EXPLODING SHELLS HURLED ABOUT AS SOLDIERS PERISH

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16.—A blazing troop ship, laden with ammunition, drifted today an inferno of death of 1,200 Chinese soldiers, as it showered missiles in all directions upon the city of Kiating and upon ships in the Yangtze River.

Only three hundred of the soldiers escaped death by flames, shot or drowning. The ship took fire when anchored before Kiating, the flames being thrown throughout the vessel almost immediately by the explosion of its deadly cargo.

Loosed from its anchorage by the flames, the Kwang Yang drifted uncontrolled against other ships in the stream. Its exploding war cargo hurled missiles upon them and killing many. Vainly seeking escape by small boats from the flaming ship and maddened by its exploding munitions, the Chinese soldiers aboard the Kwang Yang became panic-stricken as they were stricken with fire and shot. Many, unable to swim, perished in desperation and were drowned in the broad Yangtze.

WILL PREACH TO SCOUTS

Trice Thomas Speaks at First Presbyterian Church in Social

Rev. Trice Thomas, who is holding evangelistic services at the First Presbyterian church, will preach a special sermon tonight to the Lubbock Boy Scouts, who will attend in a body in a special section reserved for them.

H. B. Palmer, scout executive, stated yesterday that he hoped that every scout would attend. The scouts will meet just before the services at the places designated. Friday night and Saturday morning, with their adult leaders in the church.

The troops are conducting a contest for attendance at the service.

JOINT LEGION MEETING

Veterans and Women's Auxiliary Prepare Program for Monday Night in Leader Building

Special arrangements have been completed and a special program arranged for the joint meeting here in the basement of the Leader building at 2:15 p. m. Monday of the local Post of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary, and one of the largest gatherings in the history of the Post here is expected.

This will be the first joint entertainment program held since the organization of the Auxiliary about a year ago. The program includes a banquet from W. T. (Tanak) Strang, the Post's oratory specialist, stunts by a specially detailed squad, and other entertainments.

Tickets at 50c each for the meeting were placed on sale Saturday, partly to help defray expenses of the light banquet that will be offered and partly to help advertise and encourage attendance at the meeting. The meeting will begin about 7:45 and a large attendance is anticipated.

11 DROWN AT QUEBEC

Ship Goes Down in St. Lawrence in Dark of Friday Night

QUEBEC, Oct. 16. (AP)—In the dark of last night eleven persons perished in the waters of the St. Lawrence river, when the steamer Guide, bound for eight miles from Quebec, came two hundred miles from here. It was learned today.

The cause of the disaster to the 150-ton boat, a steel passenger and cargo carrier, is not known, and the only theory advanced is that her cargo shifted in the heavy sea that was raging, causing her to capsize.

Postal Bandits in N. J. Flaunt Law; Rob Trucks Again

By United Press BOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 16.—While the armed forces of the state of New Jersey patrolled over every road in a war against bandits, four hold-up men today held up a postmaster near Newark and robbed him of a batch containing approximately $25,000.

The audacity of the criminals amazed state officials who have called out hundreds of troops and police in a war of extermination against the drug-cramped game of bandits, which culminated a long series of hold-ups and murders with a $150,000 mail truck robbery at Elizabeth Thursday, killing the driver of the mail truck and wounding three others.

MARINES CALLED TO GUARD MAIL

DEVIL DOGS WILL PREVENT REURRENCE OF POSTAL ROBBERIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16. (AP)—The Marines again have been called into action as they were in 1921, to guard from bandits the millions of dollars worth of valuable mail handled daily by the postal service. Stirred by the number of hold-ups within the last few months, especially by that at Elizabeth, N. J., when a mail truck was robbed of $112,000 President Coolidge and his cabinet have decided upon extreme measures.

Postmaster General New made arrangements today at conference with Major General Lejeune, commandant of the Marine corps, for the immediate assignment of Marines to mail trains, on all cars and mail trucks which carry the most valuable mail.

ulation of the United States, the editor of the Avalanche-Journal, in a column headed "Queen Marie Exploiting Our United States," said today that the queen's visit to this country was a publicity scheme.

"I intend Monday," he advised the United Press, "to take the matter up with the secretary of state to see if the United States government is going to lend itself further to this exploitation."

In connection with the outspoken feelings of the Memphis editor, it is pointed out.

The queen is said to have tendered a beauty testimonial to a beauty cream manufacturer and three have been named from time to time that she and her daughter, or both, would appear in motion pictures which will be filmed during their visit to Hollywood.

The queen's own story of her visit, said to have been purchased at considerable expense by an American syndicate, made its appearance almost simultaneously with her refusal to grant interviews about the Leviathan the privilege of quoting her.

TO CUT COTTON ACREAGE

Campaign to Start Soon to Get Farmers to Promise to Plant Less

AUSTIN, Oct. 16. (AP)—Machinery for cotton acreage reduction will be put into motion in Texas next week, in line with resolutions of last Wednesday's meeting at Memphis. It was announced Saturday by W. A. Philpott, Jr., Dallas, secretary of the Texas Bankers' association, who was in Austin conferring with state officials.

Mr. Philpott said that a campaign for voluntary pledges of acreage reduction will probably be carried on.

REVOLUTION PENDING?

U. S. Officers Investigate Rumors of Huerta Revolt at Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 16. (AP)—Rumored preparations for a rebel movement along the Texas-Mexican border against the Calles government in Mexico are receiving the attention of operatives of the United States department of justice. It was announced Saturday by C. P. J. Mooney, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, and one of the foremost editors of the country, announced today he would lay the whole matter before the state department Monday.

The fact that the queen is "in the employ of a syndicate," according to Mooney, is evidence of what her visit means.

"I intend Monday," he advised the United Press, "to take the matter up with the secretary of state to see if the United States government is going to lend itself further to this exploitation."

In connection with the outspoken feelings of the Memphis editor, it is pointed out.

ED NICHOLSON, ENRAGED WHEN MOTHER WHIPS SON, START ROW

Murder Charge Filed

WIDOW SAYS CONFESSED SLAYER ONLY DID HER DUTY

FORT WORTH, Oct. 16. (AP)—Ed Nicholson, 35, father of three children, was shot to death at his parent's home here today, police declared. Mrs. Jennie Belton, a sister admitted killing the man, "because he beat my poor old daddy."

Mrs. Belton's story, according to the police, was corroborated by Ed's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Nicholson.

They are reported by the police as saying Ed became enraged because the mother attempted to whip Ed's 11-year-old son, whom she explained she had reared from babyhood.

Starts Rough House Ed, the mother is quoted as saying rushed into the house and threatened to knock her down; knocked his sister into a tub of water; and then knocked his father down when he tried to call the police.

Mrs. Belton, then, she told the police seized a pistol and fired at Ed killing him instantly.

Mrs. Nicholson said the quarrel started when she threatened to whip the boy for being late to supper, according to the police. The scene of the shooting is in "roughneck" flats, a sliver bottom neighborhood. The slain man was a house painter.

"Did Her Duty" Nicholson's three children, 12, 11 and 6, were standing in line from a crowd when the police arrived. As the officers took the girl and her father "W" charge, they cried out: "Please don't take our daddy away!"

They made no mention of their dead father.

"She did nothing but her duty," Mrs. Nicholson insisted. "You can't treat my daddy that way," she said as she screamed.

Charges of murder were filed against In Justice court a few hours afterward. Bond of $2,500 had not been made tonight.

GIRLS TO HAVE QUARTET ALSO

The girls of the Tech will have a quartet also and efforts will be made to make it as popular as the male quartet, according to plans laid by a number of the girls. The girls of the school have signified their intention of organizing a chorus and especially a girls quartet. Prof. W. R. Wagborne, head of the department of music will have charge of the organization and all girls interested are requested to see him. The male quartet will work in harmony with the new organization and a mixed chorus and quartet will result from their meetings. The boys started yesterday. The male quartet will make their regular tour of this section next spring however.

FACULTY CLUB TO ENTERTAIN SATURDAY NIGHT AT LUBBOCK HOTEL

Gov. L. Ford president of the Faculty club announced yesterday that the first regular meeting of the organization would be held in the form of a party at the Lubbock hotel Saturday night beginning at 8 o'clock. This will be the get-together party for the club, many new members attending for the first time. Practically all new members of the faculty have asked for membership in the club. Ford stated yesterday that he wanted every member of the faculty to become a member as this was the only organization which was open to the entire faculty and the adult members of their families. The president and the deans will have charge of the program for Saturday. The hostess committee is composed of Mesdames P. W. Horn, A. H. Liddigh, J. M. Gordon, W. J. Miller, Gus L. Ford, Mary W. Donk and Miss Margaret Weeks.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS ELECTED

At the meetings of the various classes of the schools yesterday the sixteen members of the First Student Council for the Tech were elected. The officers of the student association will comprise the other members of the council and the freshman president will inaugurate the meetings. Members elected yesterday were: Ned Camp, John Young, Sylvia Williams, Glenn Honey and Orval Burroughs, of Lubbock; Kern Aldridge, Wellington, James Diggers, Floyd and Charles Woodbridge, Dallas; Jack Maddox, Junction; Floyd Anglin and Edna Smith, Pecos; L. E. Brooks, Lubbock; Elroy Alexander, Pecos; Brooks and Ted Sams, Bellevue. They are popular students of the Tech and have shown the proper spirit toward the affairs of the activities. The first meeting of the council will be called some time next week by which and important matters concerning the affairs of the school will be settled.

SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTURE TO OFFER PRIZE FOR CLUB WORK

At a meeting of the Society of Architecture Friday night, the members voted to offer a prize for the best free hand sketch of any piece of architecture drawn by a club member. The prize will be adjudged and awarded by the faculty sponsor of the club. An extensive study of architecture is being planned by the club for the year and much work as drawing, designing, will be encouraged at all times outside of the laboratories. The Society will also give several big social entertainments of the year and plans are being made for one about Halloween.

SOCK AND BUSKIN TO CLOSE MEMBERSHIPS THIS WEEK

Students wishing to become members of the Sock and Buskin Club in the fall term will have to enter their applications between now and Wednesday night. The final tryouts of the fall term will be held Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in room 202. Miss Ruth Pirtle, chairman of the tryout committee, urges that all applications be in by the afternoon. According to Miss Pirtle, the members already admitted into the club and those participating in the tryouts have shown exceptional ability and talent. She is highly elated over the previous tryouts and is laying plans for some good plays to be presented during the year. The names of all students who are admitted into the club will be posted on the bulletin board this week. A regular meeting of the club will be held Tuesday night at which time another play will be presented under the direction of Miss Vera Wilson.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB TO STAGE 'WENIE' ROAST THURS.

A regular old-fashioned "wenie" roast before a big bonfire will be staged by the Home Economics club at the Tech campus Thursday night at 8:30. The meeting will be the first social for the club for the year and will be held for a get-acquainted party. All students of the school at Home Economics and liberal arts students who are members of the club are invited to attend.

Immediately following the party, the girls will go to the pep meeting which will be held at the Pavilion.

ANDERSONS TO AWARD TROPHY TO MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Anderson Brothers' Jewelry has announced the offer of a beautiful silver trophy to the most valuable Tech football player during this season. The trophy is 18 inches high with a figure symbolizing "Victory". A panel is on the front of the trophy showing a player in action and a space is left below for the engraving of the name of the player, position and name of donor. The player will be selected by the fans of Lubbock and Tech, everybody being entitled to vote. The ballot is being kept in the store and the trophy is on display in the window.

MUCH INTEREST HAS ALREADY BEEN MANIFESTED IN THE CONTEST AND A LARGE NUMBER OF FANS CAST THEIR VOTES YESTERDAY, SEVERAL PLAYERS BEING NOMINATED. THE CONTEST WILL CLOSE AT THE END OF THE SEASON.

SPANISH CLUB TO HAVE ACTIVE YEAR

According to the plans laid by the members of the Spanish Club Thursday night, a very active year will be enjoyed by the organization. The main feature of the work of the club is a study of the Spanish language in conversation, all meetings, socials and other events to be carried on in the language. A rather romantic feature of the work of the club, will be the hearing of old Spanish love songs with the heart stirring strum of the guitar. A real Mexican Halloween party is being planned for next week by the club in which the world-famed customs of the Castilians will be enjoyed in.

MISS MAGEE TO ENTERTAIN WITH TEA TUESDAY

Miss Flora Magee will entertain Tuesday afternoon at the cafeteria from 3 until 5 with a tea and sewing meet. enrolled at this time last year and now 128 are on the rolls of the school.

Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of the school, is highly elated over the enrollment and plans for some interesting work for the various departments of the school.

"BEAT T. C. U." IS CRY OF ALL STUDENTS

With the brilliant display of fight shown by the Mafadors at Abilene Friday, the students are more and more anxious to see the team in action against a southwestern conference team. "Beat T. C. U." is the cry of the students and efforts will be made to so instill the phrase into the team that defeat will be almost impossible. With the special train sponsored by the Avalanche-Journal already contracted for and with preparations being made by all the students, the Fort Worth trip promises to be the largest ever made by a school of this section. The girls pep squad are leaders of the spirit and "Beat T. C. U." feeling and are working constantly for the trip. Drills of both the band and the pen squads will be held all this week so that when the parade starts in Fort Worth, everybody will know the Tech is in town, small ribbons bearing the slogan, "Beat T. C. U." are being made by the girls and will be sold all this week. Other things are being planned for the girls for the trip so that as many as possible may go.

TECH GETS WIDE PUBLICITY IN DEMANDS FOR SECOND YEAR

During the past several weeks, the various leading newspapers of the state have been carrying stories on the growth of the Tech, stressing the needs of the school in its second year of existence. Since the visit of the Board of Control, the stories have been more frequent. In the San Antonio Express, one of the leading dailies of the South, the following article appeared on the editorial page:

GREATER DEMANDS UPON TEXAS TECHNOLOGICAL COLLEGE

Because of the circumstance that the enrollment last year and so far this year greatly exceeded expectations, Texas Technological College, at Lubbock—the State's youngest higher educational institution, is financially embarrassed.

The initial session a year ago opened with 750 students—high the preparations had been for only 500—and by December 31, more than one thousand had entered. This fall 1,500 students registered at the outset—twice the enrollment at the opening in 1925. It is expected that at 200 more will attend before the scholastic period ends.

To meet these greater demands on its facilities, the college needs an additional $200,000, President Horn explains. This sum is required to pay more instructors and the increased administrative costs. It would not go for buildings and equipment, which also are necessary, but are included in the regular biennial budget submitted to the Board of Control.

Dr. Horn requests that the special session grant an emergency appropriation to meet the present situation but that action must await executive submission. The alternative would be the Governor's approval of further deficiency allowances. This financial condition could have been avoided only by turning away about one-half of the students which applied, which policy, the President—as he stated at the outset—would not pursue.

That decision will receive popular approval, particularly as Texas will have use for all the technical skill available in the new industrial period, now rapidly coming to fruition. It is a occasion for congratulation that the state's young men and women are so eager for the opportunities awaiting them in this field. Such ambition deserves the utmost encouragement.

WINN TALKS TO FARMERS

Agricultural Writer Tells Planters How to Assure Twenty-five Cent Cotton

With Welton Winn, agricultural of the Avalanche-Journal publications, as the principal speaker, approximately 100 farmers of this section met in discussion of the cotton situation here yesterday afternoon in the courthouse. Mr. Winn spoke for an hour and a half with "How to Assure Twenty-five Cent Cotton" as his subject.

L. C. "Happy Jack" Burford, president of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau Cotton Association, presided at the meeting and made a few remarks. A general discussion of the problem followed Mr. Winn's address.

TAYLOR COTTON HURT BY TWO INCHES OF RAIN

ABILENE, Oct. 16.—The two-inch rain which fell over this area yesterday is believed to have lowered the grade of cotton in Taylor county and caused a loss thereby to the farmers of $250,000. Several farmers with fields white with cotton before the rain report much of it knocked out. The loss will run very high in some places.

STATE DOPE FARM California May Have Special Place for Treatment of Drug Addicts

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 16.—California may establish a state farm for the treatment of drug addicts. Such a step will be proposed to the January session of the state legislature. It was revealed Friday in the report of Sanborn Young, chairman of Governor Richardson's narcotic committee which has been investigating the narcotic situation in California.

"Morphine is the favorite drug of addiction in California," the report stated. "In the northern part of the state fully 85 percent of our arrests involve morphine, but in and around Los Angeles marihuana is so generally used by the Mexican addicts that only about 50 percent of arrests there involve morphine; the remainder involve marihuana, opium, heroin, cocaine and occasionally cyanide."

The committee's report declared that 20 percent of California's addicts are women. It claimed that it was learned definitely that there was no foundation for assertions that drug addiction was prevalent among school children.

A Los Angeles automobile distributor has offered to permit prospects to try out a car unaccompanied by a salesman. The theory is that such confidence in the car's own merits, unaided by sales talk, will impress itself upon the prospect.

THE EYES OF THE LORD-"For the eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to shew Himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward Him." 2 Chron. 16:9.

A STORY ON THE SCORE BOARD

For many years there has been more or less criticism of the West. There has been a great deal of doubt, or at least a supposed doubt, as to whether West Texas is just what her citizens claim for her in an agricultural way. For many years West Texas people, individually, through the various agencies of publicity, the schools the churches the Chamber of Commerce, the newspapers and through the pages of magazines, by stories written by people who have been out here to see about it, have told of the wonders of the Western part of the State and especially the South Plains section.

Commenting on this situation, the Dallas News, which publication for many years was highly prejudiced against this section, and gave many exaggerated headlines regarding the weather and the conditions, has this to say about the exhibits at the fair this year and the awards of the judges: "The West Texas section scored a triumph that seems to justify the broad claims of residents of that region relative to the fertility of their soil. The first three counties were from the West Texas section, as were the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth. East Texas entered the lonely wedge between the first seven West Texas counties. The North Texas section was not heard from until twelfth place, and Central Texas scored first in twentieth position. The only South Texas entry was in thirty-ninth place, there being forty-one entries.

It would seem to us that this is evidence enough that this is the section of Texas for farmers. People wanting homes should not delay to come to this part of the state, for the chances of securing homes cheap, are passing rapidly. The great ranches of this section have practically all disappeared. They are no more used for the growing cattle, but are being cut into farm tracts and are being sold. While there is yet a large acreage uncultivated each year is reducing the amount and also reducing the chances of the renter to get a home of his own, and live the balance of his day a happy possessor of a nice piece of land on which to build his home, and rear his family without being dictated to by the cold blooded landlord many of whom care for nothing but the money that can get on their investment.

There is no need for any further doubt about this country. It is head and shoulders over any other part of the State for stock-farming which is the kind that is going to make Texas famous in the future. The all cotton type of farmers will have to break over. They will have to get on the line that is going to produce something. Raise fewer acres of cotton, raise more feed, more hogs, more poultry and more of the things they can eat on the farm and sell to the general markets.

COURAGE MAKES GOOD CITIZENS

We think there is hardly anything that is more necessary to the making up of the tip top citizenship of any community than courage. Courage to stand for the things that are right, and to fight against the things that are wrong. This is an element of citizenship, that we believe is lacking in more people than possibly anything else that a good citizen should possess.

