Members Express Hope That No Local Firms Will Be Reported

Following complaints from several sources, members of the N. R. A. Compliance Board for this city held their first meeting Monday afternoon and stated, following the meeting, that they found considerable disregard on the part of employers to ignore the requirements stipulated in their agreement with President Roosevelt.

The tendency of disregard was found to be generally distributed in various forms of business operated here, including gins, service stations, store operators, etc.

"We do not wish to take drastic actions in the matter of enforcement," members said. "We realize that a $500 fine and a jail term is serious consequences for anyone to face and for that reason we are willing to do everything possible towards assisting local persons in complying with the national codes and rulings. It would be decidedly against our wishes to be forced to report continued violations to the district office and result in such drastic punishments, but persons who have signed the agreement must realize that their agreement holds until January 1, 1934, and until that time they will be expected by the government to carry out the measures stipulated in their codes and agreements with the president."

Members stated that a number of complaints had been filed with the local board and that a check-up was being made on several business institutions in regard to violations.

All reports of violations must be written out, but need not necessarily be signed, and presented to Judge R. H. Cocke, board secretary. All complaints are held strictly confidential by board members and the name of the person making the complaint will not be divulged under any circumstances—and persons who are working under violations of the N. R. A. rulings are urged by the board to submit their complaints as the matter of handling the complaints is considered as protection from the employer through the loss of positions and like results.

Government Loan Provisions Are Explained

As farmers this week began taking advantage of the government ten cent cotton loan offered through cotton dealers, gins, banks and loan agencies in the county, county officials made the following statement as taken from U. S. Government instructions.

Cotton produdcers may borrow from the Government ten cents per pound on cotton produced in 1933, classed low middling or better in grade and 7-8 inch or better in staple, and eight cents per pound for 1933 cotton classed as low middling or better in grade and below 7-8 inch in staple, with interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum.

Any local bank or other lending agency may make such loans and in turn sell the paper evidencing such loans to the Commodity Credit Corporation. The producer may be charged 15c per bale, and no more, for handling the papers, including any bank exchange.

The Commodity Credit Corporation will loan direct to cotton producers. Under this plan the note and loan agreement are made out, and sent direct to the Commodity Credit Corporation, together with warehouse receipts, and proceeds of loans will be remitted direct to the cotton producer.

The loan agreement contains the provision that the cotton producer will reduce his 1934 cotton acreage in accordance with such plan and provisions and may be promulgated by the Secretary of Agriculture, but in no event will be called upon to reduce his acreage

AN AIR FLIVVER

Within five years a business man living in a distant suburb may board his one-passenger air flivver, fly to the city and alight on his office roof. Returning at night he may land in his own yard with ease and safety. Suc his the prediction of conservative pilots and engineers.

This may happen in less than five years if plans for the commercial manufacture of the autogyro are carried out. Invented by Juan de la Cierva, a Spaniard, the autogyro is fitted with an ordinary airplane motor and propeller, but in addition has revolving wings in a sort of windmill arrangement, which enables it to sustain itself in the air at slo wspeed, thus permitting it to rise or land in the space of an ordinary tennis court.

The revolving wings are said to give the machine stability in flight, besides making a crash to earth almost impossible, even though the pilot should entirely lose control. It is declared that it "flies like an airplane but settles to earth like a parachute."

An American company is now perfecting a design for commercial production. If the claims of its promoters are made good, the autogyro may soon revolutionize short distance passenger traffic.

THE SPEED OF LIGHT

Marvelous as was the discovery that sound impulses could be transmitted by telephone and radio, their mere transmission would be of little value if they travelled only with the speed of ordinary sound.

To illustrate: If one were in San Francisco and desired to talk to someone in New York, and had a voice loud enough to be heard that distance, it would take nearly four hours for the message to cross the continent—for sound travels only 720 miles an hour.

But, fortunately, electrical and radio impulses travel with the speed of light, which for all practical purposes is instantaneous for terrestrial distances, or about 86,000 miles a second.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that so far the longest combined telephone and radio conversation ever carried on by a regular toll customer was between San Diego, California, and Stockholm, Sweden, a distance of 8,630 miles. By special arrangement longer distances have been covered.

