OHS Golfers Vie For Title

Shot gun blasts at Andrews Friday will send Class AA divisions off the tees in quest of regional championships. OHS golf team left today for that city and practice rounds prior to the competition.

Coach Johnston in speaking of his varsity team stated, "The boys are in great shape. They go into battle for regional title fresh from their finest effort of the season at Plainview last week. Gilbert Roberson took them down Sunday and they found the Andrews course one of the best they had ever played."

Qualifying at Plainview as number two team in district individual scores tallied Stockdale, 76; Burgess, 77; Sudduth, 79; Roberson, 83; and Givens, 91.

Two teams from each district qualify for regional play, but only the top team and medalist advance to the state meet in Austin May 4-6.

Johnston and his linksmen will remain in Andrews overnight.

For 'Speck' Cole

Love Of Fishing Inspires New Business Adventure

Building fishing barges in this part of Texas might be considered a little like Noah in his days of building the ark, according to some people but to J. F. "Speck" Cole, it's a hobby by turning into a profitable business.

Cole began his new venture strictly as a hobby building one for his family's use. But once it was spotted by other fishermen at Greenbelt Lake, orders began to pour in for "one just like it."

"I had one at Greenbelt Lake for about 10 days and sold it," Cole said. "I could have sold two or three more if I'd had them."

"I drew up my own blueprints for the barge and built mine because my whole family likes to fish and these are much more comfortable than a boat. Ten grown people can go out on this one."

The floats on the barge are constructed of 19" special made pipe and the plywood floor is 8' x 16', carpeted with outdoor carpet. Although there is only the captain's seat built on the barge, there would be plenty of room for deck chairs.

The 25 horsepower motor will move the barge about 15 miles per hour. A canopy over the top to shade the deck, may be removed or "let down" when not in use.

The barge is built complete with its own trailer for hauling for only $2350 for the size that is pictured. However, Cole builds a barge that is two feet longer, which sells for $2500.

"This barge --- we are trying to think of a name for them --- is much safer than a boat, it's impossible to turn one over. Rough water doesn't bother you and they operate well in shallow water," Cole said.

Cole has one part time helper and if orders keep coming, he may have to acquire even more help. He says he can build one by himself in two weeks. They are being built in the building once occupied by Cole Pump and Machine, of which Cole was owner, along with farming at the time. He moved to the Olton area in 1929 when he began farming.

He and his wife, Juanita, have two children, Shirley Kimbrough of Olton and Joy Fern DeSha of Amarillo.

Their four grandchildren, three boys and one girl, are all "fishing fiends". His barge has had plenty of "trying out" by all the family Cole said.