Courage is the basic foundation but not the complete virtue of character. Columbus discovered America because he had courage. There were men of his time who also had courage, but who lacked the vision of Columbus. There were men of his time who had vision but whose vision was not sustained by faith. Vision is a conspicuous virtue when it is endowed with that intelligence which can analyze and interpret its claims. Washington was a man of courage. There were others of his time who also had courage but who lacked his vision and the faith that was born of the intelligence with which his vision was endowed. So also of Lincoln. These three primal virtues, courage, vision and intelligence, have been the endowment of the men who have made America and carried triumph forward. Folk who are fearful of failure invariably fail. They who have the courage to face the full force of the battle have all the advantages in the fight. Men serve brave souls. We instinctively turn to men of commanding courage, the men who have faith in their vision. Courage mothers invention. It is the builder of inspirational power. It is the dynamo that gives genius light. Right endeavor succeeds because right is endowed with that faith that is unafraid. Man knows no greater duty than that of being brave in the defense of that which his cultivated conscience tells him is right. No man or nation can measure courage until courage has been tested in the fires of danger. Weapons are worthless unless placed in the hands of courage. Courage grows not out of numbers but out of strong hearts that are guided by right minds. Courage never dodges danger. It never deceives itself. It frankly faces the foe and conquers it. He who sees what is right and refuses to battle to support it or obtain it is wanting in courage. He who lacks courage is a coward. Much talent in this world is lost through lack of courage. Talent is revealed only when talent is developed and defended by courage. Having vision and intelligence without courage, is like a complete machine, perfect and ready to run in all its parts, but inactive for want of power. Most of us have some vision. Most of us have a fair measure of intelligence. But if any of us with any real experience will look back upon our careers we will find that most often our vision was right, our interpretation was right, but when we failed it was because we lacked the courage. Vision and intelligence without courage to act are of little or no avail.

In every field of endeavor we meet men of little vision, small intelligence, sometimes men who seem even to be ignorant. Yet to all external appearances and by worldly measures they seem to be men of accomplishments, men who perhaps have acquired money. They succeeded in doing exactly what they started out to do. We wonder at these instances. We compare them with men of real intelligence, of education, who appear not to have succeeded. The answer to the riddle is simple. They at least had the courage to act and small intelligence in action will achieve more than great intelligence in inaction. These men at whose achievements we wonder may have made many mistakes and endured large loss through their lack of vision and intelligence. These they overcame by the persistence of their courage which acquired intelligence out of failure. Their courage of action has given them a power over their losses and mistakes. Our strength is at all times in proportion to our courage. Our vision is seeing in perspective. Our intellect is only the guide, the governor of our wills; it is not action. Without courage intellect is the source of fear. With every condition nature gives us the power of vision to see it and the intelligence to interpret it; it is as natural as the law of self-preservation. Courage is also in conformity to this natural law, that there is a place, a purpose, reward for every honest constructive action.

The lack of courage has allowed many of the common evils of the city to continue. Many people who are good citizens in every other way lack courage. They hesitate to bring to the notice of the peace officers many things that they see being done in violation of the laws, and detrimental to the general morals of the community, because they are afraid to be known in the matter. Many people do not have courage enough to serve as jurors, and render every excuse possible to keep from having to take their stand in this way. We let things go along without any effort to check them because we do not have the courage to express or put into action our conviction in the matter.

Courage and character we believe go hand in hand. Be courageous. Be a tip top citizen.

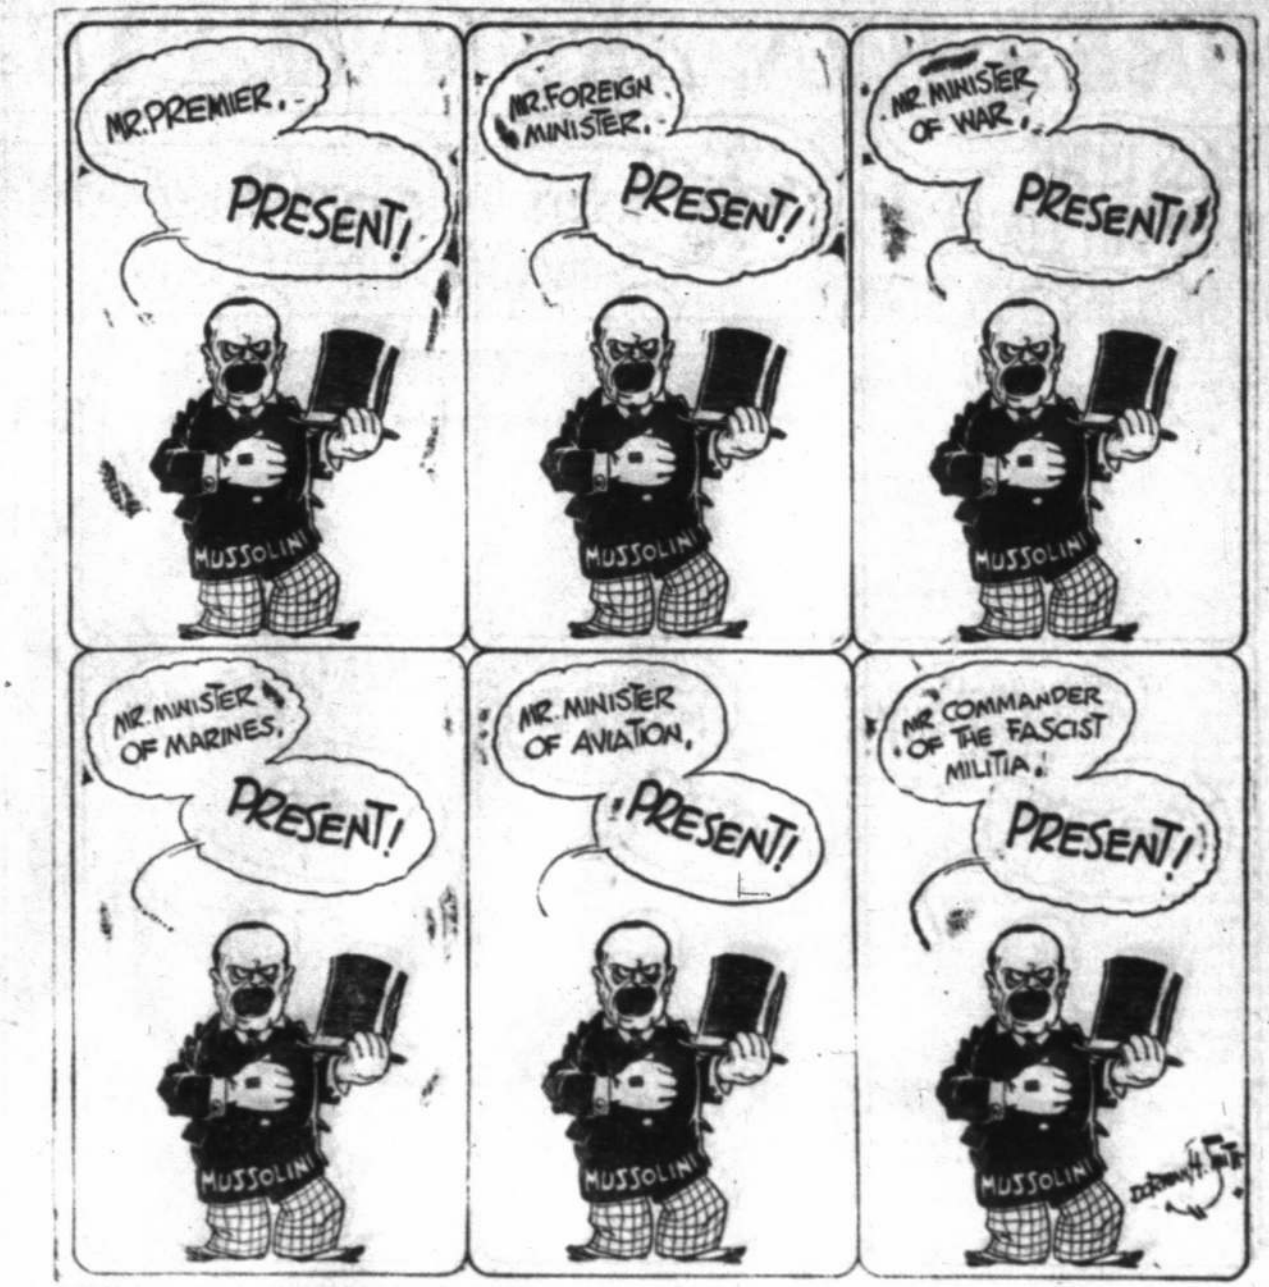

C. F. Sessinger, a bonding company official, declares that "90 per cent of the people of this country are potential crooks." Meaning, it is assumed, that nine out of ten people would steal if the reward were large enough and the chances sufficiently favorable for getting away with it. Of course, most of us like to think that we belong among the trustworthy 10 per cent.

Bandits in Detroit recently showed determination worthy of a better calling. They attempted to hold up one bank, but were routed with a spray of tear gas released when the cashier pressed a button. They proceeded to another six blocks away, where they had better luck, securing $3,000 and making good their escape.

Springfield, Tenn., is without a barber, according to the Herald which states that "Judge Shearhouse has given the town's only barber a steady 15-month position on the county chain gang." This makes a fine opening for a chiron-tomson who can keep out of the law's clutches.

Allen Roesch of Philadelphia probably will never try to swim the English Channel. He swam a quarter of a mile off a New Jersey beach and had to call for help. After his rescue he was arrested for "violating the law of common sense by venturing so far."

The Whole Cheese

SO THINK WE

We think that it takes a good cartoonist to draw a crowd.

We think the schools should all have cement approaches, especially enough for the students to walk out on without getting in the mud. The school board are no doubt doing their best with the funds that they have, but why not arrange for more funds.

We think Lubbock needs several miles of cement walks. Lets connect the schools and the Tech College with the main sidewalks of the city.

We think public officials should be men of unquestioned moral standing in the community, sober and leaders in all movements for the betterment of the community.

We think there is no lack of interest in the athletics of the town, from the way the boys left at home gather in front of the Avalanche-Journal for the results of the games when the old Tech team is playing elsewhere.

We think one of the big things that Lubbock should do after during the next few months is a suitable auditorium for this city.

We think it is nothing short of a shame that the Interstate Commerce Commission should hold up the report on the Denver road project till this time, and even yet does not give the slightest idea that they will ever give out a report, favorably or unfavorably.

We think there is liable to be some startling discovery in the matter of oil and gas around Lubbock before many weeks. You need not be at all surprised to hear of a good find most any time.

We think times have changed, but we do not believe that the change has been so great that a young couple can begin married life where their parents are when they marry. That's one thing that they have to do. Just like "pa and ma" did, begin at the bottom and build.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that one Lubbock man says if belonging to an organization of any kind, means that you are going to be slapped on the back, he is opposed to all of them.

It is reported that some folks came to town Saturday and shoved the old "ax in the ditch" so they could pull him out today. If that is the case, all the cotton they pick will spoil and be worth nothing to them. The children of Israel tried that many years ago, but did not get by with it.

It is reported that a fellow's neck gets red everytime they tell a lie. If that was true, which we do not believe, it misses our old coat about four years.

It is reported that last winter's overcoats will be in style again this winter. That's fine, but the trouble is, it misses our old coat about four years.

It is reported that one young man said he thought before he married he thought he could save the world by so doing, but now he finds that he cannot even save his salary.

It is reported that the East Texas Cotton Palace will be held in due form and order, we hope they will be able to raise the price of cotton.

It is reported that some folks who had a good pull and got into high office have shown their "unqualifiedness" for the job by advocating the buying and burning of two million bales of cotton in order that the price of the other might be higher. They would never have gotten into the office, if it took brains to put them there.

It is reported that a petrified skull that the scientists say is fifty thousand years old has been unearthed in Patagonia. That fellow must have been as hard headed as some of the folks we have known, in our few years of existence.

It is reported that seeing is believing, and we are just about to tumble to that belief. The more we see of some folks, the less we think of them.

It is reported that a certain Plain-view girl wrote the question and answer editor of this newspaper, and wanted to know is "Good Friday" was named after Robinson Crusoe's man Friday.

It is reported that old Battle Axe was not satisfied with spitting on the sidewalk Saturday, but actually spit on a young lady's nice new shoes as she glided by on a shopping errand.

It is reported that one husband says that if you will brag on your wife now and then, it will help you and her both to be happy. We just wonder if that fellow was speaking from experience or was that just "book larnin'."

It is reported that forty percent of the counties in Texas this year held fairs. That's a pretty good indication that farmers are becoming more interested in their job.

It is reported that about fifty miles of resolutions have been made during the past two weeks, on cotton prices and marketing, but still the price goes down.

SOUTH PLAINS PRESS

TREES: Cochran County News: "It will soon be time to plant trees in the plains country and inasmuch as we have one of the best tree sections of the plains country, it is time for every one to get ready to set out a few trees this fall. Do not try to set out more than you can take care of, but set out a few so that a few years from now each place in Bledsoe will have several good trees around it. Did you ever notice how much trees help the looks of a town? Think of the towns you have passed through and remarked on the beauty of the town. Did not each one have a good supply of trees? Trees of all kinds grow with very little trouble in the rich red sandy loam around Bledsoe, and it behooves every citizen to do his bit to see that several new trees are started each year." Trees are great things to have. People of the older settled portion of the plains planted trees many years ago. The old settled places all have large trees around them. The only criticism that might be offered is that they did not plant fruit bearing trees rather than the ordinary shade trees. The pecan tree would have grown years ago just as well as now, and would have grown just as well as many of the kinds they planted in those days. If these had been planted thirty years ago, they would have borne hundreds of bushels of pecans now, and the pecan planting habit would have spread, and there might have been thousands of these useful trees on the plains at this time instead of a very few. Plant trees, but while planting them plant fruit trees and especially the pecans or the walnut. Both will do well in this section.

It's An Ill Wind Indeed That Doesn't Help This "Amateur" Weather Forecaster

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.-Every time there is a heavy storm anywhere in the western hemisphere, Herbert Janvrin Brown's stock goes up and the United States weather Bureau decides the party is a bust and wishes it hadn't come.

Herbert Janvrin Brown is a sort of unofficial weather prophet. He insists that by studying sun spots he can tell in a general sort of way what the weather will be like as far as three years ahead.

The weather bureau insists that he cannot. Nor can any other man, say the government experts. Long-distance forecasting, they say, is not possible.

But Brown is unruffled. He had predicted that the summer and fall of 1926 would be tempestuous and chilly, and he says that the next winter will come early and stay late. Accordingly, whenever there is heavy storm anywhere it—in the eyes of a lot of people—bears out Brown's contentions.

The Florida hurricane, followed closely by a similar storm away off in Paraguay, are the latest. Brown remarks "the freakiest weather yet" and continues to predict bad weather. And the weather bureau, still as insistent as ever that he doesn't know

LAUGHS

"Well, there's one thing about the man who sings his own praises." "And what's that?" "He never has to give the excuse that he has left his music home and can't play without his notes."

Teacher: "Now, Tommy, suppose you had two apples, and you gave another boy his choice of them, you would tell him to take the bigger one, wouldn't you?" Tommy: "No, mam."

Teacher: "Why?" Tommy: "'Cos, 'twouldn't be necessary."

Merchant: "I want a boy who doesn't smoke, chew, gamble, swear, read dime novels—" Mickey McGraw: "Aw, say, youse don't want er boy, Youse wants er gal."

"Algy is peculiar in his ways, but he is consistent in one thing. He never eats oysters till January." "Why is that?" "Because he doesn't sound the 'Y' in September, October, November or December."

Caller: "Wonder if I can see your mother, little boy? Is she engaged?" Little Boy: "Engaged! Watcher givin' us? She's married."

Mother was giving baby his daily vocabulary drill. "In the morning when we eat what meal is it?" "Oatmeal," was the hapling answer.

When a customs officer found a bottle of whisky in the handbag declared to containing wearing apparel, the owner explained that it was his night cap.

"Give me neither poverty nor riches," said the sage. But if it must be one or the other, let it be riches.

Americanism: Complaining about a yearly tax bill of $9.75 while spending $15 a month for moonshine liquor.

that he's talking about, has to admit that Florida did have a hurricane.

Brown made a speech before the 13th annual business conference at Wellesley Hills, Mass., recently.

The summer of 1926-27, which is winter here but summer south of the equator, will be mighty chilly south of the 19th, he predicted. And in this northern hemisphere, he went on, the summer of 1927 will be an equally frosty one.

There'll be torrid spells, he admitted, but enough cold ones, he asserted to kill the crops.

What frets the weather department is that Brown has enough disciples to give his forecasts a market effect. Hard-headed houses in Chicago, he reports, which may not believe in him a bit, nevertheless have to pay due attention to his predictions because prices fluctuate as he hands out his hints. His forecasts are quite widely accepted at par by farmers, and even the "White House" lays in an extra supply of kindling wood.

Every time the weather department sees an unusual storm blow up it shudders. "More capital," it grouns, "for H. Janvrin Brown!" He never overlooks a bit. The White House, laying in fuel supplies, is the lot kind of pratt for his mill. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

A Little Talk On Thrift

Although the ability to make money is, to a considerable extent, a matter of natural aptitude, the still more important accomplishment of thrift can be acquired by anyone. There is no excuse for not saving money.

Thriftlessness is an indication of weakness of indecision of character. Thrift requires steadfastness and at times the use of the last ounce of moral strength that we possess. But it does not require any special genius.

No matter how shrewd a man may be or how keenly developed his instincts for acquiring wealth, he will never be successful unless an element of thrift is woven into all his activities. The so-called "financial wizards" may at times seem able to defy prudent practices and the principles of thrift. But such success is seldom permanent. Wealth acquired too quickly or too easily nearly always proves transitory.

How many men there are today who might have become wealthy had they only known how to save money? During the course of their careers they have earned large sums but these have slipped through their fingers from day to day. They had the natural gift of making money, just as their successful rivals but they lacked the quality of permanent success—which is thrift.

JUST FOLKS

A WOMAN

Woman is queer, as has often been said. There is always a bonnet, she wants for her head. She has always the gown to be worn when she's dead. She's a creature of fancies, of notions and whims. She is fond of her church, and she joins in the hymns. But the man that she marries goes fishing and swims. She despises deceit in another, and yet if she fancies a man whom she never has met. That "chance introduction" she'll manage to get. She is gentle and tender, yet should you reveal A love which she spurns, you will break on her wheel. She'll be cruel as Nero, and colder colder than steel. She is seldom thwarted, or swayed from her plan. She aims for the highest and spurs on her man. She wants him to conquer and knows that he can. You may think that you know her; may say she is kind. Modest, agreeable, clever, refined. But you never will fathom the depth of her mind. A woman is queer, but when that has been said, And we've laughed at the notions which fill through her head. It's her pride, we are seeking; her anger we dread. Copyright 1926, Edgar A. Guest

LUBBOCK HIGH GRIDSTERS BEAT CLOVIS 6-0

COMMODORES WIN FROM TEXAS LONGHORNS BY 7-0 SCORE

SMITH HURLS 40 YARD PASS INTO ADKISSON'S HANDS TO PUT LOCAL LADS AHEAD OF NEW MEXICO BOYS

The Lubbock high school Westerners are still leading in the race of the state and elsewhere that they are still undefeated by a victory over the Clovis, New Mexico, high school club here Saturday afternoon at Texas Tech park by a score of 6 to 0. A crowd estimated at 1500 witnessed the two school grid eleven battle thru the afternoon.

It was a beautiful pass, Smith to Eddie Adkisson, early in the second quarter that gave the game its only score. Adkisson was fully 30 yards down the field when the oval fell in his arms, and thence he pounced thru the secondary defense of the New Mexicans 10 yards for the touchdown.

Scoring Dangerous Light
Other than the tally counted by the pass—the club was in danger of the opponent's scoring—most of the game was fought in mid-field. A great amount of punting was called for in both the action of the Westerners and the visiting club.

Something of a drive—a punch, was lacking in the activity of the local grid eleven this afternoon—it wasn't the same club that battled the Post lads here during the South Plains fair—the boys were sluggish and consequently put up a slow and draggy fight. The Westerner passing combination was shown in a part of the contest—but did not function according to the directions of the mentors, Von Tungen and Frank.

Brothers Hass Off Day
Brothers, captain of the local team, was not at his best—he was not the same lad that chased time and again thru the line for road long gains—his kicking was not true to form; and nothing that he attempted yesterday afternoon indicated the ability of which he really is capable of doing.

Clovis' offense was more effective than that of Lubbock—their line gains were longer and more consistent. However, their passing was not in the class of the Westerners.

"Rusty" Smith Is Star
Valuable services of "Rusty" Smith, the husky fullback of the Clovis club, dealt much misery to the Westerners. Smith appeared in a triple role—was passing, punting, and running. His gains on off table plays were as great as to the offense machine opened up by the visitors.

