40 BOTTLES OF BOOZE SEIZED IN FARRAR CAR

Prima Donna's Palace On Wheels Searched At Canadian Border

AS DIVA SLEEPS

Singer Unmolested, But May Be Prosecuted at Ogdensburg, N. Y.

ROUSES POINT, N. Y., April 1.—Suspicion that contraband might be concealed in Geraldine Farrar's sumptuous private car led Deputy Customs Collectors Harry Gotdrow, Joseph Fortier, Stephen Washburn and Elmer Johnson to the car when it crossed the border here this morning enroute from Montreal to Rutland, Vt.

The officers say they found about 40 bottles of choice champaigne, whiskey and beer concealed in the car, some in the lower part of the piano back of the footboard, more in the maid's room and still more tucked behind the ventilators.

She's Not Disturbed.

Miss Farrar lay abed in her state room and was not disturbed. She did not appear during the search which took over half an hour, a Rutland railroad train being detained 36 minutes.

RECORDS DUE TO FALL FOR 1925 BUILDING

Prospects Are That Year's Total in Permits Will Exceed $4,000,000

Building permit records that may soar above the $4,000,000 marke are anticipated for Wichita Falls in 1925 as a result of the remarkable record established here in the first quarter of the year. The initial three months have seen new construction to the value of $1,201,510 started here, and with more than a half-million in sight for the next month, those conversant with the situation look for a shattering of all records in the building line.

Figures Show Rest.

Comparative figures show most clearly, perhaps, the strides Wichita Falls has made in the building line since 1921. In 1922 the entire 12 months brought building permits of but $1,287,518; in 1923 they were $1,747,267; and in 1924 they were $2,343,714. Thus the city must start new buildings of but $1,142,204 during the entire year to equal the 1924 mark.

April will probably see a permit taken out for the new Perkins-Snider building now started at the corner of Ninth and Indiana, and a possibility also exists of a permit being issued within the month for the new Jones, Lee, Kiel hospital. The former building will entail an outlay of around $300,000 and the latter of about $200,000. Also looming on the building horizon are a new $400,000 warehouse, planned by Wiley Blair of Dallas, and several new school buildings that the local board of education is considering.

Permits for March, reports compiled Wednesday, ran to $832,790.

PUZZLE! WHERE WAS CHAPMAN WHEN COP DIED?

Bandit Produces Witnesses Who Claim to Have Seen Him

SAYS HE WAS IN N. Y.

Bullet Identified as One Coming From Gun He Used

HARTFORD, Conn., April 1.—(AP)—Gerald Chapman, mail thief and jail breaker, claims to have been in Brooklyn, N. Y., within four hours of the time he is charged by the state of Connecticut with having shot to death Patrolman James Skelly, in New Britain.

Three alibi witnesses, one of them a former "buddy" in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, swore today that they had seen him in Brooklyn at an hour when three other witnesses, testifying for the prosecution, placed Chapman in the old Colony Inn at Meriden, Conn.

Says He Saw Him.

Lyle Chastane, confessed former convict and the man who nursed Chapman to health in the Atlanta prison hospital, swore that he had been with Chapman until after 2 o'clock the morning of Sunday, October 12, 1924. Skelly was shot down by two safe looters in the store of Davidson and Leventhal in New Britain some time around 7 o'clock that same morning.

Chastane, now the proprietor of a stationery store in Brooklyn, testified that Chapman visited him Saturday night, October 11. They went to a nearby "speak easy" and Chapman did not leave him until after 2 o'clock the following morning, he testified.

Identified Again.

Francis M. Braw young bank clerk, and John A. Martin, both residents of the neighborhood of Chastane's store, testified that they had seen Chapman in Chastane's store that Saturday night. Martin, however, was not positive, declaring he was "almost sure" the prisoner was the man he had seen.

Before the alibi witness took the stand today pistol experts for the prosecution had positively identified the bullet which killed Skelly as having been fired from the weapon taken from Chapman when he was arrested in Munies, Ind., last January. One of them, J. Henry Fitzgerald of Hartford, declared that there was not "one chance in ten million that the marks on these bullets could have been made by another gun."

WALL STREET BATTLES OVER DODGE PLANT

GOES FOR 175 MILLION

General Motors And J. P. Morgan Lose Out in Fight For Huge Concern

NEW YORK, April 1. — After a spirited struggle between powerful financial interests, ownership of Dodge Brothers, Inc., one of the country's largest automobile companies, today passed to Dillon, Read and company, New York bankers in a cash transaction inovlving slightly less than $175,000,000. The exact purchase price was not revealed by the bankers, but it was learned authoratively that it exceeded a combined cash and securities offer of more than $150,000,000 submitted by the General Motors corporation, through J. P. Morgan and company.

To Be Largest.

Within a short time the huge motor business founded by John and Horace Dodge, a little more than ten years ago will be transferred from a closed family corporation to one of the largest publicly owned automobile companies in the United States.

E. G. Wilmer, head of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company who was associated with Dillon, Read and company, representatives in negotiations for the Dodge properties, is expected to become chairman of the new company. Present executives of Dodge Brothers, however, will continue in direct charge of its manufacturing operations.

BROTHERLY LOVE BUILDS FORTUNE

DETROIT, Mich., April 1.—(AP) Brotherly love builded a gigantic organization for John F. and Horace E. Dodge, founders of Dodg Brothers, Inc.

Both were born at Niles, Mich., and from earliest boyhood through years of poverty, hard work and up to the heighth of industrial and financial success these brothers remained inseperable.

From that day in Niles when in their father's machine shop, they constructed the first bicycle ever seen in their home town until the death of both men in 1920 (John Dodge dying while nursing Horace and Horace succumbing less than a year later) the brothers were the closest of chums and business associates.

Start in 1901

The brothers came to Detroit in 1901, and opened a machine shop, employing 12 hands. At the time of their deaths 19 years later, more than 18,000 men were employed in their Hamtramck plants.

Prosperity came. In 1905 they had outgrown their first quarters and moved to a larger plant. The first Dodge factory in Hamtramck was built in 1910 and that structure became the nuclus of the ammoth automobile plant involved in the sale rumors of today.

During the remaining decade of their lives the Dodge Brothers shoulder to shoulder and with Damon and Pythian fidelity fought their way upward in the automobile industry with Henry Ford, W. C. Durant and John N. Willys.

Until the last Horace was the plant superintendent and manufacturer and John was the business head of the firm. The equality with which they shared life was revealed by the estates left their families. Horace Dodge's estate was appraised at $37,186,588 and that of John Dodge at $36,942,727.

Cars Stalled As Hail Drifts

QUANAH, Texas, April 1.—The weather man took advantage of All Fools' day Wednesday afternoon and uncorked a climatic oddity that challenged the credulity even of those who saw it.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock, a barrage of hail and rain that halted automobile traffic, stalled a freight train and washed out a wagon bridge was laid down in a four-mile circle with Tolbert, Wilbarger county, as its center. Hail two feet thick was piled over a quarter-mile stretch at one point on the Colorado to Gulf highway, and before vehicluar traffic could get through it was necessary to carve out a path with shovel and pick. Automobiles were held up nearly an hour while a large force of men dug away.

This was the worst point on the whole road, but throughout the entire distance between Vernon and Quanah hail was found in liberal quantities.

The Denver railroad fared likewise when a train was stalled for a short time in a shallow cut south of here. Wind and the land's topography conspired to pile hail four feet high for several hundred feet. A train, unused to such slippery navigation, was compelled to halt while the rails were cleared sufficiently to allow procedure.

Vagaries of the storm were evident on all sides. At Tolbert and in Chillicothe nearly six inches of rain fell in little over an hour. A bridge three miles southeast of Tolbert was washed out, causing a delay in traffic between Vernon and Chillicothe. Two dozen or more cars turned back on each side of the washout and returned to the points from which they started.

Quanah and Vernon themselves caught little or no rain. High winds prevailed here, but that was the extent of the storm.

Oldtimers in this section who saw the results of the brief but intense precipiation declared that never before had they ever seen anything to equal it.

BANK ROBBER SUSPECT HELD WITHOUT BOND

Walter O'Quinn Denied Bail at Walters Wednesday

WAURIKA, Okla., April 1.—Another arrest in the unrelenting pursuit of clues to the Addington bank robbery of May, 1924, came today with the arrival in Waurika of another suspect, the third to be taken, in connection with the almost year-old crime.

Walter O'Quinn, accounted by officers to be a brilliant conversationalist, 45 years of age, and with influential family connections, is now alleged by officers to have been the "master mind" in directing the Addington job.

The prisoner, brought here, is said to have plenty of property and money in his own name.

That he was the companion of Eddie Shoquet and Page, alias "Happy" Bonhannon, is to be the charge against which he must defend himself. Both these men are now serving sentences of 25 years in the state penitentiary for the Addington robbery.

O'Quinn was arraigned in county court here this morning at 10 o'clock and entered a plea of not guilty before County Judge Robert N. Dunn. Preliminary trial was set for April 15 and O'Quinn's bond placed at $25,000 which he has not yet furnished.

The prisoner was taken back to jail here until he can make bond, which he says he can do "as soon as I can write a letter."

