MRS. HENRY MURR HAS A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

On Thursday of last week, Mrs. Henry Murr fell and broke her leg just below the knee. The accident happened when about 9:30 at night she started to pass from her room out onto the porch where there was a cellar door that was usually kept closed, but as some men had been at work there during the day, they had left the trap door open and she being in the dark, fell through this onto the cellar.

She called for help a number of times, but owing to the distance from those in the upper part of the house her calls were not heard, when finally she became desperate, and gave one long and loud call she was heard and rescued.

From last reports she was resting easily and outlook good for an early recovery.

The hunting season opened in Kimble County with a Bang! Up to the time of going to press Wednesday afternoon, no fatalities had been reported, but as the season advances it is expected that more or less accidents will be reported. Let us hope for the best.

H. G. Perry was here last Saturday night and Sunday from the Dimmitt County "Winter Garden" section and reports business in every line as flourishing in that region. Mr. Perry left Monday, returning to Caterina, in which place he will again enter the newspaper field.

LAMAR COUNTY PECAN CROP WORTH $50,000

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The pecan crop of Lamar County is the most prolific for many years. This applies to the cultivated nuts as well as the native. There are perhaps 100 acres of cultivated pecan orchards in the county, while the native areas are numerous, especially in the river sections of the county.

The nuts this year are of unusually fine flavor and are bringing a good price. It is expected that $50,000 will be realized this year from the sale of pecans.

LAMPASAS, Nov. 14.—Another car of pecans was shipped Friday to eastern markets. There were 44,000 pounds in this car. A car of extra fine pecans was shipped from Lometa, in Lampasas County, Friday to St. Louis. There were 40,000 pounds in that car.

These two cars of nuts were grown in McAnelly's Bend, on the Colorado River, and are the large size and thin shell.

It is estimated there are 10,000,000 pecan trees along Texas streams.

OVERLOOKING SCHOLARSHIP RULES IN FOOTBALL

As some high schools which are members of the Interscholastic League of the University of Texas are overlooking the necessity of strict adherence to the scholarship rule regarding football, Athletic Director Roy Henderson has called special attention to the part in school activities which the sport occupies. He says:

"Football should be fostered in the school for the good of that school, for the benefit of the students, for its citizenship training values, and for the opportunities it affords for developing character, ideals, morals, and the like. It should never be conducted primarily for the purpose of interesting the patrons in the school, or for the advertising of a town, or for the reputation of a coach or school official. Nor should the fans ever come first.

"High school football should raise the standard of scholarship. The scholarship rule is, accordingly, the most essential of all, as it is the foundation of the whole structure. A superintendent, principal, or teacher who makes the least concession to a student in applying this rule loses the greatest thing that athletics can be made to do in the school."

As there is no rule in the constitution of the Interscholastic League which cannot be easily met by any average high school student, a boy who cannot make a reasonable amount of scholastic work has no right to represent his school on the gridiron, Henderson believes.

In this connection, we are proud to state that the coach, Howard Blackburn, of Schreiner High, is strictly observing these rules, and has recently eliminated two or three of his best players for various causes, all violations of the scholarship rules.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Smith and family returned from Brownwood Monday, where Mr. Smith underwent an operation to have his tonsils removed.

Last Friday evening while George Cavaness was talking to a customer at the Cavaness Brothers Garage, a car was backing out and at the same time someone called George's attention to something in the opposite direction, and the car struck his foot, breaking the instep. While the accident was quite painful, he is around on crutches, and it is thought the result will not be serious.

W. A. (Bill) Murrah of Buster's Barber Shop closed a deal in Del Rio this week, whereby he became the owner of the Palace Barber Shop of that city. Bill has been, for many years, in the barber business at this place and has many friends who will regret to see him leave Junction. The Eagle wishes him success in his new field of business and can unhesitatingly say Del Rio has one good barber.

CONSOLATION

"Nonsense, my dear, when you've lived as long as I have, you'll begin to know that husbands and lovers are two vastly different men. And, although they won't admit it, they are each true to type. I can tell you, I think, just exactly why Curtiss went to the dance without you tonight and why he probably will have a very good time."

"I couldn't anticipate her thought."

