ASKS LIMIT ON BROKERS, TRANSACTIONS

Federal Trade Commission Recommend Legislation to Curtail Unnecessary Business by Middlemen.

Suggests Wider Distribution of Market Information Regarding Conditions to Aid Buyers.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Legislation to eliminate unnecessary brokerage transactions, to facilitate a wide distribution of information regarding market conditions and strengthen the powers of the federal government in its price investigations is recommended by the federal trade commission in a report of the general industrial situation, drawn up at the request of President Harding and made public tonight at the white house.

"Open price associations" which operate within the law to keep their respective members advised confidentially of another's price schedules are accused by the commission of contributing to the maintenance of unduly high retail prices. It is suggested that means must be found to reduce costs of necessities, such as fuel and housing, before other commodities can come back to normal.

Shrinkage Inevitable.

"It should be said," the report concluded, "that following the disordered condition of the world's affairs, a shrinkage in values is inevitable and that normal conditions will be more quickly restored if the producers, the laborers, the manufacturers, the jobber and the retailer, will each share at once in the unavoidable loss and further that any effort by any element to place its share of the common loss on the shoulders of others, and particularly of the consumer, can but result in a continuation of the conditions under which the country is now suffering."

Declaring that the cost of commodities to the consumer has not broadly speaking, been reduced in proper proportion to the decline in agricultural and other raw materials, the committee sets forth its belief that " in general the movement toward reduction of prices is retarded at the retailing stage and that relief at this point would be reflected back in increasing production, which would reduce the production cost and relieve to some extent the check upon the manufacture and by increasing the demand for raw materials would react upon the producers.

Condemns Associations.

The report also makes note of the influence of foreign combinations of capital in determining the prices of phosphate, tobacco and grain, and adds that among domestic combinations one of the most widespread agencies for affecting markets is the "open price association."

"One of the purposes of these associations," the report continues, "nominally is to determine uniform costs accounting methods and to steady the market by furnishing the supply which it can readily absorb. These associations collect and publish for the benefit of their members figures of production, production costs, sales and sales prices and orders and stocks, in pursuance of a plan whereby the members of such associations are to compete among themselves and with others with knowledge of their own and their competitor's production and prices, the available supply and the demand.

The collection and public dissemination of such statistical data might make the operation of such associations of benefit to the producer and the consumer alike, but unfortunately the tendency is here manifested to confine the information to members and to bring about uniform prices and to maintain them at an artificially high level by curtailing production or supply through action which tends strongly toward uniformity because based upon common information, but which purports to lack the element of concerted agreement characteristic of the combinations forbidden by the Sherman law.

"A fundamental difficulty at the present time lies in the fact that there is no complete information available to anyone with reference to the proper adjustment of manufacturers', wholesalers and retailers' prices in any industry. When it becomes possible for any fact-finding governmental body to determine at any stage the cost which a commodity represents at that stage, it can be determined whether an excessive charge is being placed thereon."

HUGHES TELLS GOMPERS NO RESUMPTION OF RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA NOW POSSIBLE

Secretary of State Declares Existence of Political and Economical System Prohibits Such Action.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Secretary Hughes, writing to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who asked for a statement of "the facts" regarding Russia, indicates definitely that there is no prospect of a resumption of relations with the United States while the soviet political and economical system remains.

The letter of the secretary of states makes direct reference to various statements, characteristized as propaganda, which contend that resumption of relations, trade or political with the soviets, would open a great current of trade advantage to the United States and that large shipments of Russian gold have already been made to other countries in payment for goods.

Soviet Russia, Secretary Hughes declares, "is a gigantic economic vacuum," and he adds that "no evidence exists that the unfortunate situation is likely to be alleviated so long as the present political and economic systems continues."

Reports Propaganda.

Taking up specifically the charge that the scarcity of goods in Russia is due to the blockade which was removed July 8, 1920, and the statement that the demand for manufactured goods in Russia is so great and the purchasing power of the soviets so vast that it is almost impossible to determine the capacity of the Russian market to imports, Secretary Hughes wrote:

"Though there is almost no limit to the amount and variety of commodities urgently needed by Russia, the purchasing power of the country is now at a premium and the demand must consequently remain satisfied. . . . The attitude and action of the present authorities of Russia have tended to undermine its political and economical relations with other countries. The Russian people are unable to obtain credit which might otherwise be based on the vast potential wealth of Russia and are compelled to be deprived of commodities immediately necessary for consumption, raw materials and permanent productive equipment.

It should not be overlooked that there has been a steady degeneraton in even those industries in soviet Russia that were not dependent upon imports of either raw material or partly finished products, nor in which has there been any shortage of labor. . . .

No Relation Possible.

"There can be no relation of the failure of all these industries to blockades of civil war, for most of them require no imports, and the men mobilized since the soviet revolution were far less in number than before that event.

"Restrictions on direct trade with Russia were removed by the United States on July 8, 1920. The conclusion of treaties of peace with the Baltic states enabled Russia freely to enter upon trade with Europe and and European goods have been sold to Russia, but the volume of trade has been unimportant, due to the inability of Russia to pay for imports.

Place Orders Here

"It is true that agents purporting to be representatives of the so-called Bolshevist commissariat of foreign trade have placed immense orders for the purchase of goods in the United States, Europe and Asia. It is estimated that perhaps six and one-half billion dollars worth of orders

MURDER CRY BRINGS OUT DEPARTMENT

Hearing Prisoner in County Jail Screaming, Passers-by Turn in Fire Alarm.

Cries of murder and fire from Heinie Jackson, prisoner in the county jail appealing a twenty-year penitentiary sentence for murder Sunday evening caused the fire department to make a rapid run to the scene to find no fire and what Sheriff Fred K. Smith characterized—an unruly prisoner.

With handcuffs on his wrists, strapped to the bars of the cage Jackson screamed and passers-by heard his cries of fire! murder! police! and other remarks.

Sheriff Smith says Jackson had been raising particular cain all day and became unruly early in the evening. He was handcuffed to the bars of his cell and took this treatment ill, beginning a string of abuses which led to his screams of murder and fire.

Jackson has been in the county jail for three months, the sheriff says, and is implicated in the murder of an old man in Newtown in which he and Bland were jointly charged.

FAMOUS OIL PAINTING ON ROUTE HOME

Ruben's "Decent From the Cross" Found by Belgian Agent in Tulsa

By Associated Press.

TULSA, Okla., April 17.—Somewhere between Tulsa and New York is what is said to be the most valuable painting in the world—Ruben's "Descent From the Cross," the original work which came from the Brush of a master in the year 1412—on the first lap of its journey back to the Cathedral at Antwerp, Belgium, after an absence of years during which a world-wide search was conducted after the painting had been stolen, according to reliable information, from the cathedral, during the war.

The search ended in a little art gallery in the heart of this city when Charles W. Thurmond, of New York city, representing himself as an art connoisure commissioned by the Belgian government to hunt for the picture, met R. L. Bolin of Tulsa, apprentice to a tool dresser in the oil fields and late of the A. E. F. mounted police, who brought the painting with two others of less value back from Germany.

Lester Wetzel, proprietor of the art gallery here where the priceless work was on exhibition for eight months, during which twice it wa srejected according to Wetzel, by hundreds of prospective buyers who with Wetzel thought the canvas only a very good copy of the original, witnessed with Bolin the minute examination by Thurmond at the end of which the New York man pronounced the painting genuine.

PAINTING IS NOT ORIGINAL RUBENS ART CRITICS SAY

By Associated Press.

TULSA, Okla., April 17.—Art critics today denied reports from here that a man claiming to be Charles W. Thurmond, an art connoisseur of New York and an agent of the Belgian government, had discovered the original of Rubens' "Descent from the Cross," and was taking it back to the Cathedral at Antwerp.

According to the reports, Thurmond said the painting had been missing from the Cathedral for several years and there had been a worldwide search for it.

Authorities on art said today that no report had been ever made at Antwerp that the picture was missing and that it is believed the painting was hidden by Antwerp officials at the time of the German invasion during the war.

Americans Get No Relief in Russian Prisons

By Associated Press.