Many improvements in telephone and radio communications will be made in the future, but there will be no increase in speed. Always the sounds are transmitted with the speed of light, the speediest thing in the universe.

AN EXPENSIVE GUEST

Count Ilya Tolstoy of Russia, when lecturing in America, had a very thrifty manager, who did not propose to allow the Count to len dhis presenceto any function without pay. So, when a group of Chicago professors sought to honor the Count by inviting him to a luncheon, the manager wired an acceptance, but stipulated that a fee of $50 would be charged.

The hospitably inclined professors were at first dumfounded by the suggestion that they must pay $50 for the privilege of entertaining the Count. After consultation, they delegated one of their number to reply to the manager which he did in the following telegram:

"How do you get that way? We might be able to afford breakfast or a chocolate soda with the Count. What is your scale for tea and toast with Tolstoy? Also go jump in the lake."

A pleasing part of the story is that Count Tolstoy later told it on himself and exhibited the telegram to amused newspaper men.

The dock recently completed at Southhampton, England, is the largest in the world and is capable of berthing eight of the world's largest vessels at the same time.

A MESSAGE TO GARCIA

One of the most dramatic exploits of the Spanish-American War was recalled in a recent article concerning Col. Andrew S. Rowman,U. S. Army, retired.

In 1898, shortly before the declaration of war on Spain, President McKinley desired to communicate with General Garcia of the Cuban forces, who was with his revolutionary army somewhere in the wilds of Cuba; just where, no one knew. Rowman, then a lieutenant, was selected for the hazardous and seeming impossible task of finding Garcia, and set out alone on his mission.

Going first to Jamaica, he crossed to Cuba in an open boat, and after a nine-day search, aided by Cuban patriots, he found General Garcia, delivered his message and returned to Washington with the information desired by the President, after several narrow escapes from capture and death.

His exploit was immortalized in Elbert Hubbard's editorial "A Message to Garcia," of which more than 40 million copies have been printed in many languages. Rowman in 1923 wrote his own story of "How I Carried the Message to Garcia."

Hubbard's editorial and Rowman's story are both inspiring pieces of writing which no one should fail to read.

A Chicago man was shot by Chinese bandits. What a lot of transportation money he wasted!

The mystery about mystery stories is how one plot can yield so many.

Another bad feature of the situation is the slump in gangster funerals.

It would be fine if the nations could settle their differences in the Olympiad manner.

Illustrating how customs change, a recent writer reminds us that in 1790 Congress passed a law that each soldier and sailor should be furnished a quarter of a pint of rum, brandy or whisky daily.

Another paragrapher beat us to it by saying that the government's program for destroying brood sows and pigs should be extended to include road hogs.

Silvertown Tire Has Golden Ply

Blowout Prevention Now Claimed For New Goodrich Product

"Three times safer" is the claim made by the B. F. Goodrich Company for its new "Golden Ply" Safety Silvertown which was recently announced, according to L. Z. Cone, Goodrich tire dealer located at the Wellington Motor Company.

"Hgh speeds and smaller wheels, setting up a terrific centrifugal force, together with the heat of friction caused by the rapid revolution of the tire on the road and the constant flexing of the tire carcass, bring about tire failure under today's service conditions," Mr. Cone said.

"A new kind of rubber compound, designed to resist heat and to bind more firmly the tread and tire plies, is the development which Goodrich tire engineers claim makes this new product three times safer than any ordinary constructed tire.

"This claim is not based on theory," Mr. Cone declared. "For months before this tire was publicly announced, it was tested on the road and in the Goodrich laboratories against every conceivable service hazard.

"On the fastest track in the United States and at the hands of impartial test drivers, this new 'Golden Ply' Silvertown stood up three times as long as any other tire.

"The Goodrich Silver Fleet then put the 'Golden Ply' tire on the highway in the north and south, and again it stood up under exceptional conditions. The Goodrich 'torture chamber,' said to subject tires to more gruelling hardships than any laboratory of its kind, failed to break the claim that the new tire is 'three times safer.'

"The 'Golden Ply' protects the tire where protection is most needed," Mr. Cone said.

"By preventing separation of the fabric and tread, internal blisters are eliminated. Thus, the origin of blowouts attributed to this cause is removed and a dangerous motoring hazard overcome."

