Comanche Indians Ride Into Quanah To Give Tribe's Blessings

Faith

An Event—
The Oil Man's Fancy—
A New Champ—
Stop, Look, Listen—

Texas and Oklahoma join Saturday in celebrating the opening of the free bridge across the Red river at Burkburnett, a momentous occasion in the advancement of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma. This bridge, which opens way to free travel between Oklahoma and Texas, will inevitably draw a large part of the cross-states traffic each year, and will inevitably increase the business of the towns along the highways leading to the Burkburnett bridge. Wichita Falls is as much interested in this opening and in this celebration as the smaller cities in Oklahoma and Texas, and Wichita Falls residents will be wise if they seize this opportunity of getting acquainted with the towns and the people along the Texas-Oklahoma boundary.

Opening of the bridge fits especially well into Wichita Falls' program of developing the agricultural possibilities of its immediate area. Farmers of Oklahoma, just across Red river, are looking to this city as the future great market for their produce, especially in the dairying and poultry industries. Through the wisdom and foresight of such men as J. A. Kemp and the many leaders of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, Wichita Falls is ready to step forward and make use of this new opportunity in the bridge opening. Irrigation, diversification, a free bridge, dairying, cheese making, poultry raising and truck growing—how well these things fit into the program which is to make Wichita Falls the great city of the southwest.

Production of the Seminole oil field, great Oklahoma area that has played havoc with petroleum prices during the last few months, shows a steady trend downward, despite occasional fluctuations. Oil men who know their industry, petroleum experts who have been long in the business, are more cheerful these days. Those who know tell you that the great slump will be over early in 1928—perhaps by March 1.

The Wichita Falls Advertising club, headed by T. A. Bradley, will handle the publicity and advertising campaign for the Community Chest, an excellent arrangement for the chest and a fine piece of service for this civic organization. In the Ad club will be found the business men of Wichita Falls who know most about the advertising and publicity business. They give their time and experience freely and willingly in a community enterprise, and if a well-managed campaign is effective, the Community Chest should "go over the top" in record time.

The Turkey correspondent of The Record News writes in a story about Buck Crump, landowner and successful farmer near Turkey, who has made money on cotton every year for 23 years except one. Mr. Crump's unsuccessful year was in 1926, when southern farmers went broke on the greatest cotton crop in history. There are few who could match Mr. Crump's record. His picture should be in all the papers over the South, and enterprising farm writers should journey to his door to find out how he does it.

C. C. Bunnenberg is superintendent of Wichita Falls parks and an expert in the care of trees and shrubs. Mr. Bunnenberg urges Wichita Falls property owners to give correct attention to their trees during the fall, and stands ready to give any assistance or advice needed. His generous services should be used to the fullest extent by home owners. One of the greatest beauties of this "city of faith" is its trees and shrubs, which have been made to grow here by home builders and home lovers.

A Wichita Falls woman, asleep as her husband drove their automobile along a highway, leaped from the machine when suddenly awakened, but fortunately escaped without serious injury. Instinct, a sixth sense, or whatever you want to call it, caused this woman to jump from the car, and the same instinct preserves most of us daily from the dangers of automobile accidents and other modern hazards. Our modern scheme of life would be almost impossible but for this "extra sense" which guides us from danger many times before we realize the threat.

Our instinct or development allows us to meet unexpected dangers more readily and with greater success than our predecessors of a few generations back, but don't depend on this at places where caution is needed. Continue to stop at railroad crossings, stop signs and traffic lights if you intend to remain on this earth for long.

TEEPEES ARE SET UP

Pres. Haynie Of West Texas C-C To Wear Chief's Regalia

E. H. WHITEHEAD

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 3.—Quanah is "all set" for one of the most unique celebrations ever staged in Texas. The tribe of Comanche Indians arrived here Thursday headed by Baldwin Parker head chief of the Comanche Nation who is a son of Quanah Parker, famous Indian of Texas history. A camp ground has been prepared for the redskins, and the Quanah C. of C. has provided the camp with plenty of wood, water and other necessities for the primitive village which they will establish for their stay here.

Workmen are erecting a mammoth elevated platform on the court house lawn where the ceremonies of initiating President R. W. Haynie of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce as a chief of the Comanches will be staged.

Program Prepared

Details of the program for the Indian "Feast of the Harvest Moon" have been worked out and the line of march for the parade opening the ceremonies has been arranged and will be roped off Friday morning.

Chief Parker notified Secretary Carl Guin of the Quanah chamber that his tribe struck camp in Oklahoma and began their march to Quanah Wednesday afternoon.

Fifty warriors and lesser chiefs will take part in the initiation of President Haynie and in addition will be a number of squaws, papooses, children, and ordinary Indians who do the work about the village.

Chief Parker has asked the Quanah citizens to have three beeves ready for the Indians to kill and eat raw when they par-

Chief Baldwin Parker and His Family

Gun Flashes As Two Women Battle Over Man In Residence Section Here

Shot Fired by One Woman Barely Misses Hitting Little Girl Living in House Across Street

Two women fought for a man at a residence on Brown street early Thursday night.

A shot fired by one of the rival lovers came near to hitting an unintended human target, a small girl some distance away, but neither of the women was injured more than losing some hair and possibly some rouge, according to officers who investigated.

Questioned by Sam B. Spence, assistant district attorney, the two women and relatives of one of them told the same story with the exception of two particulars. Those who lived in the house in which the fight took place claimed that one of the participants came into the house without being asked to do so and that she carried a pistol.

She Denies Carrying Gun

She claimed that she knocked at the door and was asked into the house and that she did not carry a pistol, according to Mr. Spence.

Finding the man claimed by both women in the house, the "visitor" asked him to ride home with her in her automobile, Mr. Spence was told. After the invitation was extended the much sought man, the woman said she was ordered to leave the house by her rival.

A scuffle ensued and after the pair had been separated by a brother of the woman who lived in the house, the other was forcefully pushed outside, both parties stated to Mr. Spence.

"I was so mad, I doubled up my fist and crashed the glass in the door," the woman told Mr. Spence.

The others told Mr. Spence that she broke the glass with a pistol.

She then went ot her car and her rival, securing a pistol, ran out of the back door. Going in front of the car, the woman fired once into the windshield, the bullet crashing into a residence some distance away. Occupants of the house said a small girl was standing near the spot at which the bullet was imbedded in the wall.

Three Are Arrested

Police officers, called to the house by neighbors, arrested three occupants, two sisters and a brother, and the other woman was arrested later.

After being questioned by Mr. Spence and Sheriff W. G. Bralley the two women were placed under $200 appearance bonds which they perfected. The brother pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was fined $15.80 by Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn. The other sister was released.

WELTER SCRAP PROVES FIASCO

Joe Dundee 'Runs Out' On Ace Hudkins

WRIGLEY FIELD, LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3. (AP)—Ace Hudkins of Nebraska claimed the welterweight championship of the world here tonight when Joe Dundee of Baltimore failed to show up for their scheduled ten round battle for the crown.

Pandemonium reigned at the ringside when the crowd realized that the fight for which they had paid $10 for ringside seats was not going to come off.

Rumor flew thick and fast as to the cause of the fiasco. Some said Promoter Dick Donald had not paid what was claimed to be Dundee's guarantee under contract. Others declared that differences over a referee had broken up the program. After a long delay following the two preliminaries, Hudkins came into the ring, sat there for 15 minutes, and left when Dundee did not show up.

Shortly afterwards he came back fully dressed and Tom Kennedy, one of his attendants, announced that the Nebraska Wildcat claimed the title.

A crowd estimated at upwards of 25,000 people was in the stands and the ringside chairs on the field, loudly demanding its money back when the scheduled main event of the evening failed to materialize.

FRENCH FEAR MOROCCO WAR

Kidnaping of Envoy's Kin Political Move

By Universal Service

PARIS, Nov. 3.—A vast political and religious warfare looms behind the recent capture by Moroccan bands of young Steeg, nephew of the French commissioner general in Morocco, and his three companions.

That robbery and the collection of the ransom were not the sole reasons for the seizing of the hunting party, was openly revealed when Ben Naceur, caid of several dissident tribes of Morocco, set forth the terms under which the prisoners would be released. The terms as disclosed several days ago insisted not only an enormous ransom but upon the release of Moroccan prisoners and the cessation of French activities against Moroccan tribes.

Competent observers of the situation fear the insistence of the Moroccans on their terms may presage a conflict on a large scale.

TEXAS POLICE ON TRAIL OF THREE BANDITS

Four Banks, Two In Texas and Two In Oklahoma, Raided Thursady

ONE ROBBED TUESDAY

Suspect In Texas City Raid Two Days Ago Under Arrest

DALLAS, Nov. 3. (AP)—Texas officers tonight were searching for eight men who robbed three banks today and had in custody a man identified in Tuesday's bank robbery at Texas City. The total amount involved in all four robberies was believed to be something more than $10,000.

The largest robbery today was that of the First State bank of Tehuacana, which occurred at 3:15 p. m. Four unmasked men took $2500 and escaped in a motor car. Two men robbed the Planters State bank at Grove, Coryell county, earlier in the day of $1100. An undetermined amount, probably small, was taken by two men who robbed the First National bank of Erick, Okla., and escaped into rough country near Shamrock, Texas.

W. S. Scrivner, convicted payroll robber arrested in Houston early today, was identified at Texas City as one of the men who held up and robbed the First National bank there of $6000 Tuesday. He was lodged in jail at Galveston. He was sentenced to 50 years here in 1917 for the Sanger payroll robbery but escaped in 1920 and took part in the Jackson street million dollar postoffice robbery, turning state's evidence after his capture.

BANDITS MAY BE HEMMED IN THICKET.

TEMPLE, Nov. 3. (AP)—Robbers who held up the Planters State bank of Grove, Coryell county today taking $1000, were believed by pursuing possemen tonight to be hemmed up in a thicket on Cowhouse creek, 20 miles away, reports reaching here said. The section is very wild, roads are very bad and only meager reports of the chase are being received here.

Horseman Travels 5000 Miles

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3. (AP)—With more than half his journey behind him A. H. F. Schiffely, Argentine school master, was here today waiting to resume what will probably be the longest horseback ride known—from Buenos Aires to New York, 10,000 miles.

Attacks of malarial fever suffered in the tropical jungles of Central America had left the rider weak and thin. His two Argentine ponies, Mancha and El Gato, however, were both in fine shape, sleek and strong despite the hardships of the long trip begun more than two years ago.

JURY 'SHADOW' ON SINCLAIR

Prominent Associates Of Sinclair Disappear

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The federal grand jury investigating the web of intrigue which brought about a mistrial of the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy case upon allegations of jury tampering, witnessed amazing new developments today.

Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw, in charge of the inquiry, through witnesses who testified today, directly linked Harry F. Sinclair, the oil millionaire, with the activities of the sixteen Burns detectives who "shadowed" eleven of the Teapot Dome jurors.

This resulted in subpoenas being issued demanding the immediate appearance before the grand jury of William J. Burns and Hisson W. Sherman Burns, secretary of the detective agency. All records in Burns' offices, particularly dealing with who paid for the jury surveillance and the source of funds expended were ordered brought to the district attorney's office.

Eugene Blauvett, French chauffer for Sinclair during the trial, proved to be one of the prosecutor's "surprise witnesses" today. His testimony was said to still further support Burkinshaw's charge that Sinclair was the real employer of the Burns operatives.

In the meantime government process servers in every section of the country sought out important

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Showers of bouquets from friends and brickbats from enemies today deluged Baron Friedrich Wilhelm Von Prittwitz upon the publication of the news that he had been selected to succeed the late Baron Matizan as German ambassador to the United States.

Although the foreign office still withholds formal announcement of the election, the die-hard nationalists accept the appointment as a settled fact and are correspondingly indignant. They have never forgiven Prittwitz for his espousal of the republican cause after the revolution of 1918 and now they assail Foreign Minister Stresemann for advancing the present counsellor at the Rome embassy.

FIGHT TO SAVE MAN CONTINUED THROUGH NIGHT

Attorney For Doomed Man Asks Federal Courts For Stay Order

EACH EFFORT FAILS

Counsel's Pleas Denied By Three Federal Officials

At 3:15 a. m. Friday, Judge W. E. Hawkins, chief counsel for A. V. Millikin, was still waging a frantic fight to prevent the execution of his client scheduled to take place at Huntsville at some time before sunrise Friday morning. Hawkins was at that hour reported trying to get a stay of execution from some one of the several federal judges in Texas, after having failed to obtain stays from Federal Judge William H. Atwell at Dallas, Judge Lee Estes at Texarkana and Judge Duval West at San Antonio, according to Associated Press dispatches. Federal Judge J. C. Wilson of Fort Worth was expected to be Hawkins' final resort in the effort to save Millikin.

At Huntsville, Warden N. L. Speer was reported awaiting word from Hawkins as to the success of his last attempt before ordering the execution to proceed, which already had been delayed since midnight in order to allow Millikin's attorneys more time in their fight for a stay.

At 1:40 a. m. Friday, less than a half hour before Millikin was to march to the death chair, Governor Dan Moody at Austin reaffirmed his stand of late Thursday in refusing to halt the execution of the convicted man. At that hour he had just talked over long distance to Federal Judge Lee Estes at Texarkana at the request of defense counsel and said that Judge Estes had "taken no action" in the case which two other federal judges had earlier in the night refused to review.

Governor Moody said "My decision as stated Thursday is final unless some court order is issued in the case."

Millikin appeared nonchalant and unshaken when at 10:30 Thursday night he submitted coolly to the shaving of his head by the Huntsville prison barber in preparation for his execution. Previously he had eaten a hearty dinner during the course of which he had nothing to say.

A last-minute effort was made by Millikin's counsel at Austin to obtain another reprieve for the convicted man from Governor Dan Moody, but the chief executive late Thursday refused to interfere in any way with the scheduled electrocution.

At midnight Thursday, the death march was delayed until 2 a. m., when Warden N. L. Speer announced that he was holding off with the execution in order to give Judge W. E. Hawkins and Clarence Ginn, Millikin's attorneys, time to place their plea for a stay of execution before Judge William H.

Speaking of Modern Etiquette, What Would You Do In a Case Like This?

L. A. Selvridge, motorman of the Wichita Falls Traction company, was charged in a complaint made by Sheriff W. G. Bralley Tuesday afternoon, with "willfully and maliciously destroying personal property," after the street car operated by Selvridge had hit the sheriff's automobile.

The crash occurred on North Tenth street in front of a house to which he had received an urgent call, according to Sheriff Bralley. Receiving the call at his home where he and his 10-year-old daughter, Maurine, were alone, Mr. Bralley took her with him on the call, he said.

The street in front of the house at which he stopped was muddy on each side of the street car tracks and he stopped his car on the tracks while he went into the house, leaving his daughter in the car, Mr. Bralley said.

He had been out of the car only a few minutes, he said, when the girl called to him that a street car was coming and he walked out to move his automobile. When he had gotten in the car, Mr. Bralley said, the street car was some distance away.

"I started the motor as quickly as I could but I felt that the street car would stop if I did not move before it reached the spot," said Mr. Bralley.

The automobile was knocked back about 10 feet when hit by the street car and one fender was demolished, Mr. Bralley said.

Selvidge, who contended that the street car had the right-of-way, was arrested and taken to the court house immediately, leaving the street car unattended.

After the accident, Mr. Bralley said later, Selvidge alighted from the street car with pencil and notebook in hand and asked:

"Who are you?"

"I am W. G. Bralley, sheriff of Wichita county," Mr. Bralley said he replied.

"Well, what are you doing on the street car track?" was the motorman's next question.

"I am trying to get off," the sheriff replied.

After some further conversation, Mr. Bralley told Selvidge to get in the automobile and accompany him to the court house, which he did.

George V. Harpin, claim agent of the Wichita Falls Traction company, said after the accident that the matter had been reported to him but he declined to make any comment.

JAY WARD IS VODVIL STAR

Good Bill Presented Here This Week

By BARTINE CLARKE.

The Flying Hartwells opened the vaudeville bill Thursday at the Majestic with a sensational and unusual performance on a swinging rope. Their act was good even though shortened by a break in the supporting wires.

The Melroy sisters in "Songs and Steps" had clever costumes and did some good dancing.

Master Jay Ward "the typical American boy" was a knockout. The whole family was good but Jay is the kind you dream about and seldom see. His interpretation of the black bottom was clever. The only shame is that he must grow up—but when he does!

Roy Cummings and Irene Shaw were nothing but nonsense but their act was certainly amusing, quite funny, in fact they almost stopped the show. Irene needs to be a very durable young lady and Roy really needs a skate on his nose. Anyway Roy had IT and that was enough.

The A. & P. Gypsies are already well known and appreciated from their records for the Brunswick and radio performances. They are even better when heard first hand. Each one is an exceptional artist and taken together their music is really wonderful. They should have several hours instead of as many minutes.

SAMPEY PAYS LEE TRIBUTE

Southern Leader "Greatest Man Since Paul"

Robert Edward Lee was the example that helped many a boy in the dark days of the reconstruction and has helped many since in the opinion of Dr. John R. Sampey, Louisville, Ky., evangelist who spoke before the Rotary club Thursday noon. The Confederate leader was the subject of a spirited talk in which the evangelist declared he believed General Lee to be the greatest man who had lived since the apostle Paul.

Tribute to Leaders

"I grew up where I heard the Confederate soldiers talk," he said, "and it was years before I knew Yankee was one word. I thought until quite a lad it was two, 'dam Yankee.' I was around these men and some of the finest men I ever knew were Morgan's horse thieves who lived in central Kentucky where I was partially reared. I am also a great admirer of Abe Lincoln. I think the two outstanding men of their era were Lincoln and Lee.

"The South lost its greatest friend north of the line when that crazy actor shot Lincoln. Had he lived I do not doubt but that he would have invited General Lee to visit him in the White House to aid in getting a better understanding between the north and the south.

"There has been much poppycock spread about what happened at Appomattox courthouse. General Lee, after he saw he could carry on no further, decided surrender was the best. He, with Lieutenant Colonel Marshall, went to the courthouse and there met Grant, Meade, Sherman and others. They talked of what was needed and Grant made certain concessions.

Glorious Example

"After the surrender he set out on Traveler alone and went into Richmond. As he passed down the street he was received as a hero and men bared their heads. His advice to his men was to go back to their homes and aid in building up the south. The first thing he did after President Johnson issued his proclamation that citizenship would be restored upon application was to send in his. This was pigeon-holed in Washington for five years and he died a prisoner of war, paroled.

"The example of this man helped me during the dark days of the reconstruction and often when tempted to do something I would stop and think whether or not General Lee would have done that. He has since been a glorious example of Christian gentleman and soldier to thousands all over the south."

"Just So Busy We Don't Have Time To Hear Gossip," Explains Sartin

But "West Texas Children's Aid" Is in Reality "Wichita Falls' Children's Aid," He Declares

"Why do you call your organization the 'West Texas Children's Aid' instead of Wichita Falls Children's Aid, when it does its work in Wichita Falls and gets its money here?" a Record News reporter asked Judge B. D. Sartin, president of the board of the West Texas Children's Aid society. The children's aid is one of the organizations included in the Wichita Falls community chest.

"Mainly," Judge Sartin responded, "because we have to place the majority of our children outside the country, and the West Texas farm homes offer us some of the finest opportunities.

"Another reason is that West Texas is Wichita Falls' trade territory, and it sounds a little less selfish, considering the fact that we draw contributions for upkeep from the whole territory, to use that name."

The reporter reminded Judge Sartin that there was some criticism last year, at the time the budget was being asked for the Children's Aid work, on the ground that the organization work "covers all of West Texas, and Wichita Falls is asked to pay for all of it."

Aid to City

"Well," Judge Sartin laughed, "we took exactly seven children outside of Wichita Falls last year, counting every last one of them. We handled 228 children in all—which means 221 children from here.

"Now for these seven—count 'em—poor little tads we got from outside Wichita Falls, we got back in, in donations from outside Wichita Falls, a total of $748.46; an average of over $100 a child.

"Wichita Falls, that supplied us with 221 children to be looked after and cared for, and homes got for, provided us with a budget of $6500, cutting our budget down from $7500.

"What we got in donations from here, then, where we do the whole bulk of our work—averaged less than $30 a child.

"In other words, West Texas pays us just four times as much on upkeep as we get from Wichita Falls itself, in proportion to the work done."

Judge Sartin explained to the reporter the reason it is absolutely inadvisable to place children within a radius of a hundred miles of a former home, and told of some instances where in certain emergencies children had been placed near former homes and tragedies (for the child) had resulted. West Texas with prosperous homes and little towns, has opened wide its doors to the little waifs, he said, and scores of wonderful homes for babies taken from this territory have been found there in the past 10 years.

Praise For Miss Henricle

"We have in Miss Henricle one of the best child workers in this line in the United States," Judge Sartin said, "and if people really knew what she is doing—and what we all want done, in our society, among these homeless children—it would open the hardest heart on earth. We're mighty sorry these mis-statements and misunderstandings about the work got started, but to tell you the truth, our two workers and our board are so busy getting something done, and building up an absolutely first class organization, that we don't have much time to listen to gossip and criticism.

"We just put out our statements and hope folks will know the truth, and come around and see what we're doing. We can show anybody—"

The man was arrested by Patrolman Thornton, and first placed in the city jail.

Negro Charities Find All At Work In Oct.

No groceries were bought for Wichita Falls negroes in October by the Negro Day nursery and charities. This report was made Thursday to Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary of the Community Chest. Only half of the negro population was in the city and practically all had work. The others were in the cotton patch.

The negroes also reported they had raised a little over the $500 demanded of them by the chest. The chest adds $1700 to this amount to carry on the work of the organization.

Three Injured When Motorcycle Hits Car

Three youths were injured late Thursday when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed with an automobile in the city. Johnnie Zetzsche, 1506 Harrison street, is in the Wichita General hospital with a fractured leg while Glen Lambert, 408 Scott, was treated for a slight cut on his head and Glen Fannin, 1007 Seventh, was treated for a slightly injured knee. Lambert and Fannin were released fro mthe hosptial after receiving first aid treatment.

Ad Club Plans For Chest Campaign

Publicity and advertising plans for putting over the Community Chest campaign starting November 21 were formulated Thursday morning at a special meeting of the Wichita Falls Ad club and prominent publicity men of the city. A. E. Kelly, chairman of the publicity committee, was in charge of the meeting which was held at the Texas Electric Service company offices.

The entire responsibility for advertising the campaign this year was accepted by the Ad club and work has been started for the immediate opening of the campaign. Newspaper men plan to co-operate extensively to make the chest even larger than before, merchants are gladly offering their windows for displays and every way of getting the campaign before the eye of the public will be utilized.

The campaign proper will open Nov. 19 with a down-town parade of organizations connected with the Community Chest and Sunday, Nov. 20, announcement will be made from all churches endorsing the campaign and making a plea for co-operation from all Wichita Falls.

Quanah Presbyterians Close Successful Meet

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Nov. 3.—The Presbyterian meeting which closed here tonight was declared to have been one of the most successful ever held here. Members of all churches attended the services regularly since the meeting opened 10 days ago. The Rev. Thomas F. Gallaher conducted the services.

Postal Department to Speed Up Special Delivery Mail Service

Special delivery mail service is to be speeded up throughout the nation, according to advices received by Postmaster O. P. Maricle from John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general.

"We invite criticism by the public of this special delivery service," Mr. Maricle said. "Inspectors have been asked to watch for constructive criticism with a view to improving the service. It is particularly important at this time when holidays are approaching.

"A special delivery stamp must be made to mean just what it says and must be given full faith and credit."

Many people do not realize the advantages offered by the special delivery service, the postmaster pointed out.

Even in the forenoon and early afternoon when regular deliveries are taking place the special delivery of the day starts out, usually around 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the special delivery stamp is particularly important," Mr. Maricle said.

College Girls Dress On 30 Cents For Ball

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 3. (AP)—Just to prove that a college girl can dress on 30 cents if she wants to, a group of young women at Syracuse university did it last night. Costumes at a dance given on the hill cost each wearer no more than two bits and a nickel and each girl was fully dressed.

How To Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. All druggists sell lots of it.—Adv.

Miss O'Neill Weds Byrl Connell At Home Ceremony Wednesday Night

Coming as a complete surprise to the many friends of the family, the marriage of Miss Gladys Laura O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. O'Neill of 200 Lucile street, to Byrl Connell of Temple was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock.

The Rev. T. J. Furniss, pastor of the South Side Baptist church, read the beautiful ring ceremony in the presence of only a few friends and relatives. The home was prettily decorated with ferns and cut flowers with a background of autumn foliage.

Mrs. Connell, who is a graduate of Wichita Falls high school and of Baylor college, belongs to one of the most prominent families of the city and is a popular girl with a large circle of friends.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Connell of Temple. He attended school at T. C. U. at Fort Worth and is associated with his father in the mercantile business in Temple, where the couple will make their home, after a brief honeymoon trip.

Forum Department Opens on Thursday

The art department of the Womans Forum held its formal opening at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the club house. A program that was in the spirit of the occasion, was given as follows: "To a Water Lily" and "In Autumn" both by MacDowell, piano numbers were given by Miss Erma Nala Voss.

