Japan Sues For Peace; B-29 Reprieve Is Called

Official Offer Of Surrender Is Received In Washington; Seek To Retain The Emperor

Allied Leaders Take Enemy's Cry Under Consideration; Russian Attitude Doesn't Like Japanese Proposal

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Japan sued formally for peace today but qualified unconditional surrender in an effort to keep the emperor enthroned. There was no immediate rush to accept her plea whole.

Allied leaders took the enemy's cry of quits under joint consideration even before it was received in official form late today through the Swiss government, but a number of

THE BOYS ALL VOTE "YEA"

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Japan's decision to sue for peace was made at a full cabinet meeting, including the war and navy ministers, which lasted from Thursday until dawn Friday (Tokyo time), Domei agency said tonight in a FCC-monitored broadcast. The vote on the decision was unanimous.

Senators and some strategically placed officials saw in the stipulation on the emperor's sovereignty something less than the unconditional surrender which the Allies have demanded.

Late tonight an associate of Secretary of State Byrnes said that consultations among the big four—the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China — on the surrender offer had made progress during the afternoon and early evening and would be resumed tomorrow.

The only United States decision on the surrender offer, the Byrnes associate said, will be one made in conjunction with the other three powers.

Russian Attitude Doesn't Like Proposal

There was no comment of that nature which could be traced back to President Truman or Secretary of State Byrnes. However, officialdom paid close attention to an indication that Russia saw the enemy proposal in that light and did not like it.

The indication came in a broadcast over the Moscow radio. As recorded by NBC, Commentator I. J. Yarameshenko discussed the stipulation on the imperial prerogatives and then asserted:

"Unconditional surrender means just that—unconditional surrender."

Potsdam Declaration Is Stressed

Nobody here was inclined to believe a commentator on the official Soviet radio went into that kind of issue without guidance.

Also stressed here was the Truman-Attlee-Chiang declaration on Potsdam, to which Russia subscribed, emphasizing that unconditional surrender is not a matter for quibbling or delay.

Meanwhile the war went on, with announcement of heavy new strikes by the American-British fleet prowling off the Japanese islands. It was announced in Guam that the B-29s which have played so big a role in beating down Japan's arrogance would not strike Saturday. This was the first relaxation of any Allied force but at the war department it was said nothing was known of any general ceace-fire order.

U. S. Fleet Also Gives Japs A Holiday

The fleet also gave the Japanese a Saturday rest from sea and air attacks, but this was attributed to operational plans made long in advance of the surrender offer.

Inquiry at the Navy department brought this statement:

"You may be sure that if day after tomorrow's schedule calls for attack, there'll be one."

Michael McDermott, special assistant to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, announced that the official surrender offer had finally come in, and that it followed the text broadcast by Domei.

Condition Acceptance Stressed By Broadcast

That broadcast stressed the condition that nothing in the acceptance of the unconditional surrender outlined at Potsdam should be construed as permitting the emperor to be stripped of the prerogatives of sovereignty.

That was the only apparent stumbling block to immediate acceptance of the offer. While declarations of the big powers have not specifically covered the case of Hirohito, they have stuck tight to unadulterated un-conditional surrender.

The formal proposition came through the Swiss government in Bern and American Minister Leland Harrison there. Its arrival time was announced as 5:45 p. m. C.W.T.

Allies Consider Jap Surrender Offer

Staggered by bombing, surrounded by the mightiest array of armed might ever assembled, Japan announced by radio she would yield—if she could keep her emperor and his powers.

But with that condition attached, Britain, China, Russia and the United States showed no immediate, open inclination toward acceptance.

The White House said in mid-afternoon:

"Our government through the regular diplomatic channels is communicating with Great Britain, Soviet Russia and China regarding the Japanese surrender offer."

No Further Statements Forthcoming

That, said Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, "is all that can be said at this time." And he added, there would be no further statements today or tonight.

The first disclosure that the once disdainful enemy of the Pacific was ready to call it quits was in an early morning Tokyo broadcast by the official Japanese news agency Domei. The neutral capitals of Stockholm and Bern indicated the offer had gone into official channels.

And Ross did not deny that the proposition had been made official.

Cabinet Meets In The White House

His announcement of Allied consultation followed an hour's cabinet meeting at the White House—the first for several of its members.

Secretary of State Byrnes reported that: "We have an agreement by which the President will give out any news."

An unscheduled caller at the White House was Senator Kilgore (D-WVa), who said he had told President Truman he was getting scores of telegrams, and 75 per cent of them urged that the Allies not retain Hirohito.

There were indications, too, that the White House also was receiving a heavy volume of communications, preponderantly against accepting the Japanese condition.

Others Stick To "Unconditional"

But some authorities reasoned that if the other Allies wanted to let the man the Japanese regard as God as well as an emperor stay on the throne, this country would not stand in the way of peace at that price.

The Allies, themselves, however, have decreed that surrender must be "unconditional" and that they will not deviate from those terms.

"Cease Firing" Order Is Uncertain

When a "cease firing" order might silence the guns of war therefore remained highly uncertain. Yet victory celebrations were under way around the world.

This was the early sequence of events on a day that appeared to mark at least the beginning of the end of arrogant Japanese belligerency:

1. The official Japanese news agency Domei broadcast this morning that Japan would quit if (Turn to Page 8, Column 3, Please)

May Mean Interchanges

First is the matter of surrender terms. The Potsdam communique told the Japanese what they could expect from the Allies. The Japanese have reacted with a request for continuance of the emperor and throne. This put the next move to the Allies and may mean several interchanges on a surrender definition.

The second step will be for the Japanese to send responsible officials who in this case would include both government and military leaders to sign a formal surrender. The United States at such a meeting might be represented by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral Chester Nimitz, the Pacific commanders. It might occur on a warship or at an island base.

Third, American occupation forces presumably would be the first to move into Japan in accord- (Turn to Page 8, Column 4, Please)

Reconversion Plans Talked Hurriedly

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Government officials forecast today that gasoline rationing will end within a few weeks after Japan folds. They said travel restrictions would ease in a few months.

Stirred into feverish action by the Japanese surrender broadcast, leaders of the various agencies concerned with steering the economy from war to peace met in hurriedly-called conferences.

The sessions dealt with the tremendous problem of releasing industry from munitions production now booming at the rate of $48,000,000,000 a year and with manpower, rationing, price and travel restrictions.

Draft Situation Unchanged

The draft situation was unchanged for the moment.

At the White House, War Mobilizer John W. Snyder conferred with War Production Board Chairman J. A. Krug and approved WPB's emergency program for an "orderly and simple" removal of as many industrial controls as possible when the war ends.

Schedules News Conference

Krug tentatively scheduled a news conference for tomorrow morning to discuss the reconversion outlook generally, but his aides said the detailed program would not be ready for announcement before the detailed program would not be ready for announcement before Monday at the earliest.

The end of the war soon will mean, the WPB official said, that output of consumer goods, especially small products such as home appliances, can be speeded up considerably. He added, however, that the schedule for products requiring large amounts of steel probably will not be much affected.

Output To Be Accelerated

Automobile production, for example, is not expected to exceed the 250,000 cars program for this year.

But output of such items as vacuum cleaners, electric refrigerators, washing machines and toasters—heretofore not expected in any volume before mid 1946—will be accelerated tremendously, officials predicted.

On the rationing side, officials forecast that gasoline could come off the list very soon, perhaps within two or three weeks, but that prospects were slim for any immediate termination of the program.

There will be more passenger tires at once, WPB said, with the end of rationing in two or three months.

A WPB spokesman said last (Turn to Page 8, Column 5, Please)

Soldier Releases May Be Delayed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—The surrender of Japan would not be a signal for mass release of men from the Army and Navy. Nor would it mean an immediate end of redeployment of forces to the Pacific.

A Selective Service spokesman pointed out today that under the draft law registrants are taken into service for the duration of the present war and six months after the "date of termination of hostilities."

Date Defined By Law

The "termination of hostilities" does not mean when the shooting stops.

That date is defined by law as "the date proclaimed by the President . . . or the date specified in a concurrent resolution of Congress, whichever is earlier."

A House military affairs committee spokesman noted that President Truman has not yet proclaimed the end of hostilities in the Euorpean war. He said it was possible that the surrender of Japan might not bring a prompt proclamation of the end of hostilities in the Pacific.

Would Be Reduced

Army spokesmen indicated that redeployment of troops to the Pacific would be reduced sharply with a Japanese surrender but would not cease altogether.

The shift will have to be continued so that men with long service can be brought home for release and replaced by others in the army of occupation.

Stalin Pledged Joining Against Japan In 1943

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 10. (AP)—Adm. William H. Standley, USN (ret), former ambassador to Russia, today said that Premier Stalin in 1943 told Cordell Hull, then U. S. Secretary of State, that when the war with Germany ended Russia would join the war against Japan.

OPENING DATE CHANGED

OTTAWA, Aug. 10. (AP)—Prime Minister MacKenzie King said tonight the date of the opening of parliament had been changed from Aug. 23 to Sept. 6 because of the "rapidly changing war situation."