RIGA, April 17.—Only the Americans, among all the foreigners in the Moscow prisons, appear to have been forgotten by the government and do not receive food packages now to supplement the starvation rations, according to the Baroness Forelkerson, who arrived at her home in Riga after having been for a long time in prison in Russia as one of the Letvia hostages.

"I was freed from the Batirka prison in February," said the baroness. "At that time Royal C. Keeley, Demetrius Kalimatain and William Flick, Americans, were in the prison. They were not receiving food packages.

"Keeley's position was particularly bad as he speaks little or no Russian.

Some time before I left Batirka he sent a petition to the judges asking why he was not released.

The answer he received was that his government had never made urgent demand for his release, like the British had done in behalf of British prisoners.

The baroness said the predicament of Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison, an American newspaper correspondent was probably the worst of all the Americans.

She was kept in solitary confinement in a cell in another prison, which is used for prisoners whose cases are under investigation, where she barely was keeping alive with the rations served.

RAIL CHIEFS PREPARE FOR WAGE SLICING

Managements Ready to Begin Drive With View of Reductions in Pay to All Classes of Workers.

Consolidated Hearing Scheduled Before Board at Which 100 Roads Will Launch Campaign.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Railway managements of nearly one hundred carriers were prepared tonight to launch their first big drive tomorrow for a reduction of labor wages.

A consolidated hearing, at which wage disputes will be presented from every section of the country will begin tomorrow before the United States railroad labor board. All of the roads ask a reduction in unskilled labor wages and several ask blanket reductions for all employes.

It was indicated tonight that the question of the legality of the board conducting the hearing with three vacancies unfilled and only six members present would be brought up at the opening of the session. The nominations for the three vacancies were sent to the senate for the confirmation by President Harding, on Saturday, but some of the parties to the present dispute were understood to be seeking delay until the new members are actually present.

By a recent ruling of the board, all wage disputes presented for decision up to date will be included in the hearing. Sixty roads had been docketed yesterday and at least half of that number remained on hand to be added tomorrow morning.

According to railway officials, each carrier is expected to present its own testimony in connection with its request for wage cuts. Representatives of the roads will appear first. The board recently announced that eight hours would be allowed each side for oral testimony and argument. It was intimated however, that this time limit might be extended if the circumstances warranted.

The employes whose committee will be headed by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor will handle their case through the union organization representatives. Heads of the four big brotherhoods will be present to conduct the defense in disputes brought by the roads which desire to cut the wages of train service employes.

The committee for the employes has prepared about 35 exhibits showing cost of living and comparative wages in other industries for similar labor. These exhibits will be filed with the board in additio nto the oral testimony.

Under the transportation act, conferences must be held between the carrier and its employes on any question or revised wages or working conditions. The disputes tomorrow will have all resulted from failure to agree in such conferences.

WELL KNOWN ARTISTS IN ORCHESTRA

Among out-of-town artists, who will take part in the Musicians Club Symphony concert on Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Wichita theater, has been announced Joseph Cima, of Dallas.

Mr. Cima, according to members of the Musicians club, was formerly a member of a New York symphony orchestra and is well known in eastern cities. He is now a member of the Dallas Symphony Orchestrt and will play the French horn at the Monday evening entertainment.

Prof. Ernest Katz, director of the orchestra, studied for a number of years in the Royal Conservatory at Vienna, Austria. He came to the United States in his twenty-first year, and set out to make his fortune in the banking business. However, according to his friends, Mr. Katz soon found he could not resist the lure of music and he entered the musical world, with an humble part in the orchestra of a small stock company, from which he has gradually risen to the position of one of the leaders in musical circles of the state.

Because of the large sales of tickets, reported Sunday evening, members of the ticket committees urge that people wishing good seats arrive early, as no reservation, save boxes, have been made.

Box parties, which have been announced for the concert, include:

Mayor Walter D. Cline, Frank Collier, E. M. Belcher, R. E. Shepherd, C. E. McCutcheon, R. O. Harvey, Al Ellis and C. O. Frits and W. W. Gardner.

Mrs. J. I. Staley, Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff, Mrs. Edilee Fitshugh, Mrs. Stella Frits, Mrs. Bennie Donand and Mrs. Walter S. Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mytinger, Mr. and Mrs. Montague Staniforth, Judge and Mrs. C. F. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wallace and Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hods and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stout.

DAIRYMEN WILL MEET AT DEPOT

Milk at forty-five cents per gallon wholesale is the minimum price that it can be marketed for, according to B. B. Woodall of the Pure Milk Products Company, who says the meeting of the dairymen Monday night at the milk depot across the alley from the Record News is purely for educational purposes.

That the very bottom has dropped out of the milk market is Mr. Woodall's assertion. From 80 to 60 cents per gallon in ten days is the record he says. This is due to the fact that the spring calving season has brought forth an unprecedented quantity of milk, that farmers having a surplus of milk are accepting what they can get for it—denying cost of production out of the question, Mr. Woodall believes.

Milk on the counters of restaurants will not go to five cents a glass this summer, says Mr. Woodall. These people obtain their milk as do the ordinary residents of the town, buying in lots of from one to ten gallons and the existing price of bottled milk is—strictly retail—fifteen cents per quart.

May first will not see Bock beer touted in Wichita Falls, according to Mr. Woodall, but the opening of this season, said to be dear to all people of German origin, is to be given a boost by an intensive effort on the part of milk dealers to put butter milk over with a bang.

Distribution of buttermilk free throughout the city is planned, Mr. Woodall says and on May 1 the waitress who sells the greatest amount of this semi-illuminating fluid will receive a prize and the man or woman who consumed the greatest quantity will also come in for a share of it.

According to Mr. Woodall newspaper people are not barred. He is said to know "Lowery" of buttermilk fame well and might be tempted to subsidize the press with clabbery conglomerations if sufficient incentive is shown.

Mr. Woodall said that he did not believe that a egreat number of the cows supplying Wichita Falls with milk were untested and added that Mr. Douglas and Dr. Luey, of the city health department were to be honored guests at the meeting Monday evening.

JAILS LOSE TRADE UNDER PROHI LAWS

By DAVID M. CHURCH

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The wave of depression has hit the jail business.

Deets Pickett, research secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, who makes it his business to keep a finger on the pulse of "Old Man Beelzebub," declares that prohibition has hit the jail business a smashing blow.

Pickett bases his claim upon a study of jail statistics in 200 county jails in fourteen states. He admits that the study does not take into consideration crime conditions in the larger cities, but is merely a study of rural and small town crime.

For the purposes of his study Pickett has taken a census of 200 county jails which, he says, "were selected at random, and the reports are intended to give indications as to the effect of prohibition upon rural and small town crime statistics."

Maryland Only Exception

"The totals show a decided decrease in jail population under prohibition," says Pickett, "except for the state of Maryland, where there is an apparent increase due to the fact that reports for the years preceding prohibition are not complete.

"It is interesting to note that even New Jersey, where the prohibition law has been poorly enforced and where the governor did everything possible to break down respect for the laws, shows a decided improvement under prohibition."

Wisconsin Improves

The state in which Pickett made his jail census were California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Pickett's census shows that in these states 200 county jails in 1918 had a net population of 8,251, while in 1920 after the demise of the late lamented J. Barleycorn, the population of these safe jails had withered to 5,357.

Giving further evidence of the depression in the jail business, Pickett's report shows that some wardens must be hard pressed for enough work to keep them out of mischief. Twenty-seven jails in California had but 333 prisoners between them in 1920 when Pickett's census was taken, five jails in Connecticut had 287; two jails in Delaware 318, twenty-two in Illinois, 153; seven in Louisiana, 47; two in Maryland, 62; nine in Massachusetts, 332; seven in Louisiana, 47; two in Maryland, 62; nine in Massachusetts, 332; thirty-four in Minnesota, 237; eighteen in Missouri, 56; eight in New Jersey, 1,511; twenty-three in New York, 262; thirty in Pennsylvania, 1,702; two in Vermont, 9, and eleven in Wisconsin, 48.

Pickett reports that the Middlesex county jail of Massachusetts went out of business completely in 1920 and consolidated with another county institution.

