House OK's Multibillion-Dollar Education Bill With Strings

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed early today a bill designed to ease the task of school desegregation but loaded it with amendments that could make the job tougher.

Meeting through the night, it approved at 2:21 a.m. President Nixon's request for $1.5 billion to help schools desegregate but clamped harsh restrictions on the use of busing to accomplish the goal.

Both the desegregation measure and the antibusing amendments were added to a multibillion-dollar higher education bill, and the whole package is now headed for a House-Senate conference to work out a compromise. The vote on passage of the bill was 332 to 38.

The Senate has passed a desegregation bill without any busing restrictions, and civil rights leaders hope to soften the House provisions.

There are three of them, one banning expenditure of any federal funds on busing, another preventing the federal government from requiring a state to use its own funds for busing, and the third delaying the effective date of court-ordered busing plans until all appeals have been exhausted.

On their face the first two would appear to restrict severely the ability of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to carry out requirements of the Civil Rights Act that call for school desegregation.

The one dealing with the courts could hold up busing plans for two or three years while appeals were carried to the Supreme Court.

Black members reacted bitterly to the series of votes, accusing the House of turning the clock back 17 years to the Supreme Court decision that first outlawed school segregation.

"Busing is not the issue," said Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif. "It is desegregation. Those who are opposing busing are really opposing the integration of the schools."

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., charged her white colleagues with hypocrisy.

"Where were you when black children and Mexican-American children were being bused by your white schools to dilapidated schools where they got an inferior education?" she asked.

"Where were your voices crying about busing then?" Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., dean of the House and sponsor of the civil rights laws enacted during the last decade, chided the members for acting in "haste and hysteria" and promised to seek a legislative remedy for the antibusing amendments were rejected.

But the House was in no mood to listen. The amendment prohibiting federal expenditures for busing was adopted by a vote of 233 to 124; the delay on court-ordered busing, 235 to 125, and the one preventing the federal government from requiring a state to finance busing carried by a 231-126 vote.

Debate was sharply limited, leaving members with only 30 seconds to make speeches. Cries of "Vote! Vote!" drowned out some speakers.

"This is a disgraceful performance," said Rep. Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., one of the black members.

Mitchell's brother, Clarence J. Mitchell, chief civil rights lobbyist for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who watched the entire session from the gallery, issued a stinging statement afterward.

"The people of each congressional district should study the roll calls on busing," he said. "This is a reliable list of the true racists and promoters of discord in the United States."

"They may wear the business suits of congressmen but in their hearts they wear the robes of the Ku Klux Klan and this night they have put the torch to the Constitution of the United States."

Assistance Bill To Be Debated In Both Houses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Separate congressional efforts to rescue foreign aid from last week's Senate rejection are headed for debate in both houses in an atmosphere of increasing antagonism between congressional critics and the Nixon administration.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided Thursday to separate the aid program into military and economic bills. In addition, the panel retained restrictive proposals the administration opposes, and cut the total aid amount to $2.3 billion—$1 billion less than the administration's minimum.

Even with the cut, however, chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., expressed doubt the new bills would be approved. "I think it's marginal," he said, adding he will seek further cuts.

While the Senate committee moved forward with its bills, intended as interim measures to next June 30, the House Rules Committee cleared the way for consideration Tuesday of shorter interim funding for the aid program and agencies which don't have regular appropriations yet—the Defense Department, the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the District of Columbia.

But in the House action, too, a sharp cut is favored by Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee.

"I'm one of those who wants to see a vast reduction of foreign aid," Mahon said, "and I believe there will be a vast reduction."

The House plan is for a continuing resolution that would set aid spending at a level of $2.8 billion until Congress adjourns, probably in a month.

AEC Head Says Blast Not Risky

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (AP)—The head of the Atomic Energy Commission watched preparations for Saturday's scheduled underground nuclear blast and declared, "There is no risk."

With his wife and two of his daughters at his side, AEC Chairman James R. Schlesinger late Thursday peered into the 6,000-foot-deep hole where the five-megaton device will be detonated.

They plan to remain on this barren, windswept Aleutian island until after the test.

"It's fun for the kids, and my wife is delighted to get away from the house for a while," Schlesinger said. The Schlesingers watched as workmen were dumping 5,600 tons of sand and gravel into the shaft, sealing the nuclear device in a chamber where it is scheduled to be fired at 5 p.m. EST Saturday.

Many environmentalists have expressed fears that the blast could touch off a series of earthquakes or send a tidal wave rolling across the Pacific Ocean. The AEC maintains such possibilities are remote.

Officials of the test—code-named Cannikin—said everything was on schedule for what will be the most powerful underground nuclear explosion ever conducted by the United States.

Schlesinger, several aides and two members of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy arrived Thursday after stopping in Anchorage, 1,400 miles to the east, to pick up a group of newsmen and other AEC officials.

The congressmen are Reps. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., and Orville Hansen, R-Idaho. Hosmer was accompanied by his wife.

Explosion Set 4 p.m. Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP)—While final preparations were being made for a huge nuclear test at Amchitka Island, environmental groups today pinned their hopes of halting the blast on a promised early decision by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

The Atomic Energy Commission plans to set off the five-megaton explosion at 5 p.m. EST Saturday, 6,000 feet under the island off the Alaskan coast. The blast will test the hydrogen-bomb warhead of the Spartan antiballistic missile.

Conservation groups opposed to the test, code-named Cannikin, took their plea to Burger Thursday after losing two lower-court attempts to have the test stopped. A high court spokesman said a ruling could be expected today.

Conservationists have cited what they called environmental hazards of the test—the possibility of earthquakes, tidal waves and radiation. The test would be 250 times larger than the blast that leveled Hiroshima and the largest explosion yet set off in the Western world.

The White House Thursday said a careful study of the environmental risks had been made and a decision to proceed was made in the interests of national defense and security.

The appeal to Burger was filed by the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility, one of seven groups opposed to the test, asking that the test be halted, pending a hearing by the full court.

The appeal cited a Court of Appeals ruling that "substantial questions" exist on whether the government complied with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, "and whether, accordingly, the action is lawful."

The appeal said the Court of Appeals determined there was not enough time for a "judicial resolution" of the matter. "The result is to permit the carrying out of a federal action whose effect on the environment may be among the most significant in all man's history," the appeal said.

$1.6 Billion OK'd For Cancer Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $1.6-billion bill to combat cancer has won an easy victory in early House rounds despite American Cancer Society preference for a Senate-passed rival.

The House Commerce Committee, sustaining the unanimous verdict of its 10-member public health subcommittee, voted 26 to 2 Thursday to endorse a bill that Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., calls "the most comprehensive attack against a single disease in this nation's history."

City Manager Heads For Florida Meeting

City Manager Mack Wofford will leave Pampa tomorrow to attend the 57th annual conference of the International City Management Association Sunday through Thursday in Hollywood, Fla.

Wofford said the conference will be divided into three sessions in progress at the same time. These will be executive development, urban issues and municipal services.

Wofford said he plans to attend the municipal services division which will cover equipment management, survey techniques, problem solving, films on management and local government problems.

The city manager said he will forego the Buffalo Bills-Miami Dolphins pro football game Sunday afternoon to attend a get-acquainted session to be hosted by Amarillo City Manager John Smith who is president of the ICMA.

The city manager and Mrs. Wofford will fly to Dallas Saturday and from there to Hollywood.

"I'm hoping we do not get hijacked to Cuba and be forced to miss the conference," Wofford said today.

Pay Board Hopes To Reach Accord On Wage-Hike Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The embattled Pay Board is described as "down to the nuts and bolts" stage of negotiating a Phase 2 wage increase formula, with hopes of agreement by Monday.

But the board found itself in a cross-fire of angry charges between President Nixon and Congress Thursday, and the Phase 2 program wound up deep in politics.

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO voiced hope of a settlement by Monday after the House Banking Committee dealt itself a hand in the tense, three-way bargaining session of the 15-man labor-public-management Pay Board. The negotiations were to resume today.

The House committee voted amendments to Nixon's Phase 2 control bill which would give unions substantially what Meany demands—the full pay increases negotiated before the wage-price freeze, except for "grossly disproportionate" boosts, plus retroactive payment of increases that were blocked during the freeze.

