UN Forces Across Han Fight Out More Gains

Crime Probers Will Hear Big Boys Monday

NEW YORK, March 10. (AP) — The biggest and probably the most spectacular open hearing yet held by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) and his Senate crime probing committee will begin Monday in New York.

A parade of approximately 50 witnesses including "big names" in politics and the underworld is scheduled to appear.

Top name among the politicians scheduled to testify is that of William O'Dwyer, former mayor and now ambassador to Mexico, who has promised a "factual picture" of the New York scene.

GAMBLING HEAD

Kingpin among the underworld figures is Gambler Frank Costello, whom the committee has described as head of a national crime syndicate.

The crime probers want to look into possible links betwen politics and the underworld, gambling narcotics, gangster infiltration into legislative business, waterfront smuggling and racketeering, and the Mafia, secret "black hand" organization.

In contrast with a closed preliminary hearing held by the commitee earlier in New York, the doors will be wide open next week.

TV DUE

Newsmen will have front row seats. So will photographers and television cameramen.

Some 2,500,000 TV-owning New Yorkers will be able to watch the proceedings over any one of five stations. They are expected to be networked also to other parts of the nation.

O'Dwyer, who has been ill in Mexico City, will come here voluntarily to testify on March 19 as the final witness of the New York sessions, the committee has announced.

Three Injured North Of Here

Three men were injured, one critically, when their car overturned several times at 10:45 o'clock last night about eight miles north of Snyder on the Lubbock highway.

Most seriously injured was Pete Rochelle, in his twenties, of the Joy Courts, Lubbock. He was taken to the Snyder Hospital by ambulance, and hospital authorities said he was not expected to live.

Also injured were Logan Charles Williams, 65, of the Pioneer Hotel, Amarillo; and James Elra Odell, 27, of the Ashley Courts, Lubbock.

Their southbound 1947 Ford convertible overturned several times and rolled about 115 yards after overturning, according to Bill Zimmerman, highway patrolman, and Homer Whisnand, deputy sheriff, who investigated the accident.

Huge Tower Is Raised

1950 Cotton Total in Scurry Is Computed at 39,245 Bales

Slightly less than 40,000 bales of cotton were ginned in Scurry County from Scurry farms last season. Jeff L. Brown, cotton statistician for Scurry County, said last week.

Earlier unofficial reports had indicated a slightly higher total figure.

Scurry's actual total was 39,245 according to Brown.

In a contest sponsored by the Von Roeder Seed Farm and the Daily News last fall, several entries were received but all guesses were low.

The nearest guess was 33,256 bales, submitted by F. M. Wilson of Weslaco, Tex. His was the highest guess and therefore the nearest.

Wilson as winner of the contest gets 50 pounds of cotton seed from Von Roeder Seed Farms and a year's subscription to the Daily News.

The Planters No. 1 gin in Hermleigh had the highest total for a single gin in the county with 5,193 bales ginned. The Joyce gin of Snyder ran a close second by ginning 5,178 bales.

Other gin totals for the county were China Grove Co-Op 4,313; Snyder Paymaster, 4,396, Hermleigh Planters 679, Inadale Co-op 4,517, Snyder Planters 1,508, Fluvanna Planters 3,300, Ira 4,252 Dunn Planters 2,519, and the Snyder Co-Op 3,390.

Preparations for a bigger crop and ginning season are being made in Snyder by the construction of two new gins and the moving of others to new locations more convenient to farmers.

As always the amount of rainfall we have will affect this year's crop, but local and state agricultural officials predict the biggest cotton crop in the county's history because of the enticement of an almost assured high price, and the removal of the government's acreage restrictions.

Skilled Convicts Build One Of Most Escape-proof Prisons

BUFORD, GA., March 10 (AP) — A group of Georgia convicts has designed and built a million-dollar home, one of the best of its kind, but none of them ever wants to live in it.

Rock Quarry Prison was constructed to house 325 of the state's most hardened and incorrigible criminals.

Everything from the architect's drawings to the last intricate lock and listening device was the work of skilled prisoners. The job was done in nine months.

Men whose crimes range from rape and murder to hog stealing forged the bars, welded the cell blocks and set up the siren system. They designed and constructed the complicated system of locks, put up five watch towers and topped it off by building a pleasant home for Warden Ed Clements.

GEORGIA'S ALCATRAZ

Clements values the new penitentiary at $1 million dollars. He says it actually cost the state only $114,838.25. The warden says it is as nearly escape-proof as a jail can be made. It already is being called "Georgia's Alcatraz."

"The way those towers are placed even bribing guards wouldn't help a prisoner escape unless he bribed at least three of them," Clements says, "and his chances of getting away wouldn't be too good even then."

One of the best brick layers in the country was responsible for the prison's red brick front, according to the warden. In various jails for much of his life, he is serving a 20-year term for burglary.

Another burglar with a 20-year sentence, a cook named Bill, devised the intricate locks for the solitary confinement cells. He built them, too. Any cell can be locked or unlocked from outside the cell block by use of a double key and electrically operated sliding doors. Bill also constructed the cells, although he had never done similar work before.

"I just got interested in it," he said.

All the plumbing was installed by a life-termer who was a professional plumber on the outside. Another burglar was the surveyor. The electricians who did the complicated wiring jobs were thieves and sex criminals. The man who built all the doors has completed nine years of a 25-to-40-year sentence for receiving stolen goods.

A murderer did such a good welding job the warden rewarded him with a transfer to a prison camp nearer his home. A skilled cabinet maker built all the furniture, and a carpenter paneled the warden's house.

"It is surprising how many talented men there are among lawbreakers," Clements says. "Not a thing had to be done over. They got everything right the first time."

He is pleased that the men who built the prison don't want to be among the "hard rocks" who will occupy it. The warden is proud of their work and hopes the experience they gained will add to their chances of finding jobs when they are released.

The prison is located on Hog Mountain, just a few miles from Buford on the site of a former CCC camp. The mountain got his name in the days when farmers rested there on the way to market with their hogs.

State prison officials chose the site because it comprises about 11 acres of solid granite. The tough convicts will dig it out and crush it for use of Georgia's roads.

There ought to be enough rock to last about a hundred years, Ed Clements figures.

Lone Star Production Gives Service Awards To Six Employees

Six employees of the Lone Star Production Co. were presented service awards at the quarterly safety meeting of the West Texas district held at the Snyder office Thursday night.

A 25-year award was given Harvey King of the compressor department. Howard Bramley and Richard Hagan were honored for 10 years service in the production department, and A. L. Jenson and R. H. West, Ballinger, received five-year awards in the production and electricial departments respectively. Jess Mayo, Hermleigh, also received an award for service in the pipe line department.

Skrabanek of Dallas made awards for the compressing department. Pipe line awards were made by Glenn Covington of Ranger, head of the safety department.

Ben Odorizdi and Gene Smith both Snyder employees, spoke on safety topics.

About 42 employees were present for the meeting.

Moorman Gets WarehouseAnd Offices Here

Office and warehouse space was rented by the J. W. Moorman & Son Construction Co. in Snyder Friday.

The building at 1920 Twenty-sixth Street, recently vacated by Snyder Truck and Tractor Co., was rented for warehouse space, and a 34 foot by 12 foot space was rented for their offices in the Bob Dupree Nash Co. building next door.

Dupree said arrangements were under way for the partitioning of the construction company offices.

The company has contracts for construction work on Winston Field, and for the Colorado River Municipal Water District dam which is to be built in Southwest Scurry County.

Employees and machinery began moving into Snyder early last week. About 250 new families were reported here searching for housing.

Moorman said that his payroll will be about $750,000 a year for the year it is expected that the main body of his force will be employed on the two projects.

Headquarters of the firm is in Wylie, Tex., but most of the machinery and personnel will be moved here from near Fort Worth where work is being completed on the Mount Whitney Dam.

Moorman's contract for the Winston Field airport is for $252,372.52. His contract for the construction of the dam is for about $5 million.

Premier Forms New Coalition Government

PARIS, March 10. (AP)—French Premier Henri Queuille tonight formed a new middle-of-the road coalition government, largely a carbon copy of its predecessor, the cabinet of Rene Pleven.

It was the country's 17th ministry, and Queuille's own second, since the liberation of France. Like most of the others, it combined Socialists, the Catholic Popular Republican Movement (MRP), and Queuille's own Radical-Socialists, a moderate group despite their name.

Queuille, 66 and a retired country doctor, brought the principal parties of the center together only after a last-minute attempt by the Socialists to substitute Paul Ramadier, member of that party and a former premier, for Georges Bidault, MRP chief, as a vice-premier in the new combination. Socialist members of the national assembly, lower house of parliament, finally capitulated to Queuille's choice when the premier invoked the aid of President Vincent Auriol, himself a Socialist with wide influence in party councils.

The Socialist attitude had threatened to create a new cabinet upset on the heels of a nine-day cabinet crisis which ended last night with Queuille's confirmation as premier by the assembly. The vote was 339 for, 205 against.

Physician Leaves For Postgraduate Studies

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Mundt left Snyder yesterday for the East. Dr. Mundt said he would attend postgraduate medical school but that he is undecided as to his future location. The physician has been a member of the staff at the Snyder Hospital Clinic since October.

TownLandmarksBeingRazedAs Gins Move Outside City Limits

The movement of gins from the city limits continues at an accelerated pace.

Two are presently in the process of moving. And the last remaining gin within the city is building at a new site three miles east of Snyder.

MACHINERY MOVED

Work began last week on removing machinery from the building of the Paymaster gin at 1610 Twenty-ninth Street. Construction recently began on a new building for the Planters gin, which has been located at 2109 Avenue R. The new site is three miles east of Snyder.

Although officials of the Paymaster gin prefer not to make public their intentions, because deals for their new locations have not been completed, they did state—referring to the dismantling of their present building — "If we don't move, we will have a hard time putting it back together."

The new Planters gin east of Snyder will be one of the biggest in the state, costing an estimated $150,000.

It will have a Lumus plant with Hardwick - Etta extractors, giving it the greatest capacity of any gin in the county, Mrs. Merritt said.

SNYDER CO-OP

The Snyder Co-op gin last week started moving from 2012 Twenty-fifth Street to a location southeast of the city, on Thirty - seventh Street one mile west of its intersection with the Sweetwater highway.

The gin will be completely new with the exception of the old electric power plant. Equipment valued at about $60,000 will be installed, and when completed the modern gin will have a capacity of eight bales an hour. There is the possibility of a double battery which if needed would bring the capacity to 16 bales an hour. The completely new building will be designed to house a double battery.

The Joyce Brothers gin has already been moved back from its site, which it occupied for about a quarter century, on Twenty-fifth Street at the RS&P tracks. But so far it has not been moved to an out-of-town location. A Safeway grocery store will be built at the old Joyce gin site.

Following closely on the heels of these developments, the city council last Monday night asked that an ordinance be drawn up prohibiting the location of new gins inside the city limits and severely restricting the burning of hulls inside the city by gins which elect to remain in the city limits.

Storage Being Built Here

First sperical liquid storage tanks to be built in West Texas are now under construction at the Snyder Gasoline Plant .This new style structure permits a maximum capacity with a minimum of both materials and space. Four of hte tanks are under construction at the plant.—(taffp hotograph).

Juror Causes Mistrial

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 10. (AP)—A woman juror caused a mistrial in circuit court here.

Standing up in the jury box after the defense had cross examined the complaining witness for an hour and a half, Miss Anna O'Toole, one of the jurors, wanted to know:

"How long do we have to sit here and listen to all this nonsense?"

Judge Harold A. Steinbacher immediately declared a mistrial. The defense claimed the juror's remarks showed prejudice.

Criticism On Acheson Letter

WASHINGTON, March 10. —Secretary Acheson is returning Tuesday from a Bermuda vacation to face a mounting stack of correspondence over his explanation to a Marine corporal of why Americans are fighting in Korea.