City Sales Tax For Year Shows Increase Over 1970

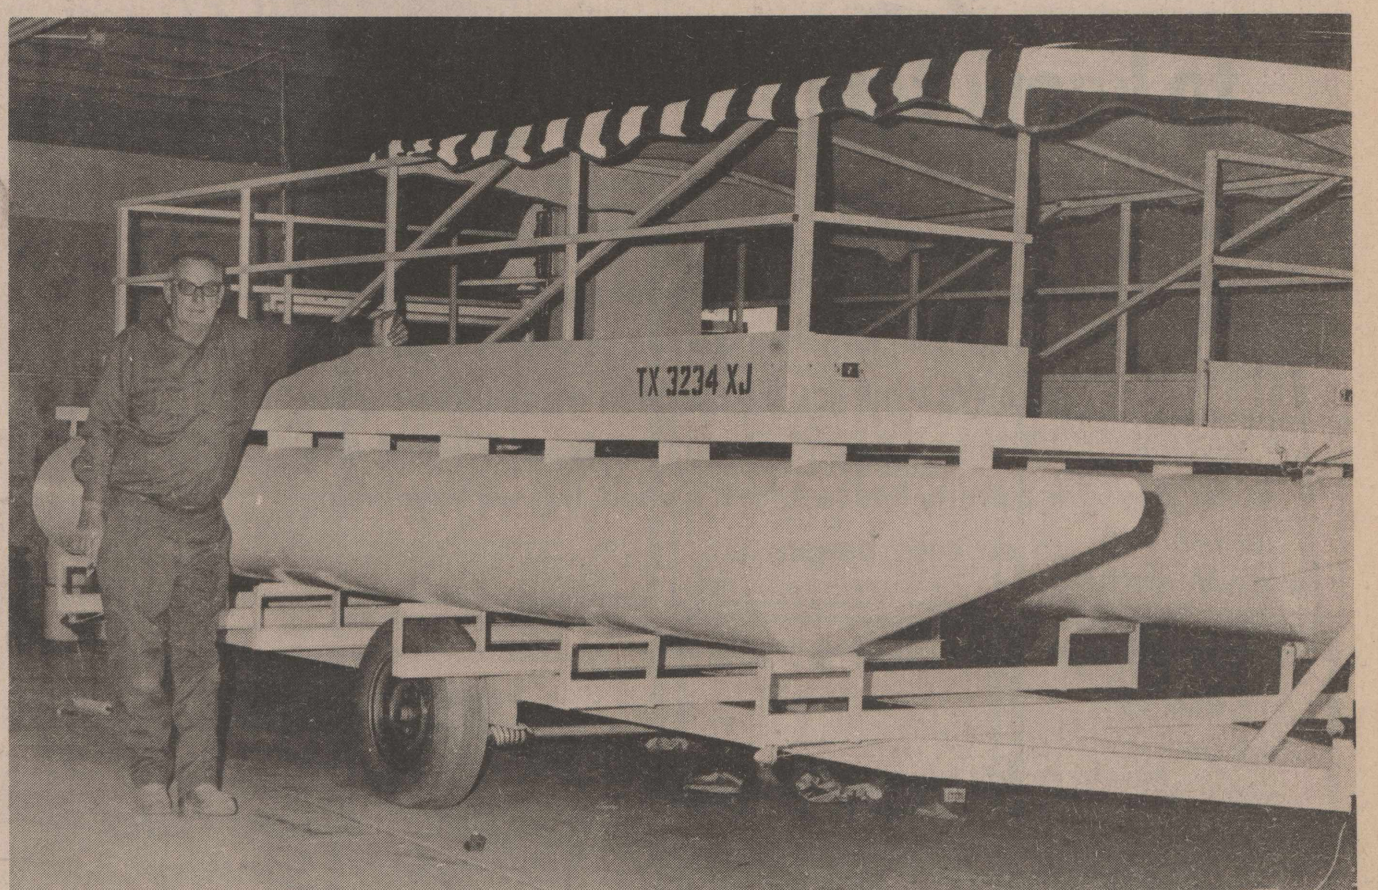

City sales tax collections netted the City of Olton $23,126.93 for 1971. The amount is an increase of $1,611.70 over 1970's $21,515.23.

The state comptroller's check for the first quarter 1972, covering sales during October, November and December 1971, was $5,733.14. The city's share of the penny tax for January, February and March 1972 was $5,290.02; for April, May, June, $6,049.31 and for July, August and September, $6,054.46.

ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL --- Billy Wayne Clayton, representative of this district, Ben Barnes, candidate for governor of Texas and Bob Lilly, Dallas Cowboy, via helicopter were in Olton Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. for a brief stopover during a campaign tour in the area.

"LET'S GO FISHING...I'll furnish the barge," J. F. "Speck" Cole stands by his latest masterpiece, a fishing barge with capacity enough for ten grown-ups. The barge is painted blue with a blue and white stripe canopy and indoor-outdoor carpet. He began building the barges as a hobby and after several were seen on lakes, he began building for others.

Our Readers Write

Dear Sue,

The Clothing Mission has been open since March 15 and has been well received by most. The ladies who have helped to operate it have been blessed the most, and we feel it is time we acknowledged our debt of thanks to some who have assisted us.

We are especially thankful to Eldon Franks, who helped in securing the use of the building; to Rick Howard to give of his time and effort to clean the floor for us; the City Council for supplying water; the Ministerial Alliance for their support; and the many who have furnished clothing racks, shelves, etc., including Bill Kelley, Basil Sherman, Ruby Gray, Joe Turner, the Olton Garden Club, Uil Gunter and Duward Price, Helen Hipp, Secretary of First Baptist Church, has done all our mimeograph work, and we appreciate her for this.

Many, many people have contributed clothing, linens and hangers, however we have not made any effort to keep a record of their contributions. At least 49 ladies of Olton churches have given their time, many of them serving more than once, to keep the mission open; to each of these we say "thank you." We have served 239 people through this effort, with approximately 675 articles of clothing and linens being distributed.

None of this would have been possible without the assistance of all, and we are indeed thankful to all who have helped in any way.

Recall Ralph Nader?

What would you say about a columnist who uses rumors, innuendo and hearsay evidence as the basis for a vicious attack on a reputable organization or individual? That he's irresponsible? That he "doesn't do his homework"? That he's offering the reading public a shoddy, defective product? And what if that columnist turns out to be Ralph Nader?

The fact is, Mr. Nader has used his syndicated newspaper column to accuse the U. S. Chamber of Commerce of making statements and doing things that it has not done.

The background of this case is a textbook example of the reason for a maxim that any good journalist learns as a cub reporter: Check the ORIGINAL SOURCES before you print anything that may be questionable.

The facts are simple enough. The National Chamber is one of several organizations objecting to some of the provisions of a bill to establish a federal Consumer Protection Agency. Many organizations have produced and circulated material critical of the bill. Some of the other organizations may have picked up and used some of the National Chamber material in their own mailings. So it would be easy for a careless journalist to confuse the origin of some of this material. And that is exactly what Mr. Nader did.

