New Gains Battered Out In Julich Area

Canadians Drive Across Border In Nijmegen Sector

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Nov. 29. — American doughboys hammered new edges into the Duren-Julich gateway to the Rhine today in a smash through five more of Germany's ruined towns. Elements of a fifth Allied Army battled onto Nazi soil in a stab at the northern anchor of the Siegfried line.

(A Canadian Press war reporter's dispatch said Canadians of the Fifth and latest Army to penetrate German soil were fighting in the area of De Wyler forest. The town of Wyler is just inside Germany east of Nijmegen, Holland, and about six miles northwest of Cleve, northern end of the Siegfried line.)

Hurtgen Is Toppled

The flaming American assault west of Cologne toppled Hurtgen, in the vicinity of which Lt. Gen Omar N. Bradley's men have fought so fiercely for weeks. Langerwehe, Jungersdorf, Kleinhau and Koslar also fell in a surge which broke across the Inde river at two points and carried to within 3 1-2 miles of the stronghold of Duren.

It spread to the north where flamethrowers opened a path across the road connecting Lindren and Linich, five miles northeast of Geilenkirchen and seven miles northwest of Julich, threatening the latter place.

This northeastern push of the Americans, matched by another flamethrower assault around Wurm to the west, caused the Germans to open the floodgates of dams along the Roer river, flooding the valley north of Geilenkirchen to the width of nearly a mile.

Center Cleared Of Nazis

Langerwehe, last important communications center west of the Roer, was cleared of enemy troops after two days of house-to-house fighting.

House Ready For 'Freeze' On Tax

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—A poll of the House Ways and Means committee indicated tonight it will vote, 15 to 8, tomorrow to "freeze" the Social Security tax, scheduled to double automatically on January 1.

Republican leader Martin of Massachusetts said that all who expressed themselves at a meeting of the party steering committee late today also were in favor of the freeze, forecasting a heavy GOP vote to that end.

However, some leading proponents of the "freeze" conceded the President will promptly veto the measure if Congress passes it. They added that there are not enough votes to override a veto.

Would Be Boosted

In that event the tax will be boosted a month hence from one to two per cent—meaning that the wage and salary man will pay the security fund $2 for each $100 he earns (up to $3,000) and the employer will pay $2 on each $100 of his payroll

A check of way and means members indicated that six Democrats are inclined to vote with nine Republicans, to brush aside administration recommendations and put through the "freeze" bill. Eight Democrats probably will vote the other way.

There still is a possibility of overnight changes.

Congress was told today that leaders of organized labor want the security tax to double, as provided in the basic Social Security act.

Martin H. Miller, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, testified before the committee that his organization vigorously opposed the "freeze," and that he is advised that CIO and AFL leaders have the same view.

German Convoy Said Smashed Off Norway

LONDON, Nov. 29. (AP)—A Norwegian naval patrol pounced upon upon a German convoy Monday night off Sogne Fjord north of Bergen, Norway, and torpedoed a merchant ship, sank two of its escorts and damaged three others, a Norwegian communique announced tonight.

The attacking force, composed of light coastal craft, suffered no losses and only a few casualties, the communique said.

Early Victory May Hinge On Russians

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The date of victory in Europe now depends primarily on a Russian offensive on Germany's Eastern front to match the Allied onslaught in the west.

It is the conviction of ranking military leaders here that the battered Reich which is now running critically short of manpower and suffering production difficulties, may be beaten in a relatively short period by such a double-crusher strategy. Otherwise the Germans may be able to prolong the fighting indefinitely.

Churchill Turns Gloomy

Prime Minister Churchill's gloomy revision of his war end forecast today to fix the time of victory as next summer instead of "early summer" is viewed here almost entirely in the light of possibilities on the Eastern front. The hope is that the Russians will attack very soon, just as quickly as hard freezes in central Poland facilitates the launching of a major offensive in the vicinity of Warsaw.

There is no explanation from responsible officials here as to why the offensive has not already started unless it is that the Russians feel their chances for swift and decisive action would be magnified by waiting until the dead of winter. The Russian drives in the Balkans, spearheaded now by the advances in Hungary, have had a mildly diversionary effect on the German Army but are not considered in any sense a major effort for a complete quick victory.

As long as two months ago it became evident that two cities were the gateways to drives into Germany in the east and west. One was Warsaw which the Germans still hold. The other was Antwerp, Belguim, which Anglo-American forces have long since captured but just now succeeded in using as a port to supply the Western front.

Prime Minister Churchill's announcement today that Antwerp is in use apparently means that there will be no letup in the flow of supplies for the huge offensive now in progress regardless of German counter measures. The Russians need Warsaw for a comparable reason. It is the focal point of transportation systems in Poland along the short route to Berlin.

Gen. Eisenhower Now Touring Battle Zone

HEADQUARTERS 21ST ARMY GROUP, Nov. 29. (AP)—The two main cogs of the most efficient war machine in history met last night when General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief, walked into 21st Army Group headquarters and shook hands with Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

This was the second stop on the latest of General Eisenhower's lightning visits to the various continental war fronts. The first was a short stop at Ninth American Army headquarters, where the Allied chief conferred briefly with Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, Ninth Army commander.

Simplicity is the keynote of General Eisenhower's tour.

Jury Completed For Dorsey Attack Trial

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29. (AP)—It required three days to select a jury to try Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Dorsey and their friend Allen Smalley on charges of feloniously assaulting movie actor Jon Hall.

Tonight, with the jury finally seated, the indication was that it would take another three days to get through the testimony of the first witness, Blonde Jane Churchill. Miss Churchill, a singer who attended the party Aug. 5 in bandleader Dorsey's apartment, where Hall claims he was severely beaten, is described by Dorsey's lawyers as "a very important defense witness."

League Of Nations Commission To Meet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Members of the League of Nations' supervisory commission are scheduled to meet in London within a few days to decide what to do about disposing of the league.

The commission, established by the league assembly at its last meeting in December, 1939, has emergency powers to handle all league business for the war's duration.

U. S. Holds Firm On Air Proposal

CHICAGO, Nov. 29. (AP) — The United States challenged Great Britain today to join in an open agreement on postwar aviation or be left to deal bilaterally in a world largely united on common freedoms for airborne commerce.

All but setting aside 16 days of consultation and debate on an air transport organization plan, the American delegation laid before the international civil aviation conference a proposal to pass over questions relating a "fifth freedom" to escalation (adjustment of airline services to traffic volume) and tariff controls.

Simple Substitute

Its simple substitute for those complex problems was designed to put all nations who want it into the air quickly under rules which do little more than protect sovereign rights.

Nonetheless, the door was left open to a compromise proposal offered previously by Canada, with some possibility that the British and Americans might yet make that a common meeting ground.

The British delegation followed up the United States action with a second proposal on the disputed points, this time making its first open overtures to the Canadian offer. The delegates said they had found in the document practical suggestions which they could accept and in the document as whole, they hoped, "the basis of a complete system."

After that, however, the British said they had been "driven to the conclusion that no precise formulas would meet all cases," and that it was "abundantly clear that what might be suitable in Europe would be wholly unsuitable in Latin America."

Reds Confirm Great Drive For Budapest

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 30—The Red Army has thrust westward 25 miles beyond the Danube in southern Hungary and extended its breakthrough to a width of 93 miles, outflanking embattled Budapest and posing a mounting threat to Austria, Moscow disclosed last night.

The great offensive, about which the Berlin radio has been talking dolorously for a week, was confirmed in an order of the day by Premier Stalin, followed by the regular nightly communique, which said that more than 350 communities had been captured in southern Hungary and northern Yugoslavia.

Most Notable Gains

Most notable were Pecs, coal-mining and railway center 98 miles southwest of Budapest; Mohacs, the same distance south of Budapest; and Bataszek, 85 miles south of the Hungarian capital. The Germans acknowledged loss of the first two.

The broadcast Moscow communique specified that the break across the Danube of Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's Third Ukraine Army and Yugoslav Partisans was north of its confluence with the Drava. That point is 130 miles due south of Budapest.

Extension of the breakthrough to its announced width of 93 miles therefore would put the Russians within 37 miles of Budapest on the west side of the Danube.

Extent Kept Secret

Moscow named no captured towns north of Bataszek, apparently keeping the northward extent of the breakthrough secret for operational reasons.

Apparently, however, Red Army troops today stood somewhere between the Danube and the large Lake Balaton, barely 100 miles from the Austrian border and some 130 miles from Vienna.

The Russians for weeks have stood almost as near to Austria on the northeast side of Budapest, which remains under close siege but towards which no gains have been announced. Now Budapest apparently was rapidly being outflanked.

The Germans, acknowledging uncertainty about Russian intentions, said today that it could not yet be foretold whether the Red Army would turn northward along the west bank of the Danube to take Budapest in the rear or would continue westward.

A German military spokesman contended on the Berlin radio, however, that the Russians were "playing a risky game with this operation," which he said was aimed at bringing a decision in Hungary before German troops that had left the Balkans could make their weight felt.

Japs Say Raiders Not Playing Fair

(By The Associated Press)

The Office of War Information reported today that a Tokyo propagandist charged in a broadcast for American consumption that "wide-spread indignation" was caused in Japan by what he called the "indiscriminate" bombing of Tokyo last Monday by American Superfortresses.

Fliers involved in such attacks, the broadcaster said, were not entitled to the protection of international law. He added, "the day of reckoning will surely come."

The broadcaster, identified as Sen Jobo, asserted the "ruthless" American airmen had "proved by their repeated attacks against civilians that they are the enemies of civilization and humanity."

Earlier, Tokyo broadcasts reported by OWI, referring to U. S. fliers claimed to have been shot down during the Nov. 21 raid on Magasaki and Omura, quoted the newspaper Mainichi as saying residents of Konagai village would have met the airmen with a "Japanese sword" or a "hunting knife" had they not already been dead.

Air Smashes On Reich Continue

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP) — More than 2,000 American planes climaxed a day-long aerial offensive against Germany today with attacks on Hamm, Misburg and other targets in northwestern Germany. Four American bombers were lost but all fighter planes returned.

RAF heavy bombers started the day off with a pre-dawn attack on rail objectives at Essen and Neuss. Except for an early morning assault on Neuss and Freiburg, the big bombers had been idle yesterday because of the weather. Today's attacks were made despite heavy clouds over the targets.

Rail Yards Hammered

The 30-mile-long rail yards at Hamm and the extensive oil plant at Misburg were the principal objectives of more than 1,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by more than 1,000 Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Lightnings which met scant air opposition.

It was the tenth attack by U. S. Eighth Air force in Misburg, which once had an annual output of 242,000 tons of petroleum products but which, it was estimated, had been slashed one-half since last spring.

Misburg, a few miles east of Hannover, was attacked last Sunday and in the gigantic air battle that followed, 130 German fighters were shot down, 114 by escorting American fighters and the remainder by bombers.

Other Targets Pounded

Continent-based aircraft smashed at communications, airfields and supply dumps back of the battle lines.

RAF Mosquitos kept the offensive rolling last night with a strong block-busting attack on Nurnberg and they were back in the thick of the battle this afternoon with darting raids in the Duisberg area.

Heavy clouds over the target area was credited with keeping down German fighter opposition, which generally is heavy when an oil refinery is a target.

Congress Studies Airport Expansion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—A proposed billion dollar postwar airport expansion program to provide facilities for an estimated 400,000 civilian craft and expanded commercial service is in Congressional hands today.

Texas' share in the bill amounts to $52,490,731 for improvements to 123 airports and $68,432,421 for 213 new airports. No improvements are planned on 196 Texas airports.

Pocket Knife, Fountain Pen Save Buddy's Life At Front

By LEWIS HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, Nov. 29.—Two lectures heard a year ago during training, plus rare presence of mind and determination enabled Pvt. Duane N. Kinman of College Place, Wash., to save a fellow soldier's life by cutting the man's throat.

The 19-year-old medical aid man found a rifleman with a shrapnel wound through the neck thrashing about on the ground, with his face turning blue and lack of oxygen.

Realizing the wound in some way halted breathing, Kinman knew the only way to save him was to open the windpipe below the wound and keep it open so air could get to the lungs.

With a jackknife, with no anesthetic, and with mortar shells bursting nearby, Kinman made a neat incision in the wounded man's neck, cut a proper vertical incision, and inserted the soldier's fountain pen to keep the windpipe open.

Lt. Edward M. Eberling, a platoon leader from Lincoln, Neb., assisted Kinman by holding the patient down. After the breathing had been restored, he helped the wounded man to a tank which took him to the aid station.

No improvement could be made at the aid station, and at a clearing station the only additional treatment needed was to insert the regular tracheotomy tube.

Kinman's main interest when he entered the Army was mechanics, but now he thinks he might become a physician.

B-29s Pound Tokyo Third Time In Week

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The new 21st Bomber command today rained destruction on Tokyo targets from their Superfortresses for the third time in a week.

The War department announced simply that "targets in the Tokyo area" were attacked. No details were available. It was stated a communique will be issued.

The attack, the third since announcement of formation of the 21st command last Friday, was launched from its base on Saipan island, south of Japan.

Tokyo Calls It Minor

(Tokyo radio said "a minor formation of B-29's attempted their first night attack" today on the Japanese capital, starting two fires. Both were brought under control immediately, the broadcast asserted, claiming as usual that there was "practically no damage." The big bombers, Tokyo added, were "repulsed by our effective interception.")

It was the eighth forary of the mighty sky dreadnaughts this month, sharply emphasizing the stepped up tempo of their operations.

One Made Monday

The last raid on Tokyo was made Monday when a sizeable force spilled its cargo through an overcast, using precision instruments. Not a plane was lost on that mission.

A previous attack on Tokyo last Friday, directed against aircraft installations and other industrial targets, accomplished "good results."

The text of the 20th Airforce headquarters announcement of today's action said:

"B-29 aircraft of the 20th Airforce today attacked targets in the Tokyo area, it was announced at the War department today by General H. H. Arnold in his capacity as commanding general of the 20th airforce.