Letters are coming in by the dozens, praising and condemning the exposition of American aims and ideals he gave to 24-year old Corp. John B. Moullette.

Officials say that about two out of three express the view the secretary did a good job in the exchange of correspondence with Moullette's father which was published a week ago. The rest say they are not convinced. Some called Acheson names like "peanut-brained politician" and "hypocrite." A Philadelphia housewife said he ought to be "tried for the murder of American men in Ko-

Lady In Mink Reported Fired

WASHINGTON, March 10. (AP) — Rep. Keating (R-NY) said tonight he had "heard" that President Truman has fired Mrs. E. Merl Young, the White House stenographer with a $9,450 mink coat.

Keating made his statement in an ABC broadcast in which he was questioned by Bert Andrews, radio commentator and newspaperman.

"I heard only a few minutes ago that he (Mr. Truman) has fired her," he said.

Afterward Keating, a critic of the administration, refused to tell a reporter what the source of his information was.

"I don't think I am at liberty to give you that," he said.

A Senate subcommittee investigating an alleged influence ring said to have brought pressure to bear on the Reconstruction Finance Corp. has developed testimony that Mrs. Young picked out her fur coat last September at a New York furriers.

The furrier said it was at first charged to Young but later the charge was shifted to the account of Joseph H. Rosenbaum, a Washington lawyer. The subcommittee has charged Rosenbaum enjoyed "unusual success" at getting RFC loans for clients, largely through Young's help.

Young and Rosenbaum testified Rosenbaum paid for the coat as a loan to Young.

Rep. Keating decalred tonight that if Mr. Truman has fired Mrs. Young he ought to come out and tell the public so.

CzechsPutHeat On Archbishop

PRAGUE, Czechoslavakia, March 10 (AP)—The Communist government announced tonight it had banished Archbishop Josef Beran, Roman Catholic primate of Czechoslovakia, from the seat of his archdiocese because of his "negative attitude to church laws." He has been replaced by a "patriotic and democratic" parish priest.

Archbishop Beran, a foe of any interference by the Communist Government in church matters, was ordered by the state office for church affairs to live outside his Prague archdiocese and to pay a fine. The announcement did not state the amount of the fine, whether the primate had been removed from Prague, or his present whereabouts.

Total of Boy Scout Drive at About $5,000

About $5,000 had been contributed to the Boy Scouts in the finance drive at the time of the last report late Friday, Edward Bolger, drive chairman, said.

"Some funds still remain in the hands of the drive workers, which will be turned in in the next few days," Bolger said.

It has not yet been determined which of the drive workers will receive the watch offered by the Snyder Jewelry for the solicitor contacting the greatest number of persons. When a count was made last Thursday, three of the workers had tied.

Report Cold Is DueHereAgain From the North

By The Associated Press

New cold air from the north moved on Texas Saturday night. Official forecasts called for shower activity ahead of the front; minimum temperatures of 28 to 38 degrees in West Texas, and minimums of 26 to 34 in the extreme northwest part of East Texas.

The new front edged in as warm spring weather covered all the state. Saturday afternoon readings were in the high sixties, the seventies, or eighties.

Elsewhere in the nation a band of snow, sleet, and freezing rain began stretching across the Midwest, and a new wave of cold hit the Dakotas.

The U. S. Weather Bureau expected the front in Texas to reach the Dallas-Fort Worth area late Sunday afternoon and the coast by Sunday night. Colder weather was expected to cover all west Texas and reach into the interior of East Texas Sunday.

The bureau said local showers would result as the cold fought a big layer of warm, moist air. Air from the Midwest cooled half the state Friday. But its chief effect was soaking rains in the South Plains, and some good showers in the Wichita Falls area.

Childress had the lowest Texas temperature reported to the weather bureau early Saturday, a 34.

"You'll have to remember," said a forecaster, "that at this season of the year the push of cold air slows rapidly as it moves into the southern part of the nation."

Sleet slicked highways in parts of Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, and South Dakota. Forecasters said it would move eastward into Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. The Dakotas enjoyed a brief respite from subzero continued in Montana and Western Canada.

Soviet Adopts BiggestBudget

MOSCOW, March 10 (AP)—The Supreme Soviet (parliament) adopted today a 1951 budget of 451,500,000,000 rubles, the biggest peacetime outlay in the history of the USSR.

A few minor changes were made in the budget draft, first presented Wednesday. Increased revenue of slightly less than 1 billion rubles was added before the final approval.

Finance Minister A. G. Zverev disclosed how the record military budget of 96 billion rubles will be divided. He anounced that 74 billions will go to the army ministry and 22 billions to the navy ministry.

(Russia has placed a value on the ruble of four to the American dollar, but since there are so many imponderables involved, the rate does not reflect the true position of the ruble. If the rate is taken it would indicate a total defense budget of $24 billion.

(But Soviet production, through use of forced labor in many cases and through purchases from dominated countries at an extremely favorable rate, is considerably cheapened.

(The Soviet military budget compares with proposals by President Truman for $41,420,000,000 for American armed forces in fiscal 1951. However, there is no indication in what is published about Soviet plans of how much of the state budget listed in other categories actually is for war production purposes.)

25,000 Enemy Casualties In Last 3 Days

Greek Units Register Biggest Gains Of Any Forces On The Front

TOKYO, Sunday, March 11. (AP)—Tank-led U. S. 25th Division infantrymen deepened their bridgehead north of the Han River Saturday as the United Nations offensive plodded ahead on the western and Central Korean fronts.

On the eastern end, the allies were battling a determined Korean Red effort to take Amidong, three miles north of Pangnim.

The Allies' primary purpose still was the destruction of enemy forces rather than conquest of territory. For Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the first three days of the current drive, the U. S. Eighth Army estimated enemy casualties at 25,000. Saturday's high toll still was to be tabulated.

The 25th Division troops were more than five and one-half miles north of the Han. Their 10-mile wide front was within 15 miles east and slightly north of Red-held Seoul. Their next objective appeared to be the road that leads northeast from Seoul to Chunchon.

To the east of the 25th, Greek, British and American troops were punching closer to Hongchon, a key Chinese Communist defense point. Greeks attached to the First U. S. Cavalry Division registered yesterday's biggest UN gains. They rammed four miles ahead in the rocky, roadless country west of Hoengsong.

New Controls On Food Price

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The government is almost ready to put America's 500,000 retail food stores and about 2,000 food wholesalers under a new system of price controls that will bring higher prices on some foods and perhaps lower prices on others.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) said today it expects to issue three big food orders before the end of next week.

The orders will set specific "mark-up" percentages for about 40 categories of food, including most canned and packaged foods but not bread, milk, eggs, fresh meat fresh fruits or vegetables. Food-sellers , by adding these percentages to the prices they pay, can determine the ceiling prices they can charge.

Some industry sources said they expect the orders to bring price rollbacks on coffee, breakfast cereals, shortening, cornmeal, certain flour mixes, and other items. They expect retail price rises on a good many things including baby foods flour and spices. They said frozen foods may go down in some stores and up in others .

But those predictions, while they were from well informed persons, could not be taken as final or official decisions.

The OPS kept the "mark-up" percentages closely guarded. Not would the agency make any official guess as to the overall effect on the housewife's food bill.

Majority Votes In Favor of Buying Present Hospital

To date, 23 persons have mailed survey ballots to the Daily News favoring the county's buying the present hospital with money voted in the hospital bond issue of last April, and 13 persons have sent their votes of disapproval.

The county commissioners have expressed a desire to know the sentiments of the people in this issue. A questionnaire appears on page two, section one, of today's issue.

West Texas Gets Light Showers Over Week End

After a few days of "rain-promising" weather, West Texas got a widely spread, but not too-soaking, rain, with some ice and a little snow seen in widely spotted areas.

Snyder got .2 of an inch early Friday morning and an estimated tenth of an inch Friday night. The official gauge of rainfall Friday night was not available, as Mrs. D. P. Strayhorn, official weather observer, was out of town yesterday.

At Abilene, .75 of an inch fell.

Weather

WEST TEXAS: Sunday partly cloudy and becoming colder; Monday fair, warmer in afternoon.

EAST TEXAS: Sunday mostly cloudy; local thundershowers in east and south portions, becoming colder in interior; Monday partly cloudy and cold, except a few showers, and becoming colder near the coast. Fresh to locally strong southerly and south winds on the coast, shifting to northerly Sunday night. Sunday partly cloudy and becoming colder. Monday fair, warmer in afternoon.

Do You Want County To Buy Snyder Hospital

The commissioners court was urged Monday to take action toward assuring Snyder adequate hospital facilities.

The commissioners, your elected representatives, expressed a desire to know the feelings of the people in this issue.

Fill out the questionnaire below and mail to the Daily News. Your co-operation in this sampling of opinion can provide a guide to popular sentiment.

I oppose / favor the county's buying the present Snyder Hospital with money voted in last April's hospital bond issue.

Britishers Are Pulling Stakes For Greener Pastures Abroad

By ROBERT F. S. JONES
(Associated Press Staff)

LONDON, March 10. — Quietly and without any fuss, one of the biggest mass migrations of modern times is being stepped in Britain.

Since the end of World War II nearly three quarters of a million Britons have slipped out of English ports and airports to settle abroad. Everyone is sorry to see them go, but nobody wants to stop them.

This exodus, which may change the whole pattern of world economy and strategy within the next generation or two, is a family affair.

Nearly all the migrants are budding empire builders, bound for the promised lands of Australia, Canada and New Zealand, with their vast untapped natural resources.

British industry is being hamstrung by a manpower shortage, but even with rearmament wheels starting to hum, there are no signs of any change in Britain's official "hands off" policy towards the mass migration.

BIGGER THAN OREGON

Tiny Britain, bursting at the seams with 50 million people jostling each other in an area only slightly bigger than Oregon, would be a sitting duck for enemy bombers in an atomic war.

In Canada and Australia, however are potential arsenals, both for war and peace, protected by thousands of miles of ocean.

Both countries rank among the world's leading agricultural producers, both have tremendous natural resources, and both have young and energetic industries built up during World War II.

Both are making their contribution to western defense — Canada with her armaments and aircraft factories and Australia with her guided missile projects.

But both lack the hands to keep their industries expanding — and they think British hands are the best.

Australia, for instance, is nearly as large as the United States — but has a population of only 7,500,000. Canada, slightly larger than the U. S., is dotted with a sparse 13,500,000.

Both Australia and Canada — and to a smaller extent New Zealand — are crying out for immigrants. In the first three postwar years these three dominions alone took 300,000 Britons. As far as they are concerned they can keep on coming.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM

Both New Zealand and Australia have elaborate and well-tried official immigration programs. Australia's plan to boost her population to 20 million in the next 50 years is history's most ambitious resettlement project.

Australia's ministry of immigration sifts applications from many hungry employers and passes them to a network of immigration offices in most of Britain's large towns. Since this program, with free passage provided in chartered ships, was extended last year to cover hotel accommodation for families with no place to go, these offices have been swamped by over 3,000 inquiries daily from sun-starved Britons.

This year Australia has set herself a target of 85,000 immigrants from Britain, bringing her total since 1946 to 300,000.

Canada's immigration project is less ambitious — you make your own way there, and you find your own job when you get there. But so far she has taken an estimated 250,000, and inquiries have been rolling in at the rate of 1,000 a day since the Canadian government offered to lend the passage money.

Many people in Britain and the Commonwealth think there should be some coordinating scheme to deal with the exodus.

PLAN TURNED DOWN

But three years ago Patrick Gordon-Walker, then under-secretary for Commonwealth relations, turned down that proposal. He told the House of Commons the government wants to encourage and facilitate the flow of immigrants to various parts of the commonwealth, but do not want to force anyone to go."