She went on.
"He knows that he has you now for his very own and he can go to a party and have a very relaxing, carefree time. Even flirting a bit, perhaps, with all the silly little flappers out there, but, my dear, all the time he is conscious of the fact that he has a sweet, charming wife at home. You furnish his background, you see, and he wouldn't even get a 'kick' out of dancing and chatting with those little debutantes if he had not won you first. Do you see what I mean?"

"Yes, I believe I do, because before we were married he did not care at all about such things. But it's the lack of romance and sentiment between the two of us that makes me grieve."

"Romance," she repeated, "listen, Sallie, I'm going to tell you something about romance that you've never known before."

I leaned forward eagerly in my chair and she began.

As for romance, she continued, "this is a bit of advice from an old woman, little Sallie, that I wish all wives who were starved for the thrilly-bubbly kind of romance would understand. Don't expect the romance of moonlight and honeysuckle after you're married, except as an individual, and then you'll never feel your heart-break because he fails to thrill with you to a sunset or a poem when he's probably thinking about stocks and bonds."

"Oh, but I couldn't live without romance," I mourned, "life would be cynical and matter-of-fact and cold."

"But wait, my dear—there are many kinds of romance and just as you've adjusted your little girl ways to become a housewife and moulded your wishes and desires into others that are congenial to his, so will your conception of romance change—and it really should, dear child."

"What do you mean, Mrs. Wright, that there are many kinds of romance? I don't know but one kind, I'm afraid."

"Neither did I at one time," she replied with a far-away, dreamy look in her eyes, though her lips still smiled, "you'd be surprised to know that there's romance in keeping a well-ordered home, now wouldn't you my dear? Or in making everything so comfortable for Curtiss that he'd adore being here or that there's almost the same thrill in viewing row after row of shining jellies and jams, creative work of your own, yes," reiterated, "just as much thrill as there used to be in seeing pink holly-hocks against an old stone wall."

How did you know I loved holly-hocks against—"Against an old stone wall?" "Why, yes." "It's not unusual. Most women do, my child." They are all disciples of Beauty at heart, but men? No, no, no,—just as women are more susceptible to spiritual things, blind faith and ritual angible things come hard they've got to see with their eyes."

She reached for a dictionary in one of the book shelves on the wall.

"Look here!" she exclaimed, "just as I thought."

I followed her finger eagerly along the printed line.

"Romance—absurdity," she pointed out, "you see it was written by a man," she laughingly put the book back into its place on the wall and when she had resettled herself I begged her to go on.

"Oh, its just that for one aesthetic man there are, I guess, five hundred who are not. That's why so many of the poets have woven this theme into their songs. It's not new. Fact is, its as ancient as the hills and as immutable as the stars. Remember Faith Baldwin's lines?"

She leaned forward and there was a singing cadence in her tones:

"Love caught me in a golden net
All scented rose and rue
Love lured me to a little house
And set me tasks to do.

I look from out my window pane
To Hills of Far-Away
My feet grow weary for the roads
Beyond the break of day.

But love has such imploring eyes,
I could not quench their light
And so I bake and sweep and sew
And—lie awake at night!"

For a moment there was silence in the room. It was as if the shadows still sang softly with the echo of her voice.

"That's strange that you should have thought of that verse for I was just repeating some of Edna St. Vincent Millay, along the same line, when you came tonight."

"No, it really isn't, my dear," she shook her head, "that's what I'm trying to tell you—that the resentment and self-pity you feel for what you thought was romance leaving your life is a fundamental emotion known to almost every wife, who isn't a bride, and I'll wager you'll find one such idea in the repertoire of every woman who writes these little songs."

"I think I begin to understand," I exclaimed, "I was wondering tonight if there were others like myself who felt romance drifting away, but now you've made it so beautifully clear that I'm not alone in this yearning for the pretty-poetic—the fairy things of life."

"You precious child!" My guest arose as she spoke, preparing to leave, "of course you are not. And, listen, my dear, keep your enthusiasm and keen appreciation for these things 'not made with hands'—for through them you will gain an inner joy that no circumstance or condition can take away. Then, when Curtiss does thrill over something that you, too, have found most dear, it will be a pleasant surprise, and, when he doesn't, you won't feel personally insulted at his neglect but," she concluded, "you'll just realize that he's a man."