From Saipan Bases

"The attack was made by Brig. Gen. H. S. Hansell's 21st Bomber command based on Saipan. A communique will be issued when further details are available."

The 21st is the second force of B-29 bombers to go into operations. Its twin, the 20th Bomber command, based on the Asiatic mainland, conducted its most recent foray last Monday against Bangkok, capital of Japanese-held Thailand, effectively scrambling vital railroad marshalling yards which service Singapore and other key transportation points in the hands of the enemy.

House Approves Road Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — A $1,673,000,000 federal program to modernize the nation's highways after the war was approved today by the House.

Texas allocation will approximate $30,000,000 annually.

Construction of scenic drives in the Big Bend National park of Texas and a 60-mile road linking the park with U. S. Highway No. 90 at Alpine is contemplated in the House bill.

Rep. Thomason (D-Tex) said the measure contained a lump sum appropriation of $12,750,000 for building approach roads to national parks. Part of that program, he explained, is a road between Alpine and the Big Bend park. Another section of the bill, he added, provides for roads within parks.

Annual Allotments

The House bill allots the $500,000,000 annual federal road funds on this basis:

-$225,000,000 for federal-aid highways; $150,000,000 for improvement and development of secondary, feeder and farm-to-market roads; $125,000,000 for federal highways in city areas.

The federal funds for secondary and farm-to-market roads would be apportioned on the following basis: one-third according to area, one-third population and one-third mileage of post roads and mail routes involved in each project.

The federal aid program could begin with the start of the new year. An original House proposal to start the program with the first fiscal year after the war was amended on the floor.

Leyte-Bound Convoy Sunk

Yank Dive Bombers Destroy Flotilla Of 10 Transports, Three Destroyers

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Thursday, Nov. 30. — Dive-bombing American fighter planes wiped out a 13-ship Japanese reinforcement convoy Tuesday and Wednesday, spilling an estimated 4,000 enemy troops to death at sea, sinking 10 transports and three destroyers.

Piling into the sixth large convoy the Nipponese have sent to Leyte, the fighters erased eight transports far from their goal at Ormoc in accounting for the 4,000 troops, but other enemy soldiers got ashore from two docked transports at Ormoc which later were sunk.

Headquarters announced the action today.

Number Ashore Unknown

There was no estimate of how many troops reached shore to bolster Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's veterans now engaged with the 32nd and Seventh American divisions. Well over 35,000 have been brought into Leyte since Oct. 25.

The convoy battle extended over a wide area from Ormoc west into the Camotes sea and around Cebu. It was sighted in late afternoon Tuesday west of Leyte and some damage was inflicted.

All during that night, fighters hovered over the convoy, keeping watch and harassing. Early Wednesday morning, planes went out to finish the job, particularly the two transports docked at Ormoc. One, a large transport, was seen to blow to pieces when hit.

Others which turned and fled without continuing to Ormoc were bagged as far west as off the coast of Cebu.

Total At Least 21,000

The 4,000 made enemy losses at sea in such reinforcements more than 21,000 in recent weeks.

Allied fighter planes destroyed three cargo transports, seven troop transports and three destroyers.

Probably an entire reinforceing division was aboard the convoy. Some of the remnants probably reached Ormoc, the west Leyte port into which the enemy has fed troops into the Yamashita line.

Two of the cargo ships partially were unloaded during the two-day and night air attack Nov. 28—29.

(The total of transports would be 29 if they included three others sunk by air action last week off the north tip of Cebu while "apparently headed" for Ormoc).

Seven Planes Downed

Seven covering enemy aircraft were shot down.

Among the ships erased in the latest attacks were three transports ranging from 3,000 to 8,000 tons, four ranging from 1,000 to 2,000 and three of 750 tons each.

Seven of the troop transports and one of the cargo vessels were sunk "well out at sea," headquarters said.

The belief that the convoy sought to bring in a reinforcing division was based on statements taken from enemy prisoners of war. They said the Second Japanese Infantry division was expected.

It was the sixth enemy reinforcement convoy so far destroyed.

For the third straight day pouring rains stalemated the ground action on Leyte where the Yanks hold eastern Leyte and are pushing from north and south on west.

Arnold Says Jap Industry To Be Bombed Into State Of Paralysis, Like Germany

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 29. (AP)—Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air forces, told a Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting tonight that "we're going to bomb Japanese industry into a state of paralysis—just as we're doing in Germany."

"First with our B-29s, then, as we get bases closer to Japan, with our Fortresses and Liberators, we're going to destroy the heart and the nerve centers of Japan's war machine," he said in a prepared talk. "Japan will have little industry left when our Army and Navy Air forces complete their tasks of destruction. . . .

"They've asked for it and they're going to get it."

Cautioning that the war is far from over, the general asserted the air battle against Japan "is in its earliest phases."

General Arnold also warned the war in Europe "is not over — not by a long shot" and asserted that all our forces — air, ground and service — are still "in daily need of immense quantities of materiel."

"These men," he declared, "have a right to expect that such postwar planning as we must do shall not be at the expense of their chances of survival."

German prisoners captured around Metz "may not have been the cream of the crop," he reported, but "they were well equipped, cocky, defiant and full of fight. There are millions more where they came from."

Mitscher Says Jap Naval Aviation Now Is 'Virtually Eliminated,' Production Low

WASHINGTON, 29. (AP)—Belief that Japanese naval aviation has been "practically eliminated" was expressed today by Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, command officer a Pacific fleet carrier task force.

Admiral Mitscher made his remarks at a news conference in which he revealed Navy fliers have shot down approximately 4,000 Japanese naval fliers in the past year and a half and added:

"I have an idea Japanese plane production is not as great as they would have us believe."

Published estimates of Japanese plane production have been around 1,500 planes monthly.

Admiral Mitscher said our material is much better than Japanese material and "our pilots always have been superior. Those coming out today are just as good as those we started out with."

Mitscher said the B-29 bombings of aircraft plants and Navy yards on the Japanese mainland was helping reduce effectiveness of the naval air force and he added the quality of Japanese pilots has gone down materially."

United States pilots, he said, actually feel sorry for them. "They feel like they are shooting ducks on the water."

He characterized the Japanese fighting man as a "vicious brute" and an "educated savage which reverts to type."

The admiral cautioned, however, that he thought "it is going to be a long war and as soon as our people realize that fact the sooner they can inspire our men out there to keep on fighting."

He predicted that the Japanese fleet would "come out again." But explained that "as soon as we get bases in the Philippines we can drive them out of any port in the area including the China area. Even if they get into the Sea of Japan we can drive them out of there."

Mitscher, in discussing the value of land-based versus carrier-based planes, expressed preference for a "mobile base." He said experience had been that air bases built on islands soon lost their usefulness after enemy communication lines were cut and their aircraft shot down. On the other hand, carriers can move forward and move fast and will therefore become more and more important "as we go along."

Modern carriers can carry types of planes equivalent to almost anything on a land base and land bases have always been overcrowded unless many fields were available, he said.

Gallup Poll Dissects Canadian Opinion

New Party Threatens Old Power North Of Border

By GEORGE GALLUP
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 29. — Whereas the political situation in this country has been settled for the next few years by the recent election, the Canadian political pot appears to be at the boiling point.

The most recent crisis, which brought Parliament into special session at Ottawa, revolves about the Mackenzie King government's policy of refusing to send Canadian Army draftees out of the country unless they volunteer to go.

GALLUP

It was this policy, deserted only in the face on a cabinet crisis, which brought on the present critical developments in Canadian politics.

Observers in this country interested in Canadian politics have long been casting questioning glances at the political picture in Canada, since a general election almost certainly means portentous party realignments.

This is because of the rise of a new party in Canada since the last general elections in 1940. The new party, with distinct Socialistic leanings, is hhe Cooperative Commonwealth federation, which in June of this year swept 47 out of 52 contested seats in the Saskatchewan province elections. The CCF has taken a substantial part of its support throughout the dominion from the Liberal party.

* * *

IN a survey conducted right on the heels of the Ralston resignation, the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, which successfully predicted the outcome of the 1942 plebiscite, finds the Liberal party far weaker than it was in 1940, the CCF far stronger.

BY PARTIES

	Liberals	Progressive Conservatives	C. C. F.	Others
1940	55%	31%	6%	6%
Jan., '43	35	30	18	8
Feb., '43	32	27	16	25
Sept., '43	28	28	20	15
Mar., '44	32	30	23	14
TODAY	34	28	25	13

Although the CCF has lost strength since September, 1943, Canada nevertheless, appears to have a new and powerful political party which may spell profound changes in the next general election.

It should be pointed out that the life of the present Canadian government expires under the constitution on April 17, 1945, and that a new general election must be held before that date.

DALLAS, Nov. 29 (AP)—Nearly a fourth of Texas' series E war bond quota of $105,000,000 for the Sixth War Loan has been raised, State Chairman Nathan Adams of the war finance committee of Texas said here today.

Adams said that 24.5 per cent—$25,719,139—of the E quota had been attained as of November 27. Official Treasury tabulations are not announced until they have been processed through the federal reserve banks.

Over-all sales totaled $85,829,769. This is 15.9 per cent of the over-all quota of $414,000,000.

"We've made a good start," Adams said, "but each of us will have to renew his efforts if we are to attain our goal by December 16."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Volunteer services of a negro Seabee battalion in the first hours of the First Marine division's landing on Peleliu has won for the unit the coveted commendation, "well done!"

The unit was the seventeenth special U. S. Naval construction battalion, and Lieut. Comdr. Moses E. Berry, of Gulfport, Miss., was the officer in charge.

Practically the entire batallion carried ammunition to the front and brought wounded back. The Seabees also took part in the fighting on one of the fronts when the Marines became shorthanded in that sector.

News Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kirk and son, Tommy, of 2606 Twenty-ninth, left Wednesday for Eldorado, Okla., to attend funeral services today for Kirk's nephew, Freddie Gunkel, who was killed instantly Tuesday while working in a Borger carbon plant.

The War department announced Wednesday the names of three South Plainsmen who had been wounded in action in the European area: Sgt. Mack A. Elston, jr., son of Mrs. Beulah Elston of 1519 Twenty-fourth in Lubbock; and Pvt. Jack W. Gamel, husband of Mrs. Fern F. Gamel, and T/Sgt. Joe T. Kimble, son of Jim M. Kimble, both of Plainview.

A special Thanksgiving program will be presented at the Foursquare chapel, Seventeenth and Ave. G, at 7:45 o'clock tonight. Rev. Rufus Kelly of Brownfield will bring the evening message. The public is invited to attend.

A legal vignette: Judge Dan Blair of 72nd district court Tuesday entered an order awarding temporary custody of two young girls, 11 and 7, to their sailor father, who returned here from his base through the agency of the Red Cross to charge that his wife had been guilty of illicit relations with soldiers and, in general, had proved herself unfit to merit custody of the children. He entered a show-cause order and parents, the sailor's sister and the children appeared in court Wednesday afternoon. Judge Blair was satisfied with his award, and instructed the father to take the children. The older girl was composed, but the younger screamed and resisted efforts to take her from the mother who District Atty. Burton S. Burks informed the court had left her and her sister at shows until late hours and to their own childish devices of finding their way home. She had to be taken by force by her father, who was "new" to her since he had been away. Screaming in near hysteria, she was driven away from the courthouse — tightly wedged in the car between the father and his sister. The swirl of statutory law meant nothing to her—the natural law was all she recognized. She had lost her mother.

T/Sgt. George V. Wortman, who is with the First Army in Germany, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for "meritorius conduct in the performance of outstanding service against the enemy in Normandy," his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Wortman of Lubbock, was informed. Sgt. Wortman was among the troops which entered France on D-Day. His wife and daughter, Carolyn, reside with Mrs. Wortman's sister, Mrs. Earl Langley, 2018 Sixteenth.

More Shipping Sought For Gulf Coast Ports

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29. (AP)—Greater flow of foreign and domestic shipping trade to ports along the Gulf of Mexico was one of the goals today of the newly-formed Gulf Ports association.

Composed of representatives of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, the group completed organization plans yesterday and elected General Manager E. O. Jewell of the New Orleans dock board as president.

Finley Parker of Galveston, Tex., was named first vice president; C. E. Sauls of Mobile, Ala., second vice president; and R. O. Baumbach, New Orleans, secretary treasurer.

Rites For Wreck Victim Pending

Funeral services had not been arranged for William Roy McKinney, 15-year-old bellhop who early Wednesday morning was found dead in a wrecked automobile on the Slaton highway near Cemetery curve, a mile and a half southeast of Lubbock.

Services are pending word from out-of-town relatives, Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home said.

The youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. McKinney of 3203 Ave. H.

Body Mangled

McKinney's body was mangled, investigating officers said. The automobile was reported "almost demolished."

Sgt. Jchn Hollyfield of the state patrol, who was assisted by John Truly and George Hall of the city police, said after a formal investigation that the heavy automobile, belonging to First Lt. and Mrs. J. E. Brasher, formerly of Roswell, N. M., had struck a guard rail on the north side of the curve when McKinney lost control en route to Lubbock, and that the "car rolled probably four times."

Hollyfield said Lt. Brasher and his wife had registered at 9 o'clock Tuesday night at a hotel and had gone upstairs and to bed. He said his department had received a stolen report on the car this morning.

Lt. Brasher, who had been decorated for his overseas flight record, had bought the car only two days ago, at Sherman, Sgt. Hollyfield was informed.

"There was no insurance on it."

Sgt. Hollyfield and municipal police said McKinney was dead when they arrived and that they found no evidence anyone else had been in the car at the time of the crash.

The car was found by Thomas Crudup, who lives at Crudup Tourist camp nearby. The crash, condition of the body indicated, had been approximately two and one-half hours earlier.

Other survivors are three brothers, Barney and Harold McKinney of Lamesa, Pvt. Frank McKinney of the U. S. Army; three sisters, Mrs. J. L. Glasson and Mrs. Lewis Johnston, both of Lubbock, Mrs. D. H. Moody of Post; and grandfather, W. R. Stevens of Stephenville.

