication of a certain cartoon in Berlin Sunday.

The cartoon is described as picturing a nazi storm trooper smiling in superior amusement as he patted the shoulder of an Uncle Sam who wept because of the plight of German Jews. Intent of the sketch obviously was to make Uncle Sam appear ridiculous because of his sorrow for the Hebrew.

If those who approved the cartoon realized just how accurately it portrays the true feeling of Uncle Sam, it might cause some uncomfortable speculations as to their own future. Uncle Sam does sorrow for the Jews of Germany. He sorrows for the so-called "heathen" Chinese. His sympathy went out to the negro savages of Ethiopia. He sorrows for any who are victims, because of their helplessness, of a barbarity so savage it defies belief in an enlightened age.

Furthermore he sorrows unashamedly. On the contrary, if there are tears they are shed with a feeling of pride that he has not lost the capacity for compassion for those who endure incredible sorrow. The time for shame will be here if he ever becomes calloused to such things.

With Our Contemporaries

THE CLOUDED MOON

THE CHARACTERS

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.

Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.

Ottilie Wills, beautiful American heiress.

Yesterday: Geiss murders Henrietta Adams, and Ottilie and I are locked in the secret room. There we find the gun that killed O'Donnell.

Chapter 39

A Girl Vanishes

I took another look at the inert body on the floor. Beside it was a woman's handbag, and at sight of it I knew in a flash just what kind a fool I had been.

I snatched it up and tore it open. There were keys there, as I had known there would be; the big latchkey of the Chateau la Vague, the Yale of Geiss's front door, and a smaller, queerly shaped bit of metal that I knew without telling would unlock our prison door and set us free.

I whooped with joy like a schoolboy, and raced down the room to the father door.

"Come on, Ottilie!" I yelled, and as she came, I fitted the key into the little hole and heard the welcome sound of the wards turning. One minute later we were dragging open the garden gate, staring into an outer world that we had hardly dared hope to see again.

The sun was high in the heavens. I rubbed my knuckles across my heavy lids, and as I did so, heard a familiar voice. "May I ask," said Hugo dryly, "if this has been an all-night party? Or were you merely sleeping off the effects?"

The girl had been clinging, half-dazed, to my arm, but at the sound of his voice she wrenched herself free and, running to him, flung herself on his breast, twining her arms round his neck.

"It's you!" she sobbed. "I knew you'd come, but oh, I've been so frightened! Hugo, I was so terribly frightened"

He put his arms about her, awkwardly, like a man who is half-afraid, and then suddenly strained her to him and pressed his lips to her hair.

"Dearest," he said, very low. "Dearest, you're safe now. You're with me."

I stood there with my hands in my pockets, feeling slightly resentful, for, when all was said and done, it was I that had done the dirty work, and he was getting the thanks. But after a minute he raised his head and grinned at me in the shamefaced way.

"Sorry, old man!" he said "Unaccustomed as I am to public love-making, I forgot all about you for the moment!"

"Don't mind me!" I retorted bitterly. "Carry on as long as you like—but when you're through, it might be as well to get Ottilie back to the hotel. Dunning must be throwing hysterics by now."

He looked suddenly conscience-stricken. "You're absolutely right!" he declared. "Actually, it's past eight already, Ottilie, my dear, we'll have to get a move on, but first, tell me how you got here and what you've been doing. If I hadn't run into Fleuriot and heard that the last he'd seen of Archie was when he turned in a purposeful way up this street, I might have been searching for you till Doomsday. As it was, I was just pondering the best way of breaking into the villa."

"Fleuriot?" I echoed, startled. "What had he been up to, I wonder."

"I don't know," said he, "but his car was inches thick with dust, and he looked as if he hadn't slept for a week. He asked me to tell you, though, that he would be calling your bluff shortly, whatever that may mean."

"Well," I said, "I'm ready when he is—but taking it by and large, we've certainly had a full night, Ottilie and I. We both had the same idea of breaking into Geiss's villa, and we met on his balcony. Following that, we witnessed Geiss murdering Henrietta Adams, and we've been locked in with her corpse for the rest of the night, but we did at least locate the missing gun."

