FREE POSTAL SERVICE GIVEN BIG INCREASE

Over 500 Additional Homes In City to Get Delivery

THREE MORE CARRIERS

Is Biggest Extension Since Oil Boom is Reported

The largest expansion of postal service in Wichita Falls since the boom days of 1919, was announced Saturday by Assistant Postmaster Lon Howard to become effective July 1. It will result in an extension of free delivery service to between 500 & 600 additional homes in the southern and western parts of town and will necessitate the addition of three more carriers to the mail force. This will bring the total number of deliverymen to 24, of which 21 are foot and three parcel post auto deliveries.

In New Territories.

Both of the new territories are ones in which a rapid development has taken place in the last few years. This is especially true of the far western edge of town—Tilden street, Hayes street, Beverly drive and the Seymour road where new residucs have been springing up almost like magic. The same is true of the Junior college neighborhood where a remarkable growth has been experienced.

The largest service extension, however, is roughly in the Sibley-Taylor addition and on the southern and southeastern rim of the city which has been heavily settled for some time.

Wichita Bank Made A State Depository

AUSTIN, Tex., June 19.—First National Bank of Wichita Falls has received $200,000 state funds for deposit as one of the reserve banks for the Texas treasury. The state has a total of $7,562,661 out in the reserve banks, all protected by $1.10 government securities for each dollar deposited, and $4,221,500 in the 115 state depository banks.

EGG RESEMBLES MAN'S HEAD.

Port Arthur Man Exhibits Egg With Odd Features.

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, June 20.—A local poultry raiser has on exhibit an egg resembling the head of a man wearing a derby hat. Discoloration of the shell caused the resemblance. The egg had that appearance when found in a nest.

District Legion Head Is Beaten At Altus

ALTUS, Okla., June 20.—Orville Hensley was lodged in jail today charged with assault with intent to kill, following an attack made on Roy Volk, district commander of the American Legion, in which Volk was severely beaten about the head and received a slight cut over the heart.

According to Lonnie Yates, county attorney, the trouble arose when Volk was called to require Hensley to pay admission to a negro American Legion ball game played on Emancipation day, which he was witnessing.

The Fighting Perkinses Send a Son To West Point and Tradition

Not to Joke About It, But Today Will Be First of Summer

Ridiculous as it may see to Wichitans who sweltered throughout Saturday, this Sunday is the first day of summer.

Don't mistake, however.

It is the first day of summer so far as the calendar is concerned, with June 21 witnessing the sun at its furthermost northern point for the year, and on Monday the days begin to get shorter again.

All of which, however, has nothing to do with the fact that the maximum official temperature in Wichita Falls Saturday was 104.

SCHOOL BONDS CARRY 202-61 IN LIGHT VOTE

Second Election Saturday Gives Good Majority For Improvement

By a vote of 202 to 61 Wichita Falls for the second time Saturday ratified a $500,000 school bond issue to be used in improving and enlarging the school system here.

A comparatively light vote was cast at the two boxes during the day, but board of education officials last night expressed satisfaction with the results and said they anticipated no further difficulty in putting the issue through. The vote cast last April when the bonds were first balloted on was invalidated by the attorney general's department because of a technical flaw.

The vote by boxes yesterday was as follows:

	For	Against
Court House	117	42
Junior High	85	19
Totals	202	61

Money derived from the sale of the bonds will be used in construction of a new junior high school in the western part of town, a new ward school in the southwestern section and in improvements on exisiting buildings.

L. A. Boyd Buys Most Of Hillcrest Lots

One of the most extensive real estate deals of recent weeks was completed yesterday by the purchase by Linn A. Boyd, real estate operator, of the entire Hillcrest addition with the exception of 100 lots previously sold. Mr. Boyd has acquired 700 lots by the deal.

The addition is located east of the city, overlooking the Country club grounds, and will be bordered by the new Holliday road paving project that is now under way.

The section will be developed and lost placed on the market at atractive terms. The owner will alsho construct a number of medium priced homes, he has stated.

REGENC YDISCORD SURPRISE

Rumors Cause Surprise to State Land Commissioner.

AUSTIN, June 20.—(AP)—Land Commissioner J. T. Robbison expressed surprise today at the report from Dallas that it was rumored discord reigned in the land committee of the Texas university board or regents over the university oil lands. Mr. Robison said that during the three hours he was before the committee Thursday at Dallas that everything was hormonious and agreeable.

Report Heavy Rains Over Central Texas

AUSTIN, June 20.—Austin had a light shower late Saturday, while reports to the Austin American-Statesman indicated a heavy rain at San Marcos, Buda, Kyle and Smithville, and Showers at Lockhart, Jollyville, Bastrop and Pfleugerville.

Burkett and Lanham Hold Conference for Meeting.

AUSTIN, June 20.—(AP)—Frank V. Lanham of Dallas, chairman of the highway commission, and Senator Joe Burkett of Eastland, high way commissioner, were holding conference here today in preparation for the second June meeting of the commission Monday when a large number of county contracts are to be let.

POISON DOSE IS FATAL.

St. Louis Girl Dies After Sister Gives Her "Medicine."

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—Ida Krupin, two and one-half years old, died today of poison administered last night by her four-year-old sister Anna, who was playing doctor. She mistook the poison for medicine

LIKE father, like son.

And so with David Mural Perkins, 18, son of Major and Mrs. D. M. Perkins, 2414 Eighth street, who left Wichita Falls Saturday night for West Point, the greatest military school of the world, for the training which perfects the best soldiers on the globe.

ALL ENTRANCE EXAMS PASSED.

David has passed all entrance requirements at Fort Sill.

And with his entrainment Saturday night for the Hudson, David upholds the tradition of the Perkins family. It was in 1898 that the major took a company of Quanah and Wichita Falls men to Cuba for service with Uncle Sam in the Spanish-American war. The major entered that conflict as a first lieutenant and when the was was over he had been promoted to the rank of captain.

VOLUNTEERED AND SERVED IN 1917.

Then came the World war and the major volunteered, organizing companies F and G in 1917 in Wichita Falls. These companies became a part of the Seventh Texas infantry, later being consolidated with the First Oklahoma to form the 142nd Infantry of the 36th division.

Into the world conflict went Major Perkins as a captain in the 142nd, undergoing some of the fiercest engagements of the war, particularly in the great Argonne offensive. He was discharged in July of 1919 with the rank of major.

GRADUATE OF HIGH SCHOOL IN WICHITA.

And so the son takes up the fighting spirit where the major left off, although Major Perkins says if any war was declared tomorrow in which the United States was involved he would volunteer. David Perkins is a graduate of Wichita Falls high school, and spent one year at Texas A. & M., and holds the commission of sergeant in the 142nd headquarters company.

M'MILLAN OFF TO NORTH POPLE

WISCASSET, Maine, June 20.—(AP)—Donald Baxter MacMillan left today for the Arctic with the God speed of Wiscasset, the state of Maine and the nation ringing in his ears.

"See you in September," "Mac" shouted to his old friends as they stood on the old whale wharf bidding them farewell, thereby symbolizing the confidence they have in his ability to bring his crews of two-score men safely back from the Arctic wherein the Polar sea, the explorer hopes to find an unknown and uncharted land.

Lieutenant Commander MacMillan's two ships sail away amidst the greatest demonstration he has ever received on any of his eight previous trips.

Car In Ditch On Burk Road; 1 Hurt

One man was slightly cut about the wrist when the automobile he was driving about three miles out on the Burkburnett road ran into a ditch. The windshield was broken and other damages sustained by the auto.

The driver was arrested by Deputy Sheriff White and locked up in the county jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

SLEDGE TAKES STAND IN TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE

Confused on Cross-Exam He Is Attended by Younger Sister

REFUTES STATE CLAIM

Crisis is Approached In Trial of Duncan Youth At Waurika

WAURIKA, June 20.—Saturday, another day of sweltering heat, found the local courtroom crowded as it has been the previous days of the Sledge trial with interest as keen as the day Ethel Sreywaus faced young Sledge and told a story of the betrayal of her trust.

Today it was young Sledge who took the stand. Youthful, well dressed, with pleasing manners, from one of the best and most influential Duncan families, he has been all the way through very nonchalant and undisturbed over the affair, laughing and joking about his chance of being sent to the "hot chair."

Whole Room Agog.

When he took the stand this morning the whole courtroom was agog to hear what he might say in refutation of the crime of which he has been accused. He told his story quietly, showing no signs of nervousness. It was in effect the same story that Ted Elliott and Bill Brown had told in all of its details as to meeting the girls and taking them to the Sledge farm house. At this place his story varied with that of the other witnesses and he contended that he and Ethel were left alone in the room and that she was perfectly willing to be there with him.

When he was turned over to the state's attorneys for cross-examination he showed his first sign of nervousness. His answers were more or less confused and before long County Attorney Long had succeeded in getting him mixed up and then angry. He made some assertions that did not tally in all particulars with the story he first told on the stand. His young sister, Miss Olga Sledge, who is a student in O. C. W., a pretty young girl, has stood by her brother throughout the whole affair, and when he became incoherent in his statements she came to the rescue by bringing him a cup of ice water. He left the stand at noon and court recessed until 1 in the afternoon at which time the state introduced in rebuttal some character witnesses. Six men and women of Duncan of good repute in the community testified to their knowledge of Ethel Sreywaus; that she had been a girl of good moral character and that there had been no blot nor stain on her name until the affair of February 21. Court recessed until Monday at which time the charge to the jury will be given and arguments of counsel heard.

Testimony Varies.

A coincidence in the case has been the fact that the three boys, Harry Sledge, Bill Brown and Ted Elliott, have, in their testimony, refuted entirely the affidavits they made when endeavoring to get bail. Their excuses have been that they did not read all of the affidavits, that the affidavits were made for a purpose which they have long since fulfilled, and that they had forgotten just what the affidavits said. They asserted their present testimony is the whole truth of the affair.

The result of the case hinges upon whether the jury has been convinced by the story told by the three boys and in particular that of Harry Sledge that Ethel Sreywaus was not a girl of good repute and that she consented to his demands on the fateful night of February 21. That and the testimony of a girl who has bared the innermost secrets of her heart, with statements of three reputable physicians whose evidence the lawyers have been unable to shake, will be the deciding factors in the case.

SAN ANTONIO COMPANY ASKS CAPITAL STOCK RAISE

AUSTIN, June 20. — (AP)—amendment to the charter of the San Antonio Public Service company of San Antonio was filed today by Walter P. Napier of San Antonio, increasing the capital stock from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Are You Well; If So Let's See You Hold Your Breath

MINNEAPOLIS, June 20.—Hold your breath and be healthy is the latest word from the medical front.

The length of time you can hold your breath is a measure of your physical fitness, Dr. F. W. Wittich of the University of Minnesota declared before the National Tuberculosis association in convention here.

The simple method is of a practical diagnostic value that can be classified with taking the temperature, pulse and respiration rates, Dr. Wittich told physicians and pathologists Firday.

"Business men and others who have not the ability to hold their breath for at least 30 seconds after taking a deep breath should go and see a doctor at once," he said.

OUTDOOR FILMS WILL BE GIVEN IN CITY PARKS

Plans Laid for Showing Of Pictures Every Week

Outdoor moving picture programs in the city parks are to be given this summer under the sponsorship of the civic league, according to an announcement yesterday from Mrs. A. R. Bleakley, president.

Present plans call for inauguration of this innovation in entertainment features in Wichita Falls on Monday night, June 29, when Bellevue park will be converted into a huge open air amphitheatre. A standard motion picture film will be shown on a big screen to be erected in the park. The Al Ellis advertising agency is to handle the technical details of the programs.

Mrs. Bleakley said the project was one promoted solely by the civic league as a means of offering worthwhile entertainment during the hot summer months. She said only pictures that had been reviewed and approved by the league would be exhibited.

Bellevue park at Ninth and Broad will be used each Monday night for a nine-week period, it was said. Tuesday night the pictures would be shown at Highland Heights park on Grant street, Wednesday night at Texhoma park in north Wichita, Thursday night at Sibley-Taylor and Friday night at Lincoln park, the new negro recreational plot just opened near the ball park.

Commissioner J. H. Patton has promised to put in 1,000 seats at Bellevue park for the opening night and it is hoped to have a capacity throng out for the show.

Two Cars Damaged In Grant St. Crash

Two automobiles were damaged considerably and several persons were shaken up late Saturday night in a collision on Grant street in front of the Sam Houston school.

One car was driven by Floyd Mozley and the other by Lester McCann, both of whom appeared at the city hall after the accident. Mozley was driving north on Grant and McCann, according to reports, turned into Grant from a cross street when the crash came.

CHINESE RIOTING SUBSIDES.

Agitation Shows Signs of Developing Into Economic Struggle.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 20.—The Chinese situation, inspired and promoted by anti-foreign agitation, today showed signs of developing into a purely diplomatic and economic struggle.

Reports of disorders today were fewer than for any day in the past two weeks. Practically the only disorders were between Chinese themselves, such as the kidnaping of Chinese workers by strikers at Shanghai.

$6,444 IHERITANCE TAX PAID.

Corsicana Estate Is Valued at Over $384,000.

AUSTIN, June 20.—Receipt of an inheritance tax of $6,444 from the estate of James Garrity, Corsicana, was announced today by S. H. Terrell, comptroller of currency. The estate is valued at $384,000 and was left to the testator's nieces and nephews. The tax was paid by the legatees.

ATTACK IN PRISON

Two Men Said to Have Fallen Out After One Reprieved

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—Walter Krauser, charged with the murder of a policeman, today stabbed and possibly fatally wounded Bernard Grant, under sentence of death for the same murder, while the two were receiving visitors in the county jail.

Krauser in a statement to Warden Wesley Westbrook, said that Grant had threatened to kill him. The stabbing was done with a pocket knife which Krauser said he found. Warden Westbrook, however, said he believed the knife had been smuggled into the prison and started an investigation.

Stabbed Five Times.

Grant was stabbed five times, one wound puncturing a lung and another in the neck, nearly severing the jugular vein.

Grant and Krauser were taken to the visitor's room to chat with several relatives of each of the men. A large screen divides the visitors room into two parts, the prisoner's occupying one part and the visitors the other.

When Grant entered the room, Krauser ignored the greetings of his relatives and immediately attacked his one-time companion. Before guards and other prisoners could subdue him, he had stabbed Grant five times. Several relatives of the men who witnessed the attack, powerless to inerfere, collapsed, and the jail, housing several hundred prisoners, was thrown into confusion.

Convicted of Murder.

Both Krauser and Grant were convicted of the murder of Policeman Ralph Spaders while trying to hold up a tea store two years ago. Both were condemned to die on the gallows but the case was carried to the supreme court which upheld the decision of the lower court as to Grant, but granted Krauser a new trial on his representation that Grant fired the shot which killed the policeman. No date has yet been set for the re-trial of Krauser. Grant has succeeded in obtaining four or five reprieves, twice almost on the eve of the date fixed for his execution. He is now under sentence to be hanged about August 14. Grant's hair has turned white he has become partly bald since his conviction. He was hardly past the age of 19 when sentenced.

New Lubricating Oil For Airplanes Found

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 20.—Invention of a new lubricating oil for airplane motors which it is claimed will enable transcontinental flights without a change of oil was announced here today by J. A. Higgins, who said he had been engaged in research for months.

The new lubricant, according to Mr. Higgins, is mineral oil castorized in treatment by molecular impregnation. The inventor declared the oil would make for safety in flying by eliminating to a great extent stalling of motors due to inefficient lubrication. He said that in a test the oil had been used during 35 1-2 hours of flying time without draining the crank case. Very little new oil was added during the test, he stated.

MAN HELD FOR SHOOTING.

DALLAS, June 20.—Frank Martin, charged with assault to murder here late today in connection with the shooting of three motorists near here late last night when they were said to have been detained on a roadside because of car trouble, had failed to make bond tonight. Birdshot was alleged to have been used and none of the three were seriously injured.

Those shot were Mrs. George Robinson, 50.; Thetas Shurly, 20, and E. W. Harris, 22.

Scientist Believes He Can Tell Age Of Earth By Ocean Salt

LONDON, June 20.—The age of the earth appears to be somewhat more than 100 million years, according to the deductions of Prof. John Joly of Dublin university who bases his conclusions on the quantity of salt in the ocean.

Prof. Joly, who has been lecturing at Oxford, is of the opinion that the salt now in the oceans would easily cover all the world's land to a depth of at least 400 feet.

In explaining his method of computing the earth's age, the Irish Savant points out that rivers have flowed into the sea throughout all geological time and that the salt have borne away in solution remains in measurable quantity in the seas.

By dividing the total amount of salt in the ocean by the amount carried down by all the rivers in a single year the age of the earth is obtained.

Prof. Joly believes the discovery of radium and radio activity have given new means of computing the earth's age, but he says this means is not yet fully understood.

COTTON LOOKS EXCELLENT IN COUNTY FIELDS

Farm Agent Says Staple Everywhere Profits From The Heat

The grasshopper menace, coupled with the excessive heat of the past few days is begining to make a noticable impression at farms where steps have not been taken to poison them.

These are the views of County Farm Agent Guy R. Jones who said Saturday that the hopper damage would run to huge figures if the pests were not combatted. The heat, too, while of extreme value to cotton, has made the corn crop a total failure and is beginning to wilt grain sorghums. Wheat is turning out a light yield, not more than seven bushels to the acre in most places, while oats, looking good, will not amount to a great deal from a productive standpoint.

The cotton crop, however, is in excellent condition, Mr. Jones reports, and is profiting from the heat. He said he had never seen a better stand, either on irrigated or unirrigated lands. Some cotton lice have appeared but he does not anticipate any damage from this source, for the present at least.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 20.—Attorney William Newton went to sleep and snored in City Judge Galen S. Young's court yesterday and was hailed for contempt. A fine of $10 was assessed. Mr. Newton was waiting for a case in which he was counsel to be called when he dozed off.

Rev. Crouch Dies In Memphis, Friday

News was received in Wichita Falls Saturday of the death Friday in Memphis, Tenn., of Rev. W. P. Crouch prominent Christian minister who will be well remembered in this city as having conducted a series of meetings at the First Christian church several years ago. A son, Joe Crouch and family, reside in Wichita Falls, and were at his bedside. Funeral services will be held Monday with interment at Johnson City, Tenn., his old home.

4-YEAR-OLD BOY MEETS DEATH 15TH--LAMAR

James Tindle Darts Directly In Front of Traction Saturday

BODY IS SEVERED

Authorities Say Motorman Is Blameless in Tragic Event

Caught beneath the wheels of a south bound Seventeenth street car, 4-year-old James Tindle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufust Tindle was instantly killed shortly before 8 o'clock Saturday night at the corner of Fifteenth and Lamar. The accident happened as his frantic mother looked on and took place within a short distance of his home at 805 Fifteenth.

The baby's body was almost severed in two and he was dead when pulled out from beneath the trucks by Rudolph Ort, 1403 Sibley street, who saw the accident and who was the first to reach him.

Darted From Mother

Reports of the accident as gleaned from neighbors and passengers on the car were to the effect that the street car, in charge of Motorman M. W. Sherbet, 2404 Kemp boulevard, was running south on Lamar at a speed of between 12 and 15 miles per hour. The Tindle baby and his mother had left their home and were presumably on their way to a store in the west side of Lamar. Considerable traffic was said to be passing on Lamar, which is a heavily traveled street, and they waited for a moment on the east side before attempting to cross. The lad it seems, broke away from his mother and darted into the street, running behind a passing automobile and directly into the path of the street car.

He was struck and hurled to the rails where one truck passed completely over his body before the motorman, with all brakes set, could bring it to a stop. An ambulance was immediately summoned but the lad was dead when he was pulled out from beneath the traction.

Father Not Present

The boys' father, a truck driver for the Frick-Reid Supply company, was down town when the accident happened. It developed that he was in a barber shop at the time and knew nothing of the tragedy until some 30 minutes later when he came home. Mr. and Mrs. Tindle were prostrated with grief. They have one other child, a daughter about one year old.

"I'll never drive one again," he told fellow-traction workers at the city hall where he was taken after the accident. Sherbet said the baby was within less than 10 feet of him when he first saw it and that it was an impossibility to stop his car in that short space of time.

Motorman Blameless

Passengers on the car and bystanders who saw the accident were of the opinion that Sherbet was not to blame. They said the boy ran directly in front of the car and gave no warning whatsoever to the motorman.

Chief of Police George Hodgins and County Attorney Wayne Somerville, both of whom made an investigation of the accident, said last night that from what they could gather, Sherbet would not be held accountable. A complete investigation will be made Monday morning.

The body of the boy is being held at the Hines Mortuary parlors pending funeral arrangements.

Ibex Gas Explosion Claims Another Man

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, June 20.—G. D. Rambo, 44, one of six injured Friday in an explosion at the gasoline plant of the Phillips Petroleum company at Ibex died at a hospital here Saturday morning.

The body will be sent to Brownwood, where funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ina Merle Robinson Is Winner of Merchant's Bathing Beauty Contest

Miss Ina Merle Robinson was acclaimed winner of the merchants' bathing beauty contest at the Olympic theatre last night in an applause contest with the Fritz Motor company entry, Miss Evelyn Frances Lyle. Miss Robinson was the entry of the Wichita Daily Times. In the initial contest of the evening she was acclaimed the day's winner, and accorded the final decision by the judges when she received the most applause of any of the three preliminary winners as they were presented to the audience.

Miss Robinson was presented with a silver loving cup and a check for $25 by the Olympic theatre. Miss Evelyn Frances Lyle, as "Miss Marmon," who won second prize, was given a check for $15 and the "Jantzen Girl" the Perkins-Timberlake entrant, received a check for $10. Other girls not ranking in the final contest received checks for $5.00

The judges were Mrs. M. M. Addicks, Fire Chief J. H. McClure, and District Attorney Jimmie Allred. Chief of Police George Hodgins did the official announcing.

A house that was packed and jammed participated in the contest and attested their favorite with a thunderous applause.

Others appearing last night were, Miss Evelyn Barker as the "Canoe Girl" of the Landon-Hill Sporting Goods company, Miss Edna Ritter as Miss Vendope of the Vendope system, Miss Billie Tucker as "Miss Record News," Miss Johnnie Sadler as "Miss Goodyear," of the Gene Segall Tire company, Miss Ara Gregg as "Miss Ludlam and Riggs," Miss Rebecca Walker as the "Queen of the Jewels" of the Art Jewelry company, Miss Maud Mayo as the Central Drug Store's Powder Puff Girl, and Miss Aileen Richardson as the "Wallpaper Girl" of the Watson Paint and Paper company.

TO DADDY ON DADDY'S DAY

As out upon our back yard I gazed
At the loveliness, I became amazed
At the flowers in beautiful array
Bending their heads in every way,
Even at the fence all 'round
Protecting the flowers on the ground;
At the trees which give us fruit so grand
As firm and staunch they stand.
The trees remain faithful, unmindful of time,
They remind me of Daddy's love, great and sublime,
The flowers and the sky so gorgeous blue
Make me think of my Daddy, loyal and true.
And so on this happy Father's Day
May God shower blessings in every way
Upon my Daddy who has toiled long years
To comfort me and dry my tears.

DEFENSE BACKS TO WALL WHEN CROWE SCORES

Forced to Fight for Afternoon Session in Shepherd Case

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—Dissatisfied by the trend of the cross examination of his chief witness, William Scott Stewart, chief of counsel for William Darling Shepherd, forced an afternoon session of court today. He did not want to let the jury have until Monday morning to study over the replies Dr. Frederick O. Tonney, head of the Chicago Health department laboratory, had made to questions asked by PrPosecutor Robert E. Crowe.

Upon direct examination Dr. Tonney testified emphatically that Charles C. Faiman, chief witness against Shepherd, could not have obtained typhoid germs in the manner he had stated and that the probability was that germs handled as Faiman said they had been handled would have been dead before Shepherd could have used them in the alleged murder of his millionaire foster son, Billy McClintock.

Dr. Tonney Testifies.

Under a driving attack by Prosecutor Crowe, Dr. Tonney admitted that only a rule that germs should not be given out would stand between that act and its violation by an irresponsible employe, that at least one man in his department formerly attended Faiman's school, the National National University of Science, and that his department had propagated one set of germs for the last 30 years and could continue to do so for 30 more.

Crowe accused the witnesses of hesitating in his responses to interrogations and asked him if he had any interest in the trial, that maneuver by the state's attorney coming just five minutes before the time for the usual adjournment over Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Dr. Tonney admitted that after newspapers published the confession of Faiman in which he said he had obtained from the city health department laboratories three test tubes of typhoid germs which he passed on to Shepherd and taugh him how to use them in destroying Billy McClintock, two investigations of possible leaks at the laboratory were made by Dr. Herman Bundesen, head of the city health department, and Dr. Tonney.

The doctor admitted that he understood that Faiman's school had been licensed by Dr. Bundesen to conduct a hospital, a fact which would have influenced him in handing out germs from the laboratory.

Against Afternoon Session.

Judge Thomas J. Lynch was not enthusiastic ove rholding court this afternoon when the attorneys gathered about the bench and argued heatedly in whispers out of hearing of the jury.

Prosecutor Crowe maintained that previously during the trial court had not been held for completoan of cross examination of witnesses and that a precedent nst be set at this time.

Stewart won his argument, however, and court recessed at 12:34 p. m. until 2 o'clock.

"Your honor, it is unfair to the defense to let the jury have over the week-end to discuss this testimony," said Stewart in his successful plea. "We should come back this afternoon and clear up this matter."

Dr. Tonney resumed the witness stand this afternoon and the state's attorney questioned him about a conference the witness had with his chief assistant during recess. Dr. Tonney said he had talked over his testimony with his assistant, but without any definite purpose in mind.

The laboratory head admitted that an employe discharged last spring formerly was the director of the laboratory of Faiman's school. Winfield Scott Hoeger was the man's name.

Dr. Tonney fenced with the prosecutor, but finally admitted that any city health department laboratory worker could have taken germs "if he had known what he was taking."

Under the prosecutor's persistent cross questioning Dr. Tonney admitted any employe could have supplied germs to Faiman, "but would have been breaking the rules."

Dr. Tonney asserted he had "turned down" a number of doctors who had asked for germs, but could not recall the names of any.

Violations of rules brought down three separate reprimands on Hoeger, the employe who was finally dismissed, said the witness.

Prosecutor Crowe was making the hardest fight of the trial in his examination of Dr. Tonney.

FIRST BOB WAS FOR COUNTRY.

Daughter of Prussian Officer Set Patriotic Example in 1813.

BERLIN, June 20.—In consequence of the agitation among German womanhood over the merits or demerits of bobbed hair, German savants have delved into the history of bobbed heads. One authority has it that the first case of bobbed hair on record in Germany was that of Ferdinande Von Schmettau, who under patriotic impulse sacrificed her beautiful golden hair for 200 thalers during the 1813 war against Napoleon.

Ferdinande was the daughter of Col. oVn Schmettau. When King Frederick William in March, 1813, issued a fervent appeal to citizens to make sacrifices for the fatherland, Colonel Schmettau's three eldest daughters gave their jewels, while their 15-year-old Ferdinande sacrificed her hair, thus setting an example for many maidens to do likewise.

Temporary Sentinel Of Hundred Years Ago Has Become French Fixture

PARIS, June 20.—A temporary functionary, who with his successors has held a job for more than a hundred years has been found in the search for economies advocated by a long string of finance ministers and now by M. Caillaux. This supernumerary is the sentinel at the palais Bourbon, where the chamber of deputies meets.

After the fall of the First Republic and preceding the restoration, one of the back doors of the palace, which seemed to offer too many chances for besieging political mobs, was heavily barred and double locked and a sentinel with fixed bayonet was placed there to see that the door was left closed. Since that day, governments have come and governments have gone; more than a hundred of them in succession have had their short try at satisfying the parliamentarians who sitthere and automatically the sentinel has been replaced.

Never had it occurred to anyone to ask why the man paced up and down on the sidewalk in front of a door that required the genius of a super-burglar to open, until recently a member of the commission which passes on the chambers expenses asked for a list of the soldiers and police detailed to guard the salons of France. Then it was learned that for more than a hundred years this sentinel, placed there about the time of the restoration on purely temporary service had been automatically replaced ever since.

The discovery set some of the deputies to thinking of serious reforms. It was asked for instance why such an extremely democratic president of the chamberlain as M. Herriot could not do without the royal and imperial pomp with which the presiding officer makes his entry into the chamber. A guard of honor presents arms in the corridor, drums rattle and ushers are drawn up to salute the president, just as they did during the imperial and manarchical regimes. And the presidents of this democratic chamber have always appeared to enter with great interest into this archaic formality.

MA GRANTS 21 MORE PARDONS FOR JUNE 19

"Friendless Negroes" Freed As Governor's Signs Names

AUSTIN, June 20.—With the granting of 21 pardons today Governor Miriam A. Ferguson cleared her desk of the executive clemency order "for friendless negroes in commemoration of June 19, negro emancipation day." The pardons were recommended by Governor Ferguson's husband, former Governor James A. Ferguson, and brought the June 19 list to 34.

The governor granted one full pardon to a negro who had been conditionally pardoned from a life imprisonment for murder by Governor Hobby and 20 conditional pardons. In the list were included thirteen convictions of murder, two for statutory offense, two for burglary, one on a liquor charge, two for theft, and one for forgery. The full pardon was granted Jeff Brimberry of Mitchell county.

Exiled Bolsheviks Heading for Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba, June 20.—(AP) The Cuban consul in Vienna has informed the state department that a group of bolshevik Russians expelled from Poland recently are on their way west and probably will attempt to land in Cuba. Commissioner of Immigration Francisco Hernandez on receipt of the information said that bolshevik propagandists are unwelcome here and if they attempt entry into the country they will be deported immediately. The commissioner reasserted the department's policy of extending welcome to desirable immigrants and said all undesirables would be refused permission to land.

WIFE HELD FOR KILLING SPOUSE ACCUSES CHILD

Claims She Saw Daughter Slay Father With Iron Bar

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 20.—Mrs. Frank Skibo was held by the police today in connection with the killing of her husband, who is believed to have been slain on his birthday late Thursday. She accuses her daughter, Mrs. Mary Putz, 19, of the killing. The man was slain with an iron par and the body thrown into an alley.

In spite of the mother's statement the police do not believe the girl killed her father, although she and her brother, Charles, 22, also are detained by the police pending the inquest.

Mrs. Putz and charles were at home Thursday night as was the mother, Skibo had been celebrating his birthday by drinking. Since that night he has not been seen alive. Yesterday the door of his room was kept locked and the children were not allowed by their mother to enter.

Early today the body was found in an alley at the rear of the Skibo home. When arrested Mrs. Skibo accused her daughter and said she had been awakened at night and looked through the keyhole and saw Mary kill her father with the iron bar. The girl told the police her mother was lying but did not directly accuse her mother.

RURAL PRESS EDITORS HEAR FAULTS NAMED

The Good Better Than The Bad, States Secretary Of Association

TYLER, Texas, June 20.—(AP)—Some of the faults of the country newspaper publishers observed by the secretary of the Texas Press association Sam P. Harben of Richardson, were detailed today by Mr. Harben at the convention of the association meeting here.

"After serving the association seventeen years as secretary," said Mr. Harben, "I have almost come to the conclusion that we are like the old Quakers all queer and I can almost tell by looking at your envelopes before I tear open my exchanges the things about you that I think I know and probably you don't know yourself.

Neglect, Greatest Fault.

"I believe the greatest fault that I could place my finger on, that is chargeable to a large per cent of the weekly publishers, is covered by the one word, neglect. As a whole you pay very little attention to your correspondence; have little or no system in carrying out your advertising contracts; and are grossly careless in many ways that cost you money. It is my opinion after trying to fight the advertising game in a small way for you, during the last six or eight years, that you are losing quite a volume of outside advertising from the fact that the advertiser or the advertising agent finds it so difficult to secure answers to their inquiry and proof copies of advertising after you have carried it.

"The last 15 years has witnessed a decided improvement in the methods adopted or employed by our weekly papers, and it is gratifying to know that today less than three per cent are o nthe C. O. D. list of the supply houses against more than 60 per cent a decade ago. Then I find that the average advertising rate secured by the weekly paper today is a little above 25 cents an inch against eight cents existing 15 years ago, and when I place this o nthe credit side of the ledger, your other faults are probably more than over balanced by the improvement you have made and are making.

Ship Parts of Letter.

"Your secretary finds, among other things, in sending out instructions to the membership that many of you open a letter but evidently never read the text because in scores of instances we receive from one to three inquiries from the same party asking the same questions even after we have made the same answer each time. It is evident therefore to me that another thing we could daily do is to think more and give more attention to the little details that seem not worth while at the time but which if taken under careful consideration would obviate quite a lot of correspondence and unnecessory misunderstandings. There are no better ppeople in the world than the country newspapermen, boys and girls, and I love all of you, and never a requst is sent you to help or a task assigned you but what you are ready to do your part as far as you can, and when all is summed up I find much more of the good things than the faulty ones."

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The ply harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, sofetener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rose-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

Woman With Baby In Arms Claims Another Has Her Husband, Spouse Is Sought

NEW ORLEANS, June 20.—Mrs. Alice Marie Rosenbloom was surprised in her home here by the arrival of Mrs. Nellie Rosenbloom with a baby in her arms, who announced that they both have the same husband. They appealed to the police who investigated and announced today that charges of bigamy had been filed against Ben Rosenbloom in Jefferson parish.

The first Mrs. Rosenbloom said she was married to Ben Rosenbloom in Minneapolis in 1919 and that he deserted her in 1923. The second Mrs. Rosenbloom, who was married about a year ago, expects soon to become a mother. She told police her husband went to Sandusky, Ohio, in April and had been sending her money from there.

GRANGER MECHANIC KILLED.

Blacksmith Placed Under Bond After Fatal Shooting.

GRANGER, Texas, June 20.—Cleburne Toole, 36, a mechanic in a local garage, was shot and killed here Friday night shortly after 8 o'clock. A. A. Landrum, blacksmith, was placed under bond of $5,000 by Justice Sam Davis in connection with the slaying. Two loads of shot from a double-barrel shotgun are said to have struck Toole.

Both men are married and have children. The body of Toole will be sent to Temple for burial.

GIRL ABDUCTED IN FRONT OF A LIGHTED CAFE

San Antonio Officers Are Seeking Clues In Mystery

SAN ANTONIO, June 20.—A beautiful young woman, name unknown, was boldly abducted from in front of a brilliantly lighted downtown cafe early Saturday morning by a lone man, who drove alongside in an automobile, leaped out and hurled the girl into his car and sped away.

Such was the meager information upon which police were working Saturday to clear up the mystery and find the young woman. Meanwhile they are waiting the possible report of a missing woman to aid them in the search for the girl who was abducted.

The seizure and flight happened so suddenly that eye-witnesses to the abduction were powerless to interfere.

The young woman struggled and tried to scream but the man clutched her throat with his hand and stifled her cries.

Potash & Perlmutter Discuss This Here Evolution —By Montague Glass

"I see where a school teacher down in Tennessee is accused of Evolution, Mawruss," Abe Potash said the other day.

"There ain't no limit to what some people will do for money," Morris Perlmuttert remarked.

"Well, of course school teachers is so poorly paid that if he can make a little money on the side by committing Evolution, who can blame him?" Abe continued, "although if he gets convicted, Mawruss, I wouldn't be surprised if it goes very hard with him."

"What can a criminal get for committing Evolution in Tennessee?" Morris inquired.

"I don't know," Abe said, "but from the way his friends has come to his assistance and has hired Clarence Darrow the same lawyer which defended those young Chicago murderers, it's probably several years."

"It's a funny thing how up to maybe two years ago, you never heard of this here crime of Evolution, and today yet the papers is handing it just so much space as though it would be giving typhoid fever in the first degree to a millianaire the same like this McClintock case," Morris observed "which I see where they've even got William J. Bryan to help out the prosecution, so anxious are they that this school teacher shouldn't get away with Evolution the way these here Tea Pot Domers got away with murder."

"Maybe this here crime of Evolution is very hard to prove on a criminal unless they can get the victim to testify or at least produce a couple of eye witnesses who was on the scene when the Evolution took place," Abe said.

"Excuse me," Morris interrupted, "but how do you think a school teacher commits this here crime of Evolution? With a jimmy or something?"

"For all I know he does it with tracing paper or a fountain pen," Abe replied, "because when it comes to me and crimes, Mawruss, I mind my own business and they can't put you in jail for that."

"Can't they?" Morris retorted. "That's what distillers and saloon keepers thought and there's still hope for you, Abe. So therefore, Abe, it don't do even a business man no harm nowadays that he should be posted on what is crimes and what ain't, because I see by the papers that there was over forty-five thousand new laws passed last year and it's a 45,000 to 1 shot that you've broken at least one of them."

"Well this much I know anyhow," Abe said: "Committing Evolution is a crime only in Tennessee."

"And I suppose in all other states it's an amusement," Morris suggested.

"For my part Evolution could be a sickness like stomach trouble, or an exercise like golf," Abe declared, "because when an ignerammus like me has got for a partner such a philosophere like you, Mawruss, sooner or later he has got to listen to an explanation of practically everything, so go ahead, Mawruss: Act like you knew what you was talking about and tell me what is Evolution. I'm a married man and only last night I was to dinner with a couple of traveling men, so whatever Evolution is, I guess I could stand for it."

"What do you mean,—you could stand for it?" Morris exclaimed. "Do you suppose for one moment that Evolution is something young people shouldn't hear about because it wouldn't get past the National Board of Censors or something? Evolution is perfectly clean, Abe. A whole lot of decent respectable people talk about Evolution in their own home with ladies present."

"That is no test one way or the other, Mawruss," Abe said. "What so-called decent, respectable people talk about in their own home with ten years ago they would have blushed to tell their family physician in the strictest confidence even. So if that's what Evolution is, Mawruss, I don't blame the State of Tennessee in the slightest."

"Schmooes, Abe!" Morris cried. "Evolution is simply a scientific theory and the Tennessee legislature says that for a teacher to teach science to his pupils that way, is crime."

"Well, maybe it is," Abe agreed, "because while I don't know what way the New York teachers teach science to their pupils, y'understand, this much I'll tell you anyhow; the way they teach arithmetic, bookkeeping, and spelling to their pupils is also a crime, and as for handwritting, Mawruss, seemingly in New York, it ain't taught as a crime or otherwise. So therefore, Mawruss, judging by the office boys which we've hired on their bluff that they gradgawated from a prammar school, y'understand, a Tennessee schoolboy won't remember enough about Evolution to corrupt his mind not even if Evolution was translated from the French by a successful Broadway play writer and when first produced was being handled by the speculators for as high as twenty five dollars for a pair of orchestra seats in the twelfth row on the side."

"But there's a great many people claim that unless you teach a schoolboy Evolution as a part of science, you might just so well not teach him science at all," Morris said.

"And I suppose that's going to ruin the schoolboy's prospects for life, especially in the grocery business, the hardware business and all other businesses from the garment business up," Morris commented, "which if the Tennessee legislature is bound and determined that school teachers shouldn't teach schoolboys Evolution as a part of science, Mawruss, then I for one am in favor that they should let the science go and teach schoolboys Evolution as a part of wrapping up packages, adding up columns of figures and getting telephone messages straight. In fact, Mawruss, without going too deep into the matter of Evolution, I should say that it ain't the Evolution which is doing the Tennessee schoolboys harm. It's the science."

"Even science don't harm the mind so much as ignorance, Abe," Morris said.

"A certain amount of ignorance is good for a boy starting in business," Abe retorted. "We have had any number of young fellers come in here to learn the garment trade whose minds was so plumb full up of knowledge that there wasn't room in their brains for anything else,—especially the cloak and suit business. Year by year, n most States, they are learning the school children so much knowledge that all they are fit for is to go to college and become athaletes instead of going to business and becoming merchants. So therefore, Mawruss, if other states don't follow the State of Tennessee and put a stop to children learning knowledge, I look to see advertisements in the papers reading:

WANTED boy in business office, opportunity for advancement, must be dumb and not know much gradgawate of Tennessee high school preferred

That sort of want ad will get the right kind of boy, Mawruss. What do you think?"