In quick reaction, Nixon read a statement to reporters at the White House:

"The committee's action is clearly inconsistent with the purposes of the economic stabilization program," he said. "It would provide for a piecemeal approach to the development of the programs."

"The amendments would provide for special treatment to one segment of the American economy."

Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., retorted that Nixon had decided to turn a bipartisan program "into a political attack on the Democrats."

The President's party apparently has mapped a campaign to use the wage-price program for partisan purposes.

The Pay Board's deliberations were disrupted by the committee votes. The five management and five public members asked and obtained two 90 minute recesses of the session. They reconvened, but darkness had long settled before the delayed session ended.

Yet the board members seemed unruffled. Meany's comment that the board got down to nuts and bolts was endorsed, in effect, by Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council and an ex-officio member of the Pay Board. The Banking Committee's action "directly undermines" the tripartite idea underlying the board, Rumsfeld said, but he added: "I'm not a spokesman for the Pay Board. They are doing their work in an orderly fashion... Progress is being made."

The turnout of the Banking Committee was dramatic. It switched from Wednesday's peaceable attitude of general support for Nixon's proposals to extend his control powers to April 30, 1973, to a rapid-fire series of close, almost partyline votes which, if translated into law, would pin a made-in-Congress label on much of the Phase 2 program.

In between had come a signal that labor needed help. A story leaked into print that the Pay Board's five public and five industry members had recommended, in separately drafted plans, that United Fund Hits 90 Pct.

Pampa's 1971 United Fund had reached the $85,000 mark today, or 90 per cent of the $94,250 goal.

Verl Hagaman, drive chairman, said the chance of reaching the goal was looking much better, but it would take the combined efforts of all workers to complete the job.

Phase 2 pay increases be held to 5 per cent, that retroactivity be denied, and that the deferred pay increases be pared down to conform to the general wage guideline. The public members proposed, further, that the freeze be extended two months beyond its scheduled Nov. 13 expiration date.

The Banking Committee moved into action. In addition to proposals requiring deferred pay contracts be honored and frozen pay increases paid retroactively, the committee's amendments would:

—Authorize individual consumers to sue for up to $1,000 damages if they are willfully overcharged.

—Impose mandatory controls on interest rates while price and wage controls are in effect. Nixon has requested standby power to control interest and dividends, but the White House has expressly stated it has no plan to use the authority.

—Exempt from wage controls the working poor—those who have jobs but with earnings below the federally established subsistence levels.

—Eliminate from the Nixon legislation a provision giving congressional ratification to actions already taken by the control agencies.

October Unemployment Drops 2%

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unemployment dropped by 0.2 per cent to 5.8 per cent of the work force last month for the second decline in a row, the government said today.

The total number of jobholders rose to a record 79.8 million and the number of jobseekers fell 270,000 to 4.6 million, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

The number of unemployed persons normally declines somewhat in October, but the BLS said last month's drop was 135,000 more than might be expected from seasonal causes alone.

The unemployment rate has hovered between 5.6 per cent and 6.2 per cent for the last 12 months.

It was 5.8 per cent in July, 6.1 per cent in August and 6.0 per cent in September. The October 1970 rate was 5.5 per cent.

The BLS attributed the September decline in total unemployment to a reduction in adult males who had lost their jobs earlier. The rate for adult men declined from 4.5 per cent in September to 4.3 per cent last month, and the rate for married men dropped from 3.3 per cent to 3.0 per cent—the lowest in a year, the BLS said.

The rate for adult women dropped 0.1 per cent to 5.5 per cent and the rate for teenagers edged down to 17.0 per cent.

The rate for blue-collar workers dropped dramatically from 8.0 per cent to 7.2 per cent, but for white-collar workers it edged up from 3.3 per cent to 3.4 per cent.

The rate for whites slipped down from 5.4 per cent to 5.3 per cent last month, but the rate for blacks and other non-whites edged up from 10.5 per cent to 10.7 per cent.

The BLS said the average work week for 71.4 million rank-and-file workers jumped four-tenths of an hour to a seasonally adjusted figure of 37.1 hours.

Average weekly earnings of rank-and-file workers were little changed at $129.11, the BLS said.

The bureau said that the job situation for Vietnam veterans, 20 to 29 years old, was better last month than it had been all year—despite a continuing high discharge rate from the military. The BLS said 270,000 of this group was out of work last month, 50,000 fewer than September. The BLS said this was the first time in nearly a year that their unemployment was below 300,000.

Reports Due Tonight On Breath Test

Reports on breathing tests taken during the anti-smoking withdrawal clinic held this week in Pampa Junior High School will be made at tonight's 6 p.m. clinic session.

Charles McIntosh, area director of the Top O' Texas TB and Respiratory Association, said approximately 50 tests had been made.

"The clinic has been highly successful and well-attended," McIntosh said.

3 PHS Beauties To Vie For Title Of Sweetheart

Three Pampa High School beauties, Laura Henderson, Caroline Lindsay and Janice Wing, are going through moments of suspense that make a Hitchcock thriller seem like a Disney cartoon.

One of the trio will be honored as Band Sweetheart at halftime ceremonies tonight at the game with Palo Duro.

City To Plan Parking Area

Plans for adequate parking in the area of Pampa's new civic auditorium will be initiated at next Tuesday's meeting of the City Commission.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today authorization will be asked to employ a local consultant firm to handle the project.

City officials and a representative of the auditorium advisory committee met yesterday afternoon and discussed the parking situation and items of interior decoration in the building.

Deadline Set To File Claims

Deadline for filing claims for Medicare services from Oct. 1, 1969, through Sept. 1, 1970 will be Dec. 31, according to an announcement by Travis C. Briggs, Social Security district manager.

Briggs said under the law Medicare can pay medical insurance claims only within a certain time after treatment or other services.

No bills, he added can be paid by Medicare after Dec. 31 for services rendered during the 1969-70 time period.

Wholesale Prices Drop 0.1%, Thanks To Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's price freeze dropped wholesale prices an average of 0.1 per cent in October for the second monthly decline in a row, the government said today.

Wholesale prices for consumer finished goods went against the trend, rising 0.2 per cent, but this was attributed largely to a 2.1 per cent increase in food items, most of which are not subject to the freeze. Excluding foods, consumer goods were down 0.3 per cent.

Industrial commodities were unchanged. When corrected for seasonal variations the wholesale price index showed a 0.1 per cent decline, the same as the unadjusted index, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

There were sharp declines in wholesale prices for lumber and wood products, gasoline, residual fuel, electric power, textiles, rubber and plastic products, the bureau said. On a seasonally adjusted basis, wholesale prices for industrial commodities declined 0.3 per cent, farm products and processed foods and seeds rose 1.4 per cent and consumer finished goods were up 0.6 per cent.

Wholesale prices of American-made cars increased 1.6 per cent in October, the bureau said. But it said this did not necessarily violate the freeze because September prices were entirely for 1971 model cars while October prices are for 1972 models. The 0.1 per cent decline follows a seasonally adjusted drop of 0.4 per cent for September, the first full month after the President's freeze announcement Aug. 15. However, prices paid by consumers rose on the average in September.

Water Projects In Danger

DALLAS (AP) — Long range water projects in Texas and the nation are in peril because of environmental challenges, the head of the Texas water planning agency has said.

W. E. Tinsley, chairman of the Texas Water Development Board, said Wednesday water developers face the threat of "spending more time in the courtroom than over the planning table."

He blamed "clever obstructionists" for using political pressure, legal maneuvering and emotional appeals to confuse the public about the wisdom of long range water projects.

Tinsley, Otha Dent, chairman of the Texas Water Rights Commission and Gordon Fulcher, chairman of the Texas Water Quality Board, spoke at the National Water Resources Association convention.

Dent, noting that four water projects and three highway projects in the state are currently the subjects of injunctive lawsuits on ecological grounds, said that those people who delay project development through "irresponsible use of our judicial processes" should be required to provide bond for increased costs that result.

Among the projects that environmentalists are suing to halt are the Wallisville Reservoir at the mouth of the Trinity River, an element of the proposed Trinity navigation system, and the channelling of the Sulphur River in northeast Texas below the proposed site of Cooper Reservoir. Both suits are awaiting trial in federal courts.

Fulcher told the group that proposed amendments to federal water quality law that are now before Congress contain "drastic provisions" that would give a federal administrator vast control over Texas waters. He said the states should keep control of their own water quality programs — and will be able to, "if we are just not willing to roll over."

