Modern 'Cooler'

When engineers at Chattanooga wanted a dungeon for the new county workhouse, they thought of "cooler," and evolved this modernistic bastile that looks like a mechanical refrigerator. It is 10 feet high, made of thick concrete, reinforced with steel. Nine holes admit air, but no light. It has no seat, no bed. Cornbread and water are shoved through a double-locked door at the bottom. Inside it is dark, day and night.

NEWEST ANDREWS STRIKE PREPARES TO DRILL AHEAD

Shell 1 King Flows 62 Barrels While Going In

BY FRANK GARDNER

Flowing 62 barrels of oil by heads while going in hole with drill-pipe, Shell Petroleum Corporation No. Empire-King, latest strike in Andrews county, today is preparing to drill ahead below its present depth of 4,471. Yesterday, on swabbing test through 2 1/2-inch tubing, the well showed yield of 48 barrels of oil, one percent drilling water, in eight hours. Swab was lost, and tubing was pulled to recover it.

Operators then bailed down for seven hours off bottom but were unable to find any water. Fluid level remained 600 feet from the surface. Located 660 feet out of the southeast corner of section 10, block A-43, public school land, the No. 1 King is two miles northwest of the Fuhrman pool and a mile west of Humble No. 1 Walker, a small producer. Some believe it will extend the pool, while others term it a new pool opener.

Since topping upper markers well above those in wells at the south end of the Means pool, Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1-B J. S. Means, wildcat two and three- quarter miles southeast of the field, has attracted great interest, with many viewing it as a potential discovery. It topped anhydrite at 1,885, 1,273 feet above sea level and practically flat with Humble No. 8 J. S. Means, a high well in the pool. Today it is drilling at 3,217 feet in salt and anhydrite. Location is in section 11, block A-45, public school land.

Showing Nothing

W. L. Pickens et al No. - Lewright, closely-watched wildcat in the south east part of Terry county, had shown nothing this morning as it drilled to 4,929 feet in lime and gray shale. Some correlations show it to be running higher than the Albaugh discovery well ten miles to the southeast in Dawson county, while others place it as much as 50 feet lower. The test is in the center of the northeast of the northeast of section 1, block C-37, public school land.

Using spudder, Shell No. 1 Mann, east offset to the Amerada No. 1-A Averiff, first oil well on the Seminole structure in Gaines county, had drilled to 85 feet in caliche. Rotary will be moved in later.

Texas No. 1 Bob Slaughter, southwest Hockley county wildcat, in labour 83, league 38, Zavalla county school land, is drilling below 4,575 feet in lime and anhydrite.

Glasscock Test

Fleetborn No. 1 Black Arrow, Glasscock wildcat one mile west of the Dodson & Duffey No. 1 Carter discovery, logged a rainbow showing of oil from 2,315-25 and drilled ahead below that point. Eight-inch casing is set at 1,942 to shut off upper water.

Production of 70 barrels of 31.6 gravity oil daily is being pumped by the discovery well. Oil is being hauled to tanks on the Edwards lease in the Howard-Glasscock pool.

T. B. Knox et al No. 1 Johns & Burleson, one-half mile south extension to the McCamey pool in Upton, pumped 220 barrels on 24-hour test through 2-inch tubing. Bottomed at 2,352, its natural rating of

WARFARE OVER RACE WAGERING LOOMS IN SENATE

May Delay Action To Clear up Question From House

BATTLE CERTAIN

Advocates of Repeal Attempt to Push Bill To Front

AUSTIN. Mar. 9. (AP) — Parliamentary warfare involving repeal of horse race betting flared in the legislature again today as a point was raised in the senate that the house had not adopted joint rules, and action on the repeal measure, slated for tomorrow night, might be delayed.

Advocates of repeal moved to prevent such an occurence, Senator Joe Hill of Henderson offering a resolution providing joint rules.

The house sent back to committee the general liquor regulation bill after members objected to several provisions. The house adopted the resolution of Representative Ben Cathey of Quitman asking the national social security board if it would approve of pension liberalization grants being granted persons owning homes.

CRASH VICTIMS RETURNED HOME

Officials of Sun Co., In Move to Bring Bodies Back From Mexico

DALLAS, Mar. 9. (AP)(AP) — Officials of the Sun Oil company, through attorneys, were arranging today to return the bodies of Welborne Osborne and John M. Russell of Dallas and Miss Katherine Gillespie of McAllen and Miss Madge Colburn of Alamo, auto-truck crash victims north of Monterrey Sunday night.

Osborne was a letterman of Texas Tech's football team in 1930. He was in the engineering school.

Late News

LUBBOCK. Mar. 9. (AP)— Fear of foul play was expressed today by investigators searching for Burns Kittrell, bookkeeper at a Lubbock bank, who disappeared from Lubbock Sunday at noon.

WASHINGTON. Mar. 9. (AP)— The house agriculture committee approved today a measure to continue until 1942 the annual payment of $500,000,000 to farmers complying with the soil conservation program.

WASHINGTON. Mar. 9. (AP)— The house foreign affairs committee substituted its own neutrality bill today for that passed last week by the senate. While provisions were almost identical, the house bill gives the president greater discretion in the designation of materials desired as military supplies.

FORGOTTEN DEPOSIT MOUNTS

TILTON, N. H. (U.P.) — The late William Y. Sargent deposited $13 in a bank 82 years ago and forgot about it. After his death his executor found the account and it had increased to $468 by compound interests. The widow used the money to pay funeral expenses.

Blast Fatal in Movie 'War'

A moment of real tragedy, in a synthetic movie war, is depicted in this remarkable picture, which revealed to a coroner's jury in Los Angeles how George Daley, war veteran and film extra, died as he was taking part in a battle for one of the sequences of a new picture. As a shell exploded, at left, with a terrific blast outside a "wrecked French farmhouse," Daley (indicated by arrow), who had been operating a machine gun, slumped to the floor. His death was believed due to heart failure, brought about by the heavy concussion.

75,000 are Idle As Strike Grows

Union And Chrysler Officials Are To Meet Today

By Associated Press

In Detroit, 75,000 automobile workers were idle today as strikes were called in the Chrysler plants awaiting a meeting today of officials of the corporation and union.

The truce between General Motors and workers ended in strikes at seven Fisher body and Chevrolet plants in Flint.

