Allied Nonrepatriates Due Transfer To India Custody

PANMUNJOM, Sept. 22 — UP—More than 300 Allied nonrepatriates who turned their backs on repatriation to their homelands, 23 of them Americans, awaited transfer Tuesday to the custody of Indian troops.

The Communists announced the prisoners were presently in Kaesong and were free to move about the city without guards. In addition to the 23 Americans, one was British.

A Peiping Radio broadcast said the prisoners can walk through the streets at will and can attend the movies or opera.

"Explanations" Begin Friday
The prisoners will be turned over to the Indian troops for a 90-day period during which Allied "explanations" will try to persuade them to return home.

The period of "explanations" begins Friday. At the same time, Communist "explanations" will try to persuade 23,000 anti-Communist soldiers captured by the Allies to return home. These prisoners, too, are in the custody of neutral troops.

Meanwhile, the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission is studying the methods to be used by the Communist and Allied "explaners" in trying to persuade the balking prisoners to return home.

Among the points still to be approved are whether the interviews will be on an individual or group basis and whether Communist and Allied newsmen will be permitted to sit in on the interviews.

The armistice agreement provides for news coverage, but it does not state specifically how it should be done.

Reds Reject Allied Demand—The first 1,000 South Korean war prisoners to be repatriated by the Communists arrived in Pusan Monday night from Yongcho Island.

Claims Balking PWs Won't Get Home

PANMUNJOM, Sept. 22 — UP—A Communist correspondent predicted Tuesday that Allied prisoners will have "little success" in persuading 23 balking American war prisoners to return to the free world.

"It is my impression that these men have made a logical decision against the American way of life," said Wilfred Burchett, correspondent for the Paris L'Humanite.

Burchett had earlier disclosed that more than 300 South Koreans and one British prisoner had joined the 23 Americans in embracing the Communist way of life.

He said three of the Americans were Negroes. He described the reluctant Americans as "calm, intelligent" men who have made their decision after "months of deliberation."

"We have tried to persuade them to come," Burchett said, "but they want no part of America."

Hurricane Whips Britain, France

LONDON, Sept. 22 — UP—Gale winds which at times reached hurricane force lashed Britain and Northern France Tuesday.

At least five persons died in the storm. Winds up to 75 miles an hour grounded several vessels and forced the crew of an ocean-going freighter to abandon ship.

Coastal shipping virtually was at a standstill. The wind-whipped seas forced the liner Queen Elizabeth to delay docking at Southampton. The giant liner dropped anchor off the Isle of Wight Monday night to await more favorable weather.

Aboard were some 970 passengers. In the mid-Atlantic Monday, the battering waves broke up the 6,320-ton Liberian freighter Greenville. All but two of the 26 officers and crewmen were rescued by lifeboat crews from the French liner Ile de France.

The rescue was carried out in the teeth of 60-mile-an-hour winds that churned up 35-foot high waves. Two

Parsley Roofing Awarded Contract

City Hall will have a new roof but the work will be done by the second lowest bidder for the job. City commissioners this morning voted to award the contract for the work to R. K. Parsley Roofing Company, Pampa, with a bid of $2,886.

Lowest bidder was Pioneer Roofing Company, Inc., Borger, with $2,686; while the third of the three bidders, Pioneer Roofing Company, Amarillo, bid $2,987.64.

"It seems the most advantageous bid for the city," Mayor Tom Rose said, pointing out that it was a lot easier to deal with a local concern in matters of complaints and corrections. Others on the city commission agreed and voted to give the contract to Parsley.

Tax Cut Seen By Treasurer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 — UP—Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey promised anew Tuesday that Americans will receive an income tax cut due by law next Jan. 1.

In a speech before the 79th annual convention of the American Bankers Association, Humphrey also pledged again that the excess profits tax on corporations will be allowed to lapse at the same time. His address left unanswered the administration's future plans for raising new revenue. He merely said "many further adjustments in taxes are now under consideration by the (House) Ways and Means committee and the Treasury for submission to the next Congress."

Humphrey spoke after Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson urged the bankers to extend help to farmer clients who face "adjustments" because of declining income. He asked the bankers to "play with" the farmers.

President Eisenhower spoke informally to 5,000 ABA delegates and their wives in Constitution Hall. Mr. Eisenhower said his administration is not one "that thinks it knows all the answers." He said its leaders will not "sit in an ivory tower of isolation and give words of wisdom and orders which no one must obey."

Humphrey echoed President Eisenhower's Boston speech of Monday night on present aspects of national defense. Mr. Eisenhower told his Boston audience "no sacrifice—no labor, no tax, no service" is too heavy to bear in building defense. This led to speculation he might be trying to prepare the country for a heavy new tax program.

Humphrey said Tuesday, "As I promised, the excess profits tax will expire Dec. 31, and there will be no need for renewal." He said the scheduled 10 per cent increase in the personal income tax due at the same time "will become effective."

This was substantially the same thing Humphrey said a week ago in a speech here to the National Press Club. Subsequently, Rep. Joseph M. Mason (R-Ill.), a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means committee said Saturday he heard on "good authority" the administration will propose a five per cent national sales tax to help offset loss of revenue from the excess profits tax and from lower income taxes.

But it was his single cryptic allusion to high taxes that attracted most attention here.

The chief executive returned to the White House early Tuesday without elaborating on his declaration "there is no sacrifice—no labor, no tax, no service—too hard for us to bear to support a logical and necessary defense of our freedom."

Capital markets attached special significance to the statement (See NEW TAXES, Page 2)

Sgt. Williams Due In San Francisco

Sgt. Eugene H. Williams, Pampa prisoner of war who was recently released by the Reds, will arrive in San Francisco tomorrow, according to word received by his wife, Mrs. Hilda Williams, 633 Naida.

Mrs. Williams said she had been notified by the War Department that the ship on which her husband is a passenger, the Howie, is due to dock at the West Coast city "about noon tomorrow."

Mrs. Williams last heard from the sergeant in a letter dated Sept. 6 from Inchon, just before he boarded the ship for home. Sgt. Williams was captured by the Reds Nov. 30, 1950.

lifeboats made four trips to pick up the survivors, some of whom were plucked from the raging waters.

Capt. Frank Garrigue of the Ile de France reported by radio telephone the storm was "one of the worst I have ever seen."

Reports from Brest, France, said a 90-ton French trawler was blown aground on the Irish coast and a crewman drowned.

Ashore, the gale blew a three-ton truck off a road along the Welsh coast killing the driver, and a harbor worker was swept to sea and drowned at Lynmouth, Devonshire.

Gas Firm Advised To Gather Report

Empire Southern Gas Company has 30 days in which to compile and turn over to the Pampa City Commission a series of maps and explanations concerning the proposed hike in gas rates.

City Attorney Bob Gordon this morning read to commissioners a four-page resolution, outlining in detail what the city officials wanted to know before consideration of a gas hike came up before the commission.

Commissioners passed on the resolution unanimously. Among the items in the resolution were requests for information on the company's gathering system, the actual cost of installation, right-of-ways, meter equipment, amount of gas purchased in the last 12 months.

Mention this morning was also made of another resolution letter—the one sent to all members of the city commission, school board and county commissioners' court concerning the cost of hiring out land appraisal firms for purposes of land evaluation.

WORLD SCENE—Two ex-Premiers and at least 12 others were jailed or placed in house arrest in Cairo Sunday presumably as prelude to trial by super-legal "revolutionary tribunal set up by Pres. Mohammed Naguib to deal with his enemies. Former Premier Ibrahim Abd Hadi, center, was arrested by military police and ex-Premier Mustapha El Nahas, right, was placed under house arrest. A man believed to be ousted Russian Secret Police Chief Lavrenti P. Beria, left, has escaped from the Soviet Union and is seeking political asylum in return for "telling all," an unidentified source in Washington reported. (NEA Telephoto)

Russian Atomic Expert May Be Hiding Out With Beria

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 22 — UP—A man described as Russia's top atomic energy official was reported to be hiding in a "deep southern country" with a man who claims to be Lavrenti P. Beria, the San Diego Union said Tuesday.

The newspaper said earlier that it received a report "Via Mexico City" that a man claiming to be Beria has sought asylum in the United States through an "intermediary" who has been in contact with the newspaper.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Monday that he is checking reports that the ousted Soviet leader has escaped from Russia but that he is "not convinced the man is Beria."

In a copyrighted story Tuesday, the Union said "it can be confirmed that the intermediary has reported several times with the self-styled Beria and another man described as the Russian counterpart of the chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission."

The Russian atomic program was directed under Beria as home minister.

The newspaper said it "now knows not only the limitation of the alleged intermediary dealing with the man claiming to be Beria, but also the town and the hotel—even the telephone number where the intermediary can be reached at any moment."

Safecracker Flees Over Prison Walls

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 22 — UP—A 26-year-old safecracker from Houston escaped from the Huntsville State Prison Monday night by scaling the walls and fleeing as guards fired a volley of shots at him.

A state pickup truck went out for Alexander, who was serving a 10-year sentence for burglary and felony theft. He was identified as being five feet seven inches tall, weighing 132 pounds with blue eyes and brown hair.

Assistant Warden Joe Byrd said Alexander "somehow obtained two hacksaw blades."

"He sawed the bars out of the second-story window of the psychopathic ward dormitory, and he and Jesse Elmer Moore, lowered themselves out of the window and dropped to the ground."

They dropped 14 feet, Byrd said. Then they ran across some 30 feet of open courtyard which was brilliantly lit by floodlights before reaching the base of the wall.

Alexander crawled to the top of the wall by use of a scaffold left there by workmen who had been building an extension to the old wall. As he reached the top, a guard spotted him and began firing. Alexander dropped on the outer side and fled as the guard turned in the alarm. He apparently was not hit.

Moore, 36, was serving 20 years for armed robbery. He was left at the base of the wall when Alexander mounted the scaffold and chose to remain there when the guard opened fire.

