Six deaths attributed to Hurricane Gloria

Associated Press

Hurricane Gloria dealt a glancing blow to the East Coast on Friday, tearing down power lines and buckling boardwalks but causing less damage than expected before it rapidly weakened over New England. A half-million people had fled what was once one of the most dangerous Atlantic storms on record.

Six deaths were linked to the storm, which moved north after smashing into North Carolina before dawn Friday with 130 mph wind. By Friday night, however, Gloria weakened into a tropical storm as it swept over western Maine and headed into Canada's maritime provinces.

Low-lying areas were flooded and more than 2.75 million customers lost electricity during the hurricane.

Gloria rapidly weakened once it ran aground in Connecticut and thick, gray clouds were replaced by sunshine from North Carolina to Massachusetts. The gambling casinos of Atlantic City, N.J., had closed early as the storm approached, but reopened Friday night.

"For the storm of the century, it was a washout," said New York City Parks Commissioner Henry Stern, whose office counted 572 trees down in the city.

Added Mayor Edward Koch: "We scared the hell out of the hurricane and it went elsewhere."

■ Hurricane Center head in demand — Page 10A

By midafternoon the storm had sped up the Connecticut River Valley into Vermont, where 50 mph wind forced some cars off roads, officials said. Gov. Madeleine Kunin declared a state of emergency, asked non-essential state employees to go home and placed 800 National Guardsmen on alert.

In New York City, tens of thousands stayed home, and the twin 110-story towers of the World Trade Center and the Wall Street stock exchanges shut down. But the storm's effects were mostly limited to flooded streets, while trees and power lines were downed on suburban Long Island.

Forecasters said widespread destruction was averted because the storm's strongest winds remained on the east side of the eye and over water, gradually weakening, until they crossed eastern Long Island and began to dissipate, and because it coincided with low tide.

Gloria had approached the East Coast as one of the strongest Atlantic storms on record, with wind up to 150 mph. More than half a million people fled from North Carolina to Maine.

The hurricane still had 100 mph wind when it rammed the Connecticut coast after noon, breaking windows and crushing boats with 12-foot waves. But the National Hurricane Center said its central eye began rapidly weakening, and at 8 p.m. EDT, Gloria was downgraded to a tropical storm when its winds fell to 50 mph with some gusts in squalls.

In Boston Harbor, one of the upper horizontal spars on the foremast of the USS Constitution was broken, and a 450-foot radio transmission tower was toppled in Framingham, Mass.

Destruction along the East Coast appeared to be limited to downed trees and power lines, broken piers and boardwalks, including the famous one in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City's Casino operators were expected to lose thousands, perhaps millions of dollars in business as gaming tables shut down. A foot of water stood in the posh lobby of Resorts International Casino Hotel. Only one window pane was broken at the all-glass Atlantis Hotel and Casino.

House panel extends 16-cent cigarette tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Friday to extend for 45 days the 16-cent-a-pack federal cigarette tax that is due to drop to 8 cents on Tuesday.

The committee earlier approved legislation to make the 16-cent levy permanent, but there is no chance that bill can be enacted before the Monday midnight deadline. And there is no assurance the 45-day extension can either.

Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., will ask the House on Monday to approve the 45-day extension. But if one member objects, the extension will have to wait until Tuesday, when it could be passed if two-thirds of the House members approve.

There is more at stake than the federal tax. Seventeen states have approved higher state levies on cigarettes to take effect on Tuesday if the federal tax is allowed to drop to 8 cents. In seven of those, the state tax increase would be rolled back if the federal tax is subsequently boosted back to 16 cents a pack.

Such back-and-forth changes in taxes would wreak havoc on the cigarette industry, says Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Distributors "do not know whether to deplete their inventories and hold off purchasing new cigarettes until after Oct. 1, or to keep doing business as usual," Helms told colleagues Thursday. "The cigarette 'pipeline' is backing up on some of the cigarette manufacturers and causing layoffs and other disruptions in the production of cigarettes."

At Helms' insistence, the Senate passed a 45-day extension of the 16-cent levy. But that vote will have to be repeated after the House acts because, under the Constitution, the Senate cannot originate tax bills.

Like Ways and Means, the Senate Finance Committee already has voted to make the 16-cent tax permanent as part of a deficit-reduction bill. But the measure is still awaiting Senat action.

If the 16-cent federal tax is allowed to drop to 8 cents, it would cost the federal government about $6 million a day.

The Ways and Means Committee's emergency 45-day extension bill includes stopgap provisions affecting five other programs: the Superfund environmental cleanup, the railroad retirement fund, special aid for workers and companies damaged by competition from imported products, and the federal government's reimbursement rate for hospitals and doctors treating Medicare patients.

The bill would extend all those expiring programs through Nov. 15.

However, some House leaders who oppose extension of the tax that finances Superfund have made clear they will not allow the 45-day renewal. In that case, Rostenkowski would ask the House to approve the other five items, including the cigarette tax.

The cigarette levy was doubled to 16 cents in 1982 as part of a deficit-cutting bill, with the understanding it would revert to 8 cents this Oct. 1. But Congress is now considered virtually certain to make the 16-cent tax permanent — in the interest of reducing the deficit.

Bombs explode in three Durban stores

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Bombs exploded Friday evening in three downtown Durban department stores shortly after closing time, and police defused an explosive device in a fourth store, authorities said.

Police headquarters in Pretoria said no one was injured in the explosions, which occurred over a 90-minute period starting at 5:20 p.m. in major stores in the Indian Ocean port city. The fourth bomb was found in a supermarket in the same area, a police spokesman said.

News reports had said two bombs were defused, but the police spokesman, who may not be identified under department rules, said only one unexploded bomb was found.

The outlawed African National Congress guerrilla movement carries out periodic sabotage attacks, bu its targets usually are government facilities, not commercial premises.

Earlier, Nobel Peace laureate Bishop Desmond Tutu silently began a 24-hour hunger strike to protest the use of soldiers against rioters in black townships.

At the same time, the army launched a three-week project in Tembisa township to build sports fields and upgrade roads. A black council member called it a gesture proving the army's "healthy and sound" relationship with black communities.

Police headquarters in Pretoria said the number of activists arrested since a state of emergency was imposed nine weeks ago rose to 4,371, with 815 still in custody and the rest released. It was an increase of nearly 1,200 from the previous figures released two weeks ago.

TRC member: 'Cogenerators' need alternate energy sources

By GARY RASP
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Industries supplying power to electric utilities should be required to use stand-by fuel during peak consumption periods or Texas could face natural gas shortages, Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent warned Friday.

Nugent, addressing members of the Electricity Reliability Council, said the state came dangerously close to running out of natural gas during the harsh winter of 1983. Production of natural gas in Texas continues to decline, he added, which creates the possibility of future shortages.

"The natural gas industry in Texas today could not deliver the amount of gas we used" during December 1983 and January 1984, Nugent said.

"Our production is still diminishing," he added. "And that means that somewhere down the road we're going to face a distinct probability of a shortage of natural gas when we need it the most."

By law, the Railroad Commission must cut off large users of natural gas when reserves of the fuel reach a critical stage. That could spell trouble for utilities who rely on industry to supply them electricity.

"Please keep in mind that we have a statutory duty to cut off the industries and others who are making up the predominant part of cogeneration," Nugent said. "If we cut them off...then we are going to impact your ability to deliver electricity to the populace."

Cogeneration refers to the power industries supply to utilities as a by-product of their own operations. The vast majority of cogenerators use gas-fired turbines to produce that power.

Current law does not require industrial cogenerators to continue providing power during peak periods, thereby permitting them to reduce or terminate electricity sales at will.

"They can cut it off whenever they want to," Nugent noted. The solution, he said, is for the Public Utility Commission to force industrial cogenerators to stockpile alternate sources of fuel for their turbines.

"I think is urgent that an alternate supply of fuel be required on any cogenerating unit of any size," he said. "If they were simply required to have a 10-day supply of alternate fuel available during the months of December and January, we could alleviate part of this problem."

Nugent encouraged utilities to pressure the PUC to develop new rules that will address alternate-fuel requirements.

"I think you're going to see a material compounding of this problem that could be handled by prior planning and understanding," he concluded.

Midland County auditor calls '86 budget 'austere'

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Dollar by dollar, Midland County seems to be fighting against residency in the poor house.

Taxes keep it out.

Though it's not exactly skimpy at a record $14.3 million budget for 1986, the county's budget nevertheless is lean by commissioners' standards.

"It's highly austere," said County Auditor Floyd Jarnagin, and exceeds the 1985 budget of $13.1 million by 8.4 percent.

The 1986 budget will be funded by a 19.96-cent tax rate based on a $5.123 billion tax base. Ad valorem taxes, including taxes on real and personal property and oil-and-gas minerals, are to bring in $10.2 million in revenue. Fees for services are to funnel in $1.86 million, fines are to total more than $500,000, and the Road and Bridge Fund, fed by taxes, license fees and permits, is to add $2.34 million to the revenue.

The budget includes a 3 percent pay raise for the county's approximately 350 employees in 25 departments and elected and appointed officials. The county's payroll accounts for about half the budget. "This is a reasonable figure," Jarnagin said.

"Everybody has been very cooperative in budget planning," said County Judge Bill Ahders, the county's chief administrator. "They have cut down to essential needs. We have a bare-bones operation and perform services at the least expense to the taxpayers. That's our goal. They (county officials) realize the least spent, the lower taxes can be."

AHDERS NOTED that part of the budget increase is due to unforeseen events, such as the forced transfer of Midland County Jail inmates to other West Texas county jails to alleviate the overcrowding in the Midland County Jail. Since the transfer started April 23, the county has spent about $90,000 in farming out inmates. The weekly cost of transporting, feeding and housing the farmed-out prisoners is averaging about $6,000.

Meanwhile, the commissioners are concentrating on the 1986 budget.

"There's nothing extra in the budget," Brown said. "There are no frills. This is the tightest budget I have ever seen" in the almost 15 years he has been on the court.

Following is a breakdown of proposed expenditures:

General Administration: $2.68 million. This includes a $49,236 salary for Ahders; non-departmental items of $1.94 million; Fairview Cemetery expenses of $178,886; and courthouse maintenance expenses of $320,862.

The 1986 salary for each of the four commissioners, Durward Wright, C. Wallace "Wally" Craig, Scott Welch and Win Brown, is $25,266 and comes out of the Road and Bridge Department Fund.

Judicial: $2.65 million. This includes about $65,000 for each of the three state district court judges — Pat Baskin, Vann Culp and Barbara Culver. Each is paid $56,135 by the state; the county supplements each judge's salary. District courts' budgets are pegged at $388,346.

District Attorney Al Schorre's budget for 1986 totals $508,703, and his $54,698 salary includes $44,342 from the state; the county supplements his state salary.

Operating budget for County Court-at-Law No. 1 is $60,674 in 1986. Judge Willie DuBose's salary is pegged at $55,872.

Operating budget for County Court-at-Law No. 2 is $58,818. Judge James "Jim" Fitz-Gerald III's salary is listed at $53,232.

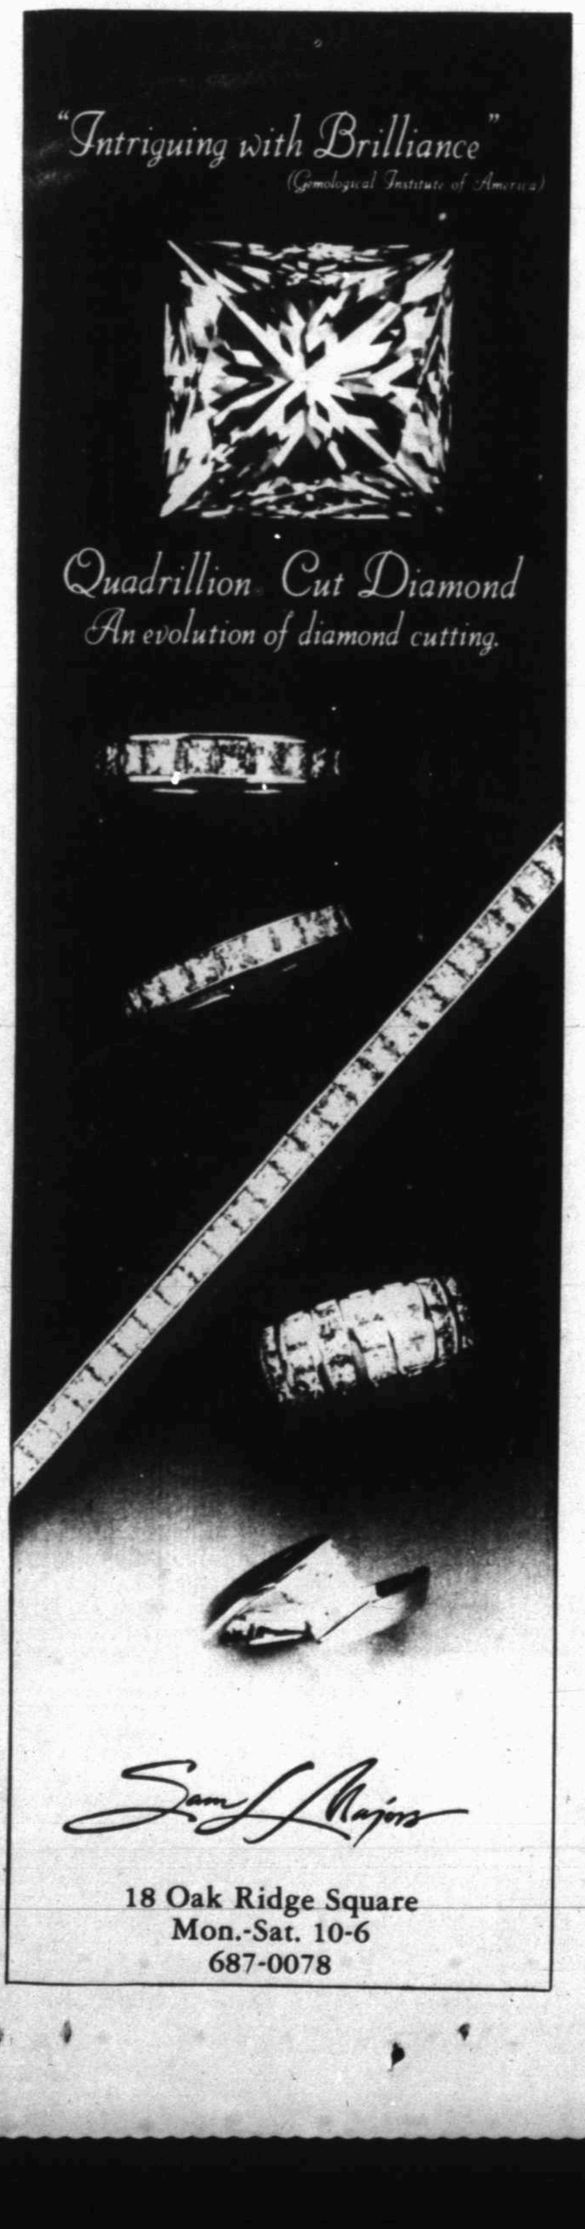

County Attorney Mark Dettman's budget in 1986 is $416,011. His salary is set at $45,876.

the District of Columbia, the National Weather Service said it had reports of damaged homes on Jamaica Bay on New York's Long Island and a police station in Islip lost its roof.

Connecticut Gov. William O'Neill put 2,000 National Guard troops on full alert, closed banks and ordered non-essential public employees to stay home before the storm struck. Bus and air travel were curtailed and high wind forced closure of the Gold Star Bridge over the Thames River.

At least 50,000 Connecticut residents were asked to evacuate but many stayed home. Police and fire departments reported a rash of small electrical fires as power lines fell.

Two people were killed in traffic accidents in Connecticut which were blamed on the storm, and a third was killed in the state when struck by a fallen tree that was being cut apart. One person was killed when he touched a live power line at Long Branch, N.J., a 60-year-old utility worker was killed in Ramapo, N.Y., when he was struck by tree while repairing a gas main, and a Rhode Island man was killed by a falling tree.

Ahead of the storm, torrential rain fell well inland, up to 6 inches in the southern Poconos in northeastern Pennsylvania, where small rivers rose, and 2 to 4 inches of rain fell by midmorning in New York's Catskills and Adirondacks. Southern New Jersey's Cumberland County had more than 6 inches of rain.

Wilkes-Barre-Scranton, Pa., got 6.42 inches of rain, a record there for a 24-hour period, and the weather service reported 9 inches of rain in southeastern Pennsylvania's Carbon County. Philadelphia Mayor W. Wilson Goode said 50 city streets and roads were flooded and 15 were closed.

In Stamford, Conn., the Army Corps of Engineers raised a 35-foot-high steel storm barrier in the harbor for the first time to protect low-lying homes and boats. Rhode Island Gov. Edward DiPrete ordered several bridges closed.

In Massachusetts, the giant doors of the hurricane wall protecting New Bedford harbor were closed, sheltering hundreds of boats. The walls were built after Hurricane Donna devastated New Bedford and its harbor in 1960.

Northeast Utilities in Connecticut declared a precautionary alert at its Connecticut Yankee nuclear power plant at Haddam Neck because some support buildings were not designed to withstand 100 mph wind, said spokesman Tony Castagno.

The utility also shut down the Millstone 1 and 2 nuclear power plants in coastal Waterford as a precaution, but said other plants could meet the demand for electricity.

Larrye deBear, spokesman for Connecticut's governor, said it was impossible to estimate the number of people evacuated but said "just about every single town from Greenwich to Stonington haye had some evacuations."

In Augusta, Maine, on Friday evening, gale-force winds blew in windows in a legislative committee room at the Capitol, which was blacked out for about 20 minutes. The adjacent State Office Building, which housed the civil defense headquarters, also went dark before generators restored power.

"We just got out of there for our own health," David Burns said of his house about a half-mile from Great South Bay at Islip, N.Y. "We tried to ride it out at the house but there was no way. It was suicidal."

More than 560,000 people along the Eastern Seaboard as far north as Massachusetts had fled inland as the storm hit the Outer Banks of North Carolina during the night and then barrelled northward parelleling the coast.

States of emergency were declared in North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Delaware, Rhode Island and New Jersey.

Several motorists suffered minor injuries in Philadelphia when cars were disabled by flooding on Interstate 95. A truck went off the Tappan Zee Bridge over the Hudson River north of New York City and police said wet pavement, excessive speed and high wind could be blamed; the driver was rescued.

Swells 10 to 12 feet above normal cut off many roads to New Jersey's barrier islands as the eye of the storm passed at midmorning, said Gerald Thornton, director of the Cape County County board of freeholders. Three major utilities said about 60,000 customers in the state lost power.

The storm also had lashed resort towns to the south on barrier islands in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina.

Classes were canceled in North Carolina, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, New York, New Jersey, southeastern Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine as schools were turned into shelters. Hundreds of military aircraft and dozens of ships were moved from their home bases to protect them from the storm.

BOMB

Ten riot incidents, mainly rock-throwings and firebombings, occurred in black townships, a police report said. No one was killed.

Tutu, the Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, refused to speak to reporters as he sat with his head bowed inside the chapel at Khotso House, a Johannesburg office building housing the South African Council of Churches and other groups opposed to apartheid.

The black bishop joined Harald Winkler, 21, a university student, who was in the 11th day of a planned 21-day fast against conscription of whites because they are used to control blacks in townships.

Several other activists are on a three-week fast against the draft due to end Oct. 7, the anniversary of the first use of troops alongside police in riot areas.

About 20 soldiers from an engineering corps began grading a dusty field in Tembisa about 20 miles north of Johannesburg, clearing sites for a soccer stadium, two netball fields and two volleyball courts.

The unit will help build 25 soccer, netball and volleyball fields, improve dirt roads and lay out beautification projects including grass and trees in the barren township.

The army has long emphasized its hearts-and-minds campaign of upgrading rural villages in neighboring South-West Africa, to draw support from guerrillas fighting to end South African rule. The Tembisa project is the first army aid project in a South African township.

In Cape Town, security forces used a light plane to broadcast messages over a loudspeaker to residents of black and mixed-race townships. Police said the message, in the Xhosa language, invited people with complaints of police misconduct to come foward with formal charges.

But residents of Guguletu township said the aircraft warned residents to send their children back to school and go back indoors, "otherwise they would come and beat us up," the South African Press Association said.

Several residents have filed court claims or told reporters they were assaulted or abused in detention in recent days. In Port Elizabeth, a court issued a blanket ban on police assaults on detainees after a government doctor testified that hundreds of her patients had complained of beatings and abuse.

The Federation of South African Trade Unions, a black union group with more than 100,000 members, also called on victims of police brutality to submit affidavits to the union.

In other developments:

• Ninety-two prominent businessmen announced a campaign to prod the white government to speed up race reforms. Business leaders increasingly have criticized what they call the slow pace of reform, saying it has fueled foreign sanctions against South Africa.

• The U.S. Embassy said it signed agreements granting $860,000 for scholarships for black, mixed-race and Asian students, the first phase of an $18-million program.

• The government banned all meetings to discuss or plan protest strikes such as that in East London, to try to avert future political walkouts.

• Deputy Minister of Information Louis Nel said an American ban on importing Krugerrand gold coins, and an Austrian sanctions package, were "a flagrant violation of the principle of free trade and private enterprise." Nel said the Krugerrand ban could hurt the vast mining industry.

Odessan injured in two-car wreck

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — A 26-year-old Odessa woman remained in stable condition at Medical Center Hospital following a two-vehicle accident Friday at the intersection of University Avenue and Vega Street, a Texas Department of Public Safety spokeswoman said.

Donna Jean Bader was injured about 5:55 p.m. when the 1982 Toyota she was driving was struck from behind by a 1979 Ford pickup driven by Roy Martinez Gamboa, also of Odessa.

According to the report, both drivers were traveling east on University Avenue when the accident occurred. The extent of Ms. Bader's injuries were unknown at presstime. Gamboa was not injured in the accident.

Woman arrested, arraigned for alleged forgery

From Staff Reports

A 23-year-old woman remained in Midland City Jail late Friday after she was arrested and charged with forgery by making, according to police reports.

Arrested at her residence early Friday was Rosalindo Hernandez Franco, 404 E. Estes. Bond was set at $5,000 following her arraignment Friday by Peace Justice Robert Pine.

In other complaints, a 1982 Lincoln Mark VI, belonging to Jim L. Wilson of 1801 N. Midland Drive, was reported stolen Friday while it was parked at 3108 W. Cuthbert.

The car was reportedly stolen between 10:30 and 11:35 a.m. It is valued at $25,000, according to the report.

Capehart, who gave his address as P.O. Box 9783, told police Friday that the burglary occurred between 2:30 and 4 p.m. The property is valued at about $675.

Birtie Reasno, 1202 E. Magnolia, reported a gold and diamond cluster ring was stolen Sunday following a burglary at her residence, police said.

The report, filed Friday, indicated the time of the burglary is unknown. The ring is valued at $400.

David W. Hall, 1801 N. Midland Drive, reported $200 cash was stolen either Thursday or Friday from his residence. The burglary occurred between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m.

A .45-caliber revolver, valued at $200, was stolen between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1 from the Lupe Valadez residence, 107 E. Francis, according to her police reports.

Police said the exact time and date of the theft is unknown.

Plan announced for use of relief funds

From Staff Reports

WASHINGTON D.C. — Alberto Franco Sarmiento, president of the Mexican Red Cross, has announced a five-point plan to use monies received from world-wide contributions for earthquake relief through National Red Cross societies.

The plan, drafted in consultation with Hans Hoegh, secretary general of the League of Red Cross and Red Cresent societies, addresses the immidiate and long-term needs following the devastating earthquake.

The five-point plan includes:

• The establishment and operation of aid centers for children and elderly in hardest hit areas;

• Provisions of immediate assistance to local Red Cross hospitals in the towns of Ciudad Guzman and Lazaro Cardenas;

• Establishing grants to support the completion of the Mexican Red Cross Earthquake Radio Network;

• Development of a tracing unit within the Mexican Red Cross to handle health and welfare inquiries;

Plans already are well advanced for the provision of 12 Red Cross emergency clinics within Mexico City. Tkhe land will be provided by the state, and equipment by the Mexican Red Cross. Each clinic will cost an estimated $50,000. Building materials and expertise are available locally.