From Washington, William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, prepared for unionization of structural steel workers, most of whom are sharing fatter wages and shorter hours, announced earlier in the month.

Philip Murray, leader of the steel workers organizing committee predicted all of the subsidiaries of the giant United States Steel corporation would sign contracts with his C. I. O. union within the next 10 days.

The Chrysler situation developed rapidly, throwing about 50,000 workers into idleness, after corporation officials rejected the UAW's demand for recognition as sole bargaining agency for all Chrysler employes.

Two hours after Chrysler's long statement rejecting the demand was made public, union men began their strike. There was no violence and the negotiations conference continued.

Shortly before the Chrysler strike about half of Hudson's 10,000 workers struck. Union officials charged the company with "stalling" in negotiations on wage conditions.

GEN. PERSHING IS VISITOR HERE IN OVERNIGHT STOP

Former Commander Of American Army Is Enroute East

General John Pershing, former commander of the A. E. F., and his sister, Miss Mae Pershing, spent Monday night at Hotel Scharbauer, returning to Washington and eastern points after a winter vacation in Los Angeles and Tucson. They were accompanied by Sergeant Schaffer and wife who have been with them on previous visits here. Mrs. Schaffer is the general's nurse.

In a talk with Clarence Scharbauer this morning, General Pershing said he drove on to Midland last night although his accustomed distance should have halted him at Pecos. He stopped here two months ago while en route west, coming on to Midland when Sweetwater would have been his proper distance. The general became attached to Midland and Hotel Scharbauer as a regular stop after spending two weeks here once in a seige of bad weather when he was suffering from a severe cold.

They checked out at 8:30 o'clock this morning, going eastward.

TRIAL OF NEGRO FOR MURDER NOW NEARING CLOSE

Lucius Davis Being Tried for Death Of Negress

Attorneys were presenting their respective cases this afternoon at the conclusion of testimony in the case of State of Texas versus Lucius Davis, negro, charged with murder in connection with the alleged slaying of Willie Brown, negress, in Moody addition last December.

T. D. Kimbrough was counsel for the defendant and Cecil Collings, district attorney, and Merrit Hines, county attorney, were presenting arguments for the state.

Davis entered a plea of self-defense; the defense putting witnesses on the stand to testify that the woman had a gun in her hand at the time she met her death.

Members of the jury were J. M. Connor, Floyd Countiss, Jr., M. H. Crawford, Clint Creech, Jack Cusack, Golden Donovan, J. W. Drummond, Drue Dunn, F. A. Early, J. H. Fine, John Francis, B. W. Golloday.

ANNUAL GOOD-FRIDAY PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY GOVERNOR JAMES V. ALLRED

AUSTIN. Mar. 9—Following is the text of the annual Good-Friday proclamation issued by James V. Allred, governor of Texas:

TO ALL WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

That season of the year in which the world pays obeisance to the supreme sacrifice of the Lord, Jesus Christ, again claims the attention of all Christians and it is well to give praise to Him who gave His all for the redemption of the souls of men.

The trials, sacrifices and immemorial suffering of Our Savior bring to mind a realization of the great blessings of comfort and immortal benefits which this sacred day may bring to us through faith, hope and prayer.

Prompted by my own feelings, by the suggestion of faithful Christian people, and cognizant of the sacredness of the memorable anniversary that will be perpetuated in the heart and minds of men down the ages.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JAMES V. ALLRED, Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby set aside and proclaim the Friday before Easter Sunday, March 26, 1937, as in Texas and I call upon all Texas Christians to reverently observe and commemorate this day with prayer and other fitting ceremonials, recalling the sacrifice made by the Son of Man on that historic day in ancient times when His blood was shed for the world He loved.

I further urge a cessation of all the activities in all State departments on Good Friday between the hours of 12 and 3 p.m., and urge all State employees to take advantage of this pause from official duties for prayer and observance of ceremonies in connection with this occasion. I urge all Texans to lend their whole-hearted moral support to the observance of this day through meditation and prayer, in holy rememberance of the crucifixion of Our Lord Jesus Christ, and to reflect upon the greatest message of love mortals have ever heard: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of State to be impressed hereon, at Austin this the 27th day of February, A. D. 1937.

(SEAL) JAMES V. ALLRED, Governor of Texas.

EDWARD CLARK,
Secretary of State.

PROGRAM OF RANGE CONSERVATION IS MADE AT MEETING

Participants Elect Representatives Today

INTEREST HIGH

At Least 50 Attend Session for First Explanations

Ranchmen of Midland county who will participate in the range conservation program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, in a meeting at the county court room here today, elected John M. King, Jay H. Floyd and C. A. McClintic as the county's representatives in working out a definite program.

The chairman will be the county's spokesman at a conference with other committeemen, the two other members serving in an advisory capacity.

Selection of a range supervisor for the county was left to the committee, the four applicants here being A. G. Bohannon, C. W. Crowley, L. A. Brunson and L. S. Webb. However, the ranchmen attending the meeting were asked to list the applicants in the order of their preference, as a guide for the committee. The vote was by secret ballot. The supervisor will be paid on a per diem basis, with four cents a mile allowed for his automobile. A school of instruction will be held at Big Spring soon, under auspices of the A. & M. College, at which time applicants for the supervisor's job will be given details of the work.

County Agricultural Agent S. A. Debnam presided at the meeting which was attended by approximately fifty ranchmen. E. E. Parris, representative of the AAA, aided in answering questions of ranchers and in explaining the terms of the conservation program.

Application blanks were distributed to the ranchmen present, several being turned in immediately and others being taken out to be mailed back.

Payments are to be made not in excess of the range-building allowance for re-seeding by deferred grazing—ie., for withholding 25 per cent of the ranch from grazing for a period of six months, beginning May 1. Payment will not be made if operator permits remainder of range land to be overgrazed to an extent that causes deterioration.

For contour listing of furrowing in 1937, furrow channels to be not less than eight inches in width and four inches and not less than 3 1/2 feet apart. (70 cents per acre).

For narrow terraces or ridges, on slopes of two per cent or greater that are at least six feet wide from bottom of furrow to bottom on other side. (10 cents per linear foot).

For spreader dams to be constructed in accordance with specifications of the state agricultural committee. (15 cents per cubic yard).