Tinsley said Texas faces "nightmarish prospects" of water shortages for industry, irrigation and the kitchen sink if the state's uneven distribution of water is not corrected. The Water Development Board is responsible for planning and financing water projects.

The answer to the scarcity is not "Stop the World, zero population growth, or a commune in the backwoods," Tinsley said. The state's economy, he maintained, can be maintained at the present level "only if we expand our supply and correct the maldistribution" of water.

Tinsley said water developers are being harassed and pictured as despoilers by "starry-eyed do-gooders" and environmental activists who "merged out of nowhere."

Constraints on water development by national and state environmental policy legislation, citizen lawsuits and fund shortages are the pervasive topics of the program at the 40th annual meeting of the association, which is interested chiefly in water resources of the western states. The theme of the convention is "The Thinking Man's Environment."

NRWA president Lorin Markham said at least a dozen major western projects are faced with "environmental roadblocks" and the National Environmental Policy Act is being used far beyond what its authors ever envisioned to delay authorized water construction projects. Meanwhile, he said, over $5 billion worth of authorized reclamation projects have not been funded by Congress.

Synod Stalled By Row Over Married Priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A row over wording of a document on married priests stalled the World Synod of Bishops Thursday.

The dispute broke out when synod officials presented the revised text of one of 19 propositions on the general subject of the priesthood that were voted on Wednesday.

Bishops both for and against the present ban on ordaining married men denounced the revised text as confusing and practically meaningless.

A commission of the 209-member synod had been entrusted with rewriting the paragraph on the basis of 91 amendments presented with the vote.

The original wording had failed to get the required majority of votes. It said: "The possibility of ordaining married men is not admitted, not even in particular cases, unless, attentive to the universal good of the Church the Holy Father in his prudence would judge that the matter should be subjected to examination."

Should one notice friend's face lift?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What does a person do when she comes face to face for the first time with a friend (or acquaintance) who has had cosmetic surgery—like a nose job or a face-lift?

I recently ran into a woman who had just had a face-lift, and with absolute sincerity, I said, "Your recent surgery has improved your appearance 100 per cent!"

She gave me an icy stare and walked away without even saying thank you. I felt like 2 cents.

Another time, I pretended I didn't notice that a friend's daughter had recently had a nose job. It was obvious, but I said nothing.

Finally, she said, "Don't you notice anything different about me?" I felt foolish. Of course, I'd noticed, but after having learned my lesson with the face-lift lady, I didn't want to mention it.

So please tell me, Dear Abby, what is a person supposed to do?

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: Since vanity prompts most people to have cosmetic surgery, to ignore it is unkind. But to rave too enthusiastically over the "improvement" may give the impression that her (or his) former appearance was dreadful, which is worse.

If the change is conspicuously for the best, say, "My, you look great!" They'll get the message without having to decode it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old, and am in love with an 18-year-old boy. We've been going steady for seven months and were planning on getting married in about a year from now.

We have gone all the way to express our love several times. My mother found out about it and carried on something awful, and now she is making us get married as soon as my boy friend gets his next paycheck.

Abby, we don't have any furniture, and we don't even have a place to live. My mother won't let me see my boy friend, and says I am to stay strictly in the house until I am married.

I love my mother and don't want to hurt her, but she is hurting me more by making me get married with nothing except the love I have for my boy friend.

Do you think she is right in forcing us to marry right now with nothing?

LOUISIANA GIRL

DEAR GIRL: To force two ill-prepared young people into marriage in order to punish them, is, I think, very shortsighted. Worse yet, your 18-year-old boy friend is bound to feel trapped and resentful, and an unwilling bridegroom makes a very poor husband.

DEAR ABBY: I have had the same hairdresser for years. She does nice work and I had always looked forward to my weekly appointment.

Unfortunately, someone gave her a small portable television for a gift. She then started bringing it to work so she could watch a program on her lunch time. Fine. Soon she started to watch the program which followed it. Then the next. And the next. Until now she's got it on all afternoon.

I am not only speaking for myself because other customers have told me that since she's had the TV set in her booth her work is slipping. Also, she is very unpleasant and cranky. If someone speaks to her, she goes, "Shhhhh, I want to hear this."

She is a faithful reader of your column. How can I let her know I miss her formerly friendly chit chat?

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: After this hits print, you may not have to. [P.S. She must own her own shop. I can't imagine the boss putting up with this.]

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, NOV. 6.

Your birthday today: Scattered moments of inspiration bring the grand design of your life into view this year so that you can see more clearly how to apply your available resources. Today's natives possess natural magnetism, definite highly individual traits.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Your friends want a share in whatever you're doing. Stick to your own best interests without getting your pride ruffled.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Go according to your first impulse when the stress of today comes to bear. Friends innocently upset all plans without the least intention of mixing things up.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Of all the nice things you hear, sift the realistic from the flattering commentary for your own better guidance.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Personal effort is a requisite now. Passing the buck doesn't work, and it seems you can't postpone anything of importance either.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Whatever you start today tends to spread into added responsibility later; perhaps more than you bargained for.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Speak up, demand full recognition for your deeds. Collect what is owed you.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Nearly anybody will overpromise today, given the least encouragement. Be skeptical, check figures.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Pushing too hard in personal matters defeats your goals. Adding individual touches may cause momentary confusion.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Apply your favorite schemes without wordy explanations or making a disturbance about trifles. Reward yourself with a good show.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Bring the deepest problem to the surface and let prayer spark an impulse-solution. There's much to discover about your inner self.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Set your own values and the world tends to agree with them. If they're too low you get no respect. Too high provokes useful discussions.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: It's a good day for policy decisions among family and close associates. Celebrate cooperation with a bit of a party.

Forum Club Members Tour Texas Via Film

Mrs. Homer D. Johnson was hostess to the Twentieth Century Forum Study Club in her home at 2372 Aspen. Co-hostesses were Mrs. William G. Cornman and Mrs. Larry L. Cross.

The event was a dinner honoring the husbands of club members.

Halloween decorations were used throughout the entertaining rooms.

The program was a film, entitled "Texas, Land of Contrasts," depicting the varied climate and land surface and vegetation of the state.

Beginning with the pine forests of East Texas, a journey was made, via the film, through the Big Thicket area, to the miles and miles of coast country, through the Bluebonnet country of Central Texas.

The film trip continued to the lower Rio Grande Valley, through the Big Bend Country, showing the canyons and rugged mountains of that area.

San Antonio with its historic missions and colorful festivals was shown, and the film ended with the sand dune area of Southwestern Texas.

Those attending were Messrs. and Mrs. Homer D. Johnson, William G. Cornman, Larry L. Cross, Robert L. Cotter, J.R. Holloway, C. Mike Holmgren, David Holt, McHenry Lane, McField McDaniel, Aubrey Steele, Frank Stofa, Jack Ward and Floyd Weathersbee.

Central Baptists Set 'SPIRENO' Revival

RICHARD HOGUE SPIRENO LEADER

"SPIRENO" is coming to Central Baptist Church Nov. 14, according to the Rev. Bryan Halliburton, pastor.

Headed by Richard Hogue, called by many churchmen God's man for the "now" generation, the team gets its "mod" name from the first letters of three important words: SPIRitual REvolution NOW!

Hogue and his team have been filling stadiums, auditoriums and church sanctuaries with their psychedelic flower symbols, folk-rock music in a sacred vein and straight-forward comments regarding the need to function according to God's design for their lives.

Rev. Halliburton pointed out that adults find the services inspirational and satisfying even though 60 per cent of Spireno audiences are teenagers.

Services will be at 7:30 p.m. each night Nov. 14-21 and are open to the public. Due to previous successes of the visiting team, Rev. Halliburton said seating, though free, would be on a "first come first fill" basis.

This Sunday the pastor will speak at the regular services of the church.

Joint Services Set For Pentacostals

Phil Cates Re-elected To TANE

State Representative Phil Cates was named to a major position on a Texas Baptist board Thursday during the annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Rep. Cates was re-elected to the post of trustee on the board for Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE), Dallas.

The convening body represents nearly two million Baptists in the Lone Star state.

