Daniloff said freed by Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — American reporter Nicholas Daniloff was released by the Soviet Union today, signaling the apparent end of a month-long diplomatic showdown that had threatened to wreck superpower relations.

Daniloff, 51, longtime Moscow correspondent for U.S. News & World Report, told reporters at the airport he was leaving "more in sorrow than in anger." His wife, Ruth, said it felt "terrific" to be going home.

Daniloff, who had been accused of espionage by the Soviets, and his wife, Ruth, were escorted through a special customs channel by an agent for Lufthansa Airlines and headed for passport control. He was to arrive in Frankfurt later today.

Earlier, as he rode out of the U.S. Embassy compound in Moscow, Daniloff had flashed a victory "V" with his fingers as he rode out of the embassy grounds.

Daniloff has been living in the U.S. Embassy since Sept. 12, when he was released into Combs' custody after 13 days in Lefortovo Prison.

At the same time, U.S. officials released Gennadiy Zakharov, a Soviet U.N. employee who was arrested Aug. 23 on espionage charges in New York, into the custody of Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin.

U.S. officials asserted that Daniloff was arrested on trumped-up charges of espionage in retaliation for Zakharov's arrest. The Soviets denied a link between the cases and insisted that Zakharov was framed by the FBI.

There was no immediate announcement in the United States indicating that Zakharov would be released. The U.S. attorney's office in Brooklyn, N.Y., said there was no change in Zakharov's status.

Daniloff's Lufthansa flight was expected to land in Frankfurt at 8:30 p.m. local time (3:30 p.m. EDT).

"I was informed sometime this afternoon that I would be allowed to leave," Daniloff said at the airport. "My passport was returned by the Foreign Ministry with my multiple-entry visa and my press card, which is still valid.

"I want to say that I don't know the terms of the arrangement," Daniloff said. "As far as I know, I am leaving independently."

Although the White House had consistently ruled out a swap of Daniloff for Zakharov, U.S. and Soviet officials had discussed the case intensively for weeks.

The Soviet Union denied Daniloff was arrested to give the Kremlin bargaining leverage in the Zakharov case and insisted the American journalist was guilty of espionage.

Retirement rules altered by county

County commissioners unanimously upgraded benefits under the county's retirement program during regular session Monday.

Among changes under the new options offered by the Texas County and District Retirement System is a benefit which allows county employees to add length of service to their age. When the total reaches 80 years, county employees will be eligible for early retirement with full benefits.

For example, a 55-year-old employee with 25 years service would qualify.

Also, county workers may retire before reaching the 80 year total if they have already attained 30 years service.

The new options also lessen the number of years an employee must work before they are eligible to retire. Currently, a county staffer can retire at age 60 if he has been employed by the entity on a full-time basis for 12 years. The change lowers the requirement to 10 years.

Pct. 2 Commissioner Hassie Sneed noted that the retirement system serving Scurry County offers optional packages only as a county accumulates monies in the fund. The county entity receives packages of optional benefits "about every three or four years." Benefits included in the plan are usually adopted at the same time.

During Monday's session, Historic Scurry County Inc. members Roy Baze, Lois Bartels and Bob McCormick requested permission to place a fence around the Cornelius-Dodson House on the coliseum grounds.

Baze noted that at the time the Dodson House was moved from its original location on South College Avenue, approximately 175 ft. of the original fence was

TEXAS SESQUICENTENNIAL 1836-1986

Q. — What was Texas Governor Charles A. Culberson's claim to fame?

A. — Culberson, in 1895, called the legislature into special session in order to pass a law prohibiting prize-fighting in Texas. This was done in time to stop a much-heralded match opposed at the time by many church groups. For his effort, Culberson became known as "the young Christian governor."

Texas Sesquicentennial questions should be submitted to the staff of the Scurry County Library.

Senate debate looms

AUSTIN (AP) — A $869.2 million increase in sales and gasoline taxes was awaiting Senate action today, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the Legislature might adjourn its budget-balancing special session by mid-week.

"I think it's a good bill," Hobby said Sunday after a five-minute meeting in which the Senate formally received the tax bill from the House.

The House passed the tax bill Saturday, along with $582 million in spending cuts to help the state out of a $2.8 billion budget deficit brought on by the oil price drop.

A majority of senators had resisted deeper spending cuts and pushed for a tax hike since the Legislature's back-to-back special sessions began on Aug. 6.

The temporary tax package would raise the sales tax from 4⅛ percent to 5¼ percent, and add 5 cents to the 10-cent per-gallon gasoline tax. Both would take effect Jan. 1 and expire on Aug. 31.

The spending cut bill would eliminate nealy 2,000 state jobs and wipe out a 3 percent state employee pay raise scheduled for 1987.

Also approved by the House was a provision to allow counties and cities not now collecting a transit tax to add a half-penny to their local sales taxes.

At a session attended by only three senators, Hobby said the Senate Finance Committee would hold a hearing on the tax bill Monday.

Asked if he expected the special session that began Sept. 8 to wrap up Tuesday or Wednesday, he replied, "Something like that."

Hobby, who initially had sought a permanent tax increase to 5 cents to cure the state's money woes, said the temporary tax hike was the best this special session could do.

Soviet freed

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — An informed source at the United Nations said that Soviet diplomat Gennadiy Zakharov, charged with spying, would be freed today in a swap with American journalist Nicholas Daniloff who has left Moscow.

Daniloff boarded a flight for West Germany earlier in Moscow. He had been arrested by the KGB on Aug. 30, a week after Zakharov had been arrested by the FBI in New York.

The source said U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze agreed during a meeting in New York Sunday night that Daniloff and Zakharov would be freed today.

Early primary

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate today joined the House in approving legislation which backers said will give Texans more clout in choosing the 1988 presidential nominees.

Senators accepted House amendments and sent to Gov. Mark White a bill to move the Texas presidential primary from May to the second Tuesday in March, allowing the state to join in the southern "Super Tuesday" primary.

Rig count up

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of working oil rigs in the country rose for the fourth week in a row to 806, an increase of 42 from last week's 764, Hughes Tool Co. officials said.

Last year at this time, the count was 1,935, company officials said Monday. Last week the rig count increased by 25.

In July, the rig count hit an all-time low of 663, but was on an upswing before it dropped to 727 in late August, according to officials of the oil toolmaker, which has kept industry statistics since 1940.

More than 1,000 rigs have been idle since December, when oil prices began to decline, falling as low as $9 a barrel. Since Dec. 23, the rig count has dropped steadily from 1,995, officials said.

Fitness standards toughened

WASHINGTON (AP) — After nearly a year's warnings that they should get ready, the soldiers and officers of the Army must begin meeting new physical fitness standards on Wednesday.

