Congressman Omar Burleson and Ross Wilson, Manager of SWPGA, discussing the Peanut Program at a meeting which was held at Lone Cedar Country Club in June.

Omar Burleson To Speak At Businessmen's Club Meeting Monday

Congressman Omar Burleson, 76th Congressional District, has accepted an invitation from the Gorman Businessmen's Club to speak at their regular monthly meeting, Monday, 6:30 p. m. at the Educational Building of the First Methodist Church. The WSCS will serve dinner.

Mr. Burleson has worked diligently to serve the people of his district. He is Chairman of the House Administration Committee and a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He has always taken a leading role in legislation affecting Agricultural producers in Texas. In 1954 he joined with peanut growers and shellers in protesting the importation of peanuts into the U. S. from foreign countries. In 1958 he authored a bill which would have placed the peanut price support program on a self-help basis. This year he led a campaign to persuade the Department of Agriculture to remove grade discriminations against Southwest Spanish Peanuts.

Although Mr. Burleson has a tight schedule he is never too busy to assist people of his district with personal problems if he is able to do so.

Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jumper were married fifty years on Thursday, October 29, 1909. It was in October, 1909 that H. C. Poe, then County Clerk, issued their license. They were married by Justice of the Peace W. V. Garrett, Precinct No. 5, Gorman, Texas.

The ceremony was performed while they sat in a buggy in the middle of the road, very deep sand, what is now the intersection of Hwy. 6 and the Desdemona Hwy.

The Jumpers had not planned a big open house party for Sunday, Nov. 1st., but when their friends and neighbors learned of the important date they took over and before the day was over about 200 had signed the guest book. A couple as beloved as they were due a proper recognition on their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Around the year 1900 Letha Warren came to Texas with her family from Pontotoc, Miss when she was quite a young girl. They settled in the Kokomo Community and she attended school there. It was on January 3, 1905 when Mr. Jumper arrived in Texas with his family from Oxford, Miss. He recalled that it sure was a mighty long train ride. The Jumper family also made Kokomo their home. He says he had been in Texas only 10 or 15 days when he met Miss Warren at a party.

The two became school-day sweethearts, but things didn't always go smoothly for they admit having their squabbles now and then but would always "make up" and after 4 years of courting Miss Letha Warren became Mrs. A. L. Jumper.

Also they had no children they reared an orphaned brother and sister of Mr. Jumper's brother, Jim. The mother and father passed away within two years. The girl, Hazel, was 11 years old and the boy, Orvin Lee, was only 5. The daughter now is Mrs. Pete

Panthers Seek District Tilt Win At Rising Star Friday

After a well deserved weeks rest the Gorman Panthers will travel to Rising Star for a district game beginning at 7:30.

Gorman is riding pretty high after last weeks games which saw May beat favored Baird 18-0. Earlier the Panthers had beaten May 12-6 which leaves Gorman and Jim Ned in the district lead.

Even though the Wildcats of Rising Star have lost a lot of games this year will not mean the Panthers will have an easy time of it. Rising Star always play an all out game against the Panthers and the boys in Red and Blue will have to continue their fine play to win this one.

With the weeks rest the injury list has improved. Ken Welch will probably see limited duty but the rest of the squad should be in the best condition of the year.

A large crowd is expected to go to Rising Star to back the Panthers this week.

Last Friday night 67,000 fans at Louisiana witnessed one of the best ball games ever played and one of the most exciting runs ever made by an individual. After the Ole Miss Rebs had held on to a 3 to 0 lead over the LSU Tigers and their punter had punted seven times for a 47 yard average, he managed to get off another long punt to Billy Cannon deep in LSU territory, in fact he caught the ball on the 10 yard line and after about four men seemed to have him stopped the All-American halfback managed to get loose and elude the rest of the Ole Miss players and go all the way to put the Tigeers ahead 6-3. What was an important play in this game that no one noticed was the extra point that Harris kicked to give LSU a 7-3 lead because after the brilliant run by Cannon Ole Miss drove to the 7 with first and goal to go but bogged down. FORMER GORMANITE VISITS BROTHER & SISTER HERE

Maurice Currie of Washington, D. C. flew to Abilene to see his brother, Theodore Currie, who is ill in the hospital there, and came by Gorman to visit with his sister, Mrs. Barton Eppler, and brother, Edward Harrison.

