Water District Meeting Shows Progress Made

Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District met this week with representatives of its consulting engineering firm, Lockwood, Andrews and Newnam, Inc., Corpus Christi, and its financial advisory firm, First Southwest Company of San Antonio.

A review of the water project (which will bring treated water from the San Patricio Water District to the Rockport area) brought out that service of water approved by the State Board of Health to virtually all areas originally planned by the Aransas District, said there may be minor revisions in that some distribution lines may be cancelled or relocated to areas of greater consumer density, which would also affect location of fireplugs.

Canvassing of customers is almost complete except in the area immediately west of Rockport which will be done by W. B. Croney during the next two or three weeks.

In order to meet the March 1, 1969 target date to begin construction, all engineering is to be completed by Nov. 1, 1968.

Anyone desiring water service who has not yet submitted his application is urged to do so by Aug. 7, 1968. The mailing address of Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District is Courthouse, Rockport, Texas 78392.

Sportsmen's Assn. Position On Dredging

M. W. Cochran, Col. W. W. Brown (ret.) and Pete Gibson of Rockport Sportsmen Conservation Association were in Port Lavaca Tuesday for a hearing before U.S. Corps of Engineers on shell dredging.

The Association expressed its position as follows:

"Let us make clear that The Rockport Sportsmen Conservation Association does not oppose natural resources, such as oyster shell and petroleum products from the Coastal Bays.

"We have opposed, and do now oppose, the taking of bay resources in such a manner that the waste products pollute the bays. Mud and silt from the dredge waste—and waste from drilling operations and well production—damage other natural resources when turned loose indiscriminately in the bays.

"Grassy nursery areas and exposed shell reefs, where the seafood spawn and feed, are seriously damaged by such waste products. There is no justification for taking one natural resource at the expense of another.

"Unless different methods for the disposal of this muddy waste are used, irreparable damage to seafood products will result. In the case of submerged shell reefs containing a high percentage of silt and clay, which have been confined and have lain dormant for centuries, even greater damage will follow, since the shell is now scrubbed clean.

"Last but not least, recreational areas are damaged, the bay waters are permanently muddied and game fish and oysters no longer survive. The (continued on page 8)

Art Show Huge Success

Over 500 people signed the guest register of the Rockport Art Guild's annual judged Art Show over the 4th of July holiday weekend. The large number of people made this show the best attended of any of the past shows. The show was held at the Guild building and was accompanied by a sidewalk show that was "rained in" on Friday and Saturday.

There were 95 paintings exhibited by 28 local artists. A team of local judges, Mayor Hiller, Bob Eschberger, and Jimmy Sorenson picked two winners to be awarded cash prizes of the best landscape depicting this area.

These two ribbons accompanied by a $50 cash award for each went to Mrs. Neva Sorenson for her oil of seagulls on the sand and to Jim Whitfill's watercolor of the leaning oaks.

Prize money for the whole show was donated by these "angels": Johnson Drug Store, Mrs. Ruth Lewis of Peninsula Oaks, Jimmy Sorenson, H.E.B. Family Center, and Security Real Estate.

George Pinca, noted artist and teacher of San Antonio, performed the duties of out-of-town judge. Mrs. Sue Furlong swept the field by winning 5 of 6 Blue Ribbons for her various paintings in the categories of landscape, marine, still life, free form and sketch. Mrs. Furlong, as well, won a cash award of $50 for her acrylic free form which was awarded the Best of Show. The remaining Blue Ribbon went to Mrs. Estelle Turner for her oil portrait of a ballet dancer.

The guests attending the show voted for their favorite painting and winning the popular vote and a $50 prize was Mrs. Dorothy Trapp's oil of shrimp boats.

Other artists winning ribbons in the various categories were: Estelle Turner, Jim Whitfill, Dorothy Trapp, Steven Russell, Grace Freeborn, Michael Casterline, Jan Wendell, Bob Gray, Kit Dinger, Estelle Stair, Nancy Glass, Jim Campbell, Neva Sorenson and Yvonne Wendell.

Nearly every painting in the show was for sale and sales were brisk throughout the weekend. The Guild would like to express its appreciation to all the patrons who made this show such a success.