'I Love You A Lot'

The Carlton terrace was empty when we arrived. As we halted just inside the door, Hugo turned to the girl and gently unlinked her arm.

"Sweet," he said, "we're too dirty and disheveled to go through another day without cleaning up, but there's obviously nothing wrong so far, or Dunning would be in evidence. Will you let him know you're safe, and tell him we'll be back as soon as we've had a bath and shave? After that I want you to promise not to stir from your room until I give you leave."

She looked at him, and for a moment I saw a flat refusal trembling on her lips; then slowly her expression softened, and a second time she reached up and kissed him softly. "You're a medieval relic, my precious," she murmured, "but you're terribly sweet, and I love you quite a lot."

"Hugo," I said, as we turned down the ramp to the deserted Croisette, "are you going to marry that girl?"

"If she'll have me," he answered self-consciously.

"She'll have you all right," I retorted, and added gloomily, "in more ways than you think!"

He looked at me, startled and resentful, but made no protest, though his tone, when he spoke, was a trifle frigid.

"I suppose," he suggested, "that the next thing is to notify the police about that woman's murder?"

"Well," I said cautiously, "it depends what portion of the police you're referring to. If we report to the juge d'instruction, he'll be obliged to hold his inquiry right away; if we tell the commissaire, he'll want to know how we broke into the villa, and may feel bound to arrest us for breaking and entering."

"Fleuriot, then?" he suggested.

"Fleuriot or no one," I agreed.

The reception clerk at his hotel informed us that Fleuriot had not been in all night. "It is possible of course," he added, "that the gentleman has gone to view the conflagration!"

"What conflagration?" I echoed stupidly, for the seemingly chronic condition of the Esterels had for the moment slipped my memory.

He raised a shocked eyebrow. "The cape!" he explained. "It is possible that Monsieur has not observed? Villages are threatened, boats are standing by to take off the inhabitants of the coast towns, and troops have been rushed from Nice and even from Marseille to fight the flames. It is a most interesting spectacle," he added complacently, "but a pity that it should chance to coincide with the braderie. It will be difficult for our visitors to witness both."

Back at Hugo's, I had almost forgotten the fire, when I saw a sight that halted me, gasping, in my track. The cape itself was invisible covered with a great pall of brown smoke that stretched half across the sky, but every other second a shower of fiery sparks would shoot upward, followed by a soaring tongue of flame.

An hour later we took the road again, and during that time the whole town seemed to have wakened to excited life. The main road was crammed with jostling motor-cars, carrying sightseers to the scene of the fire, and through them, demanding right of way with shrieking horns, tore great lorries packed with troops, shirt-sleeved and steel-helmeted and armed with pick and shovel to fight the flames.

'Where Is She?'

As we wormed and twisted our way towards the Croisette, signs of the rival festivity began to emerge. Flags and bunting fluttered gaily on all sides and when we came to the main street, it was to find it closed to traffic by a whitepainted barrier.

Every shop had its stall outside, piled up with a strange jumble of merchandise. The street was a seething mass of people, and as the wine-shops were doing a brisk trade, I imagined it wouldn't be long before the fun became fast and furious; but the Croisette was still folded in an artistocratic emptiness, and when we entered the Carlton lounge, it was to find Dunning in solitary possession.

He was haggard, crumpled, and unshaven, and I felt a momentary pang of compunction that we had dallied so long before joining him; but after all, I reflected, he had known for some considerable time that the girl was safe, and could have made his own toilet, too, if he had wished. Even as the thought came to me though, his greeting dispelled it.

"Where is she?" he demanded sharply. "Holy smoke! I made sure you'd bring her along with you."

I gasped. "What the devil do you mean?" I demanded blankly. "We left her here a couple of hours back and told her to let you know she was safe and well."

"She let me know all right," the big man answered bleakly. "Sent me a note saying she was all right and would see me and tell me all the news as soon as she'd cleaned up. But no word came, and when I went to see her, I found she'd never got to her room; all that greeted me was Cassandra Chubb, running around like a demented thing. The only conclusion I had was that Cassandra'd had sense enough not to alarm the old man."