Red Won't Talk On Pilot Escape

PANMUNJOM, Sept. 22 — UP—A Communist correspondent confessed Tuesday he would have no opinion on the surrender of a MIG-15 until he gets the word from Communist headquarters.

Wilfred Burchett, an Australian writing for the Paris Communist organ, L'Humanite, said he would have no opinion until the official Communist attitude is made known from Pyongyang and Peiping.

Other English-speaking Red correspondents merely shrugged their shoulders and stalked away when asked what they thought of the incident.

Girl Scout Leader Visits In Pampa

Miss Gay Shepard, Dallas, member of the national staff of Region Nine of the Girl Scouts of America, will be in Pampa Monday through Sept. 30.

According to Mrs. Dorothy Stratton, Scout executive, Miss Shepard will participate in several get-togethers, including two meetings with the senior Scouts, an open house in the home of Mrs. Harvey Neustiel and an orientation meeting with the Scout board of which Mrs. Rufe Jordan is president.

SEoul, Sept. 22 — UP—An escaped North Korean fighter pilot said Tuesday the Reds are convinced the Korean War will explode again and are "preparing for it by flying new jet bombers, fighters and other war planes into North Korea in violation of the armistice agreement."

The 22-year-old pilot, Lt. Noh Keun Suk, who flew his Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighter to an American airbase and requested political asylum, said the new planes are being brought into North Korea by Russian pilots.

He described them as the latest-type Russian jets—equipped with radar—which the earlier types lacked.

Noh, a veteran of three years in the Communist North Korean air force, said Russian combat pilots fought American and other UN pilots in the Korean War and trained North Korean and Chinese pilots to fly their Soviet-made planes.

The stocky, impassive youth told a press conference that the Reds believe the Korean War will start again. "They are preparing for that," he said.

In Tokyo, the U.S. Air Force backed up his charges of armistice violations with reports that all Red jets presumably had been withdrawn across the Yalu River to Manchuria before the truce was signed.

An official airforce release on Sept. 11, said: "The Korean conflict ended with

Dean 'Thrilled' To Be Back Home

HONOLULU, Sept. 22.—UP—Gen. William F. Dean was back on American soil Tuesday for the first time in nearly six years and he said it was "the thrill of my life."

Dean arrived Monday night aboard a routine military air evacuation plane after a flight from Tokyo. Despite his hope there be no ceremonies on his arrival, 200 well-wishers were on hand to give him a tumultuous welcome.

A prisoner of the Communists for three years, Dean last touched American soil 71 months ago when he passed through Hawaii enroute to Korea in 1947. He was captured during the battle for Taejeon, Korea, in the summer of 1950.

The two-star general, who has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, leaves for Travis Air Force Base, Calif., near San Francisco later Thursday.

On hand to greet him will be his wife, Mildred, his mother, and 17 other members of his family, including eight children. They were all gathered at Mrs. Dean's Berkeley home to count the anxious hours until the general's arrival.

"We're terribly excited and happy and nervous," said Mrs. Dean Monday. "We're all in a turl-due and when we get up to Travis field we'll be more so. We're bound to be."

B-I-E Plans Completed

Final plans were underway today for Pampa's first Business-Industry-Education Day, Oct. 12, following a meeting of representatives of the 39 participating business and industrial firms with the chamber of commerce's committee.

Get-together was held at noon Monday in the Palm Room under the chairmanship of Jim Finnell.

At that time, plans were made to feed all 200 participating school personnel in the First National Bank, Hotel Schneider and Palm Room, midway in the day's program. Some of the organizations, though, will make their own plans for feeding their visitors.

More or less an orientation program, the Monday meeting was designed to give all participants an idea of what was expected of them. Finnell kept emphasizing how "this most important program" would be of benefit to both the businessman and the instructor, how it could "bring the businessman and the teacher closer together."

A minimum of five schoolmen will visit each of the participating concerns. It was stated, though, the larger organizations may well have 30-35 in their groups.

The day's program will get underway at 9 a.m. Oct. 12 in the junior high school auditorium. A convention system of pennants so that instructors and their host firms may get together has been planned. Transportation will be up to each business representative.

Host firms must have an outline of their purported program in the hands of the chamber's committee by Oct. 7.

Also on hand Monday were City Manager B. H. Cruce; Lynn Boyd, chamber of commerce president; and Schools Superintendent Knox Kinard; and Jimmy McCune, chairman of the chamber's good-will committee.

Pick New BCD Members Today

Five new members of the Board of City Development were named this morning by the Pampa City Commission.

Selected to serve three-year terms were Paul Trough, Ed Myatt, Hugh Burdette, J. C. McWilliams and R. H. Nensiel. The only repeater was Burdette.

Outgoing four are E. Roy Smith, Frank M. Carter, Charles B. Cook and R. G. (Dick) Hughes.

Each year five new members are selected to serve on the 15-member board. Today's picks were made from a list of 10 put forth by a nominating committee. Each of the 10 got at least one vote.

KOREA

he did not know that Gen. Mark W. Clark had offered a $100,000 reward last April for the first jet delivered undamaged to American authorities.

Reared a Christian, Noh said the real reason for the flight was his desire to get away from communism because he had been reared as a Christian.

He had been planning his escape for three years but it took him only 13 minutes to realize his ambition.

Noh said that the MIGs flown into Korea since the signing of the armistice were equipped with radar, a type that only the Russians were permitted to pilot.

Poker-faced throughout most of his 75-minute interview by newsmen, the pilot broke into an embarrassed grin when asked what he planned to do with the $100,000 reward Gen. Mark W. Clark offered for a MIG last April. He declined to answer.

He said he knew nothing about such an offer when he decided to flee. He started planning his flight when he joined the North Korean air force in 1950.

"The reward was not what I was after," he said through an interpreter. "But I'm very glad to hear it."

Doesn't Plan Marriage

The pilot, who refused to disclose this name for "personal protection" said he deserted because he hated the Communists and wanted to "help in the reconstruction and re-establishment of a free republic of Korea."

Also, he said, he hopes eventually to live in the United States.

The young bachelor ended the interview by declaring he was not planning to get married on the strength of his new wealth.

The Air Force went to extraordinary lengths to keep the hiding place of the renegade secret. He left the press billets in a blue Air Force sedan that was not escorted by any other vehicles. A cordon of military police kept all other vehicles inside the press billet parking lot for five minutes after the sedan had left to make sure that no one followed the car.

Air Force To Glean Data From Russian MIG-15 Prize

Editor's note: In the following dispatch, the U.P.'s military and aviation expert analyzes the significance of the MIG jet that has just fallen into Allied hands. The writer spent some time covering the air war in Korea.

BY CHARLES CORDRY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—UP—Air Force officers said Tuesday they expect to get invaluable new data on Russian air power from the MIG flown into Korea's Kimp'o air field by a North Korean pilot.

The plane should be a gold mine of information if brought to the United States for what would be the first American flight test of the principal Soviet interceptor, it was said.

Through studies more thorough than any previously possible, experts can learn much about Russian research progress, manufacturing methods, combat techniques and indicated future developments.

Bargain at $100,000

Air Force headquarters Monday ordered a $100,000 reward paid to the North Korean pilot who only hours before astonished Fifth Air Force officers by delivering the jet.

The sum is being paid in accordance with an offer of the Far East

Commission Airst Park Proposals

Pampa's city commission today discussed, but took no formal action on, Recreation Park committee recommendations and the paying of Ernest Loyd, Fort Worth, for work performed during the summer.

Included in the talk on the park were the deeding of certain sections of land and a place for model-airplane fans to fly their aircraft.

Mayor Tom Rose unofficially suggested that the city could deed a 3.78-acre plot of land in the park to the county if the county would in turn deed a 270x150-foot plot of land in The Plaza to the city. Complicating the matter are the proposed new National Guard Armory to be built in the park and an American Legion Memorial Park planned later.

A fence and grading are ready to be put on the proposed flying site, Rose said, but whether the commission could just pass a resolution or must write out a contract for the fliers was undecided at meeting's end. Model fliers have long been seeking a place away from congested areas where they could fly their planes.

The city owes Loyd a total of $21,409.45 for paving work done during the summer. But City Manager B. H. Cruce pointed out that Loyd owed a total of $664.52 for water used during his work.

Charging 50 cents per 1,000 gallons of water, the city is not being exorbitant, Cruce told commissioners. And, as Loyd has not paid that amount, commissioners decided to have Loyd pay the city before the city paid him.

Paving Ordinance Approved By City

An emergency ordinance to pass on paving several blocks of Pampa streets was voted this morning by the Pampa City Commission on all three readings.

Reason for the hurry-up was that several of the commissioners will be out of town the next few commission meetings and therefore it would take three separate readings—three separate weeks—to pass the measure.

Blocks to be paved are the 500-600- and 700-blocks of Magnolia the 600- and 700-blocks of N. Dwight; the 400-block of W. Harvester; and the 700-block of Bradley.

James R. Cowan, city director of public works, and Fred Brook, assistant city engineer, were on hand at the meeting and urged commissioners to pass the measure as they'd be out of work before it could be passed the long way.

Commies Sentence Bishop To Prison

LONDON, Sept. 22.—UP—Roman Catholic Bishop Czeslaw Kaczmarek was convicted of espionage for the United States Tuesday and sentenced to 12 years in prison.

The conviction and sentencing by a Communist military tribunal were announced by Communist Warsaw Radio.

The Warsaw broadcast, monitored here, said one of Kaczmarek's aides, the Rev. Jan Danilewicz, was sentenced to 10 years in prison on the same charges.

Another priest, the Rev. Jozef Dombrowski, was given a nine-year prison sentence. Another, the Rev. Wladyslaw Widiak, was sent to prison for six years.

A nun, accused with the other four of "espionage, anti-state propaganda and diversionary activities," was given a five year suspended sentence.