W. P. Killingsworth gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Selection and Framing of Pictures." Mrs. Ola Hamlin presented a set of books, the "History of Paintings," which were given to the Forum by Mrs. Nancy Taylor, Mrs. Taylor was introduced to the guests.

Following the program Samuel McClelland Yunt, in charge of the Ben Foster art exhibit, conducted a tour of the exhibit offering comments and explanations. Afterwards a social hour was spent when tea was served by Mrs. Bentley Nelson and her sister, Mrs. Paul Minteer, of Kansas City.

Miss Cowart Hostess At Informal Party

Miss Bill Cowart entertained with an informal bridge and dance, Wednesday evening at the Business Girls club house. Mrs. H. V. McConkey won high score and Miss Evelyn Pederson low. After the games, dancing and other diversions were enjoyed.

Mrs. Bowen Hostess At Chinese Luncheon

Mrs. James Bowen, 1705 Monroe street, entertained her bridge club with a beautifully appointed Chinese luncheon Wednesday noon. The house was decorated with Chinese lanterns and bronze and white chrysanthemums.

The luncheon table had a runner of white silk with a silhouette of bamboo and was centered with a decoration of jade green, black and gold and little red pagodas. The place cards were scenes from the Orient brought back by Mrs. Bowen on her last trip there. A typically Chinese luncheon with jasmine tea brought from China was served.

In the games that followed the luncheon, Mrs. E. D. Malone made high score and was given a bronze Buddha incense burner. Mrs. Charles Watson, in the cut was awarded a satsuma vase.

FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling Mystery Story of New York's Night Life

By ANN LISLE

Jill Learns the Tragic Story of Folly's Sudden Death

By Ann Lisle.

WHEN Jill Hathaway came into the Hotel Xavier after her afternoon of shopping, she found Daniel Sylvester Ames waiting for her. He took her by the arm and propelled her to the elevator in a panic of haste.

ANN LISLE

"The impatient bridegroom!" she laughed childingly.

She didn't observe the scrutiny to which she was subjected in the brief moment before Dan Ames got her out of the lobby. She didn't notice how his rabbit face was twitching. She didn't realize that the very air of the elevator in which they rode was tense. She was too deeply concerned with her own strange numbness in the presence of tomorrow's bridegroom to think about such things as stares and electricity in the air.

When they got to Jill's floor she laughed with a sporting attempt to conquer her feelings by laughing at them—and herself.

"You're not coming to my room, Danny, old dear! You know your cousin, Mrs. Sylvester, wouldn't think that correct at all."

Dan groaned. He came as near swearing as a rabbit can. He said: "For the love o' Mike, Jill, don't be absurd now. It's life—and death—we've got to think about."

"You make me feel as if somebody were walking about on my grave!" Jill laughed.

"Don't laugh!" he said in a hollow tone. "My poor darling—you mustn't laugh!"

So they went solemnly to Jill's shabby room and she flung her purchases down on her bed with a little gesture of defiance. And she asked a trifle wearily:

"What is it that can't wait until I've washed and made myself tidy? You know we're not married yet, Danny—not till tomorrow."

"You haven't seen the papers?" he asked.

"Not a paper. Why? Did somebody die and leave me a cool million and do you want to know if the Princess will still condescend to the suitor she no longer needs? You bet I will, Danny. I'll never forget that you weren't too proud to stoop when it looked as if I was the beggar maid——"

"Jill, be quiet!" he ordered.

"Why?"

Her long amber eyes widened with something like alarm as she looked at Dan. He was red and apoplectic and his lips were purplish. He ran an uneasy finger between his collar and his neck. He took off his glasses and wiped them nervously. And he coughed drily before he asked again:

"Sure you haven't seen a paper? Sure you haven't heard anything?"

"Not a thing. Is it something about Folly?" she asked, and wondered why she had said that—wondered why she had suddenly felt a prickle like a telegraph message her spine had picked up and was sending to her brain.

"Yes, it's about Folly. You know where she was this week-end—and who was with her?"

"Yes, I know. Must we talk about it, Dan? Oh—I know, Sam Kerby has his divorce by some magic of the French law and Folly has beaten me to it. She is married. She wanted you to tell me."

"Folly didn't send you any message?" Dan asked.

"No. Unless you're her messenger. What is it, Dan?"

"You never seemed to love Folly—much," he said.

"I don't. I'm ashamed. Girls in stories always adore their mothers. But I grew up thinking Folly was just a—woman I happened to live with and didn't particularly like. I mean we weren't congenial. And she never encouraged me to talk things over with her much. And she didn't like me to make a fuss over her. So I never got the habit of loving her. But I'm glad about her and Sam——"

"Sam went to Europe on a little steamer he managed to get passage on today——"

"An' jilted Folly? Oh, how cruel! How could he do that when she loved him so? It was real love, Dan—like the Autumn—all golden and splendid. I must go to her. This will hurt——"

"He can't hurt her," Dan muttered.

He got up and went over to the window. He stared out into the grim air-shaft that was already dark as night though it was not yet six and there was light out in the streets. He wasn't quite sure how to tell Jill all the things that were going through his mind. He couldn't find the courage to begin. It was not for nothing that he looked like a rabbit, since souls have a way of writing their record on faces and bodies.

At last Jill said a trifle impatiently:

"Dan you've come here with something on your mind. There is something you want to say to me. For goodness's sake, spill it. I'm hard-boiled enough to stand the gaff no matter how much it hurts. And sometimes I think there isn't any hurt left for me to get acquainted with. I don't mean to crybaby, but I'm just telling you not to be sentimental about me or to be afraid to break me the news even if it is pretty bad. What is it now, Danny me boy?"

"I can't tell you!"

Dan almost sobbed it, and Jill was so sorry for the weakness of him that she went over to him and put her arm around him and drew his fuzzy little head against her own beautiful warm cheek. And she said in a tone that was strangely material coming from eighteen to twenty-eight: "Tell Jill."

For reply he handed her the paper, folded to show the headlines:

"Notorious Folly Duane drowns in Lilypad Lake."

And before Jill read another word she remembered coldly and with sudden terror how she had hated the name of that lake the first time she ever heard it.

To Be Continued.

THE very smart frock at the left is made of velvet in beige and brown checks. The little tabs, drawn handkerchief-wise through the front of the dress, are most unusual while the wide belt and cuffs are made of cellophane.

Bits of white kid, incrusted on the heavy black satin of the frock, form the design shown in the second figure.

Pale rose and black is the color combination of the third frock. The bolero-like jacket is heavily incrusted with heavy steel spangles.

How Infectious Diseases Are Checked in Schools

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

IF your son or daughter is at a boarding school, you have a direct personal interest in boarding-school conditions in their relation to "catching" diseases. There is always the question of crowded dormitories, crowded classrooms, poor ventilation, bedding, personal clothing, and even food, considered as so many media for the transmission of preventable diseases.

DR. CHAS. A. L. REED

It must be said, however, to the credit of the modern high-class boarding schools, that disease-prevention conditions there are generally better than in private homes and public schools.

It is important to remember that diphtheria, scarlet fever and chickenpox can certainly be transmitted by means of clothing, which ought always to be disinfected after use by one of these cases. Steam disinfection is the only safe protection for the first two.

Chickenpox, however, is so mild a disease, has so long an incubation period and spreads so much less readily than most other infections that A. I. Simey (Lancet) thinks it ought to be removed from the list of scheduled infections at boarding schools. He would also remove German measles, but for the fact that it is often very difficult to diagnose from measles and scarlet fever and spreads very rapidly.

Undoubtedly prevention has certain unfavorable results. The effect of the present precautions is that many boys pass through private schools without having contracted, say, measles. In the public schools the disease is also kept out for four or more years on end until there is hardly any one in the school who is immune.

Then, when finally the infection creeps in, it flares out in a really bad epidemic, each round of which is more serious than the last. After a time the rounds cannot be distinguished, and for want of sufficient accommodation patients in early and later stages of the disease have to be nursed together. The wards get so full that they cannot be cleared, ventilated and cleaned, and complications arise which turn the epidemic into a nightmare.

The author believes that it would make but little difference in public schools if they did abolish their precautions, so long as the preparatory schools continued to offer so impenetrable a barrier to infectious disease.

In the interests of the scholars, it is better that they should have their infectious diseases at home, apart from a large congregation of children of the same age. If they must have them at school, they had better have them before puberty than during it, and in the small community of a private school rather than in the much larger community of a public school. To abolish holiday quarantine precautions altogether would spread the incidence of disease over a number of terms instead of crowding an unmanageable number of cases into a few terms at long intervals.

It is not reasonable for a school hospital to attempt to accommodate every case of illness in a big epidemic, for this might mean 40 per cent of the school population. A minimum, say between 10 to 20 per cent, should, however, be maintained, and a certain small number of these should be allotted to non-infectious cases and isolated as far as possible from the others. For purposes of limiting an epidemic once it has started, there must be a certain number of single-bedded rooms for observation purposes.

Our Rhyming OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

DEAR Days-To-Be, so far away,
all shadowless, serene and gay,
I turn to greet with eager eyes your song-sweet paths, your cloudless skies!
Oh, not for dull, dark days like these are your celestial harmonies; but brighter far than days we see your hours will glow,
O, Days-To-Be!
How can it be the future gleams always like some rare land of dreams?
For surely from the Days-That-Are we weave the web of days afar!
And Days-To-Be glow dark or bright to match the passing hours' flight.
They take their colors from today, a tender rose or sombre gray.
Dear Days-To-Be, serene and far, that beckon like a silver star, may I now weave life's web aright, and keep your promise of delight!

Companionate Marriage Idea All Bunk Declares Dorothy Dix

"I Do Not Favor Companionate Marriage," Says Dorothy Dix, "for It Makes of the Altar a Bargain Counter at Which you Can Exchange Your Purchase for a New Thrill—and No Questions Asked!"

A correspondent asks me what I think of the companionate marriage, so ardently advocated by Judge Ben Lindsey and others.

Well, it seems to me that the companionate marriage is just a handful of dust thrown in the eyes of Mrs. Grundy in the hope that it will blind her so that she will not see what a young couple are doing and turn her back on them because of it.

It is taking out a temporary marriage license instead of a permanent one, and the license has a divorce coupon attached which gives the holder a cut rate on divorce and makes it easy and cheap to get rid of your husband or wife if you don't like him or her when you get him or her home or you see somebody else that you prefer or you find you don't like being married, anyway.

It does away with all of that old until-death-do-us-part stuff that men and women used to swear at the altar and makes marriage a petting party that lasts only as long as the husband and wife get a kick out of it.

Companionate marriage differs from the orthodox marriage chiefly in that it is not cluttered up by babies or by the wife depending upon her husband or by any duties or obligations. Both parties are to be free, though bound. There is to be no control, except birth control, and the tie that binds is to be a slipknot so loose that either one can walk out when so inclined and whenever they get bored.

The advantages claimed for the companionate marriage are that it would enable boys and girls to marry young, while the mating instinct is strongest and long before they could marry if they had to wait until they were able to support a family. Also that everybody would be happy though married, for all would have the husbands and wives that nature destined for them. For the motto of the companionate marriage is: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." And every one would keep on trying out new candidates until at last they found companions who suited them.

It is an alluring theory, but for the life of me I can not see where it solves any problem or would add anything to the happiness of humanity. To be sure, it throws a cloak of pseudo-respectability about the companionship of a man and woman who elect to live together for a short time, but a scrap of paper and the mumbling of a few words can not sanctify the marriage that is only entered into until passion shall have spent itself. There is no morality in such a union. It is legalized prostitution. The woman who swaps husbands every time she desires a new thrill is no better than her sister of the street.

Heaven knows the present divorce laws are lax enough. They grant relief to every one who has the ghost of a legitimate grievance against those to whom they are married. But, at least, they do not make the altar a bargain counter to which you can return your purchase when you lose your taste for it and get your money back with no questions asked.

Just what advantage the companionate marriage has over the old-fashioned marriage I do not see. If babies are taboo, they are avoided as easily in one case as in the other. If the wife wants to keep on with her job after marriage, there is nothing to hinder her doing so in either estate. If a man beats or starves or mistreats his wife or a wife fails in her duty or even nags or frets at her husband, they can tell their woes to the divorce courts and no law forces them to live together, even under the present marriage law.

In reality the companionate marriage does not offer as much chance of happiness as does the common or garden variety of marriage, because it is built on a rotten foundation. It rests upon the desire of the flesh, the mood of the moment, upon fancies as light as air, upon whims and caprices and temperament and temper, all of which are as variable as the wind that blows.

More than that, the very knowledge the man and woman have that their arrangement is not permanent and that either one is free to walk out whenever he or she chooses would keep them upset and filled with jealousies and suspicions. Just because their companionship is to endure only so long as it pleases them would keep them forever on the alert, looking out for some one who could give them a newer thrill, a more potent fascination and who had a new line of attractions.

They would not make the effort to make their marriage the success that the men and women do who feel that they have married for keeps, that they have taken upon themselves unbreakable obligations which they are bound to fulfill and that they must set to work to make the best of the bargain they have made.

Disillusion comes to all married people. Disappointments. They have their moment of cowardice in which they are tempted to turn quitters, but they realize that they entered into the marriage contract with open eyes and they are too good sports and too honorable to welch upon it.

It will not add to the sum of matrimonial felicity for men and women to be able to break their marriage bonds whenever they begin to chafe a little, for marriage is like every other career in the world—at first it is hard and full of discouragements and one always feels that one has made a mistake and thinks it would have been easier if one had chosen something else. But if one has the courage to hold on and fight on, one achieves success at last.

So I think that, take it all in all, the old marriage, in which a man and woman take each other for better or worse for the next forty of fifty years, is more desirable than the companionate marriage which can be broken at will. And I think it will be a sad day when the clerk in the marriage bureau asks a young couple: "What sort of marriage license do you want, long-term or a ninety-day option?"

Pumpkin Pie That Beats Mother's

By Hannah Wing.

TRY this pumpkin pie if you have a homesick feeling for an old-time dessert. There's something about it that's different—and better—than those you remember. Can you tell what it is?

2 tablespoons molasses.
1 tablespoons melted butter.
1 teaspoon cinammon.
¼ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon nutmeg.
¼ teaspoon ginger.
1 egg.
1 cup milk.

Mix the ingredients well together and pour into a tin lined with plain pastry. Bake slowly for about one hour until filling is firm. When cold, form a ring of currant or plum jelly or putter next the crust. Garnish the center of the pie with sweetened whipped cream.

The pumpkin filling may be baked in small custard cups. When cold turn from the cups and serve with whipped cream or jelly.

The colorful pumpkin also makes delicious preserves and confections.

Candied Pumpkin.

1 pound pumpkin. 1 pound sugar.
1 cup pineapple juice.

Remove the peel and cut raw pumpkin in medium thick slices. Boil the sugar and pineapple juice until it forms a heavy syrup. Add the pumpkin to the syrup and cook until the pumpkin begins to soften. Let the pumpkin stand over night in syrup and cook the syrup until it spins a thread. Add the pumpkin again to the syrup and simmer until thick and clear. Drain the slices of pumpkin on a plate in order to save the syrup, then place them on a cheesecloth over a rack in a warm place. Dry them until they are not sticky—about twenty-four hours.

The dried pieces should be clear and perfectly tender. Candied pumpkin has a rich golden color and pleasing taste.

When Manners Are Correct

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Gracious Serving.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In a home without a mother and without servants whom shall father serve first at dinner? The oldest daughter or the guests? If you have space let us have a few rules on this.

PERPLEXED.

I WISH that I could give you perfectly definite rules about this. But the form varies very much in this country. As a general rule in America, the hostess is served first. This is undoubtedly a "left-over" from the times when food and beverages were tasted by the head of the table to indicate that they lacked poison and therefore that it was quite all right for the guests to partake. A comforting idea, this!

Later, of course, came the justification of this order of service in the fact that, when the food was served in a complicated form (as foods used to be served), it was pleasant and fortifying for the guests to be able to watch the hostess serve herself to the complicated dish—and then "follow suit" in her own service.

And so the form of serving the hostess first has persisted. That is, in general. However, in Europe, this order of service is considered very bad form, for, of course, Europeans are very punctilious about the indication of honor and guest courtesy. They believe that the guest of honor should be served first, that this indicates a further compliment to the guest of honor. And indeed it does.

This sequence of service—the guest of honor first—is growing in America, indeed growing very rapidly of late. But there still is no definite rule on the subject.

So much for the general point of view about this question. This has to do mainly, of course, with households where there is service, although the question is, of course, also applicable in maidless households.

When the father of the family is serving at table, it seems to me an especial occasion for him to serve the guest of honor first. Here, as far as I can see, there is no reason for serving the hostess first. (And the hostess, in this case, is the oldest daughter of the household.) I always consider this is a fine opportunity for a gracious host to pay special and direct honor to the guest of honor and to the other guests in the order of their distinction or age, or both. For instance, when father has prepared the first service, if he serves all the accessories at his end of the table, he passes the plate, saying, "This is for Mrs. Wilkinson," or, "This is for you, Mrs. Wilkinson."

If the father serves only the meat and then passes the plate down to the oldest daughter, who would be seated at the head of the table, he still would indicate for whom the plate is intended, and, if necessary, the daughter, too, would say, as she passed it after putting the vegetables on it, "Mrs. Wilkinson," or something to indicate that the other guests are to pass it on. The server should never leave any doubt as for whom the plate is intended; this is very confusing to the other guests, who do not know whether to keep it or to pass it on, and who, therefore, often have to ask.

It is this opportunity that the host has for being what we really mean by "mine host," the gracious, ample, cordial host that makes this mode of serving at table so popular in England—indeed, it is correctly named the "English service." And the service is glorified when the host capitalizes the opportunity of showing compliment to the guests first.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Fashion Fads and Fancies

By Mildred Ash

PROUD as a Peacock is suggestive of the height of pride such as is displayed by the posture of the rhinestone peacock which serves as a hat ornament. The tail of this jeweled pin is actually formed of bits of peacock feathers.

Cleverly Convertible "Cocktail" Frocks are so designed as to be adapted to daytime and to informal evening wear. They are frequently made of crepe satin, and have the long sleeves mounted upon a separate body lining, so that they can become either sleeved or sleeveless as the occasion demands. Black, combined with flesh-colored georgette is most usually seen in these models.

Refreshing as Mint are the delicately colored "mint green" evening gowns that are appearing in chiffon, georgette or a combination of either of these filmy fabrics with metal cloth.

Flecks Fly to the Fore in fashionable designs on velvets and metals. Allover, geometric patterns are composed of gold or silver paint flecks arranged upon a dark, richly colored ground.

Joining the Navy and seeing the world seems to translate itself into seeing the world of sports fashions, for nautical insignia seem to be the chosen motifs for trimming sports costumes. A chevron and tiny star on the sleeve, or a large anchor and star on the blouse of a wool angora frock shows how pronounced the naval influence is becoming in current fashions.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Fill Your Life!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I was married in June. My husband is nineteen, I am seventeen.

Before our marriage my husband would not go anywhere unless he could take me, and I would not go out without him. Now he won't go anywhere with me. He takes me to the theatre once a week and expects me to stay home the rest of the time.

Every night he goes out alone. When I married I dropped all my friends, but he goes out more now than he ever did before. He tells me I should not go out alone, because I'm married.

We are staying with his mother. She agrees with me about this matter, but it doesn't do any good to reason with him—he only laughs. Please help me.

HEARTBROKEN.

IT seems rather sad to marry so young, my dear. But now that you are married, you face a situation not a theory.

Why in the world did you give up all your friends when you married? Can't you resume the companionship of nice girls and young married couples you know? Invite them in now and then to dance or play bridge, even though your husband is away. When interesting things are going on at home he may be more inclined to stay there.

If I were you, I would also join a study class attending once or twice each week with some girl you know. A dancing or French class, or a class in cooking or swimming might prove interesting.

Fill you life with bright interests. Keep yourself and home bright and attractive. Do not reproach your husband, but try to win him back by being the most interesting, charming, lovable, young woman he knows. All success to you, my dear!

Do You Know?

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at sometime in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."

There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

Makers of New Tax Bill

MAKING of a new tax bill will be started in the near future by the house ways and means committee. According to newspaper advices members of the committee are prepared to expedite work in an effort to have measure ready for congress shortly after it convenes in the early days of December. Andrew W. Mellon is secretary of the treasury. He has tax reduction views of his own. He does not believe it possible to make a sweeping reduction in the tax rate.

There are western republicans who favor a sweeping reduction. There are vowed candidates for the republican presidential nomination who favor a sweeping reduction. Secretary Mellon believes that the reduction should be kept well under the $300,000,000 mark. Those who take issue with him have expressed views that the reduction should range all the way from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Calvin Coolidge, his friends say, expects to step down and out of office on March 4, 1929. If he steps down and out, of course, Andrew W. Mellon will pass out of the picture at the same time. Mellon will have held his high office for eight years. He began with Harding. When he finishes he will finish with Coolidge. An unpopular tax bill prepared by the house ways and means committee will have a long journey ahead next winter before it goes through the house and the senate and finds its way to the president.

There is a progressive republican-democratic combination in the senate. Many slashers are found in their ranks. There are many western republicans who are not progressives but who are excellent politicians. They are for party success in 1928. They are willing to give a large voice to eastern republicans but they realise that to retain their control of congress a vast army of republicans west of the Alleghany mountains must be held in line.

Why should there be a vast surplus every year? If the money isn't needed, why should it be taken out of the pockets of the taxpayers—taxpaying individuals or taxpaying corporations?

Feeding Big Bill His Favorite Dish

NOW Big Bill Thompson is holding the center of the European stage. Great newspapers and great minds of England are giving him columns of rich publicity. Big Bill is getting it at home. All the "literary fellers" are trouncing him with their pens or typewriters.

Big Bill is as large as a baby elephant. He is a huge feeder. That which he loves best is being fed to him by his critics in this country and in the ancient nations of Europe.

There isn't a politician in America who gets his name in the head lines as often as Big Bill. He will remain in the picture more than three years if death does not call him.

Chicago voters give their mayors a term of four years. If Big Bill's term were to expire tomorrow, a huge majority of the voters of that city would vote to give him another term.

They had heard the watchword Dever and Decency four long years and when election time came in 1927 the followers of Big Bill overwhelmed the polling places and when the ballot had been counted Dever and Decency lost by 150,000 majority.

Big Bill promised to banish King George from Chicago and his hirelings out of Illinois in all his campaign speeches. He promised to give all the people wine and beer. He promises to make Chicago good but not too good.

Isn't he doing his best to redeem these pledges? Isn't he doing his best to win the favor or rather the criticism of the rulers of foreign nations as well as the rulers of the foreign colonies in the city of Chicago? If you doubt it watch his step.

Death of a Famous Editor

MAXMILLIAN HARDIN has passed on to his reward. He was the greatest of German editors. He was the most courageous of German editors. He dared to criticise the kaiser and his military machine when the kaiser believed himself to be the monarch of the world.

Exile had no fear for Hardin. A jail term could not terrorize him. He faced assassins and escaped assassination many times.

He was the king of the free lances after thrones had toppled and dynasties had passed away.

He was alone in his class. He was 66 when he died. No need to erect a monument to Hardin. He built his own as he walked along.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A Fifth avenue flag store has in its windows a display of service flags; the kind that were used to decorate the windows of bereaved families during the war. But the war has been done with for quite a spell now, and to many a passerby, it seemed strange that the company should find any market for these emblems.

At luncheon recently, an interesting discussion took place between two professional men and myself. One, a reporter, asserted that the hue and cry about poison liquor is sensational fiction, created by newspapers as subject matter for editorials. He told how, when working as a reporter at police headquarters, he had watched, daily, the accident reports which come there from Bellevue, the city hospital. Those that dealt with hoboes and down-and-outers, who had been brought in because of liquor, were marked "over-intoxication." And in no case had he ever seen the name of a reputable citizen among the list of liquor invalids. From time to time, his editor would decide to start agitation anew about poison liquor, at which time this minion dutifully collected all the names of vagrants being treated for liquor.

"That's the bunk!" remarked the other, a doctor, who had seen a good deal of service at Bellevue. "The great majority of liquor is poisonous. And the only reason why bums don't die in Bellevue is because they're never brought there. There isn't enough time to bring 'em anywhere else but the morgue!"

"Why, a friend of mine is one of the largest bootleggers in town. And do you think he'd give me any of his liquor? Not on your life!

"He sells hundreds of gallons daily to suckers, but he depends on me as his doctor and he isn't taking any chances of giving me any bug-juice that will blind me. Once in a while, he gives me one bottle—just one, which is brought in from Europe in a case of ordinary merchandise. Let me tell you, that if you could see the results of modern drinking as I do, you'd be mighty careful."

"But" said the reporter, "I drink steadily—all kinds of liquor in all kinds of places, and I've never had any bad effect."

"How do you take your liquor—straight?" asked the medico.

"No, I usually take it in ginger ale or soda," he was told.

"That's your answer. When you dilute a poison sufficiently it will have no immediate effect. If you drank it straight, I wouldn't give you another year of health. As it is, the poisons that your are taking into your system are going to lop ten years off your natural life!"

"Think that over, the next time you take a drink," said the doctor as he lifted a highball mouthward.