Gordon-Walker added a provision that the government would reserve the right to check too great a flow of certain types of skilled workers, but in actual practice this right has never been exercised. Even when manpower shortages in the immediate postwar years forced the government to freeze the majority of workers in their jobs, in no case was anyone banned from emigrating.

Who are these 20th century empire builders? Like their buccaneering forefathers who laid the foundations of the Commonwealth centuries ago, they are men bitten by the traditional British wanderlust.

Some are single men — 90 per cent of these are war veterans— but nearly half are family men. All are fed up with lack of opportunities at home and want to make their own ways unhampered by controls and red tape. They see their new life as providing chances for their children, impossible to get in overcrowded, over-industrialized Britain, with its scarcity of meat and some other foods.

They are men Britain can ill afford to spare — skilled and unskilled workers in their 20's and early 30's, with a sprinkling of business executives.

But the Commonwealth boast is that it is all one happy family. As one Ministry of Labor official put it:

"What we lose on the swings, we gain on the roundabouts. What a man doesn't produce here, he produces somewhere else in the family — and in any case, the rest of the family doesn't have our feeding troubles."

Separation Of Lovers

TOKYO, March 10. (AP)—Masao Aoki, 20, and his sweetheart paced Tokyo's streets for hours like fond lovers, hand in hand. But theirs was no ordinary stroll; they were searching for an unknown man who would separate them.

Finaly they located the policeman whose handcuffs Aoki found and impetuously clamped shut on himself and his girl.

Pan-American Games Reported To Be An Outstanding Success

BUENOS AIRES, March 10. (AP) — The first Pan-American games have gone down as such an outstanding success that their continuance on a regular basis every four years seems assured.

The big hemisphere sports carnival that drew 2,000 athletes from 20 countries and colonies wound up last night in a dazzling flag ceremony punctuated by fireworks and music by a 500-piece band before 75,000 in the River Plate Stadium.

Big crowds, fair weather and Peron's policy of fostering athletics by subsidies paid off as Argentina easily won the unofficial title, 1,071½ points to 734½ for the United States.

Argentina was the only nation to compete in all 18 sports and the only one with the maximum number of entries in each event.

No world records were bettered during the comptition, but among the notable "nearmisses" was the shot put toss by Jim Fuchs of the United States, which went over 59 feet, but was disallowed when the judges ruled he touched the toeboard. Fuchs won the event, however, and became a double winner by taking the discus.

Other track doubles were turned in by Cuba's Rafael Fortun in the 100 and 200-meter dashes; by U. S. Air Force Sgt. Mal Whitfield in the 400 and 800 meter runs; by Curtis Stone, U. S. A., in the 3,000-meter Steeplechase and 10,000-meter run and by Indegro Mello de Preiss, Argentine housewife, in the women's discus and shotput.

Argentina's overall performance was marred by the loss of the basketball championship to the United States Thursday night, 57-51.

Exhibitions Mark Openers In Big League

NEW YORK, March 10. (AP) — Baseball's spring training exhibition schedule — or the Grapefruit League as it is sometimes called — opened today.

Complete even to a night game at Miami between the Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers, all but one of the 16 major league teams swung into action after some 10 days of intra-camp workouts.

The cry of "batter up" — ever exciting to a diamond fan — started the national past-time off with games at Miami, St. Petersburg, Clearwater, Orlando and Sarasota, Fla., Tucson, Ariz.; San Bernardino and Pasadena, Calif.

Only the Detroit Tigers were idle today. They are listed to play their first exhibition Sunday at Tampa.

Perhaps the top game of the day was at Tucson where the world champion New York Yankees tangle with the Cleveland Indians.

The National League titleholders, the Philadelphia Phillies, opened at Clearwater against the Boston Braves. The Braves actually were down for day - night competition, meeting the Dodgers at Miami in a night fray after their tangle with the Phils.

The play of the New York Giants, expected to be a contender for the flag this year, was watched closely at St. Petersburg against the Carinals. Manager Leo Durocher wants his team to get off to a fast start and plans to field his first team. eGorge Spencer, Monte Kennedy and Norman aFox are slated to pitch.

The performance of Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, was of interest, too. Williams injured his elbow in the all-star game last year and has never quite recovered his old swing.

Arrest Man On Robbery Count

Alfred Castleberry, 46 year old Shreveport, La., man was arrested early last week in connection with the Oct. 17, 1950, burglary of the Calico Cow restaurant in East Snyder. He was arrested by Shreveport police.

He was brought to Snyder this morning by Chester Bairrington, chief of police, and Bill Mitchell, police sergeant, and is now being held in city jail.

Castleberry was indicted by the grand jury here on Nov. 25, for burglary with intent to commit theft. His bail was set at $700, but he was not in custody at the time.

After midnight Oct. 16, $23 and the key to the establishment were taken from the pants pocket of Albert Valis, manager of the Calico Cow. It is believed the key was used to affect entry into the building. Approximately $200 was reported taken in the burglary.

Police secured the indictment against Castleberry, and broadcast a statewide pick up order on him.

Printing of the information on the wanted man in the State Department of Public Safety bulletin led ment of Public Safety bulletin led to his arrest, Bairrington said.

Letters To The Editor

To the Daily News:

I am sure that the majority of the people would like Snyder to have a new hospital, if materials and government aid can be obtained. However, if it means that Snyder must do without a hospital for a year or two while waiting for a hospital to be built, I think it would be wise to buy the hospital now. Our need is urgent. Let's cross our bridges as we come to them. Later if we can build a new hospital, then the present hospital can be used for city or county offices, library, etc.

Personally, I am afraid that some time in the future if some member of my family were to become ill and be in need of hospital attention it would be necessary for me to use the services of some other city. There are other people who feel the same as I.

Hearing Reopens On Five Per Centers

WASHINGTON, March 10. (AP—Senator Hoey (D-NC) said today the Senate's "five per center" inquiry will be reopened next week to find out whether "influence peddlers" are operating in the defense contract field.

The investigation will be conducted by a Senate expenditures subcommittee which Hoey heads. The same group put on a sensational inquiry in 1949 covering the activities of men who charge a fee, often five per cent, for help in getting federal contracts for others.

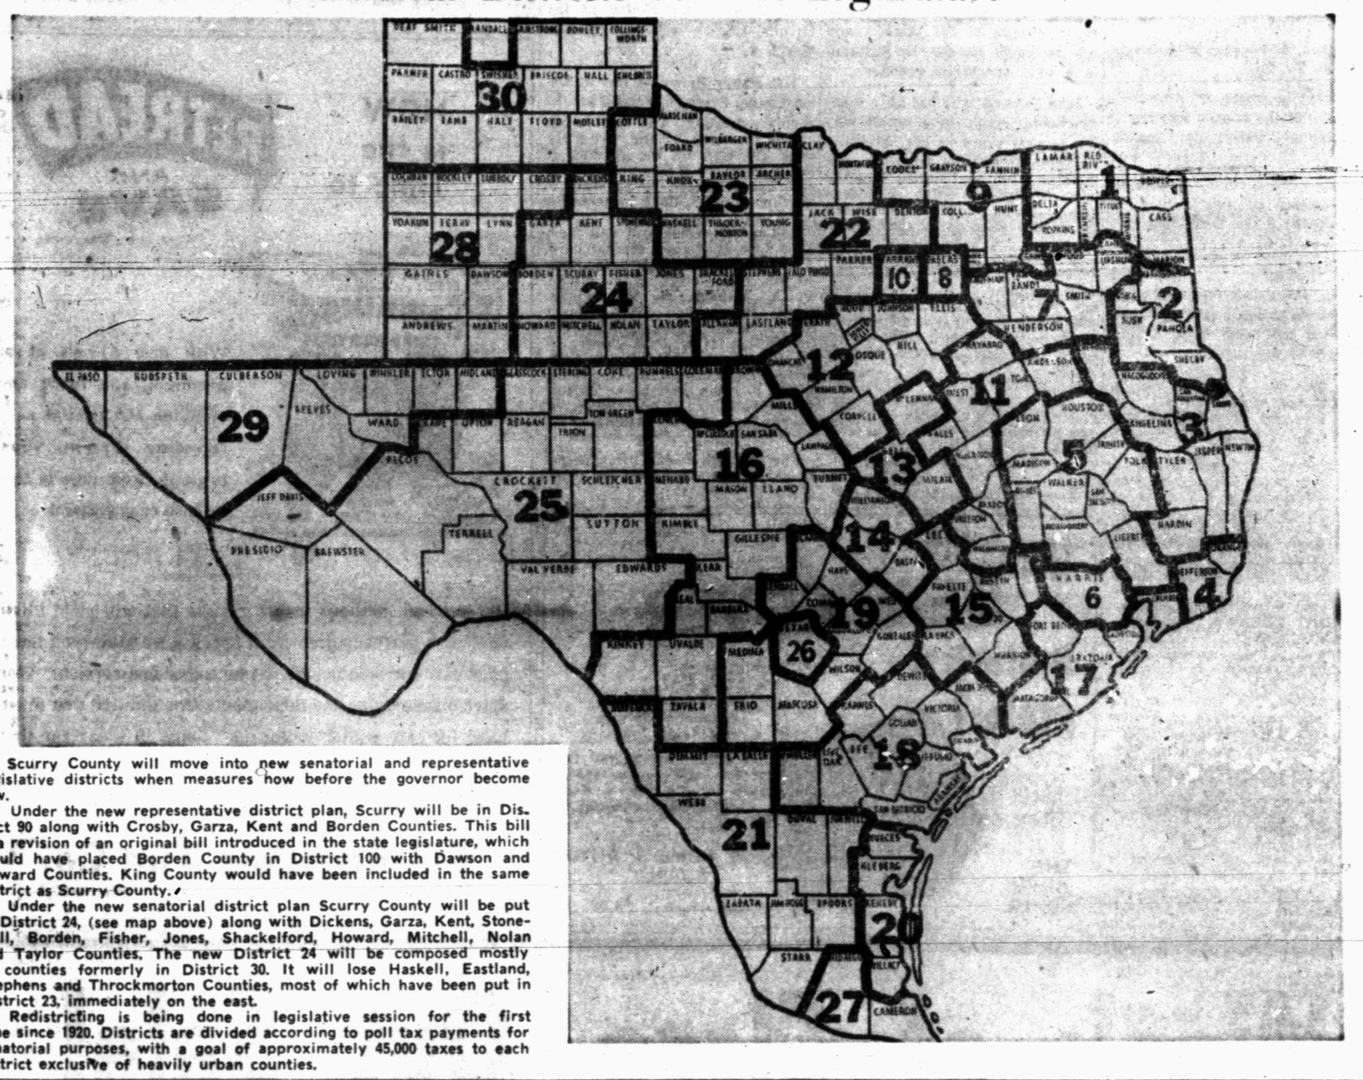
Senatorial Districts of State Legislature



Scurry County will move into new senatorial and representative legislative districts when measures now before the governor become law.

Under the new representative district plan, Scurry will be in District 90 along with Crosby, Garza, Kent and Borden Counties. This bill is a revision of an original bill introduced in the state legislature, which would have placed Borden County in District 100 with Dawson and Howard Counties. King County would have been included in the same district as Scurry County.

Under the new senatorial district plan Scurry County will be put in District 24, (see map above) along with Dickens, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, Borden, Fisher, Jones, Shackelford, Howard, Mitchell, Nolan and Taylor Counties. The new District 24 will be composed mostly of counties formerly in District 30. It will lose Haskell, Eastland, Stephens and Throckmorton Counties, most of which have been put in District 23, immediately on the east.

Redistricting is being done in legislative session for the first time since 1920. Districts are divided according to poll tax payments for senatorial purposes, with a goal of approximately 45,000 taxes to each district exclusive of heavily urban counties.