Is a large scale expansion of our foreign trade necessary to our prosperity? Eric Johnston, National President of the U. S. The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

ALTHOUGH the marriage rate dropped 8.6 per cent in the first nine months of 1944, according to the U. S. Census Bureau, a sharp increase is expected as soon as the war is over and the boys come home. One indication is that cedar chest manufacturers and dealers are continuing to receive an increasing number of orders from servicemen all over the world for cedar hope chests to be sent to their best girls.

A cedar chest is symbolic of dreams for a happy home and security after the war is won. We suppose GI Joes feel that the hope chest will serve as a daily reminder to their fiancees and the girls find that the fun of filling it occupies many otherwise lonely hours.

TODAY'S GAG

An old lady living in the country had a son in the Navy. On one of her rare visits to a neighboring town, she saw a sailor. Trembling with excitement, she inquired if he knew her boy.

"Well," said the sailor, what ship is he on?"

"What ship?" exclaimed the old lady, "are there two?"

BUYING BONDS

WHEN Bing Crosby returned from a tour of England and the battle fronts of France this fall he told reporters of witnessing the spectacle of war-weary, wounded and spent young soldiers seeing the Statue of Libery after an absence of three years.

As they steamed into the upper bay of New York the soldiers, many of them without hands, legs or arms, begged to be brought to the foreward deck and the Old Groaner said he cried with them as the Manhattan skyline came in to view. He was especially torn up at the murmur of a legless fellow who said as they sailed by, "She's a great girl; she's worth every bit of it."

As we continue in the Sixth War loan drive, it occurs to the Woman's Angle that some people may think the war is about over. It's not. Our brothers, husbands and friends are risking their lives in battle areas all over the world and enduring cheerfully hardships of which we have little conception.

What better way can we reaffirm our belief in the greatness of the cause than in buying bonds and thus letting our leaders and men know that we too are doing a daily job well? While others fight, we must not fail.

PACKING TIPS

BROKEN cookies are arriving daily in army camps all over the country. The best way to ship cookies is to start with a sturdy corrugated box. A gift box can be used if desired.

First, cushion cookies, wrapping shredded waxed paper around them.

Pack tightly. If you are sending a variety of cookies, plan to pack the bar cookies on the bottom. Sprinkle popped pop corn in all nooks and crannies between the cookies to prevent shifting. When first layer of cookies are firmly anchored place a thin cardboard or shirt board wrapped in wax paper, as base for the second layer.

Don't wrap individually unless they are very crisp.

The last step is just good mailing sense. Tie securely with stout cord. Print address clearly using mailing stickers marked "handle with care" or "fragile."

You might keep in mind that men like cookies that are meaty and tasty like fruit, fudge, nut or molasses.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Miss Turner: Wonder if you have space to ask your readers for a pot holder pattern. I have tried everywhere to get it. It's a chicken. I haven't seen one but being a "pot holder maker" it sounds as if it would be most useful and two of my friends have asked me if I ever made them but had no sample or pattern. I'd return the sample if the pattern is hard to get. Thanks in advance for all your trouble.

Sincerely,
Mrs. G. M. Blackwell

WE'VE sometimes wondered if Lubbock women really sew at needle club parties. Never having attended one, we wouldn't know. But it seems to us that of 30 clubs in our files, someone would have a chicken pattern to send Mrs. Blackwell. We'd be glad for you to send it to her if you do.

Christmas Gifts To Be Flown To Hospital

Present plans are for Col. James A. DeMarco, commanding officer at South Plains Army Air field, to fly the 2322 Christmas gifts collected for the disabled veterans at McCloskey General hospital at Temple, in an Army transport plane.

The bulging pack of gifts to brighten the Yuletide season for the convalescent soldiers at McCloskey was contributed by residents of the Lubbock area.

The grand total far surpassed the most optimistic hopes of those in charge of the campaign. Mrs. James A. DeMarco was in charge of the campaign, carried on by the wives of military personnel at SPAAF. Mrs. Thomas Danie was chairman of the officers' wives group which took part in the drive and Mrs. C. N. Spivey was chairman of the enlisted men's wives group which participated.

Included in the total were approximately 800 gifts contributed by residents of South Plains counties and collected by members of the Camp and Hospital Council of the Red Cross here. Civilian and military personnel at SPAAF contributed the bulk of the remainder of the total and wives of military personnel at SPAAF collected and wrapped gifts to be sent to the hospital.

Reservations For Party Due Today

"Reservations for the joint club Christmas party should be turned in by this afternoon to the club representatives," said Mrs. A. W. Young, chairman of the arrangement committee and president of the City Federation.

Clubs sponsoring the social are AAUW, Altrusa club, B & PW club, City Federation, Council of Women, Graduates and Delta Kappa Gamma sorority.

Japs Make Startling Advances In China In Drive For Burma Center

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHUNGKING, Nov. 29.—Japanese vanguards have made startling advances inside Kweichow province toward Kweiyang, its Burma road capital and junction point of a highway network linking Chungking, Kunming and other southwest China cities, a U. S. 14th Air force communique disclosed tonight.

The air force bulletin, relayed by the headquarters of Maj. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, announced that nighters strafed enemy cavalry troops on the Pachai-Tukiang road yesterday. This indicated the Japanese had either cut through or outflanked some of the Chinese units which had been expected to defend Kweiyang.

Chinese Said Fleeing

(The Japanese news agency Domei broadcast a report that 50,000 Chinese were fleeing toward Kweiyang along the southwestern highway and the Kwangis-Kweichow railway after Japanese forces yesterday occupied Nantan. The report called Nantan "the remaining important enemy stronghold" in Kwangsi).

Pachiai is 65 miles east-southeast of Kweiyang and less than 15 miles from Tuyun, terminus of the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway. The Pachai-Tukiang road roughly parallels the main highway from Japanese-held Liuchow to Kweiyang.

The exact points where the Japanese were attacked were not stated. The invaders could have been at the most 95 miles from Kweiyang, and possibly less.

Extremely Tough Road

From Tuyun the highway runs to Kweiyang and thence to Chungking. Like the Burma road, it is extremely difficult for military forces to negotiate. However, observers assessing the situation recalled the 1942 Japanese advance up the Burma road from Lashio to the Salween.

Wedemeyer's report also told of sizeable enemy forces astride the main road toward Kweiyang in the vicinity of Nantan and Hochih, which were attacked by the fighters.

While government officials in Chungking admitted the Chinese military situation was grave, the Chinese high command communique mentioned only clashes near the Kwangsi town of Hochih, 95 miles northwest of Liuchow.

Amazing results shown in improving the Looks... boosting VITALITY!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

Improper diet, overwork, undue worries, colds, the flu or other illness often impairs the stomach's digestive functions and reduces the red-blood strength.

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 25 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

At such times Nature needs extra help to restore its balance and function properly. Undigested food places a tax on the system...insufficient blood strength is a detriment to good health.

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need!

SSS Tonic is specially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat . . . to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality . . . pep . . . become animated . . . more attractive!

Air Medal Award To Feature Graduation At SPAAF Today

The presentation of the Air Medal to a veteran AAF B-24 Liberator waist gunner of the European-North African and Mediterranean theater of operations and the presentation of awards to six honor students will highlight graduation ceremonies for a large group of glider pilots at 10 o'clock this morning in the post theater at South Plains Army Air field.

The graduation marks the completion of another phase of intensive training in Uncle Sam's giant cargo and troop carrying gliders for another big group of Winged Commandos at the nation's largest advanced glider pilot training center.

S/Sgt. Edwin R. Breslin, 23, of Sommerville, Mass., an air crew trainee at SPAAF, will receive the Aid Medal "in recognition of meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight in the Middle East theater." Col. James A. DeMarco, commanding officer at SPAAF, will make the presentation.

Col. DeMarco also will present silver glider pilots wings to the outstanding soldiers and the best athletes of the group, three men receiving wings as the best soldiers and three as the best athletes.

Major John W. Kline, commanding officer of a training group at the field, will present the wings to the graduating pilots. The oath of office will be administered by Lt. Elizabeth Burke, school secretary. Capt. Leo J. Schafer, Catholic chaplain at the field, will give the invocation and benediction. Music will be furnished by the SPAAF Band, under direction of W/O Harry Dunham.

Six Texans are included in the group receiving wings. They are Flight Officers Duane M. Norman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Norman of Meadow, William Talmadge Mayfield of Houston, James P. Flanagan of Sanger, Willie M. Jones of Marshall and Mack D. Duce of Huntsville. The graduates represented almost every section and state in the nation.

LAAF Varieties Opens Bond Tour

A combination of the best talent from the all-soldier show "Varieties in LAAF," several war heroes, the talent filled Lubbock Army Air field band and LAAF's snappy drill team took to the road Wednesday for a four-day tour of towns in the South Plains area in the interest of the Sixth War Loan drive.

The tour, under the sponsorship of the War Finance committee of Texas, appeared in Ralls and Floydada Wednesday; is scheduled in Brownfield, Levelland and Littlefield today; in Tahoka, O'Donnell and Plainview Friday and at Post and Slaton Saturday, ending with a bond rally in Lubbock at 8 o'clock Saturday night.

Battlefront Veterans

The battlefront veterans include S/Sgt. Normand O. Wright of Orleans, Mich., who participated in the New Guinea, Los Negros and Admiralty islands campaigns; S/Sgt Clyde Mayo of Nevada, Tex., one of the oldest paratroopers in the U. S. Army who landed on Cherbourg peninsula on D-Day; Pfc. Richard J. McCarthy of Albion, N. Y., veteran of Guam campaign. Sgt. Mayo is also a veteran of the first World war and is a patient in Ashburn General hospital in McKinney, Tex. Pfc. McCarthy went through 17 full days of fighting on Guam before he was injured and forced to return to this country. Sgt. Wright, also a patient in Ashburn hospital, wears two Bronze stars and several ribbons.

Another war veteran appearing with the group is M/Sgt. Howard J. Baker of Lubbock Army Air field, a much decorated veteran of the African campaign, the softening up of Italy and a Ploesti oil field raid as aerial gunner.

Varied Program

With over 40 people in the cast, the program includes both military and popular music by the band, a colorful and unique manual of arms drill, a comedy skating act, impersonations, a glee club, and some circus tumbling and balancing acts by a team of acrobats, featuring Pvt. Edgar Oehlrich, former Ringling Bros. headliner. Master of ceremonies for the program is M. N. Murphee from the state headquarters of the War Finance committee in Dallas. The GI jamboree has been arranged and is directed by CWO Ashley B. Miller of LAAF, and local arrangements are being directed by Morgan Duval of Lindsey theaters.

Plans call for a downtown parade, ending on Texas Ave. between Main and Broadway. This area will be roped off and lighted for the show. In case of inclement weather, Duval said the program will be moved to the Lubbock high school auditorium. In any case, there will be no charge for admission.

The entire tour has been made possible through cooperation among the War department, the Texas War Finance committee, and local Sixth War Loan officials. C. M. Smith of Plainview, regional director of the War Finance committee, has been largely responsible for the arrangements which made this tour possible.

Oats Homicide Case Dismissed

County Judge G. V. Pardue Wednesday afternoon dismissed the negligent homicide case of State against W. D. Oats, on his own motion, after testimony had produced evidence that Oats at the time of the homicide charged was "under influence of intoxicating liquor."

Oats had been named in an indictment charging his connection with the death of Pvt. Kurt H. Kruesel, 32, a military policeman as result of a collision Sept. 10 on the Lubbock-Plainview highway near South Plains Army air field.

The indictment, returned by a 72nd district grand jury of which Charles R. Bacon was foreman, charged that Oats "had, through carelessness when engaged in performance of a lawful act, with his car struck another car (parked) and caused the death . . ."

Fact Witness Evidence

Judge Pardue, retiring the jury, allowed County Attorney Syrian E. Marbut to develop evidence of fact witnesses, then dismissed the cause, explaining in his order that:

". . . the court respectfully calls attention to the fact that driving an automobile on a public highway while under the influence of intoxicating liquor is an unlawful act . . .; therefore his court dismissed this action for reason that W. D. Oats, while driving his automobile on a public highway in intoxicated condition, was doing an unlawful act rather than a lawful act and that his offense, if any, would be murder and triable in the district court."

He cited legal authorities.

Witnesses who developed the "influence of intoxicating liquor" evidence were among those who had testified before the grand jury. They were Army and highway and municipal patrol officers. The grand jury had returned the bill charging a misdemeanor, and Judge Dan Blair, having no misdemeanor jurisdiction, ordered the case transferred to the county court.

Germans In Occupied Areas Quick To Express 'Anti-Nazi' Feeling

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Jack Fleischer, United Press war correspondent on the Western front inside Germany, was a member of the Berlin staff of the United Press for two years before Pearl Harbor. In the following dispatch he describes how the German population which he knew well before America's entry into the war is reacting to U. S. occupation.)

By JACK FLEISCHER
United Press War Writer

NINTH U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 29. — Almost every German you meet in the western German areas we have occupied will tell you eagerly that he is "anti-Nazi" athough only a few weeks ago they wore Nazi party buttons and heiled Hitler with the best of them.

And most surprising of all they seem to expect the Americans to treat them just as we treat the French, the Belgians and the Dutch.

Evade Regulations

While the Germans fawn outwardly, they are quick to grab any opportunity to ignore or evade regulations laid down by the Allied military government.

Maj Joseph D. Ackerman, Colorado Springs, Colo., working at Herzogenrath, said: "We post proclamations that no German men are permitted on the streets. But in the first few days after a town is captured there aren't enough AMG men to enforce the rule strictly.

"Consequently some German watches the Americans roll past from his doorway. Nobody challenges him so he steps into his front yard. Still nobody says anything. Next thing Jerry is wandering around the streets as he pleases."

Ackerman said one well-to-do woman from Aachen came to Herzogenrath to fetch her automobile and couldn't understand why she wasn't allowed to drive it home along highways filled with military convoys.