The five were accused of violating secrets of the confessional to obtain military, economic and other information allegedly requested by United States authorities and smuggled to Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, who, it was charged, acted as courier between the Vatican and Washington.

It is known the administration is considering proposals for a multi-billion dollar air defense system to give American cities added protection against Soviet A-bomb or H-bomb attack. There had been speculation, even before Mr. Eisenhower's speech, that adoption of the defense proposals would upset Republican hopes for a balanced budget and tax relief next year.

Chairman Eugene D. Milikin (R-Colo.) of the tax-writing Senate Finance committee said he did not believe "the administration" has changed its mind about letting the excess profits tax expire and personal income taxes drop 10 per cent next Jan. 1. But he said he had "no information" on whether the present will propose other taxes to make up the lost revenue.

Iron To Resume Oil Shipments

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 22.—UP—Premier Fazlollah Zahedi said Monday Iran soon will start its oil flowing again to world markets.

Zahedi said the condition of the oil area was deplorable because of the carelessness and bad intentions of former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh. The new premier said his predecessor was unable to export more than 100,000 tons of oil despite large discounts and propaganda and promises to the people.

Military government sources said official charges have been lodged against Mossadegh and 25 top members of his deposed government for committing illegal acts after the Shah of Iran dismissed him as premier.

Zahedi said the courts will decide the "future of those who usurped power illegally for six days and those who ordered the shooting of large numbers of people."

Scribe Enjoys Watching Folks Inspect Beautiful New Homes

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

MEMPHIS, Sept. 22.—UP—It's better than television to watch a man and his missus inspect the new homes like they're doing here and elsewhere around the country during National Home Week.

The first thing mama does is head for the kitchen. She does a double-take over the sink and beams if she likes it and gives the owner some back talk if she doesn't. She pokes her nose into the oven of the stove. She gets out her tape measure to see if it's big enough for the Thanksgiving gobbler. She wall-thumps.

Then she goes into the bathroom. She turns on the shower. She messes up the linen sopping up the mess. She looks over the powder table. Then she says "looks here, dad."

Got to Convince Pop

The old boy has disappeared. He is down stairs, looking at the pipes for the plumbing and having a hard time finding 'em, because in the year of 1953, they're mostly hidden down, plus the always present exploding where would be a good idea.

place for a work bench.

The owner is looking at the old man, not mama. There are ways a good salesman can handle a woman. The head of the family—the guy who picks up the tab—is the one he has to convince. If he is satisfied with his part of the house, the builder knows he has a sale—maybe.

Kemmons Wilson, who built among other things 100 houses last year in this city of beautiful homes gave me the low down.

Gives State of Thumb

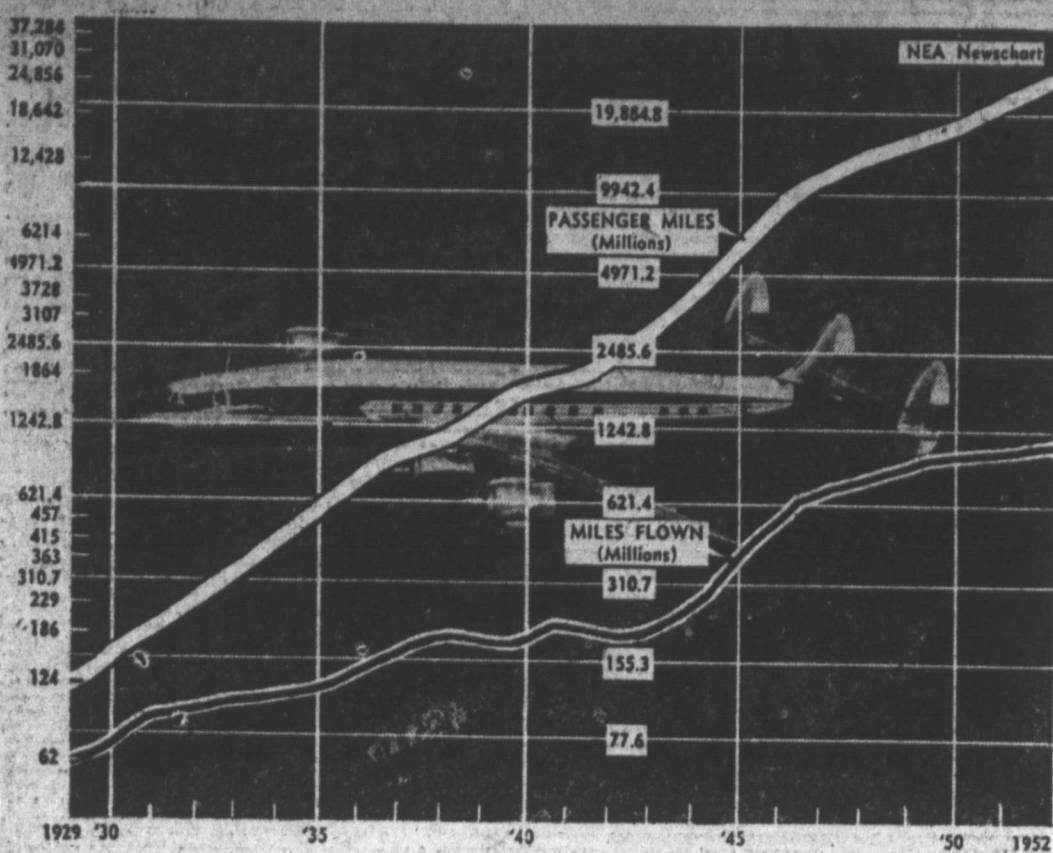

First off, he said, you have to find out whether the man can afford what he and his lady want.

"The rule of thumb," Wilson said, "was and still is that the price of a house should not be more than two or 2 1/2 times the owner's annual income. And the monthly payments should not be more than a week's take-home."

There are a lot of interesting features to the new homes in Memphis, which run from $7,600 ($500 down) to over $39,000 with a big chunk He's looking around the basement, down, plus the always present ex-

AIR TRAVEL IS UP—The remarkable growth of civil air travel in recent years is shown by the steadily rising lines on the Newschart above. It is based on a recent bulletin of the International Aviation Organization, Montreal. Bulletin gave data in kilometers, which have been translated into miles on the chart, accounting for the lack of customary round figures. The ICAO points out that the world's scheduled airlines carried 45 million passengers in 1952, compared with 39,900,000 in 1951 and 31 million in 1947. In the U. S., airline passenger traffic was about equal to the Pullman (first class) railway services in 1951 and exceeded it by 20 per cent in 1952. Nearly 1,400,000 people traveled by air between the U. S. and overseas countries last year.

It's Your Deal

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service

"We play a brand of poker called three-or-better," writes a Florida correspondent. "It is draw poker, with a limit of a three-card draw. What would be the chance of getting a flush or a straight if you hold three useful cards and draw two?"

"Would it be better to draw three cards, hoping to get three of a kind? I should point out that nobody wins with less than three of a kind; if everybody has less, the pot goes to the winner of the next hand."

There is a very simple way to remember the answer to problems of this kind. Whenever you try to draw two or more useful cards, the odds are so heavily against you that you're better off staying out of the pot.

For example, suppose you have three spades in your hand and draw two cards in the hope of getting two additional spades for a flush. The odds are 23 to 1 against you.

If you have Q-J-10 of assorted suits and draw two cards in the hope of developing a straight, the odds are 22 to 1 against you. (The odds would be even higher against you if you had A-K-Q, in which case the straight would not be open at both ends.)

Let's see what these figures mean. If you make this kind of draw regularly, you will win the pot less than one time out of twenty. Let's suppose that you put one chip into the pot each time, and that the winner of the pot gets about ten chips altogether.

You figure to lose about twenty chips for each time that you win ten chips. That is a good recipe for losing, but hardly a good way to start on the road to fame and fortune.

If you draw three cards to a pair, the odds are about 8 to 1 against getting three of a kind, and about 7 to 1 against getting three of a kind or better. Three of a kind is enough to win the average pot, so these odds are within reason.

Our answer would be: Stay in a pot when you have a pair (unless the pot is raised, very enthusiastically by a player who probably has three of a kind already for his raise). Draw three cards to your pair. Drop out of the pot altogether when you are not dealt a pair to begin with.

Crockery Cracker Is Not A Crackpot

LONDON, Sept. 22.—UP—Sidney Wilson, 40, walked into an elegant London tea room, took one look at the cup his coffee was served in, and smashed it to the floor.

Tuesday Wilson explained. The cup, you see, was cracked. And Wilson doesn't like cracked crockery.

For 10 years now he's been wandering up and down Britain smashing cracked china.

"It is part of a crusade for cleanliness," he said.

Back in 1943 he put some of the brown, crusty stuff that gathers in the cracks of pottery under a microscope.

"I saw nasty little animals creeping and leaping about like snakes," he said. "Hundreds of them. All from a little crack in a coffee cup."

Right then and there, he said, he made a vow to break every cracked dish he found, no matter where.

"I have smashed hundreds of cups and plates," Wilson said. "And I've had hundreds of cafe managers apologize to me. If everyone did the same, Britain would be a much healthier place in which to live."

Wilson is known in restaurants throughout the land now. And when he visits one of them he usually gets "wonderful service" and no cracked crockery.

Cheaper beef is the big news in food.

Production and Marketing Administration says the reason for this is the heavy run of grass-fed cattle coming to market this fall. These grass cattle dress out a lower quality of beef than corn-fed cattle but to the bargain-hunting homemaker this lower quality of beef presents no problem.

She knows just what the difference is between grass-fed and grain-fed beef. When it comes to taste and food value, there is little difference between grass-fed and grain-fed beef. One is just as good as the other, depending on how it is prepared.

For instance, a steak for broiling should have plenty of fat and marbling. This kind of a steak usually comes from a grain-fed cow. On the other hand, a steak for braising, or one that is usually cooked in a gravy, comes from a grass-fed cow.

