

House Again Rejects Holding Company Bill

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

Low—
Pat Harrison tried to slip over a fast one when he publicized a schedule of new tax rates that will raise only $340,000,000 annually. But he may not get away with it.

The Finance chairman gave the impression that his figures were official Treasury proposals backed by the White House. Although they antagonized intended victims they did not suit the liberals President Roosevelt seeks to placate. They won't produce revenue or a new social order. The amount he proposes to raise won't pay half the annual interest charge on the national debt.

As a matter of fact, the Treasury has submitted no rates. Its experts are continually reworking schedules and figuring out new ones in their taxation studies. What Mr. Harrison did was to grab an old set off the shelf. And it was the lowest shelf he could find!

Consolation—
If the Republicans want to know why their pockets are empty, they should cast their eyes on the bulging bank roll of the American Liberty League. Messrs. Shouse, Raskob and Smith are in the big money. And they're spending it like political sailors.

Washington headquarters costs $15,000 a month for rent and salaries. The New York office in A. I. R. Empire State Building chalks up a bill of $3,600 a month. The undersized Chicago outpost needs $1,500 a month to help save the republic. Charges for phones, telegraph, shipping, printing, postage and research documents are in proportion.

The Leaguers blast New Deal legislation with speeches, newspaper hand-outs and pamphlets. Though they profess to be non-partisan, the only pat they gave Mr. Roosevelt was on his bonus veto. Maybe that will console the GOP.

Coffers—
The League pursues the same tactics its founders utilized in destroying prohibition. The publicity staff fabricates the bullets and Mr. Shouse fires them. State organizers and economists work quietly behind the scene.

Salaries are generous enough to command able troops. President Shouse draws $3,000 a month—he got a raise from $1,750 last December—and $2,000 a month for travel and expenses. Capt. William H. Stayton gets $10,000 a year, with travel allowance of $600 a month. The three-man publicity staff collects $30,000 a year. The economist is rated at $3,600 a year. The controller who keeps the golden accounts gets $7,500.

The library at the Washington office offers a clue to the source of funds. It has five copies of the Social Register ($10 a copy) and three of the Bankers' Directory ($15 a volume).

Revol—
President Roosevelt is keeping it quiet, but he may ask Congress for a law to revitalize the anemic NRA. Employer and employee groups have steadily applied pressure for such a move since the court caged the Blue Eagle.

Although it is an unknown chapter of the NRA's last days, legislation to revive the codes in a big way has been on the President's desk for some time. It was drawn by Don Richberg in anticipation of a judicial setback. It re-defines interstate commerce and delegates specific authority, thus meeting the Supreme Court's two objections. House leaders had agreed to sponsor it on the very day the nine judges cracked down.

Mr. Richberg pleaded with the President to take this way out of the dilemma. He argued that the court had shown how the NRA could be legalized. But other advisers prevailed. They persuaded Mr. Roosevelt to paint the blackest possible picture. This explains his so-called "court lecture" and absolute abandonment of any revival effort.

Tactics—
Some administration aides won't wear mourning if the holding company bill does not become law at this session. They have hatched a scheme for forcing a record vote in the House or else.

Senator Wheeler holds the key. He is quite willing to let the measure die unless he can retain the "death clause" passed by the Senate. He can administer the death blow by refusing to let the Senate consider any proposal except his own. He can do this by refusing

Cardenas Plans To Continue His Present Program

MEXICO CITY, (AP)—Clear indication that the government President Lazaro Cardenas intends to continue his present program and policies, came Tuesday from the first meeting of the new cabinet. It was learned Tuesday Cardenas made plain his future plans by re-reading to the cabinet Monday his January 1st message to the nation.

The president asserted present law on the church-state problem would be fully enforced.

Restating his program was taken to mean there would be no modification of religious or educational laws.

Well informed sources said Cardenas had not altered his proposal to issue an order to federal and military prosecutors to withdraw charges of rebellion against exiles, permitting them to return.

City, County Collections Of Taxes Fair

Encouraging Results In Delinquent Payments Reported

County and city tax collecting agencies reported fair collections at the end of June, both places having encouraging results in delinquent payments.

The city collected $2,100 back taxes through June 30 and the county collected $1,725.47 delinquents in addition to $119.59 delinquent personal property taxes, and $217.59 off the supplemental role bringing the total to approximately the same figure as the city.

Best results were recorded the county in last full payments which totaled $26,918.26. Full payments aggregated $1,385.33.

City half payments will be due July 31. However, current collections have been above the average thus far.

CHANGE IN BANKING MEASURE DESIRED BY ADMINISTRATION

Reserve Board, Treasury Heads Confer With FD

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Administration desire for some changes in the revised banking bill as approved by the senate banking subcommittee was indicated strongly Tuesday after a conference by the president with treasury and reserve board officials.

Secretary Morgenthau and Governor Eccles of the reserve board told newsmen they would have some suggestions to make to the full senate banking committee if their views were asked.

The president has emphasized he wants banking legislation at this session.

Scouts Off To Mertzon

Twenty Members Leave For Camp Farr Early Tuesday

Twenty scouts and scouters left 7:30 a. m. Tuesday for Camp Louis Farr, near Mertzon, for the opening week of the annual Buffalo Trail council.

The scouts came from five different troops in the Big Spring district. Some will remain for only one week, others for two and three weeks.

A larger number of scouts is expected to leave July 9 for the second and third weeks of camp.

In charge of the scouts for the first week were A. T. Eryant, scoutmaster of Troop No. 2 and W. C. Gallemore, assistant scoutmaster.

Scouts leaving Tuesday were J. B. Bender and Sam Atkins, Jr., of Troop No. 1; Hal Battle, Gerald Anderson, Paul Francis, Floyd Davenport and Paul Schurrubue of troop No. 2; Halbert Woodward, Warren Woodward, Austin Burch, James Brigham, Wayne Townsend, and J. D. Wood of Troop No. 3; George Miller, R. H. Miller and Gene Hurry Flawell of Troop No. 5; and Melvin Long and Eugene Richards of Troop No. 8 of Coahoma.

West Texas Press Association To Meet In City In August

Executive committee of the West Texas Press association will meet at the Crawford hotel noon July 13 to set a date and make plans for the annual associational meeting here sometime in August.

Notice of the meeting was given by Henderson Shuffler, Odessa, secretary of the association.

Harry Hines, chairman of the state highway commission, has tentatively accepted an invitation to address the association, his final acceptance being contingent upon the date of the meeting.

Members of the committee are Max Bentley, Abilene; R. Haydon Shuffler, Odessa; Wendell Bedichek, Abilene; W. D. Starcher, Spur; L. M. Watson, Sweetwater; Ralph Shuffler, Odessa; Jack Hawkins, Pecos; and Charles R. Guy, Lubbock.

City and county forces Tuesday played a waiting game in their relief expense controversy, forced into a crisis by an ultimatum from Adam H. Johnson, state relief director, Monday.

Johnson issued a statement saying that rentals and other expenses incidental to the carrying on of relief activities must be borne by agencies other than the Texas Relief Commission.

Payment of rentals and other expenses for June is being held up pending settlement of the dispute between the city and county.

The city Tuesday still clung to its view that the county should bear the entire burden to avoid double taxation on city residents and "make the burden fair to everyone." The county had not altered its opinion that the former 50-50 basis between the city and county should be maintained since such an arrangement "is used in a majority of places."

Meanwhile, the Howard county Relief board was urging speedy action in settling the controversy.

Marielle McDonald, chairman of the board, said the board likely would be convoked into session Wednesday to officially urge an immediate solution of the difficulty.