Peruvian Singer Moves Into World Of Her Own On A Stage

By SAUL PETT
(Associated Press Staff)

NEW YORK, March 10.—Yma Sumac, the Peruvian singing marvel, goes into a kind of self-hypnosis when she sings.

She completely forgets she said the 5,000 people out front, the pale indifferent faces in the orchestra pit, the stage hands, chorus boys managers and press agents crowding in the wings.

"I do not see the theater at all," she said, "I sing and I am at home, among my own people. I see only the mountains and my own tiny village. This is the only way I know how to sing."

Miss Sumac, whose record album, "Voice Of The Xtabay," has been selling nationally among the top three in recent weeks, has gained wide attention because of the incredibly wide range of her voice.

"She is five singers in one," Moises Vivanco, her husband and composer, said during a backstage interview at the Roxy Theater. "Never in 2,000 years has there been another voice like hers."

HAS WIDE RANGE

The extravagant praise brought lowered eyelids from the dark shapely singer. She quietly explained that her range covers five octaves—all the way from "B natural" three lines below the staff to "A sharp" four lines above the staff.

Is singing over this wide range hard on her voice?

Miss Sumac said no. That is her natural voice. She never had a musical lesson in her life. She has been singing that way since she was 10. It is just as easy, she said, for her to sing contralto as coloratura soprano.

Miss Sumac's interviewer said he was confused by the many stories of her background, some of which read like legends.

"Yma has been a legend for many years in the villages of the Andes," Vivanco said. "When she sings there, it is like a religion. The people do not move or make a sound."

Miss Sumac said, yes, there had been some confusion.

"I was not 13 when I married," she said. "I was almost 15. This is not unusual among the mountain people of Peru."

The singer said she was born 22 years ago in the tiny village of Ichocan, 16,000 feet high in the Peruvian Andes. Her full name is Emperatriz Sumac Chavarri Atahualpa. She figures she is descended from the last of the Inca Indian kings killed by the Spanish in the 16th century.

MARRIED IN 1942

She sang at village festivals as a child and Vivanco, hearing about her great talent, came up to the mountains, married her in 1942 and brought her down to the cities. Since then she has toured South America, appeared at the Hollywood Bowl and performed on radio and television in this country several times.

Vivanco and Miss Sumac have a two-year-old son named Paneachka. In Inca, it was explained, this means "Little Father." In Spanish it is Carlos. In English, Charley.

Miss Sumac plans shortly to appear in a Broadway musical. She has sung operatic arias but does not particularly want to appear in an opera.

"I like music," she explained "that makes me cry or makes me laugh. Opera has nothing here, (she touched her heart). I like our old Inca folk songs. I like your Negro spirituals and your hillbilly music. That is from the heart."

Unknown Allergy From Smoking Can Cause Serious Eye Damage

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Now and then a smoker becomes allergic to tobacco, and one form of this allergy can ruin your eyes.

I know because it has just happened to me. The trouble stopped before my vision was badly affected, but it has been permanently impaired.

Only a very small percentage of smokers ever develop the malady — toxic amblyopia. And it seems those who eventually are affected may smoke for years without damage to their eyes.

But once it strikes, toxia amblyopia can reduce your vision to the point where you can't read or clearly distinguish anything, even with glasses. It usually is caught however, before such severe damage has been done. And if the deterioration is halted early, the patient may simply need to get new, stronger glasses. That's what I had to do.

MUST ABSTAIN

But once cured, the patient has to continue the treatment the rest of his life — which is to quit smoking altogether. In treating the infection, doctors prescribe vitamin-B complex or vitamin-B-one. But that's only supplementary they say. Abstinence from tobacco is essential for the cure. If the patient takes up smoking after he is cured, he is likely to develop toxic amblyopia again, with probably more severe effects.

Dr. Alger B. Doland, an opthalmologist who has made a study of the subject in this city and recently reported on it to a medical group here, says it is an involvement of the optic nerve. It produces a variety of symptoms. In my case it caused a swelling of a section of the retina.

The patient first notices his vision becoming misty or blurred. I found I could read only a few of the top lines of the ophthalmologist's chart, although previously I had been able to read all of it.

When the doctor diagnoses the trouble as toxic amblyopia, he knows that a poison coming from somewhere in the body is causing it. The next step is to get you to a hospital quickly, before you vision is damaged any more, to take exhaustive tests. It might be caused by infested teeth, bones, sinuses, various organs and so forth. I got x-rays, blood tests, spinal fluid tests and innumerable examinations for two weeks. But no infaction was discovered.

TOLD TO STOP

Meanwhile, the physician in charge of my case, Dr. Edward C Jennings, cheif of the eye, ear nose and throat service at Mount Alto Veterans' Administration Hospital here, told me to stop smoking. Once in a great while, he explained, he had found it was only nicotine which was causing the trouble.

Within 10 days my vision had become almost normal. No other treatment was given me except vitamin-B injections.

The eye specialists don't know just how nicotine poisoning affects the eyes. They know only that when the patient gives up smoking, he gets well.

I wrote Dr. Alan C. Woods, ophthalmologist - in - chief at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore to inquire about this. He replied that medical knowledge o the subject "is based practically entirely on clinical experience and observation. It is, unfortunately, a subject which does not lend itself to experimental demonstration."

In Dr. Doland's opinion, toxic amblyopia usually is caused by the use of tobacco and alcohol in combination. The victims, he believes, are usually heavy smokers and excessive drinkers.

Some other American medical men, however, have reported that the victims are often moderate smokers and many are total abstainers from alcohol. The name for the malady in this country however, is "tobacco-alcohol amblyopia."

In Great Britain, on the other hand, it is called "tobacco amblyopia," because the prevailing view there is that tobacco is the sole cause. French medical opinion is that alcohol is the sole cause, so in France the name given the ailment is "alcohol amblyopia."

As for me, I never smoked more than a pack of cigarettes a day. I didn't inhale, and my alcohol intake is usually quite moderate. I still sip a cocktail when I want one, and I've had no recurrence hard on her voice.

CHICAGO, March 9. (AP)—Eight Golden Gloves champions will be crowned in Chicago Stadium tonight in the windup of amateur boxing's biggest meet that drew an original field of 20,000 hopefuls.

Winners of sectional elimination tournaments in 25 states converged on Chicago last week for the big show. All who remain are 32. Tonight they enter the semi-finals at the stadium, with the winners climbing back into the ring after brief rests to battle in the finals.

The Fort Worth Star Telegram team enters the semi-finals with three youths in action and a total of 18 points towards the coveted team title. The Cleveland Plain Dealer has 17 points, but has four fighters ready for the semifinals. The Gary, Ind., Post-Tribune and the Toledo Times have three each.

Goss at the present time is commander of zone No. 7 of the Legion.

The nineteenth district convention of the Legion will be held at Lubbock April 7-8, and at that time Goss' name will be placed before the convention, Lambert said.

Local Games Friday Night

West Texas Concrete defeated Ira 36-27, and the Snyder Exes downed Paso-Tex Pipe Line 35-31 in independent league basketball games Friday night.

Ira's defeat was an upset, because Ira came out of the first round with only one loss and six wins, while West Texas Concrete's record was heavy on the loss side.

Scoring in both games was widely divided among the players, instead of in the favor of individual stars.

Bill Jackson for West Texas Concrete led scoring with 20 points. His team mate's scoring were: Dick Ellzy four, Paul Brewer one Charlie Rosson three, Elmer Goldsmith six, and Bob Mason two.

Ira pointers were Burney six Johnson seven, Price four, Handley three, and Smallwood, seven.

A lad who has no trouble reaching the ring led scoring for the Exes. Stahl's 11 points was high in that game. Other Exes scorers were Minton nine, Crenshaw two Weaver six, Bowers four, Richardson two, and Boren two.

Paso-Tex scorers were Hight seven, Sparks four, Roberts four and Ruse, Wilson and Duckett two each.

Tomorrow night the Gonks play Continental Supply at 7 o'clock in what promises to be one of the hottest games of the round. But a game that may eclipse it for interest is the one at 8 o'clock between the Tiger Exes and the Jaycees.

The Gonks and Continental will be playing for league leadership while there will be more close personal rivalry in the second game.

Induction Calls For Nine Men From Scurry

Nine Snyder men were on the last call for inductees by the Selective Service board at Sweetwater.

A meeting of the board on Feb 28 revealed that of the 3,051 men in the board are who are eligible for the draft, 3,020 have been classified by the board.

The following men have been selected for induction on March 28: Allen Carlton Rollins, Bruce Leonard Deloach, Carl Ray Lloyd, Billy Mack Underwood, Harold George Evans, Floyd Livella Niedecken Willard Augusta Cogdell, Stanley Sappington Hill, Jr., and Carl Homer Cox, all of Snyder. Of the 31 men selected, nine were from Snyder, seven from Sweetwater.

Two of the last three calls have hit heavier blows in Scurry County than in Nolan. On the Feb. 9 induction list there were one from Fluvanna, three from Hermleigh and six from Snyder, while there was a total of only five from Nolan County with three of those being from Sweetwater, and two from Roscoe.

On the Feb. 14 call there were 18 called from Sweetwater, nine from Roscoe, one from Blackwell and one from Hilton, a total of 29 from Nolan County. On the same call there were 21 from Snyder, two from Hermleigh, and one from Ira, a total of 24 from Scurry County.

In this call there were nine from Snyder, six from Sweetwater, one from Roscoe, and one from Nolan making a total of nine called from Scurry County and eight from Nolan County.

But for the three calls Scurry County has had only one more man called than Nolan County, 43 to 42 respectively.

Do you know the average Mrs. America? Recently, the United Press news agency, after U. S. census statements about the average American women, optimistically settled upon Jane Russell, movie star, as that great average. Since then, a lot of American cities and hamlets have produced their version of Mrs. America and have found her in their midst. Does Snyder have an average Mrs. America?

If you believe you know her write the Daily News, or telephone the Woman's Page editor, Phone 1234, telling us her qualifications and why you believe this woman might well be Mrs. Average American.

Here are a list of suggested criteria you might observe in casting about for a typical, average Mrs. America. The census found her to be a native - born American, approximately 30.1 years of age, married, living in her own home with 3.4 other persons. The UP threw in the facts that she is interested in current affairs—clothes, education for her children, nutritional food for her family, betterment of her own circle or town, and can have and hold good friends. Don't make her perfect—what would be average about that? She may be slightly overweight, may nag occasionally, may get the blues, may want to pack the children off to grandma for a week. But look around and find us a modern, well-rounded woman who would seem to you to make a nice Mrs. America from Snyder. Her picture probably with her family, and full story will be published in a future edition of the Daily News. Please let us have your choice by Wednesday.

Remember the chain - letter fever? Well, brace yourself, as another appears to be brewing. At least there's a new twist on chain letters, as this one begins HERE comes your good luck LETTER, instruets you to drop one name, add yours, mail it out within 24 hours, and within four days you will "come into an astounding piece of luck via the mail."

"Do not enclose money" is a rule. Also, it would seem to be strictly a male enterprise, as the good luck letter WADE G. MORIARTY, Magnolia Production Co executive of Brownfield, mailed E. A. BROOKS here, bore only men's names. A postscript simply said "Sending you this because you're so poor at poker.".

PAT BEENE was one local recipient of Mr. Brook's four good luck letters which got out within the good luck period. According to the letter, (begun by some men who were officers in the last World War and feel pure luck is badly needed all over). "General Watson came into $13,000 the day he received the good luck letter; lost it because he broke the chain!"

Do you know how to cook rice? According to the Rice Consumer Service, Louisville, Ky., you most certainly do not, and consequently, each American consumes no more than 6 pounds per capita in a year. This, it points out, is not good, for, look at rice when stacked up against other grains as to nutritive value per unit. Rice, 86 per cent; corn 82 per cent; rye 83 per cent; wheat, 82 per cent; oats, 72 per cent. Look at the Americans who fell prisoners to Nipponese brutality in sub-human prison camps during World War II. They were worked unmercifully badly treated, and yet, with a diet of no more than three or sometimes as little as two small bowls of rice per day, they survived.

