Energy firms defeated deregulation, Hodel says

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON — The energy industry "dropped the ball" and failed to provide unified support for the Reagan Administration's efforts to persuade Congress to pass a natural gas price deregulation bill, says Energy Secretary Donald P. Hodel.

Oil industry leaders, Hodel said, bickered over "fly specks", or small details, in the Reagan administration proposal, and weakened support for the concept of removing price controls on natural gas.

Hodel, speaking at a luncheon for energy company executives here Monday, said none of the 18 points in the Reagan bill pleased everybody in the oil industry, but the bill is the only approach that now has a political chance of passage.

And if the bill doesn't pass, Hodel warned, the oil and gas industry may face a serious effort in the future to put on even stricter price controls.

"If our bill doesn't pass, you're not going to be better off," said Hodel. "You'll be even worse off.

"We are fighting the big battle over whether we'll have an investor-owned gas system or not," he said. "If we don't make it this go-round, you'll not find another president who is willing" to pay the political price of supporting gas price de-control.

Hodel added: "If we don't move to a free market, we'll be in deep trouble on down the road."

The secretary said the Reagan proposal would establish "a free market" for natural gas and permit the fuel to be sold at its true value, instead of a value that is established by a government agency.

Should the nation experience a cold winter next year and consumers complain to Congress about high gas heating bills, said Hodel, then there will be a strong move toward "re-control," or establishing new federal prices for gas.

"One of the problems with this industry is that there is a terrible credibility problem with the American public," he said. "The public believes there is something venal in the industry" because of the jump in energy prices over the last decade.

Hodel was in the Houston area for six hours Monday. In addition to the luncheon with oil company executives, he also visited an oil field equipment fabrication plant and conducted a forum in Baytown with workers from the Houston Ship Channel industries, which have severely hit by the recent decline in oil and gas drilling.

Marines raise flag over ruins of embassy

Eight Americans among 19 dead

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Marine guards raised a single American flag at sunrise today in front of the devastated U.S. Embassy, where officials said an apparent suicide bombing left 19 people dead and 28 others missing and presumed dead.

Embassy spokesman John Reid said the latest casualty count was eight Americans confirmed dead and eight others missing. Ten Lebanese embassy employees were killed, with 20 others believed buried in the huge mounds of rubble, he said, adding that one other person of unknown nationality also was listed as dead.

Police said Monday's explosion wounded 120 people, including 22 Americans, as it ripped open the concrete front of the seven-story embassy.

U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon, who escaped serious injury in the blast, said it was "very unlikely" any more survivors would be found.

Soldiers and other search squads used a steam shovel and two backhoes to tear apart the debris, piling large chunks of masonry in a heap that already contained several tons of concrete.

Near the shattered building, a U.S. flag fluttered on a flagpole undamaged by the blast.

"The embassy Marines put it up at sunrise," said Col. James M. Mead, commander of the U.S. Marine contingent in Lebanon.

Lebanese soldiers raided the Palestinian refugee camp of Sabra and the nearby Tarik Jedida neighborhood today and made an undisclosed number of arrests in connection with the bombing, the privately owned "Voice of Lebanon" radio said without elaborating.

Details of the attack were still unclear, although it appeared a terrorist drove a explosives-laden vehicle into the embassy compound and may have died in the blast.

Police said two witnesses reported separately that they saw a man wearing a black leather jacket drive a black pickup truck into the embassy driveway. The witnesses said the truck then blew up.

Asked about the reports, Dillon said, "We don't know for sure. Two competent witnesses saw a very heavily loaded van force its way in. How it was detonated, I don't know."

It could not be determined if Dillon and the police were referring to the same two witnesses.

A Lebanese army explosives expert said he believed the bomb was made of 330 pounds of hexogene, a highly explosive gas four times more powerful than dynamite. He said there was no evidence of a remote control detonating device.

Mead told reporters today that the unwalled embassy complex facing the busy seaside highway was an easy target for terrorists.

"It was not adequately protected, that's for sure," he said. "The location is not good."

The bomb exploded about 1 p.m. Monday, shattering the main section's seven-story facade, hurling bodies into the Mediterranean and blowing apart the ground floor's visa wing. It was the worst attack on a U.S. facility in Lebanon.

About 400 U.S. Marines and Navy personnel, part of the multinational peace force that has been policing Beirut since the massacre last fall at two Palestinian refugee camps, provided security and helped hunt through the rubble.

Warrant officer Bill Henderson, 34, of Artesia, N.M., said many of the troops were guarding a temporary embassy office set up at Dillon's residence in the hillside suburb of Yarze, five miles east of Beirut.

A fanatic Lebanese Shiite group called Moslem Holy War claimed responsibility for the bombing Monday, telling Beirut's Al Liwa newspaper it was "part of the Iranian revolution's campaign against imperialist targets throughout the world."

Two more Beirut newspapers today reported receiving other claims of responsibility from unknown groups.

Attack won't alter U.S. policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and other top officials say the bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut won't change American policy in Lebanon.

Branding the bombing a "cowardly act," Reagan said Monday: "This criminal attack on a diplomatic establishment will not deter us from our goals of peace in the region. We will do what we know to be right."

"It is not going to change our commitment to try to bring about peace in the Middle East," said Lawrence S. Eagleburger, assistant secretary of state for political affairs.

A pro-Iranian terrorist group, called Moslem Holy War, has claimed responsibility for the bombing.

Eagleburger said six Americans — two Foreign Service officers, two members of the Office of Military Cooperation and two employees of the Agency for International Development — were among those killed. He said it was still "too early to tell" whether there were any other American casualties.

Lebanese authorities said at least 39 people were killed and 120 wounded.

Eagleburger spoke to reporters on Capitol Hill after briefing about 75 House members in a closed meeting. He was scheduled to brief senators today.

"This sort of cowardly attack on an American embassy is not going to prevent us from doing our duty," he said.

Appearing Monday night on ABC's "Nightline," he was asked what he thought about a call by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., for a withdrawal of U.S. Marine peacekeeping forces from Lebanon.

"With all respect to Sen. Goldwater, I think it's the wrong conclusion," he said. "...This is not the first time an American embassy has been bombed or attacked.... I think it's important to remember that this is an attack on the American embassy in Beirut, not on the multinational force in Lebanon."

Asked what he thought the aim of the attack was, Eagleburger replied:

"It was at least to kill Americans, and perhaps to bring into question here in the United States the continued role of the U.S. in Lebanon. I would have to add that if you want to reward terrorism, the best way in the world to do it would be for us to cut and run now as a result of the attack on the embassy."

State Department spokesman Anita Stockman said Monday night the names of the foreign service and international development agency victims had not yet been released.

"We will confirm the dead after we've had an opportunity to notify the next of kin and after we've had a chance to account for all...those we feel might have been in the explosion," she said.

Ambassador jogs out of mangled office

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — "All of a sudden my office collapsed," said U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon describing the car-bomb blast at the U.S. Embassy.

Dillon, clad in a jogging outfit, escaped from the rubble Monday by climbing through a window onto a seventh-floor balcony, re-entering the building a few floors lower down and then descending to the street.

"I was standing up with a telephone in one hand and a T-shirt in the other. I was preparing to go out and jog, when all of a sudden my office collapsed," the silver-haired ambassador, still in jogging clothes, told reporters several hours after the explosion.

Electorate to consider courthouse

County Bond Issue

Should the county's proposed bond issue be passed on Saturday, the face of the Midland County Courthouse will be changed for the first time in 13 years, taking on a "broader" look.

The 1930-vintage county courthouse with its eagle motif and marble wainscotting was altered through renovation and expansion in the early 1970s and was necessarily adorned with 39 visible pillars to support its fifth-floor jail — the costly add-on in the $1.95 million-plus expansion program. Opponents called it the "Greek Temple."

If Saturday's $11.69 million bond issue is blessed by the electorate, the "temple-ized" courthouse will be further altered and expanded to twice its present size.

SHOULD THE electorate reject the proposal, the county commissioners once again will be dedicated to finding suitable alternatives. Conceivably, those choices could include:

—Immediately calling another bond election to pass the $11.69 million proposal. This option has been used successfully by other governing bodies.

—Funding the jail-courthouse project via certificates of obligation (CO). With COs, commissioners could bypass voters in financing the project but would still obligate county funds — revenue from taxpapers — to satisfy the debts. However, the electorate, if timely informed, by law could demand an election under the CO route, and commissioners would have to oblige.

—Resuming negotiations with hotel developers on building an annex, at no cost to the taxpayers, on county property two blocks east of the courthouse. That proposal, however, would not solve the need for more courtrooms and jail space.

—Converting the fifth-floor jail into courtrooms and adjunct uses and building a jail elsewhere. Under that concept, the commissioners would present the sheriff with logistical programs in transferring prisoners from jail to courtroom and back again.

—Razing the courthouse, temporarily relocating county functions elsewhere downtown, and building an entirely new courthouse-jail complex which could satisfy county needs well in the year 2000.

—Doing nothing at all.

UNDER THE present plan, mixing the revamped courthouse building with the proposed addition would be done in a harmonious scheme for utilitarian reasons. The Commissioners' Court has given minimal consideration to aesthetics, though Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis contends that a courthouse should be "a showplace and something you should regard as being the apex of the county." The two units, appearing as one, would function as an inter-related building. The jail's inmates and the courts' judges would be neighbors.

WEATHER SUMMARY

AP Laserphoto Map

Snow and snow flurries are forecast through Wednesday from the lower Great Lakes to the Northeast, according to the National Weather Service. Rain is predicted from southern California to Nevada and Arizona, with sunny weather expected for most of the nation.

Warm, cloudy weather forecast

Fluffy clouds, expected to partly cover the Permian Basin Wednesday, shouldn't inhibit the warm West Texas weather Midlanders have enjoyed for the past few days.

According to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport, temperatures will drop near 50 tonight and climb into the middle 80s once again on Wednesday.

Today's gusting southwesterly and westerly winds should shift and slow down to southeasterly at 10-15 mph tonight. Winds from the southeast will breeze at 15-20 mph Wednesday.

Monday's high of 88 was eight degrees cooler than the record high of 96, set for that date in 1948. The overnight low of 47 missed the record low of 37, set in 1953, by 10 degrees.

Texas area forecasts

West Texas: Fair, continued warm through Wednesday. Highs today mid 70s. Port Arthur to Port O'Connor: Variable winds near 10 knots this morning becoming southeast 15 to 20 knots this afternoon tonight, Wednesday. Seas near 3 feet this morning, building to 5 to 7 feet this afternoon, tonight. Patches dense fog near shore dissipating after sunrise. Partly cloudy.

North Texas: Scattered showers, thundershowers east ending this afternooon. Otherwise mostly fair, no significant change in temperature through Wednesday. Highs today, Wednesday low 70s northeast to low to mid 80s southwest. Lows mid 40s to low 50s.

Border forecasts

New Mexico: Sunny today. Breezy in the eastern plains. Clear tonight. Increasing clouds and windiness Wednesday with showers developing over the west during the afternoon. Highs today and Wednesday mid 60s to mid 70s mountains and northwest with mid 70s to mid 80s elsewhere. Lows ranging from the 20s mountains to the middle 40s southeast.

Oklahoma: Fair west, partly cloudy with scattered showers east today. Mostly fair tonight. Sunny and a little warmer Wednesday. Highs today from the lower 60s northeast to the mid 70s west. Lows mostly in the 40s. highs Wednesday in the 70s.

Thunderstorms dampen state

By The Associated Press

An upper-level disturbance moving across North Texas brought scattered showers and thundershowers early today along the Red River, while fog shrouded the coastal plains.

A travelers advisory was issued for Galveston and Chambers counties, where visibilities were near zero at times. Skies were mostly clear elsewhere in the state.

A cold front which backed southwestward into the state to near a Houston-Austin-Amarillo line reversed course and became a warm front. Winds were generally light southeasterly in eastern portions and southwesterly at 10 to 15 mph in West Texas.

Couple injured in cycle mishap

A First National Bank employee suffered a broken back early today in a motorcycle accident on property owned by a bank official.

Teresa Bell of 2704 Loma, a 27-year-old FNB teller, was in critical condition and undergoing spinal surgery at Midland Memorial Hospital this morning, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Released following emergency treatment for abrasions and a broken collar bone was 26-year-old W. Reeves Moore of 5101 Teakwood.

Police said the 1983 Kawasaki LTD 1100 the couple was riding was eastbound on Haynes near the intersection of Midkiff Road about 12:10 a.m. when it went out of control at an apparent high rate of speed on a curve.

The motorcycle tore through the fence of a pasture owned by bank director William B. Blakemore II before coming to rest. Police said they weren't able to determine who was driving the bike.