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

Along the Texas coast in the 60's often hog raisers fed their hogs on fish they had seined.

We have several records of owners of hogs in some of the upland countries of Southwest Texas driving their hogs to the coast to fatten them on fish.

In the spring of 1869 the Snyder brothers of Georgetown, Texas found range hogs in Mason County fat on the flesh of cattle that had been killed for their hides.

In 1873 Colonel Ike Pryor of San Antonio, Texas/started up the trail with cows in the herd he found 500 young calves, which he killed and fed to hogs.

Contrary to a rather popular opinion, the hog is not a native of America, the razorback was the descendant of domesticated hogs that had been imported.

When De Soto with his six hundred men landed in Florida, 1539, to explore for gold, he brought along "thirteen sows." A year later—marvelous example of reproductivity—the thirteen had increased to three hundred," and an allowance of half a pound of pork daily, with some "boiled herbs," was affording, temporarily, the only food the Spanish fortune seekers had.

Not all the sows were killed, however, for after the Spaniards had wandered over the land two more years, the swine herd numbered 700, and following De Soto's death they were sold to the Indians.

In 1689, the Spaniards saw running loose about the ruins of La Salle's fort, wild pigs, which was located on Lavaca Bay in Texas.

Whatever their origin, the razorbacks were a hardy and prolific breed. They throve in malarial marshes; they pushed far ahead of settlers out into the roughest and most arid regions of the state, sometimes ranging as far as ten miles away from water.

They desired no choicer diet than a mixture of prickly pear apples and rattlesnakes.

It is good to know that a few of the old spotted razorbacks still exist in parts of Southwest Texas.

They were hunted down and killed out of this sparsely settled region because they are great enemies to lambs and kids, and the Devil's River now belongs largely to the goat and sheep industry.

Hog trailing was a good business once, for instance, in 1827, the keeper of a turnpike gate near the Cumberland River certified that 105,517 hogs had during that year been driven through the gate on their way to the South Atlantic states.

On November 7, 1848, N. M. Dennis and Joe Dennis, with their wives, seventeen children, one cousin, and one negro slave, left Madison County, Arkansas, for Texas with three two-horse wagons, one ox-wagon, and five hundred head of young hogs.

The larger drove of hogs generally numbered around 1000 and like the cowboys, the hog drovers developed sing-song chants to quiet their charges.

The hog business was a good industry on the frontier because the Indians could not steal them as easily as cattle and horses.

Dr. Ruth Darby of the Infants' Hospital in London saved the life of a baby by giving her blood at three successive transfusions.

Tree Army Boys Begin New Work

By JOHN HOLT

We are still pushing forward with our work in the "Tree Army." We have been having some rather cold weather for the past few days, but bad weather doesn't seem to check the "3 C" boys. They go forward every day in the week except Saturday and Sunday, and then they go in every direction.

Camp life is rather dull during the week end for most of the boys have some place to go. Things have changed quite a bit since the new officers took charge, October 1. A lot of the boys have quit the old habit of coming in at late hours and yelling like Commanche Indians just to see how many boys they can wake up. (They don't like the looks of the new guard house.)

We have a few new rules and regulations to follow, but we still have reville at 6 a. m. and "Revelry" from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. We still have about 200 pounds of spuds on the menu each day. (That part of the menu hasn't been changed since the C. C. C. was organized. Almost everybody in the C. C. C. is wishing for a short spud crop next spring.

A lot of the boys have been wearing their new winter clothes. All of them say that the new wool coats and overcoats are the real thing for these cold mornings. We have already discovered that a coat doesn't have to fit perfectly to be warm. The coats and overcoats came in two sizes, (too large and too small.) The big boys got the small coats and the small boys the large ones; nevertheless, we have traded and bargained with each other until almost everyone has a coat that fits very well.

Cecil Baker took his new overcoat to the tailor shop to have it pressed and the tailor told him that he could not press circus tents, so Cecil is wondering how and where he is going to get a pressing job done.

Alvis Hudson is off his diet at last and he says that he will never be sick on pineapples any more for he doesn't intend to eat any more. That just means more pineapple for some other guy.

For the entire third quarter of the year the number of failures was 51 per cent less than for the corresponding period last year; total liabilities were 51 per cent less; and assets of the failed concerns were 54 per cent less than those of last year.