The congregations of the Hiland Pentecostal Holiness Church and the First Pentecostal Holiness Church will unite this Sunday for fellowship services. These services, the morning worship at 11 and the evening worship at 7 will both be at First Pentecostal Holiness Church, 1700 Alcock.

The second in a series of fellowship days, these services follow similar ones held last week at the Hiland Church. Both congregations are actively exploring the possibility of a merger.

Special singing for the Sunday services will be by "The Treblettes" - a ladies trio - and other special singers from the two congregations.

Rev. Albert Maggard, pastor of First Pentecostal Holiness Church extends a cordial welcome for all to attend these services.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - A suit challenging the state welfare drug prescription procedure was on file here today after being transferred from Denison.

Denison druggist John Burtis joined in the suit with several other pharmacists to argue that restrictive regulations on welfare prescriptions are impractical for both doctors and druggists.

Their suit says that the State Welfare Department, by imposing such requirements, is in effect practicing medicine and pharmacy.

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) - The way Randy Patterson saw it, the fact that he had lost his tooth in a football game entitled him to some extra compensation from the tooth fairy.

Randy, 7, so advised the fairy in a note placed with the tooth under his pillow. What he had in mind, he said, was some "folding money."

Under the pillow the next morning, Randy found just a quarter and a note which read:

"Sorry, President Nixon's price freeze is in effect until Nov. 13."

'Man's Fall' Is Lesson Sunday

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the Christian Science lesson-sermon Sunday. A verse from the Psalms will be among those read in services Sunday.

"Depart from evil and do good; seek peace and pursue it."

Commentary on the lesson is from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. It includes these words:

"When speaking of God's children, not the children of men, Jesus said: 'The kingdom of God is within you.' That is, truth and love reign in the real man showing that man in God's image is unfallen and eternal."

EXETER, N.H. (AP) - Former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger says "a major area of scandal in American politics" is the estimated $200 million he says the major political parties will spend next year in their presidential campaigns.

The Weekly Message of Inspiration

The Church of Jesus Christ Of Latter-Day Saints

BISHOP ROBERT A. WOOD

On Being Thankful

As each year draws to a close, there is a timely season for reflecting upon the things for which we may be thankful. Not everyone is blessed in the same way; each individual fashions his own desires and in some measure receives fulfillment. But every one of God's children receives so many bounteous blessings that he may be prone not to recognize them or the source from which they come.

As individuals we participate in the activities of the Church, in activities that have immediate results in improving the stewardship of our families, in expanding our knowledge of the gospel of Jesus Christ, in confirming our belief in the eternal worth of man.

There are those whose righteous desires seem to be dreams yet unfulfilled, whose aspirations are at times blocked for one reason or another, but who are still thankful for the high hopes and beliefs that have inspired and steadied Latter-

Day Saints for generations.

We are thankful for our faith in a kind, just, personal God who is directing the affairs of the universe. We are thankful for the Church and its leaders who offer counsel that increases our joy. We are grateful for a gospel that makes us feel that in all humility life is a wonderful experience and that each individual deserves — indeed, is promised — a measure of happiness in living, in serving, and in learning, guided by everlasting principles and ordinances presented for his benefit.

"And now I would that we should be humble, and be submissive and gentle, full of patience and long suffering; being temperate in all things; being diligent in keeping the commandments of God at all times; asking for whatsoever things ye stand in need, both spiritual and temporal, always returning thanks unto God for whatsoever things ye do receive." (Book of Mormon - Al. 7:23.)

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Safety In Athletics

With the recent death of Detroit Lion Chuck Hughes, it can be expected that the on-again, off-again debate over health and safety precautions in professional sports will be opened wide once again.

Hughes' death is reported to be the sixth to occur in professional football from game-related ailments or injuries.

But that's professional football. In 1970 alone there were at least 29 deaths directly related to football—three in college, 23 in high school and three in sandlot games. These statistics come from the 39th Annual Survey of Football Fatalities. Also in 1970, 14 more deaths were indirectly associated with football, from heatstroke and heart failure, for example.

Over the past 39 years, the reports says, fatalities directly related to football have averaged 19 per year, approximately two per 100,000 high school and college participants. These figures, of course, do not reflect the large number of nonfatal but serious injuries received in playing football.

Most of last year's football-related deaths came from injuries to head, neck and spinal cord. A large percentage of these injuries, some experts say, can be eliminated.

Of course, football is not the only sport where participants may be killed. Boxing and auto racing are two examples where there seem to be more and more fatalities reported.

At the recent annual meeting of the American Public Health Assn. in Minneapolis, Dr. James Robey, a physiologist from the University of North Carolina, pointed to the deficiencies in protective gear worn by athletes.

Protective equipment, he says, has evolved through tradition with a minimum of attention to practical safety considerations.

Robey also noted the scarcity of published information regarding studies of the testing of protective equipment.

Shortly after Hughes' death, a Chicago heart surgeon said that the apparent lack of emergency equipment available on the field appalled him. Dr. Hassan Najafi of the Rush Medical School observed that deaths such as Hughes' are "averted hundreds of times each day in hospitals."

Hughes was one of 1,040 professional football players in the National Football League this year. Thus it could be said that the death rate from injuries of professional football players this year is about 1 per 1,000.

Even now public health officials are trying to do away with routine smallpox vaccinations because they cause one death in a million. British statistics show that some 1.7 of 100,000 women taking the birth control pill die from blood clots.

For these seemingly minuscule numbers, however, Congressional hearings have been held on the dangers of the pill. The World Health Organization and Public Health Service have put thousands of man hours into the study of smallpox vaccination.

Where is the sober evaluation of the health and safety precautions for sport?

Yippie Is Defanged

Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman isn't yipping.

He says he gave the proceeds of his book, "Revolution for the Hell of It," to bail out one of his Panther buddies, and the chap flew the coop. So Hoffman has been unable to recover the $25,000.

Furthermore, says Hoffman, he gave the profits from "Woodstock Nation" to defendants in the Chicago Conspiracy Trial and to the Movement Speakers Bureau.

He says his comrades in the New Left Movement rarely gave him credit for his sacrifices.

As a matter of fact, one

Movement comrade stole equipment that Hoffman was using to make tapes for broadcast over North Vietnam's "Radio Hanoi." Hoffman claimed the thief said it was okay to appropriate the property since "Hoffman's rich anyway."

Hoffman says he doesn't answer his phone when it rings, does not accept calls to do benefits for the "cause," and doesn't use the phrase "brothers and sisters" much any more, except among real close friends.

Apparently he found there just isn't any profit in revolution.

Lawmaker's Folly

In the 12 years from 1961 through 1972, the U.S. government will have taken in one trillion, three hundred and fourteen billion, six hundred million dollars. In that same period the U.S. government will have spent one trillion, four hundred and seventy-one billion, nine hundred million dollars. The total deficit for the span was one hundred and fifty-seven billion, three hundred million dollars.

The total outlay for interest on the national debt for the 12 years was one hundred and sixty-eight billion, four hundred million dollars.

These figures were provided by the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, except the 1972 component which is an estimate by Secretary of the Treasury John Connally. They appear in the Congressional Record of Sept. 27, 1971, p. 15081.

To get the figures down to meaningful language, do this: subtract the amount of the 12-year deficit ($157.3 billion) from the amount of the 12-year interest ($168.4 billion). The difference is $11.1 billion. What this means is that the interest on the national debt since 1961 more than accounts for the deficits since 1961. In other words, if Congressmen and Senators had run the government on a pay-as-you-go basis, they could have warded off poverty, warred on Vietnam, supported the U.N. hired CRLA lawyers to instigate riots in California prisons and a multitude of other lavish endeavors—all without an ounce of inflation.

It is a well-known fact that more than one Congressman and more than one Senator became rich during tenure in office. If they had run the government's business as well as they had run their own, a dollar today would have the same value that it had in 1961. This calculation is based on the government's arithmetic.

One of the nicest things about a hospital is that by the time you're in one you're too sick to realize it.

Do married folk live longer than singles, or does it just seem so?

On the Block

Question Box

QUESTION: This question pertains to the national opinion polls. I had some experience working with experts on the subject during my five-year tour in the Air University. The main thing that I gathered from these experts is that a 10-15 per cent sample is probably the most accurate. Today, we're paying homage to polls that reflect the opinions of about 1500 or 1600 citizens as representative of perhaps 120 million adult Americans. This is about one in seventy thousand. I question the validity of the polls on the basis of numbers and manner of collection. What is your opinion? C.B.