Newsie Barred Crying Wares In Early Morn

Newsboys of Wichita Falls no longer have the right to cry their wares according to an edict pronounced Sunday morning by an officer at the Tenth and Lamar street corner. This is the assertions of John E. Day, 817 Tenth street, proprietor of the O. K. Fruit Stand who says two "newsies" were made to deposit their papers in his stand Sunday following complaints from the Hoffman apartments, near by.

Fred Johnston, of this establishment, Sunday night said that he did not believe the boys should be deprived of their privilege to sell their papers when and where they chose and intimated he would make a complaint regarding the matter, Monday.

Night Chief McDonald said that numerous complaints from hotels and rooming houses had been placed in his hands regarding the shrill cries of these youthful merchants on Sunday mornings. He emphatically denied that he issued the order for their estopage and said as far as he knew no arrests had been made.

W. P. Pitchford of the Kemp hotel said that he had instigated a move to quell the shrill cries of the newsies some two weeks ago. He said they interfered with entrances in the hotel at times, mostly afternoon, and encroached on the hotel's privilege of dispensing papers through their newsstand. Mr. Pitchford said he had made no complaint lately.

Direct orders from Chief of Police Lee Huff caused him to order newspaper boys off the corner of Tenth and Lamar streets, according to Patrolman Vines, seen in the chief's office Sunday night. Night Chief McDonald and numerous patrolmen say that the boys make nuisances of themselves by attempting to sell their papers on Sunday morning before 8 o'clock.

According to Officer Vines, the boys ordered off the street early Sunday morning were insolent and had refused to leave this station after being requested, via windows, by inmates of the Hoffman rooms.

have been booked. But shipments, as a result of these orders, have been made only in small volume because the soviet agents were unable either to pay cash or to obtain credit so as to insure the delivery of the goods ordered."

"In reality," Secretary Hughes says, "transfers of Russian gold to other countries have been small, and at the most liberal estimates the soviets have not more than $175,000,000 of gold in their possession.

"The facts" in regard to supplies in Russia available for export, Mr. Hughes wrote, "completely refute" statements that if the United States recognized the soviets, Russia immediately would export large quantities of lumber, flax, hemp, fur and other commodities.

"The facts," he says, "show that Russia does not have on hand for export, commodities which might be made the basis of immediately profitable trade with the United States and he adds that the Russian transportation is so demoralized that it could not move them if they existed.

American Trade Small

"Furthermore," Secretary Hughes points out, "before the war, American trade with Russia in both directions constituted only one and three tenths percent of all the foreign trade of the United States being in the year ending June 30, 1913 at a total of $550,000,000 and practically all of that was with territories free of soviet domination.

"It is unquestionably desirable," wrote Mr. Hughes to Mr. Gompers, "that intimate and mutual profitable commercial relations on an extensive scale be established between the United States and Russia and it is the sincere hope of this government that there may be readjustments in Russia which will make it possible for that country to resume its proper place in the economic life of the world."

Traffic and Labor Hinder Warsaw Relief

WARSAW, April 17.—Six steamships containing 30,000 tons of American food supplies in addition to quantities of medical and relief supplies have arrived in Danzig. These are the first large shipments in bulk of American supplies to reach Poland since her period of greatest need began. Five additional steamers are expected in Danzig shortly.

At American Red Cross headquarters the complaint has been made that great delay was being experienced in getting the cargoes from Danzig to Warsaw. The Salaam brought 26 tons of medical supplies which were sorely needed in the work here, but which, so far, have not been received. Delays in unloading are almost invariable, on account of labor troubles in Danzig. After this the overburdened condition of the traffic between here and Danzig makes shipment a slow process. Shortage of rolling stock is now making the provisioning of Warsaw a matter of particularly great difficulty.

Polish newspapers here have given much space to the news of the arrival of these shipments, describing each cargo as it arrives in detail. The steamers that have been reported so far are the West Zede, Salaam, Danzig, Cornits, Weichsel and the Ralum. The cargoes consist principally of grain and flour, together with 2,000 tons of condensed milk and 400 tons of cocoa. The entire cargoes are consigned to various American relief organizations.

The statement of the Polish ministry of appropriation covering its activities for the year 1920, made public here today, furnishes a lucid explanation of the reason why foreign aid in solving the problem of food supply for Poland is absolutely indispensable. The scant program of rationing which the ministry originally framed for the year 1920-21 called for a minimum crop of cereals, to be delivered by the farmers of Poland to the ministry of distribution, expressed as 27,000 railway carloads. Last fall, after the bolshevik invasion, when it was seen that the crop would not reach this figure the ministry readjusted its program of rationing, cutting down the quantity of bread and debasing it still further in quality, as well as making similar changes regarding other foodstuffs.

The ministry, in its detailed statement, now shows that the crop actually garnered was less than half the amount originally estimated. It was, in fact, 12,195 carloads. M. Thomski, the minister of appropriation, declares that had it not been necessary to abandon his policy of rationing altogether, the quantity of food possible to distribute to an individual would have been sufficient to maintain life.

Aged Husband Disclaims Son Of Young Wife

DETROIT, April 17.—"If there is any justice in the world the stain will be removed from the parentage of my little girl," says Mrs. Madeline Beals Corby, the wife of Thomas W. Corby, Grosse Point millionaire, who is asking for an annulment of their marriage, and who alleges he is not the father of Marie Theresa Corby, eighteen months old.

The suite of the seventy-six-year-old millionaire and his thirty year-old wife features the centuries old drama of youth and age, a pre-nuptial separation agreement and the disputed parentage of a child. It shows, too, some of the remote consequences of the war which on the death of Mrs. Corby's first husband, Maurice Beals, left her stranded in the country, unable to get back to her relatives in Belgium.

Maurice Beals was a young Belgian contractor who had made Detroit his home. In the course of a business transaction he met Mr. Corby and in connection with this transaction the Grosse Point millionaire called at the Beals' home. There he met Mrs. Beals, golden of hair, and blue of eyes. When he returned from California several months later to learn of her husband's death, according to Mrs. Corby, he asked her to preside in his home. It was stipulated that she was not to be regarded as a servant.

This was in August, 1918, and as Mrs. Beals could not return to her relatives in Belgium at that time and her first husband's estate was not then settled, she agreed.

Was to Receive $50,000

Mr. Corby's seventy-odd years were resting lightly on him, and he looked scarcely more than 55, says his wife. Their acquaintance ripened into something more than platonic friendship, Mrs. Corby admits, but declares he delayed marrying her. Finally they were married in May, 1919, but Mrs. Corby maintains that the aged millionaire insisted on her siguing a separation agreement before he would marry her. According to this agreement, in case of legal separation, she was to receive $50,000 in lieu of dower rights.

A few months after the ceremony the baby, Marie Theresa, was born and "Mr. Corby was very much delighted and called the baby his 'heiress'," Mrs. Corby said, adding: "He seemed very fond of her until he quarreled with me and then he turned against her too. When I had arranged to go to Europe last June to settle my mother's estate everything was all right, but my trip was delayed a week and that time Mr. Corby and I quarreled. The quarrel was over money matters. Then he started the suit. I have had no money from him since we separated.

"Then," Mrs. Corby added with tears in her eyes, "Mr. Corby's lawyers brought suit charging Mr. Corby is not the father of Marie Theresa."

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—While the unfavorable labor situation in Great Britain was the main factor of last week in the cotton market, it did more than keep the market from making wide advances. Grudging recessions were made while on the other hand quick advances were the rule following favorable news. The close was well up toward the top as the result of the breakdown of the general strike movement list prices showed net advances of 53 to 59 points. May traded up to 12 cents and down to 11.40, closing at 11.94. The extreme range of prices was 46 to 60 points.

In the spot department, middling closed at 11.38, showing a net gain of 38 points. A year ago middling closed for the week at 41.75 cents a pound and May at 41.40.

New crop news was unfavorable, on the whole, too much rain falling over the greater part of the belt. Reports from Texas were that the soil was too wet for planting and this also seemed to be the case in the parts of the central and eastern divisions.

This week the trade will be chiefly concerned at the start at any rate, with the British labor outlook and any signs of settling the coal miners strike probably would stimulate values.

NEW TRIAL FOR CARL WANDERER DENIED

CHICAGO, April 17.—A motion for a new trial for Carl Wanderer, who was convicted of having murdered a "ragged stranger" at the time he shot and killed his wife, was denied yesterday and his execution was set for June 17. Attorneys for Wanderer announced, however, that they would appeal the case to the supreme court and also apply for a writ of supersedeas so that the higher court might review the case.