While the new standards for the semi-annual fitness exams show little change for younger men, things are about to get tougher for the Army's women as well as men over age 40.

Last November, the chief of the Army's Individual Training Branch distributed an all-points directive, informing soldiers that the Army had decided its physical fitness standards weren't tough enough to encourage regular, year-round exercising.

"The new standards are reasonable, but will require soldiers to participate in regular exercise programs," wrote Lt. Col. Robert Tetu, the chief of the training branch.

"Under the old standards, many soldiers could pass the test without regular exercise. The Oct. 1, 1986, effective date was selected to provide adequate time to work up to, or exceed, the new standards."

It's too early to know whether the soldiers took the advance warning to heart. But some of the new standards do represent a significant toughening of the requirements.

Female soldiers, for example, will have to perform almost twice as many sit-ups as they do now to achieve a passing score. The new standards also will be applied to all members of the National Guard and Army Reserve.

Each of the nation's military services uses a different physical fitness test and scoring standards, with the Marine Corps' test considered the most difficult. In the one event that is common to both services — sit-ups — the new Army standard will match that of the Marines.

And unlike the Marines Corps, which makes its test voluntary for those over the age of 45, the Army is setting mandatory standards for all its soldiers up to the age of 60. Currently, soldiers over 40 must take the fitness test but need only pass a lower, "go-no-go" standard.

"Medical evidence shows that soldiers over 40 can physically stress themselves as much as they could when younger, as long as they are medically screened and healthy," Tetu said.

Attitudes, ignorance hurting U.S. attacks on terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bureaucratic infighting and the inability of American leaders and agencies to understand unconventional warfare is leaving the United States unprepared to deal with terrorism and guerrilla conflicts, a Pentagon study says.

"The pecular nature of low-intensity conflict, the diversity and murkiness of the individual and collective threats, the uncertainty as to our own role and purpose, and conflicting views and varied institutional interests create an atmosphere that encourages confusion and inaction at best, mistake and blunder at worst," said a report prepared over the last year by a joint team from the Army and Air Force.

"Many government departments and agencies of the United States fail to comprehend the nature" of low-intensity conflict, a term used to include terrorism and guerrilla warfare of the type being waged in Central America, the Mideast and the Philippines, the report said.

There are no plans to publicly release the document, although a copy was made available to The Associated Press.

Since it took office, the Reagan administration has quadrupled, from about $440 million to $1.6 billion, spending for special operations forces, including the Army's Green Berets and Navy's SEALs.

But critics say the special operations forces are scattered among the four services and resented by main-stream military officials who have no training in unconventional warfare. Proposals are pending on Capitol Hill to unify all the special forces within a single organizational umbrella.

However, the problem is larger than the organization of special operations forces, the Pentagon study said.

America's vast and powerful military machine was built to fight a nuclear war or a large-scale conventional war, particularly in western Europe, but was not structured to cope with the current situation, which the report notes is "neither war, nor peace."

"As a nation, we do not understand low-intensity conflict," the study said. "We respond without unity of effort, we execute our activities poorly, and we lack the ability to sustain operations."

"Short of war, we have no strategy or comprehensive plan to address the challenges of political violence," the study said.

Trial involves black victims

DALLAS (AP) — The capital murder trial of a 25-year-old state parolee charged with killing a prominent local civil rights leader and his wife is the first in Dallas County involving black victims, officials say.

Kenneth Dewayne Thomas, charged with two counts of capital murder in the deaths of Fred Finch Jr., 66, and his wife Mildred, 64, faces death by lethal injection if convicted in his trial that was scheduled to begin today.

State District Judge Ed Kinkeade, who will preside over the trial, said the case already has generated an unusual amount of community interest.

True confessions

Bruce Ferguson of Boise is considered to be the number one player in Idaho and several neighboring states. I admire the quality of his expertise because it is lacking in self-consciousness. Although he rarely makes a mistake, he's not embarrassed to talk about it if he does err. Cover the East and West hands of today's deal and see if you would do better than Bruce did as declarer.

Bruce, as South, had no real chance to investigate slam after East had jumped right to four hearts. Bruce thought he had settled in a safe five-diamond contract, but West sacrificed at five hearts. When North passed from fright, Bruce took that as willingness to play six, so he bid the slam. He ruffed the opening heart lead and played A-K-Q of diamonds. Declarer could now run the jack of clubs. When that won the trick, he next played a club to his queen. When West showed out on the second club, declarer had to go set a trick.

In retrospect, the right play is obvious. Since West might well hold a singleton club, declarer should play only the ace and king of diamonds, preserving the diamond queen as an entry to dummy. Then he should play a club to the queen. When that wins, a diamond to the queen draws the last trump, and now the jack of clubs from dummy successfully traps East's king. Declarer can shed two spades on the clubs, ruff one of his spade losers and make the contract.

Clerk who mistakenly shot teen likely to face grand jury

DALLAS (AP) — The case of a convenience store clerk who mistakenly shot and killed an 18-year-old high school student who was fleeing from a gunman probably will go before a grand jury, police said Sunday night.

"Each person makes his judgment in a case like this," homicide investigator Stan McNear said after the Saturday shooting. "It's unfortunate what happened. But when you have to make a split-second decision, you react. Someone else might have acted differently, but you don't know."

Edward Jackson, 18, of Dallas died of a single gunshot wound in the chest early Saturday, police said.

The clerk, David Holland, 21, was released after questioning, police said.

"What will happen, probably Tuesday, is that a prosecution report will be filed with the grand jury as a referral," homicide investigator J.J. Coughlin said Sunday. "They'll decided whether to file a murder charge or a lesser charge."

Holland could not be reached for comment Sunday night. Another employee at the Motion Convenience store in South Dallas where Holland works and where the shooting occurred said he wasn't there. The Associated Press was unable to find a residential telephone listing for him.

Another clerk working at the time said the employee had no choice.

"What would you do if someone ran into the store holding a pouch, and didn't say anything, just jumped the counter and ran towards you?" asked the clerk who would not give her name.

Police said Jackson and some friends were returning from a high school dance after midnight Friday when a car jumped the curb in an apparent attempt to run over one of the youths.

Jackson tossed a bottle at the car and a man inside the vehicle aimed a gun at him, police said.

But before the man could fire, a woman passenger knocked the weapon out of his hand, witnesses told police.

As the teen-agers ran off in different directions, the man retrieved the gun and fired three shots at Jackson who was running toward the convenience store, officers said.

Holland was counting money in an office at the back of the shop when he heard the commotion and gunfire. Police said he grabbed a .357-Magnum.