THREE WELLS ARE STILL IN AUSTIN CHALK

Henderson And Kaufman County Wells Fail To Break Through

Yesterday failed to tell the tale as predicted in the outcome of the newest Balcones threat against the crude oil market in Henderson and Kaufman counties, the Austin chalk withstanding the continued onslaught of the drill, and progress in all three wells, therefore, amounting to nothing more than routine.

Barring mishap one or all of the wells should get through the "key" formation sometime today, and a more definite idea formed as to what the structure may amount to.

Still In Chalk.

Bob Penn - Windsor - Humphreys-Boyd and Texas Pacific No. 1, G. E. Murphrey, Gardner survey, Henderson county, third well there, had not reached the Austin chalk, the "key" formation there when it was last reported drilling at 2,425 feet.

It is up against fault line and may be on the downthrow side, though that remains to be seen.

The other well in Henderson county on Buffalo structure there, Cranfill, Murchison, Fain and Marland Oil company No. 1, G. W. Springer, Gardner survey, but 1,600 feet east of Penn, was still in chalk at 2,465 feet and drilling at last reports. It topped hard chalk at 2,370 feet.

M. F. M. At 2,510 Feet.

Northward, in Kaufman county, on the Mabank structure, Murchison, Fain and Marland Oil company No. 1, C. P. Duff, Gregorio Ybarbo survey which had Austin chalk at 2,420 feet, was reported drilling at 2,510 feet at six o'clock yesterday afternoon.

RAIN STRIKES AT WICHITA IN HEAVY SHOWER

Trade Territory Visited Late Wednesday by a General Storm

HEAVY AT CHILLICOTHE

Crops to Reap Benefit; Of Little Help to Oil Fields

For the first time since late in the fall of 1924, Wichita Falls Wednesday night was in the grip of a real rain storm.

Starting a few minutes before 6 o'clock and prefaced with a mild electrical disturbance, a rain of severe intensity peppered the city and overlapped into a small part of the county. It continued intermittently most of the evening.

Hopes Partly Realized.

Hopes of farmers that the showers would be general throughout north and west Texas were fulfilled only partially. Vernon, Electra, Burkburnett, Henrietta and other points were either missed entirely or caught a bare trace of the percipitation, while other sections, notably those around Chillicothe, Holliday, Seymour and Spur were liberally drenched. A small cloud-burst broke over Chillicothe at 4 o'clock where five and one-half inches of rain fell in a little over an hour. Polvert, seven miles east of Chillicothe, was also swept by a severe downpour.

The rain apparently was heaviest southwest of here. All points on the Wichita Valley railway between here and Seymour reported a heavy shower with considerable hail. Haskell and Stamford, still further southwest, sent word of a light shower and heavy winds.

Chillicothe Hard Hit.

To the northwest, Chillicothe was evidently the boundary mark for no rain to speak of fell at points north of it on the Fort Worth and Denver lines. Vernon and Electra, the centers of oil field operations that have been seriously crippled because of lack of drilling water, caught only a few stray drops. Iowa Park felt a slight shower.

Oklahoma communities were undisturbed, messages coming to the Wichita Falls and Northwestern offices indicated. No rain fell north of Bacon, seven miles out. Burkburnett had no rain, nor did any southern Oklahoma points beyond Red river.

East of here, Henrietta enjoyed a light rain, the M. K. T. announced, but it evidently ended there. The southeast, too, was missed entirely, according to reports from the Wichita Falls and Southern offices in that direction.

No Damage Caused.

Comparatively little damage is believed to have been caused by the high winds that were general throughout this section in the late afternoon. Some wire trouble was reported between here and Stamford, but otherwise the storm seemed to have accomplished little havoc. Locally, no trouble of any nature was reported.

That the rains will be of immense value to those sections in which they fell is an admitted fact. Farmers have been waiting eagerly for such a storm and believe yesterday's will have a very beneficial effect despite the fact that it was of short duration. A steady rain of three or four days is what is really needed to put fields in proper condition.

With the exception, possibly, of Holliday, the rain will have but little effect on oil operations in this vicinity.

North Shackleford Should Have Ten Drilling Wells Within 30 Days

W. Albany Area Getting First Big Play Now

Hope Petroleum Company's New Well is Responsible

SHOESTRING TOOLS

Stars, Spudders, And Nationals Will do Drilling

Ten drilling wells within thirty days is the prospect for the south extension to the Tannehil pool west of Albany, Shackelford county, recently opened by the Hope Petroleum company's No. 1, Jeter. Hope Petroleum company is moving in three national rigs and two spudders, two of the rigs already on the ground, for its own drilling, part of which will be at some distance from the extension well and calculated to add still more territory to the producing area, the remainder to drill the original lease.

Five Locations Other Than Those of Hope.

Five other locations have been made nearby, three of which are offsets to the well, by other operators. Some of the rigs, all stars, spudders, and Nationals, are on the ground for the work and there is every indication that all ten of the locations will be drilling within twenty or thirty days.

The extension well is reckoned at a flush production of better than 100 barrels from sand believed to have been topped at about 980, that measurement approximating the record within five or ten feet. The well shows oil of 38.5 degree gravity, and had gas pressure at first sufficient to make it flow.

It is about a mile south of the old Tannehil production where five or six wells have a total output of about 60 or 70 barrels a day. The Texas Pipeline company had tied into this production sometime ago; they are also taking the oil from the extension well.

First Event of Importance in Some Time.

The completion of the well, now better than two weeks old, is the first real development of importance in northern Shackelford county in quite a while and has succeeded in drawing some attention in that direction.

Just three-quarters of a mile south Hope Petroleum corporation and Albany Oil company are shut down at 3,100 feet on their No. 1, W. D. Reynolds, northwest corner of section 23, T&PRRCO survey, block 11, with the intention of drilling to 4,000 feet to give the grey lime of the Ibex pool a thorough test. Upon completion at that depth Shackelford county will have received its deepest test. The well has already penetrated 650 feet of hard lime in one stretch.

Atlantic, Parrish

Atlantic Oil Producing company's No. 2, Parrish-C, was drilling yesterday below a last reported depth of 3,590 feet, filling out a depth of 3,630 feet. The well failed to show the producing sand of the No. 1, or other nearby wells. It is located in Atlantic's C lease, in the southwest quarter of section 26, H&TCRRCO survey, abstract 1197, north Archer county.

Silkwood-Brashear

Silkwood and Brashear have erected a derrick and are rigging up on their No. 1, Fasset and Tuttle in the northeast corner (150 feet west and 200 feet south) of the west 80 acres of the south 155 acres of the Fasset-Tuttle farm, five and one-half miles southwest of Iowa Park, Wichita county, BS&F survey, abstract 485.

Leath-Warren, Fasset

Leath and Warren were drilling yesterday at about 1,000 feet on their No. 1, Fasset and Tuttle, west line of the J. W. Fields survey, abstract 766, north of the Wichita river and about seven miles southwest of Iowa Park, Wichita county. The well had an oil show at 778-80 feet.

Structural Cumulation Of Oil Is Only Partial Truth, Geologists Told

Scores of Structures Are Drilled and Found to Be Barren For no Apparent Reason.

"The oil industry is one in which calm reflection is denied an individual, unless it be as an aftermath of some rash indiscretion of judgment."—W. E. Wrather.

That materialism in the oil industry—that motive which prompts a company to spend its millions to make more, with no idea beyond short snappy results—has defeated the petroleum geologist's duty to his profession is embodied by W. E. Wrather in a talk before the American Association of Petroleum Geologists at their Wichita convention last week.

Mr. Wrather makes the accusation that the geologist has accepted partial truth as a basis for work, and in attempting to take the short cut through has found the "short cut" the longes route, and is now forced to go back where he started and work out detail by detail the whole story of the petroleum resources of the world.

Structural Accumulation Was Only Half Truth.

"At the beginning of Mid-Continent development," Mr. Wrather states, "the geologist found that oil was found more often on structure than off of it, and immediately set to work to perfect means and modes of lovating structure as a means to locating oil. It seemed the quickest way.

"Scores of structures are drilled and found to be barren. The ieda of structural accumulation of oil is only a half-truth, or less than that; or else, if our ideas of accumulation are sound, our theories of oil migration are ta fault; or again, we, perhaps, should never have expected oil in a particular structure if we had known more about source beds.

'In the course of a limited tim east Texas will be drilled out, and with all of its Wortham and Powell, our work there shall have been a distinct failure. And yet there is scarcely a doubt that in all the drilling that has already been done in east Texas enough reliable data has been unearthed or has gone nito the discard to have furnished the answers to all our inquiries.

"Pay Some Attention, Next Time," He Says.

"This failure can be prevented when play turns to some new locality, west Texas or elsewhere, where faulting perhaps does not play such an important role if geologists co-operate and work together to learn the whole truth rather than taking the narrower view of the correctness of calculations as to whether the test is on the structure or off of it."

The research committee of the association of which Mr. Wrather is chairman intends during the next few years to expend a great amount of time and energy toward work relating to the origin and source of oil, believing that in such lies a great potential value to oil geology, which will in time be expressed in dollars and cents for the benefit of employer.

Financing Research Not Proving Hard.

