FDR ASKED TO INTERVENE

ATTEMPTS TO SETTLE ANOTHER PRINCIPAL STRIKE ABANDONED

(By The Associated Press)

President Roosevelt has been asked to intervene in one of the nation's major strikes. Efforts to settle another have been abandoned.

A citizens' organization in Minneapolis asked the chief executive yesterday to seek settlement of the truck drivers' strike in that city. Military rule, they charged, had violated their rights.

Injunction Sought

Truck operators plan to seek a federal injuction against the martial law today.

His first proporal failing, John Petree, Alabama director of the national emergency council, abandoned for "four or five days" efforts to negotiate a settlement of the strike of 5,000 textile workers at Huntsville. Twelve thousand operatives are striking in other Alabama cities.

Union officials claimed 3,000 recruits in northern New Jersey cities for the strike of New York garment workers. Eighteen thousand workers in the metropolis are affected.

Clashes Occur

The strike at the Missouri Garment company factory, Kansas, City, led to clashes and the arrest of two workers, while nearly 100 persons were arrested as a result of attempts to picket the plant of the Gregory and Reed Wood Heel company at Malden, Mass.

In Cuba, the $28,000,000 system of the American-owned Cuban Telephone company was turned over to the government to operate. The company said it could not function if forced to restore strike leaders to their former positions.

Sixty stock-yard handlers at Jersey City, N. J. came to terms with their employers three hours before 5,000 head of cattle were due.

Millions Paid In Taxes On Alcohol

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—The government collected $184,923,535 in alcoholic beverage taxes in the first seven months of legalized liquor.

For the seven months ended June 30, beer and other fermented malt beverages accounted for $103,915,651, the bureau of internal revenue reported last night. Distilled spirits and wine yielded $81,007,884.

Pennsylvania, where there are many production or rectification plants yielding taxes, paid the highest amount of the 29 states where liquor is legal. Its total was $29,453,184. New York was next with $28,082,660 and Illinois third with $21,634,937.

WARMER WEATHER DUE ALONG EAST COAST; HEAT RECORDS SET

(By The Associated Press)

The central west, heart of the drouth and heat ridden area of the nation, counted on a cool wave from Alaska and northwestern Canada today to break the present hot spell.

Warmer weather, however, was forecast for the middle Atlantic and south portion of the north Atlantic states.

New Records Set

Temperatures soared yesterday to new record breaking heights in the central west. At Iowa, all known heat records were smashed when the mercury skyrocketed to 115 degrees at Ottumwa.

Central Illinois was also hard hit, with an all time record of 107.5 at Springfield. Several deaths in Illinois were reported. Pana, Ill., had two with a mercury reading of 106. Quincy, Ill., had one and four prostrations when the temperature jumped to 110, a new all time record for August.

One heat death and three drownings were reported in Ohio. Another heat victim died in Indiana. The heat was so intense at Rochester, Minn., where President Roosevelt stopped on his tour yesterday, that Governor A. G. Schmedeman of Wisconsin was forced to leave the official platform and return to his hotel.

Heat victims were also reported in Iowa.

Humidity Increases Woe

In Chicago a temperature of 100—a new record for August 8—coupled with high humidity, brought suffering to the nation's second city during the day, but the mercury started to sink last night, dropping 14 degrees in an hour. Temperature readings were also falling in the Dakotas and Minnesota, where substantial rains brought relief to the parched farm lands.

In other sections of the parched areas, however, further damage was done to the crops and the water shortage became more acute. Emporia, Kan., banned lawn sprinkling to conserve the water supply when the mercury hit 112 and also asked motorists not to use water to wash their cars.

Kansas City had a top of 109. Concordia, Kan., reported 108 and Garden City, Kan., with 109 Wednesday noted that the temperature had been over 100 for more than fifty days during the summer.

The east, generally speaking, also felt the effects of the hot spell, but New York City escaped with a comfortable maximum of 78.

Red Challenge To Christianity Seen

BERLIN, Aug. 9. (AP)—One of the most direct challenges to Christianity is being made by communism, Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of the Southern Baptist convention, said in an address today to the world Baptist congress here.

Communism and Christianity march in opposite directions and churches must provide a substitute for communism or succumb to it, Mr. Dodd said.

Wife Mistaken For Burglar, Wounded

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 9 (AP)—Mistaken by her husband for a burglar as she closed a window, Mrs. R. L. Mann was shot twice and critically wounded at her home last night.

Mann, a filling station operator, told police he believed some one was attempting to obtain the day's receipts and opened fire from his bed Mrs. Mann absolved her husband of any blame.

Protestant Church Put Under Nazi

BERLIN, Aug. 9. (AP)—Germany's protestant pastors and church officials will be required to take an oath of fealty to Chancellor Hitler, just as Nazi storm troops and members of the regular army did last week.

This important step to secure Hitler uniform support following his assumption of the powers of president, was announced by Dr. August Jaeger, Nazi commissioner for protestant churches.

Jaeger at the same time explained new rules to be imposed by the national synod today which will deliver the protestant church bag and baggage into the hands of Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, Hitler follower, and the German Christians (Nazi churchmen.)

They appear designed to stamp out independent thought and action by the clergy, a considerable number of whom have strongly opposed Mueller's dictatorial steps toward achieving the Nazi program of a unified protestant church.

AVERS "NO INJURY TO HONEST BUSINESS" IS PROPOSED

(By The Associated Press)

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 9 — President Roosevelt brought to Wisconsin today a message of confidence reborn among the people and an assurance that the new deal purposes "no injury to honest business," but a prosperous growth in which all may share.

In a state talking about a new party, the president, homeward bound after spanning a great stretch of the northwest and the drouth-afflicted prairie states, pronounced his major declaration of the first campaign year since 1932 and said the "new deal" is going forward.

"New Deal Essential"

"We who support this new deal," he declared, "do so because it is a square deal and because it is essential to the preservation of security and happiness of a free society."

As for party alignments he remarked significantly:

"Your two senators, both old friends of mine, and many others have worked with me in maintaining excellent cooperation between the executive and legislative of the government."

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Republican independent and sponsor of the new state political party, is up for re-election. F. Ryan Duffy, Democrat, is the other senator from Wisconsin, elected in 1932.

Cooperation Urged

The president emphasized that: "These high purposes must be accompanied by cooperation among those charged by the people with the duties of government. I am glad to be in a state from which I

CATTLE BUYING TO BE RESUMED

FORT WORTH, Aug. 9 (AP)—Buying of condemned cattle in all Texas emergency drouth relief counties is to be resumed at once, according to instructions issued here today by George W. Barnes of College Station, assistant state drouth relief director.

Only condemened cattle will be bought, however, until the congestion which halted all buying several days ago is relieved. Barnes said it is likely to be next week before buying of other animals will be started again.

Inspectors and appraisers will handle cattle which are in the most distressed condition, cattle that might die before the general buying is resumed, Barnes pointed out. If an animal, in need of food and water, dies before the stockman sells it to the government he gets no pay for it.

BIRDMEN LAND AT LONDON

CANADIAN FLIERS FALL SHORT OF GOAL AT BAGHDAD, IRAQ

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The "Trail of the Caribou" landed here today after a flight of 30 hours and 43 minutes from Wasaga Beach, Ont.

The fliers, James Ayling and Leonard Reid, had set out to establish a new long distance record with Baghdad, Iraq, as their goal.

Fall Short Of Goal

Their landing means that they only covered a little more than half of the 6,300 miles they had set as their objective.

The Canadian airmen set their black biplane down on Heston airfield after covering approximately 3,700 miles.

They were sighted at 4:55 p. m. G. M. T. (11:55 a. m. E. S. T.) over Stag Lane airdrome. They hopped off from Canada at 5:12 a. m. E. S. T. yesterday.

Consequently, their time in the air was estimated at 30 hours and 43 minutes at the time of sighting.

Gas Supply Low

Their rapidly diminishing supply of gasoline forced the fliers to change their plans and decide to land in England, Reid said.

They brought their plane down on a private flying field in Middlesex a short time after they circled over the Hendon airdrome on the northern outskirts of London.

The fliers, who landed without notice to watchers below, were running into increasing unfavorable weather.

"It was a wonderful trip, but we surely are disappointed we couldn't continue on to Baghdad," Reid said.

"We had bad weather most of the way across the Atlantic. Then the controls jammed several times.

"So when the gasoline supply seemed to be dropping we thought it best to land."

"Anyway, we're glad we landed safely," Reid added.

BANKHEAD ACT PROVISIONS EXPLAINED

ABOUT EIGHT HUNDRED PLAINS FARMERS AT TODAY'S SESSION

Approximately 800 farmers of the South Plains gathered in Lubbock High school auditorium this morning to hear discussions on the future of United States agriculture and to learn about the Bankhead act and other phases of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Sessions were continuing this afternoon with farmers engaged in a round-table discussion on the Bankhead act.

President Bradford Knapp of Texas Technological college presided. District Agent O. G. Tumlinson of the A. & M. Extension Service is cooperating with the college in staging the meeting.

Molyneaux Speaks

Speakers this morning were: I. W. Duggan, senior agricultural economist of the cotton production section of the AAA, and Peter Molyneaux, editor of the Texas Weekly, Dallas. Maurice Cooper, assistant to Mr. Duggan, is to speak this afternoon, along with Frank Briggs of the Texas Farm and Ranch staff and possibly A. M. Bourland of Vernon, member of the Texas Allotment board, and others.

Mr. Duggan answered the question, "Is The Cotton Program Sound?" in his talk this morning.

He pointed out the need to attempt to influence economic trends and declared that with the same amount of experimenting and effort we can learn as much about the

Arab-Jewish Riots Occur In Algeria

CONSTANTINE, Algeria, Aug. 9. (AP)—Seven military airplanes circled constantly over a wide area about Constantine today following reports trouble between Arabs and Jews was brewing at several points.

Thirty-six Arabs, armed with shotguns, were arrested as they sought to enter Constantine in automobiles.

The city grew quiter, following days of bloodshed in religious rioting between the two races. Military forces are under the personal direction of Jules Carde, governor general who returned hurriedly from Paris yesterday.

Cuban Government Grabs Phone Firm

HAVANA, Aug. 9. (AP)—The strike-ridden Cuban Telephone company, a $28,000,000 American investment, was in the hands of the Cuban government today.

Seeking to end long-raging labor quarrels, the government took over the properties through a form of "intervention."

H. C. Hart, American president of the firm, registered a vigorous protest against "the act of the Republic of Cuba in intervening, despoiling the company of its administration and depriving it of the legitimate enjoyment of its properties without any legal grounds."

Secondary Drouth List Is Increased

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The list of secondary drouth counties in which the Farm Credit administration will make crop and feed loans to farmers and stockmen was increased today by the addition of 62 counties in Arkansas, Idaho, Michigan, Montana and Texas.

The loans, advanced from the $40,000,000 crop loan appropriation, may be used for purchasing livestock feed, for general purposes, for summer fallowing, or for a combination of these uses.

Texas counties: Bowie, Cass, Fannin, Marion, Morris, Newton, Red River, Sabine.

Mother Is Scheduled To Keep Her Thrice-Broken Rendezvous With Death

BY DALE HARRISON

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—Tonight, save only for the power and pity of his excellency the governor, Anna Antonio must keep her thrice-broken rendezvous with death.

The courts again have shaken their heads in negation to this self-widowed mother's pleas for life. Her counsel has pounded frantically at every legal door, only to find each of them closed. Governor Herbert Lehman, himself—like the condemned woman—a parent of three children, is the only remaining hope.

Death Chamber Ready

The death chamber, thrice cheated, is ready again. Not since 1927 when Ruth Snyder—a husband killer, too—sat down to the dynamo's humming death, has a woman died there.

Three times before Anna Antonio, only 29, has seen her number go up, and three times come down. Each time it was the governor who saved her by the mere lifting of a telephone receiver, the mere scratching of a pen. As simple as that.

But today? The governor has given no indication of his intention. "I have taken no action," he said. Did he mean "I will take no action?" Anna Antonio, watching in her tortured mind's eye the

MOB VIOLENCE IS AVERTED

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN HANGING OF BOY AT GOOSE CREEK

(By The Associated Press)

GOOSE CREEK, Aug. 9 (AP)—A white man about 35 years old was whisked away from the Goose Creek city jail a few minutes after he was taken into custody today as a suspect in the fatal hanging of Charles Cox, 12. Bystanders said they overheard the officers who moved the prisoner remark that they were afraid of possible mob violence.

The man was arrested after he assertedly had led investigators to the spot where the dead boy's clothes were hidden. They were shoved under a pile of lumber in the shed where the body was found hanging.

Whereabouts Not Given

Officers would not disclose where they took the suspect. They had not questioned him in detail.

MAN DIES IN BLAST

THREE POSSIBLE WAYS TO BENEFIT OPENED TO U. S. FARMERS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Soaring cotton prices found the government sticking today to its drastic control plan and moving to assist planters whose crops may have been seriously injured by drouth.

A forecast of a 9,195,000-bale yield this year—the lowest with one exception since 1896—sent prices up nearly $2.50 a bale yesterday.

To Continue With Act

The estimate was 1,265,251 bales under the tax-exempt production permitted under the Bankhead control act, causing a question as to whether the act—the most far-reaching experiment in compulsory curtailment ever tried in this country—might not be abandoned.

But Secretary Wallace said:

"No. We are going ahead full steam with the Bankhead act."

As for the farm situation in general, Wallace said that because of "the most widespread drouth by far we have ever had "it seems likely that for major agricultural products the government will seek "very much less" crop reduction next year.

There are three possible ways whereby cotton farmers may collect on the 1934 crop.

1. They seemed likely to get a higher price than for many years. Prices rose to 14 cents a pound for the first time since 1930. This was expected to cause particular rejoicing in the old south, east of the Mississippi, where drouth damage has been lightest and where the yield apparently is going to be better than average.

2. They will receive about $130,-

OVERTHROW OF WORLD GOLD BLOC SEEN

THOMAS PICTURES NEW ERA OF PROSPERITY UNDER NEW ORDER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The nationalization of silver was hailed today by Senator Thomas (D-Okla), a senate silver bloc leader, as "the overthrow of the world-wide gold bloc."

He forecast it would bring an international agreement on money "which will be the beginning of a new era of prosperity."

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—President Roosevelt today issued an executive order providing for the nationalization of silver at 50.01 cents per ounce according to the provisions of the silver purchase act of 1934.

The president's proclamation, made public by Secretary Morgenthau, said the mints would be directed to receive any and all silver in the United States.

To Return Certificates

The mints will deduct as seignorage 61 8-25 per cent of the silver so received and will return to the depositor silver certificates or other coin or currency in an amount equal to the monetary value of the remainder.

