MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

"Looking Backward" furnishes material for an interesting story. General Jacob F. Wolters and his soldiers cleaned up Galveston and made it possible for the commerce carriers of the seas to come and go without interruption. General Jacob F. Wolters and his soldiers are cleaning up Mexia and making it impossible for the bootlegger, the crooked gambler, the brutal thug, the unclean lepers and their harlots to exist in the Mexia territory under martial law. Twelve years ago General Jacob F. Wolters was denounced by many self-elected reformers to be the mouthpiece of the brewers and slums of Texas. General Wolters hasn't changed. He was as clean and as fearless in those days as he is today, as strenuous a champion of law enforcement as he is today and as upright in his private life as he is today. He was an anti-prohibitionist then and advocated drastic regulation of the liquor traffic instead of statewide or nationwide prohibition. In those memorable days General Wolters was referred to by many of his critics as a "Dutchman" and one noted prohibition leader referred to his followers as "beer swilling Dutch." It was contemptible of course. Wolters is a native Texan. His father was a gallant Confederate soldier. His grandfather fought at San Jacinto. Wolters' sons trained at Camp Bowie and saw services oversea. General Wolters is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and offered his services to his country in the Word War. There is another instance or example: Former State Senator John G. Willacy has been appointed state tax commissioner by Governor Neff. The governor made no mistake when he appointed Willacy. He is an expert when it comes to taxation matters and has a constructive brain as well as a real backbone. John G. Willacy began life in Kentucky. He became a locomotive engineer in Texas. He invaded politics and was for twenty years a leader of the anti-prohibition forces and chairman of the finance committee of the state senate Many of the wisest laws in the statute books were placed there by Willacy. For years and years he was spitted over a slow fire by his critics for the reason that he believed regulation of the liquor traffic preferable to the outlawery of the liquor traffic. One day Willacy made a discovery that it was an insult to his own intelligence to defend the open saloon, that as an economic proposition the time had come for the strangulation of the traffic and politically speaking he turned his back on his old followers and friends. He was acclaimed forthwith a saint by the ultra-pros and some of his old pals said unkind things about him. Willacy hadn't changed. He was and is the same John G. Willacy of two decades ago when he was one of the foremost leaders of the Anti-Prohibition forces. Time changes. Men do not. If they are clean and fearless when they begin life they are very apt to be clean and fearless when the end comes.

MRS. JOHNSON'S APPEAL TO THE WOMEN OF TEXAS

National Committeewoman of the Democratic Party Advises Her Sisters of the Faith to Pay Poll Tax.

Tells Them to Enter Actively Into Democratic Clubs and Organizations in All Counties and Precincts.

TYLER, Texas, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Cone Johnson of this city is widely known in the ranks of democratic women workers and is democratic national committeewoman for Texas. Mrs. Johnson is for the complete organization of the democratic women of the state, beginning with the precinct and this without delay. She has issued the following appeal to the democratic women voters of the Lone Star commonwealth ever the stronghold of the democracy of the nation:

"To the democratic women of Texas: We will soon enter throughout the nation congressional campaigns, in which the democratic party will have opportunity to elect a democratic congress and regain the power to consummate the beneficent policies inaugurated by the last democratic administration, chief of which was a league of nations instead of a 'four-power alliance,' as now sought to be accomplished by the republican administration.

"I appeal to every democratic woman to pay her poll tax before the first of February, and thereby be in position to vote at the coming elections for those policies and measures which are for the good of the country.

"In obtaining suffrage the women of the country have become citizens, and have had laid on their shoulders a duty and responsibility which they cannot escape, even should they so desire.

"As women we have long clamored for good government, for incorruptible men to fill our places of public trust; we have desired the consummation of policies that would secure a "government of the people, by the people and for the people," and not one that is dominated by wealth and special interests. As women we want a league of nations, to make wars forever impossible. In order to secure this, we must use the power of the ballot, exercising it intelligently for the great good of our country and the world.

"The women of Texas are progressive and forward-looking—they have never feared to take up the fight in a just and righteous cause, and I am sure that now they will not fail to

TEXAS WOMAN IS SUING KLAN FOR DAMAGES

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 21.—Suit for $200.000 damages against the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, incorporated under the laws of Georgia, was filed here today in federal court by Miss Melda Meyer recently of Needville, Texas, but now of Houston. The petition alleges the receipt by Miss Meyer of a threatening letter from Richmond, Klan No. 38 which she asserts was damaging to her character and reputation.

It is believed to be the first suit of its kind filed in the Southwest. The petition names as officers of the klan, upon whom service may be had, William Joseph Simmons, imperial wizard, of Atlanta, Ga., and George Kimbro Jr., of Houston, grand gobiin for the domain of the Southwest.

TOM BURNETT AND JAKE COBB ARE ARRESTED

Charged with assault with prohibited weapon Tom L. Burnett, and Jake Cobb, Iowa Park real estate man, said to be a former foreman of a ranch owned by Burnett, were arrested Saturday afternoon at Iowa Park by county officers. The two men were brought to this city where they were released under $500 bond each.

According to the officers making the arrest the two men had aired some differences at Iowa Park with display of fire arms. No shots were fired according to the officers.

WILLARD MACK WEDS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Charles McLaughlin, better known as Willard Mack, an actor, was married here today by a justice of the peace to Mrs. Beatrice B. Stone of Salt Lake City. The bridegroom gave his age as 43. Mrs. McLaughlin said she was 23. This is Mack's fourth marriage.

ALLEGED NOTORIOUS HIGHWAYMEN PUT IN MEXIA PRISON CAMP

By Associated Press.

MEXIA, Texas, Jan. 21.—Following the capture of three men believed to be notorious highwaymen who have been operating in the Mexia field by rangers at Martin this afternoon, the number of prisoners held as "highjackers" at the winter garden prison camp was increased to sixteen.

Because of the number of dangerous prisoners, General J. S. Wolters tonight issued an order that no more visitors will be permitted to visit the place.

UNCLE PETER, 103, FEARS SPECS WILL MAKE HIM LOOK OLD

By Associated Press.

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Jan. 21.—"Uncle" Peter Starr, 103 years old, came into own yesterday to have a pair of glasses fitted and to get a new set of teeth. "Uncle" Peter said he was afraid that glasses would make him look old, but he thought it high time he was getting a pair anyway.

STATE'S PLANS ARE HALTED IN 'FATTY'S' TRIAL

Efforts to Have Zey Prevost, Prosecution Witness, Declared "Hostile," Temporarily Blocked.

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Efforts of the prosecution to have Miss Zey Prevost, show girl, and one of its leading witnesses, declared "hostile to its cause" were balked temporarily by the court today in the second trial of a charge of manslaughter against Roscoe C. ("Fatty") Arbuckle, in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress. The ecurt said it would allow authorities on the point other than those quoted today.

In her testimony Miss Prevost stated that she "did not remember" Miss Rappe saying "he hurt me" on the occasion of the party in Arbuckle's room in the Hotel St. Frances during which, according to the prosecution, he fatally injured the actress. At the first trial Miss Prevost made the positive statement that Miss Rappe said, "He hurt me."

An attempt was made by the prosecution to have admitted an alleged statement by Miss Prevost in which she said that Miss Rappe exclaimed "He killed me." This statement was also included in the court's ruling.

Miss Prevost testified that she was virtually coerced by the district attorney into making the statements, and she repudiated them. The prosecution put Walter R. Treits, secretary to the district attorney on the stand to testify that she made the statements on her own free will, voluntarily changing however, the exclamation "He killed me," to "He hurt me." His testimony was not allowed.

E. O. Heinrich, finger print expert was called to identify certain finger prints found on a door of Arbuckle's room in the hotel, and said by the prosecution to be those of Arbuckle and Miss Rappe. He was on the stand at adjournment.

BOUNDARY OF SOUTH IRELAND AGREED UPON

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Irish situation took a surprising and unexpected turn today with the announcement that Michael Collins, head of the Irish provisional government and Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster, had arrived at a mutual agreement which holds out the promise of a peaceable settlement between the north and south.

No action was taken today to name the committee to deal with the brotherhoods, this matter being left in the hands of the various territorial organizations.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier and Michael Collins, head of the provisional government for Ireland formed under the Anglo-Irish treaty, issued a joint statement this evening announcing an agreement regarding the question of the boundary between Ulster and Southern Ireland.

The agreement, it is announced, also provided for the cessation of the Southern Ireland boycott against Belfast and the return of the Catholic workmen to the Belfast shipyards.

The Collins-Craig agreement likewise provides that the two governments (of Northern and Southern Ireland) devise a more suitable system than the proposed "council of Ireland" for dealing with problems affecting the whole of Ireland.

Today's agreement was considered here as giving promise of an amicable adjustment of affairs between Ulster and Southern Ireland.

INDICTED DEPUTY SHERIFFS OF MEXIA LOSE COMMISSIONS

By Associated Press.

MEXIA, Texas, Jan. 21.—At the request of General Jacob J. Wolters, in command of the military district of Mexia, Sheriff Loper of Limestone county, today accepted the resignations and revoked the commissions of three deputy sheriffs, who on Friday were bound over by United States Commissioner McCormick at Waco to await the action of the federal grand jury on charges of violation of the national prohibition act.

TEX RICKARD IS CHARGED WITH GRAVE OFFENSE

Famous Bout Promoter Under $10,000 Bond for Alleged Criminal Assault on 15-Year-Old Girl.

Charges Are Promptly Denied; "Mr. Rickard Knows Nothing of the Case," Asserts His Counsel.

Special to the Record News

NE WYORK, Jan. 21.—Tex Rickard, internationally known promoter of sporting events, was charged in magistrate's court today with criminal assault on 15 year old Alice Ruck, public school pupil and daughter of an east side widow.

Through counsel, Rickard, who surrendered on learning that a bench warrant had been issued, denied the charges which were made by the children's society on complaint of the Ruck girl. Two of her little companions, Elvira Renzie, 12, and Anna Hess, 11, were held as witnesses, the society quoting the girls as saying Rickard met them last fall at his public swimming pool at Madison Square Garden, gave them money, took them to his office and then on December 12 last, assaulted the Ruck girl in an apartment in West 47th street, a few doors from Fifth avenue.

The promoter was under $10000 bond tonight for examination next Wednesday. His attorney, Max D. Steuer, said in a statement that Mr. Rickard was the most "surprised man in the world," that he knew nothing about the case. The statement, declaring the situation mystifying, asserted Rickard undoubtedly had a number of bitter enemies, as he now was engaged in considerable litigation.

Girls Plainly Clad

The three girls appeared in court clad in cheap dresses, plain coats and cotton stockings. Their parents also were present.

Seen later in their simple quarters in the dim little east side tenements the parents all professed to have known nothing of the story until called into court. Complaining that their daughters were being held by the children's society, they said the girls went to public school and habitually were home early at night. All said they had never known of Mr. Rickard.

The Hess girl's mother said she was summoned to a police station last Saturday night where she was told her daughter and the Ruck girl had been given to the children's society, after they had gone to Bellevue hospital and falsely reported having taken iodine. Since then the society had detained all three children.

Vincent Pisarro, superintendent of the society, who filed the charges against the promoter of the Dempsey-Carpentier boxing bout, said that after the children's court held the girls on a blanket charge of incorrigibility last week, the society physicians examined them and found that the Ruck girl alone showed indications of assault.

Story of Girls

Subsequently, he alleged, the girls told this story:

Rickard had talked to them last fall while they were in their swimming suits at Madison Square Garden and then gave each of them a

WOMAN SLAYS HUSBAND AND STENOGRAPHER

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—Oscar Rosier, owner and manager of the Rosier Advertising agency and his stenographer, Miss Mildred G. Reckitt, today were killed with a revolver by the former's wife. The shooting occurred in Rosier's office while he and his stenographer were alone in the front room. Jealously, the police say, was responsible for the crime.

After the tragedy, Mrs. Rosier, screaming hysterically, begged the forgiveness of her husband. She had suspected the relations of her husband and his stenographer for some time, the police declared.

LEGION TO SOUND VETS' ATTITUDE ON BONUS PROVISIONS

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—All veterans of the world war will be canvassed by American Legion representatives to obtain data of the statue of disabled and sick ex-service men to determine the veteran's choice of the five provisions of the adjusted compensation bill now before congress. Decision to make the canvass was reached today at a national conference of legion officials, including departmental commanders and adjutants. The legion census will be taken by the state departments within the next few weeks. The conference which has been in session here two days closed tonight.

KLANSMEN STAGE GIGANTIC PARADE ON DALLAS STREET

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Jan. 21.—Approximately 1500 Ku Klux Klan wearing the full regalia of the organization staged a parade on Main street here tonight while thousands of bystanders looked on. The marchers then boarded street cars for the fair park coliseum where a general meeting is said to have been held. A similar parade was held by the klansmen here last April.

THIRD HOLDUP IN 24 HOURS LATE SATURDAY

Glass Worker Struck Down From Behind Without Warning; Clothes Rifled of Money and Jewelry.

Hit over the head with a club or revolver Anto "Tony" Benson, glass worker, was held up and robed by four masked men at the rear of a residence at 2702 Kemp Blvd., at 11 o'clock Saturday night, according to reports to the police. Stunned by the blow which caused him to fall to his knees, Benson was helpless as the four men went through his clothes, taking money and jewelry valued in excess of $100. One of the hijackers gave their victim a kick with his foot when they left.

Night Chief of Police McDonald and other police officers rushed to the scene of the hijacking, the third to be reported in within the last twenty-four hours. At an early hour this morning officers expressed confidence that with the description they had obtained they would apprehend the four men involved in the hijacking.

Benson, according to his story when brought to the police station said that he was on his way to work at one of the glass factories, passing to the rear of the house in a short cut route. He said he was struck before being given a chance to hold up his hands. The blow was struck from the rear. The robbers secured $8.65 in cash, a wrist watch, chip diamond stick pin and a lavalliere.

STEAMER IN DISTRESS

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—Radio messages received here tonight from the Norwegian Steamer Mod, in distress 1,200 miles east of Halifax, said she had patched up some of her troubles and probably would be able to keep afloat until assistance arrived.

U. S. DIPLOMACY WINS VICTORIES AT ARMS MEET

Resolutions Which Are Expected to Greatly Facilitate China's Economic Development Adopted.

Committee Approves Proposal for Showdown of Chinese Commitments in Much Amended Form.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Two more American resolutions based on the principle of open diplomacy and an open door of commercial opportunity in China were adopted today by the Far Eastern committee of the Washington conference.

The proposal for a showdown of all international agreements affecting China's interest, presented Thursday by Secretary Hughes, was given committee approval only after it had been freighted with upwards of a score of amendments, but American spokesmen insisted tonight that its meaning had not been materially changed.

Under a supplemental declaration proposed by Elihu Root and accepted with little debate, the powers agree not to support in the future any engagements entered into by their nationals designed to create special spheres of influence or exclusive opportunities within Chinese territory.

Taken together, the two decisions were hailed in American quarters as insuring a new era of open dealing and fair play in all that pertains to China's economic development. By the Chinese delegation, however, they were not received with an equal enthusiasm, one Chinese spokesman saying his colleagues on the delegation were "not very well satisfied" with the final form of the much amended proposal for treaty publicity.

Among the Japanese, the intent and substance of the publicity resolution were given warm approbation, but grave doubts were expressed as to the possibilities of its practical application to engagements and contracts made in China by private individuals. Throughout the committee debate, the Japanese plenipotentiaries held to their view that the Tokio government had no authority to compel its nationals to divulge details of their engagements in China, and it was said tonight in Japanese circles that the qualifying phrases under which lists of Chinese engagements are to be "as nearly complete as may be possible" might turn

As the People Are the Masters They Should Be Qualified Voters

By H. N. F.

This is a democracy and the ballot is the thing. There are legal requirements before a Texan is permitted to exercise the right of suffrage and plump the ballot into the box. There is a poll tax requirement and four-fifths of the $1.75 is placed to the credit of the school fund.

All the children of all the people should be given educational advantages. All the children of all the people should be given an even break when they are started down life's highway.

There are more than 1,250,000 men and women in this commonwealth who are of voting age. Woman has the ballot. She is the equal of man at the ballot box. She is a full-fledged citizen and when armed with a poll tax receipt she has a voice in the selection and election of all servants of the people and in the making of the laws of the state and nation.

Mrs. Cone Johnson of Tyler is the Democratic National Committeewoman. Mrs. Johnson's letter to the Democratic women of Texas will be found in this issue of The Record News. It covers all the ground from a partisan standpoint and the advice given is excellent.

Mrs. Johnson tells the women of Texas who are Democrats to pay their poll tax before the close of January; to affiliate with Democratic organizations or clubs in each of the counties of the state; to participate in the primary elections to be held this year and to do all in their power to send a solid Democratic delegation to congress.

Mrs. Johnson is a Democrat and she speaks for the organized Democrats of Texas—the Democratic women of Texas who affiliate with the regular organization and who are loyal to the principles and the policies of Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson.

There must be political parties and wherever there is a healthy minority organization it is best for all the people. An aggressive Republican party in Texas would force the nomination by the dominant party of its ablest men and women for all the offices to be filled by popular vote.

H. N. F. advises all the women, regardless of political affiliation, to pay their poll tax. He advises all men of all political parties or political factions to arm themselves with poll tax receipts.

A government is as strong as the people who make it. It is just as weak as the people it represents.

Really the people are the masters. They make and unmake their servants. They make new laws and they have the power to repeal old laws which are objectional.

All important elections will be held this year. There will be municipal offices to be filled; state offices to be filled and a senator and perhaps 20 congressmen to be elected.

Citizens of this city and county should be very much concerned in the choice of the three men who are to represent them in the lower house of the Texas legislature.

They should be very greatly concerned as to the representative in congress who shall speak and vote for them as well as the nominees for all state and district and county offices.

Taxation is a matter of vital importance. It touches the pockets of all. There is no escape from the tax gatherer. But money raised for the payment of taxes and for the running expenses of city and state governments should be wisely administered and economically expended.

All the people, regardless of political differences, are interested in placing in office honest, upright and efficient servants. They have the power to place in office, high or humble, all their servants.

Why shouldn't they exercise that power? This is the last week for poll tax payments. When the office of the tax collector closes at midnight on the last day of this month those who have neglected to pay their poll tax will have no greater voice in the naming of public officials than a Digger Indian, an idiot, a pauper, an ex-convict or those who are barred from naturalization privileges by the laws of the United States.

All men and all women who believe in progressive government, enforcement of the written law and an honest and economical administration of affairs should place their names on the voting list and this too without delay.

PONTIFF LINGERS AT DOOR OF DEATH THROUGHOUT NIGHT

By The Associated Press.

ROME, Jan. 22.—Pope Benedict's death occurred at 6 o'clock this morning.

The end had been expected for several hours. The attending physicians, Cardinal Gasparriand and other members of the Pope's household were present at the bedside.

From midnight all hope had been abandoned and at 2 o'clock Dr. Battistini announced that the Pope could not live longer than four hours.

RENT PROBLEM TO FEATURE AT C. OF C. MEET

Election of Officers and Outline of Work for Coming Year Other Business Before Meeting.

Determination of the Chamber of Commerce's attitude on the rent question, both as to business and residence rents, will feature the initial meeting of the new board of directors of that organization to be held following dinner Monday night at the Kemp hotel.

Complaints that business rents particularly are out of line in Wichita Falls were the most frequent response to questions by workers in the late membership campaign for suggestions as to the Chamber of Commerce in the future.

Election of officers and the mapping out of the work for the next year will be other features for the meeting. G. Clint Wood is generally expected to be the next president of the organization.

Final reports on the membership campaign, and a request that the Chamber of Commerce underwrite the prize list for the proposed livestock show to be held here in March, which will be discussed by livestock men in a Tuesday meeting, will be among the business to come before the body.

TWO KILLED AT SOMERVILLE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

SOMERVILLE, Texas, Jan. 21.—John Dahms and W. A. Collins, of Somerville, were killed instantly Saturday morning when a small roadster they were driving overturned on an embankment one-half mile south of Somerville.

There were no witnesses to the accident and both men are believed to have been dead several hours when the wreck was noticed by motorists.

Both men leave families. A double funeral will be held here Monday, as the men were close friends.

SEVENTY-FIVE ARE MAROONED ABOARD RIVER FERRY BOAT

By Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Seventy-five persons are marooned aboard the ferry boat Ferdinand, fast on the rocks in the St. Lawrence river near the Ogdensburg light house, according to a dispatch tonight from Ogdensburg.

The ferryboat was on its way from Prescott to Ogdensburg and went on the rocks in a dense fog. The river is calm and there is believed to be little danger. Efforts to rescue the passengers were thwarted by the dense mist. There is neither food nor sleeping accommodations aboard the vessel. Officials expected the craft would be released before dawn.

SAN ANTONIO MAN KILLS WOMAN WHO SPURNS PROPOSAL

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 21.—Ralph H. Hart of San Antonio, Texas, killed Mrs. Wilma H. Stotts and then himself here today by cutting the woman's throat and his own, after Mrs. Stotts had declined to marry him, according to a sister of Mrs. Stotts. The sister, screamed and fainted, her calls attracting neighbors.

Mrs. Stotts and her sister owned a small suburban store. Hart called there and the killing and suicide followed a brief conversation. Hart was 42 years old. Mrs. Stotts 35. Both were divorced.

POPE WAS AN EARNEST WORLD PEACE ADVOCATE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Benedict XV from the very beginning of his pontificate showed that he would above all be a political pope, following the policy of his early friend and counsellor, Cardinal Rampolla, s. d. of Leo XIII. Pius X died of grief for not having been able to prevent the world war and Benedict XV expended such energy in trying to stop or mitigate the conflict that many people, including several American archbishops and bishops who approached him afterwards, think what the efforts made in this endeavor seriously affected his constitution.

Benedict XV always showed a great desire for the closest relations with America and left nothing unattempted to show his sympathy in anything affecting the United States. This was shown on the occasio of the sinking of the Lusitania when the pope, notwithstanding his strict neutrality in the war,—he preferred to call it "impartiality"—telegraphed to the kaiser his abhorrence of the action which had shocked the civilized world.

The pope always regarded the United States as a count which would play an important part in bringing about the pacification of Europe and through Monsignor Bonzano the apostolic delegate in Washington, he sent on several occasions during the recent war messages to President Wilson expressing the feeling that America might assist in conciliating the belligerent countries.

His most important effect in favor of the conclusion of peace was the note he sent on August 19, 1917, to all the powers which was forwarded to President Wilson through England as there are no diplomatic relations between the holy see and the United States. Benedict XV always maintained that his note was the first step toward the present Washington conference on limitation of armament. Indeed he went much further by suggesting the suppression of conscriptions as the means to induce the European countries to disarm.

In the speculation as to who will be the successor of Benedict the most prominently mentioned is the secretary of state, Cardinal Gasparri, whose election would represent an endorsement of the policy by him and Benedict in the last seven years during the grave period of the world war, Cardinal Gasparri, who has also the position of chamberlain of the church, is entrusted with the direction of the holy see during the interregnum from the death of the pope to the election of his successor.

Another member of the sacred college who is considered as a probable choice is Cardinal De Lai, secretary of the consistorial congregation which deals chiefly with the selection and appointment of archbishops and bishops throughout the world except the countries still under the jurisdiction of propaganda fide. The election of Cardinal De Lai would gratify the desire of the sacred college, to have again, as under Pius X, a pope above all religious, that is who would not play such a prominent part in world politics as Benedict XV and Leo XIII.

Among the cardinals living in Rome there is another who has a considerable following and whose election would be a new departure, since for several centuries there has not been a foreign pope on the chair of St. Peter's, namely, Cardinal Merry Del Val, who was secretary of state under Pius X. Cardinal Merry Del Val's parents were Spanish and his brother is Spanish ambassador to the court of St. James, but he has resided almost his entire life in Italy where his father was Spanish ambassador to the vatican. Of the cardinals living outside Rome, the selection of the Archbishop of Pisa, Cardinal Maffi, an astronomer, and a most pious man, is considered most probable should the sacred college decide to select the new pope among the cardinals not residing in the eternal city.

The succession of the occupant of the chair of St. Peter does not take place suddenly nor mechanically. After the pope is dead, several gorgeous ceremonies must take place, including a solemn funeral in the basilica of St. Peter where the body of the late pontiff lies in state and is opposed to the veneration of the faithful.

Kiwanians Plan Specials For Ladies Night Monday; To Install New Officers

The Kiwanis club tomorrow night is going to break out into violent rash of excitement, entertainment, jollification, jubilation, inundation, perspiration, Carrie Nation and installation—all of that, with extra trimmings.

"Special," the notices read. "Ladies' Night and Installation of Officers;" and when Pat Jarratt signs his name to anything like that, you can bet there will be various and sundry doings a-doing.

The "special" will take place at the Kemp hotel, with dinner starting at 7 o'clock. From that hour until 9 p. m., "a variety of girls and singing, music and merry-making, a speech or two and some super stunts" are promised by the entertainment committee. This ought to be good, in a day and age when sameness rules the field and it is SO difficult to find "a variety of girls."

From 9 p. m. until midnight, the Kiwanians and their friends will reel (beg pardon) in the dizzy mazes of the dance, with music furnished by a jazz orchestra whose members are reported to be as goofy as any in the country.

Let Pat Jarratt and his entertainment committee have the closing words, namely:

"This will be the biggest party of the year. Come and bring your best friend and his lady. If possible, let this friend be a man who might be eligible to become a Kiwanian. This will afford us an excellent opportunity to show him the meaning of Kiwanis."

Come to think on't, might as well run the whole sprightly program, eh, wot? Aw right.

There'll be an address of welcome by Julian "Bo" Bobo, another address by the president-elect and a discourse on politicians by Edgar P. Haney—and then the following:

1. "Shino" Cullum and Martha Roper with a chorus of ballet dancers including Zena Pickle, Louise Pickle, Alma Willis, Beatrice Spiker, Onita Deems and Bernice Pross.
2. The Misses Hazelle Dean and Martha Roper, with the following seven dancing girls: Mary Jane Brown, Mary Tanered, Elizabeth Couper, Mable Drinkard, Virginia Robertson, Retta Barnard, Jeanette Scott.
3. The Chanters, R. Vaughan Ray, Paul Von Allmen, Grover Bullington and Ivan Murchison.
4. Several practical jokes on prominent members.

TEX RICKARD IS CHARGED WITH GRAVE OFFENSE

dollar. A few days later they again went to the pool and he gave them each another dollar. The third time they went he asked if they would have a drink of wine but they declined.

"Well, then, come up and see my office," he was alleged to have said.