ANSWER: Polls are taken for more than one purpose. Sometimes the objective is to find an answer. Sometimes the objective is to influence the outcome.

Accordingly, some polls are taken for the internal use of an organization. Some polls are taken for the purpose of publicizing a predetermined result.

A poll is to be trusted only if you (a) know what the original purpose was, (b) are satisfied with the integrity, motivation and competence of the poll-taker.

For instance, if the news were to survey 1,000 persons and we found that 750 of them said that Comic strip X was lousy and that the other 250 thought that Comic X was hilariously funny, we might be satisfied with that sampling as an accurate reflection of our total readership.

But the information would still have to be interpreted to be useful. On the one hand we could say that the strip is not pleasing to three-fourths of our readers, let us replace it with something else. On the other hand we could say that the strip is pleasing to one-fourth, let us keep it because we have no sure way of knowing that the replacement comic would rate any higher.

Probably, one of the things we would do is look at the data to see if we could find out what particular age group or market group likes the item. Or we might just postpone the decision, waiting for other indicators to come along.

Polls for the determining of market preferences characteristically are more objective, because all you are trying to do is find out what the customer desires to have.

The takers of polls for political purposes are not so much trying to find out what the citizen wants as trying to discover ways of forcing something on him that he does not want. Political polls taken for the internal use of the organization (to guide its strategy) might be reliable on a relatively small percentage, whereas a political poll taken for the purpose of influencing the outcome of an election might be unreliable even if the percentage were exactly the same.

Summary: At best, a poll is not a substitute for judgment. It can be only an informational aid.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Colossus of Rhodes, one of the seven wonders of the ancient world, was a huge bronze statue of the Greek sun god Helios, erected on a promontory overlooking the harbor of Rhodes. The World Almanac says that the statue was approximately the size of the Statue of Liberty, and was toppled by an earthquake about 224 B.C.

BERRY'S WORLD

"How do you see Nixon's visit, comrade—is the party becoming more liberal or more conservative?"

Your Health

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would you please give me some information about mongoloids? What causes mongoloids to be born like they are? In all our families, I never knew of one and then at 39 years of age one was born to my daughter even though she had three other normal children. In her husband's family, there was an idiot. Her husband said a doctor asked them if there were any twins in either family. I have twin brothers, both normal. Well, I never heard of such a thing—did you?

About 10 or 12 years ago I am sure I read where dogs or a germ from dogs somehow could cause trouble to a pregnant woman's baby. At the time they bred bulldogs and my daughter helped deliver the pups. Well, they never heard of such a thing. Please enlighten us.

Dear Reader—Mongols are so named because the head and face resemble the features of a mongol—a rounded head, changes in the eyes and other typical features. Many of them have severe mental retardation or remain helpless.

The defect is caused by the genes (chromosomes) and occurs during development very early in fetal life. The genes each of us have determine the color of our hair, eyes, and most of our physical characteristics. These can be affected by many factors, some of which are hereditary.

The whole story on the causes of mongols is not known. Actually, it recurs in families in only about three per cent of the cases. The most striking observation is that mongols tend to be born to older women, suggesting that the older ova from the mother or other features in the woman's reproductive system must be the important factor. The average age of the mothers of mongols is 33 years, and of normal children, 26. You mentioned that your daughter was 39 and this was her fourth child—a history quite consistent with a mongol birth.

Male mongols are sterile. Some female mongols can reproduce and half of their children will be mongols, if this should occur.

There is no evidence that having twins in the family predisposes to having mongols. And there is no evidence that I know of that dogs can in any way be implicated in the occurrence. In view of the common association with the mother's age and mongols, it probably would be unwise for your daughter at her age to plan on having any more children if she can avoid it.

Although there are exceptions, most mongols are better off under institutional care and are often happier there. The problems associated with having a mongol in the home can have an adverse effect on the other children.

It won't be long till Thanksgiving—which is what we do till we get to Grandma's safely.

Inside Washington

Capital In Crisis: Crime And Welfare Costs Soaring

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — U.S. taxpayers, footing as they are a hefty share of the bill, will find it very illuminating to take a close look at what is taking place in the municipal affairs of their nation's capital.

These costly operations, obscured by momentous events on the national and world stage, are getting no headlines. But they very much warrant them.

They present a series of startling contrasts. Following is a graphic example.

While Washington's population is declining, the black ratio is increasing and welfare costs and crime are soaring. Details of this singular development are:

POPULATION — 756,510 with 72.3 per cent black in the 1970 census as against 763,956 with 55 per cent black in 1960.

WELFARE — In fiscal 1970, last year in which welfare investigators were used, the average case load was 19,603 and total expenditures were $34,814 million — local funds $17,932 million, Federal funds $16,882 million. In fiscal 1971, with no investigators, the case load jumped to 29,771 and costs to $57,256 million — local funds $29,972 million, Federal funds $27,284 million.

This skyward climb continued in the current fiscal year, with the average case load reaching 37,712 as of Sept. 30, and the estimated outlay for the year way up to $75,967 million — of which $39,423 million is in local funds and $36,541 million in Federal funds. And now hold your hat!

Straight line projection for welfare in the capital for fiscal 1973 is — average case load 51,500; total cost $123,792 million, of which $63,927 million will be in local funds and $59,864 in Federal funds.

CRIME — So far, there have been 230 murders this year as against 228 for all of 1970. In a grisly way, this is still a slight improvement. In 1969, there were 292 homicides — record to date. Similarly, rapes have soared, being nearly double the 100 last year. Robberies and burglaries also are up.

All this while the capital's population has declined and the black ratio has increased.

Another intriguing statistic is that the nearly $1 billion D.C. budget, submitted by the predominantly black local government, calls for an outright Federal grant of $153 million. That is $27 million more than the $126 million voted by Congress last year.

No Check-Ups — The Supreme Court largely barred investigation of welfare recipients in its June 1970 so-called "man in the house" decree. Since then, as the official figures cited above vividly show, the number of welfare recipients and outlays have zoomed in Washington.

Shocked by this, Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, outspoken member of the Appropriations subcommittee that handles the District's budget, is determined to do something about it.

For one thing, he feels some kind of scrutiny should be instituted of who is getting welfare money and what they are doing with it. In the emphatic opinion of the tall, hefty Iowa, who represents a largely farmer district, welfare funds are derived from taxpayers and they are entitled to know how that money is being spent.

With characteristic bluntness, Scherle voiced these views publicly and promptly drew a challenging rejoinder from D.C. Delegate Walter Fauntroy.

He is vigorously against checking up on welfare recipients. Citing the Supreme Court's decision, Fauntroy contended the "reinstatement of the use of welfare investigators would seriously infringe upon the rights of privacy of the individual."

Fauntroy, 37-year-old former assistant of the late Martin Luther King, never earned more than $6,500 before becoming a nonvoting delegate in an election last spring. Now as a member of Congress, he gets $42,500, plus another $250,000 in numerous perquisites. While stridently clamoring for "home rule," he is busily engaged in building a powerful political machine.

Currently, he is trying to elect a henchman, who launched several ventures with anti-poverty and other Federal funds, as head of the D.C. school board — in place of an able, forthright and independent black woman incumbent.

Fauntroy speaks often and lengthily about "home rule," ever more Federal funds for welfare and other handouts, but never about the capital's overshadowing grim problem of widespread and vicious crime in the streets.

In his clanging oratorical electioneering, in which he constantly invoked Dr. King, Fauntroy never once mentioned this overriding issue — and he still hasn't. As far as he is concerned, crime doesn't exist in the capital — despite the record-high number of murders, rapes and other violent lawlessness.

To Fauntroy, the immediate, most pressing problem is Rep. Scherle's stern demand for a check-up of how and why welfare costs are skyrocketing while the capital's population is declining and growing blacker.

