The fire started around eight o'clock and the garage and car were both destroyed before the blaze could be extinguished. How the fire started no one knows. Glenn's car had not been run since the day before the fire.

13 Hours Steady Rainfall Here

The trade territory of Knox City was among the section of Texas that received one of the best rainfalls Wednesday night and Thursday that has fallen in some months.

It began raining about nine o'clock Wednesday night and continued slowly for around thirteen hours, totalling two or more inches during the time. The rain came more like the Fall rains do instead of Spring rans. It was slow but steady and not a bit "blowy".

The recent cold wave hit this section Saturday night and continued cold until the rain betan, when it began to moderate some. The thermometers registered around 18 degrees above during this cold speli, being the coldest of this winter season.

W. T. AVERITT HAS EXPERIENCE WITH THE WEATHER

W. T. Averitt had an impresave experience with the weather Sunday night when he froze to the point of being unable to get in the house after a two mile walk against the north wind. Although he was on his job at the bank Monday morning he still suffered with his feet, tehy being the part of his body most severely damaged by the cold.

Sunday W. T. heard the whisperings of Dan Cupid and drove to Stamford to see the young lady. On his return home Sunday night his car froze before he reached Haskell. Not realzing just how cold it was he left the car and started walking to Haskell facing the north wind. This was about eleven o'clock. Well, some time later W. T. stumbled to the porch of a house and the occupants therein emerged and carried the almost frozen W. T. into the house. He was thawed out and allowed to call his family at Rule who went for him.

As it is, W. T. is all O. K. only that his feet are still not quite normal; however, if the man's house had been one half mile further up the road Knox City and Rule citizens would no doubt be considerably more interested in the condition of a frozen young man.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Davenport of the Thorp community spent the past weekend with his mother in Bellview.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

With the revival and reorganization of the Odd Fellow Lodge of Knox City comes a very interesting item concerning this lodge of twenty years ago.

Twenty years ago, which was the year 1914, the following officers were elected for the Knox City chapter of the I. O. O. F. number 310:

E. B. Denton, N. G.
D. V. Wheeler, V. G.
W. W. Hyde, Secretary
W. J. Jones, Treasurer.
S. W. Almonrode, R. S. to N. G.
I. R. Cypert, L. S. to N. G.
J. W. Smith, Warden
L. C. Everett, Conductor
J. A. L. Wood, R. S. S.
R. T. Turner, L. S. S.
J. W. Reese, O. G.
M. F. Abbott, I. G.
Rev. R. H. Weaver, Chaplain

A number of those men who were elected officers of the Odd Fellow Lodge in 1914 are still residents of Knox City. They doubtless can relate interesting tales in the life of the lodge. They would make an interesting set of guests to meet with the boys now pushing for the reestablishment of the lodge.

Mrs. Berryhill Buried Here

Mrs. Lilly Anna Berryhill, born September 3, 1882 in Phillips county Arkansas, died February 23, 1934 at her home in Knox county, near the city of Knox City, Texas. Funeral services were conducted from the Church of Christ, Brother Wilburn Hill officiating and burial was made in teh Odd Fellow Cemetery of this city.

Mrs. Berryhill's death came after several months severe suffering. She is survived by her husband and six children. They and Mr. Berryhill, Everett Berryhill of Rochester, Mrs. Claud Richardson, Elvin, Ervin, Exell and little Miss Mary Jane Berryhill all of Knox City.

Mrs. Berryhill obeyed the Gospel in 1903 and was baptized by Brother George Cypert. She was a very splendid woman and her absence will be keenly felt by friends as well as relatives.

Improvements

It is noticable this week that the Silman store has about completed the improvements being made in the store. The new display windows are finished and give an attractiveness to the store that was not there before. Silman is also doing a bit of modernizing inside the store which you may read about n his advertisement in this issue of teh Herald.

The X L Service Station plans to raise their driveway some six inches as soon as the weather warms. This of course is to prevent water standing about the place.

Mrs. T. P. Frizzell Jr. has had an exchange made in her door and window at the front of her home. The door was placed where the window was and the window put where the door was. Mrs. Frizzell has had other work done inside her home.

Statement was made a week or so ago that H. M. Warren was gving his home a coat of paint. It is noticable now however that teh house is being complimented with more than teh paint.

Last week the small frame structure located at the rear of the Red and White store was torn down and moved away. This cleared the lot and it looks much better now. It is rumored that Lloyd Davis plans to erect a building there in teh near future.

The District Deputy, District number 3, will meet with the Knox City Chapter of teh Orded of teh Eastern Star on the evening of March 9th. All members are reguested to be in attendance at teh lodge on that night.