He broke off and wiped his wet forehead. "Gentlemen," he said solemnly, "Ottilie Wills wrote me that letter, standing here in the vestibule, and stepped into the elevator to go to her own room, but she never got there, and from that moment to this, there's not a soul in the hotel that's seen her again. I've asked 'em all; hall-porter, who saw her come in with you; reception clerk, who gave her paper to write her note; elevator boy who saw her get out at her own floor; and not one has set eyes on her since. She didn't come down again, either by the elevator or the stairs, and short of having a room-to-room search of the two hundred and fifty apartments in this hotel, I'm at my wits' end. All I could hope for was that she might have slipped out by some back exit to join you."

"She may have done that," I said

The News Behind The News
WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

NATIONAL politicos evaluating the recent election in terms of 1940 foresee a speedier G.O.P. comeback than the most benighted Republicans dared to dream of a few weeks ago. It may match the revival of a Democratic party given up as dead after Hoover's slaughter of Al Smith.

States which switched back to Republican affiliation either in gubernatorial or senatorial tests possess 206 votes in the electoral college, where 266 is needed to win the White House. Other territory where the balloting was too close for anybody's comfort—New York, for example—actually supply a presidential majority for the Republicans. All they need to do now, in their opinion is to nurse along the conservative trend, and commit no major blunders on or off the stump.

It is this underlying aspect of the remarkable reversal which concerns the professional politicians most. They think in terms, not of so many seats or candidates, but of the general direction in which John Q. Voter is going. And, barring a foreign war or a dizzy boom carrying over for three years (it's a distinct possibility) they would not be surprised to see the White House change customers two years hence. A rightward swing is in the cards. It's human nature, not politics.

SPEED: Another clear-cut revelation is that, though Franklin D. Roosevelt stands forth as the world's most dominant and attractive personality today, he cannot fuse the forces of protest and discontent into a political party. The "haves"—the owners of homes, insurance policies, jobs and a small business—still outnumber that famous "one-third" in the United States. Ballot-box symptoms have simply caught up with census and economic statistics.

F.D.R. swept to 1932, 1934 and 1936 triumphs because he enrolled the working men, the farmers, the unfortunate in a crusade for human happiness. He hasn't delivered, in their opinion, if you analyze the vote carefully. He lost the labor vote in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio and several New England states. The tillers and hewers deserted him in Kansas, Wisconsin, Minnesota and in other farm belt territory. The relief vote did not turn out for him where it was expected to save a senator or governor. The La-Follette and Benson liberals went their own way. Like the "one hoss shay", the New Deal broke into pieces all at once, despite Lehman-Wagner victories.

F.D.R. is merely discovering what T. R. and "Old Bob" LaFollette learned before he came along—the American people are innately conservative. They will embrace an experiment or two if it seems to be taking them places, but they'll drop them—and the author—unless they ride into Utopia on the next political train.

TICKETS: The sons of two distinguished American statesmen—Clark and Taft—will head the Democratic and Republican tickets, respectively, in 1940 if you listen to long-shotters at the Capital. Senator Bennett rolled up an amazing majority in Missouri, while the ex-President's first-born was soundly defeating F.D.R.'s Harvard college chum—Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio.

Clark has long been the unnarrowed candidate of the Garner-Harrison-Byrd wing, but in the recent campaign they took the wraps off of him. Along with James A. Farley and Cordell Hull, he should walk into the 1940 convention as a favorite to win. Mr. Taft, provided he exhibits executive ability and force his father did not show in the White House, should be a natural. He will come to the barrier with an honored name, gubernatorial experience, residence in a key state. This conservative pair will be hard to beat on a welfish, reactionary track, especially in view of their financially and politically powerful promoters.

