Receipts of cattle today were fairly liberal. Fifty-one cars arrived for the opening of the market, with about 1,900. BEEF STEERS.

The supply of steers today was liberal and seemed to be more than the demand called for.

The market opened in a draggy and unsatisfactory manner. Offerings ran largely from common medium grades, with nothing strictly choice on sale.

Feeder buyers were out looking for a few good quality feeders, but there were not many to be found, and finally the bulk of the supply sold to packers on about a steady basis with the close of last week.

Good to choice fed steers are quoted from $3.50@4.00, medium fed from $3.00@3.50, stockers and feeders from $2.50@3.25, and yearlings from $1.25@2.00.

Choice heavy fed cows are quoted from $2.50@3.25, medium butchers $2.25@2.50, cutters $2.00@2.25, and canners $1.00@2.00.

THE HOG TRADE

Today's Quotations.

Choice sorted	$4 90@5 15
Mixed packers	4 80@5 05
Lights	4 75@4 95
Pigs	3 75@4 50
Stags and roughs	3 50@4 00

Receipts of hogs today were light compared with the run last Monday. Eleven cars were in at the opening of the market, with about 760 head. None were reported, but enough wagon hogs arrived to make total receipts for the day close around 800, against 1,535 for the opening day last week, 315 for the corresponding day last month, and 284 for the corresponding Monday one year ago.

The quality today was good, of both Texas and Territory hogs.

The market Saturday closed strong and higher. One bunch of 274-pound Texas hogs sold late at $5.07½, which was about 10c higher than the opening market.

The demand today was again good, and with favorable reports coming in from other points, trading was active and strong and the supply was weighed up in a short time.

Sales today were generally on a strong to shade higher basis compared with Saturday's close, or 10 to 15 higher than Saturday's opening. The top load sold at $5.10 for 60 Oklahoma corn-fed hogs averaging 269 pounds, with the bulk of sales within a range of from $5.00@5.05.

Choice sorted are quoted from $4.90@5.15, mixed packers $4.80@5.05, light grades $4.75@4.95, pigs from $3.75@4.50, and boars, stags and roughs from $3.50@4.00.

TEXAS HOGS AT $5.07 1-2

SALES LATE SATURDAY AT TOP PRICE OF THE DAY.

Were Raised at the State Penitentiary at Rusk—The State Raising Hogs on a Large Scale.

A car of good hogs came in late Saturday, and, though the market for that day had closed, 40 were sold to Swift & Co. at $5.07½. They averaged 274 lbs. Of the others, 8 of 182 lbs. sold at $4.85, and some pigs and lights, 114 to 138 pounds, at $4.50. This is the highest price paid on this market since Nov. 9. These hogs were raised at the state penitentiary at Rusk. Regarding them, Mr. S. M. Fry of Fort Worth, one of the state penitentiary commissioners, said this morning: "These were well bred hogs, of the weight and quality wanted by the packers, and they brought top prices. We had in a load of hogs in the fall that sold well, but not as well as these, because they were too heavy.

"The state is going into the raising of hogs on a larger scale since it has been found that Texas has a good market for them," added Mr. Fry. "We are raising a good many at the penitentiary at Rusk, but more at the Huntsville penitentiary. These latter find a market at Houston, which is nearer than Fort Worth and the freight rates lower. We are shipping about a car load every month from Huntsville. There is good money in these hogs, and since it has been found that the state can raise them profitably the business has been increased. We raise nothing but the best. The boars used cost $50 each, and it is found in this case that the best blood is most profitable."

The same policy that has been found most profitable at the state institutions will be found just as profitable by farmers and stock raisers: The best is the cheapest. A week ago this paper reported the sale of a car of Texas hogs that averaged 260 pounds at nine months old. Hogs are selling on this market that don't average 200 pounds at a year. The nine-months hogs of 260 pounds sold at $5, or $13 a head. The average half-breed of 200 pounds sells at about $4.50 to $4.70, or $9 to $9.40 a head. It costs more to raise the cheaper hog than the higher priced, because of the longer time required to mature it. In nothing does blood tell more than in hogs.

PRICE OF CATTLE AND BEEF.

Why Beef Prices Do Not Decline at Same Rate as Live Cattle.

Mr. H. A. Judd, manager for Armour & Co. at Fort Worth, discusses in the Dallas News the oft-repeated statement that, in spite of the decline in the price of cattle, the price of meat to the consumer has not been lowered. He shows that, while the price of cattle has declined, and the packer buys for less than he paid a year ago, there has been a great loss to the packer by the decline of by-products. Hides are selling for 3 to 4 cents a pound less than a year ago, oleo stearine for less than half what it brought then, and oleo oil the same. Mr. Judd explains that "the actual cost of the dressed carcass of beef to the packer is arrived at by adding to the cost of the live bullock the expense of slaughtering and handling. To this is credited the value of the offal and the by-products obtained from the carcass, such as hides, oleo fats, etc." Of course, as the value of these by-products declines, the price of the carcass to the retailer is increased because of the smaller amount credited to the by-products. Another item is the increase of wages paid to the laborers who do the work of slaughtering and dressing.

In spite of this condition, there has been a reduction in the price charged by the packers to the butchers. The reduction has been greatest in the cheaper meats. Chucks are now sold at 4 to 4½ cents, that a year ago sold at 7 to 7½ cents. What is said of beef is largely true, also, of pork.

WEST TEXAS RANGES.

Said to be Overstocked, the California Trade Failing.