Long after she had gone it was like I had stood before the warmth of a cheerful, singing blaze. Instead of the disturbing, jealous thoughts that had filled my mind when I had pictured Curtiss at the dance, I felt strangely calm. This lovely woman's presence seemed to linger on. Her words were like a hand-clasp and I framed a little prayer, for, I knew, without a doubt, that I had found a friend.

We had thought that the last days of September would be cool as the first two weeks of the month had promised a release from the terrific heat which had extended over the entire South. But suddenly the weather changed and a wave of intense heat such as Birmingham had never experienced, began. Everyone who could arrange to do so, got out of town, but many had returned thinking the heat-wave had spent itself in the months ahead.

Curtiss worked many hours on the job of planning the new houses for the large mining settlement just out of town. He was trying to push the work their families could occupy the through so that the men and houses in the fall. His concentrated effort on matters of business during the day, together with the unexpected heat, which continued even at night-time, made him irritable and difficult to understand.

I began to realize that my summer had consisted of a series of drab, uninteresting days and my youth and natural love for responsive companionship rebelled.

There was another situation which the summer had brought, and which caused me grave concern. So noticeable it was that even a non-suspicious nature, such as mine, could not fail to sense what was going on.

Letitia Evans' interest in my husband was increasing day by day and apparently so strong was his attraction for her that she made little pretense of caring who knew of her infatuation for a married man.

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

Representative Parrish, of Austin, would make it a crime for a farmer to grow cotton two years in succession on the same ground. He would do this on the contention that two successive crops deplete the soil, but back of it is the real reason that it would reduce cotton production. He says that the attorney generals of several States approve his proposed measure, and say it could be enforced. Maybe so. When cattle prices get low, would Mr. Parrish make it a crime to breed cows two years in succession? When eggs are too cheap, would he limit the number of hens to each coop or farm? When bank interest is down would he prohibit loans to the same parties two years in succession? Why not increase cotton consumption by making it a crime for the merchant to sell silk or rayon goods? Such a measure would be just as reasonable as to force the farmer to use his land according to ideas of lawmakers. The Parrish measure may get the sanction of constitutional lawyers, but no jury would ever convict a farmer for its violation. It is repulsive to the American idea of property rights. It will be better to stick to the plan of getting a South-wide voluntary reduction agreement.

San Antonio Bank View
The bankers of Texas have an agreement to put $5,000,000 into a cotton holding pool, to which the Federal Government will advance $5,000,000 to be loaned at a low rate of interest to the farmers on their cotton. The Dallas and Houston banks have agreed to put $1,000,000 into this pool for each of these cities. The San Antonio Clearing House has refused to put a like amount into it on the ground that there does not appear to be a need for it there. A large part of the increase in cotton production this year has been in the San Antonio territory, two counties of Nueces and Hidalgo having grown nearly 100,000 bales each. But a large part of that was marketed early in the season when cotton was bringing from 15 to 17½ cents. Now the San Antonio banks, most of their customers being "out of the woods," are refusing to come to the aid of the rest of the State, which appears to be a rather narrow policy for a city seeking business. San Antonio seems to be crawling into its shell.

Sapiro's Unselfishness
Mr. Aaron Sapiro, of California, seems hurt that the Federal Government would use any other medium than the co-operative associations, of which he is general attorney, for helping the farmers to hold their cotton, and is going over Texas trying to stir up feeling against the Texas bankers who have agreed to form a pool through which the Federal Government proposes to lend money at low interest to cotton growers. The co-operatives are all right, no doubt, and doing a good work but they do not seem to have been able to cope, alone, with the present situation. Mr. Sapiro fears that the bankers may be paid something for handling the money. From this conclusion may be drawn that the co-operative officials, including Mr. Sapiro, are working for nothing and paying their own expenses. Heretofore, the public has been impressed that Mr. Sapiro of California, was doing very well personally from his co-operative association connections.

Constitutional Amendments Adopted

For the first time in years Texas voters have shown an interest in proposed constitutional amendments, having adopted all the meritorious amendments submitted at the recent election. Heretofore, it has been regarded as practically impossible to get a favorable vote on a constitutional amendment however much merit it might contain. The recent vote indicates that Texans are taking more interest in and making a closer study of State problems. This indicates a possibility that in future Texas may be better governed. There is but little danger of a government going far wrong when its people study its interests closely. The non-thinking voter is the greatest menace to good government.