One wealthy German farmer complained about the camping of American troops in his orchard and said it was gravely damaging his property.

Germans to whom this correspondent has spoken methodically damned Hitler and the Nazis, making a distinction between "us Germans" and "those Nazis."

Walter Aschke, manager of a big coal mine in the town of Kohlscheid continually tried to distinguish between the "German government" and the "party."

Later in the streets of Kohlscheid which was only slightly damaged, Aschke admitted that nine-tenths of the damage was done by German artillery.

The women were hurrying through the streets with shopping bags bulging with potatoes, apples and vegetables. Old men, youngsters and women were carting potatoes, cabbages, turnips and beets in from the nearby fields. There were two spic and span butcher shops on opposite sides of the street and in each about 50 fat sausages were hanging, along with a couple of pieces of fresh meat. Two teen age boys were leaning out a second story window, joking with two nicely dressed girls in the street below. There were a couple of young women wearing fur coats and silk stockings.

It made me think of the Norwegians and the Dutch and the French and the others.

As I watched the scene, Aschke said almost proudly that the people of Kohlscheid are getting the same rations they had before the occupation except for butter and margarine.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Colds

Quickly Relieves Children's Colds' Coughs, Loosens Phlegm

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro. Tech Reports Good Sugar Beet Yield

Total yield of sugar beets from a three-acre plot harvested by the Texas Tech plant industry department this year was 41.54 tons, according to Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department.

The beets were shipped recently to the American Crystal Sugar company of Rocky Ford, Colo., and the department will be informed of the sugar content in approximately three weeks, Dr. Young said.

A continuance of work begun in 1938, eight varieties of beets were grown in cooperation with the sugar company. The varieties were grown on 64 different plots, and results of tests will determine whether soil differences effect the plants and sugar content.

Capt. Don Gentile Is Married Wednesday

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 29. (AP)—Capt. Don Gentile, an ace fighter pilot in the European theater, was married in a formal military ceremony today to Miss Isabella Masdea.

Gentile, a native of Piqua, O., came home last spring after shooting down 23 German planes and destroying seven on the ground. He since has been stationed at Wright field, Dayton, Ohio.

Tech Man To Attend Meeting At Chicago

Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department of plant industry at Texas Tech, is to leave Saturday for Chicago where he will attend a meeting of the International Crop Improvement association to be held Monday through Thursday.

As a member of the State Seed and Plant board, Dr. Young and the two other members, R. V. Miller of the Department of Agriculture at Austin and E. P. Humbert of Texas A&M college at College Station, will confer with government officials and representatives of the other 47 states about the needed production of seeds for 1945. As a result of last year's conferences, the "war approved seed" production of the potato seed crop was more than double for that of 1943.

The association is working on interstate regulations for 1945 crop improvement, seed sources, and supplies. Representatives from the various states will determine whether their states can reach a quota, Dr. Young said.

Limitation Wiped Out On Domestic Planes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt has wiped out the limitation, now at 300, on the number of planes domestic air lines may operate. The action may lead to early easing of the air transportation situation.

Mr. Roosevelt's decision was announced by the War department which said that unless the strategic military situation changes drastically, the Army Air forces expects "certain transport aircraft, largely of models and types non-standard to military usage," will be available for the carriers, within the next few months.

WFA And OPA In Values Deadlock

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (U.P.)—A new deadlock between the Office of Price Administration and the War Food Administration on food ration point values today caused indefinite delay in announcement of point values for December.

November point values will be continued for the present. New ration charts usually go into effect on the first Sunday of each month.

Vinson May Act

For the second time in four months, it is expected that Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson will have to settle the disagreement on rationing policy between the two agencies.

The current impasse reportedly is on the question of putting canned corn, peas, and possibly beans back on the ration list and assigning values to certain meats that now are point free.

Under its policy of trying to keep food stocks low enough to avoid large surpluses when the war in Europe ends, the WFA is opposing OPA's pressure for restoring point values.

Rationing officials believe that shortages of meats and spotty distribution warrant the re-ordering of point values.

Ever since the removal of most canned foods to the ration list, there have been reports of shortages in these commodities in different areas of the country. Returning some of the most popular canned items to rationing, in the opinion of OPA, would sift the supply more evenly throughout the country.

OPA Field Offices Are Empowered On Prices

DALLAS, Nov. 29 (U.P.)—The 13 Office of Price Administration field offices in the six-state Dallas OPA region area today were empowered with authority to set ceiling prices on new items of durable goods which are essentially local in production and distribution.

Nationally-distributed items still will be priced by Washington OPA authorities, however, Regional Executive C. W. Nichols said today in announcing the change.

Kurt Baum Charms His Audience Here

Kurt Baum, dramatic tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, charmed a packed house at the Lubbock High school auditorium Wednesday night.

Presented under the auspices of the Tech Artist course, Baum sang selections by Bizet, Carissini, Schumann, Hugo Wolf, Bruno Huhn, and others. The audience liked him and wasn't hesitant about showing it.

Piano selections were presented by his accompanist, Walter Robert. Composers represented were Debussy, Shostakovich and Chopin.

Mia Slavenska and dance ensemble, composed of eight people, will be presented by the Artists course in the High School auditorium, Feb. 27.

House Members Launch Drive For Equal Part In Making Of Treaty

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Advocates of a House voice in foreign affairs declared today the Senate two-third rule caused "a complete breakdown of treaty making in our government."

They formally opened their bid to break the Senate's exclusive control over treaties by urging the House Judiciary committee to approve a resolution making future pacts subject to ratification by a majority vote in both branches of Congress.

Little Chance Seen

Despite the enthusiastic House start, backers of the resolution conceded privately that it has a tissue-thin chance of getting through the Senate. Approval of the amendment would strip it of treaty powers it has held since the founding of the nation.

Declaring the "will of the majority was thwarted by a Senate minority" which blocked this country's participation in the League of Nations after the last war, Rep. Kefauver (D-Tenn) told the committee:

"There are disturbing signs that the same thing can happen again" after this war.

The public fears, he said, "that a small group of wilful men, for personal or political reasons, will keep us from having a lasting peace."

Both Declare War

He pointed out that it takes a majority vote of both branches of Congress to declare war, and observed:

"Certainly the making of a treaty is not any less important than the making of war. The same people who put us into war should be trusted to conclude it."

Rep. Merrow (R-NH) told a committee that the spreading of treaty powers through both houses of Congress "will be notification to the world that we meant what we said" when Congress passed resolutions pledging the nation to participation in a world peace organization.

Patrol Dares Death To Spot Jap Fire

WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY, Nov. 29. (AP)—An American first cavalry patrol stole inside the Japanese perimeter on the Ormoc highway two nights ago to help an artillery battery locate a beehive of enemy activity that daytime spotters couldn't find.

Lt. Burns T. Tilton, Houston, Tex., (his wife lives at Tyler, Tex.) led the patrol. He approached to within 300 yards of three Japanese artillery batteries and then withdrew in daylight to act as an artillery observer.

He called bullseye shots for the American batteries. Three Japanese guns were knocked out, possibly four others were destroyed and their ammuniiton exploded. Japanese shelling of American positions stopped after that.

Tilton reported many enemy entrenchments along a mile of highway which Yank infantrymen must travel on their way to Ormoc.

Mississippi Field To Get Refinery

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 29. (AP)—An oil refinery is scheduled for establishment in the Heidelberg oil field area by the Rogers Lacy company of Longview, Tex., with construction to begin not later than January 1, Gov. Thomas L. Bailey announced today.

The announcement came after he conferred with Lacy. He left immediately for Longview.

The site and capacity of the refinery was not disclosed.

The only other refinery in Mississippi is the Southland Refinery company in Yazoo City. The Southland's capacity is 3,500 barrels daily.

Heidelberg field, with 50 producing wells, produced 251,043 barrels of oil in October.

State oil and gas board Director H. Morse said that 15 additional wells are being drilled, while five are waiting for drilling rigs.

Flu, Not Grocer Gets Blame For Lemon Shortage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—If your grocer doesn't have lemons, blame it on last year's flu epidemic, not the Florida hurricane, the Department of Agriculture advised the lemon lover today.

In the first place, the department explained in the current issue of "Food and Home Notes," virtually all the commercial lemon crop in this country is grown in California.

Further, last year's bull market on hot lemonade and lemon juice among flu sufferers drew most of the lemons out of storage, and some growers picked their fruit before it reached full size in order to take advantage of the favorable prices.

But cheer up—the department says the harvesting of new-crop lemons is getting under way and by the middle of next month they should be reaching the market.

If you can't wait, you might try calamondin. The department says a calamondin "looks like a golf-ball orange but tastes more like a lemon or lime." Housewives down in the Gulf coast country send them in as pinch-hitters when lemons are scarce.

They're easy to juice, have a loose thin rind and ripen when lemons are least plentiful.

"But they offer no help to northern housewives in lemon shortages like the present," the department glooms. "They neither keep nor ship well."

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP) — A robot photographer, which can take six X-ray pictures a minute of a human chest and detect tuberculosis if present, was announced today by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The previous speed record for this sort of TB examination was three per minute.

The robot is a phototimer, a glorified exposure meter such as photographers use to time the speed of their cameras.

Nazis To Get Some Of Own Medicine; Hostages To Be Shot

STRASBOURG, Nov. 28. (U.P.)—Five German hostages will be executed for every French soldier killed by snipers or franc-tireaus (guerrillas) in Strasboug, Brig. Jacques LeClerc, commander of the French Second Armored division, announced in a stern proclamation posted throughout the city today.

LeClerc declared that his edict would become effective at 5 p. m. Saturday, which also was fixed as the deadline for the surrender to the French forces of the interior of all weapons held by "unauthorized persons." After that time, the proclamation warned, the death penalty will be invoked for illegal possession of arms and any German soldier found in civilian clothes will be shot.

However, there was some doubt as to whether the threatened execution of hostages would be carried out, inasmuch as American troops have taken over the garrisoning of Strasbourg.

It was expected that the French military governor of Strasbourg, Gen. Jacquez Schwarz and the American commander of the garrisoning division would issue new proclamations in their own names, since they have replaced LeClerc.

EASTLAND, Nov. 29 (AP)—Austin H. Furse, 45, president of the Duquesne Oil corporation with headquarters in Eastland, and secretary of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas association, died Tuseday while on a business trip to Midland.

Furse had checked out of his hotel at Midland and driven off in his automobile. He was found five hours later. Physicians said he had died of a heart attack.

Furse had been connected with the State's Oil corporation, parent company of the Duquesne for 18 years.

Surviving are his widow and two sons, Lieut. Austin H. Furse, jr. and Bobby Furse, both in the armed forces overseas.

The body was brought to Eastland for funeral services today.

Lubbock Westerners Clash With Borger Eleven Today

High school football will make its final bow in Lubbock for the fast fading 1944 season as the Lubbock Westerners and Borger Bulldogs kickoff this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Tech stadium in the final game on the schedules of each school.

A preview of things to come is expected to be unfurled this afternoon at Tech stadium, and coaches on both benches are expected to experiment a great deal on their possible lineups for next season.

Bulldogs Seek Win

The Bulldogs are expected to shoot the works this afternoon, seeking their first win of the season, and would be willing to call the year a success if they could knock off the favored Westerners in the finale.

The Westerners, a ball club that shot to the peak early in the season with wins over Odessa, San Angelo, Big Spring and Lamesa in order, then zoomed to the depths with loses to Abilene, Plainview, Pampa and Amarillo, with the skids checked only with a win over Brownfield, hope to come back this afternoon.

The Westerners took a final tune up of the offense they have worked on all week, and pronounced themselves as ready for the battle. They plan to take the field today with a lineup well dotted with men who will be back in Westerner togs next fall.

The Borger club rolled into Lubbock late Wednesday afternoon, and followed the Westerners on the field for a limbering up.

The Borger club returned to football this season, after a year's layoff, and have a bunch of youngsters who show lots of promise for future teams. There are only two lettermen at Borger this season, and much of the strength of the team has been wrapped up in these veterans.

In weights, the two teams will be comparatively even, with perhaps a slight edge for the Westerners. Both clubs run from the single wing formation, with the Bulldogs shifting sometimes into the double wing.

Dozen Senior Stars

A dozen of the Westerners will take the field for the last time in Westerner togs today, and all of them are anxious to make their exit from schoolboy football a blazing one.

Eight of these twelve men are regulars from the first string lineup, and another has seen a lot of service this year. Co-Captain Clinton Benefield, Billy Bob Harris, ends; R. W. Moyers and Eldon Giles, tackles, and the entire regular backfield of Johnny Cole, Johnny Davis, George Brewer and Jim Lowrey will be playing their last game. Johnny Trout, the place kick specialist, is another on the list to graduate.

Off the second team will be Paul Hardwick, Donnie Sanders and Billy Hunt to play their final game.

E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of Lubbock schools, said Wednesday night that he would be at the Hilton hotel lobby at 8:30 o'clock this morning to sell tickets for the game this afternoon.

Probable Starters

Coach J. Mule Davis indicated Wednesday night that he would start four "new faces" in the line, but would open the game with the regular four backfield stars.

Robert Collier and Gerald Davis were named to start at ends, R. W. Moyers and Eldon Giles at tackles, Billy Harless and O. C Foster at guards, Charles Pressley at center, and Cole, J. Davis, Brewer and Lowrey in the backfield.

Coach Christian announced Wednesday that the probable starters for Borger would be Dockery and Winters at ends; Holcomb and Stett at tackles; Stafford and McLaughlin at guards; Wheeler at center; Sargent, Scott, Pirtle and Evans at the backfield posts.

Charles Evans and Jack Scott are rated as the top performers for the Bulldog offense, while local fans are expecting to see much from the Westerner pony backfield of Johnny Trout, Johnny Gamble, Noel Sikes and John Paul Jones or Bobby Booker, boys who will carry the load next season.

Fans who have been anxious to see Noel Sikes, promising little scatback, perform are expected to get plenty of chances this afternoon to see him in action.