Average liabilities per failure were $46,944, compared with $23,182 in August and $17,000 in September, 1932.

Baptists To Hold State Meeting At Ft. Worth Nov. 7

Eighty-Fifth Annual Meet Marks Century Of Progress Session

The Baptist General Convention of Texas which will hold its eighty-fifth annual session at Fort Worth beginning November 7, will this year celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the beginning of Baptist work in Texas. The Convention program will give large space to "Our Century of Progress," and will present the story of the first Baptist organization in Texas. This church was organized in Illinois and moved to Texas as a unit, crossing the Sabine River in November, 1833.

Dr. J. Howard Williams, general secretary of the convention, announces that Texas Baptists will celebrate their "Century of Progress" with a great Mission Offering amounting of $134,000.00. Some $50,000.00 of this fund has already been paid in, and Dr. Williams expressed himself as being very hopeful that Texas Baptists would raise the remaining $85,000.00 within the next two weeks.

During this fall Texas Baptists have held 107 associational meetings all over Texas, with record attendance in almost every instance, demonstrating the progress of the past century. When the first organized group of Baptists came into Texas one hundred years ago, there were less than fifty Baptists in the State. At this time there are more than five hundred thousand white Baptists, and a total of more than a million of all races according to Dr. Williams.

At the Fort Worth meeting, representatives from various mission fields will speak of the work Baptists are doing there, and the convention will receive reports from the work of Baptists all over the world. More than five thousand visitors are expected to attend the convention.

In Memory of
Mrs. Grace Goodnight

GRACE

We can not think of Grace as dead,
But as one to a sweeter life sped;
A soul grown weary of its earthly fare
And braved its way back to its great Somewhere.

Beloved, why do you mourn when you may feel that she,
In her Somewhere dreaming is more blessed than we?
We could not dispute the wisdom of our God,
Then why do we mourn when they're beneath the sod?

A smile was on her lips, how tranquil is her rest,
Would you bring her back and her soul of its glory divest,
Ah, she has made for you Heaven more alluring,
Your faith, your hope, your all more enduring.

No, we cannot think of her as dead,
But as one to a sweeter life sped;
A soul grown weary of her earthly fare
And braved its way back to its great Somewhere.

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

In the midst of the best business volume in three years, I find a discouraging uncertainty in the minds of many thoughtful people regarding the future. The immediate present is very good and they will all admit it, but to their minds there is no rosy glow on the horizon. Personally, I am disposed to look for the best. The situation either looks bad or very good depending on where you start looking. If you use March 4 of this year as a viewpoint, you come to the conclusion that great improvements have been wrought. If you view it from the present light of improvements that are sorely needed, then there is much to be hoped for.

Whether you recognize it or not, Roosevelt is embarking on a strictly controlled and limited inflation designed to raise commodity prices. While it is disappointing to the extreme inflationists, it is a step in the right direction according to my notion. The daily papers are very careful to call it by other names such as devaluation of the dollar, purchase of gold at higher prices, etc., but it is a mild form of inflation just the same. It is encouraging to me, but I wish it had happened in September. It would have helped us more in this community if it had occurred before any of our crops were sold. The trouble is that tremendous pressure has been and still is being brought to bear on the President from opposite directions. Those who owe money want inflation, and those who have money want it to continue as it is.

The mid-west is openly criticizing the N. R. A. and the recovery program. So far there has been no open criticism locally, but there is considerable sentiment seething under cover. If business continues to increase it will never come to light as it did in Iowa, but if it falls off you can look for it in Wellington. I think a good thing to keep in mind is the conditions we had under the old deal before we became too caustic about the new deal. However, it is a fact and I see no reason to keep it hidden, that agricultural communities are restless under the regulations of the N. R. A.

I don't know toward what form of government we are drifting, but it is evident that it is changing. As this change occurs there is one thing the people should guard with zealous care and that is the freedom of the press and platform. Recently in Virginia a sub-official took an editor to task for certain statements saying that they were a violation of N. R. A. Mrs. Frances Perkins immediately wired the under-official that he had no right to tell any editor anywhere what he could or could not publish. Her attitude is perfectly correct, but the fact that she had to call a subordinate down who was trying to intimidate the press shows the direction we are heading for when the Government starts regulating everything. If freedom of the press and of speech is lost, then we are driving toward the condition when a Stalin or a Hitler can step in and take away our liberties. We have grown so accustomed to them—the right of a trial by jury, etc.—that we do not realize how precious they are until we realize that the German people have lost theirs in the last year.