Accused killer remains in jail

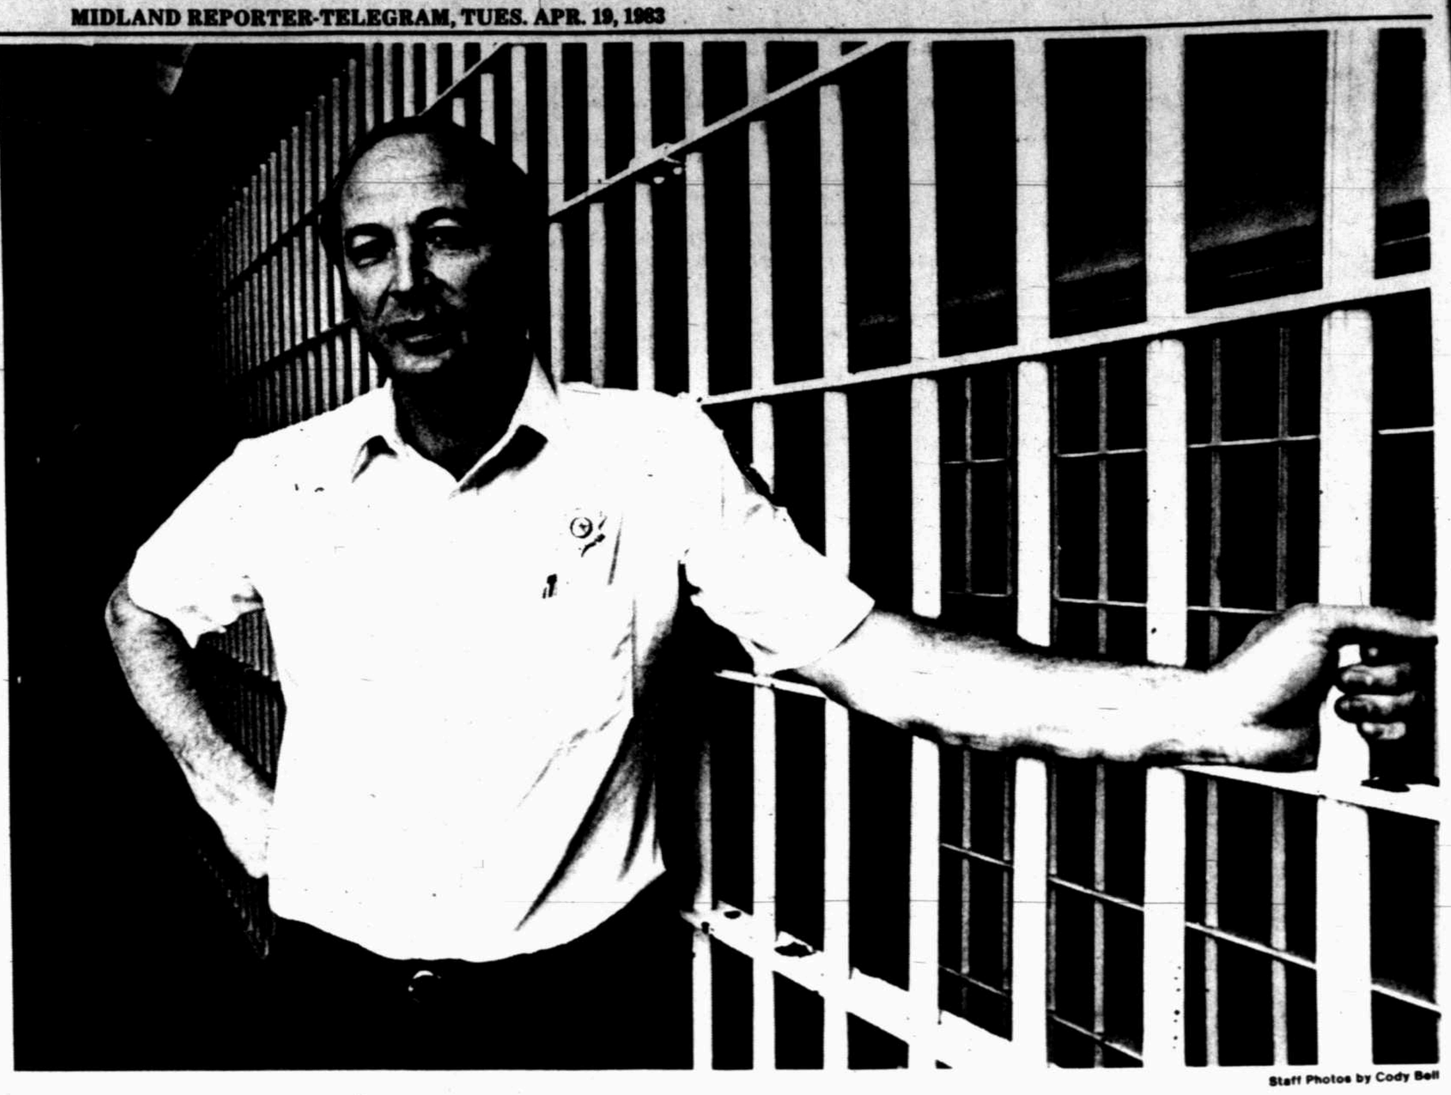

A man accused in the Sunday shotgun slaying of 60-year-old Foy Johnson remains jailed under $50,000 bond set Monday by Justice of the Peace Robert Pine.

In county jail this morning was Henry Dirl Rice, also 60, of 1901 E. Front St. He is charged with killing Johnson in front of Johnson's house at 509 S. Weatherford about noon Sunday.

Police said Rice pulled up to Johnson's residence, honked the horn, then shot Johnson twice in the chest with a 12-gauge shotgun when he stepped outside.

Johnson was pronounced dead at the scene. Rice was arrested a short time after the slaying.

Johnson's death ended a feud that dates back three years, according to police, who said the men got into a fight. Cause of the fight is being investigated in connection with the murder investigation.

Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith would prefer that the county jail be expanded and upgraded before federal courts and the Texas Commission on Jail Standards further limits or bars his jail operations.

Electorate to consider courthouse

"What really determined that (one-building concept) were the functions and what went on and how they related," Walter Pate, the county's architect, said.

Features of the bond proposal include an expanded jail and judiciary — more courtrooms — and additional offices to carry out the county's $10 million annual business. More than for aesthetic reasons, the courthouse's proposed redesign is to be functional.

"The growth in population in Midland County over the past several years has created a need for additional county services," noted a proposal prepared by architects Pate and Scott Campbell. "The needs of the citizens of Midland County can best be met by an updated and enlarged courthouse and jail facility."

THE ARCHITECTS were retained by the Midland County Commissioners' Court to prepare a floor-by-floor schematic of the envisioned courthouse to serve into the 21st century.

The proposal calls for renovating the existing courthouse, building a second courthouse on the north side of the courthouse square, and putting the two units together as one courthouse.

Plans call for a 144,571-square-foot courthouse: 73,824 square feet in the existing building and 70,774 square feet in the proposed addition.

Of the $11.69 million bond issue, $10.75 million would go for "hard" construction costs, while $940,000 would be paid out in fees to architects, bond attorneys, underwriters and financial advisers, and to cover other costs. The $10.75 million construction costs would include $5.9 million to build the courthouse-jail addition; $3 million to renovate the "old" courthouse's interior; $815,000 to re-do the courthouse's exterior; $500,000 for furniture; $511,841 for contingency (5 percent of $10.2 million).

County Judge Bill Ahders and Commissioners Durward Wright, C. Wallace "Wally" Craig, C. DeWayne Davis and Win Brown unanimously voted to call the bond election.

The floor-by-floor proposal includes:

—GROUND FLOOR (Basement): The Sheriff's Department would be expanded from 3,000 square feet to sightly more than 8,000 square feet. In addition, a secure transfer area for prisoners would be provided. Offices of the justices of the peace and constable would remain in the basement.

As it is now: In the basement are the constable's and peace justices' offices and courtroom, building engineer's office, sheriff's offices, and the law library and press room for the media. Until late last year, the basement housed the tax office and elections administrator's office. Today, those two offices are in a 10,000-square-foot annex several blocks southwest of courthouse and would remain there even if the courthouse expansion materializes.

—FIRST FLOOR: This "main floor" would provide the county clerk's and county judges' offices; Adult Probation Offices; telephone switchboard, mail and information center, and Commissioners' Courtroom, which would double as a County Courtroom. Each of the four commissioners, like the judges and other elected officials, would have individual offices. The county judge's office would be expanded to include a jury room, security holding, court reporter, bailiff, witness-conference rooms and file area. The county clerk's working area would be double its present size.

As it is now: On the first floor are the county clerk's office and swicthboard-mail-information center. The adult probation office is in the county's annex one block north of the courthouse.

—SECOND FLOOD: Here would be the offices of county and district attorneys, the law library, two courtrooms and adjunct offices, a grand jury room, and witness and conference rooms.

As it is now: On the second floor are offices of the county and county court-at-law judges; County Courtroom, Commissioners' Courtroom, county auditor, county treasurer and county attorney and his investigator. The law library is in the courthouse basement in half of that space formerly occupied by the tax office and elections administrator's offices. Those offices have been moved to a new annex southwest of the courthouse.

—THIRD FLOOR: This floor would include expanded offices of the district clerk, county auditor, county treasurer and two district courtrooms, likely the 142nd and the 318th State District Courtrooms. The floor would provide a jury room, coffee bar, holding room for prisoners, witness and conference rooms, judges' chambers and adjunct offices; rooms for court reporters, secretaries and bailiffs.

As it is now: The third floor is made up of the district clerk's office, the 142nd State District Court and the judge's chambers.

—Fourth Floor: Envisioned here would be two more courtrooms — for the 238th State District Court and a yet unauthorized sixth court —, witness and conference rooms, judges' chambers and adjunct functions, and space for the jail's administration and cells for women and youthful (juvenile) prisoners. The jail administration area would provide for the processing of inmates. The additional jail area would satisfy Texas Commission on Jail Standards' requirements for a library, infirmary, commissary, multi-purpose line-up room, general storage area, and enlarged kitchen, laundry and dressing and storage areas. Juveniles and women would be separated from men prisoners. The exact "mix" and number of jail cells has not been approved by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

As it is now: On the fourth floor are the 238th and the 318th State District Courtrooms and the district attorney's office.

—FIFTH FLOOR: Cells for lodging 225 adult male prisoners would be provided. "The intent is to meet the requirements of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards."

As it is now: The fifth floor takes in the jail administration offices and has cell space legally to house 80-plus prisoners, including men, women and juveniles.

The architects' proposal also calls for revitalizing the deteriorating exterior finish of the courthouse, repairing water leaks, insulating the building to reduce energy costs for heating and cooling, and redesigning windows to make the courthouse more secure.

"The existing building and the new addition will have a complete and unified appearance," the architects' proposal says.

Before deciding on just how to expand the courthouse, the commissioners and the architects briefly considered going higher by adding a sixth floor to the 53-year-old courthouse. The idea was nixed.

"Nothing is impossible," reflected Pate, who, however, noted that some architectural designs "are more functional" and "more economically feasible" than others.

Wednesday: Looking at the bond issue's pros and cons.

Architect Walter Pate displays his model of the proposed Midland County Courthouse, which is to be expanded if voters on Saturday approve a $11.69 million bond issue.

County must maintain more than one building

The downtown Midland County Courthouse is the focal point of county government. But there's far more to the county's physical plants than that.

All told, the county has two annexes, a graveyard, Fairview Cemetery and other operations to maintain.

—The Courthouse Annex. The two-story annex is the former Superior Oil Company office building, which the county bought in the mid-1960s for $125,000. It housesprobation, welfare, veterans service, consulting engineer, personnel directoroffices and Texas Agricultural Extension Services' Midland offices. The annex is at 218 W. Illinois Ave.

—Midland County Public Library. The building, constructed in the late 1950s, houses about 150,000 books in addition to other "learning resource" material.

—Culver Youth Home. This juvenile detention center, in far northeast Midland, was built in the 1960s and was named in honor of 318th State District Court Judge Barbara Culver, who was county and juvenile judge from 1963 until 1978.

—Tax Office and Elections Administrator's Annex. Those offices at Front and Washington avenues and B and Pecos streets were moved from basement of the courthouse to this location in late 1982. They are to remain in that metal building even if the proposed courthouse addition is built.

—Midland County Exhibit Building. This building off U.S. Highway 80 East was built in the late 1960s and is showcase for such events as livestock shows, 4-H functions, book sales, wedding, parties, dances, banquets and carnivals.

—Museum of the Southwest and Lancaster Gardens.

Walesa's labor union involvements again questioned

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — An exhausted Lech Walesa went to police headquarters today for the third interrogation in a week about his contacts with underground leaders of the banned Solidarity trade union.

Walesa's spokesman, Adam Kinaszewski, said the 39-year-old labor leader showed up at police headquarters in his hometown of Gdansk as ordered at 11 a.m. (4 a.m. EST).

Walesa's wife, Danuta told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from Gdansk that her husband was interrogated for seven hours Monday after being stopped by authorities en route to Warsaw. She declined to discuss his detention or interrogation and said shortly after he returned home Monday that her husband was "too tired and too hungry" to come to the phone.

Walesa was first interrogated on April 13 after announcing he had met with fugitive Solidarity leaders for the first time since his release from internment last November.

Meanwhile, the government newspaper said today that in calling for nationwide demonstrations May 1, the Solidarity underground movement is raising the possibility of a confrontation over Pope John Paul II's planned visit to Poland in June.

"Publication of such an appeal just two months before the pope's visit cannot be described as anything other than striving for confrontation," said the government daily Rzeczpospolita in a front page editorial.

The Solidarity underground made no mention of the pope's visit when it called for the protests.

The commentary by the government was the first official mention of the planned May 1 protest and also the first report by the state-run media on the clandestine meeting which Walesa said he had with the Solidarity underground April 9-11.

"Does that mean he took responsibility for forcing a confrontation?" the newspaper asked.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said the Polish government should "end its harassment" of Walesa.

Poland's Interior Ministry, which runs the security police, has refused to comment on any of Walesa's detentions. On Monday the duty officer at Olsztyn police headquarters told The Associated Press by telephone that Walesa "has not been detained. He has not been arrested either."

The officer's comments were reminiscent of official statements last Dec. 16, when authorities drove Walesa around Gdansk for nine hours to keep him from a rally outside the shipyard, but denied that he was detained.

Walesa, his wife and driver were questioned by police last Wednesday about the labor leader's meetings with the members of Solidarity's fugitive, five-man "Temporary Coordinating Commission," known by its Polish initials TKK.

After the meeting, the committee issued its call for nationwide demonstrations on May 1, Socialist Workers' Day. The appeal was followed by the arrest of at least 26 Solidarity activists on Saturday.

Hightower picks on PIK program

Jim Hightower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has criticized as insufficient the Reagan administration's payment-in-kind program, under which farmers got surplus crops in return for cutting production.

"When Chrysler was in trouble, did they give Chrysler cars?", Hightower asked Monday, addressing the 30th annual meeting of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America.

PIK "is a Band-Aid that we certainly must have," Hightower said. "But it is not a fundamental farm program."

Hightower said that in fact "Ronald Reagan himself has no farm policy" and the president's "idea of a good farm program is (the television program) 'Hee Haw.'"

"We've got to have a farm policy for a change that focuses on the farmer," said Hightower, a Democrat and self-described populist elected to office last year.

Hightower called the family farm the "most efficient economic performer we have in our economy" and said the government must move to preserve it by "establishing a floor beneath which we're not going to allow farmers to fall."

Hightower said he supported returning to a proposal once made by Charles Brannan, agriculture secretary under President Harry Truman.

The Brannan proposal called for the government to pay farmers the difference between the market price they got for their goods and a minimum fair price determined by the government.

The basic problem of farmers is "a cost-price squeeze of costs continually going up and prices going down," Hightower said.

Hightower said that farmers had no control over their prices and that they are receiving a smaller share of the consumer food dollar.

Brain-damaged girl could receive $119 million

PASADENA (AP) — A hospital will pay a potential $119 million rather than go to court in a malpractice suit charging a doctor "under the influence of drugs" caused brain damage to a newborn.

Pasadena Bayshore Hospital, owned by Hospital Corp. of America, agreed Monday to pay the settlement to the parents of Andrea Ferris. The 2-year-old suffered oxygen deprivation during her birth July 7, 1980, the parents said in their suit.

The suit said the parents have been told Andrea's intelligence will not progress beyond that of a 1-year-old and that she will require constant care.

Hospital officials failed to suspend Dr. Michael Brody when they "knew or should have known he was on duty under the influence of drugs to such an extent that his ability to properly perform his duties was impaired," the suit said.

The suit charged Brody was grossly negligent because he failed to appear at the delivery when needed and failed to deliver the baby quickly enough to avoid the injuries.

A member of Brody's staff said he would have no comment.

Brody, now in private practice in Houston, was dropped from the lawsuit earlier this year, said Richard Mithoff, an attorney for the girl's parents.

Robert and Linda Ferris agreed to the out-of-court settlement shortly before the case was to go to trial Monday, Mithoff said.

Under the agreement, the parents will receive $4.25 million within 30 days and $7,000 monthly for the first year, he said.

The payment are guaranteed for 20 years or for the remainder of Andrea's life, which ever is longer, Mithoff said.

Electrical accident burns man

BEAUMONT (AP) — Power and phone service at Lamar University were knocked out in an electrical accident which burned a worker, college and utility officials said.

Wilbert "Clyde" Lyons, 53, of Vidor, suffered second- and third-degree burns over 50 percent of his body when an electrical arc formed while he was changing a fuse, officials said.

He was in stable condition Monday night at Baptist Hospital of Southeast Texas, a hospital spokeswoman said.

David White, a spokesman for Gulf States Utilities, said the mishap occurred sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 9 a.m.

"He went into the switching station and was trying to take a fuse out when something created an electrical arc and burned him," White said.

Richard Dixon, public information officer for the university, said the entire campus lost power at 9 a.m. when a switch gear shorted and burned at one of Lamar's main power stations at the corner of East Virginia and University Drive.

He said the campus was closed at 4:30 p.m.

There were no night classes but Dixon said power was to have been restored for classes to resume at 8 a.m. today.