Lubbock To Close When Surrender Becomes Official

Lubbock banks, retail stores, business houses and city offices will close immediately upon receiving official notification that the Japanese surrender terms are accepted by the Allies, using the same plan of V-E Day.

The "V-J" closing arrangements, announced by Mrs. Gladys W. Workman, secretary of the Lubbock Retail Merchants' association, are as follows:

1. If announcement is received before 3 p.m., stores and other offices will close immediately for that day only and will re-open the next business day.

2. If the announcement is received after 3 p.m., stores and other offices will close immediately and will remain closed the next day.

3. If announcement is received after 3 p.m. on a Sunday, stores will remain closed the following day.

4. If announcement is received on a Saturday, stores will close immediately to open for business the following Monday.

5. If the announcement is received at night, stores will not open the next day.

City officials indicated that the city would join in observing the same regulations.

Naval Losses Are Revealed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The Navy announced loss of a submarine and a destroyer escort today, with about 200 men.

At the same time the destruction of 13 more Japanese ships by submarines was announced. The bag included a light cruiser and a patrol escort vessel.

Meanwhile a dispatch from Pearl Harbor told of daring undersea raiders who invaded the Sea of Japan, the enemy's last free sea lane to China, and knocked more than 50 more ships out of the dwindling Nipponese cargo fleet.

Navy Loses 107 Ships

The Navy here said none of the 13 sinkings reported from Washington occurred in the Sea of Japan, so that the day's announcements added 63 vessels to the enemy's total losses.

On the other side of the ledger, however, 107 ships, previously unreported, for reasons of national security, were announced as stricken from the Navy's register, due to loss or damage in the war or perils of the sea. These vessels were in addition to the submarine and the destroyer escort lost.

The destroyer escort newly announced as lost was the Underhill, sunk in Philippine waters with 112 officers and men dead and missing.

A destroyer escort of the Underhill's class nomally carries a complement of about 150 officers and men, indicating that only about 38 were saved.

The submarine newly reported lost was the Lagarto, which (Turn to Page 8, Column 5, Please)

Atomizing Of Nagasaki Is Tremendous

(By The Associated Press)

GUAM, Saturday, Aug. 11. — Thirty per cent of Nagasaki including almost all its industrial district, was destroyed by Thursday's atomic bombing of that Japanese port, General Spaatz announced today.

The irregular nature of the city's built-up areas, extending like fingers up low gullies, apparently had some effect in preventing as extensive damage as was done to Hiroshima, where the first atomic bomb wiped out 60 per cent of the city.

Destruction Tremenduous

However, Spaatz in his brief announcement made clear that the destruction wrought was tremendous.

(The Japanese radio at the same time acknowledged that the bombing of Nagasaki caused "extensive damage, including the destruction of many houses and a large number of casualties among the citizens."

(This broadcast, by the Domei agency, was quoting the Tokyo paper Yomiuri Hochi. The same broadcast also carried a Japanese western army district command communique saying that "present indications are that damage caused was extremely light."

Conflicting Accounts Recorded

(The Yomiuri Hochi account said the attack was with "parachute-attached new-type bombs" —using the plural, but later referred to the "missile"—singular. Both the conflicting enemy accounts were recorded by the FCC.)

The big Mitsubishi steel and iron works, the Mitsubishi Urakami ordnance plant, and other heavy industries were included in the demolished area. They had played a big part in building Japan's now tottering war machine.

Tokyo Announces Protest

Tokyo announced that a protest against the first use of the atomic bomb, which obliterated 60 per cent of the city of Hiroshima Monday, was being sent to the United States through the Swiss government.

The terrible explosion at Nagasaki, hit Thursday in the second use of the devastating weapon, was seen by Okinawa-based fliers who were on missions within from 75 to 250 miles of the doomed city of 253,000 population.

An immense fiery ball shot into the air 8,000 feet, they reported, followed by a column of billowing smoke that rose quickly to 20,000 feet.

"It covered an area of the sky at least 20 miles square," declared Lt. Otto H. Schumacher of Walhalla, S. C.

(Nagasaki was still a mass of angry flames 12 hours after the bombing, reported Newsweek Correspondent Robert Shaplen in an NBC broadcast after flying to within ten miles of the Kyushu port city on a U. S. patrol plane. "It was like looking over the rim of a volcano in the process of eruption," he said.)

Fleet, B-29s Take Holiday

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Saturday, Aug. 11—The mighty third fleet gave beaten Japan a respite from air and sea attacks today after heavy carrier strikes which destroyed or damaged at least 523 Japanese planes on northern Honshu Thursday and Friday. Absence of action, however, was according to advance plan—not the result of Japan's announced willingness to surrender.

The carrier attacks yesterday continued throughout the day almost up to the time the Tokyo radio announced the Japanese bid for peace.

Nimitz Ignores Offer

Ignoring officially in his communique Japan's offer to surrender, Admiral Nimitz reported a big bag of Japan's carefully hoarded air force, the bulk of it caught on the ground; a small bag of enemy shipping; and heavy damage to ground targets.

Inquiries by newspaper men at headquarters as to whether the attacks were still in progress drew the reply "the Third Fleet isn't striking today" together with the explanation that plans drawn up before word of Japan's surrender plea was received did not call for Saturday attacks.

Navy Still Operating

It was emphasized at fleet headquarters that so far as the Navy is concerned a state of war still exists and will continue to exist until such time as surrender is made official. The fleet is continuing operations under usual wartime conditions.

Admiral Halsey's 1,500 American and cooperating British flattop raiders, finding most of their victims on the ground, wiped out or crippled 391 Thursday, then destroyed 69 and damaged 63 yesterday. Additional reports for yesterday remained to be filed.

More Than 300 Destroyed

The big bag was added to more than 1,300 enemy planes destroyed or damaged during Halsey's "red July" scourge of the enemy homeland which began the 10th of last month.

Of the Thursday-Friday bag, more than 300 of the enemy aircraft definitely were destroyed.

Interruption of Third fleet activity coincided with announcement at U. S. Army Strategic Air forces headquarters that the Superfortresses would not be sent out today.

Make Bare Announcement

The cancellation, a bare announcement without any amplification, came from U. S. Army Strategic Air forces, the top command of the Superfortresses which have been blasting and burning Japan with high explosives, incendiary bombs and at least two of the new atomic bombs.

It had been announced unofficially yesterday that Superfort bombing attacks would continue (Turn to Page 8, Column 2, Please)

That's the way one person in Washington reacted to Japan's peace proposal broadcast. And most of the other soldiers in Walter Reed seemed to agree.

Scattered Showers Reported Over Area

Threatening clouds rumbled over the South Plains Friday night leaving little precipitation but plenty of dust and electrical disturbances, reports indicated.

Lubbock, Plainview, Slaton, Ralls, and Shallowater received showers. The Santa Fe dispatcher's office at Slaton said Plainview and Shallowater each received one-eighth inch.

At 11 o'clock Littlefield and Muleshoe reported sprinkles.

"No rain" was the word from Spur, Tahoka, Brownfield and Levelland.

Scattered thundershowers loomed for the South Plains today and Saturday. The farm experiment station reported yesterday's high temperature as 93 and the low 66.

"Stratovision" Is Seen For Post-War World

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Postwar television and FM programs may be transmitted by airborne antennae, carried in airplanes "flying in lazy circles 30,000 feet above the earth," Westinghouse Electric corporation announces.

This "stratovision" would make coast-to-coast television and FM broadcasting possible even to the most remote farm house "years ahead of any previously suggested system" and at reasonable cost, Walter Evans, Westinghouse vice president said.

Originated By Texan

Evans said "stratovision" was originated by C. E. Nobles, 27, of Paris, Tex.

"Television and FM radio waves travel in a straight line and for all practical purposes stop at the horizon," Evans said. "This means that television broadcasts from the highest practical tower erected on the ground cannot be received much more than 50 miles away."

Under the new system, however, "shortwaves sent out from this airborne antenna would blanket the earth's surface like a great inverted ice cream cone, covering an area 425 miles across, or equal to about the combined area of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey."

Fourteen planes could provide coverage for 51 per cent of the national area with 78 per cent of its population. Evans said, adding that Westinghouse already has applied with the FCC for test flights this fall.

Plane Being Designed

Broadcasts would be transmitted from a low-powered station on the ground to a slow-flying plane, which is being designed by the Glenn L. Martin company. A "standby plane" also would be aloft at all times.

Nobles said the idea of stratovision came to him as he was flying over his native Texas late in December, 1944.

Evans said that a coast-to-coast "stratovision" network of eight planes would reduce in substantial fashion the estimated cost of $100,000,000 for "comparable service by ground installation."

Plan 14-Plane Network

It is planned to have a 14-plane network which would service 51 per cent of the national area and provide television for 78 per cent of the population, he said.

As presently planned the original unit would comprise eight planes flying over New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Kansas City, Curtis, Neb., Leadville, Colo., Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, "linking logical talent centers in New York and Hollywood," Evans added.

The other six planes, when added to the network, would operate over Durham, N. C., Atlanta, Memphis, Dallas, Sacramento and Portland, Ore.