This means the mints will return for each fine troy ounce of silver so received an amount equal to 50.01 cents a fine troy ounce.

The order does not affect domestic silver mined since December 21, 1931, which may still be delivered to the mints under the presidential proclamation of that date.

Deadline Is Set

All other silver situated in the United States on August 9 must be delivered to the mints within 90 days.

Certain classes of silver are exempted, provision is made for licenses covering silver needed for commercial and industrial uses and to fulfill outstanding contracts to deliver the metal.

Also exempted are all United States silver coins, foreign coins, silver ore, silver owned by foreign governments and foreign central banks, and silver in fabricated articles.

OKLAHOMA SLAYER SOUGHT IN TEXAS

PARIS, Aug. 9 (AP)—An ex-convict whose blast of gunfire fatally wounded two Oklahoma peace officers when they sought to question him about the theft of an automobile, was sought by aroused North Texas and Oklahoma officers today.

Several hours after they had been punctured by the man's bullets as they approached his automobile near Oak Hill, Okla., Constable B. Wilmoth of Idabel, Okla., and Deputy Sheriff E. J. Whitten died from their wounds.

Whitten, who returned the man's fire after Wilmoth had been shot down, died shortly before midnight. Wilmoth succumbed several hours earlier.

Police believe the man sought as the killer is Barney Jones, Texas fugitive. He drove away from the scene of the killings with a man companion.

Driver Is Charged In Negro's Death

Charlie Meyers, charged late Wednesday with driving an automobile while intoxicated, has been released on $1,500 bond.

The complaint was filed by Highway Patrolman John C. Keller as a result of death of a negro, Deacon Brown, near Slaton early Sunday morning. Meyers, officers said, was driver of an automobile which struck Brown as he and other negroes were pushing an automobile.

The complaint was filed with Campbell H. Elkins, acting justice of the peace in precinct 1, place 2.

LUBBOCK FIRE DEPARTMENT OBSERVES TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY TODAY

By GORDON WEBB
Journal Staff Writer

Twenty-five years ago Lubbock's fire department was organized. There were 14 volunteer members, and Charlie Frederick was first chief.

Today, the department observed the anniversary with a regular Thursday morning drill.

Chief W. E. Twitty is only member of the original department still serving, and so far as he knows the only one living in Lubbock.

Two pieces of equipment, a hose reel carrying about 500 feet of hose, and a large pumper, were the original fire-fighting devices.

Pumper Never Used

The pumper was so heavy four horses were needed to draw it. But the department never owned any horses and the pumper never was used in fighting a fire.

"It never got there in time," Twitty recalled. "When we couldn't get a drayman we had to push it."

Finally, two or three winters after the organization, some one left water in the pump. The water froze, bursting and ruining the equipment.

The hose reel lasted longer, and it met its fate honorably on a fire call. The reel was being towed behind an automobile. Turning a corner, a wheel collapsed.

"I was running so fast behind it that I ran over that reel and tore up the other wheel," Twitty said.

If you ask Twitty to recall the

NEW ORLEANS POLICE RULE RETAINED BY MAYOR WHEN INJUNCTION GRANTED

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—Ruling for the city and against the state, District Judge Nat W. Bond today issued an injunction to Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, preventing a proposed new police board from taking the police power out of his hands.

Judge Bond held unconstitutional the legislative act, creating the new board, which Senator Huey P. Long, political adversary of the Walmsley forces, caused to be passed through the recent state assembly.

The police board issue was one of several issues between the Walmsley and Long factions, which have resulted in both sides arraying armed camps of opposing policemen and national guardsmen in the city.

The court held "the act is unconstitutional because it would take away from the electors the right to control their local government, by placing control in the hands of private corporations and associations."

National guardsmen helped take a registration blank away from Miss Airene Bergeron, a school teacher, in the militia-held registration office here yesterday.

R. J. Gregory, registrar, said she had filled out her registration blank incorrectly, but refused to say what was wrong with it.

Miss Bergeron started out of the office with the blank, saying she wanted to show it to Nicholas Bauer, superintendent of city schools, but national guardsmen blocked her way.

ANCIENT RACIAL AND RELIGIOUS FEUD ADDS FIRE TO ARAB-JEWISH TROUBLES

(By The Associated Press)

Perhaps the most uncongenial neighbors on earth, Jew and Arab, are obliged by fate and historical circumstance to live today side by side in hundreds of cities and thousands of miles of territory in northern Africa and Asia Minor.

Between them is a dark feud, which has simmered for centuries, and which occasionally breaks out in savage riots, such as started at Constantine, Algeria, last Friday.

Fights Are Fierce

Fights between Moslem and Jew are fierce while they last. Firearms, torches, knives and clubs are used ruthlessly. No quarter is given, and in every flare-up of the ancient animosities between the ill-suited neighbors there are instances, some well authenticated, of barbaric cruelties.

The bloody encounters usually end when some European power exerts military force to stop the butchery. The responsibility for restoring quiet has fallen by turn to Italy, Great Britain and France, which own or administer under mandates the regions in which the conflicts most frequently occur.

Even the great European powers, striking sternly with modern weapons, cannot suppress the bitterness of a hate which took root centuries ago. They restore quiet, but they do not establish peace. The French legionnaires and the British marines separate the combatants, but fail to pervail on them to live together harmoniously.

Trouble Racial, Religious

The fundamental differences between Jew and Moslem are racial and religious. The largest repercussion of the age-old fight is in Algiers, but its focal point is Jerusalem. In the Holy City the temperaments of the two peoples clash most sharply.

Jew and Moslem differ everywhere, but the heart of the quarrel and the symbol of the historic dispute is the Wailing Wall at Jerusalem. Access to this bit of unimpressive masonry has been the direct cause of several riots.

The Wailing Wall is an object of veneration to Christians; but to both Moslems and Jews it is most sacred.

The wall is reputed to be the left wall of the ruins of Solomon's temple. Today it serves as part of the inclosure of the Moslem mosque of Omar.

Friday evenings devout Jews go to the wall and, gazing at the weathered stone, repeat the lamentations of Jeremiah. Frequently prayers, written on sheets of paper, are thrust into crevices and left there in the hope the petitions will receive divine consideration.

Arabs Offended

Arabs, who worship at the nearby mosque, are offended by the presence of the Jews. Frequently the slips of paper bearing Jewish prayers are burned from the face of the wall by Moslem torches. If Jews witness this desecration there is a possibility of trouble.

Jews, according to the interpretation of the British government, own the wall. But Arabs own the land on which it stands, and the pavement which it faces. The Jews must cross the pavement to reach their sacred place of worship.

Arabs will not sell their property, and several times the disposition of the wall has been presented to the mandates division of the League of Nations. The involved claims to it have not been adjusted, and it presents a problem of such delicacy that the British government has hesitated to make arbitrary rules governing access to the wall.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Is Drowned In Pit

HALE CENTER, Aug. 9 (Special)—Life of Grover Lee Hill, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hill, was lost in a deep borrow pit in a lake along a highway in the western part of town early Wednesday afternoon.

In company with two boy friends, young Hill went swimming in the lake. He jumped into the deep part of the pit, not knowing that it was very deep. The companions ran to town for help and by the time they returned with aid, the Hill boy was dead. His body was recovered about half an hour after he jumped into the lake.

Mrs. Womack is a student at George Washington university. Mr. Womack is with the Bureau of Standards at Washington, D. C. He holds two degrees from Texas Technological college.

Water Consumption Record Is Set Here

An all-time record for water consumption in Lubbock was set in July, M. R. Smith, in charge of the water system, said Wednesday. He reported 95,825,000 gallons were pumped from the wells into the mains.

Previous record was in June, 1934, when 88,187,000 gallons were pumped. The gain, 7,638,000 gallons, represented slightly over 8.6 per cent.

Average daily consumption was 3,095,000 gallons. Peak day was July 2 when 3,803,000 gallons were pumped, with the low day, July 6, following a short rain, with 1,621,000 gallons pumped.

Miss Nina L. Gordon Weds J. S. Birtciel

ALBANY, Aug. 9. (Special)—Miss Nina L. Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Gordon of this city, was married to Joseph S. Birtciel of Fort Worth last Sunday afternoon at her home in Hilltop addition. The Rev. J. A. Owen, pastor of Matthews Memorial Presbyterian church of Albany, read the ceremony in the presence of the bride's parents.

The couple left for a trip to the north and later will be at home in Fort Worth, where Mr. Birtciel is owner and manager of the Southern Compound company.

The bride is a graduate of Texas Technological college and has taught in the Albany schools for the last three years. She is a niece of Dr. James M. Gordon of Lubbock.

Tech Graduate Is To Be In California

Miss Evelyn Gulledge, 2201 Tenth street, is to leave Friday for Berkeley, Calif., here she will enter the University of California. She holds a B. A. degree from Texas Technological college, where she was a honor student for two years.

Two Visitors Are Speakers For Club

A meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in the home of Miss Delia Wilkinson, 1201 Seventeenth street, Wednesday afternoon was featured by several talks.

Mrs. C. C. Cameron of Dallas, sister of Mrs. Roxie Crausbay of this city, and state vice-chairman of the organization spoke. Mrs. Cameron is next in line for the state presidency, without an opponent, of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Another visitor was Mrs. T. J. White of Coleman, life member of the organization, who is a historical worker in the state federation of women's clubs. She has the distinction of having received a B. A. degree from Baylor college after she had passed the age of 75 years, Miss Wilkinson said.

Mrs. J. R. B. Cooper who has returned from a visit of several months in the southern states talked on places of interest to the organization in Tennessee and Mississippi.

Other guests were Mesdames Crausbay and John LeMond. There were about 15 attending. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walton and Newton Walton returned Wednesday from a few days visit with relatives in Goldthwaite and Austin.

Local Man Is Married To Monroe Girl

Clarence Coleman and Miss Alma Massey of Monroe were married Saturday at the home of the bride's uncle, A. A. Massey, near Plainview. The couple is to be at home in Amarillo.

Miss Clytie Collier of Spur underwent a tonsilectomy in the Lubbock sanitarium this morning.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

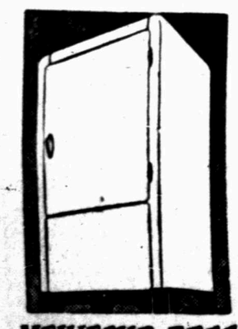

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

HUNTER FLAYS J. V. ALLRED

DENIES HE GAVE HIS SUPPORT TO GENERAL TEXAS SALES TAX

Challenging James Allred, his opponent in the governor's race, to produce any letter in which Hunter commits himself for the general sales tax as a source of general state revenue, Tom F. Hunter addressed more than 2,500 people of the South Plains here Wednesday night.

The Wichita Falls independent oil operator and attorney declared he had suggested that, if a sales tax were supported, the funds be allocated to the counties for local use.

Two Interruptions

Two interruptions took some of the snap out of Hunter's address. Once his amplifier system failed, and for about four minutes a fire siren, across Broadway from Avenue K, where he was speaking, whined. Firemen had left central station on an alarm without turning off the siren.

Allred was assailed, "trusts and combines" and chain stores were lambasted, and the Hunter "recovery" platform was outlined. He received encouragement from his audience frequently.

While discussing the "utility monopoly," a man in the audience sang out, "How much is the rate in Lubbock?"

People Are Commended

"You people in Lubbock are to be commended for owning your own plant," Hunter said. "Your rate is lower than the average. The money going to your own plant stays at home, circulates here and in neighboring communities, whether the rate is as low as you want it to be."

Replying to Allred's charge that he (Hunter) had supported a general sales tax, the speaker declared:

"Many, when they are being whipped, resort to their only defense and lie about it. That is what Allred did when he said he had a letter from Tom Hunter committing for the general sales tax.

Among First To Oppose

"I was among the first in the state to oppose the general sales tax," Hunter said. "Jimmie never did oppose it when it was up for passage. He waited to see what the general trend of opinion was and then followed it, as he always does."

He called the sales tax "a tax on poverty."

James H. Goodman, county Democratic chairman, presided. Homer Winston, Brownfield, a former student of Hunter's when the latter was a school teacher, introduced Hunter. Others on the platform included: Lonnie Lumsden, Wilson; J. B. Walker, Tahoka; M. C. Finch, Lubbock; George P. Smith, Levelland; W. B. Denton, Littlefield; R. E. Simpson, Lamesa; Lum G. Pierce and J. B. Cardwell, Plainview; Fritz Nieman, Wilson; J. H. Hankins, Lubbock.

Highlights Of Address

Highlights of the address included:

Hunter denied an Allred charge that Hunter was a wealthy man. "That's a well-planned story, if it were true it would be good news to my creditors," he said.

He discussed the "15 points" of his platform, which he declared, "Jim or no other man has been able to assail successfully any one of them."

He told of a chain store with 17,000 individual stores purchasing watermelons in the El Paso valley at 2 1-2 cents per pound wholesale, selling them at 1 cent per pound retail, "whipping" the wholesale price to the producer to less than 1 cent.

Backs Texas Tech

Referring to Texas Technological college as "one of the three greatest schools of its kind in the south," he declared, "Let's keep it what it is."

"Jimmie Allred has filed more law suits than any other attorney general, and he has lost more law suits than any other two attorney generals Texas ever had," he charged. "He has built up a receivership racket. You'll find his ex-law partners on the list of big, fat fees in receivership cases.

"The four Allred brothers all are on the stump; all four of them have their heads in the public feed trough."

He charged Allred with neglect of duty by failure to put experienced attorneys on the state's side in a law suit at Austin recently when a suit to fix the gas rates of 250 cities in Texas was tried.

Boys Try Case

"He sent two young boys to try that case, in which Texas might have saved $8,000,000 annually," he declared. "They lost a rate case tried before a jury, without even a hung jury."

Hunter declared Allred had spent $8,000 for a state radio hookup and had spent $12,000 in newspaper advertising to give time of his address.

He advocated re-organization of the enforcement agencies of Texas with a central identifications bureau in Austin, removal of county lines to enable sheriffs to run down criminals more easily, old age pensions, abolition of the poll tax, elimination of overlapping governmental units, and formation of a governor's cabinet of five members.

Points Outlined

Income tax in the "higher brackets," and an intangible assets tax were supported.

"Monopolies and trust control shall not be permitted," he said. "Wealth is just as necessary for labor as labor is for wealth, but they must be fair to each other. Neither shall be permitted to destroy the other."

He declared that he, if governor, would end "abuses" of the pardoning power. "Any criminal you convict and send to Huntsville will not beat your officers back," he declared.