Washington will even give you a bet on prospective vice presidential nominees. Since Clark should hold the West and South, the Democrats may look toward the Industrial Northeast, though the cupboard is rather bare. Despite his religion, vote-getting Senator-elect Mead of New York will figure heavily. If the G.O.P. needs an eastern man, how about Senator-elect Barbour of New Jersey, who came back in the face of Frank Hague's bitter (?) opposition. Tom Dewey is still a distinct possibility as a second placer. If the choice must lie west, there's a fresh assortment of Senators and governors to choose from.

BATTLE: Tommie Corcoran and Harry Hopkins face a faction of influential New Dealers in their anticipated attempt to swing F.D.R. "far left of center" during the next two years. The group of conservative business men, financiers and industrialists gathering at the White House these days grows more and more formidable.

Henry Morgenthau, for instance, has staffed the Treasury with right wingers, including Under Secretary Hanes, Assistant Secretary Chatfield-Taylor, Adviser Edward Duffield, who formerly wrote for the Chicago Tribune and Wall Street Journal. Common sense men like Preston Delano and Cyrus Upham now run the office of Controller of the Currency. In Commerce and R.F.C. and the War Department—agencies directly connected with forthcoming plans for business and industry—the key figures are economic rightists. Each man, in his own private sphere and quiet way, strives to impose his leave-well-enough-alone ideas on the White House.

Most of these men cheered over recent Republican gains in the expectation that they would have a chastening influence on the President. But knowing how he resents and reacts to defeats, they are rather fearful he may run out on them. They'll fight, however, and so you may look for a fierce, behind-the-scenes battle over presidential policies between the leftists at the Capital. Nobody—not even F.D.R. knows who will win.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE most significant Republican triumphs last Tuesday, in the view of New York political sharps, were those in Ohio and Michigan. The biggest surprises were the G.O.P. victories in Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut.

This column's prediction that Robert A. Taft and John W. Bricker would both win in Ohio—Taft by a larger margin than Bricker—was confirmed by the figures. But Taft's majority of 180,000 was far greater than the most optimistic Republican sympathizers foresaw. So was the jump in the Ohio G.O.P. delegation in the House from 2 to 15 out of a total of 24 seats.

Bricker as governor and Taft as Senator from a key state automatically become prominent entries for the 1940 presidential sweepstakes. Keen New York observers privately rate Taft the more promising of the two—and not solely because of his name and his bigger majority.

TECHNIQUE: In a way, the young senator's election—Taft is 49—ranks as a modern political miracle. Seasoned politicians at first regarded his bid for the G.O.P. senatorial nomination as a joke. The Taft family is not particularly popular in Ohio—especially not with local Republican bosses. Moreover, Bob was thought to be hopelessly lacking in political sex appeal. He is not, and never will be, a glad-handing baby-kissing type and has often been criticized as cold and aloof.

Recognizing his own limitations, Taft did not try to assume the unnatural role of jolly good fellow. But he did learn to thaw out in his human contacts; he discussed issues simply and intelligently; he avoided fervid oratory; he was gracious and responsive to questioners; he got across the impression of sincerity and integrity. His appeal was deliberately directed to the reason rather than the emotion of the electorate.

The success of this unusual political technique is attested by his emphatic victories in the primary and the election. He scored heavily over Robert J. Bulkley in their joint "Lincoln-Douglas" debates across the state—and don't forget that Bulkley had the full and fevered support of the New Deal organization (including W.P.A.) One other point: Taft exemplifies the new and liberal leadership which astute analysts have long maintained the G.O.P. needs if it is to stage a major-league comeback.

Side Glances---By George Clark

"Don't ask me to stop your father. He's been doing that at parties ever since I can remember."

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Travis county sheriff's deputies spend much of their time serving citations on state officials in the wide variety of law suits to which the state is a party.

Deputy Sheriff Sam Rogers says he sometimes leaves the courthouse with so many citations to distribute in the numerous and scattered state offices that it looks like he has an "arm full of cordwood."

He recalled one occasion when he had 58 citations for R. L. Daniel, chairman of the insurance commission. Daniel lets a secretary accept citations for him but deputies must search out other state officials in person. That is quite a task because many officials are out of town much of the time.