NEED OF RAIL WAGE DECREASE EXPLAINED BY EXECUTIVES; CHARTS SHOW HOW WAGES HAVE RISEN, ROADS' INCOME FALLEN

Upper chart shows the percentage increase of railway wages and the cost of living since the beginning of 1915. The dotted line pertains to the cost of living. The lower chart shows, by dotted line, the increase—to 1917—and then rapid decrease of the railroads' operating income and the increase of railway wages in 1915.

Explanation of the position of the railroads in their request for a decrease in wages is contained in the latest issue of "American Railroads," published by authority of the Association of Railway Executives at 61 Broadway, New York. The publication shows by means of charts that the wages are relatively higher than the prices of necessaries, and also the concurrent increase since 1915 of railway wages and the decrease of net railway operating income in the same period.

Says one article: "In the first year of the war it is true that the increase in railroad wages did not keep pace with the increase in the cost of living, but from 1918 onward the increase in railroad wages has exceeded the increase in the cost of living, and in January of this year, with railroad wages 130 per cent higher than they were in 1915, the cost of living was but 80 per cent higher than it was in 1915, and was steadily decreasing. Based on the cost of living figures issued by the bureau of labor, railroad wages are even more in excess of increase in living costs."

DR. DOUGLAS ISSUES RULES FOR HEALTH

Believing that proper understanding of health questions is essential and asserting that the ounce of prevention is now worth two pounds of cure, Dr. A. H. Douglas, of the city health department intends issuing a series of articles on various phases of community welfare as concerns his department.

Two a week are planned by Dr. Douglas and will be in the nature of general discussion of problems confronting people of the town, and will also give detailed information and advice on local matters when warranted he says.

This is the first:

Public Health a National Resource.

Public health is a term very commonly used but very little understood or appreciated. The conception held by the general public on the subject is that it is something connected with political administration which has to do with the abatement of nuisances. Very few people realize that public health is most intimately connected with the greatest of our national resources i. e. a mentally, morally and physically healthy citizenship.

We become highly agitated over the phrase "conservation of resources" and those spellbinders who use the expression as a stepping stone to the political lime light picture to us dire extremes for our remote posterity if we fail to heed their exhortations. That we should conserve our resources admits no contradiction but in doing so, let us stop to consider just what our national resources are. We must not permit wanton destruction of our timber or unrestricted exploitation of our mineral deposits, but how strong will that race of people —our posterity—be, the foundations of which we are now preparing? If the race is to maintain its physical and mental standard, each generation must attain a little higher development than the preceding, because the increase of population increases disease hazard and makes competition more acute. While we are providing natural resources for our posterity we should feel at least equally concerned about the physical and mental resources of those future generations.

Many Physically Unfit.

The reviewed with pride these seemingly endless columns of robust young manhood as they marched off to war but what about that other army which had to stay at home each wearing the identification tag reading "physically unfit?" Just as our ancestors laid the foundation for this "stay at home army" so are we now preparing for the future defense of our country. Don't pass those appalling facts brought out by the recruiting service simply as a mass of statistics, but instead let them enthuse you with a determination to do your part toward making any possible future armies fighting armies instead of physically unfit armies.

Public health has for its aim national physical well being, but its activities must necessarily start with the individual. It tries to teach the individual to appreciate the fundamentals of personal hygience and his responsibility to his community.

This is necessarily a slow process because it can only come through mass education, but the benefits to be gained by our posterity, which is our nation of the future, will more than justify the efforts we expend.

Texas was one of the comparatively few states having a relatively small percentage of army rejects—thanks to the expanse of her population—but at her present rate of progress a few more generations will see her area several times more densely populated and she will be in need of a stalwart citizenship.

As a people we are too prone to treat matters of this character too lightly thinking we have no individual responsibility. All matters of public health are of individual importance; they effect your community and you are a part of that community. If you consider yourself a patriotic and desirable citizen you will concern yourself about public education.

Relativity to Be Studied in Palestine Soon

NEW YORK, April 16.—Jerusalem capital city of the new Zion, the Jewish national state, will soon be the site of a non-teaching university, in immediate object of which will be the study of relativity by some of the "best minds" of Europe and America preparatory to the formation of faculties properly equipped to teach "the physics of the morrow."

Professor Albert Einstein, discoverer of the theory of relativity bearing his name, is now in this country with the Zionist commission to raise funds for the proposed University of Jerusalem.

In an interview given to International News Service today, Professor Einstein, the man who believes that light travels in curved lines, outlined the plan of the new university. He said:

"According to our plans, the university will be begun not with teaching faculties, but with research institutes. The reason for this is that on one hand there is not such a big settlement in Palestine as would require a complete university. Palestine could not provide thousands of students just now, and foreign students could not come this year or next on account of the rate of exchange.

"On the other hand," he continued, "Palestine is a country which needs scientific personnel which would help to solve the vast scientific problems of the country. This plan has been adopted because of the special conditions under which we have to work. This plan, of course, is not absolutely hard and fast, and in the course of realization it may be changed."

Mr. Einstein said his theories on relativity would not be "pushed," or exclusively expounded at the university.

"It is necessary first," he said, "to teach the foundations of mathematics and physics, as ordinarily accepted today. When the students becomes well enough equipped with these subjects he may then learn the new theories of relativity and the methods and ideas leading up to them. One must be taught today's physics before he can learn tomorrow's. The usual study of physics will be taught at the university as well as my theory."

Mr. Einstein denied that he intended to become head of the university, or even a member of its faculty. He said he would lecture there often, however, and connect himself with its activities.

RICH HUBBY HAS LOTS OF EVIDENCE AGAINST HIS WIFE, DECLARES LAWYER

Peggy Hopkins photographed recently at Palm Beach.

When Stanley Joyce, millionaire lumber prince, named five men in the annulment suit he recently filed in Chicago against Peggy Hopkins, the actress, he didn't begin to tell the things he alleges he knows about her, according to Joyce's lawyer. Joyce's bill asserts the actress made trips with well known men to various parts of Europe and lived in the homes of others. Friends of Peggy deny these charges.

WHEN a stranger comes to town all he has to do is to use his eyes and his intelligence to know what kind of a town it is. If he finds modern electric lights and abundant electric power, he knows that here is a wide-awake, prosperous progressive community. If he doesn't find these things, no amount of verbal "boosting" is going to convince him that this town is a desirable place in which to live and work and invest his money. For he realizes that a prosperous, growing electric light and power system means a prosperous, growing community, made up of broad-minded, progressive citizens.

American public services are the envy of the world, because it is here that the greatest progress has been made in their development. Electric light and power, electric transportation, the telephone and telegraph, in fact all of the utility services except gas, originated in the minds of inventive Americans. As general public servants they have become every-day necessities of modern life. They brighten and accelerate all solical, commercial and industrial activity.

Your Electric Lighting system is an invaluable asset to your community, and as such it is regarded by every thoughtful citizen. You are a partner in it. Keep it prosperous and expanding as you would any other business in which you have an interest.

RAILROAD POKER.

"I've sat across the table with employes for years," W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania lines, told the United States railway labor board, "and it's just like a game of poker." Bluffs should not be taken too seriously, he added. Evidently the new spirit in the relations between labor and capital is not yet general.

There is nothing in the rule of poker that aims at a fair division of the pot. The rewards in poker depend not so much on the value of the hand as on the skill of the player in deceiving the other players. The idea in poker is to get all the chips you can on each deal and trust to better luck in the next one. The showdown when a bluff is called is a strike. For the public there is not even a "kitty."

Until less of the rules of poker and more of the Golden Rule is put into the relations between labor and capital, President Harding cannot get far with his solution of the industrial problem—high wages and 100 per cent production. And neither labor nor capital will give full measure to the other unless it has confidence in a just return. Because railroad men and managers are trying to bluff each other with strikes and bankruptcies, the country faces the danger of paralysis of its transportation system.

