POLAR DIRIGIBLE BATTLES STORM

French War Ace Pilots Rescue Plane To Greenly Island

BREMEN JOINED IN NORTHLAND BY CANADIANS

Dr. Luis Cuisiner And "Duke" Schiller At Lonely Isle

STEAMER NEAR GOAL

Irishman Hopes to Reach New York in Few Days, He Says

By The Associated Press

A former pilot in the French air service during the World war, apparently has won the race to be the first to the relief of the ice-blocked German-Irish crew of the monoplane Bremen at Greenly Island.

Dr. Luis Cuisiner, flying a Canadian transcontinental plane, and accompanied by Charles A. (Duke) Schiller, landed at the island Sunday night after a flight from Seven Islands, Quebec.

Another brief message that filtered through to the Canadian press announced that the crew of the monoplane were making satisfactory repairs and that the plane was expected to "leave under its own power shortly." The source of the message was not given and in Quebec, where the message was received, belief was expressed that "shortly" might mean in a day or two, in view of reported damage to the ship in landing.

Meanwhile the Canadian government steamer Montcalm reported that it had been blocked temporarily by ice in its efforts to reach the fliers. A huge ice field and ice piling above the deck on one side of the ship made it necessary to seek a secure position last night. The ship's captain said further effort would be made today to break through, although his message to the Dominion Radio department said hope of reaching the fliers depended largely on a change of wind to a northwesterly direction. Such a change, he believes, would open up a passage.

IRISHMAN RATHER OPTIMISTIC—

WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP)—Without stating how the journey was to be negotiated Captain James Fitzmaurice of the German plane Bremen has advised the Irish Free State minister here that he expects to be in New York within a few days.

Minister Smiddy received this message from Captain Fitzmaurice dated April 14, and timed 7:30 p. m.:

"By God's grace east to west Atlantic flight at last accomplished. Am happy in thought that it brings credit and honor to our native land. My German comrades, Koehl and Hunefeld join me in sending you greetings from 'Erin.' Hope to reach New York in a few days."

Ship's Message.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 15. (UP)—The S. S. Montcalm, going to the aid of the three stranded Bremen flyers, reported tonight that it was within 60 miles of Greenly island.

The message from the Montcalm was picked up by Stewart Davis of this city, amateur radio operator of station 1-HA, at 8:45 p. m. tonight. It read as follows:

"The Montcalm reports tonight that it is within 60 miles of the Bremen and is expecting to be at their position late tomorrow afternoon."

Many London Notables Included in Imposing Lineup Of 633 Cases Pending Before British Divorce Court

By ROBERT J. PREW
Universal Service

LONDON, April 15.—The British divorce mill will begin grinding again this week when as many as 633 cases, of which 494 are undefended, will be tackled in the London courts, and some 2,000 others in the county Assize courts throughout the country.

Women plaintiffs outnumber the men two to one.

One of the most interesting actions in London is that of Lord Chruston, who is seeking to divorce the former Denise Orme, a well known actress. Their beautiful daughter, Joan, married into the peerage only recently.

Agatha Christie, the famous novelist whose mysterious disappearance two years ago startled England, is seeking a divorce also.

Early this week Lord Merrivale, president of the divorce court, is expected to explain his recent decision not to accept hotel bills as evidence of misconduct.

The court recently became so lax that decrees were freely granted merely on the presentation of a letter from the husband to the wife stating that he was not returning home, plus a hotel bill showing a room booked for two. Lord Merrivale then stepped in with the pronouncement that henceforth the courts would require more convincing evidence of misbehavior on the part of the respondent.

CRASH FATAL TO WICHITAN

Former Resident Here Killed in California

Word was received here Sunday morning of the accidental death of Dewey S. McClellan of Santa Ana, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McClellan, 1408 Burnett street.

First reports received did not give the particulars of the fatal accident however, during the day it was learned by long distance that Mr. McClellan's car had been crowded off a highway and turned over. He did not regain consciousness from the injuries sustained. With him at the time of the accident were his wife and his sister-in-law, Miss Etta Wallace, of Oceanside. His companions were not injured.

Dewey or "Dude" as he was better known in Wichita Falls, was born and reared in this city. During the war he enlisted in the navy and was stationed at San Diego, Calif. At the expiration of his enlistment he made his residence in Oceanside and there met and married Miss Beulah Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wallace, pioneer residents of Oceanside. Later he was located at San Juan Capistrano, becoming affiliated with the Standard Oil company. His place of residence, however, since 1926 has been at Santa Ana.

Besides his wife and one son, Dewey Jr., aged seven, he is survived by his parents, three brothers, W. W. and A. H. McClellan, of Wichita Falls, and J. J. McClellan of Longbeach, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. R. A. Weese, Oceanside, Calif., and Mrs. R. O. Caldwell, Wichita Falls.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced but it is understood that burial will probably be at Oceanside Wednesday or Thursday.

"Wild Party" Ends With Pair Injured and One in Jail

LOS ANGELES, April 15. (US)—Police are investigating an asserted "wild party" at which Vaughanie Christine, 18, fell from a third story window and James Parker, 23, suffered a skull fracture which may cause his death.

Miss Christine, blonde and pretty, suffered no apparent injury in her fall. She is under observation for possible internal injuries.

Jocelyn Blacklin, 24, clothes model, suffered a black eye, police said. Her eyes were declared the most beautiful in Southern California in a contest conducted by the Paintors and Sculptors club recently.

Lyle Moody, his right eye closed, was held on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with Parker's injuries. The other persons were held as material witnesses.

Police said that they had heard conflicting stories of the party but it was clear a big fight had occurred. According to one account, trouble started when Parker declared someone had stolen $1000 from him.

Officers said Moody admitted striking Parker with a smoking stand after the latter had "beaten him up."

Miss Christine had fallen from the window when she leaned out for fresh air, Miss Blacklin told police.

Vernon, reached the room in response to the frantic cries of Mrs. Bailey, the woman's clothes were burned completely from her body and she was unconscious.

Mrs. Bailey came here from Tyler a few weeks ago to visit her daughter. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon.

OKLAHOMA AND IOWA UPSETS

Sooner State Was Lined Up For Jim Reed Column

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 15. — Although Southern politicians opposed to Smith are not yet ready to admit defeat openly, they have begun to say privately that they see little likelihood of preventing his nomination now.

Their morale has suffered from the victories which Smith workers claim in Iowa and Oklahoma. Of the two the Oklahoma victory is regarded as the more significant because Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was expected to get the delegation. His friends are still claiming it. However, Oklahoma politicians here opposed to Smith concede the full delegation to him under the unit rule. A Roman Catholic was elected democratic national committeeman and the Smith workers are admitted to be in full control. This is a state that is not only dry but in which the klan has been active in past years.

California Pivot

The pivotal test for Smith will be California, where in the primary May 1, he is opposed by Senator Walsh of Montana behind whom William G. McAdoo is attempting to rally his old 1924 organization, and by Senator Reed of Missouri. If the result is decisively in favor of Smith, his nomination will be regarded by most democratic leaders as inevitable, some Southern senators said today.

Even pending that test some of them see such a strong drift that they have little expectation it will be stopped. One dry Southern senator, who insists he will never be reconciled to Smith as his personal candidate, said that the nomination seemed probable. He said it had been a surprise to him and he explained it on several grounds.

First, he said, there had been no real intensive organized and properly financed campaign against Smith. The opposition to him therefore had not been made effective in the selection of delegates; the drys could not agree upon any one candidate to lead the opposition and the favorite son strategy which was adopted as an alternative has been unsuccessful, in his opinion.

Religion Left Out

Though he is one of the most uncompromising drys in the Senate, he takes some consolation in believing that Smith's progress is not wet progress. He says that Smith forces have not pressed the wet issue as had been expected some months ago, and he predicted that if Smith is nominated his first act would be to make a strong pledge to enforce prohibition. He also believes that religion had not played the part that some had expected.

His reactions are significant in that they are believed to be typi-

Snow, sheriff of Willacy county, said when notified that a mountain lion he caught several days ago near Raymondville had been killed by another lion at the Harlingen zoo, where Snow's animal was being kept.

The dead beast had been caught by Snow and his brother, Robert, about 30 miles northeast of Raymondville on the King ranch. They also captured a small lion. The large lion had been placed in a cage at the Harlingen zoo with another lion which had been there for several weeks.

RECORD VOICE OVER TELEPHONE

Successful telephonic recording of a phonograph, accomplished when Delores Del Rio, movie star, sang from her home in Hollywood, Calif., to laborites in New York City (3,000 miles away), may revolutionize the entire manner of making records in the future. This is the first test of its kind ever made, the only means of recording being a long distance telephone wire from the star's home to the laboratories. Experts pronounce the master disc made of her voice almost perfect in its reproduction value. Photo shows Miss Del Rio preparing to record by phone.

Youth Held in Death of Aged Man Stoutly Maintains Innocence

Officials Unable to "Break" Original Story Told by 21-Year-Old Lad Arrested Saturday

Held in the county jail since his arrest Saturday morning, a 21-year-old youth, thought by county officials to be implicated in the slaying of Theodore Zimmerman, Lee street groceryman, Friday night, steadfastly continued to deny his guilt in the killing.

The youth rigidly adhered to the first story he told officers, that he and a companion, who was not named, were driving slowly along Scott avenue Friday night about 9:20 o'clock when two negroes leaped on the running boards of the car and with pistols forced them to drive out in the edge of town. The negroes, the captured youth said, declared that they had just killed a man and had to get out of town.

Found At Residence

Blood on his clothes, the youth told Sheriff W. G. Bralley, came from his companion, whose nose was struck by one of the negroes. Bruises about the body and head, he explained, were received when he resisted the negroes.

The boy was found by Sheriff Bralley at his residence in the southern part of the city.

Three other suspects, arrested by police, were being held pending further investigation by members of the district attorney's office.

Funeral At Lawton

More than a score of persons, arrested by city and county officers for investigation following the slaying, had been released Sunday.

Funeral services for Mr. Zimmerman, the 68-year-old storekeeper who was shot to death Friday night, will be held at Lawton, Okla., where the body was forwarded by the Merkle Undertaking company Sunday night.

Gunmen Meet In Gambling Hall

EL PASO, Texas, April 15. (UP)—Hundreds of visitors at the historic gambling hall in Juarez, Mexico, were thrown into a panic today when two gunmen staged a shooting affray in the crowded building.

Women screamed, gamblers dived under card tables or threw themselves on the floor and a mad rush for the exits was started.

Mrs. J. Gassoway, racing stable owner, was severely bruised when she fell in a doorway and was trampled by others rushing to leave the hall. She was visiting Juarez while on the way to Smithville, Mo., from Tiajuana.

Nitro Glycerine Held Probable Cause of Dance Hall Holacaust

WEST PLAINS, Mo., April 15. (UP)—The theory that the disaster which took the lives of 39 persons at a town dance here Friday night was caused by gasoline tanks exploding has practically been discarded in preference to another theory that a high explosive, probably nitro glycerine, caused the blast.

Authorities, however, were unable to determine whether the explosive was stored in the garage or had been placed there. Rumors were spreading that the explosion was the act of a person seeking revenge against someone attending the dance.

Another report which authorities were investigating was that the explosion may have been a suicide act of J. W. Wiser, proprietor of the garage where the dance was held.

Wiser's body was found outside of the garage, and it was believed he was just opening a door to enter the building when the explosion took place.

Investigators would not commit themselves upon the suicide theory

DEATH GANTLET IN GERMANY FOR 'ITALIA'

Big Balloon in Great Danger of Blast In Midair

FEARS SILENCED

Ship Located After Being Lost For Long Period

BERLIN, April 16. (Monday) (UP)—Bucking a thunderstorm in imminent danger of explosion the Italian polar dirigible Italia fought her way mile by mile across Upper Silesia last night and seemed early today to be winning her way to safety.

BERLIN, April 15. (UP) — The Italian north polar dirigible Italia was fighting a desperate battle for life in a thunderstorm tonight as she felt her way half blindly over upper Silesia on her way to Stolp, on the German coast, from Milan.

In momentary danger of an explosion from a shaft of lightning, the big balloon was zigzagging over mountainous country.

General Umberto Nobile, her builder and commander, radioed the Lindenburg, Germany, observatory, to ask whether it was advisable for the ship to continue or whether she should turn back.

Asks Aid.

At the same time Nobile broadcast an appeal to wireless stations to give him bearings that would help him to reach his goal or if necessary to seek a refuge.

The silence regarding the Italia's whereabouts was broken shortly after 11 p. m. when she returned to Gleiwitz, and cruised over the flying field as if ready to attempt a landing and seek refuge there until the weather improved.

But a few minutes later the Italia nosed off again into the storm as if she was heading for Stolp, her original destination.

MILAN FEARS FOR DIRIGIBLE

MILAN, April 15. (US)—Where are General Nobile and the 19 members of his expedition which sailed in the airship "Italia" on the first lap of their trip to the North Pole?

That is the question being asked on every hand in Milan tonight as the hours pass without satisfactory news from any point in Europe.

While there is no feeling that the "Italia" may meet the same fate as the ill-starred "Shenandoah," nevertheless, there are some apprehensions.

Return Expected.

For a time, the Baggio airport, from which the "Italia" started at 1:52 this morning, was entirely without news of any sort. General Nobile's secretary, who remained behind in Milan, also was without word from his chief.

There were expectations earlier in the day that General Nobile would return to Baggio if he found the weather conditions between Venice and Vienna too unfavorable. Just before he stepped into the cabin of the ship, the general said to Universal Service:

"I am not sure that we shall make Stolp. In fact, I should definitely say that we will return to Baggio if the weather is not entirely good."

Steelman Youth In Critical Condition

EMOTIONS ARE KAY'S SUBJECT

Teacher Urges Solemn Communion

Better direction of human emotions and communion with God in solitude was urged by Judge John C. Kay Sunday morning in his talk to the members of the Kay Bible class in the Olympic theater. A total of 324 attended the meeting.

John C. Kay

"Mr. Wardsworth began one of his famous sonnets with the immortal line, 'The world is too much with us,' Judge Kay said. "This world gets to be a pretty hard grind sometimes. Even the Savior on numerous occasions saw fit to go apart and leave the habitations of men to seek quiet in the wilderness or in the mountains. Right there is where we need courage. The same old grind every day. A man told me he sat on one bench and nailed on shoe heels for 20 years in St. Louis. It is the ceaseless grind of duty that sometimes drives men to despair.

"We build monuments to our great soldiers, our great statesmen, but our greatest monument ought to be erected to the American mother who stays at home and fights her battles in raising a group of children about her knee. What an enormous task that is, and how that mother sometimes comes to you and says, 'William Henry, can't you hold him just a minute?' Every mother with a floor full of little children ought to go off at least once a week and stay all night and leave William Henry to hold the fort.

See the Mountains

"I am telling you the man likes to get out and throw his shoulders back and say, 'I make the living.' He might bring in a little flour and meat and meal and in that sense make the living, but he doesn't make life. The world is too much with us. That is the reason that the human heart breaks down and the man goes into his bathroom and breaks in upon the temple of his own life.