Dr. F. A. Bray, inspector for the Bureau of Animal Industry at El Paso, has been in Kansas City and reports that the West Texas ranges are overstocked with cattle. One reason the West Texas cattlemen are overstocked, according to Dr. Bray, is that the demand from California for cattle has fallen off sharply. This is due to the drouth there. California is now the principal market for the cattle of West Texas, and the past three years has been taking large quantities of cattle. Four years ago California passed through a severe drouth, and the country was denuded of cattle. It has never fully stocked up yet. The amount of breeding stock there is small, and the cattle supply has never been replenished largely from Western Texas, Old Mexico and New Mexico. The drouth the past season has cut short the pasture and as a result thousands of cattle are still in Western Texas that would have gone to California under normal conditions. Many cattle that have been contracted for movement to California are being held in Western Texas and will have to be held there, and the owners are hustling around for pasture for them.

"The demand from California is mostly for steers," said Dr. Bray. "It is for two classes—beeves and steers for grazing. They don't want cows, it seems. They could buy any quantity of fat cows in Western Texas, but they don't. The presumption is that the people of California demand steer beef. The Philippine trade has materially increased the demand for cattle in California. Then there are small packing houses at different points which consume a good many. The California trade is the salvation of the cattlemen of Western Texas, New Mexico and Arizonia. Prices in California are from $2 to $5 a head higher than at Kansas City for the same class of stuff, and the haul is shorter."

GOING NORTH FOR FINE STOCK.

Texas Cattle Raisers Seeking the Best to be Had.

Kansas City Drovers' Telegram, Jan. 22: H. C. Holloway and C. E. Hicks of Fort Worth, Tex., two of the best known cattle and sheep breeders in the Lone Star state, arrived at the yards late yesterday afternoon and will spend a few days here buying registered sheep and cattle which they will take back to their ranches near that city. Mr. Hicks owns a 10,000-acre ranch in Tarrant county, 12 miles north of Fort Worth, where he has at the present time over 1,000 head of registered cattle, and a large number of sheep.

Speaking of the cattle business in Texas generally, and the central part in particular, Mr. Hicks said: Everything looks very promising with the cattlemen. Of course the prices are low, but the country is in fine shape, and stock is wintering well. Texas is fast undergoing a change from ranches to stock farms. All the big ranches are being sold off and cut up into small stock farms, and grain raising as well as hog raising is very common in almost all parts of the state. The doing away with the ranches is having the effect of bettering the grade of cattle, and all over the state big improvements have been made in their quality. The Texas farmers are raising grain, and are doing more feeding than formerly. With our natural advantages there is no reason why farming and stock raising cannot be combined and carried on successfully."

TREE WORTH A FARM.

In the mountain districts of North Carolina, near Waynesville, a remarkable tree was recently felled. The Charlotte, N. C., correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch says: "This tree has an estimated value of $1,500, and contains 25,000 feet of first-class lumber. It is worth more than the average farm in this section, in which it was cut. A part of the tree has been engaged for exhibition at the St. Louis exposition this year and will be placed among the North Carolina lumber exhibits. The tree is a curly-popular and 12 horses were required to haul away the butt cut, which was 12 feet long. The lowest limb was 80 feet from the ground. The wood will be used as veneering and will be shipped to eastern markets for sale."

CATTLE WANTED TO PASTURE.

Wanted, 8,000 head of Southern cattle to graze the coming season in lots of 300 head or more, on fine grass, where everything gets fat. Will pasture for $2 per head for the season from April 10th to Oct. 1st. Receive and put cattle back on cars. We will pay freight on cattle to pasture for parties desiring same. Pasture located on Santa Fe railroad only 16 hours run to Kansas City. Unload in pasture.

Write or wire at our expense at once.

We also can pasture 3,000 head above quarantine line at above price.

THE 101 LIVE STOCK CO.
Bliss, O. T.

The little town of Hearne, in Robertson county, was well represented on the market today. Among the shippers from that place were J. B. Dunn, J. A. Capps and R. S. Grogan, all of whom had steers, that sold at good prices.

WEATHER REPORT.

Weather Bureau, Fort Worth, Jan. 25.—Local weather forecast: Tonight and Tuesday, rain, turning to snow.

Cold wave; temperature will fall to 20 or 15 degrees above zero.

Tibet Monasteries.

Monasteries of the lamas in Tibet are always perched on the top or steep sides of a hill. They are built in stages, connected by abrupt passages and stairs guarded by Tibetan mastiffs. These dogs are almost as high as a donkey and are so fierce that it goes hard with a stranger who attempts to enter without an attendant lama.

To Clean Diamonds.

To clean diamonds wash them in a lather of soap with a soft brush. With cold water wash off the lather and polish with chamois leather dipped in eau de cologne.

Rings.

In olden times rings were worn by monarchs and rulers alone, but as civilization advanced and women were more chivalrously regarded the ring was given her as the token of high dignity bestowed upon her in the marriage ceremony.

Apples.

When buying apples, choose those that weigh heavily. These are the best, and there is less waste in large ones than in small.

Christmas Beliefs.

There is an old superstition that to be born on Christmas day is to be lucky all one's life, and in Silesia there is a belief that a boy born on Christmas day must be brought up a lawyer or he will become a thief.

The Cocoa Tree.

The cocoa tree in Brazil begins to bear fruit at the end of four years. Trees planted seventy years ago now yield over thirty pounds each.

Cigars.

Light Havana cigars contain less nicotine than those of Porto Rico, and those of Porto Rico less than those of Germany. When one smokes, the nicotine lodges just back of the burning part.

Mexican Thieves.