To acquaint homemakers with the advantages of using this lower priced beef, the meat industry and PMA are conducting an intensive promotion campaign while marketings of grass-fed cattle are so plentiful.

Dates for the campaign are from the middle of September through October. During this time retail food counters will be well stocked with the lower grades. So this means meat bargain days ahead for thrifty homemakers.

FRESH PECAN MEATS

There should be plenty of fresh pecan meats for pralines, candy, cookies, pies and other confections this fall and winter.

According to U. S. Department of Agriculture reports, orchardists expect a record crop of 178.3 million pounds. Improved varieties are expected to total about 87.5 million pounds, 17 per cent above last year and 52 per cent above average. Other varieties are estimated at 90.8 million pounds, one-fourth larger than last year and one-third above average.

Biggest harvest of 51.8 million pounds will come from Georgia where weather conditions have been generally favorable all season. In fact, increases are expected in nearly all of the larger producing areas.

In Oklahoma, for instance, pecans are in good condition despite severe drought. Also, this is true for Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Not long ago, when Dr. Erich Fromm, teacher of psychoanalysis, was addressing a professional group of them—psychiatrists and social workers—he said something revolutionary. He said that the human conscience must be trained to serve us as parents. That a good conscience is one that gives us the leadership of a morally vigorous father combined with the patience of a tender mother.

As nearly as I remember, he said: "Such a conscience is the answer to human helplessness. Though we outgrow our need for human parents, we never outgrow our need for a conscience that loves motherhood's unconditional love for us with fatherhood's moral authority. We are grownup when we ourselves embody in our conscience unqualified love for ourselves with allegiance to guiding values."

A more appropriate statement for our Age of Anxiety I haven't heard. I report it now for the anxious 16-year-old daughter of a divorced and remarried human father. He has called her "undutiful" and "disloyal" for refusing to spend the summer with him and his new wife.

She writes, "I don't know what to do. Though I love daddy, I don't want to be friends with his wife. She's made me and mother very unhappy. Nobody will advise me."

We don't need anyone to advise us if we apply Dr. Fromm's idea of a good conscience to this problem. We can find the answer ourselves.

Let's see how it might work.

First, let's turn to the father in our conscience who represents those Guiding Values.

He says to us, "Yes, my dear, you must visit your step-parent. It is virtuous to return love for hurt that's been done you. You will be a good girl and forget yourself and be kind to the person who has injured you."

Such vigorous leadership scares us. Then remembering that it's wedded to tender patience, we run in our fear to the unconditionally loving Mother in our conscience.

She says, "What the Guiding Values has said is right. However, we are not always ready to do what's right. As you haven't developed the strength to love your step-parent at this moment, I'll ask your father to allow you to postpone this visit. I will persuade him that what may be right for you next year is not right for you today."

Training the conscience in such dialogue should bring peace to my young friend as well as to thousands of us much older and more harassed than she is.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend

Why not suggest to Jeanne in regards to her returned war veteran, to have a physician investigate the possibility of his having his scarred face sand-papered off. I believe there is an article in the July Readers Digest on plastic surgery.

Best wishes to them both for the future

Mrs. H.

Mrs. H. refers to a letter written in this column several weeks ago in which Jeanne told of a Korean veteran whose face was so scarred that he no longer wanted to see his friends.

I am happy to print Mrs. H.'s letter in case others have a similar problem to solve.

NOTE OF THANKS

Dear Grace Friend

After some of the baby showers I have attended I have received "thank you" notes from the honoree although I was there and she thanked me in person. Is this proper?

Should notes of thanks be sent to all of just those who sent gifts but are unable to attend.

Elaine

WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mildred

How soon after the wedding should thank you notes for wedding presents be written? Is it all right to wait until after the honeymoon?

Mildred

THANK YOU NOTES

Thank you notes for wedding gifts may be delayed, until after the honeymoon but should be written as soon as possible after the bride couple have gotten settled in their new home.

Often times the bride may be able to write some before the wedding as many gifts arrive a week or two ahead of the actual day. It is easier to write a few every day as gifts arrive instead of leaving them all for one time. Thus there will be only a few left to write after the honeymoon.

Coeds Copy Men's Blazer And Spats

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—One man forecasts that 50 years from now it will be hard to tell mother who went to Wellesley from grand-father who went to Harvard when we look into the family photo album.

"I hope," added designer Pembroke Squires, "that the spats will be restricted to wearing with slacks." His company has vest and spats set in bright yellow felt.

One cotton twined blazer designed for coeds has a matching vest, Gay red and black striped rep also is made into matching blazer and vest sets. The coeds seem to be copying from young men's fashions of 50 years ago.

One of the favorite shirts for campus outfits is a man-tailored white shirt with French cuffs and rounded collar. Some of the shirts make a bow to feminine tailoring by having ruffled sleeves, but the collars are small and neat as a man's.

Khaki slacks and cowhide belts are coed fashions too. And the newest handbag is the "tote bag" which is sort of a combination brief case and carpet bag. As in other fashions adopted from the men, the tote bags get a feminine touch with unusual fabrics and colors. There are even polka dot wool jersey carryalls and ribbon knit woven in two tones to give a checked effect.

It's the fad to be extra-feminine in some of the lounging outfits, maybe to make up for the sturdy qualities of outdoor sports clothes. Lounging slacks made from upholstery brocade, for instance. Sweater tops or sophisticated wool jersey blouses with attached hoods make the top half of most of the leisure outfits.

The fuller the skirt, the better the girls like it, according to one designer. That's a nighttime fashion, although even some tweed skirts are made to be worn over petticoats now. But the short party dresses are as bouffant as they were in the first of the petticoat fever two years ago.

RUTH MILLETT

There really ARE men who help with the housework and don't feel like hen-pecked husbands.

They've been writing to me in answer to my recent statement that I would believe such husbands existed when I heard from them, instead of their wives.

Original column to 23 different men and didn't find one who thought a husband ought to help around the house.

So apparently men themselves are divided on the question. And there's not much a wife can do about the matter. Either her husband likes to help her or he doesn't. If he likes to, he will. If he doesn't, he takes the attitude that housework is her job and it's up to her to get it done.

A few say they help out so that their wives can get a little rest or so that they can have more time together. But most claim they help with the marketing, cooking and other domestic chores because they like it.

One admits he gets a kick out of comparing the grocery ads and shopping around to see how much he can save on food costs.

Another says he likes to cook and glad to get dinner when his wife is tired or not in the mood for cooking.

Another says he regularly babysits one night a week so that his wife can go to her bridge club and she does the baby-sitting alone the night he goes bowling.

Because there were also a number of men who wrote in to say they never had done any housework and never intended to. They feel that is the wife's job.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Close-up, and Longshots: Of all the stories told about Bing Crosby's nonchalance, this one tops them all. When Bing made a hole-in-one on a Northern California course during a golf tournament, the ball struck the pin on the par three hole and dropped into the cup. Walking on the green through the gallery with a pleased but casual grin, Bing was collared by an excited spectator who said: "It was amazing, Bing. The ball hit the pin, spun around and just fell into the cup." Bing removed his pipe, tapped it on his heel and said: "You know, they'll do it every time."

Duncan Renaldo isn't worried about Gilt at Pina. It's not that the Claco Kid who now rides the home TV screens has lost his glamor.

Roland played the Kid for theater screens with one arm around a blonde and the other around a bottle, but Renaldo plays him for family appeal.

Says Renaldo: "It's a new era. Young audiences are far more sensitive than they were a few years back. If I started making passes at blondes and bottles, the kids would throw rotten eggs at me."

Five-foot, 1-inch June Allyson had 6-foot, 3-inch Jimmy Stewart as her leading man in "The Glenn Miller Story" and now, in "Foxfire," she'll be emoting opposite 6-foot, 4-inch Jeff Chandler. "I feel," she's quipping, "like I'm co-starring with belt buckles."

Carmen Gives In Carmen Miranda's version of her triumph in Rome during a European concert tour is the zippiest dialog of the week. Sample chatter:

"De pippie scream, 'Carmella! Bella ragazza! I say to dem from de stage. Wint you min, bella ragazza. I am not beautiful girl.' They say, 'Oh, yes, you are bella ragazza. Den I look down and see King Farouk in second row appauid.'"

"I say, 'Hokay, folks, you ween. So shaddup, and let me seeng.'"

Homes of movie stars are simpler and in better taste these days because actors are no longer a mystery to the public and because all the blash and hooey have given way to honesty.

That's the word from Sascha Brastoff, former movie costume designer and now the nation's No. 1 ceramist, who remembers filmtown homes with a wince: "No period could have been worse than Hollywood's addiction to dark somber houses with Spanish shawls over the fireplace."

Sascha's ceramic art objects, coffee tables, ash trays and dinnerware decorate the homes of the stars at prices that range up to $5000 for a piece of ceramic sculpture.

Filmland Notebook Voice of the people note: "I was overjoyed to note that you finally printed something against 3-D. Believe me it's a chore to sit through one of the depths with those glasses on. All of our friends agree."

Memory note: Remember Suzanne Foster, U-I's wartime singing star? She's now in England with hubby Wilbur Evans, who plays the American ambassador in Gregory Peck's "The Million-Pound Note."

Terry Moore is wrapping up the choice roles in Hollywood these days but in case any rival dolls are trying to figure it out, she's telling it: "I work like crazy to get the good parts."

Terry went after "Come Back, Little Sheba" when no one could see her in the part and now she's done it again for "King of the Khyber Rifles."

"They wanted a British girl to work with Ty Power, but I decided I was the gal for the role. I shut myself up in my room with British records and a tape recorder. Everybody told me I'd never put it over—that no American girl had ever developed a convincing English accent."

"But when I went to read for the part, the producer couldn't believe his ears. If Deborah Kerr and Jean Simmons can play American girls, then I can play an English girl."