"How many of you were raised in sight of the mountains? A man that is raised on the level plain and doesn't know the mountains has missed something. One of my happiest memories is that from the father's house I could see nearly a hundred miles of the Blue Ridge mountains and can I ever forget when I was going west and first saw the long thin blue line of the Rocky mountains break through the horizon. I felt like I was coming home. And the Savior went into the mountains and the gardens for his great emotional experiences.

Spend Time in Solitude

"Let me beg of you, that you often times go out and apart from men and spend some moment of our life in solitude and in contemplation. These are emotional things. This is the most dramatic, emotional scene in all the Bible. Here was the Savior on top of this mountain. He had laid aside for the moment the labors of the flesh and stood there with Moses and Elias and what great men they were to stand with. Not great in wealth, not great in many of the things that we call great, but great in the high things of life. How great they were we are reminded, when we stop to consider, that of the Savior and the two great men who stood with Him on the mountain top, all three had at some time in their lives gone out into the wilderness and fasted forty days and forty nights.

"I like to think, as you ought sometimes to think, about heaven. When I get there, if I do, I want to see that group of men who gather about Livingstone and Christopher Columbus and these great men who had a vision and went out with a high emotion and discovered a world. I want to sit somewhere near the feet of Achilles, the warrior, and of Ulysses, the wanderer and hear that old Greek tell what song it was the sirens sang to him of old.

Idea of Heaven

"I have some curious notions sometimes about heaven and sometimes think I am not orthodox. I believe, perhaps without knowing why, that the strong, great, righteous man here is going to be seen standing out above his fellows in heaven. We have not got but a little hint of that in the Bible; just one little place where it tells about Lazarus. Lazarus was that fellow who laid at the rich man's gate covered with sores and the dogs came and ministered to him. Now where do we find him in heaven? In one of those matchless stories told by the Savior Himself, we are told that Lazarus was there in Abraham's bosom, still leaning on somebody else.

"We want to have high emotions. We want to sometimes think about something besides the things of this world. That is the reason some of you fellows don't like poetry because there was no poem ever written that tells you how to make a horse trade. That is what is the matter with you. And nobody yet has ever soared into the blue with a great poem about ten per cent interest. It is emotional, it is something that is beyond the grasp of a man who this world is too much with.

"Praise the Lord"

"We are getting a lot of college men these days who say religion ought to be emotional, some mighty bright men, wiser than I am, going around over the country saying that religion has got to be stripped of its emotion, that it must be gotten down to a practical basis. Our folks are getting too stuck up. An old Methodist went into a fine church and the preacher was preaching away and as he struck some great high point in his oration, this old brother said, 'Praise the Lord.' And one of the ushers came around and tapped him on the shoulder and said, 'You can't do that here, brother.'

"And that man was a man who could have gone up on the Mount of Transfiguration. He could have reached the high points of life. Some of us just eat the acorns like the pig without ever looking up to see the tree that they fall from.

"I want us to have more emotion. No, I don't want that either, we have got plenty, but I want some better directed emotion. It would embarrass some of us much to shout at a church meeting, but no wild animal in Africa ever screamed like you do at a ball game. I have done plenty of shouting myself, but at the wrong place. I am emotional in spots and at times, so are you.

"The Savior took these men up on this great high mountain for this great emotional experience in order that they might see the glory of the place. You can go there, I may go there. We must go there if we are to have a religious experience. We must have something more than just to stay right down with this world all the time and grapple and grab and toil, because without emotions, without high experiences, without drawing inspiration from afar, the human heart at last breaks down, falls and cries out with the poet, that the world has been too much with me."

FEWER FATALITIES

WASHINGTON, April 15. (UP)—One hundred and twenty fewer persons were killed in grade crossing accidents during 1927 than in 1926, the American Railway association announced today. The figures for 1927 totaled 2371.

STEAMER IS FLOATED

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 15. (UP)—The Eastern Steamship lines passenger steamer, New York, which went aground in Cape Cod canal Saturday night, was floated by tugs late today. She was apparently undamaged and will proceed to New York Monday.

KAYGRAMS

It is the ceaseless grind of duty that sometimes drives men to despair.

Our greatest monument ought to be erected to the American mother who stays at home and fights her battles in raising a group of children about her knee.

Every mother ought to go off at least once a week and stay all night and leave William Henry to hold the fort.

A man that is raised on the level plains and doesn't know the mountains has missed something.

The reason you fellows don't like poetry is because there was no poem ever written that tells you how to make a horse trade.

Al's Enemies Scent Defeat

cal of many Southern anti-Smith democrats.

Another anti-Smith democrat from a border state took much the same view. Also they took the view that much of Smith's strength is due to the eagerness of professional politicians to get federal jobs on the assumption that Smith would be more likely to be elected. One expressed regret was that members of his party should hold this cynical view but he said it existed nevertheless. Neither felt that Smith's strength among active politicians was fully reflected by equal popularity among Southern voters. One said that promises of ample campaign funds from New York have had their effect.

Other Views Held

Such views are by no means unanimously held. There will be many who will fight to the end against Smith.

A given political situation is composed of so many vague imponderable factors that it is never possible to reduce it to absolutely known quantities. But so far as all elements can be judged by experienced politicians and observers, the majority here decidedly feel that Smith is very close to the nomination, if indeed, it is not already practically settled.

Chrysler Agency To Show New Chassis

The Davidson-Hamilton Co., local Chrysler distributors, announce the showing of the new 1928 Chrysler Imperial "800" chassis. This model was produced at a great expense purposely for the New York automobile show and is the first time shown in this section of the state.

The model is cut-away to show every mechanical part in action, from the smallest valve to the crankshaft. Salesmen on the floor will show by actual demonstration many superiorties of performance which are claimed by the new Chrysler "red head" engine. This engine develops 112 horsepower. The salesrooms will be open all this week.

Government Holds 100 Foreign Medals

WASHINGTON, April 15. (UP)—More than 100 medals, decorations and gifts bestowed upon U. S. army officers by foreign governments during peace time are being held at the state department, it was revealed today. Consent of congress is necessary before the medals can be accepted. Otherwise the medals go to relatives at death.

Escaped Prisoner Writes Governor For Return to Texas Penitentiary

AUSTIN, April 15. (INS)—There are worse places to be than in the Texas penitentiary, according to Frank Sullivan, who escaped while on furlough under guard, and is now being held at Denver, Colorado, by federal authorities.

Recently Sullivan penned a letter to Governor Moody. He wrote:

"This is to notify you that I am held in the Denver jail and desire to be taken back to Texas to serve out the balance of my sentence, so please send after me at once.

"I intended to come in and give up anyway, in a few months when I had provided some means for my wife and mother.

"I am held by the federal authorities, but I think they will give me up all right, and I request that I be taken back to the Texas penitentiary at once. Hoping for early action in the matter, I am, respectfully yours, Frank Sullivan."

Investigation has revealed that federal authorities are not willing to give Sullivan up for return to Texas. They notified the criminal department here that Texas can have him when they have disposed of several federal cases against him.

MAN SUFFERS BURNS IN FIRE

R. C. Whittington Hurt As Flames Take Home

R. C. Whittington, 1308 Twelfth street, suffered burns about the hands and face when a fire shortly before midnight Sunday almost totally destroyed his residence. Mr. Whittington's condition was not believed serious. The loss was estimated at $2500 by Fire Chief J. L. McClure.

Mrs. Whittington, who had not gone to bed when the fire started, could not tell how it originated, but Chief McClure said indications were that the fire came from a gas explosion in the rear of the dwelling.

Mr. Whittington, in bed when the fire broke out, rushed from the building thinly clad. The family was taken care of for the balance of the night by neighbors and a physician was called to treat Mr. Whittington's burns.

Dance Hall Blast Probed

but it was understood that Wiser had been having financial difficulties and that he was greatly opposed to dancing.

The coroner's jury met today but no definite cause for the investigation was determined, reports said.

FOUR VICTIMS BURIED SUNDAY

WEST PLAINS, Mo., April 15.—Four victims of Friday night's dance hall explosion here were buried today.

Funeral services were held for Charles Merk, a high school student; J. N. Wiser, owner of the garage building in which three score dancers were trapped; Paul Evans Jr., and Carl Mullins.

Eighteen of the 39 bodies have been identified, but because of the charred condition of the remaining 21, it was regarded improbable their identity would be determined.

Arrangements were under way to bury all the unidentified bodies Tuesday.

The city has offered to purchase a lot in a local cemetery and give each body a separate grave. A monument bearing the names of the unidentified, but known dead, will be erected on the plot of ground.

Officers are working on the theory that the explosion was caused by nitro glycerin, and they will present their evidence at the inquest Wednesday when a coroner's jury will attempt to determine the cause of the fatal blast.

Mother Files Mandamus In Son's Injury Suit

AUSTIN, April 15. (INS)—Petition for mandamus has been filed in the supreme court by Mrs. W. S. Muse, of Milam county against Judge Lewis H. Jones of the 27th district court at Temple, to compel Judge Jones to set aside his action in refusing to accept the verdict of a jury which awarded her $8000 against the Katy railroad in connection with the death of her son, Ernest Muse.

The son was allegedly killed in a railroad grade crossing by the Katy and the mother sued the company for $20,000. The jury in answering questions submitted on special issues, awarded Mrs. Muse $8000. She is now seeking to have the trial court reconsider its action, and enter judgment in her favor in accordance with the verdict of the jury.

Friends Petition For Status of Musical Student

CHICAGO, April 15. (US)—Vasil Bralloff, musical student, today was ordered deported to Bulgaria just because he went to work to support his wife and child.

Bralloff, a cellist by avocation, became a theater usher when he could find no job with orchestras. In doing so, he lost his student status, immigration officials ruled.

Friends, hoping to keep the little family together, are interceding with Washington.

MELLON QUITS PUBLIC LIFE

Secretary of Treasury Plans Retiring Soon

WASHINGTON, April 15. (INS) Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon has revealed to confidants that he will retire from public life at the end of his present cabinet term next March, irrespective of anything that may happen politically in November. He is tired and wants a rest.

Mellon has confided to close friends his desire to get away from the actual conduct of public affairs. Reports have persisted that he would not accept the treasury post should the Republicans remain in power, but authoritative information concerning his attitude heretofore has been guarded closely.

There is no probability, however, that Mellon will fade out of the foreground in the Republican political picture. Only a few weeks ago he said that foremost in his mind was the Republican national convention at Kansas City.

"What are your plans for the summer," Mellon was asked.

"The Kansas City convention—after that I have no definite plans," Mellon replied.

In the face of almost constant sniping by political enemies on Capital Hill and of constant bombardment from radical prohibitionists, Mellon—serene, smiling—has withstood all attacks with rarely a show of irritation. A little man behind a big desk, courteous, patient, unruffled by criticism.

Farm Boy Arrested While Plowing Corn

JACKSONVILLE, April 15. (UP) Ernest W. Elliott, 18, was plowing corn on his father's farm near here when he was arrested on a charge of using the mails to defraud. It was charged that he represented himself as head of a detective correspondence school with offices in 40 cities.

Negro "Stopped" by Three Slugs From Pistol; Another Surrenders

"Ah just stopped a nigger with it," a negro man told W. P. Belcher, police officer, Sunday night, handing the officer a pistol which the negro had brought in his left hand to the police station.

Jessie Wright, negro, 2174 Avenue J, was shot three times at 301 Mills street about 7:45 o'clock Sunday night. Police were unable to locate witnesses to the shooting. Wright was taken to the Wichita General hospital, where he was in a critical condition, suffering from bullet wounds in the jaw and in both hips. He had been shot three times.

Police Officers F. B. Fountain, Ellis Summers and Mr. Belcher, who investigated the shooting, found Wright slowly crawling toward the police station. When he was found by officers he had reached Ohio avenue at Tenth street.

The shooting, according to acquaintances of the two men, was the outgrowth of ill feeling extending through several years. Tom Nelson, negro, was lodged in the city jail in connection with the shooting.

"Imagine! The boy next door hasn't got his invitation yet—an' after me sending it AIR MAIL for speed."

MOUNTAIN CITY LINDY'S HOST

Flier Abandons Scenery At Grand Canyon

DENVER, Colo., April 15 (UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh visited Denver unexpectedly today.

Flying his new Ryan monoplane, Lindbergh landed at Lowry field at 5 p. m., after a trip from the Grand canyon, in Arizona.

The flyer left the field with Eddie Brooks, private pilot for A. F. Humphreys, oil man. Lindbergh planned to stay over night here.

TWO COLTS GIVEN SCARE BY FLIER

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., April 15. (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh pointed the nose of his plane eastward at 10:35 this morning, but declined to reveal his destination when he took off with Harry Knight and Harold M. Bixby, both of St. Louis, as passengers.

Lindbergh taxied the full length of the field, herding in front of him two frightened colts that had wandered out of the forest. With the animals out of his path, the noted aviator charged back down the field, taking the air neatly, but his craft was slow in gaining altitude. Then the plane soared and a few minutes later it was out of sight.

Recalling his first visit here 12 years ago, riding on a mule down the canyon, the aviator contrasted the present method of sightseeing from the air.

The landing field from which the party took off today is 500 feet higher than at Williams, where Lindbergh landed yesterday and the air is correspondingly less buoyant.

UNKNOWN HERO

Boy Saves 32 From Drowning in Three Months

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15. (UP)—He saved 32 lives in three months and today, to his disgust, somebody told!

He is Sydney Glasson, 23-year-old son of J. C. Glasson, Berkeley contractor. Last summer, on the Russian river near Guerneville park, he saved somebody from drowning every three days.

Nobody knew anything about it until life saving awards were handed out to members of a Red Cross life saving class at the University of California. George Hughlingn, instructor, had recommended Glasson for the highest award.

This is the Red Cross first-class life saving medal and it carries with it an award of $50. Glasson is a senior student at the university.

Egyptian Government's Fall Is Forecast Soon

CAIRO, April 15. (US)—Egyptian crisis threatens to enter a new and acute phase at the end of this week, involving the probability of the fall of the Egyptian government under pressure from England.

The senate is expected to pass the bill permitting and regulating public political assemblages, including orderly street demonstrations. The British government demands that the bill not become a law on the ground that public assemblages are dangerous to foreigners.

WOMAN FLIER SETS RECORD

Midland Girl Reaches 19,600-Foot Mark

MIDLAND, Texas, April 15. (UP) Miss Hazel B. Tinnin, pretty blue-eyed brunette, broke what is said here to be the world's altitude record for women here today by flying 19,600 feet. The record was previously held by a French woman who flew 18,000 feet.

The Midland girl is only 18 years old. She and her pilot Ralph Montee, planned to fly 21,000 feet, but high winds forced them down after they had smashed the woman's altitude record by 1600 feet. She waived gaily at a crowd of 2000 persons gathered at the Midland airport to see a new world's record set and declared she would yet reach 21,000 feet and would pilot her own plane in doing it.