Mexican "rateros," or pickpockets, are the most adept of their kind in the world, with the possible exception of those in Havana.

Not Dangerous.

Consumers of sweetmeats need not be alarmed when they hear that orthohydroxycinnamicanhydride is used in the confectionery trade. It is but a scientific name for coumarin, the active principle of the Tonkin bean.

Kissing as an Assault.

For picking up and kissing a little boy in the street a Birmingham (England) man has been fined $10 or one month's hard labor for assault.

An Odd Legacy.

Among strange legacies may be classed that of a Vermont man, who left $500 to his church, the income to be used in sweeping the snow off the church pavement and in strewing ashes and sawdust on the slippery places.

Cossacks.

The Cossacks are a peculiarly prominent feature in the Russian military organization. They give their military services for fifteen years in return for which they pay no taxes.

Marine Insurance.

Marine insurance is very old. The earliest voyagers, the Phoenicians, practiced a kind of insurance. The master, before sending his small bark to the edge of the earth, mortgaged her against her return. If she came back he returned the loan with a heavy premium.

The Chinese Boy's Cue.

The happiest time in the life of a Chinese boy is when he commences to grow a cue. Like the American boy's first pair of trousers, it denotes the end of his babyhood.

The Fur Seal.

The fur seal was once a land animal. The baby seals are actually afraid of the water, they would drown if thrown into it and have to learn to swim by repeated efforts. When once they have been taught to swim, however, they soon forget to walk.

Hotel Glass Pantries.

The glass pantries of hotels are in charge of women for the simple reason experience has shown that men smash delicate glassware when they try to cleanse it.

The Monkey.

Its hand and its wonderful intelligence give the monkey advantage over all other lower animals. It cannot well endure cold and temperate climates, and this fact, it is suggested, has prevented the close association with man that would have made the monkey the most useful of domestic animals.

Arab Mourning.

The Arabs express mourning for the dead relative by putting on all the oldest clothes contained in wardrobe. They then wear them usually for six to eight weeks.

Noses.

One of the most brilliant essays on nasology is the one which classes noses not by origin, but by mentality. The aquiline nose, for example, is the sign of goodness, amiability and weakness. By that nose Louis XVI. was led to the direst catastrophies. Let us have commiseration for the nose that is very slightly prominent. It is the muzzle of a sheep and belongs to people who are easily deceived. Distrust the nose with the medium part elongated. That elongation marks the extent of desires and the insatiability of appetites. Look out also for the ferret nose, with its sharp point, always on the scent for secrets. It is the nose of the inquisitor. The devil-may-care nose is slightly turned up at the end. It denotes a character without firmness. But when you see a nose that rises from the depths of the orbits and stands out in bold relief take off your hat. You are in the presence of the nose of a thinker.—Toronto Mail.

Brain Work and Longevity.

In a lecture on longevity delivered before the Royal College of Physicians Sir Hermann Weber, himself an octogenarian, gave official support to the doctrine that brain work does not kill, but rathe, the reverse. A few of his instances were Sophocles, Plato, Galen, Cicero, Moltke, Bismarck, Mommsen and Gladstone, to whom we might add Hobbes, Carlyle, Spencer and Kelvin. The facts are that brain work increases the supply of blood to the nerve cells and promotes their nutrition and health. Mosso, an Italian, laid a man on a delicately balanced table and showed that the head end sank whenever the subject did a mental sum or any other brain work. The increased weight of his head was due to the life giving blood. The truth is that brain work, as such, never killed anybody.—London Chronicle.

Pence and Bones.

A writer in a London newspaper says: "The other day I heard an Englishman defending our system of coinage on the ground that we are the only nation on earth who can say that the system is bone of our bone. For there are 240 bones in the body and 240 pence in the pound; there are 120 bones in the head and trunk and 120 in the limbs and 120 pence in half a sovereign; each limb contains 30 bones, and a half crown contains 30 pence; in the spinal column there are 24 bones and in a florin 24 pence, and as we have 12 ribs on each side, so we have 12 pence in every shilling. See how the proportions of the skeleton of our commerce conform to nature's teaching. No wonder it is vigorous."

The Candle Nut.

The candle nut is a native of the Pacific islands, and the name is derived from the fact that the kernels are so full of oil that when dried they are stuck on reeds and used as candles. The people of Hawaii, after having roasted these nuts and removed the shells, reduce the kernels to a paste, which is flavored with pepper and salt and is said to be a most appetizing dish. The husk of the nut and the gum which exudes from the tree have medicinal values, while the burned shell of the kukui is used to make an indelible ink with which tattooing is done.

Figuring It Out.

"Did the old lady give you anything when you took her trunk upstairs without knockin' the lid off?" inquired the first porter.

"No, but she thanked me kindly."

"Well, kind words will never die," returned the first porter.

"Neither will they buy groceries."—Cleveland Leader.

AMERICANS ATTACKED

Train Run by Them Killed Accidentally a Native.

KOREANS ARE IRATE.

Formed a Mob to Commit Violent Acts, but Efforts Frustrated by United States Marines at Legation In Seoul.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The state department received official information of an attack Sunday by a mob of native Koreans on an electric car in Korea, the line being owned by Americans, because of the fact that it had killed a Korean. The news came in the following cablegram, received from Minister Allen, at Seoul:

"Sunday morning on the electric railway, which is the property of American citizens, a Korean was accidentally and unavoidably killed. Thereupon a mob of natives attacked and partially destroyed the car. The operators of the car would have been injured had it not been for the presence of mind and action of our guard, and a serious riot would have occurred."