Sanders Steers Nose By Wilson Wranglers

The Sanders Steers and the Wilson Wranglers battled to a scoreless tie in a grade school touch football game Wednesday afternoon, but the Steers won the tilt on penetrations.

The only scoring threat of the afternoon came when the Steer's William Price intercepted a Wrangler pass, and ran 40 yards upfield to the Wilson 15. From there the Steers drove to the 3 yard line, but a penalty nullified their efforts to cross the double stripe.

Tech Polishes Offensive Play

Coach Dell Morgan shifted his attention from the defense to the offense Wednesday afternoon as the Texas Tech Red Raiders began to put on the finishing touches to their preparations for Saturday afternoon's date with the South Plains Army Air field's Winged Commandos.

"You can't win games without scoring points, and we haven't been getting our quota in the last three games," moaned Morgan Wednesday. "This kid Campbell is going to be a threat, and hard to stop, but if we don't score, it won't help much to stop Campbell."

Passers Worked Over

With this warning to his Red Raiders, Coach Morgan put in a long session of offensive drills. He gave special attention to the passing game of the Red Raiders, and had everybody in the backfield taking turns at throwing the football around.

Just what the Red Raiders will do against the SPAAF eleven Saturday afternoon remained in doubt, but Coach Morgan has hopes that the team will regain the scoring punch that made them a feared foe in the early season games.

Schlinkman, Hardey Ready

Walter Schlinkman, Tech's All-American prospect, and a lad who gained honorable mention in the United Press poll that turned to the big schools of the nation for their eleven honored men, appeared ready to go. Schlinkman was taking an active part in the workout Wednesday and showing no signs of his injuries that had slowed him early in the week.

Gene Hardey, first string quarterback, was also taking part in the workout, getting in on the pass slinging assignments, and likely will see much action Saturday against the soldiers.

Morgan said Wednesday evening that the Red Raiders would likely work out this morning because of the Lubbock-Borger game at the Tech stadium grid this afternoon.

BOWLING TOURNEY SET

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP) — There'll be 125 bowlers, champions of their district, here this weekend to start firing in a nine-day tournament that will have the unofficial national match-game title and a $2,000 first prize as the spoils for the victor.

Army Has Edge Over Navy On Comparison

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP) — The "breaks" and a couple of golden-toed substitutes, may play deciding roles Saturday when Army and Navy square off at 2 p. m. in Municipal stadium in the campaign's top-drawer football game.

And if it does get down to a matter of breaks—or golden-toed substitutes—the West Point Cadets must be given a slender edge.

For the ever-alert, hard-tackling Army boys have created breaks galore, and taken advantage of them, in building up their point-a-minute clip over eight straight victims.

For instance, in the eight games played by each to date — three against common foes—Army has lost the ball 12 times on fumbles but has picked up 14 loose balls which squirted from the hands of foes, while Navy has turned the ball over to the enemy 16 times on muffs; and has pounced on only three bobbles by the opposition.

In picking enemy aerials out of the ozone, the Army has a decided edge, too. The Cadets have intercepted 30 of 177 passes attempted against them while 60 were completed. Navy on the other hand, has intercepted only 10 of 154, while allowing 51 to be completed.

At passing the edge is still Army's, the Cadets completing 58 of 110 tosses for 1078 yards and allowing only seven interceptions. Navy connected on 53 of 118 attempts, gaining 885 yards and having six fall in enemy hands.

But the potency of Army's fine backs against the stalwart Navy line is still to be proved — as is Navy's scoring ability against the rugged Cadet forward wall. And if they battle to a stalemate—that is where the two golden-toed substitutes come in.

Lamar Redskins Cop District 13 Crown

HOUSTON, Nov. 29. (AP) — The Lamar Redskins scored in the third quarter tonight to gain a 6-0 edge over the Milby Buffaloes and clinch an undisputed first place in Houston's District 13.

The win entitles Lamar to represent the district against the Port Arthur Yellowjackets, winners of District 14 in the bi-district tilt which will be played December 9 at Port Arthur.

Floydada, Spur Play For Title

SPUR, Nov. 29 (Special)—The setting is the same as a year ago, and much of the two starting lineups are the same, as a wild state of football fever settles over this little city tonight, on the eve of the District 4-A championship battle scheduled here for Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Floydada Whirlwinds and the Spur Bulldogs, both undefeated and untied in the conference standing, clash in the final game on the schedule Thursday afternoon for the title, and the right to meet the high flying Wellington Skyrockets in the bi-district battle.

Both Been Beaten

Over the season's span, Spur is once tied and once beaten in nine games. Floydada has been tied once, and beaten three times in non-conference warfare.

Floydada will start six men Thursday, who started in the game a year ago at Floydada when Spur won the title last year. Spur has eight men from that lineup. Floydada's veterans will be five linemen and one back, while the Spur veterans are equally divided with four backs and four linemen.

Records and Lineups

Spur started slowly this season, being tied 0-0 by Haskell in the opener, then nosed out the Class B championship Lueders club, 7-0, then was beaten 19-7 by Seymour, district champions of 11-A.

Coach Jack Christian's boys hit their stride from that point on, and rolled over Hamlin, 34-0, beat Matador, 27-0, romped over Lockney, 34-7, blasted Petersburg 44-7, swamped Paducah, 51-7, and ended up with a 26-6 win over Slaton.

Coach Floyd Murry's Whirlwinds also made a slow start, losing 12-0 to Crowell, 12-A champions, then lost to Levelland, 3-0, then won 19-0 over Petersburg, then lost 13-7 to Phillips, champions of 1-A, then were tied 0-0 by Tahoka. The Whirlwinds hit their stride as they swung into the conference, and beat Paducah and Lockney by 25-6 scores and won 32-0 over Matador.

The probable starters for Spur will find O. E. Boyd and J. D. Elkins at ends; Dewey Watson and Tommy Towles at tackles; Lane Ericson and Donald Delisle at guards; Dean Wright, center; Jimmy Draper, W. C. Rumfield, Elmer Gannon and Calvin Holloway in the backfield.

Floydada's starting eleven is expected to be Lane Decker and Bill Womack at ends; George Mize and C. L. Berry at tackles; Elmo Hall and D. Gerhart at guards; Macyl Boteler at center; Johnny Collins, Ralph Womack, Glen Carmack and Billy Morrison in the backfield.

MEYER TO SPEAK

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Nov. 22 (AP)—Coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer of Texas Christian university accepted an invitation to address the banquet gathering honoring the Brownwood High school football team and coaches here Dec. 12.

Merkel Favored For Bi-District Crown

MERKEL, Nov. 29.—The Merkel Badgers continued to prepare for their Dec. 8 meeting in Pecos with Pecos' 9-A winners, playing for the right to meet the Littlefield Wildcats for the regional title.

The Merkel eleven will be shooting the works against Pecos to gain a goal that was denied them last season when beaten by Wink in the bi-district game, after being declared champions of the district following the ruling out of the Rotan eleven.

The Badgers are better fortified this season than the team that was beaten by Wink last season. This fact will send them into the game at Pecos as the favorite.

This year's club is the third in the last few years to come out with the title. The 1941 club was beaten in the bi-district play by Brownfield, so Coach Carroll Benson hopes to take a team to Pecos that will evade that "bi-district jinx" that has dogged his Merkel clubs.

Benson's five years as coach at Merkel has brought the school three district titles, has won 39 and lost 11 games, and never finished below third place in the conference standings.

Benson, who was a football and basketball star at Hardin - Simmons, is like all coaches, and is reluctant to name his team as the greatest of his career, but does admit that it is the best club he has had, as a unit.

Despite the fact that Billy Wayne Frazier, the state's leading scorer with 214 points, has drawn most of the limelight and publicity, the Badger line is given a full share of the glory by those who have watched the team in action. It is, without a doubt, the best line the school has ever produced.

That unheralded forward wall, with it's great blocking has made it easier for the shifty, hard running Frazier to romp to touchdowns so effectively.

AZTECA BEATS ALTMAN

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 29 (AP) — Kid Azteca, welterweight champion of Mexico, won a 10-round decision over Paul Altman, former Houston Golden Gloves welterweight champion, here last night.

Steers, Aggies Set For Battle

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—The last jinx of a storied gridiron rivalry goes on the block tomorrow when Texas A. and M. battles Texas in its own bailiwick—giant Memorial stadium—where no Aggie team ever has been able to triumph.

Shorn of significance in sectional or national scope because no championship is involved, the fifty-first game of a series begun before the turn of the century nevertheless has grabbed more interest than any in five years.

Forty-four thousand fans are due to be in the stadium when the high-powered Cadet offensive runs into a defense best suited for stopping the kind of attack the Aggies are noted for—a running game.

At every turn comes the admission that A. and M. has the best football team but try to get the bettors to put their money where their speech is.

Jinxes have stood up many years in this top battle of the Southwest come poor seasons or good. One by one they have tumbled, most of them when least expected.

There are many who think A. and M. should be the defending champion, pointing out that the Cadets fumbled two conference games away, and two are all they have lost.

Texas has had a disappointing season. The Longhorns were unanimous choices to win their third title in a row. They even looked the part in the first games. But they got progerssively worse. But injuries had considerable to do with it, especially when passer Bobby Layne was put on the shelf with a knee hurt, because passing was about all Texas was operating upon.

Layne will be ready for 60 minutes of football tomorrow, however. So will Hubert Bechtol, great Longhorn end, who has been out a couple of games with a fractured jaw.

Everything points to a grand football game. The weather bureau forecast bright sunshine, only a light wind, 38 degrees temperature in the morning and 65 at kick-off time. That means cool, pleasant weather. That means also that if the game is a tight defensive struggle the two fine punters—Bobby Goff of the Aggies and Jim Pyler of Texas—will have every opportunity to do their stuff.

Hub Laundry Bowlers Increase League Lead

The Hub Laundry bowling five increased its lead in the City-Commercial bowling league race to four full games Wednesday night by sweeping three straight from Meads Bakery in the feature match of the night. The Lions club five also turned in a clean sweep, beating the Optimist for the only other shutout.

Coca-Cola won two games from DeKalb Oilers and S. & Q. Clothiers won by the same margin over Armour's.

Scoring honors for the night were divided between Peel of Hub Laundry and Bell of the Lions. Peel had the best single score with 216 pins while Bell toppled 583 pins for the night's best series.

Brewers, Badgers Cop Boys Club Cage Wins

In the Lubbock Boys' club basketball league games Wednesday night, smaller boys' division, Scott's Brewers romped over the Alley Rats by a 17-2 count. Bobby Nabors sank six points for the Brewers, and Morris Turner made both of the Alley Rats points on free throws.

In the older boys' game, the Kelly Badgers beat the Armstrong Fliers 45-10. H. Culver tallied 19 points for the Badgers, and Flier captain Bobby Armstrong chalked up all their points.

Y 2/c Jim McGriell of the Navy recruiting office was the umpire.

DEAD GRIDDER HONORED

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 29 (AP)—Allen Shafer, star University of Wisconsin quarterback who was fatally injured in the Badgers' game against Iowa three weeks ago, was elected honorary captain of the 1944 team by members of the squad last night. "It was a wonderful gesture," commented Coach Harry Stuhldreher.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands: One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

An Essential "Medicine"

A GREAT many medicines are unpleasant to take, but even so, they are less unpleasant than the illnesses they alleviate, or cure.

The same thing may be said of rationing, in general, and of food rationing, in particular.

While we agree, in theory, with the rank and file of our people in disliking rationing, we also agree with Chester Bowles, head man of the Office of Price Administration, in his recent statement to the American Federation of Labor convention, that rationing in some forms must continue into the period following victory.

Mr. Bowles, who has been outstanding in his work as OPA boss, says that unless we have rationing in the earlier peace periods we will be whirled into inflation. That he is correct in his opinion, most thoughful Americans will agree. That a continuation of rationing, until threat of inflation shall have subsided, is better than running the risk of inflation also will find general agreement among our people.

Aside from a few score—or, at worst, a few hundred—bureaucratic crackpots, no one in the U. S. will want rationing kept as a part of the permanent American scene. Among those who have come out against premanent rationing is the President—which means that he, as keynoter, is speaking for his entire administration. But, like Mr. Bowles, Mr. Roosevelt recognizes that all rationing cannot immediately be junked the day after the last Axis foe is conquered, for some time must elapse between victory and the day when all necessities and luxuries will be available to all Americans who seek to acquire them.

It is good to know that the President, and Mr. Bowles, and others high in public circles, oppose rationing as permanent, yet at the same time realize we will need to continue it, in part, until stable economic times emerge after the war is won.

But it is better, we think—and certainly reassuring—to believe that the rank-and-file of our people agree with this opinion because, agreeing with it, they will be more likely actively to support it when the era of peace again dawns.

Let's All Get Together!

LET all Americans, regardless of their home states and sections there-of, hope that the "Thanksgiving muddle" will be a thing of the past after this year.

It all began several years ago when President Roosevelt, by proclamation, veered from the traditional "Fourth Thursday in November" and came up with what became universally known as "Franksgiving." Since that time, part of our people have observed one November Thursday, part another, as Thanksgiving Day.

This year in Texas, as a sweeping bow to the Great God Football, both November 23 and November 30 are in the Thanksgiving Day picture. Lubbock, for instance, observed November 23, because that was the date of the Lubbock-Amarillo football game. Austin, and some other cities, will observe November 30 for the same basic reason that the grid schedule calls for the traditional Texas A&M-University of Texas contest. Locally, Texas Tech added to the confusion of choosing November 30, probably because it is a state school and the governor of Texas proclaimed the Aggie-Longhorn football day as Thanksgiving. Similar conflicts, too, are noted in all sections of the nation.

Thanksgiving Day is too much a part of American life to be kicked around.

Like July 4th, it is typically American and should be observed simultaneously, by all of us.

The President and the governors of the 48 states will be doing the nation—and its people—a distinct service by getting together, once and for all, and staying together in the matter of Thanksgiving Day.