So many cases by or against the state are filed in the three district courts here that litigants in non-state suits find it difficult to obtain speedy trials.

Gov. James V. Allred said the trouble necessitated by the required citation of officials could be rectified by the legislature. He suggested a law stipulating service is needed only on the attorney-general. That would suffice, he said, since the attorney-general represents the state in law suits.

Here's The Job Situation

Allred doubtless will step from the governor's office to the new South Texas federal judgeship Jan. 17, with mingled feelings of joy and sorrow. But the fact he no longer will have to worry about job seekers most certainly will be "on the joy side."

The chief executive said at a recent press conference the biggest handicap to government was that public officials had to spend so much of their time answering job applicants. He added he might advocate some action to reduce this evil in his final message to the legislature which will be delivered about Jan. 11.

An incoming governor, as Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel already has found out, doesn't have nearly as many jobs with which to reward the faithful as the average person may believe. All of the large commissions are overlapping, that is, only one third of their members are appointed each two years. The jobs are handed out by the commission majority, not the governor.

ABOUT the best story going around the capitol city is on Coach D. X. Bible of the University of Texas, who has had trouble bagging football victories in the tough Southwest conference.

The bald coach got a haircut in an Austin barber shop and then bought ten-cent cigars for every barber in the establishment. Pressed for an explanation of this generosity, he replied:

"Well, it's the first place I've been in some time that no one asked me what's wrong with the football team."

Old Pistol Still Used

An old frontier .45 calibre six-shooter belonging to Rex Fowler, Austin captain of detectives, recently entered its 66th year of service. Fowler's father used it 34 years, then handed it to his son.

The pistol, nickel-plated and ornately carved, came back a short time ago from an arms maker who fitted it with a new barrel and hammer.

SHOTGUN-ARMED Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad section employes are patroling the track between Waco and Hillsboro against an invasion less weird but almost as fantastic as the Martin's fictional assault on New York in a recent broadcast.

Blackbirds are the "enemies" to be repulsed and they come from the neighboring countryside and maybe from another planet. Hoardes of the birds are roosting in symmetrical rows along the railroads telephone and telegraph wires and their weight is sagging the lines into lower wires. The short circuits are interrupting communication, railroad officials here announce.

Requisitions for ammunition have been issued and the section employes ordered to repel the invaders.

Old Village Excavated

A party of scientists recently began excavating at the scene of a 16th century Indian village lying beneath a dump at the edge of Presidio. It is hoped to uncover valuable information of the culture and customs of early Southwestern Indian tribes.

The village was named Pueblo Santiago in 1583 by Diego Perez de Luxan and Pueblo Nuestra Senora de Guadalupe of the Nacions Palacmes and Sibulas by Trasvina in 1715. In the latter year it had a native population of 550 and was the seat of an early Spanish mission.

The village is thought to have been the hub of many routes of aboriginal trade and that wandering tribes made it their winter headquarters, ranging in the warm months over most of what is now Texas, and parts of New Mexico.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 80 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"Let's go!" Jeff commanded impatiently. "Go? Where are we going?" Mary asked in surprise. "To the coast," the man answered; "it's the only thing to do. Kagundo has probably killed Bob and your father already. We, at least, can save ourselves."

"We don't know that they've killed Bob and father," Mary objected; "let's wait for Tarzan. Maybe he's bringing news." "Tarzan!" snarled Jeff; "I've been trying to tell you he's our enemy. I've been in this jungle for years. I know a lot of things you don't."

Mary was unconvinced, but now Jeff clutched her roughly by the arm. "Come on," he barked; "you promised to marry me. You made the bargain yourself. Now, I'm boss, and you're going to do as I say." Mary saw a glint of fury in his eyes, and she was afraid.

Her first impulse was to scream, hoping that Tarzan would hear and hurry to her. But her better judgment, at least, restrained. If the ape-man should come dashing to her, Jeff might fire on him. Mary knew she was in Jeff's power. Sadly she nodded obedience.

LEADERS KNOCKED DOWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP) — Recently strong industrial stocks came a cropper in today's market as profit taking knocked down leaders fractions to more than 2 points.