Mrs. O. O. Adams stopped me on the streets Saturday and said, "I just wanted to shake your hand on what you said about this country staying out of it, if Europe gets into another war." That is right, and I expect many mothers feel the same way. And now is the time to start talking against the United States meddling in a foreign quarrel. It can't be done after war is declared. In war times, the freedom of the press doesn't amount to much. It is sedition to crticize the government for fighting after war has been declared. As I said last week the time to talk against war is while we are still at peace.

The First Battle Is Won

« « « but united effort is still needed

Now is the time for the farmers of this community to show their determination to complete the task outlined for this year and that has been so successfully pursued thus far. Loans have been made by individuals to relieve the most urgent pressure. Making these loans, however, does not mean that your gin has been paid for, but that it has only been financed.

The farmers who made the loans must be paid, before our gin is in good condition. The success of this second step still depends upon the support we give the gin. Refinancing is only a fortification thrown up against an indebtedness that must be wiped out before victory is ours. When that day comes the prospects for every cotton grower in Collingsworth County will be improved.

Don't forget that we meet Saturday, November 4, to set the time for the big barbecue. Won't that be a fine time to get together for a feast and forget the depression.

Remember that the U. S. Government Classer on our grounds will be able to serve you with the 10c cotton loan.

Seek To Remove Industries To More Rural Points

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Interior, Ikes, this week, announced plans for the government's first subsistence homestead project.

It will be a demonstration of spreading out industries away from congested metropolitan centers.

The first project will be for 200 unemployed coal miners and their families near Norgantown, W. Va., for whom prospects of re-employment in the mines has vanished. Some have been without steady work for five years and more, Ickes said.

Modest Homes

The demonstration project calls for construction of modest homes with from two to four acres of land for each family suitable for the production of foodstuffs or home consumption and poultry raising. The homes will cost about $2,000 each and will become the property of the settler under 20-year purchase contracts.

The government will purchase for the project the Arthur Dale farm in West Virginia, which, according to legend, was surveyed by George Washington when he was a young man.

Special Equipment

"In the absence of a private industry immediately available for transfer to the farm," Ickes said, "it has been arranged that a factory on the settlement shall produce special equipment required by the Postoffice Department.

The community wil be self-governing, after the New England town-meeting plan. A school will be established, which will also serve as a community center. The factory will not be more than two miles from any of the homsteads on the 1,100-acre plot.

The project will be financed out of a $25,000,000 fund set aside in the recovery act for this purpose.

Twenty-Six Are Believed Lost As Steamer Founders

PHILDELPHIA, — Twenty-six lives were believed lost in the sinking of the Grecian steamer, Annoula, in a treffic hurricane off North Carolina last Saturday, it was stated by five survivors who landed here today on a rescue vessel.

Brief reports last Tuesday from the rescue ship, the steamer Montello, indicated 21 persons were missing.

Survivors were picked up Sunday night in life boats about 110 miles northwest of Bermuda after sailing approximately 60 miles from the position of the wreck.

Captain George Couvielos of the Annoula was confined to a stateroom of the rescue ship with injuries received while in his vessel and later will be taken to a hospital. The other four apparantly were in good health, after being treated for shock and exposure aboard the Montello.

Captain Couvielos said he ordered the wireless operator to his cabin early Saturday morning, intending to order him to send out a call for help.

"He opened the door of my cabin standing in water ankle deep," the captain related, a vast wave broke over the ship and I saw him carried overboard. I was knocked senseless but I came to swimming in my stateroom.

"Another wave suddenly ripped off the top of the cabin and I was swimming in the open sea. I don't know how I managed to do it but after a few minutes I reached the one lifeboat that had not foundered. The four men in it pulled me in."

Other survivors said ten men leaped into the water at one time as the ship foundered. Of these only two made the lifeboat. Others who were lost are believed to have gone down with the ship.