Let's go back to the traditional Fourth Thursday. There never was anything the matter with it in the first place.

It isn't surprising that an unusually small amount of money is being counterfeited now. In these lush times it's easier to earn money than to counterfeit it.

There are times when we believe we should welcome a return of the wolf at our door, if he'd eat up the tax collector now standing thereat.

The One Minute Sermon

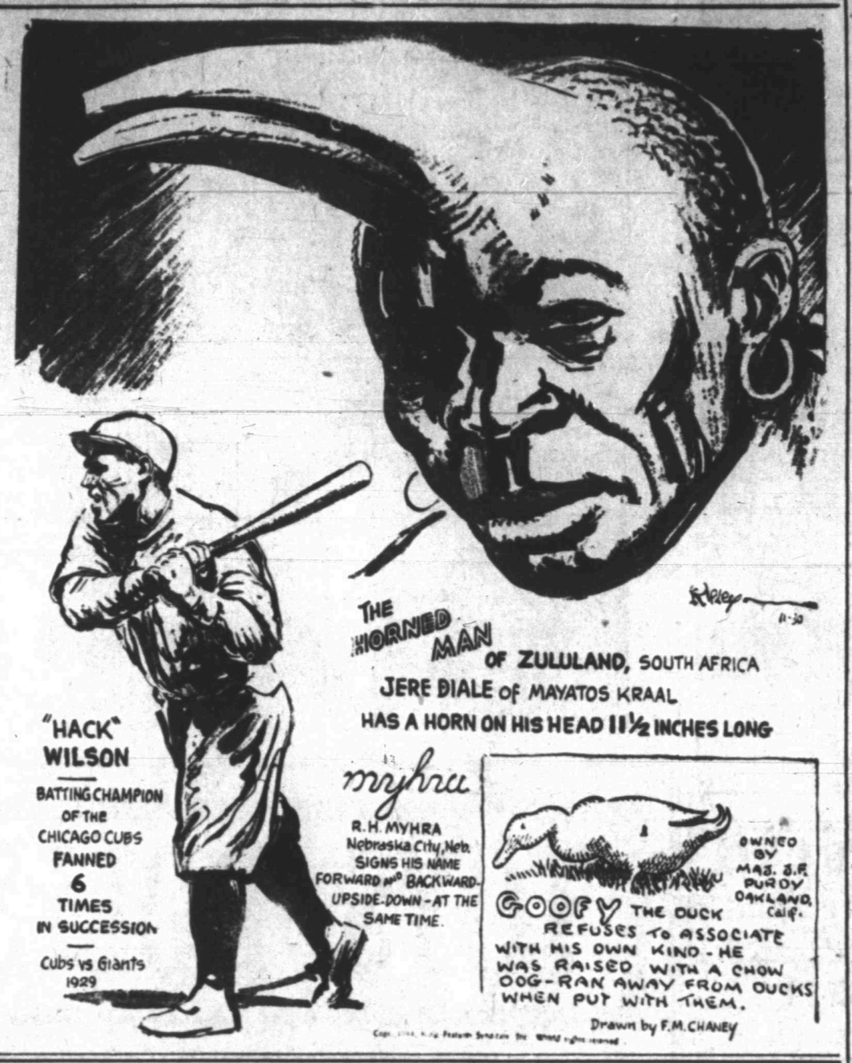

Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.

My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass;

Because I will publish the name of the Lord: ascribe ye greatness unto our God.

He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment; a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he. Deuteronomy 32:1-4.

THE STORY: Leo Kabateck, lately broke, is in the money now that he is prime legal adviser to racketeer Virgil Boggio. Boggio's girl friend, Ginger, makes a play for him when Boggio goes out of town. Kabateck is game.

* * *

X

THE telephone rang while she was mixing me a drink. The sudden, unexpected noise started us both. She answered it and then put her hand over the mouthpiece.

"Long distance. Chicago!"

I nodded. During the few moments it took for the call to come through I felt my heart pounding as if Boggio had suddenly walked in on us.

"Hello, Virgie!"

It was amazing what enthusiasm she managed to put into her voice.

I sat back and sipped at my drink as she did her stuff. By her answers it was easy to figure out what he was saying. And then he came down to business. Apparently he was going to be tied up in Chicago for a couple of days longer than he'd planned. To me the tone of disappointment in her voice sounded phony, but he probably didn't notice a thing. Once in a while she'd glance at me and smile. Then she'd concentrate on the phone again and give him the business. It lasted for about 10 minutes. Money was of no consequence to Boggio. Finally she made little kissing noises into the mouthpiece and hung up.

"Isn't that wonderful, Leo?"

"Did he say anything about me?"

"Yes. I should get in touch with you and tell you he won't be back until Friday."

"Well, that's done. You don't lose much time carrying out his orders."

She laughed and then came over for her drink. I was somewhat worried. Boggio still seemed to be doing all right without me.

Then I dismissed the whole thing from my mind. What business had I to worry when I was getting all this on a silver platter? I suggested we go out to dinner.

It was only when we were about to hail a cab that I remembered my car. I took her across the street and told her to get in. She looked at me in blank astonishment and then let out cute gurgles of delight.

* * *

WE went to a little Greek restaurant on 54th street.

I ordered shashlik and explained to Ginger that it was two kinds of meat cut up in little pieces and broiled on skewers.

It was the kind of place where you wanted to linger after dinner. I don't know how we got started on the subject. I think Ginger must have noticed the pictures on the wall and asked me about Greece. Even though I've never been to the birthplace of my ancestors, the thought of it touches a responsive chord. I must have warmed to my theme. I talked about Corfu and all the things my father had told me about it. She was a good listener, or maybe I was in good form. There are times when you're in the mood for talking. And so I told her about my father and the way he'd fallen from the 58th floor of a skyscraper in 1927 while he was riveting a girder, and how it had changed the course of my existence.

"How old were you when he died?"

I told her, and she did some arithmetic on her fingers.

"Then you're only about 26 now?"

"Twenty-four," I corrected.

"That's funny," she said.

"I thought you were much older. I thought you were at least a couple of years older than me. I'm 26."

It was my turn to do some quick figuring. If she said 26 it meant about 29. Not that I cared.

"What difference does it make how old I am?"

She hesitated.

"Nothing. Only I've never been out with a man younger than myself. I don't think it's—"

"You don't think it's what?"

"I don't know. It doesn't seem quite right."

That was a new one on me. Maybe she felt as if I were her son.

* * *

"IT doesn't make a bit of difference one way or the other." I said. "A man isn't just as old as his birth certificate. I matured pretty fast. Some guys are still adolescent at the age of 30."

She pondered for a while.

"Virgil's 52," she said, irrelevantly.

"So what?"

"He's old enough to be your father, yet he treats you like a man his own age."

"That's highly gratifying," I said.

Just then two men entered the restaurant. Walking past our table they glanced at Ginger and I couldn't help being flattered by the look on their faces. But I didn't like the way Ginger boldly stared back at them. Then I realized it didn't mean anything. It was merely force of habit.

She turned back to me.

"There must be a reason for it."

She had an exasperating way of speaking about one thing and looking as if she were thinking about another.

"A reason for what? What are you talking about?"

"Virgil. If he treats you the way he does it's because he needs you."

"Sure he needs me. I'm his brain-trust."

Then I caught myself. It wasn't necessary to broadcast the way I felt so that it would eventually go straight back to Boggio. He didn't like admitting to himself that he needed me.

I put down the salt shaker I'd been playing with and turned my previous statement into a joke.

"You see, Ginger," I smiled, "I'm Virgil's gift to the legal profession and so naturally he's interested in my career."

Compensation Budget Of $80,000 Asked

AUSTIN, Nov. 29 (U.P.) — A Two-year budget of $80,000 for the workmen's compensation division of the State Insurance commission was requested by business men who called on Gov. Coke R. Stevenson here yesterday.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

ONCE again there is a War Loan drive underway.

Once again I hope that it will go over big so that this cursed war may be over sooner and happiness may return to our wounded earth.

I do wish, however, that in appealing to us for our contributions, the government might be a little less bombastic in its advertising and a bit more sensitive of what we are really fighting for.

As I told you before I don't believe in the "heroic approach." I believe in war being a dirty job to do, to do it quickly and efficiently and get back to the things for which we really live.

Here is a letter that is making me buy War bonds.

It is from a petty officer in the Navy who is reported missing in the Pacific and who wrote this letter to his wife before she received the news from the Navy department.

"I wish I could be home for the baby's first birthday," he wrote. "Get him a nice cake, all gooey, with one candle.

"Then put a nice clean bib on Billy and put him in a high chair.

"Put the cake on a tray, and when he stops spreading it all over, wash him and put him to bed. May be you'd better give him some castor oil if he eats too much. Boy, what a birthday party!"

* * *

The sailor's wife hasn't given up hope. She had the party for Billy just as her husband wanted it.

"Next year we will have a birthday party with two candles" she said. "Daddy would have wanted it that way. And God willing, may be he'll be home by then."

* * *

THAT'S why I want the war to be over. And that's why I am going to buy more War Bonds.

I want the fathers to come home to their kids, and the husbands to their wives.

I want sweethearts to stop crying in the dark of the night and I want to see mothers prayers answered.

You don't think for a moment that those boys in the mud and the snow and in the prison camps and on the ships care a fig about what kind of monuments will be erected to them.

You don't imagine they think of themselves as knights in shining armor or as makers of history.

They want to get back to the green earth of Wisconsin or to their Brooklyn flat.

They have a kid in Iowa or a wife in South Dakota. There is the barn to be fixed in Minnesota and a fried chicken waiting in mother's kitchen down in Texas.

Heroism? No! It's homesickness and loneliness and death and disease and crippling and killing that we want to end by buying War Bonds.

Let's all buy so that the sailor and all his pals can be home for the party!

The News Behind The News

Ray Tucker is on vacation. During his absence, Winning The War by Albert Leman will be written in Washington.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

IN BUSINESS circles outside of Washington—perhaps because the wish is father to the thought—the general opinion is that the newly elected Congress will heed the President on international cooperation but that the old coalition between Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats will again tie his hands on home front legislation.

After a checkup on returning lawmakers and newcomers, administration leaders are confident that Mr. Roosevelt will have no difficulty in obtaining what he wants from the incoming House and probably from he Senate, too, on both foreign and domestic bills.

In fact, Majority Leader John W. McCormack privately predicts that the representatives who assemble in January will be very similar in their attitude to the 1933 Congress, which followed every signal called by the White House.

* * *

ROOSEVELT: One-third of the Senate and all of the House will be up for re-election in 1946.

The representatives noticed that in this last campaign nearly all Democrats who consistently opposed FDR were either bumped off or were returned by narrow margins. They will not want to be in the administration black book two years from now.

Half a dozen bitter-enders may balk. Others will express personal opinions on "run of the mine" legislation. And there may be a clash about the details of universal service for the nation's youth.

But in general no trouble is anticipated by Speaker Sam Rayburn and Majority Leader McCormack on administration bills, which are the measures really desired by the President.

The year 1947, however, may be an entirely different story. It will be the sunset of the Roosevelt reign and the battle for the succession will be at full tilt. FDR—to quote the old political phrase—"must get his while the getting's good" or it will be too late a couple of years hence.

* * *

HILLMAN: The Political Action committee is prominently mentioned in any discussion of the future of the two major artics. The CIO national convention late last week gave this powerful "fly by night" upstart the OK to become a permanent fixture.

There is a dispute even among New Dealers as to its proper role from now on. Some of Mr. Roosevelt's closest associates fear that if PAC takes a too active part in interim politics it will collide headlong with the AFL whose czars already resent the growing might of Phil Murray and Sidney Hillman, and thus weaken the whole labor movement and embarrass the President.

Vice President Wallace, the idol of men and women in union ranks, is opposed to PAC's operating as a third party or even as a balance bloc. His recommendations on this matter were accepted by the CIO convention.

The Iowan wants the committee to be a Democratic spearhead. He is afraid that the rise of an independent party may lead to a condition such as existed in France on the eve of her fall, when so many organized groups were represented in the Chamber of Deputies that no party had the power to legislate in the interests of the common man.

Other important New Dealers propose that PAC should be mainly an educational outfit spreading the labor gospel to farmers and small wage earners in normally Republican rural districts. The missionaries would try to offset unfavorable reaction—such as was aroused by the telephone strike—and explain the true objectives of the industrial workers.

Hillman's Washington associates realize that unless recruits are given something tangible to do, the amateur door-bell ringers, who performed so well in registration, may lose their enthusiasm. By giving them a missionary job, their interest and organizational setup will be kept alive for the 1946 contests.

WALLACE: Although Henry Wallace is scheduled to step down from the bridge in Washington, he continues to be a person to be reckoned with in the Democratic crew on account of his popularity in liberal and labor circles.

Paradoxically, he was originally picked for he cabinet because of his reputed appeal to farmers. But the growers were scared off by his unorthodox ideas. Then he was turned down in the Democratic convention by the city machines because the bosses thought that he could not carry their districts.

Yet in the campaign he, more than anyone except the President, drew the biggest crowds—and the warmest applause—from the sidewalks of New York, Chicago and other metropolitan areas.

In fact, the leader of one of the most powerful urban machines in the North told the writer, "If Wallace had been as cooperative with other Democrats in the last four years, when he presided over the Senate, as he has been since the convention, the majority of the party would have renominated him by a landslide in Chicago."

WASHINGTON ROUNDUP
By Jack Stinnett

A REPORT on things that couldn't happen anywhere else save in the nation's capital:

Secret Service men wore little white badges with the red numerals "68" for identification on President Roosevelt's campaign trips. . . . When they swung the badges around to read "89" they meant something else (They're not saying what.) . . . Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, was prohibited from removing some military maps from the Congressional Library. . . . A law says you can't, no matter what . . .

Signs of the times—nightclub advertises $30 a week, tips and meals for busboys. . . . The Democratic National committee's absent ballot bureau set up shop with Roosevelt-Truman signs, and the windows of the apartment directly above were clustered with Dewey-Bricker pictures. . . .