Hides Reported Stolen at Quanah

Twenty-one cow hides were stolen at Quanah Saturday night, according to information received by Sheriff W. G. Bralley from W. G. Lanier, sheriff at Quanah. Details of the theft were not given, although Sheriff Lanier expressed an opinion that in all probability the thiefs would try to dispose of the hides here.

EL PASO, Tex., April 15. (UP)—David Cherry, who said he was 100 years old, told police that he walked from his home in Iowa here.

Cherry was found on the streets nearly exhausted with slightly more than a $1 in his pocket. He said that he came to El Paso because he was unable to find work in Iowa.

Ramblin'

with
Marie Theresa

MARIE Theresa has lately noticed a group of artistically fixed up bird houses set up in the trees in the Municipal Golf and Country club regions. Those houses might have been placed there sometime ago, but this column hasn't been about the premises when bird-houses were discernible, and got her first peep at 'em today.

Birds make places look homelike and pleasant, so let's have more bird houses.

"I DRESSED in ten minutes flat" puffed one of the guests at a luncheon Marie Theresa attended the other day. She must have. That well groomed appearance that makes some women appear not only easy to look at, but makes them feel that they are on top of the world, cannot be gained a' so low a price. Only at the price of eternal vigilance can a woman be at her best physically.

CHIVALRY is not dead. This one comes from the Quaker City. As one of the trolleys in Philadelphia was bearing its daily cargo of human freightage homeward one afternoon, one of the four girls who was attempting a balance by holding the hand of the girl next to her who had access to a strap, found to her confusion that she had been holding onto the hand of one of the men nearby. At her confused exclamation that she had hold of the wrong hand, the young man obligingly extended his other hand.

THE other day Marie Theresa lent an ear to the chatter of a group of women at the Womans Forum, to learn that they were discussing as usual, the problems confronting most thinking mothers.

"I never need to worry about Tommy, he learns so fast that I know he'll get along all right, but Catherine is not doing as well as she should in her studies, and it keeps me busy getting after Catherine."

How slowly we travel. The over-privileged child has not yet come into his own. Time was when education was concerned primarily with the under-privileged child but the pendulum has at last swung, and the child that is over-bright, is bothering both parents and teachers more than the backward child ever disturbs his elders. For seldom does he realize this worth of effort, industry and concentration, all necessary elements in the game of success.

MARION Talley, youngest prima donna of the Metropolitan, and visitor in Wichita Falls last fall, celebrated her 21st birthday just a few days ago and is glad of that feat since now she can vote.

Imagine that, a person who can spread so much joy with a divine voice, eager to do her little bit in the political affairs of the world. But she has the right spirit, a person who takes in most of the world as Marion does, can't help but acquire a broad outlook on life needed in the competent voter.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made by the Womans Forum that Tom Skeyhill, noted lecturer who charmed his Wichita Falls audiences last January, will again appear in the city next season. The date for his lecture has not yet been announced.

Red Bank Moves Rig To Coleman Location

Special to The Record News.

COLEMAN, April 15.—Material for another wildcat well in the western part of Coleman county is being moved to the location made by the Red Bank Oil corporation on the R. L. Duggins farm, 1100 feet from the center of the north line of the southeast quarter of section 17, GH&H survey, block 1.

The Red Banks has had the block which is two miles southwest of Valera for several months, but is just now moving a standard rig from the Breckenridge district to that area for the test which will be started immediately, according to information from the company's offices here.

Self Made Feminine Doormats May Well Expect To Be Trampled

Old Idea of Noble Self-Sacrifice for Women Is All Hokum: Mothers, Wives, Daughters Who Make Doormats of Themselves Must Expect to Be Stepped On.

When we talk about the younger generation, one of the chief charges in our indictment against it is selfishness. We hold up our hands in horror because the young people of today arrogate to themselves the right to live their own lives, and follow their own inclinations and gratify their own tastes. We complain that they think only of themselves and we mourn that there are no more self-sacrificing sons and daughters.

But I wonder if these young people have not the right of it, and if they are not wiser in their generation than we were in ours? I wonder if self-sacrifice isn't oftener a vice than it is a virtue, and if it doesn't nearly always do more harm than good?

Of course, this isn't the conventional way of looking at the subject. Traditionally we have made self-sacrifice the headliner of all the virtues—especially for women. And we have grown maudlin when we have talked about dear, sweet, angelic, self-sacrificing mothers and wives and daughters. They have formed the theme of millions of "mother songs" and provided the heroines for innumerable sob stories.

But in reality isn't this all hokum? What have these noble, self-sacrificing women ever done except to develop an inflated ego, as the alienists say, in those about them, and to make grinding tyrants of parents and husbands, and to raise up selfish, greedy children? Nothing to be proud of in that. As a matter of fact, the proper head-dress for the family martyr is not a crown of glory. It is a fool's cap.

Take the old-fashioned, self-sacrificing mother, for instance. We all know that every mother who does her duty by her children has to make sacrifices enough, but I mean the type of self-sacrificing mother who simply lays her whole life on the altar of motherhood.

I mean the sort of woman who drops out of society when her first baby is born and thereafter never goes anywhere, or does anything, or have anything. I know scores of these self-sacrificing mothers who spend their whole lives pampering their children.

They will walk the floor with a howling infant until they are ready to drop with fatigue instead of spanking it and making it go to sleep. They will wear year-before-last hats so that baby can have real lace on its bonnets. They will burn themselves to a cinder over the kitchen stove making three kinds of cake because one child likes chocolate and one angel's food and another jellycake.

They will do all of the housework to save the girls' hands, and starve themselves to send the boys to college and to give them the money to keep up with rich boys, and belong to expensive fraternities and clubs.

And what's the result of all of mother's sacrifices? Love and gratitude and appreciation from her children? Not a bit of it. It has merely made the children self-centered and selfish and taught them to despise mother. Which is natural enough. We all instinctively wipe our feet on a doormat.

These modern mothers who are not giving up everything to their children, are doing a better part by them than the self-sacrificing mother does by hers. They are saving them from some hard bumps that life administers to mamma's coddled darlings, for the outside world is a rough place for those who have been raised pets, and have had everything give way before them.

Futhermore, the woman who has taught her children to look up to her, to admire her, to wait upon her and to consider her, is sure always of their affection and respect. And that is what children never give to the mother who has been a slave to them.

And look at the self-sacrificing wife who works herself to a frazzle and pinches every penny to help her husband get a start in business: the woman who never has a pretty dress: who never takes time to preserve her looks because she is doing the work of two servants to make her husband comfortable. The woman who stays at home and takes care of the children while her husband is off playing golf. The woman who goes shabby so that her husband may dress fine.

What is the reward of the self-sacrificing wife? We read in the papers every day about some man divorcing the self-sacrificing wife who has spent her youth and strength helping him make his fortune, because she has got old and homely and dull and he wants to marry some one who is young and gay, and who has never sacrificed anything to any man. Mighty few men can resist kicking down the ladder on which they climbed to success.

It is not the self-sacrificing wives that husbands cherish. It is the wives who have enough backbone to stand up for their own rights. It is the wives who have maintained their own individuality and have made their husbands go fifty-fifty, if not more, on the sacrifice stuff. In fact, my observation has been that the more a wife demands of her husband and the more he has to do for her, the more he loves her.

And it is the same way with the self-sacrificing daughter. I know women who have given up brilliant careers to stay at home because some cranky old father or mother wouldn't leave the place where he or she had lived for some forty years. I know women who have made the supreme sacrifice of giving up the men they loved and the joys that husband and children and home would have brought them to take care of their old parents.

But do the parents ever appreciate this? Never. They brag about their successful children who have gone out into the world and followed their own careers, and they say that poor Sally is a good girl, but she never had the ambition that her sisters and brothers had.

And the terrible part of it is that it is all true. Nearly every sacrifice is futile. It benefits no one. And those who do not appreciate the sacrifices that are made for them are right.

Because we are all better off if we are made to stand on our own feet, and do our part in life, and take our turn at doing the things we don't want to do, and do without the things we want.

It is not without reason that the family goat is no more a pet than the real billy goat.

MODISH MITZI — MARIE'S COMING FOR A VISIT — BY JAY V. JAY

Mitzi has just received a letter from her niece Marie, who is in boarding school. There is an epidemic of measles and, since her mother is in the South, could she stay with Mitzi? While Mitzi is pondering what to do with Marie you might notive that a kerchief neckline is shown even on lace frocks.

"How shall we amuse Marie?" asks Mitzi of the Goofer. And the Goofer is so interested in admiring Mitzi's V neck dress with the frilled jabot down one side that it is some minutes before he says: "Oh, leave it to me. I'll find a lot of 15-year-old amusements." (Yes, and he'll probably amuse himself with them.)

Mitzi also appealed to Aunt Sophia about Marie. Of course, she can take Marie shopping with her. Notice that Aunt Sophia wears a V neck with a scarf throw, very popular for ladies who are not too slim. Mitzi wears one of the collarless necklines. Marie, it seems, will have a corps of entertainers at her feet.

So Mitzi was convinced that Marie would find amusement. Besides Marie and Mitzi have much in common. Marie would appreciate this frill collar Mitzi wears and know that it is new. The hat, too, with the odd brim of straw simulates a veil. "Dear Marie," writes Mitzi. "We'd love to have you visit us. . and we'll do a lot of shopping."

Byers One of First Towns to Send Aid for National Demo Convention

STAMFORD, Texas, April 15.—Byers, Munday and Stamford are the first three towns to cooperate in line with proposal of the West Texas chamber of commerce that towns in its territory assist in a financial way in entertainment of the national democratic convention at Houston.

Manager Homer D. Wade has written a letter to all secretaries to which is attached a "Me Too" button, suggesting that they purchase this and act as agent in their town for others, and stating that all Texas should be willing to lend some assistance in this big event.

Olan Ridings of Byers bought the button sent to that town and has sent in a request for eight or ten others. Munday asked for a dozen buttons, according to J. A. Kennedy, who started sales there on receipt of his letter; Frank Locke, secretary of the Stamford chamber of commerce, purchased a button and will dispose of 25 others locally.

LINDA

A Love Mystery of Collegiate Life

By Virginia Swain.

For a moment they sat, Linda on the couch and Thomas Moonlight on the floor, staring at each other.

Two more blows struck the door. Linda jumped to her feet and ran to the door. Thomas Moonlight mustered enough presence of mind to clamber to his feet and smooth his rumpled hair.

The girl flung open the door. A lanky, sleepy-looking bell-boy stood on the threshold, thrusting forward a small tray bearing a yellow envelope.

She took it gingerly, still unstrung by this rude invasion on romance. The boy lifted his brows and looked at the empty tray. At that, Tom strode forward, and dropped a coin upon it. The boy gave him an ugly wink and went away.

Tom was just doubling up his fists and starting after him when an exclamation from Linda made him stop.

She had torn the envelope open with trembling fingers and was reading the message it contained. Tom saw her eyes dilate, and rushed toward her.

She crumpled the paper in her hand, and stared at him.

"What is it Linda? he cried, seizing her arm.

She shook her head, turned away from him and walked back to the couch. "Tommy," she said, "I can't go away with you—right now. I can't ever go till things are cleared up here."

He went red, "Why not?"

She looked at him piteously. "I just can't. It wouldn't be fair."

He wheeled on her, eyes burning dark. "Fair to whom? What is there to consider, but you and me? Whom will it hurt, if we do get married tomorrow?"

"I've got to stay," she repeated mechanically. "I've got to clear myself for somebody else's sake, and make the university take me back. I hadn't told you. I got notice of expulsion this morning."

But this catastrophe he passed over without a word, and forced her back to the personal issue. "Why can't we be married now, Linda? What's happened?" His eyes traveled to her hand, still clutching the yellow paper. "Oh, so that's it. You've heard from Simon and you are going to let him stop our wedding."

"Well, I guess I've been a blockhead all along. Of course, you're in love with him. I've hated the thought of the old man all along. But even though I thought he was sweet on you, I never believed you would give him a serious thought. I see I've been wrong about you. Simon IS a millionaire. I'd forgotten that."

Linda stood before him, matching his flaming eyes with her own. He did not wait long, but rushed headlong from the room, leaving the door swinging wide behind him.

She had just heard the elevator door clang when her telephone rang again. "Sorry, Miss Waldron," said the obsequious voice of the clerk, "but if you're entertaining a gentleman, you must observe the house rules that calls for open doors. Just a formality, you understand. No offense, I assure you."

"Oh, shut up," said Linda inelegantly, "the door is open. And there's no man here anyway. I never want to see a man again." She banged the hook, not even surprised that she had bared her inner thoughts to the bewildered young man on the other end of the wire.

She dropped in a chair by the table and spread out the telegram for a second reading:

"Miss Linda Waldron, Mulberry Place, Mulberry: If innocent comma get a lawyer and fight college to finish stop you can't afford to let them put you out unless they've got the goods on you stop as for the three young men comma I believe it's customary to make one of them marry you comma preferably the richest. Signed, Simon Whitlock."

There were telegraph blanks in the mission oak desk in the room. Linda pulled one out, searched for a pencil stub and wrote:

"But you comma Simon comma are the richest stop the other two are respectively a villain and a fool. Signed, Linda Waldron."

The fussy old tooth paste salesman in the next room complained to the desk that the young woman in the room next door had a laughing jag.

The Tavern goes in for the small attentions of metropolitan hostelries—or so it advertises in the St. Louis and Kansas City papers.

Opening her door next morning, Linda found a copy of the Gazette lying at her feet, with a blue tag attached, which boldly presented "Compliments of the Tavern Management." She took pleasure in setting her dainty brown slipper squarely on the face of the paper and digging in her heel. She was still smarting under the Gazette's lyric descriptions of "the beautiful blonde co-ed whom Pete Damoras was luckless enough to prefer."

But it was of no avail. The waiter when he brought in her grapefruit, set another copy of the paper against the sugar bowl before her eyes and left it.

Before she could turn scornfully away her eyes fell on one black headline and lingered:

"Professor Missing." "Arthur Prine Absent From Home and Classes a Week."

Speaking of Paramount Issues

COL. Jesse Holman Jones, speaking of paramount issues at Dallas, discussed the minor issues and the major issues and several dead issues. "Prohibition enforcement is an issue in Texas and will be an issue in the national campaign," he declared. "But by no means is it the paramount issue."

Now what are the outstanding issues as the Houston colonel who brought the national Democratic convention to Texas understands the issues of the hour?

"Honesty in government, my friends, and legislation that will stabilize the farming industry are the outstanding issues of the campaign. They are the real issues. There will be other issues but the two principal issues in the coming campaign are honesty in government and farm legislation."

He had reminded his hearers that the Eighteenth Amendment is a part of the constitution; that it cannot be gotten out except by an orderly process; towit, a two-thirds majority vote in the senate and house of representatives of the United States as the starting point; and then radification by two-thirds of all the states in the union, by a two-thirds vote of the legislatures of those states. He had something to say about farm legislation.

"By farm legislation I do not mean farm relief," emphasized the speaker. "There is something about that word relief that is repulsive. It sounds too much like begging or patronizing, and the American farmer, the backbone of American civilization, does not beg."