Unless some agreement for bearing the necessary expense for relief operations here by next week, the board may be forced to request Johnson to withhold the July allotment for this county, McDonald indicated. This would in effect force closing of the local relief office, which is also district headquarters and a central distribution point. It is possible that headquarters for this county might be moved to some other community, the most logical being Coahoma, he said.

McDonald expressed the fear that the controversy might have an adverse effect on future allotments for this county. There was a possibility, he thought, that it might effect works applications submitted from here.

FD's Request For Passage Turned Down

Roll Call Vote Was 257 To 147 Against The President

WASHINGTON, (AP)—For the second time the House Tuesday rejected President Roosevelt's request for legislation to outlaw "unnecessary" utility holding companies in seven years.

It approved the house bill which would give the securities commission discretionary authority over the future of holding companies.

The action transferred the fight over "death sentence" provision to conference committee.

The senate adopted the provision by one vote.

For it to become law the house would have to reverse its position.

A roll call vote against the president was 257 to 147. The vote was on whether to substitute the house bill for the senate bill. The house then passed the bill 323 to 81.

Key Brothers In New Record

Mississippi Fliers Remain In Air 27 Days, 5 Hours, 34 Minutes

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—Fred and Al Key brought their plane, Ole Miss, to a safe landing at 6:06 p. m. (central standard time) Monday after breaking all existing endurance flying records by spending almost a month in the air.

A roar went up from 10,000 throats as the brothers made a perfect landing on the soggy field 27 days, five hours and 34 minutes after their take off on June 4.

The crowd surged around the plane and lifted the fliers from it after they had been greeted by their wives and children.

"It's been a hard old fight," said Fred.

"I'm telling you it isn't any fun, but we're both happy now," added Al.

Barograph Is OK

J. D. Sellers, Mississippi governor for the National Aeronautical association, directing official of the flight, immediately wired the association in Washington that a new record had been established.

"Al and Fred Key came down voluntarily at 6:06, establishing a new world endurance record of 653 hours, 34 minutes," he telegraphed. "Pilots and equipment in good condition."

The brothers were freshly dressed and cleanly shaven as they stepped from the plane, but their hair had grown "wild" during their "residence" of almost a month in the sky.

Their eyes were bloodshot and their faces flushed, indicating the strain they had undergone. They headed for a hotel to sleep.

The official world's record for sustained flying, set at 533 hours, 41 minutes and 30 seconds by John and Kenneth Hunter at Chicago in 1930, was topped last Thursday.

The unofficial record of 647 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds, set in 1930, by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien at St. Louis, was passed at one minute after noon Monday.

DON'T DISTURB THE PEACE!

Here is an excellent Fourth of July motto, suggested by the National Board of Fire Underwriters:
"Don't disturb the peace!" There are many ways of enjoying the 4th without subjecting yourself and others to the danger and danger that invariably accompany use of fireworks and firearms.
In years gone by, newspapers of the 4th of July were always packed with accounts of the hundreds of injuries that had occurred on the previous day from misuse of explosives. Many deaths resulted,

BIG SPRING TO HAVE GOLFERS IN ABILENE TOURNEY

BRISTOW BE ONE OF FAVORITES

Eddie Morgan, Haywood Sturdivant Plan To Compete

Three of Big Spring's outstanding golfers, Eddie Morgan, Obie Bristow and Haywood Sturdivant, plan to enter the Abilene invitational golf tournament which opens Thursday and extends through Sunday, the 7th.

A Harry Davidson of Big Spring
was one of the week-end qualifiers, posting an 82. Tourney officials predict that it will take at least a 76 or 77 to make the championship flight.

Bristow, who qualified for the West Texas tournament at Abilene but failed to play any of his matches, should be able to make the championship flight. He played the 18-hole grass green Abilene course in the low 70's.
Morgan and Bristow are also consistently low shooters, although Bristow has considerably more tournament experience. Sturdivant, however, pulled a big surprise in the West Texas meet by winning 18-hole grass green Abilene course
in the low 70's.
Morgan is one of the best of the younger players.
Qualifiers at Abilene have been headed by Wayne Middleton, Fort Worth, who scored a 75.

Sheep Herders Here Thursday

San Angelo Sheep Herders, tops among West Texas baseball teams, will play a double-header with the Big Spring Cowboys here Thursday afternoon, July 4.
Miller Harris, Cowboy manager, made a deal with the San Angelo manager, Herman Peters, in a telephone conversation Tuesday morning. The locals made a guarantee of forty dollars and 60-40 on the day, the 7th.

TOMMY HUTTO STARS WITH MID-ATLANTIC

Tommy Hutto, former Big Spring athlete and Southwest Conference baseball star, is going great with the Beckley, West Virginia team of the Middle-Atlantic league, a Class C loop.
Hutto, a first sacker for the Beckley Miners, is cited as a good big league prospect. His hitting has been unusually good, around .350.

Tommy gained his first baseball experience sand-lotting with Coahoma. He played 1st and 3rd and was known not only for his good hitting but fast fielding.
When he attended Texas A. &
M. where he played with the Aggies for several seasons, he was kept at 1st base and not allowed to play any other position.
The Beckley team is operated by the Smokeless Coal Athletic Association. Ralph McAdams is manager.

The Sheep Herders are entering the strong Permian Basin league.
The Cowboy management has called a ground working for 4 P.
M. Wednesday afternoon. The Cowboys are using the old diamond on East Third.
First game of the double-header
Thursday afternoon will get underway 2:30 p. m.

'MEANEST MAN' IN SEMI-GO

Cyclone Mackey To Tangle
With Bad Jack
Domar

Vic Webber, whose remarkable victory streak almost equals that of the tricky Masked Marvel, returns to the outdoor arena tonight to tangle with the well-known Kansas rowdy man—Bob Castle.
Castle is a pretty fair man, as roughsters go, but he doesn't present the flashy, smooth attack that Webber uses to such good advantage. Webber, at times, toys with his opponents, but may at any time resort to his powerful upper-cuts or left arm-whip. His wrestling borders on savagery when he goes for the finish.
While Webber can get rough and wild, his tactics are not the mean kind used by Castle. Bob will resist to almost any hold, illegal or otherwise, if he thinks he can get the advantage.

The semi-final promises as much action, if not more, than the main event. Cyclone Mackey, veteran grappler originally from Clovis, N. M., but who has been in Mexico City and vicinity for the past few months, will swap holds with Jack Domar. Domar will be making his first appearance here, and if ballyhoo is correct Mackey is due for a rough ride.
John La Rue, the clever "leg wrestler" from Dallas, who was so pleasing in his match last week with Gene La Belle, is due to get Buddy Harrison in the special event.
The bold-headed Dallas grappler who does things with his feet and legs that many wrestlers can't do with their arms and hands, should give Ruddy a fair tussle. Bouts start at 8:30.

Angels Post Another Win

Stationmen Have Tough
Time With Ford
Motorists

By HANK HART
The Mellinger Angels turned twelve hits into sixteen runs Monday for an easy one-sided victory over Southern Ice, but the Flewellen Stationmen had to present their best show to nose out the Ford Motorists in the second game. The Angels defeated the Ice-men 17-7 while the Taylormen's victory margin was 5-4.

The Angels, changing their positions every inning, scored at will to swamp the Delworth forces.
The Harems tallied six runs in the first stanza and were never put down in order through the remaining innings.
The Stationmen finally found their range in the fifth and broke the ice with a pair of runs, returned to score again in the sixth, and accounted for the deciding runs after one was out in the seventh.