Jackson dashed into the store, vaulted the counter and was running down a short hallway toward the office when Holland fired two shots, officers said.

Witnesses said the gunman entered the store soon after Jackson and fired two shots, but no one was injured. The gunman fled with at least four people in the car, according to witnesses.

Two of Jackson's friends said the youth ran into the store with his hands in the air and yelling for help.

Lady Tigers lose 2-4A match; take on Lake View Tuesday

MONAHANS – Snyder's Lady Tigers suffered a couple of tough losses to the Loboettes of Monahans in volleyball play here Saturday afternoon.

The first was a 15-12, 11-15, 15-13 defeat to the Loboettes, which leaves Snyder 3-4 in District 2-4A competition. The second was an injury to Melody Pickering, which will leave the sophomore out for at least two weeks.

"Melody sprained her ankle in the first game and was out for the rest of the match. She'll be out at least two weeks, and could be out for the rest of the season," said Coach Vicki Nelms.

"It took us time to adjust to the fact that she was out. We had some kids who came in and played extremely well for us. Paula Caldwell came in on the front row and did a great job and Julie Williams also played and did an excellent job," said Nelms.

Snyder has also yet to recover from illness, which has made its way through the squad. Donna Clay, one of those hit with an illness, "played, but didn't play like she was capable of because she just felt terrible out there," said the coach.

In the end, however, the match came down to mis-serves by the Tigers.

"It was a disappointing loss in the fact that we beat ourselves because we couldn't serve. We had eight mis-serves," Nelms pointed out. "In the final game, with the score 13-13, we missed two serves in a row. The kids tried real hard to win but the thing that killed us was our serving."

Serving for points for Snyder were Clay, Shondra Robinson and Allison Adams with 10 each, Sharnette Thompson with 4 and Leslie Ward and Tammy Williamson with 3 apiece.

One player who Nelms cited as playing especially well was Adams.

"She's been our most consistent player all season and she was consistent again Saturday," said the coach.

The situation doesn't get any easier for Snyder, now 13-10 on the season, which must travel to San Angelo to play a strong Lake View team at 7:30 p.m. Tuesay.

"We know it will be very, very tough for us to win but the kids haven't given up," stressed the coach. "They are still out to prove that we are capable of being up there with the best teams in the district."

Monahans tops Tiger junior varsity bunch

MONAHANS – Snyder junior varsity lost to Monahans, 15-13, 10-15, 15-10 here Saturday afternoon.

The loss leaves the Tiger JV at 15-6 as they prepare to play Lake View in San Angelo, at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"We underestimated them, I think," said Coach Patty Grimmett. "They had one real good hitter and we had trouble with our defense and we had a lot of mis-serves. Our front line play was good, though."

Scoring on serves for Snyder were Sandra Morin 14, Christy Greene 10, Rhonda Echols 4, Kelly Walker 3, and LaFon Williams, Jennifer Alarcon and Holly Fuller 2 each.

Freshmen crack MHS

MONAHANS -- Snyder freshman volleyball team defeated Monahans in a tough match here Saturday, 15-6, 11-15, 15-8.

The Cats, 8-2 now, are idle this Tuesday but will entertain Fort Stockton on Saturday at 12:30 p.m. in the Snyder High School Gym.

Scoring on serves for Snyder last Saturday were Trina Brown with 12, Jennifer Pate with 10, Cindy Srna, Melissa Madrid and Annette Ramos with 5 each, and Shelly Tomlin and Teena Braziel with 2 each.

Also playing for the Cats were Amber Adams, Anne Osborn, Kathy Armstrong, Kim White, Teri Lawdermilk, Jennifer Spence, Veronica Rivas and Diana Espinosa.

"The girls all played and we played pretty well. It was a good win for us," said Coach Jan Kruse.

SHS Tigers split in tennis action

BIG SPRING – Snyder tennis team defeated Big Spring but lost narrowly to Monahans in District 2-4A action here Saturday.

The girls led the way as Snyder swatted Big Spring, 13-5. Snyder girls won all nine of their matches with the Steers.

Snyder couldn't overcome a strong Monahans squad, however, and fell 11-7.

"At one time Monahans was ahead 8-7 and there were three matches to be played. We lost one of them 7-6 in the third set and then another in the third set, too. We had four split sets with Monahans and lost all four. So we had our chances, we just couldn't get the job done," said Snyder Coach Charlie Chrane.

Shawna Chrane, Deone Farmer and Lori McFarland won all of their matches Saturday. Chrane defeated Big Spring's Angie Wilson, 7-6, 6-1, then teamed with Michelle Osborn to take out Wilson and Amber Logback in doubles, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3. She also tripped Monahans' Tracey Lear, 6-3, 6-4, and joined Osborn again to defeat Lear and April Meeks, 7-6, 6-4.

Farmer and McFarland played as doubles partners and defeated Lara Cunningham and Stacey Parks of Big Spring, 6-4, 6-1 and Lisa Breeding and Vicki Krhut of Monahans, 7-6, 7-1.

Farmer also topped Cunningham and Meeks in singles play while McFarland knocked off Logback and Breeding.

"We've lost three (team) matches and won two so far this season and the ones we lost were by scores of 10-8, 10-8 and 11-7. We've played close, and for the most part, played well this season. We've just come up short," noted Coach Chrane.

The Tigers play hosts for their final three district matches. They entertain Lamesa and Pecos on Saturday, and San Angelo Lake View on Tuesday, Oct. 7.

Local matches are held at the junior high courts and spectators are welcome. Snyder will play Lamesa at 8:30 a.m. and Pecos at 3 p.m.

Boston clinches AL East title

by The Associated Press

It's official.

The Boston Red Sox will meet the California Angels in the American League playoffs beginning Oct. 7, kicking off the postscript to baseball's most lopsided season since 1969.

Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd went the distance Sunday as the Red Sox clinched the AL East, which they have led since May 15, with a 12-3 victory over the second-place Toronto Blue Jays. Wade Boggs got his 200th hit and drove in three runs, and Marty Barrett had four RBI for Boston.

The Red Sox were reserved in their postgame celebration, already recognizing the task at hand.

"The magic factor is involved," Boggs said. "You can't explain it. If the magic is still there, we'll win it all."

"We're a long ways away from where we want to be," Dwight Evans said.

"Now, it's on to bigger things," Manager John McNamara said.

In other games, Texas defeated California 4-3, New York downed Detroit 10-2, Kansas City beat Oakland 6-2, Minnesota defeated Chicago 6-1, Milwaukee beat Baltimore 10-2 and Cleveland defeated Seattle 5-4 in 12 innings.