Time Wasted

"Have ye a watch?" "I have." "Does it keep time?" "It does." "If ye looked at it, could ye tell me what time it is?" "I could." "Well, will ye take a look?" "I will." "Have ye looked?" "I have." "Well, then, what time is it?" "It is two minutes after one." "Thanks; I've missed me train by th' time it took t' find out what time it is."

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Buys Her Christmas Gifts — By JAY V. JAY

There's an argument taking place. Mitzi wants to buy the feather fancy that hangs from a ribbon choker. It's for a Christmas present. But for whom? asks Polly. For Aunt Clara? For cousin Nettie? For Dad? No, simply for a Christmas present. It's so new, so stunning and so desirable it should be bought and what better excuse than for Christmas? The envelope purse with the gold modernistic ornaments and the large feather fan likewise. For this shopping tour both Mitzi and Polly have chosen hats with the side turned up in front. This did not just happen—it happened because hats are smart turned up over one eye.

At first Mitzi thought it was a lighter but it's a vanity case with a mirror, powder, rouge and lipstick disguised in it cleverly. It really pays to do one's Christmas shopping early for how else would she have discovered this, or the evening head dress of pearls and rhinestones. Mitzi feels that she has made a good start.

As Mitzi goes over her new purchases she wonders just who to give them to. There's only one person who would like them—only one person who feels they are exactly right and that's—Mitzi. Well, after all, if she keeps them there is lots of time to shop for more—didn't she begin to do her Christmas shopping early for some reason?

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director,

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister.

ALICE and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. De Brissac makes love to Hattie as part of her training for screen work and Hattie seems powerless to resist him. She refuses to go with him on his yacht away from her family, however. O'Malley, to whom she becomes engaged, advises her to try to get work at another studio and invites a lawyer to look over her contract with De Brissac. A rival studio gives her a part and she goes to work for them.

She is a failure without De Brissac and finally she sees him in a restaurant. He asks her not to tie up with the other concern for more than one picture.

Then Alice's husband, who has deserted her some years before, comes back—one more for Hattie to support.

Chapter Twenty-four.

There, in the living room, stood Alice's husband; rather shabbily dressed, laughing in an uncertain way, hesitating, not sure whether Hattie would expect to be kissed. His complexion, she thought wasn't very good. It was red on both sides of the nose, over his cheekbones, and he looked softer about the mouth; he seemed aware of this, and kept pressing his lips together with an air of self-conscious firmness. And he had a cough.

"Funny, wasn't it!" he offered. "I dropped into the Alhambra up in Portland. You know I thought all the time there was something familiar in that name, Harriet John. But I didn't really think it could—you know how you do—until, bless my soul, if there wasn't our little Hattie, big as life! And I said to myself, 'what do you know about that?'"

"You musn't keep standing dear," cried Alice, with a sudden almost fierce air of defending him. "You sit right down! He's been sick, poor boy," she explained with that same defiance, as she sank shamelessly on his lap and hugged him and smoothed his thinning hair. "And I tell him his little wife's just going to take care of him."

The last day's work at Plantagenet Town was light. Mortimer dismissed Hattie at noon. He wasn't unkind about it; took her hand and wished her good luck; but that scene in her heart of failure had been at no moment more final. And she went alone into the studio restaurant.

Someone was waving at her from a table by a window. A slim dark girl, a pretty girl. She hesitated, frightened at first, then incredulous staring. It was . . . Lucille! She rushed over there, with the sensation of greeting an old friend who was very dear, dearer, in a way, than anyone in Hollywood. There were no old friends here.

Lucille held her off and looked at her, then made her sit opposite and looked at her again.

"Well," she said, "the same little mailing-room girl, as I live! Hattie, how do you do it? Six months in Beverly, the biggest personal success of the past two or three years, and yet here you are not changed at all! Even your clothes! Now me—I can't help looking experienced. And they don't like it. They want that wonderful innocence of yours. Why, child, you're a knockout! You're a sensation! Everybody on Broadway's talking nothing but Harriet John! I expected to find you lying back in a Rolls-Royce in summer sables."

Hattie's lip quivered.

"I'm through here today. They don't want me any more. They don't like me."

"Wait a minute, child. You've got me all mixed up. Who don't like you?"

"Mr. Mortimer. All of them. I'm no good. I can't act." In a moment, if she didn't take care, she'd be crying, here in the restaurant. She stopped that line of talk, and asked—

"How'd you ever happen to come out here?"

"Oh, I'm with D'Urberville. Picture people all travel in a groove, you know. No use trying to hide from anybody in this business. You can't get away with it. But never mind that—let me understand this astonishing situation! You've been working here?"

"Yes."

"But aren't you in de Brissac's new company?"

"I didn't know he—"

"You didn't! Why, I thought you—"

"You left him? But good God child—"

"Lucille—I've got something to—I'm engaged to be married."

"Really! That's nice! But I want to get this de Brissac business straight. You say you left him, and they don't like you here—did you say all that, or am I just naturally losing my poor old brains?"

Hattie nodded. "I'm no good, Lucille. I can't act. I don't know anything about it. And when they see this picture everybody's going to know it. Oh, if only I—"

"Don't make me laugh!" said Lucille. "And don't talk so fast. Why did you leave de Brissac? Tell me that first."

Hattie began hesitatingly to tell. Here at last was a confidant to whom she could pour out her heart; not the doll, but a real person who would understand her. It was her one heartbreaking need at the moment. She gave up to it. The words and phrases began jumbling hotly forth. Lucille had to caution her to lower her voice. And after a hurried lunch they went out and walked all the way into Beverly, while Hattie talked on and on. She had begun with de Brissac's first words to her, and she recited the details of each of their stolen moments together. She felt now that she hated him. Her fear of him became, for the moment, anger; the attraction she felt toward him became bitterness. And through the anger and the bitterness ran this new sensation of relief that mounted into savage joy. And yet outwardly she was that same timid girl, with a light high voice that wasn't quite clear in quality.

Lucille heard her out; and at last asked, with a manner of shrewd quiet—they were walking slowly past the Spanish-looking hotel now with its crescent of palm trees in front and with its row on the long porch of actors and continuity writers sitting in the rocking chairs reading the early editions of the evening papers, and its other row of elderly women knitting, and its children playing among the parked automobiles—

"Is this camera man—this man you're engaged to—"

"Henry O'Malley."

"Yes. Does h seem to be of a particularly jealous disposition?"

"No, I don't think so. He's really awfully kind and nice. Of course, his mind is always so full of his inventions that it's hard to get him to think long of anything else."

"I see. . . Well, I don't suppose you're especially interested in my opinion of all this."

"You know I am, Lucille. Why, if we weren't dear old friends do you suppose I'd tell any—"

"I think you're the most astounding little fool I ever heard of."

"I don't see how you can say that!" Hattie was hotly red now.

"Think it over for yourself. Here are about a million of us who would give everything in the world to have Armand de Brissac take just a little interest in us. Clever girls, some of us. Ambitious, hard workers. But he passes us all by without a look, picks you off a bush, offers you all his power and influence and all his art, and actually keeps his word—makes good with you—and you run from him— throw it all away." There was bitterness in Lucille's tone, too.

"But to do wrong, Lucille—when you feel it's wrong—"

"Oh what is wrong? And what is right?"

"But we know what's right—"

"Is it right to marry a man you don't love?"

For a moment Hattie was silent. Then she cried—

"But you have no right to say I don't love Henry!"

They were confronting each other, on the corner by the drug store.

"At least," remarked Lucille, dryly, "we can go in and have a soda."

Every decade there appears on the theatrical horizon a stage or screen presentation so powerful in its appeal, whether it be comedy or tragedy, that it at once radiates its fame to the remotest corners of the nation. It immediately grasps attention and becomes a byword and the topic of everyday conversation.

Everyone will admit that there is no more positive proof of this than "What Price Glory." As a stage play it was a sensation. Now comes along that most powerful and searching of all agencies that reflect and re-create, the motion picture, and the sensation takes on all the widespread and interest arousing energy of a furor. This is exactly what has happened to William Fox's screen presentation of this celebrated play, which comes to the Strand theater for a six days' engagement.

The nation's foremost screen critics have been unanimous in their commendation of this motion picture masterpiece, declaring that it surpasses the celebrated play by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson in every particular despite the greatness of the stage attraction.

It is proclaimed by all those in authority as the greatest motion picture of the year. It is not a war picture. War is its background. It is no more a war play than a love comedy laid in a sylvan setting would be called a rural play.

Teapot Trial Probe Pushed

key witnesses who have been in Washington during the trial but have vanished since this inquiry began.

Oil Official Sought

Sheldon Clark of Chicago, Sinclair Oil company executive and regarded as one of Sinclair's most intimate associates, is now being sought to appear before the grand jury next Monday.

Clark was in court one afternoon during the trial, sitting next to Sinclair. The two left the courtroom together.

While these occurrences followed one after the other in melodramatic fashion, various prominently known individuals in Washington and elsewhere uneasily awaited developments not knowing who would be called to testify next.

Edward Kidwell Jr., the juror who is said to have boasted he expected to get an automobile "a block long," and the other eleven jurors in the Teapot Dome case were closeted with the district attorney today. They were excused until tomorrow, the prosecutor wishing to lay a better foundation for their testimony by presenting additional evidence prior to their going before the grand jury.

Arguments Postponed

The scheduled arguments over the date on which the new trial of the conspiracy charges against Fall and Sinclair, originally set for today, were postponed until noon tomorrow, after defense counsel complained that the notice of the hearing was "too short." Belief that the government has definitely established the charge that the jury has been tampered with was expressed by Burkinshaw at the close of today's proceedings.

The district attorney has not yet determined if he will invite Sinclair to go before the grand jury to tell his side of the jury tampering charges.

Evidence Links Day.

Further support for the connection of Day, the "contact" man and Sinclair employe, with Sinclair in the alleged jury tampering was obtained this afternoon when Frank T. Hurley, of the Warfield Motor company, and Blauvet went before the grand jury.

Hurley told of receiving a telephone call from Day about three weeks ago at which time the contact man, then registred with Sinclair at the Mayflower hotel, sought information on where he could obtain a limousine and chauffeur for "an indeterminate period. Hurley secured Blauvet.

The chauffeur explained how he had taken Sinclair to various places in Washington during the three weeks of the trial, naming a Washington club and the home of two prominent Washingtonians as places where the oil magnet defendant visited.

Efforts to further link Sinclair with the activities of Day while the latter was a house guest of Donald Woodward, millionaire department store owner, were not particularly satisfactory, however.

Blauvet said that he had gone to 2122 Leroy place on four different occasions. Woodward lives at No. 2118 Leroy place.

Chauffeur Visited Wife.

Blauvet further declared he had visited the Leroy street address for the purpose of seeing his wife who had been employed at the residence he described. He probably will be recalled.

The chauffeur described one visit to a suite of rooms on the tenth floor of the Mayflower hotel (where both Sinclair and Day were registered). He described seeing Day "and several other men" there on that day.

Blauvet said he had changed automobile tags on his car during the time he was in the employ of Sinclair. He was "paid off" last night by Day, receiving $371 for his services for slightly less than three weeks, he said.

Further investigation of any connections the Fall defense had with the alleged jury tampering will be undertaken as a result of the testimoney given by Thompson, one of the former cabinet member's lawyers.

Mystery In Probe.

The name of the unidentified person whom Thompson said he asked special assistant Attorney General Jackson to investigate was placed before the grand jury today but Burkinshaw refused to make known his identity.

Jackson is said to have made several inquiries around the department of justice concerning the unnamed individual and reported back to Thompson.

Day, who again claimed immunity, and Charles G. Ruddy, chief of the Burns detective agency, followed Thompson before the grand jury.

He has hired an attorney to represent him in the proceedings before Justice McCoy tomorrow morning.

TRAIL OF ROBBERS LEADS INTO TEXAS.

SHAMROCK, Texas, Nov. 3. (AP) Posses from Erick, Okla., and Shamrock started for the Elm Creek brakes six miles south of here before noon today in search of two men who robbed the First National bank of Erick of an undetermined amount. Members of the posses reported they picked up a trail but lost it in the brakes after following it an hour.

The robbers drove to a point between the two banks of Erick shortly after the opening hour. They went into the one they robbed through a side door. Employes of the bank were ordered to lie on the floor, and the Rev. M. K. Griffith was instructed to face the wall.

H. V. Garrett, vice president of the bank who followed the two men to the door as they went out and shot at their car as it left believes one bullet hit the automobile. The shots were not returned.

Reports of the robbery here indicated the loss was small, as they said the robbers did not enter the money vault and took no silver.

BANDITS RAID TWO OKLAHOMA BANKS.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 3. (AP)—Using similar methods, bandits today robbed two national banks in widely separated Oklahoma towns. Four unmasked men obtained $8000 in a raid on the First National bank at Wynnewood, and two men escaped with $3600 from the First National bank at Erick.

Three of the robbers at Wynnewood entered the bank, while the fourth remained at the wheel of their large motor car. They locked Sam Barrett, cashier, in the vault and forced three customers to stand by while they looted the bank.

The Wynnewood robbers, all described as young men, departed in the direction of the Seminole oil field. Wynnewood is in the south central part of the state.

At Erick, only a few miles east of the Texas Panhandle border, two men lined up six officers and employes of the bank and two customers while they raided a cash drawer. They overlooked $500 in another drawer and made no attempt to obtain the reserve money in the vault. Both men were roughly dressed. One was described as young and the other as middle aged. They departed in a roadster automobile and although both Oklahoma and Texas officers took up the chase, early tonight apparently had eluded pursuit.

FRECKLES

Tells How to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots and Have a Beautiful Complexion

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine from any drug or department store and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.—Adv.

Quanah To See Indian Festival

take of their "Harvest Moon" feast. This amount of meat is sufficient to feed several hundred persons even in the form in which white people dress the meat. When it is considered that the Indians consume the entire carcass and have no waste it is estimated that the chief will have a big body of his people here for the occasion.

Parade Friday P. M.

The parade which is scheduled to be held at 1 p. m. Friday is expected to prove a colorful feature. The American colors borne by the color guard of the Chillicothe American Legion will head the parade. Then will come the official cars in which will ride the city and county officials of Quanah, together with President R. W. Haynie and other prominent men who will be here for the occasion. The Quanah Municipal band will follow, and joined by the Quanah Ladies' band will play the famous "Quanah Parker March" as the official music of the parade. This march was composed by E. S. Hamilton leader of the Quanah band.

A decorated float bearing a group of Indian children holding aloft the Stars and Stripes, and upon which will ride several of the old time Indians some of whom are estimated to be nearly a hundred years old will follow the band.

One of the old squaws who will occupy the float is said to have been a member of the same tribe which held Cynthia Anne Parker captive and was acquainted with this pathetic figure of Texas history, who as bride of Peta Nocona, famous far chief of the Comanches gave birth to Quanah Parker.

Warriors to Ride

Fifty mounted Indians in full war paint and feathers will ride in review immediately behind the decorated float. The warriors and chiefs of this group will participate in the initiation rites to be held publicly for the first time in the history of the state.

Another car will carry the Parker family of Indians: In addition to Baldwin Parker, present chief, there will be his sister, an Indian princess who is said to closely resemble old tin type pictures taken of Cynthia Anne Parker taken shortly after she was re-captured from the Comanches by the soldiers of Sul Ross. The Parker family is of great interest because of the fact that they are among the few Indians descended from the union of a white woman and an Indian chief.

Pioneers to March

Old time pioneers of West Texas will be next in the line of march. These pioneers settled West Texas when the war whoops of the wild Comanches were echoing from the hills, and some of them participated in the wars between the Indians and whites. Colonel Goodnight, famed Indian fighter and buffalo hunter of West Texas has been invited to ride in the parade. When a young man he fought with the fathers of the warriors who will be here and probably engaged in battle with some of the old Indians who will ride on the float.

The Chillicothe band and the Boy Scouts will form the rear guard for the parade. School has been dismissed for the afternoon, in order that the youngsters may view the spectacle.

Immediately following the conclusion of the parade the initiation ceremonies for President Haynie will be held on the court house lawn.

War Bonnet for Haynie

An elaborate war bonnet of eagles' feathers has been prepared for his "coronation." Considerable significance will attach to this ceremony because of the fact that the man who will place the bonnet on Haynie's head is the ranking chief of the Comanches and might be termed the "heir apparent" of the people who once owned the entire region of West Texas. It will be the meeting of the present "white chief" of the region with the "red chief."

Following the ceremonies on the court lawn the Indians will stage their ritual dance and will engage in their "Feast of the Harvest Moon."

SQUEEZES 'EM

If Doak Roberts had considered seriously the added expense attached to running a 10-club league, he probably would have argued lustily against admitting Tulsa and Oklahoma City to the Texas circuit. It'll break Doak's heart to have to put out more money for umpires. And there'll be a couple extra official scorers to pay, too.

Ed Konetchy and Pat Monahan, the ivory hunter, worked a game one day last summer down in Fort Worth for Doak when the regular umpires failed to show up. Magnanimous Doak mailed one check, regulation rate the league pays one umpire for his services, to be divided between the two extemporaneous umphs. Pat and Ed mailed her right back, highly amused but probably not half as much amused as was Doak when he saw that money returning to the exchequer.

Doak's a sly boy at that. Perhaps he figured any service the two amateurs possibly might render, combined could equal no more than the work done by one regular arbiter. Leave it to Doak to cut the corners. There will be no money foolishly-spent by Texas league headquarters as long as Doak is at the helm.

Were not Doak quite so frugal, however, he could produce a higher standard of umpiring in Texas. You can't expect a smart umpire (that is, if any umpire is smart) to work in Texas at the meager wages paid. But we have a suspicion some of the umpires inflicted on the league last summer, at that, were not worth what remuneration there was made.

Heavy Correspondence

Now if Doak strings with his custom, the motorman of this column can sit back and expect to receive soon a lengthy epistle from league headquarters telling us what a tramp, a big bum and an under-ripe onion we are. On top of which Doak may threaten to fine the Wichita Falls baseball club, or at least, take Prez Alvin Gardner to task. Doak takes his society notices seriously.

LANDIS DELIGHTED

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's $65,000 a year commissioner, is delighted with the selection of Ernest S. Barnard of Cleveland as the new president of the American league.

"Barnard is a thorough baseball man and should make the American league an excellent executive," he said.

WEIR WASHAM MAY NOT PLAY

Baylor Ace Out On Eve Of Longhorn Engagement

WACO, Nov. 3.—With Weir Washam relegated to the sidelines, and with little hope of the fleet-footed star being able to play against Texas Saturday, the Baylor Bears went through a snappy workout on the Carroll field gridiron. All other Baylorites were in condition, and all will be able to play in the game Saturday against Texas university.

But this year, there is no gay hip-hip to the preparations for the game with Texas. Last year, and in other years this game has meant much to both teams. This year both are definitely out of the championship race. Texas has the better team, and is due to win with ease, but the season for Texas has been more disappointing than that at Baylor, for Texas had the material to expect more. Now the Longhorns have played three conference games, and have won only one. So when Texas and Baylor meet Saturday, victory will be a sort of consolation prize.

Bears Will Battle

Baylor, from somewhere can always find the courage to fight the Texas university team, and the Bears may battle in creditable fashion Saturday to stave off an overwhelming total, but victory for the Bears, without little Weir Washam, seems beyond the realms of possibility. Baylor will find the Texas team fighting mad, and the club will also be in the best of physical condition. Texas has much power, a splendid passing attack, and should cause Baylor no end of worry.

Coach Jennings plans to take his squad to Austin Friday afternoon, but the team will likely work out here before leaving. There promises to be little change in the Baylor lineup, although something may be done to bolster the power of the left side of the Baylor line, which was much weaker than the right side last week.

BACKFIELD STARS CLASH SATURDAY
Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 3.—Several great backfield stars will flash when Baylor and Texas meet in Austin Saturday. The backfields that will likely start are:

Wt.	Texas	Pos.	Wt.	Baylor
140	King	Quarterback	136	Washam
190	Baldwin	Left half	178	Noble
195	Rose	Right half	146	Pruitt
188	Hughes	Fullback	160	Newberry

The Texas backfield is ostensibly a great deal heavier than the Baylor backs, but that is no advantage unless a game is being played on a muddy field. And the field likely won't be muddy Saturday, if what the weatherman has to say about it means anything.

The Baylor backs are light and shifty and fast as so many streaks of lightning. For that reason their running attack is highly dangerous at all times. Morley Jennings hasn't stressed the use of the pass as much as the rest of the conference coaches, but still the Bears are capable of perfecting long heaves for noticeable gains when th enotion strikes them.

Flashy Quarters

Two great quarterbacks will be pitted against each other Saturday. Weir Washam of Baylor, who received his instruction from Paul Tyson at Waco High, and Joe King, the Texas quarter will likely stage an interesting personal battle. Washman and King are both injured and will not be going at top speed physically, but they will be there mentally. Washam is practically the entire Baylor team. He is brilliant in the broken field and fast in the open field. He is also the center and passer.

Baldwin and Rose will play the halfback positions for Texas likely. Both are capable of starring, but injuries has hampered both all season. Noble and Pruitt, two light Baylor backs will be in the corresponding positions for the invaders. Both are above the average in ability. Tommie Hughes and Newberry will play fullbacks.

Holliday Has Coach But No Grid Team

HOLLIDAY, Nov. 3. — Though the Holliday High school does not yet support a football eleven, it boasts of one of the best football, and basketball, coaches in this section of the state, Coach D. L. (Ikie) Ligon, former star on the Denton High school eleven, and a Denton Teachers' College Eagle. His popularity and success as a football referee is evidenced by the fact that, during the past two seasons, he has refereed games in Seymour, Henrietta, Crowell, Chillicothe, Megargel, and other west Texas towns. The enrollment of eligible athletic material in Holliday high is small, but every year Coach Ligon sends to the county basketball tournament a fast littlet squad that commands the respect of competing teams.

WILCOX AND M'GILL READY FOR FINISH MAT IMBROGLIO TONIGHT

Plucky Oklahoman Expects To Take Rugged Pat For Drubbling—Jones To Display Speed

THE CARD

Firpo Wilcox versus Pat McGill. Heavyweights, two falls to a finish, New York commission rules.
Paul Jones versus Mike Zonivich. Heavyweights, one-hour limit match, New York commission rules.
Time: 8:15 Friday night.
Place: 605 Scott arena.

All four principals Thursday were declared in condition and ready to step in the battle of the big boys booked at the business and professional men's athletic club Friday night. Pat McGill, giant Irishman who made short shrift of Harry Coffman here last week although Pat was ailing with an aching mitt that pained him much, is in better shape for the mill with Wilcox, Matchmaker Ross said. Big Pat's hand, injured in a match a couple of weeks back, has been cured up pretty effectively, Ross said. However, Pat's the kind of a guy who would get in there and battle even if he didn't have a hand, averred the promoter.

Wilcox will have to step pretty spryly to keep up with the speedy McGill, but the Oklahoman thinks he will more than stay with the large fellow. Wilcox displayed a fighting heart in match with Cantonwine here last week that if given an even break by the referee may carry him far in his quest for a wrestling championship. Fandom was displeased by the work of last week's arbiter who allowed Cantonwine to grab Wilcox while the Oklahoman had both feet out of the ring and his head just through the ropes.

Paul Jones, the Houston speedster, hopes to pin Zonivich twice within an hour. It is said Jones comes to Wichita Falls primarily in quest of a match with McGill, Wilcox or Cantonwine.

Seymour Goal Line Inviolate

Panthers Have Won All Of Their Games Handily

BY EARNEST HALEY.
Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Nov. 3.—The Seymour Panthers have thus far had one of the most successful seasons of the school's football history. They have not been scored on the entire season.

On September 30 the Panthers meet the strong Crowell eleven and came out with the long end of a 31-0 score. On October 7, Megargel, forfeited rather than meet defeat in battle. On October 15, the Panthers were again named winners when they played the Burkburnett "Bulldogs" at 25-0 game. October 21, Reagan Juniord High forfeited to Seymour, 1-0. Last Friday the most successful game of the season was played when the Panthers "teased" the Iowa Park Hawks to a 46-0 victory.

The next game will probably be played with the Olney "Bearcats" on the local gridiron, for the semi-championship, next week.

With a veteran center out at doctor's orders the Panthers may lose their only chance at district honors. Aubrey (Beans) Lunsford, center, may not be in the line when the Panthers and Bearcats meet next weey.

"Bears" is one of the best centers that has ever performed on any local gridiron. It was his fast work and good passing that helped the Panthers win over the fast Burkburnett Bulldogs. Lunsford has not coursed a fumble in the last three years at the center position, but doctors forbid him playing any more this season on account of a crushed lung.

POLISH DIET DISSOLVED.

WARSAW, Nov. 3. (AP)— The Polish diet and senate were dissolved today by Vice Premier Bartel amidst a great uproar to prevent the opposition from airing its dissatisfaction with the government's policies.

VERNON PREPS FOR AMARILLO

Lions Don't Take Quanah Game Seriously

VERNON, Nov. 3.—The Vernon Lion coaches are confining their practice programs to individual blocking and fundamentals prior to the clash with the Quanah Indians here next Saturday. The Vernon coaches frankly admit that they are not priming for the Indian fray, but are directing this week's practice with an eye toward the Amarillo-Vernon game scheduled here next week.