"I think, Abe," Morris said, "you must have got your education in Tennessee. Anyhow, that's the way you talk."

TOP O' MORN STUFF

By BLONDY CROSS.

SPUDDERS AND BUFFS QUARREL ONCE MORE THIS AFTERNOON, AND THEN THE GANG HITS THE TRAIL FOR AN 18-DAY SPAN IN THE TOURIST ROLE, VISITING SIX CITIES OF THE TEXAS LEAGUE AND FORT WORTH.

• • •

More sad news. They take on the Cowtowners tomorrow.

• • •

Skipper Bud intends to southpaw 'em today, he says. Probably Lefty Stone.

• • •

GOOD BUT BAD.

Outside of all the other things that happened out there at the plant yesterday the saddest and yet one of the most sprightly fielding features of the afternoon's entertainment came in that final frame when Goff, Buff Port patrol, put on a slick exhibition of lofty acrobatics and pulled down Bodie's hefty hoist to the left field fence. The wallop packed the potentialities of a homer.

• • •

It would have been the tying run again, but wasn't.

• • •

SECRET'S OUT.

Don't blame the Spudders for losing. It's the sports writers' fault!

• • •

Nope, no crooked scribe has pilfered Tanner's luck charm, nor slipped up on the bunch and insidiously sneaked knockout drops into the team's coffee cups. Isn't anything like that.

• • •

But strange as it may seem, it's Wichita Falls sports writers who are the cause of the Spudders not leading the league today, the Cats and the rest of the teams notwithstanding.

• • •

QUITE BRIGHT.

Highly intelligent and exceedingly irritated fan has come right out in the open and given the definition. Scribes ought to bawl out Spudders when they lose, roast 'em in big black ugly type when they make mistakes. Then they'd start winning. Sure.

• • •

Sounds like squirting kerosene on a fire trying to put it out, or throwing rocks at the sun because the light hurts your eyes, or maybe kicking a brick because you stumped your toe on it.

• • •

OH YES.

Spudders this afternoon will wind up an 11-day home stand. They've lost three games out of 11 played. One was a tie. Now, if it hadn't been for the sports writers in this city, they'd have grabbed all 11, indicates fan we're speaking of, and there're a few others, sad to say, who are with him.

• • •

SHAMEFUL.

They ought to lock 'em up, dog-gone dishonest scribes who, no doubt, premeditatedly and deliberately allow fandom to suffer so cruelly by refusing to make Spudders win.

• • •

Blame it on the scribes when they lose. Yeah, State of Texas has select number of keepers for folks who don't talk even as foolish.

• • •

Fact of the matter is, sapping at a fellow for making a mistake never corrected the error yet. Bud Tanner's managing the Spudders, not the sports writers.

• • •

And Spudders don't enjoy losing, making mental miscues, or booting the ball any more than anybody else. They're in there fighting, regardless of what some wiseacre may up and blah about. And if they don't, Prexy R. O. Harvey and Archie Tanner are the men who suffer the most, and they're the men who will do the correcting.

• • •

Only way Spuds will win every day is let grandstand managers play.

• • •

Bud ought to confer with grandstand boys before each maneuver. Only thing wrong about that is the conferences would be so lengthy before each settlement could be arrived at that they'd have to start playing at daylight and quit about the fifth inning because of darkness.

• • •

GOODWIN HITS DOUBLE IN 8TH TO STOW TILT

Bodie Slams Home Run In Seventh With Pair On Sacks

By MACK TURNER

Manager Marvin Goodwin of the Buffs doubled in the eighth stanza Saturday of a hectic confest with a pair on the runways. The clout proved the finishing punch for the Spudders Both runners scored, and Wichita Falls went down, 10 to 9, making the series even-Stephen. Each team has won one and lost another. Sutherland was the victim of the smash. George Distel continued his great hitting by collecting three singles in five times at bat. Frankie Fuller, Houston keystoner hopped three singles in four times up to lead the day's hitters. Howard Fitzgerald had a great day in center with seven put outs and two assists. Ping Bodie bounced his twentieth home run over the left field fence with Distel and Callaghan perched on the bags in the seventh. Bodie's drive tied the issue at 8-8.

Spuds Four in Second

Carlos Williams set the Buffs back in order in the first three innings. His mates pounded out a four-run lead in the second. Dorman waited until the count was three-two on him then drove a sharp single to center. Golvin sent a sacrifice bunt to Barnes who threw wide to second to get Dorman and all hands were safe. Turgeon bunted to third and was thrown out at first. Gainer was pulled off for the bunt and Fuller took the throw at the bag. Both runners advanced a notch on the play. Jonnard was purposely passed filling the bases. Williams skied to center and Dorman scored after the catch. The other two runners advanced a base on the throw. Distel singled to left scoring Golvin and Jonnard. Callaghan's single to right sent Distel to third. On a return throw to the pitcher by the catcher, Barnes let the ball get away from him and Distel scored. Barnes made a try for him, but failed. McCurdy chunked Callaghan out trying to make second.

The Buffs counted three in the third inning. Kane singled to right and Gallagher walked. Goff's easy grounder took a bad skid under Dorman and went for a single. Kane scored and Gallagher went to second. Gainer lined out to Fitzgerald, no advance. Compton doubled to left center, scoring Gallagher. Goff attempted to score and was thrown out, Fitzgerald to Distel to Jonnard. Peel singled to center scoring Compton. McCurdy grounde uot.

Buffs Tie It in Sixth.

Houston tied the count in the sixth inning. Goff and Gainer walked. Compton's grounder took a high hop over Dorman and went for a single. Goff scored and Gainer went to second. Callaghan took Peel's long fly against the left field palings. McCurdy hoisted out to Fitzgerald. Gainer ran off the bag before the catch.

Williams took Fitzgerald's throw and stepped on the base for the put-out.

The Tannerites battled again into the lead in the sixth frame. After Fitzgerald had skied to center Kane threw away Dorman's grounder and Freddie romped to second. Golvin popped out to Fuller. Turgeon poked a single to center. Peel's throw to the plate went wide and glanced off Dorman's back as he headed for home. Turgeon took third before the ball was retrieved. Jonnard rolled out Fuller to Gainer.

Both sides scored heavily in the seventh, each counting four markers. Fuller led off with a single to center and took second when the ball got by Fitzgerald. Barnes doubled to right scoring Fuller. Winn took up the mound duties here. Kane singled to left, sending Barnes to third and taking second on the throw to third. Winn deflected Gallagher's grounder off his glove to Distel. Distel held all runners to the bags before throwing the runner out at first. Goff singled to left scoring Barnes and Kane. Gainer singled to right sending Goff to third. Compton forced Gainer at second, short to second. Goff scored. Peel flied to Callaghan.

Ping Homers.

Tanner batted for Winn in the seventh and grounded out third to first. Distel and Callaghan singled to center. Goff came in on Bodie's drive and misjudged it. The ball bounced over the fence. Distel and Callaghan scored ahead of him. Fitzgerald doubled to the right field fence as it began to rain. Goodwin went to the mound for Houston. With Dorman up the game was delayed on account of rain for a ten-minute period. Dorman walked after play was resumed. Golvin hit to the pitcher who tagged him on the line. Goodwin thinking this was the third out tossed the ball over his shoulder to the mound and Fitzgerald scored before it could be recovered.

McCurdy's long double. Fuller's single to left and Goodwin's double to the right field fence decided the game in the eighth.

The Spuds had a slim chance in the ninth when with one away Ping Bodie lined one to the fence. Goff backed up against the boards and took in the drive after a hard stretch.

RAINS ON HALF OF STREET.

Port Arthur Rain Cuts Street in Half.

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, June 20.—A freak rain here recently is still the subject of conversation. The rain defined a clearly marked line along the center of the city's long principle street. Pedestrians on one side had to scurry to cover while those on the other side stood at the edge of the walk and watched the hurry of persons on the wet side.

What's Behind a Name and a Nickname?

—By Ed Hughes

The release of the colorful "Spark Plug" Matthews from the Senators the other day recalls the study of the nickname in sports. "Spark Plug" was an apt sobriquet for the erratic young outfielder who was a source of delight to the fans, and as often a torrent of care to managers. Ask Connie Mack and Clark Griffith. An athlete's nickname is generally born of his friends or the sports writers, more usually the latter.

Sometimes these nicknames are quaintly expressive; and not unusually inaccurate and without meaning—mere banalities without credit to the workings of gray matter.

Nicknames remind one of his friends. They often fail you when they shouldn't. As for instance, the case of Stuffy McInnis. McInnis played a whole season at first with only one error being charged against him. With such wafery nearness to perfection one would have thought a nickname could have been devised for McInnis which would preserve the magnificent performance. But none ever was, for the simple reason that "Stuffy" the first one to be hung on McInnis stuck—as "nicks" always do.

George Burns and George Sisler, for instance, are often alluded to as "the perfect ball players." McInnis should have been included in that one, it would seem.

The baseball writers have probably invented more colorful nicknames and otherwise, too, than any band of creatures extant. They spring from every conceivable whimsy of the mind. Joe McGinnity in the majors was famed for his inability to pitch and win both ends of a doubleheader. That was with the old Giants, and he is still turning the trick for Duluth in the minors at the age of fifty-five. "Iron Man" of course, was the obvious selection of the nickname dispensers, and well merited, too. There was nothing ingenious about it, yet what better appellation could have been tacked on Joe for his ability to perform such deeds of endurance?

Joe Dugan got his "nicker," "Jumping Joe," because he once had a penchant for jumping contracts. If a bloke happens to be tall then they promptly christen him "Long John" or whatever his first name happens to be. If he's an Indian then its unfailingly "Chief." Should he hail from a hick town, then more than likely it will be "Rube." If he has a strain of Teuton blood in him there is a juicy chance of his being dubbed "Heinie."

There are as many clever ones to match the dull, too Maranville is small and springy which made it possible to derive from this one of the best nicknames—"Rabbit." "The Georgia Peach" is another obvious deduction but how superbly it fits Ty Cobb. He is a peach and no mistake.

Ball players do not mind, in fact they usually probably enjoy the presence of nicknames. Still, ill-fitting nicknames sometimes annoy them. I know for a fact that Sam Jones is a bit nettled at the scribes referring to him as "Sad Sam." Jones admits that his face may appear thoughtful, perhaps, but he positively asserts that he is not a melancholy gentleman.

The fight game is not as rich today in nicknames as it used to be. Gene Tunney and Jimmy Slattery, two of the newly risen stars, are without any at all. Tunney is merely referred to as "the ex-marine." Slattery simply as "the wonderful Buffalo boy."

However, they did get a smart one for Mickey Walker, although it has not come into general use as yet.

Out Jersey way Mickey is known affectionately as "The Toy Bulldog," which is quite a bit to the point.

Dempsey is sometimes called "The Man Killer," but Jack always preferred to be known as "the champ." Firpo had the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" pinned to him, which was keenly becoming. He was very wild and about as graceful as a bull, albeit he had something of the ferocity of that animal.

Harry Greb is "The Windmill," but what of the great Leonard, Dundee and Villa? All ring-kings but with no nicknames worth mentioning.

Most every champ in the old days had a nickname. Sullivan was the "Old Roman." Jim Corbett was "Gentleman Jim." Fitz was "Ruby Robert." Jeff was the "California Grizzly" and "The Big Fellow." Jack Johnson was "Lil Artha." Joe Gans was the "Old Master." Nelson was "The Durable Dane." Wolgast the "Cadillac Wildcat." Terry McGovern "Terrible Terry," and so on.

What's the matter with the nicknames today? Do the fighters feel themselves too high and lofty to pack this passport of the plebian?

THE WEEK'S CARD.

Twilight league: Security Nationals tangle with Monroe's Travelers on the Jalonic street diamond this afternoon at 3 o'clock. It's the second game in the last half race for both teams. American Refiners hook up with Ludlam and Riggs Tuesday. The Wichita Falls Electrics play Texhomas Thursday.

Sunday school league: First Presbyterians are jibbed with Grace Methodists Monday. First Christians meet First Methodists Wednesday. Floral Heights Methodists are scheduled with First Baptists Friday.

TITLE SCRAP MONDAY.

Texhomas and American Refiners were tied for the top position in the first half of the Twilight loop marathon. This pair of teams who some declare are the class of the league, and the fact that they led the pack apparently bears this out) are scheduled to lock in a nine-inning titular clash at Spudder park this Monday afternoon. Game starts at 4 o'clock.

There will be an admission charge, but the total proceeds are to go to the milk and ice fund.

The Spudders will be out of town, but Spud fandom is assured of a good substitute game that will be well worth migration to the park this one time while the gang is away.

Ronie Glidewell, the Aemrican ace, and O'Dell McDuffy, young Texhoma slabster, are slated for mound duty.

Who'll take the grapes in this Texhoma-American play-off? That's what we've been asked at least one and a half times each by numerous innocent bystanders. The answer is: Huh?

Americans Take Game Serious.

You've got to hand it to Medford's crew for taking their baseball more seriously than the rest of the loop. That, probably, is why they're quoted the favorites over their Texhoma rivals. Doubtless there's no team in the organization which practices harder and oftener than the American outfit. Then, there's little argument but that Medford has the best pitcher, meaning Glidewell. And a team without pitching is like an aeroplane without wings.

• • •

But Texhoma may slip up on the Medfordmen. That would be ironical after the way the Americans have stopped Rabbit's nine in their last two engagements, but it's possible.

• • •

PIG IRON MAKES TRIP.

The well known Mr. Pig Iron Murrell plans the booking of a pair of games between the Travelers and a couple of fast Fort Worth semi-pro teams for July 4 and 5. Tentative agreement has been reached, and Pig Iron intends to close the contracts tomorrow while on a visit in Cowtown.

• • •

Murrell expects to go one further, and take a fling with the Palestine, Texas, association cellar habitues. Maybe Wichita Falls' lofty Twilight league twirler will pull the Pals out of the dungeon—maybe. From appearances, the Pals need somebody to pitch for 'em.

• • •

Len Smith, the Ludlam and Riggs twirler, got caught in the rain during early Twilight league games this season, and a cold set in his arm. He hasn't been able to get the kink out yet.

• • •

NOW YOU PICK ONE.

Mack Turner, the enthusiastic young sports writer, got hold of the office typewriter the other day and before he finished mangling the poor old wornout machine had knocked off what he termed an all-star Twilight league team. His selections caused quite a bit of comment. Others began picking their all-stars. Mrs. Johnny McMahon, feminine fan who has been following the play regularly, just naturally couldn't agree with Mack, so she stepped out and made a selection all of her own. Her choice: catchers, Tank Horton, Vernie Ross; first base, Lawrence Medford; second base, Herschel Johnson; shortstop, Raymond Windham; third base, Shadie Hale; left field, Johnny McMcMahon (hubby himself); center field, Riley Rawls; right field, Andy Taylor; pitchers, Ronie Glidewell, Choc Thompson, Pig Iron Murrell; utility, Rabbit Gordon.

• • •

McMahon, by the way, was loping around on crutches Saturday after a collision with Jimmy Shipley in a Sunday School league tilt Friday. Jimmy was dragging one foot, himself.

• • •

A Tight Race.

As the Twilighters swing into the second week of play in the last half of the split race, American Refiners and Monroe's Travelers stack up as the two teams that will have to scrap it out for the leadership. However, Texhoma still packs a potent threat, of course. Tied for the first half league leadership with the Americans, Rabbit Gordon's outfit cannot be overlooked.

• • •

Medford's Americans have defeated Texhomas twice already this year. The Travelers spurted late in the first half race and beat both the refining company teams.

• • •

Hugh Cotner's Security outfit is one team that, although not far up in the first half race, may fool the wiseacres before the season is over. This club, on paper, stacks up formidably, and if it ever gets to hitting on all cylinders should cause the leaders much trouble.

• • •

Clothiers Look Alive.

Len Smith informs the writer that Bub Davis, Ludlam and Riggs manager, will send a powerful club into the field Tuesday against the Refiners. Ben Powell, outfielder, and Abe Bashara, infielder, will beb ack in the lineup. Fat Mathis will take his turn at first again. With the return of this trio, the Clothiers will present their strongest front of the year to date.

Yale Big Three Diamond Champ

NEW York, June 20.—(AP)—Yale's baseball team triumphed over Princeton ten to 9 in 10 innings today. Captain Pond's sacrifice fly scoring Neale from third base with the winning run and giving the Blue the "big three" baseball championship of 1925.

MEADOWS FIRST TO WIN TEN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 20. — Lee Meadows, the Pirates' bespeckled pitcher, today holds the honor of being the first hurler in the National league to achieve 10 victories this season. He accomplished his 10th victory by pitching his teammates to a 9 to 6 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers at Pittsburgh yesterday.

Ed Hughes' Column

FARTHER NORTH THEY COME, HARDER THEY ARE

The news that Ervin Wide, Sweden's great distance runner, has smashed Paavo Nurmi's 2,000-meter record, following upon his successful assault a few days previous on the 3,000-meter mark, prompts the observation that perhaps Cal Coolidge omitted a few pertinent panegyrics whilst orating at the Norse Centennial recently. The Norse folk are all that Cal claimed for them and more. They are not only good citizens here, bue genuine empire builders, but something to talk about when the athletic whim seizes them, too.

Viking blood of the present generation has warmed quite as vigorously to American sports competition as the old Norse sea kings did to the then popular pastime of pillaging enemy coasts with bow and battle-ax. More important, the modern athletic Viking is doing things at home in a self-reliant and sometimes original fashion. This despite the fact that the improvement of Norway, Sweden and Denmark in athletics is due, indisputably to contact with American athletes, coaches and methods.

Sweden in particular had made lordly strides toward athletic formidability. The feats of Wide, Nurmi's only real rival, illustrate the case. Not so many years ago Sweden was saturated with the German idea of athletics—ponderous tugging at heavy bar-bells, the turn verein and general calisthenics. Muscular effort at the expense of a sharpening of the wits and a lubrication of the muscles which make for deftness, speed and general agility.

The awakening of Sweden, strange coincidence, was due to a native born Swede who early in life immigrated to America. Ernie Hjertberg was his name. After a creditable career in athletics here, mostly at cross-country running, Hjertberg became one of the most capable coaches this nation ever knew. Ernie, after abandoning the hill-and-dale stuff, turned out remarkable teams for the thirteenth and twenty-second regiments, the New York A. C., the now extinct Irish-Americans and Columbia university.

• • •

Some years ago Sweden, recognizing the fame of one of her own, and ambitious, athletically, sent for Ernie. Hjertberg went back, and promptly proceeded to rip loose the stodgy Teutonic notion of sports. He taught Sweden all he had ever picked up in this country—the fine arts of the sprints, hurdles, jumping, the weights, etc. And, as is too often the case, Ernie learned that the prophet is not without a high hat and a gold cane—save in his own country.

• • •

After Sweden had guzzled long enough at the Hjertberg font of athletic wisdom, she allowed him to depart. They should have made him Chancellor of the Exchequer, or something of the kind, but instead Ernie, today, is angling for a coaching job but one of the big American universities. However, Ernie has the consolation of knowing that pretty much anything that Sweden does today in the realm of sports may be credited to his tutelage.

• • •

Wide, by the way, is not the only world record breaker from the northern Europe kingdom. There is Arne Borg, a phenomenal young swimmer, now in this country. Borg holds numerous world marks over the longer distances, at which he can outswim our own Johnny Weismuller. At the Olympics in Paris, Johnny was mighty hard pressed defeating the Swede over shorter routes. Borg has acquired additional speed since then, having broken several of Weismuller's best marks for purely sprint affairs. Many competent critics assert that in time Borg will be the complete master of the Chicago boy in practically every style and distance of swimming.

• • •

NORWAY EMULATES.

Norway is emulating its neighbor, Sweden, in the matter of producing champion athletes. More remarkable, perhaps, than any other conquest by a foreign country is the event in which the record was made—one of the American "fixtures." Charlie Hoff, a young Norwegian, vaulted 13 feet 9 3/4 inches on July 22, 1923, at Denmark. This completely shattered the heights attained by the best American vaulters for decades—Foss, Meyers and the rest.

The Viking within the gate has blazed his name indelibly on American sports ledgers. Something of the old berserker quality bobs up every now and then in the professional prize ring. A doughty young man of Viking ancestry, for instance, became one of the greatest of American lightweight champions. He was Battling Nelson, the immortal "Durable Dane." Nelson was born in Copenhagen, Denmark. The ring never witnessed his kind before, nor has it since.

• • •

NELSON, THE BULLDOG

For pure, unadulterated bulldog courage and fighting spirit, Battling Nelson led all the lightweights that ever lived. His stamina, his durability under the most terrific poundings was extraordinary, to say the least.

Nelson, in his prime, was just about knockout-proof. The hardest hitters of his day bounced their best punches off his chin and body—and still Bat came on. He discouraged such terrific hitters as Young Corbett, Eddie Hanlon, Aurelia Herrera, Terry McGovern and even the "ole Master"—Joe Gans. And when they got through trying to drop him they were unable to hold up an arm. And Bat, taking his turn at the bat, pushed them over.

In addition to Nelson, the Viking has produced other celebrities of the upholstered mittens. Kid Carter, great middle and light-heavy of another day, was of Norse ancestry. So, too, was the Baltimore "Wolf Boy"—Kid Williams. Williams, rightly nick-named, was one of the most merciless, savage little fighting machines that ever won a bantam championship. Williams, whose name was Gutenko, first saw sunshine in Denmark. He was a really great champion, winning the title by knocking out Johnny Coulon in three rounds.

• • •

Gus Ruhlin, who could always (but once) master Tom Sharkey, was of Swedish extraction. He was the only first class Viking heavy the ring produced. He gave Fitzsimmons a terrific battle before being knocked out in the sixth. Ruhlin, however, was outclassed by Jeffries when he tried for the highest honors of the ring. Jeff "took" him in five. Maurice Thompson, who twice trimmed Stanley Ketchel when the latter was starting out, was of Norse blood. So, too, are Pete Hartley and Floyd Johnson. Thus endeth the Viking in the ring.

For Three Years, Gibson Has Tutored Flashy Gene for Shot At Championship

By ROBERT EDGREN.

Gene Tunney will have a better chance against Jack Dempsey than any other man the champion ever fought. He is the outstanding figure today among the champion's challengers.

For three years Tunney has been scientifically developed and prepared to fight for the world's heavyweight title. Three years ago Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, planned a campaign to lead to the championship. Tunney, when Gibson first took him in charge, was a light-heavyweight with some skill, plenty of fighting spirit, and a habit of breaking his hands in his anxiety to land a knockout punch. He was an unusually intelligent young boxer, and Gibson's experience has led him to consider intelligence much more important than bulk or muscle. Tunny's trouble with his hand started with his early matches. He was in the Marines during the war, and began boxing while in active service. He developed quickly and fought some of the biggest and best men in the army. He defeated Bob Martin in four rounds, winning the decision, and also beat Ted Jamison in ten rounds, taking the inter-allied light-heavyweight championship. When he came back from the war he started as a professional boxer and knocked out a lot of well known light-heavyweights. At that time Gene's ambition was to work his way to the top by tipping over all who stood in the way, and he swung his punches. A swinging punch is likely to be slightly inaccurate, and Gene broke his hands on two or three hard heads when he was shooting for the chin.

When Billy Gibson took charge he sent Gene up into the Maine woods to handle an axe in a lumber camp for a few months to strengthen his hands and forearms, so that he could hit effectively with a short punch. Then he had him study the knack of hitting straight, short blows and using hard driving hooks for the body. He made Tunney stop trying to knock his opponents out in a hurry, made him learn the art of defence, had him box a lot of fast and clever men so that he would learn how to avoid being hit, and how to take instant advantage of openings. All the time Tunney was improving his own hitting.

The result showed in several of his fights last year, when he beat Martin Burke, knocked out Erminio Spalla and Georges Carpentier, decisively outboxed Harry Greb for the third time, and outboxed the clever Jeff Smith in a 15 round no-decision bout at New Orleans. Tunney was beginning to show that he could either box or fight. He was taking a college course in fighting, under professor Gibson, who has had a score of champions fighting in his club during the past 30 years, has made thousands of matches, has studied them all keenly, and who developed Benny Leonard from a novice without a punch to one of the cleverest fighting lightweight champions in ring history.

Until Tunney knocked out Spalla he had the reputation of being too cautious in the ring. In fact he was fighting according to Gibson's directions and restraining his own inclinations to go in and trade wallops. He saw other promising heavyweights come along and flash into prominence for a few months by slugging their way through a few fights, only to be slugged in turn and drop out of the news columns.

No college athlete ever lived more cleanly and trained more consciously than Tunney. Gene lived in the country, stayed away from the city except when he came into fight. He kept early hours, lived like an ancient Greek under training oath of of the Olympic champions. He never dissipated in any way.

As a result he developed a perfect physique, perfect co-ordination of nerve and muscle and brain. He grew into a heavyweight.

This year Tunney is ready to go after the big title. The bout with Gibbons was taken on to bring him into a challenging position, for Dempsey cabled Gibson that if Tunney beat Gibbons Tunney's challenge will be accepted by the champion "If the promoters make a suitable offer."

Tunney's Victory Convinces Most Skeptical He Has Sock

In knocking out Tom Gibbons in twelve rounds—the first time Gibbons was ever knocked out or even dropped to the floor in his fourteen years of fighting, Tunney showed the public the result of scientific preparation. He fought like a champion through every round. There was not a single weak spot in his work.

Tunney went into that fight with a carefully laid plan, and never forgot it. The fight had hardly gone three rounds before the crowd felt that Tunney was master and that Gibbons was in for a beating. All the craft of the veteran who stoop the craft of the veteran who stood useless against Tunney.

Carpentier couldn't lay a glove on Gibbons. Tom's defense was good against Dempsey. But Tunney penetrated his defence easily and often. Gibbons has a trick of forcing his way in, both arms protecting his chin, his body drawn back out of range, swaying to offer an elusive target and to add force to his punch when he finds an opening.

When he tried this Tunney did something that no other fighter has ever been able to do. He stood straight, refusing to take a backward step, and peppered Tom continually about the head with a short, jarring left that held him away, threw him off balance, kept him from "setting" for a punch, and gradually wore him down. When Tom rushed in desperately Tunney shifted a bit to one side or the other and drove in terrific body punches. Only once in the fight was Tunney in danger. Then a hard smash in the body slowed him up visibly for a minute or two, but he fought so steadily that Gibbons couldn't press his advantage, and in the next round Tunney was fast and strong as ever.

Throughout the bout Tunney was too fast to be hit effectively. He had the defensive skill developed in many cautiously fought bouts, when Billy Gibson wouldn't let him cut loose his heavy punches. He had the speed and skill to land punches almost at will. And when Tom, dazed and weary, relaxed for a single moment in the twelfth round, Gene shot over the hard straight right punch to the jaw that he had been reserving for the knockout. That punch was a paralyzer. It might have dropped any other heavyweight.

Tunney May Stand Wonderful Chance Against Champ of Today

Tunney today is a much better fighter than Gibbons was at Shelby. He is faster, stronger, bigger, and a harder hitter.

Jack Dempsey always says, when you ask him, that he likes to fight big men. They move slowly and they're easy t obit. Dempsey has a punch in either hand that discounts strength and bulk. But he admits that it's much harder to place that punch right on a swiftly moving target. He pictures Harry Greb as his idea of a hard man to fight, because Greb is always moving.

If Gene Tunney fights Dempsey it will be a real championship battle, and very likely it will go ten rounds or more. I don't think Tunney has developed far enough yet to have a chance in the world to beat Dempsey as Dempsey was at Toledo, but Jack never will be in his Toledo condition again. He has grown bigger. His ambition isn't so keep. He has soft years behind him now, instead of leand years before the Toledo fight. If he has slowed up appreciably through not fighting often enough and through living too luxuriously, Tunney may beat him. The wiry, nervous Dempsey of five years ago, with the speed of a featherweight, the endurance of a Jeffries, and the fastest and hardes punch ever carried by a champion, was unbeatable.

Against Dempsey, Tunney would fight much as he did against Gibbons, using his speed to keep out o ftrouble and to get in with sharp of trouble and to get in with sharp hardly hold Dempsey off the way he did Gibbons, by standing straight and using short, jerking punches at his head, because Dempsey doesn't uncover, bends over, leaping in with furious blows. He doesn't sway as he used to, and he is much easier to hit because he moves in straight lines.

It would be Tunney's plan to hit sharply and slide away, to keep moving every second of the time, and make Dempsey keep moving, to use his favorite body punch at every opportunity. His hope would be that Dempsey might tire and grow slow. If he found that skill and speed couldn't offset Dempsey's powerful buch he might have to risk everything to get a right hand punch home on Dempsey's chin. Even there Tunney would have taken a chance. Spalla is square jawed and rugged, built to take punches, and the first right hand Tunney let go in the Spalla fight knocked one side of the Italian's face out of shape and floored him. The body punch that finished Carpentier or the right that Dropped Gibbons might stagger Dempsey.

However the fight went, it would be worth looking at. Entirely a different proposition from a Dempsey-Wills bout, which could hardly be anything but a slugging bee on Dempsey's part and a holding, wrestling, mauling match on the side of Wills.

Two of Best in League

TANK HORTON

RILEY RAWLS

Riley Rawls, outfielder with Monroe's Travelers, and Tank Horton, former Security National bank cwecher, have been picked as two of the best players at their relative positions in the Twilight league. Whenever any of the boys start selecting mythical all-star teams Rawls and Horton are among the first to be named.

Rawls is hitting at a .345 clip for the Travelers and plays the outfield in brilliant fashion. The Travelers, by the way, are doped by many as the real dark horse in the second half Twilight race.

Horton, a natural catcher and possibly the best in the league, will be seen in an American uniform hereafter. And we have a sneaking feeling that Manager Medford delayed the play-off scheduled for Monday with Texhomas for the championship of the first half as long he could so Tank would be eligible to play.

Glenna Snares French Feminine Golfing Crown

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—Miss Glenna Collett's triumph today in France where she defeated Mlle. Simone de LaChaume for the French women's golf championship took some of the sting from her defeat last month by Miss Joyce Wethered at Troon in the British ladies' open and makes it possible for the American girl to return home with one of the two major title she sought in Europe.

Miss Collett's French triumph adds to her already long list of link honors. The Providence girl captured the American national in 1922 and she also has held the Canadian, the Eastern association and the North and South championships.

San Antonio Noses Shreveport, and Fort Worth Beats Beaumont

BEAR-SPORT SCRAP GOES 11 STANZAS

Dallas Cleans up on Waco By Topheavy Score Of 12-2

SHREVEPORT, June 20.—Two home runs by Warwick who subbed at first base for "Mule" Washburn, gave San Antonio an 11-inning victory over Shreveport today, 4 to 3. The first four-bagger came in the fifth and accounted for the first tally of the game and the second circuit blow came in the eleventh after two were out. Pat Malone gave the Sports a fighting chance in the eighth when he batted for Joe Burns and hit over the right field wall with a man on base. It tied the count. Both teams scores in the eighth. HANS EXONERATED

German Pugilists' Federation Reinstates Ring Idol.

BERLIN, June 20.—Hans Breitenstraeter, idol of German prize fight followers, who was fined 5,000 marks for unfair fighting in a bout with Piet Vanderver of Holland on May 5, has been exonerated by the German Pugilists' Federation to whom he appealed his case.

Expert witnesses agreed Breitenstraeter fought as hard as he could, but Vanderver, they said, seemed to lack the will to fight. The federation therefore barred Vanderver from fighting in Germany for six months.

Chinese pictures suggest rather than relate the story.

Twilighters' Batting Averages

Kerr of Monroe's Travelers led the Twilight league batsmen at the close of the first half race, Thursday, June 11, with an average of .600.

American Refiners' pitcher-outfielder, is the real league leader with a mark of .577, slapping 15 hits out of 26 trips to the plate, technically speaking. Glen Coolidge of the Wichita Falls Electricians came out of a slump late in the race and connected for 12 safeties out of 17 times at bat. He has driven out 14 hits in all out of 27 at bat, for an average of .519. Lawrence Medford, American Refiners manager, comes next with a .451 figure.

Cobb, Heilmann, And Wingo Put On Slug Spurt

Detroit's Three Muskateers Push Hale and Rice For Lead

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—Ty Cobb, Harry Heilmann and Red Wingo, the three musketeers of the Detroit Tigers, today are crowding to the top of the American league in batting, forcing Sammy Hale of the Athletics and Harry Rice of St. Louis to travel a terrific clip to retain their leading positions.

Hale is going faster than his competitors and is setting the pace with .432, a gain of five points over last week's figure. Wingo gained one point and continue as runnerup with .426. Rice dropped three points, but is resting in third place with .414. Cobb is next with .405, and Heilmann fifth with .395. The figures include games of Wednesday.

Al Best Run Getter.

Al Simmons, Connie Mack's star outfielder, who has made more hits than any batter in the major league, 94, continues to be the best run getter in the Ban Johnson circuit. The Athletics' star has registered 56 times. He is trailing Heilman in batting with an average of .393, but has an impressive record of having bagged 18 doubles, three triples and 11 homers.

Ken Williams of the Browns is giving Bob Meusel a race for the home run honors, bagging 15 as compared to 16, for the Yankee star. Ruth finally broke into the home run class, but it takes considerable hunting to find his name. He has connected with three.

Johnny Mostil of the White Sox continues to burn up the paths in stealing bases and is far in front of his rivals with 21 thefts.

Other leading batters:

Fothergill, Detroit, .378; Speaker, Cleveland .376; Lamar, Philadelphia .373; Sisler, St. Louis .371; Boone, Boston .371; Combs, New York .367; S. Rice, Washington .363.

Rogers Polls Homers.

Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, champion batter of the National league for the last five years, is out after his sixth championship. In his last six games, Hornsby added nine hits to his collection for a gain of 11 points over his mark of a week ago, and today is topping the list with .416. The St. Louis star, in 1920, batted .370 for the highest honors. The following year he hit .397 and in 1922, ran up .401, his first time above the .400 mark. In 1923 he finished with .384 and last season had the high percentage of .423.

Not only is the Cardinals' manager leading the batters, pinch hitters and others, but he is leading the major league home run hitters with 17.

Earl Adams of the Cubs failed to increase his stolen base record, but continues to lead with 15.

Other leading batters:

J. Wilson, Philadelphia .398; Bancroft, Boston .383; Wrightstone, Philadelphia .380; Harnhart, Pittsburgh .379; Bottomley, St. Louis .378; Stock Brooklyn .374; Burrus, Boston .372; Earl Smith, Pittsburgh .367; Hawks, Philadelphia .363; Grimm, Chicago .36;0 Carey, Pittsburgh .359.

CARROL BOXES SPEEDY BINYON TUESDAY NIGHT

Marvin Takes on Burns In Return go—Hooper Meets Jack

Jimmy Carrol, tough Fort Worth middleweight, squares off with Speedy Binyon Tuesday night in the ten-round main event o fthe Iowa Park American Legion weekly glove card at Lake Wichita, it has been announced.

Both boys are tough as a boot, something fans of this section are well aware of because they've fought in Wichita Falls rings off and on the past couple of years. Carrol and Binyon are of the slam-bang type of fighters, and if they get off well, may stage a terrific slugging match.

Tommy Marvin and Cyclone Burns, the two heavies who fought a hilarious ten-round draw at the Wichite theatre about two months back, are slated for a return ten-round engagement. The last Marvin-Burns fight was chockfull of action and fraught with knock-downs. It was a bloody affair.

Lou Hooper and Jack Deaton have been matched for an eight-rounder.

There are to be several preliminary bouts, it is understood.

This card stacks up as one that should produce gobs of action. All the boys are sluggers, and it is likely there will be several knockouts.

Harvard Poloists Beat West Point

RYE, N. Y., June 20.—(AP)—Playing with perfect co-ordination at top speed the Harvard horsemen defeated West Point in the final game of the intercollegiate polo tournament at the Worchester Baltimore Country club today the General Bullard collegiate championship trophy by a score of 8 to 3.

COCHRAN SHOOTS 66 AT GOLF CLUB FOR NEW RECORD

Thomas Cochran, Texas state amateur champion, has set a new record for the Wichita Falls Country club course. Playing a best ball match with J. L. Mayfield as partner against S. L. McDowell and Bill Strachan, club professional, the champion shot a 66. The old record was 71.

Cochran and Mayfield won the match with a 64. Mayfield came in on number 14 with a 4 against Cochran's 5, and a 3 on the eighteenth against Cochran's 4.

Cochran's card:
Out: 344 342 445—33.
In: 234, 355, 344—33—66.

Golf

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

By BILL STRACHAN
Wichita Falls Country Club Golf Professional.

Waiting for the clubhead to come through is one of the most difficult things that we have to do in golf. The duffer is not the only one that finds this a hard thing to accomplish week in and week out.

When the star performer is off his game it is usually due to lack of timing. In the case of most golfers who fail to wait for the clubhead it is over anxiety to hit a long ball and the shot is usually pressed. The body attempts to do its part too quickly and the result is a slice or a shot that is pushed to the right.

At the moment o fthe impact the stance should be the same as in the address. The left heel should come down at the fraction of a second before the ball is hit but both feet should remain on the ground until the ball is started on its way.

McDowell Low Score So Far In Qualifying Round

H. M. Kellher won the "kickers'" tournament held at the Country club Saturday. Earl Clayton was second and Thomas Cochran came third.

Part of the qualifying round in the tournament play for the championship of the club was run off. The round is to be completed today. The lowest score turned in so far was made by S. L. McDowell, who shot a 74.

SPEEDY SPARKS TO BATTLE VINCENT AGUILAR IN LEGION FISTIC FINA L THURSDAY EVE

Middleweights Slated for Ten-Rounder With Sparks Quoted As Favorite By Many

By BLONDY CROSS

Speedy Sparks, the clever middleweight who has performed in Wichita Falls rings a number of times over the past several years, has been matched to toss mittens with Vicente Aguilar, the classy Mexican face frescoer who recently flocked into the middle of the Wichita Falls cauliflower colony, announces Promoter Don Wofford.

The men are billed for a 10-rounder as the feature fistcuff of the weekly American legion leather program next Thursday night in the legion punch parlor at Eleventh and Ohio.

How'll you place your shekels? Who's the better miller of the two? There's a question for the sages to study over at length before giving an answer. The writer's on the fence, at least, temporarily.

You can find out (and won't have to search very far), ring bugs who'll tell you that no man his weight can topple Sparks. Oh, yes, they're a number who can beat him. And just between you and your's truly, there really are some boys who can put the dream poke to him, too. But you can't make everybody believe that, except by producing the lad who can turn the trick and then sicking him on Speedy. There may be a few boys in the middleweight class who can outbox Speedy, but they won't kayo him, this enthusiastic followers aver. And they haven't done it yet!

Aguilar broke into the middle of the local fistic all unheralded. He put on a whirlwind exhibition with one of his stable mates, and then romped out to the small towns of north and west Texas to win a series of bouts hands down. He came back later and stopped Rube Hurray in a round. Friday night, he kicked Mutt Browning at Breckenridge in six rounds.

The scrapping brother from the land of the Aztecs evidently has the goods. He seems to be the berries as far as this section is concerned, but can he stop Sparks? That's something else. Speedy, we believe, is a far better fighter than any Aguilar has met yet.

Sparks recently has returned from a tour of the Pacific coast where, they say, he was highly successful. He is exceedingly fast for his weight, and a good ring general, but at times in his other fights here failed to mix it quite as much as fandom would have had him do.

If Speedy will cut loose with Aguilar, the fight should be a merry one—as long as it lasts. The Mex can hit, and if he lands squarely may drop his American opponent But pre-fight dope has it the scrap will go the limit.

Sparks can't stop Aguilar, we believe. But the odds favor him for a decision.