Ashley, flashy quarterback of the Mexicans, displayed rare ability in running his team. He was quite effective in carrying back the punts of the Westerners for nice long chases, often returning punts for as many as 10 or more yards.

The score by quarters:
Officials—Honey, T. C. U. referee; Galbreath, M. U. umpire; Pearson, S. M. U. headlinesman; Reed, Texas Tech, field judge.

Time of game by play, follows:
First Quarter
Clovis won the toss and chose to defend the north goal. The weather was warm and still and neither club was at an advantage on the toss. Clovis kicked off to Brothers on his 20 yard line and made a 10 yard return. Lubbock's ball on their 25 yard line. Brothers ripped thru for 5 yards at right tackle. Brothers punned for 50 yards to Ashley who was downed in his tracks.

It was Clovis' ball on their 25 yard line. Baldridge hit line for no gain. Baldridge fumbled and Powell for Lubbock recovered. Lubbock's ball on the Clovis 20 yard line.

Time out was called for Clovis. A pass, Brothers to Kennedy, was incomplete. Clovis line offside, 5 yard penalty. A pass, Brothers to Kennedy, incomplete. Huxley broke thru to get Brothers for a 5 yard loss. Leland made a great run at right end, chasing for 14 yards and put the ball in position for a field goal. Brothers attempted for the goal was short.

Clovis' ball on their 20 yard line. Ashley hit right tackle for 2 yards. A pass, Smith to Cravey, incomplete. Smith ripped off 2 yards around right end. This ended the first quarter. Score: Lubbock, 0; Clovis, 0.

Second Quarter
Smith for Brothers and Adkisson for Powell, substituted for Lubbock. Clovis' ball on the Lubbock 45 yard line. Smith punted for 35 yards to Leland who returned it 15.

Lubbock's ball on their own 30 yard line. Smith fullback for Lubbock punted back for 35 yards to Ashley who returned for 19 yards.

Clovis' ball on the Clovis 40 yard line. Smith intercepted a Clovis pass and made a 7 yard. Lubbock's ball on the Clovis 25 yard line. A pass, Smith to Adkisson, was completed and Eddie Adkisson ran 40 yards for Lubbock's first touch down. Smith's kick for goal was low. Score: Lubbock, 6; Clovis, 0.

Smith kicked off to Clovis and

Smith received it on their 30 yard line and returned it for 10 yards. Clovis' ball on their 40 yard line. A pass, Smith to Baldridge, was incomplete. Baldridge hit right tackle for 2 yards. Dickinson substituted for Morion Smith for Lubbock. Smith punted for 40 yards to Leland who ran back 3 yards.

Lubbock's ball on her 25 yard line. Smith punted back for 25 yards to Ashley who returned 10 yards.

Clovis' ball on their 45 yard line. Hardberger went in for Leland for Lubbock. Smith hit line for 8 yards, and repeated for 2 yards. Cravey hit line for 2 yards. Smith dropped back to punt, the Lubbock line charged him and his kick was blocked.

Lubbock's ball on the Clovis 47 yard line. Three out Clovis. Barton substituted for Fredland and Bryan for Kennedy. A pass, Smith to Bartol, incomplete. Hardberger hit right tackle tackle for 1 yard. A pass, Smith to Hill, incomplete. A 5 yard penalty was given Lubbock for a second incomplete pass. Smith punted out of bounds for 41 yards.

Clovis' ball on her 5 yard line. Smith for Clovis punted back to Lubbock for 43 yards. Lubbock's ball on her 49 yard line.

A pass, Smith to Hill, netted 9 yards. Adkisson hit thru center for 2 yards. Lubbock's ball on the Clovis 29 yard line. Smith hit line for no gain. Time out for Lubbock. A pass, Smith to Barton, netted 11 yards. Lubbock's ball on the Clovis 28 yard line. A pass, Smith to Bryan, was incomplete. This ended the half. Score: Lubbock, 6; Clovis, 0.

Third Quarter

Strolling Down Sport Lane With James R. Dow

While we are on the boxing racket I might not be amiss to state that the Rio Grande Valley is going in for the ring game, Fidel La Barba, one of the coming little fellows, will show his wares in that section of the state in the near future. The Texas organization of the American Legion, after a hot fight on the floor of the annual convention at Amarillo, went on record as favoring boxing for Texas. The Lubbock Legion, however, upon returning home, passed resolutions condemning the game and the state organization's stand on it.

The Hot Stove League is already beginning to function at its headquarters in Fletcher Allen's busy bee beaver, the Western skipper, as usual, drawing the bugs of season as he does when the sun heats down and the necks turn brown at Merrill Park.

Speaking of Hot Stove League activities Mr. Allen has a flock of scrap books, composed of literally billions of clippings about his prowess while in professional ball, which make good reading. He only shows them, however, on rare occasions.

A city basketball league might not be amiss in Lubbock since the city baseball circuit had such a successful season. There are a number of ex-court stars sojourning here now and no doubt a good league could be looped out. What do you say, you loopers?

Anybody who thinks basketball is not a tough wrinkle is kidding himself. The boys who have played it know better.

Plenty of upsets confront the grid fan this morning. A lot of the teams figured to romp away to easy victories got defeated yesterday.

Lubbock high school beat Clovis, 6-0, but the homeboys had an off-day at that. Buddy Brothers, Westerner captain, who is one of the best high school grid performers in this section of the state, wasn't quite up to his usual form and it seemed to affect the rest of the team as well. Eddie Adkisson, second string calculator counted the Westerner's only marker on the business end of a flip from Smith so as long as the locals won we should worry about an off day. The best of the above off days in all sports. Remember Walter Johnson one rainy day a little more than a year ago?

Indications are now that George Stier will parting with Cornelius Mac Gillcuddy in Quaker-town next season.

Time out, Lubbock. Bryan went thru to get Ashley on a cut back play for 5 yards loss. Smith punted 25 yards to Brothers who returned for 2 yards. Lubbock's ball on her 45 yard line. Leland lost a yard at right end. A pass, Brothers to Adkisson, incomplete. Brothers punted for 25 yards to Ashley who fumbled it and Cravey recovered. Clovis' ball on her 33 yard line. Smith hit line for 2 yards. Time out Lubbock. Smith hit line for 5 yards. Ashley ripped off 9 yards around right end. A pass, Smith to Manning, incomplete. Smith broke thru for 5 yards. Clovis' ball on her 30 yard line. Ashley netted 2 yards thru line. Time out, Clovis. Ashley to Cravey, a pass, incomplete. This ended the game. Score: Lubbock, 6; Clovis, 0.

VANDERBILT BACKS SMASH TEXAS' TACKLES FOR LONE TOUCHDOWN IN HOTLY CONTESTED GAME AT FAIR

By United Press.
DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 16.—The driving off-tackle plays of the Vanderbilt Commodores defeated the Texas Longhorns in their annual contest this afternoon. The score was 7-0 and the lone touchdown was a tribute to the power of the crippled Willard Hendrix who slanted off Line Captain Murray Moore's tackle early in the third period for 36 yards. Vanderbilt carried the ball the remaining two yards for a touchdown in the next four plays and Spears added the point.

Playing on a field slowed by the heavy rainfall of the previous afternoon, it was obvious early in the first period that the Commodore players would not risk their running attack. Bill Spears, the Chattanooga flash, hurled his back field against the YALE BOWL, New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16.—Yale, displaying an aggressiveness and perfected aerial attack, that gives it a great chance for the Eastern championship this year, swept the great Dartmouth eleven off its feet here today by a score of 14 to 7.

Punting and nervousness kept Yale, constantly threatening, from scoring in the first two periods. The Bull Dog pulled together in the last half and came from behind to sweep down the field and score a touchdown in each quarter.

Only in the second quarter, when Dartmouth made its outchdown, which baffling style of play and the team work that made the 1925 team one of the strongest in the country, displayed. A reverse play, comprising a double pass, petrified the Yale defense, and Dartmouth marched from its 23 yard line for a touchdown.

Starting the third period trailing, the Yale eleven showed evidence of taking in heart what Tad Jones must have told his crew between halves. The sloppy tackling and costly fumbles that marked the first half disappeared, and the Bull Dog became aggressive, slugging into the green line, picking holes in the defense and clearly outplaying their opponents.

After a search down the field, Edmund passed to Kline, who went over for the touchdown. Noble kicked the point, trying the score.

Yale made the winning touchdown late in the game when Scott, racing at top speed for the Dartmouth, took a long pass from McDonough out of the air, and racing through the clutching Dartmouth tacklers for the touchdown. Wadsworth kicked the goal.

Longhorn line and battered the forward walls throughout the afternoon. Spears also uncovered a rather disorganized passing game but Texas evidently was well schooled in the defense for this attack.

Spears Looks Good
Spears himself flashed a brilliant game. Repeatedly after the first half he whirled around the ends and cut in through the tackles to pick up much yardage but he never penetrated the Texas territory deeply. Only one time did the Commodores stick their noses inside the Longhorn 20 yard line but then they scored.

Texas rushed in satisfaction after substitution in an effort to stave off the defeat and tie the score. It was early in the third period that Joe King entered at quarterback for the Longhorns and as long as he was in there the Texas players threatened, for his passing is deadly. But the Commodore covered the receivers.

Texas Fails to Threaten
Texas never threatened to score all afternoon. They advanced the ball beyond the middle of the field but twice and then they never got inside the thirty-five yard line.

Although the game was played on a soggy gridiron there were about 15,000 persons who saw the game—a capacity crowd. An intense sun shone thru-out the afternoon.

Illinois Star Gives Iowa 13-6 Lashing

By United Press
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 16.—"Frosty" Peters, sensational halfback, this afternoon accomplished in all the glory that once went to the great Red Grange and his brilliant playing marking the margin between Iowa and Illinois that resulted in a 13 to 6 victory for the Illini.

It was Peters' drop kick in the second quarter which put the righting spirit into the Illini that resulted in a touchdown a few minutes later to overcome an early six point lead held by the Hawkeyes.

Peters added the point after touchdowns with his toe and then threw in another drop kick from the 30 yard line for good measure.

GAME CALLED OFF
TAHOKA, Oct. 16.—The game that was to be played between Tahoka and Littlefield was called off due to the hard rain and the impossibility of the Tahoka congregation being able to get through the mud to Littlefield.

The town team of Tahoka played the Bull Dog's Friday afternoon, to keep them in practice.

S. M. U. HOLDS MISSOURI TIGERS TO 7 TO 7 TIE

MISSOURI VALLEY CHAMPS FAIL TO DEFEAT HUSTLING METHODISTS WHO BATTLE TIGERS THROUGHOUT GAME

MEMORIAL STADIUM, COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 16. (AP)—Sensational passes and heavy line plunges by both teams featured the intersectional gridiron classic here this evening between the University of Missouri Tigers and Southern Methodist University, which ended in a 7 to 7 tie.

The Tigers were cheated out of a victory in the last minute of play when Stuber's try for a field goal from the 34 yard line hit the goal post and bounded back into the field. Missouri then made a determined effort to score by the aerial route, but their attempts were blocked and the game ended with the ball on the Mustangs' 25 yard line.

Tigers Open Strong

Missouri started the game sensationally by sweeping down the field for a touch down in the first four minutes of play. Flammack kicked off to the Mustangs' 45 yard line to Dawson, who fumbled, and the Tiger recovered the ball. O'Sullivan gained three yards around tight end and Stuber followed up with a long pass to Lindemeyer, who was down seven yards short of the Methodist's goal line. Another pass, Stuber to Clark, was good for a touch down, and Clark added another point by kicking goal.

The Mustangs came back three minutes later with their fourth down when they opened up an aerial attack which swept the Tigers off their feet. Mann made two long passes, one to Wade and the other to Hume, which put the ball on Missouri's ten yard line. Mann passed over the goal line to Daniel's for the Mustangs' points and Hume kicked goal.

Notre Dame Romps Over Penn State

By CLARK W. KELSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 16.—Notre Dame's powerful fighting Irish team won another national championship, smashed its way to a 23 to 0 victory over Penn. State here this afternoon, despite predictions that, weakened by injuries, it might lose of defeat.

The powerful Rockne team went wild with two of its early season stars missing, because of injuries. But the Irish demonstrated that they were strong, where a good team must be strong, where a good team must be strong, where a good team must be strong.

The third Notre Dame play of the game saw O'Leary snatch a pass and race for a touchdown. The extra point was added.

The next Irish score came in the second quarter when Johnny Nelme, individual star of the game, ripped his way through the line and skirted the ends for a touchdown.

In the third quarter an exchange of punts, culminated with the Irish in possession of the ball. Dehanan ran 24 yards for the third touchdown.

Jack Chovinec provided the stellar work in the fourth quarter when he plunged through the Penn. State line for 31 yards and the last Irish marker.

East Beats West at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Sensational open field running mixed with crashing line plays, enabled the Pennsylvania to defeat Chicago today and the East won its first intercollegiate victory from the West this season. The score was 27 to 6.

The Westwasters were helpless before the Pennsylvania attack, which enabled the Quakers to break thru for 26 first down. Chicago was able to make only one first down. And that late in the game.

Amorous Sutor of "Little Juarez" ANTI-COURTING INJUNCTION GIVEN Halted In His Love by Hand of the Law

True love does not always run smooth, even among those who trace their ancestry, after a fashion, to the court of old Seville, where bandoleros cavaleros are wont to strum Spanish guitars under the balconies of their courtiers and where the essence of Spanish onions and tamales, tortillas or what have you, permeate the soft evening breeze.

Lubbock's "Little Juarez" is all agog today for the heavy hand of the law has fallen upon a budding romance and while Epifanio Munoz probably still has his guitar he is sans balcony under which to strum it because the law, urged by the implications of Eulalio Izquierdo and his fair daughter, Fiburcia, has ruled against his suit.

ROMANIAN PRISONERS WHEN MARIE ARRIVES
Will Protest Alleged Tortures in Queen's Kingdom

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—On the day of the arrival here of Queen Marie of Rumania, the New York branch of the International Labor Defense will meet in Union Square to protest against the persecution of Rumanian political prisoners.

A permit for this meeting was granted Friday so that it has the same official sanction if not the same official enthusiasm as the municipal reception to the Balkan Queen.

Officials of the labor defense, an organization which works for political prisoners in various parts of the world, contend that Rumania's treatment of political radicals and labor leaders has been medieval and has been featured by such tortures as hanging up prisoners by their feet for days, pulling out finger nails, beating with iron bars and other practices designed to extract confessions of conspiracies.

SUBSTITUTE IS STAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. (AP).—In a game featured by the broken field running of Fred Grim, a substitute for Captain Marty Foyne, Ohio State defeated Columbia 33 to 14 here today. The winners could not gain consistently through the Columbia line but ran to advantage in the open.

NORTHWESTERN WINS

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 16. (AP).—For three quarters today Indiana University matched with smart defense the strong attack of Northwestern, but in the fourth period the Hoosiers wall crumbled and the Wild Cats romped to a three touchdown victory, winning 2 to 0.

ARMY TEAM WINS

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 16. (AP).—Army's powerful eleven, which was the under dog for two periods, made a strong finish to defeat Syracuse today by 27 to 21 before 20,000 spectators in the Military academy's new stadium.

Rice Owls Defeat St. Edwards, 19 to 0

HOUSTON, Oct. 16. (AP).—Showing a vast improvement over last week's play when they were held to a six to six tie by Trinity, the Rice Owls, broke loose at Rice Field Saturday, afternoon and defeated St. Edwards University of Austin, 19 to 0.

Led by Hecht and Captain Heavy Underwood, the Owls fought their way through the Saints, in the first period to gain a 7 to 0 margin. From then on it was Rice's game.

Saints Rally

The Saints rallied in the last period and worked their way within scoring distance, but here the Owls' defense stiffened and on the fourth down a pass was attempted, but it went astray, as the ball went to the Owls.

The drive started in the Saints' territory and by completing passes, Coach Meagher's crew gained until they were within the shadows of Rice's goal.

Baylor Bears Are Trinity Subduers

WACO, Texas, Oct. 16. (AP).—The Baylor Bears held the Trinity Tigers scoreless here today on a heavy field. The Bears showed wonderful form in their 14-0 victory. "Abe" Kelly of Waco High came starred along with his former team mates, Coats and Fall. Coats showed wonderful form in receiving the passes thrown by Kelly, and Fall made several great runs in the broken field and through the line. Baylor made 11 first downs and Trinity five.

COTTON LOSS HALF BILLION

That Much Less Than in 1925 Will Be Realized from Crop Says Economist

By United Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The 1926 cash income from cotton will be $500,000,000 less than in 1925, according to the Brookings Economic Service.

The income to farmers from the cotton crop last year was approximately $1,250,000,000, the service says. This year, even before the recent break in cotton prices, the estimated cash income was set at $1,500,000,000 and developments of the past few months have subtracted something like $750,000,000.

The significance of the falling off on a national scale can be appreciated when it is recalled that the 1925 season equals the entire amount of construction contracts for the United States. It is also 10 per cent of our total annual export business.

"Current reduction brings cotton prices back to approximately the 1912 level," according to the Brookings service.

CUT COTTON 60 PER CENT

Bernard Baruch Advises Southern Cotton Growers to Make Drastic Reduction

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Southern bankers and cotton growers should make to curtail next year's crop by 60 per cent, Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, said in a telegram to Senator Robinson, Arkansas democrat, outlining a relief program for the cotton depression.

First of all this year's crop should be placed in the hands of one co-operative organization to sell futures on borrow or warehouse receipts and federal intermediate credits are unlimited funds are available for this purpose in New York.

"The wisest course," Baruch said, "is for the farmer to borrow on his present cotton crop, hold it, and curtail and diversify his next crop. The local banker should see that the man who is asked to borrow his present crop limits his production for next year to not exceeding 40 per cent of his present acreage."

Kansas Aggies Win From K. U. 27 to 0

By United Press
MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 16.—Spectacular runs of forty and thirty yards to touchdowns by Feather, Hoffman and Douglas of the Kansas Aggies backfield, the law two within a few minutes of each other in the sixth quarter, featured Kansas Aggies' defeat of Kansas University, 27 to 0 here today.

The game belonged entirely to the Aggies, the Jayhawk eleven failing to penetrate at any time to within striking distance of the home team's goal. The dazzling offense and a stone wall defense shown today gives the Aggies claim alongside Missouri for the Valley honors this year.

Missouri and the Kansas Aggies do not meet this year, and it will be the Nebraska-Aggie game which will materially decide who's who in the valley for 1926.

Bell and Norton Draw on Courts

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 16.—Saturday's tennis match between Berkeley Hill, of Austin, national court junior champion, and R. L. C. Norton, of San Antonio, International start and state title holder, resulted in a draw for the second time. Playing in finals to decide the San Antonio city championship, also held by Bell, they tied in the first match last Sunday.

Another play-off attempt is scheduled for Sunday.

Saturday Bell won two sets, 6-2 and 6-4, while Norton won two each by the score 6-2.

FULL LEASED WIRE ASSOCIATED PRESS LUBBOCK, LUBBOCK COUNTY, TEXAS SUNDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1926 FULL LEASED WIRE UNITED PRESS

"The Curfew Shall Lubbock Has One Not Ring Tonight"

By TOM CAUFIELD
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Listen carefully tonight at 8:30 o'clock sharp, and see if you hear a church bell or some other bell tolled one time.

No?
Then Lubbock's curfew law is to all intents and purposes dead.

Chief of Police T. E. May is instructed by an ordinance passed by the city commission of Lubbock in regular session on November 11, 1909, to ring such a bell at such an hour, and within a half hour thereafter clear the streets of all boys under 14.

This ordinance, according to City Judge Goodman, is still theoretically in force.

It's Unlawful—B'Gosh!