The Cokesbury party and game book belonging to the ladies of the Methodist church has been misplaced. We need the book and if any one knows its where abouts, will you please return it to Mrs. H. B Sweeney.

The silver tea sponsored last Thursday by teh ladies of teh Methodist church was well attended, guests coming from Thorp, Munday and Seymour, as well as the Knox City guests. One hundred or more registered.

The annual Chamber of Commerce banquet has been postponed indefinitely. A meeting will be held at the usual noon hour Tuesday of next week at which time new officers will be elected.

Ancil Waldrip, agent for the Sinclair products, lost 1562 gallons of gasolene last Saturday night. Some one stole a quality of gas and left it turned on and a great deal ran out on the ground.

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless use of strong laxatives may do more harm than good.

Harsh laxatives often drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. Member N. R. A.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Jesus' Testimony Concerning Himself.

Lesson for March 4th. Matt. 11 and 12.

Golden Text Matt. 11:28.

Our lesson reaches its climax in the glorious invitation at the end of chapter 11. What comfort this brings to a distracted, disheartened world. There is no music like teh music of the gospel, and nowhere does the music sound with a sweeter, more wooing note than in this sublime passage.

Now there are four key words in this charming welcome. The first is "Come!" a beautiful, gracious word our Master uttered rather frequently. Jesus is the world's greatest friend. Here is the note of a wooer and lover who understands. What we all want today is security, and we get it when we come close to Jesus. He extends His arm of invitation to us, who are burdened and broken hearted, and we find rest in Him.

The second key word is "Take!" Jesus is the world's greatest Giver and what are we to take? Christ's yoke! Now there are two types of yoke, the galling, bitter yoke that binds the slave to his hateful task and the kindly, comfortable yoke that holds the oxen together so that they work easily and harmoniously. It is the latter yoke Jesus plainly has in mind. We are to bear His yoke, with Himself in the trace walking along with us. What a beautiful privilege!

The third key word is "Learn!" Jesus is the world's greatest Teacher. And what do we learn? Nothing less than that life, despite its misery and failure, is a glorious, magnificient experiecne, rich in heavenly beauty and joy. We learn further the guiding principles of Christian conduct, reunuciation, non-resistance and that personal intergrity that includes humility, fidelity, courage, and sincerity.

The final key word is "Find!" Jesus is the world's greatest Treasure-House. And what do we find? We discover the rest that comes through intimate association with the world's supreme character, a rest identical with peace.

Come! Take! Learn! Find! The grace of God in Christ is ours.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo. writes: "I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one bottle of your Kruschen Salts just four weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. and have more energy and further more I've never had a hungry moment.

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—and 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—you can get Kruschen at any drug store in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

THE BOOK

... the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures ...

by BRUCE BARTON

AN OLD MAN'S CONCLUSIONS

Whenever some one recommends that you buy a current novel which claims to be ultra-modern in its cynical appraisal of live, save your two dollars and take down your Bible and read Ecclesiastes again. You will find in it everything that the Greenwich Villagers have ever said and much better said than they ever thought of saying it.

It is the book of an old man, who had sought pleasure in every conceivable form but had nowhere found satisfaction.

Vanity of vanities; all is vanity.

What profit hath a man of all his labor which he taketh under the sun?

One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth forever.

The sun also riseth, and the sun goeth down, and hasteth to his place where he rose.

All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again.

All things are full of labour; man cannot utter it; teh eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearings.

The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done, and there is no new thing under the sun.

Being in a position of power, and with educational opportunities beyond those of other men, the writer set forth to make himself the wisest of all. But

I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit.

For in much wisdom is much grief; and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow.

He tried to find satisfaction in mirth and wine, and again in achievement—the building of palaces and gardens, the accumulation of property, gold and silver, servants.

Then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labour that I had laboured to do; and, behold, all was vanity and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit under the sun.

So, disillusioned and old, he continues for eleven gloomy chapters and then suddenly there comes a change in the tempo. He has found the answer, the one thing that gives satisfaction, the one safeguard against a lifetime of frutiless searching and reiterated dissapointments.

Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in thef.

There are scholars who say that this majestic twelfth chapter of Ecclesiastes does not jibe with the other eleven and must have been added by a later hand. True, perhaps, but improbable. It makes a grand conclusion to a very wonderful book and it belongs just where it is.

From the deep shadows of Ecclesiastes you turn with a sense of relief to the psalms. Then with the grandeur of the mountains, the fragrance of spring air, the vast stretches of the firmament and teh joy of the Lord. To be sure, there are other notes, for teh psalms are a complete emotional record of human life.