Blas Rodriguez, the Torreon midget will meet "Kid Pancho, Jr." in a six or eight-round semi-final, says Wofford. "Pancho Junior" is a little Mexican who hails from Dallas, and because his style is so much like the original Kid Pancho of San Antonio has been given the monicker of Kid Junior.

Wildcat Monte, Wichita Falls junior lightweight, is going to take on somebody, according to the promoter. No opponent has been selected.

Gulley Tops Hitters In Southern Ass'n

In the Southern Association, Gulley of Little Rock, Smith, Atlanta, and Anderson of Chattanooga, who were deadlocked for batting honors a week ago, have parted company. Gulley shot to the top with an average of .404, with Anderson pressing him with .403. Smith was relegated to third place with .383. Good of Atlanta, who was in the "400" class a week ago, is fourth with .385, with Eichrodt of Nashville fifth with .393.

Stewart of Birmingham failed to increase his base stealing mark, but remains safely in front with 26. Cullop of Atlanta is leading in home run hitting with thirteen. Gulley is trailing with eleven.

FARMER NEAR VERNON DIES DURING NIGHT

Cause of Death Given As Case of Acute Indigestion

VERNON, June 20.—H. A. Bell, 71, citizen of the north part of Wilbarger county since 1883, was found dead in bed at his home near Odell this morning.

Mr. Bell ate a hearty supper and was apparently in good health. In the night he asked his wife to fix him a dose of medicine, as he was suffering from indigestion, which she did, and as he seemed easy she retired in another room. This morning the family found him dead. Physicians called pronounced his death due to acute indigestion.

Funeral services will be held by Rev. W. L. Jenkins of Odell, pastor of Methodist church, at his home. Burial will take place in the Bell cemetery on his farm, which was given by him as a public burying ground. The dead man owned 1,728 acres of the best land in the county. He was a member of the Methodist church and is survived by his widow and six sons, all living near him. The sons are W. F., W. A., R. E., A. L., L. C. and S. A. Bell.

Altus Highway Is Being Repaired

ALTUS, Okla., June 20.—A bad stretch of road extending from the Red river bridge on the Wichita Falls-Altus highway to within a short distance of Eldorado is being improved by a claying and graveling process according to County Engineer John W. Riley.

GAY YOUTH USED TOO MUCH.

Growing Feeling Among Germans Against Youth in Politics.

BERLIN, June 20.—There seems to be a growing feeling among many Germans of various classes that the young republic has gone too far in using youth for political purposes. It is charged that the extremists of both the right and the left have tried to rear youngsters from their early childhood in an atmosphere of political strife. Children's parades regularly are formed as parts of political demonstration. It is argued by opponents of this tendency that it means inculcating into youth hatred, bigotry and narrow mindedness and championship of one side. Not only has a vigorous press campaign set in against the practices, but the Prussian minister of the interior recently issued an order commanding the police to interfere energetically when politically organized youngsters cause disturbances.

HEAT HURTS THE THEATERS

Hot Weather Causes Decrease in Number of Theater Goers.

LONDON, June 20.—While ice cream concerns and devotees of outdoor sports are extolling England's present hot dry spell, the theater proprietors are bemoaning their fate and praying for rain and cooler weather.

Few people are inclined to attend the theater in warm nights and brilliant actors performing noted plays are facing empty houses. One prominent west end theater took in but 50 pounds last week, others record rows of vacant seats, and the majority of the remainder are barely meeting their expenses.

The weather at this time of year is usually cold and wet.

Italy had 700,000 visitors in 1923.

B. Y. P. U. WILL WAGE WAR ON 'JELLY BEANS'

State Organization to Fight Flappers at Encampment

DALLAS, Tex., June 20.—War on "jelly beans," "flappers," "lounge lizards" and similar types have been declared by religious organizations such as the Baptist Young Peoples' Union, which opens its twenty-fourth encampment and its twenty-fifth annual convention at Palacios July 3 continuing through July 12.

According to T. C. Gardner of Dallas, general secretary, the B. Y. P. U. annual encampments, where thousands of young people gather, constitute a distinct counter-action to certain tendencies of modern youth. The social evils of the day are combatted by bringing the young people together for social intercourse under religious influence, and this, according to Mr. Gardner, has kept many of them from falling into the class of street corner loafers who ind it easy to become criminals. Means of furthering this work will be discussed at the Palacios encampment and convention.

"Ninety percent of the criminals in this country never had any religious training," said Mr. Gardner, who took charge of the Texas B. Y. P. U. work in 1915. "We hope to sidetrack the crime wave with more religious training. By taking the young boys and girls off the street corners, and giving them an interesting social life within the church, we can save them. The social life of the youth who have come under the influence o the Baptist Young People's Union has been toned up many fold. They undoubtedly have come to better thinking and higher living.

"The reason there are so many 'jelly beans' and 'flappers' is because there are so many parents who are nothing but 'jelly beans' and 'flappers.' We want to reach the older types as well as the younger and we are doing it, through the B. Y. P. U. and similar organizations in other churches."

SWEETWATER CELEBRATES

July 4 to Be Gala Day for West Texas Town.

SWEETWATER, Texas, June 20.—An address by State Adjutant General Mark McGee, horse race, a rodeo headed by Bocgar Red, who is a well known performer, a boy scout rally from four adjoining counties, a barbecue for which 40 beeves will be slaughtered and a mammoth fireworks display are the features on the program scheduled at the annual two-day picnic and defense day observance of the local post of the American Legion, it was announced today. Two of the prize winning bands at Mineral Wells convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce including those from Colorado and Hermleigh as well as three local bands will be in the parade which opens the celebration.

AUTO HITS FIRE TRUCK.

Houston Woman Seriously Injured in Accident.

HOUSTON, June 20.—Mrs. H. P. Pate was badly injured this morning when an automobile she was driving collided with a fire truck. Her car overturned and pinned her beneath it. She was unconscious when firemen took her out. The extent of her injuries have not been learned. None of the firemen were injured, although the truck and automobile were both damaged.

PORT ARTHUR VOTES BONDS

$400,000 Water Bonds Passed By City.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., June 20.—Bonds totalling $400,000 have been voted by Port Arthur, the money to be used in putting in a fresh water supply system. The water is to be brought from the Neches river, more than 20 miles away, under a contract with an irrigation company which also supplies rice growers in Jefferson county. Storage and filteration basins will be built in Port Arthur.

Fable of How Weddings Have Sold Off —By George Ade

It came about that during this very June, in which we are now knee-deep, Rosalie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Jellaby, was fairly dragged to the Altar by Walter Dingleforth, whose Father owns the Furniture Factory and pays a limecracking Income Tax, even if he does hire an Expert to protect him, so that on the Day when their high-grade Offspring left them forever (maybe), Mr. and Mrs. Jellaby could hardly refrain from doing Jig Steps.

The Architect who planned the Jellaby Home had not counted on taking care of 200 Guests at one time, consequently, when the big Doings were pulled off, about half of the Ringside Spectators were parked in Hallways or Closets or on the Stairway. When the Bids went out, no one was overlooked because the Young People would need almost everything when they started in to furnished a large Apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jellaby decided to cut it wide and handsome because this would be their only Chance to make a Splash on the Society Page. Besides, they figured that it wouldn't cost any more to put on the Show than it would to keep Rosalie in Stockings for another Year. They were getting rid of the main Expense Account and could afford to bust over.

So they had a Strip of Red Carpet, Maiden-Hair Ferns, a special Harpist secreted behind Palms, a Caterer who brought a wagon-load of Indigestibles and a Rector who was so High Church that you couldn't understand what he said. Everything was Co-la la and right up to the Handle. A great Day for the Jellabys? You said it.

It was a Daylight Affair, 12 o'clock Central Time, with everything sped up because the Young Couple had to get the Limited so as to catch the Boat for Europe which Rosalie rather wanted to see as she never had been east of Akron.

The Main Bout went off great. It had been rehearsed until it was as smooth as a Belasco First Night. They had Bridesmaids, who looked like festooned Marshmallows, and terrified little Girls strewing Poises and a freshly-shaven Male Body Guard in Undertaking Costumes whose Collars were two tight. It was a regular Wedding. After the two Principals had been legally welded and the rabid Assemblage was fighting for obster Salad and Pimento Sandwiches, of course there were all sorts of Comments, mostly right out in the Open and favorable. Nearly everybody said that the Bride looked cunning and had done very well by herself in snaring a Gibbie who probably had a million already, with more in sight, and was sufficiently educated to sign Checks, even if he couldn't read a Book. What you might call an ideal Husband.

Kickless Punch.

among those who were trying to last it out was a ruddy old Bachelor who dated back to the Happy Days when they locked People up for discussing Birth Control, but permitted them to drink Abstinthe. He was sitting over in a corner with two ossified Crabs who could almost remember the Mexican War and he was telling them what a Hardship it was to get up at Sunrise in order to see some weak-brained Youth jump over the Precipice.

"It's all right if you suffer from Insomnia," said the unmarried Renegrade, "but now that I am up, what am I going to do all the rest of the Day? Whoever invented these 12 o'clock Weddings had a swell idea, with the reverse English. Wait till the Whistle blows and then hop to it. I am telling you that in the by-gone Era when Nights were not wasted on Slumber, it would have been impossible to have this Show at Noon. At that Hour the Groom was always in a Turkish Bath trying to get back on Earth after the Dinner for the Best Man, the Ushers and all others who happened to be thirsty. As a Rule the Lads didn't come up for Air until 6 p. m. No one knew when the Ceremony would take place. After all the Stragglers had answered the Roll-Call, then the Preacher was given the High Sign and told to shoot the Works."

"Have you tried the Punch?" asked one of the Old-Timers. "I suspect that the Coloring Matter is Aniline."

"I have wrapped myself around five of them, hoping against Hope," replied the Bachelor. "All of the Women still look Plain to me, so I suspect that the Recipe was borrowed from the Rockefeller Foundation. If the Stuff carried a Message, it must be in Code, because I can't get anything out of it."

A Rough House Meal.

"Things have come to a direful Pass when they get have one Plain Clothes Man to watch the Presents and two to watch the Guests. The Refreshments may contain a lot of vitamins but they are shy on Mirth and aLughter. No one wan's to make a Speech. The Bride hasn t been mussed up. The Decorations remain Stationary. I'll say the Party is a Flop."

In a scheduled Apartment where the ladies had stacked their Wraps a well preserved Matron was letting off Steam.

"I can remember," said she "when the Wedding Breakfast was a sitdown affair which lasted for Hours and all those present wouldn't have to eat anything for Days and Days after it was all over. Instead of putting 'R.S.V.P.' on the lower Corner of the Invite they shoul put "Cafe-'Cafeteria Service.' If you haven't trained for one of these Affairs the Chances are that by the time you got to the Trough there will be nothing left except Olives. The only safe Plan is to bring your own Lunch or else wear a Gymnasium Suit."

At this another Old Girl said that she could remember when Getting Married was an Event instead of a more incident. That is to say, when the Twain stood up to receive their Sentence there was much Weeping, because the Witnesses knew that both of them were in for Life.

"Khy don't they change the Wording?" she demanded. "Instead of that antiquated Apple Sauce about staying on the Job until 'death do us part,' why not make it, "until we get fed up on Each Other?' "

No Left-Over.

"Lady, you put a whole chapter into a couple of Lines," said the first Matron. "It seems only yesterday when all the Folks on the Side-Lines were worried about the little Fawn who was going to emerge from the Sheltered Life and assume the large Responsibilities of Life Nowadays the Fawn is just as timid as a Bengal Tiger. She has looked up his Nobs in Dun and Bradstreet and she knows, to a Nickel, what she can chake out of him every Year. She is stage managing the whole Spectacle and the Parents are taking Orders. If she seems Nervous it is because she is wondering if her Picture will show up all right in the Papers. I can even remember when the Brides used to faint. All that is out. Nowadays the Groom is the only one who looks as if he needed a Trained Nurse."

"Did you hear about the Secret Ballot taken at a school for Girls last Month?" asked her friend. "It seems that each of the Graduates was given a Questionaire, in which occurred the Query, 'Would you Marry just for Money?' The Returns showed that 99 per cent of the Sweet Young Things answered 'You know it,' and then underlined the Words.

"When I married my Abner I knew that he had put his Roll into the $14 Spark Diamond and owed for the suit in which he stood up but I took a Chance because I felt that his love for me was such that he could go out and get anything not spiked down. We rode away in a hired Hack and took a Day Coach to Springfield where we saw the Capitol Building and the first Electric Lights, everybody asking, 'Which one of them When I go to a Wedding now I hear who has the Coin?' It seems to be taken for granted that Nobody will tackle Matrimony unless there is Matrimony unless there is enough of enough of a Sinking Fund to take care of the Overhead."

In the meantime the Caterer was packing up and he was heard to tell one of the Colored Boys that there was no longer any Savage. He said that Weddings had become such a bore that the Mob tried to eat itself into Forgetfulness.

Why Jones Wasn't Elected —By James J. Montague

"After I was fired for trying to get the fat woman kidnapped," resumed the circus press agent, "I came back to the Big Town to look for work. None of the shows needed any publicity just at that time, for they were all so off color that the reform associations were giving them all the boost they needed to fill the houses.

"But a campaign was coming on in a little town up the state, and a cousin of mine was running for mayor. He came down here after he got the nomination, and asked me to dinner. He said that he had only lived in the place ten or twelve years, and wasn't very well known. What he needed was advertising and he wanted my advice as a publicity man about getting it.

"I told him right away that my health was perfectly good, so I made a point never to work for it. Also that I had resigned from my last position on account of a difference with the boss on a point of policy. This was by way of saying that I needed money.

"Well, it happened that he had plenty of money, having inherited it from a maiden aunt. All he wanted was the honor of being elected mayor, and then maybe of getting the nomination for governor and afterward president on account of the splendid record he would make. He had funny ideas about the way people climb the political ladder. After a little more talk it was decided that I was to go to his town the next day and take charge of the publicity of his campaign. I was to get a thousand dollars for the job and what money I needed for the promotion of his candidacy, provided it wasn't too much.

"I had never taken hold of a political campaign before, but I know people down to the ground of course, and I know just exactly how to get them interested. I once heard a governor of a great state say that it didn't make any difference what people said about you as long as they talked about you, so I made it my business to get this bird talked about.

"The first idea I took up with him was having him kidnapped, but he said this wouldn't do, because if he was to disappear during the campaign the party leaders would get together right away and put somebody in his place, which would, of course, spill all the beans for the time being, which was the time he had to take by the forelock.

"Then I suggested that he get sued for divorce, which would set people to talking faster than anything else that he knew; but he said his wife would object to that, and besides there were a good many people that were prejudiced against divorce. Right away I saw that this was a new business to me, and I would have to go careful and think up some stunt I hadn't ever used before.

"One day while we was still talking it over something he said gave me an idea:

"You ought to find some way to make a sort of hero out of me," he said. "People like heroes."

"You wouldn't notice it from the way they don't nominate General Pershing to the presidency," I said.

"Not that kind of heroes, but big hearted chaps who are always doing something for somebody."

"I see," I said, "after thinking that one over, "giving money away, and that sort of thing."

"No I don't mean that," he said quickly, "but I might do something for the children of the town—build them a swimming pool, maybe."

"With a creek running right around the edge of it? No. But I've got it."

"Well, what have you got?"

"Give the kids a big picnic. Load them into trucks and take them up to a mountain lake and let them fish and swim and play around and eat ice cream all day. That'll make a hit with their mothers and fathers if for no other reason than because it will be a good way to get rid of them for a day."

"That appealed to him, and I went right out and hired ten big trucks, and scattered handbills around town telling about the excursion which was to be two weeks in advance of the date.

"Also I hired a lot of young huskies around town to get the children together and to be sure that they got there. There was a double purpose in that, for these young rough necks were to get well paid and they would come in handy on election day.

"I got everything fixed up all right, with refreshments and all, and then the boss and me sat and waited confidentialy for results. We got them all right.

"Everybody was talking about his wonderful generosity in doing something substantial for the children instead of going around to the school houses and tiring them out with speeches when they wanted to get away. A hot spell that came along just then helped with the publicity, for it made the kids all crazy to go.

"Two days before the party me and the boss had to go down to the big town on some kind of business he had there. We were to get to the mountain lake on the morning of the picnic, and spend the whole day there helping the children to have a big time.

"It was hot right up to the day of the party, but the wind changed overnight, and in the morning it was raining like the mischief and a chilly wind was blowing. I wasn't there at the time. I heard about the weather afterward.

"But what did those roughnecks of ours care about a drop in temperature? Absolutely nothing whatever. They were to get a quarter apiece for every kid they took to the picnic, and they got about a thousand of them, grabbing them from the arms of protecting mothers, herding them out of barns where they were playing circus, and snatching them from grocery stores and butcher shops where they had been sent to get the morning's food supplies.

"There weren't any covers on the trucks, and the kids were rained on all the way out to the lake.

"Of course we ordered them all sent home, and got closed trucks to send them in, but by that time half of them had colds, and the other half were so mad at us that if we'd dared get into one of the trucks they'd have killed us.

"We were pretty near mobbed by their parents when we got to town, and threatened with law suits some of which we had to buy off.

"My cousin wasn't elected election day. He got two votes, his and mine, and I'm afraid I could have been arrested for casting mine because I wasn't a citizen of the burg.

"A press agent lives and learns, don't he? You got to have the right kind of publicity, or it ain't worth a rap."

Opening: January, 22.88; March, 23.00; July, 23.46; October, 22.78; December, 22.87.

NEW ORLEANS, June 20.—The Saturday session in the cotton market was a fairly active affair and prices were on the upward most of the day, mainly on failure of rain in the drouth stricken sections of Texas. Liverpool was about as due at the opening here, but the local market showed initial gains of 2 to 5 points. After advancing to 22.85 for October and 22.98 for December or 7 points above the close of yesterday, October eased off to 22.75 and December to 22.86. These were the day's lows. After the weather map showed fair rains in the east but little in the west and none at all in the drouth areas, the market rallied and the advance was increased when the official forecast promised generally fair weather for the entire belt over Sunday. October traded up to 23.09 and December to 23.26.

From these high points the market reacted slightly in the late trading on realizing by satisfied longs for over the week-end and the close showed net gains for the day of 14 points on July and 20 to 21 points on new crop months. New crop activity is extending to March in which there was fair trading today.

July fluctuated rather more violently than other months despite the small trading and after dropping to 23.00 in the first hour advanced to 23.65 in the second hour and closed at 23.58.

Exports today, 1,432 bales, all from Houston.

Grain

CHICAGO, June 20. — (AP) — Wheat prices underwent a material setback today after an early advance. The fact that the market showed a bulge of 9 cents a bushel as compared with the week's low point did a good deal to bring about increased selling in the last part of the day. Besides, enlarged receipts of new wheat next week were looked for in Kansas. Wheat closed heavy, ⅝c to 2¾c net lower, July $1.55 to $1.55¼ and September $1.53⅝ to $1.53¾, with corn ⅝ to 1⅝c off, oats ⅛c to 1¼c down and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 17 cents advance.

Corn and oats were influenced by the action of wheat and by reports of generally suspicious weather for the new corn crop.

In line with the hog market provisions averaged higher.

Produce

AUSTIN, June 20.—Tomato and watermelon markets today held their own well notwithstanding the usual week-end dullness. The former commodity was distinctly firm throughout the list of markets and some price advances were noted. Watermelon trading, however, was just fully steady at approximately unchanged price levels.

AUSTIN, June 20.—Egg receipts, New York, 15,687 cases; Chicago, 29,591 cases; Boston, 7,519 cases; Philadelphia, 4,714 cases. Storage gain of 28,365 cases, making stocks on hand, New York, 1,282,944 cases; Chicago, 1,433,127 cases; Boston, 350,939 cases; Philadelphia 340,007 cases.

Dressed poultry receipts, New York 291,527 pounds; Chicago, 40,315 pounds; Boston, 87,717 pounds; Philadelphia, 7,139 pounds. Storage loss, 300,595 pounds leaving stocks on hand New York, 16,234,758 pounds; Chicago, 18,345,350 pounds; Boston, 6,354,536 pounds; Philadelphia, 2,660,349 pounds.

AUSTIN, June 20.—Vegetable shipments yesterday were somewhat light from Texas. They consisted of 15 (incomplete) of 404 cars of watermelons, 21 of 180 cars of tomatoes, 4 of 22 onions, one of 223 peaches. Other shipments in which this state did not participate were as follows: String beans 5, apples 22, asparagus 4, cabbage 27, cantaloupes 192, celery 8, egg plant 5, grapefruit 5, cucumbers 202, green peas 6, lemonds 49, mixed deciduous 5, lettuce 23, mixed vegetables 50, oranges 110, potatoes 781, plums and prunes 9.

There was little change in shipping point situation yesterday. Cars of 24's at Poteet brought $1.50 cwt., 28's $2 to $2.10 and 30's $2.25 to $2.50. The deal is about closed with probably not more than five cars left to roll. Tomatoes at Jacksonville were slightly stronger. Unwrapped pinks sold cash track for mostly $1.10. Too few sales of greens were reported to establish a market. This deal is rapidly drawing to a close.

AUSTIN, June 20.—Poultry, butter and eggs this morning were all steady at approximately unchanged prices. Hens were listed at 17c springs 25 to 30c, old roosters 8c, turkeys 1½ to 17c pound liveweight, geese 75c, ducks 50 to 60c, guineas 25c each. Eggs brought $7.40 to $7.50 per 30 dozen case for fresh gathered firsts and $8 to $8.25 for nummer 1 candled. Packing stock country butter 20c, creamery A 43c, creamery B 41c.

TEXAS HAY

AUSTIN, June 20.—Hay markets are firm with prices averaging higher. Central western markets very little changed. New clover arriving Cincinnati, Timothy and prairie very firm. Alfalfa prices slightly higher.

No. 1 prairie, Kansas City $11, Omaha $11.75, Chicago $18, St. Louis $16.50, Minneapolis $18.

No. 1 timothy, Boston $25, New York $25, Pittsburgh $21.50, Chicago $25, St. Louis $25, Kansas City $17, Memphis $25.

BLUE SPECS IS THE LATEST.

German Police Ordered to Wear Blue Glasses in Sunlight.

BERLIN, June 20.—Prussia's policemen soon will hold the world's record for uniformity in the color scheme of their dress. Not only are their uniforms and caps blue but an order has been issued that policemen on finding strong sunlight interfering with the exercise of their duties as traffic director must wear blue spectacles.

This evolution to blue is a recent development. After the revolution the police wore green uniforms which obtained for them the popular epithet "the greene." The allies, however, objected to the color scheme, saying the green garb of the policemen too closely resembled the reichswehr uniform. In deferring to the wishes of the allies for another color, the police seem to have gone the whole distance, even prescribing blue as the color for their "specs."

Sinclair Victory Means More Wealth

NEW YORK, June 20.—As the result of Harry F. Sinclair's victory in the government's suit to set aside the Teapot Dome oil lease, the market value of outstanding Sinclair oil securities has increased nearly $13,000,000 already.

After the decision was announced yesterday the common stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation shot up 21-2 points to a high of 24 3-8 and first lien 6 per cent bonds of the corporation soared 4 3-4 points. Other bonds of the corporation scored lesser gains.

YOUTH FALLS FROM BOAT

Companion Dives for Him But Was Unable to Recover Body.

DENTON, Tex., June 20.—Clyde Needham, 17, of Graza, was drowned last night in the dredge basin of Lake Dallas, dam site near Graza, when he fell off a dredge boat. The body was recovered in about 20 minutes. Needham was working on the boat with Ersell Simpson. Simpson saw him fall into the water and dived in after him but was unable to bring him to the surface.

Padlocks Aid Fight On Galveston Booze

GALVESTON, June 20.—Deputy United States marshals continued today serving "padlock" injunctions against establishments in Galveston where liquor is said to have been sold. More than two dozen places were enjoined yesterday and several score more were in process of service today. It was indicated about 60 establishments involving some 400 persons were affected.

Those enjoined were given 20 days in which to appear before the court to show why the order should not be made permanent.

"It is our plan to close these places up for one year," Assistant Federal District Attorney E. P. Warnken said.

SHADOW BANDS ON EARTH DUE TO AIR--CLAIM

Scientists Say That Fast Moving Bands Caused By Atmosphere

PORTLAND, Ore., June 30.—That the shadow bands which race across the earth with awe-inspiring speed at the beginning and end of a total eclipse are atmospheris phenomena was declared proved by A. E. Douglass, director o Steward observatory, University of Arizona, Phoenix, Ariz., in a talk before the American Association for Advancement of Science.

"By certain studies made of the photographs of the January eclipse," he said, "we found that the bands were due to atmosphere by which certain characteristics of the atmosphere are made visible when the area of the sun is reduced to a very small quantity."

The old theory that volcanos are nature's safety valves was refuted by Dr. Arthur L. Day, director of the geophysical laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C.

"My observations at Kilauea and elsewhere indicate that volcanic explosions are local phenomena with gas operating as the contributing cause," Director Day declared.

Italian Princess Wedding Approved

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—The consent of the king and queen to the engagement of their second daughter, Princess Mafalda, to Prince Philip of Hesse was made public today.

TO OVERSUBSCRIBE FUND.

Seventh District Oklahoma Legion Is Donating Liberally.

ALTUS, Okla., June 20. — The seventh congressional district is expected to oversubscribe its allotment of $20,000 in the American Legion orphans endowment fund inasmuch as $15,000 had been raised by Wednesday, according to Waldo Oden, local lawyer, who is assistant district manager in the drive.

Greer, Kiowa, Beckham and Ellis counties have already oversubscribed their quotas and four other counties have passed the halfway mark. Mangum today oversubscribed her allotment of $1,200 by $2,000.

A two hour canvass of the business district of Altus resulted in the raising of $1,200 of the $2,100 quota in cash. Over $2,000 of Jackson county's $3,500 allotment had already been raised Wednesday evening despite the fact that campaign was not opened until early Wednesday.

The campaign will be staged in Washita county Friday and in Harmon and Roger Mills counties early next week. A large oversubscription is anticipated, Oden said.

Clemenceau Calls Himself Dead On Visit From House

PARIS, June 20.—"It is very kind of you to visit a dead man," said M. Clemenceau to Col. Edward M. House, when the latter called at the little cottage in the Rue Franklin to see the old Tiger the day after he landed in France.

"You are a long way from being dead; you are one of the greatest living men." Colonel House responded. He then paid a glowing tribute to the Tiger's work during and after the world war.

"You see," interrupted Clemenceau in the midst of the panygeric, "I am very much dead. You are making my funeral oration already."

Then, the story goes, they fell to talking of those hectic times of the peace conference.

FEW CASH ART ADMIRERS

Many Admire French Exhibits Bu. Few Buy Them.

LONDON, June 20.—Patrons of Royal Academy pictures are not numerous, and of the many hundreds of society folk who visited Burlington House for the academy's recent exhibition, only a few put their admiration of the artists' work into cash terms. Less than one hundred of the 650 oils exhibited have been sold.

One artist had quite a stroke of luck by selling four of six exhibits, these being small winter and garden scenes which appear popular for the moment.

The president of the academy, Sir Frank Dickee, sold his picture "Daughters of Eve" for 500 pounds or about $2,420.

War Launched On Bonus Traffickers

WASHINGTON, June 20.—As a result of the seizure of 235 soldier bonus certificates in the hands of one money lender in San Antonio, Texas, the secret service today declared war on those who are trafficking in certificates.

Russia Lifts Port Laws on Its Caviar To English Delight

LONDON, June 20.—London's gourmands are licking their lips, word having been received that the soviet government has lifted its embargo on the exportation of Russian caviar and that this article will soon reappear on the English market.

Since the war the Soviets have forbidden shipment of caviar owing to the scarcity at its native source, and for some time the genuine Russian article has been unobtainable here, an inferior variety selling at a high price.

Has New System for Rpnning Folks All Dissatisfied

Newspapers--Women --By Ring Lardner

Would Can All News Inciting Envy—Item on Beer Testing in Munich In Bad Taste—Women Folks All Dissatisfied.

By RING LARDNER.

To the editor:

Not long ago I seen a acct. of a debate between 2 college debate teams and the subject disgust was whether or not the newspapers should ought to publish crime news and whether the publication of same was libel to increase crime or decrease same and the acct. did not state what arguments was used on one side or the other side but the side that spoke vs. publication win the debate and what they must of argued was that the romance and heroics connected with a bold burglary or hold-up or murder inspires young readers to follow the example to say nothing of the financial gains enjoyed by the criminals till they get caught.

However the undersigned ain't never felt no crave towards law breaking by reading about it and if anything just the opp. and a specially when I follow the story up and see the finish of the boys that went wrong. The glory and excitement and currency which comes as a reward of grand larceny and etc. ain't never going to make up for spending a summer without golf at Ossining or Atlanta or wearing a piece of braided hemp for a neck tie.

Jack's Little Trinket.

They may of been quite a thrill to be got out of the story of Joe Diamond's iron nerve as he set in the chair waiting for them to turn on the current but when the story was printed Joe was where newspaper deliveries is very uncertain. And while a good many of us was no doubt envious at all them love letters the gals was writing to Gerald Chapman still and all I personly would rather have the postman hand me a dozen gas bills through my own front door than a 100 mash notes between the iron bars of a Connecticut death cell.

No I don't believe crime news makes others go and do like wise but I do think they should ought to be a censorship for newspapers which would bar out news that certainly does incite people to not only crimes of all kinds but to divorce, revolution, sedition, wife desertion, anarchy and all around nashing of teeth, the news I refer to being the hundreds of items and stories which appears in the entire month of May. The item said that the government and diet of Bar aria had adjourned for a whole day so as the memvers could make a thorough test of the new bock beer. In the face of such a item as that how is a person going to appreciate the beauties of a Long Island spring time or the fresh sweet milk supplied by she who we have aptly named Bessie.

Or the story that was printed in regards to the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempsey in N. Y. city and they have a bran new spick and span $1,500.00 automobile at the depot to meet them with a livered chauffeur and Mrs. Dempsey asked Jack if it belonged to some friend and he says no sweetheart it is just a little trinket I bought for you.. Well gents after that do you imagine hat she who I sometimes call by Mrs. is libel to get excited over the 60 cents worth of candy which I carefully selected at the station news stand as I dashed by to catch the 5:55?

I would rather have the postman hand me a dozen gas bills through my own front door than a 1,000 mash notes between the iron bars of a cell.

A dispatch of only 50 words from Munich spoiled the entire month of May for me.

5 & 10 Ads Only.

Or the story about Gloria getting rid of a Swede name like Swanson and becoming the Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudray at one fell swoop and when they have read that kind of news how is our women folks going to be satisfied with husbands named Jones and Brown and without no title to go with it except maybe licensed garbage inspector or even worthy kleugle?

Or a story like the one about the dame that come home from the other side a few weeks ago and had to pay a duty of 5,000 pounds on the new gowns and etc. she bought in gay Paris and when our gals reads stuff along those lines what a fat chance we have to argue with them about blowing as much as $85.00 on a complete new summer wardrobe.

Or a story like the one about the doctor that took out his own appendix without an antiseptic or nothing and smiled and chatted during the operation. Suppose your wife reads that, do you think she is geing to give you any sympathy when you moan and groan because you blistered a finger playing golf?

If I was running a newspaper I would put the quietus on all stories such as the above and also all passenger lists of steamers sailing for Europe, all news and pictures about Palm Beach or Pasadena in the winter time or Bar Harbor or Northern Michigan in the summer, all reference to the latest styles of women's dress in Paris, all mention of anybody's private yacht, all mention of any automobile costing more than $500.00 and all reference to real beer or to weddings where one of the contracting parties was worth more than $62.50 cash.

So much for the news columns. And as for the advertising I would limit it to the 5 and 10 cent stores and then not let themf mention more than 30 cents worth of their merchandise in any one ad.

Cal's Father Still Is a Crop Reporter

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The fact that he is the president's father has not swerved Colonel John Coolidge of Plymouth, Vt., from his duties as a crop and livestock reporter for the department of agriculture.

Although the formal inquiry concerning livestock conditions was discontinued by the department in February, Colonel Coolidge still is listed on its rolls and is considered available for gathering further data concerning agricultural conditions in his section of Vermont. He has faithfully performed his duties, officials in the crop estimating section said, when called upon.

REPORT BANDITRY IN CANTON

Hospital Cashier Is Shot With Money in Possession.

CANTON, June 20.—(AP)—Banditry made its appearance in Canton today when the cashier of the apanese hospital, who had just withdrawn $5,000 for hospital expenses from the Shameen (foreign settlement) bank, was shot just outside the French bridge connecting Shameen with the native city.

Waurika

GOES TO RANGER.

Mrs. Ora Trollinger of Waco, Texas, who has been the house guest for the past week of her friend, Mrs. Fannie Bunyan, left this week for Ranger where she will visit friends for a few days before returning to Waco. Mrs. Trollinger is associated with Dillworth Abstract company of Waco and will be sent by them as delegate to the state convention of the Texas Abstracter's association which meets in Houston July 29 and 30.

SCHOOL CONTINUES.

Despte the fact that May 20 was supposed to usher in vacation days, school is going merily on in two of the buildings, the high school and Irving. At the high school building Milo Bernard, high school principal of last year, is conducting a summer school for youngsters who want to add some credits to a school report in which credits seem to be lacking and also a few who are carrying work so that their last year in high school will not mean such a heavy course. At the Irving school a serious minded bunch is struggling with a business course in typewriting, bookkeeping and stenography. Both schools begin at an early hour and dismiss at 12 for the day.

MISSIONARY BACK.

Waurikans this week have been afforded a great deal of pleasure in hearing Dr. Smith, a returned medical missionary from Venita, West Africa, who has spoken at the Presbyterian church and also in homes of the city. He has stressed the home and social life as well as the medical and surgical work that he has been doing for the natives of dark Africa. Women there are regarded as slaves and chattels, being bought with a few paltry vessels of iron or tin or something of as little value, doing all the labor while their lords and masters toil not neither do they spin, but hunt, fish, dance and go scouting about for more wives to add to their collection. Dr. and Mrs. Smith were compelled to leave West Africa after many years of work in the mission and medical station, because of ill health of Mrs. Smith. The station has been closed since they left as no one, so far, has been found who will take up their work. Dr. Smith was an able and interesting speaker and his lectures were illustrated with colored pictures.

OFF ON VACATION.

Mrs. M. F. Walsh of this city leaves Saturday night for New Jersey where she will spend a few days visiting her brother, who lives at that place. July 2 Mrs. Walsh will sail on the Zeeland for a three months' visit abroad, her time to be spent principally in London where she has relatives. Mrs. Walsh has not been back to visit the land of her birth for a number of years now, formerly she made the trip often, and she is anticipating many changes that have been wrought since the war.

Complimentary to Mrs. M. F. Walsh who sails July 2 on the Zeeland for London, the members of the Thursday Bridge club enjoyed a line party Wednesday night. After seeing "Sundown" at the Empress the party went to the Rexall where a lovely iced collation was served. Each member of the club brought a letter for Mrs. Walsh to read after she is at sea and their bon voyage gift to her was a lovely bracelet set with amethysts.

FILE BALLOON DECISION PROTEST WITH AERO CLUB

BRUSSELS, June 20.—(AP)—The American balloonist Wade T. Van Orman today formally protested yesterday's official decision of the Aero club, declaring the Belgian, M. Veenstra, winner of the recent Gordon Bennett cup balloon race. The protest automatically suspends the award of the cup to Veenstra.

FRANCE AND SLOVAKIA ARE EXPECTED TO REFUND DEBTS

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Further indications that both France and Czecho-Slovakia are preparing to make formal moves toward negotiations of war debt refunding agreements have reached the Washington government through official channels.

Taxi Driver Taught Louisiana Judge To Buck Subway Jams

NEW YORK, June 20.—Federal Judge Benjamin G. Dawkins of the western district of Louisiana at the end of the first week of his first visit to New York, likes the metropolis a lot. He said he dotes on crowds, but after a harrowing experience with a demon taxi driver, who delayed him in meeting an engagement he had learned to buck subway jams.

Judge Dawkins came here to assist in clearing up the federal court docket of liquor cases.

In the court room the judge is a stickler for etiquette. He fined a defendant $5 for not speaking after four warnings from the bench. He refuses to dicker with defendants about what sentences will be imposed if they plead guilty. They must plead guilty without knowing what the sentence will be.

In private life he termed himself a liberal prohibitionist, favoring the sale of beer and light wines.

Russian Peasants Seek China Revolt

MOSCOW, June 20.—(AP)—The headquarters of the Russian peasants international today appealed to Chinese women and peasants to "overthrow the imperialistic powers," demand the abolition of foreign jurisdiction and summon a Chinese revolutionary assembly.

MAJOR GENERAL MACAUTHOR TRANSFERRED TO BALTIMORE.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(AP)—Major General Douglas MacArthur, now commanding the fourth corps area with headquarters at Atlanta, will be transferred to the command of the third corps area with headquarters at Baltimore, effective August 1.

FIFTY PERMITS BOOST WEEK'S BUILDING TOTAL

$166,075 is Total For Activities During Past Week

An even 50 building permits with a combined valuation of $166,075 boosted June's construction record considerably last week. This is one of the largest number of permits ever to be issued in a single week's time, and while the aggregate value recorded has been beaten frequntly, it is nevertheless not to be sneezed at.

The week's activity was marked by the exceptionally large number of small repair jobs contracted. About 50 per cent of the total was represented by these.

The largest project of the week was a $30,000 apartment and business building to be erected at Eleventh and Grace by Houston Cowden and John T. Youn. A $24,000 business building at 812-14 Lamar, to be put up by W. B. Hamilton, took second.

The full's week permit list was as follows:

Mytinger and Walker, business building, 601 N. Broadway, $2,000.

Free Postal Service Given Big Increase

This section has been in need of and has asked many times for a mail service. Heretofore it could not be granted.

In extending the service there on July 1, the postoffice department has waived a rule it might have insisted upon—namely that postoffice delivery service cannot be made in sections that do not have sidewalks, improved street intersections and proper street sign markers. A part of the territory included in the extension is not so improved but in view of the great need of mail delivery, this usual regulation is being overlooked.

Number All Homes.

It is requested by the postoffice department that persons to benefit from the new service provide legible numbers on their houses and also provide a door slot, which is preferred, or a mail box of standard design. Letter carriers will go over their new routes for the first time on July 1 to take the names of those persons to receive mail.

100 blocks in Barwise, Pecan and Oak streets.
100, 200 and 300 blocks on Elm, Walnut and Jalonic streets.
300 to 1200 blocks on Mill street.
900 to 1000 blocks on Mississippi street.
400 to 800 blocks on Virginia street.
103 to 117 on Dallas street.
101 to 113 on Waco street.
101 to 112 on Galveston street.
1001 to 1009 on Florida street.
101 to 114 on Chester street.
Bluff street from the Wichita Valley railroad to Burnett street.
Broad street from the railroad to Twenty-second street.
Harvard from the railroad to Twenty-second street.

Twentieth from Bluff to Sibley street.
Twenty-first from Bluff to Sibley street.
Twenty-third from Broad to Holliday street.
Blonde from Holliday to Bridwell street.
Twenty-second from Broad to Bridwell street.
All the above territory will be given but one delivery service a day. The following streets will have a regular twice a day delivery:
Avenue H from Bell to Giddings.
Avenue J from Taft to Jones.
Jones from Avenue J to Avenue L.
Taft from Avenue J to Avenue L.
Brown from Avenue J to Avenue L.
2000 block on Monroe street.
Tilden from Avenue J to Avenue K.

Record News Instructs Ping Bodie To Crack A Homer, and He Does

IT was the last of the seventh inning! The spudders were trailing the Buffs by three runs.

One man was out, a runner was on third and another on first.

Just then, for no apparent reason, rain began to fall from a lacy film of clouds.

In the Record-News office Blondy, the demon sport scribe, phoned Ichabod, his junior demon assistant, who was at Spudder park, to inquire if it was raining at the ball game.