Leon Cole aided the Flewellen cause when he juggled a fly ball in right field and finally dropped it to allow two men to score.
Lots Madison was the big gun in the Flewellen offense, connecting twice in three attempts.
Mr. and Mrs. Ray Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. George Oldham spent the week-end in a fishing trip on the Concho.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Since it has been decided that only a hurried examination of the new tax program is to be permitted, anything like a considered opinion is impossible. At the first glance, which apparently is about all that the country is to be granted, it would appear that the proposed rates bite most deeply into inheritances above 3 million dollars. The new individual surtaxes affect radically only a very few incomes. Even at the height of the boom, in 1929, there were only 313 net incomes of more than 1 million dollars. There are less than 100 of them today, and when existing state as well as Federal taxes are taken into account there is not much of these super-incomes left to tax. The new rates on incomes are estimated to yield 100 millions, or enough to carry the government about five days. But the inheritance taxes, which are superimposed on the present estate taxes, so strike radically at the large fortunes. The son of a very rich man would still be a rich man, but the grandson could not inherit a great fortune.

The principle that great fortunes shall not be allowed to pass on intact through several generations is almost universally accepted. The real question is not whether very great incomes and vast inheritances should be taxed as heavily as they will now be taxed. The question is whether we have a general tax system in this country which encourages the voters and congress to take a responsible view of the use to be made of the yield of taxes.

Our Federal tax system has become steadily less calculated to encourage responsibility. At the present time, for example, 70 per cent of the Federal revenues come from indirect and invisible taxes. The mass of the people pay those taxes, regardless of their ability to pay them, but since they are invisible and indirect taxes they mask the burden of expenditure.

When we examine the direct and visible taxes, that is to say, the individual income taxes, we find a sensational degeneration in the system. Income taxes started with the year 1914, but it was not until 1917 that the income tax became important. From 1917 to 1924 the system became progressively better in that the number of individuals included rose from 3,472,000 in 1917 to over 7 million in 1923-'24. Then came the Mellon-Coolidge tax program, based on the principle of reducing the taxes of the rich and of exempting the smaller incomes. The number of tax payers fell from over 7 million in 1924 to 4 millions in 1929. From that destructive blow the American income tax system has never recovered. We now have a system in which not 10 percent of the voters have any personal connection with the income tax.

From the point of view of stable revenue, but above all from the point of view of responsible self-government, this is a dangerously distorted tax structure. It will not become a good one, regardless of the rates imposed on the rich, until a very much larger number of individuals are brought under it. In 1923 there were 7,093,000 individuals within the system. We ought to aim, it seems to me, to include at least 10,000,000. That would be about a quarter of the voting population.

Such a reform, hated as it will seem to the politically minded, could be carried out without adding to the real burden of those who have small incomes. It could be done by substituting popular income taxes for the indirect and invisible excise tax. It would not tax the rich less or tax the poor more. It would in fact, tax the very poor less. But it would make the tax burden visible and would add greatly to the sense of responsibility among politicians.

Oklahoma Landmark Razed
TULSA, Okla. (UP)—Razing of the old Pottawatomie county court house here, center of public life for nearly a third of a century, is nearing completion. A modern community house and city hall will be erected in its place. The historical landmark was built with money provided by Sam Bailey, a private citizen.

REVERE, Mass. (UP)—One of Clyde Boyd's racing dogs found it is easier to ride than to exercise. While Boyd was exercising a group of dogs one slipped its collar and ran along the highway. A passing motorist obligingly opened the door, and the dog hasn't been seen since.

There were 4,879 deaths in steam railroad accidents during 1934. Of these, only 39 were passengers. There were 1,554 deaths in grade crossing accidents and 2,054 deaths of trespassers on railroad property.

Circles Are Organized By E 4th Church

Members Observe Visiting Day And Make Many Church Calls

Circles of the East Fourth Street Baptist W. M. S. met in homes of the members Monday afternoon. Reports came from four of the seven. It was visitation day and after the meeting most of the circles visited other church members.

Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. Ira Martin, four new member and four old ones being present. Mrs. Rogers read the devotion from Mark 16. At the end of the short business meeting there was a program.

After the meeting the members visited in 23 homes.

Present were: Mmes. Temple Rogers, Atkins, Emmett Hull, C. W. Banks, G. W. Anderson, Jim Meskimen, O. E. Alexander.

Circle No. 5 met with Mrs. F. L. Turpin. Mrs. Floyd read the devotion from the 23rd Psalm. The members took up a collection of 50 cents for old ministers' relief.

After the session they paid four visits. Present were: Mmes. Howard Lester, H. Reeves, W. O. McClenahan, George Winslow and Cecil Floyd.

Circle No. 6 met with Mrs. George O'Brien for a short prayer service. Present were: Mmes. Frank McCulloch, L. S. Patterson, John R. Hull, Dug Thompson.

Circle No. 7 met at the home of Mrs. Joe B. Hill for a study of the book, "Things We Should Know." Mrs. Ben Carpenter gave the devotion.

Others present were: Mmes. V. Phillips, W. R. Banks, L. M. Kinman, T. B. Conover, C. C. Nation, S. M. Strawn.

Y.W.A. Elects Miss Marguerite Bennett Head

The Y. W. A. of the East Fourth Street Baptist church met Monday afternoon for election of officers. Miss Marguerite Bennett was made president.

Other officers chosen were: Miss Margaret Cooper, secretary; Miss Catherine Murphy, vice-president; Miss Opal Ely assistant secretary; Miss Gladys Cowling, treasurer; Miss Mary Cowling, reporter.

This was a personal service meeting and each member brought something for a needy family.

Named on a committee to distribute the donations were Mrs. Joe Wright, Misses Bennett and Cowling.

Present in addition to the officers were: Mrs. Wright, Misses Nell Robinson, Helen Eggleston, Frances McIntosh, and a visitor, Miss Bernice Kemp.

First Baptist W.M.U. Has Morning Session

Mrs. J. C. Douglass presided over the meeting of the First Baptist W. M. S. Monday morning in the absence of the president, Mrs. L. Layne, who is visiting in Oklahoma.

Committee chairmen and officers made their reports. Mrs. Ira Powell, recently elected as leader of young people's work, made an appeal for co-operation.

Members of the Lucille Reagan circle served a delicious luncheon.

Mrs. Viola Bowles was leader of the program and gave the devotion on the program topic, "His Cross." Assisting her were Mmes. C. C. Coffee, Will Fahrenkamp, D. C. Herring, L. I. Stewart, G. H. Hayward, J. C. Douglass, H. P. Wood and J. C. Smith.

It was announced that the circles of the W. M. S. were asked to give a shower of linen to the Baptist Sanitarium at Abilene next Monday, the showers to be in the individual circles.

Those present, in addition to the members who took part, were: Mmes. R. V. Hart, B. F. Robbins, Nat Shick, W. R. Douglas, K. S. Beckett, W. W. Grant, A. E. Coleman, C. S. Holmes, Vernon Logan, R. E. Day, B. Reagan, F. F. Gary, Misses Angeletta Russell, Myrtle Stamps and Billy Mae Fahrenkamp.

In the average year, about 43 per cent of all persons accidentally killed in homes are 65 years of age or older. About 47 per cent of all home fatalities result from falls and eighteen per cent from burns.

Sally Eilers Does The Cloudland, New Dance Hit, In 'Alias Mary Dow'

The "Cloudland," a new dance that is certain to sweep the country, is seen for the first time in Universal's new film, "Alias Mary Dow," starring Sally Eilers, showing at the Ritz theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

The dance is a little like the Black Bottom and the Varsity Drag. It has some of the features of both, yet intricate steps, hops, slides and twirls have been added that make it positively sensational.