He refers to "wild" statements contained in a "secret propaganda kit" sent out by the National Chamber. He quotes this material as beginning with the statement that the bill is "the most serious threat to free enterprise and orderly government ever to be proposed in Congress." The trouble is, nothing the National Chamber has ever published or said about this bill contains that statement. Nor could any of our material be fairly described as a "secret propaganda kit." What we have published has gone out over a period of time, and under no more restrictions than any of our other regular membership mailings.

What is the National Chamber's position on the consumer bill? Not very extreme, really. We favor increased protection of the consumer's interests, but by an expansion of the powers of the President's Advisor on Consumer Affairs, not by the creation of yet another federal agency. Don't we have enough of them now?

Mr. Nader could have learned what we favor very easily, with one phone call. We're both in Washington.

But instead, he proceeded to draw some intemperate conclusions from his inadequate research. Thus, referring to his misinterpretation of our position, he asks: "Why do businessmen put up with this nonsense? Isn't it time for some sensible businessmen to investigate the Chamber of Commerce itself?"

One might well ask the same question with respect to Mr. Nader. Can it be that he is spreading himself too thin; that his research into other matters is as defective as it was in this case? Is a shoddy product from Mr. Nader less reprehensible than a shoddy product from any other businessman? I think not.

Mr. Nader concluded his attack with a rhetorical question: "Will the United States Chamber of Commerce listen? Probably not. For if it did, the functionaries who run that organization would have to do their homework. How much easier it is to invent dragons to slay."

Indeed it is, Mr. Nader. Indeed it is.

4-H Citizenship Course, Heritage Tour Announced

Sixty 4-H members from Texas will be participating in a Texas 4-H Citizenship Heritage Tour and the National 4-H Citizenship Short Course, July 5-18. The short course will be conducted in Washington, D. C. at the new National 4-H Center.

The tour and short course are open to any 4-H member who will be either a junior or senior in high school this September, according to Lanny Bullard, 4-H and youth specialist. Interested members may apply now at their local county Extension office. No applications will be accepted after March 25.

Three 4-H adult leaders and two county Extension agents will also be selected to participate in the event.

The heritage study tour will include three days of visiting historical points enroute to Washington, D. C., points out Bullard. The tour will resume on the three-day return trip to College Station.

"The heritage tour and citizenship short course are designed to supplement the citizenship education and leadership development training that young people are receiving through the home, school, church and other organizations," says Bullard.

The short course will feature topics relating to the individual's concept and responsibilities of citizenship, according to the specialist. Learning experiences will be enhanced further by visits to the Capitol, some of the branches of government and memorials to great Americans.

LANDSCAPING

Landscaping is a long term investment, points out Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist. Trees and shrubs properly placed can increase the value five to six times in the first 10 years and will continue to increase in following years. The key to proper tree placement is a landscape plan. A minimum of 10 percent of the cost of the home should be allocated for a landscape budget. Trees and shrubs must have room to develop to their fullest potential. Simplicity should keynote the design.

ALTOONA, PA., MIRROR:

"A newspaperman has the same right to knowledge of public affairs that every citizen has. But in addition he represents the public, which cannot attend all meetings or interview all officials. If a city, county, state or federal official denies a reporter access to public documents, he is denying all citizens the right to know how their government is being operated."

It's Hard to Hide

A year ago, in a small Texas town, two young men decided to steal the day's receipts from a motion picture theater which had closed for the night. Leaving their getaway car parked outside the theater, with the doors open so that there would be no delay when they were ready to go, they dumped the cash into a waste-basket and were about to leave with it.

But two passing policemen happened to notice the car parked with its doors open, and on the side of the street where parking was prohibited. Investigating, they caught the two youths in the act.

Surprise!

A bank robber in Los Angeles, who had got a sizable amount of money in just a few minutes, was chagrined when he discovered later that the entire act had been filmed. Bank officials, anticipating just such an occurrence, had placed a motion picture camera so that it could record exactly what happened in the area around the tellers' windows. Someone pressed a button and the camera went into action, the bank-robber unexpectedly becoming the star in a most interesting movie. Before long, he was behind bars.

In England, some years ago, a robber-murderer was so confident that he had outwitted the police that he even told them — when questioned — what he had done.

Luring a wealthy widow to a rented store-room in Crawley, England, he had shot her in the back of the head, taken from her body the jewels and cash that she had with her, and then dumped her body into a large steel drum filled with sulphuric acid. After her body was dissolved, he had poured the acid out on the ground, watching as it sank into the gravelly surface of the earth.

So certain was he that the police could never find the evidence to convict him of the crime that, when a detective interrogated him, he told what he had done.