Man wins new trial

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Court of Criminal Appeals last week overturned a conviction from Midland.

The court ordered a new trial for Bobby Ray Bearden, convicted in Midland County of driving while intoxicated (misdemeanor), receiving a $200 fine and three-day jail term.

In his appeal, Bearden argued the jury which convicted him in July 1979 was guilty of misconduct because one of the jurors told others he had been to night clubs in which Bearden had testified being in and that the drinks involved would have been double shots instead of regular drinks.

The appeals court said there was testimony from one juror on a request for a new trial that the information had influenced his verdict.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, April 20, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Adolf Hitler, artist Joan Miro and film directo. Gregory Ratoff were born on this date. Also sharing your birthday: musician Lionel Hampton, actor Ryan O'Neal, auto racing's Phil Hill and singer Johnny Tillotson. In the months ahead, examine important issues on your own. Those who believe they have all the answers you need are wrong. Stop trying to please everyone. You will be amazed at how quickly business improves when you follow your instincts. A good marriage brings you closer to your goals. Try not to be so harsh when you disapprove of your loved ones' actions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Set new goals and pursue them with zeal. If you do not make decisions for yourself, others will. Develop a natural artistic or musical talent.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Disregard the advice of those with vested interests. A money matter needs prompt attention. A lucky day for salespeople and others who deal with the public.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You will be delighted by something that happens at place of employment. Socialize with a client or customer over lunch. Good luck and creativity go hand-in-hand now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If recently widowed or divorced, you may have to force yourself to go out more. Be bold when seeking help on an important project. Your enthusiasm is contagious.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Face up to a financial problem. Experts can help you find a solution. Others cancel dates at the last minute. Relax at home with your loved ones this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): An office romance can cause big trouble. Keep business and pleasure strictly separate. Someone is ready to help you buy the home you want. Look beyond the surface.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An old friend makes you an offer you cannot refuse. Your intuition is right on target. An employment situation can be cleared up if you lay your cards on the table.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Romance is in the air! Keep your temper under control in any heated discussions with loved one. Otherwise, you could say something you will always regret. Be polite but cool.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): New work relationships help you overcome the obstacles that have slowed progress in the past. A social outing provides fresh business and romantic opportunities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Romance is undergoing change. Good things happen where money or real estate is concerned. Focus on your principal goals. Bring out old ideas and rework them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Set ground rules that will create a better understanding between students and their parents. Member of opposite sex gives you a helping hand at work.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have great luck with games today. Think big and you will do just fine in a business venture. Diversification helps improve the bottom line. Get expert advice.

TV show reunites families

HOLLYWOOD — As class reunions go, this one was much like any other — old friends seeing each other for the first time in years ... surveying the minimal damage, updating their lives and locked in the moment when all of them were together ... remembering the good times.

Of course, with this particular reunion, those moments have been preserved, for this was a gathering of television's past, with the stars of eight series from the '50s, '60s and '70s assembled at the Century Plaza one day last week as part of a "Family Feud" special, scheduled to air during the weeks of May 2 and 9.

In one corner was the cast of "Leave It to Beaver" — Jerry Mathers, Barbara Billingsley, Ken Osmond, Frank Bank and Richard Deacon. But it had not been that long between visits for them, since a recent CBS-TV movie brought the group together again. For others, however, it had, indeed, been a long time. "My God, there's Lori Saunders!" said "Petticoat Junction's" Frank Cady, greeting the actress who portrayed Bobbie Jo Bradley on the old CBS series. "I haven't seen her since the last show!" There were hugs for the other co-stars as well — Meredith MacRae, Gunilla Hutton and Linda Kaye Henning.

There were similar greetings among the casts of "The Brady Bunch" (Robert Reed, Florence Henderson, Maureen McCormick, Susan Olsen and Christopher Knight); "Your Hit Parade" (Snooky Lanson, Gisele MacKenzie, Andy Russell, Russell Arms and Bea Wain); "Gilligan's Island" (Alan Hale, Jim Backus, Natalie Schafer, Russell Johnson and Dawn Wells); "Lost in Space" (June Lockhart, Guy Williams, Angela Cartwright, Marta Kristen and Bob May), and "Hawaiian Eye" (Grant Williams, Connie Stevens, Troy Donahue, Poncie Ponce and Anthony Eisley).

Vincent Price stood in the middle of the room and searched for the "Batman" cast (he played Egghead), and finally they arrived, with Batman and Robin (Adam West and Burt Ward), Batgirl (Yvonne Craig) and Catwoman (Lee Meriwether) joining in.

For these two weeks of "Family Feud," the actors will be playing for the benefit of their favorite charities.

North America was represented by a young team in the 1981 World Team Championship, held in Port Chester, N.Y. They started out as underdogs, but ended up easy winners of the title. How they grew in maturity as the tournament progressed is vividly portrayed in the "1981 World Championships" (American Contract Bridge League, paperback, 255 pp., $12.95. Available post free from Bridge World, 39 West 94th St., New York, NY 10025.) Most of the excellent commentary is by Eric Kokish of Montreal.

This is one of the hands from the finals. Both teams reached four hearts, and the Pakistani declarer ended up down one. John Solodar of New York sat South for North America, and he needed only one slight miscue by a defender to romp home.

He won the opening lead in dummy and led a club. East rose with the ace and continued with a spade, and the defenders did not get another chance.

Declarer ruffed the spade and cashed the ace of diamonds. Then he ruffed two diamonds in dummy and two spades in his own hand. This was the position:

NORTH

When Solodar led the king of trumps, the defenders were helpless. East won and returned a trump, but declarer had a counter. He exited with the queen of diamonds. East was forced to ruff, but that was the defenders' last trick. East had to lead a club from his queen. Declarer finessed the jack and cashed the king for his game-going trick.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Back to basics

As one observer put it, there is no "quick fix" for the ills which have beset the public schools of our country for the past quarter of a century. It is gratifying, however, to witness the determined efforts of dedicated teachers and school officials in various parts of the nation to turn around an educational pattern which has been churning out thousands of functional illiterates and youngsters unable to do simple arithmetic and expecting them to find useful roles in society.

Prompting all this activity, of course, is the hard reality of a diminishing job market and the understandable insistence by employers on filling their worker ranks with people who are demonstrably capable of carrying out their responsibilities. There no longer is any room for an unproductive fringe in business and industry where incompetents can continue to draw a paycheck.

What is especially encouraging about some of the experimental programs launched by local school systems in Tennessee, Michigan, the Far West and New York State has been their reliance on the resources of their communities. Instead of petitioning for a federally financed "study program" for their needs, they have gone into the business sector to inquire, at first hand, what prospective employers are looking for. The business community, in many instances, has responded by supplying volunteer advisors to help schools prepare curricula.

The results, as reported by those regions, have been impressive. Proficiency in reading, writing and mathematical skills has soared. One school system even borrowed the incentive plans of business, not only to encourage pupils to become achievers, but to aid teachers in improving themselves with additional courses.

For too many years now, school systems have been dabbling with lofty theories of education which were interesting more for their novelty and shock value than for practicality. They seemed to be aimed at developing a youngster's personality and social ease and the sad result of this has been a plummeting of basic skills.

The switch that is taking place is most welcome and refreshing. And if it is continued, the children and the nation at large will be the ultimate beneficiaries.

Thais need help

The Vietnamese troops occupying Cambodia have been vicious this year in their raids across the Thailand border to attack sanctuaries containing some 45,000 Cambodian guerrillas.

The targets of the Vietnamese are three insurgent groups which have fled into Thailand from Cambodia, filtering back across the border from time to time to harass the Vietnam invaders. They are members of the Khmer Rouge, the Khmer People's Nationalization Front and the followers of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, deposed in 1970 as Cambodia's chief of state.

This year the Vietnamese, who have an occupation force of 180,000 in Cambodia (now called Kampuchea), are sending tanks and artillery into Thailand and firing on innocent Thai villages. Thai civilians have been killed.

U.S. State Department spokesman Alan Romberg says, "We are appalled that Vietnamese forces indiscriminately attacked settlements containing thousands of civilians."

Thailand has asked the United States to help in this emergency with supplies and arms shipments, and the United States has responded by granting the Red Cross $1.5 million for Thailand relief and commencing an airlift of Redeye anti-aircraft missiles and 155mm howitzers.

We commend the swift action of the United States in providing aid to Thailand, which has been a parliamentary democracy since 1932, when the absolute monarchy of King Prajadhipok was overthrown. We hope Thai troops have the strength and the weapons to push the Vietnamese out of their homeland for good.

Another View:

Walesa's new style

The Polish government could lock up Lech Walesa again, of course, or arrange to have him run down by a truck, or whatever. But then what? Gen. Jaruzelski must calculate the consequences in terms of the disruption of public order, the loss of any residual claim to the toleration and especially to the willingness to work of the Polish people, and the further deterioration of the country's international standing. On all these things, Poland's hope for recovery rests.

Though the government insists he is a "private person," Lech Walesa remains the most important public person in Poland. It is not simply that journalists focus on an attractive and accessible symbol of Polish striving. He is the authentic leader of a mass movement, Solidarity, which, though banned, lives in people's hearts. The regime cannot effectively govern without dealing with him in some way.

True, it can harass him. The other day, police dragged him out of his apartment for five hours. The nightmarish scene was witnessed by Post correspondent Bradley Graham, who happened to be there interviewing Mrs. Walesa, who was herself hauled in the following day. But the regime cannot hold him or do worse without tempting troubles harsher than those it cannot solve now.

The regime's tormented efforts to relax without relaxing are of a sort familiar to students of Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe. Mr. Walesa, however, is inventing a new political style. His purpose is to build a position that would force the government to grant relief to political prisoners and to reintroduce elements of a pluralistic workers' movement. Denied Solidarity's pre-martial law liberties, his tools are his pivotal place in the Polish scheme of things, his tremendous personal ingenuity — he eluded his police tails last weekend, for instance, and met Solidarity's fugitive underground leaders — and his access to the international press.

Now Mr. Walesa and the government are looking to the scheduled visit of Pope John Paul II in June. Gen. Jaruzelski's desire to demonstrate that the regime has made some definite progress since the darkest martial-law days gives Mr. Walesa and others, including Cardinal Glemp, the opportunity to bargain for more. It is a painfully uncertain process, but there is one certain thing about it: Mr. Walesa and the Polish people are not going to let go.

CHARLEY REESE

America not guilty as charged

Some radical Japanese-American lawyers and mush-brained congressmen are about to stage an attack on the public treasury, dole out billions of your tax-dollars, and dishonor the United States.

Charley Reese

In 1942, shortly after the sneak attack on Peal Harbor by Japan, President Franklin Roosevelt ordered the evacuation of Japanese aliens and Japanese-Americans from the West Coast. About 110,000 people — 70,000 Japanese-Americans and 40,000 Japanese aliens — were involved.

The radical Japanese-Americans and that strange breed of American who loves to feel guilty about America instigated a commission of inquiry which has, naturally, found America guilty as charged of racism, injustice and hysteria. It will soon recommend a "remedy."

The remedy demanded by the radical Japanese-Americans consists of a formal apology by the United States government, $25,000 to each evacuee or heir, and $3 billion to the Japanese-American community. The total bill would come to about $6 billion.

This whole bit is outrageous, stupid and disgraceful. The United States does not owe anybody an apology and any congressman or senator who votes these nerds so much as a penny should be tarred and feathered.

Not all Japanese-Americans — in fact, most — do not support this raid on the public treasury. Retired Senator S.I. Hayakawa had this to say:

"I am proud to be a Japanese American. But when a small but vocal group of Japanese-Americans calling themselves a redress committee demand a cash indemnity of $25,000 for all those who went to relocation camps during World War II...my flesh crawls with shame and embarrassment."

What you are seeing in this disgraceful charade is the old familiar tactics of rigged hearings, re-writes of history, and a distortion of facts to make it appear that honorable Americans acted like maniacs.

The myth being perpetrated by this hoax is that in 1942 there were 110,000 perfectly innocent, perfectly loyal Japanese-Americans who were, because of hysteria, rounded up overnight and slapped into concentration camps. Not a word of the above is true.

The surprise attack on Pearl Harbor which killed more than 3,000 Americans, plunged the nation into war overnight. We had no intelligence satellites in those days and no instant, world-wide communications. There was an enormous amount of uncertainty about the extent of the threat. A Japanese sub fired on an oil facility off Santa Barbara. Ships were being sunk within sight of the coast. There was, in short, reasonable grounds at the time to believe some more substantial attack might be forthcoming on the West Coast.

Nor was the loyalty of the Japanese community all that certain. The Japanese government at that time was racist and fanatical and considered all Japanese-Americans to be Japanese citizens. There were the 40,000 aliens who were Japanese citizens. Many of the Japanese-Americans had sent their children to Japan to be educated. Many had openly supported Japan's war against China. There were surely some spies and potential saboteurs among them and not much time to sort them out. Moreover, Americans whose sons were being killed were not feeling kindly toward any Japanese who unlike Italian or German immigrants were easily identifiable.

It was in this context that President Roosevelt ordered the Japanese aliens and Japanese-Americans evacuated from the West Coast. The order specified their property was to be protected and the evacuation was to be conducted in a humane manner. And so it was, over a period of weeks, not overnight.

The order was not to imprison them but to evacuate them. Relocation camps were set up for those who needed food and shelter, but the Japanese-Americans were free to leave for the interior and many did to pursue education or jobs. Many, as you recall, enlisted in the U.S. Army and served with great distinction.

After the war, the Congress held a genuine inquiry and appropriated $35 million to compensate them for any loss of business income. No further compensation is due them and most assuredly no apology.

This attempt to discredit the many honorable Americans who, under the circumstances, acted with extreme humanity and generosity hacks me off to no end. It's just one more attempt to make Americans feel guilty about their own country.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Rid fear of U.S. first strike

WASHINGTON — For years, American presidents have assured the world that the United States would never launch a nuclear first strike against the Soviet Union. The chilling truth is that for most of the time those assurances were given, U.S. strategic planners have had just such an option.

Jack Anderson

Now the first-strike option — with all its horrifying consequences — is being reconsidered at the top levels of government. The MX commission's report, recommending a reduced deployment of the controversial missile, is an important first step in the abandonment of a first-strike option.

The Reagan administration is still deeply committed to the MX. The reason for this determination, despite the political heat it continues to generate, was made clear at a closed briefing before the Senate Armed Services Committee: U.S. strategic planners believe the MX is the best deterrent to a nuclear first strike by the Soviets.

A transcript of the secret session reveals that in 1974, when advanced development of the MX missile was begun, "it was estimated that the Soviets could destroy all but 200 of our (intercontinental ballistic missile) silos by the year 1985." But the transcript notes that by 1979 the intelligence community estimated that "the Soviets could destroy all but 200 of our silos by the year 1980, an advance of the threat by five years." So the Pentagon pushed with increasing alarm for the MX missile.

Now the nonpartisan presidential commission has supported the Pentagon. But there's a significant difference. With the 200 MX missiles originally proposed, each carrying 10 warheads, the United States would have the capability to destroy the Soviets' land-based missiles in their silos. With only half that number, as the commission has proposed, the Soviet missile array would not be as seriously threatened. In other words, the commission has partially stripped the Pentagon of its first-strike option.

Even so, there are still anti-MX voices in the Pentagon that can be heard only in their top-secret memoranda of complaint. These dissenting memos and other secret Pentagon and intelligence reports have been reviewed by my associates Ron McRae and Dale Van Atta.