For constructing ponds or reservoirs with adequate spillways. (15 cents per cubic yard).

For construction of range fences, where necessary in order to carry out other phases of the program. (3 cents per linear foot). (30 cents per rod).

For the establishment of fire guards, not less than four feet in width, by plowing furrows or otherwise exposing the mineral soil. (3 cents per linear 100 feet).

For the eradication of prairie dogs, prickly pear and cactus, mesquite, cedar, lechuguilla. (Payment according to extent of infestation).

SPANISH ALLEGE ITALIANS AMONG INSURGENT ARMY

'Whole Division' Is Said Taking Part In Big Drive

By Associated Press

As Spanish insurgents staged a new push on Madrid from the northeast, the city's defense chief, Gen. Jose Miaja, asserted today that three captured Italians said they belonged to a "whole Italian division" participating in the drive.

The French government asked that the international control plan, effective March 13, be put into effect immediately.

The French feared a last minute rush of men and arms into Spain before the patrol goes into effect, despite the non-intervention agreement now existing.

As Spanish government leaders sought to determine the fate of crew and passengers on the munitions freighter Mar Contrabrico, shelled by the insurgent cruiser Canarias Monday; in Arachon, France, a Spanish seamen, survivor, said he saw the shell-pounded freighter sink. The seaman was picked up by a french fishing boat as he leaped from the burning freighter.

President to Back Program Of Court Reorganization In Radio Address to Nation

Chicago Cab Strike Parley

Shadowy silhouets of Chicago's skyscrapers towered in the background of striking cab drivers, pictured above as they stopped another cabby to "talk union" to him. Eight hundred drivers met, voted to strike, raced out to inform the city's 6000 taximen and clear the streets of all cabs if possible. They sought one union for all, company-paid gasoline and 40 per cent commission.

'ONLY PRACTICAL MEANS TO SOLVE NATIONAL CRISIS'

Roosevelt Positive Congress to Give Approval

OPPONENTS WAIT

Senate Hearings On Proposal Start Tomorrow

WASHINGTON. Mar. 9. (AP) — Leading allies of the President expect him to contend in his radio address at 10:30 tonight that his court reorganization program is the only practical means yet suggested to meet the "grave national crisis."

Opponents waited for the talk before perfecting strategy for the senate hearings on the proposal beginning tomorrow.

President Roosevelt's nation-wide radio address, in which he will defend his court reorganization proposal, will be heard at 9:30 Midland time, tonight.

Farm and labor leaders, siding with the president, report him adamant for the program and that he has optimistic prospects of ultimate congressional approval.

FARLEY SAYS FOES ARE "STRAINING AT A GNAT"

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. Mar. 9. (AP) —Postmaster General James Farley, speaking under auspices of the North Carolina political union, a non-partisan student organization, today accused opponents of the president's court reorganization proposal as "straining at a gnat," and cited what he said is ample precedent for the judiciary change.

NEW YORK AND ILLINOIS DEBATE LEGISLATION TO END EXCLUSION OF WOMEN FROM JURY SERVICES

Gov. Horner Urges Law to Remove Bar To Sex Equality

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Mar. 9 (U.P.)— Illinois women have opened a battle in the state legislature to gain the lost privilege withheld from their sex and exclusively held by men—the right to serve on juries.

Representative Pierce Shannon (D.), Chicago, a young war veteran, is their champion. He is sponsoring a proposal to amend existing state jury laws to extend to women the same right that men have to serve on juries.

Just two words are all that will be necessary to grant the women the last right of equality with men to place them on an even footing with the opposite sex.

Those two words are "both sexes" and would be written into a law that has stood the test of time and other efforts to give women equal jury rights since it was enacted in 1874.

As it is now, the law provides that men only may serve on juries. Some years ago the legislature granted the right to women, but made it subject to a statewide referendum.

Voided by Court

The people voted overwhelming approval, but the state supreme court threw it out on the ground that the legislature had delegated legislative power to the voters and therefore was unconstitutional.

Aiding Shannon, a captain in Illinois' National Guard, is Governor Henry Horner, who in his inaugural address to the assembly said it was "discrimination" to bar women from jury service.

"Illinois has been in the forefront in removing the legal disabilities which the common law in early times attached to women, said Horner. "In every other respect, in this state, women are accorded equal rights with men under our laws.

"Barring them from jury service is practically the only discrimination yet remaining in this state and I know of no valid reason why it should be retained. Many of the states have already permitted women to serve on juries and progressive Illinois should have such legislation."

Shorter Hours Sought

Hours for women in industry would be reduced from 10 to 8 a day under three other proposals before the legislature. Two are identical and in addition to shortening the hours they would add women barbers and beauty specialists to industrial occupations.

A third proposal would except enforcement of an eight-hour law where there was an emergency,

Outcome of Bitter Fight Uncertain In New York

ALBANY, N. Y. Mar. 9. (U.P.) — New York, with more than 3,000,000 women residents, faces one of the most bitter political battles in years over legislation clearing the way for mixed juries.

Disregarding political affiliations, the only three women of the state legislature—Sen. Rhoda Fox Graves (R). and Assemblywomen Jane Todd (R). and Doris I. Byrne (D). —are leading a concerted drive for approval of the legislature.

For many years bills permitting women jurors have been introduced in both houses, but it was not until 1935 that Miss Byrne succeeded in persuading the Democratic assembly to take favorable action, but a senate committee killed the proposals without a vote on the floor.

In 1936, when Republicans captured the lower house, Miss Todd took up the fight and again five bills creating the necessary machinery were passed by the assembly, only to meet bitter opposition in the senate.

Lehman Backs Bill

The women legislators this year have won the support of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and other powerful leaders. Assembly Democratic Minority Leader Irwin Steingut paved the way for the appointment of Miss Byrne to the powerful judiciary committee, and it was that group of the lower house that favorably reported the measures only a few weeks after the 1937 session started.

According to leaders of both parties, drafting of the legislation is the center of the controversy. Many senators have moved to make the bills permissive instead of mandatory.

The women legislators, it was reported, are willing to accept the amendment, but still the senate hesitates in making its final decision.