The worried rice survey complains of the housewife who washes the already clean rice to death and loses most value and taste down the drain. Here is how, briefly, to make tasty, nutritious rice and why not make it oftener?

Three fluffy cupsfull: Put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt in a 2-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and steam for 14 minutes more or until all the water is absorbed leaving the separate rice grains with their full nutritional value. (If you prefer more tender rice grains add 1-8 cup more water and increase the slow cooking time 4 or 5 minutes.) Remove the lid, permit the rice to stand a moment. There you have a tasty healthful basis for hundreds of variations.

Farmers Urged To Plan Ahead

Farmers in Scurry County have recently been urged by the Production & Marketing Administration here to make plans now for continuance of conservation farming in order to maintain the productivity of the land for next year, Guy Glenn, chairman of the county PMA committee, said.

PRODUCTION GUIDES

The emphasizing of this need is being done by production guides calling for substantial increases in appropriate local crops. "Since no one knows how long the present emergency will last, nor how much production will be needed, provisions have to be made for building up reserves as well as supplies to meet current needs," Glenn said.

"This means that in producing what is needed this year, the farmer should also continue good farm management and conservation practices needed to assure the productivity of the land for the future," he said.

NATION'S STRENGTH

The nation's strength depends largely on the kind of farms and farmers the nation has, Glenn stated. "It should be remembered that good pastures may do as much to give the nation the needed production of livestock as land planted in feed grain," Glen added. "Of course, where the pasture is not fully productive, it may be better to plow up the land and put it into a feed grain.

"But farmers should also keep in mind that grasses and legumes are soil - building crops. Likewise lime and phosphate and potash when used on rotation pasture, forage, and cover crops, not only increase the growth of the these crops, but they also build up a reserve for the crops that will follow."

They turned north and at the corner of Charlie Dodson's fence the ground collopse took place One wheel was smashed, the single tree and breast yoke demolished and the harness scattered to the winds. The horses reached home safely and are ready for another race.

Rich Would Pay Less and Poor More If Public Fixed Rates

(This is the last of a series of Gallup Poll reports on the public's ideas about Fedral income taxes.)

BY GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J., Mar. 10 — If the public itself were to set Federal income tax rates, would it soak the rich and exempt the poor?

Actually, it would do just the opposite.

It would make families in the lowest income brackets pay MORE tax than they now pay. And it would take LESS money away from men of wealth.

These surprising facts are revealed in an analysis of personal interviews that have been conducted during the past two weeks with a balanced cross section of the American voting population throughout the nation.

The typical family of four with an income of $3,000 a year would pay $100 a year in Federal income taxes, if the public set the rates. Such a family now pays about $56 for 1950 income.

On the other hand a family of four with earnings of $50,000 a year would pay a tax of $16,000 if the public were setting the rates whereas this family now pays much more — about $16,000 for 1950 income.

These results are significant for two reasons.

First, they go to show that the general public is much less imbued with a "soak the rich" tax philosophy than either Congress or the Treasury Department.

Second, they have a vital bearing on the issue of how the tax revenue can be substantially boosted to pay for the gigantic defense and rearmament program.

Many tax experts say that heavier taxes on the well-to-do cannot possibly bring in any amount large enough to meet the situation, and that the only hope of very much larger tax revenues is to collect higher taxes from the large number of families in the low income brackets, particularly under $5,000. The lion's share of the national income goes to the millions of families in the low brackets.

* * *

How Much Tax on $3,000?

A picture of the public's idea on taxation was obtained by interviewing voters from coast to coast on the question:

"Let's take a typical family of four—a husband, wife and two children. How much do you think this family, with a total income of $3,000 a year —this is $60 a week— should pay in personal income taxes next year?"

The same question was asked concerning incomes of $5,000, $10,000 and $50,000.

The median average of what the public would charge in the way of taxes is shown below, together with estimates of the rates actually paid in 1950. These estimates were calculated with a minimum of deductions.

Income	What Public Thinks tax should be	Approximate 1950 Tax
$3,000	$100	$56
5,000	300	365
10,000	1,000	1,217
50,000	10,000	16,616

The tendency of the public to set taxes for the upper income brackets at lower rates than those actually existing has been found over the past nine years.

As early as 1942 it was found that the public would levy only about half as much tax on the $50,000-a-year income as that actually levied by the government.

In a 1947 survey the public set a rate of only about one-third the amount actually paid by the $50,000-a-year family.

Highlights of Tax Survey

The Gallup Poll's series of three reports dealing with public opinion on Federal income taxes has brought out the following points.

1—Although a majority of taxpayers call the tax on 1950 incomes too high, the proportion making this complaint is somewhat lower than in a similar survey the previous year.

2—Despite grumblings about high taxation, most Americans would prefer to have money for defense raised by higher income taxes than by more government borrowing.

3—If the public set the rates on income taxes, families in the lowest economic levels would be required to pay more, and well-to-do families less, than the rates now actually in force.

AFL Charters Union Here Of Carpenters

Higher wages for carpenters and jointers are among the aims of the newly chartered Carpenters Local Union, No. 2,472, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Union leaders here, in anouncing that the organization's charter was granted Feb. 21, indicated that they would strive for better working conditions, higher wages, shorter hours, and more persons engaged in the craft here.

NOW 65 MEMBERS

Officers of the union, who declined to give their names for publication, said that the organization was formed with 10 charter members, and in two weeks had grown to have 65 charter members now.

They said that charter members would be accepted by the organization until Thursday of this week.

The local union leaders said that predominant wages for non union carpenters here now range from $1.25 per hour to $1.75 per hour and wages for union carpenters are $2 per hour.

They said one of their first official actions would be to attempt to get union carpenter wages raised to about $2.12½ an hour.

They also said that the average work week for carpenters here now ranged from 50 to 70 hours per week and that they would attempt to reduce it to a uniform 40 hours.

"We are in favor of helping other crafts and unions to organize the laborers in the trades of plumbing, painting, electric work, tile work, pipe fitting, and others," the union leaders said.

FEES SET

The initiation fee of $50 for joining the union is payable over a 30 day period, they said. The monthly dues of $3 for beneficial members, $1.75 for honorary members, and $2.25 for apprentice members.

Initiation fees for honorary members are $10 and for apprentices they said.

The carpenters local has an office at 2808 Twenty-fifth Street which is open from 7:30 to 9 o'clock in the mornings and o'clock to 5:30 in the evenings, and from 8 to 12 o'clock on Saturdays.

Heavy Fines In County Court

A total of $3,349 in fines and costs has been assessed in county court this week against seven persons, three of whom paid fines and costs totaling $1,235 yesterday afternoon after pleading guilty to 10 charges of liquor law violations.

Four men were convicted by jury of selling whisky and were assessed fine of $528.50 each, and three were also assessed jail sentences of 30 days each.

Leon Camp, 47-year-old proprietor of McGil's Cafe, about three miles west of town, pleaded guilty yesterday to four charges of illegal sale of whisky and paid fines totaling $494, including court costs. His wife pleaded guilty to two similar charges and paid fines and costs of $247.

Lemuel H. Hudson, 47, who at the time of his arrest resided in a trailer house at 2404 Avenue R, pleaded guilty to four charges of selling whisky in a prohibited area and paid fines and costs totaling $494. Those who pleaded guilty and three of those who were tried by jury, were represented by Fred Chandler, attorney from Colorado City.

Hudson is also awaiting the outcome of a similar case appealed last October. The appeal was dismissed by the criminal appeals court in Austin this week. Chandler said the dismissal was probably because of an error in the filing of the appeal, which he said he would refile. It was appealed on grounds that the search warrant used at the time of his arrest was signed by only one affiant instead of two as required by law.

If the appeal is properly filed and sent back to the Austin court an opinion either affirming or reversing the trial will be rendered, Chandler said.

Knights Travel Handsomely In House Constructed On Truck

STRAWBERRY POINT, IA., March 10 (AP) — When spring switches your thoughts to the open road and maybe a house on wheels so you can ride on and on, you'll be right where the Harold Knight family started.

That was three years and some 27,000 miles ago.

Harold, his wife and four children were kept pretty busy most of the time farming their big holdings near here. So busy that vacations had been few and brief in the elder Knights' married life.

They decided to fix that. Knight bought a new truck chassis and on it built the "house." In it were three bunk beds, a toilet, a radio and plenty of space for the family. The children are Dean, now 18, a high school senior; Ruth, 16, a sophomore; Nolan, 12; and Rita, 11.

Thirty-six states, all east of the Mississippi, were visited by the family on their 1948 vacation tour. It ran to 12,000 mile and set Knight back about $1,000. They spent their nights in trailer camps along the road, in cities, or just about anywhere they chose. Lodging was never a problem. They did their own cooking. A one-burner oil stove was part of the traveling house equipment.

The next year, they went West. Through the Black Hills, Yellowstone National Park, and on to Salt Lake City and Seattle. They knocked off all the remaining states but six on this 7,000 mile jaunt.

Last December they went off on a "shortie"—just two months travel—but they got in 7,666 miles and included stops in Canada, Mexico and Washington, D. C.

Now they're through for a while. The whole family is travel-sated. They've seen all 48 states and everything in them they desired to. Ruth wants the travel "house" kept for a playhouse on the farm.

All through the long mileage, Mrs. Knight kept a diary and an expense account.

From the diary come highlights of their more - than - around - the - world-in miles travels, such as:

No accident marred any of their trips.

Only on two or three Sundays did the family have to miss church or Sunday school attendance.

About the heaviest traffic encountered was in Philadelphia. They hit it during the Democratic National Convention in 1948.

Most stops by representatives of the law came on their last trip this winter. They were questioned 14 times often for checks against transmission of plant and fruit diseases across state lines.

The family like Connecticut. They call Vermont a very clean state.

About the biggest bargain was acquired in Mexico. It was a handmade leather saddle for the younger son, Nolan. It cost $53 and he believes it could not be duplicated in this country for $100.

Worst moment came in New York City when Knight, driving behind a street car, followed it into a tunnel. He had to back up for over a block to get out.

On the second trip, several of the family had the measles but they kept rolling anyway. On the last, Ruth, the elder girl, had the mumps but recovered when they reached Central Oklahoma.

But they all want to stay home for a while now, including 18-year-old Dean. His next travel he figures, will probably be at the expense of Uncle Sam.

Man Injured In Fall From Ladder Near Here

Albert Ferman Martin, about 30, was injured yesterday afternoon when he fell approximately 15 feet from a ladder at the Snyder Gasoline Plant, being constructed west of town.

Martin, a welder for the Fluor Corporation, the construction company building the plant, was taken to the Snyder Hospital in a Dennis Funeral Home ambulance.

Extent of his injuries was not fully determined last night, but he was reported resting although still in a semi-conscious condition.

Officials at the plant said it was quitting time and that Martin, coming down the ladder, apparently slipped from a rung and lost his hold. The accident occurred about 4:30 o'clock.

Country Banker, 99, Uses His Feet Rather Than His Seat

By LEO MARKS
(Associated Press Staff)

PRYOR, Okla., March 10.—Banker W. A. Graham, nearing 100, is a hard man on his shoes.

At 99 and in excellent health Graham walks to and from his office daily and often takes an eight or 10-mile stroll in the country.

"A man on his feet is worth two on their seats" is one of his favorite expressions. "Besides," he adds, "I always think better on my feet."

From a cold cash point of view Graham undoubtedly is Oklahoma's most successful and wealthiest country banker.

Inside his First National Bank vault is more than $1 million in municipal bonds from 66 of the state's 77 counties. His personal fortune is estimated at several million dollars.