One memo dated last March 3, noting the changes in U.S. nuclear policy, warns: "The MX might not be the weapon most suited to such proposed revisions in targeting doctrine." One concern was the fears the MX would arouse in the Kremlin. A secret report prepared by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency warned:

"If MX were deployed in substantial numbers, and the USSR continued to maintain a non-mobile ICBM force of the (approximate present) size, the U.S. would have acquired — through both MX and Minuteman improvements — an apparent capability to destroy much of the Soviet ICBM force in a first strike, just as the Soviet Union (develops) one threatening the Minuteman force."

There are new arguments against the first-strike option besides the standard one that any use of nuclear weapons by either side would lead to disaster. One is Israel's success in Lebanon against Soviet weapons, which suggests that the United States and its allies can defend themselves with conventional weapons. Another is the anti-nuclear movement. As the March 3 memo noted: "European fears ... can only increase as long as the U.S. is perceived to be building weapons with a first-strike capability."

Now the prestigious MX commission has taken a small step to remove the fear of a U.S. first strike.

ALWAYS PREPARED: How, you may have wondered, did President Reagan happen to have a large plaster foot, complete with bullet hole, to present to James Watt shortly after the interior secretary "shot himself in the foot" by denouncing the Beach Boys rock band? Because David Gergen, the White House communications director, is a man of foresight.

Recognizing the limitless potential for public gaffes in the upper reaches of the administration, Gergen had acquired the plaster foot weeks earlier to present to the next perpetrator. So when Michael Deaver, the White House deputy chief of staff, was casting around for a way to defuse the Watt faux pas with a touch of humor, Gergen produced the foot.

Gergen, a source said, has "a whole closet full of things" that can be used to cover future embarrassments.

DIPLOMATIC DIGEST: Surinam's military dictator, Col. Desie Bouterse, is edging ever closer to Fidel Castro. The Cuban dictator flew Bouterse to the non-aligned summit in India on a Soviet-made Ilyushin jet. Also aboard with Castro and Bouterse was Maurice Bishop, leftist leader of Grenada.

— Hungary's communist boss, Janos Kadar, has skillfully used non-Marxist concepts like private enterprise and freedom of travel as a means of keeping his people in line, without bringing down the Kremlin's wrath. Now, intelligence analysts say, he's using sexual freedom to divert potential young dissidents. Teen-age promiscuity is rampant in Hungary, as is abortion, and the Kadar regime just lets it happen. Western experts suggest that Kadar is betting that sex will act as a sort of political cold shower for Hungary's frustrated youth.

SPEAKING OUT

Something big's about to happen

EDITOR'S NOTE: Nancy Doss is past president of the Junior Women's Club of Midland. She has lived in Midland for nine years, having moved from Houston.

Something big is about to happen in Midland, and for a good reason. It has happened before and hopefully will happen again. Large fancy invitations will not be sent in the mail asking for a large fancy donation. It requires no formal attire, maybe a pair of comfortable walking shoes. Read about it in the newspaper, hear about it on television, and see it advertised in store windows. Everyone over 12 years of age is invited. It is a Sunday afternoon to get out of the house ... it's the 14th Annual Parade of Homes, sponsored by the Midland Junior Women's Club.

Nancy Doss

In an effort to support one of Midland's most important organizations dealing with one of Midland's largest problems, that of drug and alcohol abuse, the Junior Women's Club voted unanimously again to donate all funds derived from the Parade of Homes this year to the Palmer Drug Abuse Program (PDAP). In previous years the Junior Women's Club has donated funds to the Cole Park Zoo, Visual Aids News Mobile (VAN), Mental Health-Mental Retardation Training Center and Midland Memorial Hospital Infant Care Fund.

Since 1979, PDAP has received funds from the Parade of Homes. That was the same year that the Junior Women's Club and the Junior League of Midland, Inc. were instrumental in bringing the PDAP staff to Midland to establish an office in the West Texas area. Why PDAP again this year? In a recent Anti-Substance Abuse Rally held at the Chaparral Center, "Take It To Heart," Mayor Thane Akins announced before a crowd of 3,000 people that Midland had a drug and alcohol problem. That's no news to most anyone.

Because of their availability, mind-changing chemicals and alcohol have become a common occurrence among youth. A young person's whole life becomes drugs, making him an emotional cripple. Drugs keep a person from being aware. Rather than coping and growing, a young person becomes frustrated and problems become magnified. It is then that drugs become an escape, not an experience.

PDAP is geared to step in at any level of drug dependency and offer a youth or adult a solution to the problems of mind-changing chemicals. The one requirement is the desire to lead a drug-free life. The cure has to do with lifestyle: PDAP helps its participants learn to live and succeed as an alternative to artificially coping with life through drug misuse.

Drugs are now the accepted social norm among most young groups and the problem is reaching younger ages than ever before. The Junior Women's Club, a group of 65 women, mostly young mothers, feels a strong link to PDAP and its outreach to the youth of Midland. It is the aim of the Junior Women's Club to back such an outstanding organization through the Parade of Homes.

On April 24, five of Midland's loveliest homes will be open to the public for touring. They are the homes of: Mr. and Mrs. Gary Glasscock, 4501 Green Tree Blvd.; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Williams, 4503 Green Tree Blvd.; Mr. and Mrs. David Pine, 5426 Basswood Circle; Mr. and Mrs. John Vance, 3900 Godfrey; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wright, 8 Hialeah. The hours for the parade are 1-5 p.m. Tickets may be purchased in advance only from any Junior Women's Club member for $7.50 each ... a small price to pay for the services rendered by PDAP.

Friends deliver at nearly same time

GALVESTON (AP) — Two women, best friends since seventh grade, delivered babies within 18 minutes of each other in a Galveston hospital this weekend.

Debbie Lofaro and Jeanene Lee said Monday that coincidence, not conspiracy, brought on the nearly simultaneous births. Each of the 22-year-olds became a mother for the first time early Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital.

Ms. Lofaro's baby, 11 days overdue, was born at 12:34 a.m. Ms. Lee's, born at 12:52 a.m., was two weeks premature.

The women said they shared adjoining labor rooms and yelled back and forth to see how the other was doing.

"We were more concerned about each other than ourselves," Ms. Lofaro said. "She was having a hard time. It helped me get my mind off myself."

Ms. Lofaro's 8 pound, 12 ounce daughter was delivered by Caesarean section. Ms. Lee gave birth to a 7 pound, 2 ounce boy.

The mothers said they have talked about having a combined birthday party for their babies next year.

Former teacher sentenced for biting

HOUSTON (AP) — A former middle school science teacher pleaded guilty Monday to an assault charge for striking and biting an assistant principal, a prosecutor said.

Anthony Williams, 28, was sentenced to a year's probation and fined $200 in the Dec. 1 assault on Herbert Hudson. Hudson had just conferred with parents complaining about Williams' teaching, prosecutor Michael Anderson said.

Hudson was hit in the lip and bitten on the stomach, Anderson said. The Houston school board approved firing Williams last month.

Pipeline company to move offices

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Gas Transmission Corp., an interstate gas pipeline company, plans to move its corporate headquarters and part of its staff to Houston from Owensboro, Ky., this summer, officials announced.

Chairman and President Dennis Hendrix, Executive Vice President Richard Leatherwood and J. Derrill Cody, senior vice president and general counsel, along with several department directors and support staff will be moved.

The company employees about 8,500 people in six states.

Founded in 1945, Texas Gas Transmission operates a 5,900-mile network that transports gas from the Gulf of Mexico and Texas-Louisiana coasts to customers in Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois.

The company has a net income in 1982 of $113.5 million on revenues of $2.9 billion.

Service slated

MASON (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled today for an agent of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, who was killed in a single-car accident about three miles south of here on U.S. Highway 87.

Joseph D. "Joe" Munoz, 29, of Abilene, was pronounced dead at the scene after the accident Saturday night.

'Lemon' buyers may get new car

AUSTIN (AP) — Car buyers could get another car or partial refund if they got stuck with a "lemon" under a bill that has cleared the Texas Senate.

The Senate on Monday approved a measure that would let the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission order new car dealers and manufacturers to replace "lemon" vehicles or refund the purchase price.

An amendment specified that the customer also could collect the sales tax, registration and other fees associated with buying the vehicle.

Budget cuts cause disgust

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesmen for the handicapped are accusing the Reagan administration of using a backdoor method to undercut the rights of handicapped Americans.

They said they felt double-crossed upon learning Monday that the Justice Department has advised federal agencies that they need not undertake "undue financial or administrative burdens" to open their programs to handicapped people.

Under pressure from a federal judge in Los Angeles, Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, head of the Justice Department's civil rights division, sent 91 federal agencies a prototype regulation for use in drafting their own regulations to enforce Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

Section 504 prohibits discrimination against handicapped people.

Reagan warned by advisers

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House advisers caution President Reagan that if there is no compromise with Congress on a fiscal 1984 budget plan, federal deficits will stay high and the economic recovery will be threatened.

David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, on Monday gave Reagan a stark description of the consequences of a lengthy deadlock with Senate Republicans on key budget issues, according to sources who spoke on condition that they remain anonymous.

The focus of the budget fight is now on the Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee, whose members are in disagreement over whether to allow for an increase in taxes next year.

Reagan opposes any but a nominal tax increase for 1984 and 1985.

'Convert' cleans up as convict

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A 22-year-old man who had just been baptized stole the minister's wallet and went on a forgery spree, police said.

During the weeks since the theft, Emmanuel Bruce Robinson forged four checks before being caught last Friday trying to pass a fifth check from the Rev. Ivory Heard's account, said detective Eddie Clark.

At a baptism in late March, Robinson was the fifth of about 15 people to be baptized by Heard at the Zion Baptist Church, Clark said.

When Robinson went to change into dry clothes, he spotted Heard's wallet, containing $210, and stole it from the dressing room, Clark said.

Man admits floating body

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A 32-year-old man has changed his plea to guilty of second-degree murder for the January slaying of a woman whose body was found floating in a crudely built coffin in Mission Bay.

Superior Court Judge Donald W. Smith set a May 16 sentencing date for Ned Riviere, who changed his plea Monday and agreed to testify against his co-defendant, Robert Floyd "Biker Bob" Davis.

Riviere and Davis, 27, were charged in the death of Gisella Affeldt, 28, of El Cajon. Her body was found by water skiers on Jan. 6 in a wooden box near Fiesta Island.

Riviere testified in his trial that he was under the influence of amphetamines when he struck the victim with a hammer in his garage. When his wife heard the woman moaning, Davis volunteered to finish the crime, Riviere testified.

Crop-dusting farmer kills bull

BOISE CITY, Okla. (AP) — A farmer crop-dusting his fields said he ran into a ton of trouble when his airplane hit a neighbor's bull.

Billy J. Witten, 45, said he was flying his Cessna C-188 on Monday morning and "harassing the bull with the airplane," in an effort to move the animal away from an area to be sprayed.

Hollings to run for U.S. president

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina says he is undaunted by those who say Jimmy Carter has spoiled the White House for a Southerner or that President Reagan could be tough to beat if the economy improves.

Hollings, who joined five other Democrats for the presidential nomination Monday, has said all along that Jimmy Carter is a problem, but is as much of a hangup for Walter Mondale as anyone.

He said Reagan is hurting himself by shutting down government programs and beefing up defense.

"We'll just have to prove that this country has outgrown (the regionalism of) Jimmy Carter and Fritz Hollings and gone beyond that to choosing the most competent person for the job," the senator said during a question and answer session at the National Press Club.

Talking with reporters on a press plane between South Carolina and Washington, Hollings said even if the economy improves, "I don't agree that Reagan is going to be a hard man to beat."

The senator, whose campaign has raised $450,000 so far, said he has until January to overcome his image as a "dark horse." He said if he doesn't finish a strong second to Mondale in the New Hampshire primary, he will be in trouble.

The senator joins Mondale, Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Gary Hart of Colorado, and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew in the Democratic nomination race. Ohio Sen. John Glenn is scheduled to announce Thursday.

Kennedy won't visit Dallas

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy has declined to speak at the United Auto Workers convention next month in Dallas because of traumatic memories about his brother's assassination there, says UAW President Douglas A. Fraser.

Fraser on Monday quoted the senator as saying that he had not set foot in Dallas since President John F. Kennedy was slain by Lee Harvey Oswald on Nov. 22, 1963.

"He made a point of the fact that this year would be the 20th anniversary of the assassination," Fraser said.

No replacement for Kennedy at the Dallas convention has been chosen, Fraser said, adding, "We understand why he would rather not (speak there)."

Kennedy, D-Mass., indicated no ill feelings toward Texas or Dallas in declining the UAW invitation, Fraser said.

Kennedy addressed UAW conventions in 1972 in Atlantic City, N.J., and in 1977 in Los Angeles.

Midland Cub Bill Hatcher (12) slides into second base at Cubs Stadium Monday night with a stolen base as San Antonio's Pat Sheehy fails to come up with the throw. The Cubs went on to win the Texas League contest 14-13.

Scores soar as Cubs add to streak

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

The USFL must be looking at Texas League wishing it could score points like Midland scores runs.

The Cubs shoved over a couple of ninth inning runs for a come-from-behind win over San Antonio's Dodgers 14-13 at Cubs Stadium Monday night. It was Midland's third straight win. The others were over Beaumont by 15-8 and 8-7 margins and the last game the Cubs lost was by 16-14. USFL scores are an anemic sounding 7-3, 9-7, 10-7 and the new football league couldn't be blamed if it was envious.

For a team that came home in a batting slump, that's a lot of runs. 53 in four games. That would be great, except that the Cub pitchers have given up 44 in the same stretch. This from a team that was supposed to be strong on pitching this season.

"I STILL think our pitching will be all right," maintains Manager Tom Harmon. "Ron Richardson is a lot better pitcher than he has shown so far. He's not getting the proper release on his fast ball and he's not getting his breaking ball over the plate.

"But I've had Ron throughout the organization and I'm confident he'll come around."

Ron got through 3⅔ innings, three more than he did in his previous start, and gave up eight runs. Even so, he lowered his earned run average from 45.00 to 25.00, which is something he may be able to laugh about later, but not right now.

MIDLAND led 10-2 after two, jumping on Sid Fernandez, billed as the next Fernando Valenzuela, and couldn't make it stand up. San Antonio led 12-10 after Franklin Stubbs yanked his third homer of the season down the right field line for three runs, capping a four-run rally in the sixth. But the Cubs tied it with two in the eighth and after the Dodgers forged ahead 13-12 in the ninth, the Cubs pulled it out.

It was a single by Bruce Chaney, a force out, and singles by Bill Hatcher and Rick Baker that produced one run. After Tom Lombarski walked, Pedro Alexander relieved Ernesto Borbon. Third baseman See fought off Mike Anicich's wicked shot, recovered and threw home, too late to catch Hatcher's 84-steal speed.

The win went to Ray Soff who faced just one batter, Cecil Espy, and threw an inning-ending double play ball after the Dodgers had scored off Ken Pryce.

HATCHER AND Baker not only played an important role in the ninth, but they contributed a double and triple, respectively, to the two-run seventh that tied it.

And Tommy Johnson, who broke out of his slump with three hits and three rbi, started that rally with a single.

"Those two (Hatcher and Baker) have been sparks," says Harmon. "And Trey Brooks has been phenomenal, driving in the big run. But, really, it's hard to single any one out. Everybody has been doing his part.

"I don't like to lose a 10-2 lead, but you've got to admire the way these guys keep scrapin' back. We seem to play better when we're behind."