Unfortunately for him, an investigator found two gallstones that had not dissolved, some bits of a red plastic hand-bag, and acrylic resin dentures belonging to the dead woman. They also located a jeweler who had bought some of the dead woman's jewels from the man who killed her. The murderer was convicted and executed.

Hiding Is Hopeless

Many who have heard the saying, "Crime doesn't pay" have set out to prove that it is not true. Most fail in this endeavor, but others continue to try.

Some may succeed in "getting away with it" for a time, but they still have to face the certainty of justice at the bar of God where, as a Man Who walked the earth long ago said, "There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed, neither hid that shall not be known."

Fortunately, this applies to good, as well as evil, deeds.

SWEATER SUIT

Going along with the clamor for carefree fabric, comes the sweater suit. Long and close-fitting or short and flared, spring suits will never be the same.

IT IS A FACT

For servicemen in Vietnam alone, emergency messages regarding personal and family problems average more than 30,000 a month. Another service of the Red Cross.

SHIN OAK POISONING -- Live-stockmen are urged to keep cattle out of pastures where shin oak is growing this spring. Sand shin oak poisoning is a definite problem in parts of Texas, and annual livestock losses have been estimated at more than $10 million, according to Dr. James Armstrong, Extension veterinarian. A supplemental feed containing calcium hydroxide is effective in reducing losses from shin oak poisoning.

ALL SET FOR RHINESTONES

Elaborate hair styles are part of the wave of the future. And, in the spirit of coiffure d'amour, they are sparkling like a glass of bubbling champagne. Now rhinestones have joined the glittering array of high fashion ensembles.

It all started a year ago with Yves St. Laurent's rhinestone star. In the Paris collection this season, a constellation of stars, arrows and hearts appeared on lapels, berets and belts. Rhinestones also made a debut in hair.

Now American stores are ordering them for festive special occasions.

Using a variety of rhinestones to add glitter, Mr. Paris of the Saks Fifth Avenue Salon designed this evening coif. The glowing haircolor is Miss Clairol Flaxen Blonde. Rhinestones, though they're not actually gems, make for a "gem dandy" hair setting.

MRS. JOE PRICE

Cook Of The Week

A bride of just a little more than a year, our Cook of the Week, Mrs. Joe Price shares recipes with the seal of approval by her husband. She submits her mother's recipe for chocolate pound cake. The improvised filet mignon is her own creation.

Cynthia, nicknamed Cindy by family and friends, and Joe were married New Year's Day, 1971. They met in Olton when Cindy came here as kindergarten teacher at H. P. Webb Elementary School.

A third grade teacher is what Cindy had planned to be while she was majoring in elementary education at Abilene Christian College. Instead of third graders, however, Cindy found her first little charges were economically and educationally deprived boys and girls in Olton's first public school kindergarten class.

Cindy, who learned to cook at home where she was the eldest of seven children, has had to adapt recipes she got from her mother to dishes for two. Born and reared on a farm near Bula, she feels very much at home five miles east of town where the young Prices moved last August.

Reading and embroidering are Cindy's hobbies. She is looking forward to learning to knit.

The Prices are members of Main Street Church of Christ.

Weights And Measures Book Available To Texans

How much is a cord of wood? How many feet in a nautical mile? How high is a hand? How long is a horseshoe court? How big is an acre?

The answers to these and other sometimes perplexing questions about weights and measures can be found in a booklet recently published by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

It's titled, "Everything You Have Always Wanted To Know About Weights and Measures But You Didn't Know Who To Ask."

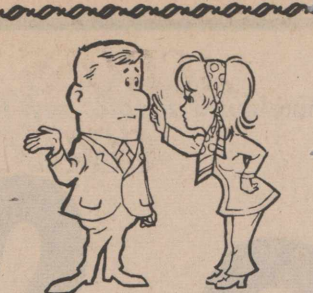

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White notes that the degree to which weights and measures affect the life of each person is a matter to which the average individual is not likely to give serious consideration. "Yet, weights and measures are vital to our way of living. It is the responsibility of the Texas Department of Agriculture to see to it that every citizen gets honest weight and measure in the things he buys," White said.

The booklet contains detailed information on just how much a pinch or dash is (it's 1/16 of a teaspoon), or one gill (it's one-half cup or four ounces liquid), and so on.

Also included are measurements for linear, nautical, square or area, cubic or volume. Also covered are liquid, dry, metric weights, angles and arcs, paper, decimal equivalents of common fractions, weight of water, winds, Roman numerals, and standard measurements for baseball, football, tennis, basketball, horseshoe court, men's volleyball, girls' volleyball, and single handball court.

A cord of wood is four feet high, four feet wide, and eight feet long. There are 6,028 feet in a nautical mile; a hand is four inches high; a horseshoe court is 40 feet between pegs; an acre is 43,560 square feet. You can get a copy of the booklet by writing to: John C. White, Commissioner, Texas Department of Agriculture, Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Hint of the Week

Try this -- it works. To tenderize pot roasts, after browning as usual add two cups medium strength tea instead of plain water. The roast will be very tasty and tender with no hint of tea taste.