The dance was originated by Calvin Howard, animator in the Universal cartoon department, and his wife, Ellen.

Miss Eilers saw the young couple dancing on the "Alias Mary Dow" set during the lunch hour when the picture was being made, and so intrigued was she that she had Howard teach her the routine. So adept was the beautiful young star that within an hour she knew the dance perfectly and had added some new steps of her own.

Dancers interested in learning the "Cloudland" may see it in all its intricacies of movement in "Alias Mary Dow," Miss Eilers and Chick Chandler dance it in the picture. It gained its name from the dance hall seen in the picture. A strong supporting cast appears with Miss Eilers in the film, including Henry O'Neill, Ray Milland, Katharine Alexander, Baby Jane, Lola Lane and Clarence Muse.

Many Visitors Present At Christian W.M.S.

Mrs. W. J. Darby outlined the program for future study at the meeting of the First Christian W. M. S. Monday afternoon at the church. Mrs. J. R. Parks presided and Mrs. R. W. Ogden was program leader for the afternoon.

Following the devotion by Mrs. J. R. Creath, an interesting program was given. Misses Virginia Lela Ogden and Elyde Ray Lees each gave piano solos. Mrs. H. L. Bohannon conducted a unique questionnaire assisted by the following members:

Mmes. Glass Glenn, Clay Read, J. S. Kennedy, Boynton Martin, J. J. Green and J. R. Creath.

Mrs. Read also had charge of the hidden answers.

In addition to those named present were: Mmes. S. J. Shettlesworth, L. V. Norris, George W. Hall, Misses Helen Early, Evelyn Creath, Doris Shettlesworth; Mrs. W. L. Robertson, a new member, and two visitors from out of town, Mrs. C. A. Goodman of San Angelo and Mrs. Roger White of Amarillo.

From 1913 to 1934, deaths in motor vehicle accidents increased from 4,227 to 36,000, whereas deaths from all other kinds of accidents decreased from 78,233 to 65,000.

Methodists Donate $45 For Social Work

The First Methodist W. M. S. met in a business session at the church Monday afternoon. Mrs. Fox Stripling gave the devotion.

Officers made their reports. The social service chairman announced that $45 had been donated in food, used clothing and in supporting the vacation Bible schools for colored and Mexican children in their respective churches.

Attendance at the meeting according to groups were: Circle No. 1, seven present; No. 2, five; No. 3, three; No. 4, two.

The list includes Mmes. Ida Rowland, W. A. Miller, J. B. Pickle, D. G. Gage, Charles Morris, Russell Manion, V. H. Flewellen, C. E. Shive, Horace Penn, C. C. Carter, D. M. McClenny, Joe Fausett, C. A. Bickley, G. S. True, R. L. Warren.

Life Of Job Is Study Topic Wesley Memorial Group

The members of the Wesley Memorial W. M. S. met at the church Monday afternoon for a business meeting, with reports of the work done for the past quarter. An hour was then devoted to study.

Mrs. J. E. Peters, wife of the pastor, conducted the study on the life of Job.

Present were: Mmes. Lloyd Montgomery, A. H. Knowles, Bob Wren, John Whitaker, Wood, J. B. King, Herbert Drake, Tom Sipes, J. W. Knowles and W. W. Coleman.

The total cost of 1934 accidents is estimated at $3,500,000,000, including wage loss and medical expense for injuries and deaths, as well as property damage from motor vehicle accidents and fires.

Wagners Are New Champs At Bridge

Country Club Finals Held; Four Couples Win In Groups

The Robert Wagners of Fort Worth were declared bridge champions Monday evening at the Country Club as the result of winning the finals.

Others who were high in their respective groups were: Misses Fern Wells and Elouise Haley in consolation to the champions; Mrs. Ira Thurman and Mrs. Emil Fahrenkamp, in the first flight; Mrs. M. H. Bennett and Harry Williamson in the consolation to the first flight.

So many attended the final games Monday night and had a good time that the club was asked to hold another tournament. It was decided however not to stage one in the near future. If another is held this summer, it will be announced later.

Mrs. D. R. Reid Buried Mon.

Melvin J. Wise Conducts Funeral Service At Coahoma Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. D. R. Reid, 50, Coahoma, were held 5 p. m. Monday from the home of her mother, Mrs. M. L. Williams of Coahoma.

Mrs. Reid died Saturday at Troy, Colorado while visiting with her sister, Mrs. Paul Patterson. The body was brought overland to the Eberly funeral home here.

Melvin J. Wise, minister of the Church of Christ, conducted the last rites. Burial was in the Coahoma cemetery.

Mrs. Reid leaves one son, Elgin Reid, Amarillo, and two daughters, Mrs. Jimmie Mathew of Eastland, and Mrs. M. Hart. She is survived by 5 grandchildren.

Other survivors are her mother, Mrs. M. L. Williams, five sisters, Mrs. Ethel Hadden of Kenton, Oklahoma, Mrs. Paul Patterson of Troy, Colorado, Mrs. Mattie Aker and Mrs. Wilma Walker of Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. Reba Salter of Del Rio. Mrs. Aker and Mrs. Walker could not attend the services. A sister-in-law, Mrs. N. E. Reid of Coahoma, also survives.

Pallbearers were B. F. Logan, R.

Personally Speaking

Mrs. and Mrs. J. R. Parks have as their guest, their daughter, Mrs. Roger White of Amarillo and family.

Mrs. C. A. Goodman of San Angelo is visiting her brother, J. K. Creath.

Mrs. and Mrs. J. J. Throop have moved to San Angelo to live, after having sold their home to Cecil Westernman.

Mrs. Della K. Agnelli left Tuesday afternoon with her sister Miss Angeletta Russell and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Throop for a fishing party on the Concho river. Her sister, Mrs. D. A. Rowen and family will also be members of the party.

Members of St. Thomas Catholic church will hold a social honoring their new priest, Father Taylor tonight at the services at 7:30.

The social will be held at the church basement. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of the church, both Catholic and Protestant, to attend the services and the social and become acquainted with the new father.

Miss Angeletta Russell arrived from Waco Sunday to visit her sister, Mrs. Della K. Agnelli.

Alvin Agnelli who has been visiting his mother Mrs. Della Agnelli, has gone to Akron, Ohio for several weeks.

Mrs. and Mrs. E. D. Bowe of Fort Worth who spent the week end with Mrs. Bowe's parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. O. Ellington, returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Shire Phillips accompanied by her daughters, Nancy and Champe, left Tuesday morning for Nowata, Okla., to visit her sister, Mrs. Tom Woods.

Mrs. Frank Hughes and daughter, Lurline, of El Paso are the house guests of Mrs. C. W. Cunningham. They will leave Wednesday for Lamesa.

Idle Men Get Double Cleaning CINCINNATI (UP)—Six men took off their clothing in a relief station here recently. The clothes were placed in a fumigator, a sanitary requirement. A short time later the clothing was rhasing and so was another transient. The six men had really been "cleaned out."

Accidents in 1934 caused 101,000 deaths—the highest total on record. There were also 9,821,000 non-fatal injuries.

RULES

Here's the problem: Describe the Dr. Pepper flavor in your own words (you may also include reference to sensations other than taste). Prizes as shown will be awarded for the most original answers. Write entries with name and address on card or letter (preferably penny postal card). Limit each answer to forty words or less; rhyme it if you like. Entries must be postmarked on or before midnight July 6, 1935. All entries become property of Dr. Pepper Company. Duplicate prizes in cases of tie. Employees, families of employees and others directly connected either with Dr. Pepper Company or its hostlers are barred. The opinion of impartial judges will be final and binding.