Although there have been previous reports of disturbances in Korea, this is the first mob attack made thus far on the property of Americans. The railroad is owned and operated by Americans, H. E. Bostwick of San Francisco and H. Collbran being its principal officers. It runs through the heart of Seoul, the Korean capital.

The guard which made the rescue came from the American legation. It consists of 100 marines, who were sent there some time ago to be on hand for the protection of Americans.

ALARMING REPORTS.

They Are Not Believed, However, by Officials at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—Reports of an alarming nature concerning the situation there continue to pour out of the far east. These include the statement that the Japanese are landing an army at Ma-Sam-Pho, Korea and that 3,000 Russian troops are crossing the Yalu river. The reported dispatch of a Chinese army of soldiers trained by European officers beyond the great wall to preserve order in Manchuria cannot be confirmed here, and the reports of the Japanese at Ma-Sam-Pho and the Russians at the Yalu are discredited at the foreign office and by M. Kurino, the Japanese Minister to Russia.

ACTUAL PRACTICE

Facts Accumulated and Approved Are to Be Tested.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The secretary of agriculture has approved the plans for the cotton boll weevil investigation in the southwest, for which a special appropriation of $500,000 has been made available. Secretary Wilson believes that the best methods for meeting the ravages caused by the boll weevil will be put into actual practice the facts which have been accumulated by the department during the last two years in the matter of improving cultural conditions, the planting of early maturing varieties of cotton, substitution of other crops. The plans approved were submitted by Dr. P. T. Galloway, the chief of the bureau of plant industry, and Dr. Howard, the chief of the division of entomology.

MOSTLY BY WATER.

Main Damage Done In Temple Fire Was Flooding of Floors.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—The fire in the Masonic temple was caused by an explosion in the X-ray apparatus manufactory of R. Friedlander & Co. Flames shot through piles of excelsior and lumber used in packing and over $10,000 worth of vacuum tubes burnt with a loud detonation. From the nineteenth story several men swung out of the frail opening on ladders and started downward toward safety. A class in shorthand, twenty in number, nearly all girls, marched down the stairs from the fourth story like soldiers. Loss is principally through water and is about $25,000.

VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL.

Mrs. Bechtel Declared Not Guilty of Being an Accessory.

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 25.—After a trial lasting nine days Mrs. Catherine Bechtel, charged with being an accessory to the murder of her daughter, Mabel, was acquitted. It took the jury but five minutes to render a verdict. Mrs. Beithel is yet to be tried as principal and her three children as accessories. These trials come up at the April term, but the district attorney says that unless new evidence is discovered he will not press the cases. When the verdict was read, Mrs. Bechtel wept, and her overjoyed children and friends gathered about her.

AWFUL EXPLOSION.

One Man Was Blown to Atoms by Blowup of Nitroglycerin.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 25.—Three hundred pounds of nitroglycerin exploded here. An unknown man was blown to pieces. A small piece of flesh from the bottom of a foot has been found. Two horses belonging to the man, thirty feet off, were not killed, but one had a piece of timber driven into its head. Hundreds of windows were broken. An oak tree three feet thick was blown fifty yards. The only eye witness of the explosion says the dead man was carrying the explosive from a wagon to the magazine.

Large Pig Iron Sale.

Jefferson, Tex., Jan. 25.—The Jefferson Iron company closed a sale of 2000 tons of pig iron to Colorado parties. This is a remarkably large sale.

PROMPT SHIPMENTS.

World's Fair Management Wishes Them Sent Soon.

St. Louis, Jan. 25.—The Louisiana Purchase Exposition company now stands ready, and is waiting for the full and general installation of exhibits. The point has been reached where the management of the exposition is no longer occupied with the rapid advancement toward completion of the buildings, but instead, it now lays particular stress upon the importance of the speedy shipment of exhibits especially those assmebled by domestic exhibitors.

Officials of the exposition make the statement to the Associated Press that the one thing of paramount importance to insure the anticipated successful and auspicious opening of the World's fair is the immediate commencement by domestic exhibitors to ship their cars forward just as rapidly as can be done.

Owing to the unprecedented participation by both foreign and domestic exhibitors, vast amounts of exhibits have been, and now are, in the course of arrangement and collection. The time for the opening of the exposition is rapidly approaching, but apparently the knowledge of the fact is not causing the shipment of exhibits to be rushed forward with the promptness an dispatch that is absolutely essential to insure rapid delivery of the cars to the World's fair site and to avoid possible congestion in the handling of the cars after they have reached St. Louis.

The World's fair management has devoted more than ordinary attention to preparation for the handling of cars, and the arrangements are now completed. Adequate railroad facilities are ready, the warehouses have all been erected and all the buildings are in such a state of completion that installation of exhibits can be commenced immediately.

What the management now most ardently desires is the prompt shipment of exhibits from the different parts of the country to begin immediately. Otherwise, if there be delay, congestion in traffic handling after St. Louis is reached, is almost an assured condition.

It is estimated that from 25,000 to 30,000 cars of domestic exhibits alone will reach St. Louis during the last of March and the fore part of April. As the World's fair opens on April 30 it will be difficult to handle this enormous influx of foreign traffic at the last moment.

After being wounded, Francis staggered back into the mill office and rung up the police.

S. T. Newman, the night watchman, heard the call for help, and ran in while Francis was at the phone and eased him into a chair. The wounded man, who was in the throes of death, was unable to tell who cut him. He died within ten minutes, leaving the matter shrouded in mystery.

FEW RED HAIRS.