He advised that the contry should draft the farmer himself to help solve the farm problems. Well, the United States senate adopted an amendment by McKellar of Tennessee providing an appropriation of $400,000,000 for farm relief under the McNary-Haugen bill instead of $250,000,000.

Eight Democrats voted against it. Twenty-five Democrats voted for it. The president is sharpening his veto axe on the White House grind stone.

What Happened to Small

"AMERICA first," was the slogan of Governor Len Small of Illinois. Small was defeated by 350,000 majority. "America first" won the battle. Before the election Big Bill threatened to resign if he lost his slate. He lost his slate but he isn't going to resign.

Madden Had an Easy Victory.

FOUR-fifths of the negro voters in the city of Chicago are in the district of Congressman Martin B. Madden, Republican. The blacks ran a negro as a contender for Madden's seat. Madden won by 10,000 majority. It appears that the brothers in black preferred a white leader to one of their own color.

Speaking of Foot Wear

FEMININE foot wear 1929 model will run to browns in a dozen shades from chocolate to beige. Of course, "the general price trend will be upward." This is a reminder that Texas produces a greater number of hides for leather purposes than any other American commonwealth and there isn't a shoe factory under Lone Star skies.

More Power to the Mavericks

"HOW Dry I Am" is the song that will best express the sentiment of many delegates to the national Democratic convention at Houston in June.

Equal fervor but radically different meaning will characterize its rendition by members of two opposing camps. To the one it will be a dirge for the dear departed (?) John Barleycorn. To the other a joyous hymn of triumph for success in slaying the same gentleman.

Agreed on the fact of aridity,—a condition not so apparent to outsiders,—the two factions differ regarding the effect of the constitutionally imposed drouth. To the first it is calamitous; to the second, the millennium.

Fortunately, however, there are many maverick Democrats, bearing neither the dry nor the wet brand.

They consider the Eighteenth amendment a part of the law of the land and do not see why some of their brethren should continue to apply futile resuscitative treatment to the corpse of the late John B.

Nor do they understand why others still stamp upon his grave as though fearing his emergence in pristine strength and vigor.

To this third class, largely unorganized and lacking in noise-making equipment, it seems illogical—if not absurd—to nominate or elect a candidate solely because he wears conspicuously one or the other of the two brands mentioned above.

They prefer to examine his points in the manner of an expert judge of horses, seeing the brand (if at all) as a slight blemish on the fitness for the position to be filled.

Their childlike desire—wellnigh startling in its simplicity—is to choose the candidates who possess in the greatest degree the ability to win and to occupy creditably the offices for which they are nominated.

We hope there will be many such mavericks at Houston and that they will be endowed with voices of foghorn propensites and with the power of indissoluble cohesion.

Henry Ford Snubs the Free Staters.

HENRY Ford is doing the British Isles, but not the Irish Free State. He will not visit Irish Free State. He has a reason. Free State lawmakers placed a tariff on automibiles—that is, an import tax on autos. When they read that the wizard of Detroit had snubbed them, they let the world know that the import tax had been placed on autos of a foreign make in order to protect the big Ford factory and its output which is close to the city of Cork. Publicity is the thing and the tribe of Ford always gets it.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE

NEW YORK, April 15. — What has become of the Stage Door Johnny? He seems to be extinct here. The other evening, at closing time, I stood in front of the New York Times annex, in Forty-third street, where I could watch the stage doors of three theaters. In one of them there is a Ziegfield show, in another a George White musical comedy, which means that plenty of beautous chorines depart from these theaters after performances. At the Ziegfield door there were two bystanders, neither of which wore a top-hat or held bouquets. At the George White show exit and the third theater no interest was displayed in the departing actresses. Not a limousine was in sight.

The girls issued forth in twos and threes. Most of them live in apartments or hotels in the theatrical district and they go home unescorted, without fear of annoyance. Police have made the Times Square district a safe place for women to be alone at night. A "masher" doesn't survive there long. Only a few of the departing chorines were accompanied by men members of their companies. Chorus girls and chorus men do not : The latter are without esteem in the theatrical world.

The Stage Door Johnny is passe probably because the modern member of a show ensemble is of a much higher caste than her predecessors. She isn't attracted by invitations to suppers and gay parties from strangers. The outstanding chorus girls, which naturally are the ones the Johnny would want to date up, earn at least $100 a week. They may also appear in a night club and earn $50 or $100 a week more. They are able to buy their own suppers, if they eat any. (Many of them do not, for fear of added weight.) This type of girl is also in demand as a model for advertising illustrations, or for artists. Naturally she has a great deal of respect for herself.

There is plenty of whoopee-making on Broadway by girls, but not by chorus girls. They can't keep late hours, their figures and their jobs at the same time. A woman's leg no longer is a novelty, and a chorus girl has to be able to sing and dance and do specialties. She has to get up mornings to take lessons or practice.

An idea of what the modern chorus girl is like is given by a rigidly enforced rule against swearing backstage in Ziegfield theaters.

The loneliness of old age has no terrors for Mrs. Catherine Stewart, 94, who outlived all her nine children. She spends most of her hours each day in her house, in West Ninety-third street, painting. THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance, a student of psychology and of crime, has his own theories about law courts and police procedure and he tells them to Markham. The latter is considerably worried over the outbreak of crime in New York. Then the newspapers announce the murder of Margaret Odell, known as the "Canary," a former Follies girl and reigning Broadway beauty.

CHAPTER II

(Tuesday, Sept. 11, 8:30 a. m.)

It was barely half-past eight on that momentous morning of September the 11th when Markham brought word to us of the event.

I was living temporarily with Vance at his home in East 38th street—a large remodeled apartment occupying the two top floors of a beautiful mansion. For several years I had been Vance's personal legal representative and adviser, having resigned from my father's law firm of Van Dine, Davis and Van Dine to devote myself to his needs and interests. His affairs were by no means voluminous, but his personal finances, together with his numerous purchases of paintings and objects d'art, occupied my full time without burdening me. This monetary and legal stewardship was eminently congenial to my tastes; and my friendship with Vance, which had dated from our undergraduate days at Harvard, supplied the social and human element in an arrangement which otherwise might have degenerated into one of mere drab routine.

On this particular morning I had risen early and was working in the library when Currie, Vance's valet and majordomo, announced Markham's presence in the living-room. I was considerably astonished at this early morning visit, for Markham well knew that Vance, who rarely rose before noon, resented any intrusion upon his matutinal slumbers. And in that moment I received the curious impression that something unusual and portentious was toward.

I found Markham pacing restlessly up and down, his hat and gloves thrown carelessly on the centertable. As I entered he halted and looked at me with harassed eyes. He was a moderately tall man, clean-shaven, gray-haired, and firmly set up. His appearance was courteous and kindly. But beneath his gracious exterior there was an aggressive sternness, an indomitable, grim strength, that gave one the sense of dogged efficiency and untiring capability.

"Good morning, Van," he greeted me, with impatient perfunctoriness. "There's been another half-world murder—the worst and ugliest thus far . . ." He hesitated, and regarded me searchingly. "You recall my chat with Vance at the club the other night? There was something damned prophetic in his remarks. And you remember I half promised to take him along on the next important case. Well, the case has broken—with a vengeance. Maragaret Odell, whom they called the Canary, has been strangled in her apartment; and from what I just got over the phone, it looks like another night-club affair. I'm headed for the Odell apartment now. . . . What about rousing out the sybarite?"

"By all means," I agreed, with an alacrity which, I fear, was in large measure prompted by purely selfish motives. The Canary! If one had sought the city over for a victim whose murder would stir up excitement, there could have been but few selections better calculated to produce this result.

Hastening to the door, I summoned Currie, and told him to call Vance at once.

"I'm afraid, sir—" began Currie, politely hesitant.

"Calm your fears," cut in Markham. "I'll take all responsibility for waking him at this indecent hour."

Currie sensed an emergency and departed.

A minute or two later Vance, in an elaborately embroidered silk kimono and sandals, appeared at the living-room door.

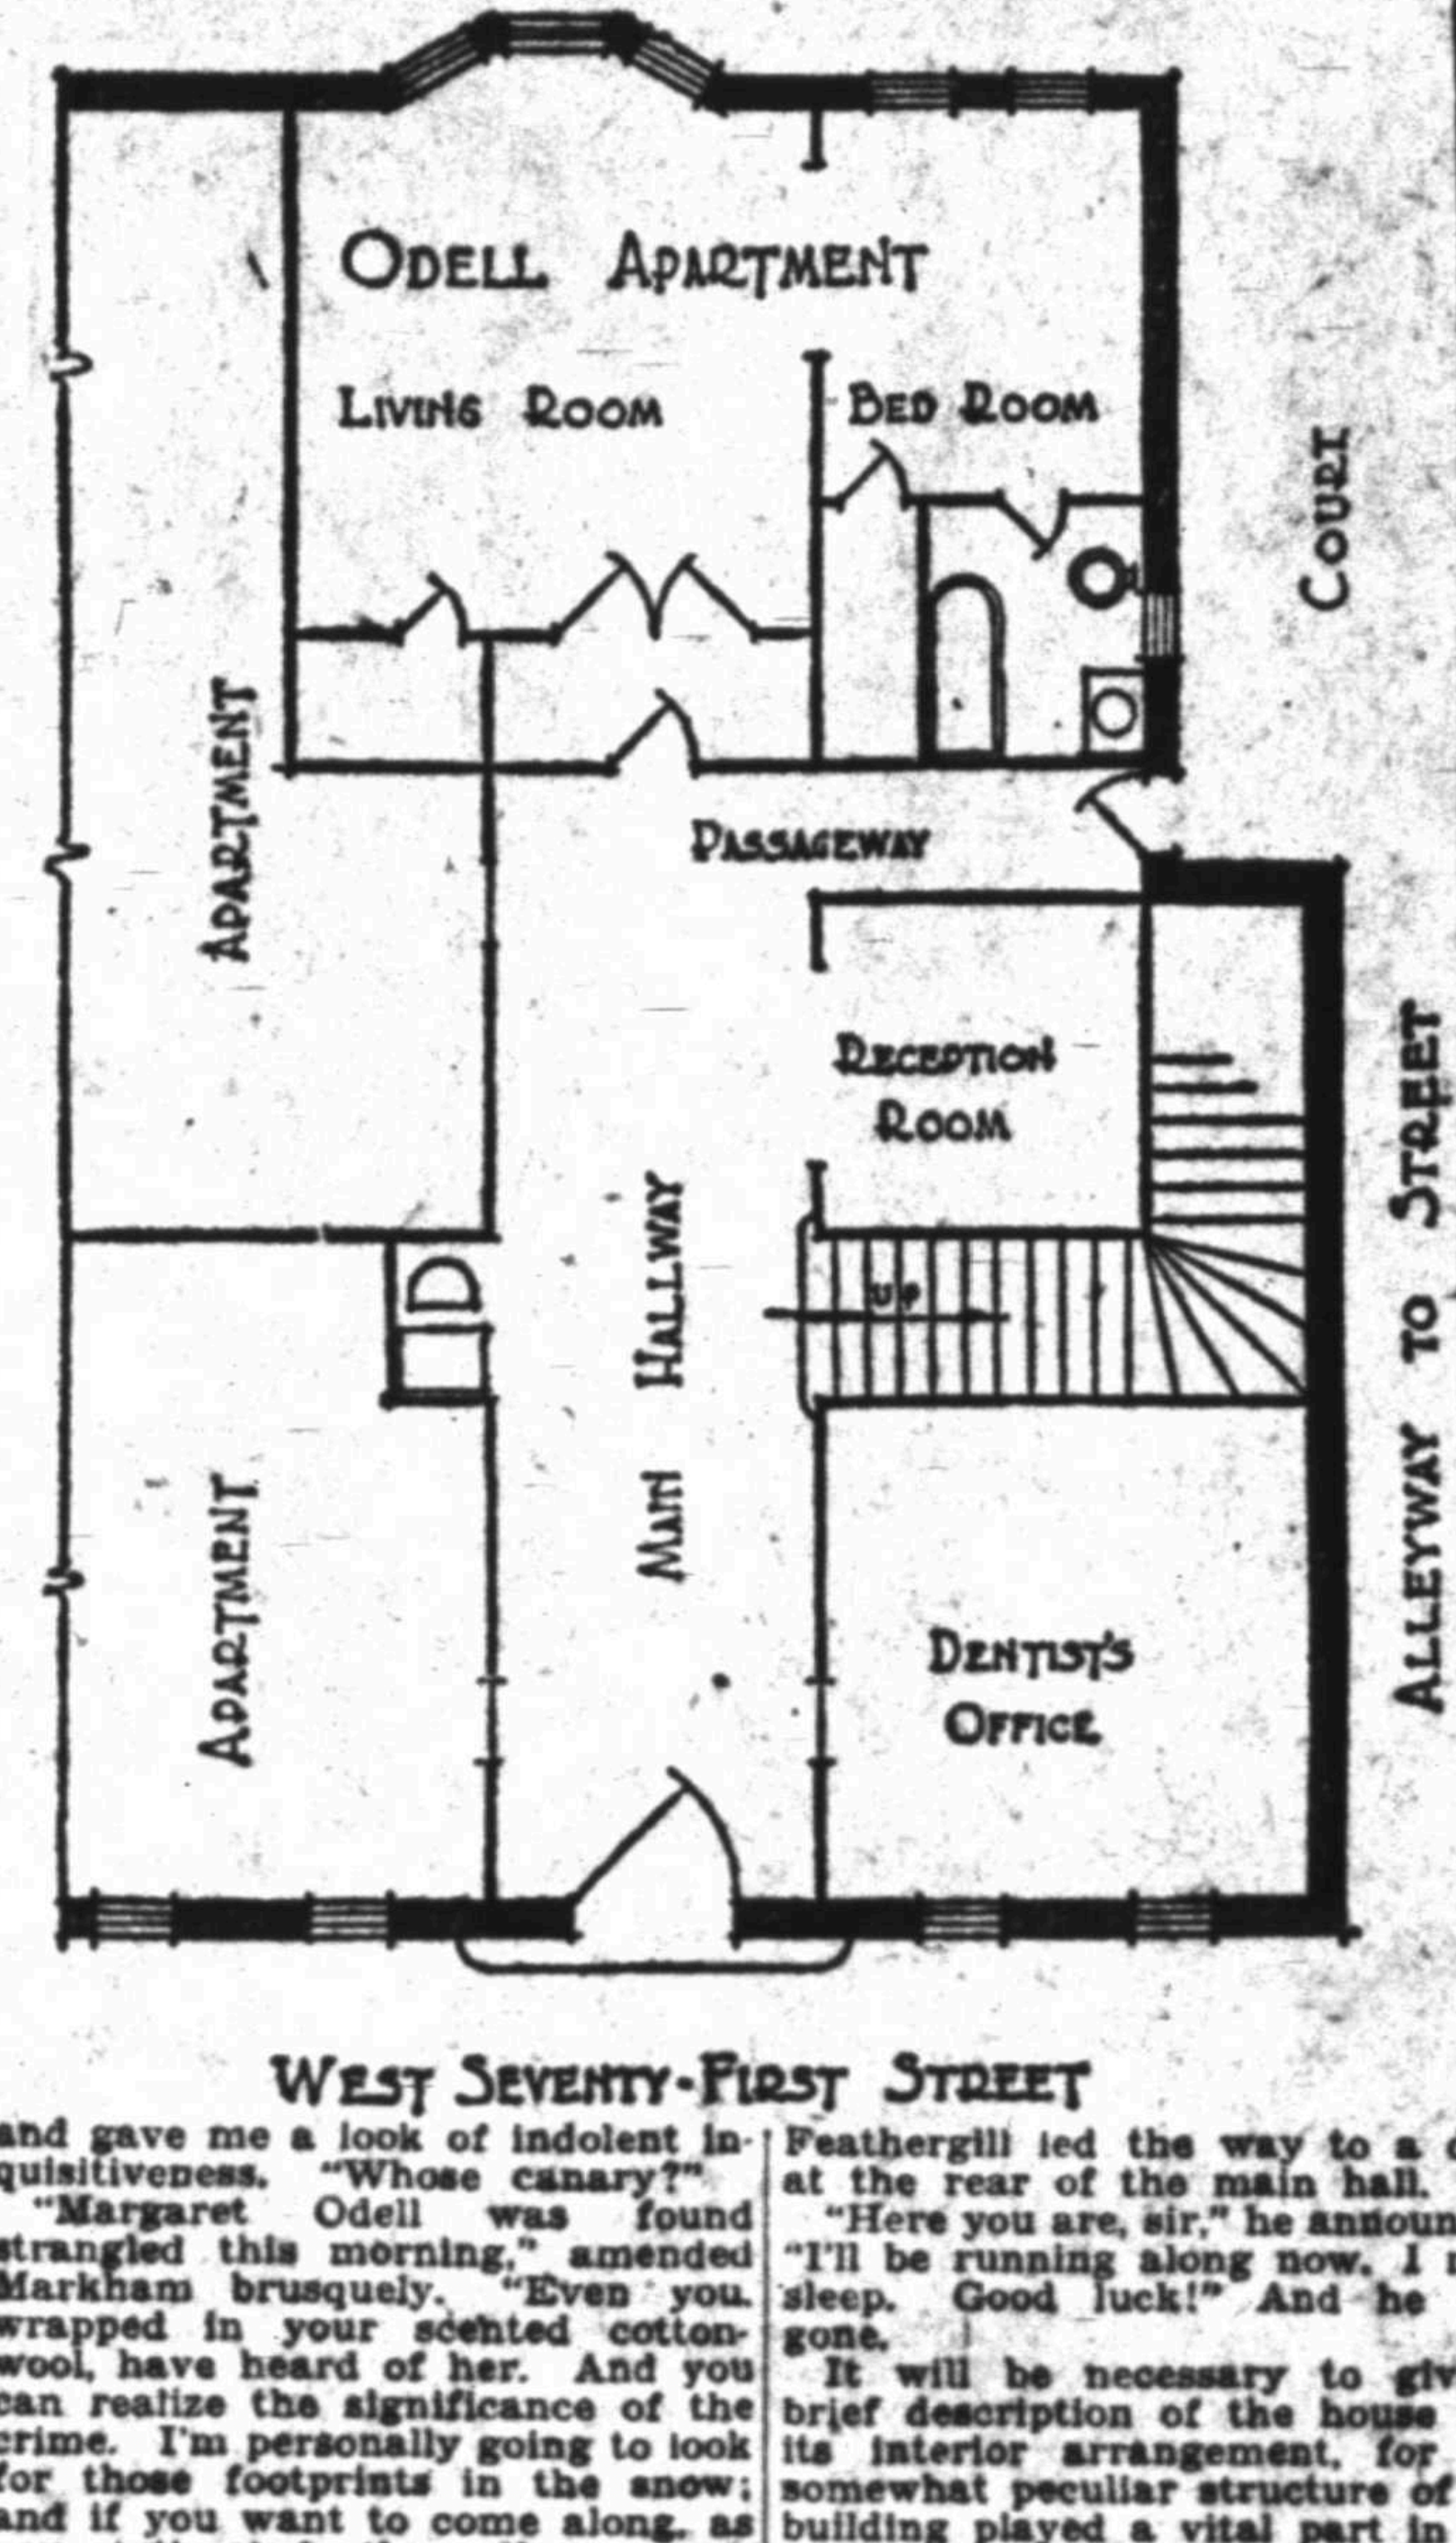
"My word!" he greeted us, in mild astonishment, glancing at the clock. "Hevn't you chaps gone to bed yet?"