Nutrition Specialist Warns Against Fad Diet

The Zen Macrobiotic fad diet that's now popular endangers the health of its followers, according to a Texas foods and nutrition specialist.

Sally Springer of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said that the concepts of the Macrobiotic diet which originated in Japan constitute a major public health problem and are dangerous.

"Individuals who persist in following the most rigid diets of Zen Macrobiotics standing great danger of incurring serious nutritional deficiencies and malnutrition," Miss Springer emphasized. "Some incidences of death have resulted from strict adherence to this diet."

The unusual diet proposes 10 ways of eating and drinking through which a person may establish a healthy and happy life. According to its followers, this may only be obtained through a proper balance of Yin and Yang. Certain foods are categorized as Yin, whereas other foods are known as Yang.

The diet advocates natural foods and is predominately vegetarian. It places great emphasis on the inclusion of whole grain cereals. In addition, fluids are to be avoided as much as possible.

Especially popular among adolescents, the diet is considered to be a means of creating a spiritual awakening or rebirth. Some persons have undertaken this diet as a form of protest against the establishment which, in their minds, is represented by the food industry. The diet is even adhered to as a means of protest against war or man's inhumanity to man.

The proposed dietary plan comprises 10 diets ranging from the lowest level, which includes only 10 percent cereal, to the highest level, made up of 100 percent cereals.

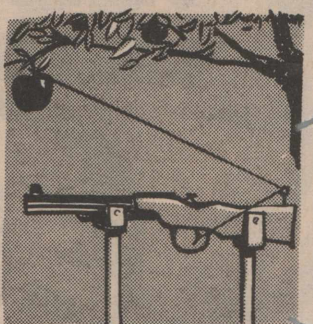

"Unusual diets have existed in all societies since ancient times and appear to be a universal phenomenon," Miss Springer said. "However, the Zen Macrobiotic diet is one of the most dangerous dietary regimens posing not only serious hazards to the health of the individual, but even to life itself."

"A great deal of research still needs to be done to evaluate the effect of nutrition on many diseases. It would be premature at this time to categorize all unusual dietary philosophies as hazardous without evaluation of their nutritional contribution. When the diet has been shown to cause irreversible damage to health and ultimately lead to death as it has in the case of the Zen Macrobiotic, it can't be one that we would consider safe for the general population."

Booby Trap for Trespassers

"NO TRESPASSING" signs, posted on Harper's farm, failed to discourage teenagers in the neighborhood from stealing his apples. Finally he set a booby trap in the form of a spring gun, cocked and ready to fire.

Sure enough, that very night a trespassing youth touched off the gun and received a bullet in the leg.

In due course, the victim filed suit against Harper for damages. At the trial, the latter insisted he had a right to use force to protect his property against intruders who were bent on mischief.

But the court held that the method he had chosen was too drastic, merely for the prevention of petty theft. The judge said deadly weapons could not be used when there was no personal danger to either the property owner or his family.

Generally speaking, a property owner cannot use greater force by means of a booby trap than he could use if he were on the scene in person. Even vicious dogs, left at large, have been frowned upon as a kind of booby trap.

"A savage dog," observed one judge, "is a dangerous instrument."

Nonetheless, milder measures may be justified. Take this case:

A suburban home owner, tired of having trespassers tramping across his lawn, stretched a barbed wire fence from a corner of his house to a corner of the lot.

Not long afterward, a man was hurt trying to scale the fence. Suing for damages, he charged that such a fence was "meant to injure people."

But the court decided that the fence, with its barbs in plain sight, was meant simply to make trespassing more difficult -- a perfectly legitimate purpose for a property owner.

It is worth mention, however that this particular fence was not placed alongside a public side walk. In some communities, that would be forbidden by local ordinance. Reason: too much chance of injuring an innocent passerby.

Be Informed Customer, Don't Fall For Racket

You are at home busily cleaning the house when you hear a knock on the door. You answer to find a man dressed as a delivery boy standing on your porch with a panel truck parked in front of your house.

He politely inquires as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Jones, your neighbor, and you inform him that you do not know where she is. With this, he gets a sad look on his face and informs you that he has a C. O. D. package for Mrs. Jones and she said it was very important that she get the package today since it was to be a present for a friend of hers who was having a surprise party tonight.

He doesn't know what to do since he won't be able to come back again and he really doesn't want to disappoint Mrs. Jones. It is at this time that a happy glow comes across his face and he hits upon a plan whereby you can do your neighbor a big favor. All you have to do is pay him the C. O. D. charges and then get your money back from Mrs. Jones.

