Jury Finds Superintendent Guilty

Former Three Way Resident Convicted

Following less than three hours of deliberation, a jury Friday afternoon, found James Jackson, former school superintendent at Three Way, guilty of theft. He had been charged with 'theft over $200 and less than $10,000' involving school funds while superintendent of the Three Way School. Jackson's Three Way School job was terminated July 1, 1977 and he moved to Presidio as school superintendent.

Following further deliberations of almost two hours, the same jury that found Jackson guilty of theft, assessed his punishment at five years in the Texas Department of Corrections and a $2,000 fine. The jury further recommended that his five year sentence be probated, but the $2,000 fine be paid as a part of his probation requirement.

Judge Boone told the defendant he would pronounce formal sentence on March 28 after Gilkerson asked for the 10 days allowed by law. Judge Boone continued Jackson's $2,000 cash bond, and told Jackson he would be required to appear in court before him on March 28.

After jury foreman Tom Lobaugh pronounced the verdict of the jury before District Judge Pat Boone, the jury was polled, and each juror stated, in turn, 'guilty'.

Members of the jury hearing the three day trial included Lobaugh, foreman; Darrell Embry, Barbara Blackman, Mike Bland, Juanita Jarman, Patricia Black, Marshall Head, Royce Harris, Kearney Scoggin, Delbert M. Barry, Artie L. Pierce and Curby J. Brantley.

On the first day of testimony, longtime Three Way School Board President T.D. Davis was the first witness for the state. As a part of his testimony, he said he did not call Presidio to attempt to stop employment of Jackson as superintendent of the Presidio schools.

Davis was also questioned about the federal migrant program at the school, and noted nothing in school board minutes about money owed to Margarita Rodriguez.

One of the charges against Jackson had been that he had written a check for $285.87 to Margarita Rodriguez, school employee, and had then cashed the check in a bank at Morton.

It was brought out in testimony that Mrs. Rodriguez testified that she had never received the money.

Three Way School Board member Jack Hodnett was questioned about the financial condition of the school; and Jean Demel of the tax office for the school was questioned about trips made for the school, and pay returned to school employees for making trips in their personal vehicles.

Another check entered into evidence was a check

Black Named New Coliseum Manager

Tommy Black, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture for the past six and a half years, has resigned to become manager of the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum.

His new position was effective Thursday, March 15. He also resigned as constable of Precinct Two, as it was explained that an elected official cannot hold another paying position with the county.

Black commented, "I would personally like to thank all the Chamber membership for the last six years. I plan to support the Chamber of Commerce the same as I have in the past, and hope to continue to work together as we have the last six year.

"I feel there is so much potential with the Exhibition Center, and think I can help bring more conventions to Muleshoe. After a lot of thought, I decided that was what I wanted to do, and there I wanted to be."

The new manager of the Coliseum said he planned to continue to assist the CofC during the transition period they are without a manager, and said that although the Chamber of Commerce will be moving from the Coliseum, it will not be an immediate move.

Black said minor changes will be planned at the Coliseum, mostly in the

PCA Manager Discusses Farming With Rotarians

"The farm picture is not rosy, but it is not all that bleak, either," commented Richard Kimbrough manager of the local Production Credit Association in a discussion at the Muleshoe Rotary Club Tuesday.

Kimbrough told Rotarians that 15 years ago it took the average operator $40,000 to produce a crop and that figure is up to $120,000 today. He also said grain has gone up during the same time 30 to 50 percent.

"Even so" added Kimbrough, "A good manager can stay in business and make money. We had $12,000,00 at the Muleshoe office in outstanding loans last year. Out of that figure, 90 percent of our customers made money and increased their equity."

The PCA manager did stress that most of the people who borrow money from Production Credit Association are the more established farmers who already own equity in their land, plus own equipment. He said the young farmers who are forced to make land payments, rental payments for land and equipment payments face a different problem.

He cited farm prices for production a major problem for farmers, and added that a farmer really has to be able to manage his business in order to come out ahead.

Kimbrough added that with conservative management, and better management, the farmer can come out ahead and have more return for his investment.

Marketing of the crop is just as important as knowing when to plant, what to plant, when to fertilize and when to harvest. Kimbrough stated that the farmer must also keep up with market prices and know just when to market his crop each year, seeking out the best available prices and methods.

He considers the risk factor for farming as being "greater than that of most every other type business. Bad weather could cost a farmer a loss that it would take 10 years to recover from."

"For instance," said Kimbrough, "a hail storm lasting only a few minutes could cost the farmer his entire crop. His only recourse to recuperate the loss is through the price he receives for future crops."