Article one of the legislation in question stipulates that it is unlawful for any boy or boys less than 14 years of age to be on any public street, alley or in any store in Lubbock, or to loiter on the sidewalks or streets or about the door of any theatre or place of amusement, after 9 p. m., unless business or duty so requires. Exceptions from this drastic rule are when boys are returning from theatres or churches or other lawful places of entertainment—this is quoting from the ordinance literally—or with a parent, guardian, or sister.

Sisters are regarded as proper chaperones.

Blue Laws Here, Too

Furthermore, Lubbock has a very strict Sunday blue law; two of them in fact.

The first prohibits not only games of regular baseball and football, but "scrub" and any game or practice with a baseball or football. This would prohibit that time honored exercise called "catch", which consists merely of pitching a baseball from one person to another. Baseballs are not mentioned in the law, which was passed back in 1907, and is ordinance number ten of the city of Lubbock.

It is unlawful to hold or to be concerned in the holding of a Sunday in Lubbock, not only theatrical shows, vaudeville, motion pictures, and so on, but even concerts. The ordinance says nothing about admission being charged for these things. It is unlawful, apparently, under this ordinance, to be concerned in the holding of a concert on Sunday. "Hide that ukulele, sister."

Pigs Are Banned

And, O by the way, those famous Irish ancestors of which so many have sung, who "kept the pig in the parlor, and he was Irish too," would stand no show whatever in Lubbock. It is unlawful to keep any pig or hog either running at large or confined in a pen or lot. On second thought, maybe the Irish would have a chance. Can a parlor be described as a pen or lot? Here is a technicality by which those with propensities for pig keeping may escape the heavy hand of the municipal law.

Back in the unregenerate days when these ordinances were passed, they had games of which a younger generation may never have heard. Annual taxes were stipulated against such following pastimes when operated for profit: billiards, bogatello, pigeon hole, devil-among-the-tailors, Jenny Lind, pool,—well, we recognize pool and billiards. But what was his Satanic majesty doing among the knights of the flatiron?

Watch Your Horses

And you couldn't hitch horses to shade trees, and presumably can't do so now, as the ordinance has not been repealed.

And in those days the speed limit for bicycles and horses and pedestrians was eight miles an hour, and don't skid going around the corner. A state law has since rescinded this curb upon the speeding propensities of West Texans, so that now the only time an eight mile gait is required is when it rains. These automobiles on Lubbock's unpaved streets or on the roads around about had best hark back to a slower gait and eight miles or less if they want to stay out of the ditches and chug holes that ornament the highways.

We All Have To Work

Another ordinance which has been approved, according to Judge Goodman, is that which required all male citizens between the ages of 21 and 45 to work five days, on the streets and alleys of Lubbock during each year, on call of the authorities, or to furnish an able bodied substitute or pay two dollars a day. To be sure, those same substitutes who are above referred to doubtless do work at least five days out of each year on the streets of Lubbock, shoving their automobiles out of those chug holes also referred to, but that is a horse of a different color.

And by the way, don't shoot any cannon on the streets. It is unlawful. An ordinance passed October 18, 1910, specifically prohibits the firing of cannon inside the city limits. Leave those .75 millimeter howitzers alone, children. Chief May will get you otherwise, and Judge Goodman may put you in the hoosegow.

TRAFFIC IN ALASKA

Traffic problems are just as baffling in the Alaskan cities of Ketchikan and Juneau as they are in large American cities. The difficulty is not an over abundance of autos but a lack of roads, which brings all the cars into a small congested district.

BODYGUARD ARRANGED FOR PRESIDENT'S SON

SECRET SERVICE MAN IS DETAILED TO LIVE WITH JOHN COOLIDGE, WHO IS COLLEGE STUDENT, TO HELP HIM

By THOMAS L. STOKES United News Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—John Coolidge, the president's son, has a body guard to watch over his welfare during the "dangerous age" that the usual college career represents.

JOHN COOLIDGE

Spokesman Explains The white house spokesman explained that the law requires the secret service to guard the president and members of his family, so that the assignment is entirely within the law. The president was somewhat disappointed that the news because public property as he fears that it might needlessly stir up attention about a purely domestic detail of the Coolidge family life. He has always tried to keep his son out of the public eye, desiring that he live the normal life of a youth as much as possible without the burden of white house publicity.

but I've had my morning oatmeal and coffee. And now, I am going to take my morning stroll—alone."

The conference room was almost full when Judith entered it. She took a seat by the window...

"About a third of the faculty members present were women of uncertain age, mostly wearing stocks and plain white silk shirt waists...

"Members of the faculty of liberal arts," said a dry, meticulous voice from the platform...

The room was listening. Judith saw three elderly gentlemen draw forth folded handkerchiefs and wipe their glasses as if by signal.

The speaker stared reproachfully. Hands folded on stomach, he began to speak again.

Judith turned and looked out the window. Far away on the mountains, a tiny human figure was visible.

A slight stir at the back of the room as a latecomer entered did not rouse her. She did not turn around until the newcomer was seating himself in the chair beside her.

As she turned, his Phi-Delta Kappa key clanked against the wooden arm of his chair, and he hastily jerked it back.

Judith looked up at him and spoke in a stage whisper. "Thank you so much. It didn't hit her on the head any more after you fixed it."

The steady drone of Dean Timothy Brown went on for hours, it seemed to Judith, before he ended his speech with an announcement.

"The crowd was stirring, anxious to leave. Dean Brown rapped on the table. 'We shall expect the hearty co-operation of every faculty member in making Pendleton University morally clean and safe for the youth of the state.'"

Dr. Dorn followed Judith into the hall. "I really did want to thank you for squirreling my handbox," she said to him laughingly.

"Well," said Myra, "I rescued you that time. Old baggy-knee must be a professor or something. You don't want the faculty hanging around my dear. They'll scree off the real men. That's what you get for looking intellectual. Heaven knows your hand-some enough, with that flaming hair, but you'll have to cultivate the beautiful-but-dumb expression, if you want a frat rush."

They seated themselves at a corner stall in the Prairie Schooner, and were just beginning to drink their tea when a shout came from across the room.

"The mouse-colored Will Wetberel was addressing brunet Myra. She smiled at him over a suspended tea cup.

"Have you heard the latest about your very fine Eric Waters?" he shouted.

Myra shook her head apprehensively. "Today he was ducked in the fish pond by the Vicantes, and yesterday he won a bet of $25 by kissing the prettiest girl that got off the seven o'clock train."

co-operation of every faculty member in making Pendleton University morally clean and safe for the youth of the state."

Dr. Dorn followed Judith into the hall. "I really did want to thank you for squirreling my handbox," she said to him laughingly.

"Well," said Myra, "I rescued you that time. Old baggy-knee must be a professor or something. You don't want the faculty hanging around my dear. They'll scree off the real men. That's what you get for looking intellectual. Heaven knows your hand-some enough, with that flaming hair, but you'll have to cultivate the beautiful-but-dumb expression, if you want a frat rush."

They seated themselves at a corner stall in the Prairie Schooner, and were just beginning to drink their tea when a shout came from across the room.

"The mouse-colored Will Wetberel was addressing brunet Myra. She smiled at him over a suspended tea cup.

"Have you heard the latest about your very fine Eric Waters?" he shouted.

Myra shook her head apprehensively. "Today he was ducked in the fish pond by the Vicantes, and yesterday he won a bet of $25 by kissing the prettiest girl that got off the seven o'clock train."

DAILY MARKET

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—The cotton market yesterday was in evidence again today. January contracts selling off the 12.06 or 42 points net lower under continued southern and Wall Street selling. Closing prices were at the lowest of the day with the market barely steady at net decline of 29 to 44 points.

Provisions reflected weakness of cotton values. Decrease of lard stock here was also considered disappointing in some quarters as being less than was looked for.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. (AP)—With raw and refined sugar markets closed, there was only moderate trade in raw sugar futures today with approximate sales of 18,000 tons.

FT. WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 16. (AP)—Farms receipts were recorded at the live stock market here today, resulting in a nominal market in every department.

Old Records of Lubbock County

W. C. Henderson, H. M. Bunty and G. W. Shannon, Shannon elected, For District and County Clerk—Jeff S. King, W. L. McCauley and Geo. C. Wolfarth, Wolfarth elected, For Sheriff and Tax Collector—W. M. Lay.

W. F. Cobb and W. S. Clark, the latter being elected; H. F. Welborn and Tang Martin, For County Treasurer—U. G. Moore, elected, and T. S. Brumby, For County Surveyor—J. B. Jones, elected, and E. E. Lewis, No one ran for county attorney.

Two Factions in Lubbock Before the first election, according to old timers, there had been two factions existing here. G. W. Singer, one of the earlier settlers here owned a small country store and postoffice 2 1/2 miles northwest of the present site of Lubbock which was known as "Singer's Store." J. E. Rayner, a new comer here, tried to start a town there and solicited the aid of several men to put the project across.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Coffee futures opened today at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 15 points, with near months relatively steady on covering, but soon turned easier, under renewed liquidation or trade selling.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Cotton goods were steadier today. Sales for the week were best in print clothes and approximately 300,000 pieces.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16. (AP)—The cotton market was active today but prices were strongly reactionary due to liquidation by those who bought earlier in the week and by a recurrence of hedge selling.

HEAVY RAINFALL PLACES HIGHWAYS IN ALMOST IMPASSIBLE CONDITION; HEADS OF HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT STRUGGLE ON

With highways in all directions from Lubbock in a deplorable condition due to the recent heavy rains that have flooded this section, highway officials and other employees are laboring constantly to improve prevailing conditions of the roads that in some instances are all but impassible.

Highways were beginning to assume their normal condition in some sections until the deluge of Wednesday and Thursday of the past week, but now are again in many places under water.

Many Drags in Use All available drags and teams are now in use by the State Highway department in parts of the roads that are now inundated, and barring further precipitation, all portions except the inundated places will be in passable condition by Monday night, it was said Saturday at the division offices here.

Highway No. 52, between Lubbock and Lovato is practically impassible even on detours, it was said, due to large holes in several places along the route, and except in emergency cases, motorists are warned to steer clear of this route.

Highway No. 1 Passable Highway No. 7, between Lubbock and Post is passable, but exceptionally rough with top on three miles later for which detours have been arranged, but these also are very soft and hard to negotiate.

DUNCAN SPEAKS TO FACULTY OF CITY SCHOOLS

GRADING THEMSELVES IN INSTRUCTION URGED BY EDUCATOR

The second general meeting of the teachers of the Lubbock schools, was held Saturday morning from nine till eleven o'clock in the boys' study hall at the high school building. Superintendent M. H. Duncan opened the meeting by stating that Prof. A. W. Evans of the Tech was invited to arrange to give the course "How to Study and Teaching How to Study," which was the course to be taken in the general meetings, for the teachers and allow them college credit on the work.

No school in the state has ever undertaken such an extensive program for the teachers meetings as is outlined for the Lubbock teachers. When it is carried out a new era will be opened for our schools. It is such a big program, no superintendent has been willing to get under the problem and prove its value to a city school system. Superintendent Duncan stated that teachers spend much time in grading the pupils when the Jovy grades given are the immediate result of poor teaching. If they would take time to grade themselves as "Excellent," "Good," "Average," or "Poor," on their methods of teaching, the standards of our school efficiency would be raised from the present relation efficiency of 25 per cent to at least "average" or above. It is the aim of these meetings to give the teachers a standard by which to grade themselves and then to ask them to do it. These points for grading will be published later.

Superintendent Duncan in his address stated that the average student in a class does not realize what he is trying to learn has a bearing on what he already knows. The teacher must start from the known and go to the unknown, he said, for facts alone have no value and fact getting should not be stressed but rather thought producing. "We should not be so concerned about how the teacher conducts herself in the class room, but how the teacher leads the pupils to conduct themselves; how she teaches the pupils to organize the material in the lesson so as to bring out the definite aim of the lesson; why it is important and what it has to do with lessons already learned. It is not what the teacher knows that counts, but it is her viewpoint and the viewpoint she helps the pupil get. The world is not after facts but rather

After ideals, attitudes and interests so as to develop skill and habits. The school is where children prepare for life by living life.

"In conclusion it may be said that good teaching should take the center of gravity away from the teachers and give it to the pupil, provide for pupil initiative, self-independence, and individual differences; provoking thought which is merely purposeful mental activity; make facts a by-product; teach visualization and pitch teaching on a plane of living.

"Superintendent Duncan warned the teachers that no education course will solve individual problems. Theories should be applied to work out the problems but care must be taken not to become a faddist by covering your old methods with a few good theories poorly practiced."

RED BANK, N. J., Oct. 16.—One of New Jersey's famous leopards has ended with the killing of the Indian leopard, which escaped its cage at Twin Rock zoo in July. After roaming the wilds and living his own life for more than two months, the leopard met his doom because he had an penchant for ducks, Willard Irons, who owned the ducks, didn't like the idea of losing them so he shot the leopard. It will receive a reward of $100.

MEETING OF CANAL ASSOCIATION SET

REPRESENTATIVES OF TOWNS ALONG LINE TO NAME DELEGATES TO MEETING

(By The Associated Press) HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 16.—Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, active vice-president of the Intracoastal Canal Association of Louisiana and Texas, calls upon chamber of commerce, mayors of all cities and towns, chairmen of police juries in Louisiana and county judges in Texas, in the territory traversed by the canal, to appoint official delegates to the convention of the association to be held in Morgan City, Louisiana, November 12 and 13.

"We have made, really remarkable progress in the work of our association during the past two or three years," Mr. Miller said in his announcement. "It has been due, of course, to the fine cooperation of the people of Louisiana and Texas. We cannot be content, however, with the great victory we have achieved in our legislative activities. If the canal is to become a thing of substance and reality, an actual usable transportation facility, we must continue unrelentingly the work of the association until all of the conditions precedent to construction have been met."

Mr. Miller's vision of the intra-coastal canal as a commercial artery extends from Pittsburgh over the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and from New Orleans over the canal ultimately to Mexico.

Meanwhile, Mr. Miller rectifies in connection with his assertion that satisfactory progress has been made "in the promotion of our project during the last two years." Congress in

Scientists Risk Lives To Halt White Plague Creating Weather Conditions For Thorough Tests In Own Laboratory

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 16—Branding fouled, impure air as the chief ally of the "white plague," F. C. Houghten, director of a research laboratory in the United States Bureau of Mines here, announces that a staff of scientists under his direction are making rapid progress in their experiments to annihilate the causes of respiratory diseases.

Physicians of the United States Public Health Service have aided in completing physiological tests on more than 250 men to determine the effect of varying climatic conditions on them as well as the super-heat that men working in steel mills, glass furnaces, mines and other places are confronted with.

"Just what effect heat, cold, moisture, air movement, dust and air dirt have on blood pressure, pulse, respiration, frequency of breathing, chemical contents of the breath and the emotions is the objective of these tests," Houghten said.

Scientists and engineers who are assisting in the experiments have themselves gone through the tests while some were carried out fast and delicious from the blistering temperatures created in the laboratory.

Houghten predicted that within the next decade science would lengthen the average of American life from 5 to 10 years by reducing the causes of respiratory diseases.

"That is the next step in the progress of civilization," Houghten declared. "Respiratory diseases are now the greatest killer of men. They stand second to none. A few years ago diphtheria and dysentery diseases held the record. They resulted from impure food and impure water and wiped entire nations off the face of the earth."

"But science overcame these black plagues and mysterious maladies. Pure food laws and pure water laws with advances in knowledge all helped to prolong the average of human life from 22 to nearly 48 years as it stands now. That has been accomplished within the last decade. The next few years will bring greater wonders. And it will come from air—from a knowledge of the fact that pure, clean air is as important as pure clean food and water."

Houghten's finger traced lines that ran up sharply on a graph or chart he held.

"See how pulse and body temperature speeds up as humidity climbs," he said. "Respiration quickens. There is a gasping for breath. Blood pressure is a paradox. Notice how normal are all these conditions under what we might call an ideal climatic condition."

Houghten and his Pittsburgh scientists have specially constructed rooms in which can be manufactured all kinds of weather conditions. Electrical ice machines, capable of making five tons of ice per day, are hooked up with steam heat to produce temperatures ranging from zero to 150 degrees above while other apparatus produces fog, rain, and the entire scale of humidity from 15 relative to 100—the saturation point.

Miniature storms can be created by a battery of twenty small airplane propeller type of electric fans, producing a wind velocity ranging from a cool, soothing breeze to a gnat-pyral gale.

The United States treasury department recently sent the laboratory a special, gold bullion scale that will weigh a man so minutely that it can be figured how much he loses in body in heat and temperature. The scale will reflect to one ten thousandth of one per cent of the man's weight. This is expected to be useful in determining how much heat and moisture a large audience of several thousand persons will throw off in the average large theatre and aid in conditioning it.

Scientists and engineers generally are attaching special significance to the laboratory's studies in view of a recent statement by Prof. Ellsworth Huntington of Yale University that more than 25,000 American lives were lost in two months of this year as a result of violent changes in the weather. Besides receiving the active cooperation of governmental agencies, the Pittsburgh laboratory is coordinating its efforts with the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

NATURE DISPLAYS GREATEST VARIETY IN STATES OF THE SOUTHWEST

By NEA Service

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 16—Arizona and New Mexico mean beautiful deserts, gorgeous scenery, Indian ruins and reservations, Spanish missions and all that is typical of the romantic west.

Motorists who tour these two states enjoy perpetual sunshine and warm climate. They see scenery and characteristic landmarks which can not be duplicated in other parts of the country.

Tucson, the city that was granted a charter from the king of Spain in 1521, is the center of some of America's most distinguished scenery.

There is an opportunity to study primitive Indian life in southern Arizona. The Pima and the Papago live near Tucson but retain their early mode of life.

North of Tucson is the beautiful Grand Canyon of the Colorado river. Volumes have been written on the beauty of this natural formation, but only a visit to the huge canyon can picture the actual imposing beauty of the formation.

Between Tucson and the Grand Canyon lies the Roosevelt Dam, the first extensive project for irrigating desert waste lands and changing them to valuable farming country.

From the Grand Canyon a good road leads through Flagstaff, Alton and the Petrified Forest of Arizona into New Mexico. From Gallup, New Mexico, a short ride takes the motorist to the Chaco Canyon, a natural treasure chest of aboriginal American history.

In Chaco Canyon the tourist sees the Chetro Kettle, a huge apartment house containing six acres or two city blocks. Now only abandoned fields, dry primitive irrigation ditches, deserted sanctuaries, stairways carved into cliffs, illegible picture writings and dusty relics tell of the extensive activities of the pre-historic people who lived in Chetro Kettle.

The roads throughout New Mexico and Arizona for the most part are improved dirt. There is little mountain climbing except in the hilly districts.

New Victoria Model Added To Hupp Line, Rounding Out One Of Finest Series Of Automobiles In America

The new Victoria on the distinguished Huppmobile eight cylinder chassis announced this week nicely combines the close-coupled seating arrangement particular to this type of body with an unusual amount of room for five passengers. This model which lists at $2,345, at factory, is now on display at the West Texas Motor Company, Huppmobile dealers here.

"The Victoria has ever been a favorite among those who demand exclusive and individual body types, and the Huppmobile interpretation of it will surely extend that vogue as a result of its unusual and distinctive beauty," says L. E. Davis, of the local Hupp company, who is quite enthusiastic over the sales possibilities of this latest addition to the line.

"Body colors have been selected to accentuate the original pleasing lines of this model. The lower body is finished in Southfield light green, the belt and rear deck in Monte Carlo darker green with black upper body; hooding is black with thin white striping on belt, hood hives and wheel hubs. The upholstery in grey wool mohair with button tufting gives an attractive tone to the interior compartment.

"Comfort for passengers is assured by the generous dimensions in all seats. The rear seat, 52 inches wide, gives ample room for three passengers. Arm rests and deep back cushion springs further add to the comfort of the luxurious body. A luggage compartment in the rear deck is convenient for carrying grips, traveling bags, or small parcels.

"Wide doors (26 inches) and tilting front seats give easy access to or exit from all seats. The right front seat folds completely under the cover when not in use, both front seats are adjustable for height to suit the individual owner.