This way she will receive the package in time and not be disappointed. After all, the C. O. D. charges amount to only $10. Being a friendly neighbor, you give the delivery man $10 and he goes on his way leaving you with a warm feeling inside, knowing that you have helped Mrs. Jones.

Later in the day when Mrs. Jones returns, the warm feeling begins to turn to doubt because Mrs. Jones informs you that she has not ordered any C. O. D. packages. You open the package to inspect its contents and find only rocks.

Another take-off on this scheme, and perhaps even more insidious, is practiced where there has been a recent death in a family. The knock on the door in this case presents a person who has a package for Mr. Smith at this address. When informed that Mr. Smith has recently passed away, the stranger gets a sad look on his face and says that Mr. Smith was in his store last week and picked out a beautiful gift for Mrs. Smith.

It was to be a surprise and Mr. Smith was so happy because he just knew that the gift would bring Mrs. Smith so much pleasure. Sentiment often pushes the person to go ahead and accept the item and pay for it, usually at an inflated price, and even though they don't need it, because it had been picked out for them by their deceased loved one.

Be an informed consumer. Don't fall for rackets similar to those above described. When a stranger knocks on your door and asks for money, demand proof of his identity. Know all the facts before you part with your money.

Your Pioneer dealer has many varieties bred to help farmers on the Plains turn in top yields. Some of these varieties are:

Pioneer Brand 820: shows its potential on irrigated land — performs well under stress — excellent standability — MDM resistant — 144-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 828: outstanding yielder — stands and threshes well even after freeze or snow — hard grain holds quality — MDM resistant — 144-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 846: excellent drought resistance — consistent high yields — MDM resistant — 134-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 833: yields along with 820 — excellent thresher — 140-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 8417: new yellow endosperm variety — full, open heads — good standability — easy thresher — MDM resistant — 135-day maturity

PH&T Competition Begins April 22 For Area Boys

All boys, aged 9 through 12, in the Olton area soon will have an opportunity to test their baseball skills in a nationwide competition that will culminate with eight boys competing for national championships at the All-Star Game in Atlanta on July 25.

Registration for the competition -- the Official Major League Baseball Pitch, Hit and Throw Competition (PH&T) -- begins in this area April 22.

Now in its third year, PH&T is sponsored by Major League Baseball League in conjunction with Phillips Petroleum Company and local Phillips 66 dealers.

Registration will continue through June 4 and local contests will be held June 10, according to Gene Trotter, the PH&T coordinator for this area.

Trotter said he expects that several boys from this area will register for the competition. Each boy competes with boys of his own age in three events -- pitching for accuracy, hitting for distance and throwing for accuracy. Winners are determined on the basis of total scores.

Local winners will advance to district contests on June 17 (or 18) at Amarillo. Winners from there will go to division competition later in June.

Winners and runners-up at every level -- including the local winners -- will receive handsome plaques and jacket patches. At the division level, each participant from this area will compete in a junior-size baseball uniform loaned for the purpose.

They also will be feted at a banquet with major league stars and taken on a sightseeing tour of the city.

The eight boys who will go to the All-Star Game to compete for four national championships -- with four representing the National League and four the American League -- will be picked from the highest scorers among the division winners.

The eight finalists, in addition to competing before the All-Star Game audience, will be the guests of the sponsors, with their parents, for the trip to Atlanta and they'll all have box seats for the game. The boys also will meet many of the All-Star players, at the game and at a banquet in their honor the preceding evening.

Trotter said that in 1971, PH&T had more than 450,000 boys participate in all of the 50 states. This year the number is expected to exceed 700,000.

Registration forms will be available in this area at G. H. Bley Phillips 66 Station.

FROM LEVELLAND Jack Flake of Levelland spent Tuesday with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gray.

TWO LUBBOCK MEN were injured when the 1971 Ford pickup in which they were traveling, overturned north of Olton about 6 miles Monday morning. Wade Wallace and Charles Blair, Lubbock electricians, were making a service call in the area when a tire blew, causing the vehicle to go out of control, hit a culvert and overturn. The driver was more seriously injured than the passenger. They were taken to Highland Hospital in Lubbock. Investigating officers were Joe Young and Richard Loter of Muleshoe.

Tech Animal Scientists Seek Answer To Feedlot Odors

Some of the nation's largest cities share a historic problem with their country cousins -- the smell of the livestock pens which go hand-in-hand with a steady demand for meat.

Texas Tech University animal scientists, responding to feedlot operators' demands as well as the hopes of the general public, are setting about solving the problem of odors related to commercial livestock production.

Sophisticated test tube studies are a part of the long-range research plan, but the first step is pretty basic, according to Animal Science Prof. Robert C. Albin, one of three directing the study.

"It begins with the nose," he said, explaining that 36 students, three faculty members, and one research associate are contributing their senses of smell to the program. Albin pointed out that the problem is old. Historically, as populations become concentrated so did livestock production in order to supply meat, milk and livestock by-products.