COLONEL DIEHL SAYS NO NATION CAN BECOME GREAT WITHOUT A FREE PRESS

SAN ANTONIO, Aug 9. (AP)—Asserting that no government can become either great or beneficient without a free press, Col. Charles Sanford Diehl, veteran journalist, yesterday summed up his views on the current controversial subject as he celebrated his 80th birthday at his home in Terrell Hills.

Speaking with a vigor that belied his four score years, Col. Diehl informed his hearers that "a person that can't understand freedom of the press, can't possibly understand the real blessings of liberty."

"Always Threatened"

"Press freedom is always threatened," he said, "but never more so than when unusual or dictatorial powers are sought or assumed. For that reason, freedom is more threatened now than at any time I can remember."

There is nothing to fear, however, Col. Diehl said, "for the American people would never permit this greatest of liberties to be torn from their grasp."

Col. Diehl's journalistic career was as complete and varied as even the most romantic person could desire. His memoirs, embodied in "The Staff Correspondent," tell of his start at 14 years of age as "devil" in the printing shop of the Wenona (Ill.) Index. For many years he was reporter and editor for the Chicago Times.

Worked For AP

In 1883 he joined the Associated Press as day editor in Chicago. He was instrumental in setting up the first leased wire service of that organization in 1884.

In 1887 Col. Diehl was made the first superintendent of the newly organized Pacific coast division of the Associated Press. He was recalled to Chicago in 1893 to become assistant general manager of the service.

Col. Diehl came to San Antonio in 1911 with Harrison L. Beach, his partner, to purchase the San Antonio Light. They continued as owners and publishers of the paper until selling their holdings to William Randolph Hearst in 1924.

COTTON PLANS TO BE TOLD

INSTRUCTION SCHOOLS TO BE HELD FRIDAY AT COURTHOUSE

Instruction on provisions of the Bankhead bill will be given at two schools when members of the 29 community committees meet Friday at the courthouse, County Agent P. T. Montfort said Wednesday night.

Committeemen in precinct 1 and 2 meet at 9 a. m. in the district courtroom and committeemen in precincts 3 and 4 in the same place at 2 p. m.

"A school of instruction on regulations governing under the Bankhead act and also how to fill out application blanks, will be held," the agent said. Our campaign will be well started Monday.

Tentative Date Set

"Tentative date for the closing of the campaign to secure signatures to application blanks for tax-free bales under the act, has been set as Saturday, August 18. All applications will be taken by community committees.

"Every cotton grower must sign an application for tax-free bales, whether he has signed a voluntary contract or not. He cannot sell bales of cotton without paying the tax unless he has tax-free certificates."

All applications must be made through the community groups. These will set a date for signup in their respective communities.

The state board will set the final date for receiving applications.

PRESS CONFAB SET FRIDAY

FINAL PLANS DRAFTED FOR CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT SPUR

(Special To The Journal)

SPUR, Aug. 9 -Final arrangements were being made today to entertain visiting newspapermen at an eighth annual meeting of the West Texas Press association here tomorrow and Saturday.

W. D. Starcher, publisher of the Dickens County Times who is host editor, will be aided by many leading Spur citizens in making the 75 to 100 editors and their wives "feel at home." The gavel of President W. Max Bentley, managing editor of the Abilene Reporter-News, will fall at 10 o'clock Friday morning and the convention, with headquarters at Spur Inn, will be under way.

Entertainment Planned

A round of social functions, including banquets, luncheons, and a chuckwagon dinner at the Spur ranch, has been arranged and a special party will be held for ladies. The program proper includes speeches and roundtable discussions by leading West Texas editors who will come from over the territory bounded by Odessa and Crowell, Muleshoe and Graham.

The convention proper will close at noon on Saturday but Saturday afternoon, as is always the occasion, the visitors will vie on the golf links in their joust for the Bill Parker cup.

Principal guest speakers include Frank Baldwin, of the Waco News-Tribune and Times-Herald, and Prof. Cecil Horne, head of the department of journalism at Texas Tech, Lubbock.

The average altitude of Avery county, North Carolina, is slightly more than 3,000 feet above sea level.

Women Prefer This Laxative

Needing laxatives more often, women prefer delicious Feen-a-mint, the chewing gum laxative. It distributes its laxative ingredient by chewing, more uniformly into the system, thus giving a more natural and complete action that is not harsh on delicate organs. Delicious Feen-a-mint contains a laxative ingredient regularly prescribed by physicians. It contains no richness to upset stomach or diet. Delay is dangerous. Today get back on schedule and stay there. Chew non-habit forming Feen-a-mint for constipation.

COACHES ATTEND RANCH BARBECUE

Visiting mentors here for the fourth annual Texas Tech coaching school were entertained in western style Wednesday night with an old fashion chuck-wagon barbecue at the Boles ranch, 10 miles southeast of Lubbock. About 400 persons attended.

The barbecue was prepared under the direction of "Big Jim" Robinson, veteran barbecue man and member of the Lubbock police force. W. O. Daniels was "wagon boss" and business and professional men served food to the visitors.

During the meal, W. G. McMillan entertained the group with expert shooting. Mayor Ross Edwards' orchestra furnished music.

Geo. Dupree, local attorney, presided as master of ceremonies in an informal program, introducing Mrs. Geo. Boles as "mother of the round up" and Mr. Boles as "top hand." Both made short talks. Others to speak were: Lone Star Dietz, coach of the Boston Braves professional football team; Harry Kipke, Michigan coach; Clyde Littlefield from the University of Texas; A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and W. L. Stangel, chairman of the Tech athletic council.

MALARIA

Speedy Relief of Chills and Fever

Don't let Malaria tear you apart with its racking chills and burning fever. Trust to no home-made or mere makeshift remedies. Take the medicine prepared especially for Malaria—Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic gives real relief from Malaria because it's a scientific combination of tasteless quinine and tonic iron. The quinine kills the Malarial infection in the blood. The iron builds up the system, and helps fortify against further attack. At the first sign of any attack of Malaria take Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. Better still take it regularly during the Malaria season to ward off the disease. Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is absolutely harmless and tastes good.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic now comes in two sizes, 50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money. Get a bottle today at any store. adv.

UNCLE ROBBIE IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

BASEBALL LOSES ONE OF ITS BEST-LOVED LEADERS OF SPORT

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 9. (AP)—The death of Wilbert Robinson, "Uncle Robbie" to almost everyone in Flatbush, deprived baseball of one of its best-loved leaders.

For more than 50 years Robinson had been connected with the game as player, manager and club president, assuming the latter role in Atlanta after he had been supplanted as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers by Max Carey in 1931.

Held Hit Record

Although he will always be remembered as the first catcher who crouched close behind the batter all the time instead of moving up first for the third strike, and as the holder of a major league record which has never been beaten, that of making seven hits in one game, it was as the genial, portly manager of the Dodgers that he achieved his greatest fame.

During his latter years as Brooklyn manager the club was known as the "Robins" in his honor. Sports writers, who liked nothing better than to visit him at his Dover Hall plantation, wrote reams about him and his colorful methods of getting the best performances out of his players. He was kind and encouraging or occasionally caustic with them, but never employed harsh discipline.

Encountered Difficulties

One of his great difficulties in his last few years with the Dodgers was remembering the names of his players and such odd substitutes as "Lumbago" for Ernie Lombardi and "Saute" for Joe Shaute cropped up frequently. His girth also provided a good many openings for witticisms, especially when contrasted with his speed during his playing days and one of the favorite tales was how players were assigned to do "road work" by running twice around Uncle Robbie.

ROBINSON DEATH COMES QUICKLY

ATLANTA, Aug. 9 (AP)—That famous old Oriole, Wilbert Robinson, is dead.

Death came just as Uncle Robby, one of baseball's greatest figures, wished it—quickly and with little pain. He succumbed to a hemorrhage of the brain last night at 10:30 o'clock and his last words were about the Atlanta baseball club of which he was president.

Robinson was 70 years old.

Had Varied Career

His span of life saw him as catcher and captain of the Baltimore Orioles; saw him win two pennants at Brooklyn in the National league and finally saw him worry himself literally sick about his club here.

For the last three days Robinson had felt badly. His Crackers were in a slump after playing good ball nearly all season. He fell suddenly while emerging from his bath tub just before dinner yesterday evening and broke his arm. He was taken to a hospital.

At the hospital it was discovered he was suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain. The last sacrament was administered by the Rev. Edward McGrath.

As Robinson awaited the ambulance he said to the doctor:

"This broken arm doesn't hurt me. I'm an old Oriole. Wrap it up and let me stay here."

Then he turned to a friend and said:

"Maybe this broken arm will break the Cracker jinx also. I hope they can win."

Calls For Wife

And then he said, "Mary, oh, Mary"—and lapsed into unconsciousness.

He was calling his wife, to whom he had been married for nearly a half century.

Robinson was born in Hudson, Mass., in June of 1864. He started his baseball career with the home team and later joined the Philadelphia Athletics after a professional year with the Haverhill team.

From 1886 until 1889 he was with the Athletics. In 1890 he became an Oriole and it was while playing with this team that he was a pal of some of baseball's great—Hughie Jennings, Willie Keeler, John McGraw, Dan Brouhters and others.

Funeral arrangement will be announced later.

Oilers Are Beaten By Tire Exchange

The D. & J. Tire exchange team made its first appearance yesterday as a threat in the local softball circuit and defeated the Magnolia Oilers, 17 to 16.

In another close game Ribble's Florist won over Crites Filling Station, 12 to 11.

McElhaney's Creamery made a race track of the diamond and defeated Texas Utilities, 40 to 14, running up one of the highest scores of the season.

Today's schedule:

Texas Utilities vs. D. & J. Tire exchange, at Ave. K.; City Hall vs. Lubbock Poultry & Egg company, at College Avenue; Texas company vs. Crites' station, at 22nd and T.

SPORTORIAL

by COLLIER PARRIS

Nue Copyright 1933

ONE MORE DAY of the coaching school, and diplomas will be awarded. You see, coaching schools are just what the name implies. The coaches are students. Some of them coach. It appears that Keogan degree, and the coaching school allows six hours of credit toward any degree.

You should have seen—and heard—this fellow Kipke yesterday when Bill McMillan, the famous snake and golf man, brought one of his best specimens out to the football yard. He also brought a photographer. The intention was to have Kipke hold the snake, an eight-foot Mexican boa, while his picture was snapped.

McMillan's appearance, with the snake, momentarily disrupted the session and created quite a sensation. Kipke didn't know whether to ride a bicycle or go blind, but he was finally convinced that the snake wouldn't bite—much, and he acquiesced. It was some time, though, before he'd agree to allow the big reptile to entwine itself about his neck. He sputtered and swore in characteristic fashion, and probably would have turned pale indeed had his gorgeous tan permitted. Afterwards he said: "I sure did feel pale." The snake was one which McMillan acquired on the recent jaunt to the wild Yaqui country of old Mexico.

Kipke knows his football, and how to teach it to other coaches, but he'd prefer trying to take out a 225-pound tackle to wrangling snakes, even if the latter are quite tame in nature, by comparison.

THERE HAS BEEN quite a lot of criticism by coaches attending the school, directed at George "Doc" Keogan, Notre Dame basketball coach. It appears that Keogan knows how to coach basketball at Notre Dame—or it may be the material the school draws—but he doesn't get over so big as an instructor, at least, not at this particular school. As a matter of fact, according to his paid listeners, he's not earning any part of his pay check. This certainly is no discredit to Coaches Cawthon and Smith, who try, and try hard, to line up the best and most popular staff of instructors available. The records will attest to that.

Keogan came highly recommended, and we talked with basketball coaches last week who keenly anticipated Keogan's arrival. At least one of them who had been in previous Keogan classes said the Notre Dame mentor put on the best basketball course he ever attended. That was five years ago. He must be slipping, because we've talked with nobody yet who was pleased with his work. He seems to spend most of his allotted time—and he took over the hours previously scheduled for another instructor in addition to his own time—in criticizing the coaching principles and ethics of other nationally known mentors, in running down other systems, rather than in putting out valuable and sought information.

The Rambler basketball mentor seems to be a good fellow, a well-met, guy ordinarily, off the stage. But, like Hunk Anderson in football year before last, he seems to have started off on the wrong foot. His "students" here believe he holds an antagonistic attitude, a sort of superior glow. And it isn't getting over. Coaches have traveled hundreds of miles to the school for nothing but basketball, and they're not getting it. Hereafter, the school officials probably will exercise extreme care in selecting the faculty. But they've tried to do that in the past. They had Phog Allen of Kansas and Craig Ruby of Illinois, and nobody criticized their efforts.

Otherwise, every coach here is well pleased with the faculty. Kizer they knew, and liked, before he came. He returned because the majority of coaches wanted him. He gave the Notre Dame football stuff in pleasing fashion. Crisler fell into full and complete favor from the start, and they're still praising him, and want him back. Kipke, they're wild about. They liked Schulte. They loved the old man. Henderson, of course, was well received. So was Ludlow, and Tim Moynihan. In fact, everybody, it seems, with the exception of the cage coach, and this is an important factor of any school. They might have slipped here, accidentally, but otherwise the school officials have done themselves proud.

CAWTHON'S FORMER pupils at Austin college are standing by him, still showing their confidence in him, by attending the school. No less than fifteen are on the "register," and numerous others wrote or wired or telephoned their regrets. Among the coaches who learned rudiments of the game under Cawthon are Earl "Prof" Worley, coach at Honey Grove; John "Swede" McMurry, former Lubbock High staffman, now head coach at Gainesville; Verdie Dickey and Georgie Blair, coaches at Sherman High; J. B. Head, who becomes head man at Austin college this year; Henry Frnka, formerly of Lubbock, now of Greenville; Taylor "Bobo" Nelson, coach of the Athens Hornets; Walter Miller, coach at San Antonio; Bill Stevens, who goes to Levelland from Frions this year, and W. B. Chapman, Lubbock High mentor.

In addition, there is, of course, Russell T. "Dutchy" Smith, and Virgil Ballard, Cawthon's present assistants at Tech. Doctor Leo "Butter" Allred, Dallas dentist and head of the Dallas Football Officials association, is another former star pupil of Cawthon's. Garnet Reeves, the big C. of C. and B.C.D. man, is taking in the school quite regularly, and he has heard the sharp tongue of Cawthon in football practice at the Kangaroo institution.

THIS IS ABOUT our last shot at the school, because many of the coaches will be on their way tomorrow afternoon. We wish to extend salutations and best wishes for successful seasons to every coach here, to compliment the faculty and the men who make the school possible, the business men who have cooperated toward entertainment, and the wives of visiting coaches who have dressed up the town and the hotels no little. These wives—and it's surprising how so many of these rugged, rough looking coaches can boast such beautiful women—probably have felt like golf widows for the last two weeks, but there were enough of them to throw parties all their own. We hope they've had a swell time, and will bring the old men back next year.