"To all the people who have dogs that will chase the paper boy out of the yard to please tie or pen the dog up so the paper boys can get the paper on porch. How do you think we can get the paper on porch if we can't even go up in the yard to get it on the porch (sic). 'T.HANK YOU' 'A scarrier Boy.'"

VINTAGE BEAUTY — Diane Bagshaw reigns as "Vintage Queen of 1953." The title was conferred on the California beauty during the California State Fair.

Back Through The Years . . . Mac Turns Sissy In Manful Attempt To Prove He Isn't

By HENRY McLEMORE
I am a sissy. Ironically, I turned sissy in a manful attempt to prove that I wasn't one.

It has long been part of my credo that a man should never refuse a dare from a woman. I still bear angry scars from the reckless stunts I was driven to by dares of pigtails - equipped young sadists when I was a growing boy. To this day the name Molly recalls the summer afternoon in Florida when I hitched up my overalls and courage and crawled into a giant, cave-like nest to capture six or seven foot-long baby alligators, not knowing whether the proud parents were at home or out calling.

Just as Nancy brings back the painful memory of a flying leap off the top of a barn onto a red clay road, and Marian turns back the years to the day I was thrown over a fence by a grouchy bull who didn't favor being swung at by a baseball bat.

I lost blood and bones by not backing down to those feminine dares, but not a hair on my head, my mind and to keep her from running her legs off waiting on me.

"I know you can't do it, but I dare you to try," she said. That burned me up worse than the fever.

So, men, get a load of this! I am an embroiderer!! That's what I said.

If any of you fellows want embroidered socks, shoulder holsters, nightcaps or pool cue covers, I'll be glad to make them for you at five cents a stitch.

You needn't hurry your orders, though. At the rate I'm going I figure I'll have the quilt done and out of the way just about the time Marilyn Monroe plays her first role as a missionary in a movie.

If you've never seen a cross-stitch quilt don't jump to the conclusion that I'm pokey. There may be smaller ones, but the one I'm embroidering is about the size of the Grand Central Station waiting room and is stamped with what must be several billions of little x's about a quarter inch high. Before I can sleep under it I must cover all over those billions of x's with red thread.

What a challenge for a man! Doing this fool quilt may brand me a sissy, but after having finished no more than fifteen x's in four days and having jabbed my left thumb until it resembles a rattlesnake's testling ring, I can tell you one thing—those guys who conquered Mt. Everest will never awe me. I'll stare 'em right in the eye.

Before I forget it, have any of you a needle that's got an eye big enough to poke a cigarette through? For me to try to thread the needle I have is a futile as trying to grow watermelons in a safety deposit box.

ARTHRTIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

French Government Is Not 'Fiddling'

By PHIL NEWSON
United Press Foreign Analyst

The French government has been the frequent target lately of charges that, figuratively, it fiddles while Rome burns.

Two bits of evidence to the contrary, accumulated in the last week now, may be reported. They are:

1. President Vincent Auriol discontinued recognition of the president and vice president of the principality of Andorra.

2. Premier Joseph Laniel approved some 30 decrees aimed at making life simpler for the average Frenchman and visitors by eliminating what the French call "paperasse," or red tape.

Not All Red Tape Gone
Not that all the red tape has been eliminated.

And goodness only knows what will happen now in French and Andorran relations.

Andorran and French relations reached a crisis when Andorra recently refused France permission to build a radio station in the principality.

The French retaliated by sleeping on special entry fees which cut down on Andorra's tourist traffic.

Lack of Good Faith Changed
Andorra has a population of just over 5,000 persons, has an area of 181 square miles and is nestled in the Pyrenees between France and Spain. It has enjoyed undisturbed sovereignty since 1278, although it pays an annual tribute of 900 francs (about $2.50) to France and 400 pesetas (about $11) to the Spanish Bishop of Urgel.

The French president has accused the two Andorran officials of an "evident lack of good faith."

The matter rests there, although there undoubtedly will be repercussions.

Now as to the "paperasse."

Prompt Action Not Common
The Laniel government reforms make it no longer necessary for a Frenchman to prove:

1. That he is alive.
2. More than once that he was born.

3. That he has a roof over his head.

4. That he is a bachelor.

The decrees also provide that local prefects can act on their own if, on questions referred to Paris, the government has not acted within two months. Which gives an idea of how long it has taken to get action in the past.

Queen Launches Yuletide Shopping

By MARGARET SAVILLE
LONDON, Sept. 22—UP—Queen Elizabeth II has started her Christmas "shopping" early.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh begin their Commonwealth tour in November, necessitating an early start in the selection of holiday gifts.

The young monarch is spending much of her leisure time in the royal residence of Balmoral in Scotland poring over fashion magazines and illustrated catalogs obtained by her lady-in-waiting from the big London stores.

The Queen's secretary then orders the chosen presents by mail for delivery to Buckingham Palace where Elizabeth will return early next month.

A big disadvantage of being a queen is that she cannot mingle with the holiday crowds in department stores during the Christmas season.

But the Duke is under no such restrictions. Any day now, he will stroll unannounced into his favorite jeweler's shop in Bond Street and spend an afternoon picking out a present for his wife.

His gift is likely to be another brooch to add to the collection the queen delights to wear on the lapels of her coats.

The brooch will go into the large black box containing the Duke's cufflinks and medals, jewelry and various decorations which the royal couple will use during their long Commonwealth tour.

New TV Star Is Boss' Wife

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22—UP—The newest television star, who'll smarten up Marie Wilson as her roommate on the "My Friend Irma" show, turned out today to be the boss' wife at CBS.

Pretty, red-haired Mary Shipp was picked after actress Cathy Lewis, who played roommate Jane, quit the show.

The character of Jane was condemned to oblivion because fans thought Jane was too mean to Irma, so Miss Shipp, defeating a small army of applicants, won the new role of a newspaper reporter.

Miss Shipp showed up for rehearsal in a pink gingham dress and looked like any young TV actress trying to make the grade in Hollywood and New York.

Her married name? "Mrs. Harry Ackerman," she answered. Ackerman is head of the whole shootin' match here for CBS television.

They live in Beverly Hills and she could buy the whole program if she wanted.

"I got the job on my own," she said firmly. "I just happened to be the type they wanted. Actually, being Mrs. Ackerman often is more of a hindrance."

"I've lost a lot of acting jobs—directors bend over backwards not to give me work."

Besides, she went on, she's been Mrs. Ackerman for 14 years. They met when she was a radio actress and he happened to be directing the program in New York. She continued to work after the marriage "because I want to."

The "My Friend Irma" show gets an overhauling this season because producer Nat Perrin figured it needed some fresh plots and personalities as a boost.

"We received many letters from fans complaining that Jane was too hard on Irma," explained Miss Shipp. "Irma also won't be quite so dumb from now on. She'll be warmer and more believable."

"In the scripts, Jane goes to Panama so Marie looks for a new roommate, and gets me. Her boy friend, Al, won't be in it any more, either. The girls will have a nicer apartment."

"My husband is glad I won the role."

Wrath Of Woman
OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 22—UP—A potential bridegroom protested against the high cost of matrimony and suffered the wrath of an outraged woman.

A patrolman posted at the door of traffic court jokingly informed the unidentified young man that the judge would perform the ceremony for "about $70 to you."

"What? $70? It isn't worth it!" the man blurted, whereupon the attractive young woman at his side bashed the would-be bridegroom with her handbag and stalked away.

New Kilgore JC President
KILGORE, Sept. 21—UP—Dr. Cruce Stark, president of East Mississippi Junior College, Scooba, Miss., will succeed Dr. B. E. Masters as president of Kilgore Junior College Jan. 1. Masters, head of the college since its organization in 1951, will become president emeritus.

OU Picked To Get Even With Irish As Grid Front Widens

Teams To Meet Saturday In Sooner Land

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The eliminations out of the way, college football becomes everybody's game, Sept. 26.

There is action in four of the one important conferences — the Big Ten, Pacific Coast, Southwest and the new Atlantic Coast. There are no fewer than a dozen travel tremendous distances.

New Year's Day Bowl games. No longer do the schools wait for New Year's Day Bowl games. Travel tremendous distances. There are no fewer than a dozen sectional games.

Notre Dame goes into Oklahoma territory the favorite, but this handicapper picks the Sooners to even the score. Bud Wilkinson has a terrific line and the Irish got all the breaks last trip.

Georgia Tech appears at Florida, which will show whether the Sooners are as good as last year, and the belief here is that they are. There are four other Southwestern Conference games of as big importance as the Sooners' game.

Playing Kentucky at home, Mississippi gets a chance to prove that it is as formidable as was last fall's unbeaten team.

The Wildcats will reveal how far they have advanced, which, we believe, is far enough to repel the Miss. Alabama should handle Louisiana State without trouble.

Zeke Bratkowski and Georgia go to shade Tulane. Duke packs many guns for Wake Forest. Washington and Lee is no match for Maryland.

I like Pittsburgh against West Virginia in a meeting of powers, but with reservations. Pennsylvania is too strong in numbers or the Vanderbilt kids headed by Bill Krietemeyer. Clemson is giving a shade over Boston College. Colgate seems too well set for Cornell. Holy Cross too big and strong or Dartmouth.

Army, Princeton, Navy and Syracuse warm up against Furman, Lafayette, William and Mary and Temple, respectively.

Iowa is good enough to give Michigan State a thorough test, but the Spartans extend their string of wins to six. Missouri in its engagement with Purdue, where he nod goes to the Bolshermakers. Penn State doesn't have any bed of roses, but might get over injury-riddled Wisconsin.

Michigan is slated to get off on a right foot against the Washington sophomores. Ohio State commends bloody murder against Indiana. Villanova tackles a tartar of the second consecutive weekend, and it may prove too much at Texas. Loaded Houston gets the call at Texas A. and M.

It's Colorado over Arizona in a squeaker. Utah should repulse Idaho.