To Fauntroy's politics-motivated assertion that "such a move is repressive and in violation of the basic rights of citizens," Scherle caustically retorts:

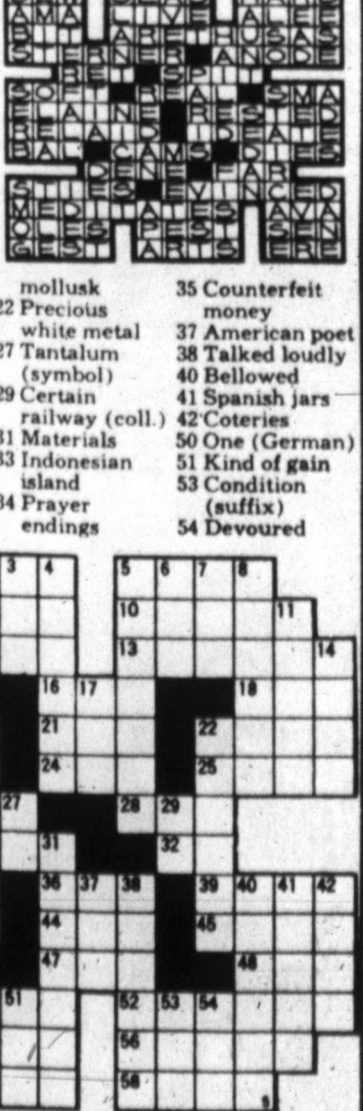

"Why are Mr. Fauntroy and his welfare constituents so upset? What are they so worried about? Could it be they are trying to hide something? I might point out to them that taxpayers are subject to scrutiny by the Internal Revenue Service and they are paying into the government. So I fail to understand why people who are taking from the government without giving anything or doing anything in return are vehemently opposing any scrutiny of what they're up to, whether they are entitled to welfare and what they are doing with it."

Scherle is making it forcefully clear he is unimpressed by Fauntroy's protests and is going right ahead "to do everything in my power to make sure there is adequate scrutiny of D.C. welfare funds."

Pampa Youth At WT Listed In Who's Who

Lodema Cole, Pampa, was one of 36 junior and senior students selected to represent West Texas State University in the 1971-72 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Who's Who is a publication that honors outstanding campus leaders throughout the nation.

Robin Hood Top

Riding through the glen. That's Robin Hood. It's also a new look from Paris. So if you want to look like one of Robin Hood's—men, try a deep sea green wool jersey tunic top. The tunic features extended shoulders, big armholes and is gathered at the waist by a matching belt.

Gang Names

Gangs around the world include the teddy boys of England, Italy's ragazzi di via, the dogies and wiggies (girls) of Australia, mambo boys and girls in Japan and hooligans in Poland and the Soviet Union, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Gubernatorial Candidates To Speak At Tech Meeting

LUBBOCK — Three potential gubernatorial candidates, another's campaign manager, several state legislators and a former U.S. senator are scheduled as speakers for a regional Voter Registration Conference to be held at Texas Tech University on Saturday (Nov. 6).

Those on the program sponsored by Tech's Student Association will include Lieutenant Gov. Ben Barnes; state Sens. Mike McKool of Dallas, H.J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock and Max Sherman of Amarillo; state Reps. Tom Craddock of Midland and Tom Christian of Claude; and former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

"The primary focus of the conference will be on the newly enfranchised young voters," said Fletcher, "but all interested persons are invited to attend." He said the conference would be of special interest also to local and regional high school students.

"We feel this conference will afford the young people who attend a rare political experience," Fletcher added, "since the panel of speakers includes several potential gubernatorial candidates."

"They can meet the candidates face-to-face and get their questions answered, and the conference will also give the candidates an opportunity to find out what concerns these new young voters — voters who will be a significant force in politics at the local, state and national levels."

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The sports publicist at San Diego State College, Mike Ryan, didn't think twice when he read the letter, which was similar to a hundred others: "Please send me a brochure as I can't get out to your football games anymore."

But when he looked at the envelope to get an address for the brochure, he did a doubletake. The return address read, "Florida State Penitentiary, Raiford, Fla."

DEWEY D. WHEAT

Dewey D. Wheat, a junior Music Education major from Pampa, is enrolled in the ROTC Cadet Corps at West Texas State University this fall.

Wheat, a 1969 graduate of Pampa High School is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D.D. Wheat, 402 N. Ballard.

While attending Pampa High School, Wheat was a member of the F.T.A., the Band, and the Swing Kings.

At WTSU, Wheat is a member of the Buff Band, the Trombone Chorus, the ROTC Nighthawks, and Kappa Kappa Psi.

Upon graduation and successful completion of all Military Science courses, Wheat will be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army.

WTSU To Sponsor Pork Symposium

CANYON, Tex. — Topics ranging from breeding problems to promotion and the future market are part of the program for the Southwest Pork Symposium at West Texas State University Dec. 6. The symposium is expected to draw several hundred swine producers and persons in related industries, Dr. Charles M. Smallwood, dean of the WTSU School of Agriculture, said.

Billowing Bare

The new billowing bare evening dresses have fuller skirts and are made of light-colored colors with fabrics of filmy gossamer silks. The look is sheer elegance.

Pampa Youth LCC Senator

Keith Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Russell, 1617 Hamilton, Pampa, was elected to serve as a senator from the freshman class during recent elections on the Lubbock Christian College campus.

Russell, a freshman Liberal Arts major, will be meeting with the Student Senate and administration to work out policies agreeable to both administration and students. Russell is also a member of Sub-T-16, men's social club.

LCC is a small, private, senior college offering BA and BS degrees in 16 majors.

Hustlin' Harvesters Will Host Dons

By RICKEY WRIGHT
Staff Writer

Tonight is the night every Harvester fan has been waiting for — the glorious Homecoming game. The hustlin' Harvesters will play host to the Palo Duro Dons in Harvester Stadium surrounded by Randy Matson Track.

The time for this awaited battle is 7:30 following the Homecoming parade and the Jay-Cee pre-game spaghetti Supper.

Harvesters will be facing the strong, basic offense of the Dons. The Dons run a steady offense with a favor to the sweep, and little razzle-dazzle. Mike King will be the Don quarterback to pit his skills against the quick Pampa defense.

To assist him in his task will be Charles Ward fullback, James Tipton and Ed Felton halfbacks, and according to Swede Lee, probably Lester Holland.

Holland has been out for several of Palo Duro's games, but Swede expects him back for the up-coming bout.

The Dons have heavy and strong linemen. The offense linemen weighing in at about 201 pounds on the average and the defensive line averages about 197 pounds.

"We respect them. They have a good team," said Lee. "But we have a good team also," he went on to say. "It should turn out to be one of those games where the team with the fewest mistakes will take the win."

When asked what he thought about all the Homecoming festivities he commented, "I think it's great! Pampa hasn't had a real Homecoming in I don't know how long."

"Homecoming is something that gives students and the community something to do together where nothing can come of it but good," he added.

The Harvester starting offensive line will be: Randy Stephens center, Tibby Rogers and Ed Townsend guards, Alvin Ferguson and Harmon Staus at the tackles, Billy Lemons at tight end, and Mike Reddell at split end.

The backs will be: Dale Ammons at quarterback, Johnny Roth at fullback, Richard McCampbell and Garvin McCarrell at the halfbacks.

The starting defensive line up will be: Jim McDowell and Tibby Rogers at the end positions, Larry Johnson and Harmon Staus as tackles, Alvin Ferguson, Jessie Hunnicutt and Jody Johnson at the linebacker positions. The secondary will be made up of the Bobby Owen, Johnny Roth, Dale Ammons and Richard McCampbell combination.

"There isn't much to say about them until the game is over. Then there will be a lot to be said, whether we win or lose," said Lee.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles catcher Bill Sudakis underwent knee surgery Thursday and infielder Bill Grabarkewitz was placed on an arm development program. The two missed most or all the 1971 National League season.

Taking things easy is one good way to get nabbed for shoplifting.

Tohill Alot Like TCU's Pittman: Both Athletes

By JIM TRINKLE
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
Writer

(For The Associated Press) FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Billy Tohill, named head football coach Thursday at Texas Christian University, is a lot like Jim Pittman, the man he succeeded — a dedicated athlete almost from the cradle.

Both came from small Mississippi towns — Pittman from Boyle and Billy from Batesville, population 3,284. "I started out playing pee-wee football," Tohill said, "then went up through high school. There weren't many kids in our high school, so you played all sports."

The others were basketball, baseball and track. Billy doesn't follow the pattern of the lithe, supple track star. Neither is he so bulging with muscle that he can't tie his shoes.

"I wasn't fast enough to be a sprinter, and I didn't have the endurance to be a distance man," he said. "If somebody got hurt, I did what he was doing."