The Louisiana Purchase of 1,171,931 square miles comprised the following states—Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, and parts of Alabama, Mississippi, Oregon, North and South Dakota, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Minnesota, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and Oklahoma.

DEPENDABLE FOR QUALITY AND SAVINGS

Wellington, Texas.
October 21, 1933

Mr. Deskins Wells, Editor,
Wellington Leader,
Wellington, Texas.

Dear Mr. Wells:

We are confident that you will be interested to know that our sales, since we opened our new food store in Wellington, have been very, very gratifying! On the opening day, September 30th, they were not only beyond our expectations, but have also held up much better than we anticipated since.

This fine showing, we believe, has been due to three things: the high quality of our groceries, vegetables, fruits and meats; the exceptionally reasonable prices we offer; and especially the unusually effective advertising value of the WELLINGTON LEADER.

We have, as you know, used the WELLINGTON LEADER exclusively each week to bring home to housewives in your trade territory the advantage of doing all their grocery shopping in Wellington at Furr Food Store.

This welcome experience in our new store has made us realize the fact that you have a remarkable newspaper with much beyond customary reader interest and advertising pulling power. Also, we are convinced that Collingsworth, Childress and Harmon County people have both the means and willingness to buy good values when they are called to their attention in the LEADER.

The splendid cooperation you have been extending to us toward the end of making our advertising as effective as possible, has been appreciated very much. We hardly need say that it is our intention to continue our advertising patronage in the LEADER on a generous basis.

Very truly yours,
FURR FOOD STORES, Inc.

Head Of District Gas Office Makes Cost Comparisons

The Gas Company advertisement which will be found in today's paper makes a comparison between amounts which the average family spends annually for milk, bread and other items in daily use, and the average amount which residental customers in this community paid for all gas used for household purposes during the past year. According to Mr. G. L. Taylor, District Manager of the company, this announcement inaugurates the regular winter series of advertisements which will be devoted to the use of gas for heating purposes.

With the approach of winter, Mr. Taylor points out that following a few simple rules will result in a more efficient and economical use of gas for househeating. "In the first place," said Mr. Taylor, "heaters should be kept in good working order. A blue flame is characteristic of gas when burning efficiently, while a yellow flame indicates waste of fuel. Many people do not remove or cover their gas heaters during the summer. As a result, it is probable that there is an accumulation of dust and dirt around the burners which may interfere with efficient operation. It is advisable to inspect all gas heating equipment now, to see that everything is ready for use. The Company will be glad to inspect any gas heating appliance that does not appear to be functioning properly. This is a part of our service to our customers."

Other suggestions made by Mr. Taylor were limiting the use of heating equipment to the time it is actually needed, and lowering the flame on the burners after desired room temperatures have been reached. He added that the company is ready at any time to consult with customers and to assist them in securing the best possible service from their gas appliances.

Texas U. Gets Rare Bible

AUSTIN—What library authorities deem the greatest single book ever brought into the State has just been given to The University of Texas by Mrs. Miriam Lutcher Stark of Orange, Texas. This is a first edition of the authorized translation of the Bible, familiarly known as the King James Translation printed in 1611.. Because of its influence upon the development of the English language and literature it has come to be called the "greatest book in the world."

In 1604 King James of England sought out the best scholars of his kingdom and entrusted to them the task of revising "the Bishop's Bible," the edition then in most common use. The result, after seven years of labor, was the most admirable translation of the Bible ever made in any language, the model by which the English tongue has developed.

A perfect copy has long been unattainable. The Stark copy is an unusually good one, being the tallest known. It was bought several weeks ago in England by Mrs. Stark, who is adding it to her collection already given to the University.

Mrs. Stark, mother of Regent H. J. Lutcher Stark, has given to The University of Texas a collection of rare books and manuscripts valued at approximately three million dollars, and a fine arts museum of equal or greater value.