Los Angeles has two intersectional games and the coast clubs figure in both. UCLA against Kansas and Southern California opposed to Minnesota.

You've got to go with Stanford against Oregon. California will walk Oregon State. Pacific could upset Washington State.

There's a winner in every package except when there's a tie.

Harvey Kuenen Near Record
DETROIT, Sept. 22 — UP — Rookie Harvey Kuenen of the Detroit Tigers seems certain to set a new American League record for times at bat in a single season, needing to bat only 11 more times in his last four games. The young shortstop has a total of 661 official at-bats. The league record of 671 was set by Johnny Tobin of St. Louis in 1921.

Washington, D. C., is visited by more than 1,600,000 persons every year.

HARVESTER FIELD GENERAL — J. N. Wright, above, Pampa Harvester quarterback and signal caller, got off to a rousing start in the passing department in last week's season opener against Austin of El Paso. Wright threw five passes and completed three for 135 yards. Two of the completions went for touchdowns. Wright is one of four returning regulars and 13 lettermen on the Harvester roster. Quarterback Roster Surpasses 100 Mark

More than 100 football fans were on hand last night at the weekly Quarterback Club meeting at the Sam Houston Auditorium where they heard the head coaches of the various schoolboy teams of the city speak.

Eighty-nine attending paid membership dues. With the addition of the honorary members, the club roster soared over the 100 mark.

Coach Tom Tipps of the Harvesters said he believed that his charges made a little better showing in this year's season opener than they did last year.

"But we made a lot of mistakes," Tipps said. "You just start to look for these mistakes in the season opener, though," Tipps added.

"Our main weakness in the game against Austin last week was in blocking," Tipps said. "We are going to spend much of our time this week on this phase of the game," the Harvester mentor went on.

In regards to Big Spring, this week's Harvester opponent, Tipps said the Big Spring team will be complete strangers to us. Guerrilla coaches Weldon Trice and Orville Lewis were to have scouted Big Spring at San Angelo last week but a cancelled air flight at the last minute prevented the personal scout report on the Steers.

From hearsay, Tipps said the Steers have 19 returning lettermen, a good backfield and a heavy line. "One of the tackles weighs 285 pounds," Tipps said, "and he has lettered three years already."

Tipps showed the film of the Harvester-Austin game to the Quarterbackers.

Following are the QB members paying dues last night:

McLean Unscored On Three 1-A Teams Are Undelected

Three teams in District 1-A have advanced through the first two weeks of play unbeaten and two of these are unscored on. The McLean Tigers and Clarendon Broncs haven't had their goal lines crossed.

Canadian's Wildcats, however, are well ahead in the scoring department. The Wildcats have scored 85 points in two games to the opponent's six. Canadian's two wins were over Spearman (47-0) and Pampa B (39-6).

McLean has beaten Stinnett 27-0 and Price College of Amarillo 19-0 while Clarendon's two wins were over Groom, 12-0, and Claude, 18-0.

A full slate of games is on tap for the 1-A teams this week. The game that will be closely watched in comparing teams around the district will be the Perryton-Canadian clash at Canadian Friday night. Perryton has already played two 1-A teams and has won one and tied one in these two games.

Perryton was tied by Panhandle, 20-20, and then won over the White Deer eleven last week, 20-7.

Possibly the toughest assignment for a 1-A team this week is Lefors' date with Shamrock at Shamrock Friday night. Shamrock, of 1-AA, is still considered a dangerous outfit despite being winless in its first two starts.

Pat Tipps of Canadian has taken the individual scoring lead with 22 points. Tipps has scored three touchdowns and five extra points.

A pair of McLean Tigers, Don Crockett and Ricky Mantooth, are close behind in the runnerup spot with 18 points each.

Four others are tied for third with 13 points each. They are Dean Hoover and Gene Schoenhals of Canadian; Gene Cummings of Panhandle and Duke Friebe of Memphis.

Following are the individual scoring leaders, team standings, next Friday's schedule and last week's results:

Urge OU Regents To Allow Unlimited TV On OU-ND Tilt

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22 — UP — Gov. Johnston Murray Tuesday urged University of Oklahoma regents to consider lifting NCAA restrictions and permit unlimited telecasting of the Oklahoma-Notre Dame game Saturday by Oklahoma stations.

Tom Benedum, president of the regents, did not comment directly on Murray's proposal. But he said he and Murray "see eye to eye on the problem."

However, Benedum said neither station KOTV in Tulsa nor KSWO-TV in Lawton have asked permission to televise the game and no sponsor has appeared for those stations.

The NCAA earlier announced it will permit WKY-TV in Oklahoma City to telecast the game under sponsorship of General Motors. The game has been a sellout for many weeks.

Citizens Ask Telecast
A large group of citizens in the area served by the Tulsa station and a number of state legislators immediately asked that all three Oklahoma stations be permitted to show the game.

Benedum pointed to the NCAA rule that permits only a "home" station to telecast a school's game. Although WKY-TV is not a Norman station, common usage has made it the university's home station.

Benedum said if the two stations or any sponsors care to make the game available in their areas, the regents would be happy to back their application. But he added that the regents do not consider it their responsibility to go out and dig up a sponsor for telecasting the game in either Lawton or Tulsa.

No Plausible Reason
Murray said in a letter to the regents there is "no plausible reason" to support the stand of the National Collegiate Athletics Association, which is permitting only one station to carry the game.

He asked the regents to do all possible to obtain an exception to this one-station rule and, failing that, to consider the advisability of disregarding the rule.

The governor said he has received thousands of communications from Oklahoma supporters requesting that he intercede on their behalf for the statewide telecast. Thus far, only one station, WKY-TV of Oklahoma City, is authorized to carry the game.

Haddix Nears 20-Game Win Circle

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22 — UP — They call little Harvey Haddix "The Kid" because he looks and pitches so much like Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, and now he's ready to match a feat performed by the former Cardinal star.

Haddix recorded his 19th triumph of the season Monday night with a four-hit, 4 to 0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Brecheen, now pitching and coaching for the St. Louis Browns, had one season as a 20-game winner with the Cardinals—1948, when he won 20 and lost seven. Haddix has probably one more start left to notch that 20th victory.

Haddix was superb in the triumph, his sixth shutout of the season. He struck out eight Cubs, walked only one, and didn't allow a base runner to get past second base. What's more, he helped himself with a seventh-inning triple that drove in a run, and scored himself.

Rookie Jim Willis started for the Cubs and gave up a first-inning run on two walks and Country Slaughter's infield hit. Slaughter drove in another run with a fly in the sixth. In the seventh, Steve Bilko singled. Haddix tripled, and Solly Hemus flied to score Haddix.

The only other major league game scheduled Monday, the Yankees visiting the Red Sox, was rained out.

Monday's Star: Harvey Haddix of the Cards, who pitched a four-hit shutout for his 19th win and hit a triple.

George, Sauer On Coaches Rating Board

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — UP — The United Press Tuesday named 35 of the nation's outstanding coaches to its 1953 Football Rating Board.

Their first ratings will be made after games of Saturday, Sept. 26, and will be released to afternoon newspapers.

As in past seasons, the weekly ratings will be released alternately between Tuesday morning and afternoon newspapers.

The ratings, generally recognized as the official ranking of the nation's top college football teams, will be a consensus of the ballots of the 35 coaches. They will select their top 10 teams weekly and the consensus of their selections will be compiled on the basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for a second, and so on down to one for a 10th.

Last year, Coach Biggie Munn's Michigan State Spartans wound up as the nation's No. 1 team with Georgia Tech the runner-up.

The coaches who will serve on the 1953 United Press Football Coaches Rating Board include:

MIDLANDS
Don Faurot, Missouri; William Glassford, Nebraska; J. V. Sikes, Kansas; J. B. Whitworth, Oklahoma A&M; Charles Wilkinson, Oklahoma.

ROCKIES
Charles Atkinson, Brigham Young; Bob Blackman, Denver; Jack Curtice, Utah; Phil Dickens, Wyoming; Bob Titchener, New Mexico.

SOUTHWEST
Ray George, Texas A&M; Clyde Lee, Houston; Ed Price, Texas; George Sauer, Baylor; Bowden Wyatt, Arkansas.

Texas City Takes 3-2 Playoff Lead

GALVESTON, Sept. 22 — UP — The Galveston White Caps and Texas City Texans will line up in the sixth game of the Gulf Coast League final round playoffs Tuesday night.

Texas City slammed the White Caps 11 to 4 Monday night to go ahead in the series, three games to two.

The Texans exploded for eight runs in the third inning, then went on to submerge the Caps. The Caps took an early four-run lead, but the Texans sewed the game in the third-inning uprising.

The Texans added four insurance runs in the fourth inning. Darwin Dobbs went the route for the Texans and yielded 10 hits.

Should the Texans win they will meet Wichita Falls of the Big State League in the "Little Dixie" series, but should Galveston win another game will be played Wednesday night.

Hold Edge Over Yanks Dodger Infield Baseball's Best

(Editors: This is the second of a four part series comparing the Yankees and Dodgers for the 1953 World Series.)

By CARL LUNDQUIST
NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — UP — Brooklyn's defensive acrobats in the infield can also perform capably at bat and on that basis rate a definite edge over the Yankees' inner cordon.

From anchor man Gil Hodges at first around to slick Billy Cox at third, the Dodger defensive lineup is one of the best in the majors in the series. Belardi, his replacement, is next to impossible to get a hit through it.

The Yankees, of course, are accomplished workmen, too, and Manager Casey Stengel has considerably more infield depth. But his boys generally lack the hitting power that characterizes the Brooklyn crew and they're not quite as sure as the Dodgers.