According to Mr. Pisarro's account, the girls went to the office in the tower of Madison Square Garden, the same tower in which was located the Stanford White studio that figured in the Thaw case, where they asserted Rickard improperly conducted himself.

On the night of December 18 he was accused of having taken Alice Ruck and Anna Hess to the 47th street apartment, said to have been leased by another man, where, it is charged, he assaulted the Ruck girl and impaired the morals of her chum.

TEXAS RECORD OF TEX.

Henrietta was Rickard's headquarters when he rode the range as a cowpuncher in his boyhood days.

Tex Rickard has an international reputation as a promoter of pugilistic events. He came from Illinois to Clay county, Texas in his boyhood. Ranch life appealed to him and he rode the ranges as a cowpuncher. Henrietta was a wild town in those days and Tex made the capitol Clay county his headquarters and was popular with cowmen as well as cowpunchers. He deserted the Texas ranges for the cow pastures of Wyoming and Montana and drifted from the pastures to the wild mining camps of the mountain states. He became a bold gambler as well as a lover and promoter of athletic sports.

He was one of the advance guard of hardy adventurers from all climes to invade the frozen regions of Alaska when the army of gold seekers invaded the black and barren lands under the northern lights. At Nome, Tex Rickard's gambling hall was the most noted of all Alaskan palaces of chance. And there he is said to have accumulated a fortune. When the fever died out, he returned to the states.

When the Tonapah diggings of Nevada set the adventurers of the world aflame, he conducted a famous gambling resort at Goldfields and men said that everything he touched turned to gold.

Having made and lost several fortunes, he drifted to South America where he established himself as a cattle baron and firmly believed that he would become the king of the livestock industry on the vast ranges of the Pan-Americas.

Wanderlust seized him again and he returned to the states where he became the most noted or most notorious promoter of pugs and pugilism, and he made another fortune when he matched Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard.

This battle for the championship of the world and golden stakes was pulled off at Toledo, in that Ohio city where Golden Rule Jones ruled as municipal dictator for many years and then laid down his earthly burdens.

Tex Rickard invaded Gotham, center of pugilism as well as center of finance on the continent of North America, where he leased the Madison Square Garden and became the king promoter of the boxing and the sparring world.

Money poured into his coffers and he matched Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier for a bout which set all the sporting world agog. These heavyweights met and Carpentier lasted just about as long as the traditional snowball in Hades. Good luck followed Tex Rickard. Out of that ring contest he amassed another fortune.

Wherever lovers of pugilistic sports congregate, Tex Rickard has been recognized as the last word and the world over he has been acclaimed the gamest as well as the squarest sportsman on the stage of action today.

FARM BUREAU MEN APPROVE FORD PROJECT

By Associated Press.

FLORENCE, Ala., Jan. 21.—At the final session of a two-day conference of the Southern group of the American Farm Bureau federation here today, delegates representing half the agricultural states of the United States, declared intention to carry their fight for development of government property at Muscle Shoals to congress.

The conference endorsed the proposal of Henry Ford to lease the property and by resolution, urged immediate resumption of construction work declared that it would be an economic crime to longer postpone development.

Five complete co-operative marketing organizations for major crops and a large number in process of organization promised to rid agriculture of its inefficient marketing system, according to a report read by J. T. Orr, president of the farm bureau.

"Waste, inefficiency and graft which caused a national scandal in our market system," said the report, "have been replaced by the application of logical economic principles."

Such co-operative marketing Mr. Orr said, meant the salvation of the American farmer.

BURGLARS GET LOOT IN TILDEN ST. RESIDENCE

Burglars Saturday night entered the home of W. B. Gutschow, 2005 Tilden street, and after ramsacking the house, left with clothing and other merchandise valued at over $200. The burglary occurred when Mr. and Mrs. Gutschow had left the house for a few minutes to go to a neighbor. Their return to the house caused the burglars to leave. In their haste they left a large amount of silverware wrapepd in a piece of cloth.

Their loot consisted of a new leather hand bag, silk shirts, gloves, shoes and other clothing. Entrance to the house was obtained by tearing open a screen to a rear window. The burglary was reported to the police who are conducting an investigation.

B. M. FINGER DIES FROM FIRE BURNS

B M FINGER—6 6....

B. M. Finger, who rescued his three children from their burning home located at 207 Burnett street Thursday night, sustaining severe burns died at the Wichita General hospital Saturday morning at 5 o'clock. Mr. Finger who was about 30 years old was taken to the hospital from the scene of the fire as was his two-year-old son who died Friday from the effects of burns.

Little hope was entertained for the recovery of either the father or son from the time of the fire. They were burned over their entire bodies.

The bodies of both are being held at the Hines Undertaking company pending word from relatives living in Tennessee. Mr. Finger has been employed as a truck driver.

HARDING SEEKS TO DOWN BLOC, SAYS HARRISON

Administration's Agricultural Policies Are Bitterly Assailed by Mississippi Senator.

"American People Demand Less Conferring and More Action," Declares Senator Harrison.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—President Harding, Secretary Weeks and other republican leaders were today declared by Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, to be hostile to agricultural interests and to be aiming to destroy the agricultural bloc in the senate.

"The administration's main fight now," said Senator Harrison, who is a member of the agricultural bloc, "is against the agricultural group for fear it might put through some beneficient legislation for the farmers."

The Mississippi senator also attacked the emergency tariff law, declaring it was an "absolute failure" and contending that prices of farm products had decreased after its enactment. This statement was challenged by republican senators.

President Harding's recent address to congress in which he deplored group legislation, Senator Harrison said, was "aimed from start to finish against the agricultural bloc of the senate." A "reaction" to this speech was immediately regarded by farmers, he added, and "to get from under" President Harding called the agricultural conference which will convene here Monday. This conference, the senator said, was "camouflage." "I wish it every success," he added, "but in my very heart, I believe it's a device, a piece of camouflage."

Declaring that "what the American people want is less conferring and more action," he declared that the president's unemployment conference had accomplished little.

"They discovered that six or seven million men were out of employment," said the senator, "but got nothing done."

Action by congress to aid the farmer was demanded by Senator Harrison who declared, turning to the republicans, that "the country is thoroughly disgusted with your do-nothing policy and no-program policy." Senator Bursum interjected that "right now is the time for less talking and more action."

Secretary Weeks address against the bloc, Mr. Harrison declared, was "evidently as the spokesman and mouthpiece of President Harding and the administration."

"In his speech," said Mr. Harrison, "he criticized the agricultural group, made light of their efforts and pleaded for united efforts on the part of the country to discredit the movement."

Senator Harrison emphasized that the speech of Secretary Weeks and one recently by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, were made in New York City. He referred to Senator Moses as an "apostle and eloquent mouthpiece of another bloc—a better oiled and greased bloc—the manufacturers bloc."

Muscle Shoals Matter Put in Contract Form

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The contract embodying Henry Ford's offer for purchase and operation of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate plants which is to be presented to the Detroit manufacturer for signature as a formality prior to transmission of the whole Muscle Shoals matter to congress, will not be sent to Mr. Ford before the first of next week, it was said today by Secretary Weeks.

Mr. Weeks said that W. B. Mayo, a Ford engineer, was coming to Washington to inspect the re-arranged offer before it was forwarded for signature.

The war secretary said today that he had received no further word from C. C. Tinkler, of San Francisco, president of the construction company of North America, who left here last week for San Francisco to take up with his board of directors, modifications of his proposal to acquire the Muscle Shoals plants. He also was without any new offer from the Newport Shipbuilding company of Wilmington, N. C.

DELAY IN MUSCLE SHOALS NEGOTIATIONS CONDEMNED

FLORENCE, Ala., Jan. 21.—For all the government's power and nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals to remain idle longer would be "an economic crime," the Southern group conference of the American Farm Bureau federation declared in a resolution adopted today.

The conference by resolution also pledged support to the agricultural bloc in congress "in its fight for American farmers." Another resolution endorsed Henry Ford's proposal to lease and operate the Muscle Shoals property and urged speedy action in disposing of the property.

MUCH INTEREST IS SHOWN IN POULTRY SCHOOL AT QUANAH

Special to the Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 21.—One of the largest gatherings for an agricultural meeting ever held at Quanah assembled on Saturday morning for the Poultry School which Quanah held in cooperation with the Denver railroad and the A. & M. College extension service. Great interest was manifested throughout the meeting.

Mrs Olga Knight of Quanah announced that the banks of Quanah would loan money to farmers in amounts of $5.00 for the purpose of buying pure-bred baby chicks or settings of eggs from standard bred chickens.

Mr. F. W. Kazmeier, poultry specialist of the A. & M. college extension service, convinced his audience that he is familiar with all phases of poultry raising by his intimate knowledge of the actions of a chicken under all conditions. In his talk at the courthouse he pointed out that there is not a single good reason for any keeping scrub chickens. Standard bred chickens are capable of doing everything that a scrub chicken can do and they are just as good to eat.

CITY BEAUTIFUL MEETING TUESDAY

The City Beautiful Department of the Civic League will have its monthly business and social meeting on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. V. Boettcmann, 1603 Fourteenth street. All members are urged to be present.

Tell Officers "Shorty" Again Under Arrest

"Shorty" Campbell, who a year and half ago escaped from the county jail shortly after he was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary for burglary is in the toils of the law at Haynesville, La., according to information received Saturday by the sheriff's department from the chief of police of that city. He will be brought back here during the coming week.

"Shorty" was a trusty for several months at the county jail. Following his conviction he escaped while working outside the jail building.

WICHITA COUNTY STANDS HIGHEST IN STATE AID FOR HIGHWAYS AND FIFTH IN AUTO REGISTRATIONS

Wichita county, far down the line in Texas counties in area and total population, stands fifth in the number of automobiles registered, according to figures released by the state highway department, outranking several counties whose principal cities are equal in population to Wichita Falls and whose rural population is much more dense, and in one case, that of El Paso, whose principal city has more people than the entire Wichita county.

In the matter of state aid for highway building, Wichita county ranks first, with Dallas and Tarrant counties, in the amount of aid promised $525,000, and second only to Jefferson county in the amount of state aid received, $246,845.14 to date. This in spite of the fact that the indebtedness voted for highway building is exceeded by that voted by many counties, including a number less wealthy or populous, as Eastland, Hill, Hunt and Wharton counties.

Interesting figures in this connection contained in the highway department's report follow:

PRIZE LIST OF STOCK SHOW TO TOTAL $3500

Will Ask Chamber of Commerce Directors to Underwrite Fund; Call Field to Be Show Ground.

At least $3,500 for the prize list will be raised for the livestock fair to be held here in March, if plans to be presented and discussed at the meeting of the Wichita Livestock association at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday are approved. It is expected that George Keith, secretary of the association, who has worked out the show proposal, will ask the Chamber of Commerce director to underwrite the list of prizes.

The show will be held at Call Field, according to the plans at present.

TO OPEN BIDS ON HOSPITAL THIRD TIME

For the third time in two months bids for the construction of the $150,000 addition to the Wichita General Hospital will be opened Tuesday at a joint meeting of the county commissioners court and the city council. On the two previous times that bids have been submitted they have been rejected on the grounds that they were too high.

Due to the fact that the joint meeting will be held Tuesday Judge J. P. Jones of the county court announced Saturday that the regular weekly meeting of the commissioners court would be postponed from Monday to Tuesday. Road matters are expected to come up for action before the court again at their Tuesday meeting.

U. S. DIPLOMACY WINS VICTORIES AT ARMS MEET

As adopted, the Hughes proposal provides that the powers other than China agree to compile lists of their own commitments and those of their nationals in China, and to forward the texts of these agreements to the secretary-general of the Washington conference as soon as convenient. Future agreements of the same character must be similarly filed within sixty days after completion. In two additional articles, China agrees to be bound by the same stipulations as to informing the other powers, and nations not represented here are invited to adhere to the arrangement.

A point stressed by the Chinese in their criticism of the final form filing any contract other than those to which one of the signatory governments or its local authorities are party. Some of the most important railroad and loan contracts now in force in China, the Chinese delegates say, were concluded between foreign individuals and minor Chinese dignitaries without the knowledge or authority of the central government at Peking.

LANDIS IS TOO SICK TO HEAR PLEA OF RUTH

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—"Babe" Ruth today called on Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, with the intention of personally pleading for mitigation of his $3,000 fine and suspension until May 20 for playing post-season baseball games, but found the judge too ill to discuss the matter.

The conference was held in the judge's home where he has been confined with a bad cold for a week.

"I stayed just long enough to pay my respects," said Ruth tonight. "I do not know what I will do now, but I do not think I will try to see the judge again. As for next year, I have nothing to say. My plans absolutely are indefinite."

Sam Jacobs Is Acquitted in Robbery Case

Sam Jacobs of this city was acquitted Friday on a charge of robbery with firearms in the Criminal District court at Fort Worth, according to information received here Saturday. The indictment against Jacobs was returned in connection with a daylight robbery of P. H. Feeney depot cashier of the Texas and Pacific railroad.

Jacobs is well known to police here, having been arrested several times by county and police officers on various petty charges.

ANTI-DYER BILL CAUCUS IS HELD BY DEMOCRATS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Democratic members of the house at a caucus tonight agreed to wage a fight on the Dyer anti-lynching bill. A resolution was adopted assailing the measure as "violative of the constitution" and one that would have a tendency of increased lynching rather than of reducing the crime.

Those who addressed the caucus, members reported, without exception attacked the bill and urged the democrats to stand solidly in opposition to it. The resolution adopted follows:

"Be it resolved, by the democrats of the house of representatives in caucus assembled that we are opposed to lynching and declare our opposition to H. R. 13, the so-called anti-lynching bill as being violative of constitution and destructive of our dual form of government, would have a contrary effect.

Irvan Deaton Candidate for Second Term

Announcement of the candidacy of Irvan Deaton for a second term as tax assessor was made Saturday. Mr. Deaton was first elected to the office in 1920 and has served in the office approximately a year and half.

Previous to his election to the office Mr. Deaton was engaged in business here where he has resided for 21 years. He has been a resident of the county for 32 years being one of the veterans of the county officials in length of time that he has lived in the county.

In his announcement Mr. Deaton said that he had endeavored to serve the county in an acceptable manner during the present term making certain changes in the office which he believes had increased the efficiency of the office.

LLOYD GEORGE APPEALS FOR A REAL PEACE

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—An appeal to the nations to establish a real peace by which international confidence and world trade might be restored, was made by Prime Minister Lloyd-George in a lengthy speech before the national liberal conference here today. He landed the achievements of the Washington conference, declaring it had played an especially notable part in restoring the understanding Great Britain and the United States and said the task of the coming Genoa economic conference "would be to end the constant wars and rumors of wars."

Mr. Lloyd-George said he looked to the Genoa gathering to restore peace in the East and he pleaded for a reduction in the cost of armaments.

Much of his speech dealt with domestic economics and politics. As was expected, he declared for continuation of an alliance of all elements of the coalition government in order to insure the fullest measure of co-operation in the work of European reconstruction and home economics.

Mr. Lloyd-George dealt at some length with the Irish settlement, pointing out difficulties which must still be met before the Irish free state can be completely set up.

Auxiliary to Campaign for New Members

Last year the Wichita Falls unit of the American Legion Auxiliary was on the state honor roll as one of the largest, and also one of the first in every activity. This year the unit has not a single member credit with either the state or national organization.

Now the situation isn't really as bad as the foregoing paragraph would indicate. It is merely that none of the local members have paid their 1922 dues, and consequently Wichita Falls has no credit with the Texas or United States headquarters. The year is still very young, and the month is only a little over half gone so there is still plenty of time for the members to renew their membership, pay their dollar and a quarter for 1922, and let the local unit go in the January bulletin, issued at Austin, from headquarters, as being as active and wide awake as ever.

Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, the president, has asked that an appeal be made to all members to pay these dues this week if possible. Mrs. J. B. Hatchitt is chairman of the membership committee, and the dues may be paid to Mrs. Hatchitt, or to Mrs. R. C. Thaxton, the secretary, or Mrs. T. R. Brunson, the treasurer, it is announced.

SARTIN IN CONTEST FOR COUNTY JUDGE

B. D. Sartin, a local attorney, announces that he will be in the race for county judge of Wichita County, Texas, subject to the democratic primary in July. Mr. Sartin made the race two years ago and lost by a small margin. He has many friends and supporters in all sections of the county and upon their urgent appeal, has finally consented to enter the race again.

Sartin came to Wichita Falls from Kentucky in 1916, and was reared on a farm, worked his way through school, taught in the public schools, graduated from the University of Kentucky with honors, and received his Master's degree the following year. He has been a regularly practicing attorney for the past eight years.

Sartin issues the following statement: I'm in the race for county judge of this county. I will appreciate the support of every man, woman and child in this fight; I believe that every public officer is a public servant and that he should regard himself as such; I believe in good roads but at a reasonable cost to the taxpayers; I believe that the people of this county are burdened with taxes and have a right to demand the economical expenditure of the same; I believe that our property should be taxed according to its real value and not according to inflated values of boom days; I believe that the payroll of Wichita county is too great and that we have a needless bunch of clerks and officials drawing on the county's purse; I believe in the future of Wichita county, in the City that Faith Built, and in the common people, and that democracy prohibits a monopoly on any public office.

Headquarters Move S. C. V. Up to C. of C.

A definite proposal for the establishment of the national headquarters of the Sons of Confederate Veterans here has been laid before the Chamber of Commerce by Judge Edgar Scurry, commander in chief of the organization. The headquarters are now located at Denver, Colo., the residence of Carl Hinton, adjutant in chief. Under the proposal of Judge Scurry Mr. Hinton would make his home and move the headquarters here if the Chamber of Commerce would provide for a combination office, assistant and stenographer, as is now done by the headquarters organization in Denver.

Placing of the headquarters here would give Wichita Falls a good source of publicity over the South especially through the membership campaign, which is even national in character, and plans for which were made at a recent meeting at New Orleans. Then the association expects to do a great deal of work in the interest of the Jefferson Davis highway, a memorial highway which will connect all the Southern states.

The local camp of the Sons is more active than ever, according to reports at present, and have arranged to see that every Confederate Veteran is sent to the Richmond reunion, and to provide for each a uniform.

meet the great duty which is at hand.

"It is my view, that the women in every county and precinct should enter actively into the democratic clubs and organizations in their respective counties and precincts and that they should at an early date, in connection with the democratic men, effect strong and permanent organizations for work in the coming campaign.

"From reports received at national democratic headquarters, coming from every section of the country, democrats everywhere are already at work and are resolved to secure victory in the senatorial and congressional elections next November.

"Texas has been the 'banner democratic state.' We should make it so again.

"Let us return from Texas a solid democratic delegation in congress.

"Friends and co-workers, will you not on the day you read this appeal, pay your poll taxes; lay plans to form a strong democratic organization in your town and county, and let me have a word from you at an early day? Yours with all good wishes,

"MRS. CONE JOHNSON."

WROE PRISON FUND PLAN IS APPROVED IN SAN ANTONIO

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan. 21.—Returning today from San Antonio, H. O. Wroe, president of an Austin bank announced that the bankers of San Antonio would subscribe their pro rata share of the $500,000 loan to finance the prison system until the 1922 crops are sold.

Mr. Wroe was accompanied to San Antonio by Commissioner of Insurance and Banking Ed Hall and Eldred McKinnon, local banker. On Monday they will go to Galveston and Houston to confer with bankers there about the loan and on Tuesday leave for Fort Worth and Dallas to interest bankers of those cities in the proposed loan.

Mr. Wroe expressed the opinion that the banks of Texas will subscribe the money sought and therefore avert a special session of the legislature to provide funds for the prisons.

His plan is for the banks to cash the warrants issued by the prison commissioners. Under this plan the banks will not have to put up lump sums nor will the state have to pay interest on the entire amount until it is all drawn out. A rate of 7 per cent is planned by Mr. Wroe.

Many a man finds himself in need of a friend upon whose advice and counsel he can rely. The City National Bank of Commerce is such a friend to thousands of West Texas people and will be to you. The bank will welcome your account whether small or large.—Adv.

FARM MEETING WILL LIKELY BE OF MUCH VALUE

Agricultural Ills Will Not Be Suddenly Cured as Result of National Conference But—— Delegates From Each State Will Be More Capable of Leading Movement for Improvement.

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS.
(Record News Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.—The National Conference of Agriculture, which will be called into being here Monday by President Harding will not cure all the ills of the farmer by any waving of a magic wand.

Farm prices are not going to suddenly mount, farmers are not going to be able to pay all their debts and have money for next year's seeding at the adjournment of the session. Neither President Harding, Secretary Wallace or other administration leaders are expecting the impossible.

Neither will there by any startling discoveries of remedies for the conditions now existing. There is little the conference here the coming week can do to aid the work of the Joint Commission on Agricultural inquiry.

This Joint Commission which was called into being six months ago under a resolution by Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin and on which many other members, notably Anderson of Minnesota, Sumners of Texas and Ten Eyck of New York, have done prodigous work. This committee had as advisors many noted economists, called in dirt farmers and transportation men and its report was formulated on the carefully sifted testimony of men just as representative as the make-up of the coming conference.

Leaders of Thought.

But, there is a vast field for the efforts of the men who are already arriving here for the opening of the National Conference on Agriculture Monday. All of them are leaders of thought in their particular states. They will spend a week or two in session, the delegates from Texas will get a better understanding of conditions in Wisconsin, and New York and Montana and elsewhere. They will get new ideas from men who are already very earnestly attempting to solve the problems of the farmer. They will learn viewpoint of national leaders, and will go home with very definite plans for leading movements in their own states to better the condition of their state farmers, co-ordinating their local efforts with national efforts.

The delegation from Texas, for instance, is a fair representation of the other delegations. It is made up of: Clarence Ousley, Fort Worth, former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; Joseph Hirsh, Corpus Christi, chairman, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers' association; J. C. Orr, Dallas, president Farm Bureau; Sam Cowan, Fort Worth, Cattleman; George B. Terrell, Austin, Commissioner of Agriculture; L. J. Wortham, Fort Worth, Editor, Recognized Agricultural Leader.

Transportation.

The question of transportation will be one of the main topics at the conference. Secretary Wallace in a recent speech said that an efficient agriculture which provides an abundance of food at a fair price and an efficient transportation system which makes possible the moving of commodities at reasonable cost are alike indispensable to national welfare. The failure of either to function adequately is a matter of national concern. Also they are dependent upon one another. Agriculture provides the railroads directly with more than 20 per cent of their total tonnage, and indirectly with as much more. But for the agricultural tonnage many of our great transportation systems would fail. The railroads in turn provide agriculture with the means of moving its crops. But for them the farmer would be under the necessity of entirely readjusting his production and reducing it to the amount needed by himself and his family plus what he might be able to market in the community roundabout.

It would be unfair to say that the unprecedented depression in agriculture today is due wholly to the very large increases in freight rates which have been imposed during the past three years, but it is fair to say that these increased freight charges are a large factor in retarding agricultural recovery. If prices now received by farmers for their crops were such as prevailed in 1919 and the earlier part of 1920 they could pay the increased freight rates without serious inconvenience. But farmers are not receiving such prices. Instead they are compelled to take prices no more on the average than the pre-war normal, and in the case of some crops considerably below.

SOCIETY

MUSCIANS' CLUB HOLDS SPLENDID OPEN MEETING

One of the most successful concerts ever given by the Musicians' Club featured the "Open Meeting" at the Wichita Club Friday evening when the program was arranged by Miss Florence Sammons, leader, and Mrs. John W. King, hostess.

The house was filled to capacity with an enthusiastic crowd of music lovers, and the artists were without exception at their best. The bright, cheerful concert room combined to make the occasion a memorable one.

The program was opened by the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Genevieve Golf with Massenet's "Elegie" followed by a spirited rendition of Von Suppe's famous overture "The Poet and Peasant."

Mrs. J. W. King (substituting for Mrs. N. M. Clifford who was unable to sing on account of illness) gave a delightful number by Thurlow Lieurance, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," with violin obligato by Mrs. T. B. Greenwood and piano accompaniment by Miss Annette Walsh. Both accompanists reading their notes by sight, this being the "last minute" selection and no time spared for rehearsal, Mrs. King's number was especially interesting in view of the fact that the composer and his concert company are the artists who will put on the Musicians' Club initial Musical Morning here Monday.

Charles Angle, bass soloist, was in fine voice and sang two numbers, "The Road to Mandalay" (Speaks) and "Laugh and the World Laughs With You" (Leechman). Miss Annette Walsh played Schumann's G. Minor Sonata with lovely touch and interpretation, and this was followed by two well rendered songs by Mrs. W. L. Parker, "Sheep and Lambs" (Sydney) and "Cycle of Life" by Landon Ronald.

Mrs. Bruce Greenwood, always a favorite with local audiences, played Fritz Kreisler's "La Gitano" with beautiful precision, bowing and tone, after which Mrs. Louella Thompson, formerly of this city, now a resident of Dallas, who was also the first director of the woman's chorus of the Musicians' club, gave one of the best renditions of Saint Saens' wonderful aria "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" ever heard in this city. Her interpretation was delightfully artistic, and her warm, mellow tones in the final phrases fairly gripped the audience. Her encore was Thayer's "My Laddie."

Ernest Katz gave a masterly reading of Chopin's Polonaise in A flat opus. 53, and the concert closed with the singing of "Dawn's Awakening" (Greig) by the women's chorus of the club, under the direction of J. R. Elliott.

Mrs. Lucille B. Huff played accompaniments for Mrs. Thompson. Other accompaniments were played by Miss Annette Walsh.

MRS. LEWIS GIVEN SURPRISE SHOWER

Officers, division leaders and standing committees of the Ladies' Aid of the First Christian church paid tribute to Mrs. H. D. Lewis, retiring treasurer, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Isbell Friday afternoon, the affair being in the nature of a surprise shower.

The honoree was the recipient of many dainty articles which were attractively arranged in a handsome bassinett and the afternoon was pleasantly spent in games and word contests.

In a short business session, annual reports of the treasurer of the charity committee, and several division leaders were given and plans for the work of 1922 outlined.

At a late hour, delicious refreshments consisting of fruit salad, sandwiches, olives, potato chips, coffee and marshmallow pudding were served to Mesdames H. D. Lewis, W. T. Willis, J. B. Hatchitt, G. D. Rigsby, E. L. Patton, C. E. Bailey, R. E. Hilburn, J. E. Shipley, T. T. Reese, L. C. Tyson, J. Lem Keevil, M. P. Rogers, J. E. Strong, T. M. Conrey, A. O. Scharff, W. P. Danfroth, R. HERBERT PRICE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

The valentine colors and motifs were featured in the decorations, and the dining table, where dainty refreshments of ice cream, cake, candies and mints were served, was especially attractive with the birthday cake trimmed in twelve ligated candles, forming the center and red candle sticks tied with fluffy red tulle bows, gracefing either end. A large red silk bow from which hung pendants of hearts was tied to the chandelier over the table. Valentine favors and caps of crepe paper and confetti were at each plate.