Due to the severity of the situation in Mexico City, the emergency relief plan expands the role of the Mexican Red Cross beyond its normal activities that include operating ambulances and hospitals, and providing medical services.

Midlander in quake aid group

From Staff Reports

Five Texans are enroute to Mexico City today to aid disaster victims left homeless following the devastating earthquake that ravaged the city last week.

Salvation Army Maj. Harvey Harwell of Midland said the disaster team will distribute food and water via three mobile cantines provided by Salvation Army offices in the United States.

The cantines are "capable of feeding thousands of people per day," Harwell said.

He added, the team also will "assess" the Mexico City situation and will take along supplies to replentish many already distributed to needy.

Harwell said the Salvation Army units across the nation will "remain on stand-by as long as we're needy."

Clarification

In last Sunday's Court Records section, it was reported that Sterling Young Jr. was found guilty of aggravated assault on Sept. 11 and sentenced to four years probation and a $5,000 fine. It should have been noted that the jury which assessed the fine also recommended it be suspended, and ordered Young to pay $3,607.35 in restitution.

DALIAS (AP) — Deno Victor Loredo, wb was portrayed both as a hot-temered driver on Dallas' busiest freeray and as a man just trying to defeid his family, was given the maximun sentence Friday for the fatal shoting of another freeway commutr.

A sixman, six-woman jury sentenced bredo to 20 years in prison for the Feb. 18 shooting death of Jack Vaghn of Fort Worth. The punishmnt range for his voluntary manslauhter conviction is two to 20 years.

The juy had deliberated almost 10 hours beore finding the 27-year-old Dallas mn guilty, but took only a half hou to decide his punishment, accordin to court officlas.

Vaugh, 38, and his stepson, Larry Evans Jr. were on their way to work at a North Dallas construction site when Vaghn was shot in the head as he saton the passsenger side of their car on busy Central Expressway.

Bill Ric, Loredo's lawyer, argued Thursday that Loredo endured a "three-miute ride of terror" caused by Vaugh and Evans and was only trying to defend his family.

"Can't you just see those two guys (Vaughn and Evans) having a good old time with a carload of Mexicans?" Rice asked jurors.

But prosecutors said Loredo had a "hair-trigger temper" that was sparked by minor traffic problems and possibly drunkenness.

"There was no ride of terror. There was an act of an irrational man who shot another man," said Assistant District Attorney Marshall Gandy.

But Gandy argued that Loredo had been at an all-night party where some of Loredo's companions said they became drunk.

Gandy said it was Loredo who started the confrontation with Vaughn and Evans when they passed his car before reaching Central Expressway where the shooting occurred in the early morning hours.

Gandy also disputed Loredo's testimony that he showed off his handgun to the two construction workers to scare them away, and the gun went off accidentally when he hit a curb.

"They (Vaughn and Evans) were laughing at us," Loredo had testified. "They kept harassing me, throwing me obscene gestures.

Harris County sheriff, DA at odds over record

HOUSTON (AP) — The Harris County sheriff and the district attorney are atodds over a misdemeanor theft conviction that was expunged from the ecord of a friend of the sheriff.

Sheriff Johnny Klevenhagen signed an affidavit this week opposing Distric Attorney John B. Holmes' stance that a 1978 conviction involving Robert C. Perry should remain on Perry's record.

Perry, 36, was fined $150 and placed on probation for 18 months after pleading no contest to a charge of misappropriating meat and chicken from a Houston supermarket.

Klevenhagen acknowledged that Perry is his friend and may be seeking a job in the sheriff's department.

"A lot of people want to work here, but that doesn't mean he will," the sheriff said.

Holmes said documents filed by his office "speak for themselves."

the District of Columbia, the National Weather Service said it had reports of damaged homes on Jamaica Bay on New York's Long Island and a police station in Islip lost its roof.

Connecticut Gov. William O'Neill put 2,000 National Guard troops on full alert, closed banks and ordered non-essential public employees to stay home before the storm struck. Bus and air travel were curtailed and high wind forced closure of the Gold Star Bridge over the Thames River.

At least 50,000 Connecticut residents were asked to evacuate but many stayed home. Police and fire departments reported a rash of small electrical fires as power lines fell.

Two people were killed in traffic accidents in Connecticut which were blamed on the storm, and a third was killed in the state when struck by a fallen tree that was being cut apart. One person was killed when he touched a live power line at Long Branch, N.J., a 60-year-old utility worker was killed in Ramapo, N.Y., when he was struck by tree while repairing a gas main, and a Rhode Island man was killed by a falling tree.

Ahead of the storm, torrential rain fell well inland, up to 6 inches in the southern Poconos in northeastern Pennsylvania, where small rivers rose, and 2 to 4 inches of rain fell by midmorning in New York's Catskills and Adirondacks. Southern New Jersey's Cumberland County had more than 6 inches of rain.

Wilkes-Barre-Scranton, Pa., got 6.42 inches of rain, a record there for a 24-hour period, and the weather service reported 9 inches of rain in southeastern Pennsylvania's Carbon County. Philadelphia Mayor W. Wilson Goode said 50 city streets and roads were flooded and 15 were closed.

In Stamford, Conn., the Army Corps of Engineers raised a 35-foot-high steel storm barrier in the harbor for the first time to protect low-lying homes and boats. Rhode Island Gov. Edward DiPrete ordered several bridges closed.

In Massachusetts, the giant doors of the hurricane wall protecting New Bedford harbor were closed, sheltering hundreds of boats. The walls were built after Hurricane Donna devastated New Bedford and its harbor in 1960.

Northeast Utilities in Connecticut declared a precautionary alert at its Connecticut Yankee nuclear power plant at Haddam Neck because some support buildings were not designed to withstand 100 mph wind, said spokesman Tony Castagno.

The utility also shut down the Millstone 1 and 2 nuclear power plants in coastal Waterford as a precaution, but said other plants could meet the demand for electricity.

Larrye deBear, spokesman for Connecticut's governor, said it was impossible to estimate the number of people evacuated but said "just about every single town from Greenwich to Stonington have had some evacuations."

In Augusta, Maine, on Friday evening, gale-force winds blew in windows in a legislative committee room at the Capitol, which was blacked out for about 20 minutes. The adjacent State Office Building, which housed the civil defense headquarters, also went dark before generators restored power.

"We just got out of there for our own health," David Burns said of his house about a half-mile from Great South Bay at Islip, N.Y. "We tried to ride it out at the house but there was no way. It was suicidal."

More than 560,000 people along the Eastern Seaboard as far north as Massachusetts had fled inland as the storm hit the Outer Banks of North Carolina during the night and then barrelled northward parelleling the coast.

States of emergency were declared in North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Delaware, Rhode Island and New Jersey.

Several motorists suffered minor injuries in Philadelphia when cars were disabled by flooding on Interstate 95. A truck went off the Tappan Zee Bridge over the Hudson River north of New York City and police said wet pavement, excessive speed and high wind could be blamed; the driver was rescued.

Swells 10 to 12 feet above normal cut off many roads to New Jersey's barrier islands as the eye of the storm passed at midmorning, said Gerald Thornton, director of the Cape County County board of freeholders. Three major utilities said about 60,000 customers in the state lost power.

The storm also had lashed resort towns to the south on barrier islands in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina.

Classes were canceled in North Carolina, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, New York, New Jersey, southeastern Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine as schools were turned into shelters. Hundreds of military aircraft and dozens of ships were moved from their home bases to protect them from the storm.

Ten riot incidents, mainly rock-throwings and firebombings, occurred in black townships, a police report said. No one was killed.

Tutu, the Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, refused to speak to reporters as he sat with his head bowed inside the chapel at Khotso House, a Johannesburg office building housing the South African Council of Churches and other groups opposed to apartheid.

The black bishop joined Harald Winkler, 21, a university student, who was in the 11th day of a planned 21-day fast against conscription of whites because they are used to control blacks in townships.

Several other activists are on a three-week fast against the draft due to end Oct. 7, the anniversary of the first use of troops alongside police in riot areas.

About 20 soldiers from an engineering corps began grading a dusty field in Tembisa about 20 miles north of Johannesburg, clearing sites for a soccer stadium, two netball fields and two volleyball courts.

The unit will help build 25 soccer, netball and volleyball fields, improve dirt roads and lay out beautification projects including grass and trees in the barren township.

The army has long emphasized its hearts-and-minds campaign of upgrading rural villages in neighboring South-West Africa, to draw support from guerrillas fighting to end South African rule. The Tembisa project is the first army aid project in a South African township.

In Cape Town, security forces used a light plane to broadcast messages over a loudspeaker to residents of black and mixed-race townships. Police said the message, in the Xhosa language, invited people with complaints of police misconduct to come foward with formal charges.

But residents of Guguletu township said the aircraft warned residents to send their children back to school and go back indoors, "otherwise they would come and beat us up," the South African Press Association said.

Several residents have filed court claims or told reporters they were assaulted or abused in detention in recent days. In Port Elizabeth, a court issued a blanket ban on police assaults on detainees after a government doctor testified that hundreds of her patients had complained of beatings and abuse.

The Federation of South African Trade Unions, a black union group with more than 100,000 members, also called on victims of police brutality to submit affidavits to the union.

In other developments:

• Ninety-two prominent businessmen announced a campaign to prod the white government to speed up race reforms. Business leaders increasingly have criticized what they call the slow pace of reform, saying it has fueled foreign sanctions against South Africa.

• The U.S. Embassy said it signed agreements granting $860,000 for scholarships for black, mixed-race and Asian students, the first phase of an $18-million program.

• The government banned all meetings to discuss or plan protest strikes such as that in East London, to try to avert future political walkouts.

• Deputy Minister of Information Louis Nel said an American ban on importing Krugerrand gold coins, and an Austrian sanctions package, were "a flagrant violation of the principle of free trade and private enterprise." Nel said the Krugerrand ban could hurt the vast mining industry.

Odessan injured in two-car wreck

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — A 26-year-old Odessa woman remained in stable condition at Medical Center Hospital following a two-vehicle accident Friday at the intersection of University Avenue and Vega Street, a Texas Department of Public Safety spokeswoman said.

Donna Jean Bader was injured about 5:55 p.m. when the 1982 Toyota she was driving was struck from behind by a 1979 Ford pickup driven by Roy Martinez Gamboa, also of Odessa.

According to the report, both drivers were traveling east on University Avenue when the accident occurred. The extent of Ms. Bader's injuries were unknown at presstime. Gamboa was not injured in the accident.

Woman arrested, arraigned for alleged forgery

From Staff Reports

A 23-year-old woman remained in Midland City Jail late Friday after she was arrested and charged with forgery by making, according to police reports.

Arrested at her residence early Friday was Rosalindo Hernandez Franco, 404 E. Estes. Bond was set at $5,000 following her arraignment Friday by Peace Justice Robert Pine.

In other complaints, a 1982 Lincoln Mark VI, belonging to Jim L. Wilson of 1801 N. Midland Drive, was reported stolen Friday while it was parked at 3108 W. Cuthbert.

The car was reportedly stolen between 10:30 and 11:35 a.m. It is valued at $25,000, according to the report.

Capehart, who gave his address as P.O. Box 9783, told police Friday that the burglary occurred between 2:30 and 4 p.m. The property is valued at about $675.

Birtie Reasno, 1202 E. Magnolia, reported a gold and diamond cluster ring was stolen Sunday following a burglary at her residence, police said.

The report, filed Friday, indicated the time of the burglary is unknown. The ring is valued at $400.

David W. Hall, 1801 N. Midland Drive, reported $200 cash was stolen either Thursday or Friday from his residence. The burglary occurred between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m.

A .45-caliber revolver, valued at $200, was stolen between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1 from the Lupe Valadez residence, 107 E. Francis, according to her police reports.

Police said the exact time and date of the theft is unknown.

From Staff Reports

WASHINGTON D.C. — Alberto Franco Sarmiento, president of the Mexican Red Cross, has announced a five-point plan to use monies received from world-wide contributions for earthquake relief through National Red Cross societies.

The plan, drafted in consultation with Hans Hoegh, secretary general of the League of Red Cross and Red Cresent societies, addresses the immidiate and long-term needs following the devastating earthquake.

The five-point plan includes:

• The establishment and operation of aid centers for children and elderly in hardest hit areas;

• Provisions of immediate assistance to local Red Cross hospitals in the towns of Ciudad Guzman and Lazaro Cardenas;

• Establishing grants to support the completion of the Mexican Red Cross Earthquake Radio Network;

• Development of a tracing unit within the Mexican Red Cross to handle health and welfare inquiries;

Plans already are well advanced for the provision of 12 Red Cross emergency clinics within Mexico City. Tkhe land will be provided by the state, and equipment by the Mexican Red Cross. Each clinic will cost an estimated $50,000. Building materials and expertise are available locally.

Due to the severity of the situation in Mexico City, the emergency relief plan expands the role of the Mexican Red Cross beyond its normal activities that include operating ambulances and hospitals, and providing medical services.

Midlander in quake aid group

From Staff Reports

Five Texans are enroute to Mexico City today to aid disaster victims left homeless following the devastating earthquake that ravaged the city last week.

Salvation Army Maj. Harvey Harwell of Midland said the disaster team will distribute food and water via three mobile cantines provided by Salvation Army offices in the United States.

The cantines are "capable of feeding thousands of people per day," Harwell said.

He added, the team also will "assess" the Mexico City situation and will take along supplies to replentish many already distributed to needy.

Harwell said the Salvation Army units across the nation will "remain on stand-by as long as we're needy."

BUDGET

budget of $193,599. Spraberry's salary is listed as $33,780, and Pine's pay is $34,800.

Financial Administration: $829,525. County Auditor Floyd Jarnagin, who is salaried at $36,864, has a $109,849 budget.

County Treasurer Dee Thompson, who is salaried at $38,424, has a $117,787 budget.

County Tax Assessor-Collector Frances Shuffield, salaried at $37,884, has a $601,889 budget.

Public Safety and Corrections: $3.2 million. Sheriff Gary Painter's budgets total $2.7 million, which includes $1.73 million for the Sheriff's Department and almost $1 million for jail operations. His salary is set at $36,924.

Road and Bridge: $2.1 million. This includes $1.8 million for operations and $309,112 for administrative costs. Salaries for the four county commissioners total $101,064. Each commissioner is allowed $4,200 for travel expenses.

Clarification

In last Sunday's Court Records section, it was reported that Sterling Young Jr. was found guilty of aggravated assault on Sept. 11 and sentenced to four years probation and a $5,000 fine. It should have been noted that the jury which assessed the fine also recommended it be suspended, and ordered Young to pay $3,607.35 in restitution.

Gunman gets 20 years in shooting

STATE

DALIAS (AP) — Deno Victor Loredo, wo was portrayed both as a hot-temered driver on Dallas' busiest freeay and as a man just trying to defend his family, was given the maximun sentence Friday for the fatal shoting of another freeway commutr.

A sixman, six-woman jury sentenced Loredo to 20 years in prison for the Feb. 18 shooting death of Jack Vaghn of Fort Worth. The punishmnt range for his voluntary manslauhter conviction is two to 20 years.

The juy had deliberated almost 10 hours beore finding the 27-year-old Dallas mn guilty, but took only a half houto decide his punishment, accordin to court officlas.

Wichita croons over contest tunes while writers dash for cash

Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

WICHITA, Kan. — It began as a simple Chamber of Commerce songwriting contest to get Wichitans excited about Wichita. But now, to the surprise of city boosters, 2,500 armchair songwriters in every state and nine foreign countries are singing Wichita's praises.

The only problem is that most of the would-be composers writing such tunes as "I Left My Heart in Wichita" and "Take Me Back to Wichita, Kansas" have never laid eyes on the place.

"Tell me," one recent caller asked, "just what does Wichita look like?"

To hear some of the non-native lyricists tell it, Wichita is a city of towering smokestacks, sunflower-lined streets, corsetted women, pulsating neon lights and backyard oil wells. A place where, as one Californian wrote, "even with its spring tornados, you can still grow your potatoes."

Others more accurately describe an aircraft manufacturing center in the heart of wheat and cattle country where the people are friendly, the air is clean and the streets are safe.

Soon after the Chamber of Commerce invited folks around here to write a song for its annual meeting — and offered a $1,500 cash prize — sheet music, tape recordings and handwritten lyrics began flooding in from around the world.

"I don't know much about Wichita, but in writing this, I've become very fond of it," said Joan Rogers, a housewife in England who wrote "Wonderful Wichita." She urged judges to "imagine it with a real good orchestra."

The verse offered by Lorraine Myers, of Fair Oaks, Calif., focused on the Wichita's family atmosphere:

Did you ever see such a ma!
She raised us right in Wichita
Fed us beef and wheat and beans
Sunflower seeds and collard greens.
Taught us manners and right from wrong
And made us learn to sing this song.

The musical tributes originated as far away as Parachute, Colo., Haledon, N.J., Butte, Mont., Jonesville, La., Kildare, Ireland, and Brisbane, Australia. The composers include students, real estate agents, ministers and even professional musicians such as Johnny Guitar, and the "singing psychic" Bea Manzi.

No one expected a deluge of entries from out of town when the contest began. But word spread. Radio commentator Paul Harvey, a former Kansan, talked it up on his program. Then the British Broadcasting Corporation did a story.

Now, with a deadline of Monday, Wichita is receiving 75 entries a day. A panel of local musicians will select the winner, and the new song will be revealed on Nov. 21 at the chamber's annual meeting.

The rules decree that each song contains the word "Wichita," a requirement that results in some creative attempts at rhyme and even more creative spellings.

What rhymes with Wichita?

Where virile men eat their beef raw.
Where fine fish dinners come with slaw.

It's hard to imagine Wichitans singing this verse, from a woman in Streator, Ill., but it does rhyme:

Flies buzzing around my food annoy me
Bees buzzing around annoy me too
But hardly anything annoys me more than Having an itchy bra — in Wichita.

As Nebraskan Bill Kingston put it:

Wichita is one fine town
One of the best any where'aroun'.
Many have said, Ol' Kansa is such a bore,
But, drive to Wichita, and you'll say it no more.

NATION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., announced Friday he will not seek re-election when his term ends next year, a move that jeopardizes Republican hopes of retaining control of the Senate.

Mathias, 64, told a news conference "the season has arrived to shift to a new field of activity," and said he might practice law, teach and write.

The three-term moderate was the fourth Republican senator to decide against seeking re-election next year, when Republicans must defend 22 Senate seats and the Democrats only 12. The GOP now controls the Senate, 53-47.

While Mathias was often at odds with the Republican right, he said "that was not significant" in the decision and that conservative colleagues were "extremely open and supportive during the time I had this under consideration."

He also predicted "the tide will come in again" for Republican moderates and liberals who once were a powerful force in the party but now are few in numbers and exert little clout.

Even before the official announcement, Maryland Republican Chairman Allan Levey commented: "I'm disappointed. I was always hoping the senator would run because I don't think anyone in the state — in the Democratic or Republican party — could beat him. This creates a problem because we were counting on him to run."

Mathias said he considered the possibility that Republicans may lose the seat because of his retirement but quickly added it was "not controlling" in his decision.

Democratic National Chairman Paul G. Kirk Jr. described Mathias' announcement as "a political hurricane" and said "the 1986 weather report gets better every day for the emocrats."

Top Democratic vote-getters already were considering a race for the seat even before Mathias' decision, including Gov. Harry Hughes, Rep. Michael Barnes and Rep. Barbara Mikulski, the senator's 1974 opponent.

Likely Republican contenders are more conservative than Mathias. They include former U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick; Rep. Marjorie Holt, who has announced plans to retire from the House; and Donald Devine, former head of the Office of Personnel Management and now head of a political action committee maintained by Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan.

More than two-thirds of Maryland's registered voters are Democratic, according to 1984 figures, and Mathias has always been able to win by using his moderate-to-liberal views to appeal to voters in both parties. The senator won his last election with 66 percent of the vote following his defeat of two Republicans in the primary.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., announced last year he would not seek re-election in 1986. And fellow incumbents Paul Laxalt of Nevada and John East of North Carolina said in the past two months that they would not seek re-election next year.

Mathias, Laxalt and East are all members of the Judiciary Committee, which has jurisdiction over President Reagan's law enforcement legislation, civil rights bills, judicial and Justice Department nominations and the department's operations. Mathias is the committee's ranking Republican.

Mathias' retirement could open the way for committee Chairman Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., to switch to the chairmanship of the Armed Services Committee if Republicans maintain control of the Senate. Had Mathias run and been re-elected, any move by Thurmond would have been difficult because conservatives bitterly opposed Mathias assuming the chairmanship.

Mark Goodin, a spokesman for Thurmond, said the senator maintains "a deep interest in the Armed Services Committee," but will make no decision until after next year's elections.

Mathias has voted against several administration positions, including the nomination of Justice Department civil rights chief William Bradford Reynolds as associate attorney general. His committee vote scuttled the nomination.

He also voted against the nomination of Kenneth Adelman, who was confirmed as head of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Mathias, first elected in 1968, is a former House member who is chairman of the Rules and Administration Committee. The panel handles legislation dealing with campaign finance.

Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, chairman of Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said the three senators' retirement announcements "brightens Democratic prospects for recapturing control of the Senate."

"Several well-qualified and talented Democratic officials continue to look at the Maryland race," he said. "The Republicans must envy Democratic prospects in the state, where the Democratic Party dominates politics at the state and local level."

Man revived after paper prints obituary

CINCINNATI (AP) — A man whose obituary was published after doctors declared him "brain dead" revived and was returned to intensive care in critical condition, officials said.

Physicians at the University of Cincinnati Hospital declared John Birckhead, 41, of Cincinnati brain dead Wednesday morning, hospital spokesman David Bracey said Thursday.

Funeral arrangements had been made by that evening and a death notice was purchased for Birckhead, who had been hospitalized in a coma after being found hanging by his T-shirt at a jail. The funeral service was held at Hodapp Funeral Home in Carthage.

Meanwhile, breathing was detected during a final medical evaluation and Birckhead was returned to intensive care at the hospital, officials said.

A misunderstanding between hospital officials and members of Birckhead's family resulted in the publication of John Birckhead's obituary Thursday morning in The Cincinnati Enquirer.

The family was told that before a legal declaration of death, a second medical evaluation had to be performed, Bracey said.

When the second examination was performed, there was no brain activity, but "minimal spontaneous respiration," or a "flicker" of life was detected, Bracey said.

At that point Birckhead's condition was "beyond a coma," Bracey said.

University Hospital "was a bit taken back" by the obituary that appeared in the Enquirer, Bracey said. "He was never declared legally dead."

"We didn't know until this morning there was a flutter of life left," a Birckhead brother who refused to identify himself said Thursday.

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP) — There's nothing funny about being in the hospital, but many patients at Foothill Presbyterian Hospital are laughing anyway, thanks to 15-minute doses of tape-recorded cheer.

The Medic Alaff program has won the praise of administrators, doctors and nurses as well as patients.

"The tapes are the easiest way to provide laughter to patients," said Lynn Thompson, hospital director of volunteer services, who oversees the program. "I think we should do anything we can to have a patient laugh, because it breaks up the anxiety and fear."

Patient Carlyle Regele said the joke tape was new and different.

"I was surprised but found it was a nice moment when I could relax and get a few chuckles," he said. "Then I thought things were not that bad after all. It gave me a refreshing lift and it was kind of comforting."

The program, started in April, has cost less than $100, said Ms. Thompson.

She said she got the idea when she heard writer Norman Cousins make a presentation at a hospital convention. Cousins believes that laughter not only helps but also heals.

Cousins' theory was recently challenged by Dr. Barrie Cassileth of the University of Pennsylvania Cancer Center in the New England Journal of Medicine. His study concluded there was no difference in survival rates or recurrence rates between happy cancer patients and sad ones.