These Were Found In the Hands of the Murdered Indiana Lady

Bedford, Ind., Jan. 25.—Search for the murderer of Miss Sarah Schaefer brought no definite results up to Saturday noon. A few red hairs were found clutched in the hands of the dead girl. They are believed to have been torn from the mustache of her murderer. They form the only clew. One arrest has been made of a red mustached man, who looked as though he had been in a struggle, but he easily proved his innocence and was released. Hairs found in the dead girl's hand are from a white man. A bloody fire brick was found near the body. It was probably used to kill the girl. The parents of the victim arrived here from Elkhart.

At Cincinnati Saturday.

Cincinnati, Jan. 25.—The sudden fall in temperature Friday did much to remove apprehension of a flood. The river here has fallen and is almost clear of ice. At Portsmouth the river was still ten feet lower Saturday than here, and while there has been a phenomenal rise at Pittsburg, there was no corresponding inflow from the Kanawha another southern tributaries. This condition makes it reasonably certain that there will be no disastrous flood on this part of the Ohio river.

Inquisitive Birds.

Of the birds undoubtedly the blue jays have the most inquisitiveness and they are the most noisy in expressing it, although crows will hold a close second place, if not fully the equal. Below the jays screeched and whistled and called—a confusion of all the sounds of jaydom—near my home. More than a dozen darted into a small evergreen tree on the lawn. People came from several houses in the vicinity, all curious to know what was the matter with the birds. It seemed to be a "want to know" on both sides. The jays had discovered a cat walking meekly along by the fence in the low shrubbery near and under the spruce tree. There was no nest in the vicinity, and, so far as could be ascertained, the cat had not attacked the jays. But what a pandemonium of jay jargon over one meek looking, quiet cat! The jays outdid themselves and called out nearly all the occupants of the many houses on that street.—St. Nicholas.

Poisons.

Snake poison would kill the strongest man if the smallest possible drop of it were injected into his veins or laid on a cut finger or chapped lip. But the smallest child might drink a teaspoonful—probably a glassful—without suffering the least injury. The same is true of most of the poisons savages inject into their arrows, and you can suck the dangerous wound with impunity.

Arsenic eaters become so accustomed to the use of this drug that one of them could eat as much of it in a week as would kill a troop of cavalry, horses and all. If a man took a dose of lunar caustic and his wife a dose of hydrochloric acid they would be subjects for a coroner's inquest in a very short time. But if either the man or the woman took both doses together the result would hardly be different from that of taking so much strawberries and cream. If two men each took a small quantity of hemlock one might drop dead, if he had a fatty heart, and the other feel only a slight inconvenience, if his heart was all right.

Newton's Blue.

It is well known that under the action of gravity the water composing such a thin shell as a soap bubble tends to run down on all sides, so that the walls of the bubble grow thin at the top and thicken toward the bottom. After a time the bubble becomes so thin at the top that further flow of water from this point can hardly take place, and finally the bubble bursts. But before this last stage is reached a degree of thinness in the walls of the bubble is attained which causes it to glow with brilliant iridescent colors. Newton noticed that on top of the thin bubble illuminated by white sky light a black spot is formed. With increase of thickness downward from this point on all sides, a red band next appears; then a blue one; then again red and blue, red and blue, and so on, the colors showing more extremes of red and purple in the higher orders. This blue band which first expands outward from the black spot at the top and descends slowly with the subsidence of the water Newton called the "blue of the first order," and, although somewhat dingy, he judged it to be of the same tint as the blue of the sky.—T. Hicks—I suppose you heard that our house was robbed?

Wicks—Yes. I understand the way the thieves ransacked the place simply beggared description.

Hicks—Not only that, but it very nearly beggared me.—Exchange.

A KISS IN THE DARK

[Original.]

"It is a serious matter, Sarah, the attentions of this young Cameron to Carrie. He's as wild as a hawk."

"What makes you think so?" asked the wife.

"It's rather what I hear than what I see. They say he flits from one girl to another like a honeybee. Now, this young Lamkie is different. He'll soon have graduated from the Theological seminary and will settle down to his church. He means business. The other fellow is just amusing himself."

"Well, I don't know. Cameron is a sprightly young fellow, and I don't think there's any bad in him."

The rivals were certainly very different. Evan Cameron was a whole souled, hail fellow well met young man who usually made himself out much worse than he was. The consequence was that every one except Carrie Wood's father considered him a trifle better than he was. Farnam Lamkie looked with horror on all that was not positively righteous, consequently some people regarded him not quite so good as he pretended. However, both young men were unexceptional characters, and either would have made a good husband for Carrie Wood. Carrie preferred Cameron, but her father was so bitterly opposed to him that she dare not encourage him.

Evan was bright enough to see which way the wind blew. Indeed he was informed by a friend who was intimate with the Woods that Mr. Wood considered him a butterfly and Lamkie a man to be greatly esteemed. Evan was not one to rest content in his rival's appearing so much better than himself and set his wits to work to invent some method of getting ahead of the immaculate theolog. The problem was too difficult to be solved till opportunity came to his rescue. It happened in this wise:

Mr. and Mrs. Wood invited their own and their daughter's friends to an evening's entertainment, wherein a lecturer accompanied his discourse with stereopticon views, the subject being a trip to the Holy Land. Mr. Lamkie and Mr. Cameron were both present, Mr. Lamkie in high feather, the occasion being in his line. As to Mr. Cameron, with his usual self disapprobation, he remarked that he thought he would appreciate better a trip in the other direction. Before the arrival of either Miss Wood had listened to a lecture from her father upon Mr. Lamkie's excellence and Mr. Cameron's shortcomings. Mr. Lamkie, feeling that he could make himself interesting to the young lady of his choice by certain notes and comments as the description of the Holy Land proceeded, appropriated her early in the evening, taking a seat by her when the party were assembled in the large drawing room awaiting the appearance of the lecturer. In deference to her guests Miss Wood selected a seat farthest in the rear and at the left of the line. Mr. Cameron stood leaning against the wall on the opposite side of the room and near the front.