In the peanut hut which was an enjoyable feature of the entertainment for the afternoon, Geraldine Monroe, won the girl's prize, and Louis Jernigan, the boys. In the guessing contest, John White was awarded the favor. ELECTRA NEWS UP TO MINUTE BY H. A. STROUD Growing Activities Reported in Historic Oil Field With New Locations and a Demand for Water.

Chamber of Commerce Program for Year and Some Achievements; Society News and Mention.

BY H. S. STROUD

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 21.—The streets of Electra, during the past week, reminds me of old times when the Burkburnett field was going at its best and the wildcatter was drilling in every section and every direction. The crowds are not quite so large as they were in those days but during the week many strangers; prosperous looking strangers have been seen on the streets conferring with the local oil men. This kind of action means business.

Local oil operators are highly encouraged over prospects. The fact that the Texas Company, the Magnolia and Humble, saw fit to make investments in the neighborhood of the Duke well stamps that district as one with the best kind of prospects. The Magnolia Petroleum Company paid last week the sum of $1,000 per acre for forty acres of land offsetting their No. 1 Duke. The Texas Company paid a sum almost as large for holdings in the same half section and as the week progresses reports come in of deals being closed for the "further out" acreage, which is now selling at handsome figures.

Many Tests to Be Made.

Operators are greater now than they have been in a year, in spite of the fact that water is not available, except in certain portions of the field. From prospects all that territory situated between the Duke well and the Gladiolus Hill is due to receive a thorough test. And this is not the only section that is attracting interest. On the Waggoner, to the west of the south pool many wells are drilling and the trend of development extends to the Wilbarger county line, with one well drilling just across on section 6. Gibson survey No. 453 is the center of much drilling just at present and a number of other wells are located on section 31.

A general rain would start activity in many sections where there is now no water. E. A. Dale, president of the First State Bank, says that interest is reviving in the territory north of Electra and that a deal may be closed in the next few days for the drilling of a deep test well on block 838, near Red River.

Real Community Organization

The Electra Chamber of Commerce has had a very successful year under the leadership of President E. R. Brown, Manager Byron Johnson, who were ably supported by a live wire board of directors. 1921 was the first year that Electra can boast of having had a real community organization which was backed with enough capital to be of actual service. That it accomplished many noteworthy results is proven in the president's annual report which was made before the general meeting of the membership last Tuesday night.

Mr. Brown started his address by paying a glowing tribute to the manager, Byron Johnson and the board of directors, as well as the 100 committees that were appointed and functioned during the year.

Through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Brown said that $50,000 worth of cotton had been saved by the importation of cheap labor for the picking and by making arrangements with the local merchants to lend the farmers money for the picking.

He quoted Representative Johnson of Wichita Falls, who gave the Electra Chamber of Commerce credit for having a great part in saving the agricultural experiment stations for the state by writing letters to the state legislators requesting them not to abandon the one at Childress. Another noteworthy accomplishment, according to the president, was the advocation of a road to the Kemp-Munger-Allen fields, which was built during the year.

City Park An Achievement

The establishment of a city park was another great accomplishment of the Chamber. The first unit was constructed last year, which was a municipal swimming pool. This pool, although finished at the close of the season still paid a nice dividend to the city. The Chamber had committees working with the city officials from the time the plans for the park were first considered until the final work was done on the initial unit. Through a campaign of the Chamber of Commerce the city was practically ridded of rats.

One of the more recent accomplishments is the establishing of a free labor bureau. Skilled and common laborers can apply to the Chamber and have their qualifications listed and these will be presented to irrigation officials and others who may be in need of any kind of workmen.

Put Over Big.

It was announced that the budget for 1922 had been raised. The salesmen for the chamber of commerce worked two hours a day for three days and made the announcement that their work had been done and the desired results obtained.

The chamber officials predict that they will be able to show greater results in 1922 than in 1921 because they have now been organized a year and have matter lined up to start with. The organization has grown more influential and with a year's experience behind it can put over measures with less effort than was required when the chamber first started.

Among the plans of the chamber for 1922 is to make Electra a market place for the irrigation project, if possible; to push the move for a branch hospital and get the election over during the year; to make Electra the harbor for tourists by offering them the most ideal camp site along the highway; to promote more community trades days; to encourage the organization of a city band; to perfect plans for a permanent water supply, with the irrigation district in mind; to make a complete business survey of the city and from this survey fill in the things that the city needs; to cooperate with county officials and work to the unified good of the county as a whole on propositions affecting the entire commonwealth.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Farmers from all sections of the country report that the wheat crop is in good condition, following the rains of the past week. The farmers north of the city were all optimistic over the prospects for a crop and stated that the late wheat was just breaking through the ground, while the old wheat has been furnishing excellent pasturage for several weeks.

The Texas Federal Oil company held their annual directors meeting in the office of J. M. Hemby and company on Main street. A review of the year showed the company to be in good condition, although they operated on a mighty close margin during the first of the year when the price of oil was $1.00 a barrel. Among things planned by the directors was the drilling of a deep test on their lease two miles east of Electra.

Warren Smith of Wichita Falls has started a class in music in this city with a view of organizing a band. He reports about thirty students, many of whom have had band experience and believes that his class will be able to furnish concerts within a few weeks time.

War has been declared on petty thievery by Constable Tom Giessler since a number of thiefts have been reported from automobiles parked in front of churches during services. Last Sunday night Giessler found two men attempting to steal a casing from a car and fired twice at one of them who stopped and submitted to arrest. The constable plans to have watchmen at all the churches in the future until the practice is broken up.

SOCIETY NEWS.

Mrs. Brownlee Entertains.

Mrs. John Brownlee was hostess to the Primo Bridge club Tuesday afternoon in a very delightful session. Tables were arranged for four sets of players. High score was won by Mrs. Hyter. Late in the afternoon a very dainty refreshment plate was served to the following members and guests: Mesdames E. Campbell, S. E. Cramer, A. S. Haaf, J. H. Harris ,S. C. Hyter, B. V. Magee, J. T. McDannald, F. E. Markt, T. H. Smith, V. B. Williams, I. K. Williams, C. E. McDannald, H. M. Kearby, Doc Fisher, Frank LeBus and Frazier.

7-B Class Makes Good Record.

The 7-B class of the grammar school got busy last week and ran far ahead of the other classes in raising money, which will be used to buy records for the school. These records are to be selections taken from the list printed last week. The girls realized $6.55 from a candy sale and the boys $2.90 from selling sandwiches. Together there was a donation of $6.05, making a total of $15.50.

Miss Simpson Entertains.

One of the enjoyable social events of the week occurred Monday evening when Miss Ruth Simpson entertained a number of her friends at the home of Mrs. Blair. Much amusement was caused by the fortunes which were told to the guests as they arrived by Chinese fortune telling sticks. Games were enjoyed until a late hour when delicious refreshments were served to H. Smith, H. M. Kearby, Blair, John Brownlee, A. S. Haaf, Misses Viola McCulloch, Elisabeth Hill, Leta Mae Cocke, and the hostess.

Five Hundred Club.

Mrs. Edward Schlaffka was hostess to the Five Hundred club Thursday afternoon. High score was won by Mrs. C. R. Miller. A salad course was served the following: Mesdames Brown, Davidson, Marchant, Morrow, Porter, Green, Wise, Miller, Turner, Marriott, Morgan and McDannald.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brownlee and son, Bobby, and Miss Louise Gaston visited in Oklahoma Sunday.

Misses Genevieve Gallagher and Leta Mae Cocke spent the week-end in Iowa Park as guests of Miss Elizabeth Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Miller and daughter, Carlotta, are fisiting in Dallas this week.

Miss Opal Cole of the high school faculty, who has been ill in a sanitarium at Fort Worth, is improving and will be able to return in a few days.

Pupils Give Recital.

Pupils of Mrs. Jones and Miss Wear appeared at the Grand Tuesday night in which might be termed "the most pleasing entertainment of the season." The program was arranged in a very unique style of diversity which made it more pleasant than the manner in which many recital programs are given. Among those who deserve special commendation is the little Miss Dugan whose work was well received by the appreciative audience as evidenced by an encore, also well received. "The Brownie's Flirtation" was accepted with delight as a diversion from the usual pupil's program, this number being a little drill or astheticision by eight girls and eight boys. Miss Gallagher's number was pleasing to her audience and very interesting to her friends and admirers. Misses Coffey, Brazleton and Adams are pianists of whom their teacher is justly proud.

Brilliant Gems Offset Gowns' Simplicity

BRILLIANCE in gems appears to be the predominating note of evening dress this winter, and probably has developed from the scarcity of trimming on most of the gowns. Apropos of this, it might be noted that simplicity and quaintness are the paramount features of both frocks and hair dress. Take, for instance, one of the illustrations above, which resembles one of grandmother's pictures, with its bit of clustered flowers at the back.

All in all, this simplicity of hair dress and line has been responsible for glittering accessories. During the war jewelry was little in evidence, but now it has become more desirable than ever. It may be the prevalence of black, with its sophisticated simplicity, demands the brilliance of gems. Or it may be that the high straight lines of the majority of evening gowns need the radiance of pearls and diamonds. Evident, it is, however, that jewelry is in great demand.

If the income does not permit of extravagance, there are fairly inexpensive ornaments that can be well used. One, for example, is a ring of brilliant onyx, studded with starry diamonds, held by a diamond clasp which hangs in turn from a long black silk "queue de rat" cord. This is quite the most fashionable accessory of the hour.

Of course, brilliant accessories are superfluous if the gown is as radiantly trimmed as this flame colored Salome velvet, worn in the cut by Gloria Swanson, who is starring in the Paramount picture, "Her Husband's Trademark." This gown is an exception, but nevertheless forms a brilliant addition to the season's array. It is studded with brilliants and pearls, the gown itself being made over a bodice of silver lace.

If the severe evening gown of black is more preferable, it is suggested that one investigate the new jewelry sets of semi-precious stones. Several exquisite examples of these are made up in rose coral, tourquoise, amethyst, topaz and jade, any one of them giving a lovely touch of color to a black or white toilette. One of these sets consists of an original pendant, made of a great oval of coral, set as simply as possible in tiny points of onyx and diamonds, and hung from a black "queue de rat" cord. The earrings are dropped shaped pieces of coral, hung from onyx rings with clasps of diamonds. The bracelet is composed of three round pieces of coral, held together by onyx rings set with diamonds. Even the shoe buckles come in for their share of attention and are fashioned in diamonds and onyx, although rhinestones and onyx will prove a passable substitute.

BURK BUDGET FOR THE WEEK WORTH WHILE

Baptists Hold "Get-Together Meeting" With Features That Were of Interest to All Concerned.

Unique Street Scene When Movie Picture Was Made; Society Chatter; Personal and Minor Mention.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Jan. 21.—On Wednesday night the members and friends of the First Baptist church met in their monthly social meeting known as the "Get Acquainted Meeting" in the building, where the first session was given over to the regular prayer-meeting service. Following the close of the service, Rev. W. E. Ethridge rendered an excellent program by his expression pupils, the readings being given chiefly by the young boys and girls. All the numbers were of a bright, entertaining nature and enjoyed by the audience. The program was concluded by two grown-ups, Mrs. Whitesides and Rev. Ethridge, adding to the entertainment by volunteer readings. Following an informal session, the company was invited to the church annex, where a treat of hot chocolate and cake was served by the ladies of the congregation. The function was reported to have been a most enjoyable affair.

Among the unique street scenes of Burkburnett this week was the making of a motion picture by the Oasis Photoplay company, a local organization, in which a robbery of the First National Bank of Burkburnett was featured. Owing to the curiosity of crowd of bystanders in the new industry of the city, the adjacent streets was blocked and several attempts had to be made by the actors and directors before a clear scene and setting could be secured.

L. R. Cubage, a young engineer of the Tydal Western Oil and Gas company, who was burned on the lower body while employed at the company's plant, No. 2, is reported to be rapidly recovering in the Burk hospital, where he was sent for treatment.

Personal and Minor Mention.

The marriage announcement of Miss Temphine Hart and Abner Walling of Randlette, which took place in Wichita Falls Monday, will be read with interest by the friends of the contracting parties in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Walling will make their home in Randlette.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. (Daddy) Day spent a short while in Burkburnett with friends en route to their home in Bowie, Texas, from Oklahoma, where they visited relatives.

Dr. Funche, a veterinary surgeon, formerly of this city, was mingling among local friends. He is reported to be moving this week from Fort Worth to Wichita Falls where he will establish a permanent home.

F. C. Vogel, owner of block 74, in the northwest field, was in Burkburnett looking after his property interests this week. Mr. Vogel's home is in Vinita, Oklahoma.

J. W. Grounds and M. Huddleson are newly appointed police officers of Burkburnett, and began their duty serving on night force recently.

J. L. Davis left this week for Oklahoma where he will engage drilling a wild cat well near Mansfield. His family will remain in Burkburnett.

Dr. Bordes of Mangum, Oklahoma, was a business visitor in Burkburnett Wednesday.

J. M. Jones of Electra was a Sunday visitor in Burkburnett this week.

M. M. Silberman of Baltimore Md., was in Burkburnett this week in the interest of the Texhoma Oil company. He is a college friend of Robert and Morris Thorne, sons of Judge and Mrs. Dave Thorne, formerly of Baltimore.

H. C. McConnell and H. F. Wilkie of Wichita Falls were in Burkburnett on business this week.

R. E. Moore, who is drilling wells on his farm a few miles southeast of this city, reports a 25-barrel well, that was put on the pump this week. Another derrick is being erected on the Moore farm.

T. L. McGee of Wichita Falls was a business visitor in this city Monday.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Goins, two miles west of Burkburnett, a ten-pound daughter.

E. L. James of the Chas. F. Noble company, is in Wichita Falls on business matters this week.

Louis Enloe, formerly of the Magnolia company in this city, but now of Cushing, Oklahoma, has been a recent visitor in the home of his brother, Dan Enloe, of Burkburnett.

John Wickson, formerly of this city, was here from Mexia, where he is drilling, and was greeting old friends and neighbors in Burkburnett several days this week.

Personal and Minor Mention.

Among the visitors of the week in this city are Mrs. Jimmie Brown and sister, Miss Louella Gillock, of Lawton, Oklahoma, who are guests of Mrs. O. T. Kimbrough.

Dr. Fillmore of Stringtown was a visitor in Burkburnett Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyram Berry will occupy the home of Dr. and Mrs. Prichard who recently moved to Wichita Falls.

Frank A. Johnson, who is promoting the Home Benefit association of Burkburnett, has returned from a pleasant visit with his daughters and their families in Jacksonville, Texas.

Mayor Laney and family, accompanied by Rev. Furniss, were business visitors in Wichita Falls Friday, going overland in the mayor's car.

D. R. Hill spent a few hours in Wichita Falls Friday on business interests.

Many friends of R. E. Bell regret to read of the death of his father, W. J. Bell, at the home of a brother in Seymour, Texas. Deceased was eighty odd years of age, and was rated among the most highly-esteemed citizens of West Texas. R. E. Bell is a brother-in-law to Mayor Laney, of this city, their wives being sisters.

Miss Dorathea Dorpat, Red Cross nurse for Wichita county, will remain through the week at Dallas attending the State Health Institute in session in that city, and has postponed the Burkburnett Home Nursing Class meeting from next Friday to the following Friday, January 27th, from 4 to 6 p. m. The Health Center Day is also postponed to February 4th, 1922, from 2 to 4 p. m., also under her supervision.

Miss Shirley Sparkman of Greenville is a popular visitor among her many friends in Burkburnett, Mrs. R. H. Henry being special hostess.

Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Prichard of Wichita Falls were visitors in this city Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. M. F. Gill and daughter, Miss Pauline, were shopping visitors in Wichita Falls Friday.

Mrs. J. T. Bentley of Wichita Falls spent a few hours in Burkburnett Sunday to the pleasure of her many friends and formeg neighbors in this city.

Dr. and Mrs. Kimbrough motored to Wichita Falls Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Jones of Cordell, Oklahoma, is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. H. Brown and family, on the Texas lease.

The young men and women of the Senior league met in social session Thursday night in the Methodist church and an unusually pleasant time is reported. There were songs, games and music, culminating in the choice of two captains, Miss Gill and R. P. McDougal, who, in turn, chose sides, including all members of organization, as the opening of a contest for solicitation of other members, and the general upbuild of the league. A refreshment course was served at the closing hour.

Mrs. L. H. Brown and her sister, Mrs. Jones, of Oklahoma, were business visitors in Wichita Falls Tuesday.

G. B. Andergon, Dr. Parnell, W. W. Murphy, H. R. Wilson, Lee Prescott and J. C. Wynn were special guests from Wichita Falls at the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce of Burkburnett Tuesday night.

Among the guests of honor at the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce in Wichita Falls Monday night were Dudley Ellis and Jack Hamilton of this city.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church met in regular session Sunday evening in the church hut, where an interesting program was carried out. The young people opened a campaign at this session for the placing of the Baptist Standard, the church paper, in every home of local members as a special undertaking for the New Year's work. A committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions.

Miss Troupe of Enid, Oklahoma, is a guest this week in the home of the Misses Saunders, on East Fourth street.

Birth reports of Burkburnett from January 1st to January 15th: Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Saunders, on New Year's Day, a son; Mr. and Mrs. Clair McHugh Bryson, on January 7th, a son; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Durck, a daughter; Mr. and Mrs. John Edmonds, of Bradley Corner, a daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Latham, a son.

It may yet become necessary to have a conference to end conferences.

Hygiene and Care of the Baby

TEETHING.

At birth, each tiny tooth lies partly embedded in a cavity in the jaw bone, surrounded with and covered by the soft tissues of the gum. As baby grows, the teeth grow also and if baby is healthy they are ready to cut through the gums at the sixth or seventh month.

Following is the normal time of teething:

Lower Jaw.

1. Middle cutting tooth 6 to 9 months.
2. Next cutting teeth 12 to 15 months.
3. Canine or "stomach" 18 to 24 months.
4. First molar, (grinder) 12 to 15 months.
5. Second molar, (grinder) 24 to 30 months.

Upper Jaw.

1. Middle cutting tooth 8 to 12 months.
2. Next cutting tooth, 8 to 12 months.
3. Canine or "eye" 18 to 24 months.
4. First molar, (grinder) 15 months.
5. Second molar, (grinder) 24 to 30 months.

There are twenty of these first or milk teeth, ten in each jaw. As a help in remembering baby teeth, recall that there are as many teeth in the upper jaw as there are fingers on two hands; and that a baby has as many teeth on the lower jaw as he has toes.

The teeth appear in groups. The first to appear are the lower incisors or front teeth. Then the upper incisors appear. After that the canine teeth, then the first and then the second molars may be found.

The time of cutting teeth varies so in different children that it is difficult to lay down rules for their appearance. However, a child one year of age has as a rule eight teeth; at sixteen months there should be twelve teeth and at two and one-half years, the child should have the full twenty. If the child has less than this number there may be something lacking in the diet.

Teething is a normal process and very seldom makes the baby ill. If baby is sick, or has fever or loose bowels, do not attribute it to teething but go to a doctor and find out what is the matter.

Sometimes the gums are swollen and red while baby is teething and no doubt he suffers a great deal of pain which makes him cross. In such cases, take him to the doctor to learn whether or not the gums should be opened to give him relief.

Teething Rings.

About the ninth month, the baby should have a dry crust of bread after each feeding, on which he can chew and develop his jaws. Do not give him a rubber ring or a patent article on which to bite and cut his teeth, for they are seldom clean. A clean, smooth, silver teaspoon makes a good toy and at the same time is safe for him to bite. Keep the fingers and any unclean article out of baby's mouth.

Tooth Brush.

The health of the second teeth depends much upon the care given the first set. As soon as they make their appearance baby's teeth should be cleaned each day with a soft cloth or brush. When he is old enough, the child should be taught the daily use of the toothbrush. If he is given a good tasting dentifrice or tooth paste he will enjoy keeping his teeth clean.)

The first teeth are necessary to hold the proper shape of the jaw until the second teeth are ready to break through. For that reason they should not be neglected. At the first sign of decaying teeth the child should be taken to a dentist.

The first set of teeth is replaced by the permanent teeth beginning with the sixth year. The sixth year molar may be recognized as the sixth tooth counting from the midline of the jaw in front toward the back. Because this tooth comes through at the time the child is losing its temporary teeth, this tooth is often mistaken for one of them and is allowed to remain untreated and to decay. It is especially desirable that a child should be taken to a dentist at this time because the six year molar is one of the most important of all the teeth.

It sometimes happens that the first teeth are so firm that they do not fall out, but remain in the jaws and crowd back the second teeth, making them come in mis-shapen and irregular. Irregular teeth and jaw may be remedied when a child is young.

Beautiful teeth are the right of every person. Sound teeth are necessary to good health.

SLEEP, PLAY AND REST.

The child's body develops faster during the first year of his life than at any other period. For that reason a baby needs a large allowance of sleep, with the best sleeping accommodations, so that the hours of sleep may be of the greatest value to him.

Baby should sleep alone. Babies may be smothered to death while in bed with an older person, some part of whose body may be thrown over baby's face while asleep. The young baby should sleep eighteen or twenty hours out of the twenty-four. He should have sixteen hours sleep daily from a month to the age of one year. From the first to the second year, he should sleep twelve hours. A baby should have the longest period of unbroken sleep at night and should not be permitted to turn nigh into day.

Daytime.

The daytime naps should be continued through the sixth year. The baby should never take a nap in all of his clothes. The shoes of older children especially, should be removed. In hot weather remove all but the shirt and diaper from the baby.

The sleeping room should be darkened and well ventilated. The baby should be fed and made comfortable in every way, put in his crib and let alone to go to sleep. He should never be rocked to sleep nor jolted nor jounced.

Out-of-Doors.

Out-of-door sleeping in summer, both by day and by night is good for the baby after he is a month old. He must be protected from flies, mosquitoes, shielded from the wind and sun, and covered if there is a sudden drop in temperature. The sleeping porch must be protected properly by canvas curtains and in cold weather a hot water bottle should be placed in baby's bed.

The baby must have an abundant supply of fresh air day and night. It should be kept out of doors as much as possible, avoiding the hot sun and days when the thermometer drops below 22 degrees F. because of the danger of the face being frostbitten. In the summer time, a newborn baby may be taken out of doors the first week. Begin with a daily outing of fifteen minutes about noon and gradually lengthen the time in the forenoon and afternoon until the baby is out from 10 o'clock until 2 o'clock. He must be clothed properly according to the weather and his eyes protected from the sun. At all ages, the baby carriage must be one in which the child can lie comfortably at full length and stretch his arms and legs. When sitting up, his little spine and feet must be supported properly.

Playing.

A young baby needs rest and quiet. However strong he may be, too much playing is bad, as it is likely to result in a restless night.

Rocking the baby, jumping him up and down on the knees, tossing him, in constant motion is very bad for him. These things disturb baby's nerves and make him more and more dependent upon these attentions. When the young baby is awake, he should be taken up frequently and held quietly in the arms in various positions, so that no one set of muscles may become tired. An older child should be taught to sit on the floor or in his pen or crib and amuse himself during a part of his waking hours.

Is the Place to Furnish Your Home

—The home is where the happiest part of our lives is spent. The home is where most of our leisure time is spent. And the condition of our home ofttimes determines our character in the judgment of the world.

—It forms the moral as well as the physical "backbone" of our lives. If it is furnished attractively and comfortably, the family will be happy and contented and friends will take pleasure in being your guests. If it is neglected, the reverse will be the rule.

—It's impossible to over-estimate the necessity in maintaining a high standard in the furnishing of your home—regardless of conditions.

—With this in mind McConnells are in a position to co-operate with every one in Wichita Falls who is wise enough to see the advisability of "setting his house in order" and yet needs financial assistance to accomplish the task.

Golf Club Plans Call for $100,000 Club House in '22

Directors and Building Committee Unanimously Endorse Movement for Modern House; to Carry Campaign to Membership.

A $100,000 club house in 1922.

That, in brief, expresses the hope of some forty-odd members of the Wichita Falls Golf & Country club as indicated in a rising vote taken last night after a dinner held by the club's directors and members of the building committee. Immediate action on the proposition to erect a club house in keeping with the future growth of the city will be taken.

President A. H. Britain named W. M. McGregor chairman of a committee including G. C. Wood, R. O. Harvey, W. B. Pyron and W. E. Norton, to sound out the full membership of the club at once, and to obtain pledges for the purchase of bonds. The resolution, made by Mayor Cline, on which the committee was appointed stated specifically that unless the committee obtains pledges amounting to at least $75,000 no member will be bound by his pledge, and it further gave the committee authority to devise additional means of financing the project.

In setting the minimum sum at $75,000, Mayor Cline expressed the sentiment of all the members present that a big club house; a modern, up-to-date, big city structure should be erected or none at all. Other speakers repeatedly stressed this point:

"You've got a big city now, and you'll build it bigger. Build your club house to match it," W. B. Pyron urged. "Wichita Falls can raise $75,000 to $100,000, and in my opinion you should start this movement right now. As to the question of means other than the sale of bonds to the membership, I believe I can state that there are a number of big oil corporations in this city today that would gladly donate to such a building fund, because of the benefits to many of their employes and to the city in general that will be derived."

W. E. Norton pointed out early in the meeting that of the club's 300 members approximately 120 are golf players.

"The rest pay their dues," he argued, "and receive little in return. The present club house is not large enough, nor properly equipped, for the entertainment of the members who do not play golf. Unless we take care of these members we will lose them, and that in turn means that the life of our golf course will be threatened."

Bringing a round of laughter with the statement that "golf is a fool's game, and has done me a lot of good," Judge John C. Kay insisted that the club should shoot at the $100,000 mark, in order to meet properly every contingency that may arise.

Clint Wood, Monte Staniforth, Albert Myles, C. W. Reid, N. B. Chenault, Fred Couper, A. H. Britain and many other members also shot close to par in the general discussion, while Scott Bower, after being choked off by the chairman several times, finally made a "birdie" with the statement that he would take a $1,000 bond if nine other members would make similar promises. Attempts to start any subscription list at the meeting, however, were promptly checked, and this phase of the proposition was left in the hands of the committee.

If, or rather, when the new club house is built, the club will have approximately 135 acres in one body south of the road running past the present club house. It will also have for sale 15 acres to the north, the value of which should easily care for the indebtedness on the new ground recently acquired.