County and City to Get Federal Aid

Mayor Delmor R. Hiller and County Judge John D. Wendell and other city and county officials attended a meeting Wednesday at the courthouse to find out how this area will benefit from $300,000 in federal funds to be divided between Aransas, San Patricio and Refugio counties which were declared disaster areas by President Johnson.

Col. Jesse Ward, representing Gov. John Connally, was in charge of the meeting called to discuss how the money is to be spent for repairs of flood damage caused by recent rains. Representatives of San Patricio county also were present as well as officials of the U.S. Corps of Engineers and the State Department of Health.

Hiller and Wendell informed Ward that surveys had been made of both the city and the county to determine what work was needed to repair the flood damage.

Representatives of the Corps of Engineers and the State Health Department are to meet here next week with Hiller and Wendell to plan what projects will be carried out in this area.

David Coleman Bishop Principal

David Coleman, former principal of Aransas County High School and for the past 12 years principal of the George West High School, has been named principal of Bishop High School.

He will succeed James F. Gillis, who has been appointed principal at Live Oak Elementary School.

Now that President Lyndon B. Johnson has declared Aransas County a disaster area because of drainage problems created by heavy rains, the City is ready with detailed plans for a temporary solution. At the City Council meeting this week it was announced that City Engineer Gene Urban and Public Works Commissioner Tom Shults, after inspecting all sections of the city, had prepared maps showing where they proposed that ditches be cleaned out and other work performed with the aid of Federal funds. Urban is working on cost estimates.

It was emphasized that under the disaster status made possible by Public Law 875, only work of a temporary nature will be paid for by federal funds.

In other actions, the Council:

—Instructed City Attorney Dick Hatch to write to John Gove, who lives in Little Bay Shores, stating that the drainage situation in front of his home is "highly undesirable and the city would like for him to remove the obstruction within 15 days and furnish a culvert which the city will lay to grade." It was stated that Gove put in a driveway across a city ditch with no culvert.

—Passed an ordinance changing the zoning classification of a lot in the 500 block South Church Street from residential to business. This was requested by Sheriff Joe Earl Hunt to erect a gift and antique shop.

—Instructed Zoning Administrator Herman Johnson to write to Bud Moody informing him that he must move stored equipment from the old Shivers Store building (which Moody owns) within 10 days. Denver Agler, present at the Council meeting, who also has equipment stored in the building, said Moody will file a friendly appeal with the Board of Adjustments to give both Moody and Agler additional time to remove their equipment.

—Set July 29 for a public hearing on the following requests:

1) Request for special permit for Mortgage Investment Corp. to rebuild a private pier in the south 31 feet WFE of lot 7, 50 feet of WFE of lot 8, block 27 and 100 feet WFE of King Street, D&M Addition.

BREAKFAST'S READY

The traditional American family breakfast is fast disappearing from the scene, reports Dr. I. A. Wilhelm, general manager of the Poultry and Egg National Board. He told a Purdue University Institute of Animal Agriculture recently that a study showed that 72 per cent of the families queried did not sit down at the breakfast table together.

Forty-two per cent reported they didn't even "take" breakfast at home. The children probably had a Coke and a candy bar at school. Dad grabbed a quick cup of coffee and perhaps a roll at or near his place of work or business. The women? Mom may have nibbled. And Sis? She's probably dieting and didn't bother with breakfast.

The study showed further that in one third of the homes someone slept right through breakfast and in another third the mother didn't bother to prepare anything but a cup of coffee.

Wilhelm had some other interesting figures. Where breakfast was served, 54 per cent served eggs, 39 per cent had butter, not oleo, on the table, 24 per cent served bacon (even at the current price of it), eight per cent had sausages and 34 per cent had cold cereal. Wilhelm's answers to "What happened to breakfasts?" are simple. "We are too busy when we're young . . . Too tired when we have growing children . . . Dieting when we're past 50."

Gone are the days when Grandma served fried ham, eggs, country-fried potatoes, homemade bread and hot biscuits, butter, preserves, and cream on fresh fruit in season, if not a slab of cherry pie. No, kitchens just don't smell like they used to at breakfast time any more.—Goshen (Ind.) News.

TYPEWRITERS FOR ALL

"Typing is necessary for almost everybody today." This statement comes from the superintendent of New York City schools.