The AL East was the last of the major league's four divisions to be settled and marked the earliest date since division play began in 1969 that all races were decided. The division title was Boston's first since 1975, when the Red Sox went on to lose a seven-game World Series to the Cincinnati Reds.

Going 1-for-3, Boggs became the first Boston player to get 200 hits in four consecutive seasons. His league-leading batting average dipped one point to .352, two percentage points ahead of Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees.

Rangers 4, Angels 3

Rookie Pete Incaviglia hit a grand slam in the seventh inning off Mike Witt as Texas rallied over California and clinched second place in the West. Incaviglia had gone 0-for-25 before the homer.

Witt pitched five hitless innings and took a one-hit shutout and 1-0 lead into the seventh.

HAS THIS EVER HAPPENED TO YOU?

Auto Accident?

Even a minor fender-bender can cause whiplash, spinal misalignment, pinched nerves, and muscle spasms, which, if undetected and uncorrected, can make your body susceptible to arthritis, joint degeneration, disc degeneration or other serious problems.

Most Insurance Plans Cover Chiropractic.

Following any auto accident, no matter how minor, it is important — and makes good common sense — to get a chiropractic checkup.

We offer free consultation and spinal function test. If x-rays and treatment are indicated, automobile, liability, no-fault, and/or group health insurance usually cover the costs in full.

Pets bring smiles to patients

"You won't get any response from him," said Betty Willis, activities director at Jarvis Heights Nursing Center in Fort Worth. At her side was Arlington pet therapist Jenny Hyatt.

"He doesn't move," Ms. Willis continued.

"How are you today Robert?" Ms. Hyatt asked, smiling, her gaze penetrating the man's eyes.

He returned her stare.

"Would you like to pet Lady?" Ms. Hyatt asked, bringing the dog closer to the man's hand.

His fingers quivered, lifting slightly from the bedcovers, but still inches from Lady's fur.

The man smiled.

"I was amazed," Ms. Willis admitted. "Robert (Muller) has a degenerative muscle disorder and is never going to get better. The nurses told me ... the only response I could hope to get was him blinking his eyes — once for yes, twice for no."

Ms. Hyatt and Lady proved them wrong.

"We're not trying to rehabilitate him," Ms. Hyatt said. "But at least ... we can motivate him to do something besides sit and mold."

It's called pet therapy and, according to the few who are practicing it in Fort Worth-Dallas, it works. Combine an animal with a person-in-need and the results are often dramatic.

"We got several patients who did not consistently respond to anything ... to look at Dusty's tail or Dusty's nose," said Shari Bernard, occupational therapist at Baylor Institute for Rehabilitation in Dallas.

Dusty is Ms. Bernard's Shetland sheepdog. He has spent the last two years visiting local nursing homes and, much because of his owner's campaigning, will begin work with unresponsive patients at Baylor next month, Ms. Bernard said.

"What we want to do is have patients (who respond to nothing else) to consistently respond to something," Ms. Bernard explained. "It gives the therapist a better idea of how to work with that patient."

Baylor is the first medical facility in the Fort Worth-Dallas area to use pet therapy, Ms. Bernard said. If results are as good as anticipated, a second pet therapist and animal may be added to the program, she said.

"Some patients respond quite well to this type of therapy, especially those who owned pets prior to their injury," said W.L. Parker, Baylor's medical director.

"This type of therapy can help to further other areas of rehabilitation."

Pet therapy works, Ms. Bernard and Hyatt said, because people are able to identify: Touching Lady or Dusty brings back memories of the dog they had as a child.

"They remember," Ms. Hyatt said. "And they smile."

Ms. Bernard and Ms. Hyatt want to increase those smiles. Together they have formed Paws Across Texas, the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex Chapter of Therapy Dogs International.

Now they want to train others to do what they have done — and more.

Germans return home to changes

KISHINEV, U.S.S.R. (AP) — For 46 German emigres from this land once known as Bessarabia, a long-awaited return to the hamlets of their youth has brought both bitter disappointment and peace of mind.

"I didn't find it like I had it in my dream," said Alois Kopp, a retired mechanic from Ander, West Germany, after a visit to the Bessarabian village of Ammantal earlier this month.

"We are happy we came here because we have more freedom in the backs of our minds," Kopp said. "We are now free from the homesickness and free from the dreams."

Bessarabia is part of Moldavia, a fertile agricultural region on the northern end of the Black Sea. The area was under Romanian rule from 1918 to 1940 when it was annexed by the Soviet Union.

Thousands of Germans had lived in farming enclaves in Bessarabia since the mid-18th century when their ancestors were lured there with promises of land by Catherine the Great of Russia, who wanted to expand her empire.

When the Soviet Union took possession of Moldavia, the Germans were given the choice of staying or going to Nazi Germany. The option was one of the stipulations included in the Hitler-Stalin nonagression pact of 1939.

Berry's World

"No doubt about it — these flight delays ARE getting worse."

Reconnaissance fliers reminisce at reunion

AUSTIN (AP) — For five reconnaissance fliers, the most remembered and celebrated mission is still the one at Mount Belvedere.

There, after surveying the area, "the mountain infantry scaled it overnight and popped over and surprised the Germans," said Ray Darnell, one of those attending the weekend reunion here.

With Mount Belvedere taken, the war hastened toward an end. The men had left for Europe on Christmas Day 1944 and returned in August 1945.

Five of the nine-member "eyes of the artillery" in Italy during World War II gathered in their first reunion since serving together 42 years ago.

The men, who trained at Camp Swift near Bastrop, swapped memories and visited old hangouts.

"Some of the ranchers and farmers will remember us because we used to drop in for breakfast, and buzzed their farms and ranches," said John Cosby, 65, of Ft. worth.

John Pitre, 64, of Los Altos, Calif., met his wife, Jan, at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel and they honeymooned there after the war.

"The Stephen F. Austin was the hangout when we were here in 1944," said Darnell, 68, of Austin. "The ballroom was known as the Passion Room. It's where local belles met soldier boys."

The nine-member team flew reconnaissance for the 10th Mountain Division.

LTV Corporation president resigns

DALLAS (AP) — The president and chief operating officer of LTV Corp. resigned to become president and chief executive officer of a New Jersey-based aerospace electronics firm.

Robert L. Kirk resigned Sunday but his resignation, effective Oct. 31, was not related to LTV's July filing for protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, said Chuck Palmer, director of corporate communications.

LTV also announced Sunday it is restructuring LTV Aerospace and Defense Co., the second largest employer in the city.

"Kirk was one of the most sought after executives in the country," Palmer said.

Kirk will join the Allied-Signal Aerospace Electronics Co., Palmer said.

Domingo Sarmiento, president of Argentina from 1868 to 1874, imported 64 American schoolteachers to help him found his nation's public-school system, says National Geographic.