A financial report made by Secretary Fred Couper showed a balance in the club's treasury, and the general expenses of the organization being well taken care of by the dues and other sources of income.

A fried chicken dinner, with all the "fixin's," prepared under the general direction of A. I. Kendall, club professional, put the members present in good humor to attack the problem of a new club house with the enthusiasm and determination necessary.

LONGHORN NINE OPENS SEASON AGAINST CHISOX

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 21.—Announcement of the Longhorn baseball schedule for 1922 has recently been made by Coach Billy Disch, of the University of Texas physical training staff. Among the out of state games to be played by the Varsity nine are those scheduled with Arkansas, Louisiana State University, Mississippi A. & M. and Alabama State University. Fourteen conference games will be played.

About 75 men are working out daily under the instructions of Coach Disch. From this abundance of material the task of Coach Disch will be to select another Southwestern conference championship team to hold the record maintained for the past ten consecutive seasons. The Longhorn nine will open the season with a game with the Chicago White Sox at Austin on March 20.

Other games arranged are as follows: Howard Payne at Austin, March 20-30; Daniel Baker at Austin, April 3-4; Baylor University at Waco, April 7-8; Arkansas University at Austin (double header) April 10-11-12; Texas A. & M. at College Station, April 14-15; Rice Institute at Austin, April 19-20; Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, April 24-25; Mississippi A. & M. at Starkville, April 26-27; Alabama State University at Tuscaloosa, April 28-29; Austin College at Austin, May 4; Southwestern at Austin, May 8; A. & M. College at Austin, May 10-11; Baylor at Austin, May 19-20.

Civic League Plans Annual Tree Sale

Early in February the Civic League's annual tree sale drive will start, according to announcement of Mrs. W. S. Curlee, the chairman of the City Beautiful Department. The trees have already been ordered and are scheduled to arrive shortly after the first of the coming month. They will be heeled in on the Moore and Nichols property, corner of Ninth and Indiana, it is announced.

There will be three hundred trees in the 1922 shipment, and it is urged that all desiring trees keep in touch with this shipment, so that an early selection may be made. The exact date of the coming of the sale and the prices will be announced later.

MURPHY, "ACE OF AIR NUTS," AGAIN TO BUST LOOSE TODAY

C. Pat Murphey, "ace of air nuts," who became suddenly goofy at Call field last Sunday and from the upper wing of an aeroplane gave an imitation of Pavlowa leading a Russian ballet, will again "take the air" above the same field today.

Pat was not prepared to state exactly what stunts he might feel like indulging in this afternoon. He denied emphatically, however, that he would stand on the upper wing of the plane, hold a blow torch in one hand and a skillet in the other and attempt to fry a couple of eggs "over easy." But spectators who watched him last week need not be surprised at anything that Irishman does—he is merely celebrating the birth of the Irish Free State, and is absolutely uncontrollable.

It was suggested that Pat should drive the aeroplane today, while his manager "Big Boy" Tibbs, should perform all the stunts usually done by Pat. Tibbs took a rising vote against the proposition, however, calling attention to his 220-pounds and explaining that he is in this flying business merely as ballast.

JOHNNY COUCH IS TRADED TO CINCY FOR FOUR PLAYERS

By Associated Press.

A NEW CHAMPION By Ripley

By ROBERT L. RIPLEY.

Gene Tunney—James J. Tunney, in fact—is the first A. E. F. champion to come through and win a title since the war. The other night young Tunney easily defeated the ancient Battling Levinsky for the American light-heavy weight championship.

True, the light-heavyweight title has not amounted to much since it was originated by old Bob Fitzsimmons after his defeat by Jeffries. However, with the famous Carpentier as holder of the world's title and the ambitious Tunney as the American champion, we may expect some action in the future.

The A. E. F. champions have not amounted to much. They've all fizzled. Babe Asher, the bantam, went along well for a while, but he has been going pretty poorly of late. Johnny Fundy, featherweight, and Billy Kleck, welterweight, both seem to have dropped out. Leo Patterson, lightweight, recently invaded Australia and immediately proceeded to get himself knocked out by some native product. Jackie Clark, middleweight, hasn't been going well at all. Bob Martin, heavyweight, came along fast, and seemed destined for a crack at Champion Jack Dempsey, but Bob suddenly stopped and hasn't boxed since Fay Keiser smeared him in Baltimore nearly five months ago.

Captain Bob Roper is a product of the army, although the Chicagoan never went overseas. Roper is a fair scrapper, but he'll never be a champion. Midget Smith embarked upon his fistic career while serving with the army in Panama, and the blond-haired, chunky Harlem bantam seems to be in a fair way of copping the bantam title. Fay Keiser served with the A. E. F., but Fay isn't going anywhere in particular.

None of the others are worth mentioning.

Tunney is a native of the famous Greenwich Village section of New York City. He is only twenty-three years old, and is solely an army product. While serving with the U. S. Marines in France he won the light-heavyweight A. E. F. championship. He also defeated Bob Martin in a special match in Paris.

Tunney has had only about twenty fights as a professional. He is an excellent boxer and a good straight hitter. He has never been defeated.

He will have plenty of opposition in his new position as the 175-pound king. Harry Greb and Tom Gibbons will give him rough treatment, and may beat him. However, they must get him quick, because he is improving very fast.

Gibbons and Tunney should fight it out for a match with Carpentier.

'Round the Sport Circle

WITH JACK VEIOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—After all is said and done Georges Carpentier's easy victory over George Cook is no sure indication that the Frenchman is as good as he was before he faced Jack Dempsey.

Cook was simply built up for Carpentier. He proved another Joe Beckett. He crawled through the ropes with Georges carrying a very mediocre record and he still has it, only somewhat more drab.

Most accounts of the fight agreed that Carpentier simply toyed with Cook and flattened him when he got ready. So none can say 'twas a glorious victory.

Tex Rickard's insistence that Georges is absolutely coming across the pond to carry out his match with Tommy Gibbons sounds good and we hope that he does. Gibbons is no Cook. He is a big, hard-hitting and exceedingly clever scrapper who will bring out all there is in Carpentier, and it is our prediction here and now that poor Georges is in for a sound licking when Thomas Joseph starts after him.

George Cutshaw, veteran second baseman of the National League, will get a chance to show his wares to American league fans this year.

Cutshaw has been sent to the Detroit Tigers by Barney Dreyfus, and as he is a hard, conscientious worker, he may squeeze his way into a regular berth on Ty Cobb's infield. Of course, Cutshaw isn't the sprightly, dashing infielder he once was, but he knows how to handle that old keystone sack position and if given the chance will undoubtedly work his head off.

Dan Rogers, aggressive manager of Rocky Kansas, stands ready and willing at any time to rematch his scrapper with Benny Leonard for the world's lightweight championship, but he insists that Leonard make 135 pounds.

"I firmly believe," writes Daniel, "that if Leonard is brought down to 135 pounds Rocky has better than a good chance to take the title away from him. If the match is made for Madison Square Garden or anywhere in New York State Leonard will have to make the lightweight limit, according to the rules. And as it looks now the Garden is the only place for it."

Tex Rickard recently told the writer that he is trying to land this and several other lightweight championship matches. He expects to bring both Kansas and Tendler into the Garden against Leonard and later put on Benny and Jack Britton for the welterweight title.

Just why Johnny Wilson should challenge the winner of the Carpentier-Cook bout in London in face of his run-out on Harry Greb is something we don't quite understand.

Taking it by and large it appears that Johnny has a most wholesome respect for the Pittsburgh battler, who is so anxious to meet him in a bout for the title that he is willing to take a chance of hurting himself.

But from what we've seen of Wilson in his fights against Mike O'Dowd and Bryant Downey Georges Carpentier has little to worry about as far as the middleweight champion is concerned. Carpentier would go around Wilson like a cooper around a keg, chopping him to pieces. Better keep these features out of Europe, Jawn.

Though George Cook kissed the canvas in his bout with Carpentier he may bob up again, perhaps as an opponent for some American battler who crosses the pond. Or Cook may decide that, having failed to startle Europe he will come to this country and try his luck with some of the lesser lights. In case he does it will not be amiss to paste the measurements away in your scrapbook for use in probable future comparisons.

George Cook—Age, 23 years; height, 5 feet, 11 inches; weight, 185 pounds; reach, 77 inches; biceps, 11 1-2 inches; forearm, 13 inches; neck, 17 3-4 inches; chest, normal, 42 inches; chest, expanded, 45 inches; thigh, 25 inches; calf, 16 inches; ankle, 10 inches.

NEAR MILLION IN TAXES YET TO BE PAID

With eight tax-paying days yet remaining the office of M. L. Tittle, county tax collector, will open Monday morning with over $880,000 county and school taxes in the county yet unpaid. The collection of $61,035.72 for the last week ending Friday night was less than any six day period for several weeks.

A new record was established however in the amount of poll taxes a total of 9509 being issued. This brings the total to slightly over 5,000 in the county. Of this number approximately one-third are for women voters.

It is expected that the close of the coming week will see the usual last minute rush with long lines of taxpayers waiting at the several windows. Based on comparative figures the total poll tax receipts will exceed 12,000 by February 1.

WATER TAXES LESS THAN THIRD COLLECTED

Approximately $25,000 of the $80,000 assessments for the Water Improvement District No. 1 have been collected at the courthouse according to information Saturday from V. W. Cain, deputy collector. The remainder becomes delinquent the same as other taxes on February 1.

Mr. Cain's office is located in that of Irvan Deaton, county tax assessor. He is collecting the water tax assessed in connection with the irrigation project.

High Schools' Track Meet at A. & M. April 29

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 21.—The Twelfth Annual Interscholastic Track and Field Meet of the A. & M. College of Texas will be held Saturday, April 29, at College Station.

Contestants, managers and coaches will be invited to arrive at the college the day previous and be the guests of the college on that day at the dual track meet between the Aggies and the Rice Owls.

Plans for the meet and rules of the track meet for the high school ... are being prepared by James Sut... business manager of athletics, ... copies of the rules and regulations ... be mailed out to all high schools in the state within a few days.

An entertainment program more elaborate than any ever before given by the institution in honor of the visit of the high school men is included in the plans for the annual event and arrangements will be made to accommodate more men than have ever attended in any previous year.

Successful contestants in the meet will be awarded appropriate trophies to commemorate their winnings.

Overland Co. To Reorganize

A. B. Booth, of the Overland Motors company, announced on yesterday that the firm was now undergoing a re-organization which would admit of it going after bus'ness on an even larger and more progressive plan than heretofore. The firm is open for business and the complete re-organization will be perfected by the first of February.

Under the plans of re-organization R. A. Ebner of Dallas, formerly district manager of the Willys-Overland company for this territory, will become a member of the firm and have charge of sales. Mr. Ebner is not a total stranger to Wichita Falls, as he has had occasion to visit the city frequently as district manager of the Overland company. He will move his family to Wichita Falls immediately and is anxious to renew the acquaintance which he enjoys with various members of the automobile fraternity. He believes in the future of Wichita Falls and expresses himself as being well pleased with the prospect of making this city his home.

A. B. Booth will remain with the firm in the same position as that formerly held by him.

Portland Accidents.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 21.—The total number of deaths on the streets of Portland due to automobile accidents during the year 1921 was thirty-one, according to police reports.

Fourteen hundred and ten persons were injured in 13,161 accidents in the last year. In connection with the accidents, there were 12,413 arrests.

GAINES TEAM'S CAGE PROTEST IS WITHDRAWN

Motor Company Five Votes for Clean Sportsmanship in American Legion-"Abe Bremen Row" of Friday.

The Gaines Motor company team in a letter to the Executive Council of the City Amateur Basketball league yesterday withdrew its earlier protest of the game played Friday night against the American Legion five. Members of the Gaines team, after casting a unanimous vote for clean sportsmanship, authorized Manager Milt Gaines to mail the following letter to the Executive Council:

"Gentlemen:—

"At a meeting of the members of the Gaines Motor company basketball team held today, it was voted to withdraw the team's earlier protest of the league game played January 20th against the American Legion team.

"The members of the Gaines team still feel that sufficient grounds for protest remain—but they prefer that the basketball fans of the city shall consider the Gaines members first of all good sportsmen, who are unwilling to take advantage of any technicalities connected with the game of basketball. We admit that technically the American Legion has the right perhaps to use players who hold no residence in Wichita Falls, and who are not personally interested in civic matters in this city. We realize also that perhaps Abe Bremen could argue on a technicality that he is an 'amateur' athlete—but we are not trying to dictate the morals of the Legion team. If we keep our own records clean, we will be satisfied even if we close the season without a victory.

"We do ask, however, that inasmuch as the strict rules of basketball are being interpreted, or are supposed to be interpreted, by the officials, the Executive Council of the league should go 'whole hog or none.' The A. A. U. rules call for a referee AND an umpire. It is apparent that one official cannot see all violations, otherwise the rule would not have been made. Therefore, we request that the Executive Council appoint a referee and an umpire for EVERY game hereafter played.

"We intend to stay in there and pitch. Win, lose or draw, we're in this league for the fun, the healthful exercise and the good sport we can get out of it, and as much of the same as we can put into it."

GRAND JURY INDICTS 12 AND RECESSES

After returning twelve indictments in a partial report Saturday morning Judge H. F. Weldon granted the request of the grand jury of the 30th district court that they be granted a week's recess in order to look after their private interests before returning to complete their work. The action means that the grand jury after being in session since January 2 will recess until January 30.

George Bradsaw, negro charged with the murder of A. B. Bilton, another negro in a servant house on Elizabeth street on January 12 and Will Milburn charged with theft of clothing in November of last year were the only indictments announced. The two men are confined at the county jail. The remaining ten indictments are concerned with persons now out on bond or who have never been apprehended.

The present grand jury gives indication of setting a record for the county in length of service according to county officials. It is understood that their work is only partially completed and the one week's recess was requested in order that they might then return for a session of possibly several weeks duration.

Willl T. Harris Candidate for County Judge

Will T. Harris, who is now serving Wichita County as county clerk in his second term, has announced his candidacy for the office of county judge. He states that his experience with the commissioners' court as chief clerk for over three years, and as county clerk for the past three years, has familiarized him with all the details of the office in the handling of the finances and the legal work that is imposed upon the county judge; and he believes he is competent to fill the place to the satisfaction of the majority of the qualified voters of Wichita county; and that he believes that he can make as good a county judge as he has made county clerk if elected.

He asks the voters of Wichita county to consider him when forming their judgment as to the proper man to fill the place, and if elected, will show his appreciation of their confidence by extending to them every courtesy that is possible for him to give.

Pat McGill to Wrestle.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 21.—Pat McGill of Wisner, Neb., and Clarence Eklund, of Buffalo, Wyo., are the headliners of a wrestling tournament here Monday night in the Municipal auditorium. Eklund claims the world's championship in the 175-pound class.

Harvard Confounds Critics in Grid Game That Wasn't Played

Crimson Warriors Hold Wichita Falls Heavy High School Eleven to Scoreless Tie. Jones of Harvard Steals Signals Off'n Shorty Chewning's Trousers, Says Coach Viner.

BY "NICK" CARTER.

Explanation Note: Ray Pearson in the Denver Post is writing a series of stories describing mythical fights between boxers who never met. This seems to be a bright idea. As sporting editor of The Record-News I intend that my "gang" of readers shall receive the benefit of every bright idea in circulation. I am therefore very happy to submit for your approval the following thrilling story:

In what Walter Camp described as "a cataclysmic meeting between the irresistible force and the immovable body," the crimson-clad football warriors of Harvard university yesterday upset the advance dope of the nation's greatest sport authorities by holding the brilliant Wichita Falls high school eleven to a scoreless tie. Odds of 5 to 1 were freely offered before the game that the Harvard team would be unable to stop the plunging rush of the heavy school backfield and that Coach Harry Viner's charges would roll up not less than four touchdowns against the Crimson.

The game was played at Athletic park before a crowd estimated at 80,000, while it was quite generally believed that every man, woman and child of Wichita Falls was in the big stadium watching the titanic struggle. It was impossible to verify the report, however, as there was no one left in the business and residential sections to make this verification.

Despite the fact that they were outweighed some 10 pounds to the man, the fighting linesmen of Harvard put up a stubborn defensive game that will never be forgotten by those who witnessed it. Time and again "Shorty" Chewning was stopped in his tracks, when the tricky high school quarterback attempted to smash through the center of the Crimson line. With the exception of a brilliant end run of 25 yards by Myers Hayes, substituting in the final period for Steve West after the latter had been put out of the game by the referee for four personal fouls, the contest was a see-saw affair from start to finish.

Coach Viner of the Red and Black was bitterly disappointed with the result of the game, coming as it did on the heels of a season in which the powerful local high school team had scored decisive victories over Notre Dame, Texas university, Cornell, the Navy, Center, Penn State, Archer City, Goree and Anson.

"The Harvard eleven stole our signals," Coach Viner charged. "In my innocence I believed the story told me before the game that all the Crimson players were merely taking the football course at Harvard university, and that none of them, therefor, could read. Taking advantage of this, I printed all the our signals in English on the seat of Quarterback Chewing's trousers so that the high school backfield could see them plainly.

"But it developed that Jones, the Harvard center, while working in a garage earlier in the season, had taken a correspondence course in journalism, and was therefore able to read print. In the midst of an unusually violent scrimmage, he craftily tore the seat out of Chewning's trousers. Then while time was being taken out in order to reclothe Chewning, Jones got the Harvard players together and deliberately read all of our signals to them. After that my backfield didn't have a chance to get started. I intend to take this matter up some time with the proper authorities, if I can ever get my assistant, Duke, to do his proper share of the desk work and thereby give me a few minutes leisure."

Quarterback Chewning cried like a baby after the game.

"It was all my fault," he said. "Coach Viner told me before the game to sit down whenever I was tackled, so as not to expose the signals. But in my anxiety to gain another yard I fell forward on my face on one occasion, and it was then that Jones of Harvard saw the signals and basely tore the seat out of my trousers in order to obtain them. It was all my fault."

There will be a banquet in honor of the high school team at Dan Duffey's restaurant tomorrow night, and each member of the squad who played against Harvard will receive a horse blanket.

BOXING BOUTS BY LEGION POST NEXT TUESDAY

The Pat Carrigan Post of the American Legion will stage a smoker, with several fast boxing bouts, for the entertainment of the Legion members next Tuesday night. Dr. T. J. Strong of the Legion's athletic committe, has made arrangements to have a number of clever "leather pushers" mix it up in four-round bouts—and a big crowd of Legion members and their friends will probably attend the "blow-out."

For the main event, "Doc" has signed up Dick Bowers of Vernon and Tommy Knop, of Tulsa, Okla. These boys are 128-pounders, and reported to be rugged, willing boxers.

Blackie Arnett, of Tulsa, will swap punches in the semi-final with Battling Snyder of Burkburnett, the two boxers weighing in at 118 pounds.

A good preliminary event also will be on the card.

Longhorn Five Again Defeats Baylor Bears

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan. 21.—The Texas University basketball team defeated Baylor University here tonight by a score of 33 to 15. Peyton and McCullough starred for Texas, while Lyons starred for Baylor. Payton's goal throwing was the feature of the game.

Burl Bryant Candidate to Succeed Self

Burl Bryant, county superintendent of schools, Saturday announced his candidacy for reelection as head of the rural schools of the county. Mr. Bryant is running for a second term being first elected in 1920 following his appointment by the county commissioners court to fill out an unexpired term.

Previous to appointment and election, Mr. Bryant served as an instructor in the local high school and previous to that time had several years experience as a teacher in city and rural schools. He also attended rural schools in Montague county where he was born and reared.

Beauchamp Is Candidate for Justice Peace

Making his race on a platform which calls for the strict law enforcement program with special reference to the state prohibition enforcement acts, Oluff D. Beauchamp, local attorney, Saturday announced his candidacy for justice of the peace, precinct 1, place 2. Mr. Beauchamp is 25 years of age, being the youngest aspirant as yet to announce for county or precinct office subject to the democratic primaries in July.

Mr. Beauchamp has been a resident of this city for thirteen years, coming here from Wise county where he was born and reared. He graduated from the local high school in 1913. He later attended the University of Texas one year. Taking up the study of law after leaving the university he was admitted to the bar in 1920. He has practiced in this city since that time.

Such Hard Times for Titles!

If You Were a Countess, How Would You Like to Run a Laundry? That's What the Wife of the Earl of Clonmell Does---a Duke Makes His Home in a Garage and Others of the Nobility Are Frankly "In Trade."

Right—The Countess of Clonmell in the Days Before She Opened the "White Elephant" Laundry.

Right—Mrs. Gilbert Hamilton, the Former American Mrs. Gould Brokaw, Who Now Sells Lingerie.

NDER the burden of decaying estates and tax-laden shares the titled gentry of England are at last knowing the feel alloused hands. Not only are the lords ladies of the empire admitting trades- e to their friendship; they are becoming s-people themselves.

he European explosion that made a wood- er out of a king, turned a piano player into me minister, and established an American r as the first power behind the Grecian s, is still backfiring madly through the fis- of British society.

me was when no gentleman could work in and. The very act or gesture of laboring ain cancelled one's claim to gentility. A r Duke of Devonshire once remarked about y Cavendish, his scientist cousin: "He's not ntleman. You see, he works." And this was work of the mind, too.

hat the present Duke of Devonshire thinks the activities of his present day noble is is not on record. But if he had the same gs as his ancestor he would have ample tunity for becoming scandalized.

Society Turns to Trade

e would certainly not have to look far to Lady Diana Duff-Cooper posturing for the n; r Lord Lyveden conducting pleasure tours;

r the Lady Marjorie Dalrymple, a sister of Earl of Stair, running a glove establishment;

r Lady Victoria Murray, a sister of the Earl nmore, doing the rough work on her farm;

r the Hon. Mrs. John Fortescue designing re frocks.

r Lady Henry Bentinck exhibiting her de- ful hand-painted furniture; the Hon. Mrs. Russell, Lord Ampthill's daughter, design- rocks at a Curzon street studio; Mrs. C. F. heading the Green Wig establishment in street; Lady Egerton directing the famous Caret's in Orchard street, and Mrs. Har- Mann managing the Willet's decorative lishment in Sloane square.

r if these did not impress him he might take k at a few more of his aristocratic associ- who, though not yet tarnished by trade, have driven to sell their large estates and accom- te themselves to clerks' incomes.

or a while, perhaps, it may have been thought the titled women who went to work were r faddists or women deficient in the proper For a while, perhaps, the bulk of British y was inclined to sniff at this business of g the ranks of labor. But whatever of scension was once in their attitude has been ughly extracted by exploits in business per- ed by the Countess of Clonmell, wife of the of Clonmell, who holds one of the oldest in Ireland, and Mrs. Gilbert Hamilton, for- the wife of Gould Brokaw, the New York onaire. The Countess of Clonmell has opened a laundry and actually works in it; Mrs. Hamilton operates a lingerie establishment.

London society is still amazed at these two. But it forgives them and, what is better, patronizes them.

Mrs. Hamilton, who before her marriage to and divorce from Gould Brokaw was Miss Mary Blair, daughter of James A. Blair of New York, is one of the most beautiful and fascinating members of English society. She is the wife of Col. Hamilton of the Grenadier Guards, who is the son of Lord Hamilton and the grandson of none other than the Duke of Abercorn. Col. Hamilton is a cousin of the Duke of Devonshire, a cousin to the Duke of Buccleugh, a nephew of Lady Lansdowne, and kinsman of half the proud houses of British nobility. Among his relations is Viscount Lascelles, who is to marry Princess Mary. The American girl, therefore, had everything in the way of family connections to work against her actually opening up a shop.

During the war, however, she nursed American soldiers at Neuilly Hospital, under the direction of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, and also, in an earlier period, did war relief work of various kinds. Her friends often heard her say that she would never be the same woman—that somehow the desire to be making her own way, to be forging her own life, to be free from the safeguards ordinarily thrown around titled women, to be no longer under the spell of old conventions—was now stronger than any other desire.

As she was always known as a person of courage it is not remarkable that she immediately went to work when she felt that her family finances needed it. There was no lack of people trying to dissuade her. Her friends and relatives all pointed out that the Hamilton fortune was still large enough to enable her to hold her place in society. But she knew well enough that heavy income and death taxes were swiftly reducing to the same level all the big families whose money was in land. She knew well enough that if the money she might earn were not needed immediately it would be sooner or later. So she went to work.

If anything, she is more popular than ever among her friends. They have applauded her action and what is more they have shown their approval by giving her handsome orders. Shopping in Mrs. Hamilton's establishment is pretty much of an afternoon's holiday, anyhow. She has put in a line of laces and silks that are as good as any to be found in London. She has fixed up her shop in such a way that it is a delight to be inside it. And Mrs. Hamilton has proved herself a saleswoman of superior talents. She sells everybody. They are delighted to buy—first, because Mrs. Hamilton has made of trading a delightful exercise; second, because they get first-class values.

Not infrequently, now, society women drop in around 4 o'clock to make small purchases and have tea before cosey grate fires.

The Countess of Clonmell, like all other British women who have gone into business, did war work on a big scale, and, like them, gained experiences she never would have under normal circumstances. When the health of her husband, the Earl, began to fail recently, and the family fortunes, already depleted, began to dwindle away—she looked around for something to do. In speaking of the matter she said:

"At the beginning of the year I began to feel it was time I was doing something. Social activities of various kinds have always occupied my time and during the war I was interested in many organizations. Recently I had lots of time on my hands—and needed to do something with it. I mentioned the matter to Gordon Selfridge and said, 'I wish I had something to do.'

"'Well,' he replied, 'why not start a laundry?'

"That was about six months ago. Today my business is patronized by people not only in London but in the provinces, in Scotland and even in Ireland.

"My premises are just off Oxford street and almost any day in the week you will see a small crowd of people assembled outside watching my assistants at work."

Needless to say the Countess had her discouragements. Outside of those friends who were shocked at her contemplating such a vulgar life work as operating a laundry, there were others who scoffed at the possibility of her ever making a go of it.

"You will have a white elephant on your hands," they said. The Countess did not think so. But she had a sense of humor and a sporting feeling, so she defied her luck by calling her place "The White Elephant."

A Fortune in Soiled Linen?

She has studied her business closely, understands the best methods of doing fine laundry work, and supervises every detail of the work. Her friends now expect to see her make a fortune.

Though many noble families who have felt the pinch of poverty are not represented in the ranks of trade as yet, they are all distinctly aware that a new order of things has taken hold of the land, and they are preparing to meet it. This state of mind is reflected in the cooking schools, which for the first time are being crowded with ladies of the aristocracy. In some cases they are taking lessons openly—in other cases they have hidden their identities. At first they were hopeless, but they soon learned to cook.