In today's world of business and fast communication, the printed word has taken the place of handwritten script. A typewriter no longer is just an accessory in a business office. It is a home necessity as well.

It is high time, too, for the fine art of handwriting has just about disappeared. Schools no longer place the emphasis on penmanship that they once did, and there are adults today whose handwriting would have brought a rap on the knuckles from a teacher a generation or so back.

Who even knows what is meant by a fine Spencerian flourish or a copper-plate hand?—Reno (Nev.) Gazette.

BRANDING IRON

We haven't been too aware of it lately, but the branding of cattle with hot irons has been a fixture of Western thrillers from the days of our childhood.

Disused branding irons are now prized antiques, we understand. At any rate, this painful but one necessary procedure for identifying range steers ought now to go the way the two-gun cowboy has gone, everywhere but on the motion picture screen.

Under a newly-invented method, branding "irons" made of copper are frozen in a refrigerant such as dry ice and then applied to the clipped hide. So we have cryobranding—and cowpokes headed for the roundup in convertibles hauling dry ice. Not much romance there.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

CHICKEN IN HOT DOGS

Chicken meat, it is acknowledged, is wholesome, nutritious and above all cheap in price. Weiner manufacturers would like to use it instead of more expensive red meats, some of which are being imported into this country at a price higher than chicken meat, grown at home, is selling for, and throwing further out of line our balance of payments.

Shredded chicken meat has been used by some makers of wieners as a blend. Mostly these have been plants that have been state-inspected. But last fall Congress passed laws requiring state inspections to conform with Federal inspection regulations. Knowing that shredded chicken has not been approved under Federal rules, state inspectors have been turning it down.

Pleas have been made to the U.S. Department of Agriculture to approve shredded chicken and the department has promised to okeh it. This was last December. But still no approval has been made.

It isn't, as we understand it, that the department frowns on chicken meat in wieners. The department is aware that the meat is wholesome and good and probably better than goat and sheep meat coming from abroad. Seven poultry associations have urged federal government approval but months later the department is still "dragging its feet."

Meanwhile, U.S. dollars are going overseas to the tune of $500 million for blending meats to go into those hot dogs people have been eating.

This is a tidy sum which could benefit producers of American chickens who are not getting rich at today's prices due to over-population. But bureaucracy and feet-dragging on the part of the Department of Agriculture continues to exist.

Library News

Visitors to the Aransas County Public Library may have noticed that the large United States flag which has been hanging on the east wall in the library has been removed.

When the present building was completed, this flag was given to the library by Mrs. R. L. Harrell. Recently, it became necessary to remove it because of the need for more wall space for additional shelving.

This was very nicely and properly done by Alvin Griffin of Boy Scout Troop 281, Mustang District, Gulf Coast Council, of which the Scoutmaster is Richard Stafford.

Having no other area large enough to display it, the folded flag was returned to the donor.

Insurance For The Disabled

There may be some disabled people in South Texas who are not receiving social security disability insurance which the law provides, District Manager H. M. Cleveland, of the Social Security Administration, believes.

By reason of changes in the Social Security Act, many persons who could not previously qualify for payment may now be eligible to receive regular monthly payments as long as their disability lasts.

"Formerly, a disabled worker had to be under a severe handicap which was expected to last indefinitely to meet the requirements for benefits. Now, a worker who has been, or expects to be, unable to work for at least 12 months may be eligible to receive the insurance," according to Cleveland.

"Another change reduced the length of time that a younger worker must have worked to be insured in case of disability," he says. "A worker who becomes disabled before age 24 needs only about a year and a half of work credit to be eligible. The amount of work credit for disability insurance, varies from 18 months to five years depending upon the age of worker when he becomes unable to work."

"Still another change in the law makes monthly benefits payable as early as age 50 to a disabled widow," Cleveland added.

A young disabled worker who was denied benefits because he did not meet the work requirements, as well as one who never applied before, may now qualify for benefits. In either case, an application should be filed now.

Interested persons may secure further information from the Social Security Administration, 1802 South Staples Street, Corpus Christi, Texas 78404.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Director, 209 W. 9th Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—May I meet with my draft board to discuss the classification given me?