A first baseman is the acknowledged best in his league — perhaps in the majors. And his .308 average, 31 homers and 120 runs batted in are tops for all of the infielders in the series. Belardi, his replacement, is only a .258 hitter but he has whacked 11 homers and batted in 34 runs, playing limberly. Joe Collins, the Yankee No. 1 first baseman has a .274 average, 43 runs batted in and 17 homers but late in the year along with his new habitat in left field.

Gilliam Walked 99 Times
Gilliam, a hot rookie of the year candidate, ousted Robinson from the second base post, batted .276, took the league lead in triples with 16 and set a National League record for rookies with 99 walks. Billy Martin, the Yankee No. 1 man at second can't match that mark with a .257 average and he is no better than Gilliam in the field.

Two of the finest shortstops of modern times, Reese and Phil Rizzuto will match their talents again and in the field it is a toss-up. Reese is batting .271 and hitting .277 but Reese has a little edge in power with 13 homers and 60 runs batted in. Rizzuto has two homers and 54 RBIs.

Gil McDougald at third has a hitting edge over Cox with a .258 average, 82 runs batted in and 10 homers, as compared to Billy's .253 mark, 43 RBIs and 10 homers. But Cox is definitely a superior fielder.

Wednesday — The outfielders.

Carlsbad Takes Playoff Lead

MIDLAND, Sept. 22 — UP — Carlsbad roared to a 13 to 6 victory over Midland to take a three to two lead in the final series of the Longhorn League playoffs Monday night.

The two teams move to Carlsbad, N. M., Tuesday night for the sixth, and if necessary, seventh game of the series.

Hank Williams went the distance for Carlsbad, yielding 11 hits. Midland scored two runs in the third inning to go ahead 2 to 0, but Carlsbad sent 10 players to the plate during a fourth-inning five-run uprising to chase loser Mike Rainey.

Dutch traders introduced tea into Europe from Japan in 1610.

JD. COLLINS — Solid Yankee first baseman . . . good fielder, alert, base-runner, hits occasional long ball . . . everybody plays first, but they always go back to Collins . . . a bust in '52 Series with no hits, but streak hitter who could reverse that . . . sit-down stance at plate.

WHITEY FORD — Cocky little Yankee southpaw . . . led staff in total victories after returning from two years in service . . . has good stuff, a sneaky fast ball . . . gets in trouble occasionally when edge goes off his control . . . good hitter and base-runner like Lopat, native New Yorker.

BILLY LOES — Bona fide Daffiness Boy . . . unpredictable adolescent . . . of Brooklyn pitching staff first half of season, but slumped mysteriously . . . has good speed, control and self-assurance . . . nervous only off field . . . only Series pitcher ever hit in leg by line drive because sun was in his eyes.

WAYNE BELARDI — Bonus baby with tremendous slugging potential . . . left-handed Dodger first sacker . . . called Footsie . . . will start series at first, with Hodges in right if Furillo is out . . . not too agile and can be pitched to across fists . . . but bye-bye baby if he connects.

Major Bigwigs To Talk Trade During Coming World Series

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK, Sept. 22—UP—It'll be one of the most feverish winters for baseball trading on record, judging from the preliminary "feelers" that have already been made Tuesday.

such Polo Grounds veterans as Bobby Thomson, hero of the 1951 pennant-clincher; southpaw Dave Koslo and Al Corwin and catcher Wes Westrum.

Aiding him were a host of public-spirited citizens whose only mistake—and a lot of clubs would like this kind of trouble—was overselling the ball park for opening day.

Each of the 16 big league clubs, with the possible exception of the Yankees and Dodgers, are coming to the World Series to talk trade.

The Cubs, in desperate need of a center fielder, are looking around to see what they can get for Hacker, outfielder Frank Baumholtz and infielders Bill Serena, Roy Smalley, Eddie Miksis and Bob Ramazzotti.

To complete the comeback angle of the Toledo story, the team was laboring badly in the cellar at the end of the first month of the season. That's when Smith contacted the unemployed Selkirk.

Even the waiver lists show such names as Willie Jones and Jim Konstanty of the Phillies; Warren Hacker and Bubba Church of the Cubs; Steve Souchock and Don Lund of the Tigers; Preston Ward of the Pirates, and Joe Presko and Cliff Chambers of the Cardinals, to name only a few.

Like Veeck, owner Bob Carpenter of the Phillies says no player on his club, with the possible exception of rubber-armed Robin Roberts, is invulnerable to trade this winter. That would include such standbys as outfielder Del Ennis and infielder Granny Hamner, although it would take quite a bit to lure Richie Ashburn on Curt Simmons from Philadelphia.

Selkirk had many managerial problems. For example, he used six different players in right field; four different players at third base and constantly juggled the infield. The maneuvering paid off in a pennant—and satisfaction for the fans who proved that it was a poor ball club, and not they, at fault in the first place. You can't blame them when they say:

Childress In AA Feature

By UNITED PRESS
Some of the state's better Class AA schoolboy football teams may find trouble this week, but defending Champion Terrell wasn't expected to be among them.

The Tigers, who opened their schedule with a 21 to 7 victory over Athens, tackle Class A Kaufman in an old-time rivalry, but doesn't appear in very great danger of being upset.

Unbeaten Childress, for instance, tackles Class AA Vernon and may find the hurdle too high to clear. Winters, also unbeaten, takes on a fair Stephenville team that could spoil the record, while London in East Texas bumps into a good Gascon team from Class A that could prove a tartar.

Atlanta may have some trouble with Mount Pleasant although the latter club has only broken even in two starts.

Navasota tackles a real buzz-saw in Class A A&M Consolidated, which has piled up 124 points to none for its opposition in two games.

Title Bout Coming Up Thursday Scribe Predicts Rocky Will KO LaStarza Within 5 Rounds

GREENWOOD Lake, N. Y., Sept. 22—UP—I must disagree with a statement made Tuesday by challenger Roland LaStarza as he finished training for his heavyweight title fight with Rocky Marciano Thursday night.

But that's my conclusion after several visits to each camp, after watching each in several fights, and after comparing their assets and their records.

That may sound like an absurd forecast in this year of unprecedented boxing upsets, and particularly when made against a challenger who is younger, faster, slightly heavier, rangier and more polished than the champion.

LaStarza, 29, has improved remarkably since March 24, 1950, when he won a split 10-round decision over Lazzarini at Madison Square Garden. The champion is a much more dangerous puncher now than he was then.

LaStarza Has Improved
And it must be recalled he had Roland on the floor that night, shortly before the bell ended the fourth round. Had the knockdown occurred earlier in the session, Roland might have been belted out.

Rocky Not A Low Puncher
And it must be recalled he had Roland on the floor that night, shortly before the bell ended the fourth round. Had the knockdown occurred earlier in the session, Roland might have been belted out.

Dallas Eagles Gain Berth In Dixie Series

TULSA, Sept. 22—UP—The straight season pennant-winning Dallas Eagles, who made their title official by tripping Tulsa 4 to 1 in a 10-inning thriller Monday night, will represent the Texas League against Nashville in the Dixie Series Wednesday night.

LaStarza No Better
However, I noted no great improvement in the challenger either in training or in his fights during the past three and one-half years. However, I must admit he was much faster than the slugger from Brockton, Mass., in their first bout; and he still is.

Howard Judson and Red Murfitt battled through seven scoreless innings until both clubs scored single runs in the eighth inning. Howard Rodemeyer came on to pitch for Tulsa in the ninth and got the loss.

LaStarza, 26 and scaling about 188 pounds, will try to outspeed the 22-year-old champ, packing about 185. He will try to keep him off balance with left jabs. But Rocky will keep pressing him, trying to "bull" him into corners or against the ropes for exchanges.

Wiley Moore, light-hitting Dallas outfielder, slipped a triple between centerfielder Ed Barr and rightfielder Mike Lutz to drive home Buzz Clarkson and Willie Brown, who had singled.

Within five rounds, LaStarza will be nailed in one of the exchanges and knocked out for the first time in his career.

Al Stringer's single plated Moore with the third run to clinch the game.

Dodgers Can Set Club Mark
BROOKLYN, Sept. 22—UP—The Dodgers need to win three of their last four games to set a club record for victories in a season. The Dodgers have won 102 games so far. The team record of 104 was set by the 1942 club.

THE UMPIRE

By BEANS REARDON
24 Years in National League
Written for NEA Service
Question: A ball is hit towards first base. It bounces once in fair territory, then curves foul before passing first base. The first baseman, standing with both feet inside the foul line reaches over the line and catches the ball before it strikes foul territory. Is the batter out if the first baseman touches the bag?—Leo T. Clement.

In one-hit games last season in the American League?—Jack Jones.
A. Eight — Bob Feller, Ben Cain, Art Houtteman, Maurice McDermott, Vic Raschi, Virgil Trucks (who also pitched two no-hitters), Mike Fornieles and Harry Byrd.

Answer: The ball is fair as long as it doesn't touch foul ground in this instance. Thus the batter is out if the first baseman makes the play at first.

Eagles To Host
Vols In Opener
DALLAS, Sept. 22—UP—The Dallas Eagles will play host to the Nashville Vols when the Dixie Series gets underway here Wednesday night.

Q. How many players batted more than 300 in the American League in 1952? — Chuck Sheridan.

The Eagles will entertain for the first two games, and the teams will travel Friday. The next three games will be played in Nashville, and if remaining games are necessary they will be played in Dallas.

A. Eight — Ferris Fain, Dale Mitchell, Mickey Mantle, George Kell, Gene Woodling, Billy Goodman, Al Rosen and Bobby Avila. Only Mitchell, Kell, Goodman and Avila have lifetime figures over that mark.

Haymes Gains Step Toward Marriage

LAS VEGAS, Nev. Sept. 22-UP—Crooner Dick Haymes Tuesday gained progress toward fulfilling one of his wishes in his troubled life—that of having Rita Hayworth take her place at his side as his wife when he goes to court to fight possible deportation proceedings.