The American Ambassador, it seems, was trying to have the lady presented, but when her connections were looked up it was found that her father manufactured shoes. The court attaches were shocked and pointed out to the American Ambassador that trades-people could not be admitted to court.

The Ambassador conveyed the information to the rich American, who immediately and tearfully communicated with her father. This gentleman, being a shrewd Yankee, cabled back: "Not selling shoes, fairly giving them away. See advertisement."

The daughter laid the telegram before the Ambassador and he, in turn, apprised the court that the objectionable parent was really not a trades-person at all, but a philanthropist. The daughter achieved her ambition.

Jackson Again Candidate for Commissioner

J. P. Jackson of this city, county commissioner from Precinct 1 will be a candidate to succeed himself, according to his announcement Saturday.

As a resident of this city for sixteen years where he was engaged in the mercantile business for several years, Mr. Jackson is widely known in the precinct.

He was first elected commissioner in 1912. He served until 1918 when he voluntarily retired from the office to enter private business. In 1920 he was a candidate in the democratic primaries and was nominated, although he made no campaign to secure the office.

Mr. Jackson was a member of the court at the time the present courthouse building was constructed taking an active part in the supervision of its construction being the only commissioner living in this city. Mr. Jackson said Saturday that he had not statement to make that he was willing to run for re-election on the work he has accomplished in past terms.

REPORTS FOR MEMBER DRIVE ASKED MONDAY

Final reports of workers in the Chamber of Commerce drive will be turned in Monday afternoon in order that a complete report may be made at the directors' meeting Monday night, according to Hubert Harrison, general manager of the association.

Further work was done on the campaign by workers who assumed responsibility for remaining territories, but no formal reports were received by Mr. Harrison Saturday. Friday, the revenue passed the $30,000 mark, with the membership around 1,200.

INDUSTRIAL GAS USERS ON AGAIN

Industrial gas users, cut off following the trouble at the compressors of the Lone Star Gas Co., in Oklahoma will be supplied again immediately, according to instructions received by the local office of the North Texas Gas company.

The industrial gas was shut off only one day, according to information obtained from the local office.

OFFICERS SAY NEW RULING TO BE HANDICAP

Declare Will Make Federal Enforcement Almost Impossible; State Enforcement Broken Down, Say.

Will Invalidate Many Federal Liquor Cases Now on Books, Believed by Local Officers.

The decision of Judge James C. Wilson of the Northern Federal Judicial district of which this county is a part, in which he held that federal officials could not legally issue a search warrant to investigate liquor law violation on hearsay evidence will greatly weaken the enforcement of the federal prohibition acts, according to opinions expressed by county officials and local attorneys.

Judge Wilson, according to reports here held in a Fort Worth case that federal officials must have more than the hearsay evidence before they issue the search warrants which gives officers authority to enter a home or place of business in search of liquor law violations.

United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz in charge of the local federal office, when asked concerning the ruling, refused to make any comment. He said that he had written the federal attorney's office for more detailed information regarding the ruling. He added he would continue to issue search warrants as in the past pending a response from his inquiry.

According to officers, search warrants in the past have been issued largely on hearsay evidence. People living in the neighborhood where a still is in operation or where liquor is being sold become suspicious after a time and report their evidence to the officers to whom a search warrant is issued.

It is believed that under the new ruling federal officials will refuse to issue the writs without other positive evidence that the building is being used for the manufacture, sale or possession of liquor, To secure this added evidence officers frankly admit will be difficult in the light of the schemes for concealment that have been worked out by the bootlegging industry.

The situation is rendered more acute through the obvious falling down of state prohibition enforcement acts, according to officials. Recently practically all local cases involving violation of the liquor laws have taken to the federal office when charges were filed it being claimed that it was useless to attempt to secure a conviction for liquor law violations in state courts. During the last three weeks state and city officers have raided several residences and store buildings and secured a large amount of liquor and manufacturing equipment. The search warrants were issued from the local federal office in most instances. Under Judge Wilson's ruling most of these cases are expected to be thrown out unless a higher court in the meantime holds adversely to the ruling.

FARMER-LABOR POLITICAL MEET HERE MONDAY

A meeting for the purpose of organizing to support a farmer-labor political program here, will be held at the Labor Temple Monday night, according to an announcement by F. J. Angel.

The Central Trades Council here is supporting the movement, which has been in progress at a number of other places in the state, Angel says.

An invitation to farmers, laborers and women voters is extended to be present at the meeting, and it is announced that affiliation with an organization, labor or otherwise, is not necessary for attendance at the meeting.

Home Town Stuff

T. C. Thatcher of Oklahoma City, general manager of the Oklahoma City Mill & Elevator company, one of the largest of the Kell group, has returned to Oklahoma City.

Morris Alper, Cuban agent for the Oklahoma City Mill & Elevator company, left for the East after a brief business visit here.

H. D. Melat, general superintendent of production for the Gulf, has returned from a two weeks' trip to the Tampico oil fields. While there Mr. Melat saw a 40,000 barrel producer completed on the Gulf property.

J. D. Hutchins who lived about three miles north of Goree dropped dead late Sunday evening just as he started to milk his cow. Heart trouble is believed to have been the cause of his death. Mr. Hutchins was 59 years of age. He had lived in Goree for several years until last winter when he moved to the farm. His wife and a daughter, Mrs. A. G. Hall, of Wichita Falls, survive him. Interment was made in the Goree cemetery Monday afternoon.—Goree Advocate.

Editor Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, Mrs. Fitzgerald, and Mr. C. G. Manuel of the Wichita Falls Record News motored over Sunday and were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Fisher. While here Mr. Manuel arranged with Mrs. Iem Bellows to furnish social news of the town to the Record News. Mrs. Alva Hill is society correspondent for the Wichita Times, so Seymour is going to be well represented in the papers of our neighboring city. In fact, already other towns have been somewhat jealous of the publicity we are getting.—Baylor County Banner.

Hon. Bert King of Wichita Falls has been a visitor this week in our city, being here as attorney in district court cases.—Baylor County Banner.

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, joined by many other civic organizations in Wichita Falls, are planning to establish in Wichita county an interstate fair, which will be held each year. They plan to make this fair one of the biggest in the state with the possible exception of the state fair at Dallas. It is pointed out that with the buildings at Call Field that there is a desirable site to stage it and with rail connections in every direction it is believed that by bringing the border counties of Oklahoma into it that an Interstate Fair would be a great success.—Electra Star.

Wichita county is to have another rail outlet to the north in 1922. So says Frank Kell, one of the city fathers of Wichita Falls. This road, he said, would connect with the Rock Island at some point in Oklahoma and would furnish an outlet to the north. Mr. Kell, who spoke before the general meeting of the Chamber of Commerce followed the announcement with an intimation that Wichita Falls might this year become a station on a trunk line railway from St. Louis and Kansas City to the Mexican border.—Electra Star.

Among the attorneys here this week during court are Hon. W. H. Kimbrough, M. J. R. Jackson, R. E. Underwood, Frank Ryburn, J. O. Guleke, and E. T. Miller of Amarillo, and R. E. Taylor, Jr., of Wichita Falls.—Clarendon News.

A recent visit to the diversion dam on the Wichita river revealed the fact that the undertaking is mammoth in proportion and will be mammoth in point of service to the farmers in the southern and central portions of the country. It will not only benefit them but the entire section of the country will prosper. Idle men from all parts of the county will find employment, and even farmers who have teams and a little spare time may employ themselves at hauling. With the exception of experienced machinists not a single man from out the bounds of Wichita county should be employed.—Iowa Park Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bradford went to Wichita Fals Tuesday afternoon to secure music to be used during the music contest to be held at the school next spring.—Iowa Park Herald.

Pay sand at Gulf Production company's No. 1, in Section 118, Burk Burnett ranch in Carson county was the report current in Amarillo yesterday morning, and several cars of oil men proceeded to the location at once to determine the truth of the rumor, but there seems to be an air of secrecy on the part of the big manipulators, they declare. The Gulf company's No. 1 lies about three miles northeast of the Gulf No. 2, the first producing well in the Amarillo-Panhandle field. The Gulf No. 2 is estimated at from 200 to 1,200 barrels a day, and it is said that the well is to be put on the pump within the near future. Local oil men believe that production is near at hand and base their conclusions on the close proximity of the Gulf wells Nos. 1 and 2.—Amarillo Tribune.

Mrs. S. E. Holson of Wichita Falls, Texas, who has been visiting Mrs. B. F. Spurgeon, returned home Friday.—Frederick (Okla.) Leader.

Bernard McMahan, field director for the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway association, returned to Vernon Wednesday after attending the annual banquets of Electra and Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.—Vernon Record.

B. L. Walker of Wichita Falls was here Wednesday.—Vernon Record.

A car of coal was broken into on the Wichita Valley tracks. About four tons were removed, it is claimed by Constable Ladd and City Marshal Sanders. Two arrests have been made, we learn. These cars have been broken into so much of late that officers were put on the watch and the thiefs were caught.—Stamford Leader.

O. P. Harlan is back from Dallas and Fort Worth. He came back by Wichita Falls where he learned that T. J. Taylor dropped dead in that city. Mr. Taylor was a prominent man in that city. He was a relative of Mrs. M. B. Taylor, mother of Mrs. Jack Booth, of this city.—Stamford Leader.

Burk Burnett of Fort Worth, one of the best known cowmen in the world, suffered a stroke of paralysis some ten days ago, and is not expected to recover. He has played a great part in the history of Northwest Texas, and his 6666 ranch comprises all of King and parts of other counties.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Frank Collier of Wichita Falls, who is remembered here as a great amateur baseball pitcher, has announced as a candidate for mayor of his city. Without knowing anything about local conditions we predict that he will be elected in a walk.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

W. M. Wages came in from Wichita Falls yesterday.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Mrs. Bob Gafford and grandson, John James, Jr., left Wednesday morning for Wichita Falls to visit her daughter. — Quanah Tribune-Chief.

John Cofield and wife, who had been visiting his mother, returned to Wichita Falls yesterday.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Judge Marrs of Wichita Falls was in town yesterday to look up some Q. A. & P. matters.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Mrs. Luther Orr and baby came in from Wichita Falls yesterday.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

J. D. Davenport and little son of Wichita Falls spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Shaw.—Chillicothe Valley News.

Thomas Lynn Blanton, the Abilene statesman, has announced that he will not be a candidate for the United States senate, but will be a candidate to succeed himself in the lower house. This will cause Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald of the Wichita Falls Record-News to select another candidate.—Chillicothe Valley News.

BOB WAGGONER BUILDING

Here's the First Truthful Story, Police Reporter Style, Giving Low Down on the Diplomatic Reception

The Big Punch in Opening Paragraph Is—"The President and Mrs. Harding Shook the Hands of Exactly 2,794 Quests and Were on Their Feet at the Finish"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Wonder if any one has ever written an absolutely truthful story of the diplomatic reception? Chances are against it. The morning papers all referred to it as an intensely brilliant event. They carried columns of the diamonds, birds of Paradise, ruby bandeaus, and tulle scarfs worn to the affair by their owners. Not one of them told the story police reporter style. You know—with the big punch in the first line. If they did it would start off like this:

"The President and Mrs. Harding shook hands 2,794 times last night and were on their feet at the finish."

Try it some time if you do not think that tribute to ther physicial powers is deserved. A handshake involves holding the right arm rigid and at right angles to the body. That night the President and Mrs. Harding held their right arms in that position for three hours, lacking seven minutes. At each shake they advanced their right hands, seized the hand of the other shaker, gripped, got a grip, smiled, said something, withdrew hand—sometimes with difficulty, from clutch of powerful cornfed congressmen—wiggled fingers slightly and turned to the left.

President Good Natured.

"Mr. Woogus," said the official announcer as the next person stepped forward in line.

"Not Woogus," the injured person would protest. "Fergus, Fergus."

It is a tribute to the good nature and sense of humor of President Harding that each of the 1,407 times this happened he smiled reassuringly at the person playing the part of Fergus. He really seemed to enjoy it. It was still funny to him. This is incredible and absurd, it is true, but he acted as though the misunderstood Ferguses of the play still gave him a slight grin. There isn't another statesman on record who can play up to his handshaking part like that. After the nine hundredth Fergus every other official on record begins to turn sour.

The best part of the reception was the approach. The cars containing the Fergusses of the evening swung down broad Pennsylvania avenue toward the east entrance. The broad lawn was covered with snow. The huge trees which are ornaments of the White House grounds were hung here and there with snow pendants. Through the break in the trees one could see the magnificent front of the White House, a few lights sending long beams across the pallid foreground. Other lights twinkled in the distance. The line of cars ground forward, a few feet at a time. Big policemen stamped and beat their hands as they kept the line straight. It was a night that might have honored a Russian steppe.

Policemen Found It Cold.

Under the porte-cochere of the east front of the White House other policemen and plain clothes men were scattered, stamping their feet, blowing on their aching fingertips, waving drivers ahead. There was the least possible delay. Each car turned into the curved drive of the entrance, paused a second at the door, its contents emerged with struggles due to voluminous wraps and narrow coach doors. One had a momentary glimpse of many others walking toward the doorway from the street. A little girl—that is, a very young woman, in a very short skirt of fluffy pink and the new "nude" stockings—appeared against the snow background and disappeared. Others answering the same general description flitted past. They made one think of a combination of a comic opera and the czar's winter palace.

"Tickets," said one efficient policeman.

"Car can be called any time after 10:30," said another, thrusting a carriage check forward.

Inside there was a mob of men and women preening themselves, shaking out tulle, powdering noses, shaking into white gloves, rouging cheeks. One long corridor was given over to the coat checkers. It was lined with boxes set against the wall from floor to ceiling. Negro attendants stood on ladders and boxed the wraps as they were offered. One passed through an arched opening into an adjoining and parallel corridor in which the line was forming four abreast. There was an odor of sachet and talcum and an occasional mothball. Every one talked at top speed and in high tones. Most of the bare-shouldered ladies were young and many were passably good looking. There were a few raving, tearing beauties.

Great Display of Jewels.

The line shuffled on, four abreast, a foot at a time. By and by it came to a stairway and climbed up, a step at a time. The stair was divided in half by a rope and down the discharge chute came those who had already met and shake hands with the President and Mrs. Harding and Secretary Hughes and Mrs. Hughes. The ladies of the early arrivals for the most part wore diamonds, rubies, emaralds, plastered ! large, rather tiny looking gobs. One diamond is a gem. A plateful of diamonds are artificial as Coney Island by nights. Nevertheless, each owner of a diadem or stomacher managed to separate herself from her companions. She came down the stairs by herself, one step at a time, halting for the spotlight which sbone in the eyes of those climbing up.

"OO-OOH!"

That was the feminine tribute. The men said:

"Hey, Jim!"

Most of the men were just as reverent and impressed as they are when the circus comes to town. When they recognized a friend in the descending stream they said:

"How much longer?"

One descending man said:

"I did it in thirty-five minutes from here."

Everybody Herded Into Line.

The line came to a door. An officer broke it up here, so that its atoms went in two by two, like the animals in the ark.

Here and there gold-laced officers stood around watching. The line referred to them as the traffic cops. A butler or something stood firm and compelled the line to make a right-angled turn about him. The ladies of the diplomatic corps began to be visible. They knew each other and the men of the diplomatic corps and called greetings and bowed and waved handkerchiefs. One began to see men who were obviously enjoying themselves.

"I feel like I was in the grand entree at the circus," a man near me growled.

That was the attitude of the average man, thought it was a cheat and a swindle. Most average men were enjoying themselves immensely, looking on at the gems and the bare shoulders and the gold-laced uniforms and the plumes and the fluttering clouds of tulle. It was just a show to them, and a greater show than one can see for $5 at a theater. But there were men—bless their dear little hearts—who enjoyed themselves down to their hels. The fact was as apparent as a sore thumb. They smoothed down their gloves and smiled and said things to each other and watched out of corners of their eyes for admiration from the proletariat. The line came to another door. It went out of the oak room into the next one by one.

A Mistake in a Name.

"Your name?"

"Oribet Fergus."

The announcer said in a loud, clear tone.

"Mr. Sam Woogus."

Fergus starts to protest. Then he was conscious that he was—he did not know just how—grasping the hand of the president. Mr. Harding looks older, however, more pale, and very tired. But he smiles. His face glistens with perspiration, for the room is very hot. He really grips it—and as Fergus passes on he is dimly wondering how the president can keep that pace up all night long. An effort at lightning calculation as to the number of hands past, present, and to come is dispelled by the realization that he is shaking hands with Mrs. Harding. The president has said:

"I am glad to see you."

Mrs. Harding smiles—a real, likable, wholesome, folksy smile—and says:

"I am GLAD to see you."

Fergus finds himself grasping the hand of Mr. Hughes. There is a flash of the famous Hughes dentition, a colorless handshake, a straight look into the Hughes eyes. Fergus gets the impression that the secretary is very tired and that his whiskers are quite up to the pictorial representations, and then Mrs. Hughes smiles and shakes hands as cordially as the Hardings have done.

Follow on Heel to Heel

Some one steps on the Fergus heels. Fergus steps on the heels of the one ahead. He is in the next room, without knowing how he got there or what the previous room had looked like. The next room is jammed with men and women. All talk at once. A cabinet member or two skips out for the private entrance given over to high officials and goes home saying:

"Well! That's over!"

There is a clatter of voices most talking about the diamonds that Mrs. So-and-So wears. Fergus hurries over to see them and, after seeing, finds that his mind refuses to accept them as real. They are too big and too luminous. They might as well be a bandeau of mirrors. The Ferguses fight their way down to the carriage entrance and watch the carriage callers get cars in and out of the entrance. The chief starter holds a watch on them. Bare shouldered women stand in the entrance, through which comes a gust of icy wind, and sneeze viciously. Fergus's toes are heavily stepped on. Mrs. Fergus says when the car comes:

"I'm glad I came. Once is enough."

JUDGE JONES WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

J. P. Jones, judge of the county court Saturday announced his candidacy for reelection subject to the decision of voters in the democratic primary to be held in July. Judge Jones had held the office three years being first elected in 1918 after serving as justice of peace of precinct 1.

As a resident of this city for 31 years, Judge Jones has a wide acquaintanceship throughout the county.

Since being elected judge the county inaugurated one of the largest improved road programs in the state.

In his announcement for reelection Judge Jones says a desire to see the completion of the improved road program with which he has been identified from its beginning is the main reason for asking the voters for another term in his present office.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn.—"I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

WEATHER HOLDS UP PAVING

With cold weather making it possible to work only two and half days but 1,450 feet of paving was completed on the Burkburnett road during the last week. The work is shut down when the temperature is freezing or gives indication of becoming such. It is expected that delay due to the weather will continue for the next two months.

The mixer north of the city has passed the bridge near the refinery of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company and with an average week of work will reach the Frieberg cut off by next Saturday. It has not been decided as yet by the commissioners whether the cut off will be paved pending the decision of a higher court regarding an injunction against the county which seeks to restrain the commissioners court from paving the new route in preference to the old.

The hearing regarding the suit will be held in the court of Civil Appeals February 4.

GRAND JURY INDICTS SAULTER

M. S. Saulter, indicted here for forgery last week, was returned here Saturday by officers from Teague, Texas. Saulter was indicted for his alleged connection with a forgery in which an Iowa Park bank and W. L. George, oil operator, were victims.

Following his arrest, Saulter was turned over to the Teague officers. He was under indictment in the county in which Teague is located. After the indictment had been returned, it was decided to return him here to stand trial.

Romance Lasts but One Week

The romance of the Cobbs lasted one week according to a divorce petition filed by Mrs. Ideel Cobb in the 89th district court Saturday. According to the plaintiff's petition they were married December 21 of last month and her husband left their home on December 29.

Cruelty and desertion are alleged as the grounds for divorce.

CLUB DOINGS HOLD BOARDS AT HENRIETTA

Delphians Discuss the Progress of the World Along Creative Lines in a Review of Year's Work.

Two Local Favorites Join Hands and Hearts; Maids and Matrons Play Bridge; Personal Mention.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Jan. 21.—The Delphian club finished its first year's work Wednesday with the following program: Contributions made to present-day civilization by the earliest group of nations (Egypt, Babylonia, Phoenicia, Hebrew) in the fields of "Architecture and Art," Mrs. Gililland; "Science and Invention," Mrs. Dickey; "Education and Learning," Mrs. Schwend; "Government," Mrs. Joe Edwards; "Social Advancement," Mrs. Carter; "Contributions Made by Greece and Rome, Education and Learning," Mrs. Brown; "Government," Mrs. Mangum; "Social Advancement," Mrs. Percy Neville; the program leader was Mrs. F. E. Murrell.

The marriage of Miss Tomy Cunningham and Mr. Homer C. Jasper was solemnized Saturday, January 14th, at high noon, at the home of the bride's mother on Huff avenue. Dr. Grosclose of the Floral Heights Methodist church performed the ceremony. Mrs. Harry May played Lohengrin's "Wedding March" as the bride and groom entered and Mendelsson's "Wedding March" during the ceremony. The bridge was charming in a blue and gray pan-satin dress with hat and gloves to match. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion in red and white carnations and banks of ferns. After the ceremony an elaborate coursed luncheon was served to about twenty relatives and friends. The young couple then left for a several days stay in Dallas after which they will be at home at 1827 Huff avenue. The bride is an attractive and accomplished young lady and has a host of friends. The groom is associated with the local office of the Burroughs Adding Machine company and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Jasper of this city. His many friends here congratulate him heartily and extend to them both their best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Donley entertained four tables of bridge Tuesday and Wednesday evening. Mrs. Alvis Fuller won high score Tuesday evening and Mr. Carl Barker won high score Wednesday evening. A delightful salad course was served both evenings. The guests for Tuesday were: Dr. and Mrs. Albert Greer, Mesdames and Messrs Alvis Fuller, R. J. Brown, Joseph Edwards, D. B. Walker, B. P. Schwend, W. L. Mount, Miss Jessie Chesnutt and Mrs. Willie Carrow. The guests for Wednesday evening were: Mesdames and Messrs Carl Barker, Roy Snearley, C. O. Taylor, R. R. Hodge, D. B. Walker, Mesdames M. M. Alexander, Percy Neville, J. J. Douley, Miss Lon Mae McGlasson and Mr. Goode McGlasson.

The Parent-Teachers' association met Tuesday afternoon. The finance committee reported that a hundred and fifty-six dollars was cleared at the Christmas bazar.

The Owl club, composed of twenty-eight of the young men of Henrietta, entertained at bridge on Friday evening in honor of their lady friends. Delightful refreshments were served. At a recent meeting of the club, Brad Staggs was elected president; Kirk Edwards, secretary, and Tom Morris, treasurer.

Miss Beulah Bradley, the county demonstrator, held the first of a series of canning demonstrations at the court house Friday afternoon. On account of the extreme cold weather there were not many present. Fried and stewed chicken, carrots, cauliflower, sweet potatoes and a soup stock were canned. A demonstration was held at Byers Saturday at which beef was the principal foodstuff canned.

Miss Dorothy Bear was hostess to the "Maids' and Matrons' Bridge club" Friday afternoon. Miss Bennie McGlasson won the prize on high score, which was a hand-painted pepper and salt. An elegant two-course lunch of shrimp salad, olives, potato chips, chicken sandwiches, nut bread, angel food cake, maple manse and coffee was served to the following guests: Misses Bennie and Lou Mae McGlasson, Sara Dale, Cora Neville, Margaret Holly, Anna Frank Bridges, Mesdames J. O. Gililland, M. M. Alexander, R. R. Hodge, Staten Allen, C. O. Taylor and Carl Green.

Get Rid of Your Fat

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs without dieting or exercising often at the rate of over a pound a day and without payment until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practising physician and personally prescribe the treatment for each individual case, thus enabling me to choose remedies that will produce not only a loss of weight harmlessly, but which will also relieve you of all the troublesome symptoms of overstoutness such as shortness of breath, palpitation, indigestion, rheumatism, gout, asthma, kidney trouble and various other afflictions which often accompany overstoutness.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you renewed energy and vigor, a result of the loss of your superfluous fat.

You are not required to change in the slightest from your regular mode of living. There is no dieting or exercising. It is simple, easy and pleasant to take.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my free trial treatment and my plan whereby I am to be paid only after reduction has taken place if you so desire.

IF YOU ARE SICK

PROFIT BY THE EXPERIENCE OF OTHERS

Consult Dr. Schultz

THE RELIABLE SPECIALIST

For scientific treatment of chronic, nervous and special diseases of both sexes, catarrh of all mucous membrane, stomach, liver, kidney complaints, blood and skin diseases. Hemorrhoids and prostatis complications treated without the knife, by a safe and humane system of scientific treatment.

If you are sick of experimenting, sick of failures, sick of being sick, come to me. I invite sick people who contemplate taking treatment to come. Special attention given in the combination of curative powers, modern electricity, vibrations, etc., with the scientific administration of selected Specific Medicines. I endeavor to do everything to promote the welfare of my patients.

IF YOU NEED A SPECIALIST WHY NOT THE BEST?

Are you a nervous wreck? Are you worn out and broken down? Are you suffering from vicious Blood and Skin Diseases, that destroy bone tissue, and disfigure for life? Backaches and kidneys give you all-gone feeling? Whether these conditions were caused by early excesses, or contracted by inoculation, it does not matter, for they will all respond to my treatment. Consult Dr. Schultz, the Reliable Specialist, who is well equipped by long experience that enables him to offer his service on a basis that no other can; his charges are lower for cures than the average physician generally charges for failure.

Those who have wasted time and money, and failed to get rid of their ailments, are especially invited to consult FREE. I am giving the benefit of over 30 years' honorable experience; some of my cures are truly wonderful, yet I do not work magic: I do not make the old younger, nor the blind see; I simply apply the knowledge my years of honorable experience have given me, and I do this honestly and intelligently.

"THE THEATER IS NOT THE ENEMY OF THE CHURCH"

Prominent Methodist Minister of Brooklyn Pays His Respect to the Rev. John Roach Stratton.

"I Have Never Heard a Slur at the Church From the Lips of Any Actor," Says the Critic of Stratton.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Rev. Dr. Clarence Knight Miller, pastor of the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal church, Brooklyn, made a sharp retort to the attack made on him by the Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of Manhattan in an address to the members of the Flatbush 12:45 Lunch club at Oetjen's, Church and Flatbush avenues. The speech grew out of a verbal controversy due to the stand taken by the Brooklyn minister in defense of the stage and his statement that the Methodist church had no ban on proper amusements and that no real Christian should deny himself the pleasures if he so desired.