Men can't get into Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference because she decided 'way back such a rule would create employment for women reporters, and it did. . . . Now that the gals have taken over, their association has made the original idea an iron clad rule, and the President's wife says it's out of her hands . . .

* * *

WAR FOOD administration says the nation's appetite for spinach will drop 20 per cent next year . . . Washingtonians who haven't even got the right to vote seem more interested in elections than anyone else . . .

A visitor got into the Navy press section as a communique was being distributed . . . The officer kept his eye on his watch saying "One minute, 30 seconds, 15 seconds, go!" and the reporters dictated their stries to their respective offices. . . . The stranger pushed his hat back, exclaimed: "A horse race!" and walked out . . .

* * *

GENE MARKEY, the movie producer, now is headquartered here as a captain in the Navy in charge of pictures . . . He says if you doubt the morale value of motion pictures abroad you should watch those GI's huddled in the jungle rain watching a show while hell breaks loose all around . . . Moreover, says Gene, the generals and admirals now have become so picture-conscious they know which side of the face to turn to the camera . . . Lord Louis Mountbatten is so handsome he could get a job in Hollywood "any day," the captain says, and of homely Joe Stilwell: "He probably wouldn't want one." . .

Parents are poor psychologists. They tell the five-year-old, "A little bird told me," and then wonder what in the world could have possessed him to swat the canary with the fire poker.

Another case of an oppressed minority is a man with a wife and several teen-age daughters.

Here And There In Texas

Uruguayan Ranchman Tells Texans About Herefords

BY WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 29 — A Texan, transplanted deep down the Eastern South American coast to Uruguay, would find ranching conditions agreeably similar in many ways to what he had left behind.

The Texan would be especially delighted with the fine natural pastures, Pablo Risso, large-scale Uruguayan rancher and internationally - known authority on Hereford cattle, believes.

"The Uruguayan does not follow the example of the rancher in the United States who feeds his cattle on concentrated grain," Risso stated. "Ninety per cent of our cattle are only pasture-fed on the natural high grasses and clovers (graminneas and Leguminosas).

"In fattening steers for market sometimes they are grain-fed but this is done by turning them into fields of oats, rye and wheat."

The rainfall of Uruguay averages 40 inches per year, about twice that of West Texas. There are drouths, Risso said, but they occur only every 10 or 12 years. Perhaps the worst drouth in his experience burned his country two years ago. A third of the cattle died.

"There were 9,000,000 cattle," he said ruefully, "and when the rains again began there were only 6,000,000 left."

* * *

Government Aids Ranchers

In some parts of the country cattle are troubled with ticks. A government agency devoted to research and work in the field has done much to prevent such diseases as Blackleg and hoof and mouth disease.

The rancher, who was brought to Texas by the Texas Hereford association to judge the Pan-American Hereford exposition, said cattlemen in his country are thankful for a mild climate that renders weather-protection for their herds unnecessary.

Uruguayan ranchers run cattle, sheep and horses on the same pastures. There are now approximately 22,000,000 sheep, Risso estimated, adding that "no finer sheep will be found anywhere than in Uruguay."

* * *

GOOD rangelands sell for $50 per acre if a purchase of from 1,000 to 2,000 acres is made, he said. The price would range upward for a smaller buy. Ordinary ranges can be bought for $10 an acre and up.

Risso has two ranches, totaling 32,000 acres. One is in the center of the country—the other is along the Brazilian border. He owns 4,500 Herefords, "the most adaptable of cattle and the best meat."

Born in Uruguay, Risso was educated in Italy where he added such languages as French, Italian, English and Portuguese to his native Spanish. Twenty-seven years ago when he decided to become a rancher, he spent five years visiting ranches in Uruguay, Brazil and Argentina, studying the intricacies of the industry. His decision to buy Herefords followed the trend in his country where Herefords are top-heavy favorites. He bought his original stock in the United States and is still a big buyer in this country—and an extremely close observer of our ranching ways. He has visited 90 ranches in 30 states. Jack Frost of Dallas, president of the Texas Hereford association, called Risso "outstanding among South American cattlemen," and added that he "is without a peer in the world when it comes to judging Herefords."

* * *

Prefers Native Saddles

Risso, 48, a carefully dressed, medium-statured man whose brown eyes peer seriously through horn-rimmed spectacles, compares American cowboys with Uruguayan gauchos thus:

"The gaucho is a fine horseman. Rodeo tricks he does not know. Of bulldogging he knows nothing. But he is a fine rider. His saddle seat is many layers of sheepskin with the fleece up—much more comfortable I think, than the hard leather of the American saddle, no?"

* * *

RISSO is not worried about postwar markets for cattle and sheep:

"Before the war nearly all our meat went to England. The British are the greatest judges of fine meat in the world. Now our market is the United States and much more of the meat is canned before it is exported. After the war England again will be our best customer.

"Perhaps the prices we will get will not be so high, but of markets we will not worry. Meat is indispensable. The seller does not worry about selling a product which the buyers can not do without."

* * *

Conservationists To Meet

The fourth annual meeting of the Texas Soil Conservation District supervisors will be held at College Station Dec. 6 and 7, V. C. Marshall, administor for the State Soil Conservation service, Washington, and Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne college at Brownwood, will be the principal speakers.

"A Woman's Dream"
I'm a MOST BEAUTIFUL 7-room BRICK-VENEER HOME. I stand PROUD and STATELY among other attractive places in the very, very SWANKIEST part of Lubbock. I am graced with the most perfectly landscaped lawn, inlaid with sweet odorous flowers and beautiful running roses in the spring time. My interior is cozy, smooth and easy on the eye as fine soft velvet, satin and silk. The coloring in my heavily carpeted double floors blends magnificently with venitianed windows overladen with exquiste and streaming gorgeous curtains; smooth and the most expensive paper clinging to the wall as tho it had grown there. My lights and other fixtures carry an air of distinction found only in the higher priced homes. The long spacious hall that leads through the house and my exclusively designed bathroom surely would have graced Lady Selwin of Selwin Castle. My kitchen is near perfection and my large bedrooms are truly, truly A WOMAN'S DREAM. Certainly you will be Mr. and Mrs. living at this place. It's a shame I am priced down so low.

First Snow Of Year Falls In Deep South

ATLANTA, Nov. 29. (AP)—Snow flurries swirled over much of the South today.

Icy highways were reported in Alabama. Rooftops in northeast Mississippi were coated with white. Falling temperatures indicated snow for extreme north Georgia; the mountainous areas of South Carolina and the west portion of North Carolina as a storm that developed in southern Texas and Louisiana moved rapidly northeastward.

The first snow of the season in the Gulf coast states, falling for about half an hour in Columbus and West Point, Miss., blanketed house tops.

In northern Alabama, highway patrol chief Van B. Gilbert reported snow and sleet were glazing highways in that sector.

Hatch Act May Face Revisions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (U.P.)—The Senate campaign expenditures committee may recommend revisions of the Hatch clean politics act, perhaps the limitation of campaign contributions, on the strength of its inquiries into 1944 election contests, it was learned today.

Chairman Theodore F. Green, (D., R. I.) disclosed that the committee is considering the possibility of recommending some changes but declined to go into detail.

He said the decision will be made after the committee completes its primary job of investigating reports of irregularities in senatorial contests. The next meeting on that subject is scheduled for Friday.

To Be Closed Meeting

Green said it would be a closed meeting and that some of the complaints before it involve charges of excessive campaign expenditures.

Arguments for revision of the Hatch act, particularly the $3,000,000 limitation on expenditures for presidential campaigns, have been current since long before the Nov. 7 election.

They have been principally demands for clarification of the law which now imposes the limit on any one political committee but does not limit the number of committees which may be set up, each with a $3,000,000 limitation.

Activities' Extent Shown

The extent to which such activities could be carried was demonstrated when Green sent inquiries to a mailing list of more than 100 committees, under a variety of political titles, more than three months ago asking them to list their political activities, the source of their revenue and how it was being spent.

Congressional observers believed that if the committee made any recommendation as the result of this study it may be to raise the $3,000,000 limitation and make the new total apply to the aggregate of all expenses on behalf of any particular party or candidate.

Jap Ship Sunk

ern Leyte against Ormoc.

"Since the beginning of the month, 23 and one-half inches of rain has fallen on Leyte," today's communique said, "an unprecedented record for November.

"We are partially supplying our front line echelons by dropping (supplies) from the air."

American torpedo bombers and fighters bombed and strafed the airdrome and bivouacs at Legaspi on Luzon, main island of the Philippines.

Making probably their most determined attack since Leyte was envaded, Japanese airmen pressed home an assault on U. S. warships and other shipping in Leyte gulf Monday, causing "some casualties and damage."

15 Planes Downed

Fifteen enemy planes were shot down, said Wednesday's communique in a terse report of the assault. It gave no details on American losses.

American destroyers meanwhile were stealing into Ormoc bay, on the western side of Leyte, and Monday night shelled the strategic enemy port of Ormoc without drawing any shore fire. It was the first time anything larger than a PT boat had dared to enter the mine-infested waters.

The speedy greyhounds of the fleet had to steam through narrow straits and close to enemy-held shores to reach their objective.

A field dispatch from Spencer Davis disclosed that the U. S. 7th division, which includes veterans of the Aleutians and Marshall islands campaigns, had hurled back numerous night counterattacks on Leyte's western coast, south of Ormoc.

The doughboys had not budged an inch from their Palanas river defenses about 13 miles below Ormoc. The enemy however, had lost more than 600 men in his artillery supported assaults.

Lt. Col. James H. Keller, a regimental executive officer, told Davis that the attackers "are the best Japanese troops we've run upon yet." They were attacking frontally and probing for soft spots on the American right (inland) flank.

Rites For Houston Surgeon Set Today

HOUSTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Funeral services were to be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow for Dr. Judson L. Taylor, 69, Houston surgeon and member of the University of Texas board of regents.

Taylor died following a heart attack here last night.

He had returned Sunday from El Paso where he attended his first session of the university board following his appointment as a regent 16 days ago. He was named to the board to succeed Dan J. Harrison, Houston oil man, who resigned with two other board members after the Nov 1 meeting at which university President Homer P. Rainey was discharged.

Dr. Taylor was serving as a commander in the U. S. Navy with the Office of Naval Procurement here. He was a faculty member of Baylor university medical school at Houston.

Burial will be in Glenwood cemetery following services at the residence.

Southern Baptists Elect New Officers

ATLANTA, Nov. 29. (AP) — G. Frank Garrison, Atlanta insurance company executive, was elected president of the Southern Baptist home mission board today, succeeding Col. B. L. Bugg, of Atlanta, who declined re-election.

Garrison has been recording secretary of the board since 1931.

Dr. Fred C. Eastham of Wichita Falls, Texas, was elected superintendent of evangelism, a post which had been vacant two years. Dr. Eastham and Dr. M. D. Dodd, of Shreveport, La., will direct the Southern Baptist centennial evangelistic crusade.

RAILS TOUCH OFF SPREE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Active buying of rail shares touched off bullish demonstrations in other sections of today's stock market and gave the general run of pivotal issues gains ranging from fractions to around 4 points.

The Associated Press rail average rose .5 of a point to a seven-year peak. As interpreted by chart students this encouraged peculative belief the general average, now less than a point under the 7-year highs registered last July, might soon make another try at penetration of the July level.

Westinghouse was a top gainer, closing at 109⅛, up 4⅛. Rails up a point or more included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coastline, Morris and Essex, Union Pacific and Alleghany Corp., preferred. Chrysler finished strong, 701¾. Goodyear, Goodrich, and General Motors each added a point or better. The steels showed fractional gains. A few other key divisions were irregular.

Bonds firmed with a rising demand for carrier loans.

Texas Cotton Goal For 1945 Is Reduced

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 29. (AP)—The 1945 Texas cotton acreage goal of 7,200,000 acres is two per cent under the 1944 goal.

C. D. Walker of the War Foods Administration said the goal, accepted tentatively at a farm conference at Texas A. and M. college yesterday, was based on probable acreage farmers would plant in 1945. Some objection had been raised on the grounds the reduction was not justified in view of unfavorable planting weather in some parts of the state last spring.

Representatives of the WFA, Texas A. and M. college and agencies working with agriculture and farmers attended the conference.

Polish Government Berated By Russians

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Russia charged reactionary members of the Polish government in exile with seeking "to sow the seeds of a new war" today as Tohmasz Arciszewski, a veteran of the underground who escaped from Poland last spring, sought to form a new cabinet.

Moscow newspaper Pravda said the London Polish regime had become a hostile political force with which any future negotiations obviously were impossible.

Amarillo Taxi Drivers Return To Their Jobs

AMARILLO, Nov. 29. (AP)—Amarillo taxi drivers returned to work at noon today following an agreement to abide by certain ODT and OPA rules.

Approximately 175 drivers stopped work early yesterday as a result of what they said were notices posted by the ODT prohibiting drivers from making calls to night clubs outside the city limits.

At a meeting today between drivers and operators of the nine companies involved in the walkout, the drivers agreed not to accept calls from the clubs.

DEAN E. J. KYLE

Kyle Retires As Dean At A. & M.

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP) — E. J. Kyle, dean of the school of agriculture at Texas A. & M. college since 1911 retired today to become dean emeritus of agriculture.

He will help organize the A. & M. research foundation and promote Latin American relations.

Dean Kyle appeared before the A. & M. board of directors which met here today to acknowledge his new position. His successor as dean has not been named.

Organized Short Course

Kyle first advocated the introduction of agriculture in the public schools of Texas and his elementary textbook on agriculture has been used in public schools for 30 years.

He organized and directed for the first 12 years the farmers short course at A. & M. college and is partly responsible for the establishment of the state department of forestry by the legislature.

When he became dean in 1911 there were five departments in the school of agriculture; there are now 15. In 1911 A. & M. ranked 15th in enrollment of agricultural students. Today it ranks first among land-grant colleges in the United States.