Both Baggett and May are centering their activities on the line this week, and while there is no scrimmage on the program, the linemen are being drilled in blocking two asainst one.

Baggett Lectures.

Rumors of a passing attack being planned by Quanah have caused the Lion mentors to give some defense pass practice, but this apparently is the only team work on program for the week. Individual work combined with personal lectures on the fine points of the game constitute the program for the workouts.

Present indications point toward a small score in the Indian game here Saturday, with several of the Lion regulars likely to be out because of injuries. The Lion mentor reports four men on the injured list, including Castleberry, captain and halfback; Parker, center; Moore, half; and Stevens, guard. These men are reporting for practice, but are limpins about the field and are not likely to see service Saturday unless the Indians show unexpected strength.

No Ruling on Holloway.

With the absence of these four regulars from the line-up a possibility, Baggett probably will display another new combination this week following the drastic shake-up in the line-up prior to the Electract game last week. No ruling has been received on Holloway's eligibility, and he will not play in the Quanah game. Key, Dodson, Cox and Withers probably will start in the backfield. The line probably will enter the fray with Hacker and Brown at the wing positions, Newth and Thomas at tackles, Adams and Waggoner at guards, and Norwood at center. This will be an entirely new starting line-up.

McLarnin Signs To Box Billy Wallace

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, the Los Angeles lightweight who knocked out Louis (Kid) Kaplan in eight rounds here recently, signed Thursday to box Billy Wallace of Cleveland in a championship elimination contest in the new Olympia arena in Detroit November 23.

The winner of the match has been promised a championship match with Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ills., later in the season.

Playing 'em Over

With the Dixie Champions

The Cats and Spudders came home to the Gardner coliseum Monday, May 16, and played to a capacity gathering of fans attending the West Texas chamber of commerce convention here. With exception of opening day, it was the first time Secretary Guy Airey saw any real money at Spudder park. The league-leading Spudders continued to jonah the Fort Worth club. However, Jake's men carried the ultimate champs 10-stanzas before Williams' wallopers nudged out for a 7-6 victory. It was the ninth straight in which the Spudders had turned back Cowtown.

The Atzmen routed Jim Roberts in the sixth, Lester White took a chunk or so and George Payne finished on the knoblet for our side.

She was a heavy-smacking melee with the Cats combing 13 safeties and the Spudders plying 19 blows. LaFayette and Jenkins got three hits each. Fitzgerald slugged four safeties. Turgeon plunked a couple of doubles and Swenson and Roberts each cracked a brace of singles. Bonowitz and Wachtel of the opposition each poled a homer.

LaFayette started Wichita Falls' half of the tenth round with a single to right. Mann bunted and outfooted the roller. He continued to second and LaFayette went to third when Wachtel overthrew first base. Spitter Paul walked Fitzgerald, Lamb followed with a roller to McDonald at third. Tex threw high and late to the plate, LaFayette scoring to win the game.

AGGIES READY FOR BIG GAME

Dana Drills On Pony Plays Behind Closed Gates

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 3. (AP) Aggie land is all set for arrival of the Mustangs Saturday. Indications point not only to the most thrilling football struggle in the southwest conference this season but to one of the most colorful aggregations of spectators as well.

The whole A. & M. cadet corps of nearly 2400 will be at the game en masse to cheer the Aggies. Reports from Dallas, Houston, Waco and other places indicate the visiting delegations will be large and strong in enthusiasm. Dallas is expected to send a host of supporters with the Mustangs, possibly in two special trains. Special trains also will bring Houston and Waco fans.

In preparation for the conflict, Coach Dana Bible is putting the Aggies through a daily round of intensive training behind closed gates. Work against S. M. U. formations is being given but dummy scrimmaging is being followed for the most part.

Captain JJoel Hunt at quarter and Conover, Alsabrook and Burgess at halves and full, respectively, are expected to start in the backfied for the Aggies. In the ine Bibe is expected to start Sikes and Petty at ends. Lister and Sprott at tackes, Homes and Figari at guards and Bartlett at center.

Ish as relief quarter and Dorsey, Davis, Mortellra and Milis as reserves for other backfield positions in case of need gives the Aggies what is considered ample reserve strength. Varnell, fullback, is still suffering with an ankle sprained in the game with Texas Tech and it is doubtful if he will be in shape for the game.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Business Manager James Sullivan has announced that there are plenty of seats available. Three thousand seats in the concrete stand were on hand the middle of the week and 7000 seats were still available in the end sections.

McKechnie May Pilot Cardinals

Breadon Doesn't Want To "Spoil" O'Farrell

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3. (AP)—Bob O'Farrell may not manage the St. Louis Cardinals in 1928, although he probably will remain in Cardinal uniform, President Sam Breadon announced Thursday.

"I do not want to spoil a good catcher by keeping on his shoulders the responsibilities of management," Breadon said. "Perhaps the management worries had something to do with O'Farrell having an unfortunate year.

"Measured by results, which is the only fair thing to do, you must consider O'Farrell a successful manager, for he led the team through all its troubles and won more games than the club won in 1926.

"But spoiling a great catcher, the best in the business, is an expentive way of having a great leader. It is easy to get a manager;; there are plenty of them. But it is difficult, almost impossible, to get a star player to replace one who is lost. For that reason I am uncertain as to whether I want O'Farrell to again have the worries of a manager.

Bill McKechnie, O'Farrell's assistant last season, has been mentioned as O'Farrell's possible successor.

Johnny McCoy to Box in Fort Worth

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3. (AP) — Johnny McCoy, El Paso, Texas, flyweight, who hopped upon California's world title perch vacated by Fidel LaBarba, is to defend his crown December 6 at Fort Worth, Texas.

McCoy's manager today announced that he had signed with Promoter Dick Griffin, former bantamweight boxer, for a title bout with a crown candidate yet to be selected.

BRONCHS MEET BULLDOGS.

CLARENDON, Nov. 3.—The Clarendon High School Bronchos play Childress High on the local school grounds here this week. Both teams have been eliminated in the district play-off, Childress having lost to Memphis, Wellington and Shamrock, while Clarendon lost to Wellington and Shamrock and played a tie game with Memphis. This game promises to see the Bronchos at their best for the season and in all probability will be a very hot contested game.

Christians May Take To Ozone

If Porker Line Holds, Then Overhead We Go

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.(AP)—Proceeding upon the theory that planes can wreck the mighty Gibraltar, Coach Matty Bell of Texas Christian university is planning to take to the air Saturday if he finds that massive line of Razorbacks holds the Frogs.

The purple and white squad was given plenty of passing work yesterday as it went through its paces in preparation for the grid battle Saturday with the Arkansas eleven. Long passes, short passes, plain old every-day hurling and complicated tricky shots were tried. Not only were the passes flying rapidly but a surprisingly number of theme were caught. Rags Matthews and Albert Acker did most of the catching. Slim Steadman, other first string end, Hobbled about on the side lines. He did not even have on a uniform and will be out of the big fight because of a lame ankle.

NEW FACES IN COYOTE ARRAY

Coaches Plan Shifts For Electra Game

Wichita Falls random is liable to see several new faces in the Coyote array that takes the field against Electra at Spudder Park Saturday. Putting it in a nutshell, according to one of the Coyote mentors, "some of the boys are not as good as we thought and some are better than we thought. Work this week has brought out several new angles to the makeup of the squad."

After looknig 'em over in tackling and scrimmage exercises during the week, Coach McCallum has come to the conclusion that little Cheick Chewning more than likely will start the game at a wing position and that although Powell may start at the other end, Hodgkiss will see lots of service at a terminal. The midget Frank Williams has been displaying more wares than anybody knew he had. He may get a starting shot Saturday.

A guess as to the Coyotes' probable opening array would find Chewning and Powell at ends, Smith at one tackle and either Bell or Leggett at the other (depends on which is in the better shape), Habern and Scott at guards, either Barton or Turner at center, Black, Allred, Mitchell and possibly Mills back of the line. Mills is not in the best of condition. Wieler may get to work at Mills' fullback slot.

ZUNDY TACKLES FAIRVIEW TODAY

Zundelowitz junior high school will defend Wilson field against onslaughts of the Fairview eleven Friday afternoon. Coach Roy Golden sends his young warriors into the affray at 3:30 o'clock.

Golden's team is in comparatively good physical condition and apparently ripe to avenge the recent one-point defeat Fairview hung on them.

Allnoch Back In Institute Lineup

Rice Outfit Prepares For Centenary Battle

HOUSTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Danny Allnoch, Houston boy who has been out of the Rice lineup since the gome with the S. M. U. Mustangs is slated to hold down a backfield berth Saturday for the Rice Owls against the Centenary Gentlemen. In the Mustang clash, in which he showed to distinct advantage, Danny suffered a severe injury.

Coach John W. Heisman had not expected to use Allnoch until the biggest game of the Owls' season, the November 11 clash with the Texas Aggies; but, as the injured Roy Davis will not be able to perform Saturday it will be necessary to place Allnoch in the lineup.

With a large injury list, the Rice coaches are nursing their men along, taking no chance on further injuries. The big task of coaches Heisman and Rothgeb is to bolster the morale of their club for the severe task that will confront it Saturday.

HAIG'S PUTTER BEATS ARMOUR

Espinosa Tries Luck With Leader Today

By Universal Service

DALLAS, Nov. 3.—A big gallery of 5000 fans, the largest ever to trek over a southwest golf course, watched Sir Walter Hagen, the defending champion, survive the onslaught of "Iron-Masked" Tommy Armour, the open title holder, in the quarter finals of the national P. G. A. championship tourney here today.

The "Haig" treated Tommy as he has his first two opponents, who were after his crown. Armour drew first blood on the third hole when he grabbed off a birdie, but Walter got it back on the next hole and from then on out, until the match terminted on the short 15th hole Hagen was never behind. He finished off Armour, 4 and 3.

Al Espinosa of Glencoe, Ill., will try his luck with Hagen in the semi-finals tomorrow. Mortie Dutra the "Unknown Spaniard" from far-off Washington, put up one of the gamest fights of the meet only to see victory fade on the 26th hole when he drove into the rough and pitched over the green on his next shot, while Espinosa was on in two and laid up for a cinch four, winning 1 up.

Turnesa vs. Golden.

In the other semi-final match tomorrow, Joe Turnesa and Johnnie Golden will match nerve and skill. Turnesa staged a mild upset when he defeated Gene Sarazen, 3 and 2. Turnesa threw a birdie 2 into Sarazen on the second hole and was never headed during the remaining 34 holes. The match ended on the 16th hole in the afternoon round with Turnesa holding out a long putt for another birdie. Turnesa is on th etop of his game and will be a favorite to down Golden tomorrow to go into the finals. Golden defeated Francis Gallett of Walwatosa, 3 and 2.

The two great masters, Armour and Hagen, meeting for the first tibe in a major engagement staged a thrilling battle throughout the day, the big gallery giving enthusiastic support to both players. Hagen's luck and ability to place neat symles kept Armour in the hole throughout the morning.

Armour's putter was not working right at any time during the day while the mighty "Haig" was perfection itself in all his shots. Sir Walter proved he is the same old mechanical machine when he refused to let the-over-enthusiastic crowd get on his nerves while Armour several times let it be known that all was not well with the gallery.

After losing the third hole, Hagen came back to win the next four. Two birdies and two par holes gave him a three-up lead on the first seven holes. Armour took the ninth with a par four while Hagen took three putts.

Armour Cuts Lead.

Armouh cut the "Haig's" lead to two holes when he slipped another par in at No. 12 while Hagen was one over. Hagen took No. 13 with a birdie and wound up the morning round four up when he captured the 17th and 18th holes with birdies.

In the afternoon, Hagen played safe on all his shots. He slipped dangerously at the 25th and 26th holes when he went one over par on each while Armour took pars. Hagen took the 27th, however, and from there on the final result was never in doubt. Hagen slipped in another birdie on No. 11 when he drove over the tees and approached within two feet of the cup. It was the final master stroke.

Hagen is now a big favorite to retain his title he has risen to the test in his matches to date and apparently has banished his toughest opponents. Espinosa, if he is right tomorrow, as he was against "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, yesterday, may knock the king from his throne, however.

The Hagen-Armour cards:

Morning round:

WICHITANS TO SEE MATCHES.

Several Wichita Falls golfers plan attending the P. G. A. semi-finals matches today and final round Sunday in Dallas. Among those going to attend the tournament are Bill Strachan, local professional, Finley Weldon, Roscoe Davis, Etanley McGregor.

TARLETON COPS EASILY

STEPHENVILLE, Nov. 3. (AP)—John Tarleton college ran its junior conference victories to three straight with a 39-0 verdict over Gainesville junior college here today.

The losers held the Plowboys to to 13-0 count at the half but crumpled in the two last periods. Hunter starred for the visitors.

BADGERS TAKE INDIANS, 40-0

McKinney, Hobbs, Rundell, Hodges Flash

CISCO, Nov. 3.—Heavier weight and superior experience coupled with speed of two sensational backfield men, proved too much against the Wichita Falls junior college football team here this afternoon despite the fact the Wichitans held the Badgers scoreless in the first quarter, Randolph college emerged victorious by a 40 to 0 score. It was a game bunch of youngsters Coach Ludgate brought to Cisco and they battled the whole four frames. But in holding in check the Randolph juggernaut in that first quarter they appeared to give their all. Holding back that rising tide of maroon jersied battering rams longer than one period was too great a task to ask of Ludgate's men and their defense cracked wide open just after the second quarter began. Four times that cavalcade coached by Monroe Sweeney, former National league umpire, galloped across the golden goal line in that period, and it appeared that the Wichitans had gone to pieces.

Wichita Falls Fights

But Ludgate whispered some thing into tne ear of each of his proteges between halves. He sent them back in there fighting. They fought so hard that they sent Johnny Walker, sensational Randolph broken field runner, out of the game and into care of a doctor. Only once in the third quarter was their goal line crossed by the burly Couch, a man built for the line but endowed with the speed of Red Grange. The battle raged even more furiously in the final quarter when numerous penalties were inflicted, and it was not until late in the period that Randolph could score again. The final touchdown came after Randolph had worked the ball down to the five yard line and there batered three times at the line without budging an inch. Finally a pass was whipped over the line to Couch and he stepped across the goal without opposition shortly before the game ended.

Many Sharp Runs

Stars for Randolph were Couch and Walker each of whom ripped off runs of 25 or 30 yards at times around or through the line. Of the six touchdowns, Couch made four usually after a 10 or 29 yard run. Enzer a substitute fullback showed unexpected ability in line plunging and broken field running. The line from wing to wing held solidly throughout the struggle. Wichita Falls was on the defensive throughout the game, punting at almost every opportunity and so little could be seen of its offense. McKinney was the defensive star, tackling savagely and getting into practically every play. Hobbs at center instilled much fight into the line while Rundell assisted materially in breaking up the Badger passing attack. Hodges was the outstanding backfield player of the afternoon.

The lineups:

Wichita Falls	Pos.	Randolph
Ewing		Smith
	Left End
Edmonson		Blanton

	Full Back

Substitutions: Tarkington for Atkins, McKinney for Scoggins, Hutcheson for Hodges, McConnell for Hutcheson, Rundell for Ewing, Scoggins for McKinney, Atkins for Tarkington, Hodges for McConnell. Officials: Cherry, referee; Golightly, umpire; Grasty, linesman.

Decatur Baptists Run Over Olney

OLNEY, Nov. 3. — The Olney Cubs lost their practice game with Decatur college at Decatur this afternoon, 49 to 0. The heavy and experienced college team was too much for the light Class B team although the Cubs held for downs on a number of occasions and forced Decatur to punt. Decatur's forward passes were a menace to the Cubs five of their eight touchdowns coming as a direct result of the pass. Hatch, Ford and Workman starred for Decatur. Lipe, Harville and O'Brien held the Decatur boys on a number of line rushes and broke through to throw their men back of the line. McKinney, Cub halfback, made a number of nice line plunges through the Decatur line. Russell, fleety quarter for the Cubs, was out of the game on account of injuries.

SCOTT CONFIDENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—Phil Scott, the towering British heavyweight champion, is so confident of taking the measure of Knute Hansen, 'the melancholy Dane," in their 10-round match at Madison Square garden tomorrow night that he already is planning his American campaign for next year.

KID DUGAN — By Dick Dorgan

Friend Al,

Well, I guess I didn't write you I had a letter from the wife and she said where she wanted to live in New York this winter and if I didn't she'd divorce me. I never heard that was grounds for divorce. She also told me how she had met a very pretty girl I would be just crazy about and she wanted to board with us if we took an apartment, and I want to say one of those girls which your wife says is pretty could usually get a job as the bearded lady in a circus. There was a western bird in the smoking car today who is in politics and he was saying what an honest business that is and how crooked baseball, prize fighting, racing, the Dempsey-Tunney battle and etc. is so I finally says none of these sports could be wrong if it wasn't for the crooked politicians and then he shut up which shows I was right. Well, so long.

Yours as usual,

Jack Keefe.

Baby Improvises Teething Ring

LYNN, Mass.—Substitution of a telephone cord for a rubber nipple disrupted service on several lines here recently. Trouble men investigating found a baby sitting on the floor chewing the receiver cord. The youngster, seeking for a hard substance to chew, had eaten through the cord to the bare wire and it had gone dead. The child's mother was among those who had complained of the suspension of service.

NOCONA FIELD CARRIED INTO OKLAHOMA BY LESH AND M'CALL

NEW PRODUCER IN JEFFERSON

Shallow Strike Located South of Waurika

The shallow field north of Nocona in Montague county has been extended across Red river and towns in Jefferson county, Okla., may reap the benefit of an oil play.

The No. 1 well of Lesh and McCall, Nocona operators, located in the approximate center of the southeast quarter of section 18, township 7s, range 5w, Jefferson county, is showing for a 40 barrel producer if water can be shut off.

This well, located just north of Red river, several miles east of Ryan and 20 miles southeast of Waurika, found the sand at 838 feet and drilled eight feet. It made an equal amount of oil and water, according to teh latest available reports, but was entertained for shutting off the water.

NEW SOUTH BEND WELL.

A new well is being brought in in the South Bend field of Young county, Conner's No. 4, located approximately 1000 feet southeast of the Panhandle Refining company's big producer, being in the pay. Thursday it was making 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas and about 1000 barrels of oil from the lime at 4184-86 feet and was expected to increase as deepened.

WELL IN GRAHAM FIELD IS BROUGHT IN.

Pitzer and West's No. 2-B Morrison in the E. Sherrell survey, northeast of Graham in Young county, is having its ups and downs. Last week the well came in flowing 1000 barrels initially and then dropped below 500 barrels. Later it quit flowing altogether and a packer and tubing were set and yesterday the well was reported flowing 700 barrels daily through the tubing.

CHILDRESS COUNTY

Continental and Marland Oil companies are making satisfactory progress in their deep test in Childress county and a few weeks more will tell Childress citizens whether they are to have an oil well. This test, No. 1 B. P. Smith, in section 14, block 9, F. P. Knott survey, is drilling at 3025 feet.

PANHANDLE-COLGAN.

Panhandle Refining company is spudding in its No. 1 Colgan, located north of Megargel in South Archer county and 1705 feet south and 150 feet west of the northeast corner of the J. F. Martin survey, abstract 276.

TEXAS-CASTLEBERRY.

The Texas Comptny, in its No. 1 Castleberry, is testing out the same showing found by the Humble Oil and Refining company in its No. 1-C Castleberry, and reports yesterday were that the test may open up another pool in Wilbarger county. Having tested dry in a sand at 1110 feet, the well was deepened and at 1116-18 feet it is estimated at 40 barrels. It is located in section 66, block 14, H. & T. C. survey and is south of the test drilled by the Humble.

NASH AL-HINSON.

Nash and Winfohr, drilling their No. 1 Hinson as a direct north offset to Pitzer and West's No. 1 which flowed 800 barrels two weeks ago, are drilling at 1330 feet.

WILBARGER COUNTY.

Fain-McGaha Oil company is drilling at 1386 feet in No. 1 Waggoner, located in section 31, block 4, H. & T. C. survey and east of the Smith and Brady producer.

The wildcat being drilled by Staley and Wynne in section 9, block 5, H. & T. C. survey, has a hole full of water and is drilling at 1600 feet.

400,000 MARK TOPPED AGAIN

Seminole Counters Surprise By Operators

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 3. (AP)—The Seminole field did just what its owners did today—furnished a surprise.

It returned to above the 400,000 barrel mark in production, flowing 403,405 barrels of crude during the 24-hour period ending at 7 o'clock this morning. This was an increase of 11,969 barrels over the previous day.

The surprise from the owners came this morning when they continued their pro-ration curtailment agreement in the area after forecasts that the agreement would be terminated.

Two Causes Left

Restrictions will still be enforced on shooting the wells of the Little River area and "outside wells" being drilled in the territory adjacent to the field. These are teh only two remaining clauses of the operators' agreement. In real effect, however, the "outside wells" will be pinched in to 100 barrels per day upon their completion and Little River operators must have permission, which is usually granted, to shoot their producers.

Due to declining production serious encroachment of salt water in the producers and smaller initial flow of the wells in the four older pools, Seminole city pool, Earlsboro, Seabright and Bowlegs, all restrictions in these pools already have been removed.

Many Wells "Shot"

In the 30-day period from October to Nov. 1 permission was given Umpire Collins and the pro-ration committee headed by H. H. Cole, vice presedent of the Pure Oil company, to shoot no less than 188 wells in these four older pools. On the first of November permission was given operators to shoot any well they desired, apply air pressure, pump or swab and in fact use any artificial method deemed desirable to hold up the output of their leases. While around 125 wells were shot during the month, production continued its steady decline, despite the added flush output of a score or more new wells and now stands below the 400,000 barrel mark.

Producers Lead In Plateau Completions

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 3.—The percentage of producers was high in last week's completions in the trans-Pecos, on the Edwards Plateau and in the far western Texas, eight ou tof thirteen making oil. Four locations were abandoned, one each in Crane, Crockett, Howard and Yoakum counties. Crane, Howard and Pecos counties gained two producers each and Upton and Winkler counties one well each. Tests dry and abandoned were two in Pecos county and one each in Crane, Glasscock and Howard counties.

Completions did not include Magnolia's No. 1 Roberts, first gusher from the lime in Howard county; California No. 2 Smith, lease No. 2; Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental Nos. 1-D and 4-B Yates in Pecos and Gulf No. 2 Thompson in Crockett county.

Failures in Pecos county during the week were Garland & Mott's No. 1 McKenzie and Benedum & Trees No. 1 Trees. The No. 1 McKenzie, in the center of the northeast quarter of section 26, block 126, T. & St. L. Ry. Co. survey, stopped at 3,500 feet with a hole full of sulphur water from 2,550. Benedum & Trees No. 1 Trees flowed sulphur water heavily at 3,502 feet, its total depth, and is now being plugged back to utilize a fine artesian water flow. It had a surface elevation of 2,555 feet, topped the salt at 2,305 and the lime at 2,950 feet. The location is 990 feet from the south and east lines of section 50, block 8, H. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey.

Showing of Oil In Area Near Yates Pool

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 3. (AP) — A showing of oil in George H. Anderson, C. E. Menzie and Red Bank Oil company's No. 1 Sherbino brothers, promising production in a new area 20 miles southwest of the Yates pool, was reported here Wednesday. Oil appeared when a sand was topped at 2,465 feet and was panetrated only three feet, Menzie said.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—Rallies from an early decline in the cotton market were followed by renewed weakness today. After selling off early to 20.70, January advanced to 21.0s and closed at 20.76, compared with 20.92 at the close of previous day. The general market closed barely steady, at a net decline of 14 to 20 points, late months being relatively easy.

The market opened steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 8 points. Buying came in on reports of unfavorable weather, but demand seemed less active than had been anticipated by previous buyers and the market eased off rather sharply in early trading. Unfavorable trade advices from Manchester and an easier turn in the Liverpool market after the local opening, probably increased the disposition of longs to take profits after the sharp advance yesterday, and before the decline was checked, prices showed net losses of 20 to 30 points.

December sold off to 20.68 and May to 20.98, but at these figures, the market was steadied by a renewal of trade buying, and there were advances during mid-day, accompanied by reports of an improved spot demand in the south and a generally firm spot basis.

Trade interests were among buyers on the rally which carried prices up to 21.02 for December and 21.32 for May, or about 13 to 15 points net higher on the winter and spring months. Much of the demand was attributed to covering, however, and the market eased late in the afternoon under a renewal of realizing, while the reports of an improved spot demand, in the south were followed by increased volume of hedge selling here.

Last prices were within 6 or 8 points of the early low level. July and October contracts were relatively easy during the entire day under liquidation or a little selling which in the case of October contracts, was said to be based partly on belief that differences between old and new crop months would probably widen later in the season.

Private cables reported local and continental buying in Liverpool on bullish advices from the American markets with the advance checked by Manchester selling.

Port receipts today 53,008. U. S. port stocks 2,501,849. Exports 56,047 making 2,296,459 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3. (AP)—After advancing 27 to 41 points from an early decline the cotton market reacted in the late trading today on realizing by early buyers. December contracts which had rallied from 20.84 to 21.07 eased off and closed at 20.92 compared with 21.09 at yesterday's close. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 14 to 17 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than due at the start here and first trades showed losses of 1 to 3 points. Prices continued to east off after the star on selling due to the failure of the rain storm weather predicted to materialize. January dropped to 20.89 and March 20.98, 21 to 25 points net down.