"The theatre is not the enemy of the church," said Dr. Miller, "excepting when the church through inane and unreasoning attacks has placed the stage on the defensive. With the persecution which the stage has endured for generations, the unjust slander, the contempt hurled at actors, condemned as a class for the delinquencies of a few, we only wonder that the stage is not more antagonistic. I have never heard a slur at the church from the lips of any actor.

Stage and Church Co-operation.

The better producers and actors would rejoice to join hands with the church in a general movement for more sympathetic co-operation. We have much in common. No more eloquent sermons were ever preached than "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," "The Servant in the House," "Turn to the Right," and many others that might be mentioned.

"If the stage, through the sympathetic co-operation of the church, could become dedicated to the task of using its art for the enrightment and ennobling of life and could be gradually turned against the plays which make vice public glory, degrade womanhood and debauch manhood, then the stage might rank as one of the most beneficient factors of our day.

"But how can clean plays succeed unless the decent people support and encourage them? It is because I see the potential possibilities of the drama, if saved from the deliberate prostitution of its art which has characterized much of the trash which recently has been produced, that I refused to agree with those who stand like the ostrich hiding their heads in the sand and ignore the fact that the drama is influencing millions of people for good or ill.

"The duty of the church is not to stand in selfish isolation trying to save its own soul and conserve its own membership, but to recognize good wherever it finds it and join hands with every constructive force which is seeking to develop human life to its more ideal and ultimate form.

"I have no unkind word to hurl back at the Baptist minister who has so far overstepped the bounds of propriety as to inject himself unwarranted into a debate which Methodism is perfectly well qualified to settle for itself.

Criticises Dr. Straton.

"We respect him as a sincere and zealous brother, but he represents a decadent and dying religious viewpoint which belongs to the past rather than the present. It is an unhealthy otherworldly type of individualistic religiosity which has been barren of fruit commensurate with the investment of personality involved. If there are 'blind leaders of the blind' they are not to be found in progressive Methodism. We have seen the light of a new and brighter day and are marching ahead without faces to the light to hasten the dawn.

"We do not believe that the world is bankrupt and mortgaged to the devil, who is about to foreclose. This is God's world. We do not believe that all of life is bad and will grow worse until God through some divine cataclysm ushers in the Millennium. The world grows better with the dawning of each new day. We believe that all of life is our field and that the task of the church is to bring all life—industrial, political and social—into conformity with the will of God in the spirit of Jesus Christ.

"We question the religion of any man who cannot be as religious in business and social life as while performing the technical acts of devotion. If you cannot go to the theater or dance and be religious, it may not be a marke of superior spirituality but of some deficiency of religious type. We need to guard against religious asceticism and a strained 'other wordliness.' The purpose of religion is not to save a soul from Hell but to redeem a world and make it beautiful and wholesome in every aspect of its life. This is the positive task of the church, and to this task I stand committed."

Invite Baker to Speak.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—An invitation has been sent to former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, by the Ohio State University alumni association to deliver an address on the university campus here on "University Day," February 22, when state officials, as guests of the university, will visit the campus, inspect the buildings and review the university cadets.

New Mail Sorting System.

AUBURN, Neb., Jan. 21.—Heads of the postoffice department have been invited to Auburn to inspect a new system for sorting rural mail. Postmaster William Harmon, originator of the plan, says his system saves more than one-third of the time formerly required to distribute mail to rural routes. The system, which Mr. Harmon says is the last word in simplicity, has been operating for six months on several rural routes out of Auburn.

D.W. GRIFFITH'S MASTERPIECE

Scene from the Film Classic "The Birth of a Nation."

Since the moment he flashed on an audience, "The Birth of a Nation," which will be shown at the Olympic Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, David W. Griffith has been the most talked-of figure in the amusement world of America. Before that time, he was known as a rare artist in the comparatively restricted world of the moving picture. Since then, his fame has been universal throughout the length and breadth of the theatrical realm.

As a Kentucky lad, the son of Brigadier-General J. W. Griffith of the Confederate army, Griffith drank in the civil war narrative greedily. As he grew up, came the poet's vision of the entire struggle and of reconstruction days. In the prime of manhood, awoke the genius to make it a reality in "The Birth of a Nation."

While planning the battle of Petersburg, Griffith drilled the regiments as faithfully as Foch in France or McClellan on the Potomac. Like them, he had national guardsmen to work with. They knew the manual of arms, but had to acquire the grand tactics of picture evolution. After the drill was completed, the director took his thousands of militiamen on a month's countryside campaign. Each squadron was commanded by a subdirector.

Pioneers preceded the soldiers to dig the long miles of trenches, to throw up embankments and reproduce the physicial landmarks of the battle. Among the noted Petersburg landmarks was a high tower. Griffith made it serve a double purpose by using it as field headquarters. From them, he had national guardsmen to work with. MIX STEPS OUT IN NEW ROLE IN ROUGH DIAMOND

Fox Production, Starring Tom Mix, to Be Shown at Gem Theater Thursday, Full of Surprise.

Popular Cowboy Actor Sheds Boots and Chaps and Becomes Bold Adventurer in South America.

"The Rough Diamond," title of the latest Fox production, starring Tom Mix, which is due at the Gem Theater Thursday, will be full of surprise for the local admirers of this vigorous star—and that means practically every photoplay-goer in town. Without revealing in detail the elements of new and surprising action and atmosphere that "The Rough Diamond" contains, it may be said that Mix practically steps out of his old character entirely and reveals a new power and versatility as an actor—becomes a reckless and romantic adventurer amid these scenes and dynamic action in a South American republic.

With a colorful and romantic story of this type, and divorced from the usual scenes and Western action that he has made famous, Mix has a greater opportunity than ever to show his capabilities as an actor—and he does it in a manner that establishes him more strongly in fame and favor than ever before. With bold, broad strokes, as well as the very finest shading of character delineation, Mix plays upon every emotion, mixing delightfully light moments of comedy with heavy, tense and thrilling dramatic action.

Supporting him is the usual sterling cast of players, including Eva Novak, as female lead.

UNIQUE LAUGH PLAY TO OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

Theodore Lorch Company Presents Comedy-Drama "Johnny Get Your Gun" at Wichita Theater.

All is in readiness for the event of the season at the Wichita theater, the production at the hands of the popular Theodore Lorch company of John Cort's recent Criterion theater, New York success, "Johnny Get Your Gun," a farce-comedy-drama in a prologue and three acts.

This great laugh play is unique in construction and the speaking stage dips, for a few moments, into novel-land to introduce the hero. The author has taken a cow-puncher, temporarily a "stunt" man in a California movie studio, transplants him into a fashionable Long Island home and gives him the chance of a life time to enlighten the East on the ways of the real wild West. The story of "Johnny Get Your Gun" is set in a highly humorous vein and the playing abounds with numberless situations that will cause tremendous outbursts of laughter.

From the very moment the curtain rings up on the prologue to the end of the last act there is naught but action and laughs to "Johnny Get Your Gun" and every member of the Theodore Lorch company will be ideally cast. A splendid stage setting has been provided and every effort will be made to make this production the gala event.

Seats are now on sale for all performances and there is to be no advance in prices.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Fitzgerald and Mr. C. G. Manuel of The Record-News spent Sunday in Seymour the guests of friends.

"THE CASE OF BECKY"

Never before has Realart's wonderful star appeared to so great advantage as she does in this drama of a girl with a dual soul. Some years ago this same story was dramatized by Edward Locke for David Belasco, who starred Frances Starr in the title role, "The Case of Becky."

Briefly the story is that of a young girl, Dorothy Stone, who is under the hypnotic influence of Balzamo, a circus faker. Terrorized by his cruelty she runs away and is harbored by a kindly woman and her son, John. Being in need of medical care they call in Dr. Emerson, widely known for his research along psychological lines.

Dorothy suddenly becomes a saucy, impish little witch, who insists that she is not Dorothy but Becky. Dr. Emerson diagnoses her case as one of peculiar dual personality, the subject going from one consciousness into another from no apparent cause. This greatly distresses John, who has fallen in love with the little ward.

The climax comes when Dr. Emerson is confronted by Balzamo. A thrilling hypnotic duel takes place between the men, something probably never before seen on the screen.

Constance Binney goes from one character to another with equal facility, one moment being the charming little Dorothy and the next Becky, the incorrigible. It is doubtful if any role other than that of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde calls for such versatility as does that of Dorothy-Becky.

Montague Love in the role of Balzamo succeeds in arousing the hatred of the audience, which is one of the best tributes that can be paid to the skill of a "heavy." No one sympathizes with him when he is finally divested of his malevolent power.

Frank McCormack as Dr. Emerson gains the approbation of all by his kindly and sympathetic treatment of his strangely afflicted patient and the reward he receives in the end is shared by all in the audience.

Glenn Hunter, as the boy lover, is as refreshing a character as has been seen on the screen in a long time. He is never anything else but a country bean, and his devotion to his dual-lived sweetheart is a rare and beautiful thing.

AT GEM FRIDAY

Nice, Kind Lady Buncoed.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—A middle-aged man rapped at a door of the home of C. C. Lemert, No. 143 West Fourth avenue. Mrs. Lemert opened the door. The stranger wanted change for a $100 bill so that he could get his "baggage." Unable to make change, Mrs. Lemert loaned the man $5. The police are trying to single the stranger out from among the missing.

A worn stair carpet may be much improved by having the surface rubbed with a rug wool. Be sure to match the color carefully.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The market for coffee futures opened unchanged and there were no sales until a special cable was received from Rio reporting an advance of 50 to 100 reis. This was followed by scattered covering for over the week-end, which sent the price over May contracts up to 8.40, or 5 points net higher. Closing quotations were at the best of the day showing net advances of 4 to 8 points. Sales were estimated at about 1,100 bags. Closing quotations: January 8.45; March 8.55; May 8.43; July 8.34; September 8.34; October 8.34; December 8.29.

Spot coffee dull. Rio 7's 9 to 9 1-8; Santos 4's 12 to 12 1-4.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Large corporation printers today reduced the price on fine count percales to a basis of 17 cents for 4x4, 80x80's a decline of 1 1-4c a yard and 16c for 72x76's, a decline of 1-2c. The lower counts were unchanged in price. The inquiry for gray cloths was sharper. More sales were made in napped cottons in the lighter weights while dress ginghams sold freely for fall. Yarns were steady. Burlaps were firmer. Silks were quiet and linens very firm.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Butter high grade creamery extras 35 1-2; easy; receipts 8,649 cases; firsts 34 3-4. Poultry alive unchanged.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Early tendencies towards improvement in the stock market today were nullified by the redemption of liquidation and short selling of selected issues of the industrial variety.

Of these Gulf States steel was the most conspicuous example, making a further decline of 7 1-2 points to 64, that quotation representing an extreme reaction of 26 1-2 points from yesterday's high.

Replogle steel, another recent spectacular feature sustained a net loss of 3 points at 32, or a total of 9 points from yesterday's maximum.

Other steels, notably these mentioned in merger rumors were lower by 1 to 3 points.

Equipments, motors, oils and miscellaneous stocks of the chemical, textile and tobacco groups fared similarly and rails moved listlessly. Firmness and occasional strength were shown by coppers, shipping and chain stores issues, local tractions also hardening. Sales amounted to 500,000 shares.

Trading in bonds was fairly active, but changes in government issues showed net losses. Domestic rails also eased and internationals were irregular with the foreign exchange market. Total sales, par value, aggregated $9,875,000.

Clearing house loans and discounts showed an actual contraction of $52,561,000, or almost three times the expansion reported last week. An increase of $23,467,670 in actual cash holdings lifted excess reserves to approximately $40,000,000.

Livestock

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 21.—Cattle buyers gave the yards a seasonable and thorough clearance today, all classes selling readily at prices that were fully steady. There were, however, a good many cattle held over from Friday.

Hogs sold at 8.00 for the first time since last October and the market was active with 600 head available. Prices averaged 5 to 10 cents higher. Bulk sales ranged from 7.50 to 7.80. Receipts amounted to 600 head. Nothing was on sale in the sheep house. Quotations:

Cattle—Beeves 3.00@6.50; stockers 3.00@5.00; cows 2.00@5.00; canners 1.50@2.25; heifers 3.00@5.50; yearlings 3.25@6.50; bulls 1.50@4.00; calves 2.00@7.00.

Hogs—Light 7.75@8.00; medium 7.50@7.75; mixed 7.00@7.50; common 7.00@8.00; heavy 7.50@7.75; rough 6.00@6.75; pigs 6.00@6.50.

Sheep—Lambs 7.50@10.50; yearlings 6.50@7.50; wethers 6.00@6.50; ewes 5.00@5.50; culls 1.00@2.00; stocker sheep 3.50@4.50; feeder lambs 4.50@8.50.

Grain

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Shorts were driven to cover on the Chicago board of trade today, improved commission house demand for wheat making a steady advance in that cereal which caused the rest of the list to strengthen in sympathy. Wheat registered net gains of 1 1-8 to 1 7-8c. Corn was up 1-4c; oats were 3-8c to 1-2c higher and provisions gained from 2 1-2 to 20 points although January pork finished 50 points up.

The wheat pit was quiet in the early trading. Local traders were inclined to be bearish but did not act on their conviction to any great extent.

New developments were mixed expert demand continuing slow but the weather map showing that western Kansas received little or no moisture overnight.

Corn was influenced by wheat but when the cash markets failed to respond to the advance in futures, there was less inclination to run prices up and trade remained within narrow limits.

Oats exhibited some strength that was all its own and was helped by some switching on corn holdings to the oats pit.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The cotton market was very quiet today and fluctuations were irregular within a range of 10 to 15 points. After selling at 17.83 early, March eased off to 17.68 on unfavorable reports from the cotton goods trade, and closed at 17.70, with the general market closing net 7 points lower to 4 points higher.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 9 points on scattered covering for over the week-end. Spot interests brought near months and sold later deliveries and there was some foreign buying of the later positions. On the whole, however, there were very little show of interest and prices eased off slightly late in the morning on reports of an unsettled feeling in the cotton goods trade. January sold off from 17.80 to 17.74 and May from 17.74 to 17.32 closing within a point or two of the lowest.

Late in the morning reports from the local cotton goods market were received indicating that most of the buyers who had been here attending the convention earlier in the week were returning home without placing large orders and that second hands were shading prices.

These reports had an unfavorable influence on sentiment, and probably accounted for some scattered selling.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—It was an evening up in the cotton market today covering from the short side furnishing support in the early trade while in the latter session liquidation of long contracts caused sags. The close was typical of the rest of the day, the list being 1 point up to 3 points down compared with the close of yesterday. The closing bid on March was 16.75.

Early gains amounted to 6 to 7 points, carrying March to 16.85 and the moderate amount of new buying that came on the market arose from the favorable opinion entertained of week-end reviews of trade in general which were held to show small but healthy improvement. Further encouragement was found in telegrams from Dallas reporting more activity in the spot market there than in any preceding day of this year.

The evening up on the long side carried prices 3 to 6 points under the close of yesterday, March dropping to 16.72.

LIBERTY BONDS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Liberty bonds closed: 3 1-2s 96.80; first 4s 97.50 bid; second 4s 96.92; first 4 1-4s 97.60; second 4 1-4s 97.30; third 4 1-4s 97.80; fourth 4 1-4s 97.30; Victory 3 3-4s 100.16; Victory 4 3-4s 100.18.

Metals

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—In the absence of the increase of business after the holiday, the steel market at the moment is being sustained by hopes that the predicted expansion is not far distant. In view of the number of building projects in contemplation and the needs of the railroads, these hopes would appear to be well founded, although it is now conceded that there is little probability of much activity during the present month.

The pig iron market is also in a waiting position and buyers appear to be holding off in the hope of a reduction in prices.

Copper has remained quiet. Some sales are being made by the copper export association for shipment to Germany and France, also Italy and Holland, but the business has been comparatively small. Otherwise very little, if any export trade is reported and there has been no revival of the demand from domestic buyers. Meanwhile second hands and some of the smaller producers are shading prices and it is said that buyers are finding no difficulty in placing small orders at 17.75 delivered for prompt and first quarter electrolytic. Producers whose stocks have been considerably reduced and who still have a good deal of copper to ship out on old orders, are maintaining their quotation of 14c which puts them clearly out of the market. Tin still commands a prompt and January delivery over futures, with an improvement in consuming demand. Offerings for forward shipment from the east are liberal and are being reflected on a lowering of bids here.

Lead remains in a healthy position, statistically. Large producers are well booked up for January shipment and are showing no disposition to make concessions for February business. While there is little increase in the demand for zinc, producers anticipate improvement in the near future when the demand for steel products increase, which would bring mills into the market.

Antimony continues quiet and easy, but even at concessions there is very little demand for export and consumers seem to be well supplied.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Cottonseed oil quiet but very steady; higher crude and firmness in hog products served to restrict offerings. Tenders of 1000 barrels were put out but promptly stopped. After working up 2 to 4 points the market settled back, closing unchanged to 2 net higher. Sales 5600 barrels. Prime crude 7.25 bid; prime summer yellow spot 8.70; March 8.86; May 9.09; July 9.34, all bid.

OLNEY PROSPECTORS PREDICT A WORTH WHILE DISCOVERY

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 21.—The Weekly Times carries the following story of oil developments in this section:

"While nothing very exciting has occurred in the territory around this city in the past week or ten days, still there is continued development, and there is high hope of a worthwhile oil discovery in this immediate territory within the next few weeks at most.

"A short time ago the Sun Company started drilling their Farmer discovery well deeper, and they report a very heavy flow of gas at a depth of something like 3,600 feet with favorable indications of a good producer to come. This well was brought in at a depth of a little over 1,500 feet some months ago, and produced around twenty barrels per day for quite a long while.

"A new shallow well was brought in this week on the Mat Andrews farm in the West Fork field. It is reported to be one of the best of the several producing wells in that territory and good for [illegible] per day or more at a depth of 900 feet.

"The well just west of town on the Ronch tract, is drilling nicely at a depth of near 800 feet, and its promoters seem perfectly satisfied with all indications so far encountered. They had a nice gas showing at a depth of 600 feet, and from formations encountered they feel sure of getting a producer.

"Word was received here that the Jeffery well near Graham, had come in for a good producer, but later reports are to the effect that this rumor was not true. An oil sand was encountered, and the well is producing some oil, but not enough at this time to prove a paying proposition.

"They hope to bring in a good well there in the next few days. It is rumored that another test is to be started on the Benson lease west of town."

CLEARING HOUSE CONDITION REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The actual condition of the clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $30,652,970 in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $23,467,670 from last week.

BUNGER HAS PROMISE OF EXTENSION FROM PENN CITIES WILDCAT

Actual development of the 2,600-foot sand, found first in the Bunger pool, on the McCluskey lease, in the west end of the South Bend field, and the striking of a sand around 2,300 feet, which may extend the Bunger possibilities a couple of miles featured the week's activities in the South Bend of Young county.

The Conner well on the McCluskey, the No. 6, made 830 barrels the first twenty-four hours after completion, in the 2,600-foot sand, and as the week closes is reported holding up production splendidly.

The possible extension of the Bunger field is indicated in the Penn Cities Oil and Gas company's wildcat on the Herron, two and a half miles east of production. The sand drilled at 2,360 feet put 1,500 feet of oil in the hole, and the testing is being watched with interest.

The Conner well has greatly stimulated activity on the McCluskey, where up the striking of the new sand, the existing sands had been fairly well drilled up. Three new wells, the Nos. 18, 19 and 20 McCluskey have been started by the Panhandle Refinery company. Conner has the rig up for the No. 7, the Hobbs Oil company is preparing to put down two or three wells to the new sand on the lease offsetting the Conner to the south. The rig has been skidded on the Conner No. 2, and preparations made to drill a second hole. This, it is understood, will go to the new sand.

Bunger Operations.

The Cosden Oil and Gas No. 2-E Grimshaw is reported making 75 barrels of oil and around six million feet of gas, from the 2,600-foot sand. This well is a part of the Rossell properties recently purchased by the Cosden interests.

A second completion is reported the No. 2 Owens of the Godley Oil and Gas company, a 50-barrel well, at 1,800 feet.

The Pomona Mutual Oil company's No. 2 Owens is reported drilling around 1,000 feet.

On the Cosden leases operations are reported as follows: 1-E Grimshaw, drilling around 450 feet; No. 2-I Askew, drilling around 820 feet; No. 1-J Askew, drilling around 2,735 feet; No. 1 Lynn, drilling around 2,600 feet; No. 2-M Owens, drilling around 1,250 feet; No. 3-D Owens, rig.

The No. 1 Bunger of the Texas company is reported drilling around 1,740 feet. The No. 2, same lease, is reported drilling below 1,900 feet, and the No. 1 Stoff of the Texas company is reported drilling around 1,950 feet.

The No. 6 Owens of the Simms Oil company is reported drilling around 1,320 feet, the No. 7 same lease, is reported drilling around 1,400 feet, No. 8 is a rig and No. 9 a location. This same company has a rig up for the No. 2 Driver.

The Godley Oil company's No. 3 Owens is a location.

The No. 1 Rhodes of the Hedrick Oil corporation is reported drilling around 680 feet.

The No. 1 Alford of Dallas and Bryan is reported drilling below 1,000 feet.

Gulf On the Lisle.

On the Lisle the Gulf Production company's No. 1 is reported drilling around 1,650 feet. The Gulf's No. 4 Grimshaw is reported drilling around 375 feet, and the No. 1 Carmack is drilling around 350 feet.

The Chaney and others No. 1 Askew is reported drilling around 2,300 feet.

The Monroe Oil company's No. 1 Prichard is reported drilling around 320 feet.

The Mann and others No. 2 Whittenberg is reported spudded in.

The Ohio Fuel company's No. 1 Grimshaw is reported drilling around 2,300 feet.

The Planet Petroleum company's No. 1 Whittenberg is reported drilling below 2,600 feet.

The Ralco Oil company's No. 1 Roark is drilling around 990 feet: the No. 5 Driver is drilling around 1,170 feet; the No. 6 Driver is drilling below 1,100 feet; the No. 7 Driver is spudding in, and the No. 1 Rhodes is reported drilling below 2,600 feet.

The No. 2 Vick of the Paragon Oil company is reported drilling around 3,050 feet.

The Elk Basin Consolidated No. 6 Driver is reported drilling around 1,370 feet; the No. 8 is drilling around 1,660 feet, and the No. 7 is still a location.

Mann and Ashcraft's No. 1 Whittenberg is drilling around 940 feet.

West End of Pool.

In the South Bend pool proper, outside the feature development, the Conner well, there is little news to report. The several tests that are going down for the 3,500-foot lime opened by the North American's Scott-Smith, are reported making fair progress. The Panhandle Refinery company is reported drilling below 3,450 feet on their No. 1 J. J. Scott, deepened to the new sand.

The Roxana Petroleum company's No. 2 Scott is reported drilling around 2,200 feet, and the No. 3 drilling around 1,370 feet.

The above company's No. 3 Ford is reported drilling around 2,250 feet; the No. 3 Goode rig, and the No. 2 Payne also a rig.

The Roxana's No. 1 Donnell is reported drilling below 1,900 feet. The No. 1 J. R. McCluskey, to the east of the town of South Bend, is reported drilling below 3,700 feet.

The North American Oil and Refining company's No. 3 Scott is reported drilling below 2,000 feet.

The Godley Oil company's No. 18 Graham is reported a rig.

The Texas company has the rig up for a new test two miles west of it's McCluskey producing lease, the No. 1 Martin.

A new rig is up on the Stovall, north of the river from the McCluskey lease, the No. 1 of Flannigan and others.

The test on the Moore, southwest of production, being drilled by Bedford and others, is reported shut down at 2,180 feet. Tools are moving in for No. 2.

The No. 6 Keller of the Texas Producing Syndicate is reported drilling below 1,000 feet.

The No. 1 Scott of the Henry Hobbs interests is reported drilling around 1,200 feet.

East Graham Wildcat.

A new wildcat is to be drilled eight miles east of the town of Graham, it is reported, on the M. B. Carter farm. The test will be drilled by Cummings and others, and will be almost at the county line.

SEVERE COLD CUTS INTO PAST WEEK'S OPERATIONS, SLOWING UP DEVELOPMENT OF INTEREST

The severe cold, as well as the water shortage has cut the oil field operations of the North Texas district this week with a vengeance, holding up developments of unusual interests in at least two points in Wichita county.

Chief in the matter of new developments in the north Fowlke district where last week the Magnolia's Duke wildcat got production in the 1,600-foot Electra sand depth, opening considerable new territory to be tested.

Six new tests are in immediate prospect, as soon as water can be secured, and weather conditions become more favorable.

The Magnolia is offsetting the discovery well with their No. 2 Duke. John O'Neil is preparing to deepen a shallow well on the Roberts to the northeast; the Mona Marie Trust company is to start drilling on the No. 3 T. W. Roberts, to go to the new sand, as soon as water is available; the Gulf Production company is to drill two wells on their 40 acres out of the Roberts land a short distance from the discovery well, and McAllister, Brown, Stone and others are preparing to drill their first well, their location being 1,600 feet east of the discovery well.

Trading in acreage has been exceedingly active all during the week, and a number of other locations are due to be made in the next few days. The weather and lack of water has made any speed in getting operations under way at this time impracticable.

The discovery well has not yet had a fair test of production, there being some open hole, causing caving, and there has also been trouble with bad swab rubbers, according to reports from the field. The first ten-hour run of the well was 140 barrels in the tanks. The sand has been drilled into only four feet.

Testing New Territory.

The territory between the town of Electra and the South Electra pool, famous for it's unusual number of prolific sands, is dotted with new derricks, put up within the last few days, and promises unusual activity as soon as water can be obtained. Several have already moved in machinery and are ready to go, except for the lack of water.

A mile and a half northwest of the Gladiolus lease Stone, Cullum and others have their No. 1 H. & T. C. ready to start drilling, when water connections are made. This test is located on the highest point between the old Piper field and the new South Electra production.

Southwest of this location C. F. Spencer and others are reported rigging up a standard on the Waggoner land. Other new rigs in this neighborhood include the Troxell and others No. 1 Waggoner; John O'Neil's No. 1 Waggoner; Brown and McCallister's No. 1 Waggoner, and John O'Donohoe's No. 1 Waggoner.

The Griswold Oil company's wildcat on the Waggoner, two miles southwest of production, is temporarily shut down around 1,525 feet waiting on water.

The Modern Petroleum company's No. 1 Waggoner, to the west of the Bridwell and Heydrick leases, has not yet been able to complete a test of the 1,400-foot sand, according to reports from the field.

Completions in The Pool.

Three nice completions were reported from the inside leases this past week. The best one, which swabbed and flowed at the rate of 450 to 500 barrels, according to reports from the field, when water was available, was the No. 14 Burnett of the Griswold Oil company, in the 1,800-foot sand.