Baylor-A. & M. Relations

Students of Baylor University have petitioned the faculty for severance of athletic relations with A. & M. College because of dissatisfaction growing out of the committee report of the killing of Cadet Sessums in a mob fight at a recent game between the schools. This is not the first time ill-feeling between these schools growing out of football games has become so tense that it has been thought best to have no further athletic relations with each other. The feeling is really deeper seated than the Sessums killing. It is the feud spirit growing out of football fights. The trouble is in the game itself, which differs from all other inter-collegiate games in that it instills and develops the fighting spirit. In other athletic contests the play spirit predominates, while football has as its tocsin, "Fight! Fight! FIGHT!" When college teams are trained to fight there need be little surprise when the fighting spirit spreads to the roofs.

Conservation and Irrigation

Representatives of the States of Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico have agreed on the details of a conservation and irrigation project to cover the upper stretches of the Canadian River, in which Congress is expected to render material aid. The legislatures of the three States will have to pass favorably on the matter and the ratification of Congress will then be sought. A conservation district to include Brownwood is voting this month on bonds for the initial expense of a huge water conservation project. Texas is fast coming into the proper appreciation of its valuable water resources.

Abilene Christian College

Abilene citizens are raising $150,000 for a needed addition to Abilene Christian College. Abilene is largely indebted to its colleges for its supremacy in its territory. Its citizens appreciate its splendid colleges, and the $150,000 will be raised. It is noticeable everywhere that the towns that are most liberal towards their institutions and enterprises are the towns that accomplish most.

Evidence of Progress

After serving parts of McKinney for more than 20 years, the street cars are quitting because they no longer pay expenses. This is a concession to the prevalence of the automobile. In towns of 10,000 to 20,000 people the old time street car cannot pay expenses, and the lines run down to such an extent that they become a discredit. The small town traction lines everywhere are being forced out of business.

Desk Telephone Has 201 Parts

An ordinary desk telephone set, which apparently consists of only a receiver and transmitter, when taken apart will be found to have no less than 201 parts. One hundred and fourteen of these, however, are small, consisting of nuts, screws, washers, bushings, insulators, etc., while the remaining 87 are those parts which are held together by the smaller units. All of these parts must be made so nearly alike that they will go into their respective places without any additional fitting. No variation in size beyond one-thousandth of an inch (plus or minus) is permissible.

With a daily output of 5500 sets in one factory, no less than 1,100,000 parts must be handled in the assembling of these instruments. To maintain the accuracy necessary 30,000 gauges are used in the manufacturing processes.

SCHREINER HIGH DEFEATS SCHREINER INSTITUTE ACADEMY

Last Thursday on the Junction gridiron the Junction High Football boys defeated the strong academy team from Kerrville by a score of 7 to 6. The game was hard fought by both teams, and was attended by a large crowd of enthusiastic football fans. The visitors held a lead of six to nothing until the last minute of play, when Junction blocked a punt and ran across the goal line for a touchdown, and kicked goal.

Recently some of our citizenship have been shown real estate in the "Winter Garden" section of the Rio Grande Valley, and bring back very glowing reports of the possibilities of that section of Texas. Lands in the vicinity of new townsites is quoted from $50 to $150 per acre, and artesian water can be obtained at a depth of around 1,400 feet.

It occurs to the writer that possibilities of developing our local agricultural lands is as good, or better, than any other place in the State. It is not our intention of disparaging any portion of Texas, but as a usual thing a good business proposition is taken advantage of by local business interests and it is not necessary to go elsewhere to make a sale. The writer has recently returned from the plains country, and recently made a trip into the Upper Rio Grande Valley. From what observations he made, there is no question but what our own county affords better opportunities for development than any he has seen.