He strolled to the mantel, and selected a gold-tipped Regie cigarette from a small Florentine humidor.

Markham's eyes narrowed: he was in no mood for levity.

"The Canary has been murdered," I blurted out.

Vance held his wax vesta poised,



and gave me a look of indolent inquisitiveness. "Whose canary?"

"Margaret Odell was found strangled this morning," amended Markham brusquely. "Even you, wrapped in your scented cotton-wool, have heard of her. And you can realize the significance of the crime. I'm personally going to look for those footprints in the snow; and if you want to come along, as you intimated the other night, you'll have to get a move on."

Vance crushed out his cigarette.

"Margaret Odell, eh? . . . Most distressin'!" Despite his offhand manner, I could see he was deeply interested. "The base enemies of law and order are determined to chivvy you most horribly, aren't they, old dear? Deuced inconsiderate of them! . . . Excuse me while I seek habiliments suitable to the occasion."

He disappeared into his bedroom while Markham took out a large cigar and resolutely prepared it for smoking, and I returned to the library to put away the papers on which I had been working.

In less than ten minutes Vance reappeared, dressed for the street.

We rode up-town along Madison avenue, turned into Central Park, and came out by the West 72d street entrance. Margaret Odell's apartment was at 184 West 71st street, near Broadway; and as we drew up to the curb, it was necessary for the patrolman on duty to make a passage for us through the crowd that had already gathered as a result of the arrival of the police.

Feathergill, an assistant district attorney, was waiting in the main hall for his chief's arrival.

"It's too bad, sir," he lamented. "A rotten show all round. And just at this time! . . . He shrugged his shoulders discouragingly.

"It may collapse quickly," said Markham, shaking the other's hand. "How are things going? Sergeant Heath phoned me right after you called, and said that, at first glance, the case looked a bit stubborn."

"Stubborn?" repeated Feathergill lugubriously. "It's downright impervious. Heath is spinning round like a turbine. He was called off the Boyle case, by the way, to devote his talents to this new shocker. Inspector Moran arrived ten minutes ago."

"Well Heath's a good man," declared Markham. "We'll work it out . . . Which is the apartment?"

Feathergill led the way to a door at the rear of the main hall.

"Here you are, sir," he announced. "I'll be running along now. I need sleep. Good luck!" And he was gone.

It will be necessary to give a brief description of the house and its interior arrangement, for the somewhat peculiar structure of the building played a vital part in the seemingly insoluble problem posed by the murder.

The house, which was a four-story stone structure, had been remodeled, both inside and outside, to meet the requirements of an exclusve individual apartment dwelling. There were, I believe, three or four separate suites on each floor; but the quarters upstairs need not concern us. The main floor was the scene of the crime, and here there were three apartments and a dentist's office.

The main entrance to the building was directly on the street, and extending straight back from the front door was a wide hallway. Directly at the rear of this hallway, and facing the entrance, was the door to the Odell apartment, which bore the numeral "3." About halfway down the front hall, on the right hand side, was the stairway leading to the floors above; and directly beyond the stairway, also on the right, was a small reception-room with a wide archway instead of a door. Directly opposite to the stairway, in a small recess, stood the telephone switchboard. There was no elevator in the house.

Another important feature of this ground-floor plan was a small passageway at the rear of the main hall and at right angles to it, which led past the front walls of the Odell apartment to a door opening on a court at the west side of the building. This court was connected with the street by an alley four feet wide.

In the accompanying diagram this arrangement of the ground floor can be easily visualized, and I suggest that the reader fix it in his mind; for I doubt if ever before so simple and obvious an architectural design played such an important part in a criminal mystery. By its very simplicity and almost conventional familiarity — indeed, by its total lack of any puzzling complications—it proved so baffling to the investigators that the case threatened, for many days, to remain forever insoluble.

INCREASING COST OF SCHOOLS AND ROADS

The Texas government is spending more for highways and education than for all other government agencies. The increase in cost of both schools and highways during the past few years is causing serious concern among the best thinkers of the state.

SO WHY DO THEY CALL IT SPORT?

An interesting phenomenon in American life, which seems hard to account for when one reflects upon it, is the amazing seriousness with which we take our so-called sports. This seriousness is reflected in the sporting sections of the daily newspapers, which play up the activities of athletes to an extent bordering on the ridiculous.

In professional sporting events, and in many of the amateur variety as well, every element is present except that of true sportsmanship. Generally the only object sought is to win by fair means or foul.

Originated as friendly games for the exercise and recreation they afforded, baseball and other former pastimes have degenerated into grim struggles for notoriety and gate receipts.

AL SMITH NOT SO STRONG AT HOME

Al Smith claims that the people of his state are solidly behind him in his ambition to become president, but the records would not indicate this to be a fact. In the 1924 election his opponent for governor had a majority of 410,407 votes outside the city of New York; in 1926 his opponent polled a 272,308 majority outside the city. Only one person in five in the city of New York is American born, and it is in the city that his strength lies.

WHERE A BONEHEAD CLUB SHOULD THRIVE.

The success attending the original Bonehead club in Dallas is nothing short of phenomenal. Big men and little men have joined hands around the festive luncheon board and have made light of themselves and their fellows, just for the sake of the fun of it. In other words, a Bonehead club is a play organization composed of nine-tenths wordiness and one-tenth luncheon.

The object of the Bonehead club is easily grasped. It is without an object or objective. Therefore, such a club should thrive here. In this rarified West Texas atmosphere almost anything can happen.

DINNER STORIES

Obliging

The constable of a New England village, a man of exceedingly good nature, found it necessary to lock up three tramps who had strayed into his jurisdiction. Shortly after the arrest, he was met by the mayor of the village, who, observing the constable hurrying down the main street, asked:

"Where are you going, Constable?"

"Oh," exclaimed the constable, "the three tramps I just locked up want to play bridge, and I'm out hunting for a fourth."

Hard Luck

"What's the matter with your wife? She's all broken up lately."

"She got a terrible jar."

"What happened?"

"Why, she was assisting at a rummage sale, took off her new hat and somebody sold it for 35 cents."

Cutting!

"Why did Sally break her engagement with Jack?"

"She tried to cut her initials on a window with the diamond he gave her and—"

"Did it work?"

"Well, when she looked for the initials she found them on the diamond."

Out in the Country

A darky and his golden sweetheart, followed by three pickaninnies, applied to the courthouse clerk for a marriage license.

The clerk looked at the children and was properly scandalized. "You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, waiting to get married until you have a half-grown family—"

"Jedge, you'll have to ackskuse that," put the bride, sweetly. "De roads out our way has been so bad."

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Bile and "The Blues"

The liver is a spongy organ for the production of liquids necessary to digestion, being made from waste products of the body, an dare thrown out through the liver into the intestines to aid in digesting food at the same time that they are expelled.

When the skin becomes a yellow, sallow color, the tongue coated, and headaches persist, these are indications that bile is being stored up in the liver and not sufficiently eliminated. One in this condition is being literally poisoned, by bile which in the right quantity is helpful and necessary to digestion.

A frequent cause of this retention of bile is the stoppage of the bile ducts by catarrhal inflammation of the ducts, causing stricture; by pressure of tumors or feces in the hepatic fexture of the colon; also, the pressure caused by pregnancy, and the lodgment of gall stones which stop up the flow.

Constipation may also exist, and produce intestinal toxemia by the re-absorption of poisons which have not been expelled rapidly enough.

There may be no sign of an organic disease of the liver, but just an inability to function well enough to take care of the unnatural burden placed upon this organic function by one who is eating more food of every kind than the body can use and make a part of the cell structure.

Often there is an inability to take care of even a normal amount of food, because the body is enervated by bad habits other than eating, which waste the energy that should be used by the liver. A sedentary life, late hours, and excesses of every kind produce a condition which cannot really be completely overcome, even by the most judicious dieting.

After understanding these causes, it is not difficult to formulate the necessary method of cure. Bad habits, which cause this unwholesome retention, must be overcome. Unquestionably, the entire elimination of the starches, sugars and fats for a considerable period of time will bring about very satisfactory results, but the cure is more rapid if a fruit fast is strictly adhered to for a few days, followed by careful dieting until the liver is able to do a reasonable amount of work, and all bilious habits are corrected.

Do not expect to accomplish all of this by diet alone, for if not enough exercise is taken, it will be almost impossible to eat such a small amount of food as to make metabolism well-balanced, whereas, if vigorous physical culture exercises are indulged in each day, one does not have to be so careful in balancing the proper quantity and quality of food.

Long walks in the open air, with deep breathing, will bring about astonishing results in correcting faulty metabolism and adjusting the manufacture of bile so that no excess bile is accumulated in the liver or gall bladder.

If one has been over-balanced with bile for a long period of time, he must not expect an instantaneous readjustment; but, if proper health rules are followed consistently, I can assure you that a permanent cures can be achieved in a reasonably short length of time.

No matter how bad your state of mental depression, if you will get rid of your biliousness, you will soon find that you will no longer be upset with attacks of "the blues."

Questions and Answers

QUESTION: A Worried Parent writes: "My boy never wants to eat vegetables. Also, he always perspires very freely when sleeping. What can I do to make him eat more wholesome foods, and prevent this excessive perspiring so he can become strong?"

ANSWER: Your boy is not weak because he perspires, but because he is suffering from some toxemia in his body. His life is really being saved because he perspires and gets rid of some of these poisons during sleep. The best way to get him to eat green vegetables is to give him a fast for a few days and when he starts eating again give him only the foods he should have, and you will find he will be hungry for anything. Follow closely the menus which appear in this column.

QUESTION: J. B. Writes: "I am 57 years old, doing light inside work. Have been 20 pounds underweight for the past 30 years, but never sick—always on the job and full of pep. I eat two meals a day. Do you think I should eat more to try to gain in weight?"

ANSWER: Feeling as good as you do, I think it would be folly for you to do anything to try to gain weight. Your chances for reaching three score and ten are much better if your weight is kept slightly under that figure which is usually given in weight tables. If you will plan your meals so as to get all the different food elements your body requires, you need never be afraid of eating too little. The danger is always in eating too much.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to
FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By CHESTER CONKLIN

Chester Conklin didn't get into the movies by winning a beauty contest. He says that one day he got hungry and wandered into a moving picture studio, hoping some one would throw a pie at him.

They did, and Chester got $3 for his first day's work. He's a star now, but of course, the pie episode was "yawhs and yawhs ago."