A brash employee once asked Graham how he amassed it.

"Young man," he replied, "do you know how fast money multiplies at six per cent?"

By way of illustration the financier took from his desk a $15,000 municipal bond purchased 20 years before at a $500 discount.

GOT $33,000

"I got my $15,000 back plus $8,000 interest," he explained.

But Graham's penchant for business hasn't warped his moral proportions.

A year ago he proposed that this eastern Oklahoma resort city of 4,400 people acquire its own electric system from a private utility and contributed $100,000 in cash toward the purchase.

"I had some money I didn't have any use for," he told Mayor Earl Ward.

Later Graham elaborated. "I've made my money here. The people have been my customers. I want to give them back some of it.

Pryor voters approved $180,000 in bonds to match the donation. Graham promptly bought the bond issue, then gave it back to the city gratis so it could bypass several nuisance suits seeking to block the project.

Philanthropy is no sometime thing with Graham, however. His heart, masked by a dry wit and an austere facade, is as big as his credit rating.

He hates to foreclose a mortgage and seldom has been forced to. Townfolk swear by him but no one calls him Bill. A few cronies address him as "W. A." most say "Mr. Graham," even in reference. The initials stand for William Alexander.

His beneficence is legion but, thanks to Graham, not too well publicized. An imposing gift to the city is the community office building constructed in 1938.

CASH WHEN NEEDED

Often, when Pryor needs cash for civic improvements, Graham puts up the money and collects only part of it after bonds are voted. His most recent endowment was $12,500 for liquidation of a paving debt.

He helped finance the Whitaker Orphans Home foundine here then, some years later, paid off obligations when it was turned over to the state.

No churchgoer, the banker has made countless donations to churches; consistently supports the public library; and frequently pays assessments against homes of widows unable to meet mortgage payments.

Yet Graham is no soft touch. He doesn't lend money to those he feels may not be able to repay.

His first job in Georgia, his home state, was as a country school teacher. Then he went to work for a flour mill at $25 a week and in nine years owned a third interest. Graham sold out for $15,000 and came to Indian Territory in 1884. He went into a general store partnership here with a Cherokee Indian and, after statehood, became a banker. Graham likes to say "we just manage to get along without knowing anything about banking."

Graham lives in a modest frame bungalow on Main Street near the business district. Mrs. Graham died in 1948.

The aged capitalist hears with difficulty, reads with the aid of a magnifying glass and likes to loll in the bathtub.

But as far as Graham is concerned, he 100th birthday May 22 is a foregone conclusion. He's really looking forward to his 120th and knows just how to do it: "Eat less, drink more water and work harder."

Texas History Written in Brands

LFD

BY JOHN M. HENDRIX

The LFD brand was one of the many cattle activities in which Major George W. Littlefield of Austin and his associates were engaged. As was characteristic of Littlefield, he took as his partners his nephews, J. W. White, J. Phelps White, J. D. White, and Tom D. White, to form and manage the LFD ranch in Texas and New Mexico.

The LFD brand was begun in 1878 in PPecos River country north of Roswell, New Mexico. It was run later in Lamb and Hockley Counties in West Texas as the Yellow House ranch. Before 1900 the LFD was run on 50,000 cattle in New Mexico and on 12,000 head on the Yellow House ranch.

Littlefield, by working with his relatives, saw all of his ventures prosper and became one of the wealthier cattlemen of the state. In later years his relatives prospered by their connections with Littlefield. Major Littlefield became prominent and successful in the banking business in Austin, Texas, where he made his home. The doors of the Littlefield bank in that city are of bronze and scenes from his earlier LFS days are depicted upon them.

He is said to have provided education for twenty-nine nieces and nephews and to have given each of them a start in business life. These nephews and nieces were the beneficiaries of his will in a substantial way; he also left the University of Texas holdings to the value of twom million dollars. The University has erected a memorial fountain of gigantic proportions to his memory at the principal entrance to the University grounds. In addition to these things the town of Littlefield, a prosperous West Texas community, was named for him. Littlefield died October 10, 1920, at his home in Austin.

Harold Brown, Jr., 2408 Avenue I, is now back at his business after several days of illness at his home.

Claim New Bill Will Wreck State Mental Health Program

By J. P. PORTER

AUSTIN, March 10 — Texas mental hospital reform, now in its second year, will receive the closest and most challenging scrutiny to date when the Senate State Affairs Committee holds a public hearing tomorrow on a bill to abolish the State Board for Mental Hospitals and Special Schools.

State civic and medical leaders, with members of the Texas Society for Mental Health in the forefront, will be on hand to defend the Board's record and urge its continuance.

On the other side will be those who favor a return to the pre-reform system of administration under a three-member Board of Control, which, as before, would have myriad other duties ranging from purchasing all supplies for state agencies to supervising Capitol grounds.

CAME AS SURPRISE

Sen. Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo, who introduced the bill last Monday, has maintained it would "foster efficiency and economy." The sponsors have said little else about their measure, however, and its introduction came as a surprise to most persons in and allied with the improvement program.

Dr. Warren T. Brown of Houston, associate dean of the Baylor College of Medicine and newly-elected state president of the Mental Health Society, took strong issue with Senator Hardeman.

"The old arrangement under a many-sided and often politically-dominated Board of Control was the most wasteful, antiquated and inefficient administration conceivable," Dr. Brown declared.

BILL CONDEMNED

Other society officers, at the organization's annual convention in Galveston Thursday and Friday, condemned the bill even more strongly.

"Such a change in administration at this time, when our expansion and medical improvement program is just getting well under way, could wreck future activity and undermine the progress already accomplished," Dr. Hamilton Ford, Galveston psychiatrist and immediate past president of the Society, said in a statement issued Friday.

James S. Mahon, Dallas attorney and chairman of th groups Public Service Committee, charged that the Board of Control system would be subject to direct political pressure from high state officials, including the Governor.

"This was true under the last Board of Control, and it would be true if the hospitals were returned to any similar administration," Mahon said. "Political influence has no place in a hospital or a school."

POLITICAL GROUP?

Mahon explained that the very nature of the Board of Control system, rather than any thought of personalities involved, brought up the issue of political domination.

A three-member group is likely to be run by the chairman, he asserted, while a nine-member body — like the present board — has more diversity of opinion and is less likely to be swayed by pressure, whether from without or within.

Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, director of the Hogg Foundation for Mental Hygiene here, expressed a fear that the morale of hospital employes would be seriously affected. He pointed out that the present board has just appointed a new medical director, Dr. George W. Jackson, former director of mental hospital sevices in Arkansas.

"Dr. Jackson has had excellent success in putting through a reform program in Arkansas," Dr. Sutherland said. "It would seem extremely unfair to handicap him at the outset of his career in Texas with the uncertainty of who is going to be his boss. No administrator, medical or otherwise, can work in an atmosphere of confusion and indecision."

'NOT ENOUGH TIME'

Dr. Sutherland noted also that the executive director of the hospitals and schools. Larry Cox, has held his position for a relatively short time.

"Let's give these men a chance," Dr. Sutherland urged, "and that goes for all personnel in the system, from superintendents to ward attendants. They must have some assurance of job stability if they are to do their best."

Board members declined to comment on the bill, but several have indicated they may attend the hearing. One member, who asked that his name not be used, said he considered the bill a "test case" which might clarify current feeling both in the Legislature and over the state concerning the hospital improvement program. The Senate's action on the bill will be, in effect, a vote of confidence or no confidence in the program of the past two years, the member said.

There has been no indication of the general feeling in the Legislature nof of Governor Shivers' position. Rumors were rampant at the Galveston convention that the Governor had spoken individually to a number of senators in recent weeks, asking them to support the reorganization. Some delegates to the meeting even charged that the chief executive had inspired the plan. Others, however, called attention to the strong support the Governor has given the board in the past months and expressed the opinion that he would reaffirm this support during the present legislative attack.

BARRAGE OF CALLS

For the past three days senators and the governor have received a barrage of telegrams and telephone calls in support of the present regime from members of the state Mental Health Society, its affiliates over the state, the Texas Tuberculosis Association, The Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce, and other organizations.

During the same period, the statewide machine which initiated and led the first hospital reform legislation two years ago has been gearing up for what Dr. Brown called "the most crucial test yet administered to find out whether our state hospitals and schools can go forward or must be stopped at the entrance to the road of progress."

Gas, Oil, and Sulphur Water Shown in Test Of Ector County Well

Some shows of gas, some free oil and a slight indication of sulphur water were developed at Vina Bagley estate of Midland No. 1 E. W. Cowden, Southeast Ector County wildcat in a drillstem test in the Basal Simpson sand at dolomite at 13,860-14,000 feet.

The tool was open three hours and 20 minutes. There was a slight blow of air at the start of the test. It gradually decreased to almost no blow by the end of the test.

A 2,700 - foot water blanket was used. Recovery was 2,510 feet of free gas in the drill pipe, ten feet of clean 46.9 gravity oil, 360 feet of heavily oil cut water blanket, 2,340 feet of slightly oil cut and heavily gas cut water blanket and 1,710 feet of slightly oil cut and heavily gas cut drilling mud.

The bottom 900 feet of the mud had a salty taste. That mud tested for a chloride content of 70,000 parts per million. There was no free salt water in the fluid which was recovered.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 1,830 pounds and 2,160 pounds. Shut-in bottom hole pressure was 3,640 pounds after 20 minutes.

Operator is drilling ahead below 14,016 feet. The project is to drill to 14,050 feet and then circulate up samples from the bottom to try to determine of the Ellenburger has been reached.

Some sources reported that signs of Ellenburger material was encountered at 14,016 feet. Top of the Ellenburger had not been officially reported. Elevation is 2,937 feet.

Location is at the center of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 48, block 42, T-3-S, T&P survey. It is five miles northwest of the Sweetie Peck multipay field of Southwest Midland County.

Elm Oil Co. and Lloyd Davidson, both of Dallas, have plugged and abandoned their No. 1 B. B. Steffey, Central Coke County wildcat on a total depth of 4,200 feet in barren Cisco shale.

This wildcat did not find any signs of possible production.

Location was 330 feet from north and east lines of the southeast quarter of section 415, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

That made it three miles northwest of the nearest producers in the McCutchen - Cisco sand field.

Witherspoon and Fox No. 1 L. A. Faubion, four miles southeast of Crews and in the L. P. Wallace survey No. 139, drilled to 4,008 feet and found no commercial production. It was plugged. Cree Drilling Co. and La Gloria Corp., No. 1 Lynn Stokes, six miles north of Ballinger and in section 150, L. S. Evans survey, made hole to 4,000 feet and failed to make any sort of an oil well. It has been abandoned.

Union Sulphur & Oil Corp. No. 1 Albert Sykes, three miles north of Crews and in the S. P. Round survey No 3,938 feet, explored to 3,964 feet and is listed as a dry hole. It also has been plugged.

Flowing Production In Permian in Central-North Andrews County

Magnolia Petroleum Co. has discovered flowing oil in Central-North Andrews County, 12 miles north of the town of Andres, at its N. 1 Tom Peay, wildcat project which was started out to go to 14,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

The flow came in a drillstem test in a lower Permian lime at 8,170-8,200 feet. The tool was open two hours and 27 minutes.

Gas surfaced in four minutes. Oil started flowing at the top in 27 minutes. It was flowed to pits for ten minutes to clean and was then flowed to tanks for one hour and 15 minutes.

The well flowed 28.87 barrels of oil in that one hour and 15 minutes through a five-eighth inch bottom hole choke.

During the last 60 minutes of the flowing to tanks the wildcat produced 17.8 barrels of pipe line oil with a shakeout of four-tenths of one per cent basic sediment.

There was no water. Gas-oil ratio was 426-1. Gravity of the oil was 30.2 degrees. Surface flowing pressure was 40 pounds.