Another Dean To Invade Big Show As Peanut Vendor

HOUSTON, Aug. 9. (AP)—Another of the brothers Dean, this time Elmer (The Great), older brother of Jerome (Dizzy) and Paul (Nutsy), prepared to pull up stakes and head for the big leagues.

Elmer, who hails from an Arkansas farm, has made good in the city in a big way with his color and antics. He has been drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals ownership for duty at Sportsmans park and will leave today for St. Louis.

Cardinals owners are banking heavily on Elmer to come through—but the other National league clubs need not worry.

GRID PUNTING IS FEATURED BY KIPKE

TECH'S COACH SCHOOL TO END TOMORROW; PROGRAM FILLED

Harry Kipke, exponent of the "punt, pass and prayer" system of gridiron strategy explained the fundamentals of punting to 300 visiting coaches at the fourth annual Texas Tech coaching school yesterday. Then the dynamic skipper of the Michigan Wolverines switched from offense to defense and show them how to block punts.

AFTERNOON SCHEDULE

1 to 2 p. m.—Bullock, injuries and taping.

2 to 3 p. m.—Dietz, football lectures.

3 to 4 p. m.—Chuck Taylor, basketball lecture, demonstration.

4 to 6 p. m.—Kipke, football field work.

8 to 10 p. m.—Stag banquet at Hotel Hilton.

Time is waning for the coaching school. Only tomorrow remains for Kipke, Harry Newman, Lone Star Dietz, Herman Bullock, and George Keogan to finish their work. They were to continue today with additional assortments of information and wind up the two weeks school Friday.

Possibilities Shown

The Michigan mentor yesterday pointed out football possibilities that sent pencils scurrying over note books with increasing speed.

He told them numerous things that should be of benefit to beginners as well as veteran coaches. Kipke is not at all stingy in detailing plays, formulas and prescriptions peculiar to his Michigan system, which is conducted largely from the short punt formation.

Off To The Range

Following the day's activity, coaches attending the school and their wives were guests of Lubbock business men and the Boles ranch at a barbecue and chuck wagon dinner last night at the ranch. Visiting coaches attended almost 100 per cent.

Dietz took the stage yesterday to discuss possibilities emerging from the Warner double wingback system, so capably taught and supervised by Pop Warner. Explaining why he favored the double wingback system above all others, Dietz launched into a course that met with acceptance by the attending mentors. Now coach of the Boston Redskins of the professional circuit, Dietz illustrated plays that work in professional as well as college football.

Newman, now a professional gridder with the New York Giants, assisted the colorful Kipke in demonstrating points relative to Michigan's manner of playing the game. The combination is heralded by visiting coaches as the "best" they have witnessed or heard in coaching schools.

Basketball coaches enrolled in the school still are attending the lectures of George "Doc" Keogan, Notre Dame cage coach, in the hopes of learning something yet about the game. Thus far, Keogan has, in the opinion of coaches who travel hundreds of miles to the school each year, neglected to "cut loose" with information they are seeking. Although aided in his demonstrations by one of the most highly touted cager in modern basketball history, Ed "Moose" Krause, for three years an all-American at Notre Dame, Keogan, coaches who have attended some of his previous schools, put out efforts of which he is capable. It's a matter of considerable concern to the "pupils."

Bullock Shows Taping

Bullock, trainer of athletes at the University of Illinois, continued his lectures and demonstrations dealing with care and treatment of injured athletes yesterday, and his advice to coaches and trainers was met with unanimous approval. Use of adhesive tape, splints, pads and numerous other applications to the bodies of injured athletes was capably demonstrated by the big Illinois man.

What is expected to be a high point in the basketball department of the school is scheduled for 3 o'clock this afternoon when Chuck Taylor, professional cager who has pleased coaches at previous Tech coaching schools, takes the court in another demonstration.

DOUBLES PLAY TO BE TODAY

THREE HEADLINERS IN TOURNEY ELIMINATED BY CASUALTIES

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 9. (AP)—Longwood's tennis courts were given over today to tying up the loose ends of the men's doubles and the women's invitation play, while the semi-finalists in the Longwood bowl competition stood by until tomorrow.

A triple casualty yesterday left the tournament bereft of three colorful headliners and filled the semi-final bracket of the bowl competition with members of the old guard.

Parker Collapses

Third-seeded Frankie Parker, of Spring Lake, N. J., collapsed after taking a lead of 4-2 in the first set of his match with Johnny Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, and was forced to default. That was the first casualty.

Then, Donald Budge, 18-year-old Californian from the junior ranks, sprained an ankle after three games against Berkeley Bell, of New York, and limped along to a 6-1, 6-0, 6-2 defeat.

As if that weren't enough for one afternoon, the second-seeded and apparently very tired Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, of Atlanta, who returned to the tournament by order of Mercer Beasley, his coach, after his father ordered him to quit, lost a five-set match to Jack Tidball, of Hollywood, Calif. Grant seemed on his way to an easy victory as he gathered in the first two sets, but he went to pieces after carrying the third set to 4-all.

The only real victor in the bowl competition play was the top-seeded Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, who downed Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., 9-7, 6-4, 6-2.

BAER MAKES SMILING BOW IN DALLAS; TO FIGHT FOUR ROUNDS FRIDAY NIGHT

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Aug. 9. (AP)—Maxie Baer, king of heavies, Adonis of the resined arena, the gentleman with Chesterfield manners who admits his weakness for beautiful women and night clubs, took a smiling bow in Big "D" today.

The champion and his troupe were a bit travel weary but not too tired to make plans for a few delightful hours of amusement before Maxie climbs through the ropes tomorrow night for a four round bout, two each against Joe Rice of Fort Worth and Jack Van Noy of San Francisco.

First Appearance As Champ

Baer will be making his first ring appearance since last June 14 when his murderous punches rocked Italy's man mountain, Primo Carnera, loose from the heavyweight championship.

A playboy at heart, Maxie planned his fun tonight when he will be honor guest at a dinner dance atop one of the leading hotels here. Promoters Larry Meinert and Dick Griffin and Dallas sports writers will be guests at the same table with Maxie and his troupe.

Baer laughed at the general idea that tomorrow night's bout will be a pure and simple exhibition. "It will not," promised the champion. "I called Griffin last night over long distance and told him to be sure and have a third man at the ringside and ready to step in just in case Rice and Van Noy fail to last their two rounds each."

Van Noy No Stranger

Baer and Van Noy are not strangers. The champion holds an eight round decision over Jack, gained about two years ago in a fight on the Pacific coast. The bout was stopped because of a bad cut over Van Noy's eye.

"I was punching Baer full of holes that night until a wild swing ripped across my eye, tore loose the skin and the injury bled so badly the tender-hearted referee stopped the bout," Van Noy said. "I know Maxie is an improved fighter. I know he is champion and that I'm still in the sticks but for two rounds tomorrow night he is certainly going to be a busy champion."

HOUSTON WINS FROM PADRES

BUFFS SCORE ELEVEN RUNS OFF ELEVEN HITS FOR WIN.

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Carey Selph's sixth place Houston Buffaloes were full of punch Wednesday night— batting punch. They hit timely enough to score 11 runs on 11 hits to trim the league leading San Antonio Missions, 11 to 5.

The Buffs had so much walloping power they left but three stranded runners. Young Ash Hillin, victorious in twenty-two mound battles this season, went to the mound ambitious to win his twenty-third, but Houston drove him to the showers in the fifth when five hits accounted for seven runs. George Mills relieved Hillin and allowed two infield hits and a double the rest of the way.

Missions Back Cvengros

Veteran Mike Cvengros, a southpaw, was pounded for fifteen hits by the Missions but he was backed by support that featured three double plays that pulled him out of some tight spots.

In celebration of his sale to the majors, slim Jim Bivin, Galveston right-handed, whipped the Beaumont Exporters, 8 to 0. When he blanked Beaumont, Bivin increased his run of scoreless innings against Beaumont to twenty-nine.

Vic Frasier, who had won three straight games for Beaumont since being shipped down by Detroit, pitched well until the sixth, when Charlie English started Galveston to victory with a double that found the bases full. Beau Bell, Galveston rightfielder, hit his twenty-fourth home run of the season in the seventh with two mates on. Hugh Shelley tried to save Beaumont with his four singles in four times at bat, but the Shippers were unable to bunch enough hits for a tally.

Steers Down Cats

The Dallas Steers won their second straight over Fort Worth when John Whitehead out-pitched Peaches Davis for a 3 to 1 decision. Art Shires' single that drove in Rudy York in the sixth was Fort Worth's only threat against the speed ball pitching of Whitehead. Eddie Hock and Stanley Schino drove in Dallas' three runs, which were all the Steers could collect on 13 hits.

John Stoneham's mighty bat and Jacobs' superb hurling won Tulsa an 8 to 0 game in the first game of a doubleheader against Oklahoma City. Stoneham cracked a double and home run to drive across four runs and score two. Jacobs limited the Indians to seven hits. In the second game, the Indians came back scrapping to lift a 5-3 decision.

MCSHAIN WINS FROM FENTON

DANNY TAKES DECIDING FALL IN MAT BRAWL AT AUDITORIUM

Danny McShain and Lightning Rod Fenton did their "Apache dance" again last night. McShain finally won the bout—maybe his bare feet proved the margin of victory.

Shoeless Danny caught Fenton under the chin with a neat uppercut drop-kick to take the final and decisive fall of the finish battle at the Auditorium.

Feet Fly Frequently

The flying feet of the mat badmen flew frequently last night. For they were filled with the primeval urge to kill.

The defeat was taken in bad grace by the leering lumberjack and did not cause him to suspend hostilities. He began drop-kicking and Danny began booting and customers in the far bleachers said that it looked as if there were more than four legs on the mat.

The first fall was the most lengthy and it only lasted nine minutes. Fenton and McShain do not go in for mat marathons. Danny damaged Rod considerably by throttling him with a towel.

The two grunters rolled off the platform and the fans on the north side broke for cover. A detachment of cops arrived quickly to the scene and the gladiators were washed back into the ring. Danny won the fall with a body pin following a headlock and cross-buttock slam.

Webber Licks Mackey

Holding his target steady by the hair of the head, Rod pounded Danny severely with round-house slugs and then climbed aboard for a body smother to take the second fall.

Vic Webber, pouter-chested mauler from Madison Square garden, licked Cyclone Mackey in the semi-final bout after 26 minutes on the pad.

Cyclone pursued Webber hot-foot about the mat during most of the route. Sometimes he would catch him and give him a stomping or a nice dry shampoo. Webber quit running, put Mackey on a giant swing merry-go-round, and took the match with an inside crotch hold, body lift and slam.

Rob Roy defeated Bill Cazzell with a body press in 17 1-2 minutes in the preliminary.

COCHRANE BAT GIVES GAME TO TIGERS

MICKEY SMACKS BLOW THAT BRINGS IN WINNING RUN

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Cochrane not only has turned out to be a fine inspirational leader who has piloted the Detroit Tigers into the American league lead, but if the occasion demands it "Mike" can do a lot of the actual work of winning ball games.

Cochrane demonstrated that yesterday when he struck the blow that defeated the Browns 7 to 6 in a ten-inning struggle and gave the Tigers one of the longest leads they have enjoyed this season, 2 1-2 games over the second place Yankees.

Brings In Winning Run

Going into the tenth at 6-6, Bill Rogell started things with a single, Hank Greenberg sacrificed and Marvin Owen walked. That brought Cochrane up and he smacked a base hit that brought in Rogell with the winning run.

The Yankees suffered their second straight setback at the hands of Joe Cronin and his Washington club, 9 to 2. A six-run spurt against Charley Ruffing in the first settled the dispute in short order although Russ Van Atta did some fine relief flinging for New York.

Jimmie Foxx smashed his 35th four-bagger for the Athletics in the course of their 11-9 defeat at the hands of the Red Sox. The blow, which came with the bases full, left Foxx only one behind Gehrig.

Homers Aid Indians

The Indians completed a day of hefty hitting in the American league by downing Chicago 11 to 4 with the aid of four homers, two of them by Hal Trosky.

While the gap in the American league widened to 2 1-2 games, it narrowed to the same margin in the National when the league leading Giants took a 2 to 0 shellacking from Brooklyn and the second place Cubs swept a doubleheader with Pittsburgh. Van Lingle Mungo, who has been gunning for his 14th victory for some time, earned it by limiting the world champions to three hits and driving in the first run himself.

A six-run rally in the third, featured by Manager Charley Grimm's home run with two aboard, won the opener for Chicago 7 to 4 while the combination of seven-hit flinging by Guy Bush and a 16-hit assault on Bill Swift and Burleigh Grimes, brought an easy 14 to 3 decision in the afterpiece. Grimes, recently released by the Yankees, signed a Pirate contract just in time to get into the game.

Cards Tame Reds

The third-place Cardinals cut loose suddenly in the 12th inning to score six runs and beat the Reds 10 to 4. Dizzy Dean, who went to work in the tenth, was credited with his second victory in two days and his 21st of the season.

They were none too pleased when Dan walked in, accompanied by a tough companion, both carrying guns. . . . Fortunately, a surprise attack got the guns.

By Katharine A. Kellock

THERE is no royal road to crime detection; for every gaudy break there are 99 fruitless leads.

And there is no better illustration of this than in the story, now available for the first time, of the search for the operators of the rumrunner "I'm Alone," sunk by the U. S. Coast Guard in the Gulf of Mexico on March 23rd, 1929.

Government agents spent thousands of hours in patient investigation on the case without getting a single clew; success rested on a bit of bureaucratic zeal on the part of a minor railway employe, on the chance examination of an old library book picked up in a great swamp, and, above all, on the intelligence of a young woman examining a truckload of papers for another purpose.

Although the "I'm Alone" had never done a legal day's work in her life she was a comparatively unimportant member of the rum fleet until she went down flying the Canadian flag. When the Canadian government demanded heavy reparations for her sinking it became imperative to find her owners.

It was the contention of the American government that the schooner, at the time she was challenged by the coast guard, was well inside limits for such action as set by the British-American treaty of 1924; that she was taking part in a conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the United States; that she had ignored the challenge and taken to the high seas with the coast guard in hot pursuit; and that her sinking when she was overhauled was in accordance with international usage. In addition, the American government had a strong belief that she was American owned.

But both contention and belief require factual backing in a court of law.

PROOF of conspiracy was lacking. The sailings of the "I'm Alone" with cargoes of liquor from foreign ports had been matters of maritime record; no port had records of discharge.