Firemen attend special training

Last week 91 people were trained at the Warren Petroleum North Snyder Gas Processing Plant. This number includes 83 Chevron employees from the Snyder plant, SACROC, Chevron Pipeline, Crane, Fort Stockton, and Eunice, N. M., and eight local firemen.

Instruction was given on the use of water streams to fight petroleum fires, use of mobile fire fighting equipment called the Fire Boss and hand held dry powder extinguishers.

The personnel were also recertified in hydrogen sulfide safety and use of self contained breathing, monitor and rescue.

Kenny Wood of Warren Petroleum North Snyder Plant, Bobby Burnett and John Pilgrim of SACROC served as instructors.

Female is not creating problems for Aggie band

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — It took years of court battles to get women in the Texas A&M University band. Now members are wondering what all the fuss was about in the first place.

Last fall marked the first time women were allowed to join the ranks of the 259-member Fightin' Aggie Band, a division of the student Corps of Cadets that prides itself on music, fraternity, precision marching and military decorum.

The idea didn't sit will at first for the previous all-male organization and alumni, but now "anyone who can make it is one of us," says Eric Smith, band commander.

The 1986 freshmen band class — called fish — numbers about 100, Smith said.

Military might can't be used in drug war

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, labeling as "absurd" the House's demand that the military intercept all drug shipments from abroad, said the only way to search every aircraft crossing U.S. borders would be to start shooting them down.

Weinberger says the military already is "doing a very great deal," to fight drugs, including sharing intelligence data with law enforcement agencies and providing logistical help to other nations for drug raids, as was the case recently in Bolivia.

But Weinberger, interviewed Sunday on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," noted that 76,000 airplanes cross the U.S. borders every day, and, "We haven't yet discovered the means to know what's inside each one of them."

To meet the mandate of the House bill, which would require the military to seal U.S. borders against smugglers, "We'd have to start shooting planes down," he said. "I don't think you want your military out acting like local police. I don't."

The House anti-drug bill also establishes the death penalty in major drug sales cases.

The Senate, in a rare weekend session necessitated by a heavy legislative crush as Congress prepares to adjourn for the year, put final touches on its own version of the bill early Sunday.

But the senators backed off from the sealed-border approach and the death penalty provision the House had approved. Final passage of the bill was put off, and the Senate expects to return to the $1.4 billion measure Tuesday.

Senate passage would send the bill to a House-Senate conference committee to reconcile the differences between the two versions. That panel will try to work quickly so both chambers can pass the same bill and send it to President Reagan before Friday's scheduled adjournment.

The death-penalty provision was withdrawn from the bill even after a majority of the Senate effectively voted for it, and only 14 senators supported expanded use of the military.

The Democratic-controlled House approved the imposition of the death penalty for persons convicted of large-scale drug sales. A similar amendment to the Senate version was offered by Sen. Mack Mattingly, R-Ga., who called it a good way to deal with "murderous drug kingpins."

An attempt to kill Mattingly's amendment was voted down, 60-25, thereby leaving the provision in the bill, but after winning that key test Mattingly withdrew it for fear death penalty opponents would filibuster final Senate action on the bill.

Price of grain will be pegged lower

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Agriculture Committee members, on a visit to Canada to meet farmers and farm officials there, were chatting before a meeting in Winnipeg when one of their hosts made a blunt remark.

"He said flat out that, whatever your grain prices are, we're going to peg ours right under what yours are," Rep. Lane Evans, D-Ill., recalls of the session during the trip to Canada last year.

Since then, Evans says, he has seen nothing to suggest the Canadian's comment was anything but right on the money.

America's agricultural export problems are striking hard at the western Illinois district that Evans has represented for the past four years.

The outlying counties of the district contain some of the richest farmland on the North American continent.

The population center, in Rock Island County along the Mississippi River, could be described as the heart of the nation's agricultural implement industry. Farm equipment manufacturing began there more than a century ago.

Today it contains the headquarters of Deere & Co., one of the world's top agricultural implement makers.

It is a place where farming and manufacturing come together.

"We bring in rubber, we bring in steel, we bring in glass, so there's really a ripple effect," Evans says.

The agricultural implement industry has seen a stunning sales drop of 40 percent over the last year. Deere, whose management has won plaudits as one of the nation's most efficient, has fared better than the industry average. But that is small consolation.

American exports of food and manufactured goods alike are being undercut by products from overseas, with the resulting layoffs falling on both blue-and white-collar workers at Deere and other companies. And the pinch is extending to numerous farmers who in better times would buy their products.

And an array of would-be remedies has surfaced, most of them blueprints for reshaping the five-year farm program that Congress approved last year.

One of the hottest ideas is extension of the marketing-loan concept, already helpful in spurring cotton and rice sales, to wheat, corn and other commodities. Under such a system, farmers would repay government price-support loans at less than their face value, in most cases the world-market price.

The plan is calculated to give a boost to exports by lowering the price of American farm products while assuring farmers of income.

It came in for distain last week, however, from Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng who, on arriving back in Washington from the 92-nation trade meeting in Punta del Este, Uruguay, told reporters the measure was unlikely to pass before the election.

Indeed, Lyng said, the chief reason it is under discussion is "because the election is coming up before the farm program has time to work."

Not content with that, Lyng painted a picture of calculating foreign purchasers keeping a tight rein on their pursestrings in hope that if they just wait a little longer a marketing loan program will drive down prices.

"The constant talk about marketing loans has been an impediment to export sales," Lyng said. He added, however, that sales are "probably up now."

"It will pick up even better when the Congress goes home," he added.

The comment seemed almost calculated to be painted as cavalier by congressional Democrats eyeing seats in the Farm Belt in November.

"I would respond that people are talking about a change in the farm programs because we have a disaster on our hands," Evans says.

New heat pumps availabe in Snyder

There's something new in this area. "As far as we know, it's a first in our area," says Vernon Rannefeld, owner of Snyder Heating and Air Conditioning. It's called a water source heat pump.

There are three types of heat pump installations: 1) air to air; 2) water source, and; 3) earth temperature or earth coupled. Air to air is the oldest type. It absorbs heat from outside air in the winter and removes heat into the outside air in the summer. The relative disadvantage of this type system is that the colder it gets outside, the less heat can be picked up in winter and the opposite in summer.

The water source heat pump has for years been the most efficient and thus the most economical to operate. Using ground water to absorb or remove heat, depending on the need, is a much more constant temperature to deal with. A water well is perfect for this type of system. A closed loop is used to provide no possible hazzard to the environment.