"Nope" quoth Ichabod, "it's just the crucial moment. We've got men on first and third, one out and three runs behind."

"Who's at bat?" Blondy queried.

"Ping Bodie's just coming up."

"Tell him to hit a home run."

With the receiver to his ear Blondy heard Ichabod yelp from the press coop.

"Blondy says put it over the fence."

A moment late—believe it, or not—he did.

DROUTHS HAVE LET FARMERS CLEAN FIELDS

Agricultural Bureau Says Fields of Cotton Well Cultivated

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The dry weather of late May and early June has enabled cotton growers throughout most of the south to keep their fields clean and well cultivated, the department of agriculture declared today in its mid-month crop report. Recent showers in Georgia is blooming freely in southern Georgia and squares are forming in South Carolina. In Mississippi cotton is making good progress and some bloom, while in Oklahoma it is from one to two weeks early with chopping well advanced. Cotton in Texas is fair to good in the northern part, but very dry in the southern.

The Old Home Town

Guy R. Holcomb left yesterday for Austin on a two weeks' visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson left Saturday for Yellowstone park to spend an extended vacation tour.

Wichita Falls was on its good behavior Saturday, reports from the police department indicated. Only two persons were arrested the entire day, both on charges of overtime parking.

J. W. Scofield and son, Elias, left Friday for a motor trip through Minnesota woods. Thence they go overland into the Dakotas and Montana.

Mrs. E. B Gorsline Jr., secretary of the municipal welfare board, has returned from Denver where she attended a national social workers' convention. Miss Katherine Henricle, local representative of the Texas Children's Home and Aid Society, will return early next week.

C. B. McConnell, desk sergeant of the city police force and an active member of the Modern Woodman lodge here, left Saturday afternoon for Chicago to attend a national convention theer next week. He goes as an official delegate from Texas. Mr. McConnell went from here to Denison where he joined a special car of Woodmen from other Texas points.

COOLIDGES READY TO LEAVE.

First Detachment From White House Leaves for Summer Capital.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Sizzling summer weather greeted President and Mrs. Coolidge today as they prepared for their departure Tuesday for Swamp Scott, Mass., where they will spend the next two months.

The presidential yacht Mayflower weighed anchor late in the day with the first detachment from the White House bound for the summer retreat. Carrying two cooks, domestic servants and the White House dogs, Paul Pry and Rob Roy, the vessel will proceed to Marblehead, Mass., where it is expected to arrive Monday.

Mr. Coolidge had a very busy day but the evening found his desk clear and ready to leave.

KYLE HOME DEMOLISHED.

House Had Just Been Rebuilt After May Storm.

KYLE, June 20.—A tenant house of the R. J. Sledge farm a mile and a half east of Kyle, which Sledge had just rebuilt after the May windstorm, was again torn from its foundation Saturday when high wind struck. Tenants were not in the house at the time of the storm, it was said, and no one was injured.

PRO HEAD'S WIFE KILLS SELF

Portland Woman Dies From Effect Of Poisoning.

PORTLAND, June 20.—(AP)—Mrs. W. J. Herwig, wife of the superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of Oregon ended her life today by drinking poison, the coroner reported. She had been suffering from nervousness.

MRS. CRAWFORD WINNER AGAIN IN WILL SUIT

Dallas Woman Scores a Victory Again In Her Appeal

DALLAS, June 20.—Mrs. Kate Lamar Crawford and son, William L. Crawford Jr. of Dallas, co-defendants in the suit of Mrs. Lucy Craycroft, daughter of the late Colonel W. L. Crawford by his first wife, attacking the will of Colonel Crawford, in which the defendants were beneficiaries, scored another victory today when the fifth court of civil appeals at Dallas overruled application of the plaintiffs for a rehearing. The case has been tried in several courts, Mrs. Crawford being victorious each time.

A brief filed in the case when it was up for appeal was the cause of William Lester Crawford shooting to death Paul O'Day, attorney for the plaintiffs, according to the defense contention in the murder trial of Crawford. Crawford was sentenced to five years for manslaughter.

BANK FIGURES SHOW EFFECTS OF THE HEAT

Monday Has Near Record Clearing But Other Days Fell Down

In spite of a near record clearing for a single day, hot weather got in its work this week and Wichita Falls bank clearings registered a decrease of $350,930.02 under the totals for the preceding week. The two totals were $3,267,455.25 and $3,627,385.27, respectively.

The biggest clearing reported so far this year, with one exception was that of Monday when $713,200.10 was marked up on the clearing sheet. The effects of the hot weather were seen when the last thre days of the week dropped down to a scant $400,000 each day.

Clearings for the past week as reported by the Wichita Falls Clearing House association follows:

Monday	$ 713,200.100
Tuesday	560,374.85
Wednesday	521,608.04
Thursday	485,093.55
Friday	497,275.51
Saturday	487,702.30
Total	$3,267,455.25
Last week	3,627,385.27
Decrease	$ 359,930.02

French Police Nab Seditious Letter

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—Police today seized what they described as compromising documents regarding Morocco in their search of the home of a sister-in-law of the communist deputy, M. Doriot. The police described M. Doriot as "an honorary soldier" of the Moscow red army.

The police have been investigating the supposed theft of a letter written by one of the right hand men of Marshal Lyautey, French commander in chief in Morocco, and addressed to the marshal's nephew in Paris. The letter never reached the person to whom it was addressed, but it has been read by M. Doriot in the chamber.

DALLAS MEN INJURED WHEN AUTOMOBILE SKIDS

DALLAS, June 20.—C. B. Davis, 38, and his brother, K. E. Davis, 44, of Cement City, west of Dallas, were injured last night when their automobile turned over when it skidded over an embankment.

THREE MINERS KILLED IN EXPLOSION IN COLORADO.

WALSENBURG, Col., June 20.—(AP)—Three miners were killed and two injured in an explosion at the Gordon mine of the Gordon Coal company, six miles northwest of this city, last night.

One horsepower is equal to 746 watts.

French Girl Tells How She Shot Sister Until Her Head Quit Nodding

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—Found guilty of killing her sister at the latter's request, to put her out of her suffering from an incurable lung disease, Anna Levasser, Paris dressmaker, today faced the necessity of atoning to the law by undergoing two years' imprisonment. Mlle. Levasser was found guilty and setnenced last night after telling a graphic story on the stand of the death scene.

Her sister, Anais, wracked with pain, besought her to put her out of her misery and her argument finally prevailing, they decided together on the means to be used.

"I seated her in a chair," Anna testified. "She told me 'you will shoot and I will move my head until it is finished.'"

The dressmaker with trembling hands was unable to finish the deed with one shot. A second, a third and a fourth followed and "finally Anais' head did not move."

Anna said she had planned to shoot herself afterward, but that she was so unnerved that she was unable to put the cartridges in the gun. Then she decided that she must live to avenge her sister against their landlord who she testified had ordered them out of their poor lodgings, although knowing Anais' condition

TRUST FIRM IS REALTY BOARD'S NOON SUBJECT

T. F. Hunter, Empire Mortgage Company, Addresses Club Saturday

A discussion on trust companies their purpose and manner of operation, was the principal address Saturday at the regular weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board. T. F. Hunter, secretary and manager of the Empire Mortgage company, was the principal speaker.

Mr. Hunter pointed out that there was always a demand for money in this city, especially forf unds for building purposes. In this connection he said that a trust company was badly needed but that the city was not quite large enough to support one. A trust company, he said, must sell bonds or other securities based on the loans it made if it was to make a profit on the capital invested. He also said that a trust company must act as a bank and go still further for the handling of trust estates and funds realized from them— a thing the ordinary commercial bank is not able to do.

The speaker said that not long ago application was made for a charter for the creation of another financial institution in the city but that it was declined on grounds that Wichita Falls now had adequate banking facilities. He was of the opinion that an application for a trust company would get the same reception.

A copy of the Czecho-Slovak, a Bohemian language paper published at West, Texas, near Waco, and which contained a comprehensive account of the Wichita irrigation project was exhibited at the meeting by Fred L. Haskett, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce. The board voted to send a letter of thanks to the editor for the publicity he had given the project.

DEATHS

INFANT SON DIES

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Parker, died at the home of his parents, 410 Burnett street, at 6 o'clock Saturday evening after a short period of illness. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning from the home with burial following in Riverside cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET SCOTT

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Scott, aged 67, will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Hines Mortuary, with Rev. White of the Church of Christ in charge. Burial will follow in Rosemont burial park.

Mrs. Scott, the wife of O. H. Scott, died Saturday morning at her home, 506 Scott avenue, after a short period of illness.

JAMES ISAACS

The remains of James Isaacs, aged 24, who died at midnight Saturday in the general hospital after an operation, were taken overland Saturday afternoon by the Hines Mortuary to Byers, where funeral services were held in the Baptist church there. Burial followed in the Byers cemetery.

Mr. Isaacs is survived by his widow and one small child.

MRS. EMMA PLUMLEE

Mrs. Emma Plumlee, aged 53, died Saturday at the Wichita State hospital after a long period of illness. The remains were taken in charge by Hines Mortuary and were sent yesterday afternoon to Matador, where funeral services and burial will be held.

She is survived by two sisters, Miss Gladys Plumlee of Gallup, N. M., and Mrs. J. M. Jackson of Uvalde, Texas.

New Traffic Light Timing Into Effect

The new traffic control schedule for down town streets went into effect Saturday afternoon when the "30 by 30 by 3" time limit became effective. Installation of the flashing apparatus necessary for this was completed Friday night.

Under the new schedule, traffic will flow in all directions for 30 seconds and then change. The "change" light, amber, with the bell, rings for three seconds.

Heretofore traffic east and westbound ran for 30 seconds and traffic north and south bound for 45 seconds. The amber light showed for seven seconds.

The old schedule will be used during normal times and the new and faster one at such periods when traffic is congested.

SAN ANTONIO THIEVES BUSY.

Two More Holdups Reported to Officers.

SAN ANTONIO, June 20.—Undaunted by the drastic steps taken by officers who Thursday night killed two men in their war to stop highwaymen who have run rampant for months, robbers Saturday morning shot one man and beat another in two attempted holdups.

The highwaymen operated far inside the city limits instead of at the outskirts as has been their habit.

Both attempts to rob persons were made shortly after midnight within a block of each other near the intersection of Iowa and South Pine streets.

Argentine Mermaid Swims Eight Miles

BOULOGNE, France, June 20.—Training for her cross-channel swim she hopes to undertake this summer, Miss Lillian Harrison of Argentina, today swam from Cape Gris-Nez to San Gatte, a distance of about eight miles, in four hours, fifty minutes. T. W. Burgess, who swam across the channel in 1911 and who is training Miss Harrison, says that she is showing excellent form.

TWO CREWS DESERT LINER.

French Boat Prevented From Sailing by Walkouts.

HAVRE, France, June 20.—The French liner LaSavoie, which was to have left for New York at 9 o'clock tonight, was prevented from sailing by the desertion of about 200 members of the crew. A composite crew sent aboard later also deserted.

Vernon

At Vernon.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

The district meeting and institute of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was brought to a close Tuesday night at the Methodist church. After the reading of the resolutions which were approved by the members a program was staged by the local union. Mrs. C. P. Clark gave two readings, temperance songs were sung and the play, "They Shall Not Pass," was given community week was staged.

Mrs. Claude DeVan Watts, state president of the organization was introduced by the local president, Mrs. Rena M. Watts and she gave her address on place in the faculty of Leland Stanford Hands of Youth." Mrs. Robert Cole played the prelude and was accompanied for the songs. SISTER RETURNS.

B. Sisk, former superintendent of Vernon schools now of Las Angeles, spent the week here on business. Mr. Sisk left today for Fort Worth and New Orleans, where he will visit before returning by the way of San Francisco to his home. Mr. Sisk was superintendent four years here, leaving Vernon in 1921, for San Francisco where he accepted a place in the faculty of Leland Stanford university. He resigned to collaborate with Frederick Warde, noted actor, in editing Shapespear's plays. Mr. Warde who played with Booth and Barrett is considered the greatest living tragedy living and an authority on Shakespeare. Mr. Sisk was asked to take the place with Mr. Warde because of his knowledge of the same subjects and his place as authority on English.

HOSTESS TO SWASTIKA.

The Swastika club was entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. S. R. Crim at her beautiful home in Hill Crest Heights. Forty-two was the diversion for the afternoon and six tables of members and other guests played. Punch was served throughout the afternoon and at the close of the games an ice course was served.

LADD EMPLOYES PICNIC.

The whole force of Ladd's place, their families and others were guests of the owner, C. M. Ladd at a picnic on Beaver creek, Sunday. A chicken dinner prepared by negro cooks was spread at noon on the banks of the stream. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ladd, Misses Buelah, Maude and Edna Ladd, L. L. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fenoglia, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Woolfork, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hardison, Mr. Lane, Turner Letcher, Hubert Sewell, Miss Johnnie Mallow, Miss Lorena Small, Miss Jewell Harkins, William Stokes, Clayton Veteto, A. Has New System for Rpnning Folks All Dissatisfied

Newspapers--Women —By Ring Lardner

Would Can All News Inciting Envy—Item on Beer Testing in Munich In Bad Taste—Women Folks All Dissatisfied.

By RING LARDNER.

To the editor:

Not long ago I seen a acct. of a debate between 2 college debate teams and the subject disgust was whether or not the newspapers should ought to publish crime news and whether the publication of same was libel to increase crime or decrease same and the acct. did not state what arguments was used on one side or the other side but the side that spoke vs. publication win the debate and what they must of argued was that the romance and heroics connected with a bold burglary or hold-up or murder inspires young readers to follow the example to say nothing of the financial gains enjoyed by the criminals till they get caught.

However the undersigned ain't never felt no crave towards law breaking by reading about it and if anything just the opp. and a specially when I follow the story up and see the finish of the boys that went wrong. The glory and excitement and currency which comes as a reward of grand larceny and etc. ain't never going to make up for spending a summer without golf at Ossining or Atlanta or wearing a piece of braided hemp for a neck tie.

Jack's Little Trinket.

They may of been quite a thrill to be got out of the story of Joe Diamond's iron nerve as he set in the chair waiting for them to turn on the current but when the story was printed Joe was where newspaper deliveries is very uncertain. And wile a good many of us was no doubt envious at all them love letters the gals was writing to Gerald Chapman still and all I personly would rather have the postman hand me a dozen gas bills through my own front door than a 100 mash notes between the iron bars of a Connecticut death cell.

No I don't believe crime news makes others go and do like wise but I do think they should ought to be a censorship for newspapers which would bar out news that certainly does incite people to not only crimes of all kinds but to divorce, revolution, sedition, wife desertion, anarchy and all around nashing of teeth, the news I refer to being the hundreds of items and stories which appears in the entire month of May. The item said that the government and diet of Bavaria had adjourned for a whole day so as the members could make a thorough test of the new bock beer. In the face of such a item as that how is a person going to appreciate the beauties of a Long Island spring time or the fresh sweet milk supplied by she who we have aptly named Bessie.

Or the story that was printed in regards to the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempsey in N. Y. city and they have a bran new spick and span $1,500.00 automobile at the depot to meet them with a livered chauffeur and Mrs. Dempsey asked Jack if it belonged to some friend and he says no sweetheart it is just a little trinket I bought for you. Well gents after that

I would rather have the postman hand me a dozen gas bills through my own front door than a 1,000 mash notes between the iron bars of a cell.

A dispatch of only 50 words from Munich spoiled the entire month of May for me.

do you imagine hat she who I sometimes call by Mrs. is libel to get excited over the 60 cents worth of candy which I carefully selected at the station news stand as I dashed by to catch the 5:55?

5 & 10 Ads Only.

Or the story about Gloria getting rid of a Swede name like Swanson and becoming the Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudray at one fell swoop and when they have read that kind of news how is our women folks going to be satisfied with husbands named Jones and Brown and without no title to go with it except maybe licensed garbage inspector or even worthy klengle?

Or a story like the one about the dame that come home from the other side a few weeks ago and had to pay a duty of 5,000 pounds on the new gowns and etc. she bought in gay Paris and when our gals reads stuff along those lines what a fat chance we have to argue with them about blowing as much as $85.00 on a complete new summer wardrobe.

Or a story like the one about the doctor that took out his own appendix without an antiseptic or nothing and smiled and chatted during the operation. Suppose your wife reads that, do you think she is going to give you any sympathy when you moan and groan because you blistered a finger playing golf?

If I was running a newspaper I would put the quietus on all stories such as the above and also all passenger lists of steamers sailing for Europe, all news and pictures about Palm Beach or Pasadena in the winter time or Bar Harbor or Northern Michigan in the summer, all reference to the latest styles of women's dress in Paris, all mention of anybody's private yacht, all mention of any automobile costing more than $500.00 and all reference to real beer or to weddings where one of the contracting parties was worth more than $62.50 cash.

So much for the news columns. And as for the advertising I would limit it to the 5 and 10 cent stores and then not let themf mention more than 30 cents worth of their merchandise in any one ad.

Cal's Father Still Is a Crop Reporter

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The fact that he is the president's father has not swerved Colonel John Coolidge of Plymouth, Vt., from his duties as a crop and livestock reporter for the department of agriculture.

Although the formal inquiry concerning livestock conditions was discontinued by the department in February, Colonel Coolidge still is listed on its rolls and is considered available for gathering further data concerning agricultural conditions in his section of Vermont. He has faithfully performed his duties, officials in the crop estimating section said, when called upon.

REPORT BANDITRY IN CANTON

Hospital Cashier Is Shot With Money in Possession.

CANTON, June 20.—(AP)—Banditry made its appearance in Canton today when the cashier of the apanese hospital, who had just withdrawn $5,000 for hospital expenses from the Shameen (foreign settlement) bank, was shot just outside the French bridge connecting Shameen with the native city.

Waurika

GOES TO RANGER.

Mrs. Ora Trollinger of Waco, Texas, who has been the house guest for the past week of her friend, Mrs. Fannie Bunyan, left this week for Ranger where she will visit friends for a few days before returning to Waco. Mrs. Trollinger is associated with Dilworth Abstract company of Waco and will be sent by them as delegate to the state convention of the Texas Abstracter's association which meets in Houston July 29 and 30.

SCHOOL CONTINUES.

Despte the fact that May 29 was supposed to usher in vacation days, school is going merily on in two of the buildings, the high school and Irving. At the high school building Milo Bernard, high school principal of last year, is conducting a summer school for youngsters who want to add some credits to a school report in which credits seem to be lacking and also a few who are carrying work so that their last year in high school will not mean such a heavy course. At the Irving school a serious minded bunch is struggling with a business course in typewriting, bookkeeping and stenography. Both schools begin at an early hour and dismiss at 12 for the day.

MISSIONARY BACK.

Waurikans this week have been afforded a great deal of pleasure in hearing Dr. Smith, a returned medical missionary from Venita, West Africa, who has spoken at the Presbyterian church and also in homes of the city. He has stressed the home and social life as well as the medical and surgical work that he has been doing for the natives of dark Africa. Women there are regarded as slaves and chattels, being bought with a few paltry vessels of iron or tin or something of as little value, doing all the labor while their lords and masters toil not neither do they spin, but hunt, fish, dance and go scouting about for more wives to add to their collection. Dr. and Mrs. Smith were compelled to leave West Africa after many years of work in the mission and medical station, because of ill health of Mrs. Smith. The station has been closed since they left as no one, so far, has been found who will take up their work. Dr. Smith was an able and interesting speaker and his lectures were illustrated with colored pictures.

OFF ON VACATION.

Mrs. M. F. Walsh of this city leaves Saturday night for New Jersey where she will spend a few days visiting her brother, who lives at that place. July 2 Mrs. Walsh will sail on the Zeeland for a three months' visit abroad, her time to be spent principally in London where she has relatives. Mrs. Walsh has not been back to visit the land of her birth for a number of years now, formerly she made the trip often, and she is anticipating many changes that have been wrought since the war.

Complimentary to Mrs. M. F. Walsh who sails July 2 on the Zeeland for London, the members of the Thursday Bridge club enjoyed a line party Wednesday night. After seeing "Sundown" at the Empress the party went to the Rexall where a lovely iced collation was served. Each member of the club brought a letter for Mrs. Walsh to read after she is at sea and their bon voyage gift to her was a lovely bracelet set with amethysts.

FILE BALLOON DECISION PROTEST WITH AERO CLUB

BRUSSELS, June 20.—(AP)—The American balloonist Wade T. Van Orman today formally protested yesterday's official decision of the Aero club, declaring the Belgian, M. Veenstra, winner of the recent Gordon Bennett cup balloon race. The protest automatically suspends the award of the cup to Veenstra.

FRANCE AND SLOVAKIA ARE EXPECTED TO REFUND DEBTS

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Further indications that both France and Czecho-Slovakia are preparing to make formal moves toward negotiations of war debt refunding agreements have reached the Washington government through official channels.

Taxi Driver Taught Louisiana Judge To Buck Subway Jams

NEW YORK, June 20.—Federal Judge Benjamin G. Dawkins of the western district of Louisiana at the end of the first week of his first visit to New York, likes the metropolis a lot. He said he dotes on crowds, but after a harrowing experience with a demon taxi driver, who delayed him in meeting an engagement he had learned to buck subway jams.

Judge Dawkins came here to assist in clearing up the federal court docket of liquor cases.

In the court room the judge is a stickler for etiquette. He fined a defendant $5 for not speaking after four warnings from the bench. He refuses to dicker with defendants about what sentences will be imposed if they plead guilty. They must plead guilty without knowing what the sentence will be.

In private life he termed himself a liberal prohibitionist, favoring the sale of beer and light wines.

Russian Peasants Seek China Revolt

MOSCOW, June 20.—(AP)—The headquarters of the Russian peasants international today appealed to Chinese women and peasants to "overthrow the imperialistic powers," demand the abolition of foreign jurisdiction and summon a Chinese revolutionary assembly.

FIFTY PERMITS BOOST WEEK'S BUILDING TOTAL

$166,075 is Total For Activities During Past Week

An even 50 building permits with a combined valuation of $166,075 boosted June's construction record considerably last week. This is one of the largest number of permits ever to be issued in a single week's time, and while the aggregate value recorded has been beaten frequntly, it is nevertheless not to be sneezed at.

The week's activity was marked by the exceptionally large number of small repair jobs contracted. About 50 per cent of the total was represented by these.

The largest project of the week was a $80,000 apartment and business building to be erected at Eleventh and Grace by Houston Cowden and John T. Youn. A $24,000 business building at 812-14 Lamar, to be put up by W. B. Hamilton, took second.

The full's week permit list was as follows:

Free Postal Service Given Big Increase

This section has been in need of and has asked many times for a mail service. Heretofore it could not be granted.

In extending the service there on July 1, the postoffice department has waived a rule it might have insisted upon—namely that postoffice delivery service cannot be made in sections that do not have sidewalks, improved street intersections and proper street sign markers. A part of the territory included in the extension is not so improved but in view of the great need of mail delivery, this usual regulation is being overlooked.

Number All Homes.

It is requested by the postoffice department that persons to benefit from the new service provide legible numbers on their houses and also provide a door slot, which is preferred, or a mail box of standard design. Letter carriers will go over their new routes for the first time on July 1 to take the names of those persons to receive mail.

100 blocks in Barwise, Pecan and Oak streets.
100, 200 and 300 blocks on Elm, Walnut and Jalonic streets.
300 to 1200 blocks on Mill street.
300 to 1000 blocks on Mississippi street.
400 to 800 blocks on Virginia street.
103 to 117 on Dallas street.
101 to 113 on Waco street.
101 to 112 on Galveston street.
1001 to 1009 on Florida street.
101 to 114 on Chester street.
Bluff street from the Wichita Valley railroad to Burnett street.
Broad street from the railroad to Twenty-second street.
Harvard from the railroad to Twenty-second street.
Princeton from the railroad to Twenty-fourth street.
Yale from the railroad to Twenty-fourth street.
Holliday from the railroad to Twenty-fourth street.
Sibley from Bluff to Holliday street.
Twentieth from Bluff to Sibley street.
Twenty-first from Bluff to Sibley street.
Twenty-third from Broad to Holliday street.
Blende from Holliday to Bridwell street.
Twenty-second from Broad to Bridwell street.
All the above territory will be given but one delivery service a day. The following streets will have a regular twice a day delivery:
Avenue H from Bell to Giddings.
Avenue J from Taft to Jones.
Jones from Avenue J to Avenue L.
Taft from Avenue J to Avenue L.
Brown from Avenue J to Avenue L.
2000 block on Monroe street.
Tilden from Avenue J to Avenue K.
1700 block on Hayes street.

Record News Instructs Ping Bodie To Crack A Homer, and He Does

IT was the last of the seventh inning! The spudders were trailing the Buffs by three runs.

One man was out, a runner was on third and another on first.

Just then, for no apparent reason, rain began to fall from a lacy film of clouds.

In the Record-News office Blondy, the demon sport scribe, phoned Ichabod, his junior demon assistant, who was at Spudder park, to inquire if it was raining at the ball game.

"Nope" quoth Ichabod, "it's just the crucial moment. We've got men on first and third, one out and three runs behind."

"Who's at bat?" Blondy queried.

"Ping Bodie's just coming up."

"Tell him to hit a home run."

With the receiver to his ear Blondy heard Ichabod yelp from the press coop.

"Blondy says put it over the fence."

A moment late—believe it, or not—he did.

Agricultural Bureau Says Fields of Cotton Well Cultivated

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The dry weather of late May and early June has enabled cotton growers throughout most of the south to keep their fields clean and well cultivated, the department of agriculture declared today in its mid-month crop and South Carolina have been favorable for weevil development, but cot- report. Recent showers in Georgia ton is blooming freely in southern Georgia and squares are forming in South Carolina. In Mississippi cotton is making good progress and some bloom, while in Oklahoma it is from one to two weeks early with chopping well advanced. Cotton in Texas is fair to good in the northern part, but very dry in the southern.

The Old Home Town

Guy R. Holcomb left yesterday for Austin on a two weeks' visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson left Saturday for Yellowstone park to spend an extended vacation tour.

Wichita Falls was on its good behavior Saturday, reports from the police department indicated. Only two persons were arrested the entire day, both on charges of overtime parking.

J. W. Seofield and son, Elias, left Friday for a motor trip through Minnesota woods. Thence they go overland into the Dakotas and Montana.

Mrs. E. B. Gorsline Jr., secretary of the municipal welfare board, has returned from Denver where she attended a national social workers' convention. Miss Katherine Henricle, local representative of the Texas Children's Home and Aid Society, will return early next week.

C. B. McConnell, desk sergeant of the city police force and an active member of the Modern Woodman lodge here, left Saturday afternoon for Chicago to attend a national convention theer next week. He goes as an official delegate from Texas. Mr. McConnell went from here to Denison where he joined a special car of Woodmen from other Texas points.

COOLIDGES READY TO LEAVE.

First Detachment From White House Leaves for Summer Capital.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Sizzling summer weather greeted President and Mrs. Coolidge today as they prepared for their departure Tuesday for Swamp Scott, Mass., where they will spend the next two months.

The presidential yacht Mayflower weighed anchor late in the day with the first detachment from the White House bound for the summer retreat. Carrying two cooks, domestic servants and the White House dogs, Paul Pry and Rob Roy, the vessel will proceed to Marblehead, Mass., where it is expected to arrive Monday.

Mr. Coolidge had a very busy day but the evening found his desk clear and ready to leave.

KYLE HOME DEMOLISHED.

House Had Just Been Rebuilt After May Storm.

KYLE, June 20.—A tenant house of the R. J. Sledge farm a mile and a half east of Kyle, which Sledge had just rebuilt after the May windstorm, was again torn from its foundation Saturday when high wind struck. Tenants were not in the house at the time of the storm, it was said, and no one was injured.

Portland Woman Dies From Effect Of Poisoning.

PORTLAND, June 20.—(AP)—Mrs. W. J. Herwig, wife of the superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of Oregon ended her life today by drinking poison, the coroner reported. She had been suffering from nervousness.

MRS. CRAWFORD WINNER AGAIN IN WILL SUIT

Dallas Woman Scores a Victory Again In Her Appeal

DALLAS, June 20.—Mrs. Kate Lamar Crawford and son, William L. Crawford Jr. of Dallas, co-defendants in the suit of Mrs. Lucy Craycroft, daughter of the late Colonel W. L. Crawford by his first wife, attacking the will of Colonel Crawford, in which the defendants were beneficiaries, scored another victory today when the fifth court of civil appeals at Dallas overruled application of the plaintiffs for a rehearing. The case has been tried in several courts, Mrs. Crawford being victorious each time.

A brief filed in the case when it was up for appeal was the cause of William Lester Crawford shooting to death Paul O'Day, attorney for the plaintiffs, according to the defense contention in the murder trial of Crawford. Crawford was sentenced to five years for manslaughter.

BANK FIGURES SHOW EFFECTS OF THE HEAT

Monday Has Near Record Clearing But Other Days Fell Down

In spite of a near record clearing for a single day, hot weather got in its work this week and Wichita Falls bank clearings registered a decrease of $350,930.02 under the totals for the preceding week. The two totals were $3,267,455.25 and $3,627,385.27, respectively.

The biggest clearing reported so far this year, with one exception was that of Monday when $713,200.10 was marked up on the clearing sheet. The effects of the hot weather were seen when the last thre days of the week dropped down to a scant $400,000 each day.

Clearings for the past week as reported by the Wichita Falls Clearing House association follows:

Monday	$ 713,200.100
Tuesday	560,574.85
Wednesday	521,608.04
Thursday	487,093.55
Friday	497,275.51
Saturday	487,702.30
Total	$3,267,455.25
Last week	3,627,385.27
Decrease	$ 359,930.02

French Police Nab Seditious Letter

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—Police today seized what they described as compromising documents regarding Morocco in their search of the home of a sister-in-law of the communist deputy, M. Doriot. The police described M. Doriot as "an honorary soldier" of the Moscow red army.

The police have been investigating the supposed theft of a letter written by one of the right hand men of Marshal Lyautey, French commander in chief in Morocco, and addressed to the marshal's nephew in Paris. The letter never reached the person to whom it was addressed, but it has been read by M. Doriot in the chamber.

TRUST FIRM IS REALTY BOARD'S NOON SUBJECT

T. F. Hunter, Empire Mortgage Company, Addresses Club Saturday

A discussion on trust companies their purpose and manner of operation, was the principal address Saturday at the regular weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board. T. F. Hunter, secretary and manager of the Empire Mortgage company, was the principal speaker.

Mr. Hunter pointed out that there was always a demand for money in this city, especially forf unds for building purposes. In this connection he said that a trust company was badly needed but that the city was not quite large enough to support one. A trust company, he said, must sell bonds or other securities based on the loans it made if it was to make a profit on the capital invested. He also said that a trust company must act as a bank and go still further for the handling of trust estates and funds realized from them— a thing the ordinary commercial bank is not able to do.

The speaker said that not long ago application was made for a charter for the creation of another financial institution in the city but that it was declined on grounds that Wichita Falls now had adequate banking facilities. He was of the opinion that an application for a trust company would get the same reception.

A copy of the Czecho-Slovak, a Bohemian language paper published at West, Texas, near Waco, and which contained a comprehensive account of the Wichita irrigation project was exhibited at the meeting by Fred L. Haskett, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce. The board voted to send a letter of thanks to the editor for the publicity he had given the project.

DEATHS

INFANT SON DIES

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Parker, died at the home of his parents, 410 Burnett street, at 6 o'clock Saturday evening after a short period of illness. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning from the home with burial following in Riverside cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET SCOTT

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Scott, aged 67, will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Hines Mortuary, with Rev. White of the Church of Christ in charge. Burial will follow in Rosemont burial park.

Mrs. Scott, the wife of O. H. Scott, died Saturday morning at her home, 506 Scott avenue, after a short period of illness.

JAMES ISAACS

The remains of James Isaacs, aged 24, who died at midnight Saturday in the general hospital after an operation, were taken overland Saturday afternoon by the Hines Mortuary to Byers, where funeral services were held in the Baptist church there. Burial followed in the Byers cemetry.

Mr. Isaacs is survived by his widow and one small child.

MRS. EMMA PLUMLEE

Mrs. Emma Plumlee, aged 53, died Saturday at the Wichita State hospital after a long period of illness. The remains were taken in charge by Hines Mortuary and were sent yesterday afternoon to Matador, where funeral services and burial will be held.

She is survived by two sisters, Miss Gladys Plumlee of Gallup, N. M., and Mrs. J. M. Jackson of Uvalde, Texas.

New Traffic Light Timing Into Effect

The new traffic control schedule for down town streets went into effect Saturday afternoon when the "30 by 30 by 3" time limit became effective. Installation of the flashing apparatus necessary for this was completed Friday night.

Under the new schedule, traffic will flow in all directions for 30 seconds and then change. The "change" light, amber, with the bell, rings for three seconds.

Heretofore traffic east and westbound ran for 30 seconds and traffic north and south bound for 45 seconds. The amber light showed for seven seconds.

The old schedule will be used during normal times and the new and faster one at such periods when traffic is congested.

SAN ANTONIO THIEVES BUSY.

Two More Holdups Reported to Officers.

SAN ANTONIO, June 20.—Undaunted by the drastic steps taken by officers who Thursday night killed two men in their war to stop highwaymen who have run rampant for months, robbers Saturday morning shot one man and beat another in two attempted holdups.

The highwaymen operated far inside the city limits instead of at the outskirts as has been their habit.

Both attempts to rob persons were made shortly after midnight within a block of each other near the intersection of Iowa and South Pine streets.

Argentine Mermaid Swims Eight Miles

BOULOGNE, France, June 20.—Training for her cross-channel swim she hopes to undertake this summer, Miss Lillian Harrison of Argentina, today swam from Cape Gris-Nez to San Gatte, a distance of about eight miles, in four hours, fifty minutes. T. W. Burgess, who swam across the channel in 1911 and who is training Miss Harrison, says that she is showing excellent form.

French Girl Tells How She Shot Sister Until Her Head Quit Nodding

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—Found guilty of killing her sister at the latter's request, to put her out of her suffering from an incurable lung disease, Anna Levasser, Paris dressmaker, today faced the necessity of atoning to the law by undergoing two years' imprisonment. Mlle. Levasser was found guilty and setnenced last night after telling a graphic story on the stand of the death scene.

Her sister, Anais, wracked with pain, besought her to put her out of her misery and her argument finally prevailing, they decided together on the means to be used.

"I seated her in a chair," Anna testified. "She told me 'you will shoot and I will move my head until it is finished.'"

The dressmaker with trembling hands was unable to finish the deed with one shot. A second, a third and a fourth followed and "finally Anais' head did not move."

Anna said she had planned to shoot herself afterward, but that she was so unnerved that she was unable to put the cartridges in the gun. Then she decided that she must live to avenge her sister against their landlord who she testified had ordered them out of their poor lodgings, although knowing Anais' condition

Vernon

At Vernon.

North Olney Pool Looks Like Big Area; Mankins Section Extended

HUMBLE GETS FEATURE WELL IN 1, MERCER

Humble Completes Well Half Mile From Mankins Discovery

WICHITA QUIET

Three Wildcats Garner Interest Over Archer Area

By A. HALLMAN
Record News Oil Editor

One more major oil pool for the Olney district, and this time just north of the small north Young County city itself, as the week's accomplishment in north Texas oil activity. The pool is indicated by the completion of an offset to Murchison and Fain's discovery on the Wilson land, J. Poitevant sturvey, section 1, abstract 226, a small well with some water from sand below 1,000 feet. The west offset to this well was dry, but Humble's east offset, No. 1, Mercer, is possibly the week's largest completion, reckoned at anywhere from 300 to 500 barrels a day from sand at 1,058-64 feet. The well shows up as a major producing area what had originally been considered just a small pool where a well or two might be completed. Offsets are by Texas Unity on the Hausele tract to the north, Nos, 1, 2, 3. Humble's No. 2 is east of No. 1. A quarter-mile northwest of the well Murchison and Fain oil company is drilling at about 1,000 feet on its No. 1 Hausler, southeast of the north 80 of northwest quarter of the section and is due either to extend or define the new pool in that direction within the week.

S. E. Baylor County.

Activity in the new Norday pool north of Swastika reached a point during the week where offsets were getting under way, to the east by Cullum and south by Empire. The southeast portion of Baylor county, wheer a small drilling campaign is under way around the recent completion of Richards on the Mills showed nothing new beyond the abandonment of Cranfill's No. 3, Mills, two locations west of No. 2, and the starting up in No. 4, 450 feet west and 150 feet south of the northwest corner of the southeast quarter of 2413, TE &LCO survey. Hammond has made a location for a test midway between the Cranfill pool and the new Richards area in subdivision 23 of block 2414.

North of the Cranfill-Muse area on the Lowe land, northwest of the Gambrell pool, Mid-Kansas No. 2 is a dry hole, while to the west Root et al have set casing and cemented on a good looking sand at 1,248 feet and look like they will extend the pool in that direction.

Over on the east end of the Harmel area the sightseer has an opportunity to get a look-in on something curious so far as North Texas is concerned, that is, three wildcat wells by the same operator drilling as offsets to each other. The three are Murchison-Fain Oil company and Marland Oil company's Nos. B-1, B-2, B-3 Echols, located on the east line of block 2405, better than a quarter mile ahead of production. The three are being drilled on the basis of a bit of diamond core drilling by Marland, believed to be the first in North Texas.

Kentucky Well.

So much for south Archer-north Young county. North Archer is a comparatively quiet proposition with only one big feature to break its dullness. About a half-mile west and south of the Waite Phillips Mankins pool the Kentucky Oil corporation's No. 1, Tad Wilson, in the northeast corner of the southwest 40 acres of the Ben Howard survey, is reckoned as 50-75 barrel well from sand barely scratched at a depth of 1,713 feet. The well seemingly constitutes an extension to the pool in that direction, and is the second producer in the area. It is noteworthy that the completion denotes a size to the pool that in itself is unusual for northwest Archer county where one well or two wells is about the extent of any producing area. It is the second successful wildcat completion of Kentucky and associates within the past few weeks, they having also been interested with Burns and Maxson in the new pool just north of Archer City.

Wichita county showed comparatively quiet. White Eagle scored a nice well pumping about 200 barrels near the Underwood-Pace well southwest of Iowa Park in the 1,700-foot sand while the Petroleum Producers abandoned as dry at 1,850 feet just north of the Underwood well. Texhoma's M-1, Burnett, south of Fowlkes station will go deeper after getting salt water in a promising looking sand below 1,300 feet, while H-6 bailed dry in a 1,500-foot stratum. Texhoma's No. 1, Hooks, is dry.

Watch Wildcats.

North Texas shows three wildcats of especial importance due for interesting development this next week, all come distance from production and rank wildcats. They are Mills Bennett No. 1, Sorelle, in TE&LCO survey, Block 2471, north of Megargel and on the Archer-Baylor line, last reported drilling at 1,270 feet and due on the sand around 1,450 feet; Marland et al No. 1, Mrs. F. Krupka, near the center of the north two-thirds of the J. Scott survey, abstract 374, just west of the city of Olney lake. Friday's report showed a depth of about 1,180 feet on the well and it was expected to pick up some sort of a sand at about 1,200 feet. The third well is that of Anderson-Jeffers-Prichard on the Wolf land, Wm. Hutton survey, abstract 12-3, just recorded drilling at about 1,200 feet. The well is due east of the Waite Phillips Wolf pool northeast of Swastika and should hit at about 1,350 feet.

Deep Mid-Contient Wells Make Supply Men's Problem Clear

By PAUL HEDRICK

TULSA, June 20.—Oil, the world's second largest industry is going through some mighty changes.

Greatest of all of the transitionary developments is the matter of depth to which a hole might be drilled for petroleum, which may mean gas or oil.

Today oil men declare that there is no maximum level to which they cannot drill to, and recent results of deep test holes in Pennsylvania, California, Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma prove that the future will see holes drilled below 6,000, aye 7,000 and possibly on to 8,000 feet for oil.