It Saw

A merchant in a small town saw his business slipping away and could think of no means of saving it. He was becoming desperate when he hit upon a novel plan.

When an isolated customer dropped in the merchant waited upon him with a wide grin on his face. As the customer turned to leave the store the merchant broke out in roars of uncontroallable laughter, literally doubling up in his contortions, but refusng to divulge the cause of his mirth.

The customer spread the news and soon the store was filled with curious citizens, the merchant still laughing. Many made small purchases while in the store as a matter of courtesy.

The next day the wily merchant was still laughing but refusing to give out any information.

The editor of the local paper, with an opportunity, ran a story in his columns that on the following Saturday the merchant would tell all customers, privately, the cause of his mirthful jamboree, with the assurance that it would convince teh town.

Before the merchant opened his doors Saturday morning the street in front of his store was packed. Men, women, children, farmers and their wives from the country, all were there to hear the guarded secret, and to make the conditional purchases. Money was passed over the counter in a steady stream, and nightfall found it the greatest day in the store's history.

The secret so carefully guarded? It was just an advertising stunt but it worked because a wise-editor gave it the necesary publicity. The merchant is now a steady advertiser and doing a thriving business.

YOUR HEALTH

By John W. Brown, State Health Officer

The warm days of spring will soon be here and the Texas State Department of Health urges everyone to see that their property is cleaned of winter's accumulation of trash. It is only through individual responsibility and effort that one can have a clean and neat appearing city.

In planning your spring cleaning start with the house itself i the attic and work down, not forgetting the basement. Attics and baesments are the greatest collectors of refuse and therefore of dust and dirt that the house possesses, and heir neglect often cinstitutes a serious fire hazard. Do not forget to screen against flies and mosquitoes. The better the job of cleaning, and with a garbage pail kept tightly covered, the fewer flies there will be, because flies love dirt and filth and breed in garbage and other filth.

Under the C. W. A. sanitary project pit privies and septic tanks may be installed at no cost for labor, also private water supplies may be sanitated. This will be a great improvement in rural sections and towns that do not have a city water supply or sewer system.

We are prone to judge people in no small measure by the kind of yard keepers we think they are. Many times you have heard some one say, "No, I don't know the people next door but they cannot amount to much because their yard is cluttered with tin cans and papers and their garbage can is always open." Do not let your neighbors be able to pass judgement

4-H Pantry Demonstrtors Experimenting With New Type Corn in Knox County

Since corn can be grown successfully in Knox County, Dr. P. C. Mangelsdorff, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Corn Breeder has sent samples of a sweet corn to be given to the 4-H pantry demonstrators to experiment with this year.

Dr. Mangelsdorf has contributed a type of corn combining the good qualities of sweet corn and field corn. Because of its long tight shucks it is not damaged as severely by tse corn ear worm as teh true sweet corn. The ears are of good length, having 12 to 16 rows of plump white kernels. This sweet corn has been named Honey June and is a cross between Country Gentlemen and Mexican June.

Those experimenting with this corn are: Mrs. Louis Cartwright, Munday, Mrs. Clyde Warren, Goree, Mrs. H. L. "With my hotbed, I am sure I will save plenty of plants for my garden," said Mrs. Marion R[illegible], 4-H Pantry Demonstrator in the Gilliland Home Demonstration Club. "My problem now is to have a garden which I believe I can if I lay some tile. I have had my garden plowed deep and plan to make and lay at least 100 feet of concrete tile subirrigation. It is a problem to have enough water for a garden here and what we pour on the surface makes the ground hard, white and seems to burn the plants. Since subirrigation takes less water, causes the ground to bake less and seems to be a sure way of raising tomatoes, at least, I must try some of it."

"Mrs. Rider stated also that she was planning to save the wash water and clear waste water from te kitchen to use in the tile.

4-H Bedroom

"I have been making plans for improving my bedroom and I think I am going to like it very much when it is completed," said Bernice Crawford, 4-H bedroom Demonstrator in the Dixon Club.

There is a fireplace in Bernice room and it is possible for a closet to be built between teh fireplace at the side wal. making it have teh appearance of being built into the wall. She plans to have a dersair table added to her room as anoth of the main features. The room will be prepared and t ehwoodwork refinished and the entire room will be rearranged making it more convenient and more easily cleaned.