"We are not saying laughter cures," Ms. Thompson counters, "but we feel the quality of life is enhanced."

Seven volunteers offer patients three 15-minute tapes, including a medley of old favorites featuring Steve Allen's "More Funny Fone Calls," George Burns' "The Baby Song" and other excerpts.

The two other tapes were provided by personalities from Los Angeles radio station KFI and by humorist Erma Bombeck.

The jokes are clean and wholesome.

Tapes aren't thrust upon unwilling patients because some patients are too sick to respond, Ms. Thompson said.

Army doctors tell would-be soldier his feet weren't made for flying

NEW HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — The Army told Allen Pepke his feet would keep him out, so he's planning to walk to Washington to prove them wrong.

If an examination this week lead to rejection again after two months of trying, Pepke, 18, said he would hit the road for the 526-mile hike in hopes of delivering a letter asking President Reagan to intervene.

"I am going to be a military pilot one way or another," he said. "I have worked too hard not to."

A doctor at the Military Entrance Processing Station in Detroit told Pepke in July he had psoriasis of the feet, making him ineligible, Pepke said.

For more than a month, Pepke said, he has been walking six days a week along back roads around New Haven while wearing an Army uniform, backpack and combat boots.

WORLD

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops sealed off Tripoli on Friday and appeared ready to move in to quell a bloody 13-day power struggle in Lebanon's second-largest city.

During a morning lull in the fighting, unidentified gunmen shot to death 12 fleeing motorists on the city's outskirts, police said. Lebanese state radio branded the killings an "ugly massacre."

Moslem artillery positions in the hills above Beirut shelled President Amin Gemayel's palace. Presidential spokesman Rafik Shlala said one shell struck near the entrance, killing a member of the presidential guard and wounding three.

Shlala said Gemayel, who is a Maronite Catholic, was at his summer residence 10 miles northeast of Beirut with his family.

The Syrian army has strengthened its forces around Bahsas since Wednesday, demonstrating the Syrian government's impatience with feuding Moslem militias in Tripoli who are undermining Syrian efforts to end 10 years of civil war.

Police reported new rocket and artillery duels between the militias after the slaughter at Bahsas. They said eight people were killed and 19 were wounded.

Friday's casualties brought the known toll to at least 237 killed and 628 wounded since Sept. 15, when the militias began their latest battle for control of the port city 50 miles north of Beirut.

Municipal officials said about 600,000 of Tripoli's 850,000 residents have fled.

Battles between the Tawheed Islami, a Moslem fundamentalist militia backed by the Palestine Liberation Organization, and the Syrian-backed Arabian Knights of the Arab Democratic Party intensified again after the roadside killings.

Police said Syrian troops, who had been positioned in hills north, east and south of Tripoli, began closing in early Friday afternoon, blocking all roads.

Officials in Beirut said up to 3,500 Syrian soldiers armed with Soviet-built T-62 tanks, artillery and rocket-launchers have encircled Tripoli and exchanged fire with Tawheed positions near Bahsas.

Tawheed and the Arab Democratic Party have been fighting in Tripoli since December 1983, when Syrian-backed PLO rebels drove out PLO chairman Yasser Arafat and his guerrillas.

Syria charges that Arafat has been smuggling arms and men through Tripoli's harbor to boost Tawheed and maintain a foothold in Lebanon.

Syria maintains 25,000 troops in north and east Lebanon under a 1976 Arab League peacekeeping mandate. It is determined not to allow Arafat, its main Arab enemy, to challenge its grip on the nation.

School gives $1,500 for Mexican relief effort

AUSTIN (AP) — Students and teachers of Johnston High School presented Gov. Mark White a check of $1,500 Friday, their part of the drive to give $1 for every Texan to help Mexican earthquake suffers.

"This is our response to your appeal to help," said Principal Adan Salgado of the Southeast Austin school. He was accompanied by a number of students and teachers.

"I'm overwhelmed," White said. "This is just another indication that when people work together they can do a great deal of good. This is a great example of what people in every walk of life and every age can do to help gather emergency funds for people in great need."

Earlier in the week a statewide effort — Texas Response: Citizens for Mexican Relief — was announced with the goal of raising $15 million in Texas, $1 for each resident of the state.

White said no money had actually been sent to Mexico but as soon as the fund effort was fully under way there would be daily transfers from Austin to a special account in Mexico.

He said Thursday was the first day to receive contributions and the morning mail included 238 evelopes with out $5,000 from direct contributors.

"We are hoping there will be offering taken up at many churches Sunday throughout the state," White said, "and they will be added to the fund. Every bit of the money received will go to Mexico.

"I feel very encouraged by the response," he said.

Medical kit sent to Mexico City

HOUSTON (AP) — An emergency medical kit capable of serving 10,000 people has been sent from Houston to aid earthquake victims in Mexico City.

City Councilman Ben Reyes said he found a church congregation from Austin which came up with the $5,800 handling charge for the medical package which was flown from Amsterdam, cleared customs and then was put on a flight to Mexico City.

Reyes, who spent time in Mexico City earlier this week, said he would be returning with a Houston Fire Department team trained in the use of the "Jaws of Life," a hydraulic tool used to extricate people from collapsed buildings. Houston could not spare any of its four such tools, so Reyes convinced the city of New Braunfels and one in North Carolina to contribute.

In another relief effort, Houston radio station KLAT gave $22,000 donated by its listeners to Mexican Consul Hermilo Lopez-Bassolos to use for relief supplies. The Houston Area Red Cross, meanwhile, said cash donations so far have exceeded $67,500.

FDIC closes bank formerly owned by Cauble

DENTON (AP) — Western State Bank, formerly owned by convicted millionaire drug dealer Rex Cauble, was closed Friday by the Texas banking commissioner and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was named receiver, officials said.

The failed bank will reopen Monday as the Texas Bank of Denton, said Steve Katsanos, FDIC spokesman in Washington.

"Depositors will become depositors of the assuming bank subject to approval by the appropriate court," Katsanos said.

Friday's bank closure marks the eighth bank failure in Texas so far this year, he said, adding 84 banks have failed nationwide.

"Recent state examiniation revealed extensive deteroriation in asset quality bringing the bank to the brink of insolvency," said James L. Sexton, Texas banking commissioner.

The federal government gained controlling interest in the bank earlier this year in one of the largest forfeitures ever under federal racketeering laws. Cauble was ordered to give up nearly one-third interest in Cauble Enterprises.

The 71-year-old horse rancher and oilman was convicted in 1982 of violating federal racketeering, banking and criminal travel laws and was sentenced to five years in prison. He entered the Big Spring minimum federal prison in June 1984 to begin serving his sentence and was later transferred to La Tuna federal prison near El Paso for security reasons.

Texas Bank of Denton will assume about $21.4 million in 5,400 deposit accounts, including about $2 million in excess of the federal insurance limit of $100,000, and $1.3 million in 13 accounts placed by deposit brokers, who deposit money in banks that offer premium rates, Katsanos said.

Deposit brokers and the Bureau of Indian Affairs place large amounts of fully insured deposits in banks on the basis of the rate of interest paid, Katsanos said.

Deposits of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Western State Bank totaled $2 million, he said.

Worker dies when tractor-trailer falls into excavation site

DALLAS (AP) — A 43-year-old Dallas construction worker was killed Friday when a tractor-trailer rig trying to dump a load of sand apparently became unbalanced and fell into a 60-foot-deep downtown excavation site.

The truck's driver — Larry S. Nichols, 48, of Kaufman — walked away with only a scratch, but HCB Inc. employee Artis E. Smith died when the truck sent a load of steel reinforcing rods crashing onto him, police said.

Police spokesman Bob Shaw said more workers might have been killed had not a reserve policeman directing traffic, Vernon Tucker, seen what was happening and yelled below to warn the workers.

Cpl. Roy Hodgens, police accident investigator, said the truck fell 36 feet onto a steel deck, causing steel piled on the deck to fall 20 more feet, crushing the worker.

When the truck bed was raised to dump the sand, the bulk of the load remained on the truck bed, causing the truck to become imbalanced, he said.

Letters reveal novelist Wharton's affair

AUSTIN (AP) — A University of Texas professor and a graduate student say letters acquired by the university document for the first time an Edith Wharton love affair that scholars have suspected greatly influenced the American novelist's writings.

Twenty-five letters Ms. Wharton wrote from 1907 to 1915 to Morton Fullerton, a foreign correspondent for the London Times, were examined in print by Dr. Alan Gribben, associate professor of English, and doctoral student Claire Colquitt.

Their articles were were published in The Library Chronicle.

Dr. Dave Oliphant, senior editor of the quarterly publication, described the discovery of the Wharton letters as "quite a scholarly event that will change many interpretations of her life."

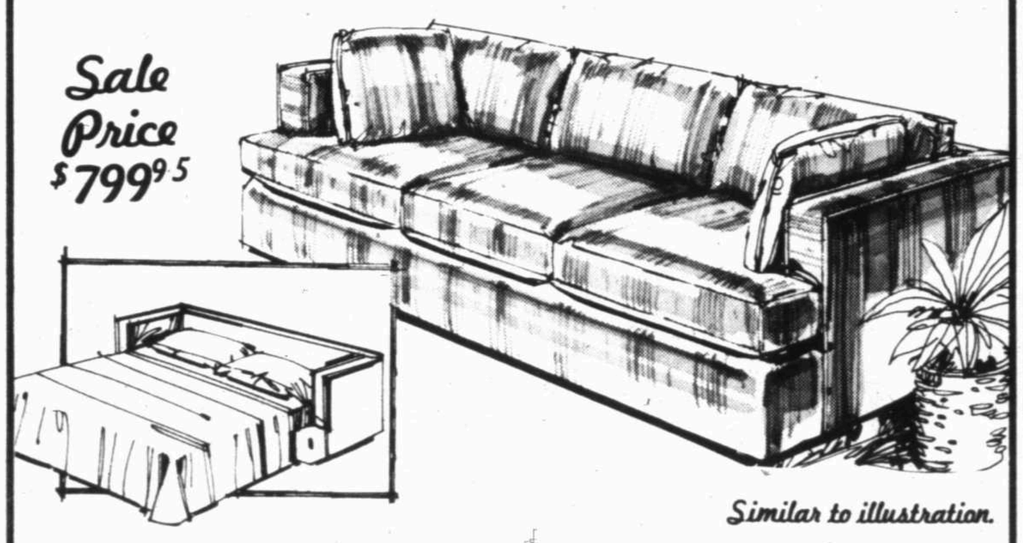

"It marks the first time this aspect of her life has been documented," Oliphant said. "The affair was often speculated by scholars but no proof was available before these letters."

Gribben writes that the letters, part of a collection of 300 acquired several years ago, "essentially confirm the deducations of R.W.B. Lewis, whose monumental and authoritative 'Edith Wharton: A Biography' revealed details of the hitherto-unsuspected love affair between Wharton and Morton Fullerton."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Cloudy, cool conditions expected

From Staff and Wire Reports

The Midland area will be in store for a cloudy and cool weekend as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal calls for increasing cloudiness today with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms.

Forecasters predict the high will be near 80 and winds will be southerly at 10 to 20 mph.

Temperatures tonight will be in the low 50s when the chance for rain increases to 30 percent.

Sunday will see decreasing cloudiness and cooler temperatures. The high is expected to be near 70.

Friday's high of 87 was 15 degrees below the record of 102 set in 1977. The low of 52 was 11 degrees above the record of 41 set in 1936.

STATE

A polar air dome moved out of Texas into the southern Mississippi Valley Friday, returning a brisk south wind to the Lone Star State that pushed temperatures into the 80s statewide.

Skies were mostly fair except for isolated rain along the coast and heavy thunderstorms that rumbled through the Trans Pecos, the National Weather Service reported.

By 4 p.m., the mercury surged into middle 80s to near 90, except for some readings in the lower 80s in East Texas. Wink was the hot spot at 90 degrees, while Houston was coolest with 80.

The Trans Pecos' thunderstorms were widely scattered from Fort Stockton to Van Horn. Showers and thunderstorms were isolated offshore 25 to 125 miles east to northeast of Brownsville.

In the forecast for North Texas, cloudiness should increase Saturday with scattered thunderstorms Highs should be in the 70s and 80s with lows in the 60s and 70s.

NATION

Hurricane Gloria struck the East Coast on Friday, doing less damage than had been feared before running aground in Connecticut, while a strong, winterlike storm dropped snow across northern Wyoming and Montana.

Gloria headed north Friday morning packing winds of 130 mph after smashing into North Carolina, but by evening in New England its maximum winds had dropped to 75 mph, minimal hurricane strength.

Gloria's heavy rains prompted flooding in eastern Pennsylvania, New York State, New Jersey and New England. But sunshine replaced heavy clouds from North Carolina to Massachusetts as the hurricane moved on.

Extended forecast

Monday Through Wednesday

West Texas: Partly and cooler Monday through Wednesday. Scattered showers or thunderstorms Monday and Tuesday and scattered light rain Wednesday; Panhandle: Lows in lower 50s. Highs Monday upper 60s falling to low 60s Wednesday; South Plains: Lows mid 40s. Highs mid 70s Monday dropping to mid 60s Wednesday; Far West, Permian Basin and Concho Valley: Lows in the 40s and 50s. Highs mid 80s Monday falling to 70s Wednesday; Big Bend region: Lows mid 40s mountains to upper 50s lowlands. Highs mountains Monday 70s falling to 60s Wednesday.

Border states forecasts

New Mexico: Considerable cloudiness statewide Saturday and Saturday night with widely scattered showers and thundershowers. Continued chance for showers north and east Sunday. Partly cloudy southwest. Lows Saturday night 30s and 40s mountains and mid-40s and 50s lower elevations. Highs Saturday and Sunday 60s to low 70s mountains and north to the mid-70s and low 80s south.

Midland statistics

WEATHER FORECAST

Today: Increasing cloudiness with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. High near 80. Southerly winds at 10 to 20 mph. Tonight: A 30 percent chance of thunderstorms. Low in the low 50s. Sunday: Decreasing cloudiness and cooler. High near 70.

Director of National Hurricane Center much in demand

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — By the time most East Coast residents arrived at work Friday morning, Dr. Neil Frank of the National Hurricane Center already had given more than a dozen live television interviews on Hurricane Gloria.

Frank, the 53-year-old director of the hurricane center, quickly became one of the most sought-after people in the country as Gloria edged up the coast toward the 30 million people living in the Washington-New York corridor.

Looking haggard from lack of sleep, Frank alternated between reporters' questions and punching in the latest update on the storm.

"He left at 1 a.m. and came back in at 6:15 a.m. this morning," said Don Witten, public affairs director for the National Weather Service.

Frank, a wiry ex-basketball player with expressive hand gestures who wears an unfashionable flat-top haircut, did 50 live interviews Wednesday, 75 on Thursday and was slated for 130 Friday, Witten said.

At 11:41 a.m., Frank pulled himself from a computer screen, where he had been working on another hurricane advisory, and moved to a chair in front of the television lights and cameras.

He would stay in that chair for much of the day, repeating his simply worded hurricane warnings over live television feeds to cities across the country.

Frank originally started out at Southwestern College in Winfield, Kan., as a physical education major with a goal of becoming a basketball coach. He later earned a master's and Ph.D. in meteorology at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

"I became interested in meteorology after finding out it wasn't the study of meteors," said Frank, who has never trained for on-camera work.

'Can't Pass' Rebels rally to win 12-7

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee's "can't pass" Rebels must have spent the week dreaming up ways to pull rabbits out of hats because when Big Bad Wolf tactics didn't work on the San Angelo Bobcats at Memorial Stadium Friday night, trickery did.

The Rebels pulled out two trick pass plays in the fourth quarter to take a 12-7 victory over the Bobcats in the District 4-5A opener for both teams, leaving around 10,000 limp fans in ectasy.

Lee catches a lot of joking flak about its lack of a passing attack, but when miracles are needed, they can wobble that pighide down field in big play fashion with the best of them.

And these two passes came from the most unlikely sources. Down 7-0 to San Angelo in the fourth period, halfback Durian Jenkins, a sophomore, hurled a third-and-one, 22-yard rain drop to senior split end Dexter Traylor to cut the margin to 7-6 as Mike Little missed on the extra point with 6:05 left in the game.

Lee finally got the ball back with 2:20 left in the game, but were 80 yards away from paydirt and looking like a 4-5A loser on opening night. Enter split end Terry Baxter from the bench to take a pitch from quarterback Tuey Rankin and toss a 77-yard "will-you-ever-come-down" bomb to Traylor for the winning score with only 1:34 left in the game.

"We pulled this one out of our hat," said a winded Lee coach Jack Tayrien after the game. "We just couldn't seem to score inside the 10-yard line, so we went with what we had. I promise we have no tricks left. We used everything we had to win this one."

Tayrien saw his team squander two scoring opportunities in the second half inside the San Angelo 10-yard line. The Big Bad Wolf huffed and puffed, but the Bobcat house wouldn't fall down. Then came the tricks.

Jenkins' toss to Traylor on the 22-yard TD wasn't a thing of beauty, but it got the job done.

"We worked on the play all week," said Jenkins. "It was set up well because they were supporting against the run. Still, I thought I threw it out of bounds at first."

But Baxter's 77-yard connection with Traylor was the back breaker for San Angelo.

"I knew the play would work, but I was nervous about it. I ran the play in from the sideline and had a while to think about it. I knew if I got the ball there, it would score. I worked on the play about 20 times this week after practice," said Baxter.

Traylor added, "I had to wait on both passes, but we knew they would work. On the first one, I went through with my regular block and then went outside and it was open. It felt like I had to wait a long time on Terry's throw to come down, but he's the only one on the team who can throw one that far. He got it there."

What was expected to be a high scoring affair, turned out to be a defensive struggle and that had Tayrien singing praises of his defense.

"I have to give a lot of credit to our defense for holding a team like San Angelo to seven points. The defensive coaches had a great game plan and the defense kept getting us the ball. Our offense wasn't all that bad, but we couldn't score when we got close."

San Angelo dominated the first half of play and halfback Charlie Good's 42-yard touchdown run off a great block by lineman Frank Bryan looked like it might be enough to beat the Rebels.

But the Lee offense and defense came out pumped up in the second half. San Angelo never threatened in the second half while Lee lived in the shadow of the Bobcat goal line and still looked like it might come up empty.

In the third period, Lee moved to the Bobcat three before quarterback Rankin stumbled out of the blocks and made a pitch to no one in the backfield on a fourth down play. San Angelo's Thomas Williams recovered to kill the drive.

Lee came right back on its next possession to march to the Bobcat one-yard line before running out of downs. San Angelo's Sam Sosa and Scott Melton made two big hits on Rebel backs to thwart the Lee effort. Things looked bleak at that point for Lee, but the unknown magicians of Jenkins and Baxter pulled out the victory.

San Angelo fullback C.L. Bowman, the leading rusher in 4-5A in 1984 with over 1,000 yards rushing, carried 31 times for the Bobcats for 144 yards, leading all rushers. Bowman had ankle surgery last spring and has not carried that many times in a game this year.

Don Hall, the leading district rusher coming into the game, was held to a meager 20 yards on 10 carries by the Lee defense. Hall was averaging over nine yards per carry this year.

Rankin led Lee with 62 rushing yards, but six Rebel backs split the remainder of the 191 yards rushing for Lee.

It was a big victory for the Rebels, who face a long, tough road to gain a third straight playoff berth. Abilene High and district favorite Odessa Permian tied, 7-7, Friday night in Abilene.

Hearing that Tayrien replied, "I said all along that this district was going to be a crazy thing to watch. After this first week, I don't think I'll have to tell anyone that again."

Reds keep pressure on LA Dodgers

Associated Press

Dave Parker hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning as the Cincinnati Reds whipped the Houston Astros 4-3 and kept pressure on the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West race.

The Reds moved within five games of Los Angeles in the NL West, pending the Dodgers' late game against San Francisco.

"Any home run is dramatic right now," said Parker, whose 30th homer tied a career high and whose league-leading 119th RBI set a career best. "We are trying to keep close to the Los Angeles Dodgers."

The St. Louis Cardinals, rained out in Montreal, picked up a half-game on New York in the NL East as the Mets dropped an 8-7 decision to Pittsburgh and fell 4½ games back.

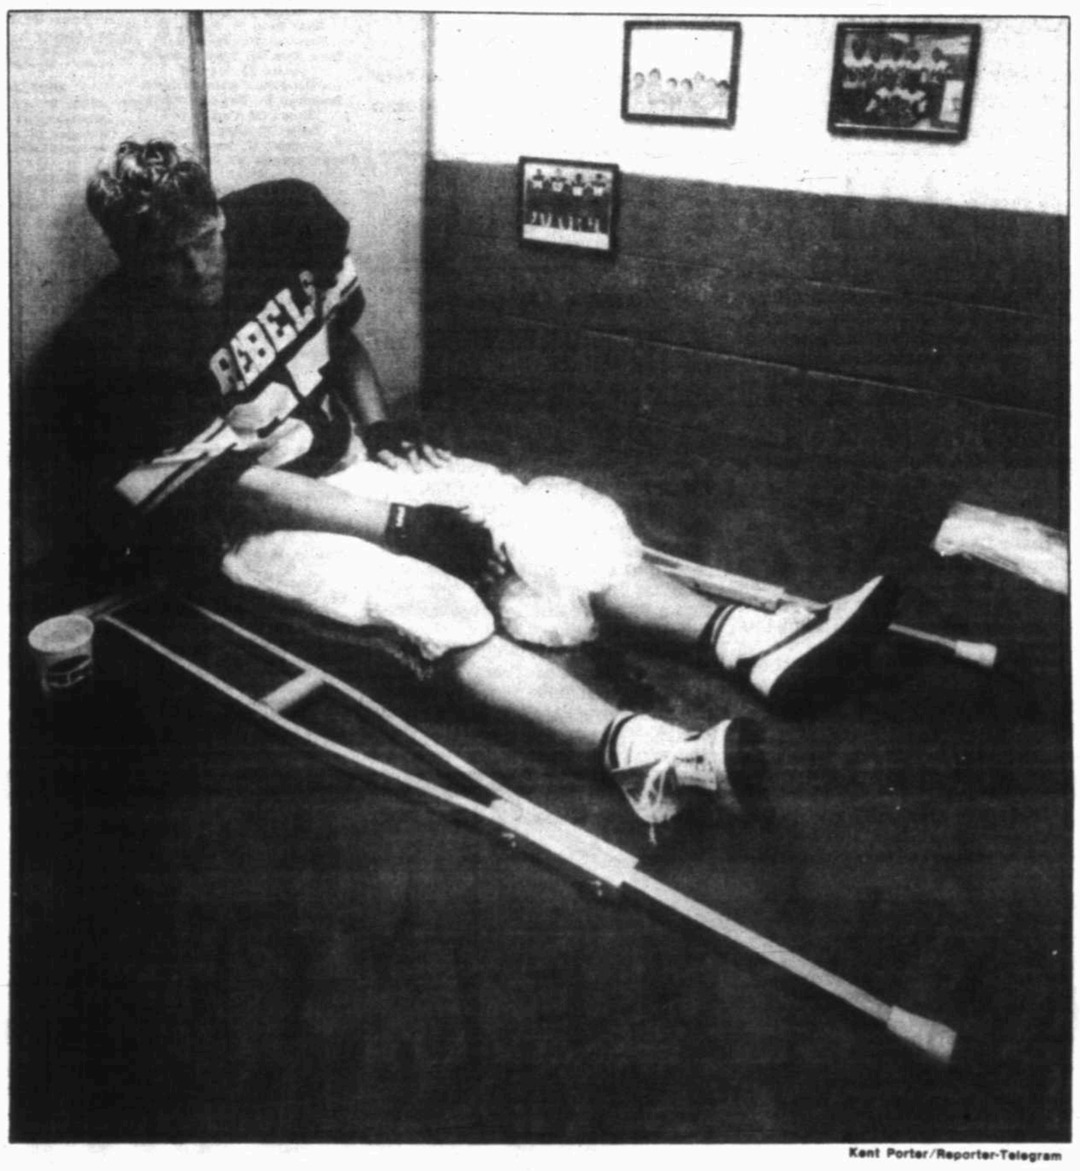

In the American League East, the Toronto Blue Jays defeated Milwaukee 5-1 and improved their lead to six games over the New York Yankees, who were rained out against Baltimore.