However, Kimbrough cited also the versatility of this part of the country for producing crops. He said this area is one of the brighter spots in this part of the country, because so many crops can be grown. He also thinks vegetables are the coming thing for this area, but, warned that vegetables are also a very high risk crop.

make it unlawful to possess furbearer pelts and/or carcases in closed season.

Senator Price Introduces Legislation

Senator Bob Price, R - Pampa, has introduced legislation in the Texas Senate that would prohibit an insurer from increasing the amount of a premium charged an insured for motor vehicle insurance delivered, issued for delivery, or renewed in the State of Texas on the grounds that the insured has been convicted of a speeding offense if the offense occurs on a road or highway where the maximum speed is 55 miles per hour.

Price's bill, SB - 845, would only affect speeding offenses on roads or highways with a posted 55 MPH speed limit.

This bill would also prohibit insurance companies from raising premiums upon renewal for conviction of speeding offenses.

Farm Bureau Intervenes In Wheat Talk

Farm Bureau intervention in the Geneva trade talks insured that U.S. wheat producers would not be "sacrificed" for the sake of ending the long negotiations, Carrol Chaloupka, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, reported to the TFB Board of Directors at its meeting February 26 - March 1.

Chaloupka said American Farm Bureau Federation President Allan Grant sent a telegram to Ambassador Robert Strauss, the U.S. special trade representative, urging U.S. negotiators to "hold fast in support of a farm level equivalent of not less than $5.00 per bushel as the second rising price indicator point" in the proposed Wheat Trade Convention.

"We cannot accept any lower level for an indicator that is to be used to trigger the release of reserve stock," Grant told Strauss.

"The developing nations had pressed for a trigger price for release of reserves so far below the $5.00 per bushel price proposed by U.S. negotiators that it was useless to continue the negotiations," Chaloupka said.

The Geneva negotiations on wheat terminated in mid - February without reaching an agreement.

Bergland announced shortly after the wheat talks broke down that the U.S. will consider subsidizing wheat exports to compete with subsidized exports from other countries.

Chaloupka said it is expected that there will be an attempt at the March meeting of the International Wheal Council simply to extend the 1971 agreement which expires in June. If this extension effort is successful, it will be submitted as a treaty to the U.S. Congress, and not as part of the Geneva trade package which is expected to go to Congress in early April.

The Farm Bureau opposes international commodity agreements which attempt to control supply and restrict world prices in a narrow range. The 1971 agreement is basically an exchange of information.

At a Senate Agriculture Committee meeting Feb. 27, a special trade representative said that important major concessions will be gained on most agricultural products and minor gains will be realized for U.S. grain exports.

Ninety - eight nations participated in the overall talks. The talks are completed with the developed nations and continuing between the U.S. and developing nations.