Raw lands of the plains, we were informed, range in price from $15.00 to $100.00 per acre. The same class of real estate in the Valley range in price from $25.00 to $150.00 per acre and improved lands often sell for as high as $1,000.00 per acre. When cotton is not destroyed by sand storms, boll weevils, fleas, army worms, or some other insects and there is a good season and the price is good, the plains country farmer is prosperous, otherwise he is not.

sects and can be marketed, their production probably exceeds that ours could be made. Otherwise our lands are their equal and better, in that we can produce pecans, alfalfa and small grain that cannot be raised to advantage in either locality.

Possibilities for irrigation in this county are unexcelled in Texas, due to our many running streams, shallow and inexhaustible water, ample electric power for pumping and greatest of all the possibility of impounding the flood waters of the Llamos for the irrigation of the many thousands of acres of agricultural lands lying under the water sheds of our streams. Our lands are cheaper, and if you make money in this county sufficient to buy elsewhere, why not use that money to develop Kimble County and know what you are doing?

NOTICE

Dr. Fred Baker, leading optical specialist of Dallas and who was appointed by former Governor Pat Neff a member of the State Board of Examiners in Optometry, also former president of the Texas Optometric Association and National vice-president, will be at the Fritz Hotel Thursday and Friday, November 18th and 19th. Dr. Baker was formerly from San Angelo and at one time claimed to have more people in this vicinity wearing his glasses than all others combined. IMPROVED SECONDARY ROADS IMPORTANT Industrial News: Paving of secondary roads to relieve trunk line highways in congested districts will be one of the chief subjects for consideration at a joint meeting of the American Society for Municipal Improvements, the Asphalt Association, the Association of Asphalt Technologists and other organizations to be held in Washington, November 8 to 12, next. The meeting will bring together between two and three thousand road and street experts for the discussion of many problems confronting the municipalities of the country.

"A glance at the highway activities," says J. E. Pennybacker, General Manager of the Asphalt Association, "indicates a strong leaning toward concentration of expenditures on trunk lines. This leaves the secondary roads to shift for themselves and causes traffic to seek the trunk lines to the congestion of the latter. This congestion is actually driving pleasure traffic off the highways. Motorists who otherwise would be enjoying drives on back country roads are kept at home because of the congestion at important points on the trunk lines. The roads which serve best the rural needs are those which lead to the railroad stations. These farm-to-market, or secondary highways, should be receiving increased attention on the part of all concerned."

Modern road machinery such as tractors and scrapers, and the practice of surfacing old gravel and macadam roads with a waterproof wearing surface of asphaltic concrete to a depth of two or three inches, has made possible the paving of secondary roads at a moderate expense to the taxpayers. Through State highways without "feeder roads" represent unbalanced expenditures.

Educators Give Junior Red Cross High Praise

Growing recognition by leading educators all over the world has been an achievement of the Junior Red Cross in the last fiscal year.

Included in those which have taken especially favorable cognizance of Junior Red Cross efforts are the World Federation of Education Associations at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1925, the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, at Washington, 1926, and the National Education Association in Philadelphia, June, 1926. Various State educational bodies have confirmed this approval, the report adds.

As a phase of their work, the Juniors have developed contacts through exchange of correspondence, with similar Junior organizations in virtually every part of the world, and through the development of this medium many leaders see a better chance for world peace in future.

An especially notable development of Junior organization has occurred in Porto Rico, with an enrollment of 137,000, and the Philippines, with 312,000.

More than 5,000,000 American Juniors are at work in this organization of the American Red Cross. Their example is held out by the American Red Cross during the Tenth Annual Roll Call for membership, as one for all Americans to endorse by joining the parent organization during the period November 11 to 25 this year.

War Over, But Red Cross Nurses Are Ever On Duty

Has the romantic picture of the Red Cross Nurse faded with the war days? It has been more than 12 years since that first contingent of brave women to go to the war zone sailed from America to make an undying record of service behind every battle front.

For an answer to their whereabouts today, it is only necessary to refer to any large disaster of recent years in which the Red Cross rendered relief. Wherever there was injury and suffering the Red Cross nurse will be found to have been on active duty.

These nurses are enrolled under the American Red Cross as a reserve of the Army, Navy and U. S. Public Health Service, at all times ready to serve in war or peace. This reserve of Red Cross nurses aggregates 43,501 women who have met the highest standard in the nursing profession.

The Roll Call for membership in the Red Cross this year is November 11 to 25, when the American people identify themselves with the broad services of the organization by joining its ranks.