The third type of system is called the earth temperature or earth coupled system. This water source heat pump may be used when a water well is unavailable or impractical. It uses a closed loop system also, but in a horizontal manner, buried six feet deep out around a residence in order to achieve the same water source effect without having to put in a water well.

Advantages of water source heat pumps are: 1) energy savings of 30-50 percent over five to seven-year-old heating and air conditioning equipment; 2) no outdoor equipment, corrosion, dirt, vandalism, theft or freeze-up problems; 3) longer service life; 4) no equipment to hide in the landscape (everything is indoors).

Jack Greene, owner of Jack's Roadboring, is the local recipient of the new system, built by Florida Heat Pump, a company that specializes in water source heat pumps. The system was supplied to Snyder Heating and Air Conditioning by Comfort Supply of Lubbock.

Greene's company did all the ditching required to install the water circulating lines as well as run all the plastic pipe.

Call Vernon Rannefeld at 573-1753 for a free consultation about the new earth coupled water source heat pump system.

Book reveals Nixons' courtship

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon pursued his wife, Pat, with love letters, nightclub Tangos and a diamond ring hidden in a May basket, according to a book by their daughter Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Mrs. Eisenhower's biography "Pat Nixon: The Untold Story" also tells how her mother held hands with the president at the White House when she thought no one was watching.

According to Ralph Waldo Emerson, "The grandest homage we can pay to truth is to use it."

Elderly reps session underway in Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — A total of 116 senior citizens gathered at the Capitol today to kick off the state's first Silver-Haired Legislature, a body created to champion causes that benefit older Texans.

Members of the Silver-Haired Legislature were elected in balloting earlier this year in 28 districts statewide. All members are required to be at least 60 years old.

The group was organized to carry the concerns of the elderly to state lawmakers for consideration during the regular Legislature, which meets in January for its 140-day session.

In announcing the new forum, Gov. Mark White earlier said the organization means that "senior Texans will now have the opportunity to establish legislative priorities for Texas lawmakers to consider."

During their session, which runs from Monday through Thursday, members of the Silver-Haired Legislature will identify issues of importance to senior citizens and then draft bills that would address those topics, said Paula Johnson, a spokeswoman for the organization.

The bills proposed by the Silver-Haired Legislature will be presented to the 1987 regular Legislature and the governor for consideration as possible new laws.

Ms. Johnson said 22 other states already have some form of senior citizen legislature.

In those states, she said, about 70 percent of the bills proposed by the senior delegates have been passed into law.

Texas legislators, who authorized the Silver-Haired Legislature in 1985, said they supported the concept because it will permit elderly rights advocates to unite and agree upon a common legislative agenda.

The non-partisan body receives no state money. Training activities and other expenses have been paid for mainly by private donors and members of the Silver-Haired Legislature, officials said.

White said the body was created to meet a legitimate need.

"For too many years, there was no forum for senior Texans to discuss issues that concern them and no avenue in which to present their concerns to the regular Legislature," the governor said.

He also called this first group impressive, noting that its membership includes a former state representative, two retired judges and three retired educators.

Major bills are unpassed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year's worth of decisions are packed into the final days of the 99th Congress, as lawmakers and the White House butt horns this week on a spending program for the new fiscal year which begins Wednesday.

Congress had planned for this to be its final week, but major disagreements on Capitol Hill and with the White House need to be settled on domestic programs and foreign policy, particularly regarding sanctions against South Africa.

President Reagan says Congress must cut domestic programs in favor of the military and not burden the president with arms control restrictions, or face a veto of the major spending package for fiscal 1987.

The Republican-led Senate takes up its $556 billion version of the record spending package today, a version the White House says is far preferable to the $562 billion bill approved in the Democratic-controlled House last week.

But dozens of amendments are expected on the Senate floor, and there's little hope of producing a House-Senate compromise in time, never mind one Reagan will sign. As a result, Congress is expected to approve a barebones, stop-gap measure to keep government offices open until a final plan is enacted.

The spending bill is the largest ever because Congress hasn't approved any of the 13 normally separate appropriations bills, which authorize spending for federal agencies. Without that authorization, agencies across the government would be forced to close.

Reagan has said he's ready to lock the government doors rather than sign a bill he doesn't like.

Reagan's vetoes usually are sustained, but that's not expected to be the case this week when Congress takes up the question of overriding his veto of a bill imposing sanctions on South Africa.

The House, which approved sanctions 308-77, might vote on a veto override as early as Tuesday, with the Senate, which originally approved the measure 84-14, following suit on Wednesday.

Both margins are far beyond the two-thirds vote needed in each chamber to override Reagan's veto and enact the measure into law.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes conceded it will be "very difficult" for Reagan to win the veto fight.

Two other major financial bills are awaiting final action, making it even more unlikely Congress will adjourn as planned on Friday.

New Orleans fell to Union forces in 1862 during the Civil War.

Thefts noted at rent house

Police are investigating a misdemeanor theft involving local rental property reported Sunday afternoon.

At 12:33 p.m., Linda McMinn of Big Spring reported the theft of curtains, curtain rods and two gas space heaters from a rent house she owns at 405 31st St.

Estimated value for the missing property was $300 to $400. The items are thought to have been taken from the house sometime between March and August of this year.

In other weekend action, police jailed two suspects for public intoxication Saturday evening.

Three-vehicle wreck Satuday

The intersection of East Highway and Ave. A was the scene of a three-vehicle traffic accident Saturday afternoon.

Involved in the 2:47 p.m. mishap were a 1985 Dodge driven by Justin Chad Pinkerton of 402 29th St., a 1983 Nissan driven by James Matthew Woodruff of Colorado Springs, Colo., and a 1983 Pontiac driven by Roy Lee Kidd Jr. of 3007 40th St.

Also listed as damaged in the mishap was a Texas Highway Department stop sign.

A passenger in the Woodruff vehicle reportedly suffered minor injuries in the mishap but did not require medical treatment.

In 1813, a force of 1,800 Americans landed at York, now Toronto, sacked the town and burned the parliament buildings.

Landmark tax overhaul bill set for Reagan's signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — A few clerical details are all that stand in the way of President Reagan's signing a major tax overhaul, a plan aimed chiefly at increasing the fairness of the federal income tax.

Reagan said the bill, on which the Senate completed congressional action Saturday, will give Americans "a tax code they can be proud of." The president added he is looking forward to signing the measure, which has been at the top of his second-term agenda.

But before he gets a chance to add his signature, Congress must complete action on a 76-page resolution correcting typographical and other errors in the bill. A Senate vote on the resolution was delayed because some senators were upset that the House added some substantive changes, which amend the tax bill itself.

Sponsors expect to work out those problems before Congress' targeted adjournment date of Friday. Then, the 985-page bill will be shipped to the White House for what is expected to be a full-blown signing ceremony in the Rose Garden.