In his early days—before the infant industry was born—Chester used to put on grease paint and baggy trousers and wallow in the sawdust for the Al G. Barnes circus. Before that he was a chestnutter in vaudeville and stock companies.

Conklin was born in Oskaloosa, Ia.,—if that makes any difference—and is now in his most roaring 40s. He is a married man with baby blue eyes, but makes no claim of possessing "it." His ambition is to be the tester in a kissproof lipstick factory, and the one great sadness of his life is that he didn't get the chance to play "Peter Pan."

Here's his favorite joke:

"Two bums were arrested and charged with a murder that had been committed in a local "speakaloo." The jury found them guilty and the judge sentenced them to hang by their necks until dead and heaven have mercy on their souls.

" The two bore up pretty well until the morning of the day set for the execution arrived.

"As they were being prepared for the gallows, one turned to the other and said:

CHESTER CONKLIN

"'Danged if I ain't about off me nut. I can't seem to get me thoughts together. Why, I can't even know what day of the week this is.'

"'Dis is Monday,' said the other condemned one.

"'Monday! Ye gawds! What a rotten way to start the week!'"

GUY WILLIAMS TURNS BACK CHAMPIONS IN OPENER, 4 TO 2

San Antonio Divides Double Bill With Waco And Retains League Lead

SPUD RALLIES NIPPED IN BUD

Fast Fielding Marks Game; Lapan, Estill Hit Hard

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 15.—The Spudders couldn't hit Lefty Williams' side arm service in the pinches Sunday and dropped their first game of the season with Fort Worth, 4 to 2.

The Spudders threatened several times, but twice with a rally brewing, batters hit the ball hard but right at a Cat infielder and the rally bursted with a low thud.

Pete Lapan, always a terror to Fort Worth, and Tom Estill, who pitched a fair game himself, figured in the scoring for Carl Williams' men. With two out in the second and Swenson on base as a result of a walk, Lapan singled to center and Estill rapped the ball against the right field stand for a two-bagger to produce the Wichita Falls runs.

Halted In Fifth

In the fifth, Wichita Falls had the bases filled, one out and Swenson grounded to LaFayette, who threw home to force a runner. Then Stanton missed a third strike to end this effort.

In the eighth, Estill socked the ball hard with men on first and third but had the misfortune to hit it straight at Williams' shoe laces. The Cat pitcher stooped, caught the liner before it hit dirt and threw to first for a double play.

The first Panther score came in the second on a two-bagger by Bonowitz, and a single by Richardson. Fort Worth forged ahead in the fifth on a single by Kibbie, double by Bischoff, a grounder that leaked through the infield for a hit for Williams, and a sacrifice fly. Bischoff, who once was a Spudder, singled to open the seventh for Fort Worth. Estill's throw to catch him off first was low and Bischoff took second. He went to third on an infield out and scored when Young's grounder got away from Turgeon.

Game Is Snappy

In spite of the cold weather, the two clubs put up a snappy exhibition. Pete Lapan would have registered three hits to impress the Cats with his prowess against them, but Young raced far back to take what should have been a Texas leaguer, and Lapan's third hit.

Lapan and Estill got half of the eight Spudder blows.

Bischoff got three of the nine Fort Worth hits. Fitzgerald avenged Lapan's near hit by robbing Kibbie in the sixth with a splendid running catch that made even the 5000 Fort Worth fans present admit that Fitzgerald is about on a par with their own high-powered ball hawk center fielder, Eddie Moore.

Turgeon stopped the second round of Fort Worth rally when he stabbed Kibbie's hot liner and threw to Benton for a double play. Richardson and Holland robbed Swenson and Fitzgerald respectively of hits by fine plays.

HODGES WINS AT OKLAHOMA

Jot Takes 'Century' Dash; Preps Cop Places

Jot Hodges, Wichita Falls Junior college track star, added another honor to his string Saturday in the Oklahoma relays at Norman by winning first place in the 100-yard dash over the leading dash men in the Missouri valley conference.

Jot beat out the record holder, Beal, of Oklahoma Baptist university in the final heat, running the race in 9:9. Beal was expected to walk away with the 100-yard dash this year after having set the Oklahoma relay record last year, but the lanky Hodges left him in the dust.

The four of the Wichita Falls high school squad scored a total of eight points at the Sooner meet.

Allred took second place in the javelin throw and was awarded a silver medal. Olan Dickey won third place both in the pole vault and the high jump and received a bronze medal.

The Coyote mile relay team, composed of Saye Meredith, Dickey and Allred placed fourth.

Coach J. N. Hall and his four athletes returned from the Sooner meet Saturday night by automobile.

Ritt's Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

The British empire may break up over this guy Tom Heeney. He changes nationalities faster than Lon Chaney swaps faces.

Tom came to America from New Zealand, called himself a Britisher with an Australian accent and acted like an Irishman on a rampage in Constantinople on Bastile day.

At first the boys thought Heeney had no more pugilistic brains than a boxing kangaroo, but when he started his private and personal war against all pugs in public he was as popular as a male movie star at an old maid's coffee social.

Now this shining son of the British empire is claimed by England, Australia, Ireland, New Zealand, Bermuda and Hogan's Alley. It's all the same to Tom as long as the payoff is in good, old American cush (or mazuma).

The Man Without a Country died 100 years too soon. Tom could have loaned him a couple or so and had enough left over to fill a Swiss hotel register.

Anyway, what difference does it make? A punch on the nose sounds the same in any launguage and a sock in the slats knows no nationalities.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

SHREVEPORT SPORTS will not win the Texas league pennant. At least, not with their present array. This impression was gained of Art Phelan's club in the opening series ending Saturday at Athletic park. The Sports are not well-balanced. They have three excellent veteran players in regular positions, a youngster or two who may develop satisfactorily; a fair catching staff and uncertain position. Such a lineup indicates they will do well to finish in the first division.

Dick Cox and Ziggy Sears, outfielders and Pete Kilduff, the second baseman, can hit. They are competent fielders, too, Wilson, formerly with Waco, may hit in a manner to warrant his retention in the cleanup role. Whelan at first base doesn't look very impressive. He may find class A baseball too fast. Holman at third base looks like a promising prospect. Bloxsom at shortstop is a speedy youth, apparently a capable fielder. But like Molman Bloxsom is only a prospect, and an uncertain one, at that.

THE SPORTS, judging from their games here, lack punch. They don't have too much speed, either. If the White Sox retain Charlie Barnabe, Grady Adkin and Al Williamson and don't send other pitchers, Phelan's hill staff is not one to strike terror to opposing batters.

JUST A FIGHT is to be staged April 30 in Madison Square Garden. So many so-called "elimination" heavyweight battles and affairs involving contenders in other divisions have been mild, enthusiasts of the sport of scrambling ears will welcome a setto in which the boys have nothing to do but fight. Jack Sharkey and Jack Delaney have nothing particular at stake when they meet on the last day of this month. Therefore, it seems likely they will actually get rough.

Britisher Leads L. A.-N. Y. Race

BRISTOW, Okla., April 15. (AP)—Peter Gavuzzi, stocky Britisher, advanced into the lead of the Pyle cross country race today by running the 34.8 miles from Chandler, Okla., to Britow in 4:27:57.

Ed Gardner, Seattle negro, tied the stretch with Gauzzi, leaving Andrew Payne, Oklahoma youth, in second place for elapsed time, 23 minutes, 26 seconds behind the new leader. Payne's time today tied him for the day with Harry A. Bramowitz, New York, in 5:20 flat.

Grandfield Wins Opener From Chattanooga, 13-9

Special to The Record News.

GRANDFIELD, Okla., April 15.—Grandfield defeated Chattanooga today, 13 to 9, in the opening of the Cotton Belt league here.

One for the Book

Nicknames are more than just nicknames to the Cincinnati Reds. With the Redlegs they constitute an art.

Hapless rookies with such given monickers as Van Rennselaer DeWitt, Llewellyn and the like may come to camp with the Reds awhile, but when they go away they are, either Pat, Nig, Boob or the like.

Frank Spruiell May came to the Reds and before he got his street socks off he was Jakey, and he stays Jakey.

Everett Virgil Prudy had fears which vanished when the boys clamped Pid on him, a name by which all big leaguers know him.

Horace Hills Ford, by the same token, is Hod.

Hugh Melville Critz is Cowboy.

Adolpho Luque, the Cuban, is Dolf—easier to say and spell.

Grover Cleveland Land had just hit camp when the boys started calling him Daddy. Daddy's a coach, so the name's a good one.

Peter Jablonowski, rookie pitcher, has become Jabby.

Eugene Franklin Hargraves need never have worried over his name. He was born to be called Bubbles.

Even Cincinnati's veteran president, who gave up his post last fall, August Hermann, was better known by his nickname Garry.

FRISCH'S MACE NIPS CUBS, 4-3

Frankie Hits Homer, Triple With Runner On Base

ST. LOUIS, April 15. (AP)—Frankie Frische, after making his third home run of the season in the fifth inning of today's game with the Cubs, tripled with Holm on base in the seventh for the deciding run and St. Louis won, 4 to 3. Score:

YAQUI JOE TO MEET HALLAS

Country Boy Owens Boxes In Ring Feature

Billy Hallas and Yaqui Joe are to go to the mat again tonight in one of those shindigs at the Gym. Hallas defeated Dutch Mantell his last appearance here, while Joe has won his last three matches at Alex Ross' athletic emporium. Their match tonight, therefore, looms as a corker.

Mantell, Jack Gorman and Teddy Waters were the three victims of the Indian. Joe and Hallas are the only two grapplers of those who make their frequent appearances here that are unbeaten this year in Wichita Falls.

The Hallas-Joe melee is to feature a wrestling-boxing show. In the boxing windup, Country Boy Owens, who climbs into the ring wearing his big hat and who sports trunks of vivid hue, is to meet Martin Craig. The Country Boy is the lad who whipped Alvie Anderson in two mills, his first starts as a professional, and won a host of friends.

Bob Raley and Billy Hollis, heavyweights, are to have a setto. Kenneth Owens faces Marshall Raley and Bill Daley meets Paul Plemmons in other ring bouts. There also will be a battle royal.

BUFFS TAKE DOUBLE BILL

HOUSTON, Tex., April 15. (AP)—Heinie Schuble, shortstop, and Red Worthington, right fielder, Sunday added vim, vigor and vitality to Houston's play, and the Buffs copped a double bill from the luckless Beaumont Exporters, 2-1 and 6-2.

"Wild Bill" Hollihan, the portsider who lived up to his name, "Big Jim" Lindsey, and "Rabbit" Powell were among the others that figured very prominently in Houston's twin killing.

Around 7,500 fans saw the games, and went home with a keen appetite induced by dodging pillows and the invigorating air. Score:

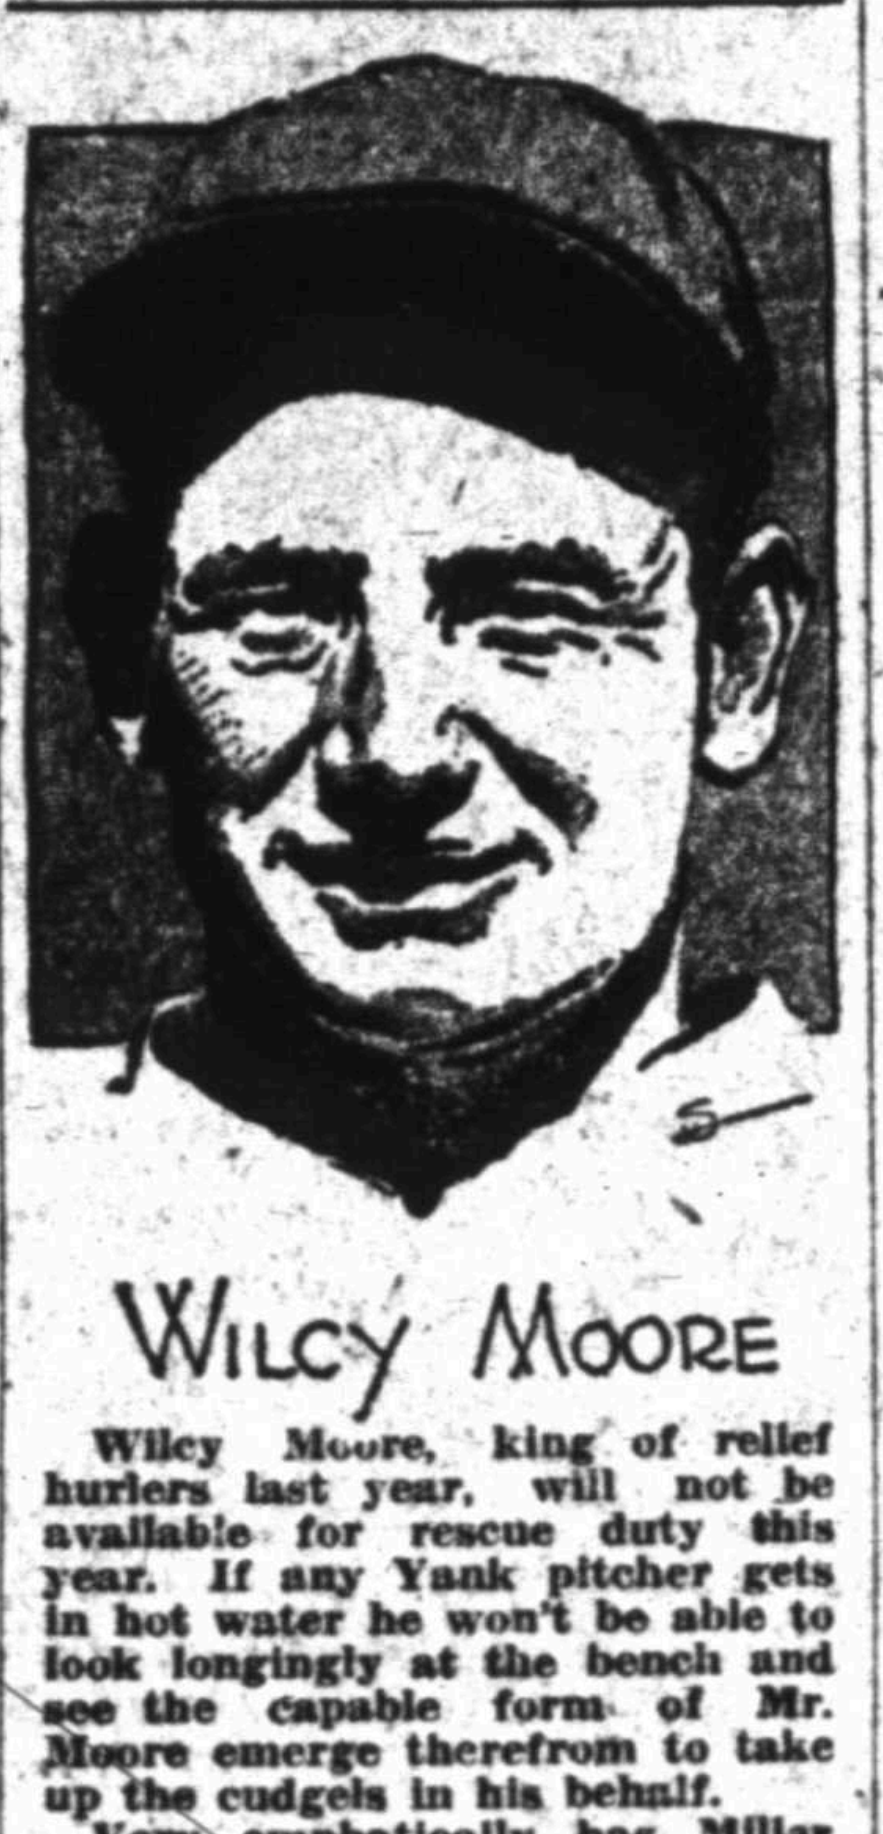
REGULAR NOW



Wilcy Moore, king of relief hurlers last year, will not be available for relief duty this year. If any Yank pitcher gets in hot water he'll have to look for help from the bench and see the capable form of Mr. Moore emerge therefrom to take up the cudgels in his behalf.