Offerings tapered off at these levels and the market quieted down. Near noon, however, good trade buying developed, probably inspired by reports of a good spot demand. Some price fixing by spinners and the absence of hedge selling aided the demand. January rallied to 21.20 and March 21.35, 1½ points over the previous close.

The market ruled steady in the afternoon until near the close when early buyers began taking profits. December reacted to 20.92 and March 21.04, 31 to 32 points down from the highs. The close was at the lowest on the late reaction.

Exports for the day totaled 58,647 bales.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—The cotton seed oil market was quiet and irregular today, closing 3 points higher to 1 point lower. Cotton and commission houses were sellers owing to the decline in cotton prices losing 3 to 4 points, but on the decline there was food support from spot oil and southern interests, due to the steadiness of crude oil and the advance in lard and rallies followed. Sales 18,000 barrels. Prime crude 9.25; prime summer yellow spot 10.70; December closed 10.32; January 10.32; March 11.08; May 11.25.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—Prices for some lines of cotton goods were irregular with an apparently weak tendency due to the anxiety to move out stock accumulation. Print cloths were a little more active than sheetings with some sales of the latter going through at concession. Substantial amount of tobacco cloth today was done in the south for late delivery. Monthly raw silk figures issued by the silk association indicate that the low value of five dollars per pound may be possible for a long line.

Oil Stocks Lead Way to Gains on Stock Market Thursday With Standard Oil Shares in Van

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—"Easy Money" was the slogan in Wall Street today as the market moved higher. Rails and industrials advanced together. Call money was obtainable in goodly amount at 3 1-4 per cent on the outside while the official rate was held at 3 1-2 per cent. Predictions were made by the biggest borrowers that the official rate would be 3 per cent very soon. Speculative sentiment, therefore, became almost as enthusiastically bullish as it was bearish two days ago.

Commodity markets ruled rather quiet with cotton slipping further as bearish advices continued to come along. The guilder again featured a firm foreign exchange market in a move to a new high.

Increase of $31,000,000 to a new high record in the stock exchange monthly report of brokers' loans was no surprise, but the gain of $27,000,000 reported by the reserve bank for the week was an unpleasant shock. Most brokers and traders had looked for another big falling off but as stated here yesterday the borrowings of the big wire houses showed no change during the week so that the big volume of new financing resulted in a larger total. Expectation of 3 per cent call money overshadows the larger borrowings for the time being but such easy money condition is limited to the preparation starts for the $1,000,000,000 turnover of November 15.

Oil stocks were more prominent, the Standard Oil shares moving higher with those independent companies. The prime influence was the talk of an increase in the crude oil price soon. The season has arrived for crude production to decline. Therefore talk of price advances will be heard frequently. Stocks of crude in storage as of the end of September were the highest on record. Very little change occurred in October. November and December should see stocks drawn upon but until they are cut down there is little likelihood of an advance in price of importance, no matter how much higher quotation would help the inventory position of most oil companies.

New Yrok Central and other good rails showed good demand while there was substantial short covering in Wabash, Erie and other "merger rails" recently raided by the uptown group of professionals who reputedly formed a bear pool some weeks ago and concentrated on such stocks.

After a study of the hearings on the Van Sweringen's new plan, there was somewhat more confidential in railroad circles that the commission might voice approval.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3. (AP)—With 4200 cattle and 2800 calves on hand at Fort Worth, slowness prevailed throughout the morning trading.

A three-car string of fed steers sold at $10.25, which was about steady. Grass steers unsold at the noon hour.

Cows, slow barely steady. Car loads sold up to $6.75; bulk butchers $5.00 and $6.00; meaty cutters $4.50 to $5.00 and canners $4.00 to $5.00.

Stocker yearlings $3.75 and stocker calves around $9.50.

Some choice light veal calves in southern division sold at $11.25 in car load lot. Trading in heavy calves of the better kind very slow with practically no sales reported.

Packer buyers bid a quarter to 50 cents lower, but sellers held out for better prices.

Sheep were steady with some lambs averaging around 78 pounds selling for $12.25 and a string of 200 wethers averaging about 93 pounds at $7.25.

Hog values about steady; packer top in the rail section $9.70 and in the truck section $9.85. One load choice butchers at $10.00; packing sows and pigs steady.

SIXTY GUERILLAS KILLED

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 3. (AP)—A combined combat patrol of United States marines and the national guard fought a fierce engagement with guerillas yesterday morning, killing or wounding sixty of them.

Haynie's Initiation To Be Second In Family Of C. C. President's Wife

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Nov. 3.—Mrs. R. W. Haynie, wife of President Haynie of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, isn't as thrilled as might be expected over the impending initiation of her husband as a full-fledged Comanche Indian chief, because the thing has occurred before in her family.

Mrs. Haynie's great-grandfather, William Doak, a Mississippian, was adopted into the Choctaw Indian tribe in 1810 through the blood-brother ceremony. The ritual involved mingling the blood of the white man with that of his Indian friend, Greenwood LeFleur, a Choctaw chief.

Name Held Secret.

When President Haynie is initiated into the Comanche tribe at Quanah Friday, during the Harvest Moon ceremonials to be staged for two days in that city by redmen from Oklahoma, he will be presented with an elaborate war bonnet, made by squaws of the tribe, aand will in turn present a gift (not firewater) to the Comanche chief. Chief Baldwin Parker, son of Quanah Parker from whom the city of Quanah takes its name, will be in charge of the ritual. President Haynie will also be given an Indian name, this not to be disclosed until the initiation is performed.

The Indian ceremonials, including dancing, feasting and singing of Indian folk lore songs, are expected to draw thousands of visitors to the Hardeman county capitol from all over the "Green Belt" section of West Texas. The Harvest Moon festival begins Friday afternoon and will last through Saturday evening. Sunday the entire Indian tribe will attend church services in Quanah, before returning to their reservation in Oklahoma.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—With reports at hand telling of ocean charters for 24,000,000 bushels of wheat from Vancouver, November—January shipment, wheat values here hahrened today. Early declines were more than overcome. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅛ to ⅝c net higher, corn ⅛ to ⅝c up, oats showing ¼ to ⅝ to ⅝c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Corn moved up with wheat. Country offerings of old corn were quite small. Oats displayed independent strength as a result of excellent cash demand with receipts light. Provisions were responsive to an upward trend in the hog market.

Teaching One of Best Vocation, Says Dean

Special to The Record News.

DENTON, Nov. 3.—One of the best vocations for young women at the present time is teaching, according to Dean Jessie H. Humphries of the College of Industrial Arts. One of the chief duties of Miss Humphries is to help each student find the career for which she is best suited. To do this she keeps on file in her office information concerning vocations interesting to women, qualifications required, the cost in time and money to prepare for them, possibilities of advancement and remuneration offered.

$100,000 FIRE LOSS.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3. (AP)—One of the largest fire of many years threatened the business district of San Marcos before daylight Thursday destroying one business house and doing damage estimated at more than $100,000.

WHEAT FIRM L'ATE IN DAY

Grain Shows Net Gain In Day's Trading

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Wheat developed firmness in the latter part of the session today and showed net gains for the day. A feature of the market was the resistance to selling pressure. Relative strength of the Winnipeg market was a stimulating factor. The volume of cash trade continued to be small.

Corn futures also rallied from an early depression and showed advances at the close of the day. Trade was principally local in character and a good deal of the buying was against indemnities. Oats were relatively stronger than any of the grains, while rye was weak most of the day and closed at net losses.

Closing prices represented net advances of ⅞@1¼c for wheat, while corn was ⅛@⅜c higher. Oats closed ⅝@⅞c higher and rye was ⅛@⅜c lower. Export sales of 300,000 bushels were reported at the seaboard. Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ⅜ pence lower.

Corn was firm most of the day with volume of trade light. There was local buying against indemnities and a little commission house demand. Local selling appeared on the bulge. Attention was attracted by the fact that primary receipts of corn were much higher than a year ago. Cash corn also was firm. Weather conditions over the belt were favorable for curing the crop, being clear with light frosts.

Oats ruled strong but trade not large. Tone of the rye market was easier.

Officials of Road Talk At Picnic and Barbecue

More than 200 members of the M. K. & T. Shopmens' association of Wichita Falls, their families, friends, and guests assembled Thursday night in the association club room near the round house for a barbecue and entertainment given in connection with the "house warming" for the club. The club house has only recently been completed, and is not yet completely furnished, it was said, and Thursday's entertainment is the first to be held within its confines.

The program was carried out in the club rooms, after which all adjourned to the mill room of the shop, where "barbecue and all the trimmings" was served.

W. E. Williams, vice president and manager of personnel of the Katy lines, of St. Louis, was one of the guests who addressed the gathering. Others who made brief talks included Vick Bonzer, assistant to Mr. Williams, also of St. Louis; Bert Quick, Katy athletic director, of Parsons, Kan.; and W. L. Crook, general secretary of the Shopmens' association, also of Parsons, Kan.

Alva Willgus led in a singsong which opened the entertainment program. Frank Humphrey played selections on the bagpipes while his daughter, Miss Olive Humphrey, performed Scottish dances. The affair closed with dancing, with music furnished by the Shopmens' orchestra.

The committee in charge of program arrangements consisted of W. M. Barringer, A. R. Emerson, W. D. Talley, W. H. Walker, W. H. Apple and E. H. McDonald.

Ford To 'Rent' His New Car To Users

Unique Finance Plan Foreseen in Detroit

By Universal Service

DETROIT, Nov. 3.—By making a small down payment and paying $12.50 a month, one may have the use of a new model Ford, when it comes out, for as long as he wishes, it was learned here today.

This unique financing plan is expected to cause as much of a furor in automobile circles as the "$5 down-$5 a month" plan inaugurated by Ford some time ago.

According to information obtained concerning the new method of financing, a person may obtain one of the new models by paying $150 down. The monthly payment of $12.50 will be considered as a "service charge," and will be continued as long as the car is in use.

At the end of a year, if the "owner" wishes, he may have the car overhauled for a small charge, or may turn it in for a new car.

The sale of the car, obviously, is never completed under this plan, and the title will remain with the Ford company.

Warrant Opponents To Fight Case To Supreme Court, Attorneys Say

Active preparations were under way Thursday to rush the $214,000 warrant injunction suit against the city to the Second Court of Civil Appeals at Fort Worth. McDonald and Anderson, attorneys for J. M. Childers and others who filed the suit, announced their clients had instructed them to carry the case to the supreme court of Texas if necessary. They have ordered the statement of facts and prepared a cost bond to guarantee the court costs in the case.

The suit was filed before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th District court and sought to restrain the city from receiving funds from the sale of warrants already issued. The court issued a temporary order at first and heard the case on its merits last Saturday. Judge Cook refused to make the order permanent and dissolved it. This action precludes the need of a supersedeas bond as the city can go ahead and use the funds.

City officials have announced they will rush all of the work, particularly the completion of the auditorium. They desire to have this building completed if possible in time for the state Baptist convention on Nov. 16. Money from the warrants is also to be used in paying for a cemetery and in water and sewer extensions in the city.

Credit Men Hear State Officers In Address at Banquet Here

Co-operation is the greatest of the retail credit men of Texas today according to Robert Stern, president of the state organization. He was the principal speaker Thursday night at a meeting of the Retail Credit Men's association of Wichita Falls with guests from surrounding towns. Beside Stern, J. E. R. Chilton Jr. and J. E. Ziegelmeyer, all of Dallas and also officers in the state association, made talks. State Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham related some instances about the passage of the worthless check law and also some of its provisions.

"The credit grantors," said Stern "need co-operation instead of competition. They have a great responsibility and it is up to the credit man to set his standards high. Often the desire to take an account away from another store will lead to disaster. He should be governed by but two things, first, can they pay; second, will they pay.

"Most of the evils that have arisen from the credit system are not due to dishonesty but to neglect, carelessness, illness and other matters. We are in Dallas arranging for a pay up campaign. The merchants have subscribed $6,600 and we will urge the payment not only of current accounts but old ones as well. Prominence socially or politically should not lead to credit extension. It is a matter of what the customer actually pays and how he pays. Many have the wrong idea of charge accounts. They seem to think they are a license to pay when they get ready and not in stipulated time of the contract. This breaks faith with the merchant and he is anxiously awaiting payment.

"Credit should not be cheapened by making it too easy to get. The charge account customer is undoubtedly your best buyer. They do not come in to look but to purchase. Do not drive them away. Remember that your credit department collection letters are a part of your direct by mail advertising and you should learn to convey unpleasant matters pleasantly."

Senator McFarlane in his talk told the credit men that the present law has plenty of teeth in it. He said the present members of the Court of Criminal Appeals said it was not necessary to wait fifteen days before filing a case on a worthless check but that it could be filed at once. He also pointed out that many merchants have lost the aid of the law enforcement officers by trying to make collection agencies of their offices.

Mr. Ziegelmeyer told of some of the work being done by the national organization to raise the standard of the credit grantors' profession.

Mr. Chilton in a brief speech asked that Wichita Falls have 100 members of the state association by the time that body meets here next May. He hopes to have the state membership at the 3,000 mark at that time.

Joseph Bailey, member of the local association read a paper on the construction of a good collection letter.

Miss Madeline Wilson gave a piano solo and Joseph Rabinowitz a number on the violin for the musical program.

President G. W. Sosebee of the local association was in charge of the meeting.

Credit Head

Robert Stern of Dallas, president of the state association of credit men, was the chief speaker at a banquet and program given here Thursday night.

School - College Notes

National Education week was discussed at the meeting of the teachers of the high school and junior college Thursday afternoon. They are planning to make the week one of importance in the educational line. National Education week begins Monday, Nov. 7, and closes Sunday, Nov. 13. Each day has a special name and will be observed for that specific subject. Monday is "Health Day" and will be considered from the standpoint of how the school promotes health. Tuesday is "Home and School Day" and is to be considered from the standpoint of what the school does to improve the home. How the school encourages learning and thinking will be taken up Wednesday on "Know Your School Day." How the school develops vocational efficiency will be the subject for Thursday, "School Opportunities Day." Friday Nov. 11 is the appropriate day for the subject of how the school prepares for faithful citizenship and it is to be known as "Armistice and Citizenship Day." Saturday is "Community Day." Sunday, the last day of the week is "For God and Country Day." Many of the pastors of the city will speak upon the subject of how the school builds ethical character.

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAM AT CLUB MEETING

An international program will feature the Girls club meeting Friday morning, according to an announcement by Elna Stovall in assembly Thursday morning. There will be special numbers representing about six different nations. November is being observed all over the world as world fellowship month by the Y. W. C. A. of which the Girls club is a part.

STUDENTS INVITED TO SPECIAL SERVICE

Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, invited all of the students of the high school and junior college to attend the special young people's meeting at the Baptist church Friday night.

SPANISH CLUB HOLDS MEET

Over 40 students of the high school Spanish classes attended the meeting of the high school Spanish club Thursday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by Natalie Gorin, president, and Frank Kaufman, secretary, read the minutes and parliamentary rules in Spanish.

Edna Gay Phillips sang a song and Annie H. Anderson told several Spanish jokes. The history of Spain during the time of Isabella and Ferdinand was recounted by Marguarete Newsom. The closing number of the program was "La Paloma," sung in Spanish, by Miss Jane P. McCulloch.

SAMPEY GIVES ADDRESS ON LIFE OF LEE

"The Life and Character of Robert E. Lee," was the subject of an address given by Dr John R. Sampey, evangelist, before the students of the high school and the junior college Thursday morning. Dr. Sampey spoke of the inspiration to be derived from a knowledge of the human traits and characteristics of the great general.

PRIZES FOR CARS IN SCHOOL PARADE

Two prizes will be given for decorated cars in the high school parade Saturday, according to an announcement by Joe Bailey Howard in assembly Thursday morning. One prize will be awarded for the most beautifully decorated car and the other will be awarded for the most comical one.

Scouts To Hold Next Jamboree Dec. 30

Boy Scouts of the city will stage a Jamboree Friday, Dec. 30 at which time other troops of the city will make an effort to take the championship plaque from Troop 10. Four events will be staged on the program.

Scoutmasters of the city have voted to order wall cases for the new quarters at the auditorium. These are to be filled with examples of handicraft and other examples of scout craft. The scoutmasters will do the painting and dressing of the cases.

The scoutmasters' school will open in about two weeks and many enrollments are expected. The men joining will be formed into troops and work as the boys do. The place of the school is to be announced later.

C-C CONSIDERS AIRPORT PLAN

Business Council to Hear Discussion Today

The business council of the chamber of commerce will discuss the advisability of establishing an air port in Wichita Falls at its regular meeting at the Kemp hotel Friday noon.

S. L. Willits and P. D. Cramer, inspectors of the air regulation division of the federal department of commerce, will address the council, outlining their plans for the establishment of an airport in this vicinity. These men are also scheduled to address the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at its meeting Friday morning.

The council will perfect plans to send a large delegation of Wichita Falls business men and employes to Burkburnett Saturday to attend the celebration to be held there in connection with the formal opening of the free bridge across the Red river.

Millikin Sleeps As Death Waits

Atwell, federal judge for the northern district of Texas. At midnight came the announcement from Dallas, however, that Judge Atwell had declined to interfere in the case on the grounds that it was out of his jurisdiction.

Governor Moody, who had granted three reprieves to Millikin from execution for the murder of Mrs. Virginia Petty, San Antonio business woman, refused a commutation to life imprisonment or a reprieve in face of affidavits presented by the doomed man's counsel designed to cast a doubt on the chain of evidence on which Millikin was convicted. It was after the governor's action that Judge Hawkins made his trip to Dallas to place the case before Federal Judge Atwell. Earlier, Federal Judge Duval West, presiding over court at San Antonio, had also refused to interfere. All avenues of escape from the death chair were closed for Millikin.

Jury Found Him Sane

Millikin was found sane Tuesday by a Caldwell county jury and was started back toward the electric chair by the verdict. Three times he barely had escaped death through reprieves by Governor Moody, the last of which was based on the action of the court of criminal appeals in ordering the sanity trial. The others had been granted to allow him more time to prepare pleas for clemency.

Throughout his last trial, and after the decision, he declared his innocence of the crime and professed an abiding faith—engendered, he said, by messages from the "spirit world"—that he would not die in the chair.

Millikin was sentenced to death November 11, 1926, by District Judge M. C. Jeffrey, before whom the sanity trial was held. The case was transferred from Comal county, scene of the killing.

Prejudice Alleged

Allegations of prejudice in Caldwell county on account of the murder trial figured in unsuccessful defense attempts to have the venue changed again for the sanity trial. The defense also attacked the three removals of Millikin from Lockhart to Austin for sanity examinations before and during the trial for lunacy.

In refusing to grant Millikin commutation to life imprisonment, Governor Moody some time ago declared that the murder trial evidence left "no reasonable doubt that he is guilty."

MILLIKIN SLEEPS WHILE DEATH HOVERS NEAR

By Universal Service

DEATH HOUSE, STATE PENITENTIARY, HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 3.—When the hands of the big clock that controls the coming and going of hundreds of "lost souls" in the state prison, met at the figure 12 at midnight tonight, A. V. Millikin, doomed slayer of a San Antonio woman, was sleeping away his last two hours of life on this earth.

Originally scheduled to die at one minute past midnight, Millikin was granted a two hour respite at 10 o'clock in order that his attorneys might make a last minute effort to stay the executioner's hand through Federal Judge Atwell at Dallas.

Early tonight he was prepared for the grim instrument of death. He was given a new suit of clothes. The trousers were slit from the cuff to the knee. His wavy hair fell beneath the clippers held in the hand of a fellow convict.

At 10 o'clock the doomed man called for the Catholic chaplain. He talked with the priest for some little time and it was believed he had at last embraced the faith of his childhood. But the priest said he did not confess.

At eleven o'clock when the penitentiary lay still beneath the silvery glimmer of a half moon, Millikin stretched himself, yawned, and tumbled into his narrow bunk. He fell to sleep almost immediately.

And as the clock tolled the hour of midnight, the doomed man who was found sane by a jury in Lockhart Monday, was sleeping like a child.

In two hours he was to be awakened by the warden. A hand on his shoulder would bring him from slumber to the stark realization that death was only a fe wminutes away.

Millikin displayed none of the nervousness so many other doomed men showed as the hour approaches for them to take their last little walk. He semed to face death unafraid.

MRS. TAMA McTIER.

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Tama McTier, 61, died Wednesday night, Nov. 2 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. P. Prince of Railroad avenue.

Mrs. McTier was born in North Carolina March 30, 1866, and came to Texas 50 years ago. In 1904 she moved to Wichita county and has lived in and near Electra ever since. She was active in church work and civic circles besides being actively connected with the United Daughters of Confederacy.

Mrs. McTier leaves her father, W. H. Miller, who is 84 years old; one brother, Lee Miller, formerly of Electra, but now of Redondo Beach, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. John McDuff and Mrs. Sallie McDaniel, both of Electra; three daughters, Mrs. Fred Ross of Port Arthur, Texas, Mrs. Ella Prince of Electra, and Mrs. Richard Werner of Philadelphia; seven sons, Jess Fugit of Chillicothe, Texas, John Clarence, Harold, Ben, Curtis, Fred of Electra.

Six of her sons acted as pallbearers.

Services were in charge of Rev. Grafton and were held at the Prince residence. The musical program was under the direction of Mrs. C. W. Coffey. The house was overflowing with beautiful flowers from sympathizing friends. Interment was in the Electra cemetery with Totten Brothers in charge.

Kings Gather at Naples to Do Honor At Wedding of Young Italian Duke

By Universal Service.

NAPLES, Nov. 3.—Kings in exile and kings enthroned were gathering today to assist at the marriage of their kinsman, the Duke of Apulia, and Princess Anne of France, daughter of the pretender to the throne of the Bourbons.

King Alfonso of Spain arrived this morning and King Boris of Bulgaria is due tomorrow. King Victor Emmanuel of Italey is expected Saturday morning in time for the ceremony which will join the son of the Duke and Duchess Aosta and the French princess.

The three monarchs without thrones who will attend the ceremony are Manoel of Portugal, George of Greece and the Duke de Guise, father of the bride.

The visit of King Alfonso is regarded as particularly significant politically at this time, in view of the recent presence of Italian warships at Tangiers. The Spanish monarch lunched today with President Tittoni of the Italian senate, who is performing the civil ceremony of marriage for the duke and princess. The meeting revived talk of a Mediterranean pact of solidarity between Italy and Spain to overcome French reluctance to revise existing accords on Tangiers

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE — ITS CAUSE AND CURE

If you have been told that your blood pressure is low, you must realize that this is not a disease but means that your energy is low, which is evident to the physician when he examines your blood pressure and finds it below normal. The blood pressure of a healthy person should be 120 millimeters, and if it is ten or fifteen degrees below this figure it indicates weakness and debility.

This is the condition which precedes tuberculosis, diabetes, cancer, and all disorders where there is great enervation. In every case low blood pressure and enervation precede the above mentioned diseases, and are not caused by them. With low blood pressure the arteries become flabby and relaxed, and the muscles and tissues of the body are found to be in a similar state. Every cause which is weakening the body is responsible for the production of low blood pressure.

The cure consists in building up the blood stream and developing all the functional powers of the body. The extreme weakness will be gradually overcome by proper dietary changes, with the use of physical culture exercises and walking. Improvement, however, is very slow, and you must be patient and not easily discouraged if you expect to overcome this serious and dangerous condition.

No matter what seems to have caused the weakness, the one necessary point to keep in mind is to develop increased strength. For this purpose there is one thing you must do and that is to take long walks. I do not know of any treatment or exercise which will have the same definite effect that this form of exercise will have on developing a stronger blood pressure.

Start your walks at once, covering at least a mile the first day. Increase this distance to at least five miles a day, and have your blood pressure measured by a physician. You will find a steady improvement with a gain in endurance which will astonish you.

In addition to the walking, if you take vigorous physical culture exercises each day, starting with light exercises at first and gradually increasing the number of movements of each exercise until you can exercise vigorously for ten to fifteen minutes without producing soreness of the muscles afterwards, this will assist in toning up all the functional activities of the body and will assist you in recovering your strength and bringing your blood pressure to the normal.

Do not be satisfied until your blood pressure registers 120 millimeters, which indicates that your strength is normal.

QUESTION: Mrs. L. M. writes: "Your articles are very good and I enjoy them very much. What is the cause of abscessed kidneys? What are the symptoms? How can the trouble be remedied?"

ANSWER: Such kidney trouble sometimes develops simply because the kidneys are overworked and are forced to eliminate poisons which should be thrown out through the intestines. Another cause is from the irritation of kidney stones. An abscessed kidney is always a serious, trouble, and each case must be properly diagnosed and treated accordingly. Don't expect the trouble to cure itself until you remove the cause and take the proper diet or use what other remedial treatment is necessary.

QUESTION: N. E. W. asks: "Is chewing gum beneficial?"

ANSWER: Chewing gum is beneficial to the gums, increasing the circulation of blood through these parts.