Both California and Kansas City lost, leaving the AL West race in a tie. The Angels were beaten by Cleveland 7-3 and Kansas City lost to Minnesota 4-1.

Detroit turned back Boston 5-1 in other AL action while Chicago beat Philadelphia 9-7 and San Diego swamped Atlanta 10-1 in the NL.

Adkinson runs over Steers

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

BIG SPRING — Injuries to two Midland High running backs didn't hamper the Bulldog rushing attack in the least Friday night as junior Anthony Adkinson picked up the slack, carrying the ball 22 times for 192 yards, including a 75-yard touchdown run, to lead Midland High to a 35-13 District 4-5A debut victory over Big Spring.

While Adkinson was taking care of the over-land chores, backfield mate Mark Johnson was doing the damage through the air, both offensively and defensively. Johnson hauled in three Matt Marcum passes for 76 yards to set up one TD run, and carried the ball over from short range twice.

"Anthony rushed for 192 yards!" said a jubilant Johnson. "Heck, I didn't rush for that much all of last year."

Adkinson was crediting everybody for his performance, including flanker Kenny De La Garza, "who threw a great block on their cornerback" to spring him on his way to the 75-yard TD.

Adkinson, who is a starter in the defensive secondary, got his call on offense Friday because regular starting halfback Jake Madrid has a shoulder injury. He was used sparingly on offense, but played most of the game in the defensive backfield.

"We worked with him all week but until now we didn't know how the offense would execute with him in there," said McCutchen. "If he wasn't getting the job done, Jake was ready to go but we wanted to keep him out to try and give him another week to heal."

With a 192-yard performance, you'd think it would be hard for Madrid to get his starting job back but, Adkinson will likely move back into his backup role, along with junior Tyrone Oliver, who was out with an ankle injury. The fact that he may not be starting doesn't bother Adkinson at all.

"We are all on the team and we have to cooperate," said Adkinson. "It's Jake's spot but I would still love to have it."

"Jake and Mark have done an outstanding job this year as seniors, they work well together," said McCutchen. "But, it's great to see a young back come through because it gives us someone we can put in there to spell Jake and Mark."

THE GAME started out like there would be no end to the scoring, 27 points in the first quarter alone.

Midland High took the opening kickoff and drove 74 yards on 14 plays for the first score with 8:10 left in the first quarter. Bobby Williams hit the first of his five extra points for a 7-0 lead.

Big Spring's Phillip Matthews countered the tally with a four-yard run three minutes later and Brian Reid kicked the PAT to tie the game at seven. It would be the last time the Steers and Bulldogs were tied, but the game wouldn't be decided until the second half.

A mere 22 seconds after the Steers' TD, the Bulldogs busted Adkinson loose on his 75-yard run down the right side line, a two-play, 80-yard drive.

Big Spring answered when Carl Speck capped a 10-play, 62-yard drive with a two-yard run. The Steers ended up going for two even though they wanted to tie the game at 14. However, the holder bobbled the snap on Reid's PAT attempt and the Bulldogs held the Steers out of the end zone on a desperate run for two. 14-13.

TED BATTLES

TCU, Tech look good with points

It won't live up to the 1935 meeting between these two. While most people regard the 1969 Texas-Arkansas game as perhaps the most memorable in SWC annals, the TCU-SMU game is the one this corner will always remember as THE game.

It was played in a less complex, more innocent era, but even from 2,000 miles away it was about as big as a game could be....for the Rose Bowl between two unbeaten, untied teams led by super stars Sammy Baugh and Bobby Wilson.

And even though it wasn't on TV, the excitement of SMU's 20-14 win over the Frogs that year made a SWC convert.

Unfortunately, what is transpiring off the field has overshadowed the stakes of the game itself, not only for these two rivals, but for an entire league. Still, once the game starts, we'll forget the rest for a couple of hours, but the other will still be there to be dealt with when it's over.

The SWC...

TCU plus 10 over SMU— Before the season started, it loomed as potentially the SWC Game of the Year. Instead it will be played tonight under the dark cloud of suspicion and in atmosphere of impending doom.

Texas Tech plus eight over Baylor— If ever there was an opportune spot for an upset it's here. Bears are coming off games with Georgia and USC, the latter a nation-quaking victory, and how can a team that has just beaten Tailback U. take Tech seriously. And should Raiders win, who knows what the Little Engine Who Couldn't might do.

Texas minus 3 1/2 over Stanford— Who knows what the Cardinals have this year. Whatever, it shouldn't be enough to trouble Longhorns.

Texas A&M minus 10 over Tulsa— My broker claims this is a high risk pick, but Hurricane must be feeling wear-and-tear of brutal schedule.

The Big Ones....

Tennessee plus seven over Auburn— It started out at four, no telling what it will be by game time, but any team that can tie the team that beat BYU....

Georgia minus seven over South Carolina- Gamecocks learned the facts of Big 10 life last week and now it's the facts of life in SEC...

Iowa State plus 20 over Iowa— It's not that I like Iowa State, it's just that I like points, 20 of 'em...

Boston College plus 4 1/2 over Miami— Doug Flutie is gone, it's true, but the memory lingers.

Notre Dame minus four over Purdue— And it's at West Lafayette, but I like to live dangerously.

Michigan minus 1 1/2 over Maryland— Terps don't play in the same league as the Wolverines.

USC minus 1 1/2 over Arizona State— Another high risk game. Any time Trojans go to Tempe, it means trouble and that's where this one is.

Pitt plus 1 /2 over West Virginia— Panthers due. Mountaineers don't.

Rutgers plus five over Penn State— I picked Scarlet Knights as No. 1 in land and I'm stuck with 'em.

East Carolina plus 2 1/2 over Temple— Owls best 0-3 team in the country and will be the best 0-4 in the land after this one.

The pros....

Dallas minus five over Houston— Will the real Cowboys please stand up? And will the real Oilers make their presence known? Which ever one shows up should win.

The first American to run a sub four-minute mile?

Friday's Answer: BYU has the best record in college football for the 1980s with a 55-8-0 going into the season.

Baseball Today...

Sept. 28

1919 — In the shortest nine-inning game in major league history — 51 minutes — the New York Giants beat the Phildelphia Phillies 6-1.

1920 — A Chicago grand jury indicted eight members of the Chicago White Sox on charges of fixing the 1919 World Series. It became known as the "Black Sox Scandal."

1932 — Lou Gehrig's two-run homer helped the New York Yankees beat the Chicago Cubs 12-6 in the first game of the World Series.

1938 — Gabby Hartnett hit his famous "home run in the dark" in the ninth inning against Mace Brown to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-5 victory — their ninth straight — at Wrigley Field. It was a key triumph en route to the Cubs' National League pennant

1941 — Ted Williams, who went into the season-ending doubleheader batting .401, refused to sit out the games to keep his average over .400. He played against the Phildelphia A's and went 6-for-8 to finish at .406. Nobody has batted .400 since.

1951 — Allie Reynolds pitched his second no-hitter of the season as the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Red Sox 8-0 in the opener of a doubleheader. The Yankees clinched the American League pennant with an 11-3 victory in the nightcap.

1974 — Nolan Ryan of the California Angels pitched his third of five career no-hitters, striking out 15 batters and beating the Minnesota Twins 4-0 at Anaheim Stadium.

Rankin nipped 21-20 by Forsan

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

RANKIN—Highly regarded Forsan escaped with its life here Friday night, scoring two second half touchdowns then holding off a furious Red Devil comeback in the final seconds for a 21-20 non-district win.

The Buffaloes, now 4-0 and ranked No. 8 in the Harris poll last week, plowed their way to touchdowns in their first two second-half possessions to overcome a 12-7 halftime deficit and take the lead for good.

"Those two possessions killed us," said Rankin head coach Dwayne Turner after seeing his team's record slip to 2-2. "They flat ran over us in the third quarter. We got back to things in the fourth quarter and started playing defense again."

The backbreaker for the Devils was a 12-play, 71-yard drive that started midway into the third quarter and finished at 11:03 of the final period. The clincher was an 11-yard run by quarterback Brant Nichols. Nichols also scored the first Forsan touchdown on a 37-yard interception return.

"WE ARE slow on offense, we have to run those power plays up the middle, and with our big backs (185 and 205 pounds) we just wear people down after a while," said Forsan coach Jan East.

And wear down Rankin in the third quarter they did. The Buffaloes churned up 106 yards, 95 on the ground, in those two drives in the second half. And it looked like they would do that all night.

Permian 7, Abilene 7

ABILENE— Abilene High shocked the Texas football world by tying No. 1 ranked Odessa Permian, 7-7, in the District 4-5A football opener here Friday night.

Both teams scored in the second period and then played defense the rest of the night.

Permian struck first as Nolan Watson took a nine-yard pass from Jason Harrington and Woodyn Bryant added the all-important, as it turned out, extra point.

Abilene High preserved its unbeaten status when Michael Keith flipped an 11-yard pass to Gerald Bailey and Melvin Davis kicked the point to tie it at seven.

The stalemate leaves both teams with 3-0-1 records going into next week's action. Permian faces Big Spring at Permian while Abilene takes on Midland High.

Although Abilene earned a tie, Permian did hold an edge in the statistics, rolling up 15 first downs to 13 and amassing 272 yards offense to 187 for Abilene.

ODESSA— Odessa High raised its record to 4-0 with a 28-16 victory over tougher than expected Abilene Cooper in a District 4-5A opener at Ratliff Stadium Friday night.

After a wild first half in which the Broncos led 19-10, OHS took charge in the second half.

Cooper charged to an early lead on an eight-yard run by Bill Dehlinger, who then added the two-pointer. After Odessa countered on a 37-yard run by Garry Powell, Cooper added a safety when a punt rolled out of the end zone.

Before intermission, however, Odessa began to assert itself, first on a six yard TD run by Powell and then Ed Lewis erupted for 51 yards.

Odessa added to the decisiveness in the third period when Powell broke 86 yards for his third TD of the night.

Cooper's David Nowlin scored on an 18-yard run, but then was tackled in the end zone for a safety.

Cooper is 0-4 for the season.

Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Jodie Mudd holed out twice from off the green — once for an eagle-2 — compiled the lowest two-round total of the year and established a 4-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $350,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

Mudd, 25, not yet a winner in four years of PGA Tour activity, chipped in for a birdie and holed out a 110-yard wedge shot for an eagle-2 on his way to a second round 65.

That's five under par on the 6,576 yard Oak Hills Country Club course and and combined with an opening 64 to give Mudd a 129 total for 36 holes, the lowest on the tour this season.

"I've been playing good for about a month now. I'm thinking good on the golf course and striking the ball well," said Mudd, who has had two runner-up finishes this year and has collected $132,923.

"You can't anticipate what's going to happen on the weekend. But if things keep going my way, I've got a real good chance of winning," said the young man who has been second and eighth in his last two starts.

With first round leader Mike Gove taking himself out of it, Tony Sills and Mark Hayes came on to share second at the tournament's halfway point at 133, seven under par. Sills shot a 63 in the mild, sunny weather and Hayes had a 67.

They were followed by Steve Jones at 68-134 and Danny Edwards at 66-135. John Mahaffey, Frank Conner and Steve Pate were in a group at 136.

Marathon

Ireland's Ray Flynn calls the 5th Avenue Mile "the daddy of all mile road races," and he is considered one of the favorites for today's weather-plagued race down in New York. 'On the roads, this is the one people want to win." Flynn, 28, with a world record 3 minutes, 49.77 seconds on the track at Oslo, Norway, in 1982, is unbeaten in four road races this year...

Boxing

Barry McGuigan keeps a promise to his fanatical hometown fans today when he defends his WNBA featherweight title for the first time, facing No. 1 challenger Bernard Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., in Belfast. The bout at 1:30 p.m. on ABC....

Baseball

Hank Aaron says major league players should agree to Commissioner Peter Ueberroth's call for voluntary drug testing in order to erase a black mark against the game. "I travel a lot, and I know that when people talk about baseball these days, they talk about drugs... This should have been a great, great year for baseball, with Pete Rose breaking Ty Cobb's record and all that, but it's been a black-mark year for the game because of the drug scandals."... We must restore the game's image. I love baseball, and I hate walking through airports and being asked, 'What about the drug thing? Are all the players on drugs?' "...

Golf

Unheralded Kazushige Kono fired a 67 for 137 for a one-stroke lead Friday in the Gene Sarazen Jun Classic. First-round leader Masahiro Kuramoto dropped to second place on a 72—138. Payne Stewart shared third at 139...

Tu Ai-yu and Cheng Mei-chi and Japan's Shihomi Suzuki shots 70s to share the Kasido Asahi Cup...

Roofs

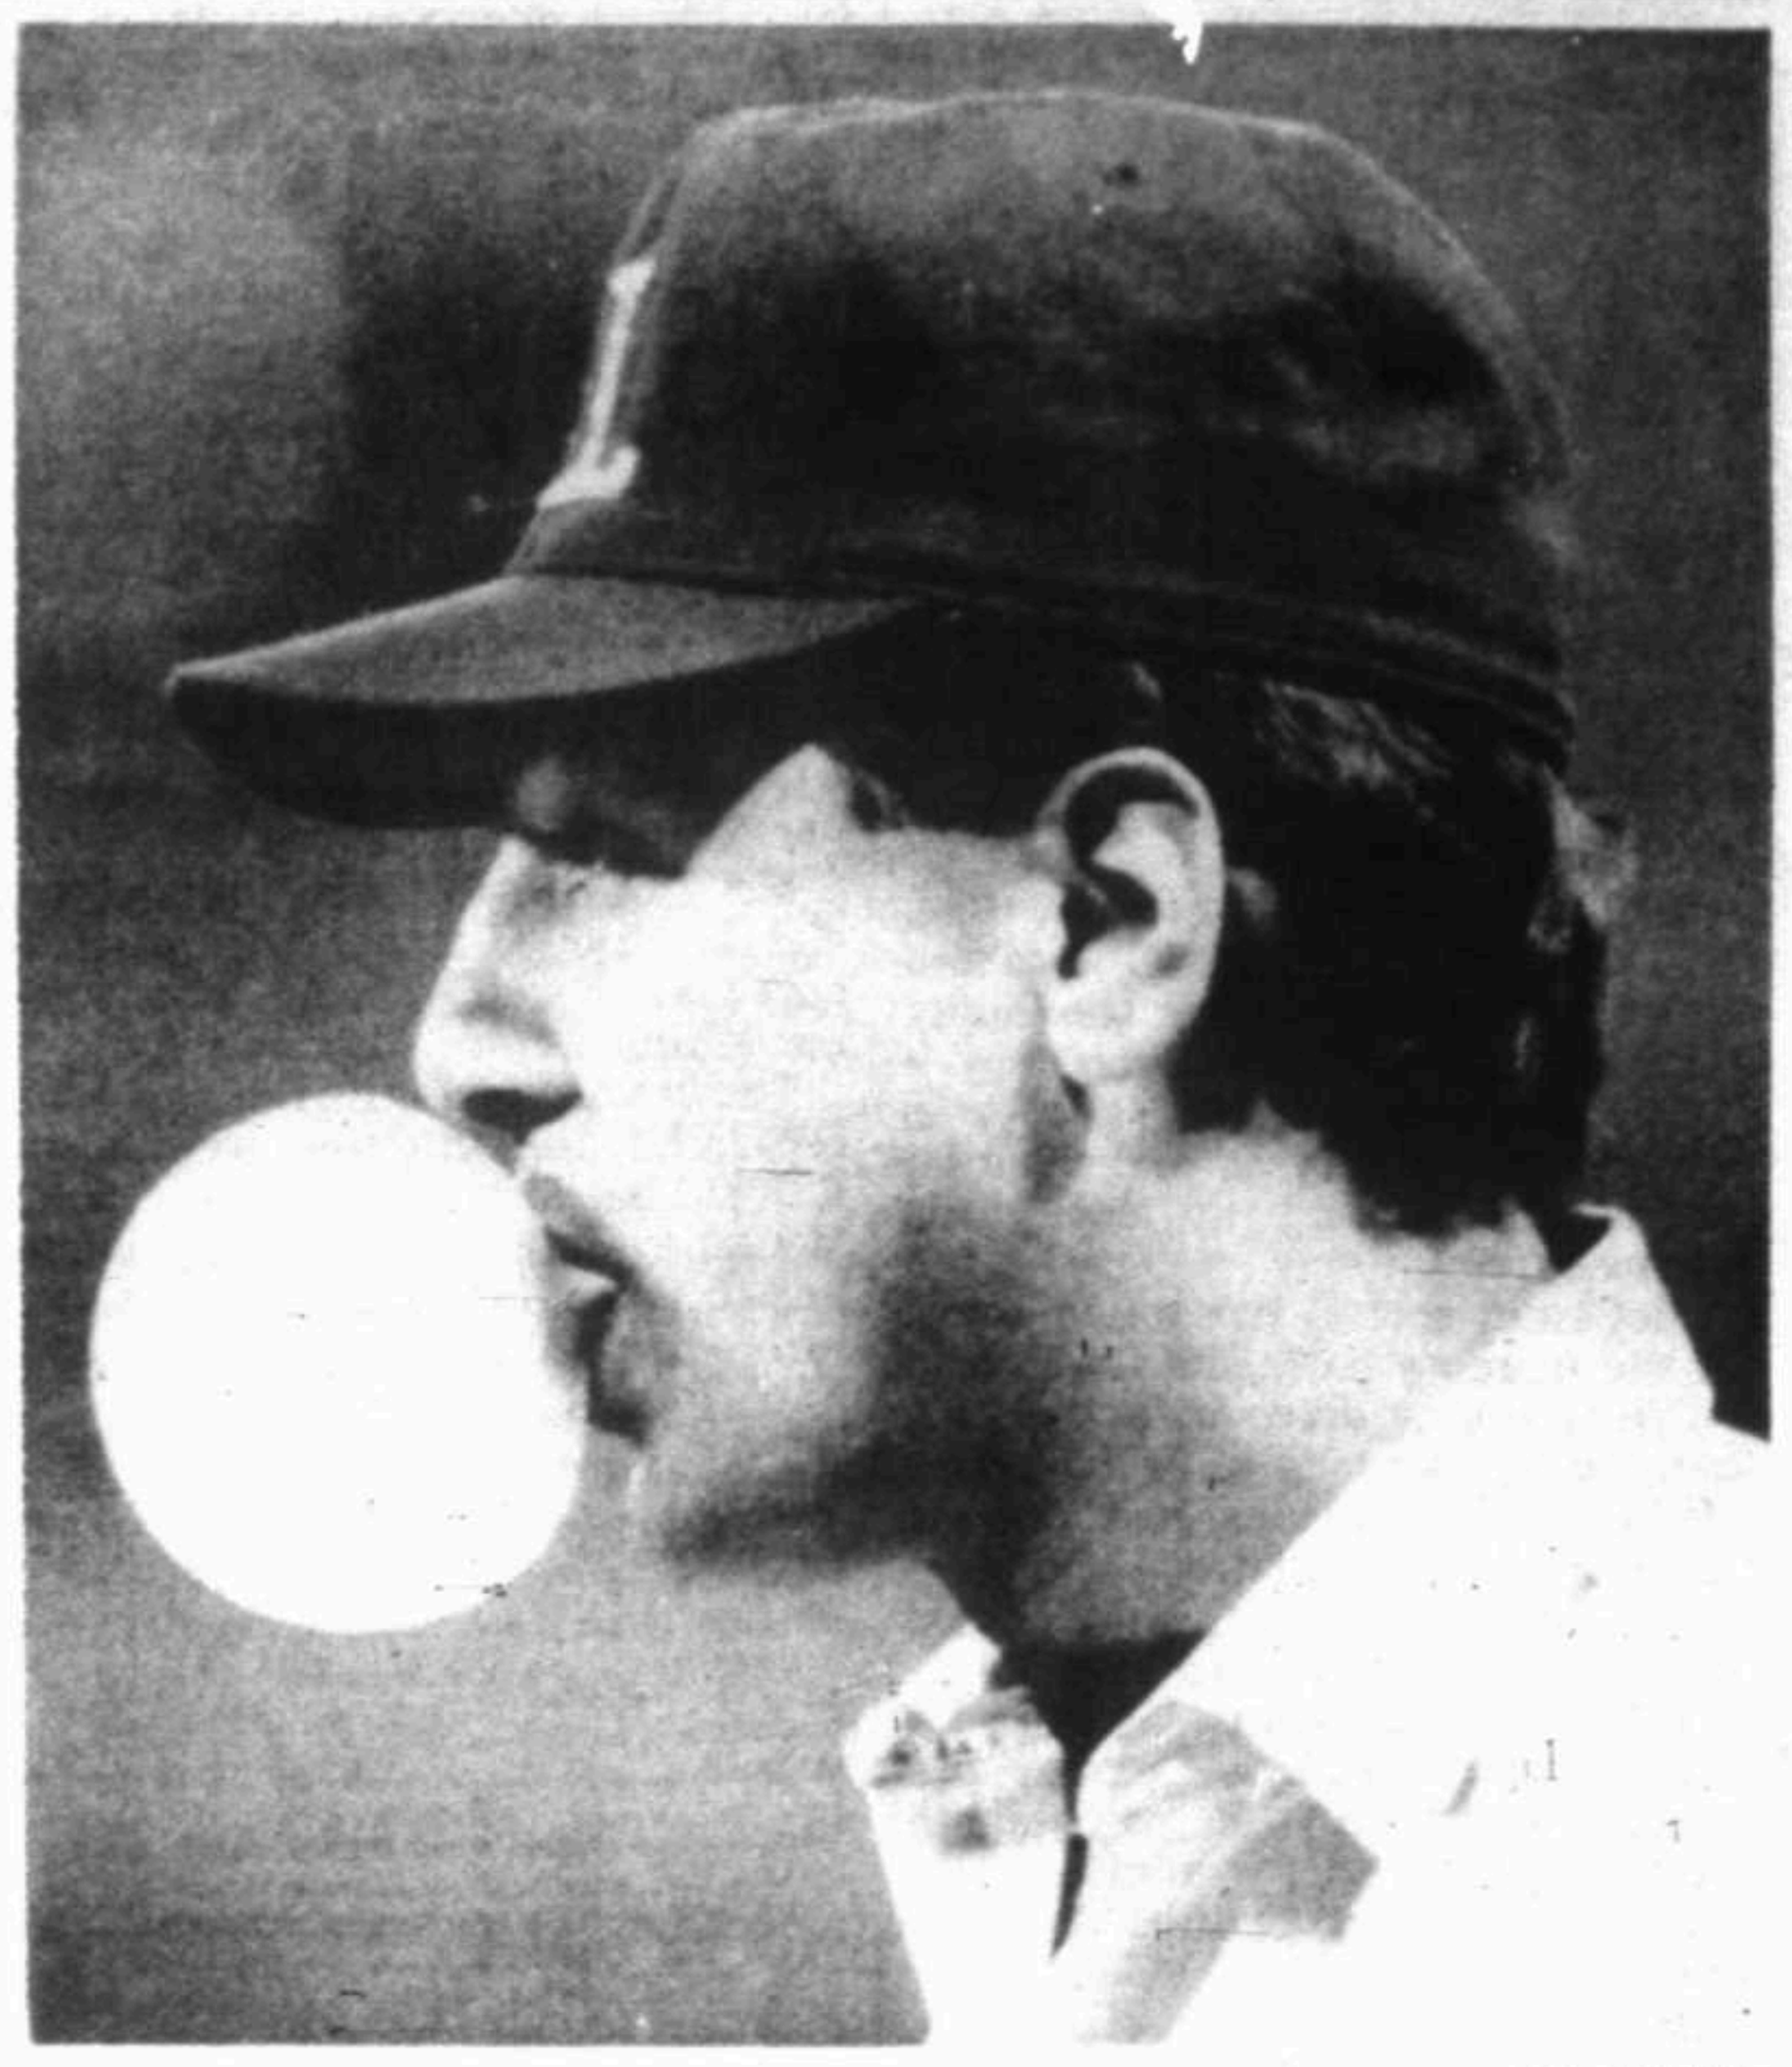

After years of living with the unfinished Olympic Stadium in the east end, Montrealers are finally going to see some progress on finishing its tower and roof. The first phase of visible construction on the mast was started Thursday as a crane hoist into place a 14-tonne steel shell component. The retractable canvas roof suspended on cables from the mast will be put in place in the spring of 1987, just in time for the baseball season...