Poker has brought a deadlock in the housing situation. Material men, contractors and workmen are each trying to bluff the others into giving up the chips on the table, refusing to see that a fair division would give chips enough to all. In the meantime they themselves are idle, industry is losing the impetus building operations would give it, and housing is becoming a more and more serious problem.

Poker has been so distinct a failure in establishing even profitable relations between labor and capital that laying the cards on the table would at least be worth trying.—Milwaukee Journal. (Ind.)

OBREGON: WATCH HIM.

It is significant that for the first time in five years Mexico has sent back to this country a fugitive from American justice. The governor of Texas explains that this is due to "amicable relations" established between him and President Obregon at their respective inaugurations. Underscore that word "amicable." It is the one thing relations were not when Carranza ruled Mexico.

Obregon is really a big man. That veteran observer, Dr. E. J. Dillon, who has known "every European statesman from Bismarck to Briand," says of him: "For political vision, high moral purpose, skill and tact in dealing with men and controlling or modifying great emergencies, and also in appearing opportunely at the height of a national crisis, he is Mexico's strongest son, her man of destiny." If he cannot succeed, adds Dr. Dillon, no other Mexican can.

The new president is no stiff-necked, wrong-headed pedant like the unfortunate Carranza; no impracticable idealist like Madero. He is more than a soldier, although he holds a general's rank. He is a successful business man acquainted with large affairs and half concealing, under a sense of humor, a democratic manner and the conversational charm of a man of the world, noteworthy qualities of responsibility and enlightened purpose. Ibanez saw in him only the surface—the engaging table companion. Dillon got under the surface.

Given these fundamental abilities and the instinct for "amicable relations" with his own countrymen and his neighbors, Obregon may lead his country, naturally so rich, up the highway of progress. All reports agree that the climb has begun.—Cincinnati Times Star. (Rep.)

TO FORCE DIVERSIFIED PLANTING.

Mississippi is one of the Southern States that has been making dependance on the cotton crop and that has pursued the policy of buying, instead of raising its foodstuffs. In spite of existing conditions and the certain prospect of further trouble ahead of them, and deaf to persuasion, the farmers of that State appeared bent on going into cotton planting "as usual," this season, but the bankers have been prevailed upon to see what they could do to avert the threatened calamity, and these bankers seem to have adopted the policy of forcible persuasion. The story is told in a Memphis letter to The New York Post, wherein it is related that backing up their demands that the cotton grower get away from his accustomed policy of raising that commodity and depending on other sections for food and feed supplies, banks in Mississippi delta territory are beginning to announce that after July 1 this season they will refuse loans to planters for the purpose of buying feedstuffs which they can readily produce at home. Already a number of the leading banks have made public announcement of such a policy, and others are expected to follow, for the general feeling among the bankers is that this is one step which is practical as a help toward bringing prosperity back to this part of the country.

It is explained in The Post's letter that one of the contributing reasons for the present bad state of affairs was the raising of cotton to the neglect of all other crops, the average planter figuring that it mattered little what grain and feed cost so long as cotton was selling at 40 cents to $1 a pound. Expenditures during 1920 were the largest in the history of the South, which helps explain why the cost of this crop was also a record one. The banks recognize that the mere cutting of cotton acreage will not suffice to bring the territory back to something like normal, and seem determined to do all in their power to force the diversification idea, for it is a fact that in the sections where diversification is practiced conditions are by no means as badly off as the delta.—Charlotte (N. John said to him: "Hey, what are you doing? This is an important piece. Why do you loaf like this?"

TEXAS HAS LIGNITE YET UNDER EARTH

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS.
Record News Staff Bureau.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Texas has twenty-three billion tons of lignite coal yet unmined, the United States Bureau of Mines announced today. It is all capable of conversion in o a high grade smokeless fuel and to supply the entire nation with fuel for years.

Government experts said in giving out the statement that there need be no fear of the nation ever lacking for fuel to build its fires. There are something more that three trillion mineable tons of coal in the ground in America.

The government experts soon to make a careful study of lignite coal in Texas. A study will be made in the Northwest first.

Dr. Erich W. Zimmerman, professor of commerce of the James Millikin University, Decatur, Ill., has been detailed by the United States Bureau of Mines to make an investigation regarding the fuel situation in Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, and nearby states with a view to determining the extent to which carbonized lignite might find a market in that general region. Dr. Zimmerman will make a close study of the fuel supplies available in the Northwest, the characteristics of these fuels, and the prices obtained therefor.

The detailing of Dr. Zimmerman to this work marks a further advance in the investigation regarding the possibilities of increased utilization of the Northwestern lignites for which the sum of $100,000 was appropriated by the 65th congress. Recently W. W. Odell, fuel engineer of the Bureau of Mines, was sent to Montreal and Ottowa for the purpose of offsetting an exchange of information with the Canadian government relative to the technical problems involved in the carbonization of lignite. The Dominion government has for some years been working upon the problem of the utilization of the vast stores of lignite in the western provinces and has spent several hundred thousand dollars in these investigations. The visit of Mr. Odell resulted in the obtaining of much valuable information. The bureau of mines is now assured that the lignites of the Northwestern states can be converted into a high-grade smokeless fuel, the process yielding quantities of gas, ammonic, oils and tars as valuable by-products. With the practicability of the carbonization process assured, it remains only to consider the economic side of the situation and to determine whether the carbonized lignite can compete with the high-grade coals of central Mississippi and Ohio valleys, which are now being shipped by long freight hauls into the Northwest.

The nation's coal resources of all ranks total 3,553,637,100,000 minable tons of 2,000 pounds, 1,051,290,000,000 tons, or nearly one-third, being lignite. Of this lignite 964,424,000,000tons is in North and South Dakota and Northwestern Montana, approximately, 23,000,000,000 tons in Texas, 7,404,300,000 tons in Alaska, and relatively smaller quantities in several of the other Western and Southern states.

It is an important economic consideration that these lignites are found in these parts of the country that have no other solid fuel.

Because of the large content of moisture in lignite, its tendency to disintegrate and its liability to spontaneous combustion when stored, it is not a desirable fuel as mined, and millions of tons of bituminous and anthracite coals are shipped annually into the lignite-bearing regions. The results are high prices for both industrial and domestic fuel, the imposition of a great handicap on the industrial develope of these regions, the tying up on much transportation equipment needed for other service, and other economic lost motion.

That territory naturally tributory to the Dakota lignite deposite embraces North Dakota, South Dakota, and Western Minnesota. Upwards of 2,000,000 tons of bituminous coal and 1,500,000 tons of antracite is shipped annually into that territory from Illinois, Indiana, West Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania. The average haul of this coal is 1,000 miles. If the Dakota lignite were put into stable and serviceable condition, by means of carbonizing and briquoting, this fuel demand could be supplied with an average haul of less than 400 miles.

The bureau of mines considers that the immediate problem in the utilization of those lignites is the solution of the economic questions involved, and there are no present plans for the construction of an experimental plant for treating the product. It is probable that investigative work on lignites will be conducted in the future at some of the bureau's general experiment stations.

OPPOSITION FLARES UP ON SALE TAXATION

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The war among the republicans on the adoption of the sales tax flared up today and routed harmony from the republican bailiwick.

Senator Smoot, republican leader, and one of the famous Lodge-Penrose-Smoot trio of oligarchs, announced he would press a sales tax in the senate. Against them was a house combination made up of Representative Frear of Wisconsin, Mondell of Wyoming and Good of Iowa. The house members against the Smoot plan are all leaders; Frear being high up on the ways and means committee, Mondell, floor leader, and Good, chairman of the powerful appropriations committee.

Meantime Frear gave out an ugly charge that the senate knew the sales tax could never pass the house and planned a coup to pass it in the senate and then force the house to accept it in conference.

In a broadside addressed to members of the house, Frear asserted that the sales tax abandons every time-honored tax principle, and said that if the republican party sponsors it it will be overwhelmingly defeated at the next election.

Frear warned his colleagues not to repeal any tax law now on the statute books, unless one more just and equitable is to be substituted and that excludes any sales tax.

"A sales tax on everything we eat, drink and wear reaching $1,250,000 annually, will be pressed on congress at this session," Mr. Frear said. "It abandons the time-honored tax principle that every tax should be paid according to ability to pay and it is proposed to shift this burden now paid by excess profits and high income over onto every man, woman and child in the country, who will then pay the same rate on what they consume as Morgan and Rockefeller."