A—Every man, after his classification is determined by his board (except a classification determined upon an appearance before the board), must have an opportunity to appear in person before the member or members designated for the purpose if he files a written request within 30 days after the board has mailed him a Notice of Classification (SSS Form 110).

Q—A recent news item said the National Security Council made recommendations about occupational and student deferments. What is this council and what part does it play?

A—The National Security Council consists of the President, the Vice President, the Secretaries of State and Defense, and the Director of the Office of Emergency Planning. Section 4(g) of the draft law authorizes the council and directs it periodically to advise the Director of Selective Service about the identification, selection, and deferment of profession and scientific personnel and those engaged in, and preparing for, critical skills and other essential occupations.

Q—I've got my induction order for next month. I now find I'm eligible for the I-S student deferment. Will my board cancel my order, or must I report?

A—Supply the facts to your board. If these facts qualify you for class I-S, your board will reopen your case, and your induction order will be cancelled.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beasley, and Bill spent the 4th of July, weekend visiting their son, Roger, and wife of Mesquite. They also visited Six Flags.

Pacesetter is 170 feet long, has a 40-foot beam, is 15-foot draft, is powered by two 4,000 horsepower electromotive diesel engines, is air conditioned, has central heating and has comfortable, attractive quarters for each man. The boat is fully equipped with electronic aids to navigation.

Carrying 10,000 feet of 9% inch drill pipe, the boat has a winch with 225,000 pounds of line pull, powered by a 300-horsepower GM diesel engine. The boat has an automatic pilot. It also has a 48-mile radar automatic directional finder.

The galley would please the most particular chef. It is all electric, has a walk-in freezer, a second freezer, two refrigerators and a stainless steel range. It is equipped with a washing machine and dryer.

Pacesetter has a maximum speed of 14 knots. It has a public address system and ship to shore FM and AM radio systems.

While Pacesetter is heading for Nicaragua, Fairmont carrying Northern Dancer "piggy-back" and accompanied by Tanforan is making its way to Singapore. It passed through the Panama Canal last weekend. These boats will be involved in oil drilling operations in the Java Sea off the coast of Indonesia.

On Fairmont and Tanforan are crews consisting of 15 men, five of them from the Rockport area. From here are Johnny Williams, captain of Tanforan; David Picton, wiper; Bob Johnson, able-bodied seaman; and Julian Thompson, ordinary seaman who will do the cooking. On Fairmont is Thomas Buckley, able-bodied seaman.

LeBlanc said this is the first time that any boats of this type have ventured on such a long journey—12,000 miles.

Caspary-Wendell names all its supply boats after race-tracks and its crew boats after race horses, "because the boats are fast and strong," an official explained.

shoreline collects pollutants and the bays become waste reservoirs.

"Clean water makes or breaks a recreational water area. No one doubts that economic fact. We are at the breaking point now. It will soon be too late to save extensive salt water recreational areas for our citizens. All the freshwater man-made lakes, now in use and on engineers drawing boards, cannot replace our coastal salt water attractions.

"About 70 percent of the dredging in coastal bays—from Galveston south—is financed by taxes which pay for public roads, structures and waterways. We destroy natural resources, which people use today and hope to have their children and grandchildren use, when instead we should be buying certain competitive materials at a slightly higher price today in order to conserve our natural resources for the use of future generations. And, the expense of controlling muddy dredge waste would be returned many times over in seafood products and clean water benefits to ourselves, and those who follow.

"After a few years the supply of reef shell will be exhausted at the rate the dredges are presently removing it. What happens to the economy when the shell is gone and in the taking the seafood and recreational assets have also been destroyed? This should be a challenging question for the industrial and economic leaders of the coastal section of Texas.

"There if a great need to know more about the location and quantity of mud shell reefs in San Antonio and Guadalupe Bays, in fact such posits of shell in all the bays is extremely important if we stop the depletion of bay resources. Only by making a complete survey can we develop the best use of what remains. There are industries which use shell which can not economically substitute other materials. With the known supply limited, it does seem that a factual survey would be made before the reefs are depleted, and these industries, which depend solely on the shell, are denied their materials.