The Planet Petroleum company's No. 33 Burnett, in the 1,800-foot sand, was reported good for 300 barrels and the No. 34, in the 1,400-foot sand, was reported an 80-barrel completion.

The Hobbs interests, on the Gladiolus lease, have two wells ready for completion in the 1,800-foot sand, it is reported.

On the Griswold Burnett lease the No. 18 and No. 19 are shut down around 1,500 feet for water.

A new location in the east part of the South Electra pool is the Harris and others No. 4 Burnett.

In the southeast Electra shallow pool Parker Brothers have made location for the No. 16 Cunningham estate.

A number of other tests in the general south Electra neighborhood are shut down, at various stages of operation for lack of water.

South Burkburnett.

Two new wells were reported from the South Burkburnett field. The No. 8 Dodson of Laning and Monginger is reported a 150-barrel well, in the 1,000-foot sand. The No. 5 Dodson of J. I. Staley and others, same sand, is reported also a 150-barrel well.

Several shallow wells are reported recently completed in the Iowa Park shallow fields, all three on Kemp and Kempner leases. The Crystal Oil company's No. 1 and No. 2 are reported 15 barrels each, and the Cotton Oil company's No. 1 is reported also a 15-barrel well. All are in the 700-foot sand.

Henry Ford to Make Cheaper and Lighter Autos Out of Cotton

Roger Babson Says He Will Stamp Them Out Like Doughnuts — Declares Heavy Cars Headed for Museum.

Henry Ford may make autos out of cotton. Cottonoid vehicles may displace the heavy steel cars and coaches of today. This would revolutionize the automobile and the other industries. Read this first and exclusive story of this epoch-making plan of America's great mechanical genious.

By MYLES E. CONNOLY.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 21.—Roger W. Babson was visiting Henry Ford's research laboratories in Detroit the other day.

"What will be the next development in automobiles?" asked Mr. Babson.

"It may be making the bodies of formaldehyde, glue and cotton," replied Ford.

Ford grinned thinly, laconically.

And so the auto wizard again awakes the world. Again, he jerks us up in our seats, makes us gasp, and stuns us with wonder.

"The hour will come," he says, "when our children will go to the museum to see the ponderous limousine of today. The hour will come when the steel railway coach will be found in junk heaps and old picture books."

For Henry Ford is to make autos out of cotton.

"Bosh!" says Mr. Has-Been, "a phrase from a poet."

And so it is. Mr. Ford is a poet. So was Fulton, so was Bell, so were the Wright brothers. And their phrases were dream-phrases: Ships without sails, men that fly, wires that talk. They all come true, Mr. Has-Been.

This is a composite interview with Mr. Ford and Mr. Babson. Mr. Ford is absent, but Mr. Babson speaks for him. When the great statistician is in Detroit, he makes a call on the great mechanic. They swap ideas and critical suggestions.

"I like to visit Mr. Ford's plant," says Babson. "I like to look down on that mechanical masterpiece, see the great steamers dumping their load of ore, coal, and lime, see the great steam derricks dump the loads again into the mighty furnaces, see the 20 vast acres of land where the coke furnaces blaze away, see the magical auto grow from the rough ore, part on part, as each man adds his bit until it is rolled out a shining accomplishment and the last man adjusts the headlights.

"And I like to visit Mr. Ford. He is something of an autocrat. Men like him are. But he is America's greatest mechanic and he has visions, dreams, ideas. He is not a statesman, not a philosopher. He is like one of his own locomotives. When it is on the track it is supreme.

"Consider his ideas. He wants to make a lighter and cheaper machine and he goes to cotton. He plans a mixture that will make cottonoid—a durable, tough, serviceable material out of which his vehicles may be made.

"If he succeeds, he will be able to stamp out his auto parts the way the cook stamps doughnuts out of dough. His idea, he believes, will revolutionize the auto industry.

He, a pioneer in the manufacture of the light cars, sees a day of even lighter cars. And he is sure that the day of the heavy car is over. Tomorrow it will be an interesting reliquary of early years.

"He believes that the day of the steel coach is nearly done, that it, too, is doomed to take its place among antiquities.

"He is convinced that steel coaches would have disappeared by now except for the power the steel manufacturers hold over the railroads.

"I do not agree with him on that point. We have steel coaches the way we wear neckties."

"Slaves to Convention."

Mr. Babson, standing framed in the sun-dazzled window of his Wellesley office pulled at the dark blue scarf beneath his beard.

"Somebody once thought that it would be good to wear neckties—instead, say of the much more comfortable low-necked, collar-less shirt. Forty thousand people today are busily making neckties. And 40,000,000 slaves to convention—even as you and I—waste an incredible amount of time adjusting these ties day by day.

"Somebody once thought of steel. And until Henry Ford, nobody has changed it. He now startles them by offering to make coaches out of cotton. And I think he will.

"It will be of tremendous advantage, this innovation of his. Ninety-eight per cent of the load of an ordinary passenger train today does not pay. Two per cent alone is profitable, simply because of weight of the heavy cars. Think of the benefit of cars made of cottonoid!

"It is these unique, courageous ideas that make Henry Ford what he is. Another man might go on for half a century merely adding to or improving that which he had under his eye. Ford will make an absolute divergence if he thinks it expedient.

"He plans, for instance, to establish factories across the agricultural districts of the country where the farmers may snend their spare time at the work bench and lathe.

"In fact, he has already started on this idea, with a factory in New York. He told me he will build them so that their energy may be furnished by water power. In the summer, when the rivers are dried up or shallow, the farmers may put their time in at their farms. In the winter they may work at the factories.

"This, you see, is another departure. Most men plan their factories for the cities where they may obtain ready employees. Ford, on the other hand says to himself, why should the farmer loaf during the winter?

And he plans to utilize his spare time by building a factory right in the very hearts of the agricultural districts as long as he can get water power.

Ford's Own Pet Ford Joke.

"The thing that was holding the ears of Detroit," said Mr. Babson, was the air-cooled motor question. Air cooling, although noisy, is cheaper. It burns less gasoline. But it seems that the automobile manufacturers by a general agreement have stuck to water cooling, all except the Franklin people.

"Now the General Motors company plans air-cooled engines. The other firms will probably follow suit. It will mean the scrapping of an enormous amount of machinery.

"I asked Mr. Ford if he was going to have his products air cooled." Not just yet, he returned. "You see I have made one change on my radiator already. Haven't you noticed that the new cars are less noisy"

"I confessed I hadn't and asked him why."

"I've taken the brass band off them," he grinned.

Even the loving father jokes about his child.

Mr. Ford now stepped out of the interview—for a few minutes.

On his desk Mr. Babson keeps three sand-glasses. The sand runs in one for three minutes, in another for eight minutes, and in the third for 20 minutes.

When you arrive the sand glass indicates the time allowed you. You may get three, eight or twenty minutes.

While I was there the 20-minute glass ran out several times. After that Mr. Babson forgot to reverse it.

Mr. Babson is a statistician. He is also a philosopher. And I think like, Ford, he is something of a poet.

He stood as he talked, resting one foot on the radiator from time to time. Outside it was cold—about 50 degrees below zero I should say off hand—and a brilliant sun was having glorious fun with the snow. One peek through the window would set the eyes a-blinking.

And Mr. Babson talked. For the first time I learned that there is beauty in statistics and humor and strange lessons as well as knowledge.

When St. Louis Beats Lynn.

When Mr. Babson was in South America the president of the Argentine Republic asked him why South America, with its superior natural resources, was less prosperous than North America, though it was settled earlier. Babson, being a guest, did not answer the question. The president answered it himself.

"The Spaniards came to South America for gold," he said, "the Pilgrim fathers went to North America in quest of God."

Mr. Babson always makes a very clear distinction between gold and God. That is why he surprises you as a statistician. And that is why he is extremely entertaining as a talker.

Perhaps it would not be out of place here to list some of his observations on his trip west.

He found that while our shoe factories here in Lynn and Brockton were very quiet, shoe factories in the Middle West were running day and night. He found that St. Louis had passed Lynn as the greatest shoe manufacturing center in the world; that it now has the largest shoe factory in the world.

"This is due, I believe, in large measure because St. Louis is nearer the sources of supply and nearer the center of population. And besides, the workingmen there show more spirit, more interest in their work.

"I asked a big shoe manufacturer in St. Louis why this spirit was better there.

"He replied: 'Because our men are more in sympathy with their product. We do not make sumptuous, expensive, fancy shoes. They come from New England. We make sturdy, common shoes.

"You can't expect a man with a big family and much trouble to be interested in the making of a stylish boot for millionairesses. You can expect him to be interested in making the sturdy sort of shoe he wears and his family wears.'"

"Get a Baby" Slogan.

"I think that manufacturer was right in good measure. If I were the mayor of Lynn or Brockton I would ship a carload of workingmen west, just to let them see how their fellows are working there."

Mr. Babson observed that the South has "turned the corner" and will have a better year in 1922 than in 1921. The same applies to New England. The central west is in sorry shape and the outlook dubious. The west, however, is prosperous. It usually is when the east is not. And vice versa.

Dairymen and farmers are hit very hard.

"I saw farmers using corn for fuel, and not out of viciousness. Country stores buy corn for coal.

"I saw a farmer in Illinois give two bushels of corn for 12 eggs, 10 bushels for a pair of rubbers, and 25 for one bushel of apples.

"Farmers and dairymen asked me what was the trouble. I told them this: Your products are dependent on population. Cotton, fruit, and similar products increase in consumption as the people are more prosperous and have more money to spend. A man becoming rich does not eat any more corn or drink any more milk than when he was in moderate circumstances.

"Population is not on the increase. The birth rate is not what it should be. Millions of immigrants have been barred from the country.

"Once, when cotton was in a slump, Southerners started the slogan 'buy a bale of cotton.' I suggest that you start a campaign: 'Get a baby.'"

Mr. Babson suddenly remembered the sand glass. That was all, the interview was over.

As I went out into the white world, cold and brilliant, I heard the rattle of a Ford impetuously on its way to Boston.

"Go it, old boy, and rattle, rattle," I reminated. "Your day will soon be over. Cotton is coming!" It passed. And the disturbed street settled back to its peace. Light cottonoid limousines slide delicately over the thoroughfares, that the bruised, old roads, the rattled pavements, the asphalt, and even the very stones will cry out—for Henry Ford!

Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft clear, rosy, white complexion, because it doesn't irritate.—Adv.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT NEXT DOSE MAY SALIVATE

It Is Mercury, Quicksilver, Shocks Liver and Attacks Your Bones.

Calomel salivation is horrible. It swells the tongue, loosens the teeth and starts rheumatism. There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Calomel is a dangerous drug, besides it may make you feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than treacherous calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

ACID STOMACH

In five minutes "Pape's Diapepsin" ends

Indigestion Gases Heartburn
Sourness Flatulence Palpitation

"Pape's Diapepsin" "really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes — that — just that - makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world.

If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing — almost marvelous—and the joy is its harmlessness. A large sixty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin is worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the most efficient antacid and stomach regulator in the world.—Adv.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

Now H. N. F. knows why Dr. Atticus Webb and his Anti-Saloon League forces held a state convention in the city of Fort Worth the other day. Dr. Atticus read in the newspapers that the year 1922 is going to be one grand riot of wild debauchery, according to Mme. De Teleme, who has taken the place of the late Mme. De Thebes as the recognized spokeswoman of French astrologers. Mme. De Teleme is not referring to Montmartre or the Latin Quarter, or the all-night cafes of any part of Paris. Her dictum goes for the whole world. It all comes from the fact, patent to all those to whom star-gazing is an exact science, that old man Mars is leering at Venus in the most approved heavy villian style. He did that several times in the course of history, Roman and other, but this time there's no mistaking his intent. "Venus will be under a pernicious sign, which will be governed by Mars," is how Mme. De Teleme puts it. Asked to explain a little more fully, Mme. De Teleme, remarking the slightly incredulous air of her interviewer, replied: "Mon cher, monsieur, this is no joke. Astrology is not something to be laughed at. What I predict is absolutely serious. I am sorry, but it is not for me to read anything that is in the stars, but just what I see there. Every time that Mars and Venus have been under the signs which will govern them in 1922 liberty has become license, all restraint has been cast aside, immorality has ruled. It will be the same in 1922." Another prediction. It will be the wettest year America has ever seen. But the enforcers of the Volstead act need not worry. The astrologer means that there will be lots of rain throughout the United States. Otherwise, she said, America has nothing to look forward to except prosperity.

During the four months of the cotton season ending with November, 1921, the United States exported 598,797 bales to England, against 600,032 in the same four months of 1920; to Germany 559,225, against 288,359; to Japan, 394,699, against 16,126; to France 336,068, against 285,411. Except for Germany, the greatest increase in our cotton exports during that period of 1921 was in shipments to Spain, which up to the end of November took 134,666 bales last year, against 104,496 in the preceding season. To Holland the exports increased from 124,196 to 151,011; to Belgium, from 45,459 to 78,822.

A leader of the Zionists tells President Harding that word from America will lead the League of Nations to confirm Palestine as a Jewish state according to a writer on the staff of the Philadelphia Public Ledger. World Zionist Sokolow feels that American interest will smooth any difficulty as to British mandates over the Jewish homeland. The Zionist movement refuses to die. It may be no more than racial emotionalism; but it lives and grows. The American ban on immigration has helped it, but Zionism was growing long before. For the first time in 2,000 years the world Jew is turning back toward Asia. That is a strange, uncanny fact. All of that time the Jew's face has been to the west, marching along with history. The drift from the Nile and Euphrates, Egean and Mediterranean caught him and carried him along. It swept him over the Atlantic to America, a great, patient, hopeful mass of him. Why is the Jew pausing and looking back over his shoulder? The Jew himself cannot answer fully and simply. His emotions, impulses and instincts are too mixed. In part only is it religious. Racial consciousness and an urge toward nationalism are powerful, but these are not all. There is a feeling, possibly, that the trade and power of East and West are about to center at the eastern end of the Mediterranean in the next centuries. Something deeper, but intangible, is facing the Jew about from West to East. There may be something of mass-prophecy, of collective instinct, of racial clairvoyancy about it. In twenty centuries history has felt its way from the Egean to the Golden Gate and East has met West in the Pacific. Is the moving center of history that wandered out of Asia into Europe and then to America about to swing back? Look at Palestine, and it seems that it can never support any great people. The whole thing looks like an emotional racial religious experiment and a doubtful one. Nevertheless, there is slow and steady reorientation of the Jew. Empires have waxed fat, flourished and faded in Asia Minor; it is a desolate land, full of mixed peoples, the bones of dead kings and the dust of races, but the Jew is visioning something there. Back of Palestine a new India is emerging. China is in a slow ferment, Japan has come up out of the sea. "Asia for the Asiatics" means something, anything. The new Jewish state can watch three continents, with an eye on the Nile, a new Russia at one elbow and the Euphrates and an uneasy South Asia at the other. Somebody must succeed the Turk if Pan-Turanism fails. Why not the Jew? Judaism may or may not be less powerful, but Jewry as a racial force is moving and crystallizing into racial and national consciousness and reaching out for a homeland and a flag." Dublin castle has fallen. Castle reign has ceased to exist in Ireland. There is an Irish Free state and 50,000 British soldiers have been recalled from the Gem of the Seas and will be sent to other lands governed by the British Empire. Poland is a free republic. Finland is a free Republic. There are forty other little republics on the map of Europe. Russia is a socialist republic and the Russians will in time work out their own salvation. Never throw a rock at the Slav. More than four million Russians died in the earlier years of the World War in defense of the Allied cause. Many millions were blinded or maimed and crippled for life. Billions of dollars were given to the Allied cause and all this before America entered the war to make the world safe for democracy. China is a Republic. Egypt is clamoring for self-government. India is clamoring for self-government. All the former crown colonies of Great Britain are self-sustaining and self-governing dominions. Now why shouldn't the Jew have a national existence, a country of his own, a flag of his own? Just why shouldn't the Jew be given Palestine?

Speaking of Fairs Childress has one. They do not call it a county fair any more. Success has come to it and the business men and farmers of Motley county who have made it. Editor J. C. Thomas of the Childress Post says: "Monday afternoon the directors of the Childress State Fair met and decided that our next fair shall be held on September 13, 14, 15 and 16. Even now it is time for our people to begin laying plans for exhibits that they hope to have ready for the fair. The Childress fair has gained an unusual reputation for being one of the best shows in Texas and we must not allow that reputation to grow less. Rather, we should strive by all means to improve the excellence and interest i this great annual show." Irrigation will make the Wichita Valley the paradise of Texas. Irrigation will make the Brazos river lands a second paradise. There should be a Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition and Fat Stock Show. This to be the home of the truck grower, the wheat grower, the cotton grower, the stockmen, the poultry man, the swine breeder, the berry grower. Why shouldn't Wichita Falls reap some of the benefits?

Men Build Cities and Fairs Make Them Great

By H. N. F.

Fairs are as old as civilization itself. Expositions are as ancient as time itself. These institutions or enterprises were inaugurated and perpetuated under Asiatic skies. Ages and ages ago tillers of the soil, herdsmen of the plains and merchants of the cities or the villages foregathered at stated periods to trade or barter or sell and for an interchange of ideas.

Fairs flourished long before the coming of the Christian civilization. There were fairs under Siberian and Russian skies in the years when Peter the Great planned and later when Catherine the Magnificent ruled and executed.

Caravans crossed the desserts, or the mountains or the wild steppes to attend these fairs, to sell their products or to exchange them for the manufactured necessities of men.

Fairs are not experiments. Expositions are not gambles. They are fixed and permanent institutions as hoary with the frost of years as the beard of Time.

Texas has the greatest Fair and exposition on the continent of North America. It's reputation is international. Every year it calls people from all the states of the union, all the candian provinces and all the states of the Aztec Republic. Its nearest rival is the Toronto Exposition under the Canadian skies.

There are many flourishing and successful state fairs under American skies but that at Dallas leads them all. Think of a million people passing through the turnstiles in 16 days in a single year. And yet the Texas Fair of Dallas established that high water mark for fair attendance on the continent of North America.

These are facts. The State Fair of Texas was established at Dallas when the population was less than 30,000. It was established by the merchants and business men of Dallas. It was established when the Texas long horn steer was the king of the range, the mustang pony was the pet of the range and cotton was the universal crop.

It was established long before Dallas became a wholesale center, a jobbing center, a distribution center, an insurance center and a financial center. There are men yet in the land of the living who aided in the establishment of the fair and who have been its staunch supporters every year luring the third of a century it has added to the growth and wealth of Dallas.

Ask these pioneers and they will tell you that the State Fair contributed largely in the making of what Dallas is today. It drew people from all parts of the southwest to Dallas. As the years rolled on it drew people from all states of the union to Dallas. It made Dallas a great retail city before it was a great jobbing center and a distribution point.

Its livestock show helped to banish scrub stock from the ranges and the pens of the Southwest. Its horse shows banished the mustang or native horse from the prairies and farms of the Southwest.

There were lean years of course. There were years when the elements warred against the enterprise; there were years when financial flurries made money scarce; there were years when drouths scorched the farm land and the grass land; there were years when business depression cut down the attendance and the gate receipts.

But these builders of a fair and builders of a city never wavered, they never weakened, they never faltered, they never let Adversity's blast chill their ardor, they never stopped until the money they made had given the State Fair of Texas the most ornate buildings and most magnificent stadium for athletic sports under Southern or Western skies.

Mark you, the fair ground park of 150 acres is the property of the people of Dallas; all the buildings and improvements thereon are the property of the people of Dallas; all the money that the State Fair has ever made has been invested in these improvements. It is municipally owned and a mighty asset.

Dallas did not have the natural advantages. Fort Worth had these. Fort Worth preferred to be known as the city of stock yards and packing houses. Dallas played for all industries that would be trade getters or trade bringers, for all the modern accessories that are city builders and invited to its ample arms men of all trades or occupation or callings.

What happened? The city with the natural advantages lost and the city without them became the home of the greatest Fair and exposition on American continent and has grown by leaps and bounds because of the fact that the people go there as well as the fact that after the fair had been established Dallas became the leading jobbing and distribution center of the Southwest.

Men build cities. Men of vision and pluck and daring could build cities in the heart of a desert. Wichita Falls has all the natural advantages. Wichita Falls has the acquired advantages. Wichita Falls has the transportation facilities. Frank Kell has promised greater facilities within the year.

Wichita Falls nestles on the fringe of the wheat belt of the Southwest, the corn belt, the cotton belt, the feed stuffs country, the stockmen's paradise, the truck grower's land of fertility, the poultryman's dream of a feathered wealth making territory.

All these are here. Irrigation is not a dream. Irrigation is almost here. Lands that have been held at five to ten dollars an acre, some day will possess a value of $1000 per acre.

All this magnificent valley range of territory is to be dotted with the homes of producers who are wealth makers; with the well-kept farms of stockmen who will add to the meat supply of the world; with hog ranches in a country that must have been specially designed for hog culture and the hog today is the money animal of the farm.

Wichita Falls has the natural advantages and empire builders have made it a wonder city in furnishing it transportation facilities and making it an ideal city for manufacturers, jobbers, distributors and agents and agencies for the thousands of vocations or callings which supply the needs of modern society and a modern civilization.

Here is to be built, if its men are wise, the most important inland city in all the Southwest. All the mud sills have been placed. All the superstructure is here. All the pillars have been reared. All the ground work has been completed.

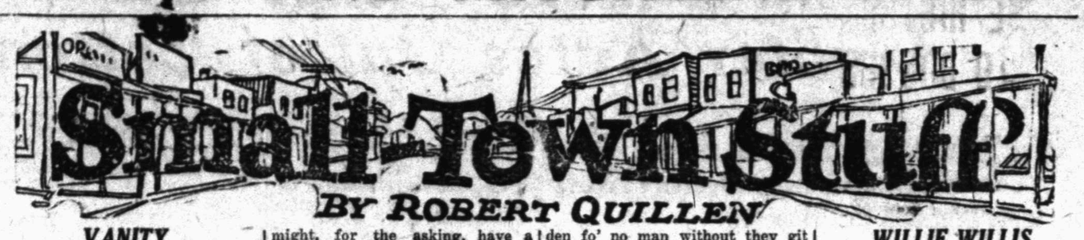

This is the city that faith built but the faith builders did not intend that it should stop growing after it had been built.

There is room here for a Fair and an exposition and a live stock show that in years to come would rival that of Dallas or the Toronto Exposition.

There is room here for an enterprise that would draw the people from Oklahoma and all the vast territory lying between Dallas on the East and the Rock Mountain foothills on the West.

"The mighty oaks from little acorns grow" or words to this effect but the acorn must be planted and sprouted before the oak can have a be ginning.

A comparison of the conditions under which the United States entered the year 1922 with those of the corresponding year of the preceding century gives us renewed confidence in the industrial and commercial future of our country, says the National City Bank of New York City in a brief review of conditions in this period. The population which in 1822 was less than 10,000,000 is now 107,000,000, or more than ten times that of a century ago, while the population of the world as a whole has increased but about 150 per cent. Our international commerce, even in the present moment of depression, the bank points out, is sixty times as much as that of a century ago, having grown from $109,000,000 in 1821 to nearly or quite $7,000,000,000 in 1921, while international commerce of the world in 1921 may possibly be forty times that of a century ago, when it stood at $1,650,000,000. This growth with us has been largely due to increased facilities of transportation, continues the review. In 1821 our great Mississippi Valley, with its wonderful producing possibilities, had but about 2,000,000 people, and their only method of sending their products to tidewater was by the rivers and the Great Lakes, for even the Erie Canal was not finished at that date and steam railways for commercial service were then a thing unknown in any part of the world. Of the 750,000 miles of railway built in all the world since 1821, over one-third was constructed in the United States, chiefly to connect the great interior with the ocean frontages and the Middle West, which had then 2,000,000 population, has now 50,000,000 and is not only the world's biggest producer of grain and meats, but is turning out over one-third of the manufactures of the country. The manufactures of the whole world in 1820 are estimated by Mulhall at $4,250,000,000, while our census of 1920 puts the value of those of the United States alone at $62,000,000,000 or nearly fifteen times that of the whole world a century earlier. With this tremendous growth in our manufacturing industries our exports of domestic manufactures exclusive of foodstuffs have grown from less than $8,000,000 in 1821 to over $2,000,000,000 in 1921, or 250 times as much in the 'lean' year just ended as in the corresponding year of the preceding century. With this increase in industrial, commercial and business activity has come a corresponding advance in the financial requirements and supplies, and the total 'money in circulation' which was officially reported at $67,100,000 in 1820 is officially stated at $5,676,711,000 on December 1, 1921. Meantime the centres of industry and business have grown amazingly, the population of New York having increased from 130,000 in 1822 to over 6,000,000 in 1922, Philadelphia from 108,000 to nearly 2,000,000, and Chicago from 'a hamlet of log houses inhabited by less than 100 people' in 1830 to approximately 3,000,000 in 1922. Not all of this growth in the industries and prosperity of the country has come from a mere increase in population, for our area has doubled meantime, the total area of the United States having grown from 1,792,000 square miles in 1821 to 3,620,000 square miles, including Alaska, at the present time. Our additions of territory since 1822 consist of Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, and the entire Pacific frontage, and thus includes enormous additions to the agricultural and mineral wealth of the country. Thus the year 1922 finds the United States the world's chief agricultural, manufacturing, commercial and financial nation. The possibilities of a further expansion in all these lines are found in the fact that our population, exclusive of Alaska, is still only 36 per square mile, or less than one-tenth that of certain of the most prosperous of our European neighbors.

VANITY

Consider the young man. His face is smooth; his eyes are bright. He is good-looking, and he knows it. When he climbs out of the barber's chair and steps to the mirror that stands in front of it, he appears to be interested in the workmanship of the barber; but the rapt expression that lights his countenance confesses his delight in the knowledge that he is pretty. He spends hours before his mirror, practicing various poses and studying the effect of various expressions. He compresses his lips to appear stern; he smiles almost imperceptibly as a superior man of the world should at the follies of his unsophisticated fellows. He is an affable young man, with polished manners, and he is very popular with the ladies. Very probably he will admit that the ladies eat from his hand. He is, it must be confessed, a little vain.

Observe him in later years. The hair that still clings stubbornly to the slope above his ears is worn long and carefully brushed across his bald spot. But he realizes that he is no longer beautiful. There are lines in his face, however, and his waist line has pushed itself forward; and he persuades himself that these misfortunes give him a distinguished look. He scorns the poses and antics of youth. He likes to think that he has an iron will, and is a man to be reckoned with. And he feels a profound contempt for impudent young whipper-snappers who are pretty. He wonders why women are silly enough to fall for addle-pated young greenhorns when they might, for the asking, have a regular he-man like himself.