It all depends on how strong the oil well supply man can contsruct rigs and tools and casing. The greater the depth the greater resistance must the rig make against stresses and vibration in carrying several tons of casing from the surface down to the lower sands.

5,467 Feet in Kansas

Near Syracuse, in Hamilton county, Western Kansas, and just a few miles east of the Colorado line, the Wood Oil company has found a rainbow of oil at 5,467 feet in its No. 1 Ransom, in 5-26-41w. To date this is the deepest oil showing in the Mid-Continent fields.

It followed a few days the bringing in of 10,000,000 feet of gas, with a spray of oil in Watchorn Oil and Gas company No. 1 Morrison, in 20-22-21w, Clark county, Kansas, at 5,306 feet. A bolt of lightning set fire to the gas and burned down the rig and a deep fishing job is on for drilling tools and 5,400 feet of wire drilling line that fell into the hole.

Three days after the Watchorn find, the K. D. Oil company in No. 1 White, in 1-22-2w, Noble county, North Central Oklahoma, found a 350 barrel oil well at 5,145 feet, steel line measurement.

These tree wells have attracted general attention and oil men are now disregarding all previously accepted data and theory as to depths where it was impossible to find oil and gas and are planning to go further into the earth's surface after petroleum, or its relation, natural gas.

Keen Disappointment

In other respects than for the real depth sand plays, the past week in Oklahoma-Kansas has been ordinary. The following high points are set forth:

Yeager District Gets Big Set-Back When Prairie's Morrison Misses Sand

Early in 1925 the Dixie Oil company opened a pool in Central-Eastern Hughes county around Yeager, with its No. 2, in 18-8-10, for better than 500 barrels around 3,500 feet. This district immediately popped into the likely looking areas. The first well to reach the pay sand was the Prairie Oil and Gas company in No. 2 Morrison, in 20-8-10. It missed the pay entirely and is now below 3,500 feet with nothing showing. Independent Oil and Gas company is on top of the sand in No. 1 Bonner, in 18-8-10, but has a crooked hole and it may be weeks before it is completed.

The possibility of another northern extension for Cromwell looms better than ever. Carter Oil company-Gardner Petroleum company in No. 1 Sands, in 27-11-8, have 2,500 fgeet of oil in the hole at 3,464 feet and are planning to test. Little by little this great pool has been extended northwards from its discovery well in 15-10-8. All other outlets are now defined.

Into Major Class

The Davenport pool of Central Lincoln county has been playing along for months and months, but it now appears about ready to enter the major class. The 21 wells there are doing better than 6,000 barrels a day with many new wells starting. The best well so far a few weeks ago appeared a failure. It is Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Sukovaty, in 2-14-5, which was a 10,000,000 foot gasser at 3,364 feet, and when deepened to 3,417 feet, made 1,624 barrels the first 24 hours. Another big well there is the Twin States Oil company No. 1 Charles, also in 2-14-5, is a 1,100 barrel well from similar depth.

North and west of the old Stroud-Key West Oil pool in Central-Eastern Lincoln county, the Skelly Oil company No. 1 Ford, in 7-15-6, had the Wilcox oil sand at 4,030 feet and in it 10 feet, it did 1,666 barrels the first 24 hours and is still holding up at 1,474 barrels a day. Many new locations are starting near it. On the Creek county area of the old Stroud pool, in 7-14-7, is getting a new play.

Brama Drillers Get $5,000 Cash For Beating their Offset to Pay

The Riverland pool south of Sand Springs in Tulsa county, opened by The Riverland company in 27-19-11, is not expanding fast, but is doing better than 4,000 barrels, of which The Riverland company has 90% of its output. The Dutcher and Wilcox sands are the goals. It makes a string of pools in those pays close to Tulsa.

Pawnee County

The Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company in No. 2 McCullough, in 4-23-5, near Ralston, had the Wilcox sand at 3,467 feet for 360 barrels intitial from one foot in the pay. Because of the disastrous results of too rapid deepening in the Smith-Donahoe-Masham area in 23-4e, the Mid-Kansas is not going to be hasty drilling in its new find.

In many respects the Brama townsite pool in 28-1w, of Kay county, is hogging the attention, because of the rapid ply there. Some 32 rigs are now pounding away and the Herbert Oil company, which discovered oil right north of the townsite in section 5, is expecting its second test in sono. A cash bonus of $5,000 is offered if the drillers beat the nearest drilling test in. "Sky high" prices have been paid for leases there.

South of Braman, the Simms Oil company of Dallas, proved that the Stalnaker sand, which is the Braman production horizon, does not extend in 38-28-1w, for it tested a hole full of water there and the hole is now being deepened to the Wilcox. In the old Braman area of 29-1w, the Comar Oil company is now going to test the Stalnaker sand. There the production was in the 1,900 and 2,000 foot sands.

Garber's Deep Sand Is Defined To South While 2,300-Foot Gets Play

The Alcorn-Thomas pool is another red hot pool, with some 15 tests starting around the Marland Oil company No. 2 Thomas, in 15-25-2w, the Wilcox sand discovery well that, six weeks old, is still making 3,000 barrels a day.

At Garber the Sinclair Oil and Gas company No. 1 Burns, in 30-23-3w, the most southerly deep sand well, had a hole full of water at 4,000 feet.

The 15 wells in the 2,300-foot sand there, a 48 gravity horizon, are doing over 4,000 barrels a day.

Kansas Developments

Midwest Refining company in No. 34 Oswald, in 8-12-15w, its first test in the Mid-Continent and also in Russel county, is a 350 barrel well on the swab from 2,900 feet.

The Rainbow Bend is more like a rainbow in other ways than one. The production jumps up easily, and declines as sharply. It takes many completions to keep it over 20,000 barrels a day, the Waite Phillips company and others No. 1 Caldwell, in 28-33-3e, sending the output up to 21,000 barrels from 3,243 to 3,2[illegible] feet. It did 180 barrels the first [illegible] and 2,400 barrels the first 24.

Otherwise Kansas has been [illegible]ow, except for a lot [illegible] activity in the older pools of Greenwood and Butler counties.

Smackover Was World's Largest Crude Producer

EL DORADO, Ark., June 20.—On May 19 the deep sand wells in the Smackover pool produced a total of 392,000 barrels of heavy crude, according to an estimate of a Standard official. Production from shallow sands and Smackover light oil brought estimated total for the entire state of Arkansas to 475,000 barrels.

Thus it is seen Smackover deep sand production is largest of any pool in recent years.

Peak production of the 10 largest oil pools in the United States, with date of peak, appears below, in barrels:

SMACKOVER'S OUTPUT DROPS 105,740 BBLS.

Field Still is Making 300,000 Barrels a Day, However

By D. H. BANCROFT.

SHREVEPORT, La., June 20.—With nothing particularly out of the ordinary to distinguish it during the week, aside from continued decline in daily average runs from the fields, Smackover yielded to outside wells as the most interesting of the week, is one of these being in the Stephens district of Ouachita county and the other being L. M. Emlet's No. 4 Bowman-Hicks Lumber company in Sabine parish Louisiana. Running 37,845 barrels less per day than it ran the week before, Smackover's decline in production during the last two weeks amounts to 105,740 barrels, daily average runs, and still the field is running over 300,000 barrels daily.

51 Wells in La.-Ark.

Completions in the Shreveport district for the week totaled 58, one less than last week, with 51 producers having a total initial production of 53,813 barrels, two gassers with 12 million feet open flow capacity and five failures. These were 17 more producers than last week with a decline of 2,442 barrels in initial flow, three less gas wells and a drop of 106 million feet in open flow capacity and the same number of failures.

Smackover's contribution to these figures was 47 completions, 16 more than last week, with a total initial production of 53,562 barrels, an increase of 2,975 barrels, and one failure. Average initial production of Smackover wells, compared with last week, shows a loss—1,050 barrels for 51 wells against 1,881 barrels for 27 wells last week. The heavy oil producers' average, for 40 wells, was 1,331 barrels compared to 1,952 barrels for 26 wells last week.

Cotton Valley wells this week, three, averaged 77 barrels while last week the average for two wells was 148 barrels. Salt water brought the figure lower. Water was not so plentiful in Smackover wells this week, seven wells making water with the oil not being cut so deeply, as a rule.

North Side Features.

The north side of Smackover deep sand territory again proved the best locality, several completions on the east and south making small amounts of oil and some water while on the north side there was the usual collection of 5,000-barrel and larger wells. Excitement over the T. & P. Cosl and Oil company third sand well in 31-15-15 has subsided for the time being, but is expected back again when the first of the new wells started for that horizon begin to appear in the completions column two or three weeks hence. There will be plenty of time to hazard another guess as to the nature of the development of the new horizon.

Stephens had two wells that attracted some notice, Robinson et al, testing dry in No. 1, Polk in 16-15-19 at 2,360 feet and Buffalo Oil company getting a gas blow out between the six and ten inch casing at around 1,500 feet in their No. 1, Morgan on the edge of town in section 22-15-19, which has greatly revived hopes of Stephens people. Total depth is 2,115 with six inch set at 2,100 feet and a test due as soon as orders are received from New York. The gas blew mud and oil some distance up the derrick.

Believe Gasser.

L. M. Emlet's No. 4, Bowman-Hicks in 8-7-12 Sabine parish, intended to test formation in which his No. 5, a mile east showed for 50 barrels of 48 gravity oil, was junked at 1,840 feet. He will probably skid derrick and start a new hole. Bellevue field in Bossier appears in the completions column with one of its very few gas wells, G. W. Wetherbee's F-S Fee in 29-11 yielding one million cubic [illegible] at 395 feet. The only other gasser in Shreveport territory was Anderson et al, 1 Doane on the James Adams survey in the Waskom district of Harrison county, a 12 million foot well in the shallow gas at 1,[illegible] feet.

Russia's Exports Show Big Increase

LONDON, June 20.—Russia's exports of petroleum products for the first quarter of 1925 reached 306,710 tons against 190,652 tons in the previous three months. The figures for March are a record. The naptha syndicate alone exported 141,742 tons of products, including 47,098 tons of benzine, which is 50 per cent of the total export of this product for the last six months.

Principal customers in order of importance are Britain, Germany, Italy, France and Belgium.

Kentucky, Wilson

The Kentucky Oil corporation's No. 1, Tad Wilson, in the northeast corner of a 40-acre tract in the southwest corner of the Ben Haword survey, northwest Archer county, is standing shut down, with the expectation that the well will make anywhere from 25 to 7 or 100 barrels when completed. The hole showed about 350 feet of oil and a showing of water after setting 48 hours. Sand has been entered about a foot and was topped at a depth of 1,713 feet.

The well looks as if it continues a half mile westward extension to the Waite Phillips Mankins pool, and as if it miht be a better well than the discovery.

WE spend eight, twelve or even sixteen years fitting ourselves to make money, but not so much as an hour in learning how to make that money work and produce MORE money for us.

We work hard—and manage to save some money—but most of us STOP THERE when if we went just a step further and put our savings TO WORK we could materially increase our earnings.

For instance: do you know that only $1000—if put to work—can be made to earn $70 more a year for you?

It's not hard to put money to work to produce MORE money. Like everything else: it's easy IF you know how.

Core-Drilling Makes Debut In North Texas Oil Society

When three drilling wildcat wells of the Marland Oil company of Texas and the Murchison and Fain company a quarter of a mile or so ahead of production on the east end of the Harmel pool in southwest Archer county get down and are finishing up, either as oil wells, or dry holes, the first chapter in the ultra scientific in petroleum engineering in North Texas will have been written, and by the results it will catalogue the nature of the second chapter decided upon.

A lone wildcat ordinarily is a wild enough venture for most companies. Under ordinary circumstances to do what Marland and Murchison and Fain are doing on their Echols lease in southwest Archer county in drilling three side by side would be regarded as foolish in the extreme.

Core Hole Nearby.

The secret of those three wildcat wells, however, is found in a core drilling job not far from the No. 1-B, Echols, first of the three to spur, which, whatever it may have shown the Harmel pool discoverers, at least showed them enough to justify three holes there without waiting to see first how one would turn out. In other words, the wells, though more than a quarter of a mile away from production, are not wildcats. The operators have a definite idea already of what they are going to find there, that idea based on several feet of 1 3-4 inch core that a special diamond core drilling machine took from a level of some 1,400 feet below the surface.

Core drilling is a new factor in North Texas operations. It has been used more or less extensively in Oklahoma and in East Texas, and in a number of localities by the Marland group which has its own men working in conjunction with the geological department to do just such work.

What it will eventually become is to be decided by the results of just such experiments as the Marland-Murchison-Fain are undertaking now.

Results Secret.

The use of the core drilling machine puts several new angles to the relations of one company with another as attest the story of J. V. Howell, Marland geologist here, under whose direction the Echols core drilling was done. Hundreds saw the machine at work for several weeks on its location and what Marland was doing was no secret, especially.

When the job was finished and the rig moved somewhere else Marland found its office swamped with requests for logs of the hole that had been made, and with questions regarding just what had been found there. Logs are usually forthcoming in North Texas oil offices upon request. There is little secret made about most of them, and trading about is common and usual.

But, as Marland and other companies using the machine regard it, the logs of their core drill tests is a different proposition. The hole, just about as expesive as the hole actually drilled for oil, was put down for information solely, information on which actual well drilling is to be undertaken later. This information is given the same status as that gained by a geological party in the field doing plane table work, and is kept just as secret as the results of the plane table work would be.

Cores Twenty Feet Long.

The core drilling machine used by Marland on the Echols takes a continuous unbroken core of from ten to twenty feet in length of about an inch and three-quarters in diameter. The surface of such a core is as smooth as if sandpapered down. The expense of getting it is just as great as drilling the regular well, but the beauty of core drilling machine lies in the surety and certainty of getting a core, whereas with the regular rotary a core of six inches or twelve inches in length is about the height of any drillers aspirations. Once obtained the core gives the geologist and the engineer all the information he wants about the character of the formation he must pass through and the risk of drilling is minimized.

In its present stage even core drilling is still an experiment with machinery, with the knowledge to be gained from the investment in actual drilling secondary to developing a better core drilling machine.

The experiment in North Texas will be watched with more than ordinary interest, and possibly, based on the results, other work of like nature undertaken.

NORTH TEXAS OUTPUT MAKES SMALL SLUMP

Last Week Shows 94,413 Barrels a Day Over District

Estimated daily production in North Texas as based on a compilation of pipeline runs this past week shows a decrease of about 700 barrels under the figure of the week before. The dro pis from 95,140 barrels a day to 94,413 barrels a day. Iowa Park accounted for most of the decrease with other areas each accounting for 25 to 30 barrel drops.

A detailer report follows:

District—	Last Week	Week Before
Electra	17.160	16.985
Burkburnett	14.740	14.970
Iowa Park	3.885	4.275
Archer county	38.435	38.475
Clay county	460	415
South Vernon	8.995	9.010
Montague county	170	165
Young county	10.575	10.815
Jack county	33	30
Total	94.413	95.140

Decrease, 727 barrels.

The decrease is accounted for in most part by a drop in completions with practically none of the wells that were finished up showing for anything like big production.

News Of The Fields

Consolidated, F. S. B.

The Consolidated Oil company has finished Upmits No. 1, First State Bank of Electra, in section 15, block 5, H. & T. C. Railway Company survey, eastern Wilbarger county, at a total depth of 2,050 feet, a dry hole.

Consolidated-Larkin

Consolidated Oil company and Larkin and White were setting casing on a sand yesterday at a depth somewhere below 1,400 feet in their No. 1 Wilson, block 76, ATNCL, east of the new pool north of Archer City, central Archer county. The sand did not look very good.

Burns-Maxson, Wilson

Burns and Maxson have spudded and are down about 400 feet on their No. 3, L. F. Wilson, in the southeast corner of lot 1, section 75, ATNCL, south and east of the discovery well in the new pool north of Archer City, central Archer county.

White Eagle, Wilson

White Eagle is rigging up rotary for their No. 1, Wilson, to be one location south and just west of the northeast corner of the west forty acres of lot 1, section 75, ATNCL, north of Archer City, central Archer county, just west and south of the Burns-Maxson-Kentucky discovery.

Marland, Krupka

Marland Oil company of Texas and associates were drilling through a line at a depth understood to be below 1,200 feet yesterday forenoon on their No. 1 Mrs. F. Krupka, in the center of the north two-thirds of the J. Scott survey, abstract 374, east of Swastika, southwest Archer county. A sand, if a sand is found, should be picked up in the next feet.

Shackleford County

Phillips Petroleum company No. 3 Parrish, section 47, B. C. A. lands, Shackleford county, seven miles northeast of Moran, is flowing 35 barrels an hour at 2,090 feet, the original Moran sand. It is the fourth producer in that immediate territory. Three other wells are drilling there with another soon to start.

Cram-Clark, Fisher

Cram and Clark have completed their No. 8, J. A. Fisher on their newly acquired lease in South Electra for what looks like about a 40-barrel well from sand at 1,570-76 feet.

A string of tools is being moved in to drill the No. 9 to the 700-foot level, where ten feet of good looking sand was picked up at 700-710 feet.

Harris, Coleman

Jack Harris et al No. 1 Coleman, well located in the northwest corner of the south 40 acres of the Coleman 89-acre tract, in TE&LCO survey, block 233, just east of Olney and southwest of the Litchfield pool, is a salt water well in sand at 1,034-38 feet. The well bailed salt water with some showing of oil. It will be sent deeper.

Palo Pinto County

Pender Production company No. 1 Rasmussen, Palo Pinto county, near Strawn, has increased its flow from 370 barrels to 500 barrels. It is located in the northwest quarter of section 46, block 3, T. & P. Railway survey, 10 miles north of Strawn.

It is flowing from the McCleskey san dat 3,600 feet with 5,000,000 feet of gas.

Some royalty sold Thursday for $200 an acre. Leasing is quite active as the well continues to increase its flow. Location has been made for a second well 600 feet west.

Oil men say it bids fair to develop into another good West Central Texas pool.

Oil Gossip

James V. Maxwell, oil editor of the Wichita Daily Times, is back in Wichita Falls after a vacation spent in the hills of Missouri and at the scout's convention in Fort Worth. Jimmie's son-in-law is assistant sports edior on the Record at Fort Worth, proving that journalim runs in the family.

R. G. Gillespie of Pittsburh, a Pennsylvania operator, left yesterday afternoon for Fort Worth after spending a day or so in Wichita Falls looking over the country.

C. W. Clark and family are leaving this morning for Boulder, Col., where Mr. Clark's family intends to spend the summer. Mr. Clark himself will return to Wichita Falls in about a week.

Pacific Coast Loop Customers Fall Off

If the Pacific Coast league weaklings don't buck up, it is going to be a sad season, commercially speaking, and one in which all clubs, both strong and weak, are bound to suffer, according to Harry B. Smith, in the San Francisco Chronicle.

At present writing we have the Seals a matter of eight games in the lead. We have more than 20 games' difference between leaders and tail-enders and five clubs in the league below the .500 mark. That is bad for baseball.

WHAT DOES

32

SIGNIFY?

PANHANDLE IS BIG SIGHT TO W. F. VISITORS

Wichita Falls business men returning yesterday morning from their trip to the Carson county oil fields where they went as guests of the American Refining company, one of the largest leaseholders in the Panhandle area of Texas, report themselves impressed greatly with two outstanding features o fthe Panhandle field, first its great size, and second the small chance of depletion of production that wells there show.

Thirty-two Go.

Visitors on the trip, numbering 32, were each presented with a map showing the locations of wells in the Panhandle, and which showed in terms of miles what is probably the largest oil field, actual and potential in the world, containing in so-called proven area already more than 150 square miles, with the gist of development, of course centered in an area of about sixteen square miles in the northern part of the county.

Wells are far enough apart, and pull so litttle on the resources o the tremendous area that depletion of the field will be a matter of hundreds of years rather than the usual two or three single years that most fields show between flush and low settled production.

The beauty of the country with its spread of blackened derricks, practically all of which typified production rather than new drilling, made a great sight for the visiting Wichitans, and left them duly impressed with the potentiality of one of the least developed sections of the state.

Met at Claude.

The excursion was met at Claude by a group of citizens of Panhandle, on the southern edge of the field, who carried the visitors through the field and entertained them while there.

Panhandle is a live and up-to-date little town, so those returning say, with one refinery and one pipeline head there already. The Santa Fe road runs through here and an extension north of the Fort Worth and Denver is contemplated. The people are alive and wide awake to the opportunity development in Carson and Hutchinson county offers them.

Thirty-two made the trip at the expense of the American Refining company. The train carried a special pullman and dining car and the private car of Mr. Clarity, Fort Worth and Denver official.

LEGAL NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff of any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once each week for a period of twenty days before the return day hereof, in a newspaper of general circulation, which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year in said Wichita county, a copy of the following notice:

THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To all persons interested in the estate of J. H. Perkins and Delilah Perkins, deceased. Know ye that W. C. Perkins, administrator, has filed in the county court of Wichita county an application for an order to sell the following property of said estate, situated in Wichita county, Texas, to wit: The west 20x150 feet of lot number six (6) and the east 25x150 feet of lot number seven (7) in block number seventeen (17) of the Barwise and Jalonick addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, said parcel of land facing 45 feet on Elm street and being 150 feet deep to the alley, which will be heard at the next term of said court, commencing on the first Monday in August, A. D., 1925, the same being the 3rd day of August, A. D., 1925, at the court house thereof, in Wichita Falls, Texas, at which time all persons interested in said estate are required to appear and show cause why such sale should not be made, should they choose to do so.

Herein fail not, but have you before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 12th day of June, A. D., 1925.

(Seal) ALMA Y. MILLER, Clerk. County Court, Wichita County, Texas. By M. F. YEAGER, Deputy.

An Established Fact.

It is an established fact that A USED CAR is no better than the firm from whom it is bought. While the Fox Brown Chevrolet company is a new firm, the organization is not at all unfamiliar with what is necessary in merchandising used cars. It is only natural that every effort on our part will be made to build an enviable reputation in the sale of used cars.

We consider one of the best ways to do this is to sell used cars that will give as much service and transportation for the money invested as any new automobile on the market.

We invite you to call and inspect the used cars that we have for sale. They have been reconditioned by a corps of competent mechanics, and all worn parts replaced by new ones where needed.

COTTON BOARD IN TEXAS HAS FEW CHANGES

New Personnel Announced For Farm Bureau Association

DALLAS, June 20.—The new board of directors of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association elected by the membership through individual balloting, the personnel of which was announced today, will take office Monday following the annual membership meeting which will be held here. Only three changes were made in the board, the new members being J. C. Mason of Merkle, C. W. Lee of Bomartin and E. M. Baldwin of Colorado.

Directors re-elected were: John T. Scott, Dennison; L. O. Meadows, Decalb; J. B. Marshall, Temple; W. W. Pitts, Wills Point; W. D. Farris, Ennie; O. E. Eastland, Abbott; Fred J. Lang, Gonzales; J. A. Hill, Corpus Christie; W. W. Boyce, Runge; E. L. Lawhorn, Taylor, C. M. Kilgore, Brownwood; Lynn Stokes, Ballinger; J. H. Burrough, Lubbock; M. S. Hudson, Hale Center, and A. F. Wischkaemper, Shamrock.

At the meeting Monday the executive committee from the board members will be chosen to serve for the coming year, officeds and department heads elected and plans for the coming season formulated.

In addition to the twenty directors elected, three public directors are appointed, one by the governor, one by the president of A. and M. college and the other by the Texas Farm Bureau Federation.

ELECTRA

STUDIES VOICE.

Mrs. W. L. Underwood and son are now in St. Joseph, Missouri, where they will spend the summer with Mrs. Underwood's parents. Mrs. Underwood is enrolled for the summer course in vocal music at the Horner Institute in Kansas City. She will study with Arch Bailey, who is considered one of the foremost instructors now singing in the United States. Mr. Bailey spent the past year in Europe and this year in singing baritone roles in the Kansas City Opera Company. Mrs. Underwood plans to return to Electra late in August and will resume her teaching here.

GUEST FROM OREGON.

Mrs. H. P. Sorness of Reedsport, Oregon, arrived in Electra last week for a visit of several weeks with her sister, Mrs. E. J. Torvie, of 323 W. Garrison Ave.

ATTEND CONVENTION.

Rev. Byron Hester, Mr. and Mrs. John Houser, Mrs. George F. LeBus and Mrs. J. R. Lawrence attended the state meeting of the Christian Church, which was held in Abilene June 12 to 16.

According to reports more than 700 delegates weer in attendance at one of the best meetings ever held in Texas. Rev. Hester was on the program which has been arranged and delivered one of the principal addresses of the convention.

According to John Houser, Abilene is very much of a city and had been growing rapidly in the last few years. At present the city boasts of a population of over 20,000 and homes are being built at a rapid rate. The treatment accorded the delegates was excellent and all the local delegates returned very much enthused over the merits of Abilene as a splendid convention city.

TUESDAY EVENING BRIDGE.

Mrs. E. L. Stewart was the delightful hostess to the Tuesday Evening Bridge club which met at her home at 212 West Summitt avenue, Tuesday evening. The house was decorated with lavender and yellow sweet peas and other cut flowers in the pastel shades. Mrs. B. B. Williams was fortunate in winning high score fo the women and Mr. Gaston Scott for the men, and they were presented with pretty gifts. Mr. B. B. Williams received cut for the men and Mrs. Alfred Burleson for the women.

After a delightful hour of playing bridge the hostess served an ice course also carrying out the color scheme to the following memoers: Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Scott, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wilburn, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Rollin, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Burleson, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Malloy, Mr. and Mrs. Birdwell, and the Mr. E. L. Stewart.

Howe About the Old Fogy—Assaults on Truth—Oscar, George and Percy —By Ed Howe

A man I know attended a horse race, and paid twenty-five dollars for a ticket which won him seven hundred dollars. There is talk of prohibiting horse racing in that state * * * Why should a thing be prohibited by which a man may invest twenty-five dollars, and get back seven hundred? Of course some men buy tickets at racing meets and lose * * *It is equally true that some men buy lots, and lose money on them. And I have even known men to buy wheat and corn on the Board of Trade, and lose money. Occasionally a man marries what he has decided is the one best bets in the world, and she isn't * * * We all make bets, and lose oftener than we win * * *I give less advice every year; finally I hope to become a gentleman, and give none at all, but in my own affairs I try to back my bets with all available experience and judgment, and thereafter hold my peace until there is another occasion for mental exercise * * * At a race meet there are great numbers of frowsy loafers who sell "tips" for a quarter, or a dollar. The world is full of tipsters who charge for false information. Books, newspapers, magazines, are devoted to tipsters. Every question is plastered with false answers.

One is always hearing of the public service he should render; of the help he should afford others. The general idea seems to be we should write great things or deliver great orations, and help the masses by encouraging them

A MAN MARRIES WHAT HE HAS DECIDED IS THE ONE BEST BET AND SHE ISN'T!

. . . This isn't really the idea. The best and most effective way of performing public service is for a man to avoid bothering those with whom he comes in contact, and taking such good care of himself that his conduct will reflect good. A man should be so polite, fair and useful to his community that others will be animated to follow his example.

There is much that is offensive in the grumbling of an Old Fogy, but he is nearer right than the young hoodlum who calls him a back number . . . You may easily say the Old Fogy is wrong. Well, you are mistaken; he is really preaching the wisdom of the ages. The idling, the dissipation, the impudence, of the young is all he says it is.

I know a man who has a very conspicuous fault. Everyone recognizes and deplores it, as he is otherwise a rather promising fellow . . . Everywhere people say: "Why doesn't he quit it? Why does he regularly make himself ridiculous?" . . . I think I supplied the answer to one fellow who asked the question: "For the reason that you and I do ridiculous things, and think they are smart." . . . It is said everyone should go to a doctor every six months, and have himself looked over for physical faults. On such a visit, the doctor will look into all your secret places . . . Why not make an equally candid examination of yourself?

I read the other day of a Japanese philosopher saying: "A judicious selection of one's parents is the first important step in life."....Just what does the saying mean, if anything? What was the idea in saying it? Since one cannot possibly select his ancestors, how helpful is the suggestion?.. ..This philosopher might as well not have written at all, for he has not suggested anything by which one may benefit. His saying has a sort of grewsome interest; all of us have charges to make against our ancestors, but it's not nice to give expression to them; nor does it do any good.

There is no question about the facts: assaults on the truth are the excuses of those who object because the truth is true....I know a man who is in an asylum; actually quite a smart fellow. But the truth didn't suit him and he complained so immoderately that it was necessary to lock him up.

I know a man who lately sold his business to a rival. He says he will in future devote his time to public service, in which he has long been interested....I think the facts in the case are as follows: The man gave too much of his time to the public service, and was worsted by a rival who attended to business. In effect, he failed, and his establishment was absorbed by his rival....I make the prediction that the man will in future make his living from public service work, and charge all the traffic will bear.

It is related that when Lord Byron, the poet, entered a carriage after his marriage, he said to his wife: "You are now my wife, and that is enough for me to hate you. Were you some one elses' wife, I might perhaps care for you." He treated her with such contempt that she divorced him in less than a year. Her charges recounted such depravity that the world has been whispering about the case ever since.

Byron lived in open adultery with many women, and gloried in it: he was almost as contemptible as Oscar Wilde. Yet the world forgave him, because he believed in a diety.

Shelley, another poet, was not nearly so bad, but the world would not forgive him, because he was an atheist. Shelley had mistresses, but finally married most of them, to conform with the conventions. Byron used to revile Shelley because of his atheism.

Byron wrote to his sister about one of his women associates: "A foolish girl, in spite of all I could say or do, would come after me. Now, dearest, I do most truly tell thee I could not help this, and that I did all I could to prevent it."

Byron was evidently not a gentleman; every gentleman, when chased by a woman, gallantly admits his guilt.

The man who makes a failure of life can explain it perfectly, but the people regard him as they do a drunkard or gambler....People abuse the successful man, but they do not mean it. As evidence they do not, note the greedy p n which they "run after" him abuse a man gets for being suc ful is easier to bear than abuse for being a failure.

There is said to be nothing new under the sun....Maybe not, but I heard the other day of a man who was compelled to bury so many poor kin that he bought tombstones by the carload....Also this seemed new to me: A man called at a neighbor's house one evening, and said to those he found there: "I want to do the talking, and, if not permitted this privilege, will go home."

Writers have a high opinion of their calling I do not share; I believe business men are saner, more useful, and more intelligent.

All things are tried out in the crucible of business, which includes experience, accomplishment, science. If a certain ormula will not work, practical men abandon it, and try something else. Thus all good results have been accomplished.

But writers are never discouraged: today they demand the same impossible things their brethren demanded centuries ago.

The high opinion of literature is entertained only by literary men themselves.

No practical man believes in prayer or a book.

Writers are always trying to say good things that will sell; they cannot always be expected to pay attention to fairness, and justice, or reasonableness.

RAILROADS ASK AN ADVANCE IN CATTLE RATES

Western Lines Seek New Livestock Increase From Commission

CHICAGO, June 20.— Western railroads have filed a brief with the interstate commerce commission asking a 20 per cent advance in livestock rates.

The brief is in a case brought before the commission by the American National Livestock association seeking a reduction in livestock rates on the strength of the Hoch-Smith resolution. This is the first case in which a demand for a reduction was presented by reason of that resolution passed in the closing days of the last session of congress.

The railroads in their brief contend that not only does the record show that the complaint should be dismissed because livestock rates are at present preferential for that industry, but that by reason of the Hoch-Smith resolution livestock rates in the west should be advanced by 20 per cent.

MARYLAND TO PRAY FOR RAIN

State in Grip of Worst Drouth in Years.

HAGERSTOWN, Mr., June 20.—(AP)—As a result of the most severe drouth in this section of the state in years prayers for rain will be offered at all of the services in St. John's Episcopal church here tomorrow, and the rector, Rev. Dr. Walter Byron Stehl, has asked all Christians to join in the appeal.

Farm crops are suffering, gardens blighted and fruit, including a large raspberry crop, is drying up, threatening heavy financial loss to growers. No rain has fallen in the vicinity of Hagerstown in six weeks.

Miss Artie Mae Floyd of Electra Marries J. M. Gibbons of Decatur In Prominent Wedding Wednesday

Popular Young People Have Home Wedding Last Week

ELECTRA, June 20.—One of the most beautiful weddings of the season was that of Miss Artie Mae Floyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Floyd to Mr. J. Marion Gibbon, at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, June 17 at the home of her parents, 102 East Wharton avenue.

Mrs. J. D. Morgan of Morris, Okla. sister of the bride played the Mendelsohn wedding march, and Miss Elizabeth Floyd, younger sister of the bride, and Mr. John Preston Terrel, son of Railroad Commissioner C. V. Terrel, of Austin, as brides-maid and best-man preceeded the bride and groom to the altar. Little Misses Ruie Totten, and Betty Joe Miller, the little flower girls dropped rose petals from white wicker baskets tied with ping tulle, in the path of the bride and groom, who entered together. Dr. E. M. Francis, pastor of the First Baptist church read the impressive single ring ceremony before an improvised altar, made of a tiny fence in ivory entwined with morning glories in the pastel shades and banked with pot plants of boginias, with fern and pink carnations.

House Is Decorated.

The living room was attractively decorated with pot plants and carnations and beautiful hand paintings of Mrs. J. D. Morgan, sister of the bride, lending an oriental air to the setting. The dining room was lovely in mahogany furniture and chuny lace, with cut flowers and potted plants, and the conservatory where the bride and groom were married was beautiful with palms, pot plants and cut flowers in pink and white carrying out the color scheme.

The bride was dressed in a straight line frock of pink georgette crepe trimmed with gold lace, over a foundation of pink satin, with a large picture hat with flowers and maline in harmonizing shades, and carried a bouquet o pink and white brides roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Elizabeth Floyd, bridesmaid, wore a frock of maize georgette, over yellow satin, with real silk lace and hand embroidery with all accessories to match, and carried an arm bouquet of roses and carnations.

Mrs. Morgan was attractive in maize georgette with corsage of orchids, lillies of the valley and carnations. Little Miss Ruie Totten, one of the flower girls, wore a frock of powder blue georgette over flesh satin, trimmed in tiny rose buds, and little Betty Joe Miller wore a frock of peach georgette, trimmed in orchid rose buds.

Guests Are Greeted.

Miss Ruth Prince, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Prince, met the guests at the door and ushered them to the punch bowl which was presided over by Miss Vera Prince, also a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Prince. Miss Ruth was lovely in white crepe-de-chine with black silk lace and a large black lace hat with ostrich plumes, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, and Miss Vera wore a dress of gold georgette crepe with gold slippers and accessories to match and also carried pink carnations. Miss Thelma Petty, daughter of Dr. Petty of Decatur, close friend of the bride had charge of the "Brides Book" where all the guests registered. She wore a white hand embroidered net dress over shell pink with accessories to match.

The bride threw her bouquet which was caught by Miss Thelma Petty, and after an hour of social activities and congratulating the bride and groom, Misses Ave Shaw and Juanita Grisham in pretty afternoon frocks assisted in serving white brick ice cream and angel food cake to the following; Out of town guests were: Mrs. J. M. Gibbon of Decatur, mother of the bride-groom, Mrs. J. D. Morgan, sister of the bride and small son, Joe Floyd Morgan of Morris, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Crisp, sister and brother-in-law of the groom of Decatur; Mrs. E. E. Traweek and son, Curtis, of Abilene; Miss Thelma Petty of Decatur, and John Preston Terrel of Austin.

Many Guests Present.

In town guests were as follows: Mesdames H. C. Linley, A. O. Basham, R. P. Prince, H. D. Miller, Jere B. Barnes, Claude F. Suggs, W. M. Cason, L. E. Sheldon, R. B. McGee, E. M. Francis, T. M. Grisham, Elzie Shawk, Hartwell, T. S. Totten, C. F. Kolp, and Mrs. B. R. Floyd, mother of the bride; Messrs. H. C. Linley and son, T. C.; R. B. McGee and Dr. E. M. Francis and B. R. Floyd; Misses Elizabeth Floyd, Ruth Prince, Vera Prince, Lydia V. Sheldon, Emma Sheldon, Armilda Jane McGee, Ava Shaw, Juanita Grisham, Ruie Totten, and Betty Joe Miller.

Soon after the hour of social activities, the bride changed her wedding frock to a sport dress of tan silk with a hat to match. The young couple left in a new grey Buick coupe, a gift to the bride, for Colorado Springs, and Denver, Colo., to be gone for two weeks after which they will be at home in their new seven thousand dollar brick home in Decatur.

Mrs. Gibbon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Floyd formerly of Decatur. She is a grduate of the Decatur Baptist college, and a graduate of Baylor university, Waco, having received her B. A. degree in 1924. She taught in the Decatur public school this year. Mrs. Gibbon was a very popular young lady, in both Electra and Decatur ,and has a host of friends to wish her a very happy married life.

Mr. Gibbon is the son of Mrs. J. M. Gibbon of Decatur, and a member of one of the oldest, best loved and respected families of that city. He is cashier of the City National bank of Decatur, having been an employee of the bank for the past eight years. Mr. Gibbons is a very fine young man and has many friends to wish him well.

P-T-A LECTURES TO BE GIVEN AT HUNTSVILLE.

THE PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION course of lectures will be given in the Teachers' college at Huntsville, June 29-July 6, instead of June 22-27 as first announced. Mrs. Stephen Chamness, executive secretary of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers associations, who makes the announcement, states further that Mrs. Monroe Chapman of Beaumont will conduct the course as previously planned. ETAOIbcz viousyp planned. Another change announced is that Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, state president, will conduct the course at Alpine, July 6-11 instead of Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith. Letters coming into the state office manifest much interest not only in these lectures but in those throughout Texas. Charts, maps and other exhibit material for courses have been prepared at the state office and are now ready. Several sets of these are available and will be used in each of the places where the lectures will be given.

Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, past president of the Texas Congress and vice-president of the National left Friday for Virginia and West Virginia where she will conduct these courses in the universities and colleges of those two states. In Virginia, Mrs. Marrs will lecture at University of Virginia, Emory and Henry college, Roanoke college, and William and Mary college. in West Virginia, at Beckley Summer school, Marshall Teachers' college and Concord Teachers' college.

Virginia is now in the fifth year of parent-teacher work as a branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, while West Virginia is still newer to the work, 1925 being her third year. However both of these states are moving forward rapidly as evidenced in the interest the educators and parents are taking in these courses. The interest has been stimulated in West Virginia by the services early this spring of the assistant field secretary of the National, Mrs. C. E. Roe. Then, too, a state bulletin was started in April and base done much to publish abroad and in local clubs the aims and purposes of the organization which are seen to help most materially in furthering the educational plans for the state.

Waurika Delegates To Go To Portland Convention Of Business Women By Car

WAURIKA, Okla., June 20.—Monday morning when the roosters begin sending out their clarion calls that night is over and just as the sun is sending forth its first rosy beam of another day, four members of the Waurika Business and Professional Women's club will leave for an auto trip through the east, their final destination to be Portland, Me., at which place they will attend the national convention of Business and Professional Women's clubs to be held there July 12-18.

Go In Buick Car.

In a big six cylinder Buick car, equipped with tents, cooking utensils (each B. and P. W. carrying her favorite cook book), and khaki clad, they are setting forth in quest of fun, education and adventure. They plan on rather a leisurely trip east visiting the interesting cities en route. After the convention is over July 18, the party will visit New York, Washington, D. C., and the most important and interesting places of note before returning home.

Mrs. Max King is the delegate from the local club with Mrs. Nelle Phelan as alternate, while the local president, Mrs. Lucille Cole, is a board mmeber of the sixth district and one of the five state delegates.

The club was organized in Waurika last November, has a merbership of 31 and is 100 per cent as to national and state dues and magazine, holds bimonthly meetings with a seven o'clock dinner, and has promoted a feeling of friendship and good fellowship among its members.