Just Tell What YOUR PALATE TELLS You

You don't have to be a genius to express your own sensations. The first thing that pops into your mind when Dr. Pepper touches your palate may be so "well-put" as to win one of the big cash prizes. Don't try to rename the Dr. Pepper flavor—just tell how it tastes and appeals to you.

Motor Cars Set New Style in July 4 Observance

Remember the old-fashioned "Fourth"? And the bandaged fingers and toes the next day? "Those days are gone forever." The motor car gets a large part of the credit, too—for now, instead of having to find outlet for enthusiasm in noise and fire-crackers, millions of Americans can make a day of it far from the noise and turmoil of their city homes. Family parties, such as the one pictured here with a new Chevrolet, will be held by the hundreds of thousands on July 4th.

DISCOVERY SETS NEW WORLD MARK

In addition to soundly whipping Omaha and King Saxon, the season's featured horses, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery clocked 1:45-1/5 for the distance of a mile and one-eighth, one-fifth of a second under the world record. The horse is shown crossing the finish line alone. The King was second; Omaha third. (Associated Press Photo)

HUGHES KIN SLAIN BY THUGS?

Police were investigating the possibility that Howard Carter Dickinson (right), New York attorney found slain in a Detroit park, was the victim of robbers who sought the "large roll" of money he was reported to be carrying. He was on a trip to the city to act on the $40,000,000 claim of Mrs. Elizabeth Carmichael Witherpoon (left), of New York, against the estate of William H. Yawkey. (Associated Press Photos)

'OLE MISS' SETS NEW RECORD

CHECK GIRL FURNISHES CLUE

WANTS HIS ALIMONY RETURNED

Claiming Claire Luce (right), beautiful actress, misrepresented matters when she got $100,000 alimony a year from him, Clifford Warren Smith (center), heir of Western Union millions, wants $100,000 back from her. Luce, now in London, says he'll have to prove they're still not man and wife but in the meanwhile Smith has taken another wife, the former Charlotte Pennington (left). (Associated Press Photos)

Chapter 40
COUNTERSTROKE

"I don't care," Allison said, "but I know this. I'm not going to let you marry my father and kill him too!"

"Why do you think that would please me?"

"I don't know, I suppose you'd get his money," Allison's face was pale, her breath came quickly. "You'd better ask Dr. Lumley. He knows all about your arrangements at your house at Warley."

It was a shot in the dark, but the effect was startling. All Daphne's coolness dropped from her; she stood up, her eyes glittering.

"Oh!" The tone was menacing. "Does he? Then perhaps you can explain what he was doing there? You're in love with him, aren't you? Well, then, perhaps you know one else had access to the house—and I lied. Not for your own sake, for your father's. But if I told what I knew—"

She stopped dramatically. Allison was white now, and she stared at her as though hypnotized. But she said bravely "I don't believe it. You can't prove anything against Guy. And I can tell you that he didn't do it. Why, you yourself said that the movers' men went in next day and found nothing!"

"I made a mistake," Daphne was smooth. "I've asked them, and they tell me that they didn't go into the cellars."

"Even then, he'd nothing to do with it. I went down the next morning and there wasn't anything there."

"Did you?" Daphne smiled grimly. "Did you go right into the recesses under the stairs?"

A deft shove sent Allison back to the couch that the police are looking for him on a charge of murder?"

"I don't believe it!" Allison flung that back scornfully.

"No?" Daphne's head was lowered like a snake striking. "Will you believe me then when I tell you that I spent this morning at Scotland Yard, being questioned about what happened in my house? The night that you were there, Allison, a man was murdered."

"You yourself told me that no one else entered the house that night! They wanted to know where I was and I told them—dining with your father. They asked me if any-Allison's face answered the question.

"You didn't! And you didn't know, perhaps that Dr. Lumley went down to Warley to kill the man who wrote those anonymous letters!"

"It isn't true!" That was a cry.

"Isn't it? You don't know, perhaps that one of the letters was found on the man that he killed!"

And the police don't know that Dr. Lumley was there—yet. Don't you think, Allison, you'd better leave your father's affairs—and mine—alone? Unless you want to see your charming friend hanged?"

"You did it! You did it all on purpose!" The words broke in a cry from Allison's lips.

"You think so?" She did that insolently.

"You sent Guy down there, to Warley—you meant to frame him with the murder!" It was guesswork, blind hitting in the dark, yet as she said it, Allison knew that she had hit on the truth. "You knew that other man had the letter and you meant Guy to go down there and find him dead and—"

She stopped. Her eyes grew wide, almost black as the pupils, opening swallow-up the iris. "Oh!" Allison gasped.

SOUGHT IN DICKINSON MYSTERY

William Lee Ferris (above), reported to have been a companion of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, a few hours before the lawyer's body was found in a Detroit park, was sought for questioning in connection with the mysterious shooting. (Associated Press Photo)

"Oh! You sent him—that awful man down to kill me!"

It was clear now—as clear as the glinting, narrow black eyes which, shifting, avoiding her own. Suddenly, as a flash of lightning throws up the contours of a dark landscape, Allison saw.

A plan so safe, so simple, that no one could ever suspect Daphne Sumers of a hand in it, except the murderer, the one person who could never give it away!

Two telegrams, one sent off for Robert, one to the movers—who would suspect that they got mixed on purpose? Above all, who could imagine that Daphne Sumers had any deep design in sending a girl whom she had not met, had never seen, down to the house at Warley?

Was it only by chance that that grey-faced and awful man had come stealing on tip-toe through the house? Or had he been sent there to hide in some corner of the garden and watch for a hired car to arrive, a girl to enter and wait, unsuspecting?

Allison, ice-cold, swaying backwards, away from the dark mail-cous face so near her own, saw too clearly. Suppose she had not looked up that night or heard the creak outside!

Murder by proxy—and a double murder that would at one blow clear Daphne from all danger from Guy Lumley, leaving him safely hanged or else in prison! No wonder Guy had been afraid to tell her the truth, thought Allison in sick fear; no wonder he was so sure that Daphne meant to kill a second husband! For if that plan had not miscarried, Robert Reda's daughter, the heiress to his money would be lying dead now! He would be able to leave his widow a rich woman!

Clear, simple—diabolical!

Allison's sudden rush towards the door was sheer physical panic.

A leap and she was fumbling at the handle. Two steel strong arms closed round her, bearing her back, heaving her over and face down on to a sofa.

Before she could even cry, Daphne's hand closed on the back of her neck, pressing her face down into the cushions. Suffocating, she kicked out helplessly, beating the sofa padding.

"Lie still, you little fool! Do you want a scene in here? Do you want me to tie you up? You can say what you like about me—make up any story you like, you can't prove it. The real point is, are you going to keep your silly little tongue quite or not?"

"Let me by," Allison stood up shakily and tried to push past. A deft shove sent her back on the sofa.

"There! Sit quiet a moment. Think! But remember, Allison, I can prove that Dr. Lumley went there to meet that man! And I'll hold my tongue just as long as you hold yours!"

Mrs. Loy Acuff Is Honoree For Shower Given At Courthouse

Mrs. Loy Acuff, the former Miss Helen Hayden, was surprised with a lovely shower of gifts by the court house crowd Monday afternoon.

At five o'clock, closing time for the office of the county superintendent in which Mrs. Acuff works, Mrs. J. E. Brigham, former superintendent, came in and escorted the honoree to the county court house where the rest of the guests awaited her.