The evening was nearly spent, the lecturer was approaching Jerusalem and the end of his discourse, when something gave way in the stereopticon, and even that light which was permitted to fall only on the screen was suddenly extinguished. In ten seconds after the accident there was heard proceeding from the identical spot where Miss Wood and the young theolog were sitting a kiss. It was not a brotherly nor a sisterly nor a filial kiss. It was not a short kiss, nor was it very long, but there was in it a great deal of body—a kiss to set the young pairs of lovers in the room tingling. Mr. Wood on perceiving the accident to the stereopticon rushed to the electric button and turned on the light. But half a minute had elapsed before he succeeded in doing this. The sudden illumination revealed every person's head in the room turned toward the guilty couple. Mr. Lamkie was scarlet, and Miss Wood was rosy red. Mr. Cameron was observed standing in the position he had occupied when the lecture began and was the only person in the room who had the good taste to refrain from staring at the much observed couple.

The guests were shocked. Mr. Wood was furious and was inclined to order the offender from the house. That offender took the first opportunity to go to the host and hastened to assert his innocence. He was not believed by Mr. Wood, who turned his back upon him. Miss Carrie tried to laugh the matter off, while Cameron magnanimously asserted that any man sitting by so lovely a girl in the dark who didn't kiss her was a fool.

Mr. Lamkie after this episode was not in a position to press his suit for the hand of Miss Wood. He did not dare be seen with her for fear of exciting comment; indeed it called a blush to his face the moment he came into her presence when others were about. She manifested no displeasure with him, but this did not save him from being criticised for conduct at least unbecoming to the cloth. It was not remarkable that his rival, having the preference of the girl and since the disagreeable incident of her father—new converts are always most enthusiastic—should succeed in carrying all before him. There was a magnificent wedding, but Lamkie, a newly made clergyman, did not attend. Indeed his friendly relations with the bride were only restored by the persistence of the husband, who confessed to every one but the man implicated that it was he who had darted from one side of the room to the other, given the smack and barely got back to his position when the lights were turned on.

"But," he would add in conclusion, "what can be expected from such a disreputable character as myself?"

THE MODERN NOTE.

It Is Not Sentiment, but Bravery With a Dash of Humor.

According to the modern notion, a man should be something of an artist in life. He should at least appear to play his part easily, with dash and gusto, like the acrobat who performs each dangerous feat smiling. This is la panache, the feather in the cap of courage—bravery with humor added.

It is the spirit in which Lungtungpen was taken, in which Cyrano composed his ballade while he fought a duel, for Cyrano and Alan Breck, no less than Mulvaney and Sherlock Holmes, are very modern heroes.

Stevenson's whole life was one long devotion to this ideal. He carried his ill health and penury bravely and wittily into far corners of the earth through many strange adventures. As he wrote to William Archer: "The medicine bottles on my chimney and the blood on my handkerchief are accidents. They do not exist in my prospect."

The melodramatic gloom of Byron, the lachrymose pathos of Dickens and the shallow sentimentality of Thackeray touch the source of our tears less surely than the sheer gay heartedness and courage in the face of disease, difficulty or danger. This is the modern note. A clever woman told me that every young man of her acquaintance when he reached a certain degree of intimacy, quoted these lines of Henley's:

Under the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody, but unbowed.

—Claude Bragdon in Reader.

WAYS OF THE MAGPIE.

The Bird Is Sociable, Secretive and Full of Mischief.

The magpie has the same sort of sociability, the same secretiveness, the same thirst for education—of a certain kind—the same inherent and ineradicable love of mischief as has that very versatile bird the raven. Not that in intellect and strength of character she is in any way equal to the raven. Fun she has in abundance, but hardly humor. Conscious humor, that high and rare gift of man which interpenetrates and colors everything in life, is, I think, possessed in germ by the raven and the raven alone. You see it in his eye, in the pose of his head, in his walk, in every movement of his body. The eye of the magpie is, like the wit of Dickens, always on the move, nervous, excitable, glittering, scintillating. The eye of the raven is like the humor of Goldsmith. It has a faraway look, it dreams, it thinks, "It bodes and it bodes," it all but smiles. The magpie will pick up many words, or even sentences, and the old superstition that she will only talk of talk well if her tongue is slit with a thin and sharp silver sixpence died a natural death about the time that the coins of the realm had to be "milled" and so were rendered unsuitable for so stupidly cruel an operation.—R. Bosworth Smith in Nineteenth Century.

What She Meant.

"Didn't I hear your wife refer to you as the human mince pie?" said the curious person.

"Yes," answered Mr. Sirius Barker.

"Is that a compliment"

"Not exactly. She means that I never agree with anybody."—Washington Star.

As Usual.

"When I looked at this picture last week I failed to observe those goats down in the corner."

"Probably they butted in since then."—Kansas City Journal.

The Time to Think.

Clara—I suppose I ought to stop and think before I accept him.

Maud—Oh, no. You'll have plenty of time to do that afterward.—Detroit Free Press.

ARMY AND NAVY MEN

List of Reserves at Port Arthur Is Ordered Prepared.