Mighty Flood Of Jubilation Covers Allied World With News Of Japan's Surrender

(By The Associated Press)

A mighty flood of jubilation boiled up throughout the Allied world yesterday with the news that Japan had offered to surrender.

While caution checked celebrations in the United States, rockets roared skyward from far Pacific bases and American soldiers, without waiting for an official end to hostilities, surged through the streets of London, cheering and singing.

China Sets Off Firecrackers

Firecrackers exploded the length and breadth of Free China, and the canyonlike streets of Chungking were jammed with men, women and children yelling their delight at the imminent end of the "dwarf devils" aggression.

Bombed and enslaved, slapped and bayonetted for eight years—longer than any other people at war with Japan—the Chinese released their long-dammed emotion with a roar of joy that was close to national ecstasy.

America Watches, Waits

America watched and waited. Bursts of torn paper fluttered down from New York's skyscrapers and troops returning from Europe set up a jubilant din when they heard the report that led them to believe they might be going home instead of toward Tokyo.

Washington was quiet but tension mounted hourly.

No Calm At Pearl Harbor

There was no such calm at Pearl Harbor, scene of the sneak attack that brought the United States into the war. Whistles shrilled at the great base. Honolulu went wild with joy and its chamber of commerce planned a mammoth celebration. Soldiers and WACS—the latter in bathrobes and wearing curlers—paraded at nearby Hickam field, where Japanese bombs once rained.

Liberated Manila joined in the festivities Cheering broke out on Guam. Air raid sirens screamed "all clear" on Okinawa while soldiers fired guns in the air and launched "victory" rockets.

English Girls Kissed

Londoners joined their GI guests in a spontaneous uproar that overshadowed even the wild observance of V-E day. American soldiers kissed all the English girls within reach—and had enthusiastic cooperation.

American WACS with streamers, rattles and spoons led a snake dance through Piccadilly Circus.

Across the English channel, France heard the news impassively. France had no Pearl Harbor to remember, and no Singapore.

Few Days May Be Required To Arrange For Formal Surrender

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. — It will certainly be a matter of hours and might even take a few days to arrange for the formal capitulation of Japan even after a surrender is agreed upon.

However, a surrender decision all around could be followed almost instantly by orders on both sides to stop shooting.

While official Washington is still deliberating over the latest enemy move to end the struggle, the nature of war-end arrangements could not be accurately forecast because that would depend on actual decision by the Allies as to what the defeated enemy should do. But something like this probably will occur:

The Weather

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; a few widely scattered thundershowers late Saturday.

NEW MEXICO: Partly cloudy with widely scattered showers afternoons and evenings; otherwise fair Saturday and Sunday; little change in temperature.

DEAR: ----------

Naturally every conversation in Lubbock today has been on the report that Japan has offered to surrender and all are wondering if this war, as all wars must, has come to an end and once more we can began to scheme for the fabric of decent living.

The atom bombings over Japan and entry of Russia into the war were important news items of the early week, and the prospect that those two factors would cause an earlier cessation of hostilities than anticipated previously brought smiles and inspired planning of the time when the Johnnys come marching home.

Congressman George H. Mahon, who is spending several weeks in Lubbock while Congress is in recess, in a telegram Wednesday to General of the Army George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, urged an immediate reduction in point requirements to make an additional 1,000,000 soldiers eligible for early discharge. The Congressman predicted that not half of the approximately 8,000,000 men in the Army will be used to finish off Japan. The United States already is contributing to the manpower supply on the continent with the training by U. S. army officers of 33 Chinese divisions.

Incidentally, Mahon, as a member of a House subcommittee on military appropriations, was one of the few in on the secret of the atomic bomb. The Americans, Canadians and Englishmen who helped make it and the Japanese who "got it" didn't know anything about the bomb until after the dread weapon's existence had been revealed to the nation's press.

So secret was the experiment, so horrific the possibilities of a slip, it was necessary to "conceal in our own appropriation bills what we were working on," Mahon said. The project was "disguised in name and so mixed up with other war-necessary items that no hint of the bomb came to light on the floor of Congress — or elsewhere."

First anniversary of Lubbock Boys club was observed at a barbecue Wednesday night as a crowd of 600 gathered for inspection of the building and watching the boys at work and at play. The event was sponsored by the American Business club. Bill Collins was master of ceremonies and the main talk was made by Chas. A. Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is seeking the H-2 building program for the city and the allocation of sufficient houses to meet the city's needs. A survey is to be made to determine the amount of labor and materials available. The houses, which are expected to be made available, will be 6-room homes with a price ceiling of approximately $7,500. They will rent for $65 a month and will have three bedrooms.

In the meantime, the housing problem at Texas Technological college has not been met. Apartments and houses are badly needed for married war veterans. Portable houses and a trailer camp city are being considered as possible solutions.

A 99th district court jury this week found A. J. Wright and Winnie McKeever Garner guilty of murder with malice for the killing June 17 of W. T. Lamb in an attempted hijacking of a gasoline station here. Wright pleaded guilty upon stipulation that he would accept a life sentence in the penitentiary. Miss Garner was assessed an imprisonment term of 50 years. G. V. Pardue was presiding judge.

The Board of Trustees of Lubbock Independent school district in a special session Thursday night voted unanimously to call a special election Tuesday, Aug. 21, at which time qualified voters of the 100-square mile district will ballot upon a proposal to issue $1,500,000 in bonds to be used in district-wide construction program.

C. N. Hodges has been given permission to return to the Philippines from which he escaped by devious ways a year ago last June and will contribute to the re-building of the islands where he long before the war was prominent in finance, industry, ranching, farming and transportation. Lately he has been staying at the home of a brother, J. A. Hodges, here. Mrs. Hodges was liberated last February from Santa Tomas prison where she lost 100 pounds and has returned to their home. Passport was cleared through State and War department channels and approved by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Feed crops benefitted greatly from a long awaited rainfall that began early Monday morning and continued slowly and steadily over the South Plains area for about a half day. More rain will be needed this month and in September, according to Jason O. Gordon, county agent.

Capt. L. G. Compton, jr., who formerly lived here and went by the nickname "Weinie," was killed while flying home over Leyte when his transport was shot down. No details have been received of his death. Capt. Compton was a brother of Mrs. Marshall Harvey.

Lubbock golfers won the first honors in the annual Lubbock Country club invitation golf tournament, turning back golf stars of West Texas and New Mexico. The best score turned in by Chick Trout, club champion, who toured the course with a one under par 70 as he teamed with Morley Jennings for a three-way win over Don Cherry of Wichita Falls and J. R. Farmer of Big Spring.

A number of engagements announced this week are of general interest in Lubbock and over the South Plains. Miss Ernestine Gibson is to go to California next week to marry Carter Wheelock, yeoman 3/c, USNR. The marriage of Miss Yvonne Westmoreland and Lt. Oran G. Wilson, jr., of Dumas will take place Wednesday. Their betrothal was announced at a tea given Thursday by the bride's mother, Mrs. Fay Westmoreland.

That's all this week.

Account Of Atomic Bombing Broadcast By Radio Tokyo

LONDON, Aug. 10 (U.P.)—Radio Tokyo, the BBC reported, broadcast this account of the Hiroshima atomic bombing, given by a Japanese sergeant who was in the city when the bomb fell:

"On this particular morning I was in one of the hotels in the city of Hiroshima. About 8:30 a. m. I heard the far roar of a B-29 cruising overhead.

"Putting my head out of the window I looked up.

"Simultaneously, a lightning flash covered the whole sky, blinding my eyes. Unconsciously I dove for cover and the whole place came down on top of me. I hugged myself for dear life. Several minutes later I was outside a little dazed.

"All around me I found dead or wounded with gashes five inches in diameter on their skins. Some were burnt—their skins looked an awful sight. Then there were small children.

"The citizens in the streets who were quite happy during the morning hours before the bomb dropped were pitiful to see. Their legs and bodies were scattered about the debris covered their lifeless bodies."

Emperor Is Big "If" In Japanese Surrender Offer; Danger Is Cited

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10. — The "if" in Japan's surrender offer is a big one because the emperor is both a religious and a politico-military institution.

In saying they will give up if the emperor retains his powers Japanese government leaders unquestionably mean both functions.

WHITE

Hirohito, to the Japanese, is God and also Japan. Conquests have been carried out in his name, and war crimes committed without his overt reprimand.

That's the trouble.

We say we will allow religious freedom in Japan, and the Japanese promtly ask us to let them keep their God. We shouldn't forget that to them he is also Japan.

Like For Us To Forget

It is reasonable to suppose that the Japanese government would like for us to forget just that.

Few Americans will forget, however, even in their desire to be fair and allow Japan the religious freedom promised at Potsdam.

American policy thus far has been to refrain from saying, one way or another, whether the emperor had to go. China is pretty well convinced he must; Britain thinks he ought to stay; Russia hasn't said exactly. The idea behind the American attitude was that the emperor might serve as a rallying point to prevent chaos in defeated Japan, saving the lives involved in a longer war and a bloody occupation. Intact Japanese garrisons all over Asia might not surrender readily unless they had a face-saving order from the emperor to do so.