Everybody except those out of town were present for the occasion, including many of those who had offices in the old fire station.

After the presentation of the gifts, refreshments of devils food and angel food with punch were served.

I.O.O.F. To Install New Set Officers

Ceremony To Take Place At Odd Fellows Hall Wednesday

I.O.O.F. Big Spring lodge 151 will install its officers for the ensuing year Wednesday at the Odd Fellows hall.

W. R. Francis, Fort Worth, brigadier general of the canton and grand scribe, and George Weller, Cleburne, grand patriarch, said they would seek to be here for the installation. They visited with Jones Lamar, past chief patriarch, here during the week end.

Officers to be installed are J. E. McKaughan, chief patriarch; W. McClendon, senior warden; Leo Floyd, high priest; J. Hollis Lloyd, junior warden; Ben Miller, district deputy grand patriarch; and H. C. Anderson, representative to the grand encampment. Jones Lamar is alternative.

Lamar urged every patriarch to attend the installation ceremony.

Schmeling Works Faithfully, Even For Uzcudun Go

POTSDAM Germany (AP)—Max Schmeling, whom his fellow Germans now call "the eternal title challenger," is preparing with his customary thoroughness for a clear-cut decision over Paulino Uzcudun in Berlin, July 7.

Max regards the bout with the Spaniard as something of a "breather" to enable him to remain in good condition until he meets Jim Braddock or Max Baer, but nevertheless started his training for it a month in advance.

It is true, however, that Schmeling never let himself get completely out of training since his smashing victory over Steve Hamas last winter.

The Black Uhlan does nine rounds daily—besides runs and wood-chopping—and spars with the three German heavyweights who were his sparring partners for the Hamas match. There also is a round of shadow boxing, sandbag punching, rope jumping, and gymnastics.

Schmeling considers himself in very good condition, and thinks he has improved his in-fighting. He is concentrating on short rights to the head and footwork.

"I won't take any chances," he says. "You saw what happened to Max Baer."

Chinese Actor Crashes Movies By Peanut Route

A double-jointed roasted peanut was used as ammunition to break down the Great Wall of Hollywood.

The man behind the peanut was Willie Fung, whose face is better known than his name. He has worked in practically every picture using Chinese characters.

Some day Willie hopes to return to China where he was born, but until he has saved up enough money to start his own motion picture company there he is going to work in the movies and study Hollywood technique.

Way back in 1921 Director Alan Holubar made a picture. The cast included many of the names now famous. There was a role for a Chinese. He should have a smiling face.

Determined to get the right character, Holubar spent days in Los Angeles and San Francisco's Chinatown.

For a week he looked without success, until he dropped into a peanut store. Behind the counter was Willie, all smiles. Holubar was the day's first customer.

A day or so later Willie was on his way to Hollywood.

Since then Willie has made good. He has been in one of the country's largest automobile companies, and wears expensive but conservative clothes.

Willie has never returned to China. About the nearest he ever got there was when he went to

AMAZING DRAMA OF SIX OCEAN VOYAGERS PROVIDES FUN, ACTION AND ROMANCE

July 4th Dance At Settles Ballroom

A thrill-packed, fun-capped adventure-mystery that dispenses laughs and suspense in equal measure, is offered by Fox Film in "Black Sheep," which starts its engagement on the screen of the Lyric theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

A new Edmund Lowe—far from the Sergeant Quirt type of character—is revealed in his portrayal of a professional ship gambler, who finds the cards stacked against him when he tackles a game wherein everything he counts worth while is at stake.

Claire Trevor, who is expected to reach the front rank of film favorites this year, enacts the role of an "actress in spite of what the critics think," who is walking home from her first trip abroad.

Lowe joins forces with Miss Trevor to back a romance and save the life of Tom Brown, a misguided youth, who is under the influence of Adrienne Ames, a smooth kleptomaniacal adventuresome, who is trying to smuggle a stolen necklace of priceless pearls through the customs.

Eugene Pallette, a millionaire oilman out for a good time and a trimming, and Herbert Mundin, a greatly plattered knight of the bottle, have kept audiences in stitches wherever "Black Sheep" has been shown.

Ford Sterling, first famous on the screen as the Chief of Police of the Keystone Cops, has the part of the ship's detective, who knows the passenger-fleeing Lowe only too well.

Praise has followed "Black Sheep" everywhere for its fine comedy and tense emotional sequences and Lyric theatre audiences are assured of a valiant of thrills and thrills, chuckles and guffaws in this unusual sea-going comedy-drama, which was produced by Sol M. Wurtzel and directed by Allan Dwan.

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP)—Edwin (Alabama) Pitts' grin has developed into a broad smile.

The friendly youth, who was "graduated" from Sing Sing prison "with honors," is happy in his new role as a member of the Albany baseball club of the International League.

He feels confident he has embarked on a baseball career which will lead him to the major leagues and a "pot of gold."

After his first game against Syracuse, Pitts really smiled for the first time since Sing Sing's gates were swung open for him to walk into the world a free man.

Gains New Confidence

Against Syracuse he cracked out two hits in a double-header. They gave him confidence.

"That first hit," he said, "gave me one of the biggest thrills in my life."

Pitts, who was permitted to enter organized baseball only after Commissioner K. M. Landis overruled a league's committee decision barring ex-convicts from the national pastime, admits the Sing Sing "stretch" gave him a new view on life.

"Things are different now," he commented. "I never knew a man could have so many friends."

He referred to the cheers of almost 8,000 fans which greeted him when he trotted onto the field for the first time.

Baseball officials and writers believe that Pitts "has the stuff" to make the grade in International League baseball.

Charles Young, veteran Albany baseball expert, after watching Pitts in his first game, said: "I was greatly impressed by his play."

Evers Also Optimistic

John Evers, famous big league star of past years, and Al Mannaugh, manager of the Albany club, were jubilant over Pitts' prospects.

Anyway, Pitts, who has won his way into the hearts of Albany's fans, has his heart set on only one thing—a baseball career leading to a major league berth.

"I've got to make good now and I feel confident that I can," he said.

Most people believe he will.

Mrs. W. C. Campbell of Eastland, accompanied by her niece, Mrs. Jack Young of Crane, arrived Monday to visit her sister, Miss Mattie Leatherwood for a week.

Mrs. Young will stay on for a few days before going to her home.

Final payment on the 732 trust agreements for participation in the government cotton tax exemption certificates netted cotton producers of this county $16,520.88 Tuesday.

As news of the check reception spread, the number of producers calling at the office of County Agent Q. P. Griffin began a steady increase.

First two cent payment on the tags sold in the pool amounted to $46,344.20, according to M. Weaver, assistant adjustment officer of Howard and Glascock counties.

A total of 2,317,210 pounds certificates were pooled from this county, said Weaver. Of this amount, tags for 1,584,548 pounds were sold, saving 732,362 pounds unsold. Total benefit to producers from the pool aggregated $62,747.46.

Expense for sale of the tags ran to only .041 cents per one hundred pounds.

Contrary to expectations, a number calling for their checks Tuesday elected to retool their unsold tags. Reason for this was destruction wrought on young crops by devastating winds a week ago. However, a majority were retaining their tags in hopes they would be able to use them in marketing a bumper yield.

A total of 2,317,210 pounds certificates were pooled from this county, said Weaver. Of this amount, tags for 1,584,548 pounds were sold, saving 732,362 pounds unsold. Total benefit to producers from the pool aggregated $62,747.46.

Expense for sale of the tags ran to only .041 cents per one hundred pounds.