QUESTION: H. J. D. writes: "I am a young man and would like to get rid of the snuff habit."

ANSWER: As with all drug habits, the best cure is simply to stop practicing the habit. Every time you have a desire to use snuff go to a washstand and snuff a few drops of water. This is rather unpleasant but not harmful, and will discourage you in looking for the kick from snuff.

Nocona Youth Dies In Hospital Here

Richard B. Treadwell, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Treadwell of route 5, Nocona, died in a local hospital at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. The body is being held at the Hines mortuary pending the arrival of a sister, Mrs. John McClendon, of Willow, Okla.

Treadwell, who was an employe of the Humble Oil and Refining company, in addition to his parents and Mrs. McClendon, is survived by another sister, Miss Nancy Lee Treadwell, of Nocona; five brothers, W. E. Treadwell, of 510 Holliday street, C. E. and H. H. Treadwell of Vernon, and J. D. Treadwell of Nocona.

Keep Your Appetite Young

If the things you used to like disagree with you, take a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin after a meal. It displaces the excess acid in the stomach, sweetens your food, and digests it. The nourishment from it produces good healthy tissue and blood; you gain weight and strength, and with that comes a healthy, youthful color.

Thousands of people who suffered from stomach trouble for years, praise Pape's Diapepsin for their good health and young appetite. They can now eat anything they want. That's why 5 million packages are used a year.

Any druggist will supply you with Pape's Diapepsin because it is indispensable in every home.—Adv.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA BRIDGE EDITION

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1927.

THOUSANDS TO ATTEND BRIDGE FETE

Will Of Civic Leaders Battered Down Bars To Free Bridge

Opponents to Burk Bridge Construction Fought Hard

But Proponents of Project Fought That Much Harder To Put Over Idea To Span Red River

By DAL DALRYMPLE.

Few of the thousands who will assemble at Burkburnett Saturday to commemorate the opening of the free bridge over the Red river will pause in their rounds of pleasure for a moment to give thought to the untiring efforts of those determined men who beat down all opposition, who surmounted all difficulties that this great span of concrete which unites the states of Texas and Oklahoma might become a reality.

Few will there be who will give more than passing consideration to the long campaign that was waged, in court and out, in Texas and in Oklahoma, before actual construction began.

Few there will be who will make more than a cursory examination of the material used in the erection of this vinculum which ties the sister states of Texas and Oklahoma together with great bonds of concrete—enduring through the years to come as a mighty monument to those intrepid men who decided there should be no tax upon the passage of the citizens of the one state into the other and who persevered until this day when their dream comes true.

For these thousands who gather there at Burkburnett will come to make merry, to listen to able speakers, to parade, to ride and romp and play in their rodeos, their football games, boxing matches, tug-of-war and other events that will make of the day a continuous round of pleasure. Little time, indeed, can they give to the why and the wherefore of this great bridge.

But before the dawn of that day of joy unrestrained it may not be amiss to delve into the history of the bridge and its promoters, to learn of what it is made. So here goes.

Outstanding among the many who have worked to make the bridge-dream come true may be mentioned four individuals and two organizations.

To the chambers of commerce of Wichita Falls and of Burkburnett must go considerable of the credit for the successful ending of the long fight for the bridge. These organizations, through their officials and their members, worked hand in hand with the county and state officers through the long years since the plans for a free bridge were first broached. Their aid was invaluable.

To B. D. Sartin, former Wichita county judge; J. M. Isbell, Wichita county engineer, and his assistant, L. D. Cadenhead, for Texas, and to Roy Johnson, former member of the Oklahoma State Highway commission, for his state, is due the lion's share of the praise.

Away back in 1923 a man had a vision. He had seen untold thousands of Oklahomans refrain from paying numerous visits to Burkburnett and to Wichita Falls because of the seemingly unfair tax which they must pay to cross over an interstate river. He had seen other thousands of residents of his own county and city delay, week after week, month after month, business trips and visits to relatives and friends in Oklahoma because of that same tax. Countless, too, were the thousands he had seen dig down into their pockets and extract therefrom the hard-earned dollar necessary for the passage across the stream that is red.

He visioned the day when a great bridge which belonged to all the people would span that river—a bridge over which the citizens of all states could pass without paying toll.

That man was B. D. Sartain, then county judge of Wichita county. He, it was, who initiated the campaign which is now successful.

Working hand in hand with Judge Sartain and the Texas boos-

THREE FACTORS IN GROWTH OF BURK AS CITY

Farms Replaced Ranches and Then Came Oil Boom For Town

CORN FIRST CROP

Modern City Built On Bald Prairie In Few Short Years

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 3.—The stranger approaching the town of Burkburnett from the south notices long, undulating plains scattered with cattle; spreading farm lands, and eventually, a panorama of oil derricks.

Think of those three factors a little while, and how they may be put to use, and you have the history of the town.

20 Years Ago.

In 1906 there was no city on this spot—the grazing lands and farms were unused, because they were unknown. In 1907, a year later, owners of the vast tracts began subdividing their holdings, making it available for purchasers; and when about 1000 people took advantage of the offer, established their farms and brought their cattle, the town was begun. Farming soon took precedence over cattle raising, and corn was the principal crop. This condition continued for many years. J. G. Hardin, now president of the First National bank, remarked only recently that he could remember when scores of workers used to line what is now the main street, all bending over their work, shucking corn.

Then came 1918—the oil boom—and Burkburnett, hitherto a mecca of compunchers and corn huskers, became what its motto indicates, "the oil city of Texas."

Great Oil Boom.

The history of that era, when people had oil wells in their back yards, and cots in their alleys which they rented to thousands of field workers at exorbitant rates, is well known.

The results of that era, however, can stand rehearsing. Its population has increased from 500 to about 3000; its townsite now has 55 blocks of pavement and all manner of civic improvements, including a modern school system that has lately been benefited by the erection of a $150,000 high school building; it is the center of a number of oil refineries and business institutions that create for the city an annual pay roll of approximately $3,000,000. The oil fields today, it is estimated, produce more than 1100 barrels daily; and recent statistics show that the casinghead gas drawn from the wells contain a larger per cent of gasoline than any other field known today.

Building activities have characterized the progress of the city lately. In addition to being the drawing card of the state through the construction within one mile of its borders of the Burkburnett free bridge into Oklahoma, at a cost of $380,000, the city has recently spent $335,000 for a new city hall; $50,000 for a new Methodist church and $50,000 for a new Baptist church building.

October Revenues Heavy at Vernon

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 3.—The city of Vernon had one of its busiest months of the year during October, records at the city hall reveal. In the month which just closed the city realized over $11,000 on its water and light business and collected more than $2000 in taxes, or an exact total of $13,743.93.

Girl Council Member To Continue Domestic

LONDON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Miss Lilly Thorpe, 22-year-old socialist, who was elected to the council of the borough of Bootle, on the outskirts of London, in Tuesday's municipal election, is going to continue her work as a domestic, despite her elevation to the borough council.

Hundred Flee Before Broken Dam's Threat

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. (AP)—Hundreds of persons fled from their homes this afternoon when the Patch dam over East creek partly gave way under the head of water piled up by an all-day downpour. The creek rose 20 feet as it boiled down through a residential section of this city.

No lives were endangered so far as could be learned, although scores of homes were said to be flooded.

Texas Felon Fails In Effort To Get Away

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., Nov. 3. (AP)—Sidney Brewster, convicted narcotic law violator, en route to th federal penitentiary here from Amarillo, Texas, late today leaped through the vestibule window of a train coach while it stood on a siding in Lansing, six miles from the prison, and attempted to escap. He was captured, however, when cuts received in the leap prevented him running.

Janitor Convicted As Slayer Of Two Women

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—Ludwig Lee, a janitor, was convicted by a jury today of the murder of Mrs. Selma Bennett, one of the two Brooklyn women he was accused of slaying and dismembering their bodies. Parts of the bundles were found scattered around Brooklyn and lower Manhattan.

Randlett, Town Without Jail, First Stop In Oklahoma For Visitors

Pretty South Oklahoma City Thrives in Rich Agricultural Section Without Railroad

Special to The Record News

RANDLETT, Okla., Nov. 3.—Over the free bridge and into Oklahoma and the thriving, little town of Randlett is your first town and first stop in Oklahoma.

As a typical southern Oklahoma town, Randlett has other claims to fame—among them the fact that there has been only one bank robbery there in the history of the city, and the fact that no jail is needed—for Randlett recently sold its jail building at public auction, and will sell the cells if a purchaser can be found. They don't need a jail in Randlett, they will tell you, so G. L. Pfeifer recently bought the building for $56, and will use it on his farms near Randlett in the business of producing hogs, cotton, corn, wheat and other Oklahoma crops.

Randlett was founded on the promise of a railroad, a transportation system that never materialized, and has managed to live and thrive despite the failure of the

BURK BANKERS GIVEN THRILLS

First National Boasts Interesting History

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 3—Even though the First National bank building of Burkburnett is riddled with bullets of the big boom days, and even though its safe is scarred with the marks of youthful bandits who some years ago tried to pommel the vault, it still stands, completely renovated and improved, and proud of its scars of battle.

It still stands, also, as a monument to the accomplishments of what has gone on inside it—which is more interesting than all of its material hardships.

Organized in 1907

The bank was organized in September, 1907, by J. G. Hardin, who has remained president of the institution, and J. A. and J. I. Staley of Wichita Falls. The men opened with a capital stock of $25,000; the first deposits ranging in the vicinity of $100,000. Only four employes were kept at the bank, which was located in a small brick structure, which later was enlarged to include the present postoffice building, and which was given another story for use as bank offices. The total cost of the improvements, which were finished in 1919, was estimated at $100,000.

The present standing of the bank shows large increases in prosperity. According to a tabulated statement of Oct. 10, of this year, the capital stock is $100,000, deposits aggregate $708,828.68; the surplus and undivided profits amount $30,602.31; and the total resources stand at $936,730.99.

Rapid Growth

Ten employes are now maintained in the institution. The officers of the bank at present are J. G. Hardin, president; J. A. Staley, vice president; C. C. Cabiness, vice president; R. E. Fisher, active vice president; G. R. Kincaid, active vice president and cashier; A. R. Hill, assistant cashier; and F. T. Felty, assistant cashier.

The board of directors include J. A. Staley, P. P. Langford, J. M. Alexander, I. E. Harwell, R. O. Kenley, J. I. Staley, C. C. Cabiness, R. E. Fisher, and G. R. Kincaid.

Childress Expects To Gain 5000 Residents

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Nov. 3.—"With favorable conditions, Childress should gain 5000 new citizens during the next three years," was the prediction made by J. M. Baber, Wichita Falls, realtor, who was here with J. R. Bachmann. They were enroute to Turkey where they were to handle several land deals.

"Demands for undeveloped farm lands in Northwest Texas is picking up," they declared.

Old Office Building Put On Skids in Fact

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Nov. 3.—The old office building here of the American Railway Express company was literally "put on the skids" last week to make way for a modern structure to house the company's local offices. The old building is being moved a short distance to the west to allow space for the new structure.

Mail Delivery On New Olney Streets

OLNEY, Nov. 3.—Word has been received at the local chamber of commerce office concerning the extension of the free delivery route in Olney. According to the statement from the postal department, free delivery of mail will be extended as follows to those who have mail boxes installed by Nov. 15: All of First street, all of Third street that is not now being served, the east side of North Avenue F in the 300 and 400 blocks and a one block extension of South Avenue F.

QUANAH, Nov. 3.—A way has been found to "get around" the housing shortage in Quanah. The West Texas Utilities company has announced that it will construct six modern residences as homes for its employes here.

DEVOL FINDS CITY MANAGER PLAN SUCCESS

Business Government Gives Town One of Lowest Tax Rates

FARMS PROVE WORTH

Many Public Improvements Made During Last Few Years

Special to The Record News.

DEVOL, Okla., Nov. 3.—Situated just north of the Red river, on the broad and rollins plains of Oklahoma, the little town of Devol, mainly a farming country noted for its production of wheat, cotton, and barley, has lately joined in the ranks of progress with other Oklahoma communities, and city fathers now boast that their community has the lowest tax rate of any town its size in southwestern Oklahoma, when the city improvements are considered.

Farmers Like Town

This has drawn many farmers to the town, adding more citizens to the population that take an interest in the civic welfare, and broadening the outlook of the city. And with the increase of the population, now estimated at more than 500, civic improvements were made in the form of a new school building, built in 1910 at a cost of $50,000, to which an auditorium and annex was added in 1924 at a cost of $12,000; and a sewerage and water system, which were installed in 1913. Besides the little town boasts two gins, three grain elevators, and a main line pump station operated by the Sinclair Oil company.

While not astounding to read about, the development of the town grows in interest when it is realized that all accomplished has been done by a small band of men, and in a short while. The town was founded in September, 1903, when W. T. Huff, brother of R. E. Huff of Wichita Falls, moved with his family to this region from Tennessee, and began cultivation of a 160 acre tract of land. Others followed.

J. C. Dulaney, present city manager of the community, came in the same year from Temple, Okla., and erected the first drug store. A few months earlier, J. H. Fry, from Ryne, Okla., and W. R. Anderson, of Tennessee, both promising farmers, settled in the country, forming a nucleus for the future community. The fertile land attracted those farmers willing to endure hardships, and population increased. During the drama of the oil boom, of course, hundreds were attracted to the town, but this wave, as things temporary, left no permanent trace in the community life.

Adopt Manager Plan

The town was incorporated in 1912, under a system of government in charge of a board of aldermen headed by J. C. Dulaney, and consisting of J. H. Fry, and W. R. Anderson. The second board, consisting of T. A. Hudson and J. N. Huff, with T. A. Ikard as chairman, was elected in 1917, and was also the last body of its kind to handle civic affairs of the people. For while the people had prospered in business and economnical pursuits, pioneers began to realize that material improvements, while indispensable, did not necessarily improve their government.

Realizing, therefore, that progress was the end of their plans, the founders of the city, in 1924, did away with the old board of alderman method of city government, and framed the city manager plan, appointing Mr. Dulaney city manager. J. D. Tussey was made mayor, S. L. Arnold was made commissioner of finance, and J. M. Dillow was given the office of commissioner of public property. Finding the city in debt after the boom days of 1919, the new government began a policy of economy which has done much to alleviate their indebtedness, and reduce the city tax rate, according to Mr. Dulaney, from a tax of 11 per cent that prevailed in former years, to a tax of one and one-half per cent, the existing rate, which is considered lower than any found in towns of this size in southwestern Oklahoma.

Good Farms

Farming being the principal means of livelihood, new processes of cultivation adopted have yielded a production of approximately 15 bushels of wheat per acre; 50 bushels of oats per acre; and 50 bushels of barley per acre, according to annual figures prepared. The cotton crop of this region is also considered good, 4,200 bales having been ginned from the crop of 1926.

Mr. Dulaney, present city manager, is highly optimistic about the little community in which he has lived for the last eighteen years. Moving from Eddy, Texas, with his family in 1901, he settled in Temple, Okla., leaving there for Devol in 1903. During the last six or seven years Mr. Dulaney said he had given particular attention to the governmental affairs of the town.

Governor Johnston Will Be Chief Speaker At Fete

Many Distinguished Men of Texas and Oklahoma To Take Part in Burk Ceremony

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching—and they are riding in cars and buggies and wagons and on horseback, headed for the common Mecca:

Burkburnett!

Where thousands will assemble Saturday morning for the common purpose:

To celebrate the opening of that big free bridge which the states of Texas and Oklahoma and the county of Wichita have had erected across the River which is Red.

Yes, folks, that day is at hand when the citizens of Texas will join with citizens of Oklahoma in making merry in the good old southwestern way because the free bridge has become a reality.

There will be a hot time in the old town of Burkburnett Saturday, night and day.

The long, long fight which has been waged in court and out by several Texas and Oklahoma men, backed by the sentiment of their fellow citizens, has been won and the monument to their victory has been completed.

The great bridge for which they fought—oftimes against great odds and seemingly unsurmountable obstacles—will be formally dedicated to the service of the citizenry of the two states Saturday.

Such a momentous event must necessarily be appropriately observed with a celebration of the masses—

And when they celebrate in the Southwest—they CELEBRATE!

The Burkburnett fiesta will be one to please the most critical of the old Southwesterners who have attended picnics and barbecues, fiestas and jubilees, big political gatherings and other public events in the years agone.

That celebration at Burkburnett will set a new standard for events of the kind to be judged by—so big, so comprehensive will it be.

Day's Program Full of Activity

Why say, folks, there will be something going on practically every minute of the day to please and entertain each and every one of the many thousands who assemble in that thriving little city at the Texas end of the new bridge.

The big program will get under way at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning when a big parade wends its way down the streets of Burk.

Carried by marchers in the forefront of the cavalcade will be the United States flag, the Oklahoma flag, the Texas flag, color bearers and the color guard of the Oscar Frye Post of the American Legion.

Next in line will be the Interstate Boys' band of Walters and Grandfield, Okla., and Burkburnett, directed by E. L. Nichols.

Then there will pass in review decorated floats and cars representing the towns, organizations and business concerns in this order: Oklahoma towns; Texas towns, other than Wichita Falls and Burkburnett; Wichita Falls, Burkburnett.

Trailing these will come the oldest cars running under their own power, cars bringing the largest families, cars coming the greatest distance and decorated cars.

The speaking, which will be held in front of the city hall at Burkburnett, will begin at 10:30 o'clock. C. E. McCutchen, president of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, will preside.

The thousands of visitors will be welcomed to the city by Mayor G. R. Kincaid of Burkburnett.

The history of the free bridge project will be outlined by B. D. Sartin, former Wichita county judge who is accredited with being the prime mover in the long fight for the erection of the bridge.

Governor of Oklahoma to Speak

This will be followed by the feature address of the day by Governor Henry S. Johnston of Oklahoma, who will conclude the speaking program.

The noon hour will be given over to an inspection of the giant concrete bridge connecting the two states.

A rodeo and wild west show will begin at 2 o'clock. Able and experienced cowboys and cowgirls will participate in this event, which will be characteristic of the rodeos for which the Southwest is nationally famed.

At 2:45 o'clock lovers of gridiron sport will have their innings when football teams representing the high schools of Waurika, Okla., and Burkburnett clash.

Representatives of the two states will again meet in competition at 5 o'clock when Oklahoma and Texas teams will struggle with each other in a mighty tug-of-war.

Lovers of the ludicrous in fistic combat will get their meed of enjoyment at 7 o'clock when several huskies meet in battle royal.

This will be followed by a more serious fistic program at 7:30 o'clock when a good boxing program is presented.

The great fireworks display at 9 o'clock will officially end the day's festivities, but there will be dances, shows and private entertainments galore to add color to the big jubilee.

And to round out the whole, the Burkburnett Community fair and poultry show will afford added attractions.

Many Distinguished Guests Coming

Foremost among the thousands of guests of Burkburnett who will attend the festival will be, of course, the chief executive of Oklahoma, Governor Henry S. Johnston. Texas' chieftain, Governor Dan Moody, was invited but could not attend because of previous business arrangements.

Other notable guests who will be present are:

Henry Leninginger, chairman, Jesse Bunch, Charles Carter, John Parker and C. W. Jones, Oklahoma Highway commission.

Cone Johnson, who will officially represent Governor

RANDLETT LAYS PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

RICH AREA FOR FARM INDUSTRY

South Oklahoma Town In Agricultural District

Iron Horse to come. There is now talk of a road, surveys are being made, and if approval is finally secured for the project, a railroad will stretch across this rich section, opening up with additional transportation facilities a prosperous section of Oklahoma.

Founded In 1907

Randlett came into being May 13, 1907, just a little more than 20 years ago, when the government sold townsites on the bald prairie for the location of this town. Highest bidders for the lots in the new town paid $280,000 for the acreage on the first day of the bidding, with 240 acres being included in the townsite.

Although Randlett has not been located on a railroad, its industrious business men and farmers have made the area grow and prosper, although the building of the now proposed line will add materially to the value of real estate. The proposed line of the Vernon, Ardmore and Lubbock road passes through Randlett from east to west, and is now waiting approval before the I. C. C. This road seems assured, and will mean much to the business men and farmers in this section.

Good Road System

Transportation to and from and through Randlett is well provided for in its highway system, this little town being the center of seven major highways. These roads, the U. S. military road from Fort Sill to Fort Sam Houston, the Ozark trail, the Meridian highway, the Southwest trail, the Washington highway and the D. C. D. and the No. 3 highway all merge at Randlett. Because of its fine facilities on highways, the opening of the free bridge is being looked forward to by Randlett citizens as a sure means of increasing the trade and increasing the prosperity of farmers in this section.

Free and easy access to Wichita Falls and the Texas markets will be given Randlett farmers with the completion and opening of the free bridge. This is expected to prove of great benefit not only in the regular lines of farming, but also in dairying, livestock raising and truck growing.

One of the finest assets which a town can have—good water—is Randlett's for the simple asking. The water is taken from wells in the area, and is pure and sweet. In the center of the town is a relic of the past which is found in few towns today—a public well which is at once a convenience and a unique attraction to tourists and visitors.

Big Dairy Prospect

There is expected to be a great increase in the dairying business here, with the building of the Kraft Cheese company plant in Wichita Falls. Farmers here will be provided a market for their milk, and will be able to market it to the cheese company without the paying of daily tolls to cross the bridge into Texas.

F. R. Briggs, Randlett druggist, is mayor of the city, which has no public debt, no outstanding bonds or warrants and has money in the city treasury. A hustling chamber of commerce also looks after the commercial and civic progress of the town. F. E. Eastman is president of the chamber of commerce, and Homer Tilley is secretary-treasurer.

Randlett has a modern and well equipped school, with seven teachers. Bert Strong is superintendent and Miss Margie Hollis is principal. Students are carried through eight grades at this school. Three churches are active in this town, the Baptist, the Methodist and Church of Christ, all having large and active congregations.

Between Oil Fields

Although the crowded derricks of Burkburnett are within sight of Randlett, this town has never had an oil boom. This does not mean that it will not have, for prospects are believed good in this area, and 2,900 acres have been leased and efforts are being made to secure drilling contracts for a thorough test of the area. Randlett is directly between the Walters, Okla., and Burkburnett oil fields, and is only eight miles from the great Burkburnett field.

Future In Farms

Randlett, however, while it would welcome an oil field, is not looking and depending upon such an enterprise as the basis of its future prosperity. Its business men and farmers know that the real foundation of the town's success depends upon agriculture, and the development of agricultural pursuits is the chief goal.

The Randlett area produces fine wheat, oats, corn and other grain crops, as well as cotton. A number of enterprising farmers are increasing their revenue by the sale of cream, while others are raising fine cattle and hogs. Among this latter class is F. E. Eastman, one of the largest landowners in this section, who produces at home almost everything he uses, and in addition has some of the prize cattle herds of southwest Oklahoma. G. L. Pfeifer, the man who bought the Randlett jail, also is a farmer on a large scale and gives particular attention to raising hogs for market. At this time he has more than 700 head being fed on corn for early sale.

There are many other farmers in this section who have made a success at their work, and have proved that agriculture is a paying business if prosperity and efficiently conducted. A large number of these homes have their own lighting, water and irrigation plants, are equipped with telephone and radio, with automobiles and modern machinery for pleasure and for business.

It's a Busy Town

In discussing the prospects of this town, leading business men of Randlett will emphasize to you that while they are proud of the success that has been made here at times under adverse conditions, they offer to newcomers a cordial welcome and a great opportunity to progress and prosper with an area which still affords much opportunity for farmers and for business men.

In addition to its churches and school, Randlett has one bank, five grocery stores, two hardware stores, one modern and well equipped lumber yard, one drug store, theater, three cream stations, three barber shops, three cafes, three filling stations, three garages, one telephone company, two blacksmith shops, one gin company, one general mercantile store, two dry goods stores and three lodges.

Wilbarger County With 24,324 Leads All Counties In Wichita Falls Trade Area For Season

Cotton ginnings in 17 Texas counties in the Wichita Falls trade territory on October 25, 1927 exceeded total ginnings for the same district on the corresponding date in 1926 by nearly 80,000 bales, according to statistics just issued by the crop census bureau of the U. S. department of commerce. Ginnings up to Oct. 25 this year totalled 163,706 bales, the census bureau's report shows as compared to ginnings of 104,515 bales up to the same date last year.

Wilbarger county, with 24,324 bales ginned holds first rank in total ginnings in the list of 17 counties. This county also led on the same date last year.

Knox county with 21,371 bales ginned shows the greatest gain over last year to gain second place in the list of Northwest Texas counties. Ginnings last year for this county on the corresponding date of report totalled 8,481.

The following table compares the ginning totals for 1927 and 1926 for the 17 counties in the Wichita Falls territory:

First Frost Falls In Clarendon Section

CLARENDON, Nov. 3. — The first frost for 1927 vicinity fell Tuesday night. It was general over the entire county but light and practically no damage as most crops were made and cotton was far enough along that it will hasten the opening of the bolls and picking.

Mrs. Watts Re-elected Head of Texas WCTU

AUSTIN, Nov 3. (AP) — Mrs. Claude de Van Watts, Austin, was re-elected president and Mrs. J. B. Ammerman, Fort Worth, vice president at large at the state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union here Wednesday.