"The steering wheel is all walnut with walnut grained instrument boards and door moldings. The body hardware is an attractive pattern of the newest and most convenient design such as "pusher-control" door opener and crank-controls on windows and windshield.

"We now have," Mr. Davis points out, "a complete line of bodies, ten in all, on the eight cylinder chassis. This gives us the widest offering we have ever had which leads us to expect a large increase in sales during the fall and winter months."

HOLDERS OF COMMON STOCK IN GENERAL MOTORS INCREASE

On September 11, when General Motors paid the 50 percent common stock dividend, together with the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 cash on the common stock for the third quarter, there were 27,448 common stockholders of record who received this disbursement.

The total number of General Motors common and preferred stockholders for the third quarter of 1925 was 47,865 compared with 52,997 in the second quarter.

THREE ASPHYXIATED FROM GAS HEATER IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The fall cold wave was indirectly responsible Friday for the death of three persons from gas asphyxiation. In order to heat her apartment, Mrs. John Prusakitis lighted the gas range. Then she and her children, John, 13, and Eva, 12, went to sleep. In some manner the lights were extinguished and the gas filled the room.

In its efforts to promote agriculture the Hungarian government has aided in financing the importation, duty free, of 200 American tractors.

Unseen Sources of Long Life

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

Because of this difficulty, more and more thousands are turning to Dodge Brothers product for insurance against disappointment.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

EUROPE GETS FOREIGN CAR MADE IN U. S.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 16.—Introduction of the Erskine six, a European car "made in America" to Europe, is only the preliminary step in a plan which in automotive history.

The European car is coming back to America, covered with the glory of its reception over there, to show itself here for the first time at the New York automobile show next January. Thus, accepted and approved by Europe, it can be said to be the first European car made in America to be introduced in this country.

That it is a real European car, built expressly for continental requirements, is the contention of the engineers and officials of the Studebaker Corporation, its designers and builders. It's the result of a study of European conditions made by A. R. Erskine, president of the company, for whom the car is named.

The chief factors underlying the car's design are economy of fuel consumption, minimizing the horsepower tax and duty which apply in various countries, beauty of the body, the price, performance and dependability.

The Erskine six is a low-hung car with a body designed by Dietrich. The six-cylinder 2 1/2-litre engine is of the L-head type. It has a 65.5 mm. x 114.3 mm. (2 5/8 x 4 1/2 inches) stroke, with 146.1 inches, or 2394.9 c. c. displacement.

Under test conditions the Erskine six delivers 25 miles to a gallon of gasoline and can attain a speed of 60 miles an hour. It handles as easily as a bicycle and will turn in an 18-foot radius.

Two types of bodies are shown—a "condole-interior" for sedan, and a touring phaeton—both for five passengers. The car is 67 1/2 inches high, yet appears roomy within. The sedan body is of steel and affords clear vision with its wide windows and narrow pillars.

The price of the Erskine sedan is $975. The price of the touring car is $885.

CHEVROLET SETS NEW HIGH RECORD

81,158 PASSENGER CARS AND TRUCKS PRODUCED DURING SEPTEMBER

The Chevrolet Motor company, largest manufacturer of three-speed cars, shattered two of its marks during September when it established a new monthly record of 81,158 passenger cars and trucks and attained a production total of 532,281 units for the first nine months of 1926, eclipsing the half-million production of the entire 12 months of 1925, Chevrolet's greatest year.

Neither of these figures ever has been approached by any builder of cars with three-speed selective transmissions.

The September production averaged 2,321 units daily for the 24 working days of the month. This also is a new record. The 81,158 total for September followed several recent months of record-breaking production. April, May and June, with respective productions of 71,957, 74,817 and 77,341 each established successive production records. July production was restricted somewhat to permit the tooling and other changes necessary to effect several further improvements in the Chevrolet models. August production then snapped up to 78,541 units, only 430 fewer cars than were built in June which stood as Chevrolet's high record until out-distanced by September.

Chevrolet's remarkable progress may be shown by the fact that the company has produced so far during 1926 a number of units approximately equal to the entire Chevrolet production from 1912 to 1920 inclusive, the first nine years during which Chevrolets were manufactured.

"These records are primarily the result of public confidence," said W. E. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor company. "We are all grateful for this confidence and will continue to work for its maintenance."

CANYON C. OF C. ELECTS

Former Mayor Made President of Business Organization in North Plains City

CANYON, Tex., Oct. 16.—The Canyon Chamber of Commerce recently elected a new corps of officers to carry on its work. J. D. Danble, formerly mayor of Canyon, was elected president, with O. W. H. Cook, vice-president, C. W. Warwick, secretary. The directors are the officers, together with Mrs. E. V. Heavens, W. A. Warren, D. A. Shirley and Tom Knighton.

The Chamber of Commerce will concentrate its efforts during the coming year on securing a paved road from Canyon to Amarillo and upon such projects as will advertise the town and the West Texas State Teachers College.

SCIENTISTS USE OLDS IN AFRICA

MICHIGAN EXPLORATION PARTY OLDSMOBILE SEDAN ON TRIP SOUTH AFRICA

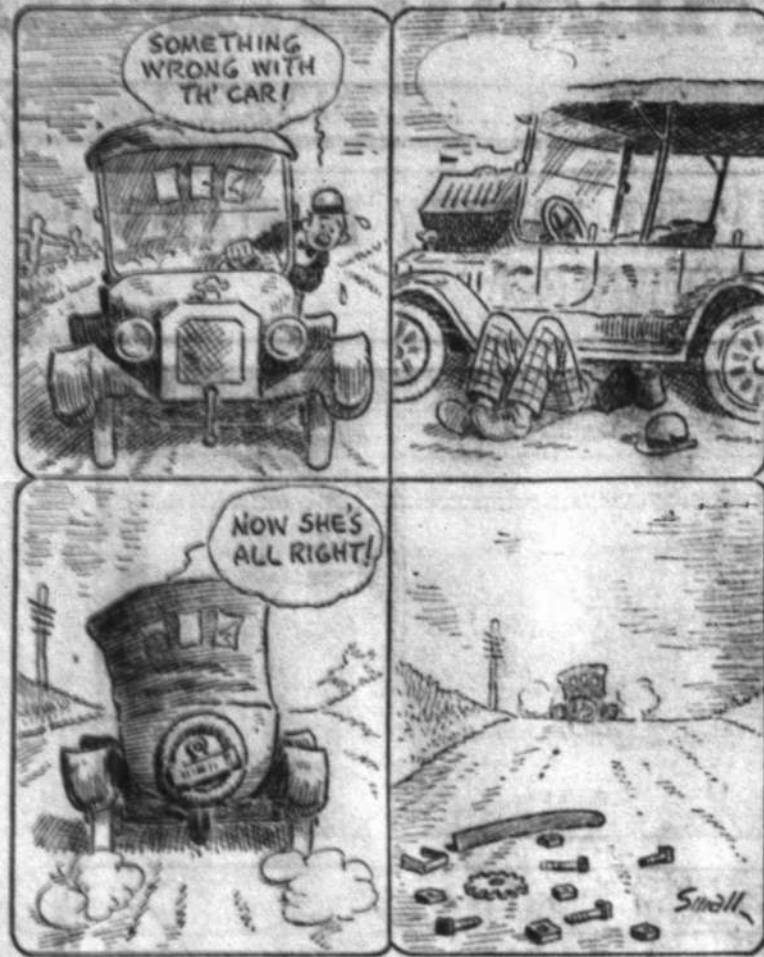

All records of distance from the place of purchase to the home garage of an automobile is believed broken by an Oldsmobile sedan just sold by the Oldsmobile Sales and Service Co. at Ann Arbor, Michigan. The car will have traveled nearly 10,000 miles and to the other side of the earth before it is garaged on the visit outside Bloemfontein, South Africa. In this far-off land the Oldsmobile will be depended upon for transportation by a group of scientists during their six-year search for additional data regarding the double stars in the Southern constellations.

The car was purchased by R. A. Rosseter, assistant professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan. Professor Rosseter is accompanying Professor W. J. Hussey, director of the University observatory, to Bloemfontein, which is the capital of the Orange Free State, South Africa, where they will set up the largest telescope on the Southern hemisphere.

The Oldsmobile was driven to New York and then shipped last week via steamer to Cape Town. From there the party will drive a distance of about 900 miles to Bloemfontein. This district resembles our Rock Mountain section. Some idea of the hills and curves can be had from the fact that along the narrow gauge railroad that connect these two points there are signs warning the engineer not to run his train faster than 15 miles an hour.

An observatory will be built on a hill about ten miles from Bloemfontein. The city is 4,000 feet above sea level and the hill exceeds another 800 feet. The Oldsmobile will be the connecting link between the observatory and the town during the six years the astronomers expect to stay there making their observations.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT

1st for 9 consecutive Years

For the ninth consecutive year Buick has won first choice of space at the National Automobile Shows.

This is Leadership! For this honor goes annually to the member of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce with the year's largest volume of business.

Chance plays no part in this award. It is conferred upon the car which has found the most favor among the buyers of America—the car in which they have invested a plurality of their dollars.

It has gone to Buick every year since 1918 because Buick has built better motor cars, and continually put back the savings of increased volume and engineering development into still greater value.

Nine continuous years of leadership! For any other car to equal this would mean retaining continuous leadership until 1936—almost another decade.

The industrial history of America records no more brilliant achievement than these nine successive years of Buick dominance.

BUILDING GOES ON RAPIDLY AT HOME SENSIBLE

INSIDE WORK WILL SOON BE BEGUN, W. S. MOSS CONTRACTOR, SAYS

Construction work on the Home Sensible, the Avalanche-Journal's model home being erected here, has been delayed slightly by the recent rains, but satisfactory progress is being made, W. S. Moss, general contractor, under whose supervision the home is being built said Saturday.

The roof was finished during the past week, the build of the frame work has been done, and attention is now being turned to the finishing work inside, where some of the best artisans of the city will be employed to bring every detail into tip-top condition.

Shelton Prepares Plans

Plans and specifications for the home were prepared by Edgar G. Shelton, of the Tech college, and attention was given by him to every detail, regardless of its apparent insignificance, for every nook and crevice of the structure will have its part in the final arrangement.

The home, being erected on 25th street between Avenues T and U, in the Highland Heights addition to the city, is an attempt on the part of the Avalanche-Journal to demonstrate complete efficiency in the modern day home, and at an expenditure that is within the bounds of any average family. Many points of exceptional beauty will be found in the completed structure, but such of these will be useful as well as ornamental, for it was the objective of the designers to utilize every available space to the greatest advantage.

Inside Work Coming

Work will begin the first of next week on the lathing inside, and it is probable that this part of the work will be largely completed during the week. In the meantime, all windows and door frames will be set, the sashes closed, and the home will take on the aspect of the completed project, although it will be some time yet before it will be finally completed.

SEED MEN GATHER Cotton Oil Manufacturers Follow Lead of Planters in Effort To Raise Prices

PLANES REDUCE MENACE OF DISEASE IN ALASKA

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Oct. 15.—The menace of epidemics, which in the past have claimed many victims in Alaskan villages before medical aid could be obtained, has been eliminated to a large extent by the advent of commercial aviation to the northland.

The ships of the air have not replaced the dog team for ordinary purposes, but where speed is essential, the planes have a field all to themselves.

Much of the vast interior of Alaska has been opened up to air travel by the establishment of landing fields from Fort Yukon to Nome. Twenty-five fields will have been constructed by this winter with appropriations made by the last territorial legislature.

Fairbanks, from which planes operate to the outlying districts, is but nine days distant from Seattle by rail and water. Most of the interior mining camps and trading posts are inaccessible in summer, except in some cases by circuitous water routes. In the winter they may be reached by dog teams.

By The Way

Improved dirt roads are found throughout New Mexico and Arizona. Motorists are warned to drive carefully in the mountain districts when the roads are wet. They are slippery, and skidding may be disastrous.

Motorists should never drink from pools or even running water in the west, as much of the water is infected and dangerous. Signs erected near water sources tell whether the water is safe for drinking.

Severe dust storms often come up suddenly in Arizona and New Mexico. Motorists should be ready for such storms at all times.

Travel on main highways in Minnesota is being speeded up and made safer. Heavily traveled roads are designated as "express" routes and have the right-of-way over all cross lines. Drivers who fail to bring their car to a dead stop before entering an "express" route are subject to a fine of $100 or 90 days in jail.

It is expected that traffic over the new highway between Field and Gordon, Alberta, Canada, through one of the finest mountain stretches in the world, will be possible early next summer. Later the road will be carried right through to link with Vancouver.

Cattle and other stock running on the main highways in the state of Washington have caused many serious accidents. Automotive interests in the state are planning to put over a law to prevent herds from using main highways.

W. T. C. C. TO DISCUSS INSURANCE RATES

FIRE RISKS MAIN QUESTION FOR MEETING AT FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 16.—The insurance question will be one of the main issues under discussion at the executive board meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held here. The Fire Insurance Committee of the organization which has been at work since last July will make its report, and Secretary G. R. Warren of the Denton Chamber of Commerce will explain the functioning of the Fire Insurance Committee organized in the Denton Chamber.

The city of Denton has been penalized for recurring bad fire losses so a committee has been formed in connection with the insurance people in investigating causes of fires and carrying on campaigns to remove physical fire hazards. Warren is to appear before the executives of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and explain the functioning of the Denton Chamber of Commerce Fire Committee in view of the fact that similar committees in chambers of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce territory may be organized, in an effort to combat the proposed raise in insurance rates.

Other distinguished men have been invited to attend and to confer on questions of state interests. W. C. Edwards, of Denton, District President of Rotary International, has been invited to discuss the question of tax equalization, and A. H. King, member of the legislature, has been asked to talk on the problem of taxation of the so-called school lands of Texas. Other important issues will be taken up by the West Texas officials at their meeting, and plans for activities of the organization will be formulated.

Sin And Publicity

NEW YORK.—Bruce Barton would have the churches rant by publicity. Virtue throughout the ages has had little publicity, he said, while sin gets wonderful advertising in newspapers, plays, books and whispered conversations, and even churches, which represent it as something to be given up at considerable sacrifice.

Blue Wagon Comes To Prominence In Cotton Situation

ROBSTOWN, TEXAS, Oct. 16. (AP)—

A blue farm wagon is a sign of aristocracy in this locality. The "seed of Abraham and of Jacob" may have meant something in the religious conceptions of the ancient Israelites, but it is the seed of the Blue Wagon that is significant in modern day Robstown.

Six years ago a young man by the name of S. Maston Nixon conceived the idea that this great cotton raising county of Nueces needed standardization of its product. If all farmers would raise the same high grade of cotton the county could gain an international reputation and the returns from cotton would be correspondingly higher. It would be like putting a label on a product—a label which purchasers could rely on as being the mark of unvarying quality.

Nixon owned a gin. In 1920 he bought 5,000 bushels of high grade cotton seed. He distributed this pure seed among 16 farmers with a provision that the farmers would gin all the cotton from this seed at his gin.

Nixon's plan was to segregate all the cotton from this seed, keep it from mixing with any other cotton, and thus retain the purity of the breed.

Perhaps the first load of cotton came to the gin in a blue wagon, but any way this brand of cotton raised from the pure seed, came to be known as the Blue Wagon cotton ginned at the Blue Wagon Gin, and the seed took the name of the Blue Wagon Cotton seed.

If a farmer wants his cotton ginned at this gin he must come in a blue wagon. No cotton will be accepted unless it is hauled in a blue wagon because that means it comes from one of the 16 farmers who planted the pure cotton seed.

The gin furnishes the blue paint at cost to its farmers. The 16 farmers represent 8,000 acres and they cooperate in the sale of their cotton. A staple of from one to one and one-eighths inches is obtained from this seed, and a ready sale is always found for it, according to Henry Dunlavy, manager of the gin.

Robstown is one of the greatest gin towns in the state. There are 12 gins within the city limits. This county expects to produce 100,000 bales by the end of the season. There are 250,000 acres in the county. Mr. Nixon, with his blue paint, has been able, it is said, to standardize a part of the community on one staple of cotton.

WESTERN DRILLERS ARE COMING BACK

"Injuns and Cowboys" Will Romp Across Silver Sheet Again

By DAN CAMPBELL

United News Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 16.—The "Injuns and cowboys" that once flashed across the silver screen to the delight of many a youthful worshiper at the shrine of Horace Greeley's remarks on the wide open spaces, are coming back after a period of somnolent decadence.

The Western thriller, which formed the basis upon which early motion picture popularity was built, suffered extensively during a period in which the movies flamed with hearts and flappers, and set the youth of the land jazz with interest created by the jazz age.

It appeared that the boys and girls of the big cities had reached a point of boredom that no longer found anything stirring in a sun battle on the Western plains. Their blasé attitude toward the pictures in which every foot of film "another redskin bit the dust" undoubtedly caused a slump in the market.

The Western picture never died out entirely for while the sophisticated youth of the cities cried for the more worldly type of photo play, in the small towns where the romance of the West still held a grip on the hearts of the people, they were in demand.

Now, one of the biggest producing companies in the industry has discovered that "Westerns" are in demand again in the big cities and the owners of big theatres have asked that the demand be satisfied.

For this purpose Colonel Tim McCoy "the friend of the Indian" has been brought to Hollywood from his Wyoming ranch to play in and supervise these pictures which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will make.

According to Louis R. Mayer, theater owner report that their patrons want wildity and sweep in their entertainment but they don't want the hackneyed type of Western drama that formerly flourished.

Colonel McCoy has promised something new and Mayer states that his company will stage and produce Western stories on a scale never before attempted.

McCoy is one of the most colorful figures in the modern West. He has lived among the Indians for years, is the son of an army officer and was himself a lieutenant colonel of cavalry in the United States army.

DETECTIVES SEARCH FOR ENGLISH COUNTERFEITERS

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Scotland Yard and the Secret Service of the Treasury have been kept hard at work lately trailing a ring of counterfeiters, who are flooding England with fake half-crowns.

One of the ring was caught recently and sentenced to six years penal servitude, but refused to implicate any of the other members of the group.

The work running down the source of the coins has been made doubly difficult in the fact that the coins are so perfectly made that it is difficult to tell them from genuine ones. Another difficulty is the fact that coins and not larger paper notes are being counterfeited.

Counterfeiting of notes is rather rare here of late, however, since banks and money exchanges refuse to change notes of more than one pound sterling without identification of the note holder. Counterfeiting of English notes on the continent is rather frequent and several instances of passing these notes through foreign exchange channels are now being investigated.

Glassware made by machinery in the United States has become so popular that it is seriously affecting the output of the famous Bohemian ware made in Czechoslovakia.

Heavy Taxation Great Menace To Railroads, Claim

HOUSTON, Oct. 16. (AP)—Growing burdens of railroad taxation seriously menace railroad operation, "even if not now threatening dissolution of the service," W. R. Scott, Houston, president of the Texas and Louisiana lines of the Southern Pacific railway, said.

The present close alliance between the railroads and the public, particularly in Louisiana and Texas, Mr. Scott said, "justifies my assumption that the people of the two states are vitally and materially interested in any factor of operation that affects the welfare of either or both. It is because of this belief that I do not hesitate to call to their attention the constantly growing burden of taxation, which is yearly becoming of greater extent, and seriously militating against our opportunities for profitable operation, even if not now threatening a disruption of the service their patronage has enable us to establish."

Mr. Scott showed that burdens upon the railroads of the country have grown 500 per cent in 20 years and now average approximately 1,000,000 a day. In Louisiana and Texas they have grown from $2,277,237 in 1921 to $2,737,042 in 1925, or an increase of 43.76 per cent.

"Any consideration of the tax situation as it affects the railroads, should include the fact that, in addition to the taxes paid upon the physical property and rolling equipment, tax is also paid upon their intangible assets and a state franchise tax, in addition they also pay federal income and capital stock taxes, which while of course a proper and just charge, adds to the loads our railroads are called upon to bear and in this connection it is interesting to note that payment of taxes by railroads considerably exceed the sum paid in dividends to stockholders."