The investigations, an expensive proposition, are being financed first by the geologists themselves who have subscribed a large amount in their own ranks for the purpose, and second by oil companies. The solicitation of funds for the purposes of research work is meeting with approval, Mr. Wrather stating that thirteen requests outside the profession itself met with only two turndowns and put $3,950 into the fund box.

Another activity to be undertaken by the committee is the preparation of a number of papers on oil accumulation on structure in various fields over the world, these fields chosen to represent a diversity of structural conditions. These papers are to be placed in the hands of an editor, in this insance Midway Powers, who will digest and review them and draw the obvious conclusions to be obtained from the data. It is also intended to conduct a study of source beds.

University Can Receive Money From Main Fund

Attorney General Rules That School May be Cared For Through Governor

AUSTIN, April 1.—Attorney general's department today in a letter to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson held that the legislature has the authority to appropriate money from the general revenue fund for maintenance and support of the University of Texas. The opinion, prepared by Wright Morrow, first assistant attorney general, answers a question of the governor on the right of the legislature, in view of the fact that the constitution provides for a permanent fund for the university to appropriate money for the needs.

Asks a Question.

The governor based her question upon an opinion of the department issued January 3, in which it was said the legislature did not have the right to transfer monies from the permanent to the available fund for building purposes.

She asked: "Does it follow from such opinion that the appropriation made by the legislature just adjourned for the support and maintenance of the University of Texas shall go into the permanent university fund and be invested in the manner provided for said permanent university fund by the constitution?"

She also asked whether it was "unlawful for the legislature to make the appropriation for the current needs."

Answers in Negative.

To both question the attorney general's opinion answered in the negative. The letter cites provisions of the constitution which in the opinion of the attorney general, authorize the legislature to appropriate money from the general revenue for "the purpose of maintaining and supporting and directing" the university.

"It is therefore the opinion of this department," said the letter, "and you are respectfully advised that the legislature may, and under the constitution, shall provide for the support, maintenance and direction of the university by appropriation of public monies, and that such appropriations as made from the treasury from the general fund do not go into the permanent fund but into the available maintenance support, and direction fund of the university.

What's Doing Here and There In West Texas

At Quanah

AUTO ACCIDENT.

George Hughes narrowly escaped serious injury last night about 11:30 o'clock when he was knocked down and run over by a car driven by Miss Ruby Allen and occupied by her, her sister and two girl friends. Just as he was crossing the street from Main street west side to east side. Aside from being stiff and sore for a few days, Mr. Hughes is expected to be none the worse for the mishap. The accident was unavoidable.

POPULARITY CONTEST.

Martha Gilliland and Jean Rogers chosen by the sophomore class to represent them in the race for popularity honors in the contest staged by the "Qua-hi," high school annual, were acclaimed victors with a vote of 167 and 129 respectively, after three days of voting. Notwithstanding the fact that each class in high school placed their favorites in the race, and despite the rivalry existing between the classes, there was not as much voting done as had been expected. Representatives of the various classes in the popularity contest were: seniors, Naoma Lovell and J. D. Mahoney; juniors, Maudie Miller and Price Beauchamp; sophomores, Martha Gilliland and Jean Rogers; freshmen, Cleta Milstead and Jack Macee.

REAL ESTATE DEAL.

Another important real estate deal in Quanah was consumated this past week when the Berry building on Main, now occupied by the Famous, was sold by Judge Berry of Vernon to Col. Roy Simmons of Wortham.

The building is 25x115 feet, and is a two-story structure. It is in one of the most favorable business locations in the city, and the consideration was $20,000, it was stated from authoritative source.

The Famous now occupies the building, and has a lease on it until January 1, 1926. At the expiration of the lease it is reported another drygoods firm will occupy the building. The firm will be entirely new in Quanah, it was stated, but local people will be interested in it. The new store will be modern and up-to-date, and such that it will add much to the commercial life of the city.

NEW GIN.

The new Electric gin being built by E. A. Jones is going up rapidly now, and work is being pushed on it. Mr. Jones recently sold his hardware store here and is erecting the new gin to supplement the capacity of the local gins. Quanah gained an enviable reputation last fall as a cotton marketing center, and much cotton was attracted here as a result. The gins did a large business last fall, and a bigger business is anticipated next year.

GOLF TOURNAMENT.

Interest is being centered in sporting circles on the golf tournament to be held here April 21 on the local green. Members of the Quanah Country club here developed some mighty good golfers, and the tournament this year bids fair to eclipse all contests held in the past. A number of prizes are being offered, and much rivalry is already being manifest.

At Clarendon

FATHER-SON BANQUET.

Out here where boys are boys and men are just over-grown boys, one Father and Son week out of 52 is deemed insufficient. So much was realized from the gigantic father and son banquet stated here last fall that it was voted to conduct such an affair at least semi-annually and April 10 has been set for the date of the first during the present year. A chicken barbecue is planned at some point adjacent to the city and an effort will be made to smash the previous attendance record of 256. Dr. B. L. Jenkins and Homer Mulkey have been appointed a permanent committee to perpetuate the movement.

AUSTIN, April 1.—(AP)—The thirty-ninth legislature failed to appropriate sufficient funds to pay its own salaries, the mileage and per diem funds had been exhausted with about $600 yet to pay. The news came as a shock to several members and their employes when their warrants were refused by the comptroller's department.

The thirty-ninth legislature made an original appropriation of $125,000 and during the closing days added $10,000 to the fund. Previous legislatures had passed successfully along on preliminary guesses, but at the present time the total appropriation has been exhausted and there are warrants approximating $600 outstanding. The Texas Bank and Trust company at Austin is holding about $500 of these warrants, it was learned in the comptroller's department today, while other banks have returned the warrants to the payees.

To get their money, member of the legislature must either hope for a special session, at which an additional appropriation may be made, or resign themselves to a two-year wait. The proposition that a special session be called, costing approximately $100,000 to retire the $600 indebtedness was facetiously made.

THE HOPE OF MAN.

It is an old axiom that the understanding of nature always leads to its control.

It is obvious that the functions of the brain must be better understood in order that, without intellectual or moral deterioration, the human race may stand the new conditions imposed on the individual by modern civilization.

It is not surprising then for Dr. Alexis Carrel, scientific lie-hunter, to be saying that the knowledge of the conditions that bring about the disappearance of the qualities, would give the human race far more happiness than the complete eradication of plague, cholera and typhus from the earth.

"The spiritual progress of man could be greatly promoted by a scientific knowledge of the physico-chemical phenomena which takes place within the brain cells.

"Instead of merely increasing the number of human beings, we could increase their quality. The progress of medicine, understood in this manner, would be the most important factor in the development of civilization."

Dr. Carrel, practical prophet, believes the hope of man is research.

Science will win this battle for man because it is interested only in truth. The man of science has learned to believe in justification, not by faith, but by verification.

Thomas Huxley, one of the forerunners in modern science, spoke a credo for research when he said: "There is no alleviation for the sufferings of mankind except veracity of thought and of action, and the resolute facing of the world as it is when the garment of make-believe by which pious hands have hidden its uglier features is stripped off."

The man of science absolutely refuses to acknowledge authority, as such.

For him, scepticism is the highest of duties; blind faith the one unpardonable sin.

Anyone who is practically acquainted with scientific work is aware that those who refuse to go beyond fact, rearely get as far as fact; and anyone who has studied the history of science knows that almost every great step therein has been made by the "anticipation of Nature," as Huxley calls it.

There is a lesson in this for all of us who believe things without ever having investigated or thought about them.

CLARKE WAS WORTH SIXTY MILLION.

Not long ago William H. Clarke of Montana died in the city of New York. His will has been probated in the city of Butte. In 1900 he was said to be worth $50,000,000. He owned vast copper mines, and he added millions to his fortune while the world war was on.

Arizona officials expect his estate to pay $5,000,000 inheritance levy. This former United States senator owned the United Verde Copper mines in Arizona, all the stock of which, except five shares, was owned by the Bonanza king. He died in his palace in the city of New York.

He had an art collection of fabulous value. He had the greatest assembly of Corots, perhaps the most valuable in the world. Indeed a New York art critic estimates the value of this one collection of pictures at $2,000,000.

He left behind him two sons and three daughters and several grandchildren. He began life a school teacher. He deserted this calling for mining and in his earlier years was one of the daring prospectors of the Rocky mountain states.

He aspired to a seat in the United States senate from Montana. His political enemies said at the time that he spent a million dollars to capture the toga. He served a single of six years and then quit.

Copper mining and prospecting for art treasures appeal to him more strongly than the life of a statesman. Indeed he was not a success as a statesman. He never made a speech. He never introduced a bill while a member of the upper house of congress.

He never distinguished himself in any way except as a costly entertainer. He had culture and all that goes with it, but as a politician he was a rank failure.

NEW JERSEY LAWMAKERS.

New Jersey has a republican legislature. New Jersey has a democratic governor. George R. Silzer is the governor. He says that the lawmakers of the state were dominated by public utility corporations; that the lawmakers attempted to destroy the usefulness of the board of public utility commissioners so that the utilities might not be properly regulated and so that they could exact whatever rates they wanted from the people who use light, heat, power and transportation.