BRUIN BREWIN'S—Darrel Banks (1-0) will pitch for Midland in tonight's 7 p.m. game while the Dodgers will counter with Ken Howell (2-0, 2.12). Cub catcher Don Hyman was one for two against the Dodgers, who had swiped 12 in 13 previous attempts. "I think when he threw out the runner in the eighth, it was the big play of the game," said Harmon. "It was the lead off batter and it eased the pressure on Pryce." Brooks and Baker both had three rbi while Stubbs led SA with four. Cal Emery, roving batting coach for Chicago, arrived in Midland about the same time the Cubs began scoring runs.

Rangers shock rival Islanders

By The Associated Press

As three-time National Hockey League champions, a lot is expected of the New York Islanders. So when they falter a bit, it catches people by surprise.

And when they play well and lose, it's all a bit shocking.

The Islanders won the first two games of their Patrick Division final series with their local rivals, the Rangers, and seemed in total command of the Stanley Cup quarterfinal series. Then the scene switched to Madison Square Garden and the Rangers came alive at home.

Monday night, the Rangers deadlocked the best-of-seven series at two games apiece with a 3-1 victory behind the stellar goaltending of Ed Mio. The Islanders played like champions, but so did the Rangers, who got goals from rookie George McPhee in the first period and from Mark Pavelich and Reijo Ruotsalainen in the third.

"We probably played well enough to win," said Islanders center Butch Goring. "I felt like we didn't deserve to lose. But I guess we also didn't deserve to win. Go figure it out."

Mio had the Islanders figured out most of the way, losing his shutout with only 1:38 remaining when Greg Gilbert scored from a goalmouth scramble.

"I got a lot of help out there, the forwards coming back, the defensemen taking them out of the play," said Mio, who made 35 saves. "The shutout would have been nice but wasn't important. I'm glad they scored their goal so late. I sort of knew we'd need more than the one goal."

McPhee got the first goal 2:51 into the contest, taking a pass from Ron Duguay and putting a wrist shot past Isles goalie Roland Melanson, who also was outstanding. Until Pavelich scored at 10:40 of the third period, the goalies frustrated every effort by the offenses — and there were plenty of them.

Black Hawks 4, North Stars 3.

Chicago rallied from a 3-0 deficit on two goals by Tom Lysiak and one by Doug Wilson. The Hawks then dominated the overtime, outshooting the North Stars 11-5 and getting the winning goal from Rich Preston at 10:34. After Preston knocked in the puck, he crashed into the goal post.

Bruins 6, Sabres 2

Boston evened its series at Buffalo as Rick Middleton and Barry Pederson skated around and through the Sabres. Middleton came within a point of the Stanley Cup record for most points in a game — set by Wayne Gretzky Sunday night — with two goals and four assists. Pederson added two goals and three assists as Boston moved out of a 2-2 tie on Middleton's second goal at 12:04 and never looked back.

Flames 6, Oilers 5

Calgary stayed alive despite three goals in the last 10 minutes by the potent Oilers and a late penalty the Flames had to kill off. Paul Reinhart scored two power-play goals to lead the Flames. Ken Linseman scored two of the goals during Edmonton's third-period comeback.

"We're not going to say that you have to win four in a row," said Reinhart. "We're saying you have to win four games in this series and it just happens it's going to have to be four in a row."

NC State goes for 5-6 Webb

Anthony "Spud" Webb will stretch to his full five feet, six inches and sign a basketball letter of intent to play for NCAA champion North Carolina State today, ending the suspense.

The junior college All-America who led Midland College to the NJCAA title last year said, "I visited the campus over the weekend, liked it and saw no need to drag it out by visiting other schools."

With head coach Jim Valvano incapacitated by a hernia operation, assistant coach Tom Abatemarco will be in Midland for the signing.

Webb also visited Bradley University in Peoria, Ill., but admitted, "I felt more comfortable in Raleigh. They told me they wanted me to play point guard."

Southern Illinois, and Oklahoma City University were among other schools to court the sophomore from Dallas. "And I'm sure more offers would have come in, once it became known that Spud wasn't committed to North Texas State," said MC Coach Jerry Stone.

After MC's national championship last year, Webb signed with NTSU, but then changed his mind and decided to return to MC. When the North Texas coaching job became open last month, Stone was rumored as a prime candidate and it was assumed that he would take Webb with him, if he took the job.

Webb is MC's third All-America in three years. Six-eight Charles Johnson made it in 1981 and was signed by Texas Tech. Last year it was forward Puntus Wilson, who signed with the University of Arizona.

From this year's Region V championship team, Stone said five players probably would sign with Division I teams. Six-10 Earnest Harris has already signed with the University of Alabama-Birmingham. Nate Bufford is reportedly heading for Southern Illinois, while Jerome Crowe is being courted by a Louisiana college. Six-six Chester Smith is reportedly considering several options.

Benoit's thunder sets Boston record

BOSTON (AP) — On a cool day when Greg Meyer sped to a Boston Marathon victory in the third fastest time for the 87-year-old race, Joan Benoit stole some of his thunder by obliterating the women's world record.

"Joanie is one of the best athletes in the world, not just among women," said Meyer. "It's time people recognized that."

Benoit set a blistering pace Monday to finish in two hours, 22 minutes, 43 seconds, shaving nearly three minutes off the women's best of 2:25:29. She led most of the way and won by almost seven minutes.

"I don't think it's hit me yet. It will probably hit me tomorrow when I can't get out of bed," said Benoit, who won the 1979 Boston Marathon in 2:35:15.

Meyer's only other Boston Marathon was in 1981, when he led from the 16th mile to the 19th mile before fading to an 11th-place finish.

"I took the lead just about where I lost it two years ago," said Meyer, whose winning time was 2:09:00. "In 1981, I think I made some mistakes and let the course destroy me. We planned for this race."

Meyer, a Grand Rapids, Mich., native now living in Wellesley, Mass., and Benoit, a Portland, Maine, native living in Watertown, Mass., didn't disappoint the forecasters who had installed them as heavy favorites in a field of 6,515 official entrants, including 5,814 men and 701 women.

"I felt it a lot this week," Meyer said of the pressure of being the favorite. "I think I handled it well. I won so it must not have hurt me."

Meyer has won four of his seven marathons. He also has been victorious in his last five races at varying distances.

Ron Tabb, of Eugene, Ore., finished second in 2:09:32, followed by Benji Durden, of Stone Mountain, Ga.

Bill Rodgers, seeking his fifth Boston Marathon win in 10 tries, had a cold last week and finished the 26-mile, 385-yard race in 10th place in 2:11:58.

"I was thinking maybe this will be my last marathon so I should try to finish," Rodgers said. "I'm already thinking about the next one."

He missed qualifying for the World Track and Field Championships in Helsinki, Finland, Aug. 7-14. The top three finishers Monday qualified, but Meyer said he would concentrate on the 10-kilometer race and didn't plan to participate in the marathon in Helsinki.

Brewers blank Bosox, scoreless streak climbs

By The Associated Press

Charlie Moore drove in three runs and collected four of Milwaukee's 22 hits while Don Sutton scattered six hits over seven innings as the Brewers routed Boston 14-0, stretching the Red Sox's scoreless streak to 25 innings.

Paul Molitor, Robin Yount, Cecil Cooper and Roy Howell each got three hits for the Brewers, who set a club record of 10 hits in the ninth inning when they scored seven runs. Rookie Mike Brown took the loss.

Also in the American League, Ron Guidry fired a two-hitter and Jerry Mumphrey hit a two-run triple as the New York Yankees defeated Toronto 3-0. Rick Dempsey drove in two runs and Jim Dwyer homered as Baltimore beat Cleveland 4-1 and Randy Bush and Mickey Hatcher had two RBI apiece in Minnesota's 8-5 victory over Seattle.

In a late AL game, Mike Davis' two-run single highlighted a four-run third inning as the Oakland A's beat California 5-3. Reggie Jackson homered for the Angels.

In the National League, Gene Richards capped a four-run second inning with a two-run single, and Steve Garvey hit his second homer of the year to lead the San Diego Padres to a 10-3 victory over Atlanta.

San Francisco reliever Greg Minton walked the bases loaded in the ninth inning, then Ken Landreaux's grounder broke a tie and gave Los Angeles a 4-3 victory over the Giants.

In an early NL game, Gary Matthews' solo homer and Mike Schmidt's two-run blast in the third inning helped power the Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Express robs Bandits

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Los Angeles Express literally stole an 18-13 victory over Tampa Bay with four interceptions and a fumble recovery, and Bandits Coach Steve Spurrier says that's what bothers him most.

"It always hurts to lose," Spurrier said Monday night following the United States Football League game. "It really hurts when you feel like you've beaten yourself."

Vince Abbott kicked three field goals and John Barnett scored Los Angeles' first touchdown on the ground as the Express improved its record to 4-3 before a Tampa Stadium crowd of 32,223.

The loss was the second in three weeks for the 5-2, Central Division-leading Bandits and was reminiscent of the 42-3 beating Chicago administered here April 2.

"Once again we were disappointing offensively," said Spurrier. "We just made too many mistakes."

Chicago's Luther Bradley intercepted six passes when the Blitz demolished the Bandits. Monday night, Los Angeles' Tim Fox was on the catching end of three of the four interceptions thrown by Bandits' quarterback John Reaves.

Reaves, who left the game in the fourth quarter with a broken wrist that is expected to sideline him for six weeks, also fumbled to set up Barnett's 1-yard scoring run.

For the fifth consecutive year the Midland High girls' golf team has won the district 4-5A title and will be making a trip to Lubbock for the Region I playoffs Wednesday and Thursday. Coach Mary Baird's (top right) team is led by senior Kelle Mobley (top left), junior Darla Smith (top center) while Stacy Owens, Kristie Raney and Pam Emerson (front row from left) are all sophomores.

Bulldogs hope to shake skid

The Midland High Bulldogs, bolstered by the return of hard-hitting centerfielder Tim Davis, will be looking to break a two-game District 4-5A losing streak today when they host Odessa High at Memorial Stadium diamond.

Davis, lost to the Bulldogs on March 15 against Odessa Permian with a separated shoulder while trying to break up a double play, made his 4-5A return Saturday a dramatic one by collecting his first two hits of the season, both home runs over the left field fence against Abilene Cooper in a 7-6 defeat. Now the Bulldog faithful are looking for more of the same while Coach Tim Whalen is looking for a way to improve his team's 3-7 record.

"He was hitting the ball pretty good," said Whalen about Davis. "The first time up he lunged at the ball. He was a little over anxious and hit it to the third baseman. But, on the next two he looked pretty good.

"The last time we played them (Odessa High) we played horribly and they didn't make many mistakes. The pitcher just threw strikes and we couldn't hit the ball and we certainly didn't play much defense. Now, we're going to go out and attempt to hit the ball and play a little defense. Other than that, I'm at a loss. I've given up trying to outsmart these kids."

The problem Whalen seems to be having this year at Midland High is inconsistancy. In the few games they've won since 4-5A play began, they combined hitting, fielding and pitching and looked good while doing it. But, in some of their losses...

Getting Davis back is bound to help. Not only is he a three-year starter at Midland High, but he's a returning All-District player who could still impress enough people in the final four games of the season to make the elite team again.

THE MIDLAND Lee Rebels took few chances in their game Saturday against Abilene High, using 21 hits for 12 runs in the first inning enroute to a 19-2, 24-hit victory to snap a three-game losing streak that kept them in sole possession of second place at 7-3, one game behind San Angelo at 8-2.

"It was enjoyable," said Coach Ernie Johnson about the sudden barrage of hitting. "I think only one of those hits was a pop up that could have been caught. Their third baseman took a beating, bad hops over his head, bad hops into his shoulder and diving for balls down the line."

For the Rebels, today's opponent is Odessa Permian on the Panther's home field. "I look forward to playing Permian," said Johnson. "They've improved since the first time we played them."

Barry Blackwell, with a .594 average, will lead a strong Lee lineup at the plate. All told, the Rebels have six hitters with legitimate .300-plus averages (20 or more at bats).

Buy A Carrier Now. The Price Is Right 'Cause The Time Is Wrong.

O.K., we admit it. Things are pretty quiet for us right now. Even quieter than our Carrier Universal Round One central air conditioner. The Universal Round One really sells in the summer. That's because it has high efficiency ratings. It's super compact. All top quality for real reliability. It's a great value at its regular summer price. But because things are so quiet now, you can buy it for just $695

That's for the 24,000 Btuh size, model 38EB024. Other sizes comparably low. Installation labor, parts and accessories not included.
Get a great price now while the time is still wrong!

"BRIERCROFT SAVINGS MAY NOT BE IN A CLASS BY ITSELF. BUT IT SURE DON'T TAKE LONG TO CALL THE ROLL."

"Let's talk about West Texas for a minute. This sprawling place had to crawl before it could walk. And, years ago, back in those crawling days, Briercroft Savings was here to help coach it along. Briercroft Savings is one of West Texas' roots. If you've lived here long enough — mighty long — you remember it. And after all these years, they're still doing things right. Booming right along with the rest of the state. But never too big for their britches.

You see, Briercroft Savings didn't get to where they are by being confusing with a lot of high fallutin' talk, or by offering savings plans that were hard to understand. They did it by being up front about what's what and what's not. So, if you're confused by all that's going on around you, come on over and see some just plain folks. They're still dependable. Still doing business like they ought to. And I'm here to tell you that you can depend on 'em. Or my name's not Bum Phillips."

Spaniards might want to reconsider name

By CYNTHIA KASABIAN
Hearst Feature Service

Given the performance of California's economy in the last few years, the Spaniards who named the state after an imaginary island of earthly paradise might want to reconsider. The state of plenty has — along with the rest of the nation — turned scarce.

"For years, economists talked about California outperforming the nation. It was a recession-proof economy. It lost that label this time around," Michael Salkin, senior economist at the Bank of America, said.

During this recession, California's unemployment rate once again surpassed the national rate, its housing industry plummeted, and even its formerly healthy high-technology industry suffered.

Nonetheless, things are looking up, although not with the relative strength of the national economic recovery.

"Although California has seen some pick-up, there is less of a rebound here than nationally," said Ted Gibson, senior economist at Crocker Bank.

Here are how some major industries are faring:

HOUSING: The "real engine" of the recovery for the national economy, said Gibson, appears to be housing. Housing starts nationally have increased dramatically. However, California contributed less to that statistic than it once did. Between 1975 and 1980, on average, California accounted for about 11 percent of the nation's homebuilding, Gibson said. During 1981 and 1982, it fell to about 8 percent. However, during the last three months, California housing starts have picked up significantly, as have related industries such as building materials, lumber and production.

"The recovery should be quite strong in these areas over the next year," Gibson said. However, he noted that housing in California isn't expected to bounce back as rapidly as housing nationwide because of the state's large inventory of unsold homes and their high prices relative to income.

In February, the median sales price of a home in California was $112,000 — 65 percent higher than the $68,000 median for the nation.

"You can be sure wages in California aren't that much higher," Salkin said. Household income for California averages about $35,000, while it's about $30,000 for the nation.

But there are indications that existing home sales are picking up as well. Marilyn Budreau, a Century 21 real estate agent in Millbrae, said business has increased dramatically in the past few months. "Our volume in this office has probably tripled from what it was last year," said Budreau. "Homes that were on the market six to eight months are selling now."