Congressman Frear charged that for many weeks high-priced writers have been deluging congress with pamphlets and press articles favoring the sales tax plan.

"Interests seeking to avoid the excess profits tax are demanding a sales tax and over $1,000,000 is estimated to have been raised for sales tax propaganda," Mr. Frear said. "When the soldier's compensation bill was before the house in 1920 a sales tax plan reported by a subcommittee was defeated in the republican caucus and then abandoned. Sales tax bills will be introduced in the house and senate this session, but according to the program, the bill is to be passed by the senate either with the revenue or soldier's bonus bill, and if passed there an attempt will be made to insert it in conference."

Frear quoted Chairman Good of the house appropriations, who recently declared that a "sales tax is a tax on the backs and bellies of the people, and any party favoring it will be defeated at the next election."

"Every student of the subject must come to the same conclusion," Frear said. "Wealthy, powerful influences are in this campaign to set aside fundamental principles of taxation and are unconcerned with the political or economic effect on the country, so long as they can shift upwards of a million dollars' tax which they now pay from their profits over to the consumer, and have their profits go untaxed."

New Indemnity Plan Coming Thru Vatican

By Associated Press.

PARIS, April 17.—Cognizance is taken by the Temps in its leading editorial today of reports that a new reparation plan for Germany is being transmitted to the United States through the Vatican, a move which it characterizes as an attempted diversion by Germany to escape payment to the extent of her abilities.

There is much ado in Berlin concerning the offers which the German government is reported to have transmitted the United States government, says the Temps.

"We can only see in such a move an attempt at a diversion. Were Germany sincere she would not attempt to evade the fixing of the amount of her debts by opening a debate upon an international loan and upon the amounts owed the United States by the allies.

"By the way" continues the newspaper, "who is governing now in Berlin? Careful observers doubt if Dr. Simons (the foreign minister) is master of the situation.

"It is declared," adds the Temps, "that the German propositions have been transmitted to the United States by the vatican. We do not know whether this statement will bring forth a denial from Rome" says the newspaper, but it declares it would not be surprised to learn that the vatican in fact was taking such action.

Locals Break Into Win Column by Defeating Dallas Marines

THREE PITCHERS BATTERED BY SLUGGING SPUDDERS IN SECOND CONTEST OF SERIES

Abe Bowman Hurls Scoreless Eight Innings But Loses Shutout When Two Score in Final Frame.

Ham Patterson's Dallas Marines failed to show the powerful attack they used last Friday in the second game of opening series Sunday afternoon and Saints Sluggers with Abe Bowman in the box, trounced the visitors, 7 to 2. The breaks of the game robbed Abe from scoring a shutout, for after hurling eight scoreless innings, allowing but two hits and with two out in the ninth, the Marines pushed two useless tallies over the home station.

The Marines never had a chance during the entire day, Abe keeping the ball in the infield during the first five innings with the exception of a single by Rosigle in the third frame. Each managed to get the ball to the infield in the sixth, Miller grabbing a fly.

Spudders Hit Hard.

The Spudders took kindly to Reisigl's offerings in the opening game. Tanner getting on first when Smith fumbled his hard-hit ground-

McDonald stepping on the initial station when Palmer let Mac's high throw drop in front of first and both scoring when Clark doubled down the first-base line.

Both teams drifted through the first five innings without a chance for a run, but in the sixth the Spudders lengthened their artillery and it was all over as far as the visitors were concerned.

McDonald, first up in the fatal inning, drew four straight balls and walked to station No. 1. Clark crossed the infield by reaching for a high one on the outside, boosting the pill over Smith's head at short. Miller laid down a perfect bunt a foot in front of home plate, but was out at first, Reisigl to Felix, Clark and McDonald moving up a peg.

Work Ties Up Infield.

McDonald slid into third and when he arose from the dust asked for time out. McElwee was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Salm relieved Works, who was next at bat, and gave him instructions of some nature. They must have been good. Pierce poled the pill past Galloway for two bags, scoring Clark and McDonald, McElwee stopping at third. Kitchens looked a few over Smith's head and clouted to deep left center for two bases, McElwee and Works scoring.

With Kitchens on third and only one out Galloway stopped the game and yanked Reisigl, sending Fitzpatrick to the mound. Bowman up, failed one of the rare hits of the national pastime by bunting safely for two bases. The ball was met fast and shot past Felix, rolling along the first-base line. Kitchens scored and Abe roosted safe on second. Neither Rothfuss or Tanner were able to continue the rally for Palmer grabbed Rothfuss' smack and Tanner struck out.

Two in the Last.

The Marines made their only two scores in the final frame when after two were out McDonald threw low to first after making a wonderful stop of Palmer's bingle and the visitor was safe at first. Miethell, who relieved Fitzpatrick in the eighth, batting in Wirt' place, doubled to deep left center, Palmer reaching third. Mattick drew a free pass on four straight balls. With the bases loaded, Felix fouled a couple and then singled to left center, Palmer and Mitchell scoring. Robertson ended the game by flying out to Miller.

McDonald's throw to first allowing Palmer to reach the initial bag in safety was really a wonderful attempt for a putout for the veteran third sacker was away out of position when he made the throw, having made a sheer stop of Palmer's hard-hit ball down the third-base line. However, Umpire Kane ruled that Works had touched too far for the throw and that the attempted first baseman's foot was off the bag when the ball was caught. Even the game ox it was at least even. The umpire decision cost Bowman a chance at one, if not a doubles and Bowman Wins.

Bowman was rather fine with his pitches to first, seven of the pitchers reaching [illegible] times in each. Diamond drew here last night either by the base on balls route or by being hit. Abe sliced two and issued five balls.

Three fast double plays by the Spudders cut off any chance of the Marines making a rally during the game. One two ply killing Miller to Works, was a masterpiece, for very seldom does a center fielder get an assist in throwing out a runner at first. Miller grabbed Galloway's fly in back of second after Bowman had walked Gleich, heaving the pill to Works, catching Gleich off the bag by several feet. The play was made so fast that it took several seconds for the crowd to realize the two-ply killing. Tanner and Clark pulled two double plays during the play, finishing them with Works.

Big Crowd Attends.

A crowd that numbered 2,816 saw the game from the stands and on the field behind the first-base line. That the local fans are with the Spudders from the word go until the end was shown by the loyal rooting all during the game. Nearly every play made by the Spudders came in for repeated applause. Backing like the fans gave during yesterday's game will go a long way in helping the local spuders riding the crest of the pennant wave during the season.

"Holdouts" Must Report to Clubs Within Ten Days

CHICAGO, April 17.—A blow to baseball "holdouts" was delivered by the major and minor leagues advisory council today when a rule was adopted providing that players under reserve who fail to report to their clubs within ten days after the opening of the championship season would be placed on the ineligible list and that the applications of such players for reinstatement must go to the commissioner, Judge K. M. Landis.

When Miller Huggins led his Yanks to a 11 to 1 victory over the Athletics in the opening game of the season at New York and Babe Ruth slammed out five hits, they overcame a formidable hoodoo. For they were presented jointly with a huge floral horseshoe before the game began. And a floral tribute usually crabs a player's or team's luck for the remainder of the day. The photo shows the king of swatters and Huggins with the gift. Mayor Hylan pitched the first ball.

HEAVY BATTING FEATURES FIRST WEEK OF SEASON

NEW YORK, April 17.—Heavy batting featured the opening series of the major league's baseball season, half of the teams averaging better than ten hits a game, while in 14 contests the opposite teams ran up a total of ten or more runs.

First Shutout Sunday.

The first shutout of the season was pitched today by Carl Mays of the New York Americans, who held Boston to four hits. The pitching staffs of both Cleveland American world's champions, and the Brooklyn Nationals, their 1920 opponents, fell before the batting of the St. Louis Brown and Boston Braves, respectively.

The Washington-Boston and Detroit Chicago series were divided evenly.

Home Runs Galore.

Home runs and the steady pitching of Mays and Piercy gave the New York Yankees the margin over Philadelphia. The athletics improved after the opening day game and batted well today against Johnson of Washington, although the Senators won.

In the National league, Chicago outplayed St. Louis in two games.