The Senate passed the bill by a 74-23 margin, and Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., a chief author, said fairness is its major element.

Although some lawmakers complained that the rich would get too much and some middle-income people too little, the bill generally was given high marks for fairness.

On a second major goal, simplification, a grade of "D" might be in order. The bill severely complicates the tax affairs of corporations and provides little simplification for middle-income itemizers. However, it provides the ultimate in simplification for 6 million working poor, by taking them off the tax rolls, and makes it unprofitable for an estimated 13 million taxpayers to continue itemizing.

The third goal, economic growth, is a big question mark. Not even its most vocal supporters would offer assurance that it will not slow the economy, at least in the short run.

"In the name of lower tax rates we are creating an economy which is less productive, an industrial plant which is aging, and we are creating a lower standard of living for the American people," said Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo.

"The bill is radical," Packwood argued, "but the effect is going to be gradual."

Concerns for the economy were raised because the bill would repeal the investment tax credit, a major job-creating incentive for most of the last two decades, and shift $120 billion in taxes from individuals to corporations over the next five years.

The bill would slash individual and corporate rates; in 1988 the top individual rate would drop to 33 percent, the 46 percent maximum corporate rate would fall to 34 percent. Personal exemptions would go up to $2,000; standard deductions would increase significantly.

Several deductions and exclusions would be reduced or eliminated, including those for sales taxes, consumer credit, medical expenses, union dues, capital gains and the special writeoff for two-earner couples. And although millions of middle- and upper-income people will lose deductions for Individual Retirement Accounts, workers generally will find they are guaranteed company pensions after a shorter time on the job than under present law.

Individual taxes will be cut by an average of 6.1 percent by 1988 when most provisions will be in effect. But 20.4 million couples and individuals will pay more; their lower rates will not make up for the loss of deductions.

Under the bill, a four-member family could earn $13,000 and a single person could make $5,000 a year before having to pay any federal income tax.

One of the reasons the bill is praised for fairness is that thousands of wealthy investors and profitable corporations that have been able to avoid taxes will be required to pay.

salvaged. The original decorative iron is currently being restored. Another 205 feet of new fence will be purchased from the original manufacturer — Stewart Iron Works of Cincinnati, now Stewart Manufacturing Co. of Covington, Ky.

The project will cost approximately $9,641 including installation. Baze noted that historical commission members are securing the necessary funds.

Also Monday, commissioners were expected to release just over $11,560 accumulated in the County Available School Fund to the county's three school districts. Monies will be prorated to Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira ISDs according to average daily attendance.

Listing an average attendance of over 3,588 students, Snyder ISD will receive the largest portion of the funds at almost $10,693. Ira ISD will receive almost $498 for an average attendance of about 167 students. Hermleigh's average of almost 118 students will give the district some $351. Some $18 will carry over to next year.

Although not listed as an agenda item, court members also appointed Gwen Sealy to replace LaVerne Lee as election judge for Voting Box 18 at the National Guard Armory for the upcoming November election.

DEAR READERS: Once upon a time there was a young father named Patrick Connolly, who suffered from a conflict many busy parents face. He left for work before his children woke up and frequently got home after they had gone to bed. His sons were 8 and 10 when he started to leave little notes for his sleeping children, offering advice, encouragement and loving messages to let them know that he was thinking of them. He even illustrated some notes with a cast of characters that included every member of the family plus the family dog. These notes were varied, from little poems, riddles, wholesome bits of philosophy to simple reminders — "I love you, guys."

One note offered this helpful bit of advice: "Be fair and friendly and friends will come. The important thing is not how many friends you have, but what kind of friends."

Another reads: "It's a new day. God gives us new days so we can continue with our successes, or start over if we goofed yesterday." Each note was signed, "Love, Dad."

Two years ago, the Connolly boys received their last daily note from their dad. At the age of 41, Connolly died suddenly of a massive heart attack. After his death, his family looked through the priceless collection of notes that Mrs. Connolly had saved in a shoe box and selected the most meaningful to publish as a book.

The result is "Love, Dad," the best of these daily notes written by a busy but loving father who had found a wonderful way to communicate with his children. This little jewel of a book is filled with common-sense messages that will ring a bell with all parents who want their children to grow up to be decent, honest and hardworking. It's written with a sense of humor, yet contains some important moral lessons without being preachy. It touched my heart, and I think it will touch yours.

If your bookstore does not have "Love, Dad" by Patrick Connolly, order it from the publisher: Andrews, McMeel and Parker, P.O. Box 419150, Kansas City, Mo. 64141. It's in paperback and costs $5.95 plus $1 for postage.

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from the reader signed "Hearing Things in York, S.C.," I recalled that some years ago there was an article in the medicine section of Time magazine on the subject of medical detective work.

One of the examples cited involved a man who went to a psychiatrist complaining that he was always hearing radio broadcasts. Thinking to humor him, the psychiatrist asked what he was hearing right then. The man replied he was hearing Rudy Vallee broadcasting from the Steel Pier in Atlantic City. The psychiatrist turned on his office radio and, sure enough, he heard Rudy Vallee! He became so intrigued that he conducted an extensive project with his patient.

After much questioning he discovered that the man worked in a glass bottle factory and had gotten some silica crystals in dental cavities. The combination of the silica, saliva and some bridgework in his mouth had literally transformed him into a walking crystal radio receiver!

The psychiatrist referred the patient to a dentist who gave his teeth a thorough cleaning, filled the cavities and redid the bridgework. As a result, the patient "went off the air," was able to concentrate, and lived happily ever after. Hope this helps your reader.

DEAR MR. HOLLAND: Thank you for a fascinating letter.

Now, does anyone doubt that truth is stranger than fiction?

Finding cause of memory loss

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband has had two episodes of short-term memory loss in the last four months. His blood tests were all normal. He's 65 and appears to be in good health. What could be causing this?

DEAR READER — Transient short-term memory loss might be difficult to diagnose in a healthy 65-year-old man. It can be caused by many problems, including nerve diseases, small blood clots, arterial spasm, heartbeat abnormalities and brain disorders, such as Alzheimer's disease. Your husband needs a meticulous neurological examination, which may include a CT scan and other tests, to determine why he has had difficulty. In many cases, once the cause is identified, treatment can prevent long-term memory loss and other consequences of brain dysfunction.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What are the best exercises to keep bone loss (osteoporosis) to a minimum?

DEAR READER — Almost any type of exercise will help slow down the process of bone loss. For those patients who are unable to participate in active organized sports, swimming and walking are quite satisfactory.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had cosmetic surgery on my eyes eight months ago and have had really bad daily headaches ever since. My doctor says the surgery has nothing to do with it, but his nurse said he could have touched my sinuses, causing them to swell up. What do you think?