But now the Japanese themselves ask us what about the emperor. It seems likely, on the basis of what has been said, that to end the war Allied governments may agree on a nominal accession to the Japanese request, allowing the emperor to stay on but with no commitment as to his ventual role nor any limitation on allied authority to decide about that in the end.

This might forestalls the possible—even likely—Japanese intention to play upon our eagerness to end the war and avert chaos in the peace.

The danger lies just there, that we allow the Japanese to feel they are getting away with anything.

If they get that idea, they would be encouraged to plan for a future revival of Japanese fighting spirit, for the chief institution around which this spirit was built in the past was the institution of the emperor.

Seven-Point Program To Ease Coal Shortage Ordered By Snyder

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (U.P.)—Mobilization Director John W. Snyder today ordered a seven-point program to ease the acute coal shortage in prospect for next winter. The program includes draft deferments for coal miners and release of some miners already in the armed services.

Snyder said coal output must be "increased immediately if the nation is to avoid further rigid curtailment of industrial and home use during the coming year."

He outlined the program following a meeting with representatives of the war department, the solid fuels administration, the war production board and the War Manpower commission.

The seven-point program:

1. Faster release from the armed services of high-point-score men with coal mining experience. (The Army, however, won its argument against releasing miners who do not have enough points.)

2. Draft deferments for coal miners liable for military service and for men with mining experience now engaged in other work, providing they will return to the coal mines.

Military use and overseas shipments of petroleum products during 1944 would bury all of Manhattan Island under four feet of oil, Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies said. This has been the result of constantly increasing crude oil production in the United States. During the latter part of 1944 it had reached the all-time record of 4,766,000 barrels per day.

Cherry And Marshall Lead As 288 Begin Golf Tourney

By MACK TURNER
Avalanche Sports Writer

Pulling in a record field of 288 entries, the Lubbock Country club invitation golf tournament got underway Friday with an all day session that went on into the night before the entire championship bracket of 32 players could be named.

Don Cherry, sensational Wichita Falls golfer, ran into tough luck on the final green, and three-putted himself into a tie with Raymond Marshall of Lubbock in a battle for medalist honors, both touring the course in a one under par 70.

Only Two Under Par

Cherry and Marshall were the only two golfers in the field able to solve the fairways, traps and greens to master par shooting, with seven golfers reaching the finish wire with one over par 72's. Five of these seven were Lubbock golfers.

The Lubbock golfers finishing in a dead heat for runnerup honors were Chick Trout, J. D. Hinson, T. E. Patterson, Amos Howard and Morley Jennings. The out-of-town golfers finishing with 72's were Bob Farmer of Odessa and Bill Maxwell of Abilene.

William Longest Driver

Jack Williams, Plainview youngster, won the top honors in the long driving contest, smacking the ball 260 yards down the fairway. Wilkie Tolbert won the approaching and putting contest, after tieing Lt. Dick Stackhouse of Big Spring, then winning in a play-off.

Golfers shooting 92 and above will begin at 7 a. m. Saturday.

Pairings in the championship flight will send Obie Bristow of Big Spring, the defending champion, against Bob Maxwell of Abilene in the first match. Other pairings are Bob Farmer and Don January of Dallas; J. D. Hinson and Dr. J. H. Stiles; Billy Walker of Hobbs, N. M., and T. H. Buckingham of San Angelo; Don Cherry and Sgt. Carl Sanford of Midland AAF; Jack Carlton of Brownwood and Don Mitchell; Amos Howard and Scott Edwards of Amarillo; Ted Tipps and Tony Bankston of Fort Worth; Ray Marshall and Truman Hutson; Chick Trout and Dr. W. A. Schaal; T. E. Patterson and Jack Parr of Electra; A. C. January of Dallas and James Goldman; Bill Maxwell of Abilene and Lt. Dick Stackhouse of Big Spring; Jack Williams of Plainview and Jack Vaughn of Lamesa; Morley Jennings and O. A. Matney of Hobbs, N. M., and Ernie Dowell of Amarillo and Fred McGinnis of Pampa.

First Flight Pairings

Lillard Son of Lubbock and Carl Lewis of Slaton barely missed the championship flight, losing in the slamfest to drop back into the first flight. Pairings in the first flight send Son against Russ Davidson; W. L. McAfee and John Kuykendall; J. R. Farmer and J. V. Eagan; T. L. Samson and R. Hearne; Carl Lewis and Roy Minear; R. Courtright and Knox Whitney; B. Gerdes and Lt. Herb Everitt; Bill White and Roy Howard; M. McLaughlin and C. H. Shepard; C. E. McSwain and Bill Keith; Dave Barrow and O. A. Terry; Jack Phillips and Bill Barker; Charles Stokes and Ray Mann, H. L. Bradley and C. L. Dean; George Paulowsky and Otis Felty; Mack Bolding and Lt. Rocky Karnes.

Pairings in the second flight will be: Fenner Tubbs and John Edmondson; J. D. Curd and P. H. Polk; W. R. Talley and R. E. Wood; J. G. White and Jack Henry; Jack Bucy and W. F. Helwig; J. C. McClendon and Fred Hogan; P. Felton and Tom Davis, and Jack Markham and H. J. Patterson.

Third Flight Pairings

Pairings in the third flight will be: L. G. McLaughlin and H. M. Chick; M. Routh and Ralph Garnett; J. Elby Fox and G. T. Garland; Ray Dickey and Sammy Cobb; Capt. Hallman and Fred Hinson; Tom Suttle and J. A. Raley; James Moon and Sterling Forsythe; F. T. Lindsey and Wilkie Tolbert.

Pairings in the fourth flight will be: T. M. Graves and Bill Breeden; Jack Powell and Roy Cobb; Lt. Gholson and W. G. Henderson; Jake Warnick and Dutch Wigington; Lee Cunningham and Al Hunter; H. Brady and Tom Blakeley; Lt. Galt and Joe Black; Henry, Edison and Jerry Ausburn.

Pairings in the fifth flight will be: Prentice Walker and Bob Prather; F. L. McRee and Frank Freer; Jack Tucker and O. G. Bucy; W. F. Dean and Jack Evans; W. T. Jarrell and M. K. Dean; A. A. Foster and R. R. White; E. T. Abernethy and Sid Oglesbee; Al Allison and D. C. Thompson.

Pairings for the sixth flight will be: A. C. Jackson and John Hart; Guy Wheatley and Shirley Robbins; H. H. Lawson and G. E. Taylor; G. L. Dickinson and Herb Silverman; Jimmy Yates and Ray Carr; Bill Mowrey and Roy Autry; Dr. Zing and Waldo Trotter; Bill Holland and C. A. Rogers.

Seventh And Eighth

Pairings in the seventh flight will be: Chunky Yates and H. T. Luther; J. O. Blackwell and Cliff Widener; W. D. Girand and Sid Claiborne; Nick Carter and L. O. Carpenter; James Lyles and R. H. Bean; Lloyd French and J. O. Dudley; Ed Louthan and Dick Stalcup; John Markham and J. Mangum.

Pairings in the eleventh flight will be: Joe Stokes and L. O. Neil; Van Earl Sams and Jack Diamond; Lt. Ed Praisner and Ira Lind; C. O. Campbell drew a bye.

Shooting was so close all the way, that of the entire field, only nine shot scores in qualifying of 100 or over.

Optimist Nine Edges Rotary In Seventh

Optimist sluggers came from far behind Friday afternoon to push six runs across the plate in the sixth frame, and another in the seventh to hand the Rotary junior nine a 7-6 defeat at the Boy's club.

Rotary gathered hits and walks with errors in the early innings to pile up a 6 run lead going into the sixth frame. A double by Rogers and a single by Travis along with fielder's choice were good for the six runs to tie the score.

Pickle walked for the Optimists to begin the bottom of the seventh frame. Travis struck out. Tatum reached first safety on an error by English, and Hopper struck out. Jackie Cook lined out a screaming single to score Pickle with the winning run.

The line score:

ROTARY	301	020	0—6 5
OPTIMIST	000	006	1—7 4

Brand and Cotman; Travis and Scales.

BROWNS DEFEAT A'S

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10 (AP)—Milt Byrnes' home run in the 11th gave the St. Louis Browns a 14 to 13 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics in the second game of a twilight-night doubleheader tonight. The Browns won the first game, 2 to 1.

The game was tied up 13 to 13 in the ninth when Vern Stephens singled to score Byrnes.

The A's were behind, 12 to 6, when they made seven runs on six hits and two errors in the eighth. Philadelphia collected 18 hits as they faced five Browns' hurlers. Credit for the victory went to Sig Jakucki. The Browns had 20 safeties.

Business Club Wins Easily From Lions

American Business club's junior ball nine coasted over the Lions club Friday afternoon for a 8-4 victory which left them the undefeated leaders of the American league second half race.

Ronnie Kent sparked the ABC attack with a pair of round trip blows with men aboard. The first of the two came in the first frame after Lester York had singled. The second was clouted in the ABC half of the third with Dorrance Guy on first base.

Billy Tatum limited the Lions to five scattered base blows, while his mates gathered nine bingles from the offerings of Jackie Martyn.