HIGH-TECHNOLOGY: Boosted by defense spending, the high-technology industry is expected to be a bright light in the state's recovery, leading to increased investment and employment. About 20 percent of the government defense appropriations go to California companies, Salkin said. This, plus the increasing strength of the economy, should help the high-tech industry. However, it will be hampered somewhat by foreign competition.

"I think that there is too much optimism that because we have Silicon Valley that means California will do enormously better than the rest of the country. We aren't going to put all the auto workers laid off in Fremont (at the General Motors plant) back to work as electrical engineers for Hewlett-Packard," said Michael Boskin, director of the Palo Alto office of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Currently, California employs about 694,000 in the high-technology sector. Approximately 216,000 of those jobs are in the Bay Area, according to Mario Menchini, head of economics for Northern California at Security Pacific National Bank.

Although Menchini expects the high-tech industry to grow, there has been at least one major sign of decreasing enthusiasm for Silicon Valley: In February, Atari Inc. announced it would lay off 1,700 employees by mid-summer and move its production of video game machines and computers to existing facilities in Taiwan and Hong Kong.

AUTO INDUSTRY: Like the rest of the nation, California's auto workers have seen tough times, and it's unlikely that most of those who have been laid off will be reemployed in that industry when the state's economy is healthy again. Employment in the motor vehicles and equipment sector of California has shrunk from a peak of about 50,000 in 1979 to the current number of 25,000, Menchini said. It's likely to contract further.

"There will be a lot of auto workers who will not be called back to work," Salkin said. "Over half the cars bought in this state are imported, so there isn't the need in California to manufacture as many as before."

AGRICULTURE: Agriculture, which in California employs about 338,000, is expected to do well.

"Generally, I think life for producers will be a little easier," Salkin said. "Interest rates are down, credit is more available, farm machinery is less expensive and fuel costs are down."

However, like other recovering sectors, it won't be without problems. "Agriculture will continue to have problems exporting with an overvalued dollar," Boskin said.

RETAIL SALES: While expected to improve, retail sales increased only 1 percent last year in California, while rising 4 percent for the nation.

"A major factor in retail sales drop-off was the drop-off in tourism, and in Southern California, the Mexico peso devaluation problem," Gibson said.

Menchini said that as housing rebounds, retail sales will improve as people buy drapes, appliances and other related products. He added that while employment in the retail sector was 1.7 million last month, down 10,000 from March 1982, it has improved since December's 1.6 million.

TOURISM: A major California industry, tourism is expected to grow primarily due to an increase in domestic travel. But because of the relatively strong dollar, foreign travel (people from abroad coming here) isn't expected to pick up significantly until next year.

SERVICES: The largest employer in California is the service sector, which includes health, amusement, business and personal employment. Unlike most other sectors, it showed a slight increase in employment — two-tenths of a percent — from March of 1982 to March of 1983, when 2.3 million were employed.

UNEMPLOYMENT: California's unemployment rate is ahead of the nation's, though last month it dropped to 10.6 percent from 11.2 in February. This brought it closer to the national unemployment rate of 10.3 percent in March.

"Unemployment in California will remain worse than the nation," said Joseph Wahed, chief economist at Wells Fargo Bank. "This year it will fluctuate between 10 percent and 11 percent. Nationally, it'll be between 9.5 percent and 10.5 percent."

Typically, unemployment is slow to decline at the beginning of a recovery. And this time, it is likely to decline even more slowly because of a basic restructuring of many industries.

"Corporations that have made personnel cuts will not be in a hurry to replace those employees, because in many cases they were permanent cuts," said Wahed, noting that the financial services, energy and airline industries have gone through deregulation in the past few years.

Wahed added that "we'll be lucky" if California adds 100,000 new jobs this year, while in the boom of 1978, California added nearly 600,000 new jobs. "It's the structural changes which cause the slow growth in jobs, but as we get closer to 1984, we'll see more and more corporations hiring."

ARCO 're-branding' autarkic gas stations

By The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

LOS ANGELES — Oil giant Atlantic Richfield Co. has carved a piece of the independent market with an agreement to "re-brand" 30 or more Thrifty service stations as Arco outlets, industry sources said Monday.

Arco and Downey, Calif.-based Thrifty, one of the nation's leading independent gasoline marketers, confirmed that they have reached an agreement but declined to provide any details. Independent marketers are those that, unlike the integrated major companies such as Arco, do not have extensive oil refining, production and exploration activities.

The service stations will continue to be owned by Thrifty but will sell Arco brand gasoline and other products. Customers in the "re-branded" stations are not likely to notice any difference between them and other Arco outlets. The stations will operate under Arco signs, with Arco logos on the pumps.

Although it is not unusual for an independent oil company to re-brand a handful of its stations, not many have undertaken as large a re-branding effort as Thrifty's, sources said.

"In our neck of the woods, this is big news," one independent oil company official commented.

Sources at other independent oil companies said such deals with major oil companies are likely to grow more common because of continuing shortages of "unbranded gasoline".

Midland contractors issued 95 permits

Builders and developers were issued 95 building permits April 4 through 15 by the city of Midland, for construction projects including the 11-story Internorth Building, Wendy's restaurant, a Nautical Wheeler steak and seafood restaurant with lounge, and 51 single family residences.

Value of the planned construction totals $12,455,390. This brings the total construction valuations in Midland for 1983 to date to $55,381,185.

Topping the list of permits issued was one to Kajima International Inc. for an 11-story office and parking garage at 101 N. Pecos. The building, already announced as the Internorth Building, has an estimated value of $7.2 million.

Other commercial or commercial alteration permits went to: Steineman Inc., expand M-System grocery, Northland Shopping Center, $61,000; Young Construction, new 7-Eleven, 4601 North "A", $80,000; Chapman Construction, control house for TESCO, 113 E. Elm, $30,000; Rod Stephenson, alter office, 10th floor, Paragon, 600 N. Marienfeld, $20,000; Kirkpatrick Kontractors, alter office in the Summit, 300 N. Marienfeld, $75,000; Rod Stephenson, First National Bank auto bank, 904 N. Loop 250.

Larry Hanson, The Nautical Wheeler, an 8,000 square foot steak and seafood restaurant, 1002 N. Lop 250 near Saddle Club Apartments, $300,000; Knight Home Builders, 1012-1028 Andrews Highway, family medical center for Drs. Rhode, $10,000; Brice Construction, First National Bank auto bank, 112 Spring Park Drive, $35,000; Kemper Construction, one-story office building at 921 North Midland Drive, $75,000; Dan Fender, alter office interior, 3305 W. I-20, $8,000; Larry Lumpkin & Associates, Wendy's Restaurant, 2501 N. Big Spring, $160,000; and HBF Construction, 2000 W. Ohio, doctor's office, $860,000.

Tye city's department of inspections and permits issued 51 permits to build single family residences ranging in price from $30,000 to $195,000.

BOTTOM LINES

IKE LOVELADY INC.
(OTC: IKEL)

The Midland company reported its revenues and net income were down in the first quarter of 1983, ended Jan. 31, compared to the same quarter a year earlier, according to unaudited results.

Revenues were $1,506,858 compared to $1,712,045 a year ago. Net income for the quarter was 24,710, or $0.01 per average share outstanding, versus $269,334 or $0.16 per share in the 1982 quarter. The average number of shares outstanding increased to 1.8 million from 1.7 million a year earlier.

I. W. Lovelady, president, said oil and gas sales dropped to $1,195,000 from $1,238,000 a year ago. Net income was affected by increased depreciation and depletion costs and by a small increase in lease operating costs.

While slightly under the year-earlier total, working capital provided by operations was nearly level, at $705,000. Stockholders' equity at the close of the quarter was $7,559,000, up from $7,030,000 a year ago.

NATURA ENERGY
(OTC: NATU)

The company reports slightly lower revenues and a small net loss for its fiscal year ended December 31, 1982.

Revenues declined 4 percent, to $804,000 from $837,000. For 1982 the net loss was $212,000, or $0.01 per share, compared to net income of $186,000, or $0.01 per share in 1981.

Chris F. Bosecker, president, attributed the lower revenues to reduced gains on sales of unproved properties and drilling arrangements, and to lower management fees, which together more than offset higher oil and gas sales.

Proved gas reserves increased 63 percent to 300 million cubic feet at Dec. 31, 1982, while proved oil reserves declined 19 percent to 50,000 barrels. Future net income from proved reserves, using SEC guidlines of constant pricing, increased 30 percent to $2.37 million.

The present value of future net income, using a 10 percent discount factor, increased 22 percent to $1.48 million.

On March 28, Natura announced a significant oil and gas discovery in Polk County, Texas. Independent petroleum engineers estimate the find could add 20,000 barrels of oil and 278 million cubic feet of gas the the company's reserves. Future net income from these reserves has been estimated at $2.66 million.

AMERICAN QUASAR
(OTC: AQAS)

FORT WORTH — In spite of the company's sale of its Canadian operations in 1981 and curtailment of gas production in 1982, revenues for the year ended Dec. 31 were down by only 7.5 percent, to $54.1 million from $58.5 million in 1981.

Working capital provided by operations was $19.9 million for the year compared to $22.4 million a year earlier.

Net income before federal income tax and non-recurring items for 1982 amounted to $248,000 compared to $87.7 million in 1981. The company thus suffered a loss of $4.7 million, or 25 cents per share, versus net income of $22 million or $1.09 per share, in 1981. Included in the loss was a $6.6 million loss on the investment in Conquest Exploration Company during the year.

Depreciation and amortization rose 15.6 percent in 1982 to $20 million, compared to $17.3 million a year earlier, primarily due to additions to oil and gas properties of $48.6 million in 1982. The company said in 1982 it replaced its produced reserves of 10 billion equivalent feet of natural gas and added net additional reserves of 12.7 billion equivalent cubic feet of gas from exploration and development drilling.

Seafirst floundering

By The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

Seafirst Corp., parent of troubled Seattle-First National Bank, is seeking outside investment, possibly leading to a takeover by another major bank, the company acknowledged Monday.

At least five major U.S. banks and two foreign banks, including New York's Citicorp and San Francisco-based BankAmerica Corp., have expressed interest in acquiring an equity interest in Seafirst, banking industry sources said.

Current law in Washington state would prevent an out-of-state bank holding company from acquiring more than 5 percent of the stock or assets of a bank in that state, but Monday evening the state House of Representatives was debating a Senate-approved bill that would allow non-state banks to acquire an ailing bank in Washington if they satisfied certain provisions.

A Seafirst official said that current law may permit an out-of-state bank to invest in preferred shares that would be convertible into common stock once interstate banking laws are eased. A state official, however, said that such an interpretation might not be allowed.

Eight pipelines OK'd

The Texas Railroad Commission has announced eight permits to operate new pipelines in Texas were granted by the RRC in March. In March 1982, six permits were granted.

Four of the permits were for gathering pipelines, two were for multi-purpose lines, one was for a truck transmission line, and another was for a gas plant line. Gathering lines bring oil and gas from production lases, while a trunk transmission line is a larger diameter line into which smaller lines connect. At gas plants, natural gas is striped of the liquid hydrocarbons usually present in wellhead gas.

Seven of the newly-permitted lines will transport gas, and one will carry products.

TURN THIS KEY & SAVE $19 TO $27 EACH NIGHT ON YOUR ROOM

That's right. We've already added a brand new wing and new conference facilities, and now we're refurbishing the Main Building. And, as our way of saying good-bye to the existing rooms, we're offering a special "Pre-Refurbishing Rate" of $44, single or double, in the Main Building. We may be putting on a new face, but we're upgrading to keep that special Sheraton style and quality. Subject to space availability.

Crawfish cheap to race; can always eat losers

BRIDGE CITY (AP) — The sleek racing steeds are at the starting gates, the racing commissioner holds up his arm and the noisy crowd quiets down.

The commissioner starts the race with words familiar to all racing fans: "Hot boudin and cold couscous, come on, crawfish, push, push, push."

Eight crawfish head for the center of the race track in a dash that brings cheers from the crowd. Some crawfish walk forward, some go backward. Some go in circles and some just sort of sit there as if they were trying to figure out what's going on.

What's going on is crawfish racing, a not-always-serious sport that's a regular feature of dozens of festivals and Cajun gatherings in Southwest Louisiana and Southeast Texas.

Crawfish are humble crustaceans that inhabit swamps, ditches and a growing number of ponds that used to be rice fields in Texas and Louisiana.

Crawfish, sometimes affectionately called mud bugs and sometimes even called crayfish by Yankees and other unfortunates who have not yet been exposed to Cajun culture, are not often known for their speed.

They are, however, much cheaper to raise than thoroughbred horses and as Texas Racing Commissioner A.J. Judice points out, "You can always eat the losers."

Crawfish, sometimes affectionately called mud bugs and sometimes even called crayfish by Yankees and other unfortunates who have not yet been exposed to Cajun culture, are not often known for their speed. They are, however, much cheaper to raise than thoroughbred horses.

Judice has long been involved in a campaign to promote Cajun culture in Texas. That campaign required frequent trips to festivals and fais-do-dos in Louisiana. In 1969 Judice made a fateful trip to Breax Bridge, La., for that city's 100th anniversary celebration. That celebration grew into one of the country's most famous festivals.

It was there that Judice first saw crawfish races. He vowed to return to Breax Bridge with a racing crawfish of his own.

In 1963 Judice's crawfish Tante La-La won the world's championship crawfish race at Breax Bridge. The race was held at 8:30 on a morning after a night of partying and Judice and Tante La-La where the only ones who showed up for the race, but Judice insists that Tante La-La would have won even if she had competition.

That was when Judice met Jim Braud, 59, the owner of a photo store in Port Neches. The two decided to import crawfish racing to Texas. They were soon joined by Buddy Porter, 57, who operates a floor covering business down the street from Braud's store.

Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe once appointed the trio the official crawfish racing commissioners of Texas. Nobody ever appointed any other commissioners or took away their commission, so the three men still consider themselves commissioners and say no crawfish race in Texas is official unless they are there to oversee it.

Crawfish racing in Texas is clean, Judice says. In Louisiana trainers sometimes put hot sauce on their steeds to speed them up, or tempt them to run faster with a promise of boudin, he says.

A significant change in crawfish race tracks surfaced early this year. A recent crawfish festival in Bridge City featured tracks in which the crawfish started on the outside of the track and waddled to the middle.

Always before the crawfish had been set loose in the middle of the track and the first one to reach the outside won.

The new track has made for faster races, Judice says. Before, some smart crawfish would see the smiling Cajuns around the sides of the track and would hesitate to head in their direction. Now the crawfish follow their natural instinct to flee hungry Cajuns.

The racing commissioners have conducted crawfish races at festivals all over Southeast Texas, at the Texas Folklife Festival in San Antonio and even during a seventh-inning stretch at a Houston Astros baseball game.

Braud recently conducted a series of crawfish races at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

The commissioners have even been known to hold crawfish races in the middle of Port Neches Avenue when things get slow around Port Neches.

Armadillo racing may be popular in dryer parts of the state, but when race fans hear, "And they're off!" in Southeast Texas, they know crawfish will be thundering down the track.

Fricke was working on switch points at the intersection of two streets in Galveston in preparation for excursions of the restored historic steam locomotive. Seniors will have chance to compete against peers

Whether they experience the thrill of victory or the soreness of "defeet," Midlanders 50 years and over will enjoy the sheer fun of competition during local senior games, beginning Thursday.

As preliminary events to the Texas Senior Games in Arlington, May 18-21, Midland's Parks and Recreation Department and YMCA are sponsoring local "warm-up" games.