Steels, motors, coppers, rubbers and other prominent climbers of the past week were under pressure from the start and most closed around the bottom although liquidation tended to dry up in the final hour.

Business and political cheer continued, but developments in Europe, especially the racial upheaval in Germany and substantial breaks in foreign currencies in terms of the dollar, apparently induced many traders to cash in on the lengthy advance.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1.1 points at 53.6, the largest day's decline in this composite since Sept. 23. Transfers totalled 1,651,280 shares against 2,176,753 last Thursday.

Expectancy of seasonal improvement in distillery earnings aided stocks in this category, notably Shenley which, opening ¼ off on a block of 15,000 shares, turned around quickly and ended 1½ ahead at 21½. Budd Mfg. issues pushed up on settlement of the strike at this company's plants.

Prominent losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Westinghouse, Anaconda, Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Santa Fe, American Can and Johns-Manville.

No Announcement Is Made On Rites For Crash Victim

LAMESA, Nov. 14. (Special) — Funeral services for Mrs. J. J. Hawkins, 37, of San Angelo, who was killed instantly in an automobile-truck collision five miles south of Lamesa early Sunday night, had not been announced here tonight.

The husband and two daughters, Oleta, 17, and Doris Fayne, 2, were injured, but hospital officials did not believe them in dangerous condition. Mrs. Hawkins also is survived by another daughter, Jewell, 13; and a son, Bill J., 9.

J. M. Malone, said to have been driver of the truck, suffered minor injuries.

The mishap was at 7 o'clock, on highway 87.

All victims were taken to a Lamesa hospital for surgical attention.

The Hawkins were returning to their home from a visit with relatives of near Lubbock. Their light sedan was in headon collision with the truck of Malone, resident of Dawson county, apparently when one of the drivers was blinded by the lights of an approaching vehicle, said investigators.

The truck and the automobile were almost demolished.

Suit For Damages In Federal Court

A civil action to collect $15,000, filed in the 106th district court of Garza county by a Garza county woman against Luzier's Inc., a Kansas City, Mo., corporation, and its agent in Garza and Lubbock counties, Monday was transferred to federal district court.

The transcript was filed with Mrs. Olive Fluke, United States deputy district clerk.

Wilma Ruth Stone, plaintiff, alleged in her original petition, that she purchased the Kansas City company's products through its agent and that she used the facial preparations as prescribed by the agent.

Damage Said Caused

She further set out that after she used the products, she suffered "ulcers, pimples, abrasions, large, sores, and whelps on her face" and that they spread to other portions of her body.

She said the agent prescribed continued use of the products.

Mrs. Stone alleged that because of her condition she is under care of a physician and said she had been advised her condition would not improve.

Because she alleged, her condition has prohibited "enjoyment, society and association of her social friends all of which has shattered and disrupted her nerves to the extent she will suffer the remainder of her life from an extreme nervousness," she asked damages of $15,000.

City Budget Is Given Approval

City commissioners, in special recessed meeting Monday, adopted a new city budget and approved a city tax rate of $1.05 on the $100 of assessed valuation.

The tax rate represents an increase of 30 cents above last year's 75 cents.

The year for which the budget and tax rate are effective began last April 1 and continues through March 31, 1929.

Given Unanimous Approval

The necessary orders received the unanimous approval of the commission, all of whom were present. They are Mayor Carl E. Slaton and Commissioners W. B. Price, W. G. McMillan, J. A. Fortenberry and Hub Jones.

Of the tax rate, 80 cents is set aside for payment of interest and sinking fund on outstanding warrants and bonds; 20 cents is for the general fund, from which the operating expenses of government are paid; and 5 cents is for the board of city development.

Valuation Is $22,045,000

Based on a valuation of $22,045,000, the rate is expected to pay $176,360 for interest and sinking fund; $39,680 for the general fund; and approximately $11,000 for the board of city development.

Budget expenditures for general departments total $255,200.