Early Showdown Demanded

Sen. P. Williamson (R.), who is sponsoring the Todd bills in the upper house, has demanded an early showdown. Supporters of the permissive amendment, however, have failed to press their proposal.

There was no debate in the Assembly when the measures passed this year, but many opponents have publicly announced that they believe "a woman's place is in the kitchen." Advocates argue that with women on juries decisions will improve. They point to the jury that convicted Bruno Richard Hauptmann to support their contention mixed juries are as severe as those composed solely of men.

The parliamentary maneuvering in the senate has provoked Todd bill supporters to marshal their forces for a final drive. The upper house judiciary committee reported the bills containing the permissive clause and completely disregarded those passed by the assembly.

RECOGNITION OF TEXAS FARMERS MEETING OBJECT

Permanent Office Is To Be Maintained In Washington

TEMPLE, Mar. 9. (AP)— Director of the Texas Agricultural association, meeting with farmers from all sections of the state here Monday, took steps toward obtaining proper recognition for the cotton farmer in the government's new farm program.

They voted to raise funds to join with other cotton states to maintain a permanent office in Washington and to campaign for an adequate cotton program. The group started with pledges of $2,000 to this end.

Endorse FD's Plan

They also adopted without opposition a resolution "unreservedly endorsing President Roosevelt's court reform plan."

The resolution passed after several speakers declared the president's court reform was essential to the welfare of farmer and agriculture. It followed an address by Dr. R. H. Montgomery, University of Texas.

The directors, convened after the general meeting was adjourned, voted to instruct their legislative representatives at Austin to "give and take" on the proposition of drafting a soil conservation bill.

This action, considering a highly controversial measure, was taken in the view that the association could cooperate in the framing of a compromise measure agreeable to the U. S. department of agriculture and state agriculture leaders.

"In the past, the cotton farmers of the south have gotten what they have in the way of an agricultural program through the benevolence of the agricultural interests of other sections," H. G. Lucas of Brownwood, president of the association, declared.

"Now that a permanent agricultural program is being shaped, under which we most likely will be governed for many years to come, it is vitally important that the south have representation in Washington to see that it has its just share of the new program."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9—Although the forthcoming neutrality legislation admittedly will be a tremendous improvement over nothing at all, many of its strongest advocates are willing to admit that real neutrality appears to be impossible to attain.

England conspicuously stands to profit under the Pittman and McReynolds plans—a combinatioon of which probably will be made into a law. That is in line with the notions of the state department, where it is considered good policy to plan on lining up with England in the event this country ever has to choose sides in an alignment of world powers.

Rejection of proposals to stop all trade with belligerents in time of war has left Congress in an odd position. Legislation designed to keep the United States out of war still will balk rigid neutrality in so far as the law's effect is concerned.

Nations with powerful fleets profit at the expense of weaker naval powers, and the President is given discretionary power which could easily, when used, provoke foreign nations into belligerent acts against us.

The embargo on exports of arms to belligerent nations apparently will be absolute. So will the prohibition against export of materials to belligerents unless ownership has been transferred to the purchaser. But no limitation is proposed on export of the raw materials which can be used to make munitions. Oil, cotton, copper, steel and wheat are at least as important as arms to nations at war.

England Profits Most

When — and if — another European war comes, it is to be expected the British navy will dominate the seas — at least with relation to shipments of goods from these shores. That would mean that Britain and her friends could come to our Atlantic coast ports and get all the supplies they were able to pay for. Germany, Italy, France, or Russia would be unable to do that in case any of them happened to be lined up in war against England.

In the Pacific, Japan would be able to import from the United States, but not Russia, and not China, if Japan were at war with either.

The President will be empowered to list commodities whose transport on Americans ships might threaten to get us into war, and to forbid American ships to carry them. But the come-and-get-it-cash-and-carry principle would still be there.

Just for speculation, imagine that England is at war with Germany again, that she blockades Germany and cuts off that nation's imports from the rest of the world. Then Germany starts torpedoing American ships carrying supplies of any kind to England, and that the President at once lists everything he can think of as goods not to be carried on American ships to belligerent nations.

The net result would be that the United States, by abandoning her traditional stand for freedom of the seas, would retreat from the position which was ostensibly, if not actually, the primary reason for her entry into the World War against Germany. But it would be hard to demonstrate that the United States had pursued a course of strict neutrality, and England would still be free to send her ships over here and buy all types of raw materials and foodstuffs.

One Alternative There

The alternative to building up a big war trade, with big navy nations in time of war, would have been application of a quota system, limiting exports to prewar quantities. This might have ruined the administration's trade treaty program. Besides, it is hard to believe the cotton and wheat interests would not have been able to repeal it once a big war-time demand for supplies came from Europe.

The bitterest opponents of the pending neutrality legislation are those who object to any national policy which favors England, and the "Big Navy" group, which insists on "freedom of the seas" for the American merchant marine, with a powerful American navy to back it up.

Pork Exhibits To Be Made in Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Mar. 9.— Demonstrations in modern methods of handling pork will be the theme of a series of educational booths showing the importance of good breeding; feeding for quality pork; killing and cutting for both curing and canning; curing by use of sugar and smoke; storage by wrapping and use of oil; and utilization, at the seventh annual Plains Quality Meat Show here March 29, 30 and 31. The demonstration will begin at 1:00 p. m., March 29, and continue each day, until concluded with the demonstration in utilization Wednesday morning by Gladys Sanders, Chloe Huffaker and Mrs. Ruth Perry.

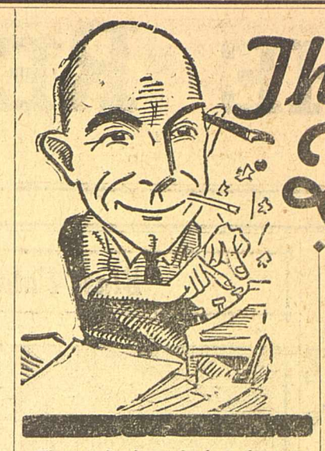

The grand champion calf exhibitor will receive $24.00 and a substantial sale price. Twenty five other premiums ranging downward to $4.00 are being offered in the baby beef division.

The grand champion pig exhibitor will receive $12.00 with twenty other premiums ranging downward to $1.00. First prize in the fat lamb division is $5.00 for two divisions, and two groups and $6.00 for the best county group of 15 lambs, with a total of 31 premiums offered in this division.