Twelve other girls in teh Dixon club are busy improving their bedrooms by cleaning them, adding closets, small pieces of furniture when needed and each one is working toward a standard bed which include a slat for every row of coils, spring and mattress cover, mattress pad 3 sheets 3 yards long, light cover and teh entire bed made correctly. WHO'S WHO IN THE SENIOR CLASS
Irene Holland

Irene Holland was born December 11, 1915 in Knox City. Having lived here practically all of her life, she has attended the Knox City public schools through both grammar and high school. Irene is 5 feet 6 inches tall weighs 139 pounds and has brown hair and blue eyes.

Irene has been connected with various sport activities for some time. She has played basket ball three years and was chosen captain for the team of 1931, base ball four years and volley ball one year. Other activities with which she has been identified are camp fire girls two years, girl scouts one year, and a member of the pep squad three years. Irene has also taken voice two years, art 2 years under Mrs. Milton Berry in which she won first in the art contest and music six years under Mrs. E. Q. arren, winning a prize the first year for having the highest average.

Irene likes big nickles and plane geometry. Her weakness is "going to Whitfield's Garage; favorite songs are Spanish songs accompanied by a guitar. We aren't postive but we feel pretty sure that after Monday there will be an added incentive for Irene to visit Motehr White.

COMMERCIAL LAW

Commercial Law is being offered this year for the first time at Knox City High School. It is under the instruction of Mr. Travis B. Dean and the class is composed of seniors who will endeavor to affiliate the half credit course. The class is using Cano's Commercial Law Book by Rogers and Thompson. It is well under way now, composed of some eight or ten members, it should prove to be both interesting and worth while. Everyone should have a fair knowledge of law, at least they should know as much as is offered in this course. We hope that teh effort to affiliate it will not be unsuccessful and that Knox City High School will continue to offe it.

HOME ECONOMICS 1 GIRLS DECORATE WINDOWS

The members of the Home Economics - Class decorated some of the show windows in town the past week end. This work was purely original and directed by the girls themselves under the supervision of Miss Gann. This provded them with an excellent opportunity to exhibit their ability to put in practise their knowledge of what they have been studying in class with reference to line, balance and space. The girls received much pleasure from their work and the practice was highly beneficial. in fact, they seemed to attach more importance to those first dresses by being able to exhibit them. The class joins Miss Gann in expressing its sincere appreciation to Whites, Ameen's, and Malouf's for their hearty cooperation to the school in offering their show windows for the exhibit. Not only that but all accessories that might add to the atraction and balance of the window were readily supplied.

FLYING JUSTICE
By Marilynn Herring

"Paper Mister?" asked the boy. The pilot stopped, dug a thumb and forefinger into the change pocket of his jerkin and found it empty. He switched to his trousers pocket and pulled out a twenty-dollar bill.

"Ain't got chanse for that, Mister. There's the Plymouth Trust over there. The place with the stone steps."

The pilot his name was Geoffrey Preston crossed the street and went up the stone steps. At the top he paused and regarded the bill which he still held in his hand. It was well crumpled, and it represented the total sum of his funds at the moment. He still had sixteen hundred miles to go before setting his plane down at Springfield, Massachusetts, for the jo bBill Jenkins had promised.

He shrugged his shoulders and pushed through the revolving doors of the bank. The teller's cage was empty. Preston leaned against the little shelf in front and waited. There were no other customers in the bank the pilot glanced at the wall clock. it lacked two minutes to closing time. He took a step toward the door but went no farther, a latch clicked, and the teller entered the cage.

Preston slid the twenty-dollar bill under the little brass-barred window.

"Change this please," he requested. The little man in the cage accepted it and flipped it to one side. From a sectioned box in front of him, he drew out three fives and four one dollar bills. Then he tapped several keys of a coin changer. The silver he placed on top of the bills; tehn he started to slide the lot unler the little brass window. Halfway there his hand stopped short. The money slid from the counter.

The pilot glanced up at the teller's face. It had turned a ghastly white, and his mouth sagged open. Preston started to speak, but didn't Something blunt and hard was being pressed against the small of his back. He was pushed against the little shelf. Hot breath that reeked of gin fanned his ear.

"Don't try moving!" Came a low voice. And in a slightly louded tone. "You in there, shove it all out quick. And be sure to keep your hands above the counter."

The man in the cage obeyed. The entire contents of the sectional box was removed and shoved under teh little brass door in three seperate piles of bills. Then a dirty hand, with the forearm encased in a dark blue coat sleeve, darted before Preston's eyes. Three time it appeared and picked up a pile of bills. Then teh pressure at the small of the pilots back increased. Hot breath fanned his ear again.