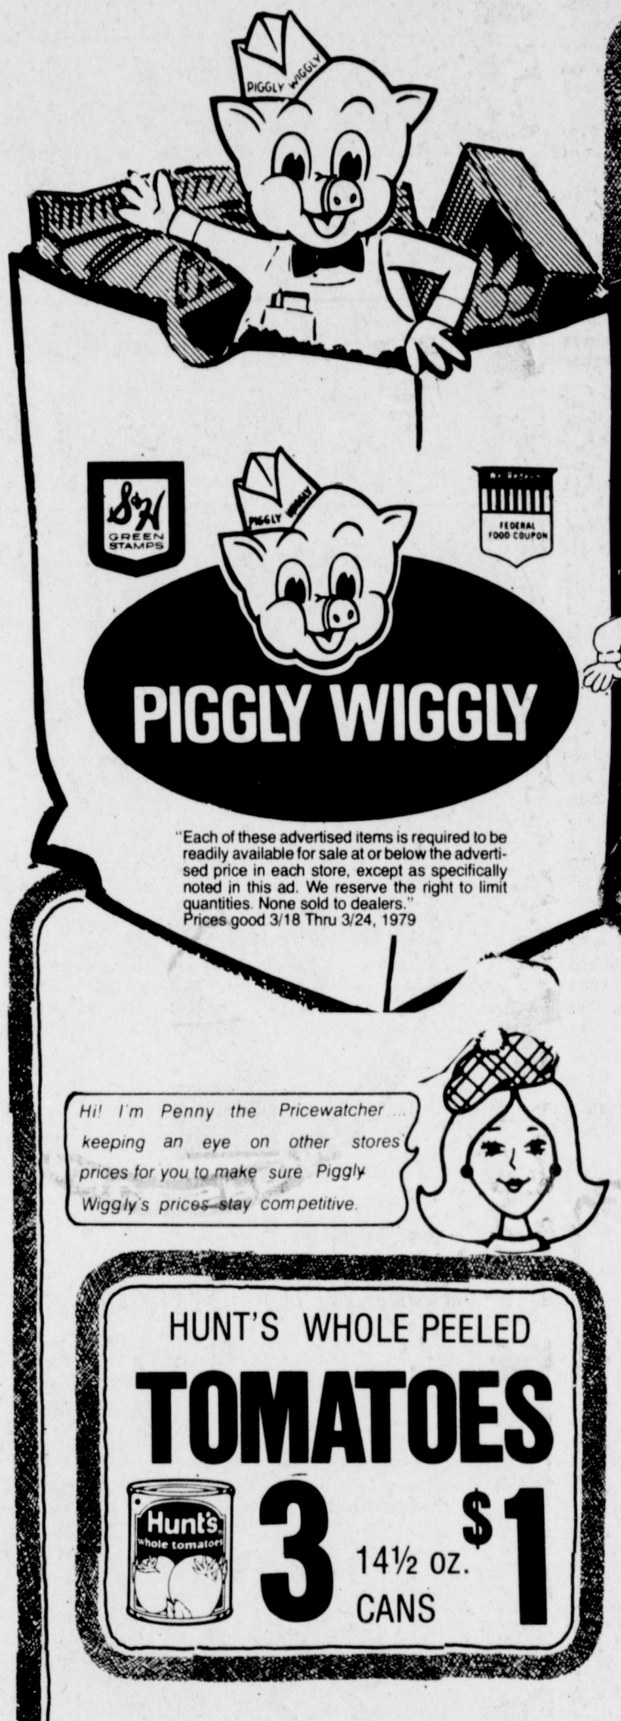

Glen Tussy, AFBF trade expert who formerly served in the Foreign Agriculture Service in the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, said Grant's telegram to Ambassador Strauss "was effective in insuring against an unfavorable grain agreement."

"It's probably a good thing it turned out this way because an unacceptable grain agreement would probably have jeopardized the entire trade package," Tussy said.

Prevent poisoning accidents -- practice safety rules at home.

Start NOW, and remember "Children Act Fast -- So Do Poisons," the theme of this year's National Poison Prevention Week (March 18-24).

Keep all household products and medicines out of children's reach.

Keep them always in sight when using them -- even take them along to answer the telephone or doorbell.

Lock them up when not in use, if possible.

Store internal medicines separately from other household products.

Keep items in their original containers -- never in cups or soft-drink bottles.

Properly label all products, and read the label before using.

Always use a light when giving or taking medicines.

Avoid taking medicines in front of children -- children tend to imitate adults.

Refer to medicines as "Medicines" -- not "candy."

Clean the medicine cabinet periodically. Throw away unneeded medicines when the illness for which they were prescribed is over.

Use safety packaging properly -- close the container securely after use.

These steps help prevent accidental poisoning and will go a long way toward cutting down the 100,000 accidental poisonings of children under five years of age each year.

in the amount of $60.62 made payable to Vance Hall Clothiers and drawn on the athletic fund of the Three Way School. District Attorney Jack Young explained that the check was made to pay a bill sent to Jackson on May 13, 1976 and again on June 28, 1976, and paid on September 9, 1976. Out of hearing of the jury, who was sent outside as the check was discussed, District Attorney Young said a deposit slip nearly a year later showed reimbursement to the school fund for the $60.62.

Among persons called for the defense were Garland Freeman, who testified he was a teacher in the Migrant Program at the Presidio Schools.

Freeman testified that money for the migrant program was used to pay dental, and medical bills, to purchase glasses and clothing, but no cash was presented to students.

Also called as a defense witness was Muleshoe School Superintendent Neal B. Dillman. He testified about board policies for paying school bills and stated, "The School Board sets the policy and guidelines." He also testified as to different aspects of the migrant program and how funds were used.

Superintendent Dillman said he has known James Jackson four or five years and made three to four trips to the school while Jackson was superintendent, mostly on trips concerning transfer of students.

The local superintendent stressed, on cross-examination that in no instance would he make application for a school worker on a travel voucher, but would assist them fill out the voucher, if necessary. He also said it was not a school policy to make application for reimbursement for funds for a school worker.

Winding up testimony Thursday evening before court was dismissed for the night at 7 p.m. were Pat Risinger, teacher and coach for the Three Way School and Jack Furgeson, former school board member.

Both testified that Jackson's reputation in the Three Way community was 'bad'.

When questioned by Jackson's attorney why he volunteered to testify in the case, Risinger replied, "Because I believe in honesty."