The line score:

LIONS	000	211	0—4 5
ABC	203	210	x—8 9

Martyn and Bantz; Tatum and York.

FRY UPSETS BUNDY

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 10. (AP)—Miss Shirley June Fry, of Akron, Ohio, took over the spotlight today in the Eastern Grass Courts championship.

Ranked eighth nationally, Miss Fry yesterday upset Dorothy May Bundy, of Santa Monica, Calif. in the most strenuous match of the day, 7-5, 6-8, 6-2. Miss Bundy is ranked fourth nationally.

Otherwise, all favorites advanced comfortably, filling the quarter-final brackets in both men's and women's singles divisions.

South All-Stars Edge North In Final Period

ABILENE, Aug. 10. (AP) — The "T" formation clicked like a new sewing machine tonight as the South beat the North 13-12 in the Annual All-Star football game played as the closing feature of the Texas High School Coaching school.

It was the third time for this intricate formation to be used in the gridiron feature and it was the first time it paid off.

The South scored in the final minutes and Art Sweet, big back from Brackenridge (San Antonio) planted the ball between the crossbars to climax one of the thrillers of Texas schoolboy football.

The game, played before a crowd of 6,000, had all its scoring action jammed into a few minutes before the second period ended and in the last quarter, but there were thrills all the way.

Diogenes Had The Idea!

It's Wise Not To Want Too Much

"SHOE rationing will go out of the window shortly afetr V-J day."

This cheerful prediction by a high War Production board official in Washington last week was one of the latest and most optimistic, of recent months. Previously the WPB had reported a sharp cut in the nation's military requirements and had held out hope for the civilian populace, who are short on shoe stamps.

But when the WPB boys grin and say: "More shoes, more furniture, more wool," the public can not always share their optimism. Of course, these promises of more civilian supplies—more electric irons, more stoves, etc. all sound good.

But try and buy the stuff in the stores.

Lubbock's five-and-dime stores no longer have scissors to sell. And what has become of the garden hose, canvas cots and other commodities which used to be so plentiful? Oh yes, and have you heard of any local store that has a large supply of toilet tissue in stock? Yet these shortages are not news.

We've grown so accustomed to hearing clerks in the stores say, "I'm sorry, but we haven't that in stock," that we are inured to shortages. We've come to blame everything on the war, just as the French did in World War I, when "C'est l'Guerre" became a universal alibi.

At times, though, after reading one of the WPB's latest promises of more of this and that, we do feel a little cast down when we find that our favorite store still does not have what we want. So we keep trying month after month, and keep receiving the same answer—"I'm sorry but we don't have it."

Accustomed to offering this reply, retailers know the government formula. It is this: 1. Scarcity causes the public to squawk. 2. The Washington agency yields to public pressure and makes production adjustments. 3. The clamor ends. 4. The public fails to note that most promises of plenty—like those of more shoes—are for the last quarter of next year. 5. Before the happy day arrives, some new factors—shortages of manpower, freight, raw materials, or new military needs—result in further postponement of the promised increase.

So while these WPB predictions may be well meaning, they do not always mean what the public thinks and hopes they mean.

Perhaps, Diogenes offers solace. Or was it Diogenes, who said in Athens long ago: "Happiest is he, who is content with least"?

Anyway, he lived in a barrel because there was a housing shortage.

We Learn About The Japs

ONLY a few days ago, United States naval units intercepted a Japanese "hospital" ship, which was operating under a Red Cross "free conduct" permit. On the ship, the Americans were surprised to discover a supply of machine gun ammunition and artillery shells in case, labeled "medical supplies." Jap soldiers, bandaged to make them appear wounded, lay on the decks.

This futile attempt at trickery illustrates two points—(1) That the Japs will stoop to any kind of deception with utter disregard for the rules of international warfare; (2) That the United States is no longer blind to their cunning and despicable tricks.

It is encouraging to see that we are no longer dupes for the Japs' sleight-of-hand. There was a time when we let them run up and down the country, photographing our coastal defenses, our bridges and our dams. High ranking American officers employed as gardeners Japanese, later discovered to be officers in the Japanese Navy. In some West Coast communities, the Japanese were permitted to build their homes almost adjoining large air fields. Those were the days when we must have seemed to the Japanese to be a nation of "suckers and easy marks." No wonder they become obsessed with the idea that they could defeat us—that we were soft and ready for a licking.

Now we know them for what they are; and we are awake. The news about the interception of the fake hospital ship underscore those points.

Never A Dull Moment!

ANOTHER invention that is going to take the minds of the housewives away from atomic bombs has just been announced by a Chicago manufacturer.

Edward N. Hurley, president of the Hurley Machine division of the Electric Household Utilities, reports that his company is going to manufacture a combination clothes washer, potato peeler, dish washer and ice cream freezer. It will sell for less than a standard pre-war washing machine, he declares.

Apparently postwar civilian life is going to be full of surprises—never a dull moment, as it were.

Shove a pile of old clothes into Mr. Hurley's gadget and get a gallon of ice cream out of the other end—or drop in a few potatoes and have the family tableware shoot out all bright, shiny and dry!

Won't we have fun?

"Heat will allay pain," asserts a physician. However, getting hot under the collar will not alleviate a pain in the neck.

This is a true story of the men who fly the "hump" — carrying passengers and cargo over the high Himalayas between India and China. Pilots call it the toughest airline route in the world.

OXYGEN ADDICT
XVIII

With every passing month the air transport traffic across the Himalayas made tremendous increases in volume. This also meant increased Jap activity. Bomber and fighter bases had been well-established by the invaders by then, and Allied transports that risked the southern route at any time of day or night were almost bound to run a gauntlet of attacking Zeros that swept into the sky from a score of hidden fields in Upper Burma.

Flying the northern route meant spending at least three out of every five hours of the average trip under oxygen, and while those masks are great things and have saved many a man's life, they have one strange little quirk that finally licked me completely.

I didn't notice the subtle change coming over me, but Al Gingiss did. We got up from the breakfast table at the cottage near Dinjan one morning toward the end of April and I immediately grabbed up my cap and flying jacket. Petach and Skippy Lane and Robertson were lolling back in their chairs lighting their after-breakfast cigarets. Gingiss and I were the only ones on our feet.

"Come on, you bums!" I said. "Let's get cuttin'!"

Robertson looked up, puzzled. "What the hell is the rush? You got a date somewhere?"

I reached over and ruffled his hair, laughing and horsing around like a six-year-old. I felt like a million, full of energy and drive—and, if I had analyzed myself, of nerves. "You're getin' old, kid." I said. "All of you birds, you're getting soft. Come on, let's get cuttin'!"

Robertson got up because it was easier not to argue, and Skippy and Petach reluctantly left the table, too. We all piled into the station wagon and started off to the field.

"You're getting ants, Gen," Skippy said as we drove along. "A bad case of ants. What's that babe doin' to you down there in Calcutta?"

"It isn't a babe that's doing it," Gingiss said, "It's all this damned oxygen we're using. The stuff does something to you. I feel just like Gen most of the time—itching to get up there and get that old mask on again."

I started to deny that I felt that way, but I couldn't. I suddenly realized that what Gingiss said was absolutely true. It wasn't so much the flying that sent thrills through me anymore, it was that light and utterly earthless feeling that came with breathing oxygen that made me so anxious to get back in the air.

The trip across that day wasn't difficult or exciting. It was a routine flight. We ran into snow an hour out of Dinjan, and before we had reached 20,000 feet we had had a 10-minute battle with convectional currents that forced us to fly at a 45 degree angle to clear the ranges. We had run into a driving rainstorm and climbed up and over it into a 20-minute stretch of sleet. All those things were normal on the northern route—but there was one thing about that flight that wasn't normal at all. I felt as though I were no longer the master of myself or of my plane. The instant I put on my oxygen mask at 12,000 feet and took a long deep breath I knew that I had lost a battle with an enemy I hadn't even known existed. I felt my entire body relax, the tension that had filled me back at the cottage was gone, I wasn't restless, I was completely at ease. I was an oxygen addict.

For a week I fought with myself over that mysterious addiction. I tried to limit the amount of the stuff I used. That only made it worse. Then fatigue would get to the point where I wasn't flying well, my mind would be slow and my reflexes sluggish. I would take the necessary amount then and try to be unmindful of the subtle pleasure it gave me. But it was a losing battle.

And then coming back from Kunming one day I developed violent stomach cramps and had to turn the controls over to my copilot or almost an hour of the trip. Not until we were down to 12,000 feet and I took off my mask did I find any relief; then, as we dropped lower, the cramps gradually disappeared and I took over the controls again. When we got into Dinjan I talked to Captain Woods about it, told him what had happened and how the oxygen had been affecting me lately. He nodded and said, "You're not the first one, Gen. So far as the oxygen is concerned you might be able to lick it by taking a rest for a while, but the cramps probably mean your prostate gland is being affected. I don't know whether it's the oxygen or the altitude that does that, but several boys have had to quit for the same reason."

One of the Army doctors at the base verified what Woods had said and told me that sterility might result if the prostate trouble continued. My agreement with C. N. A. C. had been to fly for them until June 15, which was still a month away, but I knew from the experience I had had coming back across the Hump that day that I was more of a hazard to them at that point than an asset. Gingiss agreed with me when we talked it over that night, and he decided to pull out, too. We wired Bond in Calcutta the next day, and five days ater we flew our last freight.