Allied With C. of C.

Aside from the social feature which has been a good one, the club has closely allied itself with the chamber of commerce in many of its undertakings, has sponsored some educational work, and presented the Junior 4 H club of the county which has the highest score in the club program contest with a silver loving cup, also assisting in the entertainment of 325 rural school children who contested in the county try-out for the cup. The members of the club who will attend the national convention are Mesdames Lucille Cole, Nelle Phelan, Max King and Miss Freda Harper all of Waurika. They will be joined in Tulsa by Miss Lyla Smith who will make the trip with them.

MRS. W. H. ASHBY, JR. IS HONORED WITH A SHOWER.

MRS. W. H. ASHBY, JR., was the honoree at pretty shower given last Wednesday at the home of her mother, Mrs. D. M. Taylor and her sister Miss Bernice Taylor.

The gifts were presented by little Miss Billie Parmenter, dressed in a ballet costume. Refreshments were served to Messrs. and Mesdames Williams, C. E. Grove, D. C. Lyon, Dee Ford, Ed Sadderh, and Parmenter; Mesdames H. A. Wright, Maupin, Clyde M. Caress, Goodwin, and Hey Warnock; Misses Theo Aston, Ora Thomas, Ruth Maupin, Marie Reeves, Marian Jean Caress and Birdie McMullen, and Messrs. S. A. Slaughter, Goody, I. H. Roberts, and Dee Ford Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashby left Thursday for San Francisco where they will make their home.

MISS CARRIGAN HONORS WARD-BELMONT STUDENTS.

WICHITA girls back from Ward-Belmont at Nashville were the guests at a pretty party given at the home of Miss Elizabeth Carrigan last Wednesday afternoon.

The gold and blue colors of the school carried out a pretty color effect. The following guests were present: Misses Donella Evans of Dallas, guest of Miss Bernice Martin; Margaret Fisher, Frankie Adickes, Georgia Maxwell, Mary Evans, Bernice Martin, and

U. S. Opera Artists Have Established Themselves In Berlin By Brilliance

BERLIN, June 20.—In the opinion of many members of Berlin's American colony, the United States owes a debt of gratitude to the group of American artists who made the end of the Berlin concert season one of unusual brilliance.

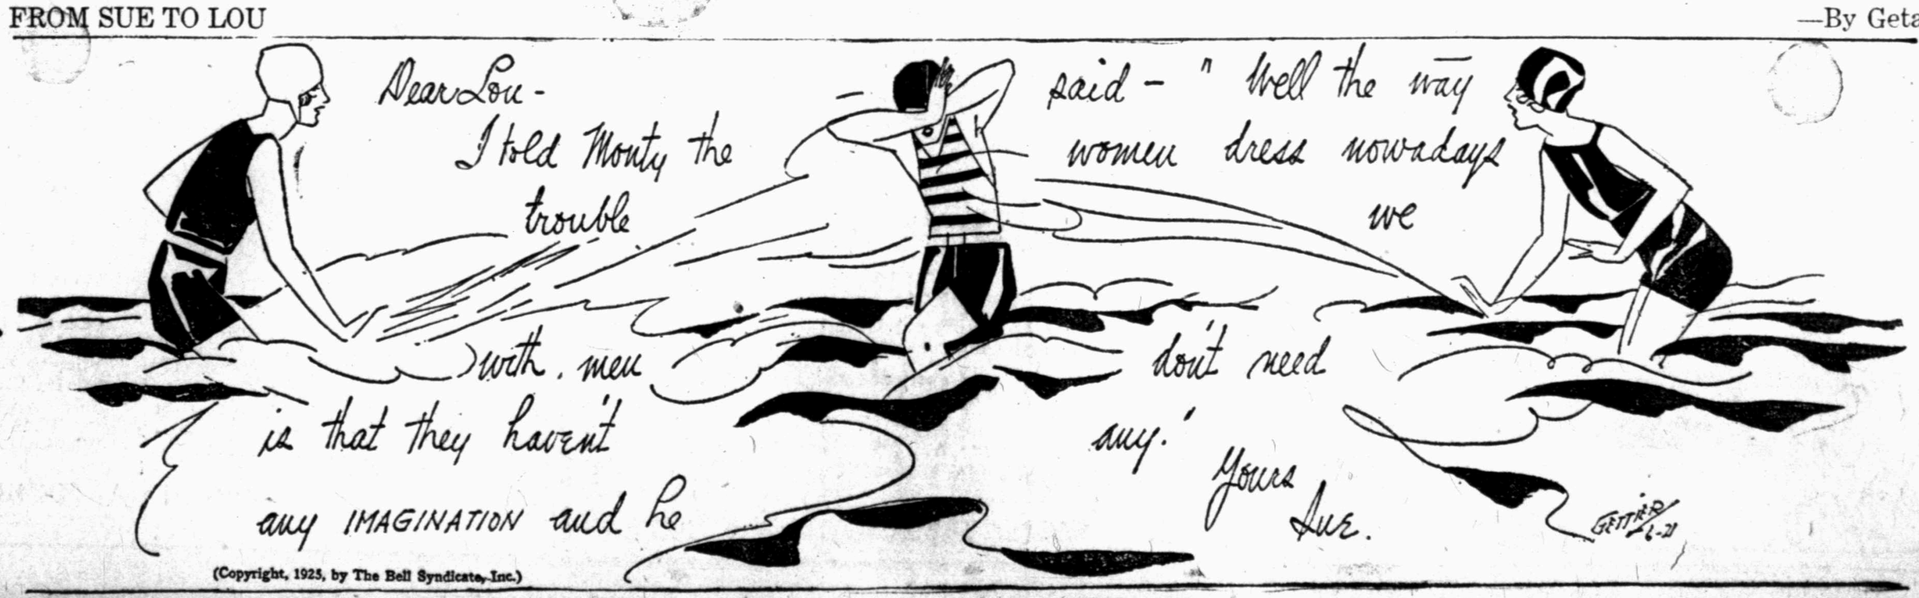

After successful May concerts by Anna Case, Dusolina Giannini and Sascha Jacobsen, all of New York, and the Fisk Jubilee Singers of Nashville, Tenn., Sophie Braslau a New York contralto, Richard Crooks, a New Jersey tenor, and Wilhelm Middelschulte, a Chicago organist, in June still further established America's credit as a musician producing country.

Braslau proved a veritable sensation. Nobody expected such a tremendous voice from her lithe, small body. Not only her remarkable deep contralto, but her passionate, fiery delivery was much commented on by the critics. The opinion was universal that Braslau is every inch a musician, whose unusual voice is but a means for the artistic interpretation of the intentions of composers and verse writers.

Crooks endeared himself by his unusually beautiful interpretation of German songs by composers such as Strauss, Beethoven, Schubert and Hugo Wolf. The critics admonished German singers to learn from a 100 per cent American how to interpret German songs. The fact that Braslau and Crooks sang fluently in Russian, French and Italian, besides English and German, helped greatly to establish their reputations.

Mr. Middleschulte, who is considered one of the greatest authorities on Bach, was invited to play Bach's and his own compositions on the largest and finest organse in Germany, including instruments in Berlin, Hamburg, Dresden, Dortmund, Breslau and Leipzig. Also he was honored by the Prussian ministry of education by a request that he return to Germany next year to repeat the six weeks special advanced course for the organ he gave during May and June. Mr. Middleschulte has been elected an honorary member of the Organum society, one of the most exclusive musical bodies in Germany.

KIWANIS CLUB HERE TO HAVE SPECIAL MEET

"All Kiwanis Night" Will Be Observed Monday Evening

Joining in with all the 1385 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada, all which will meet simultaneously, the Kiwanis club of Wichita Falls will hold a special occasion to observe "All Kiwanis Night" at Wichita club on Monday, June 22, at 7:45 p. m. At this time the opening session of the annual Kiwanis International convention will be held at Saint Paul, Minnesota. The meetings throughout Canada and the United States are to be observed for the unified consciousness of devotion to the ideals and objectives of Kiwanis.

All clubs have arranged the time of their meetings so that the "Zero Hour", when 94,000 Kiwanians on the continent assemble to observe the "Fellowship Moment of Silence," will be held simultaneously with that in the convention city. The message to the clubs by President of Kiwanis International Victor M. Johnson, of Rockford, Ill., will be read by a member rof the local club at Monday's meeting. This is the second time in the history of Kiwanis that such a meeting will be held. Last year when the international convention convened at Denver, a similar observance marked the opening activities.

Kiwanians F. R. Collard and M. E. Catter from the Wichita Falls club will be delegates to the convention, and will send telegraphic messages to the meeting on Monday night from convention headquarters. President Johnson's keynote speech at the convention's opening will be broadcasted from station WCCO, the powerful station of the northwest, and will give members and radio fans an opportunity to listen in. The program follows:

1. Invocation .....Rev. F. T. Datson
2. Uniform "Zero Hour" program for all clubs
   (a). Fellowship Moment of Silence, 7:30 p. m. All standing (Note: 94,000 Kiwanians will unite simultaneously at this moment to express unified consciousness of devotion to Kiwanis Ideals.

Tips On Texas

As Submitted to The Record News by John W. Carpenter, Vice-President And General Manager of The Texas Power And Light Company

ROMANCE and reality are entwined in the history of the settlement and development of Texas. This great domain of the southwest was the last land area to become a part of the continental United States, and the only one acquired by annexation. Texas was admitted to the Union as a state in 1845. The name "Texas," said to be of Indian origin, meaning "friends" or "allies" and which was also used as a form of greeting, was introduced by the early Spanish explorers, from whom later French and English settlers received it. From the earliest days of its settlement up to the present the people of Texas have lived up to this name, for their hospitality and genuine friendliness have become a part of their very nature.

"I would be friends with you and have your love."—Merchant of Venice.

The early pioneers, trekking their weary way across endless miles, were the first to realize the potential greatness of Texas, though they could not visualize such a modern commonwealth as the state has become.

And Lee Listened.

Down San Antonio way the statement is often heard that one day in the early fifties General Robert E. Lee, then an officer in the United States army, with Joseph E. Johnston and Albert Sidney Johnston, was standing on a high bluff in Kerr county, Texas. As General Lee silently stood for a long time looking toward the northwest, one of his companions said: "What do you see?" "I am listening to the footsteps of oncoming millions," answered General Lee. Though about three-fourths of a century has passed since these prophetic words were uttered, millions have entered Texas and the end is not yet.

With its southern border extending farther south than any other state in the Union, except Florida, Texas offers almost every variety of climate, from the temperate southern coast region, through the plains to the mountains on the west. The highest peak east of the Rockies is El Capitan, or Guadalupe Peak, over 9,000 feet high in Culberson county, one of the 254 counties of the state.

Nature has endowed Texas with mineral treasures, the extent and variety of which are only beginning to be known. Its soil and its climate are conducive to agricultural abundance.

The state of Texas is an empire in itself, having a land area of 262,398 square miles. Texas is larger by 53,000 square miles than France, 88,000 square miles larger than Germany and 144,000 square miles larger than the United Kingdom. Its farm area alone is nearly equal to the total area of Germany.

Texas is as large as the combined land area of twelve (one-quarter of all the states in the Union) eastern and middle western states, including all of New England—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Ohio and Illinois. If the eastern edge of Texas were moved to New York City, the western end would extend beyond Chicago, the southern point would be near Raleigh, and the northern boundry 50 miles beyond Sault St. Marie. The cities embraced in this territory would include New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Washington, Richmond, Detroit, Toronto, Chicago, Milwaukee, Indianapolis and Cleveland. Texas is 740 miles from north to south and 825 miles from east to west. Of such is the vastness of Texas, and the opportunities and resources found there are in keeping with its size.

How Big Is Texas?

A Texan, with a flair for figures, recently outlined the "bigness" of his state in the following:

"Unless your front gate is eighteen miles from your front door you do not belong to society as it is constituted in Texas. One Texan's gate is one hundred and fifty miles from his front door and he is thinking of moving his house back so that he will not be annoyed by passing automobiles and peddlers.

"Other Texas landlords have whole mountain ranges and rivers on their ranches. One Texan has forty miles of navigable rivers on his farm. If the proportion of cultivated land in Texas were the same as in Illinois, the value of Texas crops would equal that of forty-seven other states.

"Texas has enough land to supply every man, woman and child in the world with a tract of five feet by twenty and have enough left over for the armies of the world to march around the border five abreast.

"If all the Texas steers were one big steer, he would stand with his front feet in the Gulf of Mexico, one hind foot in Hudson Bay and the other in the Arctic ocean, and with his tail brush the mist from the Aurora Borealis. Some state."

Vast as is Texas and its resources and great as has been its progress in the last fifty years, this one southern state offers opportunities for development which stagger the imagination. Glancing backward a few years, let us compare what the state has done in the way of material advancement and some idea can be gained of what may be expected in the near future.

One-Ninth the Wealth.

The wealth of Texas is now estimated at over $9,850,000,000, which is more than one-ninth of the wealth of the entire United States in 1900. Between 1900 and 1922, the wealth of Texas increased by $7,528,000,000, or 324 per cent.

The population of Texas in 1924 was over 5,000,000, compared with 3,048,000 in 1900, or an increase in 24 years of 65 per cent. Though Texas adjoins Mexico, the last census shows that 76 per cent of the population of the state is native white about 8 per cent foreign and but 15 per cent negro.

With Texas ranking first in area of all the states of the country, it is fifth in population and thirty-fifth based on the population per square mile. If Texas were settled as densely as some of the eastern states, it would have more than the population of the country, now estimated at over 112,000,000.

Over 100,000,000 acres in Texas are said to be suitable for cultivation and, as only 32,000,000 acres are now classed as improved, this indicates its cultivated area can be increased over 200 per cent. The census of 1920 gives Texas a total land area of 167,934,000 acres, with 114,020,000 acres in farms. The total number of farms was 436,000 and the value of all farm property was $4,447,420,000.

Texas now leads all the states of the Union in the value of its agricultural products. Last year the combined farm products, including all farm crops and livestock products, of Texas were valued at $1,292,000,000, farm crops alone bringing $920,000,000. The total crop area of Texas in 1924 was 29,292,000 acres, 16,198,000 acres of which were in cotton, producing 4,770,000 bales, or 36 per cent of the country's cotton crop and about one-fifth of the world's output. The value of Texas' 1924 cotton crop, excluding seed, was $534,000,000, which is equivalent to about $106 for every man, woman and child in the state.

Variety for Farming.

Texas also produced in 1924 about 78,000,000 bushels of corn, 26,000,000 bushels of wheat, 49,000,000 bushels of oats, 45,000,000 bushels of grain sorghums, and other grains. Because of climatic and soil conditions, Texas is enabled to produce a great variety of crops and crop diversification is making rapid strides, enormous gain in recent years being made in food and truck crops in furnishing winter and early spring vegetables and fruit to northern markets.

With its great development in farming, Texas is still one of the leading cattle states and has the largest ranches. On one of the larger ranches, the Taft Ranch, are vast cotton and feed crop fields, a number of industrial plants, all served by natural gas. Among these plants are meat packing, electric light and ice plants, cotton gins and cotton compresses, an oil refinery, a feed mill, poultry hatchery, and plans include a creamery, soap factory and cotton mill.

That Texas is not entirely a cattle and agricultural region is realized when one learns that in 1923 the combined value of the manufactured products of the state was $970,667,000, or about three-fourths of the aggregate value of its farm products for one year. In 1923 the value of cotton manufactures in Texas was $17,596,000, and the textile industry is just beginning to expand there, furniture products brought $2,746,000 and its mineral products that year were valued at $264,000,000. Though Texas has vast prairies and arid lands, its wooded areas annually produce about a billion and a half feet of lumber.

And Always the Oil.

Over 132,000,000 barrels of petroleum were produced in Texas in 1924, more than doubling the entire country's output for 1900. Great as has been Texas' oil and gas development, no one can say when the last new field has been discovered, even in the oldest territory.

In its fuel resources, Texas is fortunate in having, in addition to oil and gas, both coal and lignite deposits of undetermined extent. Texas mined 1,075,000 tons of coal in 1924, and is known to have 8,000,000,000 tons of coal and 23,000,000,000 tons of lignite reserves.

Potash has recently been discovered in Western Texas and development is proceeding. Should these valuable deposits come up to the expectations of many, this great mineral fertilizer material will be a vital factor to the country's agriculture, particularly to the south's cotton belt. Other minerals include salt, sulphur in great quantity, gypsum, fuller's earth, stone, clay, lime and cement, building stone and granite, road materials, iron ore, silver, quicksilver, copper, coal, lead, molybdenum, zinc and a great variety of other minerals as yet but little developed. Texas is the only state producing in commercial quantities the newly discovered non-explosive helium gas, which is being utilized in our airships.

Aggregate banking resources of Texas in 1924 amounted to $1,144,726,000 and individual deposits $764,869,000. Texas' banking resources have more than trebled since 1910 and are now about one-ninth of the banking resources reported for the entire country in 1900.

In 1924 there was shipped through Texas ports merchandise valued at $706,756,000, which is $262,000,000 more than was shipped through all the ports of the Pacific coast that year. Over 15 per cent of the country's total export value passed through Texas ports in 1924.

Texas is now spending for good roads more than the entire United States spent twenty years ago. Last year Texas' highway expenditures amounted to $64,000,000, or about seven times what the state was spending on good roads work in 1910.

In 1922, the latest date available, public school expenditures of Texas were $52,452,000, nearly five times the similar expenditures by the state in 1910. The enrollment of elementary and secondary schools in 1922 was about 80 per cent of the total population of 5-17 years, numbering 1,460,170. In 1922 Texas had 595 high schools, enrolling 80,169 secondary pupils, and 36 universities, colleges and professional schools with 21,951 students.

And thus one could go on and on in making a statistical comparison that would completely show the vast magnitude and great progress of Texas.

In the following compilation will be found a summary of facts on the material development of Texas, which clearly illustrates the great progress the state has made in 24 years, or from 1900 to 1924.

CHURCHES

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH, SOUTH.

Rev. Walter J. Johnson, the pastor, will preach both morning and evening at the First Methodist church, south, Tenth and Laar streets. His subject in the orning will be "We Are His Workmanship," and at night "Sowing and Reaping." The night service will be held on the lawn just south of the church. A great chorus choir will fill the platform, and the music will be exceptionally fine.

The Sunday school opens at 9:30 a. m. The Kay Bible class for men meets at the Strand theatre and offers a program of fine helpfulness to all who attend. All other classes meet in and around the church.

The Junior league meets at 3 p. m., Senior leagues at 6:45. All the Senior leagues will meet in joint session and a report of the recent conference at Sherman will be given. The Wichita Falls district brought home two loving cups or efficient work.

Next Thursday evening the closing exercises will be given for the vacation Bible school. The children have done very efficient work during the four weeks of the school. All parents and friends are invited to come at seven o'clock and view the exhibits of the work done by the children. At eight o'clock four short plays will be given on the lawn next to the church. The public is invited to come and see the extraordinary work done by the children in this short period.

FLORAL HEIGHTS METHODIST CHURCH.
S. A. Barnes, Pastor.

The pastor will fill the pulpit at both morning and evening hours. Morning worship begins at 11 a. m. and the evening service begins at 8:15. In the morning the choir will sing "Hark, Hark, My Soul" and Mrs. Nicholls will play "Grand March" and "A Day in Springtime," by Kinder. Mr. Evans and Mr. Ross will sing "Lead Me Gently Home Father," and the choir will sing "The Lord Is Exalted," at the evening hour. The Intermediate league will meet at 6 p. m. with Velva Lee Chambers as leader. Senior league No. 1 will have a combined social and devotional program, and hear reports from delegates to the league conference at Sherman. Senior league No. 2, will have a recreational program led by Mr. Lloyd Bland and directed by Mr. Milton Gaines. Refreshments will be served by the recreational committee. These two leagues will meet at 7:00 p. m. Monday the Woman's Missionary society will meet in a combined Bible and mission study at the church at 3 p. m. The senior board of stewards will meet at 8 p. m. Monday in a called session. Tuesday at 8 p. m. the Girls' Glee club will meet for rehearsal. All young ladies who attend this church are eligible for membership and are invited to attend this meeting. The club is directed by Mrs. Luella B. Thompson. Wednesday the mid-week service will be held at 8:15. Thursday at 8 p. m. the choir will have its regular rehearsal. Boy Scouts will meet Friday night at 8. The Junior chorus will not meet again until September.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
(Corner Tenth and Bluff Streets.)

Sabbath school begins at 9:30 a. m. Special music by the orchestra.

At the morning hour of worship Dr. Burma has chosen for his theme "Planted Lies." The quartet will sing "Blessed Are the Merciful," by Hiles. Opportunity will be given at this service for church membership and infant baptism.

The evening service is held on the lawn where it is always cool and pleasant. Three special numbers will be given for the musical program, in addition to the song service which precedes the service. The quartet will sing "God Is a Spirit" from the "Woman of Samaria" by Bennett and "The Beautiful Country" by Park, and Messrs. Law and Willgus will sing as a duet the old hymn "O, Jesus Thou Art Standing." The theme for the evening sermon is "The Broken Can Be Mended."

Christian Endeavor societies meet one hour before the evening service in the regular consecration service. All the young people of the church are invited to attend.

YALE AVE. EVANGELICAL CHURCH.
(Cor. Yale and Twenty-second Sts.)

W. D. Cook, pastor; J. L. Arnold, superintendent.

Sunday school will begin at 9:45 followed by the morning worship. Subject: "The Need of Helping the Young People of Our Community in Building a Greater Church Attendance?" This subject should appeal to each father and mother in this part of the city to the extent that they would come and bring their children and remain for the church service.

The juniors will meet in practice for the Children's Day exercise and each father and mother is kindly asked to see that their children are here to take part in the practice. The Intermediates will meet at 6 p. m. and I think their leader, Miss Golda, has something special for them. Come and see. The Seniors will meet at 7:30 p. m. with Miss Venta Hosford as leader. Following this we will have the regular evening worship, with another great subject under consideration. "Christ Welcoming the Seeker." Monday 3 p. m. Ladies' Aid will meet with a place to be selected in the morning service. Wednesday evening prayer service.

Have you placed your bid on the 1924 Ford Coupe? Birch & Gates, 523 Indiana.—Adv.

BALANCED TRADE.

The commerce department's summary of its exhaustive inquiry into the varied elements of our foreign trade for 1924 should be gratifying to the advocates of a balanced exchange of commodities and services between nations. After every item, visible and invisible, has been counted and due allowance made for every possible factor, the balance for this country stands at $4,000,000. This figure is fairly insignificant when compared to the sum total of all our transactions with foreign nations during 1924, however large it may appear to the individual accustomed to thinking in considerably smaller terms.

Taking together our export and import, trade in merchandise, our investments abroad, collections on interest owed our government, shipping charges, tourist payments, immigrant remittances and credit and debit bank balances the total volume of our foreign trade is close to $11,000,000. Our $4,000,000 balance is to this full sum as 1 to 2,750. Or expressed in decimals, the relation of our balance to the whole volume of trade is .0004.

Either of these calculations, admittedly approximate, should satisfy the demand for a balanced trade as either leaves this country barely on the right side of the ledger, and that by a practically irreducible margin. Those of us, however, who believe in a surplus of production over consumption to maintain a healthy industry, an excess of sales over purchases to keep business going without the fear of a big slump just ahead, may not be so pleased at the slender showing made for a favorable balance. But when told of a merchandise balance of $980,000,000 proponents of a huge surplus must also be satisfied.

We are approaching the time when we will again be reckoning our trade balances in billions as we did during the post war boom. In 1924 our favorable balance more than doubled, almost trebled, that of 1923 which was only $375,000,000. It did this despite the fact that more than three-quarters of a billion dollars was paid to us in interest by foreign governments and individuals. The tremendous import of such a large balance is only obscured by the purchase here of $1,209,000,000 of new foreign securities. This financing is obviously looking to the future. It runs much ahead of trade in commodities. But it may not continue so much in advance of our favorable merchandise balance.

The tendency to loan in such volume is already receiving discouragment. Besides, it must slacken somewhat as Europe's need for borrowing becomes less. Our production and our export trade must greatly out-distance our financing of foreign enterprises. We have absorbed the supposed ill-effects of large interest payments to us by debtor governments and individuals abroad. We are now adjusting ourselves to our new adventure in the foreign investment field. Even when the debtor governments that have not paid us fund their obligation to this country we should be able to preserve a favorable balance of trade.

We are loaning on the basis of our export trade to enable foreigners to pay for our goods. We are not likely to loan more than our favorable balance would seem to justify. The $1,209,000,000 of new foreign financing during 1924 falls below our favorable balance for the same period when the loans for refunding of older maturing loans are subtracted. The difference is about $100,000,000 in our favor, which added to the balance of $4,000,000, when all items are counted, restores us to something like our old position. Our balance must be steadily increased as our production tends to overtake our foreign investments. So we should look for gains rather than losses in this direction.

TEXAS IS PROSPEROUS.

From San Antonio, Houston and Dallas come favorable reports of business conditions in Texas. Officials of the Missouri Pacific railroad returning to San Antonio from a trip to Mexico report: "the railroad business in Mexico is good and getting better. Physical properties of railroads there are in good condition, and the future looks bright. Our agency in the City of Mexico is transacting considerable business, and we were pleased with our visit." This business in Mexico City is promoting passenger and freight traffic over the Missouri Pacific lines in Texas. As these lines comprise not only the regular trunk lines of the Missouri Pacific, but also the International-Great Northern, the Gulf Coast and the San Antonio, Uvalde & Gulf, business for them means business for practically the entire state.

The federal Land bank of Houston reports that there has been no slackening of building and industrial activities in Texas. While the rest of the country is experiencing a slowing up in the building trades, Texas is maintaining her rate of progress. Northern California alone shows anything like the activity here.

Dallas matched this good news from Houston by reporting that wholesale and retail trade in general merchandise is fairly good for all Texas. Weather conditions are now considered favorable for grain and cotton crops. And not only are crop prospects brightening, but the farmers' financial position is such that they could weather a few reverses. M. H. Gossett, president of the Federal Land bank of Houston, sets forth this condition as reflected in the farmers' borrowings and repayments of government loans.

"It is gratifying," states Mr. Gossett, "to the Federal Land bank of Houston, which serves Texas, that we lead all banks of the system in the small percentage of delinquents and in the small number of foreclosures. Of the $120,000,000 of loans to more than 41,000 farmers, less than one-fifth of one per cent was delinquent May 1, and only 21 farm mortgages were foreclosed in the last eight years, with no loss to date. The Federal Intermediate bank of Houston has rediscounted more than $10,000,000 of livestock paper for banks and other eligible agencies, with nearly $6,000,000 of this character of paper pending on our books now. It has discounted for farm bureau marketing associations, on the security of cotton, wool and mohair, more than $4,000,000, all of which was paid at maturity."

"FLEXIBLE" INDEED.

After having waited nearly a year to act upon the recommendation of the Tariff commisison for lower rates on raw sugar imports, President Coolidge has finally made up his mind, or rather he has reorganized the fact that his mind is not made up. To cover his long delay he has issued a lengthy statement, going thoroughly into details but failing to arrive at any conclusion. Quite surprisingly he claims the right to exercise a discretion which was never before supposed to be vested in him. It was thought that under the tariff commission the president would act more or less in line with the commission's findings. But Mr. Coolidge has calmly set aside the commission's recommendation, declaring it unconvincing. He has questioned whether an investigation could reveal the facts in regard to production costs at home and abroad.

The president has formed an independent opinion based upon sugar prices in this country from the time the commission's investigation was initiated in 1923 to the present, a period of almost two years. The opinion bears not the slightest relation to the question of production costs. In effect Mr. Coolidge asserts that production costs are immaterial and that prices are of genuine consequence. Thus without realizing it, he confesses the uselessness of a "flexible" tariff plan operated on commission advice and by executive decree.

It would be a mistake, however, to suppose that the president's opinion is based solely upon facts developed by himself. His view is strongly tinctured by political and partisan considerations. He is a champion of high tariff rates and does not scruple to digress from the subject of an adjusted sugar schedule and enter upon a warm defense of the protective policy. His unconditional adherence to the protective theory undoubtedly was largely responsible for his refusal to adopt the tariff commission's recommendation in favor of lower sugar rates.

Mr. Coolidge's figures show that there was reason for lowering the sugar tariff when an investigation was initiated, but that such reason has now passed away. In short, a bad condition has cured itself before a so-called flexible tariff provision could be made to work. Sugar prices in the pre-war and post-war periods varied widely. In 1923, the wholesale price was 8.4 cents a pound, as against an average from 1909 to 1913 of 4.9 cents. The president states that this disparity "furnished reasonable grounds for complaint and suggested remedied action through reduction of the tariff on raw sugar." But before the tariff could be reduced, the price of sugar declined. Refined sugar sold at wholesale on July 31, 1924, at 6.37 and had fallen to 5.48 cents by May 7, 1925. The present price of raw sugar is 4.27 cents against 5.78 cents a year ago and the five-year post-war average of 7.38 cents.

This downward movement in sugar prices, leads Mr. Coolidge to believe that after almost two years of delay, nothing need be done to adjust the sugar schedule. But he reached no firm conclusion. He remains open to conviction on the subject, and to show his breadth of mind he gives this bit of encouraging information to the country: "If through decreased production or other conditions, the world market should be relieved of the weight of sugar now pressing upon it, and the consumer should again be compelled to pay the abnormally high price complained of in 1923, the change in conditions might warrant a reconsideration of the present decision to postpone action upon the recommendation offered in the majority report of the tariff commission."

That is to say if we wait another two years something may be done about this matter. But what earthly use is a tariff provision which is operated with such unconscionable slowness?

BRYAN IN HIS ELEMENT.

Evidently, William Jennings Bryan had in mind some of the thoughtless arguments of teachers of evolution when he issued his formal statement in Chicago on the issue involved in the Scope case. It is easy to imagine the Commoner stung into resentful retort by the following tactless assertion of David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford university: "The control of schools belongs to experts, not to the mob." This was like a challenge to Bryan, who has always served "the mob," that is to say, the people. In taking up the challenge he found himself in his element. Speaking, not of religion or science primarily, but of the right of the people to their schools, he said:

"If the number of scientists is put at 11,000 it makes about one scientist for every 10,000 people—a pretty little oligarchy to put in control of the education of all the children. A teacher must respect the wishes of his employers on all subjects upon which the employers have a deep-seated conviction. The same logic would suggest that a teacher receiving pay in dollars on which is stamped 'In God we trust' should not be permitted to teach in the class room that there is no God. Neither should he be allowed to accept employment in a Christian community and teach that the Bible is not true. That is the Tennessee case."

On the popular side of any question Bryan has few equals. If in the present controversy he avoids attacking science and keeps out of abstract discussions of religion, he will prove a strong pleader for due restraint in the teaching of intricate and complicated subjects, such as the brain taxing theory of evolution in the public schools.

WHY NOT A CHEERFUL FUNERAL

Arkansas to the fore. U. M. Rose of Arkansas in his lifetime was one of the great lawyers of America and a leading democrat of his state. His widow died the other day, but before the call came, she left instructions that the singers at her funeral should sing in their natural voices. She said she did not want her funeral to be gloomy, and asked that there be no eulogy.

Southern born and southern to the core, she instructed that pews on one side of the pulpit should be reserved for negroes. These are her written words, "The negroes have done much for me; have waited on me and kept me from drugery all my life and I have never received an act of unkindness from one of them."

She closed her letter of instuctions by urging her children who were at her bed side not to mope and stay at home but to go out and brighten the world. A remarkable woman, a woman with a mind as well as with a soul. Flowers for the dead.

COTTON AND SUGAR PROSPECTS.

According to the sharps of the cotton and sugar world, American cotton prospects are generally favorable, and the European sugar area this year will equal that of 1924, while cane sugar producing countries report favorable conditions.

All foreign cotton producing countries indicate an area equal to or greater than 1924. It is said the condition of the growing cotton crop in Mexico is favorable and that Russia will have an acreage increase of from 17 to 35 per cent.

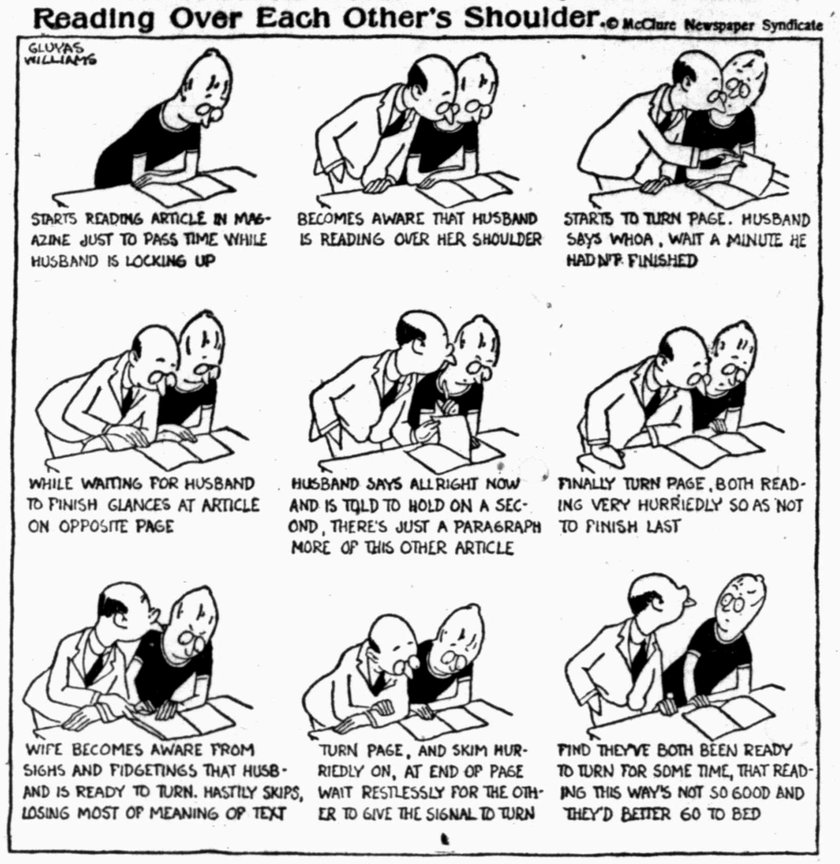

European sugar beet acreage is greater than that of 1924. If the prospects for a great sugar crop are so favorable, President Coolidge must have overlooked a political bet when he ignored the two per cent reduction recommended by one of his commissions.

Americans per capita are the greatest consumers of sugar that time has known. They would have welcomed a cut in the price of sugar. It is not coming this year.

LAND'S END--By William Almon Wolff

CHAPTER 1.

Peyton Ashe—most people called him Pete—finished balancing his check book, after an hour's exhausting work, and found that there remained to his credit eleven dollars and sixty-three cents. Much concerning Pete will be revealed, probably by the statement that the result gave him considerable pleasure. The figures, to be sure, were not large; most men, contemplating so slender a balance, might have been depressed. Not Pete. He had undertaken the horrid task of balancing the book simply because of a still more horrid fear that his account was overdrawn. And they had spoken sternly about that at the bank, the last time he had been there. Accordingly the fact that there was any balance at all delighted him.

It was about eleven o'clock in the morning when Pete finished his mathematical labors. He knew he ought to work, because, after all, eleven dollars and sixty-three cents wouldn't go very far, and no one owed him any money; no one, that is, who was at all likely ever to pay up. He knew that if he settled down to it and turned out a decent lay-out, Campbell would order it—and pay well for it. He also knew that if he called up any one of three or four art editors he knew, he could get a story to illustrate.

The trouble was that he didn't feel like doing anything of the sort. He wanted to paint. He wanted to paint outdoors, miles from the city—preferably on a beach, among sand dunes at sunset. Sand took the most extraordinaary colors just as sunset.

But he couldn't afford to do any painting. He glanced around at innumerable unsold canvases. He wasn't a bit cast down by the sight; the way he put it to himself was that he'd lot rather keep them and sell them himself, later, when his price had gone up, than know how dealers were cashing in on his success. But, just the same, he had no right to do any painting. If he'd done less of it in the past, and more illustrating and commercial stuff, he'd be able to do all he liked of it now. He knew that there was something wrong with that line of thought, and yet that fundamentally, it was sound common sense.

Anyway, if he'd made more money, a lot of things would be different now. He'd have a better chance, for instance, with Elizabeth. He had a profound conviction that one of the reasons she treated him so abominably was that he had no money, as a rule. Not that he put her down as mercenary, at all; he knew she wasn't. But she probably regarded the ability to make money as extremely desirable in a husband, and he was obliged to admit that a good deal was to be said for that idea. Of course she was engaged to Denniston, too, but that, somehow, didn't seem to matter very much.

Very naturally, since he ought to have done one sort of work and wanted to do another, he did neither. And yet, before the bank closed that afternoon, his balance had risen from eleven dollars and sixty-three cents to forty-seven thousand, eight hundred and forty-one dollars and nineteen cents.

The way Pete came to acquire the additional $47,829.56 was entirely simple and natural. The postman came, downstairs, and knocked and whistled and shouted, and generally made a nuisance of himself until Pete went down, and found that he had a registered letter. It was from a law firm in Cleveland, and it informed Pete that final settlement of the estate of his uncle, George Turner Ashe, had been made and that a draft on New York for the amount due to him payable to his order, was enclosed.

The lawyers seemed to regard the whole thing as absurdly commonplace. The letter wasn't even properly signed; Mr. Johnson, a rubber stamp assured him, had dictated it, but had left the office before it was typed. So some stenographer had signed it for him. This was, it seemed to Pete, an extremely perfunctory way in which to transact important business.

He wasn't simply surprised, he was stunned, overwhelmed, amazed. He had known of course that his uncle George was dead he'd heard that rather more than a year ago. He had made appropriate comment upon the sad occasion, which had reminded him, for the first time in several years, that he had an uncle George, and then had forgotten all about him. Later these same lawyers had written him a long letter, telling him that his uncle had died intestate—which he remembered thinking he seemed to him something or a doctor, rather than a lawyer to write about, if it was necessary to go into such matters at all. After all the old boy was dead—de mortuis nil nisi bonum, and all that.

The lawyers had, unquestionably, done their duty, so far as the fact that they had never set eyes on Pete permitted. They had kept him fully informed of developments—at least, their letters would have kept anyone who could have translated their legal verbiage into English dully informed. Pete ought to have known that his uncle had died without issue, and without a will, leaving an estate of nearly two million dollars.

But the idea that any of these things had any personal meaning or significance for him simply never got across to him until he sat fingering that draft. It looked all right. When he took it up to the bank and asked what he ought to do with it, the teller took it away from him, and held it while he wrote his name on the back, and assured him that it was so very much all right that the bank would gladly honor his check for $47,841.19.

He wandered out into the street in a somewhat dazed condition, convinced that there was a catch somewhere. Then he went back, and, tentatively, wrote out a check for two hundred and fifty dollars, and thereafter, did something that struck him as distinctly clever. He presented the check to another teller, who looked at it, and then at him—he knew Pete—as if he felt that practical jokes represented an extremely low form of humor.

"Just a minute," he said, and disappeared to a telephone placed so as to be out of hearing of anyone at the window.

Pete knew what he was doing though, and his feelings weren't hurt at all.

The bank was very nice, it always cashed his checks without bothering to verify his balance, when they weren't for more than ten dollars. And he was, as a matter of fact, extremely glad that the teller hadn't given him the money right away, because, though his knowledge of such matters was pretty vague, Pete had an idea that you could be arrested for cashing a check when you didn't have money enough in the bank.

CHAPTER 2.
An Embryo Motorist.

Whereas, of course, when the chap returned, and pushed the check back at him and told him it was no good, he could tell him what the other fellow had said about that draft and they could see that he hadn't been to blame. Just as he was getting all this thought out the teller came back, looking surprised, and asked him how he would have it. Pete being quite unable to answer the teller gave him twenty-five ten-dollar bills, and the man behind him in the line gave him a discreet push to wake him up, and he went out, more dazed than ever, with his hand in his trousers pocket, clutching the crisp roll of bills.