"It isn't a case of people not wanting penned livestock," he said. "The feedlots supply the American appetite for a big meat supply and are heavy contributors to the agricultural economy."

"It is time, however, to give up the assumption that offensive odor necessarily is a part of the operation. It can be reduced and perhaps eventually almost eliminated."

Currently in the Texas Tech study 75 swine are separated into five groups, each of which is fed a special diet. Four diets have additives which should reduce the smell emanating from their feedlots.

Manure is collected, catalogued and put in sealed jars, and then students and faculty submit to "sniffing bees," rating each sample as to the degree of its offensiveness.

"There's really no other place to start," Dr. Albin said. "It is the olfactory sense which is disturbed, and so it is this sense which must eventually be satisfied with the solution."

Long range study plans, he said, include studies to determine quantitatively what chemicals in the most successful additives are the critical ones.

Among the 40 participants in the basic study there is great variation in smell reaction.

"Some are much more sensitive to odor than others," Albin said, "but in choosing the most distasteful of the odors there very often is close agreement."

He said that the study already has shown that certain additives do change the odor of the manure. When the research is more advanced, he said, it is hoped that animal scientists will be able to address feedlot operators which additives would most likely reduce the odors.

Later studies this semester will deal with cattle waste, he said.

"You can be sure," said Albin, "the feedlot operators who are in contact with the odor no matter which way the wind blows are as eager as anyone to solve this problem."

Working with Albin in directing the study are Animal Science Profs. A. Max Lennon and Leland F. Tribble. Their research associate is a bacteriologist, Mrs. Lucy Porter.

Price States Opposition To Beef Hides Embargo

In a letter to Secretary of Commerce Peter Peterson, Congressman Bob Price today criticized a proposal under consideration to place an embargo on the exportation of beef hides from the United States.

Calling the proposed move "short-sighted and totally unjustifiable," Price emphasized that the embargo would have a detrimental effect upon the cattle raising industry. "We all remember a few short years ago when the same cries for an embargo were heard from shoe manufacturers who threatened a rise in shoe prices without it," Price noted. "The embargo was granted, and shoe prices went up just the same."

The Congressman also commented, "At this time when the Federal Government has raised meat import quotas and our Nation is suffering a seriously adverse balance payment deficits, it makes absolutely no sense whatsoever to run that deficit even deeper into the red by blocking the export of a marketable commodity merely to satisfy the whims of a small group of shoe manufacturers who are attempting to obscure their own failures in the area of cost control. If the price of shoes is pinching the shoe manufacturing companies of America, that is certainly not the fault of American beef hide producers -- farmers and ranchers have subsidized everyone else's high standard of living for long enough."

Zakkas Attend Graduation, See Friends From Lebanon

Olton High School's Class of '66 now includes a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, Richard Zakka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jaffar Zakka, was among the graduates in that school's 88th graduation ceremonies April 4 in New York City's Booth Theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Zakka and her nieces, Jacqueline and Josephine Masso of Plainview, attended the ceremonies. They heard Pat O'Brien, veteran film star and alumni of the school, give the commencement address.

Making the trip by car, the group left Olton about 11:30 Saturday night, April 1. They stopped over for a brief sleep at Indianapolis, Ind. and then continued on their way, arriving at Richard's New York apartment at 2:30 Monday afternoon.

The trip to New York turned into a sight-seeing excursion right away when Richard escorted his parents and cousins on a "ride about town" after dinner at a Lebanese restaurant.

Bumper-to-bumper traffic had not lessened when their sight-seeing ride was over at two o'clock in the morning!

"The traffic was terrible," Hanne Zakka exclaims. The West Texans readily conceded to Richard's advice "Leave the car in the garage and take a taxi" during the remainder of their stay in the bustling metropolis.

After graduation ceremonies the next afternoon, they were taken by bus to a reception at the school. Alumni of the school include such famed persons as the late Cecil B. de Mille and Spencer Tracy and Grace Kelly, Lauren Bacall, Edward G. Robinson and many others.

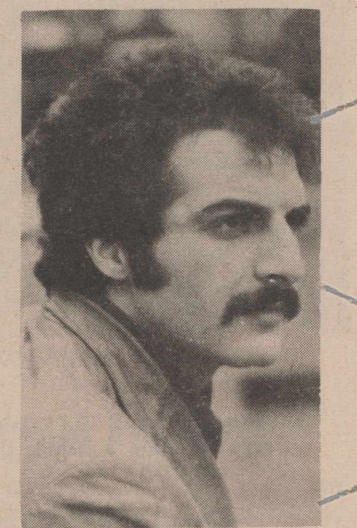

Other highlights of their New York City visit included a trip to the United Nations, Radio City Music Hall, Empire State Building and Statue of Liberty.