Football

Former punter Russell Erxleben lost his bid to collect $255,000 in damages over a sportscast that said he cost New Orleans a 1983 game by failing to carry out a fake punt. Sportscaster Buddy Diliberto, Erxleben's suit said, falsely reported that it was supposed to be a fake punt, but Erxleben kicked the ball downfield. The punt was returned 72 yards for a touchdown in a game that the Los Angeles Rams won 26-24 to decide which team would go to the playoffs. It was the closest the Saints ever came to postseason play...

NFLPA Executive Director Gene Upshaw charged NFL teams with singling out union representatives in making roster cuts. "It's become a joke around the league that if you're a player rep then you are on the hot seat and your career is cut short." Eight of the 32 players serving as player representatives, including union president Tom Condon and three other members of the union's executive board, were cut by NFL teams this year...

Tulsa President J. Paschal Twyman refused to discuss the allegations against the former Hurricane coach F.A. Dry. "I'm not getting involved in any past historical study of our records. F.A. Dry is a man out of history... F.A. Dry has been gone nine years. We're on our second football coach since then."...

Ueberroth ponders druggies' punishment

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said Friday he was withholding final judgment on whether to punish any of the game's admitted drug users who already have testified at the Pittsburgh trials of two convicted drug dealers.

"I'm still thinking about what to do," Ueberroth said after presiding over a seven-hour meeting of baseball's owners held in Chicago because a similar session was cancelled this summer while the players prepared to strike.

Ueberroth said the only business actually resolved during the meeting was the development a set of guidelines to be followed by the "dozen or so" cities seeking to acquire a major league franchise in any expansion move.

He said the guidelines were designed to cover the relocation or resale of an exisiting franchise as well.

However, Ueberroth declined to reveal any of the details "until the cities that are interested get a copy. It should just be a matter of days."

Ueberroth said an owners' committee would then listen to proposals from interested groups, possibly as early as November.

But drugs, and what to do about the appearance of impropriety in the game, Ueberroth said, was the No. 1 topic of discussion Friday.

"I plan to talk to each (ballplayer who testified) as an individual," he said. "As soon as (the trials) are over, we'll have our own situation. I've already ordered (copies of) the trial transcripts.

"But I will stress I'm not going to rule in a hurried way," he said.

BASEBALL

Reds 4, Astros 3

With one out in the eighth inning and the Reds trailing 3-1, Eddie Milner singled off Houston starter Jeff Heathcock. One out later, Pete Rose singled off reliever Jeff Calhoun, 2-5. Parker then hit the first pitch into the right-field seats at Riverfront Stadium.

Pirates 8, Mets 7

Lee Mazzilli pinch-hit a tie-breaking single and Joe Orsulak drove in two runs with an infield hit as Pittsburgh rallied for six runs in the third inning and held on to beat New York.

The Pirates trailed 5-2 before sending 11 batters to the plate against three New York pitchers in an inning kept alive by third baseman Howard Johnson's error, which led to four unearned runs.

Blue Jays 5, Brewers 1

Jesse Barfield and Cecil Fielder hit consecutive home runs in the fourth inning, and Lloyd Moseby and Damaso Garcia added solo homers to power Toronto over Milwaukee.

Winner Dave Stieb, 14-12, allowed seven hits before leaving in the ninth to break his three-game losing streak. Dennis Lamp got the final three outs for his second save.

Indians 7, Angels 3

Andre Thornton's two-run double highlighted a five-run fourth inning and Neal Heaton and Vern Ruhle combined on a five-hitter to lead Cleveland over California.

Loser Mike Witt, 13-9, set down the first nine Cleveland batters before the Indians scored five times in the fourth.

Twins 4, Royals 1

Frank Viola pitched a three-hitter and Gary Gaetti and Kirby Puckett hit fifth-inning home runs as Minnesota beat Kansas City.

Viola, 17-14, matched his career low-hit game with his third three-hitter in the major leagues. He struck out five and walked one in winning his fourth straight game. The only hit Viola allowed in the first five innings was Frank White's 21st homer of the season in the second.

Tigers 5, Red Sox 1

Alan Trammell hit a two-run homer and Walt Terrell gave up one run over 7 2-3 innings as Detroit beat Boston.

Terrell, 14-10, took a four-hitter and a 3-0 lead into the eighth, but needed relief help from Willie Hernandez, who gained his 31st save.

Cubs 9, Phillies 7

Leon Durham hit a three-run homer off Kent Tekulve, 4-10, his 20th of the season, in the seventh inning, to lift Chicago over Philadelphia.

Padres 10, Braves 1

Eric Show scattered eight hits and drove in four runs, three with his first homer of the year, to lead San Diego over Atlanta.

Show, 12-10, became the second winningest pitcher in Padre history with his 53rd victory. He had been tied with Clay Kirby.

McCamey 63, Van Horn 0

By Allen Turpin
MRT Correspondent

McCAMEY— The McCamey Badgers used an awesome offensive and defensive display to crush the totally outclassed Van Horn Eagles, 63-0.

The Badgers held the Eagles to only four first downs and 59 total yards while piling up 484 yards themselves.

McCamey scored five touchdowns in the opening half. The first came on the opening drive with the Badgers going 44 yards in seven plays. McCamey then recovered a fumble deep in Eagle territory and five plays later quarterback Rob Adams plunged in from the five.

After scoring again late in the first quarter, McCamey started the second period with Adams going 45 yards around end for another TD.

McCamey struck again as time ran out in the half with a 10-yard TD pass from Adams to Juan Carillo. The halftime score was 35-0.

In the second half, McCamey scored every time it touched the ball with drives of 43, 84, 29, and 38 yards.

The victory gives the Badgers a 3-1 record heading into next week's traditional battle with Crane at Crane. McCamey, after an opening game loss to Iraan, has followed with victories over Marfa and Alpine and Van Horn.

Greenwood rolls again

From Staff Reports

GRANDFALLS — The Greenwood Rangers continued on its high scoring unbeaten binge here Friday night with a 45-0 win over Grandfalls. Greenwood is now 4-0 on the season.

Quarterback Chad Longley had a big night, hitting on four touchdown passes of three, five, 15 and 14 yards. Longley threw 31 times in the game, completing 18 of them. Garrett Madison and Todd Martin had TD runs of 35 and four yards respectively as the Rangers scored at will.

Longley connected on TD passes to Mitch Graham, Abel Morales and two to Bobby Clark.

Greenwood rushed for 282 yards and passed for an additional 184.

Greenwood will host Rankin next Friday in another non-conference contest. This area battle should be a feature West Texas duel.

Stanton 12, Ozona 6

OZONA— Stanton's Buffaloes scored touchdowns in the middle two periods for a 12-6 victory over the Ozona Lions here Friday night. The win leveled the Buffs' record at 2-2.

With 8:47 left in the second period, tailback James Vidal broke loose on a 17-yard run to give Stanton a 6-0 lead.

In the third period, it was an 10-yard pass from quarterback Ship Hopkins to Stan Young that gave the Herd the winning margin. The score came with 7:51 left in the quarter.

Ozona averted a shutout 8:06 from the end and kept the fans in suspense when Steve Sanchez connected with Harvey Fierro on an eight-yard scoring pass.

Michael Holt gained 92 yards in 24 carries for Stanton while defensively Carlos Ortiz and Hector Ramirez both came up with interceptions. Holt also made a fumble recovery.

Hokpkins came up from the JV to start for the Buffs Friday.

LUBBOCK— Monahans and Lubbock Estac do battled to a 0-0 tie here Friday night, the first blemish on the record of the 4-4A power after three wins. Estacado last week defeated Midland High, but couldn't solve the Lobos' tough defense at Lowery Field.

Pecos 38, Lubbock Dunbar 0

Pecos previously defeated El Paso Riverside and Carlsbad, N.M. bock Estacado

All of the other Distric 4-4A teams were idle Friday night while preparing for next week's league openers.

Andrews (1-2) will travel to Lamesa to take on the rejuvenated Tornado (3-0) in an 8 p.m. game while Sweetwater (2-1) hosts Snyder, Fort Stockton (2-1) hosts Monahans and Lake View (1-2) will be at Pecos.

Sweetwater an 0-18 loser to Abilene, also holds impressive 57-0 and 42-0 wins over Clyde and Breckenridge, respectively, and remains the only favorite. Lamesa's victories have come over Levelland, 22-13, Brownfield, 22-8, and Seminole, 20-3. And it was Levelland which last week defeated Andrews, 13-0.

Midland College takes golf 2nd

LEVELLAND— David Pritchee and Randy Winn shot 72s to lead Midland College to a second place finish in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference golf tournament at South Plains College Friday. Odessa College took first with 286, eight strokes in front of Midland.

New Mexico Junior College was third with NMMI at 297. South Plains posted a 300 and Western Texas Collegfe a 302.

Other Midland scores included Raymond Cole 75, Leon Van Rensburg 75, Steve Alexander 76, and Eddie Valdes 82. Cole was three under after eight holes, but then lost his touch.

RANKIN

But Rankin regrouped after those drives and scored its final touchdown on the next possession. It was sophomore quarterback Mick McCravey who did the damage, just as he had done all night. McCravey broke open a sneak up the middle and took it outside for a 51-yard touchdown run. Then it was McCravey again on the two-point conversion to bring the Red Devils within one, 21-20.

THE touchdown inspired the Rankin defense as it shored up on two straight Forsan possessions and gave McCravey one more shot at a potential game-winning drive, when the Devils got the ball back with 1:13 to go. But then, it was time for Forsan's defense to show why it had allowed just one touchdown in three ballgames before facing the Devils.

With the ball on its own 40, Rankin was stopped on four straight plays, three of them passes as it tried to get in range for a field goal.

"We threw the ball and maybe we should've gone for another wide running play," Turner said. "But we were just trying to get in field goal range. And (Steven) Cole was kicking them from 35-40 yards out in practice before the game."

But the Buffalo defense stiffened and Cole never got his chance.

In the first half, McCravey was the show for Rankin, as Turner had to go without star fullback Randy Fulton most of the night.

McCravey, already a second-year starter, proved he was up to it.

With his team down 7-0 after Nichols' interception return for TD, and seemingly going nowhere on offense, McCravey rolled left and busted a 76-yard run for a touchdown. But the extra point was blocked, a point Rankin was to miss all night long.

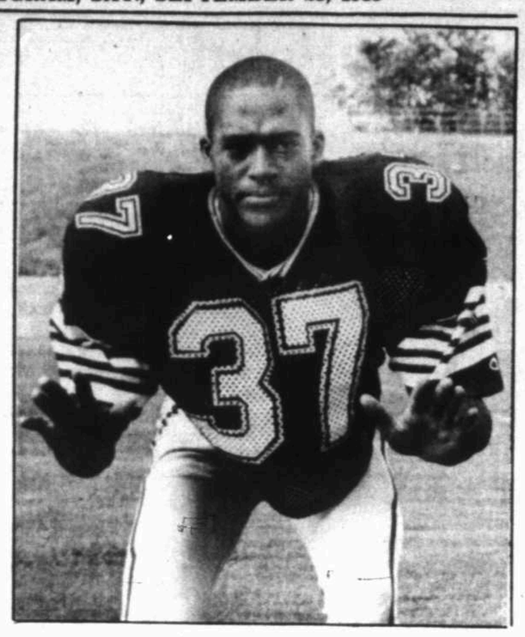

It was McCravey again who sparked the second Rankin touchdown drive in the second period. After George Abalos recovered a Forsan fumble deep in Buffalo territory, it took McCravey just three plays to take the lead.

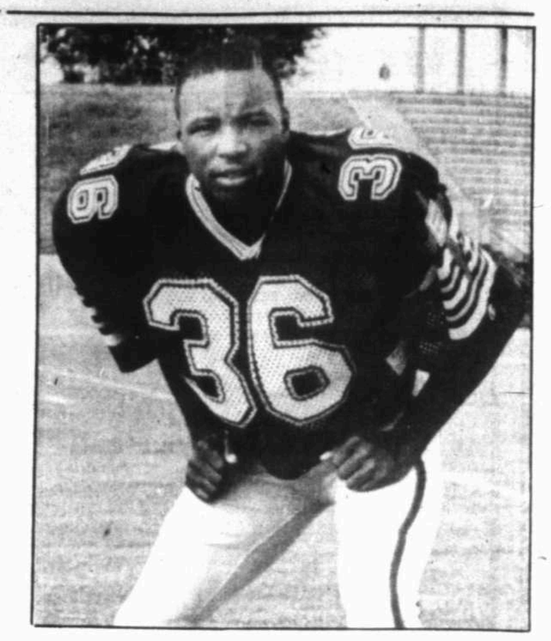

ROLLING OUT again, McCravey this time hit receiver Steven Cole with a 28-yard bomb into the end zone for a 12-7 lead. Going for two, McCravey's completion to Cole came up just short in the far right corner.

Although McCravey gained 154 yards on the ground for Rankin, Turner was thinking about how effective he might have been had Fulton been 100 per cent.

"Randy (Fulton) runs the middle trap as well as anyone I've ever had here, and the defense has to respect that. We really could've turned McCravey loose on the outside then."

But Turner will have to wait for next week on that one, when the Devils travel to Greenwood for a test with their larger neighbor to the north.

Former Midland Lee gridders Andre Mayfield, left, and Mike Wallace are starters at Eastern New Mexico. Wallace plays strong safety and has made seven tackles so far while Mayfield is playing free safety for the Greyhounds.

TCU, SMU forget troubles

Tech tries giant-killing Bears

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

SWC Football

Texas Christian and Southern Methodist put aside their NCAA problems long enough Saturday night to open their Southwest Conference seasons in a series marked by its intensity and lack of recent success by the Horned Frogs.

SMU is currently serving a three-year NCAA probation and is ineligible to win the SWC title.

TCU, one of the five schools SMU officials say turned them in, has dismissed seven players from the team for taking gifts from boosters. The NCAA was on the campus this week while TCU prepared for the SMU game which will draw a near sellout crowd of 40,000.

"The NCAA investigation has been a distraction but I think we'll be ready to play," said TCU Coach Jim Wacker. "We're very young on defense but we'll play hard I guarantee you that."

SMU Coach Bobby Collins said he is concerned that the Mustangs haven't played a game in three weeks.

"It's like starting the season all over again," Collins said. "We know what TCU is going through is tough. We had to go through the same thing ourselves."

In another top SWC scrap, unbeaten Texas Tech (3-0) travels to Waco to meet those bad Baylor Bears who knocked off the nation's No. 3-ranked Southern California Trojans last Saturday night. The Bears are 2-1 with a victory over Wyoming and a narrow loss to Georgia.

Regional television cameras will capture the noon kickoff with some 30,000 fans expected on Parent's Day. Oddsmakers see Baylor as a 10-point pick.

SMU is also a 10-point favorite over TCU in a game to be televised at 6:45 p.m. by ESPN in Fort Worth's Amon Carter Stadium.

Five TCU starters will be missing from defense and All-American running back Kenneth Davis will be gone from the offense because of the scandal.

The Texas Longhorns are also on television this week, traveling to Stanford for a 2:50 p.m. (CBS) game.

The Longhorns, who opened with a 21-17 victory over Missouri, are a field goal favorite over the Cardinals.

In other games, Texas A&M was a 10-point pick over the Tulsa Golden Hurricane in Kyle Field; Arkansas was a 31-point selection over New Mexico State at Little Rock; Houston was a 10-point favorite over Louisville; and Rice was a field goal choice to end the nation's longest losing streak by defeating Lamar University.

The manpower-shy Frogs received another jolt during the week when it was learned that starting defensive right tackle Frank Hawkins suffered a broken thumb Saturday in the 24-22 victory over Kansas State.

The last TCU win was in 1971 when the Horned Frogs won 18-16 in Fort Worth, but the last five games have been extremely close, the Mustangs winning by a six-point average. SMU is 15-16-5 in Fort Worth.

"It didn't surprise me," said Moore. "Baylor can physically line up with those kind of teams. They have a very big offensive line and Tom Muecke and Cody Carlson are dangerous quarterbacks.

"They thumped the only wishbone team they have played (Wyoming). We may change back to the I-Formation."

Tulsa will be playing its fourth SWC team when the Hurricanes meet A&M. Tulsa whipped Houston, and lost to Texas Tech and Arkansas, 24-0 last week.

The Razorbacks will be without punt returning star Bobby Joe Edmonds for disciplinary reasons. He had a pair of long punt returns last week to set up easy Razorback scores.

Texas is 14-5 against teams from the Pac-10 Conference.

The SWC is 12-6 against outside schools.

Herzog claims 11 Redbirds were heavy users of cocaine

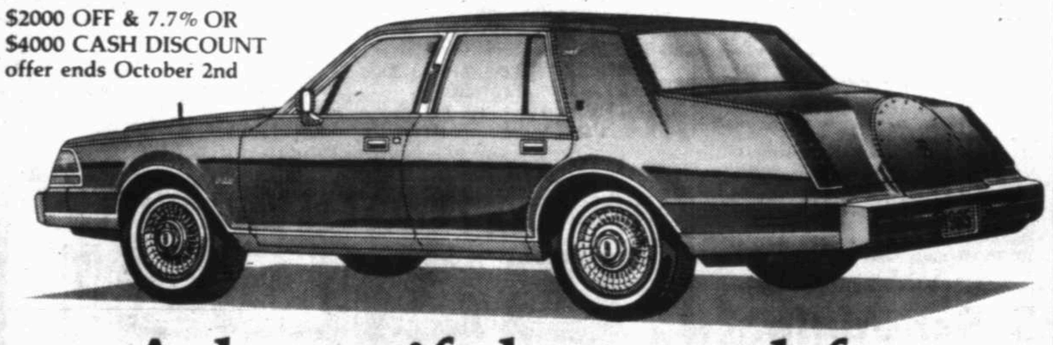

WASHINGTON (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog claims 11 members of his major league baseball team were "heavy users" of cocaine during the early 1980s and that Montreal was the city where the drug was readily available, the Washington Post reported.

Herzog, in an interview published in Saturday's editions of the newspaper, didn't name any players, but five former or present Cardinal players were named in a recent drug trial held in Pittsburgh.

Outfielder Lonnie Smith and first baseman Keith Hernandez testified at the trial, and the names of outfielder Bernie Carbo and pitchers Joaquin Andujar and Lary Sorensen were brought out in the testimony.

The St. Louis manager said the availability of cocaine in Montreal was such that it caused him to change the team's travel plans.

BULLDOGS— Vols take aim at Tigers

Big Spring was finished in the scoring department, but the Bulldogs still had three more to go. Johnson ended the first half scoring with a one-yard run with 1:43 remaining in the second quarter for a 21-13 lead.

In the third quarter, Marcum added six to the scoreboard on a seven-yard keeper and Kenny De La Garza made it 34-13 with a 11-yard pass from Marcum in the fourth. Williams was perfect on all five PAT kicks.

IN ALL, Johnson had five pass receptions if you count two interceptions, indluding a fourth quarter theft in the end zone of a Carl Speck pass. Steer Brian Mayfield and Johnson both got their hands on the ball, but it was Johnson who had control when they hit the ground.

"Matt threw the ball great," said Johnson of his offensive receptions, and "I've got to credit Coach (Rick) Wood, too, for teaching me the great techniques at cornerback."

Mark did a great job and he's been doing an outstanding job all year," said McCutchen. "He runs tough, hard inside. He runs north and south and is really doing the job for us."

Johnson added 47 yards on 15 carries to Midland High's 320-yard ground attack while Marcum picked up another 48.

For Big Spring, James Harlin had a good night with 105 yards on 16 carries. Eight different Steers hauled in Speck passes in his 11-of-26 for 120 yards performance.

The victory improves Midland High's record to 3-1 on the year, 1-0 in 4-5A play while the Steers fall to 1-3, 0-1.

Sooners tangle with Minnesota

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

College Football

A clash of styles is scheduled Saturday when top-ranked Auburn, the nation's No. 1 rushing team, visits Tennessee, the leader in passing.

Meanwhile, runnerup Oklahoma becomes the last major-college team to get under way when the Sooners visit Minnesota for a night game. And in the only contest pairing members of the AP Top Twenty, 12th-ranked Michigan goes after its third consecutive victory over a ranked team by entertaining No. 17 Maryland.

In its first two games, Auburn averaged 429.5 yards on the ground, with Bo Jackson accounting for a stunning 247.5. The Tigers also are tops in total offense at 553.5.

Tennessee has played only one game, blowing a 26-10 lead in the final five minutes and settling for a 26-26 tie with UCLA as Tony Robinson completed 25 of 35 passes for a school record 387 yards and two touchdowns. Robinson ranks second on the NCAA's passing efficiency chart but leads the nation in total offense with 417 yards, also a single-game Tennessee record.

"We'd better score at least three touchdowns and we might have to score four or five to beat them," says Tennessee Coach Johnny Majors. "The key for us is slowing down Jackson. He's the No. 1 factor in the ballgame for us. Give him the ball enough and it's bad news."

Auburn Coach Pat Dye has pretty much the same feelings about Robinson.

"Right now, he's near-perfect in the decision-making process," Dye says. "I don't know if I've ever seen a quarterback with as strong an arm who can throw 60 yards downfield and also flick it out six or seven yards to a back and scramble and drop it off. He's got all the throws plus a great sense of moving around in the pocket and pulling the ball down and running with it."

Auburn has defeated Southwestern Louisiana and Southern Mississippi but Dye says the Tigers have been "struggling to try to get all the pieces to fit together. I don't know that we have that yet. We've been a team that's played with some talent and muscle but hasn't displayed the things championship teams display."

Majors isn't buying much of that.

ELSEWHERE, third-ranked Iowa visits Iowa State, No. 4 Florida State hosts Kansas under the lights, fifth-ranked Ohio State entertains Washington State, No. 6 Southern Methodist is at Texas Christian for a night game, seventh-ranked Oklahoma State plays host to Miami of Ohio at night, No. 9 Penn State meets Rutgers at East Rutherford, N.J., and No. 10 Arkansas faces New Mexico State under the lights in Little Rock.

No. 11 Florida is at Mississippi State for a night contest, No. 13 UCLA at Washington, No. 15 Alabama at Vanderbilt, Oregon at No. 16 Nebraska, No. 18 Southern California at Arizona State at night, No. 19 Air Force at New Mexico at night and Navy at No. 20 Virginia:

Eighth-ranked LSU and No. 14 Brigham Young are not scheduled.

Oklahoma's Barry Switzer says his Sooners are "ready to play." But he is concerned that Minnesota has two games under its belt, even if they were warmups against Wichita State and Montana.

"I think they have an advantage playing in their place, plus they're 2-0," Switzer says. "That gives them a lot of confidence and momentum. They've been waiting for us. They know this game will be their season."

Oklahoma was to have opened on Sept. 14 against Southern Methodist but the game was pushed back to Dec. 7 for national television. The delay gave Switzer more time to work with new quarterback Troy Aikman and an inexperienced secondary.

"Regardless of what happens, I think it was better for our quarterbacks and defensive backs," Switzer says. "This has been an advantage for us."

On the other hand, Minnesota has "had trouble finding out anything" about the Sooners, according to Coach Lou Holtz. "We figured we'd scout the SMU game. But I've read where Barry says this is his best Oklahoma team. Maybe we're better off not having seen any films.