FLEET IS IN HARBOR

Admiralty Authorities Decline to Define the Rights of Neutral Ships Bound For Japan, but Will Move Non-Combatants.

Port Arthur, Jan. 25.—After a conference of heads of all departments the Manchurian administration issued orders that list of every available army and navy reserve man in Manchuria be drawn up, as well as a list of those indispensable for civil administration, which it is impossible to send to the front. It is claimed the reserves will number 80,000 men.

The bulk of the Port Arthur fleet is stationed just outside the mouth of the harbor. Naval and military stores in unusual quantities are being bought on condition of immediate delivery. Admiralty authorities, in answering inquiries on the part of ship owners, decline to define rights of neutral ships bound for Japan. Shipping rates advanced 150 per cent during the last fortnight, otherwise traffic of foreign ships, especially in Japanese coal, which is obtained by indirect purchase, continues normal. Shipping companies, however, are preparing to withdraw from here. Authorities are considering the question of removing non-combatants, for whose transportation ships are in readiness.

Owing to disorder in the native city here among coolies because of government works having been stopped large guards occupy all the streets nightly.

NO CONFIRMATION.

When Japan Is Ready to Take Action She Will Announce It.

London, Jan. 25.—There is no confirmation here of reports that Japan has occupied Masampho. Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister, not only discredited that report, but said the Japanese government had previously decided not to take any half measures or steps which might be construed as being prejudicial to negotiations so long as they are proceeding. "When Japan odecides to take action," he added, "she will announce it frankly to Russia and the rest of the world." According to Baron Hayasshi thte situation is unchanged. He continues to take the gloomiest view of the situation.

TAFT ARRIVES.

Former Governor of Philippines Lands at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Jan. 25.—Former Governor Taft of the Philippines, arrived on the steamer Koren. With him were Mrs. Taft, their two children, Fred Carpenter, his secretary, and Judge Wolfley, attorney general of the Philippines, who is traveling with Governor Taft's party on his way home on leave of absence.

The governor was met by a number of representative army and navy men and civil officials on the tug Golden Gate, to which the party were transferred after the Koren reached the quarantine station. The tug carried the passengers to Oakland Mole, where Governor Taft boarded an eastern overland train for Washington. On arriving at the capital he will assume his duties as secretary of war.

WATERS HIGH.

Portions of Pittsburg and Adjacent Cities Are Submerged.

Pittsburg, Jan. 25.—Damage by the flood in and around Pittsburg was estimated Saturday as probably reaching, before it was over, $1,000,000. A passenger train on the West Pennsylvania railroad was caught by the rising water of the Allegheny river at Glassmore and the passengers taken off by skiffs, the work of rescue lasting an hour. Tracks from Tarentum to Springdale was under water and much damage done by ice.

In Allegheny the entire section south of South Avenue Robinson street and extending from Grand avenue to Pine street was submerged from two to six feet. Portions of the Fourth and Eighth wards were also flooded. An extra police force patrolled this district in skiffs to protect residents and minister to their needs.

LIEUTENANT SLAIN.

Two Other Soldiers Badly Wounded While Out Scouting.

Manila, Jan. 25.—A report has been received from Mindanao to the effect that Lieutenant Campbell W. Flake has been killed and Lieutenant William E. Roberts and Private Foy badly wounded when out on a scouting expedition against unfriendly Moros. All of them belonged to the Twenty-second Infantry.

PUGILIST'S HARD LUCK.

Knocked Out, Arrested and Then Robbed of Much Cash.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Joe Choynski, recently knocked out by "Kid" Carter in Boston, and afterwards arrested on the charge of prize fighting, has arrived here, accompanied by his wife. Soon after leaving the Illinois Central station a man grabbed Mrs. Choynski's satchel containing $150, which the pugilist was carrying, and ran away. Choynski reported the robbery to the police.

Schooner Wrecked.

New York, Jan. 25.—The four-masted schooner Augustus Hunt, Captain Blair, from Norfolk, Jan. 18, for Boston, is wrecked off West Hampton, L. I.

Two of the crew were saved, but fifteen others were lost, bodies being washed from the wreck.

TEMPLE ON FIRE.

Blaze In Twenty-Story Masonic Sky-Scraper at Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Fire broke out Saturday afternoon in the Masonic temple, the twenty-story sky-scraper, one square east of the Iroquois theatre. Owing to the fact that upwards of 2000 people occupy offices and stores in the giant structure, the fire caused much excitement. The series of elevators surrounding the rotunda in the center of the building continued to run while smoke and flames issue from windows of the fourth-story, where the fire originated. People were removed from the upper floors as rapidly as possible. Great crowds of spectators surrounded the temple.

Firemen were summoned by an alarm automatically sent from the room in which the fire began. They quickly made connections with the stationary stand-pipe in the building. Immediately tons of water flooded the floors where the smoke and blaze were the thickest.

The danger from the flames was increased by the suspected presence of a quantity of chemicals, which occupants declared were stored near the place where the flames originated. Occupants of the building were warned by suffocating clouds of smoke that rose through the many-storied rotunda and penetrated every corridor. They lost no time in making efforts to get out. Guards were stationed at each elevator landing on every floor and the panic-stricken people hurried from the building.

The origin of the fire was an explosion of chemicals in a doctor's office on the fifth floor. Flames followed the explosion and quickly spread to the floors above. Men and women rushed wildly for the stairs and elevators.

Within the building elevator men by running their machines without cessation sought to still the panic of the hundreds who were seeking to escape. From the top floor down the carriers were jammed with passengers. A number of women fainted in the cars. The men for the most part retained their senses. The elevator men stuck to their work like heroes until it was said that every person was out of the building.