Government Wants Drastic Measures To Fight Epidemic of Postal Robberies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Drastic measures to prevent the United States mails against such robberies as occurred yesterday at Elizabeth, N. J. are under consideration here. President Coolidge is in sympathy with such steps, the white house spokesmen said.

"We are going to stop such outrages if it takes the whole army and navy to do it," declared Postmaster General Harry S. New, on leaving the cabinet meeting where measures were discussed.

"Wholesale banding might go further than anything else to curb the enthusiasm of such murderous robbers," he declared.

EVERY VIRGINIA CITY MAY BECOME AIRPORT

By United Press. RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 16.—The Virginia Legislature at its next meeting will be called upon to provide for airplane landing fields in all cities willing to promote such ventures.

The state chamber of commerce at its fall directors' meeting in Roanoke, adopted resolutions calling upon the general assembly to pass legislation necessary to authorize cities, town and counties to buy property to be developed as commercial aviation ports.

Provision of adequate air transportation facilities is necessary for proper American economic advancement and national defense, the directors' resolution said.

A Strange Kind Of Daily Dozen

"Aw! Nothin'! We're just doing our daily dozen."

That's what Barry, the pachyderm with the frown on his face is saying. He is out of sorts because he "hates to get up in the morning," but he will "snap out of it" in a minute and be as jolly as any fat man when his trainer gives him his breakfast.

Barry gets a "kick" out of doing his daily dozen with his buddies when he has a big audience under the big top, but he's not so stuck on the idea of getting up early in the morning for stunts" at his winter gymnasium at the Al. C. Barnes Zoo in Culver City, California.

But, Oh, Boy! Just wait until Barry and the other elephants with the A. C. Barnes Big 4 Ring Circus come to Lubbock next Friday with their "trunks" n' everything. They'll be "kicked to death" to perform before admiring spectators.

In addition, over one hundred fair equestriennes will be seen upon handsome, natural gold-colored dancing horses that prance in rhythm with the nationally famous Barnes 30-piece Circus Band. Three tribes of Indians from Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada will be part of the enormous cast in the historic extravaganza.

And we must not forget Lotus, the five-ten, blood sweating, largest and only performing hippopotamus in the world. Last, but not least there will be the greatest motion picture star of them all—Joe Martin, himself, the "Grand Old Man of the Screen." Joe will be glad to give you all his autographs.

WEST TEXAS GETS WIDE PUBLICITY

WORTHAM SHOWS TELL ABOUT SECTION THROUGHOUT TEN STATES

STAMFORD, Oct. 16.—West Texas, advertised as the "Land of Opportunity," has recently gotten publicity over 10 states of the union. The medium through which thousands of people all over Texas and through New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, N. Dakota, Montana, S. Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas have learned of the opening for all kinds of business in the "land of opportunity," of the West, is that of the Wortham Shows, one of the largest organizations of carnival attractions in the states.

Over the big office wagon of the Wortham shows are two large signs which tell of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce of Stamford, with its 250 affiliated towns and advertising West Texas as "The Land of Opportunity with Openings For All Kinds of Business."

The Wortham Shows have large memberships in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and take this means to express their loyalty to the regional organization and to further the interests of their native state and favored section. The Wortham Shows are probably the largest carnival attraction organization in the United States, consisting of 30 cars, and over 400 people. They have just completed an engagement at Wichita Falls in conjunction with the Texas-Oklahoma fair held there and are now in Stamford for a two week run with the Jones County Fair which opens here this week.

LABOR EXPECTS NO CHANGES IN MEXICO POLICY

FRIENDLY CO-OPERATION TO BE CONTINUED UNTIL FURTHER INQUIRY

(By the Associated Press) DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 16.—Officers of the American Federation of Labor anticipate no important change in relations between the labor organizations of the United States and Mexico until an inquiry into the program of the Mexican organization shall have justified abandonment of the policy thus far pursued in contracts with the Spanish-American labor movement.

The organization, which has determined upon continuing friendly co-operation with the Mexican Federation until an inquiry directed by the closing of the forty-sixth annual convention is completed has two matters before it involving Mexico, for immediate action.

Invitation Given Green
The first is an invitation to President Green to attend a labor meeting of leaders from several countries late in October. The second involves appointment of a joint commission of the American and Mexican federations to seek ways and means of curbing immigrant smuggling along the Rio Grande border.

Several new departures in policy marked the action of the ten day convention just concluded.

To Create Special Fund
The executive council for the first time in the history of the federation was given blanket authority to create a special fund by direct assessments of local plants not affiliated with the federation.

In approving a resolution urging unionization of the automobile industry, the federation voted also for the first time, to disregard for the period of organization, craft lines classifying the various workers.

The convention went on record as favoring progressive shortening of the hours of labor, with the five-day week mentioned as an ultimate goal.

Favor Agricultural Aid
Another resolution pledged cooperation to agricultural interests in their executive program, whenever such action may be possible.

With a view to reducing production costs, the convention pledged cooperation with industrial management in matters of plant detail.

The federation will henceforth measure wages in terms of "an economic measuring rod" rather than in dollars alone and will seek advances commensurate with the increasing per capita production of workers due to developments in the mechanical arts.

ECONOMICAL CONSTRUCTION

There is no economy in building a home with a cheap grade of materials. It is only a question of time until you will have to rebuild it. In fact, a cheap built home is always ready for repairs—patching and tending. A substantial building must be built from standard materials. Be sure it's Whaley's when you build, and you will know it is quality. The Whaley Lumber Company carry a complete line of oak flooring, sash, doors, building hardware, paints, roofing, wall board and lumber. R. G. Shelton, the general manager of this popular yard, is well informed as to the best materials to be used in this section and is glad to give you any information desired. Lubbock is their headquarters and they have yards in eight West Texas towns, doing a large business over a big territory on the Plains. This yard will furnish estimates and plans for building at any time. Phone 912 for service.

PICTURES IN THE HOUSE

The merest child eyes colors and they save pictures; the lure of picture books is never questioned. Pictures on the walls are even more a joy for the little child. Hung pictures on your walls with a view of pleasing the little ones as well as the grownups. The Lubbock Paint and Wall Paper Co., 18th St. and Ave. K, have a fine collection of framed pictures and ornaments for interior decoration.

The European buffalo also is threatened with extinction. Only 66 heads of the species, evenly distributed in sex, are known to be alive today, all of them in captivity.

Polish Furniture Rix Experts Say

The daily dusting is not sufficient to keep highly finished furniture in good condition. This is necessary, of course, but in addition an occasional polishing is valuable for covering up scratches and marks before they become too large to be remedied without refinishing the surface.

Rather frequent treatment with a small amount of polish is easier and more satisfactory than the old habit of twice a year vigorous brushing.

The method suggested below for keeping furniture in good condition is more of a preventative measure than a restorative. If this treatment is followed every week or so, the wood will never need any more strenuous application of polish.

Put in a closed pan one tablespoon of any good furniture polish and a soft woolen cloth large enough for dusting. Jersey or flannel is the best material for absorbing the polish. Every week dust the polished furniture carefully with this cloth.

After dusting, wash the cloth in warm suds, using Ivory soap to prevent shrinking and hardening of the woolen fibre. Dry the cloth thoroughly and replace in the jar with fresh polish.

This is a timely suggestion and if you need any information regarding furniture, always remember that the Rix Furniture and Undertaking Co. is at your service. They have a wonderful line of the latest in all lines and in brightening up the home for the holiday season, you can find so many odd pieces that will give tone to your rooms and add to their beauty. The Rix Furniture and Undertaking Co. are the largest home furnishers in this section and they carry everything you may desire in the furnishing line.

STATIONERY TELLS THE TALE

In these days of art and style, your stationery carries with it a sort of tell-tale message of how careful you are. A business house, many times, is judged by the stationery it sends out, and in the same way many people are summoned up by the stationery that conveys their message. The Bowen Drug Stores carry a distinctive line of stationery and writing desk supplies. When you are equipped with an outfit of stationery from the Bowen stores, you have the latest and best on the market, something that suits everyone. And if you want a good fountain pen, you will find them at Bowen stores at very moderate prices. Don't forget that the Bowen stores handle the best and freshest line drugs, confections and toilet articles.

OVERLAND MAKES ECONOMICAL RUN

WHIPPET SHOWS ECONOMY IN STRENUOUS TEST OVER 1,600 MILE RUN

Driving a Whippet Sedan, James J. Marshall of Council Bluffs, Iowa, recently covered the 1,600 miles between Omaha, Nebraska and New York City in four days of driving and at a total cost for gasoline and oil of $15.99 or less than one cent per mile for fuel and oil.

His average mileage was 400 miles a day which required a high driving average making the low cost for fuel even more remarkable, the gasoline economy being 52 miles per gallon.

The cost for oil included one complete change of oil during the trip. Previous to making the run from Omaha to New York, Marshall had driven the same car from Norfolk, Nebraska to Seattle, Wash., thence down the Pacific Coast to Los Angeles, returning to Omaha across the Great American Desert and over the Rocky Mountains.

In 60 days he has driven his Whippet a total of 8,112 miles on the original tires and has not at any time carried a spare casing with him.

His total mileage is within 2,000 miles of the distance driven by the average owner during any one year of car service end, at the rate of operating expense shown on the Omaha to New York run, which was made at a speed much in excess of any average touring speed, shows a normal operating expectancy for the Whippet of approximately 70,000 miles a year.

At the completion of the run in New York City, the tires still showed a wholesome amount of the original non-skid tread and looked good for as many more miles as had already been put on them.

Mechanically the car showed no evidence of the strenuous trip it had made and was as ready for an additional trip of equal length as it was when it started out from Norfolk.

Machine Guns May Be Used By Troops

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio, Oct. 16 (AP)—Machine guns were brought into use yesterday evening in the man hunt for slayers of Policeman Dan Garrett here last night. Two girls said to have been companions of John and Montrose Hickman sought in connection with the slaying of Garrett, were arrested shortly after they told officers the brothers were hiding in a corn field, two miles east of town.

Immediately a riot alarm was sounded and all members of company H, 166th regiment, Ohio national guard, was mustered into action with machine guns to spray the corn field with bullets if the men refuse to come out of hiding.

Bismarck Bank Is Closed On Friday

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 16 (AP)—The City National Bank of Bismarck with deposits of more than $500,000 has been closed. No reason was announced.

It was reported the bank officials received notice yesterday from the National Banking department not to open for business until the arrival of an examiner.

OLD MAN TEXAS GOES TO COURT

Violation Of Alien Land Law Sends Lone Star State To U. S. Circuit Court

(By the Associated Press)
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 16.—The state of Texas will go to the United States circuit court with its suit against David Faskin et al, where in a violation of the Texas alien land law is alleged and suit is brought to forfeit to the state 228,900 acres of land in four Texas counties valued upwards to $20,000,000. Judge Duval West dismissed the case in federal district court here late Thursday when the defendant argued that the treaty with Canada applies in the case and that Faskin, though an alien has a right to own the land.

The state alleged fraud in the purchase of the land in that it was sold originally by the Nelson Morris estate to Oscar W. Kerr, of Minneapolis, an American citizen then transferred to a trustee for David Faskin a Canadian on payment of $1. The state alleged the transfer showed that the land was in reality bought by Kerr for Faskin, who, according to the state could not own land in Texas.

Assistant Attorney General Randolph said the state will carry the case on through to the supreme court of the United States if necessary.

Aggie Students Plan For Annual Rodeo And Pageant

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 16.—Plans are under way among the student body at the A. & M. College of Texas for the eighth annual rodeo and society pageant which will be held this year on the evening of November 19. At a recent meeting of the Saddle and Stirrup Club, organization which sponsors the rodeo, T. A. Kincaid of Ozona was elected ring master. Other officers elected to carry out the details of preparation were J. S. May of Del Rio, business manager; W. S. Amend of Ideal, publicity chairman; P. C. Farris of Uvalde, social chairman; and H. E. Howard of Devine, decorations.

The rodeo is held annually by the junior students who are specializing in animal husbandry work, and is supported by the entire student body. Its purpose is to raise funds to defray the expenses of the senior live stock judging team which represents the College at the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago.

The feature of the entertainment is the society pageant, participated in by the most popular girls of Bryan and other cities of the state. Other events include the usual rodeo attractions; and a stock show of the College animals.

Freeport Man Is Elected Head Of Seniors At A.&M.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 16.—S. I. Stratton of Freeport was elected president of the senior class at the A. & M. College of Texas in an organization meeting of the class held last week. Other officers elected at the same time were R. A. Goodson, of Jacksonville, vice president; A. A. Menger, San Antonio, secretary-treasurer; C. A. Altenber, Savanna, Ill., historian; R. E. O. Sloan, San Saba, social secretary; S. J. Baker, Fort Worth, and L. J. Fromke, El Campo, student representatives on the Athletic Council.

These men are among the most outstanding of the seniors, and each of them had already won distinction in the student life at the College. Stratton is captain of Company D Infantry, and managing editor of The Battalion, weekly publication of the student body. Goodson holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the cadet corps, commanding the composite regiment. Menger is sports editor of The Battalion; Altenber is cadet major of the Signal Corps battalion; Sloan is cadet captain of Company E Infantry, and also circulation manager of The Battalion.

Baker is a letterman in basketball and baseball, and one of the most popular athletes on the campus. Fromke is editor of The Battalion, and first lieutenant in the cadet corps.

WILL WAGE WAR ON COTTON BOOTLEGGER

PICKERS BEING SOLD AT $5.00 PER HEAD TO ABILENE FARMERS

ABILENE, Oct. 16.—A relentless war against the "cotton bootlegger" is to be waged in Central Texas by the Texas State Free Employment Bureau. It was stated here today by Deputy Labor Commissioner J. Lee Tarpley, who manages the free employment office situated here.

Complaints have reached his office to the effect that cotton pickers are being brought in by the truck loads and sold at $5 a head to farmers in need of such labor. One rather sly Mexican importer of labor is said to have been "cleaning up" in the Hamilton country. Efforts now are being made to apprehend him. Men who furnish labor are permitted to charge transportation and expenses enroute but cannot require a bonus for pickers. Tarpley declared today, unless they are licensed employment agents and maintain offices.

The labor situation generally over West Texas has registered great relief in the last week due to the increase of many pickers released from South and Central Texas. While many fields still are white and many more laborers can be used the situation is not nearly so bad as obtained a month ago. Cotton opened

Irving Bank Loot Is Still Missing

DALLAS, Oct. 16 (AP)—Loot of $7,000 said by a confessed participant in the Irving bank robbery to be buried in the Trinity river bottoms still remains unaccounted for. Yesterday he led a party of detectives to the spot he claims the money was buried but the "treasure" hunters came back empty handed after digging in several spots. The prisoner then said he was not with his two companions when they hid the money. He claims to have been double crossed by the others and received none of the loot.

The prisoner recently confessed details of the Irving robbery and made additional statements last night which detectives believe were made to divert suspicion from the prisoner's brother-in-law.

The gold output in South Africa this year will total 10,000,000 fine ounces.

Irrigation Water Found At Depth Of 6 To 9 Feet

McLEAN, Texas, Oct. 16 (AP)—A windmill on skirts and a portable digger have caused one of the finest apple orchards in Texas to flourish in a section where ordinary methods of irrigation are impracticable.

In a valley formed by breaks of the Red river about three miles from this city are the orchards of Wilson Bros., growing in soil of a sandy texture that will not permit irrigation by canals. Wilson brothers, however, discovered that water in never-diminishing quantity flowed beneath their property at a depth never exceeding nine feet and in some places coming within six feet of the surface.

Using an ordinary post hole digger, they dug a number of holes at strategic points in the orchard, and in them set wooden boxes to prevent clogging. On large shanks, they mounted an ordinary windmill, which has a low tower.

When dry weather hits the country, the mill is skidded to one of the holes, and the pumping barrel is lowered into the water. Since the lift is very light, the mill runs in the faintest wind, and water in abundance flows over the sand and is absorbed.

No ditches are necessary and no space is taken up by irrigation canals, as is the case with ordinary methods of irrigation. Expense of operation is said to be negligible.

Although Wilson Brothers are said to be the originators of the novel method of irrigation, other farmers are taking to the idea, and it is expected that thousands of acres of land in this territory will have the water problem solved in this manner.

Los Angeles Leaves On Homeward Jaunt

DETROIT, Oct. 16 (AP)—The navy dirigible, Los Angeles which arrived here from Lakehurst, N. J., Friday morning, will start her return trip about 4 o'clock Friday evening. Warning of an approaching storm caused Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosenthal to change his plans to remain at the Ford air port until tomorrow.

He announced the big dirigible will cast off from the air port morning mast at about 3:30 o'clock, swing about Detroit and head directly for Lake Hurst.

Excessive Speed Is Blamed For Accident

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Excessive speed was the cause of the passenger train wreck on the Denver and Rio Grande Western near Waco, Colorado, September 5, in which thirty persons were killed and 54 injured, the safety bureau of the interstate commerce commission reported today.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Oklahoma and Arkansas railroad asked the interstate commerce commission today to allow it to abandon 20 miles of line running eastward from Salina, Oklahoma. There is not sufficient traffic to pay for operation, the application said.

Two Suspects Held In Borger Slaying

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 16 (AP)—Two suspects in the Mildred Toothman slaying in Borger Tuesday night were arrested here Thursday night after being held by police for questioning in connection with the case, Chief Charles Blackwell said today. One of the men is said to have admitted being in Borger and to be implicated in a stolen car case. Miss Toothman, a high school girl was slain by one of two bandits who held her up while she was in company of her sister and her escort.

DIVERSIFICATION IS FARMER'S ONLY HOPE

PRESENT YEAR SHOWS CLEARLY THAT SOUTHLAND NEEDS OTHER CROPS FOR ECONOMIC HEALTH BESIDES COTTON

By RAY B. McCORKLE
Avalanche Journal Staff

About all some people know about diversified farming is that it is a "high sounding" name often seen in print. Actually there are farmers who do not know whether it is something to eat or some kind of an insect. It reads good, looks good and sounds good—it looks well in print and that is all.

But if there ever was a time in the history of America, when diversified crops were more sorely needed than just at this time historians have failed to chronicle the fact. It is cotton, cotton everywhere with not a dollar in cash and the flour bin is empty. The country went wild during the war when cotton sold for 42 cents and since that time every mother's son has been trying to get rich growing the fleecy staple.

Crop Too Big

Today American farmers are facing the awful calamity of a 16,000,000 bale crop, and if the yield had been anything like as good as it was last year it would have been a 20 million bale crop. Corn has been forgotten, the wheat farmer has turned his attention to cotton, and even the puny garden plot is now seeded with goat's only rival.

Were it possible for us to eat cotton the situation would not be so critical, but as it is we can not do this, and to make matters worse most of us are too blamed "stuck-up" to wear garments made from it. Sure, we are living in a transition period, and very few of us know just what we do want. If it is "chicken salad" and the era of silk hose, big talk and little work. We are not willing to come back to earth and face the real problems of life, but are trying to hold on to the alleged high pedestal we imagine we captured during the recent world struggle. We have allowed our skill to go to our heads and curdle our brain. Too lazy to work, too cowardly to steel and too blamed silly to admit our errors.

City Men To Blame, Too

The farmer is not the only one to blame for the calamity—not by any means. As a matter of fact most of his city brethren would be better off if they would pay up their grocery bills, quit stalling and go back to the farm. But they won't do that any quicker than the farmer will adopt the diversified program—that will be after it is made a felony for a farmer to plant all his field to cotton and then buy his bread and meat, feed and grain in town. Too many farmers are piloting Fords and not enough others trying to produce a living. Cotton won't save them, and the sooner they learn it the better off they will be. We do not begrudge the farmer his Ford—land sakes, no. It would suit us better if every one of them had 5 Packard and negro chauffeur. But we are just telling them they will continue to ride the L's until they quit glutting the world with cotton.