Tire Situation Most Critical – Williams

Depleted stocks of passenger car tires indicate that the tire situation is most critical at this time, Wm. G. Williams, Office of Price administration rationing executive in this district, said Friday in urging all motorists to use every means to stretch the life of tires.

Although tire quotas have been maintained at the 2,500,000 figure for August, in an effort to maintain driving during critical hot months, in several sections many people who have received tire certificates have not been able to find tires to buy, Williams said.

The War Production Board says that present demands for tire replacements can not possibly be made at this time.

Williams said that all indications are that A-card holders will not get new tires for many months and every conservation method must be used if cars are to be kept running.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

LAST evening I met a prize specimen of that sad species of humanity you all know—the woman who refuses to be her age.

She was an intelligent woman. She was basically good looking. She would have been a splendid exemplar of dignified middle age (that's what we euphoniously call everything up to sixty-five) if she had only acted her years.

Instead, this woman of good potentialities made a perfect fool of herself.

BRANDEIS

Her hair was dyed a golden blonde. Her make-up was the ghastly red on chalky white such as you see on circus clowns.

Her fingernails were very long and tinted a deep carmine, thus emphasizing the one dead give-away of age—the veins and bones in her hands.

The lady was very coy. She called all the men—and they were from thirty-five to sixty—"boys", and she herself and all the other middle-aged women at the party were "we girls".

She flirted outrageously and when she danced she tried her best to impersonate that charmer of her age, Theda Bara.

Why does this woman—and why do so many other women and men as well, cling so desperately to a youth that has long since fled and that today belongs to a new generation?

They have had their cake and they have eaten it.

Getting old is a natural process of life.

It can be a happy and a graceful process.

Mummery fools no one.

Imitation arouses only contempt

WHAT is there to be ashamed of or afraid of about getting along in years?

Every new year brings its compensations for the losses of last year.

Youth is everyone's possession for a time. And no one has a right to youth any longer than anyone else.

There is beauty in dignity as well as in exuberance.

There can be happiness and joy in experience, in progress and in memories.

Youth looks to age for guidance and counsel.

He who wants to dance must pay the piper, is an old saying.

Youth is the dancer, age the piper.

Cabinet Showdown Seen

State, Labor Departments Feud

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT TRUMAN must tackle his first full-blown cabinet feud immediately. After trying to settle the future of the world, he must now referee a departmental dispute.

Such quarrels were epidemic in the last administration. But in this instance the clash does not involve "Curmudgeon" Harold Ickes versus Cordell Hull, Harold Ickes versus Harry Hopkins, Harold Ickes versus Jesse Jones or Harold Ickes versus the world in general, including himself. This is a controversy which can have far-reaching, and possibly disastrous, domestic and foreign implications.

The duel has been precipitated by certain State department officials' insistence on placing labor attaches in every American embassy and legation around the world. It reflects once again Washington's realization that the working men may become the dominant influence on the domestic and international stage of the future.

TUCKER

Here is the inside story:

Since 1938 the Labor department has toyed with the idea of appointing labor relations representatives in such class conscious countries as England, Russia, France, Germany and Scandinavia. Having been deprived of all authority on the home front, "Miss Francis Perkins" hoped to win her spurs — or something — in the foreign field.

The gradual rise of the lower income groups in recent years, together with FDR's partiality toward that voting power, led a certain faction at Washington to believe that the time was ripe for such a move. "Miss Perkins" established a skeleton foreign service division, but the outbreak of the war in 1939 sidetracked the scheme until its recent revival.

However, only 30 minutes before Lewis Schwellenbach was sworn in as Mr. Truman's Secretary of Labor, "Miss Perkins" was requested by Joe Grew, then acting Secretary of State, to agree that these labor observers should be placed under the complete control of his department. President Truman and Edward R. Stettinius, jr., former Secretary of State, were then occupied with the United Nations conference at San Francisco.

DISPUTE: "Aunt Fanny" yielded to Grew, and it was not until a few day after Schwellenbach took his oath that he discovered that another function had been stolen from his office. It is ironic that he had accepted the post only on condition that he be permitted to consolidate under him the 20-odd bureaus dealing with domestic and foreign labor problems.

Aside from the jurisdictional dispute, there is the fact that Grew, who engineered the deal so suddenly a short time before the liberal-minded Schwellenbach took over, is generally regarded as an extremely wealthy conservative and friendly to powerful financial interests in Wall Street. He is a relative by marriage of the House of Morgan.

Naturally, the chief spokesmen of labor are mad. And so is Secretary Schwellenbach. He intends to retrieve control of this international agency if Mr. Truman will back him up.

COAL: Experts in the coal industry, including both the miners and the employers, characterize as "asinine" Secretary Ickes' proposal that the United States ship six million tons of this essential fuel to Europe for the 1945-1946 Winter. The unpublished fact is that the Secretary of Interior, who has been shoved off the front pages since Mr. Truman took office, grabbed the idea from a subordinate "brain truster" without giving it a thorough examination.

The cabinet member himself has said that the December-March period would be the "coldest year" which Americans have ever experienced. And he has not told the half of it.

Normal production is about 12,000,000 tons a week, but it is dropping rapidly. Like everybody else, miners engaged in the heaviest of work cannot obtain sufficient food. Young coal diggers have been drafted, and the fathers who took their places cannot work six full days a week. Transportation difficulties hit them as hard as everybody else. Therefore, absenteeism, due to tough times rather than to any lack of patriotism.

Should the Ickes warm-Europe idea be accepted, sections like New England, the Middle and Northwest and the Michigan-Minnesota-Dakota region would suffer from lack of heat. The weather prophets forecast an even more severe grind next Winter than last. Incidentally, Harold, the Oil Czar, heats his Maryland estate with petroleum.

SHIPPING: The Army and Navy and Maritime commission, however, furnished statistics which give the knockout blow to Helpful Harold's gesture. His brain truster apparently never gave a second's thought to the transportation and manpower problems involved in the shipment that he suggests.

Hauling six million tons of coal from the mines in West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Illinois etc. would require at least 80,000 cars at a time when our plants need fuel for the war against the Japs. Transporting the Ickes total to Europe would tie up least 850 10,000-ton vessels when every ship we can command is needed to bring the boys home from Europe and forward supplies to those still carrying on against our Far Eastern enemy.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

AS THE WISE farmer in Winter looks over his tools and plans his crops, so the building industry is mapping its course for the coming boom, which experts believe will last five years.

Even if WPB should lift some brakes on construction, New York executives do not expect much civilian activity until Spring.

The sudden end of the Japanese war would not change present conditions to any extent. Lumber shortages, manufacturing delays and manpower dislocations will continue to retard expansion. Production may be normal next Summer — a bit sooner if Hirohito folds up.

LEMAN

By that time newlyweds can buy some of the marvelous new materials and appliances that will make living a joy — dehumidified rooms to eliminate "dog days," soundproof walls for nurseries and similar boons.

Several of the national building trades organizations have just initiated programs to train carpenters, plumbers, electricians, masons, steamfitters and others, to offset local manpower shortages.

For instance, the Structural Clay Products Institute estimates that 154,000 brick masons will be required in the U. S. A. and that not more than 91,000 skilled men are now available. During the war only a few apprentices entered the building trades; many craftsmen also "vanished" into war plants.

An immediate building problem lies is the unequal distribution of housing. In New York City returning veterans find it almost impossible to lease an apartment or dwelling and, of course, new construction cannot bridge the gap for months.

Laid-off workers in some Victory plant centers refuse to move to new fields because they now have homes and cannot be sure of finding rooms in reconverted civilian industrial areas.

GADGETS: One of America's largest electric appliance companies, Westinghouse Electric Corporation, announces an $11,000,000 plant expansion program.

Its directors anticipate dollar volume sales in excess of 100,000,000 from old lines and from newly developed automatic clothes dryers, steam irons, food mixers, farm and home freezers and vacuum cleaners.

Other firms intend to sell water pipes that will not burst when frozen, unbreakable doorknobs, chair pads and flooring made from peanuts, cheap bathroom tiles set in a new adhesive that is said to have greater sticking qualities than cement, and other novelties.

Quick Solution Demands Unified Authority

Europe's Food Problem Mounts

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — When Judge Samuel I. Rosenman returned from an economic survey of liberated Europe more than three months ago, before the end of the war with Germany, he said in his report to President Truman that "the immediate and long-range economic situations of these liberated countries are extremely serious."

"Except in rural, food-raising areas, a dangerously low level of nutrition generally exists," he reported.

STOKES

He urged that "the Washington machinery for allocating supplies to liberated areas should be simplified and streamlined." He suggested that the President delegate someone to examine this machinery and recommend changes "designed to eliminate the complexities which now exist."

More than three months later those "complexities" still exist, an investigation here discloses. Some feelingly call it "a mess." Nothing effective has been done seemingly to provide a balanced, coordinated program to help feed Europe. It is getting later by the day. Winter in Europe is not far off.