The school-boy All-America lists recognized Tohill when he was doubling at quarterback and fullback at Batesville High.

He recalled, "The proudest time of my life in sports was in the early stages. I was in the sixth grade and they let the junior varsity dress out with the high school boys. They sent me in at the end of the game, and I carried one time for six yards and a touchdown against Crowder."

"I was proud when we (Tulane) won the Liberty Bowl against Colorado. Nobody thought we could win except the coaches and players."

Tohill's coach at Mississippi State, Wade Walker, left his mark on Billy. Walker now is Oklahoma's athletic director. "He influenced me," Billy says, "because he was such a nice person — kind and loyal to everybody. You couldn't help but appreciate him. He was especially good to me as a player; I don't know why."

"Some of the things he tried to teach me as a young man and player stuck with me. He seldom raised his voice but he got his point across a different way. Coaches are different. Some of 'em talk, and hope you understand. Some of 'em add a little to that. I hope to be a combination of both."

At 32 Tohill is one of the youngest head coaches in major college ranks. He's ready.

"The saddest day of my life," Billy said, "was when I realized Pitt wouldn't be back. Six years with Pitt seemed like eternity to me. An eternity of fellowship."

"I can't measure how much I learned under Pitt, and what it meant to work for man like him," Billy said. "I have said how he influenced me with his discipline, fairness and respect for other people. Most of all, how he handled people and got along with them."

"We had a close relationship, not just the staff but our families. Our families are close on this staff. Everything's fine when you win. But when you're losing — and we lost some at Tulane — you need a close-knit organization. All for one and one for all. There's no offense losing or defense losing. What we do, we do together."

That's Billy Tohill, head coach, talking.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Johnny Pott fired a second straight three-under-par 69 Thursday to take a four-stroke lead after two rounds of the PGA Gulf States Section golf tournament. He entered today's final round of the 54-hole event with a 138 total.

49er-Viking Game To Help Decide Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — It's seven weeks down and seven to go in the National Football League, and while nothing is settled as yet, the San Francisco 49ers-Minnesota game Sunday will have a direct bearing on the title hopes of five teams.

The teams are the 49ers and Los Angeles Rams, running 1-2 in the Western Division of the National Conference, and the Vikings, Chicago and Detroit, running 1-2-3 in the NFC's Central Division.

And, it says here, the winner will be thevengeful Vikings, who haven't forgotten that it was the 49ers who eliminated them last year in the NFC playoffs en route to the Super Bowl.

Here's the way one man sees the whole Sunday and Monday program:

Minnesota 17, San Francisco 14 — Neither team allows many points, but the Vikings hit harder, and Norm Snead looks like the starting quarterback. Snead gives Minnesota more of a passing threat than Gary Cuozzo.

Pittsburgh 27, Cleveland 21 — The Browns appear to be on the downside and the Steelers, behind Terry Bradshaw, on the up swing. Besides, the Steelers are 3-0 at home on their Tartan Turf field and that may be a significant factor.

St. Louis 24, Dallas 14 — Despite the selection of Roger Staubach as the Dallas Cowboys' quarterback, the situation on the Dallas club may still be unsettling. Besides, remember last year's 38-0 debacle at St. Louis.

Washington 38, Philadelphia 21 — The Redskins have the graybeards; the Eagles have no beads, or offense.

Chicago 27, Green Bay 17 — John Brockington, Packers' rookie runners, meets Dick Butkus. Butkus wins, and so do Bears.

Kansas City 42, New York Jets 10 — The Jets have no defenders left to stop Chiefs' receiver Otis Taylor.

Oakland 31, New Orleans 14 — And the Raiders may not even have to call for George Blanda in this one.

Miami 38, Buffalo 14 — The Bills are changing passers, from Dennis Shaw to Jim Harris, but they won't be able to short change Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick.

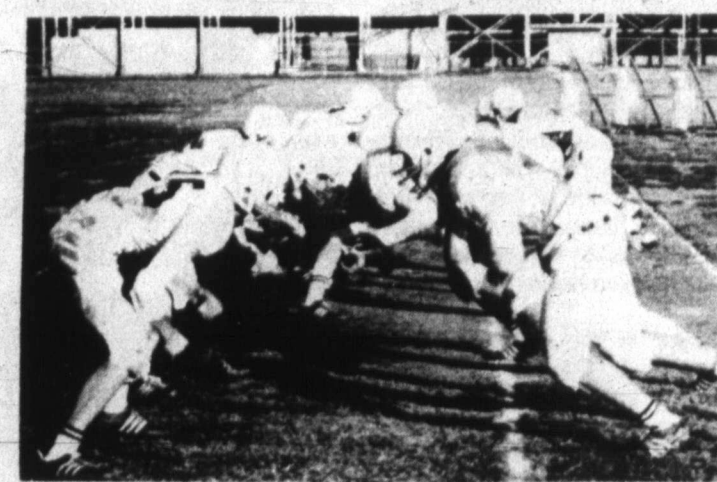

Baltimore 24, Los Angeles 21 — The Colts' defense keeps doing the job and will shut off the Rams' running game in Monday night's TV'er.

Detroit 27, Denver 24 — With reservations. Is Chuck Hughes' death still hanging over the Lions?

Atlanta 28, Cincinnati 13 — Bengals' quarterback Virgil Carter may return, but Falcons' defensive end Claude Humphrey will get him.

San Diego 34, New York Giants 24 — Chargers' passing combination of John Hadl to Gary Garrison riddles Giants' pass defense.

Houston 21, New England 20 — Not much to choose here. Give the Oilers the edge after winning their first last week.

OFFENSE VS. DEFENSE — Getting ready for tonight's game against the Palo Duro Dons, the Hustling Harvesters practice quick starts off the line.

Shockers Stunned 43 To 7

When they are bigger, stronger and playing on a home field you can only do your best to win. The Shockers after a 43 to 7 defeat by the Tascosa Raiders will be one of the first to agree with the old coaches saying.

Starting mostly sophomores against Juniors the Pampa team was handed its second defeat of the season in as many weeks.

According to the coaches, "It was not the fault of the referees, the opposing team or the Shockers. It is just one of those things. We had a bad day."

The Shockers entered the game with a season mark of 8-1. Now they are 8-2 with their first defeat coming against the Amarillo Yarnigans last Thursday on Harvesters Field.

The Junior Varsity squad has one more game on its schedule and hopes to make the Caprock Shorthorns their final victim of the season. Game time for Thursday's game is 4 p.m. in Harvester Stadium.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Turcotte rode a triple at Aqueduct race track Thursday including both ends of the $37 daily double.

Trevino Leading Mexican Open

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "I'm just driving it so straight I can't help but score good. I get on some of them narrow holes and just automatically go to the old driver and hit it right down the middle."

Lee Trevino, admittedly "a little weary," was holding forth after shooting a brilliant, seven-under-par 65 Thursday for a three-stroke lead in the first round of the Mexican National Open Golf Tournament.

Trevino, a heavy favorite to add this national title to his collection of British, American and Canadian Open crowns, didn't miss a fairway and didn't miss a green in his stunning effort over the 7,174-yard Club de Golf course, called by many pros one of the world's best.

"I said when I came in here I'd like to shoot 10 or 14 under for the tournament," the 31-year-old Trevino grinned. "Well, I'm on my way."

He put together his remarkable effort despite a bogey on the first hole. He three-putted when a cameraman jumped in his line as he was making his second shot.

"That got me hot," he said, "but it really got me going. I told myself, 'You've got 71 more holes to play and you might shoot 'em in nothing. So I just calmed down.'"

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Mattick of Bellevue, Wash., has been hired by the Montreal Expos of the National League as a special assignment scout, the club announced Thursday.

Mattick most recently was director of scouting and player development for the Milwaukee Brewers of the American League.

Off the court Elgin Baylor, a star for 13 years with the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA, announced his retirement at the age of 37 because of knee trouble. He will stay with the Lakers as a scout and also work in public relations.

Pittsburgh beat Utah 135-129 and Memphis tripped Indiana 106-94 in the two American Basketball Association games listed.

Wicks, an All-American at UCLA last season, was fouled while making a basket from the corner and sank the free throw. That gave Portland a five-point lead at 111-106 and offset two baskets by Elvin Hayes of the Rockets in the closing seconds.