He arrived just in time to attend the Homecoming football game, therefore, his name was not on the registration list.

He said he thoroughly enjoyed the game and seeing some of his old friends and classmates.

Theodore had a heart attack but is reported to be recovering nicely.

Harris missed the extra point most likely Ole Miss would have kicked a field goal and in all probability would have ended in a 6 to 6 tie.

WYNNE CHESTER SAYS:

Youngsters Delight In Organized Shooting

If your youngster seldom gets a chance to shoot, why not suggest he join a Junior Rifle Club chartered by the National Rifle Association? Pinking at tin cans is fun, but there's no thrill like that first bullseye scored on a regulation target, seen and admired by all your friends. And most important, organized shooting is a safe, exciting sport in which all youngsters... boys and girls, tall and short, heavyweight and flyweight... can participate and excel. One of the smallest boys in our club regularly outshoots our high school's star halfback. Both boys benefit from the experience, while having a whopping good time.

Churches, schools and 4-H clubs sponsor junior rifle clubs. If you can't find one in your neighborhood, write to the National Rifle Association, 1600 Rhode Island Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., for details on how to organize a group, where to find qualified instructors, etc. You'll be helping the youngsters learn a sport that develops self respect and a sense of responsibility, while offering lots of fun for all.

Science Faculty Members To Attend Fusion Symp'm

Science faculty members and graduate science students from 42 Texas colleges and universities will hear progress reports on efforts to harness the hydrogen bomb for peaceful purposes at a symposium on nuclear fusion in Austin, November 21-22. They will be guests of electric companies in Texas, including Texas Electric Service Company.

The science teachers will be among a group of 200 attending the symposium, which also will include industrial scientists and others. The meeting is being co-sponsored by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and the University of Texas. The research foundation is a non-profit organization whose members are eleven investor-owned electric utility companies operating in Texas.

The symposium is part of the foundation's program to advance knowledge of nuclear energy through research, experimentation and education. The foundation is co-sponsoring a research program in controlled fusion being carried out by General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corporation in La Jolla, California, through which it is hoped to devise methods and procedures looking toward the eventual economical generation of electric power from controlled atomic fusion energy for the benefit of the people of Texas.

The symposium will feature papers by some of the world's leading scientists working in the field of fusion research. They will report on recent developments in the efforts of scientists to reproduce in the laboratory the fusion process responsible for energy generation in the sun and the stars. Chairman of the symposium will be Dr. Edward C. Creutz.

The Little Things We Notice -

... in preparing your abstracts often grow into big things later on. For example, if a deed is drawn by a careless person it is sure to be full of errors and these errors will show up in your abstract as originally written. The moral is, have your title instruments prepared only by qualified conveyancers and from a legal standpoint the lawyer is the only person who can do this work for you.

THE INSTALLATION OF A CLEANER FOR FARMERS STOCK PEANUTS

We are now able to custom clean your peanuts for you before they are graded. Peanuts which are not eligible for loan because of excess foreign material can now be made eligible by cleaning.

Here's the way it works. The peanuts are emptied into an elevator which takes them up to the cleaner. The cleaner will remove most of the sand, rocks, sticks, leaves, etc. They are sampled as they leave the cleaner. Another elevator takes them to an overhead bin which will hold them until the entire load has been cleaned.

The clean peanuts are then loaded into a truck and weighed prior to selling. Your grade and weight are determined on clean peanuts.

The cost of cleaning will be much less than the penalty for excess foreign material. It will pay you to see us before selling your peanuts.

(Although this is addressed to Chevrolet owners, we'd be glad to have you read it, no matter what make you now own or plan to buy. It might well be as interesting and significant to you as to the Chevrolet owner.)