Twenty three premiums are offered in the cured meat division with prizes ranging from $1.00 to $8.00. The canned meats division has been eliminated and the educational booths substituted.

Col. Earl Gartin of Greensburgh, Indiana, has again been engaged to handle the livestock sale, which will be held March 31. Last year 115 calves, 133 pigs and 117 lambs were sold at this sale for a total of $13,454.64, an average of $81.05 per calf, $23.64 per pig, and $8.45 per lamb.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anythnig).

Those who have had a close eye on the building activity during the past fall and winter "ain't seen nothing" compared to what is coming up this spring and summer, from whata I hear. Owners of close-in building sites report more inquiries than they have had for years, and the outlying residential locations still are being developed.

Some people think we have as many as 10,000 people now, but I can't believe we have more than 8,500 to 9,000. The reason we haven't increased our population in a mushroom rush is that the houses being built here are of considerable qualityity, and you can't build a good town overnight.

I believe that before 1938 passes we will have close to 15,000 good solid citizens, however, if all goes well. That may be going a little too fast, but if we have 12,000 by that time, this will still be the best town of its size in Texas.

Business house rents in Midland are very reasonable in most instances, considering location. While the most choice spots may be drawing big rents, those a block or two from the center of things are renting for from $40 to $80 per month for a 25-foot front. Some building owners are wanting to jump them pretty high, but there is quitet a bit of building under contemplation in the business section, according to reports, and I believe the down-town rents will continue to be stabilized.

A story which never came out: When the army horse buyers were here recently, they told Tom Nance about plans of the government for moving the remount station from Fort Reno, Okla., to Fort Worth. The move would include only the purchasing division and that of distributing the thoroughbred stallions. Tom, Clarence Scharbauer and the chamber of commerce got on the wires and pulled all the wires they knew to seeif it couldn't be sent here; but advices were received from Col. Johnson of the remount and Congressman R. E. Thomason that decisions already had been made to go to Fort Worth, due to the centralization of railroads there. Col. Johnson said the station would be mostly an office proposition wherein two or three officers would handle the clerical end of the remount.

It shouldn't be long now, about action on the repeal of horse race betting. I predict that Midland hasn't seen the last of horse racing, however.

Mrs. Andrews Is Hostess To Circle

The Belle Bennett circle of the WMS of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Andrews, at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. S. P. Hazlip, assistant chairman was in charge. The devotional was led by Mrs. Luther Tidwell.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames Clyde Gwyn, Stacey Allen, H. R. Sindorf, E. J. Voliva, Ira Cole, Taylor, C. P. Lancaster, Karl Ratliff, S. P. Hazlip, Luther Tidwell, C. C. Watson, and Prine, John Andrews. Mrs. Grace Humphrey was a visitor.

Bobbie Wood Is Leader at Endeavor

Bobbie Wood was leader Sunday night at the meeting of the Endeavor of the First Presbyterian church.

Members attending were: Betty Jo Greene, Margaret Ann West, Pauline Carr, Jimmie K. Kendrick, Leora Mann, Clarissa Mann, Bobbie Park, Charles Patterson, Jimmie Greene, Marian Coke, Jane Patterson, Melba Schlosser and Frances Ellen Link.

"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

If you are troubled with common constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I used to feel poorly all the time—just down and out. After reading an advertisement about ALL-BRAN, I got a box. It has helped me ever since." Miss Mary Bundy, Bennettsville, S. C.

Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings "bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to tone up the intestinal tract.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water. This soft mass gently clears the intestines in a safe, natural way—without any of the weakening action of pills and drugs.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—with every meal in severe cases. Serve as a cereal with milk or fruits, or cook into recipes. Remember—ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. You buy it at the grocery store. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FIVE FACTS IN FIVE MINUTES

(NOTE: The following paper was read by Mrs. George Glass March 3, at the meeting of the Woman's Wednesday Club.)

A Prussian King is reported to have said that three things were needed in the waging of any war—"Money, money and more money." Today we are waging a war on tuberculosis and we know that three things are needed to make this a victory — education, education and more education.

In the five minutes that have been graciously given me on this program I want to bring you five facts about tuberculosis in our country today, and then when this meeting is over, my suggestion to you is that you turn inquiring reporter after the fashion of some of our newspapers and button hole the first five people you meet on the street with some question, the answer for which you have gotten here.

Now then. First of all—tuberculosis is a great waster of human life. In this year 1937, 70,000 people will die of this disease; and they will be in large measure people in the most productive years of life.

Fact number two —Tuberculosis is the chief cause of death for all people between 15 and 45 years of age.

Just let us pause here and think of what that means to us all. Young people just out of school with all the investment of money and loving care their parents have put into their lives! Young fathers, building comfortable homes for their children! Young mothers, leaving toddlers and adolescents when a mother's care is so important! Cut down by the ravages of a tiny germ seen only under the microscope—the tubercle bacillus.

Now for fact number three—Tuberculosis is a highly communicable disease and if we are ever to overcome it, that means that tuberculosis patients with positive sputum, or as we say, with the tuberculosis germ in their spit, these tuberculosis patients must be treated apart from the rest of the family. It is best of course if they go away to a sanatorium. If they do not, then they must sleep in a room by themselves, their linen must be washed separately, their dishes must be boiled separately and their sputum must de disinfected and burned.

There is hope for us all, however, in fact number four. Because of the battle that we have been waging over the years—a battle that required money as the Prussian King said—money that the nation has raised through our Christmas Seals — money and education, only one-third as many people are dying of tuberculosis today as were dying in 1900.

But, fact number five. And this is the most important fact of all. "Tuberculosis," as our Surgeon General, Dr. Thomas Parran says, "Tuberculosis can be wiped out in our nation." How, you ask. By using all the methods of detection and cure known to science today.

I know you want to hear more about these methods. I haven't time now to go into a description of the tuberculin test, the X-ray, pneumothorax treatment and other methods. But the Midland county Tuberculosis association will be glad to tell you all about them if you will visit them at their offices at the courthouse.

In the moment that is left me, I want to tell you of one family that illustrates the need for and the value in life-saving terms of discovering tuberculosis in its early stages.