A cousin, Mrs. Mohammed Baghal, gave them a guided tour of the UN. Mrs. Baghal has been a broadcaster in Arabic and English at the UN eight years. Her husband is director of the American-Arab Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Baghal showed them an enormous shop in the UN building where Hanne purchased 15 dolls to add to a collection of more than 400 dolls.

At Radio City Music Hall, they saw the performance of the "Glory of Easter." The great stage was transformed into a gothic cathedral where stained-glass windows glowed above a candle-lit altar. Members of the Rockets, dressed in white with arms holding Easter lilies, formed a gleaming cross.

Unable to get tickets to the Johnny Carson Show, they settled for a visit to "Jeopardy" and will see the program on television when it's broadcast May 2.

Leaving New York City, the next stop was Syracuse, N. Y. for a visit in the home of Mrs. Doris Seikaly. Mrs. Seikaly and her late husband, Eddie Seikaly, were Olton visitors four years ago.

Attending midnight mass at a Greek Orthodox Church Saturday April 8, the Zakkas saw friends and relatives from Lebanon, some of whom they had not seen in years. Jaffar renewed old friendships with persons from his hometown, Haifa. Almost like "homecoming," the mass and visit was over with a breakfast at 3 a. m.

Snow almost spoiled a quick visit into Canada. Seeing Niagara Falls by night, Hanne was awed by their beauty and amazed at the pretty colors reflected.

The Zakkas started their homeward journey Monday and stopped off for overnight visits with friends and relatives in Detroit, Mich. and Tulsa, Okla. They arrived home April 13.

Commenting on a "wonderful trip," Hanne explained it was good to be home in Texas, adding that her husband vowed he "wouldn't trade Olton for all of New York."

SATURDAY GUESTS

Spending Saturday with Mrs. Bessie Jones were her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Leora Farris of Lubbock and Mrs. Barbara Bennett of Sweetwater.

COBWEB

The old Dutch word for spider was "cop". With a slight change, it became "cob" in English, so a spider's web became a cobweb.

Cattle Scabies Quarantine May Possibly Be Extended

The cattle scabies quarantine on 34 Texas Panhandle counties may possibly be extended to nine more counties with stricter dipping requirements, according to Dr. Bill Clymer, Extension area entomologist at Amarillo.

He has received word from the Texas Animal Health Commission that as of June 1, the quarantine may be extended to cover another tier of counties south and east of the current control area. Those that may be added to the list include Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Knox, Baylor and Wilbarger counties; Clymer reports that official dipping will be required of all cattle in movement except those animals that:

1. are moving directly to slaughter;
2. are moving to slaughter through a livestock market;
3. are moving to a livestock market for sale and dipping prior to release;
4. are released from a livestock market to a dip point with an official permit;
5. are moving to an official dip point;

Report Shows Increase In Accidents & Deaths

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today the final tabulation of 1971 motor vehicle traffic accidents shows that 3,594 persons died last year on Texas streets and highways. An additional 121,082 were injured and the total economic loss was $1,045 billion.

"The death figure of 3,594 represents a 1% increase over the 1970 toll of 3,560. Actually, with all factors considered, the rise in deaths could have been greater," Speir said.

"For example, vehicle miles driven increased from 68 billion in 1970 to over 70.7 billion for 1971. This represents a rise in total driving of 4%. From another standpoint, the number of licensed Texas drivers rose by nearly 324,000 during the past 12 months to a total near 7 million.

"Despite these sizeable increases in both miles driven and numbers of drivers, actual deaths increased only slightly. This means that our death rate per 100 million miles of travel--the nationally accepted indicator of traffic safety effectiveness--decreased 3% from 5.2 in 1970 to 5.1 in 1971. As recently as 1966, our death rate in Texas was 6.2 so progress is being made," the DPS director added.

Of the 3,594 deaths, 2,184 occurred on rural roadways and 1,410 in urban areas. There were 2,993 fatal accidents and total accidents reported for 1971 was 394,166.

Speir said driving too fast for conditions and driving while intoxicated continued as the primary law violations contributing to fatal mishaps. Other major violations included driving on the wrong side of the roadway and failure to yield the right-of-way.

Here is one of those great epigrams of my favorite philosopher — Dad! Or was it Mother? It's hard to remember for sure.

But, anyway, it isn't true. The older I get the more I realize that there are some who can tie their own neckties but still aren't men.

Maturity is not measured by what you can do. It is measured rather by your reasons for doing — or not doing — things you can do.

Think that sentence through once more. Your son will become a man when he has sound reasons for doing one thing and not doing something else, even though he could have done either.

It is in the character-molding and spiritual growth which the Church provides that both youth and adults discover the soundest motivation of life. In worship and religious training we embrace the reasons that will prompt our courageous decisions as Christian men and women.