Very emphatically has Miller Huggins announced that Moore will be one of the champions' "Big Four," taking his place along with Pennock, Hoyt and Pipgras.

Last season was Moore's first in the big leagues.

Baker May Get Title Go If He Is Victor Tonight

NEW YORK, April 15. (UP)—Sergeant Sammy Baker, Mitchel Field, L. I., aviator will meet Billy Alger of Phoenix, Ariz., in a 10-round bout here Monday night. If Baker wins, he probably will be matched with Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, for a title bout.

Failure of Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat, to show any inclination towards meeting Dundee has virtually eliminated Hudkins as the leading challenger in New York state.

Jimmy McLarnin, Pacific coast lightweight, was due to arrive here today from the west to begin training for the 135-pound championship match with Sammy Mandell, the titleholder, here May 17.

DESERT REVOLT IN POLITICS

Old Dry Leaders Draw Bitter Attack

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Texas, April 15.—"Revolt in the Desert" describes the Democratic situation in Texas. The phrase was suggested in Governor Moody's harmony speech at Dallas. He said that even the Sahara looks as wet as the Gulf of Mexico to some prohibitionists.

The revolt against old dry leaders is certainly under way. The banner of a new leadership has been hoisted and the revolters are taking the offensive.

Love Fighter

Whether Tom Love, old leader, will fight it out or like many others, swing onto the band wagon, remains to be seen. Past history indicates that Love will not pass under the yoke. Once at a state Democratic convention held in San Antonio he was seemingly as badly beaten as at present. It was so acute that newspapers cartooned him stripped of political power and emerging barelegged in a barrel from the shadows of the Alamo. This time if the new leaders remain in their present frame of mind, Love will find no convenient barrel.

First came a broadside from State Chairman D. W. Wilcox, challenging Love to a court house test of the precinct pledge, which Attorney General Pollard had told Murrell Buckner of Dallas, was beyond the power of the state committee.

Another broadside is about to be delivered. The cannon this time will be loaded with the report that Love has been maneuvering to coalesce the ultra-drys and the remnant of the Ku Klux Klan.

Moody Takes Lead

At first the harmony meeting had much the effect of an oil painting viewed too close. In the better viewpoint of distance its outstanding points are:

1. Dan Moody became the active as well as titular head of the Texas Democrats.

2. Bolting which has become almost a popular pastime in the party since the Butte-Ferguson campaign is to be barred in the future.

3. The harmonizers in their resolutions differ from the constitutional Democrats principally in dropping "only" from the declaration that they will support those who in turn support prohibition. The harmonizers are also less insistent upon declaration for state enforcement of dry laws.

Harper Kirby, who again signs himself as chairman of the constitutionalists, after considerable doubt as to his status with the Love-Johnson organization, points out that both these differences favor Al Smith—that the New York governor can qualify under the harmony resolutions.

Why he considers that a discovery is not apparent, Governor Moody, who prepared the harmony resolutions, had previously announced that he did not propose to bar a man inuendo any more than he proposed to do so by name.

"Conversion" Seen

On the other hand, some of the constitutionalists claim to see in the governor's action his "conversion" to their way of thinking. George Armistead, postmaster at San Antonio under the Wilson administration, hails Moody as joining their ranks. In this connection it is pointed out that Moody's call for an anti-graft crusader fits Senator Walsh of Montana. It also fits Moody.

The Dallas meeting served, as Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, Austin editorial writer, delights to say, in bringing National Democratic Committeeman Jed Adams "into the picture." Adams heretofore has been in the background. His Dallas speech showed that he, too, has the old politician's belief that any movement ought to have some candidates. He suggested Jesse H. Jones. Outside of the apparent lack of any desire on Jones' part to be a candidate there is the more forceful objection that the Democrats are well satisfied to have Jones remain as treasurer for the organization and take care of whatever financial difficulties arise.

Al's Chances Hurt?

Adams passed over Governor Moody with the statement that Moody had said he would not accept a place on the national ticket. If Moody ever said that, his friends here aver, Adams has keener ears than most people. When asked for a definite statement this week the governor declined to comment one way or the other on what Adams had said on this point. So far, it is apparent that the governor is just as adverse to instructing against himself as instructing against any visitor to the Democratic national convention.

Whether the declarations of the harmony meeting were so strong that they damaged Smith's chances of getting the 40 votes from Texas is another political problem. Many Smith adherents apparently think so. Calls for Smith rallies at once began to appear after the Dallas harmony meeting.

B. Wilburn, Bruce Stout, Roy Ricketts, and Mark Hanna.

Two New Fire Plugs Installed By City

Two new fire plugs have been installed by the water department at Speedway and Harrison and at Speedway and Shawnee, according to announcements made Friday by Dr. A. H. Douglass.

They are "three way" plugs of a type that the pumper can be attached and great pressure given to carry the water a great distance.

DERRICK BURNS

Firemen Sunday afternoon were called to 1412 Second street, where they used 80 gallons of chemical in extinguishing a burning derrick. The loss was small.

Young Wichita Falls

Rose Mary Calvert celebrated her sixth birthday Saturday.

When The Record News asked Rose Mary's sister what cute things the girl could do, the answer was, "If she can do anything cute, I don't remember what it is"—all of which goes to prove that Rose Mary and her three older sisters are pretty typical of sisters anywhere.

Rose Mary is the youngest of the four sisters, and is the proud possessor of pretty brown eyes and dark brown hair. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Calvert, 1805 Eleventh street.

U. S. APPROVES LOCAL AIRPORT

Federal Official Visits Proposed Sight

Federal approval of the Wichita Falls municipal airport field, size, layout, and location, has been given by W. O. Snyder, Jr., airport specialist of the division of aeronautics of the U. S. Department of Commerce, according to an announcement by C. W. Cahoon, Jr., president of the airport.

"Mr. Snyder arrived in Wichita Falls from Amarillo a day ahead of his schedule," Mr. Cahoon said. "Friday, he inspected the field on the Burkburnett road and announced that it has the size, location and all other natural advantages for an excellent field. He particularly praised the natural drainage and the distance from hazards and danger obstacles of all kinds.

Comments on Cost

"Avoidance of cement or gravel runways, if possible, was urged, as taking off and landing into the wind is possible to a greater degree with a free field which is well sodded and has good drainage."

The extreme low cost also was commented on by Mr. Snyder. He said it is the lowest of any good field of which he has heard in the United States.

"In this respect, it is not a bad idea for us to remember that the Tulsa airport, situated the same distance from the business center as our airport is costing that city $300,000. Their land alone is costing them $170,000 or almost seven times as much as our entire layout.

"We are planning to start construction work at once. Our directors will meet the latter part of the week to pass finally on the lighting, hangars, marking and equipment.

Lighting System

A centralized lighting system probably will be used and it will be the finest that is available so that night landings and flying will be practical in Wichita Falls at all times. The hangar will be of steel and iron. The exact dimensions will be finally decided when the directors meet Friday. It will be about 100 feet long and 14 feet high.

As soon as the equipment is completed on the field, we will send in a final report to the government.

Maricle to Attend Postmasters' Meeting

O. P. Maricle, local postmaster, announced Saturday that he would leave Wichita Falls, either Thursday or Friday for Brownsville, where he will attend the annual convention of Texas postmasters, to be held there April 23, 24 and 25.

Mr. Maricle plans to leave Wichita Falls in his automobile, driving through the entire distance, approximately 700 miles. He plans to stop over in Austin on the return trip to visit a daughter there.

An effort probably will be made to bring the convention to Wichita Falls this year.

Dillow Named District Telephone Manager

GRANDFIELD, Okla., April 15.—J. M. Dillow, former owner of the Devol, Okla., Telephone company, this week received his appointment as district manager of the Southwest Telephone company, and entered upon his new duties at once, being stationed at Frederick.

Mr. Dillow's management includes exchanges at Grandfield, Frederick, Loveland, Hollister, Chattanooga, Devol, Randlett, Temple, Hastings, Comanche, Loco, Gould, Erick, Texola, Chillicothe, Texas.

GIVES ADDRESS

GRANDFIELD, Okla., April 15.—Appearing as the last number on the 1928 lyceum season, Josh Lee, lecturer, humorist, and poet, spoke before a large audience at the Grandfield high school auditorium.

Mr. Lee is head of the department of public speaking class at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, and is recognized throughout the country as one of the best of entertainers.

GIN COMPANY ELECTS

GRANDFIELD, Okla., April 15.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers' Co-operative Gin company Tuesday evening at the Gem theater, the following officers were elected:

W. O. Maloney, president; T. B. Simmons, vice president; Elmer Hoover, secretary, and Frank Dudenhoeffer and T. B. Simmons, new directors. Sam Hasenmyer was re-elected as director to succeed himself.

M'HAM RITES HELD SUNDAY

Youth Dies Despite Blood Transfusion

Funeral services for Billy J. McHam, Jr., 17, Wichita Falls high school senior, who died at a local hospital Saturday morning, were held from the First Church of Christ at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with the Rev. L. S. White, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Rosemont cemetery.

Billy rallied slightly Friday night following transfusion of blood Friday afternoon, but soon grew worse.

When physicians made a plea for subjects for blood transfusion in a last effort to save the boy's life, Lewis Foster, selected from more than 100 volunteers, gave about a pint of his blood to save his schoolmate's life.

Billy had been an employe of The Wichita Daily Times for the past three years.

Active pallbearers were Lewis Foster, Maurice Hudgins, Kenneth Mills, Virgil Daniel, J. N. Gallimore and Quillah Bittick.

Farmers Plan New Gin at Grandfield

GRANDFIELD, Okla., April 15.—It is likely that Grandfield will have two gins under the same name by the time ginning season opens here this fall, for at a meeting held Tuesday evening in the city hall, the group of farmers, headed by H. H. Selsor and J. G. Farquhar, decided to go ahead with the organization of the company and build a new gin.

The company recently went into temporary organization with the following officers: H. H. Selsor, president; J. G. Farquhar, vice president; H. F. Clemmer, secretary treasurer, and Whitt Polk and Marvin Witt as directors.

Mr. Selsor said that something like 30 farmers were in attendance Tuesday evening and that the report showed that 50 per cent of the stock had been sold and that the signed membership was 50, half enough to get a permit to operate.

A novelty of more than passing interest and note is that being presented at the Majestic as an added attraction along with Harold Lloyd in "Speedy." It is "Lady of Victories," a magnificently colored film of the difficulties which beset Napoleon after he decided to divorce the empress to please France and for the sake of his conquests. This short feature novelty is unusual in its color photography as well as for the story told, alone is worth the admission.

Harold Lloyd in "Speedy" of course is the big attraction and he lives up to expectations. The audiences were loud in their applause of approval.

Jakie Atz and his Katz down in Cowtown were shown on the screen on the Paramount newsreel. The show is far better than usual.

"Rose Marie" a feature film of great beauty opened at the Olympic Sunday, as Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" was being presented for the last time at the Strand. Those who did not get to see the picture and hear the vitaphone should make every attempt to see the first performance of the vitaphone if the opportunity is ever offered again in Wichita Falls.

Over at the Mission there is a big, fast stepping chorus which is delighting the boys who enjoy Mullen's Musical Maids. The wardrobe of this company, as well as its scenery, is far above the average. Rabbit Reed is going over like a million and should continue to please for some time.

"Freak" Insurance Carried Here Now

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Surgeons Protect Their Operating Hands

By GORDON BROWN

In this day of big business where fortunes are made and lost overnight by various and sundry ways, business men and the public in general are beginning to realize more and more the value of protected interests, regardless of what the hazard may be.

And in seeking this protection the insurance companies are called upon to provide the safety. In almost any city it is easy to find a company which will insure anything against everything. Besides life, fire, accident and other similar and commonplace policies it may be surprising to know that numerous policies are written which are more or less in the "freak" class of insurance."

Hands Insured

Wichita Falls has its share of this kind of insurance. Several surgeons of this city have taken out insurance in a sizable amount to compensate for any injury or accident which might happen to their operating hand. In the event an injury is sustained to this hand causing the surgeon to lose his ability to perform an operation, most of which are very delicate, his policy takes the place of his earning capacity.

Another policy in the freak class, but will be as common as automobile insurance in the next few years is airplane accident insurance. Two Wichitans have already subscribed to this kind of policy which gives protection from any kind of airplane accident in which they may be involved. It is far cheaper than auto accident insurance, too.

Rain insurance is becoming quite popular, according to insurance officials. This policy provides for all losses caused by rain. Three or four Wichita Falls' big stores carry this policy to protect against loss of sales on important days in their business such as special sales and similar days which are expected to result in heavy selling.

Only last week one large store which was holding a sale, insured for $5000 against as much as one-tenth of an inch rain between the hours of 5 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Drouth Insurance, Too

This kind of insurance is quite expensive, due to the great hazard taken by the insurance company. In Wichita county, April, June and July bring the heaviest rates on rain insurance as these are the months in which the most rain falls.

Although some people insure against rain, others insure against drouth. Only one policy of this nature has ever been sold in Wichita county, however. In the summer of 1926 a farmer insured his crops for $5000 against a lack of rainfall. The receipts of the opening day of the 1928 Texas league baseball season was insured for $3500 against rain. The rarity of the drouth policy is offset by numerous writings made on hail policies for the protection of wheat and oat crops. This policy is somewhat expensive due to the number of crops destroyed by this means.

One kind of policy which is exceedingly common but seldom heard of is the All Risk Jewelry policy which covers all losses on jewelry, including repairs, replacement, loss, theft, and any and all other jewelry hazards.

Another freak policy which is issued frequently is insurance on plate glass, which covers all loss from breakage. An example of this policy was made a few days ago when one of Wichita Falls' stores was having a sale. Such a mob turned out for the bargains that the pressure on the plate glass show windows became so heavy that the windows collapsed. The company's policy protected it from loss.