Alexander showed good form against the Cardinals on opening day.

The Cubs hit effectively while the Cardinals' attack was weak.

Kelley Leads In Honors

New York and Philadelphia had a total of 46 runs and 83 hits in their three-game series, of which the Giants took two. The Reds' pitchers were unable to baffle the Pirates. Babe Ruth in making his first home run Saturday, got off to two weeks earlier start than last year when he began his record-breaking run of 54 on May 1. Kelly, of the New York Giants with two home runs to his credit, is a step ahead of the home-run champion.

Detroit-Cleveland Series Stopped by Blanket of Snow

DETROIT, April 17.—Navin Field today was blanketed with snow several inches deep and indications were that none of the games of the opening series between Detroit and Cleveland would be played this week.

The snowfall began late Saturday night and continued throughout this afternoon. Postponement of the opening game with Cleveland was announced early this afternoon.

At least two days of bright and warm weather will be necessary to restore the field to playing conditions, it is believed. The Tigers have played but two games, one of them in a steady drizzle of rain, since the season opened.

Glancin' 'Round The Sport World

WITH VAN

A report from Dallas had it that Eberhard, former Spudder hurler and now with the Pittsburgh Pirates was turned back to Salm's crew and would hurl the game here yesterday. Someone had the dope wrong for when Salm was asked whether Eberhard returned or was due to return, the Spudder skipper denied all knowledge of even knowing a report had been circulated to that effect. While no doubt Salm could put up with Eberhard should Dreyfuss decide to return him here, there is little chance of the hurler wearing a Wichita Falls uniform this year.

Eddie Herr, Detroit Tiger "ivory" hunter, paid another visit to the sport desk last night in company with Umpires Kane and Daly. Kane is an old friend of the telegraph "op" and also the "m. c." and for about fifteen minutes a general get-to-gether meeting was held. In the meantime, Herr sat his frame on the edge of the sport desk and wanted to know all about the local team. While not meant to flatter the local club, Herr thinks Salm has one of the best, if not the best club in the Texas League loop. The scout wouldn't admit he was looking at any one special, but dropped a few remarks that would be gratifying to "Babe" Ruth and Danny Clark. The work of Bowman was an old story to him for he has seen Abe perform before and knows that the big fellow is capable and does real pitching at all times. "The most serious and one of the hardest working men in baseball, was the compliment paid to the former Western League hurler.

When it comes right down to cases Ping Bodie is there forty ways in the outfield for the Yankees. The genial Italian may look bad on an occasional drive and he boosted a couple this spring but that boy is all hot sand and ginger. Neither Ruth nor Meusel can do the things that Ping can do, and the world knows it. If the wonder wop's ankle holds up for him he will do his full share to drag the American league pennant to New York.

Indian psychology as to take its place in sport. Just what Indian psychology amounts to in definite sense is more or less of a mystery to everyone but an Indian, not a Broadway Indian. But whatever it is it is going to be introduced into football. William H. Dietz, who several years ago made quite a reputation as a football player and strategist at Carlisle, is now coaching Purdue, and he has declared that "I am going to use Indian psychology in coaching the team this year, giving attention to the individual rather than the mass. If this plan fails, of course, I will be compelled to change my tactics. But I do not think it will fail."

The Brooklyns added two catchers to their roster this year, but neither one of them was of any use to the team for the simple reason they never showed up at the training camp. Frank Mills, a rookie, developed into a first class heldout, and when Robbie tired of waiting for him he was released to Atlanta. Then Myer, who was once with the Athletics, was added to the Robbins' staff of receivers. Robbie tried to locate him by sending telegrams to several cities in the south and west, but the Robin pilot apparently picked out the wrong towns, as Myer never reported. Now Robbie has ceased negotiating for future greats and is wondering where the former member of Connie Mack's team is.

FROM THE ROOF

Miller made several pretty catches out in centerfield during the game but was outshone on one occasion when Falk of the visitors ran across the left field foul line and took McDonald's drive over his shoulder.

The Spudders haven't fell below gathering ten hits per game so far this season and have below that mark few times during the spring exhibition games. Twenty-five hits in two games at the start of the season isn't so bad for a hard working ball club.

The Salmites played like a bunch of major leaguers nothing getting through them and playing behind Bowman like clock work. Work like that will win many ball games this season.

Pierce Works don't seem to hit 'em often but when he does hit there is generally some reason. His double in the first game scored McElwee and his two bagger in yesterday's contest tallied McDonald and Clark, who cares whether he hits at other times as long as he comes through in the pinches.

Danny Clark must be trying to lead the league this year in batting. Six hits in 11 trips to the plate including three singles, two doubles and a home run is not a very bad two-day's work if any one should harpea to ask.

Was the Marine's terrific hitting streak in the first game a flash in the pan? It sorta looked that way in yesterday's game for as far as solving the problem of outguessing Bowman was concerned they just couldn't do it.

Galloway parked the pill over the right field fence in among the trees twice but both balls were foul by yards. Had they been fair it is extremely doubtful if more than two bases both times the visitors took the lengthy circuit.

fight often enough to hold their form, according to one English critic, who appears to have hit upon one reason why all Britain's big men fail to make good in the ring. In the old days of bare knuckle fighting three or four battles a year were all that any man could stand and months were devoted to training for each fight. Times have changed, but the English boxers have not changed with them. They still believe in the system of conservation, and their appearance in the ring are so far a part that they do not become sufficiently hardened. Joe Beckett, England's champion, has taken part in only twenty-two bouts in the last six years. Compare that with Harry Greb's twenty-five a season and the difference between the methods of England and this country is apparent.

According to the members of the Washington team, Walter Johnson, the big smoke of the Senators, is coming back into his own. It was feared last season that the Idaho breeze had seen his best, and would be just an ordinary pitcher, if he ever managed to come back at all. Careful attention to his arm, however, has fixed Johnson up in fine style. The only thing that Walker lacks is something in control of his fast one. The Washington players offer the doubtful assurance that Johnson's fast one hops in closer than it used to. Perhaps that is merely propaganda. At any rate, regardless of control, baseball fans are glad that the game will not lose one of its foremost lights

Soccer is the great winter game in Great Britain. During the season, up to the end of December, twenty-eight gates of over $10,000 and forty-four of between $7,500 and $9,500 were recorded among English league clubs, which play matches each Saturday. Newcastle United proved the best drawing ground, with an average of $11,000, while Aston Villa realized an average of $10,000.

AMATEUR LEAGUE

The Elks club baseball team of the Amateur league won the right to play the Graham T. and O. league team next Friday by defeating the University club team Sunday morning here, by the score of 6 to 2. The game was well played throughout, the pitching of Lowry for the victors featuring the contest.

Manager Jehle, who also played second base for the Elks team, announced Sunday evening that he would have a strong lineup to play Graham next Friday and that nothing would satisfy his team but that they return with a victory. Lowry will probably hurl the contest.

Following is the box score of the game yesterday morning.

SOME EPITAPHS

Here lies the body of George De James—
He called an Irish umpire names.

We mourn the passing of Thomas Blake—
He played a joke on a rattlesnake.

Slug Smith rests here in his native town,
And they hope that the slab can hold him down.

In a Texas vault sleeps Slicker Layne—
He sold fake stock, and then missed his train.

The oil strike in the Arctic region seems to be the real thing. It will seem strange to the little Eskimos when they begin to use kerosene instead of whale-oil, and trade their furs for stock in the new gushers.

WOMEN POLICE INVESTIGATE TENEMENT AND HEALTH CONDITIONS IN LONDON

Two typical women police on London's force.

AMERICAN CHEMISTS MEET AT ROCHESTER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 17—The American Chemical Society, the largest scientific organization in the world, will meet here in the week beginning April 25, when 3,000 chemist members will be present.

Dr. Edgar Fahs Smith, president of the American Chemical Society, will preside at the session. Dr. Smith is credited with many important discoveries in electro-chemistry in the Harrison Laboratory of the University of Pennsylvania, and is also the historian of American chemistry. In addition to his many notable scientific researches he also was for many years the provost of the University of Pennsylvania, from which position he retired on January 1. The trustees of the university have since called General Leonard Wood to the newly created office of president of the university. Dr. Smith was president of the American Chemical Society twenty-five years ago, when chemistry's relation to industry was not so well appreciated as it is today.