Baptist Temple loses to Talpa

Midland Baptist Temple lost to Talpa Centennial Rams 46-0 Friday in a Six-Man football game called in the third quarter because of the 45-point rule.

Talpa scored on its first two possessions. Temple didn't make a first down in the first period and was held to 154 yards rushing for the game.

Talpa scored twice in the second period. One was set up by a fumble recovery on the two. At half the score was 40-0.

Halfback Joe Watson gained 54 yards for Midland Baptist, but suffered a broken hand late in the second quarter.

Midland managed just two first downs for the night. Talpa scored early in the third period and the game was called.

Midland Baptist Temple, now 12-1, hosts Jesus Chapel, New Mexico state quarterfinalist last year, 7 p.m. Friday at Hogan Park.

NBA okays plan

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association Players Association has unanimously approved a plan to certify player agents, effective Nov. 1.

In a meeting this week in Chicago, a player representative from each team decided to join National Football League players in certifying qualified agents. The state of California has a law requiring agent registration and similar laws in Oklahoma and Texas will take effect Oct. 1.

TCU—

Denver even over Miami— Denver is Mile High for this one.

Washington plus six over Chicago— Don't bet on it.

New Orleans plus 15 over 49ers— After the Raiders, 49ers' may be lacking in intensity...of course, against the Saints they may not need much.

Green Bay plus seven over St. Louis— If you really want to make money on pros, study these picks carefully and then go the other way.

White Sox aid farmers

CHICAGO (AP) — Americans concerned about financially strapped farmers are being offered a chance to help the farmers and also root for their favorite baseball players — if the players are with the Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox are offering an unlimited supply of complimentary tickets to remaining 1985 home games to people who pledge FarmAid donations, club President Eddie Einhorn said Friday.

FarmAid was the name given to last Sunday's benefit concert in Champaign by country-music singer Willie Nelson and about 50 other singers and groups seeking to help the nation's financially troubled farmers.

To qualify for the White Sox offer, donations must be made by calling a special FarmAid hotline set up by the White Sox ballclub and WMAQ

Winfield, Steinbrenner have words

NEW YORK (AP) — A clubhouse confrontation between New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner and outfielder Dave Winfield ended with the club owner suggesting that the outfielder might be playing elsewhere next season, according to Friday's New York Daily News.

JIM MURRAY

He's a throwback punches in comeback

The fight mob calls them club fighters. They're good but not very. They're usually long on bravery and short on skill.

Not for them the bright lights and hundred-dollar seats of the Garden, the outdoor ball parks, the instant stadiums of Vegas. They make their livings in the creaky arenas in the old neighborhoods, or sometimes in fancier places where the customers eat steak and drink beer.

Their fights are mini-wars. They bleed like bad bulls but they never throw in a bad fight. They fight for short money and sometimes they have to have 9-to-5 jobs to go to between the nosebleeds. They make their fights like a guy on a ledge. They fight other guys who are tough, canny, impervious to pain. They act as if it's a mortal sin to step backward.

Their payoff is scar tissue and laryngitis. Sometimes they bleed where it doesn't show, like in the head. They treat defeat with a shrug, victory as luck and they are frequently the nicest people in the skein of sport. They know there's somebody out there just as tough as they are, something a guy in a three-piece suit who has three phones and a rug on the office floor may never get to think about. It makes them better persons.

THEY USED to be what fighting was all about in the days before it became just another TV spectacular or a Saturday afternoon extravaganza in between the log rolls and the stunt skiing.

Twenty years ago, Frankie Duarte would have been a club fighter, a hero in the neighborhood but unranked nationally. But fighters today aren't pros. They're performers, hype artists and there's only a handful of them who have any clear idea what they're doing in the ring.

Frankie Duarte knows. He could write the book on what to do in the ring, he's been in so many of them. Frankie knows all about slipping punches, hooking off the jab, covering up in the corners and how to cut off a ring.

Frankie was one of the best in the business when he started his pro career. He knocked out 14 of his first 16 opponents, some in the first round. He had a dazzling left, and his right came in like a falling safe. His nickname in the projects was El Huero or Paleface, but El Campeon was not entirely out of the question the way he started.

Then, our huero did what countless fighters out of the barrio –or the log cabins – had done historically: He overmatched himself.

He took on the bottle, the parties, the street drugs. He palled around with the backslappers, the fast talkers, the deal makers.

He could handle himself in the ring but he began to take some shots to the liver from a glass that no glove could deliver, and some shots to the lungs Jack Dempsey couldn't have landed. Frankie had a drink in one hand, a cigarette in the other.

He not only had trouble making the weight, he had trouble getting up in the morning. He finally fought Albert Davila and it was like watching a train wreck.

DAVILA used Duarte's head as a light bag and, when Frankie looked in the mirror after the fight, he thought it was two other people.

Frankie got $13,000 for that fight and a terrible headache. "Heck, I didn't train. I couldn't make the weight and I weakened myself more. You might say Davila took me out in the fifth round but I took myself out."

Davila went on to title shots. Duarte went back to the bar and the guys who would tell him what he'd do to Davila the next time.

There was no next time. Davila didn't need him anymore and neither did anyone else.

Duarte drifted into retirement and culture shock.

"I palled around with Raul Rojas," he said. "We used to go to this Scotchman's bar near where we lived and to me (Rojas) was a celebrity. He had been the featherweight champion of the world, after all, and I'd see the way these people treated him when we'd be drinking, like, 'Oh, yeah, Raul Rojas, he's getting kinda loud, I think we better go now.'

"Here's a guy, he beat champions and they treat him like he's dirt! I couldn't get over it.

"Then I went to Santa Monica College and we go through this roll call and nobody even remembers me. I mean, I'd been on national TV even. I'd fought contenders and they didn't even know who I was."

Frankie even tried a pool-cleaning business for a while. "I wasn't even any good at that," he said. "I didn't always show up."

One day, he took stock and realized that booze and cigarettes roughed him up more than a dozen Albert Davilas could have.

"I quit," he said. "I haven't had a drink or cigarette or anything in 2½, 3 years now."

HE EVEN got his nose fixed. "I never got married. I'm kinda shy but I thought maybe if I got my nose fixed, I might get to have a family."

Instead, though, he went back to get it broken some more. Frankie Duarte had his first fight in 1973 and his last one had been in 1982 when he decided to return to the ring this year.

"At first, I turned purple in the gym," he said. "I felt like I was under water. I kept thinking the canvas was loose and it was making my legs trip. Then I realized it was my legs that were loose."

Duarte fought his sixth fight in his comeback on the Al Goossenfight card at the Country Club in Reseda, Calif., the other night. They handed him a tough kid out of Denver, Ron Cisneros, a banger who was sneaky-quick and highly undiscourageable.

It took El Huero a few rounds to decipher Cisneros but when he did, he painted a picture on him. Cisneros' face looked like a sunset by the eighth round, when his corner stopped the fight.

At 31, Frankie Duarte is the classic club fighter, a throwback. His fights are as impersonal as a mob hit, as professional as a funeral. But, the fight game being what it is today, the club fighter is the elite of his craft.

Dry linked to Tulsa slush fund

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Former Texas Christian University head football coach F.A. Dry and assistant coach Bob Junko, implicated by TCU alumni in the operation of a fund for secret cash payments to athletes, have been linked to a similar "slush fund" at the University of Tulsa.

In a page one, copyright story, the Dallas Times Herald Friday said the involvement of Dry and Junko in the Tulsa payments surfaced during an eight-year criminal and civil tax fraud case against Woodrow "Woody" Cole, past president of the Tulsa booster organization called the Hurricane Club.

Dry was head coach at Tulsa from 1972 through the 1976 season. Junko was one of his assistants and came with Dry to TCU when the Horned Frogs named him as their head coach in 1977.

Dry was fired near the end of the 1982 season and replaced by Jim Wacker. Dry is now an assistant coach at Baylor University, and Junko is an assistant at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dry's name surfaced in Fort Worth this week when Wacker suspended seven players for accepting payments from boosters in violation of NCAA rules. All seven joined the team when Dry was coach, and TCU alumni have implicated Dry as having knowledge of the payments.

University of Tulsa President J. Paschal Twyman Friday refused to discuss the allegations against the former Hurricane coach when contacted by The Associated Press.

"I'm not getting involved in any past historical study of our records," Twyman said. "F.A. Dry is a man out of history. I'm just not going to comment on it."

Twyman has been school president since 1968.

Both Dry and Junko denied involvement in improper payment of funds to athletes at either Tulsa or TCU.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE℠

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

1. Call the StockQuote Hotline number listed below. A computer voice will answer and ask you for the Account Code.
2. Enter the Account Code, then depress the star key (*) on your telephone. The computer will then ask you to enter your Stock Code.
3. Enter the Stock Code for the stock you wish quoted, the computer will quote the Ticker Symbol; Current Price and Net Change from the previous day's close.
4. After the stock is quoted, the computer will ask you to enter another Stock Code. You have two options:

A. You may request the quote for another stock simply by repeating Step 3, or...
B. You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more depressing the star key (*) in which case the computer will respond with the Price, Net Change, Volume, High and Low. The computer will then ask you to enter another Stock Code (repeat Step 3).

You may enter up to 10 requests per call.

STOCK CODES

All Stock Codes are based on industry standard Ticker Symbols provided by your broker or available from any Standard & Poor's Stock Ticker Guide. Codes are made up of a series of two-digit numbers, each representing one of the letters in the Ticker Symbol.

To determine the two-digit code for any letter of a Ticker Symbol, remember: The first key to be depressed is always the one on which the letter appears. The second key is always a "1," "2" or "3" indicating that letter's position on its own key (first, second or third position). EXAMPLE: "IBM" = "43 22 61"; "BX" = "22 92." Remember to depress the star key (*) after entering each code.

ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE

Call the StockQuote customer service number (915) 682-5311 (Monday thru Friday 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.) for additional information or to report any problem with the service.

Carson reflects on 23 years of 'Tonight Show'

NEW YORK (AP) — Two decades before "Saturday Night Live," there was a short-lived, prime-time series that featured parodies of television shows and a spoofy news segment. Johnny Carson says the program's failure was his biggest disappointment in show business.

Johnny Carson

"I was pretty dejected when it went off the air," he said. "I thought the show was ahead of its time."

"The Johnny Carson Show," a comedy-variety series, ran on CBS from June 1955 to March 1956. Carson did offbeat sketches, zany news interviews, including one with the inhabitants of a flying saucer, and, for a while, he kept the show in the family. Jody, his wife at the time, sang on the show.

One wonders what the course of late-night TV would have been if CBS had stuck with the skinny comic from Nebraska. Can you imagine NBC's "The Tonight Show" without Johnny Carson?

NBC would rather remember what it's been like for the past 23 years — with Carson — with its annual "Tonight" anniversary show in prime time. To promote Monday night's broadcast, the normally reclusive Carson agreed to a telephone interview.

Carson said when he replaced Jack Paar on "Tonight" in 1962, he wasn't all that self-confident, and he never dreamed of spending a quarter century chained to his late-night desk.

"I was just trying to get through the first night," he said. "Paar was so mercurial that I thought that would be very hard to overcome. But after six months, I had become comfortable. This was the kind of stuff I had already been doing on TV. I was used to the live, loose TV format."

As his popularity grew, Carson said he never saw his late-night success as a springboard to a prime-time series or movie stardom.

"People have sent me movie scripts over the years, but most were pretty bad," he said. "Anybody could make a movie, but I'm on every night playing myself, so it would be hard to make the transition and play a part on the screen. And, besides, why put yourself out there to get pole-axed (by the critics)?

"As for sitcoms, that format isn't for me. I'm doing exactly what I want — monologues, interviews, sketches. In sitcoms, you're forced into playing a role every week, and it never changes."

Some TV critics charge that Carson hasn't changed, either, that his TV act is stale. They say people watch "Tonight" out of habit and by default.

"Sometimes you fall into a trap, but what you have to do is look at a month or two of shows," Carson said. "You can't judge it on a night-by-night basis, or you'd go nuts. I think you learn pretty quickly in this job that you can't be good every night...If you have a bad night, you just have to forget it and come back the next night."

Carson's current contract ends in 1987, exactly 25 years on the job, but the 59-old Carson won't say if that's the end of the road. "If I got tired, if we weren't No. 1 in the ratings, maybe, but the audience tells you when to quit. I'll know it's time because the ratings won't be there."

At NBC, one executive parlor game is speculating about life after Carson. Joan Rivers, the regular substitute host, said she saw an NBC memo that had 10 names under consideration as Carson's future replacement, but she wasn't on the list.

NBC denied the existence of any list. Carson said he knows of no list.

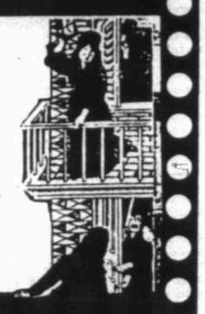

"Joan's a very clever lady," Carson said. "She worked it for as much publicity as she could. When I heard about it, I thought it was a joke. I even told a similar joke, that there was a current list, and I wasn't on it."

Asked for his personal choices for replacements, Carson said, "I never think about it."

Financial institutions usually have a list of "unclaimed deposits." These resources can eventually be turned over to the state treasurer for safe-keeping. Texas, for instance, has from $10 to $12 million in these accounts.

Imagine that! All that money that could be put to use, just forgotten.

But imagine too, our spiritual resources that frequently go unclaimed.

From siding to main line

Among railroaders the "high iron" is paramount. That's the main line. That's where the action is. And every nerve in a railroad system is dedicated to keeping traffic moving swiftly and safely along the "high iron."

Yet sidings are important, too — for waiting . . . for coupling . . . for making up the trains that will roll on the "high iron."

There are lots of kids on sidings!

The Church depends on you — parents, leaders, citizens in this community — to bring them where the main line begins.

The future is limitless for that boy or girl who gains a vision of his or her destiny in life, and the spiritual stamina to achieve faithfully God-given potentials.

MIDLAND SANITARY PLUMBING

Barbara Marx Hubbard to address seminar

RELIGION

Barbara Marx Hubbard will present a workshop, "Rings of Empowerment," from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. today at the Midland Hilton.

The 12-hour seminar is designed "to promote a personal spiritual breakthrough to a more complete life," said Merrilyn Walker, spokesman for the Permian Church of Religious Science, the sponsoring church. Mrs. Hubbard is known as a "visionary and profit of potential."

Mrs. Hubbard has been mistakenly connected with Karl Marx and L. Ron Hubbard, founder of the Church of Scientology; however, she is not related to either. Her father was Louis Marx, a self-made multimillionaire, who was one of the first to mass produce toys using plastic. She was married to Earl Hubbard, a New York artist, and for two decades they raised five children in Connecticut.

A candidate for Democratic vice president in 1984, she spent a year on a grass-roots "Campaign for a Positive Future."

"Although she wasn't a nominee, Mrs. Hubbard continues to spread her message of positive human potential through various speaking engagements, TV appearances, authoring four books and as the founder of the Committee for a Positive Future," Ms. Walker said.

"The local seminar will stress the necessity of cooperation from the viewpoint of each individual first becoming aware of his inner spiritual potential and then radiating his knowing outward through the different 'rings,' such as unconditional love, vocations, purpose and entrepreneurship, thereby transforming our world from one of distress to one of joy and excellence."

Mrs. Hubbard's model for the "Rings of Enpowerment" comes, she has said, "from her study of how evolution leaps from simple to more complex systems, and how humans are now joining in deep 'resonance' for personal and social change.

"If we can seed our organizations and communities with synergistic social units, we can make an immense contribution to peace and world betterment," Mrs. Hubbard said. "From my experience in several resonating cores, this model accelerates personal and spiritual breakthrough faster than any other method that I know."

Mrs. Hubbard calls synergy a tool of conscious evolution, learning how to form whole systems and how separate parts work together to form a new whole which is greater than and different from the sum of its parts. "Our body is a synergistic whole, far different from the sum of trillions of unique cells."

Attendance for the Midland seminar is limited to the first 100 people who sing up. Cost is $65 and is payable to the Permian Church of Religious Science. For more information call The Book Store, 697-4188.

Church leaders praise letters

NEW YORK (AP) — Lutheran and Roman Catholic leaders on Friday hailed the unusual exchange of letters between Pope John Paul II and a top U.S. Lutheran bishop as a historic sign of progress toward reunion.

Both the pope and Bishop James R. Crumley Jr., head of the Lutheran Church in America, wrote of advances toward the goal of repairing breach opened by the Protestant Reformation in the 16th century.

The pope suggested aiming at the start of the next century as "a special time for seeking full unity in Christ." Crumley wrote that old differences now often are seen "as complementary rather than conflicting."

Couples are invited to register for the series which will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 8, 15 and 22 at the Family Center, 3500 W. Golf Course Road. Grady, family minister for Golf Course Road Church of Christ, will administer three marriage-preparation inventories to each couple and give individualized scoring and evaluation of them.

Potential marriage problem areas that will be discussed will be sexual adjustments, personality differences, communication skills, conflict resolution and in-law relations. The seminar is limited to 10 couples and the fee is $25 per couple.

The registration fee must be received by Monday. Registration forms and information are available at the church office, 3500 W. Golf Course Road. For more information call 694-8836.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Trinity Presbyterian sets Wednesday dinners

Trinity Presbyterian Church is having a Wednesday Night Dinner and Programs and special topics during Sunday services.

Church school begins at 9:30 a.m. and the worship hour at 11 a.m. The Rev. Al Moreau's sermon this Sunday will be about the importance of baptism and why Presbyterians have their children baptized. Background readings are Matthew 3:1-3, 11-17 and 28:16-20.

The Wednesday Night Program starts with children's choirs from 4:45 to 5:30 p.m. Dinner is from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Then from 6:45 to 8:15 p.m., activities include adult choir rehearsal; Kerygma Bible Study, an on-going class; adult program; junior and senior high class; and children's classes. A nursery is provided.

The adult program through Oct. 16 is the Charles Swindol film series, "Strengthening Your Grip." On Oct. 2, a four-week course on "Peer Pressure" will begin for third through sixth graders.

In addition, Moreau will begin a five-week course Oct. 6 for those who have questions such as: What is a Presbyterian? What do Presbyterians believe? What does Trinity Presbyterian offer to those seeking a church? The course will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the church parlor.

Group seeks donations

Members of the Guadalupanas Organization have been authorized by the Rev. James R. Foelker to ask for donations for the church's Oct. 12 fair which will take place at Our Lady of Guadalupe fairgrounds from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Those members authorized to ask for donations are Manuela Baeza, Maria Jimez, Delores Duran and Angelita Martinez. For more information call Our Lady of Guadalupe.

Youth to hold car wash

The Youth Fellowship of First United Methodist Church will hold its annual Free Car Wash from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot at First United Methodist Church, Baird and Ohio streets.

The youth have collected pledges for each car washed and will also accept donations at the car wash, but they are not required.

Communion service set

The Rev. Jean Pierre Meshew, archdeacon of the Diocese of the Southwest of the Anglican Catholic Church, will celebrate Holy Communion for St. Paul's American Episcopal Church at 10 a.m. the first and third Sundays of each month.

Services are held in the Chapel at Ellis Funeral Home. The 1928 Book of Common Prayer is used by the congregation for all services.

Enrollments sought

Calvary Baptist Church, 1001 S. Main St., is celebrating "Super September" with new enrollment in Sunday School. All members are encouraged to attend Sunday.

Morning church services Sunday will be followed by a covered-dish dinner. The Lord's Supper will be observed during the 7 p.m. service.

Revival set in Odessa

ODESSA — The Rev. Edmund Robb Jr., a former Midlander, will be leading the renewal revival at St. Luke's United Methodist Church Sunday through Wednesday. The theme is "Catch the Spirit."

Robb has been an evangelist for his denomination since 1966 and has published "Challenge to Evangelism Today" as part of his evangelistic thrust.

He says for evangelism to be effective, the church itself must be revived with a zeal for the gospel and the saving of souls. It is his desire, he says, to instill in the church the knowledge that there is joy and freedom in a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

Services will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday. Special music is planned for all services. Breakfasts are planned for 6:30 a.m. Monday and Wednesday and lunch at noon Tuesday and Wednesday. All will be led by Robb.

Robb was pastor of St. Paul's UMC in Midland for several years in the early 1960s. He extends a special invitation to this congregation.

The Odessa church and its pastor, the Rev. David Pena, invite the public to attend.

Fall Bible study begins

Church Women United of Midland began its fall Bible study series Friday in the Fellowship Classroom of First Christian Church, 1301 W. Louisiana Ave. The second session is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Oct. 25.

Teacher for the study is Marie Coleman from First United Methodist Church. She will be teaching from the 119th Chapter of Psalms.

All interested women are invited to attend. For more information call Dorothy Vaughan, 694-3193, or Jerry Sloan, 682-7204. Kay Sprecher is Church Woman United president.

Adventists plan projects

Seventh-Day Adventists will assist a publishing house and the funding of chapels in several African nations with an offering to be accepted the 9:30 a.m. service today.

"This offering, shared at our Saturday Bible school this week, is beamed toward special projects in some very needy areas where the church family lives," says program planner John Adams.

"We will give for a two-color press at the Adventist Publishing House in Accra, Ghana," he says. "Although most of us have never been there, we know they are struggling to provide Christian reading materials for those starving for the bread of life, so we've chosen to help.

"The chapels are in countries we can't locate on a map, but we know they need places to worship," he says. Among the nations to have new Adventist chapels are Chad, Gabon, United Republic of Cameroun and the islands of Principe and Sao Tome.

The public is invited to attend. The Midland church is located at 3114 Travis St.

"A Musical Comedy of Selected Highlights in the History of First Presbyterian Church of Midland" will be presented in the church's fellowship hall, 800 W. Texas Ave., at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"Original songs and skits will be performed by an all-star cast of singers and actors," says Bill Pomeroy, narrator for the presentation. Included in the cast are Daphne Pemberton, Louis Kluck, Paula Cahoon, Janet Pollard, Jim Salners, Becky Engelstad, Jack Steele and Tom Roberts. Tony Norris, the church's organist, will accompany the singers on the piano.

Pomeroy calls the show "a delightful concoction of music and fun." It will last for an hour and will follow the 5:30 p.m. Wednesday night supper.

The public is invited to attend.

Iglesia Bautista Betel, a newly organized Spanish Baptist church, now has a pastor, the Rev. Adam G Gutierrez.

With the help of his wife, Isabel, and their daughter, Melodia, they are becoming acquainted with the congregation and helping to organize the church.

Gutierrez graduated from the Baptist Seminary with a master of theology and religious education degree. Not only has he pastored a number of Texas churches over the past 24 years, he also has served on the executive board of the General Baptist Convention and as a trustee of the Valley Baptist Academy.

FPC women begin year

September marks the beginning of a new year for Presbyterian Women at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave.

Officers for this year are Mrs. Gene Bartus, president; Mrs. David Grimes, vice president; Mrs. Pat Holub, secretary; Mrs. Brandon Buchanan, historian; Mrs. John Kennedy, personal faith and family life chairman; Mrs. Russell Forest, Christian community action chairman; and Mrs. Joe Nobles, leadership and resources chairman.

A woman's Fellowship Luncheon, sponsored by the Presbyterian Women of First Presbyterian Church, will be held at 11:30 a.m. Oct. 22 in the church's fellowship hall. A program will be presented by Mrs. Shackelford Reeder.

Youth supper scheduled

St. Mark's United Methodist Youth, 1701 N. Main St., will host youth from Midland and surrounding areas Sunday beginning with a 5 p.m. Snack Supper.

Doug Runkles, ministerial student from McMurry College, will speak on "Being a Christian in Today's World" at 5:30 p.m. The Esteem Machine, a tean Theatre Repertory Company composed of 19 youth directed by Tricia Shelton, will perform skits from the everyday life of "Somebody who Lives in Anytown, USA," at 5:45 p.m.

Spanish LDS formed

The Spanish branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was established in Midland 2½ months ago with Ramon Campa as president. The church meets at 4 p.m. Saturdays at the Midland Chapel, 2101 Tarleton Ave.