NFL Roundup

Associated Press

The San Francisco 49ers, long known for their potent offense and recently vastly improved on defense, clash Sunday with the Minnesota Vikings in a National Football League game matching division leaders.

The 49ers, second in total offense and passing in the National Football Conference, and tops in defense against the pass, lead the Western Division with a 5-2 record, a scant halfgame ahead of Los Angeles 4-2-1.

The Vikings, featuring their "Purple Gang" defense, are second in total defense and passing defense in the NFC, while leading the Central Division with a 6-1 mark compared to Chicago's 5-2.

The game will be a rematch of last season's divisional playoffs, in which San Francisco edged Minnesota 17-14, and it will be televised in most parts of the country.

Veteran Norm Snead, an offseason acquisition from Philadelphia, is expected to start at quarterback for the Vikings, replacing Gary Cuozzo, who suffered a bruised right shoulder and a mild concussion in last Sunday's game against the New York Giants.

Snead will be trying to pass over a San Francisco defense that has trapped opposing quarterbacks 29 times for 232 yards, tops in the NFC and one fewer than last season's final total of 30. Over-all, the 49ers have yielded only 87 points, second only to Minnesota's 59 in the NFC.

All the other NFL division leaders also will be in action Sunday.

Washington, off to its best start since 1940, leading the NFC's Eastern Division with a 6-1 record, and No. 1 in NFC over-all defense and tops against the rush, will entertain Philadelphia, 2-5.

Miami, the American Football Conference's Eastern Division pacesetter at 5-1-1, risks its four-game winning streak against winless Buffalo in the Orange Bowl.

Cleveland, still in front of the AFC's Central Division despite losing its last two games, meets its closest pursuer, Pittsburgh. The Browns are 4-3 and the Steelers 3-4.

Kansas City and Oakland, tied for the AFC's Western Division lead with 5-1-1 marks, both are on the road. The Chiefs face the crippled New York Jets, 2-5, while the Raiders, the AFC's highest scoring team with 186 points, meet the New Orleans Saints, 2-4-1.

Other Sunday games include Houston at New England, Dallas at St. Louis, Green Bay at Chicago, Atlanta at Cincinnati, Detroit at Denver, and San Diego at the New York Giants.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — David Wayne is one of many actors in a special kind of limbo. Between now and the middle of the month he will learn whether he is employed or unemployed as NBC reaches its midseason programming decisions. He probably anticipates the worst.

His situation is peculiar to television. Motion pictures are filmed and released, and performers, work ended, can sit back and hope for a hit. Broadway shows open and either close quickly or survive.

But the actor committed by contract to a role in a television series — particularly a new series — has no options. He is unable to make new commitments until he knows the fate of the old one — and sometimes it takes months.

Wayne, a two-time Tony winner for his Broadway performances as the leprechaun in "Finian's Rainbow" and as Enns Pulver in "Mr. Roberts," is currently a costar in NBC's comedy, "The Good Life." And "The Good Life" has serious ratings troubles.

With Larry Hagman, star of the series, in Australia during a break in shooting, Wayne was tagged for a nationwide personal appearance tour designed to stir up some interest in the show.

"I've been filling in time putting together a one-man show based on the works of H. L. Mencken," Wayne said during his New York stopover. "We've finished 15 episodes in our series and we ought to know any day now if we go back for more shows or if it's all over."

Wayne has made a number of pilots over the years but has remained as a popular guest star instead of a series regular until now.

"On Broadway it is a matter of fighting with your best, for survival," he said. "In television it seems that people want the familiar. I just don't understand what makes a TV series a winner."

There was a holiday atmosphere around ABC this week.

For the first time in six years the network emerged as Nielsen ratings winner during a week in the first quarter of a season. CBS, the previous frontrunner, was a close second, a drop occasioned by a full evening devoted to actuality shows, which almost always attract small audiences.

NBC's "Flip Wilson Show" and ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D." led the hit parade for the week ending Oct. 24. ABC's "Owen Marshall, Counselor-at-Law" moved up fast into third place with the second part of a story started earlier on a Thursday night on the network's "Longstreet," which was in fifth position.

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas sculptor James Hill plans to build a massive iron box and suspend it from the top of a mountain range.

If he can do it, he says, it will be today's artistic answer to Gutzen Borglum's Mount Rushmore Memorial.

WILLIAM D. DUGGAN
William D. Duggan, a senior Music major from Pampa, is enrolled in the ROTC Cadet Corps at West Texas State University this fall.

Duggan, a 1968 graduate of Pampa High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Duggan, 1601 Hamilton.

While attending Pampa High, Duggan was a member of the "Pride of Pampa" High school band. He was also chosen to be a member of the All-Region Band.

At WTSU, Duggan is a member of the WTSU Band, the Lab Band, and Kappa Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Upon graduation and successful completion of all Military Science courses, Duggan will be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Ray Cron introduced me to 2,000 high schoolers during my four daytime speeches. And my 5-minute "Logical Proof of God" produced the most rapt attention, though I also included many bits of advice on dating problems, how to study, plus the folly of the drug and tobacco habits.

CASE S-511: Ray Cron is a talented school official in Mercer County, Ohio.

When I was there for an evening Ohio Mental Health lecture at Celina, Ray took me around during the day to four high schools.

And I spoke for an hour at each one, ending my address with my 5-minute "Logical Proof of God."

Despite the fanfare about the hippies and the laxness of modern teen-age morals, it might surprise you readers to know that the high school audiences gave me fascinated, 100 percent attention on that final 5-minute religious syllogism.

But during the earlier portion of my addresses, I covered a variety of other teen-age problems.

"Dr. Crane," a 15-year-old girl mournfully exclaimed, "I don't have any friends."

"Nobody seems to like me, so I am not popular."

To which I replied:

"Why should anybody like you?"

Then I reminded the audiences that we must always BUY popularity and friendships!

That sounds ultra mercenary at first glance.

So I explained that I did not refer to gaining friends by the method often employed by shy youngsters in the earlier grades.

For it is a common school problem to have such children "buying" popularity by scattering candy and chewing gum freely among their classmates.

To obtain such, they frequently steal from mamma's purse at home!

For when a child of 6 or 8 years finds himself ostracized from the games of his classmates, he becomes almost frantic to gain their favor.

In the teens, however, we must buy our friends by smiling and paying them honest compliments.

Since everybody is branded at birth with the tattoo "I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT," then we can take our cue from that.

Nobody is likely to go out of his way to be your friend or vote you tops in popularity until you have thus made him feel more important.

So I reminded those high school audiences of the magical power in honest compliments.

A smile is also a compliment but of the "sign language" or nonverbal sort.

For a smile intimates, "I like you. Your presence is pleasing to me so I hope we can be friends. What do you say?"

But follow your cheery smile with a spoken bit of praise. Soon the strangers will warm up to you and actually look forward to your reappearance.

Our Men In Military

ALFONSO M. GOMEZ
Alfonso M. Gomez, a senior Spanish major from Pampa, is enrolled in the ROTC Cadet Corps at West Texas State University this fall.

Gomez, a 1967 graduate of Pampa High School is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix A. Gomez, 919 E. Gordon.

While attending Pampa High School, Gomez was a member of the Football team and was President of the Spanish Club.

A junior college transfer student from Frank Phillips College, Gomez, while there, was the President of the Sophomore Class, Best Dressed, Most Congenial, and was elected Plainsman of the Year.

Upon graduation and successful completion of all Military Science courses, Gomez will be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army.

JOHN R. HILLS
John R. Hills, a freshman Industrial Education major from Pampa, is enrolled in the ROTC Cadet Corps at West Texas State University this fall.

Hills, a 1971 graduate of Pampa High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hills, Route 1, Pampa.

While attending Pampa High, Hills was a member of the "Pride of Pampa" high school marching band.

Upon graduation and successful completion of all Military Science courses, Hills will be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army.

HARLIN D. DAWSON
Army Private Harlin D. Dawson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlin O. Dawson, Skellytown, Tex., recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U.S. Army Training Center, Armor, Ft. Knox, Ky.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military justice, first aid, and army history and traditions.

Pvt. Dawson's wife, Lana, lives at 1106 S. Wells.

Faint heart never won fair lady, but it made a lot of money for the doctors.