Operator was pulling the tester at last report. The project will then circulated while it is determined whether or not to drill or core deeper ar run casing and try to complete the prospect as a new field opener.

Exact age of the lime making the oil has not been determined.

Location is 1,736 feet from east and 579 feet from south lines of section 6, league 314, Gaines County School Land survey.

It is three - quarters of a mile northwest of Florey and about three miles northwest of the Means field which produces from the San Andres lime around 5,000 feet.

Important People From Abroad Becoming Every-day Citizens

By SIGRID ARNE
(Associated Press Staff)

WASHINGTON, March 10.—In Chicago house wives are opening their doors to a brush salesman who a few years ago was a top financial expert for the Czechoslovakian government.

In New York one former member of the Hungarian parliament is making buttons and another is earning $35 a week in a textile factory.

Guests of a fashionable Washington Hotel are being taken up and down in elevators by a former member of the Czech cabinet.

In many American universities students are being told first hand by middle European diplomats and political leaders what it is like to have the dread hand of the Communist secret police pound on the door after dark.

So many men and women who might have been jailed or killed by Communists in Middle Europe have now come to the United States that there is no way of counting them, but they run into the hundreds.

ASK CITIZENSHIP

About half are applying for citizenship. Most of those who are keeping their old citizenship hope their nations will finally escape the Communist shadow and they can go home again.

Many of the latter hope to play parts in new democratic governments. Those who belong to the international Peasant Union are actively planning a Middle European federation of nations from Poland to Albania.

They'd like to break up the tremendous old estates into small, single-family farms. This is part of the Communist program too, but Communism is poison to the peasant leaders.

These exiles are living pretty poorly for the most part. Many had nothing but the government salaries they gave up. Some have taken what jobs they could find. Some are being helped by the National Committee for a Free Europe which is supported by rich Americans.

Dr. George Dimitrov, leader of the Bulgarian Peasant Party, gave the first small reception in Washington to introduce the famous exiles to the Washington press. He says he and his wife had to live on noodle soup and bread for almost six months to pay for that party.

MANY ARE CZECHS

There are perhaps more exiles from Czechoslovakia than any other country. The Czechs have a border with Germany, and it is fairly easy for them to slip into the British and American zones. Juraj Slavik, former Czech ambassador to Washington, estimates 12,000 Czechs fled the first nine months after the Communists grabbed their government.

Middle Europeans have been renouncing their home lands since 1946, when the Communist grab started.

Some quit immediately, on principle, like Jan Ciechanowski, former Polish ambassador to Washington. He has written a book since then and now lives quietly in a small Washington home.

Some, particularly those in embassies in other countries, having no other source of income, hung onto their jobs hoping that the Communists would lose out. Many of these finally quit when they got sudden orders to return home. The last was Zygmunt Litynski, second in rank at the Polish embassy here.

Litynski has asked to stay in the United States. The State Department is investigating his record before granting the request. Two lower-ranking employees quit with Litynski, a clerk and a maid to the wife of the ambassador, Mrs. Winiewicz, who gives the only regular parties here for Communist diplomats.

NO DISCUSSION

Obviously, some of the people who quit Communist embassies have valuable information for the U. S. government. Officials acknowledge this is true but refuse to discuss it further.

Young Dimitri Karaghiosov, Bulgarian consul at Ankara, Turkey, disappeared and eventually landed at Baltimore. He was met by U. S. military officers who escorted him to Washington. No reason was given for the welcoming party.

The Hungarian Communists who grabbed their government were met by an almost wholesale desertion of diplomats abroad in 1948 when several democratic leaders at home were jailed or killed.

Almost the entire Hungarian embassy staffs in London, Paris and Washington quit, and 28 members of the Hungarian parliament fled the country in March, 1948.

The Czech Communists were left in an amusing hole in April 1949. Hugh Skala, chief of a financial mission en route to Washington, quit a few hours after he docked in New York.

Skala had received a cablegram saying his wife and son had escaped Czechoslovakia. The financial mission had to wait around until the government rushed over a substitute.

NO DELEGATE

In January 1950 the Poles were suddenly left without their ranking delegate to the United Nations. Dr. Alexander Rudsinski, who had worked at the UN for four years, said he had fought to keep the Polish delegation free of Moscow's orders but that the fight was "hopeless." He asked to stay in the United States.

The International Peasant Union, with offices in Washington, ties together most of the Democratic and Agrarian Party leaders in exile.

These men are convinced they have enough political followers at home that they could set up new governments if their nations are ever liberated. Others suggest exiles might not wield so much power as anti-Communists who remained at home and worked underground.

Not many diplomats are working with the Peasant Union. The two groups appear to disagree along typical conservative-liberal lines.

Housewives Did What Fixers Can't: Control Meat Prices

By EVETTS HALEY

THOSE AGGRESSIVE AUthoritarians eternally attempting to fasten controls upon the economy of America keep cooking up something to tempt the taste of the consumer. But no matter how they dress and season it up, it always turns out to be a dish of "the same old Baloney." Price controls are not excluded.

Yet during the last week or so the only genuine and honest controllers of prices took over in one market. Within a few days they did what Washington has never been able to do. Withuot organization, without expense to the tax payers, without restricting anybody's freedom, and even without a public campaign and slogans of any kind, they quietly knocked the props from under the market on beef. The housewives of this country imposed an effective ceiling of their own upon the prices of meat which, like the lively cow in the nursery fable, were threatening to jump over the moon. More than that; they effectively rolled them back.

This was as it should be. And this was another heartening demonstration of the fact that a free economy works to the benefit of all. In view of the long and futile effort of the government to "do something about it", it was a good example of the fact that it is the only thing that will really work.

Except for those cynical or deluded souls who deny the laws of nature, these is a perfectly logical explanation for it. It is simply the old law of supply and demand. When costs exceed the ability of folks to buy, they just quit buying. This holds even for food. When favored items get too high, substitutes of some kind within reach of the family purse are sought and found. Thus of late it has been with beef. In places during the last two weeks the bidding on beef steers dropped $20 to 30 a head. No bureaucrat had anything to do with it. The vigilant women who keep our kitchens were responsible.

FOR WEEKS WASHINGTON had been in a stew of confusion over what to do about meat, still laboring under the fallacious assumption that it could really do something. Meanwhile Nature was at work. Climbing prices were pushing feeders and cowmen to greater efforts in production. Abundant supplies of feed were gradually being converted into steaks. Movement of good beef to the butchers was actively under way.

But meanwhile, too, heavier taxes and government-induced inflation was beginning to cramp buyers. In spite of the floods of paper money pouring out of Washington and into the pockets of the people, the squeeze upon the consumer was drastic retrenchment of individual budgets which, unlike those at Washington, must be balanced. The housewives cut their expenditures for meat.

WASHINGTON HAD ALREADY taken political action. In spite of repeated warnings from sources of production, the crystal gazers had gone into a trance and had come up with that old and thoroughly discredited political panacea of price controls. These had been applied to meats. Still the supplies rolled into the coolers from the feed-lots and the country, and still the keepers of the family budget went their uncontrolled way. Red flags of warning that somebody was off-side kept popping up all over the corner field. By the end of February it took no biased government referee to tell the producer that he was the man, and that the rollback penalty was on.

A big New York grocery chain slashed its steaks 10 per cent, while a south side Chicago butcher cut his porterhouse almost a third. Heavy markdowns in the price of meat spread across the country.

Then the slack demand that had forced the break rolled back on the wholesale butchers. One in Boston saw his weekly sales dip by sixty per cent, while another in the industrial meat-eating center of Pittsburg saw his cut by one-third.

THUS MEAT BEGAN PILING up in the killers' coolers, and orders went out to the packer buyers to cut their prices and curtail their buying. In a week's time the price of cattle on the hoof took a nose-dive of, in some cases, from two to ten dollars a hundred pounds. This reacted immediately upon the speculators, and was reflected in a softened market for stocker cattle. Calves and feeder steers took a ten per cent drop.

All this was due not to government, but to the uninhibited operation of a free market. One would think that Washington, struggling on the surface with the problems of inflation would draw a deep sigh of relief and bury its abortive plans for controls, and bury them for good. But this is not the way the devious minds of the planners work. Instead, they stepped up their heavy-handed interference with the wise and established rules of the game.

THEY GRAVELY ANNOUNCED that "it won't be many days" until ceilings are ordered on livestock, though they admitted, at same time, that the job of fixing prices on live animals while being shifted all over creation is "tremendously complicated." More than that; they should have added that it is impossible. Yet the fixers always rush in where wisdom would never tread.

Thus, just as prices on meat and cattle were being honestly and effectively rolled back by the consumer, we have what is ironically called the Office of Price Stabilization announcing that it isthrowing "all available enforcement manpower" into a nation-wide investigation of meat prices. Just as butchers from Long Island to Los Angeles are cutting them from 10 to 25 per cent to move the meat on hand, this false front for the authoritarians instigates a nation-wide snooping among the meat

DURING THE SAME WEEK this same office was granting wide spread concessions to organized labor which are bound to be reflected in increased prices for processed goods. And also about the same time, after another government agency had helped cut the production of cotton to one of the lowest points on record, it announced an increase of ten dollars a ton in soy bean meal — that is in protein feed—which likewise means higher prices for meat. Thus this costly Washington merry-go round spins and spends its way while dispatching "all available enforcement manpower" to pry further into our private affairs, common sense and ordinary justice to the contrary notwithstanding.

But logic never deters the doctrinaire authoritarian — the inveterate believer in complete control. It is power instead of justice that he always wants. Thus we are being served with another round of regimentation. Sometimes the controllers figure out a fresh recipe, but no matter how they slice it it turns up as the same old baloney.

ALLEY BOY

What's wrong with this boy? Why does he loiter in the alley, sneering at the world around him?

Good for nothing . . . juvenile delinquent . . . future criminal . . . those are some of the answers we hear.

But is there really anything wrong with this boy that religious training wouldn't have cured?

Long ago, if given the chance, the Church could have begun to mold his character along noble lines. A Christian home, Christian teachers and Christian pals could have kept him away from the alley—on a high road.

One of the priceless opportunities America offers her children is the advantage of religious training. A child cannot accept this opportunity himself. It is up to his parents to recognize its essential value, and to cooperate with and support the Church in its life-building work.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

It would be wonderful if every town could afford to operate a "Quack Shack" for their young people similar to the one at Baytown, Tex. A little clubhouse of their own gives teen-agers an opportunity to plan something definite instead of sitting home twiddling their thumbs. It is marvelous too for newcomers to the neighborhood.

Just in case you can persuade a group of young people to try to promote a similar activity, here is some news about how the Shack ticks.

It is a two-story frame structure 30 by 70 feet, a former Army barracks, turned over to the youngsters by local owners. Use of the facilities is limited to boys and girls from 13 to 20 who live in the Baytown area.

Dues are $1.50 a year, which entitled the young moderns to admission to all programs at an average of 11½ cents a night. At present there are 400 members, of whom from 225 to 250 make up the day race attendance. Smoking and drinking are banned.

The first floor has entertainment features consisting of ping-pong tables, pool tables, checkers, dominoes, canasta, bridge, a combination radio-phonograph and storage space for supplies.

The second floor has ballroom facilities, a nickelodeon, piano, soft drink bar, refreshment booths, and chairs. Broadcasting facilities also are available for a Saturday night program called "Quack Shack Hit Parade."

It took 1200 Junior Chamber of Commerce man-hours of work in renovating the place and a cash investment that the group has been working to realize since 1944.

News from Hollywood is that high school kids no longer drive jalopies, dress sloppily or describe their boy - friends as "dreamy." New lingo goes like this:

A jalopy or heap is now a "rod" or "bomb". "Terrific", "great" and "swell" have replaced "dreamy." Instead of saying "let's do so and so", the kid's say "best we do" this or that. "Let's shove" instead of "shake a leg" "A wheel" of "a big wheel," and "schmo" instead of "jerk" are other changes in movieland vocabulary.