Had there been a five million bale crop cotton would have been selling at 50 cents instead of 3, and the producers would have worked only one half as much. His profits would have been greater, his bank account would have been larger and instead of howling hard times—begging people to buy his worthless product and burn it in order to create a market for the balance, he would have been on top of the world giving orders to people who won't even feel sorry for him now.

Action Is Needed

If it tickles your throat to say diversification, and you think a smother word would be better, just say mixed crop. Forget the name and cut your cotton acreage, grow a few hogs and watch your banker smile. As it is you meet him only when you have to and then with trembling and great fear. The best he can say for you is, "Well, the old tool has 200 acres of cotton and if there is any market for it I guess we are safe to let him have a little money. We will cut him short though, for I think most of them will need money to buy feed this fall. Sounds like a joke, but so far as we are concerned it is as true as the Jonah and whale story, for it is real.

There are some agricultural sections in America where cotton is the only sure crop, and people who are so unfortunate as to reside in these sections are to be excused. But on the South Plains of Texas, where any kind of a crop may be raised it is the height of folly to plant and raise cotton only.

We are not trying to get personal or place the blame on any individual, but after spending 35 years in this state, and after 15 years of constant watching and figuring and tabulating we have noticed that it is the diversified program that pays. A few men have grown rich raising cotton, but several million have starved while trying to do the same thing. It is against the laws of nature.

Bread Versus Cotton

Up in Nebraska people are raving about the "bread and water" diet imposed on bootleggers as a punishment. There is plenty bread and lots of water, but they want something else. Bread isn't worth very much if there is nothing but bread. Neither is cotton. Bread is one of man's greatest

38,000 BARRELS DAILY

JOE WINTER WELL IN TAYLOR COUNTY KEEPS UP GOOD PRODUCTION

ABILENE, Oct. 16.—The sensational Joe Winter well of the Phillips Petroleum company 22 miles west of Abilene which blew in an 800-barrel gusher early on the morning of September 7 has flowed a total of 38,000 barrels with a daily steady flow of 800. The oil is 49.5 gravity and the gasoline content of the wet gas being made in large quantity is five gallons to the 1,000 cubic feet of gas. A pump placed on the well is augmenting daily production. Other developments about the Abilene country today are:

Johnson well on Sears land south of Eskote and the Midkansas on the Goodwin ranch, 14 miles northeast, drilling near the Winters sand with momentary expectation of bringing in another producer.

The Marlad's Sam Cox, 12 miles north of Abilene, is drilling below the Phillips sand. A slight showing has been encountered.

The Ideal Company's Taylor-Martin, Fisher county, is around 3,400 feet deep. It had a showing at 2,250 feet. Salt water is giving considerable trouble. The New England's Hayes, 11 miles east, is at 1700 feet.

The Spanish government plans to buy about 650 automobiles in the coming year.

NEW PLUM IS FOUND

Claims Permanent Place in Horticulture of South Texas With Much Attention Being Given

SOMERSET, Oct. 16. (AP)—The Bruce plum has come to claim its permanent place in South Texas horticulture, more especially in the San Antonio district.

Fernando Miller is giving them considerable attention on his fruit farm near here and now has 77 acres planted to that variety. He has found that the trees produce a large, firm plum of fine flavor and is in demand wherever it is known. It stands shipping well, and reaches the market in good condition. The Bruce plum was originated and developed at Clarendon, Texas, but Mr. Miller has found that it thrives as well in South Texas as it did in the Panhandle.

Mr. Miller, who has spent his life in orcharding, said he has tested out more than 50 varieties of plums and has found the Bruce line of the best and the most dependable. It seems to be canker proof, free from blight and altogether seems to be highly disease resistant. Although it blooms early, the tree is very potent and the pollen sets a full crop in a normal season. The fruit matures early and is the first large plum of extra fine quality to reach the market. It is Mr. Miller said, a vigorous grower and must be pruned back heavily each year. Careful spraying and constant, shallow cultivation, Mr. Miller regards as contributing factors to his success. His method enabled him to market 1,300 bushels last year. This year his bearing trees averaged from three to four bushels per tree. The market price was from $2.50 to $4.50 a bushel with the average about $3 a bushel which he said afforded him a handsome profit.

SIX ARRESTED ON BEACH FOR INDECENT COSTUMES

GENOA, Oct. 16. (AP)—Six persons were fined for wearing too abbreviated costumes during the bathing season on the Italian Riviera. There were three men and three women. They were all tried on the same day, and fined $5 each. One of the couples has since applied at the local city hall for a marriage license.

SERVING Faithfully and Well

West Texas Compress Company Has Upheld Nowlin's Faith In Lubbock And Is Growing Rapidly With City

By E. P. SHEPHERD
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Coming to Lubbock some two years ago, T. M. Nowlin placed his faith in the future of Lubbock, and is now a full fledged citizen of this fast growing city of Lubbock. Mr. Nowlin, in company with a body of business men organized the West Texas Compress and Warehouse Company with E. N. Phillips, president, San Antonio; F. A. Norman, vice president, Lubbock; T. M. Nowlin, secretary and general manager, Lubbock; and incorporators. The company was capitalized for $150,000 with an investment of $246,000. The organization being perfected in February, 1925.

This company purchased a building site on 1 and 2 and 3 and 4th, just north of the Santa Fe tracks where, under the direction of superintendent T. M. Nowlin, a Webb high density press was erected, and platforms and sheds built for the accommodation of ten thousand bales of cotton. This press is the best and most expensive press built. This is the only high density press in this section of the state and when cotton is pressed to high density it is ready for export shipment and saves handling at Houston and Galveston ports at a great saving of expense to the shipper.

Platforms Divided
The platforms are divided into two large compartments for storage purposes, each being divided by a heavy brick fire wall. The press and platforms are water-tight, entirely with a line extending through the center with a battery of fire hydrants outside, and inside of sufficient number to guarantee perfect fire protection and thus meet all requirements of the state fire laws.

When running at full capacity and on full time, this press will employ about seventy men. A general average of about forty men is used, making a weekly pay roll of about $2,000, or about $12,000 per month. Practically this entire amount is spent in Lubbock as the most of these employees are permanent residents of the city. The laboring class of men are divided into crews as follows: press crew, block crew, dinky crew, loading crew, unloading crew, hoist, hand makers, tiers, leerman, engineer, fireman, sampler, marker, checker, weigher, hand makers, and topping crew.

Brings More Cotton Here
This high density feature of this press will eventually cause more cotton to be concentrated in Lubbock, and will, in time to come, afford the banks of Lubbock an opportunity to use surplus money in carrying the concentrated cotton. It will also allow them to receive interest and exchange on the volume of business heretofore going to Houston and Galveston. When early realization of pressing debts are over, there will be many hundreds of bales of cotton in storage, and with Lubbock being truly the Hub of this broad plains section, this will be greatly enlarged as a concentration point and many outside shippers will hold their cotton in storage here for future shipments.

With the bankers and presses of other cities making and giving unprecedented concessions to the farmers in these trying times, Mr. Nowlin, superintendent of the West Texas Compress and Warehouse company stated to an Avalanche-Journal reporter, that his company would take care of the storage part for the farmers and thus enable them to market their cotton to the best advantage.

Mr. Nowlin stated that his press turned out approximately sixty thousand bales last season, which was their first season, and that they were now lined up for a big run this fall.

Beauty Vs. Sunday
NEW YORK.—A beauty parlor is a barber shop in Brooklyn. A state law makes barber shops close Sundays. The owner of a pulchritude bazaar, up for violating the law, argued he never cut a man's hair nor shaved a face. "Guiltily," said Magistrate Rayfield. "Let the girls do as their mothers did and curl their own hair."

AIR TRAFFIC PROBLEM

"Fly Cop" at Houston On Lookout For Violators of Air Ordinance; Problem Presented

HOUSTON, Oct. 16. (AP)—While the technique of making an arrest is yet to be solved, M. D. Dice, Houston "fly cop" is on the job, nowadays ready to hale before the judge violators of the municipal air ordinance.

Offenders will bid the judge good morning, if Dice can catch them, which he admits will be hard to do inasmuch as no method as yet has been worked out by which speeders, or left-hand-turn fiends in the ether can be ridden into a non-existent curb to answer the usual questions concerning the location of the fire.

Another insect in the "fly cop's" outfit has been brought to light by local aviators who see in his appointment curtailment of their right to fly as high, wide and handsome as they wish. They declare the commercial machines which Dice is too slow to catch the majority of planes whose home port is in this census numbers, they add and it would be a simple matter to duck the "fly dick" by hiding in convenient clouds or the haze emanating from the vicinity of the chamber of commerce building.

It is suggested by local airmen that if the city really desires to enforce its air ordinance which forbids a machine flying below 2,000 feet altitude, a pursuit ship of the fastest type be purchased.

DEFICIT OF $20,000 IN LAST SALZBURG FESTIVAL

SALZBURG, Austria, Oct. 16. (AP)—A deficit of $20,000 for this year's Festival was announced by the Salzburg Festival Committee.

Unforeseen expenses vitiated in the postponed completion of the festival hall whereby it became necessary to hold many rehearsals in other localities, was among the reasons given. The attendance at concerts also failed to come up to the mark. "Entruerrung," on the other hand, brought full houses.

Miss Jane Land Baby, who recently died, aged 106, at Bath, England, had traveled from her birthplace at Swansea to Bath by stage coach nearly 80 years ago, had lived in the same house for 30 years, and at her death left nearly $50,000.

Ambitious Thieves Get The Sheriff's Car

Stealing is a dangerous profession, but when a thief nerves himself up to take a peace officer's car he is ready for the blue ribbon and all other decorations given those who have proven their proficiency. Yet there is a thief of this kind in Lubbock and he is still at large.

Friday evening Deputy Sheriff Williamson parked his car within 10 feet of the sheriff's office, and while he was transacting business in the court house his car was driven off. Mr. Williamson says the car was seen at 12 o'clock, but at one a. m. when he left the building for home he found it was no longer a "cushionite," but an ordinary pedestrian.

Mr. Williamson and other officers have combed the city, but they have no trace of the car.

W. E. Holder, who resides two miles south of Lubbock, lost two casings (almost new) two rims and a set of Ford coils the same evening.

ATTENDANCE INCREASES 15 PER CENT AT CANYON SCHOOLS

CANYON, Oct. 16.—The attendance of the Canyon public schools has increased more than fifteen per cent over that of last year, and Superintendent Jim Webb believes that the attendance will be fully twenty-five per cent greater than last year when all students are enrolled, as many come after crops are harvested. All Canyon school buildings are filled to capacity.

A new grade school building must be provided in Canyon before the opening of the next year's session and already plans are being made for the needed building and a bond election will be called soon to take care of the situation.

The Store for Everybody

'Llano Estacado' Of Geography Fame Is SURE IT RAINS OVER ALL WEST TEXAS Now Said To Be Entirely Different Place

Whoever wrote that about the Llano Estacado desert, whose center Lubbock graces, being high and dry and where "water is obtained by boring" either made a mistake or didn't calculate on the fall of 1926 when all previous rainfall records have been broken for this time of the year.

And now, probably as was true in the case of the Great World war, the geographies and encyclopedias will have to be changed in regard to the Great Plains of Texas where the natives have been forced to chant "It isn't raining flowers to me, it's pouring torrents down."

As has been repeatedly claimed by the Chamber of Commerce officials and other proud citizens of the Hub of the Plains, Lubbock always does it right, and old Jupiter Pluvius, catching the spirit of the phrase, has decided that when it rains, it must pour. Hence, during the first 14 days of October the previous high record of rainfall for the entire month of October, 7.34 inches, was beaten by a margin of 42 inches. That other record was made during the entire month in 1915, according to records at the State Experiment station here.

Changes Are Hinted

And what with the little lizards showing signs of taking after their cousins, the alligators, and swimming around in consistent great lakes of the plains, and water-dogs replacing the common herd of curs around alleys, it seems probable that the inhabitants of this great elevated ocean are going to have to resort to the customs of the Romans and don white gowns and offer prayers to Pluvius, who is attributed with the power to restore the serenity of the sky after it has been obscured by the clouds as well as to send the rain.

But all this rain is not for naught, according to Don L. Jones, superintendent of the State Experiment Station located here, as it is putting a bottom season in the ground for next summer and is of great benefit to the small grains such as wheat, oats, rye and barley, which should be planted right now, he said.

Rains Will Help

Of course, these rains are not all that will be needed for the crops next year by any means, but some of this moisture will soak into the ground and remain there so that the roots of plants can draw upon it next summer when it becomes hot and dry. The small grains are useful for winter grazing and the wheat will be ready for harvesting in the spring.

Ex-Marine Was One Time Lunch Wagon Cook in New York is Claim

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Daily News will say Saturday in a copyrighted story that Jerry Tarbot, the man who believed he was an ex-marine suffering from amnesia, is Bruce Harpin, a former Brooklyn, N. Y. lunch wagon owner.

He was identified Friday by Chas. Smith, of Brooklyn, who formerly worked for Harpin as a cook, according to the News, which claims that the mystery man has partly recovered his memory. A recollection of fighting in Belleau Woods persists, he says.

CANYON STUDENTS PAY OWN COSTS

SELF-SUPPORTING-SEEKERS FOR LEARNING ATTEND W. T. TEACHERS COLLEGE

CANYON, Tex., Oct. 16.—With a larger student body than ever before, the West Texas State Teachers College of this city has also a higher percentage of students who are paying their own expenses.

A careful study of the information sheets of the students reveals that 21.2 percent of the entire student body are paying part or all of their own expenses, and that 28.9 all their expenses without aid from parents or others.

In the high school department it was found that 29.3 percent were paying all their own expenses and that a number are paying one-half or two-thirds of their own expenses. The high school students are about the same average as those found in other high schools of the state of Texas.

CANYON, Oct. 16.—With the Canyon Buffalo test well down over six hundred feet and progressing satisfactorily, three more wells have been contracted for in this immediate territory. W. A. Patterson of Fort Worth has contracted to drill a test well 17 miles southwest of Canyon. W. W. Donnelly of Fort Worth has closed a drilling contract for a well 10 miles west of Canyon and Vera Dumas who is drilling Buffalo No. 1, will drill on the Worj ranch five miles northwest of Canyon; this ranch is the property of the city of Amarillo. Another test is being made on the Puckett ranch in Palo Duro canyon where work is progressing satisfactorily with evidence that the location was well chosen.

Buffalo No. 1 is sponsored by the Canyon chamber of commerce and is handled through a board of trustees headed by O. W. H. Cook, cashier of the First National bank.

City Court Gets Money From Trio Of Lubbock Folk

Two drunks and one speeder paid fines in corporation court Saturday morning, and one man who has insisted on driving over stop signals knows that the pleasure costs just two dollars a block. He was also warned that "pleasure" was going up in price.

A woman speeder was also ordered to the station to make her report. She had simply been "burning the breeze," but the real thrill came when the judge told her she was due the city a $25.00 fine. It is said she immediately lost her smile and her desire to burn rapid fire gasoline, but felt better when the judge suspended $20. of the $25. and told her if she was not guilty of another traffic law violation for a period of 90 days the $20. would be remitted. If, however, she is brought to court again she will have to pay the $20. and well as another fine and the next one will look like a young fortune.

Speeders have been doing pretty well for the past week, and very few fines have been collected.

Parisians are reviving the wig fad.

BAILER BRINGS OIL PROSPECTS OF PRODUCING WELL NEAR ABILENE ARE MUCH STRENGTHENED

ABILENE, Oct. 16.—Prospects of the Sanger Oil & Refining company's Anderson No. 2 well, five miles southeast of Abilene becoming a commercial producer, were heightened today when the bailer began to bring up considerable oil. The oil is of good lubricating quality. The expected pay is expected to be found at around 2,000 feet.

The same company is drilling at around 1600 in the I. C. Cox well, north of Buffalo Gap, this county, and in the City of Abilene well, four miles southeast of town.

The slush pit for the Gillespie well to be spudded in in about two weeks is now being excavated. This well is a few miles southeast of Abilene. The Sanger company has a rig up 1 1/2 miles southeast of Potosi and about 10 miles southeast of the Anderson No. 2.

SAINT AND SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

COPYRIGHT 1926 NEA

George Pruitt, who, in a suit of "Lans" Lane's overalls, had been busy all afternoon stripping layers of dirty old paper from the living room and dining room walls of the Lane house, firmly announced his intention of staying for supper, helping to cook it, and spending the evening, as a member of the paper-hanging squad.

"I'm going to make a washbasin full of spaghetti, real honest-to-God Italian style," he said, and began to delve in the pantry with knowing hands. "Two packages of spaghetti—noah, is that all you've got?—onions, cayenne pepper, mushrooms. — mushrooms? Where are your mushrooms, young woman?" he demanded sternly of Faith, who stood by, laughing helplessly.

"You've wandered into the wrong kitchen," she giggled, Faith giggling; she could hardly believe her own ears. "This isn't the Astorbilt pantry, my man. We're poor, but honest working people, Mr. Pruitt! There ain't no such things as mushrooms!"

"Is that right?" George retorted with mock truculence. "Hey, Joe! Get a hump on! Take this five dollar bill and skin out to the grocery store and bring back a pound of dried mushrooms. Make it snappy, old timer!"

Joy's eyes bulged at sight of the bill. "Do mushrooms cost five a pound?" Her voice was weighted with awe.

"Good Lord, I don't know! Don't waste my time on petty details. I'm a busy man, I am. Scoot! Two cans of tomato pulp—well, I'm glad to see that even poor but dishonest working people indulge in such sinful luxuries as tomato pulp. Cheese? That'd be in the ice box, I suppose."

"I've got a half pound of American cheese," Faith said, following him to the ice box. "Will that do?"

"Ought to be that Italian kind, granted, but I guess it'll do," George conceded magnificently. "Here, you grate it. Where's your biggest grating kettle?"

Half an hour later waves of savory fragrance were pouring through the house from the bubbling pot on the stove. Cherry, coming in from work, stopped at the living room door to sniff ecstatically.

"You hoo, Faith! What a lot of work you've done! And that heavenly smell! Italian spaghetti! Look what the kitchen dragged in!"

Faith, flushed, laughing, feeling more like a giggly school girl than she had ever felt in her life, ran from the kitchen to meet her sister.

"George is cooking the supper," she announced breathlessly. "He's been helping me all afternoon—"

"Don't skulk behind that door, Bob Hathaway!" Cherry, her eyes, cheeks and hair a glowing riot of color, seized his hand and drew him into view. "He was at the office, on business with his uncle, Mr. Cuny, you know, and I kidnapped him. He struggled desperately, but the strength of my good right arm held out and here he is. Told him he'd have to help us paper. Sentenced to hard labor for resisting an officer!"

Faith's heart leaped painfully at sight of his embarrassed blue eyes, fixed appealingly upon her. Why did Cherry have to drag him into the situation just when the idea of marrying George—clear, sky, companionable George—was becoming almost bearable? But how thin Bob's turned cheeks were, how hurt and wistful his blue eyes! The flush deepened on her cheeks as she gave him her hand.

"I'm afraid Cherry is an incorrigible gold-digger," she said rather breathlessly. "But we really don't need any more help. If you had a previous engagement, Dad and Junior and George and Cherry and I certainly ought to be able to paper two rooms."

"Well, for weeping noisily!" Cherry ejaculated in pretended anger. "You can't send my little playmate home like that! You wouldn't turn him out into the cool world after he smelled that divine spaghetti, would you? Now you go right on holding hands," she said a little maliciously, "while I scot into my room and put on something cunning I bought today. And don't you dare show Bob the wall paper until I come out."

George Pruitt was insisting that Bob Hathaway make notes on the scientific preparation of spaghetti à la Italian, and Faith was opening jars of brandied peaches—a delicacy that had achieved almost the dignity of a family heirloom, since Mrs. Lane had put them up before prohibition, when the most precious ingredient was still obtainable—when Cherry appeared at the kitchen door.

"Don't faint, Faith!" her musical laughter rang out at the sight of Faith's thunderstruck face. "Don't I look cute? I leave it to George and Bob!"