"We believe that it is time now to learn more about the problems being created by uncontrolled dumping of waste products into the bays. We are satisfied that a strong umpire is needed and that he must have more facts than are now available.

"We urge that the applications to extend the areas permitted in these bays for dredging be denied until such time as the disposal of waste will be done in a manner which will prevent the silting of grassy nursery areas and exposed reefs, and that the mud now confined in the reefs be effectively confined to the trench and not be permitted to spread over the bays. Further we recommend, that the State raise to 35c the 15c charge now being made for shell."

The Republic of Liberia in Africa has a 370 mile coastline.

NATURE TRAILS

By
CONNIE HAGAR

June has come and gone and now we look for nature's next gifts to Rockport.

Birds that left our shores to nest on shell islands have returned, accompanied by their young, to FM 881 where Copano Bay crosses the highway during "wet spells."

You can see five to seven species of birds feeding at one time (tall tales from Texas), including terns, snowy egrets, common egrets, Louisiana herons, roseate spoonbills, little neck stilts and willets.

In other areas out of Texas, people hunt and walk miles to see such a collection and scarcely ever at one time do they see this.

If you find a young bird on the highway, please just put it out of the way of traffic. Its mother will find it and feed it better than we humans can. For all our knowledge, we don't improve God's way with nature.

Mesquite and huisache bloomed and honey collectors should be happy. To a connoisseur of honey, there is a choice but to the layman such as I, honey is honey.

Purple haw, bluewood and basil is abundant on our Coastal Bend and the redwood makes a lovely blue dye; hence one of its common names (bluewood). Blackbrush (legume family) is another honey-producing shrub. The blossoms are very fragrant. Catclaw is a common name for the shrub here.

And what did the rain do for the shells? Well, in our yards, land snails were very prevalent on youpon and other shrubs but not for long. Just look, look, look.

And what did we see when tropical storm Candy visited our area? Magnificent frigate birds known as man-o-wars and storm birds by our natives, all along our coastline toward Fulton and back on Highway 35.

No time to stop looking.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bright and daughters Julie and Joy returned home Thursday from a two-week vacation in Carlsbad, New Mexico, Colorado Springs and Denver, Colo. They also visited Mr. Bright's parents in Western Nebraska.

Plenty of Rooms Moderately Priced At HemisFair

There are plenty of good rooms at moderate prices available in San Antonio for HemisFair visitors, according to R. W. Colglazier, president of Visitor Services, Inc. Colglazier's organization in the World's Fair housing bureau which is responsible for assisting visitors in finding accommodations.

Despite receiving double the daily expected queries, Colglazier said VSI has been able to process all mail requests for information and housing in usually no more than a couple of work days. Mail has hit 4,000 pieces a day, indicating the great interest in the Fair. Those wishing to contact VSI should write to Visitor Services, Inc., P. O. Drawer H, San Antonio, Texas 78206, or call 226-4292, area code 512.

Fair visitors will find food prices both on the HemisFair grounds and in the city very reasonable. Some world's fairs in the last few years have been guilty of exorbitant costs for dining, but this is not true at San Antonio's World's Fair.

A world-wide variety of restaurant cuisine is there for the leisurely diner, but most folks find their way to the many air-conditioned outdoor "food clusters." Mixed in with hamburgers, (tacos, shishkabob and hot dogs are exotic counterparts from dozens of foreign countries. And desserts? Forget the calories and try the Swiss ice cream, delicacies, Danish pastries, Dutch fudge, Mexican bunuelos. All these food cluster taste treats are inexpensive. A dollar goes pretty far at these pick and choose food stands even when you add in a dessert. Everything can be eaten as you walk along.

Walking is only one of the convenient ways to get around what national magazines have called a "bite-size," "easily negotiated," "air conditioned," "relaxing and comfortable" world's fair. For variety, try the longest Mini-Mono-Rail ever constructed at a fair. Or for a breath-taking panoramic view of the Fair and downtown San Antonio take the Swiss skyride; then for a relaxing low-level view enjoy the Lagoon Boat Cruise or El Trenicito (The Little Train), both of which wind in and out of every nook and cranny of the 92.6 acres.

Perhaps the most popular pavilion at HemisFair is the Institute of Texas Cultures which utilizes the most modern exhibit techniques to trace the ethological history of the Lone Star State from prehistoric times to the present.