Members of the commission explained the additional revenue as being necessary because of huge "capital outlay" to keep pace with Lubbock's rapid growth. Capital outlay, officials said, includes permanent and semi-permanent improvements paid out of the current year's revenues. Such items as new machinery and equipment and water and sewer extensions come within the capital outlay expenditures.

Submitted Last Thursday

The budget was submitted to the semi-monthly meeting of the commission last Thursday and the recessed meeting was set at that time so that any property owner desiring might appear in protest. There were no appearances, however, and the commission was in session less than half an hour.

The only other matter of business transacted was the approval of the lease of approximately 787 acres of city owned land to Frank Gray on a bid of $1,350 for the year. Of the land, officials said, 454 acres are tillable. The land is used to absorb outflow of water from the city sewage disposal plant.

What Woman Is Worth Going To Jail For? Asks Prince

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP)—H. R. H. Prince Chalermbol of Siam spoke enthusiastically today of Siam's method of executing its few murderers, arsonists and traitors.

"The prisoner stands behind a screen on which a target is placed about the position of his heart," he related in English acquired at Eton and Sandhurst. "This makes it easier for the man with the machine gun. He does not have to see it. It is more humane."

"More humane than what?"

"More humane than cutting off the head as we did until three years ago," replied the prince.

He said sex crimes, including "triangle murders," are unknown because "we Siamese are not very amorous.

"Besides, what woman is worth going to jail for?" he remarked.

Starlings Are Back And In Much Greater Numbers And The Farmers Find Problem

The starlings are back—earlier and in greater numbers—and the farmers are worried.

If the starlings should decide to become permanent residents—and they are just pesky enough to do that, they will become a genuine problem for the farmer, according to Don L. Jones, superintendent of the agricultural sub-station.

Although the birds are very destructive, he explained, they have done a minimum of damage here in the past. They usually arrive after crops have been planted and depart before planting begins in the spring. But such migrations are not a fixed habit, and they are just as likely to become year-around residents as not.

If that should happen, he added, something will have to be done. In Washington, D. C., he recalled, where the birds are a real pest, one method which has met with some success has been the suspending of tin plates. Their rattling keeps the starlings frightened.

The only damage thus far reported here has been in the vicinity of the city hall and to the courthouse lawn, and there it has been of minor nature.

Luther A. Bundrant, caretaker at the city hall for the last 10 years, said the birds are far more numerous than he ever has observed before. Aside from the sanitation problem, he predicts that vegetation in parks and about homes will suffer if they choose to remain in Lubbock.

doubtfully, but Hugo broke in sharply.

"Good God, man! She'd never do such a thing. She promised me to stay in her room, and I'm not disposed to doubt her word. She's been kidnaped, or worse, by that devil Geiss. What are we waiting for?" he finished harshly. "Come on, Archie! We've got to see the police and have the town combed for her."

When Patients Were Bled . . .

● In the early days of medicine "bleeding" the patient was common practice. Now, instead of extracting blood, the modern surgeon often employs blood transfusions.

Thus, continually, old methods are upset; old practices displaced by new and more effective procedures.

And in this establishment we seek to keep pace with medical advancement by stocking the newest scientific developments of the leading research laboratories. Thus, we are prepared to fill your Physician's prescription promptly, without alterations or substitutions. Nor do we "bleed" the patient with an excessive charge. Our prices, based on large volume and low overhead, are always fair.

Better Guns In Army Required

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—A possible hint of the nature of President Roosevelt's forthcoming proposals to bolster national defense came today from General Malin Craig, army chief of staff.

More than men, he said in his annual report, the army needs anti-aircraft weapons, along with searchlights and fire control equipment, new guns to cope with tanks, and additional semi-automatic rifles for the infantry.

These, together with augmented supplies of aerial bombs and other ammunition, will be required to put the regular army of 165,000 men and the 205,000 national guardsmen more nearly on a war footing.

Mr. Roosevelt, some informed persons believe, already has incorporated the gist of General Craig's recommendations in the program to be presented to congress.

To meet deficiencies in essential equipment would cost about $142,000,000, by official estimates. This year congress allowed $18,000,000 for anti-aircraft guns and other weapons.