Furthermore, not a bill was passed that was asked for by the women of the state, not a single bill of real worth was passed by labor, the education of children was neglected and money that had been recommended for that purpose was diverted for water ys, ditch digging projects and the like.

KING OF THE PESSIMISTS.

Colonel Theodore H. Price of New York, publisher of Commerce and Finance and financial economist and writer, is the king of the pessimists at the present writing. He sees falling prices every where. He is fearful that history will repeat itself. If it does, he says, the cost of living will be reduced and people will be willing and able to go to work again at wages that will justify the enterprise, that is now suspended because capitalists fear to put their money into new construction, while wages and building materials are so high.

Colonel Theodore H. must have been on the wrong side of the market. He growls like a bear. Some months ago he was snorting like a bull. This when stocks were climbing in the street. Now stocks are falling in the street and the colonel sees the world going to the demnition bow-wows. His advice:

"It may be well to try the age old cure of increasing sales by reducing prices. It has rearely failed to work." If there should be a famine cotton crop this year the colonel will become as bald as a billiard ball. He thinks he knows cotton better than any man on earth.

Years ago he invented a cotton picker that was guaranteed to do the work. It didn't and the colonel has had the blues ever since.

KINGS OF THE RAIL.

Now the Van Sweringens of Ohio, who began life as news boys have secured control of the Erie Railway, the stockholders of the Erie having approved a lease of that road to the Nickel Plate for 999 years. This is said to be the largest deal in all railroad history. And the new Nickel Plate system is controlled by O. P. & M. J. Van Sweringens of Cleveland, Ohio. They make Cleveland their headquarters. They make Cleveland the basis of their operation. A New York journal says their action is the first step toward the completion of the fourth largest system in America.

CONFESSIONS OF AN EX-MUSICIAN.

I am an ex-musician.

That is, when I was a young man of twenty-one I was actively engaged in the study of music. I not only played the piano, but I had a class of music pupils whom I conducted through the devious avenues of art.

I suppose I was a bum teacher and a poor player, but I got a good deal of fun out of it.

I never took but one lesson in my life. I did not like that lesson and quit my teacher after one sample of her work. I do not say this as an excuse, but merely state it as a fact. Doubtless I would have done better to have remained under her tutelage. But I did not.

I went at the study of music in my own peculiar way. I bought Schubert's Moments Musicaux, Beethoven's Sonatas, Chopin's Waltzes, Mendelssohn's Songs without Words and other pieces.

I found these difficult, but very intriguing. I pounded them all out myself on the piano. I took them apart and studied every combination of notes and learned every motif.

Afterwards I took up the Wagner operas in this way. I bought all the books I could that told about Wagner and his music. I read them in French, in German and in English. I set about to learn all the motifs of his pieces.

I don't suppose I was ever a good musician, that is, that I ever had the scientific skill to perform. But I had the love of it and I had many a pure hour of enjoyment in following it.

I would not take anything now for the memory of that solid enjoyment. If I had had some teacher with imagination to envisage my difficulties and help me out of them I would have made much faster progress. As it was I had to get through myself.

With the consequence of the crowding in of many affairs my music was dropped and for years my life was devoid of it. There was always a piano in the house, but nobody played on it.

I loved music so well that I would rather do without it than hear it badly played.

Then came the automatic piano, by which the works of the best masters could be interpreted for me by skilled artists just the way they would have done it themselves.

I cannot tell you what a pleasure it was to put on these rolls and hear those pieces that I had labored over in my youth done expertly.

If I had only had this when I was studying, how many a difficult problem would have been solved before my eye, or rather my ear. I had spent days in wondering what certain musical notes meant and it could all have been explained to me in a moment by the touch of the artist.

Not the least among the advantages enjoyed by the music student of today is that of hearing any composition played correctly with absolute accuracy by this instrument. It can only improve the taste and clear the way for progress in the case of the young pupil.

Of course there may be some who will be content merely to listen, but for those eager souls that are anxious also to improve their own art it will be a godsend.

Uncommon Sense

Foundation Builders.

Before the tall building or cathedral begins to roar its walls in the air so that men can see and begin to marvel at its future magnificence and beauty, men must delve deep in the earth to lay its foundation.

This is not pleasant work. There is for them none of the joy that the builders of the superstructure get as they see the walls or towers taking shape.

Heavy stone must be piled on heavy stone, plastered with mortar and made ready to bear more heavy stones.

The job is about as interesting as must be that of the coral insects who climb upon a pile of other coral insects and die and fossilize there, until at last an island can thrust itself above the ocean.

Yet foundation building has been going on since the beginning of civilization and still continues.

We who live today can see something of the work that we do; we can see edifices rise in the air with their cornices and towers, and some of use who are fortunate can help to shape those cornices and towers.

But the first man who piled stone upon stone to build a habitation that would keep the wild animals away was one of the foundation builders of the modern business building or church or palace.

He could neither see nor dream of the work that was to be erected upon what he was building.

Nor did he in truth much care about what was to follow, beyond the discomfiture of the wolves when they found that they could not get at him.

But today, with many of the buildings that were founded in the past standing about us, we are still slowly building foundations for the future, and we are fortunate that we can dream of that future, and to some extent realize it before it was built.

I was recently asked what possible service to the world could be done by the expedition of Professor Beebe to the Sargasso sea. To seize strange creatures from the deep and classify them seemed to my questioner of no possible use to the world.

I told him that such expeditions and such men had reared the whole fabric of science, and it is on science (which means exact knowledge) that the whole fabric of industry is reared.

Professor Beebe is a foundation builder, and a very useful one.

On the discoveries he had made and is making, other men will build, and slowly all that we are permitted to know about this universe will be known.

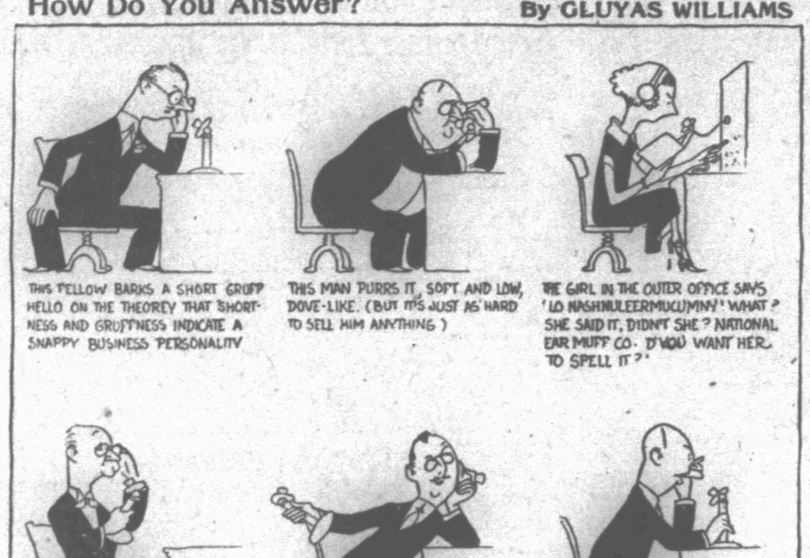

That will mean the end of disease, the prolonging of life, the promotion of happiness and the dissemination of beauty.

It will mean the end of war, and of quarreling. It will bring the world as close to heaven as it was ever intended to be by the Creator, perhaps it will establish heaven itself on this earth.

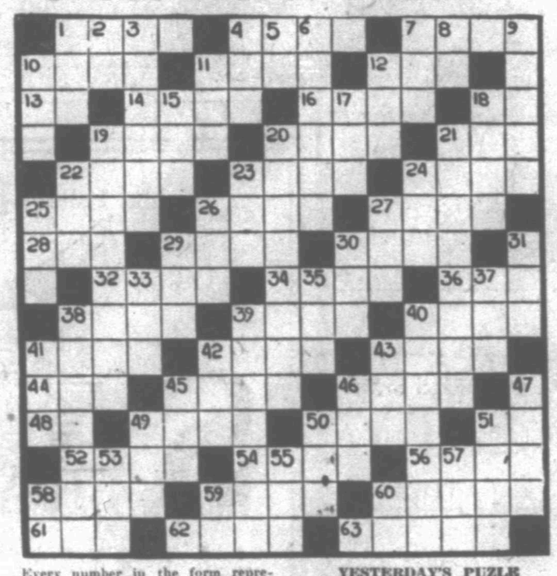

Every man who does useful work with the object of adding to the sum of human knowledge is a foundation builder. He may never be able himself to [illegible] knowledge he has gained, but he will leave [illegible] him as material for other builders and as [illegible]as the world goes around will it be used to [illegible] the sum of human liberty and happiness

Hello! Hello! How Do You Answer?

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

Cross-Word Puzzle

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal, if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

What Today Means To You

Aries

The probabilities are that, during the early part of today, you will feel indifferent, and not disposed to put your utmost effort into any task you may have in hand.

In a way, this lack of energy and vim will prove a blessing in disguise, as the planetary aspects indicate unfavorable conditions, and counsel only the carrying out of those routine duties that will not brook delay. During the latter part of the day, the signs denote that, whilst there will be immediate urge to do things, the emotions will be strongly stirred, and a responsiveness to all that is good and uplifting in your nature will be apparent. This is a good omen for either engagements or for marriage.