"Stay just like that, teh two of you! Get me? And don't move for five minutes, see? I am rather nervous on the trigger."

The pilot stood rigid and stared traight at the teller, the teller stared back. The pressure against the pilot's back was removed. Soft foot steps retreated across the marble floor. Then the teller's lips quivered and he shouted:

"Thief! Stop him! Stop thief!" Preston flung himself flat on teh floor. A voice snarled a curse. Feet pounded on teh marble. A door was opened, and a second voice called out shaply.

"Here, there, stop! I say stop!" A revolver shot echoed through the place. A man's voice choked and gasped. Then a body fell heavily on the floor. Preston jerked his head around in time to see a gray hat with a mop of fiery red hair beneath it disappear through the revolving doors. A few feet in front of teh doors lay the huddled figure of a gray-haired man.

Bedlam broke loose inside the bank. Office doors banged open; white-faced men and women stared wildly about, then rushed forward. Preston reached the figure first. Dropping to his knees, he turned the body over. Dead!

Preston stood up and grabbed hold of the man nearest him.

"Call police headquarters, quickly," he ordered.

The pilot shouted the order over his shoulder as he made for the revolving doors. Each person he met he enquired if they had seen a man with a gray hat and red hair.

All replied that they had not seen a man of such description.

Inside Preston met teh teller.

"Get the police, all right?" he questioned.

"They are on the way down," he said.

"Who's the dead man?"

The teller told Preston that the dead man was James P. Hodges, president of the Plymouth Trust company.

"Good heavens," the man groaned as he finished, "why did I yell."

At that moment two policemen entered teh bank. Preston stepped up to them.

"In there," he directed, and pointed to the office door.

After a few minutes a policeman came out of the office of the dead bank president.

The two mumbled a few sentences to each other, and presently a tall man with horn-rimmed glasses entered the bank. He walked up to Preston and the group of bank employes.

"My name's Carrigan," he said bluntly. "I'm from the district attorneys office. Who saw this, and how did it happen?"

The pilot acted as spokesman for the group and told all he knew. The teller, who gave his name as Biddle, described the murder as best he could which wasn't much. According to Biddle, teh killer was slightly taller than Preston. He had a hard looking face and wore a dark blue suit. He also wore a gray hat and had red hair. No other employee had seen the murderer. Preston, Biddle and teh dead president had been the only ones in the front part of the bank at the time Biddle estimated the cash loss of about twelve thousand dollars.

The man from the attorney's office eventually dismissed everyone except Preston and the teller. He ushered them into a vacant office, where he motioned to two chairs and took one himself. He started questioning the teller regarding teh movements during the day of himself and of his employer. After a short fifteen minutes he told teh teller to go.

As the door closed behind the official, Carrigan bent his gaze on Preston's face.

"Stranger in Plymouth?"

Preston nodded.

"Yes I have been in California for the last three years." On my way east now."

"Train?" he asked casually.

"No," Preston replied." By plane. I forced landed in the field up by those car arns north of here this morning. Eh... come to tow...

"Yes for the movies," the pilot informed him.

Oh, I see,' the other nodded." And you made an unintentional landing here in Plymouth. Tell me, just how was it you happened to be in the bank when the robbery and killing took place?"

"In detail Preston described his movements from the time he stopped at the news-stand to teh time the police arrived. When he finished the man from teh distrct attorney's told him to wait, and went outside. In less than five minutes he returned.

"Mr. Holmes wants the watch of the roads and the railroad station doubled if necessary. I guess it will will be all night tonight for the boys," he replied to teh t... men.

Judge the new FORD V8 on what it will do
Thousands of people who can afford to spend two or three times as much for a car, are today choosing the Ford V-8 for 1934, instead. Here are some of the reasons.
POWER. The Ford V-8 for 1934 gives you better than 80 miles per hour with the quicker acceleration and greater smoothness of an 8-cylinder motor. Power has actually been increased by 12 per cent over last year's model.
COMFORT. The Ford V-8 for 1934 offers more actual body room than many other cars that cost considerably more. It offers you new Clear-Vision Ventilation, with the window in one piece. It offers you free action for all four wheels—plus the comfort of Ford Cantilever Springs and the proved safety of a front axle.
SAFETY. With the new Ford V-8 you get an all-steel body, safety glass, welded steel-spoke wheels, exceptionally low center of gravity and more braking surface per pound of weight than any other American-made car we know of.
ECONOMY. Gasoline economy is increased by two or three miles per gallon with the new Ford V-8. Test runs show that the new engine will give 20 miles per gallon at 45 miles per hour.