Testimony continued until nearly noon Friday and the jury began deliberations in the case around 1 p.m. They returned the verdict of guilty shortly before two p.m., then were charged with the punishment phase after Jackson's family asked for probation for the former Three Way School superintendent.

It was pointed out by the four elected officials seeking the raise that the salary one budgeted deputy not currently needed or being used by the county tax assessor could pay the difference in the salary to equalize them. However, the commissioners denied them a raise.

According to the figures shown in the commissioner's minutes, the salary granted Black at $1,000 per month and $100 per month travel allowance, is exceeded only by the sheriff's salary and the county judge, who is paid $14,379.84 per year.

cut 35 to 40 percent during the past two years because of the low price and the doubtful continued supply of the heavy water needed for the crop, mostly due to rising fuel costs. Kimbrough said it takes 8,000 pounds of corn per acre to even approach the 'break even' point. He said at this time, it costs $230 per acre to grow corn, not counting land payments. Cutting the $118 land payment from the $356 per acre on an 8,000 yield leaves the farmer with a net gain of $3 per acre.

He concluded, "A farmer has to be an agronomist, as well as market specialist, machanic and good public relations man today in order to produce his crop. But he can come out ahead and make money, if he is a conservative manager and knows how to market his crop. PCA's biggest responsibility is to provide our members with the capital they need, when they need it. We want to provide sound, dependable credit to sound, and dependable people."

Disking Weedy Areas Improves Bird Hunts

Running a disk over weedy areas on pastures and ranges will help establish a weed crop this spring and summer that will provide an abundant food supply for game birds.

"A little effort in developing food plots will make bird hunting more predictable next fall," says Charles Ramsey, wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "It will also increase the chances of winter survival for quail and other game birds."

Disking and allowing plowed land to lie fallow is a cheap method to increase the quail food supply. It reduces grass competition and gives weeds a comparative growth advantage. One desirable attribute of weed seed is their resistance to deterioration. Many weed seeds will lie dormant in the soil for years until a soil disturbance causes them to germinate. Disking simply takes advantage of a quail food crop which is already planted.

"Disking to a four - inch depth is all that is required," explains Ramsey. "Any pattern can be used that is within flight distance of a good cover. One of the simplest patterns is to work long strips at least 20 feet wide along the edge of the cover. About one - half mile of strips within a covey's range is adequate. Since plowed strips usually produce for at least two years, plow new strips the second year. When grass begins to suppress food plants, begin to rework old strips."

Disking can be done anytime between the first frost in the fall and the following May although the best time is January through March. One - half to one acre of disked strips per covey is sufficient, depending upon amount of seed produced, notes the specialist.

"The usual critical food period for game birds is from mid - winter into early spring, after the fall seed supply is depleted and before green vegetation and insects are available with warmer weather," notes Ramsey.

Bobwhite eat many kinds of seeds ranging in size from that of a pinhead such as carelessweed to those of the size of an acorn. More than 100 kinds of plants in Texas produce food for quail, most of them being weeds. Since no type of plant can meet all of the quail's needs, providing a variety of plants is the key to producing a dependable food supply throughout the year, contends the wildlife specialist.

"The most dependable food development results come from encouraging those food plants already present rather than introducing new ones," says Ramsey. "Strips or patches of good quality native weeds should be preserved when mowing or spraying pastures. If grass cover is heavy, limited disking is appropriate to decrease grass competition with food plants."

A first step in food development is to determine which food plants are present. Although quail eat seeds from many species of plants, only a few furnish the bulk of the diet at a given location. These important species should be identified and developed.

Weeds that are an important food source for Texas quail include ragweed, doveweed, or goatweed, carelessweed or pigweed, bundleflower, sensitive briar, wildbean, snoutbean, sunflower, partridge pea, snow - on - the - mountain, paspalum grass, dayflower broomweed, sumpweed or marshekler, bluestem pricklepoppy, Stevens sandlily, Western Indigo, tick trefoil, panic grass, lespedeza, crotonopsis, nutrush, queensland - delight, knotweed and Mexicanclover.

Woody plants that are food sources include oak, American beauty - berry, pine, sweetgum, sweetbay, woolybucket bumelia, suman, huckberry, grape, ash, black - gum,, blackhawk, flowering dogwood, inkberry, redhaw, waxmyrtle, sassafras, mesquite, prickly pear, tasajillo and granjeno.

Senator Price Releases Expenses

Senator Bob Price, rep. - Pampa, released figures today showing the cost of running his Austin and two district offices for the first year of his term.

"In order to maintain open and available offices, I think it is in the best interest of my constituents to know how we spend their money," said Senator Price.