DEAR READER — I agree with your doctor that uncomplicated cosmetic eye surgery is unlikely to cause headache. Because headache is a symptom of so many ailments, I suggest that you ask your family doctor to perform a medical evaluation. You also might ask the surgeon who operated on your eyes if there was some unexpected complication that could explain why you have headaches after an apparently routine operation.

DEAR DR. GOTT — This summer we lost our very healthy son, at age 34, to Legionnaires' Disease. What can you tell us about this disease?

DEAR READER — Legionnaires' Disease is a form of pneumonia that begins as an influenza-like illness and progresses to lung infection. It sometimes causes sharp chest pains (pleurisy) and diarrhea. The causative bacteria, legionella pneumophila, are usually killed by antibiotics; nonetheless, the death rate is surprisingly high and may reach 20 percent in some epidemics.

When Legionnaires' Disease was first discovered several years ago, epidemiological experts blamed contaminated air-conditioning towers for the infection. No person-to-person contact has been reported; that is, Legionnaires' Disease appears not to be spread from one person to another.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING HOMES, offers a step-by-step guide to rating facilities and finding the best care available. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Alleged baby-selling trial to begin

DALLAS (AP) — The trial of a lawyer accused of buying and selling babies in an illegal adoption scheme is set to begin this week in state district court.

Robert I. Kingsley, 61, was arrested July 16, 1985, during a police raid of the office where he practices family law. Officials said more than 20 of his adoptions were investigated.

Clinic's services misleading

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The state attorney general's office claims an anti-abortion center is violating deceptive trade laws by misleading women about what the clinic does.

If the Pregnancy Problem Center continues to disguise its true intentions, the state says that it will seek to close it.

Inside the clinic, women seeking information on abortions are instead shown graphic films of abortions, impassioned counseling and offers of financial assistance, the attorney general's office says.

The center, which uses graphic films and offers of financial assistance to convince abortion-seeking women to carry their babies to full-term, was scheduled to face a court hearing today.

Advocates on both sides of the abortion issue say the case could affect the futures of such centers across the country.

The center's anti-abortion operators counter that because they do not charge for their services, they should not be subject to state laws governing commerce.

Center operators say they are competing with abortion clinics for customers. Citing a success rate of 77 percent, or nearly 1,000 babies saved in two years, they say they are fully convinced that the end justifies the means.

"I understand that under other circumstances, it would be improper to go as close to the line as we go ... avoiding telling people we're pro-life," said Chuck Pelletier, who opened the center in June 1984 after meeting pro-life advocate Robert J. Pearson.

"The bottom line is we're in competition with the death chambers for the same lives," he said.

Three women who said they were misled into going to the clinic and then were emotionally battered filed suit in March 1985 against Mother and Unborn Baby Care of North Texas Inc., which operates a Pregnancy Problem Center.

Two of the women have since dropped out of the suit and a trial date has not been scheduled, attorney B.C. Cornish said.

The case scheduled for trial today is an outgrowth of the women's action. Attorneys say what goes on inside the clinic is not at issue because of free-speech guarantees.

"This is not a lawsuit to try a woman's right to an abortion," said Steve Gardner of the attorney general's office. "What's going on in the clinic is not part of our lawsuit. It is how they're getting them there."

Woman hoping to break flight record

DALLAS (AP) — Jeana Yeager is eagerly awaiting the latest challenge in aviation history — a non-stop flight around the world on a single tank of gas.

The self-made pilot from Fort Worth, along with retired Air Force pilot and longtime companion Dick Rutan, is expected to get her chance to go down in the record books soon.

One day soon, probably this week, Ms. Yeager and Rutan are expected to take off from the Mojave Desert in a spindly-looking craft called the Voyager. They will spend 12 days in a cockpit the size of a bathtub, surrounded by 1,173 gallons of fuel costing $2,111.

Their answer for why they're doing it is not a surprising one.

"For the challenge," replies Ms. Yeager, 34, who is not related to Chuck Yeager, the pilot who broke the sound barrier.

She and Rutan, 48, live in test-pilot territory — near Edwards Air Force Base north of Los Angeles. There, they have spent five years planning the flight that will use the latest in aviation technology and will rely on a delicate craft that somewhat resembles a dragonfly.

"It's a real mission," Rutan told The Dallas Morning News. "The last frontier in aviation. When I think about it, I still get chills running up my spine."

If the Voyager flight is a success, it will smash the record for non-stop unrefueled flight — set in 1962 when a U.S. Air Force B-52 flew 12,532 miles from Okinawa to Madrid.

Aviation enthusiasts, engineers and relatives are gathering to watch the takeoff, which is likely this week.

"I'm overwhelmed," said Evaree Winters, Ms. Yeager's mother, who drove in from Fort Worth for the event. "We're excited about it and apprehensive. And if she doesn't (set the record), we'll still love her."

Ms. Yeager left Texas in 1977 to work for a private enterprise shuttle venture that is now defunct. She has eight world aviation speed and distance records and is completely unflappable, according to her father.

"She doesn't get excited," said Lee Yeager, a retired Mesquite High School teacher.

Chemical Pump Service Serves Many Oil Patch Needs

Chemical Pump Service, owned locally by Tom Machen, serves the needs of the oil patch, by carrying a full line of Texsteam Electric Drive Injectors. The 4100 Series Texsteam Injectors are positive displacement, plunger-type pumps which are gear driven and utilize electric motors, V-belts or other rotating drives as the power source. The unit's gear drive is housed in a precision-bored, heavy cast iron case with anti-friction bearings on the high speed shaft. The output gear, made of high strength alloy iron, is supported in a special bearing arrangement assuring extremely long life with maximum rigidity.

The entire worm-gear drive mechanism runs in a lubricant bath for longer operating life, even under the most adverse operating conditions.

The Texsteam 4100 Series can by used for chemical injection and for handling corrosive fluids.

Because these units can be equipped with from one to eight heads, a wide range of additives may be accurately handled from one installation. This versatile pump has found wide acceptance for use in refineries, LACT units, salt water floods, tank batteries, process plants and in water treatment for boilers

The Texsteam 4100 Series Injectors are easy to install. No expensive foundation or piping is required. These pumps will give you many years of economical and trouble-free service.

In addition to Texsteam Electric Drive Injectors, they also carry Western, Calgon and Percision Pumps and Bendix, Wico, Fairbanks Morse and American Bosch Magnetos.

Also ask about Magneto sells and repair as well as Poulan and Shindaiwa chain saws and all types of chain saw sharpening.