"Look John—A NEW IRON SKILLET, THE KIND MOTHER ALWAYS USED"

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

John: "It gives me an appetite just to look at it, Martha. Are you going to cook something now?" Martha: "No, John, I must 'cure' it before using it—you see, after it gets very hot, I grease it thoroughly, and the grease goes right into the metal, leaving an oily surface that further cooking and washing do not take away." John: "Why, that's much like the theory of Germ Processed—the motor oil we are using—only Conoco puts an extra oiliness in the mineral motor oil that gives it penetrativeness. How easily understood the 'Hidden Quart' is. Of course, our car starts easily and runs quietly! It must save wear, too." Martha: "Why don't other oil companies use that good method, John?" John: "It's patented and belongs only to Conoco in North America." Martha: "But does oil make our car start easily? I thought that was gasoline." John: "The oil helps, Martha, but quick starting is a feature of Conoco Bronze, so is pickup, power, mileage, and anti-knock. We can thank Conoco for saving us money this year. Let the weather get cold! With Germ Processed Winter Grade Oil and Conoco Bronze, we're all set. It's a great combination."

CONOCO
at the sign of the Red Triangle

Full motor protection, especially in cold motor starting, can be found only in Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil because the penetrative oiliness, called "The Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Conoco Germ Processed Oil is the highest grade motor oil obtainable . . . the paraffin base crude oil sources, the scientific skill and the most modern of refineries combine to make it so. Then it is Germ Processed with an exclusive Conoco formula.

Instant Starting and Lightning Pick-up can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline, and without sacrifice of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled—all the possible fuel needs of modern cars have been fulfilled at no increase in price.

It can be easily identified by its bronze color but you must be sure it is Conoco Bronze Gasoline for only in this way can its advantages of unusual performance and greater economy be obtained.

Nazarene Church To Celebrate Silver Jubilee With International Programs

By REV. D. W. SIMPSON

Although young in years, the Church of the Nazarene, which Sunday begins the celebration of its Silver Jubilee Anniversary, has a record of outstanding achievement since the merger a quarter of a century ago at Pilot Point, Texas, of the Pentecostal Churches of America, representing the eastern section of the country and the Holiness Church of Christ, representing the Southern states, with the Nazarene Church, which represented the west.

So, for five Sundays, Nazarene churches all over the country, as well as those in foreign lands, will have special programs. Sunday will be "rally day", culminating with an attendance of 200,000 in the Sunday schools.

After the union of the three bodies now composing the Church of the Nazarene, the total membership amounted to 10,414, with 606 ministers and 228 churches. Now the membership is well over 100,000; there are 3,335 ministers and 1,861 churches.

The first Nazarene Church was founded by the late Dr. Phineas F. Bresee at Los Angeles, Calif., in October, 1895. Dr. Bresee was born December 31, 1838 at Franklin, Delaware county, N. Y., was e son of a Huguenot refugee. parents were devout Methodist their teaching led him to seek inistry when he was 17 years When his parents moved to a, Dr. Bresee's first preaching s on a circuit in Iowa County.

Following several years of hardships building churches in a sparsely settled district, Dr. Bresee was ent to Des Moines, where he remained during the years of the Civil War. Until 1883, Dr. Bresee served in various pastorates in Iowa, including Council Bluffs, Red Oak, Clarinda, Chariton and Creston. He began work at Los Angeles as pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

His zeal as a revivalist and evangelist, however, became known throughout Southern California, after hehad served in other pastorates elsewhere, Dr. Bresee desired to start a church in the heart of Los Angeles, where he could preach to the poor. The Methodist Conference declined to give him permission to conduct that work as a member of the Conference, but he continued his work at the Peniel Mission. In October, 1895, Dr. Bresee and a group of friends rented a hall on South Main street and it was here that the Church of the Nazarene was born.

From this small beginning the church grew until a general Assembly held in Chicago in October, 1907, ratified the union of the Associated Pentecostal churches of America with the Church of the Nazarene. But it was not until the next year that the Holiness church of Christ came in. At both of these general assemblies, Dr. Bresee presided. The founder died in 1915.

At the services Sunday the Rev. D. W. Simpson will outline the program of the Jubilee anniversary. Each of the five Sundays will be devoted to some phase of religious work. November 5 will be Church Appreciation Day, with emphasis on the aims and developments of the church. The program will close November 26, designated as "Thanksgiving Jubilee Anniversary," at which time a contribution of one dollar from each member yill be used as a fund for foreign missions and other purposes.

Patricia Steward, 5, who won a cakebaking prize at the Amarillo, Texas, fair, was the youngest of the domestic science department's exhibitors.