The fire was out within one hour. A number of persons were injured. R. Friendlander, in whose suite the fire originated, was found unconscious on the floor.

FORAKER CALLED.

Ohio Senator and President Confer at the White House.

Washington, Jan. 25.—A brief conference was held at the white house between the president and Senator Foraker. The senator returned from a sojourn of several days in Ohio, where he conferred personally and by letter with many of his friends regarding the political situation. It was to inform the president of the result of his observations that he called on him.

It seems probable at this time that Senator Foraker will precipitate a contest in Ohio over the selection of delegates to the Chicago convention. Many close friends of the president believe that nothing will be gained by such a contest. Efforts are being made now to bring Senators Hanna and Foraker together in the selection of Ohio's national delegates. It is said there is no disposition to attempt to relegate Senator Foraker to the rear if he desires to go to the Chicago convention as a delegate at large, provided that no contest which might imperil the integrity of the Republican organization in the state is made.

That the president will not permit himself to be dragged into any factional trouble, either in Ohio or any other state, is fully understood by Senator Foraker.

To Investigate.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Senate committee on privileges and elections has determined to enter upon an investigation into the charges made against Senator Smoot in connection with the demand for his expulsion from the senate. It has authorized Senator Burrows to present the resolution to the senate permitting the committee to send for witnesses and documents.

Journalist Found Dead.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 25.—Harry Depaine, who has held positions on several southern newspapers, was found dead on Fifth street. Death is supposed to have resulted from a hemorrhage.

Death of Judge Jones.

St. Louis, Jan. 25.—Judge Williams C. Jones, for fifty years a resident of St. Louis, at one time judge of the criminal court, and recently president of the Kentucky society, died at his home here.

Discussion at an End.

Manila, Jan. 25.—Public discussion on the supplemental coinage act has been closed. It is probable that immediate action will be taken by the commission to extend the time until September next before imposing the tax penalizing Mexican and Spanish Filipino currency.

To Restore Leather Bindings.

To restore the leather bindings of books wash them first very lightly and carefully with clean warm water in which a tiny piece of soda has been dissolved, in order to free the leather from grease; then wash with clear water to remove the soda, and dry. Dissolve a bit of gum arabic the size of a small bean in a teaspoonful of water and beat it up with a teaspoonful of the white of an egg. With a bit of sponge go lightly over the leather with this glair and let it dry.

Should the glair froth up on the leather, as it is very likely to do if there is much fool work on the book, dab it until it subsides with the palm of the hand or with the sponge squeezed as dry as possible.

Her Husband's Male Friends.

One of the most complicated duties of a wife is the shuffling off of her husband's male friends, says the Ladies' Field. Fifty per cent can go at once, for half a man's bachelor associates are, according to his wife, not fit for polite society, either because they have no manners or because they wear the wrong sort of collars. Ten per cent she may genuinely dislike, or possibly they may not take to her. Some of the rest are on the borderland of toleration, but most of them have a knack of dropping off by slow degrees. Possibly this is the inward and spiritual meaning of the farewell bachelors' dinner most intending bridegrooms give, though they never realize it at the time.

The Lion Didn't Roar.

It is related that Pinnow, the faithful servant and personal valet of Prince Bismarck, once trod on his master's gouty foot. Instead of swearing at him or even declaring he was a clumsy fool, Bismarck, noticing that Pinnow himself was frightened, said: "Consider yourself honored. No other person, my dear Pinnow, not even the kaiser himself, would have been suffered to tread on my corns."

Three Men.

There are three sorts of men in the world—three, and no more. And of women only one. There are happy men and there are knaves and fools. Hybrids I don't count. And to my mind knaves and fools are very much alike.—"Love and Mr. Lewisham."

A Scotch Sentence.

Lord Braxfield admitted the abilities of a criminal who was undoubtedly an accomplished murderer, for the judge said, "I're a clever chiel, but y'll be nane the waur of a hanging, my man."—Hard Scotch.

His Disappearing Pulse.

"My!" exclaimed the doctor. "You've hardly any pulse today!"

"Well, don't you remember, doctor," replied the patient, "you took it when you were here yesterday?"—Yonkers Statesman.

The Useful Sunflower.

It is a common joke to call inferior cigars "cabbage leaves," but, as a matter of fact, some very good "weeds" are made from the leaves of the sunflower. These leaves can also be smoked in the place of tobacco, forming quite a passable substitute.

The stalks and leaves make excellent food for various animals, while the former can also be employed as fuel. Sunflower cake is made from the seeds of this useful plant after the oil has been extracted, this oil being very nearly equal to olive oil and used in cooking. The seeds not only serve as food for cattle; they are mashed and kneaded into bread by the poor peasants of certain parts of Russia, and they find it very palatable.

Potash is obtained from the ash of the stalks. The propertion is about one-third of potash to the total ash left after burning. A yellow dye is made from the flower of the plant. The fiber can be worked into a silk material.

When Two Rainbows Are Seen.

When two rainbows are sometimes seen at once, one outside the other, the inner or primary bow, as it is called, is always the brighter, and the red band of color is always on its outside. The outer or secondary bow is much fainter in color, and the red band is always on its inside. This is because in the primary bow the sun's rays are only reflected once, while in the secondary bow they are reflected twice, which makes them fainter in color and turns them upside down. In one rainbow we see the rays of the sun entering the raindrops at the top and reflected to the eye from the bottom, while in the other we see the rays entering the raindrops at the bottom and reflected from the top, whence they reach the eye.