Observe him when he is old. There is dandruff on his coat collar, black under his nails, a bag at the knees of his trousers. He is unkempt and seems to care little for the opinions of his fellows. Has he, then, lost his vanity along with his hair, his teeth and his illusions? He has not. Says he: "After a man has become as important as I am, he need waste no thought on his disappearnace."

UNCLE GUS

The noon whistle blew, and up and down the street young ladies appeared and set off in quest of lunch. Uncle Gus knocked the ashes from his pipe and ventured an opinion.

"There," said he, "is the chief cause o' this here divo'ce evil folks is talkin' about." I didn't know what he was talking about, but held my peace.

"It's a fact," he continued. "Them young ladies has got jobs. All of 'em is learnin' to be independent. You let a gal git to earnin' her own money, an' she ain't a-goin' to take no slack off o' nobody. An' I'm danged glad of it.

"I've knowed a sight o' women what married men that was no account an' triflin', an' I've seed the men abuse 'em an' treat 'em sorry. An' most times the women would stand fo' it, not knowin' nothin' else to do, an' bein' scared, maybe, they'd starve to death if they didn't put up with it an' remain meek an' humble; an' I've wished the' was some way to give 'em a little spunk so's they'd stand up fo' the' rights. An' so now, when gals is gittin' so they ain't content to be plain beasts o' burden fo' no man without they git a little lovin' an' decent treatment on the side, I say I'm danged glad of it.

"If one o' these modern gals falls in love with a feller an' promises to do his cookin' an' mendin' fo' life, an' then finds out that the feller is willin' to take ever'thing an' ain't willin' to give nothin', she don't have to put up with it. She knows she can make a livin' fo' her own-self, an' she's jest as independent as a hog on ice.

"Understand, I don't believe in this here divo'ce business much, as a gen'ral thing. I know a sight o' folks applies fo' a divo'ce when all they wants is a change, them havin' got tired o' one toy and got to hankerin' fo' another like a child does; but it does my ol' heart good to know that gals is gittin' some o' this self-determination, and is tired o' being mandate territory. It sho'-does."

THE TWO HENS

In a certain barnyard there lived two hens—a temperamental Leghorn with jumpy nerves and a habit of telling her troubles to the world, and a placid Wyandotte, possessed of a gentle voice and a conviction that trivialities seldom matter.

Each of the hens nursed an ambition to incubate a setting of eggs and mother a hatching of chicks.

The Leghorn, being convinced that all men are crooked, hid her nest under the barn. The Wyandotte, being a natural-born conservative with a conviction that this is a very decent old world, announced her desire to set and was intrusted with fifteen choice eggs and a straw-filled nest in the hen house.

In the course of time the eggs hatched, and both hens appeared in the barnyard with their broods.

Now the Leghorn habitually laid more eggs than the Wyandotte, but this didn't get her anything, for somebody else got the eggs. Her egg capacity had nothing to do with her ambition to raise a family.

When the hens and their broods came abroad, the man of the place studied them and their methods. He observed that the Wyandotte went placidly about her business, scratching for bugs, hovering her chicks in cool weather, warning them quietly when danger approached; and he was much impressed by her efficiency.

He observed, also, that the Leghorn was given to wild alarms; that she was forever complaining and squalling at the top of her voice when approached by a harmless neighbor. He observed that she led her chicks afield in the dewy grass and lacked both poise and common sense. And he said to his wife: "I shall take that darned fool Leghorn's chicks away from her and give them to the Wyandotte. She can't stand responsibility."

The moral is that one who saws wood and doesn't lose his head will get there with both feet, while the individual who permits every trivial thing to get his goat will get the air.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

OUR OWN COMPLEXION REMEDIES

Rough, Chapped Skin

Cause: Dust and wind. Can be avoided by keeping out of the dust and wind. If a girl must go where there is dust or wind she should walk down the street with her back to the wind.

Treatment: Massage the face with sandpaper until it (the sandpaper) bleeds; knead the face (you will need one as never before) between two pine planks for fifteen minutes. By this time all traces of a rough, chapped skin will have been removed. Apply olive oil and set the face in a cool, dry place until there is a call for it. There will be no call for it.

Shiny Skin

Cause: This condition is due to the fact the skin has a tendency to shine. It is often caused by the fact the wearer has been using furniture polish on the piano without removing the face during the operation. The vapor from frying fish will have the same effect.

Treatment: Try washing the face. If this fails, rub the face down with pumice stone; dust with powdered alum or rub face against a white-washed wall; when face has attained the desired tone, varnish it for permanency.

Dull, Tired Skin

Cause: A dull, tired skin is usually due to the fact that the skin has become dull and tired.

Treatment: Remove the skin. If it is merely dull send it out with the kiddies to play in the park; if it is tired send it away to the country for a month's rest.

Blackheads

The only sure cure is to paint the face black. Otherwise soak the face in gin and remove blackheads with a corkscrew.

Double Chin

Cause: A struggle of the face to merge with the chest.

Treatment: You must first determine whether you wish the superfluous flesh pushed back into the face or back into the neck; this having been arrived at, spend ten hours a day in a Turkish bath, walking home through the chilly night with chin held high in the air. This will remove your double chin and give you double pneumonia.

Wrinkles

Cause: Wrinkles are generally due to a contraction of the fact which allows the skin to slip a few notches as in the word "accordion."

Treatment: The best preventive is to pin the skin in place with thumb-tacks. Once the skin has slipped there is nothing to do but take your face to a taxidermist and have the slack taken up or stuffed.

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON

GOOD INTENTIONS.

I know not what my neighbors say as I pursue my plan, and undisturbed I go my way, and do the best I can. I know that no man is so wise, so virtuous or grand, that he will not by carping guys be criticised and panned. And so I strive to do what's right, and care no whoop or hoot if what I do stirs up the spite of any cheap galoot. I used to worry when I heard how men had roasted me; my heart, by dire emotions stirred, was gloomy as could be; and I would sadly wonder why applause I could not gain from Joseph Jinks or Henry Spry, or Abner P. McLane. The years slid by as years will slide when they're not fastened down; age came, and I no longer tried to please the whole blamed town. Men's words no longer jarred my nerves, I said, "I know my worth; if other guys don't like my curves let them fall off the earth. If I do what is right and just, as down the world I go, it cuts no grass if I am cussed by all the skates I know. Oh, my intentions are the best a man can pack around, and taunt and jeer and gibe and jest are only empty sound." I care not what my neighbors say about the things I do, as calmly I pursue my way, with righteousness in view.

'BILL' AND 'BUCK' OR THE HISTORY OF TWO BOSSES

Kansas City Writer of Fiction Makes "Bill" Heroic Crusader of Law Enforcement in 'Buck's' Territory.

"Bill," Armed With Trusty Ax, Cleaned Up Ragtown and Chased Undesirables Off the Reservation.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 21.—The Star of this city carries the following interesting bit of wild west fiction:

"Bill" Davis, for several years mayor of Fort Worth and the owner of several ranches in Carter and Jefferson counties of Oklahoma, is the only single individual without an enforcement commission who ever put an end to bootlegging and gambling in Carter county. The incident is recalled in connection with proceedings recently filed in the district court of Carter county by the attorney general asking for suspension from office of Sheriff Buck Garrett and Mayor J. H. Langston and Police Chief Lem Bates of Healdton.

In that period of the war in the early summer of 1918, when the work-or-fight policy was propagated with vigor, Mr. Davis, on a visit to one of his ranches near Ragtown, learned that joints were openly operated and that gamblers and their attaches and lewd women constituted a considerable part of the population of that and other oil field villages.

Declare Against Violators.

"I am a taxpayer in Carter county," Davis said, "and this thing has got to stop." He was in Waurika, awaiting the calling of two cases in district court in which he was interested. He hired a motor car and drove to Ardmore.

A patriotic meeting was slated for that night. Davis obtained permission to appear on the speaking program.

"I have been told," he said, in the speech, "that any man who attempted to clean up Carter county would be taking his life in his hands, that he would be assassinated within twenty-four hours. I am not afraid of any living man who makes such threats."

He said that he was not there to criticize Sheriff Buck Garrett or other county officials and he complimented them. "I am here to find fault with you," he shouted to the thousand men and women seated in the auditorium. "You are to blame for this. You have been getting just the kind of law enforcement that you voted for and the kind that you wanted."

Was First to Speak Plainly.

It was the first time that a man had "spoke out in meetin'" so pointedly and so forcefully in the work-or-fight campaign. But the audience applauded.

In conclusion Davis said: "The gamblers and the jointists and all that hang about with them in the oil field towns are going to fight going to work or going to jail. And they'll have their choice before 8 o'clock in the morning. At that hour I will be in Ragtown with an ax in my hand, alone or in company—it doesn't matter which—and if I find any of that crowd down there I'll smash their doors nd their furniture and I'll turn every one of them over to the government."

That was sufficient. At 8 o'clock next morning not a place was open in the oil field that was in violation of the law. In the night the undesirables left in flocks, by car, by train, by foot and otherwise. The clean-up was thorough and it was effected without the use of an ax.

ROLLING IN WEALTH, IS COL. A. E. HUMPHREYS

(S. T. Bolentine in Mexia Evening News.)

MEXIA, Texas, Jan. 21.—The Humphreys interests in the Mexia oil field today is producing at the rate of nearly four times the amount of crude daily as is being produced by the entire state of Pennsylvania.

The United States geological survey for October gave Pennsylvania's production for the month as 580,000 barrels or a total of about 7,000,000 barrels for the year 1921.

According to Colonel A. E. Humphreys "the oil actually run to storage and the tank car shipments from his company for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 o'clock this morning amounted to 60,700 barrels, or a rate of more than 22,000,000 barrels yearly.

During this month, the Humphreys companies will produce in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 barrels of crude. The potential production today is greatly in excess of the amount of oil actually moved.

"Within sixty days the company's production," said Colonel Humphreys, "will be 100,000 barrels daily, and within four months our production should be above 150,000 barrels daily."

"The oil actually moved from our wells for every day of the new year has been above 50,000 barrels and his has been with a number of our inside producing wells minched in."

$100,000 Daily Income.

The income for the Humphreys interests today is at a rate of approximately $100,000 every twenty-four hours, or more than $3,000,000 every thirty days and this is more than $36,000,000 yearly.

In order to more fully realize just what tremendous income this is just imagine that for each hour of the night and day you were receiving $4,000, which is more than $66 for every minute.

With an income like this, do you blame the colonel for taking a few weeks off on a trip to Cuba, the Panama canal and a fishing trip on the coast of Florida?

He has accomplished or developed all this income within the short space of twelve months.

A year ago now the Colonel was bending his energy and that of his then small organization, in the securing of leases covering the structure on which he is now getting this large production. His work was so well done that today, as this structure is being defined by the bit of the drill, that he owns more than 80 per cent of the producing area of the Mexia field.

A $50,000,000 Contract.

From the business side of the producing end of the oil industry the important thing is that of knowing in advance just what you may expect in the way of price for the crude produced.

This Colonel Humphreys has fixed to the extent of 33,000,000 barrels, which he sold to the Standard interests and the Sinclair interests at a fixed price of $1.50 a barrel which will amount to almost $50,000,000. At the present rate of production this contract will be filled during this year.

In addition to the 33,000,000 barrels sold to the Standard interests, the colonel has contracted to deliver to the Pure Oil company a maximum of 20,000 barrels daily which gives an additional output for more than 7,000,000 barrels of crude for this year, and it's all at a price to be not less than $1.50 a barrel.

And preparations are under way to care for this oil. The Prairie Oil & Gas company, the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing agency and the Humphreys-Pure Oil Pipe Line company have under construction tankage which when completed will store more than 15,000,000 barrels of crude. The Pure Oil company is shipping by tank car to the gulf coast, an average daily of 15,000 barrels where it is loaded in tankers and shipped by water to Marcus Hook, Pa., and there put in storage.

FORT WORTH CHIEF HAUNT OF SNOW BIRDS

According to a Detective There Are More Than a Thousand Addicts and Dealers in That City.

Close Relation Between the Drug Users and Crime; Over 60 Per Cent of Drug Addicts Are Criminals.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Prohibition in America has been accompanied by a marked increase in the use of drugs and narcotics, and this fact has been seized upon by the opponents of prohibition as a direct result of the Eighteenth Amendment. They assert that many who in the past have been accustomed to get a drink of whiskey in the morning before going to work, another at noon, with a couple more as a prelude to dinner, have taken to narcotics because they cannot get their whiskey. In reply, Deputy Commissioner Carlton Simon of the narcotic division at New York Police Headquarters points out that the increase in the consumption of drugs and narcotics since the war is just as great in many European countries where there is no such limitation on beverages as there is in America.

In his fight against the drug traffic Commissioner Simon has discovered that he and his men are up against a network of organizations, the ramifications of which extend not only outside of New York City, but beyond the borders of the country, across two oceans, embracing Europe, Asia and South America. As soon as he realized the magnitude of his problem the chief of the narcotic squad began a correspondence with other American cities seeking particularly to establish working connections with towns and cities along the Canadian and Mexican borders.

Oil Boom Responsible

J. A. Riley, in charge of the narcotic division of the detective force of Fort Worth, Texas, is now in New York spending every day and many nights with Commissioner Simon's men in their hunt for the drug peddler and his agent, the "booster." Fort Worth, with its seventeen converging railroads, is the center for a drug ring working through Brownsville and El Paso, over the border into Mexico. Mr. Riley says that there are more than 1000 addicts and dealers in narcotics and drugs in Fort Worth—a city of only 100,000 inhabitants. This is due, partly, he asserts, to the transient population caused by the proximity of the oil fields.

"Fort Worth," Mr. Riley declared, "is near the boom country and, like all of the larger towns it absorbs for the time being the drifters and riff-raff that always flock to a boom region. That, I believe, is why approximately one person in every hundred is either a user or trafficker in drugs.

"The same conditions prevail in the other cities of Texas, and the prevalence of drug addiction is due to the ease with which drugs and narcotics are smuggled over the border. Mexico apparently has no law forbidding their sale. You can buy morphine, heroin and opium in Mexico as you buy cigars and ice cream in this country, and the supply seems to be inexhaustible. It comes to them from Germany and other European countries and Japan, and it even goes over from the United States in large quantities to be smuggled back and peddled on the streets here."

Criminals and Drugs

The close relation between drug addiction and crime in Fort Worth bears out the statistics compiled by Commissioner Simon for New York, that more than 60 per cent of all drug addicts are criminals; and the first effect of more rigid restriction is, strangely enough, an increase in the percentage of criminals among the addicts. Where the police make the traffic difficult the price of the "dope" immediately goes up.

The victim of the drug habit must get his "shot," be the price what it may, and when, as happens in Fort Worth after a 35-days' campaign, morphine goes from $25 an ounce to $180 then the addict will take all sorts of desperate chances to get the money to buy his drug. In this connection Commissioner Simons drew attention to the belief in police circles that the murder of Policeman Daniel Neville in West Thirty-ninth street a few months ago was the deed of a drug addict.

The methods of smuggling opium and other narcotics from Mexico are many and ingenius. The harness of a mule, his ears and tail serve as hiding places for hundreds of dollars worth of contraband drugs. Many a Mexican has earned in one day more than the value of his mule in the service of the smugglers. The Rio Grande is so narrow in places that the smugglers have stretched pulley lines across the river and at night have sent their goods over the border to confederates on the American side without crossing the line themselves. By comparing notes Commissioner Simon and Detective Riley have come to believe that the Mexican drug ring has agents working in New York. A drive on the drug traffic here is followed by an increase in the number of dealers and the quantity of drugs in Fort Worth.

The same conditions, the commissioner has found, prevail in other parts of the country. There appears to be a well-defined ring working from Canada through the northeast and New York City. Another ring takes in Central Canada, lake cities and Kansas City, and between New York and Kansas City the police are convinced that there is a third ring engaged in the narcotic trade.

JAZZ BRINGS CHURCH ROW IN KANSAS

'Preachers' Ball' Shakes the Religious Harmony Where Erstwhile Everything Had Been Lovely.

And 'All Because Preacher and His Wife Danced to the Swift Tune of "She's a Mean Job."

ATCHISON, Kan., Jan. 21.—The religious being of Atchison is shaken. For several years, since Atchison was graduated from a saloon town to a church town, everything has been lovely in church circles. Catholics joined with Episcopalians, Methodists, Lutherans and other denominations to help win the late war, and since then ministers have been dwelling together in peace until Saturday night.

The Rt. Rev. James Wise, bishop of this diocese, came to Atchison prepared to conduct a mission. A reception was held in his honor at the newly remodeled parish house of Trinity Episcopal church, of which the Rev. E. C. Tuttle, who recently came here from a pastorate at Watertown, N. Y., is pastor. All other Protestant ministers and officers of the various churches were invited to the reception to meet Bishop Wise.

All Was Well at First.

Hundreds attended the reception. All was lovely in the early stages of the event, but when young men of the parish began to roll up rugs from the newly polished floor, and a musician began to test out his saxophone with a scale or two and a young woman ran her hands delicately over the keys, several ministers show d signs of uneasiness.

The reception was over for them when the Rev. Mr. Tuttle, a man of 40, bowed gracefully before Mrs. Tuttle, took her in his arms and breezed out on the floor in the throes of the latest military walk to the jazzed tune of "She's a Mean Job."

If the pianist could really have made the piano talk, it would have said something about "a pretty girl, one look at whom makes men go home and beat their wives;" a girl who "never smokes, but rolls her own." But the visiting clergy probably were spared knowledge of the words.

Called "The Preachers' Ball."

Nothing in the church history of Atchison has shaken the religious people of the town as has the Episcopal dance. "The preachers' ball," paraphrasing the title of a more or less late song, is on the lips of almost everyone. Two ministers who attended the function preached on the evils of the dance. This added fuel to the flames, and a good many very religious persons were inclined to say mean things. Another minister announced he would preach on the evils of the dance next Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Tuttle defends his action by saying dancing at Episcopal functions is common in the East.

MAUDE ADAMS GIVES ESTATE TO THE NUNS

Actress, a Protestant, Long Has Been Interested in Work Done by Sisters of Roman Catholic Church.

Gift Comes as Surprise to New York Public, Unaware That She Made Her Home With Nuns.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Maude Adams, whose charm won hearts as no other American actress has ever done and whose delightful Peter Pan made thousands believe in fairies, has presented her beautiful country estate at Lake Ronkonkoma, L. I., to the Roman Catholic sisterhood of Our Lady of the Cenacle. The gift comes as a great surprise to the public, as Miss Adams is a Protestant. Few were aware of the fact that she has made her home when in New York at the Convent of the Sisterhood in Manhattan, known as the Convent of St. Regis. The estate is worth $130,000.

Interest in Stage Waned.

Miss Adams' interest in the stage waned after the death of her manager, Charles Frohman, who was lost on the Lusitania. Since then she has divided her time between the convent and her laboratory at Schenectady where she has been conducting experiments in theatrical lighting. For short intervals she essayed a return to the stage but her heart was no longer in the work.

She was expected to return to the footlights last fall, but Billie Burk appeared in "The Intimate Strangers" at the Henry Miller theater, Miss Adams not being interested enough to continue with the leading role which Miss Burke later agreed to accept.

About eight years ago, Miss Adams became interested in the retreats conducted by the sisters for secular women. In order to further satisfy her desire to help the organization, the actress arranged for accommodation at the convent during one of the retreats.

Impressed Miss Adams.

The atmosphere of the convent, the spiritual refreshment of the week end and the self sacrificing work of the sisters engaged in the work, created so deep an impression on Maude Adams that she arranged with Mother Marie Majoux, vicar provincial of the sisterhood, for a suite of rooms at the convent, which she has occupied ever since, during her visits here.

About a year ago, when Miss Adams learned that an effort was being made to enlarge the work of the cenacle, she offered her Ronkonkoma place. At the time, the late Bishop McDonnelly was in poor health and before Mother Marie Majoux could accept a gift of the property she had to obtain permission from the Brooklyn prelate. In the meantime, Bishop McDonnell died. About a week ago the matter was brought to the attention of Bishop Thomas E. Molloy, the present bishop of Brooklyn, and he gave immediate approval.

A Beautiful Estate.

The estate is situated in one of the finest sections of Ronkonkoma and consists of a large stone residence, several outhouses and three hundred acres, extensively developed and designed by prominent architects at landscape gardeners.

Maude Adams' estate was for years known as "Sandy Girth." When the actress occupied the place she studied many of the parts which she created for the stage. As a rule, she spent a few weeks at her home in the Catskills and then occupied the Long Island estate for the rest of the summer.

The state was placed on the market in 1910, but later withdrawn. Miss Adams subsequently rejected offers of several large lumber firms for trees on the property, and others by golfers seeking a country club.

WHY THEY DRIFT FROM THE COUNTRY TO THE CITIES

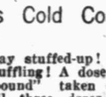

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 21.—J. T. Haynes of County Line is president and C. H. Vanhorn of Iowa Park is secretary of the Free Rural School Trustees Association of Wichita county. These gentlemen are responsible for the following address, or open letter, to the people of the county:

"Because we recognized the fact that the time was now close at hand when it was necessary for a better and closer attention must be paid to the welfare of the free rural schools of the country and believing that this was one of the causes for the drift from the country to the cities, a number of rural trustees met at Iowa Park on August 6, and after much discussion organized what we called the "Free Rural School Trustees Association of Wichita County." Membership to be all the trustees of the schools of the county with less than 500 scholastics enrolled. Teachers to be auxillery members by virtue of their position. We welcome a full attendance of all patrons that have the best interest of the schools at heart.

"We recognized that it would take cooperation to get the remedial legislation so much needed in favor of the rural schools. It is the desire of this organization that every district of the county have one or all its trustees present at our next meeting at Clara, January 21, 1922, at 10:15 a. m., when a short program will be had and a general discussion of the ups and downs of rural school teachers and trustees will be had. Make sure that your school is represented for we hope to give out something for you to think and talk about.

"You may have an experience that may help another. So make your arrangements to be with us on the above day and date and bring some one with you. Some of the subjects that may come up are as follows: Cooperative buying of supplies. Needed remedial legislation for rural districts. Efforts to create interest in the masses as to result of better education, Revision of law as to election of county superintendent. How can we create interest in this organization that the other trustees may come and help us. You're needed, you're wanted, you're expected. Its your cause. Its my cause. Its our children's welfare, so why not be present?"

CASCARETS 10¢

For Constipated Bowels—Bilious Liver

The nicest cathartic-laxative to physic your bowels when you have

Headache	Biliousness
Colds	Indigestion
Dizziness	Sour Stomach

is candy-like Cascarets. One or two tonight will empty your bowels completely by morning and you will feel splendid. "They work while you sleep." Cascarets never stir you up or gripe like Salts, Pills, Calomel, or Oil and they cost only ten cents a box. Children love Cascarets too. —(Adv.)

COLDS

"Pape's Cold Compound" is Quickest Relief Known

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks up a cold and ends all grippe misery.

The first dose opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages of head; stops nose running; relieves headache, dullness, feverishness, sneezing. "Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance. Tastes nice. Contains no quinine. Insist upon Pape's—Adv.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Million of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. (Adv.)

Why Does Osteopathy Encourage Rigid Legal Requirements?

—Men are legally forbidden to practice treatment of disease or sickness without a state certificate.

—State supervision and state requirements are necessary to protect you and yours from incompetent and irresponsible "quacks."

—Osteopathy favors and encourages the most drastic regulation. In every state of the Union the Osteopathic physician submits himself to a state examination which determines beyond question his individual fitness to treat human ailments.

—The State Certificate which you see on the wall of your Osteopathic Physician's office is a symbol of confidence. It means that he has successfully met standards as high as your state could impose.

—Requirements for the practice of Osteopathy are high. Osteopathic schools demand this. State laws require it.

—When you think of an Osteopathic physician remember his State Certificate is evidence of high requiremnt successfully met.

P. L. MYERS IN JAIL

For a Declaration of Principle

—There are some people no doubt who are gloating over the fact that a Chiropractor is in jail in Wichita Falls. They think perhaps they have jailed Chiropractic Principles, something scores of Free Born Americans want and demand, for the betterment of their physical condition, every day in Wichita Falls and vicinity.

—O yes, occasionally a Chiropractor can be jailed and persecuted for the keen competition he creates by applying the principles of Chiropractic, and upholding the banner of this science which is a symbol of relief to those that have layed aside prejudice and wanted to get well.

—This is a great free county, but at times we find some that would like to Prussianize it, even to the point of denying the public a science that gives them a better body, better mind and a better life.

VALVE-IN-HEAD Buick MOTOR CARS

Facts you should know when you buy a car

—The question of greatest importance is not what you will be allowed for your old car but the price you pay for the new car and the value received.

—You are money out if allowed $100 more for your old car, yet have to pay a $150 higher list price for a new car when the comparative value is not there.

—A purchaser's loss is only postponed when trading allowances are made above a used car's real value. The deal that may appear most satisfactory to you in the beginning may prove to be the most expensive in the end.

—No one receives anything gratuitously in this world—don't be misled by false allowances.

—We believe that any sales policy which encourages the giving of fictitious values for used cars is an injustice to the public. We wish to establish definitely the fact that the Buick Motor Company has never followed this policy—rather has always based the price of its product upon actual costs and when costs came down correspondingly reduced the prices of its cars to the public without any camouflage whatsoever.

INSURANCE DON'TS

DON'T

fail to notify your insurance agent when you move your furniture if it is insured. Failure to notify cancels your insurance.

DON'T

fail to keep an inventory of your household goods showing price and date of purchase. We will make an inventory for our customers upon request and keep a copy for our files.

DON'T

accept an insurance policy not signed by the agent in ink. It is not valid unless so signed.

DON'T

carry more insurance than the property is worth. You can collect only the value of the property at the time of the fire and to carry more is only to pay for something you will not get.

DON'T

be misled by an agent telling you that he can write fire insurance on residences, household goods or business institutions at a less rate than some other agent. Fire insurance rates are fixed by the State Commission and all agents MUST use the same rates, or violate the law.

DON'T

forget that if you accept a policy written at a lower rate on houses or contents, you are buying as much insurance as your payment will purchase at the correct rate and not the amount written in the policy.

DON'T

let any agent tell you that he or she can write automobile rates as low as we can. The State Commission does not control automobile rates and our company is still writing at old rates. All others have raised.

DON'T

fail to ask us about your insurance. We will gladly check up your rates, policies, etc., for you. No obligation.

DON'T forget we write "INSURANCE WITHOUT A KICK IN IT."