The nearest the coast guard had come to catching the discharge had been in December, 1928, when two small boats were sighted returning from her. Under pursuit the first was able to disappear up a bayou; the second, missing the inlet, had been beached and set afire to destroy evidence, her crew escaping into the swamps. A government agent was able to rescue a few bottles of liquor before they exploded but not a smuggler was caught to testify to its source.

After the "I'm Alone" was sunk and Canada demanded reparations, the Customs Bureau at New Orleans was told to find the conspirators.

The Customs Bureau spent long weeks of search without unearthing a single lead to the smuggling.

The first break came at the end of four months. The zealous agent of the little railroad station of the Southern Pacific at Gueydan, Louisiana, became suspicious of a car consigned as rice hullings—he thought it contained polished rice, which carries a higher freight rate. He opened the car and found it full of liquor.

A good deal upset, he consulted the town constable, who advised him to send word to the prohibition agents. They destroyed all but one case and notified the Customs Bureau.

The government agents descended on the shipper, who, being an amateur at the business, fell in a faint of terror. When he recovered he told his story.

A MAN in the nearby town of Abbeyville had sent a stranger to him—known only as Jim—who had offered to pay him well to act as consignor of a carload of goods from his siding. Times were bad and he had fallen.

Through him the men who had brought the liquor for loading were found. They, too, were frightened and talked. The man Jim had hired them to go out to the "Clark L. Corkum," take off liquor and bring it to the siding. With Jim had been a man called Dan.

Through the penitent shipper in Gueydan the government found the man in Abbeyville, a well-respected citizen, who likewise became ill from fear when he was approached.

The man Jim had come to him in the previous December with a promise of big pay for the use of his warehouse siding and he had sent off four carloads under false billings. Through the loaders and boatmen it was established that the Abbeyville shipments had been taken from the "I'm Alone."

There the investigation sagged. Nothing was uncovered at the places to which the liquor had been shipped, towns scattered through the middle Atlantic states.

The schooner "I'm Alone," whose sinking by a Coast Guard cutter gave the Customs men a tough job of investigation. . . . At the left, John T. Randell, her skipper.

In early November the New Orleans Customs Bureau turned its attention to another conspiracy. The chief had learned that an examination of radio-telegraph messages sent through New Orleans in the previous year would give him some information he needed and subpoened the lot. Since so many were in codes other than the known commercial ones, he sent to Washington to borrow Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Friedman of the Coast Guard Intelligence Service.

MRS. FRIEDMAN, a retiring little person who looks much too young for the 18 years of important service she has to her credit, is a genius in the code-breaking field. When cryptanalysts in other government services fail they send for her.

Setting to work with two stenographers, she sorted the great mass of messages and decoded them. Some were simple enough—family and commercial communications; others gave the information she was seeking. But, in addition, there was one set clearly separated from the others by the peculiarities of its code. It was this set that she tackled.

(Copyright, 1934, by EveryWeek Magazine.)

Dan Hogan, whose careful plans were upset by clever detective work and lucky breaks.

Under the code name "Harforan," someone in New York had been cabling instructions to someone in Belize, British Honduras, for delivery "on position," at given dates, of certain quanities of "Yicky, Yedeb and Akbuz." It might be a legal transaction but Belize was a well-known source of bootleg liquor and the "on position" was suggestive.

Mrs. Friedman translated the lot and sent them to the New Orleans customs chief.

One short look at them brought him out of his chair with a whoop. That afternon he had been joined by a State Department official, assigned to the "I'm Alone" case, and together they had been going over a list of sailings of the "I'm Alone" as sent by the consul at Belize.

The cabled sailing orders of "Harforan" and the departures from Belize tallied perfectly. The ordered quantities of "Yicky, Yedeb and Akbuz" agreed with the quantities of alcohol, bourbon and malt in the manifests of the "I'm Alone"; finally, the delivery dates set by "Harforan" agreed with the railroad records of the liquor shipments from Abbeyville.

THE chief took the next train for New York, where the telegraph office supplied the delivery address of "Harforan"—the telegraph desk of a well-known hotel. After some difficulty at the hotel it was discovered that messages to "Harforan" were delivered to an unlisted telephone number, which further government pressures traced to a "Paul Smith" in a suite of a fashionable apartment hotel.

Hastily collecting a police sergeant and a prohibition officer, to meet all contingencies, the customs officer went to the hotel, where it was ascertained that "Paul Smith" was in town—and that he answered the description of Dan. They sat down to wait.

None of the officers, as it happened, had brought a gun along. Thus they were none too happy when Dan walked in followed by a tough companion, both of them carrying guns barely concealed by the folds of their overcoats. Fortunately, a surprise attack got the guns.

Dan's connection with the "Corkum" conspiracy, the stronger case, was established by witnesses from Louisiana and he was taken back, tried and convicted. Let out on bail, pending appeal, he disappeared.

The chase began again, combined with one for Big Jim, identified by this time as Dan's partner, Marvin James Clark.

Meanwhile, customs men in Louisiana tried to find some way of tieing the liquor from the "I'm Alone's" burned contact boat to Dan and Jim. At last an agent found, behind the marsh hut of a man who had been on that boat, a book from a New Hampshire library. After long investigation, he learned that a seaman from the schooner had had the book in his bag, the night the contact boat was beached; and through a card in the book he located this seaman, and thereby got evidence that Big Jim also had been on the boat.

Then, on Dec. 24, 1931, somebody telephoned the American consul in Quebec.

"Jim Clark's been arrested in New Orleans. What's the charge?"

The consul, long on the alert for Jim, said that he did not know of it but would find out. He called the Customs Bureau in Washington.

Washington hadn't heard of it; so it called New Orleans—and found, sure enough, that a man held on suspicion of bootlegging, under another name, and about to be freed, was the long-sought Clark.

Jim was released on bail under close supervision while awaiting trial; every inducement to make him talk failed. But he was tricked into revealing Dan's hiding place, and Dan was arrested.

A short time afterward Big Jim was mysteriously shot in a smuggler's meeting-place in Louisiana.

In June, 1933, Dan Hogan was brought from Atlanta Penitentiary, where he was serving a four and a half year term, to stand trial for the "I'm Alone" conspiracy. The missing seaman was the government's principal witness.

Since he had been on the destroyed "Cheri," from which the liquor had been salvaged by the coast guard, and could testify that it was smuggled from the "I'm Alone," operated by the Americans, Dan Hogan and Jim Clark, the government's circle of evidence was complete.

Kenneth E. Oberholtzer, new superintendent of public schools, cracked this one at the Lubbock Rotary club yesterday.

A famous speaker, himself a Yale graduate, was addressing a large gathering of Yale alumni.

In his speech he was taking the letters of the college's name and explaining what they stood for in Old Eli annals.

He had told his listeners that the 'Y' in Yale stood for 'youth', that the 'a' stood for 'aptitude' and had so embellished his remarks that before he got to the 'l' he had talked for nearly two hours.

His listeners, growing weary, were shifting in their seats and nudging each other.

Finally one of the boys whispered to his neighbor:

"Well, we can be thankful of one thing, anyhow."

"What's that?" the second man whispered back.

"That we didn't go to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology!"

SAY, who are 'the plain people'? That worries The Plainsman—has worried him ever since as a matter of business he has been forced to take an interest in political campaigns.

Is this 'plain people' business a myth?

Or is it just something to use to appeal for votes?

* * *

Every fellow that has ever run for anything from constable to president has been a ga-reat champion of the 'plain people'.

But do you know any 'plain people'?

The Plainsman, with an acquaintance with many persons in all walks of life, doesn't know any.

* * *

EVERY man or woman your humble servant has ever come into contact with has had a sparkle of some kind.

Once in awhile it's a little long coming to the surface, but it is there, never-the-less.

Just because a man is poor or a woman ugly doesn't mean he or she is 'plain'.

And certainly those of us who do not have expensive cars, swanky homes and all the luxuries our hearts desire aren't 'plain' just because of that.

One of these days we folks who have been called 'plain people' and 'common people' so long by the boys who, deep in their own hearts don't believe they are either 'plain' or 'common', are going to revolt.

And we're going to demand a candidate who says "To thunder with the 'plain' people and with 'big business', too!"

"I want to be elected and I don't care who votes for me!"

Such candid expression would be refreshing, to say the least.

This isn't intended as a slap at either General Allred or Mr. Hunter. It's just a true story and indicates the position of many Texas voters who, disappointed in the first primary, don't know who to support.

The editor of a nearby paper (we'd use his name but some of his readers might want to lynch him) was in The Plainsman's office Tuesday and talk drifted to politics.

"Who're you going to vote for for governor?" The Plainsman asked and upon being told the visitor would vote for Tom Hunter, asked his reasons.

"Well, it's this way", said the editor. "I figure if Allred is elected he'll be with us for two terms in the governor's office and then Heaven knows how long in the Senate.

"So I'm gonna vote for Hunter because I believe we can get rid of him after one term at Austin!"

Now, we ask you: ain't that reasoning!

A RECENT edition of Popular Science Monthly reports something of interest to cattlemen, ex-cowboys and to every Lubbock and South Plains citizen who is lured by the irresistible attraction of ranch life.

Branding cattle, says the magazine, has been made more humane by the introduction of a chemical compound that takes the place of the hot iron. A cold tool is dipped into the chemical and applied to the animal's hide. Within a few days the powerful compound painlessly eats away the hair and turns the red skin to white, leaving a permanent and indelible identification mark. The animals, feeling no pain, are far easier to handle and the job is more expeditiously done than with a branding iron.

Has the new branding system come into effect in any of the branding pens here-abouts?

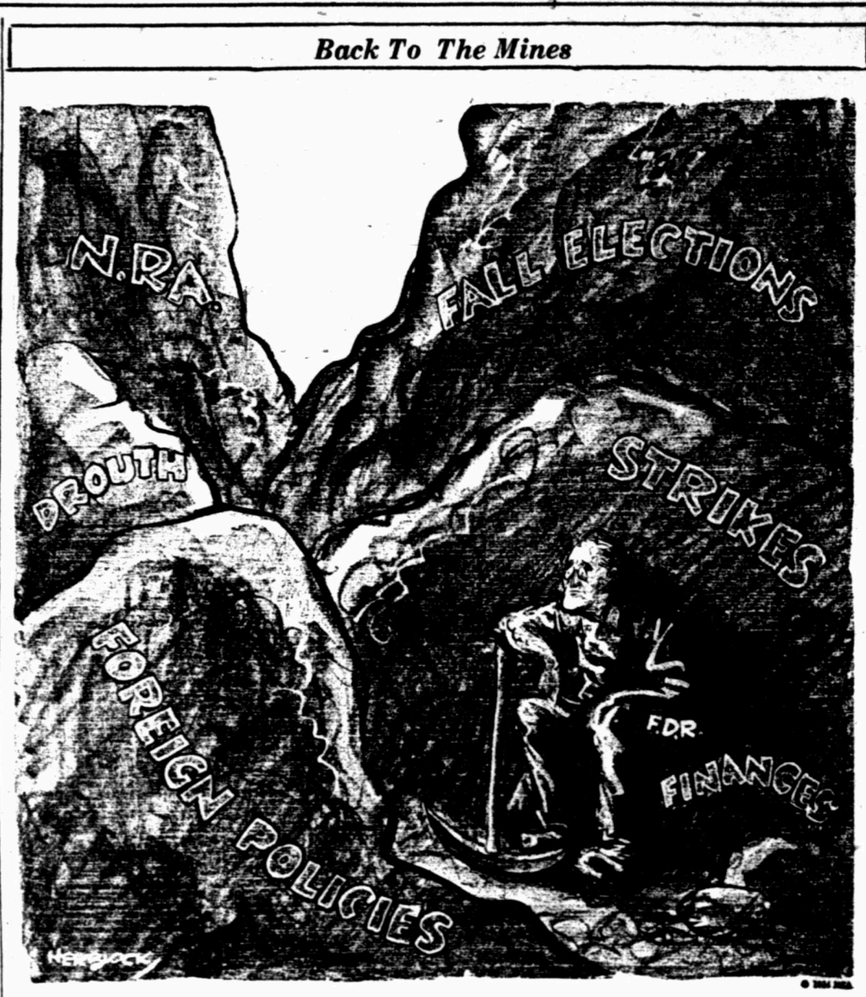

And what do cowmen think about it?

Of course, it is a little hard on the calf when the branding iron eats its way into the flesh.

But somehow or another the sizzling of the iron, the bawling of the calf and the smell of the burning hide seems to be as much a part of the branding pen as dust, sweat and a rope.

Switch to chemicals for branding will, if generally adopted, take something else away from the cow business.

There's Money In Gags You See In Movies; Trick Stunts Used As Fads For Stars Snatched Up By Manufacturers

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9—Gags, the carefully-studied brain children of motion picture writers, often turn out to have a tremendous commercial value. In fact, these writers sometimes make it possible for others to reap a larger profit from one gag than they receive from writing an entire story.

A study of this by-product of the movie industry reveals a market flooded with no end of novelties originally conceived in pictures.

A bathing cap worn by Madge Evans, with the rubber made to look like human hair, caught the public fancy to such extent that a manufacturer has sold thousands just like it. In another film Maureen O'Sullivan was shown with a parasol having a vanity case built into the handle. A week later two manufacturers were turning out similar novelties.

Una Merkel once appeared on the screen wearing a pair of shoes with compartments in the heels for concealment of valuables in case of a holdup. A smart business man adapted the idea to beach sandals, so that money would not be lost in the sand, and reaped a nice profit.

A perspiring writer devised a bathing suit for Mary Carlisle, with her initials in the straps on the back. Today there are hundreds of girls throughout the country with their initials in white on sun-tanned backs.

Immediately after Jean Parker introduced chocolate-coated ice cream in the shape of a heart in "Have a Heart," two local ice cream firms sought permission from the studio to capitalize upon this idea.

These are just a few of the gags which have proved to have a commercial value. But several others probably would be revealed by intensive study.

England Gets The Bug

The widespread campaign for clean motion pictures is beginning to attract as much attention in England as in this country, according to Horace Jackson, prominent film writer. Jackson has just received a request from an English film publication to write an article setting forth Hollywood's stand in the matter, the letter stating that England is intensely interested in the outcome of our crusade.

DON'T LET CARELESSNESS RULE

Although every run-off primary finds a number of citizens dissatisfied with the left-over candidates in many races and it is true in the governor's race this year that many a voter "doesn't give a hoot" who is finally elected, the fact remains that every eligible man and woman should vote in every election.

Many a Lubbock voter will be out of town on August 25th—next primary election day.

Ballots for the primary will not be in the hands of County Clerk Ed Allen until the 14th of this month.