Figures from the Office of the Secretary of the Senate show that for January, 1978 through December, 1978, payroll totals were $42,310.92, supplies and materials $2,303.45, communications $4,424.06, operating expenses $10,367.09, travel $2,523.10, services and fees $200, and postage $1,909.17. Total cost, $64,037.79.

"These figures are a matter of public record. However, I feel they should be made readily available to the taxpayer without having to request them from the Secretary of the Senate. This is your money and you have the right know," said the Pampa Senator.

According to Sen. Price, the total figure reflects the actual cost of running the Austin office and district offices for the calendar year including the thirty - day special session called during the summer.

"Furthermore, to insure the integrity of my office, I will personally deposit with the Secretary of the State approximately $300 to cover any personal telephone calls inadvertently made or accepted by myself or any members of my staff," said Senator Price.

"As always, my office will be responsive and as efficient as possible in serving the 31st Senatorial District," concluded Sen. Price.

Childhood PLEASURES

"Even a child is known by his doings, whether his work be pure, and whether it be right."

A mother only has to glance at her child to know if his play is pure, or if it is leading to mischief. Our Father in heaven can as easily look on our hearts and judge our ways. "A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things."

Seek the Lord in his house, so that your heart will be right with God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Texas Water Board Makes Rule Changes

The Texas Water Development Board Tuesday approved several rule changes concerning definitions applying to the Texas Department of Water Resources' jurisdiction of reclamation projects including levees, drainage works and landfills.

The action of the six - member citizen board removes from Department jurisdiction by definition specific structures and activities, including authorized dams, certain drainage works, projects which affect runoff from an area of less than five square miles, levees and landfills within the 100 year flood fringe encompassing less than two acres, and others, said A.L. Black of Friona, board chairman.

The board is the policy making body for the Texas Department of Water Resources and as such adopts substantive rules and procedures governing operation of the department.

State Representative John Sharp of Placedo, representing Victoria and Calhoun counties, was highly complimentary of the board's action. Rep. Sharp said: "This board and the Department are to be complimented for amending their rules to enable local governmental entities and citizens to handle and oversee problems of strictly a local nature where the waters of the state are not jeopardized or compromised." Sharp said Executive Director Harvey Davis and other staff members have been very helpful and cooperative on this matter.

The rule changes also set up a procedure whereby Department staff will determine jurisdiction within 30 days of receipt of a completed application, and if jurisdiction is not found, provide the applicant with the option of having the Texas Water Commission dismiss the application.

Also removed from jurisdiction are bridges, culverts and roads not designed or built with the primary purpose of affecting the floodwaters of a stream; drainage works which do not directly connect to a stream; fences, and cutting, clearing or removing vegetation.

In other action, the board approved a Texas Water Development Fund loan for the city of Bullard in Cherokee and Smith Counties in the amount of $125,000 for construction of a ground water storage tan, transmission line and a new water well.

The board also declared feasible a U.S. Corps of Engineers recommended project on Lake Wichita - Holliday Creek for flood control. The board's order finding the project feasible will be forwarded to the Governor for transmittal to the Corps in accordance with state statute.

The department's executive director was authorized by the board to enter into a $30,000 receivable contract with Camp, Dresser and McKee, Inc., prime contractor of the six state federal High Plains Ogallala Aquifer Study. The board further authorized the executive director to use these funds to secure assistance from university staff in preparing the Phase 1 state - level studies.

Approved also were water quality Section 208 planning reports for the Killeen - Temple area, and documents on segment boundaries in the 208 program for three Gulf Coast bays and estuaries, also prepared under the Section 208 program of PL 92-500.

Next meeting of the board is set for March 20.

City Manager Visits Kiwanis As Speaker

City Manager Dave Marr was special guest speaker for the Muleshoe Kiwanis Club Friday morning and explained the structure of the city government. He stated that Muleshoe was incorporated in 1926 and in 1960, the city received the Home Rule Charter.

Marr added that the first Saturday in April is set aside for a city election for councilmen and a mayor.

Also included on this year's ballot for the April 7 election will be a charter amendment. This amendment asks for citizen approval to change the fiscal year for the city from April 1 to October 1 to conform to state and federal regulations.

The city manager also said city elections are noted for their poor voter turnout and urged all persons to exercise their right to cast their vote for the candidate of their choice.

Don Martin was installed as a new member for the Kiwanis, and immediately received the Friendship Coin from President Terry Bouchelle.

Guests at the meeting included Rex Easterwood, Lt. Governor of District 33, Pat Ferguson, Darwin Wilbanks and Ruben Gutierrez, all of Hereford and Mike Stephens, Donald Williams, Cliff Burtz, Don Dolli and Cliff Herring, all of Canyon. Another guest was John Gulley of Muleshoe.