Contrary to expectations, a number calling for their checks Tuesday elected to retool their unsold tags. Reason for this was destruction wrought on young crops by devastating winds a week ago. However, a majority were retaining their tags in hopes they would be able to use them in marketing a bumper yield.

PUT YOUR CAR IN OUR HANDS for a 3-week "Tank Test"

GULF

How long since you've had That Good Gulf gas as your driving companion?

Unless you've gotten acquainted recently, you can't know what a really great gasoline it is!

So here's a sporting proposition...

Try That Good Gulf for 3 weeks—long enough to let it prove that it's 5 good gasolines in one.

Then see if you don't check with the motorists who've already made the "tank test."

Try it—and we're betting you'll say "Thumbs up!"

GULF REFINING COMPANY

*750 Motorists said "You're On"—and Gulf Clicked!

TO GIVE you an idea of what you can expect from That Good Gulf Gasoline, we made this experiment...

We invited 750 motorists—average owners of average cars—to buy Gulf for 3 weeks and judge it themselves.

They agreed—drove Gulf in their own cars under all kinds of conditions—and reported on 5 important points: (1) mileage (2) starting (3) pick-up (4) power (5) all-around performance.

Seven out of ten voted Gulf superior on one or more of these points. Many voted a straight Gulf ticket—found it better in all 5 ways!

Gulf won because it's 5 good gasolines in one. It is controlled to such accurate refining limits that it gives you not merely 2 or 3 important qualities—but five!

Try it in your car for 3 weeks. We'll wager you'll climb on the Gulf bandwagon.

Q: What free Gulf tire service can boost your gas mileage?

You'll find the answer to this question in this free Gulf booklet, plus 14 other helpful hints on gasoline economy. Get your free copy today at the sign of the Orange Disc.

American Airlines Announces First All-Express Air Tours

Bureau Being Demobilized

All-expense tours, once the exclusive right of rail and water transportation, have at last found a place in the air transport picture, according to C. A. Rheinstrom, general traffic manager of American Airlines.

The first all-expense tour ever announced by an air line, Rheinstrom said, is a "circle tour" arranged by American Airlines to include major cities of the middle west and east. Transportation, hotel, and sightseeing expenses are included in a single ticket which carries the tourist more than 2,000 miles.

Starting at Chicago, or any city on the "circle," the tour includes stops at Detroit, Buffalo, Boston, New York, Washington, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, returning to the starting point.

Sightseeing trips to the Detroit auto plants, Buffalo's mighty Niagara Falls, the historic shrines of old Boston, New York's maris of commerce and amusement, Washington's stately governmental halls and scores of other places of intense interest in all these cities are included as a part of the one ticket, Rheinstrom explained.

Nine days are required for the full trip, including all stops, he said, but shorter tours have been arranged. One, which omits Boston, is completed in six days. There is also a four day tour from Chicago to Washington in which minimum time is spent in travel and all possible for sightseeing in the beautiful capital city.

Rheinstrom also pointed out that American Airlines was the first air transport company to arrange a complete air-water-bus tour at minimum cost. This tour enables tourists to leave Chicago any day, fly to Detroit where transfer is made to the night lake steamer for Buffalo. From Buffalo the trip to New York is completed in a comfortable motor bus, across the picturesque Mohawk Valley and down the Hudson River Drive. This tour can be made in either direction.

Despite the fact that these tours are confined largely to cities in the Middle West and eastern seaboard, Rheinstrom said they were planned to serve the entire United States. Tourists visiting these sections of the country will be able to cover more territory and see more of the nation in less time than in any other way.

Demobilization of the Transient Bureau staff was under way here Tuesday following orders from the Texas Relief Commission to discontinue the division camp here.

C. R. Treat, manager of the local bureau, said that the staff would be reduced to about three persons by Wednesday and that as soon as an inventory could be taken and equipment disposed of, the remainder of the staff would be dismissed or transferred.

He received orders Saturday to cease intake activities. At that time 21,116 cases had been registered by the bureau since its opening December of 1933.

Of this number approximately 10,000 were reopened cases. There were several hundred family cases, running the total number of individuals served by the bureau to approximately 40,000.

Peak of the run this year was reached in April. With issuance of orders that transients would have to work in return for their board and bed, the number took a steady decline until it was the smallest it had been almost since opening.

Treat said he and other top members of his staff would probably be called to Austin as soon as the plant was closed out.

Giants Lead The League For Most Of Three Years

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Giants of the present Bill Terry era are front-runners with a vengeance. This season they have been on top since April 7, 10 days after the season opened, and have run their tenure well beyond nine weeks.

Last season, though they lost out in the final two days, they were in first place from June 5 to September 29, a 16-weeks occupancy.

In 1933, when they won the pennant, they set the pace from June 10 to the finish, another 16-weeks run.

them from dire destruction. A shrewd observer comments that if all the five million security owners retain this viewpoint we could come pretty close to having government by utilities.

Mr. Roosevelt's remarks that intrastate groups like Niagara Hudson and Public Service of New Jersey and "investment trusts" like North American would not be subject to dissolution under the holding company bill failed to reassure the groups he mentioned. An officer of one of them says it's all very nice—but after all that's just FDR's own interpretation—and who's to guarantee that the Securities Exchange Commission would read such a charmingly vague law in the same light?

to put to a vote any mild compromise worked out in conference.

This desperate strategy is expected to have two results. Utility stocks will suffer from uncertainty caused by delay and doubt. Progressives will take the issue to the country during the summer recess. They will threaten to campaign against members suspected of emasculating the Senate measure. The fur will fly if this Senate-House duel reaches that stage.

Politics—
Work relief jobs and funds have finally been parcelled out to the politicians. They will dominate under the present setup.

In spite of President Roosevelt's warnings, state and national bosses have apparently won their long fight to distribute the $4,000,000 fund. All but a few state directors have been appointed on recommendation of Senators and National Committees. The new chiefs are rapidly scrapping old and experienced relief workers. Where a Senator is in bad, the Democratic Governor runs the works.

New Deal idealists are disillusioned and admit it. They have protested in vain to Harry Hopkins. Now they are trying to muster up courage to present their forces and complaints to the President.

Optimists—
Piecing together a presidential ticket is as popular a game with Republicans as word-puzzles used to be at summer resorts where there was nothing else to do. It may be a useless pastime right now, but it means the GOP is sitting up and looking around.

Borah of Idaho and Wadsworth of New York as a possible team. If the Constitution emerges as the issue, it is admitted that nobody could dramatize it so well as the Idahoan. Wadsworth would be a close second. But the king-makers always conclude with the recollection that "Borah never stays put."

Another conversationally interesting side consists of Wadsworth and "Lew" Douglas, Mr. Roosevelt's ex-director of the budget. They would fit the political picture if federal finances dominate people's thoughts next year. This may be hot-weather politics, but it's significant that even the heat doesn't keep the Republicans from hoping.

Notes—
Two plans for helping sharecroppers are colliding—the Tugwell resettlement scheme and the Bankhead farm tenant scheme. The legal showdown on the processing tax will come next fall, says Attorney General Cummings. Another good lawyer—William Stanley—has jumped from the Department of Justice. Josephine Roche told friends that she didn't know she was to head the Youth Movement till she saw it in the papers—no program has been worked out yet.

Washington has shied away from British feelers on the question of heading off Mussolini in Ethiopia. Talk of Capt. Anthony Eden visiting Washington didn't strike a responsive chord.