The singer's divorced wife, Nora, Monday signed a waiver allowing him to marry Miss Hayworth immediately after he gets a Nevada divorce and, at the same time, a hearing on his deportation case was continued until next Monday.

Since Haymes and Miss Hayworth now can wed Thursday, as tentatively planned, he and the glamorous actress will have time for a short honeymoon before the next hearing in his case. Without the waiver, they would have to wait 30 days before marrying. Haymes was expected to receive his divorce Wednesday.

In Monday's court action, Federal Judge Ernest Volin continued a hearing to decide whether Haymes can plead his deportation case before a special constitutional court. The crooner, a citizen of Argentina, is charged with illegally entering this country last May after visiting Miss Hayworth in Hawaii.

Dumas Fights Gosselows
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22-UP—Rapidly rising Ralph Dumas, 17-year-old New Orleans lightweight, will face the stiffest test of his youthful ring career when he squares off against leading lightweight contender Johnny Gosselows of Oakland, Calif., in an eight-round bout Monday night.

Uncle Sam Closely Guards Atom Subs

By JERRY MANTER
GROTON, Conn., Sept. 22—UP—When Uncle Sam has such access to the hole as his two atomic submarines, he keeps the deck close to his chest.

That's what he's doing at the ship yards at the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp., where the first atomic-powered vessels are being built.

Security is the watchword around the olive-drab hull of the U. S. S. Nautilus, which is nearing the day of her launching, and the site next to her where work began a week ago on the Sea Wolf.

Security measures were prescribed by the Navy Department and are under the direct administrative control of the Navy's supervisor of shipbuilding and inspection of ordnance. No visitors may go aboard the Nautilus unless approval has been granted to Electric Boat by the "shipyard" office.

The actual guarding is the job of Electric Boat's security force, under the direction of R. B. Pettengill, a former state police lieutenant who is superintendent of plant protection, sharing the responsibility with the uniformed guards of Pettengill is Capt. Eric L. Barr Jr., a retired submarine officer who is manager of standards and security director at Electric Boat.

It's a round-the-clock task to protect the Nautilus, as it will be for the Sea Wolf once her hull begins to rise above the waves. The Nautilus hull is manned continually by the guard force and everyone who goes aboard her is thoroughly screened beforehand.

Visitors who have legitimate business aboard must have security clearance from the Navy. Once aboard, they aren't allowed to roam but are taken immediately to the area with which they're concerned, after which they're escorted off. Not even the builder's personnel can go aboard without a specific chore.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Here's Point Worth Attention

By OSWALD JACOBY

Which suit should you develop first when you are playing a hand at a contract of three no-trump? Should you go after the longest suit or the most solid suit? Should you make a straight-forward development play?

Take today's hand for example. West leads the jack of hearts, and South wins immediately in dummy by putting up the queen. Which suit should South next develop? South may, if he wishes, cash some diamonds to begin with, but he will still have to decide which black suit to tackle first.

When the hand was actually played, declarer decided to take advantage of the fact that he was in dummy by leading the queen of spades for a finesse. This lost to West's king, and back came another heart, forcing out declarer's ace.

Now South could take two spades, two hearts, and four diamonds for a total of only eight tricks. When South tried to develop his ninth trick in clubs, West stepped up

American Airmen Face Many Hazards In North Greenland

Editors: In the wastes of North Greenland, at the top of the world, U. S. airmen are developing a string of super-secret bases close to Russia's industrial heartland. A United Press correspondent has flown into the area for a first-hand look at what is going on. In the following dispatch, he described some of the hazards that beset polar aviation.

By BENT JENSEN
GOOSE BAY, Labrador, Sept. 22—UP—An ice-ringed airfield clinging to the rocky coast of Greenland poses a hair-raising landing problem for American pilots who ferry jet fighters to Allied forces in Europe.

"Operation High Flight" comes into force as soon as the pilots take off from this big base in Labrador for the flight to Narasarsuaq field in Greenland.

They must land at Narasarsuaq because they do not have enough fuel to go elsewhere. If trouble develops, they cannot bail out because they likely would be killed on the knife-edge rocks dotting the forbidding black landscape.

The story of the risky hurdle that Narasarsuaq presents was told by Lt. Col. Francis S. Manda, Military Air Transport Service liaison officer for "High Flight."

at the approach end and 136 at the far end.

Steep crags rising on all sides of the field are a formidable obstacle if the flier has to make a second pass to get down. A 5,000-foot glacier towers only seven miles dead ahead of the runway's abrupt end in the ice.

Pilots approaching the field must stay at 8,000 feet and fly at exactly 160 knots for 13½ minutes. They must keep their jets in landing position, with wheels down.

The Goose Bay weather station checks and double-checks its meteorological data before the fighters are permitted to take off.

There is no return once they are over the Atlantic.

promptly with the ace of clubs to cash three heart tricks and thus defeat the contract.

South should have entered his hand with a diamond in order to lead a club before trying the spades. If West put up the ace of clubs at once, South would have enough tricks without needing a spade finesse.

If West failed to take his ace of clubs immediately, declarer would win a club trick at once and could then switch to spades in order to develop nine tricks. In other words, South must go after the clubs first because he can steal a trick without giving up the lead; and, having stolen that trick, he can safely go next to the spades.

In actual practice, the best play of all is to begin by running the four diamonds, ending in the South hand for a club play. West would have a terrible time finding safe discards, and if West discarded a heart or two, the long suit would no longer be a menace.

This is a point well worth remembering; it often pays to run even a comparatively short solid suit before beginning to develop your tricks at a contract of three no-trump. The opponents, not knowing where the lightning will strike next, may try to protect everything and therefore succeed only in dissipating their threats.

Natural Bridge -- Jukebox Of Gods

By WADE JONES
NEA Staff Correspondent
NATURAL BRIDGE, Va. — (NEA)—By night, this heavenly hunk of rock looks and sounds like a giant jukebox of the gods. It has all the simple charm of a Coney Island shooting gallery. People love it.

Each year some $50,000 of them come from every state in the union and go to see the bridge like they would go to an evening movie — at 8, 9, and 10. They pay the same way — $1.20 for adults and 60 cents for children. What they see, seated at the

Michigan College Vouches For Prof Who Quit Commies

EAST LANSING, Mich., Sept. 22—UP—Michigan State College officials vouched Tuesday for the loyalty of a professor who said he quit the Communist party because he saw the "superiority of the American system."

Dr. Arnold Williams admitted he was a Communist while teaching at the University of North Carolina in 1936 and 1937 but said he left the party in 1938 and since has told the FBI all he knows about Red activities.

There was no official statement from the college but Williams received support from Dean Milton Mueller of the Science and Arts Department and Dr. Russell B. Nye head of the English department.

College President John A. Hannah, serving as assistant secretary of defense, said he would withhold judgment until he heard all the facts in the case.

"But if Williams' statement is true that's all there is to it," said Hannah, who was on the campus for a freshman class meeting.

Williams, 45, who joined Michigan State faculty in 1939, was identified as a Communist leader by Paul Crouch, a former Red official. Crouch, who was a faculty member at Michigan State, was dismissed Monday, told the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee during hearings last March and July that Williams was "one of the leaders" of a Communist group at Chapel Hill, N. C., in 1938.

bottom of a black and mighty slit in the earth and looking straight up over 200 feet at the bridge, is an astonishing production of the 20th century entertainment world. Booming eerily through the dark chasm from loudspeakers are, alternately, the recorded voice of someone describing the creation of the earth; choral groups singing; John Charles Thomas singing; chimes chiming.

At the same time 36 spotlights bathe the bridge in constantly changing colors. All this blends with the roar of big trucks crossing the bridge right over the chasm on U. S. Route 11, the twirling of scores of birds kept from their sleep by the noise and lights, and the eternal whispering of little Cedar Creek, which has taken several million years to carve out this stone wonder. Some people are a little overwhelmed by it all.

That's what happens at night. You can also go in the daytime. It's not nearly so overwhelming, but the bridge is a wonder to look upon the bridge unemotionally for the wonder that it is.

Millions and millions of years ago the chasm was entirely roofed over. Cedar Creek was an underground river, wearing patiently away at the solid limestone rock. One day the roof caved in, all but the part that now forms Natural Bridge. This left the gorge carved out of solid rock walls from 200 to 300 feet high and tiny Cedar Creek at the bottom.

The bridge now is 215 feet from the creek bed, 90 feet long from chasm wall to chasm wall, from 50 to 150 feet wide, and about 40 feet thick.

Thomas Jefferson bought it and 157 acres of land from England's King George II for 20 shillings (about $5) in 1774. Earlier George Washington, surveying it, climbed up 22 feet and carved his initials on the stone wall beneath the bridge. You can still see them, "G.W." and a surveyor's mark alongside.

Along about 1803, shortly after he became President, Jefferson realized the commercial possibilities of the bridge and stationed a Negro on it to lower people down in a basket with a rope and pulley arrangement. The arrangement was that the trip down was free, but the upward haul cost $1.00. You can still see the iron stake the rope was tied to.

The dollar sign has been a bridge symbol ever since. It has been owned by 13 different individuals and private companies since 1774. Today it's owned by a corporation with 451 stockholders and business was never better.

Last year the gross take was $1,104,000 from sales of bridge tickets, from the four hotels and motels, and from souvenirs.

As a partial cushion against anything going wrong with this limestone mint, the corporation has taken out a $1 million policy against the bridge's wearing down to less than 5 feet thick. If it got that thin the corporation figures it would have to pay the people to go down in the chasm under it.

Things have gone wrong here from time to time. In 1943 at the height of the war, three soldiers in a truck careened off the bridge one midnight when they failed to make the curve on Route 11 leading into the span.

Cedar Creek is only about 2 feet deep now. But one midnight in 1850 a rainstorm in the nearby Blue Ridge Mountains shot its level up 17 feet in two hours as water bottlenecked in the narrow gorge. No one was injured, but it took $35,000 to repair the damage to walks and benches.