TO THE MORE THAN 16 MILLION PEOPLE WHO OWN CHEVROLETS

The first and the latest—the 1912 and the 1960 Chevrolet. The progress represented here is the result of continuing efforts to make your new Chevrolet always more beautiful, more useful and more valuable in every respect.

You belong to the largest family of owners in the automotive world.

We hope you're proud of that. It must give you great satisfaction to know that your judgment in choosing Chevrolet has been confirmed by so many other people.

We know that we can hold your preference and your loyalty only by meeting our responsibilities to you fully and completely from the day you buy your Chevrolet to the day you trade it in. And so we'd like to talk with you about our responsibilities as we see them, and what we are doing to meet them.

Our first responsibility, we think, is clear: To design and build products that satisfy your needs and your wants to the highest possible degree. To that end, we have done these things for 1960:

Made the 1960 Chevrolet more economical, roomier, more quiet and comfortable, easier to handle and maneuver.

Introduced the compact and revolutionary Corvair. Produced a new line of Chevrolet trucks with unprecedented advances in efficiency, cargo handling, driver comfort and ability to get a job done.

But it isn't enough to design and build the kinds of products you want. They must be built right. Solidly. Carefully.

Let us assure you of this: Chevrolet's fine reputation as a solid, well-built, dependable product is being safeguarded by more checks and inspections and tests, than ever before.

Along with your Chevrolet dealer, we want you to have available the finest and most complete service facilities. That is why we: Conduct training schools for Chevrolet dealer mechanics. Study and recommend improved service equipment and techniques. Maintain the industry's most complete parts warehouse system.

Finally, neither Chevrolet nor your Chevrolet dealer has any intention of forgetting you after you buy. To help keep you happy with your Chevrolet, we have established a department new to us, and so far as we know, new to the automobile industry. This is the Chevrolet Department of Owner Relations, whose only job is the coordination of Chevrolet and Chevrolet dealer activities so that you enjoy utmost satisfaction during your entire period of ownership. Through this department, and through all the other extraordinary steps we are taking, Chevrolet and your Chevrolet dealer hope to keep you a happy member of the Chevrolet owner family.

SHORT STORY
Orchids Aren't All
By Ethel M. Comins

THERE was a cloud of dust and a screeching of brakes as the shiny black Buick slid around the corner of the farm driveway.

It isn't like Lincoln to drive so fast, Mrs. Sawyer thought. She glanced down at the new black lace dinner dress with pride and reached up to give her freshly waved hair a pat.

It was milking time and Mary was coming out to the milk house with the first pail. Mrs. Sawyer waved as she moved carefully over the uneven lawn so that her high heels would not cause her to fall.

Mary had laughed when the invitation arrived and said, "We'd look pretty driving up to the Dale Mansion in our old truck. Get Link to take you."

Nancy Dale had written across the back of the engraved invitation. "You must come. My bridesmaid of fifty years ago will be the most important guest. Bring Mary or Lincoln with you."

Laura quickly threw the car into gear and swung around the corner.

Mrs. Sawyer had secretly wanted Lincoln to go. He had looked so distinguished in his tuxedo at Laura's wedding. Still, her home was with Mary. But Mary had been firm and would have none of it. "I haven't the time with the harvesting," she said.

When she reached the car, Mrs. Sawyer discovered that Laura, Lincoln's daughter, was in the driver's seat accompanied by her little girl. "Sorry to be late," Laura said.

"Dad's tied up."

When Mrs. Sawyer started to open the front door of the Buick, the child's little face puckered up and she shrieked, "I don't want you in here."

"But there's plenty of room," Mrs. Sawyer reasoned.

Laura said, "You don't mind, do you? Patty's been sick."

Mrs. Sawyer opened the back door and managed to get in without assistance. Laura quickly threw the car into gear and swung around the corner of the driveway. Mrs. Sawyer was able to stay on the seat only by clinging desperately to the strap at the side of the window. Of course, she minded. Her hair-do would be blown to bits in the back seat. And the corsage—there wasn't any sign of the orchid that Lincoln had promised.