Director Of Farm Credit

Kyle was made director of the Federal Farm Credit administration of Houston in 1934 and is now vice-chairman of the organization.

He was appointed by Cordel Hull and the Department of Agriculture as an official delegate to the second Inter-American Conference on Agriculture held in Mexico in 1942.

He was selected coordinator of inter-American affairs by Nelson Rockfeller and sent to Venezuela to study its agricultural economy His report was published in the Congressional Record and distributed throughout Latin-American countries.

The University of Arkansas awarded him the honorary degree of doctor of philosophy in 1941. Kyle is a member of the advisory committee on Inter-American Cooperation in Agricultural Education, the U. S. Commission of Inter-American Development and the Joint Committee on Latin-American studies.

Elliott Roosevelt To Marry Actress

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Nov. 29. (AP)—Col. Elliott Roosevelt, 34-year-old son of the President, within a week will take his third wife, actress Faye Emerson, 27.

This announcement came today from a spokesman for the colonel and later from blonde Miss Emerson herself, but neither added any details concerning the wedding plans. Roosevelt has been visiting here for several days.

Friends said the couple met in a New York night club several months ago, and renewed the acquaintanceship during the colonel's stay here.

Miss Emerson, in pictures since 1941, was married once previously, to William Wallace Crawford, jr., by whom she has a 5-year-old son, William Wallace Crawford III. They were divorced in 1942.

Berlin Broadcasts Message By Adolph

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP)—A message signed Adolf Hitler was broadcast by Berlin today, the first direct word attributed to the long-silent fuehrer since Heinrich Himmler read a proclamation for him at the swearing in of the Volksturm at Munich, Nov. 12.

Today's message thanked German labor for "great accomplishments" during difficult conditions, and asserted that "when this fateful struggle has come to a successful end we will continue to build the socialistic structure of the Reich."

New Winter Wave Is Expected Here Today

Another blast of winter is on its way to the South Plains.

Much colder weather is predicted for the Lubbock area today, followed Friday by snow.

The mercury Wednesday morning sagged to 23 at the farm experiment substation and to 24 at West Texas Gas company's mainline station to set new record low temperatures for the season.

At 10 o'clock last night the temperature was 38 and dropping fast.

The first official American flag was accepted by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777, and had 13 stars in a field of blue with 13 alternate red and white stripes.

Rope With Horse On End Is Picked Up By Youth Here

Horse stealing is rare these days but not as rare as the dodge a lad gave police Wednesday.

"I found a rope with a horse on the other end," the youngster said innocently.

Police questioned him in connection with the theft of a dun horse from Robert Douglas, a negro.

Douglas had related that he bought the animal Nov. 20 and was taking him to his home in the negro district when the horse suddenly pulled a balk that would make a mule turn green. He tied the horse to a post and went for help. When he returned his horse was gone.

The negro said he traced down his horse and after much finangling persuaded the youth to turn him back.

The youngster is to be questioned today by Juvenile Officer John Wilson.

Western Front

along both sides of the Adolf Hitler highway toward Duren, also seized Hurtgen, Jungersdorf, and Kleinhau.

Lt. Gen. William Simpson's U. S. Ninth Army, boring forward on Hodges' left through knee-deep mud, drew an assault around the fortified road center of Julich by wiping out the last organized Nazi resistance in Koslar, a mile west of Julich, and by crossing the Little Inde river just to the south on a captured bridge.

In perhaps the day's most vital development, Hodges' battle-tried veterans at last began working their way out of Hurtgen forest, southwest of Duren, where infantry casualties have been severe, onto open terrain where tanks could operate.

Called Attrition Battle

(The German high command, which chose to make a major stand west of the Rhine, described the fighting east of Aachen as a "bitter battle of attrition" and declared the Americans were suffering heavy tank losses.)

Units of five Allied armies were disclosed to be fighting on German soil with the announcement that troops of the first Canadian Army had penetrated the Reich from the Nijmegen sector in Holland, presumably in the wedge the Allies drove into the Reichswald forest two months ago. The total of German prisoners captured since D-day rose to 737,00.

Lt. Gen. Georges S. Patton's U. S. Third Army, driving into the German industrial Saar along a 26-mile front, was reported to have gained as much as 10 miles at undisclosed points and to be imminently threatening the important towns of Saarlautern, Hagenau, Herzig, Forbach, Saareguemines and Saare Louis.

French Trap Thousands

Farther south, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's U. S. Seventh Army approached Hagenau, an important communications center of 25,000 population. The French First Army snapped shut a trap on thousands of German troops isolated between Mulhouse and Belfort. The French freed more than 30 villages during the day.

Only about 3,000 square miles of France remained in German hands—two rectangular stretches of borderland in Alsace and Lorraine and the long by-passed and beseiged ports of Dunkerque, Lorient and St. Nazaire. Nazi troops also held some land at the mouth of the Garonne estuary leading to Bordeaux.

Prime Minister Churchill disclosed that the Belgian port of Antwerp, second greatest in Europe, was in operation, pouring reinforcements and supplies to General Eisenhower's armies.

There was little change in the situation on the British front at the northern extremity of the line, but Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's forces on the west side of the Maas river were brought under increasingly heavy fire by German artillery between Venlo and Roermond, apparently in expectation of a British attack.

Plane Support Curtailed

Bad weather curtailed fighter-bomber support on the American front in the early part of the day, but 150 Marauder mediums used the "Pathfinder" technique to blast enemy positions without loss. In waves of 30, the Marauders bombed the Nazis in Elsdorf, nine miles north of Duren, and at two other points northwest of Duren.

((The Berlin radio said a bomb heavily damaged the famous Cologne Cathedral during Monday's attack by American planes, piercing the roof and exploding inside the building. There was no report Allied sources that the structure had been hit.)

The Third Parachute division—once a crack outfit—was said to be composed now partly of youths of 16 and 17 who had been given only the briefest training and never had jumped from a plane. Captured German officers and noncoms complained that their troops were ready to quit when they came under artillery fire.

North of Langerwehe, however, the enemy resisted strongly in the villages of Inden and Lamersdorf and counterattacked several times. Most of Lamersdorf was in Yanks hands.

Southeast of Langerwehe and Jungersdorf, American units drove almost a mile into the outskirts of Merode, three and a half miles from Duren.

Canal Bridges Blown Up

North of Erstein the Germans have blown up several canal bridges in an effort to delay the Allied advance. Americans who drove through the central section of the Vosges reached Barr on the edge of the Alsatian plain, about nine miles west of Erstein. When they tried to continue toward Erstein and the Rhine the Germans counter attacked at Gertwiller, just east of Barr, forcing the Americans to withdraw a short distance.

However, the Americans overcame stiff resistance and captured Zellwiller, southeast of Barr and seven miles west of Erstein.

Farther south in the area about seven miles west of Selestat, the Americans reached the villages of Treimbach and Hohwarth in the Giessen valley.

These two advances west of Erstein and Selestat placed these troops within 11 and 16 miles of the Rhine along a 25-mile stretch south of Strasbourg.

The French occupied Niffer, 1½ mile north of Kembs where the Germans hold a bridgehead west of the Rhine south of Mulhouse.

With the AEF

by KENNETH L. DIXON

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WITH THE AEF ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Nov. 24. (Delayed (AP)—There's a rumor in the 216th Field Artillery that its commander, Lt. Col. K. H. Reed of Horton, Kan., has a sense of humor which sometimes is not entirely shared by some of his men.

DIXON

Not long ago he was inspecting a bivouac only a few hundred yards from the German lines and discovered that a group of his artillerymen showed an amazing amount of ingenuity in improvising the comforts of home.

He found one dugout heated with an old stove. Electricity was obtained by tapping the command post generator and desks and shelves had been built in. Entertainment was provided by a telephone wire hook-up to the CP radio. There also was a slightly promitive, but completely hygienic plumbing system. Proudly the men put on the finishing touches to their frontline home under the hill while the colonel watched with parental approval.

"Boys," he said, "I want to compliment you on your skill, ambition and ingenuity. —I also want to tell you that we have received orders to move within an hour."

KINDHEARTED

First Sgt. Donald L. Delaney of Salinas, Kan., is known as a kindhearted leader among the men of headquarters battery, 216th Field Artillery. He is soft-spoken, uses requests instead of sharp orders. He is five feet tall.

BROTHERS MEET

Brother-meets-brother stories are getting to be old stuff—but they still carry a thrill for thousands of guys who continue to hunt for some friend or relative believed to be overseas.

The Borden boys of Paducah, Ky., had not seen each other since Philip visited Robert at Camp Forest, Tenn. Then Phil was drafted and sent to an Arizona camp. It was after Nancy fell that Phil, now a sergeant in the 448th antiaircraft outfit, located the outfit in which Bob now is a Pfc.

REUNION THRILL

Pfc. Cliff Ramsey of Dayton, O., recently had quite a reunion thrill. He was cooking dinner for his gun crew when the Germans cut loose with an artillery barrage. Cliff dived under the nearest tank. Suddenly he realized someone else was under there, too.

"Hi'ya, Cliff," said a voice. It was his half-brother, Pat Miller, whom he had not seen for two years.

QUITE A MEETING

Everybody's getting a kick out of the story about the major and the mountaineer. It seems a rear echelon major visited the front the other day in the 26th division sector. He was one of those officers who ask lots of stiff questions.

When he met the lanky, slow-talking Tennessee hill-country doughboy, he promptly asked his name, outfit, location, and the sort of job he had. The mountain boy seemed slow to answer and the major barked: "What do you do? What do you do?"

"Well, now, sir," said the mountaineer, leaning on his rifle and spitting carefully downwind out of deference to the major's highly polished boots, "well, now, sir, there don't rightly seem to be nothing much anybody can do around here except shoot folks."

Thomas Jefferson wrote his own epitaph, now on his tomb — "Here was buried Thomas Jefferson ,author of the Declaration of American Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom ,and father of the University of Virginia."

Henderson To Boss Occupied Germany

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Leon Henderson, economist and former chief of OPA, is scheduled to leave for London next week with an assignment to handle economic affairs in the American-controlled third of defeated Germany.

With Henderson will go James A. Perkins, an assistant to Lauchlin Currie, acting deputy administrator of the Foreign Economic administration.

Henderson will serve under the chief of the American occupied section of Germany, who presumably will be General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

His appointment has been pending for several weeks.

At the moment it has not been formally completed but is expected to be signed, sealed and delivered in the next few days.

Bank Robber Carries Baby, Takes $3,000

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29. (AP)—A robber who carried a 4-year-old child with a pistol concealed beneath its clothing today held up the Wilshire-Beverly branch of the California bank and escaped with about $3,000.

"Give me $3,000 quick and don't notify anyone or you and the baby will both die," read a note the robber handed J. J. Murray, assistant manager.

Murray complied and the robber escaped in an automobile driven by a woman.

Use Of Antwerp Port May Presage Full Weight Of Three-Way Blows

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Prime Minister Churchill's disclosure that ocean-going shipping is now using the Schelde estuary to Antwerp to supply the north and central sectors of the embattled west front is significant.

SIMPSON

Linked with General Eisenhower's conference with Field Marshal Montgomery, British Army group commander, and with sustained Red Army pressure on the foe in the southeast, opening up the estuary invites speculation that the full weight of an Allied-Russian-East-West knockout blow is about to be loosed.

Reverting to the Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin announcement at Teheran a year ago, it should be recalled that the "timing" of the triple assault projected there was described as a prime factor. That was again emphasized by Stalin in a Russian anniversary address in which he said the planned "jump-offs" for the final joint Russian-Allied attacks to smash Germany had been reached.

Since then a two-pronged Anglo-British attack in the west has developed. Two of the three main military approaches to Berlin and the heart of Germany from the west are being pried open, and the third and most critical is gravely threatened.

American and French troops streaming through the Lorraine gateway are closing a vise on the Saar basin in the center of the front while a French Army to the south mops up west of the upper Rhine. American and British forces in the north are breasting the Meuse and Roer river defenses guarding the Cologne plain, foot by foot expanding and deepening the Aachen breach in the Nazi Seigfried line.

Dutch Corridor May Flare

Only the Dutch corridor leading into Germany from the Allied Arnhem-Nijmegen salient, most critical of all for the foe, is still relatively inactive. There are increasing signs, however, that it is only a lull preceding a new Allied attack.

Free access to Antwerp for heavy sea tonnage has eliminated any winter breakdown of communications supplying the front. Troops of Montgomery's Canadian Army have made their first noted appearance in the Arnhem-Nijmegen salient. The overseas conscription crisis in Canada indicates that major operations are in prospect for Canadian divisions, necessitating heavy reinforcements or replacements.

It takes 6,000 pounds of rag content bond to make enough blueprint paper to draw the plans for one pursuit plane.

District Governor Of Rotary Speaks

Dr. Harris M. Cook of Canyon, governor of the 127th district of Rotary International, spoke on four fundamental ideals which have grown out of community service, in an address Wednesday at a Rotary club luncheon in the Hilton hotel.

These ideals are: That people are important; that the great experiences of the world belong to man; that men can and should rule themselves; that the human mind can be trusted and should be set free.

Dr. Cook said that gold, silver and all other articles of value are valuable because they have a value to mankind. "We believe that all men are created equal and are entitled to equal opportunities," he said. "When you see that great institution, Texas Technological college, your public schools scattered throughout the city, it is evident that you believe that boys and girls are entitled to an education and equal opportunities."

In speaking on the idealism that men can and should rule themselves, Dr. Cook pointed out that we have accepted democracy as a form of government and as a way of life and that mankind should be judge of its own welfare. He added that there should be no higher political authority than the will of the people.

Dr. Cook was introduced by C. A. Bestwick, club president, who presided.

Guests included: R. E. Wertz of Amarillo, W. S. Anglin of Tahoka, Olen L. Fenner of San Angelo, J. C. Ebersole of Dalhart, Quentin Williams of Pampa, L. R. Short of Canadian, Ewell Lawrence of Ralls, Harry Dean of Sweetwater and P. H. Walser of Temple.