NEW YORK
By James McMullan

Griddle—
New York sharps often wonder whether the death sentence holding company bill or the Eccles banking bill was really the dearest to FDR's heart. They now learn on excellent authority that Senators known to be close to the White House recently tried to engineer a private deal with some of their associates. The object was to arrange (for administration supporters) to swap votes against the Eccles bill for votes to clinch the death sentence. The plan didn't get far—but it does convey a significant inference as to Mr. Roosevelt's sentiments.

Well-posted sources insist that the President has gotten out on a shaky limb by committing himself so positively to the most drastic features of the original bill. Now that the House Rules Committee—headed by Tammany chairman John J. O'Connor—has banned record votes on the issue power leaders are confident that the House will refuse to respond to the White House whip and will deal a smashing blow to FDR's prestige. Their only fear had been that the publicity of a record vote would cost them a lot of Congressional supporters who wouldn't care to be quoted as such.

The Tammany boys are certainly doing their durnedest to keep Mr. Roosevelt on a hot griddle. Their silent allies in financial and utility circles have no cause to complain.

Dim—
Wheels continue to spin within the holding company bill argument. The Committee of Public Utility Executives—headed by Philip Gadsden—was set to celebrate the death and burial of all federal utility legislation when along came Harper Sibley and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to spoil the party by endorsing enactment of the modified bill sponsored by the House Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Why should such old friends as the Chamber of Commerce and the utilities fall out? The answer is they haven't really. They differ only as to tactics—not as to principle.

The Chamber crowd doesn't want legislation any more than the power men themselves. But they feel it would be playing into the enemy's hands to block all action and give Mr. Roosevelt a chance to dramatize the issue in '36. They would rather have some innocuous regulation which will satisfy public opinion that something has been done and thereby dampen FDR's ammunition. Power leaders call this attitude weak—which shows how cocky they are. Mr. Roosevelt's chances of getting his pet enacted are much stronger since the conservative doctors have split on the proper prescription—though the outlook for the death sentence is still pretty dim.

Off-set—
At the end of March the nation's public debt amounted to $28,042,870,220. Average annual interest charges were figured at $798,355,700—or 2.85%. This is the lowest average rate paid by the Treasury since 1916—and a drop from 2.95% at the end of '34. It's worth noting that annual interest decreased by $28,000,000 from December 31 to March 31 while the total debt rose by $98,000,000 in the same period. Still further savings for the Treasury will be shown on the June 30 statement with the average interest rate down to about 2.80%. Mr. Morgenthau's steady pressure for cheaper borrowing is getting results.

The President's share-the-wealth tax program gains importance from the fiscal viewpoint if you look at it as applied to the cost of carrying the national debt. $340,000,000 seems playmate compared to $28,000,000,000—but it's almost 44% of the yearly interest charge. That's quite a burden to lift from the shoulders of smaller taxpayers. New York insiders are confident the White House had this angle in mind and will emphasize it for the public's benefit when the time is ripe.

From another slant the proposed levies on the wealthy would be an approximate offset to the interest we will never collect on $11,000,000,000 of defaulted war debts.

Herring—
People in the higher income brackets have never been what you could call keen for the soldier's bonus. But they are likely to have cause for gratitude to the vet's pet issue before they're through.

Reports that the Patman bonus bill will be revived trace to opponents of the tax plan. Conservative string-pullers see it as a useful red herring to divert Congress from the soak-the-rich trail. The legislators are usually willing to forget other game when their favorite political quarry is in sight. Strategists behind this maneuver have no fear whatever that the Patman measure will become law. They figure there's no more chance than before to get it past a veto. Their purpose is simply to stir up an argument that will keep the tax question on the shelf until Congress is ready to go home.

A couple of months ago conservatives would have rated it dangerous to juxtapose the ideas of an inheritance tax and a bonus—an Secretary Morgenthau once did. But not now. FDR wants the tax for other purposes and they count on friction between him and Congress to prevent positive action combining it with the bonus—or for that matter positive action on either issue alone.

Nourish—
The New York banks are tired of renting their money so cheap. They have talked it over among themselves and the big ones will shortly take joint action to jack up the rate on short-term money from 1-4 to 1½ to somewhere between 1-2 and 1 per cent.

One reason for this action is inside information that a number of industrial corporations are once again thinking of borrowing. A 1 per cent rate wouldn't scare them off—and the banks feel they might as well take advantage of the pending demand to nourish anemic earnings.

Restful—
If a coal strike develops after all the operators won't shed many tears. They were all set for two weeks ago and they've got more coal out of the ground than they know what to do with. Production has fallen off sharply since June 16 and even so there are stocks piled up that must still find buyers. A nice restful shutdown would be just what the doctor ordered.

for many of them. There's a good chance that it would be restful. The miners have shown remarkably little animosity in the preliminaries.

Sidelights—
A New York observer comments that there are more utility lobbyists than Congressmen in Washington. The power people are also making strenuous use of Coughlin's telegraph technique. One phase of the work relief program that nobody kicks about is the National Youth Administration. Even hard-boiled right wingers argue that boys and girls must be given a better break than they've had the past few years.

Neutral—
For years members of both parties aware of the political merits of pending legislation have tipped off party ignoramuses. The wise boys stand in the corridors and greet uninformed members arriving in haste for a roll call. "How do I vote?" ask the incoming group, and they are told how. It is an old, old Congressional custom but one which supposedly all-wise members do not like the folks back home to know about.

Recently a Republican Progressive and a Republican Conservative collided. One told his colleagues to vote "Aye," the other told them that "No" was the party theme song. Both men took their troubles to Whip Englebright of California, and both advanced the same argument. They said: "The House is a deliberative body, and members should not be told how to vote."

The smart Mr. Englebright rendered no decision.

Notes—
Business men want to know whether they are compelled to furnish the new NRA information—the answer is no—the law makes no such requirement. Much useful work will be performed by referees under scientific bureaus such as pest eradication. Quick footwork is necessary if the Matanuska settlers are to be saved from winter ravages. Officials now admit they should have sent a construction gang ahead of women and children.

Alone—
As the Wheeler-Rayburn bill comes down the homestretch utility men are worried about whether the House will stand hitched. The poll showing a clear majority against the holding company death sentence was accurate. But there's serious doubt whether it would still be accurate if FDR turns on the heat for a record vote. Such procedure would be highly unpopular in Congressional circles—but it might get results. Power leaders are almost sure they have the menaces licked—but they'll be nervous until the shooting is over. They have no use for the President's economics but they know it isn't safe to count him as beaten politically until the numbers are up.

Some utility big-timers are beginning to feel they made a mistake in strategy that may cost them dearly in the end. "If we had had the sense we were born with we'd have let the bill go through in its original form. We should have objected to the whole thing in principle and called it a day. Then it would certainly have been upset in the courts before it had time to take serious effect and we'd have been out of the woods."

"But no, we had to mess around with modification. We used our brains and our legal talent pointing out to Congress where the bill was unconstitutional and giving them hints on how to fix it up. Result—we'll get a harassing hybrid that may stand up in court. True, it won't be as bad as the original, but it will be a nuisance. Maybe some day we'll learn to let well enough

Own—
One big utility group had the highest percentage of proxies in its history turned in for its June 19th stockholders meeting. This is attributed to the company's sturdy campaign against the holding company measure. In the early days of the Roosevelt administration its mail was full of bitter attacks from security holders. Lately it has been getting almost unanimous support instead. Communications in praise of the New Deal are few and far between.

It's understood that this experience is typical. Stockholders are pretty well sold on the idea that their managements are defending them from dire destruction. A shrewd observer comments that if all the five million security owners retain this viewpoint we could come pretty close to having government by utilities.