She was wearing a suit of green and white checked gingham rompers, cut square above the neck, and sleeveless, her tiny waist encircled by a broad sash of the gingham, tied in a big butterfly bow at the back. Beneath the short, bloused, elastic-bound legs of the rompers, her dimpled knees shone pink and bare. She revolved slowly before them, like a mannequin.

"My overalls," she laughed excitedly. "What the well-dressed flapper will wear when she papers the old homestead. Strange—but I hear no applause!" she cupped one hand behind a saucy small ear and pretended to listen.

"Three cheers for the new member of the paper hangers' union!" George Pruitt waved a big iron spoon. "All together now—"

Faith, suddenly feeling as if she had been doused with ice water, looked first at Bob, whose face was flushed with laughter and his eyes kindled anew with the flame that had burned

so hotly for a brief two weeks, then to George Pruitt, who had been trying to get her to say "yes" to him all afternoon. His face was darkly flushed, too, his small black eyes snapping with excitement. Faith knew then that he would not bother her again that evening for an answer—and she hardly knew whether she was glad or sorry.

GIANT LOSS FOR BUILDING PROGRAM

PRACTICES ALLOWED TO EXIST TO EXACT TOLL ON GIGANTIC NATION-WIDE PROGRAM

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16.—Wide-spread losses running into millions of dollars will occur this year as a result of mutilated conditions in the construction industry, it has developed here.

"Practices which have been allowed to exist for years are to exact their toll which it is estimated will be spent for construction during 1926," declared Gen. R. C. Marshall, Jr., general manager of the Associated General Contractors of America, the sponsoring organization of a conference of construction experts just concluded here.

"The building public as well as those actively engaged in construction operations, will feel the effect of profligate insistence of survey boards, insistence of lien laws, incomplete or perplexing contract provisions and disregard of the competitive contract system by many officials," Gen. Marshall stated.

Definite plans for remedying existing conditions were laid during the course of the four-day conference. Leading builders in all parts of the country will this week initiate efforts locally in connection with the general program developed by the conference, it was said.

BRANDED GIRL WHO JILTED HIM; OLD CUSTOM FAILED

TOLEDO, Oct. 16. (AP)—The quaint Korean custom of branding a girl on the neck of a girl who has jilted her sweetheart was frowned upon by the Tokyo appeal court when it sentenced Lyu Tetsufuku to 18 months imprisonment for murderous assault on a girl in Moji, Korea.

Lyu's defense was that he had been engaged to the girl, but that she had found a handsomer man and left him. He produced witnesses to prove that ancient Korean customs permitted him, under the circumstances, to shave off her eyebrows or to cut a slice of skin from her neck. The court ruled however that the carving custom had no standing in law and Lyu was committed to prison.

TO PAVE HIGHWAY

NORTH LOOP OF BANKHEAD ROAD IN TAYLOR COUNTY WILL BE IMPROVED

ABILENE, Oct. 16.—The North Loop of the Bankhead highway in Taylor county will be paved as a result of the action of the county commission yesterday who ordered $38,000 in warrants placed in escrow to match state and federal aid in the amount of $166,000. The money is to be used in paying cost of grading and drainage. The state and federal aid on this project is not included in the $250,000 bond issue voted in the county three years ago.

Shackelford county is to meet the paved highway out of Abilene. When completed Abilene will have two paved highways to Fort Worth; one by way of Baird, Cisco, Eastland and Itasca and the other by way of Albany and Breckenridge.

County To Lose State And Federal Aid In Home Demonstration Work By Action Of Commissioners Court Here

Lubbock county is now faced with the problem of losing permanently the state and federal appropriations in connection with the county home demonstration agent's work, and unless some move is taken by the county commissioners court for continuation of the work before the last of November, the appropriation will be given over to some other county in the state that is anxiously waiting for it.

It is the problem of the county, and not ours, Miss Murray said, for we have places that are willing to cooperate with us in the educational work for rural people, and we are leaving the matter entirely up to the court and interested people.

Many Protests Filed
Many protests in connection with actions of the county court in cancelling the county's part of the appropriation have been heard the past few days, and it is understood that not only organizations of rural women and girls, but the City Federation here, are planning concerted action in protest.

The work is financed by the federal government through the Smith-Lever act of the national congress in cooperation with state and county governments, and furnishes the only means of organized educational effort on behalf of the rural women and girls. Only ninety counties out of the 252 in the state can share under the federal and state appropriations under the terms of the bill, and this quota is now taken, with many on the waiting list.

$1,200 in Aid Offered
The bill provides that $1,200 can be paid by state and federal governments to county agents after the court has made an appropriation, which is a minimum of $1,000 and a maximum of $1,500 annually. This amount, which is paid to the agent in charge of the work, includes $400 for traveling expenses, but out of the amount the agent must also pay for a car and its upkeep.

The action of the court makes the cancellation order effective December 1, which means that at this time, unless another appropriation has been made or the action rescinded, the state and federal aid will be given over to one of the counties on the waiting list, probably to be apportioned first to Lubbock county, for after losing the appropriation, the county must take its place on the waiting list and bide its time. Due to the large number now on the list, and the number of others that want the work, this would probably bar the county for all time.

Minimum Paid in County
Lubbock county to date has been paying the minimum appropriation, but action of the court means that if the contract is renewed now, the minimum must be paid, for not others are accepted on lesser terms. Four counties in this part of the state have in the past few weeks voluntarily increased their appropriation to the maximum. One of these is Fisher, where the work has been under way only since February of this year. The other three are Taylor, Floyd and Hale, all recognized smaller counties than Lubbock in point of population and leadership.

The type of training that the agent must have, and the many duties incumbent to it, make it necessary that the department insist that the maximum amount be paid by the county, and since February of this year, none have been accepted for less than the maximum. A comparison of the salaries paid demonstration agents and home economics teachers, all of whom do about the same nature of work is interesting. The teacher works five days a week from 9 to 4 o'clock while the agent works twelve, and the average salary paid teachers ranges from $110 to $125 per month.

Comparison of Work
The teacher reaches only girls of one community, while the demonstration agent reaches both women and girls in every community in the county. At the present in this county there are organized active clubs in eighteen communities, including both women's and girls' clubs.

Speaking of the work done by the agent in this county, Miss Murray said that at its recent fair here, Lubbock county rural club workers were awarded 96 out of the 125 ribbons offered, and against competition offered by agents of much more experience locally than the agent in this county. Miss Hazel Hamner, county agent, took up her work here toward the middle of the year, and offered 50 complete exhibits at the fair in spite of the fact that there yet remain two months and a half for her girls and women to complete their year's work. Now, the situation is up to interested citizens of the county as to whether or not they want continuation of the work, Miss Murray said, for the appropriation will be immediately transferred unless definite action is taken by the commissioners court between now and December 1, the date of expiration of the present contract.

R. R. EXTENSIONS WEST IN PROSPECT

LOREE MERGER MAY BRING GREAT BENEFIT TO THIS SECTION

By HAMILTON WRIGHT
ABILENE, Oct. 16.—The merger of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Cotton Belt and Kansas City Southern railways into a great Southwestern system may result in a number of major extensions in West Texas which would benefit vastly a large area now either served inadequately or not served at all. It was pointed out by chamber of commerce officials here today. One extension almost assured is the Missouri-Kansas-Texas westward from Rotan to Snyder and Roswell, N. M. And another extension that will loom brightly in the western projection of the Cross Plains branch of the same line to Abilene, a distance of about 35 miles.

Abilene negotiated with the Katy system two or three years ago looking to the Cross Plains extension, but the Each-Cummings act somewhat dimmed the outlook. Now that Abilene is developing quite an oil field about it, especially the Noodle Creek field 22 miles west, it is believed that the Katy may be persuaded to extend in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission grants the merger. On the Stamford-Waco line practically every chamber of commerce, commercial club and civic organization has wired the Interstate Commerce Commission endorsing the merger. Katy officials on a recent inspection of the line hinted that the merger probably would mean the long looked for extension westward from Rotan. At present thousands of dollars are being expended installing 35-pound steel, reducing heavy grades, eliminating acute curves, and ballasting the line. Several hours will be lopped from the time of the Rotan-Waco run, giving a new and facile transit from Central West Texas points to South Texas markets. The extension of the Cross Plains line would open up a new territory and give the Katy a new source of vast tonnage that now moves in a roundabout way at high joint rail rates.

Diversification Is Urged for Plains

worth? Farmers know this, but already they are planning another big crop, hoping against hope that prices will be better next season. They want everybody to quit raising cotton, but self, and none of them are going to give up as long as they can manage their crops a year in advance and live.

Wheat Farmers Gain

Wheat farmers on the south plains have made money this year, and they didn't have to wait until Christmas to do it. And unless there is a radical change wheat farmers will make money next year. There is money in wheat for wheat is a necessity—cotton is not. There would be money in cotton if one could produce it. A bushel in the acre every year and get 20 cents a pound for all he raised. But such good luck or this comes about twice in a hundred years.

The South Plains needs more hogs, hens, cows and feed. They mean a little money every year and they mean independence, so far as owners are concerned. During the last two years many farmers have been turning their attention to hogs and feed and when you find a farmer with a lot filled with hogs and a barn filled with feed you will find a farmer that doesn't owe the banker, the banker and candlestick maker. If he has a cotton crop and prices are right he has extra money—if not he is still in position to live without suffering and worry.

Question Tough One

Just why South Plains farmers hold on to cotton is more than we can explain. They know that of all the farmers under the canopy of heaven the cotton farmer is the poorest and the hardest worker. If there was any excuse for hoping that conditions might improve they might be justified, but there is no such excuse. With the cotton farmer it is "more work more worry." Even his children must suffer for it takes the whole family twelve months to plant, cultivate and gather a cotton crop, and they know all the time they are working their chances to win are few.

It would be possible to raise too much wheat, too much fruit and too many hogs, but history teaches us there is a shortage in these products most of the time. Why are eggs bringing 50 cents a dozen if the world has an over supply? Many people are raising chickens, but there are still too few hens to care for the needs of the world. Why are you paying 40 cents a pound for your bacon? Because all the hog growers have begun raising cotton. Why do you pay 50 cents for a can of fruit? Because people are so busy picking cotton and raising fruit prices they have failed to plant fruit trees. Why do you sell cotton for 10 cents a pound and then buy it back in the shape of cloth at $2.50 a pound? Because people know you are easy—too easy for your own good or you would not be raising 10 cent cotton while a hungry world is begging for dollar corn.

If you had a hundred thousand pounds of pinto beans, another big crop coming on and all your neighbors were planting beans, you would not offer a very attractive price for any additional stock. It would be a matter of too many beans—the supply greater than the demand. But if you could trade your beans for a ham you would give a hundred dollars worth of beans for a $3 ham if the ham owner demanded it. That's the way spinners are treating you now. They don't give a hoot about that busy dozen bales of cotton you have. You can take it and go to thunder if you wish and they will never know when you left. There are 8 million people ready to sell their cotton at just any old price they may offer. If they can buy it for one cent a pound and sell it back to you for $2.50 the joke is on you—not the spinner. He may be a grafter, but you will admit he is no fool. Why should he give you 30 cents a pound for your cotton when he knows good and well he can buy all he wants for 5 and 10 cents.

Farmer Can Fix It

And just in long as every farmer in the Southland hangs on to cotton the condition will remain the same. Plant sorghum and cabbage for two years and the spinner will be on his knees begging for cotton at 30 cents a pound—begging you to raise it. Why not let him beg a little while—you have been doing the begging ever since you dropped your first cotton seed in the ground. And then when he begs for your cotton, when you get him in your power and can name the price for the product you have raised, don't try to overload him the following year, for if you do he will hang his hook in you so deep it will take three years for the wound to close.

One farm journal insists that "civilization begins and ends with the plow." This may be true and it may not. But there is one thing sure when the farmer is "hard hit" most other people are forced to go on a tight diet and wear thread-bare clothes. Your prosperity is the barometer that tells of the nation's condition. If you succeed others will enjoy prosperity; if you fail the entire world will flunk, and it won't be very long doing it.

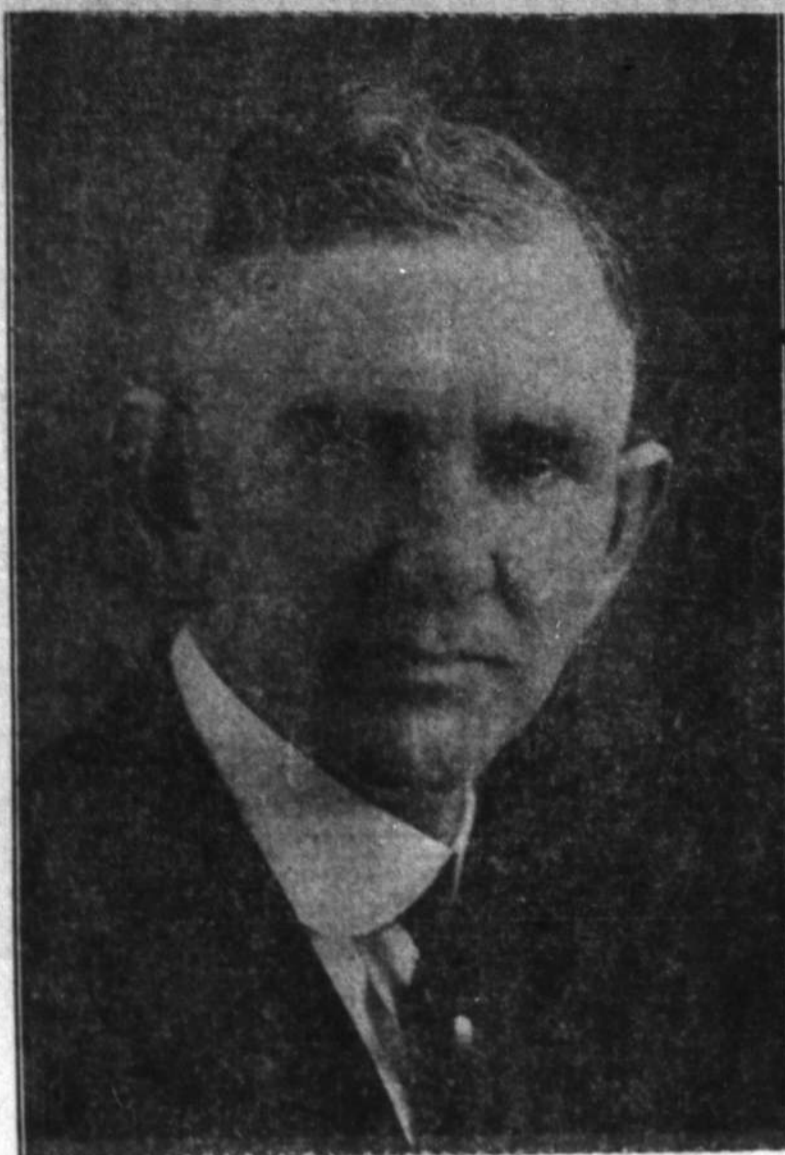

Newspaper writers, bankers and business men are not trying to tell the farmer how to run his business, but are merely warning him against calamity. They want him to succeed so the banks and stores won't "go broke."

Organization Would Help

It is refreshing to note that during recent years there has been quite a little fraternization between farmers and business men, but there isn't enough. The farmer thinks the "city duck" is after him, and the "city duck" knows if he can't be friendly toward the farmer his own cake is cooked. It looks like comedy, but any man with the gumption of a road lizard knows it is tragedy.

We are all too "blasted sure" of ourselves. Peter, derided Christ, but argued with him before it happened, told him such a thing could not be

Evangelist Opens Meeting Here

Rev. W. Y. Pond, of Dallas, Texas, arrived in Lubbock Saturday and will be with the First Baptist Church of this city for a two weeks' evangelistic campaign. Rev. Pond is known throughout the State as an evangelist of the highest order. Hundreds of people have been led to Christ through his preaching. He will speak Sunday at 11 o'clock and at 7:30. Services during the week will be at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. An invitation is extended to one and all to attend these services.

Yet Peter was wrong. And who knows but a lot of us are just as badly off as Peter.

If the South Plains is to grow and prosper, farmers in this section must grow profitable crops. Cotton in large quantities is unprofitable. Too much feed would be bad, but lots of feed and hogs will mean prosperity.

Good Season In Ground

There was never a better season in the ground at this season of the year than just now. The man who has wheat and oats planted stands a good chance to win. If you have been planning another big cotton crop for next year, stop and take an invoice. If you can't see that it is a losing proposition, then call in a friend or your wife to advise you, for the chances are you are not capable of doing your own figuring.

We need some cotton, a lot of feed and more hogs. Let's diversify and by so doing make America the greatest and most prosperous nation on earth as well as in name. Selah.

GUS ROBERTSON WELL SPUDS IN MONDAY - LEWIS

INTEREST IN THE OIL PLAY MOUNTING AS TESTS CONTINUE ON

While there has been very little drilling done on the South Plains during the past week, there have been no signs of an abatement in interest of those interested in the field. Members of the oil fraternity, and many of them are experts say there is no doubt but there is oil in this section of the state.

There are no less than seven test wells going down at this time, and some of them have very encouraging reports.

Dan Lewis, of Colorado City, superintendent of the El Capitan holdings in this section, stated Saturday that El Capitan's Robertson No. 1, Crosby county would be spudded in tomorrow. Work on this well has been delayed because of bad roads, and it was only after Lubbock county commissioners loaned Mr. Lewis a caterpillar tractor to move his engine and tools to the location that drilling has been possible. The test is just over the line into Crosby county and east of Slaton. Bad roads made it impossible to move machinery to the test with either teams or an ordinary tractor.

Is 3,500 Foot Test
Robertson No. 1 will be drilled to a depth of 3,500 feet unless oil or gas in paying quantities is found at a shallower depth. Dick Price, who for the past two months has been with the Whicker No. 1, Cochran county will have charge of the drilling, Mr. Lewis said.

El Capitan's Ellwood No. 1 formerly known as the Ellwood-Myrick test, and located near Roundup is shut down for repairs. Casing in the well has been pulled in two for the third time. As soon as repairs are made drilling will be resumed.

This well has attracted considerable attention as it is generally agreed among geologists that the test is being drilled on the main oil structure. The well is now almost 2,000 feet deep.

Yellowhouse No. 1, southwest of Littlefield, is drilling at 1,900 feet with encouraging reports coming from those in charge.

Whicker No. 1, near Elkhoe, is drilling at 400 feet. No reports have been made on this well since the first of the week. Bad roads have made it impossible for owners to visit the well.

The Kingsland No. 1 Brownfield is again drilling after a delay of several days. This well also gives promise of being a producer, and owners feel encouraged.

A new test well is going down near Guthrie Lake in Lynn county. This location is some 8 miles southwest from Tahoka.

UNCLE SAM BECOMES TEA-ROOM OPERATOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—The government is going into the business of operating a tea-room.

The government welfare service will open an old mill in Rock Creek park here soon, for afternoon tea daily.

The mill has been done over in colonial style, and the two great mill-stones which ground out flour by the power of Rock Creek 100 years ago have been installed for atmosphere, not utility. This is the first welfare service venture of this kind.

CITROEN TO INCREASE

Citroen Motor Co. is planning to increase production of its flexible crawler track, or caterpillar, automobile. At the present the output is 50 per cent for military purposes and 50 per cent for various civilian purposes.

"Labor Bootlegger" Is Kept Busy Here

The labor bootlegger is not unknown in this section of the state, but his activities have been some what limited so far. A few weeks ago certain individuals made an effort to "sell" cotton pickers to South Plains farmers at $2. each, but farmers failed to "fall," and unscrupulous dealers found themselves with an expense account and no market for their product.

There is still a shortage of labor in this section, but pickers from points further south where the cotton crop has about been gathered are moving to the Plains, and it will be only a matter of a few days when help will be plentiful, farmers believe.

High prices are being paid, and as "picking" is good an ordinary cotton picker can make from three to five dollars a day and board.