About 1,200 older Texans are expected to participate at the Second Annual Texas Senior Games which will be held at the University of Texas at Arlington.

"Last year over 600 Texans competed, making it the largest first-year turnout for such an event in the United States," said Dorothy Franey Langkop, chairperson of the games and newly appointed first woman president of the U.S. Olympians.

Local events are designed to make senior citizens aware of activities that can be lifetime skills and sports to enjoy and to acquaint seniors with others in their age group who have the same interest.

Local organizations, clubs and individuals will offer 17 of the events that will be held in Arlington.

The local games will be held at the following:

— Basketball (free throw), 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Central YMCA, 800 N. Big Spring St.

— Foot Races — 8 a.m. Saturday, Midland Park Mall.

— Washer Pitching — 2 to 4 p.m., April 26, Central YMCA.

— Billiards — 2:30 p.m., April 26, The Rack, 3200 Andrews Hwy.

— Table Tennis — 1 p.m., April 27, Park Center YMCA, 1509 Orchard Lane.

— Golf — 9 a.m., April 29, Hogan Golf Course.

— Checkers — 9 a.m., April 29, Midland Senior Center, 2500 Delano.

— Forty-Two — 9 a.m., April 29, Midland Senior Center.

— Dancing — 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. April 29, and 2,3 and 4 p.m. April 30, Metropolitan Dance Center, San Miguel Square.

— Swimming — 2 p.m. April 30, corner of Wadley Avenue and A Street.

— Horse Shoes — 2 p.m., April 30, Central YMCA.

— Bridge — 1 p.m., May 2, Allison Bridge Center, 905 W. Wadley Ave.

— Bowling — througout the day until 5 p.m., May 2-7, Dellwood Lanes, Illinois Avenue.

— Walk-a-Thon — 5:30 p.m., May 3, Petro Parcourse, Wadley Avenue.

— Raquetball — 6 p.m., May 5 and 6, Central YMCA.

— Tennis — 9 a.m., May 7, The Midlander, Big Spring Street and Loop 250.

— Bicycle Races — contact Peyton Bikes for details, 684-5984.

Three events — tennis, checkers and forty-two — have preregistration deadlines with tennis at 7 p.m. May 5; checkers, 4 p.m. April 28; and forty-two, 4 p.m. April 28.

Registration for all other events is on the day of the event. An entry fee of $1 will be charged for each event. Entry forms are available at the location of the events, the Parks and Recreation Department at 300 Baldwin St., and the Central YMCA on North Big Spring Street.

Workshop's aim to upgrade government ability

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The "Aggies" broke out of their agricultural stereotype Monday when a specialized cadre of Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX) specialists launched a management workshop for Midland County officials and employees.

The goal is to increase efficiency of the county's 325 employees and elected and appointed officials through workshops on management of time, office and personnel, servicing the public and, when the time comes, operating computers.

Meanwhile, said TAEX's Dr. Uel Stockard in setting the groundwork for the weeklong session, "the challenge is great" to change the citizenry's image of governmental management by upgrading government's efficiency.

"The public's regard of public administration is at a low ebb," he told about 25 county administrators in Midland Center in plotting out the workshop sessions.

Governmental management often is criticized for its "impersonal treatment" of the public and "cases of simple incompetency."

In focusing on the basics of administration in his warm-up lecture, Stockard, TAEX's state leader for county Extension programs, noted that "administration, first of all, is people."

"People have to be present before administration takes place," he said, and there is no administration without action.

Staff Photo by Ron Jaap

Earnest Kiker, Charles Neeb and Dr. Uel Stockard, participate in a management seminar sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Kiker is a Midland County TAEX agent, Neeb is director of the TAEX Far West Texas District and Stockard is TAEX state leader for county extension programs.

"There is no such thing as inactive administration," he said. Effective administration involves "people working together toward a common goal."

In contrasting public and private administrations, Stockard said that there is a "presumed lack of productivity" in public administration, which is subject to "more accountability" and "more rigidity." The private sector is "more flexible" and, unlike public administration, is "profit oriented."

Public officials and administrators are subjected to pressure of the press — "the goldfish bowl syndrome" — and to "time pressures." He noted that free enterprise may devote years to researching and developing a product, such as a compact automobile, while the government, for instance, is expected to implement a pollution-control program within a few months.

Following Stockard's talk, County Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis, a former government schoolteacher, quipped: "I felt like I was in one of my public administration classes."

"We're going through change," Davis said. "You know it and I know no county government is no different...Change is something that some of us don't like to accept but we must."

Davis cited Midland County Agent Sharon Hillis in helping set up the weeklong workshop.

Before other workshop leaders outlined their roles in the workshop, Ms. Hillis observed that "America is on its way to being a service society" in an apparent reference to the diminishing industrialization of the nation. "We do know that we have a communications explosion that we are dealing with today."

Off on a tangent, she noted that Midland city's government today is dealing with street potholes and fading center stripes but that both are being corrected. "We're improving."

TAEX leader, Dr. Dennis Fisher, noted the workshop affords a reverse educational effect — a "great opportunity to educate six Aggies" who are conducting the sessions.

MC trustees will discuss I Street bridge

Midland College trustees are expected to hear reports today on the Senate Education Committee's approval last week of a bill calling for four-year status for the University of Texas of the Permian Basin and the Midland City Council's decision March 30 to replace the I Street bridge linking the MC campus to Wadley Avenue.

Also during the regular meeting that starts at 4 p.m., trustees are expected to give approval to instructional positions and to hear a division presentation and the president's report.

During a meeting of the city council about three weeks ago, a plan was approved for replacing the bridge crossing the Northwest Drainage Channel between the college campus and Wadley Avenue, east of The Hillander School.

The bridge, which does not allow effective drainage from the expanding population in northwest Midland, has been a matter of contention between the city and the college. A gate which allows access to the bridge and campus usually is closed except when a second exit is needed following evening events at the Al G. Langford Chapparal Center.

According to college administrators, policemen hired by the college on those evenings are unwilling to direct traffic from I Street onto the dark and busy Wadley Avenue.

The city council voted to draw plans and seek bids on a new bridge and to seek bids on a traffic signal to govern traffic at the intersection of Wadley Avenue and I Street.

Preliminary estimates for a new bridge are $300,000, according to Fred Baker, public works director. The cost, however, is less than that of a low-water crossing, another alternative.

The traffic light could be set to flash yellow on Wadley Avenue during the day, stopping traffic only when there is a heavy flow from Midland College onto Wadley Avenue.

A bill proposed by Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, which calls for expansion of UTPB to a four-year university and is heavily opposed by MC administrators, was approved Wednesday by the Senate Education Committee in Austin.

About 25 MC supporters and opponents of the bill were present for the 6-2 vote.

MC President Dr. Jess H. Parrish, who testified before the committee, expressed disappointment in the ruling and hopes that it would be defeated by the full Senate.

A similar bill, proposed by Rep. Jay Gibson, D-Odessa, is pending in the House.

MC administrators fear expanding UTPB would decrease the enrollment of freshman and sophomore students at the area's three community colleges.

A cooperative program, which would provide a four-year education between the junior colleges and UTPB, is in the planning stages with a kickoff slated for Thursday evening.

Proponents of the PACAP (Permian Area Cooperative Academic Program) feel the program has not been given a chance to work and should be implemented before UTPB receives four-year status.

House bill would make cities more responsible

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The House of Representatives has defeated legislation proposed by Rep. Frank Eikenburg, R-Plano, to exempt cities from having to remove visual obstructions from the unused portion of a right-of-way.

The Texas Supreme Court, ruling in a case in which a Midland youth was paralyzed and later died following a traffic accident involving obstructed view on a city road, concluded the city had a duty over visual obstructions as well as physical obstructions.

Calvin Keith Jezek, 16 at the time of the accident, was injured in a collision with a pickup at a "blind intersection" at Turner and G.Y. Lee roads in far southwest Midland June 10, 1976. The youth was paralyzed, comatose and suffered "irreversible brain damage." He died Oct. 25, 1978.

Survivors include a granddaughter, Noemi C.S. Lewis of Midland; and a grandson, Daniel E. Sarda of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Man reports house ransacked

Burglary and theft complaints with reported losses in excess of $40,000 are among the cases being investigated by city police today.

Jewelry and assorted household goods worth $24,035 were among the items taken in a break-in at the W.T. Bowen residence, 2600 Sentinel, sometime Monday. Drawers and closets had been ransacked, according to police.

The Neta Dill residence at 901 Princeton also was broken into Monday. Guns, jewelry and silverware worth $14,700 were reported missing. Entry was gained by forcing open a window and a door was found open when the occupants returned home about 11 p.m., police said.

In a theft complaint, all four mag wheels of a 1976 Malibu low-rider owned by Joe Runyens of 4907 Leisure were removed from the vehicle, which was found sitting on its brake drums in the 3100 block of West Storey Avenue. The theft occurred sometime over the weekend. The battery had also been removed, according to police. Total loss was placed at $1,060.

Tools valued at $979 were reported taken in a garage break-in at 600 S. Marienfeld St., and an employee of Regis Hairstylists at 4511 N. Midkiff Road said about $100 in cash was taken from a desk in the beauty salon sometime over the weekend.

Bill would make cities responsible

On Feb. 2, 1978, a Midland jury found the city liable and negligent in not keeping the intersection free of overhanging and obstructing mesquite shrubs and weeds and awarded $975,000 damages to the youth's father.

The Supreme Court upheld the Midland jury's verdict, overturning rulings by the trial court and appellate court which had reversed the jury's decision to award damages.

HB 1874, exempting cities from the responsibility of removing visual obstructions, was defeated on a 51-92 vote Monday. Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman, said the bill would allow cities to ignore obstructions which could lead to deaths and injuries of Eikenburg argued the measure was to restore the law to what it had been before the Supreme Court ruling, pointing to the court's conclusion that imposing such a duty on counties would create an undue burden. The same situation related to cities, he said.

The Jesek settlement hiked the 1982 Midland tax rate by a nickel per $100 valuation for a year's duration until the city recouped the $716,775 it expended to satisfy the judgment and could keep the city solvent and operating.

The House quickly defeated the bill and upheld the Supreme Court ruling, which had been supported by the Texas Municipal League and several cities.

House approves drug legislation

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The House on Monday gave preliminary approval to legislation by Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, relating to sale of prescription drugs by rural doctors.

There was little discussion of HB 1474, which was passed on a voice vote. Final passage of the bill is expected today.

Craddick said the bill was in response to a ruling in 1981 by the attorney general that physicians could not dispense drugs to persons for self-medication without a fee and without complying with pharmacy act requirements.

Craddick offered an amendment to the measure which he said was to answer objections which had been raised to the bill.

He said the measure is intended to cover physicians operating in rural areas (defined as being outside an incorporated town, or inside the city limits of a city of less than 2,500 people).

Borden, Glasscock, Hudspeth, Irion, Jeff Davis, Kenedy, Kent, King, Loving, McMullen, Robertts and Terrell counties have no pharmacies and would be covered by the bill.

Midland woman's death has been ruled homicide

ODESSA — A Midland woman whose body was found in a motel here earlier this month died by strangulation and her death has been ruled a homicide.

Police this morning said Ector County Justice of the Peace Jimmy Harris ruled homicide in the case after autopsy results were returned Monday.

Kay Osborn Howell, 23, of 1400 S. Main St., Midland, was found lying on the floor of room 202 at the Rodeway Inn on Second Street in Odessa April 7.

She and her husband, 28-year-oldDanny Howell, left their children with Midland relatives and rented the motel room the day before, according to police. The husband told officers he went for a walk in the early morning hours of April 7 and returned about 4 a.m. to find his wife dead on the floor.

There was no sign of forced entry and, except for a small abrasion on her chin, there were no apparent signs of foul play. No charges have been filed yet, but police today said the case will be turned over to the grand jury for further investigation.

Cancer society's goal is $10 million

Nearly 1,000 volunteers are expected to join forces in Midland this week for the American Cancer Society's annual educational and fundraising crusade.

April has been declared Cancer Control Month. All this week, volunteers in Midland will canvass their neighborhoods to collect contributions and hand out tests. The self-administered test is designed to help people determine if they are at higher than normal risk for developing certain kinds of cancer.

ACS's goal is to save 220,000 lives, half of those who will die of cancer in the United States during 1983. The society hopes to achieve that end by raising its campaign goal of $10 million.

During 1983, the society is spending more than $3.8 million to fund research at various Texas institutions. ACS volunteers conduct free educational programs for public and professional groups. Cancer patients also receive assistance in the form of free equipment loans, gifts, information and rehabilitation programs.

Weather spotters' seminar planned

An advanced weather spotters' seminar will be at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Allison Fine Arts Building on the Midland College campus.

Designed primarily for weather spotters and operators of ham radios, the seminar also should be of interest to individuals concerned with violent weather in the Permian Basin.

Tim Marshall, a graduate student at Texas Tech University, will present the program. Marshall, who holds degrees in meteorology and engineering, is working with the Institute of Disaster Research.

He studies building safety in major storms and is credited with the filming of developing thunderstorms.

Circumference calculated

Greek scholar and librarian Eratosthenes (c. 275-c. 195 B.C.) was the first to calculate the Earth's circumference, but he overestimated it by about 16 percent. He also measured the Earth's tilt and mapped the known world.

Japanese war camp prisoner shares survival story

By The Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

LAT Photo

Anne Louise Goldthorpe, a nurse who was a prisoner of the Japanese in Manila, the Philippines, 40 years ago, goes over her diary from those days in her Washington, D.C., apartment.

WASHINGTON — Each day an average of eight persons died of starvation and tropical disease. Food rations had dwindled to a handful of raw rice and chicken feed corn. Rat meat was selling for eight pesos and the internment camp's pigeons and stray cats had all been eaten.

"It's hot here. It's hot everywhere. ... No ice, no cold water. Half the time no water at all," a Canadian nurse wrote in her diary 40 years ago. "Our market squad goes to the slaughterhouse for meat sometimes. They will only sell us the heads and tails of carabao (water buffalo) or buckets of blood."

The diary belongs to Anne Louise Goldthorpe, an octogenarian who has been living in Washington for the past 37 years. She was one of 4,000 Allied civilians imprisoned in Manila by the Japanese Occupation Army of the Philippines during World War II.

Surrounded by oil paintings and Asian furniture, Goldthorpe lives today in a quiet first-floor apartment, many miles and many years from a terrible period in her life in which, she says, "we all discovered the meaning of survival."

Nowadays, like many elderly Washingtonians, she is waging a more modern, big-city fight for survival. Muggings and break-ins in her neighborhood are not infrequent, and last month a woman was raped in Goldthorpe's apartment building. Despite that, she says she is not afraid of anything or anyone — "not after what I went through over there."

In many ways Goldthorpe and her diary epitomize the struggles of many old people who have survived wars, famines and other catastrophes and carry on their lives to this day in nursing homes and private apartments, often unseen and unheard. Testaments to human endurance, their stories are rarely told.

Goldthorpe, however, maintained a daily record for posterity.

For most of the last four decades the ragged piles of paper scraps that make up the extraordinary day-by-day journal of her three-year imprisonment were hidden away in Goldthorpe's apartment, where she settled after the U.S. Army liberated Manila in 1945.

But then Goldthorpe — who retired from nursing 20 years ago after working for St. Albans School and St. Elizabeths Hospital here — began perusing the diary and decided to type it up in manuscript form. Each of the last three Christmases she has sent copies of portions of the 300-page journal to friends and relatives as keepsakes.