Join the Red Cross November 11 to 25.

ENCOURAGING CROOKS INCREASES BILLS

The public pays the bill for losses on insured property that is destroyed by fire. The payment is none the less real, because it is indirect and made in the form of insurance premiums. Where there is criminal responsibility in fire losses, the public has double interest: it is concerned with both the economic and legal aspects of the case.

Recognized difficulties exist in punishing arson offenders. Evidence of guilt is easily covered; witnesses are hard to find; some, when found, are reluctant to tell what they know. There is a rather common feeling that when suspicion is aroused or charges made, it is a case of an individual, perhaps a neighbor or friend, against an insurance company. The company can pay, and it might as well do it.

The condition is unfortunate, but the Kansas City Star believes that recognition of the fact that the public has a genuine interest involved, together with persistent effort on the part of law enforcement officials, may bring a change.

OCEAN TO OCEAN AUTO-MOBILE RECORD BROKEN

Southern roads proved the progress of the South last week when Col. Ed Fletcher, a San Diego business man with his son and two mechanics, drove from the Pacific Ocean at San Diego, California, to the Atlantic Ocean at Savannah, in 71 hours and 15 minutes—verified Western Union Timing—beating railroad schedules by nearly two days and the previous transcontinental record by 11 hours and 57 minutes and suffering only three nail punctures. Col. Fletcher made the trip not as a racing stunt but to get east for an inspection and conference trip over the Old Spanish Trail.

The astounding lesson, according to Col. Fletcher, is that car and tires can stand such service and still be ready for the return trip as though this had been a days pleasure ride. This is the family car and a year old.

The Old Spanish Trail is building so rapidly Col Fletcher believes the time has come for all sections in this to come together and help make this southern trunkline nationally the best known and the best improved highway in the United States.

Col. Fletcher is a retired business man. He is president of the Borderland Highway (the Western section of the Old Spanish Trail) and his hobby through life has been good roads to build up his country. "Highways," he says, "are binding into a great brotherhood the north, south, east and west. This southern trunkline is destined to make the southern borderlands from Florida to California a continuous playground. The people do not yet realize the development in progress. Now Florida and California must join hands for soon the Nation's travelers will be driving back and forth. Moreover, this Old Spanish Trail has been declared of prior military importance; we are performing a patriotic service in helping its construction. Pensacola, San Antonio and San Diego represent the greatest military, naval and air bases in the United States. It is the only transcontinental trunkline that is open and free from snow and ice all the year; the only all-day, all-night, all-year trunkline artery possible. People in increasing thousands are now seeking the South for settlement. For our own material benefit we must tie together Florida and California and the intervening territory."

The San Diego Chamber of Commerce asked to pay the expenses of the trip but this was declined. It is a personal contribution to southern development Colonel Fletcher is making. Harral Ayres, the Old Spanish Trail managing director, joined the party at Jacksonville, as Mr. Fletcher's guest on the return work. Ed Fletcher, Jr., who also is the California director of the Old Spanish Trail, is a member of the party with LaVern Kingsbury and W. M. Graves the other members.

A motion picture camera is carried and other complete equipment. On the eastward record-breaking trip Colonel Fletcher, because of his high standing in California had the co-operation of State and city police and high officials and service stations in all States; and to them he gives large credit for the record which shows so well how southern roads have improved.

The party attended Rotary at St. Augustine Monday and motion pictures of the St. Augustine Rotarians were taken after the luncheon in front of the ancient Spanish Fort. This represents the official start of the car to San Diego from St. Augustine, the eastern terminus of the highway. San Diego is the western terminus. The picture reel, when complete, will be loaned to Rotarians, Chambers of Commerce and others to show the remarkable development along the highway. Tuesday Colonel Fletcher, Harral Ayres and others will be guests of the Jacksonville Rotary, then the party will continue westward, stopping probably Tuesday night at Tallahassee for conferences with Chairman Hathaway of the Road Department, and the Tallahassee people.

Speaking of Old Spanish Trail progress, Harral Ayres says, "This highway is the most interesting, costly and difficult highway project in the United States. $62,000,000 have already been put behind the project of which $15,000,000 represent construction in progress now. By next spring so much will be completed that for the first time in history comfortable travel across the continent will be possible any day of the year.