EVOLUTION

Out of the days of the early pioneers—when the cattle drives were made to northern markets over almost impassable roads through plains and wooded districts—has come a great network of railroads and paved highways.

To these great aids of transportation is added the Free Bridge between Texas and Oklahoma—which will be dedicated at a formal openig at Burkburnett, on Saturday, November 5th. We welcome this great event—an epic of progress for the Southwest.

Lending Wings to Progress

The Texas-Oklahoma Free Bridge

The progress of a city must be ceaseless. Civic improvements must always keep pace. Cities to prosper must grow unendingly, but behind the march of progress must be the steadily resistless impetus of well founded, well managed, well financed business.

Wichita Falls and great Northwest Texas are growing more rapidly and more substantially than ever before in their history. The large and growing business institutions representative of this expansion, call for banking facilities not merely adequate—but in advance of their immediate needs—banking facilities that are an inspiration to further progress, whose knowledge and experience offer seasoned guidance and whose guidance and whose management and history are a constant assurance of conservatism and stability.

The City National Bank stands ready at this milestone of the community's progress to go forward with business in the upbuilding of Northwest Texas and Oklahoma.

Call Repair Clerk If Your Telephone Gets Out Of Order

PUBLIC SERVICE

The Bell System is owned by the public it serves. There are stockholders in practically every town and city in which the Bell System operates. The Bell System of today is an American institution, grown up under American laws, plans, and ideals. It is really publicly owned, engaged in rendering a public service to the entire country, under public regulation.

DOUBLE DUTY

In any emergency speed is one of the first requisites. The following letter from one of our subscribers shows what long distance telephone service can do for you when a long distance must be covered in the shortest possible time:

"I wish to advise you that recently I placed two long distance calls, for parties located in different towns, at which time I requested your operator to kindly rush.

"The operator advised me to hold the line, and a connection was made immediately with the first party. The same service was rendered on the second call. I am taking this opportunity to compliment your Company and the operator on the services rendered me."

Complete Report of Trouble Speeds Restoration of Service

THERE are 201 parts in your telephone instrument. The wires leading to the switchboard may be anywhere from a half-mile to five miles in length. There are countless connections at the switchboard. You can see the possibility of something going wrong with some of these many parts of equipment.

If your telephone should get out of order, call the Repair Clerk. In making your report, tell just what seems to be wrong—that the bell does not ring; that you cannot raise the operator; that the line is noisy; that people claim they cannot reach you.

Give Complete Report

A complete report of this kind, rather than a mere statement that the line is out of order, will let the repair people know just what part of the equipment is not working properly, and they will know what steps to take to get the trouble cleared and service restored in the quickest time.

In Texas last year approximately $220,000 in dividends was paid to 7500 stockholders.

The turning of another page in the book of "progress" marks the opening of the Burkburnett-Randlett Free Bridge

November 5th

Time and study—plus the cooperation of the south's two greatest states have made this free bridge possible.

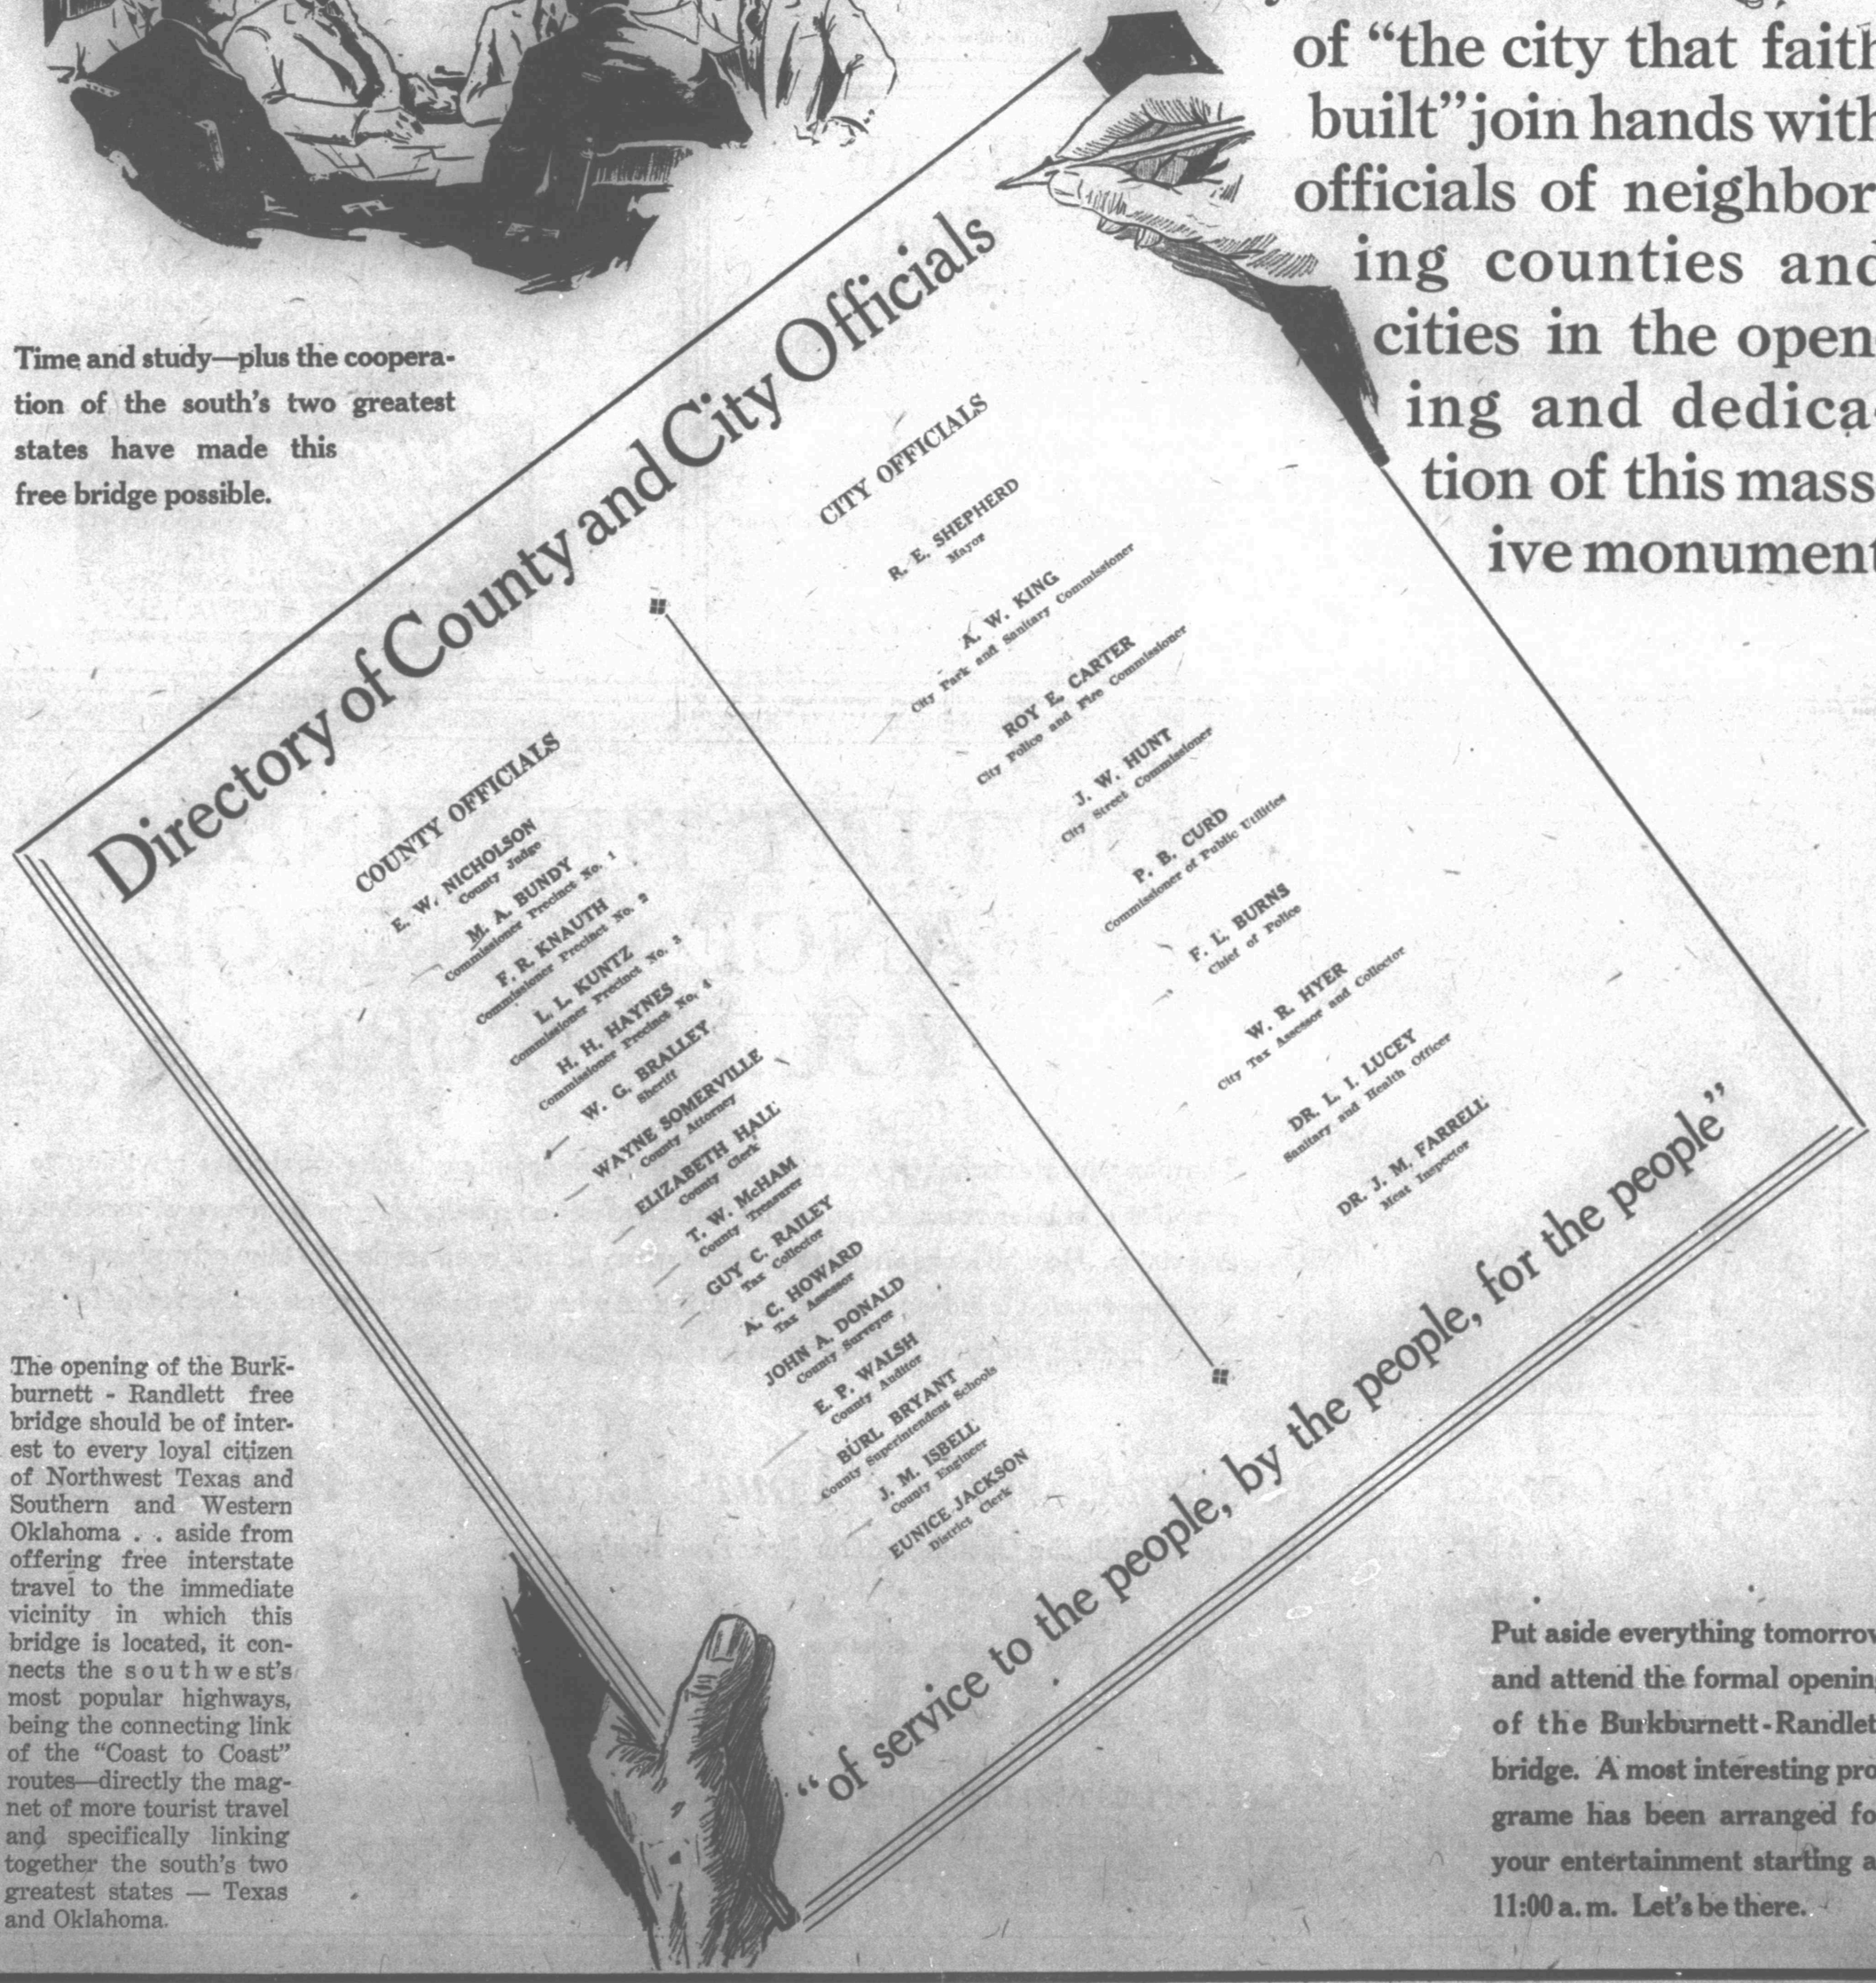
OFFICIALS of the county of Wichita and of "the city that faith built" join hands with officials of neighboring counties and cities in the opening and dedication of this massive monument



The opening of the Burkburnett - Randlett free bridge should be of interest to every loyal citizen of Northwest Texas and Southern and Western Oklahoma . . aside from offering free interstate travel to the immediate vicinity in which this bridge is located, it connects the southwest's most popular highways, being the connecting link of the "Coast to Coast" routes—directly the magnet of more tourist travel and specifically linking together the south's two greatest states — Texas and Oklahoma.

Put aside everything tomorrow and attend the formal opening of the Burkburnett-Randlett bridge. A most interesting programe has been arranged for your entertainment starting at 11:00 a. m. Let's be there.

MAN AND WIFE DWELL APART

Noted Writer and Actress Bride Try New Stunt

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—This simple question was put to Hendrik Willem Van Loon this afternoon:

"Well, why don't you sublet one of those two apartments?"

His unexpected answer was:

"Listen, I'm a busy man, and I can't be bothered with having a wife around all the time."

Furthermore, says Mr. Van Loon:

"The lady, whom I shall playfully call Mrs. 'Fannie Hurst' Van Loon is a busy woman. She can't be bothered with having a husband around all the time."

They Like Own Homes.

Of course, it's true about those leases, Van Loon admits. When they were married in Elizabeth, N. J., on Oct. 10, he had already signed a lease for his apartment and she had already signed a lease for hers.

Also, he is very fond of his apartment and she is very fond of hers.

But, two leases, one lease, or no lease at all, the Van Loons like to live the way they're living now.

They like it, and they think it is sensible. And they can not see anything strange about it.

That's what Van Loon says.

"Take a look around this apartment of mine," Van Loon invited with an expansive wave of his hand.

"As you see, drawing boards in every room. Desks in every room. Cigarettes and ashes in every room.

No Room for Wife.

"And now tell me," demanded Van Loon with a gentle smile, "what women would live in a mess like this?"

After the obvious reply from the reporter, he continued:

"And will you kindly tell me where there would be any room left for me after an actress had moved in here with all her wardrobe?"

"She wouldn't like it. She'd want to fix it up. But I do like it, just the way it is. I don't want it fixed up.

"Nor would you care about living in her apartment. All cluttered up with women's stuff. But she likes it the way it is, of course.

"Therefore — especially when we're both working hard and keeping different hours—the answer is, obviously, two apartments. Isn't it?"

It's a Lot of "Hooey."

Stories published today that he and Miss Goodrich were trying out a new marriage experiment, a sort of "companionate marriage," seemed to bother Van Loon considerably.

"It's a lot of hooey!" he boomed. "A lot of hooey!

"If that stuff about it's being an experiment can be contradicted, I shall be much obliged."

And that's not true about their having dinner together only once a week.

"I had dinner with her last night," said Van Loon. "I'm going to have dinner with her again tonight. Why not?

"This isn't any anti-breakfast crusade we've started, either. Miss Goodrich and I both know how to eat soft-boiled eggs correctly. But is that any reason why we should be compelled to eat them in the same apartment? Especially, when we never eat them at the same hour, anyway?

They're Both Busy.

"Miss Goodrich and I have no social message for the ages. The whole thing is merely that we are both busy.

"I'm her recreation. She is mine. But when we work, we work.

"When she is acting and I'm writing, we know that we are by force of circumstances obliged to keep such utterly different hours that we couldn't help continually interfering with each other's work.

"We like our jobs, and we have sufficient respect for them to want to stay by them and do them well.

"Therefore, for the time being at any rate, we are leaving everything as it was.

"And if we should continue to do so—

"Well, what of it?"

Father of Wichitan Dies At Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Nov. 3.—Dr. O. L. Phweatt, 66, well known physician of Post, died at the Lubbock sanitarium here Friday. The body was carried to Post and burial was held Monday afternoon. Dr. Phweatt served the sick of West Texas many years and was well known in this section.

WICHITANS ON BOWIE'S CARD

Hamilton and Shepherd Feature Speakers

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Nov. 3.—A distinguished personnel of speakers and a luncheon featuring "home grown" products will make the Red river district convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce an outstanding one of 1927. The meeting is scheduled to be held here November 21, and will call delegates from some 35 towns who have not convened since the Electra meeting of 1925.

Hamilton Speaks.

A meeting of farmers of the Red river section of Texas will be held in the afternoon in connection with the convention. This will be under supervision of Col. C. C. French of the Fort Worth Stockyards company.

W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls and Gen. John A. Hulen of the Fort Worth and Denver railway will be principal speakers during the morning program. M. K. Graham, a vice president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, will be presiding officer.

The Songster.

The singing mayor of Wichita Falls, Hon. R. E. Sheppard, railroad Commissioner C. V. Terrell and Dr. R. L. Marquis, president of the North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, will be the feature speakers of the afternoon meeting, which will follow the "home products" luncheon over which Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth will preside as toastmaster. A number of prominent commercial and industrial leaders of the "Panther City" who are ex-Bowieites will attend the convention and make brief addresses.

Champ Cotton Raiser Found At Olustee

OLUSTEE, Okla., Nov. 3.—C. D. Walker, Route 3, Olustee, is the champion cotton raiser in this part of Jackson county. Walker has out 165 bales and expects to make 250 bales. He has 53 hands picking for him, trying to get the cotton all out before bad weather sets in. With the exception of hoeing, Walker and one employe cultivated the entire crop, on the 265 acres that he planted to cotton.

HIGHWAY MEET AT FLOYDADA

Officials of Nine Counties To Gather

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 3.—Several Vernon people are expected to attend the meeting of county judges and their commissioners courts and delegations of business men with high officials of the Lee Highway association at Floydada next Tuesday. The purpose of the meeting, as announced here by R. H. Coffee, Texas vice president of the association, is to complete plans for the "nine county program" to pave the 270 miles of Lee highway from Vernon to Farwell.

Five of the nine counties have voted bonds, Wilbarger, Foard, Cottle, Motley and Hale. The state has agreed to put up two for one on this construction for all nine counties.

Dr. S. M. Johnson, Lee Highway association president, is in Texas from Washington, D. C., to attend the meeting. R. H. Coffee and Pat H. Peck, Lee Highway vice presidents of Texas and Oklahoma, respectively, will attend. The Wilbarger county commissioners also are expected to attend.

Olney Chamber Makes Survey of Neighbors

OLNEY, Nov. 3.—A general survey of neighboring communities has been started by the local chamber of commerce. M. Gruver, secretary and O. P. McCary, manager of the Texas-Louisiana Power company, were in Megargel and Newcastle Monday gathering data to be compiled on these two communities. A complete report will be compiled from each community visitsd and will include a history of the comniunity, statistics of growth, including the bank deposits, postoffice receipts, light, water and sewage connections, the scholastic enrollment over a period of years, the natural resources, general crop and retail conditions.

DON'T LET THE WINDS OF CHANCE CONTROL YOUR FUTURE

The man who is nonchalant and easy going about his spending habits rarely has anything to show for it in later years. Chance and thrift are not on speaking terms with men of foresight and vision. He who looks ahead to the time when he will need money, to take advantage of a rare opportunity, is indeed wise. Save for it and when the time comes you can be ready for it. Spend, instead, and you are powerless to seize opportunity when it does come.

CIRCUS BRINGS FEATURE ACT

Bob Morton Shows Open Here Monday

Heading the many big aerial features that will be seen here with the Bob Morton circus that comes for a three-day engagement under the auspices of the Maskat Shrine temple, starting Monday matinee, Nov. 7, comes the premier of all flying acts. Few if any tented shows can boast of real flying acts. The avverage one-day circus cannot afford features of this kind and on the other hand the peaks of the tents are not high enough to permit of the setting of the mammoth rigging required by most flying acts.

The Bob Morton circus, with a specially constructed tent, the dome of which is higher than any other tented hippodrome ever constructed, furnishes ample room for for the apparatus of the biggest flying acts. The Flying Franklins coming here with the circus will offer one of the most sensational and thrilling oflying acts.

In addition to the Franklins, Mlle. Martha, "the girl on the silver whirl" and the Luclay sisters appearing with the aerial ballet offer acts that appear in the top most part of the hippodrome.

The ground and stage acts will include the mono-pedists, Large and Morgner, Allie Johnson and company "devils on a wire," the Peerless Sheppards and the Acular-Meizer trio of gymnasts. The Baldwin sisters with a thrilling offering on the slack wires, will display remarkable ability and dental dexerty.

One of the features of the big show will be the first local appearance of the Tyannas, introducing Madam Tyanna, world's strongest woman. The madam will astound with feats of strength and her marvellous exhibitions are the talk of every city visited. The act of the Tyannas, presented by manager Bob Morton is a sensational European feature brought to this country under a long time contract, exclusively for the Bob Morton cihcus.

The acrobatic and aerial numbers wil be augmented by clever equine and pony numbers, introducing the riding Crandalls, the Royals, the Cronins and the Lorettos.

Seven Oklahoma Counties Produce 44 Per Cent of State Cotton Crop

FREDERICK, Okla., Nov. 3.—That Tillman county is in the heart of the cotton section of the southwest is shown by the federal report just released showing that 30,297 bales were ginned to October 18, 1927, being exceeded by only one other Oklahoma county, Jackson, which leads the list with 39,072 bales. Kiowa county, directly north of Tillman, is third with 24,846 bales and Caddo county, joining Kiowa on the east is fourth with 24,675 bales.

Harmon county, west of Jackson, is fifth with 17,566 bales; Beckham county, north of Harmon, is sixth with 16,283 bales and Greer, wedged in between Harmon, Jackson, Backham and Kiowa, is seventh with 15,821 bales. These seven counties, nestled in the southwest part of Oklahoma, produced a total of 168,570 bales up to October 18, or over 44 per cent of the cotton produced in all Oklahoma's 77 counties.

Up to the corresponding date last year these counties ginned but 59,080 bales or a little over 16 per cent of the 334,602 bales ginned up to that time in the entire state. Ginnings in these counties for the corresponding period in 1926: Jackson 9517; Tillman 11,937; Kiowa 8436; Caddo 15,139; Harmon 2360; Beckham 7186; Greer 4116.

B. Robey, a leading cotton broker, is of the opinion that from 80,000 to 90,000 bales will be ginned in the county this season and if he is correct about 37 per cent was ginned up to this last report.

Frederick still leads as the county's ginning center with about 7700 bales ginned to that date. Grandfield and Davidson are next.

DUPONT HEIR SCRUBS FLOOR

Young Millionaire Likes Life in Army

By Universal Service

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3.—The heir to one of America's fortunes made up his own bunk and then scrubbed the floor of his quarters today, totally unaware that several officers were standing by to see how he would "take to the life."

He "took," because his bunk was as neatly made up and the floor was scrubbed as clean as any of the others in the cadet barracks at Brooks field where Alexis Felix Dupont Jr., of Wilmington, De., son of the vice-president of the E. I. Dupont De Nemous company will spend the next six months as a pupil in the primary flying school of the U. S. army air service.