Control Is Divided

As pointed out previously, the main trouble here lies in a diffusion of authority and responsibility among numerous agencies. Directly involved in handling the foreign food program are the Combined Food board, the Foreign Economic administratioin, and the Agriculture department. The last is represented on the Combined board by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, but it also has independent powers in some respects, as does FEA. The State department also is involved as respects over-all policy.

In addition to Secretary Anderson, representing our country, the Combined board includes a representative of Great Britain, Maurice Hutton, chief of the British Food Mission here, and J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture of Canada, representing that country. Operating under it was numerous commodity committees.

THESE commodity committees study the over-all world situation as regards their respective commodities and make recommendations to the Combined Food board which, in turn, makes allocations. But the board's authority is not final. Its decisions are subject to approval by the three countries.

FEA, which participates in the program through representation on the Combined board, also has the separate function of issuing export licenses. In this capacity it has power to change allocations, not of the total amount, but as among countries. In doing this, it has produced friction.

Furthermore, there are conflicts of authority between FEA and Agriculture. FEA cannot move in some respects without approval of Agriculture, to initiate agricultural production here and there in the world as a means of increasing total producton. This sort of program to encourage production might have helped now had it been undertaken earlier a wider scale.

Many Solutions Suggested

There are, other conflicts, but these are enough to illustrate the "complexities" which hamstring an efficient and effective program. Nowhere presumably is there any one authority which can sit down, take all components of the food problem—Army, domestic and foreign—and lay out a program.

All sorts of solutions are suggested in reports prepared for President Truman. Secretary Anderson has been making a survey of the problem of more direct responsibility. The Agriculture department, it is reported, wants to have charge of the whole foreign food program.

AGAINST such concentration of authority, it is objected that it would subject the program too much to domestic political pressure, the detriment of foreign needs. It is argued that the department's first concern is with the domestic problem and it is beholden for appropriations to Congress through which this domestic pressure is channeled constantly.

In some quarters it is suggested that the State department should have over-all control, at least to the point of formulating an over-all policy. A report embodying such a proposal has been prepared in the State department for submission to the President. The argument is that, basically, the problem is an international political problem, and the State department should formulate the policy.

Others suggest that existing agencies could handle the problem in the present set-up if a specific program is laid down and the agencies are properly coordinated to carry it out without present frictions.

But something needs to be done —and quickly.

FIRST TO FILE

AUSTIN, Aug. 10 (U.P.)—Tax Collector and Assessor Jack Gillum of Williamson county today was the first to file 1945 tax rolls for approval, State Comptroller George Sheppard announced. Sheppard explained the county rolls must be received in his office for approval before tax collections begin Oct. 1.

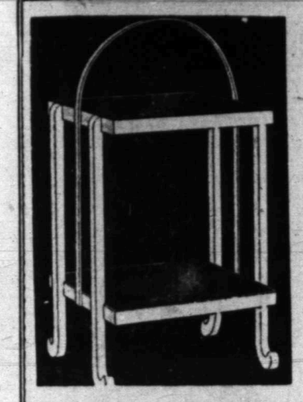

Iron was the basic metal used in making war equipment during the Civil War.

BROAD ADVANCE REGISTERED

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP) — The stock market advanced on a broad scale today after the Japanese peace verture and other turned irregular to end on a note of expectancy—President Truman and his cabinet were in session at the time.

Volume was the heaviest in a long time during the first hours as some leaders advanced 3 points or more before selling off.

Of 946 issues dealt in, 424 advanced, 335 declined and 167 were unchanged. The Associated Press 6-stock composite was down .3 of a point to 65.0.

Losers included Bethlehem, Goodrich, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union "A," Kennecott, American Can, and Santa Fe.

Risers included Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, American Airlines, Public Service of N. J., Dow Chemical, Du Pont, and International Telephone.

Rails reversed themselves in the bond market and ended as much as 2 points lower.

Ahead in the curb were Aluminum Co., American Cyanamid and Humble Oil.

Japan Sues For Peace; Reprieve For Day Called By B-29s, Fleet

Emperor Hirohito could retain his prerogatives.

President Calls In His Cabinet

2. The White House lacked any official word and indicated the bombing and blasting continued. But President Truman conferred hurriedly with his secretaries of State, War and Navy, and called an afternoon cabinet meeting.

3. Moscow radio announced the Japanese foreign minister had informed the Soviet ambassador in Tokyo that Japan would submit to a surrender ultimatum issued in Potsdam July 26 by Britain, China and the United States—and subsequently accepted by Russia—if Hirohito were left on his ancient throne.

Formal Documents Received

4. An official British statement said the government was in consultation with the United States, Russia and China on the broadcast in which Japan virtually acknowledged she was whipped.

5. Neutral Sweden and Switzerland, designated by Japan as intermediaries, were reported to have received formal documents to relay to the Allies.

6. The war went relentlessly on. Russian troops battered ahead in Manchuria, reportedly invaded Korea and Southern Sakhalin island. The Red fleet was said to be in action. So were Chinese and American troops and planes.

Peace May Not Be Long Delayed

But Russia's plunge into the Pacific war two days ago, the unleashing of atomic bombing by the United States, and now Japan's steps toward quitting signified to the world's war-weary millions that peace may not be long delayed.

For Japan, it was a question of ending hopeless resistance or suffering utter ruin at the hands of the mighties forces the world has seen.

Allied capitals interpreted the plea for Hirohito—a God as well as emperor to the Nipponese—as an attempt to salvage something from the wreckage.

Broadcast Shortly Before 7 a. m.

It was shortly before 7 a. m. (cwt) that Tokyo radio went on the air with a Domei broadcast that said:

"The Japanese government are ready to accept the terms enumerated in the joint declaration which was issued at Potsdam on July 26, 1945, by the heads of the governments of the United States, Great Britain and China and later subscribed to by the Soviet government, with the understanding that the said declaration does not compromise any demand which prejudices the prerogatives of his majesty as a sovereign ruler."

And later, Domei said the government "hopes sincerely that this understanding is warranted and desire keenly that an explicit indication to that effect will be speedily forthcoming."

"We Will Not Deviate"

But the Potsdam pronouncement of the Allies said nothing specifically of Hirohito, and some Washington authorities viewed the surrender offer as an attempt to modify a document from which the signatory powers said "we will not deviate."

The first condition set forth at Potsdam was that "there must be eliminated for all time the authority and influence of those who have deceived and mislead the people of Japan into embarking on world conquest, for we insist that a new order of peace, security and justice will be impossible until irresponsible militarism is driven from the world."

Senators Favor Course

Immediate peace appeared to hinge on whether the Allies would acknowledge that Hirohito falls outside this definition. And there were some who favored this course.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate military committee and an expert on Japanese affairs declared retention of the emperor would be "all to the good." Senator O'Mahoney (W-Wyo), said he thought the broadcast surrender terms should be accepted.

There was nothing to indicate what ideas President Truman might have on that subject.

Feverish Activity At White House

But at the White House there was feverish activity. Visitors hustled in and out, elbowing their way through swarms of reporters who descended on the executive offices as soon as the Japanese broadcast was recorded.

Orderly throngs assembled on the street outside to stare through the high iron fence. Barricades went up, military police went back on patrol after months of absence, and the crowds were nudged across to the far side of broad Pennsylvania avenue.

Mr. Truman summoned Secretary of State Byrnes, Secretary of War Stimson and Navy Secretary Forrestal. They hurried in and came out some thirty minutes later.

Matter for Allied Consideration

Secretary of State Byrnes pointed up the possibility of even more waiting once a surrender bid became official. He said it would be a matter for Allied consideration, not for attention of the United States alone.

Presidential Secretary Charles Ross also indicated that any action also would follow extensive consultations among Allied capitals.

Acceptance of a surrender, Washington officials indicated, might be followed almost immediately by an end to fighting. But it might take days to work out the formal terms and begin the occupation of the Nipponese home islands.

MacARTHUR HOPES IT'S END

MANILA, Saturday, Aug. 11 (AP)—General MacArthur told cheering hundreds of soldiers and WACs from his headquarters balcony this morning, "I hope from the bottom of my heart that this is the end of the war."

"If it is," he continued, "it is due largely to your own splendid efforts. "Very shortly I hope we will all be going home."

Japan Is To Be Occupied

Under the Potsdam proclamation, Japan is to be occupied until a new order of peace, security and justice is established and "there is convincing proof that Japan's war-making power is destroyed."

The Potsdam decree provides, too, that the Japanese military forces shall be disarmed, then allowed to return to their homes, that the Japanese people shall not be enslaved nor the nation destroyed as such.

But there is to be "stern justice" meted out to war criminals.

Japan will be allowed to maintain sufficient industries to sustain her economy and supply reparations, but none that would let her re-arm.

"THERE CAN BE NO PLAY ON WORDS"—MOSCOW SAYS

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 11. (AP)—Moscow Radio Commentator I. Yermashev, discussing the Japanese surrender offer, declared today "unconditional surrender is unconditional surrender — there can be no play on words."

The statement, coming over the controlled Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet monitor, was seen as possibly significant in indicating the Russian attitude toward the Japanese attempt to salvage the emperor from the wreckage of defeat.