When he was in the street again, Pete realized, definitely, that life had changed; that he faced a wholly new situation, which had to be met with firmness.

"Gosh!" he said to himself. "Holy cat!"

It wasn't the fact that he was rich, exactly, that was so staggering. He'd never been really poor; he just had never had any money, which is a wholly different thing. He hadn't as a matter of fact, made less than seven or eight thousand dollars in any given year since he had settled down in New York, and he had never, so far as he could remember, ever more than five hundred dollars at any given time, or owed less than three or four hundred.

And now he had—he tried to do a sum in mental arithmetic, but the street was pretty crowded. Well, very nearly fifty thousand dollars. Slowly the thing grew on him. He could—Lord, he could do just as he jolly well pleased! Paint—paint all the dunes and sunsets he liked! Go anywhere he pleased. The idea of movement appealed to him. He beckoned to a passing taxi.

"Right—where to, boss?" said the driver, holding the door open.

"Well, it's this way," said Pete. "I want to buy a car. What kind would you get?"

"How much do you want to pay." asked the driver.

"I don't know—what do you think"

"I got you," said the driver. "Say—take a tip from me. Don't you buy no new car. You get in and I'll take you to a gyp. He's one grand guy. He'd leave his old grandmother carfare if he met her in an alley on a dark night—he's got just that big a heart. But he can't put anything over on me, see? You just keep quiet and leave it to me."

Here was a man, plainly after Peter's own heart. He got in, and admired prodigiously the way his driver darted in and out of the traffic. Pretty soon he would be doing likewise. He began putting on the brakes himself at Times Square; thanks to his aid, they achieved a turn on two wheels in the Fifties, and the cab stopped in front of what had once, apparently been a stable of the baser sort. Pete got out, and the driver, after an inward struggle turned up his flag, so that the meter stopped clicking up dimes. To the discerning little things like these tell much.

Inside the stable, which was full of cars, a small man in a check suit, with bright eyes, a vivid complexion and a gold tooth, greeted them.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

By MABEL HERBERT URNER.

"Leave us parked in this sizzling sun," grumbled Warren, as Helen got out of the car. "Now ten minutes is your limit!"

"Our last stop," laughed Mrs. Wilbur, opening the gate to the white frame house with the ever-magnetic sign, "Antiques." "Stay there, Midgie, you're not coming!"

But ignoring her mother's admonitions, Midgie scrambled out and bounded up the sun-baked path.

Reaching the door first, she stood on tiptoe to yank the old pull bell.

The far-off jingle was answered by a stout woman in checked gingham.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Burns. Did you get that lowboy?"

"They won't sell it. I was up there last week. No, Mrs. Wilbur, I've nothing you haven't seen. Harder every day to get the good stuff."

"Well, we'll look through anyway. Mrs. Curtis, from New York," introducing Helen. "She's interested in old needlework—particularly samplers."

"Three nice samplers upstairs—in the front room."

"We'll look down here first. Don't, Midgie, now you mustn't touch a thing!"

The two living rooms and the dining room bristled with antiques. Everything marked in plain figures, Helen was staggered at the prices.

Sixty dollars for a comb-back Windsor. Three hundred seventy for a banjo clock. Twelve hundred for a highboy. Four hundred fifty for a gate-leg table.

"Nice pink lustre," Mrs. Wilbur took up a sugar bowl from the sideboard. "Cracked? What a pity."

"That's why it's so cheap. Worth fifty perfect."

Upstairs in the stiling, low-ceilinged bedrooms everything, though used by the family, had a price tag.

Four posters, highboys, lowboys, corner-cupboards, sewing-tables. Mahogany, pine, cherry, and the now coveted curly maple.

Over a sloped-top desk hung one of the samplers. Crudely worked on coarse linen. Only the alphabet, a four-line dolorous verse, a vine border, and "Sarah Mifflin, Age 12, Her Sampler, 1827."

"That's in perfect condition. It came from an old Philadelphia family."

"I'm interested in the earlier ones," evaded Helen, noting the "$45" tag.

"You won't find them now—all picked up. And that won't be here long."

The other two samplers were equally coarse, uninteresting, and high-priced.

Feeling she was expected to buy, Helen looked for something "small" and reasonable. But the recent boom in American antiques had carried prices skyward.

"Is there enough in any of these for a bedspread?" Mrs. Wilbur was rummaging through a pile of old glazed chintz.

"These two pieces are alike—they were curtains. Yes, plenty," spreading them on the bed. "You can have the two for thirty dollars."

"No, I wouldn't take them," advised Helen, when Mrs. Burns ran down to the phone. "I never like dark things on a bed. I'd much rather have that candlewick spread."

"But this old chintz is so serviceable. You don't have to wash it. Just wipe it off with a damp cloth—put that down, Midgie! Like you would oilcloth."

While Mrs. Wilbur bargained for the chintz, Helen explored the rear rooms.

An old bandbox! Covered with flowered paper, an oval landscape on each side.

It could not be much. And she had always wanted an antique bandbox.

"Is there a price on this?" taking it into the other room.

"That was fifteen dollars—but you can have it for twelve."

"Oh, how quaint. Midgie, mind mother, put that down!"

Twelve Helen had thought five at the most. But in this antique-touring day she had not bought a thing while Mrs. Wilbur's "finds" crowded the car.

"Very well. I'll take it," concealing her reluctance.

"How much longer?" shouted Mr. Wilbur from below. "We're broiling out there in the sun."

"Oh, come on up, George—I want you to see these painted chairs."

Mopping his forehead, he frowned at the hard, wood seats.

"Where you going to put them? Not in my room?"

"No, for the hall uphairs. Don't you love this old stenciling?" admiring the fruit-and-flower design on the back.

Helen, though an ardent "antiqueer," could never see the craze for the old kitchen furniture. The rough pine tables and painted chairs of the early thirties seemed now no more suited for libraries and living rooms than they had been then. How could collectors turn from Sheraton and Hepplewhite to this crude carpentry?

And forty dollars each! Eighty for those two straight, pine chairs seemed exorbitant. But Mrs. Wilbur was determined to have them.

The delivery arranged for, they filed out with the smaller purchases.

The car not there! Warren had driven down the road to a shady elm.

"Sat in that sun til I fried!" fossing away his cigar. "More junk? Where you goin' to put it? No, you don't—you can't cover those brakes."

"Then we'll make room back here. Midgie, you climb in first. Careful, don't put your feet on that!"

The long drive back was trying for them all. The heat grew more humid, and the roads were choked with the Sunday home-going traffic.

Warren, always disgruntled on hot, all-day motor trips, was glumly silent.

Tired and fretful, Midgie wriggled and squirmed and whined.

"Why don't you take a nap?" Helen drew her skirt from the dusty restless feet.

"Want some ice cream. Daddy, there's a place!" as they approached a "Hot Dog & Ice Cream" sign.

"That doesn't look clean. Wait till we come to a nice place," urged Helen.

But Midgie, shrilly insistent, they stopped at the oilclothed stand.

"Now hold it straight! Don't get it on Mrs. Curtis!" warned her mother, as Midgie licked the dripping cone.

Further on, they turned from the crowded highway into a rough and dusty road.

"George, this's awful!" as they bumped along. "We should've kept to the highway."

"Take us all night in that jam—and Curtis wants to make the 8:10."

"Why don't you stay till morning? Now, look, Midgie, all down the front of your dress! The trains tonight'll be packed. Here, take mother's handkerchief."

"Now, we've got to get home,' announced Warren with grim finality.

"Hold it over the handkerchief! There's a good train in the morning—at 7:45. Next time we'll leave you at home with Buster."

"What's that sign?" Mr. Wilbur peered through a cloud of dust. "Turn here?"

"No, straight on," directed Warren. "Have to hit it up to make that 8:10."

"Wanna sit in front with daddy!" whimpered Midgie, her cone dispatched.

"No, this's a bad road—you can't crowd daddy now. No, I'm not going to hold you—it's too hot."

It was half-past seven when, with edged nerves and tempers, they finally reached "Hillcrest," the Wilburs' attractive country place.

"Never again patent leathers on a hot day!" Mrs. Wilbur limped from the car. "Come, Midgie, what're you doing?"

"Dropped my fan behind Daddy," hanging over the front seat.

Wriggling back, one dangling foot crushed into Helen's precious bandbox!

"What have you done?" her mother yanked her from the car.

Helen snatched up the box. A ruinous gash in the antique flowered lid!

"I say, that's a shame," Mr. Wilbur viewed the damage.

"Now, look what you did! This's the last time we'll take you! But I'm sure it can be fixed—can't you paste a piece underneath?"

"Perhaps I can," murmured Helen, repressing her indignation.

"Now never mind that fool bandbox!" brusqued Warren. "Only twenty-five minutes to make that train!"

Upstairs in the guest room, with flurried haste she threw their things into the suitcase.

"Can I help you?" Mrs. Wilbur came to the door.

"No, I think I've everything," wrapping Warren's shaving set in his pajamas.

"I hope you get a seat. That train's always packed on Sundays. Yes, in a minute, Midgie—stop yelling. All that crowd from the shore."

"We'll try for a chair car," cramming in her satin mules.

"Ready?" Warren strode in. "Here, what's this? Left this out?"

"Oh, your sweater! Never mind, I'll carry it. You can lock this now."

Downstairs, and out to the car, where Mr. Wilbur was filling the radiator.

"Shame you can't stay till morning. George, that tail light isn't on."

"Yes, we'd love to—we've enjoyed it so much," Helen placed her crushed bandbox on the seat. "Now do let us know when you come in. We'll take you to that Italian place for dinner."

"Only twelve minutes!" Warren accelerated the diffuse good-byes.

The next moment they were speeding down the dusty driveway.

Would they make it? The road swarming with squawky, hot-breathed cars, their progress was maddeningly slow.

Twice held up at cross roads, they reached the station just as the fiery-eyed train thundered in.

"Look at that mob!" Mr. Wilbur sprang out. "Chair cars way up the other end! We'll have to hurry—it's a long train."

"No, don't you wait," Warren took their suitcase from him. "No sense gettin' you in this jam. So long, had a great time! I'll see Winthrop or you tomorrow."

"Oh, dear, we'll never get on! They're pushing so! Oh—oh—"

"Keep close to me," elbowing his way past the teeming, sweltering day coaches to the white-linened Pullmans at the rear.

"My bandbox!" trying to hold it over her head. "Oh, I can't stand this crush! We'll wait till morning. Quick—call Mr. Wilbur!"

"No, we won't," grimly, wedging through. "We're goin' on this train!"

"Look how they're packed in the aisles Warren, we can't get on!" frantically. "We'll have to go back!"

"Now no goin' back! Hope you're gettin' your fill of these week-end trips. Last we take this summer. What's that? The Blakes? Well write 'em we got smallpox or the pip!" savagely. "Cook up any excuse you want—but we're not goin'! I'm fed up with heat and dust and sweaty mobs. Next Sunday I stay home—parked in the tub with a palm-leaf fan!"

Next Week—"Their Humiliating Return."

Altus Grocer Can't Rent, So Builds

ALTUS, Okla., June 20.—Inability to rent a store in Altus to house his grocery stock has caused J. P. Newton, local groceryman, to contract for the construction of a $5,000 grocery building. There is not an unoccupied business building in town.

TO BUILD COTTON MILL

Childress, Wichita Falls and Fort Worth Men Incorporate for $125,000.

CHILDRESS, June 20.—Announcement of proposed erection of a cotton mill here in the near future was made early this week by chamber of commerce officials who for some time have been actively engaged in a campaign to bring such an institution to Childress.

The mill is incorporated for $125,000, with the incorporators announced as C. C. Littleton of Fort Worth, Reece Allen of Wichita Falls and H. S. Black, Will P. Jones and J. M. Crewes of Childress.

For the time being it is planned to make the mill a four press affair and to double this capacity as soon as conditions warrant.

SCOUTS BACK FROM HOME.

30 From Childress Return From 5-Day Outing at Craterville, Okla.

CHILDRESS, June 20.—About 30 scouts from Childress have returned home from a five-day camping trip into the Wichita mountains at Craterville, Okla. It was the first camp of this nature ever to be enjoyed by Childress boy scouts, but it is already planned to make the event an annual affair.

The party was in charge of Walter S. Knox, director of boys' work in Childress, who was assisted by Scoutmasters Joe Stribling and Willard Price and assistant scoutmasters Max Leach and Roy Allmond.

The boys reported a highly enjoyable trip.

"VET" POLITICIAN IN FRANCE

Prominent Official Was Formerly a Student in Veterinary.

PARIS, June 20.—Pierre Renaudel, member of parliament and strong advocate of a capital levy, who with Leon Blum shares the leadership of the socialist party, completed a full course of study in veterinary surgery, but never practiced. He branched out into journalism, and later into politics. His political enemies often refer to him with mingled sarcasm and scorn as "the vet."

"Are you really a veterinary surgeon?" one of his millionaire colleagues from the Right parties asked him the other day at the close of a heated debate in the finance committee, in which M. Caillaux opposed and M. Renaudel championed a capital levy.

"Why do you ask?" queried Renaudel naively. "Are you ill?"

COMEDY FIRST THIS WEEK AT THEATRES

All Theatres Offers Films Advertised As Laughmakers

Beginning a new week, Wichita theatres will continue in their efforts to present the best in filmdom, if the bill boards are a true advertisement. Good stars and good films are promised.

Comedy will predominate, all three shows being featured as laugh makers but there will also be plenty of drama, and adventure intermingled.

"Grounds For Divorce," starting at the Olympic today for a three day run, offers comedy, romance and drama, all in one. Florence Vidor takes the leading role and plays it with her accustomed ability, she is supported by Matt Moore and Louise Fazenda.

Setting In Paris.

The story concerns the young and very much in love with her husband wife of a prominent Parisian divorce lawyer who unconsciously neglects his own wife to defend in court wives whose husbands have neglected them. The wedding anniversary is forgotten and a divorce ensues. The story offers with it all a bit of true life, enacted by good players, yet with it all a spirit of comedy that should please even the most exacting.

The story is advertised as "not solving or asking any matrimonial problem, it is only a lot of fun. It does ask the question however, "Is Paris the happy hunting grounds of divorce?"

Thursday the Olympic offers "The Crowded Hour," a drama of the trenches, worked out through the romance of the telephones. Rebe aniels takes the star part and is supported by Kenneth Harlan. The plot brings out its tense moments and the entire story is climaxed by the final decision of the telephone girl, that there is more than injured spirit in life. The play is unusual and recalls the time immediately following the war, of which only a few are left.

The Mission begins the week with a comedy that is guaranteed to produce its share of laughs. "The Desert Flower" features Colleen Moore, playing opposite Gene Corrado and Floyd Hughes.

The setting is taken in a desert while the plot centers around the adoration of a Mexican youth for the heroine. The hard road over which his romance leads him and the typical playing of Miss Moore make the film and excellent attraction.

An Odd Romance.

In addition to the comedy there is a romance with an odd angle and adventure that holds the attention.

A drama of the race track with actual scenes taken from the Havana track is the fore part of the week offering at the Strand. "Wildfire" starring Aileen Pringle promises romance and thrills galore. It is the story of a girl who inherits a racing stable from her father. How she makes the stable pay for itself and eventually find her a husband is pictured into a life like drama.

For the first time Aileen Pringle will be seen in the films with her hair bobbed. The story was decided upon when it was learned that the star had trimmed her tresses. Members of the supporting cast are Edna Murphy, Holmes Herbert, Edmund Breeze, Mary Thurman and Antrim Short.

Wednesday the Strand starts its "School for Wives" that also can aid in the education of a husband. Conway Tearle, Sigrid Holmquist and Peggy Kelly take the leading roles and play them in a manner befitting this trio of stars.

The plot concerns the love affair of a pretty young girl who is in love with a "no account" artist of bright future but little money. Being an artist he feels that the riches of the girl's father are tainted and refuses to marry the girl. The means by which the girl brings the man around to her way of thinking is told in a laughable film that will please everyone.

It is not a drama. It is strictly a comedy and promises an unusual number of laughs.

Feature Musical Comedy.

The Palace will continue to feature the Garden of Mirth Musical Comedy with Paul "Rusty" Scott, Lake Kellum and Lucile Kellum. The revue announces changes in program every Monday, Wednesday and Fridays. In addition to the three-act comedies presented each day the troupe has a beauty chorus and several specialty acts which it presents to good advantage.

In the films there will be Jack Hoxie in "Lightning Brice," the seriol shown every Sunday. Jack Herrin will also show Sunday in "Double Fisted."

Monday and Tuesday Bill Patton will star in "One of the Law," and on Wednesday and Thursday at night. Professor Howard R. Whiteside, heralded as the greatest scientist of the human mind will appear before Palace audiences.

Friday and Saturday Ed Cobb will be here in "The Sting of the Scorpion."

Florence Vidor, Matt Moore and Louise Fazenda Star at Olympic

Alice Sorbier, is a young and very-much-in-love-with-her-husband wife of a prominent Parisian divorce lawyer, Maurice Sorbier, who unconsciously neglects his wife, and the humor of the situation is clearly brought out when it is established that all of his law business involves his defending in court wives whose husbands have neglected them.

Matters reach a crisis on their wedding anniversary when Maurice, busy with the affairs of a new client, inadvertently spoils a theatre party Denise has planned. This proves the last straw—Alice sues and gets a divorce. To enumerate all the amusing complications that ensue when Denise learns that Maurice is going to marry her best friend, would be to describe every succeeding scene in the picture. Suffice to say, that Alice finally wins Maurice back by exercising her feminine ingenuity.

It all comes to the screen at the Olympic theatre today in the Paramount picture, "Grounds for Divorce," directed by Paul Bern, who made "The Dressmaker from Paris," from Guy Bolton's adaption of the play by Ernest Vaida.

Harry Myers, (the "Connecticut Yankee") heads the supporting cast, which includes, among others, George Andre Beranger, Gustave Von Seyffertitz and Edna Mae Cooper. Five of the famous beauties who appeared as models in "The Dressmaker from Paris" also have prominent roles in this production, which was adapted for the screen by Violet Clark.

"Wildfire" Is True to Life, With Racing Pictures Taken from Track

Not satisfied to have just a few flashes of racing scenes for "Wildfire," Vitagraph sent its entire company to Havana, Cuba, to bring back the most thrilling race episodes that could be "shot." T. Hayes Hunter, who directed the picture, spent several weeks at Oriental Park and finally got some actual race stuff, flying horses, yelling crowds, thrilling finishes and regular race track atmosphere that, worked in as the big punch of the play, will carry motion picture fans right to the track and make them live as part and parcel of the greatest sport in the world—well termed "The Sport of Kings." All the extras in these scenes are unconscious motion picture actors, for they were the real patrons of Havana's beautiful race course. They didn't have to be rehearsed because they were acting as their real selves—didn't know they were being photographed—were intent only on the whirling thoroughbreds that carried their hopes and their money to victory or defeat—and as a result "Wildfire" promises to be one of the most realistic racing dramas ever to come to the screen. This picture will be shown at the Strand theatre today. Aileen Pringle is the star and she is ably supported by Edna Murphy, Holmes Herbert, Mary Thurman, Edmond Breese and a number of other well known film players.

Tom Blake, who plays the important part of Matt Donovan in "Wildfire," the Vitagraph race picture that is playing at the Strand theatre, has a novel card for the tail-board of his automobile. Tom is surely up to the minute, if not a shade past it. The sign which he has hung right under his tail-light reads—"If you can read this you are too damn close."

Jack Perrin is seen as Jack Ransom, only son of a ranchman of the good old-fashioned school, in his newest Harry Webb-Rayart Whirlwind Western, "Double Fisted," which will be shown at the Palace theatre Sunday only. Molly Malone, well known to Wichita Falls audiences, has the lead opposite Mr. Perrin.

"Double Fisted" was written especially for the screen my Forrest Sheldon, author of a number of popular scheen successes. The continuity was given over to the capable hands of George Hull. And it was directed by Harry Webb himself, producer of the Whirlwind Western series, so with this combination it is safe to bet heavily on its being good.

The story of "Double Fisted," concerns a young man by the name of Jack Ransom, only son of a typical ranchman. After going away to a swanky Eastern college, he learns that his father has been defrauded out of the ranch and everything that he owns in the world. How Jack leaves at once for the West, obtains a job in the employe of the new owner and so exposes the fraudulency, is said to form one of the most absorbing stories of the wide open spaces ever written.

Comedy "Martyrdom" Is Shown In "Desert Flower" At the Mission

Comedy martyrdom—

What is it, and why?

It is the art of suffering and seeming to enjoy it.

And the object of it all, of course, is to make the world laugh.

Two examples that graphically illustrate the meaning of the phrase came to notice during the filming of "The Desert Flower," Colleen Moore's new First National picture, showing at the Mission today.

Jose, soulful-eyed Mexican, interpreted by Gene Corrado, whose affection for little Maggie Fortune, played by Miss Moore, is doglike and undying, strums his guitar under the heroine's window. Maggie, hearing the serenade, opens the window and tosses the vocalist an onion as a token of her complete disapproval.

Accepting the vegetable with as much delight as if it were an American Beauty rose, Jose gazes with ecstatic joy at the girl and proceeds to eat the onion as if it were a sweet, juicy apple. And all the while he eats he smiles and smiles.

That smile was nothing but sheer acting. One vegetable that Corrado detests and which invariably fills him with nausea is the onion.

Colleen herself, experienced this form of martyrdom when she appeared in a comedy scene depicting her taking an improvised shower bath in her boxcar home. In place of the tarpaulin, a rough burlap cloth sheathes her, exposing only shoulders and head. Just as the cameras begin to grind, one of those icy winter winds of the desert, where the scene was taken, sprang up. Shiveringly, Miss Moore suffered until the scene was completed.

And that's comedy "martyrdom."

"School For Wives" Is Also A School for Husbands, At Strand

A powerful story—one which not only entertains but makes folks think, is told in "School for Wives," the Victor Hugo Halperin production which comes to the Strand theatre Wednesday. It's the story of a wealthy girl who marries a poor artist, renouncing her father's fortune because it is "tainted."

An excellent cast, headed by the always popular Conway Tearle, interprets the various roles. The picture is said to be a welcome combination of thrills, color, action, suspense and romance. It is admirably directed.

Financial difficulties were not the sole cause of the rift on the matrimonial sea of Richard Keith and Betty Lynch (Conway Tearle and Sigrid Holmquist) in the early years of their union. They didn't get along happily for the reason that both had entered upon marriage with little though and no preparation.

Hence it is, that the suggestion contained in the title of this picture is carried out in the entire movement of the story. Why not a School for Wives, indeed, and a school for Husbands also? We are trained to be taxi-drivers, shoemakers, blacksmiths, almost everything in the world except husbands and wives, practitioners in the most important profession in life.

The coming of this unique picture is awaited with eager interest, therefore, not only because it is chockfull of entertainment, but because also it considers impressively this important question "School for Wives" is a faithful picturization of Leonard Merrick's great novel, "The House of Lynch," one of the best sellers of recent years.

He wandered to the back porch
To find a little breeze;
He tried it on the front porch—
It didn't make him sneeze!

He sauntered to the city park,
The sun was scorching hot,
No chance to find a cooling breeze
Around that crowded spot.

He drove out to the country
And found nobody there
The farmers all had gone to town
To get a breath of air!

And so he wandered home again
And phoned us for a fan;
And then—O Boy!—the cooling breeze

Bebe Daniels At Olympic Thursday In Latest Film, "The Crowded Hour"

Bebe Daniels comes to the screet at the Olympic theatre on Thursday next in her latest starring picture for Paramount, "The Crowded Hour," a picture version of the Selwyn-Pollock stage hit, written for the screen by John Russell and directed by E. Mason Hopper, who made "Janice Meredith."

Operator Role.

Miss Daniels has the role of Peggy Laurence, a telephone operator who aspires to a career as an actress. T. Roy Barnes, her pal, also has a yen to act, and they try out their talents on New York's Broadway crowd.

Kenneth Harlan, a rich young fellow from upper Park Ave., falls for the pretty Peggy. He has a wife, played by Helen Lee Worthing, former "Follies" beauty. But their married life is not congenial. Even Frank Morgan, as a friend of the family, cannot get things straightened out.

Harlan gets Bebe a job in the "Follies," with Barnes as a foil. Then the war comes, and Bebe and Barnes go to France as "Y" entertainers. Bebe's real purpose, however, is to be near Harlan, who has enlisted. She entertains the soldiers in the front line trenches, goes through a gas attack and makes a wild ride on a motorcycle in an effort to save Harlan, who has gone to destroy an ammunition dump before the enemy reach it.

Bebe heroically gives up Harlan who returns to the scene an exchanged prisoner, and turns to the tireless devotion of her stage partner.

Alice Chapin, Armand Cortez and Warner Richmond complete the cast of "The Crowded Hour."

AUTO INDUSTRY IN FRANCE IS GOOD-DEALERS

Industry Not as Good As In America is Report

The automobile industry in France at the present time is in a stationary period and while trade is good there is no such volume of business as if found in America today said M. Favrot, of the firm of Espanet & Favrot, Marmon dealers in Paris, who is visiting the factory of the Nordyke & Marmon company in Indianapolis for the first time since his firm obtained the Marmon franchise in France seven years ago.

Used An Interpreter.

M. Favrot, unable to speak English and expressing his thoughts through an interpreter, said that he was amazed at the bustle of activity in America. He was a guest of Nordyke & Marmon at the 500-mile Memorial day race at the Indianapolis motor speedway May 30 and his enthusiasm at the speed of the American built cars, the daring of the drivers and the color, magnitude and sportsmanlike spirit of the huge crowd, knew no bounds.

M. Favrot was accompanied to America by Frank Hambly, foreign representative of Nordyke & Marmon, who returned to the factory after a years' tour through England, France, Germany, Italy, Spain and Switzerland. M. Favrot found a friend in G. M. Williams, president of Nordyke & Marmon, who speaks French fluently and who conversed with him at length on the automobile industry, and on his trip.

"There is so much to be seen—so much I have seen—such amazing activity, such signs of prosperity that my enthusiasm for America and things American fills my heart," said M. Favrot, with characteristic fervor. "Your port of New York, the huge docks, the magnitude of New York, its life, cosmopolitanism, color, is wonderful—wonderful!

"And the speed of your elevators—they make my head swim."

M. Favrot said that American cars far excelled the motor cars manufactured abroad.

Cars Far Ahead.

"In design of engines and bodies they are far in advance of the cars found in my country," he said. "Americans have caught the note of beauty in design and color combinations of bodies that is most desired by motor car connisseurs today. Your cars outperform ours—and I might say that the French put their cars to unbelievable tests of high speed on the open road. There is an enthusiasm for American made cars that has grown mightily in the last few years. The French and foreign market is in the primary stages of its development; there will be a constantly increasing number of American made cars coming into our country in the next few years.

"I think it is a good thing for France and should lead to developments in the industry there. It will put our French manufacturers on their mettle and in the effort to keep pace with the forward mach of the Americans, will lead to better, more beautiful and more dependable French-made cars. Road races and competitive hill climbs in which American cars, in many cases have shown their superiority have resulted in developments in the industry abroad."

M. Favrot was particularly interested in the new arrangement of the Nordyke & Marmon plant, which was rearranged several months prior to the announcement of the new Marmon 74. He spent several days in the plant studying manufacturing processes and watching the development of the finished car from the time the raw material is unloaded on one side of the plant until the finished car is run off the runways of the final assembly line on the other. He was one of the guests of honor at the dinner given at the Indianapolis Athletic club the night before the 500-mile race, when notables in the industry, including Charles M. Schwab, and others spoke.

M. Favrot will return to France about the middle of June.

Flint Co. Appoints New Sales Manager

Announcement is made of the appointment of W. O. Crabtree as general sales manager of the Flint Motor company, succeeding F. E. Witt, recently resigned.

Prior to his appointment Mr. Crabtree was identified with the sales activities of the Durant organization, in special work for Mr. W. C. Durant. Previous to his first becoming associated with the Durant interests he was engaged for a number of years in the automotive field—part of the time as distributor of both passenger cars and trucks—and his extensive experience ably qualifies him for this new executive position. As general sales manager he will make his headquarters at the Flint plant at Flint, Mich.

According to Mr. Crabtree the sales policies and plans for the coming year have already been adopted and are now in effect, and the Flint business is showing a steady increase.

FORD FIGURES SHOW INCREASE DURING MONTH

Domestic Demand for Cars Continues Good, Says Dealers

Sales figures of the Ford Motor company for the month of May show a continued good domestic demand for Ford cars and trucks, the last ten days of the month showing a substantial increase over the previous ten days. The figures also disclose record-breaking sales abroad and in the high-price car field a growing demand for Lincoln cars. In fact, the Lincoln sales in the United States during May went to a new record with 968 deliveries to customers, exceeding by more than fifty the record established in April.

Ford car and truck sales for the month reached a total of 201,779 of which number 19,576 were foreign sales. This is a record for foreign deliveries and is more than 1,100 above the April sales.

CULPEPPER AT CHILDRESS.

Noted Evangelist to Conduct Services in Tabernacle July 5.

CHILDRESS, June 20.—Rev. Burke Culpepper, noted evangelistic leader, and his party will open a series of revival services here July 5, according to an announcement just made here. The meetings will be held in a specially constructed tabernacle the exact location of which has not yet been decided.

Included in Dr. Culpepper's party will be John U. Robinson, musical directors; William Sisseron, organization director; and Ross Culpepper, director of young people's work.

DENVER MEN TO PICNIC.

Big Jubilee to Be Held at Childress by Railroad Workers.

CHILDRESS, June 20.—Plans are rapidly being whipped into shape for the second annual jubilee and picnic to be held by employees here of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway. A meeting was held Thursday night, at which time various committee reports were made concerning the event.

A huge street parade will include the Denver workmen and their families, officials of the Denver organization, municipal officials and special floats. Prizes are to be offered for the best floats in the line.

A baseball game, singing contests, auto races, boxing matches and various athletic events are to be staged in the afternoon.

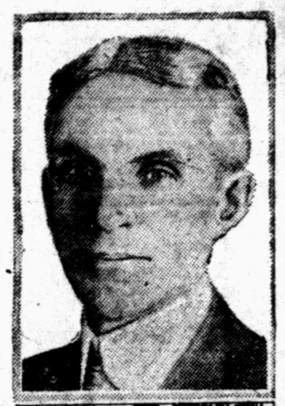

LIKENESS TO FORD SEEN IN CHRYSLER'S PROGRESS

Sales Expansion of Maxwell-Chrysler Organization to $120,000,000 Annual Basis Recalls Similar Days in Ford Motor Company

CAREERS OF TWO INDUSTRIAL GIANTS COMPARED

WALTER P. CHRYSLER

HENRY FORD

ANNOUNCEMENT that the volume of Maxwell-Chrysler sales are exceeding $120,000,000 per year emphasizes the amazing growth of the organization headed by Walter P. Chrysler. Within four years, under Mr. Chrysler's leadership, it has grown to be one of the largest American industrial concerns. The strides it has made, and its known plans for the future, have resulted in recent weeks in numerous comparisons of the careers of the automotive indnstry's two foremost men—Henry Ford and Mr. Chrysler himself.

For a dozen years the identity of the latter was largely submerged in his work. Within the industry itself he was widely known as a master of production—second only to Mr. Ford in the magnitude of his operations.

But to the world at large, until a few years ago, he was almost an unknown quantity.

Then with startling suddenness and speed his name began to assume a large importance. To the public it seemed the begining of a very successful and intensely interesting career. Actually it was the culmination before the public eye of a long period of preparation behind the scenes of a score of gigantic manufacturing operations.

Like Henry Ford, Chrysler had humble beginnings. His first work was that of an engine wiper in a western railroad roundhouse in the little town of Ellis, Kans. Like Mr. Ford he was, and is, highly individual, highly national, and always interesting. The two names began to link themselves together.

Quick to utilize comparisons, those in the industry who know both men began to parallel the careers of Ford and Chrysler.

With bluntness comparable to that of Mr. Ford, Walter Chrysler disposes of this question in a few short sentences.

"Henry Ford," he said the other day, "is pre-eminent. He preempts his particular field beyond hope of rivalry. Only one man in a generation can hope to contribute so much to the economic well being of the world. I am perfectly conscious that a comparison of my career with his is a compliment and of value—but I cherish no delusions. He stands alone and always will."

Men in close touch with the automotive industry still marvel at the progress the Chrysler made in the year following its presentation to the public. Before its introduction many were frankly skeptical. It was the opinion of most of the best informed men that a new car could not be produced and win a major place because of conditions existing in the industry. Yet the Chrysler was accepted by the motoring public as no car had ever been accepted before in its first year. In that year it attained a volume, both in number of cars produced and in sales in dollars that exceeded those of any other car ever made.

Fertilizer Test Made At Haskell

HASKELL, June 20.—What is thought to be the first fertilizer experiment ever tried in the county is being carried on on Sam Davis' place four miles west of Rule. County Agent W. P. Trice has charge of the experiment and is keeping data on the results. Two kinds of fertilizers are being used as well as two kinds of cotton Kash and half-and-half. If this experiment proves that fertilizer can be used with the result that a greater yield of cotton will be produced per acre in the sand here, it is thought that many will use it in the future.

DOGS AND CATS EXECUTED

Childress Wars on Animals as Means Of Preserving Human Safety.

CHILDRESS, June 20.—The dog and cat population of Childress has decreased noticeably the past few days as a result of orders from the city council that the vagabond animals be killed in the interests of human safety. Approximately 65 dogs and a like number of cats have been executed by city officers since the first of the week.

Because of the advent of hot weather and its consequent danger of rabies in dogs and cats, the council deemed it advisable to take drastic steps to preserve health. All dogs have been ordered confined by their owners for a period of 30 days, regardless of whether or not they are licensed.

NEW MODEL OF ROADSTER ON DISPLAY HERE

Finding seats for six in a roadster sounds like a somewhat difficult stunt, but that it can be done, and with no sacrifice o comfort on the part of passengers, was demonstrated with the arrival in Wichita Falls last week of the newest addition to the Auburn line—a six-sixty-six sport model.

"Three in the front seat and three in back," remarked Mr. Spiegel, factory representative, as the car was rolled onto the floor at the Auburn Wichita Motor company, for inspection my A. C. Barnhart.

"What do you mean, back?" the distributor queried, whereupon the factory man gave a twist to the handle of a door just ahead of the right rear fender and back of the front seat and—presto—the "deck" opened up revealing a full sized rear seat with a deeply cushioned back.

As a car of general utility the car has no equal, the Auburn Wichita Motor company executive asserts. "The best description I can think of covering this 120-inch wheelbase six," he said, "is that it's sporty for one, ideal for two, dandy for three, chummy for four, roomy for five and comfortable for six passengers."

A newly perfected top, featured on the sport model, is quickly raised or lowered and, when not in use, folds compactly in a boot that hugs close to the top of the front seat. For golfing, fishing and vacationing the rear compartment affords an unusual amount of luggage space.

WELLINGTON HOME BURNS.

Residence of Dr. H. L. Stoner Completely Destroyed by Flames.

WELLINGTON, June 20. — Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the home of Dr. H. L. Stoner here Tuesday. The blaze was discovered about 12 o'clock and in a short time the entire building had been consumed.

No one was at home when the flames were discovered and the fire was trus allowed to gain considerable headway before the fire department arrived. Firemen were unable to do more than save the outbuildings.

GIRL HURT BY AUTO

CHILLICOTHE, June 20. — Miss Ina Boyd of Amerillo was painfully injured here Thursday when she was run down by an automobile on one of the down town streets. She suffered the loss of two teeth and was bruised and scratched but not seriously hurt.

Studebaker Co. Not To Present Annual Models Each Spring

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 20.—Announcement is made today by The Studebaker corporation of America of discontinuing the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year.

Instead of bringing Studebaker cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, this company proposes to keep them up-to-date all the time, adding improvements and refinements from time to time as the merit of such betterments is proved to the satisfaction of Studebaker's engineering department, which, the corporation points out, is maintained at a cost of a half million dollars anually.

Studebaker believes that this policy benefits present Studebaker owners. It is also the belief of this concern that the policy of no "yearly' models enables purchasers of new cars to obtai nmodels that are always modern, without the necessity of waiting for annual changes and without the danger of their new cars becoming absolete.

The dramatic success of the present line of Studebaker cars is one reason for this important change. During the first five months of 1925, Studebaker dealers delivered 40 per cent more cars to buyers than during the same period in 1924. On May 31, the end of the period referred to, Studebaker dealers had only half as many cars in stock as on the same date last year.

Despite the fact that Studebaker factories in South Bend, Detroit and Walkerville, Ontario, are operating at capacity, orders for Studebaker cars are far in excess of production.

GOLF TOURNEY AT ELECTRA

Golf Fans From West Texas Invited to Play at C-C Meeting.

ELECTRA, June 20—An invitation tournament for all golf fans here for the district West Texas chamber of commerce convention July 2 and 3 is being arranged by the local chamber with the assistance of Electra merchants. We Do Not Raise Our Own Cows

Nor do we have our own tanneries at Auburn, Indiana. We buy our leather just as any other manufacturer.

Auburn is an assembled car! Our competitors say this as one might say "Jim Jones has the Smallpox."

Yet if tomorrow we manufactured our own motor, no matter how indifferent might be its workmanship we would be termed manufacturers and as such would gain favor in the minds of our competitors.

We do assemble, but who does not? Does the mere fact that a manufacturer makes his own motor make it a better motor than can be made by motor specialists?

How many automobile manufacturers own their own body plants and build their own bodies? How many times have you read where they say "Body by Blinker," as one might say "Portrait by Rembrandt?"

In one breath they acknowledge the specialist and in the next breath they try to be all things to all people.

How many manufacturers make their own frames, steering gears, clutches, carburetors, tires, batteries, lighting and ignition units, springs, radiators, wheels, rims, upholstering, glass, bearings, nuts, bolts, screws, etc?

After all, "assembled" is only another word for "specialization."

We do however, have a modern plant fully equipped with fine machinery—

And a motor test room where every motor is run for eleven hours and thoroughly adjusted before it is placed in a chassis.

And a sheet metal department that makes our fenders, flashings, etc.—

And an enameling plant where we do our own enameling—

And a paint department with its ovens—its equipment for applying lacquer—its foremen of many years experience in our employ—We do all our own painting.

And a machine shop for the milling and machining of parts.

And a trim shop where we do all our own upholstering and make our own cushions—

And our grounds cover twenty-four acres with approximately one-half million square feet under roof—

Isn't it true that you can give to some artist the same paints, the same brushes, the same pallet and have him produce a daub while in the hands of a master the same ingredients produce a masterpiece?

What we sell you is a completed motor car.

Comparison is the only basis of value. Compare Auburn with any motor car manufactured today in every detail, quality, performance, long life, economy, appearance and price. You will not be asked to buy!

CHEVROLET CO. HAS BIG MEET, SAYS DELEGATE

Sales Force of Concern End Session With Banquet

DETROIT, Mich., June 20.—The national convention of 450 members and executives of the Chevrolet sales organization which ended June 10 with a banquet at Hotel Statler, was declared by R. H. Grant, general sales manager, to be the most successful affair of its kind in his long merchandising experience.

The gathering included the regional and zone sales managers and the representatives who directly supervise the 1,600 retail dealers and the 2,900 associate dealers.

"The plans worked out at the convention should assure to Chevrolet a continuation of its leadership," Mr. Grant said.

A group of General Motors corporation executives attended the banquet. It included Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president; C. S. Mott, Donaldson Brown and John L. Pratt, vice president; C. F. Kettering, vice president of the General Motors corporation and president of the General Motors Research corporation, and B. G. Koether, executive secretary of the general sales committee of the General Motors corporation. W. S. Knudsen, president of Chevrolet, C. E. Dawson, assistant general sales manager of Chevrolet and O. E. Hunt, chief engineer, also were at the speakers' table.