But don't let that fact disfranchise you if you're going away before the 14th and coming back after the election.

Here's the way to assure yourself of an absentee ballot:

Go to the county clerk's office on the second floor of the courthouse and leave your vacation address there. The clerk will mail your ballot to you on August 14th and you have until the day of August 22nd to get it back to him.

Don't let carelessness in connection with absentee ballots rob you of your vote in the second primary.

No matter if you plan to be in Mexico or Canada, make arrangements to get the ballot and then get it back in time to be counted.

Voting is a duty as well as a hard won privilege.

And every eligible voter should vote!

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

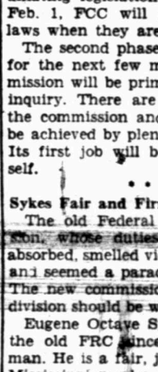

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—A job for giants—reform and regulation of telephones, telegraph, and broadcasting—has been taken over by the new Federal Communications Commission.

The most sensational part of its immediate duties will be investigation of the $5,000,000,000 telephone monopoly, prior to recommendations to Congress for a regulating system expected to reduce telephone rates.

E. O. Sykes

The two chief phases of FCC's present task are:

1. To administer the regulatory powers over the communications industries formerly held by the Federal Radio Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, State Department and Postoffice Department.

2. To study the industries and recommend regulatory and co-ordinating legislation to Congress by Feb. 1, FCC will administer such laws when they are passed.

The second phase is so huge that for the next few months the commission will be primarily a board of inquiry. There are no geniuses on the commission and its results will be achieved by plenty of hard work. Its first job will be to educate itself.

Sykes Fair and Firm

The old Federal Radio Commission, whose duties and staff FCC absorbed, smelled violently of politics and seemed a paradise for lobbyists. The new commission's broadcasting division should be watched carefully.

Eugene Octave Sykes, member of the old FRC since 1927, is chairman. He is a fair, judicially minded Mississippian who never made any enemies—even among the lobbyists who, headed by Bob Jackson and Arthur Mullen, had many FRC cases. He knows a lot about radio.

The "strong man" on FCC probably will be Paul A. Walker, who as chairman of the Oklahoma Public Utilities Commission forced drastic reduction in electricity, gas and cotton gin rates and ably enforced the state oil pro-rata law.

He heads FCC's telephone division and is grimly set on complete investigation and strict regulation for the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Protect Public Only

"So far as I'm concerned," Walker says, "the commission's only job is to protect the public. The utilities are fully prepared to take care of themselves and none more so than the Bell telephone system."

Herbert L. Pettey is the commission's secretary. As the young representative of Jim Farley and Col. Louis M. Howe, he was credited with dominating the radio commission when he was secretary there, under Sykes.

His friend, Paul D. Spearman, a Sykes protege, is FCC's general counsel. Spearman was once assistant general counsel for FRC, but quit to take up lobbying.

The A. T. & T. investigation has been brewing a long time. Senator Clarence Dill, a sponsor of the communications act, gave up his resolution for a special congressional inquiry only on promise that FCC would undertake it.

Monopoly To Face Quiz

All telephone and telegraph companies have been ordered to submit reports on their corporate setups and holdings, interlocking directorates and rate structures.

Among the telephone monopoly's practices to be investigated are: Maintenance of rates during the general price decline. Large write-ups on valuations and depreciation charges, resulting in higher rates. License fees collected by A. T. & T. from subsidiaries everywhere. Holding company abuses.

Other subjects of inquiry will be the tie-up between the Bell companies, A. T. & T. and their purchases of all equipment from the subsidiary Western Electric Company at alleged fancy prices. Reduction of employe wages while high executive salaries were maintained. Long distance rates. Propaganda methods.

Merger May Be Urged

The FCC telegraph division, under Commissioner Irvin Stewart, late of the State Department, must decide how to protect the old line wire companies in the face of radio and ruinous competition from A. T. & T. It probably will recommend merger of the Western Union and Postal systems, now paralleling each other and losing money.

Co-ordination with radio telegraphy and future expansion through radio rather than expensive wire lines are to be expected.

Congress spesifically directed FCC to study and report on proposals to set aside a specific block of ether channels for educational, religious, and other non-profit groups. This work is under the broadcasting division, headed by Commissioner Hampson Gary.

There's no available space for new stations and recommendations for non-profit wave lengths may involve an extensive reallocation.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: Although a policeman and a stranger apparently have shot each other in the home of Pierre Dufresne, Sergeant Harper is not convinced. Mrs. Dufresne comes in and sees the bodies. She faints, and injures her face; Dr. Ulrich, apparently anxious to keep her from being questioned, demands absolute quiet for her. Harper and the police sergeant discuss the case.

* * *

CHAPTER 14
"HAND OF GOD"

"On the surface it's as clear as a pane of glass, but I have a feeling there's a nigger somewhere in the woodpile," Harper went on. "What induced Hamill to walk in here and deliberately shoot down a man seated at a table, smoking a cigarette? Why should the man shoot a policeman? Why was that man masquerading as Dufresne, the owner of the house? Look here."

Harper lifted the man's left hand. The first and second fingers had been seared by the burned out cigarette. "This fellow recently wore a ring—very recently. There's the mark around his third finger. If you will look closely at the knuckle joint you will see where it was forced off. But where is the ring?

"There was no watch, no wallet, no papers, no cards, nothing that you would expect to find in a man's pockets, except a handkerchief and some loose change. When he broke into this house he completely discarded his identity.

"Look at these. There are no occupational calluses or stains. These are not hands used to manual labor, nor are they quite the hands of a gentleman of leisure." He turned them over. "Look at the fingernails. Cut blunt. Clean, but not cared for otherwise."

Harper snapped wide the noseglasses and let them drop on their cord. "These glasses are not his, either. Look at the red marks indented on the sides of his nose, made by the pincers. He certainly was not accustomed to them.

"Formal clothes, but his shoes, while of good quality, have been resoled. We haven't even found his hat and coat. Oh, there are a lot of questions here that need answering."

Dr. Miller shook his head. "I've told you all I can, and I doubt that the autopsy will add much to that knowledge."

The front door opened and there was an influx of the belated party from the Austerlitz. Harper dropped the telephone and went forward to greet them.

Evidently Markison had put into practice Harper's orders to use heroic methods to get Dufresne back on his feet. He was bundled to the ears against the cold and storm, and, still a little unsteady on his feet, leaned on a supporting arm held out by the lean and glum-looking Andrews. Markison and the second detective were just behind them and a moment later an alert, handsome young fellow in a chauffeur's uniform entered briskly. This was Joseph Donaghy, Mr. Dufresne's chauffeur.

At the same moment Dr. Ulrich appeared on the stairs, rolling down his shirt sleeves and fastening the cuff links as he descended. "Hello, Pierre," he exclaimed cordially, advancing to shake hands.

"Why, Doctor, what on earth are you doing here?" Dufresne asked, extremely puzzled.

Dr. Ulrich shot a questioning glance at the detective, but before he could answer Harper cut in. "There has been a very regrettable accident, Mr. Dufresne. When we first discovered the bodies, one of the reporters assumed from the disguise the man was wearing that it was you and told Mrs. Dufresne. Of course she came over immediately. She fainted, and in falling struck her face against the edge of the table."

"My wife—here?" Dufresne positively stuttered. He looked around at the circle of faces as if he could not digest the meaning of the words Harper had just uttered. His eyes fastened on Dr. Ulrich's. "Sylvia—scarred—for life—" he mumbled.

Dr. Ulrich took him by the arm. "Pull yourself together, Pierre," he commanded. "There's at least an even chance that it will heal without a scar."

"C'est la main du Seigneur!" Dufresne stumbled forward and sank down on the lounge.

"What did you say?" Harper asked.

Dufresne looked up. "Pardon me. I am upset. Where is she now? I must see, at once!"

"Certainly, certainly, Pierre," Dr. Ulrich said soothingly, "but a little later, if you please. You will only be in the way if you go now."

In a few minutes Pierre Dufresne stood up, with a great change in his bearing. His face had become hard and expressionless, his carriage more erect, his step firmer. "I want some hot coffee. Tell Mrs. Whitmore."

"Mrs. Whitmore?" Harper repeated blankly. The name was strange to him.

"Haven't you seen Mrs. Whitmore? She hasn't appeared, with all this commotion in here?" Seeing Harper's blank look, he went on to explain. "Mrs. Whitmore is my housekeeper. She and her husband have been living in the apartment over the garage while the decorators were working in the house. Andrews, get her on the house 'phone

COMMUNISM IS INVESTIGATED

POLICE CAPTAIN SAYS CONTRIBUTIONS MADE BY FILM PLAYERS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9 (AP)—A charge that large contributions to the communist party are coming from noted Hollywood film players was made here yesterday by Police Captain William F. Hynes as he emerged from a closed congressional hearing into asserted communist activities.

Captain Hynes of the Los Angeles police intelligence did not mention the alleged filmland contributors by name, neither did he enlarge on his statement concerning the alleged contributions.

"Evidence Poisonous"

Captain Hynes was one of several witnesses called before the hearing which was closed to the public because the evidence was "so poisonous that international complications might result."

Meanwhile, Dr. George Gyssling, German vice consul here, who Tuesday declined to testify before the inquiry, without approval of the German embassy at Washington, said he had received at least 12 anonymous telephone threats against the lives of himself and family in the past few weeks. He expressed belief that the callers were "simply fanatics" and said he did not deem it necessary to inform police.

The protection of witnesses and those mentioned in testimony against possible violence also was advanced as a consideration in the decision to make the hearing an officially secret affair.

"Overthrow Planned"

Testimony that an alleged pro-Nazi organization known as the Silver Shirts of San Diego had been plotting overthrow of the United States government and had obtained rifles and ammunition from American military sources preceded the inquiry on communist activity.

Velney Mooney, attorney for the congressional sub-committee on un-American activities, Disclosed the reason for closing the hearing as the head of the Los Angeles police department's anti-red squad was summoned to testify.

Urging closing of the doors, Mooney said the testimony "would never be made public" because of its internationally "poisonous" nature.

After debating the matter, the sub-committee, headed by representative Kramer of California, followed Mooney's recommendation.

Subpoenas Issued

Witnesses present at the time were Captain Hynes and Miss Marguerite Kerr, secretary-manager of the Better American Federation.

Subpoenas were issued for the appearance of three communists, but appeared voluntarily, saying they were willing and ready to testify. Those who appeared were Meyer Lolin, educational director of the communist party in the Los Angeles district; Lawrence Ross, communist candidate for congress and once a candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, and Pettis Perry, negro, communist candidate for lieutenant governor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

medy side of the fire department's early existence, he probably will not remember a single yarn. But catch him off his guard, when he's talking informally, you find he has many a funny yarn up his sleeve. Months ago a reporter heard some of those stories, kept them in notes.

Jack Robinson, a former chief, gave the department a large two-cylinder automobile. A hose box was built on it.

"I helped push that car farther than it ever ran," Twitty said.

"One New Year's night the west side burned out. The city marshal's gun was the only alarm.

"I cranked on that old car until my tongue lolled out, and never an answer. So we pushed it up to the fire.

"And then, when no one was on it, the engine started. I've never found out what started that motor."

First paid fireman was employed in 1916 when an truck, driven by a gasoline motor, was purchased. Today there are seven pieces of fire fighting equipment and a scout car.

Destruction of the Temple Ellis building in 1930, on an election night, was the worst fire the department has fought. Loss exceeded $150,000.

In the department's earlier days, the chief's place was an honorary job. Twitty first was named chief in 1912. He became the first paid chief in 1925 when firemen and apparatus moved into City hall. A sub-station is maintained on Nineteenth street.

and very bright boy, was wearing a shirt and trousers over his swimming suit when he left home Tuesday. When found dead late that day, he was clad only in the swimming suit.

Officers searched all of yesterday for the boy's outer garments but were unable to find them. When discovered today, the shirt was stuffed into the trousers. No blood stains were noticeable.

Authorities had been unable to determine definitely whether the mysterious hanging was accidental or a slaying.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—The stock market fell back, cancelling yesterday's gains, only to recover again under leadership of the silver issues after news of the nationalization of silver today.

Losses of 1 to 2 points were numerous in the morning, but the list turned extremely dull as traders tried to digest President Roosevelt's Green Bay, Wis., address and the silver nationalization order, just before midday. In the early afternoon, silver issues, after wavering uncertainly on the first appearance of the news, started upward, and most of the early losses in other divisions were cancelled or reduced to small fractions. Grains and cotton encountered profit taking and bonds were heavy.

U. S. Smelting, normally a wide mover, rose 5 points, and American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco advanced moderately. Gold stocks regained most of early losses. Among issues which about regained losses of 1 to 2 points were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Dupont, Sears Roebuck, General Motors, American Can, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Dome, McIntyre, and others. Several showed little response to the ordering of another quarterly dividend of $1.50.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Cotton opened steady, 1 lower to 3 higher with buying on continued dry weather in the western belt offset by quite active profit-taking. Oct. 13.62; Dec. 13.79; Jan. 13.85; Mch 13.95; May 14.03; July 14.06.

Orders were quite evenly divided at the start between the guying encouraged by reports of continued drouth in the west and overnight realizing. The offerings were absorbed quite readily at the opening prices, however, and the market stiffened up several points right after the call on an apparent broadening of the buying movement through trade or commission house sources.

December sold up to 13.85 and March to 14.01, or a point above the best prices of lat yesterday and about 6 to 7 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Realizing continued, however, and the market was 4 or 5 points off from the best at the end of the first half hour.

A reactionary tone developed in cotton after the force of the early buying movement subsided.

Realizing became more active, with the disposition to secure profits promoted by the action of the grain and stock markets when December contracts sold off to 12.63 or about 22 points from the high level of the morning. It met a renewed demand at this level, however, and steadied up later in the morning on buying influenced partly by reports from Washington regarding the nationalization of silver.

At midday December was selling around 13.78 and March 13.95 or at about yesterday's closing quotations.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9 (AP)—Cotton opened steady with Liverpool cables better than due. The initial gain here of one to two points was hardly a full response. Prices reacted a point after the start but rallied again on the absence of any rains reports from the west. October traded at 13.64 and December to 13.81, or 2 to 4 points above the close of yesterday.

The big advance of yesterday appeared to be well sustained at the start in spite of more or less profit-taking.

Cotton ruled quite active most of the morning. Following the slight early advance, prices eased off on profit-taking, coupled with some selling by map-readers on indicated rains for the west. October dropped to 13.49 and December to 13.63, or 13 to 14 points below the close of yesterday.