Use Common Sense to Take Off That Ugly Fat

Overweight can be a menace to health, but common sense should be the watchword to get rid of the extra poundage. A rigid diet over a protracted period of time, can also do harm. It is advisable that you seek your physician's advice before trying to take off weight via the diet route.

Possibly one bulgy person in 100 has some glandular disturbance and that is truly a case for the physician. But for the other 99 per cent, judgment should be used in deciding the "plan" decided on to reduce.

Overeating is one of the main contributing causes of excess fat. You may say you do not overeat—that you only eat enough to satisfy your hunger. But your intake of food may be greater than necessary for the energy you spend. Thus, the excess food turns into fat. You can eat all you want—enough to satisfy your hunger—enough to maintain bodily requirements and still eat LESS. Sounds like double talk, but it isn't.

A recent survey among Texas druggists has shown that there is one outstanding reducing aid on the market that definitely curbs the appetite. At the same time it dehydrates and eliminates. This product contains no harmful drugs. On the other hand it does contain ingredients to make you feel better — more alive, active and peppy. Nearly four million bottles of this preparation have been sold in Texas in the past eight years.

This reducer aid is called Barcentrate. You can get a four ounce bottle of Barcentrate from your druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle and add 12 ounces of canned grapefruit juice. Then just take 2 tablespoonsful twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Oil Flows From Strawn In Test of Western Midland County Wildcat

.. Another flowing discovery has been indicated in Midland County.

The Texas Co. is preparing to drill ahead after a drillstem test of the Strawn lime developed flowing oil in its No. 1 - B Clarence Scharbauer and others, wildcat in the west-central part of the county.

Operator has not picked a top on that formation.

A five-hour and 20 - minute drillstem test was taken from 10,285 to 10,325 feet. Gas was at the surface in three minutes. Oil and mud flowed in 38 minutes. It flowed to pits for one hour and 42 minutes and then to tanks for three hours. During that period the possible discovery flowed 29.5 barrels of 48.2-gravity oil through a 5-16th-inc choke. It flowed 20½ barrels of oil during the last two hours flowed.

Gas-il ratio was 2,300-1. Open flowing pressure ranged from 330 to 1,570 pounds. Shut-in pressure after 20 minutes was 5,017 pounds.

Operator reversed out the recovery, which was 290 feet of oil and mud.

No water was made on the test.

The No. 1-B Scharbauer had previously indicated that it might produce from the Wolfcamp when a drillstem test from 9,600 to 9,790 feet was taken. Reovery was 1,089 feet of heavily oil and gas - cut mud and 540 feet of free oil.

Location is 1,980 feet from east and 1,987 feet from south lines of section 35, block 40, T-2-S, T&P survey and nine miles southwest of Midland.

That puts it three and one-quarter miles northeast of Magnolia Petroleum Co. No. 2 Parks, Pennsylvanian discovery and producer from that formation. The No. 1-B Scharbauer is also two and one-half miles southwest of Ralph Lowe No. 1 J. E. Hill, discovery and producer from the Dean sand.

Offset to Discovery Is Staked in Upton

An east offset has been staked to Ted Weiner and others of Fort Worth No. 1 Walter Braden, discovery from the Spraberry sand of the Permian in Northeast Upton County.

Rowan Oil Co. and Roger B Owings of Fort Worth spotted their No. 1 F. A. Braden 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 16, block 37, T-5-S, T&P survey That puts it 28 miles northeast of Rankin.

Projected depth is 8,500 feet with rotary tools. Drilling will begin at once.

Failure in Upton

Pearson - Sibert Oil Co. has plugged and abandoned No. 1 J. H. Shirk, wildcat in Southwest Upton County.

Operator drilled to a total depth of 2,902 feet without finding any shows of oil and plugged the failure at that depth.

Location was 990 feet from south and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 13, block 3, MK&T survey

Classic O'Daniel Term Applied To Oil-Rich Tidelands 'Grab'

(EDITORS NOTE This is the sixth of a series of nine articles. The Daily News has made arrangements with The Dallas Morning News to publish this timely series with that paper. Succeeding installments will follow daily.)

BY ALLEN DUCKWORTH

(Copyright 1951, Dallas Morning News)

There are those who insist in Pappy O'Daniel of Texas was able to contribute little during his term in the United States Senate.

That is not true. He coined a classic term:

"Legal looting."

The term was applied to the methods used to put across the "Big Grab"—the political conspiracy to saw off valuable seaward boundaries of the states of Texas, Louisiana and California.

This fight is nearing a climax. Texas is pleading for Congress to override a warped, politically-tainted edict of the United States Supreme Court.

Texas has a selfish interest. Those submerged lands off its coasts are leased to oil prospectors. The schoolkids of Texas have a stake. Oil lease revenue goes to the public school fund.

There's more than a selfish interest.

If that strange philosophy spawned in the waters of bureaucracy is allowed to stand, the extension of federal seizures could wipe out any horizon dividing the title to property. State control of waters, fish, piers, riverbeds, lakes and all other submerged lands could be transferred to the federal government.

Under the Constitution, the Congress is the maker of laws. The Supreme Court interprets them—or is supposed to.

Now the Supreme Court, in the tidelands case, has started making laws. It has started breaking solemn agreements. And the President of the United States has aided and abetted.

Three times did Congress refuse to grant the Justice Department authority to proceed against the states to seize their oil-bearing tidelands. That was back in the thirties.

* * *

Texas was in there fighting from the start, although the original attack was against California because California took a lead in tapping undersea oil deposits.

After all, fifty-three past Supreme Court decisions had favored state control of offshore lands.

And, in the special case of Texas, the United States had agreed that Texas could keep all vacant lands "lying within its limits" when it joined the Union.

Explains "Grab" Plot

There must be a reason for the "Big Grab" plot. Jimmy Allred, while Governor of Texas, had an explanotion. Said Allred:

"When lands become valuable somebody wants to get them."

Allred was a good new dealer but he couldn't digest the plot cooked up the "Big Grab" chiefs headed by "Honest Harold" Ickes, the Secretary of the Interior.

Failing to get Congressional action, the "Big Grab" crowd ignored Congress and turned to the courts, anyway.

But it is interesting to recall that while Franklin D. Roosevelt was alive, nothing was done about suing the states.

* * *

Roosevelt has been criticized severely for favoring super powers for the federal government. But he was a piker along that line when compared with President Truman.

Six weeks after President Roosevelt died, the "Big Grab" really got going good.

The argument had been that oil drillers with California leases were trespassers.

Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle filed a suit against the Pacific Western Oil Company for trespass on 144 acres of productive tidelands off the coast of Santa Barbara County, California.

Court System Simple

Now, as every citizen knows when a suit is filed in federal district court, each side has a chance to present evidence. The case can be appealed to a circuit court. And if desired, it can be taken all the way to the Supreme Court of the United States.

While every citizen understands that simple judicial system, every citizen also knows there are cases in which certain parties do not want to hear evidence. Too, every citizen knows that the law isn't perfect and that a smart lawyer who looks close enough and long enough is likely to find a loophole—in his favor.

The states, alarmed by the lawsuit in California, pressed for Congress to clarify ownership of the tidelands; to say flatly that the federal government had no claim.

* * *

Law and precedent were on the side of the states, but you can cloud any title, no matter how good, with a lawsuit, no matter how weak.

Congressional sentiment leaned toward the states.

This didn't set well in the "Big Grab" circles. It became evident to them that they must put new gears in their strategy.

While Congress deliberated on the quit-claim legislation, a new Attorney General came to the Cabinet — Tom C. Clark of Dallas Texas.

Went to Court

Obviously, the congressional resolution would blow the district court trespass suit right into the bay.

There must be some way to go right to the Supreme Court, with no dilly-dallying with evidence and testimony.

The "Big Grab" found a path to the Supreme Court itself under Article III, Sec. 2, of the Constitution, which reads:

"In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and counsuls, and those in which a State shall be a party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction."

* * *

That was a wonderful idea, as you shall see.

The Attorney General dismissed the district court trespass suit against the oil company.

A suit as an "original" action was filed in Supreme Court against California itself! Such procedure is rare.

* * *

Harold Ickes has taken full credit for the switch of the case from district court in California to the Supreme Court in Washington. Writing in his newspaper column, "Man to Man," back in July, 1947 Ickes said:

"I decided that the surest and quickest route was a beeline to the Supreme Court itself."

After Roosevelt died, relates Ickes, Attorney General Biddle with the blessing of President Harry S. Truman filed the district court suit. That wasn't good enough for "Honest Harold."

"I had always urged the filing of an original suit in the Supreme Court," the Ickes story goes.

"Persuaded" Truman

After Tom Clark replaced Biddle as Attorney General:

"I persuaded President Truman to instruct his Attorney General, Mr. Tom Clark, to dismiss the suit in the district court and file an original proceeding in the Supreme Court.

"Thus we were able to get a much quicker final decision than if the case had dragged its [illegible] way from the district court to the circuit court of appeals and then to the [illegible].

"Mark you well that this Supreme Court [illegible] while Congress had before it the quit-claim resolution in favor of the states."

* * *

[illegible] big a hurry as the "Big Grab" crowd.

Congress didn't do its job overnight. It held exhaustive hearings. It heard both sides, including Harold Ickes.

Congress passed the quit-claim resolution in 1946.

President Truman slapped a veto on the resolution.

The President's reason for a veto: The case was before the Supreme Court [illegible] of the [illegible] be interfered with while it is arriving at its decision."

* * *

When the "Big Grab" boys made the beeline to the Supreme Court while Congress was deliberating it was all right.

[illegible] Shocking

When the Congress acted while the Supreme Court was deliberating, it [illegible].

Or was it that there was a path or certain feeling that the Supreme Court would deliver the goods as per schedule?

Mr. Justice Black wrote an opinion June 23, 1947, saying that the Federal Government had first say on California's undersea oil lands.

Mr. Justice Felix Frankfurter, in [illegible] shocked. As liberal as is Frankfurter [illegible] background [illegible] he pointed out that the Supreme Court was taking over a function of the Congress.

The "Big Grab" crowd had won its first round. It then cast hungry eyes at the schoolkids' land in Texas.

Highway Department Building On East Highway Nears Finish

Completion of the new Texas Highway Department maintenance building on the Sweetwater highway is expected within about 30 days, A. J. Randell, section maintenance foreman, said last week.

When completed, the building [illegible] be large enough to house all the equipment, materials and supplies used in this area and to provide office space for the department, he said.

The building, 50 feet by 120 feet, is of sheet metal and is being built by the Braden Steel Co. of Oklahoma City. Estimated to cost about $15,000, it is located on four acres of ground between the Santa Fe tracks and the highway, opposite the Pal-O-Mar Cortel.

Maintaining state and national highways in this section, Scurry and Borden Counties, is the job of the 18 to 20 men who will be steadily employed by the highway department.

The highway department previously had a maintenance and equipment building here, but it burned several years ago, Randell said.

The State Highway Department has similar buildings in each of its maintenance sections, Randell said. One identical to the one here is now being built in Colorado City, and another at Baird.

The department maintains about 160 miles of road in the [illegible] sections, and may soon have a large addition with completion and state acceptance of the Scurry County farm to market roads.

HELP NOT STEADY

Employment is a problem of the state highway department here, he said, because it is difficult to find men that are willing to work for the salaries offered by the state highway department.

"Right now we are about six men short handed," he said.

When completed, the area in front of the new building will be paved for parking, he said. Landscaping of the building is also planned.

Other state highway departments will not be housed in the building, Randell said. The state highway's engineering department and the state highway patrol office, both now located in the courthouse, will remain there so far as is now known, he said.