The diary, which Goldthorpe often turned to as a way to occupy her mind during the ordeal, is one innocent victim's riveting recollection of war. She lost 40 pounds and six teeth during her imprisonment.

It's also a saga of triumph over adversity at an infamous internment camp known as Santo Tomas, which became a rallying cry for Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur and the American military counteroffensive.

"I put it (the diary) away for a long time, not knowing what to do with it," said Goldthorpe, a spry and witty woman.

"Finally, I decided I ought to share it. It was a very significant part of my life. ... I thought it might be interesting to others."

Goldthorpe was born in Brockville, Ontario, where she finished her nursing training in 1919. She worked at hospitals and clinics in New York and Virginia before settling in Atlanta in the late 1920s. In 1931 Goldthorpe was given an opportunity to work in the Philippines under the aegis of the American Episcopal Church.

For 10 years she worked in hospitals throughout the Philippines and helped set up rural clinics. Then came the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor.

Two weeks later, on Dec. 22, the Japanese invaded the Philippines, after a six-month battle, the islands fell on May 24, 1942. As 76,000 American and native troops were rounded up to begin the infamous Bataan Death March to prisoner-of-war camps — during which 7,000 men died of starvation and beatings — a nationwide Japanese military order was sent out for all Allied civilians to surrender to authorities as well.

Goldthorpe and a small group of other nurses turned themselves in after living for several weeks in mountain hideouts.

The refugees of war included Norwegians, Swedes, French, Dutch, Americans, Spaniards and British citizens who had been working or vacationing in the Philippines at the time the Japanese attacked the islands, or had fled the war in Europe to seek refuge there.

"At the time," Goldthorpe said, "the Philippines was considered one of the safest places to be. Few people dreamed the war would come there."

Retrieving an unused ledger from an abandoned Chinese grocery in the town of Zamboanga on the island of Mindanao, Goldthorpe began her diary the day the Americans surrendered. She hid the ledger and other scraps of paper from her captors throughout the confinement.

The various characters imprisoned with her included American veterans of the Spanish-American War, Catholic priests, European shop owners and businessmen, and women and children separated from their husbands and fathers.

Imprisoned in a house in Zamboanga with 32 others, Goldthorpe wrote on June 21, 1942, "We have decided that we admire the Japanese. They are very good to their prisoners. Their contention is they can afford to be generous when they are winning the war."

But as the war and the American effort in the Pacific escalated, the plight of military and civilian prisoners of war grew much worse. Goldthorpe and her companions in Zamboanga were transferred to three internment camps before ending up at Santo Tomas University in Manila, where many of the foreign civilians were eventually concentrated.

Her diary tells of harrowing voyages aboard Japanese freighters, during which sailors molested women and the prisoners had to fight off dozens of aggressive rats. She vividly recounts how everyone was forced to bow properly before the Japanese authorities, and describes the madness that set in among some of the older prisoners.

On Aug. 20, 1942, Goldthorpe wrote, "An Irishman named Mr. Dooley ... is senile and very afraid. Almost every time I look in his room he is buttoning up his coat and putting on his sun helmet. 'I beg to be excused,' " he says. " 'I don't like it here. I want to go home.' "

As food rations dwindled, dysentery, beriberi, measles, chicken pox and malaria set in, and the number of deaths grew day by day.

A total of 456 civilians died in confinement at Santo Tomas. The prisoners ate everything from weeds and tree bark to tooth powder.

Four thousand people were squeezed into buildings and ramshackle huts at Santo Tomas, and many starved. "I worried last night about a lump in my stomach," she wrote on Jan. 5, 1945, shortly before the camp was liberated by American forces. "Then I found it was my backbone. I never expected to feel that from the front."

Throughout the confinement, mail from home was scarce and the camps buzzed with rumors, all of them groundless, of an imminent American invasion. "The guards have been telling us what they are going to do to us if American planes come," she wrote on Aug. 15, 1944. "One of them says he will kill as many American prisoners as he can because his mother and sister were killed."

As punishment for looking up at the sky in hopes of finding American planes, the captives were made to stand in the middle of the camp and to stare upward for eight hours.

Permian Basin High School, 3100 North A St., offers an alternative to public and private schools. Its unique one-to-one learning concept is the key to this alternative education. Cody Sloan, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sloan of Midland is taking a language arts class from instructor Patti Groce in PBHS's one student-one teacher program.

Permian Basin High offers alternative

Permian Basin High School is Midland's only private alternative school. The fully accredited school accepts students in eighth through twelfth grades and students may enroll at any time during the school year.

Featuring the unique learning concept of one student-one teacher classes, PBHS offers students a choice of curricula: general or college preparatory. Both require 16 credits for graduation.

Alternative education means simply that Permian Basin High School offers an alternative to public schools and to other traditional types of private schools. The key to alternative education is the one-to-one learning concept. With one student-one teacher classes, a student progresses at his or her own pace. It is not uncommon for a somewhat slower student to evolve into an accelerated student in the one-to-one program. Each student enjoys the advantage of individualized curriculum, which meets individualized needs.

The philosophy at Permian Basin High School is that for most students, learning is limited only by their abilities and their desire to excel. When a student is sufficiently motivated and adequately stimulated, learning is no longer an impossible dream.Students then learn because they want to learn.

Classes are patterned after the collegiate structure, with students having some subjects on Mondays and Wednesday, others on Tuesdays and Thursdays. A student will have a 45-minute class, then a 45-minute study period. The classes are one-to-one although study periods may have as many as 16 students under the supervision of one instructor. The student then will have another 45-minute class followed by a 45-minute study period. This routine is followed throughout the student's career at PBHS. On Fridays, make-up classes are held along with any required laboratories or special group sessions.

At Permian Basin High School, the teachers are not inundated with non-teaching responsibilities. The school has an administrative staff to handle the paper work, freeing the faculty to concentrate on helping each student reach his or her maximum learning potential.

Alternative education is still new in Texas. When PBHS was founded in 1980, there were two other similar alternative schools in the state, one in Dallas and the other in Houston. In December 1982 when the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools awarded Permian Basin High School full accreditation, there were less than 50 alternative schools in the United States.

There are a wide range of subjects at PBHS, including the basic courses of language arts, social studies, math and science. Other courses include foreign languages, journalism, business, computer science and psychology.

Although a high school, PBHS also is designed to accommodate students in the eighth and ninth grades. The school also offers a seven week summer session to allow students to either strengthen weak areas or to get ahead for the fall term. Students may enroll for 1983 summer school between April 18 and May 13.

There are currently 13 faculty members plus two administrative people at PBHS. Teachers include Doris Hochman, social studies and language arts; Sandra Manley, social studies; Cindy Cochran, social studies and science; Patti Groce, language arts; Jerry Hammond, math, science and foreign languages; John Banfill, science; Helen Eggleston, math and foreign languages; John Allison, study lab, sociology and psychology; Richard Smith, social studies and foreign languages; Nina Joiner, math; Audrey Curry, language arts; Carol Smith, language arts and foreign languages, and Barbara Olsen, math and science. School Administrator is Glen Walton and Wanda Mouton is administrative assistant and journalism instructor.

Permian Basin High School is located on the second floor of Building E, 3100 North A St., across from the Mabee Swim Bldg. Telephone is 683-4448.

MUSCLE FOR RENT. A Caterpillar D3B Tractor from Treanor Equipment's rental fleet does landscaping work at a new home site. A full line of tractors, wheel loaders, track loaders, motor graders, scrapers, hydraulic excavators, pipelayers, and compactors are available for rent by the day, week, month or longer. Prices start as low as $200 a day for rental.

Treanor offers 3-year 5,000 hour warranty

Now, the strongest warranty in the heavy-equipment industry is available from Treanor Equipment. It guarantees, for the first three years or 5,000 hours: the machine's power train, including engine, transmission, and final drive; 48-hour maximum parts availability; and 48-hour maximum repair turnaround.

Treanor's new 'Plus 3' program covers 23 different models of Caterpillar machines, including D3 through D6 track-type tractors, 931 through 973 track-type loaders, 910 through 966 wheel loaders, 613 through 615 scrapers, 120G, 130G, and 140G motor graders, 215 and 225 hydraulic excavators, plus a couple of other machines.

The guarantee assures that you will get any part you need for the proper operation of your Cat machine within 48 hours, or you get the part free. It also guarantees that if your machine is down for repairs, we'll have it running again within 48 hours of when we start repairing it. If we can't, we'll either lend you a comparable machine at NO COST, or we'll give you a credit equal to our customary rental charge for an equivalent unit. Weekends and holidays are excluded from the 48-hour period.

In addition to this, the warranty can move with the machine to the next owner, should you decide to sell the machine. That adds to the machine's value, and should mean a higher resale price. Treanor can offer such a strong guarantee, with money-backed promises, only because of the proven quality of Caterpillar machines and Treanor's unmatched parts and service backup.

If you need machines for only a short time, call Treanor about their complete rental fleet of equipment. You can rent the exact machine you need by the day, week, month or longer. Treanor also offers the new Royal Motor Grader in their rental fleet. It is a small motor grader powerful enough to grade base, and is ideal for small projects like parking lots. Treanor also has tractors, wheel loaders, track loaders, Cat motor graders, scrapers, pipelayers, excavators, and compactors in their rental fleet. For farmers and ranchers, grubbers and brush rakes are available with many of the tractors and loaders.

For any of your rental machine needs, or for more details on Treanor's tough 'Plus 3' guarantee, call Rob Allen in Abilene at (915) 692-1600, or call toll-free 1-800-592-4738. In Odessa, call Kevin Maberry at (915) 337-5521, or call toll-free 1-800-592-4528. Rental rates start as low as $200 a day. Give them a call today.

Soldiers were not Nicaraguans

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence has concluded that a group of soldiers intercepted last month in Honduras were Salvadoran guerrillas, not Nicaraguan troops as Honduran officials had claimed.

The State Department identified the group as Salvadorans in a footnote to testimony presented by Thomas O. Enders, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week.

Asked about the discrepancy between that account and the version given by Honduran officials, a State Department official said the identification had come "from intelligence sources" and declined further comment. The official spoke only on the condition that anonymity be granted.

Salvadoran defense minister quits

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Gen. Jose Guillermo Garcia has resigned as defense minister, bowing to military commanders who accused him of botching the war against leftist guerrillas.

President Alvaro Magana accepted Garcia's resignation Monday and named Carlos Eugenio Vides Casanova, a career officer with no battle experience, to replace him.

Vides Casanova, formerly national guard commander, said he is neutral in the factional feuding that forced Garcia's departure and has compromised the Salvadoran military's ability to fight the guerrillas.

Coalition takes Thai elections

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Prime Minister Prem Tinsulanonda's three-party coalition rolled over the opposition in national elections, improving prospects for compromise between civilian factions and the powerful military.

Radio Thailand announced today that the coalition captured 221 of 324 seats in the lower house of Parliament in Monday's voting.

The centrist Social Action Party of Former Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj emerged the biggest winner, taking 92 seats, Radio Thailand reported.

Of the two other coalition partners, the military-dominated Thai Nation won 73 seats and the centrist Democrat Party captured 56.

Radio Thailand said the rightist Prachakorn Thai Party won 36 seats; the pro-army Siam Democracy 18 and the National Democracy Party 14. The remaining 35 seats were split among four minor groupings and independent candidates.

Briton expelled from Leningrad

MOSCOW (AP) — A 27-year-old Briton was expelled from Leningrad this week for distributing anti-Soviet materials, the official news agency Tass said today.

Tass identified the man as Edward Chick and said he was expelled on Monday for "spreading hostile materials on instructions of an anti-Soviet emigree organization, the People's Labor Alliance." Tass said the alliance is controlled by the CIA.

Tass said Chick "was caught red-handed on April 15 when trying to pass over smuggled seditious materials and instructions."

The British Embassy had no immediate comment other than to confirm that an "incident had taken place in Leningrad."

Ruggers plan South Africa tour

PARIS (AP) — The French Rugby Federation said today it will defy a government prohibition and proceed with plans for a summer tour of South Africa.

The federation's 39-member board of directors approved the decision unanmiously in a special session this morning, board spokesman George Duthen said.

Egypt, U.S.S.R. may exchange ambassadors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union, in what could be a fresh opportunity to reassert its influence in a key Middle Eastern country, will be invited soon by Egypt to exchange ambassadors, sources say.

An Egyptian source said Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak informed President Reagan during his visit here in late January that "it was just a question of time" before a Soviet ambassador was invited to return to Cairo. U.S. officials confirmed the move may now be imminent.

Since succeeding the murdered Anwar Sadat 18 months ago, Mubarak has gradually tried to guide Egypt back toward the Arab mainstream while cooling the relations his predecessor established with Israel in the 1979 peace treaty.

The Egyptian source, a scholar who asked not to be identified by name, said swapping ambassadors with the Soviet Union would represent another step by Mubarak to assert his independence. It could also signal Egyptian dissatisfaction with the United States for what most in the Arab world consider insufficient American pressure on Israel on the Palestinian and other issues.

Administration officials are showing no apparent distress over the development.

"I don't think the Egyptians are going to drop their suspicions (of the Soviet Union)," said an official who has been monitoring the situation closely. "We do not foresee it as indicating any change in relations. They will be correct but not cordial."

Sadat expelled Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Polyakov and six embassy employees a month before the Egyptian leader was assassinated in 1981.

Pravda fears Soviets spoiling their children

By STEVEN R. HURST
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — Doting Soviet parents risk turning their children into spoiled materialists by giving them lavish gifts like jewelry and tape recorders, complains the Communist Party newspaper Pravda.

One group of high school students said their most recent birthday presents cost an average of $130, according to a letter in Pravda, representing more than half the $242 average monthly pay taken home pay a Soviet worker.

The result, said the letter, is that children are "looking for the sweet life" and learning "the habits of pre-revolutionary wealthy people."

There never has been much debate about the proposition that Soviet children are pampered. The average Soviet child is an only child, and in many homes a grandmother — the babushka — lives with the family.

A child's smallest need is usually met immediately. Babies rarely are left to cry and as teen-agers are looked after as if they were 8 or 9.

But too many parents, Pravda said, are going too far, lavishing their children with excessive gifts.

"I am confident that expensive presents spoil children. They teach them to be consumer-minded," wrote high school teacher Genady A. Gubin.

By printing his letter Monday, Pravda put the stamp of party approval on the views of Gubin, who lives in the Crimean resort city of Yevpatoriya.

He told of a boy named Vasily whose parents gave him a tape recorder worth $500 (350 rubles) for his 16th birthday.

When Vasily told his friends about the present, the teacher said, they showed no surprise.

"Probably, 16-year-olds are used to such presents. But the salaries of Vasily's parents are quite humble. A 350-ruble present for a son was no simple thing to come up with," Gubin wrote.

In Yevpatoriya, Gubin said, 115 students finishing secondary school were given questionnaires recently asking about the presents they received on their last birthday.

"It turned out that only three were given flowers, five got books, 20 received money. Every third girl possessed a piece of gold jewelry. The average present cost $130."

Andropov interviewed

MOSCOW (AP) — Yuri V. Andropov, in his first personal encounter with the Western press since taking over as Communist Party leader, on Tuesday met with the publisher of the West German magazine Der Spiegel, according to the official news agency Tass.

Tass called Andropov's meeting with Rudolf Augstein a "conversation," indicating there was an exchange.

Andropov, 68, has not met with any members of the Western press since he succeeded President Leonid I. Brezhnev.