A child born today will be exceptionally healthy, robust and vigorous, and it will, in all probability, be almost entirely free from sickness. It will, given the proper environment, develop great physical strength and will be more adapted to outdoor, than indoor, work. Whilst it will, of course, outstrip its fellows in all sports and pastimes, it will not neglect study, and it will possess a keen intellect and quick mind. In all its wtrk, as in all its recreations, it will be very intense, and always give of its best to the immediate undertaking on hand.

It will never do anything by halves, but will run the whole gamut. It will be affectionate and sincere, loyal and constant.

If today is your birthday, you are fond of imagining a lot of things that have never happened, and never will happen. You are more than normally disposed to look always on the dark side, and, rarely, if ever, glimpse the silver lining. You anticipate trouble and disaster and cross bridges long before you reach them. Visualizing the future is a profitable occupation, but it is positively disappointing to have the vision dimmed by darkened glasses.

The effect of your disposition is not only detrimental to your own interests but throws a damper on the enthusiasm and optimism of others. It kills hopes and destroys ambition, and, as a consequence, your friends are few, as no one seeks the companionship of a "kill joy."

If you could only eliminate lugubriousness from your thoughts, you could, with your intelligence, marked ability and loyalty, secure a full measure of happiness and contentment out of life.

More Truth Than Poetry

HOPELESS

I long for the day when the masculine sex
No more will appear on the street,
In invisible stripes and incolorful checks,
Whose hues are sedate and discreet.
I yearn for the time when a man can be seen,
As work-ward he dail; parades,
In lilac, or carmine or poppy or green,
And all the new seasoal shades.

As a wee wistful child I shed many a tear,
Whenever I sternly was told
That when I grew up I could never appear
In raiment like Joseh's of old.
I wanted a coat at wich horse should shy,
And I wanted a cap for my head,
Which would make peole gasp when they saw me pass by—
And I wanted 'em purple and red.

And now, so I learn, it is soon to be smart
For men to discard their plain clothes,
And go to their busines in suits that impart
The tinge of the jequil and rose.
They will vary their ostumes for city or shore,
For spring and forsummer and fall;
And office, and curtrom and clubhouse and store
Will look like a fairy dress ball.

And I—I shall go on the street every day
And my optics I'll wistfully cast
On the brilliant and vivid and bright-hued array
Of men who go spering past.
I will view all the sades that my tailor has piled
In glorious ranks a his shelf,
But I'll still be as sad as I was when a child,
For I'll never dar wear them myself!

IT IS HER PREDESTINED LOT THAT THE FIFTY-DOLLAR-A-WEEK WOMAN SHALL YEARN TO MARRY THE THIRTY-FIVE-DOLLAR CLERK

"Why do not more young women choose a business career instead of matrimony?" asks a man.

Because, my dear sir, God made women to be wives and mothers instead of merchants, bankers, and lawyers, and the call of nature is louder than the voice of ambition and the promise of profit. Home is woman's country, and it is the Promised Land toward which her feet are instinctively set.

There are many women who have actual financial genius. There are plenty of girls who have far more talent for business than their brothers have. Nearly every girl who makes her own living will tell you that she enjoys commercial life. She enjoys going downtown of a morning to a busy day. She gets a thrill out of matching her wits with customers or clients and bullying and jollying them into doing what she wants them to do. She likes the feeling that she is part of a big enterprise, and she glories in the thought of being able to stand on her own feet and the freedom that her financial independence brings her.

Nevertheless, no matter how successful she is, no matter what reward she can see awaiting her at the top of the ladder, she never has the slightest intention of sticking to her job to the end of espousing a career instead of a man. Her dream is not of being a Hetty Green, but of being Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Smith.

It is because girls look upon their work as a mere temporary affair, a sort of stop-gap between the schoolroom and the altar, that most of them are so inefficient. They have no idea of making a life work of it, and so they do not think it worth while to learn to do it properly.

Any employer will tell you that his invaluable private secretary, who has every detail of the office at her finger's end, or his inspired buyer is a woman who is past the marrying age. It is only when men look on customers instead of shiecks to a woman that she begins to make headway in her career. She can't keep one eye roaming around for a husband without having the other eye miss most of the good business opportunities.

Now, no one will deny that the best thing that can happen to any woman is to marry a good man. There is no happiness so pure and ideal as that of a perfectly mated couple, who make a little heaven on earth in their home.

Also it is true that when a woman marries a rich and successful man she makes a ten strike and achieves a triumph far greater than she could have ever won by her own efforts. Very few women have ever made a million dollars themselves. No woman has ever been president or minister extraordinary and ambassador plenipotentiary to the court of St. James, but many women have married the riches and high places they could not have earned by themselves.

If every girl thought that she was making a big match it would be easy to see why she passed up good business prospects for matrimony, but the majority of girls who give up their jobs to get married are under no delusion whatever about what they are doing and the sacrifices they are making.

They have been Sally, who used to look like a daily hint from Paris when she earned her own money, became shabby and seedy as a poor man's wife. They have been Mabel of the dancing feet, tired and worn and bedraggled, pushing a perambulator. They have been the light-hearted Maud, once the life of the office with her laughter silenced, her spirit broken with wrestling with the price of butcher's meat and the rent problem, and trying to make an insufficient income cover the needs of a growing family.

These girls knew that when they marry poor men their fate will be like that of their sisters, and their cousins, and their aunts, yet they go to it. Business has killed their belief in fairies and Prince Charmings who miraculously develop into multi-millionaires. They know just exactly how much the men they marry earn and how far it will go.

They know that the girl who exchanges a mahogany desk for a gas range makes a losing bargain, from a practical point of view. They know that no clerk, no stenographer, no factory operator works as many hours a day as the domestic woman does. They know they will have to labor far harder in their own homes than they have ever done out of them, and that there will be no pay envelope at the end of the week, yet still they are bent upon matrimony, just because it is their predestined fate. The thing for which nature created them. A sure, deep, instinct beyond all reason. They may be miserable married, but they will certainly be miserable if they don't.

If the girl with a good job could only content herself with it, and wait to marry until she could better herself; if the woman who has no attraction for men could only find an outlet for her interests and ambitions in business, instead of eating her heart out in bitter repining, it would make enormously for the happiness of the feminine sex.

But apparently this is an impossibility. The $50-a-week woman marries the $35-a-week man and is peevish and discontented ever after. And the prosperous old maid envies her hister with a husband who starves and beats her.

And there you are. And all we can do is to pass the buck up to nature.

Irrigation

Flat Land and Sloping Land.

Under rainfall conditions in this section, a level tract of land, other things being equal, will grow better crops than one with a slope.

The reason for this is that rain does not run off a level tract as fast as from a sloping one and therefore more of it soaks into the ground. The more water the ground absorbs the more water there will be for growing crops.

On this account as a general thing level lands have made the best farms. Very often you will hear a man speak of the quality of the soil on one farm as being better than on an adjoining one. The soil survey will show the two to be identical. One farm is level and the other has a good slope. The level farm raises the best crops.

Under irrigation this is changed. The question of drainage and soil enters. In fact a perfectly flat farm is about the hardest thing imaginable to get the water on and off of. Water simply will not run on the level. There must be some slope if water is to flow.

A fall of five feet to the mile or any about one and one-eighth inches to the hundred feet is about the minimum to irrigate well.

Slopes up to two hundred feet to the mile or say four feet to the hundred are irrigated with ease by a good irrigator.

On steep ground there is a tendency for the water to erode the land if it flows too fast. Small streams flow more slowly than large ones on the same slope. Then there may be trouble in getting the water to soak into the soil readily when it flows fast. The answer is to use a small amount of water for a long time in handling steep ground.

Suddith Insurance Jury Is Discharged

Unable to agree after two days of deliberating, the jury in the case of W. S. Suddith vs. the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company was discharged Wednesday afternoon by Judge William H. Atwell in federal court. The case had been with the jury since Monday afternoon.

Suddith was suing the insurance company for compensation insurance he alleged was due him as a result of the death of his son, Frank Suddith, who was shot and killed while on duty in a Henrietta cotton gin in September, 1921.

The case will probably be retried before a different jury, it has been indicated.

What Would We Do Without Them?

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of short articles published daily in The Record News seeking to present folks of Wichita Falls who are as important in their sphere as the biggest business man, or the richest banker is essential to the welfare and progress of any community.

"IT isn't so much in laying the brick as in handling the 'mud'," commented L. E. Hand, bricklayer, as he squinted down a line of brick wall and tapped a brick with his trowel handle to knock it into line.

"If the mud's too thin it don't stand up, and if it's too thick it dries out too fast," slapping a trowel full on top of the wall, trenching it down the middle with the point of the trowel, and setting a brick neatly thereon, after swiping a gob of mortar on the corner of it.

The bricks were laid rapidly and evenly and tried from time to time with comparative silence on the part of the bricklayer.

"You see," he explained, "we get in the habit of working pretty steady; the boss don't like to see us talking or loafing much at the rate of two cents a minute."