When they reached Oakdale, Laura did not turn down the street to Lincoln's house. "Aren't we going to pick Lincoln up?" Mrs. Sawyer called.

Laura called back as the car moved even faster. "He's playing golf—an important prospect."

"But he promised—"

"He forgot all about this dinner of yours," Laura called. "Mother remembered just in time. I drove my convertible out to the club and changed cars. I knew you wouldn't be comfortable in that."

"But the Dales won't understand," Mrs. Sawyer said. "He accepted. This is their 50th anniversary."

"Just tell 'em a big business deal prevented."

"But you don't do business in the evening," Mrs. Sawyer protested struggling to keep from crying.

When they turned in at the long driveway that led to the Dale mansion, Laura said, "I'll go over to mother Lane's. You can give me a ring when you're ready."

"You needn't wait," Mrs. Sawyer answered. "When I'm ready, I'll call Mary. She'll come after me with the truck. I'll be more comfortable in that."

She felt very stiff as she got out of the car. Despite the warmth of the day, she felt chilly—probably the wind in the back of the car.

"But grandmother," Laura objected. "I'll wait. It will make Aunt Mary a lot of trouble."

"Don't worry about that," Mrs. Sawyer replied. "It's never any trouble for Mary to do things for me and she never forgets a promise either."

Laura thought, I wonder what I've done now. All the trouble this trip made me and she never even said, thanks. She shrugged her shoulders. Might as well forget it. Old people were hard to please.

RAILROADS SEEK TO END $500 MILLION "FEATHERBEDDING"

A stormy showdown between management and labor over the $500 million annual featherbedding waste on the nation's railroads is imminent. Reader's Digest reports in an article in the November issue.

U. S. railroads are determined to modernize the work rules dating from 40 and more years ago, according to the article by Alfred Steinberg. These rules require surplus men on trains, erect jurisdictional barriers between various work groups and otherwise promote waste and inefficiency among 200,000 operating employees, the article points out.

Contract negotiations on this explosive issue begin after Nov. 15.

To find out to what extent featherbedding exists on the railroads, Mr. Steinberg rode locomotives, wandered about yards and terminals and talked to railroaders themselves.

"There can be no question that featherbedding abounds wherever one looks, Mr. Steinberg declares.

The toll, he adds, is measured in higher passenger fares and freight rates and dwindling business for the long-troubled railroad industry.

The fireman who "has no fires to stoke or boilers to tend" on the modern diesel locomotive is cited by the Digest article as a primary example of featherbedding in practice.

Another obsolete rule gives each engine-crew member a basic day's wage for every 100 miles he travels. This rule dates from 1919, Mr. Steinberg reports, and results in such "high pay for short hours" as an engineer's collecting 1.43 days' wages for clipping off 143 miles in two hours on the Denver Zephyr, and a Pennsylvania engineer's collecting 4 1/2 days' pay, or about $100, for making a 452-mile round trip between New York City and Washington, D. C., in a single day.

A companion featherbed rule splits the nation's railroads into division 100 or so miles long, with crews barred from crossing these borders. Thus, the Digest says, eight different engine crews are required to get the 20th Century Limited over the 16 hour course between New York City and Chicago.

To an outsider, many of the decisions of the National Railroad Adjustment Board in disputes over rules fencing off "road work" from "yard work" bear a "tinge of lunacy," Mr. Steinberg writes.

He cites, for instance, how a road crew was awarded an extra day's pay for moving a train a few car lengths in a yard and how a yard crew got an extra day's pay for helping a train through snow just outside yard limits.

Correction of these rules, the article states, lies "in a greater sense of responsibility to the public on the part of the railroad Brotherhoods."

Mr. Steinberg believes that a key factor in the forthcoming showdown talks will be pressure from the public, now grown "sick and tired of costly, wasteful featherbedding."

The Digest article is titled "It's Showdown Time for Featherbedding on the Railroads."