"It is a blessing that all services are conducted in Spanish," said Peter Alcocer, church leader. "We are small, just beginning, and the members are very close to each other."

The branch has about 59 in attendance. Three full-time missionaries from Mexico, Spain and Salt Lake City, Utah, are associated with the congregation.

Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St., is celebrating its 35th anniversary Sunday. Friends and former members are invited to attend and be a part of Bellview's "Celebration."

Former members who are now in church vocations will be giving reports on their ministries. Also, the service will include time to recognize the church charter.

Charter member Royce Measures will be guest speaker for the 10:30 a.m. service. The Bellaires, a men's quartet, and the Sanctuary Choir will sing. A new Allen 4100 organ will add to the music portion of the service.

Dinner-on-the-grounds will follow the service.

A "High Attendance Day" campaign has been planned for the Sunday School hour at 9:30 a.m. The theme "From Here to Victory" has been used throughout September to remind members of the high attendance hoped for the 35th anniversary celebration.

The church's pastor, the Rev. G.A. Magee, invites the public to attend.

Prayer conference set

St. Paul United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive, is hosting a Prayer Conference Friday through Oct. 6.

Special speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Jordan Grooms, who was born and reared in Greenfield, Tenn. Grooms has a bachelor of arts degree from Bethel College, McKenzie, Tenn.; a master of divinity degree from Perkins School of Theology, Dallas; and a doctor of divinity degree from McMurry College, Abilene.

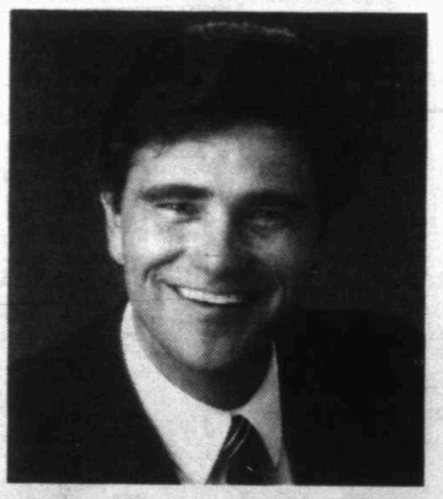

He is a retired member of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference and has pastored churches in Vega, Haskell, Levelland, Lamesa, Big Spring and Amarillo. He served as District Superintendent of the Brownfield District and the Big Spring District of the Northwest Texas Conference. Grooms served as an exchange pastor in Newcastle, England.

Services are set for 7 p.m. Friday through Sunday and 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday. A covered-dish dinner will be held at 5:30 p.m. Oct. 5.

The church's senior pastor, the Rev. James C. Holman, invites the public to attend.

VIRGINIA CITY, Mont. (AP) — "Mountain man" Don Nichols was sentenced to 85 years in prison Friday for his part in the kidnapping of a young woman and the killing of one of her would-be rescuers.

Nichols was convicted by a Madison County District Court jury in July of murder, kidnapping and assault.

District Judge Frank Davis sentenced Nichols, 54, to 10 years for kidnapping Kari Swenson, 24, a member of the U.S. biathlon team, as she jogged in the mountains of southwestern Montana on July 15, 1984.

He ordered a 75-year sentence for the murder of Alan Goldstein, who was slain when he tried to rescue Swenson the following day, and 20 years for pointing a rifle at another would-be rescuer, Jim Schwalbe.

The sentences are to run concurrently, but Davis added 10 years to be served consecutively because Nichols used a firearm, and he designated the man a dangerous offender.

That means Nichols will have to serve at least half of the 85-year term before becoming eligible for parole.

Killer whale born at Sea World

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A killer whale has been born at the Sea World marine attraction, and the carnivorous mother and child were reported doing well, officials said.

Sea World's Shamu Stadium, where the park's three killer whales perform, was closed to the public while animal-care specialists tended to the mother and the new arrival.

She said it may not be possible to determine the calf's sex for a few days.

Little is known about how killer whales are born, said Lanny Cornell, Sea World's zological director based in San Diego. Cornell was in Orlando for a month preparing for the birth.

Officer: NORAD computer 'flawed'

DENVER (AP) — A federal official says the computer at the top-secret NORAD command post inside Colorado's Cheyenne Mountain, which coordinates the nation's early-warning system against nuclear attack, is becoming obsolete.

"We have been told by (the Defense Department) that the state-of-the-art computer equipment will not be ready until 1992 at the earliest," Charles Bowsher, comptroller general of the General Accounting Office, told a House subcommittee.

"The solutions to the computer problem always seem to be a few years away," he said.

But Pentagon representatives, including Gen. Robert Herres, commander of the North American Aerospace Defense Command, acknowledged there are flaws in the system but said it is adequate.

"The improvements that have been accomplished in the last several years have been giant steps ahead to improve the reliability and our confidence that the system will work," Herre said.

Court won't block fetuses' burial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state Supreme Court has refused to block the burial of 16,500 aborted fetuses found more than three years ago in Los Angeles County.

The court's action Thursday defeated the bid of the Feminist Women's Health Center of Los Angeles, which favors cremation and contends burial would violate the expectation of privacy of the women who had undergone the operations.

William Stewart, Los Angeles County's assistant county counsel, said failure to bury the fetuses would cause "danger to public health and safety."

The fetuses will be buried in a non-sectarian cemetery, which has not been designated.

The fetuses, in plastic bags filled with formaldehyde, were discovered in February 1982 in a steel storage bin outside the home of a former director of a medical laboratory.

FAIRMONT, W.Va. (AP) — An artist who claimed part of his finger was bitten off by his landlord in a dispute over a late rent payment was awarded $6,600 in damages from the landlord.

A Marion County Circuit Court jury granted the award to David Merrill, 32, who is known for his painting of a West Virginia mountaineer and for lithographs of U.S. Olympic gymnast Mary Lou Retton.

The landlord, Frank Gallo, testified that Merrill deliberately stuck his fingers in Gallo's mouth to hurt him and that the artist tried to scratch the landlord's eyes out. Gallo said he bit down on the finger to restrain Merrill.

DETROIT (AP) — John Z. De Lorean was stranded in New York by Hurricane Gloria on Friday, delaying his arraignment on racketeering and fraud charges of allegedly bilking investors in his failed car company out of $8.9 million.

Ross Parker, chief of the criminal division of the U.S. Attorney's office in Detroit, said he did not know when the arraignment before U.S. Magistrate Marcia G. Cooke would be rescheduled.

Earlier Friday, De Lorean told a New York television talk show audience he was innocent.

"We're absolutely confident that we will demonstrate that every single cent was legitimately and honestly come by, and I'm sure we'll demonstrate that all these charges are absolutely false and a total fabrication," De Lorean said during an appearance on the syndicated "Donahue" show.

A fderal grand jury in Detroit last week charged that De Lorean, 60, diverted the money through a complicated series of transactions involving a Panamanian company and several European banks.

John Z. De Lorean

The 15-count indictment accused De Lorean of racketeering, mail fraud, wire fraud, interstate transportation of stolen money, income tax evasion and causing false tax returns to be filed.

If convicted, De Lorean would face a maximum penalty for racketeering of 20 years in prison, $25,000 in fines and forfeiture of any property acquired or maintained in the enterprise. The other charges carry lesser sentences.

According to the indictment, the money was part of $18.7 million invested in De Lorean Research Limited Partnership, the research arm of De Lorean's project to build gull-winged, stainless-steel sports cars at a plant in Northern Ireland.

De Lorean Motor Co. in 1982 filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, and the bankruptcy case was later converted to liquidation under Chapter 7 of the act.

Reagan gives final approval for arms package for Jordan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, determined to provide new U.S. weapons to Jordan, today gave final approval to an arms package that will touch off a fight with Israel's supporters in Congress.

Reagan said the package would give Jordan "the tools it needs to help defend its people as King Hussein courageously pursues peace with Israel."

Hussein will call on the president at the White House on Monday to review prospects for holding Mideast peace talks by the end of the year.

Reagan called the weapons "defensive arms." He said the package would send "a powerful message of U.S. political support for King Hussein's efforts to bring about a comprehensive, lasting peace settlement between Israel and the Arab world."

Beyond that, Reagan said the arms would "meet Jordan's most pressing military deficiency — namely its ability to provide adequate air defense against an external attack and military intimidation by the adversaries of peace."

Congressional sources, who asked not to be identified, said the administration package, totaling $1.5 billion, includes 40 F-20 or F-16 fighters, 12 batteries of mobile Hawk anti-aircraft missiles, 32 Bradley armored personnel carriers, and 74 shoulder-fired Stinger d.g 700 AIM missiles.

The sources said that even before official notification of the deal, a letter was circulating in the Senate to mobilize opposition.

Despite stiff opposition on Capitol Hill, "the president seems determined to go ahead," said the official, who demanded anonymity.

Israel's backers and other critics of the deal will try to kill it in the Senate and the House with the argument Jordan should enter peace negotiations before it is provided with new American weapons.

The king and Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, agreed on a plan last February for peace talks. There has been little headway. One obstacle is their call for preliminary U.S. sessions with Palestinians approved by the PLO.

The Reagan administration, holding to a policy set in 1975, has refused to deal with Arafat's organization until it publicly recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz surveyed prospects for negotiations and the arms package at an unannounced dinner Tuesday in New York with Hussein, the U.S. official said.

There was no word on whether they were able to solve the Palestinian issue or other roadblocks to the peace talks.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, September 29, 1985

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Follow your intuition when faced with a crucial business or financial decision. A romantic relationship is strengthened by a new resolve on both sides. Learn from past mistakes. Surround yourself with people who have proven their loyalty. A newcomer may be all talk and no action. Hire him or her on a trial basis only. A generous gift or inheritance allows you to travel. Take a young person along if you can. CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: actress Heather Locklear, football's Bum Phillips, country rock 'n' roll king Jerry Lee Lewis, film producer Stanley Kramer, cowboy-baseball team owner Gene Autry, actress Greer Garson.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A good day to discuss your concerns with an expert. Help someone who is willing to create a whole new system in order to boost productivity. Others will follow your lead.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your love of family is evident in everything you do today. A sermon or conversation gives you a wonderful, new idea. Greater financial security will soon be yours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A book of poems provides something you were unable to find elsewhere. Follow your heart where a new romance is concerned. An unexpected visit or phone call brightens your day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An ingenious youngster keeps you on your toes. Jealousy is counter-productive. Be happy about a loved one's success. An intellectual challenge inspires you to do some of your best work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Look before you leap. Something may sound a lot better than it really is. Use common sense. Family life becomes more rewarding when someone volunteers to do something for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A touch of humor works wonders when a family gathering starts to get tense. The defection of any ally could work to your advantage. You receive some long-overdue recognition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A newcomer's grace and charm arouse deep feelings. Help a child develop a love for excellence and he or she will enjoy meeting high standards. A quiet evening at home holds strong appeal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A compulsion to do everything perfectly could come between you and loved one. Know what is important and what is not. A positive attitude ensures success. Replace bad habits with good ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What originally looked like a good buy could turn out to be a gyp. Inspect the quality of any goods you are offered. An anxiety is based on a false premise. Stop worrying.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You take deep personal satisfaction in a recent triumph. Be careful not to overreact to an occasional mistake. There is no reason to be nervous about an exciting new enterprise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Mate takes to a new plan the way a duck takes to water. Stay on the right side of someone who has always been loyal. Learn from past mistakes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A change in lifestyle could benefit the whole family. Keep spending under control but avoid acting miserly. Others expect you to pay your fair share. Be sure your goals are realistic.

DENVER (AP) — Four-year-old Maranda Francisco has gone home from the hospital in fine spirits after surgeons removed nearly half her brain to stop almost constant seizures that sent her into uncontrollable spasms.

"Better," Maranda answered a reporter who asked how she is feeling. "No hospitals."

Maranda, the daughter of Lou and Terry Francisco, has been in and out of hospitals most of her life. Doctors diagnosed her this year as a victim of a rare brain disease called Rasmussen's encephalitis.

She underwent a 10-hour operation at Johns Hopkins Children's Center in Baltimore seven weeks ago and Tuesday was the first time she had been in her southwest Denver home since April.

"I see no reason why she shouldn't be able to have a normal life," Carson said. "There have been no seizures since the operation. It's a time of watchful waiting."

Maranda is becoming an independent, energetic child despite braces on her right leg and right arm which she may have to wear for the rest of her life, her mother said.

"One doctor told me, 'She's a regular, pain-in-the-butt 4-year-old again,' " Terry Francisco said.

Maranda had her first seizure at 18 months. At the time, doctors said she might epileptic but told her parents not to worry.

Two weeks later, she had another seizure that lasted two hours. Again, doctors advised the parents not to worry.

"Two, then three, then four a day," Mrs. Francisco said.

Drugs did not work and the seizures increased, up to 120 a day, Mrs. Francisco said.

Mrs. Francisco, faced with the possibility that the seizures could cause brain damage and leave Maranda "a total vegetable," began looking for help.

She was sent last spring to the University of California-Los Angeles Medical Center, where her disease was diagnosed.

The radical brain operation was discussed. At first, Maranda's father argued against it after being told his child could be left paralyzed on one side and speechless.

"A lot of people thought I was wrong" to authorize the surgery, Mrs. Francisco said.

The Franciscos, who have lost two other chidren to sudden infant death syndrome, finally decided to go ahead with the operation.

The surgery Aug. 7 took twice as long as Carson anticipated because Maranda's brain was inflamed. A large piece of her skull was removed and the left side of the brain, which controls the right side of the body, was removed.

The youngster faces years of therapy.

"My husband thinks we'll be financially in debt for the rest of his life," Mrs. Francisco said.

Court: Film company may not make 'Wind' sequel

ATLANTA (AP) — MGM/United Artists Entertainment Co. may not film a sequel to "Gone With The Wind" because neither author Margaret Mitchell nor her estate ever intended the Civil War saga to be continued, a federal appeals court ruled Friday.

Ms. Mitchell "believed any resolution of what happened to Scarlett and Rhett would undermine the integrity of the original story," the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said.

The subject of a sequel was never broached in contract negotiations in 1936 and 1961, the court said. The filmmakers knew then that Stephens Mitchell, Ms. Mitchell's brother who had acquired all rights to her novel, did not intend to grant sequel rights, the court said.

Gary Hatch, an attorney representing Trust Company Bank, which is executor of the Mitchell estate, was out of town Friday and could not be reached for comment. MGM spokesman Art Rockwell in Los Angeles said the film company had no comment on the ruling.

MGM and its predecessor, Selznick International Pictures Inc., had been trying to arrange for a sequel to "Gone With The Wind" since before the original film was made, according to Friday's ruling.

The contract to film Ms. Mitchell's novel was signed in 1936. The blockbuster movie premiered in 1939, but in 1938 producer David O. Selznick began a series of attempts to persuade Ms. Mitchell to either write a sequel or allow someone else to do it, the court said.

Ms. Mitchell repeatedly rebuffed the offers, and "was adamant right up to her death in 1949 that no sequel ever be made," the court said.

Stephens Mitchell, who died in 1983, had acquired all rights to the novel in 1952 and upheld his sister's wishes that no sequel be made.

When the film contract was renewed in 1961, the court said, "MGM was, obviously, anxious to obtain this renewal, since 'Gone With The Wind' was one of its most valuable properties, if not its most valuable property."

But the matter of sequel rights was never discussed during negotiations, except in regard to a clause saying the lives of the characters should not be extended beyond the time of the ending of the novel. MGM agreed to that clause.

A sequel was not discussed again until 1975, when Mitchell said he would be willing to consider offers for the right to produce a sequel. In 1976, two agreements were executed that collectively gave MGM and Universal Pictures the right to produce a sequel.

The project, however, was ultimately abandoned, the court said.

A 1981 suit filed by Trust Company sought to determine whether the Mitchell estate or MGM owned the sequel rights. A district court ruled that neither the 1936 contract nor the 1961 contract granted the rights to MGM.

Is game ranching foretaste of future?

By DAVID CRARY
Associated Press Writer

NAIROBI, Kenya — The game liver mousse and gourmet cuts of gazelle meat served recently at a food festival are but a foretaste of a vast new supply of profits and protein, in the view of Kenyans who advocate game ranching.

Advocates view an experimental game ranch outside Nairobi as the prototype for a nationwide industry that would provide nutritious and reasonably priced meat.

They maintain the ranches also would counter the deterioration of rangeland by livestock and silence complaints that few Kenyans benefit directly from wildlife conservation.

To skeptics, however, game ranching is a concept that either would collapse because of inefficiency or create an unmeetable demand for game that would encourage an onslaught by poachers.

"No one should try to market game meat to the local population," said Nehemiah K. Rotich, director of the East Africa Wildlife Society. "That would be a total mistake. The demand could not be supplied."

Weighing both sides of the argument is the Kenyan government, which is interested in broader usage of wildlife yet at the same time realizes its lucrative tourist industry relies heavily on game preservation.

David Mbuvi, deputy director of the Wildlife Conservation and Management Department, said government experts are examining numerous proposals for game ranches, cropping and other programs that would increase consumption of game.

But he said the government has not decided whether it wants to move in that direction or preserve the status quo, under which wildlife is protected by a 1977 ban on hunting.

"The idea that wildlife should be a source of protein is a laudable one," said Sam Chemai, the Agriculture Ministry's chief veterinary research officer. "It should be cheap and accessible to the average man."

But Chemai said programs to boost game consumption would need careful monitoring to reassure wildlife conservationists and to guard against poaching and excessive slaughter.

Both government and private-sector experts say the existing game ranch, started 10 years ago by David Hopcraft, had proven itself profitable and provided valuable information for researchers.

But they note that Hopcraft had the advantage of implementing his program on his existing 20,000-acre cattle ranch less than 20 miles from his buyers at Nairobi's hotels and restaurants.

Proponents of game ranching argue that the concept would be economically viable even in remote areas, with little investment required except for fencing and some type of slaughterhouse.

Hopcraft, a third-generation Kenyan who did postgraduate work at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., raises wildebeeste, impala, Thompson's gazelle, giraffe and ostrich, among other animals. His customers include specialty butchers in Nairobi and a popular restaurant called Carnivore where game is roasted on spits over an open fire.

He has argued in numerous speeches and papers that wildlife is far less expensive than livestock to maintain because it needs little or no water, is virtually immune to diseases from which livestock must be protected, and provides meat which is leaner than beef.

"The potential is enormous," said Phil Tilley, who has been managing the game ranch while Hopcraft visits the United States to study the feasibility of a comparable operation there.

Asked why requests to open other game ranches in Kenya have not been approved, Tilley replied, "It's a mystery to all of us."

"The government gives us the impression they're pleased with what we're doing, but neither do they seem to want to expand," he said.

Hopcraft touts game ranching as an ideal use for semi-arid lands. Cattle raised in such areas must receive water from artificial sources and they cause more damage to vegetation and soil than wildlife, he contends.

Jurgen Muller, food director at the Inter-Continental Hotel in Nairobi where the game food festival was held, called wildlife ranching a "fantastic idea" that could find a large market in Kenya and abroad.

At the hotel, he said, game dishes are popular with both travelers and Kenyans, "although there is always some resentment from tourists just back from viewing animals at the game parks."

Game ranching exists on a limited scale in Zimbabwe, and the notion that thriving species of game should be tapped as a food source is under study by such organizations as the U.S. Agency for International Development, the United Nations Environment Program and the World Wildlife Fund.

But the consensus of these organizations, and of Kenyan government experts, is that any increase in wildlife consumption should be approached cautiously, with steps taken to maintain the proper population of a species over time.

Crime growing in Nairobi suburb

First, he steps outdoors to look in on the night watchman, making sure the man has his whistle, his horn, his shield, his bow and arrow, his rungu (a wooden staff designed to knock heads) and that he is awake. He then returns to his house, draws the curtains, switches on the exterior security spotlights and locks all the windows and doors, including two hallway doors separating his bedroom from the front door.

In his bedroom, he checks the battery level on his bedside shortwave radio, which he uses to communicate with a vigilante syndicate of 10 neighbors, all of whom have vowed, when a coded alarm is broadcast, to come running day or night with their guns loaded.

Finally, he removes his double-barreled 12-gauge shotgun from his gun safe, loads it and leans it against the wall beside his bed, just under the silent-alarm button that, when pressed, dispatches a truckload of rungu-swinging private guards to Keepers within five minutes. Leaning against the wall beside the shotgun is a steel-tipped Masai spear.

Still, Church, who last year emptied his shotgun into two knife-wielding robbers as they burst into his bedroom, complains that he is not sleeping soundly these days. And he is not alone.

One of Nairobi's periodic waves of gang robberies has crested here in Karen in recent months. Break-ins by gangs of up to 30 young men, armed with pangas (a kind of machete), axes, crowbars and large stones, have become an almost nightly event. Typically, doors are battered open with stones in the middle of the night, a few gang members rush to the bedrooms and hold pangas to the throats of homeowners in night attire while their associates flee with stereo and video equipment.

RECENTLY, these robberies have been tainted by what longtime Karen residents say is an unprecedented level of violence. On May 24, an 82-year-old man and his daughter were beaten severely by thieves in search of guns. Finley McNaughton was hospitalized in Nairobi with two broken arms.

Nine nights later, a British architect, his wife and a security guard were shot and killed by a gang member with a high-powered rifle. Five persons, including two robbers, have been killed in Karen in the past three months.

Gang robberies and suburban gunplay in early June pushed Kenya's President Daniel arap Moi to order police to "bring this undesirable situation to an end." Police in Karen have beefed up patrols, a private security company here has ordered bulletproof vests for its guards, and Karen residents say that now, as never before, they fear the coming of night.

"It has gotten to such a pitch that it is very difficult to relax and sleep," says Church, 46, owner of a safari tour company in Nairobi. His house has been attacked five times by panga gangs since 1982. "Every time there is a squeak in the house, one pops awake and reaches for the shotgun."

This horsy suburb of well-trimmed hedges, well-oiled English saddles and well-heeled expatriates, white Kenyans and black Kenyan government officials draws its name from the Danish Baroness Karen von Blixen. She lived here a half century ago and, under the pen name Isak Dinesen, painted idyllic word pictures of what then was a 6,000-acre highland coffee farm in the shadow of the Ngong Hills about 12 miles outside Nairobi.

"Up in this high air you breathed easily, drawing in a vital assurance and lightness of heart," the baroness wrote in her famous book, "Out of Africa." "In the highlands you woke up in the morning and thought: Here I am, where I ought to be."

THAT, OF course, was before the panga gangs. One 60-year-old woman who was "done" twice by the gangs in 10 days, and who refuses to allow her name to be published for fear of a third, revenge attack, says she now wakes up in the morning in her Karen home exhausted from a long night's fretting.

"About an hour after dark, I am so afraid I can hardly swallow my food," says the woman, a British expatriate horse breeder who, with her husband, has lived for 26 years in East Africa. "I've got two guards, five dogs, a silent-alarm security button, sirens and flashing lights on the roof, but after a couple hours at night in this house, I get this panicky feeling I've got to get out."

Latter-day devotees of Isak Dinesen — whose book was just filmed here — have had to make their own adjustments to Karen's crime problem. For the film, a big-budget Universal Pictures production directed by Sydney Pollack and starring Meryl Streep and Robert Redford, security was extremely tight. The set was ringed with security patrols. A 5,000-volt electric fence was built around Anthony Church's farm, which boarded 160 horses and oxen used in the film.

The affluence and topography of Karen, with its rolling hills and sprawling estates, makes it a particularly attractive target for robbers. Panga gangs can strike and evaporate into the Ngong Forest and several other nearby wooded areas. One group of thieves, known locally as the "Six-Minute Gang," has perfected a break-in technique that has them in and out of a Karen house in the six minutes that it takes for radio-dispatched security forces to arrive.

HIGHLY publicized, tightly orchestrated villainy in this famed, mostly white suburb, however, is only part of what police, private security specialists and criminologists here acknowledge is a 20-year-old and steadily growing crime problem in Nairobi. They say the crime rate in black and Asian neighborhoods of the city, while less celebrated than in Karen, is considerably higher.