SIDE PAINED HER TERRIBLY

After Childbirth Women Should Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Normal Conditions

St. Louis, Missouri. — "After my first child was born I was bothered with a pain in my side which became more severe the longer I let it go. It was terrible. I often had to lie down to get any relief. I was in a weak and run-down condition, and my side seemed to be the point for all the pain. I was this way for three months, then I read your little booklet and the testimonials it contained, and started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I could feel relief after the first bottle and I have found it to do all you claim for it. I had to repeat it again after my second child was born. I sure will recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. N. R. LAYTON, 2726A University St., St. Louis, Mo.

If you are suffering from any weakness which causes such symptoms as pains in the side and back and nervous feelings, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial now.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when relief is at hand.

McConnell Claims "Second Coming" Is Certain Fact

Baptist Evangelist Says Christ Will do As Bible Says

"Jesus is coming back to earth again," declared Dr. Lincoln McConnell before an immense audience at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening, "every writer in the New Testament says so."

"Further facts about His coming are that it will be sudden; it will be world-wide; it will be an epochal event for which man should look; Christ will come personally; He will come savingly; and he will come destroying sin and Satan. He is the best friend man has, and he will protect and preserve righteous men at that time.

Tells of Coming.

Clearly and impressively the evangelist cited the story of the second coming of Christ stressing always the certainty of the event and the challenge to mankind to be ready.

"There isn't a single Bible prophecy that was definitely dated to occur before the coming of Christ that has not already taken place. All preceding prophecies are now fulfilled, and the world waits for the coming of the Christ.

"Such a belief is not fanatic, it induces all soberness, and causes a heart searching on the part of honest men. There is no cause for fear and disquiet at the thought, the thing for Christian men to do is to prepare.

"It is a tragic thing when men in the church will not believe the literal truth of the Bible," Dr. McConnell stated, "many people do not believe in the second coming of Christ because He never has come and they see no signs of it now."

To Be Unexpected.

The coming, Dr. McConnell declared, would be swift and unexpected, "like a thief in the night." He told men not to dispair because nearly 2,000 years had passed since Peter wrote concerning the second coming, stating that God's purpose were not limited by time, and that God does not forget his promises. The evangelist declared that God has warned His people against unbelief and doubt in the last days, saying that there were many who would not believe in the second coming of Christ.

"You are not behind the times scientifically if you believe in the Bible,' the speaker declared, and quoted numerous scientific facts about the physical make-up of the earth to prove that scriptural history and prophecy were true.

"If you think the plan of God is over now, read your Bible again and discover that this is merely a period of dispensation. The time will come when Christ and His people will have complete victory over the entire earth, and it is in preparation for this event that we are exhorted to repent, be diligent, faithful, and to be ready."

Three accessions were made to the church at the close of the service.

Special music was given by a male trio composed of R. Vaughn Ray, J. L. Jackson Jr., and Wm. Young with Mrs. F. R. Collard at the piano.

It was announced that Dr. McConnell will speak Thursday evening on "The Golden Key."

POLICE SEEK ASSAILANT

Man Who Wounded J. B. Scarbrough Tuesday Night Escapes.

Police searched fruitlessly Wednesday for the man who, late Tuesday night, attacked and painfully wounded J. B. Scarbrough, night manager of the Holliday Creamery. Scarbrough received bad scalp wounds about the head when he was struck three times with a small seldge hammer. It is believed his assailant was attempting a robbery.

The identity of the man is known but a hunt of all his usual haunts yesterday could bring no trace of him.

Scarbrough was reported to be recovering rapidly from the effects of the attack.

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema or tetter needs only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood-cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826.

S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together,—then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

A year ago he persuaded the city of Wichita to give him the contract for the disposal of Wichita housewives' garbage. Wagons collect it daily and feed it to his thousands of hogs, which consume, besides the garbage, 2,000 gallons of buttermilk a day and large quantities of dollar corn.

Profanity Named Most Senseless Of Modern Sins

Dr. C. C. Selecman Speaks At Strand Theatre On Ten Commandments

The most senseless and unreasonable of modern sin is profanity, according to Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of S. M. U., Dallas, in his Wednesday noon sermon at the Strand theatre on the modern application of the ten commandments.

The sermon, one of a series of five, dealt with the three commandments, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain," "Remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy" and "Honor thy father and thy mother" and was delivered before a large crowd of business men.

"This useless insult against God gratifies no passion and gets a person nowhere. It is meaningless and unreasonable, and shows a life void of reverence for the Power that brought us into the world, sustains us, and into Whose presence we shall all go at the end of our earthly existence.

Though men plead thoughtlessness and a means of giving vent to their impatience, Dr. Selecman said, the condition was deplorable when profanity was practiced every here, by strong men, by young boys and, even by women who pose as ladies.

Irreverence was scored by the minister who dwelt on the Bible, the church, the Sabbath and parents as the main sufferers.

Raybon Porter sang "The Ninety and Nine" with Mrs. J. W. Akin, Jr., at the organ, and conducted a song service of old time hymns.

Dr. Selecman announced his Thursday noon sermon as "an appropriate and effective discussion on the social evil of today and the welfare of modern men, women and young people with reference to the commandment, 'Thou shalt not commit adultery'."

Three Commandments Imperative

Methodist revivalist in Wichita Falls and president of S. M. U. at Dallas, who, in an address yesterday, declared "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain;" "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy;" and "Honor thy father and mother" were foremost of the Ten Commandments and that all must be obeyed.

Unusually large large crowds are attending both the Methodist and the Baptist revivals now being held in Wichita Falls.

Six-Team Twilight League Organization Perfected

SEASON OPENS APRIL 19 WITH AMERICAN REFINERS MEETING WICHITA FALLS ELECTRIC NINE

Security Nationals Play Texhomas April 22 —Monroe's Travelers Battle Ludlam and Riggs 23rd

Six fast amateur clubs are forming at the barrier preparatory to breaking away in the 1925 flag race of the Wichita Falls Twilight league during the week of April 19. These teams are Monroe's Travelers, American Refiners, Ludlam and Riggs, Texhomas, Wichita Falls Electrics and Security Nationals.

Organization of the league was perfected in session of club officials, schedule adopted, and officers elected Wednesday night at the Landon-Hill Sporting Goods company.

Forty-five games are to be played, three games each week, making it around the circle three times for each team. Contests are to be staged on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. The season gets under way Sunday, April 19, with the American Refining company nine battling the Electrics. Tanner's Spudders open at Athletic park the following Tuesday with Shreveport's Gassers, so out of civic patriotism the second Twilight tilt will be staged on Wednesday instead of Tuesday with Security Nationals and Texhomas getting the call. Monroe's Travelers and Ludlam and Riggs hook up Thursday, the 23rd.

Landon Re-Elected

The schedule has been drawn, but will not be released until a later date. All week-day games are to start at 5 p. m., Sunday contests at 3 o'clock.

L. O. Landon, president of the organization for the past several years, was re-elected to the office. Al Parker, sports editor of the Wichita Daily Times, was elected vice president. Hugh Cotner of the Security National bank was voted league treasurer, and Blondy Cross, sports editor of The Record News, was elected secretary and statistician.

Selection of umpires was deferred. Frank Quiesser, well known Wichita Falls sportsman and candidate in the current city political campaign for the office of police commissioner, will be asked to officiate at the opening game for the purpose of giving the league a good send-off. Quiesser will be proffered, also, the position of head umpire for the season, it is understood.

The league adopted the Rawlings baseball. Incidentally, gold baseball fobs will be presented each member of the team that wins the pennant, by the Rawlings Mfg. Co.

Teams Almost Ready

There are a few player deals to be made during the next few days by way of bolstering one or two clubs which are short in a department or so. After these moves are made, each club will be just about ready to cut loose in the gonfalon drive.

No manager has been selected as yet for Monroe's Travelers, but Grover Monroe stated that he expected to have his team intact before the end of the week.

Hugh Cotner will manage the Security Nationals. Len Smith has assumed the managerial role of the Ludlam and Riggs crew. H. F. Norwood has taken over the reins of the Wichita Falls Electric company nine. Bob Stiles leads the Texhomas, and L. R. Medford will manage the American Refining company club.

WICHITA LOOMS AS STRONG CONTENDER IN NAT'L CAGE MEET

CHICAGO, April 1.—Hamlets and large cities remained equally in the running in early eliminations in the second round play in the University of Chicago national interscholastic invitation basketball tourney here today. Fives from all parts of the country were numbered among the victors.

All of the 42 quintets in the tournament had gone into action tonight as ten teams which survived the first round of the meet yesterday prepared for the five contests which would conclude the second round tonight. Sixteen teams will remain in the running.

By defeating Fairfax, Okla., in deliberate style today, Yankton, S. D., went into the third bracket. This quintet, virtually the same which battled Windsor, Colo., for the national title here a year ago, faces an acid test tomorrow when it is scheduled to clash with the five from Wichita, Kansas. Wichita, in its easy victory today over Detroit, loomed as a strong contender for highest honors.

AGGIES AT HOME FRIDAY.

COLLEGE STATION, April 1.—Friday will find the Texas Aggies playing their first Conference baseball game at home after they got off to a bad start by losing to Rice institute in a hard fought game last week.

OLD HOME TOWN

April fools' day brought wariness on the part of the matrimonially inclined, it seems, for Wednesday saw only one license issued at the county clerk's office. It went to Robert Wright and Miss Lua Simpson, both of Wichita Falls.