The Confidence Cosmos is a primary theme exhibit that attempts to place our dramatic leap into space into a meaningful human context as it shows the various faws in which man, through history, has experienced the universe.

One of the major cultural attractions of HemisFair '68 is Tesoros de Los Museos de Espana. Included among 14 rarely lent trasurers from Spain are masterpieces by Valasquez, Goya, El Greco and others. The collection is valued at more than 50 million dollars.

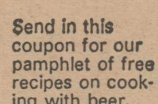

And entertainment? National travel writers have termed HerimFair talent tops. From the high-flying Voladores who perform without safety devices from a 114-foot pole to Laterna Magika and Kino-Automat (termed the best of Expo '67) you'll find spectacle, fun, color, shocks and surprises galore. There is something for everyone . . . Fiesta Island with tummy-tumbling rides for the kids, the naughty Puppets of Paris (Les Poupees de Parie) for the adults and the 622-foot Tower of the Americas, with its revolving restaurant and observation deck for the whole family.

A sparkling panorama of big-name performers will appear in the beautiful new 2800 seat Theater for the Performing Arts and the 10,000 seat Arena from now through September. Headliners include Allen and Rossi, The Bayanihan Philippine Dancers, Jimmy Dean, Wayne Newton, The Mills Brothers, Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus, Louis Armstrong, Henry Mancini and Roy Rogers, to name a few.

All in all there is so much to see and do that the average family should plan two to three days to see HemisFair '68. Even so you probably will want to plan a return visit before October. Then too, while in the Alamo City don't forget the old favorites such as La Villita, the River Walk, The Spanish Missions, Fiesta Noche del Rio at the outdoor Arneson River Theater and all the rest. For information, maps and brochures on these attractions and HemisFair stop by the new Chamber headquarters and City Tourist Information Center at 202 E. Commerce on the riverwalk across from the Fair grounds.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

A toplight fisherman, through experience gained by trial and error, can look at a stretch of water and be able to tell fairly accurately whether or not it will hold fish.

This is one reason why just a few fishermen catch most of the fish. They devote their time to working water where fish are likely to be.

Many casual fishermen spend much of their time fishing "dead" water where they stand no chance whatsoever of catching anything.

One of the best bass fishermen we know finds a likely stretch of shoreline and prospects along it for a few minutes, and if he hasn't had any action in that time, he hauls off to another spot. He keeps on continually and systematically trying different places until he pinpoints a concentration of fish.

A spot he tries in the morning, for instance, might be visited again in the afternoon. In bass fishing, things have a way of changing in a hurry.

Far too many fishermen, be they using artificial or natural baits, will stop at a certain spot and camp there for hours. This, whether they are catching anything or not. Any fisherman should be able to tell within a reasonable length of time, no more than 30 minutes whether a certain locale holds cooperative fish. If after this time he's had no action, he should move.

The typical fisherman stresses the mechanics of the sport. He reads everything he can get on the right tackle to use, the correct baits and how to manipulate them.

Even with his knowledge he'll catch nothing in dead water. On the other hand, just an average fisherman can take fish if he's at a spot where the fish are concentrated.

A skilled white bass fisherman of our acquaintance stresses the importance of first finding the fish. Every one thinks he has some magic, some secret strategy. Yet he does nothing than many other fishermen do except catch fish consistently.

One of his favorite lakes is Lake Buchanan in Central Texas. When he gets on Buchanan, he immediately devotes his time to locating the fish, realizing that they can move from day to day.

If gulls are working, he'll fish below them, reasoning that they are feeding on shad that white bass have pushed to the surface.

Should there be no bird activity, he'll try different spots where he's taken whites in the past. It is a simple strategy that will work on any lake.

He'll spend only about 15 minutes or so at one spot. After taking maybe 15 or 20 casts without action, he'll pull the anchor and try another spot. He firmly believes in the simple fact that in white bass fishing, like any kind of fishing, a person must first find the fish before he can catch them.

This is true of any species—black bass, white bass, crappies or catfish.

Fish are not distributed evenly throughout any impoundment. They are isolated in scattered pockets. So, the angler must first find a concentration before he can catch anything. It is as simple as that!