Peter Sevenson had come to this country as a young man of twenty and quickly earning a competence in his old trade of carpentering, he had married. Life had been one happy year after another then, for his, wife his two daughters and himself. One day, however, when Sevenson was a man of forty-eight, trouble overtook them all, like a bolt out of the blue. Suffering a hemorrhage while at work on a new building, he was brought home and diagnosed by the doctors as an advanced tuberculosis patient. They recommended the county sanatorium as his best chance. This had the added advantage of breaking any possible tuberculosis contacts with his family.

And then, as doctors do in communicable diseases, every member of the family was examined at once for possible tuberculosis infection. Bertha, the older daughter, a beautiful blond-haired child of sixteen was found after tuberculin-testing and subsequent X-raying to be in the beginning stages of tuberculosis. Her father, not knowing he was a victim of tuberculosis, had been infecting her for a long time. So she, too, was sent to the county sanatorium to cure.

I am glad to be able to report that both Peter Sevenson, the father and Bertha, the daughter, were finally restored to their family in perfect health. But, and this is the point of telling you this story—the father, who had never been physically examined and had developed advanced tuberculosis before he ever suspected he was ill at all—the father took approximately four years to get well, whereas the daughter, found in the beginning by modern methods of detection, was home again in less than a year, saving her people so much time, and money and emotional strain.

Wasn't it Socrates who said, "know thyself?" As far as your health is concerned, we can do no better than suggest that each one of you "know yourself". And to do that you must go to your physician for a thorough physical examination including a chest X-ray if he thinks it advisable.

Now, do you remember the five facts we gave you about tuberculosis? And will you turn inquiring reporter to five people outside this room when this meeting is over? I shall be here at the door to refresh your memories if you wish.

After all, what I have been trying to say is that you, too, have a part to play in the Early Diagnosis Campaign that is being conducted all over this country, this month, in an effort to search out and uncover tuberculosis.

Queen's Jester

Told that Queen Mary would attend the religious pageant in which she was to appear at Albert Hall, London, four-year-old Jean Oxford (above) daughter of an actor, wanted to know: "But how can they get such a big boat into the hall?" When told of the quip, Queen Mary was so amused she asked to meet Jean, kissed her, gave her a carnation.

Play Is Featured On Health Program

The health program this week will continue the program on "Tuberculin Tests."

There will be a featured playlet, "A Historis Moment In Tuberculosis," with the characters as follows: Dr. Von Pirquet, Father Edward Harrison O. M. I.; announcer, Mrs. E. H. Ellison; Nurse, Miss Betty Wilson; Barbara, Mrs. W. B. Chapman; Speaker, Dr. W. E. Ryan; Representative of Schools, Mrs. F. H. Schouten; and a high school boy.

This program is presented through the co-operation of the Humble Oil & Refining Co., and is broadcast each Wednesday morning over KRLH from 10:00—10:15 a. m. It is sponsored by the Midland County Health Board.

do these telephone mishaps ever happen to you?

Your telephone bell rings . . . you pick up the receiver, and . . . there is no one on the line. Here are some ways to avoid this . . . for yourself and others:

1. Someone may have asked for your number by mistake, discovered the error, and hung up.

REMEDY: If you are not sure of a number, look in the directory before making a call.

2. Someone called you, but got impatient and didn't wait a reasonable time for you to answer.

REMEDY: When you make a call, wait about a minute (10 rings) for a reply before you hang up.

3. You may not have answered your telephone promptly; by the time you answered, the person calling had hung up.

REMEDY: Always try to answer your telephone promptly.

Margot Grahame agrees that Luckies are gentlest on the throat

"I've smoked Luckies for eight years—ever since I was introduced to them in London by an American motion picture producer. He put forward the very sensible argument that they are the gentlest cigarette in the world on the throat—and fine tobacco, too. Since then I have made many pictures, and I must say Luckies have always been considerate of my throat. In fact, my throat practically insists that I choose a light smoke—which is easy to understand in view of the voice strain picture-work entails."

Margot Grahame

FEATURED IN THE RKO RADIO PICTURE BASED ON THE JULES VERNE STORY "MICHAEL STROGOFF"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Grahame verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Jerome Travers, Forced Back Into Golf, Sells His Putter and Seeks Post as Pro

NEW YORK, Mar. 5—Twenty-five years have passed, but Jerry Travers, you might say, is still puttering around.

Travers, whose unerring putting had the boys swearin' on the green a quarter of a century ago, is now selling reproductions of the famous Schenectady, or center-shafted putter which he used with such deadly accuracy when he was the Bobby Jones of the golf world.

You will find Travers, trim and gray and quite business-like at 45, at 80 Maiden Lane in New York City, where he and his partner, Frederick W. Gwinn, run the putter business, or at 187 Broadway, where Travers conducts a golf school.

"I also give a set of instructions along with each putter I sell," says Mr. Travers.

But he doesn't like this instructing by correspondence or in the close confines of a golf school, and he would like to get a post as professional at some club—preferably in California.

"I never dreamed that I would have to resort to my golf for a living," says the quiet-spoken amateur king of other years. "But, perhaps, as you know, I had financial reverses about three years ago. I had been a member of the Cotton Exchange for years, but that business petered out as far as I was concerned and I sold my seat and turned professional."

Golfers Are Better Now

Travers hadn't played in a tournament for 15 years—since he retired while still at the top of his form at the age of 28. Golf had taken up too much of his time then and interefered with his flourishing career in Wall Street. During the 15 years that followed he played only as you and your neighbor would play—on week-ends, and only a round or two.

He came back to find the game changed considerably—for the better in some respects, for the worse in others.

"Present-day golfers," says Travers, " are really better—and they seem to get better all the time. They hit the ball tremendous distances. Of course, this is due largely to the present fast, thin-covered balls and the fine, excellently-balanced clubs. Today the mediocre golfer gets good equipment in spite of himself.

"But in my day the good golfer not only knew how to use the clubs but he also knew how to pick out good clubs and good hickory shafts. The mediocre golfer took what was handed to him and his game, bad enough, became worse. But, as I said, things are different these days and the mediocre golfers are good despite themselves."

Travers thinks that the 14-club rule will make for more artistic golf.