Liability Policies

A number of policies are written for the protection of the landlord. Among these is a public liability policy which protects the owner from the payment for accidents sustained by others on his property. The landlord may also insure his property against loss of rentals, caused by fire depression of business conditions.

A sprinkler insurance is also provided for loss caused by the leakage of automatic fire sprinklers.

It doesn't matter what it is, if you want it insured it won't be hard to find someone to write a policy on it.

Noted Pastor at Kiwanis Luncheon Today

The Wichita Falls Kiwanis club will hold its weekly meeting and luncheon at the Kemp hotel Monday noon, with Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist church of Abilene, as the speaker of the day. He has crossed the Atlantic 10 times and has visited 20 nations of the world.

A policy has been adopted, which will be put into effect Monday noon, whereby certain old members of the club will be assigned to sit with the new members of the club in order that new members may get first-hand information about Kiwanis.

'ROSE MARIE' WINS PRAISE

Film Version Called Equal To Musical Play

By The Record News Critic

"Rose Marie," which opened Sunday at the Olympic theater means fully as much to the screen as the famous musical play from which it was adopted meant to the stage.

In other words, the charm of Arthur Hammerstein's stage presentation by Otto Harboch and Oscar Hammerstein III, has lost none of its original greatness in its transition to the screen. It seems that Metro-Goldwyn Mayer deliberately set out to outdo its own good work of a few seasons ago when it adapted and filmed Lehar's "The Merry Widow."

Unlike as these two musicad plays are, they are both handled with a perfection which makes them great entertainment for audiences.

A grandeur of backgrounds in this French Canadian north woods story is emphasized by scenes and scenery of untold beauty.

Joan Crawford and James Murray are seen in the featured romantic roles, and each is ideally suited to the role. Miss Crawford has oft proved her ability to reach great heights, but in her portrayal of the daughter of the fur post she reaches a zenith.

James Murray, almost an unknown on the screen, proves to be a good actor who has a world of appearance and ability.

House Peters has an excellent role. Peters is one of the old players of the film world who seems to get better with the years. Others in the supporting cast include Gibson Gowland, Polly Moran, Creighton Hale, Gertrude Astor, L. Belmor, William Orlamond, and Harry Gribbons.

The picture is lavishly presented at the Olympic with the full musical score by Rudolph Friml and Herbert Stothart and should enjoy good patronage.

G. O. P. Organizer Visitor in City

"The factthat Herbert Hoover was a democrat until 1920 will kill whatever chance he might have for election as president in the eastern and northern states," declared J. P. Erwin of Fort Worth Sunday. Mr. Erwin is here to attempt organization of republicans of Wichita county into an uninstructed for president club and is district organizer of the republican state committee for an uninstructed delegation to the national republican convention.

"The rank and file of republicans in Texas," Mr. Erwin said, "are opposed to the enomination of Hoover, but R. B. Creager, would-be republican boss of Texas, has things so well planned that it is going to take a fight to nip his "Hoover for President plans."

Mr. Erwin is stopping at the Kemp hotel and will be in Wichita Falls for several days, he said. Congressman Wurzbach of Seguin and San Antonio, who is leading the fight against the instruction of delegates, has announced that he will speak at the Memorial auditorium here on the night of April 24.

Shrine Reservations Come in Slowly

The Miami shrine special reservations are coming in slowly, according to announcements made Sunday by J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial commissioner of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce. He asked that all who are contemplating the trip make reservations at once in order that proper arrangements may be made.

Invitations from shrines at Memphis, Birmingham, Atlanta and Jacksonville have been received for the Wichita Falls shriners to enjoy their hospitality on the way to Miami.

The train leaves here April 26 to arrive in Miami for the convention which will be held May 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Milk Checks Totaling $7500 Paid Out Here

These checks cover about 315,000 pounds of milk, according to C. L. Teissier, manager.

Trees and Shrubs Set Out Here By Park Department Don Spring Togs

The thousand sycamore and hackberry trees and the thousands of shrubs placed in parks in all parts of the city during the winter months, are beginning to wear their spring and early summer foliage, making the city more beautiful than at any other time in its history, according to C. C. Bunneberg, who is in charge of the park department.

"This work all was done in the winter time that they might be beautiful when summer came," he said. "It was not centralized in any one park, but was in all parks in the city."

Annual planting by householders was urged by Mr. Bunneberg who said that Wichita Falls could become a city beautiful if it would. "Any home owner can have a beautiful planting at the cost of only a few cents, if he wishes," he explained. "The seeds for annual planting can be obtained down town, and I believe that everyone in the city would like to see Wichita Falls a veritable flower garden this summer."

NOT LONG NOW

Till School Kids Will Start Summer Holiday

It won't be long now.

Five more weeks and schools of Wichita Falls will be closing for the year.

The public schools will close on Friday, May 25.

Saint Mary's academy will close May 30.

Final reviews are now being made in most of the schools in preparation for the final examinations.

Potatoes and Fruit Damaged by Cold

Peaches, potatoes, grapes and other products were materially damaged by the cold spell and freezing weather which struck Wichita Falls and surrounding vicinity Saturday night.

South of town, on the Solon Downing farm, it is reported that peaches are practically gone and that potatoes suffered to extensively by the cold wave. Julian McFall reports that his potato crop was all cut down and that his grape vines were affected considerably.

All other reports tell the same story, with potatoes being affected most, with other vegetables and truck suffering in proportion. However, it is generally believed that even potatoes will survive the setback and will come up again.

No report was available as to the extent of the damage, if any, more than a few miles from Wichita Falls but according to G. C. McGown, county agricultural agent, the damage to potatoes is probably general.

The cold spell was gradual in its coming, reaching its peak early Sunday morning at 32 degrees. At no time did the thermometer fall below this mark.

Rev. Grieder Submits Resignation to Church

The Rev. Daniel E. Grieder, junior pastor of the First Presbyterian church, submitted his resignation to the congregation at the morning services Sunday morning. The resignation being accepted, it now awaits action of the district presbytery, which meets at Plainview in May. The resignation is effective May 1.

On that date the Rev. Grieder will assume his new duties at the First Presbyterian church at Austin, Texas, having been called to that congregation about one month ago.

OLUSTEE, Okla., April 15.—Practically all of the peaches in the Olustee vicinity were killed by the recent cold spell. There are very few plums left.

Irish potatoes that were up stood the cold very well. The tops were slightly wilted, but it is thought the yield will not be cut on account of the cold spell.

Mr. Mannings, a man from South America, made an announcement at Huey. He said that we had the best geography class in Texas.

We are very proud to have somebody say that about us.

First he showed us an alligator's tooth, about six inches long. Then he showed us a skin of a boa constrictor, about 4 feet long. That was the baby boa.

Then he said he would bring the grandpa boa constrictor. It was about 25 feet long.

He is going to have a show and tell us about it, too.—Weldon WDalker, H. 4, Huey.

In reading we are memorizing a poem, it is called "The Sandpiper." It is written by Celia Thaxter.

And it is sloppy all around.

On a sunshiny day.

Abraham Lincoln Was Slow Show

Tuesday night I went to see the Abraham Lincoln play. There must have been something the matter either with me or the play, because during the first two acts I went to sleep.

A great deal of the play I knew, because I have been studying it in history.

A lot of it I did not understand. Picture shows are a whole lot better to me than plays. I guess it is because I have been to more movies than plays.—John Bone, Austin school.

Original Tales

The Life of Washington

When George Washington was a little boy he lived on a farm with his mother and helped work the field. One Saturday he caught his mother's favorite colt and thought he would ride it; so he bridled the pony and started off down the lane.

The pony ran away with him and he could not stop him. After a while the horse fell dead because he had run so much he broke his veins.

George loved books and spent most of his time reading them. One day he was sitting under a tree reading when the bully of the town came up and wanted to fight him. George did not want to fight but the bully kept egging it on until George got up and whipped him.

At the age of 19, George was a surveyor. He surveyed all the land in the state. At the age of 21 he was a messenger in the army.

One winter he took a message to a fort and started back. As he was crossing the river his boat upset and he was thrown out into the icy water. After much struggling he got out and returned with his message.

After the revolutionary war he was in his home town at a banquet and met a nice young woman whom he afterward learned was Miss Curtiss. All the while he watched her and she watched him. After the banquet he started to leave but they wanted him to stay. He said he couldn't, so the servant brought his horse to him. But he began to think of this lady he had met, so he told the servant to take his horse back to the stable.

Then he went in and proposed to her. Not long afterward he married her.

Then when he became president of the United States they were very happy. He never told a lie, and that shows honesty is the best policy.—William Mowry, high sixth, Huey school.

A Dialogue

Once a lady went to see a friend of hers. But she wasn't there, so she knocked on the door. Pretty soon she heard a voice and a little girl said pleasantly, "Won't you come in and have a seat? Mother isn't here but you may come in and sit down if you wish." "No, I am sorry but I haven't time. But could you tell me where she is?" "Yes, mam," the little girl said. "She went to the post office to get the mail." "Where is the post office?" asked the lady. The girl said, "You go one block south, and turn to your left and go three blocks north, turn around the corner and there is the post office." The lady went on. On her way she said, "That girl speaks good English."—Weldon Walker, high fourth, Huey school.

WHAT I WODUL LIKE TO BE FOR ONE HOUR

If I could be what I wanted to for one hour, I would be a king.

I would ride in a carriage which would be made of pearls, rubies, and diamonds. I would go all over town to every house of poor people.

My carriage would be magic so you see how I got all over town in an hour.

I would give the poor people plenty of money and food. Off I would go wishing them health, happiness and success.—By Ethel Jo Craig.

STORY OF A POLAR BEAR

My home is a way up north. I used to live up in warm country. One day it began to snow. The snow got into my fur and froze, it became white. It hurt me all over. I nearly froze.

I got used to it in a few years. My family has lived up there for thousands of years.

Now if I went back to the warm country I would die because it was hot.—Leon Blair, Benjamin Franklin.

THE GIANT'S HOUSE WITH THE SAUSAGE

Once upon a time a little boy and his sister were lost in the woods. They had not had a bite to eat in several days. So they strolled around.

The little boy's sister began to cry from despair. He kept begging her not to cry and he would go get her something to eat.

He went on and one till he came to a giant's house covered with sausages. He climbed on top of the house and peeked through a hole. He saw a giant and his wife, who were very hideous. He started to pull off a sausage and made a little noise.

The giant, who had very sharp ears, roared in a loud voice, "What are you doing in my house."

The little boy said in a wee voice, "I am a little bird." So he ran and ran till he reached the spot where his sister lay. When he gave her a sausage she stopped crying.

They made the sausage last a long time, but finally it was all gone. So his sister started to cry, but he said he would go get a sausage for them to eat. The sister said she would go with him. He didn't think much of that, but he finally let her go.

They climbed on the roof and looked in. They saw the old ugly giant and his wife eating supper. So he told his sister to hold out her apron and he would drop the sausages in it. But he slipped on a sausage and fell through the roof.

The giant said, "Ho! Ho! So this is who has been stealing my sausages."

The wife said, "He will be very fine to bake." So they stuffed him with food until he became so fat he could hardly stand up. Finally, the giant poked his head into the door and told the boy to stick out his finger.

So the boy stuck out a big wooden peg.

The giant said, "That will never do. He is so tough he will not be fit to eat." So it went on a long time.

Finally, they decided to eat him. So the giant called all his neighbors to come to the feast. But while the giant's wife was trying to poke the boy in the oven he pushed her in instead.

He then ran away far, far, into the forest till he found his sister.

They went home and lived happily ever after. They never went to the giant's house again.—Weldon Walker, high fourth, Huey.

THRIFT

I

We can save money, time and food.
To save some other things we should,
Save today and save tomorrow—
then you won't have to borrow.

II

What have you learned to save today: time or money, tell me, pray.

III

If you have money to save and money to lend, please think a minute before you spend.

IV

A thrifty person will never shirk,
I always plan out each day's work

V

Some money saved and some money spent, so a stingy old miser you'll not end.

VI

Save a part of what you earn—
the first thrift lesson then you learn.

VII

About thrift I now have talked—
I save some pennies when I walk.

VIII

If you'd always listen to what I say
If the gas bills you have to pay,
Be thrifty, hark! to what I say,
Save your fuel every day.

By Geneva Stout, high sixth, Fannin school.

GRANDMOTHER'S TIME

If I had lived in grandmother's time
I'd have to sit straight and prism,
She never learned to play baseball,
And she never learned to swim.

And I'm sure she would be shocked at me,
Playing football with other boys,
And with my dress above my knee,
With a bicycle among my toys.—

Louise Hall, high fifth, Crockett school.

And never got back till the Fourth of July.

Poet's Corner

IN ENGLISH

In English we made some good English rhymes. Here are some of mine:

I

Little Bo-Peep has lost her good English
And doesn't know where to find it,
Leave it alone and it will come home
Leaving bad English behind it.

II

Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater
Had good English and couldn't keep it,
He put it in a pumpkin shell
And then he kept good English very well.
—Ilalu Griffin, low sixth, Ben Franklin school.

DO YOUR DISHES DRY

When Betty washes dishes
She's always in a hurry,
So she does not wash them well;
This makes her mother weary.

When Betty wipes the dishes
She does not make they dry,
Ashamed they stand up on the shelf
And cry, and cry, and cry.

Now when you wash the dishes,
And dry the little dears,
Be sure to polish them, so well
They'll have no cause for tears.
—Erma Lu Stipe, high fourth, San Jacinto school.

PLEASE BRING IT BACK

Good English lies over the ocean,
Good English lies over the sea,
Will somebody go over the ocean,
And bring back good English to me?
—Margaret Pinson, high sixth, San Jacinto.

MARGARET PINSON

My name is Margaret Pinson
Good English I write with my pencil
I'll always try to use it every day
And keepd old slang knicked away.
—Margaret Pinson, high sixth, San Jacinto.

THE SEA NYMPHS

Oh, little sea nymphs
Make very small attempts
To pay their dues to the ocean wide.
They can't say for I will hide.

Oh, little sea nymphs of the sea,
Will you come and play with me?
Let's make pies, said I;
Let's make cherry pie.

But just then, can you guess?
Her little playmate came
And said, let's don't make pies;
Let's play some kind of games.

So they played and played and played
Till one's mother called
And said, come on now, girls;
It's time for bed.

So off with mother they went,
But before they went to bed
They never forgot their prayer,
And God was always there.
—By Jewell Reynolds, high fifth, San Jacinto.

THE BROWN THRUSH

There's a merry brown-thrush, sitting up in a tree,
He is singing to me; he is singing to me.
And what does he say, little girl, little boy?
"Oh, the world's running over with joy."
Ruby Lee, low fifth.

THE BURGLARS

When we were all asleep,
While they did peek.
The burglars were entering the house,
They were as still as a mouse.

They looked and they looked,
And then found a book,
Which was so interesting
They sat down and read.

When they thought it was time to go,
And then lo!
They heard someone coming down the stairs,
And they were afraid.

Then they went one way,
But didn't know what to say,
They jumped out the window,
As we came down the stairs.
—Thelma Wickersham, low fourth, room 5, Travis school