"As time goes on, this kind of crime gets worse and worse throughout Nairobi," says Erasto Muga, a criminologist at the University of Nairobi who has studied criminal behavior in Kenya for 17 years. "It gets worse because the disparity of income between people in this city continues to grow wider."

Nairobi, with 1.2 million residents and a growth rate that will double its population in less than 10 years, is primarily a city of men. Men, most of them under 30 years of age, make up about 60 percent of the city's population.

"They come here from the countryside after dropping out of high school and primary school, hoping to get employment, but they are badly disappointed," says Muga, author of "Crime and Delinquency in Kenya."

"They soon find that they have nothing, and yet all around them there are so many attractive things that they would like to have.

"These people who have nothing survey the suburbs for days — they have nothing else to do. The ones who are not sophisticated learn from the sophisticated ones. They join gangs and they figure out ways of getting what they want."

MUGA SAYS that the anonymity of Nairobi, which he says is like many large cities in sub-Saharan Africa, encourages young men to ignore the values they grew up with back in their home villages.

"In Africa a man's way of life is very much controlled by the attitudes and values of his extended family. Everyone knows everyone else in rural Africa and is very much afraid of doing something that will reveal him to be a bad person. Anonymity here allows young men to commit crimes they would never consider if they were back home," Muga says. Only about 10 percent of Kenya's 17 million inhabitants live in cities, Muga points out, yet cities are home to more than half the country's crime.

Cartoon shows foibles of African middle class

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Every day thousands of Africans faithfully follow the exploits of Bogi Benda, a comic strip character who drinks too much, womanizes, worries constantly about money and treats his wife as a vassal.

The nicest thing said when Bogi Benda's name came up during the United Nations international women's conference here in July was that the cartoon "depicted women most pathetically."

Despite such criticism, the popularity of Bogi Benda has soared in the 10 years since Tumusiime, 35, took over drawing the English-language comic strip.

Nairobi's daily newspapers compete fiercely for the strip, which has appeared at different times in four local newspapers. It currently appears in The Standard.

The strip is no longer carried in any Ugandan publication, but can be read in newspapers in Lesotho, Tanzania, South Africa and Swaziland, where it is translated into Siswati, the local language.

Bogi Benda is the only cartoon to originate in black Africa that appears in more than one country, Tumusiime said.

"Bogi Benda reflects the pattern of life common to most of black Africa, especially English-speaking countries," the artist said. "There are problems with drinking, promiscuity, money. There are no boundaries as far as those problems are concerned."

Like Tumusiime, most of black Africa's cartoonists deal with light, social humor. Political cartoons are almost unheard of, and that has often caused problems for Tumusiime.

"It is a belief here in Africa that cartoons are expressing indirect information or teasing heads of government," he said. "You always have to be very careful, you can easily offend someone. Most African bigshots don't take jokes very well."

He said Idi Amin, the former Ugandan dictator, ordered him killed because of one strip.

"He misunderstood my joke," Tumusiime said.

The cartoonist took over the forerunner of the Bogi Benda strip, the same character but with the Ugandan name Ekanya, in 1975 when the cartoon's creator fled Uganda and Amin's repressive government.

Tumusiime, an agricultural economist, worked in Uganda's Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock in the Amin government, but also had an academic background in fine arts and an interest in cartooning.

The strip that offended Amin ran shortly after the Feb. 17, 1977, murder of Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwuum, whose death was blamed on Amin's henchmen.

The cartoon character went into a butcher's shop and asked the proprieter, "Do you have a sheep's head?" to which the butcher replied, "No, I have a human head."

"Amin thought that when I referred to butchery and the human head I was referring to him indirectly and the murder of the archbishop," Tumusiime said.

Tumusiime took the strip with him to Nairobi in 1981 when he came to the Kenyan capital to study for a master's degree in agriculture and economics. He adopted Bogi Benda as the character's name because it was African-sounding, but easily pronounced in English. It has no particular meaning.

The cartoon strip and three popular Bogi Benda books have helped entrench Tumusiime in the African middle class which his comic strip pokes fun at. But the similarity ends there, said the artist.

"The character does not have much to do with me as an individual," he said. "The concentration of all those negative things in one man is purely for dramatic purposes.

By JOHN EDLIN

HARARE, Zimbabwe (AP) — In a three-month blitz, Zimbabwe has destroyed about 120 million red-billed quelea birds to avert one of the gravest threats ever posed to the country's wheat belt.

Scientists say the operation, which recently ended, saved vast fields of wheat menaced by the grain-gobbling birds.

The slaughter also proved a boon to thousands of villagers who feasted on roast quelea, a delicacy for many Africans. And some entrepreneurs carted the carcasses off to market, making more in a few weeks than they normally would make in a year.

The quelea, which belongs to the sparrow and weaver family, destroy thousands of tons of crops throughout Africa every year.

However, Peter Mundy, a government ornithologist in charge of the eradication operation, said things now were under control.

"But if we hadn't acted, our winter cereals would have suffered more than at any time on record," he said.

The quelea is reputedly the most destructive bird in the world, particularly to such crops as millet, rice, sorghum and wheat. A million-strong flock can destroy 10 metric tons of grain in a day, contributing to the continent's chronic food shortages.

An estimated 200 metric tons of the birds are killed in Africa every year to protect crops.

And the bird has few redeeming features. Scientists say there is no evidence that it devours harmful insects. Its sole diet is grain.

In Zimbabwe alone, up to 10 percent of the winter wheat harvest, expected to be 220,000 metric tons, was threatened with destruction by the yellow, gray and brown birds, said Mundy, who works for the Department of National Parks and Wildlife Management.

In the past month, flocks of queleas hatched in Botswana, Zimbabwe's western neighbor, and attacked wheat fields hundreds of miles apart — from Matabeleland in the southwest to Bindura in the northeast, the ornithologist said.

However, beginning in June, seven government field workers, a single plane and tractors towing sprayers mounted on trailers destroyed an estimated 120 million of the 650 million queleas which infested Zimbabwe.

The poison used was Queletox, trade name for an organic phosphate-based chemical which Mundy said is deadly to birds but harmless to people, animals and marine life.

Although other birds, mostly doves and warblers nesting near the queleas, also were killed in the blitz, Mundy said studies showed it amounted to about 10 others per million queleas.

Peasant villagers living near the wheat belt scooped up the dead queleas, and grilled them over open wood fires or boiled them in water.

"Poison evaporates when they are cooked," said Mundy. "We don't discourage people from eating them as they're quite safe and a good source of high protein. Local people traditionally enjoy eating the birds."

"One flock of a million birds would fetch as much as 100,000 (Zimbabwe) dollars ($59,000 U.S.)," the ornithologist said.

Government scientists here are studying ways of killing the birds without poison and selling them to gourmet shops in France, he said.

"Interested parties in France want as many of the birds as we can supply, but they won't take them after they've been poisoned," he said. "So we're looking at other methods. But our main function is to control them, and the only effective way is with chemicals."

As a measure of their taste value, ornithologists attending a conference in Kenya last January to explore new uses of the tiny birds dined on queleas marinated in Worcestershire and soy sauce and then lightly grilled.

"They're just a damned nuisance," said Matabeleland rancher and wheat grower Robin Greaves, of Nyamandhlovu, who spends thousands of dollars a year hiring crop-spraying planes to kill flocks of queleas. "We'd like to see them all gone."

Stiffer laws reportedly helping cable operators

From Staff Reports

Cable television operators across Texas report new laws calling for stiffer penalties on cable theft are decreasing monetary losses.

The reason, according to Bill Arnold, executive director of the Texas Cable TV Association, is a recently completed amnesty or "no questions asked" program to encourage persons to become paying customers for the service they may have been receiving illegally.

Cable operators across Texas encouraged people to take action before new laws went into effect Sept. 1 to avoid the possibility of a $1,000 fine and a six-month jail penalty.

In Houston, four cable operators joined together to conduct a public awareness campaign where an estimated 100,000 persons were illegally receiving cable service. The program resulted in 8,000 new subscribers.

Rogers Cable Systems of Texas, a San Antonio operator, reported a similar jump in new subscribers.

Dave Edwards, general manager, reported the company added 5,000 subscribers during the one-month amnesty program. More than 1,000 person also returned illegal cable converters to avoid prosecution.

Lanae Vickers of United Cable of Abilene, reported efforts there resulted in 667 additional subscribers at different levels of service. The Abilene system reported that nearly 1,500 tampered converters also were returned.

In Laredo, the amnesty program resulted in 600 new subscribers. In Hurst, the cable operator confiscated 30 converter boxes and obtained 500 new subscribers.

Arnold said, "We are very pleased that the public has responded to our call for action. With the new legislation and the heightened public awareness, cable theft can be reduced. It's obvious the show is over for cable thieves. From now on the prosecutors and the judicial system will be handling disposition of this crime."

Bill Stinson to manage Wentworth campaign

From Staff Reports

Bill Stinson, who worked for President Lyndon Johnson from the time he was a House majority leader through his vice presidency and presidency, has been named political consultant and campaign manager for Republican congressional candidate Jeff Wentworth.

Wentworth, a San Antonio resident, is seeking the Republican nomination in the 21st District, which ranges from Midland to San Antonio. Also announced in that race is Lamar Smith of San Antonio while Van Archer, also of the Alamo City, and Midland Mayor Thane Akins are considering entering the contest.

Stinson is a 1952 graduate of Baylor University and has been active in state and national politics 35 years. In addition to working for Johnson, Stinson has worked for former Texas Gov. John Connally in his campaigns and on his staff as assistant to the governor. For the past 17 years, Stinson has been working in the Republican Party at the national and Texas levels.

In 1980, he served on the national presidential campaign staffs for Connally and Ronald Reagan. In 1984, he managed Republican Mac Sweeney's successful campaign for Congress against an incumbent Democrat in the 14th District which stretches from Victoria in South Texas to Georgetown north of Austin.

Wentworth said of Stinson's appointment, "We are indeed fortunate to have the wisdom and experience of Bill Stinson in our campaign. He spent his early formative years in Jones and Taylor counties of West Texas and has worked in every county of what is now the 21st District in several campaigns over the past 25 years."

Stinson also has been active in Bexar County politics and lived in San Antonio in the 1960s.

"Acquiring Bill Stinson brings a dimension to our campaign that can not be matched by anyone else in this race," Wentworth said.

Old Testament scholar to speak at Holy Trinity church

Floyd

An Old Testament scholar from the faculty of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest, Austin, will be the first speaker to appear at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois Ave., under the auspices of the newly established George Harley Biblical Studies Fund.

Child abuse suspects on bond

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Two Ector County men accused of child abuse posted bonds and were released from jail Friday after being charged.

According to sheriff's deputy Roy Gladden, Fletcher Wayne Anderson, 33, Route 5, Box 673, Pleasant Farms, was arraigned before Peace Justice Jimmy Harris on four charges of aggravated sexual assault of a child involving a 10-year-old girl. Harris set bond for Anderson at $7,500 on each of the charges.

Gladden said the assualts on the girl had occurred over about an 18 month period. The investigation continues.

One charge of injury to a child, involving a 4-year-old boy, was filed Friday against 28-year-old Mark Lipner, 1102 W. 2nd St., No. 122.

Lipner was arraigned before Harris, who set his bond at $3,000. Gladden said the alleged abuse concerned bite marks found on the boy's body that were discovered by day care center personnel, who notified the Department of Human Resources.

Local poets will autograph books

From Staff Reports

An autograph party for four local poets whose works are included in a new book — "From Hide and Horn," a poetic celebration of the Texas Sesquicentennial — will be held from 2-4 p.m. today at Pages & Prints, 40 Plaza Center.

The local poets are Joy Butts, Larry D. Griffin, Colleen Church Leonard and Jerry L. Preas.

The book was edited by Shirley Ratisseau, a specialist in Texas history whose family dates back to the Texas Revolution and the Battle of the Alamo.

Subjects of the 150 poems are as varied as the poets and the state receives mixed treatment. The good and bad are chronicled.

In it she wrote, "Other states were carved or born...Texas grew from hide and horn."

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — State highway commissioners Friday authorized Ector County officials to proceed with right-of-way acquisition for the construction of a loop just south of Odessa.

The 3.5-mile loop will begin at the intersection of Interstate 20 and Texas 302 and will run to U.S. 385.

With the commission's action Friday, plans for the loop enter the second stage of a 10-year plan. During the first stage, county officials were limited to making route studies and environmental reports and conducting public hearings.

The loop is expected to cost $1.5 million, said Charles Muery, highway department spokesman for the Odessa district.

Muery said county officials have acquired most of the right-of-ways and are now prepared to begin construction plans.

Reagan County HS to hold reunion

From Staff Reports

An "Old-Times" Reunion for the Reagan County High School classes of 1935, 1936, 1937 and 1938 will be held today and tonight in the Big Lake Community Center, according to Thelma Gardner.

The reunion will be held in the Big Lake Community Building.

The reunion will begin at 10 a.m.. Events will include a catered lunch at 12:30 p.m., visiting and touring in the afternoon, and an 8 p.m. dance featuring big-band music of the 1930s and 1940s. The performing band will be the Foxtrotters.

Those wishing additional information on the reunion may telephone J.D. Poage at 884-2138 and Ruth Brown at 884-2778 in Rankin or Mrs. Gardner at 682-1970 in Midland.

Midlanders attend conference

From Staff Reports

World Book Encyclopedia Inc. employees Dorothy Mueller, Anne Andrews and Paula Sandell, all of Midland, attended the company's International Achievement Conference recently in Chicago.

Highlights of the four-day meeting included a kick-off of the company's fourth annual Company-With-A-Heart promotion.

Through the program, World Book donates sets of encyclopedias to needy families and charitable institutions, provided they qualify. Last year, over 5,000 sets were donated at Christmas, including five sets in Midland.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Phillips Petroleum Company operated an extensive underground natural gas gathering system with in the City of Midland and the surrounding area.
The operation of this system does not constitute a hazard to the general public. However, ditching, blasting, and other earth-moving operations conducted in the vicinity of our lines could result in damage to these lines and the release of poison gas and/or explosions or fires.
To prevent this from occurring, Phillips has erected pipeline markers indicating our lines in the City of Midland in an effort to notify the public of these lines. Included on the line markers is a telephone number where a Phillips representative can be reached to furnish assistance in locating any particular line. That telephone number is (915) 367-1266.
In order to protect yourselt and Phillips, please call this number before digging.

Classified-Where did it come from and what's it all about? Just about everyone at the newspaper and some of the public have seen the Classified phone sales staff feaverishly tapping at the keys of their computer terminals while the phone incessently rings and the phone lights are flashing like a spastic christmas tree, but what is behind all that activity?
Let me give you a little background on Classified Advertising and how it evolved over the past centuries. There will be a quiz later so take notes.
The full text of the Declaration of Independence first appeared in a newspaper on July 20, 1776. The paper was The Virginis Gazette, and in the same issue there was a Want Ad, headed "Seamen Wanted."
The standards of good journalism in those times left no room for such commercialism. But public continued to demand those pesky Want Ads to be published. Most publishers didn't know whether to charge for them or run them free (I am glad they decided to charge for them).
Continued demand forced publishers to print more and more of the want ads. About 1830 The New York Sun became the first newspaper to group all the little ads together. In spite of the fact that the page proved to be extremely popular with the public and advertisers it wasn't untill around the turn of the century that the modern Classified section became a full fledged member of the newspaper family. I was not yet in classified at that time so I must rely on usualy reliale sources for this information. It was at this time that the volume of ads made it expedient to group the ads under classification headings.
I realize the back shop oftem gets irritated with all the little classified liner ads, however they are the heart of the classified section. They are referred to as " Family Want Ads" and are the main attraction of the section. This is not heresay evidence but has been proven in case after case, year after year. In cities were competitive newspapers exist the newspaper having Classified leadership almost invariably leads in other departments as well.
Commercial advertisers have come to recognize the tremendous readership of Classified and buying power of the readers that consistantly check the Classified pages each day. They have intruded into the family want ad pages. I for one, am glad that the commercial advertisers have seen the light of the Classified Advertising pages power.
What has classified done to deserve the admiration of the public? Over the years and on a daily basis classified has been: finding new homes for families that have outgrown theirs, and found homes for parents who's children have left home and need smaller homes. Found lost pets of weeping children, and restored lost persons to anxious friends. Found loving homes for the millions of kittens and puppies that seem to show up from nowhere. Sold the unneeded items of countless millions to the people needing thoes items. Informed the people seeking jobs that an employer was seeking someone with their skills. Classified has even helped sell a single shoe that an amputee did not need , but that another did.
All this has not been acomplished without some humor. Take for example this ad from YANKEE." Will swap rowing machine exerciser for scale that goes up to 330 lbs." Or this one from the New Canaan ADVERTISER. " VROOM, VROOM! Fabulous Suzuki TS250 motorcycle for sale. Used once to travel through mid-life crisis--3 1/2 thrilling miles!". Last but certainly not least from the SEATTLE TIMES. " Engagement diamond ring, appraised $339. Trade for rifle."
There are many such stories such as these in the classified pages, these have been but a few.
So the next time you're close to the Classified Department area and you observe the Classified sales staff with their fingers flying across the key board of their terminals, hear the phones ringing off the hook, and see the southern sky of the building lit up with the blinking lights of the phones, you will know that great history exists behind all that activity and millions of people's lives are affected by the classified pages.
Classified is no longer classified to you any more, as I have de-classified the mistique of classified for you.

A fatal automobile accident occurred on August 11, 1983, on Loop 250 at approximately 10:15p.m. in the vicinity of what is now Chili's Restaurant. The car, a 1981 red Audi 5000, struck the curb and rolled into the field north of the Loop ejecting and killing the driver. Several people may have witnessed the accident and others came upon the scene shortly afterward. One passing motorist, is thought to have used his headlights to help illuminate the scene so that rescue efforts could be undertaken. If you have any knowledge of this occurrence, please call Wendy at 684-5782.

COMMISSION SALES REP

Part-time or full-time. High commission dollars paid for selling local retail businesses on our bad check collection service. However, the check system we provide to merchants is actually free to them because Texas law provides that collection agencies charge a fee to the hot check writer. Our Sales Reps are paid a commission that is based on a percentage of this fee collected on each hot check written to our merchant clients. Hence, our Reps enjoy continuing repeat earnings on each client signed up as long as the Rep makes courtesy service calls on the client merchant sufficient to retain client satisfaction and a good relationship. Thus each satisfied client becomes a building block that can result in Sales Reps earning at a rate of $18,000 to $24,000 per year, after a year of part-time sales effort. Credit Verificatio Corporation is the fastest growing company of its industry, with the most advanced and comprehensive check system in the U.S. Credit Verification Corporation is providing this service currently to over 3,500 satisfied clients and is in excellent standing with all regulatory agencies and the Better Business Bureau. Please call 1-800-592-4421 for additional information on our company and our service or to make application for interview and training.

BUYERS GUIDE
IMPORTANT: Spoken promises are difficult to enforce. Ask the dealer to put all promises in writing. Keep this form.
WARRANTIES FOR THIS VEHICLE:
AS IS—NO WARRANTY
YOU WILL PAY ALL COSTS FOR ANY REPAIRS. The dealer assumes no responsibility for any repairs regardless of any oral statements about the vehicle.
WARRANTY
FULL LIMITED WARRANTY. The dealer will pay 100 % of the labor and 100 % of the parts for the covered systems that fail during the warranty period. Ask the dealer for a copy of the warranty document for a full explanation of warranty coverage, exclusions, and this dealer's repair obligations. Under state law, "implied warranties" may give you even more rights.
SYSTEMS COVERED: Engine, Cylinder Block and All Internal Parts, Cylinder Head Assemblies, Timing Case, Chain, Gears, Belt and Sprockets, Harmonic Balancer, Oil Pump, Water Pump, Transmission Case and all Internal Parts, Torque Converter, Drive Plate, Flex Plate, Fly Wheel, Bell Housing, Transaxle Case or Rear Axle Housing and all Internal Parts, Drive Shaft and Axle Shaft Assemblies and their Housings, Axle Shaft Bearings, Drive Shaft Center Bearings, Constant Velocity Joints, Universal Joints and Yokes
DURATION: All listed components are covered for 3 Months from the vehicle sale date or 3,000 miles from the vehicle's odometer reading at the time of vehicle sale (whichever comes first) after payment by the customer of the first $50 of covered repair costs for each repair visit
SERVICE CONTRACT. A service contract is available at an extra charge on this vehicle. Ask for details as to coverage, deductible, price, and exclusions. If you buy a service contract within 90 days of the time of sale, state law "implied warranties" may give you additional rights.
PRE-PURCHASE INSPECTION: ASK THE DEALER IF YOU MAY HAVE THIS VEHICLE INSPECTED BY YOUR MECHANIC EITHER ON OR OFF THE LOT.
SEE THE BACK OF THIS FORM for important additional information, including a list of some major defects that may occur in used motor vehicles.

COMMISSION SALES REP
Part-time or full-time. High commission dollars paid for selling local retail businesses on our bad check collection service. However, the check system we provide to merchants is actually free to them because Texas law provides that collection agencies charge a fee to the hot check writer. Our Sales Reps are paid a commission that is based on a percentage of this fee collected on each hot check written to our merchant clients. Hence, our Reps enjoy continuing repeat earnings on each client signed up as long as the Rep makes courtesy service calls on the client merchant sufficient to retain client satisfaction and a good relationship. Thus each satisfied client becomes a building block that can result in Sales Reps earning at a rate of $18,000 to $24,000 per year, after a year of part-time sales effort. Credit Verificatio Corporation is the fastest growing company of its industry, with the most advanced and comprehensive check system in the U.S. Credit Verification Corporation is providing this service currently to over 3,500 satisfied clients and is in excellent standing with all regulatory agencies and the Better Business Bureau. Please call 1-800-592-4421 for additional information on our company and our service or to make application for interview and training.

BUYERS GUIDE
IMPORTANT: Spoken promises are difficult to enforce. Ask the dealer to put all promises in writing. Keep this form.
WARRANTIES FOR THIS VEHICLE:
☐ AS IS—NO WARRANTY
YOU WILL PAY ALL COSTS FOR ANY REPAIRS. The dealer assumes no responsibility for any repairs regardless of any oral statements about the vehicle.
☒ WARRANTY
☐ FULL ☒ LIMITED WARRANTY. The dealer will pay 100 % of the labor and 100 % of the parts for the covered systems that fail during the warranty period. Ask the dealer for a copy of the warranty document for a full explanation of warranty coverage, exclusions, and the dealer's repair obligations. Under state law, "implied warranties" may give you even more rights.
SYSTEMS COVERED: Engine, Cylinder Block and All Internal Parts, Cylinder Head Assemblies, Timing Case, Chain, Gears, Belt and Sprockets, Harmonic Balancer, Oil Pump, Water Pump, Transmission Case and all Internal Parts, Torque Converter, Drive Plate, Flex Plate, Fly Wheel, Bell Housing, Transaxle Case or Rear Axle Housing and all Internal Parts, Drive Shaft and Axle Shaft Assemblies and their Housings, Axle Shaft Bearings, Drive Shaft Center Bearings, Constant Velocity Joints, Universal Joints and Yokes
DURATION: All listed components are covered for 3 Months from the vehicle sale date or 3,000 miles from the vehicle's odometer reading at the time of vehicle sale (whichever comes first) after payment by the customer of the first $50 of covered repair costs for each repair visit
☐ SERVICE CONTRACT. A service contract is available at an extra charge on this vehicle. Ask for details as to coverage, deductible, price, and exclusions. If you buy a service contract within 90 days of the time of sale, state law "implied warranties" may give you additional rights.
PRE-PURCHASE INSPECTION: ASK THE DEALER IF YOU MAY HAVE THIS VEHICLE INSPECTED BY YOUR MECHANIC EITHER ON OR OFF THE LOT.
SEE THE BACK OF THIS FORM for important additional information, including a list of some major defects that may occur in used motor vehicles.