The banquet marked the farewell to the Chevrolet organization of D. S. Eddins, former assistant general sales manager, recently made general sales manager of the Olds Motor works. He was presented with a large chest of silver tableware and a testimonial signed by executives of the Chevrolet central office and the regional and zone sales managers. Mr. Grant was given a silver and ivory gavel and a testimonial book signed by the entire group of dealers.

Champion Plugs Set New Firing Record In Test With Autos

Illustrating the great advancement made in spark plug construction and dependability in the last two years, the Champion Spark Plug company yesterday issued figures showing that spark plugs in the ten leading cars in the 500-mile race classic at Indianapolis memorial day fired some 57,000,000 times, under the tremendous stress and strain of 100-mile-an-hour speeds, without once delivering an inefficient, weak or faulty spark.

Forty Times a Second.

Each of the 80 spark plugs used in the ten leading cars delivered about 720,000 perfect sparks to the gas mixture during the race. They fired for an average of more than five hours at the rate of about 40 times a second.

"Conducting a full charge of properly mixed gas vapor through the inlet valve into each combustion chamber, firing it, and expelling it through the exhaust, and then repeating that process 40 times a second, indicates the necessity for perfect spark plug performance," points out O. C. Rohde, chief engineer of the Champion Spark Plug company. "Almost perfect combustion is vital to create the necessary power and to assure that no unburned gas wastes through the exhaust.

"It was only a few years ago that sustained speeds of 85 and 90 miles an hour were considered exceptional. Many authorities on automobile construction and performance were inclined to believe that the limit had then been reached. Changes of spark plugs at those speeds vary 100 miles or so were considered necessary because to the terrific punishment they received.

Champion Plug Returns.

"Then two years ago the Champion Spark Plug company re-entered the racing field with its new compression type, two piece construction and exclusive sillimanite insulator. Since that time its product has definitely proved its ability to withstand speeds even higher than 100 miles an hour. Many 250-mile races have been held where average speeds for the entire distance have been higher, two of them exceeding a 125-mile average. In practically every one of these dozens of races in the last two years, drivers have proved it unnecessary to change a single plug throughout the race.

"These races have been the crucible in which the ability of the spark plug used in standard cars has been thoroughly tested. The only difference between the Champions used in racing cars and in standard automobiles is a slight one to compensate for the extreme speeds at which racing cars are driven. Otherwise the plugs are identical in every way.

"This remarkable performance record under the most terrific tests has not been confined to a few types of engines, or to this country alone. It has been made in practically every feasible type and style of engine in all parts of the world.

"Champion's victory at Indianapolis marked the tenth consecutive world's record for its product and the twentieth consecutive victory won in major racing competition throughout the world since it returned to the field of racing. That is a record heretofore never approached by automotive product."

107 In Altus Shade; Iceman Working

ALTUS, Okla., June 20.—With the thermometer reaching the 107 mark here Wednesday, Altus is experiencing the hottest weather for June that has occurred in years, old residents say. Local icemen have a hard time in supplying the demand for the cooling substance and if the heat keeps up much longer the town will face an ice shortage.

The hot winds that accompany the heat are injuring late cotton. Early cotton which has had time to send its roots far into the ground is little effected.

Motor Caravans Adopt New Opex Finish

Red, White and Blue Essex and Hudson caravan to go from coast to coast painted with opex finish; C. M. Lemperly, Director of Sales Development, The Sherwin-Williams Co., perfecters of opex; G. P. Rogers, Sales Representative.

Motor caravans are fast coming into popular favor in commercial circles. Fleets of caravans are being piloted through the country, penetrating every state and conveying messages about the industry in conjunction with newspaper advertising.

While this modern method had been tried previously it was never found very practical for when automobiles were out on the road any length of time the paint finish soon became dull and shabby. Changes in weather, sun rays, over-flow of steam on the radiator, dust particles, etc., all pierced the paint film and spoiled the surface of the car—ruining it for exhibition purposes.

The entrance of the lacquer finish, however, has acted as a boom in making popular and practical the auto caravan for it does away with the dilapidated appearing car. This new opex pyroxlin finish has all the advantages of paint, besides many additional ones, and none of its disadvantages.

The durability of opex lacquer, a product of The Sherwin-Williams Co., has been proved to be ten times greater than that of ordinary paint. It is unaffected by rain, sun, ice, steam and is said to resist alkali dust, road oil, tar and salt air. It stands up the life-time of the car and improves in lustre with use—constantly maintaining the appearance of a new car. This opex finish also saves washing—all that it needs is an occasional cleaning with a dry cloth.

These unusual properties of opex make it an ideal finish for machines to be used for demonstration purposes. The red, white and blue fleet pictured recently left Seattle, Wash. Another started from Portland, Ore., to broadcast new prices. Opex was selected for the surface finish so that the machines could travel at all times and under any weather conditions—being wear and weather proof.

Outlook of Crops At Haskell Is Promising

HASKELL, June 20. — The crop outlook for Haskell county at the present time is very encouraging. The good rain of a week ago washed off a great number of the lice to be found on the cotton; so that now the cotton has taken on a greener appearance and is growing rapidly. The late cotton has developed a long shank making it much easier for the farmers to clean their fields of the weeds and grass. The feed is heading and doing nicely with a promise of a good crop if one or two more showers are received before the crop has matured. The grain crop is practically all cut and threshing will start at an early date.

LIONS CLUB HOLDS MEET.

Discusses Topics and Meets Large Number of Out of Town Visitors.

CLARENDON, June 20. — The Boy Scout camp at Amarillo and the chamber of commerce convention at Paducha were among topics discussed Tuesday when the Lions club held its regular weekly meeting.

A large number of visitors were present at the session and were introduced to the membership.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANNED

ELECTRA, June 20.—Hopes of a country club for Electra went higher this last week when, at a meeting of those interested, plans were discussed and committees appointed to take up such a project. Electra men have long wanted such an institution and if a way to finance it can be arrived at, such a thing will be started here in the near future.

A finance committee of the following was appointed: George LeBus, Bart McGee, Glenn McDavid, S. B. Marchant, J. A. Wise, William Calvert.

OLDS MANAGER BELIEVES AUTO INDUSTRY GOOD

Retail Sales of Car On Continued Increase Is Report

Continued increase in retail sales of Oldsmobiles and a general feeling that business conditions are good throughout the greater portion of the country is reported by D. S. Eddins, general sales manager of Olds Motor Works. The Oldsmobile factory entered June with advance orders that will assure it full production throughout the month, and indications are that July production will be satisfactory.

Sales of Oldsmobiles during May were more than 36 per cent greater than during the same month last year. This is the third consecutive month that Oldsmobile sales have shown a substantial increase over those for the same periods in 1924.

"The Northwestern section of the country is showing remarkable prosperity, according to both the reports and orders received by our distributors and dealers in that section," Mr. Eddins said. "This excellent showing is extending practically without a break from the western shore of Lake Michigan to the Pacific Coast.

"Other sections of the country which have not shown such remarkable gains as has the northwest are reporting improved conditions, and every indication points to steady, continued prosperity for Oldsmobile.

"Our export business is steadily gaining. During May we shipped nearly 600 Oldsmobiles abroad, and so far this year our exports are larger than they have been at any time in our 28 years of manufacture."

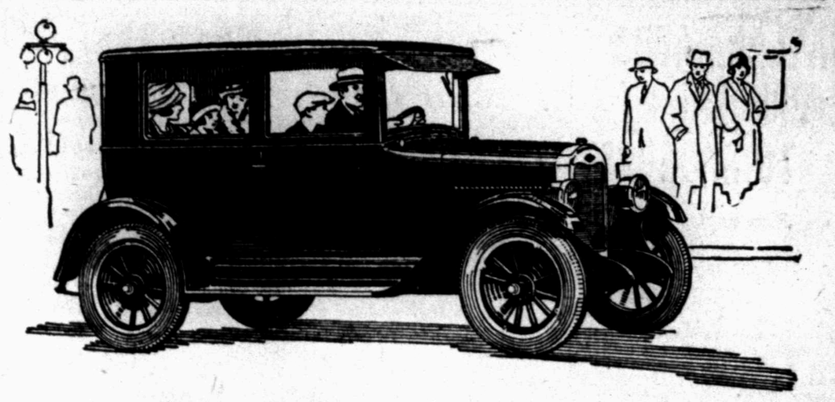

BUILDING BOOM UNDER WAY.

Big Structures and Many Residences Being Built at Clarendon.

CLARENDON, June 20.—With a new garage, a new gin, a hall for the ku klux klan and numerous smaller structures under construction, Clarendon is in the midst of a well defined building boom.

A large number of new residences are going up in the residential portion of the city, while a number of business men are working over their business structures down town.

OAKLAND ADDS MORE LAURELS TO RACE LIST

Two Honors Captured By Stock Car in Big Sweepstakes

By winning the closed car championship award in the recent Camp Curry Yosemite Economy Run, the Oakland Six has added one more to its long record of consecutive victories in America's outstanding economy events.

In this important contest, open to stock cars of any size or make, a strictly stock Oakland Landau Sedan not only captured these two honors, but also took second place in the grand sweepstakes—only one other contestant, a light touring car, exceeding Oakland's high score.

Oakland made an average of 22.86 miles per gallon of gasoline over the 360 mile course, which includes some of the steepest grades and most trying roads on the Pacific coast. The car with its load of passengers weighed 3,847 pounds. Only one pint of oil and 4 1-2 pints of water were needed for the trip. No mechanical adjustments had to be made during the course of the race. The car made an average of 43.88 ton miles per gallon.

The run, as usual, was conducted under A. A. A. supervision and a most careful inspection of all models was made to make certain that every model was a strictly stock car.

Four sweepstakes victories, two closed car sweepstakes victories and six class championships place Oakland in a class by itself for economical operation.

These victories were won in the Camp Curry Yosemite runs in 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925 and the San Deigo to El Centro and return economy runs in 1922 and 1923.

Rickenbacker Buys Body Factory and Announces A $200 Cut In Cost of Cars

DETROIT, June 20.—When asked how it was possible not only to build an improved model but at the same time reduce the price $200 from that of its predecessor, B. F. Everett, president and general manager, Rickenbacker Motor company, replied "Two factors aided us in doing this."

"First, we purchased, in January, the Trippensee Body company which formerly made our bodies. This concern then became an integral part of Rickenbacker Motor company.

Eliminate One Profit

"By eliminating the one profit we were able to effect considerable saving.

"Then, too, when a factory has been running to full capacity, as ours has been since the first of the year, overhead is greatly reduced and many other savings effected.

"A combination of these fortitudinous conditions has enabled us to reduce the price and thereby offer the buyer so much better value that we feel sure of a demand which will keep the factories running to capacity right through the summer and fall.

"Rickenbacker is now one of the few concerns in the automotive industry which makes, not only its own chassis, but all of its own bodies," continued Mr. Everitt.

"Most concerns prefer to contract the building of their bodies to outsiders; and in this they are right.

"Coach building is an entirely separate and essentially different business from that of making motor cars. The average engineer or production manager, who is an expert at machining chassis parts, is completely at sea when it comes to handling the variable conditions which are inseparable from buildings things of wood, sheet metal, cloth and the many other elements that go into the making of a fine closed body.

"It just so happened, however, that I was one of the first, if not indeed the first, automobile body builder in the industry.

"I manufactured bodies on a large scale long before I became interested in the manufacture of automobiles.

Well Fitted For Work

"In fact, I have retained an interest in several concerns which today make bodies for competitors.

"It was only natural that we should feel we were peculiarly well fitted to manufacture our own bodies—make them as we thought they should be made and at the same time effect those economies which result from the elimination of a middleman's profit.

"This new sedan model is not radically different from it's predecessor. In fact, it is simply a refinement of the former. In the refining process we have again gone a little in advance of the prevailing styles and produced, I believe, the most beautiful sedan we have yet turned out.

"That we have been able to reduce the price at the same time that we improved the quality is a happy coincidence, for primarily that was not our purpose. Our main object was to produce just as fine closed car as we knew how and then sell it for whatever price the factory cost made necessary. When we had done that, and found we could also reduce the price we considered it the right thing and the soundest business practice to do so," said Mr. Everett.

Altus May Go Over Legion Fund

ALTUS, Okla., June 20.—Altus' water problem advanced another step nearer solution when the city council at its last meeting voted for plans and specifications for a dam to hold over 100,000,000 gallons of water and the raising of the spillway on one of the present dams of the city.

Scared up over the recent water famine that made it necessary for people to do without all wraer except for drinking, the council has started work for insuring a perpetual and adequate water supply for the city. With the completion of the proposed dams city reservoirs will have a capacity for over 500,000,000 gallons of water.

NEW OVERLAND CAR POPULAR AMONG WOMEN

Riding Comfort Gains Popularity for Light Auto

A continued increase in the number of women drivers throughout the country is noted in the latest reports of the Willys-Overland dealer organization, and dealers' sales nationally indicate that many of the new Overland standard sedans are going direct to women drivers, according to factory records.

Possibly no other model produced by Willis-Overland has so piqued the interest of women drivers as has the new Overland five-passenger sedan, according to officials of the company, who report that the many advantages of this model is making it a popular means of transportation for the fair sex. Dealers' reports to the factory continually indicate that east of handling, riding comforts and roomy interior of the new Overland two-door model makes it a favorite lady's car.

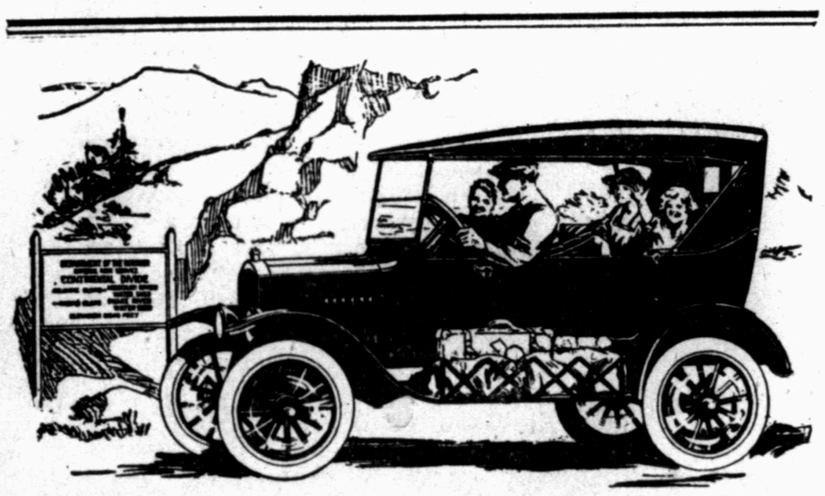

Factory specifications for the new Overland standard sedan provide for longer and narrower windows and the popular one-piece windshield, giving greater vision and better ventilation, a distint advantage to the woman driver, as well as a longer gear shift lever that eliminates all reaching in changing gears. Comfortable front seats that "have just the right angle for easy driving comfort" as one lady owner reported, and the heavy duty power plant make this model an ideal car for the woman who drives her own car.

Factory officials indicate that drivers of the fair sex have taken quickly to the additional advantages of the extra wide doors which permit of carrying home heavy parcels from the shopping tour and eliminates the usual hindrances in entering either the front or rear seat. This model, which sells at the unusually low price of $655 f. o. b. Toledo, is also proving popular among women drivers because of roominess that accommodates five passengers as well as because of its exceptional beauty and simplicity of designe, Willys-Overland officials say.

Total Nash Sales for the entire United States during the Past Nine Months have increased 68% over total sales for the corresponding nine months a year ago.

MAY! Greatest Sales Month in Nash History

Again—with the month of May, the driving national Nash demand for Special Six and Advanced Six models swept sales past all previous high records.

And May won the honor of being the biggest month of sales in all Nash history—187% greater than May, 1924.

This is the fifth time since last October that a new high Nash sales record for a single month has been hung up.

There's no doubt about it—"the country has gone Nash." And the table just below provides conclusive proof of that.

LONG LIFE IS AIM OF AUTO BUILDERS NOW

So Declares Head of Willys-Knight Automobile Company

Trend in motor car body and mechanical design throughout the industry in late years has been towards longevity. Motor experts state that the average life of cars now produced is eight years. Manufacturers feature the fact in their advertising and sales dnta that their cars will stand up for eight to ten years with reasonable care.

The day of the so-called "one-year car" has long since passed. Your far-sighted manufacturer is working with the thought in mind of giving the public a car that will not only stand up satisfactorily as long as the gloss of newness is upon it, but will serve the owner for a good many seasons and a good many thousands of miles.

Many Such Records.

Our sales and service departments have innumerable records of cars which have been in use for this length of time. We have a Willys-Knight engine which has travelled more than 300,000 miles in police and fire service in Toledo and is now being used in a truck. Out in California there is a Willys-Knight Coupe which has passed through the hands of three owners and has travelled more than 150,000 miles without once having the cylinder head removed. A taxicab operator in Chicago drove a Willys-Knight cab more than 50,000 to 75,000 miles to the complete satisfaction of their owners.

Only just the other day we received word from a driver of an Overland car of the year 1908 who had just given his seventeen-year-old vehicle a fresh coat of paint. Last year this car carried him from Wichita, Kan., to Pike's Peak and back again.

Motor car design has become more and more standardized. In the earlier days of the industry experiment and development succeeded each other at such rapid pace that new models were brought out every few months to take care of these. Gradually this system was altered so that it became the vague to bring out a new model each year. Some manufacturers still adhere to this policy.

But the greater number of standard motor car builders today bring out new models only when it is felt that the changes are of such radical nature or so numerous as to warrant designation of the car by a new model number or letter.

For instance, Willys-Knight products for the past six years have been well standardized. In 1919 we first brought out the Overland and Willys-Knight four-cylinder models which have served as the basis of our productions ever since. Naturally, over a period of six years there are bound to be new developments and refinements. These have been included in our product. Body lines have been altered to meet newer styles. Improvements in motor and chassis construction have taken place. Demand for balloon tires swept through the industry and this meant redesigning of the chassis to take care of this equipment.

But fundamentally there has been little change. The wheel base, spring suspension and general design of the two cars is much the same.

Experience Analogous.

Willys-Overland's experience is analogous to that of the majority of established automobile builders. Take a 1910 model of any standard make. Compare it with a 1911 model of the same make. Then compare the models of each succeeding year until 1915. Compare 1916 cars with 1719 and 1920 and then compare the models of 1920 with 1925. Scarcely without exception you will note greater changes in appearance and mechanical specifications in each year from 1910 to 1915 than you not in the periods of 1916 to 1919 and from 1920 to 1925. A 1920 model Overland or Willys-Knight is by no means as out of date in appearance today as 1910 model was in 1911.

This trend is becoming more and more definite and its continuance is almost bound to insure a new car buyer of 1925 that his car will still not only be in style, but will continue to render him satisfactory service in five years from the time he has bought his car.

CHRYSLER CARS HOLD ENVIABLE RANK IN WORLD

New Motor Cars Assumes Lead in Automobile Industry

Since the name of Walter P. Chrysler, through Chrysler car, first became known to the public, it has grown to a position of commanding importance in the automobile industry.

Men competent to judge have since declared that at the rate he is going and the progress his organization is making, he is rapidly establishing himself as the outstanding new figure in the industry. These men go so far as to say that within two years his organization will be recognized as having achieved industrial assomplishments hitherto considered impossible in the manufacture and marketing of quality motor cars.

It is only to the public at large that Walter P. Chrysler is a new figure in the making and merchandising of motor cars. Within the industry he has been known more than a dozen years as one of its leading men. Since he assumed a position of outstanding importance in the nation's largest industry, nearly 2,000,000 cars have been built and sold under his leadership.

Today at 50, those closest to him say that he and the organization he has gathered about him are only approaching the threshold of their greatest accomplishments. Recent visitors to the Chrysler plants in Detroit report that one of the most amazing happenings in connection with the building of that car is the personal interest taken in all stages of its manufacture by Mr. Chrysler himself.

It should be said here, to appreciate the singularity of the man, that the magnitude of his operations and interests is larger than that of any other American, with perhaps a half dozen or ten exceptions.

But visitors who have seen him spend hours at a time about the Chrysler plants are inclined to agree with those closest to him that the Chrysler car holds for him an affection second only to that of his family. Practically every visit he makes to the plants is the occasion for a personal check-up to see that the quality of the Chrysler car not only is maintained, but constantly improved.

His lieutenants insist that a considerable share of the tremendous success the car has created for itself is due to his personal attitude.

Watermelon Aphid Damaging Crop

ALTUS, Okla., June 20. — The watermelon aphid, which causes leaves to secrete "honey dew" and dry up, is causing considerable damage to watermelons in Jackson county, according to W. B. Forrester, county agent.

The acreage this year devoted to melon culture is reported as normal, which provides enough of the watery fruit for home consumption.

BRYAN TO SPEAK AT BOWIE

Noted Democratic Leader There for Chatauqua Program and Dinner.

BOWIE, June 20. — Charles W. Bryan, former governor of Nebraska and vice-presidential candidate on the democratic ticket last November, is to be a feature speaker of the Redpath-Horner chatauqua program to be given here Monday. The noted brother of William Jennings Bryan will be tendered a dinner in the evening by city officials and prominent democrats of the city.

Mr. Bryan will give a short, informal talk at the luncheon prior to his appearance on the chatauqua program.

Kills Catarrh Germ In Three Minutes

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a French scientist. This drugless method called Lavex kills the germ in three minutes, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate tissues. Your head and lungs are cleared like magic. Sufferers are relieved in a single night.

To prove it and to introduce Lavex to a million sufferers in one month, I offer to send a treatment free and postpaid to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. If it cures you, you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address for this generous free treatment and prove that you can be rid of catarrh. W. R. Smith, 4059 Lavex Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.—Adv.

What Gas Consumers Must Pay For

Consumers of natural gas, of course, pay for the service the gas gives them. They pay for many things besides gas, things that are inevitable in the rendering of the service.

Users of gas pay for all waste of gas—for the leakage which your company is always striving to overcome; for the gas that is stolen, and for the calamities like floods that damage the pipelines. All these must be included in the retail price of gas, or the companies could not long survive.

Users also pay a not inconsiderable sum in taxes, court costs, etc. These too are operating expenses. Whenever a tax is levied, a certain part of the price of a thousand feet of gas must go to the payment of that; whenever the company has to fight out an issue in the courts, some of the price of the gas you use goes to that expense.

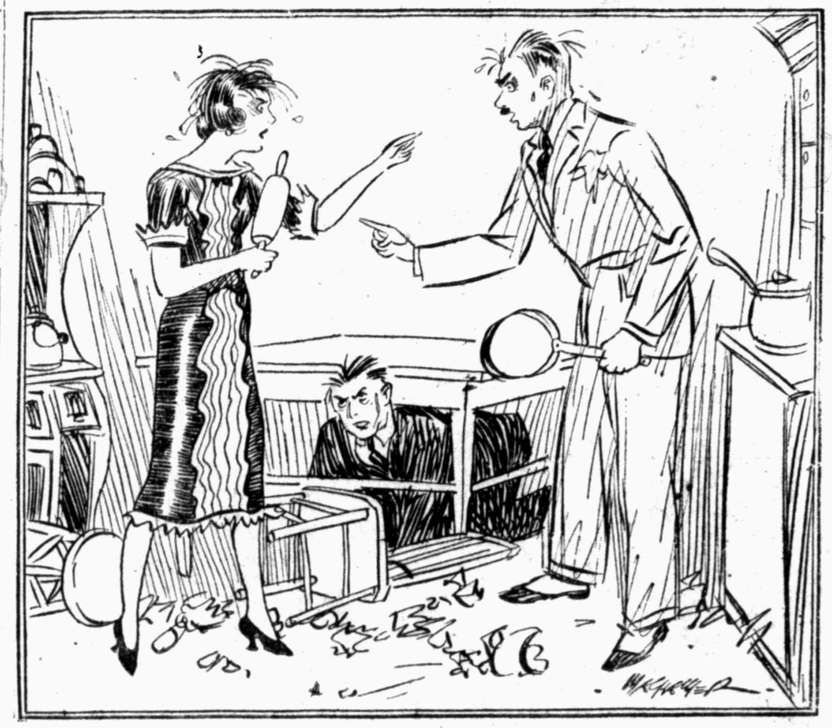

Consequently any loss that is suffered by your gas company through ill advised action on the part of a third party literally takes money from the pockets of gas consumers. The gas thief takes gas from the company, but the honest consumers are eventually compelled to pay the bill. Unjust taxation comes from the users—the company in this case being only the collecting agency.

So closely are we all related in this complex modern life of ours that the only way we can avoid injuring each other is to be just and do justice in all things.

Cads and Caddesses

By Rupert Hughes

Gossip is still the pre-eminent feminine vice. All too many men are effeminate in that respect, but as a class, men are wonderfully innocent of a form of gossip that disgraces the vast majority of women. I refer to the habit of talking about one's own matrimonial partner to the neighbors, either in the presence of the victim or behind his back.

Women do this to a simply abominable extent.

The oracle of Atchison, Kan., E. W. Howe, in his fascinating "Monthly," recently published this passage of universal interest:

"If the reader of this is a man, I ask him: Have you not observed that when you have a woman visitor—a sister, an aunt, a cousin, a grandmother—your own women folks drag you over the coals a little more roughly because of backing and encouragement?"

It reminded me of an experience I had many years ago, when I chanced to be marooned as the solitary male at a luncheon where eight wives were present. For two hours I sat in dazed silence and listened to those charming and comparatively happily married women exploiting the follies and vices of their husbands. It was a positive contest: the woman who could tell the worst trait of her spouse was the champion until some other woman jumped ahead of her with one still worse.

They were so fascinated by the game that they fought my existence and did not observe the blushes of shame that scorched my cheeks. For there is nothing more shameful than having to listen to or observe the indecent exposure of the person or the personality of somebody else. I felt as if I had been forced to spy and eavesdrop on the poor absent husbands, all of them of high average and many of them friends of mine.

It was like being cornered while a family scrap is being pulled off by an excited couple. They can forgive each other later for the most appalling revelations and accusations, but they can never forgive the involuntary witness.

This luncheon massacre of reputations was not a quarrel; it was a festival. The women butchered their husbands to make a feminine holiday.

When the fast was over, they recognized my presence and I was desperate enough and coureagous enough, being young and inexperienced, to attempt a rebuke. With all the grandeur of youth, I made my whole contribution to the luncheon in one set speech:

"Honestly, I was never so shocked in my life, never in my whole life! I've sat here for hours and heard eight respectable women roasting the lives out of their husbands or guying them to death with the most shameless enthusiasm.

"It is simply inconceivable that eight men should ever talk so of their wives, unless they were all disgracefully and disgustingly drunk. For eight self-respecting husbands to spend two hours in a contest to decide 'which one had the wife who was the biggest fool, knave, sloven or crook in the lot'—well, it couldnt' happen.

"In a men's club it is an unwritten rule that no woman's name is ever mentioned. The rule is often broken, of course, but I never heard a woman held up and torn to tatters by a crowd of men.

"Of course, some men when they have had a particularly fierce quarrel at home will dash out and get drunk and pour out their woes to anybody who will listen. That was once considered the hardest part of the job of a barkeeper."

(Historical Note: In those days barkeepers were persons who stood behind the long counters, across which they served drinks to men who came in from the street and stood up as long as they could. Those bars somewhat resembled the soda water counters of our generation, except that they did not have stools in front of them, and the majority of the customers were not women.)

(In ancient days the bar served the double purpose of supporting the drink and the drinker. It was built wide enough to keep the customer from reaching out and putting his arm around the barkeeper and holding fast long enough to tell him what a horrible wife the customers had at home.)

(Barkeepers aged rapidly under the necessity of listening to the domestic confidences, which nobody else would listen to, and nobody else had to listen to, since a man never poured them out except in a bar-room.)

"The average man," I went on, while the women stared in amazement and amusement, "never criticizes his wife even to his most intimate friend except in some moment fo crisis or ungovernable excitement. And a man's most intimate friend does not thank him for ridiculing his wife. It is the most uncomfortable situation in the world to receive such confdences.

"Of course, men have stock jokes about women as a class and wives as a class, and they speak of themselves as the slaves of their wives and children. But only the most reckless and unscrupulous of men would ever hold up their wives' personal foibles to the ridicule of a gang of other husbands.

"Yet you women, all of you splendid kind-hearted, refined, well-married and, as you might say, contented wives have just served your husbands up for lunch and torn them open and apart like a gang of cannibals."

When I had finished, they looked at me indulgently, as if a foolish child had said something, that neither he nor they understood. Then, without any comment except a little laughter at my expense, they hurried away to their other engagements.

Since that time I have rarely escaped the same experience when I happened to be present where three or more wives were gathered together. If their husbands were present, the poor dubs had to endure the ridicule as best they could.

I have rarely had the experience of hearing a husband denounce or ridicule his wife in my presence, and I have rarely not had the experience of hearing a wife make fun or shame of her husband. And by this I do not mean playful banter or the exchange of general comment on the differences between masculine and feminine outlook and conduct. I mean immediate, particular, personal criticism.

The poor men try to take their medicine with good sportsmanship. It is the only pride left to them. But I often feel that they would be almost justified if when they got home, they made their wives take a little of such medicine as men inflict on their tormentors with their fists.

Usually the wives' remarks are merely tactless, ungracious, indiscreet or slightly humiliating to the husband, and embarrassing to the other husbands. But often the very nicest women divulge domestic opinions and chronicles that are nothing short of outrageous and insulting to everybody who must listen.

Men have a contemptuous word for this sort of thing: they call it caddish. And "cad" is one of the ultimate words of masculine denunciation.

Women ought to adopt the word and learn to apply it to one another, for there is nothing that so quickly makes a habit unpopular as to give it a curt and contemptuous one-syllabled term.

There is still a bit of the harem clinging about our homes, and our womenfolk have yet some thousands of years of prison psychology to overcome.

The revenge and the chief consolation of the prisoner is the habit of mocking the jailer behind his back or to his face. The chief industry of the harem-inmates was making fun of their lord and master and publishing his faults and foibles among themselves.

The harem idea has only recently been abandoned. Polygamy never was a success, but the principle of the domination of the husband and the subordination of the wife is to this day maintained in countless little habits of mind. Nobody ever succeeded in whipping out of human nature the instinct to salve one's own wounded pride by ridiculing or grumbling at the persecutor.

Husbands nowadays are probably the meekest worms in the whole zoological directory, but the tyranny of custom still shackles women with unforgotten chains that rattle in memory, even though they are now invisible and largely imaginary.

The only slavery woman now endures is such as she inflicts on herself by false modesty or inherited timidities.

We cannot blame a slave for sulking and muttering, but it is really high time for women to redeem themselves from a vice for which there was some excuse when they were the prisoners of the law or of customs, but for which there is no further justification.

In the good old days when men were empowered by law to beat their wives or daughters, imprison them in homes or convents or asylums or shame them into submission by various ruthless methods, there was a good excuse for women to let their helpless wrath escape in the fumes of criticism.

When according to the laws of these United States up to the Civil war and after it, the courts blandly announced that a woman lost her identity in marriage, the poor lost soul was entitled to the pitiful solace of ridicule and abuse. The courts actually said that "a man and his wife are one and the man is the one." An unmarried woman had only a few legal rights, and a widow only a few more; but a married woman had less than either; a wife was almost a non-entity legally.

When good American women of those days got together and exposed the disgusting or ludicrous phases of their husbands, it was like a crowd of slaves cowering in the dark and telling on their overseers.

But now that women have been relieved of so many legal disabilities, they should imitate the high principles of freemen and learn to keep the secrets of the home at home.

Mrs. John Stuart Mill, who was the real author of the great utterances issued under her husband's name, concerning the education and emancipation of women, made a wonderful answer to the ancient charge that women are addicted to petty gossip and backbiting. She said that women used gossip as a weapon to enhance their social position or to drag down a successful rival to their own level or lower. Men did the same to their business rivals. Men undermined the reputations of their competitors' characters and wares; they made libelous statements about the things their rivals manufactured or sold; they bankrupted their competitors if possible.

Women did the same, no more and no less, no better and no worse. But, since their careers were limited to village prominence or fashionable glitter, they attacked each other's reputations and characters and implied that such and such a new dress was last season's costume turned round and dyed.

Men laughed at women's excitement over such petty things, but they were all that women had to be excited about.

Mrs. Mill prophesied that when women were permitted and encouraged to go forth into the world and share the great lives of mankind, the little domestic concerns would shrink to their proper unimportance.

Well, that time is now here and women are out in the world. They are doing glorious things gloriously in the fields both of achievement and of crime. They have already largely cast off a thousand of their silly pruderies and cowardices.

And now it is time for them to give up the pernicious and loathsome habit of exposing their husbands to ridicule. A few of them are already guiltless of this ancient vice; but they are the beautiful exceptions.

The ideal modern marriage of today is, to my mind at least, infinitely nobler than it ever was before: it is the voluntary partnership in all equality of a man and a woman who would rather live with each other than with anybody else in the world. This partnership, like other partnerships, lasts just as long as the willingness exists on both sides. It may be dissolved at will, provided only that the obligations incurred are honorably taken care of.

This is the condition which so many decry as scandalous. But it is here, and I for one think it infinitely less scandalous than the old-fashioned ideal of matrimony.

But, however you feel about that, any woman who dislikes her husband is at liberty to leave him. A legal separation is the easiest thing on earth to get, even if divorce has some difficulties.

No wife, therefore, has the right to hold her partner up to obloquy for the contemptuous laughter of other wives.

Husbands have almost never done that. Wives have almost always done that.

But they ought to stop it. They should begin to label the women who persist in the ancient vice as "caddesses," or some still shorter, still uglier word.

IF BILIOUS, SICK! TAKE NO CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is murcury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonever experienced just take a spoonful night. Your druggist or dealer sells you a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your children. —Adv.

Altus Experiencing Big Building Boom

ALTUS, Okla., June 20.—With 27 business and residence buildings constructed at a cost of $142,500 in the last two months, Altus is experiencing one of the greatest building booms of its history, local contractors say.

Nine business buildings at a cost of $99,000 have been constructed in the two months period. Eighteen residences were built at a total cost of $43,500.

Among the lately constructed buildings are stores, garages, a bus terminal station, a lumber yard, a theatre, a studio and a gin.

The residences are mostly of the bungalow type and cost on the average of $2,500. Because of the scarcity of buildings rent is unusually high.

Water cannot be compressed.

ROUTINE - - By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1925, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

The thing that Helena Drayton hated so about her life was the ROUTINE.

There is something STULTIFYING about ROUTINE.

That was just it. If you were married to Fred Drayton, you knew, so irrevocably, where your next meal was coming from!

Fred was as UNCOMPLAINING AS A GALLEY SLAVE.

No wonder, then, that when Helena and Gervaise met they felt that they had found each other.

But Gervaise loves his coffee on ROUTINE SCHEDULE.

THE thing that Helena Drayton hated so much about her life was the routine.

Well, there is something a little stultifying in the knowledge that every morning, yes, even Sunday included, because Fred cleans the car that morning, at exactly thirty minutes past seven, the spout to your little granite coffee pot will begin to breathe out its soft aroma and the smell of four thin slices of bacon begin to wind through the little house.

There is something a little stultifying about routine.

The faces of men on their way to factories and girls on their way to shops show it.

The very thought of estimating how many times before one dies one is going to do one's back hair and lace one's shoes and brush one's teeth can induce a little madness.

Helena Drayton, though, felt abnormally about the treadmill of her routine. It obsessed her. Lying in bed some nights, the thought of just the week's seven breakfasts ahead that she was going to prepare for Fred would make her break out into a little goose flesh of nervousness that prohibited sleep. And to her, more and more, Fred, who was happy with her, came to be the symbol of routine.

He was so unrebellious about it. He accepted it with a quiesance and almost a welcome.

"Well, what of it?" he used to retort to her good naturedly. "I'm darn lucky at that. I see some of these fellows that hop from this job to that. I could do better, I guess, but believe me, I could do a whole lot worse. And we've got the steady envelope, Dumplings! That's something! We don't have to do any higher mathematics to find where our next meal is coming from."

That was just it. If you were married to Fred Drayton, you knew—so irrevocably—where your next meal was coming from!

Pretty Helena. The Mondays and the Tuesdays and the Wednesdays came to have a horror for her all their own.

The charmed people who were free of routine. The people who lived carelessly, easily; without schedule. The people who rose from breakfast tables without a thought of the dishes left standing. The people who wintered along Rivieras and never made their own beds or knew or cared about the price of string-beans or oil floor mops.

The women who lived the irregular, no matter how difficult, lives of artists.

The charmed people who were not caught in routine! The routine of the small, petty, regular people. The Freds. The families who occupied the rows of identical houses on her little street. The women with the look of routine in their faces.

Artists did not have it! Violinists. Painters. Actresses. Authors. There were pictures of many of them pasted around the mirror to Helena's little dressing table. The people who did not know or care about the cost of string-beans or oil-mops. The people who were above the detail of the petty little lives of the petty day-by-day people who surrounded Helena.

Fred went to his office as uncomplainingly as a galley slave. Fred climbed his book-keeper's stool and remained there eight hours as uncomplainingly as a galley slave. Fred played poker on Saturday nights with six men on the block who went about their routine jobs with the same surrender of the galley slave.

The women Helena knew went about their housework and their babies and their chores without revolt. With even a certain complacency. As if the routine were building something. Achieving something. What?

The goose step! The goose step. All of them marching goose-step! And not seeming to mind it.

That was because they were insensitive. Somebody must make the world go around and the folks of Helena's world were the ones to do it! That was what she decided for herself. Helena was miscast!

Sometimes she had dreams. Strange ones that troubled her and at the same time made her very proud. Dreams that Fred could not understand. Nor any of the people on the street-of-little-houses.

Sometimes when she heard good music, or fine acting, or even saw a good painting, thoughts and ecstacies raced over her that excited her and thrilled her and made her more and more aware of the trap of her routine. The unimaginative, dull day-by-day trap of living with Fred on the street-of-the-little-houses.

And there was no use talking to Fred. He was sodden with acceptance. He would tilt her face and kiss her chin and go out and lie himself flat under the flivver in the garage and tinker away his free hours.

What did Fred know of the world outside the routine? The world of charmed people who breakfasted at any hour from nine to one. Who sang arias or took trips to Greece or wore unpractical clothes or loved Sonatas.

What did Fred know?

The blue of Helena's pretty eyes began to take on a glitter. A kind of fever burned in them. She was like a person lying tormented in bed plunging off covers that oppressed her.

The covers of routine. Helena began to hate routine. To burn with that hatred. To be obsessed with it. To be a little mad with it.

Poor Fred. He took her to a mountain resort for two weeks. To a little boarding house, a half mile removed from the big hotel. A stuffy little place filled with the galley-slaves.

The big hotel was the mecca of the charmed people. Wienawski, the pianist, was summering there with his family. And Yolande, the soprano. And Gervaise, who played the cello until you sobbed with it.

Helena and Gervaise walked into each other on a mountain pass, so that one had to stand aside for the other.

But instead they stood there in the startled act of collision. Helena with the blue flame of fever in her eyes. And Gervaise with his shock of hair blowing in the wind and his nervous fingers fluttering.

It was inevitable. Because Helena was so ready for it. So fertile for it.

Ultimately they went away together.

* * * *

Gervaise, when he is not touring, has a flat in Munich.

He loves that flat and detests touring.

Gervaise likes his coffee hot. Piping hot. And he likes it in bed, promptly, at eight-thirty every morning. And he likes it when Helena brings it.

And Gervaise likes his bath promptly at nine. And when Gervaise travels he carries his own dishes and Helena prepares most of their meals in the hotel suite because Gervaise detests hotel cookery.

And Gervaise yearns for the day when they are permanently to retire to Munich and settle down to the fine, substantial routine of life in that German city.

Gervaise loves his own feather-bed and his own percolator and he even carries on tour his own woolen blankets.

Gervaise can be disagreeable if his coffee is not on routine schedule.