"That's really all anyone needs to play golf any place," says the man who won four National Amateurs, one National Open and 15 other state and sectional tournaments from 1905 to 1915. "When I was playing the only clubs I carried were a No. 1 iron, two No. 2 irons—one heavy—a jigger, a mashie, a mashie-niblick, a driver, a brassie—and, of course, a putter," this with a chuckle as he remembered his triumph after triumph on the green.

BIG BAG JUST A FAD

"In recent years," he continued, "it has become mainly a fad to carry a cumbersome leather bag cluttered up with all sorts and sizes and shapes of irons. Some of them were never used.

"Limiting the number of clubs will improve the play—maybe not the score, but the play—because a man or woman will become more familiar with his clubs and, therefore, play them better. They will make half shots and three-quarter shots, instead of just whaling away for a full shot with a club made for that particular distance."

Of course, you know that Travers knows his way around the course when he discusses irons. He was, perhaps the greatest iron-man the game ever has known. He won every one of his titles without the aid of a wood club. Slightly built, Travers was always short from the tee, but his second shot was long and accurate and his putting was—well, it was terrific. He could putt down a flight of steps.

Travers, more than any other champion in any line of sport, owed his success to an indomitable fighting spirit. They say he did not have the perfect form. And yet he was the best of a field that included such mighty men as Walter J. Travis, Chick Evans, Francis Ouimet, Jess Guilford, Chandler Egan, Max Marston and so many others.

CAME IN 1915 BIGGEST THRILL

None of them could beat him in head-to-head matches when the chips were stacked on the green. But a card and pencil were his bugaboos. He was a bad medal player. In the amateur qualifying rounds he would shoot horrible scores of 165 and 162—in fact, he averaged about 80 strokes per qualifying round in the four years he won the amateur.

"That's why," says Mr. Travers, "the 1915 Open at Baltusrol stands out more in my mind than any other tournament. I made up my mind that year to show them that I could play medal. I changed my game completely—instead of being bold on the greens, trying to sink all the long ones like I did in match play, I became conservative. I just ran the ball up and got my par.

"Winning that tournament gave me my biggest thrill.

"But it would be a bigger thrill, right now, if somebody would walk up to me and present me with a job as a professional somewhere."

Terrain Step-Downs Explained by Prof.

AUSTIN, Texas, Mar. 5—The step-downs in the terrain of Texas from the altitudinal plains of Northwest Texas to the coastal areas are in the form of rather sharp topographic breaks, designated as escarpments, it has been pointed out by Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer in the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

"Considered from a broad perspective, these series of more or less homogenous plains comprising the greater part of the state include: Mesa plains and table-lands, the Llano Estacado or high plains, and the Edwards plateau; the dissected plains, such as the red beds or Permian plains and the Lampasas cut plain; the Cuesta plains, such as the grand prairies and the black prairies; and the dip plains, such as the various elongated units of the belted coastal plains," Johnson said.

"Several other striking topographic feataures characterize portions of these diversified plains regions, such as the bordering persistent escarpments like the balcones escarpment, the cap rock escarpment, the goodlands escarpment, or the Austin chalk escarpment. Too, there are the "scalped" areas from which the sedimentary strata have been removed by erosion exposing the basement complex of ancient rocks, such as the Llano basin district; there are the flat-topped mountains characterizing the landscape of central Texas from Comanche Peak in Hood county to the rim rock escarpment of the high plains, including such well-know landmarks as the Round Mountain, Santa Anna Mountain, the many flat-topped areas and peaks comprising the Callahan divide country, Double Mountain in Stonewall county, and the numerous flat-topped, solitary eminences just east of the cap-rock of the high plains.

"Also, the drainage and the stream characteristics of each of the main plains regions possess individualities all their own. The Pecos on the west is a groove in the earth's surface more like a great canal than a river. The Canadian, the Red, the Brazos and the Colorado rivers, and their larger tributaries are sand-rivers—a type characteristic of the western plains north to the Platte River, and which form a characteristic feataure of the drainage ways throughout the Southwest. Other stream characteristics of the various plains regions include such features as intrenched meanders—as in the grand prairies and southward and southwestward to the lower Pecos River and the Rio Grande along the southern margin of the Edwards plateau—the different sorts of stream terraces, and the wide flood plains of the master streams extending across the 'soft' materials of the coastal plain.

"Each feature of these various plains is closely associated with the regional history of the area concerned. Each feature is not only part and parcel of the geographic geology, the physiography, the plant geography and ecology of the region, but every one of these features has played, and will continue to play an important part in man's occupation of these regions, whether in determining prehistoric assemblage places, Indian trails, or Spanish settlements, or in the adjustments concerned in Anglo-American settlement and subsequent occupation, whether these embrace railways or highways, the location of towns or cities, patterns of land utilization, either farm or range, industrial plant location, or other things.

"Perhaps most expressive, however, of the environmental features of the various regions, or of the contrasts between them, are in major vegetation formations of the state—orested East Texas, the tall-grass prairies with the cross-timber strips within the prairies or the bordering timbered margins, the shot-grass plains of Westetrn Texas and the chaparral lands and cactus plains in the southern portion of the Gulf plain, as that physiographic region merges into the environment dominating the Southwest border country. Closely associated with the vegetative expression of the various portions of the state are the soils—which in turn are to be considered as the result of atmospheric factors acting upon the surface geologic materials and the subsequent modifications induced by the presence and action of the vegetation. That is, every element comprising the surface environment is interrelated and interdependent, owing to inherent factors concerned in the origin of these various elements. And every element, in the sum-total of the regional environment, is of consequence to the adjustments or maladjustments concerned in the human occupation of the area.

"Owing to the interactions of these various physical factors and the large areas over which these interdependent features are geographically dispersed, the Texas environment comprises a distinctive section—perhaps the most distinctive section—of the American continent."

STORIES IN STAMPS

BY I. S. KLEIN

DOCTOR WHOM ROYALTY VISITED.

IN his youth, Herman Boerhaave, native of Voorhout, near Leyden, Holland, studied to become a clergyman. He was born in 1668, and by the time he was 22 he was a doctor of philosophy, well versed in ancient languages, ecclesiastical history, and mathematics.