Late in the morning, the market recovered sharply on reports of a government change of policy with regard to silver, as indicated in the president's address this morning. Prices moved up to new highs for the movement and season, October reaching 13.70 and December 13.85, or 21 to 22 points above the lows and 8 points above yesterday's close.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. (AP)—Nationalization of silver, ordered today by President Roosevelt, resulted in immediate enlargement of speculative buying on the Chicago board of trade, and all grain prices rose excitedly. The entire list of cereals soared to above any previous top records this year, and closed strong at virtually the topmost figures attained.

Numerous traders construed the president's action as a direct step toward inflation.

The maximum gain for wheat as compared with yesterday's finish was exactly 4 cents a bushel.

Wheat closed 1 3-8 to 1 5-8 net higher, Dec. new 1.13 1-4 to 3-8; corn 3 1-8 to 3 5-8 up, Dec. 79 1-2 to 34, oats 1 3-4 to 2 3-8 advanced, and provisions showing 17 to 32 cents gain.

Wheat, No. 2 red 1.10; No. 1 hard 1.14 1-2; No. 2 mixed 1.13 1-2; corn, No. 2 mixed 76 3-4 to 78 1-2; No. 1 yellow 79 1-4; No. 1 white 79-80; sample grade 70-76; oats, No. 2 white 54 3-4 to 55; no rye; barley 60-95.

Government Buying To Resume Monday

AUSTIN, Aug. 9. (AP)—R. D. McCrum, cattle movement supervisor, said government purchase of distress cattle likely would be resumed Monday.

He estimated 53,000 head remained in receiving pens today after movement of the state's daily quota of 10,000 head. He estimated the cost of feeding cattle on hand would be $10,000 daily, a factor prompting suspension Tuesday of buying.

New instructions were issued by McCrum to administrators in sixty counties in the tick quarantine area when buying is resumed. Owners will be required to obtain removal permits from the county inspector of the livestock sanitary commission before moving cattle from the premises. Owners of infested cattle will be required to dip them before they can be moved interstate.

To serve 17,000 consolidated schools in the United States, 47,500 buses are being used.

Former Farmer Has Plan For Planting

An answer to the problem of feed shortage, now looming in this section, has been offered by E. Gililand, 1312 Avenue O, a former farmer and for 31 years a resident of the South Plains.

Mr. Gililland suggests mixing seed wheat with either maize or hegira and planting the mixture immediately. "There is plenty time for maize or hegira to mature providing rain falls soon," he said. "If there is enough rain the wheat and the other grain could be grazed together.

"If it rains only enough to get the maize to come up, the grain would soon die, but the wheat would sprout two or three times if it should rain later."

Mr. Gililland said hay already was being shipped here and unless moisture fell soon the feed situation would be serious.

economic system and the laws of economics as the medical profession has learned about the human system.

Defends Plow-Up

"If it is sound for industry to limit supplies in order to save industry, it should also be sound for cotton producers to limit supplies in order to save their homes, farms, and standards of living," Mr. Duggan declared. "Each of you will agree that it was sound to even plow under four million bales of cotton in the summer of 1933 in order to prevent a national calamity. It would have been impossible to have prevented an utter collapse of the cotton market if we had harvested seventeen million bales of cotton in 1934. With the price of cotton around ten cents it was necessary to place restriction on production of cotton in 1934. If there had been no restriction on the 1934 acreage we would probably have planted the largest acreage ever planted in this country."

He pointed out that through the reduction program, the farmer was able to take his family out of the field by reason of his increased income and thereby raise the standard of living on the farm.

BANKHEAD ACT

000,000 in rental, benefit and "parity" payments from the government. Of this $34,691,228 already has gone out to 936,138 farmers.

3. Farmers who harvest less than their quota will be allowed to sell tax-exemption certificates they do not need to growers whose production is above allotments. This is expected to help out the southwest, where the blight of aridity is worst.

Guesses At Value

Secretary Wallace ventured a "rough guess" that the value of the certificates would be between $15 and $20 per bale. There was a slight possibility, he indicated, that the government itself might buy certificates, but he emphasized no such plan was under discussion yet.

Wallace cautioned against too literal use of the estimated cotton production. He said "cotton is the most difficult of all crops to estimate during the growing season" and pointed to the possibility of the crop in western cotton states still producing better yields if rains come this month.

He also observed that the short crop in prospect would probably result in bringing the domestic carryover down to about the normal figure of 5,000,000 bales next year.

Because of this, the secretary said, farmers, dealers and ginners should decide whether they want to continue to hold the present 8,000,000-bale share of the world market or bring production more in line with domestic consumption.

Wallace also urged cotton farmers holding participation certificates on cotton in the 1933 producers pool, not to sacrifice them or sell them at a discount.

"We are at work on a plan whereby producers will be able to sell these certificates to the pool at the market," he said.

"These participation certificates are worth somewhere around $15 per bale. I urge that the holders of the certificates do not sacrifice them or sell them at a discount until they have had an opportunity to offer them to the pool and receive the difference between the 10 cents per pound plus carrying charges and the market price."

Mr. Duggan said there had been criticism of the Bankhead bill which the administration expected.

Eliminates Confusion

"You can understand why it is necessary to have some regulations and some order when trying to deal with two million producers with different conditions and different situations; otherwise we would have an endless amount of confusion."

Mr. Duggan urged farmers to demand of their county agents, vocational agricultural teachers and other agricultural workers complete information and assistance in understanding this information on the cotton program and before voting on the Bankhead bill for the 1934-35 season. Unless this is done, wrong decisions will be made because of lack of information, misinformation and a misunderstanding of the information.

Program Not New

Mr. Duggan declared there was no phase of the present cotton program which was new and cited instances where its details had been presented in previous voluntary cotton reduction campaigns.

He said the processing tax was paying the way for the reduction program and declared it aids and holds foreign markets.

He declared only those interests who get a fixed charge per bale for their services were violently opposed to the Bankhead act.

Not Aiding Markets

Mr. Molyneaux, a close student of southern economics, spoke on the foreign market situation and said his greatest criticism of the government was that it was putting all its time to limiting production and none to promoting markets and consumption.

He recalled the days concurrent with the outbreak of the World war and declared they should have taught us that we're tied up to the neck with foreign markets.

Depends On Export

"Nine out of ten bales produced in Texas must be sold outside the United States," Mr. Molyneaux said and pointed out that the exports per family in the state fell from $600 in 1928 to $200 in 1932.

Mr. Molyneaux said the tariff kept foreign goods out of our country and therefore cut off the only possible means of repayment of foreign debts.

World Problem Now

"It used to be our problem to pay Europe and the rest of the world but now it's the world's problem to get us to accept payment in the only way it can be paid—goods".

He blamed the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill for the situation and declared the support of "you blue-shirted fellows from the forks of the creek" is needed to make politicians see that the situation must be remedied.

"If we can get the American people aroused to break up this tariff racket, we will be safe again on recovery and can restore our foreign markets," he concluded. "Restore international trade and you can have recovery."

ROOSEVELT

have greatly drawn in setting up the permanent and temporary agencies of government." As he spoke of the friends of the "new deal", the president talked out also about the opponents.

"In one year and five months," he said, "the people of the United States have received at least a partial answer to their demands for action.

"But action may be delayed by two types of individuals.

"First there is the man whose objectives are wholly right and wholly progressive but who declined to cooperate or even to discuss methods of arriving at the objectives because he insists on his own methods and nobody elses.

Discusses Confidence

"The other type to which I refer is the individual who demands some message of the people of the United States that will restore what he calls "confidence". When I hear this I cannot help but remember the pleas made by the government and certain types of so-called "big business" all through the years 1930, 1931 and 1932 that the only thing lacking in the United States was confidence." And thus, Mr. Roosevelt declared out here in "a state destined for extraordinary achievements" his principles for the future.

"In the great national movement that culminated in 1932," he said, "people joined with enthusiasm. They lent hand and voice to the common cause, irrespective of many older political traditions. They saw the dawn of a new day. They were on the march; they were coming back into the possession of their own home land.

"It sounded to some like the call for a new political alignment. It was delivered in a state where such is going on.

"What To Say?"

"Before I left on my trip," the president said, "I received two letters from important men, both of them pleading that I say something to restore confidence. To both of them I wrote identical answers: "What would you like to have me say?" From one of them I have received no reply at all six weeks later. I take it that he is still wondering how to answer. The other man wrote me frankly that in his judgment the way to restore confidence was for me to declare that all supervision by all forms of government, federal and state, over all forms of human activity called business should be forthwith abolished.

"In other words, he was frank enough to imply that he would repeal all laws, state or national, which regulate business — that a utility could henceforth charge any rate, reasonable or otherwise; that the railroads could go back to rebates and other secret agreements; that the processors of food stuffs could disregard all rules of health and of good faith; that the unregulated wild-cat banking of a century ago could be restored; that fraudulent securities and watered stock could be palmed off on the public; that stock manipulation which caused panics and enriched insiders could go unchecked. In fact, if we were to listen to him, the old law of the tooth and the claw would reign once more.

"No Lack Of Confidence"

"My friends, the people of the United States will not restore that ancient order. There is no lack of confidence on the part of those businessmen, farmers and workers who clearly read the signs of times. Sound economic improvement comes from the improved conditions of the whole population and not a small fraction thereof.

"Those who would measure confidence in this country in the future must look first to the average citizen.

"Confidence is returning to our agricultural population who, in spite of unpredictable and uncontrollable drouth in a large area is giving understanding cooperation to practical planning and the end of the useless bickering and sectional thinking of the past. Confidence is returning to the manufacturers who, in overwhelming numbers, are comparing the black ink of today with the red ink of many years gone by; to the workers who have achieved under the national recovery administration rights for which they fought unsuccessfully for a generation; to the men and women whose willing hands found no work and who have been saved from starvation by government relief; to the youngsters whose childhood has been saved to them by the abolition of child labor; to the fair and sincere bankers and financiers and business men, big and little, who now, for the first time, find government cooperating with them in new attempts to put the golden rule into the temples of finance; to the home owners who have been saved from the stark threat of foreclosure and to the small investors and savers of the nation who, for the first time, rightly believe that their savings are secure.

"No Injustice Sought"

"These are the elements that make for confidence in the future. This government intends no injury to honest business. The processes we follow in seeking social justice do not in adding to general prosperity take from one give to another. In this modern world, the spreading out of opportunity ought not to consist of robbing Peter to pay Paul. We are concerned with more than mere subtraction and addition. We are concerned with the multiplication of wealth through cooperative action—wealth in which all can share."

The president referred to the "new deal" as "a square deal" and quoted from a speech in congress in this connection generally attributed to Representative Burke (D-Neb), who is running for the Nebraska senatorial nomination against Gov. Bryan.

The Democratic governor of Wisconsin, A. G. Schmedeman, introduced Mr. Roosevelt.

The tremendous crowd, stretching far back in the bright sun at Bay beach, applauded enthusiastically as the president declared that "action" has not "reached the end of the road."

Robinson Selected As Assistant Chief

J. W. (Big Jim) Robinson has been named assistant chief of police responsible for the force working at night, Chief H. L. Johnston said today.

Robinston will remain on duty in the patrol automobile, but will be in constant touch with the station through the shortwave radio. Robinson was employed by Chief Johnston soon after the latter received his appointment from City commission.

Prospect Of Strike Settlement Is Dim

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 9 (AP)—Prospects of an early settlement of the oil workers' strike in the northwest Texas field decreased yesterday when members of Burkburnett local No. 258 of the International Association of Oil Field Workers failed to agree on a contract submitted by an arbitration committee.

The strike has been in progress since last Thursday approximately 150 men are idle because of the strike.

Hoodlums Set Fire To Kidnap Victim

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 9. (AP)—With her clothing in flames, Mrs. Bertha Deutsch, 43, was hurled, bound and gagged, from a motor car early today after two men had kidnaped her some time before.

She was found by John White who saw what he thought was a bundle of burning trash in the street in front of his home. He found Mrs. Deutsch moaning with pain. She was taken to a hospital where her condition was reported to be not serious.

It was the third time Mrs. Deutsch had been kidnaped within the last five months.

Plainview Legion Names John Scott

NURSE OF DIONNE QUINTUPLETS IS BURNED BY FIRE

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 9 (AP)—A blaze from an alcohol lamp that might have brought disaster to the Dionne quintuplets yesterday painfully burned Mme. Louise De Kirkline, nurse for the 72-day old babies.

Twenty-four hours previously the antics of a night prowler had brought additional worries to the occupants of the little farm home.

A curious camper or tourists was believed responsible for the uneasiness caused Monday night. Suspicions of a kidnaping threat were not taken seriously by members of the household. Day and night guards are keeping vigil as they have done previously.

The fire, although not serious, furnished a scare. Mme. De Kirkline as busy cleaning milk bottle nipples in front of an alchohol lamp. Her clothing suddenly was ignited. She suffered burns about her hands and body and after treatment was taken to a cottage camp provided for the nursing staff.

hands of a clock racing—racing—wondered and hoped. There is no human agony so great as suspense.

Two Others Share Fate

Two men share her fate. They are the ones, Vincent Saetta and Samuel Faracci, who stabbed and shot her husband, Salvatore, dead the night before Easter, 1932. She schemed the crime, greedy for Salvatore's $5,000 insurance. They did him in. Yet even today, as thrice before, they are but shadows who will shuffle one after the other to death, all but lost to notice as the spotlight burns bright on the woman. They will die just as certainly, but they will be incidents. It is Anna Antonio who dies tonight—a woman, a mother, a husband killer.

Scatta, glum, uncommunicative, lethargic saved her once. At the very last minute, as the witnesses were gathered, the executioner ready, the condemned woman reconciled, he told a new story. It absolved her from all blame. He killed Salvatore, he said, over a $75 debt. Faracci was there. Saetta didn't know whether Faracci struck a blow or not. It was dark. But Saetta knew that he himself struck blows and that he killed Salvatore. Mrs. Antonio? She no have nothing to do with it. No. No.

She was too unnerved to say a word when, late yesterday, a guard told her that Supreme Court Justice O. Byron Brewster at Elizabethtown, had refused her plea for a new trial. She had asked for a new hearing on the strength of new evidence—the testimony of a priest which confirmed her own story.