"The Japanese government declared it understands the declaration of July 26 to mean that the prerogatives of the emperor as the sovereign ruler of Japan remain," Yermashev said. "It is not important at all what the Japanese government understands and what it does not understand."

The commentator noted that the surrender offer came "less than 48 hours after the Soviet Union declared war."

Russian Advances

artillery and tank blows.

The Russians, the Moscow war bulletin reported, made two new crossings of the Amur river and drove along both the western and eastern ends of the Chinese Eastern railroad, which stretches 750 miles across Manchuria and feeds the Japanese arsenal city of Harbin.

Generalissimo Joseph Stalin's armies made their deepest slash into Manchuria in the northwest.

Tanks and cavalry following infantrymen manning armored trains surged 93½ miles from the Russo - Manchurin border area north of Hulun (Dalai) lake and captured the rail junction and five-way highway junction of Hulun (Hailar), Moscow's broadcast bulletin said.

Cut Western Highway

Capture of Hulun cut the only western highway supplying thousands of Japanese troops in extreme northern Manchuria.

From Hulun, the Soviets battered another 12½ miles into the 2,660-foot-high foothills of the great Khingan mountain range barring the path to the central Manchurian basin, tearing out a total gain of 106 miles.

The massive surge carried the Russians 80 miles from the main, 4,194-foot-high pass where the Chinese Eastern railroad crosses the great Khingan range.

May Take Few Days

ance with the agreement stating that key points would be occupied until such time as the country is restored to peaceful ways of living.

Fourth, the Japanese government would be allowed to remain in control of the country, under Allied supervision, in accordance with the Potsdam communique. This would be the greatest difference between the happenings in Japan and the occupation of Germany which was so completely wrecked that no government existed there.

Thirty-Four Known Dead In Train Crash

MICHIGAN, N. D., Aug. 10. (AP)—Thirty-four persons were known dead today in the Great Northern railway collision caused when the first section of the westbound Empire Builder stopped to cool a hotbox last night and was telescoped by the second section.

Approximately 50 others were injured, 10 seriously.

Wrecking crews digging into the debris recovered 33 bodies and could see that of the 34th in the tangle of timbers and twisted steel.

Eighteen of the recovered bodies were those of service people, including two Navy nurses; ten women; two children; two male civilians, and the porter on the sleeper-observation car of the first section in which the heaviest toll occurred.

Military authorities from Fort Snelling, Minn., took charge of the servicemen's bodies and said identities would not be reported until next of kin had been notified.

U. S. Navy Losses

presumably carried about 90 men. It was listed as overdue and presumed lost.

The bag of Japanese ships reported included, besides the cruiser and the escort ship, a cable repair vessel, three medium freighters, one medium merchant ship, three small merchant ships and a small cargo vessel. The cruiser was sunk several months ago.

Boosts Sinking To 1,343

Those sinkings boosted to 1,343 the total of enemy ships sunk by American submarines, 173 of them combatant vessels.

The 50 more vessels picked off in the Sea of Japan presumably are in addition to this number.

Among the ships which the Navy reported as written off its own roster were the Destroyers Parrott, Tucker, and Worden, the destroyer-escort Holder, and the submarines S-27, S-36, and S-39.

The other vessels included 15 "named" ships, ranging from minelayers to tugs; seven submarine chasers, and 46 patrol torpedo boats. The remainder were chiefly landing ships or craft.

The larger vessels in that list were:

The attack transport Thomas Stone, the cargo ships Aludra and Deimos, the mine layer Montgomery, gunboat Erie, net layer Ailanthius, salvage vessel Resuer, tugs Genesee and Grebe, the minesweepers Hornbill, Crown, Bunting, and YMS-133, and the auxiliaries Robert L. Barnes and the Ronaki.

week that shoe rationing would "go out the window" shortly after V-J day.

Since military requirements are expected to stay high during demobilization, food rationing, especially of meat, is expected to continue for some time.

The ODT said there is no possibility of immediate elimination of various travel restrictions, but that some easing within two or three months seemed likely.

News Briefs

Capt. and Mrs. Wayne Henly and their small son, of Abilene, are visiting in the home of Capt. Henly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Henly, 1509 Twenty-fifth. Capt. Henly, advertising manager of the Avalanche-Journal on leave, returned last week from Germany where he served with a fighter group. He is on 30-day leave before reporting to San Antonio for reassignment to La Junta, Colo.

Burglary of two mercantile stores at Wilson and theft of automobile tires at Tahoka were reported to Lubbock peace officers Friday. The only report of theft in the Wilson breakins was of 18 to 20 cartons of cigarettes. A tire from each of five different cars was taken at Tahoka, it was said.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Acceptance of a surrender from Emperor Hirohito might be the Allies' most certain means of ending all fighting with the Japanese immediately.

Well-placed government officials analyzing the Japanese situation expressed the opinion today that only a surrender by the emperor would be accepted and obeyed by the Japanese troops in the far reaches of China and the scattered islands of the Pacific. They doubted that any of the military leaders, or any group of them, has enough power to guarantee that a surrender order would be lived up to fully.

Emperor Has Full Power

Legally, the emperor has full power to make peace and to conclude treaties. He is given that authority by article 13 of the Japanese constitution, with no check on his treaty-making such as that provided by senate ratification in this country.

Actually, of course, the military leaders who surround the emperor will dictate the course he follows.

Must Deal With Emperor

To obtain an official surrender the Allies either must deal through the emperor, with the government that might replace his or directly with Japanese army and navy leaders.

Even with overthrow of the Hirohito government and its replacement by a democratic group, the United Nations could not be sure that all fighting would stop. Many elements of the Japanese military machine might remain loyal to the throne, continue the conflict and be conquered only after lengthy mopping up operations.

Thus the United Nations may decide to continue Hirohito as the nominal head of the government, forcing him to carry out their orders much as the ruling clique in Japan has made him do its bidding for years.

Port Arthur Man Kills Wife, Then Suicides

GRANITE CITY, Ill., Aug. 10. (AP) — A double shooting at the Granite City Army Engineers' depot today resulted in the death of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bolin, formerly of Port Arthur, Tex.

Stanley Soldinski, depot guard, said Bolin, 34, called to his 29-year-old estranged wife as she reported for work. After a few minutes of conversation Soldinski reported hearing two shots and seeing Mrs. Bolin fall, fatally wounded. Bolin then dropped beside his wife, a bullet in his temple.

Levelland Woman Is Poliomyelitis Victim

Illness of Mrs. William D. Cardwell, 25, of Levelland, Friday became the fourth case of poliomyelitis to be diagnosed in Lubbock.

Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, said the disease had attacked her in both legs. Attendants at Lubbock General hospital termed her condition as "good" late last night.

Three other persons who underwent treatment for the disease here are reported recovering satisfactorily. They are Miss Joan Prouty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parker F. Prouty of 3019 Twenty-first, who now is a patient in Elizabeth Kenny hospital in Minneapolis, Minn.; Lonnie Howard, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Howard of Kermit, and Joyce Page, 16, of Hub homes. Only the Howard youngster and Mrs. Cardwell remain in the hospital.

Jessie Mae Stimson Gets Five-Year Term

A 99th district court jury found Jessie Mae Stimpson, negro, 18 years of age and assessed against her a sentence of 5 years in the penitentiary Friday afternoon for the fatal knifing July 17 of 14-year-old negro Fred Williams.

The jury reported to Judge G. V. Pardue after deliberating an hour and 5 minutes. It found her guilty of murder without malice.

Judge Pardue had drawn a general jury charge defining murder, self-defense, aggravated assault and the suspended sentence, and instructed the jury to determine whether the accused was 17 or 18.

Defense counsel had contended that the girl was 17 and thus subject to juvenile jurisdiction.

The state, represented by District Attorney Burton S. Burks, alleged that she cut her husband with a knife and that young Williams said to her," You shouldn't treat your husband like that," and that she said, in substance, "I guess you want some of the same" and slashed him across the throat.

Grady West represented the defendant.

TRAFFIC DEATHS DECREASE

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—The department of public safety today reported a 13 per cent decrease in the total number of vehicle traffic deaths thus far this year as compared with last year; the totals being respectively 564 and 646.

as scheduled, and it was believed that at least one small mission had been planned for today.

First War Relaxation

Today's announcement that the B-29s were being kept on the ground was the first announced relaxation by any Allied force in the war against Japan.

The public relations officer came into the correspondents' press room this morning and said, "the B-29s are not flying today. There is no amplification of this statement, but it is official."

It was not disclosed whether the decision to keep the bombers at their home bases came as a result of instructions from Washington or was made here.

It had been expected previously that the raids, which had been growing steadily in weight, numbers and frequency, would be pressed unrelentingly until Japan definitely gave in.

Army Has Sponsored 1,500,000 Babies

DALLAS, Aug. 10. (AP) — The Army will have sponsored financially more than 1,500,000 babies by the time the war is over, Theodore M. Gribble of the Eighth Service command said today.

Speaking to members of the Dallas Retail Credit Men's association, Gribble stated that the government has spent $7,000,000 on soldiers' infants.