But in 1690, the young theological scholar veered toward the study of medicine, and, mainly through self-education, soon became one of the leading physicians in Europe. He introduced many innovations in the practice of medicine and was so highly respected that royalty traveled to Leyden, to consult him about their troubles. Peter the Great of Russia, visited him, it is said, and even a mandarin in China wrote for his advice. When Boerhaave died in 1738, at the age of 70, he left a fortune of 2,000,000 florins.

In 1928, the Netherlands issued a set of four stamps requiring surtaxes for the benefit of child welfare societies. One of these bears a sketch of Boerhaave.

3. More politeness and good nature on the part of public servants.

Gangster Movies Called Too Real to English

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (U.P.)—Prof. C. A. Moore, head of the University of Minnesota's department of English, recently returned from England, says that England takes pictures too seriously.

"It is a common belief in England," the professor said, "that street fights and mob violence are a daily occurence in the United States. We in America view these pictures romantically, but over in England they seem to swallow them whole."

The professor suggested that America exercise more rigid censorship on pictures sent abroad, to remove the delusion.

Letters To Editor

Am mailing to your paper a copy of the letter which I wrote to Senator Tom Connally. A copy of it was mailed to every member of the Texas delegation in Washington.

Very truly yours,
F. C. DALE.

Dear Senator Connally:

After reading your speech to the Texas Legislature a few days ago, and after reading President Roosevelt's speech of yesterday, I cannot help asking you a few questions. As a public servant of the people of Texas, did you support and vote for the AAA, NRA, and other New Deal laws that were passed by Congress and signed by President Roosevelt? if so, did you at that time believe they were unconstitutional? and that our great Supreme Court would hold them unconstitutional and save our country as they did in their great decision which saved our White Supremacy after the Civil War that you mentioned in your Austin speech? Now, Senator Connally, which way do you stand on this important question? We, the people of Texas, want to know. If you were right when you were supporting these measures and the Supreme Court was wrong, why don't you say so? If you say the Supreme Court was right then you say to the people of Texas that you, as their representative, did support and vote for something that was unconstitutional. Why did you do this. Were you mad? Or were you stampeded to the extent that you were doing what the majority was doing and wanted to be on the popular side?

Now, Senator Connally, you and one little Congressman from a West Texas District are the only two of our Texas delegation that have come out openly against the great leaders of our Democratic Party. We, the people of Texas, want you, or any member of our Texas delegation opposing President Roosevelt's Court Reform Bill, to give us some sensible reason and argument why you oppose it. You have no sensible argument to make against a reform in our courts that will be for the betterment of the masses and for the future generations to come.

Senator Connally, you may be afraid that President Roosevelt is trying to become a dictator and destroy our courts by stacking them as his Republican enemies are! Yet, if you are, you ought to tell the people so. We sent you to Washington to look after our interests, not to fight our interests.

No, you are not going to tell Texas people that you are afraid President Roosevelt is trying to slip something by you and become a dictator. Senator Connally, do you agree with the Supreme Court when it says in its famous AAA decision that the agricultural interest of this nation is a local question? We, the people of Texas, whom you represent, would like to know your opinion on this most important question. If Texas raises one million bales of cotton, Georgia, Alabam, Mississippi and other cotton growing states will not get first cost of production for their cotton. Yes, Texas has enough land to produce twenty million bales of cotton and starve the rest of the cotton growing states of this nation. Yet, our Supreme Court says it is a local matter, and unconstitutional for our National Congress to try to remedy ths appalling condition.

If this verdict of the Supreme Court stands, we Texans have the advantage of it, as Texas can raise cotton cheaper than any other state in the union and ten times more of it. No, this verdict will not stand, as it affects not only the cotton growing states of the south, but the entire nation. Therefore, it is a national question altogether and cannot be solved by the separate states. Senator Connally, your position on this most vital question to Texas has broken faith with Texans who had faith in you. As a Texan, I am sending a copy of this letter to every member of our Texas delegation in Washington asking them to tell the Texas people how they stand on this, a most vital question to Texans.

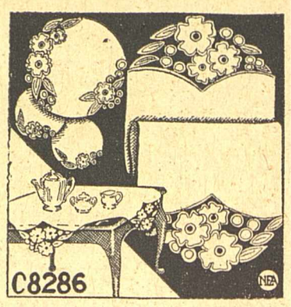

Senator Connally, what need have we for a Senate and House of Representatives, supposed to be the most intelligent men from all walks of life and from all sections of our nation, to gather in our capital and pass laws for the betterment of the masses of the people, and have nine men from a small section of the nation, by a split verdict of 4 to 5, nullify everything you try to do? That is one man dictatorship. Ninety eight of you men have a say as to who shall be appointed to the Supreme bench. That is ninety nine men dictatorship. Ninety nine to one. Last year's campaign issue was very plain to all of us, and on Nov. 3 the people told our government what they wanted done by the most overwhelming majority that was ever recorded in our history. The results would be greater now if the masses of the people could be heard.

Your Friend,
F. C. DALE

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge or correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. When a friend dies, to whom are flowers sent if one does not know any member of the bereaved family?
2. How may one show his sympathy at the death of a friend?
3. May a man refuse to serve as a pallbearer?
4. May one show his appreciation for kindness shown at the time of a death by printing an acknowledgement in the columns of a newspaper?
5. If you are merely an acquaintance of the deceased should you take a seat toward the rear of the church at the funeral?

What would you do if—

A person with whom you have been connected in a business way dies, and there is a general notice of the funeral in the newspaper?—

(a) Go to the church and to the burial?
(b) Do not attend the funeral?
(c) Go to the services at the church?

ANSWERS

1. They are addressed to the deceased.
2. By writing "With sympathy" on his card and leaving it at the house, or by writing a letter to the family, in addition to sending flowers.
3. No.
4. Yes, but the appreciation must also be written. Neither are engraved nor printed cards of appreciation correct.
5. Yes (There are no ushers at a funeral.)

Let's get the news angle on this straight. Soiesette is a time honored fabric, famous for generations for its soft texture, refinement and durability.

Now, for the first time, you can obtain it tailored by JAYSON into shirts of superior character. So impressed are the fabric makers with the modern and admirable quality JAYSON handling, that the cloth has been unhesitatingly and exclusively confined to JAYSON . . . and no other maker.

Make the most of this splendid news. Treat yourself to a brace of these shirts in white and a variety of solid colors, suitable now and for later wearing with your summer clothes.