"Cochrane Bridge at Mobile Bay, he says, "will be completed January 1. The Bay of St. Louis Bridge in Mississippi and The Sabine Bridge between Louisiana and Texas will be completed next summer. These three bridges total 16 miles. Pearl River delta and Lake Pontchartrain in Louisiana will have an opened road this winter. Mobile Bay Bridge will be the longest in the world. Florida's major bridges are completed; the paving is well under way. Two-thirds of the mileage between St. Augustine, Florida, and San Antonio, Texas, is paved or financed for paving and progressing actively.

"It has been necessary to cross 31 major waterways and drainage basins for the OST waterways carry the drainage waters of a half of the North American continent.

"The Mississippi Coast is spending $3,400,000 for a seawall to protect the paved road for 22 miles along the coast; also two bridges totaling three and one-half miles. It will cost $15,000,000 to bridge the Mississippi River and probably $5,000,000 to cross Lake Pontchartrain east of New Orleans. It is costing $7,000,000 to construct the bridges and concrete roads for 140 miles across East Texas and this is 80 per cent complete. In the ranch country of West Texas counties have bonded up to $200 for every man, woman and child to construct their link. San Diego, California, has raised by private subscription over $100,000 to help poor counties eastward, even into Arizona, put an unbroken trunkline through.

"For sacrifice, heroic achievement, engineering skill, and for human and for official devotion to this subject," Mr. Ayres declares, "it will stand as one of the epics in American progress. It will open the most primitive and at the same time the most potential section of the United States to settlement and development. Hundreds of millions in new capital are already in the territory. Historically it has for its background the most romantic and colorful period in American annals. A dozen major trunklines are building southward as feeders from the North. A complete change is impending in tourist travel. It has cost 10 years of intensive labor to put this big construction program in motion."

"MAYHEW'S LAYMORE POULTRY FARM, Brady, Texas, have about three hundred one-year-old Single Comb White Leghorn Hens for sale. Good stock that will make you splendid layers and breeders. Now booking orders for delivery about November 10th." 28-4tc

MRS. PATERSON HONORED

Wednesday afternoon, November 10, Mrs. A. L. Mudge surprised her house guest, Mrs. Nancie Paterson, with a Bridge tea. Bright chrysanthemums nodded birthday greetings, while Mrs. Paterson opened the pretty gifts bestowed upon her.

After several games of Bridge, Mrs. Paterson was found to have high score and received a dainty handkerchief. A beautifully decorated birthday cake, proudly bearing the honoree's name and lighted pink candles was cut and served with sandwiches and hot tea.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Last Tuesday afternoon little Miss Mary Kathleen Hodges invited a number of small folk with their mothers to spend the afternoon with her in honor of her first birthday. Games were played after the pretty gifts had been duly admired. An attractive birthday cake with one lighted taper was cut and served with ice cream. The Eagle joins with Mary Kathleen's friends in wishing her many happy returns of the day.

SHE TELLS THE STORY OF MANY OTHERS

Dr. W. C. Rountree, Texarkana, Texas. Dear Doctor—About 8 years ago I was taken with a bad case of stomach trouble. I got better in Winter and worse in Spring and Summer. I suffered untold agonies, took many kinds of medicine and found no relief. After four years I broke out with something that looked like sun burn. At first it appeared on my hands, later on my face and neck. My mouth got sore, feet burned and swelled until I could hardly walk. My heart beat too fast and I had a hurting in my chest. Some one sent you my name and you sent me one of your little books and Questionnaire, but I did not order your treatment at first. I waited thinking I would get better, but instead I got worse. Finally I got so bad that I could not walk 20 steps without resting. I ordered your Pellagra treatment and on the 9th day of July 1926 I began taking it. I soon saw that it was helping me and by the time I had taken one treatment the rash and many of the other symptoms had disappeared. I have taken four treatments and am entirely relieved of all symptoms of Pellagra. I appreciate the honesty and kindness with which you have dealt with me, for I have found everything that you told me about the treatment to be just like you said. I want to ask all who have this disease to not put off ordering your treatment like I did for while they are waiting this terrible disease is stealing their life away.