Felix, as he was immediately dubbed by his comrades, checked in at Brooks field late Tuesday night. His arrival was unannounced and a typical hard boiled top kick of the old army assigned him to quarters in one of the ancient barracks that Uncle Sam has threatened to tear down.

Early this morning, the scion of wealth was called from his bunk, lined up with some 50 other cadets to answer roll call. Then followed a light setting up exercise, just enough to sharpen his appetite for the plain army breakfast.

Dupont fell to with a will in cleaning up his quarters and officers who observed him rather curiously, for "Felix" has enlisted for a period of three years in one of the toughest schools in the country, went away convinced he would make the grade.

Dupont will do squads right and left for two weeks and then will be taken into the air for instruction. After six months at the primary school, he will be transferred to the advanced flying school at Kelly field where aerobatic flying is taught Uncle Sam's budding pilots.

If successful in his studies, Dupont will be commissioned a second lieutenant, air service, reserve corps, in about a year's time.

GINS FULL UP AT CHILLICOTHE

Hardeman County Is Rich Farming Center

Special to The Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Nov. 3.—Much of Hardeman county's area of 761 square miles is included in the five fertile valleys which surround Chillicothe and make it one of the ideally located cities in northwest Texas. Chillicothe is truly an agricultural center.

Cotton, wheat and grain sorghums are the chief products but the progress of diversifications is adding other products. Hardeman county produced 50,000 bales of cotton last year and of this number, 20,000 were ginned in Chillicothe. The average wheat run year after year is approximately 200,000 bushels.

The Government experiment station five miles south is the testing station for grain sorghums sent to every portion of the United States. This station, through its excellent location in one of the richest soils in the territory, and its opportunity for experimental production has originated several breeds of seed which have come into national prominence, according to the officials.

Chillicothe is located on two trunk line railroads, the Kansas City and Orient and the Fort Worth and Denver and the wholesale business has shown considerable progress in recent years. There are now six wholesale oil and gas distributors located here.

The industries include an oil mill, three elevators, a flour mill, compress, sand and gravel plant, and a mattress factory.

Besides adequate church and school facilities, Chillicothe is served by every public utilities, serving gas, lights, water, power, sewerage, telephone, etc.

Olustee Gins Operate Night and Day Shifts

OLUSTEE, Okla., Nov. 3.—Olustee gins have put out the following number of bales, up to Nov. 1: Farmers gin, 2303; Tinsley and Moore gin, 1215 bales and the Chickasha gin, 1041 bales, making a total of 4559 bales. All three gins are running day and night.

Olney Cubs Play Decatur Baptists

OLNEY, Nov. 3. — The Olney Cubs are slated to play Decatur College at Decatur Friday afternoon according to announcement from Coach O. P. Herm. This will be the first out of town game for the Cubs. Olney is one of the five remaining undefeated teams in District No. 4 and will enter the semi-finals the week following the Decatur clash. The other four undefeated teams are: Strawn, Bridgeport, Bowie and Seymour.

Megargel, Henrietta, Bellevue, Crowell, Decatur and Archer City have all gone down to defeat before Coach Herm's warriors. Only one team this year has been able to register a count against the locals, and that was Bellevue who succeeded in scoring 14 points against Olney's 68.

There is a possibility that Russell, Cub quarter and halfback will be out of the lineup this week-end. Russell was injuried in practice Monday evening.

SARTIN LED LONG FIGHT FOR FREE TEXAS-OKLAHOMA BRIDGE

FORMER JUDGE TO GIVE TALK

He Came Visiting to Texas, And Never Left

From out of Old Kentucky, home of beautiful women, thoroughbred horses and pristine center of the bottled in bond industry, came the man who is largely responsible for the erection of the free bridge across the Red river at Burkburnett—the opening of which is to be celebrated with a great fiesta Saturday.

It was in 1893 that Judge B. D. Sartin first opened his eyes back in Thompkinsville, Ky., to gaze to the westward upon the far-famed Blue Grass country or to look to the eastward at the craggy, towering Cumberland mountains. For Thompkinsville, Judge Sartin's birthplace, is located in central-southern Kentucky, between the mountain sections and the blue grass area.

Came to Texas.

His childhood was spent there in the shadow of his "Old Kentucky Home." This lanky Kentucky youth who was to become a central figure in the political life of Wichita county, Texas, received his education in his native state. After completing grade and high schools, he entered the University of Kentucky, where he became a disciple of Blackstone. In the spring of 1916 he received his master's degree in law and became a full-fledged member of the Kentucky bar.

But he felt that he needed a rest after the arduous study of college days. So westward he came to Texas, to visit friends at Chillicothe.

The broad reaches of the Lone Star state captivated him, and the visitor decided to cast his lot with the Texans.

The erstwhile Kentuckian went to Amarillo and took the Texas bar examinations. After his admittance to the Texas bar he came to Wichita Falls in August, 1916, and has since made this city his home.

He had become active in legal circles, having worked up a good law practice here, when America entered the war against the central allies in 1917.

Volunteered Early.

This adopted Texan heard the call of his country and volunteered for service, being one of the first 11 men to leave Wichita Falls for the army. He served throughout that memorable struggle, and was a commissioned officer and instructor in machine gunnery at Camp Hancock, Ga., when the Kaiser and his compatriots decided peace was more desirable than battling with the Yankees.

After he was mustered out in 1919, Mr. Sartin returned to Wichita Falls and resumed his practice of law.

In 1920 he ran for county judge but was defeated by about 200 votes. He ran again in 1922 and was elected Wichita county judge by a good majority. He held the office for four years, from January 1, 1923, when he began his first term.

During his first year in office Judge Sartin was elected president of the Texas Association of county judges and commissioners. It was while holding this office that he became acquainted with most of the judges and commissioners of the state, highway officials and other state and federal officials who were to lend him aid in the long fight for the right to build the free bridge.

Fight for Bridge.

It was during his meetings with highway officials at Austin during 1923 and 1924 that the question of free bridges across the Red river became a paramount issue. Then began the long series of legal fights that was to end only after the battle had been carried through the state court of civil appeals at Austin to the supreme court and those high bodies held that Wichita county and the state of Oklahoma and Texas had the right to build any portion or all of a free bridge, thus putting to rout the toll bridge owners who had stubbornly fought the free bridge proponents.

Judge Sartin went out of office before the free bridge was completed, and resumed his private practice of law in this city.

But his work for the bridge has not been forgotten. He is generally recognized as the "Father of the Free Bridge," one of the men responsible for its erection.

The Burkburnett free bridge will be considered a monument to his determined fight for its erection.

So—this Kentuckian who became a Texan and a Wichitan will tell the story of the free bridge at the celebration at Burkburnett in connection with its formal opening Saturday.

Great Span Joins Two Big States

ters was one Oklahoman who battled to arouse in the bridge proposition an interest that was, to say the least, dormant. This man, Roy Johnson, was a member of the state highway commission of Oklahoma. Cyrus Avery, chairman of the commission, who lived in northern Oklahoma, wasn't interested in a bridge across the Red river. Neither was the third members of the commission, who resided in eastern Oklahoma. But Roy Johnson lived at Ardmore, right down here in this country. He wanted to see the bridge built. So he got busy and kept busy until the other highway members swung into line and Oklahoma joined with Texas in the erection of the bridge.

And what of the men who gave of their technical experience?

J. M. Isbell, Wichita county engineer and resident engineer for Texas, Oklahoma and Wichita county on the job, can look upon the Burkburnett free bridge as his masterpiece—as the greatest project upon which he has ever spent long hours of labor.

Peculiarly fitted, indeed, was he for the great responsibilities evolved upon him in the erection of the bridge. Before coming to Wichita Falls in 1917 to supervise road work, Mr. Isbell had 14 active years of civil engineering experience. He graduated from the civil engineering department of Texas A. and M. college in 1903 and he has followed his chosen avocation since that time. He has worked on railroad engineering, on construction of the great wharfs at Port Boliver, Texas, and on the approaches to the causeway at Galveston. He worked for the contractor when "filling in" the city of Galveston on the completion of the sea wall, and he has been active in highway construction work in Harris and McLennan counties.

He became Wichita county engineer in 1917. Since that time he has handled the engineering of all highways in the county. Under his direction Wichita county has constructed 80.6 miles of paved road, 51.4 miles of asphalt road and 38.3 miles of gravel road.

Many are the bridges that have been built in the county under his direction. These include three concrete bridges across the Wichita river, one concrete bridge and one steel bridge over Beaver creek, three stel bridges across Buffalo creek, and three steel bridges with concrete floors on Holliday creek, not to mention numerous lesser bridges.

To the work on the Red river bridge he brought, then, a wealth of experience that went a long way to assure the success of the project.

Of the assistance given by Mr. Cadenhead, who has been connected with the county engineer's office for the last three years, Mr. Isbell speaks highly. Mr. Cadenhead served as field inspector, being constantly on the job at the bridge during the long months of work, supervising the labor nad seeing that all specifications were complied with.

"He is one of the best at the work that I have ever seen," Mr. Isbell said.

First agitation for the free bridge began 1922 when the county submitted plans on State and Federal Aid Project No. 67. At that time the Bureau of Public Roads questioned the feasibility of building paved roads to the toll bridge. The matter ended in a mass of correspondence.

Later, a special act of the legislature was passed permitting Wichita and Wilbarger counties to construct a free bridge over the Red river. The law set out that each county should pay 25 per cent of the cost of the bridge.

In 1925 the highway departments of Texas and Oklahoma became interested in the construction of a bridge at Burkburnett. It was finally agreed that Texas should pay 50 per cent of the cost, Oklahoma 25 per cent and Wichita county 25 per cent. When other precincts demurred, Precincts 1 and 2, Wichita Falls and Burkburnett, undertook to pay all of the 25 per cent.

Plans for the bridge were made in the fall of 1925. The project was advertised and bids received in January, 1926. All bids were rejected, and more bids were asked. These were received in February, 1926, and the contract was awarded to the Austin Bridge company of Dallas.

When the contract was let the Burkburnett Bridge company sued for an injunction restraining the State of Texas from participating in the project on the ground that the state was spending money outside of the state. It was pointed out that only 310 feet of the bridge was to be on Texas soil, the remainder being in Oklahoma domain. Judge George Calhoun heard the suit in the 53rd district court at Austin and granted the injunction, which was later dissolved by agreement.

The Devol Bridge company then brought injunction proceedings on the same grounds and the same judge granted the writ.

This case was appealed to the supreme court which held, in an action that was watched by bridge builders all over the United States, that the State of Texas, the State of Oklahoma, or Wichita county, independent of one another, had the right to build the entire bridge if they desired to do so, or that they could unite in its erection. This settled an argument which had delayed interstate bridge building in many sections of the country.

Construction work began June 29, 1926. The injunction was still pending at the time, so little progress was made until the high court's decision was handed down.

The first work consisted of casting of concrete piling on the storage yard. The job required 455 reinforced concrete piles, 31 to 45 fee long, 16 by 16 feet square.

Driving of piling began in November, 1926. This was started with a double-acting steam hammer, but after driving 50 piles a No. 0 single-acting hammer was substituted. The specifications required that all piling must have a minimum penetration of eight feet in the shale, just below the strata of quicksand in the river. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the required penetration, necessitating the drilling of pilot holes into the shale, in which the piles were inserted. Pile driving was completed April 23, 1927, thus ending the biggest single item of work at a cost of $94,466.40.

Pouring of concrete caps on the piling began in January, 1927. Placing of structural I-beams began in April, while the placing of reinforced concrete slabs on the various spans began in May, 1927. The work on these three items was completed last September.

Work on the approaches to the bridge were handled by separate contractors, each state contracting its own job. Tidwell Brothers had the contract on the Texas side.

The elements, in the form of cold weather and high water, added to the difficulties of the workmen. The highest high-water was in October, 1926, when the river rose about 10 feet. The contractor lost approximately $6000 worth of materials at this time. Since then there have been a few small rises, from two to four feet, but no damage.

With the exception of the cold weather of last winter, the contractor had exceptionally favorable weather conditions, completing the entire job in 339 working days, 40 days under his allowed time limit.

The bridge is 3750 feet long, consisting of 92 spans of reinforced concrete slabs placed in structural I-beams. The spans are 40 feet 6 inches long. They are supported on pre-cast concrete abutments at each end of the bridge.

Clear waterway, or the distance from the bed of the river to the lower side of the span, is approximately 20 feet, the spans being approximately six feet above the extreme high water on record.

In addition to the bridge the project includes 6900 linear feet of bank protection, constructed along the north bank and upstream from the bridge. This has thrown the current back from 900 to 1000 feet since the protection was put in at a cost of $24,000.

The cost of the bridge, including bank protection, contingency and engineering was $311,000. A saving was made in the engineering cost on which $14,500 was allowed but only $7300 was required.

Final inspection of the project was made by G. G. Wickline, building engineer for the State of Texas, and W. C. Burnham, Oklahoma building engineer, on October 28, when it was accepted. Final inspection and acceptance by W. G. Mayo, federal bridge engineer, was on October 31.

Now bring on that big formal opening and jubilee!

Cannibal Ship Refused Aid at Sea Records of Dollar Freighter Show

Authorities Deny That Woman Was Aboard Ill-Fated Ship Which Sails With Ghost at Helm

By Universal Service

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 3.—The startling disclosure that starving members of the crew of the Japanese "cannibal ship" Ryeoi Maru refused rescue by the Dollar Line freighter West Ison was made today. The grisly fishing schooner was towed into port tonight from Port Townsend and Berthed at Smith Cove with its grim cargo of the whitening bones of twelve men who perished far at sea under circumstances of starvation, thirst, cannibalism and other horrors that stagger the imagination of even old-time men of the sea.

Ship Refuses Aid

Shore copies of the log of the West Ison, filed here by Captain Richard Healy, were exhumed today and established beyond doubt that it was the Ryeio Maru which refused aid when the freighter pulled up beside it in north Pacific waters last January.

Captain Healy's report said the fishing schooner had a disabled engine and was running low on provisions. He offered to take the entire complement of twelve men aboard, but they refused, saying that they preferred to stick to their ship. They asked the Ison, however, to notify Japanese shipping authorities of their plight by radio, and said they were confident aid would be speedily rushed to them from their native land.

This aid failed to arrive, however, and the hapless Ryeoi Maru drifted 4000 miles to the Washington coast in the months that followed, while her despairing crew went mad and became cannibal. Frozen bodies of two survivors were found side by side on the deck. With a Damon and Pythias devotion they had stuck together to the last and refused to continue the cannibalism of their comrades. Both bodies were cremated today.

No Trace of Woman

Authorities today branded as false reports that there had been a woman aboard who perished with the rest. There was no evidence of a woman's presence, and all the bones were of men, it was said.

The derelict is being held here while the local Japanese consulate attempts to communicate with her owners in Japan.

IOWA PARK SOCIETY

IOWA PARK, Nov. 2.—Miss Dorothy Watkins entertained a few of her friends Wednesday evening at her home on the occasion of her sixteenth birthday. They played games until a late hour, when refreshments of cocoa, sandwiches and cookies were served to the following: Misses Pearl and Shirley Smythe, Leta Wigley, Rosalie Keller, Ruby White, Jeraldine Jackson, Coleita Cherry and Ruth Dorris, Thelma Jacks and the hostess, Dorothy Watkins and Marshall Chrestman, Costello Taylor, Franklin Love, Travis Sherwood, Maurice Monroe, Wayne Beasley, Donald Penn, Roger Golden and Pat Wiley.

Mrs. J. A. Deakins was hostess Thursday to the members of the O. T. club in an all day meeting at her home. Busy fingers worked on sewing and embroidering while merry chatter made the time pass swiftly until the noon hour when a feast featuring fried chicken was served to the following members: Mesdames Frank Hunt, Addie Harris, L. A. Teal, Charlie Davis, A. D. Butcher and the hostess, Mrs. Deakins.

The Rebekahs met at the lodge hall Friday night for a short session of lodge work followed by a soda hour. Witches and spooks added a touch of Hallowe'en fun to the occasion an dafter the work was finished the rest of the evening was devoted to a social good time playing games and engaging in contests. Mesdames Nettie Davis, Hazel Gay and Susie Carpenter were in charge of social hour and entertained the crowd in a very happy way. A number of visitors from Burkburnett were present. Refreshments of pumpkin pie and coffee were served at the close of the meeting.

ELECTRA SOCIETY

ELECTRA, Nov. 3.—The newly organized Pals club met in their semi-monthly meeting at the home of Miss Anna May Myers, of North Wichita avenue. This was a business meeting and the camping trip of last week-end was discussed and a hike and camping trip for Thanksgiving was suggested and discussed. Nothing definite was decided upon and the motion was slated for further discussion at the next meeting.

Refreshments of Angel Food cake and heavenly hash were served to the following club members: Misses Maurine Holder, Brunetta Cloninger, Leona McDonald, Violet Myers, Anna May Myers, Irene Ballard and the sponsor, Mrs. B. H. Loden.

Sunday School Class Entertains.

The Sunday school classes of the First Baptist church were entertained Monday evening, October 3, in the church building at Newtown, Mesdames Tucker, Martin and Lamb acting as hostesses. The different classes of the Sunday school were divided into groups and named respectively the Blues and the Reds. The Reds lost to the Blues and consequently were forced to entertain them.

The church was decorated in Hallowe'en colors and spooks, ghosts and witches were much in evidence. Brick ice cream and individual cakes were served to a large number of guests after an evening packed full of fun.

Christian Ladies Entertain.

The Minnie Douglas Bible class of the First Christian church were entertained Monday afternoon, October 31, at the home of Mrs. J. T. Gibson, on East Ida avenue. Mrs. L. E. Sheldon, acting as joint hostess.

The guests were met at the door by representatives of three generations, Mrs. J. T. Gibson, Mrs. Claude Suggs and three-year-old Marion Jack Suggs, dressed in Halloween costume. Bible question hour followed the reception of the guests and Mrs. John Houser won the prize for answering the most questions. This was a beautiful picture of the Reaper which Mrs. Houser in turn presented to Mrs. S. R. Holmes.

Games and contests came next and in the advertisement contest, Mrs. O. M. Walters won the prize, an ivory tray and crumb brusher. Mrs. Mary Fant won in the donkey contest and received a novelty doll. All the guests had their fortunes told.

The rooms were decorated in Hallowe'en colors which was also used in the refreshments of pumpkin pie and whipped cream. Readings were given by Misses Mary Lou Berlin, Georgia Lee Simmons and little Miss Marion Jack Suggs.

The Bible class had for their special guests Mesdames George LeBus, E. A. Dale, George V. Ancell Sr., P. G. Sheldon and her daughter, Mrs. R. L. Carpenter of Gentry, Ark. In addition to these guests those present were Mesdames L. P. Douglas, L. E. Sheldon, Mary Fant, Grace Jennings, Flint, Williams, McNeeley, Berlin, Houser, Ratcliffe, Iman, Walters, B. V. Mages and W. B. Robertson.

BIG PAYROLL FOR QUANAH

Industrial Plants Carry Big List of Workers

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Nov. 3.—"You will like Quanah—we do," is the slogan of local city builders.

The slogan is based on fact for the Hardeman county seat has many advantages which make it a likeable town, declares Carl Guin, secretary-manager of the chamber of commerce.

Not the least of these assets pointed out by the chamber of commerce is an annual payroll of approximately $1,000,000, some of Texas' leading industrial plants being contributors. Among these are the Q. A. & P. railway, the Certain-teed Products company, the Beaver Products company and the Quanah Cotton Oil company.

Quanah is situated on the Fort Worth and Denver, the Frisco, and the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroads, the latter maintaining shops and general offices here.

With a population of 5500 people and supported by a rich agricultural section, Quanah has become an important wholesale and retail center. Twenty-four wholesale firms and 100 retail establishments are located here.

Public improvements in recent years have increased the joys of living in Quanah, which boasts three and one-half miles of well paved streets, a municipal building with three motor fire fighting machines, an unlimited supply of pure water, two bands, nine churches, high school with 32 1-2 credits of affiliation, three grade schools, modern hospital, a progressive newspaper, good hotels and restaurants and numerous other physical assets which are revealed in a touro f the city.

To make business good the year round, Quanah has two grain elevators, the largest number of cotton merchants in West Texas, and a creamery under construction. Amusements include a country club, hunting and fishing resort and two theaters.

Suspect Held In 'Haystack' Murder

Wichita, Kan., Man Jailed After Investigation

NEWTON, Kan., Nov. 3. (AP) — Benjamin F. Brown of Wichita was held in the Harvey county jail here today awaiting arraignment on a charge of murder in connection with the disappearance July 26 of George Klein, 56, wealthy Okeene, Okla., rancher.

Charred bones found in a burned straw stack near Newton last August were identified as the remains of Klein, who disappeared after selling a shipment of cattle at Wichita last summer.

Brown, who already faced another charge of murder, was returned to Newton last night by county authorities to face the second charge following his arrest late yesterday in Wichita.

The accused slayer had been at liberty under bond awaiting trial in connection with the slaying at Wichita on October 10 of Nev Smith, a police character, during an altercation in which the name of a woman, Mrs. J. S. Smith, a companion of Smith, was linked.

DEMOS CLAIM G. O. P. GAMBLE

Al Smith and Roosevelt Fling Charges

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—Counter charges of open gambling in Republican clubhouses, together with the additional charge that in one such club armed gunmen were hired to protect the play, were made by Governor Alfred E. Smith in a statement replying to similar charges made against Democratic clubhouses by Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

Colonel Roosevelt, in his keynote speech at the Republican state convention in Rochester, which was supplemented in a recent speech in an uptown school house, asserted that Governor Smith, having been identified throughout his political career with Tammany hall must accept responsibility for the corrupt conditions the speaker attributed to Tammany hall. He termed the governor the "bell wether," of the Democratic political organization.

The governor prefaced his statement with the remark that it must seem strange to the people of the state that "the young colonel" should "devote himself to an attack upon me and my administration," in the heat of a campaign of nine constitutional amendments, "many of which are of grave importance." The statement ended with a return to this subject.

"Why don't you try to render a real service to the state?" he asked in conclusion. "Talk about the pending constitutional amendments, no matter which side of the question you take. You will at least be stirring up public interest in the real issue of the campaign. And quit the job of trying to pull the red hot political chestnuts out of the fire for the discredited leaders of your old, broke down, dilapidated, corrupt Republican machine."

The governor freely admitted the truth of Colonel Roosevelt's charges about gambling in Democratic club houses and the police raids that uncovered it.

"That is true," he said, "the raids were directed by a police commissioner, who was appointed from my cabinet, by the mayor of the city. But I did not hear you say anything about the raids that were made on Republican club houses for open gambling and lest you have no knowledge of it, let me say that in one Republican club house that was raided, police were met with armed resistance, and it is a matter of record in police headquarters that gunmen with police records were in the employ of this Republican club to protect the game. * * *

"Bear in mind, Colonel, that I am just as much opposed to gambling as you are. * * * But while we are talking about it, let's be truthful."

Governor Smith denied a statement of Colonel Roosevelt that he had investigated Republican counties and failed to investigate Democratic ones. He held no power, the governor said, to investigate any counties; all he could do was to order investigation of county officers against whom charges had been made, and this had been his procedure in every case.

THE RESPONSIBILITY IS With The Builder

The Responsibility For

The safety of the countless thousands who will, at future times pass over this, the greatest Free Bridge connecting the two great Southern Empires, depends on the care we have taken in the construction of this structure.

The Responsibility For

The accurate interpretation of the Engineers vision of Beauty and Strength into terms of steel and concrete has been handled in a manner that can best be appreciated by the results as shown by this completed bridge.

The Responsibility For

The co-ordination of every element that has gone into this great bridge, the hazard and difficulties of construction makes keen our pleasure in its accomplishment.

We Are Indebted

To the officials and Chamber of Commerce of Wichita county, the Highway Departments of the two great Southern States of Texas and Oklahoma, the Bureau of Public Roads, and Resident Engineer, Mr. J. M. Isbell of Wichita county, for their whole-hearted co-operation and their confidence in our Company.

This Bridge Made Possible Through Years of Study and Thousands of Dollars Spent—Whereby the Entire Southwest May Profit

The opening of the Free Bridge at Burkburnett marks an eventful occasion for the people of the entire southwest, (more especially) the citizens of Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma, of which (on the Texas side) Wichita Falls is the Hub, a city that has revolving around it a vast trade territory, part of which has heretofore been undeveloped on account of conditions of which this community has had no control; this condition has been relieved and that relief has been brought about by the opening of this connecting link, the Free Bridge between Texas and Oklahoma—and now you may drive to and fro across the State Bridge as many times each day as you would like, and without paying that hard-earned dollar.

An occasion of this kind comes only once in a life time, affecting this immediate community, as this highly constructed structure has been built to stand for a century or more, offering to the populace of this vicinity a long needed service. Let us show our appreciation on November 5th by turning out to the dedication and opening of this massive, modern, public structure.

The merchants and individuals whose names appear on this page take this opportunity in extending to the citizens of Oklahoma a cordial and hearty welcome to visit Wichita Falls. A better and more thorough understanding can only be attained through closer relationship and better acquaintance.