Paul Ringle, central station fireman who was severely burned in a gasoline explosion and fire at the Uneeda tailor shop, 1105 Eighth street, Sunday, March 22, was able to leave the hospital Wednesday morning. His hands are still swathed in bandages but otherwise he has recovered. Andy Julinson, another fireman, lost his life in the same explosion.

Charles Farman, an attorney of Kansas City, was in Wichita Falls Wednesday on legal business.

GOLF

As Champons Play It.

By BILL STRACHAN.

When the ribbed clubs were barred by the golf association golfers lost 90 per cent of their back spin. In order to make a ball stick on the green now it must be pitched into the air and then one is not always sure as a certain amount of over spin is bound to go with this shot especially with players who do not know how to cut the ball.

A new club has been invented that will serve to help the pitch shot. Is is on the order of the mashie niblick but it is laid back a lot more. Golfers who have been using this club this winter have found it useful for the purpose and it appears as if it had come to stay.

Tunney Scraps Gibbons In Title Fracas, June 12

St. Paul Heavyweight Lays Claim to Dempsey's Crown

NEW YORK, April 1.—Tom Gibbons, veteran St. Paul boxer, and Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight, champion, were signed today for a 15-round decision bout at the Polo Grounds on the night of June 12. Since they will fight at catch weights, Tunney's title will not be at stake.

Matchmaker Jimmy Deforest, of the Polo Grounds A. C., which will promote the battle, said the match would be for the "world's heavyweight championship." Gibbons, he said, had made this stipulation in view of the New York state athletic commission's action in returning his $2,500 forfeit for a meeting with Dempsey.

"Tom Logical Champ."

"Tom is the logical champion of the world, because Jack Dempsey refused to meet him after he had challenged," said Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, who with Billy Gibson, Tunney's representative, signed the articles for the bout. "Tom will defend his title against all comers. Dempsey, we believe, has retired or will retire."

Gibson asserted that Tunney had "just as much right to claim the heavyweight title as Gibbons," and that he contested Tom's claim.

"If there is going to be a scramble for the heavyweight title, we will fight Gibbons for it, and will defend it against anybody else, or fight Jack Dempsey to prove our claim," he said.

The match is subject to the approval of the New York state athletic commission which recently placed Dempsey on the ineligible list in this state for his failure to answer satisfactorily the commission's demand that he fight Harry Wills. Negotiations for a Wills-Gibbons bout at the milk fund show in the Yankee Stadium on the night of May 29 collapsed yesterday when Kane decided that because he had not received Wills' signed agreement for the match he would negotiate for a bout with Tunney.

$10,000 Forfeits.

Deforest who said that Gibbons would receive 30 per cent of the gate receipts and Tunney 20 per cent asserted that the seating capacity of the Polo Grounds would be increased to 100,000 for the fight. The date, June 12, he added was subject to the approval of the athletic commission.

The articles of agreement provided that each boxer must post a forfeit of $10,000 for his appearance in the ring and that each must refuse offers for bouts from now until June 24. Tunney and Gibbons must go through the last three weeks of their training campaigns in New York or vicinity.

Gibbons, who now is in St. Paul is expected to do his early training in his own gymnasium. Tunney may prepare for the bout at Redbank, N. J. Tunney is now in Hot Springs Ark., but a telegram forwarded today requested him to come here immediately.

Wheeler Rips Into Action This Week

The railbirds have long awaited the chance to witness Ripper the Wheeler in action again. Spudders have hooked up in a pair of three-game exhibition series already this spring, but Wheeler, the mound flash who performed with the Spudders in 1922 and 1923 and who comes back from the Chicago Cubs this year to the Tannermen for the 1925 Texas league pennant dash, has not taken a turn on the hilltop for so much as one inning. But Spudder fans will see Rip perform in the Oklahoma City series which starts at the Spud plant Friday and runs through Sunday, announces Skipper Tanner.

Wheeler has been coming along slowly—taking it easy more or less during spring training to date, and not rushing himself. The veteran realizes fully that a hurler can overdo himself very easily if he bears down very hard while rounding into shape, and for this reason Tanner has not sent him to the box before this. The Spudder management is depending on Wheeler to go a long ways toward carrying the Spudders up in the race.

Ma Approves Trio Of Game Bill Measures

State Wide Regulation Of Trapping Season Provided

AUSTIN, April 1.—(AP)—Wild game, fish and fur-bearing animals today were declared the property of Texas, and hunting and fishing privileges were completely revised when Governor Miriam A. Ferguson approved the three principal measures passed by the thirty-ninth legislature at request of the game, fish and oyster department.

The bills approved are commonly known as the "fur-bearing bill, fish bill and game bill," and their passage through the legislature caused more political fireworks than any other bills, with the exception of the Ferguson amnesty.

Two Hunting Zones.

The game bill divides the state into two hunting zones divided by the lines of the Missouri Pacific System, from Laredo to Texarkana. It shortens the seasons and reduces the daily and seasonal bag limits on all wild game and fowls.

Bag limit on deer is reduced to two for a season, and the open season for turkey is from November 16 to December 30. In the north zone open season on quail is November 16 to January 1. Doves, September and October; ducks and geese, October 16 to January 31. In the south zone, quail, doves November and December, ducks and geese, November 1 to January 31.

Bag limits, quail, 12 daily, 36 weekly; doves, 15 and 45; ducks, 25 and 45; geese, 4 and 12; prairie chickens, open season all over Texas, 5 daily and 10 during open season. Open season on bear, November 16 to December 31, bag limit one during season.

The act provides for license and regulation of shooting clubs, creation of game sanctuaries and preserves, issuance of permits for propagation of game and raises the fees for non-resident hunting license to $25. Present resident license fee of $2 is unchanged.

Fresh Water Law.

The fish bill makes the fresh water fishing laws apply to all running streams and connecting lakes as well as well as the public waters. It prohibits the sale or barter of fresh water bass and white perch and closes certain black bass and bayous against seins and nets and authorizes the game, fish and oyster commissioner to close other bays when necessary to conserve fish.

The bill was worked out through agreement between sportsmen, the commission officials and commercial fishing interests and provides a statewide fishing code.

The trappers bill, for the first time, provides state-wide regulation of trapping seasons. It sets the season in which fur bearing animals may be killed for their pelts, but does not prohibit killing of predatory animals for their meat.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"BAREE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitagraph Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Baree, the wolf-dog, attracted from the cabin of Pierrot, the trapper, by the call of the wolves, and Maheegun, the young she-wolf who was on the same quest, at length overtook the pack. A gray wolf advanced to Maheegun and she snarled at him. Baree sought to protect her, whereupon a horde of the beasts attacked him and he barely escaped with his life. Badly wounded, and dazed, because he had been cast out by his own kind—he was half-wolf—he fled and again wandered alone through the woods.

He did not hear, a few minutes later, the howling of the disappointed wolf-horde on the other side of the river, and he no longer sensed the existence of moon or stars. Half dead, he dragged himself on until by chance he came to a clump of dwarf spruce. Into this he struggled, and then dropped exhausted.

All that night and until noon the next day Baree lay without moving. The fever burned in his blood; it flamed high and swift toward death; then it ebbed slowly, and life conquered. At noon he came forth. He was weak, and he wobbled on his legs. His hind leg still dragged, and he was racked with pain.

A red ferocity grew in Baree's eyes as he snarled in the direction of last night's fight with the wolves. They were no longer his people. They were no longer of his blood. Never again could the hunt-call lure him or the voice of the pack rouse the old longing. In him there was a thing new-born, an undying hatred for the wolf, a hatred that was to grow in him until it became like a disease in his vitals, a thing ever present and insistent, demanding vengeance on their kind.

"To Nepeese and Baree it was a wild and joyous adventure that never for a day grew tiresome."

CHAPTER XIX

At the cabin on the Gray Loon, on the fourth night of Baree's absence, Pierrot was smoking his pipe after a great supper of caribou tenderloin he had brought in from the trail, and Nepeese was listening to his tale of the remarkable shot he had made, when a sound at the door interrupted them. Nepeese opened it, and Baree came in. The cry of welcome that was on the girl's lips died there instantly, and Pierrot stared as if he could not quite believe this creature that had returned was the wolf-dog. Three days and nights of hunger in which he could not hunt because of the leg that dragged had put on him the marks of starvation. Battle-scarred and covered with dried blood-clots that still clung tenaciously to his long hair, he was a sight that drew at last a long breath from Nepeese. A queer smile was growing in Pierrot's face as he leaned forward in his chair; and then slowly rising to his feet, and looking closer, he said to Nepeese:

"Ventre Saint Gris! Oui, he has been to the pack, Nepeese, and the pack turned on him. It was not a two-wolf fight—non! It was the pack. He is cut and torn in fifty places. And—mon Dieu, he is alive!"

In Pierrot's voice there was growing wonder and amazement. He was incredulous, and yet he could not disbelieve what his eyes told him. What had happened was nothing short of a miracle, and for a time he uttered not a word more but remained staring in silence while Nepeese woke from her astonishment to give Baree doctoring and food. After he had eaten ravenously of cold boiled mush she began bathing his wounds in warm water, and after that she soothed them with bear-grease, talking to him all the time in her soft Cree.