The justice said the new evidence was not such as would have altered the jury's decision.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 2
Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That the Constitution of the State of Texas, Article 16, be amended by adding thereto another Section, Section 61, which shall read as follows:

"Section 61. All district officers in the State and all county officers in counties having a population of twenty thousand (20,000), or more, according to the then last preceding Federal census, shall hereafter be compensated on a salary basis. In all counties of this State the Commissioners' Court shall be authorized to determine whether precinct officers shall be compensated on a fee basis or on a salary basis; and in counties having a population of less than twenty thousand (20,000) according to the then last preceding Federal census, the Commissioners' Court shall also have the authority to determine whether county officers shall be compensated on a fee basis or on a salary basis. All fees earned by district, county or precinct officers shall be paid into the County Treasury where earned, for the account of the proper fund, provided that fees incurred by the State, county and any municipality, or in case where pauper's oath is filed, shall be paid to the County Treasury, when collected, and provided that where any officer is compensated wholly on a fee basis, such fees may be retained by such officer, or paid into the Treasury of the county as the Commissioners' Court may direct. All Notaries Public, County Surveyors and Public Weighers shall continue to be compensated on a fee basis."

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional amendment shall be submitted to vote of the qualified voters of this State and the next general election to be held on Tuesday, after the first Monday in November, A. D., 1934, at which election all voters favoring said proposed amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas adding Section 61 to Article XVI, abolishing the fee system of compensating all district officers and all county officers in counties having a population of twenty thousand (20,000) or more; and authorizing the Commissioners' Court to determine whether County officers in counties containing less than twenty thousand (20,000) population shall be compensated on a fee basis or a salary basis; and authorizing the Commissioners' Court in all counties of this State to determine whether precinct officers shall be compensated on a fee or a salary basis."

"Against the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas adding Section 61 to Article XVI, abolishing the fee system of compensating all district officers and all county officers in counties having a population of twenty thousand (20,000) or more; and authorizing the Commissioners' Court to determine whether county officers in counties containing less than twenty thousand (20,000) population shall be compensated on a fee basis or a salary basis and authorizing the Commisioners' Court in all counties of this State to determine whether precinct officers shall be compensated on a fee or a salary basis."

Each voter shall scratch out with pen or pencil the clause which he desires to vote against so as to indicate whether he is voting for or against said proposed amendment.

Provided, further, that in case of war, riots, or insurrection, or a statewide calamity caused by earthquake, fire, flood or an epidemic which seriously threatens the health of the citizens of this State, the Legislature shall have authority, by a two-thirds vote of both Houses, to suspend for a definite period this constitution limitation as to the amount of money which may be collected and expended during the biennium."

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D., 1934, at which election each ballot shall have printed the words:

"For the Amendment of Section 3 of Article VIII of the State Constitution providing for the levying and collection of taxes and fixing the maximum amount thereof which can be collected and expended each biennium."

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 14
Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That there be added to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas a new section to be numbered Section 2-A and to have five (5) lettered subdivisions and which section shall read as follows:

"Section 2-A.

"(a) General management and control of the affairs of the County shall hereafter be vested in the Commissioners' Court, provided that in the exercise of powers not specifically granted to the Commissioners' Court by the Constitution and Amendments thereto, the Court shall be subject to the authority of the Legislature of the State, and the Court shall also be subject to all general laws of the State now in force not in conflict with the provisions of this Amendment until such laws are modified or repealed.

"(b) All duties heretofore performed by the Clerk of the District Court and the County Clerk shall hereafter be performed by an officer to be known as Record Clerk; all duties heretofore performed by the County Tax Assessor and the County Tax Collector shall hereafter be performed by one officer known as Tax Clerk; and in the counties where the sheriff performs the duties of the Tax Collector he may hereafter perform the duties of the Tax Clerk. The Record Clerk and the Tax Clerk shall be elected to hold office for a term of two (2) years and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. The Commissioners Court shall have authority to combine the office of County Treasurer and office of County Surveyor, or to combine either, or both, of said offices with any county office. Within the maximum and minimum limits prescribed by the Legislature the Commissioners' Court shall have authority to fix the compensation of all county and precinct officers, except County Auditor, County Judge and County Commissioners. The Legislature shall fix the compensation of District Judges, District Attorneys, County Judges and the County Commissioners and may provide for a County auditor and prescribe his duties and fix his compensation and the number and compensation of his assistants. The Commissioners' Court shall fix the compensation of and determine the number of deputies assistants and clerical personnel of all precinct officers and county officers except the county auditor.

"(c) City and county officers and employees may, in addition to their duties as such city and county officers or employees, be required to perform such other similar duties for cities, towns and districts within the county, or for the county, as may be mutually agreed upon and contracted for between the Commissioners' Court of said county and governing board, or boards, of such cities, towns and districts; and the cost of such service shall be provided for in said contracts and paid by such county, cities, towns or districts into the Treasury of the county or city, town or district, as provided for in said contract. All such contracts shall be approved by the Attorney General of this State and such contracts shall not cover a period longer than two (2) years.

"(d) The Legislature shall have authority, by general law, to provide for complete forms of county government and organizations different from that provided for in this Constitution to become effective in any county when submitted in such manner as may be prescribed by the Legislature to the qualified voters of such county in an election held for such purpose and approved by a majority of the qualified voters in said election. Provided, however, that no such law shall impair the power of the Commissioners' Court to determine the compensation of county and precinct officers other than the County Auditor, to fix the number of assistants, deputies, and clerical personnel which said officers may employ; nor shall such general law change the present constitutional limitations as the particular and total tax levies for any or all county purposes; nor shall such general law change the present constitutional limitations on counties to incur public debts.

"(e) In any and all cases where provisions of the Constitution of this State are in conflict with the provisions of this Amendment, the provision of this Amendment (Section 2-A, Article IX) shall control; provided, however, should any county adopt a Home Rule Charter under authority of any provisions of the State Constitution or Amendment thereto, this Amendment shall not be applicable to such county."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the electors of this State, qualified to vote on Constitutional Amendments, at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D., 1934, at which election each ballot shall have printed thereon the words:

"For the Amendment of Article IX of the State Constitution by adding Section 2-A thereto, giving the Commissioners' Court general management and control of county affairs, and authorizing the Legislature to provide more economical forms of county government and different than as now provided by law."

"Against the Amendment of Article IX of the State Constitution by adding Section 2-A thereto, giving the Commissioners' Court general management and control of county affairs, and authorizing the Legislature to provide more economical forms of county government, and different than as now provided by law."

Each voter shall scratch out with pen or pencil the clause which he desires to vote against so as to indicate whether he is voting for or against said proposed amendment.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 16
Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 1 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 1. Taxation to be equal and uniform. All taxation shall be equal and uniform. All property in this State, whether owned by natural persons or corporations other than municipal, shall be taxed in proportion to its value, which shall be ascertained as may be provided by law. The Legislature may by general laws make reasonable classifications of all property other than real property for the purpose of taxation, and may impose different rates thereon; provided that the taxation of all property in any class shall be equal and uniform. The Legislature may impose a poll tax. It may also impose occupation taxes, both upon natural persons and upon corporations, other than municipal, doing business in this State. It may also tax incomes of both natural persons and corporations other than municipal, except that persons engaged in mechanical and agricultural pursuits shall never be required to pay an occupation tax; provided that Two Hundred Fifty ($250.00) Dollars worth of household and kitchen furniture belonging to each family in the State, shall be exempt from taxation, and provided further that the occupation tax levied by any county, city or town for any year on persons or corporations pursuing any profession or business, shall not exceed one-half of the tax levied by the State for the same period of such profession or business."

Section 2. The foregoing amendment to the Constitution of Texas shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1934. At this election, all voters favoring said amendment shall write, or have printed, on their ballots the words:

"For the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas providing that taxation of real property shall be equal and uniform; and that all property in this State, other than that owned by municipal corporations, shall be taxed in proportion to its value as ascertained as may be provided by law; and providing that the Legislature may make reasonable classifications of all property, other than real property, for the purpose of taxation, and that the taxation of all property in any class shall be equal and uniform; and providing further that the Legislature may impose poll tax and occupation tax and income tax and exempting from occupation tax persons engaged in mechanical and agricultural pursuits; and exempting from taxation Two Hundred Fifty ($250.00) Dollars worth of household and kitchen furniture belonging to each family; and providing that the occupation tax levied by any county, city or town shall not exceed one-half that levied by the State for the same period."

Those voters opposing said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas providing that taxation of real property shall be equal and uniform; and that all property in this State, other than that owned by municipal corporations shall be taxed in proportion to its value as ascertained as may be provided by law; and providing that the Legislature may make reasonable classification of all property, other than real property, for the purpose of taxation; and that the taxation of all property in any class shall be equal and uniform; and providing further that the Legislature may impose poll tax and occupation tax and income tax, and exempting from occupation tax persons engaged in mechanical and agricultural pursuits; exempting from taxation Two Hundred Fifty ($250.00) Dollars worth of household and kitchen furniture belonging to each family, and providing that the occupation tax levied by any county, city or town shall not exceed one-half that levied by the State for the same period."

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 13
Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 3 of Article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Texas be so amended as to hereinafter read as follows:

"Section 3. Taxes shall be levied and collected by general laws and for public purposes only; and the total amount of revenue which the State shall be authorized to collect during such biennium from taxes, licenses, permits and fees, (except fees paid by students to state educational institutions, and except rentals, houses and royalties obtained from public lands and other public property) shall not exceed a sum reasonably estimated to equal the product obtained by multiplying the number of the inhabitants of this State by the sum of Twenty-two and 50-100 ($22.50) Dollars; provided, however, the total amount of such revenue which may be so collected, shall be reduced by the amount of any surplus funds or unexpended appropriations remaining at the close of the preceding biennium. The expenditures of the State government of funds derived from the sources above referred to shall never exceed during any biennium, a sum equal to the product obtained by multiplying the number of inhabitants of this State by the sum of Twenty-two and 50-100 ($22.50) Dollars, provided however, that the population of the State (in determining the amount of revenue which may be collected thus obtained) shall be determined by the then last preceding Federal census, to which population shall be added or deducted, as the case may be, for each year that has lapsed since the last preceding Federal census, the average yearly increase or decrease of the population as and tell her to come over.

BY WALTER C. BROWN

"Yes, and call up Aline and Richard. Mr. and Mrs. Croyden," he explained to the detective. "Mrs. Croyden is my wife's sister. Their house is on the next street. You can see a corner of it from our back windows."

Andrews went to rouse the sleeping Whitmores. There was a special telephone connection between the rear of the house and the rooms over the garage.

"Is it necessary to have all these men running through the house?" Dufresne questioned testily. "The place seems to be swarming with police. Who are all these men and what the devil are they doing here?"

"There are certain regulations and formalities to be complied with in a case of this sort," Harper explained. "These men are doing routine work. As soon as it is completed, they'll clear out."

They went into the breakfast-room and Harper closed the door. Although Harper was watching closely, he could detect no spark of emotion on Dufresne's face as he stood inside the door and surveyed the murder scene. With the two faces there before him, Harper saw that there was indeed a startling resemblance, more than enough to confuse the casual eye.

"That's the way we found them. The electric lights were not on. Now, Mr. Dufresne, does that suggest anything to you?"

Dufresne shook his head. "I am completely mystified, Harper. I cannot tell you why any man should try to murder me nor why he should disguise himself in that fashion, break in here, and then shoot a policeman. I can't even understand why the policeman entered the house. I assume that this is the man who has been threatening me."

"It seems likely. While we have not yet established any definite connection, the circumstances of the events from this afternoon on can hardly be laid to absolute coincidence."

Harper removed the false moustache, the goatee, the eye-glasses. At once the resemblance to Dufresne was dissipated. This man was at least ten years younger. The lines of his face exhibited strength, persistence, and determination. Doggedness was in the line of his jaw. Not at all the lineaments of an imbecile, nor those of a homicidal maniac.

"I never saw this man before in my life," Dufresne declared, emphatically.

"Are you quite sure of that, Mr. Dufresne? Remember, he had probably been following you about for some time. Think well."

"I am positive. I have a good memory of faces—an excellent memory. I do not know this man. I have never seen him before."

"Would you have any objections to my bringing in the others and asking them the same question?"

"Not at all, Harper. I believe that would be the best procedure."

Sergeant Harper called in Dr. Miller and the two ambulance men. "We'll be all through in a few minutes," he said. "Then you can strip this body and take it away. In the meantime, you may remove Hamill."

There was now more confusion than ever. Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore had arrived and were listening, wide-eyed and almost incredulous, to the low-voiced explanations of Andrews.

The man had come up from Headquarters with the missing gray and white dusting powders for the insufflator, and Harper set the fingerprint man to work on the decanters and glass and the two guns.

The trained nurse Dr. Ulrich had summoned arrived in a taxicab and was whisked upstairs by the doctor before the detective had a chance to see her face.

But for all the activity, the house remained what it had seemed when Harper first arrived—a house filled with the grisly feel of death.

R. W. BARRY

Under Texas' Massive Capitol Dome

With R. W. Barry

Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Aug. 9. (AP)—The Texas legislature's latest effort to speedily get election returns to the secretary of state after the unofficial count was completed has failed.

Election judges were directed to send to the county chairman the unofficial total as soon as it was available and the county chairman was instructed by law to telegraph or communicate in the most expeditious way the county total to the secretary of state.

Few Complied With Law

Failure to comply with those requirements was made a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, but few county chairmen complied with the law. It was a week after the July 28 Democratic primary was held before the secretary of state received returns from as many as one-third of the counties.

Meanwhile an organization of newspapers had given to Texans the result of the election at great cost. The leisurely action of election officials suggests that if it were necessary to wait on the state to gather the returns it would be impossible to obtain the results before the second primary had come and gone.

New Method Possible

Many states gather election returns as a part of the governmental function. Perhaps the Texas legislature will finally devise a way to collect the results of elections as a service without leaving the expensive burden to the newspapers or other private enterprise.

The secretary of state always has a difficult time getting the returns. After the legislature strengthened the law bearing on collection of returns, he thought there would be quicker action but he was disappointed. A large staff of tabulators was kept on the job night and day for several days but there was little for them to do.

Three Charged In Oil Camp Slaying

CONROE, Aug. 9. (AP)—Rubin and Edgar Wilkerson and Forrest Hudspeth were in jail here today in connection with the slaying of Ellis Wilkerson, 30, of Crosby, at an oil camp near Wigginsville Monday night.

A charge of murder was filed against Rubin and charges of assault to murder were filed against Edgar Wilkerson and Hudspeth.

The men met at Ellis Wilkerson's camp in the oil field. He was killed in an exchange of 12 to 15 shots, investigators said after the men engaged in a dispute over family affairs.

Hoover's Book To Defend U. S. System

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. (AP)—Herbert Hoover's "The Challenge To Liberty" will defend what the former president calls "the American system" of government, it was said today by his publishers, Charles Scribner's Sons.

The book will include critical considerations of fascism, communism, and socialism, and a frontal attack on "national regimentation" and bureaucracy, which Mr. Hoover says endanger the entire structure of American liberty.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable refer that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.