EXCAVATIONS AT CANTERBURY FIND TOMB OF ROGER II.

LONDON, April 17.—Previous excavations at St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, resulted in the discovery of the tombs of the Archbishops of the tenth century. Thus a further important link with the past has been established.

It is a tomb, hitherto undisturbed, containing the remains of Abbot Roger II., or Roger of Chichester, who, according to contemporary historians, was elected abbot in 1252, died twenty years later and was buried beneath the altar of St. Katherine.

Beneath a large sheet of lead was disclosed a grave, also lined with lead, containing the skeleton, which was that of a man of tall and powerful stature. Remnants of his official robes remained.

Upon a finger of the right hand was a ring of copper gilt, while by the side lay the remains of his pastoral staff. Resting on the breast was a leaden plate bearing the following inscription:

N Hfc: Reqviesit: DMC: Rogervs: Scevds: Qvondam: Abbas: Hvivs: Loci Qvi Obbitt: Anno: Incarnacionis: Dominice: M: Co: LXXII: Idvs: Decemb.

The ring, the remnants of the robes and the plate have been placed with relics of previous discoveries in the college museum.

Upon the site of these excavations had been erected a mortuary and laundry belonging to a local hospital, but these buildings have lately been acquired and the mortuary removed. It is expected that under the site of the laundry, which has yet to be demolished, the tombs of King Ethelbert and Queen Bertha will be found.

Will Ship Body Of Oil Man to St. Louis Today

The body of John Theodoreulos, oil man killed in an automobile accident near Archer City, Friday night, will be sent to St. Louis for interment Monday, according to the Merkle-Lunn undertaking establishment.

Services were held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock for this man at the Merkle-Lunn chapel and a rather large crowd was present.

Theodorpoulos was connected with the United Drilling and Development company of this city and was an attorney at law. He had been in Wichita Falls for about a year.

Street Fights Enliven Voting For Italians

By Associated Press.

ROME, April 17.—Street fighting, revolver duels and the sacking of buildings in various parts of Italy are continuing to enliven the electoral campaign.

In one of the suburbs of Bologna some 50 of the fascisti attacked the socialist headquarters and occupied the rooms, the socialists fleeing to the roofs. A squadron of carabineers, tried to persuade the fascisti to desist. When one of the socialists fired a revolver at the fascisti and carabineers gathered below the two forces opened fire mortally wounding Senor Veronesi, the secretary of the socialist organization. One of the carabineers received a slight wound during the firing.

At Mantua, the fascisti burned the labor headquarters and then invaded the home of the socialist deputy Dugoni, completely destroying it. The workers of the city afterwards proclaimed a general strike and no newspapers are being published.

In Leghorn Thursday two persons were killed and 10 injured during the fighting.

The general strike continues in Leghorn.

Similar disturbances are reported from other towns. Numerous persons were injured in street fighting.

MOTORMAN FAINTS AS BANDITS SHOOT AND ROB TAXI DRIVER

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Herman Rabey, auditor for a taxicab company, was shot and seriously injured early today by two robbers who escaped in an automobile with a satchel containing $2,800 which their victim was carrying.

The robbery took place in the heart of the downtown section in full view of the passengers of a street car, the motorman of which fainted at the sound of two shots fired by one of the robbers.

HURCHILL MASTERPIECE AT OLYMPIC

ristianity used as a cloak to hide rious conduct is superbly por- ed by David Torrence in Winston rchill's famous novel "The In- of the Cup" which has been ed and will be shown at the Olym- theater April 25, 26 and 27.

The picture is a masterpiece of th directed against the wolves in eep's clothing. It goes down into depths of human suffering and pair and to the heights of a ace which surpasses understand- g."

Is Much Discussed.

The publication of the novel ar- sed many arguments and the pic- re has done the same. One famous vine, Dr. James Whitcomb Brough- of Los Angeles upon seeing the lm said:

"Temple Baptist church is not fraid to look this picture in the ce."

The picture is not technically re- gious. Those who have read the ok, or for that matter, other books Churchill's, know that he possess knowledge of human nature, and at perhaps no other could so fitting- take the words of the Christ and eave into such a human fabric of agedy and exalted romance.

The devout young priest is excel- nt portrayed by William P. Carleton. It is an example of the epherd of the flock seeing only the tside of the cup which is shining, ntil a daughter of a corrupt "Phari- ee" points the way to him and shows e inside of the cup which is filled ith extortion and excess.

Girl Correct Wrongs.

The part of the daughter is mag- ificently enacted by Edith Hallor. he is typical of the woman of to- ay. Not particularly agressive, but rm in her convictions, steadfast in er belief that only righ can predom- nate. She turns from her father in hame at his hypocrises, at his busi- ess code.

It is she, who comes before an ngry mob and promises fair dealing n the part of wealth. It is she who oes to the homes of the families hich her father has wrecked in his reed. For the many who have been suiting how women will use the power of vote it may be said that this daughter portrays the power of woman.

She has not had to use men's tools, but has fought her battles by standing pat for what she believed to be right—and she won. She is typical also of the woman of today in her forgiveness of an erring girl whom her brother loves because she sees back of the girl's sin, a life wrecked by her own father, one of the "pillars" of the church.

Good Male Lead.

Richard Carlyle takes the part of one who is crazed with desperation. It is a masterly piece of work which culminates in the destruction of the man "higher up" and his own life.

The picture was shown at one of the biggest society balls and the most brilliant entertainment of the recent Los Angeles season at the Ambassador hotel ball room under the auspices of Herbert Hoover fund for starving children; Sid Grauman, Ambassador hotel, William F. Banks, manager; Famous Players-Lasky corporation and the united support of the five Los Angeles daily newspapers. At this time all the society favorites of Los Angeles and foremost film stars were present. Dancing followed after the presentation of Churchill's story. The tickets were $5 and boxes seating eight were $100.

SILK PAJAMAS FOR GIRLS RULED OUT

WEYMOUTH, Mass., April 17.—Silk pajamas, or the upper half of a man's bathing suit, are not considered satisfactory raiment for Weymouth's summer girls.

To avoid a repetition of the occurrences which startled the town last season, three new special policemen have been added to the police department.

"Midnight frolicking" in Whitman's pond is taboo and those who bathe during the day must wear the complete bathing outfit.

FIND FIFTY PER CENT OF FRENCH BOYS UNFIT

PARIS, April 17.—Nearly 50 percent of the French youths called up for service in the class of 1921—that is, those born in 1900—have been found to be medically unfit and have been rejected entirely or left over until next year. Since 1915 this proportion has been constant. No cause is officially assigned for this state of things, but it is pointed out that a large part of the present recruits are the sons of parents born immediately after the war of 1870-71.

Coming to the Strand Thursday, Friday and Saturday, James Fenmore Cooper's American classic —"THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS."

The Tartars Had Literary Tastes

—The lowly and uncultured Tartars—when books fell into their possession—ate them to acquire the knowledge contained therein. They doubtless suffered indigestion. At least, they weren't overlooking any bets.

—There are mistakes both of commission and omission. Better, by far, to be satisfied that you have done your best and endure indigestion, than overlook real opportunities and feel the pangs of unavailing regret.

—The advertisements you will find in this newspaper are business mines of opportunity. They tell you of values you might never know, if they were not there to guide you.

—Do you read—and digest—this advertising? Figuratively speaking, some folks "eat it up." They are the wise shoppers—the economical buyers—the ones who are strictly up to date on the opportunities for saving money or spending it most judiciously.

—Read the advertisements. Read them to know what's what in the shopping district. Read them to save steps—to save money—to save disappointments. Read them because they place before your eyes a moving panorama of business progress. Read them to keep yourself informed.

Read them regularly—it pays

Wichita Falls Record News
"AT YOUR BREAKFAST TABLE EVERY MORNING"

—Normal human beings, by nature are curious to see "what's inside" of everything except insurance when they are asked to spend money for it.

—But almost universally they take their insurance policies without even glancing at anything more than the amount of indemnity promised.

—That puts a grave responsibility on the local agent. Is your policy with an agent who has been tried and proven responsible?