In a week or two the heavier snows came, and Pierrot began making his trips over the trap-lines. Nepeese had entered into a thrilling bargain with him this winter. Pierrot had taken her into partnership. Every fifth trap, every fifth deadfall, and every fifth poison-bait was to be her own, and what they caught or killed was to bring a bit nearer to realization a wonderful dream that was growing in the Willow's soul. Pierrot had promised. If they had great luck that winter, they would go down together on the last snows to Nelson House and buy the little old organ that was for sale there; and if the organ was sold, they would work another winter, and get a new one.

This plan gave Nepeese an enthusiastic and tireless interest in the trap-line. With Pierrot it was more or less a fine bit of strategy. He would have sold his hand to give Nepeese the organ; he was determined that she should have it, whether the fifth traps and the fifth deadfalls and the fifth poison-baits caught the fur of not. The partnership meant nothing so far as that was concerned. But in another way it meant to Nepeese a business interest, the thrill of personal achievement. Pierrot impressed on her that it made a comrade and co-worker of her on the trail. That was his scheme: to keep her with him when he was away from the cabin. He knew that Bush McTaggart would come again to the Gray Loon, probably more than once during the winter. He had swift dogs, and it was a short journey. And when McTaggart came, Nepeese must not be at the cabin—alone.

Pierrot's trap-line swung into the north and west, covering in all a matter of fifty miles, with an average of two traps, one deadfall, and a poison-bait to each mile. It was a twisting line blazed along streams for mink, otter, and marten, piercing the deepest forests for fisher-cat and lynx and crossing lakes and storm-swept stripe of barrens where poison-baits could be set for fox and wolf. Halfway over this line Pierrot had built a small log cabin, and at the end of it another, so that a day's work meant twenty-five miles. This was easy for Pierrot, and not hard on Nepeese after the first few days.

All through October and November they made the trips regularly, making the round every six days, which gave one day of rest at the cabin on the Gray Loon and another day in the cabin at the end of the trail. To Pierrot the winter's work was business, the labor of his people for many generations back; to Nepeese and Baree it was a wild and joyous adventure that never for a day grew tiresome. Even Pierrot could not quite immunize himself against their enthusiasm. It was infectious, and he was happier than he had been since his son had set that evening the princess mother died.

One afternoon early in December, as they were returning to the Gray Loon, Pierrot stopped suddenly a dozen paces ahead of Nepeese and stared at the snow. A strange snowshoe trail had joined their own and was heading toward the cabin. For half a minute Pierrot was silent and scarcely moved a muscle as he stared. The trail came straight out of the north—and off there was Lac Bain. Also they were the marks of large snowshoes, and the stride indicated was that of a tall man. Before Pierrot had spoken, Nepeese had guessed what they meant.

"M'sieu the Factor from Lac Bain!" she said.

Pierrot, deep in his own sombre thoughts, scarcely heard the strange laugh that came suddenly from her lips. Nepeese was listening to the growl that was again in Baree's throat. It was a low but terrible sound. When half a mile from the cabin, she unslung the panniers from his shoulders and carried them herself. Ten minutes later they saw a man advancing to meet them.

It was not McTaggart. Pierrot recognized him, and with an audible breath of relief waved his hand. It was DeBar, who trapped in the Barren Country north of Lac Bain. Pierrot knew him well. They had exchanged fox-poison. They were friends, and there was pleasure in the grip of their hands. DeBar stared then at Nepeese.

DeBar lost no time in explaining his mission, and before they reached the cabin Pierrot and Nepeese knew why he had come. M'sieu, the Factor at Lac Bain, was leaving on a journey in five days, and he had sent DeBar as a special messenger to request Pierrot to come up to assist the clerk and the half-breed storekeeper in his absence. Pierrot made no comment at first. But he was thinking. Why had Bush McTaggart sent for him? Why had he not chosen some one nearer? Not until a fire was crackling in the sheet-iron stove in the cabin, and Nepeese was busily engaged getting supper, did he voice these questions to the fur-hunter.

DeBar shrugged his shoulders.

"He asked me, at first, if I could stay. But I have a wife with a bad lung, Pierrot. It was caught by frost last winter, and I dare not leave her long alone. He has great faith in you. Besides, you know all the trappers on the Company's books at Lac Bain. So he sent for you, and begs you not to worry about your fur-lines, as he will pay you double what you would catch in the time you are at the Post."

STOCKS.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market. Which displayed a strong undertone with the volume of trading the smallest of any full day session since election day. Fresh buying power was attracted by the recovery in wheat prices, the easing of call money rates and the growing speculative belief that the bottom of the present reaction was reached in Monday's drastic decline.

Motors gave an impressive demonstration of group strength, with buying influenced by reports that bankers had acquired control of Dodge Brothers by payment of an enormous cash sum, which was construed as an indication of the financial community's faith in the motor industry. Nash Motors was the individual feature, soaring 15 points to a record high price of 300. Mack Truck closed 7 points higher at 135⅛ after selling 25 points above that figure. Jordan, White Motors, Stewart Warner, Stromberg and Briggs Manufacturing showed net gains of 1½ to nearly 3 points. Steel shares were well supported, despite the contraction of output reported by the weekly trade reviews. U. S. Steel closed nearly a point higher at 116⅛ and Ludlum moved up 1½ to 38⅝. Most of the other industrials improved fractionally.

Strong buying support was reported for most of the other standard industrials, although there was no concerted effort to bid them up at the expense of the short interest. Baldwin closed more than two points higher at 114 and American Can showed a gain of nearly one point at 163⅝. Allis Chalmers was bid up over two points to 70⅝ on reports of an early increase in the dividend.

Fresh weakness cropped out in American Woolen, which dropped more than 2 points to 37½.

Pan-American Petroleum issues also were supplied freely in anticipation of the announcement of the re-organization plan after the close of the market. The "B" stock slipping from 79⅛ to 76⅝ where it was off 1¼ on the day.

Railroad shares made moderate improvement on reports that heavy car loadings were being maintained.

"Katy" preferred, Missouri Pacific preferred, Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Gulf and Mobile, Delaware and Hudson and a few others showed net gains of about 1 to 2½ points.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and then dropped to 4⅜. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was a break of 8 points in French francs to around 5.20 cents in reflection of reports that the French government was considering an increase in its note circulation. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.77⅝. Other European rates were mixed.

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—The cotton market was quieter today than of late and fluctuations were narrow. Opening slightly higher in sympathy with better Liverpool cables than due, prices gradually sagged off to 24.07 for July and 23.84 for October or 9 to 10 points below yesterday's closing levels. Later the market gradually stiffened and made the day's high points right at the end with July 24.85 and October 24.02 or 15 points up on both positions from the earlier lows. The close was near the top, showing net gains for the day on the active months of 4 to 6 points.

The early decline was due mainly to the map showing of more or less western rain and the official forecast for further showers in that section. The daily weather bulletin, the issue for this season reported numerous moderate showers in Texas, Oklahoma and the west generally.

As the market appeared to be oversold and many considered that the rains had been entirely too light the market rallied to the end of the morning session and continued to improve during the afternoon on the liberal exports for the day and the better tone in stocks and grain.

The high points made in the last minute of trading were due to covering by shorts.

Exports for the day were large, 52,207 bales.

Just then the guards rushed in. The Mogul Slave girl espied him, but he threatened her to silence with his dagger—and escaped. Meanwhile, three Princes from afar came to woo the Princess. She sent them away for a journey of seven, agreeing to wed the one who returned with the rarest treasure. One of the suitors, a Mongol Prince, plotted to raise a secret army and capture Bagdad. And is aided by a treacherous Mongol Slave of the Princess's bed chamber.

The Thief, in magnificent stolen raiment and aided by his evil associates, had the audacity to call himself Prince of the Isles of the Seven Palaces, in which guise he presented himself as a suitor for the hand of the Princess. He won favor in her eyes.

While in her presence, his better self asserted itself and he resolved no longer to be a thief. He confessed his deception to the Princess. Mean while, the younf Mongol slave who has recognized him gave the alarm. He is seized, beaten and—

3 Directors Quit Houston Board; Report Dissension

Squabble Over Pipe Line Said to Have Caused Division

HOUSTON, April 1.—Three directors of the Houston Oil company of Texas have tendered their resignations, according to E. H. Buckner, who returned Wednesday night from a meeting of the board in St. Louis. They are A. H. Post, Baltimore, and H. B. Lake and Donald Goddess of New York.

While Mr. Buckner did not report any dissension among the directors over the proposed gas pipe line from Live Oak county to Houston, bonds for the construction of which are held by the Houston Oil company, a private wire dispatch from New York states:

"It is understood these resignations are the result of serious difference of opinion as to some of the policies of that board culminating in recent issue of Houston Oil notes."

The proposed pipeline is to be constructed by the Houston Pipeline company, chartered for $15,000,000. The Houston Pipeline company's bonds are held by the Houston Oil company, and directors of the Houston Oil company largely compose the governing boards of the pipeline company.

Mr. Buckner sai dthe pipeline was discussed at the meeting, and that construction will commence April 15. The line should be completed within eight months, he said. It will be 16, 18 and 20 inches in size.
